SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

An entertainment was given in the town ball on Monday evening by the pupils of the public and model school. Rev. S. J. Hughes ably presided and introduced the following programme:-Chorus—"The land of the Maple."

Speech— "The British Empire," Mabel Jacob. Doll Song--"Baby's Lullaby."
Address-"Truth," Miss Scott. Solo_"Won't you Come to my Tea Party," Winona Massey. ch-"Our Immigration Probm," Dona Thompson.

Motion Song—"The Lost Doll,"

Address—" The Quality of Man,"

Mr. Gilbert. Cornet Solo-"The Red, White and Blue," Birdie and Gladys Gainford. Speech-"Canada in the 20th Cenury," Nellie Earl.

Patriotic Drill-Address—"Success," Miss Wiltse. Cornet Solo— "Auld Lang Syne," Birdie and Gladys Gainford. Speech- "Church Union," Master

Kenneth Rappell. Recitation- "Sewing for Dolly," Elsie Thompson. Speech—"Our Imperial and National Heritage," Master Rae Kincaid.

Chorus-"Where the sugar Maple Miss Lulu McLean, one of Athens' opular young vocalists, was down for a song, but a throat affection prevented her taking part. The pupils had been carefully trained for the event, and no lapse of memory marred the effect of the various recitations, addresses and speeches. The entrance class was ably resented on the programme, and The the four modelites also did well. choruses were well rendered. The juniors were very popular in their drill and motion songs. Following their individual numbers, Winona Massey, Elsie Thompson, and Birdie and Gladys Gainford were favored with encores. As usual, Master Rae Kincaid scored a success in his speech, and fully deserved the great applause he received.

The accompanists of the evening were Miss M. Morris, Miss Vera Gainford and Miss Lulu McLean. The night was warm and the attendance was not large, but no doubt as a result of this and the many other amusement enterprises that have been held for the benefit of the school the A.M.S. executive will be able to transfer a snug sum to the treasury of the public school board.

HALLIDAY-LEECH

In the Methodist Church at West. marriage was solomnized, the contract marriage was solomnized, the contracting parties being Mr. Clarence Halliday, of Westport, son of Mr. E. V. Rev. Geo. S. Stafford performed the ceremony and the couple were un-attended, but the church was well filled with friends of the contracting couple notwithstanding the early hour. The wedding march was played by Mr. W.

Myers, organist of the church.

Breakfast were served and Mr. and Mrs. Halliday was escorted to the B. W. & N. station en route for a trip to western points, and upon returning will take up their residence at Picton, where the groom has decided to enter the real estate business. Mrs. Halli-day received innumerable presents and among them was an address and purse of gold from members of the church with whom she was a general favorite.

Presbyterian S. S. was held on Saturday last at Charleston Lake, and, as usual, it was a most successful and thoroughly enjoyable event. Dinner was served in the beautiful little grove connected with the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, and the bountiful repast received a glad welcome from both adults and children. The day was spent very pleasantly in the customary lake postimes, and through the ary lake pastimes, and through the courtesy of Mr. Judson and Dr. Lillie, many enjoyed the pleasure of a ride in their gasoline launches. The whole day was one of pleasure without alloy.

The financial report showed a ball ance on hand of $19.20.

It was decided to hold regular meet ings at Caintown and Addison. Supplementary meetings will be held at day was one of pleasure without alloy.

Young Benson quickly aroused himself and departed on his errand.

Day was dawning as he left the house. Poor Ruth, forgetting that she was a prisoner, got up to open the windows and kindle the kitchen fire to prepare the breakfast, but the policeman stopped her at the door. And when she explained the nature of her errand, the chemist told her that he would send his ahop boy to the next pastry cook's and have breakfast brought for the watehers.

And Ruth returned to her seat at the right of the bed, where she quietly remained for perhaps an hour, at the and of which time the whole party were disturbed by a loud knocking at the street

Mr. Jones answered the knock, admitted a magistrate, who said that he has come in answer to a message left

Mr. Jones conducted Mr. Humphreys, the magistrate, into the parlor, and having seen him seated, related the facts of this poisoning as far as they had come to his knowledge.

"The suffering man is now reposing and I think he had better not be disturbed just now. The suspected woman also in his room, but in charge of a man, setting down the tray and leaving the room.

And Ruth was abandoned to solitude and intolerable suspense. Troubles seemled gathering thicker and thicker over her head. Her sorrows seemed more than any human creature could bear. She fully understood now how it was that her husband had taken the poison, which he must have prepared for herself; and awful gratitude to God for her almost miraculous deliverance from the snare struggling in her heart, with grief for the man that she still loved, despite his crimes and cold-blooded villainy, and fear for the consequence to herself and children should Thugsen die, persisting in his charge against her. And these sorrows and anxieties for herself and her in his charge against her. And these sorrows and anxieties for herself and her sorrows and anxieties for herself and her loved ones were mingled with others, no less acute, for Ferdinand Cassinove and his unhappy wife. The hours that were to lead them to the scaffold were swiftly to lead them to the scaffold were swiftly passing away; and she, who, possessing a guilty secret, might save him, must not breathe it, because it would send her dying husband from his death-bed to a jail, and indeed, could not divulge it because she was confined under lock and key, and prevented from holding conversation with any one.

"Surely no sorrows were ever equal to my sorrows," cried Ruth, dropping upon her knees beside the bed, burying her face in the coverlet, and praying and sobbing by turns.

sobbing by turns.

Meanwhile. as the day waned, the shadows of death gathered quickly around the wretched Thugsen. Medical aid had been unavailing except to amelaid had been unavailing except successions. iorate his acute suffering. Every succeeding fit of convulsion had been more violent, and followed by deeper prostration. The powerful organization that had held out so long against the action of the poison was beginning to show signs of speedy dissolution. The gray hue of death overspread his countenar the damps of death condensed thickly upon his icy brow; yet his brain, like that of one dying under the effects of strychnine, was singularly clear.

From time to time he spoke as fol-

"Where is my guilty wife? Keep her closely confined. Let her talk with none."

He was always reassured and soothed.
At sunset all hope of his life was abandoned even by the physician, who had 'hoped against hope." He could no longer, in conscience, withhold from the wretched patient the knowledge of his true condition. He bent over him and whispered gently:

"Captain Thugsen."

"Captain Thugsen." The sufferer flared open his eyes, and Ine sufferer flared open his eyes, and glared wildly at the speaker.

"Try to compose yourself and if you have any worldly affairs to settle..."

"You think I am dying!" shrieked the unhappy man, starting up and falling back exhausted.

"Life and death are in the hands of God," said the doctor, gently.

"You said I would not die."

"Oh, it must—it must save me. I am

They were interructed.

The hour of closing the prison had not yet arrived, but the door was unlocked and the governor, accompanied by the cheriff and under sacriff, entered the cell. Upon seeing the present, the sheriff seconed somewhat embarrassed, and sail:

"Had not the lady better retire?"

The governor turned to Laure, and of eternity. The doctor administered a composin draught, and then said, graveiy and "Will you oblige me by taking leave of your husband now and withdrawing."

"No, no. I claim you: fulfillneut of your promise, Mr. Broving, to let me stay with him up to the last moment before closing. Ah, sir, mercy do not pressme; we have so little time to pass together on this earth that every minute is priceless!" pleaded Laura.

It was long before the united efforts of the physician and the magistrate could soothe his anguish.

The magistrate duly administered the oath; the doctor prepared his paper and pens; and Robert Thugsen, in a feeble voice, often sinking into utter faintness, commenced his statement.

Laura sighed deeply. She had hoped upon this trying occasion that she might be permitted to stay longer.

But the prison rules were very rigid. "I will leave you with Mr. Cassinove now, madam, and when the hour comes I will send an officer to let you out," said the governor, leaving the cell and locking the door behind him.

When they were left alone they looked into each other's eyes, and then poor, suffering nature overcame for an instant, all her heroic resolution, and Laura threw herself upon the neck of Cassinove and wept, bitterly, crying:

"Oh, is there no hope in this world. Oh, that I could die for you, my'beloved, my beloved."

He pressed her in silence to his bosom. He knew that all words would be vain while her storm of grief was raging. ARE INANIMATE HOODOOS.

Articles Believed to Have Brought Death to Their Owners.

There are lots of things which happen and for all of which, of course, the psychologists have explanations, and yet somehow these things do not readily respond to the so-called explanations of "purely mental effect" and all that sort of thing.

In Chicago a pawnbroker in South In Chicago a pawnoroker in South Clark street, near Madison, has a queerlooking old turnip of a watch that he will not sell and will not wear, for he knows its history. He bought it at a sale af accumulated police property, and after the sale, as a warning, one of the police officials related three coincidences in connection with it. The first Chicago "I was surprised when I heard you'd ettled at Beech Hill." said one to the ther, laughing. "I've always heard it there watch was one of the few things the thing got away with settled at Beech Hill." said one to the other, laughing. "I've always heard it spoken of as such a healthy suburb, I wondered if you'd find any patients glar, and the watch was one of the things the thief got away with.

A few weeks later the burglar, with a party of his pals, pursued by the police for another crime, took refuge in a house on the outskirts of the city, and sought to hold the officers at bay. All were to hold the officers at bay. All were taken alive except the burglar, and he was shot dead. The watch was found on his body. It was around the detive bureau for a long time, and one day one of the force asked permission to take it home to show some friends, his description of its outlint, curious case have

When Mme Carnot, widow of Sadi When Mme. Carnot, widow of Carnot, died, and her will was read, a clause in it caused considerable comment.
This was to the effect that a certain small Hindu idol carved from a hard stone which would be found among her stone which would be found among her property, must be taken out and crushed until completely destroyed. Many marvelled at this apparently singular request, for the idol seemed a harmless, ugly little thing, but her instructions were carried out to the letter.

The idol had been presented to Sadi Carnot years before he had ever thought of the presidency of France by a friend who had brought it from India. Later he had learned that there was a legend

BOOK PLATES.

Their Invention Came Half a Century After the Printing Press.

It was within half a century from the invention of printing that book plates were introduced as identifying marks to indicate the ownership of the volume. Germany, the fatherland of printing from movable type and of wood cutting for making impressions in ink on paper is likewise the home land of the book

The earliest dated wood cut of accepted authenticity is the well known St. Christopher of 1423, which was lis-sovered in the Carthusian monastery of Buxheim in Suabia.

Buxheim in Suabia.

It was to insure the right of ownership in a book that the owner had it marked with the coat-of-arms of the family or some other heraldic device. Libraries were kept intact and passed from generation to generation, bearing the emblem of the family.

The first book plate in France is dated 1574; in Sweden, 1575; Switzerland, 1607, and Italy, 1823. The earliest English book plate is found in a folio volume

HE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored thoughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL! The Company's Guarantee

An EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. LOVE, in his address to the Medica Board jon the subject of Alopecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots), without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had praviously made before the Medical Board. In practice the observations he had providing made defore the medical Board.

Dr. W. MOORE, referring to the invention says that the principle upon which the Evans Vacuum Cap is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

CRACK NUT SUNDAY.

Method of Mearing a Se Still in Use in England.

"One fine autumn Sunday I attended service in a north of Engli ry church that would have driven a New York preacher clean crazy," said the man who travels. "The congrega-tion didn't do a thing but sit assumd and crack nuts. Fancy a New York minister talking to a crowd of that kind! The modern preacher likes to have things quiet when he talks. It certs him to hear a baby cry or a woman cough or an old man snore. If he is put out by such trifles as these, esting to conjecture what he congregation where everybody brought uts to crack during the sermou.

"Worshipers, it seems, used to do this in England and even in our own states during colonial days. This dis-turbance was not a weekly occurrence by any means. If it had been, the poor preacher would have undoubted-ly left his flock to administer spiritual consolation to suit themselves. But as it happened only once a year he was forced to endure it. This one day which was attended by such remarkable license came the Sunday before Michaelmas day and was called 'crack nut Sunday.' Nobody, no matter how plous he might be, hesitated to avail himself of the peculiar privilege grant-ed him, and men, women and children came to church with their pockets with nuts, which they compla cently cracked and munched during

"It was that kind of a sermon that so impressed me with its oddity. It can be easily imagined that when forty or fifty people get to cracking nuts with all their might the noise is apt to be something terrific, and many times the minister was hard put to it to hear himself think.' That custom, from being regarded with high favor for many years, finally came to be looked upon as a nuisance, and the habit was suppressed, except in a few remote localities, aithough the act of suppression was attended with consid-erable difficulty, so firmly had the nut cracking fever taken hold of the fancy of the people."

FAMOUS ARCHERS.

Stories of Wonderful Skill With Boy

The expression "drawing a long bow" does not of necessity mean the telling of a falsehood. It sometimes refers to a wonderful story, which may be true enough, but which is so marvelous as to require a firm trust in the veracity of the narrator to enable the hearer to believe it. Some of the longest bows of this sort have been drawn abou bows and arrows.

These stories began long ago. Virgil in the "Æneid" tells of four archers who were shooting for a prize, the mark being a pigeon tied by a cord to the mast of a ship. The first man hit the mast, the second cut the cord, and the third shot the pigeon as it flew away. The fourth archer, having nothing left to shoot, drew his how and sent his arrow flying toward the sky with such speed that the friction of the air set the feathers on fire, and it swept on, like a meteor, to dis

The stories told of Robin Hood's archery, illustrated by his wonderful nance as Locksley in Scott's "Ivanhoe," are also a decided strate upon a sensible person's credulity. The famous story of William Tell, doubte by many persons, is believed by others to have a foundation of fact. There was a Dane named Foke of whom the same story is told, and William of Cloudestey, an Englishman, is said to have shot an apple from his son's head merely to show his experiness.

Most stories of bows and arrows re but a Frenchman, Blaise de Vigene tells one that shows the tremendous force with which an arrow may be propelled if the bow be strong and long count of the matter, he saw Barbaros sa, a Turk, admiral of a ship called the Grand Solyman, send an arrow from his bow right through a cannon ball.

Dectors Who Were Ready.

According to the British Medical Journal, every doctor has had unpleasant experiences with the economical-minded person who takes advantage of a casual meeting at the dinner table or elsewhere to importune him for counsel as to his ailments. It is not always easy to get rid of these pests.

Abernethy was, as we know, equal to the occasion when a wealthy alderman whom he met at a friend's house recited his catalogue of woes, ending up with the question: "What should I take?" The reply was: "Take advice."

A French doctor recently rid himself in an equally ingenious manner of a patient who sought to impose on his good nature. He was accosted one afternoon on a crowded boulevard by a lady no on a crowded boulevard by a may not torious for this practice. She at once began to tell of her pain in her hypogastric region. To which the doctor gravely replied:

"My dear madam, I must examine the manual of the pain in the pain in the control of the pain in the pain

you. Be good enough to take off your things."

Too High for Him.

Wall street associates of the great "bear," James R. Keene, admit almost unanimously that the financier is seldnammously that the linancier is seldon caught napping. They declare, however, that Mr. Keene is absent-minded occasionally, and tell this story on him to prove it. Keene and his fellow "bull baiter," Washington E. Connor, were at baiter," Washington E. Connor, were at the Keene country place outside of New York. It was a beautiful summer evening, and Connor proposed a stroll through the magnificent grounds. Though the guest had left all the cares of the street in the city, started on the walk, but Connor noticed that Keene was strangely uncommuni-cative. Suddenly the full moon appeared above the trees, and Connor regard ed its splendor in silence for a moment hen he turned to his companion.
"Isn't the moon beautiful, Keene?"

"Yep; but it's too high, too high!" as the preoccupied answer, with a DIFFICULT CENSUS TAKING.

Delicate Task in Egypt-Discovering Secrets of the Harem.

The country for the last few days has been going through a series of questions and answers. It is the period of the decennial census. At home the taking of the census is a comparatively easy matter. Every householder has his or her ter. Every householder has his or her sheet to fill up on a certain night and the collector fetches it on his rounds, and there the matter ends. But in Egypt there are insuperable difficulties in the wayof such simple methods m the wayor such simple methods.

To begin with, as the illiterate class is large, it is manifestly impossible to get the forms filled in; writes a Cairo correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette. So the Government has had to nominate ar army of inspectors, who have been going from house to house and have powers to penetrate to the inner departments in or-der to obtain full details.

Of course in a number of cases the natives, not understanding the cause, resent this intrusion, and some of the incisent this intrusion, and some of the incidents have been most awkward. Morever, very few of the fellaheen really know their ages, their idea of time being fixed by events. Thus one man's reply to the questioner was that he was a boy working in his fathers' field when Alexandria was bombarded, and another that he remembered seeing the "malika fransawiya," evidently the Empress Eugenie, at the opening of the Suez Canal.

On the other hand, the women, unlike at the opening of the Suez Canal.
On the other hand, the women, unlike their western sisters, do not consider age a thing to be ashamed of, and un-blushingly admit, in some cases, ten years more than possibly is their age. The harems have been another obstacle

BUSINESS AND RELIGION IN THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Rankin States the Case Clearly -Rev. Dr. Chambers, the New Toronto Jailer, Defends His Action-Declines to Resign From the Methodist Ministry.

Toronto despatch: When the Toronto Methodist Conference was practically ready to close yesterday at noon a disussion which will likely echo todistant parts of Canada was aroused by a resoution moved by Dr. J. A. Rankin, paster of Carlton Street Methodist Church, and econded by Mr. J. R. L. Starr. It suggested that ministers should resign from the ministry after they go out into sec-ular pursuits. As an outcome of the vigorous debate, Rev. Dr. Chambers, recently appointed Governor of Toronto jail, speke for some time in defence of his action in accepting an office from the Ontario Government.

The question as to the propriety of a man using the prefix "reverend" when engaged in commercial and business enterprises wasbrought up Tuesday as a notice of motion given by Dr. Rankin, and when the opportunity came yesterday he read the motion.

No sooner, had he finished reading than Rev. Dr. Burns, past, president of the Ontario Government.

than Rev. Dr. Burns, past president of the Conference, raised the point that the procedure was not according to discip-line.

"We are not going to discuss men, but a principle," replied Dr. Rankin in a mo-ment. "This important question should not be baulked by a mere technicality." Dr. Speer, President, ruled that the

Or. Speer, Fresident, fuled that the Conference was perfectly justified in expressing an opinion, but that the resolution did not imply action.

"We must surely deem it ill-advised for a man to compromise his ministerial standing by using this title in connection with business purposes purposes, and Rev. Dr. with business pursuits," said Rev. Dr. Eber Crummy. At this juncture, Rev. W. H. Hincks moved an amendment. It was much the same as that over which the contention arose, except that it did not say men should resign.

"Last year a minister was asked to resign. He did so, and there are a few others who may have to resign." This others who may have to resign." This significant statement of President Speer seemed to add further fuel to the fire. Dr. Rankin went to the platform, and in day. I am glad we can discuss this subday. I am giad we can discuss this sub-ject in open Conference, and not have any man under our attention. I have never known a superannuated minister to bring a shadow on the church because of the business in which he might have engaged to add to his small income. But I speak of men who are able to engage in the active work. When these men have taken the solemn obligation of the church, do they not take a vow which means something? If this is not a di-church that is going to impress upon us that they believe in this in theory but not in fact. Our actions, I fear, be lie our words."

"A man who goes to a circuit simply for the salary ought not to live," said Rev. Peter Addison, a retired minister, who recalled some of the early days when a clergyman served his parishion-ers for practically nothing. He thought the church should be much more rigid. "The idea of an ambassador of Jesus Christ becoming an insurance agent," declared Rev. G. W. Dewey, after relating an instance in which a minister was ing an instance in which a minister was charged with having financially injured several of his parishioners by having sold worthless stocks to them. He did not think the resolution went far

Dr. Baker thought a man was called to fill various positions in life. The divine call did not alone apply to the Rev. Dr. Burns then stated that sino the question had gone to debate he wished to heartly support Dr. Rankin. Any man who went out into purely sec-

Any man who went out into purely secular work should resign at once.

At this Rev. Dr. Chambers stepped forward and challenged members of the Conference to include his name amongst those who had done things not quite within the spirit of the ministry.

"I never bought a share of stock in my life," he stated, "though I own ten shares of stock of the Home Life. I am not in oils or anything slippery, and if the Conference imagines that this resolu-tion would fit me they are wrong. Leagueing me with that sort of thing, I hold to be unfair. Rather than be forced out of the ministry I shall resign from the office given me by the Government at Queen's Park."

Dr. Chambers continued to show that there was a constant tendency to look for young men in pastorate work, he had spent over forty years of faithful time for the Methodist Church and sooner than take his superannuation alowance, he decided to use his intellect and body to do good amongst those who were brought into the jail.

Rev Dr. Rankin expressed regret that Dr. Chambers had taken the resolution to himself in this way. He had the highest esteem for the new Governor. When the votes were taken the two amendments were lost, and the original resolution carried by a large showing.

equality of man.

Dr. Ecob took as the topic of his farewell sermon the subject, "The Minister of To-day," and as his text Matthew xi., 17, "We have piped unto you and ye have not lamented."

This was an unmistakably defiant note at the start, but the plain pastor's well-dressed hearers settled themselves comfortably, as if confident they could stand terday.

"I propose to speak with perfect simplicity and plainness," began the pastor, without a touch of irony in his voice. "Every denominational conflict, every heresy trial, every parish scandal, every treacherous attack upon a pastor is it

"Many ministers are deeply resenting the demand of the church for simply neutral decorative ministry—ministry punctilious, ministry that tiptoes gently and graciously at 4 o'clock teas and smiles benignly at bridge whist tables ministry whose pulpit userances have the quality of what is known by country people as 'iox fire,' a pale, phosphorescent glimmer, the product of decayed wood."

At the reference to 4 o'clock teas and bridge whist, two of the nicely gowned women in the congregation marched frowningly to the door, while others moved uneasily as if inclined to give expression to their disapprobation.

"Many churches, especially those called important," went on the undaunted minister, "want in the pulpit only this dim, lambent, innocuous light, the produce of venerable decayed thought.

"An expectation respecting ministers"

"Another question respecting ministers is that of salary. The average man, without an independent income, has no business in a Protestant pulpit. The average wage of the minister is below that of a day laborer. Yet a laborer can rested to-day and hurried away to Montpelier.

Before daybreak all roads leading to M. Ferrule's house were held by courassiers in strong force. His bodyguard of wine growers, among whom were many Amazons, which had been nightly watching over the safety of their leader, was on duty, as usual, but when the wine growers found themselves surrounded by troops they did not attempt resistance. When M. Ferroule appeared in custody of a police commissary, the crowd momentarily threatened to rescue him, but the mayor begged that there will be no trained as waiting, and started immediately for Montpelier.

Intense excitement prevails at Narbonne, but the people thus far have been overawed by the military display. At Argeliers the state and police authorities, escorted by an imposing military force, raided the headquarters of the gentral committee of the wine growers' organization at daybreak with warrants for the arrest of Marcelia Albert and the members of the central committee, but they found that the leader of the movement and several of his lieutenants had aleady fled. Only three committeemen were captured. They were sent to Montplier.
