If the land be rated as unoccupied land, without the name of a non-resident owner, the land only is liable for the amount of taxes. See Sheppard v. Bradford, 16 C. B. N. S. 369 for an example. But in Jones v. Mersey Docks, which so far as it went settled the law, it was decided that the fact of the occupation being for public purposes did not exempt the occupier from the payment of poor rates; but that the occupier was liable provided he derived revenue from the land, unless the occupation was one on behalf of the Crown—or what may be called an extension of the privilege of the Crown—an occupation for the purposes of the government of the country. Per Blackburn, J., in Reg. v. West Derby, L. 5. Every public school house, town or city or township hall, court house, gaol, house of correction, lock-up house, and public hospital, with the land attached thereto, and the personal property belonging to each of them. (p) Town and City halls, etc.

(o) This is not an absolute, but a qualified exemption, viz: "so long as such buildings and grounds are actually used and occupied by such institution, or if unoccupied, but not if otherwise occupied." A building erected for and used as elementary schools for the education of the poor, and two dwellings erected for the teachers of the schools, all vested in a trustee, were held not to be exempt under Imp. Stat. 11 & 12 Vic. c. 63, secs. 2, 69, from the payment of a rate for the paving of the street on which they abutted. Bowditch v. Ashfield Local Board of Health, L. R. 6 Q. B. 567. (p) In using the terms employed in exempting certain buildings, such as court-houses, gaols, places of worship and the like, and then exempting the real property of some institutions, and the real and personal property of other institutions, the legislature must have had in view the nature, object and purposes of these buildings and institutions. (e) This subsection is not easily distinguished from the subsec which follows it. It is submitted that the following may be construction:

1. Where the annual income of any person derived from his sonal earnings does not exceed $700, he is absolutely exempt to amount of his personal earnings, whether he has a larger a income from other sources or not.

2. Where the annual income of any person (not derived fro personal earnings) does not exceed $1,000, he is absolutely exem the amount of $400, whether he had a larger annual income d from his personal earnings or not.

3. Where the annual income derived from personal ea exceeds $700, or where the annual income derived from other s sources exceed $1,000, there is no exemption in either case.

24. The annual income of any person to the amount of $400, provided the same does not exceed $1,000. (f) Any person entered on the roll as a wage-earner shall be entitled to the exemption provided for in this sub-section in respect of earnings or income. (g) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 6 (22); 43 V. c. 27, s. 4; 49 V. c. 38, s. 6. Income up to $1,000.

25. The stipend or salary of any clergyman or minister of religion, while in actual connection with any church, and doing duty as such clergyman or minister, to the extent of $1,000, and the parsonage when occupied as such or unoccupied, and if there be no parsonage the dwelling-house occupied by him, with the land thereto attached, to the extent of two acres, and not exceeding $2,000 in value. This sub-section shall not apply to a minister or clergyman whose ordinary business or calling at the time of the assessment is not clerical though he may do occasional clerical work or duty. 48 V. c. 42, s. 12. Exemption of Ministers' stipends.

26. Rental or other income derived from real estate, except interest on mortgages. (h) Rental of real estate, etc.

(f) If this construction of the clauses be correct, the exemption allowed by the Legislature may in some cases be considered liberal. Thus a person with an income of $700 from personal earnings, and an additional income of $1,000 from mortgage investments would be only assessable for $600 of his total income of $1,700.

(g) See the previous note.

(h) The latter part of this subsection is now obsolete owing to the repeal of the other provisions of the Act relating to wage-earners. 51 Vict. c. 29, sec. 11 (2).

(i) If the owner of land were taxed for the land according to its value, and also taxed for the rental which he received as income from it, he would be twice taxed. A person so situated was doubly taxed under the Act of 1859, and so the law continued till 1868, when it was altered by this sub-section. The principal secured by a mortgage is exempt. See sub-s. 16 of this section.

All wearing apparel is, under this sub-section, exempt from taxation. This would, probably, be held to include articles of jewelry in ordinary use. Montague v. Richardson, 24 Conn. 338; Bacon v. Platt, 33 N. H. 345.

Evidence on which Assessor to enter persons as Separate School supporters.

Rev. Stat. c. 225.

(4) In any case where the trustees of any Roman Catholic separate school avail themselves of the provisions contained in section 120 of The Public Schools Act, for the purpose (amongst others) of ascertaining through the assessors of the municipality the persons who are the supporters of separate schools in such municipality, the assessor shall accept the statement of, or on behalf of any ratepayer that he is a Roman Catholic, as sufficient prima facie evidence for placing such person in the proper column of the assessment roll for separate school supporters, or if the assessor knows personally any ratepayer to be a Roman Catholic this shall also be sufficient for placing him in such last mentioned column. 42 V. c. 32, s. 2.

Mode of Assessing Real Property.

Land to be assessed in the municipality or ward.

Personal property.

15. Land shall be assessed in the municipality in which the same lies, and, in the case of cities and towns, in the ward in which the property lies; and this shall include the land of incorporated companies, as well as other property, and when any business is carried on by a person in a municipality in which he does not reside, or in two or more municipalities, the personal property belonging to such person shall be assessed in the municipality in which such personal property is situated, and against the person in possession or charge thereof, as well as against the owner. (u) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 1[illegible].

Land occupied by owner to be assessed in his name.

16. Land occupied by the owner shall be assessed in his name. (v) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 14.

(t) See note i to sec. 6 of this Act.

(u) Personal property of a person having a farm, shop, factory, or other place of business, must, as a rule, be assessed at the place of business. Sec. 36. If a person has several places of business in different municipalities, then, according to this section, the property is to be assessed at the place or places where situate. See sec. 36, sub-s. 2. If a person has no place of business, then he is to be assessed at the place of residence. Sec. 37. See further, note to sec. 6.

(v) The word "owner" is here used as a word of a very wide signification. Upon seeing land occupied by an apparent owner, the assessor is bound to assess the occupant for it, no matter upon what trust the freehold of the land is held. See Dennison v. Heap, U. C. Q. B. 276; Franchon v. St. Thomas, 7 U. C. L. J. 24[illegible]

17. Land not occupied by the owner, but of which the owner is known and, at the time of the assessment being made, resides or has a legal domicile or place of business in the municipality, or has given the notice mentioned in section 3, (w) shall be assessed against the owner alone, if

When land not occupied by the owner, but owner is known.

Lister v. Lobley, 7 A. & E. 124, the trustees of a turnpike road were authorized to enter and take certain land, &c., making satisfaction to the owners or proprietors for their loss, and it was held that compensation was to be made not only to the owners in fee simple, but to lessees for years. In Chauntler v. Robinson, 4 Ex. 163, which was an action brought by a person against his neighbour for not keeping the house of the latter in repair, whereby, &c., Parke, B., said: "The term 'owner,' as well as 'proprietor,' is ambiguous. It may mean that the defendant had the whole legal interest in the house at the time of the wrong complained of, or that he was owner of the whole or some interest, as distinguished from that of the tenant in possession;" &c. Ib. 170. In Hopkins v. Provincial Ins. Co., 18 U. C. C. P. 74, a person having only a leasehold interest was held to be the owner within the meaning of a question put to him before the issue of the notice. In Bowditch v. Wakefield Local Board of Health, L. R. 6 Q. B. 567, a trustee, in whom was vested a public school for the education of poor children, was held to be the owner for the purpose of taxation, under the secs. 2 and 69 of 11 & 12 Vict. c. 63. See further School Board of London v. Vestry of St Mary, Islington, 1 Q. B. D. 65. By sec. 33 of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847, (10 & 11 Vict. c. 89), the commissioners may send engines, beyond the limits of the special Act for extinguishing fire in the neighbourhood of the limits; and the owner of the lands and buildings where such fire shall have happened, shall in such case defray the actual expense which may be thereby incurred: Held, that the occupier was the owner of lands within the meaning of the enactment, and liable for expenses incurred in sending an engine to extinguish a fire at a hay-stack belonging to him. Lewis v. Arnold, L. R. 10 Q. B. 245. It is the duty of the assessor to enter on the roll the names of all persons in occupation, whom, after diligent enquiry, he believes to be owners. It does not seem that a personal occupation of the lot is necessary. A lot may be used with another part of the same farm, and that without there being a house upon it, or even a barn—the house and farm buildings being on an adjoining farm. But the occupancy must be so visible that the assessor can see it. Bank of Ottawa v. Fanning, 17 Grant 514; 18 Grant 391. If the person rated as owner omit to appeal, he is bound by the assessment, whether owner or not. McCarrall v. Watkins, 19 U. C. Q. B. 248.

(w) The duties of the assessor under the first part of this section relate to land not coming under the description of the previous section, such as "land occupied by the owner," but to lands such as described in sec. 3 as "unoccupied land." The assessor has no legal right to enter on the roll the name of a non-resident owner merely because it is known to him. His right to do so only arises when the latter has given the notice required by sec. 3. See notes to that section. In the case of a person residing in or having a legal domicile or the land is unoccupied, or against the owner and occupant, if the occupant is any other person than the owner. (x) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 15.

When owner not resident in municipality but resident in Province.

18. If the owner of the land is not resident within the municipality, but resident within this Province, then, if the land is occupied, it shall be assessed in the name of and against the occupant and owner; but if the land is not occupied, and the owner has not requested to be assessed therefor, then it shall be assessed as land of a non-resident. place of business within the municipality, his name, when known, may be placed on the roll. A man's place of residence may not be his domicile or place of business. There are cases in which place of abode and place of business mean the same thing. See Haslope v. Thorne, 1 M. & S. 103; Alexander v. Milton, 2 C. & J. 424; Roberts v. Williams, 2 C. M. & R. 561; Johnson v. Lord, M. & M. 444. But place of residence and place of business do not necessarily mean the same thing. Reg. v. Deighton, 5 Q. B. 896; Reg. v. Coward, 16 Q. B. 819; Reg. v. Hammond, 17 Q. B. 772; Reg. v. Gregory, 1 E. & B. 600; Reg. v. Spratley, 6 E. & B. 363. See also note a to sec. 35.

(x) If the land be occupied the occupant should be assessed. If not occupied by the owner both the occupant and the owner should be assessed. If unoccupied, then the owner alone must be assessed. The occupation here meant is not simply possession as by a child, servant, or caretaker, but by a person having an interest of some kind in the land. The occupation need not be a personal one in the sense, that the occupant should have his house on it. It will be enough if he have his house elsewhere in the municipality, and work it as to be visibly possessed of it. Bank of Toronto v. Fanning, 17 Grant 514; Warne v. Coulter, 25 U. C. Q. B. 177; see also Fryer v. Bodenham, 19 L. T. N. S. 645. But merely sinking a post in the ground or some other trifling act of that character will not be sufficient to constitute occupation. Grant v. Local Board of Oxford, 19 L. T. N. S. 378. Where the occupation is necessary for the performance of services, and the occupier is required to reside on the premises in order to perform the services, the occupation being strictly auxilliary to the performance of duties which the occupier must perform, the occupier is a servant and ought not to be assessed. Hawes v. Overseers of Chatham, 5 M. & G. 54; Dobson v. Jones, Ib., 1; Clark v. Overseers of the Parish of St. Mary Bury St. Edmunds, 1 B. (y) The meaning of this section is not free from doubt. If it be occupied, no doubt it should be assessed in the name of the occupant. If unoccupied, and owned by a person living in the municipality, it may be assessed in his name. But if unoccupied and o

When owner not resident in Province.

19. In the case of real property, owned by a person not resident within this Province, who has not required his name to be entered on the assessment roll, then if the land is occupied it shall be assessed in the name of and against the occupant as such, and he shall be deemed the owner thereof for the purpose of imposing and collecting taxes upon and from the same land; (z) but if the land is not occupied, and the owner has not requested to be assessed therefor, then it shall be assessed as land of a non-resident; (a) and it shall not be necessary that the name of such non-resident or owner be inserted in the assessment roll, but it shall be sufficient to mention therein the name of the reputed owner, or the words "Owner Unknown," according to the assessor's knowledge or information. by a non-resident, it can only be assessed in his name on his request in writing. See note e to sec. 3. This section provides that if the land be occupied "it shall be assessed in the name of and against the occupant and owner." The question is, whether this is to be done where the owner is a non-resident of the municipality, and has not requested his name to be entered on the roll. The language of the section is broad enough to cover all owners, whether resident within or without the municipality. But the narrower construction seems to be the correct one. Persons in the occupation of land in the sense that they are in exclusive occupation of any part of it, whether above or below, are liable to be rated in England for poor rate. See Pimlico, &c., Tramway Co. v. Greenwich, L. R. 9 Q. B. 9; see further, Allan v. Overseers of the Poor, Liverpool, L. R. 9 Q. B. 180; *London and North Western R. W. (b) A strict compliance with this section is not necessary to the validity of an assessment. DeBlaquiere v. Beeker, 8 U. C. C. P. 167; Reg. ex rel. Lachford v. Frizell, 9 U. C. L. J. N. S. 27. In the last mentioned case Mr. Dalton said, "The name of the defendant is not set down under that of Henry Bowen and bracketed with it, nor is the assessment against the defendant separately numbered on the roll. Some other deviations from the statutory form will be observed. The defendant's name, however, is written in the general heading 'Names of Taxable Parties,' and that it was so written for the purpose of assessing him is known from other facts. Are these deviations, then, so essential as to render the assessment void? After examining the English cases and our own, as far as I have been referred to or place both names within brackets on the roll, and shall write opposite the name of the owner the letter "F," and opposite the name of the occupant or tenant the letter "T"; and both names shall be numbered on the roll. (c) have been able to find them, I have come to the conclusion that the assessment is good. It would certainly seem an extraordinary thing, considering the class that assessors must necessarily come from, that variances from the form of the assessment should vitiate it." This decision was approved of and followed by the Court of Queen's Bench. In re Johnson and Lambton, 40 U. C. Q. B. 305. See, further, Mc...gan v. Parry, 17 C. B. 334, and Bramfitt v. Bremner, 9 C. B. N. S. 1; Applegarth v. Graham, 7 U. C. C. P. 171; but see, also, Reg. ex rel. McGregor v. Ker, 7 U. C. L. J. 67. If an assessor, or any other officer of a municipality, omit to follow the plain directions in an Act of Parliament, and any loss thereby arises to the municipality it would seem that the officer causing the loss would be held answerable therefor. Christie v. Johnson, 12 Grant 534.

(c) The obligation of the landlord is prima facie to pay taxes, ... sec. 24. If the tenant agree to pay taxes, the obligation is shifted as between them. But in regard to the municipality, taxes may be recovered from either, and not only so, but from "any future owner or occupant," saving his recourse against any other person. Smith v. Shaw, 8 U. C. L. J. 297; Holcomb v. Shaw, 22 U. C. Q. 92; Warne v. Coulter, 25 U. C. Q. B. 177.

(d) The way in which this section is expressed would lead one to suppose that future owners, tenants, or occupiers can alone be made liable when both the owner and tenant or occupant have been assessed, but that is not the proper construction to be placed on the section. It should be read in connection with sections 17 and 18. The words used in section 7 of the Assessment Act of 1853: "... the taxes thereon may be recovered from either or from any future owner or occupant, saving his recourse against the other party," had reference not to the particular case alone of owner and occupant being assessed together, but of either of them assessed separately. "If they were both assessed, the taxes were to be recovered from either of them. And in every case, if the owner or occupant did not pay, the taxes were to be recovered from a future owner or occupant. This was plainly the construction of sec. 7 of the Act of 1853, for why were future owners or occupants liable when both owner and occupant were assessed and not when the owner or occupant was singly assessed? In both cases the taxes are equally a special lien on the land, for which the land ...

Defendant occupied the premises for four years, paying taxes for three years without objection. The opinions of men on such subject are very materially affected, more so than they are perhaps aware of by the point of view from which they consider it. A man who is impressed with a consideration of how much a thing is worth will entertain a widely different opinion from him who simply looks at it as a thing to be purchased in expectation of profit, whether by the employment of it or selling it again. Per Draper, C. (q) See note l to sec. 49.

(l) This section makes provision for a Court of Revision, so called because it is its duty, on proper application, to revise the assessment roll in each local municipality. If the council consists of not more than five members, such members shall be the Court of Revision. If more than five members, then, by the next section, the council is to appoint five of its members to be the Court of Revision. The Court of Revision is the creature of the statute constituting it and its jurisdiction is limited to the exercise of the powers expressly given to it by the statute. Its function is judicial, and is by sec. 61, to "try complaints in regard to persons wrongfully placed upon or omitted from the roll, or assessed at too high or too low a sum." Such complaints are only of any person complaining of an error or omission in regard to himself, etc. Sec. 64 (1); of a municipal elector thinking that any person has been assessed too low or too high, etc. Sec. 64 (18); and of the assessor where it appears that there are palpable errors which need correction. B. 570, where the question sought to be brought before the Court was as to the effect of the Court of Revision and County Judge upholding an assessment of the superstructure of a railway, which by law is exempt from taxation, Draper, C. J., said, "As to the question itself, as at present advised, we do not think it would be found to present any great difficulty. If the assessors had put the two annual values (the road-way and superstructure were separately assessed) as forming the whole valuation of the land, though there might have been an appeal to the County Judge on the question of excessive valuation, and he must have confirmed or reduced it, we do not see how under the statute, his decision could have been brought in question." This was certainly so far as the case can be taken as a decision of any kind, a decision at variance with London v. Great Western R. W. Co., 17 C. Q. B. 262, and the cases following it, including Shaw v. Shaw, 1 U. C. C. P. 458. Mr. Justice Morrison, who delivered the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas in Shaw v. Shaw, was a member of the Queen's Bench when Toronto v. Great Western R. W. Co., was decided, but was absent, and so took no part in the judgment. The case was in Scragg v. London, 26 U. C. Q. B. 263, treated as a decision overruling all the prior cases. One of the questions raised in Scragg v. London, was, whether the decision of the Court of Revision (on a claim of exemption from taxation) was final—no appeal having been lodged to the County Judge. Hagarty, J., who delivered the judgment of the Court, after a review of most of the cases, and quoting section 60 of the then statute (corresponding with sec. 61 of this Act), said: "It is perhaps not easy to see how these words do cover the whole ground—namely, the wrongful insertion of a name and undercharge or overcharge. The man who has nothing but property not assessable is wrongfully on the roll. According to the decisions London v. Great Western R. W. Co., he need not appeal, if he do, is not bound by the judgment of the Court of Revision or County Judge. We think on the whole, we should follow the latest decision of this Court, (Toronto v. Great Western R. W. Co., 25 U. C. Q. B. 570,) as it accords with our individual views," in which Draper, C. J., concurred. Morrison, J. who delivered a judgment in the case on another point, apparently abstained from in any manner referring to the point. Scragg v. London was appealed to the Court of Appeal, but judgment was given on other grounds and did not touch this point. Scragg v. London, 28 U. C. Q. B. 459. And in Nickle v. Douglas, 37 U. C. Q. B. 51, the point was before the Court of Appeal and that Court upheld the earlier decisions to the effect that where there was no jurisdiction to make the assessment the decision of the Court of Revision is not binding on the person erroneously assessed. "I , do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will, to the best of my judgment and ability, and without fear, favour or partiality, honestly decide the appeals to the Court of Revision which may be brought before me for trial as a member of said Court."

(u) This section declares the jurisdiction of the Court. It is not to try all complaints of persons "assessed at too high or too low a sum," but all complaints of persons "wrongfully placed upon or omitted from the Roll." See note q to s. 55, and note q to s. 65. A person who gives a notice of his intention to appeal is not bound to follow it up. Should he, before the day for the trial, abandon his appeal the appeal would drop. In Reg. v. Stoke Bliss, 6 Q. B. 158, on appeal from an order of justices to the Sessions, the appellant gave a notice of countermand, but the Court, notwithstanding, made an order confirming the order of the Justices, with costs. was held that the Court had no jurisdiction to do so. By this statute it is declared that "if either party fails to appear either in person or by an agent, the court may proceed ex parte." Sub-s. 17 of sec. 64. If the appellant appear to prosecute his appeal, and show himself to be in a position to do so, it is the duty of the Court to try it. But the court, before proceeding ex parte against the persons to whom the notice was given must be satisfied that due notice—that is to say, at least six days' notice—had been given to such parties. Per Morrison, J., in Reg. v. Cornwall, 25 U. C. Q. B. 292. The appearance of the parties by their counsel for the purpose of objecting to the notice is no waiver of it. Ib. In the event of the Court refusing to hear a complaint when it ought to do so, a mandamus might be obtained to compel them to do so. Rex v. Justices of Kent, 9 B. & C. 283. "In this case a rate was made and a sum of money ordered to be paid out of that rate to Suter. Ritchie (the appellant) objected to such payment, and applied for relief under the sixty-third section to the churchwardens, &c. They resolved that they would take no notice of his application for relief. They refused, in fact, to hear the appeal at all. The proper course under these circumstances would have been to have applied to this Court for a mandamus to compel them to hear this appeal." Per Lord Tenterden, C. J., Ib. 287. It is the duty of the Court, when a person appeals against an assessment, and appears to support his appeal, to decide the complaint either one way or the other. Law Society of Upper Canada v. Toronto, 25 U. C. Q. B. 199. Abstaining from decision is no determination of the matter of appeal. Ib. See also Reg. v. Guardians of Biggleswade Union, 21 L. T. N. S. 494. Reg. v. Bedminster Union, 1 Q. B. D. 503. The person appealing is entitled to a decision on his appeal before he can be made liable to pay any taxes in respect of the assessment against which he appeals. Until decided, the assessment is, as it were, withdrawn from the assessment roll. Law Society of Upper Canada v. Toronto, 25 U. C. Q. B. 207; per Morrison, J. Some act of the Court would, it seems, be necessary before a decision could be said to be given. Ib. In In re Judge of Perth and J. L. Robinson, 12 U. C. C. P. 252, where on an application claiming a reduction of assessment, the Court of Revision adopted a resolution "That the application of James Lukin Robinson for a reduction of his taxes on the assessment be dismissed, as the council is of opinion that the lands of complainant have not been assessed higher in any case than lands similarly situated of residents of the municipality," it was held that this resolution was a sufficient act done to amount to a decision. And per Draper, C. J.: "I think it would amount to an entire defeating of the statute, and a denial of the relief it was intended to afford, if, by refusing to enter upon the petition altogether, they could prevent the complaint being heard. As at present advised, I should treat such a refusal as a decision against the petitioner. In substance it is certainly so, only it would be said to be a decision without trying the case. In the present instance, the council have, I think, by the very terms of their resolution, shewn that they have tried the matter, though they have done so without hearing the complainant further than by reading the statements of his petition. They have dismissed the petition

Proceeding for the Trial of Complaints.

Notice of complaint by party aggrieved.

64.—(1) Any person complaining of an error or omission in regard to himself, as having been wrongfully inserted on or omitted from the roll, or as having been undercharged or overcharged by the assessor in the roll, may personally or by his agent give notice in writing to the clerk of the municipality, (or assessment commissioner, if any there be), that he considers himself aggrieved for any or all of the causes aforesaid. his lands have not been assessed higher in any case than lands similarly situated of residents of the municipality.' This is really a decision of the complaint, and imports an examination into the merits. They profess to have ascertained a fact which in their judgment, entitles the applicant to relief under the Act. Ib. 252. In Rex v. Archer, 3 B. & C. 544, the dismissal of a complaint, on the mistaken ground that the court had not jurisdiction to hear it, was, under the similar provisions of 3 Geo. IV. c. 33, s. 2, considered such an act done by the court as to give a right to appeal. And per Abbot, C. J.: "The application must be made within a certain time, notices have to be given, and the Petty Sessions must be held within thirty days. The party, therefore, cannot renew his application for relief if the complaint is dismissed, nor can this court issue a mandamus to the special Petty Sessions. The question then is, whether a dismissal of the complaint not on the merits, but on a mistaken notion of law, is not, under such circumstances, to be considered as an act against which an appeal lies by the seventh section of the Act. I think that it is, but my opinion is founded on the peculiar provisions and language of the Act, and must not be considered as a precedent in any other case." Ib. 547.

No witness can be compelled to attend till paid or tendered compensation at the rate of fifty cents a day. Sec. 63.

Sec. 47. If, upon inspection of it, the person assessed finds in regard to himself, an error or omission of the description mentioned in this subsection, he may within fourteen days after the time fixed for the return of the roll give notice thereof in writing to the clerk of the municipality, that he considers himself aggrieved for any or all of the causes mentioned in this subsection. If the notice required by sec. 47 has been served, the assessment might be held invalid. London v. Great Western R. W. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 500; Nicholls v. Cumming, 25 U. C. P. 169. But see sec. 65. If the notice be served, and the party fails to appeal within the time herein limited, the assessment would bind him. McCarrall v. Watkins, 19 U. C. Q. B. 248. Mere formal objections to the notice of appeal ought not to be allowed to prevail when no one can be misled or injured by the alleged errors. In re McCulloch and the Judge of the County Court of Leeds and Grenville, 35 U. When the roll was returned on the 1st of May, but the certificate was neither signed nor sworn to until the 4th of May, and the notice to the parties (signed) informed them that they must give notice of appeal within fourteen days from the latter date, a notice of appeal given on the 18th of May was held to be in time. Re Allan, 10 O. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 56, (16-19)

Provision as to Shuniah.

Questions open on appeal.

(20) In case any person appeals against his assessment upon any ground, the Court of Revision, or the Judge of the County Court, as the case may be, may re-open the whole question of the assessment, so that omissions or errors in the assessment may be corrected, and the accurate amount at which the assessment should be made be placed on the assessment roll by the Court or Judge before handing the same over to the clerk of the municipality. (p) 44 V. c. 25, s.

(n) "Palpable," strictly speaking, means, perceptible to the touch, a something that may be felt. But according to the general understanding, it means something easily perceived and detected—something so plain that the perception of it immediately produces conviction. If errors of this nature appear and are of sufficient importance to be corrected, there may be an extension of time for making a complaint in reference to them. Even if not essential that the assessor should be the complainant under this sub-section there must be a complainant. Tobey v. Wilson, 43 U. C. Q. B. 230, 235.

(o) This provision is designed to get rid of the decision in Ne v. Cummings, 1 S. C. R. 395.

(p) So far as the Court is concerned, this section would appear to be imperative. But so far as the public is concerned, it may be held to be only directory. See note g to sec. 248 of the Municipal Act. Where an act is required to be done for the public good, and there has been a wrongful omission to do it, and a serious inconvenience will arise from its not being done, it may be ordered to be done by the prerogative writ of mandamus. Per Lord Campbell, C. J., Reg. v. Rochester, 7 E. & B. 924. Of this we have a well-known instance in Reg. v. Sparrow, 2 Str. 1123, where overseers of the poor not having been appointed for a parish as the statute requires 'in Easter week or within one month after Easter,' a mandamus was granted after the expiration of that time to Justices to appoint overseers for that parish, and the appointment having been made was solemnly adjudged to be valid. This decision has been fre

Roll to be binding, notwithstanding errors in it or in notice sent to persons assessed.

65. The roll, as finally passed by the Court, and certified by the clerk as passed, shall, except in so far as the same may be further amended on appeal to the Judge of the County Court, be valid, and bind all parties concerned, notwithstanding any defect or error committed in or with regard to such roll, or any defect, error or mis-statement in the notice required by section 47 of this Act, or the omission to deliver or transmit such notice. cognized and acted upon. There can be no doubt that for the public good, and to effectuate the intention of the Legislature, the revision of the list (though the first day of July have passed without it,) practicable, ought still to take place. The proper course would probably be to apply for a mandamus to the head of the council to summon the Court to meet, under the authority given him by sec. 60, with a view to hear and determine the matters complained of, due notices being first given to the respective parties. See Reg. v. Cornwall, 25 U. C. Q. B. 292. Possibly the writ might be directed to the clerk, or members composing it; for though not a corporation, they constitute, as it were, a standing and perpetual tribunal within the municipality. Per Lord Campbell, C. J., in Reg. v. Rochester, 7 E. & B. 925.

(q) This provision cures any flaw that may be upon the roll. Reg. v. Hamilton v. Piper, 8 P. R. 225. In Earl of Radnor v. Reeve, 1 & P. 391, 392, the Court said that "it had been determined by the Judges of England that when a statute provides that the judgment of commissioners appointed thereby shall be final, their decision is conclusive, and cannot be questioned in any collateral way." Berlin v. Grange, 1 E. & A. 285 Robinson, C. J., said: "When a statute provides that after the roll has been finally passed by the Court of Revision it shall bind all parties concerned, notwithstanding any defect or error committed in or with regard to such roll, that must, I think, be taken to mean that it shall be binding on a party where there never was any legal authority for introducing upon the roll at all, because there the very foundation of assessment against property is wanting." In Birmingham Churchwardens v. Shaw, 10 B. 868, it was held that a person exempt from poor rate as the occupier of premises belonging to a scientific or literary society, must, if assessed for such premises, contest the liability before the inferior Court constituted for the purpose, to whom the appeal is directed to be made by persons complaining of being wrongfully assessed. Lord Denman in giving judgment, said: "We are driven, therefore to consider the second ground on which the rule is supported, whether, though as regards the present rates, the society is deprived of the benefit of its exemption because it has not appealed against them. If it cannot be successfully contended that the president might have appealed, the question is narrowed to this; whether, there was a remedy by appeal, and that remedy passed by, the law will allow an action to be brought for the enforcement of a rate good on the face, and made by a competent authority, on a person and in respect of the occupation of property apparently within the jurisdicclusive, unless appealed against in the manner prescribed by the statute. Parke, B., said: "On a careful consideration of these Acts of Parliament, they seem to me to differ from the 42 Eliz. c. 2, as to the poor rate, and that the legislature intended that the assessment of the assessors appointed by the commissioners should be final and conclusive, unless appealed from in the first place to the commissioners, and further, if necessary, to the judges of the Superior Courts . . . . Without referring to the statutes, I should say a priori, that the object of the Legislature was to make the decision of the assessor final and binding, unless disputed in the manner pointed out. On reading the statutes I come to the same conclusion. . . . Let us then look to the power of appeal, which possibly might be framed in such a way as to shew that the Legislature did not mean it to be conclusive. This provision is contained in the 24th section of the 43 Geo. III. c. 99, which enacts that 'if any person shall think himself overcharged or overrated by any assessment or discharge, &c., it shall be lawful for him to appeal to the commissioners, &c. It is argued that the wording of this clause shews that the legislature meant it to apply only to persons liable to be rated, but rated for too much. Admitting it to be so, and that the word "overrated" has that meaning, then this plaintiff is in the predicament of a person overrated, since he is clearly liable to part of the rate, &c. . . . . I think the word 'overrated' ought not to receive the narrow construction attempted to be put upon it. Though in a strict sense, 'overrating' means rating for more than ought to be, yet it may also mean rating when the party ought not to have been rated at all. If the latter be not the meaning of the word in the statute, this absurdity would follow—that provision is made for the case of an excess of rating, and none whatever for a rate altogether illegal." It only remains to be added that our statute, besides using the words "undercharged" or "overcharged," also uses the words, wrongfully inserted on or omitted from the roll," sec. 64. In Scragg v. London, 26 U. C. Q. B. 271, Hagarty, J., when referring to the language of our statute, said: "Language more apparently indicating the establishment of a rule of decision to govern all cases and bar all further question as to the liability to assessment could, we think, not well be used." In McCarroll v. Watkins, 19 U. C. Q. B. 248, where a person who at one time had been an occupant of a house, but who was owner or had any pretence to be owner, was assessed as owner, but paid no attention to the notice of assessment, Sir J. B. Robinson, said: "But whether he was assessed on the roll as owner or occupier, it was incumbent on him to appeal or to petition under the 26th section of 16 Vict. c. 182, if he meant to insist that his name was wrongfully inserted on the roll. Having omitted to do so, he became liable to pay the amount for which he stood assessed on the roll." But it has been held that where the person was improperly assessed, he is not precluded by an adverse decision of the Court of Appeal from afterwards disputing his liability to be assessed. Nickle v. Hamilton, 35 U. C. Q. B. 126; 37 U. C. Q. B. 51. In a recent case it was held by Proudfoot, J.:—"Whether there was any income or not is a question of fact to be decided by the authorities specified in the Act, and if the assessor errs in this respect the matter may be set to be a true copy by the clerk of the municipality, shall be received as prima facie evidence in any Court of justice without proof of the seal or signature, or the production of the original assessment roll, of which such certified copy purports to be a copy, or a part thereof. 50 V. c. 32, s. 4.

Further powers granted to Court of Revision for remitting or reducing taxes.

67. The Court shall also, before or after the 1st day of July, and with or without notice, receive and decide upon the petition from any person assessed for a tenement which has remained vacant during more than three months in the year for which the assessment has been made, or from any person who declares himself, from sickness or extreme poverty unable to pay the taxes, or who, by reason of any gross and manifest error in the roll as finally passed by the Court, has been overcharged more than twenty-five per cent. on the sum he ought to be charged; and the Court may, subject to the provisions of any by-law in this behalf, remit or reduce the taxes due by any such person, or reject the petition; (r) and the council of any local municipality may, from time to time, make such by-laws, and repeal or amend the same. APPEALS FROM THE COURT OF REVISION.

Appeal from Court of Revision.

68.—(1) An appeal to the County Judge shall lie, not only against a decision of the Court of Revision on an appeal to said Court, but also against the omission, neglect or refusal of said Court to hear or decide an appeal. (s)

See Canadian Land and Emigration Co. v. Dysart, 9 O. R. 495; 10 A. R. 80. See further, note q to sec. 55.

(r) The Court is bound to receive and decide upon the petition of a person coming within the meaning of this section. The decision may be either for the remission or reduction of the taxes, or the rejection of the petition, subject always to the provisions of any by-law in this behalf passed by the municipal council.

(s) Such an appeal as the present can only exist by statute, and only to the extent that the statute plainly gives the right. Attorney-General v. Sillem, 10 H. L. Cas. 704; People v. Police Justices, 2 Mich. 456; Muscatine v. Steck, 7 Iowa, 505. The municipal authorities are not bound, in the absence of statutory requirement, to notify a person either of his right of appeal or of the proceedings necessary to prosecute the appeal. Rex v. Justices of West Yorkshire, 4 T. Service of notice of appeal.

Ignorance of the provisions of a statute is no excuse for non-compliance with its provisions. Where the appellant not only attended the meeting at which the application was made of the town funds of which he complained, but himself settled the form of the resolution against which he appealed, it was held that he could not be allowed to appeal. Harrup v. Bayley, 6 E. & B. 218. "According to every principle of justice he cannot complain of what was his own act." Per Lord Campbell, C. J., Ib. 224. In Rex v. Justices of Norfolk, 5 B. & Ad. 990-992, Lord Denman said, speaking of appeals to Quarter Sessions: "It is desirable that the Court of Quarter Sessions should not vary their rules from time to time, and that they should rather lean to the hearing of appeals than to dismissing them on technical grounds." But a person who, after a summary conviction, at once expresses dissatisfaction and gives a notice of appeal, is entitled to be heard, although he paid the amount of the fine—the payment having been made to prevent the distress and sale of his goods. In re Justices of York and Peel, 13 U. C. C. P. 159; Draper, C. J., said: "I think further, that a party should not, on any doubtful ground, be deprived of a right of appeal against a summary conviction; and that if his conduct can fairly bear a contrary interpretation, it should not be construed as a waiver of this right. I am disposed to extend rather than to narrow Lord Denman's remark, that the Court of Quarter Sessions 'should rather lean to the hearing of appeals than to dismissing them on technical grounds.'" Ib. 162, 163.

(t) The decision of the Court of Revision is binding, subject to an appeal which is here given apparently on certain conditions. In Re v. Hill, 4 C. B. 40, Wilde, C. J., speaking of Eng. Stat. 6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 62, said: "Upon the ground, therefore, that the right of appeal against the decision of the Revising Barrister is given only on a condition which has not been complied with in the present case, the Court is unanimously of opinion that the appellant is not in a situation to be heard." See further, Torrance v. McPherson, 17 U. C. Q. B. 200; In re Meyers and Wonnacott, 23 U. C. Q. B. 611; In re Tozer and Preston, 23 U. C. Q. B. 310; Pentland v. Heath, 24 U. C. Q. B. 464; McLellan v. McClellan, 2 U. C. L. J. N. S. 297; In re Curtis, 3 Q. B. D. 13. When the Legislature is thus giving a Judge jurisdiction over rights that have always been the subject of such watchful jealousy, it is in a peculiar manner incumbent on the Judge to confine himself strictly within the limits prescribed for him. "A deliberate deviation from an enactment so express and precise in its terms would induce a mischief much greater than any inconvenience that can arise from the blunder of the appellant in this case." Per Wilde, C. J., in Adey v. Hill, 4 C. B. 38, 40; see further, Allyn v. Woodett, 4 C. B. 86; Woolet v. Davis, Ib. 115. The first point to be noted is, that the notice must be in writing. See Reg. v. Justices of Salop, 4 B. & Al. 626; Reg. v. Justices of Surrey, 5 B. & Al. 539; Reg. v. Justices of Lincolnshire, 3 B. & C. 548; Reg. v. Justices of Huntingdonshire, 19 L. See note b to sec. 185 of the Municipal A The first day of July is now the day fixed by law for the final revi of the roll by the Court of Revision, Sub-s. 19, of sec. 64. By s 12 of sec. 64, it is declared that "every notice hereby required, shall be completed at least six days before the sitting of Court." See notes to that sub-section. See also sub-section In England, under a somewhat analogous statute, there power ("It shall be lawful, &c.") delegated by the Legisl to the Court "if it shall appear to the Court that there not been reasonable time to give or send such notice (ten da least) in any case to postpone the hearing of the appeal in such as to the said Court shall seem meet." 6 & 7 Vict. c. 18, s. 64, speaking of this provision, Wilde, C. J., said: "Postponing the sideration of the appeals to the next term, as suggested, would have the effect of relieving the parties from the difficulty (the appointed for the hearing of the appeals having been unusually The day appointed by the Court for the hearing of the appeals be still the same. Unless, therefore, the Court is prepared to a manner that would be wholly inconsistent with judicial g and decorum, by resorting to a mere subterfuge in order to ge a supposed difficulty, the objection that now presents itself not be at all lessened by the lapse of time. Adey v. Hill, 4 C. 40. In another case the same learned Judge said: "The a has had the whole time between the decision of the case by the sing Barrister and the fourth day of the term, inclusive, to and deliver his notice. Allen v. Sharp, 2 Ex. 352-360, Parke, B., said: "Wherever a statute gives to certain persons the power of adjudicating upon a particular matter, their jurisdiction excludes all further inquiry. Here it is as if the statute had said that the assessor shall decide whether or no the person is a horse dealer; and the assessor having done so his decision is final and conclusive, unless appealed against in the manner pointed out by the Act." "I think the design of the Legislature was to work out the whole system of assessment by the machinery provided. First, the action of the assessor; secondly the appeal to the Court of Revision; Thirdly, the final appeal to the County Judge or Stipendiary Magistrate." Per Hagarty, C. J., in Canadian Loan & Emigration Co. v. Dysart, 12 A. R. 84. In Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Co. v. Gardner, 29 U. C. Q. B. 194-200, Wilson, J., said: "The Judge had power to reduce the assessment made, and he has done so. But it is said he did so upon a false ground and for a bad reason; that he did so because the land was not land according to the interpretation of the Assessment Act, and not because the assessment was too high. There is no rule of law which requires the Judge to give the reasons on which his judgment is founded. His reasons may be bad, but his conclusion or judgment, however illogical it may be, will, nevertheless, be good. We do not think it would be safe to say that in no case can the decision of the Court of Revision or of the County Judge be questioned by an action, although the statute declares that the decision of the Court shall be valid and binding on all parties if not appealed from to the County Judge, and that his decision shall be final and conclusive. If the Judge were to decide that property expressly exempted was not exempt, or that non-residents should be assessed personally on the roll, although they had given no notice to be so assessed, and protested against it, his decision, no doubt, would not be final. It would be void and inquirable into, in an action, for he would in such a case be acting wholly without jurisdiction. But in cases where he has jurisdiction his decision is final, though it is plainly erroneous. Here he has jurisdiction to say whether the property was assessed too high or too low. This gave him authority to inquire into the nature of the property. He came to the conclusion that it was assessed too high because the chief part of the property in question was personal and not real property. His decision that it was personal property was plainly erroneous, for it undoubtedly was and is land and real estate within the meaning of the statute, and at common law. There is not the slightest pretence for calling it personal, yet we fear his decision is irreversible. The statute has declared it shall be final and conclusive in all cases adjudicated." If this reasoning be sound, when applied to cases of exemption of real and personal property, it would prove that there is jurisdiction to rate real or personal property plainly exempt from taxation so long as the Judge, with, or without or against, reason increases or reduces the assessment. Take the exemption of real estate by reason of its occupation by the Crown. The Judge has power to inquire into the nature of the property. He comes to the conclusion that it is personal property. He accordingly increases the assessment. His decision that it was personal prowas plainly erroneous. But he had jurisdiction to increase or reduce the assessment. The result is, that property which is real estate and exempt by law, is taxed because the Judge having power to increase or reduce calls it personal estate and increases the amount. But, after all, the question really is, whether a person assessed for property exempt is not as much bound to appeal as the person taxed for property which he does not own; for in the latter case it has been held that if the party wrongfully assessed omit to appeal, he is bound by the roll. In Allen v. Sharp, 2 Ex. 365, Parke, B., said: "Though in its strict sense overrating means rating for more than it ought to be, yet it may also mean rating when the party ought not to have been rated at all." If in our statute the only words used were "undercharged or overcharged," it might be argued according to the reasoning of Baron Parke, that a person wrongfully assessed is overcharged and so must appeal. But the better opinion appears to be that where an assessor assesses that which is not assessable his act is a nullity, and there is no obligation to appeal against it. Nickle v. Douglas, 37 U. C. Q. B. 63, 67. Where the foundation of the jurisdiction is defective, a prohibition may be applied for at once. Mayor, &c., of London v. Cox, L. R. 2 H. L. 239; Everard v. Kendall, L. APPEALS BY NON-RESIDENTS.

Appeals with respect to non-residents' lands.

77. In case any non-resident, whose land within the limits of any city, town, incorporated village or township has been assessed in any revised and corrected assessment roll, (j) complains by petition to the proper municipal council, at any time before the 1st day of May in the year next following that in which the assessment is made, such council shall, at its first meeting, after one week's notice to the appellant, try and decide upon such complaint; (k) and all decisions of municipal councils under this Act may be appealed from, tried and decided, as provided by section 6[illegible] and following sections of this Act; and if the lands are found to have been assessed twenty-five per centum higher than similar land belonging to residents, the council or Judge shall order the taxes rated on such excess to be struck off; (l) and, in all such cases, where the land has been subdivided into park, village, or town lots, if the same are owned by the same person or persons, the statute labour tax shall be charged only upon the aggregate of the assessment, according to the provisions of this Act; (m) but the roll shall be amended, under this section of this Act, if the Lots subdivided not to affect rolls revised and corrected.

(j) This section probably has reference only to non-residents whose names are not on the roll, and who would therefore not receive the notice made necessary by section 41 of this Act, and who would not have any notice of the day on which the roll would be returned, as to appeal within fourteen days after its return, as required by sec. 64, sub-ss. 1 & 2.

(k) See sec. 64 and notes thereto. EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENTS.

Annual examination of assessment rolls by municipal councils, and for what purpose.

78. The council of every county shall, yearly, before imposing any county rate, and except as provided by sections 52 and 54, not later than the 1st day of July, (o) examine the assessment rolls of the different townships, towns, and villages in the county, for the preceding financial year, (p) for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations made by the assessors in each township, town or village bear a just relation one to another, (q) and may, for the purpose of county rates, increase or decrease the aggregate valuations of real and personal property in any township, town or village, adding or deducting so much per centum as may, in their opinion, be necessary to produce a just relation between the (o) See note g to sec. 248 of the Municipal Act.

(p) See In re Revell and Oxford, 42 U. C. Q. B. 337.

(q) Valuation of property, real or personal, is, to a great extent, a matter of opinion. See note k to sec. 26. Some men are more sanguine than others, and therefore more likely, looking to the future, to make a higher estimate of present value than those who are less sanguine. Some men in there inquiries are more careless than others, and so more likely to take things for granted. These and similar considerations influencing assessors acting independently of each other, often produce very dissimilar results even in adjoining municipalities. But so far as the county is concerned for the purpose of county rates, a just relation is needed in order that the rate levied may bear, as nearly as possible, equally on all the local municipalities in the county. In order to bring this about, when inequality is found, a power to increase or decrease the aggregate valuations of taxable property in the local municipalities of the county, so long as the whole aggregate valuation of the county is not reduced, must be exercised by some body having authority over the whole of the local municipalities, and that body is the county council. The legislature has not attempted absolutely to prescribe by what method of proceeding the local municipalities shall be made to bear a just relation to each other. It could hardly have succeeded in any such attempt. Much must, of necessity, be left to the judgment of those who are to conduct the operation, and who, by reason of their local knowledge, are best qualified to do so. Per Robinson, C. J., in Gibson and Huron and Perth, 20 U. C. Q. B. 119.

In doing this, the members of the council must, of necessity, governed by their own judgment, and could not, in the nature things, have any rule given to them by which they could arrive at a particular result. It must be entirely a matter of opinion whether land cleared or uncleared in township A. is valued at such a

as a method by which they are to express to the collectors the e

This direction to the collector makes his duty afterwards simpl

a thing more easily talked of than done. Per Robinson,

First meeting of commissioners.

112. The commissioners shall meet within a fortnight after their election, and shall then, or as soon thereafter as may be, name the roads and parts of roads upon which statute labour is to be performed, and shall appoint the places and times at which the persons required to perform statute labour are to work. 46 V. c. 22, s. 11.

Time for performance of statute labour.

113. The times to be appointed for the performance of statute labour shall, unless the meeting of landholders duly elect commissioners otherwise directs, be not earlier than the 20th day of June, nor later than the 20th day of July in any year. 47 V. c. 32, s. 24.

Ratio of service by owners and locatees of land.

114—(1) Each owner or locatee of land may be required each year to perform two days' labour for every one hundred acres he holds, and for the first ten acres which he has cleared after the first ten, he may be required to perform one day's additional labour, and for every twenty acres over and above the first ten, one additional day's labour, and every householder may be required each year to perform one day's labour. 46 V. c. 22, s. 12; 51 V. c. 29, s. 8.

(2) Any land-owner, owning less than one hundred acres may be required to perform statute labour as the commissioners may direct, but not exceeding the scale provided for in sub-section 1 of this section where the land is in part cleared and not exceeding two days where no part of the land is cleared. 51 V. c. 29, s. 8.

Commissioners to oversee work.

115. Each commissioner shall, during the time he is required to perform statute labour, act as overseer, and the commissioners shall arrange among themselves for overseeing the various bodies of men engaged in doing statute labour. A commissioner may be paid out of the commutation fund for not exceeding two days' labour at the rate of $1.25 per day, if performed by him over and above the number of days' labour he may by law be required to perform in respect of his own property. The commissioners shall have the same powers as municipalities have in reference to statute labour, to appoint overseers and require returns to be made to them of the labour performed in their districts respectively. 46 V. c. 22, s. 13; 51 V. c. 29, s. 9.

Commutation.

116. Any person instead of performing the statute labour required of him may commute therefor by payment at the rate of $1 per day, and the commissioners shall expend all commutation moneys upon the roads on which the labour which is commuted for should have been performed. 46 V. c. 22, s. 14.

Meeting for election of new commissioners.

117. The majority of the commissioners may call a meeting, to be held at any time during the month of January, for the election of their successors, but in case of their failure to do, a meeting may be called in the manner hereinbefore provided for a first election. 46 V. c. 22, s. 15.

Penalty for neglect to perform work.

118. Any person liable to perform statute labour under the next preceding 16 sections, who, after six days' notice requiring him to do the same, wilfully neglects or refuses to perform, at the time and place named by the commissioners, the number of days' labour for which he is liable, shall incur a penalty of $5, and in addition $1 for each day in respect of which he makes default, the same to be paid to the commissioners and to be expended in improving the said roads, upon such person's conviction thereof before a Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the township, such Justice shall order the penalty together with costs of prosecution and distress, to be levied by distress of the offender's goods and chattels. 46 V. c. 22, s. 16.

Service of commissioners.

118 (a). The commissioners when duly elected shall serve during the term they are elected for or forfeit the sum of $20 which may be sued for together with costs in any Court having jurisdiction by any three electors making the complaint. 51 V. c. 29, s. 10.

COLLECTION OF RATES.

Clerks of municipalities to make out collectors' rolls; their form, contents, etc.

119. The clerk of every local municipality shall mak collector's roll or rolls as may be necessary, containing umns for all information required by this Act, to be ent by the collector therein ; (a) and in such roll or rolls he s set down (b) the name in full of every person assessed, and

(a) All the directions in this section are to the clerk, and n the council. His authority is the matter is derived solely from statute. With his duty, under this section, the council of municipality has nothing whatever to do. The duty is a statu obligation which the clerk is bound to perform. See Grier v. Vincent, 13 Grant 512, 519. See also Clarke v. Palmerston, R. 616.

(b) The statement of an aggregate amount where separate am are required to be stated would be no compliance with the st and the roll itself would be so far defective as to be no justifi for a levy under it. Coleman v. Kerr, 27 U. C. Q. B. 531 ; see also, Corbett v. Joh 11 U. C. C. P. 317. In Cook v. Jones, 17 Grant 488, 490, Sp C., said : "I think that though there are very good reason the provision in the statute, that they (the rates) should be separate, still the provision is only directory, and under v. Douglass, 15 Grant 456, the omission to keep them se would not invalidate a sale for taxes." Held, that the clerk had acted illegally, a liable to punishment. In re Risdale v. Brush, 22 U. C. Q. Burns, J., in delivering judgment, said : "He (the clerk) s have thought that he, as clerk of the municipality, had a r omit on the collector's roll carrying out the rate to his own and the [names of the] others who signed that notice. This is violation of his duty as prescribed by the 89th and 90th sec the Assessment Act, chapter 55 of the Consolidated Acts (si this section.) We can nowhere find that it is laid down, either in Assessment Act or the Municipal Act, that it is the duty of lerk to certify either to the collector or to the treasurer any which may have been made. There are provisions with ct to errors and mistakes made, and that the lands stated shall e exempt from the taxes by reason of the error or mistake, but n nowhere find it stated to be a duty upon the clerk of any ipality to certify to any other person or authority when such or mistake exists or has been made." Ib. 126. Provincial taxes to be assessed and collected in same manner as local rates.

120. All moneys assessed, levied, and collected under Act by which the same are made payable to the Treasurer this Province, or other public officer, for the public use the Province, or for any special purpose or use mentioned in the Act, shall be assessed, levied and collected in the manner as local rates, and shall be similarly calculated the assessments as finally revised, and shall be entered in collectors' rolls in separate columns, in the heading which shall be designated the purpose of the rate; (d) and clerk shall deliver the roll, certified under his hand, to collector, on or before the 1st day of October, or such day as may be prescribed by a by-law of the local municipality. Clerk to make out rolls of lands of non-residents whose names not in assessment rolls, etc.

The clerk of every local municipality shall also out a roll in which he shall enter the lands of non-resi whose names have not been set down in the assessor's together with the value of every lot, part of lot, or as ascertained after the revision of the rolls; and he enter opposite to each lot or parcel all the rates or with which the same is chargeable, in the same manner provided for the entry of rates and taxes upon the collector's roll, and shall transmit the roll so made out, certified under his hand, to the treasurer of the county in which his municipality is situate, or to the treasurer of the city, or as the case may be, on or before the 1st day of November. (e) It is here made the duty of the clerk to deliver the roll certified under his hand, to the collector, on or before the first day of October, or such other day as may be prescribed by a by-law of the local municipality. Unless the roll be certified as directed the collector is not bound to act under it. Vienna v. Marr 9 C. P. 63; 1 J. 301. Collectors to demand payment of rates.

of any persons on whom the collector can or may call for payment of taxes. The treasurer would not, it is apprehended, be bound to accept the roll unless certified as directed. See note e to s. 122. But the neglect of the clerk either to transmit the copy required, or his transmission of it in an imperfect form, would not invalidate a sale of non-resident land for taxes. Allan v. Fisher, 13 U. The collector is to proceed to collect the taxes—that is, the money in respect of taxes. He has no right to accept promissory notes, securities of any kind in lieu of money. Levy of taxes under warrant.

(2) If at any time after demand has been made, or, in case of cities and towns, after demand has been made and notice served by the collector as aforesaid, and before the expiry of the fourteen days mentioned in this section, the collector has good reason to believe that any party by whom taxes are payable, is about to remove his goods and chattels out of the municipality before the fourteen days has expired, and makes affidavit to that effect before the mayor or re-

(n) What is the meaning of the expression "who ought to pay the same?" Is it to be considered with reference to the time during which it may be said the collector's roll is in force for each year's taxes? or is it to be understood as extending to any length of time and to any person who may happen at the time of the distress to be in possession? The former appears to be the proper construction according to Holcomb v. Shaw, 22 U. C. Q. B. 92; Smith v. Shaw, U. C. L. J. 297. But the latter would seem to be sanctioned by Anglin v. Minis, 18 U. C. C. P. 170; Squire v. Mooney, 30 U. C. Q. B. 531; see further, Plumstead Board of Works v. Ingoldby, L. R. 6 63; 174.

(o) It is evident that the Legislature intend the taxes to be paid some way, and think it better to make any goods in the possession of the party, whether belonging to himself or not, liable without doubt, for the taxes, than that the collector should be at the trouble and expense of contesting title with every one who might claim property to the goods seized. Per Burns, J., in Frazer v. Page, 18 U. C. Q. B. 340. If the distress be made on the goods and chattels of the person "who ought to pay the taxes," it may be made on his goods and chattels in his possession, although not on the assessed premises, provided made within the County. Anglin v. Minis, 18 U. C. C. P. 179. By an agreement between the Great Western Railway Co. and the Erie and Niagara Railway Co., the former were working the latter line of railway with their own engines and cars, and the defendant, as collector, seized one of such cars on the line of railway for taxes due by the Erie and Niagara Railway Co. in respect of other land belonging to the Company. Held, that the seizure was illegal, for the car, when taken, was in the possession of the Great Western Railway Co. and their own property. Great Western R. W. Co. v. Rogers, 29 U. C. Q. B. 245. No action will lie against a collector or bailiff for distraining the goods of a stranger without necessity, upon the allegation that there were goods enough of the party assessed to pay the taxes to satisfy the demand. McEther v. Menzies, 7 U. (p) When the collector proceeds to enforce payment, he is to deal those whose names appear on the roll. If they are within the icipality, he is to call upon them, or at their residence or place siness, and demand payment. See note h to sec. 123. If they thout the municipality he is, under this section to transmit to by post a statement of the taxes charged against them on the and demand payment. In Anglin v. Minis, 18 U. C. C. P. 170, Mr. Justice Wilson, said: "This last provision as to not being in the municipality applies, I think, as well to the owners of resident lands who have requested to be assessed, as to the per- who were residents at the time the assessment was made, and were assessed as owners or occupants, but who have since ved from the municipality." Anglin v. Minis, was decided the Consolidated Statute, cap. 55. Section 95 of that Act had here, the words "addressed in accordance with the notice by such non-resident, if notice has been given." Their intro- on shows that the section now beyond question applies to non- nt owners who have requested to be assessed.

(q) See note i to sec. 123.

aforesaid has been so transmitted by post, (r) may make distress of any goods and chattels (s) which he may find upon the land; (t) and no claim of property, lien or privilege shall be available to prevent the sale, or the payment of the taxes and costs out of the proceeds thereof. (u) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 95.

(r) In the case of non-residents, the transmission of the statement and demand, under 16 Vic. c. 182, was held not to be a condition precedent to the power of distress. De Blaquiere v. Becker, 8 U. C. C. P. 167, But now it is clear, under this section, that the demand or statement is a condition precedent to the distress. See note h to sec. 123.

(s) Goods and chattels. See note m to sec. 124.

(t) The collector has no legal power to go out of his county for the purpose of making a distress. He may under section 124 make a distress of the goods and chattels of the person who ought to pay the taxes or of any goods or chattels in his possession, wherever the same may be found in the county within which the local municipality lies. But in the case of a non-resident the power of distress is only as to any goods and chattels which he may find upon the land. Any goods found upon the land, whether belonging to the party who ought to pay the taxes or to a stranger, are liable to be so distrained. See note o to sec. 124.

(u) It is probable that under these words a distress by a collector for taxes would supersede a prior seizure by the sheriff under execution. Adshead v. Grant, 4 P. R. 121. But a mere notice by the collector to the sheriff of the amount due for taxes is not a distress so as to supersede the prior claim of the sheriff under this section. Ib. In the absence of a distress, the execution creditor is entitled to the entire proceeds of the sale, to the exclusion of the tax collector. Ib. Chattels in possession of a receiver of the Court of Chancery were seized and sold by a bailiff for taxes, Neither the bailiff nor the purchaser knew until after the completion of the sale that the property was in the receiver's possession, or was intended to be affected by the order appointing a receiver, and both had been informed to the contrary in good faith by the party in charge. Held that the sale was valid. Gibson v. Lovell, 19 Grant, 197. In delivering judgment, Mowat, V. C., said; "The principal ground of objection to Mr. Bacon's (the purchaser) claim was that the sale was void in equity by reason of the property having been in the custody of the Court through the receiver at the time of the sale. The answer to this objection is, neither the purchaser nor even the bailiff was informed of this until after the sale was completed. On the contrary, they had been expressly told, on what might well seem to them competent authority, that the engine and boiler (the goods and chattels sold) were not affected by the Chancery proceedings, and were not in the possession of the receiver." Ib. 202. And again; "No doubt, if the Court had been applied to before the sale, the bailiff's proceedings would have been restrained and nullified, because the Court does not permit any interference with property in the

127. The collector shall, by advertisement posted up in at least three public places in the township, village or ward wherein the sale of the goods and chattels distrained is to be made, give at least six days' (v) public notice of the time and place of such sale, and of the name of the person whose property is to be sold; (w) and, at the time named in the notice, the collector or his agents shall sell at public auction the goods and chattels distrained, or so much thereof as may be necessary. Public notice of sale to be given, and in what manner.

128. If the property distrained has been sold for more than the amount of the taxes and costs, and if no claim to the surplus is made by any other person, on the ground that the property sold belonged to him, or that he was entitled by lien or other right to the surplus, (y) such surplus shall be of its officers without the leave of the Court. But such leave, if asked for in the present case, would have been granted at once, unless the parties were prepared with the money. The knowledge of that was probably one reason why the plaintiff or her son did not apply to the Court before the sale." Ib. 203. The establishment in which these chattels were, being afterwards sold by the order of the Court in one lot as a going concern, it was held that the purchaser of such chattels at the tax sale was entitled to a corresponding part of the purchase money realized at the Chancery sale. Ib.

(v) At least six days', &c. See note c to sec. 115 of the Municipal Act.

(w) Errors or defects in the advertisement of sale would not, it is believed, affect the title of the purchaser to the goods and chattels purchased at the collector's sale. See Jarvis v. Cayley, 11 U. C. Q. B. 282; Patterson v. Todd, 24 U. C. Q. B. 296; Haslitt v. Hall, Ib. 484; Jarvis v. Howes, 30 U. C. Q. B. 292; Connor v. Douglas, 15 Grant 203; Gibson v. Lovell, 19 Grant 197.

(x) The collector, after sale, would, it is apprehended, be in a position to sue the purchasers for the price of the things sold. See Jarvis v. Cayley, 11 U. C. Q. B. 282. But in order to bind the collector as against the purchaser, there should probably be some memorandum in writing on delivery of the goods sold, so as to bind the sale. See Mingaye v. Corbett, 14 U. C. C. P. 557. It is not necessary for the purchaser, in order to the maintenance of his title, to show a strict and literal compliance by the bailiff with the directions of the Act. Gibson v. Lovell, 19 Grant 197. See further, note to sec. 122.

(y) The goods and chattels of any person in the possession of the person who ought to pay the taxes, sec. 124, or any goods on the land of a non-resident who has required his name to be entered on the roll, sec. 126, may be distrained and sold for taxes; but if there be surplus, that surplus, if the goods and chattels were really not the property of the person for whose taxes they were sold, must or to admitted claimant.

129. If such claim is made by the person for whose taxes the property was distrained, (a) and the claim is admitted, the surplus shall be paid to the claimant. (b) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 98.

When the right to such surplus contested.

130. If the claim is contested, such surplus money shall be paid over by the collector to the treasurer of the local municipality, who shall retain the same until the respective rights of the parties have been determined by action or otherwise. (c) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 99.

belong to the owner of the goods and chattels so sold. It is hard that any part of his goods should be sold to pay the liability of another, with whom he has no privity, but it would be still harder if he could not claim any surplus left after payment of the taxes and costs.

(z) The receipt of the surplus by the owner of the goods would not, unless accepted in satisfaction, be any condonation, so as to prevent an action being brought to recover the value of the goods if the sale were from any cause illegal. See Evans v. Wright, 2 H. & 527; Robinson v. Shields, 15 U. C. C. P. 386.

(a) See note y to sec. 128.

(b) If the claim be disputed, the collector must pay over the money to the treasurer of the local municipality, who is to retain the same until the rights of the parties have been determined by action or otherwise. Sec. 130.

(c) It is not said that the collector, on payment to the treasurer would be thereby discharged or relieved from acting at the instance of the rival claimants, or either of them—but such is the fair intendment of the section; and where the sale is legal, such would probably be the construction put upon the section by the Courts.

(d) The right to sue for taxes is, apparently, only given where the tax "cannot be recovered in any special manner provided by this Act,"—such as distress and sale in the case of resident taxpayers and sale of lands in the case of non-resident proprietors who have requested their names to be put on the roll. Berlin v. Gerth, 6 U. C. C. P. 211. When there is a sufficient distress on the premises and the municipality by laches puts it out of its power to distrain, it seems that this section would not give a right of action. Cf. Veitch, 9 O. R. 706. In order to entitle a municipal corporation to sue for a tax imposed in the ordinary manner upon resident payers, the corporation must be able to show, in the first place, that the defendant's name is on the roll, see Sargant v. Toronto, 12 U. C. C. P. 185: McCarral v. Watkins, 19 U. C. Q. B. 248, and in the next place, that they have done what would be necessary to entitle them to distrain by warrant for the same tax, if the person taxed had goods that might be seized, except perhaps there would be no occasion to make the previous demand mentioned in section 94, (1884) per Robinson, C. J., in London v. Great Western R. W. Co., 16 U. C. Q. B. 502; and neither by distress nor by action can a ratepayer be compelled to pay a tax of which such notice has not been given to him as the law has provided section 48 (47) of this Act. By this is not meant that the plaintiffs in such an action are bound to set forth in the declaration that they have given such notice as the law requires before the assessment roll was finally completed—that may perhaps be assumed till the contrary is shown—but it must be open to the defendant to deny that such notice was given and to put plaintiffs to the proof of it. Ib. In order to entitle the corporation to sue a non-resident owner of lands, it must not only appear that the special remedies provided by the Act are unavailable, and that the defendant's name is on the roll, but it must also be distinctly averred and proved that the owner had requested his name to be placed on the roll. Berlin v. Grange, 1 E. & A. 279.

(e) No proof of the signature of the clerk is apparently made necessary. If the certificate produced purports to be signed by him, it will be received on production. But when received, it is only prima facie evidence; in other words, its accuracy, or the facts it represents, may be disproved. See Hesketh v. Ward, 17 U. C. C. P. 190. See also sec. 66.

(f) It is the duty of the collector, under this section, on or before the day named or appointed for the purpose, not later than the 1st of February, see note g to sec. 248 of the Municipal Act, to return his roll and pay over the amount payable, specifying in a separate column on his roll how much of the whole amount is paid over on account of each separate rate. Does the collector at any time, and when, become incapable of exercising his functions as collector? Suppose the municipal council does not extend the time beyond the 14th of December, does he on that day become functus officio? No doubt he may receive moneys on account of taxes after that day, and he has not made his return, and no doubt his sureties would be liable for moneys so received. Whitby v. Harrison 18 U. C. Q. B. 349; Todd v. Perry 20 U. C. Q. B. 549. But whether he may exercise the compulsory powers with which he is invested, is another question. The enactments which provide for the appointment of collectors, see sec. 254 of the Municipal Act, and secs. 12 and 13 of that Act, contain no limitation as to the time they shall hold office; the 14th day of December in each year, or on such day in the next year not later than the 1st day of February, as the council of the municipality may appoint, and shall pay over the amount payable to such treasurer, specifying in a separate column on his roll how much of the whole amount paid over is on account of each separate rate; (g) and shall make oath before the treasurer that the date of the demand of payment and transmission of statement and demand of taxes, required by sections 123 and 125 in each case, has been truly stated by him in the roll. and it is declared by sec. 279 of the Municipal Act, that all officers appointed by a council shall hold office until removed by the council. See Beverley v. Barlow, 7 U. C. L. J. 117; In re McPherson and Beeman, 17 U. C. Q. B. 99. The better opinion seems to be, that the collector does not become functus officio so long as he holds the office, and so long as his roll is not returned; in other words, that his authority to collect taxes on the roll is co-extensive with the term of his office, provided in the interval he has not returned his roll. The different provisions for the enlargement of the time for his making his return are in favour of the collector, and provisions in favour of the ratepayers. This was the opinion of Robinson, C. J., and Burns, J., McLean, J., dissentiente, in Newberry v. Stephens, 16 U. C. Q. B. 65, and was in fact the decision of the Court in that case, since recognized in McBride v. Gardham, 8 U. C. C. P. 296, and McLean v. Farrell, 21 U. C. Q. B. 441. In Coleman v. Kerr, 27 U. C. Q. B. 5, Draper, C. J., said: "The Court acted upon Newberry v. Stephens, or at least in accordance with its principle, in Chief Superintendent of Schools v. Farrell, 21 U. C. Q. B. 441; and the Court of Common Pleas recognized its authority in McBride v. Gardham, 8 U. C. C. P. 296. On these authorities we think the objection, the right to distrain after time fixed for return of the roll is untenable."

(g) If a collector refuse or neglect to pay to the proper treasurer or other person legally authorized to receive the same, the sums contained in his roll, or duly account for the same as uncollected, then not only may the ordinary remedy by action against his sureties be applied, but the treasurer may, within twenty days after the time the payment ought to have been made, issue a warrant under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff of the county or city, as the case may be, commanding him to levy of the goods and chattels, lands, and tenements of the collector and his sureties such sum as remains unpaid and unaccounted for, with costs, and pay to the treasurer the sum so unaccounted for, and to return the warrant within forty days after the date thereof. (h) This section is intended to give the council power, by resolution, to authorize the same collector, or any other person in his stead, to continue collections which are being made, but not completed, after the time appointed for the return of the collector's roll. The power, however, cannot be exercised after the final return of the roll by the collector, and after the lapse of several years. Holcomb v. Cox, 22 U. C. Q. B. 92; Smith v. Shaw, 8 U. C. (k) It is the duty of the collector to return his roll by a day named or appointed for the purpose. See 132. It is also his duty under this section, when unable to collect any taxes, to deliver an account of the taxes remaining due on the roll, and in such account he is required to show the reason why he could not collect the same. If he fail in the performance of these duties, proceedings by action may be had against him, or his sureties and himself; proceedings also of a very summary character. See sec. 231. If these remedies be of no avail, at the same time furnish the clerk of the municipality with a duplicate of such account, and the clerk shall, upon receiving such account, mail a notice to each person appearing on the roll with respect to whose land any taxes appear to be in arrear for that year. then Court may interfere by mandamus. In re Quin and the Treasurer of the Town of Dundas, 23 U. C. Q. B. 308.

(l) This appears to intend that the proper course is for the municipal council in the first instance to debit the collector with all taxes on his roll, and from time to time, as he pays over money credit him therewith, until he find himself unable to collect balance, and then accept from him the oath here required, and him with the amount not realized, so as to close the account.

(m) The effect of this provision makes it necessary for every intending purchaser to search not only the registry office for deeds conveyances affecting land, but the office of the county or treasurer who would be able to give information as to the taxes any, due upon it. See remarks of Burns, J., in Holcomb v. Sh U. C. Q. B. 104. ARREARS OF TAXES.

Duties of Treasurers, Clerks, and Assessors, in relation thereto.

Lists of lands three years in arrears for taxes to be furnished to clerks.

140. The treasurer of every county shall furnish to the clerk of each municipality, except cities and towns, in the county, and the treasurer of every city and town shall furnish to the clerk of his municipality, a list of all the lands in his municipality, in respect of which any taxes have been in arrear for the three years next preceding the 1st day of January in any year; (p) and the said list shall be so furnished on or before the 1st day of February in every year, (q) and shall be headed in the words following: "List of lands liable to be sold for arrears of taxes in the year 18 ;" (r) and, for the purposes of this Act, the taxes for the first year of the three which have expired under the provisions of this Act, on any land to be sold for taxes, shall be deemed to have been due for three years, although the same may not have been placed upon a collector's roll until some month in the year later than the month of January. The remedy in aid of this remedy, provision is made in the 144th and subsequent sections, for distress of goods and chattels on the lands, when subsequent to the accruing of the arrears they become occupied. If these latter fail, the only course left for the county treasurer is to fall back upon the principal and ordinary remedy, and that is all that the section directs.

(h) The duty to preserve the list and furnish copies to the assessors is imposed by sec. 141.

(i) The duty of the assessors to examine the lands and to make a return thereof is also imposed by sec. 141. See further, note d to sec. 144.

This section "imposing penalties upon defaulting clerks and assessors who fail to carry out the statutory provisions regarding the list of lands liable, affords suggestive evidence that this is the remedy intended by the legislature, and not the holding of the tax sale and deed, at all events after two years." Ferrie v. Midland Railway, 4 O. (n) The rule is, that after the return of the collector's ro

When so exercised, a ficate of the fact must be sent to the county treasurer for his ance. The duty, of course, remains to collect the balance not itted.

As the collection of the taxes after the return of the roll apper- to the treasurer alone it is not easy to understand the "other having the collection of arrears," to whom reference in here It may be intended to refer to the collector before the return roll. But the first part of the section deals only with the case return of the roll. (v) A ratepayer from 1858 to 1861 inclusive, occupied as a lessee a house and land adjoining on lot 24, part of which lot, in 1854, had been laid out by his landlord into village lots, and a plan of the same divisions filed in the registry office. He had been regularly assessed and had paid for the premises thus occupied by him, but the whole of lot 24 had, during these four years, been returned as non-resident. After the treasurer had issued his warrant for sale to the sheriff, he was applied to to correct the alleged mistake in the rolls, so as to except the part occupied from that returned, but refused to do more than allow the sheriff to deduct the amount paid by the ratepayer. A certificate was presented to the township clerk for signature, addressed to the treasurer, with a view of notifying him of the errors in the mode of assessment of the lot No. 24, but the clerk declined to sign it, alleging that he did not think he would be justified in doing so. The Court, on the application for a mandamus, refused to interfere. In re Secker and Paxton, 23 U. C. Q. B. 1[illegible] Where there are errors in non-resident land assessments, the treasurer is not bound by the roll, but can receive evidence and correct errors therein. Under the circumstances appearing in this case it was held that, on "satisfactory proof" being made of the facts, it would have been the duty of the treasurer to stay the sale at all hazards, and if so, it was the duty of the court to interfere. The Act recognizes the possibility of evidence being given to evade or neutralize what appears upon the roll and official books. Hall v. Farquharson, 12 O. [illegible]

The production of a paper purporting to be a receipt for the taxes is some evidence of payment. (x) Under sec. 152 the treasurer is required to keep books, in which he shall enter all the lands on which it appears from the clerk's return and the collector's rolls there are any taxes unpaid, and the amount so due. On the 1st of May in every year, he is to complete and balance his books by entering against every parcel of land the arrears, if any, at the last settlement, and the taxes of the preceding year which remain unpaid, and he is to ascertain and enter in his books the total amount of arrears, if any, chargeable upon the land at that date. By this section, if, at the balance to be made on the 1st of May in every year, it appears that there are any arrears upon any parcel of land, he is required to add to the whole amount due ten per centum thereon. In Gillespie v. Hamilton, 12 U. C. C. P. 427, Draper, C.J., said, p. 429: I think the Legislature have used language very clearly indicating an intention that ten per cent. should be added every year, calculated on the whole amount which is in arrear and due upon the lands at the time the charge is made. In the present case the lands were liable to satisfy a given sum on the 1st May, 1862, which sum included taxes for preceding years and ten per cent. added thereto at the preceding 1st of May. To that sum which constituted the whole amount due on the lands, the treasurer, as I read it, directs that ten per cent. should be added." By 37 Vict. c. 57, sec. 3, this section is "declared to apply and to have always applied to the municipalities of Shuniah and Neebing, and to the town of Port Arthur."

It is not made the duty of the treasurer to search for a distress for taxes; but if satisfied there is a distress, he may issue a warrant for them. In order, to render the treasurer liable for not making a distress, it would be necessary to aver and prove that he had notice of a distress. See Foley v. Moodie, 16 U. C. Q. B. 254. The neglect of a collector whose duty it was to search for distress, was sufficient to invalidate a sale subsequently made of the land for taxes that might in whole or in part have been satisfied by such distress. Allen v. Fisher, 13 U. C. C. P. 63. The old law was otherwise, especially if it could be shewn that there was a sufficient distress on the land at the time of the sale. See Doe Bell v. Belmore, 3 O. S. 242; Doe Upper v. Edwards, 5 U. C. Q. B. 201; Doe Robie v. Tully, 10 U. C. C. P. 432. But proving that there were a few pieces of timber on the lot, cut down by trespassers, and that they seem to be prepared for market in a lot, or that persons were about to make a bit of making sugar on the lot, leaving kettles and sap-troughs behind, was held not sufficient evidence of a distress being on the lot to invalidate the sale. See Doe Upper v. Edwards, 5 U. C. Q. B. 201; Doe d. Powell v. Rorison, 2 U. C. Q. B. 201; Fraser v. Hall, 9 U. C. Q. B. 150. The old law was altered by the statute

It cannot in my judgment, that the validity of the sale is to be dependen the diligence or want of diligence in a collector in some pre year." In Allan v. Fisher, 13 U. C. C. P. 63, it was, however, that when the lot was occupied and the owner known, and full tress thereon, it was the duty of the assessor to enter the ow name, and the name also of the known occupant. Instead of he entered the lot on the roll as land of a non-resident, witho name. The result was that during that year no officer but the surer could receive the rates, and would be the only officer who distrain, and the court held the assessment for that year ba avoided the sale. Hagarty, C. J., in Stewart v. Taggart, 22 C. P. 289, referring to the decision on this point, said: "Thi sion was in 1863, under (apparently) 16 Vict. c. 182. The case is very different. 16 Vict. cap. 182, it was held that an advertisement in a local paper was equally necessary with an advertisement in the official Gazette, and for want of it the sale was held invalid. Williams v. Taylor, 19 U. C. C. P. 219. And in a case decided under Con. Stat. U. C. cap. 55, the Court of Queen's Bench, in referring to Williams v. Taylor, said, "If it were necessary, for the decision of this case, we should, as at present advised, arrive at the same conclusion." Hall v. Hall, 22 U. C. Q. B. 584. But such an irregularity was held not to invalidate the sale in Cotter v. Sutherland, 18 U. C. C. P. 357, and afterwards Connor v. Douglass, 15 Grant 456, by the Court of Appeal. The law is now settled according to the decision of the Court of Appeal in McLauchlin v. Pyper, 29 U. C. Q. B. 526.

(n) Before this subsection, there was a doubt as to the power of officer—the treasurer of the new county, or the treasurer of the old county—to proceed to the sale of lands situate in a junior county subject to arrears of taxes due to the union. By analogy to proceedings after the separation of united townships, it was generally supposed that all power as to the collection of assets, &c. (the power to sell involving the power to sell, see note g to sec. 204), would remain with the senior county, unless expressly diverted in favour of the junior county by Act of Parliament. See secs. 212, 213. This section appears to have been based upon such an assumption, and makes a transfer of the power to the junior county under certain circumstances. In Canada Permanent Building Society v. Gray, 23 U. C. C. P. 200, it was held that until the pasing of this enactment there was no power either in the treasurer of the senior or junior county, or in any other officer, to sell lands for taxes accrued due before the separation; and that the power can only be exercised under this enactment, which is held to be retrospective.

When Treasurer sells land the fee of which is in Crown, he shall only sell the interest of lessee, etc.

171. If the treasurer sells any interest in land of which the fee is in the Crown, he shall only sell the interest therein of the lessee, licensee or locatee, and it shall be so distinctly expressed in the conveyance to be made by the treasurer and warden, and such conveyance shall give the purchaser the same rights in respect of the land as the original lessee, licensee or locatee enjoyed, (c) and shall be valid, without requiring the assent of the Commissioner of Crown Lands. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 138.

(a) The power to sell at the first sale is only for the full amount of taxes. But at the adjourned sale the treasurer may sell "for any sum he can realize." As to power of a municipality to purchase where sum offered at adjourned sale is less than the arrears, see next sub-section. Neither the treasurer nor the corporation is responsible for the title of the land sold. Austin v. Simcoe, 22 U. C. Q. B. 73.

(c) Land vested in the Crown is exempt from taxation. Sec. 7 sub-sec. 1. But where land is leased, sold, or agreed to be sold by the Crown, or located as a free grant, the interest of the purchaser or locatee is liable to taxation. Sec. 159. Being liable to taxation, it is liable to sale, but the sale of course only passes the rights in respect of land which the original lessee or locatee enjoyed. Such a sale when followed by a deed, would, however, prevail against a patent subsequently issued to the original lessee or locatee, or a person claiming under him. Ryckman v. Van Voltenburgh, 6 U. Certificate of Sale—Tax Deed.

Treasurer selling to give purchaser a certificate of land sold.

173. The treasurer, after selling any land for taxes, shall give a certificate under his hand to the purchaser, (e) stating distinctly what part of the land, and what interest therein, have been so sold, (f) or stating that the whole lot or estate has been so sold, and describing the same, and also stating the quantity of land, (g) the sum for which it has been sold and the expenses of sale, (h) and further stating that a deed conveying the same to the purchaser or his assigns, according to the nature of the estate or interest sold, with reference to sections 170 and 171 of this Act, will be executed by the treasurer and warden on his or their demand, at any time after the expiration of one year from the date of the certificate, if the land is not previously redeemed. is not knowingly to permit any person to cut timber growing upon the land; nor can he himself cut timber, or otherwise injure the land. But he may use the land without deteriorating its value. If he injure the land or knowingly permit it to be injured, no doubt he would be responsible to the owner in the event of the land being redeemed. But it is declared that he is not to be responsible for damage done without his knowledge. Under such a certificate the purchaser is entitled to the possession of the land sold, and being in possession he can avail himself of the certificate as a defence to an action of ejectment by the owner of the land. Cotter v. Sutherland, 18 U. C. C. P. 357. So it would seem that under such a certificate he may maintain ejectment against any one in possession under the former owner. Ib. In McLauchlan v. Pyper, 29 U. C. R. 523, Wilson, J., said: "After the time for redemption has gone by, the certificate still continues in force, and the owner has lost his power to redeem. Between that time and the giving of the deed to the purchaser, could the purchaser take possession of the land or eject the former owner by authority of the certificate, or defend his possession against an action by a former owner? I think he could. Yet there is no greater right given to him by the statute to do any of these acts under the certificate, after the time for redemption has gone by, than while it is continuing. If the purchaser were to enter on a vacant lot for the purpose of using the land without deteriorating its value, could the owner, while he had still the right to redeem, eject the purchaser? I think he could not. The purchaser cannot use the land while another person is using it, and claims the right to use it adversely to him. The use referred to is the usus fructus, as distinguished from the fidei commissum, or what is technically called a use as allied with trusts. 2 Bl. Com. 327. So it is like that kind of use of land for which an action for trespass and occupation will lie."

(j) The rights of the purchaser are described in note j to the preceding section. It is here declared that these rights shall cease "from the time of a tender to the treasurer of the full amount of redemption money required by this Act," but no provision is made for communicating the fact of such tender to the purchaser.

(l) The commission is "a lawful charge," within the meaning of 32 & 33 Vict. c. 70, so as to entitle the treasurer to sell for it as well as the Fees, etc., on sales of land.

177. Where land is sold by a treasurer, according to the provisions of section 164 and following sections of this Act, he may add the commission and costs which he is hereby authorized to charge for the services above mentioned, to the amount of arrears on those lands in respect of which such services have been severally performed, (m) and in every case he shall give a statement in detail with each certificate of sale, of the arrears and costs incurred. (o) The method prescribed by 6 Geo. A deed thereunder of "thi acres of lot, &c., to be measured according to the statute," was h to contain a sufficient description. Fraser v. Mattice, 19 U. C. Q. 150; see also, McIntyre v. Great Western R. W. Co. 17 U. C. Q. 118. But a description as "twenty-five acres of lot," &c., with more, was held insufficient. Cayley v. Foster, 25 U. C. Q. B. 32 U. C. Q. B. 23. "Part of south part 111, in 1st con. Tay, 40 acres," not sufficient. Grant v. Gilmour, 21 U. C. C. P. 18. "N. ½ and W. pt. S. ½, 165 acres," and "N. ½ 100 and W. pt. S. ½, 65 acres," held bad on the authority of Knaggs v. Ledyard, Edinburgh Life Ass. Co. v. Ferguson, 32 U. C. Q. B. 253. Wilson, J., said in the last case (p. 270): "I was one of the affirming Judges in that case (Knaggs v. Ledyard); but I have since, in the case of Booth v. Girdwood, 32 U. C. Q. B. 23, expressed my opinion that the judgment then gave was not the one which I ought to have given, for that the west part of the south half of a lot containing 65 acres, is a defined portion of land, namely, the west 65 acres of a particular block of 100 acres." "West half" of the lot has been held good and sufficient. Bell v. McLean, 18 U. C. C. P. 416, 419. So "the N. or W. ½ 14," in a list under sec. 118 of this Act. Stewart v. Taggart, 22 U. C. C. P. 284. "Thirty acres north part of lot 33," is sufficient. Ley v. Wright, 27 U. C. C. P. 522. "Rice Lands Paris Hydraulic Company," not sufficient. Greenstreet v. Paris, 21 Grant 229. "The easterly 14 acres of the westerly 90 acres of the north half of lot No. 2 in 10th con. of the said Township of Innisfil butted and bounded as follows, &c.," sufficient. Austin v. Armstrong, 28 U. C. C. P. 47. The words "be the same more or less" following the description may be rejected as surplusage. Nelles v. White, 29 Grant 338. The premises intended to be conveyed by a deed were described therein as 180 acres of the east halves of two lots, "commencing at the front east halves of said lots, taking the full breadth of each half respectively, and running northwards so far as required to make 90 acres of each east half." Held, that "northwards" might be rejected, being evidently a mistake for westward. Ferguson v. Freeman, 27 Grant 211. Where land was divided into blocks, with streets running through them, and the blocks were sub-divided into lots which were numbered in all from 1 to 174 inclusive, it was held that a sale of any such lots by their numbers only would be a sufficient description, and that if named incorrectly as being on one of the streets it would not vitiate the private sale, as anything beyond the numbers in such sub-division would be surplusage; and the same would apply to a tax sale. Aston v. Innis, 26 Grant 42. This section requires a "description of the part sold with sufficient certainty. This in the same section is defined as being such a general description as may enable a surveyor to lay off the piece sold on the ground." A description by metes, bounds, and courses, having relation to the boundaries and courses of the original lot, would be the best description. It would be prudent for the treasurer in all cases, before making his deed, to obtain a surveyor's description of the piece sold. This, no doubt, would be sufficient to enable the purchaser, if not any surveyor, to lay it off on the ground. Such a description could be made out by an examination of the boundaries of the whole lot, and the examination, if necessary, of the registry office. The government maps may be examined where a full description cannot otherwise be obtained. Allowance is made by the section for a surveyor's fee, not to exceed $1, to be included in the treasurer's account, and paid by the purchaser.

he would pay the purchaser the redemption money, and that no deed was to be given. The purchaser was afterwards, and before any deed was given, told what had been done. But for some unexplained reason, a deed was, notwithstanding, given. Held, invalid. In Payne v. Goodyear, 26 U. C. Q. B. 448, an entire lot having been sold for taxes, a person paid the redemption on the east half, and a different person the redemption on the west half. It was afterwards represented to the council that the last mentioned payment was a mistake, and the treasurer having been ordered to refund, applied the money to a wholly different lot. Held, that the east half was properly redeemed. In giving judgment, Draper, C. J., said : "The power to sell land was created in order to collect a tax, and the same reason that influenced the Legislature to enable the true owner of a part to pay his proper part of the taxes on the whole lot, would exist in his favour to permit him to redeem (that part). . . We think more in accordance with the spirit and intention of the Act to hold that the benefit conferred on owners of land, under the circumstances stated in the 113th (150th) section, should be treated as extending to owners similarly circumstanced as owning a sub-division of a lot, and to enable them to redeem on adducing satisfactory proof to the treasurer of the sub-division. In our opinion, therefore, the payment received by the treasurer of the proportion of the arrears of taxes for which lot 13 was sold—which would be, and in fact were, made in respect of the east half only—was an effectual redemption of the east half of the lot. And we prefer to rest our conclusion in favour of the defendants on this ground, to entering upon the (to my apprehension) more doubtful question—on the payment made by mistake for the west half of the lot,—a payment which, at first glance, can hardly be said to have redeemed the lot, without holding that the form, not the substance, is to be considered by the Court," &c. If the owner, instead of paying the redemption money to the county treasurer for the vendee, pays it to the latter personally, and he accepts it, the payment is in equity as effectual to save the property as payment to the treasurer would have been. Cameron v. Barnhart, Grant, 661. So if the vendee verbally agrees to accept payment personally at a distance from the county town, in lieu of its being made to the treasurer for him, and the owner acts on this agreement, the vendee cannot afterwards, to the owner's prejudice, require payment of the money to the treasurer, refuse to receive it himself when it is tendered so pay it to the treasurer, and insist on the land being forfeited. Where such an agreement was proved by a credible witness, and there was contradictory evidence as to whether what took place amounted to an agreement, the Court, holding that the presumption in case of doubt must be in favour of fair dealing and not of forfeiture, gave the owner relief. Ib.

When the redemption money is paid, it becomes the money of the purchaser, and not of the municipality. Wilson v. Huron and Erie, 8 U. C. L. J. 135 ; Boulton v. York and Peel, 25 U. C. Q. (x) On the demand of the purchaser, &c., and on payment of one dollar, it is incumbent on the treasurer to prepare and execute (with the warden) and deliver a deed in duplicate of the land sold. We see that the law is honestly and fairly carried out, and that no tice is done to the owner or the public, and that the claims chasers are properly maintained. A substantial rather than a compliance with the provisions of the statute will more equall quite fairly protect all parties." This language was quote approbation by Chief Justice Richards when delivering the ment of the majority of the Judges of the Court of Erro Appeal in Connor v. Douglass, 15 Grant 456, 464. In P Goodyear, 26 U. C. Q. B. 448, 451, Draper, C. The statutes w passed to take away lands from their legal owners, but to those owners who neglected to pay their taxes, and from wh ment could not be enforced by the other methods authorized, by sale of a sufficient portion of their lands." In Cook v. J Grant 489, the present Chancellor said: "The language Justice Draper in a previous case, Payne v. Goodyear, 26 U. 451, states accurately, as I think, the purpose and character statutes.—(He then quoted the language of the Chief Justice and proceeded.)—This is the language of a learned Judge posed than some other Judges of the Courts, and less dispo the majority of the Court in Connor v. Douglass, to hold t not vitiated by irregularities. But what would be infinitely better ld be to put an end to the sale of lands for taxes. These sales e adopted here at a time when the country was thinly settled, large tracts of land were held by absentees and other non-resi- s, and the taxes could not otherwise at that time be collected ch were chargeable against them, and lands were comparatively ttle value. The country is in a different condition now, and it is time to stop these sales, which are used for the benefit of specu- rs only, and who are furnished by government with the power of iving the innocent but careless landholder of his property, or of ving from him the most extortionate demand for getting back is in justice his own. Means may be devised by the legislature re these arrears placed yearly upon the collector's roll for col- on until they are paid, and if they are not paid in some few , say five, let the municipality become the owners of such lands some terms and conditions which may give the owner a chance demption for a longer period, and if not redeemed, with power council to sell such lands by public sale, and to apply the eds for the benefit of the municipality. has been nonsuited on the trial, or a verdict had been rendered for the defendant.

(2) If on the trial it is found that such notice was not given as aforesaid, or if the Judge or jury assess for the defendant a less amount than that claimed in the notice, or find that the defendant has refused to surrender possession of the land after tender made of the amount claimed, or (where the defendant had given notice of his intention to retain the said land), that the value of the land is greater than the amount mentioned in the said notice, or that he has omitted to pay into Court the amount mentioned in the said notice for thirty days after the plaintiff had given to the defendant a written notice that he did not intend to contest the value of the land mentioned in such notice, then in such case the Judge shall not certify, and the defendant shall not be entitled to the costs of the defence, but shall pay costs to the plaintiff; and upon the trial of any cause after such notice no evidence shall be required to be produced in proof of the title of the plaintiff. Tax purchaser without other remedy whose title is invalid to have a lien on the land for purchase money, etc.

193. In any case in which the title of the tax purchaser is not valid, or in which no remedy is otherwise provided by this Act, the tax purchaser shall have a lien on the lands for the purchase money paid at such sale, and interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum per annum, and for the amount of all taxes paid by him or them since such sale and interest thereon at the rate aforesaid, to be enforced against the lands in such proportions as regards the various owners, and in such manner as the High Court thinks proper. (a) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 165.

(z) This section principally relates to costs. The general rule is that the party who succeeds in the recovery of the land is entitled to costs. But this section is an exception to that rule. It enables the defendant, although surrendering the land, to obtain his costs of defence. The section also incidentally provides a rule of evidence to the effect that "upon the trial of any cause after such notice, no evidence shall be required to be produced in proof of the title of the plaintiff."

(a) In Austin v. Simcoe, 22 U. C. Q. B. 73, it was held that a tax purchaser who paid for what at the time of sale all supposed to be the interest in land, was not entitled to recover back his payment on the hearing that nothing was sold. The object of this section is, in such a case, to create not only a lien for the amount of the purchase money, but to provide for the payment of the interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, and for the repayment, with

199. No valid contract entered into between any tax purchaser and original owner, in regard to any lands sold or assumed to have been sold for arrears of taxes, as to purchase, lease, or otherwise, shall be annulled or interfered with by this Act, but such contract shall remain in force and all consequences thereof, as to admission of title or otherwise, as if this Act had not been passed. Secs. 190-199, not to apply where the owner has occupied since sale.

200. Nothing in the next preceding ten sections of this Act contained shall affect the right or title of the owner of any land sold as for arrears of taxes, or of any person claiming through or under him, where such owner at the time of the sale was in occupation of the land, and the same has since the sale been in the occupation of such owner, or of those claiming through or under him. interest of the amount of taxes paid by the tax purchaser. This section does not apply where no taxes were in arrear at the time of the sale. Charlton v. Watson, 4 O. R. 489.

(b) Before the passing of the 33 Vic. cap. 23, in 1869, cases arose in which the former owner and the tax purchaser contracted with each other upon the faith of a valid sale for taxes, which both supposed to have taken place, but on discovery of the truth, that the sale was invalid, the contract was amended or otherwise put an end to, notwithstanding the apparent admission of title by reason of the dealing between the parties. The object of section 3 of the Act of 1869, from which this section is taken, is to continue in force contracts so made notwithstanding the subsequent discovery of the invalidity of the sale. This is done with all the consequences of a valid sale as to admission of title or otherwise.

(c) A person in the occupation of land is supposed to have knowledge of the assessment and sale of the land or of facts which ought to put him upon enquiry. Where such a person is not aware he is not entitled to the protection and benefits provided by the next preceding sections.

Surplus of the non-resident land fund to be divided among municipalities.

218. The council of the county may from time to time by by-laws apportioning the surplus moneys in the non-resident land fund amongst the municipalities ratably, according to the moneys received and arrears due on account of the non-resident lands in each municipality; (v) but such apportionment shall always be so limited that the debentures unpaid shall never exceed two thirds of the whole amount to the credit of the fund. (w) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 180.

Treasurer's percentage or salary, how paid.

219. The treasurer shall not be entitled to receive from the person paying taxes any percentage thereon, (x) but may receive from the fund such percentage upon all moneys in his hands, or such fixed salary in lieu thereof, as the county council by by-law may direct. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 181.

Annual statements of fund to be submitted to councils.

220. The county treasurer shall prepare and submit to the county council, at its first session in January in each year, (y) a report, certified by the auditors, of the state of the non-resident land fund. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 182.

What it shall shew.

221.—(1) The report shall contain an account of all the moneys received and expended during the year ending on the 31st of December next preceding, distinguishing the sums received on account of, and paid to, the several municipalities, and received and paid on account of interest or debentures satisfied or redeemed, and the sums invested and the balance in hand; a list of all debentures then unpaid, with the days at which they will become due; and a statement of all the arrears then due, distinguishing those due in every municipality, and the amount due on lands then advertised for sale, or which by law may be advertised during the ensuing year. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 183.

Security by treasurers and collectors.

without doubt it is intended that he shall do so within a reasonable time after the receipt of the report.

(a) Besides giving the security mentioned, each of the officers named must, before entering on the duties of his office, make and subscribe declaration of office. See sec. 271 of the Municipal Act. The appointment to the office necessarily precedes the obligation to give the bond or make oath. So soon as the person is appointed, it becomes his duty to do the one or the other. But the omission of either does not per se vacate the appointment, unless conditionally made, or render the person appointed incompetent to discharge the other duties appertaining to his office. See Judd v. Read, 6 U. C. C. P. 362; further, note j to sec. 249 of the Municipal Act.

(b) The bond should be made to the corporation of the municipality, sec. 223, and in the name of the corporation thus: "Corporation of the county, city, town, village, township, or united counties or united townships, as the case may be) of (naming the same). See 5 of the Municipal Act But it does not follow that bonds taken any other name or in any other form will be void. cient sureties in such sum and in such manner as the council of the municipality by any by-law shall require in that behalf. The members of municipal councils cannot, as trustees for the ratepayers, evince too much care in seeing that the receipt and expenditure of the money of the ratepayers is properly secured; and in cases of flagrant neglect it is quite possible that the members themselves might be held personally responsible. See Parks v. Davis, 10 U. C. C. P. 229. The bond, if in general terms for accounting and paying over all moneys collected will apply as well to moneys collected for county purposes as for any of the purposes mentioned in sec. 240. See sec. 242 of this Act; see further, note k to sec. 249 of the Municipal Act.

(c) This is a wise provision, intended to secure the due execution of the Act by the officers mentioned, whose business it is to learn their duty, and to do it accordingly. See Peterborough v. Edwards, 1 U. C. C. P. 231. Either refusal or neglect is made punishable. The former involves an act of the will, but the latter does not necessarily do so. Any inquiry into the motives or cause of neglect, so far as this section is concerned, would be inexpedient. But mere omission is not necessarily equivalent to neglect. Inability or superior force may excuse the non-performance of a duty by one who is willing to do it. Nor does it follow that every non-compliance with the directions of the Act, in its minor details, will bring the party within the penalty of this section. The penal part of the Act may press with more severity in one class of cases than another; but the law is so written, and the Courts have nothing to do with the consequences. See Rex v. Burrell, 12 A. & E. 460. "Neglect" means, in such a statute as this, the omission to do some duty which the party is able to do. Per Patteson, J., Ib. 468. "Where no vis major or inability intervenes, omitting to do what ought to be done is neglect." Per Williams, J., Ib. 469. "The defendant has contravened the Act without showing any lawful excuse. This is a neglect within the Act. Forgetfulness or carelessness is no such lawful excuse." Per Coleridge, J., Ib. The neglect may be wholly to do the duty, or to do it within the time limited in that behalf. Either is neglect within the meaning of this section. It is of the most importance, so far as the administration of the provisions of the Municipal and Assessment Acts is concerned, that things should be done when directed to be done. See Hunt v. Hibbs, 5 H. & N. 471; Reg. v. Ingall, 2 Q. B. D. 199. This section throughout, so far as neglect is concerned, applies rather to cases of mere neglect than of wilful neglect. The latter are specially provided for by subsequent sections. See sec. 227. The words of the sections are: "If any treasurer, assessor, &c., refuses or neglects," &c. So the words of the next section are: "If an assessor neglects or omits to perform his duties, the other assessor," &c. It would seem that the penalty or forfeiture is a personal one attaching to each person in default. Rex v. Share, 3 Q. B. 31; see also, Clarke v. Gant, 8 Ex. 252. exceeding one hundred dollars. A declaration treating two defe dants as jointly liable for a penalty where there was a several du and a several penalty, was held bad on demurrer. Metcalfe q. v. Reeve, 6 U. C. Q. B. 263. In giving judgment, Sir John Robinson said: "They (the defendants, who were magistrates, a for not returning a conviction) cannot commit a joint offence, and subject to one penalty, because neither transmitted it." Ib. 264. where it is the duty of two assessors to return an assessment roll a fixed day, it would seem that they should not be prosecut jointly, but severally. Reg. v. Snider, 23 U. C. C. P. 330. It i personal penalty for a personal default. Ib. It is said that penalty or forfeiture is to be "upon conviction thereof before Court of competent jurisdiction in the county." Does this mean civil or a criminal Court? The words of sect. 176 of the 29 & Vict. cap. 53, were, "Before the Recorder's Court of City, or bef the Court of General Quarter Sessions of the County." These wo were omitted from these sections, and more general words s stituted. It is by sub-section 30 of sec. 8 of the Interpretation of Ontario, declared that "where a pecuniary penalty or a forfeit is imposed for a contravention of any Act, then if no o mode is prescribed for the recovery thereof, such penalty forfeiture shall be recoverable with costs by civil action or proc ing at the suit of the Crown only, or of any private party suing well for the Crown as for himself, in any form allowed in such by the law of this Province, before a Court having jurisdictio the amount of the penalty in cases of simple contract, upon the dence of one credible witness other than the plaintiff or p interested." If the forfeiture were by this Act fixed, there woul strong ground for the argument that the amount of the forfei under this section is recoverable by action in a Court of civil j diction. But the difficulty in the way of giving full effect to an argument arises from the fact that the forfeiture is to be " sum as the Court may order and adjudge, not exceeding $100." Gee v. Wilden, Lutw. 1320; Wood v. Searl, Bridg. 139; Butcher v. Bullock, 3 B. & P. 434; Piper v. Chappell, 14 M. & W. 624 further, Grant on Corporations, 84; note w to sub. 17 of sec. 4 the Municipal Act, and o to sec. 230 of this Act. Abr. "Offices and Officers," 181, it is said that, "if an officer acts contrary to the nature and duty of his office, or if he refuses to act at all in these cases, the office is forfeited." In Rex v. Bury, 1 Ld. Rayd. 5, it was held that contumacy is a good ground for the deposition of an officer. In Rex v. Wells, 1 Bur. 1999, 2004, Lord Mansfield said: A "general neglect or refusal to attend the duty of such an office, is a reason of a forfeiture; so a determined neglect, a wilful refusal." By sec. 6 of 1 W. & M. ch. 21, it is declared that, "if any Clerk of the Peace shall misdemean himself in the execution of the said office, and thereupon complaint and charge, in writing, of such misdemeanour shall be exhibited against him to the Justices of the Peace in their General Quarter Sessions, it shall be lawful for the said Justices, or the major part of them, from time to time, upon examination and proof thereof, openly, in their said General Quarter Sessions, to suspend or discharge him from the said office." In Wildes v. Russell, L. R. 1 C. P. 722, 737, Willes, J., said: "The law upon the subject of forfeiture of an office is to be found in Com. Dig. 'Officer K,' where it is laid down that an officer forfeits his whole office by non-user or abuser of the office by him or his deputy. In some such sense as this, and not merely in a criminal sense, is the word misdemeanour used in this section, sec. 6 of 1 W. & M. ch. 21, and there can be no doubt, therefore, that an absolute and persistant refusal by the clerk of the peace to enter an order of sessions is a misdemeanour in his office. I entirely agree with Mr. Chambers that a mere delay in acting upon such an order, or even a strong remonstrance against it by the clerk of the peace, would not amount to misdemeanour so as to work a forfeiture of the office." "Wilful" may be here read as meaning wantonly or persistently. See per Brett well, B., in Smith v. Barnham, 1 Ex. D. 423, 424. By R. S. directed to the sheriff of the county or city (as the case may their bond for not paying them over. The question here is, whether the warrant authorized by the 182nd section of the statute 29 and 30 Vict. c. 53 and C. S. U. C. cap. 55, sec. 177, can be issued at any time when more than twenty days have passed after the collector was bound to return his roll . . . . . To wit, the 14th December, or the 1st April or May of the year for which the taxes were to be collected, or in the following year as to the last mentioned days. The section speaks of the collector refusing or neglecting to pay to the proper treasurer or other person legally authorized to receive the same, the sums contained on his roll, or duly payment for the same as uncollected. Then the treasurer or chamberlain shall, 'within twenty days after the time when the payment ought to have been made, issue a warrant to levy such sum as remains unpaid and unaccounted for.' What is the time when the payment ought to have been made to enable the municipality to exercise the large and unusual powers conferred on them by the section referred to? The only time mentioned in the statute then in force was the 14th day of December, or such other day as the municipal council of the county may appoint, not later than the 1st day of May in the next year. Now, here no other day than the 14th of December was appointed for the return of the rolls or the paying over of the money, and the power to issue the warrant was not exercised within twenty days of that time. . . . Another question to be considered is, what do the words 'within twenty days after the time when the payment ought to have been made,' mean? Are they to be interpreted literally? or is the true meaning that the warrant is not to issue until the expiration of the twenty days from the time? . . . I think the safest rule to lay down, and the one most in accordance with the true meaning of the statute, and the general doctrine as to the view taken of extraordinary and unusual remedies given to enforce the collection of money, is, to hold the collector to the strict letter of the law on the subject." Ib. 101, 102, 104. Mr. Justice Wilson held a contrary view. He said: "As provided by 29 & 30 Vict. cap. 53, sec. 182, that if a collector refuses or neglects to pay the proper treasurer the sums contained in the roll, the treasurer shall, 'within twenty days after the time payment ought to have been made," issue a warrant. Here, no particular day being fixed for paying over the collections, a demand was required to be made on him to pay over before he could be considered as in default. The demand on the 2nd of April fixed the time of payment. For the first time properly under the two rolls the collector made default in payment, according to the extended time. On the 6th of April, 1867, the warrant to sell the goods and chattels of the collector and his sureties, for defalcations under both rolls, issued and was delivered to the sheriff. The statute says: 'The treasurer shall, within twenty days after the time when the payment ought to have been made, issue a warrant.' It issued within twenty days after the demand on the 2nd of April. Is that twenty days when the payment ought to have been made? I think the collector would be entitled to a reasonable time after the demand within remains unpaid and unaccounted for, with costs and to pay to the treasurer the sum so unaccounted for, and to return the warrant within forty days after the date thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 195.

Warrant to be delivered to sheriff, etc.

232. The treasurer shall immediately deliver (t) the warrant to the sheriff of the county, as the case may require. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 196.

Sheriff, etc., to execute it, and pay money levied.

233. The sheriff to whom the warrant is directed shall within forty days, cause the same to be executed and make which to pay. Perhaps three days would be a reasonable time. If so, the warrant on the 6th of April, 1867, is all right, if the warrant is to be issued not later than twenty days from the time of default. But does the statute mean that the warrant is to issue only within the twenty days? If so, this warrant may issue the very day after the payment should have been made, and cannot issue after the twenty days have expired. Or does it mean that the warrant shall not be issued for twenty days after the default was made? In Rex v. Ireland, 3 T. R. 512, the words on which the question arose were as follows: 'That the prosecutor for the recovery of such costs shall within ten days after demand made of the defendant and refusal of payment, have an attachment granted against the defendant.' Only eight days had elapsed since the demand. The court said: 'Though the words of the statute were, within ten days," they had always been understood to mean that ten days must elapse before the attachment could be granted; otherwise instead of the indulgence of the ten days supposed to be offered by the Legislature, the party would be liable to an attachment immediately after a demand and refusal. And they refused the motion for the attachment. * * * I am of opinion the collector had until the 2nd April, 1867, within which to pay, the demand on that day determining his right to any further day; and, upon the authorities the warrant by way of execution which issued on the 6th of April, having issued before the two days after default to pay had elapsed, was improperly, because prematurely, issued." Ib. 108, 109, 110. Morrison, J., who during the argument referred to O'Meara v. Foley, Ir. L. R. 4 C. L. 116, concurred in opinion with Wilson, J. The result was, that the warrant was held by the Court to be void, because issued too soon. The warrant must be under the hand and seal of the treasurer. See g to sec. 160.

(t) "Immediately deliver," &c. It is of the greatest importance that moneys due to a municipal corporation for taxes or rates should be paid with as little delay as possible. This is necessary in order to enable the corporation to pay its officers and keep faith with creditors. Hence it is that sureties are necessary, secs. 22[illegible], and that so stringent provisions, are enacted against collectors and others whose duty it is to collect and pay over taxes, and that very summary remedy is provided by the preceding section, against the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the collector, and his sureties. See notes to sec. 231.

return thereof to the treasurer, and shall pay to him the money levied by virtue thereof, deducting for his fees the same compensation as upon writs of execution issued out of Courts of Record. (u) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 197.

Mode of compelling sheriff, etc., to pay over.

234. If a sheriff refuses or neglects to levy any money when so commanded, or to pay over the same, or makes a false return to the warrant, or neglects or refuses to make any return, or makes an insufficient return, the treasurer may, upon affidavit of the facts, (v) apply in a summary manner to the High Court or to a Judge thereof, for an order nisi or summons calling on the sheriff to answer the matter of the affidavit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 198.

When returnable.

235. The order nisi or summons shall be returnable at such time as the Court or Judge directs. R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 199.

Hearing on return.

236. Upon the return of the order nisi or summons, the Court or a Judge may proceed in a summary manner upon affidavit, and without formal pleading, to hear and determine the matters of the application. (w) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 200.

Fi. Fa. to the coroner to levy the money.

237. If the Court or Judge is of opinion that the sheriff has been guilty of the dereliction alleged against him,

(u) A sheriff is not entitled to poundage on a writ of execution unless he actually levy, that is, make the money. Buchanan v. Frank, 15 U. C. C. P. 196. If the claim be settled by means of the pressure of the writ, the sheriff is entitled to reasonable compensation in the nature of poundage. See Michie v. Reynolds, 24 U. C. Q. B. 303; Hamilton and Port Dover R. W. Co. v. Gore Bank, 20 Grant 202; Bissicks v. Bath Colliery Co., 2 Ex. D. 459; 3 Ex. D. 174; Consolidated Bank v. Bickford, 7 P. R. 712.

(v) The application is to be made "upon affidavit of the facts." If the affidavit be deemed sufficient, the court or judge will grant an order nisi or summons, returnable at such time as may be directed, to answer the matter of the affidavit. See sec. 235.

(w) It is enacted that the court or a judge may proceed in a summary manner to hear and determine the matters of the application. See note to sec. 74. Apparently as much power is given to the judge as the Court. The jurisdiction is a statutable one, and in the absence of a provision for an appeal from the decision of the judge or the Court, it may be argued there is no appeal. The point is as yet undecided under the statute. See In re Allen, 31 U. C. Q. B. 488, under corresponding words in Con. Stat, U. C. c. 74, sec. 1.

the Court or Judge shall order the proper officer of the Court to issue a writ of fieri facias, (x) adapted to the case, directed to a coroner of the county in which the municipality is situate, or to a coroner of the city or town (as the case may be) for which the collector is in default. (y) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 201.

Tenor of such writ.

Execution thereof.

Fees.

238. The writ shall direct the coroner to levy of the goods and chattels of the sheriff the sum which the sheriff was ordered to levy by the warrant of the treasurer, together with the costs of the application and of the writ and of its execution; (a) and the writ shall bear date on the day of its issue, and shall be returnable forthwith on its being executed; (b) and the coroner, upon executing the same, shall be entitled to the same fees as upon a writ grounded upon a judgment of the Court. (c) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 202.

Penalty on sheriff if no other imposed.

239. If a sheriff wilfully omits (d) to perform any duty required of him by this Act, and no other penalty is hereby imposed for the omission, he shall be liable to a penalty of $200, to be recovered from him in any Court of competent jurisdiction at the suit of the treasurer of the county, city or town. (e) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 203.

Payment of money collected for the Province.

240. All moneys assessed, levied and collected for the purpose of being paid to the Treasurer of the Province, or to any other public officer, for the public uses of the Province or for any special purpose or use mentioned in the Act under which the same is raised, shall be assessed, levied, and collected by, and accounted for and paid over, to the same persons, in the same manner, and at the same time, as taxes imposed on the same property for county, city or town purposes, and shall be deemed and taken to be moneys collected

Local treasurer to pay over county moneys to county treasurers.

243. The treasurer of every township, town, or village shall, within fourteen days after the time appointed for the final settlement of the collector's rolls, (g) pay over to the treasurer of the county all moneys which were assessed and by by-law required to be levied and collected in the municipality for county purposes, or for any of the purposes mentioned in section 240 of this Act. (h) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 207.

Mode of enforcing such payment.

244. If default be made in such payment, (i) the county treasurer may retain or stop a like amount out of any moneys

(f) It is not every bond or security given by a collector or treasurer that will come under this section, but only such as are conditioned or provided for accounting and paying over all moneys collected or received by the officers. These general words, when used, are, by the operation of this section, made to extend not only to moneys collected or received for county purposes, but for any of the purposes mentioned in sec. 240. See further, note b to sec. 248, and note j to sec. 249 of the Municipal Act.

(g) See note s to sec. 231.

248. The treasurer and his sureties shall be responsible and accountable for such moneys in like manner to the county, city or town; and any bond or security given by them for the duly accounting for and paying over moneys coming into his hands belonging to the county, city, or town shall be taken to apply to all such moneys as are mentioned in section 240, and may be enforced against the treasurer

Treasurer, etc., responsible to County, etc.

Bonds to apply.

(k) There is no limitation as to the time within which the warrant may be issued, and so the difficulty pointed out in note s to sec. has, as to this warrant, been avoided.

(m) The liability of the collector, as declared in sec. 240, is extended to the county or city treasurer, so as to make the collection of rates, or rather the paying over the money collected, as and expeditious as possible. See note a to sec. 247.

(a) The Non-Resident Land Fund is money which may become into the hands of the treasurer within the meaning of section, so as to make the corporation of the county responsible the due payment and accounting of the same. See Robert Wellington, 27 U. C. Q. B. 336.

249. The bond of the treasurer and his sureties shall apply to school moneys, and all public moneys of the Province; (c) and, in case of any default, Her Majesty may enforce the responsibility of the county, city, or town by stopping a like amount out of any public money which would otherwise be payable to the county, city, or town or to the treasurer thereof, or by action against the corporation. MISCELLANEOUS.

Penalty for tearing down notices, etc.

251. If any person wilfully tears down, injures, or defaces any advertisement, notice, or other document, which is required by this Act to be posted up in a public place for the information of persons interested, (f) he shall, on conviction thereof in a summary way before any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the county, city, or town, be liable to a fine of $20, and, in default of payment, or for want of sufficient distress, to imprisonment not exceeding twenty days. (g) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 215.

(b) In an action by the the corporation of a county against their treasurer, on his bond, where it was proved that Government money, charged by him as paid over to the Government was not so paid, it was held unnecessary to shew a demand of the Government upon him for the money in order to entitle the corporation to recover. Essex v. Park, 11 U. C. C. P. 473.

(c) See the preceding note.

(d) See note j to sec. 249 of the Municipal Act.

(e) See note a to sec. 247.

(f) It is only when the person charged is proved wilfully to have torn down, injured or defaced an advertisement, notice or other document, under the Act, that he can be convicted. Where the act charged can be said to have been the result of mere neglect, see note to sec. 225, and not of the will, there is no offence under this section.

(g) Direct imprisonment as a punishment under this section would Recovery of fines and forfeitures hereby imposed.

252. The fines and forfeitures authorized to be summarily imposed by this Act, (h) shall, when not otherwise provided, be levied and collected by distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, under authority of a warrant of distress to be issued by a Justice of the Peace of the county, city or town; and, in default of sufficient distress, the offender shall be committed to the common gaol of the county, and be there kept at hard labour for a period not exceeding one month. (i) R. S. O. 1877, c. 180, s. 216.

be illegal. The only punishment authorized is a fine, to be collected by distress, and failing distress imprisonment not exceeding twenty days. See the following note.

(h) The authority of a Justice of the Peace summarily to try a new offence must be conferred by some statute. Agard v. Candish, Saville, 135. The authority is not to be enlarged by inference, Ex parte Martin, 6 B. & C. 80, not even in the case of an obvious omission. Underhill v. Longridge, 29 L. J. M. C. 65; see also, Re Wainwright, 12 L. J. Chan. 426: S. C. 1 Phil. 261. Thus an authority summarily to settle disputes between masters and servants is not, in the absence of express legislation, to be extended to the settlement of disputes between masters and household servants. See Rex v. Hulcott, 6 T. R. 583; Branwell v. Penneck, 7 B. & C. 536; Hardy v. Ryle, 9 B. & C. 603; Lancaster v. Greaves, Ib. 628; Ex parte Johnson, 7 Dowl. 702; Kitchen v. Shaw, 6 A. & E. 729.

(i) If the fine can be collected by distress of goods and chattels, it would be unlawful to imprison. The imprisonment is only authorized in default of sufficient distress, and then for a period not exceeding one month at hard labour. See In re Slater and Wells, 21 U. C. L. J. 21.

(k) This section also applies to all penalties recovered under this Act. All such, when not otherwise provided, must be paid to the treasurer, to the use of the municipality. The fine authorized by sec. 225 to be imposed on an assessor or clerk who refuses or neglects to perform any duty under the Act, is to be forfeited "to Her Majesty." See further, notes to sec. 423 of the Municipal Act.

ER MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, acts as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as "The Liquor License Act." R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 1. Short title.

The English Statute 24 Geo. II. cap. 40, is not in force in this vince. Leith v. Willis, 5 O. S. 101; Heartley v. Hearns, 6 O. S. and the English Statute, 14 Geo. III. cap. 88 is now superseded. rew v. White, 18 U. C. Q. B. 170. It has been decided by the cial Committee of the Privy Council, on appeal from the Supreme t, that the Dominion Parliament cannot legislate with respect uor licenses. The Dominion Parliament has power to prohibit raffic in intoxicating liquors, Russell v. Regina 7 App. Cas. 829.

INTERPRETATION.

Interpretation.

2. Where the following words occur in this Act, or in the schedules thereto, they shall be construed in the manner hereinafter mentioned, unless a contrary intention appears:

"Liquors" and "Liquor."

1. "Liquors" or "Liquor" shall include all spirituous and malt liquors, and all combinations of liquors and drinks and drinkable liquids which are intoxicating. (b)

"Tavern license."

2. "Tavern license" shall mean a license for selling, bartering or trafficking by retail in fermented, spirituous or other liquors, in quantities of less than one quart, which may be drunk in the inn, ale or beer-house, or other house of public entertainment in which the same liquor is sold. (c)

"Shop license."

3. "Shop license" shall mean a license for selling, bartering or trafficking by retail in such liquors in shops, stores or places other than inns, ale or beerhouses, or other houses of public entertainment, in quantities not less than three half-pints at any one time, to any one person, and at the time of sale to be wholly removed and taken away, in quantities not less than three half-pints at a time. (d)

"License by wholesale."

4. "License by wholesale" or "Wholesale license" shall mean a license for selling, bartering or trafficking, by wholesale only (e) in such liquors in warehouses, stores, shops, places other than inns, ale or beerhouses, or other houses of public entertainment, in quantities not less than five gallons in each cask or vessel at any one time; and in any case where such selling by wholesale is in respect of bottled ale, porter, beer, wine or other fermented or spirituous liquors, each such sale shall be in quantities not less than one dozen

---

(b) Spirituous and malt liquors are assumed for the purpose of this Act to be intoxicating. All combinations of drinkable liquids which are intoxicating are placed on the same footing as spirituous and malt liquors. Whether a particular drinkable liquid is intoxicating or not, must be a matter for enquiry upon evidence to be adduced before the Justice or Justices whose duty it is to adjudicate upon the complaint. See Harris v. Jenns, 9 C. B. N. S. 152.

(c) A sale by any person licensed, in quantities less than authorized by his license is clearly a punishable offence. Reg. v. Faulkner, 1 U. C. Q. B. 529; Reg. v. Denham, 35 U. C. Q. B. 503.

(d) See note c supra. See also Schedule D, No. 7, as to form of information.

(e) See note c supra. See also, Schedule D, No. 8, as to form of information.

bottles of at least three half-pints each, or two dozen bottles of at least three-fourths of one pint each, at any one time. (f) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 2.

"Three half pints." 5. "Three half-pints" shall, where bottled liquor is sold, be held to be equivalent to five quarter pints Imperial measure. 44 V. c. 27, s. 23.

"License District." 6. "License District" shall mean the city, county, union of counties, or electoral district or districts, or any part of an electoral district, or a union of parts of two or more electoral districts, as the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may by order direct.

"Polling sub-division." 7. "Polling sub-division" shall mean the polling sub-division for the last general election for the district for the Legislative Assembly in which the licensed premises or the premises for which a license is sought are situated.

"Inspector." 8. "Inspector" shall mean an Inspector of Licenses appointed for a license district under this Act. 47 V. c. 4, s. 1, part.

"Canada Temperance Act." 9. "The Canada Temperance Act" shall extend to and include The Canada Temperance Act, 1878. 50 V. c. 33, s. 9.

Board of License Commissioners. 3. There shall be a board of license commissioners to be composed of three persons, to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor, for each city, county, union of counties, electoral district, or license district, as the Lieutenant-Governor may think fit; and any two of the said commissioners shall be a quorum, and each of them shall cease to hold office on the 31st day of December in each year, but he may be re-appointed; and the said office shall be honorary and without any remuneration. (g) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 3; 48 V. c. 43, s. 8, part.

(f) The Legislature of Ontario by 37 Vict. c. 32 made it obligatory upon brewers to take out licenses authorizing them to sell by wholesale. In Reg. v. Taylor, 36 U. C. B. Q. 183, this enactment was held, by the Court of Queen's Bench, to be ultra vires; but the Court of Appeal, Ib. 218, reversed the decision. An attempt was also made to carry the case for decision to the Supreme Court of Canada, but for technical reasons it failed. Reg. v. Taylor, 1 S. C. R. 65. The same point was afterwards raised in Reg. v. Severn, 2 S. C. R. 70, in which the Supreme Court held that the decision by the Court of Queen's Bench was correct.

(g) It is difficult for the municipal authorities to enforce regulations for the orderly keeping of licensed houses as well as to meet

Powers of the commissioners.

4. The board of license commissioners may at any time before the 1st day of May in each year, pass resolutions for regulating and determining the matters following, (h) that is to say:

Defining requisites for granting tavern and shop licenses.

1. For defining the conditions and qualifications requisite to obtain tavern licenses for the retail within the municipality, of spirituous, fermented or other manufactured liquors, and also shop licenses for the sale by retail within the municipality, of such liquors in shops or places other than taverns, inns, ale-houses, beer-houses, or places of public entertainment;

Limiting number of licenses, etc.

2. For limiting the number of tavern and shop licenses respectively, and for defining the respective times and localities within which and the persons to whom such limited number may be issued within the year, from the 1st day of May of one year till the 30th day of April inclusive of the next year. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 4 (1, 2).

Exemption from having accommodation.

3. For declaring that in cities having a population according to the then last Dominion census of less than fifteen thousand, a number not exceeding three persons; a population of between fifteen thousand and thirty thousand, a number not exceeding five persons; a population of over thirty thousand, a number not exceeding ten persons; and in towns having a population of over six thousand, a number not exceeding two persons qualified to have a tavern license, may be exempted from the necessity of having all the tavern accommodation required by law. 47 V. c. 34, s. 2.

Regulating taverns.

4. For regulating the taverns and shops to be licensed;

Defining duties of inspectors.

5. For fixing and defining the duties, powers and privileges of the inspector of their district. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 4 (4, 5).

Penalties may be imposed by regulations.

5. In and by any such resolution of a board of license commissioners the said board may impose penalties for the infraction thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 5.

the devices parties may resort to for the purpose of evading and contravening them. Per Morrison, J., in Reg. v. Belmont, 35 U. C. Q. B. 298, 301. This difficulty on the part of municipal councils, was the cause of the passing of 39 Vict. cap. 26, s. 1 of which this and the sections following are a consolidation. See per Harrison, C. J., in re Brodie and Bowmanville, 38 U. C. Q. B. 585. See further, sec. 1.

(h) It is not as a general rule, intended that the municipal council and the license commissioners shall have concurrent powers.

INSPECTORS OF LICENSES.

Inspectors of Licenses, appointment powers and duty and security.

6. An inspector shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor from time to time for each city, county, union of counties, electoral district, or license district, as the Lieutenant-Governor may think fit (i) and each inspector shall, before entering upon his duties, give such security as the Provincial Secretary may require for the due performance of his said duties (k) and for the payment over of all sums of money received by him according to the provisions of this Act; and the salary of every inspector shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. (l) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 6; 48 V. c. 43, s. 8, part.

Chief inspector may be appointed in Toronto.

7. A chief inspector may be appointed for the city of Toronto, and he shall have jurisdiction throughout the said city. He shall perform all the duties of an inspector and shall have all the rights, powers and authority thereof, (m) and shall be charged with the duty of seeing that this Act is enforced in the districts into which the said city is divided. He shall unless the Lieutenant-Governor otherwise directs, act as the secretary of the board of license commissioners, and, shall, in company with the inspector, visit and inspect all premises for which a license is sought, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the board or by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. 49 V. c. 39, s. 19.

ISSUE OF LICENSES.

Issue of licenses.

8.—(1) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may direct the issue of licenses on stamped paper, written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, of the several kinds here-

Brodie and Bowmanville, 38 U. C. Q. B. 580; In re Arkell and St. Thomas, Ib. 594. The Provincial Legislature has power to entrust to commissioners authority to enact regulations of the character specified in this section, and to impose penalties as provided in sec. 4. Hodge v. Reg., 7 A. R. 246; 9 App. Cas. 117.

(i) Although the inspector is appointed by the Executive it is in the power of the license commissioners, also appointed by the Executive, to pass by-laws for fixing and defining the duties, powers and privileges of the inspector for their district. See sec. 4, sub-s. 5. The duty of enforcing the observance of the Act for the prevention of accidents by fire in hotels, &c., is imposed on the inspector by 51 Vict. c. 34, sec. 7.

(k) As to the duties of the inspector. See sec. 11 and notes thereto.

(l) While a salary may be allowed to the inspector, the office of commissioner is honorary. See sec. 3.

(m) See sec. 11 and notes thereto.

inbefore mentioned; and the licenses shall be signed by the Provincial Secretary and dated as of the 1st day of May in each year, and shall thence continue in force for one year, and shall expire on the 30th day of April in the next ensuing year. (n)

After the 1st of May.

(2) After the 1st of May, tavern and shop licenses may be issued between the 1st and 15th days of May in each year, and licenses by wholesale may be issued between the first and last days of May in each year; and all such licenses shall be deemed to have been issued on the said 1st day of May. (o)

In special cases.

(3) Where special grounds are shewn, the license commissioners may direct one or more licenses to issue at any time after the said 1st day of May, if within the limit authorized by this Act; provided always that the petition or application therefor shall have been filed with the inspector on or before the 1st day of April next preceding. (p) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 7; 47 V. c. 34, s. 3.

Licenses, how issued.

9. Every license shall be issued, under the direction of the respective boards of license commissioners, by the inspector for the license district in which the tavern, shop, warehouse or other place to which the license is to apply is situate, except in the case of licenses for vessels, which may be issued under the direction of the license commissioners by the inspector for any license district to or from any port in which the vessel sails, or at any port in which she calls. (q) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 8.

(n) The Temperance Act of 1864, provided that a by-law passed thereunder, should come into force from and after the first of May next, after communication thereof to the collector of inland revenue. The effect of such a by-law was to deprive persons licensed of the right to sell liquors during the last two months of their license. O'Neil and Oxford, 41 U. C. Q. B. 170.

(o) The license, no matter whether issued between the first and fifteenth days of May, or between the first and last days of May, expires, under any circumstances "on the thirtieth day of April in the next ensuing year."

(p) The license commissioners are to be the judges of "the special grounds." The license when issued, even on special grounds, will not be in force beyond the 30th April next, after the date of its issue.

(q) The rule is to issue a license for sale of liquor at some particular place, but a vessel which sails from place to place, is a necessary exception to the rule. In the former case the license can only be issued under the direction of the board of license commissioners.

Regulation of sale of liquor on vessels.

10. The license commissioners may pass resolutions regulating the sale of liquor on vessels to which licenses may be issued under their authority during excursions and at other times; such resolutions shall, in order to their validity, be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. 47 V. c. 34, s. 24, part.

No tavern or shop license to be granted except upon petition and report thereon.

11—(1) A license to sell spirituous, fermented or other manufactured liquors by retail, in any tavern, alehouse, beer-house, place of public entertainment or shop, shall not be granted (r) except upon petition by the applicant to the license commissioners of the district in which the license is to have effect, praying for the same; nor until the inspector, to be appointed as hereinbefore provided, has reported in writing to the license commissioners that the applicant is a fit and proper person to have a license and (in the case of a tavern license) has all the accommodation required by law, (s) and that the applicant is known to the inspector to be of good character and repute; (t) and every such report shall having jurisdiction over the place; in the latter, the license may be issued under the direction of the license commissioners by the inspector for any license district to or from any port in which the vessel sails, or at any port in which she calls. See also sec. 10.

(r) The granting of the license may be conditional. Reg. v. Paton 5 U. C. Q. B. 442. The granting or refusing of a license, is not a judicial act so as to be subject to review by the court on certiorari. See Reg. v. Salford, 18 Q. B. 687. If knowingly granted, when according to the provisions of the Act, it ought not to have been granted, the persons granting it are subject to prosecution and fine. See sec. 67.

(s) A license granted under circumstances which, by the Act should prevent its issue, would, in the face of the strong language used in the Act, appear to be void. See Thompson v. Harvey, 4 H. & N. 254. See further note a to sec. 12. Two things are necessary; first, a petition of the applicant; second, the report of the inspector. It is intended that the inspector shall in good faith, make the inquiries necessary to enable him to give the required certificate. Reg. v. Kensington, 12 Q. B. 654. The duty to inspect is not one which the court will enforce by mandamus. In re Baxter v. Wilson, 12 U. C. Q. B. 139.

(t) The words, "character and repute," do not mean a man's real conduct and mode of life, but his reputation among his neighbours. He may be living in adultery, but if this fact is not generally known, he may still, by his neighbours, be esteemed a person of good character and repute. These words were introduced for the purpose of avoiding the evils which have been found to result from the multiplication of houses licensed to sell spirituous and fermented liquors, which in too many instances were found to be the resort of the be duly filed by the license commissioners and shall remain open to the inspection of any ratepayer of the municipality or any Provincial officer. (u)

When petition for license to be presented.

(2) Every petition for a tavern license, which is to take effect on the 1st day of May in any year, shall be filed with the inspector for the license district wherein it is to have effect on or before the 1st day of April next preceding. (v)

Report not to be conclusive.

(3) The inspector shall not report in favour of any applicant other than the true owner of the business of the tavern or shop proposed to be licensed, (w) and his report shall be for the information of the license commissioners only, who shall nevertheless exercise their own discretion on each application. (x)

Report may be dispensed with.

(4) Where the applicant for a tavern or shop license resides in a remote part of the license district, or where for any other reason the license commissioners see fit, they may dispense with the report of the inspector, and act upon such information as may satisfy them in the premises. (y) R.S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 9 (1-4).

Board to fix a day for considering applications.

(5) The board of license commissioners shall, on or before the 1st day of April, fix a day for considering applications profligate and the worthless. See Reg. v. Leader, 16 C. B. N. S. 584. In England a person convicted of felony, is for ever disqualified from selling spirits by retail. Reg. v. Vine, L. R. 10 Q. B. 195.

(u) The report ought to be held confidential, as it is for the use of the commissioners only, but as the effect of so dealing, might be productive of great abuse, provision is made for the inspection of the report by any ratepayer of the municipality or any provincial officer.

(v) This, it is apprehended, is only directory, in other words, that the commissioners may, after the day named, if they see fit, receive the petition. The limitation as to time is made for their convenience. If they see fit to waive it, no other person can well be allowed to complain.

(w) The intention is, that the true owner shall only be licensed, the certificate required is as to his character and repute. If a license were issued to a person other than the owner, there would be no guarantee for the proper conduct of the tavern or shop. Thompson v. Harvey, 4 H. & N. 254.

(x) It is clear that the commissioners are not bound by the contents of the certificate, but may exercise their own judgment, making use of their own knowledge as to each application.

(y) The report of the inspector is merely the means to an end; the end may be attained by other means if the commissioners see fit.

for licenses, being not less than one week prior to the 1st day of May in each year, and the inspector shall publish, in at least two issues of a newspaper, published in the district, if there be one published therein, the date and place of such meeting at least fourteen days before the day of such meeting. The inspector shall cause a notice containing similar information to be fixed to or near the outer door of the building in which his office is situated.

Notice by inspector as to applications.

(6) The inspector shall, at least fourteen days before the first meeting of the board to consider applications, cause to be published in at least two issues of some newspaper published in the district, if there be one published therein, the name of each applicant for a license, who is not at the time of the making of such application a licensee under this Act, or who applies for the licensing of premises not then under license, the description of license applied for, and the place (described with sufficient certainty) where such applicant proposes to sell, and also the total number of tavern and shop licenses issued during the current license year and the total number of applications for the ensuing year. He shall also keep a list of all applications, to be entered in a book to be kept by him for the purpose, containing similar information, and the same shall be open to the public for inspection without charge.

Objections to applications.

(7) It shall be the right and privilege of any ten or more electors of any polling subdivision to object by petition, or in any similar manner, to the granting of any license within such subdivision.

(8) The objections which may be taken to the granting of a license may be one or more of the following:

As to character of applicant.

(a) That the applicant is of bad fame and character, (z) or of drunken habits, or has previously forfeited a license, or that the applicant has been convicted of selling liquor without a license within a period of one year; or that he has kept, within a period of two years, a place in which the illicit sale of liquors was frequent and notorious; or—

As to his premises.

(b) That the premises in question are out of repair, or have not the accommodation required by law, or reasonable accommodation if the premises be not subject to the said requirements; or

---

(z) See note t to sub-s. 1 of sec. 11.

As to the neighbourhood.

(c) That the licensing thereof is not required in the neighbourhood, or that the premises are in the immediate vicinity of a place of public worship, hospital, or school, or that the quiet of the place in which such premises are situate will be disturbed if a license is granted.

Hearing objectors.

(9) Any person who has signed a memorial against the granting of a license may be heard in opposition thereto by himself or his agent.

And those authorized by municipalities.

(10) The council of any city, town, incorporated village, or township may authorize any person to appear in a similar manner on behalf of the ratepayers of such city, town, incorporated village or township as to the granting of a license, and the person so authorized shall have a right to be heard before the board against the granting of such license.

As to objections to character.

(11) Unless at the instance of the board, no objection in respect of the character of any applicant shall be entertained until three days' notice has been given to the applicant. The notice may be served personally or left at the usual place of residence or business of the applicant. The service may be proved orally or by affidavit sworn before a Justice of the Peace or a commissioner for taking affidavits.

Board may notice matters not mentioned by objectors.

Notice to applicant in such cases.

(12) Notwithstanding anything in this Act contained, the board may, of their own motion, take notice of any matter or thing which, in their opinion, would be an objection to the granting of a license, although no notice or objection has been given or made as by this Act provided: in any such case the board shall notify the applicant, and shall adjourn the hearing of the application, if requested by him, for a period not exceeding fourteen days in order that any person affected by the objection may have an opportunity of answering the same.

Decision of board final.

(13) The decision of the board, when once announced by the chairman, shall not be questioned or reconsidered; provided, nevertheless, that in cases in which the decision of the board has not been unanimous, or in cases in which the person or persons affected by such decision, petition the board and allege facts or grounds for their consideration not formerly before them, the board may by resolution, in which all of the commissioners concur, decide to rehear the case. Where a rehearing is allowed, notice thereof shall be given to the inspector to at least one of the petitioners or his agent.

(14) No license shall be granted to any applicant for premises not then under license or shall be transferred to such premises if a majority of the persons duly qualified to vote as electors in the subdivision at an election for a member of the Legislative Assembly, petition against it, on the grounds hereinbefore set forth, or any of such grounds. In case of any dispute as to whether the number of electors who have signed such petition compose a majority of the said duly qualified electors of the subdivision, or, in case of a dispute as to whether any one or more persons who have signed the petition are duly qualified voters, the clerk of the municipality in which the subdivision is situate, shall take evidence upon oath, or otherwise, and determine the question in dispute, and he shall in such case certify to the board the number of duly qualified electors aforesaid for the subdivision and the number of such electors who have signed the petition, and his certificate shall be final and conclusive. Majority of electors may prevent license.

(15) Any petition against the granting of a license shall be lodged with the inspector at least four days before the said first meeting of the board to consider the application; and the inspector shall present the same to the board at the first meeting thereof. Time for filing.

(16) The inspector shall keep a list posted in his office for three days previous to the meeting of the board, of all certificates and petitions lodged with him as aforesaid, and every such petition or certificate shall be open for public inspection without fee. Posting list of petitions, etc.

(17) Every application for a license, and all objections to every such application, shall be heard and determined at a meeting of the board. Hearing and determining objections.

(18) Every such hearing shall be open to the public, and the board may summon and examine on oath such witnesses as they may think necessary, and as nearly as may be in the manner directed by any Act now or hereafter to be in force relating to the duties of Justices in relation to summary convictions and orders; and any member of the board may administer the oath: but nevertheless nothing herein contained shall prevent the board from retiring or sitting with closed doors while considering or preparing their decision or judgment in respect of any application or applications. Proceedings at hearings.

(19) Any meeting of the board for the consideration of applications may, at the discretion of the board, be adjourned Adjourning meetings.

from time to time to the same or any other place or building within the district.

Office of inspector.

(20) Where the inspector has not taken or set apart premises especially for the purposes of an office, the room or rooms in which he usually conducts his official business, whether at his residence or place of business, shall be deemed to be his office for the purposes of this Act.

Foregoing sub-sections declaratory only.

(21) The foregoing sub-sections of this section are declared to be obligatory on the board and inspector, but non-compliance therewith shall not invalidate the action of the board or inspector. Nothing in this sub-section contained shall authorize the granting of a license contrary to the provisions of sub-section 14. 47 V. c. 34, s. 4.

Mode of procedure in obtaining tavern or shop licenses.

12—(1) If upon application of any person requiring a tavern or shop license, it appears that such applicant is the true owner of the business of such tavern or shop, and has complied with the requirements of the law, and of any municipal by-laws in force in that behalf, and also with the regulations and requirements of the license commissioners, and one of the persons designated or otherwise approved of by the license commissioners, the said license commissioners may grant such applicant a certificate under the hands of any two of them, stating that he is entitled to a license for a certain time, and for a certain tavern, inn, house or place of public entertainment or shop within the municipality, to be mentioned in such certificate. (a)

(2) The license duty shall then be paid by the applicant into such bank as may be designated by the Provincial Secretary, to the credit of the "License Fund Account," for the license district; and upon production by the applicant to the inspector of the certificate of the license commissioners, together with a receipt shewing payment in full of the duty to the credit of the license fund account, the inspector issue the license authorized by the license commissioners. (b) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 10.

(a) It is in the discretion of the commissioners to grant or refuse the license. Therefore no action lies against them for the refusal of the license. Bussett v. Godschall, 3 Wils. 121, and in absence of corruption there can be no criminal proceedings against them. Rex v. Williams, 3 Burr. 1317; Rex v. Hann, 3 1716, and there is no provision, made for an appeal from decision. See Rex v. Middlesex, 3 B. & Al. 938; Reg. v. D Q. B. 96; Reg. v. Cockburn, 4 E. & B. 265; Reg. v. Ely, 5 B. 489; Drake's Case, L. R. 5 Q. B. 33. See further note r 11.

No license to be granted for certain times and places.

13. The license commissioners shall not grant any certificate for a license, or any certificate whatsoever, whereby any person can obtain or procure any license for the sale of spirituous, fermented or intoxicating liquors, on the days of the Exhibition of the Agricultural Association of Ontario, the Industrial Exhibition of Toronto, or of any electoral district, or township, agricultural society exhibition, either on the grounds of such society, or within the distance of three hundred yards from such grounds. No license to ferry boat.

14. No license shall hereafter be granted to or for any ferry boat. (d) 47 V. c. 34, s. 24, part.

No license to be granted to commissioner or inspector.

15. A tavern or shop license shall not be granted to or for the benefit of any person who is a license commissioner or inspector, and every license so issued shall be void. (e) R. S. O. 1877, c 181, s. 12.

License not to be issued for any premises owned by such person in his district.

16.—(1) A tavern or shop license shall not be issued for premises within any license district of which any of the license commissioners or of the inspectors for such district is the owner, and every license commissioner who knowingly grants a certificate for a license, and every inspector who knowingly issues a license for any such premises, contrary to the provisions of this section, shall incur a penalty of $500. (f) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 13.

(b) See sec. 45.

(c) A certificate for a license, granted in contravention of this section, would, it is presumed, be held void. See Thompson v. Harvey, 4 H. & N. 254. The Court refused to grant a mandamus to revoke a certificate for a license granted in contravention of a municipal by-law. See Reg. ex rel. Gamble v. Burnside, 8 U. C. Q. B. 263.

(d) See note c to sec. 13.

(e) A license granted when the Act provides that it shall not be granted would probably be void without any express enactment. Thompson v. Harvey, 4 H. & N. 254.

(f) The penalty is a severe one, but it can only arise when the conduct of the commissioner or inspector is knowingly wrong. Where the illegal conduct is the result of ignorance or mere negligence, it is apprehended the section is inapplicable.

Last sub-section not to apply to companies in which commissioner, etc., is a shareholder.

(2) The preceding sub-section shall not extend or apply to premises owned or occupied by a joint stock company in which a license commissioner is a shareholder, but in every such case, and in every case where a license commissioner is the mortgagee of any premises or agent for the collection of rents in respect of any such premises, such license commissioner shall not, under a penalty of $500, vote upon any question affecting the granting of a license to the company or for premises owned or occupied by it, or for premises in respect of which he is such mortgagee or agent. License limited to person and place for which it was granted, subject to ss. 37, 38.

17. Subject to the provisions of this Act as to removals (h) and the transfer of licenses, (i) every license for the sale of liquor shall be held to be a license only to the person therein named (j) and for the premises therein described, (k) and shall remain valid only so long as such person continues to be the occupant of the said premises and the true owner of the business there carried on. porated villages respectively, according to the following scale, that is to say, one for each full two hundred and fifty of the first one thousand of the population, and one for each full four hundred over one thousand of the population; (m) but in no case shall this limit authorize any increase in any municipality in excess of the number of licenses therein issued for the year ending the 1st day of March 1876, unless from the future increase of the population the license commissioners think a larger number has become necessary, but not in any case exceeding the limit imposed by this Act. In cities, towns and villages.

(2) In incorporated villages, being county towns, the limit may be five in number, (n) and in the town of Niagara Falls three hotels, near the Falls of Niagara, and in the town of Port Arthur three hotels, which may be licensed, may be excluded from the number which would otherwise be the maximum limit under this Act. (o) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 5; 49 V. c. 39, s. 21. Exceptions.

19—(1) The number of the population which is to determine the number of licenses at any time under this Act shall be according to the then last preceding census taken under the authority of the Dominion of Canada, except where the license commissioners are at any time of opinion that, owing to a large increase of population since such census, an increased number of licensed taverns is needed for the convenience and accommodation of travellers; and in that case, if the license commissioners so certify, and the council of the Manner of determining the population with a view to the number of licenses.

(l) This section prescribes the minimum number of licenses for each municipality. License commissioners have under sub-s. 2 of s. 4, power to limit the number of licenses. They may, in the case of a particular municipality, limit the number to less than the maximum provided for by this section, but cannot exceed it.

(m) Take for example a city containing a population of 11,000:

First 1,000	4
Remaining 10,000	25
Total	29

There are none allowed for a fraction of 400, and the number authorized on 1st March, 1876, is not to be exceeded except under special circumstances.

(n) An ordinary incorporated village falls under the general rule shown by sub-s. 1 of the section. Where the village is the county town an arbitrary limit of five is fixed as the maximum.

(o) The meaning is, that in the towns of Niagara Falls and Port Arthur there may be three hotels beyond the ordinary maximum.

municipality memorialise the Lieutenant-Governor for an increase of the number of licensed taverns, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may authorize a new census to be taken under the authority of a by-law of the municipality and at the expense of the municipality, and the limit for the number of licenses shall thereafter, upon each such new census be one for each full two hundred and fifty of the population under one thousand, and one for each five hundred over one thousand of the population. (p)

Case of alteration or formation of municipality,

(2) In case of the alteration or formation of any municipality subsequent to such census of the Dominion of Canada the population of such municipality, for the purposes of this Act, may be ascertained by the said license commissioners by reference to the enumeration on which such census took place, or by a new census taken under the provisions of this section. (q) or municipal census.

(3) Where, since the said Dominion census, a census has been taken in any municipality under the authority of the council having jurisdiction, the limit may be the same as in the case of a census taken under this section for the purposes of this Act. (r) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 16.

Council may limit number of licenses.

20—(1) The council of every city, town, village or township may, by by-law to be passed before the 1st day of March in any year, limit the number of tavern licenses to be issued therein for the then ensuing license year, beginning on the 1st day of May, or for any future license year until such by-law is altered or repealed, provided such limit is within the limit imposed by this Act. (s)

(p) Population is made the basis for the calculation of the maximum number of licenses to be issued. The number of the population may be ascertained either by the result of the last general census, or by the result of a special census to be had under the circumstances stated. While the limit under such special census is as under sec. 18, one for each two hundred and fifty under one thousand, there is only one to be allowed for each five hundred over one thousand of the population. The latter provision differs from sec. 18 which allows one for each four hundred over one thousand.

(q) See the last note.

(r) See note p supra.

(s) Power is, under sub-s. 2 of sec. 4, conferred upon the license commissioners to pass by-laws for limiting the number of tavern and shop licenses respectively. Similar power as to tavern licenses is by this section, conferred on the council of every city,

(2) The council shall cause a certified copy of such by-law to be sent, immediately after the passing thereof, to the license commissioners of the district in which the municipality is situate. (t) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 17. Copy of by-law limiting to be sent to commissioners.

21. In any case where the license commissioners of any license district do not think fit, or are unable, to grant a new license to any applicant who has been licensed during the preceding twelve months, or any part thereof, they may, nevertheless, by resolution, provide for extending the duration of the existing license for any specified period of the year, not exceeding three months, at their discretion, upon payment, by the applicant, of a sum not exceeding the proportionate part of the duty payable for such license for the then next ensuing license year; and such license, when a certificate of the extension aforesaid has been endorsed thereon, under the hand of the inspector for the license district, shall remain valid for the period specified in the resolution of the license commissioners, and no longer; (u) Extended licenses.

village, or township. A similar power as to shop licenses is conferred by sec. 32. The power, if exercised by a municipal council, must, under this section, be exercised before the first day of March. The limit, whether fixed by the license commissioners or by the municipal council, is subject to the maximum prescribed by sec. 18. When created by a by-law of the municipal council, it exists as to all future licenses, so long as the by-law is in force.

(t) This is for the guidance of the license commissioners in the issue of licenses in the particular municipality. A by-law limiting the number of tavern or shop licenses to one, would be bad, as creating a monopoly. See In re Barclay and Darlington, 12 U. C. Q. B. 56; In re Greystock and Otonabee, Ib., 458; In re Brodie and Bowmanville, 38 U. C. Q. B. 580; but not so where the limit is two or more. See Terry v. Haldimand, 15 U. C. Q. B. 380; In re Gifford and Darlington, 35 U. Q. B. 285; Re Boylan and Toronto, 15 O. R. 13.

(u) In order to obtain a license, which in itself continues only for a year, an expenditure of money is necessary in providing the necessary accommodation. When the license has been obtained, a further expenditure is necessary in providing liquors, &c., for the purpose of the business, most persons so licensed look forward to the renewal of the license, provided they continue of good conduct and repute. In order that such persons may not be surprised, or prejudiced by not obtaining a new license, provision is made for an extension of the license, not exceeding three months upon payment of a proportionate part of the duty. The object of the extension is to enable the persons indulged to make arrangements with as little loss as possible to go out of the business. The certificate of extension is endorsed on the old license.

but this provision shall not be construed to confer on the license commissioners any authority to exceed the limit prescribed by this Act as to the number of tavern licenses to be granted in any year, except in cities, where the license commissioners may, in their discretion, having regard to the particular circumstances of the city, and of each application, grant further tavern licenses, but within the number of such licenses granted for the year ending on the 30th day of April, 1877, (v) and except in a locality largely resorted to in summer by visitors, where the license commissioners may, if they think fit, grant one additional tavern license, but not to extend beyond six months, commencing on the 1st day of May in each year. (w) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 18.

Beer and wine licenses may be issued.

22. Upon application to any board of license commissioners, before the 1st day of May in any year, by any one or more persons within any municipality within the jurisdiction of such board for a beer and wine license, the board may by resolution declare that any one or more of the tavern licenses which may be lawfully issued, and which are to be issued for the license year beginning on the 1st day of May of such year not exceeding the number so applied for, may be beer and wine licenses, and the board may thereafter cause beer and wine licenses to be issued in any such municipality, not exceeding the number mentioned in their aforesaid resolution, provided, nevertheless, that nothing in any such resolution contained, shall so limit the number of tavern or shop licenses as to prohibit within any municipality the sale of spirituous liquors; and, provided, also, that nothing in such beer and wine licenses contained, or by reason of the granting thereof shall authorize the holder thereof, his servants or agents, to sell, barter or otherwise dispose of any kind of intoxicating liquors other than those mentioned in the said beer and wine license. 44 V. c. 27, s.19.

Liquors not to be sold by holder of beer and wine license.

Beer and wine licenses.

23. A beer and wine license shall be construed to mean a tavern license for selling, bartering, or trafficking by retail in lager beer, ale, beer, and porter, and also in native wine manufactured in Ontario, containing not more than fifteen per cent. of alcohol, and in light foreign wines containing not more than fifteen per cent. of alcohol, but not including

Holder of beer and wine license subject to conditions of tavern license.

24. The holder of any such beer and wine license shall hold the same upon the terms and subject to all the conditions and penalties that apply to the holder of a tavern license; but, nevertheless, such holder of a beer and wine license shall not sell, barter or give, or keep in the house, or upon the premises for which such last mentioned license has been granted, any spirituous or intoxicating liquors for sale other than those thereby authorized; and as to such other liquors, the holder of such beer and wine license shall be deemed to be unlicensed, and section 132 of this Act shall apply. 44 V. c. 27, s. 21.

Holder of beer and wine license not to sell or keep spirits on premises licensed.

25.—(1) If any holder of a beer and wine license, his servants or agents, shall sell or barter, give or keep in the house, or upon the premises, for which a license has been granted, intoxicating liquors other than those mentioned in his license, for sale, or, shall knowingly sell, or barter, give or keep in the house, or upon the premises for which a beer and wine license has been granted native wine containing a greater quantity of alcohol than fifteen per cent. thereof, or light foreign wines containing a greater quantity of alcohol than fifteen per cent. thereof, or port, sherry, or madeira wine, he shall be subject to the penalties provided by section 70 of this Act, and in addition thereto, upon a conviction for a second offence the board of license commissioners may, by resolution, revoke and cancel his beer and wine license, and in the event of failure on their part so to do, application may be made by any resident of the municipality to the Judge of the County Court, in the manner prescribed in section 92 of this Act, which shall apply to such application, for an order to revoke and cancel said license; and if it appears to such Judge that the holder of any such beer and wine license has been twice convicted of having sold or given intoxicating liquors other than those mentioned in the license, or of having kept the same upon or in the licensed premises, for sale, or of having knowingly sold or given native wine containing a greater percentage of alcohol than fifteen per cent. thereof, or light foreign wines containing a greater percentage than fifteen per cent. thereof or port, sherry or madeira wine, as hereinbefore mentioned, or of having knowingly kept the same upon or in the licensed premises, then the said Judge shall make an order revoking and cancelling the said license, and it shall be revoked and cancelled from the date of such order, or from the passing of the aforesaid resolution by the commissioners. 44 V. c. 27, s. 22; 49 V. c. 39, s. 15.

(2) The percentage mentioned in the preceding sub-section shall be determined by weight. 49 V. c. 39, s. 15.

Inspector may test liquors kept by licensee.

26. The inspector may from time to time take from the liquors kept by a person holding a beer and wine licen upon the premises sufficient thereof to determine whether they are of a different kind from those mentioned in the license, or contain more alcohol than is by law allowed. 44 V. c. 27, s. 24.

Accommodation.

Accommodation required

27—(1) Every tavern or inn authorized to be licens under the provisions of this Act shall contain, and during the continuance of the license shall continue to contain, addition to what may be needed for the use of the family the tavern or innkeeper, not less than four bed-rooms, and cities six bed-rooms, together with, in every case, a suitable complement of bedding and furniture, and (except in citi and incorporated towns) there shall also be attached to the said tavern or inn, proper stabling for at least six horses (x) but the foregoing requirements shall not apply to such taverns as come within sub-section 3 of section 4 of the Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 19 (1); 47 V. c. 34, s. 5.

(d) The existence of the required accommodation is a condition precedent to the granting of the license. Its continued existence is also apparently a condition precedent to the continuance of the license.

It is equally objectionable for a room in which billiard tables are licensed for use, to communicate with a tavern or inn, and municipal councils in passing by-laws for the licensing of billiard tables, may provide against any such communication. Every tavern to be an eating house.

28. In addition to the accommodation required by the last preceding section, each tavern or house of entertainment shall be shewn, to the satisfaction of the license commissioners, to be a well-appointed and sufficient eating-house, with the appliances requisite for daily serving meals to travellers; (z) and the requirements of this section shall apply to all taverns or houses of entertainment, without any exception whatever, and continuously for the whole period of the license. City or town council may prescribe further requirements as to tavern.

29. The council of any city or town may, by by-law to be passed before the 1st day of March in any year, prescribe for the then ensuing license year beginning on the 1st day of May, any requirements in addition to those in the last preceding two sections mentioned, as to accommodation to be possessed by taverns or houses of entertainment, as the council may see fit; (b) and the license commissioners upon receiving a copy of such by-law shall be bound to observe the provisions thereof; and such by-law shall continue in full force for such year and any future year until repealed. Security.

Number of shop licenses limited, and licenses may be subjected to certain restrictions.

the council may think fit; (n) and such last-mentioned by-law may be made to come into force on the 1st day of May then next ensuing, or on the 1st day of May of the succeeding year, and any such by-law so passed shall not be repealed during the three years next after the year in which the same comes into force. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 24 (1); 47 V. c. 34, s. 6 (1).

Certified copy to be sent to license commissioners.

(2) It shall be the duty of the clerk, immediately after the passing of such by-law, to send a certified copy thereof to the license commissioners within whose license district the municipality is situate, and such by-law shall be binding upon the license commissioners, and any shop license to be issued shall conform to the provisions thereof; and such by-law shall remain in force for any future year until repealed, and any clerk who neglects, omits or refuses to send such certified copy shall incur a penalty of not less than $40 nor more than $100. (n) The license commissioners have, under sec. 4, sub-s. 2, power to pass resolutions limiting the number of tavern and shop licenses. This sub-s. 20 enables the council of a city, town, village or township to limit the number of tavern licenses. This section contains similar provisions as to shop licenses. See also sec. 33. The council in passing a by-law under this section may impose such restrictions as it sees fit. A by-law limiting the number of shop licenses to be issued in a ward to one, and requiring the licensee to confine his business exclusively to the keeping and selling of liquors, is bad as being in effect a prohibitory by-law and creating a monopoly. In re Brodie and Thorneville, 38 U. ceding sub-section provided for, the license shall be void, and such licensed person may be convicted of selling liquor without license, upon proof that any other commodity or goods is or are exposed for sale or sold at such shop, save as aforesaid, and such conviction shall be conclusive evidence that such person is unlicensed. Nothing in this section shall limit the authority of municipal councils in respect of shop licenses under the next preceding two sections. All the provisions regarding the closing of licensed taverns and sales and evidences of sales therein during prohibited hours shall apply to shops licensed in any municipality after the by-law secondly provided for in the next preceding section shall have come into force, and to shops which are provided for by the next preceding sub-section.

Mineral waters not to be consumed upon licensed premises.

(3) The aforesaid mineral or aerated waters or ginger ale shall not be sold in less quantities than one-half dozen bottles, and shall not be allowed to be consumed upon the licensed premises under the same penalty as is provided for a breach of section 60 of this Act.

Conditions for obtaining shop license.

45—(1) All sums received from duties on tavern, shop and wholesale licenses, and for transfers and removals thereof, and received by the inspector for fines and penalties, shall form the license fund of the license district, for which the board of license commissioners has been appointed. (n) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 34 (1); 44 V. c. 27, s. 3; 48 V. c. 43, s. 8, part.

Application of the fund.

(2) So much of the license fund as is not specially appropriated otherwise, shall be applied, under regulations of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for the payment of the salary and expenses of the inspector, and for the expenses of the office of the board and of officers, and otherwise in carrying the provisions of the law into effect, and the residue on the 30th day of June in each year, and at such other times as may be prescribed by the regulations of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, shall be paid over,—one-third to the Treasurer of the Province, to and for the use of the Province, and the other two-thirds to the treasurer of the city, town, village, or township municipality in which the licensed premises are respectively situate; but in cases where any municipality by by-law requires a larger duty in the case of tavern or shop licenses to be paid than the specific sums mentioned in sections 41 and 44 for any license, the whole of such excess shall be paid over to the treasurer of such municipality. (o)

Cheques upon the license fund account.

(3) Cheques upon the license fund account shall be drawn by the inspector, and countersigned by the chairman of the board, or any two of the license commissioners, subject to the regulations of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 34 (2, 3).

(n) See sec. 151 as to license fund of municipalities in which second part of the Canada Temperance Act is in force.

(o) See sec. 42 and notes thereto.

46—(1) Any penalty in money recovered under this Act, in cases in which an inspector is the prosecutor or complainant, (p) shall be paid by the convicting Justice, Justices or Police Magistrate to the inspector, and paid in by him to the credit of the "License Fund Account." Application of penalties where inspector is prosecutor.

(2) In case the whole amount of the penalty and costs is not recovered, the amount recovered shall be applied, first, to the payment of the costs, and the balance shall be appropriated as hereinafter mentioned. Where the whole penalty and costs are not recovered.

(3) In any case where the inspector has prosecuted and obtained a conviction, and has been unable to recover the amount of costs, the same shall be made good out of the said license fund. Where costs are not recovered.

(4) In any case where the inspector has prosecuted and failed to obtain a conviction, he shall be indemnified against all costs out of the license fund, should the Justice, Justices, or Police Magistrate before whom the complaint is made certify that such officer had reasonable and probable cause for preferring such prosecution or complaint. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 35. Indemnity of inspector where he fails to obtain a conviction.

REGULATIONS AND PROHIBITIONS.

47. All licenses shall be constantly and conspicuously exposed in the warehouses, shops or in the bar-room of taverns, inns, alehouses, beerhouses, or other places of public entertainment, and in the bar-saloon, or in the bar cabin of vessels, under a penalty of $5 for every day's wilful or negligent omission so to do, to be recovered with costs from the merchant, shopkeeper or tavern, inn, alehouse or beerhouse-keeper or keeper of any other place of public entertainment, or master, captain, or owner of the vessel so making default. (q) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 37. Licenses to be kept exposed. Penalty.

(p) The Act in several parts provides for penalties for its contravention. Others than the inspector may be the prosecutor or complainant; this section provides only for the case of the inspector being prosecutor or complainant. The license fund is his indemnity. If he recover penalties, he is to pay them to the credit of the fund. If he fail to obtain a conviction, he is to be indemnified against costs out of the fund. So also where he has been unable to recover costs.

(q) The duty imposed is to have all licenses constantly and conspicuously exposed. The omission of that duty, whether wilful or not, subjects the party to a penalty of $5 for every day's omission. A conviction imposing a greater or other penalty would be bad.

Tavern keepers to exhibit notice of being licensed.

Every person who keeps a tavern, or other place of public entertainment, in respect of which a tavern license has duly issued and is in force, shall exhibit over the door of such tavern, inn, alehouse, beerhouse, or other place of public entertainment, in large letters, the words, "Licensed to sell wine, beer, and other spirituous or fermented liquors" (r) and in default thereof, shall be liable to a penalty of $5, besides costs. Benevolent, Provident, and other Societies, and any unincorporated society, association or club which has been or may be formed or carried on specially or chiefly for the purpose of selling, bartering, or supplying, or of enabling any such society, association, or club to sell, barter or supply liquor to the members thereof, or to others, without a license, under this Act, and so as by means of such organization to evade the operations of this Act, and any member, officer or servant thereof, or person resorting thereto, who shall sell or barter liquor to any member thereof, or to any other person, without the license therefor by this Act required, shall be held to have violated section 49 of this Act and shall incur the penalties provided for the sale of liquor without license.

Keeping of liquor by clubs or societies a violation of sec. 50.

(2) The keeping or having in any house or building, or in any room or place occupied or controlled by such club, association or society, or any member or members thereof, or by any person resorting thereto, of any liquor for sale or barter, shall be a violation of section 50 of this Act.

Consumption of liquor, evidence of sale.

(3) Proof of consumption or intended consumption of liquor in such premises by any member of such club, association or society, or person who resorts thereto, shall be conclusive evidence of sale of such liquor, and the occupants of the premises or any member of the club, association or society, or person who resorts thereto, shall be taken conclusively to be the person who has or keeps therein such liquor for sale or barter; and any liquor found upon such premises shall be liable to seizure in the manner provided by this Act. 47 V. c. 34, s. 9.

(h) A person licensed to sell beer by retail "to be drunk or consumed off the premises," who supplied a pint of beer to a traveller who sat upon a bench placed and fastened to the wall of the house, returning the mug in which he was served, was held to have been properly convicted of selling beer to be drunk on the premises. Cross v. Watts, 13 C. R. 3 Q. B. 8. See also Bath v. White, 3 C. P. D. 175. The appellant being licensed to sell by retail intoxicating liquor to be consumed off the premises, was charged with keeping open his premises for the sale of such liquors during prohibited hours. He had two shops, a grocer's and a draper's, which formed part of his house, and both shops could be entered from the house at the back as well as by the customers' entrance. The grocery business was carried on in a shop which had an entrance for customers on one street, and the draper's business in a shop which had an entrance for customers on another street. During the day there were means of going, and customers occasionally passed from one shop to the other, but after ten o'clock shutters or partitions were put up and all means of communication except through the house, prevented. It was held that the defendant could not be convicted of having the house open for the sale of liquor after ten o'clock at night. Brigden v. Heighes, 1 Q. B. D. 330. The defendant was licensed to sell "in and upon the premises known as the Palmer House." The Palmer House stood upon the front part of a deep lot owned by the defendant, the rear part of which had been for many years enclosed and used as a fair ground, immediately within which enclosure the defendant sold liquor, for which he was convicted: Held, that as the fair ground, though part of the lot on which the hotel stood, was not used in connection with or for the enjoyment of the hotel, it was not covered by the license, and the conviction was right. Reg. v. Palmer, 46 U. C. Q. B. 263. See also Tassell v. Ovenden, 2 Q. B. D. 383. See sec. 110 as to evidence of guilt under this section.

(i) An information for selling intoxicating liquors on Sunday is a charge of a criminal character that the defendant cannot be compelled to give evidence against himself. Reg. v. Roddy, 41 U. C. Q. B. 291. See further Reg. v. Fee, 13 O. R. 590. Where in proceedings for selling liquor on Sunday it was not shewn that the defendant had a license or that the place in which the liquor was sold was one where intoxicating liquors were or might be sold by wholesale or retail, the conviction was held bad. Reg. v. Rodwell, 5 O. R. 1. Provincial Legislatures can prohibit or regulate the sale of liquor in saloons or taverns on Sundays, or at special times. Poulin v. Quebec, 9 S. C. R. 185. only body, with some few exceptions, now authorized to pass resolutions for regulating taverns and shops to be licensed, are the license commissioners, and they act by resolution and not by by-law. See sec. 4. This power formerly was vested in municipal councils, see In re Bright and the City of Toronto, 12 U. C. C. P. 433, but was by sec. 1 of 39 Vict. cap. 26, Ont., transferred to the license commissioners, except where express provision is otherwise made in the Act. See In re Brodie and Bowmanville, 38 U. C. Q. B. 580; In re Markell and St. Thomas, Ib. 594. This section does not in express language confer the power either on the license commissioners or on municipal councils. Not having been in express language conferred on municipal councils the inference would be that it rests with the license commissioners under one general power to regulate. But whether a resolution passed by the license commissioners for the purposes of the section would be "a by-law in force in the municipality," within the meaning of the section, is a question. It was, under the old law, held that municipal councils may pass by-laws against the sale of liquor to a person in a state of intoxication, In re Brystock and Otonabee, 12 U. C. Q. B. 458, or to idiots and insane persons, In re Ross v. York and Peel, 14 U. C. C. P. 171, and it is now held that they may even since the appointment of license commissioners, prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors to a child, servant apprentice, without the consent of the parent, master or legal guardian. In re Brodie and Bowmanville, 38 U. C. Q. B. 580. A by-law providing that the bar-room shall be closed, and unoccupied except by members of the keeper's family or his employees, and shall have no light therein except the natural light of day, during the prohibited hours, is bad and in excess of the powers of the police commissioners. Reg. v. Belmont, 35 U. C. Q. B. 298.

(k) Formerly there was an exception in favour of travellers on Sunday. See Baker v. Paris, 10 U. C. Q. B. 621; In re Barclay and Burlington, 12 U. C. Q. B. 86; In re Ross v. York and Peel, 14 U. C. C. P. 171, but this no longer exists.

(l) It was at one time held that it was necessary for the conviction to negative the exceptions. See Mills v. Brown, 9 U. C. L. J. 246; Reg. v. White, 21 U. C. C. P. 354; but see Reg. v. Breen, 36 U. C. Q. B. 84. Punishment for offences against this section must be either imprisonment with hard labour or a fine. Formerly in the event of non-payment of the fine imprisonment without hard labour could not be awarded. Reg. v. Rodwell, 5 O. R. 186. See now sec. 71. The holder of a license could alone be prosecuted under this section for selling liquor on prohibited days. Reg. v. Duquette, 9 P. R. 29. See also sec. 55.

Inspector to prosecute for second offence where sale on Saturday night and Sunday.

(2) Where a prior conviction or convictions have been had, it shall be the duty of the inspector when aware of the same, or when the same have been brought to his knowledge, to prosecute as for a second or subsequent offence, as the case may be, but an omission by the inspector to do this shall not invalidate any conviction that may have been obtained. This sub-section shall only apply to convictions for violations of that portion of the next preceding sub-section which prohibits the sale or other disposal of liquors in all places where intoxicating liquors are or may be sold, from and after the hour of seven of the clock on Saturday night till six of the clock on Monday morning thereafter; but where any prior conviction is for a violation of the said next preceding sub-section the onus of establishing that it was not for a violation during the said hours from Saturday night until Monday morning, shall lie upon the defendant. 47 V. c. 34, s. 1.

(3) Any inspector who shall knowingly or wilfully violate the provisions of this section shall incur a penalty of not less than $10 and not more than $20. 49 V. c. 39, s. 17.

(a) That the person so found frequenting, or present in the bar-room where liquor is trafficked in, as aforesaid, was at the time he or she so frequented or was present in such bar-room, a member of the family or household, (other than a lodger, boarder or guest) or a servant, or employee of such keeper actually engaged in necessary domestic occupation or service within the said bar-room.

(b) Or that such person was present therein lawfully engaged in receiving or supplying liquor which might lawfully be sold during said prohibited hours.

(2) The word "keeper" when used in this section shall include the person actually contravening the provisions of this section, whether acting on behalf of himself or of another or others, and the actual offender as well as the "keeper" of the licensed tavern shall be personally liable to the penalties and punishments which may be imposed for the infraction or violation of this section, and at the prosecutor's option, the actual offender may be prosecuted jointly with or separately from the keeper, but both of them shall not be convicted of the same offence, and the conviction of one of them shall be a bar to the conviction of the other of them therefor. 49 V. c. 39, s. 11.

When persons other than keeper of house guilty.

56. Any person so found in such bar-room, or who has been present therein during the prohibited hours, in the preceding section mentioned, and who does not come within the exceptions and proviso in that section contained, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to a penalty for each offence of not more than $10 and not less than $2 with costs. 49 V. c. 39, s. 12.

No sales on polling days.

No sale or other disposal of liquor shall take place in any licensed premises within the limits of a polling subdivision, on any polling day for or at any Parliamentary election or election of a member for the Legislative Assembly, or any municipal election, or on any day in which a vote in accordance with the provisions of The Canada Temperance R.S.C. c. 106. Power to exempt witness from penalty.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in this Act contained, any Police Magistrate or Justice of the Peace before whom any information or complaint is laid or made for the prosecution of any offence against the provisions of sub-section 1 of section 54 may, having regard to the demeanour of any witness and his mode of giving his evidence, by certificate in that behalf exempt such witness from the operation of sub-

And "imprisonment" in this sub-section means imprisonment with or without hard labour. Hodge v. Reg., 9 App. Cas. 117.

(c) An indictment lies against an innkeeper who refuses to receive a guest he having a room in his house at the time. The guest cannot tender the price of his refreshment, if his rejection is not on the ground of his non-payment. It is no defence that the guest is travelling on Sunday, and at an hour after the innkeeper's family had gone to bed; nor is the guest bound to state his name and address, the innkeeper having no right to insist upon knowing these particulars. If the guest, however, comes in a state of drunkenness or behaves in an indecent or improper manner, the innkeeper is not bound to receive him. Reg. v. Ivens, 7 C. & P. 213.

76. Any licensed person who allows to be supplied in his licensed premises, by purchase or otherwise, any description whatever of liquor to any person apparently under the age of sixteen years, of either sex, not being resident on the premises or a bona fide guest or lodger, shall, as well as the person who actually gives or supplies the liquor, be liable to a penalty of not less than $10 and not exceeding $20 for every such offence. Case of purchaser drinking liquor on premises where bought, etc.

78—(1) If any purchaser of any liquor from a person who is not licensed to sell the same to be drunk on the premises drinks, or causes or permits any other person to drink such liquor on the premises where the same is sold, the seller of such liquor shall, if it appears that such drinking was with his privity or consent, be subject to the following penalties, that is to say:

Provisions as to harbouring constables on duty.

80. Any person licensed to sell wine, beer or spirituous liquors, or any keeper of the house, shop, room, or other place for the sale of liquors, who knowingly harbours or entertains any constable belonging to any police force, or suffers such person to abide or remain in his shop, room or other place during any part of the time appointed for his being on duty, unless for the purpose of quelling any disturbance, or restoring order, or otherwise in the execution of his duty, (o) shall, for any of the offences aforesaid, be deprived of his license. Penalty in case any person compromises, compounds, or settles a case.

81. Any person who, having violated any of the provisions of this Act, compromises, compounds or settles, or offers or attempts to compromise, compound or settle the offence with any person or persons, with the view of preventing a complaint being made in respect thereof, or if a complaint has been made with the view of getting rid of such complaint, or of stopping or having the same dismissed for want of prosecution or otherwise, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, (q) and on conviction thereof, (r) shall be imprisoned at hard labour in the common gaol of the county in which the offence was committed for the period of three months. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 55.

(n) The penalties are cumulative. If there be a conviction under this section on more than one occasion the license may be revoked by the County Judge, and the person licensed disqualified from obtaining a license for two years thereafter. See sec. 91. See Schedule D, No. 13, for form of conviction.

(p) Loss of the license is the only punishment for the contravention of this section.

Penalty for being concerned in any such compromise, etc.

82. Every person who is concerned in, or is a party to, the compromise, composition, or settlement mentioned in the next preceding section, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, (s) and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the common gaol of the county in which the offence was committed for the period of three calendar months. Penalty for tampering with a witness.

84. Any person who, on any prosecution under this Act, tampers with a witness, either before or after he is summoned or appears as such witness on any trial or proceeding under this Act, or by the offer of money, or by threats, or in any other way, either directly or indirectly, induces or attempts to induce any such person to absent himself, or to swear falsely, (u) shall be liable to a penalty of $50 for each offence. Penalties and costs, how recoverable.

88. Prosecutions under resolutions of license commissioners, imposing penalties.

98. In all cases where the board of license commissioners passes a resolution in pursuance of the powers conferred upon them by sections 4 and 5 of this Act, (h) and in any by any such resolution, penalties are imposed for the infraction thereof, such penalties may be recovered and enforced by summary proceedings before any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction, in the manner and to the extent that by-laws of municipal councils may be enforced under the authority of The Municipal Act; (i) and the convictions in such proceedings may be in the form set forth in section 4 of the said last mentioned Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 47 V. c. 34, s. 17.

Rev. Stat. c. 184.

One justice may hear case in rural municipalities.

99. When by this Act it is provided that any prosecution may take place before two or more of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace, having jurisdiction in the county or district which the offence is charged to have been committed, then in case an offence is committed in a township, or in an incorporated or police village, or in an unorganized district, the prosecution may take place before, and a conviction or order may be made by, one or more such Justices of the Peace, instead of "two or more" of such Justices, whenever an appeal lies against such conviction or order to the County Judge. When such prosecution takes place before or a conviction or order is made by one Justice instead of two or more, the forms in the schedule to this Act may be altered and adapted so as to meet the exigencies of the case. 49 V. c. 39, s. 20.

(e) It would seem that the Crown is not obliged to proceed under this section like a private individual before two magistrates but may proceed by information in the High Court. See Regina v. Taylor, 36 U. C. Q. B. 183. See, as to proceedings being taken before Justices in the absence of the Police Magistrate in places having a Police Magistrate. Reg. v. Gordon, 16 O. R. 64.

Costs in convictions or orders under ss. 65 72—74, 76 and 78.

100. In all cases of conviction, or orders made under and in pursuance of sections 65, 72, 73, 74, 76 and 78 of this Act, the Justice or Justices making the same may, in his or their discretion, award and order, in and by the conviction or order, that the defendant shall pay to the prosecutor or complainant such costs as to the said Justice or Justices seem reasonable in that behalf, and not inconsistent with the fees established by law to be taken on proceedings had by and before Justices of the Peace. 48 V. c. 43, s. 7.

PROCEDURE IN CASES WHERE PREVIOUS CONVICTION CHARGED.

Proceedings in cases where a previous conviction charged.

101. The proceedings upon any information for committing an offence against any of the provisions of this Act, in case of a previous conviction or convictions being charged, shall be as follows;

1. The Justices or Police Magistrate shall in the first instance inquire concerning such subsequent offence only, and if the accused be found guilty thereof, he shall then, and not before, be asked whether he was so previously convicted, as charged in the information, and if he answers that he was so previously convicted, he may be sentenced accordingly; (l)

2. If he denies that he was so previously convicted, or stands mute of malice, or does not answer directly to such question, the Justice or Police Magistrate shall then inquire concerning such previous conviction or convictions.

Number of previous

3. The number of such previous convictions shall be proved

Previous convictions need not be charged.

3. A conviction may in any case be had as for a first offence notwithstanding that there may have been a prior conviction or convictions for the same, (n) or any other offence. (o)

Offences on same day.

4. Convictions for several offences may be made under this Act, although such offences may have been committed on the same day; but the increased penalty or punishment hereinbefore imposed shall only be recoverable in the case of offences committed on different days, and after information laid for a first offence. (p)

In case of a second or subsequent conviction becoming irregular by quashing of a first or previous conviction,

5. In the event of a conviction for any second or subsequent offence becoming void or defective, after the making thereof, by reason of any previous conviction being set aside, quashed, or otherwise rendered void, the Justices or Police Magistrate by whom such second or subsequent conviction was made, may by warrant under his or their hand summon the person convicted to appear at a time and place to be named in such warrant, and may thereupon, upon pro-

(n) The conviction may, in any case, be, in the discretion of the Justice or Justices, for a first offence, notwithstanding that there may have been a prior conviction or convictions for the same or some other offence. This would appear to be so, although prior convictions be alleged and proved. Unless the prior conviction or convictions be both alleged and proved, the Court is not bound in any case to take notice of them. See Reg. v. Summers, 11 Cox C. C. 248; Reg. v. Willis, 12 Cox C. C. 192.

(p) Although there may be several convictions for several offences committed on one and the same day, these are not to be used for the purpose of the increased penalty or punishment under the Act. Although the offences have been committed in different years, it would seem that they may be used for such a purpose. See note a to sec. 91.

of the due service of such warrant, if such person fails to appear, or on his appearance, amend such second or subsequent conviction, and adjudge such penalty or punishment as might have been adjudged had such previous conviction never existed, and such amended conviction shall thereupon be held valid to all intents and purposes, as if it had been made in the first instance. (q)

Justices or Police Magistrate may amend;

And amended conviction valid.

Second offence; meaning of.

6. In case any person who has been convicted of a contravention of any provision of any of the sections of this Act, numbered 49, 50, 51, 52 or 59, or any section for the contravention of which a penalty or punishment is prescribed by section 70, is afterwards convicted of an offence against any provision of any of the said sections, such conviction shall be deemed a conviction for a second offence, within the meaning of section 70, and may be dealt with and punished accordingly although the two convictions may have been under different sections; and in case any such person is afterwards again convicted of a contravention of any provision of any of the said sections, whether similar or not to the previous offences, such conviction shall in like manner be deemed a conviction for a third offence, within the meaning of section and may be dealt with and punished accordingly. FORM OF INFORMATIONS AND OTHER PROCEEDINGS—AMENDMENTS.

Description in informations.

102. In describing offences respecting the sale or other disposal of liquor, or the keeping, or the consumption of liquor in any information, summons, conviction, warrant, or proceeding under this Act, it shall be sufficient to state the sale, disposal, keeping, or consumption of liquor simply, without stating the name or kind of such liquor, or the price thereof, or any person to whom it was sold or disposed of, or by whom it was consumed; and it shall not be necessary to state the quantity of liquor so sold, disposed of, kept, or consumed, except in the case of offences where the quantity

---

This provision is necessary in case of prior convictions having been quashed or otherwise rendered void. The only prior convictions which are allowed to be taken into consideration for the purpose of the section, are those which, at the time of the subsequent conviction, are existing convictions. See Reg. v. Ackroyd 1 C. & K. 743; Reg. v. Stonnel, 1 Cox C. C. 142.

See note o to sub-sec. 3 of this section.

is essential, and then it shall be sufficient to allege the sale or disposal of more or less than such quantity. (a) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 74.

(a) A conviction, stating that "the defendant was in the habit of selling spirituous liquors without license," without charging any specific offence and not shewing time nor place, is bad. Rex v. Ferguson, 3 U. C. Q. B. O. S. 220; Reg. v. Young, 5 O. R. 184. It is sufficient to state the offence as selling "a certain spirituous liquor called whiskey." Reid v. McWhinnie, 27 U. C. Q. B. 239. It is not sufficient to state that the person convicted "did keep his bar room open and allow parties to frequent and remain in the same contrary to law." Reg. v. Hoggard, 30 U. C. Q. B. 152. It is not sufficient to state that "he did sell wine, beer, and other spirituous or fermented liquors, to wit, one glass of whiskey, contrary to law," for such a conviction does not shew whether the offence was for selling without a license or during prohibited hours. Ib. It is not necessary in a conviction for selling liquor without license to mention any statute under which the conviction took place. Reg. v. Strachan, 20 U. C. C. P. 182. A conviction that one G. P. of, &c., innkeeper, after the hour of seven in the evening, in and at his tavern, &c., being a place where intoxicating liquors are allowed to be sold by retail, did unlawfully sell, &c., one glass of beer, &c., was held bad as the use of the word innkeeper was not enough to shew the defendant the occupier, &c. Reg. v. Pratee, 23 U. C. C. P. 359. An information stated that the defendant, "a licensed hotel keeper in the town of Peterborough, did, on Sunday, 2nd July, 1876, at the hotel occupied by him in the said town, dispose of intoxicating liquor to a certain person who had not a certificate therefor," &c., and the conviction thereunder stated that the defendant was convicted "upon the information and complaint of J. R., the above named complainant, and another, before the undersigned," &c., "for that the defendant," &c., (using the words in the information). Held, that it sufficiently appeared that the hotel was a licensed hotel at which liquor was allowed to be sold; that a sale "at" the hotel was equivalent to a sale "therein or on the premises thereof;" and that it sufficiently appeared the defendant was the proprietor, occupancy, or tenant or agent in occupancy. Reg. v. Cavanagh, 5 U. C. C. P. 537. After a first conviction has been returned to the Clerk of the Peace and filed, the Justices, if they think it defective, may make out and file a more formal conviction. Wilson v. Gayfer, 5 U. C. Q. B. 227. See also Reg. v. Smith, 46 U. C. Q. B. 44; Reg. v. McCarthy, 11 O. R. 657. The Court refused to grant a mandamus to compel two Justices of the Peace to issue execution upon a conviction for selling spirituous liquors without a license, there being some doubt as to the sufficiency or legality of the conviction. Reg. v. McConnell, 6 U. C. Q. B. O. S. 629. The Court refused to quash a conviction affirmed on appeal, on the ground among others that the general verdict of guilty was inconsistent with the answers of the jury to specific questions. Reg. v. Grain, 46 U. C. Q. B. 382. Where a conviction purporting to be made by three magistrates but signed by two only was returned with a certiorari it was held that if an objection at all it was a ground for sending back the writ that the third might sign but not a ground for quashing the conviction. Reg. v. Young, 7 O. R. 88.

Forms.

103. The forms given in the schedules to this Act, or any forms to the like effect, (b) shall be sufficient in the cases thereby respectively provided for, and where no forms are prescribed by the schedules new ones may be framed according to those appended to the Act of Canada entitled An Act respecting Summary Proceedings before Justices of the Peace or, The Act respecting the Procedure on Appeals to the Judge of the County Court from Summary Convictions, or any Acts amending the same respectively—such forms being made short and concise in the mode indicated in the schedules to this Act which shall serve as guides so far as the particular case will allow. R.S.C. c. 178.

Rev. Stat. c. 74.

Amending information.

104. At any time before judgment, the Justice, Justices, or Police Magistrate may amend or alter any information, and may substitute for the offence charged therein any other offence against the provisions of this Act; but if it appears that the defendant has been prejudiced by such amendment (c) the said Justice, Justices or Police Magistrate shall thereupon adjourn the hearing of the case to some future day, unless the defendant waives such adjournment. (d) 41 V. c. 14, s. 9.

(b) It is in general safer to follow the statutory form where applicable than to attempt to improve upon it by substituting a different one. In some cases, however, it is necessary to alter the form to bring the description of the offence within the language of the statute on which it is grounded, for it is a rule that where a statute gives a form of conviction not fully describing the offence, the conviction nevertheless must fully describe it. See Nixon v. Nanney, 7 Q. B. 747; see further, Reg. v. Jones, 12 A. & E. 684; Reg. v. Recorder of King's Lynn, 3 D. & L. 725. See also R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, sub-s. 35.

(c) It is the duty of a person summoned before justices, if he have any objection to the form of the information, at once to state it, with leave, if necessary, to an amendment. See Crawford v. Beattie, 39 U. C. Q. B. 13, 29. Where a defendant appears and cross-examines witnesses on a charge over which the justice has jurisdiction, whether there be an information or not for the charge, and whether required to be in writing or not, he thereby waives the information. Stoness v. Lake, 40 U. C. Q. B. 320, 327. Where, instead of doing so, he insists upon the want of an information or defective information, and does nothing to waive it, he is, subject to the power of amendment, entitled to the benefit of the objection. Ib. There can be no reason why the information, like an indictment, may not at any time before judgment be amended, and this section in express language gives the power. See Reg. v. Cavanagh, 27 U. C. C. P. 537, 540.

(d) The only answer which can be made to a proposed amendment

Conviction not void for certain defects;

105—(1) No conviction or warrant enforcing the same or other process or proceeding under this Act shall be held insufficient or invalid by reason of any variance between the information or conviction, or by reason of any other defect in form or substance, provided it can be understood from such conviction, warrant, process or proceeding that the same was made for an offence against some provision of this Act, within the jurisdiction of the Justice, Justices or Police Magistrate who made or signed the same, and provided there is evidence to prove such offence, (e) and no greater penalty or punishment is imposed than is authorized by this Act. C. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 77 (1); 44 V. c. 27, s. 7.

May be amended.

(2) Upon any application to quash such conviction, or warrant enforcing the same, or other process or proceeding, whether in appeal or upon habeas corpus, or by way of certiorari or otherwise, the Court or Judge to which such appeal is made or to which such application has been made upon habeas corpus or by way of certiorari or otherwise shall dispose of such appeal or application upon the merits, notwithstanding any such variance or defect as aforesaid, and in all cases where it appears that the merits have been tried, and that the conviction, warrant, process or proceeding is sufficient and valid under this section or otherwise, such conviction, warrant, process or proceeding shall be affirmed or shall not be quashed (as the case may be), and such Court or Judge may, in any case, amend the same if necessary.

is the prejudice to the defendant, but this is at most a mere chance the indulgence of the court in the granting of an adjournment will the justice is satisfied that it is reasonable under the circumstances

(e) The old rule was to the effect that evidence would not allowed to supply omissions in the statement of the charge, "for office of evidence is to prove not to supply a legal charge." See v. Wheatman, Doug. 345; Wiles v. Cooper, 3 A. & E. 524; Carp v. Mason, 12 A. & E. 629. This rule is here reversed.

Any house, shop, room, or other place in which are proved to exist a bar, counter, beer pumps, kegs, jars, decanters, tumblers, glasses, or any other appliances or preparations similar to those usually found in taverns and shops where spirituous or fermented liquors are accustomed to be sold or trafficked in shall be deemed to be a place in which spirituous, fermented, or other manufactured liquors are kept or had for the purpose of being sold, bartered, or traded in, under section 50 of this Act, unless the contrary is proved by the defendant in any prosecution; (j) and the occupant of

(i) The section deals with two things, an original resolution and a copy. The former is sufficiently authenticated by being signed by the chairman of the board which passed the same not the chairman of the board for the time being. The latter when certified to be a true copy by any member of such board, is to be deemed authentic and received in evidence without proof of the signature. There is no declaration to the effect that a certified copy shall be received in evidence in the place of the original, although this was probably intended.

(j) Where crime is charged the well-known rule is, that the accused is presumed to be innocent until proved guilty; and where guilt is sought to be inferred from circumstances, the circumstances must not only be consistent with guilt but inconsistent with innocence; and this has in England been applied to charges against persons for having violated some of the provisions of the License Acts. Thus where the evidence in support of an information against a beerhouse keeper for opening his shop on Sunday for the sale of beer was, that a little after midnight on Saturday the door of the house was closed and all appeared quiet; that a little after two on the Sunday morning, persons looking through the window saw a man drinking with the publican in the house, and that afterwards they let the man out. The defendant was held entitled to an acquittal inasmuch as it did not appear but that the man had been let in on the house on the Saturday. Tennant v. Cumberland, 1 E. & E. But under this section the existence in a house of the usual appliances of a bar-room, is to be deemed evidence that spirituous, fermented, or other manufactured liquors are kept or had for the purpose of sale so as to throw upon the accused the obligation of proving the contrary. ---

The presumption mentioned in the preceding part of the section rebuttable one. The charge is to be inferred "unless the contrary is proved by the defendant." But the presumption in this part of the section, is made conclusive. The occupant is to be taken conclusively to be the person who has or keeps therein such liquors for sale, &c.

There may be a sale although no money passed from the buyer to the purchaser, If the Justice is satisfied upon the evidence that the transaction in the nature of a sale actually took place, he may convict. So if satisfied that there was any disposal or that the consumption of liquor was about to take place.

Proof of the consumption or intended consumption of liquor is evidence, but not conclusive evidence that the liquor was sold to the person consuming or being about to consume it.

other act, matter or thing, by any person in the employ of such occupant, or who is suffered to be or remain in or upon the premises of such occupant, or to act in any way for such occupant, shall be conclusive evidence that such sale, barter or traffic, or other act, matter or thing, took place with the authority and by the direction of such occupant. Person selling as well as "occupant" to be liable.

(2) The person actually selling, or otherwise contravening any of the provisions of this Act, as in this section mentioned is for the purposes hereof styled "the actual offender," whether acting on behalf of himself or of another or others, and the actual offender, as well as the occupant, shall be personally liable to the penalties and punishments prescribed by sections 70 and 71 of this Act, and at the prosecutor's option the actual offender may be prosecuted jointly with, or separately from, the occupant, but both of them shall not be convicted of the same offence, and the conviction of one of them shall be a bar to the conviction of the other of them therefor. 44 V. c. 27, s. 8.

In prosecutions for sale without license certain presumptions sufficient to put defendant on his defence, and convict him in default of rebuttal.

113. In any prosecution under this Act for the sale or other disposal of liquor without the license required by law, it shall not be necessary that any witness should depose directly to the precise description of the liquor sold or bartered or the precise consideration therefor, or to the fact of the sale or other disposal having taken place with his participation or to his own personal and certain knowledge, but if the Justices or Police Magistrate trying the case, so soon as it appears to them or him that the circumstances in evidence sufficiently establish the infraction of law complained of, shall put the defendant on his defence, and in default of his rebuttal of such evidence, shall convict him accordingly. (t) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 84.

Proof of being

114.—(1) In any prosecution under this Act, whenever it

(s) It may be that the sale &c., took place in spite of and contrary to the occupant's command, and yet proof of the fact of the sale by a person in his employ or acting for him is, under this section, made conclusive evidence that the sale was by his authority. licensed to rest on the defendant.

appears that the defendant has done any act or been guilty of any omission in respect of which, were he not duly licensed, he would be liable to some penalty under this Act, it shall be incumbent upon the defendant to prove that he is duly licensed, and that he did the said act lawfully. (u)

Evidence of license.

(2) The production of a license which on its face purports to be duly issued, and which, were it duly issued, would be a lawful authority to the defendant for such act or omission, shall be prima facie evidence that the defendant is so entitled, and in all cases the signature to and upon any instrument purporting to be a valid license shall prima facie be taken to be genuine. (v) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 85.

Witnesses.

Witnesses summoned and not appearing, may be brought up by warrant.

115. In any prosecution under this Act the Justice, Justices, or Police Magistrate trying the case may summon any person represented to him or them as a material witness in relation thereto; (w) and if such person refuses or neglects to attend pursuant to such summons, the Justice, Justices, or Police Magistrate may issue his or their warrant for the arrest of such person; (x) and he shall thereupon be brought before the Justice, Justices, or Police Magistrate, and if he refuses to be sworn or to affirm, or to answer any question touching the case, he may be committed to the common gaol of the county, there to remain until he consents to be sworn or to affirm and to answer. (y) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 86.

(u) As it rests on the defendant to prove that he was licensed, it is no objection to a conviction that it did not shew that the defendant was not licensed. Reg. v. Young, 7 O. R. 88.

(v) A certificate under the hand of the license inspector of the district is, under sec. 106 made sufficient prima facie proof of the existence of a license in any prosecution or proceeding.

(w) The informer is a competent witness, Reg. v. Strachan, 20 U. C. C. P. 182, but not the defendant, where the charge is preferred under sec. 54 of this Act. Reg. v. Roddy, 41 U. C. Q. B. 291.

(x) There is no power to issue the warrant in the first instance. The proposed witness must first be summoned. If, having been summoned, he refuses or neglects to attend pursuant to the summons, the Justice, &c. may issue his warrant, &c.

(y) The committal should be "until he consents to be sworn or affirm or answer," and not in the ordinary form, "until discharged by the course of law." See In re John Anderson, 11 U. C. C. P.

Production of books, etc., may be ordered.

116. Any person summoned as a party to, or as a witness in any proceeding under this Act, may, by the summons, be required to produce, at the time and place appointed for his attendance, all books and papers, accounts, deeds, and other documents in his possession, custody, or control, relating to any matter connected with the said proceeding, saving all just exceptions to such production; (j) and shall be liable to the same penalties for non-production of such books, papers or documents, as he would incur by refusal or neglect to attend, pursuant to such summons, or to be sworn or to answer any question touching the case. (k) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 87.

Inspector's expenses to be allowed for attending court. 27,28 V. c. 18; R.S.C. c. 106.

117—(1) In any prosecution under this Act, or The Temperance Act of 1864, or the second part of The Canada Temperance Act, if the inspector attends the Court as prosecutor or witness and travels to attend such Court a distance of more than three miles from his place of residence, it shall be lawful for the Justice or Justices trying the case to tax against the defendant, in cases of conviction, as costs in the cause to cover railway fare or hire of conveyance of the inspector in attending the said prosecution as follows:

Railway or stage fare

1. In case he travels by railway or stage the fares actually required to be paid by him;

Hired conveyance.

2. If by a hired conveyance, the sums actually required to be paid for a horse, conveyance, and tolls;

His own conveyance.

3. If in his own conveyance, ten cents per mile one way;

Other expenses.

4. And to cover all other expenses $1 per day;

Adjournments.

5. In case of adjournment at the instance of the defendant, similar additional allowances to be made, when the inspector is actually in attendance.

Expenses verified by oath

(2) The mileage or other expenses shall be verified by the oath of the inspector.

Inspector to make quarterly returns.

(3) The inspector shall make quarterly returns in detail under oath to the department of the Provincial Secretary, of all sums received by him for mileage, and other expenses in this section provided for. 47 V. c. 34, s. 20.

APPEALS.

Conviction of justices final except as otherwise provided.

118—(1) In all cases of prosecution for any offence against any provisions of this Act for which any penalty or punishment is prescribed, a conviction or order of the said Justices or Police Magistrate, as the case may be, except as hereinafter mentioned, shall be final and conclusive, and except as hereinafter mentioned, against such conviction or order there shall be no appeal. (l)

Procedure on appeals.

(2) An appeal shall lie from a conviction to the Judge of the County Court of the county in which the conviction was made, sitting in chambers, without a jury, (m) provided notice of such appeal is given to the prosecutor or complainant within five days after the date of the said conviction (n) subject to the following provisions.

Appellant to enter into a recognizance or deposit amount of penalty and costs.

(3) The person convicted, in case he is in custody, shall either remain in custody until the hearing of such appeal before the said Judge, or (where the penalty of imprisonment with or without hard labour is adjudged) shall enter into a recognizance with two sufficient sureties, in the sum of $200 each, before the convicting Justices or Police Magistrate, conditioned personally to appear before the said Judge, and to try such appeal and abide his judgment thereupon, and to pay such costs as he may order, and in case the appeal is against a conviction whereby only a penalty or sum of money is adjudged to be paid, the appellant may (although the order directs imprisonment in default of payment) instead of remaining in custody as aforesaid, give the recognizance as aforesaid, or may deposit, with the said Justices or Police Magistrate convicting, the amount of the penalty and costs, and a further sum of $25 to answer the respondent's cost of appeal. (o)

(l) This applies to convictions for selling spirituous or fermented liquors without a license. See Reg. v. Firmin, 33 U. C. Q. B.

(m) When there is jurisdiction to entertain the appeal, mere irregularity in the mode of procedure, is not a ground for prohibition, for example the calling of a jury when the appeal should be heard without a jury. See In re Brown and Wallace, 6 P. R. 1.

(n) The giving of notice as directed is a condition precedent to the hearing of the appeal. See Reg. v. Justices of Cheshire, A. & E. 139.

(o) See sec. 120.

(4) Upon such recognizance being given or deposit made, the said Justices or Police Magistrate shall liberate such person, if in custody, and shall forthwith deliver or transmit by registered letter post-paid, the depositions and papers in the case, with the recognizance or deposit, as the case may be, to the clerk of the County Court of the county wherein such conviction was had. (p) Justices to transmit depositions to clerk of County Court.

(5) The appellant shall pay to the clerk of the County Court, for his attendance and services in connection with such appeal, the sum of $1, and the same may be taxed as costs in the cause. Clerk's fees.

(6) The practice and procedure upon such appeal, and all the proceedings thereon, shall thenceforth be governed by The Act respecting the Procedure on Appeals to the Judge of a County Court from Summary Convictions, so far as the same is not inconsistent with this Act. (q) 47 V. c. 34, s. 18. Rev. Stat. c. 75, to apply.

119. An appeal by the inspector, or other prosecutor, shall lie to the Court of Appeal from the decision, judgment, or order of any Judge of a County Court upon an appeal from any conviction or order made in a case arising out of or under this Act in which a conviction or order has been quashed, or set aside, upon the ground, directly or indirectly, of the invalidity of any Act or Acts of the Legislature of this Province, or of any part thereof, or from the decision, judgment, or order of the Judge of a County Court in any other case arising out of or under this Act in which the Attorney-General of the Province shall certify that he is of opinion that the matters in dispute are of sufficient importance to justify an appeal; such appeal shall be had upon notice thereof to be given to the opposite party of the intention to appeal within eight days, or where the certificate of the Attorney-General is necessary (r) and is obtained, within seven days after such judgment, decision or order shall have been made, and, in the case of such appeal, the clerk of the County Court shall certify the judgment, conviction, orders Appeal to Court of Appeal.

(p) It is presumed that performance of the duties imposed by this sub-s. of the section, could, if necessary be enforced by mandamus.

(q) When the appellant relies upon an objection on the evidence not raised before the convicting Justices effect will not be given to it. Parkis v. Huxtable, 1 E. & E. 780.

(r) See sec. 121.

and all other proceedings to the registrar of the Court of Appeal, Toronto, for use upon the appeal. The said Court shall thereupon hear and determine the said appeal, and shall make such order for carrying into effect the judgment of the Court as the Court shall think fit. 47 V. c. 34, s. 19.

Costs on appeal from conviction. 27-28 V.c.18; R.S.C.c. 106.

120. On an appeal to the County Judge or General Sessions from a conviction or order under this Act or under The Temperance Act of 1864, or The Canada Temperance Act, when costs are directed to be paid by either party, no greater costs shall be taxable by or against either party as between party and party than the sum of $10, and the actual and necessary disbursements in procuring the attendance of witnesses and the fees to which the clerk of the peace shall be lawfully entitled; the fees chargeable by the clerk of the peace upon any appeal under this Act shall not exceed the sum of $2. 41 V. c. 14, s. 8; 44 V. c. 27, s. 12; 50 V. c. 33, s. 6.

Appeal allowed in certain cases.

121. An appeal to the Court of Appeal shall lie from any judgment or decision of the High Court or a Judge thereof, upon any application to quash a conviction made under this Act, or to discharge a prisoner who is held in custody under any such conviction, whether such conviction is quashed or the prisoner discharged, or the application is refused; but no such appeal shall lie from the judgment of a single Judge, or from the judgment of the Court, if the Court is unanimous, unless in either case the Attorney-General for Ontario shall certify that he is of opinion that the point in dispute is of sufficient importance to justify the case being appealed; upon such certificate being produced to the clerk of the Court, in which the judgment or decision proposed to be appealed from has been given, the said clerk shall certify, under the seal of the Court, the proceedings returned to or had before or in the said Court, unto the Court of Appeal, and the said Court shall thereupon hear and determine the said appeal, without any formal pleadings, and shall give such order for carrying into effect the judgment of the said Court as the circumstances of the case may require. 44 V. c. 27, s. 17.

CIVIL REMEDIES AGAINST TAVERN KEEPERS, ETC.

Liability of innkeepers or persons in their employ, etc.,

122. Where in any inn, tavern, or other house or place of public entertainment wherein refreshments are sold, or in any place wherein intoxicating liquor of any kind is sold whether legally or illegally, any person has drunk to excess of intoxicating liquor of any kind, therein furnished to him, and while in a state of intoxication from such drinking has come to his death by suicide, or drowning, or perishing from cold or other accident caused by such intoxication, (s) the keeper of such inn, tavern, or other house or place of public entertainment, or wherein refreshments are sold, or of such place wherein intoxicating liquor is sold, and also any other person or persons who for him or in his employ delivered to such person the liquor whereby such intoxication was caused, shall be jointly and severally liable to an action as for personal wrong, (if brought within three months thereafter, but not otherwise) (t) by the legal representatives of the deceased person; and such legal representatives may bring either a joint and several action against them or a separate action against either or any of them, and by such action or actions, may recover such sum not less than $100 nor more $1000, in the aggregate, of any such actions, as may therein be assessed by the Court or jury as damages. (u) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 88.

Who give liquor to persons who become intoxicated.

(s) Where deceased, being intoxicated, fell off a bench in the bar-room and was placed upon the floor in a small room adjoining, with nothing under his head, and while there died from apoplexy or congestion of the brain, brought on, as the plaintiff alleged, by placing him in an improper position when intoxicated, it was held that the death did not arise from "accident caused by the intoxication," within the meaning of sec. 40 of 27 & 28 Vict. c. 18, from which this section is taken. Bobier v. Clay, 27 U. C. Q. B. 438. Hagarty, J., in delivering judgment, said, at p. 443: "If the deceased, having previously been drinking to excess, took in this tavern a tumbler of brandy and drank it off at a draught, and thereby produced an immediate apoplectic seizure or asphyxia and fell back insensible, and died at once or in a few hours, could we hold that to be death from accident caused by intoxication? We think not." The learned Judge, in another part of the same judgment, at p. 442, said: "Had the statute declared that if any person shall die from excessive drinking, the person furnishing the liquor so drank shall be responsible in this action, the case would be wholly different." See further Veach v. Heilman, 53 Ind. 517; Collier v. Early, 54 Ind. 559.

(t) No additional time is apparently given to a legal representative to bring the action, owing to the death of the intestate, more than three months after the happening of the accident. See Turner v. Brantford, 13 U. C. C. P. 109. The statute begins to run from the occurrence of the accident, not from the death. Miller v. North Fredericksburgh, 25 U. C. Q. B. 31.

(u) Proof of pecuniary damage does not appear to be necessary for the maintenance of the action. It appears to be in the discretion of

RESTRICTION ON SALE TO INEBRIATES.

Persons who furnish the liquor liable for assault committed by a person thereby intoxicated.

123. If a person in a state of intoxication assaults any person, or injures any property, the person who furnished him with the liquor which occasioned his intoxication,—if such furnishing was in violation of this Act, or otherwise in violation of law,—shall be jointly and severally liable to the same action by the party injured as the person intoxicated may be liable to; (v) and such party injured, or his legal representatives, may bring either a joint and several action against the person intoxicated and the person or persons who furnished such liquor, or a separate action against either or any of them. (w) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 89.

Power of justices to forbid sale of liquor to habitual drunkards.

124—(1) When it shall be made to appear in open Court sitting in the county in which he resides, that any person summoned before such Court, by excessive drinking of liquor misspends, wastes or lessens his estate, or greatly injures his health, or endangers or interrupts the peace and happiness of his family, the Police Magistrate or Justices holding such Court, shall by writing under the hand of such Police Magistrate, or under the hands of two of such Justices, forbid any licensed person to sell to him any liquor for the space of one year, and such Police Magistrate, Justices, or any other two the Court or jury to assess the damages as they see fit, looking to the circumstances of the case, provided the amount assessed be not less than $100 or more than $1000. This question was raised but not decided in Bobier v. Clay, 27 U. C. Q. B. 438. It was afterwards decided as above laid down in Henderson v. Campbell, an unreported case in the Court of Queen's Bench, and in Gleason v. Williams, 1 U. C. C. P, 93, by the Court of Common Pleas, under a different but similar section of the Act.

(v) In McCurdy v. Swift, 17 U. C. C. P. 126, decided under s. 41 of 27 & 28 Vict. ch. 18, from which this section is taken—Wilson J., at p. 138, said: "The legislature must have considered, as many persons do, that the person who intoxicates, or suffers or encourages another to become intoxicated when it is the interest of such a person to make as large a sale of liquor as the other will or can be made to buy, is far more to blame than the unfortunate inebriate, and should therefore be answerable for the acts and conduct of the person who has been deprived of his senses and rendered a really dangerous being." In that case it was held, that the Act may be construed as giving the civil remedy, at any rate, against the innkeeper, notwithstanding a felony may have been committed, which has not been prosecuted for although it does not contain any express provision to that effect. Ib.

(w) There is no limitation as to the amount of damages, such as contained in the previous section. See note u to that section.

Justices, of the county in which the said person resides, may, at the same or any other time, in like manner, forbid the selling of any such liquor to the said person by any licensed person of any other city, town or district, to which he resorts or may be likely to resort for the same.

Effect of such prohibition.

(2) Whenever the sale of liquor to any such drunkard shall have been so prohibited, if any other person, with a knowledge of such prohibition, gives, sells, purchases, or procures for or on behalf of such prohibited person, or for his or her use, any liquor, such other person shall, upon conviction, incur for every such offence, a penalty of not less than $10 and not exceeding $20.

Penalty for violation of this section.

(3) Any person so prohibited or notified, his servants or agents, who shall violate this section, shall for a first offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding $20, and for a second, and any subsequent offence, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $20 and not exceeding $50.

Application to set aside prohibition or notice.

(4) The person in respect of whom any such notice shall be given, may, at any time while the same is in force, apply to the Judge of the County Court, of the county in which he resides, after having given seven days' notice of his intention so to do to the Police Magistrate or Justices who signed the said prohibition, or notice, and the County Crown Attorney for the county in which such person resides, to set aside such prohibition or notice. The Judge may, upon hearing the said party and any witnesses, either viva voce or upon affidavit, set aside the said prohibition or notice, or dismiss the said application, as in his discretion may seem meet; Provided, nevertheless, that before any such prohibition or notice shall be set aside by the Judge, it shall be made to appear that the wife or husband (if married and residing with such wife or husband), as the case may be, of the person applying, has knowledge of such application and consents thereto. 47 V. c. 34, s. 21.

Judge may set aside prohibition or notice, or dismiss application.

Husband, wife, etc., may notify sellers of liquor not to furnish it to any person addicted to drinking

125. The husband, wife, parent, child of twenty-one years upwards, brother, sister, master, guardian, or employer, of any person who has the habit of drinking intoxicating liquor to excess—or the parent, brother, or sister, of the husband or wife of such person—or the guardian of any child or children of such person—may give notice in writing, signed by him or her, or may require the inspector to give notice to any person authorized to sell, or who sells or is reputed to sell, intoxicating liquor of any kind, not to deliver intoxicating liquor to the person having such habit: (x) and if the person so notified, at any time within twelve months after such notice, either himself, or by his clerk, servant or agent, otherwise than in terms of a special requisition for medicinal purposes, signed by a licensed medical practioner, delivers, or in or from any building, booth or place occupied by him, and wherein or wherefrom any such liquor is sold, suffers to be delivered, any such liquor to the person having such habit, he shall incur upon conviction a penalty not exceeding $50, and the person requiring the notice to be given may, in an an action as for personal wrong (if brought within six months thereafter, but not otherwise), (y) recover from the person notified such sum not less than $20 nor more than $500, as may be assessed by the Court or jury as damages; (z) and any married woman may bring such action in her own name, without authorization by her husband; and all damages recovered by her shall in that case go to her separate use: and in case of the death of either party, the action and right of action given by this section shall survive to or against his legal representatives, but the defendant shall not be liable for both penalties for the same offence. 47 V. c. 34, s. 22.

Married woman may bring action for damages.

(x) When there was no evidence to shew that the wife had in fact signed the notice served, but merely that she signed a notice, a copy of which was served, it was held under sec. 42 of 27 & 28 Vict. c. 18, from which this section is taken, that there could be no recovery. Gleason v. Williams, 27 U. C. C. P. 93. There must not only be proof of the notice but proof of the fact that the deceased, before or at the time of the giving of the notice, was a person "who was in the habit of drinking intoxicating liquor to excess." This is the foundation of the case. Where the plaintiff in terms of this section gave notice to the defendant, a licensed inn-keeper, forbidding him to supply liquor to her husband in consequence of which he forbade the bar-keeper furnishing liquor to the husband but the bar-keeper notwithstanding did serve him with liquor in the tavern kept by defendant it was held that the defendant was liable. Austin v. Norris, 7 A. P. 478. See also as to the form of notice required. Norris v. Brunker, 14 A. R. 364. See further Cayionnette v. Girard, 1 Cart. R. 1 S. C. 117, 182.

(y) See note t to sec. 122.

(z) No proof of pecuniary damage is necessary to the maintenance of the action. See note u to sec. 122. See also Sauvage v. Tourville dit Lajeunesse, M. L. R. 3 S. C. 276, where it was held that the damages which may be recovered is intended as an indemnity for loss incurred, and where no loss is proved will be limited to the minimum.

PAYMENT FOR LIQUOR ILLEGALLY SOLD NOT RECOVERABLE.

Money paid for liquor sold contrary to this Act may not be recovered.

126. Any payment or compensation for liquor furnished in contravention of this Act, or otherwise in violation of law, whether made in money or securities for money, or in labour or property of any kind, shall be held to have been received without any consideration, and against justice and good conscience—and the amount or value thereof may be recovered from the receiver by the party who made the same; (a) and all sales, transfers, conveyances, liens and securities of every kind, in whole or part, made, granted or given, for or on account of liquor so furnished in contravention of this Act, or otherwise in violation of law, shall be wholly null and void, save only as regards subsequent purchasers or assignees for value, without notice; and no action of any kind shall be maintained, either in whole or in part, for or on account of any liquor so furnished in contravention of this Act, or otherwise in violation of law. (b) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 91.

Securities, etc., for payment to be void.

(a) The ordinary rule is, that where a contract which a party seeks to enforce is forbidden, either by the statute or common law, no Court will lend its assistance to give effect to it, but this section goes further and entitles the person who paid for liquor sold contrary to this Act, notwithstanding payment, to recover from the receiver the amount paid, as having been received "without any consideration and against justice, and good conscience." It has been held that an agreement entered into for the purpose of enabling a person to sell beer and spirits without a license cannot be enforced. Ritchie v. Smith, 6 C. B. 462. The vendor of spirituous liquors who sells them knowing that they are to be sold in violation of law, and at the same time enters into an arrangement for aiding the purchaser so to do them, cannot recover the price from the purchaser. Foster v. Preston, 11 Cush. (Mass.) 322; see also White v. Buss, 3 Cush. (Mass.) 448; Spalding v. Preston, 21 Vt. 9. But it would appear to be sufficience that the vendor knew the goods were bought for an illegal purpose, provided it was not made a part of the contract that they were to be used for that purpose and provided the vendor has done nothing to aid the unlawful design beyond the sale. Tracey v. Talmage, 4 Kern. (N. Y.) 162; see further, Kreiss v. Sligman, 8 Barb. (N. Y.) 439; Smith v. Godfrey, 28 Post. (N. H.) 379. It has been held that a brewer who supplies beer to a public house on the credit of a person not licensed, can recover from such person the price of the beer. Brooker v. Wood, 5 B & Al. 1052, overruling Meux v. Humphries, 1 M. & M. 132; S. C. 3 C. & P. 79; see however Langton v. Waite, 1 M. & S. 593.

(b) This is by sec. 69, sub. 2 of Revised Statutes, Ont., cap. 51, declaring that the Division Courts shall not have jurisdiction in actions for spirituous or malt liquors drunk in a tavern or ale-house. See also Rev. Stat, c. 91, sec. 23.

OFFICERS TO ENFORCE THE LAW, THEIR DUTIES AND POWERS.

Lieutenant-Governor may appoint officers to enforce this Act.

127—(1) The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint one or more Provincial officers whose duty it shall be to enforce the provisions of this Act, and especially those for the prevention of traffic in liquor by unlicensed houses. (c) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 92.

Provincial Inspector may be appointed

(2) One of such officers may be designated "Provincial Inspector," and it shall be his duty—

(a) To make a personal inspection of each license district;

(b) To see that the books of each inspector of licenses are properly kept, and that all entries are properly made; and to examine into his accounts and into his mode of inspection, and to ascertain that the duties of the office are faithfully and efficiently performed;

(c) To hold investigations into the conduct of inspectors of licenses and license commissioners when required so to do by the head of the Department;

Assuming such to have been their p pose, did they resort to any unlawful means to accomplish it? they did, and if they acted in concert in the pursuance of a com design, there was a conspiracy. It was never intended that a should violate the law in order to vindicate the law. I am of opi that these relators, in their anxiety to procure evidence against Barthoulott, went a step too far. He was not engaged in any lation of law when they entered his place. They urged and persu him to furnish the beer. In fact they resorted to artifice and d tion for that purpose. If any crime was committed, they were sent aiding and abetting. It was urged in extenuation of the co of the relators that their action was entirely in accordance with practice of the detective service, not only of the police, but in departments of the Government. This is not my understandi the detective service. I have never known an instance of tives deliberately procuring a man to commit a crime in order to information against him. Such informers have been infamous the time of Titus Oates."

is given to any such officer, policeman, constable or inspector that there is cause to suspect that some person is violating any of the provisions of this Act, it shall be his duty to make diligent inquiry into the truth of such information, and enter complaint of such violation before the proper Court, without communicating the name of the person giving such information ; (g) and it shall be the duty of the Crown Attorney, within the county in which the offence is committed, to attend to the prosecution of all cases committed to him by an inspector or officer appointed under this Act by the Lieutenant-Governor. (h) R. S. O. 1877, c. 181, s. 94.

Duties of officers and county attorneys on receiving information of infringement of this Act.

Right of search.

130—(1) Any officer, policeman, constable, or inspector, may, for the purpose of preventing or detecting the violation of any of the provisions of this Act which it is his duty to enforce, (i) at any time enter into any and every part of any inn, tavern, or other house or place of public entertainment, shop, warehouse or other place wherein refreshments or liquors are sold, or reputed to be sold, whether under license or not, and may make searches in every part thereof, and of the premises connected therewith, as he may think necessary for the purpose aforesaid. (j)

(g) It is not the duty of the officer to enter complaints simply upon information that there is cause to suspect some person of violating the provisions of the Act. Such information may be given in spite and be without actual foundation of any kind. Before making the charge it is the duty of the officer "to make diligent enquiry into the truth of such information." See Sch. D, No. 19, for form of conviction.

(h) The duty of the Crown Attorney to act is only in cases committed to him "by an inspector or officer appointed under this Act by the Lieutenant-Governor." It is not his duty to act when the officer who commits the case to him is only an officer appointed by the license commissioners, nor where the person committing the case to him is simply a policeman, constable, or amateur detective.

(i) The right of search is granted not only to policemen, constables, and inspectors of licenses, but "to any officer" which would apparently include as well officers appointed by the license commissioners under sec. 128, as officers appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor under sec. 127.

(j) The time to enter is "at any time," whether on Sunday or any other day, and at any hour of night or any day. The place upon which the entry may be made is, "any and every part of any inn, tavern or other house or place of public entertainment, shop, warehouse, or other place wherein refreshments or liquors are sold or reputed to be sold, whether under license or not." The right is,

131. Any Justice of the Peace, upon information by any such officer, policeman, constable, or inspector that there is reasonable ground for belief that any spirituous or fermented liquor is being kept for sale, or disposal contrary to the provisions of this Act in any unlicensed house or place within the jurisdiction of such Justice, may grant a warrant under his hand, by virtue whereof it shall be lawful for the person named in such warrant at any time or times within ten days from the date thereof to enter, and, if need be, by force, the place named in the warrant, and every part thereof, or of the premises connected therewith, and examine the same and search for liquor therein; (m) and for this purpose may, with such assistance as he deems expedient, break open any door, lock, or fastening of such premises, or any part thereof, or of any closet, cupboard, box or other article likely to contain any such liquor; (n) and in the event of any liquor being so found unlawfully kept on the said premises, the occupant thereof shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have kept such liquor for the purpose of sale, contrary to the pro- Search warrant may be granted. Unlawful keeping of liquor to be evidence of illegal dealings therein.

132. When any inspector, policeman, constable, or officer in making or attempting to make any search under or in pursuance of the authority conferred by the preceding two sections of this Act or under the warrant mentioned in the last preceding section, finds in an unlicensed house or place any spirituous or fermented liquor which, in his opinion, is unlawfully kept for sale or disposal contrary to this Act, he may forthwith seize and remove the same, and the vessels in which the same is kept, and upon the conviction of the occupant of such house or place, or of any other person, for keeping spirituous or fermented liquor for sale in such house or place without license, the Justices making such conviction may, in and by the said conviction, or by a separate or subsequent order, declare the said liquor and vessels, or any part thereof, to be forfeited to Her Majesty, and may order and direct that the said inspector, policeman, constable, or officer shall destroy the same or any part thereof, and the inspector or other person as aforesaid shall thereupon forthwith destroy the same, or part thereof, as directed by such conviction or order. 44 V. c. 27, s. 9.

If no conviction liquor shall be returned.

R. 322.

(l) A by-law giving to a board of health "general supervision over the health of the city," and "all necessary power to carry the ordinance into effect," was held to include power to rent a building for a temporary hospital, to protect the city from an apprehended visitation of cholera, and to make the Corporation liable for the rent although it did not become necessary to make use of the building. Aull v. Lexington, 18 Mo. 401; Barton v. New Orleans, 16 La. (c) The corporation of one municipality cannot, under this section, erect or establish a small-pox hospital within the limits of another, either of a temporary or a permanent character, without the sanction of the corporation of the latter. Elizabethtown v. Brockville, 10 O. R. 372. The Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867 (30 Vict. c. 6, Imp.) authorizes the formation of districts and district asylums for the care and cure of sick and infirm poor, creates corporations for that purpose, gives authority to the poor law board (now the local government board) to issue directions to these corporations, enables them to purchase lands and erect buildings for the purposes of the Act, and makes the rates of parishes and unions liable for the outlay thus incurred. But it does not by direct and imperative provisions order these things to be done, so that if, in doing them, a nuisance is created to the injury of the health or property of persons resident in the neighbourhood of the place where the land is purchased, or the buildings erected, it does not afford to these acts a statutory protection; and, therefore, where such nuisance was found as a fact it was held that the district board could not set up the statute, nor the

2. Contract for the use of any such hospital, or part of a hospital or place of reception; or

3. Enter into any agreement with any person having the management of any hospital, for the reception of the sick inhabitants of their district, on payment of such annual or other sum as may be agreed on; or

Short title. 1. This Act may be cited as "The Toll Roads Municipal Expropriation Act."

Interpretation. 2. Where the words following occur in this Act they shall be construed in the manner hereinafter mentioned unless a contrary intention appears:—

"Owner" or "Owners." 1. "Owner" or "owners" besides including any person or persons, in whom the legal and equitable estates are vested, shall also include any joint stock company as well as any municipality.

"Road" or "Roads." 2. "Road" or "roads" shall include any parcel of land or franchise respecting or any easement in any land, and also any toll houses or other buildings erected thereon or used herewith.

"Town." 3. "Town" shall mean a town separated from the county for municipal purposes.

The council of any county, city, or separated town may by by-law appoint three persons, who are not municipal councillors or road owners, who shall constitute a board of commissioners for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, and may likewise from time to time fill any vacancy that may occur in such board.

Tenure of office. 4. The said commissioners shall respectively hold office during the pleasure of the council.

Selection of roads.

5. The board of commissioners shall examine the toll roads held or owned by any person, company or minor municipality within the county, city or town for which they are appointed (and such road or roads shall always be held to terminate at the boundary of any such city, town, or county,) and for that purpose shall have power to travel over, measure, dig into and otherwise examine, such roads as they may deem necessary for the use of the city, town, or county.

Examination of books and records.

6. The said board of commissioners shall also have power to examine all books and records connected with the management of any such road or roads and may require any owner or owners to produce the same for the purpose of being examined, and shall also have power to examine any person or persons under oath relative to the value, cost, income, or expenditure, or net profit of any such road or roads, and in case any person shall refuse to testify or refuse to produce such books or records, he or they shall be punished for contempt of court in the manner provided for such cases in the courts of law.

The compensation agreed to or awarded as aforesaid shall be the price to be paid for the roads or rights described in the agreement or award, in case the same are taken under this Act, or by the authority of the council of such county, city or town within one year after such valuation or award has been made or after such price has been agreed upon.

Matters to be considered by commissioners or arbitrators in determining value of roads belonging to minor municipalities.

11. Where a minor municipality is the owner in whole or in part of a toll road wholly or partly within its own limits which is to be acquired or made a free road under the provisions of this Act, the commissioners in arranging with such municipality and determining the amount to be paid thereto in respect of such road or portion thereof situate within its own limits, or the arbitrators as the case may be, may have regard to any particular or special benefit or advantage to such municipality or the inhabitants thereof by reason of such road or that portion thereof lying within the limits of such municipality being made or becoming a free road.

Report of commissioners.

12. After the proceedings hereinbefore provided for determining the value of the road or roads have been completed, the said commissioners shall report to the council of such county, city or town, their proceedings therein with a statement of the road or roads proposed to be taken and the value thereof as determined by arbitration or agreement.

Payment of compensation into Court.

13. If the person or company conveying roads selected under this Act, could not without this Act have conveyed the same or agreed for the compensation to be paid therefor, if any owner or party to whom the compensation money, any part thereof is payable, refuses to execute the proper conveyance or other requisite instrument of transfer of the same, or if the person entitled to claim the compensation, cannot be found, or is unknown, or if there is reason to fear any claim or incumbrance the compensation money agreed upon or awarded, may be paid into the High Court of Justice, and a copy of the conveyance or of the agreement or award, if there be no conveyance, verified by affidavit, shall be delivered to the accountant or other proper officer of the Court.

Compensation to stand in place of the land.

14. The compensation money for any roads acquired or taken under this Act without the consent of the proprietor or proprietors, shall stand in the stead of such roads, and any claim to or incumbrance upon such roads shall be converted into a claim to the compensation money or to a proportionate amount thereof, and shall be unavailing as respects the roads themselves.

When possession may be taken.

15. Possession shall not be taken of any part of any road within the limits of any city, town, or county valued as aforesaid until the amount agreed on or awarded, for the same shall have been paid to the company or owner or owners, or to the persons appearing to be entitled to receive it, or paid into Court under the provisions of this Act.

Notice to incumbrancers

16. Where a road is selected and taken under this Act and is subject to a mortgage or other incumbrance secured, or not, it shall not be necessary to notify the mortgagee or other incumbrancers of any proceedings taken to determine the value of the road—unless the commissioners intend to urge a price to be named which would be insufficient to pay off the incumbrance.

Costs where road not taken.

17. If the road is not taken and paid for within one year as aforesaid, the owner or owners shall be entitled to receive the costs to which he or they have been put in any proceedings taken for determining by arbitration the value of his or their road; the amount of such costs shall be stated in the award of the arbitrators, whether the arbitrators direct that the party or parties shall be entitled to such costs in the event of the road being purchased, or direct otherwise.

Costs to be in discretion of arbitrators.

18. Subject to the provisions of the preceding section the arbitrators shall have full authority to determine by and to whom any costs incurred in connection with any arbitration shall be paid, but any costs which should be paid by the owner or owners to the commissioners shall be directed by the award to be paid to the treasurer of such county, to

27. The boundaries of such property may be permanently established by means of proper stone or iron monuments planted by the engineer or surveyor so employed by the Board or the corporation, and shall be of the same effect to all intents and purposes as if such boundaries had been drawn and such monuments planted by a land surveyor duly licensed and sworn in for the Province, and shall be held to be the true and unalterable boundaries of such property: but the boundary lines shall be so established and the monuments of iron or stone be planted only after due notice thereof has been given in writing to the owners of the lands to be thereby affected, and a written description of such boundaries shall be approved and signed in the presence of two witnesses, by such engineer or surveyor on behalf of the Board or the corporation, and by the other parties concerned, or, in case of the refusal of any party to approve or sign the same, the refusal shall be recorded in such written description: and the boundary marks or monuments shall be planted in the presence of at least one witness, who shall sign the said written description, which shall afterwards be deposited with the clerk of the county council. See sec. 20 of this Act.
