FLAMING FORESTS!

Pennsylvania and Wisconsin Woodlands Devastated.

Thousands of Acres of Valuable Timber on Fire.

Great Destruction of Dwellings, Mills and Other Property—The Loss Enormous.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., May 13.—In some parts of this country the woods are ablaze. The greatest damage is to standing timber. A heavy cloud of smoke hangs over this city, obscuring the sun.

BRADFORD, Pa., May 13.—The woods are burning steadily. The fire is threatening isolated houses and mills.

WARREN, Pa., May 13.—The fires that have been raging in this section since Saturday are about out. Over 100 oil rigs have been destroyed so far as known, with many tanks of oil and small buildings.

MECHANICSBURG, Pa., May 13.—Disastrous forest fires have swept through the mountain lands of this country since last Monday and are still raging. Ten thousand acres of valuable timber lands have been burned over. At Dillsburg the fire destroyed mining property of Alex. Underwood, consisting of an ore crusher, engine house, blacksmith shop and five dwelling houses. A number of other houses are in danger. The losses already exceed $150,000.

A TOWN WIPED OUT.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 13.—A fire on the mountains south of this city, which has been burning at intervals for over a week, has done great damage. The North Mountain in Columbia county has also been burning for some time. The town of Middlebury was wiped out and the town of Gaines was severely scorched. Two stores, a meat market, Snyder's saloon and some small dwelling houses were destroyed.

ENORMOUS DAMAGE.

BELLEFONT, Pa., May 13.—The damage done by forest fires which have raged throughout the country is enormous. All along the Buffalo Run Railroad, through nearly every patch of timber, the fire has raged, burning miles and miles of fences, orchards and valuable standing and cut timber. Near Pine Grove Mills the new house and barn of John Neidigh were burned. P. B. Crider's large sawmill, logging camp, a large amount of cut timber and about a mile of tramway were burned. At Paddy's Mountain, on the Alleghenies, several logging camps and all the houses, etc., of the Benner Run Camping Association, besides large quantities of valuable timber, were destroyed. The fire still rages with unabated fury in many places. The loss will run up to the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Over 4,000 acres of valuable timber land are aflame within a radius of seven miles of Huntingdon, and in distant parts of the country the woodland is being swept away at an alarming rate.

BEYOND HUMAN CONTROL.

The mountain fires are beyond human control and can only be extinguished by rains. The sections suffering most are in the East Broad Top region, where fire extends nearly to Well's tannery, in Fulton county, and in Tussey's Mountain, Ray's Hill and Warrior Ridge. In Broad Top and Trough Creek Valley the buildings on several farms are threatened with destruction. The farmers have sustained irreparable loss to fencing and hundreds of acres of growing grain have been ruined.

IN WISCONSIN.

PEMBIA, Wis., May 13.—Forest fires have broken out along the line of the Soo road, between this place and Harmansville. The cedar interests will suffer great loss. Just across the Wisconsin line, from Menominee River station, on the Soo, a line of fire can be seen from the railroad, which burns as far north as the eye can reach. There has been but little rain in this locality for more than two weeks, and everything is dry.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., May 13.—Forest fires are burning at many points along the Omaha road. At White Birch the loss will be particularly heavy. The bridge over the American river on the Omaha road is burned, stopping traffic on that line between this city and St. Paul. The fire reached the outskirts of South Superior, and threatened to destroy the place, but was successfully warded off.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 13.—Captains of down-bound steamers report that the forest fires in the vicinity of Oscoda make navigation dangerous.

BURNED OUT.

The Millbrook Reporter Printing Office Destroyed—The Loss at Alliston Nearly Half a Million.

MILLBROOK, Ont., May 13.—Monday night the Millbrook Reporter printing office was observed to be on fire. The flames spread so rapidly that all efforts to save the building were useless. The printing plant, owned by T. B. Collins & Co., was a total loss. Plant insured for $1,500, building for $200.

ALLISTON, Ont., May 13.—Later information increases the extent of the loss in this town by reason of Friday's disastrous fire. There is not a grocery or drygoods store left in the place; whole squares were burnt to the ground. The loss is estimated at from $400,000 to $500,000. About 90 families are homeless, nearly all of whom escaped with but the clothes on their backs, and many of whom are in actual want and great distress. Contributions from those charitably disposed sent to Mr. N. M. Livingstone, manager of the Bank of Hamilton, will be gratefully received.

A DOMESTIC SCANDAL

To Be Ventilated at the Dufferin Spring Assizes.

ORANGEVILLE, May 12.—The Dufferin Spring Assizes opened here yesterday before Mr. Justice Street. Cook vs. Vance, which is expected to come off, if a settlement is not effected in the meantime, is a most extraordinary case. The plaintiff, Richard Cook, a laborer, of the township of Carrick, Bruce county, sues David Vance, a wealthy farmer of Waterloo township, for $5,000 damages for the seduction of his daughter, Ellen Jane Cook. It appears that in January, 1879, the plaintiff's daughter went to keep house for the defendant, a widower with a grown-up family. In April of the following year she became a mother, and when her father charged Vance with being her seducer, Vance declared that they were married. The two lived as man and wife until April 10 of this year, five children being born during their twelve years of seeming married life. In the beginning of the month mentioned Vance, who is bordering on 70, was taken seriously ill, and is now said to be on his death-bed. He was not satisfied with the treatment he was receiving in his sickness from Miss Cook, and a quarrel ensued which ended in Miss Cook leaving the house, taking her five children with her. She immediately disclosed the fact to her father that she and Vance were not married, though living together during all these years, and then this action was commenced. It is said that Vance is willing to marry Miss Cook on his death bed, but is not prepared to make what is considered a reasonable provision for her and her five children. The action was not commenced in time for the Waterloo or Wellington Assizes and the venue has been laid here in order that judgment may be secured this spring, as this is one of those suits in which the right of action dies with the defendant. An effort is being made to effect a settlement. Miss Cook also sues Vance for $750, a balance which she claims is due her for wages.

PULPIT NEEDS!

The Sensational Preacher Comes in for a Scoring.

Paul's Practice Compared with That of Modern Ministers.

Caustic Address to the Theological Union of Victoria College.

COBOURG, March 12.—The closing exercises in connection with Victoria University were continued yesterday. In the afternoon the annual lecture before the Theological Union attracted an audience that crowded Jackson Hall. The lecturer of the day was the Rev. W. J. Maxwell, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, Toronto. The subject of the lecture was, "The Pulpit Wanted vs. the Pulpit Needed." Referring to the fact that many congregations to-day are clamoring for a "pulpit that can draw," he said: The divinely-selected heralds of the new covenant were neither invalids nor exquisites, nor drones, nor tailors' blocks, they were neither essayists nor reciters. They were no ascetics, bleached and skeletonized by indoor life and midnight meditations through whom sunbeams might shine and wind blasts blow. The "pulpit needed" demands rich-hearted, clear-headed, martyr-spirited, well-balanced men. There is no room in the pulpit for shadows of men whose brainlessness and heartlessness are hid by the nothingness of an empty ambition to make "a mark."

This is no time to lower the danger signals or lay aside the trumpet. This is certainly not an hour when the heralds of the cross can afford to play the role of aproned cooks serving out delicate dishes to poisoned constitutions or gliding slowly and softly through the halls of society like turbaned nurses with a smooth word of prophecy in the mouth, and bowl of thin Gospel gruel for chronic invalids, and in the other a roll of soft elastic doctrinal bandages for chronic sore heads. Oh, for watchmen faithful to their commission though it provoke opposition and cause the babel-mouthed multitude to shout "away with him, his usefulness is ended on this circuit." Why? Because he has denounced Herod, our richest man, our Tertullius, our cleverest adherent, or Druscilla, our society belle, or Simon Magus, our most generous contributor, or Dumas, our ex-preacher, or Felix, our chief magistrate, or Shuisai, our scribe, or Judas, our treasurer, or some of their families or fancies or follies or fashions have suffered by his message.

What antiquated notion obtained with Paul and what a slow coach he was in running a church! He went down to Phillippi and acted as though preaching Jesus and the resurrection, coupled with the relation of a personal experience, was alone necessary to sustain a prosperous church. If he had any knowledge of human needs, not to say natural niggardliness, he could have so arranged as to extract from the unwashed crowd a few shekels to replenish the funds of the church and relieve the deacons. A sham gladitorial contest could not fail of success in Macedonia, and, if conscience squirmed, he could offset its objections by devoting the proceeds towards helping "the poor saints which were at Jerusalem." What a golden opportunity he lost at Athens. In that esthetic center an art exhibition in the line of Madame Jarley's waxworks would have been an immense success.

He could have paid 30 per cent. of the cost of a new church at Crete out of these drawing necessities. He could have Apollos come over from Achaiae and give a few lectures on marriage, or "Fools," or "Fox Hunting," or on "Snap," or on "Hard Rows and How to Hoe Them," or on "Noses," or "Heads and Faces," or "Phrenology and Physology," or the "Ten Lost Tribes," or some kindred theme, this would pay another 20 per cent. The remainder could rest on mortgage at lowest rates of interest till excursion time. No wonder he was an unpopular, miserable old fogy. Why, he preached the Gospel to them at Mars' Hill and then started off to do the same thing at Corinth! One dollar contributed to the treasury of the Lord's House by the heart of love and the hand of faith will travel farther over the areas of heathendom and outlive more succeeding calendars than $1,000 wrung from the penury of some worldly gradgrin or squeezed from the check book of some religious sponge by the delicate financiers of some new-fangled alteration.

A vote of thanks to the talented lecturer was carried on motion of Rev. Dr. Workman, who on rising received a tremendous ovation from the body of students. Dr. Badgley said he hoped that Talmage's "rhetorical nonsense" would cease to fill the columns of the Christian Guardian.

Rev. Mr. McDonagh explains that he had no intention of reflecting upon Dr. Workman in his sermon before the Theological Union.

The annual business meeting of the Theological Union was held in the evening. The business manager reported the Methodist Quarterly as in a most prosperous condition. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. W. J. Maxwell, Toronto; vice-president, Rev. Wm. McDonagh, London; secretary-treasurer, Rev. A. M. Phillips, Toronto; lecturer, Rev. W. S. Blackstock, Toronto; preacher, S. P. Rose, Montreal. The editorial staff were re-elected, and Rev. A. M. Phillips appointed manager.

PUBLIC WORKS SCANDAL

Mr. Tarte's Charges Against a Minister and an M. P.

Alleged Conspiracy to Despoil the Treasury.

Hundreds of Thousand of Dollars in Question.

Bold Indictment of the Accused, Who Make a General Denial.

OTTAWA, May 12.—The House of Commons was crowded this afternoon, when Mr. Tarte rose to make the charges for which the country has been looking for months. The galleries were crowded and almost every member was in his seat. Though the preliminaries occupied two hours, the large crowd waited patiently. There was momentary disappointment to many when Mr. Tarte began to speak in French, but after explaining in that language that the gravity of the subject required that his charges should be made in English, he spoke in that tongue. From the outset the impression he made upon the House was favorable.

Mr. Tarte, in clear and distinct tones, read his impeachment of the member for Quebec West and the Minister of Public Works. Among other things he said: "It is with deep sorrow that at the beginning of my political career it should be my painful duy to bring grave accusations against old and important members of this House. Were it not that I am convinced that I am performing a grave public duty I would not be in this position." The documents which had been put into his hands impeached the name and character of the member for Quebec West and the integrity of the Minister of Public Works, but though they had been submitted to Sir John Macdonald, he refused to take action on them, as the member for Quebec West denied their truthfulness, and as it was believed there was something rotten and very wrong in the department, an open appeal to public opinion was decided on against the subsidized combination that was known to be bleeding the country. It was called treason to the old party, the old leader and the old flag to do so, but he believed that the inquiry which he now asked for would show the "mischievous intrigue" which had controlled the Conservative party in Quebec. In vain had he and other members of the Conservative party complained to the leaders at Ottawa. The honorable member for Quebec West has stated elsewhere that he gave the Conservative party in Quebec the money that he obtained from these men, but he (Mr. Tarte) in the name of the honest members of the Conservative party repudiated Mr. McGreevy and his works. He denied that the Conservatives with whom he had worked for twenty years should be held responsible for the doings of this man, even though he had been made treasurer of the party in Quebec. Mr. Tate added that he was an independent Conservative, and had no agreement with Mr. Laurier. He had been falsely accused of deserting the "old flag." On this point he said: The leader of the Opposition, whom we all regret not to see in his seat, never asked me to repudiate my party, he never asked me to give up my principles, but he said, "You have thrown upon you a great public duty." There was no agreement between myself and him. The only agreement was that I was to bring the matter before this House.

THE CHARGES.

Mr. Tarte then made his statement, which was listened to by the crowded House with bated breath. He asserted that he would be able to prove—

That in 1882 $375,000 was voted by the Dominion Parliament for the Quebec harbor works, and the Quebec Harbor Commissioners called for tenders.

That Larkin, Connolly & Co. were awarded the contract.

That to secure the influence of Hon. Thos. McGreevy, then and now a member of Parliament, and a member of the Quebec Harbor Commission by appointment of the Government of Canada, the contractors, with the knowledge of Thomas McGreevy, took as a partner R. N. McGreevy, his brother, giving him a 30 per cent. interest.

That the contract stipulated that it was to be finished by 1st November, 1884, but that the contractors continued dredging at the same scale of prices up to the close of 1886.

That to enable Larkin, Connolly & Co., to get the contract, Hon. Thos. McGreevy agreed to give said firm in an undue manner his influence as harbor commissioner.

That in 1883 the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, with the sanction of the Minister of Public Works, aided in securing the removal of the British engineers that had charge of the harbor works, and had Henry F. Perley and John E. Boyd appointed in their stead.

That in 1883 the brother of Hon. Thomas McGreevy was taken into partnership by the same contractors, on a basis of 30 per cent. profit, in order to secure the undue influence of Hon. Thomas McGreevy when the tenders for a cross-wall and lock for Quebec harbor were given out.

That Thos. McGreevy obtained from the Public Works Department, information as to the figures in the contracts for these works, and that, though two tenders were lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co., he secured the acceptance of the tender of that firm, on the promise of payment to him of $25,000, and that this arrangement and manipulation was carried out as sugjested by him, and that $25,000 was paid over to him in promissory funds.

That a few days after this $25,000 was paid by corrupt arrangement (June 4, 1883), Larkin, Connolly & Co., paid $1,000 to the "Langevin testimonial fund," a fund destined to be given to Sir Hector Langevin.

That the public interests were sacrificed by carrying out this corrupt arrangement.

That in 1884 Thomas McGreevy agreed to secure for Larkin, Connolly & Co. a contract for the completion of the graving dock of Levis, one of the conditions of the agreement being that he (Thomas McGreevy) should receive any excess over the sum of $50,000 in the contract price. That to the detriment of the public interest, the bargain was carried out, and McGreevy was paid the price stipulated in the corrupt arrangement, viz., $22,000.

That in 1883 and 1884 McGreevy entered into a similar corrupt arrangement with regard to the paving dock at Esquimalt, B.C., for which tenders were asked by the Dominion Government.

That McGreevy obtained from the Department of Public Works information, and from the Minister in charge figures and calculations, which he communicated to Larkin, Connolly & Co., while they took his brother, Robert H., into partnership.

That while this work was in progress, Thos. McGreevy was a paid agent of the firm, and that he obtained for them important alterations and more favorable conditions and enabled them to realize, to the detriment of the public interest, very large profits. For this work large sums were paid to Thos. McGreevy by the contractors.

That he himself approached members of Parliament to assist him in helping the contractors, and that on his suggestion members of Parliament were approached by members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

That certain members of that firm have declared that the M.P.s, on being approached, had asked money for exerting their influence in favor of the contractors with the Minister of Public Works, and that the firm had agreed to give the money.

That Thomas McGreevy, acting with the contractors, had corruptly endeavored to get certain public officials at the graving dock, Esquimalt, dismissed and to have them replaced by others who would suit the contractors, the former having incurred the ill-will of the contractors by keeping them to their contract.

That during the winter of 1886-87 Thomas McGreevy proposed to and made with Larkin, Connolly & Co. an arrangement whereby the said firm undertook to pay to him $25,000 on condition that he would obtain for the firm 35 cents per cubic yard for dredging 800,000 cubic yards in the area of the wet basin in Quebec harbor.

That dredging of the same kind, and even more difficult, had, up to that time, and to the knowledge of the said Thomas McGreevy, been executed for 27 cents per cubic yard, and even less, in the same works.

That Thomas McGreevy used his influence as a member of the House with the department and in particular with H. F. Perley, to induce him to favor the payment of the 35 cent rate.

That Larkin, Connolly & Co. paid to Thos. McGreevy $20,000 in fulfillment of this arrangement, and that $5,000 was left in the hands of one of the members of the firm to secure the election of McGreevy, but that not being enough he had to add $2,000.

That on 23rd May, 1887, in fulfillment of this arrangement, and through the effort and influence of Thos. McGreevy, and without any public tender having been called for, a contract was made between the Quebec Harbor Commissioners and Larkin, Connolly & Co. for all the necessary dredging and removal of material in the wet basin of the Quebec harbor works.

That in the execution of the works extensive frauds were perpetrated to the detriment of the public treasury, and sums of money were paid corruptly to officials under the control and direction of Henry F. Perley and appointed by the Quebec Harbor Commission.

That by an order-in-Council dated 10th May, 1888, the Government of Canada decided to pay a sum of $12,5[illegible] yearly during five years to Mr. Julian Chabot on the condition of his causing the steamer Admiral to ply between Dalhousie and Gaspe, forming a connection with the Intercolonial Railway. That the said Julien Chabot was merely a screen for the benefit of Thomas McGreevy, who then was, and continued to be, in whole or in part, proprietor of the steamer, and that he has received $120,000 for this service while a member of Parliament.

That in 1886 the tenders asked for by the Quebec harbor commissioners for the "south wall" were procured by Thos. McGreevy from public officials, and shown to O. E. Murphy Connolly and R. H. McGreevy, and the contrast was awarded to John Gallagher, a mere figurehead for these men.

That from 1883 to 1890 Thomas McGreevy received from Larkin, Connolly & Co., and from his brother, R. H. McGreevy, for the considerations above indicated a sum of about $200,000.

That during the period aforesaid he was the agent and paid representative of Larkin, Connolly & Co. on the Quebec Harbor Board of Commissioners, in Parliament and in connection with the Department of Public Works.

That the said Thomas McGreevy exacted and received out of the subsidies voted by Parliament for the construction of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway over $40,000.

That all the moneys expended in connection with the works mentioned in the present motion are moneys voted by the Parliament of Canada, and amount to about $5,000,000.

That the said Thomas McGreevy on several occasions demanded in the name of the Minister of Public Works and received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. sums of money, and that this money was paid and so entered in the books of the firm.

That from 1882 till this session Thomas McGreevy has always lived in Ottawa in the same house as the Minister of Public Works, and that on many occasions he used the name of the Minister, undertaking to obtain his co-operation or declaring that he had secured it. Mr. Tarte concluded by moving that the charge be referred to a select committee which he named.

THE MINISTER SPEAKS.

When Mr. Tarte resumed his seat all eyes were turned towards the man who is regarded as responsible for the whole bad business. Sir Hector Langevin immediately rose from his seat beside Sir John Macdonald. His face was red and troubled. He denied that he had in any way given the information referred to, nor did he suspect Mr. Perley of having done wrong. He left the member of Quebec West to speak for himself, but was ready to go before the Privileges and Elections Committee.

It was noted that Sir Hector Langevin's denial was not so comprehensive as it should have been to cover the charges. Mr. Tarte charged that Mr. Langevin received money from Mr. McGreevy. Sir Hector declared that he had not received money from any contractors, which Mr. Tarte did not charge. Mr. Langevin denied that he had received money for his use, profit or advantage.

Mr. Tarte did not charge that he personally benefited, but on the contrary said he had used it for election purposes.

Mr. Langevin knew that these were the charges, and the fact that he did not deny them, but confined his statement to something that had not been charged against him, is a noticeable omission.

M'GREEY'S DENIAL.

The other accused person, McGreevy, rose and said the charges were false from beginning to end, and that he was prepared to prove that it was all a conspiracy, to which Mr. Tarte was a party.

Mr. Tarte—I have never been associated with the men named in the motion.

Mr. McGreevy (interrupting)—We will have all that out by-and-bye.

Mr. Tarte—My sincere wish is that the words used by the honorable gentleman will be found quite true. He believes they are a forgery. Mr. Speaker, if the letters signed by the honorable gentleman's own name are forgeries I will apologize, not only to the House, but will have no other treatment to expect from this Parliament than to go out of it, and very quick.

The matter was then remitted to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 12.—The prohibitionists of the House of Commons met this morning in the lower room in open caucus and talked for an hour over the action to be taken on the proposed Alliance resolution.

Mr. Jamieson, M.P., who occupied the chair, formally took the ground that the resolution as passed by the Alliance Committee a week ago could not be changed, but the great majority of those present, headed by Messrs. Taylor and Trow, strongly objected to thus being bound by the action of the Alliance.

Mr. Jamieson persisted in his intention of moving the Alliance resolution in any event and the meeting broke up in confusion.

Mr. Scriver supported the contention of the chairman.

ABOUT HAIR

Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Sir,—I have, as you know, for some time advertised in Canada and the States a prescription for the hair called "Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic." I have received some thousands of flattering testimonials from those who have used it as to its merits as a restorative of gray or faded hair; also as a promoter of the growth and a certain cure for dandruff.

A great many of my correspondents ask the questions: "Why is my hair turning gray so early? Why is my hair falling out?" As it is impossible for me to answer every one, I take the liberty of encroaching on your valuable space to make a general reply. A great many persons do not seem to be aware that excessive washing and rubbing is injurious to the growth of the hair; such is the case, however. Constant washing and rubbing the scalp and hair causes over irritation and removes the oily substance which gives strength to the hair; undue heat is caused by the wearing of heavy headgear is also injurious. Anything that will tend to dry up the sap or life of the hair will cause dandruff, falling out of the hair, gray or faded hair and finally baldness. Of course there are other causes as diseases, hereditary tendencies, etc., but the first mentioned are the main and most common.

Dr. Dorenwend, an eminent German physician, has given to the world after years of toil and experiment his now famous "Hair Magic." The object of this preparation is to assist nature in the production of this oily substance absolutely necessary to the growth of the hair. It is now sold by all reliable druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5, or will be sent on receipt of price to any address. See that each wrapper bears the seal and signature of the manufacturer.

"The Coming School of Medicine"—The Histogenetic System.

Chicago, Jan. 1, 1888.

This is to certify that I have made a thorough investigation of the Histogenetic Medicines, prepared by Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, and am therefore competent to form a correct judgment. I pronounce them marvelous products of the highest skill, showing an acquaintance with the natural sciences far in advance of any savant with whose works the world is acquainted. The amount of time and painstaking which the doctor has expended upon the single branch of spectroscopy is enormous, and his discoveries startling. Also having used these medicines in my own practice, I can say that their actual success in curing disease is as great as is their discovery. The revolution of the Medical science of to-day is no dream—it is at hand.

J. B. S. KING, M.D., P.D.
Prof. Chem. and Toxicology, Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago.

The Histogenetic theory of reaching disease is: Rebuilding the diseased cells and tissues of the body, with the same proximate principals and ferments, organic bodies, and so on, which are normally prepared in the body by the glands. The medicines are prepared by chemical processes, in a perfectly pure condition, and are quite tasteless. Diseases heretofore considered incurable are cured by these medicines. In acute diseases such as La Grippe, Pneumonia, Typhoid, Diphtheria, etc., the patient improves at once.

TESTIMONIALS.

CONSUMPTIVES, ATTENTION.

HISTOGENETIC MEDICINE ASSOCIATION:

Gentlemen,—I now wish to bear my testimony to the magic powers of Histogenetic Medicines in the cure of lung disease. Three years ago I had a severe attack of intermittent fever, which shook my constitution very seriously, especially my lungs, liver and bronchial tubes. A year ago I took la grippe, which left me in a bad condition. I had a very bad cough and profuse expectoration. Could not sleep for coughing and pain in my lungs. I had night sweats and other evidences of a destructive process going on in my system. All I took and did, including cod liver oil and other consumptive remedies, did me no permanent good I finally became discouraged and realized that consumption would soon carry me off unless some unusual treatment was brought into use in my case. I got worse and still worse, until about the middle of December last when I noticed an advertisement in the Toronto News giving the testimony of a man named Hopcroft having been cured of consumption. Also the testimony of another Toronto citizen named Sinclair cured of bronchitis with Histogenetic Medicines. I consulted Dr. Rear, one of the medical examiners of the association. He was positive, after a careful examination of my condition, that Histogenetic Medicines perseveringly taken would effect at least an arrest of the disease and very probably a radical cure. I commenced treatment at once and began to gain rapidly when, unfortunately, I took a severe cold, but persevered with the treatment and was soon better than usual again. I have rapidly improved till my cough, expectoration, pain and night sweats are entirely gone. I have gained more since commencing the treatment than I had lost during my illness (fifteen pounds.) In fact, I weigh five pounds more than I have for years. I am able now to follow my usual employment all day and feel splendid. The action of these beautifully-prepared, tasteless medicines is miraculous and permanent, and they leave no injurious effects. I wish in this testimony to tender my hearty thanks, and also those of my now happy wife, to the Histogenetic Association for the deep interest they took in my case, which has resulted, through God, in my life being saved when all else failed. I shall gladly answer any inquiries concerning the facts in my case. Yours truly,

THOS. WILLIAMS,
100 Robert street, Toronto.

SPRINGFIELD ON THE CREDIT, Ont.
March 18, 1891.

Histogenetic Medicine Association:

GENTLEMEN,—

Wishing to testify to the superior merits of Histogenetic Medicine for the cure of lung diseases, I submit the following statement: Two years ago I found myself, as a result of exposure to cold and wet weather, taking frequent colds. I took a severe cough and got run down in vitality and had several spells of hemorrhage of the lungs. I coughed a great deal in the morning and some during the night. I consulted two or three physicians, one very clever Toronto physician. He treated me without medicine, by hand rubbing, and did me considerable good, but in the course of time the hemorrhage returned.

Two of the physicians I consulted considered mine a serious case, and one of them gave me to understand it was hopeless, and I have no doubt that consumption would soon have caused my death. I heard about the new system of medicine, and consulted Dr. Rear at the head office for Canada, 19 Yonge street Market, who examined me and thought Histogenetic remedies would cure me in about six weeks. I commenced taking the medicine about Jan. 1. In two weeks the cough and breathing were better. The amount of sputa rapidly lessened. There was considerable bronchitis and it soon disappeared. My strength came again with astonishing rapidity and the rapid breathing disappeared. I have not had any hemorrhage since the first lot of medicine was taken. I have gained steadily in the body generally as well as the lungs, and feel almost as well as I ever did. I can walk fast now or do anything in a hurry and not get rapid breathing or palpitation. I am now following my usual employment and can stand any kind of weather. It is the best treatment for the lungs I have ever known, and I can conscientiously recommend it to my friends and acquaintances who may need lung treatment as far superior to any other system. Sincerely,

T. M. HAMMOND.

Why some Dealers Decry Domestic Manufacture.

ABOUT CIGARS.

THE majority of cigars imported into Canada are made up under different brands to the ones by which the factories are identified.

WHY? So as to permit of large profits, and compel smokers to buy at the same establishment as the majority of retailers, who handle quantities, have cigars packed under their own brands, so that they control the sale of them.

THEREBY enabling them to sell inferior goods at prices inconsistent with those asked for fine grades manufactured by recognized factories of known reputation.

SIZES denote quality in all first-class Havana factories, therefore it behooves smokers to familiarize themselves with the different sizes made by the several factories whose goods they purchase.

THE majority of sizes, as offered to the Canadian public, are not standard ones, but are made and packed to imitate them.

NOTE the difference between a Reina Victoria size in the "Upmann," or any other first-class Havana brand and the same mark in the majority of brands that are being offered as fine goods.

FINE GOODS. It is absurd to imagine that Cigars of recognized "Vuelto Abajo" factories could be sold at prices quoted by some dealers.

VUELTO ABAJO The district of Vuelto Abajo is recognized by all tobacco dealers to be the finest in the Island of Cuba and no other tobacco is equal in quality, or commands as high a price on the market.

$1,000 00 We will forfeit the sum of one thousand dollars, to be distributed amongst the charitable institutions of this city (and every other city, where this advertisement appears), if our statement that (⅞) seven-eighths of imported cigars brought into Canada are not of "Vuelto Abajo" tobacco can be disproved.

WE WILL forfeit a like sum for the same purpose, if our "La Cadena" brand of clear Havana Cigars is not manufactured exclusively of Vuelto Abajo Tobacco

"The Advertiser" is an organ of news and independent opinion. The ADVERTISER alone is responsible for opinions expressed in these columns.

"The Advertiser" advocates Continental Free Trade, and as early as possible after, free trade with the whole world. The British trade model cannot be improved upon.

"The Advertiser" looks forward with hope to Canada's future as that of an Independent Canadian Nationality, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States.

"The Advertiser" advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

"The Advertiser" is an advocate of equal rights for women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

"The Advertiser" is a believer in Christian Union, and considers the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. Those bodies which are now nearest should unite first. Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The ADVERTISER will endeavor to promote the movement for Christian union not alone by direct appeal and argument, but by seeking to present the best rather than the worst side of each denomination.

"The Advertiser" advocates Obligatory Voting as both necessary and practicable. Nothing would so much purify electoral contests. Nothing would so much enforce the idea that the franchise is a duty, not a chattel.

God's in His heaven,
All's right with the world.
—[BROWNING.

London, Wednesday, May 13.

—Mr. Houston, in the preface to his valuable work, "Constitutional Documents of Canada," expresses thanks to Hon. David Mills, Q.C., for "hints which lessened greatly the labor of research." Mr. Mills is looked upon by his fellow-Parliamentarians as the chief authority on constitutional history in the Dominion House of Commons.

—The Chatham Planet and several of our contemporaries do not take very kindly to the platform of the ADVERTISER. On the other hand, the stand taken by this journal is indorsed in whole or in part by a number of newspapers. For example, the Oil Springs Chronicle says:

"The London ADVERTISER is taking a forward step in publishing a platform no man need be ashamed of. Among other things it advocates Canadian independence, prohibition of intoxicating liquors, equal rights for women and obligatory voting. All these planks are good and should be heartily indorsed by the Canadian people. The ADVERTISER has improved wonderfully during the last twelve months."

NO VOTERS' LIST REVISION.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau informed the House of Commons last night that it was not the intention of the Government to postpone revision of the Dominion electoral lists in 1891, and that no instructions had been sent to the revising officers.

Taking it for granted that the Government at Ottawa will stick to this declaration, and not go back on the assurance of the Secretary of State, as it did on his statement on the same subject and the general election last year, this announcement means that the Ottawa high tax leaders mean to stick to the obnoxious, expensive and absolutely unnecessary act.

There would be general rejoicing if Sir John Macdonald showed that he had repented of his voters' list fraud, and consented to the use of the lists compiled by the municipal authorities in the several constituencies, against which no one ever petitioned Parliament.

GOLDWIN SMITH ON ARISTOCRACY.

Professor Goldwin Smith delivered an address on "Aristocracy," before the Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club last night. Mr. Smith always writes and speaks in an entertaining manner, and this address was no exception to the rule. Louis XIV., he tells us, tried to create an aristocracy in Quebec, "but not even the will of the Great King could make the plant of privilege take root. A single barony remains a lonely monument of his design. Even that long ceased to be legally recognized, and only by family effort was restored." Pitt also projected for Canada a hereditary House of Lords, but, as Fox warned him, fail the great Tory Minister did more completely than the great French King. "We have heard talk sometimes of making colonists peers by way of knitting together the members of the Empire," remarked the lecturer; "this is the mildest form of that interesting malady styled Imperial Federation; but it has always been assumed that the colonial peer would be transferred to Westminster, where, we may venture to say, he would of all lords be the lordliest and the least colonial. Otherwise we have never risen above baronetcies." Mr. Smith is right when he says we have come pretty near to Pitt's idea of a Canadian House of Lords by adopting a nominative Senate. It is indeed a curious feature of a free constitution that a party leader is enabled to make life-long legislators out of his personal adherents, especially those who have been rejected by the people, and the contributors to his party funds.

In discussing aristocracy, the professor points out, one does not need to discuss titles. "To titles there can be no reasonable objection as long as they go with a public trust or denote service done to the State. * * * We do not lower ourselves by giving the title of honorable to one who holds or has held an honorable office, though we do lower ourselves by giving it to a fool merely because he is his father's son." This is the case against hereditary titles and distinctions or titles conferred upon men for aught else but genuine merit in a nutshell. The cherishing of family tradition is a worthy object. Even the passion of Americans for tracing their English pedigrees has nothing in it irrational or at variance with republican principle, though Mr. Smith fears that the demand too often produces the supply. Nothing can be said against the aristocracy of nature—that is, the aristocracy of mind—nor should a trained and permanent civil service be regarded as aristocratic. It has nothing in it hereditary or aristocratic. There is more reason to dread a standing army as aristocratic, because military men are apt to form a caste.

The lecturer spoke of the aristocracy as it existed in feudal times. In the majority of cases it possessed privileges for which it gave little or no equivalent, but in some cases hereditary luck or favor was not the passport to the rank, but some degree of merit. The English aristocracy of to-day is the offshoot of the feudal aristocracy of the middle ages. The aristocracy of the Tudors which came out of the wreck of the feudal baronage is the real origin of the English nobility. This aristocracy proved an aristocracy of court minions. It was a sharer in Henry's plunder of the church and partaker of his judicial murders. It became an aristocracy of great landowners with rural palaces, and thus retained its influence. But it ceased to be an order of duty. Its political organ, the House of Lords, became an organ of privilege and reaction. Instead of extorting any more Great Charters, it blocked the Habeas Corpus Act. It never stood between the people and tyranny. The Commons stood up for the rights of the people; the Lords, ever afraid of their privilege, had nothing to say against the tyranny of Charles II., nor did they protest against the murderous cruelties of James II., or even against his political usurpations till their own interests were manifestly threatened. With the final overthrow of the Stuarts the aristocracy gained power, and a reign of shameless corruption followed. Chatham rose above it all, but he was a man of the people. The head of the aristocracy was Newcastle, of all jobbers and wirepullers the most contemptible. The aristocrats in the House of Lords "blocked not only Parliamentary reform, but religious justice, the freedom of the press, personal liberty and even measures of mere humanity, such as the reform of the criminal law and the abolition of the slave trade." In the interest of privilege it blocked Parliamentary reform till the nation was brought to the verge of revolution, when it succumbed to fear. "The House of Lords has never initiated a reform or improvement of real importance. Its legislative barrenness is almost as complete as that of our Senate.

Even the war against revolutionary France was commenced in the interest of privilege. The aristocracy themselves made no sacrifices to carry on that war. They threw the burdens on the people, pressed them into the navy, decoyed them into the army, shed their blood under such commanders as the Duke of York, and starved them by war prices for food. The peers sat at home, reveling in the high rents which the war prices produced, and lauding themselves for their firmness of purpose. Even the criminal law was prostituted for aristocratic benefit when the aristocracy was at the height of its power. A hideous lavishness of human blood was shown, and hanging was the punishment for no fewer than 164 offenses. For a soldier or sailor who begged without a license was death. Shoplifting and stealing from the person was death. Romilly's efforts in the cause of mercy was again and again defeated in the House of Lords. Well may Prof. Smith remark that "Democracy has had fits of sanguinary madness, such as the French Reign of Terror, but when it is itself it is humane."

Prof. Smith fails to see what good British aristocracy has done the community since it ceased to be an order of feudal duty and became an order of mere rank and privilege. History as he reads it, offers no assurance that national character can draw any genuine nobility, or national councils any true wisdom, from that spring. That, however, is England's outlook. Mr. Smith points out that it is not Canada's business to interfere with her political development. But in Canada, he asserts, hereditary rank has never had a home and never can have one. There is a baronet concealed somewhere in Toronto, we believe, and Sir Charles Tupper got himself created one a short time since, but neither fact will suggest the belief that hereditary honors are desirable in this democratic land. They can only, as Prof. Smith points out, misdirect aspiration and pervert development. Sensible people cannot respect rank when unconnected with merit or service. They cannot respect the rank of a fool or a profligate; yet the principal of hereditary succession to place and power demands such allegiance.

Knighthood, not being hereditary, is not properly speaking hereditary; while among ourselves worthy men of all distinction in different lines, men whom this community would itself have delighted to honor, have accepted knighthoods, and others not less worthy have refused them. Prof. Smith holds there is an objection to honors not conferred by the community in which a man lives and acts. They divide his allegiance. They divert his attention from Canada to Mayfair. Moreover, honors awarded by a distant authority will sometimes be awarded in ignorance. We would no doubt be more assured, Mr. Smith argues, if we knew more about the process of recommendation. Most people have little doubt on that point. The political leader in power makes the selection, sends the names to the Imperial Government, and the knighthoods are conferred accordingly.

Prof. Smith illustrated, in telling language, the truth that titles of chivalry have not always brought a chivalrous sense of honor into the breasts of their possessors. The history of the Pacific Scandal showed that. Under this head the lecturer asked: "Who have done more to corrupt public morality, to lower the tone of public life, to saturate the country with corruption, to degrade the public press into a vile organ of foul passion and of assassination of character, then men who are described as appearing at the meeting of Parliament glittering with golden embroidery and with the grand cross of an order of chivalry on their breasts? Who make war on their political opponents by slanderous charges of conspiracy and treason? Who accept the services of spies and use letters obtained by dishonorable means? If we were asked to say whose name among all our politicians has been most associated with the practices of corruption, are we sure that a baronet would not be the man? If an equivocal trade was denounced in Parliament, would you be surprised beyond measure to hear that it was by the heir to a title that the trade was being plied?"

Even governors-general have not always been models of aristocratic character. "The recent dissolution of Parliament for a party purpose," remarked Prof. Smith, "has shown us too plainly that the presence of a man of rank as the head of our polity is no security for the maintenance of public right or for the integrity of our institutions."

Referring to the charge that he did not understand sentiment in Canada, Prof. Smith said it was unfounded. He was an Englishman and he dearly loved England, but he did not believe in Imperial Federation. He did not shout his loyalty on the housetop; he left that to loyalists on their road to Ottawa to demand an increase of duties on British goods. He did not believe in perpetrating British connection by the ranks of baronetcies and knighthoods. He added:

"I am one of those who go, in a certain sense, beyond Imperial Federation, inasmuch as I desire a moral federation not only of the 40,000,000 but of the 100,000,000 of the English-speaking race, leaving each section of the race to regulate its political institutions and its commercial affairs in accordance with its own interests and the circumstances of its own case. If this is treason, it is treason from which some Englishmen who were supposed to be good patriots and good servants of the Crown have not been free."

Discussing the recent elections, Prof. Smith said that, according to the definition of the high tax leader, it was a battle between loyalty and treason. "According to the showing most favorable to the Conservatives the country has elected 115 loyal men and 94 traitors, 45 or thereabouts of the loyal men being drawn from Provinces comprising only 25 per cent. of the population. The country must be swarming with traitors." To secure even this result, the most rascally tactics were adopted by the men in power. But there was no treason, remarked Prof. Smith, only a movement, natural and inevitable, of the two races towards each other. And what is the sequel?

"Hardly was the election over when the anti-continental party signalized its triumph by sending an embassy in hot haste to Washington to sue for a commercial treaty. I heartily wish a good treaty may be obtained, no matter who the negotiators may be. But envoys who have just been fighting an election on the anti-American line are not likely to be most successful with Americans; nor can any treaty possibly be made without throwing over the N. P. and the fraternity of the red parlor."

Prof. Goldwin Smith said that in his past career—in the recent electoral contest—he had performed the work of a student, not of a politician, and to the statesmen he would leave the political future of the Dominion and the determination whether it is good that aristocracy shall have an outpost on this continent.

BEECHAM'S PILLS act like magic on a Weak Stomach.

Mr. Winks—I see raising flowers for the manufacture of perfumery has become a new industry in Florida. Mr. Minks (a perfumery manufacturer)—Flowers? Winks—Yes. Mr. Minks—For the manufacture of perfumery? Mr. Winks—Yes. Mr. Minks—well, wonders will never cease.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

ROBBED AND MURDERED.

A Former St. Marys Man Murdered in Washington State.

Intelligence has been received of the murder in Washington State of a young man named Barbour, a son of Mr. Robert Barbour, of St. Marys. No particulars of the crime are obtainable further than he was robbed of considerable money with which he had intended purchasing some merchandise and was afterwards murdered. Friends and members of the family have gone to Washington to bring the body home. The murdered man is a son of ex-Councilor Barbour, of St. Marys, and is a young man of about 33 or 34 years of age.

A GLUTTON'S FATE.

An Inmate of the Elgin House of Industry Chokes Himself.

ST. THOMAS, May 12.—Archibald McPhail, an inmate of the Elgin House of Industry, ate his dinner Monday and just after going out of the house towards the cottage where he stayed was seized with a choking fit. Mr. Aldritt, the keeper, ran out, but the old man only gave two or three gasps after he reached him. He was a voracious eater and had often been warned by Mr. Aldritt against eating so rapidly, and two of the other inmates had spoken to him about it to-day. As his mouth was full of bread and meat it is quite evident he was choked to death. He was aged 68 and was committed from South Dorchester.

Lambs for England.

MONTREAL, May 12.—J. E. Storey, farm manager of the Ontario Agricultural College, has been here for a few days, superintending the shipment of 100 lambs to Liverpool. These lambs were purchased in October last, when they only weighed 80 pounds apiece, and after being fed all winter on clover hay, roots and grain, now tip the scales at 137 pounds. The shipment is being made by Professor Shaw for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is more profitable for the farmer to ship his lambs to Buffalo in the fall or to hold them for shipment to Liverpool in the spring. The shipment should sell well on the other side as they are certainly in splendid condition and estimated to be worth $10 apiece, or over 7 cents per pound, an offer of $9 40 apiece being refused in the west. All were shorn but 10 in October, and half of this 10 were shorn a few days ago, so that of the lot 5 now have a long fleece, 5 are shorn and 90 have half-grown fleeces. The result of the sale will be watched with considerable interest by farmers.

MR. JOAB SCALES, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach and Lame Back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man out of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

WONDERFUL CURES.

FOR THIRTY YEARS.—Mrs. L. Squire, Ontario Steam Dye Works, Toronto, says: "For about thirty years I have doctored for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia without getting any cure. I then tried Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and the benefits I have received from this medicine are such that I cannot withhold this expression of my gratitude. It acts immediately upon the Liver, and its good effects are noticed at once. As a Dyspepsia remedy I don't think it can be equalled."

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

HARDENED AND ENLARGED LIVER.—Mrs. H. Hall, Navarino, N.Y., writes: "For years I have been troubled with Liver Complaint. The doctors said my Liver was hardened and enlarged. I was troubled with Dizziness, Pain in my Right Shoulder, Constipation, and gradually losing flesh all the time. All food soured on my stomach, even with the closest attention to diet. I was under the care of three physicians, but did not get any relief. A friend sent me a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it affords me much pleasure to inform you that the benefit I have received from it is far beyond my expectation. I feel better now than I have done for years."

That Tired Feeling

That extreme tired feeling which is so distressing and often so unaccountable in the spring months, is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which tones the whole body, purifies the blood, cures scrofula and all humors, cures dyspepsia, creates an appetite, rouses the torpid liver, braces up the nerves, and clears the mind. We solicit a comparison of Hood's Sarsaparilla with any other blood purifier in the market for purity, economy, strength, and medicinal merit.

Tired Time

"I had no appetite or strength, and felt tired all the time. I attributed my condition to scrofulous humor. I had tried several kinds of medicine without benefit. But as soon as I had taken half a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, my appetite was restored, and my stomach felt better. I have now taken nearly three bottles, and I never was so well." MRS. JESSIE F. DOLBEARE, Pascoag, R. I.

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, Lowell, Mass., was completely cured of sick headache, which she had 16 years, by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Everybody needs and should take a good spring medicine, for two reasons:

1st, The body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season.

2d, The impurities which have accumulated in the blood should be expelled, and the system given tone and strength, before the prostrating effects of warm weather are felt.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best spring medicine. A single trial will convince you of its superiority. Take it before it is too late.

The Best Spring Medicine

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a spring medicine, and I find it just the thing. It tones up my system and makes me feel like a different man. My wife takes it for dyspepsia, and she derives great benefit from it. She says it is the best medicine she ever took." F. C. TURNER, Hook & Ladder No. 1, Boston, Mass.

"Last spring I was troubled with boils, caused by my blood being out of order. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me. I can recommend it to all troubled with affections of the blood." J. SCHOCH, Peoria, Ill.

THE TURF.

Allie Wilkes, 2:22½, for which W. C. France & Son, Lexington, Ky., recently paid $25,000, will join the Doble stable in June.

"Marvin tells me," said Mr. Robert Bonner, "that both Gov. Stanford and himself feel confident that Sunol will beat Maud S.'s record of 2:08¾ this season.

It is said that Direct, the Calfornian horse that in 1889 made a trotting record of 2:18½, and that has now been put to pacing, recently stepped a quarter in 30 seconds at his new gait.

The guaranteed stakes of the Port Huron meeting in July have the following Canadian entries: Three-minute trot—W. Witty, of Sarnia; S. W. Chamberlain, of Petrolea; D. Ferguson, of London; Angus Sinclair, of Chatham; and J. J. Burns, of Toronto. Two-forty pace—Albert Fox, Amherstburg. Two-twenty-eight trot—Thomas Taylor and Robert Davies, of Toronto; Angus Sinclair, of Chatham; E. Livingston, of Blythe.

The New York Sportsman hears that a man in Decorah, Ia., has invented a speed indicator, which is to be fastened to the driver's wrist in such a way that the dial may be seen at all times. A small cord connects the novel device with the sulky wheel. A driver can tell by glancing at the machine how fast he is going. The indicator also registers the greatest flight of speed at any part of the mile. If some other genius will now invent an apparatus to indicate when a horse is pulled he will confer a greater benefit upon honest horsemen, and succeeding generations will call him blessed.

TERRESTRIAL HEALING

A branch office of the Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise Company is now permanently located at 294 Dundas street, for the purpose of giving practical demonstrations of the healing virtues of the "Vitapoise," (or miniature earth.) It is the most wonderful healing instrument ever discovered. It only fails to cure the afflicted when their case is hopeless, and it makes no difference what ails you.

If you would like to investigate "TERRESTRIAL HEALING," call at the office, and Prof Reid, will cheerfully explain to you the mysteries of the subtle healing force contained in a Magnetic Meridian Vitapoise.

Separate rooms are fitted up for the treatment of ladies and gentlemen. We want every family and physician in Canada to buy a "Vitapoise," and we will accomplish our object if an afflicted member of every tenth family will give the instrument a trial, by taking a "course of treatment." Its application is absolutely painless and is also harmless; but disease will flee from before it as if driven away by magic.

Physicians! try a "Vitapoise" on one of your patients, having either la grippe, inflammation, fever, insomnia, neuralgia or rheumatism, and thereafter your "medical case" will be a secondary consideration so long as you have a "Vitapoise" with you.

Send for catalogue which fully explains everything; free. Address, The MAGNETIC MERIDIAN VITAPOISE COMPANY, 294 Dundas street, London, Ont. am

CANADA'S DEFENDERS.

Meeting of the Veterans of 1866.

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of the Victory at Ridgeway To Be Celebrated—Formation of a Veterans' Association—Reminiscences of the Fenian Raid Period.

A meeting was held in the City Hotel Monday to make arrangements for celebrating the 25th anniversary of a victory that must ever send a thrill of pride through Canadian hearts, though the exultation will be tempered with a remembrance of those heroes who died in defense of country and home in opposing the raid of the Fenians. The gathering last evening was attended by nearly all of the local veterans whose active association with the stirring events of that time render them doubly vivid. Among those present were: Capt. D. C. Macdonald, No. 1 Company, Seventh Battalion; John Mitchell, No. 1, Seventh; Jas. Johnston, Twenty-sixth, Thamesford; Abraham Tibbs, sergeant, No. 5, Thirteenth Battalion; Alex. Arbuckle, sergeant, Seventh; George Nickle, No. 1, Seventh; John Mustill, farrier sergeant, London Field Battery; W. Thornton, sergeant, London Field Battery; J. A. Matthews, sergeant, New Hamburg Company; H. N. T. Colquhoun, No. 5, Seventh; Franklin Mutch, sergeant, Elora Company, Thirtieth Battalion; R. McBride, color-sergeant, No. 2, Seventh; J. O'Connor, lieutenant, No. 1, Seventh; Thos. Hopwood, corporal, No. 2, Twenty-eight Battalion; Sergt. W. C. Arbuckle, No. 2, Seventh; John Todd, No. 3, Midland Battalion; A. R. Ray, orderly room sergeant, No. 2, Seventh; Chas. Coombs, sergeant, No. 2, Seventh; Jas. Busby, No. 2, Seventh; R. W. Kidner, sergeant, No. 6, Seventh; W. H. Bartram, Windsor Garrison Artillery; A. B. Powell, No. 3, Seventh; John Stanton, No. 5, Seventh; H. Arbuckle, corporal, No. 4, Seventh; Archibald Cameron, corporal, Cavalry; C. F. Colwell, sergeant, Toronto Field Artillery; Jerry McCarthy, Sixtieth Rifles; Peter McVean, corporal, No. 5 Seventh; Chas. Collett, H. Battery, Fourth Brigade; Serg. Essery, No. 1 Rifles, and Samuel Scott, corporal, London Field Battery.

Capt. D. C. Macdonald was elected chairman and Sergt. E. T. Essery secretary. With military precision the veterans pitched right into business and soon had decided to hold a banquet on June 2, the 25th anniversary of the decisive battle of Ridgeway. Messrs. Powell, McBride, Macdonald, Mustill, Bartram, Essery, Kidner and Laughlin were appointed a committee to complete arrangements.

The "Veterans' Association of 1866" was then formed, its roll to be open to all veterans of 1866, and its aim an annual reunion of the members. Col. Moffat, Col. Shanly and Major McPherson were appointed honorary presidents, and the following officers were elected: President, Capt. D. C. Macdonald; vice-president, Pte. A. B. Powell; secretary-treasurer, Sergt. E. T. Essery; executive committee, R. McBride, J. Mitchell, Peter McVean, J. K. O'Connor, J. A. Matthews, R. W. Kidner and Charles Coombs.

London at the time of the Fenian raid was in a state of excitement such as it never had before and probably never will again see. Cannon were placed at all the bridges, with pickets of the artillery corps, ready to pour out shot and shell on the expected invaders. Peaceable citizens, to whom the smell of gunpowder was almost unknown, became fired with military ardor, and all night long armed detachments paraded the streets on the watch for suspicious-looking strangers. Many an unknown was picked up during these vigils, but as far as known none of them ever turned out to be a Fenian. On Sunday, June 3, the false news reached the regulars stationed here of the landing of the Fenians at Windsor. Large congregations were attending the morning church services at the time, and devout prayers were being offered for the noble volunteers who had already gone to the front. In the midst of these exercises the air suddenly rang with the thrilling notes of bugle calls, some of which were blown in the very church doors. Instantly the sacred edifices became the scenes of indescribable confusion and grave churchmen actually jumped over seats in their hurry to get to the door. London was in fever heat all that morning, and at 3 o'clock a mass meeting was held in the drill shed for the purpose of forming a home guard. The welcome news had just been received, however, that the previous alarm was unfounded and that every Fenian had been driven out of the country the previous day at the battle of Ridgeway. This was announced at the meeting, which thereupon dispersed and the city soon resumed its wonted aspect of Sabbath quietness.

Col.-Sergt. R. McBride has in his possession a copy of the London Daily Prototype, published by John Siddons—now of the Customs Department—over Higginsons & Burns' drygoods store, corner Dundas and Richmond streets. The paper is yellow with age, but is a relic much prized by the owner. The excitement of the day is well mirrored on its tattered surface, which is ablaze with thrilling headlines and news from the frontier. It is dated Monday, June 4, and speaking of the previous day's turmoil says: "Sunday will be a day long remembered in the history of London and of Canada. For the first time in the memory of the living generation the voice of prayer in our churches was drowned by the shrill call of the trumpet to arms. The alarming but false news of the supposed invasion of our country at Sandwich was followed by the joyous intelligence that there was not a Fenian in Canada—that Fort Erie was in our possession—that the lawless invaders were driven into the lake—that there was not an armed Fenian in Canada, and that our volunteers were on their way home. Thank God for this complete victory! With our gratitude to our noble volunteers and regular troops let us mingle our tears and regrets for the brave patriots whose hearts' blood has been so freely shed in our defense. Long will their heroic memory be cherished by a grateful country. And if in this hour of victory we can think of revenge, that thought is evoked by a remembrance of our lamented dead and of the black indignity which will ever render the name of Fenianism in Canada a synonym of all that is base, treacherous, cowardly and bloody."

ARE YOU A MERCHANT?

And is it to your interest to put all your capital into your business, that later on you may have a comfortable fortune and be able to provide liberally for your family?

But is it not necessary, meanwhile, for you to lay something aside to provide for shrinkage in case of your death, and to protect your wife and children from possible destitution?

Every right-thinking man will answer "Yes" to such a proposition. But has it ever occurred to you that there is a way by which you can put all your capital, and the bulk of your income (over and above current expenses), into your business, and at the same time protect your family and your future?

The following is an illustration of how it can be done:

Twenty years ago, a gentleman of an Eastern city took a Tontine Endowment policy (No. 66,642) in the EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY for $10,000. If at any time he had died his heirs would have received $10,000 cash. But he has not died; and during these twenty years he is reported to have prospered. He therefore may not need protection now, but he may want rest, and so, as his policy matures this year, he may draw its cash value, which (with the dividend accumulations now credited to him) amounts to $16,948 50, A SUM EQUAL TO ALL HE HAS PAID, WITH INTEREST AT THE RATE OF SEVEN AND ONE-QUARTER PER CENT. PER ANNUM BESIDES.

But, perhaps you say, this is not a large enough sum to satisfy you.

Well, if you can afford to pay a large premium you can get a policy from the Equitable for as much as $100,000. If the policyholder in question had assured for $100,000 he would have paid $4,815 a year, and would now be able to draw $169,485 in cash—just ten times as much as he has actually realized.

Think this over, and consider the double advantage such a Tontine policy confers—i. e., 1st, PROTECTION; and 2nd, LARGE PROFITS.

ARE YOU A LAWYER OR A DOCTOR?

And are you confident of building up a large and remunerative practice if you live?

But who will support your family if you die prematurely?

If you can afford to reserve from your income enough to pay the premium on an insurance policy, you can provide against the disaster which will otherwise surely follow such an accident—and if you live you will yourself ultimately enjoy the profits from your investment.

ARE YOU AN OFFICIAL OR CLERK?

And are you receiving a salary which will terminate if you die? And do your expenses eat up so much of your income that you cannot hope to accumulate much capital except by saving a little every year for many years to come? If so, what will become of your family if you are suddenly cut off?

Do you know that you can guard against this danger by taking a 20-year Tontine policy in the Equitable?

ARE YOU A BROKER?
or
A CLERGYMAN?
or
A FARMER?
or
AN ARCHITECT?
or
AN IMPORTER?
or
A PUBLISHER?

ARE YOU FOLLOWING ANY CALLING FROM WHICH YOU ARE REASONABLY SURE TO REALIZE A GOOD INCOME WHILE YOU LIVE, BUT WHICH WILL END OR BE IMPAIRED IF YOU DIE?

Then note the results of the 20-year Tontine policies of the Equitable, maturing in 1891.

By paying for such a policy a comparatively small annual premium, you can protect your family against loss in case you die, and at the same time make an investment which will give you a generous return for your own comfort and advantage, if you live to middle life.

For particulars as to the way to secure the above advantages to yourself and family write to or call on London West Will Have One, Too.

A special meeting of the London West School Board was held Monday night for the purpose of making arrangements for the "Hoisting of the flag" on May 25, the following members being present: Chairman Ed. Pudney, Trustees R. A. Jones, J. B. Leigh and Isaac D. Smith. Owing to the absence of Secretary W. L. Brown, Trustee Smith was appointed pro tem. Chairman Jones, of the Management Committee, reported that he considered the belfry of the school house dangerous and suggested that it be strengthened preparatory to the new Flag pole being erected. A flag staff sufficiently high, raised from the ground, would cost at least $75. The cost of strengthening the belfry and raising the flag pole from same would cost only $20. It was moved by Trustee Leigh, seconded by Trustee Smith and carried, that the belfry be strengthened and the flag staff raised for the sum of $20. Trustee Smith was empowered to secure a band for the morning of May 25. Invitations were extended to Hon. G. W. Ross, Mayor Taylor, the Bishop of Huron, Father Tiernan, Dr. Leonard, Geo. C. A Cuff-button Tells a Tale.

Wm. Robinson was passing the house of Charles Brown, corner Dufferin avenue and Colborne street, Monday afternoon, shortly before 1 o'clock, and noticed a young man at the front door. When he had gone on a little farther he turned around and found the stranger had disappeared. This aroused his suspicions. He went to the house of Mrs. Brown's father, a block away, and told them of the occurence, whereupon Mr. Robinson, Mrs. Brown and her father sallied forth to investigate. On going around to the back, Mrs. Brown found the man half way through the pantry window. She gave the alarm and he jumped to the ground and ran for the gate; but Mrs. Brown pluckily placed herself in front of that, so the intruder made his exit another way and ran down Colborne street. On the pantry floor was discovered a cuff-button, which was handed to Detective Phair. About 5 o'clock Sergeant Jenkins arrested Fred Scott, whose appearance answered very fairly the description given, and when brought to the police cells one of his cuff-buttons was lacking. At the Police Court yesterday the prisoner was fully identified by the parties concerned. Scott said he had been home all morning; but Chief Williams went in the box and swore he saw him in Victoria Park shortly after noon. He elected trial by a higher court and was committed on a charge of house breaking with intent to steal. Scott is a young married man of a bad reputation. He has served six months in the Central Prison, one month in the common jail and was recently arrested for defrauding Thomas Passmore, an East End printer.

Dora went on tying as steadily as before, but she turned about a little, so that her face was nearly hidden from the other ladies. She had seen nothing of Trenchard since the disquieting glimpse she had of him late on the previous night, nor had she ventured to show much curiosity as to his condition since then. But Dora fancied she knew, a good deal better than the rest, precisely how it was with Trenchard. To help him—how? Fenced in, as she was, on every side, she did not know.

"He wandered a little in the night, and he's had the fidgets terribly all day, but I've seen nothing worse in him than that," answered Barbara.

"I daresay he is a little feverish," said Dora; "indeed I think Dr. Maguire said so this morning."

"And d'ye know," said Lady Frayne, "he's quite turned against poor Maguire; isn't that an odd thing, now? and they always were the best of friends."

"Ah, that's nothing," said Barbara; "'tis only that he's cross a little with the wound in his head."

"No, no; 'tis more than that," insisted Lady Frayne. "He declares that Maguire's not giving him the right medicines at all."

"One has fancies of that sort in such a state," said Dora, striving to quiet herself, for she was sure that she knew more than she admitted.

"Well, a good recovery to him!" said Lady Frayne, rising to go. "And a quick one too; for, as I said, I'll be wanting him by-and-by. And, Barbara, if ye're wanting anything, let me know. Now, I'd like to know where Kitty and your Arthur are hiding, for I'll be bound 'tis hiding they are, somewhere."

Her ladyship put her head out of the window and gave a whoop and a "Kitty, come out of that now, wherever y'are," which brought the lovers in double quick time from some invisible shelter in the garden.

"Run along and bring the car round, the delicious pair of ye!" called Lady Frayne.

"Yes, mamma, dear."

"Yes, Lady Frayne, certainly."

"Oh, a nice obedient pair, I know! Make haste, now."

"I'll go a mile along the road with you," said Miss Nugent. "I think it was to-day they're to call at Clonlost."

"Put on your hat, then, quick. Where's Anthony away to?"

"To the town, to see the carpenter about something. He'll not be back this good while. Mrs. Lytton, dear, I think I may trust the patient to you. I'll give a look in to him when I'm upstairs, and he won't be wanting anything till I'm home, I think."

"I shall be here, Miss Nugent," said Dora quietly. Left to herself, Dora went on with her work. She made one observation aloud, "I hope Aunt Barbara will not be long."

There was no sound in the house. She had left the door of the dining-room open that she might hear if Trenchard rang his bell; and the dining-room window, and the window of Trenchard's room, which was just above, were open also.

Dora went on quietly tying down her covers, and not thinking of the covers at all.

"I wish," said she to herself presently, "that he would tell the doctor himself; it would be better. But he won't do that" Then, after a pause, "He has not even told me."

As she said this there was a noise of wheels on the gravel, and Trenchard's man, Sergeant Jones, drove up in his master's smart trap. Dora knew that Trenchard had sent for him. He was, as she saw, in his uniform when wounded on the previous evening, and he had sent word home in the morning for a change of linen and clothes to be brought. This at least was the ostensible reason for his summoning the sergeant.

Dora went out to the door

"Master better, ma'am, I hope," said Jones with a salute.

"He's just pretty well, I think, sergeant. You may get down; I'll hold the horse."

The sergeant got down and lifted a portmanteau from the trap.

"A few things the master wanted, ma'am. I'd better see him myself, if you please, ma'am. Shall I call John to come to the horse?"

"I think John's out with Mr. Nugent. You needn't mind, sergeant; I can hold the horse."

"Very kind of you, ma'am; but a great trouble, I'm sure. The master won't keep me long, though. Is he abed, ma'am?"

"Yes; his room is on the first floor. The door is open, I think. He will hear you going up."

The sergeant saluted, and went in with the portmanteau.

Dora, standing at the horse's head, immediately under Trenchard's window, could hear him talking with his servant. She heard his voice, that is to say, and the voice of Jones replying to him.

Trenchard's tones passed alternately from argument to persuasion and to insistence. The sergeant appeared to hold back, to argue on another side, and finally to hold his peace.

Then, for the first time, Dora heard a distinct utterance of Trenchard's.

He seemed to have risen in his bed, and he spoke sharply and with anger. "If you do not, I will get out of bed and go myself."

After a moment or two came a reply from the sergeant, bnt it was inaudible. A minute or two later he was down stairs again, having an air of extreme discomposure.

"Much obliged to you, ma'am," he said to Dora.

"What do you think of your master, sergeant?"

"I've seen him this way before, ma'am," replied the sergeant, as if seeking to avoid a direct reply. He had mounted into the trap and gathered up the reins; Dora stood aside. "I hope the master will be able to come home to-morrow or the next day, ma'am," continued the sergeant, wheeling the trap round; "he's always best at home when there's anything wrong with him. Much obliged to you, ma'am," and the sergeant, who evidently did not seek a conversation, saluted again and drove off.

Dora could have formed a shrewd guess as to what had taken place between Mr. Trenchard and his servant. She returned to the dining-room and went on with her work. She was thinking of a case once described to her by her husband; the case of an opium eater who had voluntarily placed himself in her husband's hands to be cured. She recalled with a shudder her husband's account of this man's terrible sufferings when suddenly and completely deprived of the drug. She even remembered an expression he had used. "There are no conceivable torments like those endured by the opium eater when deprived of his opium." And she remembered how he had said to her afterwards, when the case had left his hands, that in dealing with a similiar one he should never again attempt to enforce complete abstinence upon the patient during the first stages of treatment. "With alcohol," he said, "it was different. Cut off the supply there immediately and entirely, but you cannot deal thus with opium." She remembered this case especially, because her husband had spoken of the patient as one of the most refined and charming men he had ever known, but whose nature, at the time when he commenced to treat him, had already begun to be transformed under the malignant influence of the drug which lulls to sleep all that is highest and noblest in heart and brain.

Trenchard, when his servant had left him, lay exhausted for a time; but not for long. He opened his eyes and turned over in bed; took up a book and began to read; threw it aside and tried to sleep; but to sleep was as difficult as to read; both, in short, were impossible. Then a thought seemed to seize him; he looked round for the portmanteau which Jones had brought him. It was within reach of his hand. He opened it and took out its contents; selecting a tweed coat and waistcoat, he searched the pockets of both garments carefully and with eagerness. Whatever it was that he searched for, he could not find it. He flung the coat and waistcoat aside with an impatient expression. In a few moments more he had worked himself up into a state of intense and excited irritability. He plucked at the bed-clothes, grinding his teeth, knitting and unknitting his eyebrows, and moving his head with short rapid motions from side to side on the pillow. At last he made a great effort to calm himself, unclenching his hands and lying perfectly still and rigid, his eyes shut. The tension was extreme, both physical and mental; his forehead and the palms of his hands were moist. The effort at restraint failed him; all at once he rose up, threw off the bed-clothes, and began hurriedly to dress himself.

Dora with alarm heard him moving in his room; she went to the door of the dining-room and stood there irresolute. She went to the foot of the stairs. The door of Trenchard's room, just visible from there, was closed. She went back to the dining-room and laid her hands upon the bell. Should she ring and send Katie to him? Again she hesitated, in a manner very unlike herself. She heard Trenchard's door open and his foot on the stairs. There was no doubt about it, he was coming down.

Very Hard Indeed.

There are so many things that appear unnecessary, and which for the life of us we can see neither purpose nor end. It may be corns are just one of those thorns in the flesh the why and the wherefore of which we cannot see. Nevertheless they are of the kind easily removed. SKIN DISEASES.

Itching, Burning, Scaly, Crusted, Pimply and Blotchy Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONIAL.

About two years ago I was attacked with an inflammatory disease on my face (petyriasis), which was very troublesome, being extremely itchy and painful, giving rise to the production of small bran-like scales. My general health was affected by it. I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP according to directions, and experienced a change from the very first day; they worked wonderfully, and by their continued use for about five months I was completely cured. I have unbounded faith in the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I regard the CUTICURA RESOLVENT as the very best blood purifier; a trial will convince anyone. The CUTICURA SOAP is the best in the market, and cheap at twice its present price. I shall use no other for the toilet and bath. With the prevalence of skin diseases among us as a people (and they are the most difficult to deal with), I regard the CUTICURA REMEDIES of more important and intrinsic value to the world than any other medicine now before the public. I am, with deep gratitude, (Rev.) WM. CREELMAN,
Worthington, Mass.
