THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance:—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $65,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which its value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick.

The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices on Water Street. Apply to

Love & Conqueror

OR WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXIX.

These were the words of Ada's song; and often in the days and weeks which followed—days and weeks of terrible gloom and darkness and unutterable misery—Shirley recalled them with bitter tears:

"We made a home, my love and I, Above the vales where cities lie, In the soft corner of a hill, With heaven above us pure and still; We thought no storm could reach us there, But breezes from the upper air, We put our flowers and creepers out To bask in sunbeams round about; The world beneath, pure heaven above, We dwelt secure in peace and love. We lived in dreams, my love and I, And took Time for Eternity."

"So dreamed we all one summer through, Till suddenly the wild winds blew, I fled it with our sheltered nook; Our scanting roof and frail house shook. Our creeping flow'rs that hid the wall, Our roses and our lilies tall, Were broken by the ruthless blast; And far upon the mountain east, The tree, our fondly cherished shade, Fell, and vast ruin round it made. Ah, vain were all my thought said I, That took Time for Eternity!"

"We had not even one summer's dreaming," Shirley was thinking to herself as she listened, leaning against the bowlder of rock with a far-away look in her hazel eyes—eyes which were all the more lovely from the shadows under them and the yearning pain which had darkened them and deepened them—"not even one summer, only a few short wintry days, my love and I."

Ada Grey's rich voice continued: "Through the long night the wild storm raged, And when, toward morning it assuaged, The sun shone o'er the hills. And sweet the breezes blew my heart to greet; But ruin lay around me where My home had been so dear and fair— My dwelling shattered on the ground, My joys all broken, lay around. The breezes I had trusted in, Like treacherous friends, had broken in. And robbed me of so much that I Had deemed was mine eternally."

"There is another verse," Lucie said, as her sister paused.

"But Lady Glynn will be tired," returned Ada; then, obeying her sister's glance, she went on in a louder and more triumphant tone, with the last verse of the song; and, as she sang it, the tall, gray-clad figure began its descent again, coming nearer and nearer each moment.

"Arouse thee," said my loved one's voice;

did not expect her to live

Mr. ROBERT BORLEY, 125, Easley Road, Clapham Junction, S.W., writes: "I have enclosed photo of my daughter. When born, this child was very small and was wasting away; she was constantly crying, and we did not expect her to live long. Having heard of your food, we decided to give it a trial, and saw a great improvement in one week, so we continued to use it, and now you could not wish to see a finer child anywhere; she is very strong, and at present busy cutting her teeth, but we have no trouble with her and she does not even cry; in fact, we have not had one bad night since using Virol, and I would not be without it for the world; every body remarks what a fine child she is, and my wife tells them that it is only by feeding her on Virol that she is so well. I should like you to see her, which at any time you are welcome to do; she stands on her feet, has her teeth in, and is not a child that has four months for her age, and I can assure you that I would sooner be without my tobacco than she should be Virol."

This Home-made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes 16 ounces—enough for a whole family. You could buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (100 cents worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in salicycol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why its plan has been limited often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pine Co., Toronto, Ont.

"The house is gone, yet I rejoice. The storms are kind which round us blow; Without them we should never know That love which fades not with the flowers. Nor shakes when loudest tempest lowers. Surviving home and rooted tree, That seemed secure as the hills to be, What matter if all else be gone? Since love survives, that is alone A gleam of immortality. And makes of Time eternity."

The sweet notes quivered and died away on the soft air; the gray figure was among the bowlders now, looking up. Lucie Grey saw him coming a tall, grave-looking man, with a pointed Vandyke beard and dark gray eyes. Ada was looking at Lad; Glynn's face, and she saw it change suddenly and brighten with a radiance which did not come from the sun setting over the sea. Guy Stuart, coming toward them, with his back to the sunshine and his face in the shadow, saw that radiance also, and, while it thrilled him with a keen sense of joy, it made his heart ache with unspeakable pain, and rendered it very difficult for him to greet Shirley with the quiet courtesy he strove to show when, stepping over the bowlders, he came up to the group and stood beside Lady Glynn as she sat, with the soft fleecy scarf and shawl making a vivid spot of color amid the grays and greens, as the deep rich hue of the cliffs, looking up at him with smiling eyes.

CHAPTER XXX.

"Those are very nice girls," said Major Stuart, when he and Shirley parted from the vicar's daughters at the foot of the long irregular climbing street, which was the principal Easton thoroughfare, and, while the three girls turned off to the left on their way to the gray stone ivy-covered gabled Vicarage, Lady Glynn and her companion walked slowly up the climbing street to the "Pack of Cards"—a capital, old-fashioned, thoroughly comfortable inn, where Lord and Lady Eastwell, Sir Hugh and Lady Glynn, party and suite had taken up their quarters.

"They are very nice," Shirley answered cordially. "I hope to see a great deal of them while I am here."

She was looking flushed and bright and smiling—very differently from the pale weary woman who had made her way so languidly over the shingles an hour or two before. The scarlet shawl was still thrown over her scarfwise, making a vivid contrast with her soft gray dress; the soft chestnut hair curling over her forehead was stirred and lifted by the evening breeze, which was freshening a little now. She looked almost like the Shirley Ross of those few short winter days when she and her love had "lived in dreams," and taken "Time for Eternity."

"I think Easton sea-breezes have done you good," he said, looking down at her with a smile. "You are looking much better for it."

"I am quite strong again," Shirley answered. "Easton is a very bracing place, I fancy. We are all the better for it."

"Who is here with you?" Guy asked.

"The Eastwells and Mrs. Beaudesert, with Captain Layton and Lord Rupert Eiland in attendance," she said, smiling. "We have taken up the whole of the accommodation at the 'Pack of Cards,' and have made a great sensation at Easton altogether."

"I suppose so," he replied a little absently.

"Yes; Alice has her carriage here, and the fisher-folk stare at her footmen as if they were beings from another sphere," Shirley said gayly. "Our suite consists of a man and maid and a groom to look after the pony and carriage; so we are much humbler individuals in the eyes of the natives. You should see the excitement Alice and Mrs. Beaudesert create when they go into church; it is quite ludicrous."

"How?" asked Major Stuart. "What causes the sensation?"

"Their dresses and bonnets," Shirley replied, with a bright little laugh. "They dress just as if they were going to the most fashionable London church. I am sure they have a great many sins to answer for though distracting the attention of Mr. Grey's congregation."

"I wonder why this inn was called the 'Pack of Cards?'" Guy said musingly, as they came in sight of the hostelry in question.

"From its curious architecture," Shirley answered. "Just look at it for a moment, and see if it has not a kind of resemblance to those houses which children build with cards."

"I hope so," Shirley returned dubiously.

"Have you had any reason to doubt?" he asked her as they both stood still before the pointed stone porch which sheltered the door of the inn, a roomy, odd-looking structure which in the posting days had been rather a celebrated house of entertainment for man and beast.

"No, and I hope we shall not," was the reply. "I do not like storms, especially near the sea."

"Are you going to make a long stay here?"

"We came for a month or six weeks. And you?" she asked, suddenly lifting her eyes to his.

"Only a day or two at the longest," he answered quietly. "I am on a walking tour, and did not intend to remain here at all until I saw your room, who told me you were here."

"Then you did not come to see me?" she said, with a little disappointment. "I have been laying the flattering unction to my soul that you had."

"I did not know that you were here," he replied with a smile. "But I am very glad to see you looking so much stronger. Your husband is well?"

Shirley's beautiful red lips were pressed a little closer together.

"Sir Hugh is very well," she answered quietly; and their eyes met for a moment. Lady Glynn's color deepened, and her long lashes drooped. "I am trying to do as you wish," he said a little unsteadily, after a moment's pause, looking away from him down the straggling, irregular street; "but it is very hard."

"Not because I wish it," he rejoined very gently, "but because it is tight, I trust."

"Here they come," she said suddenly, as a carriage appeared over the brow of the hill. "Lord Rupert and Sir Hugh are riding. Look how he inhabits of the High Street and wish to see the royal procession."

Major Stuart smiled as he saw the eager faces appearing in doorways and at open windows as Lady Eastwell's landau drove slowly down to the inn, Sir Hugh riding behind the carriage with a good-looking young man whom Guy recognized as Captain Layton, while in the landau were Alice and her husband, Mrs. Beaudesert, a brilliant little coquetish widow, and one of her many admirers, Lord Rupert Eiland.

"If Ruby and Oswald could have come with us," Shirley said, with a little sigh, "it would have been so pleasant; but they have gone to Fairholme, and—Alice would come."

"Major Stuart," said Lady Eastwell, smiling as he went forward to the carriage door, while one of the powdered giants slowly descended from his perch amid the intense excitement and admiration of three or four sunburnt urchins who clustered half shy, half impudently on the pavement, "what good wind has blown you here?"

"Major Stuart! How charming!" put in Mrs. Beaudesert, with one of her most gracious smiles. "You are not a bird of passage, I hope?"

"I am, indeed," he answered, smiling. "I had no intention of staying here at all, except for luncheon, when I met Sir Hugh's groom, who told me that his master was here, and that I should find Lady Glynn on the beach."

"And where are you going?" Captain Layton asked, while Sir Hugh and Major Stuart exchanged handshakes.

"I am 'doing' Devon on foot," answered Guy, laughing. "Do you feel inclined to go the rest of the way with me, Layton?"

"A walking tour!" laughed the young officer. "Oh, no—it does not sound tempting!"

"But you will not start immediately?" questioned Lady Eastwell, while Shirley stood outwardly calm and indifferent, but really waiting anxiously for his answer.

"Mine hostess of 'Ye Olde Hostelry,'" said Guy laughingly, "says that she cannot accommodate me, as her house is full."

"Yes, we have it all!" put in Mrs. Beaudesert, glancing up at him merrily. "You cannot think what fun it is living at an inn."

A Word for the Wealthy.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A few days ago I had the privilege of meeting a man who, while he inherited a large fortune and might dwell in luxury and never work at all, yet lives in comparative simplicity and works eight hours a day on scientific research.

As I talked to this remarkable man, these words from Agnes Repplier came into my mind: "Civilization in its final outcome is heavily in the debt of leisure; and the success of any society worth considering is to be estimated largely by the use to which its fortunate put their spare moments."

We hear a great deal about the various needs of society. To my mind, one of its greatest needs is more men and women like this man, more men and women of the leisure class who regard their wealth as an opportunity to make themselves useful in some non-feminine employment, and not as a license to live in luxury and ease—more "fortunate" who will put their spare moments to honorable and valuable use.

How wealthy people can be really happy when they know that they are absolutely useless, and when they know that the wealth which gives them ease and luxury means that at the other end of the scale there must be men and women who work all the days of their lives and yet cannot be sure of the bare necessities of existence, I cannot understand.

I should think every instance of want and suffering they read about in the newspapers, and every ragged, half-starved child they see on the street, would make their hearts ache with a sense of personal responsibility.

"Oh, that's all very fine," some one says, "but just give her a few hundred thousand dollars and see what she would do. I don't think she'd give it all away."

No, my friend, I don't think I should give it all away, but I'm not asking those who have money to give it all away. All I ask of them is that they shall use their leisure "granted them out of the sweat and toil of other men's lives" to some good purpose, and if such leisure were granted me I hope I should do that, although I will admit that wealth is a terrible temptation as well as an opportunity, and that one never knows what one would do until one has been tried.

Stevenson spoke about the money which supported him during his first long illness as "the loan which by the hands of his father mankind had advanced him for his sickness." When he was afraid that he was not going to get better he lived in a simple manner, and grudge himself all but necessities because he did not feel that he had a right to take from mankind any larger loan than necessary. "But so soon as he began to perceive the change for the better," he concludes this account of himself, "he felt justified in spending more freely to speed his return to health, and trusted in the future to lend a help to mankind as mankind out of its treasury had lent a help to him."

We need more of Stevenson's splendid spirit and high sense of obligation in the world, and I have courage to believe we are going to get it. The growing interest in social uplift and the desire of the younger generation of the wealthier class to do something besides merely being in society is a fine sign of the times. The "fortunate" seem to be waking up.

Cinema Notes and News.

TANGO TEAS.

The Tango craze has inspired film producers to bring out Tango films. Three are already showing at picture theatres. One is entitled "Motion-Picture Dancing Lessons," and illustrates, step by step, the movements of the Tango, Turkey Trot, and Hestiation Waltz. Theatre managers who exhibit these films move with the times and advertise "Tango Teas."

TOPICAL DRAMAS.

The topical news-film has been with us some years now, and the topical photo-play is coming along. Three have already been produced. Harry K. Thaw's adventures were duplicated before the camera a few days after his escape from the asylum; a stolen necklace film was prepared when the recent pearl affair was the matter of the moment; and now a vigorous drama, based on the Ritual Murder case in Russia, has been made.

STAGE CELEBRITIES IN FILMS.

Here is a partial list of the stage favourites who have acted for the camera: Sarah Bernhardt, Mrs. Langtry, Mary Moore, Irene Vanbrugh, Gladys Cooper, Phyllis Dafe, Ellaline Terriss, Sir J. Forbes-Robertson, Sir H. Beerbohm Tree, Sir Charles Wyndham, Cyril Maude, Charles Hawtrey, Arthur Bourchier, James Welch, Seymour Hicks and George Grossmith.

At least a dozen popular music-hall artists have also worked for pictures.

ARMY FILM.

A great film has been made showing Tommy Atkins at work and play, in camp and on manoeuvres. Twenty-five thousand of our regular soldiers took part in one of the mimic battles.

Back Was Lame For Two Years

Stomach Troubles and Weakness of Kidneys Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is an enormous amount of suffering from liver and kidney derangements and stomach troubles that could easily be avoided by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If you could only realize the scores of everyday ills that arise from a sluggish condition of the kidneys, liver, and bowels you would not be long in giving this medicine a trial.

Mrs. Edward Stewart, New Richmond West, Que., writes: "I want to tell you how thankful I am for using your Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for stomach troubles and backache caused by weak kidneys. I was unable to wash any clothes for over two years on account of my back being lame. I read the Almanac and began using these pills. Two boxes made a complete cure. I can do my own washing and other work now, and want to say to my lady friends that they do not know how much I appreciate Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills." It costs a box, all dealers, or Ed. ### FIGHT FILMS.

Every big glove contest is filmed nowadays, special arc-lights being erected round the ring so that good photographic results can be obtained. Two thousand pounds was paid for the right to film the recent Wells-Carpenter fight, and, in spite of its quick finish, the film people expect to make a profit on their transaction. At the time of the Johnson-Jeffries match it was asserted that £25,000 had been given for film rights, but, owing to prejudice and strict censorship, the owners are said to have got back from public exhibitions of the films very little of this outlay.

THE YANKEE AHEAD OF US.

During the nine months ending September, 1913, no less than $9,000,000 feet of films was exported from the United States. Of this huge figure Great Britain absorbed 70,000,000 feet. As a small return, Great Britain exported to the States only 2,330,000 feet.

Actors.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

"An actor is a man who acts upon the stage, and who sometimes acts off the stage, too."

His business is to make people believe he is the best actor on earth. Some actors do this by their work on the stage, but others are much more successful in passing around the information between plays.

An actor's work is very hard. He has to pretend more things than a politician. He has to pretend rage, despair, grief and piety. He has to spend whole evenings pretending he was a king and ordering off the heads of his faithful retainers with great fluency. Then quite often he has to hang his crown on a nail in the dressing room, go out to some lunch counter and pretend to the proprietor that his credit is good for a plate of beans with trimmings.

After an actor has pretended on the stage for a great many years it is no wonder that he gets mixed up once in a while and acts like a king off the stage and a two spot during the performance.

Some actors get a great deal of money for acting, while others merely get very large salaries. We should not allow ourselves to envy the actor who gets $1,000 a week until we find out how many times he gets the same thousand.

After an actor has learned to impersonate an Irishman so that the audience will not mistake him for a German or has learned to imitate a society man so deftly that no one would guess him to be a floorwalker, he spends the rest of his life travelling.

Actors sleep in car seats and eat at railway lunch counters when they are not being kings or captains of industry. There is a very hard life, but they stick to it with great tenacity because they do not have to get up until noon. Many a millionaire who has to drag himself out of bed at 3 a.m. by the foot would be an actor if he knew how.

If an actor succeeds he goes to Heaven, which begins a little below 24th street on Broadway in New York, and never leaves thereafter except to go to Europe, which is an improvement on Heaven.

The Publication of Debates.

It looks as if the daily publication of the official report of the debates in the Legislature is going to lag considerably behind the time of the delivery of the speeches, the answering of questions and the other proceedings which it is the intention of the Internal Economy Committee to publish.

The proceedings opened on Wednesday of last week. In the Daily News of to-day appears the first instalment of the report, which covers the appointment of Mr. Goodson as Speaker on the first day and the part of Thursday's proceedings which relates to the Governor's notification to the House by Assembly of the resignation of Sir Robert Bond and the speeches of Sir Edward Morris and Mr. Kent expressing regret at Sir Robert's retirement and appreciation of the great services he had rendered the country and the distinguished part he had played in that House. The speeches of Mr. Currie and Mr. Higgins in moving and seconding the motion for a Committee to draft an Address in Reply to the Governor's Speech will form the next instalment, and this instalment is already 7 days behind the date of the delivery of the speeches. It must also be remembered that the Prime Minister has already assented to the request that the answers to the questions shall also be recorded. We presume this relates to correspondence and answers of a compendious character which can be published without unduly swelling the record and would not include copies of Road Board expenditures. Ever with this exception the record will be swelled considerably and must have a tendency to delay the up-to-date nature of the daily report. We mention this matter because we think it is a matter of regret that a week has already been lost in the publication of debates. Inasmuch, however, as there is no forecast in the Governor's Speech of any important legislation other than changes in the Tariff to make up the shortage on the revenue, it is likely that the session will not be prolonged by debates on many legislative measures.

Last year we recorded the fact that the reports of the debates for 1912 had been put in book form. We find that this applies also to the years immediately preceding, and beginning with 1909. This will make the records of speeches easier of reference, especially as the volumes are indexed. Moreover, it has also provided additional pickings for the Daily News and Evening Herald, and that is a consideration not to be overlooked.

Had No Home.

At an early hour this morning, and while the snow storm was at its height, Constables Crocker and Conrad of the night watch, found a woman, sparsely clad, wandering about Duckworth Street and brought her to the police station for shelter. The poor woman only left the General Hospital yesterday. If she was not found by the police she might have smothered in the storm.

Citizens' Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Committee was held last evening at the Board of Trade rooms, at which seventeen members were present. Interim reports were received from the sub-committees on Housing, Lighting, Health, Street Repairing and Cleaning, Fire Protection and Systems of Government. It was obviously impossible for even a small portion of the information which is necessary to have been obtained since the last meeting. Still the reports that were submitted proved intensely interesting and caused much discussion. It was remarked that if the discussion could have been held in public, there is not a hall in the city which would contain the people who would wish to hear it. It is the intention of the Executive Committee to hold public meetings as soon as possible at which will be presented such reports from Sub-Committees as may be ready. The report from the Sub-Committee on Systems of Government was referred to a special meeting of the Executive Committee to take place on next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Board of Trade Rooms.

Crowds at Pantomime.

The attendance at Rossley's yesterday was a record one. In the afternoon the crowd was so great that many were accommodated with seats in the orchestra, while at night benches and chairs had to be brought in. There is a reason for such a confluence of people, and the reason is the biggest and best show ever seen at Rossley's and that is saying a lot. The compliments and congratulations which Rossley receives for her training of our city children is not from those who have never seen a good show outside St. John's but from the highest in the land who have travelled and seen what New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and the large theatres on the other side such as London, Liverpool and Glasgow have in the way of pantomime, and they are all delighted and say it is wonderful. Every night almost, there is something different introduced, and there is in preparation a great Scotch pantomime that will astonish and delight still further. Snow White will be produced again later as there are so many requests.

OTTAWA, To-day.
The Parliament of Canada, both in the Commons and the Senate yesterday paid a tribute to the memory of the late Lord Strathcona. One point touched upon particularly in the Commons was the great work accomplished by Strathcona when plain Donald Smith in bringing about the transfer of the North West territories to the crown and his later splendid self-sacrificing effort in bringing to a successful completion the C. P. R. On motion of Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the House stood adjourned till to-day as a tribute to his memory.

LONDON, To-day.
The darkened house on Grosvenor Square where the body of Lord Strathcona lies still in death is the place towards which the thoughts of thousands of men and women prominent in the nation's public life are turning. Hundreds of messages of condolence were received from all parts of the world, but particularly from Canada. The King and Queen have been especially solicitous since the illness took a dangerous form, and received almost hourly messages. It was thought probable that Strathcona had expressed a desire to be buried in the same grave as his wife. Seeing however Strathcona's devoted services to the Empire, the suggestion may be made that the family permit burial in Westminster Abbey. High honours will be paid to the memory of the financier and statesman. During the funeral service the King and Queen will either attend in person or will send a personal representative from the Royal family. The Queen Mother, Alexandra, is expected to attend.

Social Evening at George St.

The Sociable held in George Street assembly last evening in aid of the Sunday School and Adult Bible Class (Liberals) proved a most enjoyable event, and reflected credit on the Librarians, Miss Jessie White and William Walter Joyce, who, with their assistants, were untiring in their efforts to make it a grand success. The programme was well selected, and the rendition of all the members displayed talent and careful training. It was as follows:—
Male Quartette.—Messrs. Stan Green, L. C. Mews, A. S. Butler and W. Tucker.
Whistling Solo.—Mrs. C. Stranger.
Solo.—Miss LeMessurier.
Pianoforte Solo.—Mrs. G. Christian.
Solo.—Miss Trappell.
Recitation.—Mrs. R. A. Squires.
Solo.—Miss Starey.
Solo.—Miss Herder.
Violin Solo.—Mr. Fred Emerson.
Solo.—Mr. Hy. Courtenary.
The audience showed keen appreciation by their continuous applause and the demand for encores was incessant.
The pleasing feature of the programme was the playing of popular airs by members of the Guards' band. This added greatly to the entertainment during the interval when candies and ice cream were offered for sale and also while tea was being served.
Financially and in every other way the affair proved most successful, which must have been gratifying to all concerned.

At the Crescent.

The Crescent Picture Palace was packed to the doors yesterday afternoon and night sessions. Five splendid pictures were shown. Mr. Parks sang Melody Chimes in a very acceptable manner. The same program will be repeated to-night. On tomorrow and Saturday, another big bill is arranged. On Saturday afternoon a special matinee for ladies and children. The Crescent management has been fortunate in securing the famous picture, The Execution of Lady Jane Grey. Look out for it next week.

Coal at $6.80.

The s.s. Kintail arrived in port this morning from North Sydney, with a load of coal for the F.P.U. The run occupied two days. It was well the steamer did not leave Sydney as early as expected, or she would have been caught in the teeth of the terrific storm that swept the coast on Monday night. The Kintail brought a full load of the best North Sydney screened coal, which is being sold and delivered at the homes of the consumers for $6.80 a ton, or 80 cts. cheaper than the regular coal merchants are selling for. We understand the F.P.U. people will not sell any more than one ton to any one purchaser, in order to give as many as possible an opportunity of buying at the cheap rate.

Coastal Boats.

SMALLPOX OF MILD TYPE.—No further cases of smallpox are reported at Belleoram. The outbreak is confined to fifteen houses, in which there are 21 patients. The disease is of an unusually mild type and no serious results are feared. Drs. Fitzgerald and Cron, who are attending to the sufferers, believe that the smallpox will not spread any further at Belleoram and that the patients now stricken with the malady will have a speedy recovery.

Samples of City Water Pipes.

There are on exhibition to-day in the window of the Board of Trade, two sections of pipes which were taken from the mains in Cochrane Street and Queen's Street. The pipes are exciting much interest as the space allowed for the water to go through, instead of being six inches, is only one, owing to the amount of rust around the inside of the pipes. These samples were taken by City Engineer Ryan and submitted at last night's meeting of the Citizen's Committee. In view of the above it is any wonder that no good water pressure can be had when there is a fire.

Halifax School for the Blind

Mr. Editor.—Permit me through the columns of your paper to publicly thank those whose names are given below for their interest and generous support of the work of the Extension movement in connection with the Halifax school for the blind.

I esteem it a privilege as also a pleasure to have had the opportunity of considering together this matter of such import—the home teaching of the adult blind of Newfoundland. We cannot wage war in this world without ammunition and as the handsome sum of $2,750.00 has been most generously subscribed by the public spirited men of St. John's, we have been already able to begin the work of Home teaching in this colony.

Mr. Thomas Davis, a graduate of the Halifax School for the Blind and a resident pianoforte tuner of this city has been engaged as the Home teacher for Newfoundland.

Since my arrival in the colony I have found that 308 blind persons reside around its shores; 120 of these being between the ages of 21 and 50 years are eligible for home teaching; 39 persons between the ages of 5 and 21 years are eligible for institutional training at the Halifax school for the blind; the remaining 149 being aged persons, whose sight is impaired because of physical decay, are beyond our help.

I shall be leaving for Halifax to-morrow by the s.s. Florizel and would again repeat my heartfelt thanks and gratitude, not only personally but on behalf of my beloved and worthy superintendent, Dr. C. F. Fraser to whose heart this movement is near and dear.

Yours very truly,

Schiff—New Czar Of Wall Street.

An immigrant from Germany at the age of 18; a clothing merchant on a very modest scale in Cincinnati; later head of an immense banking firm, successor to E. H. Harriman, recognized leader of American Judaism, and now J. P. Morgan's successor as Czar of Wall Street.

That summarizes the life of Jacob Henry Schiff, head of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, the great banking concern, which, it is said, has now become the dominating leader in Wall Street, since the Morgan people have taken the startling course of withdrawing from their interlocking directorates.

Jacob H. Schiff, though a kindly man, famed as a philanthropist and a lover of children and flowers, is well used to the job of being czar. Fortified in his inner office behind many guardian doors and ante-rooms, for years he has ruled the affairs of his firm with an iron hand. And throughout those years he has maintained unbroken an imposing silence. A European monarch is more easily interviewed than Jacob H. Schiff.

Czar of his own firm, he has now made that firm almost undisputed czar of the money trust. Kuhn, Loeb and Company are, next to J. P. Morgan and Company, the next powerful banking house in America. The senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb and Company died years ago, and James Loeb retired to a life of ease. Since then Schiff has been

THE FIRM.

In many a battle of stocks and bonds, Schiff led his firm to triumph over foes famous on the field of high finance. The victory he loves most to recount is his forcing of Thomas F. Ryan, the king of frenzied finance, to return $7,000,000 which he had received for some very watery stock of the Metropolitan Life.

So powerful has Schiff become, indeed—so silent and impenetrable his ways and workings—that it has seemed almost as though he were an impersonal force governing mysteriously the finances of the country, rather than a human being working in ordinary human ways. Yet, on one occasion he has spoken out straight to the public, with his stern emphasis. Such was his personal emphasis, several years ago, on the currency system of the United States. And it was this attack which set going the banking reform movement and brought us our much heralded new currency law.

Those who know Schiff as friend or relative see him not at all as an impersonal force, but as a very lovable and human companion, sincerely interested in philanthropic and social problems and in matters of character and religion.

THE STORY OF A NOTED CROOK

Who Was Never in the Tolls.

His friends in America (if any) will grieve to hear of the death in New York of Mr. "Shang" Draper. Shang is not the gentleman's Christian name, but what he was christened has been forgotten in the course of a very adventurous career. It was Shang, however, that he is known to the police as one of the most daring burglars and criminals of the past generation, and it is as Shang that he has earned a niche among the celebrities of the day. For many years he was a member of the most notorious gang of crooks in modern times. Later on he became celebrated as a gambler, the keeper of a gaming house, and as the intermediary between the gamblers and the crooks, till more recently he was the proprietor of a firm that bottled mineral water. He made money in all roles. At one time he was said to have been worth half a million of money. When he died a handful of friends followed him to the grave.

The Crook Who Kept Clear.

Draper was never in prison, and on this account ought to be remembered as one of the cleverest crooks of the age. He was never so innocent that he could afford to sue for libel the newspaper that referred to him as a crook, and he apparently did not mind this classification, but it seemed beyond the powers of the New York Police Department in the days of Inspector Byrnes to prove any crime against him. All that the police could prove was that his intimate associates were the most notorious burglars and confidence men of the day. When the star performers fell down in a job and were arrested they served their sentences without proving anything against Draper. Many and many a time they were besought by the police to "round" on the man who always was able to keep out of trouble. They smiled, and Draper maintained his record as the great crook who was known, but never caught.

Millions at a Time.

No policeman knows when Shang first burst upon a career of crime. The first time he became an object of much interest to the police of the United States was after the Northampton bank robbery in 1876. Two years later the robbery of the Manhattan Savings Institution raised the concern of the New York police to frenzy. Millions were involved in each burglary. The first crime was an unusually sensational one, for the robbers first made their way into the dwelling house of the cashier, and tortured him until he told them the combination of the safe in the bank, which was known amusement of both whites and Hawaiians.

Hawaiian Serf Riders.

Are Best in the World—Ancient Hawaiian Sport.

Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian water expert, who went into the world's championship class in June in the Olympic Games at Stockholm as a member of the American team, is one of the Hawaiian Islands' best serf riders. Those who have watched the big islander shooting along on the crest of a big comb have seen a sight never to be forgotten.

Surf boarding is an ancient Hawaiian sport, and one which is accomplished nowhere else in the world with the perfection of the Hawaiians. It has been tried in Australia and other places where there is a good surf, but the conditions in Hawaii seem to be different, for it is there alone that the sport takes rank as an

I think it only right that I should tell you about the benefits I received from the last couple of weeks by using GIN PILLS. I was troubled for over three weeks with a pain in my back, and tried a number of remedies without any benefit. One of the reporters had also been troubled the same way and he said to me, "Why don't you use GIN PILLS?" I used a box and a half and the pain left. He said "You take this other half of the box and get another box, and you will be all right." I am glad to inform you that before I used all of the second box, I felt myself all right again and the pain had left. I certainly think GIN PILLS are wonders."

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitalize, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—
"Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.
He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilating had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.
I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov.11

Arrested, But Released.

It was not until two years later, however, that Draper first came into the hands of the police, and even then there was no conviction. He was caught as the result of an accident, or through a very remarkable piece of detective work. A detective named Murphy was walking along the street one August day when it was raining, and he noticed before him two men, whom he had never seen before. His attention was attracted by one of them taking off his overcoat and carrying it on his arm. Though the day was hot, this action interested the detective, and he followed the pair to a hardware shop. When they came out no parcels were visible. Murphy went in and learned that they had purchased a sledge hammer, and that the man with the coat on his arm had removed the handle and was carrying his handle under the coat.

Gambler and Go-Between.

Murphy was convinced that something crooked was afoot, and following his men, he tracked them to their home. He kept watch on the premises for several days, and then engineered a raid that resulted in the arrest of Draper and several other notorious crooks, and the finding of thousands of dollars' worth of stolen property. Draper, however, managed to escape a sentence, and even when the Manhattan bank was entered through the connivance of a watchman and $3,000,000 stolen, he kept clear, and the arrest of several of his accomplices years afterwards did not disturb him. Some time after this adventure Draper opened a Tenderloin saloon which was the recognized resort of gamblers and crooks. He had the reputation of being a square gambler. Later on he became the associate of Al Adams, the "policy" still keeping in the background. His final venture in mineral water was the result of a visit to some celebrated baths. He discovered a nearby spring and bottled the water which he sold for a high price.

Now Getting His Due.

Out of the ages steeped with superstition came the legend that the goat was created by a fiend, and its peculiar pranks and fondness for strange tricks have supported the cry. Medical men have, however, always upheld the hardy little animal. It is an undisputed fact that goats' milk is richer, more nutritious, and more easily digested than cows' milk, and is a food for children and invalids it cannot be surpassed.
An eminent physician has proclaimed his championship of the maligned goat, which he declares is more satisfactory and profitable as a milk producer than a cow.
But the great point in its favour is that it is free from the taint that even the purest of our cows barely escape—tuberculosis. To use the physician's own words, the goat is "the only dairy animal immune against tuberculosis."
The animal itself costs very little to buy, and very little to keep. The wandering tribes of Eastern Africa practically exist on the milk of goats and camels.

Telling the Wrong One

Whistler, the artist, was once walking through a field, when suddenly he found that a large bull was making straight towards him. He ran as he had never run before. When he reached the other side of the fence he saw a farmer, the owner of the field coolly watching the proceedings. Mr. Whistler was furious, and shaking his fist at the farmer, said:—
"What do you mean, sir, by letting a savage bull like that roam at large? Do you know who I am, sir? I'm Whistler."
"Are you?" replied the farmer. "Then what's the good of telling me? Why didn't you tell the bull?"

The "Don't Speak" Club.

The Moscow prefecture has just confirmed the statutes of a newly formed club in that city the chief feature of which is the absolute silence imposed on its members within the club precincts.
Any infraction of this cardinal rule involves a monetary penalty. The club is well appointed and luxuriously equipped.
Gesture is the only medium of intercourse among its members. The same rigid regulation obtains at the club buffet and in the dining-room, as well as in the library and general rooms. Orders are conveyed to the silent waiters by means of tablets they carry.—Daily Mail.

The employees of the Reid Company were busy yesterday removing the ice from the street car rails, and the service that was interrupted by the storms of late will now continue regularly.
The whole system was badly affected by Sunday night's fire, as the electric service was cut for several hours.

Girl's 7,000 Mile Journey.

Julia Kohan, an eight-year-old Bavarian girl, has arrived at New Lexington, Ohio, by post and has been safely delivered to her father by the rural mail carrier. The postmaster at New Lexington was considerably astonished to discover her among the mail handed over to him by the Federal sorters on the New York mail train. The little girl wore a tag, which had been placed on her by the New York Immigration officials, which read:—
"This child, Julia Kohan, is going to her father, John Kohan, Box 117, R.F.D., No. 4, New Lexington, Ohio."
The child had journeyed from Bavaria in the charge of the Post Office officials, and seemed none the worse for her 7,000 mile journey.—Daily Chronicle.

New Device.

A new device for night-firing has been brought out in Germany, which it is ever developed on a large scale, may be expected to revolutionize our present tactics. It consists of an electric torch fixed to the barrel of a rifle, with lenses such as to throw a narrow pencil of intense light to the front. The soldier has only to throw the disc of light steady in his opponent while he presses the trigger, and the bullet should strike the mark. The range of the light is limited by the weight of the accumulator which can be carried on the weapon. Thus it is stated that an electric torch weighing 7 oz., is fully effective at forty yards.—Army and Navy Gazette.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y.,—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it."
"I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spells when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—Mrs. FRED STONE, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

The wind it whistled through the trees;
By all a stormy day was feared,
And the weather man's predicted breeze.

When from their churches people came
The storm was well nigh to its height;
Some wise ones then predicted rain,
But Jack Frost says I intend to bite.

The afternoon was very wild,
The night was stormy too,
And the churches all in town, 'tis said
Had room for more in every pew.

But its the sailors on the ocean's breast
From our pity reaches out to most,
For labor they have little rest,
While trying to make our rugged coast.

God help the sailors and protect
Them on this wild and stormy night,
And may the lights their way direct
And lead them to their friends all right.

The storm continued all that night
With wind increasing from north-east
And Monday, too, both day and night
Found in the blinding snow no cease.

Now drifts are piled in banks around
The hills as well with snow are topped;
To make our loneliness more profound,
The railway service now is stopped.
But hark! what's that, a welcome sound,
The whistle of an engine near;
For plow has forced its way around,
The railway line is once more clear.

No other news worth half a cent,
In town to-day there's few about;
So I must haste and post these notes,
As the train may soon be going out.

Open The Door.

Open the door, let in the air,
The winds are sweet and the flowers are fair
Joy is abroad in the world to-day;
If our door is wide it may come this way
Open the door!
Open the door, let in the sun;
He hath a smile for everyone.
He hath made of the daindrops gold
and gems,
He may change our tears to diadems,
Open the door!
Open the door of the soul; let in Strong, pure thoughts which shall banish sin.
They will grow and bloom with grace
divine,
And their fruit shall be sweeter than that of the vine,
Open the door!
Open the door of the heart; let in
Sympathy sweet for stranger and kin,
It will make the halls of the heart so fair,
That angels may enter unaware,
Open the door!

Victorias vs. Crescents—Champions Defeated—Game a Hard Fought One—Large Attendance.

The initial game of the League hockey series took place in the Prince's Rink last night in the presence of a big crowd of spectators.

The opposing teams were the Crescents and Victorias and the game, which was a fast one, resulted in the Crescents, last year's champions and top-notchers for four previous seasons, going down to defeat. The score being: Victorias, 4 goals; Crescents, 3.

On the whole, play though fast at intervals was not brilliant. Individual play and long distance shooting was too much in evidence and combination was out of the question. The personnel of the teams were:—

Crescents.
 Thomas, goal.
 Herder, point.
 Joy, cover.
 R. Stick, rover.
 Hutchings, left.
 Churchill, centre.
 L. Stick, right.

Victorias.
 Hunt, goal.
 Morison, point.
 Parsons, cover.
 Ford, rover.
 Shortall, left.
 Lilly, centre.
 Brien, right.

Precisely at 7:30 the players came on the ice and faced each other. At the command of Referee Higgins the disc was put in motion. Play opened briskly, the Crescents starting hostilities. The Stick brothers got away together, passed to Churchill who was on the spot and scored the first goal for the season amid much applause.

Crescents, 1.

This opened the ball, matters became lively and the fans were in their element. The Victorias put up a team and kept the puck in Crescent territory. Herder put up a capital defence and made his opponents beat a hasty retreat, as again the Stick brothers got away and came within an ace of scoring. The Vics kept up the pace and again attacked their opponents and through the combined efforts of Parsons and Ford the equalizer was registered.

Victorias, 1.
 This was followed by applause loud and long and Victoria's stock increased. Shortall captured the rubber and made the best and prettiest run for the night, succeeding in beating Thomas.

Victorias, 2.
 This enticed matters and made the Crescents work with renewed energy and determination. Fast play was followed by heavy checking and several players were penalized. However, Len Stick made a pretty dash up the right wing and landed the puck in the meshes.

Crescents, 2.
 This evened the score and put every player on his mettle. The Crescents worked hard at this juncture but their combination play was broken up by Parsons and Morison of the Vics, who played a rattling game. The Vics forwards got control and bombarded the Crescents goal. The puck, it was alleged, struck the inside part of the net. The goal judge gave a different opinion and no goal was awarded. The present goal judge was then replaced by Mr. R. Simms. Just before half time Lilly best Thomas.

Victorias, 3.

SECOND HALF.
 Play was resumed at a lively pace in favour of the Crescents. They put it all over their opponents. Herder got in some effective work and while in the act of shooting for goal was fouled by Brien who was sent to the witness box to mend his ways. Just then Parsons controlled the disc and shot from mid-rink, the puck went through Herder's skate into the twines.

Victorias, 4.
 Scarcely was the puck put in play when Len Stick captured it, made a clean sweep and dropped the rubber behind Hunt.

Crescents, 3.
 After this the Victorias seemed to have the tired feeling and looked as if the Crescents would add to their score. They played round their opponents and bombarded their goal. Hunt was called upon to save, which he did admirably.

No further scoring was done and the game ended.—
 Victorias, 4 goals; Crescents, 3.
 Mr. W. J. Higgins refereed; Messrs. Carmichael and Ellis were timekeepers.

SUMMARY OF GOALS.
 First Half—Churchill (C.) 5 mins.; Ford (V.), 8 mins.; Shortall (V.), 11 mins.; L. Stick (C.), 18 mins.; Lilly (V.), 25 mins.
 Second Half—Parsons (V.), 12 mins.; L. Stick (C.), 13 mins.

NOTES ON THE GAME.
 The game was fast throughout, but it was good value for a draw, as it must be admitted that the Crescents played the best combination. The Stick brothers were, as usual, good and handled their sticks well last night. Hutchings and Joy played a hard game.

For the winners Hunt, the boy in goal, probably saved the match for the Victorias.

Parsons gave a creditable exhibition of hockey indeed. Ford, Morison, Shortall, in fact all the Vics played well. His Excellency the Governor witnessed the match and enjoyed it to the fullest.

The Feldians and St. Bon's will play to-morrow night's game.

Ladies Mobbed a Thief.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Arthur Courtemanche, representing himself as an inspector of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, and making an unauthorized collection of the money in the slot gas meters, visited the home of Mrs. Philip Larner, at 581 St. Dominique street, this morning.

The suspicions of Mrs. Larner were aroused when he offered her a receipt which did not bear the printed form of the company.

Assisted by Mrs. Viner, the man was held until Mr. Larner came back with a policeman.

DO NOT INVEST

Until you have seen
 what our travellers
 can now offer you

Our various travellers and local representatives are now out on their January itineraries, and within the next few weeks will have covered every important centre in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

We bespeak for them a hearing from the investing public. The prestige of this investment House justifies that. Your own best interests demand it.

It would be idle for us to say that they have a desirable assortment of the best class securities to present for your approval on the outright and instalment plans of payment. We know that the public expect much of us. Therefore in selecting our January list of Investment Offerings we have endeavored to maintain the conservative traditions for which this House has been noted since its founding in 1873.

If desired, a special appointment can be arranged with the nearest representative in your district by communicating with our Halifax Office. But no obligation to purchase is thus entailed.

Curling for Charity.

The Charity Bazaar held yesterday under the auspices of the Curling Association, was largely attended, and the affair proved very successful. The players showed great enthusiasm in the games and put forward their best efforts which resulted in a splendid exhibition.

The proceeds of yesterday's games are in the vicinity of $500 which will be expended to purchase coats for deserving families. His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson took part in the games in the morning, and were also present during the afternoon and night accompanied by Major Davenport, A.D.C. They thoroughly enjoyed the game, and expressed their great pleasure at seeing the affair so largely patronized.

Mr. H. D. Carter, President of the Curling Association and of the Committee of Management, tendered his thanks to all who helped to make the day so successful, and was gratified at the large collection received. Congratulations are due to the curlers, particularly to the ladies who by their sale of teas, candies and cakes helped to make the affair such a financial success.

The Confession

AT THE CASINO TO-NIGHT.
 To-night the W. S. Harkins players will present "The Confession." Those who saw it last week have told their friends that "it's the best yet," & nothing more need be said except that seats for to-night are going fast, and those who intend going should secure their seats early. To-morrow and Saturday nights the play will be F. Marlon Crawford's famous play "The White Sister," dramatized by him from his equally famous book and originally acted by Miss Viola Allen and James O'Neill in New York, where it enjoyed a tremendous run. "The White Sister" is one of the greatest dramatic successes ever produced on the stage. Many St. John's people have read the book and are anxiously awaiting the play. Seats went on sale at the Atlantic Bookstore this morning and are being rapidly taken up.

Ice in Straits.

From messages received yesterday we learn that the Straits are blocked with heavy ice, which reaches as far as Bonne Bay.

Ice is making its appearance much earlier this year than last, as the S. S. Portia was able to call at Bonne Bay until late in February.

The Biggest Optical House on earth cannot possibly keep in stock all the combinations called for in eyeglass lenses. Only those who are equipped to grind them can supply exactly what is needed. We have the latest machinery and all necessary material to make any lenses in use. R. H. TRAPNELL, Eyesight Specialist.—Joc 26, 17.

Mr. A. S. Rendell's Appreciation of the Firemen's Work.

St. John's, Nfld.,
 20th Jan'y., 1914.

John Sullivan, Esq.,
 Inspector General Constabulary,
 City.

Dear Sir—I have much pleasure to hand you herewith cheque for One Hundred Dollars for distribution amongst your men in appreciation of their splendid work at the Cochrane Street Methodist Church fire on Sunday night last, through which my dwelling and other property was saved.

Yours very truly,
 A. S. RENDELL,
 Inspector General's Office,
 St. John's, Jan. 21, 1914.

Dear Mr. Rendell—Let me on behalf of the men of the Fire Brigade thank you for your very generous present to them of $100 in appreciation of the services rendered by them during the burning of the Cochrane Street Church on Sunday night last. Your cheque has been handed to them and they are very thankful, but let me say, they value much more your kindly words of commendation than they do even your generous present.

I have the honour to be,
 Sir,
 Your obedient servant,
 JOHN SULLIVAN,
 Inspector General
 Constabulary.

A. S. Rendell, Esq.,
 City.

Being Good.

"This time," I said, "I am not joking."—It was the morn of New Year's Day; "I'll quit forever more my smoking, and throw my rank old pipes away. I know full well tobacco causes disorders of the heart and spleen; too long I've stained my teeth and jawes, and soiled my chin with nicotine. Too long I've shocked my wife by filling the house with fumes hard to endure; and now I cut it out, God willing, and send my briars to the poor." No sooner was my vow recorded than came a meerschaum pipe to me, with pipes like that are kings rewarded—a noble pipe that's fair to see. Then some kind friend who wished to cheer me, and from my heart rase the bears' brought grim temptation once more near me—she sent a box of fine cigars. Another sent a jar of lacquer—a priceless thing from far Japan—in which to keep my choice backer; a princely gift for any man. My vow lies heavy on my shoulders, I writhe beneath temptation's strokes, 'or I have silver mounted holders for cigars and other smokes, and all the jimericks and equipment that good tobacco dealers sell, and every nail brings me a shipment of things a smoker loves too well. The vow of mine! It frets and wearies, and gives my soul a frequent fit; and don't you spring too many queries concerning whether I've stayed quit!

The Nickel Thronged.

The Nickel Theatre was thronged yesterday afternoon and last night. Every seat was occupied and every one was delighted with the performance. The picture entitled "Hope" was a particularly interesting one. The other pictures were: "Broncho Bill and the Outlaw's Mother," "The Triangle," a silly love drama; "The Dandy," "All for a Girl" and Williamson's animated news. Mr. Koch was delightful and received warm applause. The picture will be repeated to-day.

LISBON, Jan. 21.
 The arrest of 200 ringleaders in a general strike of railway men in Portugal, was carried out to-day by order of the Government. Warrants against 400 others were issued but the men evaded capture. ## Young Women's Guild.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.
 The first annual social of the Young Women's Guild held in the Lecture Room of the Congregational Church last evening, proved very successful. A large audience attended, despite the fact that many other holiday attractions were offered. Mr. T. J. Duley, Secretary of the Church, was the chairman and the following programme was excellently rendered:

Overture, Piano—Mr. R. Steele.
 Vocal Solo—Mr. S. W. Cornick.
 Violin Solo—Miss Sybil Johnson.
 Recitation—Miss Dowie.
 Vocal Solo—Miss Gladys Duley.
 Recitation—Mr. W. Watson.
 Vocal Solo—Miss M. Steele.

INTERVAL—Sale of Work, Ice Cream, Candles, etc.
 Vocal Solo—Mr. Ruggles.
 Duet—Imitation Piccolo and Cornet. Solo piccolo—Mrs. C. C. Stranger; Solo cornet, Mr. P. H. Cowan.
 Accompanist—Piano—Miss Jessie Barnes.

Vocal Solo—Miss Exley.
 Club Singing by Masters Forbes and Duley of the Methodist College, under direction of Mr. Mold.

Whistling Solo—"The Mocking Bird," by request, Mrs. C. C. Stranger. All the performers acquitted themselves very creditably, particularly Mrs. Stranger and Mr. Peter Cowan, whose piccolo and cornet imitations respectively were quite unique, and evoked enthusiastic applause. Their rendition of the "Soldiers of the King" was perfect, and they had to respond to an encore giving "Rule Britannia," which was also greatly appreciated. At the close of the programme the members of the Guild and their aids served refreshments after which the chairman tendered the thanks of all present to those who had assisted in making the evening so enjoyable. The President of the Guild, Mrs. (Rev.) Thomas, is to be congratulated on the success of their "first annual" and is sincerely hoped that many others of this nature will follow.

GLENCOE'S REPAIRS.—The S. S. Glencoe will not enter the dry dock, as was expected at first. The necessary repairs to her boiler will be effected at the dock pier, and that will take about a week, after which she will take up usual route.
