A Line Which the C. P. R. is Said to Be Contemplating.
FROM BUFFALO TO THE FALLS
Prospectors of the Work Which the Company is Said to Have in View—A Short Route, Communicating a Good View of the Falls of Niagara.

BUFFALO, Nov. 12.—For several years there has been more or less talk about building a line from Buffalo to the Falls, but it has never developed into anything of a definite nature. It, however, has been recently brought forward by the Canadian Pacific, and it is said that the company has recently completed its plans to build a line of its own into this city, but nothing is known as to when it will be done.

Ever since the electric road from Chippewa to Queenstown was built and all done up the Canadian Pacific being vitally interested in the enterprise, it has been considered by the company as the great aim of the company was to secure such a footing as the Falls as a winter and summer resort, and the different departments on ground floor, leisurely.

If you don't want to buy, you are always welcome to look us over. Come anytime and bring your visitors.

The prisoners were W. Cooper, J. McDermott and J. Dinmore. They stood up and were then charged with stealing a mail bag on October 20 containing $10,000.

After the examination of McKie, the grand juror asked the prisoners what they had to say for themselves. The most important feature about catarrh in the head, is its tendency to develop into bronchitis or consumption, that destroys when it comes more death in this country than any other disease. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for it is purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarraparilla.

Two Men Killed by the Falling of a Roof—Others in the Wreck.
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—A terrible catastrophe took place yesterday afternoon while a large force of workmen were engaged in building a new stone building which is being erected by the Montreal Street Railway Company at the corner of Craig street and Place d'Armes Hill. The roof of the building was being raised by a crane, and the men were working on the top story when the roof fell, and they were hurled down amidst a shower of debris and broken plaster and stone. Some of the men were killed, and others were injured.

The fire broke out in the ruins, and the men and police were called to the scene, and an immense crowd of people gathered around the building. The fire burned for some time, and the men were working to extinguish it.

The fire was caused by a gas lamp which had been lit by one of the men. The fire spread rapidly, and the men were unable to control it.

The fire destroyed the building, and the men were killed. The fire was a terrible disaster, and the men were very much shocked.

This week the active work of securing cuts and letter-press matter, etc., for the second annual Christmas number of the Reporter will be commenced. Nearly all the villages in Leeds Co. will be visited and an effort made to secure a large number of photos and other interesting matter in each locality.

Special arrangements are being made with a Toronto firm to furnish a superior quality of photograph cuts at a very low rate, we are prepared to offer space either for portraits, buildings or other illustrations at prices away down below anything ever before offered. A Horse Case at Delta.

At the division court held in Delta yesterday an action was brought by David Halliday against Reuben Beech, of Phillipsville, to recover damages for the loss of a horse. It appears that Beech's horse broke into a field in which Halliday's horses were pasturing and in some manner injured one of the latter so badly that it had to be destroyed. Judgment for plaintiff for $25 and costs.—Standard.

Demands a Retraction.

The editor of the North Augusta Hustler published the paragraph going the rounds of the press relating to the libel suit entered by Rev. Mr. Lawson against Mr. James Findlay of Penbrooke and referred to in the issue of the 11th inst.

Mr. Lawson very properly demanded that the correspondence referred to arose from the fact that Rev. Mr. Lawson, being the Conference official reporter, found it necessary to report the reading in Congress of a letter he had written to Mr. Horner in reply to one from him, and which Mr. Horner had published in full, and had thereby misled many, of course, supposed it to be the complete correspondence between them.

The publisher of the paper in question published both letters in full without comment or to prevent any further misunderstanding in the matter. Mr. Findlay then began a violent attack on Mr. Lawson, accusing him of "bearing false witness" and "slandering the good name of the church." Mr. Lawson very properly demanded a retraction of his false accusation.

Death of Mrs. S. B. Williams.

On Saturday morning the sad news spread quickly through the village that during the night of the 4th a death had occurred in the home of Mrs. S. B. Williams. The tidings came with the force of a blow to the citizens who found it hard to realize that she whom the day before they had seen apparently in the full enjoyment of health had been thus suddenly stricken down.

During Friday she seemed as well as usual, but about five o'clock she was taken ill and her friends were summoned. She was subject to gastric ailments, generally of a short duration, and when she appeared to be in a fair way for recovery from the attacks some of her friends thought the worst was over and returned to their homes.

But shortly after ten o'clock they were again hastily summoned, and this time it was to witness the departure of the spirit of the one whom they so dearly loved.

The deep grief that pervaded the house of mourning was felt in every room in the village. Mrs. Williams was of a bright, cheerful temperament, and few it was among her neighbors who could not recall some cheering word, some act of kindness emanating from her sweet life. All felt that they had lost a friend and their hearts went out in the tenderest of human sympathy to the bereaved husband and family and other relatives.

At the funeral, held at the late Harmonious Algire. Mr. Isaac C. Algire was her brother and she had three sisters residing in Athens, viz: Mrs. J. P. Lamb, Mrs. Frank Wilton and Mrs. Lydia Halliday. She was twice married. Her first husband was Denning by whom she had two children, viz: Mrs. Stephen Nilcock and Miss Eliza Denning; N. C. Williams was the only child by the last union.

The funeral was arranged to leave for St. Paul's Presbyterian church at 2 p.m., and for hours preceding that time a constant procession of sympathizing friends called to have a last look at the remains of their departed friend. At the service in the church, every available seat was occupied and many were unable to gain admittance. The casket bearing wreaths of flowers was borne by Messrs. Arnold, Parish, Bulls, Bechtel, Donovan and Ross, all Masonic brothers of Mr. Williams, and other members of the order marched in the procession. The service was conducted by the pastor of deceased, Rev. J. J. Cameron, assisted by Rev. J. M. Hagar. After a brief invocation by the pastor the 23rd Psalm was read with deep feeling.

The scripture lesson was I. Thos. 5. Mr. Cameron told for his text II. Timothy, I. 10. "But it is now made manifest to us by the advent of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." The references to the bright and happy life beyond the grave, and the sermon and prayers were full of encouragement to those yet in darkness. At the conclusion of the solemn service the remains were conveyed to the Methodist cemetery, and in their deep sorrow the relatives of deceased have the heartiest sympathy of the community and of a wide circle of sorrowing friends.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

A FORCE OF NATURE NOT YET UNDERSTOOD BY SCIENCE.

Whence Come Those Deadly Bolts?

Weather Bureau Investigating—Some Extraordinary Facts Disclosed by This New Bolt.

So mysterious and little understood is electricity, even now that it is so widely utilized for mechanical purposes, that the sciences in nature excite the most intense interest. The question recently discussed by Italian scientists, as to whether a bird can be struck by lightning, by the destruction of a whole flock of wild geese on April 30, last. Twenty-two of them, flying north over Casoria, Mich., were slain by a bolt from a sky. Such an extraordinary event would have been regarded as an omen portending a century or two ago. The action of lightning as an explosive agent has elicited special attention from the weather bureau of late.

Up to date no theory has been found to account for it satisfactorily. On April 9, 1894, a brick house at Keokuk, Ia., was struck and completely wrecked as if a bombshell had done the work. One day earlier a farmhouse near Klona, Kan., the property of D. B. Street, was struck by a bolt, the roof was blown down, doors and windows looking as if they had been shot full of holes. At Barberton, O., on August 1, 1893, a residence of William Martin was literally torn to fragments by a similar agency. Inasmuch as two hundred people are killed every year by lightning, it is not surprising that the scientific person is earnestly called for. One ingenious scientist mentioned by the Philadelphia Times has devised an umbrella with many perforations, which he uses to catch the rays. These are long enough to reach the ground. A thunder-storm coming up, they are loosened and permitted to discharge, while the rest of the person walks along in perfect security. Under such circumstances metal about one's body is dangerous—for example, the wires in a lady's locket. They would be torn apart by fastening such similar chains or copper threads to the frame-work of the headgear. Though it should destroy a bonnet, it would not injure the wearer. The same bolt should destroy a bonnet, it would not injure the wearer. The same bolt should destroy a bonnet, it would not injure the wearer.

The Athens P. O. is now in its new home, and a very pleasant and convenient place for the receipt of mail. The building is a fine specimen of modern architecture, and is situated in a pleasant location. The new office is a large and airy building, and is situated in a pleasant location.

Mr. Wm. Nicholson, of Merriottville, has a mare sixteen years old that has always been black in color. About six weeks ago whitish spots came out all over her body and she is now spotted as a leopard. She is not being driven, but owing to the fact that the mare is not from overbreeding which sometimes is the case.

The Reporter hunting party returned from Long lake, Ha Ting Co., on Thursday evening, bringing with them ten fine deer. Game in that region was found very plentiful, and owing to the extremely warm weather the party did not care to knock down any large game until the weather was sufficiently cool to keep the carcasses. The woods were literally alive with partridge, of which the party bagged a large number. Sixteen fine Koda views were obtained of scenes in connection with the trip, several of which will appear in the annual Christmas number of the Reporter, along with a full and graphic account of the many and varied incidents of the P. O.

NEWS TOPICS OF A WEEK.

The important events in a few words.

Mr. John R. Reid, of Ottawa, well-known to many of our readers as an enthusiastic member of the I. O. O. F., was in Athens last week.

Elswood Smart of Brockville has invented a cow-milking machine for which patents have been granted in Canada and the United States.

We have bought, at a special slaughter sale a very large stock of men's and boys' overcoats, which we now offer at regular wholesale prices.

Monday's Recorder chronicles the death of three prominent residents of Brockville, viz. Mr. Thomas Shurwood, Amyot Y. Kendall, late clerk in the dry goods store of Messrs. Hutchison & Co., and Edward A. Hutchison, M. D.

The snow and the weather on Saturday and Sunday looked so much like winter that a few were tempted to try a cutter ride. But appearances were deceptive, as they soon discovered. Sleighing has yet not arrived.

The many friends of U. J. Flach, B. A., late head teacher in the Athens high school, will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from the serious illness that threatened his life early last spring, and that he will resume teaching after the first of Jan. next.

This (Tuesday's) mail brought to this office two interesting letters from Dr. W. W. Lake, an excellent physician. These letters deal with the war, as well as the missionary outlook, and will no doubt be read with interest by our readers. They will appear next week.

If you have a sign over your door, you are an advertiser. The sign is intended to advertise your business to passers-by. An advertisement is a sign posted for the purpose of advertising your business.

Farmers will be interested in the announcement that Mr. C. A. Kincaid has decided to sell his farm (lots 1 and 2, con. 3, Baatar) and farm stock by private sale.

The Gravenhurst Banner says—“Eight hunters and dogs are in the woods to completely exterminate the deer in one season. No such catastrophe is feared, however, for a majority of the sportsmen couldn't shoot a deer unless it were tied to a tree, while enough were gathered in the neighborhood of the camp stores to render the nerves of some too uneasy for drawing a bead on the game.”

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Bolton left Athens yesterday morning for their mission station at Port Simpson, B. C. On Friday evening the mission auxiliary of the Methodist church gave them a farewell tea at the home of Mrs. A. E. Donovan, at which a very pleasant time was spent.

A certain young man living not a hundred miles from Cornwall advertised for a wife in an American paper and his sister answered the advertisement. The young fellow now thinks advertising doesn't pay, and the old folks think it is pretty hard luck to have two fools in one family.

Quite frequently advertisements appear offering a reward for the return of articles lost or stolen and promising that “two questions will be asked.” Sir John Thompson's criminal law says that both advertisers and publishers who assist in making such announcements shall be subject to a penalty of $250.

Fifty head of cattle to be fed this winter by Mr. Stagg, were delivered the other day by Mr. Richard Kendrick, of New Dublin, who is an expert. Mr. Kendrick is getting all he can do in this business. Mr. Laundry of Schofield's Hill has twenty cattle for dehorning and Mr. B. Horton, of New Dublin, a similar number.

A good story is told by a gentleman living in a neighboring town. His young son had been naughty and to escape a rather touching reproof from his mother crawled under the bed where she left him till evening. The father on his return home was told of the case and had started to crawl under the bed to bring forth the culprit when he was arrested by the young fellow, who was smiling and holding up a piece of paper on which he had scribbled, “Hello, pa, is she after you yet?”

Clement Walls, of Lucee, Me., has had his mind rendered idiotic by a kick from an angry colt. The surgeons who operated, found that a bit of broken bone pressed on his brain, which, being raised gave back to the organ his wonted vigor. Walls' brain force seems to have been in complete suspension during his idiosyncrasy, the first thought that coursed through his repaired thinking machine was “Did the colt get away?” He is now in process of getting acquainted with himself.

Jack Spence, living near Charlton, caught six young coons in a low log last evening. He brought them home and caged them in an outbuilding, where they received the same liberal care and feeding that Jack gives to all his dumb animals on the farm, interspersing the coon's diet with plenty of green corn and occasional frog. One night last week the ungrateful creatures knuckled a hole through the door of their prison and scampered to parts unknown. Jack's coon dog captured a couple of coons a night or two after, but whether they are some of the lot that escaped or not Jack is not prepared to say.
