THE COUNCIL'S DUTY

Few civic questions within past ears have attracted so wide and so general a discussion among the peo ple as has the recent Murray street paving problem, the sensational denouement of which was the feature of last Monday night's City Council

All day Tuesday and yesterday was discussed pro and con by the ratepayers-and not alone by the resdents of the road and people of the fourth ward-on the streets, in the factories, throughout the stores and within the business offices. The whole circumstances have created a profound impression-and there are many distinctly regrettable features, such as invariably characterize street rumors when people talk freely and are much stirred

The unfortunate connection and inerference of others than those in whom the ratepayers have placed their confidence has given rise, no doubt, to much of the more reckless comment. Public opinion holds generally that anything with which such individuals are actively identified is best left severely alone-and doubt-or just to impugn the reputation of our civic representatives in this insidious and unjust manner. It has been quite noisily charged on he streets that certain of the Council have been moved by unclean mo-tives, the press has been asked to demand "what there is in it for the boys," there has been much talk of misrepresentation and the forging of signatures. Yesterday The Planet was even told that the matter was left open till next Monday to enable another of the aldermen to be "induced" to turn over-and to "watch for the man who switched to asphalt block at the next vote.'

Now, all this is either a serious tatement resting upon some basis of fact, or it is a species of license slander. If the charges are true they should be formally preferred and the corruptionists should be exposed and punished; if they rest upon no evidence whatever, the slanderers should be rebuked and tongues silenced. We hear these charges on the streets they should insist on their investigation or upon a frank admission that they were made in error and cannot be established.

However, it is surely the duty o the members of Council to themselves and to the good name of the city they represent to do all in their power to allay all cause for this comment by everything possible to facilitate the proper and prompt settlement of this matter. For dermen who zealously supported the petition was to supply the cement in event of the pavement going on. In view of this it would surely be wise for each of the gentlemen who supported the pavement to individually place on record his denial.

Miss Aylesworth's departure will very next meeting of Council. Men

ROBBIE SAVED THE BIG GAME

Magnicent Work by Chatham's Custodian Featured the Great Struggle at Orillia.

Grand Lacrosse Battle for Championship Results in a Draw-Monday's Game to Settle It.

Associated Press Despatch.

Orillia, Ont., Aug. 31. — The first semi-final game for the intermediate champloaship, C. L. A., took place here to-day between Chatham and Orillia, and drew the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game on the local grounds. Nearly 2,000 specta-tors watched the game and saw the finest exhibition of lacrosse seen in Orillia for years. Although the score at the end was three all, Orillia had the best of the play, but the phenomenal work of Robinson in goal kept the home team from scoring. Again and again the local team took the ball right in on the flags and had six best left severely alone—and doubtless this has, more than anything else, aroused the indignation of the ratepayers and unloosened chattering tongues.

Nothing is more injurious to the civic prosperity of our town than the careless and thoughtless indulgence by influential citizens in this regrettable street talk. If one-half of the things openly stated were true, Chatham's situation would be a far from pleasant one. Surely it is not right pleasant one. The game was entirely free from roughness, only a very few decorating the fence for trivial offences. The long summer holiday season is over and the children of the city are again in attendance at the Public again in attendance at the Public schools deep in the study of books and lessons. Some are sorry that school has opened again, and few are very jubilant. Possibly those who are most glad are the parents, who will now be free from the petty annoyances of their little children from nine o'clock until four, at least, At the Central and McKeough schools the attendance on this open-At the Central and McKeough schools the attendance on this opening day was very large, larger than in any former year. DID YOU NOTICE IT?

"Did you ever notice," remarks the Belleville Intelligencer, "that now-adays you hardly ever see a Grit paper quoting the political utterances per quoting the political utterances of an indepedent paper. PARLIAMENTARY DENIALS.

The Liberal press has made strenuous and indignant protest from time to time that the opposition exhibited discourtesy in refusing to accept the statements of ministers and government representatives on the floor of the house, especially in the shape of denials of allegations made against them. It was even a sore point that members of the opposition while formally accepting the word of members, as in duty bound by parliamentary etiquet, acted very much as if they did not believe them. After the denial of Hon. Mr. Fisher in the Dundonald case when it first came up there was a good precedent for refusing to accord members of the government and its following that courtesy on questions of veracity which has hitherto prevailed in legislatives bodies throughout the British empire. It was humiliating that the dignity of parliament should fall so low that this should be necessary but the fact remains that in numerous cases the opposition was aware that statements were made which were not true and that in making them the speakers were merely taking advantage of the high honor which has hitherto gov erned parliamentary debates.

As showing the value of denials on the floor of the house the appointment of the commissioners for the eastern section of the Grand Trunk Pacific furnishes an interesting ex-During the last session of parliament it was charged on the floor of the house that Mr. F. "KEEP BOTH HANDS ON THE UNION JACK."

The sneering remarks of the Globe and other Liberal newspapers may be contrasted with the following from the Montreal Witness, a Liberal paper that is not under the control of the party bosses:

"Lord Dundonald told his enthusiastic admirers at Ottawa and Monttreal, and they are legion, to 'keep both hands on the Union Jack.' The cheering assent that was given to that advice must have convinced everybody, if anybody in Canada or abroad ever doubted it, that the great heart of Canada never beat more with loyalty to the old flag than it does to-day. Lord Dundonald was given a great send-off at Ottawa and got a great reception in Montreal, and all parties and creeds were represented. In Montreal, among the first to welcome him was Mr. Peter Lyall, the Liberal candidate for St. Antoine, which is suffi-cient proof that his public reception here was not arranged by the Conservative party. We read that one old soldier at Ottawa called for 'three cheers for the last General Officer Commanding in Canada,' and called for it with 'a touch of feeling' which we can quite believe and sympathize with. It is hard to break old ties and see them broken; but whether we are again to have a G. O. C. from England or not, or whatever other changes chance and time may bring

"I lest course and thought I would never regain my heatth."

"Three years of delicate health trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines" without benefit might well sap the courage of any woman. And yet Mrs. Bryant proved that the question of the cure of womanly disease is only a question of using the right remedy. A few doses of 'Favorite Prescription' restored her courage and revived her hope, because she could see "a decided change from the first." Three months' use of the medicine restored her to perfect health.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Mrs. Sarah Bryant, President of Memphis Social Science Club, residing at 27 Aktinson Ave., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I suffered with delicate health for three years, trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines until I lost courage and thought I would never regain my health; but a few does of your 'Favorite Prescription' made me change my mind. Could see a decided change from the first, so I kept on taking it for three months faithfully and am now in perfect health."

But they have tasted the joy of conferring benefits, of receiving gratitude, and they simply can't deny themselves. Why, people have stoler that they might not have to give ur the pleasure of bestowing gifts! Nothing can exceed the lengths to which this passion for giving will carry its

> One day while a gentleman of Portallow, St. Keverne, was walking pas a farm in the neighborhood he was at racted by a robin, which flew about him, flapped its wings in his face some two or three times, and appeared great-ly excited and distressed. He watched the robin for some time, and followed it toward a hedge a short distance away. There he found a rat which had got into the bird's nest and was devouring one of the young birds. At the sight of the gentleman the rat jumped out and was promptly knocked senseless. When the robin saw the rat lying on the road she flew at him and pecked him viciously. There were four young birds in the nest; one was killed, but the other three were unhurt.—St. James' Gazette.

SHOWING OFF CHILDREN.

It Is Very Apt to Breed Vanity and Self Consciousness. The writer considers showing off a child's accomplishments a very hazardous thing to do. "We should all of us soon become sorry prigs if we accustomed ourselves to exhibit our latest acquirements every time someone appeared who was not acquainted with them.

"The temptation is almost too great a one, it is true, to ask the happy papa and mamma to resist. That the baby who a few months ago could hardly speak at all should now be able to re-peat rhyme after rhyme of the classic Mother Goose is certainly a very wonderful thing, and it is very hard for the happy parents to realize that it is a miracle which has taken place sooner or later with every sometime baby in the land.

"But if the little songs must be repeated for company it makes a great difference with what motive the child is led to go through with them. If you say to him, 'Wouldn't you like to tell this lady about the poor little pussy cat who fell into the well?' it may happen that we can get it out without having any other feeling aroused than one of friendly human sympathy, but if you say, 'Come and let this lady see how well you can say "Tom, Tom, the Pi-per's Son," you give him a distinct and too easily learned lesson in vanity and self consciousness."—St. Louis Re public.

LINEN CUPBOARD.

A Handy Piece of Furniture That

Every housewife feels it her duty to have a linen cupboard, and where space is at a premium and the spacious cupboards that were the delight of the grandmothers of the present generations are out of the question, a special ly constructed cabinet serves admirably for a substitute. Such a cupboard is the one here shown, fashioned of English walnut and cedar and distinguished for its simplicity. It is scarcely five feet in height, the soft coloring of the unpolished walnut being so unobtrusive as to harmonize excellently with ordinary modern furnishings. The trays of Lebanon cedar are so constructed that each draws out upon a ledge fixed to the inside of the cupboard doors. For the mistress of a cottage or for the city apartment such a cupboard is certain to prove a boon and a joy.—Brooklyn Eagle,

One means of improving the skin is to prepare a mixture of fine oatmeal and distilled water. Make this the consistency of thick cream and, having dabbed it all over the face, rub it till it rolls off in dry flakes. Whatever be the plan decided upon great care must be taken to remove all traces of the oat-meal from the eyebrows and the roots of the hair, where it is apt to cake and remain in that unpleasant condition. In the massage treatment the oatmeal course comes after that of massage with cold cream and before the final course, consisting of a spray with a good astringent lotion, which should allowed to dry into the skin. The lotion tones up the cuticle after the steaming and massage process. Tollet vinegar is an excellent astringent, and another is composed of one pint of elder flower water, half an ounce of simple tincture of benzoin and ten drops of tincture of myrrh.

If properly treated stale bread may be kept for years, always ready for in stant use, says a writer in What to Flat. As the scraps of bread, biscuit, cake and crackers accumulate save them in a dust proof bag or any other receptacle that will keep them without attracting mold. When enough is collected to fill a baking pan of large size put them in it, set in the oven and allow them to stay there till toasted crisp. While yet warm put them in a cloth bag or on the molding boars and beat or roll until reduced to wheat grain size. Put through the flour sleve and keep the meal in a tin box or in whatever one uses for holding bread timbers and the grains in another. The success of the process depends upon toasting the scraps sufficiently without Fruitful Suggestions. A good salad accompaniment to a heavy dinner is one made of dates and oranges served on lettuce leaves. The lightly with sugar and the oranges cut into small pieces. Pour over this the juice of an orange, with a tablespoon of chopped parsley and a dash of red

In the land of oranges they have a delightful way of serving the fruit. It is peeled down to the bottom as one would pare an apple, leaving a sort of disk at the end of the peel. Then a fork is plunged through the remaining skin to the depth of the tines. The fruit is eaten from the fork. It is de-licious this way, but of course one needs a finger bowl after the process .-Exchange.

By no means a musical sound in itself, yet it is so bound up in our minds with the sleepy glamour of summer afternoons that we imagine the sitting dove as crooning to herself from sheer contentment with her lot. Very different is the reality. That drowsy monosyllable is the voice of the male dove, not of the hen upon the nest, and while he utters it his antics are ludicrous to observe. Gib Taylor is travelling agent for the Spring Bank Brewing Co., Hamilton. The firm Brewing Co., Hamilton. The firm sold 10 cases of ale to Mr. Merritt, Wheatley. He lost his license, and arefused to take it. The ale was be-ing stolen and Mr. Taylor shipped it to Blenheim to be stored until he got further instructions. The Crown had no evidence that the ale had been of-fered for sale, and the case was dismissed. An order returning the ale was made out, but 0. L. Lewis, who appeared for the Brewery, refused to accept the ale back, and notified Inspector Boon, of Bothwell, who had, * with the assistance of Rev. Mr. Brown, seized the ale, that the company would hold him liable for the conversion of the ale and look to him for it's value.

Rev. Dr. Werrell Choice of the Synod at Halifax.

On the Third Ballet the Election Fell to the Kingston Clergyman-His Only Was Rev. Dr. Tucker-Rev. Dr. Werrell Accepts the Election As the Will of God and Asks the Church's Prayers.

Malifax, N.S., Sept. 1.—The Synod of the Church of England in Nova Scetia met yesterday for the purpose of electing a bishop to succeed Rev. Dr. Courtney, resigned, and on the third ballot the choice fell on the third ballot the choice fell on the Ven. Clare L. Worrell, M.A., Ll.D., Archdeacon of Ontario. Only two candidates were put in nomination, the Rev. L. Norman Tucker, M.A., B.C.L., and the successful candidate. The lay men were at first favorable to Mr. Tucker.

On the first ballot the lay vete stood 67 to 48 in his favor, while on the first ballot the lay vete steed 67 to 48 in his favor, while the clerical vote steed at 25 to 58 in Mr. Worrell's favor.

On the second ballot Mr. Tucker lest 6 on the lay vote, while Mr. Werrell gained 5; at the same time on the clerical side Mr. Tucker lest 2 votes, while Mr. Worrell gained 3, the total vote standing at 61 to 23 in Mr. Worrell's favor and the lay side 61 to 53 in Mr. Tucker's favor.

The third and last ballot resulted in a substantial gain for Mr. Worrell in a substantial gain for Mr. Worrell on the lay side, giving him a majority of 6. The vote stood on the clerical side 63 to 21 and on the lay side 60 to 54. The election was afterwards made unanimous.

Rev. Mr. Worrell was notified and accepted in the following telegram:

"I accept election as the will of God. Ask for Church's prayers. Will write to-night."

The consecration will take place at St. Luke's Cathedral and an ef-fort will be made to get the Arch-bishep of Canterbury to officiate. Sketch of the New Bishep.

THE LACROSSE CLUB.

Chatham, Sept. 1st, 1904. To the Editor of The Planet: By reason of the great interest taken in the Tecumseh Lacrosse Club of this city, and the generous support given it in the past, the Executive of the Club feel it their duty to explain to the citizens the financial condition of affairs and the necessities of the Club, in order to carry the Lacrosse season through to a successful issue. A careful investigation into the affairs of the Club and its requirements, in order to carry out the season and be in the finals for the intermediate championship, clearly demonstrated that at least the sum of eight hundred dollars would have to be provided to meet all the obligations-current and future - of the club.

Those not familiar with the workings of the club will fail to understand the amount of expense connected with a championship series and particularly in connection with the games, both in and out of town, rendered necessary to place the team in the finals.

When, however, they think of the travelling expenses and hotel bills of fifteen or sixteen men, they can readily see that it takes quite a large sum of money to provide for these, not to speak of the usual incidental expenses connected with the successful management and running of a team.

Now that the Tecumsehs are in the finals and have every reasonable prospect of winning the championship (for the final game will be played on their own grounds on Labor Day) and the Club feel that the citizens have the interests or Chatham, and the the interests or Chatham, and the team particularly, sufficiently at heart to warrant them in asking for a sufficient gate receipt on Labor Day to meet all their obligations.

After a careful consideration of the matter, the executive deem it not only advisable but absolutely necessary that the general price of admission to the grounds on Labor Day should be fifty cents, and that the citizens should be asked to purchase tickets beforehand, on the assurance of the executive that the game will be played "rain or shine." Every lady holder of a ticket will be admitted free to the grand stand. The general entrance fee theretofore has been 25 cents to the Grand stand.

entrance fee theretofore has been 25 cents to the Grand stand.

The City of Chatham has certainly been well advertised through the record of the Tecumseh team during this year. They have not lost a single game this season and the interest taken in this final game and the team has become a thoroughly provincial one.

Under these circumstances, the ex-Under these circumstances, the executive feel that they can sincerely ask the encouragement of the citizens to show their loyal support by purchasing liberally the tickets for the game on Labor Day, now that they know the requirements of the case and the absolute necessity for providing funds sufficient to meet the Club's obligations.

Enthusiastic supporters of the game and members of the team will canvas the citizens for purchase of tickets, and we trust that they will get liberal support, under the circumstances.

and we trust that they will get liberal support, under the circumstances. The game put up by the Chatham team is a clean and gentlemanly one and the "personnel" thereof is all that can be desired.

For these reasons the executive of the Club feel that they can conscientiously ask for liberal patronage and support under the circumstances.

BASCOM'S ARISTOCRACY

By JASPER COLINGWOOD

Copyright, 1904, by E. Warner

} }-When Herbert Bascom's effects were moved into the Holbein studios the other occupants gathered in the front windows and jeered openly. Bascom, whose hearing was singularly acute, caught the comments as far up as the third floor. What those on the fourth floor thought was scarcely of importonce. The singular unanimity of appinion among the dwellers of the three lower floors argued that those up above would scarcely be moved to comment approvingly in defiance of their fel-

The only trouble with Bascom's effects was that they were new-dis-tressingly new. From the ollcloth for the tiny kitchen to the Persian rugs and Turkish hangings they all came from first hand stores. The Holbeintres were unaccustomed to such ex-travagances. They had bought second-hand things when they had first set up and thereby had acquired merit in the eyes of those already established. It was unbohemian, as Tolliver ex-pressed it, to have glaring new furnitue and things in one's studio. It argued the possession of unseemly quantities of money and small artistic merit. From the moment that the first livery wagon backed up to the door Bascom lost his surname, so far as his fellows were concerned, and gained the title of the Aristocrat. It was Tolliver's nickname, but it spread rapidly, and no French communist ever hated the name more than the Hol-

As soon as the place had been settled Bascom went around one morning delivering invitations for a studio tea that afternoon. There were many moved to accept the invitation, for the delivery wagon of a leading grocery had unloaded much that looked attractive that morning.

But Tolliver made a personal can-vass, and when Bascom burried home that afternoon, laden with additional packages, he was met by a neat pile of regrets carefully pinned upon his door. As a result of Tolliver's activity it had been decided to snub this aristocrat who sought by means of the tea to flaunt his rich possessions before their eyes. It was unbohemian, and, while his presence had to be tolerated, friendship and fellowship should be withheld

Bascom was no fool. He readily perceived why he was being snubbed and quietly accepted the situation. He nodded friendlily to the men when he met them in the halls and gravely removed his hat when he passed the wo-men. For the rest he went to work and found in this an absorption which did not represent the same absorption which did not permit him to worry about the attitude of his neighbors. He missed their companionship, but he had letters in plenty. Since the artistic colony refused to recognize him he devoted himself to his society engagements when time permitted, thereby bringing forth additional comment as to the gorgeousness of his garments.

Then came Miss Alice Caswell. She was but a decorator of china, but her effects were pitifully meager, and she was at once accepted by the rest of the inhabitants as a bohemian.

She was a bright, brisk, even ten-pered girl, and before the week was out she had made friends even with the janitor, a feat hitherto supposed to be impossible. She had the studio across the hall from Bascom, and before she had learned of his isolation had already formed a friendship with She had needed some material which she did not have time to go out for, and he had generously supplied her wants. She had noted with approving eye his skill as a draftsn sense of color. After that she soon acquired the habit of dropping in to ask his advice about her designs, finding his wide experience of great value. By the time the other dwellers in the studio building had thought to warn her of the intruder in their colony the intruder had become her mentor, and she grieved greatly as one after another the rest of the artists let slip some caustic fling. "But he is a really clever man," she assured Tolliver one day as he sat perched in the window seat declaiming against the Aristocrat. "I assure you that his paintings are very much above the average."

Tolliver snorted contemptuously "My dear child," he remarked pater-nally, "you do some very clever chifia work. Don't try to get beyond it and set up as a critic. There never was a man who settled here with new furniture. He can't be an artist." Then the conversation dropped. There was no arguing with Tolliver when he call-

A few weeks later she had a birthday party. Early in the morning the occupants of the other studios began occupants of the other studios began to arrive, each with some little token and the invariable inquiry as to whether Bascom had been invited to the evening festivities. It seemed odd to her that they should be so interested in his possible appearance, but she readily answered that he would. No objection being offered, she personally rounded up Bascom when the time of the party arrived and got him across the hall on the plea that she needed help in the preparation of the supper.

the hall on the plea that she needed help in the preparation of the supper. Bascom had interposed many objec-tions when she had invited him, but she had pleaded with him, and on her assurance that the attitude of the oth-ers had materially changed he decided to risk it because she wanted it. She never realized that the shate.

She never realized that the abatement of the criticism was because was openly his champion and the rest had decided to respect her "delusion," as they termed it. She was so happy getting the spread ready that she never noticed the clock until all of the preparations had been made.

"Why, it's 9!" she said wonderingly 'I asked them to come in about 8. I'll take a little run down the hall and re mind some of them."

Bascom sank into the easy chair in front of the cannel coal fire. Cannel coal was a luxury in the Holbein flats. but he had sent two scuttlefuls that morning in honor of the event. Alice ran down the hall to Tolliver's door There pinned to a panel was the sign "Gone to the theater." She retraced her steps to the stairway. On every door was some card giving notice that the owner had gone out. She do scended to the lower floors. Apparent ly not a soul remained in the building Bascom by the fireplace was startice by the tiny figure that darted in all sank sobbing upon the homemade eoz

It took small questioning to g t a the trouble. The cause he alread knew. The form the opposition ha taken was all he needed to ask.

"I wouldn't have minded so much, she sobbed, "only I did so want then to meet you and see how nice you really were.' "Did you get it all up for me," he demanded engerly.

She nodded. "That isn't the worst of it," she confessed. "I even invented the birthday. Mine was seven months away and I couldn't wait. I thought they would be more apt to come to birthday party. Now I have all their presents and they wouldn't come."

"He drew the tearful little face down upon his shoulder. "Little girl," he said gently, "don't you think they would be more apt to come to a wed-

"I couldn't invent that," she protested in a muffled voice. "It's very easy," he presisted. "Just say 'yes.' I will look after the rest. I have wanted to ask you for a long

Even Tolliver came to the wedding and led the chorus of "He's a jolly good fellow" as he poured several quarts or rice down the elevator shaft after the departing pair. James had discovered that Bascom really had to work for a living, and that the studio had been furnished by a maiden aunt, who insisted that he be started right.

An Armenian Legend. Ararat, one of the most majestic mountains in the world, rises 17,000 cet above the vast flat plain which bears its name and reigns over the surounding mountains. Early in the norning, while all the valleys of Ararat and the neighboring mountains are ouried in shadow, the white top of the Scriptural mountain gleams beautiful in the first beams of the sun.

The Armenian people tell this story about the inhabitants of Pharbee: Once the devil and a Pharbee man aid a wager as to which should first see the sun. The one who saw it first was to box the other's ears. "Very well," said the Armenian, and he lay down and slept sweetly, while the devil, itching to punish his enemy, stood looking eastward, and with eager eyes watched the whole night for the sunrise. Early in the morning the harbee man rose and pointing to the pp of the Ararat, which was already ining in the sun, cried joyfully, "I The devil was vanquished. Pharbee man, with his strong and, boxed the devil's ears. Ever nce that time the devil has been ifraid of the people of the Armenian Right Hand and Left. "There are few people who are not, a one respect or another, left handed, in one respect or another, left handed, if only in the management of a coffee cup," said a writer. "I, for instance, always deal cards with my left hand, discoverable manner. There is a well known artist in Philadelphia, too, who draws with his left hand, but who

"If the crucial test of supremacy is demanded and right and left hands come to the final court of appeal it will be found in the wielding of so simple a thing as a pair of scissors. The fellow who is really right handed can and may do many things with his left. He may instinctively use his left hand for his glass and ply his fork from the same side. But he cannot succeed in cutting the nails of the fingers of his right hand with scissors. There is something in a little pair of nail scissors which tries the human hand to its utmost capacity."-Philadelphia Press.

A LESSON IN ASTRONOMY.

You Can Study It and Perform a Trick at the Same Time. With an eggshell and a breakfast plate our boys and girls can perform a little trick that will interest and instruct at the same time. The next time you eat a boiled egg moisten the rim—not merely the edge, but all the raised part—of your plate and place the empty eggshell on the wet surface.

The shell should be broken off evenly all around so as to form a little cup. Now, if you hold the plate up and tip it slightly, the egg will not merely slide but spin along the rim, and by continually altering the inclination angle of the plate you can make the shell spin all the way around it. I do not mean that it will spin rapidly like a top, but that as it goes around the plate it also revolves slowly about its own axis in the same direction.

Now this, you know, is just what the earth does in traveling around the sun, so here you have an easy and pretty lesson in astronomy at the breakfast table

It is not exactly nice to muss with one's food, but in this case it may be allowable to make a daub of egg yolk in the center of the plate, with rays streaming out all around to represent the sun.—New York Mail.

THE HORSESHOE.

How a Pensant Taught His Little

A peasant was going on a journey with his son Thomas. "Look," said the father, on the way, "there is a horseshoe lying in the road; pick it up and put it in your pocket."
"Oh!" said Thomas, "It is not worth the trouble of stooping down." The father picked up the iron without saying anything more and put it into his pocket. In the next village he soll it to the smith for a few farthings and bought some cherries with the money. They both traveled on. The sun was shining very fiercely; far and wide there was no house, no tree, no spring to be seen, and Thomas was alost fainting with thirst. His father now let drop—as if by accident—a cherry. Thomas picked it up as eagerly as if it were gold and put it directly into his mouth. After awhile his father let another cherry fall, and Thomas stooped down as eagerly for that. In this way from time to time his father let him pick up all the cherries, and when Thomas had devoured the last, he turned round to him laughing and said, "See, now, if you had been willing to stoop down only once for the horseshoe, you need not have stooped down so many times for the cherries." -From German of C. von Schmid.

A Robin's Queer Home

Although any member of the bird tribe is apt to do this, the robin is the most frequent violator of the laws of bird propriety. A robin if it followed the laws laid down for it by nature would build in some shallow hole or depression in a grassy knoll. Some are been constructed to the mouths of

For example, one robin chose an old tin kettle that was lying on one side under a hedge. This was in full view of the passers by and in constant dan-ger from marauding cats and dogs. But it was waterproof and extremely convenient, so the robin chose it in saucy defiance of inquisitive visitors. Another robin chose a still stranger nesting place, and where do you suppose? In church!

The Smallest Church.

Until very recently the little church in the village of St. Lawrence, on the Isle of Wight, was the smallest church in existence. It was built nearly 900 years ago and was probably at first only used as the private chapel of some wealthy family. It was twenty-five feet long, seven feet high and eleven feet broad. It held only twelve people. Not long ago it was slightly enlarged and is no longer the very smallest church, although it is still quite

THE MILK SICK WEED.

Mysterious and Deadly Plant That Grows In Tennessee, From time to time in the past five decades Tennesseeans have been stirred to a profound sense of interest in the state's mysterious malady, "milk sickness," as its deadly reappearance in certain sections of the state has been followed by fatal results to human belngs and to stock. No one has ever discovered the cause of the malady from which death relieves the victim acter such physical agony as almost deprives the human species of the power of speech, and dumb brutes express their sufferings by frenzied search for water to cool the thirst which consumes them. Once by a stream they plupge or fall into it and quickly drink themselves to death.

The fatal sickness is known to a lim-ted extent in several sections of the state, but exists principally near Sparta, in White county. It is contracted through drinking the milk of the cows that have eaten a certain weed known as the "milk sick weed," which looks somewhat like clover and grows thickly on the infested land. But what constitutes the poison in the weed is no more determined today than it was when first located by the keen witted, nature wise mountaineers, who have been its chief victims. It has been ascribed at various times to minerals whose poison is absorbed in the roots of the "milk sick" plant, to a vapor from some fungous growth and to the action of the dew producing, in connection with the life of the plant, a certain poisonous acid. But all of these theories have failed under tests applied by practical science. On the largest infected section known to exist in the limits of the state, "Milk Sick mountain," in White county, no mineral whatever exists. Cattle which ate the "milk sick weed" after the dew had dried died in agony just as those who ate it when the dew was fresh and sparkling, and the strictest search failed to find any fungous growth whatever.-Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mississippi Pearls.

The story of the fresh water pearl ishing in the Mississippi and its tributaries sounds like a tale from "The Arabian Nights." Since 1900 more than $3,000,000 worth of pearls have been taken, it is said, from the waters of the Mississippi valley, chiefly in the southern section. A boy found a button shaped pearl near Muscatine, Ia. It weighed 168 grains and was a beauty, and he sold it to a dealer in gems for $2,168. The dealer sold it in New York later for $10,000. One sky blue pearl from Caney Fork, Tenn., brought $3,300 in London. A pearl from the Black river, Arkansas, which a man who was fishing for bait found accilentally, brought $2,000. And so on. Shellfish abound in the inland lakes of the Adirondacks, and it is said that the quest for pearls is to be begun there. Experts expect the search will be rewarded by a large and valuable find.

The Niagara Falls Tunnet.

The scenic tunnel under the Horse-shoe falls of Niagara, which has just been completed, was undertaken for the Niagara falls Queen Victoria park commission in order to provide a perfectly safe view of the cataract from below. A shaft was sunk 127 feet, and from this a tunnel was constructed, curving out under the Horseshoe falls 800 feet. From this laterals were run into the gorge, where large observation rooms will be constructed of glass where tourists can sit in easy chairs and look out. A large electric elevator has been put into the shaft, and from the bottom a large board walk has various tunnels.

Increase of Population. Few persons have any idea of the exraordinary manner in which the popular lation of Europe has increased during the last century. According to statisticians, this population, assuming it to have been 1,000 in 1800, had increased by the year 1900 to 2,148. In other words, it had more than doubled itself within a hundred years. To this increase the Latin nations of the west and southwest contributed the least, and the greatest growth was in the east, where the people have not yet be-come thoroughly saturated with the ideas of modern civilization - New York Herald

Elephant Sausage. In those lands where horses are the food of men all manner of flesh goes the way of the sausage machine. Recently there had to be slaughtered at Ghent an elephant well known in Belgium by the name of Jack, the last in-habitant of the zoological garden, and his flesh, which is stated to have weighed 3,800 pounds, or nearly two tons, all went to the sausage makers. In addition there were 1,100 pounds of bone; head, 250 pounds; heart, 50 pounds; liver, 100 pounds; tongue, 30 pounds; skin, 1,000 pounds, and viscers (600 pounds). cera, 600 pounds.

Poison Ivy.

There are so many cases of poisoning from Rhus toxicodendrum, or poison ivy, every year that the caution to beware of it can hardly be repeated too often. Remember this: Poison ivy has three leaflets and berries of a dirty white color. Virginia creeper, which white color. Virginia creeper, which so much resembles poison ivy in habit of growth and general appearance, has five leaflets and purple berries. ROOM DEFECTS.

They Can Be Modified by Treatment of Walls and Floors. All defects in size and shape of rooms and halls can to a large extent be modified or overcome to such a de-gree by the treatment given to walls and floor that the faulty construction will no longer appear conspicuous. For instance, a room that is too long for the width may materially be changed by running across the middle of the room a deep Japanese lattice of fretwork, and from this suspend a double portiere. This breaks up an un-pleasant distance and if the lattice is open admits sufficient light for that part of the room. Moreover, the portieres can be left partly open and need never be closed entirely unless a very cozy effect is desirable. If a carpet is used on the floor it should extend to the baseboard without a border, as this apparently increases the floor space. If rugs are preferred select several to spread across the width of the floor rather than one or two long ones down the middle of the room, as the more horizontal lines are introduced the wider will seem the room.

The ceiling of a low studded room will appear farther off if the treatment of the walls has a pronounced perpendicular design, and it will appear still higher if the picture rail is omitted entirely, or, if too great a necessity to exclude, place it close up to the cove. The height of the room will appear greater, too, if by skillful treatment the size of the ceiling space be apparently reduced so as to give the effect of receding. This may be accomplished by border, either paper, stencil or the introduction of some form of decoration that will leave a smaller space or surface plain.-Exchange.

Japanese Salad.

Here is a Japanese salad: One cup of hot boiled rice drained dry and mixed with a small onion chopped fine. While the rice is still warm mix with a French dressing and set aside to get cold. Open a can of sardines, wipe the little fish dry of oil, removing the skin and backbones. Carefully mix the rice and the sardines, heap in the center of a dish of crisp lettuce leaves and cover with a French dressing. Sprinkle chopped chives over all. Christian character cannot be made in a plaster cast.

The Peruvians cared nothing for any of the supposed mystic properties of ei-ther three, five or seven. To them the four was sacred, and around it they en twined the main features of all their religious ceremonies and queer beliefs They believed the earth to be a square divided into four parts and suspended from the heavens by four cords each of the four corners. All of their cities were quartered by four principal streets running from a square in the center. They held four annual feasts in honor of the moon, the "silver sister of the sun."

To them eternity was to be divided into four periods of time, each composed of four times 4,000 years, and at the end of each of these cycles the sun is to be blotted out of existence. They prayed to the four winds, or to "ye gods the dwell at the four corners of the earth." To them the rains came from four enormous heavenly turtles that vomited dampness, and the four winds from the lungs of the four gigantic caryatides which stand at the four cardinal points of paradise. The above are but a small portion of the fours alluded to in the legends of the Incas.

An Antelope That Dwells In Swamps The general idea of an antelope pic-tures it as a swift runner, fleeing in graceful bounds over stretching brown plains. There is an antelope in the Congo region, however, which rarely ventures to the upland, but actually lives in water, spending practically all of its time wading around in the swamps and feeding on swamp growth, such as papyrus and other water plants.

This swamp antelope represents among animals what the heron and other wading birds do among birds and like these wading birds the swamp antelope has extraordinarily long and thin legs, while its hoofs are wonderfully long and spread out almost as wide as bird's claws when the animals wade in the mud, thus supporting them on the soft bottom.

These swamp antelopes are by no means small animals, but belong to the larger forms of their species. A full grown male is as big as the buck of the Even as the hansom cab suits London or the rickshaw suits Japan or the jaunting car suits Ireland, so the gondola is the vessel for Venice. You can-not separate the lagoon from the gondola. One completes the other." The gondolier is a man given to many oaths and imprecations, of which the most terrible is, "Thy saint is a rascal who does not know how to make a decent miracle." The gondoliers are not as much given as they used to be to the singing of the sonorous verses of Tasso by moonlight in their musical patois. Occasionally an outburst of melody is secured by a traveler's coins, and there are always singing, playing and dancing at the inevitable festa.

Ringing Bells to Swarm Bees, It is a foo'ish notion to suppose that the ringing of bells or "tanging" of tin pares will cause a swarm of bees to settle, says Country Life In America. The real origin of this custom dates back to the reign of Alfred the Great, who, in order to prevent disputes regarding the ownership of a swarm, orall, dered that the owner should always ring a ball when his bees swarmed, and ever since then the good farmer's wife has been rushing out with ringing bells whenever the bees swarmed, and the fact that they settled verified, in her own mind, the belief that the bell did it.

Force of Habit.

Speaking of force of habit, some years ago there was an iron railing around the capitol grounds at Washington. The appropriation bill provided for a watchman to close and lock the gates every night at a certain hour and open them at a certain hour every morning. In the course of time the railing or feace was removed, but the gates swung between their Egyptian pillars for a long time, and all that time the watchman came and went regularly, closing and opening the gates according to law and drawing his salary.

In New Zealand is found the kiwi, a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the extinct moas had three toes; so also have the existing emus, cassowaries and rheas, or South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthious birds in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrichlike, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barnyard fowl. It has a small head, with a large and muscular neck and a long, slender bill, with the distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed very close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles on the thighs are well developed, and the feet are strong and powerful and provided with sharp claws. It is a bird devoid of any external trace of wings, and there is no with long, narrow, hairlike feathers, sides of the face are straggling hairlike feelers.

LIAOYANG BATTLE A DEATH STRUGGLE

The Second Day's Fight Commenced With the Dawn.

First Day's Right, and the Estimate of Japanese Loss Is Greater-Russians Claim a Victory-All the News Is From Liaoyang, Sept. 1.—The second day's battle commenced at dawn. The Russians made repeated bayonet charges on the road directly south of Liaoyang, where the Japanese approached from Sanquaiship and Tao, shelling the positions in the Russian lines until 4 in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line. The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Fangwangtheng road. Immediately in front of Chiaofantum the Japanese stubboraly at-Immediately in front of Chiaofan tum the Japanese stubboraly attempted to occupy a round-top hill, which was literally shaved by Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day, where apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wangpoeti until last evening without apparent advantage to either side. The Japanese dropped shells within two on three miles of the railroad station, and in the plain of Wemtshu Mountain, which is the most important eminence around Liaoyaff, but the Japanese abandoned aggression there on account of the resistance they met.

There was cannon fire last aight, and this is expected nightly. The varied casualties here include on Russian war correspond at and 25 Chinese women from this of antum, whom Dr. Westwater, the distinguished missionary, is caring for in the Chinese Red Cross refuge.

The day's developments seem to show that the Russians are prepared for all emergencies. Slow rain begun to fall at noon, gradually transforming the plain into a wilderness, through which the wounded, in carts and walking, were last night making their way to the hospitals. Considering the scale of the day's operations, the number of Russians wounded is apparently small, while the Japanese losses are believed to be great, especially where they were repulsed on the south road. Chinese graves with trees are being leveled about Liaoyang in order not to interfere with the east and west. Developments are expected west and northeast.

Japs Use Balloous The Japanese are using balloons to ocate the Russian guns and trench-s. One of the Russian correspones. One of the Russian correspondents of the Associated Press points out that the Japaneses sent up a ballong shortly after dealight to the southeast of Liaoyang. The Japanese are said to be using mortars to drop shells in the Pussian positions. These are propably the high-angle fire howitzers, which were reported in action earlier in the week.

Russians Claim Victory. St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—Some interesting details of Thesday's battle are furnished by Russian correspondents, from which it appears that two regiments of Japanese at daybreak attempted to capture the batteries of the sixth artillery brigade, located on the extreme left flank of the Russian army. The attempt was only discovered in the nick of time. Some of the Russian troops fought continuously for 36 hours. The concussion and the roaring of the guns shook the windews of Liaoyang, though the artillery were six to eight miles away.

Memirovich Danchenko, the famous
Russian war correspondent, describ-Russian war correspondent, describing the battle, says: "The enemy drunk with their former successes, attacked from three sides like madmen. When they were forced back, fresh troops, of which—they seemed to have an inexhaustible supply, were sent forward." M. Danchenko says the combatants had about 600 guns on each side, and adds: "It was our first victory. The enemy was beaten back everywhere, many of his batteries were destroyed and in some cases his infantry was put to rout."

Over 200 Japanese captured at the Over 200 Japanese captured at the hattle of Liaoyang Tuesday passed through Makden yesterday on a Further despatches from Liaoyang confirm the report of the capture of 46 Japanese guns, which were brought up to the railroad station where Gen. Kuropatkin's train was standing.

Russians Lose 3,000.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—Lieut.
General Sakharoff, telegraphing to the general staff on the conclusion of Tuesday's 10 hours' fighting around Liaoyang, estimates that the Russian casualties throughout the daywere 3,000. The battle ended at 5 o'clock Tuesday night when many positions occupied by the Japanese were retaken and again held by the Russians.
The report from Lieut.-Gem. Sakwere retaken and again held by the Russians.

The report from Lieut,-Gem. Sakharoff is as follows:

"From 5 cclock this morning until 9 to-night, the Japanese forces attacked our frontal position before Liaoyang, and on the left bank of the Tuitse River. Both their artillery and rifle fire were intense. Their main efforts were directed against our centre positions, and the left fiank, but numerous attacks were repulsed along the whole line. Our troops made several counter attacks, culminating in bayenet fighting.

"Many positions, which had been occupied by the Japanese, were retaken at 4 o'clock in the afterneon. During the artiller; attack our batteried did very effective work. About four his afterneon the enemy was observed attempting to turn our right flank with considerable forces.

but several battalions of reserves advanced, and, after a fierce engagement checked the Japanese and compelled them to retire. The battle continued until after dark and only ended at 10 o'clock.

"Our casually 3 to-day have been considerable, reathing about 3,000. The Japanese lesses must have been heavier."

Hen. James Sutherland Says That He Is Feeling Fit.

Woodstock, Sept. 1.—The Sentinel-Review had an interview with Hon. Review had an interview with Hon. James Sutherland on his return home from the Dansville Sanitarium. The Minister of Public Works stated that, while he fett well enough to return to his duties at ence, he recognized the importance of fellowing the doctors' instructions, and resting while the doctors' instructions, and resting awhile,

"I know me reason why I shouldn't resume my duties after I have regained my usual strength, although, of course, we never can tell what is ahead of us. If I go back I certainly hope that I will not be compelled to work as hard as I have done in the past. It was the hard work and the cold I contracted towards the close of the session, that knocked me the cold I contracted towards the close of the session that knecked me out, and I see no peason why I should not be as strong as ever after I have gotten over this attack."

Mr. Sutherland expressed surprise that he felt as well as he did. He was prepared to walk down town with his interviewer, only, he said, there were certain instructions of his medical adviser to fellew. He walked around the grounds during a pertion of the chat, and his spirits were dedidedly good for a sick man.

Mr. Sutherland is in a convalescent state, and he himself confidently looks for a speedy recevery, although he recognizes that there is silways uncertainty as to the future.

FARMERS GROW GLOOMY.

In Some Cases Sperifice Wheat From Fear of Frost.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 1.—The weather appears settled, fine and warm, and gives great impetus to wheat-cutting. As long as these conditions hold, the exop outlook continues bright, and many old-timers think that indications do not point to an early frost, with general prospects for a milder winter. But the large bulk of farmers are gloomy ever the situation, and are sacrificing in many situation, and are sacrificing in many cases their wheat from fear of frost. Reports from one district say that the loss owing to the wheat being cut immature will at least equal the rust damage. However, the fine weather is speedily allaying this panicky feeling.

with the historic uniform of the Black Watch, or "Fighting Forty-second," the number is still less. The great Black Watch band arrived yesterday Black Watch band arrived yesterday and were given a reception by the six bands of the city. The citizens were in a sense divided between their desire for Sabbath rest and quiet and the desire to see the representatives of a real Imperial Highland regiment and one of the greatest bands in the world. Doubtless there were many who stayed away because it was Sunday, but this only left more room for the thousands who thronged the streets leading from the Union Station to the armories. For once the Imperial Limited was fifty minutes late, and the crowds which thronged York street and the line of march had an hour's wait of it. Inside the on From street and the line of march had an hour's wait of it. Inside the station there was a collection of silk hats covering the committee in charge, consisting of exhibition and civic officials, while on the opposite platform, were drawn up on each side of their flag the grizzled and medal-sprinkled ranks of his Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans, containing five who had been members of the Black Black. THE ARRIVAL.

THE ARRIVAL.

When the train pulled in and the first busby over the scarlet tunic appeared in the car doorway a good hearty cheer went up from the veteran's ranks, and with handshaking and applause, the "Heilan" men" descended to the platform. The last bandsman had barely left the platform when York Street bridge was deserted and the crowd was massed in Front street, where piles of lumber and brick made good, if dangerous, coigns of vantage, Twenty feet up in the air a policeman threaded his way over a gigantic pile of bricks, endeavoring to keep the too impetuous sight-seers from crashing down on those below. The appearance of the band following the city bands was the signal of cheering by the peowas the signal of cheering by the peo-ple, and this was repeated as they passed along the streets, the massed bands playing the Maple Leaf, the Highland Laddie, and the National Anthem, while the Black Watch dis-tinguished by their bank interface. tinguishable by their bushies, follow-ed, tarrying their instruments in covers.
