CHAPTER XXXIII.

"I beg your pardon," murmured Lisle to Rath. "I hope you will enjoy your visit."

"Help him to do so. Come and dine with us, Lisle!" exclaimed Edward.

Lisle shook his head.

"I'm sorry. But I'm leaving London, and have only time to catch my train."

Edward walked with him to the door.

"How—how are they all at home?" he asked in his casual way with which a man masks his eagerness and anxiety.

"Lady Cecilia—and—and my people, and—Lady Mary? All well, I hope, Lisle?"

Lisle nodded and looked down at the pavement. Should he tell Bryan that the girl he loved was engaged to marry another man—Lord Ratton? He had only a moment in which to decide in the negative. There was no time to break the news—his cab was waiting—and to deliver it like a knockout blow was impossible.

"They are all well," he replied. "You are going down—"

"At once—to-morrow," said Edward, his eyes sparkling. "I'm simply counting the hours."

Lisle looked at him rather wistfully and sadly, and Edward felt constrained to notice his altered appearance.

"But I say, Lisle—excuse me—but you don't look in your old form. Have you been seedy?"

"No," said Lisle. "That is—yes. No, no! I have been well enough; but I've had something to worry me—I can't tell you—there isn't time. I shall see you down at home in a day or two. Good-bye!"

He hurried into his cab, and was driven off, and Edward went back to Rath and took his arm again.

"The luck is still running strong—for me, at any rate, Rath. I've just heard from that old friend of mine that they are all well at home. Now, if there had been anything amiss with Mary he would have told me. So much for dreams! I never did take much stock in them, and I shall take less for the future!"

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Edward was too restless to spend the evening in the smoking-room of the hotel, and, seeing that Rath was brooding over Stella, he took him off to the Empire. It would be interesting to discover what Rath thought of that beautiful place and the entertainment provided by the liberal manager; that he must have been astounded is certain, but his face ex-

Antiseptics In Australian Blue Gum Proves a Cure For Bronchial Catarrh.

BAD COLD IN THE HEAD, THROAT WEAKNESS AND CATARRH CURED QUICKLY.

Medicated Air A Marvel!

Catarrh is far superior to any internal medicine.

Its relief is almost instantaneous—just takes long enough to breathe its healing vapor into the lungs to give wonderful soothing relief.

Catarrh goes right to the tiniest cells in the lungs, carrying healing, soothing balsams to the places that are tainted with Catarrhal inflammation. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes—a sore throat is healed and restored in an hour or two—chronic bronchitis is soothed away and quickly disappears—catarrh of long standing is invariably cured because Catarrh kills the germs that cause the trouble.

As a cure for Asthma and a preventative of Gripe every doctor is delighted with Catarrh. One eminent throat specialist says if Catarrh is used two or three times each day you will never suffer from any disease of the head, throat, nose or lungs. This is good news to many of our readers who must require a safe, sure and permanent cure for their colds and winter ills. Every good druggist sells Catarrh, large outfit $1.00; small size 50c.; trial size, 25c.

Rath's surprise, the rough—a villainous-looking fellow—sprang up, uttered an oath, and struck out at him half fearfully. Then, as he saw that the disturber of his peace was not that natural foe, a policeman, he swore again by way of apology.

"Here's some money—I suppose you want it—don't lie there," said Rath, throwing him half a crown. The man caught the coin dexterously, and stared after Rath as he walked on again. As Rath did so, he saw a gentleman step out from the shadow of one of the deep embrasures and come towards him, and evidently lost in thought, and as he drew nearer, Rath was astonished to see that he was the Lord Lisle to whom Edward had introduced him that afternoon.

Lord Lisle seemed lost in thought, and Rath was too shy to stop and speak to him; so the two men passed each other. Rath walked on, and paused in the shadow from which Lisle had just emerged, and, naturally, looked after him. At the moment of his turning, he saw Lord Lisle pass the steps on which Rath had interviewed the sleeping rough, and saw the man come crouching up the steps, look round eagerly, and then, as Lord Lisle turned and paced back, sink down out of sight.

Rath, unsuspectingly, wondered what the man was after; but he was not left in doubt long; for, just as Lisle passed him, where he stood in the shadow, the footpad sprang after Lisle noiselessly, got close behind him, and raised what looked like a short stick—it was really an iron "jemmy"—in the very act of striking Lisle on the back of the head.

Rath made one spring; the man, overwhelmed by Rath's vast bulk, swerved aside, and the iron jemmy fell slantwise on Lisle's shoulder. Lisle turned in amazement, an amazement which paralyzed him, as he saw Rath deal the man a cuff on the head, then force him backwards to the stone wall of the Embankment, hoist him, as if he were a bag of flour, and drop him over into the river. Then, before Lisle could recover from his astonishment, Rath, setting his hat straight, came up to him, and said, quite calmly and gravely:

"I hope you are not hurt?"

Lisle could only gasp for a moment or two; then he stammered:

"No, I'm not hurt. He struck me on the shoulder."

"It is well that it wasn't your head," said Rath, picking up the jemmy. "It's iron."

"And would most likely have killed me!" rejoined Lisle, with the modern awkwardness and embarrassment which kept him from saying: "You have probably saved my life," though he thought it. Then he remembered the man. "The fellow will drown!"

"Yes; if he can't swim," assented Rath, so coolly that Lisle stared at him. "Why shouldn't he?" asked Rath, answering the stare. "He meant to kill you."

"To rob me, certainly," said Lisle, as he ran down the steps.

Rath followed him more leisurely—for from his uncivilized point of view, it did not seem to matter whether the wretch sank or swam—and they saw the rough drag himself along, by the chain suspended to the wall, to the next flight of steps, up which he rushed and disappeared.

Then Lisle turned to Rath.

"I'm—I'm very much obliged to you, Mr.," he hesitated. "I'm sorry to say I didn't catch your name this afternoon," he said, frankly, but with the shyness which falls upon us nowadays when we are strongly moved.

"My name's Rayne," said Rath. "There is no need to thank me. There was no trouble, no difficulty."

Lisle's amazement rose again at the grave coolness of the response.

"You must be as strong as Hercules!" he said, admiringly. "The fellow was no lightweight."

"Yes, I suppose I'm strong," said Rath, in a matter-of-fact way; "but he didn't struggle much."

Lisle smiled.

"I should not think not! He was half stunned by that blow of yours. He was after my watch and chain!" he added.

"Meant to steal it? With all these people about?" said Rath, with surprise.

Lisle laughed.

"Oh! it would have been done in a moment. He would have knocked me down, got my watch and chain and emptied my pockets, and left me here—to be 'run in' as a 'helplessly drunk.' It's quite a common thing for people to be assaulted and robbed on the Embankment; it's a large place, and the police can't be all over it."

"Then why do you come here?" asked Rath, in his direct way. "I thought you said you were leaving London?"

There was something in Rath's handsome face, in the frank, grave voice which won on Lisle—strangely yet forcibly. The young man walked side by side in silence for a moment, then, as if he could not help himself, as if he were constrained by the subtle influence which Rath unconsciously exerted, he said:

"I did intend doing so, but I changed my mind. The fact is, Mr. Rayne, that my movements, just at present, are governed by impulse. I am in great trouble."

He bit his lip and hesitated. Nowadays we don't open our hearts to acquaintances of a day's standing, notwithstanding that they may have saved our lives.

"I have had the misfortune to lose a—very dear—friend, and I am searching for her; scarcely searching for her; but—well, I go nowhere, do nothing, but with the hope of finding her—What is the matter?" he broke off to enquire, for Rath had stopped short, and was looking at him with an intent gaze.

Here was another man who was searching for one who was lost.

"Nothing," said Rath; for he was not the man to return confidence for confidence. "And can't you find her?"

"No," said Lisle, sadly. "And—and, indeed, I have no right to search for her—I mean—that—she has forbidden me to do so; but all the same, I cannot rest until I know that she is safe and sound."

Rath drew a long breath. He was thinking of Stella.

"So, though I had decided this afternoon to return home," continued Lisle, "I—well, I have changed my mind. But I shall go to-morrow, for I am convinced, something seems to tell me, that she is not here, in London."

"I should think no one would be here who could help it," said Rath, "unless they wanted to be stifled. I came out for air. Is your shoulder hurt?"

Lisle shrugged it.

"No; nothing to speak of; but I can't help remembering that it might have been my head; and—and—believe me, I am very grateful, Mr. Rayne. You are travelling in company with my old and very dear friend, Bryan; I hope we shall meet again. I live near his people at Lisle Abbey. I need not say that I shall be more than glad to see you there, that I shall be bitterly disappointed if I do not."

He held out his hand, his face flushing with the emotion against which, in obedience to nineteenth-century etiquette, he was fighting.

"Thank you," said Rath, simply. "Good-night."

Lisle looked after the young giant, as he crossed over to the hotel, with admiration and gratitude, and a still lingering amazement. He had never met a man like him, so cool, so grave, so evidently inexperienced, and yet such splendid "form."

"I met your friend—Lord Lisle—on the walk beside the river last night," Rath said to Edward at breakfast the next morning; he did not add that he had saved him from a foot-pad, for Rath, uncivilized as he was, had an instinctive dislike of recounting his own deeds of daring and posing as a hero. "I went out to get some air."

Baseball Season Opens.

The opening game of the baseball series took place at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, the contest being the Cubs and Wanderers. The attendance was the largest seen since the introduction of the game into this country.

At 3:15 p.m. the teams paraded around the field to the strains of the C. L. B. Band after which Umpire Chessman called "Play Ball." Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman of the Civic Commission, then "threw over" the ball to catcher King, of the Wanderers, thus formally opening the third season of League Baseball.

THE GAME.
The Cubs went to bat first with Britt pitching and King catching for the Wanderers, and Simms and Clouston succeeded in crossing the plate. After four fruitless innings the Wanderers put up a batting spurt and secured 3 runs in the fifth inning. The Cubs were shut out for four innings but scored in the sixth and seventh, securing 4 runs and falling in the eighth. The Wanderers scored in their eighth and got 3 runs. With the score a tie excitement became intense. Peddiggrew crossed the plate on an overthrow before the Cubs were retired.

When the Wanderers went to bat again O'Flaherty died on first, Hocken went out on a long outfield fly cleverly caught by Ryall. Peters went to bat next and was also caught by Ryall. The game thus finished with victory for the Cubs.

During the evening the C. L. B. Band rendered an excellent programme including patriotic airs. The next game will be between the Shamrocks and Cubs, and will be an interesting event.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk, and was supported by her sister, whilst the groom was supported by Mr. Jas. Woodman. ### Reading Life Stories.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"The true value of souls is in proportion to what they can admire."—Pater.

RUTH CAMERON

"Read it?"
Drama and Romance in Every-day Life.

"Yes, see that it is a story, be thrilled by it and appreciate the drama and romance in it."

"Yes," she answered thoughtfully. "I suppose that is something to be thankful for, although I don't know that I ever realized it. I was always so impatient because I wanted to write the stories I saw, and couldn't. The desire to create is a primitive human instinct."

It is so strong within us that we often forget that receptivity and appreciation as well as creation are important functions of life.

It is a very wonderful gift to be able to tell some of the many stories that go on about us. It is no despicable gift to be able to see these stories. Not everyone has the seeing eye. Many people go through life never seeing the romance, the drama and the inspiration in the lives of those about them. It is something to be thankful for if you have this faculty, even if you have not the further creative faculty to "impart the gift of seeing to the rest."

People Who Can Appreciate Much Needed.

The world needs those who can understand and appreciate as well as those who can create.

To be able to understand and love good music is a gift as well as to be able to produce it.

In college we had a music course in which we were not taught to make music or anything about the theory of harmony, simply to appreciate good music when we heard it. The course was called "music appreciation."

A Good Audience Helps Make a Good Performance.

Singers speak of the help a good audience can be. That means that the passive force of appreciation and understanding in a receptive audience is a complement that, rounds, out the creative force in the artists to full perfection.

Carlyle, I believe it is, says that anyone who reads a poem well is himself a poet. He appreciates, and in so doing becomes a kind of co-creator. "Culture makes a man to be something, it does not teach him to create anything" is a dictum we could well remember when we resent our own inability to be among the creators. True culture is something worth having. The world needs men and women who are, as well as those who do.

Questions and Answers.

Should I speak of the man to whom I am engaged as fiance or fiancée.—Letter Friend.

Reply.—If you have a dictionary you needn't have wasted a stamp, but I am happy to supply the information. The word is from the French and retains the two gender forms. Fiance is masculine, fiancée feminine.

WALT MASON

The window sash came hurtling down on Kicksaw's shapely head and neck; it nearly spoiled his toll-worn crown, and made his ears a hopeless wreck. Then Kicksaw sat and nursed his head, a man reduced to grievous pass; yet, with a cheerful smile, he said, "I'm glad it didn't break the glass." He might have ripped around and swore, till people heard him round a block, or kicked a panel from the door, or thrown the tomato through the clock; he might have dealt in language weird, and made the housewife's blood run cold, he might have raved and torn his beard, and wept as Rachel wept of old. But Kicksaw's made of better stuff, no tears he sheds, no teeth he grinds; when dire misfortune makes a bluff, he looks for comfort, which he finds. And so he bears his throbbing ache, and puts a poultice on his brain, and says, "I'm glad it didn't break that rich imported window pane." It never helps a man to beef, when trouble comes and knocks him lame; there's solace back of every grief, if he will recognize the same.

Beautiful Women Spies

Important Part Played by the Fair Sex in Stealing the Secrets of Nations.

Long before the war it was known that Germany employed hundreds of feminine spies—beautiful society women, in many cases. These women have played important parts in the present campaign.

Here is a typical case: By accident a woman handed a sentry the very note that she was to have given to the Germans, in mistake for the permit that she had to show in order to cross the bridge between Varangville and St. Nicholas. She was charged before a court of war and later executed.

Another woman dropped a letter, which read: "Hurry up; the 20th Corps arrives this evening." She dropped it at the gates of Nancy, and was straightway arrested. During the battle of the Aisne a woman was one night discovered signalling from a window to the Germans by means of an electric torch.

Perhaps the most daring espionage exploit by a woman at the Front was that of a pretty Italian in the pay of Germany. Until her arrest in November, she travelled about in a motor car, and managed to give the enemy much valuable information about the French troops. She had somehow provided herself with faked passports bearing the forged signatures of Sir John French and General Joffre.

Attached to the garrison at Posen was a young officer named Schorveder, who was very poor. He was deeply in love with a girl named Ida Mullerthal, but, owing to his poverty, the prospect of their getting married was very remote.

Tattooed on Her Back.

The lovers' trouble was known to a Russian secret agent, who approached the lieutenant and offered him $5,000 for a plan of the fortress of Posen. Dazzled by this offer, the lieutenant agreed, but he found it difficult to carry out his task. His sweetheart then suggested a cunning way out of the difficulty.

"You shall tattoo a plan of the fortress on my back," she said. "I shall easily be able to travel to Russia with it without being discovered." They carried out their fantastic idea successfully, but the silly extravagance in which the newly-wedded couple indulged after the girl returned to Posen aroused suspicion, and they were both arrested.

"You were trapped by a woman who is the agent of a foreign Power, and so I am going to show leniency towards you; but it cannot be much, the crime is too great."

These words were spoken by Mr. Justice Darling some time ago before sentencing George Herbert Parrott, formerly a gunner in the Navy, to four years' penal servitude for divulging British naval secrets to a German woman spy.

The man met this beautiful woman at a London music-hall, and soon became passionately in love with her. He was so completely in her power that, forgetting honour and duty, he complied with her demand for information.

It is owing to a woman's wiles that Germany possesses some plans of Gibraltar. These were made from rough sketches supplied by a pretty young German girl who stayed at Gibraltar a few years ago, ostensibly for a holiday.—Answers.

German Attack on the Donajec

Was Unparalleled in History.

London, May 27.—The Times' Petrograd correspondent, says the Russian military observer, considers Przemysl at the present time quite safe and thinks there is no reason to apprehend the envelopment and blockade of the fortress.

The Times' correspondent with the Russian forces in a despatch dated at Ivangorod gives a description of the Russian retreat from the Donajec to the river San.

The German attack on the Donajec was unparalleled in history, says the correspondent. Their batteries were massed first in tiers of field guns, then in howitzers and then in the heaviest of mobile artillery, which by a torrent of uninterrupted shell fire destroyed the Russian centre, but in spite of the fury of the attacks the Russians retired undemoralized, and when the San was reached, the gap was closed, the armies were stiffened by reserves and the Austro-German onslaught was stayed. The Russian retreat as a manoeuvre was equal to the retreat from Mons. The German check on the San appears to have been due to the impossibility of supplying ammunition fast enough, the rapidity of the Russian retirement compelling an unexpectedly rapid lengthening of the enemy's lines of communication. At the same time German strength, courage and persistence must not be minimized. Past experiences indicate their capacity to keep coming on with apparently undiminished ardour.

MINARD'S LINIMENT is the only Liniment asked for at my store and the only one we keep for sale. All the people use it. HARLIN FULTON, Pleasant Bay, C. B.

Whenever riding upon the cars with children, they are sure to want a little lunch, either of cookies or sticky candy. Whenever they get their hands and face terribly soiled, all you have to do is to clean them with a clean handkerchief but when that gets dirty what then?

I suggest that when starting out you take a two apartment rubber lined envelope case, just large enough for your coat pocket or hand bag. On one side have a dampened cloth, not too wet, and in the other a dry face cloth. Then when little hands and faces are soiled you will have your damp cloth to wash them with and the dry cloth to wipe the wet away.

Well Done, Australia!

Australia has just offered another infantry brigade of 4,500 men to the Imperial authorities. This is in addition to her offer of 10,000 men in April last, and the 60,000 men she has already at the front. She is experiencing difficulties, but it is not in the rate of 500 a day, but in clothing and equipping them. For a Colony with a population of less than 5,000,000 she is doing well, and setting a good pace for Canada to follow. Another good point about her recruiting is that 80 per cent of the men are native born. But like all the Colonies her contribution of men are much below the proportion of men supplied by the British Isles, reckoned on the basis of population.

Supreme Court.

(Before Full Bench.)
The King vs. Frederick Edward Day, alias Dewey Day.—This is an indictment for the murder of one Edward Spears, aged 12 years, who was shot on the evening of May 19th, and who died on the evening of June 1st. The Attorney General appears for the Crown; W. J. Higgins for the accused. The following jury are sworn: M. J. Nolan, John Marshall, Frederick Angel, James R. Chalke, William J. Sinnott, James Branscombe, William Parsons, George Snow, Thomas Thistle, Nicholas Kennedy, Levi Chafe and Edward Neary.

The Attorney General states the case for the Crown. The first witness called was Henry Sawyers, of 20 Colonial Street, a boy 13 years old. He stated that he was playing near the Highlanders' Armoury on the evening of May 19th. With him were Edward Spears, the deceased; Charlie Spears, Fred Crowe and Nicholas Murphy. The witness and Fred Crowe went into the Armoury on the evening in question. Witness was ordered out. He did not go whereupon the prisoner pushed him out the door. Witness then threw a stone at the door. The boy called the prisoner names. Witness heard the report of a gun and saw the boy Spears lying on his back and bleeding from the forehead. Witness stated that the gun was pointed towards the boys at the time of the shooting. He saw Edward Spears stagger for a little while before he died.

Upon being cross-examined by Higgins, Counsel for the accused, witness stated that he used to go to the Highlanders' Armoury often to see his brother drilling. He knew that the prisoner was working there, but did not know that he had charge of the place. Upon re-examination by the Counsel for the prosecution, witness stated that he had heard Edward Spears call the prisoner names.
The next witness was James J. Vey, photographer. He stated that he had gone to the place at the request of Inspector General Sullivan, who also accompanied him, and had taken photographs of the surroundings. Several photographs were then produced, identified by the witness, and some of them were put in as evidence.
The next witness to be called was Charles Spears, 13 years old, cousin of the deceased, who lived with him and called him his brother. He was playing near the Armoury on the evening of May 19th, with Edward Spears, the deceased, Fred Crowe, Henry Sawyers and Nicholas Murphy. He saw Henry Sawyers and Fred Crowe enter the Armoury. He saw the boy Sawyers being put out by the prisoner. He saw the prisoner in the window later, saw him point the gun and heard the report. Witness examined the photographs and recognized the place.

Upon cross-examination by Higgins, witness said that he knew no particular reason why the prisoner should be on his terms with the deceased.
Upon re-examination by the Attorney General, he stated that he heard Edward Spears sing out "Can't lose" to the prisoner, after he had told the boys to go away.

Fred Crowe, 16 years old, was the next witness. He stated that he and Henry Sawyers went into the Armoury on the evening in question. Sawyers was ordered out by the prisoner; he was told he could remain. Sawyers would not go, but the prisoner put him in a question. Witness sent on a message for one of the volunteers, and when he came back the boy Spears had been shot.

The next witness was Ambrose Noseworthy, of 87 King's Road. Witness said he lived opposite the Armoury about 7 o'clock on the evening of May 19th, he looked out of the window and saw the prisoner leaning out the second window of the Armoury with a gun in his hands. The prisoner was pointing the gun down the street. He noticed how the prisoner held the gun in front of him, with the stock toward the muscle of the right arm. He illustrated the position for the jury. He stated that the boy did not have his head or eye on the sight of the gun. He heard the report, and on looking down the street saw the boy Spears lying on his back. He put on his boots and hurried over. He found the child bleeding from the forehead, and thought that he was dying. Witness with some others who had rushed to the scene took the boy into the Armoury. Witness then went for a doctor. He summoned Dr. Knight, who, upon examining the boy first suggested calling the ambulance, but later took the child into his motor car and drove him to the hospital.

The next witness was John Noseworthy, son of the former witness, who lives at 87 King's Road. He visited the scene after the shooting, and knew nothing of what had taken place previously.

Priscilla Greene was the next witness sworn. She lived at 85 King's Road, opposite the Armoury. She saw Dewey Day late in the afternoon, firing at crows. She also saw him get a key and go into the Armoury about 7.30 p.m. Witness saw him open the window to fire once at pieces of pot on the street.
Court takes recess till 2.30 p.m.

Posthumous Honor for Brave Airman, who Died from Wounds Received During the Flight.

The King has awarded the Victoria Cross to two officers and three men serving with the Expeditionary Force "for their conspicuous acts of bravery and devotion to duty." Two of the awards are for deeds of heroism on "Hill 60."

Second Lieutenant W. B. Rhodes-Moorehouse, of the Royal Flying Corps, has not lived to receive the honor bestowed upon him, for he died of wounds received during the flight which gained for him the coveted distinction.

The recipients of the medal are as follows:
Second Lieutenant William Barnard Rhodes-Moorehouse, Special Reserve, Royal Flying Corps. For most conspicuous bravery on April 26, in flying to Courtrai and dropping bombs on the railway line near that station. On starting the return journey he was mortally wounded, but succeeded in flying for 35 miles to his destination, at a very low altitude, and reported his successful accomplishment of his object. He has since died of his wounds.

Second Lieutenant Geoffrey Harold Woolley, 9th (County of London) Battalion, The London Regiment (Queen Victoria's Rifles), Territorial Force. For most conspicuous bravery on "Hill 60," during the night of April 20-21. Although the only officer on the hill at the time, he successfully resisted all attacks on his trench, and continued throwing bombs and encouraging his men till relieved. His trench during all this time was being heavily shelled and bombed, and was subjected to heavy machine gun fire by the enemy.

Corporal William Anderson (8191) 2nd Battalion, Alexandra, Princess of Wales' Own (Yorkshire Regiment). For most conspicuous bravery at Neuve Chapelle on March 12, when he led three men with bombs against a large party of the enemy who had entered our trenches, and by his prompt and determined action saved, what might otherwise have become, a serious situation. Corporal Anderson first threw his own bombs, then those in possession of his three men (who had been wounded) amongst the Germans, after which he opened rapid fire upon them with great effect notwithstanding that he was at the time quite alone.

Private Edward Dwyer (10532), 1st Battalion, The East Surrey Regiment. For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty at "Hill 60," on April 20. When his trench was heavily attacked by the German grenade throwers he climbed on to the parapet, and, although subjected to a hail of bombs at close quarters, succeeded in dispersing the enemy by the effective use of his hand grenades. Private Dwyer displayed great gallantry earlier on this day in leaving his trench, under heavy shell fire, to bandage his wounded comrades.

Private Robert Morrow (10531), 1st Battalion, Princess Victoria's (Royal Irish Fusiliers). For most conspicuous bravery near Messines, on April 12, when he rescued and carried successfully to places of comparative safety several men who had been buried in the debris of trenches wrecked by shell fire. Private Morrow carried out this gallant work on his own initiative and under very heavy fire from the enemy.

A City's Garbage Products.

Since 1907, Barmen, Germany, a city of 172,000 inhabitants, has used an incinerator for disposing of its garbage, including not only kitchen waste, but rags, paper, old clothing, and other refuse of a great city. An account by Vice-Consul Julius Festerer states that the plant has given excellent satisfaction, and has not only removed the useless material in a sanitary way, but has yielded two products of value—a good quality of sand for bricks and building purposes, and a supply of electricity. After burning for an hour in the furnaces, the refuse is reduced to slag, which is broken and ground into the sand of various grades. The gases from the burning, with a temperature of 1200 deg. to 1500 deg. C, pass to two boilers, and generate steam for a 600 h.p. turbine, with an axle directly connected to that of a 400 kilowatt dynamo. The electric current is sold for less than one cent per kilowatt hour to the municipal electric works, by which it is retailed to the public at two and three-fourth cents. The furnaces dispose of about 22,000 tons of garbage annually, and this supplies 11,000 tons of slag or clinkers and 1,700,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

As groceries are put away they should be checked up to see that everything came in good condition. Hens' nests should be kept as carefully clean as a canary bird's cage. Work in the garden is better for health and complexion than almost any medicine. Don't forget to see that the locks of drawers and wardrobe cupboards are in good condition. If impossible to pay ready money, settle your bills promptly at the end of every week.

Household Notes.

Salt in whitewash makes it stick. Laundry bags of Turkish toweling are excellent. Don't buy cheap bedding, or your money will be wasted. Green peas with dumplings make an agreeable summer dish. Study the markets and buy things which are in season. Don't have a dado or use large-patterned wall-papers in a low-ceilinged room. Lemon juice is a powerful germicide, and rich in organic salts. Many vegetables can be canned as easily as fruits for winter use. Do your own marketing if possible; no one else will do it so well. The good housewife plans to lessen her work during the summer time. Never keep goods in paper parcels; store everything in jars and tins.

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, June 16.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
A Zeppelin visited the northeast coast last night, causing some fires. Fifteen deaths are reported, and 35 injured.

The French Government reports that British troops took a line of trenches west of La Bassée. A German attack at Quennevires, led by eight battalions, was completely repulsed.

As a reprisal for the bombardment of open towns, Karlsruhe was raided yesterday, the Castle and railway station being specially attacked.

The Russian Government reports local successes, but German reinforcements have resumed the offensive on the right bank of the Sen, gaining some ground between the Dneister and the Pruth. The Russians have withdrawn beyond the frontier.

The Italian report is satisfactory.

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS RE-PULSED—ENEMY'S LOSSES RE-PEATED HEAVY.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, June 16.
During the night, fighting occurred in the region north of Arras, sectors of Lorette and Neuville and south of Arras. At Touvent-Farm all German counter-attacks were repulsed, and we maintained all our gains. North of Neuville we managed to capture several German advance posts. The day of the 15th was only noted in these two regions by artillery contests, our batteries violently cannonading the German trenches. The enemy's attack during the night of 14th to 15th on trenches that we captured at Quennevires, was pursued by eight battalions. Prisoners captured declared that the enemy's losses were enormous. In revenge for the German bombardment of undefended English and French towns, the order was given this morning to bombard the capital of the Grand Duchy of Baden. At 3 a.m. 23 aviators left for Karlsruhe. Their trip was greatly hindered by N.E. winds they arrived over the town between 5.30 and 6.30 a.m. They dropped 130 bombs on indicated spots, notably on the Castle, gun manufactories, and railway station. Numerous fires were seen to occur. While the aviators were flying over Karlsruhe, a great panic took place at the railway station, where trains left hurriedly, taking an easterly direction. During the trip the aviators heavily bombarded Severn, Strassburg, Rastatt and Karlsruhe. Returning, they bombed Bismont, Phalsburg and Savatte. All but two machines returned to their bases.

GERMANY'S ATTEMPT TO BOMBARD LONDON BROUGHT TO THE ATTENTION OF U.S. GOVT.

WASHINGTON, June 16.
German attempts to bombard London from air-craft were brought formally to the attention of the United States Government to-day by the Ambassador. No request for a protest to Germany was made. The Ambassador merely called at the State Department and submitted to Secretary Lansing a statement of facts from the British viewpoint.

AIRSHIP RAID—FIFTEEN DEATHS REPORTED.

LONDON, June 16.
A Zeppelin airship visited the N.E. coast of England last evening and dropped bombs. Fifteen deaths are reported from the district in question and fifteen persons were wounded. Some fires were started by projectiles from the aircraft, but by this morning they had been overcome.

GIANT AEROPLANES IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION.

LONDON, June 16.
Giant aeroplanes of great capacity are in process of manufacture according to an announcement made in the Commons this afternoon by Under Secretary Tennant. This statement was made in reply to a suggestion by a member of the House, that machines of this character were needed adequately to deal with raiding Zeppelins.

AN AEROPLANE VISITS ROME.

ROME, June 16.
An aeroplane flew over Rome a few nights ago. All lights in the city were put out immediately on the presence of the aerial visitor became known. A partial solution of the mystery is given to-day by the Messenger, which publishes the following: "Our enemies have succeeded in bringing an aeroplane to a point

Ever Ready Hot Water, Night and Day.

HOT WATER FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

When "Spring cleaning days" engross the busy housewife then the convenience of an unlimited supply of hot water on the upper floors is brought home to her with special force. But at all times—apart from convenience—a gas water-heater makes an irrefragable appeal to the housewife from the point of view of dealing with the domestic problem.

Latter-day domestic are difficult to keep unless due consideration is shown by saving them unnecessary drudgery—and in the category of unnecessary drudgery may be included the toll of carrying hot water or coal upstairs, the cleaning of grates and the removal of dirt and ashes.

The gas water-heater renders such labour superfluous—may lift because it only heats the water actually required; and labour-saving, because there are no coals to carry, no fires to clean, no ashes or dirt to remove.

The master of the house has hot shaving water and a hot bath whenever he wishes without delay or trouble.

"The bath ready for baby, when baby is ready for the bath" should be an adage of every housewife—who should also keep in mind that any trouble saved to the nurse makes for a well-ordered, contented household.

Gas Water-Heaters, whether of the instantaneous or Circular type, offer the convenience of available hot water "upstairs, downstairs, and in my lady's chamber"—without any labour at all—independently of the state of the kitchen fire.

Think of the reasonable FOR THE BATHROOM.

An uncertain supply of hot water in the bathroom is a frequent cause of annoyance.

Hot water can only be secured, usually, by getting the cook to act as stoker, but at what a cost! The fatigue of coal carrying—the after labour of grate cleaning—and the discomfort of a hot kitchen in warm weather.

A Gas Water-Heater is economical.

AUSTRIANS PREPARE ELABORATE ENTRENCHMENTS.

ROME, June 16.
An elaborate system of entrenchments has been prepared by the Austrians along the Isonzo River, according to an official statement issued to-day. At some points there are several lines of trenches, some of which are built.

ITALIAN TROOPS CONTINUE ATTACKS WITH GREAT VIGOR.

UDINE, June 16.
Italian troops are continuing with great vigor their attacks upon Austrian positions at Gorizia. Austrian trenches on this front are protected with steel armour, and connected with underground passages, men are able to fire from under cover, and at the same time they are supported by artillery in the hills beyond them. Italian army officers describe the Austrians as everywhere as purely defensive, except in the Carnia zone, where the best troops have been concentrated, apparently for an offensive movement. Fighting is going on fiercely both night and day, between the Inferno (Isonzo) Valley and Malborghetto. Italian reports declare that up to the present, the Austrian attacks have resulted in failure.

EXPORTATION OF CERTAIN FOOD TOTALLY PROHIBITED.

LONDON, June 16.
There is further tightening of the ring by which food supplies are prevented from entering Germany, Austria and Turkey. An Order in Council this week announces that exportation of certain food for man and beast are totally prohibited, while other foods and forage may only be exported to France, Russia, Spain and Portugal. Russian Baltic ports are banned, as are also neutral countries such as Holland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. Onions, potatoes, rye, rice, flour, rye-meal, buckwheat, millet, molasses, arsenic and its compounds are prohibited.

SIR JOHN FRENCH REPORTS.

LONDON, June 16.
Sir John French reports that British troops captured and then lost the line of German trenches at Festubert, but the British occupied the German positions north of Hooge for a distance of a thousand yards.

ENQUIRY NEARING THE END.

LONDON, June 16.
Baron Mersey, President of the Court of Inquiry into the sinking of the steamship Lusitania, intimated this afternoon that the investigation would soon be ended. The Baron said that his mind was quite satisfied as to the most important questions, the speed of the vessel at the time she was attacked, and the absence of British destroyers as an escort. It is believed that the Court had before it all the evidence that it was likely to obtain relative to the alleged shortage of officers, the use of boats, and the time of the catastrophe. Counsel connected with the case are inclined to believe to-morrow would be the last day. One of the points elicited to-day was that there was only one boat drill during the voyage. On that occasion some members of the crew wearing life belts, swung out a life-boat and jumped in. This drill lasted only a few minutes. The coal saved during the voyage by cutting off six of the twenty-five boilers, amounted to 1,000 tons, according to the testimony of the passengers.

FRENCH TORPEDO BOAT SINKS OWING TO COLLISION.

CHERBOURG, June 16.
The French torpedo boat No. 331, sank to-day after collision with the British steamer Arleya. It is said the crew was drowned.

SWEDISH STEAMER TORPEDOED.

LONDON, June 16.
A Copenhagen despatch says that the Swedish steamer Ystad, 947 tons, was torpedoed yesterday off Christiania Sound, by a German submarine. A German cruiser took the crew aboard.

BRITISH STEAMER TORPEDOED.

LONDON, June 16.
The British steamer Strathairn, from Cardiff with a cargo of coal for Archangel, Russia, was torpedoed and sunk to-day in the Irish Channel. Eleven members of the crew were landed at Milford Haven. The captain and the remainder of the crew were drowned, when the boat they were in, capsized.

NEBRASKAN DID NOT STRIKE A MINE.

WASHINGTON, June 16.
Ambassador Page, of London, has forwarded, with a complete report by the naval experts, who examined the American steamer Nebraskan, fragments of metal found in the ship, which it is said strengthened the conclusion that the ship was torpedoed, and did not strike a mine.

A CHECK FOR $100,000.

LONDON, June 16.
At a Mansion House meeting, to-day, on behalf of the Red Cross Fund, the Marquis of Lansdowne announced that William Waldorf Astor had opened a subscription list with a cheque for $100,000.

SENTENCE OF DEATH MUST BE ENDORSED BY THE EMPEROR.

AMSTERDAM, June 16.
Every sentence of death by court martial in Belgium must hereafter be endorsed by Emperor William, before a prisoner is executed, according to a despatch received to-day from a correspondent at Maastricht. The writer of the despatch intimates that Emperor William telegraphed these instructions on learning that eight citizens of Liege had been executed for alleged espionage, and that twenty other prisoners were charged with the same offence.

YOUNG RECRUITS CALLED TO THE COLORS.

LONDON, June 16.
A despatch from Amsterdam says, reports received from Cologne state that recruits of the 1916 draft who were ordered last week to prepare for service, will be summoned to the colors to-day, instead of in October, as had been proposed.

STREET CAR STRIKE IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 16.
The street car strike will be settled by arbitration, and the cars are expected to resume running by noon to-day.

JAPAN SENDS PROTEST TO CHINA.

TOKYO, June 16.
Japan has sent a protest to China concerning the anti-Japanese movement in the Republic.

Escape of German Interned Sailors.

Washington, June 11.—Department of Justice officials to-day settled upon a means of proceeding against Lt. Brauer, and several sailors, reported missing from the interned German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich at Norfolk, if they can be located in the United States.

Prosecution under immigration laws, it was agreed, would be the most effective way of dealing with the fugitives.

After nearly a month of search, however, agents of the department have failed to locate the missing Germans, and it is supposed that by this time they must have succeeded in escaping from American soil.

Officials of the state-department are prepared to make representations to the German government, if the men return to Germany.

During the war between Russia and Japan, a Russian officer and two men under parole at San Francisco escaped and reached Russia. Upon representations by the state department, the Russian government promptly returned the men who had violated their paroles.

Lieut. Brauer and the men who accompanied him left the Prinz Eitel while the ship was at Newport News, and before she had been interned or her officers paroled. If they should be captured by the allies, while endeavouring to make their way to Germany, they probably will be treated as ordinary prisoners of war.

A BIG SHOW FOR LITTLE MONEY.

The Crescent Picture Palace is repeating yesterday's big picture show to-day, consisting of five first class Pictures including a Vitagraph two reel special feature, "The Right of Way." Mrs. Hannaford, the native contralto, sings a new song to-day; one price, five cents for afternoon and night at the cool and comfortable Crescent.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Another splendid bill was presented to the patrons of the above Theatre. The pictures both from the subject and photographic points of view being of the highest class. The opening picture-play, "Brought to Justice" is spirited and excellent drama of the wild west and is of great interest. The film "Dick Potter's Wife" is one of those dry, deep comedies of a very much out-of-the-way character. The exciting "Ethics of the Profession" is a thriller, combined with splendid acting. "The Upper Hand" a drama savouring of a western mingling town where as usual gambling predominates, and the final reel that of "Eugene Glri" is an album of comedy of surpassing merit. Miss Keeping, pianist, and Arthur Priestman Cameron complete the entertainment. There will be the usual entire change of programme to-morrow.

THE ROSSLEY'S KINDNESS.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossley are always kind and thoughtful to the orphans and yesterday entertained the orphans of the Belvedere Convent and the C. of E. Orphanage. They have been invited to every pantomime all season since Xmas, and its safe to say all the little ones have a warm spot in their hearts for the Rossley's who have given them so much pleasure.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

Last night there was a very good audience at the popular Little Theatre and as usual all were charmed with the good show. There will be the usual good programme to-night. Don't forget the big contest on Friday night at Rossley's East End Theatre; there are lots of names given in and together with the grand pantomime will be a grand night's entertainment.

GREAT CONTEST FRIDAY.

Last night Rossley's was crowded to the doors; there was also a large matinee. Every one is talking of the pantomime for its simply delightful. After the matinee the children of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson presented the Sunshine Girls with a beautiful cake covered in icing and worked in candy. "To the Sunshine Girls from Diana and Daphne" which was very gratefully accepted. Mr. Ballard Brown and Miss Madge Locke, the finest artists ever seen or heard here, finish their engagement on Saturday, after a stay of twelve weeks. They have received a contract for a long tour in the States and every one wishes them good luck; they are great favourites here and during their stay have appeared under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, something no other performers ever here can say; they are high class artists and deserve all praise. The contest on Friday promises to be a wonder; tickets selling quickly.

WHALING NEWS. — The whaler Cachelot is now awaiting the ice to absent itself before proceeding to Hawke's Harbor to begin operations. Last season the Cachelot was high-liner of the whaling fleet, though she did not get her first fish until well up in July month. The whalers Puma and Lynx had each secured seven fish up to Saturday last.

Socialist Leader for Front.

Leonida Bissolati Gets Enthusiastic
Send-off From All Sorts of People.
Udine, Italy, via Paris, June 1.— Leonida Bissolati-Bergamaschi, the eminent leader in the chamber of deputies of the Reform Socialists, dressed in the uniform of a sergeant of the Alpine regiment, arrived here to-day with his company.

Sergt. Bissolati attempted to leave the station without attracting attention, but a group of Bersaglieri saw him and shouted "Viva Bissolati!"

The deputy then tried to make his escape but he was soon surrounded by a crowd of officers, soldiers and young and old men, and girls and women, who cheered him vociferously. The deputy finally took refuge in a cafe, where an old man tottered up to him and said in a trembling voice: "God bless you. Hold what opinion you please since you are ready to go forward when your country calls you."

A priest who was going to the front as a lieutenant asked Sergt. Bissolati to write a line in his note book. Bis-solati complied with the words:
"Greeting to the Christian priest who is fighting for civilization."

To another priest, a chaplain, Bis-solati said: "At the front you will dispense comfort to the wounded, but also (pointing to the chaplain's revolver) dispense some of those pills among the Austrians."

Are You Doing Your Bit?

(From the Edmonton Bulletin.)
The following advertisement, clipped from a London paper, shows the vigorous appeals being made by the British Government for men to enlist—

ARE YOU DOING YOUR BIT?
If you are now serving behind a counter and can pass the doctor—
You are NOT doing your bit.
If you are now working at a desk and can pass the doctor—
You are NOT doing your bit.
If you are now driving a car and can pass the doctor—
You are NOT doing your bit.
If you are not doing work for the Government and can pass
the doctor—
You are NOT doing your bit.
YOUR DUTY IS PLAIN—ENLIST TO-DAY.
GOD SAVE THE KING.

In view of the contrasts between this appeal and the total lack of effort to get Canadians to enlist, it is pertinent to add: "Is Canada doing its bit?"

Marriage in Other Lands.

If there were no war in Russia, this season would see the beginning of many a happy wedding there.

The Russian peasant always marries young, and so probably is very much in the mood for all the Jollif-cations attendant on his wedding.

The night before the ceremony, if it is at all possible, a dance is given which lasts all night, and on the actual day of the marriage, the bridegroom and his friends walk about the village playing music on instruments, and throwing sugar to the children.

In sunny Spain etiquette is so very restrictive in the matter of courtship, and it is so difficult for young people to get to know one another, that one wonders how they ever manage to get married at all. Even when, after many difficulties, the engagement is accomplished, the parents have a deciding voice in fixing the date, and,
as they prefer long engagements, the wedding-day is usually fixed somewhere in the dim future.

The best man and maid of honour are expected not only to fulfil the usual duties, but to contribute—sometimes very substantially—to the expenses of the wedding-feast. Wedding-cake is unknown, but instead packets of sugared almonds are distributed among the guests and sent by post to those who are unable to be present.

A Norwegian wedding is a delightful spectacle.
The picturesque Norwegian national costume is worn, and the wedding-party—in pretty carriages or on foot —walks or drives in procession to the church. After the ceremony there is a dance on the village green, with a violin for accompaniment, till it is time for supper. The next day the festivities are resumed, and possibly they may extend to the day after.

Everyday Etiquette.

"I would like to know if it is proper to wear my boudoir cap to breakfast when visiting?" asked Marie.
"If your hostess appears at breakfast wearing a negligee and a cap, you may feel free to do so, but do not wear one if you are attired in a gown," advised her friend.
