As a result of the friendly discussion which took place, the threatened legal action against the council will not take place and East London will get its

It was decided after discussion that If the board of control would recom-mend to the council that the rooms required in the east end hall be obtained by September 1 and look after the Chairman McDonagh and Librian Carson were named a committee to notify the board officially what, it is stables and garden occupy much ground.

Library Board Right. Stevenson and Controllers Moore and White, who were present from the board of control, admitted that the library board was completely in the right in the demands it made, and egreed to make a recommendation to the cil at its next meeting, that immediate steps be taken to secure the rooms in the East End Hall, and also to pover the finances which were cut out

Chairman McDonagh pointed out the sness of the action of the councit In taking the steps it did. Such proceedings he said, were not only illegal but might establish a most dangerous precedent. While he felt that the board was most averse to legal actions, espe-cially among civic bodies, the members did not propose in any way to surren-ger their rights.

Acted Discourteously. Thomas Gillean stated that the board of control had acted most discourteously in never even replying to letters sent it of the year, asking that the matter be taken up as arranged with last year's council. Other members also commented upon the fact that important leiters might be sent to the board and be suppressed and never reach the council. Controllers Moore and White said they thought the board of control was justiin asking the library board to cut out the East End library this year, as it was a luxury, and in the present al conditions could stand over. Mr. Gillean and Dr. A. O. Jeffery pointed out that the library board has never taken its estimates in the past

ECONOMICAL POLICY OF L. AND P. S. R.

Economy has been the watchword of the London and Port Stanley electrification. Citizens of London have Adam Beck's word for it. They have been assured that such is the case. Those who walk along Bathurst street, between Waterloo and Wellington streets, are inclined to believe otherwise. The illustration, pictured above, shows the line of steel towers close to the M. C. R. tracks that are now being cut down. To the right of the picture can be seen the new location of the steel towers, indicated by the one lying on its side.

The "economical" management of the L. and P. S. R. erected its original poles immediately beside the tracks of the M. C. R. The superintendent of that road came here Saturday, saw the towers, and ordered their instant removal. The said economical management had no other recourse but to move them. This is being neatly accomplished by sawing off the steel work a foot below the ground and leaving the concrete bases and lower steel work in the ground. New poles are being erected to the south, along the street, and here, too, is an objection, for property owners declare that the new locations encroach on their property. What the cost of the moving is, no one ventures to say. In their original location the poles rendered the M. C. R. siding useless. They not only blocked the team tracks, but they would prevent cars being placed thereon in strings. The cars would have to be separatd and placed between poles so that the car doors would not be blocked.

To the left of the pcture, besides the water tower, can be seen another line of steel poles, that have to come out also. These were placed on Grand Trunk property, and their removal has been ordered.

GERMAN BULLET FAILS TO STOP DESIRE FOR FIGHT

London Soldier Describes Battle in Which He Fell With Bullet in Neck.

I have been wounded, but very glad to say it was not so serious as thought. I am going back to the front in about two weeks now to do a bit more for my country.

After the victory of the British troops at Hill 60, following on the success of Neuve Chapelle, the German commander-in-chief was forced to attempt an advance in some parts of his lines around Ypres, for the continued local defeats of the entrenched German armies were telling on the spirit of our men. Four miles eastward at the hamlet of St. Julien the trenches of the Canadians, under Major-Gen. Alderson, remained like the edge of a broken dyke, through which a flood was pouring. In the darkness we felt a curious smarting of our eyes, and an extraordinary lumping of our throats, but most of us were moved from the deadly gas zone, but we were in deadly peril, for we had lost our four heavy guns. During the ours of 11 and 3 the guns were captured again by our Scotch Bat-

At half-past four the 1st and 4th Battalions made a brilliant charge. We were attacking for about three hours when all at once I felt something hit me in the face. It was a German bullet, and it lodged in my neck. My sergeant, who was Sergt. Piper of London, put the first-aid bandage on, and told me to lay there for a while, but the shell fire was so hot that I had to move. Well, I managed to get back to an old reserve farm, which we used as our dressing station. We were being shelled pretty badly. There I found my two chums—J. Cooke and Steele-had been wounded. We said we had better go and find an ambulance and get to a hospital, so off we started, limping and helping one another the best we could. Now, I am glad to say, I am quite well again, and expect to be back to the front again soon. I hope to get back to my own battalion. Yours PTE. A. My Dear Wife,—I have just received four letters from you, and how pleased I was to get them. The weather out here is beautiful. The sun is shining all day, but it is a bit chilly at nights. When one is behind the firing line, one would little dream there was such a murderous war going on. The guns have been quiet all day up till now, about 6:30 p.m., they have just started. Today is Sunday. This morning all the boys went to church; I, being cook, had to stop behind to cook the dinner.

Getting Better Food. In my troop we have about thirty men, and I cook for twelve of them. We draw all the rations together. The meat they gave us was about enough for 20 men instead of 30, so I tossed the other cook up for the lot. Lucky like, I lost the toss, and had to make a "bully-beef" stew. They said it was very nice. I am getting to be an excellent cook. Anything I am short of, I go into a farmhouse and ask for it, and usually get it. The food here is better than in England. Today we had bacon and eggs for breakfast, bully stew for dinner, and a alad for tea.

We do not need any money when we go into the trenches. We cannot spend t there, and when we rest we are right in the country, where there are no shops They will soon be having new potatoe here. All the vegetables are up, and the fruit is on the trees.

LABYRINTH BATTLE LASTED 18 DAYS WITHOUT PAUSE

[Canadian Press.]
PARIS, June 22.—5:55 p.m.—The fighting from May 30 to June 19, resulting in the conquest by the trenches which the soldiers call "The Labyrinth," is described today in a dispatch from an official observer at the front. "The Laby rinth," lying between Neuv.le, St. Vaast and Ecurie, formed a salient of the Germans' line, and its position, a strong one, was greatly reinforced from time to

"French attacks on May 9 and days thereafter failed to notify the situation," the observer writes. "At the end of May the French decided to finish things, and the or-der was given to tak; 'The Laby-rinth' inch by inch.

"This meant an operation of two principal phases of different na-ture. It was necessary first, by well prepared and vigorous assaults to get a footing in the enemy or-ganization; and hen to progress to the interior of the communi-cating trenches, in repulsing the enemy step by step. These two operations lasted more than three weeks and resulted in complete

The enemy artillery continued firing on our line without interruption. Our reserves suffered, for in this upturned earth, where every blow from the pickaxe would disinter a body, one can prepare but slowly the deep shelters which the situation demands. We lost many men, but the morale of the others was unshaken. The men asked only one thing—to go forward and fight with grenades, instead of waiting, gun in hand, the unceasing fall of

To The London Advertiser Readers Here is a thought for the man who is tired of the city's grind and the rattle and bang of things—the man who is nearing fifty and knows that his productive years as a "salary man" are coming to an end. To lose his position might mean going away off among strangers to hide the fight with poverty and old age. But why go "away off"? Take a ride on any of the suburban lines and see the hundreds and thousands of acres of idle land lying close in-held for speculation-not farmed-not used for anything-and all within a half hour's ride of your lifetime associates. What is the matter with a few cows that you can own? Ten acres which you can lease? What is the matter with a neat bungalow and garden, and, if necessary, a man to help you do the work? Ten cows are a living for a good-sized family and their own up-keep. Chickens thrive where cows thrive, and what with milk, butter, eggs, chickens and garden truck-all you can use and plenty to sell-the prospect of living just outside of the din is anything but disheartening. Our book tells you just what to do about these things. THOMAS E. HILL.

It seems strange "Lonely" has not met any of the girls of his choice. Perhaps it is because they are very shy, at least, the other kind seem to be always on hand, although I have a few friends who seem to be too popular to me, still they always come to me when they have any little trouble, and I can always understand the same as if they were my class. But the Hamilton shortstop was not the only man to jump into the frame of fame, as Schaffer, the visiting second sacker also showed some real heavy stuff, and the Hon. William undertook to cultivate the left garden, and he did the job nobly, making two one-hand catches of long flies from the bat of Lusk in the first and third innings that appeared to be on their way to the tall uncut. In fact, there was no fault to be found with the fielding of either team, and there were plenty of snappy plays despite the muddy going.

A little peppery fielding in the first in-ning might have cut off one of the hits that the visitors made, but after that they failed to do anything in the way of bunching bingles, and the other hits that the chirps got were scattered over as many innings and two of them were the scratch variety.

HERE'S A YOUNGSTER WHO'S MAKING GOOD--HE'S TAKEN HOME RUN BAKER'S JOB AND IS DOING WELL WITH IT.

This is Frank Baker's successor, the youngster who is tackling toughest job in baseball—W. L. Kopf. To attempt to replace the great Baker is a job in itself. Kopf is playing the bag well and covering more ground than Baker ever did. He cannot be expected to hit as good, but he is meet ing the ball well. Mack thinks the youngster will improve steadily and be almost as valuable a member of the team as was the home run king.

Three shots were fired, the third taking effect. He ran three blocks after being shot and died on the way to the hospital. He was under a three months sentence for vagrancy but had a criminal record. The affair happened on one of the main streets of the town. Scott came to Sudbury from Toronto several years ago. He is a prominent Orangeman and was county master. No action has as yet been taken,

THE HAGUE, Via London, June 22.— 10:40 p.m.—The Handelsblad in its edi-tion today asserts that Japan was prevented from sending 300,000 troops to Europe as the result of an unofficial hint to Great Britain from Washington that such an expedition would be un-

John Hancock—"Father of the Revolution"

PON the Declaration of Independence his name may be read without spectacles. His signature was the first subscribed to the world's most famous State document. In the most realistic sense John Hancock pledged his life and his fortune to the cause of the Revolution. He was one of the richest men in the colonies, holding investments in banks, breweries, stores, hotels, and also owning a fleet of vessels. The seizure of one of these precipitated the Boston massacre. In Revolutionary days and until his death he was a popular idol. When it was proposed to bombard Boston, though it would have resulted in greater personal loss to him than to any other property owner, he begged that no regard be paid to him because of his financial interests. While Hancock did not sign the Constitution of the United States, he used his great influence in its behalf, which awakened the gratitude of Washington. "He was prepossessing in manner, and passionately fond of the elegant pleasures of life, of dancing, music, concerts, routs, assemblies, card parties, rich wines, social dinners and festivities." Until the end of his life the people of Massachusetts delighted to honor him. In the stirring events preceding the Revolution he was one of the most active and influential members of the Sons of Liberty. To this tireless worker for American Independence Liberty was the very breath of life. He would have frowned upon any legislation which would restrict the natural rights of man, and would have voted NO to prohibition enactments. It was upon the tenets of our National Spoken Word that Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago founded their great institution. To-day throughout the length and breadth of the Free Republic their honest brews are famed for quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Their brand BUDWEISER has daily grown in popularity until 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles. ANHEUSER-BUSCH · ST. Here is a story which shows once again the extraordinary power of that famous British remedy, Dr. Cassell's Tablets, to restore the vital processes the body, and thus to effect recovery for. No one who saw Mrs. King. of 9 Vernon road, Copnor, Portsmouth, Engand, ever expected her to recover, yet today she is, as she expresses it, just full of health and strength, thanks to Dr. Cassell's Tablets. C. N. R.'s Part. [Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.-The Free Press this morning, commenting on the new charges, and especially on the demand made by the Telegram for a com-mission appointed at Ottawa, editorially says that help from Ottawa is not needed, and that Manitoba is capable of doing her own housecleaning, without turning over the job to a new commission, in whose appointment Hon. Robert Rogers would have a hand. As to the part of Mr. Fullerton, the Free Press says:

His First Appearance. "When Mr. Fullerton bobbed up befor Prisoners of War at Giessen, Ger-nany—Pte. George Miller, Bangor, the royal commission with his little speech as representative and spokesman Pte. Lester Clair Johnson, Lot 63, of those incorruptible patriots, the fourteen private members, it was not his appearance before this judicial When he appeared before the ssion at an early date, whom do you suppose he represented? Why, he represented Tom Kelly. Mr. Fullerton may not appear for Mr. Kelly this time; but he represents him and his interests just the same."

The C. N. R.'s Part. In another editorial the Free Press says that more and more attention is being attracted by the part played by the Canadian Northern Railway in the Reid, Ot- drama. After saying that the C. N. R.'s general counsel, F. H. Phippen, came Died of Wounds—Pte. M. Lightheart. [Canadian Press.]
Rome, June 22—Via Paris, June 23.— The Italian press vigorously condemns the interview attributed to Pope Benedict by Louis Latapie and published in La Liberte of Paris, in which his holiness is said to have voiced a complaint that the privileges of the Vatican have been seriously curtailed by the Italian Government as the result of the war. AUTHENTICITY DOUBTED. Havre, June 22-Via Paris, June 23.-Doubt is expressed by the Vingtieme Siecle, a Catholic Unionist newspaper, of the authenticity of the interview reported to have been given by the Pope to Louis Latapie. In this interview the Pontiff is said to have asserted that Cardinal Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, never had been arrested. The Vingtieme Siecle takes particular exception to this statement.

The newspaper argues that Cardinal Mercier's coercion was proved by the archbishop's own Latin pastoral address to the clergy on January 10, in which the prelate formally contradicted the statement of Gen. Von Bissing, Ger-man governor of Belgium, that the car-dinal never had been prevented from exercising fully his ecclesiastical func-

Verona, via Chiasso to Paris, June 23.

The Italian advance on the Trentino Alps daily is growing more difficult, owing to the formidable lines of fortifications constructed by the Austrians in valleys and on mountains, which are provided with excellent guns dominating all the passes.
Since the occupation of Cortina, May 30, the advance of the Italians on Austrian territory has been only a few miles in extent. On that front fighting is constantly going on among the highest mountains, having reached peaks at est mountains, having reached peaks at an altitude of about 10,000 feet on the Marmolada group, which dominate the famous Dolomite road.

As I look around me, I can see the old cook sitting in front of his cooker, which is a stove on wheels for field work. He's smoking his old pipe with the air of a general figuring out his plan for the morrow, while his assistant is busy gathering chips and wood for the next day's fire. One group of fellows is engaged in sewing on buttons and another in watching a little fire with a canteen on it very intently, to see that the new eggs in it do not burn. Needless to say, the farmer who wants to gather any eggs in this neighborhood must get up before breakfast, as the boys do not miss an opportunity of having an egg for breakfast. The old farmer has just come through the gap with his poor old mule hitched to the wagon. After a day in the fields the poor old mule looks as though night had not come too soon.
