POETRY.

Rocking the Baby.

I hear her rocking the baby
Each day when the twilight comes,
And I know there's a world of blessing
And love

In the "baby by" she hums,
I can see the restless fingers
Playing with "mamma's rings,"
And the sweet little smiling, pouting mouth.

That to her in kissing dings,
As she rocks and sings to the baby,
And dreams as the rocks and sings.

I hear her rocking the baby,
Slower and slower now,
And I know she is leaving her goodnight kiss

On its eyes and cheeks and brow,
From her rocking, rocking, rocking,
I wonder would she start,
Could she know, through the wall between us,

She was rocking on my heart?
While my empty arms are sobbing
For a form they may not press,
And my empty heart is breaking
In its desolate loneliness.

I list to the rocking, rocking,
In the room just next to mine,
And breathe a tear in silence
At a mother's broken sobs,
For a woman who rocks the baby
In the room just next to mine.

At last in despair Helps knocked at the door of the outer office. There was no answer. He turned the handle, pushed the door ajar and went in. The room was empty. Mr. Paget's pile of ordinary business letters lay unopened on his desk. Helps went up to the door of the inner room, and pressed his ear against the keyhole. There was not a stir within. He knocked against a chair, and threw down a book on purpose. If anything living would bring Mr. Paget out it was the idea of matters in his office. Helps disarranged matters wildly; he threw down several books, he upset more than one chair; still the master did not appear. At last he knocked at the door of the inner room. There was no response. Then he knocked again, louder. Then he hammered with his fists. Then he shook the door. No response. The inner room might as well have been a grave. He rushed away at last for tools to break open the door. He was terribly frightened, but even now he had sufficient presence of mind not to bring a third person to share his master's secret. He came back with a pick-lock, a hammer and one or two other implements. He locked the door of the outer office, and then he set boldly to work. He did not care what din he made; he was past all thought of that now. The clerks outside got into a frantic state of excitement; but that fact, had he known it, would have made no difference to Helps.

At last his efforts were crowned with success. The heavy door yielded, and flew open with a bang. Helps fell forward into the room himself. He jumped up hastily. A quiet, orderly, lovely girl looking down from the wall!

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., AUG. 2, 1895.

A Glorious Battle Commemorated.

The marble shaft prepared to commemorate the glorious battle of Lundy's Lane was unveiled on that memorable field on the 24th inst., amid manifestations of patriotic admiration and a just national pride.

The Boston Standard in referring to the event says:

"Our Canadian friends are manufacturing history for themselves; because, it is the British a sound drubbing that momentous day and saved the settlements on the New York side from destruction. Every American schoolboy is taught that Gen. Scott was 'the hero of Lundy's Lane.'"

When it is remembered that the Americans have erected a monument at Banker Hill in honor of an imagined victory there, despite the fact that history clearly shows that they suffered a severe defeat; when it is remembered that the Americans claim themselves the conquerors in the war of 1812, despite the fact that in the subsequent treaty they did not even mention the grievances on account of which they had first declared war; it will not seem very remarkable if the Boston Standard and the American schoolboy should have gotten erroneous ideas concerning the battle in question. We are sorry to note that our neighbors resemble the Chinese in their dislike to recognize a just defeat.

The following are the facts concerning the battle of Lundy's Lane. Our readers can judge for themselves to whom the palm of victory should be justly awarded.

The Americans having defeated a small British force under Gen. Kial at Erie and Chippewa followed their retreating foes to within seven miles of Fort George—Rial's subsequent stand. Having inflicted the most cruel outrages on the people of the surrounding country, they fell back on Chippewa. Rial having met with reinforcement and learning of the American retreat set out for Lundy's Lane, falling in with Gen. Drummond on the way. Passing through the territory recently ravaged by the Americans, the smouldering ashes of the village of St. David's met their gaze. Such a scene couched with the pleadings of defenceless women and children put new vigor in the Canadian troops. On the evening of the 24th the two armies met. The American army numbered 6000, the British 3000 men. The Americans, confident on account of former successes and a superiority in numbers, fought with a courage which assured of victory prompts. But the British soldier and nerved him to desperation. Death or victory were with him the only looked-for goals. The fight was one of the most desperate and bloody in history. In many places the contest was hand to hand and muzzled to maul. The carnage was fearful, every fifth man went down. The bass and awful voice of Niagara sang for many a gallant soldier a solemn dirge. Toward midnight the Americans, worsted at all points, withdrew to Chippewa leaving the British the masters of the field. Next day the invaders pursued by the British proceeded to Fort Erie, throwing their artillery and heavy baggage into the Niagara as they went—a strange course for victors to pursue, one might think.

Such was the battle of Lundy's Lane, an historical event of which a much older country than Canada might well be proud. The action of the government, in commemorating by a monument this glorious field and the brave men who fought and died there, is a praise-worthy one. The more Canadians are caused to remember the pluck and heroism of their Canadian ancestors, the nearer it is for them to be more loyal and valiant subjects.

"Almost everything on earth resembles a quadratic equation," says a writer in the last Orchardist, and then to prove that there is at least one exception to this remarkable rule, some utterances are inserted which, we are glad to say, nothing on earth can possibly resemble. The article stands alone. It is unapproachable for crookedness of expression, a manifestation of ignorance and general and motiveless falsehood. All statements in connection with the ACADIAN are absolutely and laborably false—unworthy even of denial. It is extremely amusing to note that whenever an aspiring individual has composed anything particularly crude and unreliable, there is a natural impulse for him to rush with it to our contemporary.

A London (Ont.) girl has won the prize offered by a Washington paper for the best essay on the late lamented George after whom the capital of the United States is named. A Canadian (Hall) was the best member of the Cornell crew at Henley, a Canadian (Blackett) was the fastest oarsman at Saratoga, a Canadian (Hayhurst) won the Queen's prize at Blaisy, and now a Canadian school girl beats the whole United States in writing an essay on the Father of the American Republic. "Beh for Canada!"

Canada's exports to the British West Indies in 1894 were valued at $2,000,000. The extension of the Halifax-Remunda cable to these islands ought to take place, and in which work the British Government has promised to assist, ought to materially increase a trade which has already reached considerable dimensions.

Intending exhibitors should apply at once for space at the International Exhibition at St. John, N. B.

Canada's Topography and Geography Menaced.

We learn on the high authority of the New York Sun that the War Department of the United States is about to make another attempt to learn something of the topographical and geographical situation in Canada with a view of preparing to meet certain situations which may be presented, should Great Britain attempt to invade the United States from the Canadian frontier. It seems that three months ago the Secretary for War told an officer to come up here and study our topography and geography, but he told his wife, his wife told her father, a gentleman old colonial, and he told everybody else, so the officer had to be called off.

Later a second detail was made, a bachelor probably, but his friends got hold of the secret and saved him from being hanged as a spy by publicly mentioning the fact that he had been selected for this dishonorable and dangerous mission. Now the Sun has discovered a third candidate for a Canadian gallows, who will travel incognito, and who, "it is believed," will reach Canada without the intent of his visit being made known.

If this unfortunate man would be arrested on Canadian soil with some of our topography in his pocket, a terrible fate awaits him. The War Department has done its best, according to American ideas, to protect its gossamer. It has evidently selected a man without father-in-law or mother-in-law (probably took him out of an orphan asylum), and it has told the New York Sun. What more could it do to guard its deadly secret?

It behooves the Canadian authorities now to keep a keen look out. If they see a man prowling St. Helen's Island with a Guy Fawkes mask on, with a Kodak under his arm, with two pistols in each hand, and a dagger in the other, they must at once arrest him and take every precaution to prevent him telegraphing Mr. Dana for an alibi.

Strange that all these years our Yanks friends have been coming and going with the utmost freedom, and we never so much as suspected them of designs on our topography and geography. And to think that the U. S. War department could get more Canadian topography and geography in a twenty-five cent book than it will ever want.

The lay of the land is just the same as ever; just the same as when our friends came to Queenston Heights and found the topography inconvenient, just the same as when they paid that flying visit to Chateaugay, and found the geography unpropitious. Our fortifications are few and far between. But our orphan bachelor friends will find quite a lot in minding their own peaceful business, some of whom however, can shoot straight if necessary. These are the walls of Canada, and every man is a brick.—Montreal Star.

In Canada the ordinary newspaper reader displays a great interest in the results of the elections that are now taking place in England, but in the majority of cases his ideas as to the mode of procedure is somewhat hazy. In order that an erroneous impression may not prevail, the method may be outlined as follows:—On the day of the dissolution of Parliament, which in the present instance was the 8th inst., the writs are sent from what is called "the hampster"—that is the central authority, which is virtually the Speaker of the House—to the returning officers of the constituencies, these latter being municipal officials, not representing the Government in any sense whatever. Within not less than two days in towns and boroughs the returning officer must hold the nominations, and within six days in towns and boroughs and ten days in counties the polling must take place. Take for instance the city of Perth, which is reached by a fast express in eight hours from London. There the prearranged writs on Monday, the day of the dissolution, held the nominations on Wednesday, and the polling on Saturday, and the result was declared on Saturday night. In the Orkney and Shetland islands the polls are open for two days, and everywhere else for one. According to the terms of the Electoral Reform bill, which the Liberals introduced last session, but which has not yet been passed, the nominations and polling will take place, as in Canada, on certain fixed days, simultaneously in all the constituencies; the system of "one man one vote" will be adopted; and the election expenses, which at present amount to at least £250 for each candidate, will be defrayed wholly from the local and Government taxes.

Death of Hinkle Congdon. A familiar face to the teachers and people of Nova Scotia, and especially of Halifax county, will be seen no more. Hinkle Congdon died last evening at Sackville, N. S., in the 69th year of his age, after an illness of three months. For many years Mr Congdon has been inspector of schools for this county, and he was loved by all who knew him. He combined faithfulness with courtesy in the discharge of his duty, and the schools of this county are the better for his work. Mr Congdon was possessed of fine literary tastes. He leaves a widow and three children—Mrs S. G. Chambers of Truro, F. T. Congdon and Frank Congdon, barristers of this city. The funeral will take place from his late residence at Sackville on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the interment will be in the English burying ground.—Halifax Herald, 27th.

CORRESPONDENCE.

There are some who would have us believe that every person who has attained the years of understanding should be cognizant of, and respect for the dead is surely not the least of these. For the past few years the collecting of Acadian relics has, in Wolfville and vicinity, been quite an industry, but I hardly thought it would be carried to the extent of ransacking the graveyards of this unfortunate band of people whose expulsiion has been immortalized by Longfellow, and whose teeth are now offered for sale by a prominent merchant, and also by a hotel proprietor in this town. The hungry-eyed cent diggers of which Wolfville boasts? I think, Mr Editor and readers, you will agree with me that it is not. Thanking you for space, I remain, SHTYLOCK. Wolfville, July 30th, '95.

Mr. Enron.—As the Band may be considered for the limited amount of music furnished this season, I will venture to make an explanation. It is well known that the Band stand was destroyed last fall, and also that the Band cannot play without a stand. The Town Council agreed to move the stand and put it in repair ready for use as soon as the season opened. It is now the first of August and the stand is not ready yet, although the Council have promised each week to have it ready for the next. Of course some allowance must be made for the fact that a good deal of time has been expended in repairing, the stand in the most artistic manner, but the citizens of the town will bear in mind that the Band have been unable to play for want of light and a stand to play on.

A New Brunswick Merchant. One of her day wrote me that he had "purchased several boxes of MOTT'S PEPPER from a St. John wholesale house; and that it was the best he had ever sold. Where are you using it?"

WOLFVILLE, N. S., AUG. 2, 1895.

Local and Provincial.

Local and Provincial. Miss Lou Brown has our thanks for late Kansas City paper. Miss E. Pauline Johnson and Owen Smiley in College Hall to-morrow evening. A conference of Nova Scotia boards of trade is to be held in Halifax on August 14th. The regular monthly meeting of the Fire Company will be held this evening. All firemen are urgently requested to be present. Sovereign Spoons of the Devil's Hall, Cape Blomidon, Wolfville, Grand Pre, Canning, Berwick, Kentville, etc., sold only by James McLeod, Jeweller, Kentville. We are glad to note the improvement made in the appearance of our streets this week. The grass and weeds have been removed from the gutters on Main street and the street is now clean and tidy. Mr. W. W. Robson was in town this week and made some photographs of the old French coffin and the other relics of which Mr. L. E. Duncanson has probably one of the best collections in the Province. These photos should sell like hot cakes. Bananas 20c a Doz. at F. J. Porter's. The death occurred on Tuesday morning of Mr. Arthur E. Murphy, one of the most popular young men of Wolfville. The deceased was a son of Mr. Lewis A. Murphy. He was 29 years of age, and had been ill for about a year. He leaves a widow and two children. The funeral took place on Wednesday and was largely attended. The exercises were conducted by Rev. Dr. Higgins. The firm company of which the deceased was a faithful and highly respected member, attended, wearing the mourning badge. The Acadian joins the community at large in heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved family. If you do not care for "Soda" try a "shake". The proprietors of Evangeline Beach are doing all in their power to make it a pleasant resort for those who patronize it. The splendid beach, convenient bathing houses and restaurant, and the drive through beautiful and historic Grand Pre, make it a delightful means of enjoyment. Numbers of tourists and townpeople are every day conveyed to and fro, all of whom express themselves as delighted with the bathing facilities and excellent accommodation afforded by the genial and obliging manager, Messrs. Rockwell & Patriquin, to whom much credit is due for making this beautiful spot one of the finest watering places in the Province. London Shrub—the latest drink, 50c glass, at the Drugstore. On Friday afternoon last Mr. W. J. Balcom, the popular and up-to-date liveryman, called at the ACADIAN restaurant, and in his customary cordial manner, extended an invitation to the chief scribe and members of the staff to enjoy an outing at Evangeline Beach, transferring us thither in his comfortable car. A very pleasant afternoon was spent, and W. J., who does nothing by halves, very considerately arranged with the clerk of the weather for a shower bath on the way back, which added considerably to the hilarity of the occasion. Some other passengers who were present very kindly contributed the drip of their umbrellas, to help along the good work, and to those as well as Mr. Balcom, we wish to return our thanks for an exceedingly enjoyable trip.

Church, of Detroit, manager of sales for the Pogo Wire Fence Co., was in town recently. Mr. Church was delighted with our county. His late visit gave him the first sight of salt water. We are glad to learn that Mr. R. L. Fuller, who has been laid by at his home in Horton Landing for some weeks by his old trouble, rheumatism, is improving, and we hope soon to see him out again. Rev. Rev. Archibald Lough, of Berwick, who has been at "Bay View" for the past week, has had quite a serious attack of illness, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. Bowles he is improving, and will probably be out before long. Beach Echoes. The Beach has been visited by 2500 people already this season. It is not uncommon to see thirty or forty bathing at one time. The ladies so far have been the best patrons of the beach and look very pretty in their blue and red suits. The Blue Jackets of Windsor spent a day at the Beach on the 18th and enjoyed themselves very much. Balcom's beach team is more than full every day. We were saluted on Wednesday last by the Steamer Hibernia, owing to the presence of a private picnic of the families of Messrs. Churchill and Dr. Macgregor, of Hantsport. Lots of picnics and bathing next week; the tide serving for afternoon. Prof. Wortman and family, Misses Crandall, Caldwell, M. R. Sandford, and the Misses Esterbrooks of St. John, were camped at the Beach last week. Camp was struck at the Beach last week, after a very pleasant week of boating, bathing, etc. Practice up swimming for the Tournament to be held the first week of August. Ladies as well as gent. Mrs. Archibald and family, and Mrs. Cookman of Windsor, are camped at east end of Beach. They are expecting more friends this week.

World's Gayest City.

A Reporter's Interesting Interview With

General Valer.

From the Recorder, Brockville.

Mr G. T. Fulford, who is understood to have been doing big things in Paris

during the past winter and spring, in-roducing Dr Williams' Pink Pills, has reached home with his family, and on the evening of his arrival was interviewed by a Recorder reporter, and asked to give an account of himself.

"Well," he said, in reply to a question

on the status of the Pink Pill business in France, "I am sorry to say that it is not an easy matter to introduce a foreign article

into a strange market, but I don't think we can complain of the progress made,

and it is gratifying to report that some,

at least, of the Paris doctors are open to recognize a medicine of which the intrinsic merits can be demonstrated to them.

One of the best of them—at Versailles,

the Paris suburb where the Emperors used to keep their court—has given favorable testimony through the press of quite wonderful cures through the use of Pink Pills in his practice; and the Religious, an order of Nuns like the Sisters of Charity, have also made an extensive use of Pink Pills in their charitable work, and given strong testimonials

as to their good effects."

"How do you find business all round?"

"Pretty good. We have sold in the past twelve months a little over two million three hundred and sixty thousand boxes of Pink Pills."

"That is a pretty large order isn't it?"

"It is the best twelve months' business

yet. Look for a moment at what the figures mean. If all the pills were turned into a heap, and a person set to count them, working ten hours a day and six days a week, the job would take

—I have reckoned it—four years, 21 days,

6 hours and 40 minutes, counting at the rate of 100 a minute. Or, if you want further statistics, it is somewhere about two pills a head for the combined adult population of Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, and the United States. I don't give these figures to glorify the business,

you will understand, but to enable you to make the facts tangible to an ordinary reader."

"Does Great Britain do its share in the business?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I think we have had a record

year. The head of a leading advertising agency in London to whom I showed my figures, told me that no business of the kind had ever reached the same dimensions in England two years, there are but two medicines there that have as large a sale as Pink Pills, and one of these is over thirty years old, while the other has been at work at least half that time."

"How do you account for the way

Pink Pills have jumped the English market then?"

"I cannot attribute it in reasonable logic to anything but the merits of the pill."

"Was everything lovely, asked the reporter or were there any crumpled rose-

leaves in the couch?"

"Can't grumble, except in one way.
