KENNEDY SQUARE

By F. Hopkinson Smith.
Kennedy Square, a place of "birds and trees and flowers" is both abiding place and symbol of that small and charmingly select coterie of aristocracy in the old South. St. George Winnet Temple, "a perfect embodiment of all that blood had bequeathed him," is the center of the group portrayed in this story and at his invitation enters also Poe at the beginning of the Poe's prominence. The love of a temperate youth, born a gentleman, for "the proudest and loveliest girl on earth," furnishes the theme of the tale—a love tested by pride by a duel by hospitality and by the devotion of faithful blacks; a love in the evolution of which character is deepened and chastened and strengthened.

WARNING!

IN THE INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC SAFETY.

The Rifle Range on the South Side Hill will be in constant use, from daylight till dark, for musketry practice, until our Regiment leaves for England.

All persons are therefore prohibited from approaching the Rifle Range within 200 yards from either side, or within 1,000 yards of the targets to the eastward.

Any unauthorized person so doing will be liable to arrest, besides incurring serious danger from rifle bullets. A number of red flags will be used to indicate the Danger Zone. This prohibition does not extend to any part of the Hills west of the 800 yards Firing Point.

A Great Intrigue,

Mistress of Darracourt.

OR THE

CHAPTER XXVII.

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Sinclair, coolly, though the perspiration stood upon his brow. "Don't be offended; I'm obliged to touch on family matters. Give me the rest of the ten minutes, marquis—you won't be sorry for it afterward."

The marquis sank back into his seat and took out his watch.

"I will give you the rest of your time," he said, quietly.

"Miss De Vere, an heiress. Her money tided your father over a year or two, but then he went wrong again, and sold the Court, didn't he?"

The marquis, of course, made no reply.

"Then he died, and you became the Marquis of Merle, and then you married Miss Darracourt, and got the Court back, and no end of thousands, and it's all very jolly."

The marquis glanced at his watch, but Mr. Sinclair took no heed of the warning.

"Now, marquis, suppose I had a secret which might be worth every penny you've got, what would you give me for it?"

The marquis eyed him with genuine curiosity. Of course, the man was mad.

"It all depends upon the secret," he said.

"Just so!" assented Mr. Sinclair. "It all depends upon the secret! Now, suppose it was a secret that took not only all your money, but your title—your name itself—how then?"

The marquis smiled.

"Do you think you have got such a secret, my friend?" he said. He was beginning to feel almost amused.

"I don't think; I know I have!" said Mr. Sinclair, and his tone of confidence and exultation struck the marquis as most interesting. It proved how thoroughly mad the fellow was. But how had he got the information respecting his father's marriage? From the "Peerage," doubtless.

"Oh, you have a secret, have you?" he said. "Well, out with it, my man! Time grows short! Interesting as you are, I cannot afford to rob the asylum for more than five minutes longer."

"Oh, you can't, can't you?" said Mr. Sinclair, with a sneer. "You think I'm mad! Perhaps your lordship never heard of Bessie Richards?"

The marquis gave a little start. Then he rose and looked down at the living statue of vulgarity, with a smile that was almost indulgent and pitying.

"My friend, I'm sorry for you," he said. "If you think that you can extort money by threatening to disclose any of the late marquis's irregularities you are mistaken. My poor fellow, every man and woman knows the story of Bessie Richards!"

"Oh, they do, do they? I don't think they do," said Mr. Sinclair.

The marquis stroked his mustache. "Everybody knows that my father took a fancy to the girl and ran away with her. Ah! I see; you are a relative of hers! That's your game, my friend, is it?"

"No; I'm no relative," said Mr. Sinclair; "I never saw the person—I beg her pardon—the lady. So, you admit—"

"I admit nothing," said Mr. Sinclair, with a sneer. "I only know that you are an impostor, and that you are an impostor."

"Yes! I mean that you are no more the Marquis of Merle than I am!"

The marquis leaned against the mantelpiece and eyed him closely.

"Indeed,"

"Indeed!" mocked Mr. Sinclair, almost maddened by the easy, insolent manner of the man he had come to humiliate. "Yes, and indeed again! You are no more the Marquis of Merle than I am!"

The marquis laughed softly.

"You have two minutes to prove that, my friend, and then you may return to the asylum you have escaped from!"

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

that your father, the late marquis, ran away with her, do you?"

The marquis shrugged his shoulders.

"Certainly."

"Ah!" and Mr. Sinclair drew a long breath; "and that a child—a son, was born, eh?"

The marquis nodded, and glanced at his watch.

"Three minutes longer!"

"Perhaps you know the name he went by," said Mr. Sinclair, insidiously.

"Perhaps you know him very well, the man I mean—Harry Herne!"

The marquis's eyes glittered viciously.

"Yes, I know him," he said. "And so you come from him, do you? Good! I'll save your time. Tell him that you came to me, and that I said I would give him ten years' penal servitude if ever he crossed my path."

Mr. Sinclair stared.

"Wrong again, marquis," he said, insolently. "I don't come from him, and I don't know where he is. As for penal servitude, that's his lookout."

"Then what is it you mean, and what do you want?" said the marquis, impatient at last. The name of Harry Herne had roused him, and for the first time he showed irritation.

"This is what I mean," said Mr. Sinclair; "I mean that you are an impostor, marquis."

"An impostor!" he smiled.

"Yes! I mean that you are no more the Marquis of Merle than I am!"

The marquis leaned against the mantelpiece and eyed him closely.

"I have two minutes to prove that, my friend, and then you may return to the asylum you have escaped from!"

"I have two minutes to prove that, my friend, and then you may return to the asylum you have escaped from!"

"I can prove it easily enough!" said Mr. Sinclair, rising in his excitement. "Don't you hear? Your father ran away with Bessie Richards, and—"

"Married her!" repeated Mr. Sinclair, maddened by the calm, impassive face and silence of his foe.

"Married her! Made her the Marchioness of Merle, and the boy, Harry Herne, is the present real marquis, and you are—Heaven knows what!"

The marquis never moved a muscle; smile and sneer seemed cast in bronze.

"You are an impertinent lunatic!" he said. "Get out of my sight, or I will have you thrown into the street!"

He had sense enough to understand that, I suppose? Go, do you hear?" and he pointed to the door.

Mr. Sinclair dropped into his seat noisily.

"Ring the bell, mister!" he said, insolently. "Ring the bell, and call the servants. Send for the lady you've married, and I'll tell them, all I've told you, and prove it to them!"

The marquis laid his hand upon the bell, then dropped it once again.

"Come!" he said, taking a sovereign from his pocket. "I don't want a scandal and a scene, and you know it. You are trading upon that, I suppose? Here is a sovereign for you. Take it, and thank your stars. I don't send you to jail, my friend. Be off!"

Sinclair took the coin and flung it through the open window.

"You think I'm mad—that I can't prove what I say!" he exclaimed, purple with rage. "You think a sovereign will buy me off, eh? I'll prove it! I'll prove that your father married Bessie Richards at the Church of St. Angelo at Paris, on August twenty-fourth, 1856—"

The marquis started, and the blood rushed to his face and back again, leaving it white as marble.

"You lie!" he said.

"It's the solemn truth," said Mr. Sinclair, "and here is a copy of the register!" and he pulled the slip of discolored paper from his waistcoat pocket and waved it before the marquis's face.

There was silence for a moment or two; the great clock ticked its way through time with a mocking sound, while the two men, the one aristocrat to his finger tips, the other plebeian from head to foot, regarded each other.

Then the marquis opened his lips.

"You have played your part very cleverly, my friend," he said, with a sneer. "I beg your pardon! I see you are not mad; you are only a clever and rather daring scoundrel. Of course, that paper is a forgery."

Mr. Sinclair rose and extended the slip.

"A forgery? No, it's genuine! Take it! Oh, I am not afraid. Take it, examine it! Send for the police! Give me in charge, and then telegraph to Paris! You'll soon find whether it's a forgery or not!"

The marquis took the paper between his white finger and thumb, and examined it.

It was a copy of the certificate. It was genuine. Why he knew and felt convinced of this, he could not have said, but perhaps the man's last words had helped to convince him. He took the paper to the light, turned it over once or twice, then threw it to Sinclair.

Then he went to the window, and stood looking out for quite three minutes; at the end of that time he came back, white to the lips, but calm and cool as ice.

"Who told you this—how do you know it?" he demanded.

Mr. Sinclair was clever enough to know that nothing but truth would serve his purpose—a lie might ruin him.

"An old man—an antiquarian," he replied.

"Ah!" said the marquis, and his nostrils dilated. "Then there are two!"

"No," said Mr. Sinclair, quietly; "there's only one to deal with, marquis. The old man died three days ago; I walked until then."

The marquis stood with folded arms.

"Only you. You forget; there is the register at the church."

"Who ever opens it, or examines it?" he said. "Thirty years ago! Besides, it can be got at! There is only one!"

The marquis raised his head.

"How much do you want?" he asked, calmly, quietly, with nothing of what he felt showing, save in the dilation of his nostrils and the extreme pallor of his face.

Mr. Sinclair opened his lips.

"Five and twenty thousand pounds," he said.

The marquis emitted a hollow laugh.

"Five and twenty—it is ridiculous—madness!"

"When you have hundreds of thousands!" said Mr. Sinclair.

The marquis shook his head.

"I have nothing," he said; "almost nothing!"

"Well, the marchioness—at least, your wife has—it is all the same!"

The marquis shook his head again.

"Oh, yes it is!" repeated Mr. Sinclair. "What's five and twenty thousand to her? Why, I might have asked for half your fortune! You couldn't refuse."

"Could I not?" said the marquis, with an icy smile. "Suppose I refuse to give you anything?"

Mr. Sinclair reached for his hat.

"Then I go to the Marquis of Merle," he said. "If it's worth five and twenty thousand to you; it's worth that and more to him. I mean the Marquis of Merle—Harry Herne—"

"mister."

A tremor ran through the marquis's frame, and a gleam of hate shone in his eyes. He was about to speak when the door opened and a vision, as it seemed to Mr. Sinclair, stood in the opening. It was Lucille.

"Dinner has been announced!" she said; then, as she saw the strange figure, she broke off. "I beg your pardon; I thought you were alone."

"Yes; it is of no consequence," said the marquis. "A man of business—"

Mr. Sinclair plucked up courage, and, rising, made a theatrical bow to Lucille.

"An old friend of your husband's, my lady," he said, with an insinuating smile.

A Thought for the Times

THE WAR—CHAPTER XIV.
I. C. MORRIS.
As England is the Mother of Emperors, and Europe the Mother of Art, and from her cities and her seats of learning have come forth the world's greatest architects, and also its greatest musicians. Europe may well claim to be the centre of modern civilization. Her universities and church edifices are a standing monument to this statement; and annually tens of thousands of tourists ramble over the continent to behold the grandeur of its architecture.
Foremost in all branches of architecture is that style which is represented by Christian churches, and particularly by cathedrals. These grand structures have long been Europe's glory, and have been venerated by the people. Their history is indeed a study. Among the many cathedrals of Europe noted for their ornate design that of Rheims was one of the most celebrated. Its renown was world-wide, and scholars from far and near spoke of its grandeur and extolled its beauty.
Thus it was, that a few weeks ago, when that beautiful building was in danger the whole world cried out, and a universal protest was raised against its destruction. But it was all in vain. The die was cast, and the missiles of the enemy were aimed at it, and it fell in ruins. Vain a world's appeal. Vain the fact that it was a place of worship, and that for three thousand generations its Te Deums had been chanted. Vain the fact that it had been built for, and dedicated to, the glory of God. In vain all its history, vain its sacred and tender memories, vain its altars and its shrines. In vain everything that made it greater than all these, therefore the cathedral had to fall, and thus it fell.
The destruction of this cathedral has out-done the ravages of health-enslaving plagues.
Since the war broke out, the name of Attila has been very often mentioned. Attila was a wild warrior, and a barbarian, and with his vast army of Asiatic hordes devastated Europe. In the year 452 he attempted to besiege the city of Rome, but he was confronted by the presence of Pope Leo I, who bravely came out to him, and influenced him to turn back. History states that the impression made upon Attila by what little he saw of the representative of Christianity, and of what little he really learned of it from him during their interview, changed his savage ambition of destroying Rome, and that he desisted in his work of destruction, and turned in a more easterly direction. On his way back he was stricken with More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Pacific Johnson would provide for you this desired security, and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?
In death. To the fonts and altars of these sacred buildings we are taken in our infancy, and to them we repair, when, in riper years we assume the vows of our sponsors; and as the pathway of life develops we wait within their sanctuaries for the purpose of receiving instruction and spiritual admonition; and when the journey of life ends our last hopes are found in the principles for which these buildings stand. When Emperors and Kaisers and Kings and Czars, and all the titled pageantry of the world are gone, the principles which are embodied in the Gospels and Epistles which are read in the cathedrals of Europe will stand. These buildings are the sacred shrines of man's best interests, and because of this they should be protected by all men, and at all times, even in the times of war. France is the poorer to-day because of the destruction of the beautiful cathedral of Rheims, and the great heart of common Christianity is the poorer also. But such is the way of war, such are its devastations, and such its wanton destruction. The art and workmanship of the Cathedral of Rheims was representative of the skill and toil of centuries, and now as it stands in its charred and blackened ruins, it is an object lesson of what war really means. The work and artifice of centuries have been destroyed by the war of a few weeks. Alas for war! Alas that men should still deem it necessary.

Messages Received During the Night.

UNABLE TO CONFIRM REPORT.
Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Sept. 30. The British censor has permitted the transmission of unofficial despatches stating that the German right wing had met with disaster, but the Government Press Bureau has refused to confirm them. To-day this statement was given out at 10.45 a.m. The Press Bureau is unable to confirm the report that the German right wing has been broken and is being pushed back. Efforts to get an explanation as to whether the meaning of this statement was that no information had been received, or whether in accordance with the rule that no report on fighting shall be issued until five days after it has taken place, met with no success.

GERMAN ATTACK REPULSED.
PARIS, Sept. 30. The following Official bulletin on the war was given out in Paris this afternoon: The turning movement of the Allies north of the Somme is developing rapidly. A German attack on Troyes in West has been repulsed with heavy losses.

BELGIANS IN CONTACT WITH GERMANS.
LONDON, Sept. 30. A despatch from Amsterdam says that refugees arriving from Ghent report that the Belgian forces marching on Brussels are in contact with the Germans.

BOTH GERMAN ARMIES OVERWHELMED.
LONDON, Sept. 30. Despatches indicate that both German armies under Generals Von Kluck and Von Boehm have practically been overwhelmed by the Allies and are fighting to escape destruction.

AUSTRIAN ARMY DEFEATED.
LONDON, Sept. 30. The Russians surround the Austrian army at Douklo, and the defeat of the latter is complete. The Czar's army captured 600 military auto-cars and a large quantity of war material.

GERMANS MEET WITH HEAVY LOSSES.
PARIS, Sept. 30. The Germans have been repulsed with heavy losses in the Northeast, where they attacked Trarcy Le Mont near Forest of Aigle. Violent fighting has continued in the Wasque, district where the French are advancing. There is a full in the centre. The French have retaken St. Mihiel.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN PROGRESS.
PETROGRAD, Sept. 30. The Germans were repulsed in their attempts to cross the Niemen. Heavy fighting continues in the Suwalki district. The Austrians have been repulsed at Dukla, Galicia. Fighting has been reported at Tarnow for 24 hours.

AUSTRIANS REINFORCED.
AMSTERDAM, Sept. 30. The Austrians are sending fresh troops into North Eastern Hungary to stem the Russian advance.

AUSTRIAN WARSHIP REPORTED SUNK.
ROME, Sept. 30. A report from Milan says an Austrian warship was sunk while trying to escape from Cattaro.

ITALY PROTESTS TO AUSTRIA.
ROME, Sept. 30. Italy has protested to Austria against sewing the Dalmatian coast with mines.

THE FALL OF TUNG TAU.
PEKIN, Sept. 30. The fall of Tung Tau is imminent.

KING CHARLES SUMMONS CABINET.
ROME, Sept. 30. A correspondent reports that a message received at Rome from Bucharest, says King Charles has summoned a Cabinet session to-morrow to decide the attitude of Roumania toward the war.

Dear Sir,
We beg to draw your attention to the advantages offered, both in the way of security and privacy, by our Safety Deposit system which has recently been installed in our vault. The system is the most modern and complete that is known, and is deposited in a vault of exceptional strength and safety. The boxes are individual and can only be opened with the joint aid of the key in the possession of the Company and of that in the custody of the customer. They are of solid metal and are arranged in nests of fifty, so that no box can be removed from the vault separately from the rest.
The boxes are rented at $4.00, $5.00 up to $20.00 a year, according to size.
An inspection of the installation is invited.

The German Way.
 News comes to-day that the German military Governor of Brussels has suspended the Mayor of Brussels, Burgomaster Max, from his office, and incarcerated him in a fortress on account of his irreconcilable attitude. In other words, the German military governor could not bend to the German way of thinking and doing the gallant Belgian Mayor, and he imprisoned him. All honour to the gallant Mayor. Now what is the German way? A German journal tells us. The Lokal-Anzeiger announces officially that the Belgian press now appears in German, and glazes over it, as the right way of handling a people. The people not using German must be made to use German. The German Governor has been armed with the power to introduce "German discipline and order." The land that has been laid low "belongs whole and undivided to the German people." One of its military correspondents writes: "In my opinion all Belgium must become German, not in order that a few million rascals may have the honour of belonging to the German Empire, but so that we may have her excellent harbours and so be able to hold the knife under the nose of the English, cowardly England."

English people fully realize this, and the German newspaper is putting into concrete form what every Englishman knows. By all accounts the German retreat from Northern France has begun, and there is good ground for the hope that within a week or so, we shall learn from the British War Bureau that the British and French will be waging war on the German lines in Belgium. The German way of handling the Belgium people will but fire them to greater determination in the next step of the campaign which is to drive the Germans out of Belgium completely. The battle of the Marne was a long and costly operation, but it was successful. The battle of the Aisne is much longer, but by the end of the three weeks, there appears to be good ground for the hope that the Germans will be driven to their next line of defence along the Sambre and the Meuse with Mauberge, Charleroi, Namur, Hirson, Rocroi, and other points in this section of the defence. How long they can hold these lines and what it will cost to root them out, it is idle to surmise; but out they must go. That will be the British, French and Belgian answer to the German way of doing things.

Passing of Rev. W. M. Mair.
 Yesterday, Rev. Dr. Fenwick received the following message from Mr. Jordan Milroy, of Old Perley: "I am sorry to report that Mr. Mair died this morning. Rev. C. R. Blount from Lower Island Cove is here now. Arrangements are being made for burial here. The late Rev. W. M. Mair was a Scotsman by birth. His health had been impaired for many months past and his passing was not altogether unexpected. He labored in St. Anthony, Grand Falls and Old Perley where he was always esteemed and cherished by his parishioners as he was a most devoted pastor. He was a valued exponent of Methodism and will be sorely missed by his flock. Quiet and unostentatious, he was a most sincere man. He is survived by a widow and two children to whom the Telegram extends its deepest sympathy."

From St. Pierre.
GERMANS IN FULL RETREAT.
 The following bulletin is posted at St. Pierre as sent from New York to-day: Believe all German lines in full retreat London gets a report of a complete withdrawal by the Germans all along the entire battle front, and a retreat from French soil. The official statements while pointing to a decisive victory fail to confirm reports. The allies it is believed are holding back news until the movement is concluded. The Germans captured Alst and the town is burned. Italy is evidently ready to fight. She protests to Austria about Adriatic mines.

Reids' Boats.
 The Argyle has not been reported since leaving Placentia. The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.40 a.m. to-day. The Clyde leaves Lewisporte this afternoon. The Dundee arrived at Port Blandford at 7 p.m. yesterday. The Elsie arrived at Clarendville at 7.30 a.m. yesterday. The Glencoe left Port aux Basques at 5 a.m. to-day. The Home is due at Lewisporte to-day from north. The Kyle is still north of Twillingate. The Lintrose leaves North Sydney to-night. The Meigle is due at Humbermouth to-day from north. The Sagons left Carbonear at 2.45 p.m. yesterday, going north.

Sulphate of Ammonia.
 St. John's Gas Light Company.
 Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures. Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

 WITH KING'S OWN HUSSARS.
 Albert Piercy, of this city, who was a steward on the s.s. Oceanic at the time she was wrecked off the coast of Scotland, is now a soldier in the defence of the Empire. Writing to his mother a few days ago he stated that he enlisted in Southampton on August 12th in the King's Own Hussars. He was sent to Bristol Barracks for formation drill for 10 days and then on to Longmore Camp where he is at present. When he was in Bristol Barracks there were five thousand recruits there, consisting of old soldiers, sailors, waiters, clerks, tradesmen, sweeties and a number of wealthy men. In the Camp, Lord Torington and his party enlisted as troopers with the same pay and same accommodation as he (Piercy) was getting.

McMurdo's Store News.
 THURSDAY, Oct. 1st, 1914.
 With the advent of the cold weather the need of a fat and warm-producing tonic is often felt. Morrola will fill this want, if used faithfully. Compound of Cod Liver Oil so flavored as to destroy its unpleasant taste and odor, combined with Iron and Wine, its beneficial effects are promptly felt in cases of general ability and nervous exhaustion, anemia, impoverished blood, loss of appetite, malnutrition, atonic dyspepsia, and in convalescence after severe illness. It is quite easy to take, and is serviceable in many cases of cough and cold, bronchitis, catarrh and lung and throat troubles—the result of its value as a reconstructor and stimulant. It is suitable for children as well as adults. Price $1.00 a bottle.

 Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
 Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disabled for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

SHOT CAPTAIN AND OFFICERS.
 Special Evening Telegram.
 VENICE, To-day.
 The captain and all the officers of the Austrian steamer Radm, chartered to carry coal for the Austrian Navy have been arrested and summarily shot at Castle Nuovo, Dalmatia, on suspicion that they were selling information to French warships regarding the position of mines in the Adriatic. The floating mines in the Adriatic have caused nineteen deaths which has aroused Italian feeling against those responsible.

LOOKING AFTER SCHOOL GIRLS.
 Special to Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. Miss Daisy Pollock of San Francisco, has been delegated by the International Women's Relief Committee to take 38 German school girls from England back to Germany. She will leave to-morrow, and on her return will bring back to England an equal number of English school girls.

GAINING IN THE EAST.
 PARIS, To-day. The following official communication was issued last night: The general situation is satisfactory. There has been no change of any account on the front except for the mouth of Woivre, where we have occupied Sehepre Island and advanced as far as slope of Rupt-de-Mace.

GERMANS LOOKING FOR VICTORY.
 BERLIN, To-day. No official news from the western battle ground has been received since last night. Newspapers have not been informed by their correspondents regarding the general engagement which is progressing and details not known here. Archduke Frederick of the Austrian forces in army orders to-day declared that a new and great victory was imminent in the western camp of Germans, according to despatches received here from Vienna.

BRUSSELS HIT-GOASTMASTER IN FORTRESS.
 LONDON, To-day. The following official despatch has been received by wireless from Berlin: The German Military Government of Brussels has announced by public poster as follows: I have found myself obliged to suspend Burgomaster Max from his office on account of his irreconcilable attitude. He is now in honorable custody in a fortress.

GENERAL SITUATION DISTINCTLY GOOD.
 LONDON, To-day. The 19th day of the battle of the Aisne finds the allies armies pushing with all the strength they can bring to bear in their great effort to outflank the German right wing and force it back from its line of communications through Belgium. There is evidence that this movement is beginning to tell, and that unless something unforeseen happens this portion of the German army must fall back on another defensive line. A French official report issued this morning stated that the French had now been pushing toward Cambrai, as yesterday it was in the neighborhood of Albert. Even further north than this the French cavalry were operating last night, and the German forces were sent to Orchies, 16 miles southeast of Lille to punish France's Tierceur for an alleged attack on a German hospital at that place, met by a superior force and had to fall back. The Germans too admit they have been unable to stop the allies' pushing against their right, and also that the allies have advanced on their right front. Indeed there seems to be some agreement among the official reports of both belligerents on the events in this part of the battlefield. The German reports refer to the advance of the allies, while the French communications say that a vigorous attack made by Germans on Tracey-Le-Mont, northwest of the forest of Aisne, was repulsed with heavy losses. Of course these reports may refer to different incidents, but they nevertheless agree that the advantages are with the allies. In the centre, from Rheims to the Meuse, the armies still appear to be waiting for the outcome of the fighting on the wings, as there has been a lull in the battle there between the Argonne and the Meuse. Again at Woivre there has been no fighting. The French claim to have made slight progress and have advanced at several points, especially at St. Michael of Aisne, where the French staff is very sparing with its information. It is evident the forces which advanced from Toul oppose the Germans who crossed the Meuse near St. Michael have succeeded in getting behind the small contingent of invaders who had successfully carried out the attempt to bend the French line at this point. Other offensive movements by the French between Verdun and Toul were however, to a German report, repulsed. In Lorraine and in the Vosges there has been no change in the situation. Here two armies seem to be waiting the result of the greater contest going on further west, where British military experts believe the allies have at last firmly set the claws of their left on the German right wing under General Von Kluck.

BOMBARDING ANTWERP.
 Special Evening Telegram.
 LONDON, To-day. An official communication issued at Antwerp says: The German artillery during the day continued the bombardment of the first line of forts on the Meuse. Our works suffered little and were still in a condition to make effective resistance. Between the Seine River and Reeth no movement of the enemy's forces occurred in the circle from the Scheldt to the Seine. Darling and violent German attacks have been repelled by the Belgians, who were well supported by their artillery. The German losses were proportionate to the tenacity of their attacks in the direction of Termonde. Offensive movement was of great importance, consisting of a long distance cannonade which had no appreciable effect on the detachment of our troops, guarding the approaches to the town between Rivers Dendre and Scheldt. There is no notable change. In short the German bombardment has produced no result commensurate with its violence. The morale of our troops remains excellent and their confidence is admirable as proved by the successful resistance of all German infantry attacks.

ALLIES WATCH DARDANELLES.
 LONDON, To-day. An official communication issued at Antwerp, says a London despatch from Constantinople states that newspapers explain that the closing of the Dardanelles is due to the fact that English and French cruisers are attempting about the mouth of the Dardanelles, examining merchant steamers. It is asserted that the Straits will remain closed until the allied fleet departs.

RUSSIAN SPIRITS TOTALLY PROHIBITED.
 PETROGRAD, To-day. The Minister of Finance to-day received orders to the effect that the prohibition of the sale of vodka shall be continued indefinitely after the end of the war. This order has been originally on the tremendously improved condition of the country since the Emperor issued his edict prohibiting traffic in this liquid.

Exciting Great Apprehension
 VENICE, To-day. The news of the beginning of the Russian invasion of Hungary is exciting the greatest apprehension throughout the monarchy. Work on the fortifications around Vienna is being hastened. Asiatic cholera is spreading rapidly, cases being reported daily in Vienna and various districts of Hungary. Scores of cases have already been found in Galicia whence the disease has spread to other parts.

MILLIONS FOR LABOR.
 NEW YORK, To-day. According to the New York American, John D. Rockefeller is preparing to spend a goodly share of his vast wealth for the cause of labor. The American learns that the Rockefeller Foundation has been endowed with $100,000,000 and has chosen Mackenzie King, former Canadian Minister of Labor, as a special investigator of labor conditions. The scope of his work is understood to be as wide as the Continent of North America.

BRITISH SEIZE CONTRABAND IN AMERICAN SHIPS.
 WASHINGTON, To-day. Britain's intention to seize goods which may be classed as conditional contraband was announced at the State Department yesterday by the British Ambassador who called to explain the despatches stating that two cargoes of copper, shipped from the States to the Krupp Gun Works in Germany, had been seized and diverted to England. He said the said copper was to be used in connection with the manufacture of torpedoes and it came distinctly under the classification of conditional contraband. Payment for this full value of the cargoes has been remitted to the American shippers, and it is understood that a similar course will be pursued in such cases in future. Earlier in the day the Senate had passed a resolution asking the State Department to report as to whether the British Government was interfering with shipments of Americans in neutral ships to Rotterdam. No announcement has been made as to the attitude of the Department would be toward Britain's action. Some officials, however, were inclined to think there was no ground for claiming there has been a violation of International Law.

GERMAN FLEET DRIVEN OFF BY RUSSIANS.
 PARIS, To-day. A petrograd despatch dated Sept. 30 says: Details of a naval engagement which occurred on Sept. 24th off the coast of Windsu, the Russian seaport of the Baltic, have been made public. It appears that a German squadron comprising forty ships of all classes appeared off the harbor and were prevented from landing forces by a heavy fire from the forts. One officer and two sailors were killed and three more drowned. The ships withdrew, but on the day following two cruisers returned and opened fire and destroyed the lighthouse. They killed a civilian and a number of soldiers but were driven off again by fire from the forts.

FROM THE BATTLE FRONT.
Special Evening Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 1. Yesterday was the 17th day of continued hard fighting along the hundred and fifty miles from the Somme to the Meuse, and there is no definite indication that the historic battle is nearing a finish. There are, however, evidences that the Germans are receding before a forcibly sustained pushing from the Allied armies on their westward and eastern wings, while the centre where the Germans are more strongly entrenched than at any other point, with heavy artillery, remains almost stationary. It is generally concluded by French military men that some important move must soon be made by the Germans, who have found it impossible to stem the advance of the Allies, which they have opposed with sternest and most desperate resistance, sacrificing thousands of men daily. The German army appears as though falling back on the centre, leaving some loop-holes for a backward movement by way of Bethune. The German main supply base is in Lunéville, which is protected by heavy masses of troops, as it is absolutely necessary that this place shall be held for re-organizing. The German armies in Northeastern France appear to be placed in a somewhat precarious situation, with its single line of railroad. The line of battle has changed considerably since the beginning of the actual contact between the two great armies, whose numbers and real positions are not permitted to be made public. The front now presents serious windings, looping inward and outward at various points in a country which is everywhere wonderfully adapted to defence. The Allied commanders are husbanding their men's lives to the greatest possible extent by keeping them from frontal attacks on positions where the Germans are in advantageous situations, but whenever the plan of campaign necessitates direct attacks, the French and British soldiers go forward cheerfully with the utmost confidence in their leaders.

GUN FACTORIES WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

ROME, Oct. 1. Factories manufacturing big guns are working night and day to finish a supply of modern cannon, which have been ordered for the Italian army. The firms hope to be able to hasten work to such an extent that the whole army will be provided with these cannons in a few weeks. An order has been issued to hasten the preparation of a supply of ammunition and provisions for the troops.

MAMMOTH AEROPLANE SHIPPED TO ENGLAND.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. The mammoth aeroplane America with which Lieut. Porte, R.N., had expected to fly across the Atlantic, was shipped to England yesterday. The America is said to be the world's most powerful aeroplane. On one occasion it flew with ten men and a quantity of gasoline aboard, a lift of approximately 2,000 pounds. It was equipped with two 100 horse power engines, and planes were in the works to add a third engine of a same power to its equipment.

MORE BRITISH OFFICERS KILLED.

LONDON, Oct. 1. In an official report of casualties among British officers in despatches under date Sept. 24 and 26, from General Headquarters, are included five killed, sixteen wounded, one died of wounds and two missing. Among the wounded is Brigadier General Frederick Wink, commanding the Third Division of Royal Artillery. Brigadier Wink won distinction in the South African War where he took part in many important operations and in the defence of Ladysmith.

CABLE CONNECTIONS CUT OFF.

LONDON, Oct. 1. A despatch from Copenhagen says that all cable connections between Sweden and Germany have been interrupted since Tuesday, as a consequence it is stated, of the great lack prevailing. It is reported that Germany has been without any foreign mail since last week. The Danish Government is issuing a domestic state loan of $15,000,000.

KILLED BY A SHELL.

LONDON, Oct. 1. In a despatch from Antwerp, a correspondent to Reuter says that four wounded men and two women were killed by a shell which pierced the roof of a hospital at Lierre during the German bombardment.

Masons Good-Bye to their Volunteers.

A large gathering of the Masonic brethren assembled at the Temple last night to bid farewell and God-speed to the craftsmen who have enlisted with the First Newfoundland Regiment. The chair was occupied by District Grand Master, E.C. Wor. Bro. J. A. Clift, who was supported by the District Grand Master, S.C. Wor. Bro. C. R. Duder, and several distinguished members of the District Grand Lodges. In all, thirty members of the Masonic Order are connected with the Regiment, either as volunteers for active service or assisting the regiment, and of these twenty-seven were present last night and occupied prominent seats. When they entered the Lodge room they were greeted with hearty cheers. After prayer had been said by Bro. Rev. W. H. Thomas, Chairman of Whiteway Lodge, the hymn "O God our help in ages past" was sung. Then followed an address from District Grand Master Clift, who referred to the occasion as a unique one. He expressed the great interest of the craft in the volunteers, and reminded them that they would be fighting with many distinguished brethren from the Homeland and the Overseas Dominions. He referred to the great principles for which the Order stood, and on behalf of the Masons under the jurisdiction over which he presided as District Grand Master, he wished them God-speed, good-luck and a safe return. Bro. Lieut. H. H. Goodridge then sang "Rule Britannia," the chorus of which was heartily taken up by the whole gathering.

This was followed by an address from the District Grand Registrar, Wor. Bro. J. Alox Robinson. Referring to the occasion which had called them together, he paid a glowing tribute to the volunteers present for their patriotism, as well as to all those at the camp who had enlisted with the Regiment. He especially commended the sacrifices made by the fathers and mothers of the lads, who have given their sons for the defence of the Empire. Newfoundland well knows the protection extended to her by the Motherland, and the noble response of her sons to rally round the flag is merely an appreciation of that protection. The address was a masterly and inspiring one, and the applause with which the speaker was greeted was but a faint expression of the unbounded patriotism felt by all present at last night's gathering.

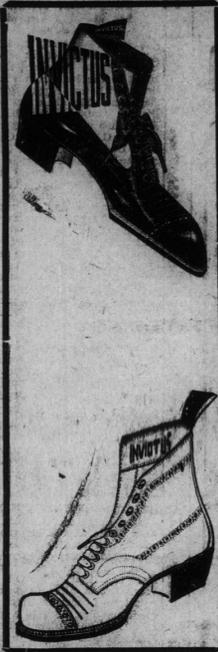

Bro. Capt. A. E. Bernard then sang the "Marseillaise" with much expression and the chorus was enthusiastically sung. District Grand Master Duder followed with a brief address, endorsing the remarks of the previous speakers, and on behalf of the Scotch jurisdiction wished the volunteers God-speed and a safe and victorious return.

"The King," a song with a good chorus, was sung by Wor. Bro. W. Corrick, after which the Capt. Franklyn, on behalf of the Masonic volunteers, expressed his appreciation of this recognition and his confidence that the men would give a good account of themselves.

Treating One's Body Fairly.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine showed me her new home the other day. It was both attractively and conveniently furnished except for one thing. In all the house there was no couch of any sort. In the living room, to be sure, was a beautiful evenport, but it was elegantly upholstered and no one would ever dare lie down upon it. Now don't you call that a great omission? I do. Think what it means. In the here-and-there five minutes which almost every housekeeper contrives to snatch out of her morning's work, this woman can never fling herself down and get the full return in rest and recreated powers which the relaxation of a recumbent position gives. She must either sit upright in a chair or go upstairs, turn back one of her immaculate spreads, take off her shoes and lie down on a bed,—which of course she would never do for five minutes rest.

My ideal house is to have two comfortable couches in the big living room, one furnished with a comfortable pillow and some sort of coverlet, to lie flat upon, and one a reading couch; and on the verandah there are to be two couch hammocks, one placed advantageously for morning conditions, the other for afternoon. And whenever I get a chance for five minutes rest I shall lie down in one of these places. Most people lose a great deal of energy by standing when they might sit and sitting when they might lie down.

Now the happiness you can get out of life and the usefulness you can put into both depend on the amount of energy you have. Therefore, it is not worth while to learn to conserve that energy in every way possible? A half hour, ten minutes or even five minutes of perfect relaxation on a comfortable couch at just the right moment may change the color of your day.

A light digestible lunch with a ten minute rest in the middle of the forenoon is one of my favourite recreative forces. Another is a warm bath. Remember a warm bath for rest always; hot baths are enervating; cold or stimulating; neutral baths are restful. When you cannot stop for a full bath, wash your face and neck, and especially your eyes, in good hot water, and then in cold and you will feel as if you had had an hour's rest. Don't be a hard task master to your own body. Remember it appreciates and responds to consideration, and give it all you can without making it forget its place as your servant, not your master.

French Play.

DELIGHTS NICKEL PATRONS. The artistic French melo-drama "L'Article 47" drew large audiences to the Nickel Theatre last evening, notwithstanding the unpleasant weather. It is an attractive story, exceptionally well acted and all present yesterday were delighted with it. It is a class of drama that suits all tastes and those who could not attend last evening should not fail to do so to-day or they will miss a great treat. The whole programme yesterday was pleasing and the manager was highly complimented. To-day is the last chance to see these beautiful films. Mr. De Witt C. Cairns has another fine song for to-day.

Bell Island's Send-Off TO HER VOLUNTEERS.

The twenty-five Volunteers from Bell Island, who had been given leave to visit their homes, returned to Camp at Pleasantville yesterday afternoon. On Tuesday night they were tendered a dance at the C.L.B. Armory, which was largely attended. The speeches of farewell by Rev. J. Stead, on behalf of the C.L.B., and Capt. L. C. Murphy, were of a touching character, and nearly every person present were deeply moved. Brief speeches were also made by Lieut. W. Lindsay, Sergt. R. Kershaw and Mr. J. M. Greene. The contingent came to Pleasantville at 10 a.m. yesterday by the s.s. Progress, which displayed the Union Jack and other bunting. The squad was accompanied to the beach by the C. C. C. Magistrate Power and a large number of people. An affecting scene was witnessed at the pier, as some of the parents were parting from two sons, and many tears were shed, although the mothers in the main, bore up bravely. At Pleasantville, Capt. L. C. Murphy, of the C.C.C., thanked the people for their kindness, and at the request of Messrs. Hibbs and Harding hearty cheers were given the volunteers. Portugal Cove has already proved its loyalty with its contribution to the Royal Naval Reserve; yesterday's farewell to the volunteers was, therefore, not unexpected. Sergt. Kershaw, who was formerly Lieutenant in the C.L.B., was given the honors Monday night by the officers of that Brigade on Bell Island.

Portia Back After Stormy Trip.

SCHL. NERID A TOTAL WRECK. The bowing coastal s.s. Portia, Capt. J. C. Kean, arrived back from Western Point at 5.30 a.m. to-day, after a very stormy and eventful trip. After leaving here and going west the ship had to contend with a heavy sea, and the return run the weather was continually adverse. From Bonne Bay to Grand Bank dense fogs were occasionally encountered. Then came the storm of Saturday night, which caused such destruction around the coast. The Portia was fortunate in harbouring out of the heavy gale and terrific seas that raged. She reached St. John's at 10 o'clock Saturday night and was completed by the elements to remain there until the following Sunday evening. From then up to last evening rough weather was encountered. The ship brought a large freight and as passengers: Messrs. Chas. Parsons, J. Snow, E. Snow, M. Hutchings, G. Badcock, C. Hollett, McDonald; Mrs. C. Noonan and child; Misses Brace, Hennessey, Luking, Bobbett, Burke, Elysa and 30 second class.

The schr. Nerid, owned by Lake, of Fortune, bound from Sydney to St. Pierre, coal laden, was caught out in the fierce gale of Saturday night and ran ashore at the L'Anse near Lawn. The next day the wind and sea increased in violence and the vessel became a total loss.

Serious Charge Against Old Man.

Sergeant James Kent, of Pleasantville, has just arrived in the city, bringing along with him a prisoner, who is charged with the murder of a young man and who has been committed for trial to the Supreme Court for the charge of rape. The name of the accused is James Lefoe. He belongs to Bar Haven, Pleasantville Bay. This morning he was conveyed in a cab to H. M. Penitentiary where he will remain until called upon to stand his trial.

EDIFYING SIGHT.—At 5.30 this morning the Rev. C. Volontress paraded from Pleasantville to the Cathedral and attended Confession and Communion in a body. The sight was an edifying one.

"Kathleen Mavourneen."

On Friday and Saturday the Crescent Picture Palace will present the I. M. P. three-reel Irish feature: "Kathleen Mavourneen." The scenes for this great feature were photographed in Ireland and show the beautiful Irish scenery in perfection. To-night the same fine show of last night will be repeated. Mr. Knights' singing of Pinaut's "Queen of the Earth" is well worth hearing. Mr. Knights has certainly a powerful and very pleasing voice.

Constipated or Bilious "Cascarets."

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—They work while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, or bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Remember, a Cascaret to-night will sitighen you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear, head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

Frontiersmen Farewelled.

The members of the Legion of Frontiersmen who have volunteered for foreign service were given a farewell concert and supper in the C. I. E. Armory last night. There was a large gathering present including Dr. Wakefield and L. Holloway, who are responsible for the training of the Frontiersmen. The concert was extremely enjoyable and the programme was:—Song, Mrs. Wakefield, "Sailing"; song, Rev. H. Uphill, "The Veteran"; song, Miss Jones, "The Soldier"; song, Mr. Ude, "The Maple Leaf"; "The Battle of Delhi," Mr. Walker; song, Mr. Jones, "The Powder Monkey"; recitation, Mr. Eddy; song and chorus, Mrs. Wakefield and Miss and Mr. Jones, "Sons of the Sea"; song, Miss Jones, "Paddy my own Canon"; song, Mrs. Wakefield, "Boys of the old Brigade"; song, Mr. Jones, "Jack's the Boy"; song, Mrs. Wakefield, "La Marsellaise." Supper was then served by the lady friends of the volunteers and after a short address was made by Mr. T. J. Pagan who referred to the excellent showing and good standing of the Frontiersmen in Newfoundland. Dr. Wakefield replied thanking the previous speaker for his kindly expression. The evening closed with the singing of God Save the King.

United Meeting.

Last night the Cushman and Governor Streets Women's Missionary Societies held a meeting in the Gower St. Sunday School room. Mrs. (Rev.) Hempton presided for the first time. Mrs. (Dr.) Cowperthwaite and Mrs. Joseph Peters gave interesting addresses regarding missionary affairs. The Branch meeting will be held next year at Lunenburg, N. S. Misses Chas. Woods and Taylor rendered enjoyable solos during the evening.

The Syrian Case.

The charge of alleged embezzlement preferred against Solo Wydré upon deposition of Antonio Michael, was heard before Judge Knight yesterday afternoon and occupied the attention of the court up to seven o'clock last night when an adjournment was taken. A number of witnesses gave testimony and were put through some stiff cross-examinations by the lawyers engaged. The case will be continued to-day.

Towed into Trinity Dismasted.

The schr. Margaret R. of King's Cove, which drove to sea in the storm of Saturday last, has been towed into Trinity by the S. S. Ethel with both masts broken out, but the crew were safe and sound. Deputy Minister of Customs, Le-Massurier is in receipt of the foregoing information.

Got Three Months.

Seaman Finney, who was convicted of the larceny of a quantity of new hatches from a Water Street store, as referred to yesterday, was sentenced by Judge Knight, yesterday afternoon to three months imprisonment without the option of a fine. Some of the stolen axes which were missing, were recovered last evening by Constable Tobin.

FAREWELL SHOWER.—On tomorrow the St. Andrew's Society will give a farewell smoking concert to their fellow-members who have volunteered.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesler

The Hand of Destiny

One day there came a man to Placid Inn whom Marian wished to meet, yet whom she felt strangely, inexplicably afraid to meet. He was tall, slim, quiet, and perhaps forty. His dark hair was flecked with gray. He carried himself with a poise, a superior sort of dignity that Marian had rarely seen but always admired. He was well dressed—but not over-dressed. Once, during his first meal at the inn, Marian was conscious that his quietly roving eyes lingered for a moment with an inscrutable expression upon her. An odd flurry of self-consciousness went through her, warning her peculiarly, as though she had been visited by some magnetic current.

"I wonder who the stunning man is?" observed Mrs. McCarrons, calling Marian's attention to him presently. "Looks as though he might amount to something, doesn't he? I hope we meet him." Filled with a diffident fear of meeting this man, as though some clairvoyant presence of coming developments were lifting a warning finger, Marian made studious efforts to avoid being introduced to him. Mrs. McCarrons, however, had contrived to meet him, and several days later, when Marian encountered the McCarrons and the stranger unexpectedly on the verandah, she felt his eyes lingering upon her as he voiced a formal expression of his pleasure at meeting her. He did not pause long, however. He chatted, as though indifferently, for a moment, passed on, and vanished.

"What did you say his name is?" inquired Marian. "Mr. Chalfour," returned Mrs. McCarrons. "I'm glad I found a chance to have you meet him. There's something so unusual about him. That rugged sort of face of his is far more effective than if it were just handsome. I'm getting so that I hate handsome men."

"Who is this Mr. Chalfour?" asked Marian, feigning indifference, after the conversation had drifted away from the newcomer.

"Don't be a perfect fool," said a small warning voice.

Yet the man's odd name, quiet indifference, and eyes which twice had lingered on her, swam like incomprehensible narcotics into her heart and requested the protests of her mental objections.

Painted Faces.

robbed him of his goat. She should be proud of her complexion, to radiant and rich, and yet she keeps a big collection of powders, paints and such. And when she's fixed up for a killing, some Lochivar to chase, blind men might see that she's been spilling such stuff upon her face. "Ah, Cousin Mary, you are silly," quite frequently I scold; "why should you try to paint the lily, or gild the perfect gold? Just leave your face as nature made it, and you'll be slick as cream, but all this dope you use will fade it, and make you look a screw. When you have reached the age of thirty, or maybe, thirty-three, your face will wrinkle and and dirty, a frightful thing to see." But what's the use? Ten million maidens are painting every day; they laugh to scorn our mild upbraidings, and go their foolish way.

 SIR EDWIN LANDSEER died 1873, aged 71. The most celebrated English animal painter of his time. He designed the lions for the base of the Nelson Monument in Trafalgar Square, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral.
 SIR W. V. HARCOURT died 1904, aged 77. Barrister, author and Liberal Statesman. An enthusiastic supporter always of Gladstone, he led his party on the latter's retirement in 1894 for four years. His Finance Act of 1894 resulted in large additions to the Revenue under the head of Death Duties.

TWO CANADIAN SONNETS OF THE WAR.

I.
 Great Britain, I have pondered long to find Great reason for thy great endeavor. Thou so treasured destinies beneath thy brow. Thy smile, thy frown such issues held entwined Within its mood or whim, O, I had dreamed Thee great and silent in the shrieking world. With calm aloofness while the others hurried. Their blood-soaked souls where the wild banners streamed.

Yet seems it could not be. Honor is fine— And must be fought for in the last event. Thou fighest; so my energies are spent In thought of thee, and this faint verse is sign I love thy heart, and know thy dream sublime For mighty issue out of tragic time.

II.
 If red Aggression's hand be in the world It is not England's hand, let this be known; Not eagerly have her war bugles blown. Not readily was her war flag unfurled. Yet is she ready; yea, and eager she; Quenchless, her statesman's spirit fronts the hour. Stalwart her sons march, thrilled by that old power. In veins of England, Love of Liberty! Failure? The word we know not, and between The thing and us moves the embannered night Of fifty sainted armies wed with Right; To guard us now, to make our battle keen, Sweep on those glimmering regiments of the soul Of England, to the inevitable Goal! —Arthur L. Phelps.

At Litledale.

On Tuesday, the Feast of St. Michael, the pupils of Litledale Academy presented to His Grace the Most Rev. Archbishop Howley, an address of congratulation with an exquisitely embroidered gift and a bouquet of choicest flowers. After the presentation a varied programme was rendered, two numbers of which deserve special mention. One—a beautiful vocal solo by Miss O'Brien, niece of the Rev. Father O'Brien, P.P., of Tor's Cove, and second, a masterpiece of elocution by Miss Mary Morris of Beaconsfield. These young ladies are ex-pupils of Litledale and it was a delightful pleasure for the Sisters to welcome their young friends and listen again to the familiar strains that had so often echoed in that same class-hall. His Grace at the close of the concert, made a pleasing reference to this fact in thanking the artistes. With his many friends we cordially wish His Grace ad multos annos.

Suggests Dance.

Dear Sir,—Now that the time is drawing near for the Volunteers to leave their native land, why not give them a farewell dance in the Prince's Rink; I am sure the managers of that place would give the Rink for the night free, and either of the hands in the city would be only too pleased to give them their services free, and it would be the opportunity for lots of the friends of the lady to wish them good bye and God speed; as the weather is not too fine just now to have band concerts at Pleasantville, I am sure the boys would appreciate a good old time dance better than anything else we could do for them. It only needs to get some of the committee men started, and then they will have their dance.

Thanking you for space, I remain, Yours sincerely,
 Friend of the Volunteers.

Shooting Accident

A serious accident happened to Herbert Martin, on Monday evening, which may cost the unfortunate fellow the loss of his left hand. Accompanied by Gordon Harris and Joseph Butt he left on a shooting expedition in the vicinity of the Blackhead Road. On seeing some game Harris took aim and fired, but the gun failed to respond. Herbert Martin took the gun from Harris to examine it when it suddenly exploded, shattering Martin's left hand terribly, blowing the third finger completely off. Harris rendered first aid as best he could. In the meantime, Mr. Erikson, who lives nearby, harnessed his horse and drove the unfortunate fellow with all haste to Dr. Burden's surgery. On examination by the doctor the victim was ordered to hospital, where it is doubtful if the left hand will be saved.

Summer Hotels.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Sitash."

A summer hotel is a large place with a porch in front of it and a bin for the day's proceeds underneath.

Owing to the great cost of lumber, wall paper and air it costs almost as much to build a summer hotel as it does to rent a room with bath for a month in one of them.

Summer hotels are situated in places as remote from a real summer as possible and depend for their success upon the chilliness of the interior. If the proprietor can keep a fire in the grate all summer without over heating his guests his place is a great success and people come from all parts of the country to shiver in it.

Shivering is very unpopular in the winter and is confined mainly to the poor and unstylish. But people eagerly spend large sums in August to acquire a blue complexion with goose-flesh trimmings.

Nothing makes a woman prouder than to sit on a away-backed bed in a summer hotel with a blanket around her at 9 p.m. and to write, "My teeth are positively chattering," on a souvenir card, which she will send later to a friend in St. Louis.

Prices at summer hotels range from $1.00 a day upward. In this latter business they are like aeroplane-boys. On names alone Jim's one big noise. Let's see what he can do.

To start with he can pitch good ball although he isn't very tall and doesn't run to weight. In nineteen-six he first played pro with Corelle, Georgia. That, you know, is Tyous Raymond's state. It took our Jimmy six long years in bush to make the big league cars take on an upward pick. Then Lavender from green turned ripe and joined the Cubs. It seemed a pipe he had the goods to stick.

Warm weather pitchin's Jimmy's meat. In summer he's a job to beat, he seems to have 'em all. He's even coin to cop a win most any-time they stick him in, 'cept early Spring or Fall. Since Jimmy left the short-stemmed trees he's had three managers to please—Chance, Evers and O'Day. That sure looks like he's got the goods or he'd have been back in the woods by now, on tanktown pay.

Marine Notes. The S. S. Durango is expected to leave Halifax to-day for here. The barq. Gaepe is now ready to sail for Pernambuco with a load of fish. The R. M. S. Mongolian is due here Sunday from Liverpool.

Here and There. EXPRESS ARRIVES. — The Lin-treese express arrived in the city at 2 P.M. to-day. EARL OF DEVON. — The Earl of Devon looks like he's got the goods or he'd have been back in the woods by now, on tanktown pay.

French and Joffre

ARE EXHIBITING NEW FLANKING MOVE AGAINST VON KLUCK.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The desperate fighting still in progress north-west of Noyon may decide the battle of the Aisne.

In this region the Allies are pushing the flanking movement after giving ground yesterday morning before superior numbers.

The battle now raging is in the vicinity of Roye, where the Germans massing troops rushed from the centre, are struggling to save St. Quentin, the key to their communications with Belgium.

It is assumed here that General Kitchener and General Joffre have organized and put in motion a new flanking force, assembling the units at Doullens, Calais, Dinanque and possibly Oetend, transporting them by railway, highways, and rivers for a hammer stroke at a critical moment.

If this be true, and the new army is of great strength, the Germans must withdraw or be cut off from their communications with Belgium. The most conservative of military writers are at one on this point. And withdrawal toward Belgium, even if it may be cut off from General Von Kluck, which would compel him to fall back against Von Buelow, and so knock down, pillar by pillar, the whole structure of German defence.

Details of the news are most reassuring. It seems that the Germans west flank, the western face of von Kluck's army and probably von Boehm's army, has been driven from seven to ten miles in the past 36 hours from Roye and Jernone north-west and southwest toward St. Quentin, where the fighting at the west end of the battle line is centred with extreme violence.

That French cavalry raiding near Le Catelet and Reisel, have destroyed the railway running to Bonchamps, Denail and Valenciennes and that the whole system of German communications with Belgium is disintegrating.

There are reports of dreadful slaughter. It is unofficially said that all available guns have been diverted by the Germans to the west flank and that these guns have been the Allies' dearly. Events justify the contention that the German right wing, near St. Quentin, has been weakened their centre in order to supply men and guns to the Imperial army of von Kluck.

The Allies, while constantly reinforcing their left and strengthening the flanking movement, have added weight to their centre. They bent back the German line yesterday east of Rheims, the first ground surrendered by the invaders in that quarter for several days.

From Boncourt comes this reflection of official opinion that, after 13 days, the critical stage of the battle of the Aisne has not yet been reached. It is stated that the numbers of the Allies are constantly growing. The French and British are heading all their efforts against the German right. The comparative relaxation of the German efforts in the centre and left is believed to indicate the withdrawal from those regions to support the west flank.

Best Liniment of All Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns.

"How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mrs. E. P. Lamontagne from her home near Westport, Alberta. "In this far-away section, far away from a doctor, a druggist, every family needs a good supply of thisment. Nerviline is the best of all. It destroys every pain, but never burns. We use Nerviline in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism, aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck—you can laugh at them if you have tried of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps, I don't think anything could act more quickly. For a general ailment, Nerviline is a sure thing. I can think of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline."

The above letter is convincing—it tells how reliable and trusty this old-time remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada. Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing, warming and safe for young and old to use. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; it's the most economical. Small trial size, 25c. at any dealer's anywhere.

WILL RAISE OVER 4,000 MEN. Special to Evening Telegram. MONTREAL, Sept. 30. The proposal to form a French-Canadian Regiment for active service will probably widen into a much larger scheme. Instead of enrolling one thousand men for service, the recruiting officers will try to raise over four thousand men. Col. Joseph Landry, Commander of the Fifth Militia Division will probably be the officer chosen to command this brigade of French-Canadians when formed.

"Barbarians," is Cry of Anatole France.

Paris, Sept. 22.—Anatole France, the famous author, has addressed the following letter to the editor of Guerre Sociale as a protest against the bombardment of the Rhemns Cathedral:

"My Dear Herve—I send to Guerre Sociale my indignant protest against the destruction of the cathedral at Rheims. The barbarians have burnt, involving the blessing of the God of Christians, one of the most magnificent monuments of Christianity. They have thus covered themselves with eternal infamy and the German nation has become execrated by all thinking men.

"Who, in the face of this, can doubt that they are really barbarians and that we are fighting for civilization. The war will be fought without mercy, but we as soldiers fighting for the right will remain worthy of our cause. We will continue to the end to show that we are magnanimous as well as victorious.

"As you say, today we will inflict pitiless vengeance upon the criminals, but we will not stain our victory by any similar crimes upon their soil. When we have conquered their last army and have reduced their last fort, we will proclaim that the people of France will again receive in friendship the conquered enemy."

An ambulance assistant who was present at the bombardment of Rheims told today of the manner in which four Sisters of Charity met death. They had taken refuge in a wine cellar, when a shell burst through a wall a yard thick as though it had been of paper. A mass of rubble fell upon the sisters. When the ambulance assistant, who knew of their whereabouts, went to try to aid them, he found their bodies crushed and lifeless, floating in a pool of wine from the broken vate.

Where Responsibility Lies. No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that it is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When fifty offices in St. John's have found it necessary this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. — sept. 27

Wrath Will Fall on the Kaiser.

Seattle Sun.—"And there is more than a chance that, in case the Allies do succeed, they will be inclined to 'crest' Emperor William individually, ally somewhat along the same lines as the little Europe treated Napoleon I. after the battle of Waterloo. The Kaiser has been regarded by England and France for many years, whether rightly or wrongly, as a foe to permanent peace, and it is on the Kaiser that their wrath will fall, if he ever gets into their hands."

Allies Bombard Tsing Tao.

Pekin, September 25. — The first Japanese attack against the German works at Tsing-Tao, on the land side in which Allies have figured, was begun to-day. A force of British troops under Brigadier-General Nathaniel W. Barnardiston, 800 Indian Sikhs and Japanese, began bombarding the outer works of the Germans.

The Duty of the Banks.

"Now that the Government is taking risks," says Chancellor Lloyd George, "and the country is taking risks, the banks must take risks, too, and finance business." He warned the British banks that the Government had not come to their aid in order to strengthen their balances or ensure their dividends, but expressly in order to enable them to finance the industries of the country and keep business going. That is plain talk and it applies in Canada as well as in England.—Toronto Star.

Fishery Gear!

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the GILL NETS, used by Messrs. Job Brothers & Co. in the Straits this year. They have been successful at a time when traps had partially failed. We make them in all sizes to order.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of COTTON DRIFT NETS, such as are used in the North Sea Herring Fishery. As the catch of Herring will be interfered with during the war, a good opportunity occurs for use of these Nets in Newfoundland.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the celebrated STANDARD brand of Herring Nets, which is universally acknowledged to be the very best Net on the market. We are now making the CRESCENT brand Herring Net, which is the best and strongest LOW PRICED NET MADE. It is mounted just the same as the Standard Net, and it is barked for preservation, not merely dyed like other cheap Nets.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of SQUID TRAPS, which are now legal; we make them in any size required, to order.

We manufacture TARRED COTTON LINES, all sizes, for Bankers' use; strong, durable and easily handled.

We make COD TRAPS, COD SEINES, CAP-LIN SEINES, ETC., to order, in all sizes.

All the above fishery gear we can strongly recommend, and we would urge our fishermen to patronize articles of home manufacture, in order to give employment, which is so much needed this year.
