CHAPTER XVIII.
Love's Sacrifice.

"I don't like losing money all the same," said Herndale. "Of course, we ought not to be surprised. We've been dealing in shares with great possibilities in them. We've made a lot of money, from time to time, as you know; and if we had pulled off this coup we should have made a very large sum. You can't do that kind of thing without taking the chances, and the chances happening to be against us. That is the whole of it."

Sir Talbot drew a long breath that seemed to come from his heart.

"Quite so, quite so," he said again. "Please believe that I do not hold you in any way to blame. You have been very kind; you have taken a great deal of trouble—it is my fault. I ought to take the loss with equanimity. But I am thinking of Eva. It will make a terrible difference to her, to my girl's future. I was trying to provide for it, that is why."

Herndale glanced at him keenly; then, in his cool, calculating way took a drink of his soda and whisky before he said:

"You need not be anxious about Miss Eva's future, if you will permit me to influence it. I do not know whether you will be surprised or not when I tell you, Sir Talbot, that the great desire of my life is to win Eva for my wife. I love her with all my heart and soul, and I trust that she does not altogether dislike me. With your permission, I will ask her to make my hope a reality. If she says 'yes,' as I sincerely trust she may, the future, about which you are so naturally anxious, is assured."

Sir Talbot lifted his haggard face; his lips were tremulous, a faint hope dawned in his weary eyes.

"I—I can't answer for her, Herndale," he said. "But I may say for myself that I should be glad—that I should welcome you as a son-in-law. But I can't answer—I can't speak for Eva. The decision must rest with her—I could not undertake to influence her."

"Certainly not, certainly not!" said Herndale, with the suspicion of a sneer curling his thin lips. "I should like to have the matter settled. Will you speak to her to-night? I don't think there is any use in postponing the matter."

"Would you not rather speak to her first?" pleaded poor Sir Talbot.

But after smoking in silence for a moment Herndale shook his head.

"I think I would rather you spoke to her," he said. "I am naturally aware of my shortcomings; I am rather a modest man. You will plead my cause better than I can. And I hope you will succeed. I think I'll go now. Oh, by the way," he added, as he rose and lit a fresh cigar, "don't worry about this liability of yours. Of course, if Eva says 'yes,' I'll take the matter over from you. I can manage quite easily."

When he had gone Sir Talbot sank into his easy chair—which he had found anything but easy that night—and buried his face in his hands. Eva found him there, white, wan, and weary, and consumed by a terrible anxiety. She sprang to him and knelt beside him.

"Father, there is something the matter!" she whispered. "I am sure of it! You are altered, ill!"

"No, no!" he said, almost hoarsely. "I want to speak to you, Eva. Lord Herndale has—Eva, have you ever thought of him as—as a husband? Wait! Don't speak until I have told you. I can't tell you all; I scarcely understand it myself; but I am in difficulties—money difficulties. Lord Herndale has been a true friend to me; very kind, very considerate. He can help me, he will do so—he has proposed for you, he wants you to be his wife. If you can say 'yes,' for

And the Worst is Yet to Come—

God's sake do so! I don't want to press you, to influence you. But he that will commend itself to every one, is a good fellow. It is a marriage to your Aunt Emily. It is a good marriage, as good as I could expect for you. Your future will be assured. And I—I—he drew a long breath—"I shall be safe from ruin. No, no! I didn't mean to say that—to tell you."

But he had said it; he had told her. White to the lips, she rose and stood a little way behind him so that he could not see her face. Her hands were clasped tightly; her heart was beating fast, yet heavily. Ruin! She did not know how it had been brought about; but she could see by the terror and the anguish in the pale, working face, that it was true. And she could save him by a word, save the father she loved far better than she loved herself; one trembling hand was stretched out and fell lightly on his shoulder.

"Yes, father," she said, in a voice which sounded in her ears as if it belonged to some one else. "I will marry Lord Herndale."

Herndale came the next morning for his answer; and she went down to him from her own room at once. She was very calm; but very white, and seemed more like an automaton than a sentient human being. Herndale himself was pale and his lips were tightly set.

"Your father has told you—" he said, his eyes fixed on hers with the expression of a fowler who has the bird within his reach.

"Yes," she said, in a low voice, "my father has told me. And I—yes; I will marry you, Lord Herndale."

The man's passion burst into a flame, and he caught her to him. She yielded to his embrace, suffered his kisses, but she gave none in return and said no word.

The following night, before the public announcement of their engagement had been made, she met Owen Osborne at a small party at Aunt Emily's. Eva was looking pale and tired, and Owen Osborne, as he bent over her, grew suddenly grave and troubled.

"You are not well," he said; "you look worried. Is—anything the matter? But I've no right to ask—yet. I'm glad I've met you here to-night. I wanted to ask you to decide for me about this African expedition. I want you to tell me whether I shall go or not. Miss Lyndhurst—Eva—I want the decision to rest in your hands. I want you to decide my whole future for me."

They were alone together in a little recess; no one was within hearing. She looked up at him, her face very white now, her lips tremulous.

"I ought to tell you," she faltered almost inaudibly. "I—I am engaged to marry Lord Herndale."

He did not start, but drew himself erect, his hands clenched at his sides. He looked down at her, his thick brows knit heavily, his teeth set hard.

"Thank you," he said hoarsely. "You have answered, decided for me."

He left her, and, without the formal "Good night" to Lady Lorchester, got his coat and hat and made his way into the street. He strode on for some minutes, his face white and set, as it had been upstairs in the recess. He was so engrossed by his own misery that he did not notice a man who had passed him, but who, after passing him, had stopped suddenly and then turned back. Owen Osborne felt a touch on his arm. He turned almost ferociously and confronted a wrinkled face, which looked as impassive as a mask.

"How do you do, Mr. Osborne?" asked the owner of the masklike face. "You don't remember me? My name's Levison. We met, if you recollect, at Algiers."

Owen Osborne drew his hand across his brow and tilted his opera-hat back. Mr. Levison, as absolutely impassive as ever, glanced up at him.

"You don't remember? Well, it's some years ago. If you recollect, Lord Herndale—the late Lord Herndale, not the present one, of course—was of the party. It's a long time ago now; you were young, very young. Time passes quickly. One forgets."

"I remember now," said Owen Osborne wearily.

The two men walked on together.

CHAPTER XIX.
Wedded Bliss.

Kittie had entered into her earthly paradise.

There are probably on this fair earth of ours many more beautiful places than Quirapata; but to Kittie, only so recently escaped from the London slums, it appeared in all the roseate hues of fairyland, and was a fitting setting for her happiness. And that happiness was, at any rate at present, amazingly complete and perfect. Every hour of the day was a joy to her; she found herself now and again stopping suddenly in whatever she was doing and gazing before her, as if she were trying to realize this great happiness. But her joy would have been as complete and perfect if Quirapata had been one of the ugliest instead of one of the most beautiful places, for she was passionately in love, and knew that she was as passionately loved.

It was her honeymoon, and love's luminary shone without one of the clouds which too often dim the brightness of the early nuptial days, which frequently present a month of boredom. This happy pair did not have time to bore each other, for they both had to work. After the early and plentiful breakfast—it was a land flowing with milk and honey—Lashmore went off to his daily toil. Kittie would stand at the gate and, shading her eyes from the sun, watch him with pride and the woman's joy of possession, as he rode or drove away; watched with admiration his mastery of the high-spirited horse, his perfect seat in the saddle, or the skillful way in which he managed the team which, a minute or two before, had been plunging and rearing all over the place.

Then she would go back to the cottage and set about her own work, and her joy would find expression in singing some of the songs she had sung to the "boys"; and Polly would listen, entranced, to the music of her young mistress' voice, and gasp out, as if she could not restrain herself:

"Lor, ma'am, how beautiful you do sit, gi!"

The cottage was the first real home that Kittie had possessed; for the furnished lodging from which her father and she might have to fly, any moment, the attic in the slums, could scarcely be counted as home; and Kittie resolved that it should be a little House Beautiful. She did wonders with it, and Lashmore's quick eyes noted all her improvements, and was enthusiastic in his appreciation and praise. She wanted a flower-garden, and when he had ratted off a space for her, she set to work, with all a Londoner's joy in the open air; and her song floated now across the billowy plain and up to the Great House, as they called the farm.

A MOST ATTRACTIVE "BUSINESS" DRESS.

Waist—2028. Skirt—2027.

This style is fine for morning wear—to go shopping—for the office—and if made up in right material—it is fine enough for calling or afternoon wear. Note the cut of the waist with its inserted vest pockets, and smart cuffs. And the new lines of the yoke, which overlaps a smart side plait on the skirt, and may serve as a pocket. If one likes this combination of waist and skirt in shantung or linen—it will produce an ideal "sports" dress. On the other hand, the waist of linen and skirt of serge, Jersey cloth or taffeta is equally desirable. The Waist Pattern 2028 is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. It requires 2 3/4 yards of 44-inch material for a 36-inch size. The Skirt is cut in 7 sizes also: 2, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure, and requires 4 1/4 yards of 44-inch material for a medium size. The skirt measures 3 3/4 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

Boots That Fit Your Working Foot

There is nothing like boot comfort for the men who work fast and hard from the start of the trip until the catch is stowed. Never a fisherman buckled on boots so comfortable as "Hipress." For "Hipress" Boots are MOLDED into ONE SOLID PIECE to fit the working foot. No pinching-just solid comfort the whole day long.

And this wonderful ONE PIECE construction, which is used only by The B. F. Goodrich Company, absolutely prevents peeling and cracking. There isn't a chance for "Hipress" Boots to leak.

As to wear-you will find TWICE and often THREE TIMES MORE WEAR in "Hipress" than in any other boots you ever wore, because The B. F. Goodrich Company actually use in these boots the same tough rubber they use in their world famous auto tires!

Ask your dealer for "Hipress" and be sure that there's a "Red Line 'Round the Top'" of your boots. It's the distinguishing mark of genuine "Hipress."

Harden's Warning.

Maximilian Harden was the first, it might almost be said the only, German writer to understand Mr. Wilson's character, aims, and policy, so singularly and constantly misrepresented in Germany. Now, at or near a great turning point of the war, he utters an ingenious paraphrase of the cardinal thoughts of Mr. Wilson's address to Congress, reiterates the gospel of democracy, and tells the Germans in what a fool's paradise they have been living, fed on official promises and reports. He draws the map of German disaster from Bagdad and Persia to Northern France. He shows China turned against Germany. Best informed of Germans as to the American spirit, and the American aim in the war, he shatters the long German legend, spread by a hundred professors, propagandists, journalists, and official echoes, of the "mercenary" and "material" United States. He sees the Entente Allies fighting for a common cause with 100,000,000 Americans who desire for themselves neither land nor money nor even repayment of the cost of the war, and who, with their ideal solution, work upon the nerves of all mankind, confident in the hope of Central America and South America. So, with a side blow at the Pan-Germans, the annexationists, the surviving hopes of victory, with costs, he tells the American reason for entrance into the war. It is an ideal.

It is liberty, democracy, self-government, as he puts it, in veiled language clear as sunlight.

So with the Russians. The Russian to-day sees a goal, on reaching which he hopes to be compensated for all his sufferings. He knows that his ideal, which is now breaking into leaf, must return to darkness if the war brought him only loss. Consequently we must reckon with the possibility, writes the master euphemist, that the Russian will hold out.

Since the Russian will fight for his "ideal" of liberty and democracy; since new and powerful enemies are ranged against a weakening Germany, baffled everywhere; since England is resolute and France has but learned a sterner courage from the senseless destruction of her retreating invaders, it is "madness" to expect the enemy to make overtures of peace, to be weary and disheartened by victories and new strength. That is what Harden says, in effect. Cease feeding on illusions. "Set your house in order."

A solemn eloquence, an appeal for democracy, and a prophecy of it, in these words, carefully chosen and of unmistakable meaning, for all their euphemisms: Our fate depends, not on bits of territory which European States can no longer take away from one another and can no longer hold to their own permanent advantage, but upon the acquisition of higher spiritual values. Elevate the conscience of mankind and light up the German house also! Then what the enemy demands too loudly, but what we in secret feel to be a necessity, will come to pass. The will of the people will be free and Germany will know for what the dearest children of her bosom are dying and suffering!

Mr. Wilson's programme of democracy may be "too loudly" spoken, but the Germans know that German democracy must come. "The will of the people will be free" is the Hardenian way of saying that it "must be free." An utterance more sedulous it would be hard to make. That Harden is permitted to make it, to paint the German military position black, to propose immediate democratization, to insist that only so has Germany any hope, indicates what? That the ruling caste is prepared for the worst, and preparing the people for it?—N. Y. Times.

Fads and Fashions.

Braid is not quite such a fashionable trimming as it was in the winter. Coats are mostly straight in front, but backs are almost sure to be flaring. Some checked suits are made smart by reason of their white braid bindings. Have your suit lined with check and edge the collar and cuffs with the same check. Many of the evening gowns are supported on the shoulders by a mere chain of beads. Rose and grey are a spring combination that is made into frocks of filmy materials. The white silk middie, with edgings of color, are a pretty garment for the little girl. A muslin frock that is made of polka dotted muslin is veiled with navy blue mousseline. Delightful necklaces and pendants are formed of beaded bands, ending in tassels or ornaments. It is a new idea to fasten a frock down the middle of the front with ribbons tied into bow knots. Silver lace for the bodice and rich satin for the skirt will fashion an evening gown of rare beauty. The collars and facings of the new top coats are of a different material from the body of the coat. A wreath of roses worn around the head low on the forehead is a pretty dressing for the evening coiffure.

Smart Blouses!

Our Ladies' Dept. is now displaying a remarkably choice selection of Blouses in Crepe de Chine, Silk and Georgette Crepe. These Blouses are distinctly characteristic in style and illustrate Fashion's latest fancy in sleeves and collars, the former are all long with dainty cuffs, while the latter are very deep and quaintly cut.

The new surplice neck is very much in evidence and the entire stock is as charming and up-to-date as it can possibly be.

The leading colors are Flesh, Coral and Blue, but there is a wide choice of lovely colors, also Black and Black and White.

The True Epic of England.

"The true epic of England lies buried in many thousands of old ships' logs, stained with sea-water, mouldering forgotten," writes Mr. L. Cope Cornford in the Sunday Pictorial.

"But England has been so busy making the epic that she has never found time to write it. Sailing the seas, charting and lighting them, fighting up and down them, trading all the world over, grasping riches hard-fisted, England never thought what she was doing; and has not thought to this day.

"Now she is forced to stop and to consider, for a new thing has come upon her; and after a thousand years of seafaring, the hardihood and skill of British seamen learned in a schooling so long and so bitter, are flowering in a bright red blossom, the wonder of the world.

"Ere the King's navy had imposed the King's peace on all seas, the British seamen went armed, and the merchant captain fought his ship, as the law bade (and still bids) him to fight. Always, soon or late, he proved himself fit to match and overmaster any craft that swam the seas, from Algerine galley of the corsairs to the hundred-gun-line-of-battle ships of the King's enemies. Then, as the navy held the seas secure, the merchantmen for generations sailed unarmed and scathless upon their lawful occasions.

"Suddenly, the seas were haunted by invisible foes, appearing out of the deep, murderous like sharks, striking, slaking and vanishing again. England was at war; no new thing; but never before had England fought a great nation turned pirate.

"Piracy began more than two years ago; and in a moment, without warning, the merchant seaman was in part deprived of the protection of the navy. He was totally defenceless. Upon him, in the same moment, fell the inexorable duty of maintaining the supplies of his country.

"The British seamen was utterly unprepared for the blow. For months after the declaration of war people absolutely refused to believe that Germany would attack commerce with submarines. The present writer, who ventured to foretell the event, was roundly abused for his pains. But, even in the interval, the enemy was dropping mines along the sea highways; and never a seaman left port with any certainty that he would return. But he left port all the same, and groped along the unlighted coasts or sailed upon deep-sea voyages without a word.

"Before Germany turned pirate the ship of many a hapless crew stopped and reeled and settled down, while her people, giddy with the stunning shock of the exploding mine, struggled into their boats, and were drowned, or floated, as it might happen, soaked and destitute, their ship gone, and with it all their possessions. Sometimes after the slow agony of hunger, thirst, and cold, they were picked up; sometimes not.

"Then began the submarine piracy; and the merchant seaman, still unarmed and still unafraid, shut his mouth and put to sea as heretofore. No man had stayed him for a thousand years; was it likely he would stop for a German pirate? He had his business to do, and did it."

The British Attack Again.

To the terrific onslaught and glorious victory of the British army at Arras and Vimy Ridge there succeeded the necessary interval of rest and fresh preparation. The inevitable rejoinder of the enemy came in the form of counter attacks of a fury which almost spoke despair. From Vimy to Monchy the lowlands of the Scarpe are a shambles. The more open nature of the fighting has recalled the first days of the war and again we read of the Germans advancing in massed attacks. They suffered heavily enough from them at Mons and after, but what must the slaughter be beneath the hell of fire that now descends upon them at a moment's warning? Brutal as it may seem, this is the best sort of news we could hear at present. It means that Germany is making a desperate stand, betraying in her frantic efforts her knowledge of the dire necessity of making them; and it means that her army is being reduced by the one terrible process that will alone bring about the end.

The counter attacks have failed and now the British have begun another innings. The Canadians won fresh laurels on Saturday by taking Arleux at a bound and since holding it. The greatest fury of the battle is focussed upon the front between this village and Gavrelle, the spear-head of the attack that is aimed directly at Douai. Probably it will turn north as it progresses and drive a wedge between Lens and Douai, an achievement which would effectually smash the flank of the new German line. A great battle is joined on this small field and great issues rest upon it, probably greater than any that have yet hung in the balance. We can await the event with confidence. This is no Neuve Chapelle or Loos. If need be, the British gun will blast every foot of the way to the point where resistance finally breaks and the human dam crumbles. An unmatched artillery, a peerless infantry and a dauntless spirit—that is what the contemptible little army has grown to. It is a combination that will carry a dozen Hindenburg lines.

Great Men and Great Deeds.

As we go to press the message from Sir Edward Morris to the Governor reaches us. Comment is almost superfluous. No words that we could write could intensify the thrill of pride that must stir every Newfoundlander who reads the glowing tributes paid to our Regiment by the world's greatest newspaper. If we at home shared much of the opinion it expresses, it was not seemly for us to give it utterance; the greater honor is it to hear it from outside. No other unit in the British Army, the Times says, has seen harder fighting, and no other inflicted such losses on the enemy. Many other papers praise it as highly. For the moment there is but one response that we can make. The Regiment has been hard hit. It is our duty, and it will be our dishonor if we do not perform it, to see that the gaps in the brave ranks are filled, and that the Regiment that has won such a place continues to occupy it to the end.

Back From West; Prospero's Stormy Trip

The Bowring coaster Prospero, Capt. Parsons, returned from Western ports at 10.30 a.m., after a stormy trip. She brought a full freight and these passengers in saloon: Const. O'Flaherty, J. Chafe, R. Parsons, B. Lynch, R. Williams, Geo. Foote, C. Lake, H. Slaney, A. Turpin, G. F. Hain, J. Hoban, B. Daley, J. C. Gibbons, S. Hearn, G. Gond, C. Rose, S. Strang, S. Keeping, H. Bobbitt, W. Sutton, G. Rose, R. Roberts, S. Bartlett, F. Fudge, L. E. Pike; Miss Riggs and 30 second class. All along the southwest coast active preparations are being made for the bank and shore fishery. We learn that there is a sign of cod already around St. Mary's.

Steep Incline Negotiated

During a home-week celebration at Walla Walla, Wash., some time ago, a motor-car dealer erected an incline in front of his salesroom for the purpose of demonstrating the hill-climbing abilities of certain automobiles, according to the March Popular Mechanics Magazine. The slanting driveway was extended from the sidewalk curb to the cornice of the one-story building at an angle of 45 degrees. After several machines had failed in an attempt to reach the top of the incline, a young motorcyclist resolved to try the feat. His machine moved to the top of the incline more powerfully than he believed. Becoming somewhat confused, he failed to stop the engine at the point he had planned, and instead of dismounting at the top of the incline, he rode entirely over the cornice and part way across the roof of the building. He managed to slide off the seat just in time to escape accompanying the motorcycle as it plunged through a skylight into the salesroom below.—Popular Mechanic.

SHIPPING HELD UP.—The Reid Nfld. Co.'s coastal boats together with several other ships, which were scheduled to leave port this morning, have been detained owing to the inclemency of the weather.

COMRADES' GLEE CLUB.—All members are requested to attend practice to-night at 9.15 in Presbyterian Hall.—ap30,3i REVOLTING CRIME.—One of the most outrageous and revolting crimes ever heard of in this country was unearthed recently by the authorities in Glovertown, Bonavista Bay. The perpetrator is Redvers Harris, a 17-year-old fisherman of that place, who was continuing the crime for two years past. The victim is a sister, several years younger than the outlaw himself. The prisoner was brought on to the city last night by Detective Byrne. This morning he was arraigned before Judge Morris, who read the charge. The Judge stated that the offence was an indictable one and remanded the prisoner for eight days.

WIRES INTERRUPTED; SLIGHT WASHOUTS.—Owing to the violent snow storm now raging up country the Reid Nfld. Co.'s telegraph wires have been interrupted and as a result communication west of Clarendville is cut off. Early Saturday morning the storm was first felt at the Topicals, when a driving rain and glitter swept the surrounding country, gradually working its way eastward. As night approached a deluge of rain poured from the heavens, making it difficult for the trains to proceed. Several slight washouts have occurred which, aided by the present unusual fall of snow for this period of the year, will undoubtedly cause trouble along the railway. At Shoe Cove and Seal Cove, C.B., the local train for Carbonar which left here this morning was detained for a short time while repairs were being made to the railway bed.

TUESDAY'S COUNTRY STORE.

To-night there is a splendid show at Rossley's, "The Browns", a great sketch carried out by children: Miss Clara Squires as the "Henpecked Husband"; Miss Florence Baird as "Giddy Wife" and clever little Kathleen Barnes as "Pete, the Colored Servant". There are also songs and dances. On Tuesday night the Country Store. Something for the men: The Imperial Tobacco Co. are giving half a thousand of their famous Gem cigarettes as a big present—nearly seven million dollars' worth of cigarettes to one person. There are scores of lovely things for everybody and there are no favourites. First come, first served. Reduce the cost of living and attend the Country Stores on Tuesday and Thursday. All this week Miss Bonnie Rossley will recite the beautiful poem "Fags" and throw cigarettes into the audience. Great show all the week. In preparation, great Indian playlet.

OUR MAGNIFICENT REGIMENT.

"London Times" gives it highest possible praise. Press rings with eulogies of its work.

(Copy of Cablegram from Sir Edward Morris to His Excellency the Governor.)

LONDON, April 30, 1917.

To GOVERNOR, Newfoundland.

Bowring and I returned from Arras to-day. Held a Review and distributed medals. Men in excellent health and spirits. Windsor draft all well. Times publishes leader to-day on Newfoundlanders' operations; it says:

"When the Newfoundlanders were engaged on the Somme they did excellently. In the Battle of Arras they have added new lustre to their reputation. They pushed to the further point of our advance and met the counter attack of the enemy in overwhelming numbers and held the German masses at arm's length. Then came the Newfoundlanders' opportunity, and the next half hour saw such a slaughter of Germans as has only been witnessed once or twice. In the battle no enemy got back and fifteen hundred Germans were found dead. The Newfoundlanders have had harder fighting than any other unit of the British Army, and no troops in proportion to their size have inflicted heavier losses on the enemy."

Other papers write in equally flattering terms. All men in hospitals are doing well.

Good Hopes of Our Missing Men.

Mr. P. E. Outerbridge yesterday received a message from Sir Joseph Outerbridge stating that he held high hopes of the safety of Lieut. Norman Outerbridge and the men who were with him. The message said that no news could be expected from the Red Cross sources for about a month. We infer that Sir Joseph Outerbridge has sufficient foundation for the belief that the missing men are prisoners in Germany, and this, added to the silence from the front, will encourage many here to a similar belief.

CANADIAN APPLES FOR HOLLAND

OTTAWA, To-day. The Trade and Commerce Department has received a cable from the Canadian High Commissioner in England stating that arrangements have been made for shipping 10,000 tons of dried fruit to Holland to be used as a ration and that should Canada be able to ship the dried apples, all shipments must be sent through the Netherlands Overseas Trust and the necessary certificate and permission of the Trust must be secured before the shipment can be forwarded.

ABOUT TIME.

LONDON, To-day. The Stewards of the Jockey Club, at the instance of the Government, have cancelled the 1917 racing fixtures that were to have been run off after the first spring meeting. The step was taken with a view to saving food-stuffs which are now diverted to the racing stables. The cancellation of the summer racing dates will prevent the running of such classic events as the Derby, the Oaks, Ascot, the Derby Eclipse, Jockey Club and St. Leger stakes.

STIRRING MESSAGE FROM JOFFRE TO U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Marshal Joffre told the people of America to-day, through Washington newspaper correspondents who called upon him, that France cherished the confident hope that the flag of the United States soon will be flying on her battle lines. "The victories sure to be won by the soldiers of the two Republics once more fighting shoulder to shoulder for liberty," declared the hero of the Marne, "will hasten the end of the war and brighten the links of affection and esteem which have ever united France and the U.S. The heroism and resolution of the soldiers of France indeed deserve all the affection the U. S. has shown them. After having in a supreme effort defended and thrown back the barbarous enemy, the French Army untiringly labored to increase and perfect its efficiency. Now in the third year of the war it is attacking the enemy with greater vigor and material than ever before. Side by side with it, animated by a no less heroic spirit, stands the British Army whose formation and development remain the admiration of the world. The Germans have realized its wonderful growth. Every encounter has made them feel the increasing menace of its strength. The contempt they pretended to feel for it in the early days of the war has gradually become a dread, more avowed each day. Led by this illustrious President, the United States has entered into this war by the side of the French in the defence of the ideals of mankind. The place of America is marked. France, which has long recognized the valor of the American soldier, cherishes the confidence and hope that the flag of the United States will soon be unfurled on our fighting line. This is what Germany dreads. France and America will see with pride and joy the days when their sons are, once more fighting shoulder to shoulder in defence of liberty. The victories which they will certainly win will hasten the end of the war and will brighten the links of affection and esteem which have ever united France and the United States."

PETAÏN TO BE CHIEF OF STAFF.

PARIS, To-day. General Petaïn, who commanded the French Army defending Verdun during the critical stages of the battle of February and March, 1916, is to be appointed Chief of Staff. The Ministry of War Cabinet decided upon the appointment yesterday afternoon.

WAR REVIEW.

LONDON, To-day. The three miles of territory stretching from Arleux-en-Gobelle to Gavrelle is still the scene of the great battles for supremacy between the British and Germans, and in them the British continue to hold the advantage. Another trench system, a barrier to the forward march of Field Marshal Haig's forces toward Douai, has been taken over a front of a mile in the most sanguinary fighting. The new position lies south of Oppy and runs almost to the outskirts of Gravelle. The British went into the fray with their usual spirit of intrepidity. The Germans resisted strongly, but King George's men would not be denied, and soon drove out the defenders from the position and entered it. Counter attacks launched by the Germans were unavailable. At the close the British were in full possession. Their new gain is appreciably a better position than previously for the continuation of their offensive eastward toward Douai. When dawn broke over the battlefield on Sunday it found the Canadians holding tenaciously Arleux-en-Gobelle, which they had captured on Saturday in a thrilling battle. Their night had not been a restful one for the Germans made three heavy counter attacks against them, which required hard work to put down with their rifle and machine gun fire, a task which, however, they successfully accomplished and during which heavy casualties were inflicted on the Germans. Berlin has admitted the loss to the Canadians of Arleux-en-Gobelle and to other parts of Field Marshal Haig's Army, Oppy and positions near Gravelle and Roex, which are characterized as advanced positions. The German war office adds, however, that except for Arleux the positions were regained and that the British suffered extraordinarily heavy losses. Since the commencement of the offensive on Saturday the number of prisoners taken by the British has materially increased, nearly one thousand Germans having been sent to the prisoners' cages back of the fighting line up to Sunday evening. Although unofficial advice as to the effect that Rous is the scene of a titanic struggle, the official reports make no mention of the fact. From the bend in the line northeast of Soissons well into Champagne the air resounds with the roar of big guns, French and German. There is still little infantry activity throughout these regions. North west of Rheims the French have gained considerable ground in isolated attacks and taken prisoners. The expectation at Peking is that China within two weeks will declare war on Germany. Already special commission for international affairs has advised the government that China should take her place beside the United States and the Entente as the antagonist of Germany, and Parliament will soon finally decide China's part. Germany, during the first two months of her unrestricted submarine war, has sunk freight vessels aggregating a tonnage of 1,600,000, more than 1,000,000 tons of it British, according to a statement made to the German Reichstag by the Imperial Secretary. The political trend in Hungary is declared in unofficial despatches to be toward demoralization. The expansion of democratic and electoral reforms and the facilitation of acquisition of land by all classes of the populace are contemplated by the Government.

BITTER FIGHTING ON BRITISH FRONT.

LONDON, To-day. Bitter fighting continued throughout last night and to-day on the front of the British offensive. Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters telegraphs, "The Germans apparently have a good idea of the principal points against which the British effort is directed and which must be carried before it will be possible to go ahead again. The Germans are throwing fresh troops to defend these positions as fast as it is possible to hurry them up. The contour of the Scarpe Valley is particularly favorable to the establishment of a perfect net of machine gun positions, which are extremely difficult to detect and therefore are very hard to deal with by artillery fire, but they are gradually being subdued. Just as in the last pitched battle, when the hottest fighting centred around Monchy, now Roex is the scene of the severest fighting. The correspondent continues, "The Germans appreciate the tactical value of Roex as the complement to Monchy and are sacrificing troops in droves to keep the British out, but the big guns are making the Germans pay a heavy price for their

If You Want Evidence

That Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Can be Completely Cured Read These Letters—Both are Sworn Statements.

Toronto, Ont., April 30th.—Next to personal experience the sworn statements of reliable people is the strongest evidence obtainable. If you have any doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively and completely cure piles, these letters should convince you.

Mr. Samuel Parker, fruit grower, Grimsby, Ont., has made the following declaration before Mr. W. W. W. Kidd, Notary Public of the same place: "I do solemnly declare that I was completely cured of piles and was advised to go to the hospital to have an operation performed. My wife said 'No, get a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and try it.' I tried it according to directions while living in Manitoba and obtained a complete cure, for I have never been troubled with piles since. I am now seventy years of age and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all sufferers from piles. My wife has used it for itching skin and obtained complete cure."

Mr. Donald M. Campbell, Campbell's Mountain, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment with great success for hemorrhoids or piles of fifteen years' standing. After trying all kinds of so-called pile cures, three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me a complete cure. I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and there are no others so good. You may use this letter, if you wish for the benefit of others who may suffer as I did." Sworn before me, Murdoch Gordon Campbell, J.P., in the County and for Inverness County. If you would like to try Dr. Chase's Ointment at our expense, send a two cent stamp to pay postage and we shall mail you a sample box free. opposition. All night long the battle crashed and thundered around Roex and the high sun this perfect Sabbath morning must be looking down upon a veritable German holocaust. Between the chemical works and Mount Pleasant Wood to the northeast we are well established in Arleux village along a line of advance running from southeast of Arleux Wood to about twelve hundred yards west of Achelle. Our posts were pushed forward up to the western slope of Greenland Hill and now command the cross roads northward to its summit. Between Oppy and Gravelle the struggle is proceeding with a degree of intensity which renders it impossible to define the situation.

COMMISSIONS VISIT WASHINGTON'S TOMB.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Beneath their spokesmen three great democracies paid homage to America's great soldier statesman and pledged themselves each to the other in the name of the dead to prosecute the present struggle against autocracy on the lines he himself had followed in bringing America into being. Nature was in her most bounteous garb; the evergreen sentinels before his tomb stood out boldly in their new life just blossoming, the only sign of human change since Washington was laid to rest so long ago. With the flags of the three allies over the arched entrance of the tomb itself, in groups of two's and three's, the eminent gathering, including members of the British and French commissions, the President and Cabinet members of Congress strolled up the sloping ground from the river bank, until perhaps half a century stood with bared heads in a semi-circle before the tomb. Without formally the Secretary motioned to Mr. Vivian, Minister of Justice and former Premier of France, who advanced slowly to the centre before the tomb of the man whose efforts toward liberty his own ancestors had gloriously aided. Mr. Vivian spoke an address in which the whole force of his emotional power, deepened by the significance and solemnity of the occasion, fought for expression. Then came forward Arthur James Balfour, Foreign Secretary of Britain, who stood for a moment in silence, a tall, erect and kindly figure, overcome with all that the situation meant in the lives of the two great Anglo-Saxon countries. Balfour abandoned his decision not to speak and gave expression to a few pointed sentences evidently straight from the heart. Britain had honored Washington as she never did before, "Mr. Vivian," said Balfour, has expressed in most eloquent words the feelings which grip us all here to-day. He has not only paid a fitting tribute to a great Statesman, but has brought our thoughts most vividly down to the present thousands, who have given their lives. French, Russian, Italian, Belgian, Serbian, Montenegrin, Roumanian, Japanese and British were fighting for what they believed to be the cause of liberty, he said. "There is no place in the world where the speech of the cause of liberty would be better placed than here at the tomb of Washington," Balfour continued, "but as that work has been so adequately done by a master of oratory, perhaps you will permit me to read the few words prepared by the British Mission for the Wreath we are to leave here to-day: 'Dedicated by the British Mission to the immortal memory of George Washington Soldier Statesman and Patriot, who would have rejoiced to see the country, of which he was by birth a citizen, the country which his genius called into existence, fighting side by side to save mankind from subjection to military despotism." Marshal Joffre, victor of the Marne and the idol of the French people, next came forward in his Field Marshal's uniform. Simply and earnestly he spoke in French two brief sentences. "In the French army all venerate the name of Washington. I respectfully salute here the great soldier and lay upon his tomb the palm we offer from our soldiers who have died for their country." French officers came forward with a bronze wreath from the French nation. Bending over, the Marshal passed through the narrow entrance and solemnly placed the wreath upon the stone coffin. He then stood silently at the salute, the General who is accredited with saving France to the General who won liberty of the United States of America. As Marshal Joffre passed back among the spectators, Balfour came forward with the British wreath of Lilies and Oak leaves tied with the colors of the three allied nations. He too entered the tomb and placed the British wreath beside the French, while Lieutenant-General Bridge stood outside at the salute. There was neither music nor applause. Except for the brief words of the speakers, the eternal silence and peace of the place was not broken. The little gathering looked on with an emotion too varied and profound for expression, and as Balfour withdrew the spectators felt without being told that the ceremony was over. The party again broke into groups and fled up to the lawn of the Mount Vernon home.

URGENT SETTLEMENT OF IRISH QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, To-day. A cable urging a settlement of the Irish problem was sent Premier Lloyd George last night by two hundred representatives of Congress headed by Speaker Champ Clarke. There is great interest in this country in the situation and the Irish Home Rule question has been discussed by American officials with the members of the British Commission now visiting the United States. The message sent by the representatives follows: "You are quoted as saying that a settlement of the Irish question is essential for the peace of the world and for a speedy victory in the war. May we, members of the American Congress suggest that nothing will add more to the enthusiasm of America in this war than a settlement now of the Irish problem. We believe all Americans will be deeply stirred and other enthusiastic effort enlisted if the British Empire will now settle this problem in accordance with the principles announced by President Wilson in his address to Congress, asking it to declare war on autocracy for the world-wide safety of democracy and small nationalities."

"Trap Day" in Court.

A large audience of fishermen assembled at the Magistrate's Court this forenoon to hear two trap berth cases in which four local fishermen were involved. Samuel Lush summoned J. Wareham for setting a cod trap within two fathoms of a salmon net. After the taking of evidence and while some legal technicalities were being discussed on the new rules made by the Legislature, it became apparent that the sections of the fishery laws and regulations were complicated and it was pointed out that the best way to remedy the muddle was to have this law amended by the fishermen themselves. On summing up Judge Morris said that this was another case in keeping with the proverbial adage: "The early bird catches the worm." This was received with applause from the audience of fishermen. "Silence," said His Honor, in a loud tone: "this is not a theatre or a moving picture show; it is a court of justice, and whilst you may be in sympathy with the judgment of the court, applauding is not permissible." The Judge then gave judgment for the plaintiff and ordered the defendant to take up his trap. The next case was called between Bill Newell (plaintiff) and Benjamin Garland (defendant). Both parties appeared in court, but on request of the counsel for the defendant, Mr. Higgins, who intimated that there would be voluminous evidence and that it took considerable time to get in touch with the witnesses, the case was set down to be heard at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Meanwhile the counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. Hunt, incidentally stated to the court that he was equally well armed with talking ammunition, he had some ten or twelve witnesses to be examined.

OUR PAPER FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, To-day. An adequate supply of paper for every American publisher was predicted by the Federal Trade Commission to-day, in announcing that Lord Northcliffe would probably sell the entire output of his big Newfoundland paper mills. The addition of the 66,000 tons of paper produced annually by the Northcliffe mills, it was said, will break the print paper market and assure small publishers an adequate supply at lower prices. The details remain to be worked out, but it was said that there is little doubt that Lord Northcliffe will let the paper come to the United States. Suggestions that the United States be permitted to take the production of the Northcliffe plants were made by the Trade Commission some weeks ago to the British publishers, who accepted. It was said, on condition that the paper go only to small publishers. The Commission agreed to this. The paper will be distributed by the Publishers Association under supervision of the Trade Commission.

All Nonsense.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"It's all nonsense." That is the phrase of mine used when she comes up against any point of view she cannot understand or does not agree with.

A friend of hers is not willing to take her children and go away for the summer with-out her husband. He has two weeks vacation; she goes to the country with the children a week in advance of these two weeks, and stays a week after his return. For the rest of the summer, she says, the children can get along perfectly well in their comfortable suburban place.

SHE Would Go Away For The Whole Summer.

"It's all nonsense," says my neighbor, "that she can't leave her husband. I'd hate to have a husband I had to watch all the time."

Another friend, a woman of forty-five, whose children are grown-up and away at college decided to take a correspondence course in advertising to take up her mind.

"It's all nonsense," says my neighbor, "What does she want to know about advertising for? I never heard anything so ridiculous in my life."

And so, one after another, she pricks with her concise "all nonsense" these bubbles of other people's ideas and schemes.

Fortunately People Don't Know How Foolish They Are.

Fortunately other people don't know they have been pricked and so go serenely on their way.

"My neighbour is an exaggerated example of the 'all nonsense' type but

I know many people who often use that phrase or its equivalent when they do not like or understand anything.

In fact, to be perfectly frank, I have occasionally found it rising to my own lips on similar occasions.

Nothing Is All Nonsense.

Now, nothing, or almost nothing, that people do is all nonsense. There may be a thick husk of nonsense but inside there is almost sure to be some kernel of sense. And sometimes the husk is very thin, and the kernel is very large.

And, sometimes there is no husk at all but our eyes are so withheld by our own self sufficiency that we do not see rightly.

Nothing makes a person sound so mean and small minded as this "all nonsense" attitude. You show up your own smallness rather than the other person's wrongness when you condemn so cursorily.

My neighbour may not be doing the best thing but she has some reason for doing what she does.

If there is anything in the world that is all nonsense, it is to take the all nonsense attitude.

INTEREST.

Interest is something which a bank gets for loaning money. It now and then gets something else which it was not looking for at the time and failed to see coming.

If it were not for interest we would not have any marble-tiled banks in this country and the number of automobiles per capita would fall off faster than the birth rate of France. Whenever a man enters a bank and wants to borrow enough money to buy two or three potatoes or a diamond solitaire, the cashier will produce a small legal document with a time-clock attachment, called a note. This document comes right to the point and when first read and digested by a timid citizen will cause a nervous chill to climb up and down his spinal column. It provides that the bank will furnish the money if the borrower will pay it back, throw in a little boot at 8 per cent. and get his wife to sign on the second line.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Chores. Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ash rise and settle on the furniture.

It Eliminates Hard Work. Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

One of the most discouraging things which can happen to a liberal-minded banker is to loan money to a retail merchant who is already three-fourths submerged and who crawls under the bankruptcy act just before his notes fall due. When we reflect that this is occurring every day, it is no wonder that the average banker appears at times cold and unresponsive and seems to be a distant relative of the polar bear.

Interest is helpful in many ways, but when used as a steady diet is disappointing in its action. The best way to use interest is to have it coming in at the big end of the horn, instead of going out at the small one.

RUSHING THE SEASON.

When soft and balmy is the air, the wintry chill forgotten, in a man doffs his heavy underwear, for flimsy things of cotton. His wife and grandma both implore that he will not be reckless; but he replies, "The winter's over, and wearing wool is treckless." The weather bureau seems to note when man does things so silly, and then sets out to get his goat, by sending weather chilly. The man who would not heed his frau, or grandma's wild entreaties, finds chills and fever in him now, from whiskers to his feet. And so he straightway goes to bed, a victim of pneumonia; perchance he dies, and o'er his head we plant a large begonia. I stand beside the boneyard fence and see where scores are sleeping, who rushed the season, without sense, and left their uncles weeping. Until the breath of summer stirs the maples and the willows, I always wear my heavy furs, and pad myself with pillows. Until in yonder picnic grove we see the summer camper, I pack around a heating stove, and open wide the damper.

The Last Chance.

"The opportunity of a life time should be availed of during the life time of the opportunity."

Judging from the number of buildings erected on the Waterford Bridge Road, it is quite evident that this portion of the city is to be the future residential section. The season and the vegetation are several weeks ahead of the East End, the Street Car takes you almost to your door, and if you prefer to walk, you have no hills to climb.

Nearly all the building lots have been bought up, but a few very choice lots near the Cross Roads having a frontage on both the Waterford Bridge and Topsail Roads are now available, and any one desirous of securing one or more of these lots would do well to see C. ### A Wonderful Help in Keeping the Complexion Youthful and Clear.

Perhaps you wonder how so many women manage to have a complexion that is always fresh and clear, and how you can make your complexion better. Here's the secret:—

This is the Vanishing Cream that softens the skin and gives it that soft, velvety radiance that we all desire. Nyal's Face Cream is not oily or greasy, and it is readily absorbed by the skin, vanishing without leaving any tell tale gloss on skin. The skin welcomes this pleasant, soothing, cooling cream. It makes dry, tight skin soft and pliable. It makes rough skin firm and smooth, and gradually gives to coarse rough skin a finer, more delicate texture.

BRITISH GAINS.
LONDON, April 29. British troops have captured Arleux-en-Gobelle and German positions on a front of more than two miles north and south of that village, says the official report. Northeast of Gavrelle and Roex, and north of Monchy-le-Preux, gains were made. The Germans counter attacked bitterly with large forces and suffered heavily from the British fire. Several hundred prisoners were captured.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
PARIS, April 29. The official communication issued by the war office last night reads: The artillery action was intermittent over the greater part of the front with violent outbursts between whites in the Aisne and Champagne regions. On Chemin-Des-Dames we made progress in the neighborhood of Ostela, and took prisoners. Everywhere else the day was calm without infantry actions. In the Eastern theatre on the 26th the Bulgarians, after violent bombardment, succeeded in gaining a temporary foothold in the trenches recently captured by the British troops west of Lake Doiran; but an immediate counter attack drove them out with heavy losses.

ATTACK GERMAN POSITIONS.
PARIS, April 29. French troops last night attacked German positions near Concrey, northwest of Rheims, the war office announced. They gained considerable ground and took 150 prisoners. German attacks in the Champagne failed. In Upper Alsace the French advanced as far as the second German line at several points inflicting losses on their adversaries and bringing back prisoners.

HEAVY FIGHTING.
With the British Army afield, April 28.—British troops have turned the Germans "Wotan line." Half of the village of Oppy, believed to be the northernmost town of this German defence front, was captured to-day in a desperate hot fight. Arleux-en-Gobelle, a trifle further to the north, also fell to the tremendous British assault. Information from other sections of the British front reaching the spot from which this despatch is written, detailed fighting on a tremendous scale of intensity around Oppy and Arleux, which is still progressing after a night of never-ceasing clash. The armies of both sides have swayed back and forth in the struggle, but the latest report to-day showed the British still in possession of half of Oppy and all of Arleux, and beating back desperate German counter attacks around Gavrelle. British Headquarters in France, April 29.—There was more desperate fighting along the British front to-day, the Germans, evidently spurred on by declarations from Field Marshal Von Hindenburg that they must hold their present positions at all costs, are making resistance more stubborn than any heretofore encountered at the various points captured in the first onward rush by the British. The Germans have been ordered into counter attacks with reckless disregard to loss to-day, and it was possible near Oppy to see at one time no less than five grey waves of Germans blindly facing the British fire in an attempt to retake their lost positions. Heavy shells broke upon them in a great explosive torrent. Where each shell burst, great gaps were cut in the ranks of the incoming men. Those who penetrated the British barrage from the larger calibre guns were met by field gun fire and mowed down under continuous sprays of machine gun bullets. Under this fire the attack was utterly broken down. In some places there was ferocious hand-to-hand fighting, and the British got in well with the bayonet. There was one bit of fighting in which even bayonets were forgotten, and men went at each others throats and eyes. Many Germans went down to their death from blows from rifle butts. The attack began with the coming of dawn, and extended in an easterly direction from Vimy Ridge at its northern hinge, and on the southward to the Scarpe. Progress was made everywhere. The so-called Oppy Meneourt line, which protects Drocourt switch to the Hindenburg line, was pierced again. The Canadians who had been more or less resting since they swept the Germans off both slopes of Vimy Ridge on Easter Monday, made a brilliant assault against the village and held it against all counter attacks. The British crossed the German lines just west of Oppy. There had been fierce fighting about that village all day.

GERMAN TRENCHES CAPTURED.
LONDON, April 29. British troops captured the German trench system south of Oppy on a front of about a mile after heavy fighting this morning, says the official from British headquarters in France. The Germans offered strong resistance and delivered several counter attacks but this failed. The number of prisoners taken by the British since Saturday morning is 976 including 16 officers.

BRITISH TROOPS ADVANCING.
NEW YORK, April 28. The terrific German counter attacks on the British lines in France have ended and the British troops are now advancing. There are many signs that the fighting will shortly be resumed on a more terrific scale than ever before, and not the least of these omens are the frantic appeals and threats made by German leaders and press to avert the menace of a general strike throughout Germany. Discontent is seething in the ranks of German workers, and the Government is haunted by the fear that May Day, the great International Socialist holiday, may see an outbreak which will shake the whole Imperial Empire. That the general strike planned by the Socialists and Radicals is not confined, it is said, to Germany, but includes Austria-Hungary as well, is indicated from one of the rare despatches which have come through from Vienna.

RUSSIAN MOVING.
PETROGRAD, April 29. Russian troops have recaptured from the Turks the ground lost south east of Erzingan, on the Caucasian front, it is announced officially.

BREAKS OFF RELATIONS.
WASHINGTON, April 29. Guatemala has broken off diplomatic relations with Germany. The German Minister has been handed his passports, and exequaturs of the German Consul there have been cancelled.

TURKS TAKE THE OFFENSIVE.
PETROGRAD, April 29. The Turks have taken the offensive against the Russians along the Persian frontier, the war office announces. The Russians lost two positions, but regained one of them.

SUPPLIES TO GERMANY.
PARIS, April 28. Jean Herbetts, in the Echo de Paris, discussing the blockade question and the question of food reaching Germany through neutral countries, quotes from a report, the reliability of which the writer guarantees, although he says he is unable to reveal the source, that Switzerland during the first nine months of 1913 exported two hundred thousand pounds of corn and cereals to Germany. During the corresponding time of 1916 the exports of cereals exceeded one million one hundred thousand pounds. Fruits, cheese, condensed milk, and cattle increased in similar proportions. The writer referring to the fact that the Allies contracted with certain neutrals not to handle exports under certain conditions, declares that in view of present conditions the Allies should cancel such agreements. Neutrals, he said, should be made to choose either to stop supplying Germany or cease receiving supplies from overseas. It is the duty of the United States, he says, to compel neutrals to make this choice forthwith in agreement with her Allies.

JAPAN AND THE WAR.
LONDON, April 28. The possibility of greater participation by Japan in the war has been discussed for some time. Baron Kato, a Japanese diplomatist, is quoted as saying that Japan is engaging in conferences contemplating a larger part in the war, Japan being determined to collaborate to the fullest extent to the defeat of Germany. He added that he regretted it was impossible, because of the distance, for Japan's army to fight alongside the armies of her Allies; nevertheless the impression has been created that Japan soon will make a sensational move of great advantage to the Allies' cause.

ADMINISTRATION BILL PASSED.
WASHINGTON, April 29. By overwhelming majorities both the Senate and House passed late last night the Administration Bill to raise a war army by selective draft.

CONSCRIPTION OPPONENTS DEFEATED.
WELLINGTON, April 29. The Laborites who opposed conscription, have been defeated in the municipal election in New Zealand.

THE INDIAN LOAN.
LONDON, April 28. Simla despatches say subscriptions to the Indian Special War Loan exceed ten million pounds sterling.

RUSSIA CLEANING UP.
PETROGRAD, April 29. As a result of the visit of War Minister Gueckoff to the southwestern front, 23 Generals, including some Generals of divisions, have been replaced. On all the front not fewer than 115 officers, holding headquarters command, have been removed. Workmen in munitions factories who were sent to the front under orders issued under the Romanoff regime for participation in strikes, are being recalled.

SWISS FRONTIER CLOSED.
ZURICH, April 28. The German-Swiss frontier has been strictly closed to all travellers and postal services. No German papers have arrived here since Wednesday. This is usually the prelude to an important military move.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
PARIS, April 28. Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night between St. Quentin and the Oise, the war office reports. On the Verdun front the French raided German trenches west of the Meuse and brought back prisoners from the sector of Hill 304. Since April 16th the French have captured 175 cannon of all calibres, 412 machine guns and 119 trench mortars. The number of prisoners has reached 20,780.

TROUBLE EXPECTED.
COPENHAGEN, April 28. The prospect of grave labor troubles throughout Germany on May Day overshadows everything else in the German press. General Groener's address to the Reichstag Committee on the manifesto of the federation of labor against strikes and editorial appeals to the same purport, predominant in the newspapers.

DISPUTES TO BE SETTLED.
WASHINGTON, April 28. Informal suggestions from Canada that an International Commission be named to settle the long-standing disputes between Canadian and American fishing interests, have been received favorably in Washington, it was learned to-day, and an early agreement for the Commission's appointment is expected.

A FEW GOOD REMEDIES.
It is not often that I give recipes for cold creams or other lotions in the column. As a rule I prefer to advise my readers to use God's own natural beauty giving aides like fresh air, sunshine, vegetables, fruit and clean drinking water. But just to help those who really need a few good recipes for home-made beauty aides, I am giving the following splendid instruction for the making of same. A good cold cream to have on hand to use before retiring, or as a mask to shield the complexion from the elements, is made of the ingredients and is a cleansing and nourishing cream. Oil of sweet almonds, four ounces; white vaseline, one ounce; white wax, one ounce; extract of violet, ten drops. Here is an excellent skin food: Almond oil, four ounces; rosewater, four ounces; spermaceti, one ounce, white wax, one ounce; tincture of benzoin, one dram; orange-flower, violet or lavender water may be substituted for the rose water. This is an astringent tonic and, as most astringents, has a whitening effect. Put this on after washing the face: Rose water, three ounces; elder-flower water, one ounce; simple tincture of benzoin, one-fourth ounce; tannic acid, five grains. Mix and wipe over the face with a soft cloth several times a day. When the skin becomes dry, use less frequently, and when very dry omit altogether. The action, however, will be largely offset by the use of a cold cream as the one given above. Sweet milk, cream and buttermilk are natural beautifiers which have been employed by celebrated beauties of all ages and which are recommended to the woman who would improve her complexion to-day. A simple bleach applied night and morning and allowed to dry on is made of two ounces of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerine, one-half ounce of rose water.

Wayward Youth Gets Birched.

The new birch-switch, brought into being recently for dealing with hardened and incorrigible youths, was again used to-day on a 12 year old boy, who his parents confessed had gone beyond correction. The lad, who is no stranger to the police, figured in a new episode on Saturday last when he was sent on an errand by his mother with sixty cents. After treating himself on what dainties he could and having spent all the money, he remained out all night and was found by the night police asleep in a stable on the higher levels. This morning he appeared before Judge Morris, who called the father of the lad to explain matters. The parent told a tale of woe and stated that he could get no good of his son, despite whippings. The Judge discounted that statement and ordered that the lad be taken to the corridor of the police station and given three lashes with the birch switch. His Honor felt firmly convinced that after the lad receives his stripes there will be a tendency towards reformation.

The Gallant Major Jackson, M.C.,

MAKES SUPREME SACRIFICE.

Yesterday Mr. John Jackson, Commission Merchant, was in receipt of the subpoenaed cable from London, conveying the sad intelligence that his son had made the supreme sacrifice:

"Deeply regret to inform you that Major A. M. Jackson, R. E., Twelfth Field Co., died of wounds, April 27th. The Army Council express their sympathy."

"SECRETARY WAR OFFICE."

Major Alec. Jackson, who was one of the youngest officers of his rank, having celebrated the 24th anniversary of his birthday in October last, left here for England 15 years ago, and after a brilliant career at the great military training institution at Woolwich, entered the College of Instruction at Chatham and was there when war broke out. He left London for Ireland with the 12th Field Co. of Royal Engineers, shortly after returned to Cambridge with his Company, a Unit of the 6th Division and embarked for France early in September, 1914. At that time he was a Sub-Lieutenant and for his devotion to duty was made a Captain in 1915. He was then transferred to the 36th Division, of which he acted Adjutant for several months and then rejoined his own former Company with the rank of Major. In the King's Birthday Honours list last year he appeared as Major Jackson, M. C., the honour having been conferred on him for distinguished services rendered in the field. On several occasions he had been mentioned in despatches. Notwithstanding that he was on active service for two years and nine months he was wounded only twice and then slightly. His first mishap was met in August, 1915 and the next one in May of last year. That the gallant young officer and soldier, who has now sealed his devotion to the Empire, was one of marked ability, is demonstrated by his distinctions gained at school and the rapid promotions won by him for valour on the battle field. In 1914 he played in the big football match—Army vs. Navy—and was personally congratulated after the game by His Majesty the King. He was here on a visit four years ago just after getting his commission. Newfoundland loses a bright and promising son in the passing of Major Jackson. The grief of the bereaved father, to whom widespread sympathy is expressed, will be assuaged by the knowledge that his gallant son laid down his life for others may live and in the noble cause that right may triumph.

Calls on Liberals to Support Sir Robert Bond

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I have read with interest ELECTOR'S letter in your issue of 23rd inst., and am inclined to believe that a consensus of opinion agrees with him that Sir Robert Bond is the only man in whom we can put our trust if we desire a clean, honest and secure Government.

It is high time now for the electors to be preparing. Coming events cast their shadows before, and we all know that matters are rapidly becoming worse instead of better; so much so that confusion reigns supreme in all departments of the Government.

Let me suggest, then, that the LIBERALS (I spell it in capitals) of St. John's get together, call a meeting and pass resolutions pledging their support to Sir Robert Bond; then let a general requisition be drawn up with the sanction of that meeting, and copies of same sent to every town and settlement in each district for signature by the voters who want stable and moral government.

In this way only, can the call be made general, and it is within reason to expect that Sir Robert will respond.

Yours truly,
TERRA NOVA.

Mr. A. English Delends Himself.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Will you kindly publish in your esteemed paper the subjoined letter. Mr. Coaker charges me with having written an insolent letter to Mr. Benedict, a reproduction of the same letter is the only answer needed to the base lie; therefore I ask you Sir, to give it publication.

ARTHUR ENGLISH.
St. John's, Nfld., April 28, 1917.

Mr. Arthur English, Cay.

Dear Sir.—As promised you, I herewith enclose copy of your letter to me dated September 28, 1915, stating you would not be able to take the chair for the W.C.T.U. prohibition meeting to be held at Torbay that evening.

If I remember rightly, I 'phoned you that morning in regard to it, and you replied that you were very busy and did not think you would be able to go, but would let me know later.

Yours very truly,
CORA C. BENEDICT.
Mrs. J. S. Benedict,

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 28, 1915.

Mr. J. S. Benedict, City.

"Dear Madam—I most sincerely regret my inability to accept of your very gracious invitation to attend your Prohibition Meeting of this evening. Were I to get on a platform to advocate prohibition, I should be doing violence to my own feelings, and I am sure you will appreciate my candor in this respect. I am not a prohibitionist, although I am a total abstainer, and should like to see everyone of the mind. I could talk of the evils of drink, but I would not be honest were I to ally myself with them, the prohibitionists. There is another side to the liquor question. I do not drink. I will not vote. I am a campaigner as that of the ex-

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE.

"Should a lady be introduced to a young man for the man to the lady? Also if invited to a party by a young man who does not dance, ought he to feel offended if I dance with another young man?" were Polly's two queries. The gentleman should always be introduced to the lady, and your escort should certainly not be offended," answered her aunt.

Children's Fancy Ball

A GREAT SUCCESS.

About one hundred and fifty happy laughing children, dressed in unique and beautiful costumes, attended the Children's Fancy Dress Ball in the new C. C. C. Hall, on Saturday afternoon. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson accompanied by their two little daughters, the latter in fancy costume attended. A number of the little ones gave recitations which were rendered in a faultless manner, after which dancing to the sweet strains of music from the C. C. C. Band was taken up. Games familiar to children were also played, in which the little ones entered with that keen enjoyment and zest that is characteristic of children.

The prize for girls, a silver spangle, was awarded to Miss Gertrude Collins, six years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Collins. She recited Madame Vernon Castle. Master Allister McNeill, aged 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. McNeill, won the prize for boys, a Pearl Pocket Knife. He represented a Country Gentleman of Old, in a costume similar to one worn by his grandfather on a like occasion, when a boy of tender years. Teas, candies and nice things were served the ball room guests by the ladies in charge; and at 7 p.m., long after bed time for a great many of the little dancers, the happy affair was concluded.

THEY ALL VOLUNTEERED.

"T. H. H.":—We should like to print this story in letters of gold. It is of a Colonel on the British front who wanted twenty men to face almost certain death. He called the whole company together and made the situation clear to them. Then he asked for twenty volunteers to advance one pace. He loved his men, and it was almost more than he could bear. He closed his eyes to keep back his tears, and when he opened them the men stood in exactly the same formation. He was pained. "Is there not one volunteer?" he asked. A sergeant stepped forward and salute. "Everyone has advanced one pace, sir," he said.

FISHERMEN SUFFER HEAVILY.

During the past few weeks and since preparations have been made for the codfishery, local fishermen have suffered heavily. The nets, which were set out on the grounds to secure choice berths, were more or less destroyed by ice and heavy sea. The damage is more extensive, we learn, than at first thought, amounting to hundreds of dollars.

Commemorating the Entry of the United States into the War—The Rector's Eloquent Sermon.

When the steeple bell ceased calling the worshippers to 11 o'clock service yesterday morning at St. Thomas's Church, the sacred edifice was filled with a devout congregation, all of whom assembled to offer to the great White Throne their prayers of thankfulness, in Commemoration of the entry of the United States into the war on the side of the Allies.

Among those who attended were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Acting Prime Minister, and Mrs. Bennett, J. S. Benedict, Esq., U. S. Consul, Mrs. Benedict and Miss Benedict; H. Bradshaw, Esq., Vice-Consul; M. P. M. Sutor, Vice-Consul of France; J. E. Orr, Esq., Mrs. Orr and Miss Orr, J. Hawvermale, Esq., T. Hartnett, Esq., and several other American citizens resident in or visiting the city.

Draped around the pulpit were the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.

Fat Without Fear of Indigestion or Sour, Acid Stomach

Instant relief! "Pape's Diapepsin" ends your stomach trouble forever.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated— just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help; remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

This war may be defined as a great consecration, as a creed which declares that our resources are equal to our responsibilities, a determination to wage the conflict at all costs to a final decisive triumph. To the French it was a war for the right; to the British it is for the fulfilment of solemn obligations; to the Russian it is the destruction of autocracy; to the American it is the vindication of the principles of Peace and Justice. Owing to the heavy undertow that prevailed in the harbour there was a deal of trouble along the waterfront. Some of the piers were pounded badly by shipping, which had to be removed to the stream.

NOTICE.

Persons intending to engage in the manufacture of refined cod liver oil shall apply immediately to the Department of Marine and Fisheries for the necessary application forms, in order to procure their Licenses, which must be renewed from the first day of May in each year.

The Government have appointed as Inspectors Messrs. E. G. Coyell and M. B. Simonsen, who will visit all factories during the season to instruct and advise manufacturers in the best methods of refining cod liver oil; and it shall be the duty of all persons engaged in the said business to carry out the rules and instructions issued by the Inspectors aforesaid, otherwise they shall be guilty of a violation of the rules governing this industry, may be fined for such violation, and in addition may have their Licenses cancelled.

ONE WAY TO SAVE MONEY, LADIES,

is the knowledge that from the buying standpoint Ladies' Ready-to-wear Goods, in most cases, show much better values than purchases of the materials to be made up. It was not always so, but this is how the matter stands to-day.

Prices have been continually rising, with ever increasing prices of raw wool, and more lately tremendous advances in the prices of raw cotton.

OUR LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR GOODS

are always booked up with the manufacturers at least six months ahead of the season, to catalogues and samples of goods which these manufacturers have made up and priced on materials generally booked up about six months ahead by them.

The retailer of Piece Goods would not be booking for his requirements as far ahead as a clothier, and as lately piece goods have had very large advances, it stands to reason that the later bookings of piece goods show poorer values than the made up goods. We have realised this in our buying. Our buying has been made a long way ahead, and we are giving our customers all the benefits of money saved by advanced buying. You can save a lot of money by buying from us.

All Kinds of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods.

This includes Blouses, Dress Skirts, Underskirts of all kinds, Shower Coats, Covert Coats, White Embroidered Cambric Night-dresses, Camisoles, Chemises, Combinations and Knickers.
