LOTTERY TICKETS SEIZED HERE BY P. O. INSPECTORS

"Take-a-Chance" Sheets Confiscated as Result of Tip to Authorities.

WHOLE BATCH IS TAKEN

Londoners Who Expected to Take a Flier With German Government Disappointed.

Londoners who anticipated taking a little flier in German lottery tickets will be disappointed. They were expecting the "take-a-chance" sheets yesterday, but they will have to continue expecting for the postal authorities have confiscated every one sent through the mails to local "subscribers."

For some time the local postal inspectors have been investigating a tip that a number of German lottery tickets were being secured here, but no definite information was received until a description of the envelopes, containing the sheets, was received. The date of the expected arrival of the tickets was also tipped off to the inspectors and yesterday a suspicious looking envelope was opened. It proved to be one of the lottery ones. The sequel to its opening was the confiscation of the entire batch.

The postal regulations give the inspectors the right to confiscate all mail matter pertaining to lotteries. It was under this rule that the local men worked.

Fifteen years ago David Dibb, a postman, was the lucky winner in a lottery, getting $15,000 on a ticket he purchased for a dollar.

DETECTIVES DISCOVER REGULAR ARSENAL

Officers' "Find" Proves to Be a Box of Smoke Wagons and Ammunition.

While seeking information today in a place, the whereabouts of which the police have not yet made public, Detective Robert Egerton discovered a suspicious-looking box which when broken open revealed a regular arsenal. The box contained seven revolvers of different caliber, a couple of dozen cartridge belts, a number of pistol holsters, and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Detectives Robert Egerton and Harry Down are working on the case, and at the present time have two men under suspicion. An arrest may be made before nightfall.

From the marks on the box and some of the goods they look as if they had been stolen from some private concern, and were being shipped through this city to a man the police are now searching for. The detectives have little to say regarding the discovery beyond the fact that the goods were hidden in a certain part of the city, and that they are working on the case.

BOARD OF TRADE TO TALK SUBWAYS

Will Consider Whole Question of G.T.R. Improvement at Next General Meeting—Believe It Is Time to Act.

Track elevation and subways as a solution of the level crossing problem in London will be taken up by the London Board of Trade in the near future. At a meeting of the executive of the board held at noon today the question was discussed, and it was suggested that an effort should be made to get someone conversant with the whole situation to come and address the board on the subject at its next meeting.

NO TRACE OF BODY OF J. W. LANGRIDGE

Little Hope of Recovering Remains of Former Londoner for Weeks Yet.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Herbert, Sask., March 18.—Although many have been searching the Saskatchewan River near here, J. W. Langridge's body has not been seen. Langridge came to Regina from Toronto in 1911 to become inspector of the "Canadian" Life, Insurance and Manufacturing Co. in Regina, N. Y., and his brother, Walter, in London, Ont. The body is not likely to be recovered for weeks, as the river is very swift and will be some time before the ice breaks up.

HEROIC HOTEL MANAGER IS FORMER LONDONER

William Gray, of the Burned "Woodbine," Learned Printing Trade in London.

William Gray, who proved himself a hero at the disastrous fire in the Woodbine Hotel at Toronto Tuesday night, is a former Londoner, a nephew of James Gray, the well-known drygoods merchant. He was formerly a printer, and learned his trade with the Southern Printing Company in this city. He was manager of the burned hotel, and when the fire was discovered started out to warn the guests of their danger. Coming to a room in which he believed one of the guests was sleeping, he broke down the door, and in doing so sustained severe injuries to his arm.

STEFANSSON SIGNS FOR WIRELESS EQUIPMENT

If Installed at Herschell, Karluk's Whereabouts Would Be Known.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, March 18.—How usefully wireless could span the spaces of the north is shown by a letter which Dr. Thomson, the member for the Yukon, this morning received from Stefansson, the explorer. The message comes from the mouth of the Mackenzie River and was dated January 28. "If we only had the wireless at Herschell now," the Karluk would have been able to know where we were and what we were doing."

The memorandum of Mr. Stefansson has been laid before the Government by Dr. Thomson, who, for two years, has been urging the Government to put in a chain of wireless posts in the Yukon Territory and its neighborhood.

FIVE MERCHANTS VICTIMIZED BY CLEVER FORGER

Cash Checks for "Artist" Who Forges a Law Firm's Name.

OTHERS MAY BE STUNG

Complaints Received at Police Headquarters May Not Be All.

Five complaints of phony checks were received by the detective department today. All were from businessmen, who had cashed checks Saturday night to oblige a young man they would all like to meet just once more.

The victims are The King Edward grocery, A. D. Denny, grocer, J. H. Boughner, men's furnishing, Alf Cave, grocer, and J. H. Farny, grocer. In addition to these, the detectives have heard that there are a number of others who "fell" for the young man's game.

All the victims tell the same story. The young man came into their store with a check stamped Meredith & Fisher, or Jarvis & Vining, and made out for $14.50. He would purchase goods that amounted to about fifty cents, and receive the $14 change. All of the men who cashed the checks stated that they did not hesitate a minute in cashing the paper, and that they would have a hard time identifying the man who put it on them.

It is the belief of the detectives that the man is no novice at the game, for he had the checks stenciled: "Not good for more than fifteen dollars," and all were made out on Meredith & Fisher and Jarvis & Vining bank checks.

The young man is described as being about twenty-five years old, well dressed, and a very smooth talker.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS COST $22.79 PER PUPIL

Expenditures for Education in London Materially Lower Than Average.

According to figures compiled by Inspector C. B. Edwards the cost per pupil for public school education in London last year was $22.79. This includes kindergarten, household science, manual training, playgrounds, and sinking fund and interest on debt interest, and represents a decrease of 85 cents per pupil over the previous year.

The report of the educational department for last year shows that the average cost of education per pupil, throughout the province was $27.48.

There are approximately 9,000 public school pupils in London, so that the total cost of their education in 1913 amounts to $204,410.

ASQUITH PROMISES QUEENSTOWN INQUIRY

[Canadian Press.] London, March 18.—Premier Asquith promised an Irish deputation which interviewed him today that he would appoint a committee of inquiry to investigate the question of the abandonment of the port of Queenstown by the big steamships plying between England and the United States. The deputation was headed by the lord mayor of Dublin and the lord mayor of Cork.

WOULD HAVE DUAL REUNION AND PEACE CELEBRATION

Board of Trade Executive Suggests Dual Fete in 1915—Could Inaugurate New City Hall at the Same Time—Levy for Waterways Union.

Postponement of the Old Boys' celebration until 1915, when it could be made the occasion of opening the new city hall and also the inauguration of new radial railways which it is expected will be completed by that time, was a suggestion made at a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trade held at noon today.

The celebration of the hundred years of peace between the United States and Canada will also be held in that year, and it was thought that the two celebrations could be combined with excellent results.

There was less opposition to the proposal than had been expected to reduce the duty on agricultural implements.

Frank Glass, M. P., some time ago suggested that Organizer Scannell, who is looking after the work of organizing the big celebration, be asked to come here and address the members of the board, and if possible to make London a centre for the celebration in this section of Ontario. The ideas were accepted as good suggestions, but no resolution was passed.

A levy of 10 cents a member was made to be donated towards the purposes of the Great Waterways Union. Four delegates will represent the board on the big deputation which goes to Ottawa next week. President E. C. Mitchell will be one of them, and he will select the three men who are to accompany him.

LONDON'S LAST (?) GLIMPSE OF 1914 WINTER

Londoners had the opportunity last night and this morning of seeing one of the most beautiful natural phenomena seen in this city in years. The soft, large, full-crystallized flakes of pure white snow clung to the limbs and twigs of trees, telegraph and telephone wires, boulevard fences, roofs, eaves and window ledges, occasioning delighted and enthusiastic comment from all who looked or ventured out of doors this morning before the rising sun rapidly dissipated the generous fall of "the beautiful." The streets were carpeted, the lawns were snugly covered with a quilt of milk-white and downy texture. Even the Grand Trunk station and the new city hall were beautiful this morning. The naked trees had been draped in lovely, lacey, pure white lingerie.

But soon, too soon, the beautiful disappeared in a metamorphosis which left in its stead plain, unadorned, insidious, sticky, horrid mud. All too transient, the beautiful, intricate and elaborate artistic creation of Nature was soon completely away, unstable, magical, almost weird beauty of the picture had faded completely away.

LUNCH COUNTER FASHIONS CHANGE WITH THE YEARS

First It Was Baked Beans, Then "Wan Aig" and Now the Popular Bite Is Beef Sandwiches and Dairy Lunches.

The little man with the spectacles and otherwise inconspicuous appearance sidled up to the lunch counter and called for one coffee, two beef sandwiches and an apple pie. The Macedonian shouted: "Two beef" at the brown-eyed professor of culinary, who peered through the two by four looking at the rear of the dining-room esplanade, and then turned patiently back to the big range in the hash-oven.

The Macedonian phalanx of apple, raisin, fig, guinea, apricot, peach, prune, and cranberry 19% per cent fractions of pie stacked on the ledge back of the counter. Then he snatched a saucer with his right hand and a cup with his left in highly-accredited, amiable fashion, ordered in the good book, pressed the milk faucet and then splashed out the caffeine, and shoved over the apple pie and the Mohammedan beverage to the lunch-counter patron. The latter was inclined to begin on the "two beef," and while he waited he turned to the man on his left and expressed himself thusly:

"Great study in psychology these quick-lunch hangouts. They're typical of our Canadian life, don't you know?" "What has become of the old-fashioned business man who used to dine at his club from 1:30 to 3, dawdling over his coffee, sherry and cigars with the leisurely ennui of the aesthete or epicure, who regarded dining as the noblest of the finest arts?"

[Canadian Press.] London, March 18.—The City of Sydney, which was abandoned yesterday after running on the Sambre rocks 25 miles east of Halifax, was still clinging to the ragged edge of the rocks today. The constant pounding has shattered the steamer's bottom, and in the after part water was almost up to the decks. There was no hope of saving the vessel.

ONE KILLED; 3 HURT IN AMMONIA EXPLOSION

[Canadian Press.] Cleveland, Ohio, March 18.—One man was killed and three injured, probably fatally, and several are reported missing as the result of the explosion of an ammonia tank in the plant of the Cleveland Brewing Company at noon today. The building was partially wrecked.

NO HOPE OF SAVING THE CITY OF SYDNEY

[Canadian Press.] Halifax, N. S., March 18.—The City of Sydney, which was abandoned yesterday after running on the Sambre rocks 25 miles east of Halifax, was still clinging to the ragged edge of the rocks today. The constant pounding has shattered the steamer's bottom, and in the after part water was almost up to the decks. There was no hope of saving the vessel.

Captain McDonald said that the City of Sydney was enveloped in fog during the whole of her trip up coast from New York whence she was bound for St. John's, Nfld. It was while he was trying to pick up the lightship southeast of Sambre Island, that the steamer struck the rocks. She was several miles out of her course.

SHIPPING COMPANIES NOT YET ABLE TO AGREE

[Canadian Press.] Berlin, March 18.—The prospects today were very slight of an agreement being reached by the British and continental shipping companies, who are in conference here over the allotment of transatlantic traffic. It was stated authoritatively that very little progress has been made during the two days' negotiations over the full conference.

Other lines represented at the conference complain that the Cunard and the Hamburg-American lines will not make sufficient concessions.

FOUR OF GUESTS AT TORONTO HOTEL PERISH IN FLAMES

Two Had an Opportunity to Escape, But Returned for Dog.

ANOTHER BADLY INJURED

Montreal Man Jumped From an Upper Window and Likely to Die.

[Canadian Press.]

LATER.

Toronto, March 18.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon it was definitely known that the death list in the Woodbine Hotel fire would not exceed four. Although only two bodies have been recovered, there is little doubt but that the two reported missing perished in the flames. The dead are:

Max Cohen and Fred Levison, New York. Charles Wilcott, of Belleville. Wm. Jeffrey, of Stratford, a traveller for McCleary's, London.

D. Miller, C. P. R., Montreal, reported missing was located this morning at another hotel. Among the guests registered at the time of the fire were:

W. H. Ginder, Hamilton; W. Gibbons, London; J. Graham, London; W. A. Hall, Hamilton; E. B. Harrison, Montreal; H. Levy, Montreal; T. Maynard, London; P. Montague, Ottawa, but these have all been reported safe.

Toronto, March 18.—At least four men were burned to death, while the fate of another is in doubt, and others were injured when the interior of the new Woodbine Hotel burned up last night.

The known dead are: Max Cohen and Fred Levison, of New York; two bodies found are believed to be those of Charles Wilcott, of Belleville, a well-known horseman, and a man named Miller. A fifth man is missing.

Edmond S. Giles, of Montreal, is dying at St. Michael's Hospital from injuries received when he jumped from a second story window of the Woodbine Hotel, the assistant manager of the hotel, sustained terrible cuts.

Cohen and Levison got as far as the fire escape, and there by their friend, J. A. Lee, of New York, but returned for a valuable bull pup. Mr. Lee continued down the fire escape, and saw no more of his friends.

With an appalling and dramatic swiftness the fire demon descended, just as hundreds of guests were making merry at the dining tables or preparing for the evening's entertainments. George A. Spears, proprietor of the Woodbine, was busy preparing for a special party in honor of Mrs. Spears' birthday, and all arrangements were completed for a big time in the Pompeian room. Several theatre parties were also in the hotel at the time.

The alarm first came from Bert A. Belmont, a mining man, who discovered that a bathroom was blazing. In an incredibly short time the whole third floor was blazing fiercely, and it was with difficulty that several guests found their way to the stairway through the dense smoke.

J. A. Lee, who was helping to lead the escape, called to others to follow him to the fire escape, and, breaking open the door of room 204, reached the avenue of safety. Lee was on his way down the escape when the other two, Cohen and Levison, saw the escape was so easy, turned back for a pet dog. They were not seen again.

Another badly charred body was found at 11 o'clock this morning. The progress of the fire had all the unreality of a nightmare. The first warning came at 7:30. An hour and a half after the first curl of smoke, the floors had fallen in, and the fire had sunk into a pile of smoldering embers.

At the time of the first alarm, when the guests above were choking in the smoke-filled passages and hurrying to save themselves, some 150 persons were in the dining room, and a few groups in the Pompeian room. For some minutes business pursued its natural course. The girl in the check-room continued to take in and send out checks amid the smoke wreaths, but soon hysteria seized the inmates, and they began to mad scramble to the exits.

Horror mingled with shouts of warning as guests and inmates sought a place of safety. The firemen drenched the building with water, but it seemed to pour off the building without quenching the flames, and efforts were then largely directed to confining the blaze to one building, in which they were successful. Water raining down from the ceiling of the hotel did not dampen the ardor of a crowd standing six deep at the bar, talking and laughing until the proprietor begged them to leave. It took half a dozen policemen to clear the bar, and even after it was cleared one man, who stole a fireman's coat from a reel wagon, walked around the hotel directing manoeuvres and every now and then visiting the bar for another drink. He kept it up for some time, until discovered in a dead stupor and taken to the police station.

Several spectators were injured by being struck with goods thrown out of the windows to the sidewalk.

Max Cohen has been Toronto manager of the United Feature Film Company of New York for the past three years. Frederick Levison, was recently appointed his assistant, and had been in the city three weeks. The fire loss will be $200,000, covered by insurance. Mr. Spears took over the hotel last year at $110,000, and in the fall a handsome annex was added, and the accommodation increased to 100 rooms at a cost of $95,000. Nothing but the front wall and office and concrete bar are standing. The cause of the fire is said to have been defective wiring.

Today's Best Moving Picture Story

A Modern Portia

[By Edwin M. La Roche.]

"A Modern Portia" is being shown at the Majestic Theatre today and tomorrow.

With a supreme effort of will, he crossed the room and took her hand in his. It was as cold as ice. And, looking up, he saw that her jaw had fallen ever so slightly. With the incomprehensible wings of fear fluttering round and about him, his shaking hand withdrew from hers, and he crossed the room, clutching his hand to the money in his pocket. He plucked open the door fiercely, to shut it behind him with the noiselessness of an undertaker. Then, for the first time, he caught his breath with a deep rush of air. The house was buried in sleep. Nothing but the silent stairs and the street-door lay ahead of him.

Isabel Vincent sat immersed in the papers and pass-books of her life-long friend and benefactor. By her side crouched the little niece of the dead woman.

"Strange, Helen! A record of years of bank-deposits, a Jack-rose crimsoning the pages with each withdrawal, and, in the end, only a working balance. I can't understand it—where did all her money go?"

"Aunt Caroline was very good-hearted—perhaps she gave it away."

"Nonsense! Her will shows that she intended to make some large bequests, with you as the principal beneficiary."

Isabel thumbed over the pile of vouchers again.

"Here and here and here!" she exclaimed, sorting out a group of large amounts. "Less than six months ago she drew out over one hundred thousand dollars."

Helen's young eyes grew wide.

"Did you ever see her have any large sums around the house?" Isabel questioned.

"Only enough to pay the bills."

"I thought so." Isabel's brows were furrowed with thought. "That big desk of hers—was there ever any money kept in it?"

"You ought to know," reminded Helen; "you looked through it so hard."

"Think, Helen; papers, notes, receipts, anything—"

"The young girl laughed teasingly. "Auntie was very queer—you can't guess what I found—a hide-and-seek drawer of the desk. And I found something else, too!"

"What?"

"This!" The girl held up a crushed and faded Jack-rose before Isabel's eyes.

"Ah!" The woman in Isabel sighed out loud, but her mind ran keen and true to the scent of the faded flower.

"Leave it with me, Helen—you have helped me wonderfully."

And once more alone, she drew the flower to her lips and held it there. Then, suddenly, she cast it on the flat desk and studied.

"His rose," she said, as if forcing a confession; "the kind he always wore. Alas! I must follow the clue whither it may lead."

The courtroom was crowded with fashionable at the moment when Isabel Vincent, the special assistant district attorney, arose to confront Doctor Victor Carpel.

Three days before his trial, the gifted young woman had visited the district attorney and had been closeted with him for over an hour. When she left his office, ashen-colored as sea-sickness, she took with her a designation as special assistant district attorney, which needed only the governor's signature to put it in force.

The beginning of the trial had been decidedly in favor of the famous alienist. No one had seen him go to the dead woman's house; no one had seen him leave it. The large returns of his private practice, but him beyond the needs of further money. He had never had access to the home of the deceased, except as a rather unusual witness to her will.

It was, then, a complete surprise to the press and to many members of the bar, when Isabel Vincent rose up and asked that the accused be called again for cross-examination.

There was a hasty consultation of Doctor Carpel's counsel, and a chorus of animated whispers among the spectators. Surely the doctor's fiancée, who had sat within the rail so nobly and wily during the trial, was going to become his chief character witness?

Doctor Carpel walked calmly to the witness chair, a Jack-rose crimsoning the lapel of his modish frock-coat. His eyes met the young woman's squarely, and he seemed to be plucking the depths of her heart.

"Doctor Carpel, where did you go previous to your visit to the Patron Club on the night of August 17?"

The accused measured the deep rings under his questioner's eyes before replying.

"Nowhere; I went there directly from my house."

"You did not answer a telephone message?"

"I may have; I get many such."

"You evade my question. Did you not make a visit in answer to a telephone message?"

The doctor's hand nervously toyed with his nose.

"I cannot recall; my practice is very extensive."

"Ah! then let me refresh your memory as to whom you went to see and what you did while there."

A profound silence fell upon the courtroom. Even the judge leaned forward, showing a marked interest.

"Is it not true, Doctor Carpel, that you went to the home of Mrs. Norman?"

The special attorney went rapidly on. "When you arrived at the house, you found the front door unlocked. A minute afterwards, you stood over the bed of a dying woman. No one was about—in her last few words she told you that."

The woman attorney leaned forward, like some animal gathered for a spring. Her voice grew metallically clear. "The doctor asked you to get some money from her desk—a secret place—and you sought it out and found it just as you thought your soul fled. Is not this true, Doctor Carpel?"

She paused and looked straight into the eyes of her now cowering victim.

Doctor Carpel crouched deep in his chair. The urbane look had fled from his face, leaving it a thing of shrunken features. The eyes searching his seemed to grow luminous, the size of twin light-house rays.

"And suppose I should inform you, that the relentless Portia went on, 'that at that very moment, when you thought she had breathed her last, she made one supreme effort, as she saw what you were doing, and, as you looked, you thought her hand moved! Is not that true, Doctor Carpel? And suppose I tell you that in that supreme effort, she wrote this, Doctor Carpel, this very paper that I hold in my hand, while you were putting that money in your pocket! And that when you were scurrying from the room of death that hand rose up again, and in its fingers was clutched—this rose!"

NATIONALISTS SUBMIT AS PRICE OF PEACE

But Ulster Must Be Taken in Ultimately—Statement of Redmond.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist party, presided over the Irish Nationalist banquet here tonight, and in responding to the toast, "Ireland, a Nation," said: "In a few short weeks, in the absence of a political earthquake, the home rule bill will be a law of the land, probably in precisely the form in which it now stands."

The efforts of the Government to conciliate Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and his friends, Mr. Redmond declared, had met with ineffect. He referred to the failure to agree on the temporary exclusion of any part of Ireland, and declared that it was a great sacrifice to make as the price of peace, but in making that sacrifice, to avoid a conflict, they had made absolutely no sacrifice of principle.

If the proposal had been for the permanent exclusion of one inch of Irish territory they would unhesitatingly have rejected it, as the principles of the bill must be maintained.

Final Principles.

"Speaking for myself and my colleagues, and I believe, the Irish nation," Mr. Redmond continued, "these principles are our last word. Beyond them one inch we cannot and we will not go. If force is interposed that force will be met with force."

The party of the democracy of this country will be all the stronger because of the Irish party's stand. Nationalist Ireland has shown that it has been willing to make a great sacrifice for peace."

Mr. Redmond said that there was no difference between the British cabinet and the Irish party as regards the principle and policy of procedure.

During the course of the day Mr. Redmond received a large number of cablegrams from prominent Americans, congratulating him on the prospect of the speedy realization of self-government for Ireland.

The Duchess of Brunswick was formerly Princess Victoria Luise of Hohenzollern, only daughter of the German Emperor.

the courtroom, the black-robed, white-faced attorney stood, every eye in the room riveted to hers. She held out her hand, and in it was a rose of paper and faded leafless rose. A pause—then a flutter everywhere.

"Ah!"

With one breath, the courtroom sighed a great relief. Doctor Carpel, in the act of rising from his chair, his guilty face against, had swooned.

And from the inexorable eyes of his accuser, now screened with heavy lashes, came a tear.

BRITAIN TO BUILD EIGHT SQUADRONS TO GERMANY'S FIVE

Churchill Outlines Naval Program in Presenting Record Estimates.

15 AIRSHIPS BUILDING

Canada, He Says, Must Make Provision for Her Own Naval Defence.

[Canadian Press.]

London, March 17.—Right Honorable Winston Churchill, in the House this afternoon, said it was the largest estimate for the navy ever published to the British Commons. But it was to be numbered that, except in one respect, to which he would refer later, there was no change in the policy adopted two years ago. He proposed first to explain to what the increase was due, and to deal primarily with the financial aspect; and secondly, to show how the increase arose from the past decisions of the House, or were consequences of the situation.

He said that the House had approved, in the third place, he proposed to deal with the new program, and then he would examine the standards of the new construction, and the standards of the old.

He said that the House had approved, in the third place, he proposed to deal with the new program, and then he would examine the standards of the new construction, and the standards of the old.

Eight Battle Squadrons.

Mr. Churchill drew attention to the fact that the growth of expenditure was due to increase in the number of the personnel of the navy, to an increased number of larger guns, and to the increased cost of ammunition. The Admiralty sought to complete eight battlesquadrons by the time the next strongest naval power had completed five. The battle cruisers would be additional in either case, and there would be a proper proportion of destroyers and other craft. The ships at foreign stations did not come into the calculations.

These standards of establishment were reasonable and moderate, and he was glad that Admiral Von Tirpitz had taken occasion to say so. He had said that no nation had completed its naval organization. That was quite true. It would be possible for Great Britain to complete her development at a somewhat earlier period than was now proposed. The development of Germany's fleet organization had not been so rapid as was contemplated two years ago, when it was thought that the new third German squadron would be completed by the end of the financial year, 1914-15. But apparently owing to making changes in the second squadron would be reduced by three ships temporarily, so there were three less ships in the organization of the German fleet than had been anticipated, and the British Admiralty had postponed completion of the Gibraltar squadron, which now consisted of four ships.

Will Match Every Delay.

"Every delay, accidental or deliberate, by the next strongest power," said Mr. Churchill, "will be matched by us, and we shall only complete our organizations as we are needed."

Continuing, Mr. Churchill said he was advised that owing to trade conditions, there was prospect of good progress being made during the next financial year in all the ship yards, and a large number of vessels would be finished in 1914. This was due to uncontrollable factors, and not acceleration, or speeding up, or any departure in policy. He thought it reasonable to predict that in the absence of any new departure in policy the estimates for 1915-16 would be substantially lower than the present estimates.

Discussing the various contributing causes of the increase in expenditure, he mentioned the use of oil, and enhanced pay of personnel.

Oil as Fuel for Ships.

Mr. Churchill emphasized the advantages of oil as fuel for ships of the navy. There was no difficulty, he said, in obtaining oil; the difficulty was to get it at a good price. The Admiralty must look to sources which are independent of existing combinations, and also to the development of home production of oil. The principle upon which they were proceeding was that oil would be used as the sole fuel only in small craft, light cruisers and capital ships of exceptional speed. But for line-of-battle ships, coal would remain the motive power.

Fifteen Airships Building.

Turning to air craft, Mr. Churchill affirmed the value of sea-planes for scouting purposes, and said they would also be extremely useful in watching the coast, while the heavy sea-planes which the Admiralty were now developing would carry heavy explosives. In regard to airships, he said there were fifteen vessels now being built, of which ten were of large or medium size, with a speed of eight miles an hour. He hoped to bring six of them to cruise over the House of Commons in the coming summer. He must, however, avow his belief in the future of the aeroplane, although the airship had great radius of action, greater carrying power and was more effective at night time.

In regard to the manning of ships, the House decided that if it was broke out tomorrow every ship could be sent to sea with the approved complement, and the increase of 5,000 men provided for in the estimates was for the war fleet of 1915-16. There was no difficulty in obtaining men. Dealing with the question of promotion from the lower deck, also with promotion generally, Mr. Churchill announced that it was proposed to introduce a series of regulations for accelerating the retirement of senior officers in future lieutenants, of eight years' service would be termed lieutenant commanders.

Three of Royal Sovereign Type.

After speaking for more than an hour and a half Mr. Churchill approached the question of the new program which, he said, was in strict accordance with the policy laid down. Three of the vessels would be of the Royal Sovereign type and one of the Queen Elizabeth type. They would carry 15-inch guns. The 15-inch gun was the best ever produced. It reproduced the virtues of the 13.5, was accurate at all ranges and long-lived. It hurled a projectile weighing nearly a ton a distance of twelve miles. Great Britain would have ten ships armed with them by the time any other nation had two. He was increasingly convinced of the power of the submarine. Already 40 merchant vessels had been armed, and by the end of 1914-15 70 would be armed, but only for defensive purposes against attack by other merchantmen. Touching the question of the seizure of private property at sea, Mr. Churchill said there was no reason to suppose that a single torpedo less would be built by foreign powers if the policy of Great Britain were changed.

Sixty Per Cent. Standard.

Mr. Churchill then came to the main question, namely, that of standard. The 60 per cent. standard was a building standard relating to new construction of capital ships, and that standard was being followed. There had been various disputes as to what should be included in that standard. Two years ago, he said, he gave the whole series of future programs, and after a full survey of the position the Admiralty was satisfied that the provision of four ships was sufficient. He now asked the House to confirm, in the third year, the proposal which he submitted in the first year. He declared with emphasis that Great Britain should remain the independent guardian of her interests in the Mediterranean. The Government proposed to place in the Mediterranean in 1915 a battle squadron of eight ships, six of which would be dreadnoughts, and two would be battle cruisers. The British forces in the Mediterranean eight ships and four large armored cruisers.

Must Hasten Three Vessels.

He pointed out that in order to do this and maintain the indispensable margin of security in home waters, it was necessary, in the absence of three Canadian dreadnoughts, to accelerate three ships. That was sufficient to maintain the force he had mentioned from the end of 1915 to the middle of 1916. As the Canadian ships were not yet forthcoming, it was necessary to repeat, though on a smaller scale, the course adopted in 1913, and to begin two ships in the 1914 program so as to have them ready by the third quarter of 1915.

Canada's Own Defense.

The Government was not without hope, however, that Canada would meet her share in the expense. Canada was a great and wealthy nation, with her influence spreading more widely over the surface of the globe. She had to make some provision for her own naval defence. If she were annexed to the United States she would no doubt contribute, through taxation, to the upkeep of the United States navy. If she were independent she would have to make provision at least equal to the most powerful American state. He did not wonder, then, that all the Canadian ships of every party thought it was not consistent with the dignity and status of the Dominion that she should depend upon the British taxpayer, who was often much less well off than the average Canadian.

Adverse to Memorandum.

Mr. Churchill affirmed that on the general question of Canadian ships and the propriety and need for Canada, in common with the other Dominions to take an effective part in the defence of the Empire, there was nothing more to be said. The Admiralty view had been expounded in the Canadian memorandum to which the Admiralty adhered, and the facts had been strengthened by the passage of time. They continue an absolute justification of the Canadian action thereafter.

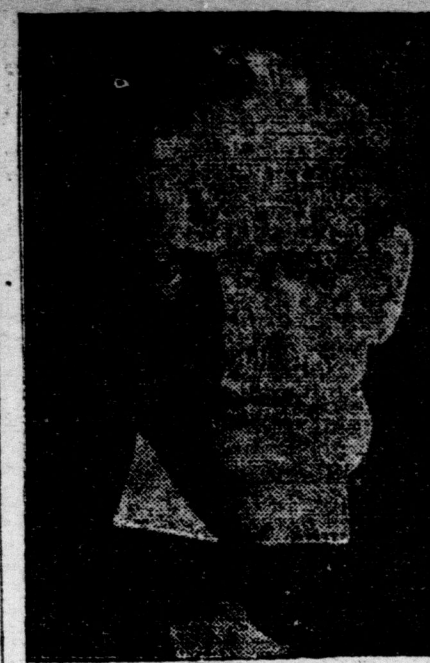

Dealing with the acceleration program made necessary by the absence of Canadian ships, Mr. Churchill declared that there were good prospects that the unfortunate deadlock which had arisen in Canada would be relieved by joint action, probably, by both parties, and that Canada would be able to take some share in her own naval defence and in the common defence of the Empire.

Repair Plants in Canada.

Mr. Churchill turned next to the Pacific. He remarked that the alliance with Japan had been renewed to 1921, but it was not to be expected that Japan would be less in need of her powerful friend at the other end of the world at that date than she was today. New Zealand and Australia had acted with profound wisdom. The Dominions were, however, perfectly free. The matter rested entirely in their own hands. The responsibility of the Admiralty lay in placing plainly before Dominion ministers and the people of the Dominions, the responsibility of naval strategy.

Naval Strength a Balancing Force.

In an eloquent peroration Mr. Churchill said that Great Britain's diplomacy depended in great part for its effectiveness upon her naval position. Her naval strength was the one great balancing force she could contribute to her own safety and the peace of the world. Her claim to be left in undisputed enjoyment of our vast and splendid possessions often seemed less reasonable to others than it did to us. Further, we had intervened regularly with the affairs of Europe and the world, as we could not help doing, and great advantage to European peace had resulted.

We had responsibilities today in many quarters. We had passed through a year of continuous anxiety and although the Government believed that the foundations of peace among the great powers had been strengthened, the causes which might lead to the general war had not been removed, and often reminded us of their presence, there not being the slightest abatement of naval or military preparation.

World is Arming.

On the contrary the world was arming as it had never done before. All attempts at arresting it had been ineffectual. Often situations occurred which made it necessary that the forces at their disposal should be rapidly counted upon. On such occasions the responsibility resting upon the Admiralty came home with brutal reality to those responsible, and unless Great Britain's naval strength were solidly supported by a widowed mother at Maynooth, Hastings County. Today the body was shipped to Marmouth, being accompanied by Mr. Wallace, superintendent of the Standard White Lime Co., who also was injured by the dynamite explosion which caused the death of Farrer. According to information received today Farrer was 29 years of age. A pathetic feature in connection with his tragic death was the fact that he was to have been married shortly.

BIG CRACKS ON HAND AND FINGERS

Eczema for Three Years. Broke Out on Head in Scales. Itched and Burned Badly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Lyons Brook, N. S.—"I suffered with eczema for three years. It started on my hands first in sores between my fingers and all over the palms of my hand and fingers were big cracks. Then it broke out on my head in scales. It itched and burned so badly I could not sleep. It was so itching and burning that I scratched and made sores and my hair came out awfully bad. I did not know what it was."

"I was treated for a long time and it did not do any good. I gave up my work for a month but when I started doing my house-work again my hands got just as bad as ever. I used two bottles of — and it did not do any good. One day I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I used them till I saw it stopped the itching and burning, so I got three cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and that cured me." (Signed) Mrs. P. J. McKearney, May 27, 1913.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other exfoliants do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skin, itching, scaly scalp, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapless nails, nor do it so economically. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send postcard to Postmaster, Cuticura & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U.S.A.

"CASCARETS" ALWAYS STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

When Constipated, Headachy, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Breath Bad.

Get a 10-cent box now. You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous, and upset, bothered with sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep: cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF--25-CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the Quick—est, Surest Dandruff Cure Known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; and an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually find a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18

Build, man and maintain!

Laurier and a Canadian naval policy.

Think of what a glorious 17th it might have been to Ireland but for Ulster.

Mr. Churchill says Canada's first duty to the empire is to protect its own shores.

Carranza's name sounds like a dance and he may yet be doing a quickstep to get away from Villa.

Some places that want hydro-radicals could support them, while others could not keep a bus line running.

American papers are declaring that the Monroe doctrine is no joke, but it appears to be somewhat of a conundrum.

Will the Canadian people build a monument to the sanity of Sir George Ross, who maintained our national honor on the naval question?

War Correspondent Creelman says that Villa urges his men to the fight with the use of maxims. And on the Federals he uses Maxims.

An Italian astronomer says that the moon is oval in shape, not spherical. But what does it matter so long as it continues to supply meal tickets for poets and romance for happy lovers?

An old London magistrate congratulated a young man who had been arrested for hissing an "undressed" drama. Now if some audience would mob one of the disgusting sex plays that are being featured the Government might pass it a vote of thanks.

The Conservative papers make political capital of the allegation that Spanish laborers had been engaged for work on the Welland Canal and that Hon. T. W. Crothers had prevented them from entering Canada. Now it transpires that the Spaniards had not left Spain and evidently had never heard of the Welland Canal. Still it is possible that when the Minister of Labor ran away from the Nanaimo strike and was enjoying a holiday jaunt in Europe he may have dispelled any notion of emigration to Canada either on the part of Spaniards or others.

A POLITICAL satirist, commenting on the men who have been appointed by Parliament to act on the redistribution committee, has this not over-complimentary picture of the postmaster-general. Perhaps the picture is over-drawn; perhaps.

"To begin at the beginning there is Louis Philippe Pelletier, who has already given Canada a taste of his quality as postmaster-general. He is known to fame as the man who will dig up a dead Grit postmaster in order to fire him for offensive partisanship.

"In the course of a political career which has boxed the compass the postmaster-general has followed the poet's advice—he has been true to himself and by playing both ends and the middle, for Louis Philippe Pelletier he has always managed to find his bearings and sail into port with the wind abeam. His task will be to steer Quebec as far away from Sir Wilfrid Laurier as possible, and the postmaster-general is some steerer, believe me. Still, he has his work cut out for him to pull down Sir Wilfrid Laurier and put Louis Philippe Pelletier in his place in the hearts of the French-Canadian people. It's too much like trading gold lamps for brass ones."

SIR JOHN MURRAY.

SOME of the very few survivors of the old-Union School classes of the early fifties will remember the bright, studious lad, John Murray, who always had his lessons perfect, but yet could hold his own with his fellows on the playground. Many years have passed since he left London, and in Scotland and at Victoria College in Coburg finished his school career with honor. The bright promise of his boyhood days was amply fulfilled. He devoted his life to science and added vastly to the world's store of knowledge. His investigations of nature were thorough, and his conclusions were accepted by his associates without question. As an author his works were voluminous, and were recognized as text-books throughout the civilized world. Whatever subject he studied he mastered, and when he spoke it was with the authority of one who knew.

Nor was he without reward, apart from the return knowledge always makes to those who possess it. Degrees from universities, rank in learned societies, titles from the rulers of empires, these and a competence for his old age, were his.

And now his work has been finished. He had been so far favored that his life extended beyond the palmist's limit of human years. And though his sudden death is sad, and its attendant circumstances most unfortunate, yet, after all, to the man whose life has been busy and useful it may be better to go without warning than to linger superfluous on the stage, the victim of disease, or of senile weakness and decay. For all his friends and relatives there will be general sympathy, not so much for the coming of death after a well-spent life, but because it came under conditions so appalling, and which must ever sadden the memory of those connected with it.

BORDEN'S BURDEN NOT WANTED.

"WE DO NOT wonder at all that it not consistent with the dignity and standing of the Dominion that she should depend on the British taxpayer who often is less well off than the average Canadian."

With these words Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, pulled the last prop from beneath the Borden contribution naval policy. The Conservatives in Canada have tried to make out that the Liberal opposition to a policy that gave ships but did not give men or money to maintain them was conceived in disloyalty. But now there can be no mistaking the first lord's desire to show that the Laurier policy of a Canadian navy, built, manned and maintained in Canada, was acceptable to Great Britain. Mr. Churchill had given his sanction to the Laurier policy as originally advanced, and he has been apparently gratified at the decision of New Zealand and Australia to build and maintain their own navies. Their loyalty to the empire has never been in doubt with the first lord, and Canada would have maintained a dignified position in his eyes had she stood by her position of "build, man and maintain." But when the Borden Government came into power Mr. Churchill had his reputation to maintain and he could not afford to offend a premier just chosen by the Canadian people by rejecting that premier's proposal.

If there is the slightest trace of ambiguity in Mr. Churchill's statement, it all lends weight to the conjecture that he is politely reproaching the Borden Government. His phrasing is: "Not consistent with the dignity and standing of the Dominion that she should depend on the British taxpayer who often is less well off than the average Canadian." The Laurier Government proposed that Canada should build, man and maintain its warships. Not one cent would ever have been imposed upon the British taxpayer.

The Borden Government would have given its elephantine gift to the British taxpayers, who would have had to provide maintenance for all time.

Mr. Borden stands reproached by the man he paraded as his supporter. His claims of British favor and dictation are proven to be as false and shallow as his broken policy was.

A PARALLEL CASE.

OUR neighbors in the United States can commit themselves to foolish legislation just as readily as we in Canada. But there is always some one to raise a warning voice, or to condemn folly. Our own House of Commons passed a law that was fraught with evil when it voted to expend a large sum of money for the beneficial purpose of improving our highways, but neutralized all its good effect in retaining it as a fund for the assistance of a political party by its cunning expenditures where it could be used to advantage for partisan purposes. And violent was the condemnation of the Senate by interested parties when that body interposed on behalf of the people, and insisted that those for whose benefit it was supposed to be spent should have the spending of it.

A similar case has occurred in the United States. There is a proposal there to appropriate $25,000,000 for the building of disconnected roads in a number of the states. And this is the language in which the Philadelphia Ledger refers to it:

"It is only the entering wedge for a species of profligacy, waste and political graft so dangerous that even the suggestion should frighten the nation. The fact that the House voted by a large majority for this violent departure from sound practice and decent conduct carries no conviction except that it furnishes a pregnant illustration of the utter irresponsibility of the average congressman and his eager disposition to plunge the Government into the wildest and most dangerous enterprises which hold out the promise of a distribution of patronage and public money to the henchmen of his district. . . . If this monstrous grab should succeed in the first instance no power in the country could check its evil course, no force could stop its progressive iniquity, no treasury could meet its increasing demands. There must be left, at least in the Senate, a few honorable and sane men who will oppose this octopus."

The Senate of Canada blocked this graft so far as we are concerned. And it seems that sane-minded men in the United States are appealing to their Senate to do as ours did, and nip iniquity in the bud. More and more as time progresses, and as people free themselves from political prejudice, will their gratitude grow because our Senate did its duty by the country and justified its own existence.

CHURCHILL AND AVIATION.

FOR some time Hon. Winston Churchill has been distinguishing himself by trips in the air. His picture in a water plane appears in a recent number of the Illustrated London News. Mr. Churchill has shown his daring spirit on various occasions in various ways, in battle, in the exploit of escaping from a Boer prison, in the invasion of Belfast to speak for home rule, and in his new knight-errantry of the air.

Speaking the other day as the guest of the Royal Aero Club, he made some what light of the airman's risks. "The risk of flying," he said, "is greatly exaggerated by the newspapers. The man-in-the-street only reads in the headlines that some airman has been killed or injured, and he assumes that such conditions are the ordinary concomitants of an adventure in the air."

Note, however, that word "adventure." Winston may yet go once too often to the well, though let us hope not. As for the newspapers, they chronicle hard facts. Mr. Churchill also admits that the conditions of flying in Great Britain are peculiarly dangerous owing to winds and lack of landing facilities. At the same time he pointed out that "the neophyte today flies in a wind which the expert would have thought dangerous two years ago." Long live the adventurous Mr. Churchill and other pioneers of the air.

A MENACE IN THE AIR.

HAS the Mad Mullah adequately considered the lack of aerial military service in this country? There are the Americans inventing, manufacturing and piloting the infernal machines that will fly all over his dear armories and shell them to pieces. We need a great big army of skilled aeronauts to protect this large Dominion. Has Mad Sam ever been up in an airship yet? When he has given this subject the attention that it merits, we shall expect to see him a flying dragon himself and the author of universal aerial conscription in this pleasant land. Expenses no object.

CRIME'S BITTER FRUITS.

THE police of Montreal caught one bandit as he was kneeling at prayer in a cathedral. Hunted like a wild animal for days, starved and cold, he slunk into the church for shelter, and perhaps for mercy. He told his story afterwards, a broken bravado.

Searching for a second criminal of the same group, the police broke into his home to find his wife nursing. If the term is not incongruous, the dead body of their infant. The woman clung to the little form, walked with it and wept over it, while she hoped for the homecoming of her outlawed mate. Poor, stricken, lonely creature, a mother, robbed by death of her infant, by his own villainy of her husband. The moving pictures shriek their tearing emotions, yet life's obscure tragedies are mostly hidden.

It is not too early to think about vacant lot gardening. The planning may well be done before the ground is ready for plow or spade. Less than 27 per cent of an average city's vacant lots are available soil is used to any profitable purpose. Health and an increasing degree of comfort are to be found in vacant lot cultivation. Relief from the evils growing out of youthful idleness may be found there. A hoe in hand may mean the difference between a corner loafer and a substantial, responsible citizen.

Some Dream.
A friend of ours said the other day: "A friend who had heard that I sometimes suffered from insomnia told me of a sure cure. 'Eat a quart of peanuts and drink two or three glasses of milk before going to bed,' said he, and I'll warrant you'll be to sleep in half an hour." I did as he suggested, and my friend was right. I did go to sleep very soon after retiring. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and asked me if I wanted to buy his feet. I was negotiating with him when the dragon on which I was riding slipped out of his skin, and left me floating in mid-air. While I was considering how to get down, a bull with two heads peered over the edge of the well and said he would haul me up if I would first climb up and tie a windlass for him. So, as I was sliding down the mountain side, the brakeman came in and I asked him when the train would reach my station. "We passed your station, miles back," he said, calmly folding up the train and slipping it into his vest pocket. At this juncture the clown bounded into the ring and pulled the centre pole out of the ground, lifting up the tent and all the people in it, while I stood on the earth below watching myself go out of sight among the clouds above. Then I awoke and found that I had been asleep almost ten minutes."

POOR ENFORCEMENT OF BANKING LAWS

W. F. Maclean Advocates Facilities for Better Enforcing of Federal Acts, But Minister Does Not Approve.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, March 17.—A clause in the new insurance act, which provides that a director or manager of a company who suppresses facts relating to the company, shall be liable to a penalty of three years' imprisonment, gave rise to a warm discussion in the banking committee today.

W. F. Maclean, of South York, declared that the present system of enforcing federal laws in connection with banks insurance and trust companies, was no enforcement at all, but a travesty upon justice and a crying scandal throughout the country. This, he thought, was in part responsible for much graft. He advocated the appropriation by parliament of a fund to be placed at the disposal of the solicitor or some other official of the Government, with which to take such action as may be necessary to enforce federal laws and prosecute offenders. Such a provision, he pointed out, had recently been made by the United States, with the result that banks and other financial institutions which formerly violated the law with impunity were now brought to book.

Hon. Thomas White, minister of finance was not inclined to favor Mr. Maclean's view, nor did he believe that conditions were such as the member for York had depicted. The British North America act put protection in the custody of the provincial attorneys-general. It was only necessary to lay information to set the machinery of the law in motion against offenders.

H. B. Ames and J. M. Aikens took the same view, and the suggestion was not adopted.

SHOWER ROYALTIES WITH PAMPHLETS

Suffragettes Take Advantage of King's and Queen's Presence at Theater.

Canadian Press.]
London, March 17.—Militant suffragettes contributed an extra and unheard-of "turn" to the program given before King George and Queen Mary at a music hall performance today in aid of a hospital. During the singing of the National Anthem, a shower of militant suffragette pamphlets fluttered from the gallery above the royal box. Some of the papers floated into the box and found a lodging on the shoulders of the King and Queen.

Simultaneously a woman occupying a place in the stalls of the theatre stood up, and pointing a finger at the royal party, shouted: "Your Majesties! Mrs. Pankhurst is in prison! I therefore—"
The woman was unable to proceed further with her speech, as a detective clapped his hand over her mouth and she was escorted out of the theatre.

DIFFICULTY OF ASSIMILATION

GREAT IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

Lecturer Deplores the Fact That While the Foreigner May Vote He Is Not Taught How to Vote

Some of the problems in connection with immigration in Canada were dealt with by Miss Neufeldt, of Toronto, in an interesting address delivered yesterday afternoon before members of the Women's Canadian Club. Miss Neufeldt has been engaged in work amongst foreigners in Toronto for some years and was thoroughly conversant with her subject.

Hard to Assimilate.

One of the greatest problems in connection with immigration was the European's difficulty to assimilate Canadian life and methods. He came from lands where government and politics were conducted on entirely different lines, and so required time and education to become thoroughly Canadianized. Such a man might live in the Dominion three years, when take out naturalization papers and be able to vote as a Canadian citizen, but no effort was made to teach him to read or write anything about what was best for the country's welfare.

The right to vote is a privilege, and how to exercise that right, they will have a wrong opinion of what Canadian citizenship stands for, and will bring up their children with this wrong idea," said Miss Neufeldt.

The speaker also deplored the manner in which non-English-speaking emigrants were treated upon reaching this country. In more than one instance, which had come to her attention in Toronto, the depot officials had placed entire families in a taxicab and dispatched them to their destination. This was a luxury they certainly could not afford, the entire family fund often not being more than a dollar.

Establish a Bureau. Miss Neufeldt urged the establishment of a central bureau at Ottawa, with branches throughout cities and towns of about ten thousand inhabitants. "There should be a Government building at every depot of any size, through which every emigrant would have to go before he could enter the city. In that building I would have two departments, one for colonization and labor, and a department which would give initial protection to the foreigner, especially girls," said the speaker. Part of the duty of the official in this latter section would be to take names of strangers reaching the city, and also addresses to which they desired to go. By having a system of this description girls would receive much closer protection upon arriving in an unfamiliar place.

Another need, according to Miss Neufeldt, was a colonization bureau, where men who were farmers in the old world might apply. Colonies might be formed in the west, with a Government official over each group, to give advice and assist the emigrant to learn Canadian farming.

In summing up, Miss Neufeldt sounded a warning after describing some conditions in Toronto slums. "They say that conditions in London are bad enough. If you don't stop things from happening now, they will get just as bad as Toronto. The only way to change things is to prevent them. What you and I have to do is to face this problem of our womanhood and manhood of our Canadian citizenship, and to prevent people being permitted to come to Canada without having a place for them, or someone to give them guidance and advice in a strange land."

With the passing of real cold weather comes a lessening of our need for meats, and the wise housewife will consider the health of her household by looking around for other more suitable, seasonable foods.

Fish and eggs are excellent foods now. Spinach, dried fruits and oranges will all be found first-rate aids in stimulating the digestive organs.

WOES OF MRS. NEWLYWED

"How can I clean hair brushes without spoiling the brush?" inquired Mrs. Newlywed.
"Put a tablespoonful of ammonia in a basin of tepid water in which a small amount of soap has been dissolved. Dip the brushes up and down until they are clean. Wipe carefully, and put in the sun, bristles down, to dry," advised Mrs. Neighbor.

Some Recipes Wanted.

Dear Miss Grey—I am a subscriber to The Morning Advertiser, and being a constant reader of your column, I come to you for help.

1. Could you please publish me a recipe for boiled icing for chocolate cake?
2. A recipe for potato salad?
3. How can I remove a stain of printers' ink from a white shirt?
4. What wages should a male compositor of five years' experience be getting in a country office?
5. How can I remove shiny spots from a blue serge suit?
6. Not knowing whether this is a song or a piece of poetry, being so long since I heard it, but would like well to have it. Could you tell me through your columns or could you publish it, the name of which is "The Jam at Gerry's Rock," the lines of which run:

"Come all of ye bold shanty boys
And listen while I relate
The story of a river man
And his untimely fate."

Hoping to be benefited soon through your columns, and thanking you in advance, I remain,
"INQUISITIVE."

- A.—To one cup granulated sugar add half a cup of water or milk, two tablespoons of chocolate finely scraped, and a small lump of butter; boil until it forms a soft ball upon being dropped into cold water, remove from the fire, add vanilla flavoring and spread on the cake.
2. Cut cold boiled potatoes into small pieces; chop a small onion very fine and add with enough of the following dressing to make the salad of the right consistency: One tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, dessert-spoon sugar, salt, pepper, and a little mustard, half teaspoon sweet milk; place over the fire and beat in half a cup of vinegar a little at a time (if added too quickly the dressing may curdle) let boil up once or twice. Dressing may be used on the potatoes, cold or hot. Garnish the salad with flings of hard-boiled egg and shredded lettuce.
3. Try soaking the stain in buttermilk or thick sour milk, changing the milk as soon as it becomes discolored; rinse through clear water and hang in the sun. If this fails to do it, soak about half an hour in a weak chloride of lime solution, then rinse and expose to the sun once more.
4. Cannot answer this. The scale of wages varies in country offices. Ability sometimes adds to the wages.
5. Sponge or brush with a soap-bark solution. You can get a five-cent package at a drug store; about half to a quart of water; steep; pour off the liquid and use to renovate your suit.
6. The song is unknown to me, but perhaps some kind reader may be able to furnish the words.

Hint re Moths.

Dear Miss Grey: As I read your column, I notice that "Black-eyed Susan" asked what would kill moths in carpet, and "Belle" asked how to destroy bedbugs. I find that the only way to get rid of household pests is to burn a formaldehyde candle in each 14-foot space. They can be got at any good drug store. If the women who are bothered with such like will burn a candle, they will

What the nicest thing for a boy three years old to wear this spring?

MRS. F. D.

A.—I pass your kind hint on to "Black-eyed Susan." The readiness with which readers like yourself respond to requests from others, is a constant delight to me.

I have a copy of the verses you ask for, but they are so gruesome that I do not wish to print them. If you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I shall mail you a copy.

As to the little boy's spring outfit, I have a couple of nice illustrations which I might mail you if you send your name.

Poor Little Doll!

Dear Miss Grey: Would you please answer the following:

1. Do you know where my little sister could get her doll fixed? Is there a hospital for broken dolls? The eyes fell back into the head and it is a big movable doll.

2. Here is a good recipe for kisses: Beat the white of one egg stiff; then add ten cents' worth of cocoanut, one cup of white sugar, two tablespoons of cornstarch, beat in a moderate oven. Sincerely yours,

A.—And no doubt, besides being a "big movable" doll, it is a "big loveable" doll as well, and little sister should have the dreadful calamity of the eyes falling back. Surely somewhere in this big province we can find a doll-maker for the poor, afflicted doll. Does anyone know of such a place?

We appreciate the "kisses" recipe very highly, Hazel. Many thanks for forwarding it.

Help for Rosebud.

Dear Miss Grey: I have very much enjoyed your column in The London Advertiser. If it would not be too much trouble for you, would you mind answering these questions:

1. I got a three-quarter length coat last spring, and I do not know whether to get a suit this spring or a sporting coat. Which do you think would be the better? Which is the most fashionable? Will the cutaway coats be used this summer?
2. Which will be the most fashionable this summer, high or low heels on shoes?
3. What are to be the colors most worn this spring?
4. I am quite stout. Would a dull green plaid skirt look all right on me?
5. Will middie blouses be worn this summer? Yours truly, ROSEBUD.

Ans.—As far as fashion goes, I think they are about equally in vogue. The suits are perhaps in the lead, and as you had a separate coat last year it might be nice to have a suit this season. Yes, for the suit coats the "cutaway" styles are very much worn.

2. The Cuban heel, fairly high, appears to lead.
3. Light browns and blues, navy and all sorts of checked and plaid materials. The plaid would not be very pronounced. Perhaps, though, a striped material would be better still.
5. Yes.

THE HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1914.

Mars doth blaze With evil rays.

An uncertain day. While Mercury is in friendly aspect Mars is evilly disposed. According to astrology it is not an auspicious time for taking great risks in any important matter.

Under the kindly influence of Mercury editors, publishers and advertising men should prosper, but today's configuration gives warning against possible controversies and difficulties.

There is a lucky omen for writers, teachers and students. Architects, lawyers and scientists, also, should find the influences conducive to good work which will bring them benefits.

While this conjunction prevails young persons should be particularly fortunate. The time is favorable for short journeys or minor changes, but not for any important move, which bears on future prospects in life.

The signs are promising for gain through speech. Orators, congressmen and legislators of every rank should be able to make convincing pleas while the figure exercises its strong sway.

It is not a fortunate day for persons who indulge in gossip or criticism. Mars gives an inclination to resent the slightest blame and increases combativeness.

Decrease in the birthrate is indicated by many signs and much illness among women is prophesied for the late spring and summer. Fevers and diseases of the digestive apparatus will be common. Bereavement and illness are persistently foreshadowed in the horoscope of the Car of Russia.

The death of a man who has aspired to be president of the United States is predicted before summer.

At the end of this month better conditions are presaged for the Pope of Rome and the Vatican, but later in the spring trouble is indicated by the stars.

Accidents to children who attend amusements or parties are foreshadowed. Warning against crowded places is made by the astrologers.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a busy year in which many anxieties appear. They are counseled not to lend money. Women should beware of nervous disorders.

Children born on this day are likely to be extraordinarily clever, but they may not have the faculty of making the most of their talents. They are on the cusp between the signs Pisces and Aries and may partake of the quantities of both the fishes and the lamb.

Songs We Used to Whistle and Sing

A reader residing in Spokane, Washington, writes as follows: "I have just been reading some of the dear old songs to which you have been publishing in The Advertiser. My sister, of your city, sends me the songs, and I couldn't help wondering if twenty years from now, if the rag-time songs of this day would fill the eyes with tears and call up from the past the bitter-sweet memories of the old songs do, and as they always will."

"I am sending you a copy of an old song, which brings sweet memories to me of my girlhood days, which were spent in London, Ontario."

Little Maggie May.

The spring had come, the flowers in bloom,
The birds sang out their lay;
Down by a little running brook
I first saw Maggie May.

She had a roguish, jet-black eye,
Was singing all the day,
And how I loved her none can tell,
My Little Maggie May.

My little, witching, Maggie Maggie,
Singing all the day,
Oh, how I love her none can tell,
My Little Maggie May.

The years rolled on, yet still I loved
Gave warning of my love to all;
With heart so light and gay,
And never will this heart deceive
My own dear Maggie May.

When others thought life had gone,
And death would take away,
Still by my side did linger one,
And that was Maggie May.

CREPE BLOUSES.

For the early spring the lingerie blouse will probably be supplanted by the crepe de chine or Georgette crepe blouse in either white or color. Some tailor-made examples of this blouse are very smart in conjunction with the tub skirt. One model, for instance, with its elongated shoulder, its long sleeves and graceful sailor collar, is suggestive of those Arcadian times when a blouse was a mere shirt waist.

"OUR MARY" TO WED, SAYS DAME RUMOR

Pot-Pourri

Letter Very frequently do we hear the statement uttered that "letter writing is a lost art." That in these busy days of telegraph, telephone and the convenient typewriter, all the romance of letter-writing is passing away. To quite an extent this may be true. A typewritten letter may not convey the writer's personality in just the same way as though he or she had penned it by hand, yet one certainly discerns it in the characteristic turning of phrases or some vivacious expression that is peculiarly the writer's own. But the truth is that to most of us letters from loved friends are so welcome that we do not pause to consider whether we prefer them penned or typed.

But if it should happen that you are looking for ways to improve your style of letter writing, here are some hints quoted from an exchange that may prove helpful:

"Be yourself, strive for the expression of your own thoughts, write with all the force of your personality, and you will be projecting your mind on the mind of the friend who is to draw delight from your letter. Write with the conscious wish to express truthfully and well that which you have to say, abjure slovenly makeshift, and, just as strongly, the self-consciousness which keeps one eye on the purpose in hand and one on effect. Remember always that there is the possibility of publicity for your letter, and if you have malice, cruelty, or uncharitableness in your mind, at least see that you do not commit your feelings to paper, to your possibly confusing at some later date, when kindness has replaced your former harsh judgment."

Remembering all these things, you will have no need for the services of a complete letter writer. Guided by sincerity and truth, you may proceed to give your thoughts the permanence of writing."

Twilight.

(John Masfeldt.)
Twilight it is, and the far woods are dim,
And the rocks cry and call.
Down in the valley the lamps and the mist,
And a star over all.
There by the rick, where they thresh,
Is the dove at an end;
Twilight it is, and I travel the road with my friend.

I think of the friends who are dead, who were dear long ago in the past,
Beautiful friends who are dead, though I know that death cannot last;
Friends with the beautiful eyes that the dust has defiled—
Beautiful souls who were gentle, when I was a child.

FAST YOUNGSTER LAST YEAR
IN TRI-STATE WAITS TRIAL

Is Only 20 Years of Age, and Batted .268 Last Season—Fielded .970—Oske Neale Doing Well With Cleveland A. A. Team.

[BY JINK.]

Manager Reising, of the London club, has received an application from a youngster, 20 years of age, who played in the Tri-State League last season and batted .268 and fielded .970 in the outfield. This lad weighs 180 pounds and is about 5 feet 11 inches in height. He is anxious to come to London and play under Reising. The Tri-State League is a Class B organization and this boy must have been a good one to make such a record. He claims he can be easily secured from the club he is now with in the Tri-State and he is sure he will make good on the London club. All he asks is a fair trial. The name of the player will not be given out for a few days, as an effort will likely be made by the London club to get him.

OWNER OF CUBS VISITS
CHICAGO TO SEE PARK

Chicago, March 17.—Charles P. Taft, principal owner of the Chicago National League club, arrived here tonight from Cincinnati. He declined to confirm or deny rumors that his visit had to do with the selection of a successor to Charles W. Murphy as president of the club, saying that only the association that much improvement was needed at the baseball park brought him here. Members of the Convery-Siegel syndicate, in making their offer for Taft's stock yesterday, argued that an expenditure of perhaps $100,000 for a new plant would have to follow the outlay of capital for the stock, and that this added expenditure should be considered in making a price for the stock. Taft expects to remain in Chicago several days.

New York, March 17.—Johnny Dundee, of New York, defeated "Special Delivery" Hirsch, of Chicago, in a ten-round bout here tonight, having the advantage in every round except the second. Dundee weighed 127 pounds, six pounds lighter than his opponent.

President Statement
Was Merely a Joke

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, March 17.—President Fitzgerald, of the Canadian League, treated the report that he stated the league would jump to the Federals if not granted Class B classification, as a joke when he learned of the rumor today.

"LACK OF GRAY MATTER"
IS ST. THOMAS OPINION

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, March 17.—The St. Thomas Canadian League ball players and fans are today laughing over the absurdity of the rumor that unless the Canadian League was raised to class B they would join with the Federals.

St. Thomas' Indian Player
Is Only Vegetarian in Game

He's a Full-Blooded Delaware and a Great Friend of Jim Thorpe.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Battle Creek, Mich., March 18.—Garland "Chief" Nevitt, the Delaware Indian catcher who has just been sold to St. Thomas, in the Canadian League promises to be a very active contender for a regular place on the team. He has been in constant athletic training throughout the winter in a physical education school operated in connection with the Battle Creek Sanatorium.

Nevitt is twenty-three years old, is a full-blooded Delaware Indian, born in Oklahoma, and educated at the Haskell Indian School.

Canadian League Happenings
From All Over the Circuit

Ottawa Free Press: There will be a raft of ex-big leaguers drifting around the Canadian circuit this season. When Dummy Taylor mounts the rubber for Erie one can't help but recall the great Giant twirling staff of Mathewson, Ames, Taylor, Whitte and Crandall.

In 1910 Doc Reising ranked next to Walter Johnson as Washington's leading pitcher. Johnson won 25 and lost 17. Reising won 10 and lost 10.

Rube Deneau will have "Slim" Ivers back at first on his Brantford outfit. Ivers is so fast he has to pole out a three-base hit to reach first.

Shag Shaughnessy weighs 199 without his haberdashery. Shag must have been losing weight during the hockey season.

Brantford has an outfielder called Sandusky. Also another pasture man with the moniker of Halfback.

Ollie O'Mara, who was offered to Ottawa by Fort Wayne last season, and later to Hamilton, is south with the Brooklyn Nationals, and making a great showing at short.

Port Wayne is without a manager. Jimmy Burke, who succeeded Frank Shaughnessy there last season, is coaching for the Detroit Tigers this year.

Hamilton Spectator: Word has been received here that the youngster expected from Connie Mack will not be sent to the local club. Mack took a young brother of Stuffy McInnes south with him this year, and had intended to farm him to the Hamilton club if he sized up all right. The youngster failed to show much, however, and will have to make his start some place else. It was thought at first that he might prove another "Stuffy" in the making, for his brother is some ball player.

Dudley, a Western Canadian star, has been signed by the Hamilton club. He is a first basemen and will be given a thorough trial.

WESTERNS BEAT
STRATFORD 45 TO 30

Won the Round From Classic City O. A. B. A. Seven.

COMBINATION EXCELLED

Local Students Were Also More Accurate in Shooting Than Their Opponents.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Stratford, March 17.—Well-oiled combination with accurate shooting on the part of the Western University team and over-enthusiasm to score on Stratford's side gave the former the victory by 45 to 30 in the last game of the W. O. B. A. semi-finals. Having won by a six-point lead in London, the visitors captured the round by 21 points.

Westerns Took Early Lead. The visitors broke into an early lead, which, by the aid of excellent passing and shooting, they maintained throughout the game. Stratford threatened to overtake them near the close of the first period, which ended 24 to 18, but London forged ahead early in the second half. Referee Jimmy Preston.

Summary—First Half—Basketball, Gilles 4, Babb 1, Dempsey 1, Reynolds 1, McDonald 1, Smith 4, McKay 2, Ireland 5. Foul—Dempsey 2, Smith 2.

Second Half—Basketball, Gilles 1, Atkins 1, Dempsey 2, Reynolds 1, Smith 3, McKay 6, Ireland 1, Foul—Dempsey 2, Smith 1.

"CHIEF" NEVITT.

Indian School, where he was a close friend of Jim Thorpe, the renowned Indian player now with the New York Giants.

Nevitt's first professional engagement was with Battle Creek, where he has played for three years, being the catching mainstay during the time.

He is nimble-witted, very quick, agile, holds runners close to the bags, and is cool in the crises. He is either right or left-handed, and is rated as a good batsman at all times.

The Indian's chief claim to distinction is that he is the only vegetarian ball player under contract. Not only does he abstain from meats, but refuses coffee and all stimulants. He also foregoes tobacco in all its forms.

BERLIN AND WESTERN PLAY
IN TORONTO FRIDAY NIGHT

All Arrangements for the Game Were Made at Meeting in Berlin Between Representatives From Both Clubs—Local Fans Interested.

As a result of a conference in Berlin this morning between the management of that club and Manager Harry Stephens, of the Western University team, the intermediate O. H. A. champions and the Northern League title holders will meet in the Toronto Arena Friday night in a sudden-death game for the intermediate championship of Ontario.

Meeting Was Brief. The game was arranged after a brief discussion between the Berlin men and the Western University representative. The "Dutchmen" were perfectly willing to play the game, and it was merely a question of arranging with the Arena management in Toronto. Manager Stephens wired The Advertiser after the meeting was over and announced the decision.

Fans Are Dejected. Fans are dejected. There is no doubt that a good crowd would make the trip. The game is attracting a great deal of interest in this city, many telephone calls being received at The Advertiser this morning from fans who were anxious to hear the outcome of the meeting in Berlin. The present cold weather will give both teams a chance to practice, and they should be in good shape for the game.

WIARTON A BEATING

Walkerton, March 17.—The Walkerton hockey team celebrated St. Patrick's Day by trimming the fast Wiarton intermediate O. H. A. team here this evening by the score of 6 to 5 in one of the best games of hockey seen in this town for many seasons. The Walkerton boys earned the victory, as they worked hard all through, and played a better game than the visitors. The work of "Dad" Ashley, of the visitors, was a revelation to local fans, while Nimmo's work in goal was also good. For the home team, Taylor and the Overley brothers were the stars.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heart-burn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and render it bland and harmless, a tea of bicarbonate of soda, probably the best and most effective corrector of stomach acidity, should be taken in a glass of water or cold water immediately after eating. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, which is a dangerous and unnecessary acid, stops or prevents them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bicarbonate of soda, which can be obtained from any drugstore, and thus enables the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids. IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood, and pass it to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent, lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

TORONTOS WON AFTER OVERTIME

N. H. A. Championship Winners Again Defeat Victorias.

FINAL SCORE WAS 6 TO 5

"Minnie" McGiffin Scored Winning Goal After Fifteen Minutes of Extra Play.

Toronto, March 17.—The Toronto champions of the National Hockey Association, and Victoria, holders of the Pacific Coast League title, played their second Stanley Cup game at the Arena here tonight. The locals again demonstrated their superiority over the western visitors, but it required fifteen minutes of overtime play to do the trick. The score was 6 to 5.

The game was played under Pacific Coast League rules. These call for seven men on each team, and the loss of the services of a player when penalized. Another and important feature was the new off-side rule in centre ice, which was shown to local fans for the first time. The Victorias had an advantage here and frequently caught the locals forward off their guard by long passes to another player up the ice. The ice is divided into three equal sections. In the centre space a player may take a pass from a man behind, but in the other two sections the same rules as in the N. H. A. govern.

Victorias Combination Lacking.

Victoria did not produce the great combination plays which it was said they would demonstrate under their own rules. They made many passes, but they were for the most part from one side of the rink. There was none of the three-man play as seen in the Ontario Hockey Association. In the last period Toronto took a liking to the new rule, and made some nice plays, with two men generally waiting to take the pass on the line. They did not, however, have the fast snappy passes of the visitors, who showed that they have perfected the play.

The visitors again lacked the punch to get goals, even though they did score five. Most of their tallies were scored when Toronto were short a player, while the locals touched the majority of theirs while the entire Victoria team was in position. In the last period, Victoria had many good chances with only one man to pass, but preferred to shoot from outside the defence. Dundasdale was the worst offender in this respect. Holmes, who is generally weak on long shots, was not caught napping tonight.

McGiffin Scored Winning Goal.

"Minnie" McGiffin scored the winning goal, after fifteen minutes of extra play. Foyston Wilson and McGiffin rushed and the former shot. Lindsay made the stop and cleared in front, but McGiffin, by fast footwork, lodged the puck in the corner of the net. Victoria rushed more often than the locals, but as on Saturday night were not as effective when close in on the nets. The Toronto forwards gave their defence good help by consistent back checking. Foyston and Walker were the best in this respect.

Patrick and Genge were again the strongholds of the Victoria team. Patrick had no back, he carried the puck to perfection tonight and seldom made a mistake. Genge tried individual rushes most of the time, and gave the locals much trouble.

Toronto—Goal, Holmes; point, Marshall; cover point, Cameron; rover, McGiffin; centre, Foyston; left wing, Walker; right wing, Wilson.

Referee—Russell Bowie.

Judge of Play—T. Phillips.

FREDDIE WELSH WINS BOUT FROM JOE RIVERS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight, of Wales, won a decision over Joe Rivers, of Los Angeles, at a boxing arena, today.

Welsh won the bout by a lead on points nearly all the way. Welsh kept Rivers in the glare of the sun and worried him with his quick punch and lively footwork. In the fifth round the referee cautioned Rivers about using his elbow on Welsh's body in a clinch. In the thirteenth round Rivers forced Welsh through the ropes, but failed to land any damaging blows.

Welsh now is in line for a fight with Willie Ritchie, the champion, possibly on July 4.

CONNIE MACK'S MEN WIN FREE-HITTING CONTEST

Jacksonville, Fla., March 17.—The Philadelphia Americans hit harder in a batting bee today and defeated the Chicago Nationals by 15 to 11. Chicago scored nine runs in the first three innings, but the Athletics registered in every inning, but two, and overcame the lead.

The score: Philadelphia Americans.....15 16 4 Chicago Nationals.....11 11 3 Brown, Durnins, Shawkey and Schang; Smith, Koestner and Archer, Garrover.

CHATHAM WILL HAVE CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Chatham, March 17.—Baseball fans in the city are getting busy and already several teams have announced themselves for the City League. Some of the teams will be materially changed from last year. There is great rivalry between the different aggregations and a good season is looked forward to. The Bankers, Railway Clerks, Clerks, Chaplin, Wheel Works, Gray-Campbell and the Postmen are getting their teams in shape. The annual meeting of the City League will be held tomorrow evening.

AMERICAN PLAYERS WIN GAMES AT NICE

LACROSSE REVIVAL DUE N WOODSTOCK

Outlook Bright for Strong Club There This Season.

MAY ENTER LONDON GROUP

Several Good Players Have Been Uncovered and Game Is Being Boosted.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Woodstock, March 17.—Lacrosse, which has been a dead sport here for the past six years, is likely to be revived this coming season. A meeting will be held shortly in all probability, to organize a local club. It is believed that the game will boom here with a strong team. It is altogether likely that the team will be an intermediate one and as such will be entered in the O. A. L. A. and grouped with London, St. Marys, Paris and Brantford. Such a group would be a strong one and the teams would all prove good drawing cards.

Some Good Players Located.

At the present time there is enough material in the city to form a pretty good team. Among those here who play the game are Shelly and McTague, of the local junior hockey team, and Murray, Cosford, Bartlett, Cuthbertson and many others who are experienced players and would turn out if a club was organized. Murray is a former member of the Young Torontos.

GARDNER LEADS IN BRILLIANT TOURNEY

New York, March 17.—By winning today's game from Eugene L. Milburn, of Memphis, Edward W. Gardner, of this city, stands well in the lead for this year's amateur billiard championship title, an honor which he has held on three previous occasions. This is Gardner's fourth consecutive win and he is the only one of the seven contestants who has not met defeat. Gardner's run of 124 this afternoon is the highest thus far in the tournament.

Score: Gardner, 400; average, 13 23-29; high runs, 124, 61, 29. Milburn, 182; average, 5 22-28; high runs, 22, 23, 20.

MISS RAVENSCROFT WILL DEPART MARCH 25

Pinehurst, N. C., March 17.—Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, holder of the American woman's national golf championship, left today for Philadelphia, where she will visit before going to New York, preparatory to sailing for her home in England. She plans to depart from the United States on March 25.

BALLOON RACE STARTS AT ST. LOUIS JULY 4

New York, March 17.—The national balloon race for this year will be sailed from St. Louis on July 4. The Aero Club of America awarded this contest tonight to the Aero Club of St. Louis. The winner of this race will be the pilot who finishes second will be two of the three aeronauts to represent the United States in the international race to start from Kansas City next October. The third American pilot will be Ralph H. Upson, winner of the international flight from Paris last year.

Thought She Would Go Mad WITH HEADACHE.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, for with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time. Headache powders just relieve for the time being, but what is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all descriptions than Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Althea Bowman, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I have suffered terribly with my head for weeks at a time till I thought I would go mad. A friend advised me to give Burdock Blood Bitters a trial, so I got a bottle and found relief. I have used four bottles in all and I am glad to say that I have had no more headaches since. I would advise all sufferers to give it a fair trial."

JOKE ON JACK.

BY FULLERTON.

Jack Lelievre, of the Naps, started south to join the team. He was having an argument with the railroad agent, who promised certain things.

"I don't want to doubt your word," said Lelievre, "but I'll never trust anyone again."

"Why this cynicism, Jack?" asked a friend.

"It's on account of a game of ball," he said. "We advertised a game between Pittsburg and Chicago one fall after the season and most of the players left town, so we had to fill in. Lelievre was carded to pitch and he was gone, so the Cubs wanted me to pitch left-handed and pose as Lelievre. They promised to go easy and not hit hard."

Jack looked sad a moment.

"Well?" was asked.

"The first nine of them got base hits," he said, sadly. "Then I yelled for mercy and they made two home runs in succession. No, I'll never trust anyone again."

THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND
By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON
Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

"Pon my soul!" added her father for the third time, thereby reaching the limit of emphasis, having placed it differently each time.

Leslie surprised himself by rising to the occasion. It occurred to him that they would like to be alone for a little while at least.

"Then I'll stroll on, Colonel," he said. "By Jove, the mild expletive was a tribute to Providence."

Not a word was spoken by father or daughter until Randall was many rods away.

"Where did you meet Leslie Randall?" she demanded, showing which way her thoughts ran. "They were far from dull."

"Aviation field—somewhere," said he in a vague sort of way. "Fau, I daresay. What are you doing here?"

"I fancy you've been misinformed," said she in an emotionless voice, but offered no further word of explanation.

"Shant we sit down here on this bench, my dear?" suggested the Colonel, distinctly ill at ease.

"For the sake of appearances, yes," she assented.

Leslie, looking over his shoulder from a distance, saw them sitting together on one of the outer benches.

"By Jove," he said to himself once more, this time with accumulative perplexity.

"See here, Hetty, my child," began the Colonel nervously. "It's all nonsense your taking the stand you do toward me."

"My dear, I repeat, it's all nonsense—damned nonsense. You've got to—"

"Has it taken you all these years to find out that it's nonsense?" she demanded, her eyes flashing. "It's no good your saying, father, I don't like you."

IS ILL IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 17. Cy Worman, poet and author, is seriously ill at a hotel here. He was stricken on Sunday, and remained unconscious for more than twenty-four hours. Physicians said today his chances for recovery were bright.

Big Crowd.

A bill for the control and administration of cold storage warehouses was introduced by the Minister of Agriculture.

It aims to discourage, postpone poisoning by limiting the time by regulation that meats, fish, eggs and dairy articles may be kept in a condition of chilled inactivity for sale when the markets are right and the prices are to the satisfaction of the cold storage if not to the consumer.

Ottawa, March 17.—The merchants and businessmen of the town recently met in the town hall and arranged for a "Dollar Day" on Tuesday, March 17. This day for the control and administration of cold storage warehouses was introduced by the Minister of Agriculture.

It aims to discourage, postpone poisoning by limiting the time by regulation that meats, fish, eggs and dairy articles may be kept in a condition of chilled inactivity for sale when the markets are right and the prices are to the satisfaction of the cold storage if not to the consumer.

COLD STORAGE TO COME UNDER LAW

Bill to Regulate Warehouses Has Been Introduced.

Oldest lady was Mrs. C. Vanaalstine, of Turnbury, 89 years old, who got an easy chair.

Oldest gentleman was A. Reid, of East Warrash, 87 years old, an arm chair.

Largest load of people on sleigh or wagon, won by Albert Foster, of Culross, having 21 people; $5.

Most recently married couple were Mr. and Mrs. James McGee; $5.

The one who drove the longest distance was David Giddian, of Howick, 15 miles; $5.

Ald. W. G. Patterson gave an excellent Elgin watch, valued at $15, to J. D. Anderson, of Belgrave, who made the most purchases, which amounted to $97 worth at different stores.

Other prizes were donated by the mayor of the town, and the resident and secretary of the association, and George Spotton.

Ottawa, March 17.—Safety First was the theme of Parliament's sitting today. A bill prohibiting the manufacture, importation or sale of white phosphorus matches after January 1, 1916, was passed by the Commons.

A bill for the control and administration of cold storage warehouses was introduced by the Minister of Agriculture.

It aims to discourage, postpone poisoning by limiting the time by regulation that meats, fish, eggs and dairy articles may be kept in a condition of chilled inactivity for sale when the markets are right and the prices are to the satisfaction of the cold storage if not to the consumer.

YOUR BABY'S SKIN

Is the most delicate fabric in the world. You may cause it "permanent" harm by using poisonous mineral ointments for the little rashes and eruptions that every baby suffers from occasionally. Don't take any chances. Use Zam-Buk, the baby's best friend.

Zam-Buk is made from fine herbal extracts, and is free from any harmful, poisonous coloring matter. Like the grasses and the flowers, nature has colored it green. It is nature's own healer.

Most ointments and salves have, as their foundation, various animal oils and fats. Zam-Buk does not contain one atom of animal substance. Most ointments and salves are too coarse to be absorbed by the tender delicate skin of a baby, and remain on the skin as an irritating mass. Just put a little Zam-Buk on baby's skin, and see how soon it is absorbed, showing conclusively that the pores of the skin are greedy for it.

Use nothing but Zam-Buk for baby's skin troubles and wash with Zam-Buk Soap.

Zam-Buk should also be used for cuts, burns, scalds, eczema, piles, ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Company, Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

3-Grain Tablet Makes Flesh.

Any one wishing to add to their weight, improve their color and restore a normal condition of the stomach and nerves, should adopt the wonderfully successful treatment known to physicians and druggists as "3-grain hypo-nutrient tablets," put up in sealed packages with full directions for home use. Red lips, pink cheeks, and 10 to 20 pounds increase in weight are not uncommon results from several months' usage. Ask your physician or a well-stocked druggist for them. -Adv.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Physician's Advice For Thin, Underdeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, find that the physical culture and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skininess and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for repairing the waste of skin or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nervous system. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strengthening, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this needless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. Leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a flesh-maker, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh. -Adv.

No More Troublesome Superfluous Hairs

(The Modern Beauty.)

Nothing is quite so annoying to a woman as ugly fuzzy growths on the face, and while the electric needle and family through the cloth, a simple paste made with powdered delatone and water. This paste is spread on the objectionable hairs for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off. After this treatment the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be soft, clear and hairless. Be sure, however, that you get the real delatone. -Adv.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL

That Alcoholism is a disease is now recognized by Science. No man in his senses brings disgrace and ruin on himself and his family through choice. Alcohol stops the craving for drink, builds up the system, steadies the nerves. It is guaranteed to cure or benefit, or money refunded after a fair trial. Acqua No. 1 can be given secretly by any wife or mother wanting to restore a dear one to health and usefulness. Acqua No. 2 is the voluntary treatment.

Can be had at the following stores only $1.00 per box. Ask for free booklet about Acqua. Nelles, 268 Dundas St. E. L. Guillemont, 404 Richmond St. W. T. Strong, 134 Dundas St. The Taylor Drug Co., four stores.

DATES STILL SOARING; SCARCITY THE CAUSE

Price Reaches $1.22 on Market—Other Products Remain Steady.

The highest price at which oats were sold this year was obtained on Wednesday on the market. Only a few loads were on the square, and sold as high as $1.22 per cwt. The supply is becoming scarce, which is the cause of the rise in price. Two loads of wheat were sold for $1.00 per bushel.

Heavy rains and a large supply of hay on Tuesday kept down the offerings to eight loads, but a little cheaper on the average than that on Tuesday. The best quality on the square brought $14.50 per ton, with most loads selling at $14 per ton.

Only one load of straw was weighed, and it sold for $8 per ton.

Potatoes on Tuesday for 90c per bag wholesale, and 95c retail. The supply of other vegetables was small, and prices remained the same as on Saturday. None were on the square this morning.

There is no change in butter and egg prices, but dealers expect butter to become cheaper soon, with the increase in milk cows.

No meats were on the market. Beef and veal are expected to become cheaper, but prices remain quoted prices.

Winnipeg, March 17.—The wheat market was dull and little or nothing doing in any department. Prices were firm, the attitude of traders generally being one of waiting, and news is scarce to affect prices either way. Inquiry for export during the morning was more active but this also died out later.

There was absolutely nothing doing in cash trade, and it is asserted that the demand will drop up as soon as opening of navigation nears.

Wheat opened 3c higher and closed unchanged to 1c lower. There were no changes of cash wheat and demand was quiet. Prices closed as follows: Cash wheat unchanged to 1c lower for contract grades; cash oats unchanged to 1c lower; cash barley unchanged; cash flax 3/4c down on all grades.

Inspections for the week ending March 14 were 2,694, against 2,695 last year and 255 cars were inspected today, against 245 for the corresponding day last year. In sight were 275 cars.

STRICKEN UNEXPECTEDLY
[Canadian Press.]
Collingwood, March 16.—George Henderson, a hardware merchant of this town for about 40 years, died suddenly at midnight last night. He had attended church in the evening, apparently in his usual health. Mr. Henderson was a member of the town council for several years. He was in his 70th year.

EUCHRE TOURNAMENT
Liberal Club Series Will Be Concluded Tonight.
Tonight, the final games of the Liberal Club euchre tournament deciding the winners of the handsome prizes now displayed in the windows of The Advertiser office, will be played. Games will start punctually at 8 p.m. and close at 10 p.m., after which those with high scores will play off for the respective prizes. Similar rules will apply as those used on the last occasion.
On Wednesday, March 25, a "ladies' limerick contest" and the feature of the weekly meeting. The latter will be presided by Geo. S. Gibbons, and such a whist or any other card games preferred by the members will be played. Songs, recitations, violin selections, etc., will be rendered during the evening, after which refreshments will be served.
The limerick contest for the ladies is entitled "The Suffragette," which consists of five lines in rhyme, the fifth line of which has been omitted and will be supplied by the contestants. Geo. S. Gibbons and President F. Harry Greenlee will be the judges. The correct solution or nearest correct, in their judgment, to be the winner. The prize for this is a beautiful gold-mounted parasol donated by Gray's Limited.

NOT CAUSING FLOOD
Incinerator Superintendent Denies That Residue Dumping Is Dangerous.
Garbage Superintendent Walter C. Dodd denies that the dumping of incinerator residue into the Thames is creating a danger of floods, as complained of by Front Street residents.
"We are not interfering with the channel of the river at all," said Mr. Dodd, yesterday, "but simply reclaiming land that has been washed away by high water. We want that land secured for we don't want the incinerator falling into the river. They want to remove out Hunt's dam. That's what causes the water to back up."
