The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XX. SIDNEY DAUNT

Sidney half rose in her passionate, almost unbearable pain. It seemed to lead her heart to speak of that time, so full of misery and unrest, to recall her own anguish, her foolish mistake, her passionate useless rebellion against the trouble which had fallen upon her.

More than once during the last few minutes she had reproached herself bitterly for ever having undertaken such a herculean task, but the recollection of Frank's misery, so much greater than anything she could conceive, she thought, gave her patience to endure.

"I do not know," she said, struggling desperately for calmness. "Mr. Stephen Daunt went away almost immediately after the engagement was announced, and remained abroad for some weeks."

"And, on his return, did he seem much as usual?" Sidney hesitated, remembering the added gravity and gentleness of Stephen's manner, and the look on his face which seemed to say that he had seen trouble.

"He was quieter," she answered in a low voice. "Did he visit at Rutledge Hall?"

"Oh, yes!" "Frequently?" "I—I think so."

There was a little silence then. Sidney's visitor was bending over his note-book, glancing through it carefully enough. Sidney sat trembling very much, and dreading what he was going to say next; and so intense was her relief when he rose to go that she almost broke down in sobs.

"I need not trouble you any more," he said calmly. "I will bid you good-evening, Mrs. Daunt. You will hear from me shortly. No, don't ring; I can find my own way out."

Sidney felt as if a heavy load had been lifted from her heart as the door closed after him, and she drew a long sobbing breath of relief. For a few moments she stood still, then turned and moved toward the door.

As she passed into the hall, Lloyd Miller was standing there, looking grave and thoughtful, his face turned toward the hall door with a look of puzzled bewilderment. Sidney's heart seemed to stand still with fear in the terrible eyes which struck her. Had he seen—had he recognized her visitor?

He turned to her as she came across the hall toward him. "I am wondering where I have seen the man who has just gone out of the house," he said carelessly. "Is he a

THE NEW THINGS.

An ship falls a mile or three, succumbing to a wrench or strain, its parts are scattered on the sea, some men are injured, some are slain.

Men cry, "It is a heaviest shame, the worst offense we ever saw, we'll have to stop this sort of game."

It is a sure ought to be a law. When first the auto hit the pipe it scared the farmer's old gray mare, and men invoked the name of Mike, and gnashed their teeth and pawed the air.

"The horseless carriage is a crime," men said, before the synagogues; "it scares our horses all the time, and kills our chickens and our dogs. It tears along with frantic speed from far Beer-sheba clear to Dan; the old time six-the "new-backed" "new" are good enough for any man." When first the locomotive burst upon man's view, friend said to friend: "Of all cheap fakes this is the worst! When will its freak be ended! Our curse is on this freak beast! It is a crude and ghastly detestable thing's certain to explode, and blow the train crew galley west."

When first we had electric light, some people kicked up quite a fuss: "We'll still use candles in the night, they served our sads and the'll serve us!" The world moves on, inventions sweet are daily coming to our view, and calling on the name of Pete, back numbers say they will not do. Now autos throne the public ways, the locomotive's still in front and lamps and candles only raise a horse laugh when they do their stunt.

Above us, in a few brief years, the airship hosts will surely play; perhaps they'll visit distant spheres, with stations on the Milky Way?

De Roche, McDonald and Bellamy in All Star Cast

"Love and Glory," the Rupert Julian-Universal-Jewel production showing to-night at the Star Movie, presents a distinct novelty in the way of screen entertainment in that its characters live through a fifty year lapse of time.

The three featured characters, portrayed by Charles De Roche, Wallace MacDonald and Midge Bellamy, are introduced in the story as young peasant folk in a French village. In the closing scenes of the film they appear in the make-up of persons seventy years of age. So real is the transfiguration that it is said to be difficult to believe that the characters are portrayed by the same players. It is a triumph for the actors, as well as for the director.

Pictorially the production is one of the most beautiful of the year. Gilbert Warrenton, credited on the screen with the photography, can take many a bow for his skillful camera work. Fundamentally it is a war time romance, woven around incidents of the Franco-Prussian war, but there is little of actual war revealed on the screen. One sequence of the picture, however, reflects a desert engagement between Zouaves and Arabs and it is colorful and dramatic, carrying one of the biggest thrills of the story. The screen play is an adaptation of the novel, "We Are French," written by Perley Poore Sheehan and Robert Davis. Other featured players are Gibson Gowland, Ford Sterling, Charles De Ravenne and Priscilla Dean Morgan.

AN ODE TO THE GARAGE MAN.

I sing to-day an ode to the gifted garage man.

Not the apprentice who knows just a little more to fix a machine than how to work the gas pump and where the oil goes in, but the real born and trained mechanic who knows machines inside and out.

How Deft He Is.
In what awe and trepidation we watch him—we who know really little more about the true inwardness of the intricate machinery that carries us hither and yon than the savage who has never seen a machine—as he lifts up the hood and probes with clever fingers here and there in the dark places of that mechanism!

What, black magic it seems to us that after unscrewing a nut here and straightening a wire there he should begin to know what ails the beast!
With what alacrity we leap to do his bidding when he tells us curtly, or with condescending kindness as his disposition dictates, to try and start her now!
And Wise!
The garage man who came to our rescue the other day carried a leather bag of tools. "He looks just like a doctor," said someone as he advanced upon us where we waited in our ignominious helplessness. And isn't that what he is? The doctor of the machine or maybe the surgeon would be more suitable for often he probes with fingers as strong and clever and almost as subtle and tender as the surgeon's, and sometimes, alas, for ailments almost as difficult to diagnose. And like the surgeon, he sometimes has to eliminate one possibility by operating before he can find out the true one, and is as much blamed and as little blamable as the surgeon for not being able to distinguish ailments with almost identical symptoms.

And, as with the surgeon, we wait him with bated breath and hang on his words with eagerness to see if it is to be a major or a minor operation.
Though he were as homely as a hedge fence (and what has he by the way I have never found out) his figure coming toward us is beautiful to us. But he seldom is homely, if you have happened to notice. On the contrary he is often the opposite, one of the finest American types, keen, lean, with deep set eyes and features sometimes well cut, sometimes rugged, but always carved with the habit of thought and lit with the light of intelligence.

Scots, Wae Hae

(From the Liverpool Courier.)

Sir Robert Bruce makes the lamentable and even startling confession that "There are thousands of young Scots to whom a considerable part of Burns' and even more of some of his predecessors, is utterly unintelligible." This, then, is the result of education: the Scots are forgetting the Scottish.

No longer do they revel in such lines as:
His honest, simple, bawdy face,
Aye gat him friends in like place.

If you ask them the meaning of the words "gat" or "gat" they will reply in correct English, and perhaps even with an Oxford accent, that they have no information on the point. It is useless to sprinkle your conversation, when in Scotland, with such convenient ejaculations as "gat" or "gat" to speak of a "catty day," or call a foolish person a "gat." If you ask for "gat" you will go far. As Hamlet observed, in a moment no less tragic, "That it should come to this."

For these reasons it has seemed needful to 400 delegates from 140 Burns Clubs to pass a resolution in support of the preservation and teaching of the Scottish vernacular. To Englishmen this may seem unnecessary. Scotsmen who wish to acquire a Scottish accent and a knowledge of their native tongue need only come south of the Border.

Aviator Killed as Races Start

ANOTHER FLIER IS SERIOUSLY INJURED.

MITCHEL FIELD, New York, Oct. 8.—One aviator was killed and a second seriously injured in a crash today during the first event of the international air races held here.

Two men, Clarence D. Chamberlain, a pilot, and Lawrence Buzanell, a passenger, were in the machine when it crashed several miles away from the judges' stand. First reports stated that both men were dead, but this was later corrected to the announcement that one had been killed and the other was in the hospital. It was officially announced that Chamberlain was the man killed and then changed to state that Buzanell had met his death, while Chamberlain was injured.

Chamberlain and Buzanell took off with five other machines and were flying 20 laps around a five-mile course, marked by three pylons. One of Mitchell Field, another at Meadowbrook, and the third two miles south of Meadowbrook.

London's Lord Mayor

On September 23rd, the ancient institution of the Court of Aldermen of the City of London elected the Lord Mayor from three names submitted to them. The Lord Mayor's rule extends over the city proper, which occupies an area of a little over a mile, and which is euphemistically styled "the City." To this square mile, however, is attached, north, south, east, and west that Greater London which spreads itself over no mean portion of Middlesex, having a population of nearly 5,000,000 people. London had its name only in the year 85 B.C. However, jumping a few hundred years, we find that London received its first charter from William the Conqueror in 1066. It being some 1600 years later that the title of Mayor was bestowed upon the chief commoner. The title was standardized to that of Lord Mayor in 1545, and has so remained until today.

Such progress has been made in utilizing cobs, stalks, leaves and other corn waste that the United States Department of Agriculture enumerates as many as 146 of these corn products of greatly varied kinds. Saklatvala Focuses the Red Peril

COMMUNIST M. P. BARRED BY AMERICA HAS GAINED COVERT ED PUBLICITY.

By JOHN CARTER.

Before Secretary of State Kellogg Shapurji Saklatvala's address to the session of the Inter-parliamentary Union at Washington last week, the Parsee had laid his plans for the future. "I am not a rich man," he said, "but as soon as I heard that the American Government was to place in Washington I said: 'This is my chance.' At any rate, in lieu of the propaganda which he admitted his desire to spread, the Communist M. P. has obtained newspaper publicity on the grand scale and has secured for the American State Department a case somewhat analogous to the famous Karolyi case of last year. The State Department cites one of Saklatvala's speeches (made outside the House of Commons), in which he urged the American Government to work for the working classes. British imperialism ought to crumble in the dust. I am out to work for a revolution and for the day when the workers will control the whole world. But before this comes you will have to face cold steel.

Saklatvala has been debarred by the American Government on the strength of the immigration laws, which definitely exclude an avowed revolutionary. The act supplying this law was passed during President Wilson's second administration and remains upon the statute books unmodified by the immigration act of last year. Senator Borah objects, in this particular case, holding that there ought to be as much free speech in this country as there is in Britain, and is intent upon defeating the Communist before the Senate on the score that it is unwise for the Government to penalize the member of a foreign Parliament for his utterances in his home legislature.

If Saklatvala were not a member of the House of Commons he could be apprehended for sedition at the option of the Government, the discretion lying with the Home Secretary as to what constituted sedition. In this country it is different. The law specifically provides for the exclusion of revolutionaries professing the overthrow of the United States Government. Saklatvala professes a doctrine which aims at the substitution of proletarian dictatorship in the place of all governments, even that of this country. He desires the substitution of the Red Flag for all other flags, including the Stars and Stripes.

The question arises: Why was this man, whose record and opinions were well known, granted a visa in the first place? The answer is clear. Under instructions from the State Department, the Consul General at London was authorized to grant a "blanket visa" to all the members of the British delegation to the Inter-parliamentary Conference at Washington. It was evidently not brought officially to the attention of Mr. Kellogg that Shapurji Saklatvala was a member of the delegation until Sept. 15, when John Daniels, Secretary of the American branch of the union, announced the personnel of the visiting Parliamentarians. Three days later the visa was revoked.

It is the policy of the British Government, as the Home Secretary has pointed out on several occasions, to take as little official cognizance of communism and of Communists as possible; but, even were this not the case, the Home Secretary, in the ordinary course of his official duty, has no power to prevent anybody's leaving the country, provided, of course, that the Public Prosecutor is not anxious for his company. Even then, criminal proceedings must be pending against him; otherwise he is safeguarded by the Parliamentary immunity which he enjoys.

Union Might Have Acted.
The one body that could seriously have interferred with Saklatvala's liberty in this respect is the Inter-parliamentary Union. He could have been expelled from that body, but not reasonably on the sole ground of his political views. Any M. P. may become a member of the union, and when once a member is free to attend its sessions.

Cancellation of the visa was immediately followed by a repetition of the events which embarrassed the Administration during the Karolyi incident. The Civil Liberties Union organized a protest; Senator Borah protested, and Saklatvala usurped the front pages of the newspapers for several days, while the State Department's action was vigorously assailed in the editorial columns of the Democratic and Independent press.

Sir Robert Horne, a keen-minded, moderate and unexcitable Scot, suggests that the entire British delegation should decline to attend the conference at Washington. From this attitude it can be deduced that there is some feeling against the department's action—not as it appears specifically to Saklatvala, but as it implies a distinct offense to the dignity of the Mother of Parliaments.

True, when it was known that Saklatvala intended to go to America with the British members, at least two Conservatives had refused to attend the session at Washington; Sir Robert Bird declining "to associate with a Communist, an avowed enemy of the British Empire and of all organized government." Saklatvala attended the Inter-parliamentary Union session at Copenhagen in 1923 in the company of numerous Conservative M.P.'s. The present hostility toward him has no doubt developed. It is suggested, as a result of the recent outbursts of communism, which have frankly alarmed politicians and publicists.

There is not much hostility toward him on purely personal grounds. The fact that he is an olive-skinned Parsee is irrelevant, for two Parsees before him were Members of Parliament. One was Sir M. M. Bhowmager, the other Dadabhai Nowroji. Saklatvala is not very popular in the House of Commons. It is recorded that he "took the floor" for four hours while delivering his maiden speech—a distinct breach of etiquette, since new members are supposed to make their speeches as short as possible. He is still suffering from that "indiscretion." Whenever he rises to make a speech it is customary for members to begin stamping their feet.

His few speeches have not been of the type to which the House has been accustomed to listen. On one occasion he declared that "the British Empire is made up of the aristocracy and the cunning, dirty dogs of Great Britain who will assail any one's country any time." On another occasion he cried: "Let us abolish the Union Jack!"

Still more humorous was the occasion of a recent budget debate, when Winston Churchill was obliged to resign his seat because of the deafening protests of the Opposition. Mr. Saklatvala arose and said: "The Chancellor of the Exchequer having failed (to subdue the noise), it falls to a Communist revolutionary to restore order."

Was Born an Aristocrat.
Like many other radical leaders, Saklatvala was born a capitalist, one of the aristocracy of Indian commerce known as the Parsees. This people, of whom there are only 100,000 in all India, living mainly in Bombay, consider business failure a positive disgrace. No resident of Bombay has ever seen a Parsee beggar.

As is obligatory for a Parsee infant, Shapurji was born on the ground floor of the paternal house in Bombay. His father, Dorabji, had married Jehan, sister of J. N. Tata, the great Indian merchant, whom he later represented at Manchester. Seven days after the child's birth an astrologer was called in to make a forecast. What it was is not known, but it is likely that Neptune was in the ascendant, for Shapurji has since then continually been in water, sometimes very hot, often over his depth.

His education was completed at St. Xavier's School and the College of Bombay. "I was miseducated at Bombay University," he says, "and got really educated in human problems when spending three years in exploration work among the villages of India." This is perhaps more rhetorical than exact. After graduation he joined the family firm of Tata Sons, for whom he undertook a three years' trip in the jungle, prospecting for iron, coal and limestone. This resulted in the formation of the Tata Iron and Steel Works in India.

Shortly after that, he took up well-fare work in the slums of Bombay during plague epidemics and allied himself with the Trade Union Congress of India, which he represented at various congresses in Great Britain. In 1905 Saklatvala moved to England, where his radical opinions did not prevent his becoming the London departmental manager for Tata, Ltd., or his marrying Miss Mehri Marsh of Tansley, Derbyshire. They have three sons and two daughters.

Immediately upon reaching England, he established relations with the Labor and Socialist parties, joined the General Workers' Union, and, in 1910, began to take an active part in Independent Labor Party politics. He also joined the British Socialist Party, the Clerks' Union and the Co-operative Movement. He represented Labor in North Battersea in 1922-1923, but, on the party's refusal to affiliate with the Third International, resigned and joined the Communist Party.

Like many radical politicians, Saklatvala is thoroughly bourgeois in his life. He resides in a suburban house, his only club is the "1917," his only recreation in chess. Outside of his political tracts on Indian Labor, he is one of the founders of the Workers' Welfare League of India, which aims to destroy unfair competition between Asiatic and European labor by raising the standards of living of the Indian laborer to those of the British worker.

The Communist Party numbers only 5,000 members in Great Britain. In Parliament Saklatvala sits with the Laborites, yet has no political standing in Labor Party councils. Notwithstanding this, he is in demand as a week-end lecturer, possessing extraordinary eloquence.

To-day, in his fifth year, he is still a typical Parsee, though lacking the Parsee's traditional mustache. With a light olive complexion, a great beaked nose which almost meets his chin, beady black eyes, heavy arched eyebrows and thick lips, he is the image of many a member of that extraordinary community of Bombay over which a Council of Eighteen holds despotic sway.—New York Sunday Times.

New Map of Newfoundland

The new wall map of Newfoundland, which has just been issued by the publishers, Messrs. Whitehead Morris, Ltd., London, and a copy of which the Telegram has received from the Colonial Secretary's Department, in a splendid specimen of the Cartographer's art. The colour design is striking, the details are clear and distinct, and the various styles of type used for the place names greatly enhance its value for purposes of reference.

It is the work of Mr. George Turner, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Mines, who has been engaged upon it for several years, and its composition is testimony to his patience and skill. The map has been compiled from information obtained from the most recent Admiralty surveys and from those carried out by the Department, and it also shows in colours the new electoral districts defined under the Act passed at the last session of the Legislature.

Several new physical features appear in the Turner map which do not appear on the map previously used. In the Northern Peninsula for example is a large body of water called Lake Michel; the whole course of Little or Grey River on the west coast is shown draining Mallagee Lake; the bottom of White Bay is brought considerably south, and the alteration in the north eastern end of Grand Lake owing to the building of the Main Dam on Junction Brook is indicated.

One feature is significant and that is the large amount of land which does not yet appear to have been surveyed. A considerable portion of the Northern Peninsula seems to be a terra incognita, and we seem to be in a state of ignorance concerning much of the land lying north of the south coast. Surely it is time that we knew the country better! Judging from the undefined courses of many rivers and the sources from which they flow, it would appear that we have nothing more than a vague idea of the potential wealth of our water power, and consequently are quite willing to dispose of these great natural resources for a song, or to pay some enterprising promoter to make use of them.

With regard to the names of places, there are many additions consequent upon the industrial development around the Exploits and the Humber and the building of the branch lines. Some of the old names have been changed and others have been altered, but whether by accident or design we are unable to say. For example, Port aux Basques is written Port au Basques; Picadilly appears as Pica Denis—a change which must surely be due to a typographical error, and we find Barachois, Barasway, and Barriaway. Seldom Come Bay on Fogo Island does not sound right, and we think it is a pity that alternative names, for instance, Orange Bay or Harbour Deep should appear.

We can quite understand that such minor faults, and possibly they are not all faults, are unavoidable in a compilation of such magnitude, and the wonder is that no serious errors are noticeable. The map as a whole will, we feel certain, be favourably received by the public, and will be highly valued for the amount of information it gives, and the clarity with which it is set out, particularly in the schools and business places.

Taxi Fares and Other Matters

At yesterday's meeting of the Municipal Council notice of motion was given relative to the proposed taxi fare schedule recently published in the Telegram, and at that time we invited comment, but not a word favourable or unfavourable has been received so far.

This is a matter of interest to the public, but while many have strongly exercised their disapproval of the schedule on the street and in the various clubs, no one seems to consider it his particular business to suggest improvements.

It is because of this apathy in public affairs that improvements are slow in coming and hasty decisions are made and later regretted. The Press is blamed for not preventing this or that, or the Council is censured for committing itself to some action or other, but the influence of the Press depends to a great extent on the endorsement it receives, and the Council after all is but a small body of citizens, whose policy can be to a great extent controlled by popular sentiment. If that is not expressed the public is largely responsible for the inaction or the errors which, in places where citizens foregather, are so loudly condemned. It is time for the public to wake up and exercise its influence in all matters which concern the welfare of the community.

The Art Exhibition

The Art Exhibition in the Old Colony Club, Smallwood Building, Duckworth Street, which has been open all this week, still continues to attract large numbers of interested spectators. Newfoundland scenery as depicted by local and visiting artists should appeal to all patriotic Newfoundlanders. Much surprise has been expressed at the extent and interest of the exhibits, and no one should miss the opportunity of seeing this unique collection of pictures. The exhibition will remain open to-day and to-morrow, closing to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon.

Wireless Thief Catcher

An inventor has produced what he terms a "radio thief catcher." It is an electrical wired gateway at the entrance of factories and mines. The gate-keeper wears a radio head set and listens when a man passes out of the gate.

The electrical system is adjusted so that if a man carries an extra amount of metal through the gate a noise is heard on the phones.

In this way employees are prevented from carrying away precious metals or tools (says a writer in "The Scientific American"). The apparatus is tuned so that a reasonable amount of metal, such as coins, pocket-knives and watches do not create a signal.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.
 A meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon at 7 o'clock. Mayor Cook presided and Messrs. Martin, Outerbridge, Colquhoun and Dowden were present. The reading and consideration of the minutes of the last meeting was read from the communications secretary. (1) The Colonial Secretary:—(1) In connection with the protest of the Public Works of a coal shed on the Asylum grounds, the Board of Public Works and it had been decided that nothing definite be done on the matter for the present; (2) The Council of the apportionment of Mr. T. J. Foran as Re-elected in the forthcoming Municipal Election in connection with the latter it was decided that the election of a Mayor and Council should be held on the 8th day of December.

A. J. Harvey & Company have been granted a permit to place a plank for the use of pedestrians across the premises of H. J. Stabb extending to the eastern side of the bakery premises, they have to pay all expenses that may be incurred. Permit is to be issued.

W. Bradshaw complained of a nuisance caused by the residential road because of the drainage from the northern side of the road, and of the necessity of cross-drains placed there. The Engineer was instructed to examine the drainage and to take some means of remedying the same.

S. R. Oakley's application for a permit to place a concrete sidewalk on his premises, Duck Street, provided the Council is to contribute proportion of the cost.

E. P. Goff wrote with regard to the placing of concrete in the right of way leading from the Hill to Harvey Road. The question is immediately west of Methodist College grounds and of Mr. Crisp's property. Further in the matter are to be considered.

Mr. Goff asked that a sign be placed at the thoroughfare opened a few years ago and known as "The Street" as at present consideration was caused by the rest of the street owing to mistakes in the delivery of parcels, mail, etc. A sign is to be placed there.

The following matters were referred to the Engineering Department: (1) The placing of surface drain in Bog Street; and (2) the replacing of the drainage at Ford's Hill. Southside.

Electric lights are to be placed in the premises of Steers and Bowdoin. It is being pointed out at a meeting of the Council that the area is greatly handicapped at present time through lack of these lights.

A recent comment as regards the appointment of a Conciliator which is provided for under the Municipal Act, and of negligence on the part of the Council in this respect, it may be pointed out that the latter has applied to the present and late Government for the appointment of such a Conciliator.

TAXI RATES.
 Following the recent publication of the report by the City Tax Division, the Council has decided to table the report. "I beg to give notice that I will at the next Regular Meeting of the St. John's Municipal Council submit a list of proposals which are the subject of the report published in the Evening Telegram, inasmuch as they apply to the City Limits, be subject to the legal rates."

PLANS.
 The application of A. H. Murray & Co. to erect a shed at their waterside premises as per plan submitted was considered, as same is not in accordance with the provisions of Section 373 of the Municipal Act.

The City Clerk tabled statements of accounts and expenditure to September 30th last. The various items were considered and under the circumstances were thought fairly satisfactory. The City Clerk also informed the Board that during the past year upwards of one hundred summonses had been issued against City Poll Tax delinquents, cabmen, dog owners and owners of dogs who failed to comply with the Regulations. This will be done from week to week until all outstanding amounts are collected.

The Medical Officer of Health reported three new cases of Typhoid fever in the city during the past week. The reading of Departmental reports and passing of accounts presented at the meeting adjourned.

The ROYAL STORES, Ltd.

The Fish Business as I See It

By EDELENE SPENCER, author of Fish Cookery and formerly Specialist, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, Washington, D.C.

I have travelled up and down the Pacific Coast, across through the middle west states to the Atlantic, spending months in such cities as Chicago and New York, in the past few years in the interests of greater fish consumption. I have, in the natural order of things, found out much which might be of interest to those engaged in the fishing industry. Being the first woman working in this connection to run according to male psychology—the housewife receiving little or no consideration in the scheme of things. According to my way of reasoning, the housewife, her likes and dislikes were of paramount importance, she being the one who had the say as to whether any fish would be eaten in her household or not. She was the ultimate consumer whose every prejudice or whim should be studied and catered to—if the consumption of fish were to be increased.

I was for many years the manager of a large tea-room in a leading departmental store in Portland, Oregon. I made my place a special and financial success. During those years I learned, from the atmosphere of this large concern, how much attention is given to studying the wants of woman-kind. How carefully her every action and reaction is studied. Recognizing that the woman of the family does most of the purchasing, this business was carried on from the female point of view. Goods were bought to attract women; goods were displayed to appeal to women's eye and management and clerks advised each other in their desire to constantly think up new ways of making the feminine appeal. They were in business to sell goods. The woman does the buying. Consequently it was their chief aim and object in life to please her, to encourage her to buy all that her purse could bear.

So, with this background, I began my career in the interests of greater fish consumption.

In my years of culinary contact with the public, I had learned this one big fact, viz., That men like to eat fish—but women hate to cook it.

Daily a scene like this would occur in my tearoom. Husband and wife lunched together and scanning the menu card. Then she would say, "We had better have some fish. You are so fond of it and we never have it at home because I hate to handle and cook it. Oh, yes, I like it well enough when I do not have to prepare it myself and can get it as well cooked as this." Then they would order a fish luncheon.

Lack of Co-ordination. After travelling from ocean to ocean and meeting scores of men engaged in the fish industry from top to bottom, my observation of it as a whole is that it lacks co-ordination, generally speaking, each unit operating entirely from its own viewpoint from the fisherman onward through the hands of the distributor, wholesaler, and finally reaches the hands of the retailer. Then it is up to the retailer to provide the ultimate consumer with the fish he wants.

As for the fishing boat, the fish washer, with his heavy equipment of central line, ship and fish line, from the captain and crew looking seaward the storms of winter, sometimes with their very eyes fronted, on through the handlings of distributor and wholesaler until it finally reaches the retail fish dealer. His hands tremble the whole structure of the industry! It is owing to his incompetency or non-competency; his ideas of modern measures of sanitary handling of fish, or his medieval, benighted views, which makes or mars the neighborhood consumption of fish in his town or vicinity. He determines, if you please, how much fish shall or shall not be sold in his locality.

If he happens to be a man of ability and general facilities which make for self-reliance, he knows how to exhibit his stock to make the feminine appeal, which means that his stock sells readily and he makes a good living out of his retail market. Such a man as this is eagerly welcomed by wholesaler or distributor and they cooperate with much mutual satisfaction. If this man was the rule, life in the fish business would assume new aspects.

But the trouble is—he is not. I have seen so many dirty, smelly fish markets all over the country that I do not wonder that more fish is not sold—but marvel that women buy it under those conditions when the adverse advertising which the fish gets in these localities must be incalculable.

And this is not always confined to the little markets in wee towns where the fish-overs is small either. I recall a visit to the largest public market in Washington, D.C., last summer. I was looking for the fish stall wedged among vegetable and fruit, when my nose and eyes became aware of its vicinity at the same time. First the big flies buzzing, then pools of water on the floor leaking from smelly barrels of fish! I asked to see some fish and the retailer plunged his arm into a barrel and brought out a limp, sun-

and expressed satisfaction all the way along, with the result that the retailer of fish and his women customers are on the best possible terms. They show their appreciation of his efforts at sanitary measures and elegant fixtures throughout by their daily patronage. They enjoy buying their fish from his attractive premises, they come, pick it out, allow him to suggest and then educate them as they buy, even finding out the best means of cooking some hitherto untried variety. He attracts their custom, thus increasing their purchases, building up his own business and increasing his consumption at the same time. If every retailer were of this stamp many of the troubles of the industry would soon disappear. The distributor and wholesaler could devote all their efforts to producing as the manufacturer does, knowing that he has the best of co-operation from the man who has to deal with the ultimate consumer. Always assured that they are studying their end of the business, keeping up-to-date with every known display and argument to induce the customer to purchase their goods. But as I see it, the men at the top of the fishing industry do not have this co-operation from the retailer. It is the exception and not the rule when they do. And from all my observations this is where the weakest link in the chain of the whole fishing industry lies. The indifferent retailer, the dirty, cluttered up, smelly, fly-laden shop over which he lazily presides, too apathetic to reason why women do not come in to buy his fish! Women will never come willingly to a place where their first desire is to hold their noses and close their eyes. They shiftless housekeeping (for nothing) manifest on every side. They go without their fish first, they have a prejudice against fish to start with! They must get into cooking it for their families' sake. Consequently they are deadlocked between the indifferent retailer and his possible women customers which virtually amounts to a strike in some communities. I can see a way of overcoming this, even with the most obstinate retailer. It will surround many of the grocers, fresh from the refrigerator, I have come across some who are prejudiced against fish fillet on this account. The clear-sighted enough to visualize the day when much of their business will be handled by the grocer, who will grow the fillet idea. At a station in a Nova Scotia town I was asked where I got the fillet idea. I said they had come through the retailer and she asked them there. "What! Buy fish from a dirty shop? Never. I think I'll get them at my grocer." Which is the grocer kept a most successful shop which lured the women instead of repelling her as the retailer's had. There is no getting around the fact that the per capita consumption of fish will never reach a peak point until the retail end of the industry is thoroughly modernized. I do not know of any other industry which continues to be sold in a medieval fashion. Old world methods and dirty blocks, reaching the small of ages will always be away the daintily dressed woman objects to smelling of fish because she happens in to order a piece of it!

I wonder if it would not be for members of some fishing association to co-operate with manufacturers or sellers of date fixtures and refrigerators for retail fish shops? Some certain dealers who have the opportunity to expand, for the purchase of necessities on the installment plan. Thus assisting him and themselves the same time. A sort of subsidy or subsidy to the retailer. In my way, his premises would be the expansion which would come with the installation of improvements and assist in the project of the distributor who can produce more and more as he develops. As it now is—the thing is that of vicious circle. More modern do not develop with any degree of activity, unless there are up-to-date retail markets to attract the taste of the fastidious housewife here in. Then with this way in the chain strengthened—ready to go ahead and put fish on map to stay!

BOWRING BROTHERS, LTD.

When I speak of retail fish I am bunching them together in a general view of them. In my retail fish markets run by business men, most attractive and profitable, the fish is sold in a neat, clean, and well-arranged manner. The fish is fresh, and the prices are reasonable. The fish is sold in a neat, clean, and well-arranged manner. The fish is fresh, and the prices are reasonable. The fish is sold in a neat, clean, and well-arranged manner. The fish is fresh, and the prices are reasonable.

They are one of the most spoiling of articles. They take delicate handling to keep them attractive as the most perishable of fruits, and because they have been roughly handled, because time has not been taken to take care of them properly, dumped around in promiscuous fashion by the retailer, he must sell them very cheaply and they must be purchased by those to whom a cheap food is a necessity in many localities.

I have met many retailers of excellent type in Nova Scotia. I have been agreeably surprised to find many up-to-date markets in small towns. But always running them were men whose heads were set on making a profit. They were not interested in the health of the people, but in the health of their pockets. They were not interested in the health of the people, but in the health of their pockets.

First they were always glad to find a Canadian woman, then they freely confessed that they did not know fish could be made to taste so delicious and luscious as it did when cooked just long enough to retain all its own succulent, flavorful juices. Instead of the same being all dried out in the cooking process. They did not know, generally speaking, until the principles of fish cookery were explained to them wherein fish differed from meat. In that the connective tissue holding the fibres of fish together, is tender and gelatinous and softens at once upon the application of a great heat, while that of many cuts of meat is stronger and tougher, thus taking longer cooking to render it tender to the palate.

Again, generally speaking, the housewife knows very little about the concoction of the finer fish sauces, she being usually content to thicken a little milk, add a lump of butter, and let the sauce go at that or melt some butter and pour it over the fish. Now, melted butter makes very good eating, but variety is the spice of life, even in fish sauce. A cultured Frenchman who was a great epicure, made what he considered a most bitter, scathing arraignment of England when he said, "England is a land of a hundred religions—and only 'one' sauce!" This was the melted butter referred to above. Consequently, I would say, from my experience, that the housewife needs instructions upon sauce making as an adjunct to variation in fish cookery just as much as learning the principles which govern the cooking of fish. Such as: if you want a flavorful fish steak, you must blanket it to retain its juices, then subject it to great heat, around 600 degrees Fahrenheit, to seal in those juices and keep them intact inside the fish; or if you want a steamed fish, wrap it in parchment paper, salt and pepper it, treating it to a squeeze of lemon juice by their attendant women, their remarks showed an entirely different spirit.

Everywhere I find the women eager to listen to all the newer ideas upon the health side of using fish and the fish oil. In Nova Scotia I have observed there is no gopher to speak of. The ocean breezes in this island province, together with the indigestion of salt sea fish seems to be proof that they all get enough iodine to keep the thyroid gland functioning properly. I recall my Chicago audiences where I saw so many gopher necks and how eager those women were, questioning me afterwards did I think they would be benefited by eating ocean fish. I suppose the same condition will obtain round the Great Lakes region in Ontario.

Woeful Waters

WEIRD LAKE LEGENDS.

Two hundred and fifty years ago a battle was fought on the shores of Lake Morat, near Neuchâtel, which 24,000 French under Charles VIII and 20,000 Swiss peasants defeated. The fight was so furious that the waters of the lake were red with blood.

At intervals since that date the lake has been seen to grow ruddy all over and although it is known now that this strange change in colour is due to a tiny water plant, the people of the neighbourhood of the lake all believe that it is an omen of war.

There are several lakes or streams in different parts of the world which are connected similar strange legends. One is Lake Chrissle, four miles from Ermelo, in the Eastern Transvaal. When the Dutch emigrants came to the Cape first settled in the neighbourhood of an old medicine man named an old case medicine man believed that some day the lake would dry, and then the Boers would gain their independence. This prophecy has fulfilled.

An Omen of Disaster

We have in England several streams which are called as Woeful Waters. The best known is at Croxson, and is called The Bourne Flood. This underground river usually breaks about once in five years, and in old days was regarded as a portent of "death, plague or a great battle." It is a strange coincidence that from 1911 to 1914, it appeared every year, and ran down the Caterham road in San Jacopo, Italy, is a great stream belonging to an old and ruined mansion, and in this manor deep and very ancient well of water. It is said that strange noises and noises come from it when death threatens one of the great families who once owned the property. In 1914 such strange sounds came from the well that the neighbours were frightened. Yet nothing happened. The sounds ceased and were forgotten when news came from America that the last survivor of the old house had died in San Francisco.

Red Cross Work

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 15.—(By Canadian Press)—Mrs. Mary E. Wagon and Dr. James Robertson were recently guests of honor at a Red Cross Executive Luncheon. Mrs. Wagon described the beginning of the Red Cross work in 1920, when influenza was raging in a certain district of the north country. There was no doctor and no nurses and the people were in a terrible condition. The railroad was 100 miles distant. The British Columbia government would do nothing so it was decided that a nurse should go from Alberta. This was five years ago. To-day as we enter Ponce Coupe the first thing that catches your eye is the fine big building with the Red Cross flag waving in the breeze. This hospital serves 18 patients can be treated there. On a recent visit to the hospital the doctor took Mrs. Wagon out to a small disreputable building and told her that it had originally been the only place women could come in case of confinement before the hospital was built. The speaker called attention to criticism in London of the Canadian Red Cross Society. Complaints have been received from settlers in Canada that the women and children on the prairies and the far north are not being looked after. The only successful foundation for the transportation policy is to be able to assure the British people that there will be outport hospitals and the best of care in case of sickness and trouble, she said.

Stone for St. Paul's Cathedral for Missouri

COLUMBIA, Miss., Oct. 15.—(Can. Press)—A stone from St. Paul's Cathedral, London, will be placed on the campus of the University of Journalism of the University of Missouri. The stone is presented by British journalists through the courtesy of Lord Barnham, proprietor of the London Daily Telegraph and chairman of the Empire Press Union, with the consent of Dean William Ralph Inge of St. Paul's. Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, will deliver the address at the unveiling of the stone. On the stone will be placed a medallion plate showing distances and directions to all principal cities of the world. This plate bears the motto "I have set thee a watchman." The plate and stone from St. Paul's are to be placed upon a base of Missouri stone. The St. Paul's stone, a three-foot cube, formed a portion of one of the staircases on the south pediment of the cathedral. It was quarried in the Vale of Portland in 1724 and carved by Francis Bird, a famous English sculptor.

Very smart is the triple string of tiny pearls with few large graduated ones, perhaps in the center. Evening slippers of brocade have been covered with plain kid and tiny metal buckles on their straps.

WORLD'S SERIES BASEBALL. Washington Senators Dethroned By Pittsburg Pirates.

Pittsburg Pirates, pennant winners of the National League, raised the World's Championship Pennant for 1925 to the mast at Forbes' Field, yesterday, when they won a distinct triumph over the Washington Senators, last year's champions, by 9 runs to 7.

The game was full of thrills from start to finish. The score was tied at the end of the 6th innings, both teams having batted six runs each. It was in the final three sessions that Pittsburg paved the way for the much coveted honors. The series was the best on record.

INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL—TO-DAY'S GAME.

As the colleges are anxious to finish off the inter collegiate football games as soon as possible, the third game will be played this afternoon, if the weather is suitable. It had been arranged to play the games on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, but as to-morrow's weather cannot be depended on, the game will be played to-day if possible.

BIG RACE AT HALIFAX TO-MORROW.

McLellan, Bell, O'Toole, Hawboldt and Miles, The Favorites. When Lieut.-Governor Grant, of Nova Scotia, cracks his pistol to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in front of the Y.M.C.A. on Barrington Street in Halifax, thirty-six runners, the pick of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland will start off on the Halifax Herald Modified Marathon, which has now become the Eastern classic in road events. Never was there a more brilliant field of starters and among them will be Silas McLellan, of Noel County, who finished second to the great MacAulay, last year. Jimmy Martin, the old Dartmouth veteran; John C. Miles, of Cape Breton; Eastern Canada's five mile champion; Jimmy Hawboldt, who finished fourth last year; and last, but not least, our Nfld. representatives, viz., John Bell, Ronald O'Toole, Gower Stone and Jake Ralph. Much confidence is expressed in the ability of our representatives to bring back the honors. That they are in the pink of condition and are looked upon in a favourable light by some of the people in Halifax, is shown by the following message received this morning from Mr. J. E. Ahearn, Sporting Editor of the Halifax Herald: "McLellan, Bell, O'Toole, Hawboldt and Miles are the favourites. McLellan entered 36th on the list.

(Sgd.) J. E. AHEARN.

These are the five favorites according to the Halifax papers, and one of these must be recognized as the logical winner. Team Prize Looks Good. Only three teams, including ours, are entering for the team trophy, and there is much hope expressed that ours will be the best one. The teams entered for the trophy are R.C.R., Wanderers and Newfoundland. The eyes of the whole country are on the local boys to-morrow and, with bated breaths and hopeful hearts, their legion of admirers will await the cheerful flash over the Anglo wire that "Newfoundland Wins." The race is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock, which would be about 2:40 p.m. Nfld. time. Record Time. The record time for the Halifax Road Race was made by Victor MacAulay, in 1921 (55 min. 35 2-5 sec.); Bell came second the same year (58 min. 33 1-2 sec.). In 1913 MacAulay won the race over the same course as will be used to-morrow, in 56 min. and 28 sec.

MR. AYRE'S MESSAGE TO Nfld. ATHLETES.

Eric Robertson, Manager Nfld. Athletes, Halifax, N.S. "There is nothing too good for the Boys of Newfoundland." All Newfoundland to-day is anxiously awaiting the result of the race, confident that our men will play the game, work as a team, and whether they win or lose will give a good account of themselves, showing themselves in either victory or defeat, gentlemen and Newfoundlanders. Here is wishing the lot of you every success. Atta boys."

BABE RUTH OPERATED ON.

WASHINGTON—Babe Ruth was stricken here again to-day and is being rushed back to New York by a fast train to-night to enter a hospital for another operation. Babe is suffering from a recurrence of the abscess for which he was operated on last spring. A second operation will be necessary to alleviate the distressing condition.

Covering Series.

Ruth was at the World's Series in the role of baseball writer. When he left New York Monday night there was a small, infected spot on the scar, left by the operation last April. This afternoon, it had grown to the size of a catcloupe. Babe suffered intense pain. He could hardly walk from his car to his Pullman coach. Dr. King will meet his train at the Penn Station late to-night or early to-morrow morning. Babe will be taken direct to a hospital and the operation may be performed at once. The abscess is in the groin.

Ruth spent more than a month in St. Vincent's hospital after being stricken in the South while the Yankees were on an exhibition tour Northward after completing training at St. Petersburg.

March Run Down.

He left the hospital in a weakened condition, but returned to the Yankee line-up soon afterward. He experienced no further trouble, except in building up, until he noticed the infected spot on the scar last Monday. Friends of Ruth were of the opinion he went back to the game too soon, and that he should have gone to the country for a complete rest after leaving St. Vincent's. The big slugger insisted he would be "all right."

RUMOR SAYS DEMPSEY BOUGHT OFF WILLS.

There may be no truth in the rumor that Jack Dempsey, alleged world heavyweight champion, recently bought off his negro challenger, Harry Wills, for the sum of $25,000, but it is interesting nevertheless. Wills' manager had admitted that no forfeits were posted after the signing of articles for the visionary bout at Michigan City, Ind., some time next year, but he says that he received $25,000 for "training experiences."

The fessips are creating the impression that Dempsey has silenced the warlike talk of Wills for an indefinite period, and that the battle will never take place. It would be interesting to learn the identity of the persons who furnished the money which the negro and his manager brought back with them from the west.

Hints for Your Home

TRUBLE-SAVING TIPS.

Exposure to air causes a cut to go mouldy, so place the underneath for a tumbler for function under a good condition. It will keep in good condition some days.
Use milk instead of cold when boiling potatoes, and they will mash easily and quickly.
Use soft soap for cleaning stoves. It is made by keeping a two-pound jar of carburetted jam-jar three-quarters filled with water on the side of the boiler and dropping into it. The resulting soap can be added in small quantities to the water, or it may be mixed with powdered whiting to make a stiff paste, which can be used for cleaning and polishing plate and other articles.

Refered borax will get rid of stains if used every night for three weeks. Scatter it round holes over the floor, on shelves, wherever the creatures are known to frequent.
Use lace curtains, prints, and calli-cuffs troublesome to wash, the same because of the lime in them.
They should be soaked all night in water in which two or three tablespoons of salt have been dissolved.
After the dressing and renders washing easier.

Preserve mint for winter use, in a jar when dry, and then strip leaves from the stalks. Wash in a little vinegar and press into a screw-top bottle. Add a teaspoon of sugar, fill up with vinegar, cover tightly, and keep in a cool, dry place.
Boots and shoes improve by being a short time before they are worn. Don't be too liberal with polish cleaning them, as it is apt to crack and cake, preparing the way for cracks.

Spring From Quartz

Quartz is a spiral spring of great tensile strength for gravitation experiments. Dr. K. Silpuss, of the University of Lithuania, has tried quartz as material. The first effort to result in Nature to have yielded a spring of four turns having a diameter of about four-fifths of an inch, and this had such excellent elastic properties that a weight of half a pound extended it about two-fifths of an inch. In making the spring, a rod of quartz was first driven into a hole drilled in a carbon cylinder of one end. A fixed piece of fused quartz was then fused to the splinter of the oraxylene flame, and the rod was kept heated while the cylinder was "given" in its rotating motion of an ordinary screw.

Australian Duty Raises a Protest

London, Eng. (C.P.)—Walter Forrest, M.P. for Batley and Morley, has been in correspondence with Sir Joseph Cook, the High Commissioner for Australia, and Mr. Amery, the Colonial Secretary, on the subject of the new Australian tariff.

In both communications Mr. Forrest, as a Yorkshire member representing a district from which there are large exports of woollen goods to Australia, has protested against an increase of the duty on Yorkshire goods, and also against its having been put into operation the day before the news was published in this country.

Mr. Forrest has pointed out that the new tariff on low grade woollen goods will be prohibitive, and he has urged that, at least, there should be special exemption where evidence can be produced that the order was actually placed and accepted before the tariff was passed.

Mr. Amery's secretary has sent a letter to Mr. Forrest in which he says, "Whilst the particular measure to which you call attention may be prejudicial to the interest of the United Kingdom manufacturers, you will more or less, of course, be aware of the very great value of the preferences which Australia gives to the manufacturers, in many circumstances, of the United Kingdom."

Balk at 13th Certificate

Edmonton, Alta. (C.P.)—There is a marriage certificate in the office of the registrar of vital statistics which has three times been offered to prospective brides and three times refused. It bears the legend "Cancelled, no one will accept." And this because it is No. 13, in a new issue of certificates. One bride refused on the ground that she had had bad luck enough already in her choice and anyway she was 13 years older than her husband, and one 13 in the deal was enough. The next couple said that usually they were not superstitious "but in a thing like marriage you can't afford to take a chance." The third couple were from the country—two young things just starting life together. The tender-hearted registrar took a look at the blushing pair, started to ask the question, and then stopped. He hadn't the heart to try to get rid of the unlucky thirteenth certificate to so young a couple. Besides, they wouldn't take it anyway.

Another Suggestion

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Of all the names I have seen suggested for the new Hotel I don't see any more appropriate than "Atlantic," meaning the great ocean over which it looks and which surrounds our Island Home. There is certainly no hotel of any importance standing to bear this great ocean more righteously deserving of the name "Atlantic Hotel." It sounds good.

Yours truly,
A LADY.

AND ANOTHER.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—If we Newfoundlanders are to love our country, it would be nothing to the credit of the Newfoundland Hotel Facilities, Ltd., to give the new Hotel now under construction at Fort William a name which would be of no historical interest to us. Quite a controversy has arisen since my letter published in the Daily News some weeks ago on the very same subject. As the promoters of our new Hotel are silent in the matter at the present time, the name of "Fort William Hotel" does not seem to appeal to them, I am prepared to go one step further and suggest to them the name of the "Gilbert Hotel," in memory of the founder of our city, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, who took possession of St. John's and made it the capital of Britain's Oldest Colony. Thanking you for space, I remain.

Yours truly,
JAMES L. JACKMAN.

Are Women 100 Per Cent Efficient

How many women do you know who are one hundred per cent efficient? That means every nerve and sinew of the body pulsating with life and health as nature intended. Do you not know more who are half dead and half alive with aches, pains, nervous, irritable and despondent, making themselves miserable and every one around them? Women in this condition should let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound rebuild and restore them to a normal healthy condition which will make them one hundred per cent efficient and life worth living. There are women in every section of this country who testify to its merits.

Excellent Programme Shown at the Nickel

"THE AWFUL TRUTH" DELIGHTFUL FILM.

We have always felt a bit sorry for the movie star who had to assume a role made famous on the stage by some legitimate actress of sterling ability. The critics and the general public are always certain to make comparisons between the two and very often the film player suffers thereby. This, however, is far from the case in "The Awful Truth," which opened last night at the Nickel Theatre. For two full seasons Ina Claire played the leading role on Broadway and achieved a small amount of praise for the splendid manner in which she acquitted herself. Now along comes Agnes Ayres takes the adaptation by Elmer Harris, slides shyly into the shoes of Miss Claire and emerges on the screen trailing blossoming laurels in her wake. In a word, Miss Ayres has done as much and more with the role of Lusy Satterlee, as her predecessor. The story as originally written by Arthur Richman was a masterpiece of sparkling humor, and a full evening of brilliant entertainment. The adaptation of Elmer Harris retains all that the author put into the piece and has added to it so much more that the film is the most entertaining society comedy we have seen on the screen in many a moon.

An attraction of special interest is the film showing the acid test of the Ever Warm Safety Suit which was demonstrated in our harbor on Tuesday afternoon by Capt. G. D. Kelly who is now in St. John's. "Jubilo Jr." an Our Gang comedy is one of the best of this famous brand seen this season.

Hindu Buried Alive

Allahabad.—A curious case at the Bank Court has ended in the acquittal of two Hindus charged with aiding and abetting the suicide of a Hindu ascetic who allowed himself to be buried alive. The evidence showed that the ascetic voluntarily descended into a grave, and during the filling-in chanted religious songs. The two accused men, who admitted digging and refilling the grave on the instructions of the ascetic, said they were his disciples and bound to obey his commands.

It was pleaded in defence that the holy man had not committed suicide, but merely performed the religious rite of "samadhi"—being buried alive while in a state of suspended animation. The court accepted this defence. LONG.

MINAR'S LINIMENT FOR SORE BACK.

The Cyclone Rider

A FEAST OF THRILLS FOR THE MAJESTIC PATRONS TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW.

The Cyclone Rider is a thriller. Here are some of the big thrills, and each one of them is a real, honest-to-goodness thrill, not a suggestion of one:

Two men struggling eighteen floors above the street, the rescue of a man from the ledge of a skyscraper, a man swinging like a pendulum from the topmost beam of a big building under construction, a sensational automobile race, a twelve-foot leap in an automobile from a pier to the platform of a ferry boat, a racing car travelling at breakneck speed turned turtle to avoid running over a child, hand-to-hand fights in water mains under city streets.

In fact, from beginning to end this feature is packed with excitement. And as it swings along at a terrific pace and with perfect continuity, the effect on an audience is one of fast-clenching suspense.

There's a great thrill almost at the very start when the hero, riding a steel beam in mid-air, rescues a man from the ledge of a skyscraper. Much of the early action revolves around construction work and better backgrounds for stunts could hardly have been chosen. Then the scene shifts to the auto-race—and it's a pippin—and then to underground battles. Lincoln J. Carter certainly understands melodrama and Fox knows how to produce it with the maximum of thrills and sufficient comedy relief.

The work of the entire cast is excellent. Reed Howes scores both as a stunt man and emotional actor, which is somewhat of an unusual combination. Alma Bennett is very pretty and appealing as the heroine, and William Bailey striking as the villain. Charles Canklin and Bud Jamison have the two comic parts, those of colored servants, and do well with them. Everything is all set for the big matinee to-morrow Saturday afternoon.

No Word of Lone Mariner

Seattle, Wn., Oct. 8.—Capt. Thomas Drake, who left Seattle alone in May for England in a small schooner, has not been heard from since he sailed for San Diego Aug. 15. J. W. Lough, of Seattle, an old friend of Drake's, said to-day Drake had planned to sail around Cape Horn.

Gerald Chapman Opens New Fight for Life

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 8.—Gerald Chapman, bandit and convicted slayer of Policeman James Shelley, at New Britain on October 12, of last year, began another fight for his life yesterday when his counsel argued on his appeal from his conviction for murder before the Supreme Court of errors. Chapman is under reprieve until December 3 from death on the gallows at the state prison in Wethersfield.

CONFEDERATION LIFE.

WORLD'S "STRONGEST" MAN DEAD.

Berlin, Oct. 13.—Stefan Breitbart, billed in circus and vaudeville programmes for years as "The World's Strongest Man," died to-day, aged 42. Breitbart, whose exhibitions consisted of pulling against two horses, bending iron bars and tearing horse-shoes apart, succumbed to blood poisoning which developed from a small scratch.

CHIEF CONCLUSIONS OF THE CHURCH "DRY" REPORT.

"When the brewers and the Anti-Saloon League get together to enforce Prohibition, the millennium will jog along close behind. A minority of the brewers and distillers have repeatedly suggested compromise plans on the liquor situation. Various plans have been advocated to secure a larger alcoholic content in beer and pledge the brewers to aid in enforcement. If they ever work out a program to make Prohibition enforcement effective, Congress and the people will doubtless give it due consideration.

"There are many barriers in the way of the plan. Experience in the United States indicates the people will have real Prohibition or licensed liquor. The majority of Congress come from districts and States where the two-half-per-cent. standard has been adopted under State law. They will not go back on their constituents. "Then, too, voters will want evidence that the brewers can make good in their plan to enforce the law. If the Government can not do it, how can the brewers do it?"

While the report of the Federal Council of Churches is described by many papers as the most important document yet issued on the subject, it explains in its opening paragraphs that one of its aims "is to stimulate more adequate study of the social consequences of Prohibition." This brings the following suggestion from the Newark News:

"An organization like the Rockefeller Foundation, with the millions of dollars at its disposal, could, if it were so minded, make an investigation of Prohibition that would truly get somewhere. It might not find the facts quite in accordance with the Rockefeller idea of what ought to be. What of that? "From the Government we do not get the real truth about Prohibition—at least not all the truth. The proponents of Prohibition twist facts to support their own ideas, and so, too, do its opponents. The truth lies somewhere in the realm of the ascertainable, and the individual or foundation that dispassionately found it out and then told it to the country would be an undoubted public benefactor, if only by eliminating much useless effort in almost countless directions."

Rays That Kill Microbes

Two scientists dropped a bottle containing an antiseptic into a vessel of impure water. The bottle was tightly corked so that its contents could not come into contact with the water. Yet twenty-four hours later, when the bottle was taken out, 25 per cent. of the microbes in the water had been killed. The account of this experiment, conducted by Dr. Techoueyres and Dr. Buns-Varilla, was given before the French Academy of Sciences (says a writer in "Popular Science"). An explanation advanced is that the antiseptic gives off rays that attack microbes. The tube that contained the antiseptic, a weak solution of chloride of lime, was made of quartz, which apparently let the rays through readily. The consequence of this experiment may be of great importance. Our drinking water, for example, in the future may be purified at very low cost without chemicals.

$5,000 for Finder of Lost Pearls

Vancouver, B.C. (C.P.)—Miss Duffitt of this city is being congratulated on receiving the reward of $5,000 for finding in the grounds of the Chateau of Lake Louise the pearls lost by Hon. Mrs. Blyth on her recent visit to Canada. Miss Duffitt reported her find to the manager of the Chateau. Mrs. Blyth thought she had put the necklace in a jewel box, found intact on opening after the voyage, except for the pearls.

For a nice salad add a little salt, minced parsley, cayenne, halved raw cranberries and chopped raisins to cottage cheese. Serve cold on lettuce.

Training Youths for Farm Work

are now available of the scheme promoted by the Government here for providing training for young unemployed men which will be calculated to fit them for farm work. One of the four residential training centres will be at Claydon, near Ipswich, and those accepted will be trained either for farm work in England or overseas. Applicants for training with a view to employment overseas must be: (a) Provisionally approved by a representative of the Dominion authorities, and must, before entering training, sign an undertaking to remain throughout the course, and, as soon as possible thereafter, to proceed to the Dominion concerned, if finally approved for employment there; (b) Single men between the ages of 19

(From Our Own Correspondent)

THE SUPERSTRUCTURE OF NEW BRIDGE WILL COST OVER SIX MILLIONS.

The final plans for the Montreal South Shore Bridge have been sanctioned by the Harbor Commissioners. The figures for the superstructure, which is in the hands of the Dominion Bridge Company, Ltd., were made public for the first time and will reach $6,554,000.

The figures, according to Dr. W. L. McDougald, President of the Harbor Commissioners, are liable to changes, as the Company tendered on a unit basis, various weights of steel being employed.

The work for the substructure has been given to two contractors, the Trench Construction Company getting the northern half, and Githlin, Robinson and Janin, Ltd., getting the southern half, on which good progress has already been made.

MONTREAL USES TWENTY BILLION GALLONS OF WATER.

Figures given out by the city water department show that since the first of the year over twenty billion gallons of water have been used by Montreal. This is the estimate of F. Dowd, secretary of the aqueduct office, who adds that by the month two and a quarter billions are used, the output of four pumps in the new pumping station. Of these, three are thirty-million gallon pumps the other of twelve million capacity.

For the nine months period covered by the report 75,000,000 gallons was the daily output, to which must be added the 35,000,000 furnished by the Montreal Water and Power Company.

The main supply of city water is pumped from the foot of Atwater avenue and from there carried to the various levels. Five sub-stations care for this part of the work of giving Montrealers drinking and washing facilities. The high level stations are situated at McTavish, Cedar, Western and Papineau avenues, with another one at Cartierville, as an adjunct of the latter.

With a capacity of six 30-million gallon pumps, the aqueduct is now ready for use and a new station has been built to take care of twelve of these, whose total daily capacity is 360,000,000 gallons.

and 25. In the case of men who served with the forces during the Great War the upper age limit may be raised to the extent of such services, up to the age of 29; (c) Unskilled, i.e., men who have received a course of training at public expense or financial assistance from the Civil Liberties or King's funds.

The precise nature of the course of training for overseas employment may be varied from time to time, but it is intended, generally, to give training in: (a) The handling of horses, including ploughing and care of live stock, elementary repairs to harness; (b) Milling; (c) Simple agricultural operations; (d) elementary woodwork, the use of simple wood-working tools such as plane, chisel, saw, crosscut, mauls, wedges, axe and bill-hook; (e) The erection and repair of wire fencing and wooden hutments, and where necessary; (f) Timber felling; and (g) Simple repairs to farm implements.

THE JUDGE SEEMED PLEASED AT THE COMPLIMENT.

Contradictory evidence as to the condition of a taxi-driver at the time he hit another car on Sherbrooke Street developed when the accused man appeared for a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. A constable and four witnesses to the accident declared that the accused was obviously intoxicated. The accused himself testified that if he had appeared unsteady at the time of the accident it was because of lameness in one leg, which he had suffered in war services at the front. Another witness for the defence, a man whom the driver had taken to his home prior to the accident, also denied that the driver was intoxicated. "Why he was 'as sober as a judge's your honor,'" said the witness. "What do you mean by being 'as sober as a judge?'" said Judge Monet. "Do you mean as sober as a judge when he is on the bench?" continued the judge. "Yes," said the witness, "that's what I mean." The judge smiled and seemed pleased at the compliment. Judgment was deferred.

THE NEW GAZETTE BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION.

The new Gazette building situated on St. Angèle Street, two blocks east of Windsor Street, is nearing completion. The new building which is 193' 6" by 166' in size, occupies a whole block, bounded on the west by Cathedral Street and on the east by Ste. Cecile Street, with a 20-foot lane in the rear, thus assuring light on all sides. Although designed for eight stories, the present building contains five stories and basement; the three additional stories to be added as the requirements of the business demand. The frame of the building is of structural steel, with reinforced concrete floors and roof, the outer walls being of cut stone and brick, all windows, sashes and frames being copper-covered, fitted with wire glass, and all steel beams and other structural work are embedded in concrete, the whole constituting an absolutely fireproof structure.

In the building will be installed a most modern sprinkler equipment, with pressure tanks and everything that has been devised to date for absolute fire protection by this method. It will be heated by low pressure steam, the boilers—of which there are three—being equipped so that coal or oil fuel may be used, the plant being so devised that it can be changed from one to the other at will.

In connection with the heating, each floor is equipped with thermostatic control, which may be set on any floor to regulate and maintain an even temperature as required.

The elevator capacity will consist of five cars: two main passenger, two freight and one large employees' elevator. The electric power and wiring have been brought up to date, as it is proposed to put in the most modern and up-to-date system of electric power and lighting known.

The building is primarily designed for the newspaper, and, in connection with this, on the first floor there will be installed a new six-unit Hoe press of the latest type, being equipped with electrical drive and controllers, everything being of the latest and best design and manufacture. Provision has been made in the press-room for an additional 15 units, making the capacity of the room 21 units in all, this being in excess of anything in Canada and equalled by very few in the United States or Great Britain.

The equipment for the news-room will also be largely entirely new, as it is the intention of the management now to remove to the new premises any machinery which is not strictly up-to-date both in design and condition. Adequate provision has also been made for the editorial, news, telegraph and business staff, with especially designed mailing and shipping room, the whole making, it is believed, when the building is completed, one of the most up-to-date and convenient newspaper plants on the continent.

WILL HOLD A BIG APPLE EXHIBITION.

The Pomological and Fruit Growing Society of Quebec is to hold a big apple exhibition at the Windsor Hotel on November 4th, 5th and 6th. A prize list amounting to $1,827.00 and a silver challenge cup has been offered for the sweetest. The Pomology Board Commissioners have offered free storage in their big cold storage plant to those farmers of the province or the city wishing to enter the competition.

CARRIES OFF A LARGE NUMBER OF PRIZES.

The show herd of Raymond's Farm, Vendreuil, Que., owned by Donat Raymond, of the Queen's Hotel, gained a number of ribbons when it featured at the Hojstein exhibition at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. Brookholm Inks, the herd sire, began by winning in a class of nine two-year-old bulls, and ended by taking the reserve senior championship ribbon.

For the herd also, went first honors in the class for cows in milk over four years old and first and third in the class for dry cows. Countess Abbeville Hemke took senior and the grand championship prizes. A number of other honors completed the results of one of the farm's most successful years.

THINGS YOU CAN'T GET ALONG WITHOUT.

The Montreal Herald, under the heading of "Indispensable," says editorially:—
The greatest convenience in life often prove of exceeding inconvenience—many things considered indispensable being the cause of numberless trials and tribulations. Of other things than women it is said, "you can't get along without them and you can't get along with them."

Every thoughtful man wants to own his own home and to acquire other real estate for reasons known to all, but for other very good reasons some, who may, do not. Possession of unencumbered real estate invites damage suits, attracts friends in trouble hunting bail, and friends in need of money hunting an endorsement for a note. It also places the possessor on the sucker-lists of stock salesmen and contribution collectors. And there are the taxes to meet.

The ways are manifold in which an automobile gives its owner advantages over the non-owner. So many are the uses of the automobile that the average owner is quickly convinced of their indispensability. But the open road is not a path of roses. The way of the motorist is hard—abounding in motor cops, beset with detours and speed traps, obstructed by accidents and damage suits, infested with punctures and empty gas tanks, and approached by twelve monthly payments and usury.

And yet, though there be evil seconds in every minute, optimism predominates in this life and pessimism is forbidden by popular edict. Life will be "fair to middlin'" or "tolable" as long as its advantages counteract the disadvantages and there remains some (Continued on 18th page.)

Doras Society Report for 1924 and 1925

The Ladies of the Dorcas Society present their one hundred and first brief report to the public generally, but especially subscribers who have so liberally supported them in their work.
They have reason for thankfulness because their circle remained unbroken during the past year. Their former success stimulates them to renew their exertions and an early call will be made by collectors who feel confident of good results.
They would ask those who are kind enough to contribute to give their tickets only to persons who are known to be deserving of charity.
They are most grateful for the bequest of $120.21 from the Estate of the late Mrs. Charlton, of London, England; also bequest of $100.00 from the Estate of the late Nicholas Walsh. They thank the Government for their annual grant, and also Mr. W. B. Fraser for again auditing their accounts. The Society is under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Alford.

THE LATCH STRING OF OPPORTUNITY.
Dear Reader:—The opportunities many, but many times we pull the latch string the wrong way and things go wrong, causing worry, annoyance and discouragement. "The Burrows" gives a few good hints to succeed: To be a little more courteous than necessary, to pay a little stricter attention than most people do, and consequently to be a little more accurate than they are.
To be a little better informed than the average.
To work a little harder and a little more willingly than the hunch.
To be neat, modest and yet confident and aggressive.
To keep the mind on clean, useful thoughts; to spend a little less money than is earned.
To be happy and yet never self-satisfied—summed up, it all means being the rare person who not only gives but gets most out of the job and out of life.
For such people the latch-string of opportunity hangs at many doors. "One who never turned his back but marched breast forward, Never doubted clouds would break, Never dreamed, though right were worried wrong would triumph, Held we fall to rise, arc baffled to fight better, Sleep to waken."

Save Us From Our Friends
TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 10.—(By Canadian Press)—Deplorable conditions that exist in sections of Newfoundland and Labrador, and need and illiteracy of many of the people were told by Miss Margaret Robinson, addressing the Women's Mission Circle, Walmer Road Baptist Church, Miss Robinson has recently returned from Labrador, where she spent the two past summers as a teacher among the fisherfolk, associated with the Grenfell Mission. Speaking of the first school, held in a storehouse overlooking a kennel where twelve dogs were quartered, Miss Robinson said that this particular Newfoundland community had been without a teacher for eleven years. Desolation was rampant in the majority of the fisherfolk homes, which she stated were almost barren of furnishings.

During the year's leave of absence from the mission, Dr. Grenfell had interested himself in securing material that would be a benefit to the people and among other things were brought from China that were proving invaluable to the women engaged in weaving.
(Was it not to some purpose the St. Paul said: "Let your women have a share in the churches?")
