BETTER NEWS

FROM SANTIAGO

Yellow Fever Epidemic Has

Subsided.

Cash Ransom To Be Paid Aguinaldo

for Spanish Prisoners.

Santiago de Cuba, July 20. - Notwithstanding the fever epidemic, only sixteen deaths from all causes were reported last week. This is the lowest mortality record that ever has been known. No new cases of yellow fever have been reported in five days, and nearly all patients in the hospitals are convalescent. The medical officers claim that the danger is past. Gen.

Wood expects that business conditions will soon show great improvement, and says that good reports as to the state of affairs at various points in the province have been received. The Cubans are gladly accepting their share in the American gratuity, surrendering their arms and returning to their homes.

CASH RANSOM.

Manila, July 20. - The Spanish commission charged with negotiating for the release of Spanish prisoners held by the Filipinos expects to return to Tarlac soon with full authority to secure the release of all the prisoners.

The commissioners hope to be able to make arrangements under which the money to be paid for the ransom of the Spanish captives will be deposited in the bank, to be drawn by the Filipinos at a future date, so that the money cannot be used to carry on the war against the United States.

TERRIFIC RAINS.

There have been terrific rains here during the last few days. In consequence it has been necessary to use boats in moving about the streets of Manila, and the whole country is flooded. The total precipitation thus far in July has been 35 inches, and in the last 31 hours 12 inches of rain have fallen.

GATLING GUN DOES GOOD.

Insurgents concealed on the bank of the Rio Grande yesterday fired on the gunboat Laguna de Bay, killing a soldier and wounding two. The gunboat trained a Gatling gun upon the shore and quickly dispersed the insurgents.

Christ's Criticism

Of Pharisaical Inconsistency — Characteristic Discourse by Rev. Dr. Talmage.

Washington, D. C., July 16.—Dr. Talmage's text is Matthew 23, 24—Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.

A proverb is compact wisdom, knowledge in a nutshell, a library in a sentence. When Christ quotes the proverb of the text, he means to set forth the ludicrous behavior of those who make a great bluster about small sins and have no appreciation of great ones. In my text, a small insect and a large quadruped are brought into comparison—a gnat and a camel. The gnat spoken of in the text is in the grub form, found in a pool or pond. My text is a misprint and should read "strain out a gnat."

My text shows you the prince of inconsistencies. A man has formed the suspicion that in a cup of water he is about to drink, there is a grub or the grandparent of a gnat. He gets a sieve or strainer. He takes the water and pours it through the sieve in the broad light. He says, "I would rather do anything almost than drink this water until this larva be extirpated." This water is brought under the microscope. The water rushes through the sieve and leaves against the side of the sieve the grub or gnat. Then the man carefully removes the insect and drinks the water in placidity. But going out one day, and hungry, he devours the camel, which the Jews were forbidden to eat. The gastronome has no consciousness of conscience. He suffers no indigestion.

While Christ's audience was yet smiling at the apostrophe and wit of his illustration, Christ practically said to them, "That is you." Punished about small things, reckless about affairs of great magnitude. No subject ever winced under a surgeon's knife more bitterly than did the Pharisees under Christ's scalpel of truth. As an illustration, he took a human body to pieces, and put the pieces under a microscope for examination, so Christ finds his way to the heart of the dead Pharisee, and cuts it out, and puts it under the glass of inspection for all generations to examine.

There are in our day a great many gnats strained out and a great many camels swallowed.

First, I remark that all those ministers of the Gospel who are very scrupulous about the conventionalities of religion, but put no particular stress upon matters of vast importance are photographed in the text. Church services ought to be grave and solemn. There is no room for frolic in religious convocation. But there are illustrations of that in the hyperbole like that of Christ in the text, that will irradiate with smiles any intelligent audience. There are men like those blind guides of the text, who only draw the things in religious service which draw the corners of the mouth down, and denounce all those things which have a tendency to draw the corners of the mouth up, and these men will go to mouth up, and to presbyteries and installations and to associations, and their pockets full of fine sieves strain out the gnats, while in their own churches a great every Sunday there are fifty people sound asleep. Now, I say it is worse to sleep in church than to smile in church, the latter implies at least attention, while the former implies the indifference of the hearers and the stupidity of the speaker. The great fault of church services today is not so much vivacity, but too much somnolence. The one is easily strained out; the other is a great, sprawling and sleepy camel of the dry desert. In our Sabbath schools, in our Bible classes, in all our pulpits we need to brighten our religious message with such Christ-like vivacity as we find in the text.

I take down from my library the biographies of ministers and writers of the past ages, inspired and uninspired, who have done the most to bring souls to Jesus Christ, and I find that without a single exception they consecrated their wit and their humor to Christ. Elijah used it when he advised the Baalites, as they could not make their god respond, to call louder, as their god might be sound asleep, or gone hunting. Job used it when he said to his self-conceited comforters, "Wisdom will die with you." Christ not only used it in the text, but when he ironically complimented the corrupt Pharisees, saying, "The whole nation is not a physician," and when, by one word, he described the cunning of Herod, saying, "Go ye, and tell that fox." Matthew Henry comments on the text with humor, as the last clouds with heat lightning.

John Bunyan's writings are as full of humor as they are of saving truth. It is a very short bridge between a smile and a tear, a suspension bridge from eye to lip, and it is soon crossed over, and a smile is sometimes just as sacred as a tear. Religious work without any humor or wit in it is a banquet with a side of beef, and no dessert succeeding. By all means remove all frivolity, and all buffoonery, and all lightness and vulgarity—strain them out through the sieve of holy discipline; but on the other hand, beware of the monster which overthrows the Christian church to-day, conventionality, coming up from the Great Sahara Desert of ecclesiasticism, having on its back a hump of sanctimonious gloom, and vehemently refuse to swallow that camel.

Oh, how particular a great many people are about the infinitesimals, while they are quite reckless about the magnitudes. How many there are who are anxious that every minister of the gospel shall come in the line of apostolic succession, not caring so much whether he comes from Apostle Paul or Apostle Judas. They have a way of measuring a gnat until it is larger than a camel.

Again: My subject photographs all those who are abhorrent of small sins, while they are reckless in regard to magnificent thefts. You will

'BUS CASES LAID OVER

For a Week—Also Cases Against City Draymen

In Connection With the Strike—Other Street Railway Cases—Nelson Committed for Trial.

The cases of the city draymen and bus drivers, charged with violation of the traffic bylaw, were further adjourned for a week, at this morning's session of the police court. Only two bus drivers have been summoned, in order to make a test case. Both the counsel for the prosecution and the defense agreed to the adjournment.

William Nelson was charged with explosive and attempting assault.

John H. McNight, non-union conductor, swore he was running east on car 56, on Saturday, July 20. The switch was turned in the wrong way, and the car turned in on Lyle street. While he was attempting to turn the switch, the trolley pole was loosened and the pole swung into the air. He went up on top of the car to adjust the pole, and was greeted with a volley of stones and eggs. None of them struck him. He could not recognize anyone who threw a stone or detached the rope.

Special Constable Flynn was on the scene when McNight was on top of the car. He saw the defendant Nelson throw a stone at a man on top of the car. He saw Nelson pick up three stones just previous to this. Nelson also threw a stone through the car window. He (Flynn) went over and grabbed the defendant's arm just in time to prevent him from throwing the third stone at the man on top of the car. He then placed Nelson under arrest. Nelson was released on bail. In committing Nelson for trial, Magistrate Parke said that Officer McGuire did perfectly right in telling Flynn to release the defendant and take his name. It was better than dragging citizens through the streets to the lockup. Nelson's bail was renewed.

Tony Moranna, an Italian fruit dealer, was charged with taking up too much of the sidewalk in front of his store on Richmond street. He was allowed to go on promising not to repeat the offense.

John Dempsey, William Smith, Frank Higgins, three vagrants, were discharged. John Fitzgerald, an old man, who was remanded some time ago for being drunk, was allowed to go on the condition that he should not be seen in the streets. He was fined $20 and costs for selling liquor after hours. Inspector Henderson was the complainant.

The case against Frank Armstrong, charged with rioting, was adjourned until Tuesday next.

T. Bruley, a vagrant, hailing from Buffalo, N. Y., was discharged.

Deceased was the youngest daughter of John and Catharine Anderson, formerly of Carleton Place.

WESTMINSTER.

Mr. Thomas Baty writes to The Advertiser as follows: There were a few wretched Westminster Scotchmen Tuesday night. They had helped to swell the crowd at St. Andrew's picnic to Port Stanley. Having come to milk and other chores to do, they left early, and on the train leaving quite good-natured until the train ran through Westminster station without stopping, although no intimation had been given that it would do so. Then the conductor was at once hunted up to know the reason why. All the satisfaction they could get was that he did not know there were any Westminster passengers on board, and that they could get back from London in about an hour.

It seems that the tickets sold at Westminster that morning were London tickets. From that time on the remarks of these people on the management and officials of the road were anything but complimentary. They were members with a great deal more sympathy than they had felt before, that some lady passengers for Yarmouth had by the same train been carried through to Glanworth, and had to get back on foot, a matter of about four miles. They remembered also that in the morning the train failed to stop at Westminster at 9:40 a.m. ran through, and left the crowd gathered to wait for more than an hour for the next train. Other instances of lack of consideration for the convenience of passengers were suddenly remembered, so numerous, indeed, that the general opinion seemed to be that politeness towards passengers on the part of the L. E. and D. R. was scarcely to be expected. The excursionists reached Westminster in due time, but instead of being pleased with everything, they were decidedly cross.

Mr. John Lawson, of Humber, and others have written to The Advertiser, making similar complaints.

DORCHESTER STATION.

BASEBALL.
The Cockneys played another superb game of ball at Tecumseh Park yesterday, defeating the Leafs hands down. Seiver did the trick. He had splendid control and remarkable speed. For six beautiful innings the Leafs were held down to one little bunt by Lafleur. With that exception, the only hits they made were three in the seventh inning. These were three singles.

The run in the first inning was due to a brace of errors, by Frank, and an error by Mohler. Loose fielding by Schwartz, Mohler and Frank in the seventh inning was responsible for one of the runs scored.

The locals made two three-sackers and a home run off Damoth, besides a big bunch of singles in the seventh. In the second inning Jones lifted the first ball pitched beyond the track in right field, and took three bases. He tallied on Wagner's miff of Cope's fly. The four runs in the seventh came by grace of an error of Francis', outfield hits by Cope and Frank, and Lohman's homer to center. Carey's spirit seemed broken when he saw the ball sailing toward the river. He made no effort to recover it in time to hold Lohman at third.

The attendance at yesterday's game showed considerable improvement. But the citizens apparently do not realize that as good ball is being played here this season as in any league on the continent. London never has had, and probably never will again, have as good a team as Manager Lohman has got together this season. Score:

FOR THE FANS.
Catcher Duncan, of the Toronto, has caught on with Washington. President Stroud has signed Pitcher Hagerman, formerly of Chatham, to take Baker's place. He will report for duty at Woodstock tomorrow.

Hamilton Times: Toronto will probably get Pitcher Best in a few days. He is with Schenectady, which is likely to go up at any time. The baseball deal, whereby Grand Rapids will take the place of Columbus in the Western League is a good one. Citizens guaranteed all that Manager Loftus asked, and the first Western League game is to be played there next Thursday. Manager Torreyson will take his interstate League team to Columbus, and finish the season there, or at Springfield, Ohio.

Crawford, late of Chatham, won another one-run game for Columbus on Saturday, batting out two triples and a double, and scoring two of the three runs tallied.

Rowdy play by Rochester men, among them Smink and Burke, is causing trouble in the Eastern.

Woodstock Express: Hamlet and Dean, of Hamilton, are slated for release.

The Guelph Herald, says: Magnates of the Eastern and Western Leagues are becoming alive to the fact that the Canadian League is an excellent recruiting ground for their organizations. All the players who have been drafted from the Canadian are doing well. Manager Black had two inquiries last week from Western League clubs for Francis and La Fleur. Grimshaw and Carey are also slated for faster companies. These four men would certainly hold their own in either the Eastern or Western. In their positions they are probably the pick of the Canadian League.

CRICKET.
ENGLAND AND AUSTRALIA.
Manchester, July 19.—The fourth test match game of cricket between the Australian team and players of England was continued today. When the Australians had scored 346 runs for 7 wickets down in their second innings they declared the innings closed. The England's score for their first innings was 227, and the Australians' score for their first innings was 196. England, therefore, must score 216 runs in the second innings in order to win and prevent the championship going to the Australians.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healing nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmenter's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, food secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. If removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done it will do again.

Secrecy of the Ballot.

An important question was raised at the first sitting of the Dominion Parliament Privileges and Elections Committee to inquire into irregularities in connection with the bye-election in West Huron. It was proposed to show that more persons had voted for the Conservative candidate than had been counted at a given poll. Dr. Russell, Q. C., M.P. for Halifax, objected to voters being put into the witness box to prove how they voted. He pointed out that this would destroy the secrecy of the ballot. At all events, the returning officer should be first examined, and an endeavor made to get the facts from him.

There is a good precedent in favor of the contention that a voter cannot lawfully go into a witness box and tell how he voted, if by so doing he exposes how other persons have voted.

The question came up in the famous Haldimand contest. At one of the sub-divisions, where some 35 Liberals voted fairly for the Liberal candidate, by some means or other a large number of the ballots were spoiled by the addition of a small cross after leaving the hands of the voters—so the latter alleged. When the election was protested it was attempted to be proved by the evidence of every one of these electors that they had voted honestly for Mr. Colter, the Liberal candidate, and that they had in no manner spoiled their ballots. Counsel for Mr. Colter proposed to call witness after witness to prove that they had marked their ballots rightly, so as to show that there had been crookedness in the contest that had deprived Mr. Colter of his seat. The Conservative counsel maintained that to allow a section of the electors to tell how they voted at a given poll was to expose not only how they recorded their votes, but to violate the secrecy of the ballot of all the other voters at the poll, which the law never contemplated, and, in fact, forbade. Judge Street, who presided at the trial, upheld this view, and the testimony of the voters, who were prepared to swear that by some means unknown to them a number of their ballots, sufficient to defeat their candidate, had been spoiled after they left their hands, was not taken.

This view of the secrecy of the ballot, if we remember correctly, was upheld by the Supreme Court. Certainly if it was good law in 1888, when by its declaration Dr. Montague was enabled to hold the constituency of Haldimand, it must be good law now, when Mr. Holmes' seat is attacked, not in the courts, where it was intended by the lawmakers it should be attacked, if illegally held, but in the House of Commons Committee, which has been held not to be the best judicial tribunal to try such issues.

To hold otherwise would be to say that there should be one law for one party, and another law for the other party; one law for Dr. Montague and another for Mr. Holmes.

A Narrow View.

A remarkable declaration was made by the Anglican Bishop of London, at a garden party, which he gave at his residence, Fulham Palace, the other day, when he discussed the question of disendowment and disestablishment. For his own part, he said, he would rather see the Anglican Church in England disendowed than disestablished. To be disestablished, he held, would be a great national disaster, and he should be sorry to see the state vote itself so bad that it could go on better without religion altogether. It is an attitude like this that makes outsiders wonder how men so eminent in the denomination to which they belong can be so narrow, and even ludicrous. If we understand his reverence of the British metropolis aright, he has reached the conclusion that if all the churches in Great Britain were put on an equality in the eyes of the law, the state would be going on "without religion altogether." How very absurd is this line of reasoning in view of our experience in Canada. We have just as much "pure religion" in our public and private life as our friends in Great Britain. And yet in Canada we have not had for many years a church favored by the state with special privileges, as is the Anglican Church in England. What amendment it would cause in this country, for example, if the Bishop of Huron were to declare that unless the Anglican Church were established by law, and given privileges by Parliament not enjoyed by the other religious bodies, the Synod would have to declare at its next meeting that the state had no religion whatever. We do not enter into the question of the propriety of England maintaining a state church. That is a purely domestic matter, which the English electors can be trusted to settle should it become a vital issue. But Canadians cannot concur in the Bishop of London's declaration that there would be no religion in the state if the churches in the old land were put on an equality as they have been put in Canada. The church is not less powerful in this land because it is free.

The Power of Niagara

The Ontario Government have ratified the new agreement with the Canadian Niagara Power Company. The result will be an immediate development of the power of Niagara for use on the Canadian side. The company undertake to proceed at once with the construction of their works, and to have completed by the 1st of July, 1903, water connections for the development of 25,000 horse power, and 10,000 horse power ready for actual use, supply and transmission. The company are to pay a minimum of $15,000 per annum, payable half-yearly, and in addition there- to at the rate of $1 per annum for each electrical horse power generated, used or sold up to 20,000 horse power; 75 cents for each additional horse power between 20,000 and 30,000 horse power, and 50 cents for each horse power over 30,000. It is the intention of the company to construct their works so that from 100,000 to 200,000 horse power may be generated.

This agreement is to remain in force 50 years, at the end of which term the Government may adjust the rental if advisable. A very wise provision is that which forbids the company amalgamating with any other corporation without the Government's consent, or entering into any arrangement for pooling their receipts or keeping up the price of power. Under the old agreement the company, in return for a large rental, were given practically a monopoly of the power of Niagara, but the new agreement rescinds the monopoly clause and allows full and fair competition. This should be a guarantee that power will be generated and sold at the cheapest price possible. This work has hitherto been confined to the American side, but now that the Canadian side is to share the development, it should be of great industrial importance to the Canadian Niagara district and all points to which the electrical power can be transmitted.

Gen. Alger's Resignation.

The resignation of Gen. Alger, Secretary of War in the United States Cabinet, is a new and important chapter in the war history which the United States has been making for over a year. All the scandals arising out of the shameful break-down of the American commissariat in the Spanish war were focused on Gen. Alger. He was accused of making the war department a political machine, and the Democratic press began to clamor for his dismissal long before the Spanish campaign had ended. The discouraging outlook in the Philippines has also increased Gen. Alger's unpopularity. The finishing stroke came when it was announced that Alger would be a candidate for the senior senatorship of Michigan, and that he had entered into an alliance with Governor Pingree, of that State, to defeat Senator McMillan, the present incumbent. Senator McMillan is a staunch friend of the McKinley Administration, and Alger's action was keenly resented by a large section of his own party. Leading Republican papers began to demand his resignation or dismissal, and the general has found that he can no longer face the storm. President McKinley has stuck to him through thick and thin, but he must be greatly relieved by the withdrawal of the war secretary, who was seriously damaging the Administration in public esteem.

Theodore Roosevelt, the Governor of New York, is spoken of as Gen. Alger's successor. Roosevelt is able, fearless and incorruptible, and would be just the man to clean the Augean stable of the war department and infuse a much-needed vigor and life into the conduct of the present campaign.

Ratepayers must not expect too much in the way of street improvements this year. A good deal of civic money is required for needless militia.

The Washington Government, a dispatch says, has decided to ignore the protest of the newspaper correspondents in Manila against the conduct of the war. But the correspondents do not intend to ignore the Government by any means.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell knows that whether Senate reform carries or not, his majority in the chamber is melting away, and will disappear in a few years. In killing the Redistribution Bill, Sir Mackenzie is acting on the principle that the Senate majority might as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb.

What Others Say

We Hope It Will Strike London.

[Boston Herald.]
Automobilemania is the latest coin- age.

Just So.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]
It looks as if a little courage and firmness in municipal circles up in London might have averted all the trouble which has arisen between the street railway company, its employees and the public generally.

No Credit to His Country.

[Ottawa Free Press.]
Now that a Buffalo paper has denounced De Barry, the Canadian baiter, as "a bully and a fool," it may be inferred that his conduct does not commend itself to public opinion. Perhaps his suppression is within sight. He is certainly no credit to his country.

Canada's Great Trade.

[Montreal Herald.]
An article on Canadian trade in the Nineteenth Century Magazine points out that while the total foreign trade of the United States is only $24 per head, that of Canada is $65; that although the number of emigrants from Great Britain to other countries decreased last year, the number who went to Canada increased 20 per cent; that America takes only 28 per cent of the Canadian produce, Great Britain 60 per cent; and that the value of British purchases in Canada has nearly doubled during the last two years.

The Need for Compulsory Arbitration.

[New York Journal.]
As usual, the trolley managers have "nothing to arbitrate," which simply means that they think they can win without arbitration.

But the people have something to arbitrate. When the life of a great city is disturbed by a quarrel between a corporation and its employees the community becomes a party to the dispute, especially if the corporation owes its existence to colossal gifts of public property.

What we need is a kind of arbitration neither party will be at liberty to treat with contempt. If two men have a quarrel and begin fighting in the street, the police do not leave them to fight it out until one gets the other down and slays him. One of the disputants may be absolutely right. The policeman pays no attention to that. He takes both men to the station house, and the next morning a magistrate passes upon the case and both have to abide by his decision.

Even if the man who happened to be in the right should say: "There is nothing to arbitrate—just stand aside and watch me polish this fellow off," the policeman would say: "Convince him that there was something to arbitrate after all."

When a community gives up its streets to a corporation it does not reserve many rights, but one of the few that it does reserve is the right to have that it does reserve take cognizance of any dispute between such a corporation and any substantial number of its employees, and render a decision which shall be binding upon both parties.

The present system, of economic anarchy—the naked, unrestrained right of the strongest, in whose application the most accomplished financier is merely a humble imitator of the primitive gorilla with a club.

W. T. R. PRESTON REFUTES CHARGES

A Dignified Reply to the Attacks Made Upon Him by His Critics.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Canadian commissioner of immigration, thus writes to the Toronto Mail, in answer to the attacks made upon him by that journal, in connection with the West Elgin election:

"Unfortunately for those like myself, solicitors are allowed to formulate charges in the 'bills of particulars' in election trials having little or no foundation, and if no real desire exists to inquire into the truth of the allegations, these may be repeated with impunity by responsible journalists for political effect. It is a privilege of the legal fraternity in such cases, to cast discredit upon reputable names, which they dare not attempt, unshielded by a disgraceful license. In the South Ontario and West Elgin petitions charges were made, not only against myself, but others whom I am proud to call friends, and in neither suit was the slightest effort made to prove them, or to give me an opportunity to be heard."

"A commission was issued in the South Ontario election case to examine me in London. It happened that I was on the continent when the commission was issued. I reached London soon afterwards and wrote to the Hon. member named as commissioner by the Canadian government, offering my services at his convenience, and telling him that I might be found at a time named in order that I might be served with the necessary subpoena. I have the solicitor's letter in reply, thanking me for my courtesy in communicating with him, and adding that he would let me know if my presence was required."

"In connection with the West Elgin petition, no effort whatever was made, either in the examination of me, or by suggestion in court, implicating me in any sense whatever with the alleged wrong-doings. The sheriff of Elgin was in the witness box and had the petitioner's solicitor ventured to ask him the question whether I had ever communicated with him personally, by messenger, or by letter, or in any other way, on the points at issue, there could have been but one answer, and that 'No.' I was in the heat of political contests in Canada for 15 or 18 years, and I challenge your journal, or the most bitter political opponent I ever had in Canada, to put a finger upon an instance of my having the highest regard for my reputation. There have been other occasions when my name has been mentioned in the particulars of election trials, but in not an instance has any evidence whatever been adduced, or even proposed, that could justify the comments of your journal in regard to myself."

"I think I have a right to claim from you in this matter fair treatment. I am within the pale of Canadian law, and I am willing to under the most rigid examination, not only as to my conduct in the late Ontario bye-elections, but in connection with my whole public life—or, if you will, private life as well—either by commission, by parliamentary inquiry, or by any other process that you desire to name. Until this challenge before me, I think I can claim that your reflections upon me are entirely uncalled for. You will have the last word in a controversy, as a matter of course, and the distance from there necessarily prevents any further communication from me to W. T. R. Preston."

Receive no satisfaction for premeditated impertinence; forget it, and forgive it; but keep inexorably at a distance from him who offered it.—L'Avator.

Scrofula. Another permanent cure by B.B.B. after two doctors failed.

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that, next to cancer, scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure. Yet Burdock Blood Bitters applied externally to the parts affected and taken internally cured Rev. Wm. Stout, of Kirkton, Ont., permanently, after many prominent physicians failed; Cured Mrs. W. Bennett, of Crewson's Corners, Ont., permanently, when everyone thought she would die. Now Mr. H. H. Forest, Windsor Mills, P.Q., states his case as follows:

"After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by two skilled physicians, but they failed to cure me. I had running sores on my hands and legs which I could get nothing to heal until I tried B.B.B. This remedy healed them completely and permanently, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole."

JESSAMINE.

He met her in the hall when she ran down ten minutes later, fearful lest she had kept him waiting, and led her into the supper room; letting her take her place behind the tea tray without one of the tenderly gallant speeches with which a bridegroom would naturally install his bride in the chair always appropriated by the mistress of heart and home. He was attentive to her wants, and talked as much as usual—perhaps more—in the endeavor to put her at her ease; telling how the flowers upon the tea-table and in her chamber were sent over at noon from Judge Provost's conservatory; that the silver service was a present from the Baxters, the bronze mantel-clock from Fanny Provost, who was very anxious to see her and resume their old intimacy. Selma Bradley had sent the chased silver butter-bowl, and other Hamilton families had testified their goodwill by elegant and suitable gifts.

"I am every day more glad that you spent last winter here, and so glad that you do not come as a stranger; you have already pleasant associations with our town and its inhabitants, and gained a foothold, I find, in many hearts."

He had unwittingly dealt as direct a blow at the secret past that hid the skeleton in her heart, as he had at Orrin Wyllys' indurated conscience the previous evening.

Jessie had no words in which to reply; sought to conceal her confusion by steadfastly regarding the pattern on her plate—one of a set of china Roy had purchased in Dresden, she discovered, presently, when she remarked upon its beauty.

"I had no idea you had such exquisite taste," she made a bold attempt to break through the namesless but powerful constraint that kept down every thing like easy or merry converse on her part. "I expect to be in a state of perpetual astonishment at that score for a long time to come. I did not know that learned scholars ever condescended to consider such pretty details of domestic life as porcelain and carpets."

He put back his chair without replying directly to her compliment, and which, to her mortification, he looked rather pained than pleased.

"If you have finished your supper, perhaps you would like to go over the house," he said, politely. "Or, if you are tired, we will postpone it until tomorrow."

"I should greatly prefer going now," catching at the prospect of some mitigation of the growing stiffness.

The survey was a quiet progress for the most part, certainly not accomplishing the end she hoped for. Roy said little, and Jessie felt very awkward, as door after door was opened, and she appreciated the thoughtfulness that had ministered to her comfort, from first to last, yet was forbidden by the mysterious spell chaining her tongue, to thank him who had wrought it all. But when they reached the sitting-room, where the flames were crackling and curling among the wood on the hearth, and the fire screen awaited her, the home restfulness of the scene broke down the ice wall. The feelings that had gathered to oppression upon her heart, overflowed her eyes, and choked her articulation.

"This is too much," she exclaimed, catching Roy's hand in hers, and gazing tearfully into his face. "Oh, what am I!"

She could say no more.

"The mistress of the room and this house," responded Roy, in kindly seriousness. "One who has a right to expect every attention I can bestow. This is your sanctuary. Nobody shall enter it without your permission."

Jessie tried to smile playfully. "Excepting yourself."

"When you want me, I shall come," was the evasive reply.

"Surely you will not wait—"

The remonstrance was cut short by a tap at the door, signaling Mrs. Baxter's impetuous entrance.

"My dearest lamb!" she cried with a strangled sob, clasping her cousin in her embrace.

"The doctor would come the instant he had swallowed his tea, she tried to cover Jessie's emotion and her own by saying, when she could speak clearly. "I told him it was barbarously unfeeling and unromantic; that, according to all rules of etiquette and sentiment, you should pass the evening without the intrusion of company; but he was obstinate. I don't believe you two have the remotest conception of his favoritism for you!"

Meantime the doctor had, in his odd fashion, slipped his hand under the young wife's chin, and raised to the light a strangely agitated face—eyes swimming in tears, forehead slightly puckered with the effort after self-control, the little eddies of smiles breaking up around the mouth. Roy saw in the whole the picture of the wreck of her heart and life, and her womanly determination to keep the knowledge of the disaster to herself. "Would the physicianist's keenly soiled gaze detect as much?"

Neither of the lately-wedded pair was prepared for the remark with which he released the blushing Jessie.

"I wanted to see if the heart of her husband could safely trust in her. My daughter, do you know what a good man you have married?"

"Do not raise her expectations to an unreasonable height, my dear Sir," interposed Roy, in time to forestall her reply. "And let me thank you in her name, and in mine, for the honor you have done us in this early visit."

The doctor accepted the compliment, and the chair that the host wheeled forward, in profound silence. The conversation had been carried on by the others for several minutes before he again joined in. He was aroused then by his wife's laudations of Orrin's generosity, as displayed in his bridal present.

"I don't see how you can take it so quietly," she berated the recipient. "One would suppose plans were given away every day. And you should value the instrument the more highly because it is the gift of your great admirer and true friend, Mr. Wyllys. I assure you, Mr. Fordham, nothing could exceed his care of and devotion to her, for your sake, and in her name, of course, while you were over the seas and far away."

"True friend," echoed the doctor's dryest, most rasping tones. "Humph!"

"My dear Mr. Fordham, I do imply that you will not drag forward that most unjust and most unreasonable prejudice in the present company," cried his wife in a nervous flutter from her bonnet-crown to her gaiter-tips. "If I have failed to convey to you that it is groundless and absurd, oblige me by withholding the expression of it here and now."

"My good Jane," returned the imperturbable spouse, "where else could I have so fully spoken as in the hearing of judicious friends? I am sorry to say, Mr. Fordham, that my excellent wife and myself do not agree respecting Mr. Wyllys' character and actions."

"Doctor! Doctor!" ejaculated the frantic woman, plunging forward, at an angle of 45 degrees, to pluck his sleeve. "You forget that you are addressing Mr. Wyllys' cousin."

A candid man and a fair judge of human nature and motives, nevertheless, her lord went on to say, with a stiff little bow in the direction of the person named. "The only safe rule among friends is candor. It is seldom I attribute sinister purposes to one who is malevolent or hypocritical, but I declare it to be my firm conviction that Orrin Wyllys—of whom the best thing I know is that he has descended physically from the same stock that produced your husband, my child—this is Jessie's—when I affirm that I believe him to be a wolf who ravens safely and reputably under the cowardly cover of sheep's clothing, I am not, as my dear Jane here would persuade herself and you, the victim of careless prejudice."

"Dearest, I entreat," broke in the wife at her last gasp of distress. "His discourse moved on majestically. There were four knots in his handkerchief already."

"From the moment I heard Mr. Wyllys caution Mrs. Baxter not to allude in her letter of invitation to our Jessie, to information he had supplied relative to her person, residence, and education, I distrusted the singleness of his desire for the resumption of Mrs. Baxter's intercourse with the family of her early friend. When the invited guests arrived, and I learned that the terms of their previous intercourse entitled him to become her cavalier on all occasions; her preceptor and referee in doubtful cases of conscience and conduct—when I compared this circumstance with his careless and apparently accidental mention of her to Mrs. Baxter, and his pretended indifference to her coming, I made my mind that he was particularly interested in her for some reason he did not care to divulge. I believe still that this was the case. I believe that, knowing her to be betrothed to her cousin, he strove consciously and systematically to win her from her allegiance. I think God that he did not succeed; that she has given herself and her happiness into the keeping of a true and honorable gentleman."

"I am grateful to you, doctor, for your staunch friendship for myself, and your paternal guardianship for my wife."

SAD HOME-COMING.

New York, July 20.—It was a sad home-coming for Mrs. W. E. Sanford and her daughters, Miss Sanford and Mrs. E. T. Sanford, who arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic, for they were informed by cable just before the vessel left Liverpool of the death by drowning of their husband and father, Senator W. E. Sanford of Hamilton, Ont.

Mrs. Sanford and her daughters had been abroad for some months, and were returning when the accident happened.

An Ohio man is seeking a divorce because his wife refuses to talk. Some men haven't sense enough to get along alone.—Chicago Daily News.

The amateur detective is as humorous a character as any of Shakespeare's clowns, or even old Dogberry himself. He finds the most astonishing clues, and generally follows them until he brings up about as far away from the solution of the mystery as mortal well may be. But the specialist in the detection of crime, Sherlock Holmes, is a man who reads clues, as the Indian reads a trail. Every step he takes is a step to success.

It's much the same way in the detection of disease. While the amateur is blundering along over misleading symptoms, the specialist goes right to the real cause and puts an arresting hand upon the disease. It is in such a way that Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., succeeds in hunting out and arresting diseases, where the less experienced practitioners fail. More than thirty years of special study and experience have enabled Dr. Pierce to read symptoms as easily and as truly as the Indian reads a trail which is without a hint for a less acute vision than his. Any sick person can consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge. Each letter is read in private and answered in private. Its contents are held as sacredly confidential. It is answered with fatherly feeling as well as medical skill and the reply is sent back in a perfectly plain envelope, that there may be no third party to the correspondence. Thousands have taken the first step to health by writing to Dr. Pierce. No writer ever regretted writing. Ninety-eight in every hundred treated have been positively cured. If you are afflicted with any old obstinate ailment write to-day, you will be one day nearer health. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

YOUTH MANGLED BY A MOWER

Four-Year-Old Boy Falls Into a Basin of Boiling Water—Old Man Clubbed Almost to Death.

Napane, Ont., July 20.—Reginald Price, aged about 25, son of A. V. Price, who lives about eight miles from here, was driving a mowing machine when in some way he fell down on the knives. His legs were so badly cut that it was necessary to amputate the right one.

SCALDED.

Windsor, July 20.—About 9 o'clock last evening a daughter of A. D. Vail, residing on the east side of the city, was half full of boiling water, intending to take a foot bath. While she was away getting cold water to temper the bath, her 4-year-old brother, Theodore, fell into the basin, which had been left on the floor in the right place.

He was so severely scalded that the skin peeled off like bark from a tree. His injuries were dressed by Dr. George R. Cruickshank.

CLUBBED AND ROBBED.

Windsor, July 20.—James Ross, an old colored man, living in Sandwich Street, Windsor, was clubbed into insensibility last night and robbed of his watch and a roll of bills. The old man was found lying unconscious on the road by a neighbor and taken home. This morning Constable Vanderlin, of Sandwich, found a tramp named Charles A. Howe, on suspicion, and brought him to Windsor. A gold watch, believed to be the one stolen from Ross, was found in Howe's possession.

PROBABLY SUICIDE.

Winnipeg, Man., July 20.—May Smith, of Toronto, was found about 20 feet from her home, and, not returning, a searching party set out to look for her. She was found dead in a milk-house on an adjoining farm, with an egg-cup and a bottle partially full of what is supposed to be poison by her side. There is no suspicion of foul play, and no reason is assigned for suicide.

FIVE FIREMEN HURT.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 20.—Peter O'Connor, Michael Quirk, Chief James Foley, P. C. Clark, Fred Ohlsen, Reinhold Isles, Henry Wenzel, Capt. P. J. Linch, Frank H. Smith, Henry Porter, John Pagan, Capt. John Wolf, Assistant Chief Clancy, C. B. Whithorn, Ed. C. Beck, Ed. Haley, J. H. Stearns, Arthur Filbert, Wm. Morgan, Knute Evason and Adolph May, firemen, were all severely injured and burned during a blaze which destroyed the Grace Hotel on Tuesday night. The men were on the roof with ten others when it fell in. Strange to say, none were killed outright. Five of the men named may die from their hurts, however.

DIVING ACCIDENT.

Windsor, July 20.—Douglas, the 14-year-old son of George M. Christie, hardware merchant, Sandwich street, nearly lost his life near Puce, where Mr. Christie's family are summering. With a companion, Douglas floated a raft into the lake, and the two boys began diving from it. Young Christie struck his head on a jagged piece of rock, covered by scarcely a foot of water. The blow stunned him, but his companion pulled him on to the raft. The boys were taken to the hospital and the flesh scraped to the bone. The wound was sewn up, and the doctors do not anticipate serious trouble.

DROWNED.

Winnipeg, Man., July 19.—John Crowe, employed as a fire warden in the Rainy Lake district, was drowned on Wednesday last in Namook Creek.

FOUR LITTLE GIRLS

Union Mills Breaks the United States Quadruplet Record.

Gallen, Mich., July 20.—The recent birth of four girls to Mr. and Mrs. James Platt, at Union Mills, just across the state line, has awakened considerable interest in the medical profession. LIFE SAVED—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians.
My neighbor advised me to try Dr.
Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the oil, and less than half a bottle cured me.
I certainly believe it saved my life.
It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Mr. W. G. Phyll, proprietor Bodega

I was in a terrible shape with itching and bleeding piles. I tried several of the best physicians and was burnt and tortured in various ways by their treatments to no avail, besides spending a mint of money to get no relief.
Since coming to Toronto I learned of Dr. Chase's Ointment, I used but one box and have not been troubled with piles in any shape or form since."

TRUSTED EMPLOYEES.

Montreal Herald: Last spring the city detective department succeeded in breaking up a scheme which had been put in operation to rob wholesale establishments, and in consequence several arrests were made and a number of prisoners were sent to penitentiary for various terms. Of late several complaints have been received at Chief Carpenter's was again going systematic. The scheme, as exposed some time ago, was very simple. The store-men or other trusted employees of certain wholesale houses found it easy to hand out the goods of their employers to a party who in turn handled them over to a third party. These goods were afterwards disposed of at a nominal figure, but in course of time the partners shared good dividends. It was by this scheme that the McCarty Manufacturing Company were relieved of several hundred dollars' worth of goods, part of which has been recovered by the detectives.
In connection with the case, the McCarty Manufacturing Company, 23
St. Peter street, Charles Denison, storeman for the firm, has been put under arrest on a charge of theft, and in the police court today he pleaded guilty before Judge Dwyer. A former employee of the same firm, who has just been released from jail, is also wanted in connection with the theft. A third party, Maurice Calle, second-hand dealer, 48 Dupre Lane, was also arrested on a charge of receiving the goods. Before Judge Des-noyers Calle pleaded not guilty, and was remanded.

ACCIDENT AT

Horses Dash Away Without the Driver—Mr. Geo. Sippi's Bravery.

A blaze in the cupola at Wortman & Ward's foundry, York street, gave the fire brigade a run at 8:20 last night.
Damage slight. An hour or so later a second alarm was responded to at F. C. Hunt's plumbing shop on Richmond street, where $300 damage was done to the stock and the rear portion of the building.

An accident occurred at the central station while the brigade was responding to the first call. Before the driver of the horse wagon could get into the seat, the horses, one of which had not been long at the business, bolted.
Straight across the street a number of small children were playing, and bystanders were horror-stricken as they saw their danger. For a moment it seemed certain death for the children. Mr. George Sippi was wheeling at the time, and displayed great bravery and presence of mind in saving a little tot who in another second would have been under the horses' feet.
Mr. Sippi dropped his wheel, took the child in his arms, and rushed into a doorway. His wheel was trampled to Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved for morning and Saturday sittings, in accordance with the motion of motion. The house will meet at 11 a.m. with inter-missions from 1 to 3 and from 6 to 8.

As to Saturday night sessions, the government, Sir Wilfrid said, is in the hands of the house, but they had thought of sitting on Saturday nights.
Sir Wilfrid said that he believed that this motion would be agreed to by the opposition.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

Sir Charles Tupper, on motion, to go into supply, offered the resolution on preferential trade given notice of by Mr. McNeill, M. P., early in the session, and which was amended slightly.
The changes made, Sir Charles said, were such as would enable the government to accept the resolution and have it passed by the house unanimously. In 1891 the United Empire Trade League was formed, 7 peers and members on both sides of politics, to further the policy of preferential trade between the mother country and her colonies. The difficulty then in the way of its accomplishment was that of the Belgian and German treaties, which had since been renounced. As to the step taken in 1897, towards preferential trade, namely, the preferential tariff, while it had increased our imports, it had not increased our trade with Great Britain, and preferential trade within the empire would, however, be of incalculable benefit to Canada by increasing our trade and population. The mother country was today importing one hundred million pounds sterling worth of bread and meat yearly, most of which would be furnished by the colonies under preferential trade. It was a question of vaster importance to Canada at this time than any other, and he trusted the government would take it up.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that while he appreciated the moderation of the opposition leader's remarks, and agreed it was the government's duty to further preferential trade, he took issue with the statement that advances to Canada in the matter of preferential trade had frequently been made by the imperial authorities. The premier quoted at length from the resolution and from the speeches of Mr. Chamberlain, the Marquis of Ripon's dispatch following up the Intercolonial Conference at Ottawa, 1894, and the speeches of the Duke of Devonshire, to show that the assertions contained in the resolution were not in accordance with the facts, and that it was plainly laid down in the quotations to which he had referred that preferential trade could not be obtained unless the protective tariff was abandoned. They could not have a hybrid system of protection on the one hand and free trade on the other side. The speech of the Duke of Devonshire referred to, contained this sentence: "I continue to believe as I have always believed, that free trade is the best and wisest policy for our country." There was no promise in the resolution of preferential treatment to Canadian products in the markets of Great Britain. What Mr. Chamberlain spoke of, too, was a policy of free trade within the empire. An imperial free trade, without a customs duties, except upon spirits, tobacco, and a few other articles; were the Conservatives prepared to vote for that? For himself he did not believe the time had yet come when we could do without a customs tariff.
There is free trade amongst 36,000,000
Frenchmen, 40,000,000 Germans and 75-000,000 Americans, and he would say the time will yet come when we would be free trade between 300,000,000 British subjects all over the world. It is not possible at this moment, but the

LOST IDENTITY

Every Fit-Reform Suit has the maker's brand and price sewn in the left breast pocket.

If that brand and price should happen to get CUT, LOST, STRAYED or STOLEN, then the garment ceases to be Fit-Reform, and may be sold at any old price.

We have about two dozen suits which lost their identity last night, and some of them appear in our window today looking for an owner.
Most of these unhappy suits are made of Scotch tweed from Scotland and a few are of the best Canadian stock.

Some of this nameless lot are in slender and stout shapes in medium sizes, and some are in normal shapes, large and small sizes.

A few are in pronounced Scotch effects, which win favor every time with Londoners.

There is not a suit in the lot worth less than $22 made to order, nor less than $15 judged by Fit-Reform standards.

Every one of these garments bears our full and unequivocal guarantee and comes under our "money-back-if-dissatisfied" clause.

Our tailors make such alterations in the fit as you request, free of charge, and as cheerfully as if you were paying us the value of the garments instead of the vanishing price.

We have a few pairs of trousers which are equally unfortunate in having lost their labels.

Now who will own these daring exceptions to Fit-Reform?

Take a look in our window.

first step had been taken, when two years ago 85 per cent preference was given to British goods. That step will be followed by another in due time, and when the goal is ultimately reached those who enjoy freedom of trade within the British empire will recognize that the first step toward final attainment of that goal was that taken by this government two years ago in giving preference to goods from Great Britain. (Cheers.)

Mr. McNeill congratulated the Liberals upon their ability of late to look beyond our aforesaid so-called natural market in the United States, nor was it longer necessary to argue with them on behalf of the unity of the empire. They had also discarded the old garment of unrestricted reciprocity. While commending the imperial penny postage, he was compelled to say that the action of the government in the matter of preferential trade was unfortunate. Mr.
McNeill claimed that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had said at London, Ont., that Mr.
Chamberlain did not make free trade within the empire a condition. He charged that the premier had struck down in England the policy he promised to support. Whatever his presen-sions, he was hostile to any imperial customs arrangement which was distasteful to the government's friends and allies in the United States. (Laughter.) The public men who tried to resist the movement would find themselves swept away by its resistless current.

Hon. Mr. Mulock read extracts from Sir Charles Tupper's speech at the third ward Conservatives' smoker in Toronto, at which Sir Charles stated that the Duke of Devonshire had made a direct offer of preferential trade. The postmaster-general informed the house that he had written the Duke of Devonshire asking as to the authenticity of his statement. The Duke of Devonshire responded to Hon. Mr. Mulock as follows:
"Privy Council Office, May 2, 1899: My Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of April 1. The best answer I can give to your inquiries is to inclose you a copy of the report of the speeches made on the various occasions in the summer of 1897, when I had the pleasure of meeting the colonial premier in my capacity as president of the British Empire League. I do not think that in any of those speeches, you will find anything to support the view of my opinion on the question of the policy of granting preferential trade to the colonies which appears to have been held by Sir Charles Tupper, and by some of the journals in this country which seek to attribute what they term protectionist heresies to members of the Unionist Government. It was no doubt my speech at Liverpool on the 12th of June, 1897, which was referred to by Sir Charles Tupper, and my admission that free trade had not done for us all that was once expected may have been commented on by free trade or opposition journals.

But while I congratulate Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Dominion of Canada on the offer which had been made to admit British goods at reduced rates, as compared with those on the goods of other nations, as an important step in the direction of the imperial unity, I had no authority to offer, and did not offer to Canada a preference in British markets. You are at liberty to make what use you please of this letter. Believe me, my dear sir, yours faithfully. (Signed) Devonshire."

The debate was continued by Messrs. Moore, Sproule and McMillan, and Mr. Davin moved the adjournment of the debate. The house adjourned at 12:45 a.m.
