The "private judgment" of "the Bible," having resulted in a thousand sects, has made men outside the Catholic church believe that it is the Bible that is mixed with essential error, and not that it is the persons who imagine that they can infallibly judge what is in the Bible who essentially err.

We are all attached to our faith, we are desirous to see the church respected by all classes of the community. Nothing will secure this object more effectually than our own attention to acquire the virtues of our state of life.

The Very Rev. Dean Harris, of St. Catharines, Ontario, has written a very able "History of the Early Missions in Western Canada." In this work he pays the following eloquent and graceful tribute to the Jesuits, whom he calls "The Imperial Guard of the Catholic Church."

It is no compliment to the honesty and intelligence of our age that even now, with the imperishable parchment of their heroic deeds unrolled before us, there are to be found those whose partiality is so pronounced that they cannot think of the Jesuits without associating them with blood, poison and daggers.

WHAT IS A CRANK.

Humanity is divided into three kinds—men, women and cranks. The last kind may be either male or female. A crank is a being who, having looked at one object so long as to see nothing else, believes that this object represents the universe, and that all persons holding different views should be legislated out of existence or otherwise suppressed.

MAKING THE SIGN OF THE CROSS.

It does one's heart good to see a big hulk of a fellow quietly stride into church kneel down and bless himself, as only big men apparently can bless themselves. Sometimes, quite often in fact, you will observe a poor, good woman perform this act of devotion to God in like manner.

WHAT A CONTRAST TO MANITOBA?

Outside the Province of Quebec, no such toleration can be found in Canada as the following clipped from the Irish World: In the election of a Protestant to fill the vacancy in the Irish Nationalist representation in the House of Commons caused by the resignation of Michael Davitt we have another example of the manner in which the Catholic majority of Ireland persecute the Protestant minority.

to the Protestant was heard from a Catholic bishop or priest any more than from Catholic laymen. The "clerical tyrants," who according to Lord Salisbury, are to persecute Protestants under Home Rule, had a no persecution for the Protestant in Catholic North-East Cork but to unanimously elect him to parliament.

Mr. Abraham is the twelfth Protestant member of the present Irish Home Rule representation in parliament. All the twelve have been elected in the districts with overwhelming Catholic majorities. Three of them have been elected in Cork County, one in Clare, one in Donegal, one in Galway, one in Longford, two in Caven, one in Meath, one in Waterford, and one in Monaghan, all districts in which from eighty to ninety per cent. are Catholics.

Further facts illustrating the characteristic "persecution" of Protestants in Ireland by Catholics are set forth in a remarkable leaflet recently published by the English "Home Rule Union."

A COMPLETE ENDORSATION.

Some time ago the Winnipeg Tribune, the Brandon Sun and many of the lesser lights of the Greenway government pretended to see in the action of Mgr. Satolli on the school question in the United States, a complete condemnation of the position taken by our beloved Archbishop on the question of education in this province.

They started out wrong and therefore arrived at a wrong conclusion. In the first place the Pope never endorsed the public schools in the United States, therefore, the conclusion about Manitoba is false. The Pope merely tolerated the use of the public schools under certain circumstances, the bishop of the diocese being sole judge as to the circumstances calling for their use.

WHERE DOES IT PLACE US?

The professional politician is as contemptible a specimen of the perversion of God's handiwork, as this globe can produce. He lives, and fattens on the stupidity, bigotry, or credulity of a people who pose as intelligent, rational and even educated men.

THE NORTHWEST REVIEW IS NOT A POLITICAL JOURNAL.

The Northwest Review is not a political journal, nor have we any desire to identify ourself in any way in the struggle of either of the political parties further than is necessary to defend our principles and safeguard the interests of the Catholic minority of this province.

ON THE CONTRARY, THESE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES OF THE CATHOLIC MINORITY WERE SUPPOSED TO BE INDESTRUCTIBLE.

On the contrary, these rights and privileges of the Catholic minority were supposed to be indestructible, for when the conservatives warned the electors of St. Francois Xavier that should the Liberals succeed in that election, and thereby obtain control of the government benches, the first thing they would do would be to destroy the official use of the French language and the separate schools.

Here, then, is the complete endorsement of the position taken by His Grace, the Pope himself, made all the more flattering by the fact that our Holy Father adopts exactly the same line of argument as did the Venerable Archbishop Tache. Here, too, is a complete answer to the aforesaid organs of the government who persisted in saying that His Grace of St. Boniface was not in line with the views of "the enlightened, broad, liberal and democratic spirit of the actual Pope." The Greenway organs are very prudent, indeed, in dropping that line of argument.

ASK SIFTON.

A correspondent writes us to enquire, what is the attitude of Mr. Laurier on the Manitoba school question? We would refer our correspondent to the Hon. Clifford Sifton, Mr. Greenway's attorney-general, who is Mr. Laurier's colleague, a Vice-President of the Liberal party in Dominion politics.

The professional politician is as contemptible a specimen of the perversion of God's handiwork, as this globe can produce. He lives, and fattens on the stupidity, bigotry, or credulity of a people who pose as intelligent, rational and even educated men.

At that convention Mr. Clifford Sifton, Mr. Greenway's attorney-general, the active partisan, the repudiator of the government's pledges to Catholics, the apt apologist of the government's brutality and coarse invective, the insulter and despoiler of our rights and privileges, in one word, the most active and cruel persecutor of the minority in this province, was elected vice-president of the Liberal party of which the honorable W. Laurier is leader.

guarded and protected and as a mark of his and the government's sincerity, his Grace was asked to nominate the French Canadian representative in the cabinet. What was the result? At the general election, the French Canadians returned supporters of the government in all the French constituencies, except one.

Through all this treatment of us by a Liberal government we had one consolation, and that was that in treating us in this way, the Greenway government was violating the principles and traditions of the liberal party. Time after time, we stated in the REVIEW that the Liberal party, led by Mr. Laurier, would repudiate, on the first opportunity the Greenway gang. In this belief we were perfectly honest.

COMMUNICATIONS.

St. Mary's, Winnipeg, July 21, 1893.

DEAR SIR,—As was announced some months ago, I had intended holding a bazaar in the month of June, for the purpose of obtaining funds for the completion of our spire, and promised to give half the profits to the school Trustees towards the payment of all the teachers of our schools in Winnipeg.

I beg therefore, that you will kindly insert this letter as my first public appeal for support, so that our numerous friends and well-wishers both for church and schools may have four full months for preparing to render us all the aid in their power.

Your obedient servant in J. and M. LAURENCE CHAS. PRIDEAUX, FOX, O. M. I.

FATHER DRUMGOOLE.

A Bronze Statue of the Good Priest to be Erected in New York.

A magnificent bronze statue is soon to be erected in Lafayette place, New York near the mission-house of the Immaculate Virgin, which was built through his efforts. Father Drumgoole also established the mission-house at Mount Loretto, S. I., which, though comparatively unknown, is a very large institution, as there are about fifteen hundred boys and girls taken care of there.

Father Drumgoole in his early days was very poor, and was the only support of an aged and invalid mother. Although from early boyhood he had been desirous of studying for the ministry, he considered the care of his mother a sacred charge, and he was not ordained until he was 53 years old.

The institution is entirely supported by subscriptions to a little paper known as the Homeless Child, which is printed by the boys of the Mount Loretto Mission. The expenses of the institution are $20,000 a month, all of which comes in in 25-cent pieces, the price of the little sheet issued by the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The children are educated to be self-supporting, and are taught the trades. The carpentering, painting and plumbing, farming and dairy work are done by the inmates of the home. The charity is one of the most worthy and beneficent that exists, and is far reaching and wonderful in its effects.

Although Father Drumgoole is to be perpetuated in bronze, he will have an everlasting monument in the hearts of the little ones whom he has rescued from degradation and misery. The present head of the institution is Father Dougherty, who is assisted by three priests, sixty-four Sisters of St. Francis, twenty-three lay teachers and 158 servants. Archbishop Ryan made a visit to the institution not long ago, and declared afterwards that it was simply wonderful to see those children as they were now and remember them as they were when found. "Surely, God is good," said he.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

No gentleman is ever profane. Profanity is the mark of the fool, and a big one at that, too. An oath, a vulgar remark, is always senseless, it has no redeeming quality.

A drunken man never yet was formidable nor ever will be. The determined will of a sober, respectable man is a moral law which the wise submit to, and fools only resist.

Intallible. Thus it is that the superstition of private judgment has succeeded in discrediting the Bible among the mass of men outside the church, and reduced it, in the minds of the multitude to the level of common place good books.—Kansas Catholic.

The notion that the Italians in this country commit more crimes in proportion to their numbers than the people of any other race is not borne out by the statistics given in the latest annual reports of the police departments. These statistics are exceedingly favorable to the Italian race.—Pittsburgh Catholic.

The Catholics of Montreal extended a cordial welcome to the delegates of the Christian Endeavor Society at their convention in that city. Their action is in marked contrast to the bigoted Orangemen that infest the country, who never miss an opportunity to insult Catholic societies.—Pittsburgh Catholic.

A religious exchange laments the depravity of the youth of the present age. In another column it tells its readers the Pope's letter on education is a fog to its eyes. If the brother would get the fog out of his eyes and see that the education of the youth must partake of the essential, the moral, as well as the necessary, the secular, this depravity in youth might be, at least, lessened.

Premier Gladstone is evidently not a Freemason. In a recent address he states: "For his own part, though he had been accustomed to hear of Freemasons all his life, there was not a man who was in a state, he would not say of more sublime, but of more complete impartiality about them. He had never known their constitution or proceedings,

She joined him, and they descended towards the river, where several of the servants and a number of village boys were sliding and skating with some little skill, and a great deal of merriment. They reached the pretty bridge at the lower end of the park, and wrapped up in fur cloaks they sat down on the arch to watch the scene below. Mr. Warren pulled some of the grass from between the stones, knocked about the loose bricks hummed, whistled, seemed embarrassed in short—a strange feeling to him; he had not been embarrassed when he went up for his degrees at Oxford, nor when he made his maiden speech in the House of Commons, which he soon gave up, as too fatiguing; nor on that eventful occasion when he proposed to Mrs. Warren, which he did in so abrupt and off-hand a manner, that she had first answered, "No, thank you," not comprehending it was the offer of his hand she rejected. But he was in his way, at least, embarrassed now; and said, without looking at his companion—

"You know that Edmond has been speaking to me of your affairs?" It is a difficult business, signora."

"Can you help us?" she asked in a low voice.

"Only by telling you the exact truth," "Speak," she said again, and clasped her hands with a nervous contraction.

"That my brother-in-law will ever consent to your marriage is as great an impossibility as that this tree should walk across the river and take up its position on the opposite hill. Upon my word, I should as soon expect the one event to occur as the other. He is the most conscientious, the most prejudiced, and the most obstinate of men. He has sworn never to admit a Catholic into his house. He has made various sacrifices to the fulfilment of that oath. He has neglected claims which might have been established to considerable property, on a determination not to have any dealings with Catholics; so you may imagine what chance there is of his consenting to the marriage of his only son with a person of that religion. No, I will not deceive you on that point. If Edmond should persist in marrying a Catholic, he will be disinherited, without the shadow of a doubt; and I must also add, in fairness to him, he cannot, for your sake, as well as his own, run such a risk, or rather incur that certain penalty. Brought up as he has been in the most extravagant manner, fonder of luxury than any human being ever was, accustomed to gratify every whim as it arises, head over ears in debt already, and disinclined or unfit for every profession—by urging him to such a step, you would be plunging him and yourself into hopeless beggary; you would destroy every prospect of happiness, nay, of respectability for him, and act as his worst and most cruel enemy. As you care for him, as you value his peace of mind, his reputation, his honor, signora, you must give him up."

"And if I cannot give him up?" she repeated slowly, with her eyes fixed on the ground.

"Why, in that case, I am sorry to say so, but he really must give you up."

"Did he say so? Did he say that?" asked Genevra, grasping Mr. Warren's arm.

"No; but I say so, and you must feel it added coldly. She released her hold and hid her face in her hands.

"I am vexed, my dear Miss Leslie, that you take it so much to heart, but indeed it is inevitable."

She raised her eyes one moment, and her lips murmured, "God give me patience." Mr. Warren looked at her, and seemed struck with the expression of agony in her face. He pitied her, and said in a low voice—

"There would be one alternative, one resource."

"What?"

"A change of religion," he said, without looking at her, and affecting to gaze through his spyglass at the skaters below.

For an instant her eyes flashed fire, but a holier expression soon succeeded that of indignation, and she gently but resolutely uttered the word "never."

"You will get accustomed to the idea," "Heaven forbid!" She replied.

"Why, if you could be convinced, what a good thing it would be. Cannot you stretch a point in such a case, and persuade yourself to believe—"

"Mr. Warren," she answered, with a calm manner, but with a nervous voice, "if I could do violence to my own soul, discard my faith at will, and call that error which the evidence of my reason, and every instinct of my being, affirms to be eternal truth, I might go a step further in my daring apostasy and at last deem heaven itself a dream, and hell a fiction; and then it is not at the change you propose that I would stop. There," she said, and pointed to a spot where the ice was broken, and the rapid river was seen flowing underneath, "there lies my temptation; a refuge from the misery of this hour, and a less dreadful self-destruction than that which you propose."

Almost unconsciously, Mr. Warren laid hold of her as she leaned over the bridge; but she turned to him, and a faint smile passed over her face.

"Oh! no! my guardian angel has not yet forsaken me. I believe," she said, and raised her eyes to heaven, "I believe and I can afford to suffer."

"You think hardly of Protestants, signora, if even a grave in that dark river would seem to you a better alternative than to adopt their faith."

"Say than to renounce my own," she eagerly rejoined; "the sacred truths we hold in common are part of the creed which I would rather die than forsake!"

"Then what is it you feel about us?" "Inasmuch as you are Christians, the deepest sympathy; inasmuch as you are Protestants, an earnest hope that to the secret spirit God vouchsafes his inward revelations of light and of peace. Who can judge by what rays he illuminates the mind, or by what mysterious teaching he raises a soul to heaven and himself? But to abandon the truth when our hearts have received it, to cast away the pearl of great price that once was ours, to have had faith, and to lose it, to have been in breathless awe and in speechless adoration, when God had been near us and within us, and then, with our lips, to protest against and in our acts set at naught the greatest and most awful of His gifts to man—this is a moral suicide which none but a Catholic can conceive, because none other can incur its misery and its guilt."

A GRAND picnic in aid of the building fund of the new church of the Immaculate Conception of this city is, we are asked to announce, to be held at the Exhibition Grounds on Thursday the 17th day of August. We are not able to give further particulars but we are told that a most energetic committee composed of the lady and gentlemen members of the congregation is already at work preparing for the event which it is their intention to make one of the most successful picnics ever held in connection with the parish. All our city readers know what success the devoted parishioners have had with their annual picnics in years gone by, and know too that that success has been well deserved, inasmuch as they have on every occasion, provided a day of first-class enjoyment for all their patrons. When, therefore, they set out with the intention of eclipsing all former efforts as they do this year, there can be no doubt the event will be looked forward to by all their friends with joyful anticipation and that all will mark the day on their calendars as one to be set apart for a day's thorough pleasure.

MANY of our readers will remember items which appeared in our columns about this time last year descriptive of the doings of a most important delegation from Prince Edward's Island which came here for the purpose of looking over the country and reporting to their friends in the east as to its adaptability for settlement. We are glad to hear that Manitoba and the Northwest are likely in the near future to experience the result of that visit in the influx of a large number of very desirable farmers from the Island. The Rev. Father A. E. Bourke, who was a prominent member of the delegation, has been in town this week and is now in the west for the purpose of choosing locations in which to settle several colonies of his people. It is the intention to, if possible, secure whole townships of both railway and Government lands and put settlers on every section. Father Bourke has gone very thoroughly into the matter and as he has the support of both the government and the railway company it will not be long before we are able to announce most satisfactory results.
