The season has again returned when the Particular Council of the Society of St. Vincent of Paul is called upon to present to its friends and benefactors, Reports of the operations of the three Conferences in this city, for the year ending the 30th November last. At the same time the Council has to renew its appeal to the Christian sympathy of those who have heretofore sustained the Conferences, by their timely and generous subscriptions and donations in carrying on from year to year the works of mercy in which the members are engaged.

From the 1st of December, 1886, to the 30th of November, 1887, the statement of the General Treasurer shews that the amount of money received by him was $2317.07, and came from the following sources:—

The Council feel gratified at being in a position to present this statement. The saving is attributable to the fact that visiting members were enabled to discontinue the giving of relief at an earlier period than in former years, as well as to the care taken by the General Treasurer to husband the funds of the Society. The saving will be more particularly noticed when we state that the number of families relieved during the year 1886-7 was 244, while the number relieved the year previous was 249, a difference of 5 only.

During the year just closed, the total amount paid by the General Treasurer to the Conferences for distribution in weekly relief was $1100.00; and the contributions at the weekly meetings of the Conferences amounted to $138.80; making $1238.80. For coal, the General Treasurer paid out $821.46. It will then be found by adding together the two latter sums that $2060.26 was spent in supplying the following articles:

5564 bushels of Coal.	56 lbs. Biscuit.
9791 loaves of Bread.	11 lbs. Coffee.
275 $\frac{3}{4}$ lbs. of Tea.	405 lbs. Soap.

In presenting the foregoing statistics the Council do not feel called upon to say much in reference to the work performed during the year. It is unnecessary at this time of day, and after an existence of thirty-five years, to enter into the details of the cases, the manner of giving relief being frequently described in former reports. In the spirit of sincere humility enjoined by its Patron, the Society shrinks from notriety, yet feel it a duty to give to its friends and benefactors and the public generally, an account of its stewardship. During the year past, in its ministrations among the poor, it has been called upon to relieve the same wants, to succor the same class of widows and orphans, to visit the sick, and strengthen the faith among the helpless and wavering.

The greatest difficulty the members have to encounter, is to discern between the worthy and the unworthy poor, and to decide what class of persons should receive assistance; but they have at the same time to be careful lest they shut the door in the face of some who may truly be the representatives of Him who had the doors of Bethlehem closed against Him on the eventful night before His birth. Mistakes may sometimes be made in discriminating, yet the members have ever to keep in mind the solemn fact that the poor are God's chosen portion on earth. He chose poverty when He came amongst us; and as has been truly said, "Poverty started with the infant Jesus from the Cave of Bethlehem, and went with Him to the tomb." There He left the poor in His place, and however we may weary of their unloveliness and their exactions, they are never to fail from the earth, but to be His representatives till the doom.

have had at times to deplore the condition of some of the homes of the poor; but, while our laws are such as they are, with the difficulty of enforcing their provisions, it is found to be next to impossible to effect any change in the present condition of things. Unfortunately, in this age of "progress," the Gospel of Divine Love seems to have been forgotten—that Gospel which instils the lesson that we are bound to strive to make every thing in life tolerable, counteract every evil, soften harshness, sweeten bitterness,—in fact, do everything to cause the machinery of life to work smoothly. It is not, however, the alleviation of the material wants of the poor alone that the Society and its Benefactors are called upon to consider. Growth in holiness, the preservation and strengthening of the faith, the consolation of afflicted souls, are the chief aims all must look to. Philanthropy is one thing; Charity another. Charity counsels that all our actions must be performed for the love of God; and that we should make even painful sacrifices to promote His glory in the salvation of souls. As St. Vincent of Paul, our Patron, once said to a Sister of Charity, "If you care only for the bodies of your poor, you are not daughters of charity, for the soul is the first end."

While no extraordinary work has been undertaken by the Society during its existence here, still, in the midst of the simplicity and monotony of its labors, the members take courage in the reflection that it is united in spirit with all the Branches of the Society which has spread itself over the entire Christian world, and from the fact that our labors are appreciated by the Parent Head in Paris. The President-General thus speaks in his last general report:—"The Report that they have just addressed to us gratifies and consoles us in showing that the Conferences of St. Mary's, St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's are bound together by a Particular Council, very active, very prosperous, and giving proofs of great solicitude for their poor. They have visited not less than 249 families in 1886, and spare nothing to lessen their privations and their sufferings. . . . We do not doubt but this care and solicitude is extended with the same generosity to the moral and religious wants of the same poor."

And while the Halifax Branch has participated in the growth of the General Society, we are not unmindful of the development amongst us of that Divine Spirit which our Patron possessed, since the formation of the Society here by our late revered and beloved Archbishop Hannan. In its earlier days the Society had to struggle single-handed in battling against poverty and vice, for the rights of parents over their children, and in providing for the wants of the needy and distressed. Now, thank God, we have seen established the various Societies of the Children of Mary in connection with the Convents of the Sacred Heart and Sisters of Charity, which societies are ably and nobly assisting us in the work in which we are engaged. We have seen rise in our midst an Orphan Asylum, and what we so long yearned and prayed for, a Reformatory for boys; and lately we have had established a Home where Catholic infants can be taken in and reared, and protected in their faith.

The want of an institution under the care of those capable of properly instructing, is now much felt. We allude to an institution wherein young girls could be instructed in special or general housework, the art of cooking, &c., and in all that tends to the making of a good domestic servant. Such a training school might be made useful for other objects, among them for the placing of young children to receive care and instruction while their mothers may be employed at outdoor work, striving to make a living for their "little ones." Frequently do members in their visits to poor widows find the mother away from home, and the children playing in the streets. Those who understand the value of a good, trustworthy servant, or who have felt the want of one; and those particularly who know the dangers to which young persons allowed to run on the streets are exposed, must admit the value of such an institution.

We would be unmindful, indeed, were we to close this our 34th Annual Report without referring to the sudden and lamented death of the Very Rev. Monsignor Power. Although not personally identified with the Society, he was from the time of its establishment up to the period of his untimely departure, its sincere friend, a generous contributor, and a zealous co-operator in the work of the Conferences. His was truly a life of "going about and doing good," and how grand the perpetual youth of his perseverance in doing that good, up to the moment, we may say, of his decease. Duty to his sacred calling was the one object of his life. In secret and in silence his hand was ever ready to assist the poor and needy. No hour of the night deterred him; no matter to what habitation he was called upon to go—the mansion of the rich, or the most wretched hovel of the poor—he went with the same alacrity to succor and console the sick and the dying. Neither the drifting snow, the blinding hail, nor the fiercest rain and wind storm, ever daunted him, or turned him from his favorite work. Truly, the saving of a soul was the first end in view with him. He was really and truly a "Minister of the Precious Blood," and his delight was in the constant dispensing of it through the channels of the Sacraments of the Church. He loved the poor; he was one of the poor—for he died poor; and for this reason did the children of St. Vincent love him, and now desire to revere and perpetuate the remembrance of his active, noble, and holy life. Pie Jesu Domine, dona ei requiem.

And now, in conclusion, let us remind our dear Friends and Benefactors that the work of the Society has to be carried on. The winter months already passed have been most trying to the poor, and there are still two or three months during which aid and succor will be needed by those already on our books, not to speak of the many others who will have to be cared for before the busy working-season approaches. Our funds are more than exhausted, we are in debt, and now depend upon a renewal of your charitable contributions. Let us express the hope that we appeal not in vain, and let our contributions be a true index of the charitable feeling of the community.

REPORT OF ST. MARY'S CONFERENCE.

HALIFAX, Dec. 31st, 1887.

To the President of the Particular Council:

SIR,—In furnishing you with an account of the operations of St. Mary's Conference for the past year, I beg to assure you that the funds placed at our disposal have been distributed, after careful enquiry, among the poor and afflicted families adopted by us. In the reports of the Conference hundreds of visits are recounted paid by the members during the year. Large space would be required to give even an outline of the sad history and pressing needs which come under the notice of the visiting members. Foremost among the latter is the number of poorly clad, neglected children, to be found in the "upper streets," growing up with but little moral and religious training, and who seem to keep aloof to a large extent from those who are willing and anxious to impart both. To meet this difficulty, the Conference has a plan in contemplation, which it is hoped will overcome this difficulty. It is proposed to collect these children on Sundays, in a place suitable for the purpose, and form classes for their instruction in the Christian doctrine. In attempting this good work, the members confidently hope for the co-operation of the Children of Mary, as it is one which commends itself to their zeal and charity. Annexed you will find the Treasurer's statement. The following is a list of the articles distributed by the Conference during the year:—

REPORT OF ST. PATRICK'S CONFERENCE.

HALIFAX, N. S., DEC. 1st, 1887.

To the President of the Particular Council:

SIR,—I beg to submit through you to the members and benefactors of the Society the report of the work of the Conference for the year ended November 30th.

The record of work performed in our district for the past year has been most satisfactory, the demands on the Conference have been considerably less than for any of the three previous years, a matter which with us is easily accounted for, there being less poverty to relieve, and consequently less call upon the funds.

There is nothing of importance to communicate to you respecting the working and labors of our Conference, whose members have continued to carry on their work of charity with the same zeal as heretofore, by going to the assistance of the most afflicted, morally and physically.

It is not necessary to enter in a lengthened detail, but simply present a summary of the statistics for the year. Receipts, $541.45; Expenditure, $513.95. This is exclusive of amount paid for coal, provided for by the General Conference.

The total number of members on the roll, 39; active members during the year, 16; members admitted, 2; deaths, 1; retired, 1. The number of families relieved, 103, being 10 less than the previous year; of the number relieved 73 were widows; total adults, 108; children, 209; total individuals, 352. Dying assisted, 2; burials, 8.

together with sundry articles amounting to $12.66; comprising eggs, broma, and other suitable articles for the sick.

The customary Christmas offering inaugurated by our late esteemed member, Patrick Power, some years ago, and which has materially helped to brighten the homes of the poor widows and orphans receiving our aid, was granted as usual.

Our distribution of coal, although not as large as last year by 234 bushels, is still larger than the rules of the Society would permit if it were not for the provision made for fuel by our above mentioned late member and benefactor. The total amount issued was 2718 bushels.

The Conference has been called upon to provide for the burial of 5 adults and 3 children. We also had to assist two burials attended to by friends.

In conclusion we call attention with gratitude to the interest and aid of the Society of the Children of Mary and the good Sisters of Charity, who have been ready on every occasion to lend their invaluable assistance to our members.

We regret to report the death of one of our most untiring visitors, William Phelan, always interested in the work of the Society, believing in its good work he carried into the task of visiting the poor a kind heart and a discriminating judgment.
