CHAPTER LXIV.
BACK FROM THE CAPE.

He was an endless source of interest and conjecture to his simple guardians. They sat and watched him under their eyebrows, and at odd moments puzzling their brains in endeavors to guess his thoughts, or weaving romances out of what little they knew of his history.

There was a romance, they were certain—a mystery and a romance—or why should the young gentleman maintain such secrecy, and why should this strong, good-natured hero have murmured strange names in his delirious sleep and called for Cecil?

They watched him about the docks, noted his great strength and the liberality with which he used it for any one's behalf. They admired, with respectful admiration, the graceful, power-denoting swing of his walk, and the careful, dignified pose of his attitude when at rest.

They remarked between themselves that no little child was without a word of greeting or a gentle kiss, and they saw that the most timid of little children would run to him, crowing with delight if he yielded out his long, lithe hands.

He was a mystery to them, but they dared not question him.

Once Mr. Wiley had ventured to hint that a recital of Mr. Laurence's adventures might prove interesting, but the quick glance of the clear eyes and the slight frown that darkened the noble forehead warned him that he was on dangerous ground.

"You want to know something of my life?" asked Laurence, in his grave, musical voice. "What good would it do you if I told you, my friend? You are too old to take a warning from it, and too young to point its moral. Let my Away he rushed to the cottage, almost shouting for joy.

He found Laurence seated, or, rather, lying on a bale beside the door, his face shaded by his hand, and his eyes fixed moodily upon the ground.

"Hello, sir!" exclaimed Mr. Wiley. "It's a lucky thing I found you. I was all in a tremble to think as you might be out of the way, perhaps."

"What is the matter?" quietly asked the giant; but he sprang up with an air of interest as Mr. Wiley extended the small note. "A letter!" he said, and broke the seal.

Then Mr. Wiley witnessed a transformation.

The grand, still face changed as if an angel of Paradise had swooped down and kissed it. It glowed with a bright flush of joy, its lips trembled with a thrill of delighted surprise, and its eyes filled—ay, filled with tears!

This was the note:

"Laurence:—If you have not forgotten, if you still cherish one kind remembrance of your friend Cecil, follow these instructions without losing a single second. A moment now is priceless. Go with the bearer of this, who will provide you with a strong and swift horse. Mount and ride for your life toward Dale. At each stage a fresh steed will await you. Wait for nothing, linger not a moment, spare neither yourself nor your horses, but come, come where Cecil waits you at the Dale. Ever yours CECIL."

"P.S.—Be prepared for changes, sad and mysterious."

No sooner had he read the letter than he swung round to Wiley.

"I give me a moment, man, for Heaven's sake—read this letter! No; stop! I must go—I see by your face that you have received news of some sort."

Joe nodded eagerly.

"I can not wait a moment," said Laurence, already striding to the door, "not even to ask you if my conjectures be true. Good-by. I will come back, believe me."

Wiley ran beside him—nothing less could have kept up with the long, swinging stride.

"Don't stop, sir, for Heaven's sake! It's all right; the money's all paid—it was all arranged."

"I see—I see!" exclaimed Laurence, upon whom flashed a sudden revelation. "I see, I think. Good-by. Now, lad, where's the horse? Quick!"

The small boy touched his hat and ran down the yard. Hugh followed and found two horses, one blown and foam-specked, the other wiped down and comparatively fresh. Without a word he sprang into the saddle of the fresher and, with flashing eyes, clattered away in the direction of the Dale.

Though the post-chaise dashed along the dusty road, scattering the fowls and geese before it like an avenging wind, and calling the country folks to their doors to stare and wonder; though it tore up hill and down dale, through turn-pike gates with the velocity of a locomotive, rocking from side to side like a storm-tossed ship, it seemed slow, drearily slow, to its impatient occupant.

Something in his face stopped the question upon Reginald Dartmouth's lips, and Mr. Reeves spoke first.

"You have come," he said, "and I am thankful. Allow me to close the door."

And he passed behind him and locked it.

Reginald Dartmouth sank into a chair beside the table and tossed his hat to the floor.

"Now, sir," he said, "have the goodness, without circumlocution, to tell me why you sent for me?"

"I will," said Mr. Reeves, standing before him with his hands resting upon the table, his face set with an unnatural calm, his eyes, sternly piercing, fixed upon the pale, hard face opposite him—"I will, Reginald Dartmouth, in three words—all is discovered!"

There was the slightest start in the world, the merest quiver of his thin lip, and that was all.

"All—discovered? Pray, sir, explain," he said, with a deep sneer.

"Is that necessary?" asked Mr. Reeves, sternly. "Do you wish me to go over the story of your villainy; to give your crime its true name?"

Britain and France in Agreement.

Naval Blockade of Russia to be Enforced---Bolsheviki Intentions Now Apparent---Poles Decline French Leader for Army---Allies Promise "Defensive" Support Only--Government and Foreign Legations Leaving Warsaw---Archbishop Mannix in England

WAR LORDS IN COUNCIL.

LONDON, Aug. 9. Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, Chief of the Imperial Staff of the British Army, Admiral Baron Beatty, Commander of the Grand Fleet, and Marshal Foch, of France, conferred at Hythe relative to the Polish situation until an early hour this morning, according to a Central News despatch. It is learned that the Allied Naval and Military experts are in complete accord regarding plans for checking the westward advance of the Russian Bolsheviki. It is said, there is a possibility that immediate naval mobilization will be ordered to enforce a strict blockade of Russia and that France will co-operate in this movement.

A QUEENSTOWN REPORT.

QUEENSTOWN, Aug. 9. According to a report here, Archbishop Mannix was forcibly taken from the Baltic and conveyed to Cherbourg, France by the destroyer Wivern.

THE CRISIS MORE ACUTE.

HYTHE, England, Aug. 9. How to save western Europe from the Bolsheviki was the burden of discussion at to-day's Conference here between Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand, and although final decision was still pending this afternoon, the chief weapons will probably be blockade and the establishment of a defensive line in Poland. It is stated that the Allies, although loath to admit it, now feel there is little hope of saving Warsaw, and that the question of Poland is no longer the sole issue. The main problem confronting the Premiers is the defence of western Europe. In British and French circles it is declared that the intentions of the Bolsheviki regarding Poland are becoming clearer with every hour. The prevailing impression among British and French officials is that the Soviet government hopes through the Polish offensive to firmly establish Bolshevism at the doors of the western Powers.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA.

WARSAW, Aug. 9. Bolsheviki aviators flying over the Polish lines have scattered broadcast propaganda and pamphlets signed by the President of the Revolutionary Committee in Poland saying—make your own officers prisoners and let us jointly march on Warsaw. Poles are appealed to in pamphlets to wipe out aristocracy and make Poland a great Communist country. The pamphlets declare that the Bolsheviki are marching on Warsaw with the best of motives to save the country from Land Owners' Rule.

POLAND REJECTS FRENCH LEADERSHIP.

PARIS, Aug. 9. The Polish General Staff has definitely rejected the offer of General Weygand of the French army to take command of the Polish army, if granted full authority, according to to-day's report from the Anglo-French Mission in Warsaw.

DEFENSIVE SUPPORT ONLY.

HYTHE, England, Aug. 9. Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand, having decided that actual war shall not be waged on Russia, found themselves confronted with a difficult problem. It is known they are inclined to give Poland every aid within the limit of this decision. In

"MACKAY'S AURALINE."

Since 1890 this famous specific has maintained its reputation as a curative agent in the above painful disorders, and judging from the large number of grateful testimonials the Proprietors have received, prove conclusively that this treatment is one of the few of its kind that does accomplish all that is claimed for it.

both French and British circles here, however, the word "defensive" is emphasized in connection with all the proposed plans, and it is pointed out that France and England want it distinctly understood that they are not contemplating offensive movements against Russia.

LEAVING WARSAW.

LONDON, Aug. 9. The Polish Government is leaving the Warsaw capital, it is asserted in a wireless despatch from Moscow received to-day.

COMMUNIST PLOT DISCOVERED.

WARSAW, Aug. 9. A plot, believed to be of Communist origin, and designed to blow up the general army headquarters, has been discovered here.

FOREIGN LEGATIONS LEAVE WARSAW.

WARSAW, Aug. 9. All foreign legations in Warsaw left for Posen last night on a special train.

SOVIETS IN GALICIA.

LONDON, Aug. 9. Bolsheviki military authorities have established Soviets in parts of Eastern Galicia under their occupation, it is stated in an authoritative despatch received here.

BALTIC AT LIVERPOOL.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 9. The White Star Line has issued notice that the Baltic is expected to dock here to-day. No word has been received from Archbishop Mannix.

ARCHBISHOP AT PENZANCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9. It was announced here yesterday that plans are afoot to establish a vast combine of all legitimate theatre interests of the British Empire.

ROOSEVELT DECLARES FOR LEAGUE.

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 9. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in formal address accepting the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination at his home here to-day, joined with his chief James M. Cox in accepting the challenge of the Republicans to make the League of Nations, one of the principal issues of the national campaign. The Democratic Party he said, has offered to this nation a treaty of peace which, to make it a real treaty for real peace must include the League of Nations.

WORKMEN PROTEST AGAINST NEW WAR.

LONDON, Aug. 9. British workmen held meetings in many manufacturing towns of the country yesterday, notably at Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, Nottingham and London, and protested against war to help Poland. The feature of the London meeting, which was held in Hyde Park, was the presence of several representatives of organizations of former soldiers. A general strike in all principal organized industries was advocated in the resolutions passed at several meetings.

CHILD MURDERED.

TORONTO, Aug. 9. Philip Goldby, aged 8, was found dying in a field near High Park on Saturday. It is believed that he was murdered.

Little Lawn Tennis Lines.

In the very early days of lawn tennis the courts were shaped like an hour glass.

Touching the net loses the stroke. So does jumping the net to avoid touching it.

In a single it is best when serving to stand as near the centre of the base-line as possible.

Mrs. Lambert Chambers is of opinion that women should play with a racket lighter than 13 1/2 ounces.

Your racket should always be kept in a press when not in use. It is very liable to warp with damp or dry heat.

A schoolboy was the discoverer of the present method of cutting fannel to cover the rubber balls. He made a fortune.

You mustn't throw your racket at a ball. If you do you lose the stroke, even though the ball may return to the other court.

The Countess of Portsmouth, widow of the Earl of Portsmouth, is making her first visit to this country. She was at the head of the Y.W.C.A. in England, but resigned recently. The countess thinks women in England have "grown" as a result of the war. "This development of character naturally outlives the war," she said. "English women will always be better for their experiences of these past five years."

Poland and the Soviet.

Without going into the merits of the struggle now being waged between Poland and the Soviet Government of Russia, it must be said that there is a certain justice in the insistence of Lenin and Trotsky that Poland should deal directly with Russia in her demand for an armistice. These are the two countries which have been doing the fighting, and it is natural enough that they should make peace with one another. This has been recognized by the British Government in advising the Poles to apply directly to Moscow for peace terms.

There is a serious danger, however, that it is the real aim of the Bolsheviki to bring about by force, if necessary, the establishment of a soviet form of rule in Poland. This would mean, not only the ruin of Poland, but a new and more deadly menace to the peace of Europe. With the Bolsheviki sweeping westward and forming a close contact with the proletarian masses of Germany, there would be no limit to the dangerous possibilities of the situation. There is even now talk of a Russian-German-Turkish combination against the Allies. This, in the long run, could hardly involve anything less than another world war. And this is something which the Allies must prevent, even if it means the sending of an important military expedition to assist the Poles in their struggle.

Everything will depend on the answer which the Soviet Government will make to the peace proposals of Poland. If this answer is an unfavorable one and involves the establishment in Poland of a government of brutality and rapine, such as now holds Russia in infamous thralldom, it will be the duty of the Allies to act at once and with the utmost possible vigor. If the League of Nations is ever to amount to anything, now is the time for it to make its weight felt—in some other way than that of rhetorical and unrealized ideals—Saturday Night.

Fortunes in Seaweed.

OCEAN PLANTS THAT HELY DOC-TORS.

The establishment of a plan for the manufacture of the agar-agar at Los Angeles, in California, says a writer in London Tit-Bits, calls attention to the fortunes locked up in the seaweeds that grow around our shores.

Agar-agar is a pearly-white, shiny, semi-transparent product, invaluable to the medical profession and an important food adjunct. It is used as a thickener for jellies and soups. It is also largely employed in the sizing of textiles, for stiffening the warp of silks, for clarifying beer, wines, and coffee, and in the making of moulds in plaster of Paris.

Our hospitals use it in large quantities as a culture media for bacteria. During the war it was found beneficial in healing certain wounds, and medical profession declare that its chemical properties are such that it will displace many drugs which leave a harmful after-effect.

Chances For Enterprise

Up to the present the world has had to depend upon Japan for its agar-agar, or katen, as it is sometimes called. We took over a hundred tons last year. France about the same quantity and America 250 tons, paying for it at the rate of £140 a ton.

In Japan there are over 500 factories turning out this product, and a few producing an inferior article in India and Ceylon.

Our farmers use the marine plant as a manure. In Holland they requisition it for building dykes, and in Denmark it is ground into powder and fed to swine and cattle. In Germany it has been successfully applied to the stuffing of mattresses and cushions.

There are many varieties of seaweed, and the Japanese make their agar-agar from ten different species. The Americans have found that the product can be produced from at least fifteen species, all of which thrive in the waters of Western Europe. It takes seventy-two hours to convert the dried seaweed into the white, gelatine-like substance, and the operation is a continuous one.

Whereas the Japanese product is chiefly hand-made, the Americans, by using specially designed machinery, are turning out a better article. It passes through many processes, being alternately subjected to great heats and cold.

Apart from the manufacture of agar-agar they have discovered that from kelps, the most abundant of the seaweeds, they can make an inslaglass superior to the vegetable product, adhesive plasters, photographic films, potash, iodine, and algin. The latter is a remarkable substance capable of an infinite variety of applications in the arts and industries. It has fourteen times the viscosity (or glutinous quality) of starch and thirty-seven times that of gum arabic.

Kelp abounds along every coastline, and can be gathered in all sizes, from the smaller plants, two or three feet in length, to the giants of the marine forests, which attain a length of 1,500ft. and are a floating mass of vegetation hundreds of square yards in area. In the utilization of seaweed there are vast fortunes, and what is more, the establishment of such industries would give profitable employment to thousands and make us independent on foreign supplies.

NEGROES WANTED TO WELCOME JACK JOHNSON.
 Chicago, July 28.—Two thousand negroes gathered at the depot yesterday to welcome Jack Johnson back to Chicago after a voluntary exile of eight years, a fugitive from justice in foreign lands, but "L'il Arthur," idol of the southside, failed to appear.
 Federal officers removed Johnson from the train at Joliet and hurried him to the jail there when they learned the size of the welcoming throng.
 When the train reached Chicago police reserves were forced to beat the crowd back with clubs to clear a passage for Lucille Cameron Johnson, white wife of the former pugilist, who appeared, wearing a bright red hat, a blue serge suit, and clasping a Mexican hairless dog to her bosom. Policemen loaded Mrs. Johnson and her eight suit cases into a brace of taxicabs and assisted her out of the crowd.

O'DOWD TO MEET JOHNNY WILSON.
 Boston, July 28.—Marty Killilea, manager of middleweight champion Johnny Wilson, had a talk with the representative of Tex Rickard yesterday relative to Wilson meeting Mike O'Dowd in New York next month. Killilea told Rickard's representative that Wilson cannot fight O'Dowd until winter, owing to other engagements. Manager Killilea, though offered $10,000 for Wilson's end, figures that New York would be a bad place for Wilson to meet O'Dowd. The latter is very strong in New York and as the judges and referee would be from that city it does not look to Killilea as if Wilson would get an even break.
 When Wilson gets ready to meet O'Dowd again the bout is likely to be staged in Boston. Though the amount O'Dowd would get in Boston would not be as large as what he would receive in New York, he is so anxious to get another chance at Wilson that he will most likely be willing to meet Wilson anywhere.
 Wilson's next bout will be with Steve Choynek in Buffalo July 31. He also expects to meet Jack Britton and Mike Gibbons in the West.

A RETURN MATCH BETWEEN JOE BECKETT AND GEO. CARPENTIER.
 (By Edgar C. Middleton.)
 London, July 28.—An interesting rumor is at present going the rounds of the London boxing world to the effect that negotiations have been proceeding, and a return match is about to be fixed for the near future between Joe Beckett and the inimitable Georges Carpentier for the heavy-weight championship of Europe.
 Boxing authorities here generally favor the Frenchman's chance of repeating his victory at the Holborn Stadium last winter. Though the encounter is expected to prove less dramatic, it is being openly stated that Carpentier should experience little or no difficulty in putting out his rugged but less gifted opponent inside of five rounds.
 However, it must be remembered that Beckett has made great improvement since that ill-starred meeting. At every fresh encounter he evinces a greater self-control and appears at last to have conquered that fatal weakness of leaving his jaw and body uncovered in an attempt to "mix it" in the early rounds of a fight. His sensational defeat at the hands of Carpentier taught the British champion more in the brief two minutes that the men were in the ring than in the whole of his boxing career before. It will be as doubtful whether the young Frenchman can administer any further lessons in the noble art as whether Beckett's newly acquired ring-craft plus an inordinate capacity for taking punishment, will go down again before such another hurricane attack.
 Boy McCormick, Britain's light heavy-weight champion, has fixed things up with Tom Gibbons. The two have met before in the States, but the decision of that encounter has never been very clear.
 Gibbons is the brother of the famous Mike of that ilk, one of the cleverest boxers ever produced by America. And rumor has it that Tom is as good as his brother if not better.

There is a bitter irony in the fact that while boxing in England to-day is enjoying an altogether unprecedented boom, there is a marked shortage of promising material from which to provide British champions of the future. Of the eight world's championships, England holds only one, the fly-weight Jimmy Wilde, the solitary brilliant exception, who has just returned from a triumphant tour of the States to meet Pete Harman for the Bantam-weight, already has announced his definite intention of retiring from the ring in the coming autumn.
 To a certain extent this possibility is not unforeseen. Meanwhile, Jim Driscoll had discovered and nursed with great care, a young Scotsman, Jim Higgins, who was considered on all hands as Wilde's natural successor for the flyweights. Higgins responded nobly to this confidence, and in three matches, fought his way up to the British championship. Then, unfortunately, in his fourth he was matched against Ledoux, champion of France. The result was almost a foregone conclusion. Higgins was knocked out in the tenth round, but only after a very inspiring exhibition. Great hopes are placed in this young fighter's future, and his advent is the one bright spot in the English boxing horizon.
 The stock of Beckett's chances as a world's champion went down with a rush after his almost unexpected defeat at the hands of Georges Carpentier. Public opinion in this country is very fickle in this respect. Before the encounter the British heavy-weight could do no wrong. Since, despite his vastly improved ring-craft and brilliant successive victories over Dick Smith and Billy Wells, the boxing critics are out all the time to minimize his capabilities. But Joe Beckett may have a thrilling surprise up his sleeve for us yet. While the ever popular Billy Wells with the barren interval of the five years of war, is rapidly going beyond the boxers prime.
 For many years now the British boxing world has relied upon the keenly sporting naval and military circles to provide it with new blood for the championships. The two services have acted almost as a boxing nursery. Gunner Moir was one of the early products of this system. While later and even better known ex-service prodigies include P. O. Curran, Seaman Hall, Bandsman Blake, Frank Goddard and Bombardier Billy Wells. The present champion was first discovered while serving in the ranks of the Royal Naval Air Service. Now this supply is running short.
 The standard of boxing exhibited at the recent British and French Army and Navy boxing tournament at the Holborn Stadium fell far short of the accepted average. Eventually the British competitors won out by 8

A Fine Suggestion.
 Those who have been dissatisfied with the conditions under which the America's Cup races have been conducted of late years, may find some glimmer of hope in the suggestion that Canada enter the lists as challenger. Amateur sportsmen of the better type will take kindly to this idea, as it offers a chance for the sort of race originally intended by the founders of this international contest. Along the Atlantic seaboard, where yachtsmen are accustomed to the same conditions of wind and weather as prevail on any course that might be selected for the America's Cup races, there is likely to be cordial support and serious consideration of the chance of Canada entering.
 The feasibility of such a plan will need to be established beyond a doubt, so that there shall be no backing out after once undertaking to challenge. This is essential to the proper sporting relations of the two countries hereafter. If, through the entrance of Canada, the America's Cup races cease to be a contest between professional seamen and marine racing machines, hardly to be called yachts in the best sense of the word, the whole world of clean sport will be the gainer.
 If it proves to be feasible, and no step should be taken until that is definitely assured, it would probably follow that a purely amateur crew would control the Canadian challenger. There may be points in yachting, as in all other human activities, in which the professional has an advantage over the amateur, but for the true sporting spirit, for alertness and ingenious methods, the enthusiastic amateur cannot be beaten. He is in it for the joy of the game. Wages and bonuses cannot have the same exhilarating effect, for, after all, man is more spiritual than material, and the things that bring joy to his whole nature have more lasting inspiration and effect than any mere money reward.
 An amateur crew, comparable in every respect to the best professional, and superior in initiative and resourcefulness, could easily be found. Nova Scotia alone could provide several such crews without notably depleting her yachting circles. It is an idea to be fostered, and, if at all possible, carried to ultimate success.
 American papers are discussing the challenge, and The New York Tribune pays Canada a compliment which is appreciated, when it says: "There are able yacht designers in Canada, and fine amateur sea sports, and the challenge offers promise of a great battle for the America's Cup."—Morning Chronicle.

Woman Geologist Begins Long Canoe Trip.
 Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 4.—Miss Alice E. Wilson, of Ottawa, the first woman to be sent out by the geological department of the Canadian Government, is making a 200-mile trip down the shores of Lake Winnipeg by rowboat to collect fossils for the department in Ottawa.
 Miss Wilson has as her assistant a young school teacher who has graduated from Royal Victoria College, Montreal, in 1919. The two geologists will begin their explorations starting from Berens River. They plan to make the return trip in six weeks, going south following the east shores of the lake. They are carrying with them their tent, camp outfit and provisions, as well as their geological tools, and are provided with fishing tackle, gun and revolver.
 So, too, has Miss Lily Smith, one of the fastest and most graceful of lady swimmers, who on one occasion—in 1913—showed her pluck by sticking at her self-imposed task until she lapsed into unconsciousness and was within an ace of being drowned.
 Another exceptionally plucky attempt was made in 1906 by Mme. Isaccescu, who swam for ten hours before being compelled through exhaustion to give in.

Lady Channel Swimmer.
 Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, the first woman to swim the Solent, is going to repeat this summer her attempt to swim the Channel, in which she failed last year.
 Whether she will be more successful this time remains to be seen, but the chances seem to be against her.
 Many expert lady swimmers have tried to emulate the feat first accomplished by Captain Webb five-and-forty years ago, but none so far has come within even measurable distance of success.
 Miss Annette Kellerman, who has accomplished several remarkable long-distance swims, and who began winning the championships at fifteen, has more than once tried to get across.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

JUST TO GET IN THE SPOTLIGHT.

Here's a funny trick that people have, which has come to my attention several times lately. Maybe you've never run up against it, and it will interest you. It came to the Authorman's attention in this way: A friend of his sent him a letter she had received from her friend (who does not know him). In the letter the friend spoke highly of the Authorman's stories and said that although the name by which they were signed was masculine, she happened to know that they were written by a woman, the wife of a travelling salesman in her city. She said this woman signed that name because she didn't want her husband to know she was doing the work, but that she told her and a few friends because she knew they would be so interested.

Fortunately His Wife Knew.

The Authorman, who considered the matter a great joke, told the editor of one of the magazines he writes for about it, and the editor told him that that sort of thing was continually happening. He spoke of several cases. One most startling one happened to a well-known author who lives in New York (like most well-known authors).

A young woman called at his house and wanted to see him. He was away and she saw his wife. Apparently she thought she had been invited to make a visit. She said she had met Mr. E. on a train in Texas and that she had had a long talk with him and he had invited her to come and look him up if she ever came to New York. As M. E. had never been in Texas (and his wife fortunately knew he had not) it was plain enough what had happened. Some other man who had sat with the girl on the train and gotten into conversation with her, to surprise her and interest her had told her he was the well-known author.

Her Secrets Are Safe.

Even I have had my experiences along that line. For years a woman wrote to me under the impression that a man friend, who had evidently told her he wrote under the name of Ruth Cameron, was getting the letters. If she had only signed her full name I would have informed her of her mistake, but she never did. She stopped writing some time ago; apparently she found out the hoax. It may interest her to know that the letters have been destroyed and her secrets are safe.

Doesn't Want Her to Suffer.

The Authorman takes a very kindly view of the case affecting him. He says that the woman probably told her friend she was writing for the magazines. Then the friends wanted to see what she wrote in print and as she had not yet gotten into print and felt embarrassed to say so, she said she was writing under a nom de plume. He urged upon mutual friend not to put the poor lady to shame by exposing her.

It's a funny trick though, isn't it? Just one more example of the sort of thing people will do to grab a bit of the spotlight for themselves.

Find Shrine of Ancient People.

What appears to have been a shrine of the prehistoric people of New Mexico has lately been discovered and is now being explored by a party from the American Museum of Natural History. It is a sealed room in the Pueblo ruin at Aztec, New Mexico.

Dr. Clark Wissler, curator of the Museum's department of anthropology, makes this report on the discovery:

"The room is in perfect condition. The interior is plastered and painted in a brilliant white with dull red side borders and a running series of triangular designs. No room approaching this in beauty and perfection has ever been discovered in America. There are several adjoining rooms that seem to have some relation to this, but it will be some time before they can be dug out.

"What we have is obviously the holiest sanctuary or shrine of those prehistoric people. A sacred serpent is carved in wood over the ceiling. It is two and a half feet long and of the finest workmanship. Nothing like this has ever before been found, to length. About 1,200 straight, beautiful poles of pine and cottonwood. Finally, there is not less than 100 cords of split cedar splints for covering the ceilings. All this wood was worked with stone."

TOLLING ON.

WINT MARCH

Each day I labor with my lyre, while neighbors go joy riding; my tears may fall, my hands may tremble, but work is all-oblivious. My joyous neighbors as they pass in every brand of lizzie, cry, "Come with us and burn some gas, and knock the speed laws dizzy!" When I have set this deathless ode upon the costly paper, in my tin car, along the road, you'll see me proudly caper. But not until the ode is done, and to the mails I've turned it; I don't believe in burning men before a fellow's earned it. Don't spend your unearned money yet, I beg you, gents and ladies! That is the road that leads to debt, and debt is simply Hades. I would not tool my pea-green car and leave my work neglected; the thought of that would surely mar such bliss as I'd expected. My pushcart doesn't leave its stall till all my tasks are ended, and then I scorch along the Mall in pomp that's truly splendid. Oh, then I feel I have the right to go around rip-tearing, and honk my horn throughout the night, and keep the peelers swearing.

THE BIG THING.

I've grieved a lot and fretted over things I've thought were great. I've whimpered when I've suffered 'neath the buffeting of fate. I've thought it most important that some dream or plan of mine should blossom to perfection to complete my life's design. But I've seen my hopes in ruin and my proudest structures fall. An I've learned they weren't the big things that I thought them, after all.

I've wondered what would happen should disaster come my way. I've thought my peace depended on the fortunes of a day. I used to think I couldn't stand the anguish of defeat. But I've always seemed to weather every storm I've had to meet; Oh, I've had to take my losses—some were great and some were small. But life isn't built on money, fame, or conquest, after all.

Friends have met me after failures with the same old handclasp true. An' my own have kept on lovin' 'spite of all I've failed to do; I have come through disappointments which I thought would leave me lame. But the losses didn't matter—this old world was just the same; There was gladness all about me, I could hear the children call. An' I found that I'd been frettin' over trifles, after all.

All that matters, when it's over an' the battle's won or lost, is the way it leaves your record, not its gold or silver cost. Man has honest cause for grievin' if his hands are black with shame. But to-morrow he'll be smilin' an' his world be just the same. Spite of failure an' disaster, if he has the strength to crawl! An' pride lights the home he's keepin'—that's the big thing, after all.

Implicating the Governor.

Whilst the Woodford Affidavit was merely a cause between the maker and the parties implicated only, public interest extended only so far as the "You did" and "We didn't" of the principals mentioned, the betting odds being in favor of the plurality of participants referred to as the makers of the resignation plus position agreement. The appointment of a Royal—which subsequently turned out to be a merely informal—Commission, added something to the situation, but the public were not loud in expressions that much out of the ordinary would happen. Nor did it in a certain way, but there were entirely unforeseen developments which placed the whole matter in a different aspect, and on a more personal plane than the allegations contained in the affidavit itself. Nothing was expected from the Commission of Enquiry in a general way, but certain extraneous matter was introduced by exalted witnesses involving other parties and implicating a no less august personage than the King's representative, His Excellency the Governor. Whether this was done with malice aforethought, or just transpired, it is not easy to determine, but if the public is to judge from the position held by a certain witness and his knowledge of legal procedure, it may be safely assumed that the introduction of other persons was not the result of accidental disclosures but was carefully premeditated and done with a purpose. No need to question that purpose. The testimony is by no means ambiguous nor involved. It states plainly and clearly certain things by no means creditable to the witness and reflecting seriously on the honor and integrity of others who were not the subject of either the affidavit or the enquiry to which it led up.

The introduction of the names of members of the late and previous executive governments, would not have aroused any great furore, because the witness thus introducing them had been a colleague for a period, and therefore was equally guilty of any political misdemeanors on the part of his contemporaries, during the time he held executive office, and if other members of the Government since 1917 are to be denounced then equal denunciation must fall on the present Prime Minister, who was, during that year, both Minister of Justice and Colonial Secretary, and therefore was fully cognizant of everything that was done in Council and out. Supporters, who hasten to exculpate the Prime Minister, appear to have the happy faculty of forgetting that one fact. In denying the statement of Mr. Woodford, made upon oath, the Prime Minister involved the high office and personality of His Excellency the Governor, without reason or excuse. His statement before the Commission is tantamount to the recognition, by the Governor, of the unfitness of his advisers previous to the date of the taking over of the Government by the Liberal Reform Party, and the evidence as given by the Prime Minister puts words into the mouth of His Excellency, which must be emphatically denied by either the Governor himself or his late advisers. Such words are nothing more or less than a direct accusation of political dishonesty against the personnel of Cabinets for some time previous to the present one, made by vice-royalty, and are altogether too significant to pass over or to be permitted to remain on record without contradiction. They are equally directed against many of the members of the new Government, as well as some who have gone out of executive office. The statement made by the Prime Minister was not in the heat of debate, nor in the course of legal argument. Hence his words are an offence to the Crown, to the representative of the Crown in this dominion, and their repudiation must come from that authority to which we all look upon as being sans peur et sans reproche.

Party newspapers made much of that statement of the Prime Minister, and a precis of it was telegraphed to every outpost for dissemination amongst the electorate, in order that all might know the purity of the motives of the Leader of the Government, and as a comparison of his political cleanliness against the slime of his predecessors in office. His whitewashing was of his own making, and though the personally applied coat may not be a fast colour, it will suffice for the moment. The ostrich, when in danger, sticks its head into the sand. Politicians of the ostrich type, perform similar antics. Just to show how the Honourable R. A. Squires implicated the Governor in the Woodford mess, the following is taken from the Harbor Grace Standard, which cannot be said to be hostile to the Squires Administration:

"To quote the words of Hon. R. A. Squires, given by him in his statement before the (Woodford) Commission: 'His Excellency the Governor took the position that if a man of high judicial repute as requested was to be brought from England, it should be for the purpose of enquiring into the purity of public life in Newfoundland generally and to cover a reasonable period of years, but that he was opposed personally to such a step. I was personally in favor of such an action. His Excellency the Governor informed me that from his knowledge of Newfoundland political conditions the last two or three years since he had been Governor, that he would consider it disastrous in the interests of Newfoundland abroad if there was any general enquiry covering a period of years involving the conduct of some of his late advisers and urged me to reconsider, and to urge the Council to reconsider the idea of having any such general enquiry.'"

GOVERNOR WILL ATTEND FETE.
His Excellency the Governor, who always takes a lively interest in the little orphans, has signified his intention of attending the big fete to-morrow afternoon. His Excellency will arrive at the grounds at 4 o'clock and if Miss Harris be in the city she also will attend. The grounds last evening presented a very busy scene. Fully a hundred men and as many ladies were present and a vast amount of work was performed. Mr. John Cosker was in charge, and in less than two hours the spacious field was made look like a gipsy town. During the afternoon the tables and stands kindly loaned by Mr. Cashel, were brought over, and at 7 Mr. Fred Reid arrived with a motor truck load of tents and soon everyone was busy. To-day Mr. Winsboro will wire the grounds so that they may be brilliantly lighted to-morrow night. The football medals have arrived from England and are beautiful. Sir Edgar Bowring's cup for the baseball is expected by the Sachem. The other prizes are well worth winning. Several of the ponies had a try-out last evening. This event will be run in the large meadow to the west of the Orphanage. The sports programme appears elsewhere in to-day's paper. A large number of competitors will take part. Mr. Higgins will referee the football games as usual. To-day Mr. Harvey Thomas will lay out the baseball diamond. Delicious teas will be served all the afternoon. The afternoon tea tables will be found on the pretty lawn in front of the Orphanage and the meat tea tables in the main field. Afternoon teas will be 50c, and meat teas only $1.00. To-morrow we will publish the names of the ladies presiding at the tea tables.

The other stalls will be in charge of the following ladies:
Fancy Table—The Managers.
Flowers and Market Stall—Mrs. Bolt and Miss Horwood.
Home Cookery—Mrs. (Hon.) Tarker Cook and Mrs. Shears.
Ice Cream—Mrs. H. Outerbridge.
Candy—Misses Browning.
Smokes—Mrs. N. Alderice.
Grab Stall—Mrs. Dr. Brehm.
Fancy League—Miss B. White and others.
Eggs and Flowers—Miss S. Green.
Guessing Beans—Misses Pike.
Putting—Mrs. C. McK. Harvey.
Drinks—Mr. Farnale.
Dancing—C.L.B.

Those who may not be able to attend can send their contributions to any of the ladies or gentlemen in charge. This evening, at 7 o'clock, those who worked so splendidly last evening will again visit the grounds to complete their work.

Express Trains Run Off Track.

The express which arrived at 10.30 last night, was delayed several hours at Heatherton, east of Robinson's, by the tender being derailed. The express which left here Sunday met with a mishap near Millertown Junction, where the baggage and two second class cars jumped the rails. No passengers were injured, and after a delay of several hours, the cars were again placed on the track.

Bunker Coal Shortage.

Owing to having no bunker coal, the s.s. Sagona has been delayed from sailing to the usual Labrador ports. A supply, however, has been secured and it is hoped that it can be transferred in time to allow the ship to sail to-morrow. The Prospero has gone to Sydney to load a cargo which has been arranged for by the Government.

League Football.

Last evening's football match between the Stars and Cadets was fairly well attended. A good game was put up by both teams and it looked as if the game would be a draw, as up to a few minutes before time, the score stood 1-1. Maddigan, of the Cadets, however, succeeded in finding the net just before the final whistle sounded and the score stood—Cadets 2, Star 1. Mr. E. Churchill was referee.

Long Towage Trip.

On this trip of the Sable I. she successfully towed the barge Allan III. from Sydney. The barge, which was loaded with 100 tons coal, is owned by the A.N.D. Co., and was in charge of Capt. Wes. Kean, who will be taken to Botwood.

Broke Plate Glass Window.

Last night an unknown motor car driving down New Gower Street turned a loose stone from the roadway which hit the plate glass window in M. Leah's fruit store, smashing it almost to pieces. The driver, evidently unconscious of the occurrence, proceeded on.

Inaugurating the Work.

His Excellency the Governor, His Grace the Archbishop, Sir E. R. Bowring and other prominent gentlemen have been invited to the place known as the Nun's Field, just west of St. George's Field, on the Merry Meeting Road, this afternoon to witness the starting of work on the houses for workmen, inaugurated by the Dominion Co-Operative Building Society, of which Hon. John Anderson was the sponsor.

Loading Supplies.

FOR TERRA NOVA SULPHIDE CO.
The S. S. Herbert Green is at the terminus wharf, North Sydney, completing her cargo which includes eight car loads of bridging and other material for the Terra Nova Sulphide Co. at Alexander Bay. The Company now has a large gang of men, some four or five hundred, employed in initial work preparatory to the erection of a large pulp and paper mill, second only in size and capacity to the ones at Grand Falls. It is understood that a spur will be built from Alexander Bay, which is an arm of Miracle Lake, to Glovertown and tide water. A bridging about 200 yards long will be built across the Terra Nova river. The Company own large blocks of timber lands. Forests free did considerable havoc among this during the present summer, and it is calculated that over 200,000 cords of pulp wood were destroyed by the flames. The new operations will mean much to Glovertown as well as to the surrounding district. There are now five saw mills of various size in Glovertown and these are being kept busily employed. Shipbuilding has been undertaken, and recently a ninety ton schooner was launched for service along the Labrador. For company construction purposes over half a million brick have been taken down, besides several cargoes of cement and other materials. The Herbert Green will make at least two more trips down with full cargoes for the company.

Launched at Shelburne For Burin Firm.

Shelburne, Aug. 5.—Another fine new tern schooner was launched today from the shipyard of Shelburne Shipbuilders, Ltd. Her name is Roy Bruce, and she was built for Capt. Robert F. Hollett, of Burin, Nfld. She is 196 tons register. She is splendidly built and equipped, classing 12 years in Bureau Veritas. She is being rigged and made ready for business, and will engage in fish carrying and other foreign trade.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Aug. 10.
We have just opened a line of superior tooth brushes. As is well known, during the war, it was increasingly difficult to obtain tooth brushes of respectable quality. Now, however, the market has eased up a little bit, and it is again possible to secure stocks, though of course at considerably advanced prices. To the many who during the last few years, have been longing for a decent tooth brush we recommend this selection.

Late Telegram Reporter Heard From.

In a letter received by last mail from Mr. J. R. Smallwood, late of the Telegram staff, and now attached to the Halifax Herald, he says:—
I met Sir Patrick McGrath and Hon. Alex. Mews, when they were here a few days ago with the Press Conference, and naturally, was glad to see them and hear the news from the "inside," as it were. He met some of the biggest newspapermen of the world, also, and that meeting such men was very interesting. Lord Burnham, Viscount Apsley, Sir Stuart Campbell, Sir Robert Bruce and Sir Frank Newnes were probably the most interesting of the lot, although many others were men worth meeting. To hear Viscount Apsley tell about his paper, the London Morning Post and about its history, was an experience worth having. Sir Frank Newnes, who owns The-Bits, was every bit as interesting, too. The pressmen were out to North West Arm, a beauty spot here. He came back with them by water, and it was one of the best trips he ever had. He was to that big, momentous meeting of the shareholders of the Dominion Steel Corporation, which afforded an opportunity of meeting big men, this time of Canada. Following the meeting there was a luncheon. Some of the men were Roy M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corp., capitalized at $500,000,000, Sir William Mackenzie, one of the big men of the Canadian government, J. W. Norcross, president of the Canada Steamships, D. H. MacDougall, Sir Clifford Sifton, Sir William Reid and others too numerous to mention. "Imagine me, if you can, sitting between Sir Clifford Sifton and Sir William Reid, with Norcross opposite me, and all three conversing in terms of more millions than I had dollars!" He met Hon. Alex. Campbell a few days ago. He came on the Rosalind and later left for Souris, P.E.I., to spend a vacation there. He is running up against Newfoundlanders in Halifax every day, and in the most unexpected manner. Many people have told him that at least a third of the people in Halifax are Newfoundlanders—but he thinks they exaggerate the percentage. Mr. Smallwood says he don't know exactly how long he shall remain in Halifax—probably another three months. Then he intends to go to Winnipeg, Manitoba, and stay there until about February of next year, from Winnipeg he will go out to the coast, to Vancouver, and from there to Seattle, Washington. From there he will work his way across the American continent to all old friends, especially members of the Telegram staff.

Broad Cove Regatta.

The annual Regatta at Broad Cove, takes place on to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, Aug. 11th. The first race will start at 2 o'clock. There will be about five or six races during the afternoon and each race will be evenly contested. The men from the Iron Isle are said to be in great training, while the Horse Cove "hardies" intend to "win or bust and the crews from Topsail, Portugal Cove and Broad Cove will keep up their old reputation. All the prizes have been collected and the winning crews will receive something worth while. Special arrangements have been made for catering to the St. John's people. Teas will be served at Mrs. Solomon Squires', Mrs. F. Tucker and Mrs. Augustus Squires. No doubt there will be a large attendance at the Broad Cove Regatta this year.

New Overland 4 with Three-Point Springs Lessens Motor Car "Rough Riding"

ALL that goes up must come down—but why go up? With the new Overland 4 Motor Car the wheels and springs go up and down, following the bumps and roughness of the road, but car and passengers are remarkably free from ordinary jolts and jars.

The exclusive new Three-Point Cantilever Springs in Overland 4 establish an entirely new standard of light car riding comfort.

Instead of twisting, swaying, jolting, bouncing, vibrating—instead of rough riding, the passengers in the new Overland 4 glide smoothly along.

The spring attachment at the ends of a 130-inch (3.3m) Springbase secures for this car of 100-inch (2.54m) wheelbase the steadiness and road holding ability of a heavy car of long wheelbase. Overland 4's equipment is complete.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES NEURALGIA.

To-day's Messages.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 9.
What is believed to be a record passage across the Atlantic for a thirty six foot yawl was made by the Typhoon, which arrived this morning, after making a non-stop run, it is claimed, from Cape Race, Newfoundland, to Bishop's Rock, Sicily Islands, a distance of two thousand one hundred miles, in fifteen days and nine hours. The passengers on the boat were Frederick Baldwin of Toronto, James Dorset of Washington, and William Duttin of New York. They said they encountered heavy seas and came through well, claiming a record passage in their effort to reach Cowes in time for the International Motor Boat Races, which begin here to-morrow.

HOSTILE PRESS COMMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 9.
Newspapers of many shades of opinion find themselves in agreement in condemning the Government's handling of Archbishop Mannix. The Northcliffe papers, with the Daily Express and Daily News declare that the Government's persecution has endowed him with martyrdom, the Times adding that the Government's attitude seems dictated by fear, even though this prelate is generally discredited.

CRIMES BILL PASSES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.
The House of Lords read the Irish Crimes Bill to-day for the second time, without division, and the Royal Assent was afterwards given.

BRITISH BOLSHEVISTS PROTEST.

LONDON, Aug. 9.
Premier Lloyd George presided over an all cabinet council on his return to the city to-night from his Hythe conference with Premier Millerand. He told his colleagues the result of the conference, and discussed its bearings in connection with the statement, which is to be made to Parliament by him to-morrow. The Independent Liberals held a meeting in the House of Commons to-night, and passed a resolution protesting against any intervention against Russia by way of blockade, men, money or munitions.

LABOR'S DENUNCIATION.

LONDON, Aug. 9.
War between the Allied Powers and Soviet Russia over Poland, would be "an intolerable crime against humanity," and British labor has warned the British Government that organized labor will be used to defeat such a war. This decision was reached to-day at a meeting of the most prominent of the leaders of British labor, who later issued the following statement: "This Conference feels certain that such a war is being engineered between the Allied Powers and Soviet Russia on the issue of Poland, and it declares that such a war would be an intolerable crime against humanity. It therefore warns the Government that the whole industrial power of organized workers will be used to defeat this war." It was resolved by the conference to take such steps as may be necessary to carry the above decision into effect. The statement advised all labor organizations to be prepared to send their leaders to London to instruct their members to lay down their tools. A committee of action, appointed by the meeting, will see Lloyd George at noon to-morrow. The conference which represented the whole field of labor, is regarded as having presented an ultimatum to the Government threatening direct action.

A WAITING POLICY.

HYTHE, Aug. 9.
The Hythe Conference, hurriedly called Sunday, to consider means for saving Poland from the Bolshevik menace, ended to-day with an agreement between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand, on the aid to be given the new Polish State. After the Premier had decided to reimpose the blockade on Russia, and to furnish munitions and technical advice to Poland, Lloyd George succeeded in getting M. Millerand to consent to withhold the application of aid until after the preliminary results of the conference at Minsk, between Bolshevik and Polish representatives, are known. M. Millerand, who had been firm in urging a French policy, which included blockade and strong defensive measures, was obliged to yield somewhat to the milder policy of Lloyd George, who was determined that no Allied troops should be used in Poland. The establishment of a defensive line in Poland, which was considered by the conference, if carried out according to opinion expressed here, would be regarded by British and French as more than a plan to defend Poland. It would, in effect, "be a cordon sanitaire" to keep the Bolshevik from Western Europe, but from what happened at the closing moments of the conference, it is considered that much will depend upon the Bolshevik at Minsk.

IRONICAL THANKS.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 10.
A large meeting of Irishmen, convened to protest against the Government's treatment of Archbishop Mannix, passed a resolution thanking the Government "for helping the cause of Ireland by its action toward Archbishop Mannix." It was stated that the publicity given the Mannix incident saved the propaganda funds thousands of pounds.

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX IN LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 10.
Archbishop Mannix arrived here at six o'clock this morning, and was met by only a handful of Priests and a few followers. Only a few people knew he was to arrive at an early hour. He was driven to the home of a Priest in the suburbs.

TURKS DELAY TREATY.

PARIS, Aug. 10.
The signature of the Turkish Peace Treaty, already delayed several times, is again postponed, this time it is reported because the Turks stipulate that Allies be in agreement.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

PARIS, Aug. 10.
Russians have captured Ciechanow, thus cutting the Warsaw-Danzig railway, according to reports received by the Foreign Office to-day.

OUT OF COMMISSION.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.
Five captive German warships arrived here yesterday, and, after being exhibited twelve months, will be sunk.

The Price of Berries.

Whorts or blue berries of which a plentiful crop is reported were selling in the city to-day from 80 cents to $1.20 per gallon. Green squashes are selling for $1 per gallon. Somebody should call out the Consumers League.

Coastal Boats.

GOVERNMENT.
The S. S. Prospero has gone to Louisburg for a coal cargo. No word had been received from the Portia up to this forenoon.

FRED H. ELLIS & CO.
S.S. Susu sails at 6 p.m. to-day.
CROSBIE & CO.
S.S. Earl of Devon sails at noon to-morrow for Cook's Harbor.

REIDS'

St. Brelade's, Jersey, Will Return Colors of Nfld. Fencibles.

A debt of gratitude is owed St. Edgar R. Bowring, High Commissioner for Newfoundland in London, the Newfoundland Government, Henry F. Shortis and the Newfoundland Historical Society for the success which has attended their efforts in getting the banners of the Newfoundland Fencible Regiment, returned to this Dominion. As will be seen by the subjoined correspondence of the Dean of St. Brelade's Church, has consented to these historic colours becoming the property of Newfoundland, on certain conditions which are clearly defined in the concluding letter of the series.

Dominion of Newfoundland
High Commissioner's Offices,
58 Victoria Street,
Westminster, S.W. 1.

March 17th, 1920.
Dear Mr. Shortis.—Thank you for your letters of Jan. 22nd and Feb. 21st. It is a great satisfaction to me to know that the trophies obtained by this office were acceptable to the good people of St. John's.

Since last writing to you, I have had a very nice and most interesting letter from the Rev. John A. Balleine, Rector of St. Brelade, Jersey, Channel Islands, and I am enclosing now for your perusal a copy of his communication. You will observe that Mr. Balleine has gone to some trouble on our behalf to obtain the views of those in whose custody the Newfoundland Banners have been held for a long time. He has ascertained that no objection is offered to returning the Banners to the Government of Newfoundland, but they will not agree so readily to transferring the flags to any private Society or Association.

This is a difficulty that should be very easily overcome, in my opinion, and I am accordingly asking the Colonial Secretary to interest himself in the matter, and probably you will like to get in touch with Mr. Mews to obtain the views of the Government. There will be some expense involved, of course, in the removal of the Banners and I presume no objection will be raised to the suggestion put forward by the Rector that a brass plate should be substituted at the expense of Newfoundland when the flags are removed and returned to the Dominion.

I have not yet been able to obtain a reply from Bristol, but will send a reminder and will keep you informed as to how things proceed from time to time.

Meanwhile I shall be glad to have your views on the above matter. With kind regards,
Yours sincerely,
EDGAR R. BOWRING,
High Commissioner for Nfld.
H. F. Shortis, Esq.,
Secty. Nfld. Historical Society,
St. John's, Newfoundland.

(Enclosure.)
St. Brelade Rectory,
Jersey,
January 22nd, 1920.

Dear Sir.—Your letter of the 11th ult., has been transmitted to me by the Dean of Jersey.

The statement on behalf of the "Historical Society in Newfoundland" that two banners, formerly belonging to the "Regiment of Newfoundland Fencibles" are hanging in our Parish Church, is quite accurate. At the request of the late General Pison, C.B., to whom they had come as an heirloom, they were placed there in the year 1882. In our ecclesiastical archives I find the following entry: "On the 14th September, 1882, the Flags of the Newfoundland Fencible Regiment, formerly commanded by Major Elias Pison, were placed in the hands of the Rector and Churchwardens of the Parish of St. Brelade by Major General P. G. Pison, C.B., R. Artillery, nephew of the said Major Elias Pison, to remain in their custody and in that of their successors in the said Parish."

(Note by Major General Pison follows: "I have been trying to get some account of these colors, but have failed. All I know is that the colors are those of the "N. F. R." which was disbanded, or converted into the "Newfoundland Companies" in the early part of this century. My uncle, Major Pison, was in command at the time and the colors evidently became his property.")

I submitted your letter to a meeting of our parochial ecclesiastical authorities last week, and also interviewed the daughters of the late General Pison. Both parties agree that while they would offer no objection to the return of the banners to the Government of Newfoundland, they hesitate to give a final decision until they have ascertained the status of the "Historical Society."

Is there any possibility, however remote, of that body ceasing to exist and of the banners eventually being neglected or lost?

Before the removal of the banners from our church could be effected, a faculty, incurring some expense, would have to be obtained from our local Ecclesiastical Court, and our authorities also suggest that a brass-plate, indicating the reason of the return of the banners to Newfoundland should be placed in the church.

May I therefore ask for the information required?

Meanwhile, believe me to be,
Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) JOHN A. BALLEINE,
Rector of St. Brelade, Jersey.

GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSE.

Dept. of Colonial Secretary,
St. John's, Nfld.,
3rd August, 1920.

Sir.—Referring to your letter of the 26th May, covering copy of Resolution passed by the Historical Society of Newfoundland relative to certain Banners of the Newfoundland Fencibles, now in the Church of St. Brelade, Jersey, I have the honour to intimate that the Government have instructed the High Commissioner, London, to arrange for the return to Newfoundland of these banners, and the payment of the expenses in connection with the same, as well as of a brass plate, explanatory of the event, which will be erected in the church at Jersey.

The proposal of the Government is that these banners shall be in charge of the Government authorities, and be placed in the Museum under proper keepership, and with a detailed statement, setting forth so far as possible, all the circumstances in connection with these banners.

I feel sure that this action of the Government will commend itself to the members of your Society.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
ARTHUR MEWS,
Deputy Colonial Secretary.
H. F. Shortis, Esq.,
Corresponding Secretary,
Historical Society of Nfld.

Syrians Welcome Their Archbishop.

Distinguished Visitor Much Impressed With Our Scenery.

A mass meeting of the Syrian residents of St. John's was held on Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. John Basha, where they were met by His Grace Archbishop Court, the Syrian Prelate, who is travelling the Western Hemisphere in the religious as well as national interest of the people of Syria, to all of whom his literary will be a source of pleasure combined with spiritual as well as material profit. His Grace addressed the people at some length as to the position of Mount Lebanon and Syria during the progress of and since the war, and urged the determination of all to secure the perpetual freedom of the Fatherland to which all are deeply attached. As a result of the meeting three cables were despatched to the Delegate of the Patriarch of Syria, residing at Paris, affirming that the Syrian residents of the Dominion of Newfoundland are at one with their compatriots of the Homeland and the others exiled in different parts of the world in claiming complete independence for their country under the protection of France. All present signed the cable representation and great enthusiasm was manifested.

After the meeting His Grace, accompanied by Rev. Father South, visited the residence of Mr. A. G. Andrews, New Gower Street, and bestowed his blessing on the home and family. Mr. Andrews afterwards taking the visiting ecclesiastical and some friends for a drive in the suburbs. They motored to Topsail Road and on to Mount Pearl, where the big Marconi Station was inspected, and His Grace was very favorably impressed with all he saw, being particularly delighted with the scenic beauties of the landscape and commenting frequently on the bracing Newfoundland air and the invigorating climate. Time and again he ordered the car to go very slowly so that he could view the scenery at greater leisure. Bowring Park was visited and again the visiting prelate praised the beauties of the place. Motoring to the highest point on the Southside Road the city beheld a magnificent picture in the scenery which lay below. The city in the distance, lit up by the rays of the setting sun, and the harbor's shipping, greatly impressed His Grace who said he would never forget the scenic beauties of St. John's and the suburbs. Return from the Southside being made His Grace and party were entertained at dinner at the hospitable home of Mr. Kaleem Noah, Water Street West. Besides notable Syrians there were present Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, Minister of Finance and Customs, W. J. Higgins, Esq., K.C., and other prominent citizens, and all spent a very pleasant few hours. At 10 o'clock farewell speeches of a very fluent and emotional character were made by Messrs. A. G. Andrews and George Noah, to which His Grace, who is a linguist of high attainments, made a feeling and fitting reply. Before the Archbishop withdrew a beautifully worded and artistically wrought address in Syrian was read by Mr. Andrews, and Mr. Kaleem Noah, for the people, presented the distinguished churchman with a substantial purse of gold. His Grace made an eloquent reply, thanking all for their courtesy, generosity and hospitality, and gave all his blessing, after which he was driven to the Palace. He left for Bell Island yesterday morning and thence embarked by steamer en route to Quebec.

Huge Sugar Beet Crop is Expected.

Washington, Aug. 5.—(Associated Press)—Sugar production from sugar beets this year is forecasted at 2,007,000,000 pounds by the department of agriculture, basing its estimate on the condition of the crop on July 1. It will be a record crop. Last year 1,453,000,000 pounds were produced from sugar beets and the average production for the five years, 1914-18 was 1,577,000,000 pounds.

GAVE HIM NEW LEASE OF LIFE, SAYS VETERAN

Raymond Sampson Received Surprise Of His Life At The Way Tanlac Brought Back His Strength.

Still another veteran of the recent world war to come forward and testify to the remarkable benefits he has received from Tanlac is Raymond Sampson, of 17 Lower Water Street, Halifax. Mr. Sampson went overseas from Halifax with the 3rd Division, and saw active service in France until gassed during the fall of 1918. Here is what he has to say: "I was gassed during 1918, and since then my stomach and nerves have been in a terribly bad condition. I was in the hospital about a year, and was finally removed home in December of 1919. I had no appetite at all, and what little I did eat fermented in my stomach, and caused gas to form in such quantities that I had great difficulty in breathing. I had terrible spells of nausea, and such severe headaches that often I could hardly keep going. My nerves were so upset I couldn't get any good sound sleep, and felt tired and worn-out all the time. My work down at the naval dockyards became such an effort to me that I thought I was going to have to give up my job, and I became very much discouraged as I could find nothing that would help me.

"I kept on hearing so much about the remarkable good Tanlac was doing everywhere that I made up my mind to try it, and I want to say right now it's simply surprising the way three bottles of the medicine has built me up. My appetite is just fine now. I'm never troubled with indigestion or gas, and my breathing is free and easy. I no longer have those awful spells of nausea, and headaches are altogether a thing of the past. My nerves are as steady as a clock, and I just sleep like a top. Why, I've regained all my lost strength and energy, and simply feel that I've obtained a new lease on life."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Balne Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewa.—adv.

Daring Adventurers.

Essay to Cross Atlantic in 45-Foot Sloop—Nineteen Days Out From Cape Breton.

Baddeck, Aug. 6.—WILLIAM PINAULT, builder of the yacht Typhoon, has absolutely no fears for the safety of Casey Baldwin, William Washburn Nutting and Jim Dorsett, of whom nothing has been heard in the nineteen days since they set out from Cape Breton to cross the Atlantic in their forty-five foot sloop.

He does not think it in the least strange that they have not been reported by passing craft; nor does he see any significance in their failure to call at St. Pierre de Miquelon to report progress.

"The Typhoon is not likely to be sailing on a regular steamship route, so fact they planned to take a course far north of the Atlantic steamship lines," he told a correspondent who interviewed him at Baddeck Thursday morning.

"As to the yacht, herself, she is a very staunch and seaworthy boat, manned by an excellent crew. She was constructed to stand all the vicissitudes of an ordinary Atlantic passage, and since she sailed there has been nothing in the weather to test her seaworthiness to any extent."

"All three of her crew are first class sailors, and Dorsett particularly is a fully qualified navigator."

It is learned at Baddeck that the time set for the passage by the adventurers has not yet expired by three days. They planned to be 22 days on the voyage, which would bring them to Cowes, Isle of Wight, on August 8th, to take part in the regatta there on the 10th.

They figured that they would need two days to change the top hamper of the sloop from her ocean rig to the lighter outfit required for racing.

Meanwhile the relatives of the crew at Baddeck are not worrying about their safety. The general opinion is that they have kept clear of the steamship lanes and have thus escaped being reported by passing vessels.

It is confidently predicted that with the fine weather which has prevailed since July 17th, they have made excellent progress under sail and power and are probably now almost within sight of their destination.

A cablegram announcing their safe arrival on the other side would not surprise Baddeck at any moment now.

(As will be seen from the public news despatches, the predictions of Baddeck have been verified, Typhoon having arrived safely at Cowes, Isle of Wight, and will enter for the International Motor Boat Races, beginning to-day. Ed. Telegram.)

An ideal antiseptic foot powder for hot, tender perspiring feet. Dr. Scholl's Foot Powder is sprinkled on the feet and in the stockings and shoes, giving a cool, restful feeling. Takes away the friction of the shoe and stocking upon the foot and has truly antiseptic, deodorizing qualities. Put up in an original shaped attractive can which makes it convenient for reaching either the tip of the toe of the shoe or the foot of the stocking. Dr. Scholl's Foot Powder should be used by all. It is a true medicinal and toilet necessity of great merit. Price per can, 35c.

DR. SCHOLL'S PEDICO FOOT BALM.

This is a soothing, cooling and healing cream-like preparation which should be rubbed well into the skin. It is refreshing and penetrating and relieves various foot discomforts and keeps the feet in good condition. It tones up the foot muscles, making them respond more freely, and leaves the feet as smooth and soft as nature intended. Prior to this treatment we strongly recommend bathing the feet, using Pedico Granulated Foot Soap to cleanse the pores of all impurities. Price 35c. per jar.

DR. SCHOLL'S PEDICO FOOT SOAP.

Blood circulation is slowest at extremities and careful attention to the feet is absolutely necessary, particularly regular washing with a real cleanser. Washing with ordinary soap and water is not sufficient to deodorize, purify and thoroughly cleanse the feet. Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Soap is chemically compounded in granular form in order that the rubbing massages the tissue and increases blood circulation thereby. Cleanses the pores of the skin of all impurities, leaving the feet soft, smooth and healthy. After this bath, feet should be dried and a little Dr. Scholl's Pedico Foot Balm applied. Price 35c. per can.

Millions of Germs

Breed in Tooth Film—Keep It Off

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Film Wrecks the Teeth

THAT slimy film which you feel with your tongue causes most tooth troubles. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. In crevices and elsewhere that film clings. That is why your brushing fails to keep teeth white, free from tartar, clean and safe.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So all these troubles have been increasing despite the wide use of the tooth brush.

Dental science, after years of search, has found a film combatant. Able authorities have simply proved this by careful clinical tests. Leading dentists everywhere now urge its daily use.

The method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we offer a 10-Day Tube free now to everyone for home tests.

See the Results, Then Decide

The results of Pepsodent are quickly apparent. Some are instant. We ask you to see them—watch them ten days—then decide for yourself about them.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has discovered a harmless, activating method. The inventor has been granted patents by five governments already. It is that invention which makes possible this efficient film combatant.

Mainly About People.

Sir Thomas Lipton was close to 50 years old when he made his first attempt to lift the America's cup. This year he is 70. His full name, by the way, is Thomas Johnstone Lipton.

Senorita Raquel Miller, a young Spanish singer who has taken London by storm, was a poor sewing girl in Barcelona when her marvellous voice was discovered.

Miss Gladys Unger, the clever English playwright, who has married her Persian collaborator, Mr. Kai Ardasher, wrote her first play when she was seven, and in later years has been more than twenty of her plays produced on the London stage.

William K. Vanderbilt, whose death was recently reported from Paris, leaves two sons, Harold and W. K., and one daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough. Young William K. Howells the "Jr." from his name. Like the younger Rockefeller, he has received a thorough training in business matters and is a hard worker, fully prepared and qualified to step into the responsibilities of head of the family. He holds directorships in more than 50 of the country's greatest corporations. His middle initial, K., stands for Kissam. The wife of William K. Vanderbilt was Maria L. Kissam.

Miss Julia Lathrop, of Chicago, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau at Washington, has returned from Europe and says she is glad to be home. The conditions in central Europe, she says, are unbelievably painful. "There is no peace in central Europe. Everywhere there is hatred, distrust, fear and suspicion, intrigue, unrest, uncertainty, discomfort and want," she is quoted as saying by a writer in the Chicago Tribune. Miss Lathrop visited Poland, Roumania, Hungary, Jugo-Slavia and Czechoslovakia.

The air of mystery enveloping the removal of the "plant wizard," Luther Burbank, to a San Francisco sanitarium, following a serious illness, typifies, in a way, his own somewhat mysterious personality and work as a naturalist. The man's methods and discoveries have been printed in 12 volumes, yet to the average American he remains as picturesque and inexplicable as some medieval magician, says a writer in the Philadelphia Press, who continues: "Reckoning his achievements by rank of practical benefit to mankind, the two highest are probably the thornless cactus, which was rendered edible and used most successfully in the west as cat-tle fodder, and the seedless orange. His experiments with apples, stone-lesse prunes, peaches, nuts and berries produced some remarkable results."

"The president of the Royal Academy told this curious story at Dulwich College garden party," says the London Morning Post. "A lady in America, feeling ill, consulted her physician, who failed to diagnose her malady, but advised a visit to Europe. While in London she sat for her portrait to Mr. John Sargent, and the canvas was sent on to her family in New York. Among those who saw it was the physician. Having looked at it carefully, he declared, 'Now I know what her illness is.' This is the story as told to Sir Aston Webb by Alma-Tadema. And E. A. Abbey, who was present at the same time, corroborated it, with the name of the lady, and the further information that on her return to the States she died of the malady which all unconsciously Mr. Sargent had revealed."

While in Paris Mary Pickford-Fairbanks discovered that many men used perfume, according to one correspondent. "I always liked men who used perfume," Mary said in Paris the other day. "I wish American men would use perfume, too. If Americans had masculine perfumes, I believe American men would use them. You know there are both masculine and feminine perfumes."

Autograph hunting sometimes proves a most profitable pursuit. Ludovic Picard, a French Bohemian of the fifties, made a steady income out of it for several years. One of his most successful coups was accomplished with a letter in which he posed as "a member of the unhappy race of the unappreciated who is meditating suicide and seeks for counsel and aid in this hour of sore distress." This drew a number of celebrities, including Beranger and Heine. Lacordaire sent him ten closely written pages, which were promptly converted into cash. Dickens also fell a victim to his wiles and took the trouble to answer him in French. Eventually Picard was shown up in the press by Jules Candau and had to seek another occupation.

The Roosevelt ideal of many children to a family continues to prevail among bearers of that famous name. Recent group photos show five offspring surrounding Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for Vice-President; while four Roosevelt children appear in the family group of young Theodore, son of the former president.

Baden-Powell, England's famous soldier, hates cigarettes. He is quoted as saying he "fears cigarettes will lower the 'grit' of Englishmen."

Fay Stevenson, writing in the N. Y. World, says: "Recent bulletins disclose the fact that the Mikado of Japan has been ill for some time and for the last few months, it is reported, insane. He has been removed from Tokyo to an isolated retreat and cannot attend ceremonies or grand audiences to Japanese or foreigners. Official bulletins say he has lost the use of his legs and is unable to speak clearly."

Some women are of opinion that it is hopelessly bad style to kiss in public. If they had seen Queen Mary embracing her relations at a recent public ceremony they would know that Her Majesty does not agree with them. The Queen kissed Princess Christian, Princess Arthur of Connaught, Lady Hillington's children, and any friend who came along.

Among the theatrical souvenirs at the Karisno Theatre on Tagg's Island, Hampton Court, is a framed letter from Charlie Chaplin to his old employer, Mr. Fred Karno. The letter starts "Dear Governor," and goes on to explain why, at his present magnificent salary, Charlie is unwilling to take another engagement in the English music halls. Hanging close to this letter is a 1910 play-bill of a music-hall at Exeter, where the stars were Mr. Harry Weidon and Miss Marie Lloyd, and on which Charlie Chaplin's name occurs in the smallest of type.

The head of the Harding family is not the American presidential nominee himself. He told his visitors so at Marlow, O., last week. In introducing them to Mrs. Harding he said, "This is the head of the family."

Treasures of the Murdered Czar.

A handsome fan, bought by the murdered Czar of Russia as a love token for the Czarina, the first time the Royal couple visited Paris after their wedding; a baptismal bowl, 1,100 years old, from which all members of the Royal family were baptized, are souvenirs of terrible interest.

These, together with several bracelets belonging to the Czarina, and a number of other intimate trinkets owned by the unfortunate Czarina and her daughters, are now in the possession of Rev. Dr. John Logan Findlay, pastor of Old South Church, Worcester, Mass., and are stored away in a local bank for safekeeping.

These articles were all purchased by the Rev. Dr. Findlay from runcrazed soldiers of the Kerensky regime as they staggered out of the great Winter Palace, in Petrograd, heavily laden with all kinds of property owned by the Czar, the Czarina and her children.

The soldiers had looted the palace from the cellar to the roof, and seemed to take especial joy in the various trinkets and baubles found in the apartments of the Czarina and her unfortunate daughters.

The ancient baptismal bowl is small, of silver, with an exquisite flower design on its exterior, which is carried out on the centre-piece inside the bowl. The flower motif is inlaid in gold leaf on a rich, old-blue enamel background, with the petals of the flowers, which number hundreds, set in pearls and other precious stones. Tiffany, of New York, recently valued this treasure at $2,000.

A Gorgeous Object.

The most gorgeous object of the collection is the large fan. The long white feathers are mounted on carefully selected mother-of-pearl sticks. On one corner of the fan is a coffee strain, the story of which was told to Dr. Findlay by Tatiana, the second daughter of the Czar, not long before her tragic death. The stain came upon the fan at a reception which the Czarina attended, and she was greatly distressed at the accident, which, however, does not affect the valuation of the fan, which Tiffany put at $5,000.

Two quaint silver bracelets, six hundred years old, which were taken by a soldier from the Czarina's apartments, are also in the collection. The old-fashioned design of the engraving, as well as the shape of the bracelets, bespeaks their antiquity.

Included in the historic curios are a knife, fork and skewer, said to be among the first made in Europe. The short ivory handles are oddly engraved, and all three show beauty of design and proportion. These were among the curios at the Winter Palace.

Two heart-shaped boxing irons are other objects of interest in Dr. Findlay's collection, not for their beauty but for the use to which they were put in olden days. With one of them in the palm of each hand, two combatants often decided the issues between armies—a custom which at least prevented great sacrifices of human life.

Luxurious Towels.

Two towels, about three yards in length, with deep borders suggestive of Turkish design and color, complete the collection. The towels are more than two hundred years old and in excellent condition. In speaking of them Dr. Findlay referred to the custom of Russia of never touching the embroidery on towels; only the plain cloth is used for the purpose for which the towel is intended.

In telling of the purchase of his treasures, Dr. Findlay said:

"In November, 1917, the great Bolshevik revolution started and Kerensky fled to Finland for his life and many of his Cabinet were assassinated. The reign of terror started with thousands killed in Petrograd and Moscow. Over 47,000 troops were not paid for months. Trotsky and Lenin, both of whom I met many times, as well as Kerensky, gave permission that the soldiers might clean up the wine cellar of the Winter Palace for one week. No one was safe on the streets of Petrograd during that week. Then followed the permission given to the soldiers to enter the palace and take whatever they could carry away in a burlap sack."

Senator Harding's father is quoted as saying Warren memorized the whole Columbian School speaker when he was a boy.

Memorial Service.

AT ST. SWITHUN'S CHURCH, WOODBURY.

The ancient church of St. Swithun, Woodbury, Devonshire, England, is well known to many people in St. John's, and these will be interested in learning that on the last Sunday in June there was held in the sacred structure "a festival of proud sorrow" for the Woodbury parishioners, the village having contributed its full share to the striving and sacrifice which made victory in the late war possible. "Sunday, June 27th," says the Devon and Exeter Daily Gazette, "was the day fixed for the dedication by the Lord Bishop of Exeter of the memorial organ, tablet, and screen set up in the parish church of St. Swithun to commemorate the sacrifice of over 30 lives of the village who laid down their lives. The organ is a two-manned instrument of fine tone, built by Messrs. Brindley and Foster, of Sheffield, while the screen is of very handsome design, beautifully carved in Devon grown oak, and in harmony with the date of the north aisle, in which it is placed. On a centre panel in gold lettering appear the names of the fallen, with a laurel wreath overhead, while on either side stands an angel bearing the palm of victory and the symbol of prayer. Along the cornice, are carved angelic figures with varied instruments of music, those over the doorway being singers. Above this is the oak carving to the organ front. Mr. J. B. Hunt, of Plymouth, has interpreted in a masterly way the designs of the architect, Mr. Harbottle Reed, M.B.E., F.R.I.B.A., of Exeter. The cost of the work, about £1,060, has been raised by the people of the parish.

The robed clergy present, in addition to the Lord Bishop, were the Vicar (the Rev. R. H. Neely), the Revs. H. B. Clark (Rural Dean), R. Lewis (Woodbury Salterton), and A. Bishop (Topsham). Mr. H. T. Gilbert (organist, F.R.C.O., L. Mus., T.C.L., organist of St. Sidwell, Exeter) presided at the organ, and the singing of the choir was very effective and beautiful. There was a large congregation, which included many relatives of the fallen, who were accommodated in the north aisle, while the considerable body of ex-Services men present were in command of Col. Mardon, with whom was Col. Massfield, C.B. Several handsome floral tributes were arranged on the chancel screen, the church decorated with greenery, and the pillars draped with flags.

The service, which consisted of a shortened Evensong, opened with the appropriate hymn "Hark, hark, my soul, angelic songs are swelling." Psalms 23 and 150 were sung, while the first Lesson (Wisdom III, 1-6) was read by the Rev. A. Bishop, and the second Lesson (Rev. XXI) by the Vicar. The hymn "Glorious things of Thee are spoken" preceded the sermon, after which the Lord Bishop unveiled the tablet, and the "Last Post" and "Reveille" was impressively sounded by four trumpeters of the R.G.A. from Topsham Barracks. The solo "O rest in the Lord," was sung by a member of the choir of Exeter Cathedral, and other hymns sung were "Ye holy angels bright" and "Oh, what the joy and the glory must be." After the Blessing, the National Anthem was sung, and Mr. Gilbert gave a fine rendering of the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The inscription on the tablet is as follows:—"With grateful hearts, and praying that the names on this tablet may be written in Heaven, the people of Woodbury have set up this memorial organ and screen in honour of their men who served and died in the Great War, 1914-1919 for the defence of us, our Church, and homes. 'We praise Thee, O God.'"

During the war 250 Woodbury men served with the Colours, and the village subscribed the sum of over £10,000 to the War Loan.

Crimes That Made History.

Most of the great crimes in history have been committed in the sacred name of Law and Justice!

Had Julius Caesar not been the victim of his friends' envy, the whole course of modern history might have been changed.

Had the poor little princes not been murdered in the Tower, another line of kings might have governed England.

A particularly unjust execution was that of Sir Walter Raleigh. He was a charming and accomplished man, endowed with many gifts. He was unjustly convicted of treason and sent to the Tower, after being relieved at the last moment. He spent close on fourteen years in captivity, and was then released. Then he went on an expedition to Guiana, and on his return was summarily beheaded.

The tragic story of Anne Boleyn is surely one of the most poignant crimes in history. When she became the wife of Henry VIII, she was universally acclaimed. For only three years did she enjoy her popularity. She was executed on Tower Green, for alleged unfaithfulness, but in reality because the king had tired of her. Nothing was ever proved against her, and on the day after her death Henry married Jane Seymour.

Although the French Revolution was for the ultimate good of the people, much cruelty and injustice took place, and many terrible crimes were committed in the name of Freedom.

The execution of Marie Antoinette was unnecessarily brutal. This beautiful woman went to the scaffold followed by jeers and cries of derision. She behaved courageously and with dignity to the last.

Napoleon was responsible for the murder of the Duke of Enghien. This man was arrested outside French territory and executed after an irregular trial. It is supposed that the Emperor brought about his death to satisfy the personal enmity of some of his Corsican followers.

An unnecessary crime was the shooting of Marshal Ney, who has been called "the bravest of the brave."

Ney had taken the oath of allegiance to Louis XVIII, but when Napoleon escaped from captivity on the Island of Elba, he deserted to return to his old chief. He was taken prisoner after Waterloo, and was shot as a traitor by a firing-party chosen from his own regiment.

In the last thirty years there have been a good many crowned heads murdered, mostly by anarchists for political reasons.

King Humbert of Italy, a man much beloved of his people, was assassinated in 1900. The King and Queen of Serbia were done to death in the most dastardly fashion by officers of their own army.

There is no need to give the details of the murder of the Crown Prince of Austria and his consort at Sarajevo. It is still fresh in all our minds. This was the greatest of historic crimes, the most far-reaching and incalculable in its terrible results—for it was the crime that caused the Great War.

"Don't's" for Tennis Players.

Don't wear a tie. It's uncomfortable, and exceedingly bad form.

Don't "foot fault." This is the commonest mistake made by beginners. When serving, both feet must be behind the back line. One foot, however, may be lifted.

Don't leave balls by the net. In a mixed doubles the men should send them back to the server. When all men are playing it is usual for the server's partner to do this.

Don't have the net below the correct height. It may be easier to get the balls over, but it will spoil your chances of becoming a player. The length plus the width of a racquet is approximately the correct height.

Don't wear a brilliantly-coloured belt. An old silk tie is a good thing to go round your waist.

Don't "poach." Stick to your own court, and you'll have quite enough to do without looking after your partner's as well.

Don't throw your racquet after a seemingly hopeless ball. It may look funny, but it's far better to try to return the shot. And it is very bad for the racquet.

Don't, when you play a brilliant stroke, imagine that it has beaten your opponent. You must assume that every shot, however good, will be returned.

Don't despise a weak return. If you can possibly get the ball over the net, do so. It may be so simple that your opponent, in his eagerness to kill it, will send it into the net.

Costs of Civic Government.

The people of every city no doubt believe themselves the most highly taxed of any city in the world. This being the case it is interesting to peruse a publication called "Canadian Citizenship," of the date of July 14th, one page of which is taken up with a table of Victoria, British Columbia, in 1918, had a per capita expenditure of $39.52, which was thirty-eight cents less than Vancouver's record. Edmonton in the same year paid for its government at the rate of $91.80. This was the highest record in Canada, and certainly is a high one. Regina and Winnipeg had the per capita expenditure of $67.71 and $62.44 respectively, while "Toronto the good" made a record of $71.90.

The cities of London and Hamilton get along with $54.58 and $54.26 respectively, and Ottawa, the National Capital only goes them one dollar better. In spite of the savory reputation of Montreal for loose expenditure—that city manages to get along at a per capita expenditure of $59.25—a rate considerably lower than that of Western cities or than Toronto. Halifax, strange to say, ranks among the lowest cities of the Nation—our rate being $48.77. Only two cities are quoted at a rate below this—St. John and Charlottetown—the rate of the former being $47.62 and the latter $38.81. The thing of interest in all this is the fact that in spite of our grumbling and fault-finding about the cost of governing our city, when we make comparisons with other cities of the nation, we find we have nothing to be particularly proud of. Halifax is in fact generally the best in this regard—although of course the rate is high enough—Acadian Recorder.

ALL A WOMAN SWIM THE CHANNEL?

A baronet's daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, will shortly attempt to swim from Dover to Calais. In August Mrs. Ida Willing, of Rochester, will also make the attempt.

Forty-five years have gone since Captain Webb put his foot on the sands after an almost superhuman struggle of twenty-one and a quarter hours against the waves, and currents of the Channel; and it is nine years since Burgess beat the feat, after thirteen failures, some of which brought him almost within a stone's throw of the French shore. And during all these years some of the finest swimmers the world has produced have tried vainly to add a third name to the list of conquerors of the Channel.

Can a woman succeed where such men have failed?

Certainly it is as a swimmer that man most nearly approaches man the whole field of athletics. Within recent years we have seen women of them mere slips of girlhood swim distances of fifteen to twenty miles and more "without turning a hair."

Eighty-Four Miles in Two Days.

When she was eighteen years old Miss Lillian Smith swam through a very rough sea from Dover to Pagli Bay, a distance of eighteen miles, seven hours—an amazing performance. Since that day she has often covered similar distances. She has had many formidable rivals—Miss Ethel Ripley, Miss Littlewood, Miss Claire Giet, Miss Vera Neave, and others who would make light of a swim of fifteen miles. A few years ago Miss Neave swam forty-eight miles in the Channel, and was so little exhausted that the next day she swam thirty-six miles more.

Although girls can do such wonderful things in fairly smooth water, to swim the Channel is a vastly different matter. It is the supreme test of length, stamina, and courage. Fifteen years ago, Miss Annette Keller made a gallant attempt to swim from Dover to Calais. For six hours she struggled valiantly, making splendid progress until, when she was nearly six miles on her direct course across the Channel, she was overcome by a gale and had to abandon the attempt.

"After battling for six hours," she says, "the raging sea caused me so much internal pain that my friends insisted on hauling me out of the water, although muscularly and physically I was feeling as fit as when I entered it at Dover."

Of the appalling nature of this feat she gives the following impressive glimpse. "Imagine yourself swimming hour after hour, apparently making no progress, indeed, sometimes even appearing to be going back rather than forward, while, try as you will to prevent it, gallons of salt water seem somehow or other to find their way down your throat."

"Just think for a moment how your arms and legs would ache after travelling for only a short distance when you have to contend every inch with the seething waves. If you shut your eyes, and mentally sketch this picture, I think you will get an idea of what it really means to undertake the Channel swim."

Volcanic Islands.

The Ladrone is a chain of volcanic islands, extending north and south 450 miles. On one of them are three active volcanoes; a fourth burning mountain is located on another of the group. All that part of the world is highly volcanic. Almost due east of Yokohama 150 miles is a submarine volcano which, at times kicks up a tremendous fuss in the ocean overhead.

The Ladrone, by the way, are otherwise known as the Marianna islands, a later name. They owe their original title to the thieving habits of the natives. A giant lizard found there makes a business of stealing and eating chickens.

The Carolines are an archipelago of huge extent, comprising no fewer than forty-eight groups. All but five of these, however, are low coral formations. The remaining five (of which Yap is one) are of volcanic origin, with peaks 800 to 2,800 feet high. It is perhaps worth mentioning that the natives of the Carolines are among the handsomest people in the world, of a light copper complexion and well formed. The elaborate tattooing of the men, however, does not enhance their beauty.

Crocodiles Guard Treasures.

A Frenchman returned with an account of a singular national treasure in Annam. If the story is true—and it presents no essential improbability—the treasure is in no danger of robbery and is destined to become famous.

Now in Annam iron safes of good resisting power are for the most part unknown, and, unfortunately, adroit thieves are not. To defend his most costly treasures the native ruler had to resort to some means in harmony with the natural circumstances of the country.

Armed guards he could not fully trust. Animals do not steal money, and nature had supplied the ruler with a creature that could not be wheeled nor killed except with a great deal of trouble. The crocodile is such an animal. The ruler would have the crocodile guard his specie reserve.

Yet to avoid himself of the services of the crocodile he must keep his money in a place where crocodiles are at home. Nothing was more simple. In the interior of his palace the ruler caused to be constructed a large tank or basin, which he kept filled with water. Then he took several teak logs, which he had bored with holes, and into these holes he put his specie reserve of gold and silver. The holes were closed up and the logs put into the tank.

Then some crocodiles of the largest and fiercest description were installed in the tank and maintained there, not being fed, however, with such a superfluity as to interfere with their natural ferocity. Any person who should undertake to reach the treasure-laden logs would surely be eaten by the crocodiles. And any one who should undertake to put the saurians out of the way would have to make noise enough to attract the attention of the human guards and of the ruler himself, for he, by Annam custom, is required to remain very closely in his palace.

At any rate the royal crocodile treasury has never been burned—and it can not burn.

One of the biggest factors Ireland at the present critical moment is the new commander of the forces Sir Nevil Macready, who, contrary to popular opinion, is a man who hates strife, and is a keen advocate of peaceful methods. It is said that his greatest ambition is to retire from active life to the fields of Normandy, where he can rusticate among the ruined churches of France.

Wrecking Buildings by Music.

Sympathetic Sounds Sway Sky-scrappers.

Many have laughed at the story of the old fiddler who said he would destroy a bridge with his violin.

Day after day, so it is said, he stood on the bridge playing on one string of his instrument. After a time the bridge began to sway; it continued to sway so violently as he played one particular note that eventually it cracked and collapsed!

Absurd though the story may seem, it is based on scientific reasoning. Every building or bridge structure possesses its own fundamental or vibrating note. If that note can be ascertained, and the structure can thus be set vibrating at full resonance, it will eventually vibrate so powerfully that it will fall to pieces.

You have noticed men walking over a bridge across which heavy traffic is passing, a certain peculiar sound; it is the note of the bridge, which, imitated in sufficiently intense degree, would increase the vibration and might possibly lead to collapse.

In the opinion of scientists who have studied the phenomena of sound, it is possible to "play down" the tallest of buildings. This could be accomplished by pacing musical instruments on certain floors and in certain parts of the building. By playing these instruments for a considerable time on the fundamental note of the building—say B flat—the structure would eventually collapse.

Try This Test.

Engineers and architects who design tall buildings always pay particular attention to these vibration strains. It is unlikely, however, that a deliberate attempt would ever be made to "play down" a building.

Just as the hand which touches a vibrating tuning-fork absorbs the vibration, so buildings absorb persistent vibration.

With the aid of two tuning-forks one can conduct a simple experiment to prove the action of sympathetic vibration. Place the forks upright in small wooden bases, one on each side of the room. If one of the forks is struck smartly with a small hammer it will sound a natural note, say "A." If the second tuning-fork is of the same pitch, the vibrations set up in the air by the first fork will be transmitted, and will act upon the second fork, which will start vibrating and give forth a sound of its own, although it is several yards away and quite untouched.

A practical demonstration of how a structure can be vibrated by sound until it falls apart is afforded by building over the second tuning-fork a miniature building of small wooden blocks. When the first tuning-fork is struck, the fork inside the little building will start vibrating, and when it reaches full resonance the building will fall over.

Another illustration of the oddities of sound is afforded by the fact that when a piano is being played it often causes glass vases, metal picture frames—in fact, any adjacent article made of metal or other hard material, such as porcelain—to give out a vibrating note of their own. This is sometimes so insistent that the articles have to be removed, while in some cases glass vases, wine glasses and tumblers have been smashed by a sympathetic note being struck on the piano.

In making an order that, when crossing a bridge, a regiment of soldiers must break step, the military authorities are actuated by the vibratory dangers which would arise if the men marched across in step. The tramp of the regulation step would cause a steady wave of vibrational force to travel along the length of the bridge. This force would grow stronger as the men marched, and soon the bridge would be heaving up and down with a dangerous possibility of collapsing.—Tit-Bits.

The Chinese Soldier.

The busiest period of a Chinese soldier's life is when he is on furlough. If he is a god soldier and thoroughly understands the science of looting he is forced to remain away from his outfit only about two-thirds of the time.

Nathaniel Peffer in the "Home Sector," the ex-soldiers' weekly, conducted by the former editorial council of the "Stars and Stripes," gives the following account of the manner in which an ambitious duck private in the Chinese army quickly learns to select his own pay-days:

"He doesn't do much of anything, in fact, except when he takes to banditry, which is about two-thirds of the time for most of the Chinese army. Of the numberless bandits that infest the interior, the larger proportion are soldiers, sometimes discharged and sometimes on self-granted furlough and sometimes still in service.

"That is not because the soldier is by nature a robber, but because he has to rob to live. His salary generally is granted by officials of the ministry of war and the higher officers before it gets down to him. There are known cases where troops stationed in a certain district have not been paid for a year or more. Naturally they have to turn to loot often, and naturally it becomes a habit; as they get expert they come to like it.

"About a year ago a certain rich

Bedrooms & Beds

There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.

We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.

Prices quoted on request.
