It Is Said That Provincial Government Is Contemplating Bringing in a Bill Which Will Cut Off Drinking Places Close to Cities of Over Twenty-Five Thousand.

It is understood in London that the Provincial Government at the next session of the Legislature will introduce a bill abolishing all liquor licenses within a radius of three miles of all cities having a population of 25,000 or over.

This demand has been made by the temperance people, The Advertiser is informed, and it will be granted.

The passing of this law would make some difference to London, as it would mean the cancellation of three, probably four, licenses, in this vicinity. It is certain that the Homister House, on the Hamilton road, the Barnes House, and Evans House at Pottersburg would be cut off. It. is possible that the Graham Hotel on the Hamilton road would be closed, even though local option should be defeated next year in London Township.

The temperance people of London and vicinity will back the proposal, it is stated, whether local option carries in London Township or not.

BRITISH CROPS RUINED

London, Aug. 23.—The wintry weather spoken of in last Saturday's dispatches continued this week with the most alarming results to agriculture. Some crops have been ruined and others greatly damaged.

The destruction is not general, but practically every river valley and low-lying area suffered tremendously. The hay crop in these districts has been almost completely spoiled, and nowhere is it good. The potato crop is in the same condition. Peas, beans, oats and much fruit and vegetables are bad. The tomato crop outdoors has been ruined.

The disease which is spreading to crops under glass is threatening disaster. Root crops, such as turnips, are alone good. Wheat and barley are fair, and may be garnered in moderately good condition if the rain soon holds up.

Some districts have been exceptionally favored by the weather, and have been able to keep up the harvesting, but even in these the quality of the crops has been affected adversely.

SURVEYORS ARE WORKING ON LINE

Grand Trunk Railway Men Are Now Engaged Near Aylmer.

LIKE BUSINESS

It Appears Now That the Port Burwell Branch Will Have Its Terminal in London.

It is stated today that the Grand Trunk will continue their Port Burwell line to London, as originally announced. Construction work has been going on for some time on the section from Port Burwell to Aylmer, the line having been previously surveyed and staked out.

Some time ago rumors were afloat to the effect that Aylmer would be the terminus for the spur, and that it would not be extended to London.

However, a gang of surveyors have been engaged during the past few days in the vicinity of Belmont, and land has been bonded there for a depot and freight shed.

Today a dispatch from Aylmer to The Advertiser states that a gang of surveyors have arrived in that town and are laying out '- line north of Aylmer towards London.

It is very evident from this that the company will at one go ahead and construct a line direct to this city to handle their coal and other freight

The road will all be completed within a year's time, it is stated. The new line will be brought in from the east end of the city, probably joining the main line east of Egerton street.

"The company will extend their line to London undoubtedly," said a Grand Trunk official to The Advertiser, "The stretch of track is not very long, and it will mean more efficient handling of coal. Surveyors are at work, and will soon, have the preliminary work

Farmers Have Nothing to Worry About

The farners of the northern portion of London Township are satisfied with the crops, and declare it to be one of the best years they have ever had. In the south part it is said conditions are not so good.

Mr. Geo. Mardlin stated to The Advertiser that his wheat had threshed 37 bushels to the acre, and he expected his oats to produce 60 bushes to the acre. Some oats which were cut during the wet spell are spoiling, and a few farmers will suffer a loss there, as the oats will be only good for coarse feeding, but on the whole, the crops are more than fair.

"The oats are heavy, and with fine weather, the larger amount of the crop will be harvested," Mr. Mardlin concluded. "The farmers of the north portion of London Township never had a better year, and we are satisfied. From the cattle standpoint, it could not be better. Dairying is the same way. There will be a little loss on oats, but nothing to worry much about."

are beginning to realize that right here in Western great opportunities for acquiring wealth and independence in the proper cultivation of even a few acres of land. In some districts farmers sell more than fifteen hundred dollars' worth of produce off five-acre farms, and more than five thousand dollars' worth off fifty-acre farms. Some of the farms we have for sale are owned by men who wish to sell in order to go to the West, but most of them are owned by men who are selling in order to buy more or less land in Ontario, or who wish to exchange for larger or smaller farms in other localities in Ontario. Now is the ime to buy a farm in Ontario.

LONDON, SATURDAY, AUG. 24.

RADICALISM IN CANADA.

The Ridgetown Dominion sadly remarks that "a real Radical in Canada has no party home." In Australia and New Zealand, and recently in Great Britain, there has been a great advance of Radicalism. Canada tends to react, towards a sluggish Conservatism. What are the reasons?

A protective tariff might be accused by Radical free-traders, but Australasia is protectionist. The influence of the United States might be supposed to be a drag on Canada. The United States has been intensely conservative in the strait-jacket of its constitution, but even in the United States today there is a radical ferment unknown in Canada.

There is something in the difference of character between the original settlers of Canada and Australasia, Our cousins were more adventurous. miners and bushmen, a more unconventional class. Canadians come from U. E. Loyalists, an intensely conservative stock, or from quiet husbandmen bred on feudal estates of old England, or in Highland glens strong in tradition, or in Ireland of Catholic or Orange persuasion, and coming to live uneventful lives on rolling plains. Australasia lives in mining camp, wild bush and populous city; in Canada until lately, the farm has been the prevailing unit.

'The immense isolation of Australasia has made its people less heedful of things old and worn. Merely being the Artinodes, the sole inhabitable continent of the Southern Cross, a land where swans are black and all things different, suggests turning human affairs topsy-turvy to the suspicious eye of a dyed-in-the-wool Tory. Why reverence custom where Christmas comes at midsummer and Easter in the fall? Canada in closer touch with England. and flanked by her, institutional replica, the United States, does not fly off from the beaten track.

In this country also there has alavs been plenty of land for the individual settler. The battle against land usurpers, known on a small scale in Prince Edward Island, and to some slight degree even in Ontario, in days gone by, has been a desperate matter and one cause of radicalism in Australasia The land is as yet the safety valve of Canadian life. Necessity is the mother of Radicalism, and . the father of it is freedom from or disregard of distracting circumstances. Foreign war is one distraction used from time immemorial by privileged castes or combines against the masses. Internal racial strife is another condition that privilege always does well to foster.

If Canadian politics are often wanting in sincerity or in interest, one thing to blame for it is the constant agitation going on in which English are incited against French, Protestants against Roman Catholics, and viceversa. The Conservative member for West Peterboro, in the House of Commons, confessed that not reciprocity more than an anti-Catholic cry had beaten Laurier in Ontario. So long as mean, sordid, unreal, to the extent that such agitation is carried on. There is small issue between stand-pattism and Radicalism under these conditions.

But necessity is beginning to point so such an issue. The land valve will not work for ever. The rising cost of living-not foodstuffs alone, but the products of combine-governed industries is one thing that will precipitate a real fight within no long period in this country. The worm will be forced to turn against restricted markets, unfair incidence of taxation complicated and cumbrous law, and organized money power. Sooner or later Canadians will have to abandon their bickerings over race and creed: and address themselves to real questions of politics. Then will arise a tidal wave of radicalism.

The Liberal party has done something in the past, but it will only justify itself in the future by increasing radicalism, Mr. Mackenzie King perceived the need of the time, and pointed the only true and progressive path of Liberalism, the path of radicalism which alone Liberalism may take and be saved. Last year Sir Wiffrid Laurier made a brave attack on the tariff and market problems, but his enemies dexterously making use of race feeling and Quebec Nationalism contrived to defeat a truly patriotic policy for the time being. Liberalism must deepen the radical tendency already suggested by Mr. King. It is only fair to say that there are in the Conservative party men like the editor of the Ridgetown Dominion, a former member of the Ontario Legislature, in favor of an ada handful of Conservatives. In future such men may get a home in a more radical Liberal party. At present our somewhat artificial politics makes strange bedfellows. Men are frequently aligned more by religious or racial prejudices than by properly political convictions.

Liberalism must set itself to solve questions of taxation in a radical spirit. The Toronto Star proposes a tax on the capital of corporations as a departure in the near future. We have made as yet no move in Canada to place any super-tax on wealth. Millionaires are being made in this country every day. The Government ought to utilize them for public needs. An income tax on New Zealand lines, a land values tax, various forms of direct taxation, are strange to a country acquainted mainly with the indirect methods of a tariff. The time is approaching for a more incisive and progressive declaration on many such matters by Canadian Liberalism. It must become more radical, and it is becoming so.

WANTED, AN INCREMENT TAX.

It is bad enough that a progressive modern city should have to tolerate a system of taxation that permits exploiters to reap a profit of $12,000,000, as a reward for the genius which subdivides 2,000 acres of farm land. It is infinitely worse that a progressive modern city should sur render to the sub-dividers who ask that the $4,000,000 that must be spent in the translation of farm land into city property should be paid either by the purchasers of lots or the taxpayers of the city.-Toronto Telegram.

There is a good deal in what the Telegram says, and there would be more if it would substitute "a progressive modern province" for "a progressive modern city", in its indict-

The Toronto boom has in the past few years put more unearned money ieto the pockets of individuals than the sum total of the Provincial revenue in the same period. It is time this province tapped a new source of revenue by an increment tax. In Great Britain the Government, under the Lloyd George budget, colthe price of every parcel of property that changes hands, provided the increase has been more than 10 per cent. and has not been due to improvements by the owner. One half of this is kept by the Government for national uses, the other half goes to the municipality where the tax is collected. Land which has a purely agricultural value is exempted; the tax is aimed at the land which has a value for building

A provincial impost- of this kind would have put many millions into the trasury of Ontario and into the coffers of Ontario municipalities where land values have risen rapidly. The city of Toronto would have supplied the bulk of it, but the growth of Toronto has been contributed to by the people whole province, and they would be entitled to share in the proceeds of an increment revenue, through the provincial exchequer. That is the principle of the British tax. There could be no juster levy for public ob-

A WELSH BY-ELECTION.

The return of a Liberal in almost any Welsh constituency is a foregone conclusion. There is no new significance in the Government's victory in Carmarthen; it was in the main a reaffirmation of the desire of the majority of the Welsh people for disestablishment. The combined Liberal and Labor vote was 7,171, the Unionist vote 3,354. It may safely be said that all the opponents of disestablishment, the from me, is not inconsistent with their dominating issue in Wales at present, voted for the Unionist.

The increase of the Unionist poll by 1,049 and of the Liberal by 257 may be explained in part by the plural voting system. Many electors with widely-distributed property, have votes in ten to thirty constituencies. Not all things are like this, politics will be of these can be polled in a general election, even though it is spread over a fortnight. In a by-election all the non-resident electors may vote if they desire, and each party puts forth every exertion to bring them in. The bulk of them are Unionists, because the bulk of the propertied class are of that party. It may be readily understood why the Unionists are so resolutely opposed to the manhood franchise bill, which limits one man to one vote. It will wipe out at one stroke between 500,000 and 600,000 plural

> In the election of 1895 the popular only 104,000, and in the election of 1900 want the market and the business it was only 123,000, including plural now, not ten years hence. The farmit was only 123,000, including piural ers love their country just as much as in his language, so constitutionally votes, yet in each case the Unionists the city dwellers, and no argument has incorpolate of seeing that the other falwill be seen that the elimination of will lose any prestige, money or population by the addition of a foreign market in a country boasting a nonu-Unionist prospects. It is said they fear lation of nearly one hundred millions it more than home rule and disestablishment put together, and that they are trying to rouse Ulster to fury with Rev. James Ross, M. A., D. Ruskin's Influence on English Workingmen

By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Whether it is because conditions are so different on this continent, or because there is a lighter spirit abroad, I know not, but this I do know, that there is a far keener appetite for serious reading in England than in Canada. The reason why there is so much Laurier because he is going West.

The average man gets more comfort ciety were rightly organized, the life of cultivated leisure would not be the privilege of the few, but the possession of the many."

To judge from an article in "The Sunday Chronicle," the laborites of England read most assiduously Ruskin's economic essays in his book, "Unto This Last." The Chronicle man calls this work "the finest example I know of the sheer power of literature, of the sheer force of words rightly put together." He proceeds in this vein, "In the middle of the nineteenth century the science of economics was held in high esteem because it was thought to teach men and nations of men how most easily to produce the greatest amounts of wealth, and, to be quite fair to it, it did and does teach that. It is by her obedience to the dictates of the economists that England has accumulated that vast wealth the contemplation of which gives such eestasies to statisticians. To these sorts of persons Ruskin came asking some uncommonly awkward questions. He asked them, for example, to be good enough to define their terms, such as "wealth," "value," "utility," and so on, and, when they obliged him, as the debt of his church was paid, and it took the parishioners ten years to pay many of them, such as Ricardo and tion of style matchless in English literature, analyzed their definitions, showed them to be often self-contradictory, empty and meaningless, throwing no light whatever on the subject which they were supposed most brilliantly to illumine."

Ruskin was on the right side. The working classes of his day, as today, labored under unjust and miserable conditions, but Ruskin would have done more for them than he did do, great as was his influence, if he had tempered his ire. Forget Him. Dear Miss Grey: I have been reading and taking your advice in The Ad-

1. I traded a tiepin for my ring and I have lost the tiepin, so I bought another and paid $3.50 for it; then when I gave it to the boy, he found out I'd paid $3.50 for it, and he said the first one was a 50-cent one. And, as before, he was over three times a week, now he never comes.

Please tell me what to do to win back his love.

P. S.—My ring has not yet been returned.

A.—Don't you think that, considering his actions you would be wise to ignore and forget him.

Likes to Tease Him.

Dear Miss Grey: I have been seriously in love with a girl (L. M.). When I meet her, she confesses her love and then she tells her friends she jollied me, and then she keeps away from me for a few weeks and goes about with many other fellows.

A.—Don't take a girl like this seriously. She is fooling you, and the more woe-begone you look, the greater her enjoyment in tormenting you. Transfer your devotion to more promising fields.

A.—Sweet cucumber pickles: Lay small cucumbers in brine three days, then drain and lay in fresh water a day. Line a kettle with grape leaves and arrange the cucumbers in it in layers, scattering a pinch of alum over each layer. Cover with cold water and three layers of leaves. Fit a lid on the kettle and steam the pickles (without letting them boil) over a slow fire six hours. Drain the cucumbers, throw into cold water and when they are firm pack in jars. Fill the them a story; draw on your imagination and see how interesting you can with a cupful of sugar to each quart, as plain white or black net veil, as ation and see how interesting you can with a cupful of sugar to each quart, eight whole cloves, eight black pep-pers, six allspice and six blades of mace. Dear Miss Grey: I am in love with a girl but sixteen years of age. I am twenty-two, and her parents do not consent to my attentions to her on account of the linerence of age. We love each other dearly. A.—You are so young you can afford to wait. I have a notion her parents' objections are not on account of the difference in your ages, but because of her extreme youth. In that they are right, and you must respect their opinlon by keeping away.

To Cure Nose Bleed

[By a Physician.]

Bleeding of the nose is frequently caused by heat. There are several simple remedies which will stop it. One of the simplest, which seems so ordinary that people often re-fuse to do it, is to double up a piece of paper and chew it vigorously. Or if the paper is not available, action of the jaws, as in mastication, will have the same effect.

Often bleeding of the nose will stop if the nostrils are held firmly together for a few minutes. Ice applied to the bridge of the nose, the nape of the neck; snuffling up into the nostrils ice water or vinegar are all available means stopping the effusion.

It is so sure to win that the only safeguard parents can throw around a girl to prevent her from loving the type of man they abhor, and which she in her sane moments abhorred, is to limit her acquaintance to the type of men they approve. Girls are permitted acquaintance with men who are not desirable as friends, and much less desirable as sweethearts. It has been said, and it is proven every day, that a father will permit a young man to take his daughter out with whom he would not trust his horse.

MOTHERS LAX. And mothers are just as lax. They know their daughters have made a new acquaintance. Often they do not know how, and usually they don't know whom. more natural is the water wave. This lasts well on some hair, even on straight hair, while with other girls it is not successful. Failure is usually due to oil in the hair. The hair is wet and brushed out from the forehead with a comb for about an inch and held in place with small hairpins. This is repeated until the entire face is circled. Then another section of the hair is combed up and again pinned in place, the process being repeated until the entire head is covered with a series of little ridges. Allow this to dry, remove the pins and a natural wave will be the result.

When brushing the hair draw the brush firmly over the scalp and down the entire length of the hair in one stroke. The short stroke is liable to break the hair.

Ankle Habits

Have you a pretty ankle? If you can answer in the affirmative, you are a fortunate maid or matron, but still have one more question to ask, and I do hope you will not take it amiss, writes Nancy Hollis Gardiner. Have your ankles any bad habits? "What an odd question," I hear a melodious voice say. Not odd at all, fair lady, if you but stop to consider. Since there are foolish and unbecoming habits of face and figure and handr

Rad ankle habits have always existed, but they were not commented upon, for the simple reason that the long skirts which were the mode up to seven or eight years ago prevented anyone from seeing the ankles, much less criticising their appearance or behavior,

All this has changed, as the short, have been the skirt and low shoe have been the means of thrusting the ankles into the public eye, and as a consequence their faults and shortcomings a matter of criticism. Since the ankle is in the limelight, it behooves you not only to make it as pretty as possible but, which is just as important, if not more so, slough all foolish foot and ankle habits. For instance, do not sit with your feet crossed—at least when wearing a short skirt—or with one foot on the ground and the other resting on the side of the sole of the shoe. Another bad foot and ankle habit is to sit with your toes elevated while the weight of the foot rests upon the heels. Last, but not least, do not, I pray you, wind one or both ankles around chair or table legs, unless you want to look ridiculous as well as ungrace.

"That I cannot tell you—now," repiled Girard quietly. "But in a short time you will understand everything."

The Prefect began to walk up and down the room, his head bent, in deep thought. Clearly Girard was in earnest in his statements, yet how could it be possible for him to have such definite knowledge of Duvall's safety, when he had been closely confined ever since the latter's disappearance? Madame Tissot did not appear to be at all downcast as the result of her night in fell. "Cheer up, mon ami," she said to La Rue, who stood near her, a mest dismal expression upon his face. "All will soon be over."

"No, Monsieur, it is not. In this case, however, I felt that my actions were entirely justified. The Count D'Este had defrauded his nice of the money, and I undertook to get it back for her."

"Yes, Monsieur. He is one of the greatest scoundrels in Paris."

"It will require more than your words, my man, to make me believe that, "said the Prefect, wheeling suddenly upon him and frowning. "Monsieur D'Este is a gentleman of the highest standing, and it is not likely that his reputation will be affected by the words of a self-confessed thief."

Again Girard shrugged his shoulders. "If you do not believe what I say, Monsieur, no doubt you will attach more importance to the words of your assistant, portance to the words of your assistant, Mr. Duvall."

"You think, then, that provided he is still alive, he will bear out what you say?"
"I am convinced of it. Monsieur."
The Prefect returned to his desk in a state of considerable doubt. Glrard spoke as though he meant every word that he uttered, and yet the whole story seemed on the face of it absurd. He determined to proceed with the examination, and, with this in view, placed his hand upon the electric bell on his desk. He was about to ring it when Girard took a step forward and raised his hand. "One thing more, Monsieur the Prefect," he ex-imed.

"Well, what is it?" The Prefect paused Girard glanced toward the door in the wall benind Monsieur Lefevre's desk. "May I ask, Monsieur," he said, "where that door leads to?"

The Prefect was unable to restrain his surprise at this most unusual question, and he glanced at Girard with ill-concealed suspicion. "To my private office," he replied.

Girard gave an exclamation of satisfaction. "After you have concluded your examination of me, Monsieur," he said earnestly, "will you be so good as to have me taken into that room?"

"What for?" The Prefect's tone was not encouraging. "Believe me, Monsieur, I have a most excellent reason for my request. I will, of course, be in the custody of one of your men. Under the circumstances I shall be quite harmless." He laughed carelessly, and the Prefect could not help a feeling of wonder that a man of so pleasant and agreeable a personality should be found among the ranks of criminals. "Very well," he said, apparently much mystified; "although I confess I do not quite see the reason for

"Certainly." The Prefect was clearly "Certainly." The Prefect was clearly annoyed at the prisoner's impertinence. "It is locked safely away, my man, where you will not be able to get at it."

"I have no desire to do so, Monsieur. All. I wish is that the money should be turned over to Miss Ellicott."

"That is quite impossible, as you very well know," remarked the Prefect graveiv "Of courses should the young lady".

There was a knock upon the door, and a moment later it was opened by Vernet, who ushered in the Count D'Este and his nephew, followed by Madame Tissot and Immediately behind them came Grace Ellicott in charge of a gendarme. She was much distressed, and her pale cheeks and heavy eyes proclaimed clearly that she had spent a sleepless night. The Prefect was greatly touched at the sight. What Girard had told him had made him think that perhaps there was something after all in the story which she had told in explanation of her visit to Madame Tissot's house. He acknowledged the greeting of the Count and his nephew

"You admit that you stole the one million francs?" he suddenly inquired.
"Yes, Monsieur. The money belonged to Miss Ellicott, and it was for that reason that I returned it to her last night. She was entirely free from any guilt in the matter. I took the money without her knowledge."

"No one," sile half sobbed, "except—except Mr. Duvall."

Seed pearls, the dainty little white globules set close together in myriads in all sorts of quaint designs, are enjoying a pronounced revival, and in Paris are considered the smartest nov-elty in the jewelry line. With the pic-turespue modes in dress nothing could be more suitable and becoming than these odd pieces of old-fashioned workmanship—or its imitation, in most cases—and one virtue of the tiny pearls is that the modish ornaments of very large size do not look clumsy when made of these, as they do in heavy gold and silver set with other precious stones. Even earrings may be long and intricate in design without appearing to be a dead weight.

CHAPUT PITCHED

Brantford, Aug. 24.-Young Roy Colhins, the new southpaw pitcher recent-ly secured by Brantford out of the New England League, proved too much for the visiting Kockneys here yesterday. Brantford won, 3 to 0, Collins striking out ten of the London teams. The work of Umpire Blake was anything but satisfactory to Manager Barrett and his crew, and several of his decisions favored the home team and looked off color. Chaput Was Good. Chaput, who proved the undoing of Brantford frequently last year, posed Young Collins in the box, and pitched clever ball. He, however, par-tially assisted the Red Sox to score. In the second inning, a wild pitch advanced Ivers to third, the runner scoring on a fielder's choice. It looked as burn. Time of game—1:25. Burlesque Exhibition of Yesterday Will Hurt Professioal Ball in Hamilton.

Hamilton, August 23 .- Ottawa made a burlesque out of today's game, owing to the fact that Cook had but ten men in uniform, and one of them, Hopper, was a cripple. The league leaders showed a very indifferent spirit, and the spectators thought it was because they had the pennant cinched, and hissed them. The exhibiton did much to hurt the game here for the balance of the season, as

Goods, and Tells How He Has Brought "Basement Champions" Within Reach of the Pennant.

[By Clarke Griffith.]

Why is Washington? This question is perplexing baseball fans the country over. Picked to win the basement championship, with an outside chance to finish seventh, the Nationals loom up as a strong pennant contender. "The showing of the Washington club is a mistake." "The team is travelling away above its speed."

"The club will take the ascension that has been predicted." These are a few of the opinions expressed by fandom, ever since the club startled the baseball world by winning 17 straight games, 16 on foreign grounds.

The Washington club is not a mistake. It is not going to capture its usual honor, the cellar championship. It is not going to blow. The Nationals are a well-balanced ball club, playing ball that wins, and are gonig to have a whole lot to say as to what American League team shall play in the world's series.

Critics say that with the exception of Walter Johnson, Washington has while Howard Shanks, while not a great hitter, is a brilliant outfielder.

Prior to the start of the season, I realized that the Washington infield must be reconstructed. I had one real star infielder, George McBride, to build

I decided that Morgan, a third baseman, would not do at that posi-tion, so I shifted him to second. Ed-die Foster, a star at short, was sent to third. These youngsters have justified my confidence, and if not stars today, will be in the near future.

First base loomed as the one big problem. Washington for the first six weeks looked no better than a second division club to me. I figured a good first baseman would round it out. Folks thought I was crazy when I paid $10,000 for "Chick" Gandil, but he changed the Nationals from a second division club into a pennant contender.

Gandil now is the best first baseman in the American League, if not the majors.

Another reason for Washington's rise is the catching department. John Henry and Eddie Ainsmith have no superiors, while Al. Williams is a mighty good extra receiver. Of course, Johnson is the star of the pitching staff, but Bob Groome, Tom Hughes, Carl Cashion, Jim Vaughan and Barney Pelty are pretty fair pitchers.

Why is Washington? Because it is a high-class ball club; a team that star has no chance to win a pennant.
I dispute the oft-printed statement that Johnson is the only star on the chance to win a great outfielder? Cobb, Speak-team that never quits until the last

Detroit Dropped Two Games to Washington Yesterday--Dubuc Lasted but Three Innings.

NINE HITS OFF CASHION

Washington Had Same Number of Bingles, But They Were Made at More Opportune Times.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Two ball games that could not have been more widely divergent in their character were added to Washington's won column at Detroit's expense in today's double-header. In the opener the Nationals triumphed 8 to 1, and it was always safe because of the pitching the team was being given by Johnson. The second number closed with a 6 to count, and was a desperate battle from start to finish. Detroit had had this the more effective pitching in contest, and should have won half a dozen runs to spare, Johnson and Dubuc, rival stars of the two teams, opposed in the first game, and the Kansan made his record 16 in a row. Dubuc lasted only three innings, two home runs, by Foster and Moeller, in the third, sending him to shelter. John son was never in danger. Cashion pitched the second game, and a youngster named McGehe, from Vicksburg, Miss., started for Detroit. The latter pitched to only two betters. batters, Milan walking and Foster hitting for a base. Then Lake went in and did great work until the eighth, when he weakened. Second Game the Best.

This game was the real feature of the fray. Johnson's was too easy. Cashion walked eight men, had three wild pitches, and destroyed one catcher. Henry being forced to retire at the end of the seventh because of being bruised in so many places. Yet with all of this, the Tigers got but four with all of this, the Tigers got out four runs. Superb support in the eight places told the story. Besides this all of the breaks came Washington's way. In the second game, the Tigers rah wild in an effort to rattle Cashion and his support, and twice tried double The two fastest men on the Although Newark made nearly twice as club, Cobb and Bush, both were cut many hits as Toronto the Leafs took the second game of the series by 4 to 3 third and first and no one out. Owing to the recent heavy rains, which have been general throughout the district, the crop situation has been very materially affected, and the yield will, it is feared, be somewhat reduced.

Crop Bulletin. The following statement regarding crop conditions in the province, based all distances. In 1908 he defeated Hefferon in the South African Marathon trials, but the judges thought that the result was a fluke and McArthur wasn't built for a distance runner. Hefferon was picked, and finished second to Hayes. Had McArthur been picked for those games, there might have been a different story to tell.

Fall Wheat—This crop received a serious setback in April from alternate thawing and freezing, which killed out an area estimated to be about one-third of the crop, leaving many field very patchy. Thus handicapped, fall wheat has not come up to the standard of recent years in the matter of general yield. The crop also has been very upeven in ripening. has been very uneven in ripening, which has delayed harvesting, making it about two weeks later than the very early cut of last year. Some were caught by showery weather at the time of cutting, and several reports were made of some of the crop sprouting in the shock, but the bulk of the grain is reported to be of fair quality. The straw is of medium length, and there are more complaints of rust than usual. Yields range from 10 to 35 bushels per acre. The Lake Erie counties are the poorest of the fall wheat districts so far as yield and general conditions are concerned.

Spring Wheat—Comparatively little spring wheat is now raised in this province, but where grown, the Wild Goose variety is the favorite. The crop was ripening slowly for lack of sunshine when correspondents report ed. The straw was short, owing to dry eather early in the summer, but the heads were well filled, and a good average yield was anticipated.

Barley—There will be a fair yield of plump barley in nearly every county in the province, although individual reports show considerable variance. Not-withstanding much wet weather at harvesting, there are not many com-plaints of discoloration of the grain. The straw, however, is short, owing to drouth in the period of mid-growth.

12 As in the case of the other cereals, harvesting is comparatively late, run-ning from July 25 to Aug. 15.

Oats-Notwithstanding what was much rain in the spring, oats developed into a first-class crop; for although the straw is hardly up to the considered as a poor start standard in length, it is usually clean and presentable, while the heads are well filled and give a good yield.

There has been some "lodging" from heavy rains, but so far cutting has not been unduly difficult. Harvesting began in some places on the 5th of August but the bulk of it was not ungust, but the bulk of it was not un-der way until a week later, and owing to late ripening some will not be through cutting until the end of 'the month. spring, but the yield and quality will be good, taking the province as a whole.

Peas—Peas are doing better this year on the average than for several seasons, although the yields reported vary from 5 to 30 bushels an vary from 5 to 30 bushels an acre, some of the crop having been affected by the wet spring weather, followed by the intense heat of early summer. A portion of the crop is yet green, and pulling is expected to continue from the 12th of August into the first week of Sentember. In recent years, while

The weather at the time of planting was too wet and cold for the best results, and much of the seed rotted or otherwise failed to germinate, necessitating considerable replanting. A period of drought early in the ates. growing season, and prolonged dull and cool weather following, have comand the crop at present is backward in appearance. Several reports point out that the Colorado potato bug has not been as plentiful this summer as usual. Casual mention only is made of blight or rot.

The chief drawbacks were weather at the time of sow ng, followed by a period of drouth, which ren-dered some fields rather patchy. some of the crop having been affected by the wet spring weather, followed by the intense heat of early summer. A portion of the crop is yet green, and pulling is expected to continue from the 12th of August into the first week of September. In recent years, while there has been an increase in the acreage raised for canning purposes, there has been a considerable falling off in the growing of peas for the barn, but some correspondents claim that this year's improvement in the crop will likely encourage the sowing of a larger area. The newer districts of Northern Ontario have excellent reports concerning the yield and general prospects of peas.

Beans—This crop is also a late one this season, being only in the blossoming, and early podding stage, when correspondents reported. The comparatively cool and wet midsummer was not considered favorable to beans; nevertheless, it is estimated that the crop will be about an average.

Hay—Adverse conditions of the weather in April gave a poor start to the growth of timothy and clover this year, but the fields soon rallied, and taking the Province over, there has been a fair crop of hay of good quality, notwithstanding the wide range of yield. Timothy is said to have been relatively better than clover, The cutting ranged from June 22 to the end of July.Some correspondents aver that harvesting was delayed owing to the lack of farm labor. Owing to the recent heavy rains, which have been general throughout the district, the crop situation has been very materially affected, and the yield will, it is feared, be somewhat reduced.

Crop Bulletin.
The following statement regarding rop conditions in the province, based upon returns of correspondents under date of Aug. 12, has been issued by the Ontario department of agricul-

Fall Wheat-This crop received a serious setback in April from alter-nate thawing and freezing, which nate thawing and freezing, which killed out an area estimated to be about one-third of the crop, leaving many field very patchy. Thus handicapped, fall wheat has not come up to the standard of recent years in the matter of general yield. The crop also has been very uneven in ripening, which has delayed harvesting, making it about two weeks later than the very t about two weeks later than the very early cut of last year. Some were caught by showery weather at the time of cutting, and several reports were made of some of the crop sprouting in the shock, but the bulk of the grain is reported to be of fair quality. The straw is of medium length, and there are more complaints of rust than usual. Yields range from 10 to 35 bushels per acre. The Lake Erie counties are the poorest of the wheat districts so far as yield and general conditions are concerned.

Spring Wheat—Comparatively little spring wheat is now raised in this province, but where grown, the Wild Goose variety is the favorite. The crop was ripening slowly for lack of sunshine when correspondents reported. The straw was short, owing to dry eather early in the summer, but the heads were well filled, and a good

the heads were well filled, and a good average yield was anticipated.

Barley—There will be a fair yield of plump barley in nearly every county in the province, although individual re-ports show considerable variance. Notwithstanding much wet weather at harvesting, there are not many complaints of discoloration of the grain.
The straw, however, is short, owing to drouth in the period of mid-growth.
As in the case of the other cereals, harvesting is comparatively late, run-ning from July 25 to Aug. 15.

Oats-Notwithstanding what was considered as a poor start from much rain in the spring, oats developed into a first-class crop; for although the straw is hardly up to the standard in length, it is usually clean and presentable, while the heads are well filled and give a good yield.
There has been some "lodging" from

Interest today centred in the struggle between the east and the west, when San Francisco once more met Philadeuphia and the McLoughlin-Clothier match was played on the grandstand court. The Peas—Peas are doing better this gels and sugar beets appear to be year on the average than for several seasons, although the yields reported vary from 5 to 30 bushels an acre, some of the crop having been affected improvement in the outlook. of September. In recent years, while there has been an increase in the acreage raised for canning purposes, there has been a considerable falling off in the growing of peas for the barn, but some correspondents claim that this year's improvement in the crop will likely encourage the sowing of a larger area. The newer districts of Northern Ontario have excellent ports concerning the yield and general prospects of peas.

Beans Are Late.

Beans-This crop is also a late one this season, being only in the blossoming, and early podding stage, when correspondents reported. The comparatively and a late of the stage of the s ting ranged from June 22 to the end of July. Some correspondents aver that harvesting was delayed owing to the lack of farm labor. New seeding in this year's grain is said to be very promising. Alfalfa has also done well this season as a hay crop.

Corn—The corn crop will likely be the poorest for years, for, while some favorable reports have been made, dition of field roots are far from being unanimous, but there are more favorable than unfavorable reports. The chief drawbacks were weather at the time of sowing, followed by a period of drouth, which rendered some fields rather patchy. Mangels and sugar beets appear to be doing relatively better than turnips.

Fruit—Fruit trees, with the exception of peaches, seem to have escaped serious injury from the severe winter. Several correspondents point out that more attention is now being given to spraying and other modern features of orcharding, and with good results. There will be a fairly full yield of fall apples, but the better class of winter varieties will be rather scarce. San Jose scale and caterpillars are still complained of, but very little mention is made of scab. Pears will range from poor to fair in yield, and the same may be said of peaches, one correspondent suggestively saying of the latter, "Good where cared for." Plums will be a fair crop, and the yield of cherries upon the whole has been a good one. Grapes, as usual, give promise of a large yield, although considered a little late in growth this season. Small fruits, with the exception of strawberries, which suffered from drought, have done well.

Lots of Pasture.

Beans—This crop is also a late one this season, being only in the blossoming, and early podding stage, when correspondents reported. The comparatively cool and wet midsummer was not considered favorable to beans; nevertheless, it is estimated that the crop will be about an average.

Hay—Adverse conditions of the weather in April gave a poor start to the growth of timothy and clover this year, but the fields soon rallied, and, taking the Province over, there has been a fair crop of hay of good quality, notwithstanding the wide range of yield. Timothy is said to have been relatively better than clover. The cutting ranged from June 22 to the end of July.Some correspondents aver that

Last Year's Champions Nearly Tied

Rochester, Aug. 23.—The wildness of Jerry Akers, although he allowed the Grays but three hits, beat the champions here today, 2 to 1. A rally in the ninth all but tied the score, Lelivelt's poor footwork getting him nipped at the plate when he tried to score on a long fly. Sline was hit freely, but poor baserunning helped him out. In the opener the Nationals triumphed 8 to 1, and it was always safe because of the pitching the team was being given by Johnson. The sec-ond number closed with a 6 to 4 count, and was a desperate battle from start to finish. Detroit had the more effective pitching in this contest, and should have won with half a dozen runs to spare.

Johnson and Dubuc, rival stars of the two teams, opposed in the first game, and the Kansan made his record 16 in a row. Dubuc his record 16 in a row. Dubuc lasted only three innings, two home runs, by Foster and Moeller, in the third, sending him to shelter. Johnson was never in danger. Cashion pitched the second game, and a youngster named McGehe, from Vicksburg, Miss., started for Details. troit. The latter pitched to only two batters, Milan walking and Foster hitting for a base. Then Lake went in and did great work until the eighth, when he weakened.

PIRIE HAD NO HIT GAME

Merchants' League Star Pitcher Strikes Out Twenty-one in Two Games.

In the Merchants' League at Springbank, the Grocers with Pirie pitching, won a hard game from the Moose, the score being 3 to 2. Pirle did not allow a hit during the entire game, and had he received any kind of support he would have won a shutout. He had eleven strikeouts to his credit, while Brennan for the Moose, had three.

BUTCHERS VS. HYDE PARK. In the second game between the pick of Hyde Park and the local Butchers, Pirie won for the locals, allowing only one scratch hit. C. Myers for the Butchers, caught a grand game, not letting a man steal second. On an error and wild throw by Anderson the rural players scored their lone tally. In this game Pirie had 10 strikeouts to his opponent's 4. The base-running of Fletcher for Hyde Park and of Myers. and Pirle for the Butchers were easily the feature.s A large crowd witnesed both games.

"MAL D'AEROPLANE"

Ascent and Descent Produces Rapid Most Modern Allment.

Paris, Aug. 23.-Mai d'aeropfaneaeroplane sickness-is the most medern of ailments. According to M. Berget it is due to the rapidity with which one reaches a high altitude or the greater rapidity with which the aviator makes his descent. Attitudes of 7,500 to 9,000 feet, he says, are reached by aeroplanes in thirty to forty minutes. The usual aural phenomenon such as buzzing and clacking in the ears balloonists are also experienced by aviators. But it not same with the respiratory organs. Shortness of breath affects the aviator more quickly and to a peculiarly painful degree. During the aeroplane's descent the heartbeats grow stronger, but do not accelerate. The rapid fall, 1,000 to 1,200 feet a minute and sometimes even more rapid, is accompanied by intensified rearing in the ears, the face smarts most severely, hadache sets in and the aviator must exert all his will power to keep from falling asleep. Even after landing all these symptoms continue for a time, together with a considerable increase of arterial tension. M. Berget says that aviators should attempt high altitudes only after having been thoroughly examined by physicians.

Ottawa reports say general trade there shows little change from conditions of a week ago. City retail trade is moderately brisk and wholesalers report the outlook for business excellent. Local districts are busily engaged. Collections are fairly good.

Quebec reports to Bradstreet's say the volume of business done during the week shows improvement, while orders to hand are of an assorting up basis, storekeepers show a willingness to buy. At country points crop reports are generally favorable and results are expected to show up better than anticipated. In the city retail trade is active and the influx of strangers continues. Wholesalers expect to see many out-of-town customers next week, attracted by the exhibition. exhibition

Montreal's Report.

Montreal reports to Bradstreet's say the past week has seen few changes in the trade situation. Retail business has the larger concern will not diller greatly in its objects from the original experiment. The duke's interests in Alberta, it is said, are not to form a part of the new project, but will be retained by him as a private undertaking.

When all details are settled they will proceed on an imposing scheme that will probably rank as unique in colonization work.

From coast to coast tracts of land will be acquired by the company to be settled by tenant farmers from the British Isles. In the charter of the company, it is understood, there is provision for permitting the tenants to acquire their freehold on equitable terms.

The duke and his party intend to visit British Columbia on their present trip, and it is also said that Sir Wm. Mackenzie will go with them. It is further rumored—but of this Sir Willer.

Winnipeg reports say business continues active in all lines. Harvesting is being pushed forward and cutting is now general. Previous estimates of the yield still hold and as far as is set known the grain is in good condition. Travellers are out with sorting lines of goods and they report business good and prospects for later trade excellent. The demand for building materials is a feature of present conditions and prices for peets for later trade excellent. The demand for building materials is a feature of present conditions and prices for lumber, etc., are firm. Builders have been busy in all parts of the country throughout the year, and it is reported that more work has been offering than they have been able to undertake. City, retail trade has been brisk. Collections are inclined to be slow, but improvement is expected with the end of the month.

Vancouver and Victoria reports say both wholesale and retail trade continues brisk at all coast points. General merchandise continues to move freely and prospects for later business continue encouraging. Money is inclined to be in active demand and is firm. Collections are fairly satisfactory. The season's catch of fish has been fairly large. Improvement in noted in the lumber trade following upon the heavy demand in all parts of Canada. Prices are firm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The market closed firm. The one prominent feature of today's dull market was the acute weakness of Canadian Pacific, which add-of this stock was ascribed to the earnest opposition which has arisen in the Dominion over the proposed stock increase.

Dealings otherwise were of minor importance and limited largely to special-ties, such as Snuff and Roebuck, both increasing recent extensive gains. The approaching adjournment of Congress, ordinarily accepted as a bull argument, was apparently not felt.

[Special to H. C. Becher.]

DAIRY PRODUCE WAS RATHER SCARCE TODAY

Vegetable Prices Take a Slump Sept. Ninety Loads of Hay Sold This Week.

Sept.17 85 17 95 17 85 17 92 Lard— There was a splendid market held on the local square today, both from the standpoint of produce to sell and the number of buyers on hand to purchase. The vegetable gardeners and farmers brought enormous quantities of vegetables to the market, and it was surprising the way they were snapped up. By noon many will have returned home with a good tuil purse minus the produce they brought. Vegetables have taken a considerable slump in prices, to the great satisfaction of city consumers, who will now turn vegetarians instead of living on a meat diet. Cauliflowers can be purchased for 90c to 15c a dozen, or 2 heads for 15c. Cucumbers are worth 45c a dozen. Potatoes have lowered to 50c and 60c a bu. and some lower than this. Tomatoes are retailing at 30c and 40c a basket, and seem very choice. Corn is basket, and seem very choice. Corn is basket, and seem very choice. Corn is being sold for 10c to 13c a dozen.

About the only things lacking in quantity are butter and eggs. These are very searce, although splendid prices prevail. Crock butter is worth 26c, print rolls 27c, and 28c to 30c is being paid in the dairy hall.

Eggs are very firm. Prices are 23c and 23%c for crates and basket lots and 25c and 26c in the dairy hall.

and 28c to 38c is being paid in the dary hall.

Eggs are very firm. Prices are 23c and 23½c for crates and basket lots and 25c ard 26c in the dairy hall.

A couple of loads of choice new wheat straw sold for $9 per ton, and half a dozen loads of hay for $14 a ton. One hundred loads of hay have been sold on the market square this week, and there is still a good demand for this brand of fodder. Oats are somewhat scarce. This season's oats are now on sale, and retail at 35c to 40c a bu. Bayers still prefer to purchase last year's at $1 20 per bu., as there is considerable danger in feeding this year's growth to horses.

Fruit is good in alt lines this year. The list of quotations below tell the tale of the prices. This is preserving season, and right now there is as low a price and as good a quality as will be offered all season.

weakness was attributed to the opposi-tion in Western Canada to the proposed stock issue. Outside participation in the stocks today was limited, but from the action of other stocks, such as Amalga-mated Capper, Anaconda and Steel, it is expected that a higher range will be in evidence next week. We think it advis-able to confine trades for the present to the low-priced industrials and equipment stocks. While crop prospects are flatter-ing, it must be taken into consideration that the present price of some of the high-priced ralls has discounted to a degree favorable crops. COBALT STOCKS.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—The mining market was again extremely dull. Balley sold at 4%. Vipond at 26%, and Dome Extension at 10%. Wettlaufer, which has been very weak for some time, showed a little more strength, today and sold up to 37. Hellinger was 12.10 bid, with the stock offered at 12.30. It is rumored that Balley will probably start te ship ore in the near future and there has been a slight demand for the stock. A vein, has been struck in the property next to Ophir and the Ophir people seem to think that the vein runs into their property. The stock was 8½ bid. However, the market was extremely dull generally and there was very little change in prices. [Canadian Press.] Montreal, Aug. 24. — The fall of a hoisting tub in the Canadian Northern tunnel excavation at Dorchester and St. Monique streets caused the death of one man and the serious injury of another early this morning. The dead man is John H. Thomas. John Saith is likely to die. The large steel tub, with a capacity of two tons, was being lifted from the 50-foot exca /4 ...on, where the men were working, when it slipped and fell back, dumping its load of earth upon the six men, who were flower girl. About 50 guests were pres-working beneath. Four of the men, ent, and immediately after the cerejumped back in time to prevent serious injuries, but the other two were crushed beneath the weight of the falling earth.

Death Warrant of the Gay Queen Marie Antoinette Is Found in a Musty Old Washington Garret-Tragic Relic of Romance and Terror

Marie Antoinette's death warrantfatal relic of the tragic romance of a gay, famous French queen-has been found in a dusty old garret in Washington, D. C.

The long lost document which sent Louis XVI's widow to her doom on the guillotine 119 years ago was picked out of a trunk, unopened for 40 years. With it were other papers bearing signatures of princes and princesses, lords and ladies of the court of Louis Quinze. The finder is William H. Freeny, manager of a tailor shop.

Placed in the public archives in Paris and stamped with the seal of the legislative section of the national document room, the death warrant of Marle, the Austrian, remained in its glass case for four years following her death. One day Henri Samson, the public executioner who officiated at the guillotine when the head of Marie was severed—Oct. 16, 1793—walked through the halls of the temple. He saw the order for the death of Marie Antoinette and extracted it from its case, together with three smaller slips glass case for four years following her case, together with three smaller slips

LITERARY NOTES

"When Folks Was Folks." [By Elizabeth L. Blunt.]

In 1845, when the veterans of eighteen-twelve" gathered at the Brick store in Ravenna, a village in Central New York, to discuss Clay and Webster, Calhoun and Randolph-that was the time "When Folks Was Folks."

Quaint and "homey" is this story of experiences and observations during the days when people led "the simple life." Those were the days when maiden aunts were persons of high importance to the children of the household, when, indeed, maiden aunts vied with grandmothers to tell the best stories out of Pictorial Bibles, when every girl was taught to sew and card and spin and knit her own stockings, when quilting parties were the favorite entertainments, when all respectable persons remembered the Sabtath day to keep it holy.

We will all be interested in this story of the sweet, old-fashioned provincial life, some of us because it was lived by "Mother," and others because it tells of the girlhood of "Grand-mother." One cannot fail to be pro-foundly impressed with the soudness and wholesomeness of conditions that produced the womanly women whose gentleness is among the treasured recollections of emperiences fast receding into that dim vagueness that we call "the past." THE WAY OUT Change of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

An ambitious but delicate girl, after falling to go through school on account of nervousness and hysteria, found in Grape-Nuts the only thing that seemed to build her up and furnish her the peace of health.
"From infancy," she says, "I have not been strong. Being ambitious to learn at any cost I finally got to the ly.

"My food did not agree with me, I grew thin and despondent. I could not enjoy the simplest social affair, for I suffered constantly from nervousness in spite of all sorts of med."

More Praise For Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings, of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, Bloomsbury. "The heat had made listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active de-sire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe, and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Ham-liton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food, and I digested it reasonably well. Then began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Girl Hangs for Eight Hours Over Edge of Precipice, Held by Brother Grasping Her Ckirts, Until Help

Paris, Aug. 20.-The terrible experience which befell a brother and sister a few days ago easily leads the roll of narrow escapes from death in the Alps this summer. For eight long hours Henry Van Goethen, a young German tourist, lay crouched with his feet braced against a boulder, holding the skirts of his sister, Miss Von Goethen, while she hung over a precipice nearly half a mile high.

The girl, with her brother and her fiance, Maurice Sombardier, ascended Mount Saurosse, and in returning to the perilous pathway leading to the the glacier of Domenon, as they were rounding a granite ledge, clinging to Couble rooms, with private bath, the rock with hands and feet, she slipped and slid away towards the edge of the precipice.

> Startled by her shrick for help, the girl's brother and fiance sprang forward just in time to see her disappearing over the verge. The brother threw himself flat on the smooth rock and slid forward just in time to grasp the hem of her skirts as she was going over.

Luckily his foot came against a small projecting boulder on the very edge of the precipice. Beyond that, he was helpless. Sombardler tried to pull the two back, but could not. "Run for help!" the brother cried between gritting teeth, fearful that even the slightest tug in pulling them back might tear his sister's skirt and send her crashing down 2,400 feet into next in the way of personal violence; probably even the suffragettes do not hemselves know. Not since the days of the Fenial have British cabinet ministers been so closely guarded by plain-clothes police officials as at present, owing to the hostility of the militant suffragists. Although Mrs. Pankhurst, on being released from jall after serving part of her sentence for conspiracy, announced that she would not be responsible for the actions of any of her followers until she herself had fully recovered her health, it is significant that this renewed and aggravated campaign of personal violence against those ministers who have most consistently and strenuously opposed wo-man suffrage began soon after the release of Mrs. Pankhurst and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence.

Pick of the Police. The responsibility of Superintendent Quin, ohief of the special or political branch of the criminal investigation department at Scotland Yard, has been doubled. He has detailed the most experienced and trustworthy officials at his disposal to the task of shadowing the ministers. These body-guards follow as unobtrusively as possible, but they are always at hand.

At the present time Premier Asquith is more closely guarded than any of his ministers. The others, who also in constant danger, may placed in the following order of liaoility of attack:

Chancellor Lloyd George, who is warm advocate of votes for women.

Home Secretary McKenna, an opponent of the proposition. Naval Secretary Churchill, who has been turned against votes for women by repeated assaults and annoyances at the hands of the militants. Irish Secretary Birrell, a woman suf-

Colonial Secretary Harcourt, an outspoken opponent. Each of the first four, like Premier Asquith, has two plain-clothes detectives in attendance throughout the day from the time he leaves his house in the morning until he sleep. If they go into the country their "shadows" go too. So trying is the strain of the detectives that they have to be given frequent rests. Apart from the mental anxiety the physical effort of follow-detectives, however, are mo terror. The ministers cannot. It is an open secret that the tremendous strain caused by the knowledge ment has affected the health of more than one minister. Mrs. Birrell, owing to her anxiety or her husband's safety since he was met in a London park and badly set pon by several suffragettes, has felt he strain more than any other minister's wife. She is now-seriously ill, lthough her husband has not been issaulted for some months. Children Are Threatened. In the cases of Premier Asquith, Naval Secretary Churchill, Home Secretary McKenna and Colonial Secre-Harcourt great vigilance is also being exercised by the police as re-gards their children. Premier Asquith's two daughters are old enough o look after themselves, but there have been rumors on more than one occasion that his little son Anthony might be kidnapped. Naval Secretary Churchill has a two-year-old babe and his wife is shortly expecting the stork. Home Secretary McKenna has two babies and Colonial Secretary Har-court also has several young children. Notwithstanding all members of the cabinet in their holiday retreats are carefully guarded by Scotland Yard nen, two suffragettes on bicycles attempted to hold up First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill at Sand-Monday night. wich Churchill had been out for an automobile ride and was within a hundred yards of the residence of Waldorf-Astor, where he was staying, when two women rode their wheels across the road, dismounted and stood boldly in front of his car. Fortunately the speed of the motor had been reduced, only the skill and presence of mind of the chauffeur prevented a serious accident, the car just clearing the shouting, gesticulating women.

The minister's police guard is not confined to members of the plainclothes force. It is now the practice for at least one, more often two or three, uniformed men to be stationed at night outside any house during a dinner or reception at which ministers are expected. The plain-clothes men follow their ministers into every house, hotel, restaurant or public building into which they go where the suffragettes might be lurking.

The detectives' task is no easy one. Although the most daring spirits are now known personally by these detectives the suffragettes still have the advantage of being able to send new assailants from all parts of the country against the ministers. In some cases, too, the women who have carried out assaults have been ladles both by birth and breeding and so able to mingle in the crowd without fear of detection from their appearance, Superintendent Quin has had many hard problems to handle since he has larger and better than ever this year, and entries are pouring in so fast that Secretary Hunt intends to increase his office staff immediately. The number of entries on hand to date exceed that for the same day last year.

The fair grounds are the scene of the greatest activity. Scores of work-men are working daily, rain or shine, to get things in shape. Evidently a great deal of money is being spent on improvements in the grounds and in the buildings as well. The Dundas street entrance, the general office and the band stand have all received fresh coats of paint, and resent a very finished appearance. Six clusters of lights have been installed in the cinity of the main entrance, and the turnstiles at the entrances have been examined and repaired. A stair has been erected at each end of the grandstand from the upper story to the ground, which faciliates a great deal the emptying of the stands when they are crowded. On the stage in front of the grandstand a 75-foot row of footlights have been installed.
