PACKING FIRM CAPITALIZED AT $1,000,000 READY FOR OPERATION IN POTTERSBURG

London To Be Centre of Western Ontario Meat Market — Plant To Take Care of One Hundred Cars Daily—Will Be Great Boon to Farmers and Citizens Alike.

Announcement was made in the city today by Harry M. Todd that a charter to conduct a meat packing company here, under the name of the Producers' Terminal Company, capitalized at $1,000,000, had been received, and the company would likely begin operations in a week's time. The firm has bought the old Canadian Meat Packing Company's building in Pottersburg from A. B. Greer.

The charter calls for a daily capacity of 75 head of cattle and 350 hogs and sheep. The cold storage plant is being enlarged to take care of 100 cars of meat, vegetables, fruit, fish, groceries, poultry, butter and eggs daily.

With the establishment of this company in London, the city will become the seat of the live and dressed meat market of Western Ontario. At present the farmers of this part of Ontario ship their live stock to Toronto. As a result they pay a heavy cost for shipment. Now the farmers will be able to bring their stock to London and sell at the same prices as are paid in Toronto. On live stock this is a saving of 25½ cents per hundredweight, and on fresh dressed meats 63 cents per hundredweight. The short haul delivers the live stock in better condition and less shrinkage. Not only will the farmers benefit by this, but the citizens will be able to purchase meat at a lower price.

Five of the seven who will comprise the board of directors have been chosen, and the remaining two will be local men. Those elected now are: President and general manager, William H. Hamman; vice-president, Alfred Ironside; secretary-treasurer, Clayton Ironside; directors, Harry M. Todd and William J. Howlet.

IMMIGRANTS BROUGHT TO WESTERN ONTARIO TO WORK ON FARMS QUIT JOBS AND SWELL RANKS OF JOBLESS

Ontario Government Employment Bureau Disclaims Responsibility for State of Affairs—New Arrivals Are Handled Exclusively by the Dominion Government Immigration Authorities.

Asserting that it has been brought forcibly to his attention, a prominent city official claims that a goodly number of immigrants who arrived in this district within the past few weeks for farm purposes, do not appear to regard such work as profitable or congenial, insomuch as they have returned to the city. He is inclined to believe that something is radically wrong either with the farm or the applicants. Hundreds have arrived in this city from the Old Country the past winter and have been placed on farms, and many, it is contended, have remained there a few days at the most and then returned to seek the bright lights of the city and swell the ranks of the unemployed.

As before, the management of the local branch of the Ontario Government Employment Bureau is emphatic in disclaiming all blame for this unfortunate circumstance, pointing out again that these various groups of new arrivals are handled exclusively by the Dominion Government through its different immigration officials from the time that they are engaged overseas until the very moment that they reach the farmer for whom they decide to labor.

Although it has been officially announced that all immigration into Canada is suspended indefinitely from now on, the local Government immigration representative expect small groups of settlers to reach London throughout the remainder of May and June.

TRADE BARRIER EVOKES PROTEST

MINERS AND OWNERS ARE TO BE CALLED TO CONFER AGAIN BY LLOYD GEORGE

British Premier Expected To Arrange For Meeting Early Next Week—Will Summon Disputants When Prospects For Satisfactory Settlement Appear Brighter—Clynes Outlines Present Attitude of Strikers.

London, May 14.—Following the conciliatory speech in the House of Commons on the miners' strike situation yesterday by Mr. Lloyd George it was learned unofficially that the premier will bring the miners' leaders and the mine owners' representatives together again for a conference early next week. It is understood that he will take this step as a result of unofficial overtures which have been made during the past 24 hours, and which are regarded as paving the way to a settlement of the strike without humiliation to either side.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Lloyd George was appealed to by J. R. Clynes, chairman of the parliamentary Labor party, to bring the miners and mine owners together. Mr. Clynes said that the miners were in a mood to accept the guidance of their leaders, if offered fair and equitable terms. He had nothing to say concerning taking a ballot of the men.

Stanley Holmes, who has been visiting his mining constituents in Derbyshire, announced that it was certain the miners were determined to see the thing through.

Will Call Conference.

Mr. Lloyd George promised to summon the disputants as soon as there was a chance of a conference proving successful. Continuing, the premier referred to allusions made by speakers during the debate to the patriotism of miners during the war. He said he fully acknowledged the miners had played their part, and he added instances of the sacrifices made by the men to those quoted as arguments that they should be given fair treatment now. Nobody, said the premier, wanted to starve the miners into acceptance of unfair terms, but he must protest against the assumption that the working classes alone are being hit by increased prices and industrial stagnation. The prime minister recalled the sufferings of the clergy as proof of his statement. Mr. Lloyd George repudiated strongly a suggestion Mr. Clynes had made that it would have paid the country to make peace at almost any price. A premature meeting, he said, between the owners and the miners would have done more harm than good.

ATTEMPT TO GET FOUNDER OF SINN FEIN OUT OF JAIL

Efforts To Deliver Arthur Griffiths From Prison Are Frustrated.

Dublin, May 14.—An unsuccessful attempt was made this morning to rescue Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, from his confinement in Mountjoy prison.

An armored car which had recently been captured by the Republicans was used in the attempt to rescue Griffiths. A man in an officer's uniform alighted at the prison gates, which opened to admit the passage of the car, and he and his supposed soldier companions in the motor drove straight to the governor's office, where the governor and his deputy were bound and gagged.

The visitors proceeded to release Griffith and others of the prisoners and were returning to their car when they encountered a party of auxiliaries.

This necessitated a change of course on the raiders' part. Meanwhile a sentry at an elevated point in the prison became suspicious and fired a shot.

Raiders Decamped.

On hearing this, the raiders decamped without the prisoners, but took the armored car, which later was found abandoned.

Arthur Griffith was arrested in Dublin on November 26 last, and lodged in Mountjoy Prison. The grounds for his arrest were not given at the time, but it was explained later that it was due to the desire of the Government to learn if he was responsible for the alleged employment of Republican funds on ambuscades and other operations involving the lives of troops.

The car used by the Sinn Feiners in the attempted rescue is reported to have been captured this morning after a surprise attack in which two of the soldier occupants of the car were wounded. The Sinn Feiners then disguised themselves as members of the crown forces and proceeded to Mountjoy Prison.

The military followed the car when it sped from the prison after the failure of the coup and a fierce fight ensued. The casualties had not been reported up to mid-afternoon.

WILL ASK THE CITY COUNCIL TO ISSUE $300,000 DEBENTURES

Trustees Need This Amount for New Collegiate.

MET FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Board Has $72,600 in Building Fund From Insurance, etc.

No. 3 committee of the board of education decided, at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon, to recommend to the special meeting of the board, which will be held on Monday afternoon, that the city council be asked on Monday night to issue debentures for $300,000 on behalf of the board for the construction of the new Great War Memorial Collegiate Institute.

The contract for the construction of the building is $311,000, and in addition to this there will be the cost of the necessary hardware, electric fixtures, equipment and school furnishings.

The committee have to the credit of the building fund $72,600, made up of $70,000 fire insurance on the old building and $2,600 received for material sold from the ruined building. This amount is considered sufficient enough to take care of $1,000 of the contract price and at the same time cover all additional expenditure necessary in connection with the new school.

COLORFUL DISPLAY OF 'NORTHERN LIGHTS'

Sky Is Filled With Vivid Streamers of Rare Beauty Last Night.

Throughout the greater part of Friday night the heavens were lighted by a colorful display of Aurora Borealis rarely excelled in their splendor. Beginning at about 9 o'clock the "Northern Lights," as they are commonly called, gradually increased in vividness until at midnight one-half the sky was filled with dancing streamers and lights of various hues.

At first they appeared as a dusky bank of greenish lights low above the northern horizon. As this gradually increased in brightness faint streams of light began to creep and waver high in the sky.

It was almost with a burst of fury that the flames of light burst in a grand climax at 12:30 o'clock. One-third of the heavens was filled with a brilliant, surging flare of green and yellow, fringed with pink and deep red, which cast a faint glow over the earth. From this sheet of light wild streamers clutched at the stars beyond the zenith, while all the time clouds of light, torn from their parent body, rushed and played tag through the heaven until they were lost in the southern skies.

It was not until the early hours of the morning that the wonderful meteoric phenomena receded slowly to its bed beyond the northern limits of the sky.

INSURGENT POLES MUST WITHDRAW OR ACTION WILL FOLLOW AT ONCE

Allies May Permit Germans to Send In Troops.

BORDER ATTACK FEARED

Lloyd George Makes Attitude On the Situation Quite Clear.

London, May 14.—Efforts on the part of Polish insurrectionaries to create in the plebiscite area of Upper Silesia a situation similar to that which existed in Fiume during the d'Annunzian regime in that "Dalmatian city are sternly opposed by Great Britain. The attitude of the British Government was made very clear by Mr. Lloyd George, speaking in the Commons yesterday, and it appeared that his words, which lacked nothing of frankness, would call for declarations from chiefs of Allied powers, setting forth their positions."

The Polish Government, whose disavowal of responsibility for the Silesian revolt was sharply challenged by Mr. Lloyd George, would seem to have been placed in a situation where it must take action to end a situation which the prime minister asserted "frightened" him. Official expressions which would indicate the sentiment in Government circles in Warsaw were being awaited with keen interest here today.

An attack on the Poles in Upper Silesia by German forces gathering at Breslau and other cities near the Silesian border is feared, as such an event would be certain to still further complicate an already delicate situation. Mr. Lloyd George, however, indicated that the allies must compel the Polish insurgents to withdraw and leave Upper Silesia to be disposed of by the allies in pursuance to the terms of the Versailles treaty, or they must permit the Germans to take military steps to drive the Poles out of the plebiscite district.

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS CRITICIZE SPEECH OF LLOYD GEORGE

Paris, May 14.—Newspapers of this city today expressed deep regret and considerable surprise over the address made yesterday by Mr. Lloyd George in the British House of Commons, during which he severely arraigned Poland. They declared France desired, in accord with Great Britain, a solution of the Silesian question that would be conformable with justice, but insisted that speeches such as the prime minister made were not of such a nature as to calm the spirits of the French.

The Petit Parisien declared Mr. Lloyd George was "playing the game of Germany," and denied the truth of the assertion that the indigenous population of Upper Silesia was German.

"No one," it adds, "has the right, either in England or in France, to disregard the rules of common sense and coolness."

COLLAPSE IS EXPECTED.

Berlin, May 14.—Collapse of the Polish revolt in Upper Silesia is expected in authoritative quarters there, according to a special dispatch received here from Breslau. Important conferences are in progress, and it is believed that Adalbert Korfanty, leader of the Poles, has lost his fight to secure Upper Silesia for Poland.

CONVICTION AGAINST LUCAS IS QUASHED

Toronto, May 14. — The conviction against T. W. Lucas, St. Marys, was quashed. Lucas had received liquor, which was found on his premises. There was no proof that he had obtained more than the amount found. Through lack of evidence the conviction of Wm. Hodgins, Port Colborne, fined $25 for refusing to allow the county constable to look at his express company liquor book, was also quashed.

TOWN WIPED OUT BY FIRE.

Lexington, Tenn., May 14.—The business section of Wildersville, a town of 800 people, about ten miles from here, was wiped out by fire yesterday. Six general stores, the postoffice, bank, drug store and railroad depot were among the buildings destroyed.

HOTRUM AND M'FADDEN ATTEMPT TO CONVICT EACH OTHER OF MURDER

Surprise Sprung When McFadden Is Put in Witness Box by Crown to Give Evidence in Rebuttal of Hotrum's Story—Young Londoner's Trial Is Expected to Commence on Monday.

TORONTO, May 13.—Interest in the trial of Roy Hotrum, the Hamilton young man, who is charged jointly with William McFadden of London, Ont., with the murder of Leonard Cecil Sabine, druggist, in this city on the night of March 5, last, was freshened this afternoon, when McFadden was put in the witness box at the assizes here, by Crown Prosecutor Gordon Waldron, to give evidence in rebuttal of evidence given by Hotrum. This course was strongly objected to by Hotrum's counsel, W. K. Murphy, who contended that McFadden was not a competent witness for the crown in rebuttal, though he might be a competent witness for the prosecution in chief. He claimed that it was a violation of every principle, which Mr. Justice Kelly, the presiding judge, had recognized, when he granted separate trials for Hotrum and McFadden.

Try To Convict One Another.

The trial has developed into a contest between Hotrum and McFadden as to which can convict the other of having fired the fatal shot in the Sabine drug store. Hotrum, in his testimony in his own defence today, declared that McFadden rushed into the store, while he (Hotrum) stayed at the door, which was open.

After about an hour's argument on the question between the counsel the judge ruled that McFadden could legally be called as a witness in rebuttal. At this point McFadden's counsel, Fletcher Kerr, asked for the protection of the crown for his client while on the witness stand, and this was promised.

Tells of Robbery.

Hotrum, in his examination, went over the story of the actions of the party on the night of March 5 previous to the visit of the Sabine store, with little variation from the story told by Conley in the witness box yesterday, except that after the gang had given up the idea of robbing two or three butcher shops in the west end of the city, Hulse, the driver of the car, said:

PREDICTS THAT SINN FEINERS WILL WIN HALF OF NORTH SEATS

Barry Egan, the Acting Lord Mayor of Cork, Is Optimistic.

UNOPPOSED IN SOUTH

124 Sinn Fein Nominations for South Ireland Parliament.

Paris, May 14.—Predictions that the Sinn Fein would win nearly half of the 52 seats in the Northern Irish, or Ulster, Parliament were made to a representative of the Journal here by Barry Egan, acting lord mayor of Cork, who is visiting this city. Mr. Egan pointed to the 124 unopposed Sinn Fein nominations for the Southern Irish Parliament and expressed confidence that the Sinn Fein would do better in Northern Ireland than the Unionists were willing to consider.

Mr. Egan denied statements published here that the Sinn Fein had opened negotiations with the British Government.

So far as Southern Ireland is concerned the result of the parliamentary elections was decided yesterday. Sinn Fein candidates being nominated unopposed in 124 out of the 128 districts. Four imperialist candidates were nominated unopposed from Dublin. As no opposition candidates were named in any of the southern districts, the polling consequently will be dispensed with.

For the Northern Parliament 77 candidates were nominated. A unionist majority of 12 in the elections to be held May 24 is predicted in Unionist quarters.

Tangled Skeins of Relationship Follow Divorce

Chicago, May 14.—If a step-daughter marries her step-father, who has been divorced from his wife, what relation will she be to her mother?

This is a question to be decided soon.

Mrs. Louis A. Darsch, 2128 Fletcher street, testified in the superior court that her 18-year-old daughter came to her, and asked her to divorce her husband, in order that she might marry him. Mrs. Darsch won a decree.

"I was married to Harry A. Darsch in 1911," she testified, "when my daughter was but nine years old. I learned in 1920 for the first time that she was in love with him, when I saw shadows while looking through a window."

AGREEMENT REACHED WITH THE EXPOSITOR

Brantford, May 14.—Negotiations have recently been in progress between the employing printers in Brantford and the International Typographical Union. The latter presented both to the job offices and the Expositor a request for a 44-hour week instead of the 48-hour week, with an advance in the minimum scale of $8 a week over that provided for in the existing agreement, which was made eighteen months ago and which expires May 31. With the consent of the international executive, the demand for the shorter week has been withdrawn in the case of the Expositor, as it is not sought at present to impose the change on newspaper offices, and an agreement made for sixteen months, which provides for an increase in the minimum scale of $6 a week and a 48-hour working week. Few of the Expositor employees, however, have been working for some time past on the existing minimum. No agreement with the job offices has yet been reached.

ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE FOR PICNIC

School Youngsters To Have Gala Day June 3.

NEW FEATURES

Principals Will Prepare Program in Conjunction With Board.

With a view to improving the arrangements for the sports and games features of the annual picnic of the city schools, which is set for Friday, June 3, at Springbank, No. 3 committee of the board of education yesterday decided to ask the Principals' Association to take charge of that end of the day's entertainment, and prepare a program. Efforts will be made to introduce some new features for the entertainment of the boys and girls.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the picnic are: Trustee Coleridge, chairman of the board; Secretary W. C. Tanner and the chairmen of the various standing committees of the board, with Trustee Ed Smith, chairman of No. 1, as chairman.

SOUTH IRELAND PARLIAMENT IS QUIETLY CHOSEN

Four Imperialists Elected in Dublin—All Sinn Feiners Elsewhere.

Dublin, May 13.—Except for four imperialist candidates, who were returned unopposed for Dublin, not a single opponent has been nominated for the Southern Parliament against the Sinn Sein candidates, who, therefore, will be returned unopposed in the southern constituencies. These Sinn Feiners will refuse the oath of allegiance to the crown, and therefore the new parliament will never function. Thus it will devolve upon the viceroy to nominate an executive on the lines of crown colony administration, unless the Government should decide to recognize all the members elected in the north and south as a constituent assembly.

More than half the members selected in the south are in jail. Others have been at some time or other in prison. The elections were the quietest ever known in Ireland. No polling was necessary, as according to the British custom, when only one candidate is nominated, the polling is dispensed with.

Two of the candidates, Thrift and Alton, are fellows of Trinity College, Dublin, while the other two imperialists are Sir James King, professor of medicine, School of Physicians of Trinity College, and Gerald Fitzgibbons, eminent member of the Irish bar.

Those elected include Eamonn De Valera, for Clare; Michael Collins, for County Cork; Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein; Ald. Cosgrove and many other men prominently connected with the Sinn Fein movement.

MEIGHEN TRIES TO JUSTIFY HIS FISCAL POLICY

Talks for Two Hours on the New Budget.

ATTACKS PROGRESSIVES

Playing Practical Politics, He Declares, and Aiding Liberals.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, May 13.—Although Premier Meighen talked for almost two hours straight today, he really said very little. His speech was verbose, even for him, and when he occasionally attempted sallies, which he obviously thought were brilliant, they ended up by developing into plain mud-slinging. The address was the prime minister's contribution to the budget debate and an opportunity for him to answer criticisms which have been levelled at the Government before and since the discussion of Canada's financial affairs was launched. This, he did, but in addition, he threw down the gauntlet to leaders of both parties on the other side of the chamber. The Progressives, he declared, were playing practical politics. A desire to get into the same boat with the Liberal Opposition dictated their support of the Fielding amendment.

"They have made of themselves something of a political annex to that party—servile tools and minions of the official Opposition, ready to do whatever they are bid," insisted the prime minister. "Why not throw the mask away?

Charges Inconsistency.

"Why not join right up? Let them throw away both platforms and frame one on which they can both stand, and then remain on it; but do not let them say that one is still back on the 1918 platform, and the other on the 1919 platform, when, as a matter of fact, each of them has discarded those platforms."

The speech of the prime minister was listened to by a well-filled House and galleries. Loud applause from the Government benches greeted his sallies, and there were practically no interruptions

Chicago Woman Tells Why Girls Flee From Home

Chicago, May 14.—Chicago girls run away from home because there are too many places to drink and to toddle; because it is easy to sign a name in a hotel register; because some parents say "no" too sternly and "yes" too weakly.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, president of the Juvenile Protective Association, made public today results of a three months' study of the runaway girl problem in Chicago.

She urged that marriage laws be operated as effectively as child labor laws and recommended an amendment to existing marriage laws, providing for a period of 10 days or two weeks between the issuing of the license and the marriage ceremony.

Of 112 girls who were reported absent from home during the six months ended May 1, all except six have been found. Their average in age was 15 years and their average in school grade attained was 6.7.

More than half of the girls were the products of broken homes. Nearly all of them were regular patrons of commercialized amusements.

GERMAN WAR MINISTRY ALLEGES NEWSPAPER IS GUILTY OF TREASON

Berlin, May 14.—Allegations of high treason are made in proceedings instituted by the ministry of defence against the radical newspaper Rote Fahne (Red Flag) as a result of the publication by that paper of a series of documents bearing on the situation in Silesia. These documents are alleged to prove that the German military administration had planned an invasion of the Upper Silesian plebiscite area last October and had plotted the assassination of Adalbert Korfanty.

The minister declared the documents are fabrications.

Gold-Seekers Are Advised Not To Stampede Because of Reported Quebec Find

Ottawa, May 14.—Well over 100 letters have been received in this city by persons in different parts of Canada and the United States, asking about the gold discovery near Kazubazua, Gatineau District, Province of Quebec. One from Ohio reads: "I am a blacksmith and could sell my business for a few thousand. Would you advise me to do so and join in the gold rush up the Gatineau Valley?"

A man writes from Vancouver: "Myself and brother have four thousand dollars in Victory Bonds, which we are now selling in order to proceed to Kazubazua and invest in the new gold fields. Please advise present prospects."

Answers are being sent advising the writers to keep their business or Victory Bonds until there is more confirmation of the discovery.

While J. R. Bowen of this city sent sample quartz from there which assayed as high as $91 a ton, several experienced gold miners from this city have since failed to find indication of any abundance of the precious metal there.

2,500 SHRINERS AT FESTIVAL OF MOCHA TEMPLE

Large Class of Candidates Are Initiated Into Mystic Order.

MANY VISITING NOBLES

Temples of Two Provinces and Three States Largely Represented.

That Friday, the 13th, despite its age-old repute as an unlucky day, and therefore a day to be avoided as much as possible by all good men and true, who desire to be assured of carrying anything they undertake to a successful issue, is not unlucky for the Shriners, but rather the reverse, was fully proven yesterday, when Mocha Temple celebrated its 13th anniversary with the greatest alpomb and success that has ever attended one of its spring celebrations.

From before the moon had sunk to rest in the west to give place to the lord of the day, whose rays were even then brightening the eastern skies, nobles, potentates and tribesmen of the mystic order began to foregather from all points of the compass to join with their brethren of the London oasis in the celebration of the spring festival, till over 2,500, including a large number of strangers, who sought initiation into the inner temple and the sacred and mystic rites of the order.

Business Session.

In the forenoon the sheiks and high nobles of the Shriners met in business session at the Masonic Temple, Queen's avenue, representatives being present from Karnak Temple, Montreal; Ramsess Temple, Toronto; Ismaillia Temple, Buffalo; Moslem Temple, Detroit; El Kurafeh Temple, Saginaw; Saladin Temple, Grand Rapids; Zenobia Temple, Toledo, and from the Cleveland oasis.

At noon a procession of the nobles of the different temples with their divans, Arab patrols and bands was formed and proceeded to the Tecumseh House, where dinner was served. In the afternoon the ceremonial proceedings were commenced at the Masonic Temple, and at the close of the session a buffet luncheon was served in the barquet hall. At night, owing to the very large attendance of visitors, and the numerous pilgrims who awaited guidance across the burning sands to the true home of the Shriners, the ceremonial part of the celebration was transferred to the Winter Gardens, which had been most tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Are Theatre Guests.

Following the conclusion of the mystic rites in the Winter Gardens, the Shriners of Mocha Temple and their visiting brethren were the guests of Nobie William Stewart at the Patricia Theatre. The whole day's proceedings were under the direction of Exalted Potentate A. J. McGuffin. The decorative schemes in the Temple and at the Winter Gardens were carried out by C. E. Marley, assisted by A. R. Skelton, J. E. Gaze, J. G. Gammage and R. Pearce.

The reception of the visiting nobles and potentates was in the hands of W. W. Gammage, assisted by C. W. Striker, R. E. Ruse, S. H. Rowed, H. R. Abbott, Tom Terry, A. J. Mitchell, T. H. Baker, Ken Murray, T. G. Davis, T. B. McCormick, G. W. Blay, George McLachlan, J. L. Richmond, and the Arab Patrol Band, under the leadership of Major A. E. Somerville.

The banquet committee was comprised of J. W. Plewes, J. M. Chivas, J. Willis and T. M. Fawkes. The handsome program was prepared by Recorder W. H. Abbott, and is a veritable work of art, its outstanding feature being its excellent review of the city of London, its industries and its pleasures.

Appointment of representatives to the Imperial Council of North America, which is to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, on June 14, resulted as follows: A. J. McGuffin, W. H. Abbott, G. E. Logan and W. J. Elliott.

Q.—When will there be a Free Baby Clinic in London?

All the baby clinics in London, conducted by the Child Welfare Association, are free. Three every week are held for well babies; and one every week for those sick babies only whose parents cannot afford a private physician.

A.—The Well Baby Clinics are held weekly on Tuesday at Talbot Street School; on Thursday at Rectory Street School; on Friday at Victoria School. All begin at 3 p.m. The Sick Babies' Clinic is held weekly on Tuesday morning at Victoria Hospital at 9:30 a.m.

Q.—Are out-of-town babies examined?

A.—Yes, at the Annual Free Baby Clinic for London and outlying points, which will be held this year on May 18, 1920, at the Technical School, Dundas street, London. Examinations of children under 5 will be made 9—12 a.m. on these three days. In the afternoon's short addresses on subjects related to Baby Care, Feeding, Clothing, Sleep, Infectious Diseases, Development of Teeth, etc., will be given, with demonstrations of Baby Bathing and Dressing; there will be baby-dress displays, and, in brief, an exhibit covering all lines of baby culture. Moving pictures on similar points supplied by the Provincial Board of Health will be one very attractive feature on May 18 and 19. The exhibit will be open until 9 p.m. every evening. Dr. Helen MacMurchy of Ottawa, chief of the division of Child Welfare of the Dominion Department of Health, will be present on May 20 to give an address; Col. W. M. Gartshore has kindly consented also to bestow the prizes on the happy if not personally appreciative recipients. The parents' pride will no doubt make up for the youngsters' indifference, however.

Q. 3.—Boy now in his 9th month, weighing 19 pounds, length 30 inches, perfect health. When should he be weaned? Give first diet. This boy has no teeth yet.

A.—Miss Bertha Smith, supervising nurse of the Child Welfare Association, to whom this question was referred in order to get the latest and best practice, replies as follows:

A baby of 9 months, weighing 19 pounds, height 30 inches, is rather above the average. The average weight (Dr. Emmett Holt's table) is 17 pounds, 7 ounces, height 27.3 inches. It is better to begin to wean at 9 months, taking at least three weeks to the process—and especially necessary to have baby taking a good line of diet and completely weaned before hot weather sets in. Presuming the baby has been breast fed and regularly, at 4-hour intervals (6, 10, 2, 6 and 10), substitute for the 10 a.m. feeding a well-cooked cereal (cooked not less than 2 hours), preferably cream of wheat to start with, a teaspoon or two at first, gradually increasing until 4 ounces is taken. Prepare 4 ounces of milk (pasteurized or boiled), diluted with 4 ounces boiled water. Put part of this on the cereal and teach baby to drink the remainder from a cup. Give nothing more for four hours. At the end of a week substitute 8 ounces milk and water (getting gradually up to the proportion of 3 parts of milk to 1 part of water), for the 6 p.m. breast feeding, giving a crust with it. After another week substitute another milk and water meal at 2 p.m. and make the 6 p.m. meal a second spoon feed. This may be of vegetable soup made without meat, strained and creamed or thickened with dried bread crumbs—or bread and milk boiled 20 minutes—finishing as before with a drink of the milk food. Breast feeding only at 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. Drop next the 10 p.m. breast feeding, giving milk food instead, lastly the 6 a.m. breast feeding. This gradual replacement of mother's milk by the food does not upset the baby, and the mother does not suffer from her breasts as in the old-fashioned method of taking the mother's milk away suddenly. The proportion of water added to the milk food should be gradually decreased until at 1 year of age the baby is getting 8 ounces of pure milk 4 times a day. A complete diet list for a child from 9 months of age to one year will be sent you by mail.

Q. 4.—Is there any special food specially good for brain development of children?

A.—No, although at one time it was more or less seriously suggested that fish would prove to be such a food. This idea was based on the rather fanciful ground that both fish and brains have phosphorus in them. But both matches and sea-water have phosphorus in them also—and that does not prove that sea-water is good for matches! You can't feed a cow so that she will give a larger percentage of cream than her breed and inborn nature will permit—and you can't feed a child so that he will develop more brains than nature allows him. If you want more muscle, you get it by using what you have already, so that it grows big and strong. If you trust to developing muscle by feeding some special kind of food, all you will get out of it, if anything, is a lot of extra fat! The half-starved gutter snipe will have much brighter brains at a given age than many a well-fed child; because the gutter snipe has to use his brains, while people often discourage their own well-fed children from using their brains at all, except perhaps to memorize homework!

It is a curious thing that many undernourished children are just as bright or brighter than well-fed ones—not because they are undernourished, of course, but in spite of it.

You are to be congratulated on wanting to feed your babies body in the best way with the best food. But you will do him as great a service if you set your mind now on feeding his mind in the best way with the best stuff a little later—and not very much later, at that! Don't feed his mind with fish but with facts.

Q. 6.—What do you think of circumcision for boy babies?

A.—No object in it unless some abnormality is present. Your physician will advise you about that. Slight abnormalities, easily fixed in a moment without circumcision sometimes, are not infrequently found, and make trouble. One of the old ideas was that circumcision must be a good thing for health because it was prescribed for the Jews. But it nowhere says in the Bible that it was done to secure health. It was simply a distinguishing mark—a tribal label, so to speak. At one time it was said that circumcision prevented tuberculosis of the hip! Well, if wearing earrings can be shown to help eyesight, we might try to see some conenction between these two also; but until then we are free to wonder how Jews ever have tuberculosis of the hip, if circumcision prevents it!

LONDON BACONIAN CLUB HOLDS 37TH ANNUAL BANQUET

Centre for Leisurely and Thorough Exchange of Ideas, Says President.

THIS AGE TOO HURRIED

Career of Lord Bacon Is Interestingly Recalled by W. J. Hodder.

Wisdom, wit and reason neatly and effectively blended, marked the thirty-seventh annual Baconian banquet at the Tecumseh House on Friday evening. A well-filled banquet table, several pleasing numbers by able vocalists and oratory of the highest merit furnished an evening of keen enjoyment for members of an organization whose reputation for good fellowship and whole-hearted interestedness in humanity at large is well-known, not only locally but in distant places.

In the opening address, E. T. White president, congratulated the club upon reaching its thirty-seventh year with increasing prosperity and usefulness, emphasizing the point that the very age of the association testifies to the unswerving devotion of its members and the excellency of the association throughout the year.

An Age of Hurry.

"One may reasonably ask, what do we stand for," declared Mr. White, "I may say that the Baconian Club provides a forum for interchange of ideas in a thorough and leisurely manner. This is a much-needed element. We live in a hurried age, too hurried in fact, and the club should be commended for its preservation of its traditional forcefulness and fearlessness in debating and discussing the leading issues of the hour in no hurried fashion."

The association's indomitable stand always for leadership and individuality were impressed upon the audience by Mr. White. "It is acknowledged," he said, "that whatever the true definition of democracy is, it will never survive without sane leaders and the founders of the Baconian Club built better than they ever anticipated in that respect. At the present time I can call to mind some 30 men prominent in the good work of the community, who have within the past month been invited to speak to the public on the many issues arising from time to time."

Toast To Lord Bacon.

Responding to the toast to "The Memory of Lord Bacon," W. J. Hodder ventured an opinion that it was unusually fitting that the memory of Lord Bacon should be remembered most particularly in the years 1920 and 1921. In 1620 Lord Bacon published his first and only work on science, and it was in 1621 that he rose to his greatest level, only to sink back again to the ranks. With an obvious knowledge of mediaeval history at his command, Mr. Hodder presented Lord Bacon's case in a vigorous manner, laying stress on the fact that the latter's work was a concrete summary of the scientific developments of the seventeenth century.

"We must never return to the prevailing conditions of 1914," emphatically asserted Rev. D. C. MacGregor, in replying to "Our Guests."

New Day Has Dawned.

"The practical man realizes that a new day has dawned. We are standing at the threshold of an extremely dangerous period. As we look across the world we find unrest on every hand. Restrained and controlled for centuries new forces are now unleashed and striving to express themselves in a new form. Humanity having succeeded in loosening itself from the shackling conventions of the past is now endeavoring to find an outlet for its new spirit of restlessness and reaction.

We can never revert to the old days. Neither can we accept every solution advanced for the future. The true position to assume is a safe middle course between the two extremes. The issue for the future is 'What path shall we pursue' and from the late war we have learned the lesson that the future existence of civilization depends upon co-operation. Men must not continue to exhaust their time and thought upon what their rights are, but more upon what their duty is and when that spirit is firmly embedded nationally and internationally, then will war cease and the period of good will and brotherhood be ushered in."

CHIEF SUGGESTS $50 FINE; MAGISTRATE IMPOSES 'FIVE SPOT'

Seeing baseball games is costly when one waives formality and scales the fence rather than follow the crowd through the gates. Allan Goodman and Pete Murphy discovered when they appeared in police court on Friday and pleaded guilty to being disorderly.

Both had been in the park, but had been ejected. Murphy had been put out twice, but took the age-old advice, "If at first you don't succeed, try again."

At first they were charged with breaking the fence, but when they disclaimed any knowledge of, this, the charge was withdrawn.

"The baseball season is just opening, and that kind of thing has got to be stopped," declared Chief of Police Robert Birrell, who suggested to the court that the maximum fine of $50 be imposed on the youths.

This suggestion brought a look of despair to the faces of the defendants, which vanished when the deputy magistrate, P. H. Bartlett, said that he could not see his way clear to make the penalty so severe. He fined the pair $5 and costs each.

WARM RAIN WOULD HELP CROPS GREATLY

Spring Grain Also Needs Warmer Weather to Promote Growth.

Blenheim, May 13.—A trip through this district shows that the crops on the whole are looking well, considering the need of rain. There are many fields of fall wheat that promise well. While the spring grain is not as forward as might be expected, it has a good start, and a good rain, followed by a spell of warm weather, would make a wonderful showing in a short time.

Corn planting is not general. Many are waiting for May 24, which has for years been considered the day of days for corn planting. Most of the farmers have stock out at pasture, and while the meadows came through the winter very well, they are now showing signs of the need of a good rain.

There has been an abundant blossom on nearly all the fruit trees, and while it is thought that peaches will set very well, it is a foregone conclusion that the sour cherry and apricot crop will almost be nil, as the heavy frost at opening time did the trick and killed the pistil of the flowers with few exceptions.

The Tobacco Situation.

The tobacco situation affords little hope of better conditions in this district. Recently representatives of the Imperial Tobacco Company purchased some twenty tons, the prices paid being around 7 to 9 cents per pound. Quite a number of growers hold that they have not as yet even had an offer for their crop, and while many are anxious to sell, there are others who will not sell at the prevailing prices. The Canadian Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Company is still holding out hope to all who will line up and take stock and allow their tobacco to be passed through the grading and drying processes and take the chance with others in reaching the foreign market. Quite a number are doing this, and almost daily large loads are being delivered.

W. E. Biggar of London, formerly of this town, and his daughter, Miss Eva, are spending a few days renewing acquaintances here.

The public school board at their meeting gave Janitor Fred Hancox a special bonus on his salary of $50 for work he was called upon to perform during the winter months, when coal had to be used in the school furnaces instead of gas.

Miss Adele Guild, A.A.C.M., had her pupils give a recital in the Methodist Church, and a large number of citizens greatly enjoyed the entertainment. The pupils showed splendid training. G. Daniels of Chatham assisted with some splendid selections on the cornet.

SUICIDES IN POLICE CELL.

Montreal, May 13.—Alphege Charron, 30 years of age, of 36 Demontigny street, ended his life last night at police headquarters by hanging himself with his suspenders from a beam at the top of his cell. Charron had been arrested charged with drunkenness.

New York, May 13.—Two men walked into the private bank of Anthony Sasson in Brooklyn today, beat the only clerk on duty into insensibility with a blackjack and escaped with $5,000. When Allocca opened the safe, he was seized, beaten and tied to a radiator.

GOVT. EMPLOYMENT BUREAU TO HANDLE ALL CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENTS

J. C. Spencer Receives Official Notification This Morning.

From now on all applicants for temporary positions in any of the civil service departments will be handled exclusively through the Ontario Government Employment Bureau. J. C. Spencer, superintendent of the local office, received official notification to that effect this morning. In future all persons successful in passing the required examination will be registered with Mr. Spencer, and upon advice that vacancies have occurred in London he will be enabled to get in touch with any or all of them within a comparatively short time. Under the present system Ottawa has at hand thousands of names, and as some time must elapse between the completion of the test until an actual appointment, the Government frequently is unable to get in touch with many on the list by reason of change of address, death and other causes.

It can be readily seen that under the new scheme, which becomes effective at once, considerable time can be saved by the officials. In the past it has often developed that after interchange of notices and communications for three and even five and six months, the person sought has been located happily settled in some distant place.

OPEN SHOP DECLARED.

Ottawa, May 14.—Members of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian building and construction industries have declared an open shop as between themselves and the crafts of the building trades council, which have been on strike since May 1. Over twelve hundred union members of the trades will be more or less affected. The contractors from now on will take any work that the public offers, and have undertaken to supply the men to complete it.

BIG AUCTION

Children's Hospital Committee Expects Large Attendance This Evening.

By 10 o'clock this morning the "County Fair" was going "full swing" in the armories. By dint of a great deal of early rising and much scurrying, almost every booth was in order by the time Mayor E. S. Little came around to inspect operations. Perhaps the earliest arrivals were the women from the township, who lost no time in putting out their quantities of home-made bread, cakes, pies and fresh buttermilk, and the keapers of the other booths were not long behind them. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the fair will be formally opened by the mayor, and it is expected that throughout the afternoon and evening, when one of the chief features will be the auctioning off of a great variet yof donations, under the direction of C. N. Cooper, practically the whole of London will visit the armories. The fair is being held by the Children's Hospital committee in aid of the hospital fund. This morning it was advertised through the streets of the city by the MacDonald Pipe Band, and this evening the W. O. R. Pipe Band will play in front of the armories from 6 until 8 o'clock.

Miniature Hospital.

Perhaps the most unique exhibit in the whole fair is a miniature children's hospital, which is to be found in the booth of the May Queen Rebekah Lodge, and is the donation of Mrs. Harris of that chapter. The hospital itself is about three feet by one and a half, is solidly built and painted white, with the inscription, "Sick Children's Hospital" painted on the portico, which, by the way, is an overhanging one, with most xqrealistic flower baskets and small white ambulance entering the driveway in front. The hospital also boasts a gravel roof garden, and real curtains swing from each of the tiny windows. But inside are the most wonderful features of all, five quaint wee cots, with real mattresses, pillows, sheets and prettily hemstitched coverlets, while each cot shelters the tiniest of baby dolls, and dolls garbed as nurses are at work about the ward.

This hospital, which is valued at $25, is being raffled during the fair in aid of the hospital, and the prizewinner will be known tonight, when the drawing will be made. This booth occupies the central place in the Armories, and is a picturesque pink, green and white affair, showing a variety of miscellaneous articles.

Flower Booth.

Close by the entrance to the fair is the flower booth, in charge of the Sir John Carling Chapter, I. O. D. E., a veritable bower of spring beauty, including not only garden flowers but wild flowers, fresh and plenty. Wheels of fortune occupy the next two booths. The first in charge of the 7th Regiment Chapter, has great pails full of groceries valued at $1 as prizes, while the second, in charge of the London Advertising Club, has as prizes a great variety of graniteware, the entire assortment being doated by the McClary Manufacturing Company. A second central booth is a pure white affair, which can at once be identified by the big Scotch flag in front as belonging to the Daughters of Scotland. From this booth ice cream is sold to the passing throng.

The Princess ratricia Chapter has a large stock of the most fascinating of baby pictures, sold as souvenirs of the hospital. Everyone who sees them immediately buys, exclaiming: "What an adorable thing for the nursery!" The Good Cheer Club maintains a kind of bowling alley, which is known as "Barrels of Luck," and a fine assortment of Italian curios make up the prizes.

Fortune Telling.

One of the most popular booths of all is the "Fortune Telling" booth, which can at once be distinguished by its Oriental draperies and picturesque women in gypsy attire, the whole booth in charge of the Abigail Becker and Trafalgar Chapters and Child Welfare Association. The Hugh Niven Chapter has a most realistic-looking fish pond, surrounded by greenery, where the children may fish for a hundred different sorts of prizes. The Nightingale Club has a gay booth, where an interesting sort of game "Hosie, Hosie" is carried on and prizes distributed.

Dancing.

A spot which will be a favorite one during the afternoon will be the tea room up in the gallery overlooking the whole fair, conducted by the Isabel Hampden and C. E. F. Overseas Chapters, while dancing promises to be one of the biggest features of the whole fair. The Campbell Becher and Hamilton Gault Chapters have arranged for a third of the armory floor to be roped off, and have engaged one of the finest city orchestras for the occasion. Dancing will continue from 3 until 6 in the afternoon, and from 8 until 11:30 in the evening.

ASKIN ST. METHODISTS RAISED $27,801 DURING PAST TWELVE MONTHS

Appreciation of Rev. J. T. Morris Shown in Tangible Manner.

The annual meeting of the Askin Street Methodist quarterly board was held on Friday evening. The treasurer's report showed that during the year $27,801 had been raised for all purposes, including missions. In addition to this amount, $10,846 has been subscribed to the National Forward Movement campaign. The sum of $191 was given to the local referendum fund.

In appreciation of the services of Rev. J. T. C. Morris, the pastor, an honorarium of $200 was given him. Smith, retiring president of the Men's Brotherhood, were also passed and regret expressed at their decision.

S. P. Reynolds was re-elected recording secretary of the quarterly board, and A. M. Hunt was chosen lay delegate to the Methodist conference in June, with John Heaman as alternate.

MANY SUBSCRIPTIONS STILL TO BE MADE TO THE WELFARE FUND

Officials Pleased With Progress of Campaign.

TRAVELERS ON JOB

House-to-House Canvass Today and Sunday Promises Good Results.

Considerable money and many promises, including several large subscriptions, are still swelling the total of the United Welfare Fund. The officials of the association are well pleased with the way in which things are progressing, and are quite confident that when the totals from the industrial military and public utilities committee are announced along with the results of the travelers house-to-house campaign, the fund will have almost reached its objective.

Although no totals were available on Friday night or today, the association announced the following subscribers of $100 and more, who were not mentioned in any previous list.

| | |
|---|---|
| A. E. White | $600 |
| D. S. Perrin & Co. | $500 |
| Mrs. Lorne Harris | 400 |
| George B. Harris | 200 |
| Mrs. Allan McLean | 200 |

| London Bill Posting | 100 |
| George T. Brown | 100 |
| Dr. H. W. Hill | 100 |
| H. B. Beal | 100 |

Much depends on the campaign of the members of the Ontario Travelers' Association, who will visit all the homes of the city today and tomorrow. This afternoon, following a luncheon in the Tecumseh House, the teams will call from house to house leaving cards. Tomorrow the cards will be collected. The members of the 25 teams are highly enthusiastic, and are confident that they will exceed the results obtained by last year's campaign.

It is expected that complete returns will be received from the industrial, the military and the public utility employees' committee by Sunday night. During next week special work will be done by the committees.

APPRECIATE WORK OF REV. DR. PEEVER

Quarterly Board of the First Methodist Passes Resolution.

FUNDS SHOW INCREASE

Delegates to District Meeting Appointed—Stewards Elected.

The final meeting for the year of the quarterly board of the First Methodist Church was held Friday night. In the absence of Rev. Dr. Peever, W. N. Manning presided. A strong resolution unanimously carried expressed the great appreciation of the pastor's fine labors and pulpit ministrations for the four years, and rejoiced in his restoration to health.

Rev. Dr. Peever is expected home Tuesday. He will later receive quite a large class of new members, and the year will show a net increase of forty.

All the societies of the church reported a most vigorous life and all their funds had increased. At the beginning of the year pew rents and the envelope fund were consolidated, and there is an increase of $4,100 over the two in the present church support fund.

The total revenue for local church purposes is $19,000, an increase of $4,000. Heavy payments on church repair and the meeting of an adverse balance from last year of $1,700, make the year close with a debtor balance, but the promise is that next year $20,000 will be reached, wiping the balance out.

The connexional funds showed a large increase. Missionary funds from all sources totalled over $9,000, an increase of $1,000; education, $1,020, an increase of about $100; $18,000 has been paid in on national campaign account, and the total amount paid for all purposes will reach over $50,000.

The following are the delegates to district meeting: W. N. Manning, J. H. Chapman, Israel Taylor; alternatives, C. T. Glass, Dr. S. M. Kennedy, E. W. Gairns.

Geo. F. Brickenden stated that the memorial tablet for the soldiers had arrived, and that suitable services for its unveiling will be arranged for by Dr. Peever shortly.

The following were elected stewards: J. H. Chapman, F. R. Eccles, M.D., LL.D., J. E. Boomer, R. I. Watson, W. N. Manning, T. A. Stevens, Israel Taylor, G. F. Brickenden, A. A. Langford, U. E. Bateson, M.D., T. W. McFarland, Dr. Colon E. J. Smith.,

J. H. Chapman was again elected recording steward.

BUILDING TOTAL STILL MOUNTING

By End of May Permits For Half Million Will Have Been Issued.

The issue yesterday by Building Inspector Piper's office of nine building permits brought the stated value of the building which has been started or is to be started immediately in the city of London to within $10,000 of $250,000, and from present indications the total for the first five months of the year ending May 31 will be well over the half-million-dollar mark and possibly near $1,000,000.

Three of the permits issued yesterday were for dwelling houses, one frame, one stucco, and one brick veneer, the remainder being for garages and extensions or alterations to other buildings.

The permits issued were as follows: J. Pratt, 81 Wellington street, veranda, $250 W. Yendall, 436 St. George street, remodelling of brick stables for a garage, $450; E. Hancox, Brisbin street, frame dwelling, $1,200; M. Nicholls, 655 Dufferin avenue, veranda, $100; W. H. Tozer, 9 Mount Pleasant avenue, addition to frame building, $100; J. A. McFarland, 106 Rectory street, remodelling for a bathroom, $150; Woolworth Company, Market Square, the replacing of two wooden beams by iron girders, $500; J. W. Dawkins, Emery street, stucco dwelling, $2,000; F. W. Martin, Garfield avenue, brick vencer dwelling, $4,100.

Candy Prices Are On Decline —Changes in Effect Here.

Handsomely engraved and bewitchingly decorated with the blue or pink ribbon, as the fancy directs, the previously well-known bonbon box containing the high-grade candy is slowly but surely coming back into its own. As a direct result of the removal of the luxury tax, coupled with the decrease of 10 cents per pound in sugar, there has been a noticeable drop locally in the price of all grades of the dainty and appetizing commodity which has always been a source of keen enjoyment to "flappers" and their elders.

"Directly the luxury tax was removed by the authorization of the recent budget we lowered our prices accordingly," declared one man, "and the fact that such has not been done in Toronto until now shows that the London merchants have taken the lead."

Miss Violet Trench Against Hedging Youth Round With Restrictions.

INCULCATE HIGH IDEALS

Then Young People Will Themselves Grasp Essentials of Religion.

"We have to let the young people of our Empire put their religion in a twentieth century form," declared Miss Violet Trench of London, England, addressing the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon on "The Power and Responsibility of Womanhood," and referring to the education of the 'teen age people of the land.

"We do not fight our wars with bows and arrows like the savages of old, and yet some of us seem to be holding on to a 'bow and arrow' form of religion, and trying to make our young people adopt them, too. The 'teen age is the most difficult age of all, and the boys or girls of this age must be fed wisely with physical, mental and spiritual food. If instead of hedging, our young people around with a series of prohibitions, we should put high ideals before them and instill in them a sense of wanting to achieve those ideals, they would soon learn that prohibitions must be within themselves. There is a spiritual change as well as a physical and mental change in the 'teen age boys and girls, and they often find themselves going through a period of religious doubt which makes them think they are wicked. Here they need guidance and we should be big enough to throw aside the non-essentials of our forms of religion, if by so doing we can get them to accept the essentials of that religion. We must interpret religion for them in its twentieth century form, if we would have them accept it at all.

During the course of her talk, the speaker made mention of the movement on foot for combatting venereal disease, going back to 1913 when this subject first began to concern the English public, and when the great International Medical Congress was held in London for the purpose of discussing the subject. She further traced the growth of interest in this subject during the war and the measures which were being taken today to combat the disease.

"This is a crucial generation in the life of Canada," she said. "And women are given a great opportunity to make themselves count. The first great era of pioneering has just been completed, and now remains the task of consolidating the position and pioneering along the lines of education, character-building, etc."

MINERS AND OWNERS

The resolution of the railwaymen instructing members to refuse to handle any "tainted" coal, was, it has been learned, carried by an extremely narrow majority. This resolution is regarded as sounding much more formidable than it is likely to prove in practice. Evidence of a desire on the part of heads of the railwaymen's union to proceed cautiously is found in the fact that the calling off of the sympathetic strike on the Glasgow and Clyde Railway really was ordered from headquarters in London. It is known the government is preparing for every contingency. Many volunteers for railway and other work are coming forward. Glasgow itself has during the past day or two been given an impressive lesson of the capacity of the government to get all the help wanted in the thousands of volunteers who are helping to unload cargoes in the docks.

The government continues its campaign in favor of the conservation of coal. It has issued a special appeal to women to economize in the use of household fuel, as well as gas and electricity. As a result of the coal shortage the Vickers engineering works at Barrow, which employs 15,000 men, will, according to an announcement made today, definitely close down next week.

IMMIGRANTS BROUGHT

Apply to S. A. C.

Asked today as to the truth of a story told to The Advertiser that a number of immigrants brought to this country to work on the farms have drifted into the city and have applied for assistance to the Soldiers' Aid Commission, Secretary Ed. Lance said that, while owing to the recent closing of the S. A. C. employment department, he could not speak authoritatively or with definite regard to figures, "it is true that a large number of such men, most of them single, have applied to us for assistance during the last two or three weeks."

Answering a question as to the number, Mr. Lance replied "dozens of them." "That is rather indefinite," remarked the reporter. "Were there as many as fifty?" "At least that number, and speaking offhand, I would say more," replied Mr. Lance.

Majority Single Men.

With regard to the class of men asking for help, he replied, "There are a few married men, with their families, who have come into the city, but the majority are single men, without a trade in their hands. These men appear, from the information they give us, to have been brought out by the Soldiers' Settlement Board. They seem to have got tired of the positions to which they were sent, and to be just drifting from place to place, 'floaters,' we call them. As they have served during the war in the imperial forces they come to us for assistance, but we have no fund for this purpose. However, where a case appears to absolutely justify some help, we do what is possible. The large majority of these men come from other districts. So far as the local unemployed soldiers are concerned conditions seem to be pretty fair at the present time. We are not being called upon for assistance in these cases as much as we were."

Your Last Chance To Give When the Travelers Call

The United Welfare Fund campaign winds up with the canvass of the commercial travelers.

The travelers are devoting Saturday and Sunday—the only two days in the week they have at home—for this great cause.

Saturday they will leave a card at your door. If you have not already given your welfare donation, fill out the card with the amount of the subscription you will make and the manner in which you wish to pay. Sunday the travelers will call for the cards.

This is positively the last opportunity you will have this year to do your share toward the upkeep of the fifteen important welfare organizations that come under the head of the United Welfare Association.

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.

This week so far has added nineteen, over half of them warblers, to the season's total, which is now well over the hundred mark. Twenty-one warblers out of the thirty usually recorded have been listed. The cool weather prevailing most of the past couple of weeks has slowed the procession, and some of these new arrivals are behind their average date a few days, and none of them many days ahead, as in the early part of the season. The foliage is as far advanced now as often on May 24, and some American experts are predicting that the balance of the migrants will go through with a rush. The departures for the week probably include the hermit thrush and sapsucker, both seen last about a week ago. An odd ruby-crowned kinglet is still noticed, and there seems to have been a supplementary migration of these, as they were missd for a week or more, and then turned up again on the 8th, and one or two have been recorded every day since. White-throated sparrows are still fairly common. Baltimore orioles, bobolinks, yellow warblers and warbling vireos now pretty generally distributed.

The first wave of warblers arrived this morning, and the writer noticed in one garden on his way to work the following new arrivals: Magnolia, chestnut-sided and Canada. Besides these were Tennessee, blackburnian, black and white, black-throated blue and yellow warblers, white-throated and white-crowned sparrows, rose-breasted grosbeak, orioles, blue-headed vireo, etc., not so bad for one back yard. Some of these are among the most gorgeous specimens to be found anywhere, and to eyes that have never known them are at once a surprise and delight.

Of the new arrivals the magnolia, arrayed in black and grey mantle with white trimmings and yellow under parts streaked with black, is one of the handsomest, and will probably be fairly common for a few days about the parks, etc., where his short song, "hickity-lick," may be heard.

The chestnut-sided is easily identified by his yellow crown, white cheeks and under parts with chestnut stripe down each side.

The Canada is grey above and yellow underneath, with a necklace of black bars, and is one of the best singers of the warblers, his song having something of the water-thrush quality.

The whippoorwill, also seen this morning, will summer in swamps hereabouts, where, especially in the evening, may be heard the song from which he derives his name.

The parula, one of the smallest warblers, sometimes known as the yellow-backed blue, also came today.

The Tennessee, green above and white underneath, reported on Wednesday, and is often mistaken by beginners for some of the vireos, but has a distinct song that readily identifies him.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A., at 7:30 p.m., to which all interested are invited.

PAID "GRAFT" IN ORDER TO SECURE COAL

Sensational Evidence at Inquiry Into Fuel Shortage at Brantford.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, May 13.—After an all-day session, the local fuel shortage inquiry adjourned tonight in order that further evidence might be submitted at a later date. Louis Stander, a local coal dealer, appeared before Judge Hardy and acknowledged that he had paid out fifty cents a ton "graft" in order that he might secure 17,000 tons of coal during the last months of 1918. He charged that other dealers had done the same thing and that an American agent named Auld had secured thousands of dollars in this manner. The fuel control board had "winked at the practice."

Ex-Mayor M. M. MacBride, M. L. A., protested against the suggestion of Custom Collector John H. Spence that he (MacBride) wanted to make the hearing a "political grandstand." Mr. MacBride alleged that certain unnamed organizations were spreading propaganda throughout the city with a view to securing his downfall. A shortage of 313 tons of hard coal out of 3,694 tons in the West Brant yard was accounted for as the result of thieving.

The Port Stanley Nukol Company, Limited, have closed their stock sales office at 402 Clarence street, and in future fuel orders will be received at the yard office—phone 1324. Telephone orders will receive prompt attention. b

"BRITISH ARMY OF THREE"

Canadian Colonel, Though "Rough Diamond," Better Liked by Men Than Any Other British O. C.

BOSTON, May 13.—Early on Friday morning, the 26th of July, 1918, Col. Burton asked me to try to find a pilot in the little village of Knyajaya Guba, on the northwestern shores of the White Sea, where we, a section of the British expeditionary force to North Russia, had been stational for several months. The colonel was a Canadian, considerably more than six feet "in his socks." He was what one would call "a rough diamond," but was liked better than any other British O. C. by his men, a fact which he had every reason to be proud of.

We wanted a pilot who knew the White Sea, in and out, a pilot who cared neither for a choppy sea nor Bolshevist bullets, for Archangel was still in their hands, their crafts were plowing the sea in all directions, and we had to go right down to Kem, a little town on the southwestern side of the White Sea. We had been promised a small steamer, then lying at Kovda village, about 30 miles farther down, but the captain of this craft could not make the trip and his mate was not willing to do the journey without a pilot, this particularly as most of the sea marks had been removed, and the only map available was about 80 years old.

In vain did I search the village from one end to another; none of the natives were willing to undertake this job, even though I offered them the most tempting bribes. In the afternoon we had to leave for Kovda without a pilot, hoping to get one down there. We arrived there at midnight, met the British consul, Mr. Teakston, and after many unsuccessful attempts we obtained the reluctant services of a man who had not been as far south as Kem for the last fifteen years.

Saturday morning a new disappointment was in store for us. The engineer and firemen refused to undertake the journey. Five young Finns volunteered, and after they had "studied" the engines for a couple of hours, they were prepared to take us to the other end of the world, if need be. And so "His Majesty's Army," consisting of Col. Burton, his batman and my humble self, went on board.

The northern night was beautiful, but the sea was very choppy, and our little steamer was tossed about on the white-crested waves of the White Sea. We arrived outside Kem on Sunday morning. By Sunday night our business was completed, and we were ready to return.

But Col. Burton had heard about that wonderful Monastery of Solovyetsk, 500 years old, perhaps the richest Greek church in Russia, and situated about 40 or 50 miles straight east from Kem, and he wanted to see it before we returned. In vain did the pilot and the mate implore him not to go there; the rocks around Solovyetsh were very numerous, and Bolshevist crafts were still about.

"Bolsheviki!" laughed the colonel, snapping his fingers. "We are three British soldiers. What more do they want?"

It was about 11 o'clock on Sunday night when we caught sight of the numerous cupolas, turrets and towers of the monastery. They stood out shimmering white against the black sky. The picture reminded us more of a mediaeval town of sunny Italy than of a group of Russian buildings just a few miles below the Polar Circle. Through my field glasses I could see hundreds of excited monks gathering on the quay in the picturesque little harbor. But all the sea marks had been removed, and the entrance to the Solovyetsh harbor, through a winding, narrow channel, is a difficult task to attempt even in broad daylight. And now the night was already closing in upon us. We crept along very slowly, and the mate was frequently measuring the depth. Through my glasses I could plainly see several of the monks kneeling down as if in prayer. Why? Had the Bolsheviki, perhaps, again taken possession of the monastery?

The little dinghy was launched. One of the crew took to the oars, and I took up position in the fore. Scarcely had the monks caught sight of our uniforms before they gave us a greeting of welcome, and several of them lent us a hand in climbing up the steep quay.

The joy of the quaint little fellows was intense. At first they had taken us for Bolsheviki, and they had knelt down on the quay praying that our vessel should run on the rocks, for they had had a bitter experience of the last visit of the Bolsheviki to their islands.

In the meantime the monks had prepared a huge corner room for us in their guest house, from the windows of which we had a beautiful view of the White Sea, as well as of the islands, for our room was on the top floor of the big building.

It was already midday when we were awakened the following morning by one of the brothers, who brought us our breakfast, consisting of things we had not seen for months, such as milk, fresh butter, and the best of new-laid eggs.

The monk had been detailed as our guide. He took us around the whole monastery, showed us their splendid museums and collections, and was particularly anxious to point out to us several of the bombs that the British men-of-war had fired on the monastery during the Crimean War, when a British fleet in 1854 had attacked the fortified monastery.

The monastery, situated at 65 degrees northern latitude, and 53 degrees eastern longitude, had been formed on a group of lonely islands in the White Sea by pious hermits in 1429. This group consists of six larger and a number of smaller islands. There is plenty of fresh water on these islands. But the short summer makes practically all agriculture impossible, and corn and wheat has to be imported from the mainland. The difficulties that the first settlers had to overcome were enormous, but the monastery soon became famous for its wonders, saints and piety, and Russian monarchs and beggars were equally anxious to send gifts to the brothers.

All through the sixteenth century the monks had to fight many a hard struggle with Swedish and German attackers, and in 1579 the monastery was surrounded with palisades and turrets. In 1701 the Novodvinsky fortress was built and supplied with 25 cannon, batteries and trenches. Peter the Great paid several personal visits, and did all in his power to aid and encourage the monks. And thanks to the liberal support of the Russian nobility, Solovyetsh Monastery by and by became one of the most flourishing institutions in Russia. Particularly has its influence made itself felt in the northern regions around the White Sea, and the history of the Archangel district is practically synonymous with that of the monastery.

We had been strolling around on the top of the old stone walls of the monastery while the monk related to us its history, but when we entered the museum our guide pointed to several empty glass cases, and his eyes were filled with tears.

"All those were filled with old valuables," he said, "but the Bolsheviki, when they visited us, took them all away."

The monk took us to see the archimandrite at his house. He pulled the bell, and a young man with a beautiful face opened the door. It was the secretary of the archimandrite, who informed us that his very reverend master was waiting for us in the dining-room. We walked through several rooms, the walls of which were entirely covered with various ikons, religious pictures and portraits of former archimandrites. Father Benjamin met us in the door and gave us a hearty welcome.

"The last time you English came here you came as enemies; you now come as friends and saviours," exclaimed he. But little did he then know that his Englishmen consisted of a Canadian, an Irishman and a Firilander.

The archimandrite entertained us for more than an hour, and ended by inviting us to accompany him on an inspection trip around the islands. But we had to refuse, as we only had time to stay for a day. Before we left the archimandrite gave us each an illustrated history of the monastery, and as I was the only one of us who spoke Russian, he wrote a few words in my book.

Just as we were leaving the monastery to return to our "hotel," situated just outside the gates, we noticed a kalesch, drawn by a pair of beautiful horses, starting on a journey. Leaning back against the support sat the archimandrite, tall and dark and solemn, like a king in a fairy tale. But when he saw us he waved us a kind farewell with his hand. And then he started on his inspection trip around his little kingdom.

CHAPLIN TO STAY IN UNITED STATES

Reported English Offer of $20,000 Weekly Said To Have Been Rejected.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Louella O. Parsons, writing in the Morning Telegraph, this morning, says:

England is after our Charlie. She may think she has a prior claim on the services of the great Chaplin because he is really a native of Great Britain, but whatever idea she has of annexing the comedian are fruitless, because Mr. Chaplin comes out himself and very definitely says he expects to remain in the United States.

The offer made Mr. Chaplin is staggering in its size. He has been offered $50,000 a week, which is at the rate of more than a million a year, for his signature to a theatrical contract for twelve months. Talk about America being the land of milk and honey! We have nothing to equal that on stage or screen. The proposition, according to Mr. Chaplin himself, is only one of many he has received during the last two months. The $20,000 a week contract was tendered him by a group of English financiers, and carries with it an additional bonus of a quarter of a million dollars for acceptance within sixty days.

It took Mr. Chaplin just one hour to deliberate on the proposition, and most of that time was spent in deciphering the long code cable which arrived from England a few days ago. He came back with the following brief, but to the point answer:

"Your proposition overwhelms me. Sorry I cannot accept it."

For the sum of $1,040,000 yearly Chaplin was to give his services as star and director of a theatrical company made up of prominent actors to assist in a new play written with Mr. Chaplin in mind.

To assure the comedian he would not suffer inconvenience for any lack of salary, these English bankers agreed to put the entire amount in the bank payable to the joint account of the signers of the contract. In the event of the acceptance by Chaplin he was to start for London not later than August 15, at which date the agreement would be considered in final operation.

THREE GREAT NATURAL BRIDGES IN S. E. UTAH.

Among the canyons of Southeastern Utah are three great natural bridges, forming the only group of the kind in the world. The Nonnezoshe, or Rainbow Bridge, is the largest of all natural arches yet discovered, and is only four miles from the summit of Navajo Mountain. From the summit of the mountain Rainbow Bridge appears as the tiniest of arches in a wilderness of rock. The "group" bridges in Utah, as they may be called to differentiate them from the solitary Rainbow arch, are in San Juan County, near the head of White River.

ALL IMMIGRANTS CARRIED BY VEDIC

Quebec, May 13.—The arrival of the White Star-Dominion liner Vedic at Quebec marks an innovation in trans-Atlantic passenger traffic, as far as Canada is concerned, inasmuch as for the first time an ocean liner brings third-class passengers only. In late years there has been a tendency on the St. Lawrence to have liners with cabin and third-class accommodation only in place of three classes, and this latest arrival seems to be another step towards the removal of class barriers, or it may be that the demand for accommodation for the workers of Europe is greater than it is for the wealthier and more prosperous classes.

The Vedic came in earlier than originally expected by the White Star-Dominion Company. The trip occupied ten days, speed not being attempted. Arriving at Grosse Isle at noon today, the vessel was detained several hours, as nine passengers were removed, including five cases of measles and four suspect cases, and it was 6:45 o'clock when the vessel docked. This, however, was too late for the immigrants to be examined, hence they disembarked early the next morning. There are 1,220 passengers, of whom 700 are British, the remainder including Poles and various denizens of European countries, who embarked at Antwerp.

Preparations were made in the Government immigration sheds to cope with all detention cases this year. It will be remembered that towards the close of navigation last year the strain was too great here, and big crowds of detention cases had to be transferred to Montreal.

The Hospital Cases.

Hospital cases, which were formerly looked after in the immigration sheds on the wharves here will be transferred to a special hospital to be opened shortly at St. Malo, a few miles away, and the accommodation formerly used for these cases will be available for detention cases. Another improvement in the arrangements for immigrants in these sheds is the nursery for children, and restroom for women, opened by the Canadian Red Cross. With the chaplains of Roman Catholic, Anglican and Non-Episcopal churches, and representatives of Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Canadian Red Cross and other bodies, all having offices in these sheds, it would seem that every care of newcomers should now be taken. The Vedic will probably get away from Quebec by 10 o'clock Monday morning, and should reach Montreal about 9 o'clock in the evening. As under government regulations, all third-class passengers must be disembarked at Quebec, it will be seen that for the first time a passenger ship will arrive at Montreal without passengers, other than one or two company officials traveling from Quebec, but on the eastbound voyage she will embark passengers there.

The Vedic, which was built in 1915, by Harland & Wolff at Belfast, was originally intended as a passenger carrier, but owing to the necessities of war was finished hastily and put into service between New York and Liverpool as a freighter, carrying supplies for the British Government. Last year she went back to her builders and was completed by them as a third-class passenger carrier, serving in this capacity between New York and Liverpool during the past winter. She has now been assigned to the Montreal run. She is of 9,332 gross tons.

COMMUNISM PLUS ELECTRIFICATION

Soviet Russia's Grandiose Dream of Developing 27,000,000 Horsepower.

Viborg, Finland, May 13.—Communism, plus electrification, is now the slogan of the Russian Soviet regime. Reports of this vast dream of Lenine by which, say sarcastic refugees reaching Finland, he "hopes to make every Russian hut a communistic paradise with a dynamo in the corner" have reached the outside world frequently during the past few months, but only recent Moscow and Petrograd newspapers show the vast extent of the proposed electrification of Russia.

G. S. Zinovieff, Soviet governor of Petrograd, in a speech at that city, announced that the scheme contemplated the construction all over European Russia and Siberia of huge electric power plants, with a total capacity of 18,170,000 horsepower in the former, and 9,000,000 horsepower in Siberia. On this work, he said, are to be employed, as fast as possible, the soldiers who are demobilized.

How seriously Lenine advocates electrification is shown in one of his recent speeches, wherein he said: "More must be done regarding electrification. The whole future of Soviet Russia depends on the consummation of the plan. All elements of the population must assist in this state enterprise. The building of electric stations all over the country will take ten years. Concessions must furnish the working capital Then communistic Russia will be an example to all the governments of Europe and Asia."

At present Russia has comparatively few electric plants.

To further the immediate development of the electrification plan, electrical workers and engineers have, for several months, been exempted from the restrictions placed upon other workmen and have been given preferred rations.

IN TEN MINUTES SHE'S A LAWYER

Detroit, May 13.—Ostensibly to study judicial procedure in preparation for the making of a picture in which she is to play the part of a modern Portia, Clara Kimball Young, the well-known and handsome movie star, visited Judge William M. Heston's court.

However, no attempt at secrecy was made by Miss Young's representatives, who were apparently not unwilling for the reporters to report, and for the photographers to photog while Miss Young endeavored to discover just what makes the wheels of justice go around.

A touch of distinction was given the usual dull grinds of arraignments by the presence of the beauteous Miss Young. The court room was crowded with the customary apathetic gallery of bored spectators, augmented for the occasion by numerous clerks of the Municipal Courts Building. The immaculate George T. Gaston was there, and even Judge Harry B. Keldan dropped in for a peek at the lovely lady.

WAGE CUT IS ACCEPTED BY LAKE PILOTS

Signing of Agreement Means That Big Strike Is Averted.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

DETROIT, May 13.—Representatives of the lake pilots and engineers on railroad steamship lines on the Great Lakes today signed an agreement for a 15 per cent wage cut, effective immediately. The agreement between five railroads and the unions of the Lake Engineers', Masters' and Mates' Association has averted a strike which would have tied up lake shipping, it is announced.

The settlement was reached at a conference at the Union Depot late today. Representing the unions were: William Brown, national president of marine unions; Captain John Pruitt, president of Marine Masters' and Mates' Association; Albert Jones, business manager of Great Lakes Masters' and Mates' Association, and Captain John Strain.

Concessions made by the railroads were a reduction of the proposed wage cut from 20 per cent to 15 per cent, and striking out a clause in the agreement providing for abolishing the office of third engineer on the boats.

No agreement has yet been reached between the White Star Steamship Line and seamen regarding a proposed 15 per cent wage cut.

The railroad steamship lines affected by the wage cut are the Pere Marquette, Grand Trunk, Wabash, Ann Arbor and the Mackinaw Transportation.

FILMING ANGLERS ON CAIN'S RIVER

C. N. R. Party Had Successful Outing With Guide Harry Allen.

FINE NATURE PICTURES

Will Reveal Splendid Attractions Offered To Tourists and Sportsmen by New Brunswick.

MONTREAL, May 13.—A series of film pictures that will advertise the attractions of the Cain's River, New Brunswick, will soon be released on the western circuit of motion picture houses which cover the principal centres of Western Canada and the United States. These pictures were taken late in April in the Canadian woods.

Salmon fishing, trout fishing, the navigation of the picturesque river by canoes, as well as pictures of deer, partridge and ducks, will figure in the film pictures that will eloquently tell thousands of the splendid attractions New Brunswick offers to tourists and sportsmen. It is a picture story, more thrilling than words, of a real outing in the New Brunswick woods, where a party of real sportsmen experienced the luxury of living in the lap of nature in order to give to others a real story of camp life.

The outing was arranged by the Canadian National Railways. Mr. F. W. Robertson, general passenger agent of Eastern Lines, with Mr. John M. Lyons, representative of the Reid Newfoundland Company, Limited, accompanied the party, which was led by the well-known guide, Harry Allan, of Penniac, who had with him three other guides as assistants. W. H. Robinson, C. N. R. photographer, also was with the party.

From Train to Canoe.

The party of eight started from Fredericton on the morning of Tuesday, April 25th, taking the Canadian National train to McGivney Junction, where the guides with the canoes and supplies were waiting. They transferred here to the train from Edmundston to Moncton, traveling as far as Cain's River Bridge. Here the Cain's River runs close to the track, and it was the matter of only a few moments to place the "duffle" in the canoes and start on the 71-mile trip to the mouth of the river, where it empties into the Miramichi, near Blackville. The water was high for good trouting—almost in freshet, in fact, but early salmon had found their way from the Miramichi, and some excellent ones were killed the first day out. Mr. Lyons having the honor of landing the first, a fine fish of ten pounds, in fine condition. Mr. Robertson had his first successful try at a salmon, landing a twelve-pounder. The fish were full of fight, and the film operator had a busy time recording a very interesting and exciting picture. Harry Allen also hooked a couple of salmon, and gave a real demonstration of "gaffing" that went on the films, and should prove a "thriller."

The party lived finely while on this trip through the New Brunswick wilderness paradise. Although early in the season the weather most obligingly turned warm. The first night was spent at the Duffy camp, and succeeding nights they lived in tents and enjoyed all the comforts of camp life—comforts such as those trained guides alone know how to furnish on such an outing.

Deer Not Bashful.

Besides the fishing scenes, other interesting film pictures were recorded. Deer were plentiful, and not at all bashful. Partridges were numerous, just as if they knew they were enjoying a close season. Ducks were also plentiful. As a canoe route the Cain's River is noted, even in a province so renowned for its variety of alluring waterways.

The party finished taking pictures on Friday, and on Saturday arrived at Howards to entrain for home. While this trip was for picture-making, it is an outing taken every summer by visiting sportsmen. Feminine devotees of rod and reel also enjoy this trip, and it might be mentioned that there is a finely-appointed bungalow at a point on the Cain's River owned by a wealthy New York broker, who, with his family spends several weeks there every summer.

The films, when released, will make most interesting pictures, and should be productive of a more widely extended knowledge concerning the sporting attractions of the province. Mr. Allen will be furnished with one of the reels for his lecturing tour in the States next winter.

BRITAIN WILL NOT ALLOW POLES TO SEIZE U. SILESIA

Lloyd George Declares Allies Will See That Treaty Is Respected — Poland Sh ould Be Last Country in Europe to Complain, He Says.

LONDON, May 13.—Great Britain will not accept as a fact accomplished the seizure and holding by insurgent Poles under the leadership of Aldabert Korfanty, of portions of Upper Silesia.

This was made plain in the House of Commons by Premier Lloyd George, who emphatically declared the invasion was in defiance of the treaty of Versailles. Either the Allies should insist on the treaty being respected, the premier said, or they ought to allow Germany to do so.

"Not merely to disarm Germany, but to say that such troops as she has are not to be permitted to take part in restoring order—that is not fair," the premier said.

It would be discreditable and not worthy of the honor of any land, and, he asserted, "I am perfectly certain that it will not be the attitude the Allies will take."

Must Be Respected.

Mr. Lloyd George said it was of supreme interest that the Allies should see that the treaty was respected. For the moment overwhelming force was on the side of the Allies, and Germany must submit to them, but the future was dark and uncertain. He predicted that force would count less and less with the treaty of Versailles and the honor of Germany to her bond would count more. He added that if there should come a change in circumstances and the power of the Germans become more vital, then it would be a bad thing if the Germans could say: "You are asking us to honor our bond: what did you do with yours?"

"I am entitled to say, and I say it solemnly to Great Britain and her Allies, that it is not merely a matter of honor—though even that surely is not to be despised," the premier declared.

Was Given Liberty.

Poland, said Mr. Lloyd George, was the last country in Europe which should complain about the treaty. She did not win her liberty. It was given her by Italy, Great Britain and France. There was not a letter in the treaty that did not represent British, French and Italian lives. It is charged that the Poles during the war had been divided, half of them fighting with the Germans.

"They fell in German uniforms," the premier dramatically exclaimed, "and shot down Frenchmen, British and Italians who were fighting for their freedom." Mr. Lloyd George challenged Poland's claim of non-responsibility for the invasion of Upper Silesia. He referred to the invasion of Lithuania by irregular Polish troops in defiance of the Allies, and said that the passage of officers and arms across the Polish border "made it very difficult to feel that those repudiations of responsibility were anything but verbal."

RESCUED FROM BURNING HOME

Kincardine Woman, 90 Years Old, Carried to Safety by Neighbors.

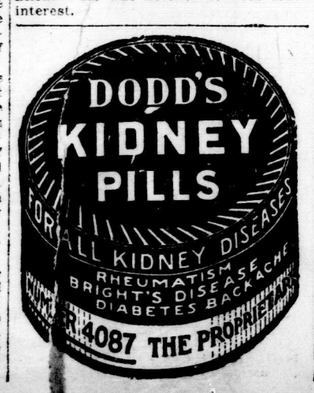

[Special to The Advertiser.]

KINCARDINE, May 13.—Mrs. McKiever, nearly 90 years of age, was carried to safety by neighbors, when the house in which she lived with her son, Malcolm McKiever, a fine brick residence on the boundary between Kinloss and Greenock, was destroyed by fire today. Lying on a bed, which was one of the few articles of furniture saved from the flames, Mrs. McKiever watched futile efforts made by the firemen to save the building. Although the fire alarm on the foghorn was sounded quickly, bells rung and the firemen responded promptly, the flames could not be halted, the building being located east of the river at too great a distance from the municipal water mains.

It was owned by L. Roy.

TRUSTS GOOD SENSE OF BRITISH PEOPLE

Premier Does Not Fear European Revolutionary Movements.

LONDON, May 11.—Premier Lloyd George, in replying to questions during debate in the House of Commons today on the industrial situation, said there was no doubt that revolutionary movements were involved, but to what extent they were subsidized by foreign money, he could not say. The Government was watching the situation closely, added the premier, and he had faith in the good sense of the British people.

Lieut.-Col. Henry Page Croft, National parliamentary member for Bournmouth, had previously declared the industrial situation was due to Bolshevik plans to wreck British industries. He asserted that certain of the British labor leaders were avowed revolutionaries.

Daring Robbery Perpetrated by Gang as Many Look On.

WINDSOR, May 13.—Miss Laura Trudell, messenger for the Provincial Bank branch in Ford City, was robbed of $1,600 at noon by three men, who escaped in an automobile.

She was walking alone in Drouillard road, carrying a satchel containing the money, when the bandits drove up, snatched the bag and pushed her from them.

Immediately after the bag had been snatched, Miss Trudell called for help, and ran to the Ford police station, where she told her story breathlessly to the officers on duty. Motorcycle constables were then dispatched to all port entries to block the getaway of the band.

Less than ten minutes later Chief of Police Smith and Detective Lefebvre of the Walkerville force discovered the car, which has been identified as the one the bandits drove. It was abondoned on the Walker road a stone's throw from Edna street. No one appears to have seen the four men leaving the car, but their getaway was so complete that police believe that another car was secured.

LLOYD GEORGE AND GREENWOOD ARE IN OPTIMISTIC MOOD

Both See Brighter Hopes For Irish Peace—Much Is Expected From Bill.

BEST SIGN IN 750 YEARS

Meeting of Sir James Craig and De Valera Is An Extremely Significant Sign.

LONDON, May 13. — Lloyd George gave his blessing this afternoon in his speech at Maidstone to the meeting between Sir James Craig and De Valera. Referring to it briefly, he said:

"What has happened or what will ensue from it I cannot predict. All I can say is that it is a good sign that they are discussing things together. My difficulty has always been to get them to come and talk over things. I am glad that has begun. I won't say another word about Ireland today."

The political correspondent of the Sunday Times is of the opinion that to suppose that De Valera as a result of the conference is about to come to London to see Lloyd George, is to misread the situation entirely.

"The main hopes of the prime minister," he says, "are still fixed in his bill, and he is more hopeful of the results to be obtained by leaving Irishmen to work out their unity among themselves than of anything that can be done at this stage by action of the English Government."

As for what passed at the conference, the correspondent says:

"They certainly did not discuss the terms on which the Sinn Fein would agree to meet the representatives of the Imperial Government. What they did discuss was the possibility of a common policy between the North and South in regard to the forthcoming elections. That is just as good or better, and a hopeful sign. The whole Irish press this week proves it."

The belief that de Valera is now prepared to come to some kind of an agreement with Ulster leaders, is borne out by a reference he makes in the Irish Independent today to Sir James Craig. He says:

"We shall never cease to maintain that there is a community of interest between our countrymen of the northeastern corner of Ireland and our people of the south and west for all their misunderstandings and prejudices, artificially created for the most part. We believe that the men of Ulster, reft from us by statute, but retained to us by higher laws, look upon Ireland as their country, and in their hearts cherish the Irish name. In the eighteenth century Ulster, felt profoundly her unity with the rest of Ireland. She will do so again. May that day be soon."

MASONS RAISED $10,000.

WINDSOR, May 13. — Walkerville Masons subscribed $10,000 at a meeting last night for the erection of a Masonic Temple in that town. Property at the corner of Kildare and Ontario streets is favored as a site.

GALT ENTERTAINS C. P. R. EMPLOYEES

Following Reception and Luncheon Party Visited Port Dover.

GALT, May 13.—Forty-five officials, members of the Ontario District Association of the C. P. R. Employees, from Smiths Falls to Detroit, and Hamilton to Owen Sound, met here for a regular meeting today. They were greeted on their arrival by members of the board of trade, and in automobiles made a tour of the city, including a visit to the Hugh McCulloch Memorial Nurses' Home. Following this a business session was held at the city hall, when transportation problems were thoroughly discussed. W. Coulter of Toronto, president, was in the chair. The visitors were entertained at luncheon, President S. Clarke of the board of trade, presiding, and assisted in the honors by Mayor S. E. Charlton and Ald. James E. Gardiner, chairman of the civic reception committee. After this the visiting railwaymen were the guests of General Manager William Kirkwood of the L. E. and N. and G. R. Railways on a trip to Port Dover.

Dairy butter was quoted as low as 30 cents per pound today, and creamery at 38 cents per pound.

The Hespeler Band, which had planned to hold a celebration on Dominion Day, has given up this idea, and instead, will hold a tattoo in July or August.

THE WELL-GROOMED MAN would as soon think of not having immaculate linen, as to do without his Campana's Italian Balm, for he knows how pleasantly and effectually it relieves razor irritation and prevents rash, pimples and "chap." # What You Owe to Advertisers

You owe to advertisers in daily newspapers almost everything that has made living more comfortable and healthy.

Daily Newspaper Advertisers of foodstuffs gave you clean foods, just weights and fixed prices for the things you buy to eat.

Daily Newspaper Advertisers gave you better houses, modern bathrooms, hardwood floors, electric lights, gas and electric ranges.

Daily Newspaper Advertisers gave you better clothes to wear by educating the public to the value of good clothes and their economy.

Daily Newspaper Advertisers made your housework easier by giving you quick cleansing fluids, furniture polishes, floor machines, vacuum cleaners, carpet sweepers, aluminum cooking utensils, clothes dryers, sewing machines, gas and electric irons.

Daily Newspaper Advertising made it possible for you to retain the beauty nature endowed you with by suggesting emollients, toilet preparations, shaving creams, safety razors, etc.

* * * *

The pioneers in all these things were the firms who made them and advertised them.

They led the way.

It is for this reason that you should always buy advertised goods.

These goods have raised your standard of comfort and living; and the manufacturers of them command admiration for their courage and foresight.

Dollar for dollar, the advertised article is always better value. The reason is that when an article is advertised, production of it is invariably greater. Therefore, the manufacturer has a larger output and a lower cost of production; hence the greater value for the money.

Further, the advertised article generally has superior merit and greater refinements about it. If it were not so, it would not be advertised.

Buy advertised goods, and buy them from the local store that advertises.

"BOB" ON THE JOB.

Hon. Robert Rogers confessed to the House of Commons on one occasion that whatever his deficiencies might be in other lines, he did have one distinction, that he knew how to win elections. The remark was one with which the House agreed, though it might have been added that Hon. Mr. Rogers had not won any of his elections with prayers.

There has been some coolness of late between the present premier and his former colleague in the Borden cabinet. There could hardly be much in common between the altitudinous intellectuality of Hon. Arthur Meighen and the rather materialistic political philosophy of the Hon. "Bob," but necessity makes strange bedfellows, and the latest word from the capital is that a reconciliation is taking place. Mr. Rogers didn't like it when Mr. Meighen became premier; he didn't like the change of the name of the party; possibly he had the idea of being premier himself. Who knows? At any rate, the ex-minister has not been seen much in cabinet company at Ottawa, though occasionally he has been the center of some little Tory gathering at Toronto, with Col. John Currie and a few others of like sentiment gathered to cheer for "good old Bob."

Now it is reported that Mr. Rogers is seen much about the capital, and that there is a likelihood that he will bring his well-known skill in handling elections to the aid of the Meighen party. All of which is very interesting. Mr. Rogers is being called at the present time as a witness in a Montreal newspaper suit to tell what he knows about some features of the 1911 election. He had a good deal to do with the handling of the campaign fund of that election year, and could tell many interesting things if he wished, both as to its source and outgoing Perhaps we shall know more as to who financed the 1911 campaign for the Conservative party. There was no lack of money that year, at least, and it was used with marked effect.

If Hon. Mr. Rogers is going to be associated with the next election, which in any case cannot be long delayed, there need be no doubt as to the return of the National Liberal and Conservative party to real Toryism. Further, the Liberal forces in Canada may expect to face just such tactics as were employed in the 1911 election to misrepresent their cause and to endeavor to compass their defeat.

THE REAL BUSINESS OF LIFE.

"The real business of life is the cause of humanity," said Rev. D. C. MacGregor, in addressing the United Welfare Fund workers. No one but a pagan, he said, could object to helping the aged and the sick. The span of civilization was measured by what had been done to make the lot of the feeble and the maimed more comfortable.

No one who is free from "jungle rule" will disagree with these sentiments, and it is gratifying to know that the citizens of London are so far in harmony with them that they are nobly responding to the appeals being made to their hearts and hands. There is no doubt that other cities are keeping their eyes on London's welfare campaign, and that the example set in this city will have far-reaching effects. This furnishes an additional reason why the light of charity should be made to shine as brightly as possible.

Paradoxical as it may appear, "the only thing that people in this world keep is that which they give away." True happiness springs from unselfishness, and the greatest treasure a man can possess is the consciousness of having made some real sacrifice for a fellow-creature.

We sincerely trust that the campaign organization will not only reach, but exceed, its objective, and that everyone will give something, for by doing so they will become active agents in the splendid effort which is being made.

The members of the United Welfare Association are to be congratulated on the businesslike manner in which they have set about their task. Guided by last year's experience and by the necessity of making a still more intensive effort on this occasion, in order to insure success, they are doing splendid work. The hearty co-operation of the public has been a source of encouragement to all concerned, and it is to be hoped that no effort will be relaxed until the desired end had been triumphantly reached. As has been pointed out, those who are being helped are not the organizations enumerated in the lists, but the sick, the feeble and the young, who are being ministered to through those institutions.

It would be a pity if in the backwash of this wave of generous giving any minor charitable organization found itself stranded beyond the reach of help. As will be seen from a letter which has appeared in our columns, A. Lewis, superintendent of the City Mission, fears this result. The City Mission has not been included in the United Welfare budget, on the ground that it is a religious organization, and that it had not given an account of its receipts and expenditures, but we are satisfied that this mission is doing excellent work among the poor and needy, in a quiet and unostentatious way, and we trust that it will not be lost sight of by anyone who can hold out a helping hand.

MIRACLES OF GROWTH AND GRACE.

On a majestic scale Nature is the supreme quick-change artist. The stage puts nothing over her supernal scene-shifts. The cinema unwinds no reel comparable with Maytime transformation. A few months ago the fields were white. Then grey and brown. This week they lay resplendent in exquisite shadings of green. In August they will take on the golden glow of harvest. March saw the orchards wearing a cheerless drab, speedily metamorphosed with clouds of fragrant bloom. The dead-looking vines on the trellis suddenly put out at the joints of last year's wood growth dainty miniature clumps of the Concords and Delawares yet to be. Gnarled old bulbs buried for a few weeks throw up shoots presently crowned with the glories of the dahlia. Canadian maple and elms almost over night expanded into terraces and traceries of foliage and flower, soon to fall, laden with the beginnings of another seedling crop—millions of them, lest by any chance the tree might perish from the earth by the ruthless axe of the timber man. Alread ythe wood ways are skirted and carpeted with fresh plantations of Nature's sowing for the wise forester. Everywhere is an abounding life, three months ago invisible.

He who sitteth upon the throne of all life saith: "Behold, I make all things new." Nature is replete with renewals, and resurrections, and perpatuations. So oft-repeated, we forget the springtide miracle! But if in the natural, why not in the spiritual realm? The observant, logical and spiritually-illumined St. Paul was in no way hesitant about the transcendent renewal of the Resurrection, a familiar, but momentous event of the early Christian Church. Before the unbelieving Agrippa and maladroit accusers he exclaims: Why should it be thought a thing incredible that the Author and Source of all life should raise the dead! He likens it to the new life springing out of a decaying grain of corn. The analogy will bear extension. In plant life the fine pollen powder produced in one organ of the flower falls upon the ovule or immature seed in another part. It so operates as to start a new germ or individual life. No biologist has ever penetrated the Divine secret of that little but marvelous reproductive process. Nor does the wonder cease there. In case of cereals and other plants, it has been observed that new varieties suddenly make their appearance quite distinct from and better than the average in the field, possessing qualities which subsequently prove constant. In other words, Nature makes sudden leaps or mutations, as described by Professor Hugo DeVries and other authorities. In fact, instead of the slow and gradual plant change, DeVries contends that the mutation is the normal way in nature of producing new varieties and species. Hence there need be no surprise concerning spiritual mutations. "If any man be in Christ," runs the Word, "he is a new creature; old things are passed away, behold all things have become new." In divers manners, that new life comes of the inscrutable but renewing touch of the Divine Spirit, which, as it were, pollinates the individual soul. Paul understood this inward re-birth, for he had experienced it on the Damascus road. He was one of that great company of twice-born men about whom Harold Begbie writes in his modern chronicles, and which constitutes the theme of one of the most vivid and arresting poems in modern literature, John Masefield's "Everlasting Mercy." It is an epitome of the life, spiritual awakening and regeneration of a drink-besotted, poaching, prize-fighting and lustful rake, Saul Kane. After the bloody ring battle and a night carousal at the village inn, he opens the window and feels the cool air blow like grace upon him, and hears the church bells chime, "Holy, Holy, Holy." Memory recalls the convicting words of the devoted religious woman whom he insulted on her ministering round of the "pubs" the night before—"And summat made me think of things." As the wind bloweth where it listeth, so the Spirit moved upon his wild, disordered life, and that day, out of the murk of sin, he finds himself with new sight on a new road, where, he says, "Thou wilt not let me stand alone." The experience was personal and real. At last he saw beauty in the world, learned brotherhood, and realized how sinful was his life of idleness. Kneeling in the muddy fallow, he consecrates himself to the God-given plowman's task, "Turning a stubborn day to fruit."

"I knew that Christ had given me birth
To brother all the souls on earth;
Out of the mist, into the light,
A blessed gift of inner sight."

DOWN BY THE RIVER.

"And glimmering through that lace of boughs,
Dancing, while they hang darker still,
Along the restful river shines
The restless light's incessant thrill."

Through a wide pasture gate down a long slope of blossom-starred orchard trees, there winds an irresistible little footpath leading to the river. The way of the little path is one on which one must linger. There is no option when pink and white petals bar the way, too lovely to be trodden, as they scatter in showers like many butterflies before the breeze. Every intoxicating breath of blended spring fragrances that plays through the golden air is sufficient to awaken a gypsy nature and ruin one's purpose with a perfect afternoon. A gleam of wonderful gold detects the source of the oriole's fitful song; a cry of soft complain floats back from where one sees the wide sunlit wings of the flicker in flight, but the delaying dream is broken utterly by the thrill of wonder with which the low flight of the crimson cardinal is followed. A little branch left swinging in strange ecstacy tells the story of how nearly the bit of brilliance has touched the little path.

Through another wide gate, and down a little graveled roadway, a thicket of willows provokes investigation, and there, over the steps of a weather-silvered ice-slide, lies steeped in shadow-dreams a still pool of brown water. All about the edges grow ferns and may apple parasols, under which are blue and yellow violets and velvet bits of moss. Very closely crowd the willows to the very edge, and there is a complete canopy of overhanging boughs and new leaves for the little pool, born of the vanity of the trees so enraptured with their own shadows.

Beside the hidden liquid mirror runs the river, swift and clear and sun-shimmered. Projecting little boulders make silver ribbons of foam in the golden water, and little paths of restless sheen follow to the opposite banks, blending, interesting over the rapid flow of busy waters. Before and above and about are the beauties of Springbank, so outstanding and discernible from this north side of the Thames. A visitor from one of our largest Canadian cities reluctantly admits there is nothing in all Ontario to be compared with this lovely park of London. In time there will surely be many little footbridges to afford visitors the privilege of a close view of the park from the opposite bank of the Thames. Another dream of the future is that the street railway will circle the river in a longer route to Springbank, bringing visitors to the hospitals at Byron en route, and affording greater variety of scenery on the way; while the rebuilding of the dam at Byron will add wonderful interest to the attractions of boating and canoeing.

Up and up the wooded heights there are harmonies in greens that the width of the river displays marvelously. Groupings of spruce and pine and lacelike hemlocks of "solemn green," with the full-leafed maples and budding oaks and beeches, and occasional silver touches of birch, and over all the "grave tenderness of blue" that Ruskin so loved on hills and mountains, sets one eager to "be up at his loom, weaving and weaving to get the landscape into words." Shaded roadways, sunlit lanes revealing beds of flowering shrubs and plants, all have the loveliness of the unattainable across the river-barred way. "Never could I have enough," writes Richard Jeffries. "The exceeding beauty of the earth in her splendor of life yields a new thought with every petal. The hours when the mind is absorbed by beauty are the only hours when we really live."

POPULARITY OF KING.

[Calgary Albertan.]

King George V. celebrated the eleventh anniversary of his sovereignty on Friday. He is one of the few kings whose popularity did not suffer during the war. Monarchy is not unpopular in Britain and almost entirely because of the popularity of the King.

FLYING BOX CARS.

[Calgary Albertan.]

You'd get quite a shock if an aeroplane swooped down into your back yard one of these mornings and delivered a ton of coal or a dozen phonograph records.

And yet, is that day so far off?

About $5,000,000 worth of freight was carried by aeroplane last year, across the English Channel, between Great Britain and the continent.

"Foreign trade by air will be much bigger this year," says the Government report from London. "One of the largest items of exports by air last year was men's clothing. The bulk of the aerial imports was women's clothing, furs, hats, hosiery, moving picture films, perfumery, jewels and precious stones."

The latter items suggest that the smugglers of the future may use the aeroplane for crossing international frontiers. Liquor already is being taken into the United States from Canada and Mexico by air route.

A Jules Verne would have no difficulty in conceiving a future day when flying freight trains may cause railroads uncomfortable competition.

MR. STONE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

[New York Herald.]

For nearly 30 years Melville E. Stone has directed the operations of the Associated Press. His name has come to be, to the general understanding, almost a synonym for the energetic collections and effective presentation of the news of all the world. Our neighbor, the Tribune, speaks justly of Mr. Stone as a great reporter. Our neighbor the Times reflects that perhaps no other man on this earth has come into daily relations with so many of its inhabitants as this modest gentleman. Probably among the twelve hundred or so newspapers in the membership of the great organization which Melville Stone has long served and overseen with tireless fidelity and steadily increasing technical success there are few, if there are any, unready to join in the tribute of esteem and approval which mark his retirement from the active management of the Associated Press. The New York Herald adds its own special expression of good wishes and high appreciation. Connected yet in an advisory capacity with the institution he has done so much to upbuild, Mr. Stone's experience and knowledge will continue to count for the organization's welfare and he, as well as all others concerned, will be glad that the immediate responsibility of management falls now to so capable and competent a successor as Mr. Frederic Roy Martin.

THINGS THAT MUST NOT HAPPEN.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The Nation, which believes that there was no reason why we should have gone to war with Germany—but we did—is now engaged in developing ten good reasons why we may yet have to go to war with England—but we shouldn't. This is the higher logic and strategy. The ordinary man might think that one good way of avoiding war with a neighbor is to assume that the neighbor is a pretty decent fellow with whom there is no basic reason for quarrelling. The higher logic and morality suggest a complete resume of all the possibilities of a scrap and then a thorough process of prayer and entreaty to be spared from the terrible temptation.

AMAZING PENMANSHIP.

[Manchester Guardian.]

England at one time possessed a penman capable of rivaling Nessi Effendi Markarem, an Arab, now on a visit to Cairo with specimens of his art, including a grain of rice on which he has writ ten 110 words from the Koran. Peter Bales, as we learn from Holinshed's Chronicle, put in the compass of a silver penny more things than would fill several ordinary pages, and presented Queen Elizabeth with the manuscript set in a gold ring and covered with a crystal, together with a magnifying glass so powerful that the queen could easily decipher the manuscript, "which she held on her thumb-nail and commended the same to the Lords of the Council and the Ambassadors." Bales subsequently issued a challenge "to all Englishmen and strangers" to write, for a pen of gold.

THE OLDEST POILU.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

Surely the soul of Charles Surugue was played into Valhalla by the drums of France! Surely Napoleon and all his marshals, all the great captains of France stood at attention when the spirit of the "oldest poilu of France" came to the heaven of all good warriors. Surugue died in Paris this week. In his 82nd year he was gathered to his fathers, and the bugles of France sounded taps over a brave career. He had faced the black eagles in Germany in 1870-71. He saw the Prussian helmets come again in 1914. As a volunteer again he came to the French army in 1915, and saw France take her revenge upon the Prussian. When he died he commanded the burial honors of a lieutenant of sappers, and he wore upon his ancient breast the ribbons of the Legion of Honor. Three times was he cited in orders before the armistice. And he was seven years past the Psalmist's three score years and ten when he joined the French army at Souchez in 1915! He was not the sort that carried a field marshal's baton in his knapsack; but France and all that France stands for is well served by such as Charles Surugue. His was the spirit that makes France great upon the battlefield.

THE SHADOW OF THE HUN.

[London Morning Post.]

No Frenchman can turn to the north or the east without a shudder, and the sight of those desolate fields and innumerable graves must color his language and embitter his thoughts. Englishmen, therefore, ought not to decry or abuse the alarm bell which is ringing through France, but rather ought to consider the ways and means which might lead to the silencing of its solemn and foreboding call. And we cannot imagine any better method than the concluding of an alliance with the country which in saving European civilization also helps to ward off the felon blow struck at the heart of the British Empire. There are powerful reasons why in our own interests we ought to conclude such an alliance.

THE QUEST.

[D. A. S., in the Westminster Gazette.]

Per mare non notum

Over an unknown sea, that none may sound,
Whose shifting currents and engulfing sands
Reach out to clutch us, while a myriad bands
Of elfin shadows all our path surround,—

On drives our Argo, like a questing hound,
Hunting the quarry: now at fault he stands,
Now every muscle to the chase remands,
As with the view-halloo the hills resound.

O Golden Fleece, needs must we still be bold,
Through clashing rocks draws thou the vessel on
To that far Colchis, whose dim glades enfold
The heart's desire, till—e'en as in the past
From fiercest storm flashed fairest halcyon—
Our darkest doubts find deepest peace, at last.

NOT TO BE DECEIVED.

[Exchange.]

Mr. Newrich (examining curio)—Two thousand years old? You can't kid me! Why, it's only 1921 now!

A MAY MOVING PICTURE.

[Minna Irving.]

I skate along the upper hall
With more of speed than grace,
And count the stairs with chin and nose,
And land upon my face.
For soap and suds and pails and mops
And brooms are everywhere,
And lo! when I put down my foot
I find it is not there.

A roll of rugs becomes a trap
That throws me good and hard,
There's nothing in the house to eat
But mutton—bones and lard.
The place is damp and full of dust
Through which the microbes fly,
And all the sleeping germs arise
In wait for us to lie.

There's sticky varnish in my hair,
A kink is in my back,
I skidded in the vestibule
And sat upon a tack.
It is not true the May queen wears
The apple blossom's blush,
The symbols of her annual reign
Are mop and scrubbing brush.

THE FLOWER.

[Walter de la Mare.]

Horizon to horizon, bends outspread
The tenting firmament of day and night;
Wherein are winds at play; and planets shed
And the fixt stars their sliding light.

The huge world's sun flames on the snow-capped hills;
Cindrous his heat burns in the sandy plain;
With myriad spume-bows roaring ocean swills
The cold profuse abundance of his rain.

And Man, a transient object in this vast,
Sighs o'er a Universe transcending thought,
Afflicted by vague bodings of the past,
Driv'n toward a future, unforeseen, unsought.

Yet, see him, stooping low o'er naked weed
That meets its blossom in his anxious eye,
Mark how he grieves, as if his heart did bleed,
And wheels his wondrous features to the sky;
As if, transfigured by so small a grace,
He sought Companion in Earth's dwelling place.

SOLAR UNREST.

[By an Unastronomical Correspondent.]

Twinkle, twinkle, little sun—
How I wonder what you've done,
Up above the world so high,
Like a lock-out in the sky.

Can it be that Summer Time
Prompts this anti-social crime—
Is it that you're out to slay
Longer hours for equal pay?

How will you be fixed, my dear,
When the blacking stars appear?
Venus—there's a nasty shock—
Up for once at ten o'clock!*

(That's a rotten card you've led—
Drag a lady out of bed!
One, moreover, who—between us—
Keeps such naughty hours as Venus.)

Ere Your Sulkiness retires
May we hope you'll bank the fires,
And, however much annoyed,
Keep the safety men employed?

Still, you gave (I'm bound to say)
Notice in the usual way—
Like your tactics or dislike,
This is not a lightning strike.

*Summer Time.

—Lucio, in the Manchester Guardian.

What's In a Book?

By Kathleen K. Bowker.

Anybody interested in "pocketbooks"? Everybody, or I miss my guess, especially in United Welfare Week, when each one of us is examining each crevice to see if there isn't an extra coin to be found somewhere.

But that isn't the kind of pocketbook that I mean.

E. V. Lucas, of course, has a pre-emption on the description of "Bed-Books."

But these are large and learned tomes as a rule, soothing and slightly somnolent, and with a tang of the untried.

And Philomides, who has a habit of vanishing into some hole in the wild for a year at a time, and pulling the hole up after him—always takes a book with him, in place of a wife. (Wise man is Philomides! He knows better than to get a wife into a hole.)

Once it was Elia's Essays (I prefer the "Letters" myself—a veritable encyclopedia of humanity). Another time, it was that friend of all the world, Will Shakespeare—and on a third occasion he swung upon "The Golden Bough" alone, for two years when he was keeping company with the polar bears.

But there are others of us who want a pocketbook—a thing of dreams and whimsies; that can be carried so inconspicuously on our persons that nobody will ever try to arrest us for contempt of the liquor laws! A little friendly thing that can be taken on a jaunt in a motor (tucked away in some unconsidered corner, where it won't be counted as luggage)—on a trip to the woods—or even upon the street car, where it can be dipped into at odd moments, or read at a sitting, and be equally welcome either way. A book that can be used as a mental olive—a sandwich—or a whole picnic meal—that will be friend and fellow-traveler on all sorts of occasions.

I came upon a collection of such books the other day, and I cannot resist the temptation of passing some of them on. "God's Country" (Copp, Clark & Co., Toronto) is such a book; written by James Oliver Curwood, and quite different from the usual Curwood production, except that it carries the reader away into the wilds. But differently peopled wilds, this time. Here are no exquisite woodland nymphs, who slip across the shadows in high-heeled French shoes; nor any squaw-man thirsting for revenge—but squirrels, moose birds, and almost human friendly bears, with their cute babies. It is a woodland view of a man's heart; and many people will be glad, if not to lie down, at least to sit for a while in those green pastures; to loaf there, and invite their souls. Do you find it full of plagiarism of your own thoughts? Remember, it is quoting from the hearts of half the world.

And do you know the "Canadian Treasure Series" (Musson Book Company, Toronto)? Have you been introduced to Isabella Valancy Crawford and her poetry, so diverse and delightful? Have you heard of Charles Heavysege? Possibly I am the only person who has not met these writers, and who did not know that this Canadian dramatist's demon "Malzah" was considered by Longfellow and Coventry Patmore to rank with Caliban and Ariel as a vivid creation. It would be interesting to read Carpenter's "Saul," side by side with Robert Norwood's "Witch of Endor," as a study in comparative Canadian drama. It is, at least, an interesting proof of the undying interest of the original theme.

Here is to be enjoyed an account of the Canadian humorists—old friends and new—the story of The Stricklands—and a dozen other bits of interest and history, in these delightful pocketable nuggets.

As for the Wayfarer's Library!

Then there are those delightful things that bring to this generation what Augustine Birrell provided for the last—essays of up-to-dateness, with all the charm of the old school—I mean "Pebbles on the Shore," "Leaves in the Wind" and "Windfalls," the productions of "Alpha of the Plow." Talking with Alpha (for talking is what it really is!) is like meeting with a modern intellectual whose natural habit of thought and feeling, combined with life-long training, has produced the perfection of mind and manners that is sometimes to be found—say in an Alfred Lyttleton.

And to those specially interested in the problems of the day, I would particularly recommend that thought-stirring little essay on "Women and Tobacco."

And then there is "Ague-Cheek" or "The Unknown Chum." Properly speaking, that isn't a pocketbook—except for a market-basketty sort of pocket, whose owner cares not for the mere set of a garment. But it's a rest-cure of a book. Only the very rich, who have time to get properly worn out, can afford the price of a rest cure within four hospital walls. But here is a rest cure between two stiff covers for the mere price of a meal.

To listen to a man describing the charms of a voyage abroad—so cheap, so swift! (really so much swifter than necessary) on an up-to-date sailing vessel; to hear him discourse prophetically of the time when Americans will begin to live in flats—"Co-operative houses"—which appears to this dear man as the perfect way of life for the man of moderate means who wants to raise a family!—to read the illuminating description of Napoleon Third—to hear him discourse of the (then) "Modern Girl"—and of Mrs. Grundy—and of a hundred other old-world things, when the human outlook was largely bounded by the power of the human eye. It is well worth while making "The Unknown Chum" your own

Some Stringer Stories.

"The Man Who Couldn't Sleep" (A. L. Burt & Co.) is a series of stories with detective situations, by Arthur Stringer, of which the opening chapter, "How the Hole Was Blown In the Author's Alaska," is certainly both original and entertaining.

A Weird Tale.

"The Seventh Angel," by Alexander Black (Harper's) is a weirdly intensive modern story, with a text from "Revelations" as its motto.

A Story for Girls.

"Mother Carey's Chickens," by Kate Douglas Wiggin (Grosset-Dunlap), is one of the most delightful stories for girls that you might find in a day's journey—and is not without its charm for grown-ups.

"Small Souls" is a rather painful tale of a disagreeable Dutch family by Louis Couperas. But the character (formed under such cruel conditions) of young Adriaan is a real creation, making this printed jangle of nerves worth while.

LITTLE TRIP in BIG CANADA

by FRANK YEIGH

This is the first of a series of Little Trips to a variety of attractive spots and centers in the Dominion. They will enable readers of The Advertiser to take many imaginary journeys from the Atlantic to the Pacific. These trips are personally conducted by Frank Yeigh, author of "Through the Heart of Canada" and "5,000 Facts About Canada," and a lecturer whose illustrated talks on Canada have been heard all over this country and in many parts of the United States and Great Britain. Watch for them every week. Cut them out for reference. They will make a fine guide-book of the Dominion.

NO. 1—LOUISBOURG AND ITS FORTRESS.

Let us start "'way down east," the jumping-off place down by the Atlantic, nub-end of the Dominion—Louisburg, which is in Cape Breton, which is in Nova Scotia, from which come so many of the wise men. To reach this Little Trip objective, you must travel eastward and keep going till you stop or are stopped by the Atlantic—across the Strait of Canso, along the Bras d'Or Lakes, through Sydney, with its great mines and mills, and Glace Bay with the highest wireless station in Canada, and so on to the old-town-by-the-sea, Louisburg, with its deep harbor and ruined fortress.

What is there to be seen in this out-of-the-way corner of Canada? Much that reminds one of earlier and stormier days—a mile or so of earthworks, grass-carpeted, that once held the strongest fortress in America and that cost the French king a pretty penny when pretty pennies did not count for much. All that is left today are the four casements of the king's bastion, the site of an old well, the foundations of barracks and, nearer the ocean, a graveyard full of dead soldiers' bones.

What a lot of history the spot visualizes! Two seiges, two baptisms of blood—one in 1745, when a little fleet and army from New England faced the Goliath power of France. Forty-seven days of old-fashioned fighting and Louisburg was captured—one of the duels with France for the possession of Canada. The other, in 1758, this time 22 vessels of old England face-town and fortress. Louisburg has to be taken all over again. It was a bitter struggle, lasting for weeks on land and sea, until the French fleet in the harbor was sunk and the flag of France gave way to that of England. Don't forget that a little red haired officer by the name of Wolfe was one of the invading force, he who completed the job the next year on the Plains of Abraham when Canada became British.

So take a Little Trip to Louisburg, visit the ancient battlefield, stand on the ramparts and take in the wonderful panorama of sea and land, of rocky coast and fishing town, of forest background and fertile fields, and you will have made the acquaintance, either in imagination or reality, of one of the most interesting corners in all the broad Dominion.

REO SPEED WAGON

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

This Reo Speed Wagon Displaces Heavy Trucks!

That is the actual experience of at least one concern—and in carrying heavy steel forgings too!

This concern was using 3-ton trucks, but finding them only slightly more efficient than horses, had about decided to go back a step when the idea occurred to try a Speed Wagon.

Results were astounding. It proved the solution of the problem.

That's only one of hundreds of similar cases that prove the same thing.

Concerns that used to consider a two or three or a five ton truck necessary for their work, are now discarding the slow, cumbersome, solid-tired trucks, for the faster, more versatile Speed Wagon mounted on pneumatics.

It will deliver three one-ton loads while the big three-tonner is "getting started."

You can depend upon it, that for transporting any product or materials that can be divided into ton-loads or less, the rapid Reo will do the work better and cheaper.

In city, suburban and rural service; on short and long hauls; over concrete, mud or sand roads—or mountain trails—this Reo is adaptable to 90 per cent of all kinds of hauling and delivering.

Tell us what your needs are—and we'll tell you why a Reo Speed Wagon will fulfill those needs better than a heavier (and slower) truck.

Better, in fact, than any other motor truck ever built.

That's a strong statement but there is a "Best," you know, in every line.

Among motor trucks that distinction, undisputed, belongs to the Reo Speed Wagon.

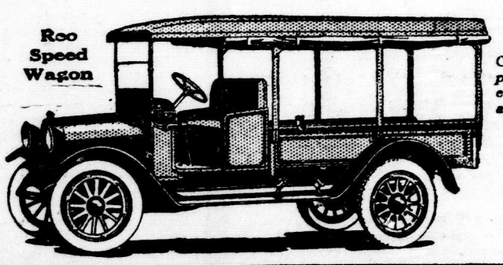

Avoid imitations and substitutes—"If it isn't a Reo it isn't a Speed Wagon."

Another pleasant feature was the rendering of a vocal solo by Miss Josephine Campbell.

The dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hunt were the hosts at their home, "Wellington Villa," last night was one of the happiest of the season. The function was held in honor of their guests, Mrs. Robert Howe and Mrs. Guy Burtiss of Chicago, the former appearing in an exquisite Jenny gown of white velvet with green ostrich trimming, green slippers, and carrying a huge green ostrich fan, while the latter wore a lovely model from Poirret, fashioned in black velvet and turquoise blue, and her corsage boukuet was of Sunset roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Hunt was beautifully gowned in green, a lovely sparkling thing of opalescent sequins, and wore at her corsage orchids and mauve sweet peas. A pretty feature of the dinner party was the presentation to each gentleman present of a tiny buttonhole bouquet.

The table itself was charmingly arranged with lilacs, Sunset roses and lilies of the valley, all beautifully combined in a handsome gold bowl which centered the table.

Miss Ann Ward and Mr. Becher Ward were the hosts of a delightful little dance held last evening at their home on King street in honor of their sister, Miss Pauline Ward of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, who is in the city for the week-end. The color scheme throughout the house was rose and green, mostly carried out in apple blossoms, which appeared in such quantities as to give the whole the appearance of a summer garden. Miss Ann Ward received her guests in a pretty frock of turquoise blue, while her sister wore black satin with touches of silver lace. An orchestra, concealed behind a mass of greenery, provided music throughout the evening, supper being served buffet fashion about midnight.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mr. Robert Howe and Mrs. Guy Burtiss, Chicago, guests with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hunt; Miss Brock of London, Eng., a guest with Col. and Mrs. Eric Reid; Captain Meredith of Ireland; Mr. Donald Smith and Mr. Chut Smith of St. Thomas, and Miss Macfie, a guest with the Misses MacPhillips.

DUNCAN—KING.

TILLSONBURG, May 13.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. King, South Broadway, at high noon yesterday, when their eldest daughter, Sylvia Fern, was united in marriage to William J. Duncan. The ceremony was performed under a floral arch by the bride's friend, Rev. Earle G. Dale, B. A., B.D., of Delhi, assisted by Pastor Emmons of the local Baptist Church. The bride was becomingly gowned in crepe de chine, with georgette and bead trimmings, and the bridesmaid, her sister, Miss Gertrude, wore green taffeta. Mr. Fred McNabb supported his cousin, the groom. The Wedding March was efficiently rendered by Mr. W. B. Rothwell. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pearl brooch, to the pianist and best man gold cuff links. Following the ceremony the guests, numbering about fifty, sat down to a dainty dinner in the dining-room. The happy young couple left on a wedding trip for Detroit and Toledo, and on their return will reside in town.

WHITNEY—FLEMING.

The marriage of Margery Talbot Fleming, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fleming, of the Ridge, Leamington, to Mr. Elmer David Whitney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Whitney of Essex, took place recently at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. A. Bedford, Tecumseh road, Windsor. The living-room was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and tall standards of snapdragon and sweet peas. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. John Fleming, looked smart in a gown of brown charmeuse with overdress of chantilly lace caught with French flowers. She wore satin shoes to match and carried an armful of Ophelia roses. Miss Viva Reives of Essex played the wedding music and just before the ceremony Miss Eleanor Kerr, in a lovely gown of ecru filet lace, over brown taffeta and corsage of roses and sweet peas, sang "At Dawning." Rev. L. W. Hill of Leamington officiated.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served in the dining-room, which was prettily decorated with sweet peas, snapdragon and ferns. During luncheon Miss Irene Ryckman of St. Thomas, prettily frocked in blue charmeuse, sang "Good Morning." Mrs. Bedford wore a becoming gown of brown canton crepe with henna embroideries and corsage of marguerites and roses. The happy young couple left on the 5 o'clock train for Buffalo and New York, the bride travelling in a tailored navy suit, hat of horsehair with ospreys and fox fur. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will live in Essex.

Miss Gemmell is already well known to the London public, having played the difficult roles of "Aunt Ida" in "Green Stockings," two years ago, and that of the "vamp," Mrs. Cheveley last year in "The Ideal Husband."

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Spring-time flowers
Growing everywhere;
Fruits of vernal showers,
Joy for those who care.

Attention, Mother Pearl!

My Dear Cynthia.—I have just wanted to write to you for ever so long. As I am just recovering from an illness, I thought I could make good use of the S. F. P. May I have it to use in my spare time? I cannot tell you how interested I am in everything and everybody in the Mail-Box. I have heaps of things I want to write about and hints to give, etc, but do not feel equal today to try it. I saw by today's paper that Mother Pearl had slips of an English vine with red berries that she would be pleased to give. Please, may I have a slip? I will send some seeds for Mail-Box in my next letter. Thanking you all for the many helps I have had, I inclose my address. May I come again, please? I remain,

"MARGOT ASKIN FOR IT."

Ans.—Certainly you may come again, Margot. Am mailing you a pattern. If "Mother Pearl" Sees your request she may send a slip.

Wants Address.

Well, Miss Grey,—I am another newcomer. I have read the Mail-Box for some time, and found it very interesting. Would you please send me Busyville Reader's address, as she would like someone to correspond with her? I would like someone to correspond with me; it makes no difference what age. My age is sixteen. So many talk about books. I like reading, too, and I think "The Life of Christ" and such books are what we should read.

What do you think of my writing? Inclosed find mite for S. C. H.. I inclose stamped envelope for address.

ELSIE.

Ans.—Am forwarding address requested, Elsie. Many thanks for mite. Your hand isn't quite formed yet.

Flying Pat.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here comes someone you never saw before. I just want to put in a word concerning Ura Kidd's Pal. Just at present she is gadding the country, having a good time. I think where the mistake comes in there are two girls in the same burg by nearly the same name. It sure has got mixed up somehow, for I know her personally, and she is sure a good scout. Many a spin I've had in that jazz-wagon of hers, too. Peggy Mc., where is Ura Kidd? Why don't you fight for your-pal now, when someone tries to bite her back? And Weeping Willow, you'd better crawl into your shell and stay there until your mind gets clear or until you have time to make another wild "think."

FLYING PAT.

Aunt Nannie.

Dear Cynthia and Mail-Box Friends,—I thought I would just drop a few lines into the Mail-Box to let you know how much Aunt Nannie is enjoying her paper. The reason I did not wait to send in a year's subscription was because I thought I might have too long to wait for the full amount, and she could be enjoying the paper, and as she is in bed nearly all the time it helps to pass the time for her. I had a card from her this week, and she is very ill, so I have sent her the balance, which has amounted to nearly $3. Sometimes I have quite a time to convert our money into American money without paying the exchange, but have been able to do it so far. I still have some pansy and aster seeds, if anybody cares to have them, and later on I will have some flowers to sell for the same cause. Dear Cynthia, these are a few pansies that we planted the seed last September, and we have had blooms since Easter. I will close, as this letter is very lengthy. I remain, as ever,

A MYSTERY.

Ans.—Thanks for the flowers, Mystery.

Fruit Dumplings.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have not written to your Mail-Box for some time; nevertheless, I read it constantly and have enjoyed your page and have received benefit from it in many ways. Would you please send me Irish Paddy From Limerick's address and a few seeds—any kind you have on hand. I saw where some of the Boxites had crocheted patterns. Will you please forward some to me? I will copy and return. Now I will send a recipe for fruit dumplings: Take what is left of any jar of fruit, put on stove, adding a little water (and more sugar, if desired), and boil. When bubbling, add a batter, made of one small cup of sour milk, one teaspoon soda, a little salt, one large cup of flour sifted fine. Cook covered, without stirring, until dumplings are firm, and serve warm. This is delicious for dessert, and can be made in ten minutes. In summer fresh fruit may be used. Well, my letter is getting rather long, and I know what will happen if it is continued on the other side of this paper. Am inclosing small mite for S. C. H., also self-addressed envelope. Hope I may be able to help some other time.

MAY.

Ans.—I am sure the dumplings would be delicious, May. Am mailing patterns and address, as requested.

Attention, Charmian.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again bothering you. I wrote a short time ago, but did not see my letter or any returns through mail. I will send in my wants again. I saw where June Bride sent some perennial peas in, and I would like a few if any left or any other seeds, as I was also a June Bride, and have all new flower beds to fix. How about the bulbs that Charmian would send. I sent a mite to the fund, also an addressed envelope and returns for a sachet bag, which I asked to be put on the waiting list for. Can any of the members of the Mail-Box tell me how they did their rhubarb up in jars for winter use. I would prefer to do it in the raw state. I had better close, or perhaps I will get in the W. P. B. Inclosed find mite for C. H.

MANITOBA MAPLE.

Ans.—The seeds you refer to have all been sent out, but I am mailing sachet. Thanks for mite.

Topeka.—Kindly send in your name and address, as I do not seem to have the correct one.

Wants Silver Bell.

Dear Miss Grey,—I just thought I would call for a while. I have not written to you for a long time. Could any of the Boxites give me the words of "Silver Bell" Is there any girl in the Mail-Box, about the age of 17, who would like to correspond with me? And will they write first? I am still working in a local office. I have been there nearly one year now.

1. What day did November 2, 1903, fall on?

I see where Cushion Slip was asking for the words of "Little Brown Jug," so will supply them for her.

You see, Cynthia, I have not been using my writing now, and have gone back considerably, as I don't have time to practice now, and I am taking music lessons, and that takes a lot of time. I am playing in a recital a week tomorrow.

I will beat it now, hoping that somebody will write to me. CHIRPER.

Ans.—Thank you, Chirper, for filling Cushion Slip's request.

1. Monday.

Attention, Sussex Girl.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw where Another Sussex Girl wanted someone to send her some rompers for her little boy. Now, I have a nice white suit here, I got for my little boy, when he was about 2 years old. She can have them if you would please send me her address.

I enjoy reading the Mail-Box letters very much. Would you please send me the stocking-foot pattern?

Find inclosed mite for S. C. H. fund. Also stamped addressed envelope for Another Sussex Girl's address.

LAMBTON GIRL.

Ans.—Am mailing you address and pattern. Your letter was addressed correctly. Thanks for mite.

Dear Miss Grey,—Is there room for one more newcomer in your cosy corner? I like the discussions of books. I am 12 years old, and have read quite a few books. Some of my favorites are: "Freckles" and "The Girl of the Limberlost," by Gene S. Porter; "Polly and the Princess," by Emma C. Dowd. I have also read several books by Mrs. L. T. Meade and Rosa N. Carey.

Inclosed please find dime for S. C. H., and will you please put my name down for a sachet if more are sent in? Wishing you every success, I am

BLUE-EYED EDNA.

Ans.—Am sending a sachet, Edna. Thank you for inclosures.

Vanity aFir.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my second letter to your interesting Mail-Box. Blackie so kindly answered my request that I felt it was my turn to do a favor for the Boxites. I am mailing some packages of aster, nasturtium and burning bush seeds, so you will not have to disappoint some who are requesting seeds.

Please put me on the waiting list for a sachet, and if Mrs. Dime's California poppy seed has not already ben sent out, inclosed is a stamped envelope for the same.

This afternoon, as I was cleaning up after the painter and paperhanger, with the help of our little 3-year-old boy, I felt the movies would be tame after all the mischief he had been in through his anxiety to help. Just when one feels almost exasperated at the little darlings, then they bump their heads or hurt themselves, and in the midst of your work you must sit down and rock them and kiss their bruises. There are a few offences I think need punishing by whipping—telling willful lies (not relating their imaginations), obscene language and disobedience. I think a kind, judicious parent can rely on his own judgment if he has taken the pains to thoroughly understand the child.

I hope the Boxites will not be too critical of the young girls anxiously inquiring what colors to wear, etc. We all passed through "Vanity Fair," and know how perplexing it was to decide what color to choose and when to lengthen our dresses, etc.

I wish The Tiser would print a good story. "Love of Betty," etc., are such cheap, worthless stories. Why not help to raise the moral tone of our country by printing good literature, as there are such countless numbers of excellent books? Inclosed please find dime for S. C. H. SWEET BRIAR.

Ans.—Many thanks, Sweet Briar, for sending seeds, also for dime. Am mailing a sachet and seeds.

Where Is Ura Kidd?

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first letter to your Mail-Box. I have been a silent reader, and I enjoy the discussions on books. I like Ralph Conner's books and also H. A. Cody's stories. I saw where Topeka was wanting a song; I have copied it for her, but I am not sure whether it is the right one or not. May I get a sachet bag if Thistle sends in any more, also some of Charmian's bulbs, which she offered? What day did August 4, 1877, fall on? Where has Ura Kidd gone? I don't see her letters very often.

Please find my mite for S. C. H., and self-addressed envelope and cotton for Thistle, also postage for bulbs. I hope Sussex doesn't see this letter, for she might be sick for a week. I will say au revoir. SARDONYX NO. 2.

Ans.—Am mailing a sachet, Sardonyx, also Charmian's address, as she will have to send bulbs direct to you. August 4, 1877, fell on Saturday. Many thanks for inclosures.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see where Charmian has some bulbs. I wonder if I could have a couple, also a few poppy seeds (double) that Hubby's Only One sent in.

Perhaps I can be of some help some other time. I will sign myself TINY.

Ans.—Possibly Charmian will see your request and send for your address. Am sorry, but there are none of the poppy seeds left.

Finds It Helpful.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first letter to your cosy corner. I enjoy reading it very much. I get a lot of help from it. As soon as The Tiser comes I turn to that page the first thing. Well, I see where someone was asking for the song "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now," and as I happen to know it, will send it along. I see where so many are discussing books. I have read some of them, but I think the most interesting one is the Bible. I find it very helpful.

A SECTION FOREMAN'S WIFE.

Ans.—Many thanks for sending in the song.

Hanie.—Many thanks for inclosures. Have kept your envelope for patterns.

Wants Vines.

Dear Miss Grey,—Inclosed find 25 cents towards sick children's hospital fund. It is lovely weather, and lots of nice rain. I would like some roots of English ivy and Madeira vine. Would gladly pay postage or express, so would be glad to get them. I have enjoyed reading the Boxites' letters from time to time. I must ring off now.

FLORABELLE.

Ans.—Possibly someone will see your request and send you just what you want. Thank you for hospital mite.

March Wind and Charlie Chaplin's Wife.—Many thanks for the little boxes of wild flowers, which reached me one day last week. It was quite thoughtful of you both, and Cynthia certainly appreciated them. They were quite fresh when they arrived, and had lost none of the woodsey smell which makes them so delightful.

Talk No. 10.--To Women:

She was receiving for the first time since her marriage. The great question was the cake. She wanted something different--something delicious--something dainty. She looked through numerous magazines on housekeeping and was finally rewarded with this recipe for

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Acute Sore Throat.

The throat feels sore when a foreign body, such a s a fishbone, is lodged in it, or when it has been burned by the accidental or intentional swallowing of a corrosive or acid poison. But usually acute sore throat is caused by bacterial infection, not one specific species of bacterium, but any one or a mixed infection of at least half a dozen different species, such as the Pneumococcus (a common cause of sore throat, tonsilitis, quinsy, acute coryza, bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy, endocarditis (heart-lining inflammation), and sometimes appendicitis or peritonitis; various strains of Streptococcus (this may come from milk when there is some inflammation of the cow's udder, and is the usual cause of severe "septic" sore throat occurring in epidemics among the patrons of a given dairy or users of the milk from the affected cow); various Staphylococci, Micrococci, Diplococci, and just Cocci, names calculated to make anyone cock-eyed.

Sore throat infection is spread in the same way that all the other respiratory infections are spread—spray or droplet infection chiefly, and in some cases by direct contact. To avoid the infection, one must keep outside the five-foot barrage. Anybody seen wearing a red (white, green, pink or blue) rag around the throat is certainly a source of danger to all who approach closer than five feet. If acute sore throat propagated only in kind, the crime of carrying the infection in a public place would be atrocious enough; but if you will mind the bacterial cause you will remember that Brown's sore throat is likely to become Smith's pleurisy or pneumonia, or Jones' appendicitis or sinusitis. A sore throat is a great potentiality. I hope that is not the reason why some old fogy doctor and politically efficient health officers still support the popular fallacy that a "simple" sore throat, like a "simple" coryza, is of no importance.

One generous swabbing of the side walls of the throat and the surfaces of the tonsils with tincture of iodine and glycerin, equal parts, at the first feeling of soreness, is perhaps the best medicinal treatment. To do this it is necessary to use a spoon or other object as a tongue depresser, pressing firmly, not timidly, downward on the tongue, then quickly, but not roughly, paint or swab one side, then the other, with the glycerin-iodine. For this purpose a narrow stick or wire the length of a lead pencil is to be wrapped at one end with a wisp of absorbent cotton, which is well wet with the solution, but not dripping. Better, in most cases, than this iodine-glycerin mixture is a careful painting with a moderately strong silver nitrate solution, but this should be done by a physician; it seems that silver nitrate painting at the very first feeling of soreness often aborts or wards off a severe infection, even quinsy.

As a gargle and mouth wash, I am sure that no known medicine has any advantages over a solution of as much boric acid as a pint of boiled water will take up, used hot, every hour. And as an external application the use of plain cold compresses, changed half-hourly or hourly, will give all the relief any application can give. The general home treatment should be rest in bed, hot mustard foot bath, and the other measures already suggested here for acute respiratory infections as a class.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Double Ha, Said Officer Squiller.

Can you suggest anything for a tender, irritable skin? I have a heavy beard and shave every day.—J. H.

Ans.—That accounts for it. I've often wondered why I had to shave every day in order to avoid being chased by my own dog. Try this after shaving:

Boric acid ..... ½ ounce
Glycerin ..... 1 ounce
Tragacanth ..... 60 grains (1 dram)
Rain or distilled water ..... 1 pint

Slowly boil the tragacanth in the water, stirring frequently, till dissolved in a clear homogeneous jelly (water must be added to keep up to one pint). Dissolve in the boric acid and glycerin while boiling. When cool add a drop or two of any perfume if desired. Apply to the face after shaving and before the skin is quite dry.

Cold Morning Baths for Boys.

I am a boy of 13, and lately I have been taking cold morning baths. But my father thinks it is too great a shock for my system. Please advise me whether to continue them.—G. J.

Ans.—The shock is all right if you enjoy the baths and feel warm and invigorated afterward. If you are cold, shivery, blue or tired after the baths, they are not good for you. But if you like them and enjoy the reaction they are fine for you.

How Much Milk Every Day?

Do you consider three pints of milk too much for an adult who can't eat meats except once a day?—Mrs. J. W. G.

Ans.—Three pints of milk a day is a very moderate quantity of a very wholesome food. If the restriction on meat is a physician's, you should ask him whether you may take the milk instead, for milk is meat in effect.

ST. GEORGE'S GUIDES.

The St. George's Girl Guides held their mother and daughter banquet on Thursday evening last, which proved a great success. The tables were artistically decorated in the Guide colors, blue and white. About sixty mothers and daughters sat down to the well-spread tables. Toasts were given, the "King" and "Church," the latter responded to by Rev. G. B. Sage, and "Mothers" and "Daughters," Miss E. Johnston acting as toastmistress. Miss Helen d'Avignon gave an interesting talk on "Camp Life at Port Bruce," and solos were sung by Misses Jean Hodgins, Margaret Bowie and Edith Ashley. Among those present were Rev. G. B. Sage, Miss d'Avignon, Miss Gower and Mrs. E. W. Dewey. A silent drama, given by the Oriole patrol, caused much laughter.

Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer, the treasurer's report showing a splendid amount raised by the new circle and a membership of 32.

Mrs. H. Childs finished the book on "The Life of Mary Slessor," which the circle has been studying for the past year.

A social half-hour was spent at the close of the meeting, a dainty supper being served by the hostess.

TALBOT ST. BAPTIST PAGEANT.

The very successful missionary pageant given by the Talbot Street Baptist hall some time ago by the mission study class of that church will be repeated again on Monday night at the Wortley Road Baptist Church. Over $80 was taken in collection at the last presentation, and it is expected that Monday night's presentation will be as successful. In this pageant over 30 girls appear in the costume of five different nations, Mrs. T. S. Roy taking the role of Christianity, and Miss Madeline Baker that of Canada. An additional interest is found in this pageant, in the fact that it was written by Mrs. Roy and Mrs. Nathaniel Mills.

The successful little playet, "Hepsy Burke," is being repeated next Friday in the Dundas Centre Methodist school room. Last month it was played to a crowded house and voted as one of the funniest productions of its kind. The proceeds will be given in aid of the Children's Hospital.

HOME ECONOMICS

MRS. ELIZABETH KENT, MacDONALD COLLEGE.

CURTAINS IN THE KITCHEN.

Somebody lives in the kitchen most of the time, and we realize that the "morale" of that somebody is very important in our lives: it literally affects the meals we eat. It is wise, therefore, to make the kitchen as pleasant and attractive as possible. Curtains do hold the dust, we must admit, and from a purely hygiene point of view doubtless it is wiser not to use them in the kitchen, which should be clean in the right hospital sense. But with a little care in the choice of plain materials plainly made, just to soften the outlines and the light of the door and windows, surely we may use them and make the kitchen livable. They can be washed often, if they are small and straight and plain, and they can be pretty, too. Cheese cloth, factory cotton, cheap scrim or lawn are suitable, or if one can afford to go in for a kitchen color scheme, pretty chintz or Japanese printed cotton can be selected. Blue and white are delightfully clean looking in a sunny kitchen, and can be carried out in the closest detail. In a darker kitchen, warm yellow, or even a little modest red, may be used.

In any case, whether for yourself or for a maid, have clean, plain curtains, not ruffled or plaited or edged in any way, but neat and pretty, in your kitchen, for to any woman curtains of some sort are a kind of psychological necessity. Her first impulse of home-making is the seclusion and decoration to be got from curtains.

TURKISH DELIGHT.

A good home-made confection is Turkish delight. It is wholesome and not difficult to make. With a judicious use of good coloring matter and various flavors, it may be made very attractive.

Soak a box (an ounce) of gelatine in half a cupful of cold water for two hours. Dissolve one pound of granulated sugar in half a cupful of cold water, and bring it to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Then add the gelatine, stirring only enough to mix it in thoroughly, and boil twenty minutes without stirring. Be sure to use a large and deep saucepan, because it boils up very high. Add the juice and rind of one lemon and one orange, or divide these two flavors, or, if you like ginger, add a teaspoonful of powdered ginger to part of the lemon-flavored candy. Good red or green coloring may be added at this point. Then pour the candy into basins wet with cold water, so that it stands an inch thick. When cool, cut it into squares and roll them in powdered sugar.

This is a pure, good candy, and as the amount made by this recipe is considerably more than a pound, it is not compared to the cost of bought candies now, expensive.

There are few people who would not rather have a box of well-made home candies than any other kind. But home-made candies should be well made and fit to look at and touch. Messy stu is not palatable just because it is home made.

Tribe Took Wolves Out On Leash to Win Last, 5--1

Malmquest Featured With Fi rst Home Run of Season at Local Lot—Shay Provided Two Fielding High Lights.

London completed the stalling of the Wolves yesterday by taking the last game of the series, 5 to 1. Rain threatened the whole game, and it was called off for a few minutes after the second period, while they put the raincoats on the home plate and pitchers' box.

Malmquest was the feature artist of some timely hitting by the London outfit, getting a homer, the first of the season on the local lot. It hit the extreme north of left field and rolled down into the rushes, where Whaley failed to locate it. A brace of runs in the second, another pair in the fourth, and Malmquest's circuit smash in the sixth, produced the London run total on ten hits, eight of which were combed from Boothby, who started the joust for the visitors. Boothby didn't have much of an assortment, but what he did have was a little cunning, attested by five strikeouts. He had a bare-faced bawk, too, that he got away with twice before he was pulled up in the fourth frame, and that peeved him so much that he uncorked a wild pitch, allowing Malmquest to come in from third, to which station Walter had been waved.

"Old Twenty" Delotelle proved yesterday that he had never been among the applicants for any north pole expeditions, but despite this fact turned in a good average game. He didn't get into any tight pinches, or his control would have wavered more, probably than it did at times. Double killings and some otherwise smart fielding minimized the chances he took.

A few rain drops were pattering in the second, and when these weren't, Londoners were pattering around on the paths. Kuhn opened the pot with a double to left, and Joe Briger came back with another to the same side, scoring Bill. Crichlow grounded out, and Malmquest drew a pass. Rooney singled and Delotelle had a chance to unload the sacks. He smashed one down the third base line, which emptied, but it was foul, and he whiffed on the next strike. Stutz rolled a slow one down to short and scored Joe. Shay flied out.

Malmquest Doubled.

Malmquest, first up in the fourth, doubled to left. Rooney tripped free down to first, and Malmquest was given third, when Boothby, with both feet in the pit, tried to nab him at second. He went in on Boothby's wild pitch. Stutz lifted a long sacrifice fly to middle when he came up and scored Rooney.

In the sixth, with one gone, Malmquest slammed out his four-bagger, and Rooney came right after with a triple to centre. Delotelle popped out, and Stutz grounded out. The Londoners didn't get a hit off Wendlehorn in the seventh. In the eighth, though, Crichlow got his first clean hit, where somebody wasn't, good for a two-bagger. Ohlin came in for Malmquest's tap, threw to first for the out, and got back to third in time to get the return, which got Crichlow at third, about the best piece of infield work the visitors managed.

The Wolves really didn't threaten to any extent at any one time. In the third they were slightly excited when a choice and a hit to centre made the sacks look as if they teemed with Wolves, but Kuhn went into the dirt after a hot smash, and Ohlin popped out. Their one run in the fourth was flimsy.

Knoll was walked, then hit and sacrificed along and came in on a dizzy tap to second base, which didn't give Malmquest a chance for the play at the plate.

In the seventh they had another chance. Boothby hit to left and was shoved into a double by Whaley, and then Delotelle walked two. Knoll took the ump's word that there was only one and two on him and let the next strike go by. The umps had changed his mind in the meantime, and decided it was the third strike instead, so the demise of the two star boarders on the bags was painful, but sure.

Pinto took up the duties in the eighth and ninth. Walter Shay helped the big fellow over the bumps, when he went up into the air and pulled down Cissa's knock, parcelled for left field, and doubled on Cuyler before he could get back to first. Shay again, with two on, pulled down Whaley's fly, and doubled Wendlehorn at the first station. Koehler grounded out.

'Tizer Ball Tossers Hurl Annual Defi at the F. P.

For the past five years the 'Tiser Demons have in vain tried to draw the alleged Free Press ball tossers into a game of baseball. They have sidestepped and otherwise ignored our challenge until we are forced to believe that the gum shoe skeletons who display most energy when collecting their pay envelopes, are either affected with a bad case of cold feet or haven't got enough adding machines to keep track of the 'Tiser score.

At any rate "hope springs eternal in the human breast" and we are therefore again challenging our esteemed opposition to a game of ball, the teams to be bona-fide members of the two editorial staffs.

Let's hear from the fur-coated scribes across the way. We will be easy with you, gents, and take the pieces home via motor truck.

OWEN SOUND, May 13.—In the first game of the O. F. A. played here tonight Listowel defeated Owen Sound 2 to 0. Owen Sound came back strong, but were unable to break through Listowel's excellent defence. Listowel again scored near the end of the second period. Listowel has a wonderful combination and will be hard to beat. G. Neath of Owen Sound, goalkeeper, starred for Owen Sound, and Stephenson for Listowel. The line-up is as follows:

Owen Sound—Goal, "Glad" Neath; full backs, Simkins Dick Neath; halfbacks, Huston, Statley, Seabrooks; forwards, Kreutzweiser, Reuben Neath, McDonald, Capel, Savage.

Listowel—Goal, Amen; full-backs, Atkinson and Johnson; half-backs, Bamford, Biles, Kemp; forwards, Cavel, Stephenson, Kelly, Black, Philip.

BOBBY KERR WILL BE STARTER AT BIG WESTERN U. TRACK MEET

Entries have commenced to come in for the second annual Western Ontario interscholastic championships which are being held at Queen's Park on May 21 under the auspices of the Western University Athletic Association. By the reports coming in from the surrounding schools the races will be more keenly contested than ever before, and all lovers of good clean sport are looking forward to an enjoyable afternoon, when these lads, pick of the High Schools of Western Ontario, meet to battle for the city of London and Chamber of Commerce trophies. Lieut.-Col. Eric Read and Mr. Colin Duffield have again signified their intention of giving a shield to the individual champions in both classes, and as a number of last year's records are bound to go by the boards this year, several local firms have agreed to put up gold medals for those who set the new marks. In order that the events may be handled in the best possible way, the local management have secured several men of note in the athletic world to assist local talent in officiating. The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada are sending up four of their best officials; the International Y. M. C. A. are sending Fred Smith, the International Y. M. C. A. physical director, and Bobbie Kerr, who, since his retirement from competition, has made a specialty of starting, will be present. The entries will be published later.

MAYORS OF PT. HURON AND SARNIA, BATTERY

Mayor Crawford of Sarnia Will Do Mound Duty at Opener.

SARNIA, May 13. — Mayor George Crawford has been extended an invitation to be in attendance and take an active part in the opening ceremonies of the home season of the Port Huron-Sarnia ball team at Watkins Park, Port Huron, tomorrow afternoon. Mayor Crawford has been slated to do the hurling in the opening festivities. Mayor John V. French of Port Huron, will be behind the plate, as Mayor Milton Gearing of St. Clair tries to knock one of the Canadian city head's shoots out of the park. Henry Gorman, police magistrate of Sarnia, an old ball player and an ardent fan, has also been invited to attend.

George H. Maines of Flint, president of the Michigan-Ontario League, who has taken an active interest in the Twin City club since its inception, has also accepted an invitation to attend. Invitations have also been extended to other baseball celebrities to be there tomorrow.

A section of the grandstand has been reserved for the Sarnia fans, this step being made necessary in view of the huge advance demand for the coveted pasteboards. Good weather tomorrow and ground rules will be necessary, and probably the largest crowd of the whole circuit will be in attendance, practically every society in the American city having made arrangements to turn out in force to the game, that will mark up the opening of professional baseball in this part of the country. Formal dedication of the new Watkins field, the official home grounds of the Port Huron-Sarnia club, will be part of the day's festivities.

This year's exhibition promises to be much larger than the one held in the Winter Fair building in 1920.

'MONGST THE AMATOORS

TILLSONBURG, May 13.—An interesting game in the town league was played this evening, Huntleys decisively defeating the Bankers by a score of 11 to 6 before a large crowd. Rogers, a young southpaw in the box for the winners, was a complete puzzle for the Bankers' batting staff, and the stride Huntleys are going make them look like sure contenders for town honors.

WOODSTOCK, May 13.—The Ramblers defeated the Eurekas tonight by 8 to 3 in a City League fixture. The winners got to Kelly in the fourth and nicked him for four hits and three runs. In the next frame his support faltered, and three errors and four hits netted three more runs, and a brace of errors gave the Ramblers two more runs in the last inning. Riddell opened the pitching for the winners, and proved a puzzle, letting the Eurekas down with one hit and one run in four innings, and got by with only two hits off his delivery. The Ramblers looked good tonight, and hit consistently once they got the range on the much-touted Kelly. Score:

Wesley Didn't Go Well for Brants—Three Errors for Losers.

HAMILTON, May 13.—Hamilton made a clean sweep of the series with Flint by taking today's game by a count of 6 to 3 before a handful of people. Fisher, who started on the mound for the visitors, was in danger from the start, and was derricked in the fifth after the Hams had scored four runs with only one down. Cooper, who replaced him, looked better, but the Tigers got to him in the eighth for two singles in a row and another run.

Gullman started for Hamilton, but in the sixth he weakened, and after Flint had scored twice and still had two men on the paths, he was derricked in favor of Hughes, who went much better.

KITCHENER, May 13.—The Saginaw Aces took the second game of the series here from the Beavers this afternoon by a score of 9 to 3. Kitchener started out like winners, scoring two runs in the first inning, but in the second inning Murray was hit hard and often and was jerked out with the bases filled. Ray Ancher followed, but his assortment of curves were hit with men on bases. Hayes in the box for the Aces, allowed six hits, all of which were scattered in as many innings. Manager Jordan declares that radical changes will be made in this team before they return from the Michigan trip.

MINT PATTER

—By C. S. G.

The fans are not going to get a chance to look Lambert, the little right-hander, over. He goes to Grand Rapids of the Central League, under an optional agreement.

* * *

President Maines is going to run an umpire school all summer in the Mint. A good many applicants for regular berths have consented to work with the regulars from time to time for their mere expenses. This will mean that most of the games will have two umps and this well minimize the possibilities of poor umpiring.

Thus umpires will be developed more slowly but more thoroughly than heretofore, and once umpires grab a regular job around the Mint, they will have shown something more than their expense account.

* * *

Koehler, playing second base for the Wolves, is variously estimated to have attained anything between 47 and 140 in years. Yesterday he did a single flip in the air after one decision of the umps by way of showing his disapproval. A lot of younger ball tossers would choose some method where they could keep both feet on the ground.

* * *

Malmquest would have had a perfect day at bat yesterday if he had hit safely in the eighth. One homer, one double, one walk and two runs, were his contribution. Besides he picked up several hard ones around the second bag.

* * *

An old Cleveland fan saw a resemblance to Vean Gregg's delivery in the way Pinto, London's southpaw recruit hurler started his delivery. Pinto has everything to face yet, but with a few of the breaks, he should be a real asset by the time the team comes back. Yesterday he was taking things pretty seriously. He at least showed a nice turn of speed on his fast one, and he hit them right frequent in the exhibition games.

* * *

Joe Briger's first appearance was marked by a perfect day at bat, in a single and a double. Joe also pilfered neatly, and demonstrated that sliding in on luncheon isn't a lost art.

CHESLEY BOWLERS LIFT BOWMAN CUP

Northerners Show How Hardy They Are On This Stunt.

OWEN SOUND, May 13.—A rink of Chesley bowlers came to Owen Sound yesterday and lifted the celebrated Bowman challenge trophy after a game that was much more interesting than the final score would suggest. This is the earliest date that a game for this cup has ever been played since the cup was put up for competition. The mug is the most sought-after emblem in Western Ontario, if not in the whole of the province, and it has traveled more than any other challenge cup in the province. The following rinks were in the struggle:

SCIENTIST HOLDS MAN POLYGENETIC, NOT MONOGENETIC

Professor Hill-Tout of Vancouver Disputes Long-Cherished Theory.

CLUE FOUND IN SKULLS

Man Not Product of One Line of Descent—Adam and Eve Are Only Myths.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 13.—Einstein has shaken the scientific world with his abstruse theory of Relativity. A group of European savants is hard at work trying to prove that Newton's "discovery" of gravitation was based on unsound principles. And now comes Professor Charles Hill-Tout of Vancouver with a positive assertion that man is of polygenetic and not of monogenetic origin.

To the layman, Dr. Hill-Tout's statement will be merely an item of news which must be explained before it is understood, but to anthropologists it means a revolutionary re-arrangement of all pre-conceived ideas. Incidentally, it seems to dispose once and for all of the religious belief that Adam and Eve were the original parents of the human race. The biblical story, in the light of Dr. Hill-Tout's recent discovery, must irrevocably be classed as a myth.

In plain language, Professor Hill-Tout has found evidence that man is not the product of one line of descent. There must have been a number of "first families" in the dim dawn of history, although evolutionists have always held a contrary belief.

Clue Found in Skulls.

Working upon a clue which he found last winter in a survey of the skulls of apes and anthropoids in the Anthropological Museum of San Diego, California, Professor Hill-Tout has discovered evidence which he has incorporated in a paper which he will read before the Royal Society of Canada at its annual meeting this month. In substantiation of his claim he has prepared a large number of photographs of skulls, including those of baby and adult gorillas, showing that a baby gorilla's head very nearly approximates the human in conformation, though changes are rapid with growth.

Professor Hill-Tout is recognized as one of the world's foremost anthropologists. He is a member of the executive committee of the American Institute of Research, member of the Archaeological Institute of America, fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain. In addition, he is said to be the greatest living authority on Indian languages and folklore.

The Vancouver savant explains his discovery in these words:

"The theoretical conception of a nomosimous precursor the ancestor common to man and apes, is shown to be founded in fact by the discovery of the most interesting of all our fossil remains, Eoanthropus, or the 'Dawn Man.'

"This ancient man roamed all over the southern downs of England when the British Isles were a part of the mainland of Europe at the close of the Pliocene period. It probably antedates by some thousands of years Pithecanthropus Erectus. Unlike the latter, Eoanthropus is relatively higher developed in its cranial characters.

"Its cranial capacity is greater than that of many of the men of the backward races of today. Most of its cranial characters are remarkably modern in type, having much the same contours as that of the young anthropoids. That it is a primitive type we learn, for while it possesses a well-developed head, it also has the chinless jaw and the canine teeth of the anthropoids.

Pithecoid's Lost Chance.

"Indeed, it differs from the young anthropoids only in its larger cranial capacity. It is clear from the evidence, both of the human-like characters of the 'Dawn Man' and the young anthropoids, that the low-browed Pithecoid was not a primitive man. In other words, he followed anthropoid development rather than the human, and so lost his chance with the human race.

"The discovery of men with modern cranial characters, living thousands of years earlier than Neanderthal man, and the discovery of the 'Dawn Man' Eoanthropus in England, force us to give up the monogenetic origin of man and accept the polygenetic origin.

"If we now want to discover man's oldest ancestor, we must go to Eoanthropus and not to Pithecanthropus, for the former has all the characters which premen should possess, characters which were common to the first man and to the first anthropoid apes, as exemplified in the cranial characters of the young of both species today.

"For, according to that great bigenetic principle, more commonly known as Baer's Law, we see why the skulls of the young of the Neanderthal race and the young of the anthropoids or human-like apes are so different from those of their parents. The principle expressed by this law signifies that the ontogeny of the individual recapitulates the philogeny of the race—and this is where the law throws light upon the problems under consideration—that the young of any species represent more truly and closely than do the adult members of the species the actual ancestral type from which they spring."

CURIOUS HABITS OF BIRDS.

Every year some fresh discovery is made by naturalists respecting the curious habits of birds. The boldness shown by even shy birds when domestic duties are concerned is surprising. Robins are especially noted for their boldness, and a pair have been known to build their nest and rear their family on a beam in a school, entering by the window which was left open. Swallows seldom build in odd places, but a pair have been known to build their nest against a pane of window glass. A swallow's nest in a tunnel is an exceptionally queer place for a bird of this species to choose.

Wrens are very ingenious, and their dome-shaped nests, which are so beautifully woven, are often found in old kettles and tins, and even in the pockets of old coats which have been hanging out. A hedge sparrow's nest in a kettle was found in a bunch of nettles close to a public footpath, where school children passed every day, but the faithful bird, with no thought of danger, reared a family quite unmolested.

THE LIGHTEST WOOD IN THE WORLD.

Balsa, the tropical wood, averages in weight about one-third less than cork. This lightness results from its peculiar cellular structure, which is said to differ from that of any other wood. The cell walls are extremely thin, and where ordinarily there are woody fibres, there is in balsa practically no lignification. This structure confines within its large, barrel-shaped cells a quantity of "dead" air, which represents 92 per cent of the total volume of the wood, and which accounts for a remarkably high insulating value.

Destroying Weeds By Chemical Means

The Hoe and Cultivator May Be Supplemented by Using Certain Substances—These Are Useful On the Ground That Cannot Be Cultivated.

While the hoe and the cultivator are likely to remain as the two most efficient weapons to use in the combat with weeds, there are certain cases where the use of some chemical may be extremely desirable. A good example of the latter is the case of a grain crop infected with an annual, such as wild mustard, where it is possible, by spraying with iron sulphate or copper sulphate, to injure the weed to such an extent that it is unable to ripen its seeds.

There are also numerous plots of waste ground in towns, miles of roadsides all over the country, railroad tracks, and large areas of stony or rocky ground that cannot be cultivated, where the employment of chemical means for keeping down weeds might be profitably considered.

The spray should be applied in fine, calm weather, when there is a probability that no rain will fall during the next 24 hours. The amount of spraying mixture will vary somewhat with the kind of spraying machine used, but, as a general rule at least 60 gallons are necessary to cover an acre. The spray should be applied while the weeds are young.

The chemical substances that are most employed for killing weeds are sulphuric acid, iron sulphate, copper sulphate, common salt, caustic soda, sodium arsenite, carbolic acid, orchard heating oil and fuel oil. After the use of some of these the soil remains sterile until the chemical has been washed out by rain. In calculating the strength to be used it has to be remembered that a gallon of water weighs ten pounds.

Sulphuric acid or oil of vitriol has a corrosive effect on the spraying apparatus, and can be used only in a weak solution, varying from 3 to 10 per cent. It has no injurious effect on wheat, oats or barley crops, and has a fertilizing effect on the soil.

Iron sulphate or copperas is used in a solution of 15 to 20 per cent, but cannot be applied with safety to a crop of beans or flax.

Copper sulphate or bluestone can be used instead of iron sulphate, but only in a solution of 1½ to 2½ per cent.

Common salt or sodium chloride is used in a strength of 20 to 25 per cent. It checks the growth of other plants besides weeds until it has ben washed out by rain.

Caustic soda or sodium hydrate is used in a 5 per cent solution. It kills all kinds of vegetation.

Sodium arsenite is used at the rate of 2 pounds to 60 gallons of water. It is very poisonous and the powder is dangerous to health if inhaled. It kills all vegetation.

Carbolic acid is used in a solution of 12½ per cent or stronger.

Orchard heating oil is applied at full strength in a fine mist. It destroys all vegetation, but is not poisonous, and does not injure the soil.

Fuel oil can be used on waste ground or garden paths. After its use the soil remains sterile for a considerable period.

Of the various patent weed killers "Atlas A" was tested during the summer of 1920 on various weeds, and gave good results.—J. Adams, Division of Botany, Ottawa, Ont.

Supplementary Feeds For Poultry Raising

Animal Foods and Lots of Green Stuff Are Necessary Where Poultry Are Confined—Health of the Fowls and Egg Production Are Benefitted.

ANIMAL FOODS.

When fowls are confined, it is necessary to provide, in some form, animal food to take the place of the grubs and insects which they pick up when on range.

Fresh meat is perhaps the most relished form of animal food, but it is seldom that it can be had at a price low enough to warrant its use.

Green cut bone is usually prepared from bones as secured from butchers' shops. These, generally with more or less meat attached, are run through a machine and cut into fine shavings. Fowls eat this ravenously, and care must be used at the start to see that they are not fed too much of it, as it will cause diarrhoea. It is valuable for the production of eggs, but caution is required in feeding it to breeding stock, as it may adversely affect both the fertility and the hatchability of the eggs. As cut bone heats very readily, it is impossible to use it except in very cold weather, or where a fresh supply for each feed is obtainable.

Beef scrap, meat meal, blood meal, and other like preparations are by-products from the abattoirs and packing-houses. Some of these are excellent feeds and, on account of their keeping qualities and convenience for feeding, are more extensively used by poultry keepers than any other form of animal food. On the other hand, some of the brands offered are absolutely unfit to feed to poultry, and are suitable only for use as fertilizer. Before purchasing any of these feeds, poultry keepers should pay attention not only to their analysis, which varies greatly, but to their suitability for feeding.

Fish scrap is used to a limited extent, and some think very highly of it, but it is generally fed because of a scarcity of beef scrap, not because it is preferred to it. It is more popular in the feeding of waterfowl, where the eggs are to be used for hatching purposes, than it is for feeding laying hens.

Green Feeds.

In green feeds, the main thing to consider is succulence and palatability. Any feed that has these qualities is suitable.

Cabbage, lettuce, onion tops, or practically any waste garden truck may be utilized in the poultry yard. Unmarketable carrots, parsnips, onions, small potatoes, or similar roots, may be stored and fed in the winter. These latter are more satisfactory when boiled and mixed in a mash.

Rape is one of the best crops to grow for green feed for summer use where fowls are more or less confined. It is easily grown, gives a large yield, and fowls eat it with avidity. It is an excellent crop to freshen the runs after the breeding season.

Corn, oats, rye, barley, and wheat all make good green fodder if cut at the right time and chopped into short lengths so that the fowl can readily eat them. They are especially useful in the feeding of waterfowl.

Clovers and alfalfa may be cut green and used as fodder, or they make excellent pasture. Properly cured, they are of great value for winter feeding. The leaves usually found in mows where the hay has been stored are of especial value, and on many farms they are reserved for the use of the poultry.

Crops Less Profitable Than Stock-Raising

Department of Farm Economics Make Survey of Durham County—Some Instructive Figures Gathered From Careful Investigations.

"Livestock is the market through which the mixed farmer sells the greater portion of his crops. If then, the quality of his stock ranks low, the prices he receives for his grain, hay, silage and roots will be correspondingly low, showing the futility of growing large crops to market through poor stock."

The statement is taken from the report of a survey in 1920 of 242 farms in Durham County, Ontario, just issued by the department of farm economics. It furnishes renewed proof that good livestock is even a greater factor in successful mixed farming that good crops. The following is a summary of the instructive conclusions on the profitableness of good livestock to consume all sorts of crops. Under the name of "labor income" is given the net returns which these farmers received for their year's work, according to the quality of the crops they raised, plus the quality of the livestock they kept:

On farms with poor crops:

| | |
|---|---|
| Labor income from— | |
| Poor livestock | $ 27 00 |
| Average livestock | 824 00 |
| Good livestock | 1,254 00 |
| On farms with average crops: | |
| Labor income from— | |
| Poor livestock | $ 332 00 |
| Average livestock | 1,568 00 |
| Good livestock | 1,676 00 |
| On farms with good crops: | |
| Labor income from— | |
| Poor livestock | $ 718 00 |
| Average livestock | 1,416 00 |
| Good livestock | 1,729 00 |

Thus it will be seen that on the farms where crops and livestock were both poor the labor return averaged only $27 a year. "Contrasting this group," the report continues, "with the group whose crops were good, but who also had poor stock to consume them, it is seen that these farms returned to their operators an average wage of $744 for their year's work—an increase of $717 due to better crops. Next, contrasting the poor crops and poor livestock group with the group of farmers who also had poor crops, but whose stock was above average in quality, the labor income jumps from $27 to $1,254, an increase of $1,227 due to higher quality of livestock—almost twice the increase of $717 due to better crops (shown in a preceding table in the report)."

"Increases of $455, $592 and $717 can be credited to the growing of better crops, and $985, $1,227 and $1,344 can be credited to the keeping and breeding of better livestock—all about twice the increases due to growing better crops."

"Thus it can be safely stated that the greatest single factor making for successful livestock farming, either beef or dairy or mixed, is a higher quality of livestock."

SUPPLYING PLANTFOOD FOR THE GARDEN.

One of the first considerations in garden-making is plantfood. Crops, whether grown from seed or transplanted, quickly need the assistance of plantfood in a quickly available form and in liberal quantity. This plantfood should be balanced so that there will not be too much top-growth to the detriment of root or fruit production. Hence the following suggestions are made:

As soon as the garden is plowed or dug, scatter over it from 75 to 100 pounds of fertilizer. For average gardens it is well to use fertilizers carrying 3 to 6 per cent ammonia, 8 to 12 per cent phosphoric acid and 3 to 6 per cent potash. Stable manure, of course, has for some time been the common source of plantfood for the home garden, but manure is becoming scarcer and it may introduce a large quantity of weed seeds. Manure, however, carries a large amount of valuable humus or decaying plant matter. This deficiency in fertilizers can be readily supplied by seeding cover crops on garden soils as soon as vegetables have been harvested. Such cover crops as rye and vetches make exceedingly good plant matter to dig into the soil and if sown sufficiently early they make effective cover crop to protect the soil from washing during the rainy days of fall, winter and early spring. One hundred pounds of fertilizer will supply about the same amount of nitrogen and potash as a ton of manure, and as much phosphoric acid as two or three tons of manure. Nitrogen is the kind of plant-food which causes the topgrowth of plants—the growth of leaves and stalks. Phosphoric acid hastens root growth and causes the ripening of plants, while potash helps the formation of vegetable crops and gives power to the crop to resist disease.

Some Serious Effects Of Ergot In Grain

The Eating of Ergotized Grain Causes Considerable Losses Among Cattle—Life History of This Destructive Fungus Is Interesting.

[Experimental Farms Note.]

Ergot is very widely known because of its injurious effects upon animals that are fed with grain containing ergot or that graze upon badly infected grass. The ergot is a bluish-black, hornlike body, with a white interior, and is produced on infected plants of the grass family in the place where the seed would normally be found. They are found easily on the head of the growing plant because they are twice or three times the size of the seed.

Ergot is found principally on rye, also on many other grasses, such as rye grass, blue joint, Kentucky blue grass, Canada blue grass, red top, timothy, wild rice and others. It occurs ocasionally on wheat. The ergot is produced as the result of a fungus disease attacking the plant. When rye or other grasses are in flower, the very small spores or seeds of the fungus are blown on to the flowers, penetrating into them and causing the production of the ergot in place of seed. To complete the life history of the fungus, it lives over the winter in the ground, or in storage bins in the form of the black, hornlike body or ergot: in the spring the ergot in the ground, either left there all winter or sown with the grain that spring, sends up one or several outgrowths, with a knoblike end; these produce an abundance of smaller bodies, which in turn bear the spores, spoken of above, which are blown by the wind and infect the flowers opening that summer.

The actual loss to the grain crop by this disease is slight, but the serious effect on cattle eating the ergotized grain, the losses from hay having to be destroyed because of the presence of ergot in the grass, make the disease a serious one, and everyone should know the precautionary measures to adopt in order to get rid of it. The effect on animals is that they become thin and rough-haired. Further symptoms are slow circulation in the extremities, gangrenous sores on the teats or the mouth, and sloughing off of parts of the tail, ears or hoofs. Abortion may also follow as an additional effect.

The following are the best precautionary measures to adopt:

1. Fields should be examined occasionally for the presence of ergot, and if large quantities are found the grass should not be used for hay or pasture.

2. Ergot may be lessened by cutting susceptible grasses about flowering-time, so checking the spread of the fungus.

3. Badly infested hay lands should be burned over.

4. If seed is found to contain ergot, it should be immersed in a 20 per cent salt solution; the ergot floats up to the surface of the liquid and can be skimmed off.—F. L. Drayton, Plant Pathologist.

REASONS FOR DEHORNING.

The Winnipeg Livestock Exchange gives the following reasons in urging farmers to dehorn cattle: It improves their appearance: they will become quieter, will feed better, will show larger gains in weight at less cost; more dehorned cattle can be loaded in cars, and they ship more satisfactorily; all buyers—the feeder, the killer, the shipper, the exporter—demand dehorned cattle; buyers discount horned cattle in prices as compared to dehorned cattle; practically all American native cattle are dehorned.

When to Dehorn.

The Saskatchewan department of agriculture gives Western farmers the following advice when and how to dehorn their commercial cattle:

"All calves should be dehorned at from one day to two weeks old with caustic potash. This operation is simple. When the calf is three to four days old, clip the hair where the rudimentary horns or buttons later appear, and with a stick of caustic acid, wrapped at one end to protect fingers, rub over the button until the skin becomes a little inflamed. A scab will appear in a few days, and further growth of the horn will cease. It is advisable to rub oil around the button to prevent the caustic acid spreading over too large an area.

"On 2-year-olds and over use a dehorning clippers or saw. Be sure and dehorn close to the skull to prevent further growth of the horn, as the stubs make cattle look staggy.

"Dehorning should be done in the spring or fall, or any time providing weather is moderately cool.

"When purchasing feeders on the central market, it will pay you to have them dehorned before leaving the yards."

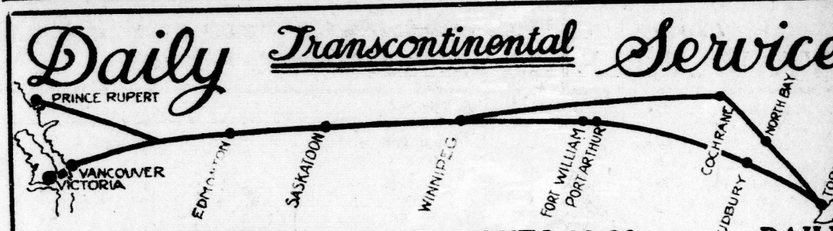

The circular adds: "Thousands of dollars are lost annually by Saskatchewan stock raisers alone owing to bruised carcases caused by horned cattle. Dehorned cattle in carload lots sell from 50 cents to $1 per hundred pounds higher than equally good horned cattle."

DIVORCE MADE ABSOLUTE.

London, May 13.—The decree of divorce granted on November 9 last to the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, which dissolved her marriage with the Duke of Marlborough, was made absolute this morning. Under the provisions of the British law six months must intervene between the granting of a divorce decree and the issuance of a judicial ruling, making the divorce absolute.

THE kidneys are one of the prime causes of good or bad health. With active kidneys, the body keeps in good condition, but once these organs fail to perform their work properly you begin to be gradually sapped of your vitality.

Nothing will "drag you down" quicker than the backaches, the headaches, rheumatism, and other pains resulting from neglected and congested kidneys. Debility of the whole system is caused when the kidneys cease to perform their functions properly.

Yet, these many ills can be avoided or remedied by taking—

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Gin Pills have a wonderfully soothing effect on the kidneys. They quickly heal any inflammation, and enable the delicate organs to resume their work of filtering the waste and poisons from the blood. That is the reason the people of Canada bought 613,644 boxes of Gin Pills in 1919.

What the Press Agents Say About the Shows

AT ALLEN'S.

"NOT GUILTY," AT THE ALLEN, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

"Not Guilty," which will be the feature attraction at the Allen on Friday and Saturday of next week, is adapted from that widely-read novel, "Parrot & Co.," written by Harold MacGrath. The plot is an unusual one, and involves twin brothers who love the same woman, and who, strange to relate, are both loved by her. One of the brothers commits a crime, turns out to be a murderer, and his twin changes identity with the guilty brother. The events follow in rapid sequence. The innocent brother, self-exiled in India, "the land of brilliant days and purple nights," where the love, the life, the lure of the tropical East soothe the hopes and the hearts of the tropical West. Then by coincidence the girl visits India. But the path of true love, which never did run true, winds through a veritable jungle of tense situations to a wonderful climax.

Among the added attractions will be shown a Fontaine Fox "Toonerville Trolley" comedy, Allen World News, and a variety of entertainment.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE ON MAN SHOWN IN THE DRAMA, "MAN-WOMAN-MARRIAGE."

Those who doubt the world has progressed during the last two thousand years should witness the showing of Allen Holubar's famous Associated First National production of the eternal drama, "Man-Woman-Marriage," starring the talented actress, Dorothy Phillips, showing at the Allen Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Man-Woman-Marriage" is a condensed history of the world's progress, a screen epic and proof positive of woman's subtle and benign influence over the destiny of mankind.

In the retrospective Roman scenes of this stirring modern story, beautiful Dorothy Phillips is seen as a Christian slave girl at the court of the Emperor Constantine. In the mighty splendor of this potentate's magnificence is pictured the decadence of civilization—the period when man lived for pleasure. It is the period whose unrestrained orgies were notable even in the reign of Augustus Caesar. In striking contrast is Dorothy Phillips in the role of a despised and tortured slave, steadfastly refusing to forswear the tenets of Christianity.

Down through the ages, as depicted in "Man-Woman-Marriage," the talented Miss Phillips indelibly impresses the spectator with the influence for good woman has wielded over man. In the modern story of this magnificent film Miss Phillips is no less impressive in her roles as a woman of our times.

"Man-Woman-Marriage" Drama Eternal, Showing At the Allen Theatre Four Days of Next Week, Is Greatest Triumph in History of the Screen

Costly Picture Abounds In Scenes of Gorgeousness and Splendor—Reveals Life of Woman Since World Began—Dorothy Phillips and James Kirkwood in Title Roles—Thousands of Players, Thousands of Horses, Required for Big First National Production.

"Man-Woman-Marriage," the drama which will be shown at the Allen on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, depicts woman throughout the ages. In scope of achievement and richness of presentation it sets new standards. In theme of universal appeal it reveals the changing of spheres "she" has occupied since the dawn of history. Its magnificent sweep crystallizes the story of woman from the cave period to today. Dorothy Phillips is the woman and James Kirkwood the man. This wonderful drama opens and closes in the Present, but in between comes the Stone Age, the Roman and the Mediaeval, admitting of scenes in which thousands of players and thousands of horses are shown. The transition of the lives of David the Man and Victoria the Woman, from the remote past is accomplished with that "art which conceals art," and the spectator witnesses the various reincarnations as if he were turning over life's pages. David, whether in the present, facing life's ideals, yet succumbing to temptation, or as Constantine the pagan emperor, converted to right by the Christian slave, is one and the same, while Victoria, representing Woman, steadily gains place and power through the years by virtue of the highest attributes of womanhood. A thousand colorful incidents dovetail into this mosaic of the screen, this mighty, eternal drama, "Man-Woman-Marriage."

Among the added attractions will be another rollicking Rolin Comedy, Allen World News, Chester Outing Pictures and a variety of entertainment.

AT LOEW'S.

"Hearts Are Trumps."

"Hearts Are Trumps" comes as the feature attraction to Loew's Theatre on Monday, for a run of three days.

Those who have already seen the picture acclaim it an unusual achievement, both as regards story and presentation. The photodrama contains an unusual character in a gambler who wins a girl in a card game, learns that she is already secretly married, and then bides his time for twenty years, when he pursues the helpless daughter of the girl he once wooed.

Many of the scenes were filmed in San Juan Capistrano, one of the oldest of the missions established in California by the Franciscan monks three centuries ago. One of the thrilling scenes is the realistic demolition of a large house by an avalanche.

A funny Mack-Sennett Comedy and Loew's Screen Pictorial will also be shown.

ROBERT WARWICK, IN "THOU ART THE MAN."

Robert Warwick's role as the star of "Thou Art the Man," his new photoplay, is said to be one that appeals to all classes of moviegoers. The picture is coming to Loew's Theatre for three days, commencing Thursday next.

The ex-fighter is a soldier of fortune in the South African diamond country. Innocently involved in a diamond-smuggling business, he leaves his crooked employers, only to meet a pretty girl and discover that her brother is involved in the same disreputable game. Later, a packet of stolen diamonds are discovered on him, and to protect the girl, he serves a jail sentence. Her mind is poisoned in his absence by her brother and others. Coming upon him after his release, and when he is rehabilitating himself as the manager of a plantation, she denounces him. The truth, however, comes out, and she is glad to beg his forgiveness.

A Sunshine Comedy, also Loew's Screen Pictorial will also be shown.

AT THE GRAND.

In "Wing Toy," the new Shirley Mason play which is to be presented under the auspices of William Fox at the Grand Theatre today, the Chinese atmosphere has been faithfully preserved. There are four such interior scenes—a laundry, a curio shop, a gambling den, and Wing Toy's bedroom.

"Wing Toy" abounds in thrilling scenes. The mystery and silence of the East are reflected in every line and movement.

"SOCIETY SNOBS."

Conway Tearle appears at the Grand three times today in "Society Snobs," a drama of modern society which for thrilling plot and gorgeous settings is said to be the finest in which this star has ever appeared.

The feminine portion of the audience are promised a display of fascinating gowns, and the men too will not be neglected in the matter of sartorial splendor, as worn by the plutocrats of the world of fashion.

Melania Pozor and Ernest Light, the added special feature attraction to the program at the Grand three times today, are a musical treat of merit. Mlle. Pozor, with a rich, dramatic coloratura voice, displays to fine advantage in a well-selected program of songs, assisted by Ernest Light at the piano. A most excellent and artistic musical and singing offering is that of Mlle. Pozor and Ernest Light.

Also on the same program, Fox News, latest News of the World, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, and a special humorous comedy, "Wanted, a Baby."

Aged Couple, Restaurateurs, Most Popular Persons in Wee Junction Town.

RAVENNA, Ohio, May 13.—They are ordinarily known as Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lane, but "Dad and Mother Lane" the trainmen call them, and the name has traveled to remote points on the three systems of railroads, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central, that meet at Black Horse, Ravenna suburb, the couple's home for fifteen years.

"Ma Lane," some of the "boys" call her, but, whether "Ma" or "Mother," she is the same to them all, and there isn't a mother's son of them but would fight to a finish for her.

And the things they would do for "Dad" are a book full.

Whole train crews have been fed and bedded and entertained at this railroad home. When it's a case of a night's stop-over, to the railroad men, the domicile Lane is "Home' Sweet Home."

"We have fed as high as 100 in a day," said Ma Lane, "and I am here to say that they are among the best people in the land, honest, generous and always courteous. When you know them as I do you will say so, too," she added.

On Old Stage Route.

To which Dad Lane said "You bet!"

When the couple left Ravenna fifteen years ago after retiring from business in which they had engaged for a number of years, they purchased a property at Black Horse, a name still attaching to the Five Corners a half a mile west of the town.

Black Horse was famous in pioneer days as a station on the old Cleveland-Pittsburg stage route with its hotel and hosteler full of business and the traditional lore of the innkeeper, not forgetting the driver, autocrat of the road and dispenser of news.

The old inn, with its sign of the Black Horse, survived as a dwelling house decades after stage coach days, the one remaining monument of past grandeur, until its destruction by fire a few years ago.

When Dad and Mother Lane bought a lot and built a house at the historic point, it was the first new building erected in the community for more than 50 years. But others soon followed them and now there are many modern homes in the neighborhood, a sidewalk, electric street lights, paved road and inter-urban service.

The first thing the Lanes did after getting their home ready, was to open a grocery store in its basement, from which they dispensed table commodities to the few neighbors.

It was not long until the train crews at "M. V. Junction" heard of the place and they investigated.

They found Dad and Mother Lane, and that was enough. From that time the business commenced to expand until it became necessary to build a separate store room on an adjoining lot, where Mrs. Lane prepared her famous luncheons for the boys of the road, who spread the news throughout their railroad runs.

Those Potpies.

They came by scores until more room became imperative, and some time after building an addition to the store room they sold their former home and built the house in which they now live, attached to the store room. They have a large trade for a mile about, besides taking care of their "boys," whom they never neglect, and who come to them like hungry children to the home larder.

During all of these years Mother Lane has done all of her housework while helping Dad in the store and preparing eats for her hungry lads.

"I'm 72 years old, and I wouldn't change health with half of the young girls I know," she said, as she told of feeding 40 on one occasion besides doing a big baking and making a batch of fried cakes.

One day a quartet of railroad men came over the path through the fields from the yards and were treated to all they could hold of Mother Lane's potpies. They jumped their train and carried the news to a gang at Brady Lake Junction, five miles up the road, and it wasn't long before Ma Lane was confronted with a small regiment of husky, hungry chaps begging for a potpie. And they got it, all they could hold.

That "Mother Lane" has devoted herself to her business to the exclusion of other affairs is evidenced by the fact that for seven years she did not leave her home until election day, when she went to town with her husband and voted.

GUELPH, May 13.—Beatrice Given, five-year-old daughter of John Given, 23 Earl street, died at St. Joseph's Hospital today from burns received in an accident at her home last evening, when fire, caused by an explosion of gasoline, caught her clothing and burned her wearing apparel completely from her body. The accident happened when the child was watching her uncle, Thomas Walker, fill his motorcycle with gasoline. While he was in the act of pouring the liquid, a small quantity splashed on the over-heated machine, with the result that an explosion followed, and the gasoline burst into flames.

MUCH ILL-HEALTH DUE TO BAD BLOOD

If the Blood Is Kept Rich and Red You Will Enjoy Health.

More disturbances to health is caused by weak, watery blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment and you may be troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are undernourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have a special action on the blood and as it becomes enriched your health improves. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is proved by the experience of Mr. D. J. McDonald, North River Bridge, N. S., who says: "For some years I suffered severely with headaches, pains in the back and a run-down condition. At times the pain in my back would be so bad that I would sit up in bed all night. From time to time doctors were treating me, but did not give me more than temporary relief. And then one day when I was suffering terribly a neighbor came to see me, and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes I felt relief. I got five boxes more and before they were all gone I felt as though they were giving me new life, as in every way they built up and improved my health and strength. I am now working as a barker in a pulp mill, ten hours a day, and feeling none the worse after my day's work. I say with pleasure that this condition is due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Entire Train Crew Captured in Raid

Large Quantity of Liquor Is Seized by Police.

SHERBROOKE, Que, May 13.—(By Canadian Press).—The entire crew of a Grand Trunk freight train were captured in a spectacular raid today on rum runners at Island Pond. All of the liquor smugglers, with the exception of one, Carl Peavy, escaped.

According to reports, the train was run to a secluded spot, where it was met by two automobiles loaded with liquor. The customs officers, headed by Customs Collector Jones and Deputy Egelton, raided the party.

Peavy, Engineer Toland, Conductor Danforth and Brakesman Riggie were haled before United States Commissioner W. H. Cleary, and were placed under bail of $500 to appear at the United States court at Windsor, Vermont, this month.

A large quantity of liquor was seized by the officers.

SUSTAINED SEVERE SHOCK.

CHATHAM May 13.—While working behind a main switchboard in the new Bell Telephone Company this afternoon during a thunderstorm, William Burroughs, a lineman, received a severe shock, when a bolt of lightning struck the outside service. He was rushed to a doctor's office nearby, where treatment was administered.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of everyone, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile, so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritating, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes: "I was troubled with such headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DEADLY VENDETTA 'TWIXT BARCELONA 'REDS' AND 'WHITES'

Campaign of Terror Begun by Radicals Develops Into Social Anarchy.

PARIS, May 13.—The Matin has received the following dispatch from its correspondent in Barcelona:

"In the last six months 327 employers of Barcelona have been killed and always, according to unvarying schedule. First, they receive a letter warning them that if in eight days they did not leave the city they could consider themselves condemned to death in the near future. Those who, defying this advice, remained, surrounding themselves with precautions, were surely brought home some day full of bullets.

"For instance, the president of the Employers' Association suddenly found his automobile surrounded by twenty ruffians, who began to shoot at him. By a miracle he was not killed on the spot. Physicians, who were called to visit him, received a warning that under pain of capital punishment they were forbidden to attend him. An escort of gendarmes was given to the physicians and accompanied them on each visit.

"Another employer, badly wounded, was taken to a hospital. At the end of six weeks, being convalescent, he telephoned his wife to come and get him in their automobile. As he passed through the gate of the hospital, an unidentified man killed him with revolver shots.

"It is invariably unidentified men who do the killing. The police show themselves utterly unable to stop these murders. By a singular rule, carabiniers arrive always just too late.

"That does not mean that no one is arrested. Quite to the contrary, all the known militant labor leaders and Socialists are locked up. Everyone who has advanced opinions is arrested.

"However, as these arrests en masse did not stop the attacks on employers, they set out to defend themselves. They found in 'free unions' aid which may have results. The free unions have for their motto, 'An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.' Whenever an employer is assassinated the same day a worker is murdered, maybe two of them. The number of workers thus killed has reached 167.

Will Strike Balance.

"If this total is less than the number of employers killed, it is simply because the slaying of workers began later than the hunting of employers. It may be predicted that a balance will soon be struck.

"While it is forbidden to doctors to attend wounded employers, it is also forbidden to lawyers to defend accused workers before the courts. One lawyer, Signor Ulleo, who did not fear to assume the task, was shot down in the street. A servant accompanying him was also killed.

"In the cafes the people gather at the close of the day and discuss the latest developments. For instance, I have just learned that at mid-day five men armed with revolvers entered a store in the middle of the city, crowded with clients, and cried, 'Hands up.' Everyone obeyed and the five relieved the clients of their pocketbooks. Later all these pocketbooks will be returned with their contents—except money.

"In the gaming hall at a casino the other evening the cashier at the end of play starting to exchange the counters for cash, found that the cash drawers had had the bottom sawn out and 22,000 pesetas had been taken. He knew that there was no use to raise a row and paid the amount out of his own pocket.

"In all the province armed soldiers ride on every train to protect travelers against these coups.

"The police class all these happenings under the title 'social attacks.' They hold both sides responsible and make no distinction as to the relative rights. In Barcelona the revolver is the supreme argument. 'Red terror,' cry the employers. 'White terror,' cry the workers. Truth to tell, it is hard to tell of what color it is."

CHAMBERLAIN'S

Old Age and Happiness

Old age should mean experience, knowledge and wisdom. Not poor digestion, sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill-health, despondency and misery. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. Try Chamberlain's Tablets. You'll like them. 172

INN BY THE BRIDGE.

I was glad the coachman did not ask me where I was going, when I got upon the Plymouth coach next morning—for I could not have told him. We had not gone twenty miles before we entered the sweetest gem of a valley that could be found in all Devonshire; and scarce had we entered it, before the coachman pointed out with his whip, a heavy, home-looking stone mansion beside the way, where, said he, in springtime—they take lodgers, who go trouting all down the valley.

"And if they take lodgers in spring, why not in winter," said I.

"Sure enough; why not?" said he.

So, when we were opposite, he reined up his horses, and I jumped down with my portmanteau in my hand. The good woman showed me into a snug little parlor, and the maid came in with a pan full of coals, and presently the grate was all in a glow, and the room dusted; and for dinner, I was served with such old-fashioned apple pies, and such luscious clotted cream, as are to be found nowhere else in England.

Ah, it was a rare time that, in the old inn at Ermebridge! Out of one window I could see the stone arch that leaped the stream, over which the coaches thundered twice and three times a day; and beyond it, the grey roofs of the village nestled together on the side of the valley, with the brown church tower messy and old, lifting above them—and beyond, the hills rising, and spreading into green grain fields. Out of the other window, that went down to the floor, I could step into a rich plat of grass, with trim walks in it, and laurels blossoming, and holding up their painted heads as proudly, as if the month were June and not January. From the very edge of this little green spot stretched a pheasant wood—for how many miles over the hills, I do not know; but I have walked . . . . in it, and never found the end; and sometimes the pheasants would steal out, and go stalking under the laurels, and stretch out a wing and a leg to sun, on a soft bit of the gravel; but when I touched the window, they would whir away to the middle of the wood.—Donald Grant Mitchell, "Fresh Gleaning."

HOTRUM AND

"How about going down to that drug store at the corner of Harboard and Manning?" They then went and located the Sabine store. Hotrum declared stoutly that he had not a revolver in his possession when he alighted from the motor car. McFadden and Conley each had a gun. He identified Conley's .32-calibre revolver, which was produced in court, and which he said Conley had handed to him on the night of the murder. It was not loaded, he said. McFadden had been drinking that night, Hotrum stated, and he said he could smell liquor on McFadden's breath.

Warned McFadden.

"Before going to the store," the witness continued, "I just told Mac to take his time and not to shoot. Mac seemed rather nervous. Mac went in first. He must have surprised Mr. Sabine, for he (Sabine) looked as if he was going to grab Mac. I thought there was going to be a fight. I shouted to Mac, 'Cut it out.' I was just at the door of the store, at the right hand side."

After that there was a shot, Hotrum said, the shot following almost immediately after he had cautioned McFadden to 'cut it out.' Neither McFadden or Hotrum were masks, the witness said. So far as he knew, no money was taken from Sabine's store. The original plan was to get in the back door of the drug store, Hotrum said, take the proprietor by surprise, tie him up and perhaps leave him in the cellar, while they got away. Finding this impossible, they entered the store by the front door.

Contradictory Evidence.

"I didn't get in," Hotrum swore, "for by the time I got to the door the shot was fired. My gun was not drawn then nor at any other time that night."

McFadden absolutely denied this. "I was outside when he (Hotrum) went in," he said on the witness stand this afternoon. "I heard a shot. Then 'Patsy' (Hotrum) came out, and we hurried towards the car. I asked him 'For God's sake, what did you want to do that for?'"

At the conclusion of McFadden's evidence the court adjourned until tomorrow morning. The case will likely go to the jury tomorrow early. The trial of William McFadden probably will start on Monday.

Denies the Story.

McFadden in his evidence this afternoon denied most of Hotrum's statement as to having received a revolver from Jack Conley before the pair left for the drug store. This weapon, he said, "was a big black gun," and was the one from which the shot was fired that killed Sabine. Before he and Hotrum left the car for the drug store Conley asked him (McFadden) if he had a gun, and he replied that he had not.

"Did you have a gun?" the crown counsel asked.

"I did not have a gun," McFadden replied.

McFadden denied Hotrum's statement about fearing a fight between McFadden and Sabine, and calling of him to "cut it out." The witness reiterated the statement, "I was not in the store, but I heard a shot." He insisted that Hotrum was in the store, and he, the witness, was outside the door, when the shot was fired.

When the pair were returning to the car on Euclid avenue, McFadden asked Hotrum why he had shot Sabine, and Hotrum replied, according to McFadden, "I had to punch him in the stomach to get away." 'I asked him where he hit Sabine," said McFadden, "and he said, 'in the stomach.'"

Admits He Lied.

Mr. Murphy questioned McFadden with a view to discrediting his testimony. He read from a statement alleged to have been made by McFadden to the police the night of his arrest.

"You lied the night you were arrested?" he asked McFadden.

"Yes," the witness replied. He said he did not know what he was saying that night when Mr. Murphy told him his statement was a tissue of lies.

"I suppose by your evidence here today you hope to be acquitted when you come up for trial?" Mr. Murphy asked, and McFadden admitted that he had such hopes. It was suggested by counsel that Hotrum, in saying he himself was innocent, was sending McFadden to the gallows. "He is when he says I did it," McFadden said.

McFadden denied that he had been drinking previous to the call at the drug store on March 5. He had had a drink afterwards, he said.

The trial of William McFadden will probably start on Monday.

Denies Shooting.

"Did you shoot Mr. Sabine?" Mr. Murphy asked.

"No sir," answered Hotrum, who appeared nervous and flushed under the examination.

Hotrum said he had been operating in this city two weeks, chiefly with Jack and Arthur Conley and Walter Hulse. McFadden had been with the party only at one place outside of Sabine's, he said.

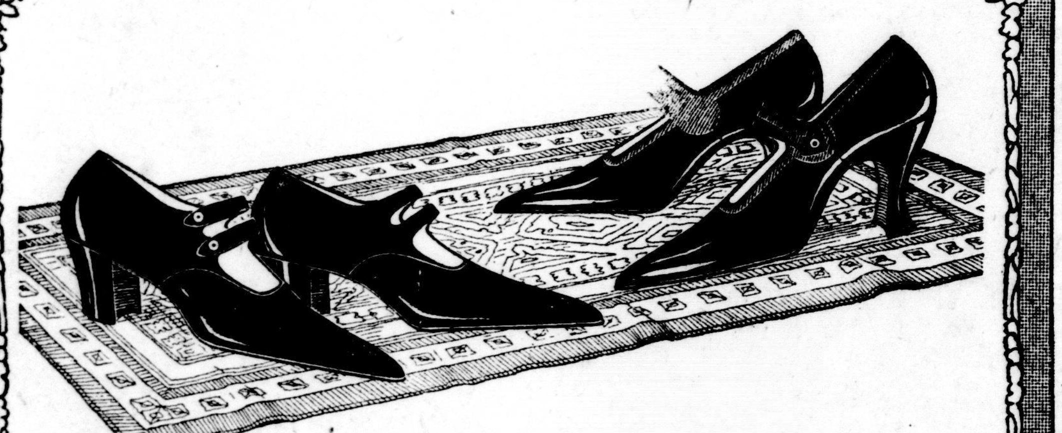

From one butcher shop robbed, the gang got over $200, Hotrum said, but his share was only about $45. He denied having robbed the butcher who was put in his own refrigerator, and he denied having a hand in the hold-up at Ammond Davies' jewelry store.

Would Use Fists.

Crown Counsel Waldron: "Hotrum said he would not use a gun in a robbery. 'I can use my fists well enough,' he declared. 'It would have to be something more serious than robbery to make me use a gun.'"

In answer to a question as to why he and McFadden had taken on the Sabine job, with Conley out of it, Hotrum explained: "Well, Jack Conley said he had lived around that part of the town, and he didn't like to rob a man he knew."

John W. Hotrum of Hamilton, Ont., father of the accused, and also a brother of Roy were called as witnesses. The parent said he was the father of ten boys and eight girls. "I don't think my boy could ever have done this," he said, with reference to the charge against Roy Hotrum. He admitted that Roy "would steal." Charles gave his brother a character for kindness.

THE PROTECTING ANGEL

TO make the lonely road less difficult for the widow—to provide food, clothing and an education for the fatherless children—that is the function of life insurance and was the aim of the founders of the Mutual Life when they organized the Company fifty-one years ago.

In order to achieve that purpose at the lowest possible cost to the policyholder the Company was organized on a purely mutual or co-operative basis—so that all profits are returned to the policyholders to reduce the cost of insurance.

This Mutual principle has been followed for more than half a century. The Mutual Life of Canada has held steadfastly to the ideas and ideals of its founders. It has been an "Angel of Mercy" to thousands of desolated Canadian homes.

The wonderful record of the Mutual Life of Canada, which has paid in death claims and other benefits no less than $33,320,716, and has assurances in force to-day of $206,000,000 is proof that it is practicable to carry on a business on the principle ot "each for all and all for each."

MEIGHEN TRIES TO JUSTIFY HIS FISCAL POLICY

from either the Liberals or Progressives. Opposition amendments to supply motions came in for his censure. "We know that my honorable friends opposite have been struggling hard to move amendments to supply," he said. "They have raked all the ash heaps and garbage barrels of politics—everything from the political dustpan that could be thought of has been moved in the House in amendment to supply—everything except their platform."

Different This Year.

Why had the Fielding amendment been introduced? Last year the Liberals had introduced an amendment, calling for a reduction in the tariff, but this year, said Mr. Meighen, their amendment called for no reduction. Hon. W. S. Fielding, the mover of the amendment, was in reality an adherent of the policy of protection. He had demonstrated this conclusively during his tenure of office as minister of finance in the Laurier administration. He had found a protective tariff in effect when he took office, and he had left it in effect.

In contrast with the attitude of the Liberal Opposition, the Government came out fearlessly and made its declaration on the tariff, said the prime minister. The Government stood for the tariff which existed today. "We want protection in this country, the same as every country in the world has it, with the exception of Great Britain," he said. "Great Britain is coming round to it pretty fast." It would be disastrous on the eve of a tariff revision in the United States for Canada to make any changes. The budget as presented by the finance minister had met with the general approval of the country.

How Does He Figure It Out?

Continuing the debate on the budget, the prime minister in the House this afternoon said that since the budget was delivered on Monday last, sufficient time had elapsed to enable the Government to ascertain with what measure of approval it would meet throughout the country. Everyone appreciated that Canada, in common with every other country in the world, was passing through a period of depression with a corresponding increase in financial difficulties and therefore, everyone knew that the difficulties confronting the finance minister were abnormal and greater than they would be in ordinary times.

It was gratifying to all citizens of Canada that the whole budget including the statement of the financial condition and the condition as the result of taxation and the proposed expenditures and taxes were well received. "I have been in public life for many years," said Mr. Meighen, "and I do not think that in all that time I have witnessed a budget statement received with such general approval as that of the finance minister this year.

Trade Has Advanced.

Communications received on the budget were uniformly favorable. No one in or out of the House could seriously challenge either the budget or the fundamental policy of the Government proposals. Although increased taxation was painful for Canada, everyone must reflect with pride, that in the year covered by the budget, Canadian trade has advanced more than one hundred and twenty five millions of dollars over the year ending March 31, 1920.

These totals were gratifying to every man who understood trade. The general financial position of Canada was excellent, and at the end of the year Canada found herself able to discharge all ordinary expenditure out of ordinary revenue and have a surplus of about $12,000,000. It was only when other features aside from ordinary expenditure were taken into consideration that it was found necessary to increase the debt. Canada was in a better financial condition than any of the first rate nations of the world. The budget in Great Britain was able to show a diminution of the debt, but it must be remembered that this was secured through the sale of war supplies and through a different method of bookkeeping. If the Canadian bookkeeping system were adopted in Great Britain the figures would show a totally different result.

Criticizes Liberals.

Regarding the challenge to the budget which appeared in the form of the Liberal amendment, Mr. Meighen said this was the only challenge to the budget on record, and in seeking to analyze it he would ask what was to be found in it. What might have been contained in the amendment, and what might have been reasonably looked for was not there. It was to have been expected that the Liberal tariff platform would be found in the amendment. It was not there. Was the amendment the platform on which the Liberal Opposition was prepared to go to the country? The amendment raised the question whether or not the Liberal party had abandoned the platform adopted at the 1919 Liberal convention and secured a new one. The reason why the Opposition had not included the 1919 platform in the amendment was not because they had not thought of it or had not been reminded of it.

The same was true of the Progressive party. With the end of another session in sight, the Progressive platform had not been moved. Hon. T. A. Crerar should have shown his support of it by acts as well as by words.

Progressives had moved everything except their platform.

Were Astonished.

The chief whip of the gentleman angularly opposite (Levi Thompson) had said that what the farmers wanted was free food and free implements. But where were free food and free implements to be found in the amendment before the House? Was a single thing to be found in the amendment which was included in the farmers' platform of 1918? Mr. Crerar's supporters were astonished that not one of their representatives in the House had ever had the courage to move their platform in amendment.

What was the explanation, Mr. Meighen asked. Why, practical politics. The desire to get in the same boat had made of the Progressive party a mere political annex. They were servile minions of the official Opposition.

Why not throw the mask away? Why not join right up? Mr. Meighen declared that it was a matter of indifference to him whether they remained separate or united, if they would only definitely state where they stood. If they wanted to unite, let them do so. Let them make a joint platform, and then let them stand on it.

All-Round Reduction.

And so with the Liberal platform of 1919. There was to be an all-round reduction in the tariff, whereby articles of closing and general consumption would be reduced in cost. Liberals had solemnly pledged that they would implement their platform by legislation once returned to power. But where did they stand, in between? Mr. Meighen hoped, if he got an answer to nothing else, at least this would be made clear before the debate ended.

Did the gentlemen opposite think there existed a single person so dull that he was not entirely aware of what was going on? No one was deceived by this kind of circuitous sinuosity.

Farmers throughout the country would not be deceived when they saw their members in the House were supporting the King amendment.

Scores Dr. Clark.

The prime minister then turned his attention to Dr. Michael Clark (Red Deer). He said that Dr. Clark, while preaching free trade, would never dare to place his policy in the form of a resolution. Members of the Liberal party had cheered Dr. Clark during his speech, but they knew that the amendment which he would vote for was an entirely different principle to the one he advocated. Dr. Clark had spent a great deal of time in consulting his (the prime minister's) speech of a year ago. The same line had been followed by papers supporting Dr. Clark's party. One of them published in Winnipeg had two special articles and a two-column editorial in one issue answering Mr. Meighen's speech. One of these articles was written with the "know it all complacency" of a student of economics, by a Scotch professor.

Caused Stagnation.

A great deal of effort had been spent in answering Mr. Meighen's remarks on the tin plate industry of Wales and of the United States, but the facts showed that the policy advocated by Dr. Clark had resulted in bringing about extreme suffering and stagnation in the Welsh factories, while those of the United States multiplied their production and prosperity. The answers to the prime minister's statements of last year had sought to know that the added price of tin plate in the United States as a result of building up the industry there had brought about an increase in the cost of canned goods. It had actually added one-eighth of a cent per can to the price. The fruit canning industry had suffered from over-production during the years in question, but not because of the increase in the price of tin. In addition to securing the business which Great Britain had lost the United States policy had brought about an important reduction in the price of tin eventually.

On Free List.

Liberals came into power in Canada in 1896. They had between then and 1914 placed three important articles on the free list. These were barbed wire, cream separators and binder twine. Dr. Clark had stated that the binder twine industry was prosperous. If that was the case, why did the factories not continue in operation? Of the 25 which had been operating when binder twine was placed on the free list, twelve had gone into liquidation, seven were disbanded, and three burned down. One of the remainder, at Brantford, was a success. The others made most of their profits from manufacture of other materials. The Brantford factory had made its profits through being fortunate in the purchase of raw materials.

Little Twine Produced.

Mr. Meighen read an article upon the binder twine industry, written in 1913. He stated that he would give the name of the writer at the end of the quotation. The article pointed out that in spite of the great market in Canada for binder twine, at the time the duty was taken off binder twine, imports were only 20 per cent of the quantity used. The last figures he had seen showed the imports to be over 50 per cent.

His curiosity stirred up Mr. Meighen's action in holding back the name of the writer, Mr. Crerar now asked who the writer was.

"Norman P. Lambert," replied the premier, amid Conservative laughter.

(Mr. Lambert is secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture).

Mr. Meighen next took up the question of cream separators. He stated that the Regina Leader had sent a representative to the United States to investigate the comparative prices in the United States and Canada of some seven articles. The article upon which the writer in the Regina Leader found the largest spread between American and Canadian prices was cream separators. Had he forgotten, asked the premier, that cream separators had long been upon the free list?

Disputes Figures.

Dr. Clark's statement that Canadian trade had fallen off in March by one hundred million dollars, as compared with March of the year before, now came in for attention by Mr. Meighen. Dr. Clark's hair, he remarked, had almost turned white at this great loss in Canadian trade, but that gentleman had not been ready to answer the questions regarding the decline in British trade. As a matter of fact, said Mr. Meighen, Canadian trade had not fallen off by one hundred million in the period stated, but only by seventy-eight million. In the same period British trade had fallen off from £307,0000,000 to £169,000,000, a reduction of £138,000,000, or nearly $600,000,000. The decline in the trade of Britain had been 42 per cent, while that of Canada had been only 32 per cent.

Attacks Fielding.

Taking up the amendment moved by Mr. Fielding, the premier asked why the Liberals had so soon thrown over their amendment of last year? Was twelve months too long to abide by a policy? Last year's amendment had called for a reduction in the tariff. This year there was an amendment not calling for a reduction at all. He wondered what the Farmers' party thought of being brought into vote for this amendment. He noticed that the amendment expressed regret that there was no reduction in the tariff. Very likely they did not regret it. They knew well in what spirit the country today would receive a proposal to tear down our tariff in the face of the increases in the United States, in France, in Italy, and even in Great Britain.

"Let me ask the leader of the Opposition whether the tariff of the present day adheres to the principles of protection, or not?" asked the prime minister. "I'd like to get a nod from him. I don't care whether it is vertical or horizontal. If he says 'no' I ask him what he wants. If he says 'yes' I reply that it is the Liberals' own tariff."

Reads Quotations.

Mr. Meighen then went on to declare that Hon. W. S. Fielding had given his adherence to the principle of protection in every budget which he had brought down in the House of Commons during his tenure of office as finance minister in the Laurier administration. He quoted from speeches delivered by Mr. Fielding when he was finance minister, in support of this contention. In one of these speeches Mr. Fielding was quoted as saying that he was gratified that the tariff was sufficiently high to compel American companies to establish industries in Canada. In the year 1904, Mr. Fielding, then finance minister, introduced increased duties on wool because the woolen industries of Canada could not, he claimed, survive without them. The duty on woolen goods from Great Britain had been increased.

"In speech and in action, through his whole period of office as finance minister Mr. Fielding adhered consistently and firmly to the principle of protection," declared Mr. Meighen.

Coming To It Fast.

"We want protection in this country the same as every country in the world has it, with the exception of Great Britain, and she is coming to it pretty fast," he insisted.

What was the use of talking? asked the prime minister. Mr. Fielding had found a protective tariff in effect, and he had kept it in effect. When he left office the average tariff was 26.7 per cent, and as against that the tariff in the year just passed averaged precisely 21.2 per cent.

"The country thoroughly understands," said Mr. Meighen, "where this Government stands on tariff matters. It is not where Hon. Mr. Lemieux said it was in a speech containing many things that he had no warrant for; 'that the Government stands for high protection.' The Government stood for the tariff as it existed today, and any adjustments made would take care of business in Canada and enable Canada to compete in business with other countries.

What It Means.

"I say free trade means free trade all around as far as the goods of this country are concerned. Free trade was born out on the Western prairie. I fought the movement during my first days in public life, and will continue to fight it as long as I live," Mr. Meighen said. It was possible to respect the men who advocated free trade, whether or not one agreed with them.

As for Mr. Fielding, continued Mr. Meighen, he had changed all around, pursued by the protection phalanx, and held in leash by the free-trade element from the West. This was not making any impression on the country, and everywhere Liberals and Progressives had earned the reputation of refusing to be frank on the great tariff issue. This reputation, particularly attached to the leader of the Opposition. It would be better for him to choose one side, stick to it, and take the consequences. Let him tell this country that if he came into power he would introduce free trade in Canada, or let him say he would have protection based on the natural resources. Canada did not care about adjectives, but let him plainly state whether or not he would practice free trade.

"I ask him whether the present tariff of this country is based on protection?" Mr. Meighen queried.

Moderate Protection.

Both Liberals and Progressives must state where they stood. The game played for the last two years must cease. It was not doing any good. The manifest course was a policy of moderate protection. This was the opinion of 75 per cent of the people of Canada. It would be disastrous on the eve of tariff revision in the United States for Canada to make any changes. Canada was not a great factor for consideration in United States tariff changes, but the United States was a mighty factor in determining Canadian policy. Nothing could be more childish than to suggest reciprocity, when the United States was contemplating putting a 35 per cent duty on wheat and potatoes. Under the Underwood tariff in 1913, the United States threw down the bars because they thought that was a good policy for the United States. They thought they could make a profit, but now when they found that the farmers of the United States were demanding protection against the plethora of Canadian goods, they were putting up the tariff wall.

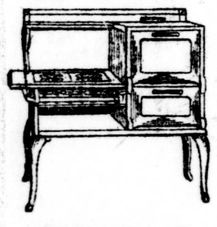

In the face of this it was up to Canada to determine what course would be the best in her own interests.

Why A. M. Guenther Says Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He Says That Dodd's Kidney Pills Are All That Is Claimed for Them, and Also Recommends Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dead Moose Lake, Sask., May 13.—(Special).—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for thirteen years, and have found them all that is claimed for them." Such is the tribute Mr. Anton M. Guenther, a well-known and respected resident here, pays to the old Canadian kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

All that is claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills is that they are a kidney remedy. They heal and strengthen thekidneys. They are used to treat rheumatism, dropsy, backache, urinary troubles, diabetes, and heart disease, because all these ills are either of the kidneys or caused by diseased kidneys.

Mr. Guenther has also used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and he says of them: "I can heartily recommend them to all sufferers from stomach trouble."

Dunlop Cord and Fabric Tires Are Now Made by the Same Unbeatable Process

DUNLOP

Means BIG Mileage

Dunlop Tires, Both Cord and Fabric Construction, are Giving Phenomenal Results.

Big Tire Mileage is here to stay. Just as we predicted in 1912 that the Anti-Skid Tire would become standard, so we now predict that Big Tire Mileage will be among the things every motorist will consistently expect from now on.

The tire manufacturer who has to apologize for "short life" in his product will be automatically eliminated. Cord Tire construction made possible the coming of a tire that refuses to quit until many thousands of miles have been clicked off. The Cord Tire is now universally accepted as the master choice.

And Dunlop Cord Tire is now the most popular. "Dunlop" is at top form, but don't forget that while we are turning out Cord Tires --- "Traction" or "Ribbed" --- which seem almost uncanny in their ruggedness, that a great number of motorists still use Fabric Tires. These motorists wanted more mileage than Fabric Tires were usually expected to give. That set us thinking. We wondered why certain Cord Tire principles could not be applied to Fabric Tires.

We experimented and were amazed at the find. It was that we could at one sweep add 20% more mileage to Dunlop Fabric Tires and make them last longer than Fabric Tires were ever known to last. Result: Dunlop "Cord"-built Fabric Tires are giving some other makes of Cord Tires a run for their money at, of course, much lower first costs.

Dunlop Cord Tires are outdistancing any other Cord Tire made, no matter at what price the tire sells. The stories told here prove all we claim. We have hundreds more like them. Note the remarkable distances covered and the splendid average for all parts of Canada on all makes of cars.

Here's What Private Car Owners Say:—

"The set of Dunlop Cord Tires, 36 x 4½—two Traction and two Ribbed—have given entire satisfaction. I have run them continuously on my Cadillac car, and have taken a trip from Winnipeg to Toronto and return, and they have now covered in the neighborhood of 20,000 miles and are still in good shape."—A. C. Turner, Winnipeg, Man.

* * *

"Would say I have been using your Traction Treads on both my big seven-passenger Steam "White" cars, and on my National and Flat Gasoline cars, and must say I've done some fearful travelling, over 18,000 miles, and no rim cuts so far, and I believe they'll go 18,000 miles more."—M. N. Lenning, Esk Bank, Sask.

* * *

"I may say that I have had four Dunlop Cord Tires on my car, which have gone approximately 23,000 miles, and I may state that I am just putting on four more 32 x 3½ (Straight Wall) Cord Tires of your make."—A. J. Barr, Ottawa, Ont.

Here's What Truck Owners Say:—

"My first set of Dunlop Traction Tread Cord Tires, size 35 x 4½, bought in June, 1919, have been used continually on a Studebaker truck, and have run 18,000 miles. They are still in good condition. Being perfectly satisfied with the service received from Dunlops, all my cars are now equipped with Dunlop Cords."—Forbes the Mover, Hamilton, Ont.

* * *

"A 34 x 4½ Dunlop Traction Tread Fabric Tire which I have equipped on one of my Ford delivery trucks, used for general cartage work, is now completing its third consecutive season and has never yet been off the rim. During this time the car has made many hard trips, including about twenty-five trips to Plattsburg, N.Y., and one trip to New York City, as well as several trips into Ontario and other points, which necessitated encountering roads of all descriptions. The total mileage, I estimate, is well over 20,000."—R. Clark, Montreal, Que.

* * *

"The tire which I brought back to be re-treaded ran 28,000 miles. We used it on the back wheels of our Studebaker truck for the first 1,200 miles. This tire was not changed for nine months, and during that time needed practically no air, which speaks well for your tubes. I cannot speak too highly of Dunlop Tires for the delivery business. We deliver for thirty stores, and each of our cars covers about fifty miles a day, and has to keep running all the time."—The Independent Messenger, Parcel and Store Delivery Co., Ltd., Calgary, Alta.

Here's What Dealers Say:—

"During the past season we have used many sets of Dunlop Fabric and Cord Tires as equipment on our cars. Our experience has been extremely satisfactory. There have been no complaints from any source. On the other hand, our customers frequently remarked on the fine results and big mileage obtained from Dunlop Tires. We are expecting to use your make as equipment on a much greater scale during the coming season."—The Crompton Car Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

* * *

"We have found the Dunlop Cords giving wonderful service and running up fine mileage records, especially on cars subject to overloading and hard usage. We have many satisfied customers who will use nothing but Dunlop Traction or Ribbed Cord Tires."—R. E. McMorran, Victoria, B.C.

* * *

"We can conscientiously recommend Dunlop Traction Treads to all our customers, as both we and they honestly believe that no other tire on the market is giving like service and mileage. Adjustments asked for during the past eighteen months have been practically nil, while the mileage has been exceptionally high for this part of the country. We have tried them out against opposition makes and the result has always been in favor of 'Dunlop.'"—Hargett's Motors, Limited, Mission City, B.C.

Here's What Livery and Bus-line People Say:—

"We are today sending you a 32 x 3½ Dunlop Ribbed Cord Tire that we have just taken off a Dodge Touring Car, having run over 23,341 miles, according to our records. We consider this a mighty fine record, and, in fact, is better service than we have been able to secure from any other make of tire."—Empress Auto and Taxi Co., Victoria, B.C.

* * *

"You cannot help being interested in hearing of the long mileage I received from a Dunlop 37 x 5 Traction Tread Cord Casing. The tire referred to I put on the rear of one of my Packard cars around November 1st, 1919. After running 11,000 miles on the rear, I changed it and put it on the front. It delivered 19,000 miles on the front wheel, making a total of 30,000 miles, all told, and it was only a short while ago that its usefulness ended. I am glad to say, unsolicited, that the average mileage of all Dunlop Tires has been around 13,000 to 15,000 and 18,000 miles, by which you can see they have proved eminently satisfactory."—The Packard Motor Livery, Toronto, Ont.

* * *

"I have been using Dunlop Cord Tires for the last fourteen months, and have about twenty-seven Dunlop 35 x 5 and 37 x 5 in use on my Cadillac cars in city and country livery business. I have as yet to have one not stand up. Some are still running and have gone 25,000 miles, and I look for a few thousand miles more."—Maple Leaf Auto Livery, Winnipeg, Man.

LONDON ROWING CLUB PLANS INDUSTRIAL BOWLING LEAGUE

As well as making an early start in the season, for they announce that Groundsman Giles will have a few greens ready this afternoon for any of the trundlers who wish to see how near they can come to drawing to a kitty, the London Rowing Club bowlers also announce the early organization of an Industrial Bowling League, as a feature of their 1921 program.

There was some demand for this form of league last year, but no step was made to get it. The London Thistles tried the idea out in curling, but the weather didn't give the experiment half a chance. However, it should be a howling success on the greens. A schedule will be announced for the league by May 24. Entries of rinks are in from the Civil Service, Perrins, Commercial Travelers, McClarys, Hardware Clerks. The games will be played each week, starting in June.

New Greens Added.

New greens and an increased membership starts the down by the river bowlers off on a splendid year's prospects. Games between President J. M. Hunt and Vice-President Emerson Nicholl, at 1:30, May 24, will officially open the season of the club.

Early in June, Wednesday afternoon open tourneys with lunch served on the ground will be started.

BIG CROWD SEE GRAND TRUNK JUNIOR WASPS DEFEAT 12TH FIELD BATTERY IN JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENER

2—0 Score of Game Which Pleased—J. Lewis, London and District President, Kicked Off First Ball.

The London Junior Soccer League opened last night at Carling Heights with 12th Field Battery and Grand Trunk Junior Wasps providing the bill, and the latter won by 2—0. A big crowd saw the fixture, a much larger crowd than turns out to see some of the senior games, and it augurs well for the junior soccerites in their pioneer season.

Mr. J. Lewis, president of the London and District, kicked off the first ball and then the juniors proceeded to show the fans that they will provide some great soccer during their season. After fifteen minutes of play, Marshal scored the Trunks' first counter. Payne scored the second on a penalty kick. C. Cars handled the game to the satisfaction of all.

This game was staged previous to the regular opening, Monday night, owing to the inability of Trunks to get the Carling Heights' pitch at that time. Machine Gunners and St. Thomas Junior Rovers will provide the second game at the Heights, Monday night.

The line-ups last night were:

Grand Trunk—Goal, Sommerville; backs, Young and Kilf; half backs, Matoan, Newman and Hays; forwards, Payne, Davis, Arnold, Marshall and Goddard.

Twelfth Battery—Goal, Cowley, backs, Dennis, Beemer; half backs, Fisher, Fairles, Stevens; forwards, Archer, Currie, Matthews, Gladall, Bell.

Emma Gees Line.

The Machine Gun Juniors' line-up against the Junior Rovers of St. Thomas at the Heights on Monday night at 6:30 will be:

Goal, W. Bruce; right back, B. Smith; left back, C. Davies, centre half back, E. Grace; right half back, G. Sage; left half back, B. Corfrey; centre forward, W. Dunlop; inside right, W. Flaridy; outside right, Y. Davies; inside left, A. Wilson, (captain); outside left, W. Lowe; spares, W. Webster, Robins.

Referee—Curry.

FORMER FAVORITES BACK ON MARKETS

Toronto Demands for Maple Leaf and Steel of Canada.

TORONTO, May 13.—Several local favorites of former times came back to life on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in renewed demand for Maple Leaf, Canada Bread and Steel of Canada. There was also a further move upward by Canada Steamships, preferred. In a more diversified day's trading there were signs of a searching out for securities that had been neglected, and which now give reason for market favor. The day's movement was not all in one direction, but the more active stocks advanced, thus showing a turn from recent records for the time being.

Maple Leaf and Bread, which are said to be more closely associated than formerly, moved up on apparently logical grounds. The annual meeting of Maple Leaf is approaching, and the report was in general circulation that, despite the period of depression, its financial statement would again be a good one, probably comparing well with last year. There was little stock to be had, and the price rose in the forenoon to 134½, a gain of 6½ points. Canada Bread rose to 24½, but closed at 24, with a gain of 5½ points. The talk on Bread is that the company has made important extensions out of earnings, and that the position of the common stock should be that much better. There is also the continuance of high prices for bread, although wheat and flour are going down. The question of delivery charges seems now the principal element in high expenses of the bread companies.

The further advance in Canada Steamships, preferred, was in keeping with advices from Montreal that this stock had returned to favor, with the prospect of the dividend being maintained. Canada Steamships shareholders will meet tomorrow to approve the new issue of debenture stock, not to exceed $8,186,521, to be used as collateral for the raising of $5,000,000. At 8 per cent the new money would require interest charges of $400,000, which is more than saved by the passing of the dividend on common in February last, which, on the 4 per cent latterly paid would have required $500,000 for the $12,500,000 outstanding. The demand for Steel of Canada was quite noticeable, the stock selling up to 60, and closing at 59½, with a gain of 1¼ points. Dominion Steel, likewise, eased off from the high of the day, closing at 36¾, with a gain of a fraction, after touching 37¼. The afternoon prices, in fact, showed a tendency to easier levels after the early high, just as Wall Street sold off towards the close.

In National Breweries there was no change from Thursday's close here. The papers played a small part in the trading, and tractions were relatively dull.

Victory bonds were spotty, with small advances by the 1922, 1924 and 1934 issues. There was said to be a scarcity of 1924 and of the 1931 war bonds.

Total trading: Listed stocks, 1,908 shares; unlisted stocks, 2,005 shares; bonds, par value, $252,000.

NEW YORK MARKET ISSUES IRREGULAR

Strong at Middle of Session, But Heavy as Close Approaches.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Stocks were irregular at the outset of today's session, firm to strong during the intermediate period, and heavy at the close, when realizing sales virtually wiped out 1 to 3-point gains made by various speculative favorites.

Steels, oils, motors, leathers, utilities and several of the popular miscellaneous specialties were prominent on the constructive side, while tobaccos, shippings and some of the transportations developed more reactionary tendencies. These gained the upper hand in the final hour. The total sales of stocks amounted to 825,000 shares.

Lower money rates, the stronger position of the Federal Reserve Banks, and the decision of the Federal Reserve Board to extend acceptances of import and export bills to six months, were among the factors which gave impetus to the market.

Call money opened and renewed into next week at 6½ per cent, as compared with the recent quotation of 7 per cent. Banks, including interion institutions, were disposed to lend more freely on short-time loans and commercial paper.

Less apprehension was excited by the question of additional dividend reductions or suspensions, and investment conditions were regarded as more stable, because of the success which attended latest corporate offerings.

Foreign exchange was another stabilizing influence, rate on London and most of the continent holding at or near latest high records, and in several noteworthy instances establishing new maximums. This was true of French, Belgian, Italian and Dutch remittances. Marks also made substantial improvement, but sterling exchange was barely firm. Spanish, Greek and Scandinavian bills broke sharply.

Many of the European flotations made response to the strength of foreign exchange. Liberty bonds closed at variable gains, but most other domestic issues, including rails, were irregular. The total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $9,650,000.

BREWERIES LOSES IN MONTREAL TRADE

Liquidation Still in Progress—Brompton Regains Some Lost Ground.

MONTREAL, May 13.—There was more liquidation in National Breweries stock in today's trading on the local exchange, with a resultant easing in price to 54½, and a closing at 54¾, a net loss of 2⅛ points. Brompton was the second most active stock, and was firmer, regaining a small fraction more than its ⅜ point drop of yesterday, closing at 36½.

Canada Steamships, preferred, was a strong feature, selling up to 57, and closing with a net gain of 2¾ points at 56½, the common adding 1 point at 26½.

The utilities were not prominent either in price changes or activity, and the group was irregular. Weaker features were Dominion Glass, down 1 point at 56; Dominion Steel, down 1¼ points to 36¾; Lyall, down 3 points to 61, and Sugar, down a fraction to 31.

The bond list was less active and was inclined to lose the small gains of yesterday.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE OF YEAR AT THE LOCAL MARKET ON SATURDAY

Vegetables Plentiful, But No Price Changes Recorded.

CROCK BUTTER SLUMPS

Now Selling at 35 Cents Per Pound Retail—No Poultry Offered.

The attendance at the local market on Saturday was the largest of the year. There were heavy supplies of all products and a brisk demand was manifast. Vegetables were plentiful, but prices on the whole were unchanged. Potatoes were a little higher than the Thursday quotations. They brought 60c per bag wholesale and 75c retail. Asparagus went at $1 per dozen. By the bunch it continues to sell for 10c and 15c. Rhubarb was plentiful, but there was a change in price.

The butter market was in an unsettled condition. However, crock butter was the only grade where prices were changed. In this case there was a big slump. It dropped to 30c and 32c per lb wholesale, and 35c retail.

Small pigs went at between $13 50 and $15 50 per pair.

No poultry was offered.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, May 14.—Shorts dominated the stock market during the greater part of the week, but lost some of their confidence in the later dealings, when the money market evidenced an easier trend.

Pressure was most often directed against steels, equipments and motors, including accessories, many of those issues losing ground on rumors which dealt mainly with poor earnings and probable dividend reductions or omissions.

Rails were steadier, but a brief upward spurt in that group was arrested when it became known that no action respecting lower wage schedules or freight rates would be taken for at least another fortnight.

Germany's complete surrender to the demands of the Allies was without more than passing effect upon the securities markets, but imparted a degree of buoyancy to foreign exchange. The British rate was at its highest in over a year, and most of the continental remittances rose to maximum levels since the war's close.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, May 14—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Trading in stocks at the outset of today's stock market was of the usual indefinite week-end character. Motors, oils and tobaccos registered moderate extensions to recent declines. Chandler, Bosch Magneto, Houston, Tidewater and Sumatra fell 1 to 1½ points. Sumatra made quick recovery, however, and elsewhere there were indications of short covering. Dealings in rails were unusually light and narrow. Exchange on London eased slightly from yesterday's best quotations.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Raw sugar was firm early today at 3⅞c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 4.89c for centrifugals. No sales were reported.

WHEAT BOOSTED BY FROST PREDICTIONS

Prices Average Higher on Chicago Market—Crop Reports Unfavorable.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Wheat averaged higher in price today, chiefly as a result of frost predictions and a renewal of unfavorable crop reports. The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ¾c advance, with May, $1.43¼ to $1.43½, and July, $1.15½ to $1.15¾. Corn gained ¼c to ¾c net; oats, ¼c to ⅜c, and provisions, 10c to 20c.

Strength in the wheat market developed quickly after some depression caused by absence of frost which had been expected last night. Indications, however, that the Northwest and West would have freezing temperatures tonight led to anxiety lest the spring wheat just coming up would be injured. Meanwhile, advices from field experts in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, tended also to encourage buying on account of deterioration, evident in the conditions of the winter crop. Toward the last of the day, nevertheless, profit-taking sales became rather general, and best prices failed to hold. Rains at some points in Oklahoma were regarded as against the bulls. Passage of the Tincher bill through the House at Washington counted also as an incentive to sell.

Corn and oats were governed largely by sympathy with wheat. Country offerings of corn were generally held somewhat above the market.

Demand for provisions was stimulated a little by the strength of grain.

REPORTS OF FROST BOOST 'PEG PRICES

Damage in U. S. A. Winter Wheat Belt Starts Market Climbing.

WINNIPEG, May 13.—Immediately after opening, on reports of damage in the winter wheat belt in the United States, and reports of frost in Western Canada, wheat prices here began to ascend, and at the peak had shown an advance of about 8c. Trade volume in the pit was not large, but selling pressure was very meagre. Around the high of $1.80⅞ for May the market turned very dull and was waiting for further crop news. The futures closed 6⅝c higher.

A fair demand existed for the top grades in the cash wheat market. With the strength in futures, offerings were much more liberal and premiums fell away from 2c to 3c.

There was a continued good demand for No. 2 Canadian western and No. 2 feed oats, with offerings small. Cash barley was in good demand with little coming out. Flax and rye continued dull. Oats closed ¼c to 1⅛c higher; barley, 1¾c to 1⅞c higher; flax, 5¼c to 6½c higher, and rye, 6c lower to 3c higher.

CITY WILL SEND TWO DELEGATES ON DEPUTATION

Lively Debate in Council Before Action Was Taken.

ST. THOMAS, May 13.—The appointment of the delegates to go with the Ottawa deputation, on Tuesday, over the Port Stanley bridge and harbor improvements was not made by the council this afternoon until some of the aldermen had loosed up their braces. Coming down to figures Alderman Middleton put the cost of junketing journeys as reaching thousands of dollars with little to show for it.

Ald. Curtis made inquiries as to what the duties of the Elgin representatives were, and if the gentlemen sent down by the county council attend at the office of the ministers when anything of this kind had to be considered. Ald. Middleton in criticising the motherly interest taken in the progress of the port, charged the Government with wasting $12,000 in the construction of freight sheds on the docks there, at the instigation of the London and Port Stanley Railway. The alderman estimated the amount of freight reaching the sheds since they had been handed over by the contractor as reaching about $25. And a similar waste of the people's money was to be seen in Windsor, said the alderman. Other of the aldermen objected to the outings at the expense of the people. An agreement was reached that the bills for the trip would be taken out of the money in the hands of the industrial committee. Mayor Brinkman and City Solicitor Doherty were appointed.

Proposed Harbor Improvements.

Landings are being made at the harbor, Port Stanley, as a preliminary to the proposed improvements.

The butchers and grocers have again decided to keep their shops open until 10 o'clock Saturday nights.

WILL LOOK AFTER TELEGRAPH REPAIRS

Michigan Central Equipment To Be Cared For by G. N. W.

ST. THOMAS, May 13.—The care and repairs of the telegraph equipment and wires of the Michigan Central have been taken over by the Great North Western Telegraph Company. This change in the supervision of the wires and their accessories will not affect the number of M. C. R. Railway employees in this particular department. But it will reduce their monthly allowance.

1,000 All Day Suckers.

The Drake Street Rabbit and Fish Club will hold its annual meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Stanley Crescent, foot of Drake street. One thousand all day suckers will be provided free.

N. Levine Injured.

Driving in front of a street car at the corner of Talbot and William streets late last night, the auto of Nathan Levine of the St. Thomas Rag and Metal Company, was hit and Mr. Levine seriously hurt. A rib was fractured, and Mr. Levine received some bad cuts, and bruises about the head. The car, too, was knocked out of commission. Warnings were given by Motorman McKnight when he saw the danger, and it was through his presence of mind that Mr. Levine did not meet with a more serious injury.

FLEET-FOOTED BRIDE

Caught Two Burglars Within Block in New York.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Lena Landetta, a young bride of 2334 First avenue, knows all about burglars, and when she left her flat today to go over to her mother's grocery store in East One Hundred and Twentieth street for a cooking lesson, she carried her most valuable wedding presents in a handbag. These consisted of two gold watches, a diamond engagement ring, a diamond necklace and other jewelry.

Later in the morning two men were arraigned in Harlem court charged with larceny, and Policeman Zech of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station told the magistrate it had been his privilege to witness some of the fastest running by Mrs. Landetta he had ever seen.

"I was in the store," said the bride "when these two men came in. My handbag was on the counter, and one of them grabbed it. Both ran out and I followed."

"I'll agree that she followed," said Zech. "When I first heard a scream the two men had a quarter of a block lead, but this young woman caught up with them inside of a block. She didn't run, she flew. When she caught up she locked arms with them and by the time I could get up they were ready to quit."

The men gave the names of Alexander McDonald and John Hogan. They were held in $2,500 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

VICTORIA STATUE WRONGLY PLACED

Beholder Must Get Stiff Neck, Be Run Over Or Be Drowned.

LONDON, May 13.—Victoria, B. C., has lost its standing in English artistic circles by outraging all the canons of art in connection with the erection of a statue to Queen Victoria in front of the Parliament Buildings in that city. The sculptor of the statue, Albert Bruce Joy, is the authority for the foregoing statement, on the strength of his discovery that the figure has been placed on the wrong site and is facing in a quite wrong direction. Mr. Joy has issued an urgent appeal, through your correspondent, that the statue be not unveiled until all this has been set right.

"A bronze statue facing north, as they have placed it, looks like sixteen feet of nothing," says the sculptor. "It is also so sited that anyone looking at it must stand right under it, go out on a road and be run over by a motor car, or fall backwards into the water. The site is an absolutely impossible one."

TRAVEL TO VIENNA OFTEN A HARDSHIP

Many Complaints of Difficulties At Czecho-Slovak Frontier Are Made.

VIENNA, May 13.—Although Vienna is no longer an unpleasant place for foreign visitors with their own money, it is not always an agreeable diversion to arrive there, because of the amazing and usually inexplicable difficulties at the frontier.

The only trains approaching those of the good old times in comfort and reliability are the so-called Entente trains, international expresses with certain privileges. But their number is limited, and they may only be used by official authorization, which, although not very difficult to get, causes unnecessary trouble. Traveling by motor is usually deemed more advisable, although the roads and highways are not in a good state.

International air connections with Vienna are as yet impossible, the interallied military control mission having resolved to destroy all Austrian aeroplanes and not to allow travel by German planes. Three German passenger flying machines which came here from Munich and were to maintain a regular service, were seized by the mission and released only after long negotiations.

The peace treaty of St. Germain allows the opening of air routes six months after the ratification of the treaty. It is believed here that the difficulties will be removed by next summer at the latest, so that then Vienna will be connected with the rest of Europe by regular flights.

Many complaints are made of the Czecho-Slovakian frontiers, and the following experience of a foreigner is only one of many of the same tenor. He came with the Oderberg-Vienna express, and should have arrived in Vienna at 8 o'clock at night, after having passed the Czecho-Austrian frontier at Lundenburg at 4:30 in the afternoon.

When the train arrived at Lundenburg, nearly on time, he was told to leave his compartment with his luggage, which he had to carry himself, as there were no porters. He and his fellow-passengers formed a long queue outside the depot. It was bitterly cold. The entrance to the station was closed. Nobody showed any interest in the waiting passengers, among whom were aged people and mothers carrying their babies.

After some time a protest was made without effect. The foreigner collared a man in uniform and asked what it all meant. The man did not understand. At last an official turned up and told them that the luggage would not be examined before the next morning, as the train would not continue its journey.

No explanation was given. The station master did not hold it worth while to explain. He merely shrugged his shoulders. The only information he volunteered was that the next train would leave at 5 o'clock in the morning. This was at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, with Vienna only 55 miles distant.

The passengers tried to find rooms for the night, but in vain. Every corner in the small town was occupied. So they settled down in the station restaurant and got permission to stay there for the night. At 3 in the morning they had to form a new queuue in the open air. Meanwhile the temperature had gone below freezing. They could see the Czech custom house officials walking up and down quietly in the lighted and heated custom house, but nobody opened. When somebody knocked at the window, an official appeared at the window and looked out—that was all.

At last the examination began, under the guard of soldiers with pointed bayonets. When the authorities had finished the passengers were crowded into Austrian workmen's train, and arrived in Vienna at 9 in the morning, instead of 8 of the previous night.

EXPOSES EVILS OF PATRONAGE SYSTEM

Gen. Hughes Is Strongly in Favor of Service Commission.

OTTAWA, May 13.—Brig.-Gen W. St. Pierre Hughes, superintendent of penitentiaries, stated today to the special House committee on the Spinnet civil service bill that he preferred having appointments made under the civil service commission. Under patronage, it had been almost impossible to get rid of unsatisfactory men. The warden had to "get something on them" before they were dismissed.

Gen. Hughes said there was now no question of politics in the appointment of penitentiary wardens. The best interests of the service were safeguarded by the present system.

Instancing a case of appointment under patronage, Gen. Hughes said a green-grocer had been named for the political appointment of deputy warden of one penitentiary by the local patronage committee. In order to avoid appointing the green-grocer, the minister of justice had sent a policeman to take charge, "and he could scarcely write his own name," said Gen. Hughes.

THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

"What's Your Husband Doing," showing at the Allen Theatre today is a screamingly funny comedy of a merry mixup of young husbands and wives at a roadhouse called "Honeysuckle Inn." From the first to the last scene the film is packed with laughs, and is one of the most wholesome and extremely humorous comedies that has been shown for some time. Doris May and Douglas McLean play the leading roles.

Miss May plays the role of Beatrice Kidley, newly-married and suspicious of notes which her husband gets every morning from the Inn. She consults her lawyer (Douglas McLean), and they resolve to investigate. In the meantime, the wives of her lawyer and his partner have become jealous of the divorceness which their husbands find necessary to talk over with pretty co-respondents and other designing creatures. The real reason for the "suspicious notes" is that Ridley has a share in the Inn, and is trying to sell out. On the same evening that he goes to close the deal his wife's lawyers and their wives turn up, also his own wife, and after a mixup, particularly with mint juleps, the Inn is raided, and things are brought to a climax. The whole party, including the lawyers, are taken to court, and matters cleared up next morning in the court in the most amusing manner. Beautiful gowns and lovely scenery are features of the picture.

One of Booth Tarkington's comedies, which have always proved favorites with Allen audiences entitled "Edgar, the Explorer," was also shown. Another thrilling episode of "Tarzan of the Apes" and Screen Snapshots completes an all-round good bill, which will be shown this afternoon and evening. Special music is given by the organist.

FOUR PERISH IN POWDER BLAST

Instantly Killed When Explosives Ordered Destroyed Crash Prematurely.

LAWSON, Okla., May 13.—Four enlisted men of the Seventh Ordnance Depot Detachment at Fort Sill, Okla., were instantly killed late today when 500 pounds of black gunpowder condemned and ordered destroyed, exploded prematurely. The men were literally blown to pieces. Search continuing until darkness resulted in the finding of only fragments of the bodies.

COMMISSION MAY JUSTIFY CONSTABLE

No Decision Announced Owing to Absence of Mayor.

ST. THOMAS, May 13.—Owing to the absence of Mayor Brinkman from a special meeting of the police commission this afternoon, the decision reached with regard to the charge laid against Constable McKeown by Mr. Ingram was not officially announced. But it has been intimated that the majority of the commission justifies the means taken by the constable to arrest and convey Mr. Ingram to the city lockup. And that Mr. McKeown, as an officer of the peace, was only acting in the discharge of his duty. The delay in arriving at a conclusion was due to the absence of one or another of the commissioners, when an appointment was made to consider the testimony taken at the recent investigation held by the members of the board. No other charge against the police department was officially brought before the commission.

TELEPHONE COMPANY GIVEN PERMISSION TO INCREASE RATES

Sparta Rural Subscribers To Pay $14, Instead of $12.

ST. THOMAS, May 13.—The Sparta Rural Telephone Company was given the right to increase its rates from $12 to $14 a year by the provincial, municipal and railway board, today. The company has about 140 miles of lines, and 48 miles of poles. There was a deficit last year of $53.38. The total revenue from the shareholders was $1,602.80, and operating expenses reached $1,655.42. The increase in the rates will help the company to extent of $344 yearly. The company has 130 shareholders, each holding two shares of stock at $18 a share. The subscribed stock amounts to $4,680. The assets of the company are appraised at $6,600. Shareholders pay from $8 to $10 a year, and non-shareholders from $12 to $14. Several sections of the line are badly in need of repair.

Old at thirty

It depends largely on how you eat.

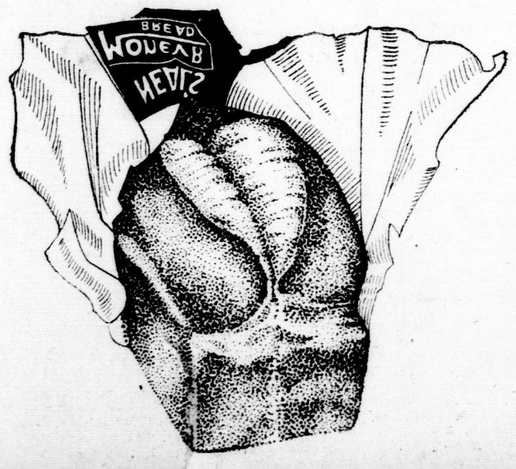

"Old-age diseases have increased 100 per cent in thirty years,"—so say health statistics. Here is a dire indictment of extravagance in eating.

To sustain health the body must be nourished with plenty of simple food, free from poisonous wastes. That food is Bread.

Too rich foods, if persisted in, result in premature decay of tissue, breakdown and old age. Finally the scrap-heap.

Prolong your youth and joy of living. Stop at your grocer's for a loaf of GOOD BREAD today.
