FINAL APPEAL FROM DELMAS

Urges Jury To Give Thaw The Benefit Of The Doubt

THAW WAS JUSTIFIED

New York, April 10.—One more day and the concluding chapters of the trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White will have been written into history.

With an oratorical appeal to both the written and the unwritten law, for the justification of his client, Delphin M. Delmas, the California attorney, concluded his exhaustive summing up address to the jury yesterday afternoon.

With the exception of the moments when he was reading from testimony to establish the truth of Evelyn Thaw's story, which he said had been given with "sublime renunciation," Mr. Delmas' speech was one of sustained oratorical effort. He threw about the form of Harry Thaw the cloak of chivalrous knight-hood. "Why," he shouted, "should we who admire the chivalry of the knights of the middle ages, who went about redressing wrongs and rescuing maidens in distress, withhold our sympathy from this brave man?"

The Hand of Providence. "Ah, gentlemen," the advocate went on, "if Harry Thaw believed he was the instrument of Providence, who will say he was mistaken?"

"The man who had brooded on this subject for three years, who had pictures of dreadful horrors haunting him day and in the stillness of the night, could not be human to retain the calmness of reason. Gentlemen, put yourselves in his place; picture to yourselves the horrors he went through and do justice to Harry Thaw," he said.

Mr. Delmas discussed briefly the testimony of the expert witnesses, declaring that whatever weight might attach to their utterances was on the side of the defendant.

He declared the burden of proof as to Thaw's sanity at the time of the homicide rested with the prosecution, which had failed to make out its case.

The Benefit of the Doubt. "Before you send this young man to his doom, you must be satisfied of his guilt beyond every reasonable doubt."

"A great English judge once said that it is better that 99 guilty men should escape rather than that one innocent man should be punished. If there is one chance in a hundred that this defendant was of such unsound mind as not to know the nature of his act, then you must give him the benefit of that doubt."

Thaw's Insanity. "The district attorney will make light of the experts' because they have not studied the species of insanity from which they say Harry Thaw is suffering. It is a species of insanity which has been recognized of every state of the Union—from Canada to Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"It will suggest its name," he declared, "I would call it dementia Americana. It is that species of insanity which makes the sane man believe his home, his wife, his daughters, are sacred and that whoever stains the virtue of his threshold violates the human law."

The Unwritten Law. Mr. Delmas' closing was an almost direct appeal to the unwritten law. He said he left Thaw's fate in the hands of the juron, with every confidence that he would be acquitted under that golden law—the oldest law of all—the foundation of all laws—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

New Law Unworkable. Winnipeg, April 10.—It is stated that the Canadian Pacific Railway have found that some of the provisions of the new Lord's Day Act are unworkable.

When the act came into effect orders were given that no work should be done on Sunday, except that incidental to the handling of through passenger trains. No trains were to leave the local yards between Saturday night and Sunday midnight.

Local employees are said to have declared that it was impossible to do the work which had to be done under these conditions.

When modesty has once perished it will never revive.

CHATHAM MUST HAVE AN ACTIVE BOARD OF TRADE

Much Interest and Enthusiasm Displayed Over the Meeting On Friday Night—Good Attendance Is Assured

The meeting which has been called for Friday night, to organize a new Board of Trade, promises to be a large and enthusiastic one. Interest is awakening, and the boom is coming.

The chairman of the Industrial committee and the officers of the old Board have issued a circular which they are sending to many of the ratepayers, in which they ask for assistance and co-operation. Every one who receives this circular will know that this is a personal appeal, and those who do not respond will know that they have failed in the performance of an important duty which they owe to the city. What Chatham needs is not more men, but more public-spirited men. The present proposal, however, has been given a good start, and it is bound to be successful.

The following is a copy of the earnest appeal being sent out:

Dear Sir,—Believing that our city could and would be greatly benefited by having an active, wide awake Board of Trade to work in conjunction with the Industrial committee of the City Council, and after consulting the officers of the old Board of Trade and other prominent citizens, we have decided to call a meeting for Friday evening, April 12th, at eight p. m., in Harrison Hall, for the purpose of re-organizing the Board of Trade on new and progressive lines. We want the new Board to be a strong representative one.

We are asking all the manufacturers, business and professional men of the city to attend, knowing that they are the heaviest ratepayers and the ones most interested in our city, we think that we should make some united effort to advance the best interests of our city, both industrial and otherwise. Several good addresses will be given.

Trusting you will endeavor to be present.

Respectfully yours,
W. A. HADLEY,
President Board of Trade.

W. R. LANDON,
Secretary Board of Trade.

W. H. WESTMAN,
Chairman Industrial Committee.

WANT A RELEASE

John Parker, of Dresden, who is serving a six months' term, lies near death's door in the county jail. Parker was one of the men convicted in the recent turkey stealing case. When he was first incarcerated he became a prey to a deadly disease, and he has been continually failing ever since.

On the report of the jail physician an application has been made to have him discharged from the jail, so that he may be placed in an hospital. It is believed that the man will gradually pine away if he is left much longer in the cells.

Parker has a young wife, to whom he was married only a short time before his conviction and sentence.

GIRL DROWNS HERSELF

Port Hope, April 10.—A young girl named Jameson, of about 20 years of age, employed as a domestic for the last couple of years, sought a watery grave about 8.30 last night, just as the schooner Oliver Mowat cleared for Oswego.

She went down to say good-bye to a young man on the vessel, who had been keeping company with her for some time. Some men frustrated her first attempt to throw herself into the water, but later on she succeeded in her purpose. McMahon Brothers, after two hours' dragging, secured the body.

Archbishop Mauled.

Brandon, Man., April 10.—A ludicrous incident occurred here, when Archbishop Serafin, the eccentric ecclesiastic of Winnipeg, who claims to be the head of the Greek Church in Canada, and religious dictator of the Ruthenians, attempted to hold service in the Galician Catholic Church here. They refused to permit him to even enter the sacred building, and when he attempted to force his way in he was picked up bodily and carried to the street and thrown in the mud.

MR. BOWYER'S GOOD MOVE

He Advocates Taxing Mineral Rights Of The Canada Company

WILL SPEND $7,035,332

Toronto, April 10.—The estimated Provincial expenditure for 1907 is $7,035,332. At the Legislature yesterday Hon. A. J. Matheson submitted the supplementary estimates. These amount to $516,201, while the main estimates reached $5,519,131. The expenditure for last year amounted to $6,720,179.

Prominent among the items in the supplementaries is $34,900 for colonization roads, $21,735 for board of health and factory inspection, $500 for the Text Book Commission, $5,000 for flags for the rural schools, $5,000 for fruit growers and the protection of trees, $9,600 for colonization and immigration, $85,700 for hospitals and charities, $100,000 for changes in the Toronto asylum and $12,000 to the exploration survey branch of the T. & N. O. Railway from Cobalt to Sudbury.

The amendments by the Minister of Education to the public schools act were put through committee. Of the extra $380,000 provided for rural schools this year, the largest portion—about $250,000—will be distributed on a basis to induce higher salaries. The minimum remains fixed at the amount of the township grant, viz., $300. The school receives nothing on salary unless it exceeds the township grant. The amounts paid as inducements vary according to the assessments of sections, the poorer sections receiving the larger inducements.

The balance of the money goes in fixed grants for equipment and accommodation, and also on the class of teachers' certificates.

Hon. Dr. Reaume introduced a measure respecting the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. This is a consolidation of the various acts relative to the Government railway. It also does away with the per mile land grant vested under other measures, in the commission, and which they had authority to dispose of to meet the cost of the railway. As the cost is being met by the Government, by loans and otherwise this provision is now considered unnecessary.

Manhood Suffrage Registration. Hon. Mr. Foy introduced an act amending and consolidating the manhood suffrage registration act. He said the only change of importance in the measure had regard to supplementary registration. The present law was that after the usual sittings for registration there shall be supplementary sittings. It had been suggested by the chairman of the Toronto board of registrars that a better method would be to permit, on the regular days, applications to be made by a relative or person living in the same house, by putting in the affidavit of the person unable to be present but desiring to register. Afterwards this would be confirmed by the person for whom the application was made.

The intimation was forthcoming during the discussion in committee of Hon. Mr. Foy's statute law amendment act that Government consideration is shortly to be given to the matter of remuneration received by Division Court clerks and bailiffs.

Some important changes are indicated in the act. Every Division Court clerk is, under it, entitled to retain for his own use in each year all the fees and emoluments earned by him up to $2,000. Thereover the Provincial Treasurer rate 20 per cent.

Public Schools Act. The House went into committee on Hon. Dr. Pyne's bill to amend the Public Schools act. It provides the basis of distribution of the extra grant by the Government to supplement the municipal grants towards larger salaries for teachers.

Hon. Dr. Pyne drew attention to the clause providing for the possible dissolution of consolidated schools. This, he said, was designed to enable the dissolution of the consolidated school at Guelph if the authorities there, as had been intimated, deemed it necessary or advisable.

Hon. Mr. Graham thought the consolidated system had never had a fair show. He thought consolidated schools in system were sound.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt pointed out that in many parts of the States they had been a distinct success. They brought

A BOARD OF TRADE.

Ald. Westman, chairman of the Industrial committee of the City Council, deserves a great deal of credit for the enthusiasm which he has displayed recently in his efforts to re-organize the Chatham Board of Trade. Some time ago The Planet realized that the Maple City was working at a disadvantage compared with the other cities of the Province, in that the Board of Trade here was dormant, and to all appearances had given up work entirely. During the past year this journal has actively advocated a re-organization meeting, and at times it looked as if we were alone, not only in our enthusiasm, but also in the opinion that an institution of this kind is of vital importance to a community. This, however, has not lessened the strength of The Planet's position, and we are as firmly of the opinion to-day as we were a year ago, that an active Board of Trade is a necessity.

During the last few months some of the more spirited citizens have also taken an active interest in the matter, and led by Ald. Westman, they have now finally decided upon a revival of the Board, and a meeting will be held in Harrison Hall on Friday evening for this purpose. It is very gratifying to note that something definite will at last be done, and Ald. Westman's statement that he has received the assistance and co-operation of the present officers of the Board, adds much to that gratification.

It is now up to the citizens to show their willingness to boost Chatham, by attending the meeting Friday night. There should be a big attendance of men filled with a desire to do their utmost towards assisting the scheme along, and if every man in the city would only realize that there is a personal responsibility resting upon him, no matter what his station in life may be, the organization would not only be an enormous one, but the results would be wonderfully surprising and beneficial.

Build up Chatham!

Chatham's new Board of Trade will be a hummer.

Your presence is urgently requested in Harrison Hall on Friday evening. Chatham's boom dates from that night.

Those eastern cities will not find it such a big snap to get industries after Chatham's new Board of Trade begins to move.

No matter who you are, you can do something to boost Chatham. Your good will is worth a lot, and you can show this by helping to awaken interest in a Board of Trade.

The Banner talks about The Planet taking a "safe shot" when it criticizes A. B. McCoig. It goes on to talk about it as a secure stand for this Great home Journal to take. Quite right. There is lots of room for criticism, but how will the Banner explain their whole-souled confession to Mr. McCoig?

The Banner is still worrying over the fact that McCoig's Grand Stand play over the Canada Company Land business didn't work. We would advise the local Liberal organ to follow the example set by McCoig himself—leave the question in the hands of the Government, and stop trying to make political capital out of a matter which effects farmers so vitally. McCoig realizes that the Government is doing all in its power to help the farmers, and he has announced that he intends to assist the Government in the fight. It would not be necessary for the Banner to become a Tory organ in order to assist a Conservative Government, when that Government is working in such a worthy cause. McCoig introduced a wrong bill all right, but he saw his mistake, and withdrew it. He should not be blamed too severely for his blunder now, especially when he promises to make amends by helping the Government do the right thing.

The Banner last evening sallied forth with an article on the Canada Land Company question, which for some time has been, and is yet, receiving the careful consideration of the Government at Toronto, in the interests of the afflicted farmers. The article only serves to display the Banner's unfortunate ignorance on the matter of what remedies should be applied or how they should be administered. They say, in the course of their article, that A. B. McCoig is in Toronto, which we may presume is the real reason why the article found its way into print. If Mr. McCoig had been in Chatham, he might have been able to tell the Banner wherein they erred, and would, no doubt, have stopped the publication of the unfortunate mix-up. It would be a good thing if Mr. McCoig could be in Chatham all the time to keep the Banner straight in their "editorials"—in fact, it might be the best thing that could happen, for he is practically of no use to anyone when he is in Toronto.

OWES CURE TO ZAM-BUK

PROMINENT MANAGER'S TELLING TESTIMONY.

Mr. D. R. Gourlay, advertising manager for the well-known piano firm of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, Toronto and Winnipeg, is amongst the prominent men and women who testify to Zam-Buk's great curative power. He writes to the company as follows:

"Gentlemen—I have pleasure in stating that upon the recommendation of a relative I purchased a box of your remedy—Zam-Buk—and by a few applications entirely cured a very severe sprain of the back. While not given to indiscriminate use of, or belief in, patent medicines, I can conscientiously recommend Zam-Buk."

"Sincerely yours,
"Signed D. R. Gourlay."

That is just where Zam-Buk proves its superiority! It is tried by men and women who have tried it, and altogether different to ordinary preparations. Doctors, hospital nurses, trainers, matrons of convalescent homes—all give Zam-Buk a good word; and better still, they use it. Zam-Buk is as good for muscular stiffness, sprains, rheumatism and sciatica as it is for skin troubles. Baseball players and athletes in general find it invaluable for spring eruptions, pustules, scald sores, itches, eczema, ulcers, boils, abscesses, blood poisons, cuts, burns, bruises and abrasions. It is a speedy cure. Takes the soreness out of wounds almost instantly, and kills all disease germs, thus preventing festering and inflammation. All druggists and stores sell at 50¢ a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, six boxes for $2.50. Send 1¢ stamp for trial box.

"BLUE DEVILS"

Get Rid of Indigestion and Things Will Look Bright and Joyous.

Even in the present era of prosperity and good times every man and woman is suffering from some form of indigestion. Where indigestion is quick, complete and easy there is a joyous and hopeful outlook, but indigestion causes depression.

The want of a safe, effective cure for sick headache, indigestion and stomach troubles, was always felt until the prescription known as Mi-o-na stomach tablets was put up in popular form and proved its invariable success in the many forms of indigestion.

After a few days use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear and perfect digestion and a good skin will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

Mi-o-na is to be taken before each meal and it will stimulate the secretory and digestive juices and strengthen the whole of the digestive system so that the unpleasant full feeling will be absent and indigestion prevented.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold only in a neat metal box convenient for the vest pocket and cost 50 cents. C. H. Gunn & Co. have seen so many cures made by Mi-o-na stomach tablets that they give a guarantee with every box that the money will be refunded if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

Suicide Due to Ill-Health.

New York, April 8.—Francis E. Southard, 64 years old, senior member of the firm of Southard & Co., dealers in yellow pine at 11 Broadway, and living at the Rhineland Apartments in Fifth avenue, shot and instantly killed himself in his home late yesterday. It is believed ill-health caused the suicide.

SHADOWS OF THE PAST.

At the Brisco Opera House To-night, Lincoln J. Carter's emotional drama, "Shadows of the Past," will be presented at the Brisco Opera House to-night.

Theatre-goers of the last generation will remember Thomas W. Keene's thrilling portrayal of the role of a drunkard, in an adaptation from the French play "L'Assomoir," entitled "Drink." The nearest approach to such a character is a master creation of the dramatist, to be found in Shadows of the Past.

This play is founded on a point of old English law, which gives the right to a father of the sole guardianship of his child after it has reached the age of seven. There is a large opportunity for the display of strong dramatic action in this play, which is brought out very cleverly by an able and well-balanced cast. Much pathos & sentiment, quaint comedy and keen satire run through the story. The plot is a strong one, well conceived and cleverly unraveled, many of the characters being taken from actual life. The scenic investiture is said to be much out of the ordinary and harmonizes beautifully with the fine lines of the plot.

Miss Julia Gray, who has played stellar parts for the past three seasons, will be seen with it, and if press reports can be relied upon, she should be greeted by a packed house to-night.

RETURN BY REQUEST.

"Painting the Town," that very funny musical hurrah, as presented by the Charles H. Yale Amusement Company, which so pleased our theatre patrons earlier in the season, will be more than a welcome visitor when it plays a return engagement at the Brisco Opera House on Monday, April 15. Without a doubt, "Painting the Town" is one of the most entertaining musical comedies ever seen here, and it will without question draw the largest house of the season on its return engagement on the reputation made on its previous visit.

Stand out for what is right, whether you get it or not.

Whom can we accuse but ourselves for what we suffer!

His Absent Ducal Mind.

The Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, who is the next heir of Queen Wilhelmina, is a wealthy young prince, twenty-eight years of age, unmarried and has in Germany a reputation for perpetrating "bulls." Once while visiting a public school he noticed two boys of striking similarity in appearance.

"Why, what a remarkable likeness!" he exclaimed. "These lads must surely be twins."

"Yes, your royal highness," remarked the principal, and he beckoned the two frightened youngsters to him.

"Ah," said the prince, placing his hand on the head of one of them, "what is your name?"

"Heinrich."

"And how old are you?"

"Six," answered the boy.

"And you?" he said, turning to the other lad.—Harper's Weekly.

"Well," replied the new minister.

"Well, it should have been, 'Let not your left hand know what your right hand doeth.'"

"But I'm left handed."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Labor Act in Operation—Quebec Contracts Criticized.

Ottawa, April 9.—In the House of Commons yesterday morning Hon. Mr. Lemieux stated that through the operation of the new Labor Act the strike of 700 coal miners at Springhill, Nova Scotia, had been ended.

The parties to this dispute were not at first aware that the compulsory investigation bill had passed Parliament, but when they became so aware, the men went back to work pending a settlement. Mr. Heron thereupon urged enforcement of the act in the case of the strike now in progress at Taber, Alberta.

In reply to Col. Hughes, Mr. Fielding related the "facts" of the retirement of Lord Aylmer, as shown in the records. Mr. Bennett asked if Col. Vidal would be retired in two years' time, and Mr. Fielding replied: "Sufficient unto the day is the good thereof."

The Nova Scotia estimates passed, as did those for Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

Some criticism was leveled at the preponderance of Quebec contracts awarded to Ottawa contractors, but this was explained as due to the fact that these contractors were better acquainted with general conditions than local men could be. The Quebec items went through, making a total vote for the day of about a million and a half.

FIX WATER BOUNDARIES.

Treaty Drawn Between Great Britain and United States.

Washington, April 9.—It was officially admitted yesterday that a treaty had been drafted between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the appointment of a joint commission, which will consider all of the complex questions connected with the water boundaries between Canada and the United States.

This will include such questions as the disposition of the waters of the great lakes; the regulation of the use of the water at Niagara Falls for power purposes and the whole general subject of fisheries regulations, not only for the great lakes but for the Atlantic and Pacific states.

The treaty will require the approval of the United States Senate to become effective, but it is possible that an arrangement in the nature of a modus vivendi will be reached between Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce in the near future.

DISARMAMENT NOT PROBLEM.

Germany Will Refuse to Discuss It at Hague Conference.

London, April 9.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Mail says that Germany is heartily anxious for a definite result from The Hague Conference and regrets that the deliberations will not be confined to practical international questions in accordance with Russia's proposal. He adds that when the British proposal for the limitation of armaments is submitted, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, as Germany's chief delegate, will define her position substantially thus: Disarmament for Germany is not a problem. It is a matter upon which she holds convictions of such a character that participation in any discussion of the subject would be utterly futile. She therefore leaves consideration of the matter to those who believe its discussion will repay them.

BRITISH HOUSE RE-ASSEMBLES.

Budget Expected to Lead to Prolonged Debate.

London, April 9.—Parliament re-assembled yesterday after the Easter. The budget will be introduced April 18, and is expected to lead to lively and prolonged debate.

The prospects seem slight for any early effort to deal with the question described in the King's speech as the unfortunate differences between the two Houses.

As a result of the large amount of work before Parliament, an autumn session seems to be inevitable.

King Edward in Spain.

Cartagena, Spain, April 9.—King Alfonso, the Dowager Queen Christina and the other members of the royal party arrived here at 7.30 yesterday morning from Madrid, in order to meet the King and Queen of England.

The British royal yacht Victoria and Albert, escorted by warships, was sighted later in the day and King Edward and Queen Alexandra on board the Spanish royal yacht Giralda.

The royal visitors were accorded a magnificent reception on their arrival here.

The Official Gazette yesterday published a royal decree appointing King Edward an honorary captain-general in the Spanish army.

Dr. Drummond Buried.

Montreal, April 9.—The funeral of the late Dr. William Henry Drummond took place yesterday afternoon from St. George's church to Mount Royal Cemetery. The body arrived at 9.30 and through a blinding snowstorm was taken to the church.

Dr. Drummond's three brothers were the recipients of letters, telegrams and cables from all parts of the continent and Europe.

Among those who telegraphed was Earl Grey.

Boy Convicts Saloonmen.

Ottawa, April 9.—A boy, aged 15, appeared in the police court yesterday and gave evidence against five hotel men for selling himself, a minor, intoxicating liquors.

The boy acted by himself and stood a long cross-examination well.

The saloon-keepers were fined $10 each solely on his evidence.

Quebec, April 9.—The jury in the matter of the 14-year-old boy named Amédée Carrier, who was killed on Monday last at St. Charles, Bellechasse, rendered a verdict holding Alexena Carrier, sister of the boy, responsible for her brother's death. The young prisoner is only 14 years of age.

WALL FELL ON FIREMEN.

One Killed and Three Fatally Hurt in N. Y. Fire.

New York, April 9.—Fire early yesterday partially destroyed the car barn and power-house of the Metropolitan Street Railway Co., extending from 145th to 146th streets, and from Lenox avenue to Seventh avenue. During the course of the fire one fireman was killed and three others probably fatally injured. The financial loss is heavy.

The dead—Captain John Ryan, of Engine Co. No. 80.

Injured—John Connors, fireman; John Roxbury, fireman; F. D. Lepold, fireman.

The men killed and injured were fighting the flames from a second storey fire escape on the Seventh avenue side of the building when the wall fell, burying the men in the debris. Captain Ryan was taken out dead and Fireman Lepold, who was rescued alive, was probably fatally injured.

He told the rescuers that six men besides the captain were in the ruins and that all were dead. Later it was found that all but Connors and Roxbury, who were taken out gravely injured, had escaped with a few bruises.

The fire started in the repair department from a grounded wire in one of the cars and communicated to the paint and varnish rooms, which burned so fiercely that it took the firemen nearly three hours to bring it under control.

Everything that a man can honestly get in this world is the gift of God.

Earthquake Pranks.

Hindustan has had many important geological changes effected by earthquakes. In 1762 Chittagong was violently shaken, the earth opening in many places and throwing up water and mud of sulphurous smell. Then sixty square miles of coast suddenly and permanently subsided, one of the Mug mountains entirely disappeared, and another sank so low that only the summit remained. At the same time a corresponding rise of ground took place at Ramree, an island farther along the coast. Again, at Cutch, in 1819 the fort and village of Sindree were submerged, and about five miles distant a long elevated mound was raised, measuring some fifty miles by sixteen in places, out of what had been a perfectly level plain.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his Favorite Prescription, published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the standard and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business, furthermore, that no alcohol, or other poisonous, or habit-forming, drugs of any kind were contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatsoever and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction published by said Journal it was admitted that the article was untrue and that the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal were sorry that they had published the article.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the case in the Supreme Court. But the Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor, thus depriving the publishers of their defense, was not satisfied.

Whom can we accuse but ourselves for what we suffer.

THOS. CATLING RETIRES

NEWSPAPER "SCOOP" THAT MADE A PRINTER FAMOUS.

Editor of Lloyd's News Got First Step on the Ladder By a Great "Beat"

Story of How Cub From Composing Room First Got News of Prince Consort's Death—Prays and is Answered.

Newspaper "scoops" are, usually, of little account in the journalistic world of England. Yet it was a "scoop" and a most remarkable one which gave Thomas Catling, the veteran London editor, his first step up the ladder.

Mr. Catling, after half a century of work on Lloyd's Weekly London News, has resigned and left active journalism the first of the year. He has been succeeded by Robert Donald, managing editor of The Daily Chronicle.

Mr. Catling's memorable "scoop" was no less than the announcement of the death of the Prince Consort, Queen Victoria's husband. It occurred on a Saturday evening in December, just forty-five years ago. The Prince Consort was ill, but his death was scarcely expected. There were no reports at Windsor Castle excepting Catling.

Douglas Jerrold was then editing "Lloyd's." He wanted a report on the condition of the prince's illness, but there were few news agencies in those days, and his staff of reporters was busy. So Jerrold drew on the composing room, and because of his smart and alive look, selected young Catling, then one of the compositors, to go down to Windsor.

Mr. Catling, in telling the story himself, says that when he reached Windsor it was already dark and raining. He walked to the castle, and, of course, was refused admission. There was no one at the main gates who would, or was authorized to, give him any information. He wandered about in the rain for a couple of hours, prowling round the outskirts of the castle, hoping something would turn up. Wet, cold, miserable, realizing that he had dimly failed on his first assignment, Catling determined to walk once more round the castle before going home.

He offered up a little prayer, beseeching the rain, asking for help in his need. How quickly that prayer was answered! The guards had just been changed, and as Catling passed one of the solitary sentries at a little wicket gate he observed that the man was in tears. In reply to a question the man said word had just been taken to the guard room that the Prince Consort had passed away.

Catling got hurriedly such particulars as the sentry knew and then was off to London. He reached the Lloyd's News office shortly after midnight. The paper published the story and "scooped" every paper in the world. The death was only "officially announced" by England some hours later.

The composing room saw Catling no more. He was given a position at once on the editorial staff, and five years later was promoted to second in command or chief sub-editor as it is called in England. Eighteen years later he was appointed to the editorship, which he has held ever since.

Mr. Catling is nearly 70 years old. He was the son of a florist in Cambridge. He went to school in the university town, but when still a youth came up to London and became a student at the Working Men's college. There he learned typesetting, and at 18 had his first job in the composing room of Lloyd's News.

For twelve years, while assistant editor of the paper, he also had full charge of the literary reviews of The Daily Chronicle and also did much theatrical criticism. In this way he met and became friends of the leading actors and men of letters. He knew intimately Phelps, Crawford, the late J. L. Toole, and Sir Henry Irving.

Mr. Catling is prominent in British Masonic circles. He is of the Grand Lodge and initiated Lord Kitchener into the Drury Lane lodge.

Mr. Catling has been a great traveler. He has practically toured the world and, leisurely, too. For Lloyd's he has written descriptive stories of these tours. As editor, he gave himself these pleasant assignments.

Mr. George R. Sims tells an interesting story of Mr. Catling's perseverance in keeping a promise. Both are members of the Savage Club, and one night were talking of a coming big Masonic concert. Mr. Catling finally agreed to take the chair. Almost immediately the Egyptian war broke out, and Mr. Catling was sent post haste to Khartoum. He put in four months campaigning and was about ready to go home. One morning he came across a "Referee," Mr. Sims' Sunday paper, and back to him came suddenly his promise to preside at the big concert.

Mr. Catling looked up the date and found that by lucky traveling he might get to London in time. He started at once and invoked all sorts of influences to speed him. He arrived minus baggage at 7 p. m., and when the concert began at 9 p. m. Mr. Catling, in his immaculate dress suit, was presiding.

OLD COACHING DAYS.

Some Adventures in New Brunswick

Half a Century Ago.

A correspondent writes to The Moncton Times as follows:— "Forty-five years ago, on the 14th of November, 1861, I left the St. John's Hotel, of St. John (N.B.), in the King's mail coach, driven by John Crabb, with seven passengers on board for 'The Bend,' as Moncton was then called. There had been a heavy snowstorm for some days—snow and frost. The wind came around south with heavy rain—a good deal like the weather we are having now. We left the hotel at six o'clock in the evening with two spats of horses. When we got to the marsh road bridge the driver stopped and sung out to Nos. seven, six, and five to jump out as he could take only four passengers. Mr. Henry, who was going to Mr. Prince's funeral, being No. seven, jumped out. He handed a parcel to the driver to give to Mr. Prince's family. All the rest of us kept our seats and paid our passage and had our names objected to jumping out, as we had registered in the hotel book.

We all talked the matter over and told the driver that we would walk up the hills and bad places. The driver, being a fine fellow—no better on the road—consented to try, as we said we would walk over the bad places. He started driving, but got stuck in the mud at the bottom of a hill. We got out and walked through the mud. Some of the bridges were washed away by the freshet. We got along the best we could—out all night. We got to the old Moncton Hotel, kept by Mr. King, about four o'clock in the evening—twenty-two hours from the St. John Hotel to the Moncton Hotel. Just think of the difference in traveling now—could go to New York in that time. As I have said, we got to the Moncton Hotel about four, nearly dark.

Schooner Was Frozen.

I ran round to see what chance there was of getting to Shediac, and if the little schooner Oregon was still running. I was told that she was frozen in at Summerside, but might have got out since the soft weather set in. I found the man who drove the mails to Shediac. He had a rickety old wagon. I asked for passage. He said he thought he could take me, and would leave in half an hour, which he did. I saw a few friends, and then got aboard his rickety old wagon for Shediac, and, after quite a journey over the bad roads, arrived there and was delighted to hear that the little packet Oregon, of thirty-five tons, had arrived that day. I went across in her next day to Prince Edward Island.

No Fur Coats Then.

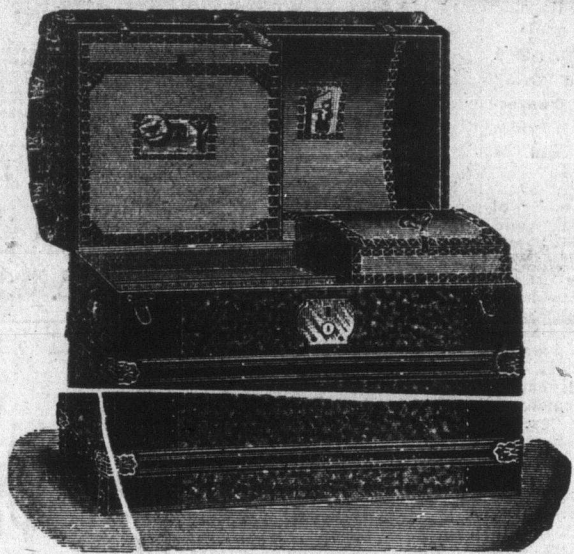

Let young men who read this think of the difference in traveling then and at the present time. No fur coats to muffle up in then. Hurrah for Canada and the governments that have made her what she is to-day! Some of those who were on board the coach were John McKenzie, ex-Mayor of Moncton, the only one except myself who is now living. Police Magistrate Humphrey Gilbert, of St. John; Robert Cutler, M.P.P. for Kent Co., and Capt. Howard Beatty, of Moncton.

"Although we were twenty-two hours on the way we all enjoyed ourselves very much. There was a jolly time on board. Great political speeches by Cutler, McKenzie and Beatty, and great cheering. Never heard better speeches at that time. There was the county election going on at that time."

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

L. Harry Weirs Gets Out On A Promise To Be Good

L. Harry Weirs, the young school teacher from Charing Cross, who was up in Police Court some time ago, and pleaded guilty to two charges—forgery and attempted forgery—came up before Judge Houston this morning for his final hearing. Strong pleas for leniency and mercy were made by over a score of influential persons, and with the consent of the Crown, who did not press for a heavy penalty, Weirs was dismissed with a suspended sentence, and a severe lecture from the Judge. The Court was disposed to think that the young man made his false step during a flighty impulse.

It had been rumored for some days that there might be some interesting developments when the case came up this morning, and it was expected that the defense might try to prove that Weirs was not quite right in his mind, in which case the Crown would possibly call for all the circumstances in connection with the forgery that might have had any tendency to drive the prisoner to commit the deed. The defense, however, took a different stand, and if the Crown had any other representations to make other than those already ventilated, no attempt at least was made to air them.

The facts in connection with the affair as put on record by the Crown were, that Weirs had gone to Trustee Knott of his school on March 28, and asked for money on account of his salary. The request was refused, and Weirs had later approached the trustees and secured their signatures to three blank sheets of foolscap, stating that he wanted their signatures for orders for supplies. The prisoner had forged this cheque by filling in the blank spaces above. However, the cheque which Weirs presented at the Standard Bank was not signed by the trustees, and the names in this case must have been forged.

Crown Attorney Smith said that the trustees had asked that the young man be dealt leniently with. The managers of the banks were not anxious that Weirs should be severely punished, and Dr. George T. McKeough, of this city, had given the young man a splendid testimonial, stating that he had known him for years, and he had previously held a reputation of being an exemplary young man. Dr. McKeough gave it as his opinion that the young man had committed the deed during a flighty impulse, but he could not believe him to be really bad at heart. The young man's mother is held in the highest esteem by all who know her.

In view of all these circumstances, and the many testimonials as to Weirs' character, which had been handed in for the perusal of the Court, Crown Attorney Smith stated that he was willing to give his consent that the Court should deal leniently with the young man. Mr. Smith also made some reference to a statement which had been made to the effect that action would be taken against the trustees for alleged carelessness in signing the blanks handed to them by Weirs.

Ward Stanworth, who was acting for the defense, and to whom a great deal of credit must be given for the effectiveness of the appeals put in, making his representations said that there was no truth whatever in any rumor to the effect that action was to be taken against the trustees. They had done nothing that would leave them open to censure. The young man had previously always held their confidence and they relied on him. Mr. Stanworth said that he had pleaded guilty, and the Judge had all the facts before him. There had been no monetary loss to anyone through Weirs' deed. Quite an interesting feature of the case came to light while Judge Houston was addressing the prisoner. The Court spoke of the great number of letters which had been received testifying to the young man's good character. Most of these letters contained honest appeals for justice, while some others were merely a sympathy cry, in which attempts were made to make believe that Weirs was not guilty of the offences to which he had already pleaded guilty. Among those who made strong pleas for the young man were David Walker and George Wilson, of Charing Cross. Judge Houston made special mention of their letters, which gave the young man an exemplary character previous to his rash act, and pleaded for leniency if for nothing else, for his heart-broken mother. They asked that Weirs be given one more chance to redeem himself. The trustees of the school also made a strong plea for Weirs.

The following is a portion of the letter written by the pastor of the Methodist church which Weirs attended. The letter was addressed to Judge Houston:

"I cannot understand why counsel for the defense should be condemning my letter, written to your worship personally, in such extravagant terms as I hear he is doing. If, as his pastor, I have withheld his testimony as to his Christian character, which is probably what the defense is looking for, it is simply because, for several months past I have observed a great neglect of church duties, and a strangeness in his conduct for which I cannot account. Previous to this time his Christian conduct, as far as I have known, was quite consistent. I can only repeat what I said in my former letter, that if the young man is guilty of the charges laid against him it is a serious offense, considering his position in the church and the community, and has brought disgrace on the church. But notwithstanding, considering his youth and his circumstances, and for the sake of his poor mother, who has worked hard to bring up her family well, I would pray your worship to be as lenient as possible in this case. I remain your obedient servant."

"S. SALTON,
"Methodist Minister."

Referring to this letter, Judge Houston said that he could not pay any attention to what was said in it about the church being disgraced by Weirs' actions. No church could be disgraced, and the business of the church and ministers was to help uplift disgraced people, not to help pull them down when they had fallen into evil ways. The Judge said that he feared there was not enough Christian charity in many of the churches. "Charity, we are told, covereth a multitude of sins," remarked the Court, "but many who have not charity, are afraid to rub up against those whom they consider have disgraced their religion. Religion or churches cannot be disgraced. Their business is to help to uplift disgraced people and to encourage them to good deeds instead of evil. But our churches do not seem to do this. They help to keep a man down in some cases by ostracizing him. There is one church that cannot be accused of this attitude towards the erring, and that is the Salvation Army. In that church, charity is extended to everyone, no matter how low they may have fallen."

SAD DEATH

Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Wm. Wemp in the loss of her only remaining son, Harry, who died at the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. Paxton, Barth street, this morning, aged 20 years and 11 months. The deceased contracted consumption some years ago and put up a brave fight until almost the very last, when he expressed a wish only to live until he should have reached his majority, which would have been the latter part of this month.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.30 to Maple Leaf cemetery. He is survived by his mother and three sisters. Miss Kate, the eldest sister, who is superintendent of the Lutheran Hospital, LaCrosse, Wis., obtained leave of absence some weeks ago on account of her brother's rapidly failing health; and she has proved herself to be a most devoted and competent nurse at his bedside. The other two sisters, Misses Mabel and Ella, who are stenographers in Toledo, Ohio, were home for Easter, but were unable to remain.

Mr. P. H. Bowyer (East Kent), who suggested the amendment to the Municipal act providing for the taxation by the municipality of the mineral rights reserved by the Canada Company in their sale of land to the farmers—which amendment has been embodied by the Government in the new act—laid before Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, the problem of the collection of the tax.

Mr. Bowyer pointed out that unless the procedure for collection was specifically outlined, the company might make an effort to dodge or refuse to pay the tax in an effort to have it charged up against the farm or surface rights. The member for East Kent suggested that a similar course be followed to that which obtains in other municipal taxation. If the company failed to pay its mineral tax for three years, the mineral rights would be put up for tax sale and could be bought in by the farmer-owner. In this way the tax could be collected or redress given to the farmer or land-owner.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said that the course suggested by Mr. Bowyer was what would follow upon the owner of the mineral interest refusing to pay the tax on such interest and that the sale of such interest would in no way prejudice or affect the owner of the surface rights.

Fish and Game Bill.

The House followed on in committee on the fish, fur bearing animals and game bill of Hon. Dr. Reaume.

Mr. Graham broached the question of game preservation, which came into prominence through the application of the Tademeac Club. Mr. Whitney, taking up the matter, said the transaction sought was a sale of land, not a lease. He believed, however, that the waters of the bay were under lease and the application was for the purchase of land on two sides thereof.

The license for shooting deer and caribou, as decided by the committee was increased from $25 to $50 per season.

CHRIST CHURCH GLEBE

On Saturday a meeting of the Trustees of the Christ Church Glebe was held in the office of Matthew Wilson, K. C. A deed of trusteeship was signed by Messrs. M. Wilson and Wm. Lane, and delivered to Mr. Colles, thus formally appointing him trustee in place of the late Judge Woods. Mr. Colles was unanimously appointed chairman of the Board.

W. E. Rispin was present at the meeting.

In an interview with a Planet reporter, Mr. Colles stated that he was not yet in a position to say what his policy would be regarding the management and any disposition of the property. He had not had an opportunity to study the deed by which the glebe was given, and he thought that the chief care of the trustees should be to carry out the wishes of the party who donated the property, as they are expressed in the terms of the deed.

Mr. Colles thinks that if any part of the property is getting out of repair the income from the glebe should be applied towards putting it in good condition. Our first care, Mr. Colles said, should be to keep the property in good condition. He did not believe in "killing the goose for the sake of the golden egg."

Mr. Colles may be relied upon to take an independent stand in the matter, and especially to endeavor to carry out the expressed terms of the deed by which the property was conveyed to the trustees, whatever these may be.

She took box after box of Ferrozone and rubbed the sore places with Nerviline. Improvement started and she mended fast. To-day she is quite cured and we thank Ferrozone for her recovery." No remedy more popular with doctors than Ferrozone; it does cure, 50c per box at all dealers.

BOWYER'S GOOD MOVE

To the doors of the rural residents good high schools.

Mr. Preston (Brant) asked the Minister of Education to bear in mind in framing his legislation the banishment of the evils of truancy and child labor. He urged also that feeble minded children should have special care and training. Mr. Preston asked if any provision was being made for the instruction of foreigners coming into the country.

Hon. Dr. Pyne said the matter had been largely left to the night schools as the foreigners were usually past school age.

Mr. Preston suggested that the House endorse the school penny savings banks.

Mr. P. H. Bowyer (East Kent), who suggested the amendment to the Municipal act providing for the taxation by the municipality of the mineral rights reserved by the Canada Company in their sale of land to the farmers—which amendment has been embodied by the Government in the new act—laid before Hon. FINEST LIVING PICTURE.

Three Views of the Great St. Paul's Cathedral of London—An Impression That is Borewidering.

Everything about St. Paul's Cathedral is on a grand scale. It is strikingly so in the great grey cupola, fam-ilar landmark, seen below in the southern roadway, from the river, or the north tower of the Crystal Palace.

Yet the grandeur, within and without,
grows dwarf-like when surveying from the outside galleries the wonderful panoramic prospect of London. Dome, chapel, monuments, the gold and silver of the spires, all are forgotten in the vast prospect around. It is not only an imposing scenic spectacle, but the finest of living pictures, says a writer in the Lloyd's Weekly News.

It can be seen from three points. The view from the ball (reached by 616 steps) and capable of holding eight persons) is disappointing. The chamber gives a sense of confinement; the windows are dim and their outlook chiefly on streaks of vapour. Hence the room is rarely visited, and then mainly from curiosity. The prospect is bewildering.
From which to see London outside St. Paul's is the Golden Gallery above the cupola. There is a climb of 366 steps to the gallery, delightfully refreshing in its breezy air after ascent;
while the impression is wonderful.

At first the impression is wonderful.
The eye only seems to rest on churchsowers, a huge network of streets and shorouglfares, chimneys sending forth streams of smoke, and on the horizon
"haze clothed and steady hills." Soon vision concentrates, and the London of historic moment reveals itself.
The Tower and its bridge; "the forest of masts below London bridge"; the glittering river; Fleet street, the highway of Journalism; Westminster Abbey; the law Courts; Houses of Parliament; St. James's Palace; the cupola of the Reading-room of the British Museum; the Embankment, with its trees, all distinctly meet the eye.

There is a mysterious charm and varied magic in the sights and sounds of the huge scene beyond description.
Douglas Jordan has sketched it very pretty in his last play, "Heart of Gold." Maude, the heroine, telling of the wonders of her visit to the top of St.
Paul's, says: "Along the streets little specks moving sometimes in twos and threes, and then altogether in one long black gliding thread. And the beautiful smoke in millions of silver fountains—it came from the chimneys up and up and then somehow joined in one large shining sheet and went floating over houses and church steeples with hundreds of golden weather cocks glittering through. Then there were far-off hills with a stir below, and they looked so beautiful and so close as though they never heard and never cared for the noise of London; a noise that when we listened hummed from below for all the world like a hundred humble bees, all making honey and upon one bush."

On excursions by clear days, like several of those in the past August, and some in September, the far-reaching view has been most striking. Lethbridge Hill, and the uplands about Northern Middlesex, the lovely bits of landscape in Surrey and Kent, and the country stretching to the Essex side of the Thames, have been seen in all their tranquil beauty. But "places of nestling green" much nearer St. Paul's always gladden the eye under an ordinary atmosphere. Spots like the Temple gardens, the trees in Finsbury square, and even the foliage in Wood street, Cheapside, are among the oases in the vast metropolitan Sahara of factory blocks and dwelling houses.

Wren's epitaph in St. Paul's, "If you would see his monument look around you," has its echo beyond the precincts of the cathedral. The sound of the words lingers looking east, surveying
the Monument and Greenwich Hospital, both designed by the myriad-minded architect. Nothing has been achieved in modern architecture surpassing the beauty of many of Wren's campaniles, not only for their variety, but elegance. These qualities of his art are especially witnessed in St. Mary-le-Bow, Chancery, with its dragon vane, and in the plain, but impressive, spire of St. Vedast, behind the postoffice.

A LIVING GHOST!

That is What Her Friends Said
About Her

Read how Mrs. James Steele, Waterville, Que., was cured by the use of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE

PILLS

she writes: "For the past fourteen months I was nervous all the time, and became so run down I was unable to walk across the house without getting dizzy. My friends told me I looked like a living ghost and advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got two boxes and within two weeks I had improved wonderfully and after finishing the fourth box I was completely cured. They are the greatest pills I ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills act directly on the disordered heart and nerves, and restore them to healthy action.
They have no equal for reviving and strengthening the heart-beat, invigorating the nervous system, and acting as a food for the blood, improving its quality, making it rich and red.

THE AFTERGLOW.

There's a light of wondrous softness

Called by some the afterglow,
And it follows day's receding
As the shadows come and go.

There's a light of Time in fancy
That bedims that afterglow,
As its shadows are extended,
To the years of long ago.

Long ago, when boys were marking
Not the years in rapid flight,
When the sun would reach the zenith,
Then decline to sombre night.

And beyond the worth of story
It that time we called our own,
As the cycles worked their changes,
While the speeding years have flown.

Not for you and I the vintage
Other boys have crowned with fame,
Nor for you and I the willow,
All forgotten but in name.

Still we plod our steps, if weary;
Manhood's burdens must be borne,
Though each glow lapse into darkness,
May it dawn a fairer morn.

And whatever may be the ending
Of our lives when they must cease,
Let us hope that in earth's turmoil
We have won a higher peace.

SURPRISE

A PURE HARD SOAP

QUICKNESS.

THREE TIMES A DAY the year round is too often to do anything any but the easiest way, so we recommend everybody to use "SUR-PRISE" Soap for dish-washing.

It loosens up the grease and dirt so that they slide off the dish easily. Any child can wash the dishes in a few minutes with "SURPRISE" Soap.

And it doesn't hurt the hands or make them sore and rough. There is nothing harsh about "SURPRISE" Soap, and it takes so little of it to do a big lot of work that it is the most economical soap you can buy.

"SURPRISE" costs no more than common soaps.

IN DARKEST AFRICA

BRITISH OFFICER'S PERILOUS
JOURNEY OF 3,000 MILES.

Secures 1,500 Zoological Specimens—Motley Collection of Birds, Beasts and Fishes—Surveys African Lakes
—Pagan Tribes Once Poisoned Arrows—Resent White Man's Rule—
Two of Party Succumb to Climate.

After an eventful and perilous journey of 3,000 miles across Africa, Lieut.
Boyd Alexander, has arrived home.
The expedition, of which he was the organizer, left England in 1894, and consisted of Lieut. Boyd Alexander, his brother, Capt. Claude Alexander, Capt. Gosling, and Mr. R. A. Talbot.
Lieut. Alexander was the only one to complete the journey. Mr. Talbot having returned home after exploring the Chad region, and the other two having been mortally stricken with disease.
The exploits of Lieut. Alexander constitute him to be placed in the first rank of African explorers. The expedition has secured extensive collections of the birds, beasts, and fishes characteristic of the regions traversed in the course of the long journey across the continent. In addition to those sent home from time to time, Lieut. Alexander has brought back with him as many as 1,500 zoological specimens.
As regards individual species, peculiar interest attaches to the information secured respecting the habits and habits of the okapi, the enormous mammal first revealed to the scientific world by Sir Henry Johnston. Of equal importance with the zoological work of the expedition is the geographical information embodied in the diaries and survey records.

Particularly valuable is the very careful survey carried from the Benue to Lake Chad by Capt. Claude Alexander and Mr. Talbot. The hydrographical investigations pursued by Mr. Talbot and Lieut. Boyd Alexander on Lake Chad after the death of Capt.
Claude Alexander show how greatly the character of the lake has changed in recent years. Instead of being a veritable inland sea, in which the character it formerly appeared, the lake is now shown to consist of two wide exposed of shallow water differing little over a large part of its area from a huge pond. After leaving the Congo basin the expedition made its way to the Nile down a tributary named the Yeh, which was much obstructed by rapids, and the full account of the journey may be expected to throw some new light on the hydrography of the Upper Nile basin. In Northern Nigeria the expedition came into contact with some of the pagan tribes who were

Never Thoroughly Subdued
even by the Fulani, and who have still to be brought under British control.
The Munshi people to the south of the Benue who have been giving a good deal of trouble to the British administration are described by Lieut.
Alexander as industrious agriculturists, though strongly opposed to the extension of the white man's influence in their midst. The wealth of the Fulani had much diminished with the reduction of slave-trading. The street corners are now remarkable for their beggars. Keffi, another large town of round and square mud-built houses, is in great part in ruins—the result of the reprisals taken by the British authorities after the murder of Capt.
Maloney. The influence of the Fulani, according to Lieut. Alexander, is not so remarkable as it might seem. Inter-marriage has caused an almost total disappearance of the original Fulani stock, though an indication of what this must have been like is afforded by the "Bush Fulani," a small and dwindling community. Retiring and shy in disposition, they seldom approach the town.

Women Are Handsome.
The women are handsome, tall, and pale-skinned, with oval faces, surrounded by thick twists of silky hair.
It is the general opinion and hope amongst the Fulani that the rule of the white man will not be long now, and this idea is fostered by the Senussi, who are very active just now, especially about Vinka. Of the Ra-goro tribe Lieut. Alexander said they lived in a village built on the sides of a rocky hill. Their small mud houses are cemented to projecting rocks, and are reached only by the narrowest and steepest of paths. The people turned out to be strongly built.
They were seen from a distance squatting like monkeys on the rocks. Their features were disagreeable. He found them to be keen hunters, accustomed to the use of poisoned arrows.

Prison Horrors.

The Anglo-Russian, of London, in an article on the tortures inflicted on suspected persons in Russia, says:—
"From independent Russian, German, French and English sources come heart-sickening accounts of systematic tortures practised in Russian prisons upon 'politicals' with the object of compelling them to betray their friends and supporters. For a long time such tortures have been reported from various prisons all over the empire, but the worst atrocities seem to be habitually perpetrated in the prisons of Poland and the Baltic provinces. In Riga, for instance, a special chamber has been fitted up with all the instruments of torture known to the Inquisition of old. Rubber sticks, and long pins, pincers, a rack, and so forth, are used in the process of making the victim 'confess,' and all this not only by permission of the higher local authorities, but frequently even in their presence and under their personal guidance. Such things as knocking out the teeth, tearing out the hairs and pieces of flesh are in ordinary usage."

Railway Slaughter.
With a record of nearly 400 persons killed in railway wrecks during the last six months and about 450 injured, the public is asking whether the railway commissioners of the several states and the Interstate Commerce Commission can not intervene to stop the slaughter.

CUTICURA REMEDIES A PERFECT SUCCESS

one case of Cuticura Soap, one box of

I had an itching all over my body, and when I would retire for the night it would keep me awake half the night, and the more I would scratch, the more it would itch. I tried all kinds of re-

Love versus Law.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells.

They came face to face as they turned a bend in the rough, and narrow trail leading up the Cumberland mountains to Laurel Cove, and both stopped and stared for half a minute before the young man raised his hat and excused his absentmindedness. The young woman blushed, stammered a reply and passed on, and in a minute the trees and bushes hid them from each other.

The one everybody for five miles around knew as Abe Goodman's daughter Tilda. The other had just appeared in the neighborhood, claiming to be a botanist and a naturalist, and had secured a temporary home at the cabin of Saul Markham. For the last two years Tilda had been down to Nashville, "bein' educated," as her father and mother put it, and was now teaching the dozen children of the mountaineers in the log schoolhouse which the young man had passed forty rods before meeting her.

Tilda had come from mountaineer stock. Her father was rough, uncouth and ignorant. Her mother was uneducated and plain. The girl had lived in poverty, surrounded by poverty, and yet she was like none of the rest. Nature had given her a good figure and a handsome face, and the time spent in the city had made, what the natives called, a lady of her. The astonishment of the young man, who had given his name as Arthur Griggs, was but natural.

The stranger who goes among the people of the southern mountains is from the outset a suspected man, and the first suspicion which rests on him is that he must be a revenue spy.

Revenue men have raided and destroyed scores of stills in the caves and ravines and sent scores and scores of moonshiners to the penitentiary, but other stills are brought in, and other men take the places of those who have fallen under the ban of the law. It was so thirty years ago; it is so today;

it will be so thirty years hence. The mountaineer argues that he is a law unto himself. He argues that where he has no market for his corn as corn he has a right to turn it into whiskey to make a market. The government does not argue with him. It sends men into the mountains to break up his business and imprison him. So does the government. He depends upon the honor of his neighbors not to give him away. The revenue men coax, threaten, bribe and work in every underhand way to get an advantage.
The enmity is more bitter than in the personal feuds. When the mountaineer goes down to the towns, he is trailed about, cross questioned, made drunk, if possible, and his wife or his children are offered money to betray him.

When the revenue men send a spy up the mountains to nose out and report on stills, he takes his life in his hands. He may go as a buyer of timber or coal or iron lands, as a traveler, peddler or artist, as a fur buyer, preacher or newspaper man, but the shadow of death walks by his side until he has proved himself all right. In that case he is heard of again down in the lowlands. In the other case he is reported as missing.

A botanist and a naturalist from Harvard was what Griggs claimed to be, and he was taken into the cabin of the mountaineer without question.
There was no undue curiosity about him. He was free to come and free to go. As the neighbors were introduced to him they seemed to accept him as Saul Markham had done. He walked about in contentment and slept in peace. He did not know that he never moved a hundred feet from the cabin door without being under surveillance;
that every action was watched; that men whom he had never seen looked in on him when he slept; that other men gathered together in the laurel thickets and reported on him and discussed him.

Young Griggs shot squirrels and hares and gathered flowers and plants and sought to make friends with all.
Among those plain and hospitable people it was an easy matter for him to bring about an acquaintanceship with Tilda. Two days after meeting her on the trail they knew each other. The girl was pleased when she saw admiration in the young man's eyes. She was pleased when he dared to flatter and to compliment. She knew little of the world and its hollowness. If the mountaineer said this or that, he meant it. She had to judge others by this standard.

It was only after the newcomer and Tilda were being talked about as lovers that the watch on Griggs was relaxed.
He had set no time for departing, but after a month it was seen that his work was finished and that he was staying on account of the girl. Abe Goodman asked no questions of the young man, and the mother asked none of her daughter. Suspicious and distrustful as the mountaineers were,
they had been fooled. The newcomer was a revenue spy, working with the promise of a great reward. He had rehearsed his part for months before playing it. He had counted on everything but meeting Tilda. There had been admiration from the first, and now had soon followed. Within two weeks there had sprung up in his breast a conflict 'twixt love and duty,
and it was for this reason he lingered.

He was not what he claimed to be, and yet he was the girl's superior in all ways. It was her ingenuousness and innocence that appealed to him. He had come to betray, and yet he could not do it. He loved, and yet he hesi-tated to go further. More education and refinement, more contact with the world, and she would be a woman to be proud of, and yet there was her ancestry—the impossible in the environments that had surrounded her for so many years and must have their due effects.

When a man trusts a woman, he has limits. When a woman trusts a man, she has none. She is ready to give her whole life to him. Arthur Griggs knew that he had won the maiden's love, and it was for him to make a choice. Should he return and betray the stills hidden away in Laurel Cove and then disappear and be seen no more, or should he report that none existed and take away a mountain bride and the good will of the lowly people?

Love carried the day. It was to the credit of human sentiment that it was so. But before this determination was reached the young man walked alone on the mountains. No one followed him this day. It was Sunday, and the mountaineers were smoking their pipes as they rested. Their suspicions had been lulled. They had kept their eyes open and whispered among themselves —whispered and smiled. On this day, as he walked under the giant chestnuts and made his way through the laurels, young Griggs came upon a man. The revenue force had grown impatient with his dilatory tactics and had sent an emissary to see and question him. The two talked for half an hour as they leaned against the trunk of a great tree at the edge of a thicket.
When they separated, the revenue man knew that nothing further could be expected from the spy. He had shut his eyes to all but the song of love. It had been useless to talk to him of duty.
He had come as a spy, but had sold
the government out.

After the talk Griggs walked away a few rods and sat down on a rock from which he could see far down the side of the grim old mountain. He could count the cabins of the mountaineers scattered about, and he could look down into Beaver Cove and Halfway Cove and Halpin's Hamlet. It was a day of peace, with the smoke ascending as straight as an arrow and the birds singing and the squirrels chattering about him. He felt good. There was a burden off his mind and joy in his heart now that he had made his decision. In the evening he would see Tilda and tell her that he loved her.
In the evening he would see her father and ask her hand in marriage. He was smiling as his eyes roved over the landscape beneath him when a step caused him to turn his head.

"Tilda, you here!" he cried as he sprang to his feet with the light of love in his eyes and his arms outstretched.

She drew herself up and waved him away.

"But, Tilda, what is it?"

She was pale, and hard lines had come into her face. The girl look was searched for in vain. There was suffering in her eyes, but determination in the compressed lips.

"I was in the thicket when you talked with that man—dad and I," she said at last. "Dad has gone for his rifle to shoot you like a dog. I am here to tell you so."

"But if you heard us talking you know that I would not agree to what the man wanted."

"You came here as a spy. If you hadn't fallen in love with me you would have betrayed my own father.
In love with me! I in love with a revenue spy! Go!"

"But listen, Tilda. If I came here under false pretenses!"

"We are poor and humble," she interrupted as she drew her skirts away from him. "We are plain and uneducated. We have nothing before us—nothing but this to look forward to.
You are learned, and you may be rich.
You have the whole world before you,
and you know how to be happy, but the meanest, lowest one among our men is a king beside you! Go!"

He paused for ten seconds in hopes to see her face soften, but it was like stone. She motioned again, and he went. In five minutes he was out of sight down the side of the mountain, and rough old Abe Goodman was standing over his weeping daughter and saying to her in sympathetic tones:

"Thar, thar, little one, don't cry.
The Lawd made women to b'ar crosses and to stand trouble, and if you'll jest look up to him he'll bring you into smooth waters and send along a feller of a husband with forty horses and kerridges."

A Little Indefinite.

A prominent New York lawyer says that in his earlier professional days he was glad to expand his slender income by bill collecting. On one occasion he had a bill against a man who incen-dially has since achieved a success which puts him beyond the necessity of such an indefinite statement as he made on that occasion. The young lawyer found him with his feet prop-ed upon his desk, while he gazed dreamily at the ceiling through a cloud of tobacco smoke.

"Why, certainly, sir, though there seems to me to be a rather unnecessary commotion about this trifling," he drawled. "I will pay the bill as soon as I think of it after receiving the money which a publisher will pay me in case he accepts the novel which I will write and send him just as soon as I feel in an energetic mood after a really good idea for a plot has occurred to me."—Harper's Weekly.

THE SELECTING OF A GOWN OR SUIT

MADE EASY BY

Foreman's Wide Range of Gownings And Suitings

The Dress Fabrics that we have gathered here for you to make your selection from this season are the products of French, German, British and Canadian industry.

The selecting of a Gown or Suit was never easier than it is at this store this season. We made a careful study of the style tendencies for Spring, 1907, early, and we bought liberally of fabrics that are now so scarce that the prices of them are almost beyond reason.

Read carefully this partial list, study our Show Windows, and, if you will, come and let us show you our Dress Fabrics.

An hour "spent" in this Store is never mis-spent when you are looking for correct Dress Fabrics.

CITIZENS MASS MEETING

On Friday evening a mass meeting of citizens will be held in Harrison Hall at eight o'clock for the purpose of re-organizing the Board of Trade. This is a meeting in which every citizen is interested, and it is earnestly hoped there will be a large representation. W. H. Westman, chairman.

FIRE ESCAPES

Fire Marshall Pritchard gives the following report as to fire escapes recently installed in this city:

During 1906, escapes were placed on the following buildings, the Alexander Block, the Eberts Block, Brisco Opera House, Standard Bank, C. Austin Store, the Sheldrick Block, the General Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

Escapes were placed on the following buildings this year, St. Joseph's Hall, and the Miles Hotel, while the Merrill Hotel, I. O. O. F. Temple, Rankin House and Miss Miller's Block will shortly be fitted out with the necessary equipment.

DUMAS-NAGLE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's church on Tuesday morning at six o'clock, when Miss Mabel Nagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Nagle, Queen street, was united in marriage to George Dumas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dumas, of Dover.

Promptly at six o'clock the bride marched up the aisle of the church leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She was attended by Miss Annie Dumas, sister of the groom. The groom was in waiting at the altar, having as groomsmen Mr. David Nagle, brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father James.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride at 7.30, after which the happy couple left on the 8.30 for a week's trip to eastern points.

The presents were numerous and costly, showing the high appreciation in which the young couple are held. The young couple have the heartiest congratulations and good wishes of a large number of friends. Several guests from Detroit and other points were present.

THE STREET LIGHTING

The street lighting matter did not come up at Monday night's meeting of the Council. Ald. Kerr was not present. A special meeting of the Council will be held on Thursday, when the whole matter will be thoroughly threshed out.

Mr. Coate was present at the meeting and asked if the Council would hand the contract over to the Gas Company, if it could be shown that the company could provide the lights cheaper than they are now being provided under municipal ownership. It was the feeling that the Council wanted to get cheap lights, no matter who provided them. They wanted the best service for the least money. The matter will be thoroughly threshed out at the meeting Thursday night.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION

A regular monthly meeting of the Chatham Branch of the Retail Merchants' Association was held Monday night in the Library auditorium.

The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock, a full attendance being present. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, and much business was transacted. Several sections reported organizations; the shoemen reporting that they had agreed to close their stores at 6.30 every evening except Saturday. The committee of Anderson, Mills, Austin and Hodgins reported in connection with the advertising of some particular day as a mid-week market day. It advocated the using of a circular letter by the retail merchants to all customers, asking them to co-operate in making Wednesday, May 1st, and every subsequent Wednesday, a successful market day, and also reported that steps were being taken to get cheap rates on the railways for that day.

A delegation was appointed to wait on the Council and ask them to waive the basket fees in connection with the Wednesday market.

The old question of advertising on programmes and cards came up, and it was definitely decided that no member of the association should advertise in this manner in the future. There was some more discussion in connection with publishing a credit list, which was to be prepared at once and distributed to the members.

Mr. Wm. Somerville gave a motion to change the date of the meeting from the second Monday of each month to the second Tuesday of each month.

After a few minutes of social intercourse the meeting was again called to order and adjourned.

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, 4, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it. The treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The fellow who shaves himself is apt to cut his best friend.

Some people are satisfied to be under-studies all their lives.

THE DOMINION BANK

The Dominion Bank will in future pay interest on Savings Deposits four times a year, namely, March 31st, June 30th, Sept. 30th and Dec. 31st, at Highest Current Rates.
