SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 8, 1884.

CLEVELAND IN THE LEAD

THE DEMOCRATS CLAIM HIS ELEC-TION AS PRESIDENT.

Blaine on the Situation—He is Confident of New York-Charges of Fraud on Both Sides-The Latest Figures.

Good Morning, Mr. President.

The associated press issued the following at 1.15 this morning: "On a carefu. review of the figures by districts as furnished by the agents of the associated press, corrected by returns received during the day so as to bring the record down to this time, the total vote of the state stands for Blaine 558,426, for Cleveland 559,886, majority for Cleveland 1460. There are 18 districts from which returns are still behind or questioned."

The national democratic committee has is sued the following proclamation: To the People of the United States: There can no longer be any question concerning the actual result of the presidential election. Cleveland and Hendricks have a majority of 18 in the electoral college.

It is not worth while for our adversaries to claim the electoral vote of the state of New York as it is absolutely certain that the returns of the proper officers of the elections, on the night of Nov 4, showed a decisive plurality in the state for the electors supporting Cleveland and Hendricks. If any different or altered returns are now being prepared or ing of such reports are criminals. It is not expected that you will tamely submit to the machinations of such men. Let them understand that you will recognize at noon to-morrow throughout the United States the actual election of Cleveland and Headricks by firing national salutes. Meet to-morrow night throughout the country and express your opinion in a manner that cannot submit to the gross outrage attempted to be perpetrated upon their rights and will speak for themselves. for themselves. Signed: Wm. H. Barnum, chairman na tional democratic committee; A. P. Gorman

Blaine's residence at Augusta was crowded yesterday, and the interest in the result in New York was intense. Blaine talked freely about the situation. He said: "I feel entirely confident that the horest vote of New York without change or manipulation will show a plurality for the republican electors of notless than 1500. I do not speak idly but from the most accurate data carefully furnished me from most competent sources."

Speaking of a despatch issued by the democrate committee Thursday Blaine said it contained a threat to control the election returns in the interest of the democratic ticket and he thought its effect would be to arouse the law abiding citizens of New York who cannot afford to have their state reduced to the level of lawlessness prevailing in South Carolina and Mississippi.

In reply to the question as to whether he felt much disappointment over the possible prospect of leavester were identified.

In reply to the question as to whether he felt much disappointment over the possible prospect of losing the presidency Blaine said: I do not feel so in any personal sense but profoundly so on account of the vast national interests depending on the result. I feel a great pride that no imputation of fraud has ever been seriously uttered against the members of the republican party in any state or district. I do not believe the American people will accept a fraudulent result. The republicans have carried the northern states by more than 300,000 majority and they do not propose to have the leading state taken from them by fraud.

The Albany Journal, a prominent and infuential republican paper, concedes the election to Cleveland. Every county has sent in its full vote after careful verification, and the results assure Cleveland a plurality of a out 1000 in the state. The Journal has devoted all its energies towards securing another result and income absolute the securing another result and income absolute the securing another result and irrows relactive time.

election has been decided differently from its desire.

The chairman of the democratic national executive committee has sent the following to the national committeemen for each state: New York. Nov. 7.—It is now conceded on all sides that Cleveland and Hendricks are elected. The plurality in the state of New York is not less than 130. A. P. Gorman.

There was great enthusiasm at New York when it was learned that Jay Gould had sent the following to Gov. Cleveland, at Albany: I heartily compratulate you on your election. All concede that your administration as governor has been wise and conservative and in the larger field as president I feel that you will do still better, and that the vast business interests of the sountry will be entirely safe in your hands.

The chairman of the republican national committee yesterday received the following from Blaine: I am advised that there have been frauds committed in New York state. I believe that the honest vote of the state gives a republican plurality, and I ask the committee to see that we have a fair and honest count. New York republicans say an official count alone will decide the election. They concede nothing.

New York republicans say an official count alone will decide the election. They concede nothing.

A telegram received at Washington by Assistant Secretary Coon from Whitelaw Reed says the associated press figures give the state again to Blaine by 400 majority. An official count is necessary and some returns are sure to go before the courts.

At Atlanta, Ga., Cleveland's election was celebrated by runging fire-bells, firing cannons and blowing whistles. An immense crowd bearing banners, flags and red shirts on poles entered the capitol, took the legislature by storm and adjourned that body. The crowd then took up Gov. McDaniel and carried him across the street to the custom house where the red shirts were burned and enthusiastic speaches made.

The New York republican national committee denied that Blaine was going to New York for a conference with them. They say they have so means of determining the result in the state with the exception of the election district returns, that they will only take such steps as may be necessary to protect the party's interest during the progress of the count and that to this end counsel will appear before the county canvassing board next Tuesday.

On request of the mayor all the Chicago newspapers discontinued issuing bulletins.

A despatch from Hoosic Falls to the Troy Teiggram says the Buller vote there was all counted for Cleveland. It is alleged by Butler managers that the same has been done clsewhere.

and is due to the absorbing interest taken in the election. Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore advises fully bear out this view, while at St. Louis and Chicago it is if anything intensified. The movement of products eastward is so restricted that currency has had to be shipped to New York for purposes of domestic exchange a most anomalous circumstance at this season.

The market for raw cotton is dull in the south; the weather favors picking. The wool trade is exceptionally dull with the advantage in the busers' favor. Iron is quiet; pg is dull, unchanged. Steel rails are held at $28 to $30 per ton with orders scarce. The anthracite coal production to Nov. I aggregated 1,800,000 tons asset han at the corresponding date of 1833, with a probability of 30,000,000 ste to total for 1884. Financial difficulties in several coal roads, combined with the state of the coal trade, is the reverse of pomising. In petroleum speculative circes prices have been irregular; trading been neglected; ro news of importance from new wells. Provisions have been weaker, although light stocks and the small receipts of hogs at the west favored the reverse.

People who ring up the central office on the average of two or three dozen times a day probably may not think that there is severe manual labor in answering the call of 900 such subscribers. The right arms of our lady operators are continually at work twirling the cranks of the electric bells, and they can tell you what sort of work it is. They've all developed wonderful muscles in their arms on the head of it, but still it is fatiguing work and we find that it can be done just as well by machinery. The gas engine will supply the motive power for the running of these bells. All the operator will require to do to answer a call will be to press a button and the bell rings. We have introduced soveral other improvements which will materially aid the operators in their work.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV. 8, 1884.

" Why and How." The other day we said that while protection was blamed for causing low wages and hard times in the United States, we could with more force show that free trade was the cause of hard times in England. And thereupon the Hamilton Times demands "why and how." First let it be understood that what ar called low wages in the States would be called high wages in England. Our neighbors at to accustomed to big wages, good living, big and big figures for everything, profits and big lightes that they complain of poverty and that times whenever they are curtailed than times whenever they are curtailed a little of their accustomed indulgences. Take the ordinary run of workingmen, in England and in the States respectively, and we may say that what the former count as luxuries are counted by the latter as the merest es, without which nobody would keep house. American workingmen strike against a reduction of wages from $8 to $7 per week; English workmen, in corresponding occupations, strike against a reduction from $5 to $4 per week. The expression "hard es" has a realistic meaning about it in England that it has not in America, except in certain slums of great cities, where European vice and pauperism have been carried bodily oss the ocean and dumped down on this side of it. There are, in New York and Chicago, whole colonies of foreigners, who are in America though net of it, and who, on this new continent cling most tenaciously to their

Free trade is certainly one of the cause though by no means the only cause, of low wages and scarcity of work in England. Here let us go back a little, in order to get a proper beginning. In 1851, just a few years after the great free trade victory in England, the world was invited to visit Sydenham palace, and see what was there to be seen. Many foreigner of an observing turn of mind did come, and used their faculties to such good purpose that they returned home fully convinced that they had mastered many secrets of England's nanufacturing greatness, and dete to do what they could to rival her in her own ethods. England invited the nations come and see what she was doing, in the hope that after seeing her immense variety of cheap wares they would buy more largely from her than ever before. They went home, deter-mined that to the extent of their ability they , not her customers, as she was expecting, but her competitors. Years afterwards it was a current remark among some of England's shrewdest manufacturers and exporters that her free trade lesson of 1851 had ost her dearly, or words to that effect. Some great wars on the continent of Europe and the American civil war, did through waste and destruction keep up for a number of years an enormous demand for English goods, so that the natural, proper effects of free trade on one side only did not show themselves on the surface. But a marked change came soon after the close of the Franco-German war, say in 1872-73. Then foreign goods began to pour into England, and they have been pouring in ever since. Nay, even during these hard times, when English shops are closing and English workmen going idle, the floor of foreign goods admitted free of duty till continues to pour in. For about ter years past the British trade returns have wofully deceptive as regards exports. They tell of millions worth of goods shipped abroad, supposed to be of Fritish manufacture which are really foreign manufacture to the extent of one-half or three-fourths. The manufacture of so-called Sheffleld cuttlery and other steel goods is a large business in Germany. The goods are ordered by British merchant who put Sheffleld names and lapels on them, and ship them as such. And so with many textile manufactures of wool, silk and some times even of cotton; the products of fereign looms are sent abroad as English. In other words, English merchants are building up an export trade which, to a large extent employs foreigners instead of Englishmer. And thus free trade becomes one very potent cause of hard times. So much for the present in an-

A Negligent Class of Voters. A remark made by the New Orleans Times Democrat on the eve of the presidential election is worthy of recording. Speaking of the prospect of a peaceable election and the probable absence of all rioting, it urges this as a reason that none should be afraid to do their duty at the ballot, and adds: "Those gentlemen who, on account of their wealth, position or talents have a high standing in our community should not be lost to the political world altogether, should not refuse to share in the election, but should vote." This is a hint that applies to many other places besides New Orleans and to many other s'ections besides a presidential one. Expressions frequently repeated at various meetings of a political character in Toronto would go to show that even here there exists a negligence of this nature. Although happily it is an assertion to which many exceptions can be found, yet as a general thing wealth, position, and talent do not take that active interest in political events which they undoubtedly should do. The Times Democrat is quite right in thus "calling them out." The franchise is a duty, not a privilege to be used or left unused as caprice may dictate.

swer to "why and how?"

Social science is the most intricate of sci. ences, and politics are its most intricate branch. To leave the study and conduct of this so all-important a province to the uneducated and the rude and oftener still to the biased and the interested is a real crime against society. Governments place in the hands of their subjects certain duties in the shape of a request that they shall at certain mes place clearly on a piece of paper, to wit, the ballot, their "yes" or "no" to the adoption of certain measures or the election to office of certain men. If the subjects of such government care not to aid in the expression of pub lic opinion government, in our opinion, would be perfectly justified in resorting to means of coerción—as in the case of an individual who Notwithstanding the very low price wheat, the bakers union keeps up the price of bread in Paris, and bread riots have begun. By law, or custom, or both, French mun palities have power to 'fix what the price and weight of bread shall be. This power has not been exercised of late, but it has not lapsed, by any means, and the present crisis may cause it to be exercised again.

Be president who likes, Jay Gould is bound to be the big financial devil-fish of the United States. His sympa thies, if he has any, are transferable on the shortest notice. But it is not likely that he is really subject to such feelings at all, in the isual acceptation of the term.

Many people in this province, and some be nits, too, will regret to hear that the Joseph Hall manufacturing company of Oshawa has been forced into liquidation. The old Oshawa mower and resper factory was the pioneer concern of its kind, in Canada, and or years did the largest business in that line in the country. During some time past Mr. Glen has been making a brave fight against adverse eircumstances, but the weight of debt has proved too much for him at last. Of late years an enormous expansion in this particuar manufacture has been going on in Ontario and the competition has been keen and cutting to a degree. We hope yet to see Mr. Glen start anew with all his energy but without

This altogether forms one of the most attractive and reasonable plans we have attractive and reasonable plans we have ever seen. The aim of the proprietor of the Ladies' Journal is of course to increase his circulation. In fact he says so, but adds that he also hopes to encourage the study of the Bible, but frankly states that this part of the plan is not his sole aim, and goes on to explain that he has lost so much money by dishonest agents, and has spent so much in valuable premiums to encourage them to send large and has spent so much in valuable pre-miums to encourage them to send large liets, that hereafter he has decided to give all these things direct to subscribers, for answering those Bible questions. Aside from the rewards offered you are sure to be pleased with your half dollar invest-ment, as the !Ladies' Journal consists of twenty pages of the choicest reading matter, and contains the sum and sub-stance of many of the high priced fashion stance of many of the high priced fashion papers and magazines published in the States, and all for the low price of half a States, and all for the low price of half a dollar, or one year's subsciption. "All human results must be strictly imited, and according to the epoch and outlook. Emerson does not solve for all time the problem of the universe; he solves nothing; but he does not anticipate the solves nothing; but he does not anticipate the shows us how to deal with circumstances in such a manner as to secure the sood, instead of the evil influences. New to conditions, fresh discoveries, unexpected horrors opening before us, will, no doubt, so far carry us beyond the scope of Emeron's surmises, but we shall not so easily improve upon his aim and attitude. In the space beyond the stars there may be marvels such as it has not entered into the mind of man to conceive; but there, as here, the right of way to look will still be upward, and the right asperation be still toward humbleness and charity.

Is undoubtedly the most valuable and reliable Veterinary Remedy ever discovered. It has superseded the Actual Cautery or hot iron; produces more than four times the effect of blister; takes the place of all liniments and is the safest application ever used, as it is impossible to produce a scar or blemish with it. It is a powerful, active, reliable and safe remedy that can be manipul at will for severe or mild effect. Thou of the best Veterinarians and Horsemen of this country testify to its many wonderful sures and its great practical value. It is also the most economical remedy in use, as one tablespoonful of Caustic Balsam will produce more actual results than a whole bottle of any liniment or spavin cure mixture ever made. Running Away From a Wounded Bear.

From the Orillia Times.

An amusing story comes from the township of Longford. A city sportsman out for deer, and armed with a Winchester rifle containing eight cartridges, heard the dogs aptaining eight cattridges, heard the dogs approaching. While he was looking for the deer, abear ran out of a bush. The city man fired a ball into bruin's shoulder, tumbling the brute into the creek, and then started to run. When he had gone about a hundred yards he looked back and saw his bearship retreating in the opposite direction. This gave the sportsman courage to return, and he went to a lumber camp for aid to trace the blood had dried on the leaves, and the trail was soon lost.

From the New York Times.

During the year 1882 an aggregate of 156,499,000 tons of coal were brought to the surface in Great Britain, of which quantity 99,189,000 tons were applied to mechanical uses, and 59,309,800 tons were employed for heating purposes only. The number of tons devoted to various specific objects was as follows: Paper-making and tanning, 939,000 tons; waterworks, and tanning, 933,000 tons; waterworks, 2.191,000 tons; brewerics and distilleries, 2,817,000 tons: railways, 3,130,000 tons; steam navigation, 4,695,000 tons; gas works, 9,390,000 tons; coal exported 14,140,000 tons; 950,000 tons; domestic use, 26,918,000 tons,

I, too, have loved her; yet I know She is not cold, though she seems seems seems not cold, she is not light, But our ignoble souls lack might.

She smiles and smiles and will not sigh, While we for hopeless passion die, Yet she could love, those eyes declare. Were but men nobler than thoy are.

Fagerly once her gracious ken Was turned upon the sons of men; But light the serious visage grew— She look'd and smiled and saw them through.

Our petty sculs, our strutting wits, Our labor'd, puny passion-lits— Ab, may she scorn them still, till we scorn them as bitterly as she.

His eyes be like the starry lights. His voice like sounds of summer nights— In all his lovely mien let pierce The magic of the universe!

And she to him will reach hor hand, And gazing in his eyes will stand, And know her friend and weep for glee, And cry: "Long, long I've look'd for thee." Then will she weep, with smiles, till then, Coldly she mocks the sons of men,
Til then, her lovely eyes maintain
Their gray, unwavering, deep disdain.

Years Ago.

The famous Ned McGowan relates the "Life in California becoming unendurable, I went to Frazer's river in British mendous mining excitement. While there I met with a singular and amusing adventure. In 'Hill's Bar,' as our little mining town, largely settled by Californians, was called, there was an English magistrate who, though it sounds like a 'Paddyism' to say it, was a French-Canadian, a devlish good fellow named Perier. There was another English magistrate, a bona fide Britisher, this one at Fort Yale, a few miles away, who hated Americans, put on lots of dignity, insisted on the miners touching their hats to him, and was pretty generally disliked. He would have our boys arrested, and lock them up without due process of law, and make himself generally disagreeable. I represented to Perier that, taking a man from the jurisdiction of his court was a contempt of court, and that one magistrate could not be in contempt of another. Perier swore me in as a special officer of her majesty, and with a body of picked men, I went over to Fort Yale, took the key from the jailor, and liberated all the Americans confined, and brought the objectionable magistrate a prisoner before his confrere Perier."

"And so that ended it?"

"No, indeed. They sent for troops. Col. Moody, afterwards Lieut. Gov. Moody, was in command. I was arrested and tried for a breach of peace. Judge Begbie, afterwards Sir Matthew Bailey Begbie, was on the bench. I made them put Perier on the stand, who testified that I was regularly commissioned 'on her majesty's service' at commissioned 'on her majesty's service' at the time of the alleged outrage. Lion-Taming by Electricity.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The latest application of electricity is an nvention made in the interests of liontamers, which consists of an apparatus of great power, shaped like a stick, about three and a half feet in length. M. Rauspach, the inventor, is a lion tamer himself, who has been "a good deal worried" during a long and successful professional career. He has already experimented with it upon the denizens of the cages in his menagerie, and relates the different effects upon the brutes. Three of his lions receiving the shock immediately showed signs of the greatest terror. They were seized with trembling and growled fitfully. The tiger was more quickly subdued, became stupified, and crouched in a corner of the cage. Bruin was more refractory to electricity, which seemed scarcely to affect him. He would growl and show his teeth, and was amers, which consists of an apparatus of would growl and show One of the leading galleries in Toronto is subdued after repeated discharges. Mr. Dufresne, the proprietor, has been in Toronto a number of years, and the quality of work turned out by him, and the numerous patronage during that period, is only a proof of his ability and skill; great proofs of this are shown by the excellent show case at the entrance to his gallery in the arcade, and the public generally will do well to patronize this popular photographer.

Royalists from Nero downward, besides being patrons of science, art and literature, often amuse themselves by becoming amateur disciples of the muses. In our royal amily we have more than one instance of this, and there is not an European court at which we do not meet with at least one coyal artist. In this respect Germany decidedly takes the lead in arts as in war. The crown prince himself is a turner, whose productions a well known master turner productions a well known master during and socialist not infrequently exhibits in his shop. BRIDES MAIDS.

British Columbia Twenty-Five Their Duties as Attendants on Brides in

Instead of being so many graceful adornfollowing of a personal experience of his in adays, says Cassell's Magazine, the brides-British Columbia a quarter of a century ago: maids in olden times had various duties assigned to them. Thus one of their principal tasks was dressing the bride on Columbia at that time the scene of a tremendous mining excitement. While there in her toilet was laid to their charge. At a wedding, too, where it was arragned that the bride should be followed by a numerous train of her lady friends, it was the first bridesmaid's duty to play the part of a drill mistress, "aising" them so that "no pair in the procession were followed by a taller couple." She was also expected to see that each bridesmaid was not only duly provided with a sprig of rosemary, or a floral posy pinned to the breastfolds of her dress, but had a symbolic chaplet in her hand. In many parts of Germany it is still customary for the bridesmaids to bring the myrtle wreath, which they have subscribed together to purchase on the nuptial eve, to the house of the bride, and to remove it from her head at the close of the wedding day. After this has been done the bride is blindfolded and the myrtle wreath being put into her hand she tries to a wedding, too, where it was arragned that wreath being put into her hand she tries to place it on the head of one of her brides maids as they dance round her; for, in accordance with an old belief, whoever she maids as they dame accordance with an old belief, whoever she crowns is sure to be married within a year from that date. As may be imagined, this ceremony is the source of no small excitement, each bridesmaid being naturally anxious to follow the example of the bride. Referring once more to the bridal wreath and chaplet, it is still a current notion in many parts of our own country that the bride, in removing these, must take special care that her bridesmaids throw away every pin. Not only is it affirmed that misfortune will overtake the bride who retains even one pin used in her marriage toilet, but wee also to the bridesmaids if they keep any of them, as their prospects of marriage will thereby be materially lessened.
