ROYALTY AT WORK

London's Great National Bazaar for Benefit of War Sufferers.

NEELEY ROBBED CUBAN POSTAL FUNDS

And Will Be Taken Back to the Scene of His Crime.

MANY FISHERMEN DROWNED.

Captain McGowan Will Be Court-Martialed for Killing a Filipino - McClellan for Vice-President.

London, May 24.—The Princess of Wales, at Kensington this afternoon, opened the great national bazaar, in aid of the sufferers of the war. The magnitude of the present undertaking, which lasts three days, quite eclipses the similar affair held in June of last year in aid of the Charing Cross hospital. Although much space at the Palace hotel has been given up to the bazaar the enterprise has attained such huge proportions that vast stands have been erected in adjoining grounds.

The stalls are attended by titled personages and the elite of London's society.

The bazaar containing upward of 70 stalls, representing most of the regiments now in service in South Africa, is arranged in streets, and forms an immense emporium containing every conceivable article that can be offered for sale. It is hoped to realize £50,000 from the undertaking.

Extradition of Neeley.

New York, May 24.—The hearing before Gov. Roosevelt at Oyster bay of the application for the extradition of Neeley to Cuba was held in private.

After a short session, the governor made a brief statement to the newspaper men. He said that before he would take any final action in the matter he would confer with the state attorney general, possibly on Sunday, on the question of law raised by counsel as to his power to grant the requisition papers.

The examination in the case of Charles W. Neeley, charged with the misappropriation of $30,000 of Cuban postal funds which was to have come before Commissioner Shields today has been adjourned until Monday next pending action in the requisition proceedings before Gov. Roosevelt.

Eleven Men Are Missing.

Astoria, May 24.—It is impossible at this time to correctly estimate the loss of life due to yesterday's storm, though eleven men are missing, according to the rolls of the Seaman's Union, and of these three are known to have been drowned.

It is possible that the remaining eight men succeeded in reaching shore from their capsized boats at points where they have been unable to communicate with the city. The loss to fishermen has been very heavy in the way of nets and boats.

McGowan to Be Court-martialed.

Washington, May 24.—The report of the court of inquiry into the case of Capt. McGowan, U. S. N., who, it is alleged, shot a Filipino who was attempting to board the Monadnock in Manila bay, reached the navy department today. Later Secretary Long made the following announcement:

"The court finds that proper discretion was not exercised in the shooting and that Capt. McGowan was at fault in not reporting it to the commander-in-chief. They find that Capt. McGowan made provision for the support of the widow and children of the deceased Filipino. They recommended a court-martial which will probably be ordered."

McClellan's Candidacy.

Washington, May 24.—The candidacy of Representative George B. McClellan, of New York, for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination, was announced today by his friends in congress.

Among those who are urging Mr. McClellan's nomination are Representatives Maddox and Tate, of Georgia; Cowherd, of Missouri; Bellamy and Norton, of South Carolina; Ruppert, Chandler, Griggs and Fitzgerald, of New York, and Devries, of California.

Committee Meeting Tonight.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Fourth of July celebration will be held tonight in the rooms of the Board of Trade. Important business will be transacted and a full attendance is desired.

MINE WORKERS

Continue to Denounce the News' Special Mining Edition of May 24

AS A VERY RAW AND RANK FAKE

Which is a Great Injustice to the Mine Owner as Well as

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT

To the Government, Which Doubtless Ordered Its Royalty Sack Enlarged After Reading the Fake Issue.

Within 24 hours after the appearance of the "News' Special Mining Edition" on May 24th, contradictions as to its statements and kicks as to its inexcusable presumption began to be heard on every hand.

As the Nugget was not concerned in the matter further than that it believes in defending at any and all times the broad principles of truth, no contradiction of the statements as made by its contemporary appeared until it became apparent from the preponderance of evidence that the claims and the business of the district had been most grossly misrepresented, and that the statements of the News, sent broadcast over the land, were misleading untruths; then the Nugget, in behalf of truth and the claim owners and operators took upon itself the duty showing up the matter in its true light. A reliable and efficient member of the staff was sent out on a tour of Bonanza and Eldorado creeks; and when he returned he was armed not with "vaporings" and unreliable reports, but with plain, unvarnished statements taken directly from the mouths of the owners or operators themselves.

Three columns of those plain, cold statements were published, although but one-third of the data procured and now on hand was used; but enough was utilized to show the wholesale misrepresentation practiced on the district by the News. Since the "reputation" published in the Nugget, not a day has passed but that some interested party has not called with a story regarding the injustice done him and his interests by the News' fake issue.

Following are a sample of the conditions on Dominion as stated by the News and as they actually are:

Upper discovery on Dominion is owned by Debnay & Rapp who this season worked the lower half of the claim. The News gave the estimated cleanup of the dumps at $72,000. The actual cleanup of the dumps was less than 1-2 the figure stated and Mr. Debnay expressed himself to a Nugget representative as being very indignant at the misrepresentation of the News.

The Dominion claim owned by Messrs. Hall, Gates, Bliss and McGregor is listed by the News at $38,000, when in reality it only yielded enough to pay the labor and expenses and not a cent for dead work.

Messrs. Allison, McCormack and Nicholson, of 11 above upper discovery on Dominion, assert that they stated to the News representative that their dumps would only average three cents to the pan. Yet the "News' Special Mining Edition" quotes them as saying their claim goes "ten cents to the pan."

The above are but a few of scores of instances which can be cited in which the "News" is just as wild regarding its statements as in the above.

It is but justice to the claim owners and operators—aye, and justice to the government whose rapacious maw is yawning to engulf the 10 per cent royalty that this great wrong, so thoughtlessly, though possibly maliciously perpetrated, be righted as much as possible.

West Dawson Picnic.

A picnic party was given at West Dawson yesterday by Mesdames Calderhead & Lancaster and Miss Comer. A big tent had previously been erected in a commanding position overlooking the river and the town, and thither the party repaired, laden with lunch baskets and the various sundry things that go to make up a picnickers' joys. Aside from the fact that Dr. Barrett was nearly rendered hors de combat as a result of too long continued association with the aforesaid lunch baskets, no casualties occurred and the party reached the metropolis again in safety at about 10 p. m.

The day was voted by all to have been most successful and enjoyable. In the party were the following: Mesdames Calderhead and Lancaster, Miss Comer, the Misses Gandolfo, Messrs. Calderhead, Mead, Deverest, Vashon, Allen, Finney, Drs. Barrett and McFarlane.

The Water System.

Manager Mathieson of the Water Works Co. is confident that he will be able to give Dawson a system which will work through the entire winter and furnish a continuous supply for all purposes including fire protection. The present four inch mains will be replaced with nine inch pipe which will be encased in boxes leaving a two-inch air space around the entire pipe. The water will be kept under high pressure and an overflow maintained which, with the addition of an electric current conducted through the pipes will, Mr. Mathieson is positive, suffice to keep the water running in the coldest weather.

The company has two 50-horse power boilers en route which will furnish all the force required to carry the water in any quantities wherever it is required.

Exchange Sold.

Louis Golden has sold his interest in the building and business of the Exchange and will leave for Nome very shortly. The Exchange will open tomorrow under a new management.

Final Reports.

A final meeting of the sports committee of the Queen's birthday is called for tomorrow night. The meeting will be held at 9 o'clock at the Yukon Club rooms.

Congregational Meeting Tonight.

The Church of England congregation will hold a meeting tonight to discuss the proposition of moving the church building from its present site on Mission alley to a more spacious location on the street near the Salvation Army barracks.

In Honor of Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Percy Stevenson, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, tendered a lunch to Attorney Herbert Wilson on Saturday at the Northern Cafe. Mr. Wilson leaves in a few days for Ottawa on important legal business and the spread was given in honor of his approaching departure. The following were guests: T. McMullen, O. H. Clark, Chief Wills, Dr. Wills, P. Stevenson, D. Cowan, H. Wilson, C. Nourse, J. Bust, J. Travis.

A Short Run.

The steamer Hannah of the A-C. Co., went down the Yukon about 12 miles yesterday after a wood scow. It was discovered after the scow was reached that the water was not sufficiently high to float it and the scow was still stuck fast on the bottom. The Hannah returned to town about 5 p. m.

LONDON ANXIOUS

For War News Which is Not Made Public by Department.

PRETORIA IS NOT YET OCCUPIED.

Roberts Had Hot Fighting Before Entering Johannesburg.

ST. LOUIS STRIKE STILL ON.

An Average of Two Men Killed Each Day—Mrs. Calder En Route for Her Husband's Remains.

London, June 5 via Skagway, June 11.—No reliable war news has been received here since the 4th and now that is looked upon as having been ventures and guesses. Evidently Pretoria has not yet been occupied for if such was the case the war department would be only too glad to publish such news. Silence in that direction warrants the statement that Pretoria is not occupied.

However there seems to be no doubt but that Roberts occupies Johannesburg; but it has transpired that he had a great deal of hot fighting before he got there. Nothing can be learned of Kruger's whereabouts, and where the Boers will make their next stand or their last stand is all a matter of the wildest conjecture.

This is the view taken of the present situation by the London papers which assert that there is absolutely nothing to substantiate any of the rumors current since the 4th.

Strike Still On.

St. Louis, June 6 via Skagway, June 11.—The street car strike is still on and the outlook for a cessation of the trouble is no brighter than when the trouble began over three weeks ago. The loss of life since the strike began has averaged two men each day. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly 3000 special police have been sworn in armed and ordered to kill if necessary, the rioting continues with no indication of weakening on the part of the union men. It is possible that the state militia may be called out before order is restored. The street car companies absolutely refuse to accede to the requests of the strikers.

Alex. Calder's Remains.

Skagway, June 11.—Mrs. Alexander Calder arrived in Skagway today and will proceed immediately to Selkirk to have the body of her husband disinterred. The remains will be shipped to Cape Breton, his birth place, an island off the coast of Nova Scotia. Mrs. Calder has disposed of a number of claims owned by her husband prior to

THE PERMANENT ERA.

The work of the pioneer in developing the Alaskan peninsula will be given an impetus this summer which will have a marvelous effect ultimately in determining the extent of the resources the big territory possesses. Thousands upon thousands of men will be landed on the beach at Nome, and from there many of those who fail to realize their expectations will scatter up the various tributaries of the Yukon in an endeavor to make up for the ill luck which meets them at Nome.

Already, to a greater or less extent, many of these side streams are known to be gold bearing, and enough of a population will come in this summer to fairly prospect a large portion of them. It appears, therefore, that the era of permanent things has begun for Alaska. From this time on indefinitely there will be a steady growth in population and a constant increase in consumption of all classes of commodities, which must necessarily be brought in from outside points. Alaska will afford a market for the surplus products of the Pacific coast, which means to the coast cities a degree of commercial activity which will increase with each succeeding year.

The future never looked so bright for Seattle and the other cities of Puget Sound as it does today. They are all enjoying a large measure of business prosperity, due to a very great extent to the immense trade which the northern gold discoveries have already created. That trade may now be regarded as established and permanent. Alaska will never consume a less amount of goods than she did last year. In that fact lies the key to the entire solution. The prosperity which the sudden springing up of the Alaskan trade has brought to the cities of the Pacific coast is not for a day, but must be for an indefinite length of time.

LEGISLATION REQUIRED.

The labor contract which was published in Saturday's issue of the Nugget is a fair sample of the agreements under which many claims were worked during the past season. It hardly seems credible that men would voluntarily sign such one-sided contracts, and yet numerous instances can be pointed out where just such agreements were in force between claim owner and laborer. The results of such contracts are almost invariably disastrous both to employer and employee.

No man who undertakes to work for another can knowingly enter into such an agreement and give his employer satisfactory services. He realizes the fact that he is working under a one-sided arrangement; that the disadvantages are all his way, and that there is a strong possibility that when clean-up time arrives he will find that he has worked all winter long for practically nothing.

Naturally, therefore, he works in a perfunctory manner and accomplishes just as little as possible.

The provision allowing the employer to summarily discharge the laborer and withhold payment of accrued wages until clean up is essentially wrong, as it places the wage earner practically at the mercy of his employer.

Such contracts are contrary to public policy.

They invite resort to all sorts of subterfuges on the part of the employer to escape payment of his labor altogether, and indications are that the opportunities thus presented have not been entirely overlooked.

If there is no law at hand which can be made applicable to the situation, some legislation should be brought forward by the Yukon Council whereby men who are incapable of looking after their own rights may be given some measure of legal protection.

SENATORIAL JOBBERY.

The highest position in Alaska, in some respects, is that of the collector of customs. It was what the "boys" called a copper-bottom cinch until the license law came into effect last July. Before that date we had as many, if not more, saloons than we have now. And all these saloons were plentifully supplied with liquor, although there was a stringent law that no liquor should be landed or sold in Alaska.

None would have been had Collector Ivey done his duty. That is easy to be seen. But Collector Ivey was made collector by a gang of Oregonians who believed they owned Alaska, and could therefore control its profitable liquor traffic. The new licensing law came in and cut out all the schemes of these political schemers.

For instance, Ivey held on until the licensing law; then he resigned. There was nothing in it except the salary. What a commentary this is on American officialdom. Mr. Ivey does not want the office, the senators of Oregon cannot find a man who does, because "there is now no rake off."—Alaskan.

On top of the details of the occupation of Pretoria by General Roberts, which came in four or five days ago, the dispatches today state that nothing definite about the matter is known, and so far as the war department is informed Pretoria is still in the hands of the Boers. In view of the fact that all the newspapers in the country have published leaders on "The End of the War," we refuse to believe that the war is not completed. Anything that all the newspapers agree on ought to be true, whether it is or not.

As will be noted in our letter from Grand Forks, the committee which is soliciting subscriptions on the creeks for the 4th of July celebration is meeting with marked success. It is to be hoped that the town will not be behind the creeks in this respect and that Dawson's business men will come forward with generous responses to the call of the subscription committee.

Reports from White Horse state that quite a heavy fall of snow occurred there last week. Apparently there is going to be no warm weather on the Yukon this year.

Society of Boxers, or, as the same organized band of ruffians was once known, the "Society of the Great Sword."

For the last quarter of a century this society has terrorized the great central provinces of the flowery kingdom, and wrought death and destruction in the homes of the Christian missionaries. It was their latest atrocity, the murder of a young Church of England missionary, named Brooks, that called for the collective note of the ambassadors and ministers to the powers. In response to that note the Chinese government has sent an armed force against the Boxers, but it is said of this force of soldiers that more than one-half belong to the society, and consequently but little good is expected from it.

Of all the atrocities of which this society of ruffians has been accused none are more terrible than the torture and death of this young Church of England missionary. At the time of his death he was on his way to join a brother missionary at Shan-Tung. On this journey he passed through a village where a number of the members of this society were attending a native feast, and the cry of "foreign devil," started by a little Chinese girl, announced his presence to the blood-thirsty villains.

Almost before he had time to realize what was happening they had surrounded him and began the torture which ended his life.

Another attack on Christian missionaries which called forth a protest from Germany, and which lost to China the valuable port of Tsin-Tua, which was seized by that government in default of the prompt payment of an indemnity, was that which resulted in the murder of some German priests and the looting of a German mission at Shan-Tung.

The trouble which led up to this murder started in May, 1891, when two nuns who belonged to this mission were maltreated by a mob of Boxers, who charged them with bewitching children. The nuns escaped with slight injuries, but the depredations were continued, and the mission stations throughout the province were plundered, and then came the murder of the priests.

As the Chinese government took no steps toward punishing the leaders they became bolder than ever, and many native Christians were put to death by terrible means.—Ex.

MUCH MONEY BEING SPENT

By the U. S. Government in Exploring Districts of Alaska.

Many Scientific Men Engaged in Research - Koyukuk Country Will Not Be Visited Until Next Year.

The work of the department of the interior in Alaska this year will be on a much larger scale than heretofore. At the end of the season it is expected that many reports bearing on the varied resources will be added to the information now in possession of the government on these subjects. Of all, probably the most important work is that assigned the various exploration parties. Not all of this work, it is said, will be done this year. In fact, it is expected there will be labor for the geological survey branch of the department for many years to come.

The various parties to be engaged in the geological survey work this season are now gathering in Seattle. For a greater number of them this year's supplies are being put up by local merchants. The supplies for those parties that next year will be remote from civilization will be sent up later and cached in some place along the coast to be called for before the winter season sets in.

In speaking of the work in general to be done in the north by the various parties F. S. Schrader, who will take a party to the Copper river country, said: "Our party expects to get away on the Excelsior. That vessel has arrived here, but has had to go to the drydock to make repairs of damage done in the ice. We will take with us ten men and twenty horses.

"The United States geological survey is preparing to continue during the coming summer, the work of topographical and geological mapping, which has been in progress in Alaska for several years. The several parties which are now outfitting in Seattle will devote their energies to the Seward peninsula and to the Copper river and Prince William sound region.

"In the Cape Nome region the topographic work will be carried on in charge of E. C. Barnard, who expects to cover the region lying between the coast and the Sawtooth range of mountains. The northern limit of the work will be in the vicinity of Port Clarence and to the southeast it will take in the country west of Fish river and Golovin bay. It is the plan to extend an instrumental triangulation over the whole of this region and to connect it with the work of the coast and geodetic survey in Golovin bay and with the surveys which will be made by that organization in the vicinity of Port Clarence during the present season.

"Together with this triangulation it is proposed to complete a topographic map of the entire region upon a scale of four miles to an inch with contours representing differences of elevation of 200 feet. Besides this a reconnaissance survey will be made up the Fish river to determine the position of the Omalik silver district. The geological work in this region will be carried on under the direction of Alfred H. Brooks. He will be assisted by G. B. Richardson and Arthur J. Collier.

"A party in charge of Topographer W. J. Peters will make a similar map of the region across the Seward peninsula from Norton bay to Kotzebue sound. The geology will be done by W. C. Mendenhall. The actual limits of the map will be contingent upon the geology and economic development of the region.

"The Copper river party will be headed by myself. Its primary object will be the construction of a topographic map in the basin of the Chitena river and the detailed study of the geology and copper deposits of the region. The topography will be done by T. G. Gerding with the assistance of D. C. Witherspoon. The geology will be done by F. C. Schrader and Arthur C. Spencer.

"In addition to the detailed work, a geological reconnaissance is planned to Mount Wrangell, and in returning to the coast an attempt will be made to cross the St. Elias range. Also the topography will be connected with the coast by means of a line down the Copper river to its mouth. During the month of October surveys will be made in Prince William sound especially in regard to the occurrence of copper deposits.

"For the season of 1907 it is planned to explore the region which lies north of the Koyukuk river. To this end provisions and complete outfits for two parties are being shipped this summer from San Francisco to Bergeman at the head of steamboat navigation on the Koyukuk river where they will be stored until called for by the explorers. The geologists and topographers, who will make up these two parties will proceed to Bergeman by way of Skagway and the Yukon in the spring of 1907. One party will strike northward, aiming to traverse the Colville river; the other will work toward the west coast, either along the Noatak or Koo-Wak rivers. The direction of this exploration has not been determined." - P. I.

Royal Mechanics.

The value of the study of mechanics in the educational equipment of youths is a deep-rooted theory of the imperial family of Germany. In fact, next to war, poetry and painting, mechanics form one of the present emperor's pet hobbies.

In accordance with modern ideas Kaiser Wilhelm thinks the age of the chivalrous knight is gone forever, and that the present day aspirants for military honors must know all about the practical running of an armored train, and the numerous other mechanical problems that warriors have nowadays to meet and overcome.

The kaiser has therefore ordained that each and everyone of the youthful princes, as well as the crown prince, shall make a study of hand labor. It is interesting to note the variance of their different tastes. The crown prince, for example, has developed considerable ability as a carpenter; the second son, Eitel Fritz, has become so proficient in electrical matters that he would make a first-rate engineer; while one of the younger boys has aspirations to become a blacksmith, and spends much of his time with a courtier watching the court smithy shoe his father's horses.

Eitel Fritz has, however, shown such an exceptional fondness for electricity that the emperor has caused a short narrow-gauge electric railway about half a mile long to be built in the celebrated forest of Sansouci, near Potsdam, the castle and park of which were founded by Frederick the Great.

The railway is a miniature affair, the rolling stock consisting of a trolley locomotive and two small cars, just large enough to accommodate eight or ten persons.

Here the young prince spends one hour every day accompanied by an attendant who is skilled in electric traction. It is his greatest joy to have his emperor-father as a passenger in one of the unique little coaches, while he drives the engine as seriously as though engineering were the most natural occupation in the world for him. - Ex.

GRAND FORKS ITEMS.

The Forks has experienced a decided change and is as quiet now as the grave. Since the washup many have departed either for the outside or down river, and business will be light in all avenues of trade until winter comes again.

The Rev. Mr. Cox, of the Presbyterian church, is something of a landscape gardener. He has cleared away all debris and leveled up the church yard which gives the premises a very attractive appearance.

The fourth of July committee are reaching out over the creeks soliciting finances for the celebration and are meeting with hearty co-operation. There are many who think it a mistake should the committee decide to have no oration.

Fred Bruseth, Thomas Blake and John Condon, owners of No. 11, Eldorado, after a very successful winter's work, will leave for the outside in a few days to spend the summer. Mr. Bruseth will visit the old folk in Norway before his return.

The boys on Chechako Hill had a little surprise, but of a pleasant nature, when the news came that one of their number was no longer a bachelor. On Monday, June 4th, Peter M. Hartle and Mrs. Harriett A. Remillette were quietly married by the Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Presbyterian church at the parsonage in Dawson. Mr. and Mrs. William Sawyer being the attending witnesses. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, of Chechako Hill and is a very bright, vivacious and charming little woman, who by her kind attentions and gentle ministrations to the sick, in the absence of sister, mother, sweetheart or wife, has endeared herself to all who know her, and ingratiated her in the heart of every miner on the hill. The groom is a native of New York, but the past 15 years has been spent in the principal mining camps of the Northwest. He has valuable mining interests on Gold Run and Chechako Hill, and the happy couple will take up their residence for the summer at the latter place, deferring a tour of the states until later in the season.

MANY LAYMEN ARE LEAVING.

The System in Operation Here is Not to Their Liking.

Mine Owners Must Be More Liberal or Operate Their Own Claims - Very Few Laymen Played Even.

A gentleman who is in position to be well-informed as to the situation in this mining district is authority for the statement that under the lay system in vogue here during the season just closing, there will not be one claim in every forty worked next year. He says that to work a claim on a 50 per cent lay and make it pay is entirely out of the question, as when one man has made anything during the past season on the lay system, a dozen have gone behind and are irredeemably in the hole. About all the majority of the laymen have been able to hold out is sufficient money to take themselves out of the country. These are not cheerful statements, but they are nevertheless true. Of the hundreds of men who operated lays during the past season, it is doubtful if one in every forty would renew the lay on the same terms, the iniquitous royalty law being still in force, and other conditions remaining as they are and have been.

The situation is a grave one, but it is now narrowed down to this: Conditions and systems in the Klondike must undergo a material change before the opening of the next general working season, else all claim owners will either work their own claims or they will not be worked. The 50 per cent lay system is done for forever here and henceforth laymen will demand a living share and share or they will leave claims severely alone. Nearly all the old laymen, or as many of them as have the price of a ticket, are leaving the country for new fields, and the claim operators next working season will be practically a new set.

Rhodes and Matrimony.

Cecil Rhodes at one time had a private secretary of whom he entertained a high opinion and whose services he greatly valued. One fine morning this favorite abruptly announced that he was going to be married. The colossus was speechless with indignation for a moment, and then, glaring at the culprit, he growled out, "What on earth am I going to do for another secretary?"

Without waiting for a reply he strode from the room, slamming the door behind him with great violence. His good nature, however, prompted him to extend the forgiving hand later on, and gave to the bride some fine diamonds. In addition, he lent them his own carriage and horses for use to and from the church.

It never entered his head to give his erstwhile favorite secretary any more employment. Such a crime as matrimony, though forgiven, could not be condoned.

Turner Makes a Sensation.

Victoria, May 24. - At a recent political meeting, ex-Premier Turner sprang a sensation on his audience, by stating practically that the dismissal of his government by Lieutenant Governor McInnes was the direct result of his refusal to take into his cabinet W. W. B. McInnes, one of the sons of the governor. Hitherto, although hints have been heard to the same effect, and although Thomas McInnes, another son of the governor and his private secretary, admitted in the official correspondence, which was published after the dismissal of the government, that negotiations had been entered into regarding the entry of his brother William to the ministry the matter never got beyond the rumor stages. The ex-premier has been taunted within the last few days by W. W. B. McInnes, who is now a candidate for the legislature, with having persistently solicited him to join his cabinet. It was in reply to this that Turner made his explanation last night.

He prefaced his remarks by saying that he was astonished at the nerve of the younger McInnes, adding that he (Turner) had witnesses to prove that McInnes had come to his office to make arrangements to enter his government. The preliminaries were arranged by the private secretary who visited him at the treasury one day and asked him if he had received a letter from the governor. "Yes, I am reading it again to get to the bottom of it," replied the then premier.

"I wrote it," was the reply of Tom McInnes. "I am the governor's adviser in such matters and there is a way out of the difficulty." Young McInnes then went on to make the offer of his brother's support and added: "My brother would like to see you about it and arrange it. I would like you to have a meeting and discuss the situation." Turner, in order to have witnesses present suggested a meeting at his business office and made arrangements to have his bookkeeper present. At the conference which followed W. W. B. McInnes said that he would run for Coxichan and the ex-premier replied: "We have a certain line of policy; will you accept it?" and also asked for the names of those whom he would bring over to the government. This McInnes declined to do and Turner said they should at least write him. McInnes said he would do what he could to effect this. More parleying followed and no headway being made the governor sent a note dismissing his government.

ENGLAND'S YANKEE SCOUT

Fred R. Burnham, Formerly of Skagway,

Is Adding to His Laurels by Valuable Aid Rendered to Lord Roberts in the Boer War.

The exploits of Fred R. Burnham, the intrepid American scout from Skagway in the Boer war, have brought to him new laurels. In the early part of the year Mr. Burnham was summoned from Skagway to become a member of the staff of Lord Roberts as scout. He is a native of Minnesota and has fought Indians in Arizona and distinguished himself in the Matabele war in South Africa years ago. In regard to his work in the Boer war the Vancouver Province of May 19 says:

"On the outbreak of the present war in South Africa Burnham lost no time in offering his services, and one or two whispers by wire have indicated that since landing at Cape Town he has been anything but idle. But for Burnham for instance, it would have been concluded that some thousands of the men under Cronje's command succeeded in escaping from the beleaguered camp at Paardeberg during the pounding by the British artillery. Throughout the whole of the time, however, Burnham was lying out on the hills at a point whence he had the doomed laager in full view, and he subsequently informed Lord Roberts that from the moment the victors cast their coils around their victims until the surrender not more than twenty of the Boers succeeded in breaking through.

"The confidence reposed in the cute American by the commander-in-chief is strikingly illustrated in one of his most recent exploits. Desiring to obtain a map of the "terra incognita" to the east of Bloemfontein, Lord Roberts, instead of dispatching the usual party of mounted scouts, entrusted the task to Burnham, who, without a single comrade, plunged into the country known to be infested by the enemy. Having executed his commission, he was cautiously feeling his way back to Bloemfontein, when he fell in with Broadwood's ill-fated column.

"Riding some distance ahead, Burnham observed the Boers busily burrowing into the spruit, and their design in all its nicety was revealed to him. To warn his comrades in the rear was his first impulse, and in a trice he was vigorously waving a small signal flag. Too late, however. His action was detected by the enemy, who tumbled him over and made him prisoner.

"Later, when the capture of the convoy had been effected, Burnham, feigning injuries he had happily not sustained, was placed on a wagon reserved for the wounded and driven off towards the Boer camp. Spying his opportunity, he succeeded in tumbling over the front of the wagon, and lay like a log on the ground whilst the lumbering vehicles passed over him. Then, not daring to stand erect, he rolled into a ditch, and lay there for 12 long hours, the African sun beating down upon him most of the time.

"At nightfall he ventured from his hiding place, and after a three days' perilous journey, with but one biscuit and a single head of Indian corn to sustain him, landed safely at Blgemfontein, his happy escape robbing the Boers of a most desirable prize and restoring to our army one of their truest and most valuable allies."

Young Man Runs Amuck.

Yesterday evening about 6 o'clock considerable excitement was created on the lower end of First avenue by Leo Gold McCallum, a young man of about 24 years of age, who was wildly crazy. The young man had a small book, presumably a bible, in his hand and as he would rush frantically along the street lustily calling: "Come unto me, boys!" he would strike or touch people whom he could reach with the book and with a demoniacal laugh exclaim: "Now you are mine."

As he was frothing at the mouth like a mad dog, the general inclination of those who saw him appeared to be to get away from him rather than to take him in charge. Still working his arms like a windmill, he went up the hill and entered the Catholic church where a member of the police force found him. He had gone forward to the altar and was kneeling in the attitude of prayer when the officer reached him. The fellow offered no resistance, but still inviting people to come to him and with much laughter on his part, he was taken up to the guard house where for several hours he continued in his dementia. Nothing could be learned of the unfortunate young man or whether or not he has any friends here. An inquest of lunacy will probably be held on his case this evening or as soon as he becomes sufficiently quiet to sit for a hearing.

BRIEF MENTION.

The fact that the Barr and New York had left for Nome was apparent on the streets of the city Saturday night.

Partly on horseback and partly on foot Sergeant J. J. Wilson made a round trip to and from Gold Bottom yesterday, covering 40 miles during the day.

Sam Bonfield's resort, the Juneau, is a favorite place with the boys from the creeks. The latest news of the mines is discussed there by recent arrivals in town and big strikes or hard luck stories are spun between drinks.

Mr. E. B. Harrison, who came here in the fall of 1897 and who has since chased the goddess of fortune up and down the various creeks of the district with varied success, contemplates leaving for Nome on one of the early steamers.

Someone started a report Saturday that a telegram had been received in Dawson that day to the effect that there are now 10,000 people in Bennett awaiting the rise of the waters of the lakes to come to Dawson. The telegram doubtless was a myth, as 10,000 people constitute much more of a crowd than Bennett has ever yet contained at one time.

This was motion-day in Justice Dugas' court, no cases being tried. The jury will be called tomorrow morning, from which time, until the 25th instant, when the summer vacation begins, the court will be busy in its effort of striving to clear as much of the docket as possible. Mr. Chas. McDonald, the new clerk, occupied a seat with Acting Clerk Snell today, by whom he was being instructed in the duties of the position.

Marine News.

The C. D. Co.'s boat Canadian left Whitehorse on her down trip yesterday at 5 p. m. She is not carrying any freight, but has a very large passenger list. The Victorian follows tomorrow. It is not expected that she will carry freight to any considerable amount, as the water is still very low on the upper river.

At all points between Bennett and Selkirk the weather is reported quite cool and cloudy, the average temperature being about 45 degrees. From Selkirk down this morning clear weather prevailed, with the thermometer registering 52 degrees.

The river is gradually rising, an increase of three inches being noted in the past 24 hours.

Seattle No. 3, with barge 4, leaves tonight for St. Michael. All her first-class tickets have been sold, there being but a small number of staterooms available on the boat for the purpose. She will carry something like 200 second-class passengers. Capt. J. T. Gray is in command of the boat.

Did Not Ascend.

Prof. Leonard did not soar aloft Saturday evening in his new balloon, for the reason that the fibre from which the thing is made is not sufficiently intact to hold sufficient smoke to hoist it. He hopes, by a sort of glazing process, to have his ship ready for air navigation in a few days when he will again give one of his daring exhibitions.

Since the above was written Prof. Leonard has announced his intention of making an ascension this evening. He had a large furnace dug on First avenue this morning and is confident that his new balloon will hold the gas on this occasion all right. If the wind is not too strong, an ascension will certainly be made this evening shortly after the dinner hour.

his death and those remaining she will have worked next winter.

The principle mining properties are 27 Eldorado and claims on Hunker and Bonanza creeks. Alex Calder died of pneumonia last March while on his way in over the ice to Dawson, being accompanied by the trail boys Duncan McDonald, Rory McDonald and Frank Becher. He was ill but three days.

Coming Cuban Elections.

Havana, May 24.—Except among Cuban politicians there is comparatively little interest in the approaching elections. This is shown by the very light registration. One of the worst features of the situation is the fact that as soon as a party sees it is not likely to win in a particular quarter it withdraws its candidate and declares that everything has been arranged unfairly, with a view of defeating him. The Democratic Union and the Republican parties have both withdrawn their candidates in Havana, leaving the election a practical walkover for the National party. On the other hand, at Matanzas and Santa Clara the Republicans are likely to have easy victories, the Nationalists there objecting to the election laws. Santiago will be controlled by the Conservative party, of whom Demitrius Castillo is the leader. Pinar del Rio has only a National ticket, and this only applies to the mayoralty.

Gen. Wood has issued a modification of the electoral law for the city of Havana, so that among the councilmen the minority will be represented. The city will be divided into six districts, each having four councilors. No one will be allowed to vote for more than three candidates, thus assuring to the minority at least six representatives. In view of this arrangement another week will be allowed for nominations.

Mr. Donato Sbarretti, bishop of Havana, accompanied by a number of priests, representing the clergy, and by a lay commission representing the lay Catholics of the diocese, have presented to Gen. Wood petitions signed by 31,000 people requesting that the decree issued by Gen. Brooks, while military governor of Cuba, ordering that all civil marriages should be considered lawful, may be so altered as to allow marriages celebrated according to the rites of any religion to be considered lawful, provided a record of the ceremony is duly handed in by the church or religious body for civil registration within 30 days.

Senor Checa, one of the Spaniards, who inscribed, has been appointed an inspector of customs and special agent. La Lucha, commenting upon the appointment favorably, says:

"Senor Checa is an old and well tried servant, without blemish on his reputation."

La Discussion says: "The Spanish papers are naturally jubilant over the appointment. Cubans, however, view the matter with deep disappointment and chagrin, not because Senor Checa was born in Spain, but because the appointment of a foreigner is an indignity to the Cubans. 'Cuba for the Cubans' and the public positions in Cuba belong to them. They should protest until notice is taken of it by Washington. Senor Checa was fifth on the list of inscribed Spaniards, clearly showing that he did not want to be a Cuban."

Collector Bliss says: "Senor Checa was extremely well recommended to me by both Cuban and Spanish merchants, as just the man for the position. If I am to be responsible for the good administration of the customs service, it is indispensable that I should have the right to control its employees."

What Will Be Done?

The insane man added to the list in the jail yesterday runs the number now confined there up to ten patients for whom there are no accommodations better nor different from that accorded common prisoners. It is very probable that, as was done last year, a shipment of all the insane patients will be made to the outside, but such shipment will only serve to empty the cells for a very short time. The mode of living adopted by thousands of men in this country is bound to be productive of insanity and there should by all means be local provision for the care of such persons side from the common jail.

In all countries where men live in isolation and alone as so many do here, insanity stalks rampant and should be provided for.

It has been suggested that when the soldiers leave there will be a large number of empty buildings around the barracks, and that one of them will be fitted up as a suitable receptacle for the many poor victims who, through disappointment, vice or from any other cause may become demented and require care at the hands of the government.

Police Court.

Only one case was on for hearing before Magistrate Starnes this morning, that being the wage case of Neal Larson vs. Jack Olds for $286 alleged to be due for labor performed on claims 11 and 42, Eldorado. Both men gave their respective sides of the case, but as other witnesses for the defence were not present, but are on the claims, the case was continued until Wednesday morning at which time it will be taken up at the Forks for which place Magistrate Starnes expects to leave this morning.
