ANTONIS are required to keep their licenses clean so that the numbers may be easily read by the police. Some job during the past few weeks.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY has now been established across the Atlantic. A lengthy conversation was carried on last Thursday between Canada and Ireland.

FRIDAY last was the spring solstice and from now till midsummer the days will grow longer than the nights. The wind was in the north on that day and the weatherwise claim that it will be its general direction for the next three months.

MRS. LOUISE RAWLINGS, of Forest, has composed the words and music of two new patriotic songs, "O Canada Fields I Dreamed the Sweetest Dreams of You," and "Till Your Laddie Returns to You." The melody of both songs is pleasing and the words heart-touching. Harper Bros. have them on sale at 25 cents each.

HOSIERY, GLOVES, underwear, for Easter at SWIFF'S.

A VOTE of the citizens of Sarnia, will be taken to decide what form the Soldiers' Memorial shall take, as soon as concrete propositions are ready. This method should be followed in all municipalities as a question so vital should not be decided by a committee. The cost of the vote would be small compared with the satisfaction of knowing that the will of the people is being carried out in the matter.

The Presbyterian church, of Watford, is holding a reception for the Presbyterian soldiers who have just returned from overseas. The reception will be held at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the Presbyterian School Room and will take the form of a banquet given in their honor. Men of other church connections who have returned recently from overseas and are in this community are invited to be present.

REGARDING the ringing of the town bell to announce the arrival of returned soldiers, in future it will only be rung by order of the Reeve, so as to avoid as much as possible misleading the people anxious to welcome the boys on their arrival at the station. Anyone having information of the expected arrival of any soldier will oblige by communicating with the Reeve.

FREE LECTURE and pictures in the Lyceum, Monday evening, March 31st, at 7.30, under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada. Picturing the sinking of the Lusitania, trawler blown up by German mines, sweepers of the sea, sweeping for mines, and several modern battleships. You are invited to attend and hear this educational treat. The officers of the Navy League will give a special showing in the afternoon for all the school children. "Remember the Lusitania"—come and hear the facts.

Now that the hockey season is over our young men should turn their thoughts to the revival of the grand old game of baseball. It is a long time since the lovers of athletic sports had the opportunity to hoot for a local nine. Let a meeting be called to organize a strong team. The young men who have been so successful on the ice during the winter would do as well as just as much at home on the diamond. And what a nice time it would be for the general public to see an occasional game on a Wednesday half holiday. Get together, boys.

BRUCE TRENOUTH, another local boy who has done his bit and borne valiantly the many trials and sacrifices of war for the public good, arrived home on Friday night last and was warmly welcomed at a station by the Returned Soldiers' Committee and a large crowd of citizens. He enlisted in the 149th Batt. and went to England with the 162 Batt. in November 1916. He spent nineteen months in France and was slightly wounded twice, the first time at Vimy Ridge on June 3rd 1917, and the second time at Cologne on June 3rd, 1918. He came across the pond on the Celtic.

GET your Easter suit at SWIFF'S. ALL new stock at M. E. GEORGE'S millinery parlor.

IT would be hard to find a man without a grievance these days.

The Army flag was at half mast Tuesday in memory of the late Hon. W. J. Hanna.

MONEY may not make the man but take some men's money away from them and there will be nothing left.

LOCAL ice handlers have purchased two cars of splendid Lake Simcoe ice and are also putting in some artificial ice.

The time has long since passed when women waited for the dawn of Easter Sunday to put on their Easter bonnets.

CONSIDERING the very muddy state of the roads this spring the crossings in town have been kept remarkably clean.

The fishing season is here. A bunch of local lovers of the sport went to Frank Wednesday, and brought home a nice string.

SINCE the war there is an increase in the movement of young men from real life on the farm to real life in the cities. And more's the pity.

We think it would be wise to start in right now and do your Easter shopping, so that the man of the house will get over the blow by Easter.

THE new models in corsets at SWIFF'S.

The Rev. W. J. Doherty, B. A., of London, will be the special preacher at the Lenten week-night service in Trinity church this (Thursday) evening.

The young lady across the way says her mother is remarkably young looking in the face, but it must be admitted she's growing rather stout in the person.

It's time to shut up your hens. Tender flowering plants are showing up nicely and the inquisitive hen just loves to scratch for grubs around the roots.

The regular monthly meeting of Teumessah Chapter I. O. O. F. will be held Tuesday afternoon at 8 o'clock, April 1st at the home of Mrs. E. D. Swift. Quotations on spring.

USUAL SERVICES in the Baptist churches on Sunday next, March 30th, as follows:—Wyoming 11 a. m., Calvary 3 p. m., Watford 7 p. m., Rev. Mr. Barnes will preach.

"PLEASE, teacher, would you punish a feller for something he hasn't done?" Teacher—Certainly not, Billy. That would be unjust. "That's all right, then, 'cause I didn't do my homework."

SMART suits for young men.—SWIFF'S.

ONE thousand two hundred churches, five hundred school buildings, a quarter of a million stores, shops and homes totally destroyed and as many more damaged—this is what the Germans did in France alone.

The farmers of Ontario will be surprised to learn from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that the average of their farm lands, improved and unimproved, including buildings, is only $57 per acre, the same as Quebec, while in British Columbia the average is $139 per acre.

THE local way freight on the G. T. R. will be discontinued on Wednesday of each week until further notice. The freight shed is now open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. only, that branch of the service coming under the eight-hour day regulations.

W. N. FLEETHAM, Barber, has secured an agency from the Aylmer Steam Laundry and shipments are made every Tuesday morning and returned to Watford Friday. Excellent service in Dry Cleaning and pressing at most reasonable rates. Your patronage solicited. 621

OUR SPRING STOCK of Wall Paper is now ready for your inspection. The designs are new, artistic and pleasing. The bulk of the stock was ordered before the recent advance and handsome, servicable papers can be had at a very reasonable price. This year's stock is superior to anything heretofore offered.—P. DODDS & SON. 3

ALL RETURNED MEN who visit Watford and district selling magazines or other articles should be called upon to show their discharge papers. In other words, residents should not take the word of an agent purely on the strength of the fact that he wears a discharge button. This is only fair to bona fide returned men, as to the purchaser. There have been complaints of men posing as returned men and wearing returned men's buttons, who were never out of the country, and in some cases never in uniform. Ask them for their papers.

DOUBTLESS many of our citizens have noticed that there is very little traffic on the G. T. R. on Sundays, other than that of the regular passenger trains; that the perpetual noise of other days, due to whistling engines, shunting and passing trains, etc., has gone, and that our Days of Rest and Meditation have become unusually quiet and peaceful. It has all come about as a result of a new order of things on the railways, said to have been initiated by the U. S. Government, which took over all the roads during the war. The new regulations have cut down Sunday freight traffic to the minimum, and today only trains transporting live-stock or perishable freight are allowed to proceed on that day.

Buy a Haw's hat this spring.—SWIFF'S new shapes.

An English company is to rival Henry Ford's $250 car with one costing £50 to £60.

Sarnia is to have an artificial ice plant. A company capitalized at $200,000 has been formed.

The Rev. James Hamilton, of London, will preach in Watford Congregational church, Sunday.

Those who want to visit friends over the Easter holiday will have to pay regular return fares, as no special rates will be given on Canadian railways, which have all they can do to furnish cars for rolling stock and handling returned soldiers.

MANY municipalities are contemplating a celebration on the day the peace terms are signed. The idea is a good one. The day will likely be proclaimed a public holiday and no more fitting time could be selected to have a real, genuine home-coming celebration for our brave and honored soldier boys. Different societies are discussing the entertainment of the boys in various ways. Why not all join together and make a monster dinner and all others should pay, fees, the proceeds to be given to the Soldiers' Memorial Fund. This is just a suggestion. Is it in whole or part worth considering?

Petrolia Will Celebrate July 1st
A Grand County Reunion of the Great War Veterans will be held in Petrolia on July 1st. A committee of citizens already has the matter in hand and invitations will be issued at an early date. J. C. Waddell is acting secretary of the Citizens' Committee.

A very pretty and fashionable wedding took place on Wednesday at the residence of Mr. F. F. Pardee, K.C., M.P., in Sarnia, when his only daughter, Pauline Louise, was married to John Cowan, J. of Sarnia, Canon Davis officiating. Brooklyn Eagle:—Americans criticize the wild love of pleasure that prevails in German cities. There is a precedent in the Irishman, asking why he laughed when the bull had him on its horns and was pitching him over a fence, who said:—"I didn't know whether I should have a chance to laugh after I landed." Berlin probably feels the same way.

The Dominion Government proposes to confer a decoration: "The Silver cross of sacrifice," upon widows and mothers of soldiers who gave their lives in the war, in memory of the men who have fallen and in recognition of the heroic part of Canadian women in the great conflict. In addition the next of kin of soldiers who have lost their lives will receive a memorial plaque of bronze being issued by the Government.

Hardware and Metal: "The value of a good local newspaper is much greater than many people seem to think. One way the home merchant can help not only to keep it good, but to make it better, is to patronize it and furnish it with ads. A little investigation will convince anyone that the great majority of people are just as much interested in reading attractively written ads as they are in following the general news. Many merchants do not always appreciate the mighty power the press is in helping to carry on the business of the country and in maintaining its power.

Bolsheviki Are "Raskols"

It may not be generally understood that the Russian Bolsheviki are, for the most part, religious schismatics. Open the question with a priest of the Russian Greek church, and he will declare firmly that this is true. He seems to say, "Yes, they are the raskols!" Concerning this there can be no question; but that which he really says is, "They are the raskols!" Raskols, or Ras-Kolniski, is the name that the national church of Russia gives to all the dissenters who have renounced her communion, and for that reason are considered capable of such acts as characterize the Bolsheviki.

By the few writers who have mentioned these schismatics, their origin has been ascribed to the alterations made in the church books by Patriarch Nikon in the seventeenth century; but according to Russian annals they were known within less than five centuries after Christianity entered Russia. The first Raskol is said to have been a Jew, named Horie, who, in the reign of Ioan Vasilovitch I, mixed the observances of Judaism with the doctrines of Christianity. Two priests, Denis and Alexie, were the first to embrace his opinions. Alexie changed his name to Abraham, and called his wife Sarah. He and Denis were over two churches in Moscow and lost no opportunity of spreading their doctrines. Among their converts was Zosimes, metropolitan of Moscow. His defection led to a persecution of the dissenters, who had adopted the name of Strigolniki; but the more the severity of fire and sword, the more the heresy grew. Karp, a deacon, joined the sect, drew away more people than Denis, Alexie and Zosimes had done; and the national church rekindled the flames of persecution and did not rest until the remnant that was left had fled to Poland and Sweden.

The Raskolniks divided early in their history into Popofskins, who admit priests from the Greek church, and Bezpopofskins, who have no priests at all, or priests of their own ordination.

Like the national church the Raskols hold to the Nicene creed. But instead of the corrected church books, ceremonies, and pictures, they exploit the ancient manuscripts and pictures as the only genuine. The dissenters of the present day have laid aside many of the old absurd and ignorant opinions, and are usually better versed in the Scriptures than the orthodox neighbors. They declare that their morals are exemplary, but the authorities do not incline to agree in this. Their opposition to the church is held to be tantamount to opposition to civil authority; and although some of the more opulent merchants of Petrograd are Raskols, and above reproach, the stigma obtains.

The great body of Raskols are Popofskins. At the lead are the two churches—at Staradubofsk and Vetka, which are said to comprise more than 100,000 members. They have been persecuted and exiled to Siberia in large numbers at different times, but in spite of this treatment are prosperous. After these come the Diaconofskins, an offshoot of the Vetka church; the Persmanofskins; and the Cernobols. These sects will not take an oath, refuse to shave their beards, decline to pray for the civil authorities, and declare that the end of the world is drawing near.

The Bezpopofskins are also divided into several sects. The Duhoborski, better known as Dukhobors, stand first. They throw aside all the orthodox rites and ceremonies, and reject baptism and the Lord's supper. They said that their name signifies "wrestlers with the spirit," and call themselves "Christians" and all other people "world men and women." They declare that they are descendants of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the Jews who would not worship the golden image of Nebuchadnezzar. They are widely scattered in the provinces, and are also found in Germany and Canada. They never enter an orthodox church, or now before the pictures, protesting that the church is a den of thieves. They have worship, singing, praying, and reading the Bible, but without priests and external rites. They believe in the Trinity, and say that regeneration and baptism are all the same thing. They respect departed saints, but do not pray to them. Death is called "the change." Marriage is not a sacrament, but simply an agreement. After the Duhoborski are the Pomoryans, who say that Antichrist has come and put an end in the church to all that is holy; the Theodosians, who say the church preaches up Antichrist under the name Jesus; the Philipofskins, who are severe in fasting; the Netofskins, who have the Pomoryan idea of Antichrist; the Pastushkiks, who declare fasting sinful; the Novajents, who say Antichrist is reigning in Russia, the Samokrestkis, Molokans, Ikono-borski, and several other minor sects.

In the eyes of the orthodox believers the Raskols are capable of all the crimes in the calendar; but while their identification with the Bolsheviki is beyond question doubtless, the underlying reason is to be found in their age-long grievance against ecclesiastical and civil authority, which they consider as one.

FINE SPOT FOR REST.

Village That Never Grows Has Its Appeal.

In the glorious summer time, when vacationists from the cities scatter in a thousand and one directions to seek pure air, rest, recreation and a change of scene, some of them come across the village that never grows. It is found here and there, but not everywhere. Usually it consists of a postoffice, a schoolhouse of field stone or of the "little old red" variety, a church, a dozen or twenty dwelling houses and a population of less than a hundred.

It was founded a century or two ago, and it has changed some since then, but has not grown. There is but one place that shows increase, and that is the churchyard. Sometimes a road searches out the village and the bell and wheel of the locomotive disturb the long-established quiet of the place, but it refuses to grow, even when a station is added to the number of buildings. For the good but inert inhabitants simply tolerate the innovation and make use of the train, they never require them to do so; but sooner or later an old shed is burned down and the normal number of buildings is thus happily restored.

Yet the village that never grows has its proper place in rural economy, and is not to be despised, as those well know who have found it for their summer vacation. All around it are farms and the village is the place where the farmers attend religious services, where the children go to school, where the "garden cases" are sold, and where much of the farm produce is sent to be forwarded to the Government storerooms or to the front. There is no reason why the village should grow. It fulfills its purpose perfectly as it is. It holds fast to the old-time religion, conserves old-time religious virtues, has no ambitions and does not envy other places that double their population every decade and their taxes and responsibilities in proportion.

And what a restful place is the village that never grows for the work-weary vacationist who has no taste for the ocean resort, no regard for the big mountain hotel and no pocketbook for either. It is the place of delicious quiet, of restful inactivity, of good victuals, clean water, pure air, homelike attention, courteous though unpolished companionship, the privilege to go when and where one pleases, to do anything or nothing as inclination suggests and to have as good a time as it is possible to enjoy. The village that never grows is like a diamond in the mine, a treasure for the one who finds it. And in spite of automobiles, trolleys, railroads, electric lights and modern improvements of all kinds, there are more of these quiet, restful, charming villages than many people suspect.

Over 200 cities, towns and villages throughout the Province of Ontario that participated in the Ontario Government fish scheme last year, are renewing contracts for the present year. Under the Government plan it is necessary for the vendor desiring to secure the fish to make a deposit with the municipal clerk. The municipality in turn guarantees the account to the Government. It also nominates the vendors to be appointed by the department.

A handsome roof that defies the weather

An added touch of beauty to any house is a roof of Brantford Asphalt Slates, which are in soft, harmonious shades of reddish brown and dark green. The colors are permanent and unfadeable, being the natural shades of the slate just as it is taken out of the quarries.

It will also prove a very economical roof, because Brantford Asphalt Slates do not split, get loose, absorb water or rot. They are strongly fire-resistant and are classified as non-combustible by the fire insurance companies, and allowed to be used in cities where the most rigid fire-prevention By-laws are in force.

Brantford Asphalt Slates are very moderate in cost. The regular size of the slates and their pliability make them easily and quickly laid, thus saving time and cost of labor. Being made of high grade felt saturated and coated with asphalt, and with a surface of crushed slate, they make a roof that defies the elements and is a permanent part of the building, just like the walls and the foundation.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are being used more extensively every year for city, country and summer homes, churches, golf clubs, stores, garages, and wherever an artistic effect is desired on a pitch roof.

If you are going to do any building this year or have an old roof that needs replacing, it will be to your advantage to investigate Brantford Asphalt Slates.

Count Michael Karolyi Was Radical Aristocrat And Now Leads Democracy

FROM Tisza to Karolyi; for the Magyar people these four words condense the political evolution of a century into four tempestuous years. Was it not but yesterday that Count Stephen Tisza ruled Hungary with the power of a military despot and dictated the policies of the camouflage empire of the Hapsburgs. And to-day? Count Tisza is dead, his heart pierced by the bullets of Magyar soldiers whose brethren he had sent to the shambles by the hundred thousand—crushed by the very forces he more than anybody else, not even the Kaiser excepted, had helped to turn loose upon the world. And his once derided and insulted rival, Count Karolyi, is the beloved leader of newly-born Magyar democracy.

A good way to explain Karolyi is to contrast him to Tisza. Typical representatives, each in his way, of their race and caste, these two aristocrats have but one quality in common—indomitable courage, physical and moral. Bodily valor, however, is the common heritage of Magyar aristocracy whose life is a mixture of English outdoor exercises and the discipline of cavalry officers. The different manifestation in each of the quality called moral courage is the measure of the gulf that separated the two men. For Tisza, moral courage was an impenetrable armor behind which he defied the twentieth century in the terms of the fourteenth. He had a certain style, a simplicity of outline, which commanded the admiration even of his enemies. This style is not the property of cowards. Karolyi's moral courage helped him to battle his way through the Chinese wall of caste feeling and class interest, to face social ostracism for the sake of democratic ideas.

If sheer force of character and oneness of purpose are desirable standards, Tisza was by far the greater man of the two. He was a splendid specimen of Junkerdom—not of the Prussian variety, though. He had no use for the scientific methods of oppression, did not believe in bribing people into submission. He was all for the whip and the sabre as the instruments of political education for the masses—feudal baron merged into a Russian police general. His Magyarism was simply caste feeling and Oriental exclusiveness. His stern religion finishes the picture. He was a Calvinist crusader—at the same time a devout servant of his Catholic master the King. A Cromwell willing to fight and die for the divine right of James II.

The pragmatic test of social usefulness establishes the undisputed superiority of Karolyi. His is a flexible, developable, receptive mind—Tisza's opinions were of cast iron. He is as cosmopolitan in education and attitude as Tisza was parochial—as European as Tisza was Asiatic. Socially and intellectually, the two men compared as a granite statue of Sulla compares to a live Paris clubman.

It goes without saying that his activities as Radical leader did not tend to popularize Karolyi among his fellow-aristocrats. They affected not to take him seriously—derided him as a crank and a doctrinaire.

Now members of the ruling caste had a very legitimate grievance against the "Red Count." Heir to the Karolyi entail, second only to that of the Prince Esterhazy and reputed to be worth about $30,000,000, Count Michael started public life as president of the Hungarian Agricultural Union, the representative body of Magyar Junker reaction. One day he announced to that distinguished gathering of Magyar Westarps and Leventlows that he was through with them for good, that they were all wrong, that the future belongs to democracy, and that he was going to fight for the rights of the common people.

The question naturally arises: Why does Karolyi not live up to his principles and turn over his vast estates to the Hungarian people? This is the favorite question of his hecklers. But he has an answer: "I will not give my estates to the Magyar people because I want the Magyar people to come and take them away. I won't give them to my people, and I won't bribe them. The land rightfully belongs to them—when they will awaken to this, they'll go and seize it, and as far as I am concerned they are entirely welcome."

His record during the last four years is more or less known to the Candid public. In Parliament he opposed bitterly submarine warfare, demanded renunciation of all imperialistic aims and a peace program along Wilsonian lines, attacked the Germans whenever he saw a chance, and professed pro-Ally sympathies with increasing frankness. His endeavors were duly honored when, early in 1918, he was indicted for high treason on a charge brought by his own cousin, Count Emery Karolyi. The German Government appreciated his activities by establishing at Budapest a special secret service to watch him. The thing came out; there was a big scandal in Parliament, and Major Consten, the German secret agent, had to make a hurried exit.

Karolyi advocated just treatment for the subject nationalities ever since he turned Radical. Nevertheless, he was denounced by Slovak and Roumanian spokesmen as a Magyar chauvinist because of his insistence on the indivisibility of the Magyar state. His stand has its parallel in the attitude of Russian Liberals toward the Ukraine. But there is every reason to assume that Karolyi has at last realized that the friendship of the Czech-Slovaks and Jugoslavs and Roumanians can be gained only through co-operation with their free national states. His whole development points in this direction.

Even his best friends would refrain from calling Karolyi a genius of the first rank. But his good-will, his sincerity, his zeal to do the right thing, are coupled with a keen sense of justice, a European outlook and power to grasp the international foundations of genuine democracy. Above all, he lacks that cocksure, parochial, intolerant haughtiness which characterized almost all Magyar statesmen since the death of the two real Liberals, Deak and Eotvos. Leon Gambetta has shown the world how a high-spirited nation can turn defeat into victory. Fate has put Count Michael Karolyi into a position where he might prove the Gambetta of Hungary. The interest of Europe and the world demands that he succeed.

The Late Mrs. Maw

On Saturday, March 15th, Mrs. John Maw, of Wyoming, passed away, having suffered from a paralytic stroke on the previous Wednesday. The funeral took place the following Tuesday from her late home, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Geo. Jewitt, and Rev. Geo. N. Hazen, B.A., a former and highly esteemed pastor. Mrs. Maw was born in Yorkshire, England, on April 19th, 1843. She was the daughter of the late Richard and Mrs. Rogers. During the year 1846 the parents with their two daughters started for America, the mother dying at sea. The father and the girls came to the Gore of Toronto where they made their home twenty-four years. While there, on the 17th of March, 1859, she was married to John Maw, her now sorrowing husband. Thus for nearly sixty years they as husband and wife have enjoyed each other's fellowship. Forty-nine years ago with their family they moved to the old homestead in Plympton township, where for thirty-two years they made their home, the last seventeen years of life being spent in the village of Wyoming. Mrs. Maw was a good woman, a loving and faithful mother, a kind neighbor and for fifty years a member of the Methodist church in which she served most earnestly her Savior and Master. The following survive and mourn her loss: Her husband, John Maw, of Wyoming; three daughters, Mrs. Jas. Rawson, of London; Mrs. James Williamson, of Petrolia; Mrs. James Stonehouse, of Wyoming; and four sons, Newton of Sarnia township; James, of Copleston; John of Wyoming, and Henry on the old homestead.

SUDDEN DEATH OF HON. W. J. HANNA

Distinguished Canadian Was Visiting at Augusta, Georgia, in Search of Health

Hon. William John Hanna, K. C., formerly Provincial Secretary in the Ontario Government, former Dominion Food Controller, President of the Imperial Oil Company, and Vice-President of the International Petroleum Company, died suddenly as the result of a stroke Thursday morning March 20th, at Augusta, Georgia, whither he had gone about two weeks ago for his health.

The news of Mr. Hanna's death came as a distinct shock and surprise to his friends in Watford and vicinity where he was so well known as man and boy, having in his younger days being closely connected with the interests of the township of Brooke.

The late Hon. W. J. Hanna was born in Adelaide Township, and when a small boy came with his family to Brooke township and settled on the farm at Walnut now owned by W. S. Shugg. At the age of 17 he had obtained a teacher's certificate and was engaged as teacher on the 10th line, of Brooke, where he taught for three years. In 1885 he left his father's home and entered the offices of McKenzie, Gurd and Kittermaster, Sarnia, as a law student. He was called to the Ontario Bar in 1890, and practised law in Sarnia, where he handled much of the business for the oil interests of that district. In 1908 he was created a King's Counsel.

After two unsuccessful attempts to enter the Provincial House—the first at the general election in 1896, and later in 1900—he was finally returned as representative for West Lambton in 1902, and again in 1905, 1908, 1911 and 1914. From 1905 until 1916 he was Provincial Secretary, and from then until February, 1918, he was Minister without portfolio. In June, 1917, he accepted the post of Food Controller for Canada, serving as such for seven months, when he resigned to devote all his time to his private interests.

The outstanding achievement of his career in the Legislature, and one with which his name will ever be associated, was the establishment of the Provincial Prison Farms, where the inmates work in the open air, without the traditional prison garb or armed guards. By emphasizing the redemptive rather than the penal side of prison detention, he launched an experiment the excellent results of which have served as a model in other parts of the world. His influence was also felt in the asylums, which he transformed, in fact as in name to curative hospitals for the insane.

It is generally felt by his friends that his only son's death in Italy last November had shaken the father severely and undermined his health to some extent. Flight-Lieut. Neil Hanna died last November 20, the result of an accident, while on duty in Italy.

The late Mr. Hanna is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Spaulding, of Toronto, and Miss Catherine Hanna who is studying at Vassar College Poughkeepsie, New York.

Being brought up on the farm with good home training he went out into the world physically strong and rich in ideas to win position and he won beyond the expectations of his warmest and closest friends. His ability as a public speaker, backed with good judgment, common sense and humor, made his entry into public life easy. From the moment that he was elected as an M. P. P. all obstacles to success vanished. He always remained a man of the people and even when immense wealth poured in on him he was the same "W. J." to those who knew him. Extravagant in his tastes when he wished to enjoy a real good chat with a friend the old clay pipe was preferable to an expensive cigar. When a struggling young lawyer he always wore a certain kind of hat and when he became a national figure and a millionaire he did not discard it. He was democratic from start to finish.

Deceased was familiarly known to every ratepayer in Lambton and his appearance in public or in private was always hailed with delight by those favored with his presence. He always had a sympathetic ear for the unfortunate and as a lawyer smoothed the furrows from many a troubled brow.

The funeral was held at Sarnia on Tuesday afternoon. Representatives of the great business interests with which Hon. Mr. Hanna had been associated, as well as of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, besides many purely personal friends, gathered here from New York, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto to pay homage to his memory.

The casket was carried to the grave by Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario; Mr. W. C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Mr. G. H. Smith and Mr. C. O. Stillman, Vice-Presidents of the Imperial Oil Company; Mr. Hugh Clark, M. P., of Ottawa, and Mr. J. H. Kittermaster, of Sarnia.

The honorary pallbearers were: Col. Lang, representing his Excellency the Governor-General; Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; Hon. Arthur Meighen, representing the Dominion Government; Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Ontario Government; Mr. J. L. Englehart, the Timiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway; Mr. A. C. Bedford, the Standard Oil Company of New York; Judge MacWatt of Sarnia; Mr. H. B. Thompson, Food Controller; Mr. Joseph Armstrong, M.P. for East Lambton; Mr. F. F. Pardee, M.P. for West Lambton; Mr. S. C. Williams, the Sarnia Conservative Association, and Mr. William Kerr, the West Lambton Conservative Association.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or curing colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Boys and Girls Must Have Pets

Dogs, Pigeons, Rabbits
Cats, Canaries

Among 250,000 boys and girls in Western Ontario are thousands of prospective purchasers, at good prices, of dogs, birds, fine cats, pigeons, fish, ferrets, guinea pigs, white mice, Belgian hares, canaries, rabbits. Most of these boys and girls their parents, big brothers or friends, read the For Sale Classified Ads. in The Free Press. Most rugged, red-blooded boys have some pets and a lot of trading, buying and selling takes place early in the spring. Why don't you let others know what pets you want to sell or buy. Thousands of eager eyes are scanning the classified ads. in The Free Press For Sale and Wanted to Purchase columns every day. Just write down a careful description of the pet you want to buy or sell, figure the cost of ad. at two cents a word each insertion. Groups of figures of four or less count as one word. Send ad., together with payment, and say how many times you want your ad. to appear. Better run it three days.

DOCTOR SAYS VINOL IS THE BEST TONIC

Honest Opinion Doctor Gave His Patient

Bedford, Ohio.—"I was in a pitiful condition, weak, nervous and run down so I could not do my housework. I had doctored for years and tried everything under the sun. A friend told me about Vinol. I asked my doctor about it, and he replied, 'It certainly is the best medicine that can be had today. I couldn't give you any better.' I took it, and today I am as well and strong as any woman could wish to be, and it was Vinol that saved me."—Mrs. Frank A. Horkey, Ash St., Bedford, Ohio.

The Blue Goddess

By LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Peggy lay awake at night listening to the rain. Oh, if it would only stop! She had planned so many things for the next day, the day Captain Pearson was to be in town and had asked her if he could come to see her.

Come to see her! Peggy's heart had fluttered almost to suffocation when she read the few lines on the heavy white paper. Come to see her! She had closed her eyes and pressed the words to her heart in ecstasy. The tall, serious officer she had met at the Marstons, about whom all the girls had been completely mad, including herself!

Then Peggy had done some officering herself, as Peggy could. Her little hands, which took only a five-and-a-half glove, could make Phil and little Chuckie step around more lively in one minute than father and mother combined could do in a week, and a word from her pretty red lips meant more to Susan in the kitchen than a whole regiment of orders from higher up. Lola, her twelve-year-old sister, adored her openly, as did Lola's girl friends, who met after school every day for Peggy to instruct in knitting.

The officering Peggy did, on receipt of Captain Pearson's letter, consisted of disposing of the family for the day, beginning with Philip and Charles, and had gone on down the line until no one was left but her mother and father and herself. Captain Pearson was to stop to dinner, and Susan was to achieve the most delectable meal Peggy's busy brain could plan.

In short, the program was to be as follows: Morning, house cleaned up, flowers arranged in bowls everywhere, best linen and silver hunted up, porches cleaned and everything in order.

Afternoon—The boys to go fishing after school and to Aunt Mary's for supper and to stay all night; Lola and the club to go to Mabel Brown's and Lola to stop for dinner and all night, as Mabel had so often coaxed.

Peggy planned to put on her new sport suit of army blue jersey and with her own little car sparkling clean was to take the captain for a ride out to Bowling Rocks to see the view, stop at the club and introduce him to a few friends, then bring him home to a quiet, delicious candle-lit dinner for four, Peggy in her new pink dress; a whole delightful evening alone on the moonlit veranda (there was a moon, Peggy found from the calendar a whole week ahead), and then—Peggy never tried to look past that.

But—"The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley."

It rained, and it rained and rained and rained. The flowers would be ruined, the tulips had been almost ready to drop anyway. The road to Bowling Rocks was impassable now, even with a whole day's sun, and the boys couldn't go fishing. Mother wouldn't let them when it was damp.

After a sleepless night Peggy was up at six. To her surprise, her mother was sitting in the hall. Peggy opened her door. "What is it, mother?" she asked.

"It's Susan; she's sick. I've been up all night with her. I think she got overheated yesterday and then cooled off too quickly. I'll send for Doctor Boyce soon, now, but I think she'll be all right in a day or two."

"A day or two! But, mother, Captain Pearson's coming to dinner and there's so much to be done today."

"I'm sorry, dear, but we can't help it. I'm almost too tired to get breakfast."

Peggy's face changed instantly. "Don't you worry, mommy, dear. I'll get breakfast. You telephone for the doctor, then go and lie down. I'll get the kiddies off to school."

After that there was no rest for Peggy. The rain kept up and Susan got worse. The doctor came and stayed, and Peggy had to be everywhere at once—in the kitchen one minute, filling hot water bottles the next, answering the telephone, making beds, washing dishes, getting lunch, and a hundred other things.

Lunch over, the boys had to be warned to come straight home from school, for it was the kind of day when mother worried about them. And, as the Browns lived too far away, Lola was told to come home also.

Lola forgot about the company and at four o'clock the entire knitting club walked in. The boys had brought a few extra spirits along too. Never was there such a houseful.

Peggy by this time had accepted the inevitable, changed to a blue linen dress with white collar and cuffs and apron, and decided to make the best of it.

She was out sweeping some extra large chunks of mud off the front steps when Captain Pearson arrived. Peggy did not run, nor hide the broom. She stood smiling down at him from the top of the steps—a blue goddess with the emblem of woman's sphere in her hand. The humor of the situation lent an added sparkle to her smile.

"I'm so glad to see you, captain," she said, holding out her unoccupied hand to this splendidly caparisoned man. "It's a dreadful day, isn't it? I have some small brothers who won't wipe their feet, and they in turn have a dozen or two friends who won't wipe theirs. But just come in and see what I have on my hands today—a combination day nursery and a hospital. I'm two kinds of nurse."

"Lucky people!" said the captain, warmly holding her hand.

"Also I'm not sure that you're going to get any dinner. If Susan sleeps, I can cook it. If not, I can't. Mother has developed neuralgia, so the family may have to eat crackers and cheese in the pantry."

"But I can't stay anyway," said the captain. "I just came to tell you I can't come—that is, not till Thursday. I'm on my way to New York on business and stopped over a few minutes between trains."

In fact, he did stay just long enough to meet the admiring friends of Lola and the boys. Then he had to go. "I'll be back on Thursday for all day, Miss Peggy, if it suits you," he said as he left.

Thursday it didn't rain. Susan was better and able to cook the delectable meal. The boys went to Aunt Mary's, Lola to Mabel Brown's. The road to Bowling Rocks was good, the car perfect, and Peggy never prettier. More flowers had come out in the garden, and the house looked wonderfully sweet and attractive.

The moon was full now, and the veranda that night a fairland of lacework shadows. Delicious scents came from the garden, and Peggy breathed a sigh of ecstasy. It had all worked out so satisfactory—just as she had planned.

"Peggy, dear, I love you," said the captain suddenly.

"Why—why, captain?" said Peggy, breathlessly.

"Yes I do, and I may as well tell you now. Why wait? I've known it all along, but I'll confess if I hadn't seen you Monday I should probably have waited. I can hardly tell you why. It's because, perhaps, I've always had a horror of useless women. I wish you could know how adorable you looked that day in your blue dress. Most girls would have been worried to death. Peggy, dear little Peggy, tell me you care a little, won't you?"

"Yes, I do," said Peggy, happily, "I love you very much." But, woman like, she knew it wasn't the blue dress and the broom at all that did it. It was the pink dress, and the shadows, and the garden scents, and the moon!

Men Cannot Rival the Fish.

Information concerning the number of eggs produced by various species of fish has been limited mainly to rather rough estimates. According to the Allgemeine Fischerei-Zeitung, some careful counts were made last year at the Bavarian trout hatchery. The first investigations were in connection with common trout and rainbow trout; 53 specimens of the former and 54 of the latter were stripped and the spawn counted. The older and heavier fish were found to have the most eggs (ranging up to about 3,000), but the younger fish yielded a decidedly larger number of eggs in proportion to the weight of the fish. The experiments were repeated with perch (Perca fluviatilis), in this case the females just about to spawn being killed and dissected. The number of eggs in perch ranged from 3,710 for a fish four inches long up to 30,490 for one 10.2 inches long; but in this species, also, the number of eggs per unit weight of fish is much larger in small than in large fish.—Scientific American.

Only One Aviator Has Reached Forty.

All this amazing science of war flying is in the hands of boys and youths. Rarely do we find a successful airman 40 years old. Lieutenant Colonel Piccio of Italy, with a score of seventeen airplanes brought down to date, is the only ace in the world who has reached this age. On the other hand, fully a score of celebrated fighting aces are under the age of 20. It is a young man's game, and solely by the experience and inventions of these young men will this important arm of warfare evolve and become perfected.—Lawrence La Tourette Driggs in the Century Magazine.

REALLY BEARER OF MESSAGE

Pain Has Its Purposes and Should by No Means Be Looked Upon as an Enemy.

Pain is a message sent to the brain to report that some part of the body is in trouble, and to ask for relief. It is, therefore, not an unmixed evil, but a boon or a blessing, according to the view that we take of it. Many persons, especially those whose nervous organizations are acutely sensitive, dread pain, both for themselves and for others, to such a degree that their first instinct is to do something—anything—if only the distress can be checked. They refuse to listen to the message, and think only of hushing it. If we adopt the view that pain is a faithful servant bringing us a message, we alter our whole attitude toward it. We learn to listen patiently and to organize relief wisely. But we must remember that there is pain that can and must be borne, and pain that cannot and should not be borne.

In certain kinds of accident, such as extensive burns or lacerations, the physician always gives the speediest temporary relief that is in his power and then removes the sufferer to a place where he can give him proper care. In such cases the call for the morphine needle, or for some other anodyne, is a perfectly legitimate one. But there are certain kinds of intense pain that ought not to be immediately masked with an anodyne, because it is very necessary that the physician should be able to incorporate their messages in his diagnosis. Sometimes, as, for example, when there is urgent need of an operation, quieting the patient with morphine might mean that when the effect of the drug had worn off and the pain began to call attention again to the diseased condition it would be too late to save the patient.

Many of the pains we suffer are coward pains. We know very well that a little courage would give us relief, but we are so much afraid of the dentist's chair or of the surgeon's lance or probe that we temporize from day to day and so endure a great deal of unnecessary suffering.

Pain is a good servant and a bad master. We should learn to heed its message and then dismiss it as quickly as possible. When it is of the chronic type and cannot be dismissed, we should always consult a trained physician. He will do his best to render it bearable and he will save us from adding the blunders and penalties of self-doing to our troubles.—Youth's Companion.

Changes in Hudson Bay.

The trappers and others employed by the Hudson Bay company have noticed that where deep water was to be found in the bay heretofore it is becoming so shallow that navigation is accomplished with difficulty. Investigation has led to the discovery that the shores of the great body of water are gradually being tipped as if an effort was being made to empty its waters into the adjoining sea. The bay where Henry Hudson spent the winter of 1610 has entirely disappeared or has so changed that it cannot be now located, although there is sufficient data left by him to locate the bay under conditions as he found them.

Mrs. Fred Hogarth, Toronto, and four children under five years old, are dead as a result of gas poisoning, caused through an open jet in a gas stove.

It will cure a cold.—Colds are the commonest ailments of mankind and if neglected may lead to serious conditions. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve the bronchial passages of inflammation speedily and thoroughly and will strengthen them against subsequent attack. And as it eases the inflammation it will stop the cough because it allays all irritation in the throat. Try it and prove it.

A Substitute for Milk.

In Japan there is said to be a very satisfactory substitute for milk, just as the nut margarines are a substitute for butter. Cows are very scarce in Japan and the people are using an artificial milk derived from the soy bean. The bean is first soaked and then boiled until the liquid turns white, when sugar and phosphate of potash are added. The boiling is resumed until the liquid has the appearance of ordinary condensed milk. When water is added soy milk is hardly to be distinguished from fresh cow's milk.

The Reason.

Wife—I used to like the smell of cigar smoke before we were married, but I don't now.

Hub—Well, you see, my dear, I could afford to buy quite a different brand before we were married.

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation warranted to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly, and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

SPRING FEVER

Following Colds, Grippe, The Watery or Poisoned Blood

(By DR. VALENTINE MOTT.)

At this time of year most people suffer from what we term "spring fever," because of a stagnant condition of the blood, because of the toxic poisons stored up within the body during the long winter. We eat too much meat with little or no green vegetables. Bloodless people, thin, anemic people, those with pale cheeks and lips, who have a poor appetite and feel that tired, worn or feverish condition in the spring time of the year, should try the refreshing tonic powers of a good alterative and blood purifier. Such a tonic as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has sold for fifty years, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a standard remedy that can be obtained in tablet or liquid form. Made without alcohol from wild roots and barks.

Occasionally one should "clean house" with castor oil or tiny pills made up of the May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap, and sold by almost all druggists in this country as Doctor Pierce's Pileosan Pellets.

SARNIA, ONT.—"I was in a very bad condition. I could not eat without feeling distressed. Had indigestion so badly I was always in misery. I had lived in trouble as well, and the two just put me 'down and out' for about five years. I had many good doctors but got no relief. I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken two bottles I was much improved, and in less than six months I was well. I could eat anything and do my work with pleasure."—MRS. ANNIE BARCOM, 226 Burand St.

An incubator is a machine and responds to treatment the same as any other machine. It is not difficult to handle but it can not supply its own oil for heat or keep itself clean, nor yet can it supply the little chicks inside the eggs with good pure air unless the room in which the incubator is placed has good air.

The room in which the machine is run should be clean and well ventilated. If you can sleep in the room comfortably it is good enough. Usually a cellar is the best place because the temperature is more even and the machine is therefore easier to regulate as to heat.

"THE STORE THAT SATISFIES"

THE SPRING TONIC FOR PALE, THIN PEOPLE

If You Want to Gain in Weight and Recover Your Appetite, Energy and Ambition, Try This Well Known Remedy

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give. In a word, while not exactly sick, the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon them, and a blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic is needed to give renewed health and energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood, and with this new blood returning strength, cheerfulness and good health quickly follow.

If you are pale and sallow, easily tired, or breathless at the least exertion; if your complexion is poor, or if you are troubled with pimples or eruptions, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just what you need to put you right. If you have twinges of rheumatism, are subject to headaches or backaches, if you are irritable or nervous, if your sleep does not refresh you, or your appetite is poor, you need the treatment which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can give—you need the new blood, new health and new energy this medicine always brings.

A COMPLETE WRECK

Mrs. C. Forsythe, R. R. No. 2, Fisherville, Ont., says: "At the age of fourteen my daughter Viola was feeling very much run down in the spring. Then she was attacked with whooping cough which left her a complete wreck. She had no appetite, could not sleep well nights and was subject to chills which sometimes kept her in bed for the day. She was doctoring steadily, but not apparently getting the least benefit, and I naturally grew very anxious. One of my neighbors suggested giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a box. When she began using the pills she weighed only 87 pounds. Before the box was all gone I sent and got six more boxes, and under their use she constantly grew stronger. Her appetite improved, the color came back to her cheeks, she could sleep well, and feels and looks like a different person, and with all this while using the pills she gained 20 pounds in weight."

A SALLOW COMPLEXION

Miss Gladys Marshall, Chatham, Ont., says: "I suffered from nervousness and my blood was in a very poor condition. My face broke out in pimples and my complexion was very sallow. I took doctors' medicine but without beneficial results. I was feeling much discouraged when a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used in all six boxes, and was overjoyed to find that my complexion had become quite clear, pimples had disappeared, my nerves were strengthened and my old-time health and ambition returned. I shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Notwithstanding the increased cost of all drugs, there has been no change in the price of our Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They can be had through any medicine dealer at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, or will be sent on receipt of price by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GAINED IN WEIGHT

Mrs. M. B. Rickert, Kitchener, Ont., says: "I was weak, run down, and losing weight when I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the pills steadily for a month, and the difference they made in my condition was most gratifying. I gained both in strength and weight, and feel since I used the pills like a new person. I also recommended the use of the pills to my daughter-in-law, who was pale, thin and weak. When she began using the pills she weighed only 103 pounds and when she discontinued their use she weighed 137 pounds. For all weak people I think there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

A SPRING COLD

Mrs. Chas. Winegarden, Delhi, Ont., says: "Last spring my daughter Ruby was taken with a bad cold. She seemed weak, had a constant pain in her side, grew pale, and as the remedies usually used in cases of this kind did not help her we feared she was going into a decline. I decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got six boxes. Before she had used them all, she was again well and strong. The cough had left her, she had a good appetite, the pain in her side disappeared, and a nice rosy color had returned to her cheeks. I have therefore much reason to speak warmly in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

MISSIONARY WORK IN CHINA'S INTERIOR

[The following article, taken from The Latter Rain Evangel, of Chicago, is written by Rev. Wilbert Williamson, son of Mr. William Williamson, of Watford, and tells how he was led into the interior of China to do missionary work.]

Last summer the South China missionaries held a conference regarding reaching out into the interior, and the Spirit of God fanned into a flame the sparks that had long been smoldering. Brother Wilbert Williamson, who was called of the Lord to the Kwangsi Province when he received his call to China, writes how the Lord definitely led him and Mrs. Williamson into that Province:

"All summer we had felt led in this direction, and when fall came God was still speaking to our hearts, but the way was blocked and the door seemed closed tighter than ever. There was an opening for a mission at Sai Ooi, on the way there, and we thought perhaps we were to go there for a time until the way was opened to Kwangsi, but while we were looking for a place the Lord made it plain to us we were not to be turned aside from the place of our calling. While waiting at Sai Nam for the door to open, an old man came down from the Kwangsi border to visit a friend of mine. He was a friend died, and the old man was much touched by the kindness of God's people towards his friend in his sickness, and when asked why he did not believe the Gospel he replied, 'I want to but I have no one to come to my country and teach me and my people.' He further stated that if some one would come he would help him find a place to live."

"This was just why the Lord was holding us at Sai Nam and here was the open door. After some little delay I was able to start out, with a native Christian, for Waitap, over the Kwangsi border on one day's journey. At Sai Ooi we had to wait two days for the boat to take us on. Here we had an opportunity to sell Gospels and preach by the roadside to the multitudes of men and women that had come from the country to worship at a late festival. I shall never forget the burden of my heart as we talked to the people who heard about Jesus for the first time, and who probably might never hear again. Yet how hard it was with only one hearing to fully comprehend its meaning! Traveling two long days we reached the Kwangsi border, and another day took us to our destination. About 2 p.m. we started to walk the remainder of the distance over a mountain trail, arriving at Waitap that night very sore and tired but happy in God's will. Here at last my eyes beheld in the natural what I had seen by faith so long, and now my feet were planted on Kwangsi soil, and right there I took it for Christ by faith."

"The old man met us with open arms. Having no room in his own home he escorted us to a Chinese inn nearby. It was very dirty and the room in which I had to sleep had wet brick for a floor without the sun's rays ever piercing its dark corners, but this mattered not to me so long as I could accomplish the mission I set out after. After many days' search for a house we found a man who was willing to move out of his and rent another for himself. He is an opium fiend and how God moved his heart is more than words can say, but God! However, I had to pay nearly two years' rent in advance before he was willing to let me have it. The house is in quite bad shape and I had some repairs made temporarily. I was visited by many of the leading men and officials of the place who said that they were very glad to have me come and that they approved of the Gospel. Sometimes I had so many visitors that I was hardly able to eat my rice without being interrupted, but I was glad to tell one and all about Jesus. When I was ready to return to Sai Nam, the magistrate sent four soldiers with me for protection, as the thieves are very bad along the river, and only a few days previously some men had been shot and robbed by bandits. However, I realized that unless God watched over us, all man's watchings were in vain.

"We started out again December 21st, taking all our belongings with us. We had such good opportunities by the way to speak for the Lord. On Christmas Day we arrived at a place called Tsan Shui, and as we stood for a minute buying vegetables, a large crowd gathered, and to all we preached Christ. The people stood and listened so attentively and their faces showed that they were longing after the true God. At An Tsai on the Ywangsi border we stopped on the following Sunday morning, and for nearly two hours we reasoned with them, of sin, of righteousness and of judgment, the Lord helping us. For miles we have to do our share of the talking."

"We arrived at Wai Tsap a few days ago and since then we have had numbers of visitors daily inquiring about our business and about the Gospel. Wai Tsap is about the size of Sai Nam, and is a district that has not been reached even by the mission boards. So far miles we have a parish that has as yet been untouched and knows nothing about the love of Jesus. There is another place about five hours' walk from here that is even larger than this place and we hope to have a mission there in the near future if God provides. We thank you for the offering that you enclosed and can say that you were not misdirected as we need the money to get our mission in order and for repairs so that we can at least live something like we ought to. This climate uses up all one's vitality in a short time and we need at least good living quarters, if such a thing is possible in China."

PASSES AWAY

(Vancouver World)
Dr. John Arthur Tanner died at St. Paul's Hospital on Monday afternoon, March 17th, after an illness extending over two or three months. The deceased was born in Warwick, Ont., in 1853. He received his preliminary education in the schools of that township, afterwards going to Sarnia where he received his first-class certificate as a teacher. Returning to his home he taught for four years. He was later principal of a number of high schools, notably that of Lestowel, Ont., and was also principal of Dufferin College at London.

Leaving the teaching profession he took a course in medicine at Trinity College, Toronto, graduating from that institution with honors. Later on he came west and took his medical degrees in the state of Washington, where he was for a number of years chief surgeon of the Tacoma and Eastern Railway. He has lived in Vancouver for about ten years past, in practical retirement from his profession, though he has taken a keen interest in municipal affairs, more particularly in Port Moody, and was especially interested in the high school question, for long a live local issue.

To many the late Dr. Tanner will be chiefly known for his activities in connection with tree planting. With Mayor Gale, before the mayor was so busy with other work, he did much to spread the desire for "a city beautiful" and through the "Arbor Day" as Dr. Tanner planned it was not carried out, a good work was started which will go on. His memory could not be better honored than by carrying out his plans for arboriculture. He was also a constant supporter of all kinds of patriotic movements. He was known to his associates as a well read and travelled man.

Dr. Tanner was unmarried and leaves two brothers and two sisters: F. W. Tanner of Moose Jaw, C. E. Tanner of Sarnia, and Mrs. Alex. Lucas and Mrs. George Powell both of Vancouver. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon from St. Paul's Church.
