Reckless of Results.

A German Cabinet Crisis Not Far Distant.

The Russo-German Entente Said To Have Been Re-established.

Terrible Atrocities Perpetrated by Nyasaland Natives.

Two Sky Sailors Meet a Frightful Fate—The Bering Sea Arbitration.

A Bank Resumes Business. MELBOURNE, April 8.—The Commercial Bank of Australia, which suspended on Tuesday, resumed business to-day.

Give Them Some Work to Do. BERLIN, April 9.—Eight German officers and three Austrian officers have entered as starters in the legation walking match between Berlin and Vienna.

Anarchist Conspiracy in Spain. MADRID, April 8.—The Government has discovered an alarming conspiracy of anarchists at Xeres evidently having for its object an insurrection against the authorities.

France "Scoops" an Island. PARIS, April 9.—The Governor of French Cochinchina telegraphs that the French troops took possession on April 4 of Khone Island in the Mekong River. The Siamese withdrew without offering any resistance.

Bad Ice and the Cholera. BERLIN, April 9.—To prevent the propagation of cholera through use of ice from polluted rivers, the police have forbidden all sales of ice which has not been examined and approved by sanitary inspectors.

Keeping It Up. BERLIN, April 9.—Prince Bismarck kept up his birthday celebration all the past week, holding six levees. The Prince insists upon spending his evenings with his family in quietude, receiving his visitors only in the daytime.

Bang Sea. LONDON, April 10.—The Paris correspondent of the Telegraph says that the Bering Sea arbitrators have decided to give their judgment as to the admissibility of the British preliminary report to evidence on next day.

Wealth Well Distributed. LONDON, April 9.—A Scotchman named Proudfoot who recently in Natal bequeathed £20,000 to the laborers in Mafeking, Scotland. The laborers in the village have resolved to use the money in establishing a public institution for sick and aged poor and in maintaining a pension fund.

A Fresh Apology. PARIS, April 9.—The Government has apologized to Count Muenster, German Ambassador, for detention of the letters written by Herr von Muenster to the German Embassy and consular while he was imprisoned on suspicion in Rouen. Count Muenster was asked that a repetition of such incidents would be carefully avoided in future.

Bloodshed at Anti-Semite Meeting. VIENNA, April 9.—At an anti-Semite meeting Friday night Deputy Lueger violently denounced the Jews. A merchant named Sewald, moved by Lueger's utterances, made a desperate attack with a knife upon that individual. Two friends of Lueger rushed to protect him and a fierce struggle took place. Sewald killed one of Lueger's friends and wounded the other, but Lueger escaped. The assailant was arrested.

Sir G. S. Baden-Powell Married. LONDON, April 9.—Miss Frances Wilson, daughter of Mr. Cressy Wilson, of Glendower House, Chesham, was married yesterday to Sir George S. Baden-Powell, M.P. Sir George is one of the British commissioners appointed to investigate the conditions of seal life in the Bering Sea in connection with the dispute at issue between Great Britain and the United States in relation to the seal fisheries.

Stanley Hrd From. LONDON, April 9.—Henry M. Stanley has written to the Press Association a letter in which he attributes a decrease of trade in 1892 at Africa to under German administration to the swiftness of the German merchant importing into Africa small arms and ammunition. These, he says, are sold to the slave traders and do the mischief. Mr. Stanley appeals to European nations to suppress the traffic, arms, or else all efforts to suppress slave trade will be useless.

Russia and Germany. BERLIN, April 9.—Under the caption, "The New Russian Policy," the Tagblatt prints extracts from a report of Gen. Von Werder, German ambassador in St. Petersburg, to Chancellor Olivi. These extracts confirm previous statements to the effect that the Russo-German entente has been established. Emperor William has given assurances to Russia that he will raise no obstacles in the way of the Czar's lifework of Russifying his alien subjects in the western provinces.

Germany's Coming Crisis. BERLIN, April 9.—The Government is again bowing along checked towards dissolution of the Reichstag and a Cabinet crisis. As the day of the fatal second reading of the Army Bill approaches discussion of the possible compromise is almost unheard. The signs of yielding manifested two weeks ago by the Chancellor through his semi-official newspapers have disappeared and it would seem that the Government has decided to defy the majority in the present Reichstag and to rely on a general election to bring better things.

Two Aeroplanes Come to Grief. PARIS, April 9.—An Albatross carrying three passengers left Brussels at 12 o'clock last night. M. Toul, a professional aeronaut, was in charge. Over Etampes, Department of Pas de Calais, Toul fell from the balloon. The other two passengers continued the voyage.

ROME, April 9.—Antonucci, a conspicuous Italian aeronaut, made an ascension in a balloon at Anzio, Tuscan, this afternoon. A gust of wind drove the balloon against a tower, Antonucci was thrown out and fell 150 feet. His skull was fractured.

Serious State of Affairs in Armenia. CONSTANTINOPLE, April 9.—The condition of affairs in Armenia is becoming more serious daily. Constant arrests of Armenians are reported in private letters. It is estimated that between 1,800 and 2,000 Christians are now in Turkish dungeons.

Foreign Financial Feeling. LONDON, April 9.—Discount was steady during the past week at 1½ for three months and 1½ for short, with a tendency toward lower quotations. On the Stock Exchange the holidays were followed by a better tendency, which, however, was checked by the failure of the Commercial Bank of Australia. Nevertheless, the markets recovered with surprising quickness, indicating strength and a speedy betterment.

American railroad securities were unsettled but showed a decided tendency to improvement. At Paris—Prices on the Bourse firm. Variations unimportant.

At Berlin—A gloomy feeling prevailed but prospects now are brighter.

Rioting in London.

LONDON, April 10.—An attempt on the part of publicans and others to make an imposing public demonstration against the proposed law establishing local option and abridging the privileges of the liquor trade, ended Saturday in a scene of riot and disorder. The plan of the managers of the demonstration was to have processions formed in the various districts, all of them converging into Trafalgar Square, where the meeting of protest was to be held. The temperance party, however, to the number of thousands, occupied Trafalgar Square long before the arrival of the liquor party, or the "anti-temperance." Free fights were frequent, and the police were busily employed in subduing and arresting the ringleaders in the strife. The temperance party next secured possession of the plinth of Nelson's column and proceeded to hold forth. The liquor party now became aggressive, and the first temperance speaker was knocked off and another was hurled from the descent. The temperance party, however, rallied, carrying all before them and obtaining full control.

Two Hundred Persons Speared. LONDON, April 9.—The Cape Times publishes a private letter from the Nkonde Plain, in Nyasaland, dated Nov. 25 last, which states that the people of those parts are living in terror of the Arabs, and look for safety to the handful of white people, especially the African Lakes Company. The one great hindrance to all advancement was, said the letter, the natives or the Arabs. Of the former kind the writer describes a recent instance.

"The Angoni," he says, "are an offshoot of Zulus, occupying the hills to our west, and are the terror of the country around. Last Friday night they came down to the lake, and with numbers and arms and spears, they entered the village of Kayumbe. They entered the village silently, and each warrior took up his position at the door of a hut and ordered the inmates to come forth. Every man and boy was speared as he emerged, and every woman was captured.

"The water of the disaster soon reached the three white men stationed at Karongo in the employ of the Lakes Company. One of their number set out immediately with 50 guns to recapture the women, who, to the number of 200 or 300, were being carried off. In the afternoon they met the Angoni and opened fire. Taken by surprise, the men of the spears made off, but not being able to carry both the booty and the women, they began immediately to spear the latter. A horrible scene then ensued. In half an hour they were beaten off and the women rescued. I was at the scene of the disaster three days after, and counted 47 wounded. The others had either died or been carried off by friends. One man had fifteen spear wounds; a child of 2 years had 7. What impressed me most was the number of young girls and children (even on the breast) who were spared. The poor creatures were afraid to go to their village, and were living in the reeds lining the lake shore. As far as can be ascertained the following is the list of the dead: Men, 29; women, about 100; girls, 32; boys, 16, Angoni, about 30."

A TERRIFIC CRASH.

Nine Men Killed and Five Severely Injured.

JOLIET, Ill., April 9.—The first serious accident to occur on the drainage channel happened Friday at Rome, ten miles north of here. A gale struck the miller and started it down the track toward the engine house, in which fourteen men were working. The miller, who was weighing about 280 tons, fell directly on the engine house. Nine men were killed and five severely wounded. The men were all Italians except the foreman, Samuel Korus, who lives in this city.

SEVERELY SHAKEN.

Earthquake Shocks Experienced on Both Continents.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 9.—Heavy earthquake shocks were experienced at Belen Station, on the Santa Fe, 30 miles north, yesterday.

ATINZA, April 9.—Earthquake shocks are reported from various parts of Hungary. The towns of Semlin and Szegedin were rather severely shaken.

DELGRADE, April 9.—A severe earthquake was felt in many parts of Serbia yesterday. The village of Vukin Popovitch was tumbled into ruins and several inhabitants were killed. Deaths in wrecked houses are reported from other villages in the kingdom.

Arrival of a Delayed Steamer. NEW YORK, N. Y., April 9.—The Hecla, from Christiania, has arrived here. Her start broke on March 24.

OUR WORLD'S FAIR LETTER.

The Unique Venice-Murano Glass Exhibit.

Largest Locomotive in the World—Ceylonese Women's Exhibit—The Opening Ceremonies To Be in the Open Air—Steam Launches To Be Used at the Fair—Imported Beauties Who Will Fascinate Exposition Visitors.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Chicago, April 7.—The Venice-Murano Glass Company, of Venice, promises to make a glass exhibition on the Midway Plaisance such as Americans have rarely seen. President Highbottom visited the Venice while in Europe some eighteen months ago, and got the members of the company to agree to show on Midway Plaisance how works of art are represented in glass by Venetian workmen. Some of their best work will be brought here. Reproductions of art gems that have been scattered among the museums and churches of Europe will be shown. Oriental enamels and glass, fine figures and lace work, etched glass, fine figures and lace work and, in fact, the richest variety of colors and shapes will form part of the display. A charge of 10 cents will be levied on the visitors to defray the expense of bringing the exhibits to the world's largest exposition. It came from the Brooks Locomotive Works, and was mounted on a pedestal in front of the terminal passenger station. This monster locomotive weighs 110 tons, and is regarded as an innovation in big engine building. On the opposite side of the entrance to the passenger station, where the locomotive is to stand, will be another of almost equal size, turned by the Rogers Locomotive Works. The two machines will be used for decorative work.

The island of Ceylon will be represented in four courts on the exposition grounds.

The first and largest building or court is to be used as a headquarters building, and is located near the German building.

The second court will be in the agricultural building, the third in the manufactures building, and the fourth in the women's building. There will be a fine exhibit of women's work from Ceylon. The lace exhibit will be extensive, and many embroideries and jewels will be sent for this department. In one section of the women's building there will be two single women making lace to represent their greatest product. It has been decided among the committee of ceremonies that the opening exercises are to be held outdoors and in sight of all the people who can crowd into the vicinity. President Cleveland will deliver his speech under the canopy of leaves without any covering. If the outdoor programme be adhered to the exercises will take place on the lake shore in front of the United States Government building. The following programme will be used:

Music—"Columbian March and Hymn" (John Prayer).

Presentation of chiefs of departments and foreign commissions by the director-general.

Music—"In Praise of God" (Beethoven). Address and opening of the World's Columbian Exposition, by the President of the United States.

Official visit from the President of the United States and officials of the World's Columbian

Exposition to the various departments, arranged in the following order:

The little steam launch will be used on the lagoons in Jackson Park will be shipped here from Detroit, where they are being built, about April 20. There are 54 of them. They are to be 35 feet long, 6 feet 6 inches beam, and will draw, when loaded, about 20 inches. Each boat will accommodate 30 persons without crowding.

BRUCE.

An action has been entered against the township of Altonville by the family of the late James Crawford for $5,000 damages. The cause of Crawford's death was due, they claim to the dangerous state of the roads.

ELGIN.

A petition is being circulated in the M. C. R. shops, St. Thomas, and being largely signed, requesting the City Council to reconsider their action and adopt the system of collecting taxes twice a year.

Mrs. John Graham, of Tilsonburg, came near being suffocated by gas, which escaped from a coal stove in a room where she was sleeping the other night. She is now recovering, but quite sick.

ESSEX.

C. R. Walters, who has ably filled the position of superintendent of the Essex waterworks, has tendered his resignation.

Hon. John Patton, of Detroit, who is mentioned in connection with the United States consulate at Amherstburg, was one of the speakers at the big banquet given in that place in 1857 at the close of the Rankin-McLeod election in 1857.

The report of the Minister of Education shows that Essex pays the highest salaries to female teachers of any county in the Province. The average is $324, while Walkerville leads the towns at an average of $387.

The Government dredge that has been lying at Amherstburg all winter is being refitted, and will commence work in about a month.

After Welsh, reeve of Tilbury North, is very anxious that the county should accept the offer of Hiram Walker & Sons if the county buildings are located in Walkerville. The Walkers offer $25,000 cash, a building site of seven acres and the cost of moving the registry building. Mr. Welsh has addressed a circular to the members of the county council on the subject.

KENT.

David Robinson, living on con. 7, Chatham township, has been living with a woman named Green as man and wife for some years past. The neighbors around were aware of the fact, and when Robinson swore out an information charging Robinson with illicit cohabitation. He was given the option of marrying the woman at once or else being proceeded against according to law. He decided to marry her and the knot was tied by Rev. R. McLeod.

The Blenheim News says that last fall young Alfred White blossomed out in a butcher shop of his own, at the east end, and by selling cheaply soon had a big run of custom. At this time he was boarding with a widow, Mrs. Cudde, of comely appearance, who was the possessor of a nice home on Elizabeth street, and some money.

After a few months' acquaintance she became Mrs. White. All went along smoothly till last Thursday when White suddenly left town without notifying his wife, and has since failed to return. Before going he sold some meat to Mr. Sterling, and collected all the cash he could secure, and it is estimated that he took away about $1,000, of which $800 is the property of his wife, who not only loaned him money, but indorsed notes, which she has since had to pay. His creditors are numerous.

LAMETON.

Thursday evening on the second line of Sarnia township, about seven miles from Sarnia, Frank Wood's two-story frame dwelling was discovered to be on fire. There was a strong wind from the northwest, which made it impossible to save the building. All of the contents were saved. Loss on building about $1,800; insured for $1,200.

During the thunder storm which passed over Sarnia Thursday night, George's Church spire was struck by lightning, but did not take fire. The lightning did damage to the amount of $75.

PERTH.

The incorrigible Emily Moses, of Stratford, whom the police authorities have for years tried to rid the city of, took the fashions in dress to the visitors, have all arrived, and are domiciled at the Lamont House. The three who are called the most beautiful are Miss Edith Scott, of England, Miss Gabrielle Rimont, of France, and Miss Ladizok Kelmans, of Hungary.

The management will endeavor to keep the ladies in the background, as they do not care to have notoriety before the exposition opens. They will exhibit all the latest fashions from Worth in the Midway Plaisance next summer. It will be entitled "The Beauty Show."

One of the most attractive exhibits of the Illinois building will be that of the State Fisheries Department. Workmen are constructing a series of shallow tanks formed in the shape of a pyramid; a rustic bridge will be constructed over the largest tank that visitors may conveniently observe the fish. From the central point a cascade of water will fall, veiling a large cove built in imitation of the limestone caves of Illinois. The grotto will have an entrance in the rear.

The board of lady managers desires to announce it has no more positions at its disposal. Over 7,000 women have applied for positions on the fair grounds.

Special admission tickets may be obtained by sending checks to the department of admission, payable to Treasurer Seeburger. Tickets will then be forwarded by registered letter without delay.

To-day begins the transplanting of rose bushes on the wooded Isle. There will be 750 different kinds of rose bushes to be seen there next summer.

Oddfellows Opposed to Amalgamation. Toronto, April 9.—At the quarterly meeting of Toronto district Oddfellows, Unity, Saturday night, the question of amalgamation with the Montreal District and Canadian Order was discussed at considerable length. On the vote being taken the meeting declared unanimously against amalgamation.

Change in Time for New York via Erie. The Erie Railway are running a very fast train from Buffalo. The time has been cut down two hours. By leaving London at 7:15 p.m., you will arrive in Buffalo at 7:30 p.m., and leave Buffalo at 7:30 p.m., and arrive in New York at 7:30 p.m.

On can also leave London at 3:45 a.m., 6:15 a.m., and 11:40 a.m. The latter is a magnificent train, solid vestibule, not a single dining car attached to all trains for Sarnia. For further particulars apply to T. SNAPE, 19 Wellington street east, St. Thomas.

Value Information. The best butter made in Canada is known by the name of creamery. It is made from pure cream, and is of absolute purity and by a scientific process, hence its wonderful success.

Mrs. Fudge—Oh, yes, you laugh at women as shoppers; but I'll bet, if I bought your cigars, your smoking habit would be a good deal smaller than it is now. Mr. Fudge—I haven't the least doubt of it.

The great lung healer is found in the expectant medicine sold as Pickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a powerful remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, croup, and soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

Mr. Wickwire—What is that woman across the way trying to sing? Mrs. Wickwire—"My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon." Mr. Wickwire—Well, if he don't hear her, it isn't his fault.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

London, Monday, April 10.

A LONDON ENCOUNTER.

That was an instructive encounter between the advocates of the saloon and the friends of local option in Trafalgar Square, London, on Saturday afternoon. What was expected to be a triumph for the liquor traffic turned out a victory for those who believe in curtailing the sale of intoxicants. The temperance people have generally adopted moral suasion and legislative enactment as their weapons, but their successful combat with London publicans and their friends shows that when occasion requires they have the physical stamina to more than hold their own. This point was conceded by Lord Wolseley after the first Red River Rebellion. He bore testimony to the excellent health and unexampled physical endurance which resulted from the enforcement of strictly total abstinence principles in his following during the long journey on foot through the wilderness intervening between Western Ontario and Winnipeg. Similar testimony comes from Arctic explorers, who invariably affirm that the man who leaves intoxicants alone can bear far greater cold and fatigue than his fellow who does not.

Latest Cablegrams.

The interest in the special cable letter of this week centers in the discussion of the Home Rule Bill in Parliament, in the mission of the Conservative leader to arouse dissatisfaction in Belfast, and in the continued alarming reports regarding the advance of the cholera. Only by the most rigid sanitary regulations will the authorities be able to prevent the spread of the plague. The discussion of the home rule measure, on its second reading, is expected to last all this week and perhaps part of the next. It is now believed that the bill will pass its second reading, getting past that stage where it was wrecked in 1886. The agitation against the measure is therefore intended for the future use of the Conservative leaders. They hope to see the bill thrown out by the House of Lords, as it no doubt will be, and then they expect to have another general election, but before then many things will happen.

The Agitation in Ireland.
A London cablegram says: Ulster has been bigger than all Ireland this week. Noise always was an important element in Irish politics, but it seems odd for the Tories to depend on it as the principal weapon in defeating the campaign against home rule. The idea appears to be that if the Conservative minority of north Ireland can outshoot the home rule majority, the fight will be won. Much of the din on last Tuesday came from hired Scotch and English lungs carried to Belfast for that purpose. There is no denying, however, that the demonstration was a big one in every sense of the word, and no denying, either, that it marked the opening of what will prove the bitterest political struggle this generation has seen in Great Britain.

The Opposition has decided the nature of the campaign, and there is reason for satisfaction with the decision. On both sides it is to be a square, open, savage, fight to the bitter end, even if that end be civil war. There will be no quarter and no compromise. The danger most feared by Mr. Gladstone has disappeared. There will be no attempt to weaken or divide his composite support by bargains and dissensions. The uncompromising front of the enemy has solidified the home rule ranks as nothing else could have done.

I was wrong last week in assuming that the Tories would stop short of counselling actual armed rebellion against a Home Rule Government. They openly approve and encourage the preparations for war now in wide-spread evidence in the north of Ireland. There is no mistake in Mr. Balfour's language on the subject. They had to fight for their liberties before, he told his Belfast audience. He would not say that "what was justifiable against a tyrannical king might not under certain circumstances be justifiable against a tyrannical majority." There were many other words intended solely to inflame popular anger.

While preaching revolt the Tory leaders attack the Government because the authorities have met the preparations for rebellion by promptly enlarging the barracks at Belfast and making ready for the reception of large bodies of troops there. The authorities are remarkably inactive in dealing with almost open sedition. It is a matter of common knowledge that large bodies of men are drilling nightly under arms. I described last week a typical scene in one of the Belfast armories of the so-called loyalists. Here are a few extracts from the Telegraph's account of the rural features of the movement:

"We crossed a glade in the moonlight and ascended a slope toward a row of trees. When we were within fifteen yards of them, out from the black shadow came with startling suddenness the stern command, 'Halt!' I instantly stopped, for I saw the glint of rifle barrels. Then came the question, 'Who goes there?' and I answered, 'Friends.' 'Advance and give the counter-sign,' 'Telling my companion to remain where he was, I walked forward to within three paces of the challenger, halted, and gave the password. 'Pass friends and all's well.' Keeping to the general direction at first given me, I held on through the wood toward a hedge. Again came the warning shout, 'Halt!' The previous simple and necessary ceremony was gone through. This sentry also was armed. Scarcely had we proceeded thirty paces when, being on the crest of a low ridge, there came from the valley below, in the familiar parade-ground tones, 'Front, turn, forward.' I counted the line and found that 120 stood in the ranks, so that with those keeping the ground, sentries and pickets, the estimate of 200 having mustered was, perhaps, not too high. Receiving permission, I walked down the lines. The men were full grown, robust fellows, just the kind of material that a month or two of service would shape into first-rate troops. It was almost midnight when the men were finally reformed in line. Their captain requested the popular local leader, who stood by, to say a few words. He began by addressing them as 'fellow loyalists,' and said their duty was terrible, but plain. It was to prevent at all hazards the common rule that must befall their country if the Union was dissolved and any attempt made to impose upon them the wrong of a parliament manned by Britain's hereditary enemies. 'We will shed our last drop of blood sooner than that,' said he.

"Yes, we will," shouted a score of men from the ranks, while I heard others cry 'Amen.'"

Except at Belfast the Tory plan of agitation during the Easter holidays has been a failure. Instead of lashing themselves into a frenzy, the people listen to the shrieks of warning from the leaders almost with indifference. The attempt to arouse any such feeling in England, Scotland, and Wales as exists in the north of Ireland will fail utterly. People are far more interested in the local veto bill.

The Struggle in Parliament.

Another London cable says: With Monday will begin the real general engagement over the Home Rule Bill, and toward the end of the week we may expect to see Parliament and the public lashed up to a pitch of angry excitement not hitherto reached. All plans for the battle have been obligingly mapped out in advance. The Opposition intends to expend all its energies to keep the debate running the whole week and throw the second reading over to Thursday, the 20th, or even to Friday the 21st. The Government will resist this as vigorously as it can and arrive to secure a reading by Friday next. The Opposition has arranged a terrifying long string of orators, big and little, to follow one another in order to kill time. The Government is doing its best to persuade its followers not to talk at all, inasmuch as the sole point at issue is whether the Ministry later in the session shall have a few days more or less in which to deal with other legislation and the Home Rule Bill has already been debated ad nauseam. This impending struggle cannot but seem to sensible observers a wretched waste of time and ammunition. It has, however, one aspect which deserves a harsher epithet. The entire question whether the Government or the Opposition shall win next Friday rests in the hands of the Speaker. His decision whether there has been sufficient debate or not final and not to be questioned. The Opposition are at no pains to conceal their reliance on him to play the partisan in their interest. The Gladstonians somewhat feebly profess a confidence that he is capable of taking a non-partisan view of debating hours and plans for the sake of his position in the eyes of posterity. Meanwhile the Speaker, like the Tar Baby in Uncle Remus' charming sketch, lies low and says nothing.

The Latest Royal Arrival.

There is a good deal of disappointment in one branch of the royal family because the second child of the Duchess of Fife is a girl. A son was fondly hoped for. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of York are still the only male heirs to the throne. The latter's betrothal to Princess May is not yet announced, although everybody expects the marriage to take place within a few weeks.

Ravages of Cholera.

If last year's devastation of the Great Death was not fresh in the public mind Europe would be already in cholera panic. The disease probably exists to-day in a larger number of towns than when the epidemic was at its height in Hamburg last September. The criminal policy of concealment is again being pursued in many places. The most outrageous instances are in towns of the northern coast of France, where it is known that nearly 100 deaths have occurred within a fortnight. Russia acknowledges several hundred deaths over her vast extent of territory, and we can only guess how far this is short of the truth. Strong appeals in the advertising columns of the St. Petersburg newspapers for the service of doctors in infected districts indicate how great is the emergency. Not a single medical or scientific death over her vast extent of territory, and we can only guess how far this is short of the truth. Cure of Consumption.

Prof. Koch's experiments with bacteriological remedies for consumption have almost reached a point where he can make a definite claim of results which were prematurely asserted three years ago. Prof. Scaglione, of Paris, quotes Dr. Koch as saying that the liquid which he had produced in his laboratory shows marvelous efficacy in overcoming tuberculosis. He administers the remedy by inhalation, not by injection, as in the case of the lymph, which gave him world-wide fame a few years ago.

Libels by Telephone

The fortunes of the telephonic newspaper of Budapest are full of difficulties. Several persons who complain of being telephonically libeled have brought suits against the projectors of the enterprise. Hungarian lawyers are now struggling with the problem whether libels by telephone are actionable. The Government also regards the enterprise with disfavor because of the difficulty of exercising the power of censorship scientifically. However, the scheme has been a complete success. They are now subscribers in every town in Hungary possessing the telephonic system. One transmission enables every subscriber to hear the editorial voice with perfect ease. The electricians in charge say that if there were 500,000 subscribers scattered all over Europe each one would hear distinctly the voice of the editor in Budapest. Unfortunately the inventor of the system and founder of the enterprise, Theodore Puskas, died a fortnight ago. He was a real genius. He introduced the Telephone Exchange of Paris, and was well known to the electricians of the world. For a long time he was a disciple of Edison, at Menlo Park. His principal invention, of which the telephonic newspaper at Budapest was the first great application, was a device by means of which the human voice is carried over an unlimited number of circuits to all points of the compass. The newspaper is now being conducted by the inventor's brother.

A Dog Prevents a Tragedy.

The part which a dog took in preventing a tragedy at Leeds the other day deserves a prominent record. A ruffian, insane with jealousy, entrapped a woman in a room in a hotel, drew a razor, and tried to cut her throat. During the struggle a big black dog, which was asleep under the bed, sprang up and seized the fellow by the coat sleeve. He partially relaxed his hold of his victim to shake off the dog. The woman screamed, but could not escape before the assassin, releasing himself from the animal, attacked her again. The dog this time sprang at the fellow's throat and held him partly powerless till help arrived. The would-be murderer then used his weapon on himself and died a few minutes later.

The First Photograph.

The announcement has been made in the London newspapers this week that Sir William Herschell has lent for exhibition at Chicago the first photograph ever taken of the human countenance. It is the likeness of his sister, who still lives, taken by Prof. Draper on the roof of the New York University early in 1840, and its claim to priority has not heretofore been disputed, but various objections are now being taken. One man wrote to the newspapers yesterday asserting that Thomas Wedgwood, son of the famous potter, photographed people as far back as 1793, and another to-day disputes the assertion, contending that photography was discovered independently in England and France about the same time, viz., 1835. The latter gentleman, Mr. C. H. Talbot, has a small photograph, dated 1835, taken by his father in that year, but he concedes that Prof. Draper's picture may have been the first photographic portrait obtained.

Red Tape Extraordinary.

The absurdities of English officialdom were never more strikingly exhibited than in the half-column decree which appeared yesterday in the solemn pages of the London Gazette, the mouthpiece of royalty and other authority. The agricultural department with much verbiage authorizes the local authority for the county of Lancaster within fourteen days to kill three fox terrier dogs named respectively Badger, Spot and Jess, living somewhere near Baley, said dogs being suspected animals under the rabies order, in witness whereof the board of agriculture have thereunto set their official seal this 6th day of April, 1893, and then follow the signature and seal.

"To the Bored."

A new field of usefulness for women is opened, according to an advertisement in to-day's papers, addressed "To the Bored." It set forth that "an entertaining, amusing girl of good position will cheer and enliven any lady or young person who may be dull or lonely or depressed, unique capabilities and the greatest benefit guaranteed to the low spirited."

The Queen's Books.

Mr. Holmes, the Queen's librarian at Windsor, has nearly completed an elaborate work on the rare bindings in the castle library, many of which are of great historical interest. The book will be illustrated by 150 photographs. The large and splendid collection of books, prints and engravings in the Windsor castle library was carefully arranged under the personal superintendence of Prince Albert, who found everything in the greatest confusion, and during the latter part of the reign of George III. and the reign of George IV. It is probable that many things were stolen out of the royal collections.

How Smallpox Spreads.

The unusual prevalence of smallpox at several places in England is accounted for by such incidents as one just reported from Burnley. It was found that the barkeeper at one of the principal hotels had been attending to his duties for several days while suffering from a fully developed case of the disease. Scores of cases occurred among the patrons of his bar.

Divorce in London.

The pending London divorce list is the largest on record. Two hundred and ninety-eight cases are on file for hearing at the session beginning on next Tuesday, and 122 are undetended.

A Tailor Travels as Baggage.

The Viennese tailor who has gained a notoriety by traveling about Europe as baggage in an especially constructed box, has just arrived at Copenhagen as a consignment from Christiania. When he emerged from his coffin-like receptacle the railroad officials promptly demanded a ticket in spite of his protests, and he was compelled to pay regular fare. He says he won't try it again on those terms.

Not According to Hoyle.

The reports from Rome indicate that the Vatican circles are quite scandalized by the disregard of the usual customs by the Princess of Wales and her suite on her recent visit to the Pope. The Princess of Wales wore a simple veil instead of a long black one, which is prescribed for all audiences with the Holy Father. The Princesses Maud and Victoria had traveling dresses on. The Duke of York wore a dark jacket and carried a stick, and Gen. Ellis wore a frock coat. For all audiences with the Pope the dress is strictly prescribed. For ladies, black dresses, with a long veil of the same color; for men, a dress suit, white tie and no gloves.

Fifty Thousand Dollars a Trip.

Although the Queen will have no rent to pay at Florence, as Lady Crawford has lent the Villa Palmieri to her Majesty, as she did in 1888, it is estimated that the continental trip of the court will involve an outlay of about £10,000 to her Majesty.

A Big Theatrical Report.

Mr. Irving's American tour is to commence at San Francisco in September, and it will last for eight months, during which time he will visit all the principal cities in the United States and Canada. Mr. Irving will take over the whole of the Lyceum company, and there will be 500 tons of heavy luggage, consisting of scenery, costumes and other properties.

"Strip, the Electrician."

The underground wire system in London owes its successful growth more to "Strip, the electrician," than to any other agency. Strip is not a man, but a tiny fox terrier, just big enough to crawl through wire conduits. She has been trained to lay wires by dragging them through pipes attached to her collar. Most of the underground wire laying of the last few months has been accomplished by her aid.

Big Price for Shooting.

Inquiries from America respecting the hiring of Scotch sporting estates for next season are said to be much less numerous than usual, but the agents believe that prices will be maintained. A good beginning has been made, at any rate, for the Duke of Sutherland is said to have let Dunrobin castle and the shootings attached to it for £7,000 for the season, which is about the highest price on record. The report that William Waldorf Astor is negotiating for the autumn use of a big Highland estate is said to be premature, but probably there is some foundation for it.

RUIN ALL AROUND!

Lincoln County, Nebraska, Devastated by a Prairie Fire.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., April 9.—A disastrous prairie fire broke out south of Sutherland in this county Friday. The loss will probably reach $100,000. Never has such a disastrous prairie fire devastated the Platte valley. Everything for a distance of 35 miles is in ruins. The fire started shortly before noon and swept everything before it, traveling at a rate of from 30 to 50 miles an hour and covering a track three or four miles wide.

Shortly after 12 o'clock it struck the city of North Platte. By almost superhuman efforts the town was saved. Farmers and ranchers will lose everything.

OMAHA, Neb., April 8.—Dispatches from Ogallala, Harrisburg, Dunning, Levent, Kearney, Grand Island, Lexington and Hastings give accounts of great losses to property by prairie fires. A Burlington Railway bridge at Dunning and another at Hastings, on the Elkhorn, were destroyed. At Kearney the fire burned near enough to the town to destroy a named Bartlett was fatally burned. The region burned over is the chief grazing section of the State.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., April 9.—Terrible prairie fires are raging near Chamberlain and a large amount of stock perished. Two persons were burned to death.

OMAHA, Neb., April 9.—The residents of Nauvo, Union Mills and Friendship, of this county, lifted up prayers of thankfulness at 2 o'clock this morning, when a heavy April rain began to fall. For the past two weeks a very dangerous forest fire has prevailed west of the Scioto River. It originated in the Washington township lumber region Monday and has been spreading. The path rendered desolate by the fire is sixteen miles long by four miles wide, and the loss roughly estimated will exceed $200,000 in timber, not counting scores of farm buildings swept away.

HONEST TALK.

To the Readers of This Paper.

Timely and Useful Advice.

What is wealth and position in society to man or woman, if sickness and disease have laid hold of the body? Earth with its enjoyments and attractions is never properly appreciated by the diseased and suffering. Such people generally feel inclined to attribute their condition to circumstances and causes which cannot possibly have any influence over them. The truth is, suffering and disease are penalties imposed for the violation of nature's laws. We must, however, be remembered that nature has kindly and generously provided a healing agent for all ranks and conditions of people. The wealthy and affluent, to regain health, must use the means provided by nature in the same way as the poorest subject. There is no royal road to the goal of perfect health and strength. The people of the world, called Paine's Celery Compound, is within reach of all afflicted ones. This wonderful medicine is the greatest achievement of modern times, and has accomplished more real good for men and women than any other discovery ever made.

Paine's Celery Compound is the only safe, sure and unfailing cure for nervousness, sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism and all diseases of the liver and kidneys. No other medicine has ever received so many flattering and truthful testimonials; no other has ever accomplished so many wonderful cures. We can recommend it to every sufferer with confidence.

SILK STOCKINGS NOT FOR FARMERS.

(Montreal Star.) Reports from the eastern part of Ontario go to show that within the past year the political organization of the farmers, known as the Patrons of Industry, has spread through that district with marvelous rapidity. This is the body for which Mr. D'Alton Meade, the famous spokesman at the opening of the session of Parliament last closed, presenting in its name huge bundles of petitions asking for relief from specified tariff burdens. The main quarrel, tariff of the Patrons to-day is with the tariff. They have come to understand that to be charged $20 more than need be for agricultural implement is precisely the same as if the price of their grain were artificially lowered to bring about this loss, and hence when they feel the pinch of hard times they look about for means of decreasing their expenditure as well as for increasing their income. The farmer has testified in the most unmistakable way by joining the "exodus" in some desperate cases and by increasing his mortgage indebtedness in others, that he is suffering financially; and here, as in the United States, he has determined to make an organized effort to obtain political relief. The Patrons of Canada answer to the Populists of the American West, and their organization is now spreading so generally among the farmers that they have already become an admitted political force.

That the Patrons of Industry is more than a political body does not weaken its position as a factor of the political situation. The edge of compulsion from the Patron from all sides, and it is not surprising that he presses sturdily back wherever he feels the cruel contact. But in politics, he wants economical government and tariff reform; realizing, like a wise man, that these two things must go hand in hand. The pressure of the present tariff is felt with peculiar keenness by the farmer. As we pointed out the other day, he "wears shirts," and consequently feels the burden of the 100 per cent. duty levied upon the cheaper qualities of the garment. Cotton and woolen goods make a fair share of his drygoods bill, and on these he pays imports that he has no knowledge of in many cases, for they are hidden away under the disguise of specific duties. It is different now with silks, if he should require stockings or neckties of that material for farm work. It is marvelous that he should not know, how nicely the tariff grades the duties on the single article of stockings, so as to benefit "the poor man." Here is the way it runs:

Cheap cotton stockings—70 per cent.
Cheap woolen stockings—58 per cent.
Dear cotton stockings—40 per cent.
Dear woolen stockings—35 per cent.
Silken stockings—30 per cent.
There are cunning little devices and pleasing intricacies in the tariff that will keep the Patrons of Industry well alert to get them properly reformed; but they must never forget that the final test of every pretended "reform" is its effect upon the price of the article it deals with. It will be marvelously easy to make a great show of tariff reforming; and, under cover of "specific duties" and other disguises, conceal the fact that very little relief is given. The touchstone for the farmer to apply to all changes that he may know whether they are real or fraudulent, is the size of his store bills.

The Free Library.

Wanted—A Goose to Lay the Golden Eggs

And Provide the Library Board With the Wherewithal

That the Aldermen Are So Backward in Giving.

A Gusty But Inconclusive Conference—The Erection of a Y. M. C. A. Building and Library Combined Proposed—The Board Opposed to Another Popular Vote.

After a gusty session of two hours and a half on Saturday night the conference on the free library question between that board and a committee of aldermen resulted in an adjournment for a week. The Free Library Board was represented by Messrs. Macklin (chairman), Cameron, Reid, Keene, Marks, and Burrell, while only three of the six of the aldermen deputed to attend were present. Ald. Coe, Stevely and Taylor. The ball was set rolling by Chairman Macklin. He said he understood that the board was properly elected to carry out the wishes of the people, expressed by a majority of over 2,000 votes at the last election. They were there as business men—not there to exercise some judgment, and not as mere things, after using their best judgment in the selection of a building and site the council were seeking to block the estimates. The architect's report about the Mechanics' Institute had been a surprise to himself. The sum of $7,000 would be required to put it in shape; $3,000 for the hours, $2,000 for heating and $2,000 for other charges. This was exclusive of $1,000 for shelves. Then in addition there was a mortgage of $18,000 to be shouldered. The architects had also told them that for $12,000 or $15,000 at the outside a new building could be erected, with the library on the ground floor. All agreed that the Mechanics' Institute was preferable to the Mechanics' Institute, even after $7,000 had been spent in repairs, thus bringing the price up to $25,000. The free library scheme was entitled to a mill on the general taxation, but in the board's estimates they were only asking for a mill, or 40 a mill, of the rate of 10 mills, and 4 mills as proposed. In conclusion Mr. Macklin argued that if extensive and expensive alterations and additions could be made and paid for by such small corporations as several of the city churches, then there ought to be no difficulty in a large corporation like the city of London granting a vote.

Ald. Coe, while admitting the necessity of a new building that would be a credit to London, did not think that the city was at present in a position to afford it. The aldermen were endeavoring to keep the taxes down, and it was just as well to have a mill as to have 40 mills. If any other scheme could be devised to run the free library for a year or so without going to the expense of a new building just now, he would gladly support it. It had been said that the board was entitled to $7,500 this year, but that was not so.

Mr. Robt. Reid—Oh, you are falling back on the quibble that our estimates were not put in by March, are you?

Ald. Coe—I am not falling back on that quibble. The city is not bound to issue debentures, therefore you are in the position of asking the city to fund a debt, and then going to erect a new building, and possibly the free library and it could both occupy the same site.

Chairman Macklin—Then the citizens did not know what they wanted when they voted last election.

Ald. Coe—The people did not know anything about the scheme, and if it is voted, it may again it will be knocked on the head.

Mr. Cameron—Well, why don't you suggest some scheme that we can consider?

The aldermen had no suggestion. While the law allowed them to spend it all in rent and on books and have nothing to show for it, when by issuing debentures the interest and the sinking fund would in twenty years pay for the building, and then it would pass into the hands of the city without incumbrance.

Mr. Reid—You must admit that we need to be economical in the matter of taxes for the next year or so.

Mr. Reid—That's an old, old, old, story anyway.

Ald. Taylor took exception to this continual cry of "economical." The matter would be printed in the newspapers and scattered broadcast over the land, and people would be scared away from the city. (Hear, hear.) The whole question was why, he asked, spend it all in rent and on books and have nothing to show for it, when by issuing debentures the interest and the sinking fund would in twenty years pay for the building, and then it would pass into the hands of the city without incumbrance.

ber that a notice of motion had been made at the last council meeting to consider the City Hall scheme. This was acknowledged by all present to be out of the question entirely.

Then Ald. Stevely wanted to know, supposing a new building were put up, when it would begin to affect the taxes.

Mr. Cameron—Well, if the council wish it we will make no special taxation this year, but go to work and build from the interest on the debentures. Then the first year's interest on the debentures will not be due until September, 1894.

Ald. Stevely and Coe thought this a fair offer, but Ald. Taylor announced his intention of voting against a $30,000 scheme, no matter how it was bolstered. He wanted the whole question submitted to the people again.

Mr. Cameron—We are not going to take another vote of the people.

Ald. Coe then took the same grounds as Ald. Taylor. He would not vote for any $30,000 scheme, and wanted the people to vote on the matter.

Mr. Cameron—Then how much will you vote for? Will you vote for $25,000?

Ald. Coe—No; I will not vote to issue any debentures.

Ald. Taylor—Submit the question to a vote of the people again.

Mr. Reid—Did you vote for the free library at all?

Ald. Taylor—I voted by ballot, sir.

Mr. Reid—Well, really.

Mr. Marks said that if the board spent their money at the end of the month they would have nothing to show for it. On the other hand, if debentures were issued and a new building erected the tax on each ratepayer would be a mere lot and at the end of twenty years they would have a splendid building incumbered.

Mr. Cameron objected to another vote being taken because the same class of voters would not vote on the electric light question as had voted on the library question last January—they would be all freeholders.

Mr. Macklin, addressing the aldermen—Well, for goodness sake, lay some scheme before us if you don't approve of ours.

Ald. Stevely said—I for one did not come here to make any suggestion. I understood that we were simply to get information and report back to the council.

Mr. Burrell—Well, what can you report?

Ald. Coe—I will report that you won't do anything else than spend $30,000, and that you won't go before the electors with the scheme.

Mr. Cameron then suggested that this joint meeting approve of the issue of $20,000 in debentures to purchase a site of 100,000 square feet, and to erect a building of 100,000 square feet, with the issue of an additional $10,000 in 1894 for books and equipment. This would make the interest on the first issue fall due in 1894 and the second in 1895.

Ald. Stevely said he would support a motion to that effect. Ald. Coe, also, would do so if an amendment were added that the question be submitted to the vote of the people. Ald. Taylor would have nothing whatever to do with it.

This made the already wearied Free Library Board quite tired, and Mr. Burrell suggested that they all go home and wait for the council to lay a golden egg.

Mr. Reid—Well, I move a vote of thanks for courtesies received from the members of the council present.

Ald. Taylor—I protest; I protest.

Mr. Cameron then made a motion that embodied the ideas expressed in a suggestion made by the members previously, with the addition of "And that the board withdraw its request for $6,000 for current expenses for the year 1893."

Ald. Stevely—I will second it.

Ald. Taylor—Second what? The vote of thanks or the motion? Remember how Mayor Ollivier got tripped on the Port Stanley board when he voted that St. Thomas was agreeable and thought at the time that he was simply seconding a vote of thanks.

Ald. Stevely was prepared to stand by what he had said.

Ald. Taylor—Now, you have got your foot tripped in seconding the motion (addressing Mr. Cameron), and I will leave the board. Mr. Taylor then left the room, but returned in time to second an amendment by Ald. Coe, who moved that the committee adjourn for a week and that the building be put in the meantime preparation for the building.

The Library Board thought this mode of procedure too expensive. Ald. Coe then changed the word "plan" to "sketch" and insisted on the amendment being put.

Mr. Cameron protested vigorously, and then a compromise was effected.

Ald. Coe withdrew his amendment calling for a sketch of the building, and simply moved an adjournment for one week. He might support Mr. Cameron's proposal next Saturday, if in the meantime it were made a notice of motion. This was agreed to and then Ald. Taylor wanted Ald. Stevely to withdraw his name from the motion on the ground that as it was now a notice of motion a second was not required until next Saturday night.

Mr. Stevely's name stayed on the paper and the meeting adjourned without accomplishing anything further than a notice of motion.

Blood Will Tell.

Of course it will—that is if it is good, healthy blood. It will glow in the cheek, and tell the story of perfect physical health. If it does not, if the complexion is sallow, if the muscles weak and flaccid, something is wrong, and something ought to be done about it at once, for in such cases delays are dangerous. For torpid liver, "biliousness," and the thousand and one ills to which these conditions of the system lead there is no remedy in the world equal to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Boils, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sores, rheumatism, and all kindred diseases are cured by it.

"Oh, dear," sighed Widow Jenkins, "if John had made a will, there wouldn't have been all this trouble about the property."

"Do the lawyers bother you?" "Bother me? They almost worry me to death. I declare I sometimes wish John hadn't died."

Mr. N. J. McDermid, druggist, 174 Dundas street, says that he is selling more of Eesjay's Liver Lozenges than of any other proprietary remedy. His customers are expressing themselves as greatly benefited by the use of these. They are the best-known medicine for biliousness, sick headache, constipation, impure blood and all stomach and liver troubles. 25 cents at all drug stores.

Scribbler—Good morning, sir. A week or so ago I submitted to you a manuscript entitled "The Injustice Done to Authors." Editor—Yes, I remember it. Scribbler—When I wrote that I was fired by an impulse I could not resist. Editor—So was the manuscript, sir.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

Henry George Literature Intercepted by Postoffice Officials.

Cumulative Voting Ably Discussed by Labor Champion Alfred Jury.

[Specially Communicated.]

STOPPING ST. GEORGE.

I do not want to be too suspicious, but it really looks as if some deliberate action were being taken to stop or hinder the transmission of "Protection or Free Trade" by mail into Canada. Just look at these facts. On March 2 Mr. Johnson mailed to Toronto 50 copies of the 2-cent edition, and on March 13 he mailed 400 copies more. These were for the use of the Evening Star, to be sold by them in accordance with their editorial announcement. None of these copies have yet reached their destination, and scores of applicants at the Star office have been "sent empty away."

Mr. Wellings, of Toronto, ordered a number of copies some weeks ago, but none of them have arrived. Mr. J. L. Dawkins, of Toronto, ordered two separate lots of "St. George's," one at the beginning and the other about the middle of March. None of them have arrived. Correspondents of Mr. Dawkins, for whom he sent orders, are also complaining of the non-arrival of their copies. What is the matter with the post office? Has the Dominion Government referred to the damage this little book is doing to the protection humbug, and have they conveniently discovered some informality in the franks, or something of that kind? Mr. Johnson writes that he sent another 450 copies on March 31. As these have not arrived, the thing seems now beyond mere accident or coincidence.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS MEETINGS. There was another good meeting last Sunday afternoon. As is now usual, a number of ladies were present. The subject of the day was "Cumulative Voting," and the speaker was Mr. A. F. Jury. I am glad to know that you are publishing reports of these meetings in full.

CUMULATIVE VOTING. Mr. Jury was received with applause and said that the consensus of opinion of the speakers who had preceded him on former Sundays was that something was wrong with our social arrangements. When some thought that a remedy was necessary not only for a remedy but for the means of putting that remedy into force. The people were supposed to have such a power by means of the representative institutions of the country; but these institutions were imperfect, and did not reflect a true picture of the people. The people were supposed to have such a power by means of the representative institutions of the country; but these institutions were imperfect, and did not reflect a true picture of the people.

Mr. Jury proceeded to enlarge upon this theme, and to quote from John Stuart Mill regarding it and regarding the remedy for the evil, which was some system of proportional representation. No doubt many of his hearers were in favor of the more thorough-going and effective system proposed by Thomas Hare, and bearing his name; but at our present stage of progress the less radical system known as

CUMULATIVE VOTING. With cumulative voting all that we could hope to attain, and it was better to confine our agitation to that. He believed there was a fair chance of soon getting at any rate such a measure of this reform as would serve as a test and object lesson. Mr. Jury then gave a rapid sketch of the system of cumulative voting as now in force in the election of school boards in England, where it had been eminently successful since it was introduced by Mr. Gladstone's Government in 1870. It had now been in operation 22 years without amendment, and, so far as he knew, without any fault. The speaker proceeded to explain the system by describing its operation in the English town in which he had formerly lived. There were nine members of the school board there to be elected. Instead of being voted on by the whole town, the whole town was one constituency, and elected all the nine members. Each elector had nine votes, or as many votes as there were members to be elected; and he had the power of distributing these nine votes amongst the various candidates just as he chose, object of "cumulating" them on one or more of the candidates. If he placed the figure "9" opposite any name on his ballot paper it meant that the bearer of that name got all his nine votes. The effect of the system was that any section of the community that numbered no less than one-ninth of the constituency could have a man to represent them on the school board. That was the proper plan on which to go in electing aldermen and in electing members of the Provincial Legislature and of the Dominion Parliament. Mr. Jury proceeded to deal at length with other aspects of his subject and in doing so mentioned the great difficulty that the TEMPERANCE AND PROHIBITION party had in getting any effective representation in Parliament. Our political institutions, as we had them now, were simply an experiment. New inventions after and utilized in the arts and manufactures; and why not in our Governmental institutions? There was no more reason for our being bound to the defective methods of former days than there was for our using the old sailing ships instead of the modern steamers, or for traversing the Province by stage coach instead of railway. We were behind other countries in our representative institutions, and unless we progressed we must surely fall behind; we could not stand still. After some further observations Mr. Jury resumed his seat amid loud applause.

THE ORGANIZATION WILL BE A FACTOR. In the course of the discussion that followed several questions were asked, and answered by Mr. Jury. One of the speakers, Mr. Yeomans, expressed a fear that the cumulative voting system would lead to increased power and influence of societies and lodges, as they could get specially represented in this way. Mr. Jury said that would perhaps be so in some cases, but he thought not more so than under the present system, as it was well known that a candidate for any elective position had to join a number of societies and make himself "solid" with the members if he hoped for success.

Before the meeting closed the chairman announced that the committee had decided to submit to a number of prominent sources the question of how best to employ the unemployed, and that Prof. Huss, of Toronto University, had kindly promised to collate and tabulate the answers and give the result in a public meeting, under the auspices of the Social Reform Conference.

THE ENORMOUS CIRCULATION OF Henry George's work, entitled "Protection or Free Trade," is acknowledged to have been one of the most powerful of the agencies that brought about the sweeping defeat of the Protectionists in the recent Presidential election. During the six months from May, 1892, to November, 1892, more than 1,000,000 copies of this great work were circulated; the exact figures being 1,024,000. The greater part of these went to electors of the United States.

This wonderful achievement is chiefly due to the brilliant audacity and executive ability of Hon. Tom L. Johnson, the well-known radical Democrat, and member of Congress from Ohio. By arrangement with five or six other radical free-traders the whole of the book was got into the official Congressional record. Each of the six members put in a certain number of chapters, under the rule of the House, which gives members leave to print extracts of this kind as part of their speeches. The whole of the book being thus in the Congressional record, the franking privilege was opened to it, and it could go through the mails free of postage. Then Tom Johnson and his friends took off their coats and went to work, especially in the case of the edition was prepared in 64 pages of small type at a cost of 1 cent a copy. The great quantity required made this low price possible. Very soon the nickname of "Saint George" was given to this edition; a short and handy title which has stuck to it.

Canadian free traders did not fail to take this opportunity of teaching the great truth of free trade. By persistent work on the part of a few more radical ones from 30,000 to 40,000 copies have been circulated in Ontario; and the work is still going on. Many thousands were also circulated in Great Britain and Australia.

PRUDENCE HART.

By Georgiana M. Craik.

"You have been very unwise," said Miss Hart reprovingly.

"I have to learn that yet," he replied.

"Surely, Prudence, I have told you nothing this morning that you did not know before? You allow that, do you not? And, dear, silence, if you have known that indeed, and if you have still gone on meeting me, how can I believe that all this time you have meant to say no to me at last? You cannot have meant it; there is so much between me and you. Give me one word of hope, and I will wait—you do not know how patiently I will wait—for the rest."

And then she made no immediate answer to him; but, after a little pause, she finally did give him one word of hope.

It was a very cool and cautious word, but, such as it was, it raised him to the seventh heaven. But, as time went on, I am afraid the poor lad found that he had entered into a rather stormy paradise, and that if Miss Hart had disturbed his repose in the days before he declared himself to be her lover, she raked him with almost unbearable torments in these other days that came after them. For he soon discovered that his expectation of receiving any extended favors from her hands after his marriage was a delusion of the most absolute kind. She gave him not more than she had given him before, but less. She treated him with brusquerie, with coldness, sometimes even with contempt; she made him jealous by parading her apparent preference of other people to himself; and when he reproached her with these cruelties she told him coolly that she practiced them for his own good, that he might learn prudence and wear his affections lightly.

"For you know you are very foolish to care about me," she often had told him demurely. "There are a great many other girls that it would be far better for you to like." And she would enumerate those maidens sometimes, till she drove him wild with impatience.

"I will marry you, or no other woman in this world," he told her one day with a vehemence. And then she laughed, and suddenly stopped her teasing talk, and looking in his face with a softer look than he had often let him see before her, she said, "Well, I don't think you'll ever marry me," she said abruptly; but, if such an unlikely thing should by chance happen, I will try not to make you unhappy—you good old Keith."

And on this—for she gave him few such tender speeches—the foolish fellow was so moved that, feeling an entire inability to express his gratitude in words, he fairly went down on his knees before her, and kissed the little hands she gave up to him, with all kinds of incoherent blessings stumbling over one another on his lips.

And so, with little visits and things went on till the summer had passed its height. Long before this Prudence had made herself much at home in the Verner family, and had won a high opinion of her virtues from Mr. and Mrs. Verner.

From Mabel she had, perhaps, not quite won so high an opinion, for Mabel's acquaintance with her being more intimate, led now and then to certain suspicions that made that young lady doubtful about the innermost character of her new friend; yet even Mabel was attracted by her too much to be disposed readily to think ill of her. "It seems to me that she is not quite straightforward," she had said hesitatingly, once or twice to Keith (who, having his thoughts, too, on that point, had not perhaps, been able to do much to allay his sister's perplexity); but to her mother she had not said even so much as this. She was a kind-hearted girl, and hardly liked to hint at suspicions she could not prove: "for if I cannot prove them, I am only making trouble for myself," she would say, and then she would open them.

No to Keith's silent and Prudence went on her way rejoicing.

But on a certain morning, when autumn had begun, and the beech trees were growing red and dropping their leaves upon the lawn, the postman brought a letter to Miss Hart, from which unexpected results ensued. It was a letter addressed in a man's hand, and when she received it, she broke fast, Prudence blushed a little, and slipped it into her apron pocket unopened, and when the meal was ended took her departure from the apartment rather hastily; after which for a good while nobody saw her any more.

After an hour or two had passed, however, Mrs. Verner was seated by herself in the dining-room with her desk and her account books before her, when Miss Hart's gentle fingers opened the door, and her soft step having brought her to Mrs. Verner's side, she dropped the unexpectedly plumed letter on the floor, giving the older lady, who was busy with her bills, rather a start, as she said, "What's the matter, my dear?" she said quickly, looking round.

"Oh, dearest Mrs. Verner, nothing is the matter," answered Prudence sweetly. "I have a pretty color in my cheeks, and in her eyes the softest look of modest confusion. "Nothing is the matter—unless you should be angry; but you won't be that, I think, because I am so happy. I have come to tell you first of all, dear Mrs. Verner, I am going to be married."

"Married, Prudence? cried Mrs. Verner, quite taken aback, for she had thought she knew all the girl's concerns, and had calmly come to the conclusion long ago that she never had a lover in her life.

"Yes, I know I should surprise you," answered Prudence, with laughing, "for I never told you, did I? But it has been such a long attachment—oh, such a long attachment—and there were difficulties; but I can do what he likes now, and my only leave you all at once. Yes, at once, for he is going with his regiment to Canada almost to-day, and there will be many things to do, you know."

"But, Prudence, where do you propose to go to?" exclaimed the mother, feeling almost scandalized at the rapidity with which Miss Hart was preparing to transact the whole of her dear child's life.

"Oh, no, but he asks me to go and stay in London with his brother," explained Prudence, "his brother is married, I don't know? And they have sent an invitation to go from their house. Are they not kind? But people are so good to me," said grateful Prudence.

The news was startling; but of course the only thing to do was to facilitate Miss Hart's departure. The gentleman who was to be her husband had just come into a very good fortune, she informed them. "I am sure you will be glad to know that I shall not be poor," she told them meekly, and they were very glad, of course. They rejoiced in her happiness altogether very heartily. "The only thing we have regret is that we must lose you," they said to her. "But you will not lose me forever, I hope," Prudence answered very sweetly to this. "My George hopes only to be abroad for a few years, and then we shall settle in England, and I hope I shall see a great deal of you."

It had been on a Tuesday morning that she had received the letter and so soon as Thursday she took leave of them.

"Why, you won't see the boys again?" Mrs. Verner said once to her with a sudden thought; "unless, indeed they could call on you in London to say good-bye?"

But Miss Hart did not receive this proposition very warmly.

"Perhaps, as I do not know Mrs. Gardner yet, it might look like taking rather a liberty to ask visitors to her house—don't you think so?" she asked anxiously. And they would hardly care to come either, I dare say. Oh, no, I think you had better say good-bye to them for me. Please say good-bye, with my very kind remembrances."

And so when Thursday came she took her departure with smiles and tears. It was quite an affecting party. Mr. and Mrs. Verner almost felt as if they were separating from a daughter. They gave her a handsome present to help her with her trousseau; they told her to let them have frequent news of her. "The boys will be so surprised," Mrs. Verner repeated, an hour before the end came. "I shall write to Keith this afternoon and tell him. They will both be so sorry when they hear that you are gone."

And accordingly when Prudence was fairly launched on her new life, Mrs. Verner wrote her note, and Keith got it the next morning. He found it on his table when he came in to breakfast, and he read it in Godfrey's presence, and as he read it he gave a gasp and turned deadly pale.

"I say, what's up?" cried his brother in surprise; and then without a word Keith dashed the letter to the floor and the other picked it up and read it.

The next moment Godfrey had struck his clenched hand on the table with a blow that made the cups and saucers ring.

But Keith only looked at him for a moment, and then walked blindly out of the room. His brother might curse her, but he had loved her too well for that. He felt that as if his life was ended. Through the closed doors he heard Godfrey swearing, and he sat down alone, like a man who was stunned.

Tru to and Combinations
Are unpopular. But there is one form of trust against which no one has anything to say. It is the trust which the public has in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the best of it is the trust is fully justified by the merit of the medicine. For, remember, HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA CURES.

Hood's PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or grip. Sold by all druggists.

"I think the Pilgrim mothers had a harder time than the Pilgrim fathers," said Hicks. "Why?" queried Dickson. "Why, they not only had to endure the same privations as the Pilgrim fathers, but they had to get along with the Pilgrim fathers as well."

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery having been recommended to me, I tried it, and with a little hope of relief, and, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy were cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your Vegetable Discovery, which has done such wonders in my case."

"Say, mamma, is heaven beautiful as Aunt Mary's parlor?" "Oh, ever so much, Johnny." "Well, then, I don't want to go there." "Why not?" "Cause everything 'll be too good to sit on."

Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Expeller is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

The Sultan of Johore, who is contemplating a visit to the Columbian Fair, is the possessor of $10,000,000 worth of diamonds and other of the world's goods in proportion.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

Putting screens in the saloon doors is one of the devil's ways of trying to hide his face.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, are rheumatism. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are especially subject.

"Frank, who was that delightful person who just left? I know he wanted to do something for you." Frank—Yes, he wanted to owe me $10.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely mild and gentle in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

Analogy.—Watts—How do you spell "whisky?" "k-y-o-r-k-e-y." Fotts—"k-y." Same as Kentucky.

The Red River.
The red river of life is the blood, like other rivers it sometimes becomes impure, but unlike other rivers it only needs Burdock Blood-Bitters to purify it and remove all its disorders from the common impure to the most scrupulous source.

The season is rapidly approaching when the ice man is cool and his bills are collected.

AFTER ALIMONY.

Husband and Wife Will Meet in Court After 57 Years Separation.

TORONTO, April 9.—In 1836 George Ackert and his wife separated owing to disagreements, and neither again saw the other until recently, and each believed the other to be dead. A short time ago Mrs. Ackert, who is now living in Halton county, discovered that Mr. Ackert was alive and well on a farm in Peel county, and has entered an action against him for $4 a week alimony.

EXTRACTS FROM A LETTER OF A KINGSTON LADY.

A lady writing from Kingston, Ont., says: "Four months ago when my baby commenced teething, I decided to give Lactated Food a fair trial. I had been advised to use it by an experienced mother, who assured me that it would be of great value to my little one during the time it was cutting teeth. I have often thanked my lady friend for her kind advice; and to you as the makers of Lactated Food I would say that you certainly deserve all praise and success. My baby never had a bad hour during teething time, and he has grown fat and hearty, and he sleeps well."

There is comfort and safety for both child and mother, when Lactated Food is used. The mother that feeds her child every day on Lactated Food has never to complain of baby being cross, fretful and peevish. Babies who are fed on Lactated Food are always bright, happy and contented; and they are free from all prevailing ill that attack infants who are brought up on the common foods of the day.

Verdict Against the Government.

MONTREAL, April 9.—Judge Jette rendered judgment yesterday in the case of Thompson vs. Senecal. This was the action of the Government to recover from Andre Senecal, the former manager of the Printing Bureau at Ottawa, the sum of $1,500, received by him in presents from purveyors of the department. The learned judge, after quoting from numerous authorities, dismissed the action.

Newfoundland's Finances.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 9.—The Receiver-General's budget in the Newfoundland House of Assembly shows total revenue of $1,833,790; surplus, $215,870. The funded debt of the colony is $6,393,367, an increase for the year of $1,170,003. There is to be a reduction in the tariff on flour of 5 cents and on pork of 25 cents per barrel. A subsidy of $16,000 will be given to the Lunenburg for a weekly mail alternating with the Allan boats. A railway loan is to be established at a cost of $20,000 per annum.

The Cost of It.

Applicant—What does a marriage license cost?
Clerk—Two dollars down and the balance all your life.

"German Syrup"

Martinsville, N. J., Methodist Parsonage. "My acquaintance with your remedy, Boschee's German Syrup, was made about fourteen years ago, when I contracted a Cold which resulted in a Hoarseness and a Cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a Physician, without obtaining relief—I cannot say now what remedy he prescribed—I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received such quick and permanent help from it that whenever we have had Throat or Bronchial troubles since in our family, Boschee's German Syrup has been our favorite remedy and always with favorable results. I have never hesitated to report my experience of its use to others when I have found them troubled in like manner." REV. W. H. HAGGARTY, of the Newark, New Jersey, M. E. Conference, April 25, '90.

Rheumatism Cured in a Few Hours

—BY THE—

ALKALINE TREATMENT

All Schools of Medicine are taught that there can be but two causes of disease, Acids and Alkalies, and where there is one cause of alkalinity there is a million of acidity. The Alkaline Treatment discovered by Professor Brunton, the Canadian Chemist, neutralizes the acid which is the cause of every known disease. Stimulates the blood vessels, restoring circulation. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Paralysis, Eczema, Four Stomach, Kidney Troubles, Indigestion, Debility, any form of Blood Poisoning, etc., are treated successfully. There are two preparations, internally to purify the blood through the stomach, externally to absorb the impurities through the pores of the skin; they are each 50c. Any information free, either by letter or personally. PROF. BRUNTON, Office 1, 208, Masonic Temple, Chicago.

Saturday was closeted with Magistrate Bartlett for some time. He wants to bring suit against Thomas McWhinnie, J.P., of Sandwich to recover certain articles of jewelry and also to proceed against him under the Pawnbroker Act. He says that his father, the late Col. Rankin, borrowed some money from McWhinnie on the jewelry of his wife. He has been advised that this was contrary to the provisions of the act, and will endeavor to recover the jewelry."

say will be allowed to send his children to the London West school. The headmaster's report showed an enrollment of 314, with an average attendance of 253 for March.

Baptized in the River.

Several hundred people stood on York street bridge yesterday afternoon and witnessed an interesting ceremony. In the river behind the rink two candidates for membership in the Church of the Latter Day Saints were immersed in the water of the Thames. One was a man and the other a young girl. Elder Howlett officiated, and before the baptism prayed and gave out a hymn, which was sung by a number of the saints on the bank. The elder waded into water waist deep, and repeating the words of the ritual, dipped each of the candidates in turn beneath the surface.
The party immediately adjourned to the York street mission near by, where the usual services consummated the administration of the important rite.

Pete Wood Talks Ball.

Toronto World: Dr. Peter B. Wood, perhaps the best-known devotee of the diamond, is at present in the city. He has just completed his course in medicine at the Western University, London, and taken on the title as above. The quoniam Hamilton Clipper states that he believes there will be a revival in Canada in baseball this year, but it will be in the amateur line. He has had his day on the diamond, but still may play baseball for love of the game. "I think I could pitch the game of my life," said Pete yesterday. "And I hope to do some practicing on the city." Dr. Wood looks the picture of health, and just the same as when he used to occupy the box for the Hams and send deceptive shots at Cox's cracks over the Don and fill the local fans with gloom.

Arrested, Charged With Assault.

A young man named Forbes, who drives for Hamilton & Sons, was coming over Kensington bridge on Saturday night when three young men climbed on to his wagon, and, after throwing out and spilling a brass boiler, they proceeded to assault Detective Graham who arrested two of the young fellows on King street. They gave their names as Harry Blackwell, Wellington street, and George McKenzie, Hamilton Row, London South. The third young man proceeded up Dundas street and, meeting a young lady, on the girl reverting the insult he struck her forcibly in the face and then made off. The crying of the young lady drew the attention of a policeman, but the scamp had disappeared by this time. The two were remanded until Tuesday by Squire Jarvis.

Western Militia Changes.

Seventh Battalion, Fusiliers, London,
Ont.—To be captain, Lieutenant John Graham, R. S. L., vice G. W. Hayes, promoted.

First Hussars, London, Ont.—In future
the troops of this regiment will be designated by letters instead of numbers.

No. 5 Company, Waverford.—Second Lieutenant Frank Rapsage Foster retires from the service.

Twenty-second Battalion, Rifles, Ont.—No. 7 Company, Tilsonburg.—To be second lieutenant, Edward Lyall Morton, gentleman, R. S. L., vice C. A. Beaupre.

Thirtieth Battalion, Rifles, Ontario.
No. 6 Company, Elmhurst.—To be second lieutenant, provisionally, Edwin Kendall Richardson, gentleman.

Thirtieth Battalion, Rifles, Ontario.
No. 1 Company, Simcoe.—To be second lieutenant, provisionally, Sergeant Lorne Bruce Chadwick Livingstone, vice
G. F. Cooke, resigned.

Housebreaking.

Some neighbors noticed that Sheriff Glass' summer seat, near Hellmuth College, was occupied on Friday night. As the sheriff lives in town during the winter months this aroused suspicion, and Mr.
Glass was communicated with. Sheriff's Officer Graham went out on Saturday morning and found a man coming out of one of the windows with a bundle of linen in his arms. He dropped the bundle and retreated to the roof, refusing to come down. Finally he got down on the opposite side and took to the fields, with Mr.
Graham in pursuit. It took three shots to bring him in, and when they got back to the house another tramp was seen to make his exit and disappear as quickly as possible. Inside of the premises two parcels of linen were found ready to be taken away. The man gave his name as Charles Walker, and had changed part of his clothes while in the house for some of the sheriff's. He also wore his slippers. He was remanded for a week by Squire Jarvis on Saturday afternoon.

Independent Order Foresters.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, the supreme chief ranger, reports that organizing work in Great Britain continues with unabated success, hardly a mail arriving without bearing information of the organizing of new courts. During the past week courts were instituted at Cardiff, Wales, and Belfast, Ireland. The supreme chief ranger is busily engaged in preparing for his contemplated trip to Great Britain for the purpose of forming high courts in the three kingdoms. The surplus, which increased in greater proportions last year than ever before in the history of the order, is still satisfactorily accumulating, and now amounts to $648,307. During the past few days the following new courts have been reported to the supreme officer: Court Crescent, No. 708, at Inkster, N. D.; Mara,
No. 843, at Mars' Hill, Me.; Cookshire, No.
852, at Cookshire, Ont.; Welsh Pioneer,
No. 2,015, at Cardiff, South Wales, and Dalriada, No. 2,016, at Belfast, Ireland.

The Port Stanley Tragedy.

The adjourned inquest in connection with the death of Mrs. Sifton at Port Stanley continued taking evidence there until 1 o'clock Saturday morning. Among the witnesses was W. W. Fitzgerald, county judge of Welland, who was solicitor for the Sifton estate. He said Mrs. Sifton had been in the asylum at London before going to live with Orme about a year ago.
He often visited Mr. Orme at Port Stanley and always saw Mrs. Sifton when there. At the time of her death she was worth about $2,000. Her will was made before she became insane, leaving half of the estate to her adopted daughter and half to Mr. Orme's children. Mr. Orme knew his mother made a will, but did not know the contents. Her husband was always good and kind to his mother. He was a very excitable man, and he thought on account of his excitement forgot to take care of his mother and family.

GENERAL DEBILITY
Cured by Four Bottles.

HAMILTON, July 28, 1890.

MR. ISAAC WILLIAMS.
Dear Sir,—I have been a sufferer for a long time with general debility and weakness in my back. The doctors could do me no good.
I tried your Royal Crown Remedy, and after taking four bottles it has made me better than I have been for years. I would highly recommend it to all suffering from these diseases.

Yours truly,
MR. HILDER,
Inchbury street.

SPRING OVERCOATINGS

—AT—

VANDERLIP'S,

202½ Dundas Street.

After being addressed by the county crown attorney the jury were locked up and could not agree until 6 o'clock Saturday morning, when the following verdict was rendered: "That the deceased, Martha B. T.
Sifton, on March 6, 1893, in the village of Port Stanley, came to her death by being burned while being in the burning house of her son, Mr. T. J. L. Orme. The jury is divided in opinion as to whether her son, Mr. T. J. L. Orme, or anyone else was negligent in not removing the said Mrs.
Martha B. T. Sifton from the house of the said Mr. T. J. L. Orme." This verdict was signed by all the jury.

Leavenworth Case To-Night.

Admirers of fine acting and the thrilling excitement attendant upon the perpetration of a mysterious crime, and the pursuit and detection by skillful means of the one least suspected, are recommended by good authority to see Anna Katharine Green's "The Leavenworth Case" at the Grand tonight. The language and construction are said to be such as only a refined and cultured author of her high standing would employ, and there is nothing of the brutal or repulsive element in it. The characters are people of education and position. The book is so well known that to tell the story over again would be superfluous. In brief, it is the love of the private secretary of Mr.
Leavenworth for one of the latter's nieces, who does not look upon the love of the secretary with favor, and who has been secretly married to an Englishman some time before, which fact is unknown to her uncle. The latter, upon finding it out, is about to disinherit her, when he is murdered by the secretary, who thinks in his passionate love that by saving the niece from disinheritance he may yet win her.
Suspicion points to the two nieces of the uncle as the criminals. The play is an exceptionally strong one and sometimes borders on the style of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr.
Hyde." Charles Hollis, the star, in the role of the secretary, is an actor of much ability, and in his present part reminds one of Richard Mansfield in some of his great creations
