HOT FIGHTING IN ARGONNE; GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED

Heavy Artillery Fire at Ypres, Rheims and Soissons Damages Public Buildings and Residences—Quiet in Vosges and Woevre.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Nov. 23.—The official French bulletin given out in Paris this afternoon says: "Yesterday was marked by a violent artillery fire. The enemy directed his attention particularly to the town of Ypres, where the belfry, the cathedral, the markets, and a number of houses were set on fire, to Soissons and to Rheims.

"In the Argonne the day was characterized by very hot fighting. The enemy delivered very spirited attacks, which were repulsed.

"In the Woevre and in the Vosges the situation is without change."

The Berlin Version.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 23, via London.—The official communication issued by the German general army headquarters today says:

"Fighting continues at Nieuport and at Ypres. A small British squadron twice approached the coast, but was driven off by our artillery. The British navy guns had no effect.

"In the forest of the Argonne we are gaining ground step by step, one trench after another, and one point of support after another being wrested from the French, and a number of prisoners being taken daily.

"A violent reconnoitering expedition against our position on the east of the Moselle River was made ineffective by our counter attacks.

"In East Prussia the situation remains unchanged.

In Poland, the appearance of Russian reinforcements is postponing a decision of the battle.

"In the region of the east of Czenstochowa and to the northeast of Cracow the Austro-German offensive was maintained."

SUSPECTED GERMAN FINANCING BACKED "KOMAGATU MARU"

Immigration Authorities at Vancouver Believed Teutons Were Behind Hindu "Invasion," Says Salvation Army Officer, Formerly of That City.

That German money was financing the trip of the Komagatu Maru, with the 335 Hindus aboard, in its attempt to land them in Vancouver last summer, was the common belief of immigration authorities in that city, according to Staff Captain White, of the Salvation Army in London. Staff Captain White was at that time, in charge of the Vancouver immigration department of the army.

"The introduction of the Hindus into British Columbia looked like a good business proposition then. Many Germans have become wealthy by financing somewhat similar enterprises," said Captain White. "Nobody had any idea that the entire affair had been pre-conceived by Germans for political reasons."

It was the tact and the kindness of the Vancouver authorities, however, which eventually fooled Germany, in the belief of Captain White.

Tells of Police Raid.

"None of the Hindus on board the Komagatu Maru had any firearms, and one night 125 policemen boarded a tug, and steamed alongside the vessel," said Captain White. "The Hindus were ready or them with great blocks of coal they had brought from the bunkers. When the police got alongside the Hindus hurled down the chunks of coal on them.

"The chief of police was the sorriest looking of the lot the morning after. Several of the officers were badly cut and one man was almost drowned, yet not a single Hindu on board was hurt, although the policemen could easily have boarded the vessel if they had wished to use firearms.

Averted Terrible Riot.

"The advice of the authorities to be peaceful and tactful probably averted a terrible riot, and perhaps a rebellion in India. The Germans, who are said to have been the cause of the trouble, no doubt believed that during the enforced quarantine at Vancouver one or more of the Hindus would be killed. This would be sufficient to start dissentions among their countrymen when they were landed in India."

The Hindus were the finest looking men that Captain White has ever seen in the Dominion. Almost all of them, he says, were six feet tall and powerfully built.

Left for Germany.

Just prior to the war a wealthy German who had lived in Vancouver, and who was interested in land companies and various financial concerns, left Canada and went to Germany. He was caught at Gibraltar while attempting to return to Canada by way of Austria, and is a prisoner now at Gibraltar According to Captain White this man was supposed by the authorities at Vancouver, to have financed the Komagatu Maru expedition.

JAPS READY TO FURNISH LARGE AND EFFICIENT ARMY

Can Easily Put Half Million With Allies in Two Months.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 23.—Arthur Diosy, founder of the Japan Society and an authority on Anglo-Japanese affairs, says in a statement that Japan is ready to furnish a large army, if it is found necessary to increase the allied forces in Europe.

"The Japanese army is in a complete state of readiness," says Mr. Diosy, "and if it is necessary to increase the allied forces in Europe the Japanese are willing and ready to supply immediately a large, admirably-equipped and highly-trained army.

"The Trans-Siberian Railway and an ample supply of Japanese steamships make the transportation of half a million men in two months easy."

THE DIARY OF MARS

At two points in the battle line extending across France and Belgium, the Germans were making determined efforts today to break their way through while an identical struggle was under way in Russian Poland.

Today's French statement said that at Ypres, Belgium, the point selected for the new German attempt to force a way through to the English Channel, the artillery fire yesterday was violent, and that many buildings were set on fire.

In the region of the Argonne forest, well on toward to the eastern end of the line, where the Germans are centering another severe attack, the fighting yesterday was described as "very hot," and it is said that the German onslaughts were repulsed.

Rheims and Soissons were also under bombardment, with what effect is not disclosed.

The German official statement speaks of the severe fighting at Ypres, and also says that a British squadron's attempt to bombard Nieuport was repulsed twice.

In the Argonne region, it is said, the Germans are gaining ground slowly.

The renewed efforts of the Germans in the west, notwithstanding the effects of the cold, wet weather, which was said to make fighting in the lowlands almost an impossibility, attracted renewed attention to the western field of battle. The struggle befween the Russians and Austro-German forces in the east, however, was still rated as of greater immediate importance, because of the influence the outcome is expected to exert upon the whole future course of the war. From this quarter came no definite news today. Berlin was confident of an early decisive victory, but the war office there acknowledged today that the arrival of Russian reinforcements had postponed the decision.

Germany accounts the battle in Russian Poland as virtually won, and is already estimating the effect upon future military operations. An announcement today from the German general staff is to the effect that a decision is at hand, and that conditions everywhere are favorable from its point of view.

In Berlin it is said the outcome of the main battle with the Russians may decide not only that phase of the many-sided war, but the whole European struggle. A decisive triumph in the east, it is pointed out, would free part of the German army engaged there to assist the forces which are facing the British, French and Belgians in the west.

Upon what information the confident Berlin predictions were based was not fully apparent. An official German statement today said merely that the fighting in Poland continued. Russia admits that the Germans have won partial successes, but there is nothing to show that the continued German advance toward Warsaw is influencing the Russian campaign to the north, in Eastern Prussia, or to the south, near Cracow, Galicia.

Unofficial reports from Petrograd state that the Russians are continuing their advance in East Prussia and have captured Gumbinnen, a fortified city 66 miles from Koenigsberg. According to all accounts the main battle, between the Vistula and Warta rivers, is still in progress, and although the Germans are pressing forward steadily the Russian army is still offering determined resistance.

In the west the fighting in Belgium, which has been slow for several days on account of the weather, has broken out with renewed ferocity at Ypres, with the artillery playing the main part. London suggests that this may be the prelude to another German attempt to pierce the line, as in the past onslaughts by German infantry have been preceded by heavy artillery attacks.

From the other fields of battle reports were meagre. The Turks were said to have reached the Suez Canal. The British steamer La Corentina, missing for several weeks after she sailed from Buenos Ayres for Liverpool, is now said to have been sunk by the German converted cruiser Kronprinze Wilhelm, her crew having been taken by a German steamer to Montevideo.

PLANNED TO SEIZE VESSEL AND FLEE

Prisoners' Mutiny in Isle of Man Was a Scheme To Reach Some Neutral Country.

London, Nov. 23—10 a.m.—The Manchester Guardian, referring to the rioting last Thursday in the alien detention camp on the Isle of Man, in which five prisoners were killed and twelve wounded, says this outbreak was due not merely to discontent with the food and treatment given them, but was part of a desperate plan of the prisoners to escape from the camp with the ultimate hope of seizing a vessel in the harbor and making their way to some neutral country.

The dining-room of the camp, where the trouble occurred, gives access through the adjoining kitchens to the only part of the camp inclosure not protected by a double circuit of barbed wire. The prisoners employed in the kitchens were aware of this condition. The prisoners on Wednesday went on a hunger strike. This rapidly developed into an angry demonstration against England. The prison commandant succeeded in quieting the disturbance, but not before the Union Jack had been torn down. The real mutiny began Thursday.

The correspondent of the Manchester Guardian expresses the belief that the prisoners hoped to secure enough arms to hold the guards at bay until sailors in the camp had time to get possession of a boat in the harbor. The medical officer at the camp assured the correspondent that the food was sufficient, but it was admitted that a certain consignment of potatoes was bad and that some of the tents leaked. Many prisoners in this camp are men of title and wealth. They were allowed to purchase their own food, and they enjoyed course dinners. This was another source of discontent. The captains in charge of the divisions of prisoners were chosen from among the educated aliens, and it is not believed that they had any knowledge of the uprising.

Extra guards have been placed on duty at the Isle of Man camp, and the number of prisoners permitted in the dining-room at one time has been reduced.

$200 FOR PATRIOTIC FUND.—The Canadian Club today forwarded to the Patriotic Fund Association a check for $200. It was the partial receipts of the Ames lecture some time ago. The balance of the lecture receipts and the money secured through the patriotic concert Sunday night will go to the local Belgian relief fund.

TORONTO'S MAYOR FLATLY CONTRADICTS GEN. HUGHES

Says City Decided To Spend $100,000 On Home Guard Before Trial Mobilization Was Ordered — No Scheme of Home Guard.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Nov. 23.—A prominent member of the Toronto Home Guard Association is authority for the statement that there is no truth in the statement that the Home Guard spread the rumor of a German invasion.

Mayor Hocken said the time was not ripe to disclose the source of the information on which the city had decided to spend $100,000 for arms. It was certainly not the result of a panic created by the Home Guard. The information came from Washington, via Ottawa.

"We are not afraid of invasion," he said, "but of small bodies of marauders, who could destroy property worth millions.

"Besides, we had decided to purchase the rifles before the mobilization was ordered. We have bought 3,500 Winchester rifles, and will arm the Home Guard and police force. We have also 1,250,000 rounds of ammunition. The offer of 1,000 Ross rifles was not likely to be accepted, the price being too high."

This flatly contradicts the statement made by Major-Gen. Hughes that the mobilization scare was engineered to get the city to spend $100,000.

Lighthouse Keeper Sets Fine Example

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—An example to wealthy Canadians has been given by a humble lightkeeper on Lake Huron.

Some days ago a circular was sent to employees of the Marine department, asking those who were willing to give a day's pay to the patriotic fund to say so.

Lightkeepers do not draw princely salaries, so H. F. Baker, who lights the lamp at Copperton Island, in the North Channel of Georgian Bay, wrote that the contribution of a day's pay from him would not amount to much. He therefore asked that $10 be taken from his quarterly salary check and applied to the fund.

In the meantime, he inclosed $5 in his letter as a contribution from his wife and children.

ACTIVE SERVICE EXAMINATIONS ON

Volunteers For Lieutenancies of Eighteenth Battalion Tested Today.

APPOINTMENTS LATER

Junior Officers Will Be Selected From Those Who Attended School Here.

Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, in command of the Eighteenth Battalion, and Lieut.-Col. McCrimmon, commandant of the provisional school at the armories, conducted an examination for subalterns this morning, and from the list of successful candidates Colonel Wigle will select his junior lieutenants These appointments will be to the permanent staff of the Eighteenth Battalion, but will not be announced for several days.

The school of instruction, now in its sixth week, has developed a fine body of men. Training in every branch of the military service has rounded them out until they are fit for immediate action.

New Departure.

The Western University school of instruction, a new departure for the university to prepare the students in the elementary courses of military tactics, will be opened in a short time. A preliminary to the opening of this school will be an address tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 by Col. W. E. Hodgins, who will speak to the students on "Military Training for Universities."

Ranges Closed.

Captain T. J. Murphy, musketry instructor at the Cove ranges, announced today that the ranges will be closed until further orders, from now on. A small crowd was out for rifle practice on Saturday. Rifle instruction will probably be confined for the balance of the winter to gallery work at the armories. Some excellent records are being made by the soldiers of the Eighteenth Battalion on 25-yard ranges in Queen's Park.

SERVIANS SENT OUT OF CONSTANTINOPLE

Two of Legation Warned to Leave Within Forty-Eight Hours.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 23—4 p.m.—Two members of the Servian legation, who remained at Constantinople assisting United States Ambassador Morgenthau in looking after Servian interests, says a dispatch by way of Sofia to Reuter's Telegram Company, were ordered by the Porte to leave the city within 48 hours.

The diplomats complied with the order forthwith.

It is announced that the Porte has decided to permit Russian Jews resident in Turkey to become Ottoman subjects, provided they do not revert to their former nationality at the end of the war.

DYNAMITE FOUND IN COAL AT TORONTO

Fireman Discovers Sticks When About to Shovel it Into Furnace.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Nov. 23.—A fireman in the East End powerhouse of the Toronto Railway Company is said to have discovered some sticks of dynamite in the coal he was about to shovel into the furnace. Whether it had been placed there or was merely the remnant of some mine's dynamite is not known.

BOTH PARTIES SAY CHECKING WAS IMPROPER

Temperance Workers and the Hotelmen Kick On the Reduction Petition Report.

CRITICIZES COMMISSIONER

J. H. Bowman Declares That Many Were Disenfranchised by City Official.

ANOTHER REPORT ASKED

First One Sent Back For More Emphatic Declaration of Its Authenticity.

Because neither the temperance people nor the hotelmen are satisfied with the result of the inspection by Assessment Commissioner Grant of the petition for license reduction, and because according to advice which Mayor Graham says he got from the city solicitor, the commissioner's report did not comply with the act, the petition has been referred back to him for a more positive declaration as to its validity.

Representatives of both parties were present at the board of control meeting today, accompanied by legal advisers, Marshall Graydon appearing on behalf of the hotelmen, and F. E. Perrin for the supporters of the petition. The former claimed that many of the names passed by the assessment commissioner were not those of people entitled to vote, that the petition was not properly attested, and that the number of names on the voters' list, as given by Mr. Grant, was not correct.

Will Issue Mandamus.

Mr. Perrin argued that, on the other hand, many of the people whose names had been stricken off the petition were entitled to vote. In answer to a suggestion by Mr. Graydon that an investigation be made of the doubtful names, he declared that this would be quite agreeable to those he represented, provided plenty of time were allowed for them to take out a mandamus to compel the submission of a by-law to the people in case the council decided that the petition did not justify.

The mayor stated that he was advised by the city solicitor that the petition would have to go back to the assessment commissioner in any case, as the latter had not couched his report in sufficient positive terms to make it conform to the requirements of the law. If this had been done, his worship said, the commissioner's report would have been binding.

As to the question of allowing sufficient time for possible legal action to compel the taking of a vote, Mr. Graham declared that, while the board had understood up until today that the by-law would have to be advertised by next Saturday, the solicitor had reported that this need not be done until three weeks before the date of the election. This would give plenty of time.

Criticises Commissioner Grant.

Professor J. H. Bowman, one of the principal organizers of the license reduction campaign, criticised somewhat severely what he considered the antagonistic attitude of the assessment commissioner. The latter, he declared, had refused to supply him with a copy of the names struck off the petition until

CHILE TO STOP BREACH OF NEUTRALITY AT ANY COST

Will Put an End to Germans' Maintaining Naval Station Outside Valparaiso For Coaling and Provisioning.

[Canadian Press.]

Lima, Peru, Nov. 23.—It is declared here today on what would appear to be good authority, that the Germans have been maintaining what is described as a naval station outside of Valparaiso, Chile. Here they brought together a number of vessels having on board coal and provisions.

Chilean papers reaching here say that the Government is determined to stop these breaches of neutrality, even at the cost of war.

REPLACE WEEDS WITH FLOWERS IS VISION OF A LONDON MAN

He Helps It To Become Reality by Distributing Hollyhock Seeds, Encouraging Their Cultivation in Place of Useless Weeds.

HOLLYHOCK—Mixed.

Please plant anywhere that weeds will grow, any month from the end of April to October—¼-inch deep. Let us help to make this world beautiful. This is my contribution FREE. If you cannot plant them yourself, give to some lady friend of flowers. And when you or she have some choice flower seeds, remember ME, and that London is the prettiest city in all Canada.

Let us try and replace weeds with flowers, and prepare this old sphere to be as much like heaven as we can.

What are YOU doing to help destroy flies, rats, mice, fruit-tree pests, or WEEDS? Yes—YOU!

Some time within the last two years a London citizen had a vision of a world made beautiful with flowers. He loved bright blossoming things, himself, and each clump of unsightly weeds were as an eyesore to him. Then his vision came. He conceived the idea of sending out little packets of flower seeds bearing the above inscription with every letter issued from his place of business. The old-fashioned hollyhock appealed especially to the citizen as being easily grown, and bright to look upon. So he made hollyhock seed his hobby. Then his vision widened. What a splendid way to perpetuate the name of London, Ontario, in every corner of the globe to which his correspondence and packets of seeds travelled! To everyone receiving the little brown things which would eventually blossom into pink and purple and red, the name of London, Ontario, would become a household word. And so, steadily the little packages have found their way into many homes in Canada, in the United States, in Britain, and hundreds of other places.

The originator of the idea is John M. Parsons, of this city. Some time ago Mr. Parsons had a letter from W. H Bright, of Maryland, a writer of some very excellent verse. Mr. Bright had heard of the London man's idea for bringing his city fame and beautifying the world at the same time, and offered the use of a poem entitled "The Old-Fashioned Hollyhock," to accompany the seeds on their mission. This offer was gladly accepted by Mr. Parsons. The first verse runs as follows:

"You may talk about your Roses,
your Carnations and your Phlox,
And the other pretty flowers that grow in pot or box;
They may all be very pretty—every one you have in stock,
But they are not fraught with memories like the simple Hollyhock."

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN FOR "BUSINESS-AS-USUAL"

London Board of Trade, by Posters, Circulars and Personal Appeal, Is Stimulating "Made in Canada" Business Throughout District.

Through the medium of circulars, posters, personal appeals, and a general publicity campaign, the London Board of Trade is vigorously prosecuting its "Business as Usual" crusade throughout the city and district. According to reports from retail merchants the campaign is making itself felt, and retail merchants are already beginning to notice the increasing demand for "Made in Canada" goods.

It seems that the exhortation for Canadians to patronize home industries has taken hold locally, and that the people of London and district are doing their duty by Canadian factories and Canadian people by purchasing goods manufactured in the Dominion to the exclusion of those made elsewhere.

Factories Busy.

"Factories throughout Western Ontario, as far east as Brantford, are apparently pretty well employed," declared President E. C. Mitchell, of the London Board of Trade today. "Everywhere we have reports from surrounding towns that times are as good as ever, so far as manufacturing is concerned.

"There is absolutely no reason why this should not be so. Western Ontario is prosperous and wealthy, and we should set an example to the whole of Canada to show just what we can do to keep the wheels of industry going.

"People are getting over their war hysteria now, and conditions should fast return to normal. Prospects are bright for an uninterrupted good season if the people will refuse to allow themselves to be carried away."

After War Contracts.

The Board of Trade has gone after the local manufacturers to secure part of the huge contracts that are being given in this country. All have been circularized from the secretary's office here, and lists of material needed and full information has been sent out.

"IS WAR OFFICE BEING FLEECED?"

Question Propounded By English Paper, Which Makes Suggestion of Trade "Ring."

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 23.—Under the heading "Is the War Office Being Fleeced?" the Daily Chronicle makes a demand for an official inquiry regarding the Government's contracts for the purchase of galvanized and corrugated iron. The newspaper suggests that Parliament ought to set up a vigilance committee "to keep an eye on all contracts made by the great war spending departments and nip scandals in the bud."

Regarding the iron contracts, the Chronicle says it believes it has evidence of a trade ring which is maintaining prices for Government work as much as $9 per ton above the prices openly quoted for private persons.

"Twenty leading firms," says the Chronicle, "have been asked for prices for supplying iron sheeting for Government order and for private customers. Only two firms replied with quotations for both.

"The others gave quotations for private customers, and referred inquiries regarding the prices for Government orders to a firm of accountants, who seem to have been successful in organizing the trade ring. This firm's price for the Government is higher than that quoted by any firm for private customers."

Volplaned To Earth, Dropping Bombs Around the German Works.

THEN USED REVOLVER

Fell At Last Wounded, But Is Safe in Enemy's Hospital.

ATTEMPT ALL BRITISH

Two Other Aeroplanes Kept Out of Range, But Dropped Bombs.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 23.—A London cable to the Herald says: "No greater hero has been developed by the war than Lieut. Briggs, of the British royal naval air service, who was one of three aviators who tried to destroy the great Zeppelin sheds at Friedrichshafen. A dispatch received here last night by way of Berlin and the Hague from Friedrichshafen states that Lieut. Briggs, with his shell-pierced gasoline tank on fire, volplaned across the sheds, dropping many bombs as he glided to the earth. Then, with his pistol, he fought single-handed until he was felled by a head wound.

The three British airmen, whose starting point is not announced, suddenly appeared to the Germans at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, while flying at a great height over Lake Constance. Great precautions which the Germans have taken to protect the Zeppelin works and its enormous dirigibles at Friedrichshafen were responsible for the detection of the aeroplanes. Word was telephoned ahead to Friedrichshafen, and when the three aviators approached the Zeppelin plant the Germans were ready for them.

Krupps at Work.

A bombardment high into the sky was begun by the numerous high-powered Krupp guns that have been mounted on roofs and in a wide area surrounding the Zeppelin plant. These guns, specially designed to fire at high angles, sent scores of shells into the sky, the shells exploding near the aeroplanes.

Two of the aeroplanes discreetly kept high enough to be out of range of the shrapnel shells. All three circled about the town and dropped six powerful bombs. These came so close to hitting the Zeppelin sheds that a tremor of apprehension spread through the thousands of persons who were watching the combat. Two other bombs were drop-

GERMANS WILD AT RAID OF AIRSHIPS

Damage To Zeppelin Shops Probably Very Extensive —British Feat Causes Uneasiness.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 23.—A cable to the Herald from The Hague says: "Reports from Berlin state that the British air raid on Friedrichshafen, caused terrible uneasiness, mingled with anger, throughout the German Empire, especially in military circles. The Kaiser's headquarters particularly was infuriated about the magnificent feat. There is good reason to believe that the damage done by the British bombs to the Zeppelin workshops was far greater than the Wolff Bureau telegrams state.

The aviators' object was to destroy six Zeppelins now in process of building, and with which the Kaiser's fondest hopes of invading Britain are closely connected.

Beyond doubt two sheds in which four airships are being completed were set on fire by the British bombs, but as the Zeppelin workshops are fitted with an efficient fire alarm system, it is possible the flames were subdued before any Zeppelins actually were destroyed. There is no doubt, however, that the airships' usefulness has been seriously impaired.

BENEFIT CONCERT DRAWS HUNDREDS

Belgian Relief Fund Swelled Considerably By Sunday Program

THE HUSSARS BAND PLAYS

Puts On Splendid Musical Numbers, Assisted By Soloists.

Nearly 1,100 people crowded into the Majestic Theatre Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock, to listen to one of the finest patriotic concerts that has ever been held in London. The concert, which was in aid of the Belgian relief fund, and held under the auspices of the Canadian Club, netted the fund in the neighborhood of $200. Programs were sold for 25 cents each, and entitled the holder to a seat in the theatre.

Arthur W. White, president of the Canadian Club, presided at the concert. "I take this opportunity to reply to some objections made to holding this concert," he said. "A number of people have said that Belgium must be glutted with food, and that they have already given to the patriotic fund. London has given nobly to the patriotic fund. However, all that we have given or will give, is nothing to what those at the front have sacrificed." (Applause). "The women at home have sacrificed their peace of mind. The anxiety of waiting at home for news of loved ones at the front must be excruciating. Let no one hide behind the argument that he has already given a few paltry dollars to the patriotic fund.

Honor Patriotic Women.

Mr. White also declared that all honor should be given to the Red Cross Society, the Daughters of the Empire and all other women who were giving clothing and food to the poor of the city. He also thanked the owners of the Majestic Theatre who had given the building free of charge for the concert, and T. W. Logan, manager of the Majestic, who had done all in his power to make the concert a success.

Accompanied by the First Hussars Band, the concert opened with the large audience singing "O Canada." The band, under the direction of Roselle Pocock, excelled itself, all the selections being heartily applauded, especially the overture from William Tell. F. W. Robins received an excellent reception in his solo, "La Brabanconne," the Belgian national anthem. Mr. Robins has an exceedingly pleasing voice.

Good Solo Work.

W. A. McCutcheon, soloist of St. Andrew's Church, was heard to advantage in his solo, "The Men of Harlech." Chris Pink, who is also a soloist in St. Andrew's Church, sang the French national anthem, "The Maseillaise." He was in his usual splendid voice.

The audience joined in the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" during the evening. The concert closed with the national anthem.

HUGHES SAYS HE KNOWS THE PLOT

Toronto Invasion Panic Created to Mulct City of Funds.

[Canadian Press.]

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—"As long as I am minister of militia, and my friend, Col. Wilson, is in command here, there will be no mobilization of the troops in Montreal, unless for very good cause," declared Major-General the Honorable Sam Hughes to a Gazette interviewer, on his arrival in Montreal tonight.

"This whole talk of German invasion through the United States is sheer insanity," said Gen. Hughes. "It has put people from the Niagara frontier to the eastern townships into a panic, which seems to have emanated from Toronto, and it is time some one put a stop to it.

"These stories have been manufactured for a purpose," declared General Hughes. "These rumors were going around Toronto while the home guard there was needing money for rifles and outfits. Then the mobilization of the troops started a panic amongst the citizens. The council at once granted $100,000 for rifles and equipment—and then the rumors suddenly ceased. I have received letters explaining the whole thing, and when necessary they will be exposed. But I will not stand for any such manoeuvres. It is too serious a thing to stampede the people into an absurd panic, and I will not allow it. I have been attacked by a Toronto afternoon paper and by a writer on it who has slugged every decent man in public life. I expect nothing else from him, and should be disappointed if he did not try to slug me, too; but I will not tolerate the creation of panics amongst the people by such insanity."

D. O. E. BANQUETS PRESS MINSTRELS

Entire Troupe Sits Down To Appetizing Spread In Hyman Hall.

MR. C. H. STUBIG HONORED

Presented With Cane as Mark of Esteem of Advertiser Editorial Staff.

When the final curtain had been rung down on the minstrel show given by Advertiser staff men and their friends, Saturday, the entire troupe adjourned to Hyman Hall, where the members were tendered a banquet by the Lord Elgin Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, under whose auspices the show was staged for the benefit of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Home cooking featured the bill-of-fare, and the members of the chorus did ample justice to the good things set before them on long, artistically decorated tables.

Shortly after the banquet opened Mr. Joseph Mitchelltree, interlocutor of the company, on behalf of The Advertiser staff, presented Mr. Carl H. Stubig with a cane as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by those connected with the editorial department of the paper.

A large bouquet of mums, was presented to Mr. Stubig over the footlights from the Press Club during the show.

In extending his thanks to the staff, Mr. Stubig asked that a resolution of thanks be passed to the Liberal Club for its donation of Hyman Hall for practices. The resolution was adopted unanimously. Appreciation for their patronage, was extended to the Daughters of the Empire and to the soldiers who took part in the tableau at the end of the first part. Mr. Stubig's reply was greeted with deafening applause.

After that Mr. James Cresswell's orchestra, which had offered its services gratis, swung into the songs sung by the end men at the performances. Each was called on and the entire assemblage joined in on the chorus.

Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Kingsmill, Captain and Mrs. E. M. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Heaman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred White, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MEMBERS OF DUMA INVOLVED IN PLOT

Police Raid Secret Meeting and Make Arrests—Anti-War Agitation.

PETROGRAD, via London, Nov. 22.—The police have discovered a revolutionary plot in which several members of the Duma are implicated. A number of arrests have been made. The semi-official statement says:

"At the beginning of the war most of the Russian people, conscious of the necessity of defending the dignity and integrity of the Fatherland, were unanimous in assisting the authorities in the accomplishment of the tasks incurred by the operation of war. An altogether different attitude was observed by some members of the Social Democratic Association, who continued an activity aiming at the downfall of Russia's military power by means of anti-war agitation, the distribution of secret proclamations and the conducting of propaganda by word of mouth.

"The Government in October last learned of a plan to convoke a secret conference of delegates of the Social Democratic Organization, to discuss matters aiming at the ruin of the Russian state and the speedy realization of revolutionary plans.

Police Raid Meeting.

"On November 17 the police discovered that a meeting of the said conference was to be held in a house in Viborg Road, eight miles from Petrograd. A detachment of police arrived on the scene and found there eleven persons, including the following members of the Duma: M. M. Petrovsky, Badayeff, Mouranadd, Samoilloff and Chagoff.

"There being no doubt as to the anti-Government object of the conference the members of the meeting were arrested after a search, with the exception of the members of the Duma who were released. An examining magistrate was entrusted with the enquiry and immediately examined the documents seized in the raid, the magistrate drafted an indictment against all the members of the conference, under Article 102 of the penal code, and issued warrants for their arrest."

STRUGGLE CONTINUES

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 23.—By Wireless to Sayville, L. I.—Army headquarters today gave out an official report dated November 22, which reads as follows:

"In the western arena of the war the situation remains unchanged.

"In Poland the fighting continues, and the struggle is going on to the south of Plock, in the vicinity of Lodz, and near Geenstochau."

The general staff of the German army, referring to important operations in Poland now nearing a decisive outcome, announced today that it considered the situation everywhere favorable.

STEEL MILLS REOPEN; 2,000 MEN EMPLOYED

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23.—Two thousand men who were thrown out of work early last spring returned to their employment at the South Chicago plant of the Illinois Steel Company today, when the rail and structural mills were reopened.

The superintendent says the mills will be running to capacity within a few weeks.

RUSSIANS OBTAIN PARTIAL SUCCESS

Battle Between the Rivers Continues With Great Persistance.

AUSTRIANS DRIVEN BACK

Compelled by the Russians To Evacuate Novy-Sandez.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 22.—The following report from general headquarters was issued tonight:

"The fighting between the Vistula and the Warthe continues with great persistance. We have obtained some partial successes.

"The fights on the front of Czenstochowa-Cracow have resulted in no essential changes. We have taken 2,000 prisoners and some machine guns.

"In Galicia the Austrians have evacuated Novy-Sandez under the pressure of our troops."

An official communication issued from general headquarters last night says:

"The fighting between the Vistula and Warta, and on the Cracow-Czenstochowa front continues.

"In East Prussia yesterday only desultory firing occurred. In Eastern Galicia the Russian troops are still advancing."

STILL FIGHTING FOR THE VICTORY.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—(By wireless to London).—An official communication issued today by the German General Army Headquarters, says:

"In the eastern war theatre the situation remains unchanged. In Poland we still are fighting for victory. The fighting south of Plock and at Czenstochowa continues."

AUSTRIA ALSO CLAIMS SUCCESS.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—(Via London, Nov. 23.—12:45 a.m.)—The following official communication was issued here today:

"We and our ally continue our attacks successfully in Russian Poland. Several counter-attacks by the enemy have been repulsed. So far, the Austro-Hungarian troops have captured 15,000 prisoners.

"An important battle is passing west of Donajec (Galicia), and in the Carpathians."

GERMANS CANNOT ADVANCE FARTHER.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 22.—The German column between the Warta and Vistula Rivers, according to today's official reports from Russian Poland, comprises six army corps, and presents a front 50 miles in extent. The two rivers prevent flanking by either side, hence the fighting consists of straight frontal attacks, in which the losses of both armies are heavy, but neither side so far has been able to gain a marked advantage.

The Germans, military observers contend, cannot advance further in this region since the Russian concentration, which was delayed by bad roads and lack of railroads, is now completed.

Dispatches received in Petrograd from Tiflis, Transcaucasia, explain that the halt in the Russian advance toward Koprykoi was due to the discovery that an entire Turkish army was massed at Erzerum. The Russians are contenting themselves, it is said, with holding their positions, while awaiting reinforcements.

LEAVE CRACOW OR BE SHOT.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The military governor of the Austrian fortress of Cracow has published a decree, says a dispatch from Rome to the Havas Agency, warning the civilians that if they do not quit the city they will be courtmartialed and shot. The decree says:

"As the civil population of Cracow is not obeying with sufficient punctuality the order for the evacuation of the city, the Government warns those who are slow in obeying that they will be courtmartialed, and that they will suffer the death penalty."

As a result of the ordinance, the dispatch adds, approximately 50,000 Poles took immediate flight in all directions.

According to news received at Athens today from Constantinople, says a dispatch to the Havas News Agency, a large part of the Turkish garrison at Adrianople has been transported to Trebizond, Asiatic Turkey, where the soldiers have pillaged the stores of Christians. Three of the Christians are reported to have been killed.

PRZEMYSL LACKS AMMUNITION.

ROME, via London, Nov. 22.—"Ammunition is beginning to fail the garrison at Przemysl, Galicia," says the Bucharest correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia. "The garrison attempted two sorties last week, Wednesday and Thursday, but both failed, the Austrians losing heavily.

"It is believed in Bucharest that the Russians desire to exhaust the means of defence before launching a general assault, probably at the beginning of December."

FROST AND SNOW IN BATTLE ZONE

Temperature in France and Belgium Only 25 Degrees Above Zero.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Freezing weather has set in throughout the length of the battle zone in France and Belgium, the temperature yesterday varying between twenty-five and twenty-eight degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. Snow is falling, especially in Northern France and in the Vosges mountains and also at Marseilles.

Eight German officers of the reserve medical corps, charged with the theft of wine and committed an orgy at the Chateau of Lizy, on September 9, where their ambulance was installed, have been convicted by a courtmartial sitting in Paris.

The chief German officer, who is also charged with failing properly to care for 135 wounded French, was sentenced to two years imprisonment. The others were sentenced to from six months to one year imprisonment.

CAPTURE GERMAN WAR TRAIN.

AMSTERDAM, via London, Nov. 22, 12:50 a.m.—The Sluis correspondent of the Rotterdamsche Courant has sent the following dispatch to his paper:

"Bruges is now garrisoned by a small force of sailors and marines. On Thursday the troops were dispatched to Middlekerke, south of which place heavy fighting was going on. The losses on both sides have been severe.

"The early winter has aggravated the misery among the soldiers and population. In the open country the troops are suffering terribly and the number of sick are increasing rapidly.

"The Allies have captured a German train laden with valuable war material near Ypres.

"Several inhabitants of Bruges have been arrested for alleged expression of displeasure at the policy of Germany.

"Shortage of coal is very serious throughout Belgium."

RAILWAYS CLOSING IN BELGIUM SIGNIFICANT

[Canadian Press.]

Amsterdam, Nov. 22—Via London, Nov. 23.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant has received a dispatch from Hasselt, Belgium, saying that the military authorities of Landen announced that railway communication with Gembloux, Quevy, Gembloux and Settrond would be stopped Sunday and Monday. Thielt announced that on the same day communication to the north and south would be interrupted.

It is supposed that this interruption of railway communication is in connection with a movement of troops to or from Germany. Recently troops arrived at Thielt from Huy.

SOLDIER'S ARREST ATTRACTS CROWD

Civilians Resented Arrest of a Tommy Atkins Sunday Afternoon.

HOTELMEN ARE WARNED

Lieut.-Col Wigle Says Too Much Liquor Is Sold to the Men.

As the result of the arrest of a private in the Eighteenth Battalion on Dundas street Sunday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle, commanding the battalion, stated to The Advertiser that hereafter if the volunteers were given liquor in a hotel after they had become intoxicated, he would order the hotel out of bounds.

Col. Wigle said that he intended to take up the matter with the license commission at once, in order to have the latter body issue an order to the hotelkeepers ordering them to be more strict in serving liquor to soldiers.

Difference of Opinion.

There was some difference of opinion between the policeman who arrested the private and the citizens who witnessed the arrest. The latter claimed the man could have been placed in charge of a number of his companions and taken to the barracks. Instead of that, although he appeared to be able to walk, he was chased by the policeman, and hauled for a block by the back of the neck. There the private showed that he was a first-class fighting man by refusing to go to the station. Two other officers were called upon, and they got him half a block further. But the patrol was called, and he was given a ride of half a block to the cells.

No Wish To Be Rough.

The police claim that they did not wish to handle the man roughly, but those who gathered cheered when the officers appeared to be unable to budge the soldier. There was a good deal of resentment displayed, though not by the other soldiers who were present. Civilians thought it a shame that a man who had volunteered to fight for his country should have been made the subject of a spectacle.

One man said the soldier was not drunk, but merely "acting up."

Col. Wigle said that he did not know the merits of the case, but hoped the local police would co-operate when possible with the military police. It was a simple matter to turn offenders over to the police of the battalion, and to have them taken to their barracks. He stated that the soldiers were subject to civil law.

The officers of the Eighteenth Battalion are daily impressing upon the men the necessity of proper conduct, and as a whole, the conduct of the men could not have been improved upon. The necessity for hotelmen to exercise care will be made quite plain if further cases of drunkenness are reported.

Will Protect Men.

Tomorrow morning Lieut.-Col. Wigle will take up the case of the private arrested by the police on a charge of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. Police Magistrate Judd turned the man over to the military authorities for a court-martial. There are conflicting stories about the soldier's arrest, some claiming he was given liquor when he had had enough, and others that the police made an unwarranted arrest.

In any event, Col. Wigle is determined to protect the soldiers, and he is now making some arrangements with the liquor license commissioners to keep a strong check upon hotelkeepers who violate this rule by giving drinks to soldiers after they have imbibed too freely.

The Deadly Parallel in Theatre Ads.

Advertiser Illustrations

(From a Detroit Newspaper.)

Advertiser Illustrations

(From a Local Newspaper.)

The above are photographic reproductions of advertisements appearing in a Detroit and a London newspaper concerning the recent appearance of "Mutt and Jeff" in the respective cities.

It will be seen that the attraction appeared in Detroit at prices ranging from 15 cents to 75 cents, and in London at from 25 cents to $1.

In Detroit the sum of 25 cents was charged for matinees, while in London the high figure was 75 cents.

This is the second instance of discrimination against local theatregoers that has been shown this season. In the other instance Lawrance D'Orsay played in St. Thomas and Toronto at $1 and in London at $1.50.

Local theatregoers have found it difficult to understand why "The Earl of Pawtucket" should be played at higher prices in London than in St. Thomas. Nor is it any more reasonable that "Mutt and Jeff" should play in Detroit at a third of the highest rate charged in London, as was the case at the matinee.

The latter attraction appeared in London for three days, and had not the excuse of a one-night stand to offer.

It was of "Mutt and Jeff" that the advance notices published in London said: "The one and only real musical comedy hit in the world of theatricals"—"small fortune for new scenery"—"costumes, story, music, and everything that goes to make the most elaborately, magnificent musical comedy the stage has ever held."

And to think that this greatest of attractions was given to Detroiters for a week of matinees for the small sum of 25 cents. The ways of the theatrical business are mysterious.

DON'T DISCRIMINATE IN CREEDS IS DR. FIKES' ADVICE TO MEN

Tells Men's Campaign Teams That Lord Isn't Going To Pick Out Methodists From Baptists—Good Start Is Reported.

"There was a fellow said to me he couldn't get out to the Majestic yesterday because he hadn't a clean collar. I told him that was no excuse, for I had three and I'd loan him one."

That was one of the remarks thrown out by the team-leaders at the Y. M. C. A. luncheon at noon today, when representatives of the 600 men in line, met to talk over the men's campaign.

There is nothing sentimental about it. It's straight-away business methods, the methods of a man who's selling a line he believes in down to the bottom of his soul.

"West London has been districted, and house-to-house canvassed. We've left literature and got promises to attend from almost everyone," was another report.

"A man came to me and told me he was in the wrong pew," said another worker. "He was on a team, but he felt he ought to be the objective of somebody else's efforts. He took up the work without realizing."

But now that he has realized, he's seizing his opportunity just as he'd snap up anything else that had suddenly come to be the best line in sight.

6 a.m. Prayer Meeting.

"We have a prayer meeting at the City Mission at 6 a.m.," said the superintendent; "everybody welcome."

"The Lord Jesus isn't going to bother picking out a Methodist from a Baptist," said Dr. Fikes, introduced as the luncheon speaker. "And I don't believe you need to do it down here. When you are reporting say you're doing it for Team 1, Team 2, etc. Don't say your church number. Who cares?

"Let's be thankful for what we have and what we are and what we can do. Just forget you're anything but a man, one of six hundred. And don't be like a horse that'll drive single, but won't go in double harness. It'll be the team work that'll count.

"You can't sell goods or do anything else half so easy as you can pick a man for Christ. And believe me, when you've got the first one, you'll be right after men from then on. Don't look for the stranger 'round the corner or down in a slum. Go for your own friend. He believes in you, he trusts you. Lead him to Christ. Make him read the gospel according to you. And see that it's a good one.

Begin With Yourself.

"Show this town what a Christian man can be. And begin with yourself. In the next two weeks it's possible to absolutely transform this city.

"It's no holiday excursion from the cradle to the grave. The blood of men as they touch you in the thoroughfare is on your hands, if you don't warn them of what you believe to be true, if you don't bring them what you consider to be the greatest thing in the world."

The teams will meet every day this week at lunch to talk over the campaign.

G. N. W. Shoe Company, Wiped Out by Fire, Secures Bigger Building.

IN LARGER aolf f wyatoivbgetkaoioo

Within two weeks the C. N. W. Shoe Company, whose plant on Bathurst street was destroyed by fire some weeks ago, will open up again in a much larger way than before the fire. It has secured premises in the chicle plant building erected by the Gorman-Eckert Company at the Grand Trunk and Rectory street. The new building is 100 by 45 feet, and will allow the company to expand. In the old building only 50 hands could be accommodated. This number will be increased in the new one.

All the machinery is now in place, and only the completion of a heating plant prevents an immediate start, according to the directors of the company.

NEARING COMPLETION

New Organ of First Methodist Church a Wonderful Instrument.

What is sure to be of interest, not only to musicians in this city and vicinity, but to all music lovers in this part of Ontario, is the fact that the new organ in the First Methodist Church is rapidly nearing completion. This fine instrument will have embodied in it some of the very latest ideas in organ construction; a real echo organ, harp stops, and numerous other innovations, which will go to make it one of the finest organs in Canada. The action is electrical throughout, and every part of the huge instrument is readily controlled by the operator at the consol. The exact date for the opening has not been set, but will be announced shortly. Meanwhile practices are being held every Tuesday evening so that the "Messiah," which will be given on the occasion of the opening will be well done. Persons desirous of joining the chorus should apply to the secretary before the Tuesday evening practice.

BOTH PARTIES

a few hours before he made his report to the board of control, and also had refused to loan him a copy of the voters' list.

Continuing, Professor Bowman said: "Mr. Grant has deliberately disenfranchised a great many people by cutting their names out of this petition, and we know that some of them at least are entitled to vote. Considering the length of time taken for the inspection of the list, we feel that the result should have been more nearly correct."

Defies Proof of Charge.

Mr. Grant resented the suggestion that he had been "one-sided," and very warmly "defied anyone to prove such a charge." He had made an inspection of the list according to his instructions.

The mayor opined that the method in which the inspection had been carried out was open to some criticism. Mr. Grant, he thought, should have ordered the appearance before him, as he had the power to do, of those people of whose names he was not certain, and should have examined these with a view to determining definitely whether they were eligible to vote.

Professor Bowman again raised the objection that many of the names on the voters' list were repeaters. If these were to be included in the total of the list, the repeaters on the petition should have been allowed to stand, which they were not. He was told that the solicitor would be asked for an opinion on this point.

Both sides will have an opportunity to scrutinize the re-examination of the petition and to confer with the commissioner as to points they desire to establish.

ZOUAVE'S BRAVERY BEAT THE ENEMY

Held in Front of German Advance, He Called For Volley.

FRENCHMEN RESPONDED

Volley Laid Low the Germans and Killed the Heroic Prisoner.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Nov. 23.—4:10 p.m. — There was given out semi-officially in Paris this afternoon the following recital:

"The other day in Belgium a German column was advancing to attack the forest of Brie, defended by a detachment of Zouaves. Our men noticed that before them the Germans forced a Zouave prisoner, and at the same time they heard cries of "Stop firing!"

"For an instant our riflemen and the men in charge of our machine guns hesitated. Then from the German ranks they heard the voice of the Zouave prisoner, who called to them: "Shoot —it, tires donc, nom de Dieu!" There then flashed out from the ranks of the Zouaves a general discharge of rifles and machine guns.

"This fire laid low the assailants of the Zouaves, and with them fell the heroic soldier whose devotion made it passible for his countrymen to checkmate the ruse of the enemy.

"If the name of this brave man is unknown, at least his regiment will retain forever the remembrance of his sacrifice, whic his equal to any of the most courageous personal incidents recorded in our glorious history."

SQUIRE LACEY LIVED IN LONDON 44 YEARS

Squire Robert F. Lacey, for many years a well known figure in municipal affairs in West London, prior to its incorporation with the city of London, and of late years at the court house, where he had charge of the county crown attorney's office, died on Sunday. For 44 years he had been a resident of this city and enjoyed a wider range of acquaintances than even the majority of men who have lived here that length of time.

His municipal activity and his business connection made him exceptionally well known. For 27 years he was a justice of the peace, and his long session on the bench made him unique in the lists of J. P.' of the London district. Up until eleven years ago he was in the wholesale leather business.

Surviving Squire Lacey are his wife, three daughters, Mrs. J. H. Watt, Mrs. W. D. Quigley and Mrs. George Stead; one brother, Enos, all of London, and one sister, Mrs. Trevott, of England.

The funeral will be held from the residence of W. D. Quigley, 43 Riverview avenue, South London, at 3:30 o'clock on Tuesday. Interment will be made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Services will be conducted by Rev. T. Wesley Cosens, of Empress Avenue Church.

LIEUT. BRIGGS

ped into the town, severely damaging several houses and killing a woman and a man.

Markmanship Good.

The marksmanship of the British airmen was exceptionally good, considering the great height at which they were flying, and after the two bombs had dropped into the streets many persons fled to cellars and other places, where they fancied they would be safer than in the streets.

One of the airmen, Lieut. Briggs, apparently realized that not much could be done by dropping bombs from such a height, and the German report gives him credit for making a "fearless attempt to cross the hangars at a height of only a quarter of a mile." They considered this fearless, as they knew that it would mean almost certain death to the aviator. But Lieut. Briggs bravely took the chance. After circling down like a hawk about to seize its prey, his aeroplane glided across the hangars within easy range of the powerful aeroplane guns mounted on the hangars and on buildings near them.

Took Big Chance.

An avalanche of shells was hurled at him. They burst all about him, each concussion rocking the wings of his machine. But he fearlessly continued, and as he was above the hangars he dropped two or three bombs.

The heart of every German was in his throat, expecting to see the giant Zeppelins, being made ready for an invasion of England, blown to pieces. But the speed of Lieut. Briggs aeroplane was so great that the bombs missed their mark and exploded a distance from the sheds, doing small damage.

While his aeroplane was over the hangars, and as it was being rocked and dipped by the explosion of shells near it, a fragment of a shrapnel shell pierced the British airman's gasoline tank. The spilling gasoline caught fire, possibly from other shells bursting near it, and Lieut. Briggs, with his aeroplane on fire, realized that he could not escape.

Gasoline on Fire.

With his power thus cut off he could do nothing but volplane, and as he glided down to the earth he unstrapped his heavy revolver. As the wounded and burning aeroplane landed, only three hundred feet from the Zeppelin hall, Lieut. Briggs hopped out and prepared to fight to the death.

He was alone, and his enemy was the German army. The two other airmen, after dropping all the bombs they carried, had flown away across the lake and toward the lines of the Allies.

Soldiers ran from the Zeppelin wharf toward Lieut. Briggs. He waited calmly until they were within range of his pistol and then he opened fire. The German report fails to state what damage he did with his revolver, but they give him full credit for his valor.

Only when a German bullet had hit his head and knocked him senseless was he taken prisoner.

The officer was carried by Germans to a hospital, and so great was the admiration of the enemy for his valor and his heroic and hopeless defence that it is understood the best of treatment is being accorded to him.

NO ACTION YET ON SHORT TERM BONDS

Controllers "Pass Up" Question of Their Issue On City Solicitor's Advice.

The question of issuing a short-time city bonds to take care of immediate debenture expenditure will be left over for the present. The board of control decided this today on the advice of Mayor Graham, who stated that the city solicitor had asked him to suggest this course of action, as he (the solicitor) believed he could obtain better terms than had been offered up to the present.

A letter from the local board of health, calling attention to the fact that the King street sewer occasionally overflows near the London Foundry, was laid over, pending a conference with Willis Chipman, the contractor. The controllers thought the board of health was "butting in," as the sewer in question had been authorized by the Provincial Board of Health after inspection of the plans.

A question asked by one of the controllers at a previous meeting as to whether a gasoline tank under the boulevard in front of a new garage at the corner of Colborne and Dundas streets was being built, and whether the owners had authority to do so, was referred to the building inspector, and the latter reported that no permit for a tank had been issued. He did not report, however, that the tank was being or had been built, and, although Controller Rose declared that this was so, the matter was referred back to the building inspector for a statement on the subject.

Wants Clean Chimney.

The fire chief reported that his men spent several hours last night trying to extinguish a burning chimney, and had used the contents of several chemical extinguishers before the fire finally was subdued. He suggested that some means be taken to compel proper cleaning of chimneys. The board asked him to preparea report, covering the last three years, relative to the prevalence of chimney fires.

It was decided not to take any action with regard to the petition asking for commission government. The mayor thought that as the questions of the abolition of the board of control and reversion to the ward system were to be submitted to the electors, another issue might complicate the question.

Robert Ross wrote asking for a sewer on Gray street, but on action was taken.

Bill for Ex-Alderman.

A communication from the Provincial Board of Health stated that investigation showed that ex-Ald. Edward Johnston was responsible for the nuisance constituted by the maintenance of an insanitary flooded property at Trafalgar street and Anderson avenue, which was abated on the order of the board at a cost of $448.91. He will be billed for this amount.

Authority was received from the railway board to construct a roadway crossing the Grand Trunk tracks at Ashland avenue.

EARLY CLOSING OF INLAND NAVIGATION

Department To Lift Buoys Soon On Account of Cold Weather.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—The early closing of inland navigation is expected by the Canadian marine department. Last year open weather enabled ships to run, and buoys were left in place until very late in the year.

The early arrival of cold weather this year will compel the department to lift buoys very soon, and once the guides for ships are gone navigation is at an end.

R. F. Stupart, director of the Canadian meteorological service, who was here recently, stated that in his opinion winter had now come to stay.

INSURANCE UNDECIDED

Protection for Second Contingent Men Still Problematical.

The insurance of the soldiers of the second contingent is still an open question, and all the indications are that nothing will be decided for some time to come. The mayor said that on Saturday, H. J. McEvoy, the agent of the State Company, who had been acting for it here, had told him that the company's offer would expire that day at noon. Since then, however, he had had a letter from the Toronto office which had the effect of leaving the matter open still.

He went on to say that he understood that Toronto had practically decided not to insure its second contingent men at all, and that if this turned out to be the case, the Metropolitan Company, which was tied up with Toronto, might be glad to handle the business of London and other places. In the meantime he suggested approaching the State with a proposal to reserve insurance for 150 men to go into effect only when they are sent to the front. This was agreed to.

WANTS BAND TO MEET GENERAL HUGHES HERE

Divisional Officer Changes Plans in Reference to the Reception of Sammy.

In view of the short time that Major-General Sam Hughes, minister of militia and defence, will have in the city, it is now being planned to have the Eighteenth Battalion and the company of field artillery under Lieut.-Col. Brown drawn up in Victoria Park Wednesday, when Major-General Hughes arrives here. This plan was suggested today by Col. W. E. Hodgins, who also feels that Major-General Hughes ought to be received with a band and a special guard of one captain, one subaltern, two sergeants and 50 men in honor of his first visit to London as senior major-general in command of the Canadian forces.

If this plan is found to be impossible, the original one of having a guard of 100 men, which was announced Sunday, will be reverted to.

Major-General Hughes will get in on the C. P. R. shortly after 11 o'clock, and leave again at 2. In view of this short stay it was deemed advisable to have the battalion and the battery drawn up in the park, where Major-General Hughes could give them a cursory inspection. Official approval of this plan is now being awaited.

WOULD PLACE ALL WIRES UNDERGROUND

Controllers Petition Commissioners to Force All Companies' Wires Into Conduits.

The Board of Control decided today to petition the Dominion Railway Board and the Provincial Hydro Commission for power to order the placing of all electric wires underground in the downtown sections, where conduits have been built already on Richmond street, from the Grand Trunk tracks to Fullarton street, and on Dundas street, from Wellington to Ridout.

The city solicitor was asked some time ago for an opinion as to the city's power in this connection, and reported that in his opinion the various companies could be compelled to take their poles and wires off the streets and put the latter underground. Hamilton, he reported, had appealed successfully to the railway board for such power.

It was pointed out that the Bell Telephone Company and the local hydro department already had conduits built with feeders into each property and that practically the only difficulty would be with the C. P. R. and G. N. W. telegraph companies, and the London Electric Company. The matter, the controllers thought, should be taken up while the two former concerns were making changes to their offices.

Change The Vibration It Makes For Health

A man, at odds with his stomach, tried leaving off his usual diet, and adopted a breakfast of and cream.

Grape-Nuts

His health began to improve for the reason that once in a while one will reach a place where the system becomes clogged and the machinery doesn't work smoothly.

A change of this kind puts aside bulky food of low nutritive value and takes up food of the highest value—partly pre-digested and quickly changed into good, rich blood and healthy tissue.

A few weeks' use of Grape-Nuts food gives one a degree of nervous strength and comfort well worth the trial.

"There's a Reason"

Read letter to right.

A DRUMMER'S TALE.

They Sometimes Tell True Ones.

A quarter of a century "on the road" gives one some knowledge of hotel life and the old drummer's experience with food is worth listening to.

"After 25 years' service as a commercial traveller, with its vicissitudes, I found myself, about a year ago, very much the worse for wear.

"At that time I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia, my appetite was poor and I could not sleep, finally reaching a state bordering on complete breakdown.

"As medicine had failed utterly to help me I was forced to look into the diet end of it, and what I learned induced me to try a course of Grape-Nuts and cream.

"When it was not on the bill of fare I asked for it and usually got it; so for several months I made my complete breakfast on Grape-Nuts with now and then a bit of toast.

"Improvement commenced immediately and has kept up steadily, and now my general health is fine, better than it has been for years, and I attribute the improvement to the use of Grape-Nuts.

"I have proved in my own case this food is perfect for stomach and nervous troubles, and can recommend it to all my fellow commercial tourists."

Name given by Canadian Postum Company, Windsor, Ont.

Although Grape-Nuts is not always on the bill of fare, nearly every hotel has it in the kitchen, and the guests can get it if called for.

"There's a reason" why Grape-Nuts restores health and strength.

DERNBURG AGAIN.

BERNARD DERNBURG, former Minister of the German Colonies, or, to be exact, former Minister of the former German colonies, presents Germany's claims as against England's claims as written some weeks ago in the Saturday Evening Post. This American weekly has conducted a series of semi-official statements from France, Britain and Germany.

Dernburg, who has acted as the Kaiser's publicity agent, has made several false moves in the United States and in the present article he seeks to touch the sympathies of the American people by lauding the German past and damning the British by charges of brutal aggression and colony-grabbing. He maintains that the English are making catspaws of their colonial peoples and of their allies. He would have Americans believe that Canada was dragged into the struggle and that her men are going to war unwillingly, a falsity which needs no comment. He says Germany has indisputable evidence in the form of private letters that Britain intended to strike at Germany through Belgium. The evidence is completely lacking. He claims Germans have paid no attention to Bernhardi, Nietzsche or Trietschke. They were all mere faddists of whom the Germans thought as the English think of George Bernard Shaw. Yet the German university training is strongly fashioned upon the philosophy of the three.

But the finest touch of Dernburg's logic is when he says:

"Those who cite Deutschland, Deutschland Ueber Alles as a proof of German aspirations do not know even the first lines of this song so dear to the Germans. It is a song of modesty and shows better the tendencies of the German nation than anything else could.:

Germany, Germany above everything,
May her sons ever stand united for defence and protection.
From the Maas unto the Memel.
From the Etsch unto the Belt
Germany, Germany above everything,

What a shinking, modest little national hymn it is! "Germany above everything in the world!" If that single line is not barbaric and Bernhardiish enough for neutrals they will have to look back to Belgium to get the full smash of it. And we do not believe that the Americans regard the inference of "Germany above everything," including the United States, as proving the use of the word "modesty" in this article.

Dernburg's clincher is when he suggests the British navy as the real menace to American democracy. We fancy the Americans have a sneaking admiration for this "menace" as it has been very convenient in the keeping open of trade routes and in safeguarding Americans who were on the wrong side of the ocean when trouble started.

The German diplomat repeats his assurances that the Kaiser respects the Monroe doctrine and that America is safe. His condescension is born of the hour, for Germany long before, when she hadn't quite so much trouble on hand, officially sneered at the protective bond of the western hemisphere.

WHICH IS THE HEATHEN?

THE Emperor of Germany is pleased to call himself the chosen of God and to destroy cathedrals and stage a new St. Bartholomew's Eve in the name of the Almighty. His every act is credited or blamed upon divine guidance.

The Premier of Japan is regarded by the world as the leader of a pagan nation. His nation's method of warfare has never been marked by horrible cruelties, even in the days when it was centuries behind Germany. But it is only natural to expect "non-Christian" philosophy from such a race.

Yet the Premier of Japan said the other day:

"It will be our one ambition at this time to show the West what it is slow to believe, that we can work harmoniously with great occidental powers to support and protect the highest ideals of civilization, even to the extent of dying for them. . . . She entered the alliance with Great Britain to stand and die for what Anglo-Saxons are everywhere ready to defend, even unto death. It is Japan's aim and ambition to participate in all world-movements toward noble diplomacy, international relations and the principle of equal opportunity and peace, and to prevent by proper means the outbreak and continuance of bloodshed between nations. Japan's relation to the present conflict is as a defender of the things that make for higher civilization and a more permanent peace."

This display of the highest ideals is not a new thing for Japan. Her statesmen have been laying down the principles of sane diplomacy, and have recently foresworn any intention of aggression in the Pacific, nullifying the American Jingoes' anti-Japan propaganda to such an extent that one hears nothing of it at a time when one might expect to see the United States preparing for an attempted invasion by the little brown man.

Recently the Emperor of Germany said:

"Soldiers, you have God Almighty with you. Whatever acts this war may cause, the cause is supported by the greatest Power of all, and He has strengthened my hand."

Armed with such authority, the German soldier has felt that the rankest brutality has been justified by God, and that his Christian religion reaches its highest attainment when he slays unarmed fellow human beings, and allows his animal passions to guide him in the name of Christianity.

Which is the real heathen, the Emperor of Germany or the Premier of Japan? Perhaps the Lord disregards those who claim his especial partnership, and pays some attention to the so-called pagan nations.

JOFFRE'S WAY.

GENERAL JOFFRE has made good. Military experts the world over are now agreed that the supreme chief of the Allies has conducted the campaign up to date with unusual brilliance. His masterly retreat before the German plunge towards Paris, his turning at just the right moment and rolling up of the Prussian advance, and the tenacity and skill with which he has held the Kaiser's armies in check since, stamp him one of the greatest military leaders of modern times.

One of the notable features of his campaign has been his conservation of life. He is reported to have stated recently that if he wished to sacrifice a great number of his men he could drive the Germans out of France. As he is a man of exceptional reticence, like Kitchener, who talks only when he has something to say that is of importance, this statement cannot be considered as a mere boast. Even a casual glance at the situation will show, however, that it does not seem necessary at the present moment to drive the Germans out of France and Belgium. There is every reason to believe, as Joffre has declared, that the allied armies are now at sufficient strength to push the invader back to his own soil, but isn't the waiting game the best policy for the Allies?

As has so frequently been pointed out, the Allies are acting as the anvil to the Russian hammer, and what more important than that the anvil should be held rigid for the terrific blows. At tremendous cost in life, ammunition and exhaustion, the Kaiser for a month has been hurling his armies at the allied line, and on the whole has lost rather than gained. The Germans are being held where they are at a terrific cost in men and morale to themselves, while the Muscovite steamroller gets straightened away for Berlin. Joffre would require to sacrifice heavily in order to drive the enemy from France at the present moment, but there is no immediate necessity of it. Meanwhile, he is sapping the German strength, and this will tell enormously when the Russian onslaught has reached its full sweep.

CALL A CONVENTION.

LIBERAL POLICIES have been so uniformly sound and attractive that the members of the party have often believed good policy in itself sufficient. But events of the last few years have proven that organization is quite as important and Liberals are awakening to the fact that the only thing that keeps them out of power is lack of mid-season work, such as the holding of conventions.

At the present time, the rival party in this district is holding conventions and selecting candidates in anticipation of a general election, and events have shown that the present government will not hesitate to appeal to the country at the opportunity. Quietly the workers are now preparing to bring their organization into operation at a moment's notice.

Now is the time that London should call a convention of Liberals for the selection of a candidate for the Dominion House. The man who is to redeem this city for the best leader the party has ever had should be early in the field. Then naturally an organization will gather about him. At the present time there is no organization and no candidate. This lassitude should not and will not win elections. The Liberals know the man they want to get behind in the next election, and if he is placed before the people at the present time, hopes of victory will be greater than ever.

And if there was ever a time when the country was ready for leaders who stay at home during a crisis and master the situations that confront them, the present is that time.

Let the next Dominion election in this city be an election, not merely a political contest.

GERMAN ARGUMENTS.

THE arguments of the Germans for themselves are a constant wonder to the rest of the world. That a people so intelligent and civilized should have become so utterly possessed by Prussianism and the philosophy of brute force is marvel enough. But the arguments for the onslaught on France and Belgium, the attempts to make anybody believe that this is a German war of defence, are so mixed, contradictory and childish, that even without the published facts in British and Belgian Government papers, the world-public has no trouble in perceiving the truth through such clumsy disguise, and is lost in amazement at the spectacle of general frenzy and mendacity.

Now and then a lucid moment of almost candor comes over some German mind. Professor Munsterberg, for example, says that "nobody is to blame" for this war, it being open to both Russia and Germany to get all they could in the Balkans. Take this "might is right" view along with the enthusiastic boasts of Germans that their army is invincible and you have an outlook decidedly remote from defensive. There was no defence about their war last August, but it is becoming for the Kaiser a matter of serious defence now, with Cracow about to fall and perhaps Koenigsberg or Danzig. The rush through Belgium was not for self-preservation, but the German nation will yet expiate right in Belgium the iniquity of its ruling caste. As John Burroughs says:

"We saw the vast military power of Germany loosened, as if it had long been straining at the leash, as it had; we saw it eager and ready—the readiness that is the fruit of long premeditation and preparation. It was as clear as daylight that it felt the thrill and the joy of its predetermined mission."

Set against this opinion of the greatest living American writer the philosophy of Herr Naumann, a prominent German Radical. He says, according to the London Times, that the attack on Belgium is justified on the ground that a general process of world centralization is in progress today, from which no State has a right to remain aloof. Belgium has no right to stand in Germany's way of imposing a consolidated Pax Teutonica upon the world. With the usual Teutonic inability to see anything but his own immediate interests, Naumann finds that however Belgium may fit into other forms of present-day peace and centralization, if she doesn't fit into Germany's peculiar schemes in this regard, she deserves to be hanged, drawn and quartered.

How candid some of these outbreaks of quiet swinish egotism! How beautifully they harmonize with the semi-ethical, mock-righteous spasms of heated and defiant apology!

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The great German eagle has come to be regarded as a fairly good ground hog.

A few more inundations and they will be able to float a British battleship into Berlin.

Will London continue to leave open the six vodka shops against which petitions have been passed?

The Kaiser has bestowed the Iron Cross on the soldier who got nearest England. If he is wise, he will offer the decoration to the last German out of Belgium homeward bound.

George Bernard Shaw has been rapping the British Government and people through the American press. George always was a wizard at the publicity game. Must have a new play on the stocks.

Geneva is the one spot in Europe where men and women of all the warring nations meet and gamble and attend the theatre and fraternize. And mention of the war is "taboo" while one is in the home of the Red Cross. It is said that a great many lukewarm patriots of all nations are ensconced there.

Where is one leading American who has spoken in favor of the Germans? A person like Professor Munsterberg, of course, neither is American nor does he lead anybody. Where is a leading pro-German American newspaper? There is none. German sentiment is silent in the United States except in the German language.

Premier Flemming of New Brunswick has been found guilty of forcing money from a contractor who had a railway contract. The Conservative press doesn't seem to be the least bit horrified. It is getting to be quite the thing for the Liberals to show that provincial governments have a habit of collecting from their contractors.

IMMORTALITY.

[By Eric Ross Goulding.]

A poet dreamed and, dreaming, made a song;
Men laughed the poet and his song to scorn;
The poet, dreaming, went his way along
Neglected and forlorn.

There came a man of wealth and great repute,
Yea, one who had reached worldly eminence
Dazzling the throng which stood amazed and mute
And filled with reverence.

The great man died and with him, too, his fame;
Naught had he done to cheer man's earthly way;
The poet died, but men recall his name
And sing his song today!

MONEY.

[Kingston Standard.]

Money talks. It is beginning to shout now. The British rate of exchange is about normal, but that of Germany has gone down rapidly, and because, according to the New York Sun, of fears for "the future of Germany under a possible war indemnity." Bankers and financiers are not fools; they can generally judge which way the cat is going to jump, as well as "the dogs of war."

BLESSED.

[Detroit News.]

We laugh at everything he does,
And make excuses for the bad:
It seems as though his conduct was Designed, somehow, to make us glad.
And even in his naughty pranks
That make his mother fret and fuss,
Deep in our hearts we offer thanks
To Him who sent such care to us.

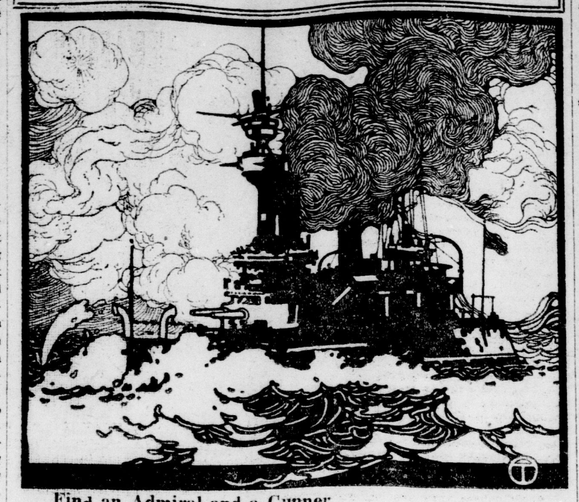

We like to have him clean, and yet
His dirty face and sticky hands
Cause not one pang of real regret,
We love him, just the way he stands.
The trouble that he leaves behind
Him everywhere the rascal goes,
We gladly bear, because we find
It is the sweetest of our woes.

He's just a baby! this the plea
That every hour we make for him.
Sometimes we wear for him to see
A look that's very stern and grim,
But back of it and deep within
The hearts of us there's boundless joy,
No matter what disgrace he's in,
We're glad we have a little boy.

And often when his mother sighs
At little wrongs that he has done,
I read this message in her eyes:
"How glad I am we have a son!"
By far the sweetest of her cares
That neither bitter are nor grim,
Are those that every day she bears
Because they all descend from him.

We are but children, after all,
Our sins are never really large;
Few of us God will have to call
To answer to a serious charge.
I like to think that He will see
His children as we see our own,
And care for us most tenderly
When all our little faults are known.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE WAR

TELL HOW THEY FIGHT.

[Montreal Mail.]

While no one has any patience with the senseless railing against the censorship of Lord Kitchener, everyone will concede the human sympathy and common sense, voiced by Lord Roberts, just before he died, that readers should be told how heroes fight and fall in the field of war. That much could be conceded without prejudice to the secrecy of strategic moves rendered necessary to keep the enemy in the dark.

UNEQUALLED.

[Stratford Herald.]

Major Louis L. Seams, an American officer who resigned his commission because he could not keep silent regarding the crimes against humanity which he beheld in Belgium, now in Europe representing the New York Independent, writes that paper and says: "I have participated as an observer in eight campaigns in almost every country in the world, but in none have I ever witnessed such exhibitions of atrocious barbarism as this war furnishes."

BRITAIN'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]

The board of trade's latest reports are the most impressive of all proofs of what we owe to the royal navy at this crisis. Our customs receipts from April 1 to the end of October are £74,000 more than in the corresponding period of last year and the total drop in revenue receipts is only a trifle over three and a half millions, for which the difficulty of realizing property in war-time is probably almost entirely responsible. And in the matter of unemployment things are on the up-grade. A month ago the percentage of unemployed was 5.11. A week ago it was 4.29. Today it is 4.16. The good hearts of the people are clearly rising to the occasion; but what could even they achieve but for the protection of the fleet?

KITCHENER'S TRIBUTE TO JOFFRE.

[New York World.]

When Lord Kitchener at the lord mayor's banquet spoke of Gen. Joffre as "not only a great military leader, but a great man," he was not uttering the ordinary compliments of the occasion.

In the last days of July the French commander-in-chief, if not an obscurity, at least was an unknown quantity. He had the rank and responsibility, but no one could say how he would meet the supreme test. Even today, personally Joffre remains a figure of mystery, but the great directing power that he exercises is felt every hour from Belfort to the Belgian coast. He has been the match of all the strategists of Germany at their own game, and shown himself a scientific soldier of the highest order.

Bavarian View of the Violation of Belgium's Neutrality

"We should not have violated the neutrality of Belgium. By so doing, we have lost many soldiers, we have lost precious time, and we have had no real profit of it." This is from the opinion of a member of the Bavarian Landtag, which has come into the possession of the London Times, and published at length in a recent issue of that journal. The opinion declares that from Alsace and Lorraine, in two weeks, we could have reached Paris, and nobody doubts that the French fortresses could have been as easily taken as those of Liege and Namur. Then by binding France to keep the peace, Germany and Austria could have turned and made victory over Russia sure.

The Prussian military party committed the mistake, and it is not their first one. In 1870 they insisted on taking Alsace and Lorraine and thereby perpetrating the enmity of France. But now the die is cast. We have mobilized five million soldiers; Austria three millions; we can together muster ten millions at the maximum, and we can easily move a million from front to front. Our enemies can at most muster six millions unless they bring reinforcements from the colonies. Belgium is now a corpse, and soon the north of France will also be a corpse. Not only Belgium, but also the northern part of France, especially Calais, must for ever remain German. It is impossible for the resident population of these parts to remain there. The situation will grow unbearable for France. Half a year of the present conditions will make the north of France a desert for twenty years. About England, it is not yet the time to speak. Everybody knows our intentions.

We were at one time afraid that the Socialists would be lukewarm, but happily it is not so. Our Social Democrats have dropped all their international theories, and do not give a fig for the foreign labor parties. Indeed, I am informed, says the Bavarian parliamentarian who does not like the Prussian militarists, that some of the German labor unions are putting forward the claim that the Belgian factories should be confiscated and turned over to the German co-operative unions. The Social Democrats instead of being opposed to the war are really in agreement with us.

The opinion concludes with a repetition of the imprudence of the Prussian military clique in forcing the unnecessary risk of violating the neutrality of Belgium.

The Power of Modern Bullets

The various bullets used by armies of civilized nations admit of being grouped in three classes. One of these classes of projectiles is called the reduced caliber, jacketed bullet. The second class includes the leaden balls in shrapnel and the blunt-nosed bullet formerly in use in the British army and subsequently used by the Servians. To the third class belong the expanding bullets, the soft-nosed bullet and the dum-dum bullet. Some authorities speak of the first class as the pointed bullet. It has less stopping power than the other two. The greater part of the nations of the world use the ogival bullet, a pointed bullet, whose tip forms an obtuse angle like an arch.

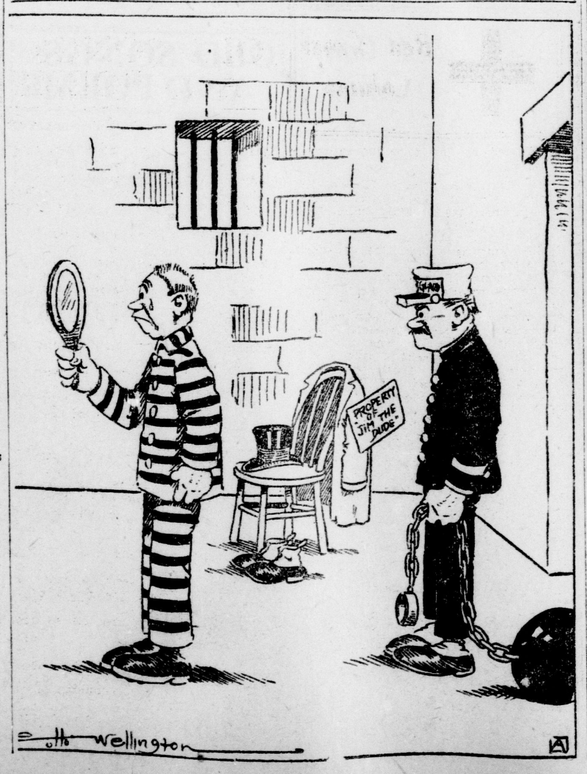

The two bullets now in use, the ogival and the blunt-nosed, have a rotary and a wabbling motion. On impact they produce a wound like that made by the blow of a hammer. This effect seems to be observed at all ranges, but particularly at 1,000 yards. Here the gyroscopic steadiness due to rotation is lost; the bullet may even turn on its axis and produce explosive effects. Lateral impact seems the only explanation of these explosive effects.

The unstable Japanese bullet, unstable because it is the lightest and smallest in use, makes at 800 to 1,000 yards perforations, which are large, with explosive exits, and in the soft viscera a wide track showing a great deal of laceration. These effects are probably the result of the bullet's course, which is a tangent to the curve of the trajectory. Before it takes a curve, at very short range, it has effects less severe, but here its stopping power is less. In this respect it is much inferior to the blunt-nosed bullet. The action of both these types of modern bullets on the human body would at first sight seem to be the same, but careful inspection of wounds during the Balkan war shows that wounds caused by the sharp-nosed German or Turkish bullet were on the whole more favorable for speedy healing than those caused by the blunt-nosed Servian bullet.

There is, however, a marked defect of the pointed bullet. The result of shaving off the tip and shoulder to a fine point is to throw the centre of gravity very far back; this peculiarity tends to make the bullet travel on its transverse axis. This effect increases wounding power by increasing the area of the wound.

The dum-dum bullet has a jacket and a core of lead, but its special quality is the projection of the lead beyond the mantle. When it strikes an object the soft lead spreads out in the shape of a mushroom, hence the bullet causes wounds that have great stopping power.

Voice of the People

Those Captured Turks.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

There has been a great deal said about the Turks at 427 Wellington street. They were brought here by one of London's businessmen, a friend of ours. They kept themselves clean and paid their way always. They ate at their own table. They came in the front or back doors, but they had no side door, as the only side entrance to this house is used by my son and his wife.

On Oct. 10, one man, Nomid Hassan, bought a rifle. He said he wanted to join the Businessmen's Rifle Association. I did not know anything of the ammunition. When I saw Turkey had entered the war, I advised him to get rid of the gun. I think I work as hard as most men in this city, and try not to give the authorities any trouble, but sometimes we get some rough characters. You know, Mr. Editor, that our country and towns are full of foreigners, and someone has to board them. Our own honorable Y. M. C. A. has foreigners which I refused to take in and board, but which I will never do again.

I am a Canadian and a citizen of London, of which I am proud. I am an old man, but would be the first to take up arms against an enemy of Canada or England. I remember some time ago of an English bishop who said Ontario would cease to be Ontario, because the women thought of nothing but five-cent shows and lapdogs.

A Case for Courtmartial.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Pte. W. J. Howlett, 133 Langarth street, member of A Company, Eighteenth Battalion, who had his nose broken and skull badly cut by a conductor of the street railway, in an altercation over a fare, should have his case tried by courtmartial. Any person interfering with our volunteer soldiers should be made to understand Canada is in a state of war, and they should be made pay the military penalty for interfering with Tommy Atkins. On the firing line this thing would be adjusted quickly, with one result. I don't see why the city of London can't give free access to our volunteers of the street railway line until the end of the war. There is nothing too good for our volunteers. Yours truly,

DAILY PAGE FOR ADVERTISER WOMAN READERS

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Who Said Johnny Cake?

Dear Miss Grey,—Am coming to you for assistance. First, would like a good receipt for cornmeal or Johnny cake.

2. I am somewhat of an amateur painter. Could you give me any information regarding the penetrating wood stain we see advertised? Is one application sufficient, and would the natural grain of wood show through it?

Hoping to see this in print soon, and thanking you in advance, I remain,

MOLLY.

Ans.—1. Johnny cake: Use 1 egg, ¼ cup sugar, little salt, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon cream tartar, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup white flour. Bake in a shallow pan in a quick oven.

2. Any of the hardwares handling the stain will show you samples of various woods and the effect of the stain on them. Full particulars as to the number of coats, etc., will be given as well.

In regard to your other queries, no doubt you would read the announcement which appeared in The Advertiser the other day.

Subjects For Debate.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you kindly publish a few subjects for debate, where those taking part are all young ladies?

Could you tell me if Dickens' Bardell vs. Pickwick breach of promise trial is published in play form, and where I could buy it?

Thanking you in advance, I remain, an interested reader of your column.

MAGELE.

Ans.—1. How would these answer: "Resolved, that Dickens' heroines are more interesting than Scott's"; "That it pays the country woman to make and sell her own butter"; "That painting is a higher art than music"; "That war is a greater evil than liquor"; "That coeducation is the best for young men and women"; "That a woman's share in home-making is the hardest."

2. I never heard that it was arranged in dialogue or play form. I should think that from the book you could get up a capital entertainment, writing out the lines for each character, with the proper cues.

Brother a Soldier.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am writing to ask you one thing, and that is something I would like to know very much. My brother is at the front, and I would like to know where to write to, so as I can send some Christmas gifts and letters to him. He is an Englishman; whereabouts in England would I write? Please answer soon. I will look for it in the paper. Good-bye. From L. H.

Ans.—You do not say if your brother is with the Canadian contingent or not, I presume, however, that he is, so you should address him, in care of his company, Canadian Contingent, Salisbury Plains, England. The letter will then be forwarded.

Perfuming the Hair.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you be so kind as to answer a few troublesome questions for me?

1. How do you perfume the hair? Do you put the perfume in the water when you wash it, or just sprinkle it on? Is it injurious to the hair?

2. When a person is thanked for a present, what should they say?

I have received many helpful hints from your column, among them that one about massaging the hair. It certainly works fine, doesn't it? Wishing the Mail-Box every success, and hoping my queries will arrive in safety to the Queen of Query Land, I remain, yours truly, OUR FLAG.

Ans.—1. Some wear a sachet of their favorite perfume, violet, rose, etc., inside the lining of their hat. This perfumes the hair nicely. Another way is to wear a sachet-lined cap—one of the dainty boudoir affairs—during sleeping hours.

2. Say whatever seems most suitable at the time. "I am glad you liked it," or something similar.

Glad you found the massaging helpful. I suppose the preparation you name is a cold cream. It will be best applied at night.

Three Recipes.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the first time I have come to you for help; enjoy your Corner so much.

1. Would like a recipe for dark layer cake with fruit in it.

2. Also one to make dark drop cakes.

3. A good fruit salad with dressing for same. SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—This recipe for "Prince of Wales" cake is a favorite with many housewives, as it keeps moist for a long time: 2 eggs, ¾ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup butter or shortening, ½ cup sour milk, 2 cups flour, pinch salt, 2 tablespoons blackstrap, lemon peel to taste, 1 cup chopped raisins, 1 large teaspoon soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons warm water. Bake in layers and ice.

2. The following recipe was sent by a reader. I can assure you as to its excellence:

Boston Cookies.—1 cup butter, 1½ cups brown sugar, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1½ tablespoons hot water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 3¼ cups flour, 1 cup chopped walnuts, ½ cup currants, ½ cup raisins. Beat well and drop from teaspoon. Bake in rather hot oven.

3. Fruit Salad.—Use pineapple cut in small bits, sliced bananas, white grapes cut in half, walnut meats broken in four pieces; arrange on lettuce leaves and pour a little of this dressing over the salad. Mix four tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon mustard, add ½ cup vinegar and ½ cup water to dry ingredients, and cook. It will be very thick. When ready to serve salad, add whipped cream to make it of the right consistency.

Gift For Soldier.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am coming to you again for help, and hope it will not be too much trouble to answer the following questions for me:

1. Will natural gas tarnish gold or silver?

2. What would be a suitable Christmas gift for a young man who is on military duty?

3. I would like name and address of a good cleaner of white kid gloves. I inclose stamped envelope for reply.

MISS B.

Ans.—1. Yes.

2. A pocket match box, a fountain pen, pair warm gloves, tooth brush case, strong pocket knife, with numerous blades.

3. The address you desire has been forwarded to you.

A Medley of Queries.

Dear Miss Grey,—A few more puzzling questions have come to me, and I am coming to you for help.

1. How long is it since the thirty-year war? What nations were engaged in it, and what was the cause of the war?

2. In what way is the King of England related to the Kaiser of Germany? Is Queen Mary a German?

3. By whom was slavery started in the United States? Was it introduced by the Germans?

4. Why do the colored people have separate churches to worship in? Are they not as good as white people if they are living good lives?

5. What is a necessary evil?

6. How many doctors are there in London?

Miss Grey, if anyone deserves a Christmas present, I think you do. I remain,

ONE OF THE QUIET PEOPLE.

Ans.—1. The thirty-years' war was fought in Germany 1618-1648. The causes in brief were these: By the treaty of Augsburg (1555) each of the German states was permitted to determine the nature of its national religion. All subjects were permitted to remove from states in which their religion was forbidden, to states in which it was officially sanctioned. But Protestantism continued in Catholic states, and Catholicity continued where it was prohibited. This resulted in turmoil and persecutions, one side against the other. In 1617, Protestant churches were closed in one or two places, and pulled down in others. Representatives of the Protestant church met in Prague, March 5, 1618, and petitioned the Emperor Matthias, who declared their meeting illegal. Protestant and Catholics alike, in all parts of South Germany then took up arms, and the strife which followed was not quelled until 1648, when by the treaty of Westphalia peace was declared.

2. First cousins. Queen Victoria's eldest daughter, Victoria, Princess Royal, married Frederick William of Prussia in 1858. Their son is the present Emperor of Germany. King George is, of course, the son of Edward VII., Queen Victoria's eldest son.

3. The first negro slaves sold to English colonists in the United States were brought by a Dutch vessel to Jamestown, Virginia, in 1619, but the English afterwards supplied the greater number, and continued the trade during the eighteenth century, despite increasing opposition on both sides the Atlantic.

4. Of course they are "as good," but there are race prejudices not easily overcome. Did it not strike you that they probably prefer to worship by themselves?

5. The term "necessary evil" is applied to something very disagreeable or painful, yet which must be borne. For instance, a student speaks of examinations as a "necessary evil." They are necessary to test the standing of the student, but are invariably very trying. Or again, an operation for appendicitis might be termed a "necessary evil," it may be "necessary" to save the patient's life, but is surely an "evil" to undergo.

6. Eighty physicians; 25 dentists.

Reads the Mail Box.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have just started to read your Mail Box the last few days, and I find it very interesting. Would miss it very much if I could not have it to read. Now for a few questions:

1. Could you please tell me what will remove blackheads from face?

2. What will keep hair from turning gray? It has just begun to turn. Something that will not injure the hair.

3. What will take ink stains from table linen?

4. What will remove superfluous hair from face or neck?

Hoping I have not bothered you too much, as this is my first letter to the Mail Box. Yours, KITTY.

Ans.—I suppose, Kitty, since you are a new reader, I shall have to forgive you for asking queries which have already been answered so many times in this column; our readers must almost know them by heart.

1. For blackheads, about the only remedy is keep the face clean. Wash every night with warm water and soap, scrubbing with a rough cloth; in the morning dash cold water well over the face and neck. After washing and drying the skin at night, rub the parts affected with cold cream, then using a handkerchief as a pad to prevent bruising the skin, remove a few blackheads each night. If you persist in the nightly face-scrub, fresh blemishes should not appear.

2. Make a strong tea of dried sage leaves; pour off the clear liquid into a bottle, add one-eighth as much alcohol and a tablespoon of sulphur. Rub this into the scalp three nights a week.

3. Wet the spot, sprinkle with salts of lemon, leave for ten minutes, then rinse out well and dry in the sun. Some use lemon juice and salt in preference.

4. Nothing but the electric needle will do it permanently. The use of a peroxide preparation will bleach the hair and make it less noticeable.

Feodora's Fix.

Ans.—1. Friday; Sunday.

2. Distillation is an operation by which a liquid is converted into vapor by heat, then condensed by cold in a separate vessel, it returns to the liquid form purified. Ask at a drug store about it.

Hard to Clean.

Dear Miss Grey,—Am interested in your column, so am coming to you with a few questions

1. How can I clean a handpainted, white velvet piano drape?

2. I have a brown serge dress. It is made plain, and rather tight. Can you suggest a way to remodel to this year's fashion. SUMMER PASTIMES.

Ans.—1. I don't think it can be cleaned successfully. Rubbing with stale bread-crusts might help some. You could at least try it.

2. Why not get some plaid woolen material to harmonize with the brown, and make a tunic and girdle of it?

More Songs.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending an addressed envelope and stamp for the song, "The Ship That Never Returned." Can you send a couple of others—"Feet Rosie O'Grady" and "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me and They Will Know the Rest"? Hoping I am not bothering too much. I am, yours sincerely. MRS. M.

Ans.—Will send the first song as soon as I can find time to copy it. Your other requests are referred.

HOME RELIEF LEAGUE HAS HELPED 162 LONDON FAMILIES

London Women Also Form Branch of C.W.C.A. at Representative Meeting.

At a meeting of the Home Relief League held at Lady Beck's residence there was a large attendance. Some very interesting reports were given of the work that has been done. Mrs. Wismer reported that 45 families had been helped with clothing of various sorts; 23 of these were soldiers' families, being in need on account of the war. Altogether 162 families have been visited and reported on by the relief league committee. They have now additional lists of the wives and families of the second contingent, who will also be visited by this committee, on behalf of the Patriotic Association, and all those in need will be adequately provided for.

Mrs. Wismer and Mrs. Folger have been indefatigable workers on this committee, distributing clothing, and keeping an accurate account of the value of every article given out, and the work to which they have given so much time and thought has been very sincerely appreciated.

The Finances.

A detailed account of the finances was given by the treasurer, Miss Graydon, showing a small balance in hand, also showing the need of more funds if there are many more calls to be attended to. As this was a very representative meeting, members of the various chapters of the Daughters of the Empire, church societies, mothers' clubs, children's and Orphans' homes, etc., all being present. A motion was presented to form a branch of the Canadian War Contingent Association, whose headquarters are in London, England, where the Hon. George E. Perley is the president and Mr. J. G. Colmer, the honorary secretary. This branch is really an enlargement of the fund for field comforts, that was started at Hyman Hall over two weeks ago, to provide those extra comforts (or necessaries) for the soldiers, which are not given to them by the Government, and which do not come under the head of Red Cross supplies.

Scarves for Soldiers.

There are 1,100 men now in training at Wolseley Barracks, to be outfitted with scarves, cholera belts and wristlets before they leave. It is also the intention of the association to provide colored handkerchiefs, and a pair of hand-knitted socks as well, for each man, if possible.

We understand that instead of a third contingent, some 6,000 men will be sent monthly from Canada hereafter, and these comforts will need to be provided for them all. This association will in fact, be a clearing house for all the societies who are working for this same object; not so to prevent overlapping, of which there is little real danger, when one considers the amount of work to be done; but to insure that no individual is unprovided for. It will take the united efforts of all the workers here to achieve their adequate share for this district—and all the supplies of these things, that can be made, bought or collected over and above what are necessary to supply the men of our district every month, will be shipped direct to the headquarters in England where the members of the central committee are personally responsible for seeing that these supplies go direct to the Canadian contingents, in training, and on active service.

Mrs. C. R. Somerville and Mrs. W. E. Hodgins, were elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, by the unanimous voice of the meeting, with power to choose their own committee, and add to its numbers whenever they see fit. Lady Beck, by a standing vote, was elected honorary president by acclamation. Mrs. Somerville then gave an account of the finished articles already on hand for supplying the men now in barracks before they leave:

1,166 cholera belts, 256 scarfs, 289 pairs wristlets; 363 pairs socks.

Balaclava caps are now supplied by the Government, though they are still wanted as Red Cross supplies.

Funds in hand from various donations, $176.

There is no fee for joining the War Contingent Association. All workers for the cause are members, and needless to say all members are workers. There is a little army of them—splendid ones ready to knit for this branch of patriotic supplies—even the children in the schools are knitting, knitting steadily, and knitting well. One teacher took fifty pounds of wool last week for her class and will return it "ready-to-wear." But we do need funds! Wool is almost the only expense in in connection with this branch of work, but the wool for 1,100 scarfs alone costs over three hundred dollars. We appeal to the public to help us, any donation, large or small, will be gratefully received by this committee or by Lady Beck, and acknowledged in these columns.

OLD SONGS AND POEMS

"Sarnia Reader" sends the song asked for by Alma B.

THE LITTLE GIRL THAT PLAYED UPON MY KNEE.

Many long years are past and gone
Since I left there, my own native land;
Since I left there the scenes of my childhood so dear,
O'er the dark blue seas to roam.

I left my aged father there,
And a mother that is dear to me:
I left a brother and sister at home,
And the little girl that played on my knee.

Does Jennie remember, or has she forgot,
Those hours of pleasure to me?
Does she sigh when she thinks of the many happy hours
When a little girl she played upon my knee?

I am homeward bound with a thrill of joy,
From wandering so far o'er the sea;
I soon shall see my own native land
And the little girl that played upon my knee.

What means this long, dark funeral train—
Sad faces they all seem to wear?
Yonder hearse bears the form of a maiden so fair;
'Twas the little girl that played upon my knee.

I am tired of life and I care not to live,
So dreary the world seems to me;
Go bury me now by the maiden of my heart,
'Twas the little girl that played upon my knee.

A SPLENDID STORY OF WESTERN LIFE

LAHOMA

By John Breckenridge Ellis the Author of Fran.

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Annabel listened gravely, silently, her face all the paler for the sunlight flashing over it, for the mimic sun on the waves glancing up into her pensive eyes. Somehow the sunshine, the ripple of the water, seemed to form no part of her life, belong, rather, to Edgerton Compton rowing in solitude against the sky. Those naked trees, bare, brown hills and ledges of huge stones seemed her world-boundaries, kind to her, claiming her— But there was California, and the splendid house to be built.

The Indian was listening now, but as he heard projected details glowingly presented, no change came in his grim deep-lined face. He simply knew it was not to be—let the fool plan! He found himself wondering dully why he no longer hated Gledware with that vindictive fury that gloats over the death-grip, lingers in fiendish leisure over the lifted scalp. He scarcely remembered the wrong done his daughter; it was almost as if he had banished the cause of his revenge, as if vengeance itself had become a simple stroke of destiny. Gledware had chosen his possession, and the Indian was Fate's answer.

"Beautiful one," he heard Gledware say, speaking in an altered tone, "all that is in the future; but see what I have brought you. This is for today. It's yours, dear—let me see it around your neck, with the sun full upon it."

Red Feather turned his head curiously. Gledware held outstretched a magnificent diamond necklace, which shot forth dazzling rays as it swung from his eager fingers.

Annabel uttered a smothered cry of delight as the iridescence filled her eyes. She looked across the water toward the pagoda-shaped club-house where her mother stood, faintly defined as a speck of white against the green wall-shingles of the piazza. It seemed that it needed this glance to steady her nerves. Edgerton was forgotten. She reached out her hand. And then, perplexed at the necklace being suddenly withdrawn, she looked up. She caught a glimpse of Gledware's face, and her blood turned cold.

That face was frozen in horror. At the turning of the boatman's head, he had instantly recognized under the huge-brimmed hat, the face of his enemy, as if brought back from the grave.

There was a moment's tense silence, filled with mystery for her, with indescribable agony for him, with simple waiting for the Indian. Annabel turned to discover the cause of Gledware's terror, but she saw no malice, no threat, in the boatman's eyes.

Gledware ceased breathing, then his form quivered with a sudden inrush of breath as of a man emerging from diving. His eyes rolled in his head as he turned about, scanning the shore, glaring at Edgerton's distant boat. Why had he come unarmed- How could he have put faith in Red Kimball's assurances? He tortured his brain for some gleam of hope.

"This is all I have," he shrieked, as if the Indian's foot was already upon his neck "This is all I have." He flung the necklace into the water. "It was a lie about the California ranch—it's a lie about all my property—I've got nothing, Annabel; I sold the last bit to get you the necklace, but I shouldn't have done that. Now it's gone, I have nothing!"

The Indian rose slowly. The oars slipped down and floated away in the flashing stream of the sun's rays.

Annabel, realizing that the Indian, despite his impassive countenance, threatened some horrible catastrophe, started up with a scream. Edgerton had already turned toward them, alarmed at sound of Gledware's terror. He bent to the oars, comprehending only that Annabel was in danger.

"Edgerton!" she shrieked blindly. "Edgerton! Edgerton! Edgerton!"

Gledware crouched at her feet, crying beseechingly. "I swear I have nothing—nothing! I sold everything—gave it away—left it—nothing in all the world! I'm willing to beg, to starve—I don't want to own anything—I only want to live—to live—— My God! to live!"

Red Feather did not utter a word. But with stealthy lightness and the litheness of a panther he stepped over the seat and moved toward Gledware.

Then Gledware, pushed to the last extremity, despairing of the interposition of some miraculous chance, was forced back upon himself. With the vision of an inherent coward he saw all chances against him; but with the desperation of a maddened soul, he threw himself upon the defensive.

Red Feather had not expected him to offer resistance. This show of clenched teeth and doubled fists suddenly enraged him, and the old lust of vengeance flamed in his eyes. Hat and disguising coat were cast aside. For a moment his form, rigid and erect, gleamed like a statue of copper cut in stern, relentless lines, and the single crimson feather in his raven locks matched, in gold, the silver brightness of his upraised blade.

The next moment his form shot forward, his arm gripped Gledware about the neck, despite furious resistance, and both men fell into the water.

The violent shock given to the boat sent Annabel to her knees. Clutching the side, she gazed with horrified eyes at the water in her wake. The men had disappeared, but in the glowing white path cut across the lake by the sun, appeared a dull red streak that thinned away to faint purple and dim pink. She watched the sinister discoloration with fascinated eyes. What was taking place beneath the smooth tide? Or was it all over? Had Red Feather found a rock to which he could cling while he drowned himself with his victim? Or had their bodies been caught in the tangled branches of a submerged forest tree? It was one of the mysteries of the Ozarks never to be solved.

TIGERS AND ARGOS BATTLED TO A TIE

Wonderful Booting by Mallett Prevented Scullers Winning.

EVERETT SMITH STARS

Darkness Prevented Further Playing When Full Time Was Up.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 21. — One of the greatest games in the history of the Big Four was pulled off today and resulted in a tie, Tigers 9, Argos 9, for the provincial championship. Starting the second half four points behind, Argos forged into the lead, when Smith made a wonderful cross field run and carried the ball from behind mid-field to the five-yard line. It was Everett Smith's work that made it possible for the Argos to tie the score, as O'Connor carried the ball across Tigers' line on the second down, making the score 7 to 6. When O'Connor scored two more points on rouges it looked like Argos' game, but when Tigers got the advantage of the wind in the fourth quarter they came back, and by the aid of Mallett's wonderful booting scored three points on kicks to the dead line, evening the score up.

Excitement Intense Toward End.

In the final moments the excitement was intense, and although both teams did their utmost, it was impossible for them to score. Darkness and the end of the game came at the same time, and one of the greatest gridiron contests witnessed in Canada for several years came to an end. Thousands of spectators swarmed on the field and lifted the players to their shoulders. To Everett Smith great credit must be given. He played one of the best running games seen for some time, and time and again he avoided the Tiger line, and made runs for big gains.

Mallett Starred for Tigers.

Jack O'Connor and Gonter also played a splendid game. The latter did some brilliant punting, and was able to hold his own against the great Mallett. The latter player was responsible to a great degree for the showing made by the Tigers.

The play-off will have to be settled by the executive. President Phillips, the referee, refused to commit himself as to the probable decision. The line-up:

Argos—Flying wing, Murphy; halves, O'Connor, Gonter, Smith; quarter, Mills; scrimmage, Patterson, Davidson, Simpson; inside wing, McFarlane, Foster; middle wing, Burkart, Motley; outside wing, Murray, Knight.

Tigers—Flying wing, Isbister; halves, Manson, Mallett, McKelvie; quarter, Dixon; scrimmage, Robinson, Ireland, Meyers; inside wing, Wilson, Wigle; middle wing, Clark, Stuart; outside wing, Thompson, Glassford.

Referee—Ed Phillips, Ottawa.
Umpire—H. Roberts, Montreal.

AUSTRALIAN PAIR WON SIX-DAY RACE

Goullet and Grenda Scored Most Points at Finish.

A NEW WORLD'S RECORD

Distance Covered by Winners Was 2,758 Miles and One Lap.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. — Alfred Goullet, of Australia, and Alfred Grenda, of Tasmania, the "Kangaroo" team, won the six-day bicycle race, ended at Madison Square Garden, tonight. Tied with five other teams for the lead an hour before the finish, they scored 67 points, the highest number, in the final sprint of an hour.

Iver Lawson, of Sweden, and Peter Drobach, of Poland, the Swedish-Polish team, were second, with 61 points. Reggie McNamara, of Australia, and Jimmy Moran, of Chelsea, Mass., the international team, were third with 53 points; Francesco Verreti, of Italy, and Oscar Egg, of Sweden, known as the Italian team, and Fred Hill, of Boston, and Joe Fogler, of Brooklyn, whose title was the American team, tied for fourth place with 50 points each, while George Cameron and Harry Kaiser, of New York, finished last among the leading six, with 34 points.

Edward F. Root, of New York, and Jackie Clark, of Australia, the Australian-American team, and Percy Lawrence, of San Francisco, and Jake Magin, of Newark, N. J., the interstate team, were tied for seventh place, and were to ride to decide who should have the higher ranking, but Root and Clark forfeited, the inter-state team winning seventh money.

The distance covered by Goullet and Grenda and the other leaders, was 2,758 miles and 1 lap, setting a new world's record 7 miles and 1 lap ahead of the former record, made last year by the victors in this year's race.

The event this year had a finish unique in Madison Square Garden contests, the European system of clearing the track an hour before the end of the race of all the teams but those tied for the lead, and letting the latter decide supremacy in an hour's race, being adopted. The points were counted at the end of each fifteen laps, the leader tonight scoring six points at the end of each fifteen laps, and the other teams each a point less in the order of their finishing, down to one point for the sixth team. There were fifteen of these fifteen-lap sprints in the final hour of the racing, of which Goullet and Grenda won eight from the high-class field of finishers.

The winners received $1,500, the second team $1,000, third $750, fourth $500, fifth $400, sixth $350, and seventh $250.

WESTERN MUST BEAT CAPITALS BEFORE GOING INTO THE FINALS

Last Year's Junior Champions Play Here Wednesday, Winner To Meet Dundas on Saturday in Final Contest — Big Parade on Wednesday.

[BY BERT PERRY.]

Western University vs. Toronto Capitals. This is the attraction that should draw one of the largest crowds of fans the local rugby club has ever been patronized by to Tecumseh Park Wednesday afternoon. The Capitals by virtue of their win over Parkdale (not the Parkdale team Western beat) in Toronto on Saturday are the next opponents of the local collegians, and from all the advance dope on the Caps, it should be some game, to say the least. The Capitals are the club that won the Junior O. R. F. U. championship last year, and if Western can put them away on Wednesday, the local team's chances of landing the coveted title will be bright indeed.

Caps Are Fast.

The Capitals have a particularly strong back division, and in J. Pocock they have a punter who in the same class as Johnny Ross and Art Smith, of the local aggregation. The Capitals have a lighter line than Western, because Western has the heaviest line of any junior aggregation in the country, but the Toronto players are said to have a world of speed, and what they lack in weight is made up in this respect.

Officials Not Chosen Yet.

The officials have not yet been chosen, but it is likely Vic Smith, of this city, will be one of them, with a Toronto man acting as the other. Western will hold practices this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon in preparation for the game. On Saturday afternoon Coach Harry Stephens had the boys working out at Tecumseh Park for a couple of hours. The field was in fine shape, despite the weather, and one of the best practices the club has had all season was the result. Only a couple of the regulars were absent.

Taking Sulphur Baths.

This afternoon the workout will commence at 4 o'clock. The players will gather at the mineral baths and dress there before going to the park. The shower baths at the park are not in working order, and the team is using the sulphur baths instead. All the players will be out this afternoon.

It is likely that Wednesday's game will be preceded by a big street parade led by a band. The university students and other followers of the team will take part in the parade. The players of both teams may also be in the procession.

If Western manages to defeat Capitals it will go into the finals with Dundas. The final game will be played next Saturday, and the teams will in all probability toss for choice with the consent of the O. R. F. U. Dundas has a strong team and it defeated Galt quite handily on Saturday.

BRICKLEY GOT LAST GOAL

Over 70,000 People Present in Yale Bowl When Game Starts.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21. — Harvard's football juggernaut crushed the Yale eleven by a score of 36 to 0 in the Blue "bowl" here this afternoon, while 70,055 spectators watched the gridiron route in stupefied amazement.

The Crimson machine rushed up and down the field almost at will, scoring in every one of the four periods of play, and when the 60 minutes of battle had elapsed, had succeeded in rolling up the largest number of points ever registered against an Eli eleven. With the exception of the 1885 Yale victory of 48 to 0, it was the greatest game ever made in the 34 games played since 1875.

The one-sided score fails to give the slightest inkling of the tarilling scope of the play or the remarkable strategy and individual brilliancy with which the game bristled. Surrounded by more than a third of a mile of towering tiers of humanity, the two elevens struggled back and forth the length of the gridiron, every second or third play bringing the thousands to their feet, so intense was the excitement and so spectacular the play. No game of equal calibre on eastern football fields in many years has provided such a spectacle.

It seemed at times as though the contest was a carefully prearranged performance, wherein climax followed until the spectators were bewildered by the rapid succession of runs, passes and kicks, which were turned into scores, with almost as much rapidity but always for Harvard. Far from the least of these kaleidoscopic changes were the fumbles Yale contributed in the shadow of the Crimson goal posts, and which Harvard turned into additional touchdowns.

Brickley's Last Appearance.

Charles Brickley, Harvard's famous kicker, appeared on the field for a few minutes in the last quarter, and kicked the final goal. It was the close of his career as far as Harvard is concerned.

In a general sense Yale was outclassed and outgeneralled, although several of her players compared favorably from an individual standpoint with Harvard's best. LeGore's running, Knowles' line plunging, Wilson's defensive work in the back field and Talbott's and Betts' work on the line, were bright spots amid the Blue gloom. Like all recent Harvard teams, the individual was sunk in the perfect working of the football machine, with its wonderful alertness, keenness in following the ball, and smooth working attack and defence.

Mahan and Hardwick were the Harvard stars from an individual standpoint, but it was a football team that Coach Houghton sent into Yale bowl to help in the dedication of the new football stadium.

Jack Munroe, Ex-Butte Miner, Fighter and Wealthy Citizen Is a Fine Canadian Soldier

Former Heavyweight Pugilist and Mayor of Elk Lake City, Now at Salisbury Plain, Has Had an Eventful Career — Fighting Is His Middle Name.

Jack Munroe, the Butte miner, ex-Mayor of Elk Lake City, and one of the most popular men in the Ontario silver country, is in England as one of the Canadian volunteers and Montana is going to have a good representative at the front.

Munroe should be an ideal soldier. He's a trained frontiersman, a good shot, an athletic and a cool, thoughtful, courageous fellow.

Munroe has had a varied experience. When a boy he began playing football on the great Butte team, then one of the best in the country, and champion of all the West. He traveled through several seasons playing in Western cities, and finally moved to San Francisco, and played with the Olympic A. C. team there. While tackle on the Olympic team Jack entered the coast amateur boxing championships and won the heavyweight title. Not long after that he became a professional, but went back to prospecting. After locating a copper claim in Idaho he went back to Butte to earn money to develop it. He was a level boss when Jeffries came to Butte, and he fought Jeff four rounds, winning the purse Jeff offered to any one who could stay with him over that route.

That made Munroe famous. He came east and knocked out Peter Maher, Limerick, and a few others, beat Tom Sharkey in a six-round bout and fought Jack Johnson six rounds in Philadelphia. Jeffries was out for revenge when he met Munroe in San Francisco in a return match and he polished Jack off in a couple of rounds. Munroe said every time Jeffries landed he thought a mule had kicked him. That bout finished his fighting career. He had some money and he went prospecting copper and silver in Northern Ontario. He struck it rich, located a number of valuable claims, became "Mr. John Munroe," a person of prominence in Canadian mining affairs, and was for several years mayor of Elk City. If Munroe is fighting now he has gone to war as a wealthy citizen of Canada. All the more credit to him.

ST. THOMAS TO ENTER THE NORTHERN LEAGUE

Have Withdrawn From O.H.A. For This Season.

FAVOR RESIDENCE RULE

Find It Easier To Get a Team By January 1 Than August 1.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 22.—The home hockey enthusiasts have decided to place a team in the Northern Hockey League this winter.

The main reason of the withdrawal of the team from the O. H. A. appears to be owing to the fact that O. H. A. players must be residents of the city from August 1, this being a barrier to the gathering together of a strong team without entailing a heavy expenditure.

The Officers.

The officers for the year are: President, J. Dowler; vice-president, A. D. McKenzie; manager, T. G. M. Jamieson; secretary, R. V. McGuire; management committee, H. E. Tylor, G. H. Fowler, and S. McLean.

Arrangements have been made with the Granite Rink Association for the use of the rink for the playing of the scheduled games and practicing.

VARSITY DOWNED M'GILL IN PLAY-OFF FOR TITLE

Loose Ball in Last Couple Minutes of Play Grabbed Up by Cassells Who Ran Fifty Yards and Scored Winning Touchdown.

TORONTO, Nov. 21. — 'Varsity defeated McGill by 17 to 13 here yesterday, thereby winning the championship of the interco'legiate Union. It was a game of thrills and excitement, especially in the last quarter, when the tide of battle turned in such a remarkable manner, that the 7,000 spectators were alternately in the highest degree of glee, and the next moment in the depths of despair. The hero was Cassels, the great 'Varsity middle wing, who, in the dying moments of the game, secured a loose ball and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. All the thrills of a football lifetime were crowded into the fina quarter, and the victory of 'Varsity was not accomplished until within two minutes of the call of time.

Shag Reconstructed Team.

McGill presented practically a reconstructed team. Shaughnessy moved Quilty, the one-time quarter-back, from left inside, where he figured in the last game, to the flying wing position. Seath went from that position to left outside, replacing Kennedy. Reid and Demuth were moved from the scrimmage to strengthen the left wing, being replaced in the scrimmage by Brown and Greenwood, who before were on the benches. The changes certainly strengthened the line, which has been McGill's weak department.

'Varsity's Line-Up Unchanged.

The blue and white, on the other hand, appeared on the field with practically the same line-up that put it over on the redmen two weeks ago. Before the game it was doubtful whether Sheehy would be able to appear on the back field, on account of an injury to his wrist bones, sustained earlier in the week. McKenzie and Milne were on the side-lines, ready to take the place of any injured players.

The line-up of the teams:

'Varsity—Flying wing, Gage; halves, Sheehy, Lindsay, Carr; quarterback, Starratton; outside wing, Sinclair, Adelard; middle wing, Cassels, Hughes; inside wing, Bryans, McMullen; scrimmage, O'Reilly, Gardner, Horner.

McGill—Flying wing, Quilty; halves, Paisley, G. Laing, Jeffrey; quarterback, Montgomery; outside wing, Seath, R. Laing; middle wing, Williamson, Demuth; inside wing, Reid, Ross; scrimmage, Brown, McColl, Greenwood.

Umpire—McEvenue, Montreal.
Judge of play—W. B. Hendrie.

Argos and Tigers Are Fighting Over the Play-Off Game

Scullers Want It Played In Toronto, and Jungle Kings Insist Upon Hamilton.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—A meeting of the Interprovincial Amateur Football Union has been called for tomorrow evening at the New Russell to decide where Argonauts and Tigers shall play off. The Tigers want the game at Hamilton and will request that interpretation of the rule which states that all schedule games shall be completed on the ground where commenced. On the other hand the Argonauts insist that the re-play take place at Toronto, on the ground that it was not a scheduled match, and that they carried out the condition stipulated in the toss of the coin when they played as long as was possible yesterday. Secretary Finn issued notices last night on the receipt of a telegram from President Phillips.

CAPITALS EARN RIGHT TO PLAY HERE WEDNESDAY

By Defeating Parkdale in Toronto Saturday They Go Into the Semi-Finals and Meet Western University Here.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Toronto Capitals won the Toronto Senior City League championship and the right to meet Western University, of London, in the Junior O. R. F. U. semi-finals by defeating Parkdals 7 to 6 at the Motordrome Saturday afternoon. The game was a rough one. Parkdale gained an early lead when McEvoy punted for a rouge and a few minutes later, went over for a touchdown, which was not converted. Capitals did not score until the second quarter, when Pocock kicked to the deadline for a point, and Murphy added another when he forced McEvoy to rouge. At half time, Parkdale led by the score of 6 to 2. In the third quarter, Capitals added two more on dead line kicks by Pocock. In the final quarter Pocock kicked to the dead line three times, giving Capitals a one-point margin when the final whistle blew.

Pocock's Kicking a Feature.

Pocock's kicking was the feature of the game. He was responsible for nearly all of Capitals' points. In the last few minutes, after Capitals scored the winning point, Parkdals rallied and bucked nearly the whole length of the field, but Baker ran McEvoy's punt out and prevented a score.

The teams lined up as follows:

Capitals—Flying wing, Poland; halves, Baker, J. Pocock and Matthews; quarter, Lobraico and Vinette; middle wings, L. Pocock and Fairley; outside wings, Gardner and Kenny.

Parkdale—Flying wing, McSweeney; halves, Fleming, McEvoy and Harkins; quarter, Beck; inside wings, Wagner and Farnell; middle wings, Lancaster and Gingras; outside wings, Eversfield and Webster; scrimmage, McKellar, Wilson and Harper.

OTTAWA II.'S DEFEATED WESTMOUNT IN FINAL

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—In the Quebec Rugby Union saw-off at Lansdowne Park yesterday afternoon the Ottawa seconds defeated Westmounts by 24 to 5. They led from start to finish. The match took place in snowdrifts and was a burlesque. Ottawa thus qualified to play the intermediate interprovincial winners, but as the Tigers have protested Saturday's victory over the Hamilton Rowing Club, there is another hitch in the draw and Ottawas may be ordered to facilitate the settlement of the difficulty by meeting the intermediate intercollegiate champions next Saturday.

HAMILTON R. C. WON INTERMEDIATE HONORS

HAMILTON, Nov. 22. — Intermediate Rowing Club beat Intermediate Tigers in the intermediate interprovincial championship game here yesterday 11 to 6. The game was close throughout and was won by McNeilly, who stole the ball a few yards out of the Tiger line a few minutes before the final whistle blew.

ARTS AND MEDS BARRED FROM BASKETBALL LEAGUE

The Arts and Meds., of Western University, have formed basketball teams and are seeking to enter the City Basketball League. However, the City League which is a Y. M. C. A. organization is not very eager to let them enter, and the students are quite indignant about it. They claim the league has no right to the name "City League" if it is going to prevent certain teams from entering. The Arts and Meds will be represented in the O. A. B. A. this winter. In the meantime, they are anxius for a City League, embracing teams that are the pick of the city's basketball players.

CALL GOES OUT FOR THIRD FORCE

Next Enrollment Will Bring Canada's Forces Up To 108,000.

RESPONSE IS GRATIFYING

When Second Contingent Sails Another 17,000 Will Be Ready.

[Canadian Press.]

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Official announcement is made by Sir Robert Borden, the prime minister, that the number of men to be kept constantly in training in Canada is 58,000, inclusive of 8,000 doing garrison and outpost duty. With the 33,000 already dispatched, the total on active service in a few weeks now will be 91,000. As soon as the second contingent goes forward in January a third contingent of 17,000 will be enlisted to take its place, bringing the total up to 108,000.

This is Canada's response to the empire's call for more men, and the country in thus providing for additional forces is ready to furnish its proportionate quota of what is required.

Thirty Thousand in Training.

In October, the official announcement notes, the enlistment of 30,000 men, exclusive of guards and outposts at home, was arranged for. The plan outlined then proposed the dispatch of contingents of not less than 10,000 men at a time for service abroad and further provided that whenever any force is thus dispatched, enlistment should take place so as to insure 30,000 men being continuously under training in Canada. To date, the response has been gratifying, and in many parts of the country the number offering has exceeded what was required.

It was arranged with the War Office that the second expeditionary force to be formed out of the men thus in training should consist of about 17,000 officers and men, 4,765 horses, 36 field and heavy guns and 16 machine guns. It comprises infantry, artillery, engineers, signal and cyclist companies, army service corps and field ambulances, ammunition park, supply column and reserve park.

Two brigades of infantry are ready to go forward at an early date. Arrangement has been made with the war office for the purchase of the necessary field guns in order to effectively constitute the batteries of artillery.

Will Extend Enlistment.

In view, however, of the further call for men and the great need for reinforcements, the Government has decided not to rest with the provisions previously made, but to go farther. Conferences have been held between the Prime Minister, the Minister of Militia and the chief of staff with regard to the problem. Four questions have to be considered which limit the number of men that can be successfully trained in Canada:

1. Provision of necessary accommodation for them during the winter.
2. Provision of arms and equipment.
3. The necessity of organization by different arms and branches—infantry, cavalry, artillery, engineers, supply, transport and medical services. A large surplus of some particular arm may be available, but is practically ineffective by itself.
4. The ability of the British Government to receive and fully train expeditionary forces from Canada in view of the enormous task of training an immense army in the British Isles.

Increase to 50,000.

Taking all these considerations into account, the Government has concluded that the number of men in training can be increased in the near future to 50,000, in addition to the 8,000 engaged in garrison and outpost duty. Orders will go out tomorrow that the additional number thus proposed shall be enlisted forthwith.

As organized, the Canadian force for active service will be as follows:

Forces already dispatched, including regiment to Bermuda, 33,000.

Forces engaged in garrison and outpost duty in Canada, about 8,000.

Forces under training in Canada, 50,000.

Total, 91,000.

The plan does not stop there, but to replace the 17,000 men who go forward in January, a further enlistment to fill the gap thus caused, will take place, making the total 108,000.

Mounted Troops To Be Used.

Mounted troops will likely figure in the further enlistments, many good riders and shots in the West having urged the formation of cavalry regiments. The organization and enlistment of the men will be continued divisionally as at present.

GERMANY DESIGNED THE HINDU TROUBLE TO HARASS BRITAIN

Chartered Komagata Maru and Loaded It With Undesirables and 100 Noted Criminals — Berlin First Recorded the Sailing.

[Canadian Press.]

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—That the Komagata Maru, which arrived last July at Vancouver, with a cargo of natives of India, and which gave great trouble to the authorities, was chartered by a German shipping firm in Hong Kong and that the shipment was made with a view of fomenting trouble between Britain and her Indian subjects was the statement made today by H. H. Stevens, M.P., of Vancouver, who is here on his way to Ottawa.

"This," says Mr. Stevens, "was shown by an investigation, a report of which was recently sent to Ottawa."

He also declares that in order to make sure of trouble the vessel was loaded with many undesirables, among them, according to a letter from the chief of police of Shanghai, 100 noted criminals, and when these men returned to Calcutta they precipitated a fatal riot. The first intimation that the vessel had sailed for Canada was contained in a newspaper dispatch from Berlin to New York.

2,600 PRISONERS BECOME INSUBORDINATE; FIVE KILLED

[Canadian Press.]

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Nov. 22.—Via London, 1:39 a.m.—Five alien prisoners were killed and several others hurt Thursday in a riot at the detention camp here. These facts were brought out at an inquest held at the camp Friday. According to the evidence presented to the jury the affair occurred Thursday just after the midday meal.

There were 2,600 alien prisoners in the room at the time. The guards consisting of national reservists were standing in a room which separates the dining-room from the kitchens. At a prearranged signal—the breaking of a window with a chair—the prisoners assaulted the guards with cups, plates, chairs and tables and anything else that happened to be handy. The guards fired a volley, as a result of which four prisoners fell dead or so seriously wounded that they died soon afterward. Several others were wounded and removed to the hospitals. One man was found to have made his escape through the broken window, but in crossing a skylight, he crashed through, landing on his head on a concrete floor, crushing his skull and dying almost instantly. The rioters surrendered to the guards.

Formal medical evidence was given and the inquest adjourned for one week so that a representative of the war office might be present. The circumstances of the riot will be further inquired into at the next session.

The guards at the detention camp consisted of 300 men of the national reserve. The prisoners were confined in two separate camps which were connected by an underground passage, but all dined together in a large hall. Most of the prisoners belonged to the working class, being waiters, sailors, mechanics, and so forth.

Brewing for Some Time.

Everything went well for a time, but about three weeks ago there were signs of insubordination, and the sentries began to complain that they were being insulted by the prisoners. The first overt act, however, was committed a fortnight ago, when a large body of men refused to leave the dining hall on a stormy night. They were allowed to remain indoors instead of being sent to the tents. After that the authorities started building huts in order to furnish better accomodation for the prisoners.

The next ebullition occurred last Wednesday when a number of prisoners during dinner complained violently and in contemptuous terms of the food. The authorities contend that the food furnished is of good quality.

De Wet Has Only Twenty-Five Men Left

LONDON, Nov. 23.—12:50 a.m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Pretoria, says:

"It is officially announced that General De Wet's rapidly dwindling rebel commando became surrounded by loyal forces in the vicinity of Boshof on the Vaal River. General De Wet succeeded in escaping with only twenty-five men. The remainder of his force surrendered."

The Capetown correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says that two sons of General Christian De Wet, the rebel leader, have surrendered to a magistrate in Capetown.

Several of General De Wet's chief officers, together with most of his supporters to the west of the railway line, surrendered at the same time.

Kaiser Prepares For Long Sojourn at Berlin Castle

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, Nov. 22. — 9:52 a.m. — A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from The Hague, says Emperor William has decided to return to Berlin shortly to be present when the Reichstag opens.

The correspondent adds that instructions have been issued to the officials of the Emperor's Berlin castle to prepare it for a long sojourn there by him.

TURKEY EXPLAINS TO UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Turkey has voluntarily explained to the United States Government through Ambassador Morgenthau that the shots fired toward the launch of the American cruiser Tennessee last Monday were intended merely as the customary warning that the port of Smyrna was mined and closed to navigation.

Although the explanation is informal and the United States Government still is waiting a reply to formal representations which Ambassador Morgenthau was instructed to make to the Turkish foreign office, it is generally admitted at the White House, state, and navy departments that all danger of serious complications over the incident had been removed.

Ambassador Morgenthau reported that two members of the Ottoman cabinet, the ministers of the interior and war, had fully explained the occurrence to him and high officials here said his message was filed before the instructions sent from Washington to discuss the subject officially with the Grand Vizier could have been received by Mr. Morgenthau, President Wilson and his cabinet regard the informal explanation as a certain precursor of a satisfactory formal explanation and that guarantees for the protection of Americans and their interests will also be forthcoming from the Turkish Government.

The message from Mr. Morgenthau dated November 16, but delayed en route was received late Saturday and relieved a delicate situation.

Germans Fired 7,000 Shells and Got 20 Victims

Four Hours' Vicious Bombardment of Libau Futile.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—4:48 a.m.—According to Libau dispatches, during the German bombardment of Libau last Saturday, 7,000 shells were thrown in four hours," says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times. "Twenty persons were killed and many others wounded, most of whom were women. No panic occurred and only that portion of the town in range of the guns was evacuated. In the other portions of the city the people pursued their occupations as usual."

"BLACK HAND" FIRE KILLS EIGHT PERSONS

Nine Others Seriously Injured; Two May Die—Fatalities Due to Panic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Eight persons are dead, two others were so badly burned that they may die, and seven more, including two fire captains, were injured as the result of a fire of suspicious origin which early today virtually destroyed a five-story brick tenement house on East 29th street in this city.

As a result of disclosures made to the police by a tenant who has been receiving "black hand" letters for the last year and upon whom a demand for $1,000 was made last Friday under threat of bodily harm, detectives tonight are seeking men known to them as "black hand" leaders, whom they suspect of responsibility for the fire.

Panic which seized the tenants when they were aroused by rescuers caused the loss of life, the police say, as the building was amply equipped with fire escapes. All the dead were Italians.

DOZEN BODIES FOUND OF C. F. CURTIS' CREW

[Canadian Press.]

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 22.—Of the twelve bodies recovered from the steamer C. F. Curtis and the barges Annie M. Peterson and S. K. Marvin, wrecked last Thursday near Grand Marais, nine have been positively and one partially identified. The other bodies are those of women and all efforts to learn their identity thus far have failed.

The known dead are: Capt. J. P. Jennings, steamer Curtis, Detroit; Grenn Campbell, engineer, steamer Curtis; Seigrud Halverson, Albert Johnson, Rudolph Gruin, Henry Kirchner, Chas. Nelson, Julius W. Noll, Alden, N.D., Edward Anderson.

Government papers found on the tenth body lead to the belief that it is that of Glenn Campbell, second engineer of the Curtis. It is not known whether the two engineers, both named Campbell, were related. According to C. L. Hill, representative here of the Edward Hines Lumber Company, owners of the three boats, all the bodies recovered were from the steamer. The Curtis carried a crew of 14, including two women cooks. The bodies were taken to Seney, Mich., today.

Wreckage from the Curtis and Peterson is piled 20 feet high along the shore, and among this tangled mass were found more than half the bodies recovered.

Charles Nelson and Glenn Campbell reached shore alive, but died later from exhaustion and exposure. The others were drowned.

The steamer J. J. H. Brown, which ran ashore in Mud Lake last Friday night, was released today after lightering 1,000 tons of coal. The vessel was not damaged.

WAS BUFFALO WOMAN.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 23.—The woman whose body was found on the shore between Grand Marais and Whitefish Point on Saturday, and who wore a locket with the initials, "R. B.," engraved on it, is Rose V. Busick, of Buffalo, N. Y., according to W. A. McWatty, of this city. McWatty says she was stewardess of the steamer Curtis, which was lost in the storm with her two barges.

FOUR DROWNED IN MOTORING ACCIDENT

[Canadian Press.]

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—Four men were drowned in Pitt River Saturday evening when returning in an automobile from Coquitlam, where they had been attending a football match. They took a wrong road and ran onto the Coquitlam Shipbuilding yards wharf and into the river. There were eight persons in the car, one of whom jumped before the car left the wharf and the other three were rescued.

The dead are: Horace Skuce, Struthers Gunn, Alexander Burnett and Matthew Nevin.

Struthers Gunn was one of the best known athletes in the Dominion, and was captain of the Vancouver Athletic Club lacrosse team, which won the Mann Cup. He was at the head of the team when they made their first eastern trip in quest of the trophy, and was also captain when they won the cup in 1911 and played until last year, when he retired.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS TO SOUTHERN STATES

are becoming more popular every year, largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to California, Florida and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars, you can travel from almost any point on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway to your destination in the Sunny South, where the flowers bloom and warm, balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the everyday grind, the monotonous or strenuous life to mingle with successful, happy people, and, besides, it pays. Round-trip tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway at exceptionally low fares, giving choice of all the best routes, via Chicago, Detroit or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily from Hamilton, carrying electric lighted Pullman sleeping cars, dining and parlor-library cars and modern first-class coaches, making connections with through trains for the south, etc.

Before deciding on your trip, call at city ticket office, "Clock Corner," for full particulars, or telephone 80. R. E. Ruse, C. P. and T. A. N.28

TALKED WITH DEAD DECLARES SCIENTIST

Sir Oliver Lodge States They Still Take Interest In Earth.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the Society for Psychical Research, in a lecture today in Browning Hall, Walworth, made a startling statement regarding his spiritual faith, expressing his belief in the future existence and stating that he had conversed with friends who had passed away.

"I say this," said Sir Oliver, "on definite scientific grounds. I say it because I know certain friends of mine still exist, because I have talked to them. Communication is possible, but one must obey the laws to find out the conditions. I do not say it is easy, but I say it is possible.

"I tell you that these people still take an interest in the things that are going on, that they still help us to know more about things than we do, and they are able from time to time to communicate with us."

Sir Oliver said that once people realized that consciousness was something outside the mechanism it made use of, they realized the survival of existence was the simplest thing. It was unreasonable that the soul should pass out of existence when the body was destroyed; people were not limited to the few years they live on earth, and they certainly continued to exist.

ENEMY SCHEMING TO AROUSE EGYPT

Italian Newspapers Disclose Underhand Tactics Pursued.

[Canadian Press.]

ROME, Nov. 22. — Special dispatches from Athens and other points to the Italian newspapers say the Turks and Germans are making great efforts to arouse the population of Egypt to rebel against British authority. With this object in view, it is said, the Turks are spreading the report that the Khedive is on his way from Constantinople to Egypt to assume command of the Egyptian troops.

The Turks also have announced, the advices add, that Essad Pasha, the Albanian leader, is only waiting for the Mussulmans in Egypt to rise to put himself at their head and march against the British.

CHOLERA HAS SPREAD TO GERMAN TERRITORY

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Several cases of cholera are reported to have appeared in Prussian and Upper Silesia, according to a dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, to the Havas News Agency. Two deaths from the disease so far have occurred in those districts.

BREACH BETWEEN THE ALLIED ENEMY

Stormy Council Meeting Preceded By Austro-German Fighting During a Retreat.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—2:53 a.m.—"It is confirmed that serious dissensions have arisen between the Germans and the Austrians," says the Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent.

"A stormy council, under the presidency of Emperor William, was held at Breslau, after the German flight from Poland. After mutual recriminations, Germany demanded that Austria send every available man to the defence of East Prussia, arguing that there was no hope of saving the Austrian frontier from the advancing hosts. The Austrians, however, demanded that the Germans make a serious attempt to save Cracow.

"Moreover, this council meeting was preceded by actual fighting between Austrian and German soldiers in the retreat. The fighting, it is said, occurred after a large body of angry Austrians left the Germans and struck off on their line of retreat, whereupon the Germans sent detachments to bring them back. Both sides fired shots, the Austrians being overpowered. The German explanation later was that they exterminated mutinous troops."

BERLIN PASTORS DEMAND PEACE.

LONDON, Nov. 23. — 3:03 a.m. — The Copenhagen correspondent of the London Daily Mail says he learns from Berlin that placards are posted nightly in the suburbs of the German capital, demanding peace and containing threats.

The police tear the posters down, but they always appear the next night, says the correspondent, and the authorities do not seem anxious to catch the offenders, for fear of drawing further attention to the peace agitation.

ENEMY COMPELS 40,000 PEOPLE TO LEAVE TOWN

LONDON, Nov. 23. — 1:55 a.m. — Telegraphing from Rotterdam today, the Daily Telegraph's correspondent says:

"The military authorities have ordered all of the inhabitants, aggregating nearly 40,000, of Saint Nicholas, an important railway junction southwest of Antwerp, to leave the city forthwith, offering them accommodations in empty houses in Antwerp."

SPEAK ENGLISH AND FRENCH LANGUAGES

Sir Wilfrid Says Both Are Needed To Complete Education.

QUEBEC, Nov. 22. — "The Study of the French and English languages in Canada" was the subject of a lecture delivered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Opposition in the Dominion House of Commons, before the Women's Canadian Club at the Chateau Frontenac, here, on Saturday afternoon.

Sir Wilfrid emphasized three points: The desire of the French-Canadians to speak the language of their ancestors; the expansion of the French and English languages, and how he came to possess the knowledge of both languages himself.

Desire Not Understood.

The French-Canadian, he said, wished to speak the language of their ancestors, which recalled the most intimate and most sacred souvenirs. This desire was so noble and so sacred that it was astonishing that it was disputed, but if itw ere in certain places it was because this desire was not understood. Those who combatted it thought that the ultimate ambition of the French-Canadians was to impose their language on those of other tongues. This was never the idea of French-Canadians. They do not wish to dominate more than they wish to be dominated. They wanted equal justice for all. If they want to speak their own language, they realize that they must speak English, too.

Should Know Both.

Sir Wilfrid then urged on his auditors the importance of everyone on this continent knowing both languages. A man's education was not complete if apart from his maternal language he did not speak French. English and French occupied the same place in the modern world that Latin and Greek held in ancient times. English was essentially the language of commerce, while French, like Greek in ancient times, was the language of diplomacy, of the learned and the literate.

War Critics.

In his closing remarks the speaker referred to the war, and mentioned that two schools of critics had sprung up. One class that reproached the English press, and representing the British forces, as about the only ones in action at the battlefront, and the other class that reproached the French press for alleging that England was not doing all that she could in the present war. In connection with the contention of the latter class, Sir Wilfrid said, it must be borne in mind that the attention of England was devoted to her fleet, which had succeeded in bottling up the German fleet, and one could imagine what the war would be if this had not been accomplished by England. All such recriminations had been set aside. The speaker preferred to accept the testimony of Gen. Joffre and others, who did not hesitate to state what France owed to England.

THE LOCAL MARKET

The local market today was the smallest held for some time. Up till 9:30 o'clock only four loads of hay had been sold. The top price of $15.75 per ton was paid for all four loads.

Oats were fairly plentiful towards the close of last week, but there is still a good demand for them. Prices range from $1.44 to $1.50 per hundredweight.

Potatoes were not for sale in any great quantity on Saturday. However, there was no change in prices.

Dressed hog prices were around the $10.50 per hundredweight mark on Saturday, although there were enough sold at $10.75 per hundredweight to make a market.

Live hogs are still selling for $7.35 and $7.40 per hundredweight. The price is liable to go up to about $7.50 per hundredweight about Wednesday.

The live poultry market is wobbly. Poultry is liable to be cheaper before very long.

Winnipeg, Nov. 21.—Liverpool cables were steady, and without news of any vital importance the market was practically a repetition of Friday. Opening prices were ⅛c to ⅜c lower, and trading in all futures was very light.

A factor which tends to hold the market in the present stagnant state is the inability to secure ocean space. Exporters and traders, however, are not in any way depressed on this score, as when the time arrives, a very heavy export trade will be transacted.

Winnipeg futures closed ⅛c to ⅜c lower; oats unchanged to ⅛c lower, and flax unchanged to ¼c lower.

The cash demand for all grades of wheat continues good; offerings, however, are still light. Exporters continue to buy all offerins coming their way. There is a fair demand for cash oats, certain grades being in keener demand than others, while top grades of flax are in good demand, and the lower grades are dull.

Deliveries through the clearing house were: Oats, 3,000 bushels; flax, 7,000 bushels. Inspections Friday were 622 cars, as compared with 1,274 cars last year; and in sight for inspection were 700 cars.

Cash Grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.19⅞; No. 2 northern, $1.17¼; No. 3 northern, $1.12¼; No. 4, $1.07½; No. 5, $1.02⅛; No. 6, 97¾c; feed, 94c.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 53c; extra No. 1 feed, 53c; No. 1 feed, 52c; No. 2 feed, 51½c.

Flax—No. 1 N. W. C., $1.29⅝; No. 2 Canadian western, $1.26¾.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Trade in cattle was greatly improved at the Union stockyards today, with prices generally 25c up. Calves and sheep were steady and unchanged in prices. Hogs showed a decline of 25c. Lambs were strong. Receipts, 3,860 cattle, 360 calves, 1,565 hogs and 2,656 sheep.

RUSSIANS REPORT TAKING GUMBINNEN

Cossacks Capture Batteries After Daring Charge—Germans Abandon City After Battle.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 23.—4 a.m.—The correspondent of the Telegraph in Petrograd reports the capture of Gumbinnen, in Northeast Prussia, by the Russians. He says: "Although official dispatches only mention skirmishes in East Prussia, a dispatch from a correspondent with the active army reports, with circumstantial details, the Russian capture of Gumbinnen, after a battle lasting five days, the Cossacks being the heroes of the most stirring incident of the struggle, capturing the enemy's batteries by a daring charge, which put the gunners to flight.

"The German defenders declined to await a bayonet attack, and the Russians entered in triumph to discover the town half-demolished by shell fire and abandoned by the populace."

Gumbinnen, 66 miles east-southest of Koenigsburg, is the capital of the Government district of the same name. It is in great measure a modern town and has some fine monuments. The population is about 15,000.

ANXIETY FELT FOR THREE MORE STEAMERS

Fears That the Lake Superior Storm May Have Sunk Overdue Boats.

[Canadian Press.]

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 23.—There are fears that the loss of the steamer C. F. Curtis and her barges, Annie M. Peterson and S. E. Marvin, of the Pines Lumber Company's fleet, of Chicago, may have been but part of the toll of the storm on Lake Superior last week. The steamers Sinaloa, Nipigon and Niko were long overdue this forenoon, and inquiries from here concerning them brought no information. The loss of life, in case the three missing vessels have been destroyed, will be more than 70, according to local estimates.

The Sinaloa, which is owned by G. A. Tomlinson, of Duluth, left that port in company with the Edward F. Holmes and other vessels. The Holmes passed down Friday morning and reported she had not sighted the Sinaloa since shortly after leaving the head of the lakes. The Nipigon is owned by W. J. Harlow, of Toledo, and the Niko by the Hines Lumber Company, of Chicago. It was considered quite possible by many mariners here that all three ships may be in shelter, but failure to ascertain their whereabouts and unidentified wreckage increased the anxiety of others.

Eighteen bodies are already reported recovered from the Curtis, Marvin and Peterson, and the search along the storm-swept shore of Lake Superior, near Grand Marais, continues.

GOVERNMENT ONLY FOODSTUFF DEALER

Dutch Have Forbidden, and Exportation and Imports Must All Be To Government.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—The Government of the Netherlands has taken over and arranged for all purchases of wheat, flour and other foodstuffs, so the department of trade and commerce is advised by its commissioner in Holland.

In purchasing wheat the usual commercial course is followed by the Dutch Government, that is, grain agents submit their offers to the department of agriculture, and the bills of lading are made out to the order of the Government.

The exportation of any foodstuffs from the Netherlands is also prohibited, and no importations can be made unless consigned to the Government. The only steamship service operating between Holland and the North American continent is the Holland-American Line, sailing from New York, but no consignments of foodstuffs will be accepted unless consigned to the Dutch Government.

CANNED LOBSTERS ARE DRUG ON THE MARKET

Germany Was Largest Buyer—Close Season Next Year Proposed.

[Canadian Press.]

St. John, Nfld., Nov. 23.—The canned lobster industry of Newfoundland and Canada has been hard hit by the European war. As Germany is the largest consumer of this product, the principal market has been cut off. A case of forty-eight tins which brought $24 in Newfoundland before the war now cannot be sold for more than $8 or $10. As one merchant put it: "Canned lobsters are as great a drug on the market in Canada and Newfoundland as bales of cotton in the United States."

Ordinarily the returns from the industry amount to about three million dollars a year in Canada and half a million dollars in this colony.

Many of those interested favor the enforcing of a close season on lobsters during the whole of next year, thus taking advantage of the opportunity to replenish the fisheries, which have been greatly depleted by extravagant methods of lobster taking.

MEDICAL SUPPLIES ARE SORELY NEEDED

European Hospitals Short and Many Operations Performed Without Anaesthetics.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Nov. 23.—A distressing lack of medical supplies for the wounded of the battlefields of Europe is shown by appeals received by various relief organizations here and by the tremendous orders received from the warring nations by American manufacturers of such materials. Reports received at Red Cross headquarters from nurses attached to some of the hospital units sent to Europe by that organization show that the supply of absorbent cotton, bandages, gauze, anaesthetics, iodine and alcohol and similar necessities are utterly inadequate.

Servian hospitals ran short of anaesthetics three weeks ago, and surgical operations there have since been performed while wounded were still conscious, according to Red Cross reports. Many deaths from shock of operations are reported. From nurses in French hospitals come such statements as "bandages, medicines and ambulance necessities are like treasures of kings. Gauze and anti-tetanique serum are very difficult to get."

It is also reported that there is a great shortage of surgical instruments in the field hospitals behind the armies.

"This country does not know the shortness of medical supplies in Europe," said Cranton Brenton, New York war relief director of the Red Cross, today. "Imagination cannot exceed the horrors resulting from the lack of them.

"We are doing all we can, but there is a great and pressing need of money to purchase these supplies."

Canadian Potatoes Wanted in France

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Canadian potatoes are wanted in France. Hon. Phillipe Roy, Canadian commissioner-general in Paris, has informed the department of trade and commerce here that French potato dealers are anxious to get into touch with Canadian exporters. There is a shortage of potatoes in many parts of France.

In order to encourage Canadian exporters the French Government has removed the duty and the storage surtax on potatoes.

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Hundreds of windows in Gary were broken today by a nitro-glycerin explosion in the works of the Aetna Powder Mills, four miles distant. No one was killed or injured. It was reported, as a leak in an oil tank gave warning that an explosion might be expected, and the workmen, numbering about 200, ed.

Several small buildings near the plant were wrecked.

MONTREAL LIETENANT DIES FROM WOUNDS

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Nov. 23.—The death of Lieut. George Williamson, Duke of Wellington's West Riding Regiment, from wounds received at the front in France, is announced in a war office cable to his wife. Lieut. Williamson, who was a reservist, was a member of the local firm of Smith, Markey, Skinner, Pugsley & Hyde.

FRENCH CAPTURE HEIGHTS; SILENCE GERMAN BATTERIES

Important Gain For Allies Near Verdun—Market Place and Town Hall of Ypres Destroyed By a Bombardment.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—The French forces have captured the Heights of Ornes near Verdun and silenced two German batteries, according to official dispatches to the French embassy.

FRENCH OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—10:40 p.m.—The following official communication was issued tonight:

"Today there was a violent bombardment of Ypres, during which the market place and the town hall were destroyed.

"In the region of Soissons and Vailly there was rather strong cannonading.

"There is nothing to report from the other parts of the front."

The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon.

"The day of the 21st was calm upon the whole front. In Belgium as in the region from Arras to the Oise there were only intermittent cannonades. Our artillery evidenced in general more activity than that of the enemy. Our batteries succeeded in demolishing many lines of German trenches. The enemy worked elsewhere to construct new ones in the rear.

"The day was equally calm upon the Aisne, in the Champagne as well as in the Argonne district, upon the heights of the Meuse and in the Vosges."

The following official communication was issued by the war office last night:

"The day has been very quiet. There is nothing of interest to report except that in the Woevre district, in the Eparges, five German attacks were executed in mass in the space of two hours, and stopped abruptly by the fire of our artillery."

PREDICTS GENERAL RUSSIAN RETREAT

Officer Says It Is Only a Matter of Time—The Berlin Papers Are Hopeful.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Via The Hague and London, 11:10 a.m.—All the Berlin newspapers comment favorably this morning and very hopefully on the possible outcome of the fighting in Poland. They express the opinion that these engagements may decide the entire Russian campaign, if not the outcome of the war.

The Lokal Anzeiger has published an interview with an officer, who speaks for the military authorities. He says that in consequence of the rounding up of the Russian right wing by Gen. Von Hindenburg, and the simultaneous attack of the Austrians on the Russian left, a general Russian retreat with the evacuation of Lemberg is only a question of time. In their previous attack, this officer says, the enemy operated in accordance with their program, but today they have been forced to give up their war plans and face an entirely different situation. Existing conditions were foreseen by the German and Austrian commanders.

According to the same authority, the Russians lack artillery and rifles.

SUSPECTED OF GIVING GERMANS INFORMATION

U. S. Secret Service Watching Italian Family, Friends of Ship Captain.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 23.—United States secret service agents endeavored today to learn if the neutrality of the United States in the European war had been violated by wireless messages from a station under surveillance in Bar Harbor, Maine, to Germany or German war vessels in the Atlantic.

The station under surveillance is said to be the private plant of Ernest G. and Allesandro Fabbri, brothers, prominent in New York society. The Fabbris are sons of the late Ernesto Fabbri, who was a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. Although the Fabbris are of Italian extraction, Allesandro Fabbri is said to be pronouncedly pro-German in his sympathies.

At his home here, Ernesto G. Fabbri denied that he or his brother had ever conveyed any information to German officials, and treated the whole story as a joke. He said his brother maintained a wireless plant simply for amusement. Alleged close friendship of the Fabbri brothers and Capt. Polack, of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, was one of the chief reasons why the Government agents placed a close watch on the Fabbri wireless. After the steamer had put in at Bar Harbor, for fear of capture by British warships, it is said, Capt. Polack was frequently entertained at dinner at the Fabbri cottage, and one occasion the Fabbris entertained 250 of the ship's crew at a theatre at Bar Harbor.

Mr. Fabbri said today that he and Capt. Polack were close friends.

Haddi from the time he was arrested until his departure, refused absolutely to touch food. The Government interpreter stated yesterday that the reason Haddi would not eat was that he was afraid of being poisoned.

Declare They Captured Many British Officers and Soldiers Near Kantara Teo.

[Canadian Press.]

Constantinople, via London, Nov. 23.—8 a.m.—Turkish troops have reached the Suez Canal, according to an official communication made public here Sunday. The statement reads:

"Turkish troops have reached the Suez Canal. Fighting has occurred between Katasa and Teatebe, both 30 kilometers east of the Suez Canal and near Kantara Teo (probably Elkantara, 25 miles south of Port Said).

"English officers and many soldiers, as well as many wounded, were taken prisoners. Troops of English and Egyptian police surrendered."

Elkantara is on the right bank of the Suez Canal, 25 miles south of Port Said, and on the caravan track between Egypt and Syria.

SIEGEL CONFIDENT OF ACQUITTAL ON CHARGE

State's Evidence Ends in the Grand Larceny Case—Conspiracy the Question.

[Canadian Press.]

Genesee, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Henry Siegel, now on trial at Genesee before Justice Clark, of the supreme court on a charge of grand larceny, will not take the stand to testify in his own behalf. This decision has been announced by Attorney-in-Chief John B. Stanchfield.

With the identification of several books at the resumption of the trial this morning by Jos. E. Pridday, former manager of the Henry Siegel Company, of Boston, the state rested its case.

The defence believes that but two days will be necessary to present its case, and it is probable that Siegel will know his fate Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Considerable stress is placed by Stanchfield on the testimony of Oscar A. Prall, Siegel's former confidential secretary, who swore that no conspiracy was hatched in preparing the statements on which $100,000 was obtained from the National Bank of Commerce. It is on this charge that the charge hinges, and Attorney Stanchfield will ask the court to order stricken out of the records all reference of conspiracy.

Siegel states that he feels confident of acquittal. He stated further that had the district attorney's office not pressed the charges against him a reorganization would have been effected and all of the depositors of the bank would been paid in full.

TORY TORONTO IS ON "SAM'S" TRAIL

Petitions Circulated to Ask Premier to "Do His Plain Duty."

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—As a result of Major-General Sam Hughes' recent much-discussed "Amazing indiscretion," the city's indignation is asserting itself in a determined manner. Following an avalanche of printed protests, memorials—intended to spur Premier Borden to necessary action—are now being circulated over the city for signatures of all lovers of fair play.

The movement, which is under the auspices of prominent Conservatives, is being conducted quietly, its authors not seeking publicity, but merely performing what they believe to be their duty in the interests of Canada and the empire. When completed, memorials will be forwarded to the Premier, urging the performance of what the memorialists conceive to be Sir Robert Borden's plain duty.

Military and Civil Protest.

Prominent members of the active militia, officers on the retired list and ordinary citizens unite in voicing in the strongest terms, their condemnation of Major-General Hughes' action, and in supporting the action of Major-General Lessard in ordering the mobilization.

Nor is the militia moved one jot from its pursuance of sane military practice. The following uncompromising notice appeared in the orders of the Forty-Eighth Highlanders on Friday night:

Highlanders Show Defiance.

"Notwithstanding what has appeared in the public press in reference to the mobilization of this regiment on Monday last, all ranks are required to hold themselves in readiness for a similar call at any time."

The Queen's Own Rifles take the same view. Their officers have decided that should any of their men ask for payment for the few hours taken up by the mobilization, they will be paid out of the regimental funds. Such a possibility is very remote, for none has asked for payment.

The Royal Grenadiers believe in the policy of silent contempt.

FOE FAILS IN HIS EFFORTS AT YPRES

Position Held By Allies There Is Stronger Than Ever Before.

REPORT OF COL. SWINTON

Many Dead Germans Found, Showing Great Casualties Among Their Forces.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—6:20 p.m.—Colonel E. D. Swinton, the British official eye-witness with the expeditionary forces on the continent, continuing his narrative of the army operations and supplementing his account of November 19, writes:

"November 20: Once more there is no change to record in the military situation on our front, with the exception of an attack in force again on our left on November 17. The four days from the 16th to the 19th have been unusually uneventful.

"The great change that has occurred has been in the weather. Winter now has set in in earnest. A miserable afternoon of snow and slush, succeeded by a night of frost, this morning is keen, calm and bright and promises well for the aviators who have recently been so much hampered in their work.

"Regarding the exact situation at Ypres, since certain mis-statements, to the effect that the Germans have penetrated the town and had been driven out again, have apparently been circulated, it is well to state that Ypres is in the hands of the Allies and that save for prisoners of war or possible spies no Germans have succeeded in entering the town or even getting near it. The Allies position there is stronger than it ever has been.

Most Peaceful Day of Month.

"Monday, November 16, our troops on the left passed the most peaceful day they had experienced during the last month. There was little shelling and no infantry attacks. A prisoner asserted that it had been the intention of the Germans to assault this quarter on the 15h, but the damage inflicted by our artillery on the previous day had been so heavy that it had been decided to postpone the operation until reinforcements should arrive.

"There is no doubt that on the 19th, in massing preparatory to an attack, the Germans had committed certain faults and our guns and maxims were given a good opportunity which they at once seized, with devastating results in the rear battalions.

"The fighting to the south of Ypres continued without marked advantage to either side, but the French everywhere held their ground. On the centre all was quiet. On our right the enemy continued to show some activity, pushing forward the saps and throwing bombs from their trenches and mortars. One of their sap heads was successfully attacked during the night and an earth boring tool was captured.

Germans Driven Back.

"On Tuesday, on our left, the Germans made another effort in the direction of Ypres. After shelling our positions to the east and to the southeast they made three attacks. About 1 p.m. their infantry advanced in strength against our section on this line and took possession of some trenches out of which our troops had been driven by shell fire. When the Germans endeavored to press on our infantry made a brilliant counter-attack with bayonets and drove them out of the trenches and for some five hundred yards beyond.

"A second attempt made further to the southwest was pressed within five yards of our line before it was broken by our rifle fire. On this occasion the Germans advanced obliquely across our front and suffered very severely from our rifle and gun fire.

"The number of killed left in front, of a length of some 500 yards of our front, is estimated at about 1,200. The assault was made by regular troops though not by the Guard.

"About 3 p.m. they massed for the third assault but being subjected to a hot shell fire they gave up the attempt. On the whole it was a most successful day for our arms.

Another Quiet Day.

"Wednesday, the 18th, was another quiet day. Nothing occurred except the shelling of our right. The enemy contented himself with sapping, it is said. Owing to the high tide the inundation was extending satisfactorily to the southeast of Dixmude.

"Thursday, the 19th, also was uneventful. Our trench mortars were used for the first time with good results. The successful resistence we have up to the present made to all the efforts of the enemy has had a very encouraging effect in spite of the exhausting nature of the operations in the last month. Our men show great enterprise in making local counter-attacks in cutting off the enemy's patrols and is similar affairs of outposts.

uaoi2k. "Around Ypres we continually are finding fresh evidence of the slaughter inflicted on the enemy. On the 15th, one of our battalions while advancing discovered a German trench, manned by 17 corpses, while there were 49 more in a house close by. On the next day a patrol discovered 60 dead in front of one trench, and 50 more opposite another. All the farms and cottages to our front are charnel houses.

German Attempts Costly.

"The significance of such small numbers lies chiefly in the fact that they represent the killed in a very small area. According to the prisoners, the German attempt to take Ypres proved costly. One stated that there were only fifteen survivors out of his platoon, which went into action 50 strong. Another reported that of 250 men who advanced with him, only 19 returned. It is believed that one Bavarian regiment, 3,000 strong, which left Bavaria for the front on October 9, had only 1,200 men left when an attack was made along the Menin-Ypres on November 16, in which it again suffered severely.

"The plight of some units of new formations is even worse, one regiment of the Third Reserve Corps having 600 men out of 3,000.

"If the period since the beginning of the war is considered, the numbers are even greater. For instance, of the Fifteeth Corps, one regiment lost 60 officers and 2,560 men. Another lost 3,000 men. These figures include casualties of every kind—killed, wounded and missing.

First Snowfall.

"On all four days the weather has been bad. Generally fine and frosty in the early morning, it turned to heavy rain as the day wore on. Thursday, snow started to fall about 1 p.m., and continued until about 6 o'clock. It fell in large, soft flakes, which covered the ground for two inches, and melted under foot. The state of the roads, already bad, was rendered worse.

"The condition of the trenches became wretched beyond description. From having to sit or stand in a mixture of straw and liquid mud, the men had to contend with half frozen slush. 'It is an ill wind, however,' and one good point about the wet weather is that it made the ground so soft that the enemy's howitzer shells sink some depth before they detonate, and expend a great part of their energy in an upward direction, throwing the mud about.

"Nevertheless, the wet and cold have added greatly to the hardships of the troops in the trenches, and the problem how to enable them to keep their feet reasonably dry and warm now is engaging serious attention.

Both House and Repair Shop.

"At one place, owing to the kindness of the proprietor, certain works recently were placed at our disposal as a wholesale bath-house, lavatory and repair shop. In the works are a number of vats large enough to contain several men at one time. They serve most excellently for the provision of hot baths for the men on relief from the trenches.

"While the men are enjoying their bath, their clothes are taken away, their underclothing washed or burned and replaced by a new set. At the same time uniforms are fumigated, cleaned and repaired, and buttons sewed on. The repairs are done by a gang of women who are employed for the purpose. By this installation some 1,500 men are catered to in every way.

Baths Badly Needed.

"What this rehabilitation really means to the soldiers alone can be appreciated from the realization of their previous state. It must be remembered that they not only had not bathed for weeks, but they had not been able to take off their clothes; that consequently in many cases, the officers as well as the men are verminous.

"As the latter troop up to the bath they are unprepossessing in appearance, weary, unshorn and haggard. They are coated with mud, a good deal of which is crusted on them. Some are splashed with the blood of their comrades or of the enemy.

"When they come out clean, refreshed and reclothed, they are different beings. Not only is this a good thing from the point of view of the happiness and comfort of the individual, but it is a distinct gain to his fighting value, and an asset to the force. Nevertheless, bodily, the men are in good condition. Food in abundance reaches them regularly, except in a few cases, such as are incidental to trench warfare."

BRITISH AND FRENCH VESSELS CAPTURED

Passengers and Crews Taken to Buenos Aires by German Boat.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 22.—The German steamer Sierra Cordoba arrived here today and debarked the passengers and crew of the British steamer La Correntina and the crew of the French ship Union.

The Sierra Cordoba left Montevideo Oct. 17 for an unknown destination. The last report of the La Correntina was that she was overdue at Liverpool on a voyage from Buenos Aires. The Union left Port Talbot, Wales, Sept. 6, for Valparaiso.

BRITISH CAPTURE A TURKISH VESSEL

Find Two German Officers in Disguise—Torpedo Boats Get Away.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company sends the following:

"A British destroyer has captured a Turkish vessel on which were two German officers in disguise. They were proceeding to Smyrna.

"An Anglo-French squadron fired on some Turkish torpedo boats in the Dardanelles but the latter disappeared."

It appears from the story told by her passengers that the La Correntina was overtaken on October 27, 250 miles northeast of Lobos Island, by the German converted cruiser Kronz Prinz Wilhelm, which, after taking off the passengers and crew, sent the British liner to the bottom. The French bark Union was picked up by the Kronz Prinz Wilhelm on October 28 and scuttled after her crew had been taken off.

HAVE FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE UNDER CONTROL

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, Nov. 23.—The lifting of the quarantine against Canada because of the foot and mouth disease is regarded by officials of the department of agriculture as encouraging evidence that they are "on the outside of the disease."

Another cause for encouragement is the fact that, although a shipment of infected cattle reached Spokane, Wash., some days ago, no new cases have since been reported from that state. This is taken to mean that the diseased cattle were killed and buried before they had had an opportunity to spread the disease; in consequence, it has not been considered necessary to quarantine Washington. At the present time, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania are the most seriously affected.

Could Not Get Rid of Them Until She Used

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

When the blood becomes impure the first symptoms which manifest themselves are a breaking out of the various forms of skin trouble, such as boils, pimples, abscesses, ulcers, etc., and the only treatment you can use is some sort of a good blood-cleansing remedy which will put the blood into a perfect condition, and thus eliminate all the different poisons from the system which cause these different eruptions to occur.

The best blood-cleansing remedy on the market today is Burdock Blood Bitters. All we ask you is to try it and be convinced. Thousands have used it during the past forty years, and have nothing but praise for its curative powers.

Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Plantagenet, Ont., writes: "I am one woman who cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was covered with boils, and could not get rid of them. I was advised by a friend to try B. B. B., which I did, and I can truthfully say that it completely cured me. I have never had a sign of a boil since."

See that our name appears on both the label and wrapper, as there are many imitations placed on the market which are said to be "just as good."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GUARD OF HONOR FOR SAM HUGHES

Minister of Militia To Have Escort of 100 From 18th Battalion.

MAY CAMP FOR WINTER

No Intimation of Volunteers Leaving—Plan St. Thomas Trip.

When Major-Gen. Sam Hughes comes to the city on Wednesday he will be attended by a guard of 100 soldiers of the Eighteenth Battalion, furnished by Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle. The captain of this guard of honor had not been selected by Col. Wigle, yesterday, but it will be one of the captains of the battalion. The camp is being slicked up to bear the rigid inspection which, it is expected, Major-Gen. Hughes will make when he is here.

Plan St. Thomas Trip.

Col. Wigle yesterday took under consideration an invitation from St. Thomas to spend a night in that city. Citizens of St. Thomas offer to house the soldiers over night if they will come down there.

If the battalion accepts the invitation the soldiers will march down in a body, spend the night there, and march back, bearing all their equipment and transports with them. Col. Wigle and his provisional staff are anxious to make this trip and try out the mettle of the men on long hikes.

The men have been measured for winter caps, and these will be issued to them in a few days. Col. Wigle announced yesterday that the training from now on would be in heavy marching order, and the men will have need of the warm Government caps. All equipment, rifles, etc., have been issued to the men, and the battalion is now in excellent shape for immediate service.

May Be Here All Winter.

There is no intimation, however, when the camp will be broken up, and from the present outlook it is believed the soldiers will remain in London until most of the winter has gone.

The battalion participated in a church parade yesterday, headed by the Seventh Fusiliers Band, to Queen's Park, where a sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. MacGregor.

The soldiers find considerable amusement and entertainment on these cold nights in the dry canteen at the arts building, where moving pictures are shown each evening except Sunday, and song services are conducted under the auspices of the national council of the Y. M. C. A.

Inspection at Park.

Major-General Hughes will arrive in London about 11:20 o'clock Wednesday morning. A body-guard picked from men of the Eighteenth Battalion and a band will meet him at the depot and escort him to Victoria Park where the Eighteenth Battalion will be drawn up for inspection and review. At 12 o'clock Major-General Hughes will place the wreath on the soldiers' monument and present the rifle donated by the Daughters of the Empire to Cadet Sergeant James Meston for his splendid shooting in the rifle matches.

Following the program at the park, Major-General Hughes will attend the Canadian Club banquet. At 2 o'clock he will leave for Glencoe where he gives an afternoon address. He will return to London in the evening and give an address in the Grand Opera House. During the review at Victoria Park, the Western University Home Guard and the High School Cadets will be present. The members of the local chapters of the I.O.D.E., have also been requested to be present.

LONDONER COMMITTED ON SEDUCTION CHARGE

Young Sarnia Girl Was the Only Witness Against Him.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

PETROLEA, Nov. 22. — Blake Weaver, the London piano salesman, arrested in Wyoming recently on a charge of seducing a young Sarnia girl, under promise of marriage, was given a private hearing in court here, and was committed for trial at the spring assizes in Sarnia. Weaver's wife was in court throughout the hearing.

The only witness was the girl, who stated that she met Weaver on Thursday last; that he called on Friday evening and took her driving on Saturday evening. Weaver, she said, took her to a hotel in Petrolea and there assaulted her. He promised to marry her first on Sunday, and then on Monday, but put it off each time.

She produced an engagement ring, which, she said, Weaver had purchased for her.

Later, she said, she learned that he was married, but could not leave him because she had no money. On Monday night they drove to Wyoming, where her father and a detective found them.

Weaver applied for bail, but as this was a matter outside of the jurisdiction of Magistrate McKenzie, he refused. An application will be made in Sarnia.

SERIOUS FIRE AT EYEBROW

Hundred Thousand Dollars Damage In Business District.

EYEBROW, Sask., Nov. 22.—Damage to the extent of about $100,000 was done by a fire which ravaged the business district of Eyebrow last night and it was only with great difficulty that the whole town was saved from destruction.

The fire originated in Bishman's livery barn at 6:30 p.m. and totally destroyed that building, a butcher shop, a laundry, the opera house and implement shed and J. D. Munro's general store.

PRINTERS HONOR DEAD MEMBERS

Typographical Union, No. 133, Has Annual Memorial Service.

PARADED TO THE CHURCH

Local Marches From Rooms To New St. James' Presbyterian Church.

Following an annual custom, the members of the local branch of the International Typographical Union yesterday did honor to the memory of the dead members of the order by attending in a body a special memorial day service at New St. James' Presbyterian Church. The building was decorated with white chrysanthemums, and a sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by the pastor, Rev. T. H. Mitchell. Special music was given by the choir. L. K. Cameron, King's printer, attended the service.

The printers, to the number of almost 100, assembled at the union headquarters in the Duffield Block, shortly after 10 o'clock, and in parade formation, marched by way of Richmond and Oxford streets to the church. A great many friends and relatives of the dead members also attended the service.

Typos Welcome.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell declared there were no men in the city of London he would rather have come to church than the printers, because he realized every morning when he came downstairs and got his daily newspaper how much he owed to them. He realized that they toiled all through the night that he might read the morning paper.

The preacher took as his text the fourth verse of the second chapter of Ruth: "And behold, Boaz came from Bethlehem and said unto the reapers: 'The Lord be with you,' and they answered him: 'The Lord bless thee'."

Of the three essential factors in our civilization, religion, education and industry, two of them, religion and industry, were exemplified in this verse, he said, and there were two things which religion and industry had in common: they both put a high value on individual life and they both taught that union through sacrifice was the great essential to progress.

Religion always had placed a very high value on individual life, as indicated in the two extracts: "Come, let us make man in Our own image," and "Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels," and industry was coming more and more to do the same thing. In some respects it was putting the Christian church to shame by the way it was taking care of the workers. In this connection the preacher referred to the efforts of the printers' union towards improving the sanitary and other conditions of work for the men.

The union also splendidly exemplified its principle of union through sacrifice, in the home it had established in Colorado, which now was valued at $1,000,000, and for the upkeep of which each member of the union subscribes monthly.

Religion and industry being so closely identified, Mr. Mitchell asked if there were not ways in which organized religion and organized industry could help each other. Each could gather information and exchange it with the other. Often the men in the pulpit spoke without a real knowledge of the facts, and he suggested that the organized industries might give them the facts.

Favors Co-Operation.

It would be a splendid thing if the two organizations could help each other to pass legislation which would be in the interests of all, and especially this co-operative effort would be beneficial if devoted to the mitigation of the drink evil. Social surveys had shown that the greatest problems to be solved were the result mainly of three causes: drink, idleness and improvidence. Idleness and improvidence might be largely temperamental, but something ought to be done about the drink curse.

The cause of drunkenness always was within a man, but the occasion was without. Two things had to be done to mitigate the evil: the man had to be strengthened within and the occasion lessened without. Mr. Mitchell said he did not believe the resolution adopted by the Trades and Labor Council represented the thought of Labor generally. He asked his hearers to unite with the temperance workers in the coming year to lessen the occasion and temptation of the drink traffic.

"You can do something for us and perhaps we can do a very little for you," continued the preacher. "We remember that a man has a soul, but are apt to forget that he has a body. What we are in need of is Christian people who will think of men's bodies as well as their souls. It is almost an impossibility for people to live right if their material surroundings are wrong."

In conclusion, Mr. Mitchell declared that Christ was the best friend labor ever had. He had dignified labor and had bettered the material conditions of the toiler to a greater extent than anyone before or after Him. It was He who had propounded the doctrine that "the laborer is worthy of his hire."

"BUY HOME IMPLEMENTS"

A. E. Lucas Tells Vegetable Growers to Patronize Home Industries.

The progressive publicity campaign of the London branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association to disseminate the highest scientific principle of vegetable culture will be actively continued during the winter months, and the first meeting of the association was held at Darch & Hunter's on Saturday night and was well attended.

A. E. Lucas, the vice-president, took the chair and enthusiastically advised the growers to purchase only agricultural implements that were made in Canada. Let them fall in line and to a man support Canadian industries, which turned out the finest goods in the world.

C. W. Baker, president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, reported the annual convention at Toronto this fall. He stated the society was as keenly alive as ever to the welfare of the growers. The association had imported seeds from European countries, and he dwelt on the importance of the growers in Canada experimenting with these seeds. To obtain the greatest success the growers must experiment, Mr. Baker stated, and all first-class gardeners adopted this policy. At the close of the enthusiastic meeting many growers were enrolled as new members.

18TH BATTALION MEN AT ST. PAUL'S

Church Is Decorated With Union Jacks For Occasion of Soldiers' Visit.

LAUDS CANADA'S LOYALTY

"Greatest Expedition That Ever Left America," Says Canon Tucker.

Men of the Eighteenth Battalion with the congregation of St. Paul's Cathedral, packed the church last night, when Rev. Canon N. Tucker preached a sermon on the war situation. The church was decorated with Union Jacks.

So far, the war had produced these results, Canon Tucker said: It had shattered the myth that Germany's army was invincible; shown the decisive factor of naval power; consolidated and unified the whole British Empire; stopped the frivolity which was sweeping the world, and sobered the nation; produced a new idea of manhood; almost destroyed forever, the national and racial distinctions which will never be the same again.

"Immovable Rock."

"Germany's best troops have dashed against the 300-mile battle front of the Allies, like a wave against an immovable rock. Germany was too confident of victory. Now she is more circumspect, while we have discovered that Germans are not gods, but only men," said Canon Tucker.

"Britain's navy," he said, "had seized Germany by the throat and strangled her, stopping her trade and commerce with the world. British ships control the seas, and British merchandise is going into every port in the world. British mills are running full time. On the other hand, there is not one single German ship on the seas, except pirate ships; and not a single bale of goods legitimately leaves a German port.

"The German policy rested on the delusion that the British Empire was divided, and waited a chance to haul down the old flag. Civil war, they believed was imminent in Ireland. All these delusions vanished into air when war was declared.

"Britain is united now, from the King on the throne, to his lowliest subject, stronger and closer than ever before in her glorious history," declared Canon Tucker. German gold, he said, has caused dissensions in South Africa, but the majority of the people, the speaker said, were as loyal as any other of the empire.

Lauds Canada's Share.

"Canada sent the greatest expedition and the greatest argosy to England, that ever left America. India was swept by a wave of loyalty. The empire stands united today like one man, with all the wealth and resources of the empire at the command of the mother country," declared the speaker.

"Frivolity has given place to soberness and earnestness. Our ladies, instead of devoting so much time and money to clothes and fashion, are now sewing and providing comforts for the men on the battle line. Our empire was giving way to materialism, and the amassing of fortunes and luxury and frivolity," said the speaker. "The vital interests on which the safety of the empire depends," he said, "have sobered the nation and a spirit of good works, open hearts, and a desire to consecrate the soul to God's service had taken its place.

"Men are reverent, nations are neighbors, racial distinctions and national distinctions will never again be as strong. The nations are interlaced. None stand for themselves, and we have been brought to realize that we are more than ever one family and one nation."

MINSTREL SHOWS TAKE IN $1,000

Of This Sum at Least $500 Will Be Cleared For the Victorian Order.

TAKE SHOW TO ST. THOMAS

Troupe May Play Railway City and Sarnia — Capacity House Saturday Night.

While all the returns from the patriotic minstrels are not yet in, it was stated Saturday night that the total receipts will be over $1,000, and from this is to be deducted rent of the theatre and expenses of the show. The committee expects to turn over at least $500 and perhaps more to the Victorian Order of Nurses, for whose benefit the show was given.

Arrangements are being made to repeat the performance at the Grand Opera House in a few weeks. A large party of St. Thomas people who saw the performance Saturday night are anxious to have the show put on in that city and arrangements will be made today to fix the date for an engagement there. Effort will also be made to take the show to Sarnia.

From 200 to 300 people were turned away from Saturday night's performance, the theatre being packed from pit to dome. The program contained several numbers which it was impossible to put on because of the number of feature acts. These included specialties by Gordon and Walter Russ, Fred Leach and Harry Fraser, M. Wolfe, Frank Nickle, Locke Hendricks, Johnny Madden, and a new song, "The Little Old Ford It Rambled Right Along," by C. Stubig.

The whistling number in the first part by Frank Nickle and Frank Howston was arranged after the programs were printed and came as a surprise to the audience. That it proved a popular number was evidenced by the number of encores the boys got.

GREAT START FOR MEN'S CAMPAIGN

1,500 People Attend the Big Opening Meeting on Sunday Afternoon.

DR. FIKES OPENS FIRE

Gives Four Addresses to Start Crusade For "More Men In the Churches."

"Please don't eat peanuts in the theatre," was the first thing the audience saw when they packed into the Majestic yesterday, 1,500 strong, to listen to the opening address of the Y.M.C.A. Men's campaign. The next thing they noticed was a big, whole-souled choir of sure-enough fellows who were willing to sing, even if they weren't Carusos. And the only thing they didn't notice—and won't find clear through to the last day of the proposed three weeks' series—is the least hint of sanctimoniousness, of that sort of holier-than-thou religion whose professors are long pray-ers and short prayers, good comers, but poor stayers.

Dr. Maurice P. Fikes, of Detroit, got the campaign away to a splendid start with four Sunday addresses—he doesn't call 'em sermons—of which the afternoon was the second in the series. He took for his topic, "Sin"—not the theological, theoretical, somebody-else's sin that is obnoxious and deadly and quite untouchable, but the everyday sort.

"Pleasant, of course it is pleasant," said the doctor. "I'm not going to stand up here and tell you it isn't. You'd contradict me straight off the bat. You'd say, 'There is pleasure in dark places. I've had it.'

Sin Attractive.

"Yes. And poisons are sweet to taste. And the boa constructor is a beautiful, glistening, jewelled band to look at. If sin were not attractive, it wouldn't have any power. The trouble is that sin never lets up on a man. Sin is the most terrible taskmaster. It promises pleasure—and gives it. But it doesn't say anything about the pain with which you have to pay. It promises life—and gives it. But it keeps quiet about the death that comes after.

"Is there any other power in the world that can make a man go against his best interests. Against his dollars-and-cents advantage? Against his reputation, his inclination? Sin takes the carpets off the floor; sin breaks the dishes in the cupboard; sin breaks every heart in the home; sin sinks a man's cheeks and crushes his eyes and unnerves his body, so that people see him slink by on the street and pity him. And all the time he knows it.

"I'm not talking about any particular sin—not drunkenness, nor deceitfulness, nor dishonesty. Those things are superficial."

"You can part your hair and get a new suit, and manicure your nails," the speaker said, "but that won't make you a gentleman. You can cultivate all the external virtues known to man, but that won't change your heart, won't make you a Christian."

"A man puts his hand in the till tonight and steals $500," said the doctor. "Does he become a thief at that moment? No; he became a thief two years ago when he figured it all out. Another fellow shoots a man through the brain tomorrow. But his murder is ten year old, and dates from the time he said under his breath, 'If ever I get the chance, I'll go up to London and——.'

"No hand but the Hand that fashioned your heart and mine can go deep enough to touch that thought-spring. But that Hand can do it perfectly."

"It doesn't matter how far down a man has gone, God can find him, God can raise him to supernal heights, beyond anything he ever dreamed before. And that's all there is to the gospel—sin, which means I'm down; salvation, which means that God can lift me up."

Dr. Fikes then asked that those who had had such an experience should get up and say, "I have," so that the rest would hear their testimony, to add to that of the speaker. And all over the theatre there was a fusillade of replies, "I have," "I have," "I have!"

Dr. Fikes preached last night in the First Methodist Church, after the regular evening service. The building was crowded.

The team workers begin their campaign this morning, and meet at luncheon at noon in the Y. M. C. A. to discuss the first day's progress on the men's campaign.

COLBORNE ST. CHURCH HAS SILVER JUBILEE

Stirring Sermons Mark Celebration of Events—Pastor Says Allies Will Win.

The silver jubilee services of the Colborne Street Methodist Church was held on Sunday. In the morning Rev. A. J. Thomas, pastor of Dundas Centre Methodist Church preached to a crowded congregation. The evening service was conducted by Dr. E. E. Braithwaite, M.A., B.D., president of the Western University.

Rev. E. B. Lancey, now of Toronto, was the first pastor of the church, which was built in 1889, Rev. Wm. McDonagh, B.D., who was president of the London conference at the time, preached the opening sermon.

Rev. A. J. Thomas took his text from the fifth chapter of Judges, the last verse: "So let all thine enemies perish, O Lord; but let them that love Him, be as the sun, when he goeth forth in his might." "The text is in the form of a prayer," said the preacher. The dealings of God with His people is sufficient for us to ask increasing favors of Him. It is a prayer which the Church of Christ might well utter today. Deborah was anxious that the enemies of Israel should be overcome so let all the enemies of God Perish."

"It is a wonderful prayer. The words of this song should appeal to us. The sun rises and scatters the darkness, so let all the darkness in our lives vanish, and the Church of God, march forth to victory.

"The enemies of God were never bolder than they are today. Sin takes various forms, and its name is legion. It has permeated our social and national life, and has led many of our young men to ungodliness and shame. Sin is organized," said the speaker, and he cited the liquor traffic as an instance of this. He spoke of the evils of larger, cities, stating that the people who retire to bed early in the evening, do not know of the wickedness rampant after darkness falls on the country.

"We have no doubt that the Allies will triumph in the present war, and we have the same confidence that the church will finally win in its war against sin. Generals French and Joffre have assumed the aggressive. So should we assume the aggressive in our battle against sin.

Mr. Thomas closed with a reference to love, the mightiest power on earth. The Church of God will only flourish when this love is given to Jesus Christ," he declared.

PREACHES FIRST SERMON IN CHALMERS CHURCH

Rev. A. Graham, the Newly-Inducted Pastor, Conducts First Services.

A large congregation last night greeted Rev. A. Graham when he conducted the first Sabbath evening service as pastor of Chalmer's Presbyterian Church. To the many who had come out to hear him, his offering was a simple, direct, logical gospel sermon, free alike from frills of rhetoric and the modern tendencies of critical thought.

"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek," he said. "We want to look at the essentials of the gospel of Christ. When you go away, you will not have heard anything original or striking, but once again the simple gospel of Jesus and you will carry once more with you the responsibility of letting it have more effect in your lives."

SCHOONER ASHORE; CREW IN DANGER

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 23.—A four-masted schooner, laden with lumber, went ashore early this morning near Shinnecock Lightship. The vessel appeared to be breaking up in the heavy seas this forenoon. She was about a quarter of a mile from the shore. Life-savers sought to rescue the crew.

Danger Signals Warn You Of Approaching Paralysis

Slowly and Surely Exhaustion Goes on Until Collapse of the Nerves is the Natural Result.

You may be restless, nervous, irritable and sleepless, but you think there is nothing to be alarmed at. You have no appetite, digestion is impaired, and there is weakness and irregularity of other bodily organs. You feel tired in body and mind, and find that you lack the energy to attend to the daily task.

MRS. ALLAN

You may not realize that these are the symptoms of nervous prostration and the danger signals which warn you that some form of paralysis is the next step of development.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most successful restorative for the nerves that has ever been offered to the public. This has been proven in many thousands of cases similar to the one described in this letter.

Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D., 3, Sombra, Ont., writes:—"Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown, and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
