BASEBALL LONDON LOST.

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Aug. 14.—The Leafs' latest acquisition, Kid Jordan, did the pitching today, and barring Cockman's long drive over the fence for a home run in the ninth, the Cockneys failed to connect with the ball in a manner calculated to win games. While the visitors got the first two runs, they both came in on an error, and they failed to score again till Cockman made his lucky stab in the ninth. Kershaw was on the slab for London, and he put up good ball until the ninth, when the Leafs got him going, and he made a disastrous throw to pin a man at sec-ond, that let in O'Brien and lost the It was a fast game of ball, and the enthusiasm all through was great. Several times after the second it looked as if the leaders in the league race for the time being were going to strengthen their grip on the coveted rag, but brilliant field work at critical stages of the game averted this and sent the visitors away disappointed. Every man was in the game all the time. Boyle's misjudgment of Gunther's grounder in the second gave Lon don two runs, but he redeemed himself by brilliant playing from this on to the In the sixth, after Sippi went out, Cockman drew a pass and stole second nicely. Keenan took up the wand and drove a liner at Jordan, which he coolly clutched in one hand and quickly doubled on Jimmy at sec-ond. In this inning, after two runs were in, Busse made a neat catch of Kershaw's hit, and put out Gunther, who was heading for second. In the Leafs' second, Dark and Moore singled; Moore stole second and Dark came home, while Ward was juggling

In the fourth, Dark again scored the run, getting a base on balls and coming home on Boyle's timely hit. In the sixth it was also Dark who crossed the rubber again, getting a pass to first, and again coming home on a hit by Boyle.

Frank Snyder, the ex-London catch-(the present Toronto, Eastern League, change catcher), had an off day, and put it in very pleasantly for himself and the crowd umpiring the His judgment in most cases was excellent, and only once Sechrist kicked on a strike, but he should have been kicked instead. Snyder's umpiring gave splendid satisfaction, as he was most impartial. Score: GUELPH

Can't kick on that game. We'll get away over Jordan yet. Cockman is feeling the ball these

Jordan must have been a prize puz-zle. Even Jo-Jo could not solve it. London defeats Hamilton. Hamilton defeats Guelph, and Guelph defeats London. It's a great game. Snyder certainly had nerve to face

The game was lost in the same stupid old way-trying to throw a man out at second, when a man was on third.

If we can only beat the Hams today,

Probably it is just as well that Guelph won. The Londons will now feel in the humor for defeating them

Dewan; for Richmonds, Dwyer and There are very few rapid action pitchers nowadays. It takes nearly every pitcher in the league from 20 to 30 seconds on every ball. No wonder the game gets draggy. The league magnates should try to remedy this evil at their next meeting. There is no reason why these "time-killers" should be llowed to go unmolested.

The crowd is tickled when a player is fined, but if the spectators knew that the handler of the indicator seldom rethe handler of the indicator seidom reports the fines he imposes, they would not be so amused at the fining process. At Munith, Mich., Harvey Pearce broke his arm pitching ball.

Sparta is getting to be a hot baseball town. A game once a week, with good attendance. There was a struggle on attendance. There was a struggle on

The Same... Old Sarsaparilla.

That's Ayer's. The same old sarsaparilla as it was made and sold by Dr. J. C. Ayer 50 years ago. In the laboratory it is different. There modern appliances lend speed to skill and experience. But the sarsaparilla is the same old sarsaparilla that made the record-50 years of cures. Why don't we better it? Well, we're much in the condition of the Bishop and the raspberry: "Doubtless," he said, "God might have made a better berry. But doubtless, also, He never did." Why don't we better the sarsaparilla? We can't. We are using the same old plant that cured the Indians and the Spaniards. It has not been bettered. And since we make sarsaparilla compound out of sarsaparilla plant, we see no way of improvement. Of course, if we were making some secret chemical compound we might But we're not. We're making the same old sarsaparilla to cure the same old diseases. You can tell it's the that each heat must be paced, one tandem, one triplet, or two singlets the pace-makers to be mutually agreed upon, and to drop out at the three-quarter mile, the contestants to set their own pace from that point to the finsh. The only tracks on which Lougis now Cleveland's closest competitor.

BORN ON A BOAT.

An Incident Not on the Programme of a Moonlight Excursion.

Hamilton Times: Last evening the Woodmen of the World of Brantford ran a moonlight excursion on the steamer Macassa. About four hundred ery enjoyable for most of the excursionists. A rather unusual incident courred on board the boat, while on ne lake. Mrs. J. Edmonston, of Brantord, gave birth to a baby boy. Fortunately two Brantford physicians were board, and they attended to her. She was given every attention by Mrs. oat. The passengers christened the As soon as the boat struck the wharf Manager Bishop was notified, and he called the ambulance, and the mother him old! and child were removed to the city hospital. Both are doing well today QUESTION OF AGE.

Human Experience Contrasted With a Georgia Judgment. The Supreme Court of Georgia has decided that a man who has reached the Lat. of Charles, from the Celtic, his 66th year is "aged." The decision karl, a man; or Sax., carl, a male. was made under a clause of the constitution of Georgia, exempting the property of "aged and infirm persons" from levy and sale, the law being construed liberally in order to promote its object, the court holding that a man 66 years old is entitled to its rotection.

This need not raise unnecessary alarm in the breasts of "those who are old, or are growing old," says the Chicago Times-Herald. Notwithstandng the opinion, it still remains true that a man is "no older than he feels." though the cogging finger time does point forward on the dialplate. Old at 66! Look at Gladstose at 88, and Bismarck at 82! Do they show any diminution of intellectual rigor or activity? Legouve, the French academician, is in his 90th year, Leo XIII. in his 87th, Justice Field in his 82nd, ex-Senator Palmer in his 80th while Queen Victoria has celebrated in her 78th year the longest English reign in history. These are but a few of the great numbers of men and wonen in every land today who are exercising a potent influence on the orld, and in every walk of life and of uman endeavor and aspiration are as active and as useful as ever.

Let no man think achievement is ot for him simply because the family second sums up his years to a threatening total. "The sixties," said Red Jacket to his young braves, "have all the twenties and forties in them."

Cato learned Greek at eighty; Sophocles Wrote his grand Oedipus, and Simo-Bore off the prize of verse from his compeers When each had numbered more than four-score years, And Theophrastus at four-score-and-Had but begun his characters of men. Chaucer, at Woodstock, with the nightingales

She waited to be urged a little, and then said she would try "Das Fruhlingslied," if she only had the music; but all her music was already packed to be sent to Claremont. "Oh!" said I, "it might perhaps be unpacked." "We must send for Lady N. N.," said the Queen. She rang the bell, the servants ran, but returned unsuccessful; and then the Queen herself went, and while she was gone Prince Albert said to me: "The Queen egs you to take this gift as a souvenir," and gave me a small box with a beautiful ring, upon which was engraved, "V. R., 1842. Then the Queen came back and said: "Lady N. N. has gone, and has taken all my things with her. I think it is proper." You cannot how that amused me. Then I said she surely would not make me suffer for the mishap, and that I would take something else; so, after some con tion with her husband, he said: "She will sing you something from Gluck, The Princess of Gotha had joined us in the meantime, and so we five through the corridors and rooms to the I do not know that electricity could Queen's sitting-room, where, by the piano, stood an exceedingly stout hob by-horse, and two large bird-cages, and heartily and with the best conscience imaginable. After that Prince Albert sang, "Es ist ein Schnitter, der heisst Tod" "There is a Reaper Whose Name is Death"), and then he said that I must play something before my departure, and gave as themes the choral which he had just played on the which he had just played on the organ and the Schnitter. If I had had my obliged to improvise most wretchedly thus it almost always is with me when I want to do very well; and then vexation. But just as if I were to retain a very beautiful and joyous memory of it, I succeeded in my improvising as I seldom do. Besides the two themes I took, of course, the songs which the Queen had sung; but it all came in so naturally that I would gladly not have stopped at all; and they lowed me with an appreciation and attention such as I have never found when I have improvised in the presence of listeners. Now and then they would say, "I hope you will visit us in England again soon." Then I went away and saw below the beautiful carriages with the postilions in red liveries wait ing, and after a quarter of an hour th flag at the palace was lowered and the papers announced: "Her Majesty left the palace at half-past three." I have still to add that I asked permission to dedicate my Symphony in A Minor to the Queen, and that the Queen, just as she was about to begin to sing, said: "But the parrot must be put out first, or he will scream louder than I can sing." Whereupon Prince Albert rang the bell, but the Prince of Gotha said, "I will carry it out," and I said, "Let me do it," and I carried the

A Strange Case That Excited England a Century Ago.

A plea in favor of allowing commor sentiment sometimes to direct the law may be argued from the case of poor name, that once when used by her would thrill his heart to happiest delight—he feels so sharp a pang as makes endurance difficult. His frown domestic servant with a family in Chancery lane. One day the family says Cecilia, with an adorable was taken ill of poisoning. It was learned that the poison was adminis tered with the food and the young girl was arrested for it. No one had died from the effects, but that circumstance t cold, or brutal, or a mere incon-quent coquette. But the recorder of London had hild for its chosen companion, no taken a dislike to the girl. He had determined that she should be hanged and hanged she was. There was a tre mendous demonstration at Miss Fenning's funeral. Six young girls clad in white led the way, while 10,000 people followed the hearse. It has never been shown beyond question that the girl was innocent, but circumstances after-

> COST OF GOING TO MECCA. Though most of the traveling is done foot, it costs a great deal to go to lecca. It costs a goodly number of the foreigners their lives to kiss the black stone, which, according to all true believers, fell from heaven, and to drink from the well Zem-Zem, the waters of which are daily replenished from the fountains of Paradise, are the main objects of the 100,000 pilgrims who annually visit the place. Unfortunately who are responsible for the health and good government of the Holy City make no manner of provision for the periodical influx of the devotees, who have to herd like cattle in the fields and open streets. In con-sequence all the water, even that of the holy well, becomes filthy. It has en estimated that from 20 to 50 per cent of the Bombay pilgrims never re-turn alive. Of the 13,970 of the year 1888, 7,465 died, either at Mecca or on board the pilgrim ships. The total

THE PAGODAS OF CHINA. No more interesting monument to the skill of the ancient architects is to be found than are the wonderful pagodas of China. The most remarkable of these structures, the porcelain tower of Ninking, was destroyed during the Tai-ping rebellion of 1853, but there are me remaining that present equally curious features. They are very old, no records showing exactly when they were built. There is as much difference of opinion as to the purpose of the builders as there is concerning their age. Some writers assert they were intended as watch towers in time of war. But the most probable theory is that they were of Indian origin, and were introduced by the priests of Buddha as a receptacle for holy relics such as thumbs, fingers, toes or any other portions of their god which might be found from time to time.

BOULANGER SUPERSTITIONS. It is really extraordinary how some people seek to prove-and do prove to their own satisfaction—that everything in the world—the career of a famous man, the facts of a discovery, or even the writing of a book—is governed by some simple law. The slightest coincidence is indubitable proof of the truth of their opinions. Thus a number of folk have established as a reason for Boulanger's failure in life the fact that his name began with a B, and that the letter influenced his life. The theory is based on the fact that he died at Brussels through despair over the death of Mme. de Bonnemain. Also that Queeny de Beaurepaire, another B, was his accuser at the trial with which his dif-ficulties began. By the same species of reasoning it has been determined that friendly letter. Numbers had also a great deal to do with his fate. Mme de Bonnemain was born in 1865. The four figures add up 19. She died in 1891, the four figures of which also add up 19. Boulanger himself was born in 1837, and these four figures add up 19. He died in 1891, which gives us 19 again.

I London Lady Speaks Strengly in Regard to the New Medicine for Heart Trouble Which Is Causing to Much Favorable Comment in This

Miss Lizzie Jones, when interviewed by our reporter, spoke as follows: "Eight years ago I had rheumatism, which left me with weak nerves and serious heart trouble. Just at that time, when I was convalescing, my dear mother died, and this threw me into a complete state of nervous prostration, thus aggravating my heart difficulties, which have since been growing serious.
"My, blood .was so impoverished that I had no color in my face. I lost flesh and became very weak. The condition of my heart frightened me, as I suf fered from sharp pains and palpita It was impossible for me to get restful sleep at night, and on this acount I was unable to walk even a short distance, as the slightest exer-tion made me so short of breath that I could scarcely move.

"I was easily startled and mentally became very despondent, thinking that I was going to die shortly. I had to give up my painting, which was my chief pleasure. Last November I gave up treatment with the doctors because their medicines seemed of no effect. then commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Strong's drug store. From the time I commenced their use a radical improvement took place. My nervous system was completely restored to its usual strength and vigor. I have now

In the Fight Against Disease-Others Follow, But Fall by the Wayside-The Great Canadian Homeopathist is Winning Fresh Triumphs Each Day, and all London Looks on in Wonder at His Matchless Power.

Galley Gives Proofs

In the scores of names of reputable citizens who come forward and testify of marvelous results through his new system of medicine-Doctors of the old school are awed in the midst of such a multitude of cures-They cannot understand it, and dare not doubt the statements of prominent men and women-Galley gives you the names of people right here in London-Perhaps on your own street, and does not ask you to accept statements of unknown people hundreds of miles away-Galley is not obliged to resort to bitter anathemas and innuendo to support his claims The people themselves are the true witnesses of his illimitable triumphs, and his name is honored as no other has Home of Galley's Famous Remedies, Toronto. ever been in the annals of medicine. There is only one great GALLEY.

Little need be said now to convince the public of what Galley is accomplishing in the interests of suffering humanity. For three weeks the types have told the story over and over, of scores of well-known citizens who have been cured or benefited through the use of Galley's Wonderful Little Pellets. Such is the style of argument Galley offers to the people. He does not ask you to accept the (printed) statements of alleged cures hundreds of miles from London, but instead gives names and addresses of large numbers of residents—perhaps on your own street, or within a few minutes' walk of your own door—where you are asked to go and hear the joyful story from their own lips. This style of argument is far more acceptable to the minds of honest and intelligent people than columns of abuse and insens malice.

door—where you are asked to go and hear the joyiul story from their own fips. This style of argument intelligent people than columns of abuse and insane malice.

While Galley has been giving the names of numbers of the best people who have been successfully cured through his new system of medicine, it is well, perhaps, to remember, that some of his greatest victories, some of the noblest proofs of his matchless power in conquering disease, remain hiden from the public prints, in the depths of hearts immunerable, and the privacy of the home. Since Galley's remedies have been introduced in London, the great Canadian Homeopathist has gained countless victories over disease, which no poet sings, or painter commemorates. His noble work goes on and on in endless and illimitable progression; its capacities ever widening, and rising higher and higher; growing hourly and daily stronger in the sunlight of Such, then, in brief, is Galley's mission, and already hundreds of hearts have been made brighter, hundreds of homes, from which the sunlight of hope had fled, have been made happier and irradiated with the sunshine of restored health. The grand thought to remember is, that Galley's Skilled Specialists are here at your service. ABSOLUTELY FREE. They cure where other less skilled have failed. The wise and prudent who desire a cure in the shortest possible time, at the least expense, should consult these eminent Specialists without a moment's delay. Not a cent is asked for medical Here then is Galley's answer. The people themselves shall witness for the superiority of Galley's remedies over all others. The public

GALLEY'S INVITATION.

Galley extends a special invitation to all who suffer from any disease pronounced incurable. Among the long list of cures already effected a great number are chronic cases of long standing Hence the longer you have suffered, the more necessary it is that you should apply for treatment. Do not think your case is a peculiar one and impossible of cure. Cases of the longest standing generally yield to Galley's advanced methods of treatment. Every variety of disease and deformity are treated.

Such is the style of argument Galley offers to the people. He does not ask you to accept the (printed) statements of alleged cures hundreds of miles from London, but instead gives names and addresses of large numbers of residents—perhaps on your own street, or within a few minutes' walk of your own door—where you are asked to go and hear the joyful story from their own lips. This style of argument is far more acceptable to the minds of honest and intelligent people than columns of abuse and insone malice. intelligent people than columns of abuse and insane malice.

GALLEY'S INVITATION.

Galley extends a special invitation to all who suffer from any disease pronounced incurable. Among the long list of cures already effected a great number are chronic cases of long standing. Hence the longer you have suffered, the more necessary it is that you should apply for treatment. Do not think your case is a peculiar one and impossible of cure. Cases of the longest standing generally yield to Galley's advanced methods of treatment. Every variety of disease and deformity are treated.

MEDICAL ADVICE BY MAIL:

Galley's new system of medicine is so perfectly arranged that sufferers at a distance, unable to see the great Homeopathist, can de treated equally well as though present in person. If you cannot come to London send for GALLEY'S GUIDE TO HEALTH, with blank forms for information and advice. Your case will receive immediate attention from members of Galley's staff of physicians who attend distinctly to their work and no other. No charge will be made for medical advice by mail.

Developments of the Shooting at Bisley.

The New Rifle Puts So Many on the Bullseye That a New Target or New System of Scoring

Is Needed. [From the London Standard.]

The remarkable shooting which has en seen at Bisley during the last four days has been a matter of national Private J. nterest and importance. Muirhead, of the Third Lanark, is to be congratulated on the extraordinary performance by which he won the "Volunteer Aggregate," making 202 points out of a possible score of 208, at ranges of 200, 500 and 600 yards. Nevertheless, it is not the perfection with which an exceptional man is able to use his rifle that distinguishes the present meeting at Bisley. It is the marvelously high standard which has been maintained throughout by the perhaps in none more effectively than in this, that last year men who made 59 points in the first stage of the St. George's competition were sure of a place among the 100 who were allowed o shoot for a second stage, while this year 81 men who made 66 points at the first stage (500 and 600 yards) will have to compete for only 16 places left among the 100 who will tomorrow enter for the final stage at 800 yards.

The highest possible score at the first stage of this St. George's competition, which could be obtained only by making seven bulls in succession at 500 yards, and seven in succession at 600 yards, was 70. The nature of the shootng of the 100 men, of whom only eight did not make at least 67 points, while nearly a second hundred were only a point behind, is easily to be realized. Nor was the shooting at this particular competition exceptional this year. The same high average has characterized the shooting for the Queen's prize, and generally for all the competitions. The marvelous proportion of "highest possible" points recorded at every range has actually forced on the council of the association the consideration how, in future years, the conditions of the competition can be made more severe; whether it will be better to reduce the size of the bullseye, or masonry. Dr. Bliss said that was an average shaft. Of course, often large position of marksmen in firing. That shooting is, to some extent, especially as regards the general average marksmen, a progressive art may be admitted; but it is impossible not to believe that the result on the whole is splendid triumph for the "How savage, how ruthless must vice weapon, the Lee-Metford, so far as the accuracy of its shooting is with which the government ammuni tion had been made up in Woolwich Arsenal: This year it is abundantly clear from the results secured that the make-up of the ammunition and the ammunition itself, must have been perfect. At all events, it has been demonstrated that those who can use the rifle have now a weapon with which, at 500, 600 and 800 yards, with ammuni-tion properly looked after, they can make sure of hitting a single man at almost every shot. There is, perhaps, one doubt left. We have very greatly reduced the weight of the cartridge, significance of the failure of the two partly by securing in cordite an explosive which enables us to use a much smaller weight in the propelling agent than was the case with the Martini-Henry and black powder, but partly, also, by lessening the size of the bullet. Altogether, since the cartridge is much smaller, twice as many can be carried. We have followed all continental powers in the principal of increasing the number of rounds that a man is able to carry by reducing the weight of each round. The enormous expenditure which may take place with magazine rifles has made almost inevitable. There can be no question that for European warfare, the advantage will be great. over, during the recent campaign in Mashonaland, the Lee-Metford asserted its efficiency. The one doubt which sooner or later, our campaign against the dervishes will have to resolve is, whether the smaller bullet will stop a rush of fanatically courageous savages. On the whole, however, if, at 500, 600 or 800 yards, firing can be perfection which it has this year shown at Bisley, there is not much cause for A powerfully built and anxiety. healthy dervish, struck at close quarters by a small bullet, may be to continue to close on his enemy. He will hardly do so if the bullets begin to reach him at 500 or 600 yards, and during the last three hundred such a rain of bullets as the magazine rifle is able to deliver should check his ad-Of course, the limited number of picked shots who appear at Bisley do not represent the average shooting of any regular troops as they stand in the ranks. On the other hand, however, there is no doubt at all that the shooting of the British infantry as a whole has been greatly improved of late years. Wise Men Know

Premature Burial.

Authentic Cases Very Difficult of Substantiation.

Notwithstanding This Reasonable Care Should Be Taken to Prevent Burial Alive.

[New York Observer.] Probably no cases reported by the oress give a greater shock to the imagination than those of the resuscitation of persons apparently dead, or of disturbances observed in the opening of coffins which indicate a premature burial. For there is no horror of which the mind can conceive equal to that of the brief seconds of agony between the awakening of one in his coffin and his passage from terror or the exhaustion of air into unconsciousness. It is comforting to know, therefore, that although the list of such cases reported, during the year is sufficiently formidthis able, inquiry shows that those having any foundation of fact are so rare as to give plausibility to the claim that e danger they represent cannot reasonably be taken into account. For many years the editors of this paper have followed up many such cases which have come to their notice, and without exception have found them to himself: be apocryphal. The same s true of the French mortuaries, maintained for a different purpose, and of the numerous morgues in this and other countries. Despite the assurance given by such inquiry and observation, however, it would be untrue to say that cases of remature burial never occur. The very fact that well-attested instances have curred where persons pronounced dead have been found to be in a state of trance or catalepsy, is sufficient evidence of the occurrence of similar cases in which the discovery has not been made in time. The change of position of bodies in coffins opened after burial, sometimes noted, proves nothing, and It is folly to build upon a poor foun- is easily accounted for by the generadation, either in architecture or in tion of gases, the post mortem contraction of muscles, or the cessation of the and to deaden symptoms by rigor mortis. And as even one such case in a million interments would inflict upon an impotent human being a flict upon an impotent human being a torture hideous beyond compare, it is singular that with its possibility in view, no steps have been taken to make the proof of death absolute. True, in most localities in this country we In France it is illegal to capture require a death certificate before burial. But it is generally, if not always, based

this matter we must learn to "walk before we can run," and the statement is true whether it is applied to the that there are always present in death certain signs which to the practiced physician indicate its reality, and that the general knowledge of the possibility of premature burial is of itself sufficient to insure the taking by friends of all necessary precautions against it. But a recent extended discussion of the subject in England raises doubt as to whether any of the accepted evi-dences of death, short of the general decomposition of the body, can garded as absolute. It has been shown that apparently complete failure of re-spiration and of cardaic action, with congealing of the blood, regarded as the most decisive proofs, have oc curred, without life being extinct. Moreover, the insurance against premature burial derived from the diffuabel on municipal printing.

The labor party in Roumania met large extent discounted by the relief felt at the departure of burdenso dependents. Nothing would be done towns represented against eight towns hasten their taking off, but in the feeling that it is a relief for all concerned, there will always be a certain negligence in making assurance of death doubly sure. The most certain precau-tion would seem to be a requirement that every physician certifying to a death, should make such an examination as will render the proof of death absolute, and state the nature of that ore than at the same time one year roof. The subject is a grewsome one, but a test which would be decisivement.

No One Is Alarmed When the Spectres of Former Sovereigns Leisurely Pace Halls and Corridors.

The Daily Mail of London, England, cays: An apparition has been seen in Windsor Castle. An officer of the Grenadier Guards, who would probably prefer to lead the forlornest of forlorn hopes rather than have to make guardsmen, fond of reading. He guardsmen, fond of reading. He wouldn't evaggerate anything a hair's an admission so eminently calculated to bring ridicule and chaff upon him, sticks to his assertion that he has seen something, which he believes to be supernatural, in Windsor Castle. The officer in question is Lieut. A. St. Leger Glyn, Third Battalion, Grenadier Guards.

The inhabitants of Windsor Castle are not in any state of terror about the matter, and the recruiting of the night guard has not become a matter of difficulty because of any awe on the part of the soldiers. The guardsmen would prefer feminine company, even if it were only the ghost of Queen Elizabeth, rather than solitude. Nor have any dreadful portents been deduced from anything which has hap-

The Bishop of Peterbor-ough, for instance, had told several people about an uncanny appearance and the bishop's nephew, Lieutenant Glyn, was mentioned as one who was prepared to youch for a strange oc-

Investigation of the matter was not easy. The Bishop of Peterborough had gone abroad. Lieut. Glyn was in Argyllshire. The castle authorities were at Osborne, in Scotland, or on the continent, and even hardened reporters did not care to ask too ostentatiously in Sunday's sunlight for inabout Queen Elizabeth's ghost. At length, lowever, the mother of Lieut. Glyn, the Hon. Mrs. Sidney Glyn, was found, and this lady asnished the inquiring newspaper man by remarking quietly, in reply to the question introducing this eerie topic, that there was truth in the matter.

From the communication the lady then proceeded to make it appear that ventional spirit. It did not wait until midnight to sound before it appeared; it did not groan, or even beckon; and, most unaccountable circumstance of make the customary clanking noises.

The Hon. Mrs. Carr Glyn said: "It is perfectly true that my son has witnessed something abnormal. He was, he tells me, sitting in the library of Windsor Castle reading a book, the History of Dorsetshire, to be exact. As he read, he became aware of some one passing in the inner library. He

They are afraid of strangers, and are apt to take to the trees on the least alarm, but their inordinate love of tobacco makes them approachable by those who know their habits. It is said that they are cannibals. I so, they are no worse than most of their neighbors of the Papuan race, and their life in the tree-tops is not responsible for it.

On a recent journey in the west l had the pleasure of visiting the factory and village of N. O. Nelson, of St Louis, who is the pioneer of profitsharing on the French system in the United States. In fact, Mr. Nelson comes nearer realizing the ideal of Leclaire, the father of French profit-sharing, than any other man in America. Mr. Nelson has three factories: but he is concentrating his works gradually at the village Leclaire, on the outskirts of the little town of Edwardsville, Ill. How recent real profit-sharing is in

They agreed to give 10 per cent of the gross profits annually to their conduct of the business in the workmen's hands. The establishment was board of control, composed of workmen. The chairmen of the boards of control were a board of governors. Regulations for the conduct of the establishment were made by these organizations of workmen, and they heard omplaints and adjusted differences between employer and employed. Important Experiments by was not satisfied with the results of his experiment, and he has suspended it. A great many concerns still follow this ndividual system. The principle of it is opposed entirely to the idea of profitsharing as adopted abroad. The Peace Dale Manufacturing Company, of Peace Dale, R. I., has adopted still another scheme for the reward of labor. It employs nearly 500 men and women in a village in the town of South Kingston. Since the first of January, 1878, the board of directors o the concern has set aside each year a sum for the payment of a dividend on wages when there has been a surplus above wages, taxes, interest, profit or capital, wear, and tear, and the reserve fund. This dividend is paid t employes who work seven months in twelve. In the first year there was r dividend. In the second year the dividend amounted to 5 per cent on wages For sale by C. McCallum and B -an aggregate of $5,842 40. The following year the dividend was slightly larger, and then for two years it was smaller, and then the dividends ceased for a time. The Peace Dale Company wen into the business of profit-sharing commercially, urging on the employe at the outset the necessity of showing their appreciation by working harder; and it complained in the third year, in a circular to employes, that the results in increased efficiency had not been what could have been expected. In the period of profit-sharing, however there have been no differences between employer and employed, and any on been many experiments on other lines, who knows the cost of strikes will ap preciate the value of that condition of

They are so emmently desirable, as winter-blooming plants, so dainty, so fragrant, and beautiful, that it pays to persevere and conquer difficulties. Procure large, round bulbs, and plant six in a fiveinch pot, setting them about half an inch below the surface. The best soil is one composed of tufty loam, that just der a good sod, with a little sand and rotten manure. ELEPHANTS IN THE BATH

Two of Them Have Rare Sport, While Old Bolivar Looks on With Envy.

Philadelphia Inquirer. There was great excitement in the elephants' apartments at the Zoo yes-terday afternoon, when at just 4 o'clock the doors of their winter lodg-ings were opened and they stepped out to enjoy their summer daily wash.

They were sublimely happy and snuffed eagerly at the water. A long Symphonies of sunlight, and mysteries period of captivity in a stuffy cage had just ended, and the mountains of tired, dirty flesh were only too quick to welcome the inviting pool that lay before them. The elephants don't get a chance to bathe with any amount of satisfaction during the winter and spring, and as the summer months draw near, they look forward with eager anticipation to the daily outing. Empress, the charming young widow, of 27 years, has for a long time been afflicted with rheumatism, and last summer the keepers had any amount of trouble over her ailments. As a result some of them had a conversation in front of her cage a few weeks ago to the effect that if the rheumatism reappeared it would not be advisable to let her bathe this summer. The keepers noticed that Empress appeared to be listening very intently. Whether it was this conversation that did it or not will probably never be known, but it is certain from that hour her majesty's rheumatics began visibly to improve.

There are three elephants altogether, Empress, Jennie, and last, but by no means least, Bolivar, Fourpaugh's old There's a murmur in the maples, a mountain of viciousness. He couldn't for India.

And he died before their honeymoon was end-ed, and for a time the world seemed desolate. But a playful splash from Jennie brought her back to the present and she would start in and enjoy herself again.
