Wilson's Voice Raised When Germany Is On The Decline

London Standard Questions His Right to Speak at This Stage—Extends Roosevelt's Observation About Belgian Violation Let Pass Undeclared—American Newspaper Views On Senate Speech

London, Jan. 23.—The Standard refers to President Wilson's speech as astounding and speaking of German claims of victory and the emperor's letter to the King of Wurttemberg, continues:

"In other words mediation is premature and if persisted in could be interpreted only as a desire to help the party which already claims to have won. Moreover it is not clear by what title, legal or moral, President Wilson assumes that he has any right to shape the destinies of the European continent."

"He did not protest against the infringement of the Hague Conventions. He has never expressed the smallest sympathy with the sufferings of France, Belgium, Serbia or Poland. We never heard his voice raised on behalf of suffering humanity only since Germany seemed visibly on the decline. It is really very hard to see what 'moral stand' the United States can claim in this matter."

WARY VIEWS IN AMERICAN PAPERS

New York, Jan. 23.—Excerpts from the more prominent newspapers of the United States on President Wilson's speech follow:

The New York World—Our own belief is that President Wilson has enunciated the broad principle of liberty and justice upon which alone a durable peace is possible and under which the democracy of the world can ultimately come into its own. The inference upon which the president's address exerts an influence will depend in a very large measure upon the influence which it exerts at home, and its influence at home will depend in a very large measure upon the force that American people still attach to those political principles which were once the lifeblood of the republic.

Goat Out of His Way

The New York Sun—"What Mr. Wilson is sworn to do is prescribed by the constitution. He is sworn to execute faithfully the office of president of the United States and to the best of his ability to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States. He is not sworn to execute faithfully the office of president of humanity. There is nothing in his official duties which requires him to demand the establishment of a free and united Europe or to lay down to Europe the principle that all interior European nations like Switzerland, for example, or the Republic of Andorra, shall be accorded free outlets to the sea."

The New York Times—"By one bold stroke President Wilson removes the obstacles to world peace guaranteed by the world over which our peace league folks have been wrangling for years. The president makes it very clear that the only sort of peace the people of America could join in guaranteeing would be one that embodies 'the principles of the American government.' It is based on elements consistent with our political faith and practical convictions. By its very terms this declaration might exclude us from a world league for peace, but the president will have the overwhelming support of American people in declining to commit our government to any guarantee of European dynasties or national arrangements with which we could have no sympathy."

The New York Staats Zeitung—"Upon the principles enunciated by the president yesterday must be based the only saving peace that can come to the world and the only peace to the permanence of which the American people can willingly lend their support."

WHAT OF BELGIUM. QUERIES ROOSEVELT? Oyster Bay, L. I., Jan. 23.—Labeling President Wilson's address as a grandiloquent promise, "made in an attempt to conceal the pitiful ignominy of the shirk of the present administration, Theodore Roosevelt last night took issue with the peace argument voiced before the senate."

righteousness in the nebulous future is both ridiculous and insincere."

In Washington

Washington, Jan. 23.—Congress and the diplomatic corps, recovering somewhat from their bewildered amazement of yesterday, set themselves today deliberately and with varying emotions to consider President Wilson's address to the Senate submitting the results of his moves for peace in Europe and outlining the conditions under which he believes the United States would enter a world league for permanent peace.

The president asked the Senate for no action. He merely laid before the "council associated with him" in the final determination of the country's international obligations what he has done and his views of the duty of the government "in the days that are to come when it will be necessary to lay a-fresh and upon a new plan the foundations of peace among the nations."

Copies of the address already are in the hands of American diplomats abroad for delivery to the foreign office of belligerents and neutrals, and upon the nature of its reception there may depend whether there is to be any further protracted discussion of peace in the immediate future.

After summarizing his note to the belligerents, the reply of the Central Powers to meet their antagonists in a peace conference and that of the Entente stating the general terms, what the president had to say about the immediate situation as expressed in these sentences: "We are that much nearer a definite discussion of the peace which shall end the present war. We are that much nearer the discussion of the international concert which thereafter hold the world at bay."

Eager for the Verdict

While the president is looking to Europe with the most keen interest in the effect his pronouncement may have upon the governments and peoples of the world, he is also keenly aware of the eagerness of the verdict to be given by the American public after mature deliberation upon his official declaration. It is known that he realizes the tremendous opposition which the traditional policy of the United States can take a place in a world alliance to preserve peace, even though that alliance be based upon such a peace as he outlined as the basis of a peace founded on the equality of rights of nations, right feeling among nations, and the elimination of organized rivalry. Open opposition to his ideals already has been expressed among Republicans of the Senate and the intense aversion of a large part of the people generally to any suggestion of a departure from the traditional policy of America is fully recognized.

The president is said to believe, however, that with a full understanding of his reasons for holding that it would be impossible for the United States to remain neutral through another great war, and a realization of the part their country can play in advancing civilization, Skeptical in Paris

Paris, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's address to the senate is printed in full as all the morning papers and comment as a whole is sympathetic but skeptical.

A despatch to J. M. Robinson & Sons from the "Allies" embassy in Washington tells that the president has a right to explain why he favored American participation in league for peace, and that he trespassed upon their rights by stating peace terms; also that London papers commenting on Wilson's speech, say that only allies' victory could bring a real peace.

GOVERNMENT OFFER ACCEPTED

Majority Approves Terms For Elevator Site—Nail Company's Offer to Buy Land Rejected—Wharf Watchmen Again Discussed

At the meeting of the common council, which was held this morning, a majority of the commissioners voted for the acceptance of the government's offer of $1.50 per square foot for the land required for the grain elevator site at Keefe's Point.

On the casting vote of the mayor the application of the Canada Nail & Wire Co., Ltd., for permission to purchase the land in West St. John on which elevator is situated, was rejected.

There was a long discussion of the value of the city watchmen on the wharves, and of the city's liability for this expense, but action was deferred to a week to enable the harbor commissioner to receive a reply from Ottawa.

CHILD WELFARE GREAT CONGRESS ISSUE TODAY

Definite Call for Provincial Superintendent of Dependent and Neglected Children, Medical School Inspector, City Commissioner—Searching Speeches on All Important Topics

At this morning's session of the Social Service Congress in the Knights of Columbus hall, suggestions were made that a superintendent be appointed to care for neglected and dependent children, that a commissioner with provincial powers be appointed with headquarters in this city, that a compulsory school law be enforced, that medical inspection in schools be authorized, and that there be established a home where feeble-minded children could be properly cared for.

A little after ten o'clock the Rt. Rev. J. A. Richardson, Bishop of Fredericton, took the chair and called upon the speaker of the morning, Dr. Hastings H. Hart, director of the Russell Sage Foundation in New York. His subject was Child Welfare. He said that child welfare in Canada had started in the right direction, and he considered it fortunate that they had adopted the plan of placing children in homes. He suggested the appointment of a superintendent in charge of the care of neglected and dependent children, the establishment of children's aid societies, and the selection of competent teachers of children.

The speaker said that a child had no responsibility for its position, and that the competency of its parents was the only factor in its life. He said that the government should be responsible for children even to the extent of Divine Providence when they decided regarding the child's welfare and it should be of interest to every person in the province. He advised a comprehensive program of child welfare, and then he referred to the interests of children, contending that it was as important as any in the present.

Dr. Hart briefly dwelt on the present great struggle of nations and said that the child would have to replace the flower of our manhood. From an economic standpoint, he said, it was imperative that not one child be wasted, and that every child be trained for the work we needed them all. He referred to children being sent from England to Canada, and he emphasized the fact that every effort should be made to see that a proper selection was made in order that the child would be able to replace the flower of our manhood.

At the conclusion of his address, His Lordship complimented the speaker and said that he felt that it was the beginning of a new epoch in child care and treatment in New Brunswick. He invited those present to enter into a discussion on the subject.

Major Barr, of the Salvation Army, said that the laws of Canada were very strict regarding the immigration of children, and that they were carefully examined prior to coming and also upon their arrival here. He told of the achievements of many children cared for by institutions, and said that many were today fighting for their rights and country against the common foe.

Rev. William Lawson expressed the hope that a social reform band be organized similar to those in the United States. He cited a case of a family which had thrived after being assisted by responsible persons.

A. M. Belding, chairman of the St. John Children's Aid Society, said that the great problem of child welfare must be solved. He advocated the appointment of a superintendent to devote his time in the interests of neglected and dependent children, and he emphasized the need of a commissioner in this city who would be vested with provincial powers. He explained the advantages of having such an official and outlined the good which would be accomplished. He said a local agent at work could eventually make a social reform band essential judging from conditions which had been disclosed by the local children's aid society, and medical inspection in public schools. He said he felt that many boys and girls started life handicapped because of some little defect which could be remedied. When these things were accomplished, the speaker said, they would have begun to solve the problem as it ought to be solved.

Danish Steamer Halted by Santa Cruz Guns—Had Just Received Food and Ammunition From German Vessels in Port

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 23.—The Danish steamer Hammershus was fired on last night by the guns of the fort at Santa Cruz while trying to put to sea shortly after receiving a quantity of provisions and, according to reports, a large quantity of explosives from German ships anchored in the harbor. The Hammershus entered the port at ten o'clock last night and dropped its anchor close to the German ships. It took on board a large number of cases and then attempted to leave the harbor.

The movements of the ship were observed from the fort and it was signaled to stop. The signals were ignored until two cannon shots were fired when the Hammershus halted and was boarded by the port police. The police compelled the steamer to anchor in the neighborhood of some Brazilian warships where it is being kept under surveillance pending an investigation.

Owned by Peter Lyall & Sons of Montreal—About Hundred Men Out of Work

Tyndall, Man., Jan. 23.—The most disastrous fire ever in this district destroyed the large cut stone plant owned by the Wallace Sandstone Quarries Limited, at Lyall, last night. The loss is estimated at a quarter million dollars and about 100 men will be thrown out of employment.

This plant was the largest cut stone plant in Canada.

The Wallace Sandstone Quarries is a two million dollar company operating in Montreal, Ottawa and Wallace, N. S., and owned by Peter Lyall & Sons of Montreal. It is expected the company will rebuild in the near future.

The origin of the fire is not known. It occurred at a very unfortunate time as the company was working on the Manitoba quarries and there was also a prospect of stone being cut here for Ottawa.

BUSINESS AND SOCIAL RECONSTRUCTION

The Rotary Club heard yesterday a notable exposition of the part the business interests of the world should take in the great task of social reconstruction which the war has forced upon the world. Business, because of its intimate relation to the life of all the people, in the production and the distribution of the necessities of life, is peculiarly fitted, Mr. Raymond Robins pointed out, for the task of combining with itself the political forces and the spiritual forces of the world to bring about the better social state which must emerge if democracy is to save itself. He asserts that the time when a man could gain a high position in human estimation because of acquired or inherited wealth has passed away. If the mere object of business is to get profits, and this desire leads to great combinations and places power finally in the hands of a few, then there is a financial autocracy for which the only effective remedy (if there be no reform) is that applied by Bismarck when he substituted for it in Germany the military autocracy which eventually bent all the business interests of the country to its will and purpose. Mr. Robins would not have that policy adopted in the Anglo-Saxon world. What he terms the romance of the business of the future is a solution by the business brain of the problem of increasing wages and shortening the hours of labor while at the same time there is also a reduction of the cost per unit of production. This problem can be solved by standardization, organization, and the recognition by business of its relation and its duty to the community at large. The speaker gave striking instances from recent American business history to prove his point, and it was impossible to follow his clear and logical reasoning without getting a bigger and better conception of the whole subject. The ethics of business means to Mr. Robins something quite different from what it means to the man who looks only for profit and has no regard for community welfare. If all business men were actuated by purely selfish business motives a war of interests would inevitably follow, and hence the necessity of recognizing the spiritual forces which tend to prevent strife and lead the way to community service. Whenever the business interests choose they can make the political forces of the country, instead of serving selfish ends, serve the needs of this new plan of social reconstruction. Those business men who heard Mr. Robins yesterday were able as they listened to get a clear vision not only of what is meant by such reconstruction but of the dominant part the business interests of the country can and should take in the performance of a task which involves the very existence of democracy and the highest interests of humanity.

HELPING THE KAISER.

President Wilson said to the American senate yesterday:—
"They (the terms of peace) imply first of all, that it must be a peace without victory. It is not pleasant to say this. I beg that I may be permitted to put my own interpretation upon it and that it may be understood that no other interpretation was in my thoughts. I am seeking only to face realities, and to face them without soft concealments. Victory would mean peace forced upon the loser, a victor's terms imposed upon the vanquished. It would be accepted in humiliation, under duress, at an intolerable sacrifice, and would leave a stinging resentment, a bitter memory upon which terms of peace would rest, not presently, but only as upon quicksand. Only a peace between equals can last, only a peace the very principle of which is equality and common participation in a common benefit. The right state of mind, the right feeling between nations, is necessary for a lasting peace."
After President Wilson had spoken an admiring senator said:—
"We have just passed through a very important hour in the life of the world."
Another senator said:—
"It is the greatest document since the declaration of independence."
And President Wilson himself admiringly said:—
"I have said what everybody has been longing for but has thought impossible. Now it appears to be possible."
We are reminded of the Kaiser's recent letter to "My dear Bethmann," in which he said the world waited in eagerness for some great leader who had moral courage, and that he himself was the leader and he had the courage and he would make peace. And he and his dear Bethmann proceeded in the name of God to suggest a peace which would be equivalent to German victory.

President Wilson thinks he can do better. He believes he can demonstrate to an admiring world that when a burglar has been caught, with the goods you should take the goods and thank him kindly, and then give him his tools back, and let him go on his way rejoicing; or that if a man murders your child you should sit down and discourse with him on etiquette and the desirability of living together in unity.

President Wilson has made himself ridiculous. There was no peace without victory when the American republic was formed, or when the North and South met in a death grapple on the slavery issue. There can be no peace without victory for the Entente Allies in this war. It is not a war of nations, but of principles and ideals, and President Wilson's country ought to be in the war instead of having him warring the warring of a conjurer at a distance of four thousand miles.

Everybody expects the Kaiser to go on playing the mountebank to the end, but President Wilson, the head of a great free republic of Anglo-Saxon origin, should play the man in this world-crisis. His failure to do so is one of the pathetic failures of history. The Entente Allies rejoice that they have the entire sympathy of the great mass of the American people, and when Prussian militarism has been crushed they will welcome American participation in a league to enforce and ensure a lasting world-peace. At present, however, they will treat President Wilson with courtesy, and go on fighting till they have won the victory which alone can bring the peace the world craves.

PUTS IT UP TO BORDEN

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has greatly disappointed the organs of the Borden government. Instead of asserting that Canada had done enough in the war he pointed out with unerring accuracy that much more should and could have been done but for the incapacity of the government at Ottawa. He called for further effort on the part of Canada, with regard to the imperial conference, he declared that neither he nor his party would place any obstacle in the way of Sir Robert Borden's attendance. On this point he said:—
"We, therefore, are prepared to say at once to the government that if they will postpone all other measures of public consideration we are ready immediately to vote the necessary war credits that may be demanded and to give a vote on account of the ordinary expenditures of the country for the time during which my right honorable friend will be absent from Canada and to adjourn the house whenever it is convenient over any time that may be necessary to give him ample latitude for his business. I conclude by saying that though we may offer many things, upon this thing at all events we shall endeavor to meet the views of our friends on the other side, and to offer every possible facility for the carrying on of the government of His Majesty the King."

If Sir Robert Borden does not accept this offer and go to the conference it will be because he wants to force a decision in the hope of snatching a partisan victory. And that would be equivalent to saying that in his opinion it is more desirable to keep the Tory patronage committee on the job in Canada for another four years than that Canada should do her duty to the Empire. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has put the issue squarely up to the prime minister, and he must accept the responsibility.

His fellow citizens sincerely mourn the death of Mr. Thomas Gorman. His death is peculiarly sad because it has so soon followed that of a hero, who gave his life for his country; and because even as the father died another son lay ill in the Infirmary. Mr. Gorman was never a man who sought any sort of publicity or preferment. A quiet, honorable, kindly man, he made friends and kept them. He gave assistance in all good works for the benefit of his native city, and won and held the respect of all. He was widely known as a merchant of long standing and of high character. His son's death was a very severe blow, from which he never wholly rallied. In the deepest sense the people of St. John sympathize with the bereaved family.

If the city of St. John were chartered as Mr. Raymond Robins suggested last evening the people would know that what a few earnest workers have been telling them about social conditions in the city is the bitter truth.

A great many people in St. John very heartily sympathize with the appeal made at the Social Service Congress for gifts divorced from patronage and graft.

Rev. Dr. Shearer's address last night on conservation suggested many things which ought to be done by the people of this country to get for their own use the benefit of its great natural resources.

Catarra Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh of the ear, which is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All druggists, 75c. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

What are Peps

Peps are the new treatment for coughs, colds and lung troubles. They are little tablets made up from fine extracts and medicinal essences. When put into the mouth these medicinal ingredients turn into healing vapors, which are breathed down direct to the lungs through the throat and bronchial tubes. The Peps treatment is direct. Swallowing cough mixtures into the stomach, to cure ailments and disorders in throat and lungs, is indirect. Peps are revolutionizing the treatment of colds, as their price is within the reach of all. See box at all druggists, or Peps Co., Toronto.

Best Nerve Specialist In England Was Consulted

But Nervous System Failed to Respond to Treatment Prescribed.

Nervous disorders frequently result from injury to the nerves in accidents or because of the shock to the system. The writer of this letter was injured in a mishap with some tools, remained unconscious for three weeks, and in spite of continued treatment in hospital could not obtain restoration of the internal organs which control the action of the digestive and other vital organs. He travelled to Europe and consulted England's greatest nerve specialist. Relief was only temporary, in spite of many treatments until I was finally cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Can you imagine any more severe test of this great nerve restorative?

Mr. Henry F. Yema, Cefu Hanch, Malakva, B.C., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has restored my nervous system and given me new health. Having met with a severe accident seven years ago, from which I was unconscious and which left my nerves in a very sore plight, I was treated by doctors galore and consulted one of the greatest nerve specialists in England, but nothing seemed to do me much good. Hypophosphites and, in fact, all and every kind of nerve mixture in almost every form was used, but never with more than temporary benefit.

"But Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has acted very differently, for it has built up my nervous system until I feel like my old self again. If this medicine will do for others what it has done for me, I shall not regret having written this letter. I have recommended the Nerve Food personally to many, and shall always esteem its great restorative value." Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 to 15 pounds of healthy "stay-there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and tape measure will tell their own story. Many people, having followed these simple directions, report weight increases of from five to eight pounds with continued gains under further treatment.

Sargol does not itself make fat but mixing with your food its purpose is to help the digestive organs turn the fats, sugars and starches of your eating into eaten, into rice, rips, fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. A great deal of this nourishment now passes from this peoples bodies as waste, into rice, rips, fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. Sargol is designed to stop the waste and make the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop into pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is non-injurious, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists are authorized to sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in each large box. If Stomach Hurts Drink Hot Water

A Physician's Advice.

"If dyspepsia, suffers from gas, wind or flatulence, stomach acidity or sourness, gastric catarrh, heartburn, etc., would take a teaspoonful of pure bicarbonate of soda dissolved in a glass of hot water immediately after eating, they would soon forget they were ever afflicted with stomach trouble, and that would have to look elsewhere for patients."

In explanation of these words a well known New York physician writes that most forms of stomach trouble are due to stomach acidity and fermentation of the food contents of the stomach combined with an insufficient blood supply to the stomach. Hot water increases the blood supply and instantly neutralizes the excessive stomach acid and stops food fermentation, the combination of the two being a decidedly preferable to the use of artificial digestives, stimulants or medicines or indigestion.

DRY BRITAIN IS INEVITABLE.

To the Editor of the Times-Star:—
Sir—The following is condensed from an article in the Toronto Globe of January 6th:—"The belief is in the air that Lloyd George, who, two years ago, was in favour of state purchase and was forced by the opposition within the cabinet to drop his proposals, will now press the liquor question to an issue. The chief protagonist in the movement for drink reform has been Arthur Mee, a journalist. He has been the Peter the Hermit of a crusade which now appears to be on the point of victory."
"Do you think prohibition is coming, Mr. Mee?" I said.
"It is as inevitable as victory," he replied. "We stand face to face with all the forces of scientific devilry, and though the things Edison said the other day are rather hard, they are also rather true. Our people and our parliament both have been 'over-beerred.' You know how slow we are to move. It was our freedom that stood in the way—the very thing we are fighting for. It was

TWO GREAT SPEECHES OPEN THE CONGRESS

Immediate Success of Social Service Campaign

K. OF C. HALL CROWDED

Rev. Dr. Shearer and Raymond Robbins Give Addresses—Latter Suggests a Social Survey for St. John

The Knights of Columbus hall was far too small for the people who attended the first session last evening of the social service congress. Not only was the hall crowded, but great numbers were turned away. Rev. Dr. Shearer said it was the most auspicious opening of any of the provincial congresses thus far held.

Dr. Shearer's subject was social reconstruction after the war. He pointed out that this reconstruction involved conservation, not only of the national resources of Canada, but conservation of life, and he dwelt very impressively upon what this involved in the way of radical change in many directions from existing conditions. He pointed out that the land must be reclaimed from the speculator, that the great natural resources must be taken out of the hands of monopolies and used for the benefit of the whole people; that our great water powers must be made to produce energy for the benefit not only of our industries but of the agricultural population that the patronage system in politics must be done away with; that the interests of the great masses of the people must be conserved; that the cost of living regulated in the interests of the people; education made more practical to the needs of the people; disease and social evils fought and overcome and the principles of Christian civility applied to our social life and that same civility made its inspiration in reconstructing the social order, just as today it inspires the British Empire which went into the great war of independence with the need of recognition of the rights of women and pointed out that in the provinces and British Columbia today the women have equal political rights with the men.

Charting the City. Raymond Robbins delivered an address of singular eloquence and held his audience under its spell for an hour while he applied the principles of reconstruction to a social survey of the city. He said he would like to place on the wall a chart showing in the first place the population of the city and of the elements it was made up. He would want also a chart showing the birth rate of the city, then he would want to know the death rate of children under one year—he would want to know in what wards or sections of the city that death rate was highest and he would then know other very important facts about sanitation, congestion and general manner of living which would be of very great importance. He would want to know also the death rate of children under five years—the death rate from tuberculosis and from some other forms of disease. He would want an educational chart

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every particle of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine treatment. This is—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it. Save your hair! Beauty! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

showing how many persons in the city were illiterate—how many boys and girls left school before they had finished the eighth grade; how many high school pupils failed to finish the course and what proportion of the pupils were going to be clerks or going into the professions and how many were going into the army and navy and into other lines of employment. He would want to have an industrial survey of the city dealing especially with child labor and the labor of women and men but dealing also with labor of all kinds, showing the hours of labor and other essential information. He would want also to know all about the recreations of the people; he would want to know all about playgrounds, club rooms, the movies, the dances, the pool rooms and all other places of amusement and the leisure time of the young people. Then he would want to know the system of taxation; he would want to know the people study this question and all questions of city government. He would want such a condition of politics that when a good mayor or a good sanitary officer or a good health officer or any other public servant had proved his qualities he would not be thrown out of office by a change of administration, but he would be kept there by the will of the people regardless of party considerations.

Mr. Robbins pleaded for a community spirit which would embrace all the churches and all the elements in the community, organized for a common purpose and with an eye and mind directed to the successful working out of the great problems of democracy. No brief summary can do justice to the addresses of last night's meeting. Plan for Publicity. One point upon which Mr. Robbins laid strong emphasis was the necessity of a perfectly free and open discussion of every question and of the widest possible publicity so that the right solution of a social problem would be able to carry the people with them. He believed the time would come when among the biggest advertisers in the newspapers would be those who are working for social reconstruction and who will recognize to the full extent the importance and the value of newspaper publicity. At the close of Mr. Robbins' address the chairman asked the St. John people present to sign a petition which he suggested were made of St. John how they would like it, and he suggested that they should include their home with a number of announcements concerning today's meeting of the congress. The great meeting was opened and closed with the national anthem.

THE SCHOOL BOARD APPROVES INCREASES BUT DEFERS ACTION

A delegation representing the school teachers of the city presented a request for an increase in salaries to the board of school trustees, at their meeting last evening. The board approved of the increase but decided to defer action until after the government has dealt with their request for an increase in the amount which may be assessed for school purposes. The delegation consisted of Miss Bessie Wilson, Miss Stella Payson and Miss M. E. Wilson. Miss Wilson, as spokesman for the delegation, said that the salaries now paid by the city of St. John were insufficient to keep some of the teachers in the circumstances their positions required, and they were obliged to seek aid from home. She also emphatically declared that the reserve teachers were not paid a living wage. At the conclusion of her remarks the board briefly discussed the matter and decided it would be highly inexpedient to make an overdraft of $20,000 to meet the teachers' request until the board was sure of securing legislation that would warrant such an expenditure. After the delegation had withdrawn, Thomas Nagle moved that an increase of $100 a year be granted to all teachers, taking effect from January 1, and that the maximum be placed at $400 instead of $300. J. V. Russell's amendment that the matter be laid over until the government's decision is announced, was carried, three trustees dissenting. It was felt that the evening had been too far spent to go into any new business, but the names of Mr. Roberts, a janitor, Miss Northrup, domestic science teacher, Miss McEvan, a grammar school teacher, were presented for increase. Mr. Roberts was to have an advance of $24, making his annual salary $800; Miss Northrup, now getting $225 is to be considered for an advance of $100; and Miss McEvan, now receiving $685, is in line for $80 more.

Newspaper Activity Has Synchronized With Striving Periods of Modern History - Change From Pamphlets to Modern Daily

(Philadelphia Ledger)

The evolution of newspapers since the latter half of the 17th century, when publications worthy of being called newspapers began to exert a serious influence, has been a gradual democratization of their appeal. It is significant that bursts of journalistic activity have come in times of revolution - that is, in times when the common people realize, or are made to realize, that they amount to something, and are capable of playing a tremendous part in the affairs of city or nation.

On the very day after James II. was driven from his throne, in England's "glorious revolution," three newspapers made their first appearance, and in a few days more than half a dozen new ones. In France which had its revolution a century later, the beginning of revolt was the beginning of many newspapers - in fact, journalism could hardly be said to have started in Gaul before the appearance of those flaming sheets, whose editors rather regularly ended their careers by peeping out the little window of the guillotine.

Defoe's Pioneer Work

It is not generally realized how thorny and stained with blood has been the path of the journalist. It was while he was imprisoned in Newgate for a political offense that Daniel Defoe, the pioneer journalist, started his famous paper, the Review, in 1704. Defoe is remarkable not only because of his well worth study, but also because of his pamphlets and essays, or as we should say today, "editorials," but more particularly because even in his fiction he is the born journalist and the realism of his novels put into our fiction a journalistic note that it has never lost.

Defoe, keen observer, made fiction read like fact. "Robinson Crusoe" is a convincing swing to it as though the writer were recording things that actually occurred. The nervous energy and simplicity of his style is the prototype of the modern reporter's.

Zola, among the moderns, is the nearest approach to the Defoe mixture of literary man and reporter. The Frenchman actually got his inspiration for his most successful novels from the newspapers. He saw that many thousands of persons had never read anything else but newspapers. They had been brought up on the reports of day happenings, and Zola simply translated the news of the police court into realistic fiction.

Society Page Early Feature

To get an idea of the early gropings for the form of our papers, conceive number of little sheets containing only the various "features" that are now com-lined in one publication. The "society page" was a separate little newspaper, and very early appeared in the news letters which recounted the gossip about the king and court, the chief "news center" until the rise of revolution and in England even later.

News of crime and blood-curdling punishment appeared in sheets that told in lurid language of the death, on scaffold or gallows, of noted criminals, usually with even prominent near the same population would be around the million mark.

The thirst for news

There was, then, the reading public patiently awaiting the co-ordinated newspaper which would combine all these fragmentary features. The difficulty which even prominent near the same population would be around the million mark.

Help to Preserve Order

One had to go in person to make sure that important events occurred to be castled. When everybody went to an execution or other public treat there was a constant tendency for crowds to gather and crowds becoming mobs. So that, when the feat of bringing the news daily to the citizen was accomplished, a notable service toward preserving law and order in communities was rendered, because people could stay peacefully at home and yet keep well informed.

But more important than this was the aid which the combining of the small and special sheets gave to the growth of democracy, for the pamphlets were the personal opinions of enterprising individuals writing on their favorite themes, while the newspapers which succeeded them, in being comprehensive enough to fill the needs of all sorts of people, had to be representative of public opinion. They might be ahead of the times, but they dared not be behind them.

biggest cigarette manufacturers, was chiefly responsible for the increase.

Several manufacturers announced a rise in prices recently, ranging from 25 cents to $1 a thousand, and notices were posted in the stores that cigarettes would cost the buyer from one to three cents more a package. In the new scale cigarettes which used to sell at thirteen cents will cost fifteen cents. Mike Kelly died of pneumonia in November, 1894. He was a member in good standing in the order of Elks, who took charge of the remains, and they now lie in the Elks' plot in Mount Hope Cemetery, in Boston. Mike Kelly not only took a drink, but in his time many of them. With all he took during his baseball career, it is doubtful if there was any other one player who did nearly so brilliant work both in offense and defense, or played more regularly, or in more championship games in the same period of playing big league ball than did the same King Kelly. This is itself good to show that the latter could not have been in any way what Billy Sunday is reported to have said of him.

When a man of Sunday's qualifications and attainments can so far forget himself as to take not only a former teammate, but in addition the greatest and brainiest all-round ball player ever produced—not even barring Ty Cobb—and also one who had just won the World Series, Billy Sunday four-fifths of all the baseball he ever knew, and make the statement that the famous Mike (King) Kelly died a drunkard and was buried in the Potter's field, he certainly got a second look at Sunday's religious performances.

The History of King Kelly

Michael J. Kelly was born on Dec. 31, 1857, in Troy, N. Y., but his parents moved to Washington, D. C., when he was quite young, and his first experience in ball playing was procured with a junior club of the latter city. His parents, in 1873, took up their residence in Paterson, N. J., where he caught for the Olympics, an amateur club. His first game as a professional was with the Buckeyes of Columbus, O., during the latter part of the season of 1877, when he caught McCormick, who later played with the Chicago club. His fine playing with the Buckeyes led to his engagement by the Cincinnati as their right fielder and change catcher for the season of 1878, and he continued with that club during 1879.

Governor Morris, New York litterateur, said at a luncheon in Brooklyn: "American society is the most exclusive in the world. Useless, quite useless, for a litterateur to try to force his way into it. SUIT OVER A REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION

In the supreme court this morning Judge Chandler presiding, the case of Lawton vs. Cullinan et al. was taken up without a jury. The plaintiff, real estate agent doing business in the city is suing the defendants for commission on an alleged sale of property. Mr. Lawton says that he had been given the option to sell the property, and after he found a purchaser the defendants declined to confirm the sale. The plaintiff secured $50 from his purchaser which he retained as part of his commission, and he is now suing for the balance. Kelley & Ross are appearing for the plaintiff and L. P. D. Lewin for the defendants.

HIGH COST OF HAIRCUTS

Barbers Are Raising Prices, But Tips May Be Eliminated.

New York, Jan. 23.—Now it's the high cost of hair-cuts. The barbers have to pay increased prices for scissors and soap and supplies of all kinds, it costs more than it did for laundry. The snelly stiff they sprinkle on helpless heads is now more than ever a bottle; dandruff cures, as plentiful as dandruff, are much more expensive, and the men who cut hair want more pay—so the boss barbers have raised their prices.

In many of the best shops where one could formerly get his hair trimmed for twenty-five cents, he now has to pay thirty-five cents. The New York Company, which has four shops in the city, was among the first to advance prices, and other companies, seeing that disaster did not follow, have now followed suit.

The editor of 'The Barbers' Journal' said that the rise in prices for hair-cuts was nationwide, and he is not only considering it justified by the cost of everything the barber uses, but said that he hoped it would mean the elimination of tips and the elevation of the standard of barbers.

IS COMING ON WELL BUT WAS SEVERELY WOUNDED

Pte. James McCluskey Writes From English Hospital

Shot Through Back and Side and Lay For Hour and Forty Minutes in No Man's Land

Pte. James McCluskey, of the Canadian Divisional Cycle Corps, writing to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McCluskey, of 80 St. Patrick street, under date of Jan. 5, relates experiences through which he has just passed in an engagement in which he was severely wounded. At the time his parents received official information from Ottawa. He is now in England. The letter was written from No. 1, Southern Hospital, Monmouth Section, Birmingham, and is as follows:

Dear Mother—

Just a few lines to let you know that I am coming around fine and expect to be home in a couple of days. I suppose you are worrying about me, but there is no need to, for I am all right. I do not expect to go back to France for quite a while. I was wounded through the back and side, the bullet fractured my spine and went through my stomach, so you can see what damage one little piece of lead will do and do to me. Now I am going to tell you all about it.

On December 11 we left our billets for the trenches. We got in all right and I got a job emptying one old sand-bag. This was about seven o'clock. Well, just as I had emptied about fifty I felt my back get numb and I also felt my side burn, it was just as though someone had hold of me and was shoving a hot iron into me. I did not think anything was wrong until I felt the blood run down my back. I walked along for about ten yards and fell and I lay there in No. 1 Men's Land for one hour and forty minutes before they could get to me, and get me back into the trenches. It was three hours before I was taken to a dressing station in a dug-out in the trenches where a doctor stays and attends the wounded. He was particularly kind and barbed me up they sent me to another station about two miles behind the lines, where I waited for about an hour. Finally I was put into an ambulance and I started. They injected stuff into me to make me sleep and I do not remember and then they sent me to Havre and then by boat to England. I have been in hospital since and I am getting better but you can tell him I am all right and am coming along fine. I hope he is enjoying the best of health and that he will not be long before we are all back in Canada. I had three months at the Somme and never going across. I guess this is all for now. Write soon. Good-bye.

THE NEW HONORS WON BY LEUTENANT HARMON

Lieutenant Burdette W. Harmon of Woodstock, who has already received the D. C. M. and, according to this morning's papers, has now been awarded the Military Cross, is a particularly fine specimen of Canadian manhood, and his performances at the front while brilliant, are hardly more than what his intimate friends expected of him. Early in life he demonstrated his ability to overcome when he decided to take college course and so working his way through many difficulties until he won his B. A. at the University of New Brunswick.

HE TOOK THE PLEDGE FROM FATHER MATHEW

James McCullough Died Today at Great Age of Hundred Years

James McCullough, aged 100 years, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James Higgins, 14 White street, early this morning. Mr. McCullough up to only a short time ago was bright, cheerful and had the entire use of his faculties. Death was due to old age. He was born in Ireland and had the honor of being one of those in person took the temperance pledge from Rev. Father Mathew, the great Irish temperance advocate. He is probably the last resident of this city that possessed such a signal honor.

He leaves four daughters, Mrs. James Higgins with whom he made his home; Mrs. John Condon, Mrs. Patrick Crowley and Mrs. Richard Sutton, all of Bangor, Me., and three sons, Patrick and James of this city, and John of western Canada. The funeral will take place on Thursday morning from the residence of Mrs. Higgins, to the Cathedral for high mass of requiem.

GOULD ARBITRATION OFF UNTIL WEDNESDAY

In the arbitration matter of A. R. Gould and associates vs. the Province of New Brunswick, hearing was to have resumed this morning, but owing to some witnesses not being able to put in an attendance, further adjournment was made until Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The application for adjournment was made by F. R. Taylor, K. C., who is acting on behalf of the province. It is Mr. Taylor's intention to have government railway officials give evidence. Chief Justice McKeown, arbitrator, presided this morning, and M. G. Teed, K. C., was present in the interests of Mr. Gould and associates.

POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning preliminary hearing in a case against seaman Ralph Brown, colored, charged with cutting and wounding Robert Johnson on Thursday night aboard the steamer Pagan at Long Wharf, was continued after some evidence was taken the prisoner was further remanded until tomorrow morning.

Robert Johnson, the man who received the wound, said that Brown had asked him for twenty-five cents which he owed him. The witness said he would give it to him next day or probably that night. Later on he asked the witness for a $1, and he gave it to him. With this he drew a knife and with a downward stroke cut the witness in the presence of Albert Sandall, chief steward, said that he was called upon to put four stitches in the wound.

Six persons were fined $8 each for drunkenness.

Evidence was taken in the case of Albert Bowles, a street car conductor, charged with a serious offence. John A. Barry appears for the defendant, and B. J. Gerow for the complainant, James Naves. Mrs. Fred Naves said that while she had been keeping house for her father-in-law at 76 Sheriff street, the girl in the case used to visit the house with the defendant and he passed as an unmarried man. On three occasions, when she was out with the girl, the defendant had given her money in the presence of the witness.

Mrs. Herbert Morrell said that some time in 1916 the two had paid a visit to her house. Mrs. James Naves also gave evidence. The case was further adjourned until tomorrow.

MRS. A. W. REED

She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. H. W. Ketchum, Miss Constance, Miss Natalie, all of this city, and Miss Doris of Newton, Mass.
