The ANATOMY of MAN's BODY.

♈ Aries.

♊ Pisces.

ASTRA REGUNT HOMINES, SED REGIT ASTRA DEUS.

DIRECTIONS TO FARMERS and GARDENERS.

THE last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, parsley, onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard.

The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans, (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th), spinage, and orrice; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers.

The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June will do for potatoes.

The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.

The 20th of June, sow buckwheat; this is also a good time to sow in herds-grass, clover, or any sort of grass seed, which is thought to succeed better if sowed in now with buckwheat, than in the spring with oats. Herds-grass that is sowed the latter part of June, or through the whole of July, instead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier sown, spends the summer in spreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only bears the severity of the winter, but sends up from each seed many more stalks the ensuing summer. The farmer should be particularly careful to sow his clover, if possible, before the end of July; for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well late in fall are wholly killed, so that a single plant cannot be found the next summer.——The first week in July sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late the 25th.——The 20th is a good time to sow turnip radish, and for a late crop, some salmon ditto, as late as August 10th.——About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat and rye, as by being sowed early it will be better rooted to stand the severity of the winter, and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer.

WINTER.

WRAPT in thy sable mantle, haste, O Winter! to exchange the waste, The dreary heath, the barren bill, For Itchin's stream, for Avon's rill.	See how the cattle droop their head, And thro' the fields untended spread, And, whilst they crop the whole some root, Chill'd Nature's only sprouting fruit,

II. FEBRUARY hath XXVIII Days. 1794.

Comes the big tempest through the air,
And, wrapt in glooms, portends
despair;
The cottage-hind hangs o'er the fire,
Nor reck's the storms impetuous
ire,
That rattles on his humble home
And fills the plain with wat'ry foam.
The stranger now in journey lost,
By storms or raging tempests tost,
Eyes the faint light along the plain
And hastes with eager step to gain

The cottage thatch'd, to seek retreat,
And from the whirlwind reff his feet,
Lo! through the air the shower
descends,
And o'er the cottage threatening
bends;
Low bow the woods their hoary
head,
The earthen wild, dazzling bed.
The faithful ox now drooping
stands, Opprest with snow, and oft demands

III. MARCH hath XXXI Days. 1794.

The humble fruit of all his toil, For which he turn'd the fruitful soil. Now, farmers, to your flocks be kind,	Lodge them beneath the stormy wind, And give them food at will; the year, Destructive else, demands your care.

INVOCATION TO SPRING.

RETURN, ye verdant scenes, to
sooth the eye,

Wear of winter-snows and
ruffet fields:

Return, ye fragrant flowers of
mazy a dye,

And that mild air, which fost retreiment yields!

Return, ye feather'd choristers,
to charm

With cheerful melody the longing ear,

Late fill'd by howling tempests
with alarm

For sea-beat mariners, and shipwrecks near.

STERN Winter now, by Spring repress'd, Forbears the long continued strife;	Now o'er the rural kingdom roves Soft pleasure with her laugh- ing train,
And Nature, on her naked breast, Delights to catch the gales of life.	Love warbles in the vocal groves, And vegetation plants the plain.

THE MIDSUMMER'S WISH.

AN ODE.

O Phoebus! down the western sky, Far hence diffuse thy burning ray, Thy light to distant world's sup- ply, And wake them to the cares of day.	Come gentle Eve, the friend of care, Come Cynthia, lovely queen of night! Refresh me with a cooling breeze, And cheer me with a lambent light.

Lay me, where o'er the verdant ground Her living carpet nature spreads; Where the green bower with roses crown'd, In showers its fragrant foli- age sheds.	Improve the peaceful hour with wine, Let music die along the grove; Around the bowl let myrtles twine, And every strain be tun'd to love.

VIII. AUGUST hath XXXI Days. 1794.

Come, Stella, queen of all my heart! Come, born to fill its vast desires! Thy looks perpetual joys impart, Thy voice perpetual love inspires. Whilst all my wish and thine complete, By turns we languish and we burn,	Let sighing gales our sighs repeat, Our murmurs — murmuring brooks return. Let me when nature calls to rest, And blushing skies the morn foretell, Sink on the down of Stella's braid, And bid the waking world farewell.

AUTUMN. AN ODE.

ALAS! with swift and silent pace, Impatient time rolls on the year;	'Twas Spring, 'twas Summer, all was gay, Now Autumn bends a cloudy brow;
The season's change, and na- ture's face	The flowers of Spring are swept away,
Now sweetly smiles, now frowns severe.	And Summer fruits desert the bough.

XI. NOVEMBER hath XXX Days. 1794.

What bliss to life can Autumn yield,
 If glooms, and showers, and storms prevail;
 And Ceres sies the naked field,
 And flowers, and fruits, and Phœbus fail?
 Oh! what remains, what lingers yet,
 To cheer me in the darkening hour?

The grape remains! the friend of wit,
 In love, and mirth, of mighty power.
 Hasten—press the clusters, fill the bowl;
 Apollo! shoot thy parting rays:
 This gives the sunshine of the soul,
 This god of health, and verse, and day.

WINTER.

'TIS done—dread Winter spreads its lateſt glooms, And returns tremendous o'er the conquer'd year: How dead the vegetable king- dom lies! How dumb the tuneful! Horror wide extends His deſolate domain. Ethold, fond man—	See here thy pictur'd life— paſs ſome few years— Thy flow'ry Spring—thy Summer's ardent ſtrength— Thy ſober Autumn fading into age— And pale, concluding Winter, comes at laſt, And ſhuts the ſcene.

To any part of the United States of America, packet postage to New-York	0 0 4
To the East Indies	0 1 0

NOTE.—All double, treble and other letters and packets whatever (except by the penny post) pay in proportion to the respective rates of single letters before specified.—Packets chargeable by weight pay after the rate of four single letters to the oz. weight.

The postage of letters from any of the British Colonies in North America, to any part of his Majesty's dominions in Europe (except to Gibraltar and Port Mahon) may, or may not be paid at the time of putting them into the post office, at the option of the writer, except the American inland postage to Halifax, which must be paid where the letters are put in, otherwise they must be opened and returned to the writer for that postage.

All merchant's accounts, not exceeding one sheet of paper, and all bills of exchange, invoices and bills of lading, to or from any parts or places, not within his Majesty's dominions; and the covers of letters to or from Turkey, and not exceeding one quarter of a sheet of paper, are allowed to pass without the payment of the foreign postage, but are to pay the full inland port to and from London.

Letters to all parts of Europe, are dispatched from London every Tuesday and Friday, except those to Portugal, which are forwarded by the Lisbon mails on Tuesdays only.

Letters to all parts of America, are dispatched from London the first Wednesday in every month.

Letters for the East-Indies dispatched from London as occasion offers.

ANÉCDOTE.

IN the town of Galway, in Ireland, there is a very ancient stone house, over the door of which is coarsely carved a Death's head and Cross Bones. The circumstance which caused this emblem is curious.

About the time of Henry VII. or perhaps earlier, the town was in itself a palatinate, and all the law proceedings ran in the name of the mayor, who had also the power of pardoning or condemning criminals.—John de Burgh, then Mayor, was a very opulent merchant, and traded largely, especially with Cadiz in Spain.—On some occasion he sent over his only son with a cargo to Don Alonzo Herrera, his correspondent there, who received young De Burgh with the greatest hospitality; and on his departure he sent with him on a visit his own son, together with a very large sum in specie, to purchase merchandize.—The young De Burgh, tempted by this wealth, with the assistance of two or three of the crew, (the vessel being his father's) threw the young Spaniard over-board, and on his return appeared greatly distressed by the loss of his friend, who he pretended had died at sea of a fever.—For some time this succeeded, but at length on a quarrel between two of the sailors concerned in the murder, the whole business transpired: the mer were seized, and instantly accused young De Burgh.—The wretched father was obliged to mount the tribunal, to sit in judgment on his only son, and with his own lips to pronounce that sentence which left him childless, and at once blasted, for ever, the honour of an ancient and noble family.—His fellow-citizens, who revered his virtues and pitied his misfortunes, saw with astonishment the fortitude with which he yielded to this cruel necessity, and heard him doom his son to a public and ignominious death on the following morning.—Their compassion for the father, their affection for the man, every nobler feeling was roused, and they privately determined to rescue the young man from the prison that night, under the conviction that De Burgh, having already paid the tribute due to justice and his honour, would secretly rejoice at the preservation of the life of his son.—But they little knew the heart of this noble magistrate.—By some accident their determination reached his ear; he instantly removed his son from the prison to his own house, and after partaking with him the office of the holy communion, and giving and receiving a mutual forgiveness, he caused him to be hung at his own door; a dreadful monument of the vengeance of Heaven, and an immortal proof of a justice that leaves every thing of the kind in story at an immeasurable distance.

The father immediately resigned his office, and after his death, which speedily followed that of his son, the citizens fixed over the door of the house a skull and bones, which remain there to this day.

AMERICA.

The following is a Statement of LAND, belonging to the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

THE whole territory of the United States contains by computation a million of square miles, in which are 640 millions of acres; deduct for water 51 millions of acres. The total amount of acres of land in the United States is 589 millions.

That part of the United States comprehended between the West temporary line of Pennsylvania on the East; the boundary line between Britain and the United States extending from the river St. Croix, to the North west extremity of the Lake of the woods on the North; the river Mississippi to the mouth of the Ohio on the West, and the river Ohio on the South—the afore mentioned bounds of Pennsylvania, contains by computation about 411,000 square miles, in which are 26,340,000 acres. Deduct for waters 4,340,000 acres. There remains 220 millions of acres.

The whole of this immense extent of unappropriated western territory or vacant unfettled land, containing as above stated, 220 millions of acres, has been by the cession of some of the origina

States, and by the Treaty of Peace, transferred to the Federal Government, and is pledged as a fund for sinking the Continental debt. It is in contemplation to divide it into new States, with Republican constitutions, similar to the old States near the Atlantic Ocean.

A CURE for ENVY.

ALL great men who raise themselves above the common rank of mankind, by meritorious actions, are sure to meet with envy and obloquy from their ungrateful countrymen. There is but one thing that can reconcile these snarlers to the object of their hatred. Let the envied man be but unfortunate, and they will pity him.

Pericles, for a great number of years, administered the affairs of Athens with ability and integrity. This alone was sufficient to raise against him a host of foes: he was the constant aim of public hatred—till he had lost a beloved son: this accident affected him so much, that he was quite inconsolable. The people, now seeing him upon a level with themselves, afflicted with like passions, and liable to the same misfortunes, turned all their hatred and envy to pity—which too often is but a respectful kind of contempt.
