The President read a communication from the Arts and Agricultural Society of Ontario, calling attention to the fact that in accordance with the "Agricultural and Arts Act," they would have to attend the meeting of the Agricultural and Arts Association for the thirteen Agricultural divisions of Ontario.

The members who retire at the end of the current year are as follows: — Samuel Wilmot, Newcastle; George Graham, Brampton; Thomas Stock, Waterdown; J. C. Rykert, M. P., St. Catharines.

Mr. H. J. Hill, Secretary of the Industrial Exhibition Association, Toronto, communicated, stating that the Industrial Exhibition would be held the second and third weeks of September next, and asking for suggestions regarding the preparation of prize lists, etc.

The secretary read the ANNUAL REPORT.

The Directors of the Society make this their ninth report of the business transacted by the Board during the past year.

The Exhibition took place on the 16th, 17th, 18th and 19th of September, and on the whole we had a very fair exhibit, although the show of stock was not equal either in quantity or number to former years. This is attributed to the Toronto Industrial Exhibition being held on the same week. During last year great efforts were made by the citizens of Toronto to inaugurate what is styled an Industrial Exhibition, to be open for three weeks, from the 1st of September to the 19th, and the stock were to be shown the last week, consequently it conflicted with our Exhibition. This was felt by the Directors to be directly interfering with our rights, as we had for several years held our Show the week previous to the Provincial, of which due notice was given in the fall of 1878. At a meeting of Directors held on 5th July last, it was brought before the Directors and a Committee was appointed to proceed to Toronto and confer with the Directors of the Industrial Exhibition, with a view of getting them to make some alteration in their programme to assist the two shows "more especially the stock department"—from clashing.

The Committee had an interview with those gentlemen, and on the next meeting of the Board, presented the following report:—

Your Committee beg leave to report that they proceeded to Toronto on Tuesday, the 15th July, and met the directors of said exhibition, and found that between the time the Committee was appointed and their arrival in Toronto, they had issued their bills and prize list. They stated that under those circumstances, they could not make any alterations in the days they had already named for the exhibit of stock. The committee pressed the matter, taking the ground that as our day had been fixed upon last full, and duly announced through the press, we thought they had trespassed upon us. They expressed regret at having fixed their days so as to clash with us, but under the circumstances could not alter or change this year.

After mature discussion at the board, it was resolved to adhere to the original day for holding the Central upon, trusting that as a large percentage of the stock shown at the Provincial and other large shows, came from this County, that the breeders would be patriotic enough to patronize their own County rather than exhibit at a rival exhibition which had shown such a disposition to crush out all smaller shows. But we are sorry to say, the larger prizes offered by our rivals was too great a temptation to some, thereby causing the falling off in stock as previously alluded to. The evident intention of these gentlemen is to crush out or cripple, not only any other exhibition that may interfere with them, but also the Provincial, so that in time they can see their way clear to advocate the centralizing the latter permanently in Toronto. This of course remains with the farmers of Ontario to say whether it shall be so or not, and we do not suppose the Legislature would make such a change unless sanctioned by the voice of Agriculturalists of the Province. We also see by a circular sent to the Board that Toronto intends holding their show on the 2nd and 3rd weeks of September this year, and the Provincial on the 3rd and 4th weeks, so that the whole of the month of September will be monopolized by these two institutions, to the exclusion of all other. It will, therefore be the duty of our successors to fix upon some week to hold the next Central in for the coming year.

At a meeting held on the 22nd April it was decided to invite the Governor-General and Princess Louise to open the exhibition in September, a committee was appointed to draw out an invitation to that effect and forward it to Ottawa. This was done, and at a subsequent meeting held on the 17th May, a letter accepting the invitation was received from the Governor's secretary.

A committee was then appointed to confer with the City and County Councils to enlist their co-operation in entertaining their Excellencies on the auspices occasion, After several meetings with the committees of the above Councils, it was found necessary to agree on behalf of this Society to pay one half the expense of entertaining the august visitors on their arrival in our City. At a subsequent meeting of the County Council that body agreed to pay $400 as its portion of said expense. The Directors felt justified in the course they had taken, looking forward to the large increase they might reasonably expect from the increased attendance on the occasion, and had the weather been propitious there is no doubt that their expectations would have been realised, but owing to the continuous rains from the opening of the Exhibition to its close their hopes were sadly disappointed, and instead of having a surplus, as we had every reason to expect, we have to announce a serious deficit.

In alluding to the visit of the Vice-Regal party to open our Exhibition, we may do so with commendable pride, as it was the only one in the West, with the exception of the one in Toronto, that was so honored, and we have the satisfaction of knowing that every arrangement was carried out with perfect success, and did credit to our good City and County. A great deal of this success was due to the hearty co-operation of the citizens, and more especially to those chairmen and members of Committee, who were indefatigable in the work allotted them, and had the weather been propitious we should have been able to look back on the occasion with twofold pleasure.

The Governor General and Princess expressed themselves as highly pleased with their reception, and also with the Exhibition, taking particular interest in the manufactures and stock.

We would suggest that means be taken to ascertain the views of the breeders in this County as to whether, under the circomstances, they would be willing to exhibit their stock for this one year for honorary prizes. We think that by putting the matter fairly before them, by counting on a personal interview by some of the Directors, they might be prevailed upon to do so, by this means and by deducting something from the other portions of the prize list, we feel sure that the debt can be overcome.

Part of the reason why we are so far behind this year is attributable to the fact that the County Council instead of contributing one thousand dollars as they have so liberally done before, cut us down to six hundred, and the specials offered did not amount to as much by $436. These two items alone will account for the deficiency, and taken into account with the increased expense incurred in the Vice-Regal reception will show that the Directors have done all that possibly could be done under the circumstances.

In bringing before the members a few features of the late exhibition, we may say that taking the great rivalry of the Toronto one, into account, being held on the same week—we had a very good display. In the different classes of horses the entries pooled up to as many as in 1878, and although some very fine animals were exhibited, as a whole they were not as good as in some former years. This especially may be attributed to the Toronto show, as we have always had a large number of fine horses from that section of the Province.

In sheep the exhibit was much less than in 1878, owing we presume to the same cause, for we miss the names of some of the most successful breeders, who have always attended our exhibition. The same must be said as regards pigs, the show of which was far behind in number the shows of 1877 or 1878.

The show of poultry, although not as large as in former years, was nevertheless a very good one. Most of our old friends patronize us as they know that strict impartial justice will be awarded them.

The dairyproduce, as usual, was a strong feature, and the beautiful samples of butter and cheese, called forth marked expressions of approval from Her Hoyal Highness Princess Louise, who was pleased to accept the first prize basket given by Mr. Ellis, of the American Hotel.

In grain, etc., there was a good display, more being entered than in 1878. The show of fall wheat was extremely good, while spring wheat and barley were also a better sample than for some years past. There was a large falling off in roots (with the exception of potatoes, which were never better), owing to the early season of the year, when turnips, carrots, and mangolds have not attained their full size.

There was a good display of garden vegetables, plants and flowers—and these were very beautifully arranged, setting off that part of the building to great advantage. The show of fruit was something beyond whatwe have ever seen at any exhibition outside of the Provincial. There were the large number of nearly 1,100 entries in all kinds of fruit. There was keen competition, and the samples were very fine. This may be said more especially of plums, as a finer display could not be collected together in any part of the Dominion. This is no empty boast, as many of the samples were taken from here to the Provincial, and carried off first honors there, not only for simple varieties, but for collections, showing that this locality is pre-eminent for plums.

We must again thank our agricultural implement friends for making such a grand display of their manufactures as we had on that occasion, especially when we take into consideration the fact that for nearly all they exhibit no prizes are offered. It would be well if some more of our exhibitors followed so laudable an example and compete more for the honor than for the mere dollars and cents, many simply paying a dollar and taking out in some cases a hundred or more. In agricultural implements and tools there was a very fine display, especially that made by J. M. Bond & Co., which was an exhibit not often excelled, and the amount of work and taste displayed in arranging the different articles comprised in a very large collection does great credit to those who got it up. The show of stoves was very good. The great improvement in this branch of business has been marked during the last few years. To see a handsome stove a few years ago was an exception, while now it is the rule. Mr. Wm. Suntey was by far the largest exhibitor, showing, as agent, the product of four or five different Companies.

In reference to the other departments of the Exhibition, all we can say is that it was fully equal to those of former years. One novel feature in the class for Natural History was a fine display of curiosities collected from all parts of the world, but more especially from Australia and New Zealand, comprising beasts, birds, fossils, shells, insects, &c., &c., shown by Mr. J. W. Lyon. This was very attractive, and formed one of the principal features of interest in the building.

We would recommend that rule No. 18, referring to fraud, deception or dishonest practices in making entries, be strictly enforced upon its being known that any has been practiced, and it is the duty of every one who knows, and can prove that such has been the case to bring it before the Board. It has been hinted that persons have exhibited articles that were not of their own growth or manufacture.

The present mode of entering animals and articles at the Exhibitions has long been felt to be wrong in principle and detrimental to the interest of those institutions. Anyone by paying one dollar or two, as the Directors may agree upon (the law will not allow any more to be charged) and receiving in return a dollar's worth of tickets, may enter for every prize offered, and then go to the Secretary and claim herdsman's passes, enabling him to sell his four tickets and so rob the Society of so much. This we contend is wrong, and we are glad to find that the Directors of the Toronto Institution have adopted a more equitable way, by making a charge for each entry for all animals and poultry, also for manufactures where they do not pay for space, which is charged at so much per foot frontage, and these fees amount in some cases from $13 to $18, and they have to pay for member's tickets besides, whereas they would only have paid one dollar if entered in the old way. We would recommend our successors to take this matter into serious consideration.

All which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. MURTON, Secretary.

Mr. Whitelaw was not at all satisfied with the annual report. The Directors complained that there was a serious deficiency. They did not expect anything from the County Council, and he did not understand why some effort was not made to reduce the prize list. He thought the Directors went too far when they promised to bear half the expense of receiving the Vice-Regal party if the city would bear the other half. He thought any one who drank champagne at the luncheon had a right to pay for it, and not place it as an expense to the Society. He thought the directors should use every effort to reduce the expenditure this year.

Mr. Sweetnam was not able to justify all that was done by the Vice-Regal Reception Committee. They had been placed at a very great disadvantage. The Council had some influence by threatening to present the civic address to the Governor-General at the Market Square, which would have seriously affected the receipts at the exhibition gate.

Mr. Leonard said it was a well-known fact that the Society had invited the Vice-Regal party, and the City Council very handsomely bore half the expense. They had to give the party a fitting reception. He thought it was the object of every committee to carry out the preparations for the reception as economically as possible, and scarcely one committee had exceeded the appropriations. It was a pity that the society was more in debt than last year, but he thought they could clear the sheet by an honest endeavor.

Mr. Gilchrist thought that everyone who were at the luncheon paid for what they received. The reception could not have been carried out cheaper. The prize list should be cut down every year until the exhibition was a paying institution.

Mr. Hobson said himself and Mr. Murton had gone to a great deal of trouble to get reduced railway rates on the day of the Vice-Regal reception, but unfortunately, owing to the Michigan State Fair and Industrial Exhibition being in progress, the railways did not afford sufficient accommodation. This fact, together with the unpropitious weather at that time, accounted for the deficiency. He believed, however, that the day for carrying on the exhibition on so large a scale had passed, and exhibitions had been established in other places on which the Central Exhibition had depended to a great extent.

Messrs. Whitelaw and Leonard then moved the adoption of the report, which was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the current year was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—President, Mr. Sweetnam; First Vice President, Mr. John Laidlaw; Second Vice President, Mr. Thomas Gowdy.

Directors—Messrs. J. Hobson, C. F. Leonard, W. Brown, D. Sorby, Thomas Waters, W. H. Mills, and W. Whitelaw.

Auditors—Messrs. Alfred Baker, and F. W. Stone, re-appointed.

The auditors submitted their report, stating that they had audited the accounts and found them correct.

The report was adopted.

A vote of thanks was tendered the auditors for their efficient services during the year.

On motion, Mr. Hobson was appointed delegate to the meeting of delegates of the 13th Division of the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario.

Mr. Swestnam having taken the chair, a vote of thanks was passed to the retiring president, for the ability with which he had filled the position.

Mr. Parkinson, President, acknowledged the honor in fitting terms.

Mr. Sweetnam, President elect, said his only reason for accepting the position was, that he might endeavour to redeem the financial position of the society.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a meeting of the directors afterwards held, Mr Geo. Murton was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the society.

Thus far about $23,000 have been contributed in New York and vicinity for Irish relief.

THURSDAY EV'G, JANUARY 22, 1880

Tree Culture in Ontario.

We have already informed our readers that a deputation of the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, waited on the Hon. Mr. Wood the otner day with the view of bringing under the attention of the Government the importance of tree planting. The deputation were glad to find from the Minister of Agriculture, that the Government contemplated furthering the interests of forestry throughout the Province. The visit of the deputation was the carrying out of an agreement made by the Association that an attempt should be made to undertake forestry in addition to fruit growing, and seek for a change of name to that of "The Fruit Growing and Forestry Association." This will be welcome news, not only to the members of the Association, but to farmers and all others having a practical interest in the advancement of agriculture throughout Ontario. In the past there has been too great a tendency to regard the timber supplies of the Province as illimitable, and many valuable belts have been slaughtered—needlessly. We think people, however, are beginning to awaken to the knowledge that it is possible they may have to suffer for this indiscriminate sacrificing of timber, and are becoming alive to the fact that something must be done to ensure a supply for the future. The Minister of Agriculture has wisely taken the matter up, and we expect to see some scheme promulgated soon, having for its object the encouragement of forestry in the best possible manner.

We notice the Manitoba Free Press wants an act passed by the Local Legislature there for the encouragement of tree planting. The neighbouring territory of Dakota has such a law, providing that for every five acres of timber in cultivation, forty acres with improvements not exceeding $1,000 in value shall be exempt from taxation for ten years. No land is to be considered increased in value for assessment purposes by reason of timber cultivation. Almost every prairie State has appointed an "Arbor Day," and American municipalities give liberal bounties to parties planting the greatest number of trees on that anniversary. In Minnesota 502,568 trees were planted on Arbor Day in 1877, the total for the whole year being given by the reports of the township assessors at 5,278,939. The Prairie Province might well undertake something in the same direction.

The Supreme Court will render judgment in regard to the Constituency of the Canada Temperance Act in March, so that in case it is not legal another similar Act may be passed before the session is over.

It is anticipated that there will be further changes in the Cabinet at an early day, the probability being that Hon. James Macdonald, who has been a huge failure as Minister of Justice, will be given a judgeship, room being thus made for Mr. Dalton McCarthy.

Kingston Whig: A Conservative lumberman has secured from the Government the remission of $15,000 in lumber. The significance of the act is made apparent when we state that the lumberman aforesaid is one of those who nominated Sir John for Marquette, Man., after the latter's defeat in Kingston.

It is generally stated in well-informed circles that the Government contemplate a change in the tariff in woolen goods favourable to the English manufactrers as against the Canadian. The impression appears to be based on a letter written by Sir Leonard Tilley through the Governor-General's Secretary to the joint tariff committee of the Yorkshire Chambers of Commerce.

The friends of the Reform party notice throughout North Lanark that the farmers who belong to branches of the Dominion Grange are the most inveterate opponents of the tariff. It appears that the Grangers have been comparing notes as to the advance in prices, and this accounts for their opposition. This incident should afford an example for farmers in other constituencies.

Messrs. McLennan and Bergin were nominated at Cornwall on Tuesday for the vacant seat in the House of Commons. Great enthusiam was manifested for both candidates. Long speeches were made by the candidates and by Sir Charles Tupper, Messrs. J. G. Suetsinger, ex-M. P. P., and James Leitch. A very large number of electors were present.

The Republican and Fusionist Legislatures of Maine were in session on Tuesday. A hopeful sign of settlement was the presence of four Fusionist members in the Republican House. The exclusion from the Capitol of legally qualified Fusionist members on Monday, however, has caused a reaction in their favour, and at a session held yesterday it was decided to submit their cause to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Chauveau has been apointed to the bench of a local court at Quebec, as a reward for his having deserted Mr. Joly. On a former occasion this versatile young man deserted Mr. Chapleau, went over to Mr. Joly, and thereby secured the shrievalty of Montreal for his father. The depth of degradation reached, by a portion at least, of Quebec politicians, may be estimated by this familiar instance, which shows also the nature of the instruments with which leaders of parties have to deal. The humiliation in the present case, lies in contemplation of the fact, that the Government dare place a man on the bench as a reward for political corruption.

In the Supreme Court on Tuesday, Dr. Stewart, of Kingston, personally made application to become petitioner in both the cases arising out of the election petition against both Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Gunn. Application was also made by Mr. MacTavish in re the North Ontario election case, asking that the time for hearing be changed from the 17th of February to the 3rd of February. Judgment was reserved in both cases.

On Wednesday a Special Committee of the Local Legislature was held to consider the Government Bill respecting dangers to brakemen. Mr. Young was appointed Chairman. Mr. Morris suggested that circulars should be sent to the Railway Companies asking for information, and Hon. Mr. Fraser added that the brakemen should have an opportunity of giving evidence on this subject, uninfluenced by the railway authorities. Both suggestions met with the approval of the Committee, which then adjourned till Friday.

The more the details of the Tay bridge horror multiply the evidence accumulates to show that the sole cause of the catastrophe was the miscalculated power of the tempest. The entanglement of the wrecked railway carriages with the wreck of the bridge, as discovered by the divers, proves that the latter with its moving load went down together, and the position in which the engine was found, it is said, conclusively disposes of Sir Thomas Bouch's theory that the train left the track and the tore iron work of the bridge to pieces.

There is getting to be a very general feeling that the Insolvency Act will be repealed at the coming session of the Dominion House owing to the pressure which is being brought to bear on the Government by the French members. It is some satisfaction to the people of Ontario that the Local Government has wisely forseen this and opened the way to counteracting the injurious effects of such action in this Province by giving notice of an Act for the equitable distribution of estates.

It is rumoured that the Ontario Government has decided to put the question of the erection of new Parliament buildings to the House as a party question but they will leave the determination of a site to the free vote of the members. A strong effort is being made to induce the Government to remove the Lunatic Asylum from the present site in the west end to Mimico, where the Government have land, and to use the Asylum as a new Parliament House. The city is growing rapidly in the west and the cries and profanity of the lunatics is a great nuisance to the neighbourhood.

Ottawa Free Press:—Hon. John O'Connor has taken the field in North Lanark in favor of the Government candidate. It is said that Mr. Costigan is not just now in the best of humours with the Government, and that, as he got a hint to stay away from Cornwall, he made up his mind that they might do without him in Lanark—so Mr. O'Connor had to go in his stead. We continue to receive gratifying reports from the Riding regarding Mr. McDonnell's canvas, and assurances that his success is beyond all doubt.

It is reported that the Government will appoint Sir Alexander Campbell to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario, and that Mr. John Beverly Robinson is asking to be appointed Collector of Customs at Toronto. Who is to succeed Sir Alex. Campbell in the Cabinet is at present uncertain, but it is thought probable that Mr. Dalton McCarthy will be called to the Council as Minister of Justice, the present incumbent of which office will either accept a judgeship or take another portfolio where his incompetency will not be so noticeable.

The Arthur Junction Railway Case in Court.

The case of the Arthur Junction Railway Co. vs. Township of Arthur was resumed before Mr. Justice Osler on Wednesday. The only additional evidence taken was that of Johnston Shaw, to the effect that he went to vote on day in question, met O'Callaghan from whom he got a drink out of a bottle; was paid $2 for his day's work, and $4 to stay around and canvass; he canvassed two men named McNab, and offered to pay them for their votes.

Mr. Curtis, Clerk of the Township Council of Arthur, produced the ballot box and other papers. The case was then adjourned, and the arguments were fined for two o'clock at Osgoode Hall. On resuming.

Mr. Scott submitted that the evidence was sufficient to prevent the granting of the mandamus. He submitted that if they proved that the election had been gained by fraud or improper means His Lordship would have no difficulty in determining whether he should grant the mandamus or not. He recapitulated the prominent points of the evidence given showing bribery, and thought, when it was also considered that these were only a few of the cases that had been probably reached in the effort of the promoters of the by-law to secure a victory, that there had been evidence shown to defeat the application for a mandamus.

Mr. Kerr, Q.C., for the application for a mandamus, said that all that the other side had brought forward was adducible only in argument in quashing the by-law. But the by law has not been quashed, for there never was a by-law. And it had not been shown that the majority had been procured by bribery. It had been shown that bribery was practised.

Judgment was reserved.

On Wednesday, John McGeary, a chimney sweeper, fell from the roof of a three storey store on Talbot street, London, to the ground, a distance of forty feet, and was picked up without any bones having been broken. He broke the fire alarm telegraph wire in falling.

Guelph Township Council.

The last meeting of the Township Council of 1879, was held on Monday, 19th inst., previous to the formation of the new council.

Mr. M. Sweetnam, Reeve, in the chair. Present—Messrs. Hawes, Hobson, McIntosh and Caraher.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

The Reeve reported, verbally, that in accordance with instructions received at last meeting he made enquiry relating to the circumstances of Mr. John Weir and was satisfied that the Council would be acting right to remit his taxes. Granted.

The Reeve read a communication from Mrs. Ann Shanahan stating that her husband has been unable to do any work for several months, that they were both old and infirm, and requesting the Council to remit their taxes. Granted.

The Reeve read an opinion from the solicitor, relating to the school rates of Messrs. M. O'Connor and J. & M. Murphy, when it was Moved by Mr. Hobson, seconded by Mr. Caraher, that in the case of Mr. Maurice O'Connor the amount levied for Public School purposes be paid back to him, such being in accordance with the opinion of the Township Solicitor. And further that in the case of Messrs. John and Michael Murphy school rates levied on them do go the Public School, their notice given under the 31st Section of the Separate School Act, not being in the opinion of the solicitor such as the law requires. Carried.

The Reeve on behalf of the Union Cemetery Committee submitted the annual report, which shows that during the past year there have been 149 interments in both cemeteries, 120 in the Union and 29 in St. George's, 27 burial lots have been sold and 42 lots for single graves. Five graves have been provided for indigent persons, four in the Union and one in St. George's. The grounds are kept in good order.

The following is the annual statement of account of Secretary-Treasurer which has been audited and found correct.

As there was no other business to be taken up the Council rose.

First Meeting of the New Council.

The new Council met at eleven o'clock, in comformity with the statute. The members elect were present, namely:—M. Sweetnam, Reeve; R. S Armstrong, Deputy-Reeve; Messrs. Caraher, Hobson and McIntosh, Councillors, having been declared duly elected, subscribed to the required declarations of qualifications and office and took their seats.

The Reeve in the chair; the members all present.

The Reeve appointed Mr. Chas. Walker as his auditor for the current year.

Mr. McIntosh moved, seconded by Mr. Armstrong, that Mr. Wm. Whitelaw be auditor on behalf of the Council for the current year. Carried.

Relating to the case laid over from a former meeting, as to the loss Mr. C. Quarry had sustained by his sheep being killed by dogs, in 1878, the Council considered he had no claim to be remunerated for the loss.

Moved by Mr. Hobson, seconded by Mr. Armstrong, that the following be the standing committees for the current year:—Road and Bridge, (west) Messrs. Hobson and McIntosh; (east) Messrs. Armstrong and Caraher. Boundary roads between City and Township—Messrs. Armstrong and Caraher. Cemetery committee—The Reeve and Deputy-Reeve. Carried.

Mr. Caraher moved, seconded by Mr. McIntosh, that the Returning-officer be allowed the sum of $10; the Deputy Returning-Officers $4 each; constables, $1.50, as remuneration for services at last municipal election. Carried.

Mr. Armstrong gave notice that at next meeting of Council he would introduce a by-law for appointing assessors and collector; also a by-law for the remuneration of certain Township officers.

Mr. Caraher moved, seconded by Mr. Armstrong, that the trustees of school section numbers 1 and 3 be allowed the sum of $2 each for the use of their respective school sections during the late municipal election, and that Alex. Hadden be allowed the sum of $4 for the use of his shop and room for the same purpose. Carried.

Mr. Hobson gave notice that at next meeting of Council he would introduce a by-law for appointing fence-viewers, pound-keepers and pathmasters, for the current year.

Mr. McIntosh moved, seconded by Mr. Hobson, that the Clerk be instructed to notify the auditors to audit the accounts up to 31st January, 1880, and submit their annual financial statement at next meeting of Council. Carried.

John Kilogot was present, soliciting aid, and was allowed $2 for present necessities.

On motion made and seconded the Council adjourned to meet on Monday the 9th day of February.

A. McCorkindale, Clerk.

Awful Warning to Aspiring Aldermen.

(From the Hamilton Times.)

Last year among those who aspired to a seat at the City Council Board from No. 4 Ward was Mr. G. S. Fisher. The ambition was a laudable exhibition of character, and when Mr. F. advertised in the city papers requesting the votes and influence of the electors of that noble ward it was taken for granted that he was sincere, and really meant to carry out, if elected, those views which he professed to hold. The Times inserted the advertisement in good faith and under proper instructions, but when the account for doing the work was presented to Mr. Fisher he repudiated it. An action was entered against him in the Ninth Division Court, and judgment obtained against Fisher for the amount claimed. Execution was issued, but as the defendant is a "gentleman of leisure," and all his property is in his wife's name, it was returned nulla bona. A judgment summons was then taken out, and Fisher was examined before Judge Sinclair, when he declared under oath that the property held by his wife was worth at least $5,000. At the same time the defendant was examined on a judgment obtained against him by Mr. Joseph Faulkner, builder. On the last, in default of payment he was sentenced to 30 days in jail and on that of the Times Printing Company to 10 days to take effect on the 1st of March. Mr. Greenfield, in pursuance of the orders of the Court, arrested Fisher at his residence and conveyed him to jail, where he now pines, probably chewing the cud of sweet and bitter memory, and cogitating as to the ingredients of the skilly furnished by Captain Henery. The scene at Fisher's house was a most affecting one, Mrs. Fisher and the children weeping bitterly. As Fisher was passing out of the door a thought struck him that his wife might possibly pay the amounts claimed under the judgments, and thus secure his liberty, and in stern language he bade her not to do anything of the kind. Fisher claims to be acting under legal advice, and is sure that he will be able to show at the same time that his incarceration in Castle Henery was an outrage on the liberty of the subject and contrary to all law.

FAME.

The shouts of the thousand the heavens were rending,
At the feet of the honored bouquets fell in showers;
Sage, prince and peasant in homage were bending
To him, the acknowledged, as man of the hour.

They bear him aloft in their hearts, warm and fearless,
The goddess of Fame from her throne stooping down
The laurel to bind round the brow of the peerless;
Again shout the thousand, immortal renown.

But hark! in the distance a voice seems awaking,
They list, and again falls its sound on the ear;
Behind and before, all around them, are breaking
The echoes, all gaze, and with wonder they hear.

'Tis Genius again admiration commanding,
To hail it, the thousand with loyalty speed;
The crowned with the laurel, in solitude standing
Like a rock when the waves of the ocean recede,

Bewildered he looks, in his soul sad and lonely,
Hears the sound of applause roll in distance away;
Reproachingly turns, and exclaims, fame is only
Delusion, a phantom, the flush of decay.

Guelph, January 22nd, 1880. T. L.

Ontario Legislature.

Toronto, Jan. 21.

Mr. Crooks introduced a Bill to amend the Agricultural and Arts Act. He said the object of the Bill was to transfer the duties relating to Mechanics' Institutes and similar institutions from the Provincial Treasurer to the Minister of Education. The latter's office was not in existence when the Act was originally passed.

The Bill was read the first time.

The School Book Question.

Dr. Baxter moved for and obtained an order of the House for a return containing information concerning the number and price of authorized text-books for use in Public Schools.

Mr. Crooks, in assenting to the motion, availed himself of the opportunity to explain what the present policy of the Education Department is with respect to copywrights, and why it was adopted in preference to the one formerly in force. He traced the history of the school book copywright question from the time when the late Council of Public Instruction adopted the Irish National Readers, referred to the inferior class of text books in use a few years ago, and gave at length the considerations which forced him to the conclusion that the double object of good and cheap books could best be secured by leaving the copywrights in the hands of publishers, and fixing the cost of the individual book to the consumer.

Mr. Hay, in moving for certain information respecting the working of the Dominion immigration machinery during 1879, went at considerable length into the causes which had led to the very large immigration during the past season. He traced it to the relaxation in the Government regulations, which granted assisted passages not merely, as formerly, to those who had been engaged in agricultural pursuits, but to all who stated their intention to engage in them. He described the manner in which the steamship agents in England plied their vocations and asserted the denials of the Dominion Government organs to the contrary notwithstanding, that that Government was in the habit of paying the steamship companies part of the passage money of emigrants without knowing whether they had settled in the country or not, and that these emigrants had their passage paid from Halifax or Quebec to inland places by the same Government. He commented on the wisdom of encouraging the immigration of tenant farmers, and on the fact that no assisted passages were granted to girls suitable for domestic service.

Mr. Hardy explained that the Ontario Government no longer granted any assisted passages, and that they forwarded at their own expense from Quebec only such immigrants as were desirable to introduce. He assented to the production of the information desired.

Mr. Creighton, in moving the second reading of the Bill to amend the Liquor License Act said there was throughout the Province a good deal of irritation on the question of temperance, and temperance people were too often put on the defensive. Much of this irritation was owing to the secrecy connected with the proceedings of License Commissioners, who were not, like other public officials, required to make a return of their receipts and expenditures. He cited the expenses of the License Commissioners, and complained that those of the Commission in North Grey were much higher than those of any other Commission. The Bill was to require every Commission to make a return of its accounts to the Council of the municipality in which it was placed.

After some discussion Mr. Mowat said he was sorry the hon. member for North Grey had not acquiesced in the suggestion made by the Provincial Secretary and withdrawn the Bill when he was informed that the Department was now preparing to have the very information given to which this Bill related. He fancied, however, that he could make a little capital out of the matter. (Hear, hear.) The Government did not want to shirk their responsibility as a Government, and when any amendments or additions to the present law were required they would not hesitate to take the responsibility of making them. (Cheers.) This was too important a subject to be treated by any hon. member as a means of making a little political capital.

Quite a debate ensued after which the second reading was lost on the following division:

Year.—Messrs. Barker, Baskerville, Bell, Boulter, Broder, Calvin, Creighton, French, Harkin, Jelly, Lauder, Lees, Mack, Meredith, Merrick, Metcalf, Monk, Morgan, Morris, Near, Parkhill, Richardson, Rosevear Tooley, White, Wigle.—26.

Nays.—Messrs. Appleby, Awrey, Badgerow, Ballantyne, Baxter, Bishop, Blezard, Bonfield, Cascaden, Cook, Dryden, Ferris, Field, Fraser, Freeman, Gibson, (Huron) Graham, Harcourt Hardy, Hawley, Hay, Hunter, Laidlaw, Livingstone, Lyon, McCraney, McKim, McLaughlin, McMahon, Millar, Mowat, Murray, Nairn, Neelon, Pardee, Patterson, Paxton, Peck, Robinson, (Cardwell), Robinson, (Kent), Robertson Ross Sinclair, Springer, Waters, Waterworth, Wells, Widdifield, Wood, Young.—50.

Mr. Scott, for the Bill, paired with Mr. Striker, and besides these the following gentlemen were absent: For the Bill (presumably)—Messrs. McMaster and Long; against it (presumably)—Messrs. Crooks, Caldwell, Gibson, (Hamilton), Deroche and Chisholm. Leaving out of consideration Mr. Speaker together with Stormont and West Hastings, which are unrepresented, this vote would seem to indicate the strength of parties in the House to be—Ministerial, 56; Opposition, 29.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT.

The value of Wheat in the Canadian Market is controlled to a great extent by the foreign demand. If crops are short in Russia, France and India, England must buy more Canadian Wheat, and the price consequently advances.

But the price of Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry never changes. A twenty-five cent bottle will cure any ordinary Cough or Cold and give marked relief in old standing cases of Bronchitis. In hundreds of cases 50 cent bottles have cured Coughs and Colds, which have been proof against all other remedies, and the proprietors positively claim that a $1 Bottle will ensure a large family against any danger from Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Loss of Voice, Coughs and Colds, and all kindred diseases, for a whole season.

This is no empty boast, but a fact which has already been proven by thousands of Canadian Families to their entire satisfaction.

The Wonderful Man

In balancing our books for the year ending 31st December, 1879, we cannot but express our sincere thanks to each and every person who has favored us with their patronage and influence.

The past year, but especially the Fall Season, has shewn very gratifying results, which we attribute to the good judgment of our buyer, together with our old time custom of making our goods as low as possible; and as far as we can learn, not a single complaint has been made by our customers, but on the other hand, hundreds have assured us of the pleasure they have had in making selections from our large stock, thereby securing as good value as can be had in the Province.

As our business has shown such a marked increase during last season, and we expect for the coming season to make an additional show of prosperity, we can at this early date assure our customers and friends that no effort will be spared to make the Wonderful Man's store second to none in Canada.

We placed orders for our supply of Cottons, etc., etc., early in December, and the rapidly advancing market in these goods confirmed our judgment in this instance.

OUR BUYER,

David H. Hogg, leaves for the European Markets on Thursday, 22nd instant, to make purchases for the spring trade.

SPECIAL.

We will offer until further notice, all qualities in White and Grey Cottons at old prices, and the balance of our stock in Dress Goods, Furs, etc., will be submitted at market reductions.

CHAPTER XXII.

ORWELL BRUCE AND REUBEN LANGTON IN PARIS—THE SCENE IN THE BOULEVARD —ORWELL FALLS INTO THE SNARE LAID FOR HIM.

"Sometimes—only sometimes," observed Reuben, as he took a sip from his wine glass. "As I lounged about the saloon while you were playing I heard an old gamester say that luck and want of luck goes in runs—that for nights at a time a player will win every stake whether he plays well or ill. Then all at once the tide turns against him, and let him do his best he loses right on, while his opponent has his turn of luck and recovers his losses in an hour or two."

"Indeed!" returned Orwell, as a glance of interest came into his blood-hot eyes. "Then, who knows, but had I waited fortune would have smiled on me and frowned on him."

"Well, according to the calculations of these old dicers who have been watching your play, the turn of the tide was just about to take place."

"Did they express that opinion?" cried Orwell, his haggard cheeks flushing so brightly.

"Yes; I certainly hear them do so. But, of course, I put no faith in their prognostications."

"But you might have told me."

"And set you on to renew your betting? Not likely, old fellow. I am too much your friend for that. Look you now—had I done so, and you had on the strength of my words risked your last five thousand and lost, how bitterly you would have blamed me for the consequences."

"No, no; I blame no one but myself. It is my own folly; my own mad infatuation that has plunged me into this abyss. Oh, why did I give way to the temptation?"

"Tush! there you go again into a strain of useless bewailing."

"So would you, Langton, were you in my position. Had you, like me, squandered your patrimonial inheritance and your sister's fortune you would be filled with remorse as I am. Oh, my poor sister! I cannot return to her; I cannot meet her with the confession that I have ruined myself and beggared her. In her weak state of health the tidings will kill her, and I—I shall be her murderer."

"Now, old fellow, you must not give way to these morbid fancies," said Reuben, affecting a tone of rallying remonstrance. "You are making the matter as bad as possible, whereas five thousand pounds are still intact."

"Ah, a poor pitiful fraction of the entire sum."

"Not so pitiful. Bishop, your factor at Cairntree, will invest it for her at four per cent. that is two hundred a year."

"Two hundred pounds," cried Orwell passionately. "What is that, man, to what is her due—to the luxury she has always known. By heaven, Langton, you are beginning to mock me."

"By heaven, you do me wrong, Bruce," said the arch-hypocrite. "I am doing my best to show a streak of light to the blackness of the cloud you are so foolishly contemplating. Do you call that mockery?"

"Forgive me, Reuben, my galled feelings make me unjust, and to show you I do not overlook the faint streaks in the blackness, I will mention another you have not alluded to. I can supplement the annual interest of the five thousand by allowing May the income of the estate after the interest on the mortgage and other expenses are paid. That may not be much, but it will at least prove that I am not such a heartless, selfish wretch as from my conduct people would infer."

"Ah, that is rather a magnanimous idea," returned Reuben with a faint smile, as he puffed the smoke of his cigar gracefully towards the branches overhead. "But in that programme you have provided nothing for your own subsistence. My dear fellow, you seem to have forgot that you too must live."

"No, I haven't. I mean to live by my own exertions."

"Whew! in what way. Not by taking to work?"

"Yes, by taking to work."

"By Jove, you amaze me."

"Why should I amaze you by making such an intimation? Since I have reduced myself to utter dependence on my own labour, why should I not labour as others do in the same friendless position. I have youth, strength, energy, and the strongest of all motives to exertion—love."

"Love," echoed Reuben, turning on Orwell a steady look.

"Yes," added the latter, with an imprudent impulse. "Agnes Borlaud will not now refuse me. Hark ye, Reuben, you have often chaffed me about Agnes, and I would never own my affection, but I do so now—when the barrier between us has been removed by my own infatuated hand."

"What mean you, Bruce—I—I do not understand you," rejoined Langton, now intensely interested.

"I will tell you. We love each other, Agnes and I—but would you believe it?—she refused to become my wife because I was rich and the owner of the Grange."

"Nonsense."

"It is truth. She nobly, though I think absurdly, sacrificed herself to avoid the censure of the world. She cannot refuse to be my wife now that I am as poor as herself."

"Very romantic, upon my word," said Reuben, with a partially unveiled sneer and a venomous curl of the lips. "So you mean to turn day labourer and marry Agnes Borland"

"I mean to do such work as I can find and am fit for."

"In Galloway?" queried Reuben eagerly.

"No; in some foreign land. My pride is not wholly subdued. I could not brook to fill the humble sphere to which I have reduced among those who know me. But abroad—in America—the blush of shame need never come on the brow of toil, and there I may achieve an honest independence."

"With Agnes Borland as your wife,' added Langton through his compressed lips.

"Such is my hope."

"Don't cherish it," said the other in a quick, decided tone. "Agnes Borland will never consent to leave her widowed mother and go to the other side of the Atlantic."

"Her mother will go with us," promptly rejoined Orwell. "Oh, I do not fear that this part of my programme will miscarry.

"I shall be careful to make it miscarry," was Reuben's inward comment; but suppressing the fierce feelings of his dark heart he made some commonplace rejoinder, poured out another glass of wine, and lighted a fresh cigar.

While this conversation between the two was going forward, the bronzed-faced man at the adjoining table listened closely to every word of it, and apparently with an interest of the strongest character. He held a newspaper in his hand which he seemed engaged in reading, but he was in reality watching the speakers from behind it—at first from curiosity merely, but afterwards from a worthier motive—viz., real personal feeling, which as the sequel was to show had a very special application. Sometimes his eye was fixed on Orwell Bruce, and his face had then an expression of pity and sympathy, but as his glance passed to the other side of the table and rested on the sinster countenance of Reuben Langton, who taking advantage of his companion's abstraction allowed his features their natural play, the stranger's look became indignant and scornful. His piercing eyes absolutely flashed, his lips twitched convulsively, and an angry sternness settled on his face, which he seemed with difficulty to suppress. As neither of the youths knew they were the objects of this man's attention, or even supposed that the language in which they spoke was understood by him or any one near, their voices were raised to the ordinary conversational pitch, and they took no pains to make their confidential converse private. Thus the stranger could without effort hear all that was said, and by the shrewdness of his mind gath r additional information from the manner of the speakers. He noticed that from time to time Reuben Langton cast searching glances on all sides, as if on the outlook for some expected figure. At length his eye seemed to have gained the object for which it was seeking, for a sudden gleam of satisfaction lighted it up, and carelessly holding up his hand he gave a private signal.

Presently a man, elegantly dressed and foppish in aspect, came sauntering along with a glass at his eye and a Malacca cane dangling dantily in his gloved hand. This individual was arrayed in the height of the then Continential fashion, took short, mincing steps, walked with a studied, jaunty air, and took pains to ape the exquisite in all his movements.

When he drew near, his attention was directed to the group under the tree—was rather ostentatiously occupied by some object at the other side of the boulevard. Nevertheless, Reuben Langton, affecting to notice him for the first time, gave a start and sat upright in his chair.

From St. Joseph's Island.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—Since last writing you grim winter in all its severity has thrown its white cold mantle around us, and the cheering whistle of the many steamboats passing up and down our lakes are now silent. Still, the country has a far different and more lightsome appearance than it had last winter. You can walk now but a short distance, when you come upon the comfortable log house or shanty, with the other necessary small buildings of a new settler, and the invariable little hay and straw stack, with the far travelled cow or oxen, quitely chewing the cud, and to all appearance, in deep study, about—who knows, but it may be the many changes lately brought about by the N. P.

We have had two threshing machines in full blast, since sleighing commenced, besides a deal that was threshed in early fall, while the roads were good, and convenient to those living by them, and now that the ice is good, parties are busy drawing away the wheat they may have to spare from next year's seed to Bruce Mines or Sault Ste. Marie, to get gristed at the mill, and along with the fine crops of potatoes, turnips, cabbages, &c., and not a few but has a pig, the winter will pass over with many of the settlers altogether different to what it did last year, and then they have their oats, with it may be, a few bushels of peas and barley to sell or trade, to get the other little necessaries from the stores, for this is a great country to consume tea.

I have applied to the parties who own the threshing machines, for a guess of the number of bushels of the different kinds of grain they have threshed this season, and as near as I can get, it is close upon sixteen thousand bushels, but this is far from giving a correct statement of the grain raised on the Island, as there are very many, who have threshed what they had with the flail, and others have sold small fields of oats to parties who have horses, to be fed in the sheaf.

A young man a few days ago, while out chopping, came on a hollow tree with three bears quitely stowed away for winter, one he killed with his axe—went home for his gun and shot the other two—they weighed about 400 pounds; he sold their skins for $16—four and a half gallons of grease which he is disposing of to the young ladies at 75 cents a quart. Not a bad morning's work.

Every man on the Island that wishes can obtain work this winter, the greater part of young or unmarried men, have obtained work at the lumber shanties on the main land, while those that wish to be near home, are engaged with parties, who have contracts for railway ties, telegraph poles and posts, of which there are many thousands to be taken out on the Island to be ready for shipping in the spring, besides a few thousand cords of wood to be ready for the steamboats next summer. So taking all together, things look pretty prosperous on the Island this winter.

We have our little excitement over our School meetings and Municipal election; there are six candidates for Councilmen this year, we will therefore have the usual commotion attending such business Monday next.

I therefore think that surrounding circumstances might well inspire us with the hope, that at no distant date, this will be a place of considerable importance. We have our silver, copper and iron mines, all close by us, and our prospects are still further elevated, when we know, that very soon we will have a Railway passing within two or three miles of us, then up goes our large hotels for summer visitors, who are in search of scenery and health, both of which can be had here. A more healthy locality could scarcely be found. One thing certain, doctors are a rare commodity. I never saw but one, who came up from Bruce Mines last fall to see an old woman who had hurt herself, and he (the doctor) told me that months have passed without a single professional call having been made at his office. Yet some may object to our winter, take for instance last winter, we had no snow until the last week of December, it was all gone by the end of April, and flowers in abundance early in May. This winter, snow fell a little earlier, but went away again; at present we have not over a foot of snow and pleasant weather.

All we need now are roads, and trust our member will do what he can for us this year.

We expect our saw mill to be running this week.

We have a great improvement in our mails this winter. they leave now every week in place of three times a month.

Mr. Richards is at present engaged making additional improvements to this dock.

You may expect to hear from me again shortly. Yours,

F. S. F.

St. Joseph's Island, Dec. 29, 1879.

A Voice from the North-West.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—Having been a reader of your valuable paper for upwards of twenty years I think that a few jottings from me would not come amiss. We are always glad to get your weekly visitor. It comes to us on Tuesday morning following the day of publication. We are always glad to see the news from our old home and county having been a resident of the same for over 30 years. Our minds and thoughts are often carried over there, and to think of the kind friends and good neighbors that we left behind creates in us a tender feeling towards the old place and friends. But, sir, we came to the North-West to better our circumstances and so far we are all well satisfied with our prairie home. Myself and sons are in possession of 1040 acres of as fine land as ever you saw. I think I told you in my last letter that we had 30 acres ready for crop. I finished sowing on the last day of April and of the proceeds we thrashed 783 bushels—500 of wheat and the balance of oats and barley. We also planted five bushels of potatoes of which we received 180 bushels. We have now ready for next year's crop 50 acres that we intend to sow with wheat next spring. This is a fine country for wheat and when it is broken up I think the Red River Valley will be one of the best wheat growing countries in America, if not in the world. And now sir, I am aware that there are numbers of men in Ontario, and young men too, who are depending on the old homesteads for support. If they would come out to the North-West, with a little energy and resolution, by the blessing of God they would soon become independent and good citizens. There is plenty of room as there are thousands of acres to be cultivated yet.

I suppose that you will be beginning to think that we are all frozen up in this cold region, but no sir, we are alive and well. Last month was a pretty cold one. On the third it commenced to snow and for two or three days it snowed a little. On the 10th we had one of the North-West blizzards. It was fearful to look at, but when the wind went down the cold increased until the mercury went down to 59° below zero and still we do not seem to feel the effects so badly. The air is so dry and pure that it is not so cold after all. Now we have fine winter weather.

Now sir, not wishing to tire you with a long letter I subscribe myself your humble servant.

REAL SWISS EMBROIDERIES.

After some little negotiations we have just succeeded in closing a rare purchase of lovely new Swiss Embroideries, in handsome medium and wide widths, at a very low figure, and purpose at once submitting them to our customers for sale.

This purchase comprises somewhat in the neighborhood of 3,000 yards all new, handsome and lovely patterns, and having been bought away down below anything like regular prices, will at the prices we shall put upon them disappear from our counter rapidly. We fully expect that ten days will clear the lot, so that intending purchasers will have to look lively.

The like of these goods will probably never be seen again in Canada.

We may just say, too, in connection with these goods that the latest spring and summer fashions indicate that White Skirts, handsomely trimmed with embroidery, will be all the rage. This will therefore present to the ladies of Guelph a favorable opportunity of purchasing the right material almost at their own price.

ON THURSDAY MORNING,

at 10 o'clock, these goods will be to hand, and ladies will please bear in mind that those who come first will have the best choice.

ON THE SAME DAY WE SHALL SHOW—

New White Cottons
New Swiss Checked Muslins,
New Hair Cord Musli
New Striped Lawns,
New French Cretons,
New Brocaded Ribbons.

A large job lot of Real French Ties, at 50 cents each, regularly sold every where at $1, $1.25 and $1.50.

Ladies of Guelph, the Fashionable West End is your establishment, and endeavours by every legitimate means to merit your patronage. Come to us.

A. O. BUCHAM,

GUELPH TEA DEPOT

MESSRS O'DONNELL & Co.

THE PUBLIC WILL BE PLEASED to hear that the above firm, on Wednesday, November 5th, will open out a fine stock of fresh Teas, Coffees, Sugars, &c., in their new store, on Upper Wyndham Street opposite Ellis' American Hotel.

As they had a large stock of teas purchased before the last rise in prices, they will be able to give bargains that cannot be got elsewhere.

Owning to their great experience in this special line there is no doubt but they will monopolize a large portion of the tea trade of Guelph.

Erin Council.

ERIN VILLAGE, Jan. 19, 1880.

The newly elected Council, the Reeve, 1st and 2nd Deputy Reeves, met at 11 o'clock a.m., and severally subscribed to the declaration and qualification, and proceeded to business; viz.: John W. Burt, Reeve; Charles McMillan, First Deputy Reeve; Robert A. Reed, Second Deputy Reeve; and Dr. McNaughton and James Kirkwood, Councillors.

The Reeve, on taking his seat, appointed Thos. Young Auditor, and on motion by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, Thos Till was also appointed Auditor. On motion by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Dr. McNaughton, a By-law was introduced remunerating Township officers, which was read a first and second times. Moved by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that $1 be paid Mr. Nelson Boomer for the use of his store during the nomination. Carried. On motion by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, the Council formed a Committee of the whole on By-law No. 1, fixing the amount of salary to each Township officer for the year.

Council in Committee, Dr. McNaughton in the chair. The By-law was filled up and the Committee rose. Moved by Dr. McNaughton seconded by Mr. McMillan, that By-law No. 1 be read third time and passed. It was done. On motion by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. McMillan, a By-law was introduced, appointing Township officers, which was read a first and second time. The Council, on motion by Mr. Kirkwood, seconded by Mr. Reed, formed a Committee of the whole on By-law No. 2, appointing Township officers for the present year. Mr. Kirkwood in the chair. By-law filled up, Committee rose. Council resumed business, and on motion by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Reed, By-law No. 2 was read a third time and passed.

The following are the officers and their salaries:

Wm. Tyler, Township Clerk salary	$225
C. J. McMillan " Treasurer "	60
Henry Dunbar " Assessor "	90
Daniel McMillan " Collector "	60

On motion by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Reed, the Reeve ordered the payment of $4.80 to the Clerk for extra registration of births, deaths and marriages, as directed by law. Moved by Mr. Kirkwood, seconded by Mr. Reed, that the Treasurer be paid his salary for 1879, amounting to $60. The Reeve ordered payment. On motion by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. McMillan, John Clarke, Inn-keeper, was paid $2 for use of hall for the Municipal election of 1880.

It was moved by Mr. Kirkwood, seconded by Mr. Reed, that the Auditors meet at the Treasurer's office on the 4th day of February, 1880, to audit the accounts of 1879.

Moved by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, that the Council do now adjourn to meet at Diver's Hall on Monday, the 9th day of February, 1880, to attend to Township business.

WM. TYLER, Clerk.

Collector Caven, of Stratford, and Officer Lang, of Neustadt, on Wednesday, seized an illicit still in the township of Egremont, county of Grey.

The Secret Service officers in Oswego, on Tuesday night captured six men and three women in the act of coining money. Metals, dies, acids, &c., besides 700 counterfeit American and Canadian coins, were seized. Other three men who belong to the same gang, were arrested at Sandy Creek at the same time. Counterfeit bills and coin were found in their possession.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease, the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. H. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. BURNS ANNIVERSARY

A Grand Concert

Will be held in the Caledonian Rooms on

TUESDAY, 27th JANUARY, 1880.

THE MISSES WEMYSS HAVE been engaged. The press is unanimous in saying the Misses Wemyss are the finest delineators of Scottish Song that have ever been heard and surpassed by none.

In our national songs these ladies excel. They warble them with such admirable taste, feeling, and truth, as to unlock the sympathies of Scotch audiences, and elicit from them enthusiastic plaudits.—Dumfries Herald.

Their rendition of such pieces as "Dublin Bay," goes right to the heart of any audience, whilst the taste and feeling exhibited in "When ye gang awa Jamie," cannot fail to awaken the sympathies of Scotch listeners.—Pembroke Observer.

Robt. and Thos. Macmillian, the boy dancers of Toronto, who were so much admired in dancing the Highland Fling, Sword dance and Ghillie Callum at Caledonian Games have been engaged, and will appear in Highland costume in the above dances, to the music of Piper Smith.

The best local talent has also been secured. Tickets, 25 cents.

☞ Doors open at 7; concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT.

The value of Wheat in the Canadian Market is controlled to a great extent by the foreign demand. If crops are short in Russia, France and India, England must buy more Canadian Wheat, and the price consequently advances.

But the price of Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry never changes. A twenty-five cent bottle will cure any ordinary Cough or Cold and give marked relief in old standing cases of Bronchitis. In hundreds of cases 50 cent bottles have cured Coughs and Colds, which have been proof against all other remedies, and the proprietors positively claim that a $1 Bottle will ensure a large family against any danger from Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Loss of Voice, Coughs and Colds, and all kindred diseases, for a whole season.

This is no empty boast, but a fact which has already been proven by thousands of Canadian Families to their entire satisfaction.

The Custom House—Fashionable Wedding.

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, inspected the Custom House yesterday and made arrangements for the proper classification of goods in examining merchants.

Two fashionable weddings took place this morning in St. James' Cathedral, the first being at eleven o'clock, when Miss Gwynne, daugeter of Justice Gwynne, was married to Rev. H. G. Baldwin, of the Church of Ascension. The second event took playe at noon, and notwithstanding the steady rain quite a large number of the fair sex witnessed the union in wedlock of Miss Adelaide M. Alexanders, second daughter of Senator Alexander, of Woodstock, to C. V, McDonald, Temple of the "Highlands," Quebec.

A prominent saloon keepor was roped into a game of billiards at Mitchell & Rian's billiard room, Toronto, on Wednesday night, and was fleeced of $1,200. He then went to Mike Maloney's gambling hell, where he dropped $250 on a laid-out faro table. It is probable that the plucking game would have gone on further only a license commissioner dropped on the game and threatened to call in the police if the play was not discontinued.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell was in Toronto on Monday investigating the recent Custom House robbery. It is likely that the result of the enquiry will be the immediate dismissal of J. E. Smith.

"Effort, gentlemen," said Mr. Gladstone in his address to the enthusiastic students at Glasgow, "honest, manful, humble effort, succeeds by its reflected action, especially in youth, better than success."

AN ESCAPED MURDERER TRACED.—F. Bowen, charged with the murder of Francis Daley, near Lennoxville, and who escaped from Sherbrook gaol after the grand jury returned a bill of indictment, has been traced to San Antonio, Texas, and will be re-arrested. The murder was one of shocking brutality. Bowen made friends with his victim at a tavern and drove home with him. He must have watched his opportunity, and brained Daley with a wrench. He then tied his body to the back of his own vehicle by the neck and drove the horse to the door of Daley's residence. The wife of Daley on hearing the vehicle stopping at her door opened it and beheld the body of her husband as described. Bowen was arrested upon evidence adduced, and the grand jury found a true bill against him. While awaiting his trial he made his escape from gaol. It is thought, through the assistance of friends from the outside, and the Government immediately issued a circular offering a reward of $1,000 for his apprehension.

MR. J. T. BRILL, who owns the Teeswater creamery is going to run it to its full capacity this season, and has called a public meeting of the patrons of the institution in that locality to fix the prices of milk. Mr. Brill pays about $20,000 for milk during the season.

DISTRESS IN IRELAND.—A meeting of Irishmen and all others willing to aid in the above cause will be held this evening in the Albion Hotel, at 7.30, to consider what steps will be taken to relieve the distress in Ireland. It is heped that there will be a large meeting.

SEVERAL complaints are made by residents in the North Ward with regard to the disgraceful state of the railing of the fence on the north side of the Eramosa bridge. There is a high embankment there, and is very dangerous for pedestrirans in a dark night. The proper authorities ought to see to the matter at once.

A MEETING of the Curling Club was held last night, with reference to the match for the medal to be played with Toronto. It was agreed to play in Brampton, and that the umpire there should choose the time for the match. Mr. James Emslie was appointed skip in place of Mr. David Kennedy, who declined to accept the position appointed to him at a previous meeting.

CITY DEBENTURES.—Mayor Sleeman and City Treasurer Harvey went to Toronto on Thursday for the purpose of selling city debentures, for the completion of the water works. This they accomplished beyond their expectations, selling them at 100½ cents, being ½ per cent above par, or for the $25,000 worth they brought back $25,125. This speaks well for the credit and standing of the city of Guelph.

DEATH OF MR. MCGANN.—Mr. J. B. McGann, the well known instructor of the deaf and dumb, died at his residence, Belleville, on Thursday morning after a long illness. He was the pioneer teacher of the deaf and dumb in this Province, having first established a school in Toronto, whence it was removed to Hamilton, and carried on with assistance from the Government. On the establishment of the institution at Belleville he was appointed one of its teachers, but on account of old age and ill-health he resigned in 1878. Deceased was a native of Ireland, and aged 73 years. He was well known in Guelph, having often attended the meetings of the County Council here in connection with the Institution when it was located in Hamilton.

A HAPPY WEDDING.—A pleasant little gathering took place at the residence of Mr. Hugh Walker on Thursday night, the occasion being the marriage of his eldest daughter Maggie to Mr. Thomas. S. Douglas, of Brockport, N. Y. The Rev. W. S. Ball performed the ceremony in a very impressive manner, and at the repast which followed proposed the health of the newly married couple in a very felicitous speech, in which he gave them excellent advice and wished them every happiness. The happy couple, amidst the good wishes of all present, left by the nine o'clock train for Toronto. The bride was the recipient of numerous valuable presents, among which was a handsomely bound Family Bible, a present from Knox Church choir. We wish the young couple every happiness and prosperity in their wedded life.

THE PRINCESS LOUISE.—The Princess, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, and suite, arrived at Liverpool by special train on Thursday, and at once proceeded in the Mayor's carriage to the landing stage, where the tender was in waiting to convey the Royal party on board the Sarmatian. The embarkation was effected at three o'clock; the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh took leave of the Princess, and the steamer proceeded to sea at four amidst the cheers of the thousands who crowded the stage and pier head to witness her departure.

MR. J. H. SMITH, of Buffalo, who has been in this city for several days purchasing horses, returns this afternoon. He has purchased a car load of heavy draught horses in this locality, and will take them along with him. Mr. Smith is highly pleased with the quality of the horses, and expects to pay a visit here again soon.

MR. ALEX. BRUCE was elected one of the directors for the South Wellington Agricultural Society.

ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—The two diplomas, with the gold and silver medals awarded to the Ontario Agricultural College by the Commissioners at the Paris Exhibition in 1878, have lately been sent to the College by the Hon. S. C. Wood, Commissioner of Agriculture.

Caledonian Society.

A meeting of the Caledonian Society was held in the rooms on Thursday evening. There was a fair attendance of members present.

In the absence of Chief Massie—who arrived later on in the evening—1st Chief. tain Robertson took the chair, when the concert committee presented their report with reference to the celebration of Burns' Anniversary.

The committee stated that they had visited the Misses, Wemyss, lately of Scotland, and who are on a singing tour in this country, and found that their services could be secured at a reasonable figure. The Committee reported highly of their ability as singers, not only from the flattering notices they had received from the press, but from the observation of one of the members of the committee who had interviewed them.

They also reported the advisability of securing the services of McMillan Bros., of Toronto, to appear in Highland costume, in their celebrated Scotch dances, together with piper Smith and the local talent which could be procured.

The report of the Committee was adopted, and they were empowered to add to their number for the more efficient carrying out of the programme.

After the Committee was selected the meeting adjourned.

The Tenant Classes.

The Herald editorially says an examination of the latest authentic statistics on the subject show that the tenant classes of Great Britain are not by any means so badly off as it is supposed. In Great Britain the total number of those who rent land is set down at 560,000, and in Ireland 600,000. The total capital of these 1,160,000 farmers is estimated at $2,000,000,000. Of this amount one sixth, or $330,000,000, is owned by the tenant farmers of Ireland. This capital, large as it is, bears, of course, only a small ratio to the capital of the landlords; but at the same time, it goes to show that the landlord system is not so black as it is painted. In point of mere wealth alone, the tenant class in Great Britain is one of the most important in the kingdom. Another correspondent shows that the credit system is to blame and the poor law relief scheme defective. Sixty able-bodied men were admitted to Killkarney workhouse on Wednesday, and a poor, starving woman, who applied for admission on Tuesday, brought one of her three children dead in her arms. She had walked forty miles to find relief. The facts need no comment.

Rev. Dr. Collyer tells this story of a wedding in Yorkshire: As the man came out of church with his bride he met an old companion, who said: "There lad, I wish thee much joy; thou's gotten to t'end of all thy trouble." It was very good to be assured of that, and the bridegroom went on his way rejoicing; but by and by he found he had got married without getting a wife. It was a bad job; and so when he met his old companion on the street one day he said, with a very long face: "I thought thou told me as I came out of Gruisely Church that I'd gotten t'end of all me trouble." "I did tell thee so," said his friend, quietly, "but I didn't tell thee which end."

CHALMERS' CHURCH.

Missionary Association.

The annual meeting of this association was held in Chalmers' Church on Thursday evening, Mr. Robt. Flaws, President, in the chair.

The meeting was fairly attended, and was opened with devotional exercises, after which Mr. Jas. Philip, Secretary, read the annual report, of which the following is an extract:—

The amount collected is $314.45 as compared with $356.50 last year. There was however a balance of $21.63 last year which we can now add to the amount of this year, making a total of $336.08. The sum of $35.50 has been already appropriated to the Assembly, Synod, and Presbytery Funds according to the requirements of each; there therefore now remains the sum of $300.58 (say $300) to be appropriated to the various schemes of the church as this meeting shall determine. Sums amounting in the aggregate to about $20 have been distinctly specified by the contributors as intended for the Home Mission Fund. The committee would therefore recommend the addition of that sum to an amount equal to that voted for Home Missions last year.

The following resolutions were then carried: Moved by Mr. Melvin, and seconded by Dr. Wardrope, that the report be adopted as read, and that the office-bearers and committee be re-elected for the ensuing year, viz: President, Mr. R. Flaws; Vice-President, Mr. Geo. Anderson; Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Hadden; Secretary, Mr. James Philip. Committee.—Messrs. W. Brown, A. Bruce, W. Bruce, W. Tytler, R. Melvin, W. Carter, G. B. Hood, and Mr. Panton. Auditors—Messrs. T. Henry and A. Hill, and that the collectors be—Mrs. Hill, Mrs. G. B. Hood, Mrs. Gilchrist, Mrs. Geo. Watson, Mrs. Adie, Misses Forbes, Bruce, Watson, Cossitt, Inglis, Nellie Inglis, Darby, Hadden, Stewart, Wright, McPherson, Howitt, S. Cossitt, McDonald, Carter, McPhail, Taylor, Dunbar, McCorkindale, Bessie Bruce, Hurd, Hunter, McCuen and Auld, and that the special thanks of the association be given to the collectors for the last year.

Moved by Mr. Geo. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Panton, that the money be apportioned as follows: Home mission fund, $120; Foreign mission fund, $50; College mission fund, $50; French evangelization, $50; Aged and infirm ministers, $30. Total, $300.

It was expected that the Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Stratford, would address the meeting, but owing to the illness of Mrs. McLeod he was unable to be present. At the last moment Dr. Wardrope secured the services of Rev. Mr. Dixon, of Galt, who in an eloquent address called upon the members to prosecute the work they had in hand with true Christian energy.

It was moved by Mr. Tytler, seconded by Mr. Brown, and carried, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the speaker for his excellent address, and for his great kindness in coming on such short notice.

Dr. Wardrope pronounced the benediction, when the meeting was brought to a close.

Norfolk Street Methodist Church.

The annual supper in connection with this church, was held in the basement on Thursday night. There was a very large number in attendance. The spread was an excellent one, and the tables presented a very inviting appearance, which reflects great credit on the ladies who had the management of the supper in hand. After ample justice had been done to the good things, the body of the church was adjourned to, when the choir took their places in the gallery and furnished excellent music during the evening, Prof. Harrington presiding at the organ.

The Rev. Mr. Williams, occupied the chair, and opened the meeting with prayer, after which the chairman called on Mr. James Mills, M. A., Principal of the Agricultural College, who addressed the audience with a good deal of pith and force.

The Rev. J. C. Smith, of St. Andrew's Church, followed with a very humorous and thoroughly practical address. In fact so good was it that at its conclusion, it brought Mr. Mills to his feet, and in a very happy manner, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Smith. Mr. Stevenson seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

During the evening the choir sang with spirit, "When shall I be free," Miss Schofield rendering the chorus with fine effect. A solo by Mr. C. W. Harrington—"Impatience" was also excellently sung.

This very successful meeting was brought to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

A social will be held in the same place this (Friday) evening, a large quantity of provisions being left over. Admission, 10 cents, children 5 cents.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, JAN. 22, 1880.

After routine a lively discussion sprang up in committee on the Attorney-General's Bill to provide checks against holding unnecessary inquests and post mortem examinations. Strong exceptions were taken to one or two clauses of the Bill, and Mr. Mowat agreed to modify it in some respects to meet the views urged by the objectors.

Mr. Mowat's Bill respecting supplementary drainage by-laws, and Mr. Meredith's respecting mortgage sales of personal property, were read a second time.

Mr. Waters withdrew his Bill requiring license commissioners to make certain returns to municipal Councils, in consideration of the announcement of the Provincial Secretary that the information would be given by the Government.

The Premier announced that the Provincial Treasurer expected to make his financial statement on Tuesday next.

A woman has been committed to the Middletwon Asylum apparently sane upon all points except that she must kill her fifteen months-old child. She begged the Superintendent a few days ago to allow her to go home and kill her baby, promising to come back and stay contentedly.

Mr. Crooks's Speech on the School Book uestion.

Mr. Baxter moved for an Order of the House for a return giving the names of all books authorized by the Minister of Education for use in the public schools of the Province; the number of copyrights held by the Government, and the number held by private individuals, together with the names of the publishers; also the price of such books to the public.

Mr. Crooks said this motion was opportune, as a good deal of light had recently been thrown upon the subject by the rival publishers themselves. As he had stated in his letter to the publishers, he had been endeavoring to select material which would enable him to consider the question whether the time had not arrived when the prices might be reduced without interfering with the legitimate profits of publishers. The question of cheap and good books was one of the difficult question which had demanded his attention when he first took charge of the Education Department. In the minutes of the proceedings of the Council of Public Instruction would be found a circular issued by the Rev. Dr. Ryerson, which showed in what a miserable condition the text books then were. This circular authorized any publisher in Canada to print and publish any of the books of the Irish National school series which the Province of Upper Canada had received permission to use. At last in 1875, an edition of a Canadian reader had for the first time been published in a manner which had met with the approval of the Council of Public Instruction. A copyright of it was acquired, and was still possessed by the Department, and the reader survived. While the new readers were more suitable to the wants of our Public Schools than the Irish readers, they were not universally satisfactory. The books authorized by the Council of Public Instruction which were excellent and desirable to be retained were retained on the list, and the result was that his regulations authorized altogether 39 books, while those of the Council of Public Instruction authorized 49 books. Of the 39 books which he authorized, 22 had been authorized previously, and 17 were newly authorized. Those of which the copyright was held in the Department numbered 7, and those of which the copyright was held in Canada numbered 24. An examination of the list would show that there was a manifest improvement in the books authorized since he took office over those authorized previously, and the principle of giving options in the use of text-books was, as far as possible, carried out, and the Canadian National Readers were the only books in regard to which no option was given. With regard to the mechanical merits of books, there was an officer in the Department well acquainted with the business of making books, who took apart one of every class of books and thoroughly examined it. The result of his examination was placed before the Deputy-Minister, and afterwards before himself. And one of the conditions of authorization was that no book should be sold by a publisher unless it was stamped that it was authorized and that it had gone through the regular examination. The only question for him to consider was the price at which authorized books should be sold. He had pointed out to the publishers that the greater part of the value of the books which they issued was in their being authorized. But he could not know that there was a certainty of great practical results, as notwithstanding all that had been done the publishers had combined with a view to raising the price of the readers.

Mr. Merrick—are the prices to be charged for books fixed? as sometimes a higher price is charged than at others.

Mr. Crooks said—If his regulation were carried out each book would bear an imprint, showing that it was authorized and the price at which it was to be sold. Now that his attention had been called to the amount of business energy displayed by the publishers it would be necessary for him to show a corresponding spirit in the action of the Department. Hitherto he had been relying upon the honor of the publishers to carry out the regulations imposed, but if necessary, he would even be prepared to have the Departmental stamp upon each copy of every book issued. (Cheers and laughter.) But the argument as to the advantage to the publisher of the authorization of books might be pushed too far. The tendency of teachers who were thoroughly acquained with their duties was to use the blackboard very largely as a substitute for books. He was of course, at liberty to secure the best information he could upon any subject and impart it to his pupils, and care must be taken to avoid the danger of little respect being paid to the authorization of the Department by unauthorized books being used in the schools. A text-book must be chosen—one of thorough merit could not be produced to order. The plan which he proposed to pursue would, he believed, achieve both merit and cheapness in the text-books. The publishers themselves were quite prepared to leave the matter to the decision of the Department, as to the advantage they received by the authorization of the books on the one hand, and the return which they should give in merit and cheapness of work on the other. He had ventured upon these words of explanation because many people, he believed, had too strict ideas as to the degree of economy which could be reached in the publication of these works. They seemed to some extent to lose sight of the business risk which the publisher assumed, of the capital invested, and the energy, time and care necessary in carrying on his business. They must not, also, forget the talent and labour of the author expended in the first production of the work. The text books used in our schools were of a more meritorious class now than ever before, and would compare favourably with those in use in England or elsewhere. He had his duty to perform, and he would endeavor to do justice between the publishers and the public, and he would endeavor to secure the best class of books, such as would commend themselves to the teachers in the schools. He placed his position before the House for comment and criticism. (Cheers.)

There died at the Elgin House of Industry last week a man who has lived 78 years without ever having had teeth, in the person of Geo. Whitburn. His mouth was entirely devoid of gums, and the cavity which generally exists between and above the tongue was also missing, that useful appendage resting upon a perfectly level surface. The man was possessed of a voracious appetite but what served the purpose of taking food and preparing it for deglutition and digestion in place of the incisors, bicuspids and molars, is not stated.

FRIDAY EV'G, JANUARY 23, 1880.

The Reform Victory in North Lanark.

The election in this Riding took place on Thursday, and resulted in the triumphant return of Mr. Macdonnell, the Reform candidate, by a majority of 98 over his Conservative opponent, Mr. Jamieson. This is the Riding represented by the late respected member, Mr. Galbraith, who in 1878 was elected by a majority of 43. The majority recorded on Thursday, is, therefore, more than double that which the Reform candidate received at the general election, when the National Policy was the great question at issue.

There is no doubt that at that time Mr. Galbraith's great personal popularity greatly helped to secure his victory. There are a number of manufacturing industries in the Riding, the town of Almonte being the chief centre of these. The electors at that time were to a large extent carried away by the protection cry, and no doubt they honestly believed at the time that protection would cure all the ills of the body politic. Since that time a marked change has come over their convictions, if we are to judge by the result on Thursday. Mr. Mcdonnell was not personally so popular as Mr. Galbraith, while his opponent, Mr. Jamieson, was the strongest and most popular candidate that could be brought forward on the Conservative side. He had canvassed the Riding four different times previously, and, therefore, had every advantage in knowing the electors, and in what particular quarters it was best to concentrate his energies. That this was done we may be well assured. But in spite of all these advantages, and all his efforts—aided, too, as he was by the Minister of Finance—he and the Government find themselves beaten, although the manufacturing interests in the Riding were actively employed in their behalf.

The victory is a significant one, not only as affecting the future of the Reform party, but as showing the change of feeling in regard to the National Policy. No better Riding could have been chosen to test this than North Lanark, and the electors there have recorded their opinion of it in a most unmistakeable manner.

Manitoba Legislature.

The first session of the fourth Parliament of Manitoba was opened on Thursday by Lieutenant-Governor Cauchon. Mr. Gilbert McMicken was chosen Speaker. The Lieut.-Governor in the Speech alluded to the great success which attended the exhibition of Manitoba products at Ottawa and at other principal cities of Canada last year, and expressed the expectation that a large immigration of a desirable class of settlers would result from the reports of the Royal Commissioners and tenant farmer delegates who visited Manitoba last fall. It further congratulated the House on the success resulting from the visit of the delegation of the Executive Council to Ottawa last year in obtaining various concessions from the Dominion Government. The leading measures promised during the present session are the following:—An Act to complete municipal organization throughout the Province; an Act to effect drainage of certain low lands and to provide for cost of same; an Act respecting interpleading; an Act to provide for making electoral lists on a cheaper plan than as at present. The House will also be invited to consider means by which the demands of certain localities in respect of a herd law can be met.

THE Dominion Government is concentrating its forces in Cornwall. The Minister of Railways and the Minister of Justice are addressing ward meetings, and the Finance Minister is also in the field. Mr. White is to the fore as a matter of course, and is talking incessantly. In spite of all this, however, the prospects of Mr. McLennan are improving in proportion as he is being persecuted by those outsiders. He maintains his position unassisted by any outside influence, and the electors are proud that he does not underrate their intelligence by importing foreign elements to bulldoze them. The reduction of wages effected in the cotton and woollen mills immediately after the last election, coupled with the starvation prices paid to farmers and their produce, has caused a revolsion of feeling against Dr. Bergin, who promised them better times and better prices, and although Mr. McLennan is a partial protectionist, he will poll a large Reform vote. The township will give Mr. McLennan a very large majority, so that the only question is, Will the town poll a large majority for Dr. Bergin?

IN view of the interest manifested respecting the recent revelations in the Toronto book trade, we give Mr. Crooks's remarks in the House on Wednesday, when the subject was under discussion. It will be seen that the Minister of Education in a very succinct manner reviews the history of the authorization books by the Department, and showed what care had been taken to reduce their number as well as their cost. The information afforded by Mr. Crooks is timely, and will do much to correct exaggerated and false impressions which seem to have been disseminated throughout the country.

THE Montreal Herald in discussing the condition of trade, says:—"Business has ruled with unusual dullness. Indeed, it can hardly besaid to be equal to the volume of the same period last year when the stagnation was greater than had been suffered since Confederation." This statement from the Herald, above all a commercial paper, does not speak for the "N. P.," more especially in view of reviving prosperity in the United States and England.

DUNDAS Banner:—"Mr. Speaker Clarke has put a stop to the practice introduced by the former Speaker of importing clergymen into the House each day to offer up prayer. He does the praying himself, and in this respect has set a praiseworthy example to the other members of the House, whose efforts to benefit the country would undoubtedly be strengthened by a little judicious praying."

MR. SPEAKER CLARKE gave his second sessional dinner on Thursday night. Among the guests present was Mr. McKim.

THE writ for Argenteuil was issued on Thursday. The nomination is on the 5th February, and polling on the 12th.

E. A. DE ST. GEORGE, M. P. for Portneuf in the last Parliament, is the Liberal candidate for Montmorenci.

A Curious Charity that Flourishes in Philadelphia.

(From the Women's Journal.)

The Cat's Home is a refuge maintained by the women's branch of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Here an officer of the society receives all stray cats, lost cats and diseased or aged cats, both Thomases and Tabithas, whether Tibbies or Grimalkins, whose friends desire their ailments cured or ended. Not only cats are included in its beneficent provisions, but dogs and other "small deer" like parrots, canaries, rabbits—in fact pets of any kind can partake of its hospitality. If the animal is sound and healthy it is not killed, but kept until a good home can be obtained for it. If it be of many years or incurably diseased its life is mercifully ended. Ten thousand six hundred and thirty dogs and cats received, and either provided with good homes or kindly killed, in a period of five years, is certainly a record of which the officers of this auxilary of the women's branch of the P. S. P. C. A. may be proud. This shows the necessity of such an institution in a large city, and as the workings of the retuge become wider known doubtless in the future the above figure will be greatly increased. Philadelphia stands alone in this work of mercy. There is no other institution of this kind in the United States. The house and lot at present occupied by the refuge was purchased by the women's branch in 1878, $7,000 being the price of the lot and house. The society has raised, by subscriptions and donations since that time, the sum of $1,400, leaving a debt of $5,600, which is secured by mortgage on the building, to pay which the society will be glad to receive any contributions, however small. Any person can become an annual subscriber by paying $1 per year. Recently a kind hearted young lady, who is connected with a well known family of Boston, gave the sum of $60 for the purpose of building a small house for cats in the yard of the refuge, which has since been erected and is now in use.

Railway Deputation to the Government

(From the Globe.)

A joint deputation on Thursday night waited on the Attorney-General and his colleagues to ask aid for the Wellington and Georgian Bay Railway, and the Waterloo, Wellington and Georgian Bay Railway. The deputation was unusually large, being composed of many prominent and influential citizens of Watorloo, Wellington, and Grey, through which counties it is proposed to build the roads. Among the gentlemen comprising the Wellington and Georgian Bay deputation were the following:—From Mount Forest—Thomas Swan, Mayor: Jas. McMullen, Reeve; J. Hampton, Deputy Reeve; W. Colclough, L. H. Yeomans, J. Halstead, Councillors; H. Wilson, John McLaren. From Minto—Mr. John Prain, Warden of Wellington; also a large delegation from Egremont, Owen Sound, Durham, and other municipalities in Grey.

The gentlemen representing the Waterloo Wellington and Georgian Bay Railway from this county were:

From Peel Township—James Cross, Reeve; Geo. Allan; James Gibson, Township Clerk; Robt. Rudd, John Mulloy, Jno McBeth.

From Maryboro' Township—J. Ogden, Reeve; Wm. Lowes.

From Drayton Village—J. C. Johnston, Reeve; Henry Diebel, Councillor; Martin Schneider, John Landerkin, Thos. Gordon, F. S. Proctor.

There were also large delegations from Galt, Berlin, Waterloo, and Woolwich Townships.

The Companies appeared before the Government jointly, because it is their intention to amalgamate as soon as the construction of the roads have become a certainty. Mr. Hunter, M.P.P., introduced the deputation.

Mr. George McKechnie, President of the Georgian Bay and Wellington Company, was the first speaker. After giving a succinct history of the scheme he proceeded to lay before the Ministers a summary of its financial standing. In the first place the road was divided into two sections—the first of these, now almost completed, from Palmerston to Durham, a distance of 26 miles; and the second from Durham to Owen Sound, 34 miles, a total length of 60 miles. The cost of the first section, without the iron, which had not yet been laid down, was $183,765 45. The iron was expected to cost $97,200, making a total estimated cost of $280,965 45. They had received bonuses from the municipalities for this section, the cash value of which was $169,926 10. The amount of stock actually paid up was $2,500. They applied for $3,000 per mile Government aid and $78,000 for this section—and if it were granted, the total cash received from all sources would be $247,926 10. The amount of $33,039 35 would thus have to be provided for by bonds. With regard to the second section, they estimated its cost without iron at $249,120. The amount of bonuses already carried was $95,739 99. By-laws were being submitted in various municipalities for an additional $55,000. The Government subsidy they hoped to receive would be $102,000—total, $252,737.99. The road would pass through an excellent agricultural country, would touch many thriving villages in which considerable manufacturing would be done and would terminate at Owen Sound, a rapidly growing shipping centre.

Mr. McMullen, Reeve of Mount Forest, said that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, the only railway touching this region, was a narrow guage road. They had done all they could to get it widened, but the City of Toronto being unwilling to help in such an effort it had been unsuccessful. Moreover, the farmers found it did not furnish the most desirable outlet for their grain, the best market being the Grand River mills in Guelph, Galt, and other places. In some cases wheat had been shipped to Toronto, gone through the elevators, been handled by commission agents, and been shipped back to within fifty miles of where it had come from to be manufactured for the Liverpool market. (Cheers.) The last Parliament had spent more money on railways than any other, yet the people, having been appealed to, had unmistakably endorsed the policy of the Government.

Mr. Mowat—Does that apply to North Grey? (Loud Laughter.)

Mr. McMullen said he was speaking of the Province at large. He noticed that the Manager of the T., G. & B. Railway had sent a petition to the Government against this scheme. During former winters the T., G. & B. had been snowed-up frequently. The people were sometimes without a train for six weeks, and without a mail for three weeks. The scheme now presented would not offer competition with any other road, nor would it interfere with the business of any, and he was surprised at the action of the T., G. & B. authorities.

Mr. E. C. Barnhart briefly supported the scheme, and strongly urged upon the Government the necessity of aiding it.

Mr. E. J. Doyle, of Owen Sound, drew attention to one or two features not mentioned. In the early days of settlement the people made no railways, but contributed indirectly towards older roads. Now that they have settled up their farms, they felt that they should have railway facilities. That section of the country was fertile and important, and is destined to become a large manufacturing centre.

Mr. John Prain, Warden of Wellington county, thought the people of Grey were justly entitled to a good large grant, equal to the one voted to the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway.

Mr. J. E. Bowman then represented the claims of the Wellington, Waterloo, and Georgian Bay Railway. The people in the southern portion of Waterloo felt they should have railway communication with the country back of them. Farmers had to team their wheat 10, 25, and 25 miles before they reached a railway. The section was wealthy and populous, and wanted a railway. The company was chartered to build a road from Waterloo town to Drayton village, passing through the townships of Woolwich, Peel, and Maryboro'. Woolwich had voted $60,000 to the road, and it was very probable they would get $30,000 from Peel, $10,000 from Drayton, and $25,000 from Maryboro'. These bonuses would be at the rate of $4,000 a mile, and they asked from the Government $2,500 a mile in addition.

Mr. Thos. Bowan, of Galt, said the Galt people were in perfect accord with the scheme. The united roads would open up new sections of country, would tap inland waters, would not injure existing roads, and would supply a want long felt.

Messrs. D. McDougall, Rich. Breithaupt, Geo. Allan, Jas. Cross, and Thos. Hilliard also spoke in the interests of the scheme, and maintained that it was worthy of liberal support.

Mr. Lyon, M. P. P., of Algoma, said the railway would be a great boon to Manitoulin Island. A boat was now being built at Owen Sound which he was assured would be able to ply between Owen Sound and the south shore of the Island all the year round, or at least nine months in the year.

The Attorney-General said he had listened to the speeches with great interest, and promised that the Government would give their best consideration.

The Wonderful Man

In balancing our books for the year ending 31st December, 1879, we cannot but express our sincere thanks to each and every person who has favored us with their patronage and influence.

The past year, but especially the Fall Season, has shown very gratifying results, which we attribute to the good judgment of our buyer, together with our old time custom of making our goods as low as possible; and as far as we can learn, not a single complaint has been made by our customers, but on the other hand, hundreds have assured us of the pleasure they have had in making selections from our large stock, thereby securing as good value as can be had in the Province.

As our business has shown such a marked increase during last season, and we expect for the coming season to make an additional show of prosperity, we can at this early date assure our customers and friends that no effort will be spared to make the Wonderful Man's store second to none in Canada.

We placed orders for our supply of Cottons, etc., etc., early in December, and the rapidly advancing market in these goods confirmed our judgment in this instance.

OUR BUYER,

David H. Hogg, leaves for the European Markets on Thursday, 22nd instant, to make purchases for the spring trade.

SPECIAL.

We will offer until further notice, all qualities in White and Grey Cottons at old prices, and the balance of our stock in Dress Goods, Furs, etc., will be submitted at market reductions.

NO DISCOUNTS but always Straight Prices at the Wonderful Man's Store.

WE REGULATE THE PRICES.

JOHN HOGG & SON,
The Wide Awake Merchants.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

For the next Ten Days we are offering our entire stock of Mink and Seal Muffs and Boas,
At prices which will be to the advantage of buyers to avail themselves of MINK MUFFS FROM $3.50,
worth double the money. Furs are now advancing and next season will see a considerable advance. So save money now, See goods ticketed in widow.

CHAPTER XXII.

ORWELL BRUCE AND REUBEN LANGTON IN PARIS—THE SCENE IN THE BOULEVARD —ORWELL FALLS INTO THE SNARE LAID FOR HIM.

"Hillos," he exclaimed. "Who is that coming along? I have surely seen that figure before."

Orwell gazed in the direction pointed to by Reuben's eyes.

"Why, it's Captain De Curacy," he said, with some show of animation.

"Nonsense. It is very like De Curacy, but you know we left him at Homburg, so it can't be he."

"It is he," persisted Orwell.

"Eh—what? Why, so it is. What can have brought him to Paris?"

"Oh, we shall soon learn that," observed Orwell, as he rose from his chair.

"What are you going to do?" hastily asked Reuben.

"To speak to him, of course."

"Do you wish it? His society is not very amusing; and besides, you remember where we used to see him oftenest. Better let him pass unaccosted."

Orwell drew back a step irresolute. At this moment the exquisite, with every appearance of an accidental motion, turned round, and his eye-glass lighted on the two youths. As mutual recognition was now inevitable, Reuben smiled and nodded, while Orwell advanced to meet him.

"Bless my soul," lisped the dandy, "am I so fortunate as to have the unutterable pleasure of seeing Mr. Bruce and Mr. Langton? I—I—am amazed—delighted."

"We are also surprised and—pleased to see you, Captain De Curacy," said Orwell. "Won't you be seated and join us in a glass of wine?"

"A thousand thanks. Shall be delighted to sit for a minute—positively no more than a minute. Wish I had an hour to spend with such charming friends, but sorry to say I can't wait."

"When came you to Paris, Captain?" asked Reuben. "I thought you were to be a fixture at Hamburg for some time."

"Had no other intention—positively I assure you, but when the Count left I could not think of remaining behind."

"What! has Count Hamanoff left Homburg too."

"Oh, yes, 'pon my soul you'll think it strange. But 'tis true, positively, I assure you. He began to have a run of ill luck, which amused him at first. He was sure it would not last long, but it did, and he became annoyed—not at losing money, which he did, in thousands, but at his own bad play. Some one told him it was not bad play, but a change of luck which would not end till he went to some other city. He laughed at that, but got to believe it, and said he would go to Paris, to put the idea to a test."

"And has he come to Paris?" asked Reuben.

"Positively, I assure you. We made the journey together, and reached Paris three days ago. I was curious to see if it was true what they said in Homburg that he would recover his good luck here, and as Paris is as charming to me as any Continental city, I gratified the whim."

"What a happy man you must be," observed Reuben. "Able to do just as you wish, go where you please, take your pleasure wherever you find it."

"Ah, well, I don't know. I am bored sometimes—positively—I assure you."

"And pray, sir, has the Count put the matter to the test?" asked Orwell, who had been listening with peculiar interest. "Has he had any play since he came to Paris?"

"He has, indeed, Mr. Bruce—positively—I assure you. He has been playing for two nights in a saloon not many yards from where we are sitting. He is to play again this evening, and I am on the way to see the result. I never was so interested in anything—positively—I assure you."

"What was the result of the past two nights?" continued Orwell. "Did it justify the augury of his Homburg acquaintances?"

"Did it?" cried the Captain, with a merry laugh. "Not in the least. He lost steadily both nights, and I haven't the least doubt he will lose as steadily to-night. He says so himself—positively—I assure you. What a fat pigeon the Paris players have got to pluck without the least trouble. If I were a gamster, which I am not, I wouldn't miss getting a share of the feathers."

"The Count must be furious over such repeated losses," remarked Reuben.

"Furious! not at all—the very reverse. He is laughing at it, positively—I assure you."

"Ah—a few thousands are nothing to him."

"A few thousand! A hundred thousand wouldn't affect him in the slightest. he is so rich. He says he will play one night more and then go back to Homburg to triumph over those who said his luck would change at Paris. What a creature he is!"

"Where is the saloon?" asked Orwell, on whose cheeks two white fever spots had gathered. "You said it was near. Will you take us to it?"

"Be extremely delighted. Ah, now I think of it, it is the very place you should go to. The Count dropped you of a tidy sum at Homburg. Now is your chance to turn the tables on him—positively—I assure you."

"Orwell, what would you do?" exclaimed Reuben, assuming an aspect of great alarm. "Surely you don't mean to play again?"

"I—I think I must, was the hurried reply, his eyes gleaming and his hands trembling with excitement.

"No, no. Be advised against it. You will lose again."

"No, he won't," exclaimed the Captain. "The Count's run of bad luck is not out yet."

"You see what a chance I have to retrieve my losses," cried Orwell, his nervous eagerness increasing every moment as the gambler's passion woke fiercely in his soul. "You know," he rapidly went on, "what cause I have to seize it. I lost heavily to Count Homanoff at Homburg. Why should he not lose to me at Paris?"

"Well, if you are certain to win," remarked the wily tempter.

"He is certain to win—positively—I assure you," exclaimed the Captain.

"I am not so sure of that," was the seemingly cautious observation of Reuben. "No doubt it would be a first-rate thing for you, Bruce, to retrieve your losses, but——"

"I'll hear no buts. I am resolved," cried Orwell. "This chance meeting with Captain De Curacy is a sign that fortune means to favour me at last. Come, Reuben, come and be a witness of my triumph. Lead the way, Captain De Curacy. I am infinitely obliged to you for this information."

"Pray, don't mention it, Mr. Bruce. Delighted to be of service to you—positively—I assure you."

"Then you will not be dissuaded from this, Orwell?" said Reuben, preparing to rise.

"No, my resolve is fixed."

"Well, I can only say you have my best wishes for your success," murmured the matchless dissembler.

"Thank you, old fellow; I know I have," cried Orwell, with wild gaity, as he caught the Captain's arm and began to drag him along.

One swift meaning glance was exchanged between the Captain and Reuben Langton as they moved along. Then the latter took the disengaged arm of their infatuated dupe, and he was led away to the consummation of his fate.

As they moved away the bronze-faced man seated at the adjoining table slowly raised his head from the paper and gazed after them—the expression of pity and indignation on his worn features having deepened considerably.

"What villainy! What base treacherous rascality!" he muttered. "There's something good in that young fellow. I wish I could serve him. As to saving him from the claws of these harpies, that need not be tried. Blinded as he is now, he would resent my interference, but soon—very soon, he will have his eyes opened, and then—ah, then, he will stand in need of a friend. Oh, the inhuman cruelty and unmeasured selfishness of the world. 'Tis the same everywhere. I am not the only victim. Strange, though, that I should have been within hearing of their conversation. I wish I knew what to do—at all events, I must not loose sight of them."

These muttered thoughts occupied but a few moments, and ere Orwell and his companions had taken twenty paces, the stranger rose from his seat and followed, though, at such a distance as merely to keep them in view without attracting their attention.

Now that he was on his feet it could be seen how feeble and ill-looking this man was. He had, as we have observed, a bronzed complexion as if from constant exposure, but his skin had taken on a yellow or saffron hue, the result of the disease under which he labored. He was by no means an old man—perhaps not over fifty—yet he seemed shattered and exhausted, and walked with painful deliberation with the assistance of a staff. Had the distance been far he must soon have lost sight of those he followed, but the latter had not gone a hundred yards along the boulevard when they suddenly crossed towards the houses, one of which they entered by a plain unobtrusive door, which seemed to open at their approach and close of its own accord the moment they disappeared.

When the stranger came up he was breathing heavily, and sat down on a seat under the trees to watch the door which, as he learned from a passer-by, was the entrance to one of the most notorious gambling houses in Paris.

It boots not to tell with what diabolical skill Reuben Langton had accomplished the object which he and his father had set themselves to effect, or narrate how stage by stage he wrought it out. When they reached London after leaving the Grange Orwell lodged the mortgage money with his bankers, intending to give instructions to have it safely invested in his sister's name. From this intention Reuben artfully diverted him, and Orwell left London retaining absolute power over it, able to draw it out at pleasure. This gave the tempter a fatal facility to work out his secret designs. As Orwell cared not whither they went he left the direction of their travels to his companion, who shaped their course to those German watering places where gambling houses abound. Once within that subtle influence the old passion was easily rekindled, and by the help of confederates the fiendish work was slowly but surely carried forward. While ostentatiously playing the role of restraining mentor he was all the while placing temptation in Orwell's path, and once on the slope it was comparatively easy to make him slide farther and farther. His own horror and remorse assisted the work of the tempter. Lured on by the frantic hope of winning back what he had lost he rushed like a moth to the flame only to be more and singed. At last when all but five thousand pounds of the mortgage money was squandered he made a desperate recoil from the abyss, and vowed never to touch cards or dice again. For a moment Reuben Langton was disconcerted by this unnexpected renunciation of the darling lust, but only for a moment. He did not despair of devising means to induce his victim to lose the remainder of the money.

Hitherto the gambler's passion, which alas! had now a positive existence in Orwell's breast, had been the tempter's chief reliance. He had but to arrange that Orwell should be brought in near connection with the dice-box and card table, led in an apparently innocent, accidental manner into places where the play was going forward, with all the excitements connected with it, and Langton knew that the spectacle would exert a resistless influence on Orwell's mind. His calculations almost invariably proved correct. The sight of players in a saloon, their winnings and their losses, and the exciting passions connected therewith, roused the passion seduced him to play, and resulted in heavy losses, which imperceptibly made inroads on the money lodged at the bankers. For a time Orwell did not or would not see that he was again dissipating his sisters's funds, and when he at length awoke to the fact the realization acted on him like a feverish horror, impelling him to play yet more deeply in the wild hope of recovering his losses.

With gamesters this hope has not always proved delusive. Fortune has ceased to frown and begun to smile on them, and the ebb of the golden tide has turned into a flow. In the case of Orwell, however, this rare result was rendered impossible by the means which Reuben Langton took to ensure continual loss. He had no difficulty in forming a league with those who did not scruple to practice foul play—sharpers and cheats, who had modes of working by which they must infalibly win and their antagonists lose, the poor dupe being in ignorance of the arts practised against him. At Hamburg, where Orwell's latest heavy losses had been sustained, Reuben's confederates had been two unprincipled adventurers who called themselves Count Homonoff and Captain De Curacy. The three had entered into a plot to fleece she victim and share the spoil—the intention being to clean him out without further delay. The design was frustrated by Orwell making a frenzied recoil from the gulf and refusing to enter the gambling house. This necessitated the laying of further plans, and it was resolved to change the scene to Paris, whither the Captain and Count were to follow, and where the snare was to be set for Orwell's last entanglement.

In the scene upon the bonlevards the reader has beheld the first development of this foul plot, how skilfully the snare was set, and how easily Orwell fell into it. It now remains for us to tell what took place within the gambling saloon into which Reuben Langton and Captain De Curacy conducted their victim. But the proceedings there were too important to be disposed of in a few sentences. We shall, therefore, pause here, and describe them fully in the succeeding chapter.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

OUR GREAT DISCOUNT

CLOTHING SALE

Will be continued until further notice. Stacks of Clothing have been sold. Customers are pleased, we are pleased, and the only ones not pleased are competitors who growl and grumble about that "awful discount."

20 Per Cent RETURNED IN CASH

"AYE, THERE'S THE RUB!"

Well, we never expect to please rivals—in fact we never try. Our Customers' good will, and feeling that they can buy from us to better advantage than anywhere else, are of far more importance to us.

BESIDES A REDUCTION IN PRICES

WE GIVE BACK $2 OUT OF $10.

Everybody knows what that means. It is easy enough to make loud pretensions of selling cheap, but facts tell better than pretentions. Mark this: All our clothing is marked in plain figures, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent., and make no second price. These are facts. If you want

BEAVER OVERCOATS,

NAP ULSTERS,

WEDDING SUITS,

BUSINESS SUITS,

Or a first-class Garment of any kind come straight to the Lion and take advantage of the Discount.

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Coney Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buys at the right time. Come to the Lion.

SWEEPING UP THE TRADE.

Busy, Busy, Busy, Always Busy.

Every man at the Fashionable West End on the pump from the morning until night.

REAL SWISS EMBROIDERIES.

After some little negotiations we have just succeeded in closing a rare purchase of lovely new Swiss Embroideries, in handsome medium and wide widths, at a very low figure, and purpose at once submitting them to our customers for sale.

This purchase comprises somewhat in the neighborhood of 3,000 yards all new, handsome and lovely patterns, and having been bought away down below anything like regular prices, will at the prices we shall put upon them disappear from our counter rapidly. We fully expect that ten days will clear the lot, so that intending purchasers will have to look lively.

The like of these goods will probably never be seen again in Canada.

We may just say, too, in connection with these goods that the latest spring and summer fashions indicate that White Skirts, handsomely trimmed with embroidery, will be all the rage. This will therefore present to the ladies of Guelph a favorable opportunity of purchasing the right material almost at their own price.

ON THURSDAY MORNING,

at 10 o'clock, these goods will be to hand, and ladies will please bear in mind that those who come first will have the best choice.

ON THE SAME DAY WE SHALL SHOW

New White Cottons
New Swiss Checked Muslins,
New Hair Cord Musli
New Striped Lawns,
New French Cretons,
New Brocaded Ribbons.

A large job lot of Real French Ties, at 50 cents each, regularly sold every where at $1, $1.25 and $1.50.

Ladies of Guelph, the Fashionable West End is your establishment, and endeavours by every legitimate means to merit your patronage. Come to us.

Harper's Magazine for February, 1880.

Harper's Magazine for February is as rich in illustration and as varied and entertaining in its reading matter as any number that has ever been issued. For massive strength, Blackmore's new novel, "Mary Anerley," deserves first mention. Those who prefer a lighter novel will turn with pleasure to the chapters of Black's "White Wings." Edward Everett Hale contributes a short story—"Mr. Keesler's Horse-Car"—conceived and written in his happiest vein. A brief story of thrilling interest, entitled "A Night in an Avalanche," is contributed by S. H. M. Byers.

The illustrated articles cover a wide range of subjects. Howard Pyle writes and illustrates "Bartram and his Garden"—an interesting sketch of an American Quaker botanist of a hundred years ago. The Rev. B. F. De Costa contributes a humorous article on "Foreign Tips," which furnishes motives for eight characteristic pictures by Reinhart. Mrs. J. W. Davis describes "A Famous Breviary"—the priceless gem among the art-treasures of the ducal palace in Venice. One of the most interesting articles that have ever been written about General Washington is that contributed to this Number by William F. Carne, treating of "Washington as a Burgher," i. e., in his relations with his fellow-townsmen of Alexandria. The Hon. John Bigelow contributes an illustrated paper entitled "A Visit to San Marino," from which it would appear that the title of "republic," as applied to this province of Italy, is a misnomer. A. B. Allen contributes an illustrated description of the "Percheron and Norman Horse," to the breeding of which so much attention has recently been given in this country. A. A. Hayes, Jr., contributes his series of Colorado papers, with an entertaining description of the mining districts of that State, with twelve excellent illustrations by Rogers. The Right Reverend Arthur Cleveland Coxe contributes a poem entitled "The Drop-Star," an Indian legend of Lake Kayutah, in New York, which is beautifully illustrated by Reinhart.

The Editor's "Easy Chair" renders a graceful tribute to Oliver Wendell Holmes, apropos of his recent reception in Boston, and discusses, in a thoughtful essay, the reaction against Dickens due to that author's personal characteristics.

Puslinch Council.

The Council elect for the Township of Puslinch met according to Statutory appointment, at 11 o'clock a. m., Monday, January 19th, in the Council room, Aberfoyle. The members were all present, and having made and subscribed the declaration of qualification and of office took their seats in the following order: Messrs. Wm. Leslie, Reeve, in the chair; Wm. Nicoll, Deputy Reeve, Duncan McFarlane, John Iles and Wm. Black, Councillors. The minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed. Messrs. Thos. Billis, and Wm. Ross were appointed auditors. Robert McLeod and John Murray were erroneously charged $1 each for dog tax which was ordered to be remitted. On motion of Mr. Iles, seconded by Mr. Black, payments of the undernoted accounts was ordered: B. O'Connor, for repairing road scraper, $1.25; Thomas Willoughby, for culvert on sideline between lots 6 and 7, in the 9th con., $5; S. Falconbridge, for his service as treasurer of the rates imposed and collected under by-law for the Public Schools of the municipality, $24; Rowsell & Hutchinson' for blank stationery, $10.63, and Municipal election expenses for 1880, $30.70. On motion of Mr. McFarlane, seconded by Mr. Nicoll, ordered, that the minutes of the Council and the Auditor's statement for the current year be published in pamphlets, for distribution at the close of the year, the printing thereof to be let by tender. Applications for the offices of Assessor and Collector will be received by the Clerk until next meeting of Council. The Council adjourned to meet again on Monday, Feb. 2nd, at 10 o'clock a.m.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

SMOKERS,

I will unhesitatingly guarantee my

Gold Flake Cut Plug

to be he BEST SMOKING TOBACCO in CANADA.

It is made by a new and original process hrough which the rank nicotine is extracted and the sweet Aroma and Natural Flavor are retained. It is made from pure sun-cured, Bright Virginia Leaf, without the aid of coloring or injurious compounds. It is cut ready for use and neatly packed in tin foil, in compact 4 ounce packages. It will keep in any climate and will not burn the tongue

As dealers are slow to take hold of a new thing, however much its merit, until there is a demand for it, I have determined to place it directly within the reach of all. For the next ninety days, where it cannot be obtained of local dealers, I will send two sample packages (4 oz. each) post paid, to any address, on receipt of 50 cts. (postage stamps or currency.) All lovers of the pipe are invited to give it a trial.

BURNS ANNIVERSARY

A Grand Concert

Will be held in the Caledonian Rooms on

TUESDAY, 27th JANUARY, 1880.

THE MISSES WEMYSS HAVE been engaged. The press is unanimous in saying the Misses Wemyss are the finest delineators of Scottish Song that have ever been heard and surpassed by none.

In our national songs these ladies excel. They warble them with such admirable taste, feeling, and truth, as to unlock the sympathies of Scotch audiences, and elicit from them enthusiastic plaudits.—Dumfries Herald.

Their rendition of such pieces as "Dublin Bay," goes right to the heart of any audience, whilst the taste and feeling exhibited in "When ye gang awa Jamie," cannot fail to awaken the sympathies of Scotch listeners.—Pembroke Observer.

Robt. and Thos. Macmillan, the boy dancers of Toronto, who were so much admired in dancing the Highland Fling, Sword dance and Ghillie Callum at Caledonian Games have been engaged, and will appear in Highland costume in the above dances, to the music of Piper Smith.

The best local talent has also been secured. Tickets, 25 cents.

☞ Doors open at 7; concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

The Distress in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—At a meeting of the Mansion House Committee yesterday the Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Clonfert stated that the distress in his diocese was aggravated. Instant relief was required. He deprecated the restrictions of the Board of Works, under which very few people could obtain loans. The committee made grants for relief amounting to £18,400. It was intimated that £5,000 each would be granted in the five western counties.

A deputation was appointed to wait on the Lord Lieutenant and the Chief Secretary for Ireland, urging the Government to forthwith provide seed for the small farmers. The Corporation of Cork propose to ask at next meeting of the committee for a loan of $500,000 for carrying out extensive schemes of sewerage and paving, a large amount of additional employment being afforded by the Corporation and Harbour Board.

There are 4,000 unemployed labourers in Dublin. A deputation from them waited upon Mr. Lowther, Chief Secretary for Ireland, yesterday asked his influence in providing means of relief. Mr. Lowther expressed his sympathy, but could not see in what manner the Government could find them employment.

The London Tablet reaches the conclusion that in more than one third of the Poor Law Unions—chiefly those of the South and West—"exceptional distress" already exists, "and will, probably increase"; and that in these Unions at least 250,000 people whom the Poor Laws cannot relieve will be thrown upon the charity of the public. A very large proportion of the sufferers are small farmers, cottiers, agricultural labourers, etc., etc., occupying holdings of a quarter of an acre or more, whom the Poor Law Guardians are forbidden by statute to aid in any manner, "within or out of the workhouse."

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Circassian Arrived.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 24.—The Circassian with the weekly English mail, arrived at eight a.m.

Parnell's Reception in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 24.—The Irish societies are making preparations to give Parnell a grand reception here next month.

Irish Relief Fund.

A letter received by the Mayor of this city from the Lord Mayor of Dublin, asking for subscriptions for relief of distress in Ireland, was addressed to Montreal, Canada, and the United States.

From Toronto.

Frank Emilo, son of a barber in Toronto, has been missing since last Thursday week, and it is feared he has been drowned. He was seen crossing the ice on the bay on the evening of the day he was missed.

From Ottawa.

OTTAWA Jan. 24.—Notice is given that application will be made to the Parliament of Canada, at its next session for an act incorporating a company with power to construct a railway to be known as the Grand Valley and Souris River Railway, together with a telegraph line from a point on the Canada Pacific Railway, about 120 miles west of the city of Winnipeg, and south west to a point on the Souris River, known as Laroche Perce.

Says Alexander Dumas:—Brunettes deceive—blondes betray. Give money, but never lend it. Giving only makes a man ungrateful, lending it makes him an enemy. If men would spend in doing good to others a quarter of the money they spend in doing harm to themselves, misery would vanish from the earth. Man was created to utilize everything—even sorrow. A woman's venality is the punishment of the man that buys her. The only thing I am astonished at is that people are astonished at anything.

A demand is being made in Montreal for assistance to settle poor and idle citizens on the public lands. Many are anxious to leave the city, but are absolutely too poverty-stricken to get away.

We are now sending out our accounts for advertising and job work, and have to request that prompt payment be made.

Local News.

AT THE annual meeting of the Saugeen Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Mr. H. L. Drake, late of Guelph, was reappointed Manager and Secretary.

THE Prentice Boys held a dance in St. George's Hall last night. There were about thirty couple present. McLaren's quadrille band furnished the music.

REV. MR. HARRIS is still in a very low condition, but the doctors pronounce him on the mend. Arrangements have been made for the services in his church to-morrow.

MR. JOHN HOBSON has purchased ten acres of wood land adjoining his own property, from R. Devitt, for $83 an acre. This, he considers, will be a valuable acquisition to his farm.

QUITTING advertising in dull times is like pulling down a dam when the water is low. When trade revives, it will rush by him who does not stay it with ready customers. The way to have such always on hand is thorough advertising.

THE GOW CUP.—Mr. A. Congalton skipped by Mr. A. Bruce, and Mr. Walter Grierson, skipped by Mr. Jas. Emslie, played for the Gow Cup yesterday afternoon with the following result:—A. Congalton, 17; W. Grierson, 13. Time—two hours and twenty minutes.

CANADIAN HORSES.—There seems to be a great demand for our heavy draught horses at the present time in the States. There was a car load shipped yesterday, and Mr. S. B. Keppling, of Pennsylvania who arrived yesterday, and has his stables at Palmers' livery barn, expects to be able to ship another car load on Friday.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.—About half-past eleven o'clock while a train was standing on the Huskisson street crossing, and in the act of coupling up, a man attempted to cross, and in so doing fell. He recovered himself just in time to get out of the way before the train was in motion. Had he been half a second later his doom was sealed. The train only took half a minute to pass. It is strange people will jeopardize their lives on the most trifling occasion for the sake of two or three seconds of time.

THIS MORNING, about 12.30 o'clock, policeman Crooks heard a crash of glass on Quebec street, and in proceeding in the direction of the sound, he found that it was one of the windows of Mr. Orr's oyster saloon and saw two men running away from the place. He immediately gave chase, captured them and brought them back. When Mr. Orr was consulted in regard to the matter, the men explained that the breaking of the window was purely accidental, on consideration of which they were let go, having to pay for the glass.

THE GEORGIA MINSTRELS.—The Norwich Monarch says: Sprague's Original Georgia Minstrels played in Breed Hall to a rousing audience last evening, under the management of Andrew & Harris of this city. The grand drawing-room entertainment is without a parallel in the history of minstrel troupes in this place. The solos were fine, and the jokes new and sharp. The great Georgian Song and Dance team is unequalled. Layton's genius in the manipulation of the banjo is beyond comparison. James Bland is the blandest Ethiopian lecturer in the business. The clog-dancing half dozen were a splendid team: and the concluding piece "Calling Day," was the most laughable thing ever rendered here. They were enthusiastically applauded and received many well merited encores. They are assured of an old fashioned audience whenever they put in an appearance in this place.

ALLEGED FALSE PRETENCES.—Chief of Police Klippert, of Berlin, on Friday arrived in Toronto in search of one J. B. Burke, alias R. J. Macdonald, who is wanted at Berlin to answer a charge of having obtained $36 from Peter H. Good, a merchant of that town, by false pretences. Burke is an agent for disinfectants, and negotiated a sale with Mr. Good to the amount named. Mr. Good paid him the money, and alleges that Burke failed to carry out his contract, hence the information against him. Mr. Klippert and Detective Burrows made a tour of the city in the evening, and found the disinfectant man at the Russell House. He was lodged in the Central Station.

PARLOR CONCERT.—The parlor concert given by Bros. Penfold and Hayward, of the Good Templars, was held in the hall of the Association on Friday evening, and proved a success in every respect. The room presented an inviting appearance, and the walls were decked with handsome pictures, around which evergreens were entwined. Parlor amusements of every kind were the order of the evening among which were carpet balls, parlor croquet, parlor quoits, checkers, chess, &c. These were kindly furnished by the members of the Order. Later on in the evening refreshments were handed around, which received their due share of attention. Bros. Penfold and Hayward have just reason to congratulate themselves on the success of the entertainment.

MR. CHARLES SHARPE has solicited Sheriff Gow to allow the prisoners in the gaol to pick peas for him.

THERE is a fine display of the newest style of crockery exhibited in John A. Wood's lower store.

ISAAC MILLS, who was arrested a few days ago, and remanded, for keeping a disorderly house on Waterloo street, will appear before the Police Magistrate on Monday.

THE MARKET.—There was a large market to-day, and the following are the principal quotations:—Oats, 34 to 35c; wheat, $1 to $1 20; barley, 50 to 57c; peas, 58 to 66c; pork, $5 50 to $5 75; rye, 70c; hides, $7 to $7 50.

NOTHING before the Police Court to-day. It has been said that Police Clerk Richardson is going to take advantage of the lull in his department and skip the Guelph curlers against the Toronto team in Brampton.

REV. DR. WARDROPE of this city will preach the anniversary sermons in the Norval Presbyterian Church to-morrow. He will also deliver an address in the same church, at the annual soiree on Monday night.

ZION CHAPEL.—A sleighing party and social will be held in connection with Zion Chapel, on Thursday evening. The party will leave the church at six o'clock, and proceed to the residence of Mr. Geo. Elliott, Paisley Block.

SALE OF PROPERTY.—Mr. Jas. Taylor sold to-day, at the City Hall, a 100 acre farm in Eramosa, known as the "French farm," to John Leslie, for $3,050. This was an exceedingly good sale. There was a large number present at the sale.

DRIVING THINGS AHEAD.—Such is the title of an advertisement sent to us too late for to-day by John Hogg & Son, which will appear on Monday. Mr. D. Hogg sails to-day by the Sardinian for the Old Country markets, and a cheap sale is announced to begin on Monday at the store of this firm.

NORFOLK STREET CHURCH.—An entertainment was given to the children of this congregation in the church on Friday evening. There was a large turn out of the young folks, accompanied in many instances by their parents and friends. A pleasant and sociable evening was spent, and addresses suitable for the occasion were delivered by several members of the congregation.

THE Galt Reformer in respect to the good offer contained in our columns the other day has the following:—"A good offer:—There is at least one gentleman in Guelph who is enterprising. He offers to give two good corner lots near the G. W. station to any company of citizens who will erect thereon a Malleable Iron Foundry, and at the end of five years to convey the same to the company or individual who may be running the foundry. The offer is certain to attract attention."

THE Cobourg World says:—"Somebody who could invent a system providing for more than seven nights in the week could make a little fortune, just now, in Cobourg. We don't know how many societies and things are waiting to get just one clear night in which to favor the inhabitants of this town with an entertainment,—at the usual figure for admission." We just want the same thing in Guelph. Who will be the lucky man?

WANTED A THREE CENT STAMP.—Somebody from the country, it is supposed, went into one of the city bookstores yesterday for the purpose of procuring a three cent stamp. The proprietor had'nt one in stock, but offered a 2c and a 1c or three 1's as an equivalent. The purchaser could not be convinced that the proffered stamps would answer, and finally went away half in a rage remarking "that he be gol hanged if he was going to send a letter to his Amelia all stuck up with postage stamps when a three center would do." He went to some other place.

CALEDONIAN CONCERT.—The committee of management are making active preparations for the celebration of Burns' anniversay on the 27th instant. In addition to procuring the services of the Misses Wemyss, they have also secured that of Mr. Stewart, of Milton, who is a celebrated Scottish vocalist. Addresses by Chief Massie, M. P. P., and D. Guthrie, M. P. will be delivered. In speaking of the Misses Wemyss, the Napanee Express says:—"The singing of these ladies was most artistic, and drew forth enthusiastic plaudits. We hope they will favor us with a second visit.—Napanee Express.

KNOX CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary services will be preached in Knox Church, to-morrow, by Rev. P. McLeod, of Stratford. Mr. McLeod's eminence as a preacher guarantees a rare treat to those who may attend these services. A special collection will be taken up morning and evening. On Monday evening the ladies of the congregation will give a soiree. The meeting on Monday will be addressed by Revs. Messrs. McLeod Mullan, of Fergus, and McPherson, of Nassagaweya. The choir under the leadership of Mr H Walker, will furnish suitable music for the occasion. The choir have been practising for some time. Miss Cossitt, Mrs. Elderkin, and Mr. Philp will assist.

The Distress in Ireland.

There were a large number of sympathisers with the distressed in Ireland assembled at the Albion Hotel on Friday night to discuss measures to be taken to aid in their relief.

Mr. P. Mahon occupied the chair, and Mr. John Murphy was appointed Secretary.

It was decided to send a reqesition to the Mayor to call a public meeting on Wednesday evening, the 28th inst, and a committee composed of the chairman, Messrs. J. C. Chadwick, Higinbotham, E. O'Connor, Bond, Heffernan, Dunbar, Doran, McEldery, Murphy (Mount Tara), Dr. Nunan, J. L. Murphy, was appointed to attend to all necessary arrangements in connection with the meeting.

It was also decided to invite Mr. Peter O'Leary, formerly emigration agent, and who was lately in Ireland, to address the meeting.

It was agreed to hold a meeting of the Committee on Monday night at the Albion.

The meeting then adjourned.

A RARITY.—Mr. Fairley has supplied Mr. Robt. Murray with some excellent rhubarb, which is rather a novelty at this season of the year.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan. 23.

A number of petitions were presented and a number of bills introduced.

Mr. Robertson asked whether it is the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce any measure in reference to sanitary reform, and to further improve the means at present adopted for obtaining reliable vital statistics for the Province.

Mr. Mowat replied in the negative.

Mr. Hawley moved for an Address to the Lieut.-Governor praying that he will cause to be laid before this House a return of the report of the Commission appointed by the Government to investigate into the financial affairs of the united counties of Lennox and Addington, together with evidence taken at said investigation by such Commission. He said that a general impression prevailed in Lennox and Addington that the financial affairs of the united counties were in a very bad state.

Mr. Mowat moved for the appointment of a committee to consider and report upon suggested amendments to the Municipal Act. He stated that in appointing this Committee the Government did not shirk any of its responsibilities, but held themselves quite at liberty to act as they saw fit with regard to reports made by this Committee. Carried.

Mr Ross, in moving the second reading of his Bill to amend the Municipal Act, explained that it was intended to meet a change made last session. By the Municipal Act all municipal debenture by-laws had to state a certain rate for interest and sinking fund, but last session it was enacted that a certain sum should be stated to be set aside for this purpose. Some municipalities had passed by-laws since that time under the old Act, and such were now illegal. His Bill was intended to legalize such by-laws.

The Bill was referred to the Committee on Municipal Amendments.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

For the young and aged, and the infirm, SANFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER.

Hon. Edward Blake has been given the seat in the Commons formerly occupied by Mr. Burk, but will likely come to the front when Parliament meets.

A severe earthquake shock was felt in Cuba on Thursday night, and it is supposed that there has been a heavy earthquake somewhere in Central America.

The Manchester Guardian says:—"Canada is setting our more important colonies an excellent example. The Dominion Government, it is announced, have ordered twelve Palliser 64 pounder guns, with the intention of arming a certain number of ocean going Canadian steamers This is a gratifying instance of self-help in a matter of much importance both to the dependency itself and to the Empire at large.

The first business of Parliament at the coming session, after the ordinary routine programme, will likely be the voting of a subsidy to a line of steamers running between Canada and British Columbia, the Isthmus of Panama being the connecting point.

The Chicago & Northwestern is building fifteen new coaches at its Chicago shops. They will be most attractively built and will rest upon "paper" wheels.

The venerable Dr. Ryerson, since being relieved of the cares of office, has regained a full measure of health, and is now as hale and hearty as he was twenty years ago.

Several emigrants now at the sheds in Toronto are in destitute circumstances and on the verge of starvation.

Mr. McKay, later cashier at the Toronto Custom House, has taken up his residence at Buffalo. Meantime, the accounts of the suspended Collector have been thoroughly investigated, but nothing further than the original deficiency of $20,000 has been unearthed.

Governor Blackburn, of Kentucky, on Friday pardoned eighty-seven convicts in the State Penitentiary, the institution being unhealthy and overcrowded.

The Reformer says:—At the Indianapolis (Ind.) poultry show, held last week, Mr. Richard McMillan, of Galt, met with the success which has attended all his exhibitions of Black Spanish fowls in the United States. He carried off four first prizes, being all the prizes offered in that variety.

At the first meeting of the West Garafraxa Council, Mr. Matthew Anderson, the recently elected Reeve, presided.

Formation of Character.

We have been asked to give the following synopsis of the very interesting and instructive lecture delivered last Monday night, and would specially commend it to the attention of the young:

Rev. Mr. Boyle, of Brampton, who is a graceful and fluent speaker, delivered a most instructive lecture in the Primitive Church, on Monday evening, 19th inst., as announced in the MERCURY. On coming forward he at once entered on his theme, and spoke as follows:—The subject itself is most grand and dignified, its power and influence stand forth as the distinguishing quality of life, by which impressions are made on our fellows. We may know our character, others may know it. Character is one thing, reputation is quite another. The former is what we really are, the other what the public say concerning us. It follows us all along the line of life. It is that strange thing that goes before, making life grand and effective for good or the reverse. Character cannot be substituted by talent, wealth or position, social or civil. It cannot be purchased or inherited, no one ever left to another ten thousand dollars worth of character. What a man is depends much on his ancestors; the influence of father and mother cannot be lost, and to know the character of the parents, look at the children, a more accurate test cannot in general be given anywhere else. The physical and moral character to a large extent depends upon the father and mother. Parents therefore should be abstemious, virtuous, moral and holy; yet character cannot be attributed entirely to the parents, but its tendency is to make the child better. We cannot put on character like a suit of clothes, but it comes little by little as a building is erected brick after brick, until the top stone is laid on, first the babe, youth, man and full grown man. Whatever is worth much in literature, science, commerce or trade, in proportion to the price paid, with equal tenacity we hold on to it. Character is a life object, a price must be given, by paying the price we may possess it. Society is mainly composed of three classes of character.

First. The useless. These are found in all the walks of life, they are scattered everywhere, on change, in the professions, in trade, mechanics, arts, they meet you in the halls of legislature, in seminaries of learning, in the sacred desk, in all the developments of human labour, and they amount to nothing; like water without moisture, sun without light, the body without a soul, they often dress neatly, and not unfrequently live to a comparative good age, at Pa's and Ma's expense, eating and drinking the food of other men. See, said the speaker, young men and women that you do not belong to this class. There is something for you to do, keep in mind some worthy object and tax your energies to the fullest tension to accomplish it, and God will help you.

Second. The injurious class. They are exceedingly numerous in the garden of life, seen any time on the highways and byways of life. The midnight incendiary, the robber, and murderer; the habitual loafer and tramp, always on the move and ever desirous of your help to reach the next town; a restless, worthless leech existing on the charity of the useful class. You may meet him too carefully got up in collars and cuffs, puffing his cigar and entering the saloon. The cigar, the lecturer continued, leads to tobacco, and is injurious, useless waste. What father, worth the name, ever taught his child to smoke? No! He knows it is useless and injurious, and will not teach his son the habit. Our organization is so perfect and complete, and will not perform its functions if interfered with by collateral operations. By destroying the saliva of the stomach you interrupt the work of nature. Try to eat or swallow without this moisture, you cannot do it. The mucous membrane of the stomach needs assistance. Destroy the saliva, the result is dispepsia, from which arizes many troublesome diseases. Smoking is injurious, and has a tendency to send men much earlier to their graves. The practice is filthy and debasing, and make it exceedingly objectionable and offensive and quite intolerable to others; tobacco being a narcotic it acts upon the nervous system and has the same effect as alcohol, it creates an appetite for more, the cigar leads to tobacco, then drink and the saloon; young man, if you have began the habit and if you now dread intemperance, give up the cigar and pipe. Nip evil in the bud; God has sent us here to set a worthy example before all. History shows tobacco to be associated with drink, degradation and ruin. These things are not pleasant to utter, but as a minister he must say them or palsied be his tongue if he refused to discharge this duty. The speaker was glad to say that our young need not this warning. We live in a land where such a thing is hooted down and despised by society, they stand high above such unseemly habits, and thinking woman, a woman of intelligence, will never smoke or drink.

Third. The useful character is every day laying the world under increased duty to him, he is always doing something beneficial to society and the world at large. How pleasant for one to know he belongs to the useful part of the community, such as are found in our Sunday Schools. Among benevolent societies, whose aim is to assist and encourage the less fortunate, the poor and needy, they build our churches, asylums, orphan homes and kindred institutions, walk the hospitals at dead of night, if needs be, relieving the distressed, soothing and comforting the bodies and souls of the sick and dying, their names remembered with love and gratitude long after their departure. Character is better than silver or gold, the time comes when these cannot go with us, but character will be everything and will admit us to heaven. There are several types of the useful character, there is the morose kind, who carry much of the graveyard with him, always snapping and growling, nobody cares much for his company. Then there is the cheerful kind, the tendency of the mind is to look at the dark side of things, you must fight against this. Dr. Johnson says, we have to a great extent the shaping of our destiny, our disposition and character, much good comes to us in trying to do what we ought to do, try to be and make others happy. "Kind words can never die." Then we have the niggardly type, a personal instance was given by the speaker; he was just sent to a new station among his hearers. Mr. A. was a most attentive member, using eyes, ears and mouth to catch his sermons. At the conclusion of the first service. Mr. A. greeted him with evident tokens of pleasure and satisfaction, asking when he would be at home, as he wished to make him a present. A day was stated, but Mr. A. did not make his appearance. The preacher continued to be the recipient of these promises and kind expressions nearly every time he visited and preached at that appointment for the space of about four months, finally Mr. A. received the promise in the magnificent gift of thirteen eggs. Mr. A. was a bachelor member of his congregation. He would recommend the young women to find out the real character of a young man before she committed herself. The generous type, an example was also given from real life. He (Mr. Boyle) called upon a gentleman for a subscription of five dollars, Mr. S. said he would not give it, Mr. B. said he must give him five dollars, but was again frankly denied. Mr. B. then pleaded for two dollars and a half, this was also refused, suddenly the banter terminated by Mr. S. handing ten dollars. He was a generous man.

In a store one day he heard a woman whom he well knew, talking with a clerk and making a statement he knew to be false, he kindly corrected and convinced the woman of the falsity of her statement, and on leaving the shop, she shook hands and thanked him and put a gold coin into his hand in return. That woman belonged to the generous type. All around in this beautiful world the various forms of life and beauty are always giving out. The sun, the earth, all nature is generous, and above all God is ever giving, by which we survive and enjoy life.

There is a time and place, when character is consolidated, at home and at school. Parents at home set before your children an example worthy of copying, curb your temper, never punish while angry, keep to your work, and mean what you say, before them (and everywhere) be truthful, virtuous, honest. Be careful of the school you commit them to; know the character of the teacher. The speaker held that as a whole our common school system is equal in morality and efficiency to any in the world. Great advantages are in reach of the young. A good education may generally be secured at the common school. Young men and women, you must be indomitable in your purpose. You will be tempted to enter the rum shop and other places of ill repute. Guard against them and crucify all evil propensities, and God will say well done. A useful character is superior to the possessions of large estates. To the value of crowns, with the dying and death, these have to stand aside to character. If any of you are in the habit of visiting the tavern, give it up, stop at the door, abandon the dreadful place and fiend alcohol, and God will give you grace to act your part aright. The last type of character he should name is that of the Christian, who is serving God and his fellowmen in sincerity, and in truth. The Christian gentleman is the highest type of man.

Aid to Railways.

It is quite evident that the railway fever has in no way abated in Ontario. Although the Government have for the past eight years granted subsidies to many railway enterprises, which were carried into parts of the country not hitherto provided with railway accommodation, or which opened up new and fertile tracks for settlement, yet a host of new schemes keep cropping up, which are designed to benefit some particular portion of the Province, and their promoters are almost daily knocking at the door of our Legislature for monetary assistance. There is no doubt that some of these schemes are good, while at the same time some are of a very indifferent character, and some are positively bad, because they are unnatural and unnecessary competitors to similar enterprises which, without any competition, are struggling to keep in existence, to say nothing of paying a decent dividend on the money invested in them.

The Mowat Government has been remarkably liberal in granting aid to railways, and so long as they adhered to the principle of giving assistance only to those enterprises which were designed to open up new sections of the Province for settlement, or afford means of communication for those sections that lay outside of the range of railway travel. they did perfectly right, and their subsidies received the all but unanimous sanction of the people. But they erred when through outside and immoral pressure they gave way, and granted aid to lines which were for the ordinary requirements of business not required, and which by virtue of their position, and the locality through which they run, are positively antagonistic to old and established lines, and come in daily competition with them. The consequence is that both are crippled, and that what was barely a living for one road is divided between two and does neither any good.

We are prompted to write in this strain from the fact that several applications have lately been made to the Government by well drilled and influential deputations, who are humbly begging for aid to divers railway enterprises, which are not required, which can in any sense only be called competitors to existing lines, and which are the creation of those who have run mad on railway enterprise, and who affect to believe the ultimate possibility of building a railway to every farmer's door.

The Government and the Legislature must guard against encouraging all these wild and immature schemes. We have, it is true, a decent surplus yet on hand, but if we are to fritter it away on all sorts of wild-cat railway schemes, and in addition to put up new Parliament buildings, we will find that our nest-egg has gone, that the treasury is depleted, and that we have nothing to show for the money expended in these later railway enterprises but a few bastard lines which run nowhere in particular, which were never wanted but as cut throats to more worthy enterprises, and which in the end will collapse in wreck and ruin. If the Government, therefore, is wise in time it will be extremely cautious in its encouragement of all such enterprises, and the tighter it keeps the purse strings so much the better will it be in the end for the Province, and even for those sections of the Province which are now, without due thought, clamouring for aid to railway enterprises which are not wanted.

The new periodical is Canadian Independence from first to last.

It seems that Mr. Costigan, M. P., is about to come to Ontario, to run for some constituency, doubtless with a view of getting into the Cabinet. At the dinner given him in Fredericton he is reported to have alluded to "the undue haste of the political aspirants to the seat he was about to vacate in order to run for a constituency in Ontario."

The Ottawa Free Press of Friday says editorially:—"There is a good deal of curiosity in certain quarters as to the cause of Sir Alexander Galt's delaying to take up the appointment of Canadian Minister resident in England. Some say he will not go until the Finance Minister has brought down his budget, while others with a considerable show of knowledge whisper soto voce that he remains at the special request of Sir John, upon whom the cares of office fall heavily, who shows signs of wearing, and who, sooner than some people have been led to expect, may retire on his laurels and leave the business of government to younger and physically stronger men. We are in no position to vouch for these statements, but we believe we are correct in saying that Sir John's health at this moment is by no means satisfactory, and that it is quite possible but a short time will elapse before he will decide on relinquishing political life."

Mr. Compton, Dominion arbitrator, has been engaged during the last few days in hearing evidence in the case of Barnard v. the Queen, a claim by Mr. Barnard, of British Columbia, for damages partly on account of construction and partly on account of the cancellation by the Government of his contract for the construction of the Pacific telegraph line from Kamloop to Edmonton. The claim amounts to $225,000.

That Wonderful Man

In balancing our books for the year ending 31st December, 1879, we cannot but express our sincere thanks to each and every person who has favored us with their patronage and influence.

The past year, but especially the Fall Season, has shown very gratifying results, which we attribute to the good judgment of our buyer, together with our old time custom of making our goods as low as possible; and as far as we can learn, not a single complaint has been made by our customers, but on the other hand, hundreds have assured us of the pleasure they have had in making selections from our large stock, thereby securing as good value as can be had in the Province.

As our business has shown such a marked increase during last season, and we expect for the coming season to make an additional show of prosperity, we can at this early date assure our customers and friends that no effort will be spared to make the Wonderful Man's store second to none in Canada.

We placed orders for our supply of Cottons, etc., etc., early in December, and the rapidly advancing market in these goods confirmed our judgment in this instance.

OUR BUYER,

David H. Hogg, leaves for the European Markets on Thursday, 22nd instant, to make purchases for the spring trade.

SPECIAL.

We will offer until further notice, all qualities in White and Grey Cottons at old prices, and the balance of our stock in Dress Goods, Furs, etc., will be submitted at market reductions.

NO DISCOUNTS but always Straight Prices at the Wonderful Man's Store.

WE REGULATE THE PRICES.

OVER THE TAY.

A'down the s'uaries, gloomy shore
The wild wind's thunder raves,
By slumb'ring castles, cot, and moor,
Resound the hissing waves.

And by the sheltered Dundee docks
The river rushing swirls;
The pier-guards tremble 'neath the shocks,
The water winds and curls.

And o'er the scalloped arches stretch
The lights in ghastly glow;
Their gray beams glimmer thro' the reach
Of whirling night below.

Out from the north the swift train speeds,
Her head light gleaming bright;
She follows where the driver leads,
And cleaves the stormy night.

Fearless, she flings the murky shore
Behind her flying wheels;
The savage winds exulting roar,
The staunch bridge sways and reels.

Shot thro' the yawning chasm, dire
She plunges, and no sign.
But watchers see a stream of fire,
Across the waters shine.

But when the roseate hands of morn
Fling streamers of the day,
The mighty arches, jagged and torn,
Frown on the sullen Tay,

And there the sunlight lifts its gold
On tips of crested waves,
That smiles and ripple as they hold
Their secret tale of graves.

And years will come, and years will go.
And hearts will waiting be
For faces, that the ebb and flow
Swept outward to the sea.

A St. Louis, Mo., despatch of the 19th inst., says:—"An extraordinary gathering, from various States, is present tonight at Hursh's Hotel, in this city. This gathering is made up of the heirs, or supposed heirs, of the famous Springer estate. The Springer estate is held vaguely to be worth $800,000,000, and to consist of the sum of £175,000 deposited in the Bank of Stockholm by Baron Charles Christiensen Springer, in the year 1670, and of the site of the present City of Wilmington, Del. The Swedish Baronet, it is alleged, deposited the money in the bank and bequeathed it to his heirs in North America, which heirs at that time had already obtained possession of 800 acres of land where Wilmington Del., stands, having come to this country on an expedition sent out by the Baron. Mr. M. Springer, M.P.P., for North Waterloo is one of the claimants.

CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE — THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

The calmness and perfect composure with which Mr. Bishop sat awaiting his communication added considerably to Orwell's irritated feelings, and, brushing back his hair from his hot brow, he said, in an angry tone—

"You called at the Grange yesterday?"

"I did, and found you—not within."

"After which you paid a visit to Mrs. Borland?"

"Quite true," returned the lawyer, with a smile. "You seem to have obtained a minute and accurate knowledge of my movements?"

"And also of the remarks you made to Mrs. Borland."

"Oh, then you have become acquainted with a good deal of my 'walk and conversation, yesterday," said Mr. Bishop, with another smile.

"Which may disconcert, but can scarcely surprise you, seeing they so nearly concerned me."

"Do I look like a man either surprised or disconcerted." I thought you knew well enough to understand that I am not likely to say or do anything calculated to produce these feelings at an after period. If Mrs. Borland has given you a correct report of our conversation—and I have not the slightest doubt of it, for she is a woman of sterling character—there is not a word of what I said which I am unwilling you should know."

"I have not seen Mrs. Borland, consequently have had no report from her, and not in a direct form from any one. It was from what Agnes said this afternoon that I inferred your visit to the cottage, and what took place. To come to the point at once, Mr. Bishop, why have you interfered to prevent my marriage with Agnes Borland?"

"Because I considered it my duty to do so—though, let me say, this is the first information that I have that the action I took amounted to interference. I had reason to suspect that the intercourse between you and Agnes was becoming too tender in its character for the after-peace of mind of both, and it was in the interests of both that I spoke to Mrs. Borland!"

"The interests of both," repeated Orwell, in a tone in which his listener detected irony. "Was it serving our interests to make us both miserable as you have done?"

"Yes if the misery to which you refer has prevented a greater evil. Come, Orwell, we have always been perfectly frank with each other, and I trust we shall be so now. Though I am no longer your guardian and have no legal control over you, our former relations give me a moral right to exercise my judgment on your behalf. If what I have done prevented you from marrying Agnes Borland I am glad that I did it, though my intention did not reach so far. I did not know your affection had become strong enough to take shape in your mind, but I thought it was tending to an undesirable point, and my purpose was to prevent that. Have matters then gone so far? Had you really formed the idea of making Agnes Borland your wife?"

"Yes, all my hopes of earthly happiness were centred in her. I love her with my whole soul. I knew she returned my love and this afternoon in the Birch Dell I asked her how soon our marriage could take place."

"Good gracious! I had no idea the thing had got to such a length. The warning ought to have been given sooner, perhaps years ago. I doubt I have been to blame. I might have forseen such a result and not allowed you and Agnes to associate as you have done. I can excuse myself on the ground that such a matter is quite out of my way.

"But where was the necessity for any preventive measures?" asked Orwell. "No doubt had Agnes been vulgar and uneducated it would not have been right to allow us to associate as we have done, but she is as good as she is beautiful; in education, refinement, and ladylike accomplishments she is equal to my own sister, therefore my equal as much as any girl in the country."

"Except in one respect," said the lawyer, gravely.

"Except in respect of birth you would say; but what does that signify?"

"It signifies everything. Agnes is all that you say, and had she been your equal socially I should have most heartily approved of the marriage; but nothing can alter the facts that she is the daughter of your father's gardener, and that poverty as well as low birth combine to make her unfit to be your wife."

"Poverty and low birth!" echoed Orwell, scornfully." Are these accidental and external matters to outweigh the higher, the essential things which make her my equal—nay, which place her above me, for in heart and soul Agnes is purer and nobler than I am. Are your ideas so world-bound, Mr. Bishop, as to place birth and wealth before love and mental and moral suitability?"

"Well—not as a rule. To be candid with you, Orwell, I do not set much store by money and rank, when these are put in the scale, against the qualities you mention. Taken in the abstract they kick the beam in my estimation. But in your case the conventional rule must apply and worldly notions prevail. Placed as you are, a young man without parents or guardians, the owner of an estate, the head and representative of a good family, such a marriage as this would be a positive calamity, and involve you in a social ruin which would embrace all connected. Your own judgment, warped by the affection you cherish, may not be able to see this, but I see it very clearly, and Mrs. Borland saw it the moment I opened the subject to her."

"Yes, and through you and her mother Agnes has been imbued with the same ideas," cried Orwell bitterly. "She confesses that she loves me, yet firmly refuses to become my wife."

"Noble girl," exclaimed the lawyer. "She inherits her father's integrity and her mother's virtue. I am sorry, Orwell, sincerely sorry for the pain you must both suffer in treading the path of duty, but be assured the course she has taken is for the best."

"It is not for the best," returned Orwell, with passionate intensity. "And if you knew what I know you would not say so. It frustrates my hopes and changes my purpose. I meant to stay at home, as you have often advised me, to discharge the duties of my station and enjoy those domestic pleasures which I had come to consider higher and purer than anything to be had in wandering about. Now, I must forego all that."

"Surely not," said the lawyer, earnestly. An energetic discharge of the responsible duties of life is the best antidote to this disappointment. I do hope, Orwell, you will adhere to your resolution to remain at the Grange."

"That is impossible under present circumstances. I can forget Agnes nowhere, but to see her every day would be constant agony to me and to her likewise. No, Bishop, in travel alone, in obscure and distracting occupations can I hope to make the disappointment in any degree tolerable. If it makes me more reckless than I have been you will know to what account the result is to be placed."

"Now, Orwell,—now, my dear boy, be persuaded to abandon this intention, and stick to the more manly one you had formed. I am very sure the course you have been following has not been good for you. I think you have been spending money extravagantly, and your health appears to have suffered a little. You are not so robust nor so fresh colored as you used to be. I also noticed what I thought an anxious expression on your face when you arrived a week ago."

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

OUR GREAT DISCOUNT

CLOTHING SALE

Will be continued until further notice. Stacks of Clothing have been sold. Customers are pleased, we are pleased, and the only ones not pleased are competitors who growl and grumble about that "awful discount."

20 Per Cent RETURNED IN CASH

"AYE, THERE'S THE RUB!"

Well, we never expect to please rivals—in fact we never try. Our Customers' good will, and feeling that they can buy from us to better advantage than anywhere else, are of far more importance to us.

BESIDES A REDUCTION IN PRICES

WE GIVE BACK $2 OUT OF $10.

Everybody knows what that means. It is easy enough to make loud pretensions of selling cheap, but facts tell better than pretentions. Mark this: All our clothing is marked in plain figures, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent., and make no second price. These are facts. If you want

BEAVER OVERCOATS,

NAP ULSTERS,

WEDDING SUITS,

BUSINESS SUITS,

Or a first-class Garment of any kind come straight to the Lion and take advantage of the Discount.

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buys at the right time. Come to the Lion.

SWEEPING UP THE TRADE.

Busy, Busy, Busy, Always Busy.

Every man at the Fashionable West End on the jump from the morning until night.

REAL SWISS EMBROIDERIES.

After some little negotiations we have just succeeded in closing a rare purchase of lovely new Swiss Embroideries, in handsome medium and wide widths, at a very low figure, and purpose at once submitting them to our customers for sale.

This purchase comprises somewhat in the neighborhood of 3,000 yards all new, handsome and lovely patterns, and having been bought away down below anything like regular prices, will at the prices we shall put upon them disappear from our counter rapidly. We fully expect that ten days will clear the lot, so that intending purchasers will have to look lively.

The like of these goods will probably never be seen again in Canada.

We may just say, too, in connection with these goods that the latest spring and summer fashions indicate that White Skirts, handsomely trimmed with embroidery, will be all the rage. This will therefore present to the ladies of Guelph a favorable opportunity of purchasing the right material almost at their own price.

ON THURSDAY MORNING,

at 10 o'clock, these goods will be to hand, and ladies will please bear in mind that those who come first will have the best choice.

ON THE SAME DAY WE SHALL SHOW

New White Cottons
New Swiss Checked Muslins,
New Hair Cord Musli
New Striped Lawns,
New French Cretons,
New Brocaded Ribbons.

A large job lot of Real French Ties, at 50 cents each, regularly sold every where at $1, $1.25 and $1.50.

Ladies of Guelph, the Fashionable West End is your establishment, and endeavours by every legitimate means to merit your patronage. Come to us.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The number of The Living Age for the week ending Jan. 24th, has the following noteworthy contents: The Functions of the Brain, by Dr. Julius Althaus; He that Will not when he May, by Mrs. Oliphant; Buddha's First Sermon; Bush-Life in Queensland; Adam and Eve, by the author of "Dorothy Fox," The Ticknor Library, Boston; Mandrin, a Desperado of the Last Century, translated for State Age from Small Talk, The Animal Heat of Fishes; Irresolution; A Feat in Triangulation, and the usual amount of choice poetry, etc.

Two serial stories above mentioned; one by Mrs. Oliphant, and the other by the author of "Dorothy Fox," have been recently begun, and the publishers present to new subscribers for 1880 the six numbers of 1879 which contain the opening chapters of both serials.

For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (for more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Lord Macaulay, after his elevation to the peerage, desirous to acquaint himself with the ballad literature of the day, bought a handful of songs from a street patterer in Seven Dials. It is said that, proceeding on his way home, he was astonished, on suddenly stopping, to find himself surrounded by half a dozen urchins, their faces beaming with expectation. "Now, then," said the historian, "what is it?" "Oh! that is a good un," replied the boys, "after we've a-come all this way." "But what are you waiting for?" said he, astonished at the lads' familiarity. "Waiting for? Why to hear you sing, to be sure!"

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission, to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. L. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. L. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE—THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

The calmness and perfect composure with which Mr. Bishop sat awaiting his communication added considerably to Orwell's irritated feelings, and, brushing back his hair from his hot brow, he said, in an angry tone—

"You called at the Grange yesterday?"

"I did, and found you—not within."

"After which you paid a visit to Mrs. Borland?"

"Quite true," returned the lawyer, with a smile. "You seem to have obtained a minute and accurate knowledge of my movements?"

"And also of the remarks you made to Mrs. Borland."

"Oh, then you have become acquainted with a good deal of my 'walk and conversation, yesterday," said Mr. Bishop, with another smile.

"Which may disconcert, but can scarcely surprise you, seeing they so nearly concerned me."

"Do I look like a man either surprised or disconcerted." I thought you knew well enough to understand that I am not likely to say or do anything calculated to produce these feelings at an after period. If Mrs. Borland has given you a correct report of our conversation—and I have not the slightest doubt of it, for she is a woman of sterling character—there is not a word of what I said which I am unwilling you should know."

"I have not seen Mrs. Borland, consequently have had no report from her, and not in a direct form from any one. It was from what Agnes said this afternoon that I inferred your visit to the cottage, and what took place. To come to the point at once, Mr. Bishop, why have you interfered to prevent my marriage with Agnes Borland?"

"Because I considered it my duty to do so—though, let me say, this is the first information that I have that the action I took amounted to interference. I had reason to suspect that the intercourse between you and Agnes was becoming too tender in its character for the after-peace of mind of both, and it was in the interests of both that I spoke to Mrs. Borland!"

"The interests of both," repeated Orwell, in a tone in which his listener detected irony. "Was it serving our interests to make us both miserable as you have done?"

"Yes if the misery to which you refer has prevented a greater evil. Come, Orwell, we have always been perfectly frank with each other, and I trust we shall be so now. Though I am no longer your guardian and have no legal control over you, our former relations give me a moral right to exercise my judgment on your behalf. If what I have done prevented you from marrying Agnes Borland I am glad that I did it, though my intention did not reach so far. I did not know your affection had become strong enough to take shape in your mind, but I thought it was tending to an undesirable point, and my purpose was to prevent that. Have matters then gone so far? Had you really formed the idea of making Agnes Borland your wife?"

"Yes, all my hopes of earthly happiness were centred in her. I love her with my whole soul. I knew she returned my love and this afternoon in the Birch Dell I asked her how soon our marriage could take place."

"Good gracious! I had no idea the thing had got to such a length. The warning ought to have been given sooner, perhaps years ago. I doubt I have been to blame. I might have forseen such a result and not allowed you and Agnes to associate as you have done. I can excuse myself on the ground that such a matter is quite out of my way.

"But where was the necessity for any preventive measures?" asked Orwell. "No doubt had Agnes been vulgar and uneducated it would not have been right to allow us to associate as we have done, but she is as good as she is beautiful; in education, refinement, and ladylike accomplishments she is equal to my own sister, therefore my equal as much as any girl in the country."

"Except in one respect," said the lawyer, gravely.

"Except in respect of birth you would say; but what does that signify?"

"It signifies everything. Agnes is all that you say, and had she been your equal socially I should have most heartily approved of the marriage; but nothing can alter the facts that she is the daughter of your father's gardener, and that poverty as well as low birth combine to make her unfit to be your wife."

"Poverty and low birth!" echoed Orwell, scornfully." Are these accidental and external matters to outweigh the higher, the essential things which make her my equal—nay, which place her above me, for in heart and soul Agnes is purer and nobler than I am. Are your ideas so world-bound, Mr. Bishop, as to place birth and wealth before love and mental and moral suitability?"

"Well—not as a rule. To be candid with you, Orwell, I do not set much store by money and rank, when these are put in the scale, against the qualities you mention. Taken in the abstract they kick the beam in my estimation. But in your case the conventional rule must apply and worldly notions prevail. Placed as you are, a young man without parents or guardians, the owner of an estate, the head and representative of a good family, such a marriage as this would be a positive calamity, and involve you in a social ruin which would embrace all connected. Your own judgment, warped by the affection you cherish, may not be able to see this, but I see it very clearly, and Mrs. Borland saw it the moment I opened the subject to her."

"Yes, and through you and her mother Agnes has been imbued with the same ideas," cried Orwell bitterly. "She confesses that she loves me, yet firmly refuses to become my wife."

"Noble girl," exclaimed the lawyer. "She inherits her father's integrity and her mother's virtue. I am sorry, Orwell, sincerely sorry for the pain you must both suffer in treading the path of duty, but be assured the course she has taken is for the best."

"It is not for the best," returned Orwell, with passionate intensity. "And if you knew what I know you would not say so. It frustrates my hopes and changes my purpose. I meant to stay at home, as you have often advised me, to discharge the duties of my station and enjoy those domestic pleasures which I had come to consider higher and purer than anything to be had in wandering about. Now, I must forego all that."

"Surely not," said the lawyer, earnestly. An energetic discharge of the responsible duties of life is the best antidote to this disappointment. I do hope, Orwell, you will adhere to your resolution to remain at the Grange."

"That is impossible under present circumstances. I can forget Agnes nowhere, but to see her every day would be constant agony to me and to her likewise. No, Bishop, in travel alone, in obscure and distracting occupations can I hope to make the disappointment in any degree tolerable. If it makes me more reckless than I have been you will know to what account the result is to be placed."

"Now, Orwell,—now, my dear boy, be persuaded to abandon this intention, and stick to the more manly one you had formed. I am very sure the course you have been following has not been good for you. I think you have been spending money extravagantly, and your health appears to have suffered a little. You are not so robust nor so fresh colored as you used to be. I also noticed what I thought an anxious expression on your face when you arrived a week ago."

BESIDES A REDUCTION IN PRICES

WE GIVE BACK $2 OUT OF $10.

Everybody knows what that means. It is easy enough to make loud pretensions of selling cheap, but facts tell better than pretentions. Mark this: All our clothing is marked in plain figures, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent., and make no second price. These are facts. If you want

BEAVER OVERCOATS,

NAP ULSTERS,

WEDDING SUITS,

BUSINESS SUITS,

Or a first-class Garment of any kind come straight to the Lion and take advantage of the Discount.

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buys at the right time. Come to the Lion.

REAL SWISS EMBROIDERIES.

After some little negotiations we have just succeeded in closing a rare purchase of lovely new Swiss Embroideries, in handsome medium and wide widths, at a very low figure, and purpose at once submitting them to our customers for sale.

This purchase comprises somewhat in the neighborhood of 3,000 yards all new, handsome and lovely patterns, and having been bought away down below anything like regular prices, will at the prices we shall put upon them disappear from our counter rapidly. We fully expect that ten days will clear the lot, so that intending purchasers will have to look lively.

The like of these goods will probably never be seen again in Canada.

We may just say, too, in connection with these goods that the latest spring and summer fashions indicate that White Skirts, handsomely trimmed with embroidery, will be all the rage. This will therefore present to the ladies of Guelph a favorable opportunity of purchasing the right material almost at their own price.

ON THURSDAY MORNING,

at 10 o'clock, these goods will be to hand, and ladies will please bear in mind that those who come first will have the best choice.

ON THE SAME DAY WE SHALL SHOW

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The number of The Living Age for the week ending Jan. 24th, has the following noteworthy contents: The Functions of the Brain, by Dr. Julius Althaus; He that Will not when he May, by Mrs. Oliphant; Buddha's First Sermon; Bush-Life in Queensland; Adam and Eve, by the author of "Dorothy Fox," The Ticknor Library, Boston; Mandrin, a Desperado of the Last Century, translated for State Age from Small Talk, The Animal Heat of Fishes; Irresolution; A Feat in Triangulation, and the usual amount of choice poetry, etc.

Two serial stories above mentioned; one by Mrs. Oliphant, and the other by the author of "Dorothy Fox," have been recently begun, and the publishers present to new subscribers for 1880 the six numbers of 1879 which contain the opening chapters of both serials.

For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (for more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Lord Macaulay, after his elevation to the peerage, desirous to acquaint himself with the ballad literature of the day, bought a handful of songs from a street patterer in Seven Dials. It is said that, proceeding on his way home, he was astonished, on suddenly stopping, to find himself surrounded by half a dozen urchins, their faces beaming with expectation. "Now, then," said the historian, "what is it?" "Oh! that is a good un," replied the boys, "after we've a-come all this way." "But what are you waiting for?" said he, astonished at the lads' familiarity. "Waiting for? Why to hear you sing, to be sure!"

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. H. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. A. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. D.; N. R. LYNCH, M. D., and M. R. O'CONNELL, M. D., faculty of the Philadelphia University of Medicine and Surgery; also the faculty of the American University of Philadelphia; also Hon. P. A. BISSELL, M. D., President of the National Medical Association.

Address Dr. W. H. PARKER, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass. The author may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. MTh

GUELPH TEA DEPOT

MESSRS O'DONNELL & Co.

THE PUBLIC WILL BE PLEASED to hear that the above firm, on Wednesday, November 5th, will open out a fine stock of fresh Teas, Coffees, Sugars, &c., in their new store, on Upper Wyndham Street opposite Ellis' American Hotel.

As they had a large stock of Teas purchased before the last rise in prices, they will be able to give bargains that cannot be got elsewhere.

Owing to their great experience in this special line, there is no doubt but they will monopolize a large portion of the tea trade of Guelph.

BURNS ANNIVERSARY

A Grand Concert

Will be held in the Caledonian Rooms on

TUESDAY, 27th JANUARY, 1880.

THE MISSES WEMYSS HAVE been engaged. The press is unanimous in saying the Misses Wemyss are the finest delineators of Scottish Song that have ever been heard and surpassed by none.

In our national songs these ladies excel. They warble them with such admirable taste, feeling, and truth, as to unlock the sympathies of Scotch audiences, and elicit from them enthusiastic plaudits.—Dumfries Herald.

Their rendition of such pieces as "Dublin Bay," goes right to the heart of any audience, whilst the taste and feeling exhibited in "When ye gang awa Jamie," cannot fail to awaken the sympathies of Scotch listeners.—Pembroke Observer.

Robt. and Thos. Macmillian, the boy dancers of Toronto, who were so much admired in dancing the Highland Fling, Sword dance and Ghillie Callum at Caledonian Games have been engaged, and will appear in Highland costume in the above dances, to the music of Piper Smith.

The best local talent has also been secured. Tickets, 25 cents.

The Distress in Ireland.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The Irish question is exciting less interest. The Queen at the opening of Parliament will propose a measure of relief for the distress, and the Daily Telegraph in an impassioned article reproaches England with its apathy and the paucity of its contributions. It says:

Every day brings near the dreadful time when the last morsel of food shall be eaten, and the cry of famine pregnant now shall rend the heavens, and death and disease shall stalk through the land. Ireland's fight for existence claims indulgence for her sedition while the upper classes live in luxury. The Irish farmers are slow to complain, and would rather hide their grief than parade it.

The Times, in another tone, says that nothing blunts the edge of charity so much as the agitation of the land question. Meanwhile Lady Burdett Coutts has despatched her commissioner to the distressed districts, and the Duke of Connaught is preparing to cross St. George's Channel and view the nakedness of the land.

The Lord Mayor of London states that $40,000 has already been distributed in Ireland out of $100,000 received, but this is a mere drop in the ocean of need. He fears a re-occurrence of the disaster of 1847, when abundant assistance was forthcoming, but too late to save life.

John Bright at Birmingham reverted to the Irish question at length, and urged the Government to take energetic action for the relief of the sufferers.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

Portugal and England are uniting for the suppression of the slave trade in the Mozambique Channel.

A St. Petersburg journal is advocating a policy of reconciliation with the Poles by placing them on the same footing as Russian subjects.

The Paris Temps, speaking of Parnell's visit to America, notes the Irish agitator's far sightedness in choosing for his visit the time immediately preceding a Presidental campaign, when Irish votes are at a premium.

A Vienna report says that the harmony of the Russian royal household has been disturbed, and that the Czarewich in making assiduous efforts to reconcile the Czar and Czarina.

The announcement of Lowell's appointment as Minister to England elicits general approval. Most of the English papers, the Times excepted, heartily welcome him.

All parties in England are now marshalling their forces preparatory to the meeting of Parliament. The Liberals propose a caucus to discuss the line of operations. A vigorous assault is to be made on the Government all along the line.

Theodore Martin's Life of the Prince Consort is now complete, and he has handed the proof sheets to the Queen.

The Viceroy of India has received instructions to put an end to Afghan executions, and it is known that Col. Baker, his secretary, is coming home in May.

At the Northamption Assizes a very heavy sentence has been imposed on a solicitor for breach of trust. The solicitor had embezzled £5,000 and was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Prince Leopold is to be made a Duke, and Lord Napier Field Marshal. The Order of the Garter has been conferred upon King Humbert of Italy.

TORORTO.

TORONTO, Jan. 25.—Fifteen hundred dollars has been subscribed in this city toward the Irish relief fund.

The Legislative Committee on Railways met to-day, when the chairman, Hon. Mr. Pardee, stated that since the previous meeting the Government had concluded to introduce a general bill fixing the proportion of ratepayers, which will be required in future in order to get railway bounses adopted, the clauses in the bill to incorporate the Port Rowan and Lake Shore Road relating to this matter was accordingly struck out.

PRESENTATION IN ERAMOSA.—A number of people of the First Presbyterian Church, Eramosa, assembled at the residence of Mr. John Johnson on Thursday evening last, and presented Miss Hannah Johnson with an address and gold watch, expressive of their appreciation of services rendered to the congregation by her for many years as a member of the church choir. The presentation was made by Mr. David Rea while Mr. Geo. Wood read the address, Mr. A. Johnson made a very suitable reply in behalf of the recipient. The visitors were treated to an excellent supper and afterwards made themselves happy with carpet balls, singing, &c., until they departed for their homes.

Local News.

THE Board of Education meets to-night.

COUNTY COUNCIL meets in the Court House at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

CATTLE FAIR.—A cattle fair will be held at the Junction hotel, on the Elora Road, on Tuesday, 3rd February, the same day as the Elora Fair.

OUR LADY'S CHURCH.—The services in this church were conducted by the Rev. Father McDonnell, in the absence of the Rev. Father Hamel, who left for Montreal last week.

THE ENGLISH MAILS.—The following changes have been made in the time of closing the English mails:—Monday, at 10.35 a. m., via New York; Wednesday, at 3.35 p. m., via Halifax.

THE GOW CUP.—A match was played on Saturday afternoon for the Gow cup, between M. Todd, directed by J. T. Nichols, and John Spaulding, directed by A. Congalton. Score—Tod, 21; Spaulding, 11.

S. S. ENTERTAINMENT.—The Norfolk-st. Congregational Sabbath School will hold their annual entertainment to-morrow evening, 27th inst. An excellent programme of vocal music, recitations, etc., has been prepared and will be given on the occasion, beginning at 7:30 sharp. d2

MR. W. T. SMITH, of Portage, Laprarie, Manitoba, who we stated a few days ago was in this neighborhood for the purpose of procuring machinery to start a saw mill there, has concluded to purchase machinery from Messrs. Thompson & Williams, of Stratford. He leaves here about the end of February.

GRIP'S ALMANAC.—We have received from Bengough Bros., Toronto, a copy of their first regular almanac. It is profusely decorated with comic illustrations throughout, and its pages contain a vast amount of original wit and humor, the perusal of which will well repay the reader, and beguile many a weary hour. The price is only 15 cents.

THE FORTE.—Such is the title of the new parlor amusement invented by Dr. Cowan of this city and patented in the United States and Canada, a description of which can be seen in our advertising columns. The Forte gives promise to become a favorite and popular parlor amusement, and can be engaged in by any number who may desire to play at the same time.

THE SERVICES in the Dublin st. church last night were of an interesting character. At the conclusion of the sermon the leaders of the church at the request of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Maxwell, formed themselves into a band of inquirers and went through the congregation, the choir remaining in their seats and rendering several choice pieces. Revival services are being continued all this week in the church.

HOW TO DANCE.—The Toronto News Company have sent us a little book bearing this title. It gives full directions for learning all kinds of dances from the most fashionable to the most common. It is also a guide to ball room stignette, toilets, and gives other useful information to dancers. It will be valuable to those who wish to get posted on dancing. Price 20 cents.

THIS IS FROM THE "HERALD."—"The Rev. Wm. Williams lectured on "Wait and You Will See" before the St. Andrew's Church Y. P. A., last evening. Mr. Williams is good on the platform." This is something new certainly. It is no doubt very convenient for the Herald man to write up his local news in the sanctum, but like Vennor, he is sometimes apt to go astray. When he is not very sure of what transpires at meetings such as the above, we would advise him to hum the matter up, or stick to the time honored rule of that paper, and await the MERCURY for the authenticity of its reports. Mr. Williams is no doubt "good on the platform," but we had not the same opportunity of his abilities as the Herald apparently had. It is hardly necessary to say that the lecture was postponed.

SCIENCE LECTURES.—Last evening Prof. Richards gave the first of a course of lectures of the "Wonders of Nature," to be delivered in Shaftesbury Hall. The subject for the evening was the "Wonders of the Atmosphere," and it was handled in a simple, yet masterly manner. The lecturer introduced a number of chemical illustrations, to witness which was alone worth the price of admission. Iron was proved to be more combustible than wood, and steel watch springs burned with a brilliancy almost painful to the eyes. A toy cannon was fired by the application of an icicle. A single kerosene burner was made to illuminate the entire hall, and an explosion of potassium turned a block of ice into a miniature volcano, belching up smoke and vollies of sparks.—Toronto Mail.

MR. ARCH. MADDAUGH, caretaker of the curling rink, complains that several boys and young men have been in the habit lately of entering the rink, by opening the windows and curling and skating during the Sabbath. He has made arrangements with the directors to secure the apprehension of such offenders in future.

ANY one requiring good and cheap food ought to call at the Guelph Pork Packing House, opposite the Royal Hotel.

CHIEF MACMILLAN has completed arrangements for dispersing or arresting street corner loafers.

SOME of the young people that visit the skating rink are beginning to enquire when the first carnival is to take place.

AT St. George's Church, yesterday, there was a special hymn sung for those at sea, in reference to H. R. H. the Princess Louise being on the ocean.

MESSRS. KNOWLES & SONS offered for sale at the Market House to-day, lot 19, 2nd concession, Puslinch, being part of the clergy reserve lot, and known as the "Robb Farm." The lot was withdrawn.

POLICEMAN CROOKS did a good thing Saturday night on coming over Paisley street hill, when he considerably frightened some young urchins who were sleighing on the sidewalk, and who were far too young to be locked up. A little terror put into the hearts of these young sinners will be of good to pedestrians.

PIGEON MATCH.—A pigeon match was shot at Mr. Geo. Sleeman's brewery on Saturday afternoon. The shooters were handicapped. The conditions were that birds shot with one barrel counted two, and that birds shot with two barrels counted one. The following is the score:

THE DISTRESS IN IRELAND.—The Mayor in accordance with the requisition presented to him to-day to call a meeting to consider what steps should be taken for the relief of the distressed in Ireland, has fixed the night for Wednesday evening as requested. A meeting of the committee will be held this evening at the Albion Hotel, at half-past seven o'clock, to make all necessary arrangements for the meeting.

BURN'S ANNIVERSARY.—The Committee are making every exertion to have one of the best concerts on Tuesday evening, 27th inst., which has ever been held by the Caledonian Society, and from all we can learn, the talent which they have secured and the excellent programme which is prepared, will well repay the large audience which will, no doubt, be found in the Caledonian Rooms on that evening In addition to the other talent, Miss Lizzie Stewart has consented to give some musical selections.

SOME FOLKS should be made to clean away the snow and slush from the sidewalk in front of their houses. It was remarked by several persons yesterday, while going to the various churches, that it was very uncomfortable to the feet, to say the least, that after a fine stretch of clean sidewalk, some careless one should leave snow and slush right at their very doors in quantities enough to make one think of something else besides church. See to your sidewalks. Damp and cold feet is the cause of nearly half the ills of human nature.

ANNIVERSARY SERMONS.—The anniversary sermons of Knox Church were preached on Sabbath by the Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Stratford. In the morning he preached a highly instructive and interesting sermon from the words "Pilate saith unto him, what is truth?"—John XVIII Chapter and 38th verse. Mr. McLeod also preached in the evening, when he again gave an excellent discourse from Prov. 25th and 2nd, first clause of the verse.—"It is the glory of God to conceal a thing." There were large congregations at both diets of worship. This evening the annual soiree will be held in the Church. Tea will be served from six to seven o'clock, after which Rev. Mr. McLeod and other clergymen will address the meeting. The choir led by Mr. Hugh Walker will also contribute to the entertainment of the evening. Rev. W. S. Ball, who exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Stratford, will be present at the social to-night.

A WELL DESERVED PRESENT.—We find the following in the Kingston News:—"We have been shown a very neat and appropriate prize which has been awarded to Gunner M. Coyne, of A. Battery, in commemoration of his unprecedented feat of scoring 51 points out of a possible 52, at a recent big gun competition at Quebec. The prize consists of a reduced facsimile, in silver, of a 9 pr muzzle loading rifled gun, about two inches long, and beautifully made. On the gun is engraved the monogram of the Battery within a circle. Attached to this is a ribbon, with a clasp, on which is engraved 'Gunner Matthew Coyne, A. Battery, 9 pr., M. L. R., D. A. A., 1879.' The present was received from Captain McCrae, of Ontario Field Battery, Guelph, and was handed over to Gunner Coyne this morning by Lieut.-Colonel Irwin. As above stated, the shooting of Gunner Coyne has never been equalled by many points with the same kind of gun, and the neat little trophy which he has received will serve to keep his feat in remembrance."

RUTHERFORD'S clearing sale has proved an immense success. The sale will close in a few days and those who desire bargains had better call at once.

Guelph Horticultural Society.

A meeting of the above Society was held in the Secretary's office, on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. Jas. Gilchrist in the chair.

There was a large representation of members present. The following is

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The directors in making this, their annual report, wish to bring before the members the transactions of the past year, and in doing so would first state that in consequence of not being able in former years to meet our liabilities in full, it was decided that only honorary prizes be paid for the spring show, leaving all funds at liberty to make a good list for the fall exhibition. This was done, and to the credit of the members is due the very excellent display then made, showing that it is not all the dollars and cents that gardeners and amateurs exhibit for, but for the honor of gaining the prizes.

The fall show was held on the 3rd of Sept., and as usual at this season of the year was a great success as far as exhibits went, but the receipts at the doors was the least we have ever had. This may be attributed in a great measure to the unpropitious weather, it having rained nearly all the afternoon and evening, thereby preventing many who always patronize the exhibition attending.

We would call the attention of our successors to the necessity of making a thorough and vigorous canvass through the City for subscriptions, as many would subscribe if they were called upon. We are sorry to say that some seventeen dollars remain uncollected from last year, and when so long remaining it is doubly hard to collect. It seems as if you were making two collections in the one year. We append the financial statement, which we are happy to say shows a balance in favor of the Society. We would recommend our successors to follow the same course this year, and have only one Show, and that in the fall, by so doing they will be able to keep up the Society, make both ends meet, otherwise they cannot, as the funds at their disposal will not allow it, the Government grant having fallen off from $140 in 1877, to $61 in 1879, owing to more Township Agricultural Societies claiming portions of the Government grant.

We are pleased to inform the meeting that a collection of plums contributed by some members of the Society and entered for competition at the Provincial Exhibition by Mr. Sunley, "for the benefit of this Society," gained the prize of a Silver Medal and $15 in cash, which has been handed over to the Secretary.

We think the thanks of the Society are due to Mr. Sunley for the trouble and expense he went to, and also for paying over the handsome amount realized.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. Gilchrist and Goodhall.

Moved by Mr. Geo. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Jas. Anderson, that one show be only held this year instead of two as in former years, and that the month of September be chosen as the time, the date to be fixed at a future meeting.

The meeting then adjourned.

Police Court.

Joseph Jamieson was charged with being a vagrant. He pleaded guilty, and was sent up for two months at hard labor.

Isaac Mills, who was charged with keeping an alleged disorderly house, was dismissed and allowed four hours to leave the city.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk south-easterly to westerly winds, partly cloudy, warmer weather with rain in some localities to-night.

MR. JAS. PEARSON, of Aberfoyle, has purchased from Mr. John Black, of the Saugeen River, near Durham, a fine otter skin. The length of the skin is fully five feet, and one of the finest we have ever seen.

ENTERPRISE.—Mayor Sleeman has made arrangements with Mr. Alf. Burrows, of the Dominion telegraph Co., to erect a telephone between the office of the Dominion telegraph Company and his office at the brewery, which will also be connected with Mr. Sleeman's residence. This system of communication is becoming pretty generally in use with business men here.

MONDAY EV'G, JANUARY 26, 1880

Parliamentary Affairs in Toronto.

(From our Correspondent.)

The first session of the fourth Legislature of the Province is now fairly under way, and your readers may not object to have its work pointed out and summarised by a disinterested onlooker. Were we to listen to some of our newspapers, indeed the word "work" would be a misnomer, but the dignity of such a body as a parliamentary assembly must seemingly be hedged in by a strict observance of rules and forms of procedure, which are the main causes of delay. Still, there has been little need for grumbling. The speech from the throne, the reply thereto, and the striking of the standing committees, were all over within a week, and the business of the session is wonderfully well forward.

Speaking of the work of the Legislature, allow me as clearly as possible to bring before those of your readers who may have forgotten it, what that work is, and the manner in which that body acts in performing it. The duties may be comprised under the heads of legislation, administration of justice, education, immigration, public institutions, agriculture and arts, literary and scientific institutions, hospitals and charities, public buildings, public works, colonization roads, crown lands, railways and miscellaneous. The Legislature deputes as it were a half dozen men called a Government to attend to their business, and at the annual meeting these give a report to their masters of the way in which the work has been done during the year, propose certain legislation, suggest discussion on other important public matters, and ask for the requisite amount of money to enable them to do the business for another year; while the private members assist in the work by criticizing carefully such administration, bringing in very many private and public bills, and asking by motions and questions for all conceivable kinds of information.

Such is the work, such are the agents, and now as to the manner. A large proportion of the real work is performed by committees which are of two kinds, standing committees and special committees. Of the former there are five principal ones, on one or other of which is found every member of the House, and these are:—standing orders, private bills, railways, printing and public accounts. Of the latter, these may be few or many. This session there are already two, one on railway accidents and one on amendments to the municipal law. These committees meet in the morning, and usually sit from ten to one. The House meets at three, and the usual routine of proceedings is:—Prayers, presenting, reading and receiving petitions, presenting reports of committees, and business which though variously arranged on different days is included under the following:—Government notices of motion, government orders, public bills and orders, questions put by members, other notices of motion, and private bills. Such then is the work to be done by the Legislature, such are the agents in doing it, and such the manner in which it is performed.

Now the Government through the month of the Lieut.-Gov. in the speech from the throne, announced legislation on seven different matters—the fusion of the Superior Courts of law and equity, the exemption question, the Agricultural College, the Boy's Reformatory, the pine timber of settler's lots, respecting Division Courts, and the property of execution debtors; suggested the consideration of the relations of North Western Ontario and remedies for the dangers of railway employees, and promised the appointment of an Agricultural Commission, the publication of a special immigration circular, and the presenting of a scheme for the erection of new Parliament buildings, the reports of the various departments, the public accounts of 1879 in full, and the estimates for 1880. The two suggestions mentioned have undergone the first stage of consideration. Acts relating to the first and third matters of legislation have been brought down, and the reports of public works, asylums, prisons and public charities and education for the year before last have been presented.

Of the public bills introduced by private members, those amending the Liquor License Act have been quashed and those relating to the Municipal law, and railway employees referred to Special Committees. The Attorney-General has brought down bills to extend the powers of Co-operative Associations, to attempt to stop the abuse of Coroner's inquests, and to allow local assessment for draining tracts of land. The motions by various members for orders for returns have brought, or will yet bring, under discussion, the duties and expense of County Councils, the school book copyright question, the utility of the Grand Jury system, the immigration question, the liquor license law, the expenses of the Agricultural and Arts Association, and the municipal indebetedness of Ontario. So that the work of the session, though fairly under way, is only just begun.

Little can be said as yet for the debating powers of this House as compared with the last, for nothing has called it forth. Our well known friend, James Young, of North Brant, spoke with scarcely his usual force and ability regarding the boundary award, and a set-to between the political almanac maker of North Grey, and the Provincial Secretary pleased the audience on Thursday afternoon; but the speeches of the session have yet to come. And if importance of subjects should cause them, they will not be awanting. In the meantime the members are becoming well acquainted with each, and are doing wonders in the way of attending dinner parties. Speaking of the latter it is being showed that Col. Clarke, as all his friends knew, will make one of the most hospitableSpeakers that has yet occupied the chair.

As business is only beginning, your readers must content themselves with the summary given; each subject as it comes under discussion may form the subject of future remarks. But we may close by saying that the Ontario Judicature Bill of the Attorney-General, which is by far the most important measure of the session, whilst not original, is a bold and decisive step in the pathway of legal reform, and is acknowledged on all hands to reflect great credit on its author.

"The Life and Death of Worlds."

Professor Proctor who lately delivered two lectures, in Toronto, on the Science of Astronomy, may be supposed to present the most advanced ideas in that particular phase of the subject set before his Toronto audience.

The views advanced cannot be said to be wholly new, but he may perhaps, be allowed the credit of attempting to reduce to system detached theories which have been gaining ground and assuming some degree of consistency for the last half century. Professor Proctor's merit consists in his giving them a definite place and use in the general economy of the Universe.

The whole tenor of Modern Philosophy in every field of investigation, inclines to the opinion of slow and gradual development and decay, rather than to the theory of violent or rapid change. "Every present has grown out of every past," is the key note of all modern science, whether it attempts to unfold the past history of the universe, man, or his political and social institutions.

Lyell, in his principles of Geology, struck the first blow at the advocates of violent Cataclysms and revolutions in nature; maintaining that the influences now at work were sufficient in the long course of ages, to produce all the past and present varied physical aspects of the globe. Building upon the doctrine of Lamark, Darwin skillfully employing unlimited time and natural causes, gave to the world his origin of species; and later his more general and far-reaching theory of the whole animate creation. Following in the same footsteps Herbert Spencer applied the theory of development to all human institutions, religious as well as secular, so that it may be said, that all modern thought, with but slight exceptions, runs more or less in the development groove. Professor Proctor's teachings regarding the life and death of worlds, has in it the same far off and indefinite beginning, the same natural and progressive elements of growth and decay, as other philosophers have applied to earth's inhabitants.

There seems to be a kind of instinctive feeling, common to human nature, that the present constitution of the universe will not always last, but rather that the heavens will become old and pass away. This feeling crops out both in the sacred and profane writings of all nations. It is not in the Christian system alone, that we learn "the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the heavens and the earth shall pass away or be folded up like a vesture."

> "The sun himself grow dim with age, > and nature sink in years."

But it is reserved for science to unfold both the manner and cause of the end.

Looking at the natural agents at work in our own little world, we are forced to admit that science makes the most of them in building up a natural system of the Universe, but what is the effect upon our long cherished convictions, when we are told that thousands upon thousands of worlds are to-day in their childhood, that some are only being born, while others have attained their manhood, and some are just measuring out their dying epochs around their central suns, and others already have measured their last dark hour and passed out of existence, like ourselves to mingle in the "infinite azure of the past." Philosophy assures us that each and every one of the perhaps infinite number of worlds pass through exactly the same stages, gaseous liquid and solid, these being different epochs in the cooling process which all worlds undergo, at one stage of which an atmosphere is evolved, and the conditions of vegetable and animal life developed, which follows as a natural result of the superinducing cause.

The maturing world brings forth its varied forms of life, the more perfect agreeing with its manhood. But the cooling process goes on, till as with ourselves, the blood of old Earth runs thin and cold. The lungs through which issued the hot volcanic breath become weak or cease their labored throes. The great seas and mighty oceans begin to hide themselves in their ancient caves, when the sun, the glorious life giving sun, is able no longer to do battle against the dreaded winter of a world's dark destiny, but age by age yields little by little of the territory once held in warm obedience.

Yes, truly, our world is dying. The extremities are becoming cold; elephants have flourished at the poles, and they have been driven towards the equator. But even here, the day is coming when they shall not endure. They may change their smooth coat for shaggy hair, and the dog and horse, through the long years of the world's dying struggle, clothe themselves in a suit of wool; and the tall pine or the then frozen southern slope of the Hymalayas be changed to a scraggy shrub; and man himself at last hemmed in, with his traditions, fanes, temples and pagados being cast down and forgotten, takes up again his long claws and tusks to fish from a frozen ocean the substance which earth has long ceased to yield. He plays for a while at Esquimaux or the slaves of the Indian ocean. But the last long eternal winter shall ultimately freeze him in, and the sun shall rise on the morrow, on a dead world. The music of the spheres thrown into discord by another broken string in the solar harp, ere they gather up again the shortened notes of celestial harmony, may sing the requeim of departed earth! So shall the end be! So says science, has it been with thousands of worlds. Our moon is already dead. Her oceans are dry, her atmosphere gone, and her volcanoes blown out. She was once as warm and vigorous, and life giving as our world, but she was small, and could not retain her heat, but cooled rapidly and is now dead.

We remember not many years ago, the enthusiastic Thomas Dick, advocated the building of some huge geometrical figure, on some open plain to attract the attention of the moon's inhabitants, whom he supposed might possibly have telescopes like ourselves, and be as curious about their distant neighbours. It is fortunate the world did not act on his suggestions, for as now shown, it would have been a dead loss. No railroad need ever more be projected to the moon. The whole affair is far below zero.

We are not, however, disposed to quarrel with, or make light of the Professor's theory. On the contrary it has much plausibility, perhaps we should say much of the appearance of certainty about it. The influences which he assures us are to bring about the death of a world, we see at work around us, all the collected facts, collected without any reference to the theory set forth, point in the direction indicated. The cooling process has been going on for ages, and a tropical climate is constantly receding farther and farther from the poles. Will the earth like a great furnance ultimately burn itself out, and its walls become so cooled down by radiation, that the snows and ice we now call polar, shall rest and accumulate about the tropics? Facts seems to point in this way. So at last we know the process of our lend. It is placed far enough off to leave ample time to set our house in order, and even make provisions for the comfort of a few generations to follow, still there is a kind of morbid feeling of sadness connected with the knowledge, that the old ship in which we have taken our life cruise, will some day make her last voyage with her struggling, striving, thinking, thoughtless freight of human souls—That she will one day finish her history and lie icebound for ever.

Presbyterial Sabbath School Conference

The Presbytery of Guelph met in Chalmers' Church, Elora, on Tuesday, January 20th, and the following day, in conference with the teachers delegated from the Sabbath Schools within the bounds. The Moderator, Rev. W. S. Ball, having delivered an appropriate and weighty discourse, largely addressed to parents, the conference was called to order, Mr. Ball occupying the chair, and Mr. Middlemiss acting as Clerk.

After consideration of the returns from the Sabbath Schools, of which twenty-one had transmitted answers to the questions sent to them, it was agreed that a circular should be issued. 1st. Enjoining returns from Sabbath Schools from which they had not been received. 2nd. Urging all schools to contribute to the missions of the church; and 3rd. Enjoining the use of the psalms, especially in the opening exercises of the schools. The number attending the Sabbath Schools and the Bible classes is estimated to be nearly 4,000, and and the number of teachers 350 or more. The twenty-one schools have contributed to missions during the past year about $460, two of them $100 each.

The subjects appointed for discussion were;—1. "The use and abuse of Sabbath School helps to teachers." 2. "The extent to which memory should be exercised in connection with Sabbath School instruction." 3. "Normal Classes." 4. "The duty of the session in relation to the Sabbath School." Many valuable remarks were made in reference to these subjets, both by members of the Presbytery and by delegates, and at the close, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

1. That while a legitimate and healthy use of Sabbath School helps is to be thankfully accepted, it cannot be too strongly impressed on the minds of teachers that they should not rely primarily on these, but on a personal acquaintance with the word of God; and should resort to periodical helps, such as are commonly found in our schools, only atter they have expended their best efforts to understand the lesson in hand,—not however to prejudice whatever aid they may obtain from such general sources as a concordance, Bible Dictionary, &c.

2. That it is highly important that the memories of our children should be more exercised than is commonly the case, in committing the shorter Catechism, and portions of the metrical psalms, as well as numerous choice passages of Scripture.

3. That however desirable Normal classes may be in some respects, the propriety of establishing them is somewhat questionable, and the practicability of doing so is not apparent, except so far as Teachers' meetings may supply the desideratum.

4. That the session should have the control of the Sabbath School, and that while, when they see all going on well, they may defer in some matters to the judgment and action of the Superintendent and Teachers, they should take care that the shorter catechism is taught, that the Presbytery's instructions in regard to the use of the Psalms in praise, &c., be complied with, and that the teachers in full charge of classes be members of the church in full Communion.

About 150 Sabbath School children assembled on Wednesday afternoon and were addressed by the Rev. J. B. Mullan, of Fergus, and Mr. James Massie, of Guelph.

The conference is regarded by all who were present as having been a successful one, and fitted to be productive of good results, the only matter for regret being that while there was a fair attendance of parents and teachers and of others interested in Sabbath School work, there was not a much larger number present to profit by the important suggestions that were made in the course of the discussions.

The chairman, after thanking the friends in Elora for their hospitality to the members of the Presbytery and the delegates, closed the Conference by pronouncing the benediction.

It is now said that Sir A. T. Galt will not go to England to enter upon the discharge of his duties as resident Canadian Minister there until after the opening of the Dominion Parliament.

A prominent American newspaper says: If a National press association were to agree to suppress all the details of crime, to mention simply the bare facts that such things have occurred without the bloody particulars, we honestly believe that crime would decrease in this country about one-half.—

The other day at Birmingham Mr. John Bright in denouncing the Government's war policy closed his speech by saying: "I say take down your Ten Commandments from inside your churches. Say no longer that you believe in the sermon on the mount. Abandon your Christian pretensions, or abandon your heathen practices."

It seems there is a Republican Club started in Toranto, and a secret meeting was held the other night when several were present who are in sympathy with the movement for Canadian independence, but who did not care to identify themselves with it by attending a public meeting. After some discussion it was decided to send circulars to prominent men throughout the Province who are supposed to be favorable to independence.

Farewell Reception of the Princess Louise.—The farewell reception offered to Princess Louise by Lady Lindsay at Grosvernor Gallery on Tuesday evening, was attended by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, and all the fashionable world now in London, including numerous artistic and literary celebrities. There was a remarkable absence of formality, considering the presence of royalty. Supper was served throughout the evening. She lately visited the studios of two American ladies living in London, whose art works interested her.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE — THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

Orwell sighed, but said nothing. His eyes, however, fell before the lawyer's clear, steady look. Then, conscious that he was being earnestly scrutinised, he hastily exclaimed—

"It dosen't matter whether I have been extravagant and losing health or not. I am doomed to wander again, and that at once. Fate will have it so; and heaven only knows how the matter wil end."

"Oh, I know very well how the matter will end," replied the lawyer, with imperturbable composure. "In a year or two you will be cured of your present folly, able to laugh at this interview, and thank me for helping to prevent you from doing Agnes Borland and yourself an irreparable injury."

"Never," exclaimed Orwell, emphatically. "No space of time will suffice to lessen my love for Agnes or the misery which this day has begun. It is you who will one day regret that you had a share in preventing two loving hearts from being united. I have great respect for your sense and judgment in business matters, but in an affair like this, Bishop, your sagacity is grievously at fault. I believe you mean well by me, but you are sadly, wofully mistaken."

"Time will try," smiled the lawyer with an air of confidence.

"Time will try," returned Orwell, with sad significance.

"Do you really mean to leave the Grange on account of what has happened?"

"I do—I could not do otherwise."

"Your sister cannot do without Agnes, or I would suggest that she went somewhere else for a time."

"No, poor May could not do without Agnes. Oh! he impetuously exclaimed, "'tis a cursed mischance. We might have been so happy, and—now—for a low, sordid, worldly idea we are condemned to misery. My indignation increases more and more as I think of it."

He rose to his feet and lifted his hat and riding-whip which lay on the table. "Good bye Bishop. I don't know when you may see me again or what may happen ere we meet. But do the best you can for the estate. Be equally fair to me and the tenants, as you have always been, and pay the proceeds to my bankers as usual."

"But, Mr. Bruce—Orwell—my dear boy," exclaimed the lawyer, as he followed the youth through the outer office vainly seeking to detain him. Orwell paid no heed to his importunity, but hurried out into the street, took the bridle from Penwiper's hand, putting half a crown there in its stead, and leaping into the saddle rode out of the market square and down the High-Street at a fast trot, to the no small astonishment of the sleepy inhabitants, whose ears were startled by the sharp ring of the hoofs on the paving stones.

The tall thin figure of Mr. Bishop was seen at the door of his office for fully a minute after the rider had disappeared. The lawyer stood gazing in the direction in which the youth had gone, his abstraction being so great that he neither noticed nor returned the salutations of acquaintances who were passing through the square.

"Oh, but he's a stupid laddie," he muttered as he re-entered his room and prepared to quit the office for the night. "I wish I may have done wisely after all in putting a stop to the marriage. People would have spoken, no doubt, and blamed me, and said spiteful and malicious things of Agnes and her mother, but the gossip would have died down, and Agnes would have made him an excellent wife. Upon my life I begin to have misgivings. But no, it is, it must be for the best. Society is right in insisting on equality of station, it is the best safeguard against the overturn of the social system.

In speaking thus within himself the worthy lawyer was trying to fortify his mind against the misgivings to which he had confessed, and he made himself believe he had succeeded. But his satisfaction in the soundness of his view was was not so great as he wished. Had he known all that depended on the issue; had the veil of the future been lifted to his gaze, giving him a glimpse of the events which were to follow from the separation of Orwell and Agnes, instead of proceeding home to pass the rest of the evening in peace at his own fireside, he would have gone to the Grange and used every possible means to undo the work of the past two days.

But such foreknowledge is not in the line of that wise arrangements by which human events are regulated. The veil is lifted only as day by day the future becomes the present and its events matter of experience and accomplishment. The prophetic mantle, worn at one time by a few strangely endowed men among the mountains of Judea, has long since ceased to envelop mortal shoulders; the eighteenth century as well as the nineteenth had to be lived under the same inexorable conditions—inexorable, yet, in reality salutary and beneficient, for always is it found true that "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

The worthy lawyer, being, no more than any other man in modern days, burdened with the dangerous ability of seeing into the future, salved his uneasy feelings by saying to himself that the rules and decisions of society in such a matter as that in question were right and proper, therefore he was justified in exerting his influence to prevent the marriage. He had to repeat this again and again with a vehemence which he ought to have found suspicious, since it was unable even by his iteration to satisfy his doubting mind.

In this dissatisfied and abstracted mood he closed his office and went slowly and half hesitatingly homeward. Through the market place, along the High Street, and out into the western suburbs to his garden-surrounded villa, where his terrior dog Nap sat as usual at the gate impatiently awaiting his coming, and Miss Bishop, his maiden sister, who was the manager of his modest bachelor establishment, was stationed at the parlor window expecting his arrival.

The glad barking of Nap at length announced that her brother was in sight, and when on looking up she saw his tall form at the garden gate and the dog leaping frantically about him, by way of welcome, she sprang from the tea-urn, and set herself at the head of the table to dispense the evening meal.

"Dear me, George, you are unusually late," observed Miss Grizzey, as the lawyer came sauntering into the room—"it's past six o'clock. Nap and I have been looking for you for a whole hour or more. I was beginning to think you had gone to the Grange."

"I did not need," he returned. "My visit there yesterday has been quit effectual. There is now no fear of a marriage."

"Was there ever any fear of a marriage? Perhaps you were unnecessarily alarmed?"

"Indeed I was not; and my visit to Mrs. Borland was made in the very nick of time. A day's delay would have made it too late."

"How is that? she inquired, with an appearance of great interest.

"Because this very afternoon Orwell asked Agnes to be his wife."

"Dear, dear, from whom did you learn that?"

"From Orwell himself. He came down more angry than ever I saw him, and laid the blame of the refusal on me."

"Oh! she has refused then? Not one in a thousand could have resisted the temptation."

"Not one in ten thousand. But she and her mother have behaved nobly in the business; but Orwell, poor fellow, is dreadfully cut up. I wish evil may not come of it. He is going away again, and I fear the disappointment will make him reckless. Upon my word, Grizzey, I wish I had not interfered."

"You could scarcely do otherwise, George. You were Orwell's guardian; you are his factor and manager, and the blame would certainly have lighted on you. Mr. Langton was as much alarmed as you."

Some idea of the wonderful accuracy of astronomical observations and computations may be had from the fact that the contact of the moon's shadow at the beginning of the total eclipse of the 11th instant took place within one and one-half seconds of the time previously announced.

A college professor once tried to convince Horace Greeley of the value of classic languages. The professor said;—"These languages are the conduits of the literary treasures of antiquity." Mr. Greely replied:—"I like Croton water very well, but it doesn't follow that I should eat a yard or two of lead pipe."

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buy at the right time. Come to the Lion.

Worthless Advertising.

A Nuisance that is as Wide-spread as Canada Thistles.

The New York Evening Post thus refers to the advertising sheet dodge, a species of muleting merchants not unknown in any city in Canada: Our esteemed contemporary, the Sun, to-day intermits its Cassandra cries about the imperial influence of Don Pedro's bedstead long enough to shine upon certain obscure phases of newspaper advertising with the following clear and steady brain: "In few departments of business, too, has there been more misrepresentation and downright swindling than in that of advertising. The flush times for that sort of work were eight or ten years ago, when worthless sheets, with only a nominal circulation and no influence, scoured the city to obtain advertisements, hesitating at no falsehoods, and consenting to almost any terms, so long as they got what they were after. An enormous amount of money was obtained from advertisers in this way, much of which might about as well have been spent in sticking up posters in dark cellars." The revival of business is bringing this sort of sheet in existence again. A day or two ago we had three of these new publications laid on our table at one time. We venture to say that we gave these newcomers more attention than they receive from nine out of every ten persons who happen to see them; but a very hasty glance disclosed to us their utter worthlessness, and forthwith they were pitched into the waste basket. Yet each of these sheets had a goodly array of advertisements, and it was probably solely for the sake of the advertisements that they were printed. The amusing part of the matter is that the tradesmen who paid for the insertion of these advertisements undoubtedly believed that they would thereby make their wares known to the public. The error in their calculation is that these sheets themselves are not public. As nobody reads them because they contain neither news nor opinions of any worth, it follows as a matter of course that advertising in them is a pure waste of money. It is rather worse than this, because a man who advertises once or twice and gets no return from it is disposed to believe that advertising is not necessary; and having reached this opinion he is at once deprived of an indispensable means, when intelligently used, of increasing trade.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

A country doctor, being out for a day's shooting, took his errand boy to carry the game-bag. Entering a field of turnips, the dog pointed; and the boy, overjoyed at the prospect of his master's success, exclaimed "Lor', master, there's a covey; if you get near' em, won't you physic 'em?" "Physic them, you young rascal! What do you mean?" said the doctor. "Why, kill' em, to be sure," said the lad.

London World: "There is a touch of humanity about the thought which charms the popular imagination; and if Mr. Gladstone only knew half as much about fox hunting as he did about Homer, and devoted anything like the same fervor to field sports that he does in tree felling, he would have been Prime Minister again long before this."

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. H. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. GUELPH TEA DEPOT

MESSRS O'DONNELL & Co.

THE PUBLIC WILL BE PLEASED to hear that the above firm, on Wednesday, November 5th, will open out a fine stock of fresh Teas, Coffees, Sugars, &c., in their new store, on Upper Wyndham Street opposite Ellis' American Hotel.

As they had a large stock of teas purchased before the last rise in prices, they will be able to give bargains that cannot be got elsewhere.

Owing to their great experience in this special line there is no doubt but they will monopolize a large portion of the tea trade of Guelph.

Will be held in the Caledonian Rooms on

TUESDAY, 27th JANUARY, 1880.

THE MISSES WEMYSS HAVE been engaged. The press is unanimous in saying the Misses Wemyss are the finest delineators of Scottish Song that have ever been heard and surpassed by none.

In our national songs these ladies excel. They warble them with such admirable taste, feeling, and truth, as to unlock the sympathies of Scotch audiences, and elicit from them enthusiastic plaudits.—Dumfries Herald.

Their rendition of such pieces as "Dublin Bay," goes right to the heart of any audience, whilst the taste and feeling exhibited in "When ye gang awa Jamie," cannot fail to awaken the sympathies of Scotch listeners.—Pembroke Observer.

Robt. and Thos. Macmillian, the boy dancers of Toronto, who were so much admired in dancing the Highland Fling, Sword dance and Ghillie Callum at Caledonian Games have been engaged, and will appear in Highland costume in the above dances, to the music of Piper Smith.

The best local talent has also been secured. Tickets, 25 cents.

☞ Doors open at 7; concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

Wellington County Council.

The Council met in the Court House at two o'clock, all the members present except Mr. McLuhan.

After the members had qualified and taken their seats

It was moved by Messrs. Henderson and Green, that John Prain, Reeve of Minto, be elected Warden for the coming year. The motion was carried,

Mr. Prain shortly addressed the Council, and trusted that he would do his duty to the satisfaction of all.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—James Kelly, a vicious looking youth about 25 years of age, was placed in the dock, charged with having on the 19th inst., wilfully and maliciously stabbed, with intent to kill William Ferris, a fellow convict in the Central prison.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—The new Order in Council has been enforced in the cases of three immigrants who arrived by last steamer at Halifax without the required amount of $20 each to defray their expenses.

The Montreal and Champlain Junction Railway has been organized here with a capital of $100,000.

S. S. ENTERTAINMENT.—The Norfolk-st. Congregational Sabbath School will hold their annual entertainment this evening, 27th inst. An excellent programme of vocal music, recitations, etc., has been prepared and will be given on the occasion, beginning at 7:30 sharp.

ACCIDENT.—An accident of rather a serious nature happened to Dr. McGuire this morning. It appears that the doctor, with the servant man driving, were coming out of the gate at the Agricultural College, the wheel of the buggy struck against the gate post, when the horse shied and running off, threw the occupants of the buggy on the ground. The servant man escaped unhurt, but the doctor was thrown heavily on the hard ground, and sustained several severe bruises, and other injuries, the extent of which can hardly, as yet, be ascertained. Dr. Howitt is in attendance, and hopes soon to be able to report favorably of the condition of his patient.

SORE EDITORS.—The Lucknow Times says: "Mr. S. L. Galbraith, of the Times, has gone home with a sore knee; the proprietor of the Advance has been laid up some time with a sore leg; the editor of the Telescope has a sore head, the effect of an assault; the proprietor of the News was threatened with a nose smashing, and the publisher of the Sentinel has had his arm disabled for a time through getting poison in a cut. Something strange, ain't it."

RUNAWAY.—The team belonging to Mr Thomas Farr, Puslinch, ran away from the G. T. R. freight station to-day (Tuesday), and went up Preston street at full speed. Soon the hind wheels of the buggy come off, then opposite Mr. Watt's gate one of the fore wheels was detached. The horses still kept on till they came against a lamp post at Yorkshire street. By this time the buggy was smashed almost to splinters, the only whole part being the pole. The horses are badly cut. Mr. Farr was fortunately not in the buggy at the time.

They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

Local News.

PROBS.—Cloudy weather with rain areas, possibly turning to snow and colder weather to-morrow.

THE MARKET.—There is little doing on the market to-day. Wheat is a little firmer, the price being from $1.16 to $1.20 per bushel. Other quotations are about the same.

THIS forenoon the band of the Georgia minstrels paraded the streets. The men made a fine appearance, and their playing was much admired. The company preform in the city hall this evening.

A. MCBEAN, hardware merchant, has decided to remove on the 1st of February, from his present premises on Upper Wynham street to the store formerly occupied by Messrs. Heffernan Bros., on Lower Wyndham street.

THE GOW CUP.—A game was played for the Gow cup on Monday afternoon, between Wm. Mitchell, directed by A. Congalton, and C. McGill, directed by A. Bruce. The following is the score:—Wm. Mitchell, 20; C. McGill 13. Time two hours.

FIVE lumbermen from Michigan passed through the city this morning on their way home to Montreal. They report hard times in the lumbering districts with no pay, and solicited their breakfast from the city authorities.

POLICE COURT.—Michael Kelly, charged with wife beating, appeared before the Police Magistrate to-day. He pleaded guilty and was sent to gaol for one month with hard labor, and to be bound over to keep the peace, himself in $200 and two sureties of $100 each. Michael will now have to find security.

PARLOR SOCIAL.—A parlor social was held at the residence of Mr. F. Marcon, on Tuesday evening, for the Ladies' Association in connection with St. Andrew's Church. There was a large number present. There was a pleasant and sociable time spent, and every one was highly pleased with the entertainment of the evening, and the provisions made for their comfort by Mr. and Mrs. Marcon. The receipts were large.

SPRAGUE'S Georgia Minstrels will appear in the City Hall to-night. The press speaks very highly of this troupe. The following is from the Reading, Pa., Times and Despatch: "The troupe gave an exhibition at the Acedamy of Music last evening, which was well received. The audience laughed and applauded all the musical selections and witticisms in the first part, and in the second part there were encores. 'One of the auditors declared the bones and banjo-mots were 'the best he ever heard,' others admired the musical portion of the programme."

BURNS ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary of the Scottish Bard, Robert Burns, will be celebrated by the Caledonian Society of this city to-night, in the shape of a grand concert to be held in the rooms of the Society. The committee appointed to carry out all arrangements in connection with the concert have prepared a first-class programme of vocal and instrumental music, together with Scottish dances by the MacMillan brothers, of Toronto, "springs" on the bagpipes by Mr. Smith, the Society's piper, and addresses from Chief Massie and others. The programme is now in circulation and and will no doubt commend itself to the public. For particulars see advertisement.

ADMISSION TO THE WATER WORKS ON SUNDAY.—Mr. S. Penfold writes to us complaining that on Sunday afternoon he was not admitted into the building at the Water Works, while Mr. James Armstrong was. He says the excuse made by the caretaker was that Mr. Armstrong was accompanied by a lady, and that he is the Chief of the Fire Department. Mr. Penfold closes his letter by saying:—"I do not think it is fair or just to keep out any person that wishes to go and have a look at things, but if it is so, let every person be treated alike. I pay my taxes as well as Mr Armstrong, though they may not be so large as his, and I have the same right as he has to see where they go."—Our opinion is that Sunday is not a day for visiting the Water Works, and that the caretaker should not be allowed to admit any one to the building on that day.

KNOX CHURCH.—The annual soiree of this congregation was held in the church on Tuesday evening. There was a large turn out of the members of the congregation, and those of other denominations. The Rev. W. S. Ball occupied the chair, the duties of which he fulfilled in a very pleasing manner. Interesting speeches were given by Rev. Messrs. Mullan, of Fergus, McPherson, of Nassagaweya, and McLeod, of Stratford. Solos were given by Mrs. Elderkin and Mr. Humphries in a very acceptable manner. The duet on the organ and violin by Miss Cossitt and Mr. Philp was greatly admired. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Walker, added greatly to the entertainment of the evening, singing some fine pieces during intervals in the proceedings. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered to the speakers, the choir, and the ladies of the church, for the excellent spread placed on the tables. Altogether the social was a very pleasant and enjoyable affair.

By the burning of a steamboat at the mouth of Red River, near New Orleans, on Monday, eight lives were lost.

St. George's Church.

Sunday last being Septuagesima Sunday, the services of the English Church turn from the Incarnation of Christ to the great elementary truths of Christianity, the origin of man and all created things, the temptation, fall and corruption of mankind, and the deluge.

Following this order, Canon Dixon preached to a large congregation on that evening on the Creation. Having dwelt on the sublimity of the announcement, "In the beginning God created the Heavens and the Earth," as well as its wonderful simplicity, intelligible alike to the meanest capacity and the most refined intellect, he proceeded to dwell on the functions of science—in unfolding regular modes of work—in searching out the great laws of the Universe and its structure. But science was dumb to the question, "How and why did all this come into existence?" She can give no response to her most earnest worshippers, as to the origin of life. Some of her high priests seek to trace life back to a primordial atom, others enunciate wild discordant theories of evolution and abiology, and hurl fierce denunciations against all who will not accept them. One of the most able and lucid, Mr. Huxley, discovered a few years since what he considered to be the germ of all life in plants as well as animals, which he called "Protoplasm," a sort of living slime supposed to exist in vast masses at an immense depth in the ocean. He had got a specimen of this material, but he candidly acknowledged, that he had not yet found the external impulse that shaped and vivified it into various forms. This he called "Bathybius Hackellii," the latter name, after the infidel professor of Germany. This alleged discovery was hailed as the grandest of the age,—a new revelation, and myriads of volumes and pamphlets were published, and lectures given on the advent of "Bathybius," the new idol of science. However, though the exploring ships "Challenger" and "Porcupine," in their deep sea dredgings could not find him, he still retained his worshippers, and last fall, at a great gathering of scientists at Sheffield, his fame and glory were dwelt on for an hour by an eminent professor. Mr. Huxley was then asked for an account of his latest researches on the subject. He said in answering, that it was much to be regretted that most men of mature years had found that some intimate ally and friend of youth had not sustained his early promise, —had in fact fallen away and become a disreputable acquaintance—so he was sorry to say it had turned out with his old friend Bathybius, he had lost his early reputation, and some actually said he was an impostor, only a mere slime with a little organic matter in it. He himself would not give a definite opinion yet. Thus then, another of "the oppositions of science, falsely so called" has fallen through, though heralded at the time as the most wonderful discovery of the century.

The Canon then said, It is wondrous strange to observe the credulity of scientists, with respect to their own theories. Thus I lately heard one of the most popular lecturers of the day on Astronomy, and who gets from $200 to $300 a night for his lectures. Without the least foundation or basis of a tangible character, he in the most offhand manner, plunged into deep mysteries, giving figures wholly beyond the power of man to form any true conception of. Thus he declared that 420 millions of years since the moon was as the earth is now, and that 2,500 millions of years hence, it will be worn out, and as the moon, barren and dry. He further declared that the sun gave forth every second, heat, equal to that produced by the burning of 11,000 millions of millions of millions of tons of coal. He wholly ignored the scripture that the earth is to be consumed by fire, affirming that it was to die of extreme old age, though he told of a star which in 1866 blazed out to 800 times its former brilliance, and then gradually burned out.

The Canon closed his interesting discourse pointing out the various ways in which the Divine purpose ran like a golden thread through the whole of the world's history.

St. Joseph's Hospital.

At the annual meeting of the Board the annual report for the year ending, Sept. 30th, 1879, was passed and adopted upon motion by Dr. Herod, seconded by James Mays.

As we purpose in a few days giving the Government Inspector's report, which embodies the same information, we omit the statistical and financial portion of the Board's report.

The following resolution in reference to the death of the late James Hazelton was moved by Thos. A. Heffernan, and seconded by James Mays:

"That whereas it has pleased Almighty God in his Divine wisdom to remove by death from our midst our late lamented and much respected member of St. Joseph's Hospital Board, Mr. James Hazelton, we, the remaining members, before electing his successor, take this opportunity of expressing our regret at the great loss we will suffer by being deprived of his valuable advice at meetings of our Board. We further beg to tender to Mrs. Hazelton and the members of her estimable family our most heartfelt sympathy in their great affliction, occasioned by the loss of so kind a husband, so faithful a father, and so truly generous and devoted a friend of every Christian charity."

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be engrossed on the minutes of this meeting, and that the Secretary forward a copy to Mrs. Hazelton.

Moved by M. J. Doran, and seconded by Mr. Mays, that all the former members of the Board be elected, with the addition of J. E. McElderry in the place of James Hazelton, deceased.

Moved by Mr. Mays, seconded by Mr. Doran, that the Board be a Committee to the County Council asking for a grant for 1880.

Moved by Mr. Heffernan, seconded by Mr. Mays, that the thanks of the Board are due and hereby tendered to the County Council for their liberal grant of $500 to the Hospital and House of Providence.

Parnell's Reception in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—In the City Council this afternoon, a communication was read from the Lord Mayor's Committee of the city of London, requesting assistance on behalf of the distressed poor of Ireland. The Mayor said a deputation had waited upon him, and wished that he and the members of the Council would be present on the occasion of Mr. Parnell's arrival, and that he should present an address of welcome. After a good deal of discussion a motion was carried to the effect that the Mayor should be in attendance at the Bonaventure station on the arrival of Mr. Parnell, to present him with an address of welcome to the city of Montreal, and that the members of the Council should accompany His Worship on the occasion. The vote stood 10 for and 10 against the motion, and it was carried by the casting vote of the Mayor.

Many of the prominent citizens say they will have nothing to do with the reception of Mr. Parnell, or contribute one cent to any fund which is likely to pass through his hands. The course of the parishes in remitting the money raised by the members direct to Ireland for the relief of the sufferings is generally applauded, and it was suggested by several citizens that a committee be appointed to raise another fund, to be sent to the Duchess of Marlborough or to the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

"Our President is not in the city, but he would not—he dare not—take part in the reception of a man who publicly insulted the Queen of England," said a member of St. Andrew's Society. A member of St. George's Society spoke in the same strain. One of the French aldermen stated that while he would be glad to contribute towards the relief of the distressed Irish, he would not give one cent to any fund if the gift could be construed into supporting an agitation which he regarded as dishonest, and he believed that he spoke the sentiments of his confreres.

Mr. W. B. Torrance's Marriage at St. Stephen, N. B.

We have pleasure in copying the following from the St. Croix Courier of the 22nd, published in St. Stephen, N. B.:—

Last night was celebrated a joyous event which we regret only because it necessitates the departure from among us one of St. Stephen's fairest and most popular young ladies. At Hawthorne, the residence of Judge Stevens, his fourth daughter, Miss Sarah, was married to W. B. Torrance, Esq., of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Brantford, Ont. In the room where the ceremony was performed, an arch of evergreens and flowers, from which was suspended a marriage-bell of flowers and orange blossoms, had been tastefully constructed by Mrs. William and Mrs. Dr. Todd. Under this, at half-past eight, the bride and groom, accompanied by the bridesmaid, Miss Inches, and groomsman, Mr. Lindsay Torrance, brother of the groom, took their stands, with a few words the Rev. W. P. Begg tied the magic knot, and "these two were wed." When were ended the congratulations of the large number of friends who had been invited to witness the ceremony, the older portion of those assembled gathered around tables of whist and fought with cards for bloodless victories, or, in groups discussed pleasant memories, recalled by the happy event, of times when they too had been young and had occupied the most prominent places on occasions such as this, while the younger ones "gave themselves to the maddening whirl of the dizzy dance," entering with heart and soul into the enjoyment of the time, until the clock, chiming "some wee short hour ayont the twal," warning them that the hour for departure had come.

The bride was arrayed in an elegan dress of white Swiss muslin and satin, trimmed with orange blossoms, white veil, wreath of orange blossoms and gold ornaments. The bridesmaid wore a dress of white Swiss muslin with blue satin trimmings, a cap of white lace trimmed with blue satin and gold ornaments. The dresses of many of the guests of the gentler sex must have taxed the ingenuity of the majority of the dress-makers in St. Stephen, so various in design and so elaborate were they.

Among the presents, which were numerous and costly, may be mentioned a valuable gold watch and chain, the gift of the groom, whose present to the bridesmaid was a handsome pair of ear-rings, formed of rubies set in gold.

The happy couple will leave by train on Monday morning for their home in Brantford, Ont., and will be followed by the best wishes of the entire community for a happy and prosperous future.

Board of Education.

The Board of Education met on Monday evening, Mr. Geo. Murton in the chair. The following members were present: Messrs. Leonard, Innes, Burgess, Skinner, Swinford, Robertson, Gowdy, Knowles, Murton, Inglis, Bell, Hart, Newton, Keating, and Peterson.

An account of $8 was presented from Mr. Mimmack, returning officer for St. George's Ward, which was referred to the proper Committee.

The Secretary read a communication from the Principal stating that the number of High School boys on the roll was 99, girls, 59; boys studying Latin, on the roll 69; average attendance 66; resident pupils, 118; non-resident, 40; non-resident County of Wellington, 35; other Counties, 5

The chairman read a petition from the Whitby Board of Education, asking for an increased legislative grant. Referred to School Management Committee.

Mr. Newton presented the financial statement for the year, which shows the following:—High School running expenses, $4,093.12; balance on hand. do., $232.69; for High School buildings, $5,663.58; for Public School expenses, $11,347.47; High School fund overdrawn, $791.69; Public School fund overdrawn, $299.06.

On motion the report was received.

Mr. E. Newton, Chairman, read the report of the finance committee, and recommended the payment of the following accounts: Geo. Howard, $26.01; Geo. Feek, $79.09; J. A. Nelles, $4 60; T. J. Day, $2.75; J. M. Bond, $34.25; Wm. Sunley $25; H. Growe, $3; G. Feek, $18.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Newton, seconded by Mr Knowles, that non-resident pupils attending the Public Schools be charged twenty-five cents each for the calendar month to be collected in advance. Carried.

Mr. Peterson read the report of the School Management Committee on the complaint laid before the Board by Mr. Stevenson at last meeting of the Board. The following is the report:

The Committee of School Management beg leave to report:—

With reference to Mr. Stevenson's communication that they heard him in person, and also the Inspector.

The latter explained that, as his practice is, he made the usual, preliminary inquiries of Mr. Stevenson's child as to her age, school formerly attended, and proficiency in various subjects, amongst which were arithmetic, to which latter her reply was "short division." This disentitled her to promotion; the instructions from the Department of Public Instruction being that pupils should not be promoted from one class to another unless qualified in all the subjects.

He at once mentioned, knowing the place of residence, that the North Ward school would be the proper school for her to attend, this being nearest to her home.

He did not at the immediate moment enter into details of the reason of this as he would have done, had time and occasion and circumstances allowed. As it was, he was surrounded by many scholars seeking admission, with their parents or guardians in attendance.

Mr. Stevenson erroneously and hastily attributed the decision to a presumed want of room in the Central School, and finding in one room seats for several there unoccupied, returned to mention this to the Inspector in somewhat an excited state, still laboring under the misapprehension referred to.

The latter was engaged in his official duties and did not deem it proper to be interrupted, considering that under the circumstances it then was best to attend to the matter in hand, and afterwards when a better opportunity arose would fully explain all that was possible.

The Inspector does not claim for himself any exceptional privileges as an official at the Board, but that like all others it is his duty to be courteous and communicative and render all necessary information, at the same time they are entitled to every reasonable consideration from others.

These observations are generally made.

The child was in other particulars qualified from her own statement for promotion, but not in arithmetic. Hence no examination was necessary, which, of course, otherwise would have been made in all the required subjects, to verify her proficiency.

Mr. Stevenson states that his child had been in "long division," but assuredly her mistake is not to be visited on the Inspector who took down on his list at the time her own statement on the point.

Your Committee do not think it necessary to enter into the question of the condition of the North Ward School years ago, but they fail to find any just ground of complaint against the management or condition of this school. They consider that the complaints of former years' management, that if they ever possessed any substantial ground, are assuredly irrevelant at this time. At present two excellent female teachers are allotted to that school to discharge their duties, one possessing a second class certificate. And your Committee understood from Mr. Stevenson that he had since visited the school and found matters very much improved with what he formerly complained of.

As the child appears inadvertently to have stated that she was in "short division" the Inspector will at once examine her in this and the other branches, and be happy to promote her if qualified.

Then as to the four Primary Schools in the Central School building. In two of these the first book is taught, in two the second book. The rule is that into these pupils immediately contiguous to that building are admitted, or where the Ward Schools are more remote from their homes; and also in cases where an elder brother or sister attends some of the higher schools in the Central School building, a younger brother or sister being, as it were, in the charge of the elder, and so not desirable to be separated, such are exceptionally also admitted, and manifestly, on good grounds.

But the Ward Schools, in which the first and second books are taught, are expressly designed as primary schools for children living in their more immediate vicinity and assuredly this arrangement is a judicious and reasonable one, and better for the children's welfare, and more calculated to promote their progress.

It may be that cases exist where some are in attendance at the Central School who strictly, in accordance with the above system and plan, should be at some Ward School, yet these, if particularly inquired into, are exceptional cases, which from special causes and good reason exist. But the above is the practice and rule endeavored to be carried into effect, and is designed to be continued for the future.

In due time when the funds and times will justify, these Ward School buildings will be provided with better accommodation, furniture, desks and seats, as undoubtedly they should be, but things must advance slowly, our school expenditure has been very great and the patience of the ratepayers well tried. We believe no town in Canada has a more satisfactory school system than that in Guelph, or where better results are found to be achieved in matters of education from the Ward Schools up to the Central and the High School whose attendance now is about 150 children.

The exterior of the N. W. School, it must be admitted, is not especially inviting, but it is a legacy of former years, and in due time will give place to more modern architecture with better accommodation.

The Board would point to the East Ward School, built about two years ago, as an evidence of this anxiety to accommodate the primary scholars of the town with all reasonable haste. Mrs. Borthwick sent a communication to the chairman of your Committee referring in terms of complaint to the N. W. School management, but this also relates to the past. If she will but make the experiment of the present teachers, she will, your Committee believe, feel that her children will be well instructed and the discipline found to be of the best nature.

The Board are as anxious as any parent can be to have the schools in the most efficient order, and that the pupils shall be well instructed, and when any complaints exist are always prepared at once to investigate and remove the cause.

In conclusion the Committee would recommend that in future all complaints of a similar nature be referred to the School Management Committee. While they are desirous that every justice shall be done to all pupils, they must sustain the Inspector in the strict discharge of his duty in accordance with the requirements of the School Law, for if once these are broken through it would open the door to incessant and frivolous complaints.

Moved by Mr. Peterson, seconded by Mr. Burgess, that the report of the School Management Committee be adopted.

Mr. Innes before the motion was put said he and some other members of the committee thought the chairman should have referred in more explicit language to the complaints made against the school years ago, and which were employed in the attempt to damage the school at the present time. He had no desire however to push the matter. In regard to the duties of the Inspector in examining children, the Board could not but feel that if re-examinations were made of pupils for admission to a higher department whenever parents might be inclined to complain, the Inspector might spend all his time in so doing. Besides it was contrary to the rule, which prescribed these examinations to be held half yearly.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Murton drew attention to the fact that, since the town had become a city, the Inspector was, ex-officio, a member of the Board of Examiners, and that he was entitled to pay for his services.

Mr. Murton, on motion, left the chair, which was taken by Mr. Knowles.

Moved by Messrs. Gowdy and Robertson that the thanks of the Board are due, and are hereby tendered to Mr. George Murton for the very efficient and corteous manner in which he had presided over the Board during the past year. Carried unanimously.

Mr. Murton thanked the Board for the compliment paid him, and said that the position he had occupied during the year had been rendered more difficult from the fact that he had succeeded a man to whom they all looked up, and whom all revered. He said that Judge Macdonald was the most genial and gentlemanly man he ever had the privilege to meet. He regretted that illness had made it necessary for the late chairman to absent himself from the Board. He was always willing to work for the good of the schools and ever ready to impart information when desired to do so. In consideration of these things he felt something like Lord Lorne following Lord Dufferin. He concluded by thanking them for the courtesy extended to him during the year.

The Board then adjourned.

Daily Mercury.

TUESDAY EV'G, JANUARY 27, 1880

Inspector's Report on Prisons.

Mr. Langmuir's report on the Asylums, Prisons and Public Charities of the Province for the year ending Sept. 30th, 1879, is very full, and is a valuable record of the condition of these Institutions. The great care and labor bestowed by the Inspector on his work are well exemplified in this voluminous report. We can only to-day give some statistics from it with respect to our Prisons. The number of county and district gaols in the Province are forty-four. To these we have to add the Central Prison in Toronto, and the Boys Reformatory at Penetanguishene. There were committed to the common goals of the Province, during the year ending 30th September, 1879, 9,411 males and 1,809 females, or a total of 11,220 prisoners, as compared with 12,030 in the preceding twelve months. From the foregoing figures, it will be seen that in the past as compared with the preceding year, there has been a decrease of 810, or 6.73 per cent., in the number of persons committed to the common gaols, while a comparison with the number of committals in the year ending 30th September, 1877, shews the very large decrease of 2,261, or no less than 16 77 per cent., in the gaol population of the Province since 1877. The largest reductions in the number of commitments have taken place in the gaols in Sarnia, Hamilton, London, Welland and Woods ock. The only gaol where a marked increase took place was Milton, where the commitments increased from 44 in 1877-78, to 341 in the past year. This gaol was literally swarming with tramps and vagrants during the whole of the winter.

A rather remarkable feature in the statistics for the year under report, and, to a certain extent, in those of the preceding twelve months, is the continued decrease in the commitments to city gaols. In 1877, the commitments to the Toronto gaol numbered 3,117, as compared with 2,660 last year; to Brantford, 618 in 1877 against 318 in 1879; to Ottawa, 842 against 691; to Hamilton, 1,186 against 1,086; to St. Catharines, 288 against 181; to Belleville, 219 against 168; to Kingston, 310 against 265; and to London, 862 in 1878 against 727 in 1879. The commitments to the Guelph gaol during the year are 180.

It is satisfactory to observe that there is again a considerable reduction in the number of committals of youths under sixteen years of age. The number of women commited to jail ten years ago was nearly as large as last year, and during all these years that number has varied very little, while the commitments of men rose from 3,893 in 1869 to 11,595 in 1877. About 7.54 per cent. of the commitments were for crimes against the person; 22.48 per cent. for crimes against property; 4 per cent. for crimes against public morals; 59.71 per cent. offences against public order, and 6.24 per cent. were doubtless under civil process. Out of 11.220 committed for trial, 6,800 were found guilty and sentenced.

As regards the nationality of those committed we find that 4,677 were born in Canada, 2,889 in Ireland, 1880 in England, 678 in Scotland, 790 in the States, and 298 in other countries. Under the head of maintenance we find that the gaols cost in 1879 $122,354.08, being considerably lower than in any year since 1873. The daily average cost for prisoners was 48 cents. The number of unmarried prisoners was as nearly as possible double of the married. About a fourth of the whole could neither read nor write, and rather more than two-thirds of the whole were intemperate. Not few short of one-half of the prisoners were laborers; 556 were prostitutes, and 621 had no regular occupation.

As regards the Central Prison, the number confined during the year was 926. The work done amounted to 83,-102 days. The management is well spoken of. Several needed changes are to be made in the Boy's Reformatory, and the Mercer Institution in Toronto, which is designed as an Industrial School for women and girls will be opened during the summer. The Report on the whole shows that our prisons are well managed.

It is said that the salaries of the members of the Dominion Board of Arbitrators are to be raised.

At the coming session Mr. John Rochester will move for a Royal Commission to enquire into the workings of Commercial Agencies.

Mr. Lowe, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, has returned from England, where he reports prospects favourable for the coming season as regards immigration.

If the Herald will look over the fyles of the Mercury it will find that we have on more than one occasion opposed bonuses to railways in this Province which we believed were not required, and should not have received Government aid or encouragement.

London Advertiser:—The Liberal majority in North Lanark was increased from 43 to 98, and the Tory majority in Stormont was decreased from 197 to 108. The reaction here shown, if applied in the same ratio to the whole of the Dominion, would sweep the present Dominion Government from power.

Dr. Christie in his address to the electors of Argenteuil speaks out strongly against the N. P., and asks:—"Is it just or right that the toiling millions should be so heavily taxed to build up colossal fortunes for a few millionaires? Shall we fold our arms and tamely submit to this great injustice and outrage? Shall we reverse now the verdict which we gave at the polls in the last election? I think not. I believe that a torrent of righteous indignation will sweep across this country, throughout its length and breadth; and that all good and true men will arouse and exert themselves as they have never done before."

The London Times commenting on the proposed increase of the Government army, says:—"What is disturbing in the matter is the vivid revelation it affords of the terrible condition of armed truce in which Europe exists from day to day. By wisdom and firmness, statesmen may avert a collision of these armed truces, but such an achievement will need incessant vigilance and patience. At such a time England ought to hold herself as free as possible from all unnecessary entanglements, in order to be able if necessary to make her voice heard at some critical moment, when the whole course of European history might be hanging in the balance. Far greater issues to the world are now at stake in Europe than in any other quarter of the globe. In deciding them England may have still a more beneficent part to play than ever she yet fulfilled. To play it effectively she must be strong, and she should be at peace."

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is The Great Reliever of Pain. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

The Ottawa Free Press says with reference to the resignation of Hon. Mr. Wilmot:—"We believe the facts are that Mr. Wilmot having become dissatisfied with some acts of the Government expressed the opinion that he would probably have to resign under certain contingencies. Apprehensive that he might carry this intention into effect at an inconvenient time, or on the eve of the meeting of Parliament, Sir Charles Tupper telegraphed to him at St. John, N. B., that if he contemplated resignation he had better do so at once. He immediately resigned."

Guelph Mercury.—The Weekly edition of this justly celebrated journal came to hand last week in an improved and enlarged form. The publishers are wide-awake business men, have spared neither labor nor expense in working their paper up to its present high standard, for it is acknowledged on all hands to be one of the best weekly papers published in Ontario. We wish it still greater success.—Teeswater News.

Scene in a Church in Brantford.—On Saturday evening a number of the members of the West Brantford Methodist Church had assembled to hold prayer meeting. While they were engaged in prayer a Miss Clinch entered the church and walking quietly where Mr. Broadway was kneeling, caught hold of him by the hair of his head and hit him several times in the face, when three gentlemen present took hold of her and put her out. It is supposed that Miss Clinch is laboring under an hallucination. She fancies that Mr. Broadway wants to marry her, but no cause is assignod for the attack. Mr. Broadway has not given her any cause to suppose that he thinks more of her than of any other member of the congregation. Mr. Broadway is not a regularly ordained preacher, but has been filling the position for some time. He is a student attending the Brantford Collegiate, Institute and from Woodstock.

The Boyle Globe Libel Suit.—At the Toronto Assizes on Monday the case of Boyle vs. the Globe came on for trial. The action was brought by Mr. Patrick Boyle, of the Irish Canadian against the Globe Printing Company, in order to recover damages for alleged defarmation of Mr. Boyle's character contained in a series of articles published in that newspaper through the month of November last. The case arose out of the tenders for the Government printing at Ottawa. In these articles it was charged that there was an agreement between Mr. Boyle and some person supposed to be Mr. McLean, of McLean, Rogers, & Co., in which for a consideration Mr. Boyle was to withdraw his printing contract. The case was not finished on Monday.

A Paradise for Teachers.—Notwithstanding the luxurious times our teachers spend, with all their holidays and the privilege of getting "permits" for the mere asking, they cannot for a moment compare in this respect with the teachers in Brazil. In that romantic country as soon as a teacher passes his examination he becomes a Government official for life, not as vacancies occur, but according to his term of service. After five years comfortable salary with house free, he receives a small pension. When sick or disabled, a small extra pension is provided. After ten years service his salary, pension and requisites are doubled. After twenty years it is again increased, and a life insurance policy is bestowed upon him by the Government. After twenty-five years he is put on the retired list, and receives the same pay as army and navy officers of a certain rank, but he may even then continue to teach and to receive a regular salary in addition. Young men, go south.

The "rag baby" has received a severe cuff from an unexpected quarter. The Montreal Gazette says "it has so few supporters in the country, and is regarded by business men as so absurd, that it would be at once a waste of time and a lowering of its dignity for a representative body like the Dominion Board of Trade to discuss it." Poor little infant!

Ontario Legislature.

Toronto, Jan. 26, 1880.

A petition was presented by Mr. Gibson (Hamilton)—From the Wellington, Grey, and Buce Railway Co., against certain proposed changes in the Act incorporating the Toronto, Grey, and Bruce Railway.

Mr. Bishop enquired whether it is the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce a measure providing that municipalities and individuals may, under proper restrictions and safeguards, make ditches and drains under and across railway tracks that are within the legislative control of the Province.

Mr. Mowat said the attention of the Government had not been called to this matter before, but now that the hon. member had spoken of it he would see that the necessary inquiries are made. But it was impossible to introduce such a measure this session.

Mr. Badgerow, in moving the second reading of his Bill to amend the Municipal Act, said it had reference to statute labour, enabling the Councils of villages to make the same compulsory.

The bill was read a second time.

CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE — THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

"Ay; but he took care to keep behind backs, and send me forward. I feel as if I had been made cat's-paw by the sly old money-lender, who wishes his own daughter to be mistress at the Grange. Precious little he cares for family honor or worldly propriety if he gets his own ends served."

"Then he may save himself trouble," said Miss Bishop, very decidedly. "Orwell Bruce will never marry Maria Langton."

"I don't think he will; but if she and her father think their scheme will succeed, that explains the old laird's anxiety to stop the affair with Agnes Borland. Well, for good or ill, the thing is done, and if you had seen Orwell ride off as I did you would share my misgivings. Nap, my slippers."

With a quick, joyous bark the terrier, who had been watching every motion of his master, evidently waiting for this order, darted under a large easy chair which filled the corner and brought in his mouth first one slipper then the other, and laid them right and left in their proper places at the lawyer's feet. With fast wagging tail and eyes that glanced and gleamed through the tangled hair which overhung them, the little fellow waited till the lawyer pulled off his walking shoes, with which he scampered off one by one to the kitchen; then returning he came as far as the centre of the room, wheeled round, and ran full tilt against the open door, causing it to close by the force of the onset. This was Nap's nightly performance, for which he had never failed to receive his master's encouraging commendation. To his evident astonishment, his feats on this occasion obtained no notice; nor did the rest of his intelligent tricks performed in the course of the evening serve to rouse his master from his unwonted meditative mood.

"Hang it all," he muttered, as he finished his nightly tumbler and went off to bed. "Why should these two young people fall in love against nature and reason, and give annoyance to a staid old bachelor like me?"

Meanwhile let us return to the pair who were the causes of the lawyer's disquietude.

A brief period of hard trotting brought Orwell Bruce to the Grange, on the terrace of which he met—apparently waiting for him—Reuben Langton, the man whom, of all others, he should not have encountered in his present state of mind. Reuben had been at the Grange upwards of an hour. On his arrival he was informed that Mr. Bruce had ridden out on horseback, and it was understood he had gone to Cairntree. The annoyed, youth determined to wait in the hope of his return. He would have been perfectly content to do this if he could have spent the time in the society of Agnes Borland, but the latter did not make her appearance. Miss Elliot was also engaged, and as he could have no company but that of the gentle invalid, he found it more agreeable to his taste to issue forth on the terrace, and saunter there till his friend's appearance.

Reuben Langton was not a special favourite at the Grange with any one but Orwell. In the society of the ladies he did his best to appear amiable and entertaining, but a woman's instincts, when not suppressed by love, are seldom at fault in receiving true impressions of the real character of any man she comes in contact with. Thus Reuben Langton, with all his anxiety to recommend himself to the favourable notice of May, Miss Elliot, and Agnes, had not succeeded in inspiring them with admiration or confidence. May's gentle innocence and susceptibility, Miss Elliot's sharp penetration, and Agnes's purity of nature had all been repelled by the atmosphere which Langton unconsciously carried with him into their presence. Let the hypocrite take the greatest pains to assume a virtue he has not, let any man do his utmost to appear in the eyes of others difierent from what he really is, there are certain points of expression which he can neither conceal nor assume, silent, unconscious animations which defy his power of control, nay, of which he is not cognisant, but which are detected by observant people when they meet him, and produce an impression of his real character which all his efforts at goodness and amiability cannot destroy. It had been thus with the three ladies at the Grange in their intercourse with Reuben Langton. Certainly not one of them had penetrated the depths of his base nature, or had any idea of a tithe of the evil which resided there, but they experienced a certain nameless feeling which kept them back from cordial intercourse. They treated him with such courtesy and politeness as were due to a neighbor and the friend and companion of Orwell, but showed no preference for his society, and probably cherished a mild, unexpressed dislike, which they had no ground of communicating even to each other.

Having therefore little tempation in the absence of Agnes Borland to linger in the room of the invalid, Reuben, as we have said, went out of doors and was found by Orwell on the terrace. We know the object which had brought him to the Grange. It was to persuade Orwell to execute a mortgage on the estate to the amount of his sister's money, which, under Langton's undetected influence, he had lost by gambling. Reuben expected to have some difficulty in accomplishing this. The subject had been broached on former occasions, and though Orwell had expressed no strong opposition to such a course, he seemed inclined to delay it. Now, as delay did not suit the schemes either of Reuben or his father, the youth had come prepared with reasons for immediate action, and anticipated a difficulty in making these appear strong enough to the other's mind. But to his surprise he found Orwell in a frame of mind which admitted of ready compliance. Nay, not only was he determined to execute the mortgage at once, if Reuben's father could advance the money, and if the transaction could be kept strictly secret, but he still more agreeably surprised the youth by declaring an intention of leaving home again immediately.

"Why, where do you think of going?" asked Reuber, scarcely able in his surprise to hide the satisfaction he felt.

"Oh, I am not particular," was the careless reply. To London—the Continent—anywhere—I don't care where."

"Oh, I—I thought you would change your intention of settling down here. Fact is, Orwell, this kind of life is too slow for us yet. By-and-by, of course, we'll have to follow the dull, plodding life of country gentlemen, but it is too soon for that yet. At our age, Orwell, we want to see the world, and have more pleasure and excitement than this quiet Scotch county can give us. Eh, isn't that the case, old fellow?"

"I suppose so," responded Orwell with an absent air. He had no intention of making Reuben acquainted with the real cause of his early departure. Close as their intercourse had been and great as was the influence Langton had acquired over him, he had never spoken to him of his love for Agnes, and would not now mention it or tell of the insuperable barrier which had arisen in the way of their happiness. In the region of the heart's affection Orwell's instincts were deep, sharp, and delicate, and though he blindly trusted Reuben Langton in all else, this innermost recess was sealed by him with jealous reserve. Thus Langton had not a clue to the understanding of what had taken place, and while he wondered at, he put a false interpretation on this sudden resolution of Orwell to quit the Grange after declaring that he meant henceforth to make it his constant abode.

What he fancied was that the passion for gambling had been so strongly roused in Orwell's soul that its excitement was necessary to his existence, that the peace and quiet of home had grown intolerable to him, that even the society of Agnes Borland was not a sufficient counteracting attraction. Grasping eagerly at this idea, his vile nature rejoiced, and he saw his way to the easy accomplishment of his sinister designs.

STUBBORN FACTS.

OUR GREAT DISCOUNT

CLOTHING SALE

Will be continued until further notice. Stacks of Clothing have been sold. Customers are pleased, we are pleased, and the only ones not pleased are competitors who growl and grumble about that "awful discount."

20 Per Cent RETURNED IN CASH

"AYE, THERE'S THE RUB!"

Well, we never expect to please rivals—in fact we never try. Our Customers' good will, and feeling that they can buy from us to better advantage than anywhere else, are of far more importance to us.

BESIDES A REDUCTION IN PRICES

WE GIVE BACK $2 OUT OF $10.

Everybody knows what that means. It is easy enough to make loud pretensions of selling cheap, but facts tell better than pretentions. Mark this: All our clothing is marked in plain figures, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent., and make no second price. These are facts. If you want

BEAVER OVERCOATS,

NAP ULSTERS,

WEDDING SUITS,

BUSINESS SUITS,

Or a first-class Garment of any kind come straight to the Lion and take advantage of the Discount.

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buy at the right time. Come to the Lion.

FATE OF THE APOSTLES.—All the apostles were assaulted by the enemies of the Master. They were called to seal their doctrines with their blood, and nobly did they bear the trial. Tradition says: Matthew suffered martyrdom by being slain with the sword at the distant city of Ethiopia. Mark expired at Alexandria, after having been cruelly dragged through the streets of that city. Luke was hanged upon an olive tree, in the classic land of Greece. John was put into a cauldron of boiling oil, but escaped death in a miraculous manner, and was afterwards banished to Patmos. Peter was crucified at Rome, with his head downward. James, the greater, was beheaded at Jerusalem. James, the less, was thrown from a lofty pinnacle of the temple, and then beat to death with a fuller's club. Philip was hanged up against a pillar, at Heropolis, in Phrygia. Bartholomew was flayed alive. Andrew was bound to the cross, whence he preached to his persecutors until he died. Thomas was run through in the body with a lance, in the East Indies. Jude was shot to death with arrows. Matthias, was first stoned, and then beheaded. Barnabas, of the Gentiles, was stoned to death by the Jews, at Salonica. Paul, after various tortures and persecution, was at length beheaded at Rome by the Emperor Nero. Simon Zelotes was crucified, in Judea.

DISTRESS ALONG THE WELLAND CANAL.—There are large numbers of workingmen along the Welland Canal who have nothing to do and are on the verge of starvation. Of this we have unfortunately proof from the columns of the Welland Telegraph, an ardent admirer of the "N. P.," which it was promised would give work to everybody. At Stonebridge it was rumoured that work was to be had and many men flocked to the village only to find there was none. Last Monday evening, over fifty were unable to find a place to sleep in, for they had no money, and no means of getting any. A riot was threatened and the police magistrate at Clifton had to be telegraphed to for a police force to protect the inhabitants. The men have since been living by what they could beg. They have been kept from starving from cold by the village authorities, who threw open the Town Hall as a sleeping room. Affairs are in a critical state, and nothing to equal them was ever known to have occurred under the late Government.—Hamilton Times.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

WEDNESDAY EV'G, JANUARY 28, 1880

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

Gonzales, the man who a few weeks ago, attempted to assassinate the King of Spain, is pronounced insane.

A steamer from Australia is on its way to London with an experimental cargo of fresh meat in cases, consisting of fifty bullocks and several hundred sheep.

The approaching session of the British Parliament is regarded with much anxiety and is certain to be stormy. It is ascertained by the Liberals that before it has continued a fortnight the Government may be compelled to resign or dissolve. The Government party sneer at the threats of the Liberals.

The Committee of the Dublin Mansion House Fund deny the statement made by Parnell at Buffalo on Sunday that defaulters in the payment of rent are excluded from relief.

The Porte is to be called to account for seizing the plant of an English newspaper at Constantinople, which had been suspended by its orders.

The Berlin National Zeitung, referring to Parnell's visit to America, says it is disgraceful on the part of Home Rulers to make political capital out of their country's distress.

The refusal of the Viceroy of Ireland to attend the banquet of the Lord Mayor of Dublin has aroused much feeling in Dublin, being almost unprecedented.

It is reported that Persia will occupy Herat, and that Beloochistan will receive a portion of Afghan territory, in return for supporting the English occupation of Candahar.

Burns' Anniversary.

The Guelph Caledonian Society celebrated Burns' Anniversary by a pleasant entertainment, which came off in their rooms, on Tuesday night. The attendance was very good. Chief Massie opened the proceedings with an introductory address, and later on in the evening Mr. Guthrie, M. P., also gave one. Both addresses were thoroughly appreciative of Robert Burns, and did full justice to his unrivalled genius. We are unable to publish them from want of space. Miss Lizzie Stewart, began the musical part of the programme with some selections on the piano, which she played nicely. The Misses Wemyss, followed with "Scotland Yet." These ladies were strangers to a Guelph audience, but their singing was excellent, and was well received. Both in solos and duets they did very well, and showed that they were able effectively to render Scottish music with feeling and appreciation. During the evening they sang together, "Ye Banks and Braes," "There's nae luck aboot the House," "Hunting Tower," "the Keel Row." The solos "Kitty Tyrell," and "Doon the Burn Davie" were also well rendered. Mr. Robt. Millar, did remarkably well in "Jessie's Dream," and in "Within a mile O' Edinboro Toon." The McMillan brothers, of Toronto, danced the Highland fling in splendid style, to the inspiring music of Mr. Geo. Smith's pipes, and the younger brother was equally successful in the Sword dance. Mr. Smith's strathspeys on the pipes were also fully appreciated, if we may judge by the movements of feet among the audience. Auld Lang Syne and God Save the Queen closed the entertainment, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Puslinch Farmers' Club.

The Sixth Annual Reunion at Aberfoyle.

The sixth annual reunion of the Puslinch Farmers' Club took place in the Town Hall, Aberfoyle, on Wednesday night 21st inst. To say that the affair was a success would be too mild a term. The reunions in former years was a success but this year the Club have to congratulate themselves inasmuch as they had a larger audience, while the programme was as varied and quite as interesting as on any previous occasion. By seven o'clock in the evening every seat in the Town Hall was occupied, and those who came after that hour had either to stand or find a seat on the platform. The audience first gave their attention to a repast, prepared by the ladies interested in the Club. The spread was a most excellent one, the catering being done in a manner which could not prove otherwise than satisfactory. The highest credit is due to the ladies for the way that they did their share of the work, and some of them deserve special praise for the very fine cakes which graced the tables. When the good things had been amply discussed, Mr. Robt. Buchanan, President of the Club, took the chair, and after some music introduced Mr. Mills, President of the Agricultural College, who said he was honest in saying he was pleased to be present. He felt at home among such an audience for he had followed their occupation and had known no other until twenty-one years of age. He had learned to "chuck" wood at 50 cents a cord and to dig drains at a very small figure per foot. He was, however, at a disadvantage in having to follow so able a man as the late President of the Agricultural College. He then congratulated them on their occupation and showed the error of changing from one business to another. At farming there was room for a man to make a living and perhaps a competency. Farmers were entirely independent if industrious. There were some people who got tired of a business they knew thoroughly and tried some other business, their partial knowledge of which made it attractive. Some farmers' sons after attending High Schools a while thought they would like to study for a profession, and some farmers had gone so far as to give their sons only a partial education in order to keep up their interest in farming. This was not right. The Ontario School of Agriculture was the place where farmers should send their sons. There they could get a good education which besides making them better farmers would improve them socially, and enable them to take an active part in municipal matters.

Mr. Glennie in an appropriate address explained the object of the Farmers' Club which was to discuss the means for deriving the greatest gain from their occupation.

Mr. D. Guthrie, M. P., afterwards spoke a few words expressing his belief in the division of labor and co-operation of principles. He was sure the discussions at the Club would have good results. He advised them to form a library without delay. Every farmer should subscribe for an agricultural journal. Though he did not go so far with regard to newspapers as some did, he thought perhaps they were a more powerful source of education to children than school books.

Mr. Wm. Rae, ex-President of the Society, and Mr. P. Mahon, Secretary, also made a few remarks, referring to its previous history, its objects and success.

The musical part of the entertainment was quite an attractive feature. During the evening Mrs. H. Arkell sang "Father will settle the bill" and the "Keel Row." Mr. Glennie "Come under my plaidie" and "John Grumlie," Mr. Charles Cockburn "Castles in the air" and "Craigielea. These pieces were well rendered and well received. Messrs. Glennie and Henderson gave a admirable duet on the organ and violin, Mr Jas. Maitland also gave some selections on the organ, and Mr. Wm. Black recited with effect his famous stump speech.

At the close of the entertainment the hall was cleared and dancing was commenced in earnest, and kept up with great spirit till an early hour in the morning.

STONE BREAKING.—The Board of Works have a number of men at work in different parts of the city breaking stones to be used on the streets.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Brisk westerly to northerly winds, decidedly colder weather with snow flurries in some localities.

"RAG BABY"—A meeting has been called for Tuesday evening at the City Hall, when the National Currency question will be discussed.

No. 2 Co. RIFLES.—Capt. Spiers informs us that he made an examination of this Company last night, in order to ascertain who were best fitted for promotion.

ACCIDENT.—A lad named Heatherington cut a severe gash in one of his feet this forenoon by letting an adze fall on it. The accident occurred in the cooper shop near the Royal City Mills.

THE GOW CUP.—A game was played Tuesday between Major Macdonald, skipped by D. McCrae, and Mr. John Anderson, skipped by Mr. Jas. Emslie. Score: Macdonald, 14; Anderson, 21.

SPRAGUE'S GEORGIA MINSTRELS.—This troupe appeared in the city hall last night and played before a crowded house. The entertainment was first-class, and one of the best of the kind given in town.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.—Mary Grace, a well, and unfavorably, known character, while drunk last night, created a good deal of disturbance on the London Road. A summons has been issued for her appearance at the Police Court.

DRUNKENNESS.—William McDonald, Jas. Benson, and Charles Austin, appeared at Police Court to-day, for drunkenness. The two first named were each fined $1 and $3.50 costs, and the last named was fined $1 and $4.50 costs.

DR. MCGUIRE, who met with such an unfortunate accident yesterday, feels easier to-day, and is in good spirits. It appears that one, if not more, of the doctor's ribs are broken.

CURLING.—The Warden of the County is making arrangements for getting up a couple of rinks from members of the County Council to play the Guelph curlers. The game will come off soon provided the ice holds good.

GUELPH GENERAL HOSPITAL.—The Steward informs us that there are at present 32 patients in this hospital, 20 of whom are from the county. Seven of the 32 are Catholics, and the balance Protestants.

NARROW ESCAPE. — On Monday, Mr. Robt. Amos, of Puslinch, was who chopping in the bush had a narrow escape. Having cut through a tree he ran to be out of reach, but the tree falling the contrary way to what he expected, it fell so close to him as to knock the pipe out of his mouth, and break his axe handle in three places,

CHALMERS' CHURCH.—The annual congrational meeting and social of this church will be held to-night. After refreshments have been partaken of, business in connection with the church will be discussed and the annual reports of the officers will be presented.

DIFFERENCE IN RAILWAY RATES.—Since the Credit Valley Railway opened there is a considerable difference in freight rates between this city and Toronto, and Elora and Toronto. Freight is charged at the rate of $19 20 per car load between Guelph and Toronto, while between Elora and Toronto the rate is $14.

BANKRUPT STOCK SOLD.—We understand that Mr. F. Thompson, of Montreal, has purchased the stock belonging to the estate of Mr. John Horsman for 75 cents in the dollar. Mr. Thompson, we believe, kept a hardware store for a short time some twenty odd years ago in the Alma Block here. It is likely the stock will be jobbed off.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.—The public meeting called by the Mayor in response to a requisition to consider the best means to be taken towards aiding the distressed in Ireland, takes place this evening. The matter is to be fully discussed and gentlemen who have given a considerable attention to it, will address the meeting. Among the speakers will be Mr. P. O'Leary, whose statement of the distress in Ireland will, no doubt, prove of interest. It is to be hoped a large number of ratepayers will show their sympathy in the movement by attending the meeting.

GOOD WORK AT THE CAPE.—We are glad to find that our old friend Mr. R. Ballantyne is doing such good work at the Cape of Good Hope. The Eastern Star of Grahamstown, of Dec., the 16th, says:—"Mr. R. Ballantyne, who has taken no less than five hundred and eighty-four orders for his Family Bible here and Port Elizabeth, leaves to-morrow for King Williamstown, where doubtless he will meet with proportionate success. He deserves success. He is a capital salesman. If anyone had asserted that five hundred and eighty-four Family Bibles, at £4 10s. each, could be sold in Port Elizabeth and Grahamstown within so short a time, we should have given them but little credit."

DEPUTATION TO HAMILTON.—This morning a deputation comprising Mayor Sleeman, the members of the Railway Committe of the City Council, the City Treasurer and a number of business men, left this (Wednesday) morning for Hamilton, to wait on Mr. Broughton of the G. W. R., with reference to certain railway matters connected with the city. The main object they will urge upon him is that of extending the Great Western into the city, as far as Cardigan street, my means of a spur line, and locating the passenger depot at this terminus.

Two County Councillors took reserved seats and twenty-five cent tickets at the city hall last night. The usher told them their mistake and wanted to put them out but they explained that they were County Councillors and would not leave the seats. It is doubtful if a travelling combination could appreciate the honour of the gentlemen's presence so much as they might have appreciated the difference in the value of the seats they occupied and those the paid for. The gentlem, however, were not open to conviction.

News Items.

The question of the Mayor of Montreal receiving Mr. Parnell on behalf of the city has been left to the Mayor, who says he must satisfy himself that Mr. Parnell's mission is simply philanthropic before he does so. Some amusement was caused by the question of a French Alderman at the Council meeting, who asked "Who is Mr. Parnell anyway?" The Irish Aldermen looked crestfallen.

A daring robbery was committed at Kingston on Saturday night. Two men went into Mr. Rigney's store on Saturday night an dasked for a bottle of brandy. About twenty minutes later Mr. Rigney missed his box, which contained about $700 in cash, cheques amounting to about $150, and notes representing several hundred dollars. The police have arrested John Deroche and Tom Gough on suspicion. None of the money, however, was found in their possession.

Lines on the Approaching Famine of 1846-47 in Ireland.

The following lines have been sent us for publication. They were composed by the late Thomas Murphy, father of Mr. John Murphy, of Mount Tara, Guelph Township. They depict in forcible language the miseries of that terrible period:—

Hark! dearest Island, afflicted for ages,
The victim of famine, oppression and grief
That moistens the eyes of your historic pages,
The spot is scarce met, that treats of relief.
Now ruin's black mantle in sorrow hangs o'er you,
With pestilence raging and famine before you,
That oppresses the feelings of those that adore you;
Thy woes are increasing, sweet land of the brave.

How sad must thy fields look though spangled with flowers,
When eyes dimm'd with famine behold you with pain,
Whilst hunger increases and pestilence lowers,
And death mowing down where there's naught to sustain.
To beg is in vain, for all tell the same story—
The infant expiring, the youthful and hoary—
Prostrated in prayer, to the God of all glory
They call out despairing and yet call in vain.

Despair's darkling round like a cloud fraught with venom,
Corroding the vitals that famine subdued,
And the ports by fierce tyrants are closed up against them
Which leaves them to linger and famish for food.
The fireside mirth and the glance of the lover—
The songs of the Bards and the tales of the rover,
And thy heart melting friendship dear Erin is over,
For the hand clasping Cead mille failthe is gone.

The dim sunken eyes of the pale, grieving mother
Are wasted with tears o'er her long stinted brood:
In vain is the soothing no language can smother,
They cry out like spectres still asking for food.
Alas! they complain she has naught left to give them,
Nor no distant prospect of hopes to relieve them;
They cry till they sleep, but the morning deceives them,
The evening's complaints are still feebly renewed.

The strong man is weak, and his sight is declining,
The bold and aspiring move deviously on—
All blight'd by hunger, disease and repining,
And the rose blooming cheeks of your daughters are wan.
How sour are the dregs of the gall they are tasting,
Whilst revelling tyrants sit sumptuous wasting,
And the spoils of distress they are wantonly wasting,
Nor deal out the crumbs to the widow's last groan.

The graves of our fathers won't long be forsaken,
Whilst the waves of disease floats down to the tomb
And no feeble gleam through the darkness is breaking—
The black thickening cloud of distress to illume.
The shamrock is seared and the flowerets are fading,
Through floods of distress the pale victims are wending,
Though sympathy's arm is new stretch'd to aid them—
Still thousands of brave ones are gone to the tomb.

Though far from the land of my youth and ambition,
My spirit steals back to your home with a sigh
That melts through the heart at your awful condition,
And forces those tears that fall hot from the eyo.
Of solace bereav'd we can only condole you—
Our mite we have gain'd with a hope to console you
And wish you were here with our friends to enrole you
'Midst plenty to live and contentedly die.

THOMAS MURPHY.

Sept., 1846.

AN ANIMATED FUSS.—About 12 o'clock on Tuesday night a rather hot discussion, which almost ended in something more serious, occurred at the City Hotel, between Mr. John Haugh, the proprietor, and some of the Georgia Minstrels. When the Minstrels came to the City they had some difficulty in getting hotel accommodation. It was arranged, however, that the colored members of the Company should take their meals at the City Hotel while staying here, which they did. After the performance on Tuesday night they returned to the Hotel to await the midnight train for Berlin. At 12 o'clock the bar-tender informed them that he was going to close the house, and they would have to go over to the station. They would not leave at first, until Mr. Haugh came to the bar-tender's aid, and then they "kicked up a dust" about going, but finally went over to the Royal Hotel where Mr. Harley was stopping. That gentleman and the Minstrels returned to the City Hotel and renewed the tirade on Mr. Haugh. Mr. Harley got somewhat abusive in his language, and finally drew something from his pocket, and aimed at Mr. Haugh, at the same time saying "I'll put a hole through you." Though Mr. Haugh cannot swear that it was a revolver which Harley pointed at him, he is pretty well satisfied that it was. On being assured that he had better not use violence Harley restored the weapon to his pocket. A few minutes later the company left for the Grand Trunk station and Berlin.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Moved by Messrs. Stewart and Green that the Committee appointed to strike the Standing Committees take into consideration the advantages of reducing the number of members of Standing Committees. Lost.

The Treasurer's report was read.

The Council then adjourned.

WARDENS ELECTED.—Grey, F. McRae; Peel, Alex. McLaren; Wentworth, Thos. Stock; Waterloo, R. Jaffray; Halton, John Ramsey, Nassagaweya; Perth, V. Kertcher; Bruce, Robt. Purvis.

The Cause of the Tay Bridge Accident.

Some importance is attached to, and some sensation produced by, the view just published of Mr. E. W. Ives, C. E., who is known as the constructor of several very great engineering works. Since 1862 Mr. Ives has given his sole attention to the construction of iron bridges. He has visited Dundee, and has made a careful inspection of the ruins of the bridge. The result of his observations he has embodied in a report to a private meeting of engineers in London. After criticising the faults of the construction, and pointing out the means which should nave been employed to give stability to the structure, Mr. Ives says, "I believe the cause of the accident was simply this:—The main girders have not been designed properly to resist the side pressure of the wind; the method of erecting them strained the wind ties; there should have been iron cross girders with proper gussets; the flooring should have been diagonally; the piers were designed without regard to lateral stability; there should have been raking columns; the bracing should have been more solid and properly fastened to the columns; the top columns should have been tied together, at least two more columns should have been inserted at each pier; and the main girders should have rested directly over the columns, or have had properly designed box-girders to distribute the weight over them, and not to rest upon a triangular girder in the absurd way in which they did. After a careful examination of the position in which the main girders now lie, and seeing what could be seen of the remains of the piers, I am of opinon that the wind had, previously to the train entering on the large span of the piers, obtained such a hold of the girders as to cause them to oscillate considerably; that the piers, not having proper bracing, rocked until the bolts parted on the weather or south-west side, and caused the whole structure to collapse and to be blown over."

PRESENTATION AT THAMESFORD.—On the evening of the 14th inst., one of the Bible classes of the Rev. L. Cameron, Thamesford, accompanied by some other friends, in all about sixty, proceeded to the manse and presented him with an address and a valuable gold chain; also, Mrs. Cameron with an address and handsome silver ice pitcher. The address to Mr. Cameron referred to his untiring efforts for the improvement of the class, to his excellent methods of imparting instruction, to his kindness and vigilant care over them and his timely counsel and warning, and closed by wishing that he might be long spared to go in and out among them. The address to Mrs. Cameron, bore testimony to her value as a help-mate to her husband, and to her uniform kindness and anxiety for their welfare. Mr. Cameron made a feeling reply for himself and Mrs. Cameron.

The Boyle "Globe" Libel Suit.

To what height will the righteous indignation of Mr. Patrick Boyle, of the Irish Canadian now rise, seeing that in the libel suit which he brought against the Globe, the jury has given a verdict for the defendants. The Globe stated that Mr. Boyle had received a substantial consideration for withdrawing his tender for the Government printing at Ottawa in favor of Rogers, McLean & Co., and it stuck to the statement. Mr. Boyle in his wrath sued the Globe for $10,000 damages. The jury by their verdict have now virtually said that Mr. Boyle did receive a substantial consideration. As our contemporary truly says: "The case was so completely established by the testimony of most unwilling witnesses, that no other verdict could possibly have been rendered; and the corruption disclosed throughout the whole transaction compelled Tory and Reformer alike to admit that THE GLOBE had done good public service in bringing the facts fearlessly into the light of day." We say amen to this with all our heart, for the whole affair throughout is one of a most scandalous character. And now Mr. Boyle, the virtuous and incorruptible!

A TREASURY BOARD, consisting of the Ministers of Finance and Customs, the Deputy Minister of Customs and the Dominion Appraisers, met on Tuesday to consider the contemplated changes in the tariff, and which will be submitted to Parliament for approval at the coming session. The tinkering with the tariff will likely result in nothing more than additional taxes for the people to pay.

THE Supreme Court of the State of Maine gave a decision on Tuesday, unanimously recognizing the Republican Senate and House as the constitutional Legislature of the State. Major Smith now says he has got through playing Governor and will go home. He thinks that the Fusionists can but gracefully submit after the decision of the Court upon their own statement of the case.

AT a meeting of the Hamilton Law Association the other day a resolution was passed asking the Attorney-General not to press the passage of the Judicature Bill at the present session, as a full opportunity has not been offered for the consideration of its provisions, and the practice under the English Judicature Act is still very unsettled and the working of the Act unsatisfactory in many respects. The Bill, they say, as introduced, involves sweeping changes, which must cause great delay to litigants and tend still further to centralize business in Toronto and to increase the expense of litigation.

THE Belleville Ontario learns that there is a great deal of excitement in regard to the alleged defalcation of Mr. Hooper, the late County Treasurer of Lennox, and the Tory M.P. for the county. The Government Commissioners made their report this week, and state that there is $33,000 short. There is great anxiety to know what the County Council will do in the matter. Mr. Hooper has gone into insolvency with a deficit of $20,000 in his personal business. The Ontario adds that if he takes his seat in the House he may figure in the Courts as the defendant in a criminal case.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan 27.

After routine business

Mr. Wood moved the second reading of the Bill to incorporate the Ontario School of Agriculture. He said that the institution was no longer to be considered as an experiment. It was an institution in which great interest was taken by that class for whom it was intended—the farmers. This was shown by the fact that they had to refuse over 100 applicants during the last year. It was due to the officers of the College that they should know that their positions would be permanent during good behaviour and efficiency. During the last year several thousand persons have visited the College from different parts of the country, many of whom were leading agriculturists in their several districts. In addition to that the Grangers, a large body, non-political, visited the College, and they, through their Dominion Grange, have strongly urged upon the Government the necessity of its incorporation. We are not at all ahead of our friends across the great lakes so far as agricultural colleges are concerned. Under their Act of 1865 they have 29 colleges, endowed with grants of land amounting in all to 1,463,505 acres. The most efficient of these was the Michigan College, but so far as farm work was concerned the Ontario College would compare favorably with that at Lansing. The Bill provides for the subjects which are to be studied by the boys, also by-laws for regulating the duties of teachers. Provision was made for affiliation with the University of Toronto. Some objection had been taken to that clause, but when it is considered that this institution has received so much support from the farmers of the Province, they were surely entitled to any honors which the University could bestow in connection with agriculture. By the provisions of the Bill the president and the agricultural professor would be members of the Agricultural and Arts Association, so that they would have the benefit of the views of the leading agriculturists of the Province. Reference was made to the retiring president, to whose labors much of the present efficiency of the College was due, and it was confidently hoped that the institution would retain its present high standing under the able management of his successor.

Mr. Lauder said he was sorry to hear of the retirement of the principal. The College had been unfortunate and under a cloud. He was glad to hear the Treasurer speak in a different manner from what he had done some few years ago. He hoped the new principal would be a success. But the position was a very hard one to fill. The first principal had been a failure, and then the services of Mr. Johnston were secured, and he did remarkably well. He would like to know why he left. No reason was given. It was due to the House and to the Province that they should be given some explanation with regard to the removal of the Principal. He was not sure that the Treasurer's christening of this institution by an Act of Parliament was going to do much good. The institution was going to make its mark by the work it did, not by its name. He did not think the Bill would impart strength to the College.

After some remarks from Mr. French depreciatory of the College, which were very coolly received, the bill was read a second time.

Mr. Crooks moved the second reading of the Agriculture and Arts Bill. Its object was to encourage Mechanics's Institutes in fulfilling their primary purpose. More than $18,000 was yearly voted to Institutes, and therefore the Province had a large interest in them. The Bill transferred the supervision of Mechanics' Institutes, and the Ontario Society of Artists, and Schools of Art and Design from the Commissioner of Agriculture to the Minister of Education, which transfer would, he thought, bring them within their proper sphere, and encourage them in fulfilling their primary purpose, one of the conditions on which the Government supported Institutes being that they should have evening classes.

Several members spoke in favour of the bill, which was read a second time.

The Coroners' Inquests, Drainage By-laws and Medicature Bills were considered in Committee.

Government Inspector's Report on Hospitals.

From Mr. Langmuir's Report we copy the following respecting our local Hospitals:—

General Hospital, Guelph.

The movements of patients in this Hospital during the year are exhibited in the following statement:—

Remaining in the hospital 1st October, 1878	12
Admitted during the year	103
Births	8
Total number under treatment	123
Discharged	106
Died	4
Remaining 30th September, 1879	13
	123

These 123 patients were admitted to the hospital from the following places:

City of Guelph	58
County of Wellington	65
	123

Statistics regarding these 123 patients were given me as follows: Sex—Male, 75; female 48. Religion—Protestants, 109; Roman Catholics, 14. Nationalities—Canadian, 36; English, 33; Irish, 25; Scotch, 25; other countries 4.

The revenue and expenditure of the hospital respectively during the past official year are given in the two subjoined statements:

REVENUE.

Received from the Province of Ontario	$1,356 68
From the City of Guelph and County of Wellington	1,506 00
From paying patients themselves	253 50
Subscriptions, donations, etc	652 55
From other sources	560 51
	$4,333 24

EXPENDITURES.

Beer, wine and spirits	$ 59 78
Medicine and medical comforts	172 44
Butchers' meat, flour, groceries, milk, vegetables, etc	1,473 34
Bedding, furnishing, etc	147 58
Salaries and wages	744 00
Fuel, light, etc	445 52
Advertising, printing, etc	12 97
Repairs, ordinary	166 35
New buildings and interest	482 00
Other expenditures	352 79
	$4,076 77

The aggregate period of residence of the patients under treatment during the year, was equal to 5,917 days, an average of 48 days. The hospital has, therefore, earned government aid to the following extent:

Allowance of 20 cents per day on 5,773 days' treatment of hospital patients	$1,154 60
Supplementary allowance of 10 cents per day	577 30
Allowance of 7 cents per day on 144 days' stay of improper cases for hospital treatment	10 08
Total grant for 1880	$1,741 98

I made a statutory inspection of the Guelph general hospital on the 18th Oct., finding 9 men, 9 women, and 2 infants under treatment. With one or two exceptions the admissions were recent, and there appeared to be good reasons for the retention of the exceptional cases. Out of the whole number of patients only one was paying for board and treatment, all the rest being free.

The condition of the hospital was very satisfactory. The wards were neat, clean and comfortable, and the other portions of the house were in a well kept and orderly state. The basement had, since my previous visit, been considerably improved and lighted up, as had also the upper hall. The upper floor of the building has been furnished off, affording space for additional beds if required.

I found that the services of the house surgeon had been dispensed with. The visiting physicians (numbering eleven) make frequent visits, and every attention is paid to patients by these gentlemen and the steward and matron.

The books were examined.

St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph.

The movements of patients in this hospital during the official year, in respect to admissions, discharges, etc., were as under:—

Remaining in the hospital, 1st October, 1878	5
Admitted during the year	109
Total number under treatment	114
Discharged	95
Dead	10
Remaining 30th September, 1879	9
	114

The localities these 114 persons were drawn from, are reported to be as follows:

City of Guelph	57
County of Wellington	36
Other counties	21
	114

Fifty-eight of these patients were males, and 56 females. All were Roman Catholics except 6. Their nationalities were:—Canadian, 53; English, 4; Irish, 49; Scotch, 5; other countries, 3.

The receipts and expenditures of the hospital during the official year are shown in the two summaries given below:—

RECEIPTS.

From the Province of Ontario	$ 501 90
From the county of Wellington	500 00
From paying patients	130 00
Income from property	400 00
Subscriptions, donations, etc	39 09
Other sources	641 50
	$2,212 40

EXPENDITURE.

Beer, wine and spirits	$ 114 20
Medicine and medical comforts	125 50
Butchers' meat, groceries, milk and provisions of all kinds	1,335 78
Salaries and wages	107 00
Fuel, light, insurance, taxes, and interest	139 82
Bedding, clothing, furniture, etc	242 61
Ordinary repairs	37 00
Printing, postage, stationery, etc	15 70
Other expenditures	143 17
Extraordinary repairs and interest on mortgage	251 25
	$2,512 03

The entire stay of the patients admitted amounted to 3,878 days, or an average of 34 days each.

The amount of statutory aid to be voted to this hospital is arrived at as follows:—

Allowance of 20 cents per day on 3,878 days' treatment of patients	$ 775 60
Supplementary allowance of 10 cents per day	387 80
Total aid for 1880	$1,163 40

The St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph, was visited by me on the 18th October, there being at that time only five patients under treatment.

The wards were clean and comfortable and every attention appeared to be paid to the patients by the sisters in charge.

An examination of the register showed that some of the patients had been re-admitted to the hospital several times during the year, and that others, who at one time were on the books as patients, had been removed to the Refuge Department.

House of Providence, Guelph.

The following is a summary of the operations of this House, in respect to admissions and discharges for the past year:

Remaining in the House 1st October, 1878	41
Admitted during the year	56
Total number of inmates during the year	97
Discharged during the year	57
Died	1
Remaining in the House on the 30th September, 1879	39
	97

These 97 indigent persons were admitted to the House from the undermentioned places, viz.:

From the City of Guelph	51
From the County of Wellington	29
Foreigners, emigrants, etc	17
	97

Fifty-four of the number were males, and forty-three were females, and, with the exception of five, all were Roman Catholics. Forty-seven were natives of Ireland, thirty-five were Canadians, ten English, one Scotch, and four were from other countries.

The receipts for the year, out of which the House was maintained, were derived from the following sources, viz:

Province of Ontario	$1,027 46
From inmates	549 00
Income from property	410 60
From all other sources	950 54
	$2,937 60

The expenditures for the same period were, for

Food of all kinds	$1,814 88
Clothings and furnishings	436 54
Fuel, light and cleaning	247 50
Salaries and wages	56 95
Ordinary repairs	47 00
Other expenses	270 15
	$2,869 02

The collective stay of the inmates was equal to 14,678 days, which would entitle the house to the following grant for the year 1880:—

Allowance for 13,753 days at 5 cents a day	$687 65
Supplementary aid, 2 cents per day	275 06
Total grant for 1880	$962 71

I visited the House of Providence in Guelph, on the 13th October, when there were in residence 19 men, 14 women and 1 child. One of the girls was of weak intellect, and another was a deaf mute, a third was a healthy girl, who apparently, should not have been in a refuge; but it was explained that she had gone astray, and the sisters were endeavoring to reclaim her.

The bed rooms, sitting rooms, and other portions of the house, were found to be very cleanly kept, and the old people seemed to be carefully looked after. The books were examined.

DR. BERGIN was re-elected for Cornwall on Tuesday by a majority of 176 over Mr. D. B. McLennan.

Blackwood's Magazine.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay Street, N. Y., have just issued their reprint of Blackwood's Magazine for January, and the present number is one of unusual interest. Perhaps the paper which invites the most attention is in the form of a letter written by a Turk, who is highly educated, and has been an extensive traveller. Other articles are a continuation of "Bush Life in Queensland," in which the interest is well sustained. This number describes the sheep washing and shearing, horse-breaking, and a fearful ride bare-backed on an "untamed fiery" bull; and "How I Fell among Thieves," an amusing appeal to legislative aid to protect the unwary from being trapped into making wedding presents. There is a long review of the Roman Breviary, translated by the Marquess of Bute, giving an account of the ordinary public worship of the modern Roman Catholic church. Several other articles well worth noticing complete a very attractive number of this favourite magazine. The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. (41 Barclay Street, N. Y.) are as follows: The "London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminister, and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine." Price, $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the Publishers.

Nassagaweya Council.

The municipal council elect, for this township, met at the council chamber on Monday, the 19th day of January, in accordance with the statute. The clerk presented the certificates of their election, and all the elected being present, signed their declarations and qualifications of office, and took their seats, viz: John Ramsey, Reeve; James Menzies, Deputy Reeve; David Wheelihan, David Hutcheon and William Watson, councillors.

The Reeve in the chair.—A by-law was introduced and passed for the appointment of certain township officers for the current year, viz: James Strang and Jas. Stancombe, auditors; Malcolm McMillan assessor, and William Logie, collector.

Mr. Hutcheon moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that the sum of $15 be paid to F. J. Starrett, for 300 copies of minutes, by-laws and financial accounts, and a further sum of $3.50 for posters for the nomination and election of the municipal council. Carried.

It was ordered that the collector of this township be paid a salary of one hundred dollars per annum for the collection of all taxes, school taxes included. By-law No. 2 for 1877 being amended accordingly. It was ordered that the sum of one dollar be refunded to each of the following named persons, being errors in assessing dogs, viz: John McGibbon, James Monaghan, Joseph Holmes and Geo. Storey.

Mr. Menzies moved, seconded by Mr. Wheelihan, that Mrs. Allcock, a poor and indigent person, be paid the sum of three dollars per month, instead of two as formerly. Carried.

On motion the council adjourned, to meet again on Monday, the 9th day of Feb. next, to receive the auditor's report, and to pass a by-law for the appointment of overseers of highways, &c.

JOHN EASTERBROOK, Tp. Clerk.

PRESENTATION IN AMARANTH.—On the evening of Friday, the 16th inst., a large number of the friends of Mr. John Gillespie, Reeve of Amaranth, met at his residence in the shape of a surprise party, when Mr. John Golden read an address congratulating him on his re-election by a majority of 135. It also referred to his valuable services since he became their Reeve, and to the great benefit the township had derived since he became the head of the Council. He was also presented with a handsome cap. Mr. Gillespie replied in appropriate terms.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

OH, YES! OH, YES!

Big Special Discounts, Grand Clearing Sales.

The Usual Expedients, The Same Old Tactics.

Our numerous friends in town and country will have observed as we have done that these two strings—"Grand Clearing sale," and "Big Special Discounts"—are being played upon in a pretty lively way and to a considerable extent in this city at present.

Some houses in the trade seem to think that the "noble inhabitants" of this "Royal City" are dying for "Ole Closes," and deem it only necessary to announce a "Grand Clearing Sale," or something "big" in the way "special discounts" to secure a general rush for their antiquated old stuff. It is true this "bait" took very well some twenty or twenty-five years ago, but many changes have taken place during that time, and we certainly think the people are now by far too intelligent to be "caught" with any such "taffy," and men who hope to "catch the trade" by any such tactics are laboring under a very great delusion. The inhabitants of this county are well able to buy and pay a fair and reasonable price for anything "new" their wardrobes may require.

We shall endeavor in the future as in the past so to regulate our purchases that we may be able at all times to lay before our customers the very latest productions of the British and Foreign markets, and we would advise all who come under our influence to "shun" those places where under the guise of "big discounts" or "clearing sales," or other "subterfuges," efforts are being made to work off upon their customers the unsaleable balance of their last season's purchases.

We are busy, busy every day selling piles of new goods, to which we esteem it a real pleasure to solicit the attention of our friends.

Ladies, make a "bee line" for the Fashionable West End. We are bound to do the respectable live trade of the city.

CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE — THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

Retiring together to the library the pair were in conference till after sunset, and when at length they separated, not only was the matter of the mortgage arranged, but an agreement had been made that so soon as the deed was signed Orwell and Langton should depart in company to resume their foreign travels and widen their knowledge and experience of the world. Poor deluded youth, little did he think he was putting himself into the hands of his destroyers.

But what of Agnes Borland? How is she bearing herself during the passing hours of this trying evening? We left her in the retirement of a room, overcome for the first time in her maiden life with passionate emotion. Heart-pain like this was a new experience in her young life, and she had not yet learned to school herself to bear it. The power of sacrifice resided in her calm, well-regulated nature, but till now nothing had occurred to call it into exercise, and it could not be expected to respond immediately at the first summons. So she lost control of herself for the time-being, and lay with her face buried in the cushions of a couch sobbing vehemently.

In this condition she was found by Miss Elliot, who entered the room ignorant of the fact that Agnes was there. Miss Elloit was so quiet in her movements that Agnes did not hear her enter, and was ignorant that a pair of kind sad eyes were gazing at her, as she lay beneath the storm which had burst upon her soul. For a few moments Miss Elliot stood upon the threshold in silent astonishment, then a soft mournful light came into the eyes which rested on the bent form, and a corresponding expression on her meek face, investing it with a tender beauty, sweet and holy in its character. Noiselessly closing the door she advanced to where Agnes lay, knelt by her side, and gently passed her arms around her.

Light as was the touch Agnes started up in wild consternation, the flow of her great grief arrested by the shock of discovery.

"Oh, Miss Elliot," she stammered, "I—I did not know you were here. I thought I was alone, and—and—pray leave me. I shall be better soon."

"And all the sooner for having me beside you," whispered the other in kindest accents.

"No, no, I cannot bear the presence of any one. Do, dear Miss Elliot, leave and do not tell Miss May that you found me thus."

"Trust me, dear, I shall tell no one. But do not send me from you. A heart that once suffered as yours is now suffering is a fit companion in your hour of trial. Oh, my dear, few on earth can feel for you as I do—can sympathise so truly and so deeply."

"But you—you do not know," gasped Agnes, every trace of color vanishing from her face.

"I can guess. Of the exact state of matters I am, of course, ignorant; but the nature of your grief I know full well; and I know, too, what a true friend can do to alleviate such sorrow. I know it by the yearning I had for such a friend, when, alas! I had to bear my heavy burden alone. Have you known me so long, Agnes, and yet hesitate to confide in me—in me, who have already half your secret, and with whom your confidence would be as sacred as if heaven alone had it in keeping."

"Oh, I cannot think—I cannot believe that you—that any one—but——"

"Any one but Orwell himself, you would say. Ah, now you see how well the truth is known to me. But do not look so aghast—do not cherish the apprehension that others are as cognisant of the matter as I am. It is my own sad, youthful experience that has quickened my apprehension. I have long known the truth—ay, known it more fully than you knew it yourself, and feared that something like this would happen. I longed to warn you of possible danger, yet feared to speak least I should incur the guilt of those who in olden time presumed with sacrilegious hand to steady the ark. But now that the trouble has come, I think Providence has sent me here to help you to bear it."

How was Agnes to stand out against such proffered sympathy—how resist such sisterly pleading to be a friend and comforter? Under an impulse not to be striven against, the partition wall of reserve fell away, and throwing herself impetuously into Miss Elliot's arms, she hid her crimson face in her bosom. This breaking of the ice was a preliminary to the fullest confidence, her heart freely and fully opened itself to the inmost recesses, and in low tones, yet with growing calmness, and increasing strength she told all that had taken place that afternoon in the Birch Dell.

"Thank God that all is so honorable to both," murmured her listener with heartfelt sincerity. Though you are in trouble and darkness the path of duty is clear. That path you have nobly entered; follow it steadily, and perhaps God will send light and joy in His own good time."

This and much more did Miss Elliott wisely and lovingly utter, and soon Agnes realised what strength lies in friendship and sympathy. She quickly recovered from the weakness which had prostrated her, and after washing all trace of tears from her cheeks, accompanied Miss Elliot to May's room, and was there able to manifest a calmness of demeanour so little different from her usual palcid disposition that the invalid had no suspicion of what had occurred. For this Agnes was unspeakably thankful, her intensely earnest desire being that May should never learn the nature of her trouble, its source and its bitterness. Now that the first shock was over, she had no fear of being again overcome as when the dash of the first wave came suddenly upon her. The support she had already received from Miss Elliott's sympathy and counsel, joined to her native strength of heart and mind and the consciousness of having sacrificed herself for the sake of duty, were sufficient to enable her to maintain a calm exterior and her usual cheerfulness and composure. Agnes Borland was no weak sentimental girl to mope and pine and sigh her life away because of her heart's deep disappointment. If she was strong in affection she was also strong in judgment. While she had the capacity to feel she had also the courage to bear, and had no notion of wearing her heart on her sleeve either for daws to peck at or doves to mourn over.

The sun was setting as she left the Grange to proceed to her mother's cottage. She had not seen Orwell since their return from the Dell. He was still closeted with Reuben Langton in the library, a circumstance which gave her some relief, because though for the sake of appearances she had no wish to shun him, she was glad of the quiet walk in the still evening, when the gloaming was stealing over the woods and tranquillity lay on the heart of nature. The outward peace and silence had a soothing effect on her agitated spirit, and by the time she reached the cottage she had attained such calmness of mind as to tell her mother all that had occurred with unfaltering voice and tearless eyes. It was only when her mother gathered her in her bosom in her own name and in the name of her dead father, the honour of whose memory she had preserved, that a sob came from her bosom and her firmness for a moment forsook her. But only for a moment. Summoning all her resolution, she pressed back the coming tears, warmly returned her mother's fervent kiss, and sang with a clear, melodious voice the the inspiring strain appropriately selected for their evening worship—

"Why art thou then cast down, my soul?
What should discourage thee?
Or why with vexing doubts art thou
Disquieted in me?
Still trust in God: for Him to praise
Good cause I yet shall have;
He of my countenance is the health,
My God that doth me save."

That night Agnes Borland enjoyed a long, calm, refreshing sleep within her mother's arms, which enfolded her in their tender embrace as outward symbols of maternal ove and divine protection.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

SMOKERS,

I will unhesitatingly guarantee my

Gold Flake Cut Plug

to be the BEST SMOKING TOBACCO in CANADA.

It is made by a new and original process hrough which the rank nicotine is extracted and the sweet Aroma and Natural Flavor are retained. It is made from pure sun-cured, Bright Virginia Leaf, without the aid of coloring or injurious compounds. It is cut ready for use and neatly packed in tin foil, in compact 4 ounce packages. It will keep in any climate and will not burn the tongue

As dealers are slow to take hold of a new thing, however much its merit, until there is a demand for it, I have determined to place it directly within the reach of all. For the next ninety days, where it cannot be obtained of local dealers, I will send two sample packages (4 oz. each) post paid, to one address, on receipt of 50 cts. (postage stamps or currency.) All lovers of the pipe are invited to give it a trial.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

OUR GREAT DISCOUNT

CLOTHING SALE

Will be continued until further notice. Stacks of Clothing have been sold. Customers are pleased, we are pleased, and the only ones not pleased are competitors who growl and grumble about that "awful discount."

20 Per Cent RETURNED IN CASH

"AYE, THERE'S THE RUB!"

Well, we never expect to please rivals—in fact we never try. Our Customers' good will, and feeling that they can buy from us to better advantage than anywhere else, are of far more importance to us.

BESIDES A REDUCTION IN PRICES

WE GIVE BACK $2 OUT OF $10.

Everybody knows what that means. It is easy enough to make loud pretensions of selling cheap, but facts tell better than pretentions. Mark this: All our clothing is marked in plain figures, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent., and make no second price. These are facts. If you want

BEAVER OVERCOATS,

NAP ULSTERS,

WEDDING SUITS,

BUSINESS SUITS,

Or a first-class Garment of any kind come straight to the Lion and take advantage of the Discount.

MANTLES! MANTLES! MANTLES!

We have still a very full assortment of Ladies' Stylish Mantles. These we are anxious to dispose of, and are offering them at exceedingly low prices. Ladies, come to the Lion.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets, Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buy at the right time. Come to the Lion.

"N. P." alias National Policy.

We commend to the earnest attention of those who favour the National Policy the following article from the Hamilton Times. We have no doubt there are many similar cases in this city as the one referred to by our contemporary :—

An article which appeared a few days ago in these columns relative to the distress which exists among mechanics out of employment and others in the city, who are too honest to steel and too proud to beg, has been the means of working some good. Several cases that we are aware of have been attended to and efforts made to put the families of the unfortunate men beyond the reach of starvation. One of these is worthy of being related. It is that of a sober, industrious and honest workingman, who has a good trade, but who has been unable for nine months to secure anything like steady employment. He was too proud to let his circumstances be known until a few days ago when he went to a friend and begged for food, not for himself but for his wife who had tasted nothing for twenty-four hours and for his two children one of them six months old. The friend who had had no suspicion of the true state of affairs found there was neither food nor fuel. The husband and wife in their efforts to keep up appearances had pawned an overcoat, an undercoat, a shawl, a chain and a locket valued by them at $40, for which they obtained $4 75. This money had been spent from time to time as raised, and as no more could be secured without taking out of the house the very necessaries of life, the mechanic in question reported his case to his friend. That friend having offered immediate relief, went to the pawnshop to redeem some of the articles there. He found that on the overcoat on which only $1 75 had been advanced, though it cost more than $20, the charges were $2 75. This was startling enough, but a more startling revelation was afforded by the presence of a large pile of overcoats and other clothing in excellent repair which had been sent from all parts of the city. The assertion that there is more suffering and less work this winter than last is amply borne out by evidence at hand. One of our foundries which has been shut down for a whole month only reopened last Saturday. Other shops are working five days in the week or on short time by the day. There are many deserving families in straits for want of the opportunity of the bread-winner to secure employment. It is said that there never were more applications to the city for food and fuel and that a respectable class of people never seen there before, now frequent the soup kitchen. The subject is a painful one, so painful, indeed, that it is to be hoped there will be change for the better soon. The fiscal policy which was to do much for the country, even before it was brought into effect, has now been nearly a year in force, yet the times are harder, employment difficult to get, wages lower and the suffering greater than at any time under Mackenzie. Many a man who helped to vote Mr. Mackenzie out of power rues it to-day, and would, if he had the chance, make the score even by assisting to pitch the Macdonald Administration out of office and bring back an enlightened and fair minded Government.

Mothers Mothers ! Mothers ! ! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.

Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Laidlaw, authorizing the City of Guelph to consolidate its debenture debt.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) asked whether it is the intention of the Government to introduce legislation, or to consent to legislation, whether by public or private bill, to the erection or setting apart of any new county or counties during the present session.

Mr. Mowat answered in the negative.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) asked whether it is the intention of the Government this session to appoint an Inspector of Railways, having the same power as have been exercised for some time by the Railway Commission in England.

Mr. Mowat—It is not.

Mr. Morris' motion for the papers relating to the restraint imposed on ex-Alderman Small, of Toronto, by the Attorney-General led to a lively discussion, which lasted almost up to the hour of adjournment. His object in bringing up this matter was to elicit a statement of opinion in the House and the country as to whether officers in the employ of this Government should be allowed to take part, first in Municipal, second in Provincial, and third in Federal elections. The case referred to in his motion practically included all these.

The Bill to legalize By-law 310 of the City of Brantford, granting a by-law to establish a cotton factory, was read a second time.

The house went into Committee on the Bill introduced by Mr. Crooks to amend the Agriculture and Arts Act, and reported the Bill without amendment.

The Maine trouble has come to a close, at least for the present. On Wednesday the Fusionist Legislature met and adjourned until August next, after which the majority of the Fusionist representatives returned to their homes.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

An appeal for aid for the famishing Poles and Germans in Upper Silesia is being made in the States.

The Earl of Bessborough is dead.

Slight shocks of earthquake continue in Cuba.

The trial of Gonzales, who attempted to assassinate the King of Spain, will be allowed to proceed, there being some doubts as to his alleged insanity.

The Liverpool Home Rulers have decided to support Lord Ramsay in the Parliamentary contest in that city, he having promised to support an enquiry into the question of Home Rule.

The Distress in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Jan. 28.—The statement reported in the Irish newspapers to have been made at a meeting at Buffalo, N. Y., on Sunday, that defaulters in payment of rent are excluded from Mansion House relief, was considered at a public meeting of the Committee, The Committee desires to say that this statement, if made, is totally without foundation, and that it is impossible to conceive how it could be uttered. Real distress is the only condition for obtaining assistance from this Committee. It acts exclusively through local organizations, which include clergymen and representative laymen of all denominations and opinions, rendering impossible the alleged distinction between sufferers. This committee meets three times weekly, and is composed of representative men of all shades of opinion whose sole anxiety is to keep their fellow-countrymen from perishing of hunger. The meetings of this committee are open to the press.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Parnell's Visit to Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29.—The directors of Richilieu and Ontario Navigation Co. have resolved not to declare a dividend for the past half year.

The Gazette, in an editorial commenting on Mr. Parnell's visit says:—"The Mayor will be guilty of little less than outrage against the sentiment of a large and influential section of the people of this city if in his official character he participates in any way in the demonstration to Mr. Parnell.

Large Fire at Delhi—Loss $4,300.

DELHI, Ont., Jan. 29.—About 12 o'clock last night a fire was discovered in the Methodist Church, which was soon consumed. Spreading east, the flames ignited Mr. Ward's barn, dwelling and tinshop and the American hotel stables, which were burned. Mr. Ward's loss is about $1,400; insured in the Waterloo Mutual for $300. American hotel loss about $400; insured in the Union for $200. The Methodist Church loss is valued about $2,500; insured for $1,100 in the Union. The fire originated in the basement of the church. Cause unknown.

Wellington and Georgian Bay Railway—The Condition of the Road.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 29.—The Wellington and Georgian Bay Railroad is graded, and some stations built from Palmerston to Durham. From Durham to Owen Sound, nothing has been done yet, but a survey made. The company is applying this season for Government aid. If that is obtained the road goes on; otherwise there is not much prospect of its being built. The road was to have been graded by local bonuses. It then passed over to either the Great Western or Grand Trunk. The Western will only take it if it is so arranged as to come to Owen Sound. If the road stops at Durham they don't want it.

Dr. Schultz has purchased a residence in Ottawa, and will shortly take up his permanent residence there. It is rumored that the doctor will be taken into the Cabinet at an early date, some one of the present members being shelved.

Special Business Notices.

Now is the time to buy at Day's book store, balance of Christmas stock to be sold off at any price. Day sells cheap.

A REQUEST.—Will parties indebted to us kindly pay their accounts this week and oblige, A. O. BUCHAM. d6

PROBS.—For to-day and to-morrow and for a month to come, are that we shall continue to sweep in the trade to the Fashionable West End. New goods always attract. Especially real Swiss embroideries.

A. O. BUCHAM.

Writing desks, work boxes, globe boxes sewing baskets, dolls, fancy goods, toys, balance of Christmas stock left over at Day's bookstore will be cleared out at any price.

THAT DISCOUNT.—The great discount clearing sale at the Lion will be continued. —20 per cent off for cash. In furs an immense discount of 33⅓ for cash. All goods marked in plain figures and no second price. These terms should draw the trade.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

Local News.

MRS. DR. CLARKE is lying very ill at Palmerston.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Moderate to fresh, northerly to easterly winds, partly cloudy, cold weather.

MRS. GRACE will appear at Police Court to-morrow, to answer for being disorderly on London Road, on Tuesday night.

DRUNKENNESS.—John Isaacs, an Indian, was arrested on the street last night for being druuk. He was remanded for trial to-morrow.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—Principal McIntyre, M. A., lectures in St. Andrew's Church to-morrow evening, on "Nelson." No admission fee will be charged.

"THE Forces and Phenomena of the atmosphere" is the subject of Prof. Richard's lecture in the city hall to-night, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

MONEY LOST.—A Police Court official lost his purse containing $14 at the Police Court yesterday. The finder, on leaving it with Chief McMillan, will receive $5 reward.

THE ROW AT THE CITY HOTEL.—Mr. McMillan, Chief of Police, went to Berlin yesterday afternoon and arrested A. F. Harley on the strength of a warrant charging him with swearing and making a disturbance at the City Hotel, on Tuesday night. At Police Court to-day, (Thursday) Harley was fined $2 and $10 costs.

THE committee appointed to visit St. Joseph's and the General Hospitals, composed of Messrs. Cross, Ogden, Broadfoot, Anderson, Gordon, Rea, Leslie, McMillan and McMullen, left the Wellington Hotel at two o'clock for the General Hospital, and leave the same place again at 4 o'clock, where teams will be awaiting to take those who wish to go to St. Joseph's Hospital.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Robt. Thom, teamster, aged about 37 years, of Fergus, met with a painful accident on Wednesday afternoon. He was preparing to leave the American Hotel stables, and had his back turned towards the horses, when they started. Before they could be stopped he was caught between the beam above the doorway and the seat of the waggon, which is unusually high. He was drawn in this way clear on to the doorway, his body being considerably bruised from the shoulders downwards. The sufferer was carried into the hotel and Dr. Brock was called to attend him. This (Thursday) morning he had so far recovered as to admit of his being driven to Fergus in a hack. It is expected he will be able to resume work in a few days.

FINDLEY MCGREGOR.—Mr. Findley McGregor, a Scottish vocalist and character singer, will give one of his entertainments in the city hall on Thursday evening next. The Times thus speaks of Mr. Findley's performance in Hamilton: — "And what should be said of Findley McGregor, simply that he was immense in everything he acted, sang or said. His musical melange in which he introduced imitations of the harp, banjo, street organ and flute, with the songs "Hame Cam' the Guidman," "Language of Love," etc., so pleased the audience that almost continuous applause greeted him throughout. His character impersonations in the second part were such as the valley city have never seen before. The teutonic song "How Yacop found it out," and "My Love Dan," especially created great amusement.

CHALMERS' CHURCH.—The annual business meeting of this congregation was held on Wednesday night, when there was a good turn out of members and adherents. The refreshments were provided by the Elders and Managers, who also did the waiting, and proved themselves thoroughly fit for the work. Tea over, Mr. Stirton was called to the chair, when the different reports were read and adopted. They are of a very gratifying and encouraging character. Short addresses were made during the evening and the customary votes of thanks passed, also a special vote to Mr. Melvin, the Sec.-Treasurer, for the time and labour bestowed on his work. Mr. Maitland's choir was in fine trim and the pieces they rendered—both vocal and instrumental—were admirably done and greatly applauded. The solos by Miss Annie McPherson and Mr. Maitland, were also much appreciated. The proceedings altogether were of a pleasant character.

BOGUS MARRIAGES.—We have received about a week ago notice of a marriage which was said to have taken place between two parties, residents of Eramosa. The signature of the sender not accompanying it, we doubted its genuineness, and after making inquiries found it was a hoax. The scamp who would lend himself to such contemptible work deserves a good drubbing, and he would soon get it if we only found him out. We are holding a notice of birth, said to have taken place in Nichol, on the 15th inst., because we believe it is spurious. Parties sending us such notices by mail must in all cases accompany them with their names as a pledge of genuiness.

MR. ANDREW FOLEY, hotel-keeper, Morriston, has purchased lot 36, 9th Concession, Puslinch, from John Kennedy for the sum of $3,000 cash. Mr. Kennedy intends to go to Manitoba.

A GOOD MOVE.—The Orange Young Britons, Burford, have organized a Sunday afternoon Bible Class.

THE County Council this morning instructed the Finance Committee to make some provisions for the relief of the distressed in Ireland and report.

ANTI-SWEARING.—Several men in Hudson, N. Y., have made a fund by contributing $100 each. At the end of the year any one who can be proved to have used profane language will forfeit his right to withdraw any of the money, which will be distributed among the others.

THE GOW CUP.—Several matches were played to-day and yesterday for the Gow Cup, with the following result:—Wm. Heffernan, directed by A. Congalton, 21, vs. W. C. Cubitt, directed by J. T. Nichols, 16. H. Lockwood, directed by A. Congalton, 20; vs. A. Stewart, directed by A. Robertson, 10. R. Fyfe, directed by A. Bruce, 24; vs. R. Macgregor, directed by A. Congalton, 11. D. Stirton and James Barclay play this afternoon.

The Poultry Show.

The Ontario Poultry Show opens at Guelph on Tuesday of next week, and will be kept open until Friday. From the number of entries sent in, the Show promises to be the finest yet held. There will be every accommodation for visitors in the Drill Shed, and the show will be well worth the price of admission.

The Bruce County Council has passed a resolution recommending legislation to put a stop to the tramp nuisance, and authorising the Warden to communicate with the wardens of other counties with a view of securing their co-operation.

Magnetic iron ore has recently been discovered in the county of Hastings, and a valuable bed of asbestos in the township of Hungerford.

All the Indiana woollen mills, with one exception, shut down this week owing to the high price of wool and the low price of goods.

Mr. Parnell has, in answer to an invitation from the Irish Catholic Union, signified his intention of visiting Toronto, and lecturing under their auspices about February 20th.

Professor Dr. Mill, of Dalhousie College, the well known author of "The Dodge Club," "Cord and Cresc," and other works, died on Wednesday, after a short illness, of congestion of the lungs.

Dr. Bergin's official majority in Cornwall is 187; Mr. McLennan's in the township is 7. The total majority for Dr. Bergin is 180.

THE DISTRESS IN IRELAND

Public Meeting in the City Hall to Discuss the Question.

The City to be Asked for Five Hundred Dollars.

A public meeting was held in the City Hall on Wednesday evening to devise means for procuring assistance in this city for the relief of the distressed in Ireland. There was a tolerably large audience, and those present showed their appreciation of the sentiments expressed, by frequent rounds of applause. In the absence of Mayor Sleeman, Mr. J. C. Chadwick, President of St. Patrick's Society, took the chair at the opening of the meeting. Later in the evening the Mayor arrived and occupied the chair. On the platform besides these gentlemen were Rev. Robert Torrance, Fathers McDonald, DuMortier, Messrs. J. P. McMillan, P. Mahon, M. J. Doran, John Roche, Wm. Stevenson, E. O'Connor, F. J. Chadwick, John Murphy, (Mount Tara,) J. M. Bond, H. Hatch, D. Guthrie, M. P., James Laidlaw, M. P. P., P. O'Leary, Col. Higinbotham and Dr. Nunan.

The chairman in opening the meeting made a few preliminary remarks in regard to the object of the meeting which had brought them together to-night. Every one who read the papers was well aware of the great distress which existed in Ireland. He was not prepared to say at whose door the charge of such existing things should be placed, but of their existence there was not the least doubt. He stated that the gentry and large landed proprietors, rolling in wealth and affluence knew and cared little for the state of their less fortunate brethren. They knew very little of the miseries existing in the hovels of which they were the owners. He stated that these huts were of the most wretched description. The floors were earthen and the roofs leaky. This state of things might be said to be the dispensation of Providence. He trusted that good would come out of this great distress to Ireland in the end. After other remarks of a general nature he introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. P. O'Leary.

Mr. O'Leary on coming forward was greeted with applause. Some days ago he received a telegram from Mr. P. Mahon, asking if he would speak at a meeting in this city with reference to the distress in Ireland. He answered that he would, and that was what brought him here to-night. It had been stated that he was an immigration agent. He distinctly stated that he never was an immigration agent. He had come here at his own expense to speak a word for his country in her dark hour of trial. The distress in Ireland was the result of a direct cause, viz.; three bad seasons for the crops, the last of which had been the worst, the potatoes, hay and grain crops failing this year. In Ireland the population depended chiefly on the crops for an existence, there being something less than 50,000 people engaged in manufactures, so that sufficient could not be derived from that source to supply the requirements of the nation. Last summer he had gone through a large portion of Ireland, and at that time had predicted poverty and destitution. He wrote to Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, describing the condition of the crops, and telling that the results he predicted must follow. The letter was acknowledged, and assurance given that it would be considered. The speaker pointed out that wealthy landlords owned many towns in Ireland, which was inconsistent with modern thought and progress. The faculties of Irishmen were as large as those of other Christian people, and Irishmen were as good as they were, yet in Ireland the people were beggars in consequence of the system of tenantry. It was said when the poor farmers dressed well, and dressed their wives and daughters well, that they were extravagant. He believed that these people should enjoy the product of their labors, but it was not the case in Ireland. He was told that a means of escaping from the distress was to emigrate from the country. To show how people had resorted to emigration as compared with England and Scotland, in the former the emigration had been 2, in Scotland 7½, and in Ireland 15, to every 1000 of the inhabitants. Immigration took the youth and sinew of the country and left those behind who were unable to work, being old and decrepid. Speaking of the workhouses he said they were full, and it went against the grain for Irishmen to apply for charity, or admission to the workhouses when they were strong and able to work. But they were often compelled to seek refuge in these houses through circumstances over which they had no control. He was well aware that the workhouses were in many instances the hotbeds of disease, and many a one had found an early grave through having been compelled to seek refuge within their walls. The speaker then entered into the rent question, and that of valuation of land. He showed that on the estates that were rented at a low figure the peasantry were in a well to do and comparatively happy and comfortable condition, but in other cases where landlords rented their land at high figures a great amount of destitution existed. To give some idea of the poverty of the country he would state that a man renting a farm, say for £20 a year, would have to pay for that year £5 for poor rates. This fact spoke for itself. The country was bankrupt. There was no money in circulation, and all that the country had to rely on was the products of the soil, and if these failed them, they had nothing else to depend upon. He then entered into the evils arising from the rental system in Ireland, and contrasted the happy condition of the peasantry of Normandy and some parts of France, which he visited last year, with the condition of his poor countrymen at home. There was no doubt, he said, that when more burdens were placed on a country than it could bear, national bankruptcy would follow. He then went on to speak of the great distress existing in Ireland at the present time, and to uphold his statements read extracts from newspapers and private correspondence, and letters from the clergy, among whom was the venerable Archbishop of Dublin. These men, he said, had a better opportunity of judging of the distress of the people than most men, from the nature of their office and the exertions they were putting out for the relief of the people. He had lately received a letter from the Nun of Kenmare in Ireland, and the description which she gave of the destitution was heartrending. This question, he said, was not a political question, nor a question of creed or origin. It was a question of want and suffering of thousands of our fellow-beings, who were bound to our sympathies through the tie of one common brotherhood. He appealed to the sympathies and christian charity of the people of this city to open their hearts and give liberally towards the distressed in Ireland, and God would abundantly bless the givers, and give them a sufficient reward in return. He trusted that every one would help as far as their means would allow, and for himself he would only ask that they give him credit for sincerity in the work which he had so dearly at heart. After another eloquent appeal in behalf of his countrymen Mr. O'Leary took his seat.

In answer to a question of where the most destitution existed in Ireland, he said that it was all along the western coast. The reason for this was because there was no trade done there. On the other coast there was very little destitution. The reason for this he said was the trade and manufactures with England.

After Mr. O'Leary had taken his seat, the Mayor who had arrived during the evening stated that he was sorry that he could not have been present to take the chair at the commencement of the meeting. He had to be in Hamilton on railway business. He need hardly say that he was in favor of anything of a benevolent character.

The Rev. Mr. Torrance then read the following resolution:

"Resolved, that in view of the distress existing amongst our fellow subjects in Ireland, and of the imminent danger of famine and its attendant horrors in that portion of her Majesty's Dominions, it behooves us in the name of Christian charity to contribute as liberally as our circumstances will allow towards the relief of the distressed people of Ireland."

Rev. Mr. Torrance, said the resolution stated two things, the fact that there was distress in Ireland, and the probability that famine would ensue. The fact could not be called in question, for we had reports of the distress through the press, by delegates from the districts where it existed, and in other ways. The facts were too patent and clear to be questioned, and he hoped the meeting would show their belief and sympathy for the distressed by carrying the resolution. The probability might become a reality, and the distress result in a famine. No words could paint the true picture of war, yet the horrors of famine were greater than these. We had a duty to perform in this matter—to aid in relieving the distress. He who has blessed you with every good and perfect gift, and will judge you at the last, will not overlook the widow's mite. We were bound to aid these people on the broad ground of humanity. We all belonged to the same common brotherhood, and were banded together by the bonds of humanity. Then there was the claim of patriotism and that of being kinsmen. Lastly there was the consideration that we were Christians, and they were Christians. Christianity had a warm and expanding influence over the heart, and if it had lodged itself in our souls we would show our sympathy with our fellow christians. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord," no matter to what nationality the poor might belong. Let these considerations move us to respond to the appeal, and give as God has prospered us.

Mr. Guthrie, in seconding the resolution, said if was our proud satisfaction to know that we looked upon the sufferers as fellow subjects. He had heard it said that there were poor in Guelph who should be aided before the Irish distressed. The poor we had always with us, but this was a case where thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands were on the verge of actual starvation. It gave him great pleasure to second the resolution.

The resolution was then passed amid applause.

Mr. Hatch then moved

"That the Municipal Council of the City of Guelph be requested to this meeting appropriate a sum of $500 towards the relief of the suffering people of Ireland, and that we as citizens agree to sustain the Council in such a course and that said sum be transmitted by His Worship the Mayor to the Lord Mayor of Dublin."

Mr. Hatch said it was his good fortune to visit Ireland in 1848, after the potatoe famine, and he learned then that there was no people who could suffer with more fortitude. He hoped the motion would carry.

Mr. Murphy, of Mount Tara, in seconding the motion said it was now forty-three years since he left Ireland, but he was not unacquainted with the trials of his unfortunate country. He did not believe it was the fault of the Irish people that they had been visited with misfortune, but the chief cause was the system of tenantry. As a ratepayer he would like to see the motion carry.

The motion was then unanimously passed.

Mr. Laidlaw rose to move a vote of thanks to the chairman. He apologized for neglecting to inform Mr. Doran whether he could attend this meeting, having promised to do so. There could be no question as to whether we were going to aid our brothers in distress across the wide waters, for he believed we had only to know that they in Ireland were in want to respond warmly to their appeal for aid. He then moved a vote of thanks to the chairman.

Mr. O'Leary seconded the motion, which was carried.

Mayor Sleeman, in acknowledging the vote of thanks, said this was the first public meeting over which he had presided, and he was sorry to do so on an occasion which gave evidence that Ireland was in need of aid. He could only say that when the last motion passed, was brought up in council it would be considered.

The meeting was then brought to a close.

The Central Exhibition.

We understand that the Directors of the South Wellington Agricultural Society have determined to make an effort among the farmers to raise sufficient funds to wipe out the debt which still stands against them in connection with the Central Exhibition. That debt was incurred by the heavy outlay the Directors were obliged to make when the Exhibition was started and for a year or two after. Had the weather not been unfavorable on the chief days of the Exhibition for two or three years in succession it would have been cleared off by this time. But they were unfortunate, and though every item of expense has been cut down consistent with the efficiency and success of the Show, that debt still remains.

It is hoped that the farmers generally and extensive and successful exhibitors especially, will make a generous response to this appeal. The business men of this city have done their full share in keeping up the Exhibition by contributing almost exclusively the money and articles for the special prizes for eight years, which prizes ranged from $800 to $1,000 each year. Let the farmers and large exhibitors now manifest equal liberality, and if they do, their efforts will go far towards paying off the debt. We trust, therefore, this appeal will meet with a generous response, and that by our continued united efforts in city and county—for the city will in the future, we feel sure, do as much as it has done in the past—we will keep the Exhibition up to the high position it has attained, and which has been our pride and boast since it was organized.

The Boyle "Globe" Libel Suit.

We are not at all surprised at the report that the Government have determined to effect some reform in the matter of contracting for the public printing. They could not do otherwise in the face of the scandalous transactions which were brought to light during the Boyle Globe libel suit. From the evidence given in that case it was abundantly proved that the present system of contracting offers a premium to all kinds of rascality. Those who know best the inner workings of this business are not at all astonished at the revelations made, for they fully expected them and even something more. It is even said that litigation in connection with this scandal is not ended. Messrs. McLean, Roger & Co., the Government printers, have given public notice that three several notes, each for the sum of $500, made on the 23rd of April, 1879, by them to the order of E. G. Charlton, and payable at the Bank of Montreal, Ottawa, are believed by them to be in the hands of a party who has not given value for them, and the said notes have been obtained by false pretences; the public are therefore cautioned not to negotiate these notes. It is further learned that the third of these notes, which has already been discounted by the bank, became due on the day the above notice was publicly given and was protested. These notes are those referred to in the libel case in this matter.

The part that Mr. Boyle played in this business is well brought out in the evidence. Mr. E. G. Charlton testified as follows: I said to Boyle I was authorized by Rogers to give a consideration for the withdrawal of his tender; the sum was $3,000; Boyle said he would not withdraw because it would be injurious to his reputation; there was some talk about my own tender; I told Boyle that my tender was put in to assist Mr. Rodgers and was at the latter's disposal. When Boyle was going away he said: "I will leave the matter in Cotton's hands and yours." I never spoke to Boyle again after that day. On Thursday, the 24th, Cotton and Starrs came to my room to get some explanation from me as to the effect of the withdrawal and how it should be done; I had in my hand a cheque and notes to be given to either of them on the handing over of Boyle's withdrawal; it was $2,500 in notes and a cheque for $500; I had pencilled out a simple form of withdrawal. An hour after Cotton came back alone; Mr. Rodgers was then there; Cotton handed the letter, and Rogers gave him the cheque and the five notes; those are two of the notes; Rogers said how do I know this is Boyle's letter; Cotton said I will witness it; I did not remark the date of the letter; and it was given to me on Thursday morning; my letter of withdrawal is dated the 23rd; I handed it it in on the Thursday forenoon, after I got Boyle's letter; I said, after Cotton had witnessed Boyle's letter, that it was desirable to keep the thing quiet; I was paid nothing for withdrawal; it was done out of friendship for Mr. Rogers; had nothing to do with the withdrawal of Mackintosh's tender: I paid $1,450 for the withdrawal of Hope's tender.

Have only paid two of the five notes given; another was due on the 26th inst.; they were all given by me for the withdrawal of tenders; Mackintosh got $10,000; he was to get $12,000 altogether at the rate of $2,000 a year; he has actually got $4,000 so far; the memorandum on the back of one of the cheques "re Boyle's tender special expense account" was an office memorandum; don't believe anybody could have filled the contract without loss below my figures. I made a proposal to Boyle on the Saturday night, but he said he intended to carry out his tender. I made no offer, as he said he would only accept one-third interest in the concern. He repudiated a consideration, and said he was not going to do anything wrong. I employed Charlton to negotiate with Boyle, because Cotton suggested, saying Charlton was an Irish Catholic, and Boyle would have confidence in him. Charlton tendered at my suggestion, and also Mr. Mackintosh; the notes I made are the only guides I have as to the date I received the withdrawal of Boyle; did not pay Charlton anything; I paid Hope, but not personally.

Charles Mackintosh deposed that he had put in a tender for the printing, after an interview with Mr. Roger; that his application was made up by that gentleman; and that it was an understood thing, if all other things went well, his tender was to be assumed by McLean, Rogers & Co., and he was to have an interest. He would not deny he had got $12,000 to give up the contract.

No wonder the Judge in summing up said that he "never knew a more disgraceful and discreditable transaction—the shameless way the witnesses came into the box—two of them especially—one of them stating that he considered that he did not think there was anything wrong in it, and the other admitting that he was a contractor's broker. He had never seen anything of a more shameless character.

THERE are only twelve sessional writers and messengers employed during the present session in Toronto, while there were sixteen in each department last year.

THE Kingston News now turns its back on Mr. Hooper, the defaulting treasurer of Lennox, whose triumph over Mr. Cartwright at the election in 1878 was looked upon as such a victory for the Conservatives. Our contemporary, disgusted with the Tory member for Lennox, says:—"Now that the Hooper crookedness has been unveiled nothing in decency remains but for the M. P. ex-Treasurer to resign the place in Parliament, which he certainly obtained by resort to false pretences of both the positive and negative sort. And the only reparation the electors of Lennox can make for the stupendous error of sending their present member to Parliament is to call upon him to relinquish a seat which it is clear he cannot honorably or legally fill. Even those who voted for him must see that this is the only way in which they can recover and retain their own self-respect, as well as the violated honor of their country."

THE Bruce County Council has taken up the tramp question, and has petitioned the Legislature to amend the Vagrant Act so that able-bodied tramps can be imprisoned in the penitentiary for a period of from two to five years, or otherwise to pass a special Tramp Act.

Harriston Correspondence.

At a meeting of the young people of Guthrie Church held in the basement, on the 19th inst, a Literary Association Society was organized, to be known as Guthrie Church Young People's Association. James Cummings was elected President; J. Hinds, Vice-President; Miss Jane Wright, Secretary, and Miss Mary Welte, Treasurer. The meeting of the Association will be every alternate Tuesdays, and its objects are to bring out and cultivate the latent talent by debates on different subjects, and having dialogues, reading, recitations, etc. The object is a laudable one, and should receive assistance.

The new grist and flouring mill of Mr. D. B. White is busy, and is giving splendid satisfaction.

A meeting of the Harriston Brown Base Ball Club was held at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday evening of last week, with Joseph Fisher, President, in the chair. It was resolved to place a team in the field for the coming season. The election of officers was then proceeded with. The following is the result:—A. Sharp, President; S. A. Lennox, Vice President; John Livingston, Treasurer; E. H. Devon, Secretary; E. Robertson, Scorer; P. Lavin, manager. The following Board of Directors were then elected: J. B. Bingham, Joseph Fisher, R. T. Haight, John Hotson, A. J. Stewart, J. R. Strome and M. P. Emery. A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring officers, and also to the Captain, Mr. John Stapleton, for their zealous endeavors in behalf of the interests of the club, and attributed a great measure of the success which they attained in leading the club to victory and making them the champion of Canada, thus giving them first place in the annals of base ball in Canada.

Mr. T. J. Watson, of Harriston, D. D. G. M., of this district, assisted by G. M. D. Davidson, Grand Scribe, of London, and a number of brothers from Harriston, organized a new Encampment of the I. O. O. F. at Walkerton, on the 19th inst., to be known and hailed as the Saugeen Valley Encampment, No 46, I. O. O. F. The work of installation, etc., being concluded, the visiting brethren were entertained by the Walkerton brothers to an oyster supper, at Johnston's Hotel, after which a while was spent in social intercourse. This higher branch of the Order was started in Harriston a little more than a year ago, and has been marked by a healthy growth, and the new Encampment at Walkerton bids fair to take a permanent root and prosper.

The new Town Council met on Monday, the 19th inst., and took the requisite declaration of office. The old officers were reappointed. The new Council have entered into their duties under favorable auspices, and promise to give a good account of their deed at the end of the year. Oliver Johnson was appointed in place Mr. Empey. Mr. Empey is well versed in municipal matters, and will perform the duties in connection with the office efficiently.

The Minto Council also met on the same day, in the Township Hall, and proceeded to the appointment of officers. A. C. R. Saunders, who has for a number of years faithfully performed the duties of Clerk and Treasurer, was reappointed. Mr. E. Atcheson was reappointed Assessor, which will be hailed with satisfaction by the ratepayers generally. John Henery was reappointed Collector for the eastern division of the Township, and Andrew Cairns for the western division, both of which appointments are good.

The annual missionary meeting in connection with St. George's Church took place on Monday evening, the 19th inst. The chair was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Graham. Addresses were delivered by Revs. Messrs. Carmichael, of Hamilton, and Cordiner, of Mount Forest. The address of the Rev. Mr. Carmichael was really a masterly effort, as was that of Mr. Cordiner. The offerings were in behalf of the Diocese of Algoma.

The second annual anniversary services of the dedication of Guthrie Church will take place on Sabbath the first of February, when the Rev. G. M. Milligan, B. A., of Toronto, will preach at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m. The ladies of the church will hold a soiree in the basement on the following evening, tea to be served from 6 to 8 p.m., after which the Rev. Mr. Milligan will deliver a lecture entitled the "Contented man, who is he?" An efficient choir will be in attendance, and everything done to make this anniversary surpass any previous effort.

The Late Election in Minto.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—In your last Harriston correspondence it was stated that Mr. Darroch was defeated by Mr. Prain, in 1876, by over two hundred majority, and that, since then, he did not enter a real contest until he opposed Mr. Scott this year for the Deputy Reeveship, when the previous verdict of the people was repeated. I wish to inform your correspondent that he places the matter in a very unfair light, which Mr. Scott and a majority of the ratepayers very well know. Although Mr. Darroch allowed himself to be brought out as a candidate for the Deputy Reeveship, he never entered into the contest, nor would he allow his friends to do anything for him. The Reeve, Mr. Prain, along with Mr. Scott, worked hard against Mr. Darroch, and then Mr. Scott got in with only nineteen of a majority. But we would infer from your correspondent that he got in by over two hundred which is not the case. If Mr. Darroch had entered the contest with half the vigor that Mr. Scott did, he would have been elected to the the Deputy Reeveship with a large majority, which Mr Scott very well knows.

Yours, &c.,
FAIR PLAY.

Minto, January 26, 1880.

Wellington County Council.

COURT HOUSE, GUELPH,
Jan'y. 28th, 1880.

The council met at ten o'clock, the Warden in the chair. All the members were present. Mr. Leslie, chairman of the Special Committee to strike the Standing Committees, presented his report as follows:

Finance—Leslie, McDermott, Boyle, Ogden, Reid, Green, Ross, Brisbin, McMullen and Rea.

Assessment — Sweetnam, McLuhan, Henderson, Long, Gordon, Marshall, Anderson, Stewart, Cross, Burt, Fraser, Godfrey, Nicol, Bennet, Armitage, Wissler, Waters, McMullen, Scott and Allan.

Road and Bridge—Rea, Armstrong, Bennet, Ogden, McMillan, McDermott, Armitage, Boyle, Semple, Scott, Luxton, Wissler, Brown, Thompson, Green, Hampton, Ross and Johnson.

County Roads—Anderson, Cross, Long, Burt, Gordon, Marshall, Sweetnam, Henderson, Stewart, Broadfoot, Gillespie, Allan, Leslie, Luxton and McLuhan.

County Property—Nicol, Fraser, Brown, Broadfoot, Sweetnam, Long, Harcourt and Scott.

Education—Allan, Hampton, Armitage, Marshall, Godfrey, Semple, Green, Brisbin, Reid, Johnson and Gordon.

House of Refuge—Anderson, McMillan, Godfrey, Cross, Rea, Leslie and Broadfoot.

Boundary Line Bridges—Rea, Armitage, Wissler, Harcourt, Gillespie, McMullen, Ogden, McLuhan, Henderson.

Printing—Stewart, Allan, Broadfoot and the Clerk.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Cross, seconded by Mr. Boyle, that the report of the Treasurer as read yesterday, be printed in sheet form for circulation among the members. Carried.

A petition was presented from the ratepayers of Guelph township to remove the old toll house near the Model Farm. Referred to County Roads Committee.

On motion of Messrs. Stewart and Wissler, a By-law to reduce the Credit Valley Railway rate for the current year, was introduced.

Messrs. Henderson and Semple moved, that Mr. Stewart be appointed a Director of the C. V. Railway in behalf of the council.

Moved by Messrs. Marshall and Ross, that Mr. Wissler be the Director. The motions were withdrawn for the present, it appearing that a by-law was in existence providing for the vote on all county officers being taken by ballot.

Moved by Messrs. Rea and Waters, that the County Roads Committee consider the advisability of reducing the expenses of county roads $50 per mile to $25, and petition the Legislature for an Act to enable the council to hand back all county roads to the several municipalities in which they lie. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Leslie and Nicol that the Treasurer furnish a statement, showing the county rate paid by each municipality during last five years. Carried.

The Clerk read the opinion of the County Solicitor in reference to the question which had been raised at the previous meeting, in regard to the qualification of Mr. Mair as auditor. The solicitor gave it as his opinion that the gentleman abovementioned was qualified.

The council went into committee on the by-law to appoint auditors, Mr. Sweetnam in the chair.

The first blank in the by-law was filled in with the name of Wm. Whitelaw of Guelph Township. John Mair, of Nichol, Geo. Martin, of Erin, Jas. Clarke, of Peel, Wm. Ross, of Puslinch, A. D. Ferrier, of Fergus, Edward Dynes, of Maryborough, A. Meiklejohn, of Harriston, were nominated for the other Auditor, but Mr. Dynes' name was withdrawn.

The following is the result of the final ballot:—Mair, 29; Martin, 1; Clarke, 6; Ross, 1.

Mr. Mair was declared elected, and his name was filled in the blank.

The blank for the salary of the Auditors was filled up with $50 for each auditor.

Mr. Leslie presented the report of the directors of the Guelph General Hospital, appointed a committee to visit the hospital and report thereon. The number of patients in the hospital was shown to be annually increasing. For 1879 there were admitted 149 patients; from the city 69, from the county 80. On the 1st January, 1880, there were remaining in the hospital 28; 9 from the city and 19 from the county.

The report showed that in accordance with the increase of patients the expenses had increased, that all due economy had been practised in the running of the institution; $275 was raised upon the land and cows are kept for the use of patients. The directors trusted that the council would make them a saitable grant to carry on the good work of the institution.

The report was referred to the Finance Committee.

Moved by Mr. McMullen, seconded by Mr. Ross, that the following members of council be a committee to visit the General Hospital:—Messrs. Cross, Ogden, Broadfoot, Anderson, Gordon, Rea, Leslie, McMullen, and the mover.

The council then adjourned till two o'clock.

The council resumed business at two o'clock.

The Warden read a petition from the Warden of Bruce, calling attention to the number of vagrants at present going through the country, and suggesting that the matter be brought before the Legislature, and that it be petitioned to make a special tramp Act to imprison tramps from two to five years in the penitentiary or take some other means of stopping the nuisance.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Marshall, that a Special Committee composed of the following members—Rea, Stewart, Leslie, Cross and the mover, be appointed to take action on the petition from the Reeve of Bruce, and that they report to-morrow.

The Clerk read the report of Dr. Orton, physician for the Poor House.

MEDICAL REPORT OF THE HOURE OF INDUSTRY.

Dr. Orton, Medical Superintendent of the House of Industry, submitted his annual report. He reported that of the 95 inmates, 62 had required more or less medical treatment. There was no serious epidemic during the year. One case of scarlet fever occurred, but the fever was prevented from spreading through the vigilance of the keeper and matron, the latter contracting it. Though the number was larger than the preceding year less deaths occurred, 7 patients having died. There were a number of inmates either demented or idiotic, whom he thought the Province should support. He recommended that they should be removed to insane asylums if possible. One man aged 81 was troubled with softening of the brain, and being stricken with paralysis proved a great trial to the matron. He spoke highly of the kind care the matron and keeper bestowed on the patients, neither sparing kindness nor care in alleviating the sufferings of the afflicted. He recommended the purchase of some air cushions, and at least one air bed, as he had great difficulty in preventing bed sores on the patients.

The clerk also read his annual report of the House of Industry, which will appear to-morrow.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Marshall, that the reports be printed in sheet form, and circulated among the members of the council. Carried.

A communication from Mr. George Murton, chairman of the Public School Board, was read. The substance of the communication was as follows:—According to law, the County Council had for a number of years provided a sum equivalent to the Legislative Grant to the High School. No payment, however, had been made for either half of 1879. It was presumed that the County Council held itself discharged from such liability on the ground that Guelph had become a city. But it must be evident that their obligation had not ceased till the 23rd April, for which period at least payment should be made proportionate to the Legislative grant. Payment should not be made for that period only, as the arbitration between the city and county provided that the "arrangements therein" should not take effect until 1st July, 1880, so that the council should be regarded as bound to pay the equivalent for the full half year ending 30th June, and not merely for the portion ending 23rd April. Guelph, as a town and city had expended large amounts in providing school accommodation, and had erected new High School buildings equal to any in the Province, to aid in which the council had only given $1,000, while it would cost the city $12,000. All along a number of pupils from rural districts attended the school, who had the benefits of the school on similar terms as children whose parents resided in the municipality and bore chief burden of its support. Of 168 scholars at the school 40 were from the county and were enjoying a free education. Taking these premises into consideration the Board trusted the Council would pay a sum equivalent to the legislative grant for the whole of the year 1879. The Board believed that legally there was no question as to the right of the council to pay the equivalent for the first half of 1879, and whatever might be the point as to the residue, yet in view of the fact it was respectfully submitted that the Council would treat the matter with characteristic fairness.

Referred to the proper committee.

Moved by Messrs. Leslie and Nicol, that leave be given to introduce a by-law for the sale of lands for taxes, and that it be read a first time. Carried.

Mr. Sweetnam presented a report from the Guelph St. Joseph's Hospital, asking for the usual grant. It was referred to the same committee as the Guelph General Hospital.

A by-law to appoint a director for the Credit Valley Railway for the ensuing year was introduced.

Moved by Messrs. Nicol and Leslie, that the statement brought down showing the amount of County rate paid by each municipality each year for the last five years, be printed in the minutes. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Ross and Boyle, that Messrs. Rea, McMillan, Marshall, Brown, Ogden, Wissler, Semple and Harcourt be a committee to consider the advisability of reducing the salaries of county officials, and report at this session. Lost.

Moved by Mr. Luxton and Gillespie, that the council go into committee on the by-law to appoint a director on behalf of the council for the Credit Valley Railway, Mr. McMullen in the chair.

Mr. F. G. Stewart, of Orangeville, and J. W. Burt, of Erin, were nominated for the office.

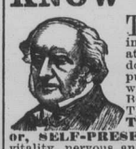
A ballot was then taken with the following result:—Stewart, 24; Burt, 13.

A number of accounts were presented and referred to the Finance Committee.

A petition was read by Mr. Scott with reference to "Pike Lake," either to build a bridge across it or make a road round it. Referred to Road and Bridge Committee.

The council then adjourned.

A FACT.—Our tables are fairly groaning to-day under another large purchase of "real Swiss embroideries"—in especially handsome wide and medium widths and including the lovely new "Guipure"—designs imported direct from Switzerland, for the ladies of Guelph, and not to be seen in any other house in Western Ontario to-day. Ladies, visit us to-morrow morning and inspect those lovely goods.—A. O. Bucham.



Hespeler Correspondence.

THE JUBILEE SINGERS.—The troupe of colored people who, under the auspices of the Methodist church, here, gave an entertainment in Glick's Hall, on the evening of the 20th inst., is acknowledged by all who heard them to be the best musical faculty that ever visited Hespeler. Although the evening on which they exhibited was somewhat unfavorable yet the receipts of the evening amounted to $29.50.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—The sermons in connection with the anniversary services of the Methodist Church here, were preached last Sabbath, in the morning by Rev. George Haigh, Presbyterian minister of the village, and in the afternoon and evening by the Rev. William Williams, of Guelph. There was a large congregation at each service, and both Rev. gentlemen interested their hearers to no small extent.

THE OYSTER SUPPER.—An oyster supper was given under the auspices of the same church on the following Monday evening. This was well patronized, and after a large quantity of oysters and other delicacies had disappeared in the basement, the people adjourned to the upper part of the church. Rev. Mr. Holmes, pastor of the church here, acting as chairman, commenced by making a few suitable remarks, after which the audience was addressed by Rev. Mr. Kershaw, of Elora, Rev. W. Williams, of Guelph, and Rev. G. Haigh, of Hespeler. Each of these gentlemen made very appropriate speeches. The intervals between the speeches was occupied by the rendering of choice pieces of music from the choir of the church. Altogether the occasion was a very successful one, and the receipts net something in the neighborhood of $61, to be applied in aid of the church funds.

OH, YES! OH, YES!

Big Special Discounts, Grand Clearing Sales.

The Usual Expedients, The Same Old Tactics.

Our numerous friends in town and country will have observed as we have done that these two strings—"Grand Clearing sale," and "Big Special Discounts"—are being played upon in a pretty lively way and to a considerable extent in this city at present.

Some houses in the trade seem to think that the "noble inhabitants" of this "Royal City" are dying for "Ole Cloes," and deem it only necessary to announce a "Grand Clearing Sale," or something "big" in the way "special discounts" to secure a general rush for their antiquated old stuff. It is true this "bait" took very well some twenty or twenty-five years ago, but many changes have taken place during that time, and we certainly think the people are now by far too intelligent to be "caught" with any such "taffy," and men who hope to "catch the trade" by any such tactics are laboring under a very great delusion. The inhabitants of this county are well able to buy and pays fair and reasonable price for anything "new" their wardrobes may require.

We shall endeavor in the future as in the past so to regulate our purchases that we may be able at all times to lay before our customers the very latest productions of the British and Foreign markets, and we would advise all who come under our influence to "shun" those places where under the guise of "big discounts" or "clearing sales," or other "subterfuges," efforts are being made to work off upon their customers the unsaleable balance of their last season's purchases.

We are busy, busy every day selling piles of new goods, to which we esteem it a real pleasure to solicit the attention of our friends.

Ladies, make a "bee line" for the Fashionable West End. We are bound to do the respectable live trade of the city.

WELLINGTON VETERINARY INFIRMARY

No. 166 Quebec Street, Guelph

Owing to the increased demand for the proper and careful treatment so essential to valuable Live Stock, I have established a Veterinary Infirmary or Stock Hospital, which is fitted with large, comfortable, airy, loose boxes and other modern improvements, for the treatment of sick and lame horses and other animals. Also a convenient room for the performance of various operations.

To meet the steady increase of practice, I have engaged the professional services of Mr. F. C. Grenside, V. S., Ont., as assistant.

N. B.—Persons having unthrifty horses should bring them to the Infirmary to have their teeth examined by my new process, as they are often the source of evil.

CHAPTER XXIII.

RUINED.

The soi-disant Captain De Curacy, as the ostensible guide of the party, conducted Orwell Bruce and Reuben Langton along a stone-paved passage, up a few steps, through another door, which, like the first, was opened by invisible hands at their approach, along another passage with various windings and rooms branching from it, across corridors and through ante-chambers, till at length a swing door, covered with green baize and opening on noiseless hinges, ushered them into a well-lighted, luxuriously-furnished gaudily-gilded, and much-mirrored saloon, the innermost place of this unholy temple of Mammon.

Even at that early hour of the evening a number of devotees were worshipping at the fearful shrine—gaunt, ghastly, disreputable men most of them—men who had long since lost the freshness of their complexion, and now wore on their faces, as well as on their person, the livery of the tyrant whose pitiable slaves they had become. These were, of course, the old and inveterate gamesters, others were there not so marked nor as fully initiated, playing with eagerness and hope or with an anxiety bordering on despair, poor men who had once been rich but had lost their all, rich men on whom the fatal passion had seized hold, young men dallying on the verge of the abyss in most imminent danger of toppling, or idle men who had come to escape ennui and kill time—a mixed mass of swindlers, blacklegs, and "pigeons," who within the space of one hour of that intensely feverish existence would pass through a series of the fiercest feelings, ranging from triumph to despair, ending perchance in madness and suicide.

As a necessary adjunct to the spirit of the place and to the excitement it produced, a long table stood at one end in a recess, where wines and stronger liquors were supplied to steady tingling nerves, induce new courage, or drown reflection.

A visitor making a first acquaintance with the scene would have been struck with its strangeness, and spent some time in taking wondering note of its various features, but the three who now entered the salon had no curiosity to satisfy nor wonder to allay. With the aspect of such places they were only too familiar, and long ago they had ceased to notice or be affected by them.

There were several tables, each surrounded by a group of players or onlookers, and the few sounds which broke the oppressive silence were low, as if suppressed—the rattle of dice and the clink of gold being the loudest, while whispered oaths and stifled exclamations attested the anxiety and excitement, which were not allowed to have free expression, it being one of the most stringent rules of the place that loud talking was not to be indulged in, and that wrangling and quarrelling were emphatically prohibited. In order to deaden all necessary sound the floor was covered with the thickest of carpets, the chairs and lounges had the softest of cushions, and the tables were covered with thick piled velvet, while the walls underneath the mirrors were padded and hung with crimson cloth. Thus the known exigencies of the place were carefully provided for, and every means taken to prevent annoyance and unpleasant scenes within the precincts of the saloon.

At one side was an alcove large enough to hold a table and its surrounding seats, and here two men were seated playing at dice so quietly that their operations were attracting little attention, though the two or three who had gathered round them were intensely interested in seeing how invariably one lost and the other won, he that lost taking his repeated defeats quite good humouredly, and paying his heavy stakes with the gayest of laughs.

This unfortunate player was a tall man in military undress, with dark bushy hair, large whiskers, and a long mustache. The most noticeable feature in his countenance was a large hooked nose, unpleasantly suggestive of a hawk's beak. Above that prominent organ were a pair of small, dark, sharp-looking eyes, which seemed capable of sinister glances, but, being at present twinkling with real or assumed good humour, they gave an agreeable expression to his blandly smiling countenance.

This was Count Homanoff, who gave himself out to be a Russian officer owning large territory in the Empire of the Czar, and was considered to be possessed of immense wealth. It seemed, indeed, to be so, from the perfect indifference with which he met his repeated losses, and the laughing manner in which he greeted the success of his antagonist, to the admiration of observers and the increased pleasure of the recipient of these fragments of his superfluous wealth.

To this table in the alcove Captain De Curacy and his companions advanced with silent steps over the well carpeted floor. This addition to the group did not seem to be noticed by the players, but by a momentary glance at the opposite mirror their entrance had been noticed by the Count, and slight arching of his eyebrows had conveyed the fact to his confederate in the game, who saw, but carefully refrained from acknowledging the signal. Of the plot which was going forward the ordinary frequenters of the saloon had not the slightest knowledge, they therefore unconsciously assisted in the deception by the sincerity alike of their admiration and their envy. A few of the more knowing shook their heads and spoke cautiously of playing with the Count, for he was a stranger in Paris. So was his antagonist, and to their experienced minds this was queer, if not suspicious. The younger frequenters of the saloon, being less prudent, were watching eagerly to profit by the Count's ill luck. But neither the latter nor his antagonist seemed to care about a change, consequently the wished for opportunity did not present itself.

DISCOUNT AND MORE OF IT.

We are now offering our stock of Mink Sets, Seal Sets Astrachan Sets, Conev Sets, Muffs and Boas,

AT A DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buy at the right time. Come to the Lion.

to offer all descriptions of the above goods at actual cost prices. Ladies we invite you to call, examine, judge, decide and leave us your money, which will be infinitely more profitable to you than any other way that you can use it.

OUR TAILORING DEPARTMENT

surpasses anything in Guelph. Our cutter and manager always fits his customer like a glove. He is a gentleman who you will always look for after getting one suit from him. His Cloths, Tweeds, Overcoatings and Trouserings are of the very best quality, the newest styles and finest description of goods. Mr. Foster will be happy to make your acquantance. Call and see him and he will save you $4 on a suit.

WEDDING OUTFITS.

Every description of the most lovely goods kept by us for this bewitching occasion. Indeed the elegance of our Dresses, the magnificence of our Hats and Bonnets, the beauty of our Ties, Gloves, Laces, Ribbons, &c., &c., adds to the grandeur, loveliness and affection of the already happy pair.
Don't forget where good times are ruling. Look for the GOLDEN MAN OVER THE DOOR.

MOURNING GOODS.

Every description of goods of the newest makes and kinds kept constantly on hand for mourning occasions, and also for FUNERALS. Our stock of Black French Marinces, Black Cashmeres, Black Thibet Cloths, Black Crepes, Black Gloves, &c., is much larger, much cheaper, and of a much better quality FOR THE MONEY than can be obtained in Guelph.
Do not mistake the place. THE WONDERFUL MAN.

Golden Man over the Shop Door.

We only keep good, sound and durable goods. Bankrupt stocks and old moth-eaten stuff cannot be found in Upper Wyndham Street.

Mothers Mothers ! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

GUELPH MARKETS

GUELPH, Jan., 28, 1880

This week we have only to say that in consequence of the extraordinary weather, receipts of grain and produce are not so large as might naturally be expected. This, in addition to the fact that prices all over appear to decline—we may say daily, is sufficient reason for small quantities of farm produce being brought in. So far as prices are concerned, we cannot look for large markets just now, even without taking the present unsettled state of the weather, and condition of the roads into account. Yet everything offered for sale here is, as usual, quickly bought up, and if of good quality realizes the prices we give at the outside of our quotations.

Wheat, hogs, &c., have considrably declined since our last weekly issue; coarse grains still remain pretty much the same.

Any changes there are, can be seen, on comparing our present week's prices with those of last week.

Here we give the latest prices paid on this market.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

The German Government intends to tax all persons exempt from military service.

The great fire at Jassy, in Roumania, destroyed the Administrative Palace. A large number of records, which cannot be replaced, were destroyed in the palace.

The Lake of Zurich, in Switzerland, is frozen over this winter, for the fourth time this century.

It is reported at Odessa that a Russian transport, carrying two thousand troops to reinforce Kuffman, has been lost in the Caspian Sea, and that all, or nearly all, on board have perished.

The total subscriptions to the Mansion House Fund is £29,000. Forty-nine grants amounting to £180 were made to-day. The distress is increasing. A deputation from Liverpool is here to advise upon the best means of distributing the fund organized there.

Sir Wm. Erie, formerly Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in England, is dead, aged 87 years.

The Duchess of Marlborough characterizes Parnell's statements that the fund which bears her name only relieves the tenants who paid their rent, and that its promoters have political objects, as a gross falsehood.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

THE EXPECTED PRINCESS.

The Governor Arrived at Halifax.

Large Crowds—Salutes Fired—And a General Qui Vive.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 30.—The special train on which were the Governor-General and staff, arrived at North street station at eleven o'clock this morning. Large crowds had gathered inside and outside of the station. A salute of nineteen guns was fired from the citadel on the arrival of the train. Among those present in the station were the following:—His Honor Lieut.-Governor Archibald. Mayor Tobin and city council, Lord Bishop, officer commanding garrison and staff officers of different corps, D. A. S. Laurie and staff, commanding officers of different militia corps, garrison chaplains, and other local clergy members local Government and Legislature, Dominion representatives, &c. The guard of honor at the station was composed of men from the 101st regiment, and Royal Bengal Fusiliers. The Governor General proceeded immediately after arrival to the Government House, where he was met by a guard of honor from the 47th regiment.

FROM OTTAWA.

Narrow Escape from Bleeding to Death.

The Civil Service Members to Give a Day's Pay for the Poor Irish.

Narrow Escape of a Child.

OTTAWA, January 30.—Mr. Bain, of the Public Works Department, yesterday burst a small blood vessel in the side of his nose, and had a narrow escape from bleeding to death.

A movement is on foot to get the members of the Civil Service to contribute each a day's pay for the relief of the poor of Ireland.

A six year old son of Mr. Wm. Kerr had a narrow escape from being killed last evening. On leaning over the bannister of the stairs he lost his balance and was precipitated head foremost to the floor below, a distance of about 13 feet. The unfortunate little fellow was picked up unconscious, and has since been insensible.

Legislative Committee on Accidents to Brakesmen.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—A meeting of the Legislative Committee on accidents to brakesmen was held this morning. Mr. Frederick Broughton, Managing Director of the Great Western Railway, was present. He expressed his entire approval of the work the committee had in hand and said that he had given instructions to all officials along the line to attend at once if moved by the committee. He had some ideas of his own of the manner in which many of the accidents might be avoided, or at least rendered less liable. But his ideas were not quite matured, and he would like to wait until another meeting of the committee before expressing them. Mr. Amot, a conductor of the Northern Railway, said the frogs on that road were protected, and that since that had been so, they had caused no loss of life.

Mr. Parnell's visit to Montreal, it is now stated, will not be before the 7th of March. A strong feeling has sprung up against his visit. Some of the presidents of the national societies have stated that they will not take part in his reception. Speaking of Parnell's visit the Gazette says:—"Let those who have invited him give him the demonstration which they consider advisable. But the Mayor will be guilty of little less than an outrage against the sentiment of a large and influential section of the people of this city if, in his official character, he participates in any way in this demonstration."

The prominent Canadian publishing house of Belford, Clarke & Co., of Toronto and Chicago, is reported to have made an assignment. Liabilities, $14,301; assets, $1,281.

Local News.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk southerly winds, cloudy, warmer weather with rain, followed to-morrow with colder weather.

THE many friends of the Rev. Mr. Harris will be glad to hear that he is rapidly improving in health.

HORSE SOLD.—Mr. H. M. Anderson has sold his race horse "Little Frank" for $300, to parties in Toronto, from thence it will be shipped for England.

THE POULTRY SHOW.—The hen coups are being placed in the drill shed to be in readiness for the Poultry Show, which opens on Tuesday.

MR. ROACH, of Aberfoyle, while skating on the mill dam, deliberately skated into an air hole, getting under the ice. He was with difficulty rescued. Joseph did not altogether relish his bath.

DISORDERLY.—Robt. Sloan, a remarkably Slo-un charged at Police Court to-day with drunkenness was remanded till Monday. Mary Grace, similary charged, was fined $1 and $3.85 costs.

RETURN.—Mr. W. B. Torrance and his young wife are expected by the G. T. R., this evening, at 7:30 p.m., from Toronto. His brother Lindsay returned by last night's express from the east.

CHIEF MACMILLAN leaves this afternoon for the States to bring back Kilpatrick, who ran a foundry in Drayton lately, and secured about $20,000 through fraud, and thought it wise to leave the country. The Chief has been lying in wait for Kilpatrick for some time

MR. RODERICK MCLEAN, law student, in Messrs. Lemon, Peterson & McLean's office passed a very creditable first intermediate examination, Monday, at Osgood Hall, Toronto, standing second with oral. About fifty students entered for examination.

CURLIANA.—At the invitation of the Guelph curlers the lovers of the roaring game in the County Council went down to the rink last evening to have a brush with their brethren in Guelph. Mr. Thomas Dobbie skipped the Guelph team, and Mr. M. Anderson, of Fergus, skipped the county team. The game resulted slightly in favor of the Guelph curlers.

MANITOBA CURLERS.—A rink from the Winnipeg Curling Club arrived in Ontario this week. They intend devoting the next two weeks in playing match games with Ontario clubs, taking in St. Thomas, London, Woodstock, Paris, Ayr, Galt, Guelph, Hamilton, Ancaster, Toronto, Brampton, and one or two others if time allows.

VISIT TO THE COLLEGE.—To-day Mr. O'Leary, in company with Mr. John Murphy, visited the Agricultural College. Mr. O'Leary, who has visited Glasnevin College, Ireland, and Cirencester College in England, speaks highly of the Institution in Guelph, and is very favorably impressed with it. He thinks it is very essential to have steam power on the place.

SELLING LIQUOR TO AN INDIAN.—Isaacs, who was arrested for drunkenness on Thursday, appeared at Police Court to-day to give evidence as to who supplied him with liquor. Mrs. Soden was charged with the offence, but on being arraigned the case was enlarged for three days. The case is a serious one, high fines being imposed where they are proven.

THE scene of the illumination of the city hall by the mock sun at the close of Prof. Richard's lecture last night was very fine, and the wish was expected by some present that it would be repeated this evening. Several present were also heard to remark that the Professor could do without gas light at all, and if he wished make lights far more brilliant than those provided by the gas works.

IT appears that when young Dyson and Crooks took a trip to Detroit without their parent's consent lately, that Dyson got a very handsome coronet pin stolen while on the boat to Detroit. Chief McMillan has recovered the pin. It appears that one of the men employed on the boat, beside whom the lad slept on the trip, perpetrated the theft.

PLEASANT OUTING.—Through the courteous invitation of Mr. Geo. Garnham, one of the members of St. George's Church choir, this organization proceeded by carriages on Thursday evening, to the residence of his uncle, Mr. Thomas Card, on the Fergus road, where, with music and dancing, and a lavish entertainment by a most genial host and hostess, a very enjoyable evening was spent. The party numbering forty returned home in the wee sma' hours.

A TRIP TO BOW PARK.—The second year students at the Agricultural College, numbering about fifteen, attended the annual sale of live stock which took place at Bow Park farm, on Thursday. They went to Brantford by the G. W. R., leaving early in the morning, and started from that city for Bow Park in a waggon. The roads were in a very rough condition, and the waggon broke down, leaving them to reach their destination on foot. The live stock brought very fair prices. The students returned home on Thursday night.

ZION CHAPEL.—On Thursday night about two hundred of the members and friends of Zion Chapel drove out to the residence of Mr. George Elliott, in the Paisley Block, for the purpose of holding a parlor social. The large house of Mr. Elliott was crowded with visitors, and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott did everything in their power for the reception and comfort of their visitors. Rev. Jas. Howie took the chair when an interesting programme was gone through, consisting of songs, recitations, short speeches, parlor amusements, &c. An ample repast, provided by Mr. and Mrs Elliott was done justice to. The party arrived home about one o'clock, and were highly delighted with the trip and the entertainment provided. Mrs. Williams, of Marden, assisted by her sister helped greatly in the vocal and instrumental part of the programme.

TENDERS ACCEPTED.—The following tenders for cordwood to be delivered at the engine house, were to-day accepted by the Water Commissioners, viz:—McCrae & White, 100 cords soft wood at $2.20; Wm. A. Iles 50 cords green hardwood at $3.20; Wm. Sullivan, 50 cords dry hardwood at $3.36; E. Swartzenberg, 25 cords soft wood at $2.15.

MISSIONARY SERMONS, by the Rev. Geo. Cochran, late missionary in Japan, in the Norfolk street Methodist Church on Sunday.

The other day on a hillock in the vicinity of Hamilton were seen three or four large black snakes, disporting themselves in the sunshine as complacently as if it were July.

It was stated that the fisheries of the Dominion are worth $13,000,030 a year as against $300,000 or $400,000 in 1863.

The County Council of Oxford and a number of prominent gentlemen from that neighborhood, took a trip over the C. V. R., to Toronto on Thursday.

Lieut.-Governor Cauchon, has started for Chicago, where he is to be married to Miss Lemoine, daughter of the Clerk of the Senate at Ottawa.

Among the victims of the Tay bridge accident were three of a family, Mr. Robt. Watson and his two sons, who formerly resided in London East. Mr. Watson finding work grow scarce was returning to Dundee on the ill-fated train. His children were aged eight and five respectively.

Mr. E. P. Hammond has been conducting revival services in St. Catharines for nearly three weeks. He has met with marked and unexampled success. Over six hundred persons have been examined and given in their names, professing to have experienced a change of heart.

Parnell has sent a petulant letter to the New York Herald complaining of a suppression of his speeches, and that paper goes for him lively.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

Special Business Notices.

Now is the time to buy at Day's book store, balance of Christmas stock to be sold off at any price. Day sells cheap.

A REQUEST.—Will parties indebted to us kindly pay their accounts this week and oblige, A. O. BUCHAM. d6

A FACT.—Our tables are fairly groaning to-day under another large purchase of "real Swiss embroideries"—in especially handsome wide and medium widths and including the lovely new "Guipure"—designs imported direct from Switzerland, for the ladies of Guelph, and not to be seen in any other house in Western Ontario to-day. Ladies, visit us to-morrow morning and inspect those lovely goods.—A. O. Bucham.

Writing desks, work boxes, globe boxes sewing baskets, dolls, fancy goods, toys, balance of Christmas stock left over at Day's bookstore will be cleared out at any price.

THAT DISCOUNT.—The great discount clearing sale at the Lion will be continued.—20 per cent off for cash. In furs an immense discount of 33⅓ for cash. All goods marked in plain figures and no second price. These terms should draw the trade.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

The Maine trouble has come to a close, at least for the present. On Wednesday the Fusionist Legislature met and adjourned until August next, after which the majority of the Fusionist representatives returned to their homes.

The Wonders of Chemistry.

Professor Richards' Experiments and Lecture.

Precisely at eight o'clock Professor Richards and his assistant were on the platform, the former being introduced by Mr. Tytler, who, in the absence of the President of the Association, occupied the chair. The audience was not a large one, there being between one and two hundred persons present, but considering the able lecture given last night it would not be the least surprising if the audience would be twice as large this evening.

Prof. Richards spoke first of the pleasant associations he had met in Guelph four years ago on a previous visit. He was sorry that he could not keep to the letter of the programme in the lecture for the evening, it had been caused by his not having been sent a programme, and consequently some of the experimental instruments had been left behind. However, he would guarantee that that would not decrease in the least the interest of the entertainment or the brilliancy and number of the experiments. The subject of the lecture could be more properly called "The Matter King, or the Phenomena of the Atmosphere." It was now about 100 years since oxygen was first discovered, and then it was discovered by three scientific chemists, living in different parts of the globe, independent of each other. It was a marvellous discovery, and was the birth of a new era in chemical philosophy. Oxygen was an invisible, subtle gas, and here the lecturer made some very interesting statements in reference to its action on the body during the late sudden changes of the weather. The air was made up of 4 5ths nitrogen and 1 5th oxygen, and but for the restraining power of the nitrogen the earth would be in ashes in twenty-four hours. The lecturer exerimented upon air and water, and produced some wonderful results with a lighted candle, at times dipping it in chemical measures, one being filled with oxygen, another nitrogen, and another partly filled with water. In the nitrogen receiver it almost instantly went out, in the oxygen receiver it produced a flame that put the large gas chandelier to a discount. The speaker remarked that our bodies, and three-fifths of the bulk of the vegetable world were made up of oxygen; it exercised regal functions over the whole element of matter, was with us at our first breath, entered into our bodies, controlled our lungs, and lasted with us until the body was laid in the tomb. The lecturer entered into a wonderful display of the powers of chemical science, explaining each in turn, presenting before the audience scenes both marvellous and instructing, which drew forth repeated applause, the Professor at times making miniature lights from metals and chemicals which threw the gas lights of the hall into insignificance.

We cannot attempt anything like a report of this very interesting lecture, or entertainment, suffice it to say that those who did not attend last evening missed a rare treat. Prof. Richards is an easy speaker, is a master of his subject in all its parts, and the description and experiments alone are worth the admission fee. The Professor takes for his subject this evening "The Marvels of Magnetism and Related Sciences," with many scientific experiments. These entertainments are under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and deserve patronage.

Awfully Sudden Death.

Michael Griffin, jr., son of Mr. M. T. Griffin, of the Commercial Hotel, Alma, expired in an awfully sudden manner last Friday evening. It appears that a man from Arthur Township had been creating a disturbance and speaking in a very offensive and insulting manner to the elder Mr. Griffin, who was behind the bar. The young man told the rowdy that if he did not quiet down and behave himself he would have to be put out. Other words followed, until young Griffin finally caught the boisterous character by the back of the coat-collar and slack of the trousers and ran him out of the house. The Griffins, father and son, then hastened to lock the doors to prevent the man getting in again, and while Michael was so engaged he tumbled on the floor. His father immediately lifted him and asked what the matter; but he received no reply, for the young man only kind of breathed or gasped and died in his hands. Dr. Wallace, who lives close by, was hurriedly sent for; but he could do nothing, as the spirit had taken its flight to that bourne from whence no traveller returns. Most likely the struggle and excitement had produced rupture of the heart. The name of the man who created the disturbance is unknown; but we do not envy him his feelings, for there is no doubt but he was the cause of poor Griffin's death, and that under ordinary circumstances the young fellow might have lived and enjoyed life for forty years to come. He was a sober, exemplary young man, unmarried, 24 years of age, and held in high esteem by all his acquaintances. He was a respected member of Fergus Lodge of Odd Fellows, and would have been buried with the honours of that order, but the remains were taken to Hornby, in the County of Halton, by the early train on Monday morning.—Fergus Record.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

The Presbyterian Record announces that the Rev. H. Warden has just received from the Rev. Dr. Wilson, Convener of the Colonial Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, one hundred pounds sterling on behalf of the Manitoba College, and an additional grant of £10 towards the French Evangelization work.

VISIT TO THE HOSPITALS.

GENERAL HOSPITAL.

In accordance with the invitations from the General and St. Joseph's Hospitals, the committee appointed for the purpose, and most of the members of the County Council, visited these Institution on Friday afternoon. They started from the American Hotel at two o'clock, and proceeded to the Guelph General Hospital, where they were received by Messrs Elliott and Newton, and the officials of the Institution, who conducted them through the various wards of the building. After they had finished their inspection the councillors were addressed by Mr. George Elliott, in reference to the work being done in the Institution, the report of which was presented to the council, and appeared in the MERCURY a few days ago.

The Warden in replying to the remarks of Mr. Elliott, said that for his part he was well satisfied with the working of the Institution, and the evident care and attention which was bestowed on the patients. He had always advocated that liberal support should be given to Institutions of this kind, and if he had the matter in his own hands he would give more liberally than the council had done heretofore. He was pleased to note the cleanliness and order in which the Institution was kept, and this certainly reflected great credit on the Board of Directors, and on the Matron and others having charge of the Institution. It had always given him great pleasure to visit the Hospital. He could testify to the good work that was being done from the large number of orders that he had issued for the admittance of patients.

Mr. Cross also spoke, and testified to his appreciation of the institution, and the manner in which it was conducted.

The councillors then walked back to the city, arriving about half past three o'clock, and at four they started for

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL.

At St. Joseph's Hospital, the council received a welcome reception, and were conducted through every part of the establishment by the Sisters and Board of Directors of the Institution, who were very courteous and ready to answer the many questions put to them by the council in regard to the working of the institution and its inmates. After the council had finished sight seeing they assembled in the dining hall of the Hospital, and the President of the Board, Mr. John Harris, proposed the health of the Warden and County Council. The Warden replied in short and fitting terms. He said that he had always done his best endeavor to foster institutions of this kind, and he thought that the County Council would stand greatly in their own light if they did not continue to lend them aid. Other members of the County Council replied, and were followed by Dr. Herod, the physician of the institution, Mr. John Murphy, Mount Tara, and Mr. P. O'Leary.

The councilmen arrived home shortly after six o'clock. The visitors generally expressed themselves highly satisfied with the institution.

The following remarks were made by Mr. O'Leary, in response to the toast of his health:—

It is to me a pleasure indeed, and an honour to respond to the toast of my health drank so cordially by so intelleignt a body as the parliament of this county, for undoubtedly a parliament you are. In the Old Country law making comes from the upper circles of the people, consequently the wants and desires of the peorer sections are not by high born Legislatures well understood, but in Canada self government is brought home to every man's door in the municipal corporations in the County Council, and other law making bodies. From these assemblies men graduate for higher legislative duties. Just as boys will reach the higher classes at school, so with those various bodies, they educate and train men for the law making assembly of the nation. It is very gratifying to see you visiting this and kindred institutions to know how they are conducted, and to satisfy yourselves how your money is expended. There are no doubt among you men of different political opinions and members of the various Christian communions, but here you meet on the common ground of benevolence, charity and duty, seeing the care there is taken of the sick and aged. I have no doubt you are all as pleased as I am to know there are in this young country, asylums like this, for the helpless and afflicted. I have not had the pleasure of going through the other Hospital, but I am sure it is equally well managed and equally deserving of support, which I trust will be extended liberally to both institutions. The medical gentlemen who give their time, skill and energy to the alleviating of human suffering in these hospitals deserve the thanks of the public and of every lover of his kind. The Sisters consecrate themselves to God, and relieving misfortune is to them a kind of duty, but the medical man will devote years to the study of his profession and then to attend without fee or reward to the care of sickness and disease is a noble act, and a charity of the highest order. The Sisters are ladies of education and refinement who banded themselves together under the influence of religion to adore God and love the very poorest of their fellow creatures. And how this has been done I think what we have seen by our visit will fully testify. I trust, gentlemen, that in your magnanimity you will behave liberally to enable those good Sisters to carry on their noble work in the future as in the past. A stranger will sometimes notice things in a country much quicker than a native, and in travelling through Canada I noticed that the school house was, as a rule in every town and village, the most prominent building. In Company with Mr. Chadwick, I took a walk to-day through your city, and was struck with the beauty and usefulness of your schools in which the future manhood of your country is being educated. Science is now making such rapid developments that intellect will be the ruling power of the future, and on that account the uneducated man must take a back seat, even more than he has had to do in the past. I am now going to say something that I said before, that there are no four and a half millions of people on the surface of the globe who have the last 30 years done as much as the four and a half millions of Canadians. I know something of the world, for I have travelled over a large portion of it, and I do unhesitatingly say that you have in this confederation everything that go to constitute national greatness. I have travelled through it from the shores of the Atlantic to the Island of Vancouver, and everywhere have seen evidence of your activity, intelligence and progress, and now that you are spanning the continent with an iron highway, your Pacific Province will, in time, be the South Wales of America, for in that Province are found contiguous to each, iron, coal and timber, which in the very near future will be utilized and developed. Already your navigable waterways reach almost to the base of the Rocky Mountains. You have over eight thousand miles of railway in operation, a portion of it being the longest trunk line in the world. You have a telegraph system almost extending from ocean to ocean, you have, for a new country, a postal service equal to anything I have seen. Your Education Law is, on the whole, as just and as equitable as perhaps any in the world. And above all, you have made up from people who left the old countries, in many instances to escape pauperism, and in all cases to improve their condition, a population hardy, intelligent and enterprising. Taking all these facts and putting them together, I am justified in predicting that Canada, continuing in peace and amity with her great neighbors across the St. Lawrence, has before her an era of happiness and prosperity. Gentlemen, I thank you for the kindness I have received, and in conclusion let me say, in the words of the famous Dean Swift: "He that gives to the poor lends to the Lord, and if you like the security down with the dust."

The Agricultural College Bill.

The Government doubtless regarding the School of Agriculture as having now attained such a position, both in public estimation and efficient working, as to place it altogether beyond the condition of mere haphazard experiment, is quite justified, in view of its standing, in looking upon it as one of the permanent and most important Institutions in the Province. If, as its friends and promoters hope and believe, it is to aid the husbandman both by experiment and the establishment of more effective, because more scientific modes of agriculture, then any legislation which settles more definitely the character and extent of the instruction and experiments to be pursued, is a judicious, if not an essential step towards promoting its future success and usefulness.

Hitherto the curriculum, both as regards the theoretical and pratical training of the pupil, has been left almost wholly to the judgment of the head of the College, and so far as the late Principal is concerned, it will be very generally admitted that this trust was wisely directed and most faithfully discharged. Still, we regard it as the proper course for the Government to fix definitely the course of studies to be pursued, as well as the apprenticeship to be served by the students in all the practical departments of the experimental farm.

Taking this view of the matter, we endorse most heartily the principal features of Mr. Wood's Bill. The change in name from School, to the more ambitious name College, is perhaps justified, in view of the standing which the Institution has attained, but especially in view of the proposed connection with the University of Toronto.

With regard to the course of study, we see but little change from that pursued under Mr. Johnston's able management, and regard the curriculum set forth in the Bill as including nothing more than ought to enter into the educational course of every intelligent farmer. It fact, we should have preferred to see in addition, a number of the more important chapters of Hallam's Constitutional History of England imposed for critical examination each winter session, as well as some definite though not very extensive course in Political Economy also included in the curriculum. These are subjects which ought by all means to engage the attention of the intelligent agriculturist, who may be supposed at some period during his life to take an active interest in the public institutions of his country. We consider, therefore, that no more fitting place could be found for the commencement of such studies than in our Farmers' College, and should be much pleased to see them included in the outline set forth in the Bill.

In reference to diplomas and degrees in the different departments of agriculture, to be conferred by the Univerity of Toronto, we are not disposed to concur in the view adopted by the Globe, for on the contrary we believe, whatever may be said of affiliation, students of the College ought, in completing their course, to receive some document to show their standing in the various departments of agriculture to which their attention had been directed during their College course, and this to possess any value must be given by an examining Board outside of the College. This we regard as one of the most important and beneficial changes contemplated by the Bill. In this particular we are, therefore, in full accord with the Commissioner of Agriculture, while apart from this we regard affiliation as neither here nor there.

In section 12, referring to the annual report to be submitted to the Government, we should have been pleased to see some provision for the systematic and regular distribution of information as to the result of experiments conducted on the Model Farm. This might include the effects of fall and spring plowing, the different kinds of manure, the appearance of the different varieties of growing crops as subjected to the varied treatment supposed to pertain to an experimental farm. During the growing season, such information with all that might be said about the management of young stock, ought to afford a most useful and interesting summary of agricultural knowledge, if distributed in the shape of a monthly College journal, say to the Presidents of all the Agricultural Societies, Farmers' Clubs and Grange Associations, in the Province. Nor would such a course entail any very great additional outlay, as the facts collected for such a journal would form the basis of the Annual Report, which gives a progressive summarizing of results as they present themselves throughout the year. Such a journal might contain articles from the more advanced College students drawn from the different departments of Agriculture, Horticulture, Arboriculture, &c., subject of course to the editorial supervision of some one appointed to that office. We offer this merely as a suggestion, believing that there ought to be some systematic and effective method of distributing the knowledge which ought to be obtained from the different experiments conducted under the supervision of an Institution sustained wholly by the people for that purpose.

As a whole we regard the Agricultural College Bill as another step in securing the efficiency and permanency of an Institution whose claims to support we have always viewed in a favourable light, but whose ultimate success must depend largely on the character of the instruction both theoretical and practical, which it affords to the students. We are glad to say that both these important points are kept constantly in view by the instructors at the Institution, and we were surprised to find—when the second reading of the Bill was under consideration—Mr. Lauder in effect stating that no instruction of a practical nature was given. This is entirely erroneous, for as much—and in the summer—far more time and attention are devoted to the practical part of the work than to the theoretical. When the Bill comes up again for consideration, it will be the duty of these members who are most conversant with the course of study to contradict this statement of Mr. Lauder's, who no doubt made it through ignorance.

A BILL to abolish primogeniture and to simplify the transfer of land is one of the main subjects to be dealt with in the coming session of the British Parliament. So says a correspondent of a Manchester journal.

THE members of the Bar in London have requested Mr. Mowat not to press the passage of the proposed Judicature Bill at the present session as a full opportunity has not been afforded for the consideration of its provisions.

MR. GEORGE PENN, of Gananoque, has completed arrangements to start a steel spring factory on Beebee's Island, Waterdown, N. Y. Mr. Penn has been in the business many years in Gananoque, and his removal across the line is another beautiful evidence of the "N. P.'s" success.

Wellington County Council.

Jan. 29.

The council resumed this morning at the usual hour, the Warden in the chair, and all the members present.

Moved by Messrs. Wissler and Ross, that leave be given to introduce a by-law to fix the Clerk's salary. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Stewart and Henderson, that the council go into committee of the whole on a by-law to reduce the Credit Valley Railway rate, Mr. Nicoll in the chair. The rate was reduced from 3 to 1½ mills on the dollar. The committee rose, to sit again on the by-law.

Moved by Messrs. Leslie and Nicol, that the by-law for the appointment of auditors, be read a third time and passed. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Anderson and McDermitt, that the indebtedness of the township of West Garafraxa to the council, as shown in the Treasurer's statement be referred to the Finance Committee to make some arrangement for paying the indebtedness by instalments. Carried.

Mr. Johnston presented a petition from the village of Drayton, asking for $200 to be expended on the streets of that village. Referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.

A petition was presented from the Mayor of Harriston, asking for the grant of $100 for the Model School there. Referred to the Education Committee.

Moved by Messrs. Gordon and Ogden, that J. H. Quirt be paid the claim for damage done to his property in fizing an approach to a bridge, and that Messrs. Brown and Harcourt be empowered to make a settlement if they can do so to their satisfaction.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Stewart and McMillan, that the resolution before the chair be rfeerred to the committee on boundary line bridges. Carried.

The by law relating to the fixing of the Clerk's salary, was read a first and second time.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Godfrey, that the council memorialize the Lieut.-Governor and Council and Local Legislature, praying to subsidize the Georgian Bay Railway and Wellington Railway, by granting aid to the amount of $3,000 per mile from the town of Palmerston to the town of Orangeville, and that the Warden and Clerk be authorized to prepare and execute the memorial and forward it to Mr. James Laidlaw, the member for the South Riding, for presentation. Carried.

The by-law for the sale of lands in arrears for taxes was read a third time and passed.

Messrs. Cross and McLuhan moved that the Finance Committee take some action with regard to the relief of the poor in Ireland. Carried.

A by-law was introduced and read a first time, for fixing of the treasurer's salary, and the council went into committee of the whole, Mr. Leslie in the chair. The first blank in the by-law was filled with $1,200. It was moved that the second blank be filled with $1,000. It was moved in amendment that the second blank be filled with $1,200. The amendment was carried by a vote of 19 to 18.

Mr. McMullen stated to the council that the committee appointed to visit the hospitals had made arrangements to pay their visit this afternoon, in consideration of which the council adjourned till ten o'clock on Friday morning.

DEATHS.

LYNCH—In Guelph, on the 28th inst., at her brother-in-law's residence, Cambridge street, after a long and painful illness, Ellen, daughter of the late James Lynch, aged 26 years.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at ten o'clock, from the residence of Patrick Ryan, Cambridge street. Friends and acquaintances will please attend without further notice.

House of Industry Report.

To the Warden and Council of the County of Wellington :—

GENTLEMEN,—I beg leave to submit my annual report as Inspector of the House of Industry in accordance with the provisions of the Statute and of By-law number 263 of your council.

The financial business of the Institution has been managed in the same manner as in 1878. All accounts for supplies are first certified by the keeper or matron as being correct, they are then examined by your standing committee at a regular meeting, and if found satisfactory, are ordered to be paid. The Warden grants orders in my favour from time to time for the estimated amount required to meet these accounts, and the payments are made through my office instead of the Treasurer's. This is found to be a convenience to the parties furnishing supplies, and it enables me to keep a direct account of the expenditure, as required by Statute. The keeper has a cash book in which he debits all sums received from me from time to time to pay wages and petty expenses and all moneys received for produce sold off the farm and garden. Both the keeper's accounts and mine are carefully audited by your committee at each meeting. I continue to act as Secretary for the committee, and the minute book shows a correct record of the proceedings and all accounts passed at the different meetings.

I submit herewith detailed statements as per by-law of the number of inmates admitted during the past year, the municipalities sent from ; the causes of pauperism, the nationalities of inmates, and other particulars. I submit also abstract and detailed statements of receipts and disbursements during the past year, and a statement of the weekly expense of maintaining each person in the institution.

It must be very gratifying to this Council as well as to the ratepayers of the county to find that the actual cost of clothing and maintaining each inmate per week has been reduced from $1.66 in 1878 to $1.32 in 1879, after charging interest at 6 per cent. on a capital account of $26,439.58. If we omit interest on capital the cost is only 80 1-5 cents. In estimating the cost of maintaining each person per week I have written 5 per cent. off the amount at debit of "Furniture" account ; 15 per cent off the "Bedding and clothing" account ; and 10 per cent. off the "Farm implements" account. These percentages I have charged to expense account as well as the above 6 per cent. on the balance of capital account.

I have also charged all other expenses incurred during the year and not paid before the 31st December.

The statement of receipts and disbursements shows a balance in my hands on 31st Dec. of $26.05, but at the date of this report several accounts for supplies in 1879 have been paid during the current month and the balance due me by the county is $230.42.

I would again respectfully impress on the Council and the County Magistrates the necessity of committing none to the institution but those having legitimate claims on the ratepayers of this county, otherwise our virtuous and respectable poor may be excluded and outside vagrants admitted. The House is comfortably crowded now notwithstanding that the City of Guelph is precluded from sending inmates, and under the circumstances I would strongly impress on magistrates and others the propriety of committing vagrants to the County Gaol instead of the House of Industry. On 31st December last there were 66 inmates, and at the date of this report there are 70—44 males and 26 females—23 of this number being children, 15 boys and 8 girls ; and 16 of these children are under ten years of age. The whole of the inmates are kept scrupulously clean and supplied with substantial vituals. Meat and bread only of the best description is purchased and they are all apparently as contented and happy as people in their position could be expected to be.

I have great pleasure in reporting that the keeper and matron continue to discharge the responsible and often very unpleasant duties of their respective offices in the most indefatigable and efficient manner. I have no hesitation in saying that Mr. and Mrs. Parker are admirably adapted for the positions they occupy, and I trust that now, when the institution is in good working order and the expense of maintaining each inmate very much reduced, the council will mark their appreciation of the services of the keeper and matron by increasing their salaries and placing them on a par with the institution in the neighbouring County of Waterloo.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN BEATTIE, Inspector.

JOHN BEATTIE, Inspector.

Here follows the financial statement in detail.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.

Mr. Wood made his financial statement. He began by referring to the sources of Provincial revenue, and commenting at some length on the causes producing a falling off in the receipts from Crown lands, Crown timber, and invested capital. The depression which has for years affected the lumber industry is passing away, and the receipts from timber dues, which were at the lowest ebb in 1878, may be expected to increase. The total receipts from all sources in 1879 amounted to $2,250,260, and the total expenditure to $2,285,282. Passing from this branch of his subject, the Treasurer enumerated briefly the items of assets and liabilities, showing that the former amounted at the close of 1879 to $5,141,396, and the latter to $822,168, leaving a capital surplus of $4,319,227. The next point touched upon was the estimate of receipts and expenditure for 1880, the revenue being placed at $2,316,710, and the expenditure at $2,288,632. After explaining the cause of the increase in some of the items of expenditure, and referring to the state of the railway subsidy funds and the number of miles of railway constructed, he turned to the first item in the financial programme of the present Government of Quebec, and discussed from an Ontario point of view the proposed sale of the North Shore Railway to the Dominion Government. Pointing out that many of the expenditures for public purposes that in Ontario are borne by the municipalities are in Quebec borne by the Provincial Government, he took the ground that the debt of the latter Province would not have been incurred had the people then followed the same practice that is followed in Ontario. In view of this fact the purchase of the North Shore Railway, half the cost of which would be borne by Ontario, would be a great injustice to this Province.

Mr. Meredith, without himself expressing any opinion on the expediency of purchasing the Quebec North Shore Railway for the Dominion, protested against the introduction of such a question into the Assembly, and proceeded to criticise the financial statement. He was followed by a large number of members on both sides, the debate taking a very wide range and lasting during the whole of a comparatively long sitting. Much of the speaking was a reproduction of the criticisms on last year's estimates, but every Opposition speaker, following his leader's example, carefully refrained from expressing any opinion on the proposed purchase of the Quebec railway. The Speaker having left the chair, the Committee passed the item for Government House and then rose and reported.

The Estimates for 1880.

The estimates for 1880 contain the following items ; the corresponding items for 1879 being given for the purpore of comparison :—

A DESPATCH from Ottawa says the printing contract swindle is the talk of the town, and the rumor is current that the parties implicated therein will be indicted for conspiring to defraud the country. The policical brokers are not blamed so much for what they have done, as the Government that has allowed it ; in fact permitting particular friends to feed and fatten at the public expense. Ever since the present Government resumed power, these parasites have revelled in their work of living luxuriously at the expense of the country. There are several members of Parliament whose regular business has been that of political brokers, and in the investigation which will undoubtedly be forced at the next session in regard to contract-letting generally some interesting particulars may be brought out.

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth ; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president ; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president ; W. PAINE, M. D. ; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D. ; H. J. DOUCET, M. D. ; R. H. KLINE, M. D. ; J. R. OH, YES! OH, YES!

Big Special Discounts, Grand Clearing Sales.

The Usual Expedients, The Same Old Tactics.

Our numerous friends in town and country will have observed as we have done that these two sayings—"Grand Clearing Sale," and "Big Special Discounts"—are being played upon in a pretty lively way and to a considerable extent in this city at present.

Some houses in the trade seem to think that the "noble inhabitants" of this "Royal City" are dying for "Old Goods" and deem it only necessary to announce a "Grand Clearing Sale," or something else in the way "special discounts to become a general run for their antiquated old stuff. It is true this "bait" took very well some twenty or twenty-five years ago, but many changes have taken place during that time, and we certainly think the people are now by far too intelligent to be "caught" with any such "taffy," and men who hope to "catch the trade" by any such tactics are laboring under a very great delusion. The inhabitants of this county are well able to buy and pay a fair and reasonable price for anything "new" their wardrobes may require.

We shall endeavor in the future as in the past to regulate our purchases that we may be able at all times to lay before our customers the very latest productions of the British and Foreign markets, and we would advise all who come under our influence to "shun" those places where under the guise of "big discounts" or "clearing sales," or other "subterfuges," efforts are being made to work off upon their customers the unsaleable balance of their last season's purchases.

We are busy, busy every day selling piles of new goods, to which we esteem it a real pleasure to solicit the attention of our friends.

Ladies, make a "bee line" for the Fashionable West End. We are bound to do the respectable live trade of the city.

WELLINGTON VETERINARY INFIRMARY

No. 166 Quebec Street, Guelph

Owing to the increased demand for the proper and careful treatment so essential to valuable Live Stock, I have established a Veterinary Infirmary or Stock Hospital, which is fitted with large, comfortable, airy, loose boxes and other modern improvements, for the treatment of sick and lame horses and other animals. Also a convenient room for the performance of various operations.

To meet the steady increase of practice, I have engaged the professional services of Mr. F. C. Grenside, V. S., Ont., as assistant.

N. B.—Persons having unthrifty horses should bring them to the Infirmary to have their teeth examined by my new process, as they are often the source of evil.

CHAPTER XXIII.

RUINED.

"How does the game go here, Monsieur?" asked the Captain of a bystander, in a whisper loud enough for Orwell to hear.

"Bad for the Count," was the answer. "He looses every time, but looks quite as pleased as if he were winning. Mon Dieu, it is wonderful."

"Oh, the Count never thinks whether he is losing or winning. He's awfully rich, you know," said the Captain, confidentially.

"So it is rumoured; and, parbleu, it looks like it by the grace with which he relinquishes the stakes. See, he has lost again, and smiles like an angel. Surely Madame Fortune will take pity on him soon, he is so good under her frowns."

"One can easily be good in these circumstances when he has a million at his banker's," laughed the Captain.

"Yes!" sighed the Frenchman, as he gave his shoulders a natural shrug. "Had I such a dot I could imitate his philosophy."

Orwell, who had stood with gloating eyes seeing the man who had won so heavily of him at Homburg losing game after game, and that with the utmost nonchalance, could no longer bear the sight in silence, and moved within the alcove at the end of a game so as to catch the Count's eye.

The latter on beholding him looked agreably surprised.

"Aha! My very good friend, Monsieur Bruce," he exclaimed, in perfectly good English—good even in accent. "And so I meet you in Paris. What felicity! I thought you had run right away home to that land of mists they call England."

"No, Count. My friend and I are staying a short time in Paris.

"Ah!—beautiful city—magnificent now, since the guillotine is taken down. Eh, Messieurs?" he added, looking round at the grinning Frenchmen, who rewarded the sally with grimacing bows."

"I suppose, Monsieur Bruce," he added, turning again to Orwell, "I suppose you keep strictly to your virtuous resolution not to play any more?"

"I have not broken it yet." laughed Orwell, nervously, "but I am almost tempted to do so to-night—for once—only for once."

"Well, then, you are fortunate, for if you play with me you are sure to win, such luck as I had of late. My friend here, who has done me the honor to take my stakes, will tell you how unfortunate I am."

"I am waiting, Count, to give you your revenge," said his antagonist, who seemed to be impatient of the interruption and the stoppage of the golden stream.

"Revenge!" returned the Count with the blandest of smiles. "I don't know that feeling. I play for amusement. If I win I win, if I lose I lose—but I am amused all the same."

"Ah, but every one is not so free from the feeling as you are Count," said Orwell, his voice trembling with eagerness. "For instance, I confess to experiencing it strongly at this moment, and you know who is responsible for that."

"Why, I am," cried the gayest of laughs. "And I shall be happy to have the responsibility removed. Monsieur," he added, addressing his late antagonist, "will you have the kindness to give your chair to this gentleman who would take your place?"

"Can the gentleman not find a place at another table," asked the other, shabbishly, evidently ill-pleased at the prospect of having his victory taken out of his hands.

"Possibly he might," was the calm, unruffled rejoinder of the Count.

"Then, let him do so. Why should he interrupt our play?"

"For a very good reason," interposed Captain De Curacy. "This gentleman and the Count had a meeting at Homburg, which was suddenly terminated, but which they want to renew. I hope, Monsieur, you will not be so disobliging as to interpose any obstacle?"

"With a disappointment air and dissatisfied growl the man rose and left the coveted place for Orwell to occupy. The letter was now face to face with Count Homanoff, with but the breadth of a table between. The others gathered close around with looks of expectant interest, Captain De Curacy being at one side of the table and Reuben Langton, the prime mover and sustainer of the plot, at the other, looking solicitous on Orwell's account, but in reality calculating with intense satisfaction on the final success of his machinations.

"Shall I name the stakes, Monsieur Bruce?" asked the Count, with smiling serenity.

"If you please," answered Orwell, with difficulty, for his mouth had, from his intense excitement, become dry as dust.

"Ah, well—a thousand francs," was uttered in careless tones.

"A thousand francs," repeated Orwell, and the game began.

A few rapid throws of the dice on either side, and Orwell won.

"Five thousand francs," said the Count, with the utmost composure.

"Five thousand francs!" echoed Orwell, in a voice strange even to himself.

Again the dice was thrown, and again Orwell won.

The crafty gamster led his victim on from game to game, increasing the stakes each time and allowing the same result till Orwell's winnings amounted to eighty thousand francs. By this time the youth's eyes were blazing with excitement, his face was flushed fiery red, every muscle was strained, every nerve tingled.

There came a tremendous sensation to every one near when the imperturbable Count said in quiet tones, as if he was merely making the most common place remarks—

"Two hundred thousand francs."

Orwell paused with his hand on the dice-box and literally gasped for breath, while a murmur of astonishment passed round the circle.

"Are you tired of winning, Monsieur?" asked the Count, with one of his blandest smiles.'

"He is startled by the magnitude of the stake," said Reuben Langton.

"Is it so large?" was the careless rejoinder.

"Oh, well," laughed the other, "if you don't think it too much to lose I don't suppose my friend Bruce would consider it too much to win."

"Positively I never think anything about it," remarked the Count. It is amusement I seek, and I seem to get more of that when a few hundred thousand francs are in question. But if Monsieur Bruce does not feel inclined to accept the bet perhaps some other gentleman may have less scruples to profit by bad luck."

"Two hundred thousand francs," hoarsly exclaimed Orwell, fearing that the flow of golden tide would be stopped.

The Count smiled again, and, with an appearance or languid indifference, prepared to engage in the game. Orwell was under tremendous excitement. To do him justice, it was not the vulgar passion of avarice that possessed him at that moment. In his deepest soul he had forsworn gambling, whether as an amusement or a source of gain, and had said to himself, in words which had the force and solemnity of an

They are all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, and ONE-THIRD of the price returned in cash. These are facts and no humbug. The discount will only be allowed when cash is paid at time of purchase.

NOTE—We are bound to clear out these special lines. Our spring imports are already beginning to arrive. Last week we took a number of cases of fresh spring goods out of bond, and in the course of a week or two the bulk of our imports will be on hand. We have much pleasure in stating to our friends that the bulk of our European purchases we made not later than December, since which it is well known an immense advance as high as 25 per cent. on many lines has taken place. We shall offer that advantage over merchants whose purchases are of later date. The Lion is always on the alert, and buy at the right time. Come to the Lion.

oath, that could he win back his sister's money he would never touch cards or dice again. It was the prospect of retrieving these losses that now dazzled the vision of his mind, and put beside himself with excitement. He had won eighty thousand francs already; two hundred thousand more were within his grasp (for poor foolish youth, he counted on success still attending him); a few such splendid chances and he would achieve financial deliverance. The wild hope put his whole being in a tumult, and he called for a flask of wine to steady his quivering nerves.

The game began; each player made his separate throws. Orwell was well in advance; but the Count had the last throw, and it made him victor.

"The Count has won!" exclaimed more than one voice round the table.

"So he has—positively, I assure you," said Captain De Curacy, turning his eyeglass full on Orwell, who sat like one petrified into stone.

"Now, Monsieur" said the Count, with mocking calmness, "it is your turn to name the stake."

A titter, more galling than an open laugh, went round the circle, and every face was turned to the stricken ghastly countenance which, white and bloodless, met their gaze.

The Antiquity of Masons.

The Alexandria Herald correspondent of the N. Y. Herald says:—Dr. Fanton, a highly instructed Mason, has finished a careful examination of the foundations of the obelisk, and confirms Lieut.-Commander Gorringe's discovery of the Masonic emblems, which establishes the relations of many ancient Egyptian monuments. Dr. Fanton declares that the Hiram version of Masonry, which originated with the construction of Solomon's temple, is disproved by the relations of the foundations of the obelisk. The Masonic emblems of life and the sun, beyond doubt, are identical with the monuments of the Egyptian god Osirrs. This proves that Masonry originated with the construction of the pyramids, or at least with a far remoter period than the construction of the foundation of the obelisk. The number of blocks comprising the foundation, as well as their position and arrangement, indicate that the ancients were familiar with the higher degrees of Masonry, at least as high as the 18th degree. Many peculiar emblems not understood by Lieut.-Commander Gorringe were fully explained by Dr. Fanton from a Masonic point of view. This discovery furnishes a clue to other important discoveries, not only under the fallen obelisks, but also in other parts of Egypt, rendering probable a solution of the mystery of the construction of the pyramids. Among the discoveries was found a perfect cube and also emblems of all Masonic foundations. Lieut.-Commander Gorringe, who is a member of the Masonic fraternity, entirely approves Dr. Fanton's explanations, and gives this despatch his entire approbation.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

MORE EARTHQUAKES IN HAVANA.—The inhabitants of Western Cuba are alarmed at the constantly recurring earthquakes. From San Diego, Santiago, De los Vegas, Pinar del Rio, Cienfugos, Mariel and elsewhere come accounts of earthquake and public terror. San Cristobal is the apparent centre of the disturbance. A concussion there on Thursday nearly tumbled the place to ruins. The church stands tottering, and the priest escaped from his house while the walls were falling; the telegraph office is half demolished; the Government and municipal buildings are untenable; the jail, filled with prisoners, was dismembered. One convict was shot dead after emerging through a crevice made by the earthquake. The guards were wounded in the melee. Fourteen other inmates are in the hospital with injuries from falling beams.

Mothers Mothers ! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

GUELPH TEA DEPOT

MESSRS O'DONNELL & Co.

THE PUBLIC WILL BE PLEASED to hear that the above firm, on Wednesday, November 5th, will open out a fine stock of fresh Teas, Coffees, Sugars, &c., in their new store, on Upper Wyndham Street opposite Ellis' American Hotel.

As they had a large stock of Teas purchased before the last rise in prices, they will be able to give bargains that cannot be got elsewhere.

Owing to their great experience in this special line there is no doubt but they will monopolize a large portion of the tea trade of Guelph.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

Beaconsfield has an attack of gout.

John Locke, M. P., for Southwark, England, is dead, aged 75 years.

The condition of the Pope's health is causing anxiety to his friends.

The Pope has sent 10,000 francs for the relief of the distressed in Ireland.

Ten miners were killed and nine injured by the colliery explosion in Saxony.

Three deaths from starvation are reported this week in the neighborhood of Parsontown, in the south of Ireland.

A Rome despatch says that the condition of the Pope's health is causing anxiety. He suffers from fits, shivering and great prostration, but persists in his usual occupations.

The British Parliament is to meet on Thursday, the 5th of February, and is now announced on authority that Her Majesty will open the session in person, her health being at present better than it has been for a long time past, and she intends to hold a court, two drawing rooms, and a levee before Easter.

A novel attempt was made in Dundee a fortnight ago to ascertain where the bodies of victims of the Tay Bridge disaster were lying. A lady was taken out in a yacht and mesmerized. She pointed out the place were a body was lying deeply imbedded in the sand, and when grapnels were used the collar of an overcoat was brought up. The clairvoyant after declared that twenty bodies lay underneath the girders.

A Berlin despatch says Bismarck is determined to demand directly from the Pope what really are the grievances of the Church which prevent the establishment of solid peace. When an answer is received the Minister of Ecclesiastical Affairs will draft a Bill abolishing the severest clauses of the May laws. The strength of the German army on a peace footing is 17,220 officers and 401,659 men. This does not include the projected increase which, it is reported, is chiefly destined to reinforce Alsace and Lorine garrisons.

The distress in Ireland continues to grow keener every day. Meantime relief is pouring in from all quarters, our neighbors across the lakes taking the lead. The one unfortunate circumstance in connection with the relief movement is the attempt to make political capital out of the people's condition, and the want of confidence that is felt in the agencies undertaking to distribute aid in the distressed localities.

ATTEMPTED MAIL ROBBERY.—The Manitoulin Expositor says:—Word has reached here of an attempt to rob the Sault mail while on its way from Little Current to Sault Ste. Maris. When the carriers were near the Bruce Mines on the last up trip but one six Frenchmen from the American side suddenly sprang upon the carriers, and attempted to arrest their further progress. The driver of the sleigh in which the mail was being carried at the time is a powerful man, and succeeded in breaking loose from those who had laid hold of him. He at once whipped up the horses and made a run for it. The would-be robbers were determined, however, not to be baulked of their prey, and followed the sleigh for six miles in hopes of overtaking it. The carriers made the best time, however, and succeeded in making good their escape. On reaching the Sault information was at once given concerning the attempted robbery, and constables were sent back, who were fortunate enough to capture the whole party, who are now in gaol awaiting their trial.

The Winnipeg Times has been resuscitated as an evening Conservative paper, with the plant purchased at Emerson.

Special Business Notices.

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

A REQUEST.—Will parties indebted to us kindly pay their accounts this week and oblige, A. O. BUCHAM. d6

Wm. Rutherford & Co. have just received a new lot of cloth and lined kid gloves, which were bought far below their value. Those requiring hand coverings should call as they are selling them very cheap.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

A FACT.—Our tables are fairly groaning to-day under another large purchase of "real Swiss embroideries"—in especially handsome wide and medium widths and including the lovely new "Guipure"—designs imported direct from Switzerland, for the ladies of Guelph, and not to be seen in any other house in Western Ontario to-day. Ladies, visit us to-morrow morning and inspect those lovely goods.—A. O. Bucham.

Horrible Tragedy Near Ottawa.

A Drunken Pair Quarrel and the Wife Fells her Husband with an axe.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.

A painful tragedy has been brought to light in the usually quiet little village of Billing's Bridge, about four miles distant from Ottawa. It appears that a labouring man named Labourin went home on Wednesday night in a drunken condition and quarrelled with his wife, who says she was also under the influence of liquor. Words ran high between them, and according to the woman's story, her husband struck her, when she seized an axe and returned the blow with interest, forgetting in the heat of the moment the terrible weapon she had in her hands. At the second blow her husband fell at her feet with two frightful gashes in the back of his head. As soon as the woman partially realized the character of her fearful work she removed her husband to a bed and did what she could to relieve him, having restored him to consciousness. She did not call in a doctor and the poor fellow laid in agony until yesterday morning when he again became unconscious. Late last night the woman, having doubtless been thoroughly alarmed, Dr. Whiteford, of this city, was sent for, and immediately on his arrival pronounced the case a fatal one, the man being in such an exhausted state that he could not live until morning. Having done all in his power for the sufferer the doctor returned to the city and notified the authorities, and in a very short time afterwards County Constable Gordon had arrested the woman and brought her to the city where she was placed in confinement. From all that can be learned it would seem that Labourin and his wife have not lived happily together for some years past, both being of very intemperate habits. The unfortunate man survived until 11 o'clock this morning when he died in great agony. Mrs. Labourin, who is a healthy looking woman, with a not unpleasant countenance, is about 45 years of age. She appears to take the matter very coolly, and evidently considers the fact of her having been mad with drink removes a great part of her responsibility.

Quebec Minister of Justice Visits the Penitentiary.

A Train Crosses the St. Lawrence on the Ice.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—The Hon. Mr. McDonald, Minister of Justice, paid a lengthy visit yesterday to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

The railway on the ice crossing the river St. Lawrence from Hochelega to Longueuil was successfully inaugurated to-day by a locomotive and some platform cars having passed safely.

Sent to the Penitentiary

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 31.—George W. Leflurgey who was convicted at the present term of the Circuit Court, on a charge of forgery and uttering forged bills on the Union Bank of P. E. Island and Merchants Bank of Halifax, was to-day sentenced by Judge Duff to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life. His Honor in passing and imposing the extreme penalty, pointed out how frequent forgery has become, and declared it was necessary to punish severely those found guilty of the offence.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Mr. Ballantyne, M. P. P., has recovered $997.96 from Wm. Watson, for failing to deliver 700 boxes of cheese after their purchase. The amount claimed was the aggregate amount of the profit accruing from the cheese rising in price.

Two Prisoners Escaped from Gaol.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 31—Last evening, Hurley and O'Brien, who were awaiting trial on an alleged charge of rape, escaped from jail by breaking a hole through the cell wall, by which they got into the corridor, thence struck liberty by unlocking the back entrance. The door found open was the first intimation that jailor Long had of the prisoner's escape.

Fire in Amherstburg.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., Jan. 31.—Dunbar's drill, lying at the Canada Southern R. R., dock, was burned last night. Loss not known, but must be considerable, as the machinery must be badly damaged.

Professor Kingston, Director of the Toronto Observatory and Superintendent of the Meteorological Department, has been superannuated, and will be succeeded by Mr. Carpmael, at present his deputy.

The county council of Lambton have unanimously adopted a resolution in favor of memoralizing the Government to pass an Act dissallowing the grouping system of granting bonuses to railways.

Mrs. David Niven, of Egremont, died suddenly of whooping cough, at Palmerston, last week.

Mr. Macdonnel, the new member for North Lanark, is a nephew of Dr. Macdonnel, of Ottawa, and his grand-father was at one time Deputy-Adjutant General of Militia. A grand uncle was A. D. C. to General Brock, and was killed at Queenston.

Local News.

DR. MCGUIRE passed a very restless night. There are two of his ribs broken, and one of his lungs congested.

MR. GEO. MURTON, who was taken suddenly ill about two days ago, is in a very low condition, and no one is admitted to see him.

THIS is the last day of Rutherford's great woolen underclothing cost price sale. Our underclothing receipts for the week far exceed our expectations—yes double. Come and provide yourselves to-day.

THE FIRE ENGINE.—The fire engine was run out this morning for practice to the Eramosa bridge. Engineer Schofield prides himself on the clean manner in which he keeps the engine, and states that everything is in first class order and ready for service at the shortest notice.

ROBBED.—About half-past eleven o'clock last night the attention of Sergeant Dooly was called to a man standing at the corner of the Western Hotel, who testified pretty freely to passers by that he had been relieved of $2 in cash. On the Sergeant making enquiries he found that the unfortunate had been revelling around Mrs. Soden's hotel with Buck Rae.

BY TELEGRAPH it is learned that the trunk of the Manager of the Holman Opera Co., now playing in Quebec, was robbed of several hundred dollars last night, while the company were performing the opera of "La Grande Duchesse." The robbery caused some little excitement among the troupe as it was all the earnings of the week. The authorities think they are on the track of the thief.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—Principal McIntyre, delivered his lecture on "Nelson" in the lecture room of St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening. The attendance was very small, no doubt caused by the other attractions going on in the city. The lecture was a very interesting and able one, and deserved a larger attendance. At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer for the excellent manner in which he treated the subject of his lecture.

THE TELEPHONE.—The line of telephone between the Dominion telegraph office and Mayor Sleeman's office at the brewery is now in complete working order, and has turned out satisfactory to all concerned. Conversation can be carried on very distinctly and almost instantaneously between the two places. Mr. Sleeman feels greatly pleased with the satisfactory manner in which the telephone and transmitter works, being beyond what he expected of it in its working.

ONTARIO HOSPITALS.—The Hospitals, which to a greater or less extent are supported by the Province of Ontario, are in all ten. Two of these are situated in Kingston; two in Guelph; two in Ottawa, and one each in Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines and London. In these hospitals 3,904 patients were admitted during the year. Altogether, 4,612 had during the same period been under treatment. Of these, 3,819 had been discharged, 366 had died, and 427 remained at the end of the official year.

THE YEAR 1880.—The year 1880 will have four eclipses of the sun and two of the moon, as follows:—A total eclipse of the sun January 11th, visible to the western quarter of North American and the Pacific Ocean. An annular eclipse of the sun July 7th, visible to the southern half of South America. An unimportant partial eclipse of the sun December 1st, visible to the southern ocean. A partial eclipse of the sun December 31st, visible to the eastern portion of North America and to the North Atlantic Ocean. A total eclipse of the moon June 22nd, visible to the western edge of North America. A total eclipse of the moon December 16th, visible more or less to the whole world. There also will be an occulation of Mars March 17th, visible to the eastern portion of North America. It is leap year. Lent will begin February 11th. Good Friday is March 26th and Easter Sunday March 28th.

CHURCH SOCIAL.—A very enjoyable tea social was held on Thursday evening, at the Brookville Town Hall, by the young people of the Nassagaweya Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Mr. McPherson, the esteemed pastor, occupied the chair. Notwithstanding the severity of the weather, there was a large turnout. the very handsome hall which would do credit to a much larger village, being comfortably filled. After all present had been amply supplied with tea and other good things, of which there was a bountiful supply, the programme was proceeded with. The choir of Knox, Church, Guelph, sang several anthems very acceptably, and were warmly applauded. Messrs. Humphries and Gillies sang the duet "Larboard Watch" and "Waiting and Watching," which were well received. Mr. Hugh Walker favored the audience with "Scots whae hae" and "The March of the Cameron Men," which fairly brought the house down. He was deservedly encored and in response gave "Scotland Yet." The speeches were delivered by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Wesleyan Methodist minister, of Nassagaweya, and Rev. W. S. Ball, of Guelph. The former gave an excellent address and took for his subject "The work of the Church." Mr. Ball's subject was "Anti-annexation" and was specially addressed to the rising generation. On the whole the social was a success, and was closed at about ten o'clock with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie. The Guelph people returned home a little after one o'clock, much pleased with their drive and the very welcome treatment they received from their Nassagaweya friends.

Prof. Richards holds a matinee for children in the City Hall this afternoon.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk southwesterly winds, partly colder weather, possibly followed to-morrow by snow areas.

AT THE entertainment in the city hall this evening Prof. Richards will introduce several brilliant chemical lights.

THE SUDDEN CHANGE of the weather made the buyers and dealers on the market this morning hop around as if they were in a hurry to go somewhere.

FARM SOLD.—Mr. Andrew Ord sold his farm, on the 9th con., Puslinch, on Friday, to Mr. John Clark, of the same concession.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—Prof. W. G. Richards, M. A., Ph. D., will preach in the Baptist Church to-morrow, both morning and evening.

NOT MUCH of a market to-day. Eggs, sold at 19c to 20c per dozen; butter was offered at 20c; chickens, only a few in the market, were sold at 40c per pair; geese and turkeys were offered at various prices.

IT IS with regret we state, after the announcement made yesterday, that the Rev. Mr. Harris took a bad turn last night, his medical attendant being sent for. To day he is a trifle easier.

MESSRS. PEARSON & BLAIN, of Aberfoyle, shipped from Guelph on Wednesday, $400 worth of skins, consisting of fox, mink, beaver, coon and a quantity of other furs.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—Messrs Fairbank and Brill, and other members of the committee, are going to give a social entertainment and lunch, in St. George's Hall, at an early date.

THE GOW CUP.—The following is the result of games recently played for the above cup: Jas. Mays, directed by A. Congalton, 25, vs. Post, directed by A. Robertson, 10; D. Stirton, directed by A. Congalton, 17, vs. James Barclay, directed by John Mackenzie, 8.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—It is understood arrangements have been made between Mr. Kingston, of the Toronto Observatory, and the Great Western Railway Company, by which the weather probabilities will be telegraphed each day to all principal stations on the road and posted up for the information of the public.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.—The Rev. George Cochran, who spent some years as a missionary in Japan, will preach in Norfolk-st. Methodist Church to-morrow morning and evening. He will also give an address in the same church on Monday evening next, on Mission work in Japan. As Mr. C. only returned from Japan last spring, his experience of life there will be recent and fresh.

COUNTY COUNCIL GRANTS.—The County Council this forenoon made the following grants:—Guelph General Hospital, $1,000; St. Joseph's Hospital, $500; for the relief of the distressed in Ireland, $500, and $10 to the Ontario Rifle Association. The council adjourned this forenoon at half-past ten o'clock, till the first Tuesday in June.

AN OLD PUSLINCH MAN KILLED.—We regret to learn of the death of Mr. William McKillop, a former resident of Puslinch, who moved to Missouri about 9 years ago. It appears that Mr. McKillop received his death blow from a man whose quarrel he was trying to quell, and who struck him a heavy blow on the head. He only lived about three hours after the dastardly blow was dealt, and leaves a widow and two children to mourn his untimely end.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.

Mr. Springer moved the second reading of his Bill to amend the Municipal Act. He explained that its purpose was to permit towns of not more than four wards to have less than three councillors for each ward.

The Bill was read the second time.

Among the bills read the second time was one to provide for the division of the township of Luther—Mr. McKim.

The Land Surveyor's Bill was read the second time.

Mr. Pardee in moving the second reading of the Bill to amend the Free Grant and Homesteads Act, said that within the last twelve years, from 1868 to 1879 inclusive, revenue to the extent of six millions of dollars has been received from Crown lands. It was therefore highly necessary that they should be carefully preserved. At first little difficulty was felt, because pine lands were not required for settlement. But within the last few years that had been entirely changed, and now we had scarcely any but pine lands available for settlement. All the rest of the country was settled up with the exception of occasional lots. It became, therefore necessary to provide some means by which settlement should be promoted, and the revenue of the Province at the same time maintained.

After considerable discussion the motion was carried on a division, 41 voting for, and 21 against it.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Eye Water.

An infallible remedy for diseases of the Eye, Acute or Chronic Inflammation, Films, Specks, Ulcerations, and all weakness of vision, from colds or over-taxing of the eye.

The efficacy of this valuable preparation, for most of the diseases to which the eye is subject—such as acute or chronic inflammation, weakness or defect of vision, films, specks, opacities, abnormal growths on mucous surfaces, and Gangrene—is unequalled, and the most aggravated cases of inflammation yield to its soothing influence and healing powers, and readily disappear under a persistent use of Dr. Kellogg's Eye Water. Full directions around each bottle.

Observe that you get the genuine Dr. Kellogg's Eye Water, which is now prepared only by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and the wrapper on each bottle will bear a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all Medicine Dealers at 25 cents per bottle.

The Wonders of Chemistry.

Professor Richards' Second Lecture and Experiments.

The attendance at the city hall last evening was about the same as that of the previous night, and that is saying a great deal for the excellence of the entertainment, considering the very unpleasant state of the evening, and the drizzling rain.

The Professor appeared on the platform prompt at the hour named, and after a few words of introduction announced the title of his subject as "The Matter Queen." Hydrogen was the Queen Consort in the domain of nature. Oxygen and hydrogen were the two elements that formed the great bulk of water. The quantity of fire in the water drop was tested before the audience in the blowing of bubbles. It was also shown how quickly these two elements would take fire, when compressed into the circumference of a soap bubble and coming in contact with a lighted taper the oxygen making a loud report, the hydrogen burning a dull flame for an instant, and then going out. Hydrogen was discovered in 1766 by Dr. Cavendish, in England. The lecturer next referred to the manufacture of gas, and the boon it had conferred upon chemistry and humanity. Before the introduction of the coal gas the great cities of Europe were in darkness, and the assassin that lurked in the streets and hiding places found an easy prey in the passer by. The use of hydrogen in connection with balloon ascensions was touched upon, and some very entertaining information given. The first balloon was constructed in France by two brothers in the year 1783, it was only a fire balloon, and after travelling seven miles it came down, and from that day the art of balloon inflating began to be popular. The Professor referred to ballooning in Switzerland, and the reception a party of balloon adventurers from France met with in that country. Descending with their inflated air ship at mid-day into the harvest fields of that country, where a number of natives were at work, they narrowly escaped maltreatment and having their balloon torn to pieces, the natives thinking that some evil omen accompanied the descent of the great air ship in their midst. Other ascensions were noted, the most daring of all being that of a Frenchman who constructed a two story house of bamboo, in which was a piano, thirteen of a family, and some articles of housekeeping. This daring aeronaut fastened his house to the great air-ship and ascended to a height of several thousand feet; but the whole party narrowly escaped destruction in their descent. The Wolverhampton, England, ascent in 1862, was very graphically portrayed. The speaker in concluding, thought the time would come when light machinery would be constructed which would be made to propel great air-ships to travel between this and the mother land. The Professor was repeatedly applauded during the delivery of this lecture, which was even more interesting than the first of the course, and at times sparkled with wit and humour.

A number of very fine experiments were shown in the burning of the various metals and also the gases, which appeared to please the audience very much.

At the conclusion of the lecture and experiments, the Professor stated that this evening he would deliver his closing lecture and introduce before the company many of the wonderful discoveries of chemistry. Those who attend will receive a large amount of instruction as well as amusement.

A Man Who Thought He Had a Perfect Right to Do It.

(From the Hamilton Times.)

Abel Parker, an independent looking fellow, presented himself at the Police Station on Thursday night and asked to be permitted to remain overnight. Constable Fraser proceeded to search his pockets, as per usual custom, before admitting him into the tramps' apartment, when lo! he came across a four barreled pistol. Parker's name was placed on the prisoner's book, charged with having firearms in his possession. The matter was investigated at the Police Court this morning.

P. M.—Where do you hail from?

Prisoner—Dundas. Belong to Guelph, though.

P. M.—Why do you carry this pistol in your pocket:

Prisoner—Because it's my own, and it's handier to have it in my pocket than in my hand. I have no trunk to keep it in. If you have any doubts I'll prove that I paid for it.

P. M.—What are you doing?

Prisoner—Looking for work.

His Worship looked over the statute and required bail of Parker to keep the peace for a year, which of course the prisoner could not provide, and confiscated the weapon. Parker went down to jail.

The Late Libel Suit.

The suit of Patrick Boyle of the Irish Canadian, against the Globe, has terminated in any but a creditable denouement to most of those interested in the late tender for the Government printing. It certainly discloses a very metaphysical code of business morality among the fraternity of public contractors, not very easily reconciled with practical honesty. Canada no doubt possesses all the elements necessary to the development of a great nation. Perhaps, therefore, we ought rather to commend the business enterprise of those who figured in the late suit, rather than indulge in any strictures on their conduct, or absurd questions relative to the elementary constituents of a thoroughly practical business conscience; for it is manifestly preposterous, in view of business possibilities and business necessities, to impose upon the more advanced type of our thoroughly go ahead business man, any mental or moral restraint having any relation whatever to the most ordinary Christian conscience. Are we then to rejoice, that in view of our great national possibilities, we are likely to find ourselves in all things equal to the occasion, and the necessities of the great destiny opening up for us. In ways that are dark, we are now little behind our American cousins, and it only lacks a few good practical Molly Maguires, to find us fully equipped in our great National Workshop. Every business, we are willing to admit, has its honest, industrious followers. But it must be a revelation to many that while every calling may have its tricks and its secrets, it has also its parasites, a species of human acarus, who thrives only by the plunder he is able to secure by connecting himself in the most dishonourable way with the efforts and enterprises of others. He may, as was shown in the case above cited, be a penniless bankrupt, and dishonest at that, yet in his own estimation at least, this does not disqualify him from tendering for a most important Government contract, involving thousands or even millions of dollars; but at the same time without the remotest intention of ever moving a finger towards the fulfillment of the conditions involved in such a contract—in fact without any design whatever in the matter, except that of direct public theft. The design, to live and fare sumptuously, without any useful or productive employment whatever, farther than increasing the cost of government, and consequently the cost of living to every honest man and woman in the community; while at the same time the whole business of the country is rendered more difficult and insecure because of his connection with it.

It need hardly be said that the position of the honest bona fide contractor becomes more unsatisfactoriv and precarious because of his bogus representations; for he must either retire from the field altogether, or increase his contract price sufficiently to be able to buy off half a dozen or more bogus tenders. The one certain thing about the whole matter is, however, that the country foots the greatly augmented bill which this condition of things imposes upon her resources.

We must confess that none of the parties in the case before us appear in a very enviable light. Even McLean, Rogers & Co. must have tendered at a figure much above an honest paying price, knowing that to succeed they must buy off a number of spurious tenders, some of them at least entered with their knowledge, if not approval, while it appears most unmistakeably from the evidence, that the first approaches in the way of purchase came from them. Fifteen thousand dollars is no inconsiderable sum of which to fleece the country on the single contract of Government printing. $3,000 in the Boyle negotiation, and $12,000 to Mackintosh, are the sums that have come to light, while there is certainly very strong cause for suspicion that other sums have been paid over, as a retiring allowance to others, who seem to have had no earthly connection with the matter further than placing themselves in the way for the purpose of plunder.

But the loss to the country, great as it is, when we take into account the extensive frauds that may be practised in this way, throughout the whole circle of our public works, is not the most serious aspect of the case. The effect which it is calculated to have on national honour, and every department of business morality, is after all, the great damaging result we are sure to sustain, from the almost open practice of principles which would have excluded our fathers from all respspectable society.

When these principles are unblushingly put forth in open court, as legitimate, even laudable business tactics, we may rest assured that our sons who are looking on, will unavoidably come to the conclusion, that after all, conscientious business scruples are only a matter to be laughed at; well enough perhaps, for the plodding instincts of their grandsires, but altogether out of place and out of date to have any regulating or constraining influence upon themselves. The natural result must be, that when they come to live by their wits, as too many of them will, they must unavoidably enter upon more daring schemes of plunder with more unblushing effrontery and less conscientious compunction than that now displayed by their fathers.

We are not by any means disposed to indulge in lacrymose tirades against human failings and follies. But we have before us abundant evidence of the evil effects of lax and unscrupulous business principles, reaching as they do to every plane and circle of our political and social institutions, and ultimately endangering the safety of Government itself. It is a most transparent delusion, therefore, to think we can practice the principles and escape the consequences of dishonourable business transactions. The results follow as surely in the line of cause and effect as night follows day, and these results are terribly deteriorating, as they influence true national greatness, or national honor.

Theoretical reformers are often at a loss to find a remedy for existing evils. As regards the case in hand, we however, see no reason why any third party, not himself purposing to tender, should have anything whatever to do with Government contracts. The evils of this system of contract brokerage came out very strongly in the Welland Canal investigation, and here again it appears in still more reprehensible features. Many of the evils of such a system might, we think, be avoided by making it a serious misdemeanor, punishable by fine, for any one not a bona fide contractor to tender for any public work. Neither should it be permissible to withdraw tenders before the time appointed for their examination. Such a course carries with it every strong suspicion of collusion among the parties tendering, and ought to be sufficient cause for investigation before any tender whatever is accepted. Should such investigation discover any combination among contractors for purposes such as those just brought to light in the case before us, such discovery ought to afford sufficient grounds for the disqualification of any contractor to be recognized as such for some definite period limited by the nature of his offence. Any system of this kind, faithfully enforced, would soon drive the bogus contractor and contract broker to seek for new pastures, while it would rid our Public Works system of one of the principal difficulties with which it is at this moment very seriously threatened.

ANOTHER transaction in contracts is reported as recently completed at Ottawa in connection with the Yale-Kamloops branch of the Canada Pacific Railway. The amount said to have been paid to the several successful tenderers is $150,000.

IN the Manitoba Legislature on Wednesday, the Premier gave notice of a resolution that it is expedient for members to receive an indemnity for the loss of their time while attending the session of the Legislature. The indemnity, which was formerly $200 per annum was abolished by the last Parliament.

AT a meeting of the Boston Commercial Exchange on Thursday, a resolution was adopted desiring the favorable action of Congress for the appointment of a Commission on our commercial relations with Canada, and that such action may be had on the same before the country enter upon the excitement of another Presidental election.

Wellington County Council.

COURT HOUSE, GUELPH,
Jan'y 30th, 1880.

Council met at ten o'clock. All the members present.

A communication was read from Sheriff Gow, suggesting that the Council consider the advisability of supplying prisoners with books. Referred to Finance Committee.

A communication was read from the Ottawa Rifle Association, asking for a grant of $10.

A communication was read from the County Council of Carlton, asking the Council to petition the Government to permit a railway bridge to be erected over the St. Lawrence.

A communication was read from the County Council of Huron, asking the council to memorialize the Provincial Legislature, with reference to splitting up that county into other counties, as they were quite satisfied to remain as they are.

Moved by Messrs. Luxton and McDermott, that members be paid mileage from their places of residence by a direct route to the Court House, and not by railway as given by some members. Carried.

It was agreed that the treasurer would be heard in defence of himself with reference to the proposed reduction of his salary.

The treasurer gave an explanation of his duties, and stated that his work had been greatly increased since the separation of the city from the county. He said that the reduction was a small matter to the county, but it was a serious matter to him. An erroneous view seemed to have gone abroad about the amount of fees which he collected. The fees which he received were small. The work of the county was very heavy, and if he confined himself to office hours alone he would not be able to keep up with the work. Many a night he had to work late to keep his books posted up. The position which he occupied was a very responsible one, and if any of the money went astray he had to refund it at his own expense. He considered his services as onerous as the treasurer of the city of Toronto, who received $3,000, or any of the officials of the Agricultural College who received $2,000.

Moved by Messrs. Cross and Johnston, that the communication from the county of Huron be referred to a Special Committee. Lost.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. McMullen and Ross, that this council take no action on the communication from the County Council of Huron, the Attorney General having already intimated to the House that there will be no legislation on the matter referred to this session. Carried.

A petition was read from Alex. Richardson and others, asking for a monthly fair to be be held at Luther village.

Moved by Messrs. McMillan and Luxton, that the by-law be introduced and read a first and second time. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Sweetnam and Armstrong, that the County Solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law to repeal the by-law to dispense with dogs, and prepare a by-law to dispense with the payment of sheep killed or injured by dogs, and to enable the councils of each municipality to use the moneys accruing from the tax on dogs for general municipal purposes. Carried.

Mr. Luxton read a petition from ratepayers of Luther, asking to provide for the extension of the East Luther road.

Referred to County Roads Committee.

Moved by Messrs. McMullen and Hampton, that the special committee appointed to strike Standing Committees having made the poor house committee larger than the by-law permitted by two members, the committee be ballotted for, and the five highest elected. Carried.

The ballott was then taken with the following result:—Rea, Anderson, Cross, Leslie and Broadfoot.

The names of Messrs. McMullen and Godfrey, were struck from the committee.

The council went into committee of the whole on the by-law to reduce the Credit Valley rate, Mr. Nicholl in the chair, the blanks were reported filled, and the committee rose.

The by-law appointing the Credit Valley railway director was read a third time and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Allan and Brisbane, that the County Solicitor be instructed to draw out a by-law, to appoint a High School Trustee in Harriston. Carried.

The Council adjourned till two o'clock.

JAN. 30th.

The Council resumed at two o'clock.

The by-law for reducing the Credit Valley rate was read a third time and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Fraser and Brisbane, that the council memoralize the Legislature to subsidize the Arthur Junction railway, and Stratford and Huron railway to the amount of $3000 per mile.

There was a great deal of discussion over this motion. Mr. McMullen and several others held that the Stratford and Huron branch would be an injury to the County, while they were quite willing to have the Arthur Junction portion subsidized.

Mr. Gordon moved that the Arthur Junction section be struck out, but he had no seconder.

The motion was finally carried.

The committee appointed to visit the General Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital, presented their report. The report stated that they found the hospitals cleanly kept and that every care appeared to be taken of the patients. They gleaned that twenty patients had received admission to the General Hospital when the County was only entitled to ten. Thirty six patients from the County had been admitted during the year to the St. Joseph's Hospital.

The report was received.

A by-law confirming a by-law of the town of Palmerston, to stop up and sell a portion of Nelson St., in that town, was introduced and read.

A by-law to dispense with the levying of dog tax was read a first and second time,

On motion of Messrs. Allan and Armitage, a by-law to appoint a high school trustee for each of the High Schools in the County, was introduced and read a first and second time.

On motion of Messrs. Armitage and Watters, a by-law was introduced giving power that the money collected for sheep killed by dogs be spent, and to dispense with the payment in future. The by-law was read a first and second time.

Moved by Messrs. Armitage and McDermott, that the County Solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law enabling the council to assume the Tower street bridge of Fergus.

Moved by Messrs. Brown and McLuhan, that the County Roads Committee consider and report on the propriety of surveying the remaining portion of the Arthur road, and Luther town line, that an estimate be made of the cost of gravelling, and that the report be completed before the June session. Carried.

The Standing Committee, W. Nicholl, chairman, on county roads, brought in their report. They recommended the payment of the following accounts:—W. H. Jacomb, painting $4.80; J. A. Wood, $2 55; Mrs. Lingwood, $6; W. H. Mills, $24.20; Registrar South Riding, $15.30; Union Shade Co., $8. The committee recommended that the account of W. H. Mills be referred to the auditors of criminal justice. The committee recommended $200 additional to the Registry Office for boxes.

Moved by Messrs Leslie and McMullen, that the by-law fixing the Treasurer's salary be read a third time and passed.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Harcourt and Boyle, that the by-law be referred to Committee of the Whole with instructions to strike out $1,200 and substitute $1,000.

Mr. Harcourt asked for the yeas and nays which are as follows: Yeas—Anderson, Brown, Boyle, Broadfoot, Burt, Harcourt, McDermott, McMillan, McMullen, Marshall, Nicoll, Rea, Reid, Ross, Simple, Waters, Wissler.—17.

Nays.—Allan, Armitage, Brisbane, Bennet, Cross, Fraser, Gillespie, Godfrey, Gordon, Green, Hampton, Henderson, Johnston, Luxton, Leslie, Long, McLuhan, Ogden, Stewart, Sweetnam, Scott, Thompson.—23.

The by-law was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Allan presented the report of the Committee on Education. They recommend the payment of $100 each to the Harriston and Mount Forest Model Schools. With reference to the Guelph High School they recommend no action. The payments of accounts amounted to $137 49. The report was adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Stewart and McLuhan, that the Council go into Committee of the Whole on the by-law fixing the Clerk's salary, Mr. McMullen in the chair. The blank was filled up with $600. The committee rose.

Moved by Messrs. Leslie and Sweetnam, that the by-law relating to the Clerk's salary be read a third time and passed.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Wissler and Marshall, that the by-law be referred back to the committee to insert $500 instead of $600.

Mr. Wissler called for the yeas and nays as follows:

Nays.—Armstrong, Allan, Anderson, Brisbane, Bennett, Cross, Fraser, Gillespie, Armitage, Godfrey, Gordon, Green, Hampton, Henderson, Johnston, Luxton, Leslie, Long, McDermott, McLuhan, McMullen, Ogden, Rea, Stewart, Sweetnam, Scott, Thompson, Waters.—28.

Yeas.—Brown, Boyle, Broadfoot, Burt, Harcourt, McMillan, Marshall, Nicoll, Reid, Ross, Semple, Wissler.—12.

The by-law was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Beattie thanked the Council for the confidence they had expressed in him, and said that if his salary had been reduced he would have resigned the position of Inspector of the House of Industry as he considered that the salary he received from that did not pay him.

Moved by Messrs. Harcourt and Ogden, that the Road and Bridge Committe take into consideration a grant to be given to the town line between Peel and Maryborough, as the road is in a bad state. Lost.

Moved by Messrs. Godfrey and Allan, that the council go into committee of the whole on the by-law appointing High School Trustees. Mr. Anderson in the chair.

Mr. David Foote was appointed High School Trustee for Elora; Mr. Jas. C. Donaldson was appointed for Fergus; Rev. A. Anderson for Orangeville; Mr. Amos Bissell for Mount Forest; Mr. Robert Harvey for Harriston. The trustees are appointed for three years.

The Standing Committee on the House of Refuge reported. (We refer our readers to the treasurer's report for full particulars.) The committee recommend that the salaries of the matron and keeper be raised to Keeper, $350; matron, $250; physician, $200; thus giving each $100 more than they formerly received.

Moved by Messrs. Cross and Johnston, that the report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Wissler and Brown that the increase of salary to the keeper and matron be kept at the old figure.

Moved in amendment to the amendment by Messrs. Rea and Sweetnam, that the matron and caretaker, and the doctor's salary be only increased $50 each, instead of $100.

The amendment for reducing the salaries $50 was carried.

Mr. Wissler called for the yeas and nays, which are as follows:—

Yeas—McMullen, Ogden, Rea, Ross, Stewart, Sweetnam, Scott, Thurston, Allan, Brisbane, Armstrong, Broadfoot, Cross, Armitage, Godfrey, Gordon, Green, Hampton, Henderson, Johnston, Luxton, Long, Anderson.—23.

Nays—Brown, Boyle, Bennett, Burt, Fraser, Gillespie, Harcourt, McDermott, McMullan, McLuhan, Reid, Marshall, Semple, Nicoll, Waters, Wissler.—16.

The by-law for appointing trustees for the High Schools was read a third time and passed.

The rule providing that no matter be brought up a second time was suspended.

Messrs. McMullen and Hampton moved to reconsider the motion carried previously in asking the Legislature to subsidize the Arthur Junction and Stratford and Huron Railway; and that the portion of the motion relating to the Stratford and Huron railway be struck out.

Mr. McMullen called for the yeas and nays.

The Council then adjourned till seven o'clock in the evening.

The Council resumed at seven o'clock.

The Clerk commenced to take the ballot called for by Mr. McMullen, with the following result:

Yeas—Allan, Boyle, Burt, Gillespie, Armitage, Godfrey, Hampton, Harcourt, Johnston, McMillan, McLuhan, McMullen, Marshall, Ross, Sweetnam, Wissler.—16.

Nays—Broadfoot, Brown, Bennett, Anderson, Armstrong, Brisbane, Fraser, Gordon, Green, Henderson, Luxton, Long, Ogden, Rea, Reid, Semple, Scott, Thomson, Cross.—19.

Moved by Messrs. Cross and Wissler, that rule 51 be suspended to enable this council to take no action on the railways subsidized for. Lost.

Moved by Messrs. Johnston and McMullen, that the council memorialize the Government for a subsidy of $2,500 for the Waterloo, Wellington and Georgian Bay Railway.

The by-law to confirm by-law No. 43 of the town of Palmerston be read. The by-law was read.

Mr. Sweetnam's by-law to repeal by-law 165, dispensing with the levying of taxes on dogs, was read a third time and passed.

The by-law regarding the establishing of a fair in Luther was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Rea read the report of the Boundary Line Committee. They recommended no action in the claim of Mr. Quirt with regard to damage done to his property. The report was adopted.

Mr. Rea read the report of the Road and Bridge Committee. They recommended no action in the matter of Pike lake. They recommended that the petition of the village of Drayton and ratepayers of West Garafraxa for grants be laid over till the June session.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Sweetnam's by-law to dispense with the payment for sheep killed by dogs was read a third time and passed.

Moved by Messrs. Gillespie and Bennet, that this council memoralize the Local Legislature that a liberal subsidy be granted to T. G. & B. R., to enable them to widen the guage from the city of Toronto to the town of Harriston. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Henderson and Semple, that the County Roads Committee assume and gravel the portion of road in East Garafraxa, from the Reading gravel road and extending four miles to Fergus. Lost.

Moved by Messrs. Scott and Thomson, that the $100 grant passed in the June session of 1878, be expended on the town line between Minto and Wallace, and be left to the supervision of the Reeves concerned.

The yeas and nays were called for, Mr. McMullen only voting against it.

OH, YES! OH, YES!

Big Special Discounts, Grand Clearing Sales.

The Usual Expedients, The Same Old Tactics.

Our numerous friends in town and country will have observed as we have done that these two strings—"Grand Clearing sale," and "Big Special Discounts"—are being played upon in a pretty lively way and to a considerable extent in this city at present.

Some houses in the trade seem to think that the "noble inhabitants" of this "Royal City" are dying for "Ole Closes," and deem it only necessary to announce a "Grand Clearing Sale," or something "big" in the way "special discounts" to secure a general rush for their antiquated old stuff. It is true this "bait" took very well some twenty or twenty-five years ago, but many changes have taken place during that time, and we certainly think the people are now by far too intelligent to be "caught" with any such "taffy," and men who hope to "catch the trade" by any such tactics are laboring under a very great delusion. The inhabitants of this county are well able to buy and pays fair and reasonable price for anything "new" their wardrobes may require.

We shall endeavor in the future as in the past so to regulate our purchases that we may be able at all times to lay before our customers the very latest productions of the British and Foreign markets, and we would advise all who come under our influence to "shun" those places where under the guise of "big discounts" or "clearing sales," or other "subterfuges," efforts are being made to work off upon their customers the unsaleable balance of their last season's purchases.

We are busy, busy every day selling piles of new goods, to which we esteem it a real pleasure to solicit the attention of our friends.

Ladies, make a "bee line" for the Fashionable West End. We are bound to do the respectable live trade of the city.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XX.

MR. BISHOP CALMLY DEFENDS HIMSELF, BUT IS SECRETLY DISTRUSTED BY WHAT HE HAS DONE — THINGS WORK INTO THE HANDS OF THE TWO PLOTTERS—AGNES BORLAND FINDS A SYMPATHISING FRIEND.

"Come Monsieur, I am waiting," said the Count, smiling more blandly than ever. "What shall the next be?"

"Ruination," ejaculated Orwell, with a hollow groan.

"No—excuse me from accepting that stake, for I might win, and then——"

And the Count shrugged his shoulders expressively.

Behind the others stood Reuben Langton, with a countenance of ill-concealed triumph. The consummation of his plotting had been reached, his task was ended, his reward would follow, Marston Grange would be added to Cairnbank, and Agnes Borland would now be his. The loud laughter which arose at the Count's last sally roused Orwell from his deathlike trance, and stung him into unnatural self-possession. He spoke with a strange articulation, and the words passed through lips as dry as dust.

"Count Homanoff," he said, "I shall not play any more."

"Ah, well, my dear Monsieur Bruce, if you have a dislike to lose, I would advise you not to play any more, for when my luck turns it invariably keeps steady for a time. So as you decline, and as I have had enough of play for this evening, I shall take a walk along the boulevard as soon as we have made a settlement. I believe, Monsieur, you are due me two hundred thousand francs, and I was due you eighty thousand—difference one hundred and twenty thousand francs in my favour. Please to write an order on your bankers for that ameunt.

Mechanically Orwell drew forth his pocket-book and took from it a blank cheque. At a signal from the Count an attendant brought pen and ink and placed them before him.

"How much is it in British money?" he asked like one in a dream.

"Precisely five thousand pounds," answered the Count, with suspicious promptitude.

Five thousand pounds! The exact remainder of the mortgage money. Orwell started violently when the amount was named, and it seemed as if a cold icy hand was laid on his heart, benumbing it and freezing all his faculties.

Acting under an influence which seemed to render him an automation, he took up the pen and filled up the cheque for the requisite amount, his handwriting, both in words, figures, and signature, being as steady as if the writing had been executed in his calmest moments.

But the moment it was done, and the cheque had passed into the Count's possession, a realising horror rushed upon him, forcing him from his seat, and sending him frenzy-driven from the saloon.

The wild impetuosity of his departure caused little commotion among those seated or lounging at the other tables. Such an occurrance was too frequent in that place to be marvelled at. The meaning of it was quite understood by them. Many a ruined gamester had burst away in that fashion through the green leaves of the swing door, which seemed made on purpose for such desperate exits. They were glad when the frenzy of a ruined man took no worse shape. Instances had occurred in which the busy players had been startled by the reverberation of a pistol shot, and the ghastly spectacle presented before them of a bloody figure lying on the floor in the agonies of death. It was very disturbing to the mind, very trying to the nerves, and they exceedingly disliked this denouement; but such a departure as Orwell made only caused them to smile significantly and give their shoulders a passing shrug.

Under the dominion of horror and despair which may be called a paroxysm of madness Orwell rushed into the ante-room, crossed it at a bound, and burst through a door at the other side, his motions being devoid of any intelligible purpose. Possibly the instinctive intention he had in pursuing his headlong course was to go into the street, but in his present state of mind he had little chance of finding his way thither. In coming into the saloon he had paid no heed to the windings of the passage, and these were so various that only those acquainted with the place could follow them with certainty. But not only was he a stranger—he was also at the moment incapable of making any proper efforts to find his way, and went wrong at the outset in quitting the ante-room by a door which had led into the passage but to a series of private rooms communicating with each other and devoted to the use of those who regularly frequented the house. He made his way blindly through as many of these as gave him outlet, a solitary lamp in each showing him the position of the doors. But at length his course was arrested by a room shrouded in darkness, into which he rushed and out of which he could find no exit. Striking against the side of a massive table, he tumbled upon a low couch which stood against the wall and lay there panting in the gloom of the unlighted chamber.

Motionless now, in silence and darkness, his agonised mind began to realise the dreadful consequences of that hour's doings. In his folly and infatuation he had beggared both his sister and himself. Everything was now lost—money and estate were both gone. May and he were made homeless and brought to want. He had no sorrow for himself; he thought not of his own future—but his sister; what was to become of her? It might have modified the pangs of his remorse, though producing other stings equally sharp, had he known that at that moment May was lying cold and dead in her snow-white shroud, and would never know the baseness and wickedness of which he had been guilty. Ignorant of the sad event which had that day taken place at the Grange, he had pictured his young, innocent sister, overwhelmed by the calamity he had brought upon her, and calling in her despair for heaven's heaviest punishment to fall on the head of the author of her destitution; or, worse still, uttering no reproach with her lips, but fixing on him a look of mute voiceless despair, more terrible to his imagination than the bitterest upbraidings.

Appaled by the harrowing vision, he was fast verging to that state of mental cowardice which seeks a place of refuge in suicide, when the sound of voices in the adjoining chamber reached his ear and drew his attention. He had been so absorbed by his rushing thoughts as not to hear the entrance of four men who were now seated in that room, but of whose presence he was made aware by recognising the tones of their voices, which gradually recalled him to the consciousness of his surroundings, and roused in him a feeling of interest and curiosity.

Though the small room in which he lay was utterly dark, the appartment with which it communicated was lighted, and as the door between was open, he could see them distinctly and hear their conversation while he was invisible to them.

Raising his head from the couch, into the soft cushion of which it had been deeply buried, he was surprised to see, seated at the table, Reuben Langton and Captain Dé Curacy, and with them Count Homanoff and the man who had been playing with him when they entered the saloon, all four being in a state of great exhilaration and talking with loud gusto. To Orwell this seemed a strange forgathering, of the meaning of which he was presently to be enlightened by a revelation which filled him with amazement and rage beyond the power of description.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of wel selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

ELORA.—The first skating carnival ever held in Elora came off on the new and commodious rink on Monday evening of last week. The affair was a brilliant success, over 100 skaters appearing in costume. Among the number were a few from Guelph and Fergus.——A young unmarried man, name unknown, died suddenly of apoplexy in Alma on Friday evening 23rd inst.

A PLEA FOR LAGER.—A writer in the Toronto Telegram speaks a great deal of sound sense in the following plea for the German drink: "Now that lager has become such a popular drink, and that its effect on the community as a beverage is not near so harmful or dangerous as that of strong beer or spirits, why not promote its consumption as a rival to more harmful drinks by issuing licenses to sell lager alone. The number should, of course be limited, the fees therefore could be based on a scale as alluded to above. This is done in most American cities, where it has proved to be an effectual remedy for reducing the consumption of strong drink.

The Guelph MERCURY came to hand last week enlarged from 56 to 64 columns. The readers of the MERCURY will appreciate this effort in their behalf on the part of the enterprising publishers, Messrs. Innes & Davidson, to whom the paper certainly is a credit.—Wiarton Echo.

The Guelph MERCURY makes a "big push" to the front this year in the way of enlargement. The MERCURY is, like its neighbour, a credit to the city of Guelph as a newspaper, and its politics are sound. It puts up no false lights on economic questions to lure the community to financial ruin on protectionist shoals or inflationist whirlpools.—Waterloo Chronicle.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any simi lar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

Detroit Free Press: A gentleman from Canada says that Sir John A. Macdonald, the Premier, always sends a delegation away happy. He will promise to attend to what is wanted, no matter who the petitioner is. If he takes out a little memorandum book that he always carries with him and puts down a note, the matter is always attended to; if he takes no note of it, but promises to do all in his power about the request, the delegation seldom hears of the subject again.

Between May 1st and Dec. 20th, of last year, the live stock shipments by the Beaver line, from Montreal to Liverpool, were 1,966 head of cattle, 5,771 head of sheep, 54 horses, and 14 calves. Of these 7 cattle and 25 sheep died on the passage, and 8 cattle and 46 sheep were washed overboard. This is a percentage of loss of 0.41 of the former and 1 per cent. of the latter.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance:

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the "fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

R. McGregor & Co.

At the recent annual meeting of the Elora Agricultural Machine Company, one of the shareholders asked the question how it was the dividend was so small, when Mr. John R. Wissler replied:—How could it be otherwise, your National Policy has put up the price of iron, coal, paint and other materials. If you support the N. P. you must take the consequences, and this is one of them. Put that in your pipe and smoke it.—Elora Express.

The Governor General, with Major De Winton and Messrs. Campbell and Rolph, of Ottawa, played four of the Halifax curlers on Friday night at the Halifax rink, and after a keen game the Haligonians came out winners by only one.

Mothers Mothers ! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

WILSON'S WILD CHERRY.

One of the most thoroughly reliable medicines now in use by the Canadian public is Wilson's Compound of Wild Cherry. The success which attends its use in cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Weak Lungs, is most remarkable.

Originally prepared to meet the demand for a good medicine of the kind, in the retail store of the proprietors, its sale increased so rapidly and became so largely extended that the manufacturers felt it was only necessary to introduce it through the newspapers of the country to ensure its adoption as the national cure for diseases of the respiratory organs. Every leading druggist in Western Ontario now sells it.

Be wise in time: get a bottle and have it on hand when required. The large bottles are the cheapest.

GUELPH TEA DEPOT

MESSRS O'DONNELL & Co.

THE PUBLIC WILL BE PLEASED to hear that the above firm, on Wednesday, November 5th, will open out a fine stock of fresh Teas, Coffees, Sugars, &c., in their new store, on Upper Wyndham Street opposite Ellis' American Hotel.

As they had a large stock of teas purchased before the last rise in prices, they will be able to give bargains that cannot be got elsewhere.

Owing to their great experience in this special line there is no doubt but they will monopolize a large portion of the tea trade of Guelph.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I BEG TO INTIMATE TO MY friends and the public generally that I have sold out my business to Thomas Simpson, whom I can confidently recommend to my customers, and as his stock consists of meats of the best quality, I would bespeak for him a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on me, and for which I return my sincere thanks. The shop lately occupied by me will be closed after this date.

JAMES SIMPSON, Butcher.

Guelph, Jan. 31, 1880.

IN REFERENCE TO THE ABOVE I would say that, having lately bought out the business lately carried on by James Simpson on Waterloo Avenue, I will be happy to see all his customers at my stall in the Market, where they will find a large and select stock of the choicest meats to choose from, which will be sold as low as a good article can be sold for and will be delivered promptly in any part of the city.

The King of the Belgians has conferred the Leopold Cross on Mademoiselle Rosa Bonheur, artist, the first lady who has received that distinction.

The St. Petersburg police made an arrest of several revolutionary characters after a severe struggle on Friday night. One of the men—an important political criminal long sought after—shot himself dead on the spot.

England is strengthening her fleet in the China sea. A swift cruiser steamer making sixteen miles per hour has just left for China. England is strengthening her navy in every possible way.

On the London Stock Exchange last week speculation was rampant in Canadian railway stocks. Large amounts of Grand Trunk stocks were taken up during the week at 23, being a rise of 17 since this time last year, and of 8 since December.

The Irish Relief Fund.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that the Duchess of Marlborough, presiding at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the relief fund, said:—

It appears that even charity, inspired by the purest motives, cannot escape Parnell's misrepresentation; but one cannot be surprised that he who slandered our most gracious Queen, and dared to say Her Majesty's purse was closed while her people were starving, should give utterance to unjust assertions about me, to the effect that the Government suggested my effort—meaning, I suppose, that his Grace and the Chief Secretary sheltered themselves behind the ladies of Ireland. He also stated that our relief was only given to rent-paying tenants, whereas no distinction of any sort has been attempted. We strive to relieve all alike. I should not allude to this but for the fear, as Mr. Burke remarked, that it has somewhat affected our receipts, though not, I hope, to any great extent. Nothing strikes me with more admiration than the generosity of the British nation.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

The Princess Louise—Arrival of the Sarmatian.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 2.—Steamer Sarmatian with the Princess Louise on board, is reported off the harbor at 10.30 a.m. Weather very cold this morning but clear.

Fire in St. John, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 2.—Between midnight and one o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the four story brick building, corner of Market Square and Dock street, owned by Mullin Bros., clothiers. The wind was blowing fiercely and the firemen had to make a desperate fight to prevent the flames from spreading to the adjoining buildings, they happily succeeded in confining the fire to Mullins' building, which was completely gutted.

The Ottawa Murder.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—The inquest on the body of the murdered man Labourin is proceeding to-day at Billings Bridge, before Coroner Lynn. The evidence of the daughters who witnessed the bloody affray will convict the woman of the crime. The prisoner was present, and did not appear to fully realize the position in which she was placed.

The thermometer registered twenty-five below zero this morning.

Burglary in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—William Davie's grocery store, 348 Church street, was entered by thieves last night and $348 in cash stolen.

The DeCoursier Murder.

On Robert DeCoursier, his brother's murderer, being called into the dock this morning Mr. Dalton McCarthy, his counsel, asked for an adjournment of the trial on account of the sickness of a witness. The trial was accordingly adjourned till the spring assizes. The prisoner has changed very much in appearance since his incarceration in jail.

The specimen number of a new literary periodical, the Canadian North-West, has been issued by Alex. Begg, who has already received offers for good-will from a Toronto firm.

Local News.

WEDNESDAY next will be February fair day.

IMPORTANT meeting of Reliance Lodge, I. O. O. F., to-night, 7:30.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk winds, probably cloudy to cloudy weather with snow areas.

THE rink was flooded on Saturday, and is expected to be fit for use to-night.

LENT will commence on the 11th of February. Good Friday on the 26th of March.

EXPECTED CARNIVAL.—Skaters may look out for a carnival at the rink on Thursday night. Particulars to-morrow.

RELIGIOUS services will be continued in the basement of the Dublin street Methodist Church every evening this week.

VENNOR appears to be right in his calculation for the first of February. Let us hope that a bit of real old Canadian winter may follow his prophecy.

Now that St. Valentine's day is again approaching, the post office and dealers in this class of stationery will do a lively business.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—James Simpson, butcher, announces to-day that he has sold out his business to Thomas Simpson, who will in future carry on the same.

THE hardware sign of Mr. A. McBean is now hanging over the entrance to Heffernan's old stand. In a few days this place of business will be in full blast.

SUNDAY was the first of February. The last day of the month will also be Sunday. Such an event will not occur again until 1948. Who will see the day?

DR. McGUIRE is on the mend. He passed an easy night on Sunday, and considers that he is out of danger, although he yet suffers considerable pain.

WE are pleased to learn that Mr. Geo. Murton sr. is much improved in health, and out of danger. It will be some time however before he will be able to resume his duties.

LOOKING UP, LOOKING UP.—Business is looking up at the Fashionable West End, our cash sales for January 1880 showing an increase of $1039.00 over January 1879.

SOME folks were seen wandering around the streets with tin pails in their hands on Saturday evening looking for an oyster benefit. It didn't arrive. Wait until next Saturday.

THE Telescope says that about two weeks ago Mrs. T. Anderson, of this town, astonished her visitors by treating them to some very fine strawberries. We believe the strawberry vines had blossomed in the open air and being put into pots and taken into the house there matured.

A RACE.—The race between Charley Miller, a saddler in Dyson's saddlery, and Geo. King for $50 side, three heats, was run in front of Chase's carriage works on Saturday afternoon, and created considerable interest, quite a large number of spectators being present. Mr. Caleb Chase was appointed referee. King won the first heat, and Miller the second, when the third race was stopped by Miller taking a cramp in his side. The race will be run to-morrow afternoon.

MEETINGS AND SALES THIS WEEK.—Our advertising columns to-day announce a meeting of ratepayers in the city hall to-morrow night to discuss National Currency; a sale of a number of improved farms at the city hall doors on Wednesday: the Poultry Association exhibition commencing to-morrow, and lasting for four days, and the annual meeting on the 5th; Kennedy's concert company in the city hall on Thursday; and a Chancery sale on Saturday, 7th.

THE boys had something to laugh at in the city hall on Saturday evening when Prof. Richards asked a couple of persons in the audience to test the strength of a couple of magnetised iron rings. By the merest accident when the two men were pulling their best the rings became detached, and one was sent sprawling upon the floor. The Professor honestly assured his audience that no trick was intended, and after the laughing had subsided the experiments were continued to the greatest delight of the company.

MISSIONARY SERMONS. Yesterday the Rev. Geo. Cochrane, of Toronto, late Missionary in Japan, preached both morning and evening in the Norfolk Street Methodist Church. The sermons were thoughtful and beautiful expositions of scripture truths, and delivered in an easy, graceful and distinct manner that could not fail to be highly appreciated by the congregation. In the afternoon he gave a short and interesting address to the Sabbath school, in the course of which he gave a few incidents having reference to Japan. This evening the annual missionary meeting will be held, when Mr. Cochrane will deliver an address relating principally to the rise and progress of mission work as well as many historical items of interest relating to that country. Those who attend will undoubtedly be highly interested.

A MEETING of the Caledonian Society will be held in the rooms this evening.

ACCIDENT.—On Friday last, as Mrs. Phin, living on Mary street, in this city, was going out of her door, she fell on the ice and broke her arm. Dr. Harkin was called in and attended to the injured limb.

GUELPH AND ONTARIO SAVINGS AND INVESTMENT LOAN SOCIETY.—Mr. Morehouse having resigned the position as Secretary and Treasurer of this Society, Mr. G. A. Sommerville has been appointed in his place.

WELLINGTON FIELD BATTERY.—The following N. C. O. and men have earned Dominion Artillery Association badges for 1879—for efficiency—Sergt.-Major Young, Sergt. Thatcher, Sergt. Rowe, Sergt. Andrews, Bom. Bruce, Grs. Morrison, Dack, Scarlett, McDonald, D. Ellis and Trumpter Henderson.

A GLANCE AT THE ADVERTISEMENTS.—In dull times as well as good times, it might do some folks good if they would read the advertisements of our merchants. It is just the intention to give, as our title indicates, a glance at them, and folks can go and buy where they like. "Oh, yes! oh, yes!" says Bucham, "the same old tactics," and then he goes on to tell how customers are treated at his store. "Another Sweeping Reduction" is announced by Jones & Guthrie; "tactics" are nothing to them, and they honestly tell folks "that this will be the last chance." The "King of the Dry Goods" calls attention to "Important Branches," and if you read this chatty-like advertisement it will be seen at a glance the trade they do. The Wonderful Man "Will Drive Things Ahead," and for that purpose one of the firm is now on the briny deep on his way to do some trading with those Britishers on the other side of the water. Anderson is "Bound to Sell at a Very Low Price." Macgregor deals in "Ladies Buttoned Boots." Guy & Husband will put hats on everybody who will call at their store and pay for them, and Cameron tells housekeepers "What You Want to Hear." Stewart & Co. are wisely devoting their attention to "Furs." Rutherford announces "Woollen Underclothing," and he is trying to tickle the Scotch by getting "Scotch Alma Caps." Roche reads us "A Magnificent Display" of—but we haven't room to give the whole advt. Fraser always "Sells Cheap," and he has a "Consignment of Dry Goods" to dispose of. The old stand-by's G. & A. Hadden tell of their "Dry Goods and Groceries and Good Liquors," and Worsfold & Co., announce "Furniture at Cost," and use the popular expression "Great Clearing Sale." Day, Petrie and Nelles are in the "Valentine" trade, and "have the largest, cheapest, and best stocks in the city," and mind you "no second hand valentines." Now, if Jackson & Hallett, Walker, Loch, or Green get vexed because we do not give them a column each, or if anybody thinks themselves slighted because they are left out unthinkingly they will please call between the hours of twelve and one to-morrow, and ask for the fiery editor, and he'll be sure not to be in. Cormack & Keleher, Dempsey & Chamberlain, and Tawse will have to keep cool, and they will be attended to some other time. In the meantime make your advertisements readable, sell cheap, and folks will be sure to deal with you.

Lecture on Magnetism.

Prof. Richards' Third Lecture.

The third and last lecture of the course, given in the city hall on Saturday evening, was much more largely attended than any of the previous ones. The Professor delighted his audience for over two hours, and those who failed to attend any of these brilliant lectures missed an amount of high class instruction and amusement, that seldom are given in this city. The subject of the third lecture was "Magnetism," which the lecturer said was so closely united with electricity that they might be regarded as identical phenomena. By the peculiar process of magnetism was meant polarity, that grand force which holds together the particles of matter and the band by which matter adheres. The lecturer gave a number of beautiful experiments, among which were the magnetic bar, describing the origin of the mariner's compass and the process of magnetic development; the electro-magnet, showing the development of electro-magnetism and the process of induction by which several pounds of nails were attached to the poles of the magnet without showing any signs of breaking down. The Professor also showed a magnet engine on the model of a French motor, a goblin drum suspended high above the head beating time to the whistling of the assistant, and curious and wonderful experiments with a prismatic disk, fireworks and electric lights. Many beautiful and startling experiments in light and heat were shown. The entertainment was brought to a close by a representation of the Geisler star, so named in honor of its inventor. The audience testified their approbation by repeated applause. Should Prof. Richards make another visit to this city at a future time, those who may go and hear, and see his wonderful experiments will not regret it.

Four Pennsylvania men found guilty of making fraudulent election returns were on Saturday fined $400 each, and sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Ontario Poultry Association's Exhibit of Poultry, &c.

Everything is now in order in the Drill Shed for the Exhibition which commences to-morrow and will be open to the public in the evening. The drill shed is made quite comfortable by the aid of large stoves, the coops are in their places and will contain the birds all classified, a decided improvement on the manner in which birds are shown at other exhibitions. The entries are very large, almost 1,100, and are comprised as follows:

Brahmas—Light 45, Dark 25.

Cochins—Buff 27, Partridge 31, White 15, Black 16.

Games—Black breasted red 28, Brown breasted red 5, Golden Duckwing 18, Silver Duckwing 12, Pyle 15, White 7.

Game Bantams—Black breasted red 28, Brown breasted red 8, Duckwing 15, Pyle 11.

Hamburgs—Golden Spangled 21, Golden Pencilled 13, Silver Spangled 19, Silver Pencilled 17, Black 22.

Leghorns — White 31, Brown 32, Black 6.

Black Spanish 16.

Dorkings—White 12, Silver grey 27, Colored 17.

Plymouth Rocks 63.

Polands—White crested black 16, Golden Spangled 14, Silver Spangled 16, White 11.

Houdans 22.

Creve Coeur 5.

La Fleche 2.

Bantams—Golden Seabright 7, Silver Seabright 5, Japanese 12, White Clan Legged 1, Black African 8.

Turkeys—Bronze 11, White 8, Black 10, Wild 6.

Ducks—Aylesbury 20, Rouens 14, Cayuga 12, Pekin 20.

Geese—Toulouse 12, China 12, Bremens 6, Any variety 6.

Rabbits—Angora 1, Common 2.

Pigeons—Black Carriers 10, Dun Carriers 4, Any other color Carriers 6, White Pouter 4, Blue Pied Pouter 13, Yellow Pied Pouter 2, Red Tumblers 4, Almond Tumblers 3, Any other variety Tumblers 4, Black Barb 8, Yellow Trumpeter 5, Black Jacobin 2, Blue Antwerps 14, Silver Dun Antwerps 8, White Fantails 4, Black Fantails 4, Blue Fantails 7, Yellow Fantails 2, Any variety not named above 8.

Cage Birds—Canaries 7, European Blackbirds 1.

Best portable coop for exhibition purposes 6.

With such a list of entries the Show cannot fail to be a success, the birds as they arrive will be placed in the coops at once; the Receiving Committee composed of Messrs. J. Crowe, P. Spragge, Geo. Sunley and W. A. Suddaby have their hands full but the admirable system adopted will cause no delay, and we think the public can look to-morrow evening on the largest and best display of poultry ever seen in Canada.

Police Court.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.—David C. Kilpatrick, recently a manufacturer of agricultural implements and carriages in Rothsay, who failed in October last, and absconded, being charged with forgery, appeared before the Police Court to-day, and was remanded till Wednesday. It is alleged that Kilpatrick had made forgeries on farmers' notes, presenting them at different banks for payment, with forged signatures to the amount of $20,000. It is stated that Robertson Bros., of Harriston, are taken in on these notes to the sum of $5,000, McDonald, of Moorefield, $3,500, and Kerr & McKellar, of this city, and others, hold a considerable quantity of these bogus notes. Mr. John Haffner, of Elora, was appointed the assignee for the estate, and after Kilpatrick had absconded, placed the matter in the hands of Chief McMillan, of this city, who has very adroitly effected his capture after tracing him to several places in the Southern States, finally secured his arrest in Bay City, Michigan. The Chief left here on Friday with the 2:10 train, in company with Mr. Haffner, who rendered him valuable assistance, and returned on Sunday morning with their prey. Kilpatrick is a young man of about twenty one years of age, possessed of a good education, and prides himself on his excellent hand writing and powers as a copyist, which, no doubt, in a great measure, has led to the unfortunate position in which he now finds himself.

Jas. McKague pleaded guilty to raising a disturbance on Gordon street, and was fined $1 and $4 costs.

The case against Mrs. Soden for selling liquor to an Indian was adjourned for one month, to allow of procuring further evidence.

Wm. Swindlehurst charged Henry Mildrake with removing the windows out of a house rented from the latter, on one of the coldest days of last week, when his wife was lying with a broken arm. It appears Swindlehurst owes Mildrake about three months rent, and took this means of ejecting his tenant. Both gentlemen were rather persistent in pleading their own cause at the same time. His Worship stated that he could allow no such high handed proceedings, and accordingly fined Mildrake $1 with $2.75 costs, or ten days in jail with hard labour.

SUDDEN DEATH IN KINCARDINE.—Registrar Massie received a telegram from Mr. Geo. Cuthbert, of Kincardine, and on Monday a postal card, announcing the death of his old traveller Mr. Brown. Brown came from the employment of Mr, Eccelston, of Hamilton, to travel for Mr. Massie, and remained with him till about two yeas ago, when he went to Kincardine and started a fruit and candy store, in which he was repaid with a considerable amount of success. The immediate cause of his death was an overdose of laudinam, which he had been in the habit of taking to relieve pains, which he was subject to. Mr. Brown went to his bed apparently all right, and in a short time afterwards was found dead. The deceased had a son in the employ of Mr. A. B. Petrie, as a druggist, who is now in St. Thomas. We are unable to learn any further particulars of the family at present.

The Death of Mr. Robert Boyd.

Death is gradually but steadily thinning the ranks of the early settlers in this district. Scarcely a week passes but we have to announce the departure of some well known old resident, or some pioneer, who in the early days of the history of this section, was well known to all his neighbors, and became closely identified with its every day life. It is our sad duty to-day to record the death of Mr. Robert Boyd, a very old and honored resident of the Paisley Block, Guelph Township, and who was known far and wide not only as a successful farmer but as a man of rare intelligence, and of considerable poetic talent. The deceased who had attained the ripe age of eighty-three years, never recovered the shock he received last summer, when having gone to the Preston Baths in company with the late Dr. Barrie, he fainted while in the bath. His life then for a while hung on the balance, but his fine constitution for a time overcame the trouble—only however to prolong his life for a few months. Some two weeks ago his strength began to give way, and gradually but surely disease gained the mastery until Saturday night, when he calmly breathed his last.

Mr. Boyd was a native of Ayrshire, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1830, and found his way to the Paisley Block, which became his future home. Along with the other early settler's in that section he experienced all the hardships and vicissitudes of the early settlers life, and yet these were intermingled with so much genuine happiness and friendly intercourse of neighbors that the trials and troubles of pioneer life were to a great extent forgotten. Mr. Boyd from an early date took a prominent position among the pioneers of Paisly Block, and his poetic talent was more than once laid under tribute to illustrate the primitive life of those days. To this mainly we owe the production of "The Shanty" one of the ablest and best known of Mr. Boyd's productions, which was a truthful and humorous picture of these unsophisticated times.

Some four years ago, the infirmities of age led the deceased to give up farming in the Paisley Block, and he came into Guelph. Previous to his leaving the old homestead his old friends and neighbors, as an evidence of the high esteem in which he was held, presented him with a handsome easy chair, which he highly prized. After his removal to Guelph, he continued to take the same interest in public affairs as he had done in his most vigorous days, and was always a welcome visitor at the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies' gatherings, having been appointed to the honorary position of Bard of these Societies.

Mr. Boyd was possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. He was a great reader, and to the last kept himself fully informed on all the great questions of the day. The poetic fervor which he brought from his native Ayr to Canada in all its power and purity he cherished to the last. The pages of the MERCURY have, during the past few years often been made interesting by his contributions, which always breathed a pure and elevated spirit. Among his friends and acquaintances there was no one more agreeable, or more open to all sociable and innocent recreation. He was liked by old and young, and now that he has gone his memory will be held in fond remembrance by all who knew him, and in profound respect by those who knew him best and who loved him most. He leaves a son and daughter to mourn their loss.

Death of Mrs. John Bookless.

We have to chronicle to-day the death of an old and respected resident of Guelph, Mrs. John Bookless, whose death occurred this (Monday) morning. The deceased had been ailing for some months, and her death was not, therefore, unexpected.

The deceased belonged to Roxburghshire, Scotland, and with her husband, came to Canada in 1830. The young couple came from Lower Canada to Toronto (then Little York) in 1831, and after that moved to Dundas, where they remained for ten years. They came to Guelph in 1843, when Mr. Bookless started business as baker, and continued at that and other callings till some years ago he accepted the position of Messenger in the Federal Bank. Mrs. Bookless, as we said, had been in poor health for some time. She leaves a grown up family to mourn her loss. The deceased was thoroughly domestic, intent on the duties pertaining to her own family, and she was held in respect by all who knew her.

Tired of Life.

Mr. Henry Patterson Attempts to Take His Life with a Hatchet.

Henry Patterson, who lives over Macdonald & Macdonald's law office, and who came from London about three months ago, to play the flute in the Wellington Artillery Band, attempted suicide on Saturday evening by striking himself on the head with a hatchet. It appears that Patterson has been in a very low state of mind for some time past, and was constantly expressing himself as on the verge of starvation. This fear preyed on his mind to such an extent that it seems to have become a settled fact.

On Saturday evening about half past ten o'clock the inhabitants in the neighborhood were attracted by the screams of a woman. Mr. G. B. Fraser, Mr. Kerr (of Kerr & McKellar) who were passing at the time, and Mr. Ward, who was in the back yard of his premises, immediately proceeded to the spot, and found Patterson lying insensible at the foot of the stairs which leads up to his residence above the law office of Messrs. Macdonald, covered with blood, and a large gash on the crown of his head. Dr. Brock, who lives across the street, was in immediate attendance, and with the assistance of Mr. Kerr, washed and bound up his wound. When he became conscious and took in the situation, he called out to to the Dr., "Kill me Dr., kill me, we are all ruined."

Mrs. Patterson, on an explanation having been asked by the Dr., stated the fears of her husband, which had led to the rash act, and also stated that a kind English lady had provided them with food sufficient to carry them over till Monday.

On interviewing Mrs. Patterson this morning, she said that her husband had been in low spirits for some time back. That he had come to Guelph on the invitation of Mr. Philp to play in the band of the Wellington Field Battery, and on account of not having much work, and being of a delicate constitution felt depressed. This fact she stated was not only noticed by herself but by outsiders. He had expressed his fears of starvation to Mr. Harper, in Bell's organ factory, where he had been working for a few weeks. On Saturday night Mr. Harper with a companion, seeing the abstracted state of mind in which Patterson was, went up to his house to spend the evening, and to cheer him up if possible. Shortly after they left he attempted to committ suicide. He went to retire to his bed, Mrs. Patterson and the three children sleeping in one room. He had left the room only a few minutes when he returned again, and Mrs. Patterson asked him why he was not to bed. He said that he was going just now. He had hardly left the room and entered his bedroom a second time when she heard a crash as of two bricks being struck together, immediately followed by another. A suspicion flashed across her mind that something was wrong, and she immediately rushed to the bedroom, where she saw her husband standing in the middle of the room deliberately hacking away at the crown of his head with a small hatchet, which he held in his right hand. She attempted to take the hatchet from him, and finally succeeded, but not before he had managed to strike himself again on the head. After securing the hatchet she went for assistance, leaving Patterson in the bedroom, and on her return found him lying at the foot of the stairs in the position before described.

Patterson we learn is not dangerously hurt. He is considerably cut about the head, but the wounds are not of a serious nature.

From what we can glean Patterson was not in nearly such a bad condition as he imagined himself to be. He has received work—though not perhaps at a very remunerative figure—ever since he came to the city, and Major Macdonald gave him the rooms he now lives in rent free, with access to his wood pile. The band also interested themselves in his behalf and made arrangements to take up a weekly subscription among themselves to assist him in furnishing his house.

Mr. Thomas Ward, of the Victoria Hotel, has made arrangements, at his own expense, for the comfort of Mrs. Patterson till such time as her husband gets better.

WILSON'S WILD CHERRY.

One of the most thoroughly reliable medicines now in use by the Canadian public is Wilson's Compound of Wild Cherry. The success which attends its use in cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Weak Lungs, is most remarkable.

Originally prepared to meet the demand for a good medicine of the kind, in the retail store of the proprietors, its sale increased so rapidly and became so largely extended that the manufacturers felt it was only necessary to introduce it through the newspapers of the country to ensure its adoption as the national cure for diseases of the respiratory organs. Every leading druggist in Western Ontario now sells it.

Be wise in time: get a bottle and have it on hand when required. The large bottles are the cheapest.

The Paris foundry and agricultural works of Mr. David Maxwell are enlarged.

A New York grand jury has found twenty-five indictments against Rev. Edward Cowley, manager of the Shepherd's Fold, charging him with starving and cruelly ill-treating the children under his care.

Mr. George Laidlaw is in Montreal to promote the formation of a company or syndicate to purchase the Quebec Railway, and to undertake the construction of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, subject to power being reserved by the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario of granting for ever independence of the line.

Terrible accounts reach Afghanistan from without the British lines. It is reported that nearly two thousand families have been exterminated by the Ghilzais, and seven of the villages of the latter were afterwards captured by the Hazaris and every soul slain.

The Socialists, Internationalists, and Nihilists of Europe are a source of keen anxiety to the crowned heads, and Bismarck is credited with the furthering of a scheme to stamp them out by a joint action of the Powers. France, it is said will be invited to join in this movement, and her failure to do so will be considered sufficient cause for a declaration of war by Germany and Austria.

THE PRINCESS LOUISE.—On Sunday night there was no sign of the arrival of the Sarmatian at Halifax. The despatch on Sunday says:—The Marquis, expecting the signal momentarily, did not attend church. He remained at the Government House most of the day, and left it only to visit the officers' mess, which is close to the Signal Station. He dined with the officers, and returned to the Government House. To-night is very dark, and there have been several light falls of snow. The weather is probably thick off the harbor, and the chances are that the Sarmatian will not get in to-night. Should she not arrive to-morrow people will begin to get anxious.

Durham is to have a door, sash, and window blind factory on a new and improved plan.

Daily Mercury.

MONDAY EV'G, FEBRUARY 2, 1880

MR. ROBERTSON, the Conservative candidate in West Hastings, was elected to the Ontario Legislature on Friday by a majority of 114 over Mr. Sills.

THE Hon. Mr. Wood's financial statement was ably presented and was well received. The Opposition could not assail it, and the feeble attacks they made showed how little they had to oppose.

HON. Mr. Langevin has gone down to Montmorenci to reconcile the different factions of his party in that constituency. At a meeting on Friday night he announced that Hon. Mr. Angers had been chosen as the party candidate.

THE Halifax Herald (Tory) approves of the precaution taken by the Ontario Government in passing a measure providing for the rateable distribution of assets of insolvent debters among their creditors, so as to be ready for the possible repealing of the Insolvency Act.

WE are glad to learn that Mr. W. H. Scott, M. P. P., of Peterborough, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to take his seat in the Legislative Assembly, where he is regarded by both parties as the ablest man on the Opposite side of the House.

THE London Advertiser mentions that a lady in London who received a parcel of woollen goods from a Scotch friend, had to pay duties of $5.65, which with railway charges from Halifax made up $6.15, considerably more than the same articles could be purchased for in Canada. This lady considers herself able to answer the question, "Who pays the duty?"

IN regard to the Irish relief the New York Herald makes an excellent suggestion. It appears that some Irish organization in the United States, according to its own report, has accumulated a fund of from eighty to ninety thousand dollars, which is known as the skirmishing fund. The object for which it has been collected is to attack Great Britain after the Fenian fashion. The Herald suggests that the fund should be devoted to the relief of the present distress.

A CONTEMPORARY says: Sir Tilley has at last explained how it came about that Mr. Bowell came to be honored with a seat in the Cabinet. The Government wanted somebody who could slam the door in the faces of troublesome fault finders with the tarift and say "no" to their requests for relief, and they selected the present Minister of Customs. If that is what the hon. gentleman is wanted for, we must admit that Sir John could not have made a happier choice.

AT the meeting of the Dominion Alliance on Friday Sir Leonard Tilley referred incidentally to Sir A. T. Galt's mission to France and the West Indies, and said that the duty on French brandy and West India rum would not be decreased, as some newspaper critics said in endeavouring to find inconsistency in his conduct as a temperance man. The duty on light French Wines would be decreased if the French could be induced to admit Canadian ships.

THE coming session promises to be a lively one, as many matters of much importance will come up for debate and legislation—The Insolvency Law; the Currency Question and renewals of Charters to banks; the second annual general revision of the Tariff; enquiries in regard to the system of contract letting with the Railway and Printing Contracts awarded; the bonusing of a line of steamers between the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, connecting at the isthmus of Panama, etc., etc.

IT is stated that the reason the Government did not ask for the vote for the new Parliament buildings is that they have slightly modified the original plans, and that in the supplementary estimates they will ask for $60,000 for repairs. With this sum they will so improve the present buildings that they will last for four or five years, when the present site can be sold to a combined railway system, centreing on the Esplande, for enough to enable the erection of new Legislative Chambers, almost, if not entirely, free of cost.

TORONTO Tribune.—"Why should Mr. Boyle have been singled out for the Globe's abuse, when so many others were bribed to withdraw their tenders? This is a common question and deserves but one answer. Mr. Boyle was not singled out by the Globe, but he chose to make himself conspicuous by denying the charges, while others had the discretion to be silent. No one can point to an article in the Globe in which the name of Mr. Boyle was dissociated from that of the others engaged in the same transaction. If the Globe bore down heavily upon any one in particular, it was upon Mayor Mackintosh, but he knew a trick worth two of instituting a libel suit."

THE Monetary Times says:—"Efforts have been made by the wholesale trade, in various directions, to shorten the terms of credit to retailers, and a number of houses have succeeded in this aim to a very gratifying extent. Sugars, for example, are now sold strictly on 60 days; general groceries terms continue as they have long been—four months; Canadian cottons, three months, thanks to the firm attitude of the manufacturers; metals, glass and heavy hardware, four months; boots and shoes generally at about five months."

One thousand two hundred men are engaged in work on Section B of the Canada Pacific Railway.

A British man-of-war has been despatched to La Paz, Lower California, to protect British subjects there.

The County Council of Middlesex has decided not to petition the Local Legislature in support of the measure designed to prevent cities charging market fees.

Wellington County Council.

Moved by Messrs. Cross and Boyle, that rule 57 be suspended, and that the council reconsider the report of the Committee of Education and strike out the grant of $100 each given to Harriston and Mount Forest Model schools. Lost.

The by-law to establish a County High School in Harriston was read a first and second time.

The council adjourned at half-past eight till nine o'clock on Saturday morning.

COURT HOUSE, GUELPH,
Jan. 30th.

The Council resumed business this morning shortly after nine o'clock. The members absent were Messrs. Stewart and Waters.

The by-law establishing a High School in Harriston was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Anderson read the report of the Committee on County Roads. They recommended that the old toll gate on Guelph and Dundas road be removed, and instruct Mr. Stone to do so. In reference to the petition of Alex. Richardson and others asking for an extension of the East Luther gravel road, and the resolution of the Reeve of Luther asking for a survey of a part of the Arthur and Luther town line that it may become a county road, be laid over till the June session. That the county roads be managed by commissioners as formally, and that the sum of $50 per mile be allowed for the maintenance of the said roads. They recommend the following members for commissioners on the following roads:

Guelph and Dundas—Messrs. Leslie and Nicoll.

Guelph and Fergus—Messrs. Broadfoot and Armstrong.

Guelph and Erin Line—Messrs. Rae and Anderson.

Erin in Erin—Messrs. Burt and Waters.

Erin and Esquesing—Messrs. Burt and McMullan.

Fergus and Douglas—Messrs. Anderson and McDermott.

Fergus and Arthur—Messrs. Armitage and Harcourt.

Arthur and Mount Forest—Messrs. Gordon, Fraser and Hampton.

Glenallan.—Messrs. Cross and Long.

Junction to Alma.—Messrs. Marshall and Wissler.

Bosworth to Teviotdale.—Messrs. Ogden and Long.

Teviotdale and Clifford.—Messrs. Brown, Allan, Scott and Brisbane.

Alma and Bosworth.—Messrs. Ross, Boyle and Cross.

Orangeville and Reading.—Messrs. Stewart, Henderson and Green.

Amaranth and Garafraxa.—Messrs. Gillespie and Bennett.

Luther and Arthur.—Messrs. McLuhan and Brown.

East Luther.—Messrs. Luxton and Semple.

It was moved that the report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Rae and McMullan, that the report be referred back to the committee, to make the amount to be spent on the county roads $25 instead of $50. Lost.

The yeas and nays were called for, and showed the following:—

Yeas—Armstrong, Burt, Hampton, Harcourt, Long, McDermott, McMullen, Marshall, Ogden, Rea, Reid, Ross, Semple, Sweetnam, Waters—15.

Nays—Allan, Anderson, Brisbane, Brown, Boyle, Bennett, Broadfoot, Cross, Fraser, Gillespie, Green, Armitage, Godfrey, Gordon, Green, Johnston, Luxton, Leslie, McMillan, McLuhan, Nicoll, Scott, Thomson, Wissler—23.

Moved by Messrs. Johnston and Long, that the salaries of members be increased to $3 per day instead of $2 as now paid.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Wislor and Semple, that they remain as they are.

The motions were finally withdrawn.

On motion of Messrs. Armitage and Allan a by-law to assume the Tower street bridge in Fergus, was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Leslie read the report of the Finance Committee, which recommended that a grant of $1,000 be given to the Guelph General Hospital, $500 to St. Joseph's Hospital, $500 for the relief of the distressed in Ireland, to be forwarded forthwith to the Duchess of Marlborough or the Mayor of Dublin; the sum of $10 to the Ontario Rifle Association. They recommend that no action be taken on the Sheriff's petition for supplying books to the prisoners. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:—John Foley, printing, $12; Innes & Davidson, $39; John McLaren, $12: Innes & Davidson, $3; Stovel & Son, $9.60. With reference to the indebtedness of West Garafraxa, they would recommend the debt to be paid in five equal annual payments, with interest at seven per cent. per annum, the first of such payment to become due on the 1st January next, provided the municipality give security to satisfy the County Solicitor, or that the County Solicitor put the matter in such a shape to secure the county, this clause to have no effect until the solicitor report upon the matter at the June session.

The report was adopted.

The Council then adjourned till the 1st Tuesday in June.

Cutting Down the Rideau Hall List.

A correspondent of the New York World writes:

"The Rideau Hall list—i. e., the list of persons to whom their Excellencies send invitations to dinners, receptions, etc., has been revised and a host of minor Government officials and small tradesmen dropped. The regulations have also been made more stringent, and the Court ritual made more formal and impressive. It was found under the old regulations that people were invited to dinner and balls who did not know how to behave themselves, particularly in the small hours of the morning, and that Her Royal Highness had to stand in shivering costume for hours receiving Government under-strappers who ran in debt for their dress suits, boarding house keepers, publicans and even hotel clerks. The canaille is henceforth to be excluded and invitations to be confined to members of Parliament, the leading officials, civil and military, and first families generally. The old pot luck regime is passing away, and the prerogatives and attributes of royalty are making themselves felt."

THE TAY BRIDGE.—Up to our latest dates from Scotland, twenty-nine bodies of the victims of the Tay Bridge disaster had been recovered. The divers were still engaged in exploring the bottom of the Frith, but very little additional information had been gleaned. The girders have not all been located yet, the divers searching more particularly for any bodies which may have been caught and held by the falling cars or the iron work of the bridge. Diving operations in the Frith of Tay have been stopped. The papers still discuss the accident, old a story as it is.

NEW OIL TERRITORY.—A correspondent of the Sarnia Canadian, writing from Osborne, Mandaumin Station, on the G. W. R., says oil development is steadily increasing westward. Messrs. Nicholas Rainsbury and J. Elliott are putting down wells on lot 1, con. 1, Sarnia; Mr. J. D. Noble is also putting the material in the ground for a well on lot 2, in the 10th con. of Moore. If these wells are a success, other wells will be put down in the locality.

A young man named Campbell, a resident of Woodstock, was married on New Year's Day. While attending a saw in Hay's furniture factory in that town last week a piece of board sprung up and struck him in the stomach. He was seriously hurt, and died in a short time after.

DAY leads nice valentines and low prices.

LADIES, LADIES.—We have the very goods you want. Come direct to the Fashionable West End. Showing to-day, lovely white cottons cheap, Swiss muslins, &c., &c. A. O. Bucham.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

EMBROIDERIES.—We fully anticipate an enormous demand for these handsome, lovely, wide, embroideries, which we are now showing, and if business is favorable will undoubtedly clear the entire lot by Saturday night. Every lady who is able to get out this week should make it a point to visit the Fashionable West End. A. O. Bucham.

An attempt is being made to resuscitate the Saugeen Valley Railway, from Walkerton to the Georgian Bay.

Mr. William Black is writing a new novel, "Sunrise: a Story of These Times."

OH, YES! OH, YES!

Big Special Discounts, Grand Clearing Sales.

The Usual Expedients, The Same Old Tactics.

Our numerous friends in town and country will have observed as we have done that these two strings—"Grand Clearing sale," and "Big Special Discounts"—are being played upon in a pretty lively way and to a considerable extent in this city at present.

Some houses in the trade seem to think that the "noble inhabitants" of this "Royal City" are dying for "Ole Closs," and deem it only necessary to announce a "Grand Clearing Sale," or something "big" in the way "special discounts" to secure a general rush for their antiquated old stuff. It is true this "bait" took very well some twenty or twenty-five years ago, but many changes have taken place during that time, and we certainly think the people are now by far too intelligent to be "caught" with any such "tiffs," and men who hope to "catch the trade" by any such tactics are laboring under a very great delusion. The inhabitants of this county are well able to buy and pays fair and reasonable price for anything "new" their wardrobes may require.

We shall endeavor in the future as in the past so to regulate our purchases that we may be able at all times to lay before our customers the very latest productions of the British and Foreign markets, and we would advise all who come under our influence to "shun" those places where under the guise of "big discounts" or "clearing sales," or other "subterfuges," efforts are being made to work off upon their customers the unsaleable balance of their last season's purchases.

We are busy, busy every day selling piles of new goods, to which we esteem it a real pleasure to solicit the attention of our friends.

Ladies, make a "bee line" for the Fashionable West End. We are bound to do the respectable live trade of the city.

CHAPTER XXIV.

RUINED.

"Where will the soft-headed simpleton have gone?" exclaimed the Count, with a loud guffaw."

"Goodness knows," exclaimed Reuben Langton. "But his absence is convenient for us; it gives us an opportunity for settling up."

"Poor devil; how badly he took it," remarked the Captain. "Shouldn't wonder but he has made straight for the Seine. Does he carry pistols?"

"No, I think not," was Langton's callous reply.

"That's a pity. It's more gentlemanly to blow the brains out than to jump into a muddy river. And as this fellow had an estate, which he has been foolish enough to loose by gambling, he ought to choose the most aristocratic mode of making his exit."

"Strikes me he hasn't pluck enough to do anything so decisive," observed the man who had been playing with the Count as a decoy.

"I suspect not," remarked Reuben. "Though, in my opinion, it is the best thing he can do, seeing the devil of a mess he has got into."

"Thanks to us," laughed the Captain.

"Yes, thanks to us," added Langton, "for we have all played our parts admirably. Joskins did the Russian Count to the life. By Jove. Jos, you'd make your fortune on the stage."

"Yes," returned the soi disant Count. "I flatter myself I came the polished bear rather nobby, and gulled more wide awake fellows than young Bruce. But Leicester Square Jim here took his cue with equal adroitness. Not one in the saloon smelt a rat, or doubted his growl of discontent was genuine when he rose to give place to our pigeon."

"No flattery now, Joskins, or positively I shall blush," said the object of this favourable criticism.

"I never flatter, Jim, and don't need to do it on this ocasion, for you did the duck dodge beautifully."

"Is no one going to praise me?" asked Captain De Curacy, in a simpering tone. "I flatter myself I was a good duck too—positively, I assure you."

"You were indeed," exclaimed Reuben. "The scene in the Boulevard was worthy of Drury Lane. I don't wonder that Bruce fell into the snare, it was so artfully set, and so cleverly concealed. And now, gentlemen, that the game is played out it only remains that we divide the spoil. I shall be able to cash this cheque to-morrow through the Paris bankers, but have money enough here to meet your claims. After that, gentlemen, our confederacy is broken up, for I must be off to Scotland to follow out my success."

"You never told us exactly what your game is?" remarked Joskins.

"No need that I should," returned Langton, with a complacent smile. "I told you my object was to get Bruce to lose all his money, and at the same time to make him think I was doing my best to keep him from the gaming table. I have had a part to play too, gentlemen, and one more difficult and longer sustained than any of yours. So, as compliments are going on this head, I venture in a modest way to sound my own trumpet. Why I wished Bruce to squander his money in my business, which you must allow me to reserve as no part of our compact."

"Devil!" shouted a terrible voice behind them, and ere they had time to recover from their startled consternation Orwell Bruce burst through the dark doorway of the inner room, with infuriated aspect precipitating himself with full force on Reuben Langton, on whose face he dealt blow after blow with his clenched fist.

"Murder! murder!" yelled Langton, in terror and pain. "Oh, oh! murder; he is killing me—help! help!"

So great was the astonishment of the other three at this sudden, unexpected onslaught that for some moments they had no power to interfere, and Orwell had time to deliver a series of terrific blows on the almost unprotected face of the traitor ere he was violently seized and dragged to the other side of the room.

"Oh, base, despicable, devilish villian!" exclaimed the enraged Orwell; "nothing short of the evidence of my own ears, which have listened to your conversation, would have made me believe the character and depth of your infamy."

"Hold him hard," said Joskins; "don't let him stir till I see how it is with Langton. Are you much hurt?" he asked, bending over Reuben's prostrate form. "Good God! you are bleeding like a sheep. Is your jaw broken?"

"No; but some of my teeth are out," gasped Reuben," spitting out the words amid blood and foam.

"I wish they had gone down your throat and choked you, hissed Orwell, as he stood glaring between the two men who held him.

"You had best keep quiet," said Joskins. "Such ferocity as you have just shown is too dangerous to be repeated."

"Oh, you need have no fear that I shall offer further violence," said Orwell. "No mauling I can give the wretch will be punishment for his perfidy, which is to me as inexplicable as it is unparalled. Let me go, I can no longer endure the presence of those who have ruined me."

"Stay a moment," hissed Reuben Langton, as with his handkerchief he wiped the blood from his swollen mouth. "Had you not taken me at a disadvantage you had not been able to mark my face in this manner. However, as you have had some provocation, I won't call out for it. I have had my revenge beforehand, and as I shall have still more, I can afford to let you depart unharmed. You say you don't know why I have played the part which by eavesdropping you have discovered. I will tell you. My father coveted your estate, it being so convenient to his own, and resolved to obtain it. His is the plot which I have executed. Perhaps I had my own personal objects in view, but of these I shall not now speak. You often called my father a money-grubbing earth-worm. He has proved the accuracy of the title by grubbing from you all the eerth which you possessed. You know that one of the clauses of the mortgage deed, which you, with your usual simplicity, signed without reading, empowers him to demand payment of the bond at any moment, and, in default of payment, to sell the estate. He will demand payment now, you are penniless, you cannot discharge the bond, the estate will be sold, my father will get it for the sum mortgaged, then Cairnbank and the Grange will be one property. He who owns the first will own both. They will be mine one day, so I can overlook the bloody mouth you have given me, it will be healed ere then—but you—now, gentlemen, you can let him go where he pleases."

Orwell listened to this cold-blooded divulgement of treacherous machinations with a feeling of stupefaction which neutralised in some degree the passionate rage surging through his soul. He was chiefly amazed by the blind trust he had reposed in this man, who for years had been his companion, his supposed friend, who had secured his confidence, under whose influence he had placed himself without suspicion. The sudden discovery, on evidence the most incontrovertible, that he had been all along the tool of a plotter, who had for years been deliberately deceiving him, and leading him to ruin, was absolutely stunning, and left him at the end of Langton's unblushing avowal without the the power of utterance. When Joskin's opened a door leading into the passage, he walked, nay rather tottered, towards it and quickly disappeared, while the sound of loud mocking laughter issued from the room he had left followed him along the corridor.

"Would you show me the way to the street," he inquired of an attendant whom he encountered in the passage, and the question was put with the calmness of tone which would have deceived any but an official of such an establishment. This man, however, had seen ruin indicated in so many ways that the unnatural paleness and rigidity of Orwell's face were to him easy of interpretation, and made the calmness of his voice only the more easily understood. With a complying bow, the man conducted "the plucked pigeon" through the corridor and winding passages to the covered entrance from the street, thankful that the despair which he saw was fast coming upon Orwell would not take effect till he was beyond the precincts of the building.

At last Orwell was in the open air, in the gathering twilight, and under the soft lustre of the stars which began to appear in the cloudless sky. He was now solitary, face to face with the misery of his ruin, and its accumulating horrors coming upon him with a rush, he cleuched his hands, smote his forehead unconsciously with one of them, and darted across the boulevard like a desperate man bent on a desperate purpose.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any simi lar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water, [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

The Northern Railway Company are prepared to furnish Lake Simcoe ice in Toronto and Hamilton. There is a pretty good harvest in the northern lakes this season of good clear ice. Mr. Marpole, the station master has an order from Philadelphia for 25,000 tons.

It has been decided, says a contemporary, that a landlord's bailiff has not authority to sell goods that have been seized. He must employ an auctioneer.

Several proprietors of halls in Toronto have refused to rent their places to the recently formed Republican Club, and the Club and the journal it proposed to establish have collapsed.

Judge Cameron in Toronto on Friday severely censured magistrates and grand juries for not exercising more discretion in convicting and bringing in true bills. A little care in this direction would save counties much cost.

Temperance appears to be spreading among our law makers. Our Ottawa correspondent informs us that Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Messrs. Aikens, Bowell, James Macdonald, Wilmot and O'Connor have joined the Dominion Temperance Alliance. Sir Leonard Tilley has long been a member of the Alliance and a staunch teetotaler. Thus we have, out of a Cabinet of fourteen, eight temperance men.

A statement is just published by the Beaver Line of steamers, showing that the total loss on live stock shipped by their steamers during the past year was only 0.41 per cent. on cattle and 1 per cent. on sheep.

Dr. Alex. Martin, of Ottawa, boasts of having the smallest poodle pup in the universe. It is two and a half inches long and weighs something like half a pound. Its mother turns the scales at three and a half pounds.

The ratepayers Vigilance Committee has found that nine out of the fifteen newly elected Aldermen in Ottawa, are disqualified, and will force them to retire from the Council Board.

The Southern fair, which was held in the city of Brantford, met with some adverse circumstances which resulted in a deficiency, its total receipts amounting to only $4,298.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

JOHN M. BOND & Co.,

Hardware Merchants,

GUELPH.

Return thanks for the liberal and increased support accorded hem during the year closed.

Our ever growing trade we attribute to our large stock, giving complete assortments first class goods to choose from; buying direct from the manufacturers for cash; and the reputation of being the cheapest hardware house in the Province.

For the future we intend, by the most pains taking attention to our customers requirements, and the lowest possible prices, to satisfy and please all those with whom it may be our good fortune to meet in business relations.

Please Give us a Call.

JOHN M. BOND & Co.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numereus orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade, Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the "fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 33⅓ PER CENT.

off the price of Furs. Ladies should not miss this chance of buying Furs cheaper than than they may get them again for years.

SMOKERS,

I will unhesitatingly guarantee my

Gold Flake Cut Plug

to be the BEST SMOKING TOBACCO in CANADA.

It is made by a new and original process hrough which the rank nicotine is extracted and the sweet Aroma and Natural Flavor are retained. It is made from pure sun-cured, Bright Virginia Leaf, without the aid of coloring or injurious compounds. It is cut ready for use and neatly packed in tin foil, in compact 4 ounce packages. It will keep in any climate and will not burn the tongue

As dealers are slow to take hold of a new thing, however much its merit, until there is a demand for it, I have determined to place it directly within the reach of all. For the next ninety days, where it cannot be obtained of local dealers, I will send two sample packages (4 oz. each) post paid, to one address, on receipt of 50 cts. (postage stamps or currency.) All lovers of the pipe are invited to give it a trial.

A NEW IDEA.—The editor of the Southern Planter says:—"The other day we met a gentleman from Alabama who gave a piece of information as to ascertaining the age of a horse after it has passed the ninth year which was quite new to us, and will be, we are sure, to the most of our readers. It is this:—After a horse is nine years, a wrinkle comes in the eyelid, at the upper corner of the lower lid, and every year thereafter of his age over nine. If, for instance, a horse has three wrinkles he is twelve; if four, thirteen. Add the number of wrinkles to nine, and you will always get it. So says the gentleman; and he is confident that it will never fail.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Four years ago a man named William Miller was sentenced to fourteen years in the Penitentiary for setting fire to his millinery store on Yonge street, Toronto. The fire communicated with the upper portion of the house and a man named Nash and his young bride were burned to death. Miller has been liberated from the Penitentiary and immediately left for England.

The Montreal Cotton Co., of Valleyfield, has declared a six per cent. dividend on the year's business. It has been running three years and this is the first dividend.

The Hon. Letellier de St. Just will remain at the residence of Mr. R. E. O'Connor, in Ottawa, until spring. He is in a very weak condition at present, but shows signs of improving.

Mothers Mothers Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I BEG TO INTIMATE TO MY friends and the public generally that I have sold out my business to Thomas Simpson, whom I can confidently recommend to my customers, and as his stock consists of meats of the best quality, I would bespeak for him a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on me, and for which I return my sincere thanks. The shop lately occupied by me will be closed after this date.

JAMES SIMPSON, Butcher.
Guelph, Jan. 31, 1880.

IN REFERENCE TO THE ABOVE I would say that, having lately bought out the business lately carried on by James Simpson on Waterloo Avenue, I will be happy to see all his customers at my stall in the Market, where they will find a large and select stock of the choicest meats to choose from, which will be sold as low as a good article can be sold for and will be delivered promptly in any part of the city.

THOMAS SIMPSON, Butcher,

Police Court.

John O'Donnell, alias Jas. Mitchell, who has just finished a term of ten days in the gaol, was up before the Police Court to-day. It appears that O'Donnell had got drunk and creating a disturbance in the Western hotel, was ordered out. He did not feel inclined to go, and was summarily ejected. This he did not relish, and by way of revenge smashed two panes of glass in the window, and was about to break the third when he was caught. The glass broken is valued at $2. O'Donnell is rather a desperate character. There was a pail and a tin cup the cell. When Constable Hammond shut him in, and was retiring from the cell he seized the pail and threw it after him, smashing it in pieces on the grating of the door. Seeing that he did not hit the constable he took his revenge out of a tin cup, and completely kicked the bottom out of it. He was sent up to-day two months at hard labor.

Janet Leith, whose term in the jail expired to-day, asked the authorities to send her back. She was sent up for two months and wound her way all alone back to the jail again.

A gang of bogus agents are working in some of the townships east of Toronto, as we learn from our exchanges, and despite warnings innumerable, they succeed in gathering a good harvest of victims. They are introducing a patent sickle grinder, and induce farmers to act as agents, the writings which close the bargain being worded as a note, and the dupes led to sign the same under the impression that it is merely an agreement to take the local agency.

NOTICE TO DEBTORS.

All parties indebted to us are requested to call and settle their accounts at once, and save costs, as we are determined to enfore payment.

INNES & DAVIDSON.

Daily Mercury.

TUESDAY EV'G, FEBRUARY 3, 1880

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

Irish Relief Committees have been formed at Madras and Bombay.

The Czarina left Paris on Monday for St. Petersburg, her health re-established.

Business has been resumed at Cabul, and little fear of a disturbance of the present tranquility is entertained.

Emperor William and Prince Bismarck have reached a complete understanding on all important matters of home and foreign policy.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin publicly charges the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland with partisanship in refusing to attend the Mansion House dinner.

The reduction of cable rates from 75c. to 12½c. per word by the Anglo-American Company has practically driven its new rival, the French Cable Company, out of the field.

The authorities are understood to be making preparations for the safety of the Queen during the procession to Westminster on Thursday. The entire route will be lined with troops.

The Russian authorities have summoned the German police of the Baltic provinces to St. Petersburg, to aid in suppressing the Nihilists, the Russian police having proven unequal to the task.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Departure of the Princess and Governor-General from Halifax.

General Turn Out of the People.

Cheers and Salutes.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 3.—A large crowd collected at I. C. R. station North street, this morning to witness the departure of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise by special train for Ottawa. The streets were lined from Government House to the railway station with troops, and the guard of honor at the station was from the 101st regiment. About 11 o'clock the Vice-Regal party arrived. A number of military and civil dignitaries were at the station to see them off. As the train started they were londly cheered, and a salute was fired outside by the the Halifax battery,

FROM OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—In the last act "As you like it," last night at the Grand Opera House, Miss Neilson wore $30,000 worth of diamonds.

His Worship the Mayor, has sent a cablegram to the Lord Mayor of Dublin requesting him to draw on him for £200 sterling, and expressing the hope that he would be able to advise him to draw again for a similar amount in the course of a few days.

Special Business Notices.

Day leads in nice valentines and low prices.

357—As an index of how the trade is concentrating at the Fashionable West End, we may just state that we served 357 more customers during January, '80, then we did in January, '79. A. O. B.

LADIES, LADIES.—We have the very goods you want. Come direct to the Fashionable West End. Showing to-day, lovely white cottons cheap, Swiss muslins, &c., &c. A. O. Bucham.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

EMBROIDERIES.—We fully anticipate an enormous demand for these handsome, lovely, wide, embroideries, which we are now showing, and if business is favorable will undoubtedly clear the entire lot by Saturday night. Every lady who is able to get out this week should make it a point to visit the Fashionable West End. A. O. Bucham.

The Governor-General and Princess Louise will stay at Montreal a couple of days on the way to Ottawa.

On Sunday morning the chimney of a dwelling house owned and occupied by Thomas Edmonston, Listowel, was discovered to be on fire, and was supposed to be extinguished, but it broke out again about 7 o'clock, destroying the building entirely. The contents was mostly saved, and the loss is covered by insurance.

Local News.

ST. PATRICK'S BENEVOLENT SOCIETY meet to-night at the Albion, at 7.30.

MEETING of the Separate School Board to-night at the Rectory.

THE Rag Baby will be discussed in the city hall to-night.

A CARNIVAL is advertised on the rink for Thursday evening.

THE race between Miller and King has been postponed on account of the snow.

RUNAWAYS.—Two runaways took place on the street to-day. No damage was done.

H. PATTERSON, who attempted suicide Saturday night, is not in a dangerous condition, but is pronounced insane.

O. A. C. — The annual entertainment of the Ontario Agricultural College will take place on Tuesday, 10th February.

GREAT preparations are being made at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, for the reception to-morrow of the Princess Louise, Marquis of Lorne and their suites.

ARILLERY BRIGADE BAND practice this evening. Members are particularly requested to bring numbers of caps, coats, jackets and helmets.

S. ROBERTSON, of the firm of Robertson Bros., of Harriston, and A. Macdonald, of Listowel, are in the city in connection with the Kilpatrick forgeries.

THE DISTRESS IN IRELAND.—The council last night did not grant the $500 requested by a meeting of ratepayers lately, for the relief of the distressed in Ireland.

ELORA, Feb. 3.—The Elora monthly fair was held to-day, and was well attended. Beef sold at from three and a half to four cents per pound. Over one thousand head of cattle have been bought in this section to be delivered in May at from five to six cents per lb.

GUELPH CURLERS.—Two rinks of the Guelph curlers went to Preston to-day. The following are the names of the players: Wm. Heffernan, Jas. Mays, R. McGregor, A. Congalton, skip; D. Stirton, Wm. Mitchell, A. Bruce, Jas. Emslie, skip.

PROBS.—Fresh to strong north-easterly winds, cloudy, continuance of colder weather with snow flurries, followed by fair weather to-morrow. Sleighing is brisk on the streets, in consequence of the snow-fall last night and to-day.

STEEL ENGRAVINGS.—We have received from the Canada Presbyterian two fine engravings—"Meeting of Wellington and Blucher after the Battle of Waterloo," and the "Death of Nelson at the Battle of Trafalgar"—which are given to subscribers to the above journal. They are valuable pictures, and, when framed, will be handsome ornaments for the drawing room. The Canada Presbyterian is becoming a deservedly popular family paper, and we are glad to learn that its circulation is rapidly increasing. Since Mr. Inglis has had the editorial management of the Presbyterian, it has greatly improved, and is now more deserving than ever of the support of Presbyterians.

A LETTER from Winnipeg, dated Jan. 26th, received this morning from Mr. W. T. Palen, a printer lately employed in this office, and well known in this city, gives a lively account of his travels up in that neighbourhood. Mr. Palen bought his ticket in Toronto, and after reaching Toledo, through some unaccountable circumstance, went 400 miles out of his way, getting at one time within 75 miles of St. Louis, having had a "big time," as he says of it getting to his journey's end; but his ticket was for Winnipeg, and he was bound to get there before he gave it up. Finally, after passing through five States of the Union, he reached St. Paul one Saturday night, where he remained till Monday morning. Here, he says, the hotels and billiard rooms, and Dutch concert saloons, were open all the Sabbath, and beer was being drank by the barrel; Saturday and Sunday were alike in that city. After leaving St. Paul, he found to his surprise that he had 400 miles further to travel, although he thought fifty miles would cover the whole distance. A person has no idea, he says, of this immense tract of country until he begins to travel over it. Winnipeg is a lively place, about half as big again as Guelph. At the time of writing there was an abundance of snow and splendid sleighing. He says there is as much style in Winnipeg as in Guelph, and by the appearance of Main-street on Saturday afternoon a stranger would not think he is so far away from home as he is. A P.S. at the close of the letter states that he was going that evening to a party at a house at Stinking River; he says there are queer names given to places in that neighbourhood.

In the House of Representatives, at Washington on Monday, among the Bills referred was one introduced by Mr Phelps, appropriating $100,000 for the relief of the sufferers in Ireland.

Mrs. S. Temple, of Harriston was last week presented by her Bible Class in the Methodist Church S. S. with a beautiful silver cake basket.

The Southern fair, which was held in the city of Brantford, met with some adverse circumstances which resulted in a deficiency, its total receipts amounting to only $4,598.

Missionary Meeting in Norfolk-st. Church.

The Annual Missionary Meeting of the Norfolk street Methodist Church was held last (Monday) evening. There was a large attendance. On the platform were the Revs. Geo. Cochran of Toronto, J. C. Smith, Howie and Williams, (pastor) of Guelph, Rev. Mr. Duff of Eramosa, and Jas. Hough, Esq., President of the Society, who occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with singing and prayer. The chairman briefly stated the purpose for which the meeting was held, and the Rev. W. Williams, in the absence of the Secretary, Mr. Wm. Stevenson, read the Annual Report, a synopsis of which we give as follows:—

The report spoke first of the work of the missionaries in the various fields of the world, and the good that had been accomplished. The domestic missions had also been carried on with considerable success, and a number of them were self-sustaining. The general report showed that in the Province of Quebec the work presented a hopeful aspect, and people were more willing to listen to the Truth than ever before. The Japan mission established but a few years ago had been successful in a glorious measure considering the difficulties encountered, and the few workers sent out by the Society. Four central stations had been established in which many listened to the Word of God. Sabbath Schools had been established, in which old and young were taught not only to read, but the plan of salvation. A native ministry of great promise was being raised up, and the membership of the Church now numbered nearly 200. The report urged increased liberality in aiding the good work.

The following sums have been collected from the Norfolk street church circuit for the year ending June, 1879: By Misses Maddock and J. E. Smith, $101.76; by Mrs. McGill and Mrs. Foster, $43.10; by Misses Oldham and Smith, $23.50; collections at missionary meetings, $48.40, making a total of $216.76.

There are now 414 missions, 400 missionaries, and 36,538 members in the general mission field of the Church. In addition to the number of ordained missionaries there are eleven Indian native assistants, and six Japanese, and five ministers on circuits supplying small bands of Indians. There are 32 schools and 32 teachers, and 21 interpreters, making a paid agency in the missionary work of 475. The total income from all sources was $135,284.08, and the total expenditure $140,089.80; the expenditure in excess of income was $4,855.72.

Rev. Geo. Cochran, late missionary to Japan, was called on, who commenced by giving a geographical description of that vast empire. For centuries Japan had been hermetically sealed against the world, and Buddism, Scintoism and Confucianism were the prevailing religions. In the early part of the christian era the Jesuits gained admittance into the empire, and for a time made considerable headway, but at length it was determined by the Government to exterminate them. The Jesuits were driven to an island on the southern coast of Japan where some 35,000 of them were put to the sword, thus completely exterminating that religion. Several centuries passed again before any successful attempt was made to gain admittance into the country by any civilized nation. In the year 1854, Admiral Perry, of the American navy, surprised the Japanese by dropping into the bay of Yeddo with his steamship and guns. He was asked why he came there. He replied that his country wished to open up trade relations with that country. They ordered him off, but he told them that in one year from that time he would return. Accordingly in about a year after Perry returned. The Japanese were terribly perplexed at the innovation, but seeing immense guns on board, and a terrific volcano inside the vessel, they concluded that it would not be safe for them to refuse to enter into trade relations with the United States, and finally arrangements were completed and intercourse followed, other nations soon after also following suit. In 1858 or 1859 the Missionary Societies began to occupy the field. There were many obstacles in the way of the missionaries, but Providence seemed to smile upon the enterprise, and door after door was opened up whereby they continued to get a firmer foothold and elicited the attention of men of influence. After Mr. Cochran had been in Yokohama for a year or more he was invited by Mr. Nakamara, of Tokio, to go and reside in that great city in close proximity to his residence. He embraced the opportunity gladly, knowing that he could have a better opportunity to carry on his work than in the former place. His expectations were not disappointed as from that time the work prospered in his hands. When he first went there he found that every sixth day was set apart as a day of rest or recreation, but there was no Sabbath observance. About this time a number of Europeans had been engaged to teach in their educational departments, but they declined to work on the Sabbath. The consequence was that an edict went forth that the Christian Sabbath should be adopted, which was considered by the missionaries as a providential affair, although the Japanese looked upon it from a pecuniary point of view. The teachers having been engaged at large salaries and refusing to work on the Sabbath, and having to observe their day of rest, they concluded that they would be saving money by allowing the Christian Sabbath to become their day of rest, and so it remains. The speaker also referred to the progress that had attended the labors of this particular branch of the church. They had a membership of over 200, several native ministers and teachers, besides those ministers from the Canadian Conference. Allusion was also made to the very cordial relations that exist between the ministers of the various Protestant denominations in that country, all seemingly intent in working for the one great object—Japan for Christ. The address occupied an hour and a half in its delivery, and was listened to with closest attention by the large audience, scarcely one leaving the church until its close.

The excellent choir of the church gave several anthems during the evening.

James Hough, Esq., was reappointed President, and Wm. Stevenson, Secretary.

Collectors.—Mrs. Hough, Mrs. McGill, Mrs. Foster, Misses Maddock, J. E. Smith, Oldham and Smith.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, and thus closed one of the best missionary meetings ever held in the Norfolk street Methodist Church.

Arrival of the Princess Louise.

Severity of the Voyage.

HALIFAX, Feb. 2.—About eight o'clock a steamer was reported approaching from the east, and at 10:30 she was made out to be the Sarmatian, and three guns were fired from the Citadel, the signal previously arranged upon. The Marquis at once embarked on the Imperial Government's steam yatch Lily, went down the harbour and boarded the Sarmatian, which passed up the harbour a few minutes before twelve. The Sarmatian came to anchor off the Ordnance wharf in the centre of the city, and at 12:45 the party came from the ship to the wharf in the Government yacht. They were received at the wharf by a guard of honour from the regulars and militia with bands. There were a numerous gathering of dignitaries and others, including ladies, at the Ordnance, admission being by ticket. The Princess and Marquis sook seats in the Governor's sleigh, and were driven rapidly to the Government House. There were large crowds in the streets, who cheered them as they passed. There was a general display of flags in the principal streets and a salute was fired from the Citadel. This was all the ceremony. It had been intended to line the streets with troops, and have salutes fired at various points, but this arrangement was not carried out. The whole affair was hurried and informal; even the route to Government House previously agreed upon was not followed, and owing to this many who gathered in the streets failed to see the Princess.

The voyage of the Sarmatian was not a very eventful one, although the Princess is likely to remember it for its severity. There were no very great gales, but the passage throughout was, as might be expected at this season, quite rough. Last night's snow storm, which caused so much anxiety at Halifax, was not felt severely on the steamer. There were passing showers of snow, but no heavy blow. Her Royal Highness suffered severely from sea sickness throughout the voyage, and was anxious to get ashore and to rest as quickly as possible; hence all needless ceremony was dispensed with, much to the satisfaction of the troops, who were to have lined the streets, and who would have found the duty very unpleasant in consequence of the cold. In less than an hour after the ship came to anchor the Princess found herself comfortably quartered at the Government House. A day's rest will, it is confidently believed, restore her to her usual health.

Apart from the Princess' illness the only incidents of the voyage worthy of note relative to the crew are the following:—A fireman died suddenly of heart disease. The Princess and suite subscribed eight guineas for his widow in England. Two seamen had their hands frost bitten. The Princess sent them letters expressing her sympathy and enclosing a pound to each.

The Princess is resting at Government House this afternoon, and the Marquis is visiting the lunatic asylum. The party will leave for Ottawa by special train at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

The Marquis visited the Dartmouth rope walk and Oland's brewery this afternoon. The Princess after a few hours rest drove to the Waverly hotel, where the ladies of her suite were stopping, and lunched with them. This evening there is a dinner party at Government House.

Guelph Ministerial Association.

At their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon, held in the house of the Rev. W. Williams, the following resolution, expressing approbation of the services of our Chief of Police, in the interests of public morality, was adopted:

"The Association having had their attention called to the efforts—attended by great success—made by Mr. A. L. Macmillan, Chief of Police, for the suppression of immorality, in more forms than one, in the city, it was moved by Mr. Torrance, seconded by Mr. Ball, and unanimously agreed, That this Association express their appreciation of the same, and would encourage him with all the influence they could exert in farther efforts in the same direction; and would at the same time, respectfully express their desire that he would use all legitimate measures and authority to put down such forms of Sabbath desecration as the gathering of groups of young men about the doors of the city churches at the dismissal of congregations from evening service on the Lord's day."

It was agreed that a copy of this resolution, signed by the chairman of the meeting, and the Secretary of the Association, be sent to the Chief of Police.

Accommodation in the Council Chamber.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

DEAR SIR—As a resident of your present so called city, and as a casual attendant at the council chamber, when I (with others no doubt) want to listen to the oratorical powers of our city fathers, I have often thought why some accommodation should not be provided for outside ratepayers in the shape of a platform of some kind, so that sittings would be in order instead of the public trampling on other's toes as they now appear to be compelled to do, and this with the sanction and knowledge of our worthy Mayor and Aldermen who appear to grasp at everything large at a distance and in the air. Still they appear to forget the comfort of the few who go there to listen to very often meaningless harangues.

Yours truly,

Guelph, Feb. 3, 1880. VOTER.

A verdict of wilful murder was found by the cornor's jury on Monday against Mrs. Sabourin for the murder of her husband at Ottawa.

The County Council of Middlesex, at its recent session, debated the National Currency question, and after a heated controversy, the resolution in its favor was withdawn. The cause has evidently lost ground, for the same body last year adopted a resolution strongly in favor of paper money.

The Irish Protestant Benevolent Society of Montreal, have resolved to solicit subscriptions to the Duchess of Marlborough's fund.

The feeling against Parnell's course especially after the manner in which the Duchess of Marlborough's fund is frowned down in some quarters, is very great.

CITY COUNCIL.

Discussion on the $500 Grant to Relieve the Distressed in Ireland.

The Council met on Monday night, the Mayor in the chair. Present—Messrs. Lamprey, MacMillan, Gowdy, McLagan, Bruce, Grange, Tyson, Fairbank, Biscoe, Hall, Stevenson, Doran, Chadwick, Coffee and Hewer.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor read the Solicitor's opinion with regard to the qualification of members, as follows:—

As to property qualification, I think members of the Council elected by the several Wards are clearly Aldermen and must have the property qualification required for Aldermen, under the Municipal Act, which is freehold to $1,500 or leasehold to $3,000, or partly both. They must be rated on the last revised assessment roll for at least these amounts. No person who qualifies merely as a Councillor has a valid right to take a seat as a member of the City Council.

With regard to the disqualifications, the law disqualifies any person having by himself or his partner an interest in any contract with or on behalf of the corporation. The word contract includes an unsettled and disputed claim for work done or services rendered, and a person holding such a claim at the time of his election is disqualified, whether the claim is held by the party himself or by another person for him, is immaterial. It was decided in one case that a person who had entered into a contract with a corporation and who had before the election (without the privity of the corporation) assigned his contract to a third person, was disqualified.

With regard to leaseholders, the law is that no person shall be held to be disqualified by having a lease of 21 years and upwards of any property from the corporation. But persons holding leases, written or verbal, for a shorter time than 21 years, would be held to be disqualified.

Where a person who is not qualified or disqualified accepts the office, any elector who voted at the election can institute proceedings to unseat him. Steps should be taken to have such questions judicially decided by proceedings instituted in the name of the elector within six weeks after the election or one month after acceptance of office by the person elected.

The Mayor read a circular from the Mayor of Toronto with regard to proposed Bill abolishing market fees, showing that such a Bill would be detrimental to the cities and towns generally, and asking the council to petition the Legislature against it.

A communication was read from W. D. Otter, of Ottawa, for the sum of $10 for the Ontario Rifle Association.

PETITIONS.

From Mrs. Bone, asking for support to a child which was left in her charge, the mother having left town. The caretaker of the little waif said that she would have to bring the child down to the council if they took no action in the matter.

From Charles Romain, asking for a remission of taxes which he claimed was illegally collected, he having a Civil Service office.

A petition was presented from Mr. Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, asking for a sidewalk about four or six feet wide, from the bridge across the Speed to the College.

From Guthrie, Watt & Catten, stating that they recommended the payment at once of $279.09 in the suit of Brooks vs. the City of Guelph, in a claim for damage sustained by Mrs. Brooks breaking her leg in falling off a sidewalk.

From John A. Wood, asking for the payment of an account which he held against the Vice-Regal Reception Committee.

The Mayor read the two resolutions passed by the public meeting held in the city hall lately regarding relief for Ireland to the sum of $500.

The Clerk read the following applications for the office of collector of taxes:—Alex. McKenzie, Alex. Anderson, Richard Mahoney, Joseph Mimmack, Joseph Heffernan.

From J. B. Armstrong and others, asking for a sidewalk on the north east side of Woolwich street.

From Susan Corbett, asking for a remission of taxes on two stores on Wyndham street, which were not rented.

From Arthur Goodeve and others, asking for a lamp on the corner of Duke and Groove streets.

From Mrs. Pearson, asking for a remission of taxes.

From the hotel keepers of the city, asking for a reduction of license for the ensuing year.

From G. J. Tansley, asking for a remission of taxes.

From the grocers dealing in liquors, asking for a reduction of license.

From Mrs. McGill, asking for a remission of taxes, as she was blind.

From Henry Hatch as follows:—

To his Worship the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Guelph.

GENTLEMEN,—Your petitioners beg to submit for your consideration the advisability of assisting an industry, which if established here, cannot fail to exercise a favorable influence on the trade of the City.

The industry alluded to is the manufacture of malleable iron, which is at present carried on here on a limited scale by the firm of Murchy Brothers & Fe sant.

This firm have succeeded in producing a quality of work that has given the highest satisfaction, and there is no doubt if the firm is encouraged by your assistance, that the business would soon attain large proportions. A favorable feature in this industry is that there is, but little competition, and the process is known only to a few. The establishment of a good foundry at this place, would inevitably result in promoting other mechanical enterprises, that require to use malleable castings in their productions.

One of your constituents is so satisfied that this industry is worthy of support, that he is willing to give two-fifths of an acre of land on Kingsmill's survey, as a site for the erection of a foundry. The dimentions to be 40 x 100 feet, and would in the event of the Corporation assisting the enterprise, convey the land in trust to your Worshipful body, for the benefit of the firm aforementioned, on their complying with such conditions as might be reasonably imposed.

Your petitioners would therefore respectfully pray that your Worshipful body will be pleased to take this matter into your serious consideration and grant such assistance as you may be able to give.

From Geo. Elliott, chairman of the directors of the Guelph General Hospital, praying for the usual grant.

From Mrs. Cox, asking for extension of time, to the 1st of April, to pay her taxes on lot.

Moved by Ald. Coffee, seconded by Ald. Chadwick, that the council ballot for the collectors of taxes. Carried.

The following is the result of the ballot: Mackenzie 12, Mahoney 11, Heffernan 9, Mimmack 1, Anderson 1.

Mackenzie and Mahony were elected.

IRISH RELIEF QUESTION.

Moved by Ald. MacMillan, seconded by Ald. Grange, that the resolution of the ratepayers, passed at a public meeting lately, asking for a grant of $500, be placed at the disposal of his Worship the Mayor, to be forwarded to the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

Ald. McLagan said that he thought it was but courteous to the chairman of the Finance Committee that the matter should be referred to that committee so that they might be able to ascertain if there could be ways and means provided for the outlay of such a sum.

Ald. Doran thought it was right that the council should act on the matter to-night, so that the ratepayers might know what the council was going to do, and that those interested most could take some other means of providing for the distress. The County Council had generously granted the same sum asked for here without a word.

The Mayor asked if it was the wish of the council to enter into discussion on the matter.

It was agreed to discuss the question.

The Mayor said that he must have another seconder to the motion, as from the Solicitor's opinion which he had previously read he held that Mr. Grange was disqualified.

Ald Grange retorted that he considered that he was as well qualified as any member at the Board.

Ald. Doran finally seconded the motion.

Moved by Ald. Biscoe, seconded by Ald. Stevenson, that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee to report ways and means.

Ald. Grange wished to know if he had any voice at the Board.

The Mayor held that he had not, according to the opinion of the City Solicitor.

Ald. Grange said that there was no City Solicitor at present.

The Mayor requested the gentleman to take his seat.

Ald. Tyson thought that the ratepayers had already granted the sum asked for and the council did not require to take any action.

It was moved and seconded that the council go into committee of the whole, Ald. Biscoe in the chair.

Ald. Gowdy said he could not understand this question of distress. It was a mystery to him that such destitution existed, as had been said, and besides, a wealthy nation who, with her surplus money came over to buy our debentures, and made a good thing out of them. In the face of this they had the cheek to come and ask us for money to keep their poor from starving. Let them keep their own poor. An Irish nobleman was not worth the name of such, if he allowed the poor to starve around him, and he hardly thought that it was the case. He did not believe in giving to the poor of Ireland when we had more poor here in this city than could be relieved. He could not get over the fact that we paid some ten or fifteen millions in debentures to England, and then to come over here begging for money. If real destitution existed England would ask no one to relieve them. Why did not the Lord Mayor of Dublin, whom they had heard so much about, put his hand in his own pocket for the relief of sufferers. He could easily buy up the whole City of Guelph, as far as means was concerned.

Ald. McLagan said that this was a question which ought to be discussed in a calm spirit and with deliberation. He was under the impression that a great deal of suffering existed in Ireland, and that something ought to be done in their behalf, but not in the way set forth in the resolutions. We had lots of poor in our town, as seen from the petitions presented to-night, asking for remission of taxes, and he would be safe in saying that were the collectors to take proceedings against those who have not paid their taxes, he would sell many a man out of bed and home. There were about 300 ratepayers to-day, who had not paid their taxes, and are we going to tax the poor men of Guelph, who get only about 60 or 80 cents a day to send money to Ireland, and know not whether it gets there or not. The leaders were divided among themselves. It was the agitators who got the money. The way to go about a thing like this was to call a public meeting, discuss the question, and let every man come down with his stamps there and then. We have enough to do to keep our own poor. There are half the houses empty in Guelph at the present time. We are only beginning the second month of the year, and there is too much destitution around us now. Where will we be at the close of the winter? Charity begins at home was a good old saying he believed in. In the case of the Chicago fire a voluntary subscription was raised. Only in the case of St. John did the council ever grant relief, and there was no comparison between St. John's and Ireland. The people of St. John were our own people, and it was one of our own cities. He would be one of fifty to give out of his own pocket. The city could not afford to give a grant. This grant had been presented before every town and city in Canada and was voted down in every instance. He granted it was a duty which we owed to humanity, but we must commence nearer home with our charity. There are hundreds of men in this city to day who are not making the wherewithal to make their living. When times are brighter we might give. Was England composed of a lot of cold blooded suckers to stand by and see such distress and not extend a helping hand? He did not think so. He would advocate ward subscriptions and let every man give as he pleased.

Ald. Bruce thought the matter had been gone about in the wrong way. A subscription list ought to have been commenced on the night of the public meeting. There were some of the speakers on the platform that night who were not ratepayers of the city at all. He liked to hear those parties speak in the pulpit well enough, but he thought they were somewhat out of place on the platform. It was strange that England, who had given a million and a half for the relief of the Hindoo would stand idly by and give no help. He would vote against the grant.

Ald. Chadwick hardly knew how to vote. He was on the side of benevolence, but from the facts he had learned from the newspapers and other sources he did not think that it would be wise. There was not one quarter of the money subscribed reached its destination. Then the parties were quarrelling among themselves, as to where the money should go. One of the movers of the resolution was not a ratepayer of the city, and he did not see how that gentleman could back it up. Some people were afraid to trust money in the hands of these agents. $500 would only be a drop in the bucket, and would do a month or two hence as well as now. He thought the matter ought to be left in the hands of the Finance Committee. He was prepared to vote against the resolution.

Ald. Coffee was certainly surprised at the sentiment he had heard expressed. One gentleman had gone so far as to draw a line and say that there was no comparison between the people of St. John and the people of Ireland, that the people of St. John were our own people. He would like to know what the people of England, Ireland and Scotland were. If they knew as much of the country and its workings as he did, members would express themselves differently. He had left Ireland in the distress of '46 and '47, and knew something of what the people now suffer. He was well aware that there were millions of wealth in England and Ireland, but it was in the hands of the few. The nation was as rich in '46 and '47 as it is to day, but yet the people died in hundreds by the ditch side. There was not one for every hundred suffering in this city, whereas the suffering was general in Ireland. We had our Relief Committee, our soup kitchen, our poor houses and hospitals. If we had destitution here it was generally the fault of the parties who brought it on through drink. The jail birds and the worst stamp of characters never went without a meal here, while strong, good, able-bodied men were starving there. He had been a member of the Relief Committee almost every year that he had sat at the Council Board, and the motto had always been let no one suffer, even where there was a case of doubt.

Mr. McLagan here made some remark to Mr. Coffee.

Mr. Coffee went on to notice a letter that had appeared in the Herald of last night, and hoped that the gentleman had not shown the cloven hoof.

Ald. McLagan said that he never wrote, dictated or attached his name to any article in the Herald. He denied the assertion, and regretted that the member should in his peculiar way attach his name in any such connection.

Ald. Coffee explained, that he attached no meaning to Ald. McLagan, but said that whoever wrote the article showed the cloven foot.

Ald. Gowdy said that he had travelled through Ireland since Mr. Coffee did and he had a pretty fair idea of the existing state of things. He saw more whiskey drunk in Dublin in one day than ever he saw in one year in Canada. They had better land there than we had here and he did not see how they could not go to work and cultivate it. He had seen Irishmen in their trade Union strikes in Dublin destroy more property in one week than would keep the poor for five years, and they drunk more whiskey in one year than would feed their poor for 25 years.

The Mayor said that he was not prepared to vote the people's money away.

Ald. Bruce thought Ald. Coffee ought to start with a subscription and see what he could get.

Ald. Doran thought it was unfair of the members of the council to shirk the question put to them by the people. England was rich, but when the poor asked for it they got very little. There was as much distress in Ireland to-day as there was in 1847 and 1848. The money which ought to be in Ireland was taken by the English Government for taxes. The population has been reduced 10,000 in twenty years, and the debt on the country has increased in that time from four to six millions. The taxes instead of being decreased by the decrease of the population are increased. He understood that the council of Dundas has sent $800, but a member had stated that no council in Canada had given anything to this cause. He never heard of the members not agreeing among themselves as to the distribution of the money for the relief of the sufferers.

Ald. Hart would like to say a few words. There was a great deal of fuss about nothing. When a person came to him in need he generally gave twenty-five cents, and if he misspent it he got no more. He thought that they ought to investigate the matter. There was no doubt a large amount of distress in Ireland. As regarded a subscription list it was only the charitable minded persons who would give, and he thought the community ought to be taxed alike. He was willing to pay his share, which would amount to about $2, and he did not think that other ratepayers would object to pay their portion. He did not understand the distinction drawn by a member of the Board in reference to St. John being more entitled to relief than Ireland. It would only be a 100th part of the taxation we would have to pay; every man that payed $5 of taxes would pay 5 cents towards this scheme. A great deal of money had been illegally spent by the council in past years and he did not see how they could take exception to this grant. The only objection he saw was how the money was to be spent and appropriated. This difficulty could easily be got over. If he thought for a moment that the money was to be spent for any seditious purpose he would vote against, but when people were starving it behoves us to send them help. When they are in a suffering condition it did not become them as humane, charitable and Christian people not to send them some assistance.

Ald. Stevenson said that the council could send $1000 if need be, but he did not approve of that manner of giving money.

The motion was then put and lost.

The committee then rose.

Moved by Ald. Chadwick, seconded by Ald. Lamprey, that the resolutions passed at the late public meeting be referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. Coffee did not see the use of referring the matter to the Finance Committee as they seemed to be determined to go dead against it.

Ald Hewer thought that the mover and seconder ought to withdraw the motion so as the people should know what to do.

Ald. Tyson said he thought that the matter ought to be settled. He was ready to aid in a private subscription.

Ald. Hewer wanted to know if Mr. Grange's vote ought to be taken.

The Mayor said that it did not invalidate the proceedings.

The yeas and nays were called for by Ald. Coffee:

Yeas.—Coffee, Doran, Hart, McMillan, Lamprey, Grange.—6.

Nays.—Chadwick, Gowdy, McLagan, Bruce, Tyson, Hewer, Fairbank, Hall, Biscoe, Stevenson.—10.

The committee rose.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald. Chadwick, chairman, asked for $500, to be placed at their credit, and that 100 cords of stone be bought. Carried.

FIRE AND WATER.

Ald. Gowdy, chairman, asked for $500 to be placed at their credit for current expenses for the year. Carried.

RELIEF COMMITTEE.

Alderman Hewer, chairman, reported having paid Collins & O'Connor $38.44 for 10½ cords of wood, and L. Parkinson $42.-19 for 11½ cords. The report recommended that these accounts be paid: Mr. J. Usherwood $38.44; that Collins & O'Connor be paid for 7¾ cords of wood at $3.25; M. Cummins for 25 cords at $3.50; that 100 cords, half dry and half green, be purchased. The Committee asked for an appropriation of $800. Carried.

To His Worship the Mayor and Corporation of the City of Guelph.

The Special Committee to whom was referred the Mayor's Inaugural Address herewith present for the consideration of your honorable body the following REPORT.

1st—Your committee approve of the business of the year being foreshadowed to some extent by the Mayor in his opening address, believing that such suggestions as may be made by the Mayor will largely guide the council in its deliberations.

2nd—The committee have pleasure in congratulating His Worship on his occupancy of the civic chair, and bespeak for him the hearty co-operation and support of the Aldermen composing this Board in the discharge of his duties in that honorable position.

3rd—Your committee are pleased to learn that the council of the past year kept their expenditure within the revenue, and trust their successors in office will exercise equal economy in the management of the city's affairs, so far as the same may be considered consistent with the public interest.

4th—As the payments on account of the debenture debt will be somewhat greater this than last year, and in order to keep down taxation, your committee would urge the most rigid economy by the various committees, and hope that no expenditure of public money will be made until the same has been fully considered and sanctioned in accordance with the rules of council.

5th—Your committee approve of His Worship's suggestions in regard to the consolidation and revision of the several by-laws which are supposed to regulate and govern the city, and hope the by-law committee will take the matter into their early consideration.

6th—Whilst your committee are aware that the present system of distributing relief is open to objection, and giving considerable dissatisfaction to the ratepayers, they cannot wholly recommend the adoption of the suggestions of His Worship, as it is their belief that the council should keep within itself full control of all expenditures of the public's money. They would suggest, however, that the co-operation of charitable ladies, and kindred associations be invited, and any recommendations or suggestions made by them be respectfully received and duly considered.

7th—Your committee are pleased to learn that the revenue from market fees were in excess last year of the previous one. They, nevertheless, are also aware of the fact that some grievances at present exist in regard to the regulations which govern the markets, and which your committee recommend should receive the immediate and earnest consideration of this council, with the view of redressing the evils complained of as speedily as possible.

In reference to the suggestions of His Worship that special encouragement should be held out by this council to new manufactories to locate themselves in Guelph, Your committee have to recommend the appointment of a Special Committee to consider the most feasible plan of carrying into effect His Worship's suggestions.

8th. Your committee are entirely in accord with His Worship in regard to the necessity of better railway connections. They consider it of prime importance in the city's interest, and its future prosperity, that connection with Arthur, Mount Forest and the country to the north of that town, as well as Orangeville to the north-east should be secured at an early date, and hope that the proper committee will use its best endeavours to secure the completion of so desirable a scheme.

9th. Your committee believing that the half-yearly collection of taxes would operate alike favourably to the city and the ratepayers, recommend the adoption of His Worship's suggestion, and hope the Finance Committee will report thereon at an early day.

They have also to recommend that the By-law Committee be instructed to introduce at next regular meeting of this council, a by-law regulating the licensing of dogs within the corporation in accordance with the His Worship's suggestions, your committee believing same to be a step in the proper direction, and certain to result in increased revenue on dog tax account.

10th. Your committee are thankful to His Worship for the many valuable suggestions laid before the council, and feel sure he will have the full and hearty support of the several members in carrying out to completion the various matters before them.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. C. McLAGAN,
Chairman.

The report was laid over till the next meeting of council.

Moved by Ald. Chadwick and seconded by Ald. Stevenson, that the mover and Clerk forward to the Legislature a petition against the passing of the Bill to amend the Municipal Act, in so far as it interferes with the right of municipalites to impose and collect market fees. Carried.

GRANT TO MR. MARRIOTT.

Moved by Ald. Coffee and seconded by Ald. Hewer, that the sum of $25 be paid to Mr. Marriott for his attention at the Council to the present time. Carried.

The council then adjourned.

Ontario Poultry Association's Exhibi- of Poultry, &c.

GUELPH, FEB. 3RD.

To-day there is a busy scene in the Drill Shed. The Executive Committee, composed of Messrs. E. Morris, C. F. Leonard, J. Tyson and James Goldie, are busy, the reception committee are busy, and many of the members of the Society who are not on committees are helping to put things in ship-shape. But above all, the birds exhibited are very busy, if the noise they make can be any criterion. Other shows are obliged to have music of some kind or another furnished as an extra inducement to attract the public. Not so the Poultry Show. They manufacture their own music and it seems to delight the heart and tickle the tympanum of the "fancy" as much to hear all the roosters, great and small crowing together with the cackling of geese, the gobble gobble of the turkeys, the quack, quack of the ducks, the saucy noise of the pigeons and the singing of the cage birds, as the Highlander, who was in the small room when there were seventeen bagpipes each one "playing her own tune," had declared "that such heavenly music he never heard in all his life before."

The principal breeders from a distance are already present and have their birds all cooped. Many of them are, however, quite busy giving the finishing touch to their pets. Some of the fowls have quarrelled on the road and present the appearance of a couple of prize fighters after the thirty-sixth round when they come up "groggy and smiling." A couple of Mr. Prigsby's Plymouth Rocks seem to have fared the worst in this respect.

Among the breeders from a distance, many of whom are present, are Messrs. Bogue, McNeil, Weldon, and Lamb, of London; Aldoes, F. N. Kanton, Berlin; W. J. Way, Charlesworth; Murchison, Jno. James, and Doel, of Toronto; J. W. Bussel, Hornby; G. H. Prigsby, and C. A. Graf, of Fisherville; Jacob Cober, Hespeler; W. Stahlschmidt, Preston; C. S. Smith, Acton; James Baptie, Ida; C. A. Keifer, Illinois; S. J. Baker, Trafalgar; James Fullerton, Strathroy, Editor of the Poultry Review; J. Pert, Freeman, D. Robertson, Acton; R. McKay, Hamilton; Thos. K. Dryden, Galt; G. E. Horning, Waterdown; John McClelland, Peterboro; J. F. Scriver, Montreal; Geo. Hope, Yorkville; A. Frank & Son, "The Grange," W. G. Burr, Brantford; R. A. Shult, Yorkville; Jas. Lockie, Waterloo; Geo. Elliott, Port Robinson; W. & A. Wright, Richmond Hill; R. Levis, Castleton, N.Y.

While we are pleased to see such a large number of prominent breeders from a distance, it is very gratifying to find that the "Royal City" takes so much interest in the breeding of first class poultry as the following list of exhibitors in Guelph will show:

Geo. Sunley, W. A. Suddaby, Fred. Evans, Robt. Howard, Jas. Phillpot, J. W. Colton, Henry Sallows, E. McKenna, Jac. Risk, Philip Spragge, Jno. Crowe, Jno. Hewer, Jno. Campbell, Frank R. Webber, Jas. Mimmack, Thos. Armstrong, (Speedside) R. McCrae, Jas. Smith, A. Pipe, Geo. Young, Wm. Ryan, Jno. Tyson, James Anderson, Chas. Heath, J. B. Collins, J. S. Anderson and E. J. W. Deitz. This looks well for Guelph, and many breeders are in favor of having the annual show permanently located here.

It is expected that the Judge will arrive this afternoon, and that he will immediately commence his duties. The show will be open to the public this evening.

DEATHS.

BOOKLESS.—In Guelph, on the 2nd inst., Jessie Bookless, the beloved wife of John Bookless, aged 71 years, three months and eighteen days.

PAUL JONES

THE ROVER OF THE SEAS;

—OR—

TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

ORWELL BRUCE IN HIS DESPAIR FALLS INTO THE HANDS OF A FRIEND, AND LEARNS HEAVY TIDINGS FROM AN INTERCEPTED LETTER—REAPPEARANCE OF PAUL JONES.

Rushing through the gloaming while most of the oil lamps on the boulevard were still unlighted, Orwell Bruce seemed to the few people whom he passed a despair driven phantom, which glared upon them for a moment and vanished in the gloom. Yet beyond the brief start which the suddenness of the wild apparition evoked, no one thought it his duty to try to save the youth from his distraction, or even to cast back upon him more than a momentary glance, until in passing one of the seat-girt trees his impetuous course was arrested by a hand laid on his arm.

Turning hastily, fiercely round, Orwell met a pair of large, pleading eyes staring at him from a yellow, haggard face from out of which the animation of hope and health had departed. The sight of the face was startling enough, but much more the words which came quietly and in a feeble tone from the yellow lips.

"Mr. Bruce, will you help me home to my lodgings?"

Nothing could have so effectually drawn Orwell from his mental distraction than this abrupt, inexplicable address. The youth stood still and gazed into the face with silent scrutiny, expecting—as the words gave him a right to do—to recognise the speaker, but the wan features failed to call up the slightest remembrance.

"Who are you?" he asked. "I do not know you."

"No; but I am, as you see, in distress. I am weak and weary, and you are strong and could support me to where I reside. You, a Scotchman, will not refuse such help to a fellow creature, especially to one who was born in Galloway."

"Certainly not. I will willingly assist you. Lean on my arm, and I will go home with you."

"Thanks, young sir. I expected as much from your father's son."

"But how do you know me?" asked Orwell, as they moved slowly along. "I do not remember of ever seeing you in Galloway."

"You never did. I have not been there for many a year, but once, when a little boy, I and Adam Borland spent a summer's day bird-nesting in the woods of Marston Grange. Adam is now head gardener there, I believe."

"Alas, sir," said Orwell, "you must have been long out of Galloway not to know that more than ten years ago Adam Borland was killed in saving all our lives."

"Adam Borland killed ten years ago!" returned the stranger in a tone of sincere concern. "Dear, dear, that is sad news. You must tell me about that and other things at supper to-night—for of course you will sup with me."

"But how did you know me?" again asked Orwell, fairly bewildered.

"Suppose I say it was from your likeness to your father as he appeared on the day of which I speak? He came upon us two boys as we ranged the woods, but was too kind to meddle with us. He was then about the same age that you are now, and you resemble him so very strongly."

"And was that how you came to recognise me here, in Paris, and in this uncertain light?" asked Orwell, in a tone of utmost surprise.

"Frankly no. Had this been the first time I have seen you to-day, I should not have had the most distant knowledge of you."

"You saw me before then? This meeting is not quite accidental?"

"I saw you before," was the quiet answer.

"When? where?"

"In the afternoon, you was sitting under a tree on the boulevard, in company with a man a year or two older than yourself."

"Ha! Were you so near us?"

"Did you not notice a man seated at the next table reading a paper?"

"I did; but paid no heed to him."

"I am that man. I heard your conversation; gathered from it who you were; and had a good understanding of the foul design of which you were being made the victim."

"What!" shouted Orwell, fiercely, and trying to draw his arm from the other's grasp.

"Nay; do not be angry. If I played the mean part of listener, it was with feelings of warm interest and kindness towards yourself. I was deeply grieved to see you in the toils of such a villain, and when you went into the gambling house I had a shrewd guess how it would be. So sure was I of what would happen that instead of going home two hours ago, as I intended, I waited for you where you found me."

"Let me go, sir," said Orwell, in a cold, haughty tone. "I am too easily deceived," he bitterly added; "but when a deceiver is revealed to me I immediately leave him. Quit your hold, sir, or, by heaven, I will shake you from me as I would a loathsome insect."

"That you might very easily do, for I have not strength to stand against you. The time was, and that not so long ago, when the strongest man would have found me a tough antagonist, but now a child might almost overcome me. Patience, young sir, and you will find me the sincerest friend you ever had. I seek nothing but your good. Why should you treat me so harshly?"

"Because you have fastened yourself on me with a false pretence. You said you were weak, in distress, and needed my assistance."

"And I said truly," returned the stranger, with a sigh. "I might indeed with great difficulty, and at the cost of utter prostration, reach my lodging, but a wasting disease is upon me, and my energies are nearly gone. If you knew me better you would not charge me with deception."

"But I do not know you at all, and you have therefore no claim on me but that of common humanity. I will assist you to the door of your lodging, but there we part."

"Nay, be not so wilful and headstrong. Reflect a moment, and you will see that I can have no motive but one of disinterested kindness towards you. Then ask yourself if at this moment you are in a position to refuse the advances of a true friend. Have I not proved myself such by watching for two hours the door of that gambling house waiting for your exit, which I knew would take place in horror and despair. Would anything but a genuine anxiety to befriend you have prompted me to do this?"

These words recalled to Orwell's mind the dreadfulness of his position, and as he looked at the tottering, strengthless man by his side—whose illness was too evident to be feigned—his heart smote him for his ungenerous thoughts, and the hard crust of angry pride in which he had encased himself was broken. It was likewise true—too true—that he was sorely in want of a friend, and it was surely ungracious and ungrateful to spurn from him one who evidently desired to prove such, and who, though personally a stranger, had yet shown a native knowledge and acquaintance which demanded a gentler return. At the same time Orwell had made such a tremendous discovery of human treachery and deceit that he might well be chary of trusting this nameless stranger at his first proffer of friendship and help.

"Forgive me, sir," he said after a few moments silence, which the other made no attempt to disturb. "Forigve me if I seem churlish and ungrateful for what I begin to think is a sincere offer of service; you have shown a true perception of my position and circumstances that at the risk of being made a victim of confiding simplicity, I will trust you if you encourage me to do so by mentioning your name and family. As an old friend of poor dear Adam Borland, you have preferred a claim to my regard which I cannot set aside, and, truth to say, I am too wretched, miserable, and desperate to turn from the hand held out to me in my misery."

"That's right," returned the stranger in a tone of satisfaction. "I respect you all the more for being shy of a stranger after the lesson you have had of the duplicity of a professed friend. As to who I am I will tell you freely and fully, so soon as we get to my room, which I am glad to say is now quite at hand, for in truth I am sorely done up."

"You do indeed seem in an enfeebled condition," observed Orwell, compassionately.

"And I am even worse than I seem," was the dispirited reply. "You, my young sir, are not the only one who have suffered at the hands of others. I am a still more notable victim of human injustice, perfidy, and ingratitude. I have devoted my life to the cause of man, and by men am I now neglected and left to languish in solitude towards an early grave. But here we are at my lodging house, and Madame Dorberque, good soul, will give us a nice hot supper."

The house at which they had stopped was No. 42 Tournou street, a quiet and retired quarter of Paris, where the building were plain but respectable. Here they were admitted by an elderly French-woman, the mistress of the modest establishment, who had been in much concern at the long absence of her invalid lodger, and welcomed his return with every demonstration of satisfaction. With her assistance, and that of Orwell, who was introduced as a friend, the enfeebled man was got upstairs to the first floor, where was his parlour and bedroom, and there deposited in a large easy chair, into which he sank panting for breath, while Orwell was courteously motioned to a seat at the opposite side of the table.

"Bring us supper, good Madame Dorberque," said her lodger.

"Yes, Monsieur. It will be on the table immediately. But will not Monsieur take a glass of wine to revive him?"

"I think I will, and so will Mr. Bruce."

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

THE ARIZONA.—The work of repairing this steamer has now been completed by her builders, John Elder & Co., of Govan, and she bears no traces of the severe trial to which she was recently subjected on the Atlantic. It was found that about 20 feet of the iron-work of the bow had been completely carried away by the shock of the iceberg, but in the other parts of the hull every plate was in its place, and not a single rivet had been started. The vessel has now been thoroughly overhauled, and will at once resume her position in the Guion fleet.

THE BRITISH VOLUNTEERS.—At the close of the "official year" in October last there were 209,000 men enrolled in the British Volunteer force, of which 200,000 were returned as being efficient. As the force will enter upon its "majority" in May next, there is a growing feeling that the occasion should be celebrated in a benefiting manner. In Scotland its is suggested that there should be a royal review in the Queen's Park, Edinburgh, similar to that held in 1860.

The students of the High Schools in St. Petersburg have issued a revolutionary proclamation, in which they draw a terrible picture of their condition under the new Government regulations, and declare that they will fight the Government to the end.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

JOHN M. BOND & Co.,

Hardware Merchants,

GUELPH,

Return thanks for the liberal and increased support accorded hem during the year closed.

Our ever growing trade we attribute to our large stock, giving complete assortments first class goods to choose from; buying direct from the manufacturers for cash; and the reputation of being the cheapest hardware house in the Province.

For the future we intend, by the most painstaking attention to our customers requirements, and the lowest possible prices, to satisfy and please all those with whom it may be our good fortune to meet in business relations.

Please Give us a Call.

JOHN M. BOND & Co.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numereus orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the "fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

off the price of Furs. Ladies should not miss this chance of buying Furs cheaper than than they may get them again for years.

R. McGregor & Co.

A TAY BRIDGE ROMANCE.—A Scotch lassie, about a year ago, left Dunkeld, Perthshire, at the solicitation of a Pittsburg family, came to America and settled in Pittsburg as governess. When first urged to leave Scotland she refused, the attachment to her own loved land being strengthened by love for her betrothed, a oung man named Stewart, who could no leave Scotland just then. Young Stewart, however, urged her to accept the offer, promising to join her in January; so she came. When the despatch announcing the total destruction of the train which attempted to cross the Tay on the last Sunday evening in 1879 was read by Jennie in Pittsburg, she at once sobbed out, "That's Stewart's train, and he is drowned!" and the list of train hands lost contained the name of Stewart. Thus 4,000 miles away from the dreadful catastrophe, the despairing cry of one of the doomed ones, though unheard by living ears, was re-echoed in the heart of the bright and hopeful young Scottish heart.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of wel selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Mothers Mothers Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. WHOLESALE MURDER IN LUCAN !

THE DONNELLY FAMILY CRUELLY MURDERED.

FATHER, MOTHER, TWO SONS AND A NIECE THE VICTIMS.

The House Set Fire to and the Bodies Consumed.

The Murderers Masked and Blackened.

LUCAN, Feb. 4.—About 12 o'clock last night a body of men, blackened and masked, entered the dwelling of the somewhat notorious Donnelly family, and murdered the inmates, the father, mother, one son and a girl, a neice. A small boy named Connor, took refuge under the bed and escaped unhurt.

They then set fire to the house which together with the murdered bodies was totally consumed.

Another son residing about three miles from the homestead was called to his door about the same time and shot. He is also dead. The township is wild with excitement.

Per Dominion Line.

LUCAN, Feb. 4.

About two o'clock this a. m. a band of armed men went to the house of Wm. Donnelly, at Whalen's Corners, and knocked at the door. John Donnelly went to the door and was shot dead. The band then went to the house of old man Donnelly and rapped at the door stating that an officer wanted to get in. On gaining admittance they went through the formalities of arresting the inmates, Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly, Thos. Donnelly and a niece of the Donnelly's, after which they began to murder them with clubs, shovels, axes, &c. After they had killed them all they set fire to the house.

Later Particulars.

For some considerable time back incendiary fires and other misdemeanors have been of frequent occurrence, and whether rightly or not the Donnelly family were blamed, if not as the actual perpetrators of the crimes that they were the instigators, and hence an intense feeling of enmity culminated against them throughout the township. A vigilance committee was formed some time ago by the settlers, as a means of protection from these outrages, which, with all their precautionary measures, did not seem to have attained the desired end. The last fire was on the Ryder farm on Thursday night the 15th January, in the very midst of the Donnelly settlement, and the four Donnelly brothers were at a wedding when the fire occurred. But the father and mother who were not at their homes at the time, were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the burning. Their examination was still pending, and was to have been closed today, but the morning light displayed the ghastly spectacle of the last remains of the inmates of the Donnelly homestead burned to a cinder, after being first murdered with axes and such other weapons as came to hand. About twenty men disguised evidently beyond recognition were engaged in the bloody work. A little boy named Connors belonging to the village was staying in the house over night, and when the attack was made dodged under the bed without being discovered. When the murder was committed, and the house fired the gang decamped. The boy then emerged from his hiding place and made for the village.

The only reliable account that can be had is from the boy. The parties murdered are James and Judy the father and mother. Thomas, the youngest son, Bridget, a niece, four in all there.

About the same time another party called at the residence of Wm. Donnelly, three miles distant from the father's house, and awoke him. His brother John being in the house, got up and went to the door, when he was immediately fired upon. He received two shots from a revolver and was killed. The man William, upon getting up could see no trace of the murderers. These are about the facts, so far as can be ascertained in the excitement of the moment.

Coroner Hossack is now summoning a jury around the village, to proceed to the scene of the murder. The cold-blooded atrocities is without precedent in the criminal calendar of Ontario.

The Bruce Registrar's Case.

Attorney General Mowat has refused application of the County Council of Bruce for an investigation into certain complaints against Registrar McLay. It appears that in the matter of complaint Mr. McLay merely followed but his official instructions.

THE auction sale at the City Hall to-day of improved farms in the township of Luther, was but a partial success. The following parcels were sold:—No. 3 to M. Hawes, for $2,180; No. 5 to Alex. Hunter, $1,950; No. 7 to Mark Hawes, for $3,600; No. 10 for $2,700, to William Hart. All the others were withdrawn.

Local News.

THE HAMILTON E. B. A. have sent $20 to Mr. P. O'Leary for the Irish relief fund.

THE annual meeting of the Poultry Association will be held at the Royal Hotel to-morrow at 2 p. m.

THE Manitoba Curlers play the Guelph team tomorrow forenoon. They come from Brampton.

MR. JAS. C. SMALL, formerly of Guelph, and now of Chatham, is in this city on a visit.

PATTERSON, who attempted suicide on Saturday is insane. His wounds are not of a serious nature.

THE MARKETS.—Quotations are about the same to-day. $5.56 to $6.00 is paid for pork.

PROBS.—Moderate to fresh winds cloudy to cloudy weather, with light snow falls in some localities, with slightly higher temperature.

RUN OVER.—A son of Mr. R. Macgregor, boot and shoemaker, got run over last evening by a cutter. The lad is not badly hurt. He received a rather severe bruise on the ankle from the horse's foot, and a hurt of a slight nature on the neck.

THE RAG BABY. — Capt. Wynn held forth on the rag baby in Fergus on Monday, and was followed by Mr. A. W. Wright, of this city. The audience was large, and the speakers were listened to with evident attention.

IRISH RELIEF COMMITTEE.—A meeting of this committee will be held at the Albion hotel tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. All the members are requested to attend, as well as others desirous of co-operating in the movement. d2

CORRECTION.—In our report of the Poultry Show yesterday, we mentioned the name of Mr. G. H. Prigsby; it should have been G. H. Pugsley. Mr. Pugsley is a very extensive breeder, and has a large collection of birds at the show.

CALENDERS.—Mr. J. W. Kilgour, Agent for the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company, of Waterloo, has sent us one of their handsomely got up calenders for 1880. We are glad to hear the company is prospering.

THE GOW CUP.—A game for this cup was played Tuesday between Jas. Philip, directed by R. Mitchell, and John Spaulding, directed by A. Robertson. Score—Philip, 6; Spaulding, 18. All who have not finished their matches for the first drawing for this cup by Saturday will be debarred from competition.

THE BYSTANDER.—Mr. T. J. Day has sent us the February number of Mr. Goldwin Smith's Bystander, which like the former number gives a general review of events all over the world, beginning with Canada. Mr. Smith always writes vigorously, and his magazine is well worth a perusal. Copies for sale at Day's Bookstore.

MEETING OF CREDITORS.—Quite a large meeting of the creditors of Messrs Levi Cossitt & Son was held on Tuesday afternoon at the office of Mr. John Smith, official assignee. The meeting unanimously ratified the sale of the estate to Mr. Thos. Gowdy, who has been in possession some few weeks. The meeting also granted a discharge to the insolvents.

PURCHASE OF A SHORTHORN BULL.—Mr. James Moore, of Minto, being unable to get the right kind of animal at the Bow Park sale last week, purchased from Mr. John Pipe, of Guelph, a splendid shorthorn bull, ten months old, at a good price. His dam is "Belle of Avon," and his sire "Lord Bright Eyes"—imported. Mr. Pipe's stock is well known for their superior quality, and Mr. Moore has secured a fine animal.

THE FAIR.—The fair, for a February fair, was beyond the average. There was a good show of cattle on the ground. The prices ranged from 3 to 4½ cents per lb., and in one instance 5 cents was paid. The prices for medium cattle by the lump ranged from $30 to $36 and $38; and for fat cattle from $38 to $45 and $60; sheep sold at $5 to $6 a head. The fair was well attended by buyers and farmers.

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.—The annual meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of the County of Wellington was held in the Secretary's office on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. The following are the directors for the year: F. W. Stone, Esq., President; Sheriff Davidson, Berlin, Vice President. Directors: James Goldie, F J Chadwick, John Harris; George Hespeler, of Hespeler; James Cattanach, Fergus; James M. Fraser, Elora; C. McMillan, Elora; George Randall, Waterloo. The report of the company for the year was submitted and approved, and ordered to be printed.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACT.—Chas. Turnbull, of the Galt Knitting Factory, who is conducting the business of his late father, has again secured the Government order for 750 pairs of drawers for the Mounted Police. This speaks well for the manner in which previous contracts have been executed by the same firm during the past two years they have had them. Nothing but the best of material and good workmanship, for which the firm is noted, is used in these contracts.—Galt Reporter.

BEAVER LODGE I. O. G. T.—At a regular meeting of the above lodge on Monday evening, the following officers were elected:—

Bro. J. Mahoney, W. C. T.
Sis. J. Dillion, W. V. T.
Bro. R. McNaughton, Rec.-Sec.
Bro. J. Hayward, Fin.-Sec.
Sis. C. Dillion, Treasurer.

HOME AGAIN.—Some days ago Mr. Wm. B. Torrance and his bride arrived from New Brunswick, and are staying a few days at the residence of Rev. Mr Torrance, the father of the bridegroom. During the past few days the couple have been visited by many old friends and acquaintances of the family, who called to congratulate the young couple, and wish them every happiness and prosperity. The visitors have also greatly admired the beautiful and costly presents of which Mrs. Torrance was the recipient from a host of friends. These number over a hundred in all, and comprise almost every conceivable kind of ornament, or useful and elegant articles of daily use. The number and quality of these gifts testify to the high esteem in which Mrs. Wm. Torrance is held by her friends in New Brunswick.

THE RAG BABY.

Speeches by Captain Wynne and Mr. Wright.

In compliance with a requisition presented to him, the Mayor called a public meeting for Tuesday evening, to discuss the merits of the Rag Baby. There was a good attendance of ratepayers present.

The only speakers were Mr. Wright and Capt. Wynne.

Mayor Sleeman took the chair, read the requisition, and briefly stated the object of the meeting, when he called upon Capt. Wynn, of St. Catharines, to address the audience.

Capt. Wynne said it gave him great pleasure to be standing on this platform to-night, to address the people of Guelph. He had hoped that Mr. Wallace, M. P., would have been present, but seeing that he was not, he and Mr. Wright would have to do the best they could to entertain the audience, and instruct them on the question of a National Currency. As regards himself he would do his utmost to place the question of a National Currency fairly and squarely before them, although he might not address his hearers so eloquently and learnedly as Mr. Wright, who had won for himself golden opinions in St. Catharines, in an address which he recently delivered there. If there were those in the audience who were opposed to him on this question, and wished to reply, he would invite them to come on the platform, and they would be extended a fair chance of replying—a courtesy which he always gave and expected. On all the platforms that he had spoken he had met with no opposition, with the exception of Toronto, when he was opposed by three gentlemen. One of them is now a convert to the National Currency movement, the other wished to be, and he hoped that the third would soon be brought into the fold. Only a short year ago he was treated with contempt in St. Catharines for the advocacy of this question. A month before that the people had asked him to advise them in their Municipal Councils. At that time men shunned him in every respect If they saw him on one side of the street they would pass to the other. He cared not, but he stuck to his colors, and the upshot of the whole thing was the formation of a society—The National Currency League—and to-day, from Nova Scotia to Vancouver's Island they had got backers and advocates. This society considered it was the best and most reasonable thing to memorialize the Government to investigate our financial system. The Rag Baby, as it is called, was destined to be the money of the future, and the men who made the greatest cry against it are its best advocates. The speaker then went on to tell about the formation of the league in St. Catharines and the difficulties which attended its formation. After the holding of the first meeting the thing became comparatively easier. They soon won converts to their side. He referred to our prosperous condition in 1861 to 1873, when we were fully alive to our interests and industries, and were paid in American money. The hour that trouble comes it sweeps our gold basis away. In 1862 the Americans could get no gold, and postage stamps were money then. Other money was issued, which was taken as a legal tender for all debts, and went up to a premium equal with gold, because they represented so much value in gold. All the argument the opposition had on their side was, that we required money of an honest value. The lecturer went on to say that this hard money basis had driven many a man from Canada, even in the time of our prosperity, who had gone over to the States and kept their aged parents on this rag baby. This money paid for everything in the United States; and not only that but they had paid their war debt by it and are able to hold their own against any nation in the world, and yet they had no gold basis for sixteen years. In our country credit takes the place of cash, and wherever that takes place ruin follows. Had Canada issued an irredeemable currency at the same time as the States she would have been in a far better condition to-day, and as well placed as the United States. As regards an irredeemable currency he would remark that the bank notes we have now in circulation are not redeemable nor were they ever intended to be redeemed nor could not be if called in. We have got only $1 of gold to $3 of paper, and yet it was said that we had a gold basis. One twenty-fifth of the whole money in the country is in the hands of about forty persons. He went on to speak of what an irredeemable currency had done for France after the war. Every man was sent to work, and the consequence was that in sixteen months she paid off one billion one hundred million of her war debt. That was the effect of an irredeemable currency in France, whereas a gold basis system in England has been the cause of endless wars. If Ireland had at the present time a right financial system we would not hear from day to day of the distress that prevails in that land. Then the question about this money being of no value in other countries. To this he would say, that the American greenback would pass to-day in every country in the world for $1 The speaker entered into the question of borrowing money from Britian, whereas he said if we had this currency we had no need to borrow of any nation, and moreover, all our mechanics and manufacturers would be employed. The English lender had more faith in us than we had in ourselves. He bought our bonds for two per cent, and sold them for five. And did we get gold for them? No. There was sufficient faith placed in the Bank of England. We ought to have the same faith in ourselves. The bank of England had only one hundred and fifteen millions of gold to four billions of bills. As regards the intrinsic value of money, he would say that labour was the only money. Gold had been set up as a standard, but labour was the real wealth of the country. Money was the creation of the law, and its only power was to pay a debt. He said we had not gold enough in Canada to pay our national debt for one year, and he would like to know, with the existing state of things, how we are going to do it. The only way it could be done was by a domestic irredeemable money, and make it represent the labour of the nation instead of gold. If that money is lost, say $10 of it, it is a gain to the country. The way things now are, if a man loses or destroys by any means $10, he loses that ten dollars and is taxed his proportion to pay for it. That was one of the benefits of a currency such as advocated. He then dealt with the question of inflation, and the manner in which he would propose the issuing of these bills, and held that if such a system of money was in circulation, it would do away with interest altogether. He did not care from what side of the house this measure came, as long as it was secured. He advocated this National Currency question from no political motives whatever, as he was independent in politics. The speaker dealt at large on the question of a National Currency, and spoke for about two hours, and was listened to with great attention.

Mr. Wright followed, and gave an interesting speech of about an hour, touching specially on money, what it was and its value. He dealt with the question of money in the abstract, and came to the conclusion that as money was not wealth but merely the representative of wealth, merely a medium of exchange it mattered not of what material it was made. He combatted the idea that money should have an intrinsic value, and gave instances from the history of money in other countries to prove that money having no intrinsic value had often been used, and always with good results. Mr. Wright continued at considerable length, and was frequently applauded.

At the close of the meeting, a vote of thanks was passed to Capt. Wynn, Mr. Wright and the chairman.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A daughter of Mr. Michael Cummins, who was employed on the farm of Mr. John Boulton, Guelph Township, dropped dead on Tuesday morning while milking the cows. Miss Cummins on the morning of her decase appeared to be in her usual health and spirits, when she went to the stables to attend to the milking. A son of Mr. Boulton's, who was going through the stables, saw the milk pails standing full, and thinking that Miss Cummins had gone to look after some other duties, brought the pails with the milk to his mother. After some time had elapsed, and the girl did not turn up, search was made, when she was found lying dead beside one of the cows. It seems that the cause of her death was epilepsy. She was formerly employed at Ellis' hotel, during which period she was attacked with a fainting fit, when Dr. Herd was called in. Dr. Herod was sent after on this occasion, and knowing the particulars of the case, concluded that there was no necessity of holding an inquest, as he was aware that the young woman was liable to drop dead at any moment. She is only about 22 years of age. Great sympathy is felt for her parents in their bereavement.

CURLIANA.

Items of Interest on the Ice.

Two rinks from the Guelph club visited Preston on Monday to try conclusions with the curlers of that village. The game commenced at 10.15 a. m., and at 12 o'clock, when an adjournment was made for dinner, the city players were fifteen shots ahead. Play was resumed a little after one o'clock, and at four o'clock, the hour agreed upon to stop, the game was a tie. Another end was then played, resulting in the defeat of the Guelph team by four shots. The only excuse offered for the defeat is that the players in Mr. Emslie's rink partook of too much sausage and could not afterwards get down comfortably to their work.

The following is the score:—

Police Court.

Wednesday.

Chas. Hogan, who finished his term in jail yesterday, was arrested for being drunk and disorderly on Macdonnell street. Fined $2 and $4 costs, or 15 days in jail.

Mat. Sheady was arrested for being drunk and disorderly, and threatening to take his father's life. Fined $1 and $4 costs, or 15 days.

The case of Kilpatrick, for forgery, was adjourned for a week.

LEVI ALLAN charged Humphrey Jessop, both of Mimosa, with assault and battery. This case came up before the Police Magistrate this morning and attracted considerable attention. The case was adjourned till four o'clock in the afternoon. A. Dunbar appeared for plaintiff, and E. F. B. Johnston for defendant.

Board of Separate School Trustees.

The first regular meeting of this Board for 1880, was held in the rectory, on Tuesday evening, 3rd inst. Present,—John Harris, E. O'Donnell, E. O'Connor, Jas. Collins, Jas. Ryan, Jas. Mays, W. S. Heffernan, W. Burns, D. O'Connor, Dr. Nunan.

Accounts were presented from Herald office, E. Stovel, M. Tobin and Rev. P. Hamel. The accounts of the Herald and E. Stovel were ordered to be paid. M. Tobin's account was referred to the Committee on School Management. Rev. P. Hamel's account was referred to the Finance Committee.

E. O'Donnell presented the first report of the School Management Committee, recommending the purchase of wood for the use of the schools and some improvements in the boy's senior school. Adopted.

On motion of W. S. Heffernan, seconded by E. O'Connor, the following were appointed a committee:—J. Harris, J. E. McElderry, E. O'Donnell, to interview the supporters of the Separate School who reside in the Township of Guelph, with a view of arriving at an understanding respecting the school rate to be levied on said supporters.

An offer from Mr. Aylward, for the care of the schools, etc., was accepted.

On motion of Jas. Ryan and E. O'Donnell, a committee consisting of Messrs. Harris, Heffernan, O'Connor and Ryan, was appointed to petition the City Council for the use of the Council Chamber for the holding of the meeting of the board.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE ARTILLERY BAND will meet this evening at the band room at 7:30 sharp with helmets and overcoats. They will perform in the drill shed for half an hour. The new instruments ordered some time ago arrived last night, together with a large stock of the latest and best music. The instruments are of the best and most durable manufacture, and with proper care will last half a century. It is the intention of the band to procure two first-class cornets, one solo horn and an E. flat bass, as soon as possible. They intend to give a first-class promenade concert in the drill shed on the evening of Good Friday, when no doubt, our citizens will liberally patronise them. Mr. W. T. Vale procured the instruments.

DEPARTURE OF THE VICE-REGAL PARTY FROM HALIFAX.—HALIFAX, Feb. 3.—Notwithstanding the very cold weather today there was a great crowd at the railway station to witness the departure of the Marquis and Princess for Ottawa. The Marquis and Princess arrived sharp at eleven, and were received with the usual salute from the guard of honour. At ten minutes after eleven the train moved off amid rounds of cheers from the crowd, and the same moment a salute was fired by the volunteer artillery stationed outside.

SAID John Bright in his late speech at Rochdale: "What a grand thing it would be if England and all her colonies, including the colonies of the United States—for though a separate nation, they are still historically colonies of England—if England and her colonies, including the United States, colony of Canada, the colonies of Australia and New Zealand, the colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and the whole of the Indian Empire—altogether now nearing, and which will soon attain to a population of nearly 400,000,000—probably nearly one-third of the whole population of the world—what a magnificent thing it would be if these nations alone adopted the principles of free trade, and set that great example to the world, which the world before long would inevitably follow."

THE Elora Express says: At a recent meeting of the Elora Agricultural Machine Company, one of the shareholders asked the question how it was the dividend was so small, when Mr. John R. Wissler replied: "How could it be otherwise? your National Policy has put up the price of iron, coal, paint and other materials. If you support the N. P. you must take the consequences, and this is one of them." Put that in your pipe and smoke it.

THE Times semi-officially asserts that there is no truth whatever in the reports that Lord Lytton is desirous of leaving India, and hence it follows that there is no question of choosing his successor.

Last Week's Parliamentary Affairs in Toronto.

(From our Correspondent.)

The regular work of the session has now fairly begun, as is evidenced by the fact that since last Monday—except on the evening of the Governor's ball—the members have been kept on duty from ten in the morning until ten at night.

The most of the Standing Committees have had their hands full, although that on Public Accounts has done little or nothing. The Railway Committee has thrown out Mr. Hay's Grand Ontario Central Railway scheme, and will have to reject a great many more of the like kind if any surplus is to be retained by the Province. The two rival Ontario Pacific Railway Junction lines will shortly come before the Committee; and already, deputations, interviews, and lobbying, are the order of the day. The special Committee on Railway Accidents has had under consideration a great number of models and suggestions, and have heard from railway men interested in preventing additional expense, but the public are awaiting the sworn testimony of the men more practically acquainted with the dangers of the road.

The Government have taken their full share of the time of the House this week. Mr. Crooks has passed through a Bill placing the Mechanics' Institutes under his Department, and laying the foundation for their affiliation with ordinary night schools on the one hand, and the School of Practical Science on the other. Mr. Wood's bill for the establishment of the Agricultural College caused on its second reading little or no discussion, and that of a favorable character; but Mr. Pardee's bill, providing for the reservation by the Crown of the pine lumber on the free grant lots, caused a long and animated debate. The action is absolutely necessary, in the face of a rising timber market, and a falling income, for the purpose of revenue, while the opinions of those best qualified to judge are about equally divided as to its effect upon the actual settlers. The discussion in Committee of the Whole on the Judicature Bill has done little, except to show in a conspicuous manner the absence of any first-class legal talent in the present House; for with the exception of a few practical suggestions the "laymen" have contented themselves with following the advice of the member for East Durham, who plays the role of "King's jester," and have enjoyed a smoke in the reading room during the discussion.

The most important Government work of the week has been the Budget speech of the Treasurer in bringing in the estimates for this year. It was characterized by that gentlemru's usual clearness of statement, and even unusual brevity; but it was scarcely up to the efforts of former years, whilst the interpolation of the proposed sale of the North Shore Railway by Quebec, though, perhaps, conveying a salutory meaning, did not improve the speech. The estimates show that the Government have exercised great care and a due regard for economy in their preparation. It will be seen that it is proposed to spend $22,000 on capital account at the Agricultural College this year. No appropriation is asked for new Parliament buildings, so that at least an additional quarter of a million may be added to the total in the supplementary estimates, causing the proposed ordinary expenditure for the year to once more exceed the expected ordinary income. But it is felt by many here that the time has fully come when the surplus should be wholly separated from all else, and held to meet such expenditure as new Parliament buildings. The only fault is that the style of accounting used does not clearly enough separate the income arising from ordinary sources of revenue from that derived from the sources that make up the surplus, nor on the other hand distinguish sufficiently payments out of surplus from payments out of ordinary revenue. The Treasurer's statement of assets and liabilities is clear though involved; but it is scarcely a just use of the term to call the balance a "surplus." However the matters will be more easily seen when the Public Accounts for 1879 have been brought down next week. On the whole the statement was well received, and the criticism of it remarkable only for its utter weakness. It was expected that Mr. Merrick would take up the cudgels, but from whatever reason he has so far left the matter to the ordinary leaders, and a very poor attempt they have made at anything like intelligent criticism.

The Attorney-General's bills relating to co-operative associations, coroners, inquests and to local assessment for drainage of land have been passed; and the Government have yet to bring down the exemption, reformatory, division court, and execution debtors' bills; and to present the plans and estimates for new Parliament buildings as well as the new immigration circular, and the reports of several departments. The end of next week will see the most of them on the table.

Amongst the public bills brought in by private members, besides some eleven referred to the municipal committee, are two or three requiring mention. Mr Cook has one that would require any man attending an engine, satationary or otherwise to have a certificate; our friend, Mr. Hay, indefatigable as ever, has quite a number, one of which is an amendment to the "Thistle Act," which South Wellington should know. Mr. Waters has one which would shorten the school vacations in rural sections during summer to three weeks, and Mr. Ballantyne another depriving Public School Inspectors in counties of the right to run for municipal or parliamentary positions or take part in such contests. Amongst the private bills it may be mentioned that your member has got the one respecting re-issue of debentures by the Royal city through its first stages.

The motions for returns have already brought down a great mass of information, none of which, however, has as yet been printed. The case of ex-alderman Small of this city, brought up by Mr. Morris on Wednesday served as the immediate cause for the spiciest debate of the session; and in it the member for Glengarry made his maiden speech, stepping at once to the front ranks as an easy and forcible debater. The whole thing was not worth the time taken up; had the Attorney-

General dismissed Mr. Small he would have had ample justification.

As the members are now becoming better acquainted with each other, the usual amount of Parliamentary gossip is being retailed in the lobbies and smoking room, and discussions on dress coats and railway schemes, dinner parties, and municipal laws, governors' balls and public accounts, greet with mixed and discordant sound the ear of every passer-by.

WEDNESDAY EV'G, FEB 4, 1880

Insanity and our Public School System.

In the annual report for 1879, of the public charities for the Province of Ontario, there is no more interesting and carefully written report than that of Dr. Clark, Superintendent of the Toronto Lunatic Asylum. In his general survey of the field over which his labours extend, he clasifies the chief superinducing causes of insanity under three heads:

1st. Hereditary taint.

2nd. Worry from over work, and

3rd. Intemperance.

Under the second head he deals a well merited blow at our Public School system, regarding it as the "pregnant source of the mental and physical deterioration, which in a secondary way affects the adult population, as well as the youth of our land, from the senseless mental overstrain to which the children are subjected."

"Besides the four elementary studies, a smattering of almost every other branch of learning is required from mere children, which in former times was judged only to belong to the Colleges. The same programme of studies is laid down for all without any regard to the differences of mental constitution. A partial solution of this difficulty is attempted in our Colleges by a system of options, but does not exist in our public schools. Nervousness, lassitude, periodic headaches, a lax and prostrated physical and mental system, and a tendency to, and an invasion of insanity may end the chapter of blunders."

This, and much more is contained in the charge made against all our elementary educational institutions. These strictures we fully believe are well merited. The great number of studies introduced into our public schools, but especially the attempt to reduce every pupil to the same standard of mental capacity and physical endurance by the imposition of a most extensive but inflexible programme of studies, we have long regarded as one of the great evils of our educational system. To the school teachers of to-day every little head with so many cubic inches of brain connected in mystic union with so much muscular and nervous tissue, means just so many promotions, so many square yards of history and square miles of geography, so much involution, evolution, and resolution of powers, roots and forces, so many pages of algebra, geometry and physics, with fractions and factors twisted and contorted in every conceivable and inconceivable order; when the whole mixture may be sublimed or precipitated by the prescribed dose of chemical elements, or consolidated somewhere within the cranial dome, by assimilating the whole subkingdom of the Mollusks.

It is little wonder that the boys or girls who have undergone all this cramming and stuffing, perhaps before the age of twelve, should in latter years fail to fulfill the promise of their youth, but on the contrary, as Dr. Clark observes, should manifest signs of "mental and physical deterioration." Whatever be the merits of our public school system, and we are willing to allow that it possesses many, in this particular, however, it is based on a most extraordinary and unphilosophical assumption. For it regards children with all their varied physical, mental and moral capabilities and defects, simply as a mechanic would regard a quantity of lumber, capable of being turned into so many table legs, exactly of the same shape and size. "Simply this and no more," is the philosophical basis of our Public School programme. In rural sections it frequently occurs that an overgrown boy, who has been kept at home during the summer months, to assist in the labours of the farm, is sent to school during the winter season. His parents hope, and, perhaps, he himself expects to add to his mental treasury something that may be of use to him in after life. But whatever may be his aims or ambition, or mental activity, the poor fellow is woefully disappointed, when he finds, that because he is behind in some piece of memory work, that after all may be of very little value to him, he is placed back among a class of young children not half his own age or size, when at the end of four or five months he finds himself little farther advanced than at the beginning. But worse than all, whatever ambition he may have had in the way of obtaining an education, has been wholly crushed out of him, and in all probability his school-boy history is finished in disgust, whereas, had he received a little encouragement and assistence in the studies for which he might manifest an aptitude, such proficiency might have been attained as might at least have been of very material benefit to himself.

On looking over the lives and history of the great men of the past, who have attained the very highest places in science, literature and philosophy, it is surprising to find how few of them during their youth had passed through the regular system of education in vogue, even in their own day, while not one of them had ever been subjected to the hydraulic pressure of such an educational machine as our Public School programme. Had they been so treated, it is safe to assert that the world might still have remained ignorant of the system of gravitation, our most sublime tragedies, and epics would have remained unwritten, and the most startling discoveries of science would have still remained locked up in the storehouse of nature.

We feel perfectly satisfied that the tendency of the hothouse system to which children are subjected during the six or eight years of public school life, has a tendancy to crush out whatever originality may be in their mental constitution, by the subversion, or repression of every inherent leaning of their nature. "So far and no farther must thou go," is the language that greets every child at the threshold of all his numerous studies. It matters not what his abilities or inabilities, likes or dislikes may be "so far and no farther" is the fixed destiny that hangs over him.

"He has failed in the promise of his school-boy days," is our final verdict in hundreds of cases. But we fail to connect cause and effect. We do not see that our system tends no higher at best than a respectable mediocrity in everything, but greatness in nothing,—that it dethrones the man, and sets up the automaton, leaving him the mere echo of the thoughts, opinions, and even the principles of others.

It is a mistaken idea of education to suppose that it can only be measured by the number of studies through which a child has been dragged or forced. A much higher and more useful type of education is that which enables a child to gather up and digest knowledge for himself, than that which forces the unmasticated material down his intellectual stomach, leaving him throughout his whole after life the victim of a kind of mental dyspepsia. The highest efforts of the true educationist should be employed in directing the expanding and maturing intellect, rather than forcing upon it indigestible and highly seasoned food altogether out of keeping with its analytic or assimilating power.

We believe that the present relations subsisting between our High and Public Schools, by which the latter are looked upon merely as the feeders of the former, is responsible for much of the evil complained of in Dr. Clark's report. The number of successful High School entrants is now very generally looked on as the measure of the public school teachers' success. Failure here is almost the certain and sufficient cause for dismissal, while a successful run for a few examinations in the entrance groove is the highest ambition, as it is regarded as the highest evidence, of a successful educationist.

It would be well when an evil very generally felt throughout the country is corroborated by one so capable of judging as the Superintendent of the Toronto Lunatic Asylum, that the remedy were kept in view, in the many changes and improvements attempted from time to time in our School Law.

THE Montreal Herald has a severe article on the "bummers" who between them made $16,500 out of the Ottawa printing job over and above what it ought to have cost. It intimates that this is only one development out of the many that might be made.

TORONTO is flooded with deputations urging the claims of the two rival routes proposed for the Pacific Junction Railway. That terminating at South Bay, Nipissing Lake, is the shorter, but the people on the western side of Muskoka, urge the claims of the longer route by Gravenhurst, on the ground that the country in that direction is of more importance as a settlement and lumber region than the mere inland section.

THE St. John, N. B. Telegraph, gives a complete list of the shipping at St. John, by which, it appears, that the number of vessels of all classes owned at that port are, 1,134 with a total tonnage of 340.491. The Telegraph says: "The number of vessels during the year decreased by 27, the tonnage increased by 4,526 tons. This is a sad falling off compared with some previous years, but it is better than many expected.

THE Mail calls for the annulling of the Parliamentary Printing contract because it was obtained by conspiracy. Would not this be too hard on McLean, Roger & Co., after they had paid $10,000 to Mr. Macintosh, $1,450 to Mr. Hope, and $3,000 to Mr. Cotton for Mr. Boyle's letter?

Ontario Poultry Association's Exhibition of Poultry, &c.

The work went "bravely on" on Tuesday afternoon, and all the birds were cooped by about four o'clock except a large collection brought by Mr. Sharp Butterfield, the well-known breeder from Sandwich, who, it appears, had delayed in making his entries in proper time; the rule being imperative that all entries should have been in by the 27th January. Mr. Butterfield explained the cause of his delay to the President and Directors present, who decided to allow him to exhibit his birds, and they soon had them cooped, and certainly they made quite an additional attraction to the already fine display. Every exhibitor with whom your reporter has conversed, says most emphatically, that a finer lot of really good birds were never brought together in Canada. It is quite interesting to watch the intense interest the fanciers take in watching the birds as they arrive; you will see the smile of satisfaction with which some of them view their birds, as they confidently assert to some intimate friend, "Well, I'm sure of a first prize on mine, so far," the "cockles of his heart" seems to be warmed up, and in some instances he proposes to "go out and take something," when he is attracted by another load of coops, and remarking, "let's see what these are," finds some one has arrived with a pair that as one gentleman remarked, "knocks the spots off mine." Mr. Todd, of Vermillion, Ohio, who is the judge, will have a hard task, and if he pleases every one, we think he will be more than human. The management seems determined to do all in their power to prevent diseased chickens from being allowed in the building on any pretence whatever, and when it is a well-known fact that many birds often come back from exhibitions diseased, and many valuable ones have been lost in this manner, they cannot be too particular in this respect. These remarks are called forth from the fact that a bird suffering from roup was taken out of one of the coops yesterday, was ordered out of the building and the coop nailed up so that it could not be used again. There is perhaps no disease more contagious than roup, and all true lovers of poultry will commend the action of the committee.

The show was opened to the general public in the evening, and presented an animated appearance, the Drill Shed being well lighted and comfortably warm. Their was a fair attendance for the opening night. We were pleased to notice a number of ladies among the audience.

This (Wednesday) morning Mr. Todd, the judge, commenced his duties, and is still engaged in awarding the prizes. A great deal of sympathy has been expressed by the breeders for Mr. Geo. Murton, the Secretary, and if good wishes will help his recovery he will soon be all right again. Mr. Robt. Mackenzie has fulfilled the duties pertaining to the Secretaryship in a most satisfactory manner, and for which he deserves a great deal of credit.

One of the most attractive portions of the exhibition are the pigeons and cage birds, which are placed on the platform at the end of the hall. A finer or better collection was never before brought together in Canada. Mr. Jas. Fullarton, of Strathroy, has a splendid collection of Homing Antwerps, many of them imported from Belgium. They are placed in one of the most tasty cages we have seen. It is tower shaped, surmounted by a flag, and was manufactured by W. R. Likens, of Toronto, who is making a speciality of manufacturing cages for show purposes.

Mr. Butterfield, at the request of the Association, has judged the games and game bantams, he not being an exhibitor in either class.

Mr. F. Bergman has a large collection of singing and fancy birds, which he offers for sale at reasonable prices. He has some beautiful songsters among them and they are well worthy the attention of intending purchasers.

The annual meeting of the Association will be held to-morrow, Thursday afternoon, in the Royal hotel at two o'clock, for the election of officers, deciding where the show will be held next year, and general business.

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

Another grand crockery benefit this week, commencing to-morrow, when I will sell my whole stock at prices that will draw. Come with the crowd to Cameron's d1

357½—As an index of how the trade is concentrating at the Fashionable West End, we may just state that we served 357 more customers during January, '80, then we did in January, '79. A. O. B.

LADIES, LADIES.—We have the very goods you want. Come direct to the Fashionable West End. Showing to-day, lovely white cottons cheap, Swiss muslins, &c., &c. A. O. Bucham.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

EMBROIDERIES.—We fully anticipate an enormous demand for these handsome, lovely, wide, embroideries, which we are now showing, and if business is favorable will undoubtedly clear the entire lot by Saturday night. Every lady who is able to get out this week should make it a point to visit the Fashionable West End. A. O. Bucham.

Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.

Mr. Pardee called attention to an article in to-day's Mail, in which appear the following words:—"Mr. Pardee, himself a speculator in timber limits." He wished to say that he was not a speculator in timber limits, that he had no interest direct or indirect in timber limits, that he did not own an acre of timber land, and that he had no direct or indirect interest with anybody who did. He would not have noticed this statement but that he had charge of the Department of Crown Lands, and controlled all the public woods and forests in the country.

Mr. Young moved for a return of copies of any correspondence or papers, not hitherto brought down, which may have passed between the Government of Ontario and the Government of the Dominion, or the Government of the Province of Quebec, in relation to the final settlement of the accounts of the late Province of Canada.

Mr. Wood said the difficulties which had caused delay were not with this Government but with the Governments of the Dominion and of the Province of Quebec. These Governments were not, however, responsible for these difficulties. He trusted no untoward circumstances would prevent the matter being settled next session.

Mr. Waters, in moving the second reading of his Bill to amend the Public Schools Act, explained that its intention was to reduce the summer vacation in rural school sections from six to three weeks. Very young children who had to walk a long distance to school were only able to attend about six months in the year, and it was therefore desirable that they should have all the schooling they could get in the summer.

Mr. Crooks said this matter had been under discussion in 1877. The effect of the changes made was to abolish the Easter holidays, and shorten those at Christmas, but to lengthen the midsummer vacation. One of the greatest difficulties in connection with the working of the school system was the arrangement of the hours of study so as to allow for the disparity of years between the children. No doubt the difficulties for which the Bill was intended to provide were much felt throughout the country. He believed that the changes in the school law should be as few as possible, and he therefore suggested to the mover of this Bill, and to other gentlemen having amendments to the school law to introduce, that they should allow them to stand in the mean time and let the Government introduce a Bill covering all of them, or those for which they would be willing to hold themselves responsible.

Mr. Waters having given his consent to this proposition, the Bill was allowed to stand.

Mr. Ross, in moving the second reading of his Bill to amend the Act respecting Public, Separate, and High Schools, explained that its object was to give non-resident owners of property in school sections the same privileges as residents, so that they might send their children to a school in a neighbouring section if more convenient than the sectional school. The requirement of the Bill was that non-residents should pay a rate equal to the average paid by residents.

Mr. Crooks approved of the Bill, and intimated that his regulations had permitted non-residents to send their children to neighbouring school sections. He asked that the Bill should stand, so that he might introduce its provisions into a general Bill, along with that last under discussion.

The bill was allowed to stand.

Several bills were advanced a stage.

Mr. Wood's Bill respecting the Agricultural College was passed through Committee without material amendment.

TORONTO Feb. 3.

After the presentation of petitions the House went into Committee to consider further amendments to the Free Grants and Homestead Act. The Bill was reported without material amendment.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, when the items for Civil Government, Legislation, Maintenance of Public Institutions, Administration of Justice, and Public Buildings, were passed except a few items that were allowed to stand.

Mr. Mowat introduced his Bill for the equitable distribution of the property of execution debtors, and also one for the collection of taxes in the Districts of Algoma, Parry Sound, Nipissing, Muskoka, and Haliburton.

Mr. Hardy introduced the Bill for the extension of the jurisdiction of Division Courts. At present that jurisdiction is limited to $40 in cases of personal actions and $100 in the case of debts. The Bill leaves the former limit just where it is, but extends the latter to $200, allowing an appeal in cases involving amounts between $100 and $200.

PAUL JONES

THE ROVER OF THE SEAS;

—OR—

TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

ORWELL BRUCE IN HIS DESPAIR FALLS INTO THE HANDS OF A FRIEND, AND LEARNS HEAVY TIDINGS FROM AN INTERCEPTED LETTER—REAPPEARANCE OF PAUL JONES.

From a side table the landlady brought a rich ruby coloured bottle nearly full of the best Bourdeaux, and filling out a glass handed it with an air of solicitation to her exhausted lodger, who drank it off at once, and was soon wonderfully revived. Then with a smile of approval she departed, and the two men were left alone, their faces revealed to each other by the flame of the oil lamp which stood above the fireplace.

"Now, Mr. Bruce," said the occupant of the room, "I will fulfil my promise and tell you who I am. My name, I have no doubt, is already well known to you—it is PAUL JONES."

"Paul Jones!" echoed Orwell, starting violently, and regarding the speaker with an astonished look. Then you are——"

"Not the pirate and ocean freebooter which enmity and ignorance have designated me. I hope, Mr. Bruce, you are not innoculated with the vulgar notion which obtains in England regarding me."

"I was until lately, answered Orwell, "But two years ago, just before I left home, you were spoken of to me in a very different manner."

"Ah!—and by whom?"

"By Mr. Bishop, my land manager, with whom I believe you have had some business communications."

"Yes, I had some financial matters to arrange in which my sisters were concerned, and I put the matter into Mr. Bishop's hands, knowing him to be trustworthy."

"And I assure you Mr. Bishop was much at a loss to understand how you knew there was such a person as himself in existence."

"Ah! I had the information from one who—who once knew him well. I am glad he has disabused your mind of prejudice regarding me, though I suppose the good people of Galloway, as a whole, share in the opinion which the whole nation so unjustly entertains."

"I am afraid they do," was the candid reply.

"Well, well, I must trust to history to do me justice. But God, the searcher of hearts, knows the purity of my motives in all I did, and it was acknowledged that I was the means of bringing the war to an end sooner than it otherwise would. That acknowledgment, grudgingly given, is nearly all the recompense I received for my exertions in the cause of American independence. But there, I meant not to speak of myself at present. I wish to know all about you, Mr Bruce, if you have sufficient confidence to place in me. I learned much and guessed more from the conversation to which I listened to this afternoon, but my knowledge is necessarily fragmentary and defective. Tell me who the scoundrel is who has been so foully deceiving you, and why he conspired with other blackguards to rob you of your money. Have you any objections to confide these things to me?"

"On the contrary, Captain Jones," returned Orwell, from whose aspect had now vanished all signs of anger and distrust, "my folly and infatuation have brought me into such extremity that I am only too glad to give my confidence to a man of such experience and renown. So desperate was my distraction when you accosted me that I tremble to think what in the madness of despair I might have done."

"I anticipated your exit, and the mental state in which you would make it," returned Paul. "This is why I resolved to be at hand to—forgive me from saying it—to save you from your tortured self. I have known men in this position to commit suicide."

Orwell shuddered, and his face grew as white as ashes.

"God forgive me" he murmured, as he hid his face with his hands. "I fear I was verging towards that fatal act."

"Fie, fie; that is selfish cowardice and blasphemous presumption. Bad as your position may be, you have youth, strength, intelligence; you can make a way for yourself in life. Though you have lost all your wealth, you need not throw honour and courage after it. I have had a hard life of it. I have been aspersed, maligned, defrauded, conspired against, neglected, and forsaken; but I have kept my honour and integrity through it all, and by God's help shall do so to the end. So may you."

"No, no," groaned Orwell, in bitterest contrition. "You know not how guilty, how criminal I have been. Yet it is not for myself I care, but for my sister, whom I have overwhelmed in the same ruin. When you learn all, Captain Jones, you will spurn and condemn me."

"I can safely promise I shall not do that," said Paul, kindly. "Matters, may, indeed, be worse than I imagine; but as I know you have been lured by a villain in the guise of a friend to destruction, I feel that the worst of the blame does not lie with you. But here comes Madame Dorberque with supper, and you shall defer your departure till it is finished."

The hot supper was most savoury, and, despite his misery, Orwell ate heartily. Not so his host, who seemed to have no appetite, and had to sit upright in his chair to obviate a difficulty in breathing. He dallied with his knife and fork, but ate little, and seemed to be silently musing.

"Ah—and so Adam Borland is dead," he observed. "He had a brother whom I also knew—Jack he was called. What of him?"

And as Paul put this question he fixed a look of curious interest on his guest.

"He was drowned in the Solway many years ago when I was quite a child."

"Drowned, was he? How did that happen?"

And a light twinkled in the speaker's eye.

Orwell replied by giving Paul an account of Jack's disappearance according to the version universally believed by all who knew of the occurrence of that fatal night.

"And so Jack was drowned?" said Paul, who had listened attentively, and—though unconsciously—with a faint smile to the narrative. "Well, it was better than being hanged, which no doubt would have been his fate had the commander of the cutter lodged him in jail."

"Not at all," exclaimed Orwell, eagerly; "it was not Jack who shot the sailor. It was one of the smugglers, who was mortally wounded in the fray, and confessed ere he died that it was by his hand that the man fell."

"Why, how could that be?" asked Paul involuntarily betraying too great an acquaintance with the matter. "Jack said himself—I—I mean must have believed, that he shot the exciseman."

"Yes, he believed it, for I have heard his pistol went off the moment the man fell, and he thought it was from his weapon the bullet came which entered the man's heart. I was mere child at the time and remember nothing about it, but I knew it was a great comfort to his brother to know that Jack was not even an unintentional murderer."

"So it must, so it must," said Paul Jones, whom this information seemed to have particularly affected.

The rest of the supper was eaten in comparative silence, but no sooner were the dishes removed than Paul claimed the fulfilment of Orwell's promise, and the latter, who was now as frank and confiding as before he had been cold and reserved, imparted to his listener his entire history, from the day of Adam Borland's death, with nothing omitted, not even his love for Agnes Borland, which, with the circumstances connected therewith, was so intimately connected with his leaving the Grange, and the facilities Reuben Langton had for leading him on to ruin. Orwell revealed everything to the minutest particular, so that when he had concluded Paul was in full possession of every fact, as much as if he had been cognisant of the events as they transpired.

At first sight it seems strange that the youth should have unburdened himself so fully and freely to a man whom a few hours before he had never seen, to a man whom he had certainly often heard of but always to his predjudice. Yet, in truth it was not strange—it was very natural. Plunged as he was in horror and despair, destitute and friendless, alone in a foreign city, his position was so desperate that in his despair he might have committed an act to dreadful to mention. To be accosted at a moment so supremely critical by one evidently sincerely desirous to befriend him; by one who, though in an advanced stage of weakness and disease, had watched and waited to give the help which he foresaw would be needed; by one long ago acquainted with those he had known and loved—was to gain a sure and speedy entrance into Orwell's heart, evoke his gratitude, and inspire him with confidence. Therefore, with instinctive fervour the youth laid bare his bosom, even to it deepest recesses, and obtained relief in the very process.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the "fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

Guelph, 3rd Nov., 1879

MR. PENELTON:
Dear Sir,—I have used the N. B. Cattle Food Co's Condiment for some time, and am in a position to say it is the finest food of the kind I have ever used. I would advise every horse owner to give it a trial.
DEVEREUX, Livery Keeper.

Guelph, 3rd Nov., 1879.

JAMES PENELTON, ESQ.:
Dear Sir,—Having fed a considerable quantity of the N. B. C. Food to cattle and hogs, I can say that it is the finest thing for fattening that I know of.
JOHN HEWER.

SMOKERS,

I will unhesitatingly guarantee my

Gold Flake Cut Plug

to be he BEST SMOKING TOBACCO in CANADA.

It is made by a new and original process brough which the rank nicotine is extracted and the sweet Aroma and Natural Flavor are retained. It is made from pure sun-cured, Bright Virginia Leaf, without the aid of coloring or injurious compounds. It is cut ready for use and neatly packed in tin foil, in compact 4 ounce packages. It will keep in any climate and will not burn the tongue

As dealers are slow to take hold of a new thing, however much its merit, until there is a demand for it, I have determined to place it directly within the reach of all. For the next ninety days, where it cannot be obtained of local dealers, I will send two sample packages (4 oz. each) post paid, to one address, on receipt of 50 cts. (postage stamps or currency.) All lovers of the pipe are invited to give it a trial.

Hespeler Correspondence.

BUSINESS.—Owing to the absence of sleighing business has had rather a dull aspect here for some weeks past, still we feel gratified at being able to state that notwithstanding all the pressures, our business men are keeping well afloat and pay all demands with 100 cents to the dollar, which it is to be regretted cannot be said of many business men elsewhere. Our woolen factory too is in full blast, and likely to continue so.

THE SAW MILL.—The prospects regarding saw mill operations here are not very brilliant at present, owing to the want of snow. Mr. L. Kribs, the proprietor of the mill, with his usual good provision has secured a supply of pine for another season's sawing, but if sleighing should not come there will be a difficulty about getting the supply to hand.

OYSTER SUPPER.—As Mr. M. Rudd, an old and respected resident of this village, is about to leave and take up his residence in the town of Galt, about twenty-five of the employees of the factory of Schofield, Forbes & Co (in which establishment Mr. Rudd was also an employee) turned out on Friday evening last and treated him to an oyster supper in the Queen's Hotel. The supper was prepared in No. 1 style, much credit being done to mine host and hostess for the spread. The socialties usual on such occasions were indulged in, and a very orderly and happy time was spent until about half-past ten, p. m., when the party retired. The festivities of this occasion, however, were almost outrivalled on the same evening by a number of the ladies who took occasion to assemble at Mr. R's residence and surprise Mrs. Rudd, when a general good time was indulged in

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

THE WARDEN.—Speaking of Mr. Prain's re-election as Warden the Harriston Tribune says: This unanimous action on the part of the County Council in again placing Mr. Prain in the honorable position of Warden, speaks very highly of his ability in discharging the duties of the office during the past year, and confers a high compliment upon the ratepayers of Minto through their reeve. Mr. Prain has the congratulations of his constituents in this, his second term of the Wardenship.

St. Andrew's Church congregation, Fergus, according to the recently printed annual report, contributed for all purposes during the year 1879, $16,41; of which nearly $500 was devoted to improvements and repairs.

Opening of Imperial Parliament

(BY CABLE TO THE MERCURY.)

LONDON, England, Feb. 5.—The Royal procession preliminary to the opening of Parliament, took place in accordance with the programme announced. The Queen arrived at the House of Lords at ten minutes past two. Upon receiving a copy of the speech from Lord Cairns—the Lord High Chancellor—Her Majesty handed it back, and as usual, Lord Cairns read the speech. The ceremony lasted fifteen minutes.

The Vice Regal Party in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—A special train with the Governor-General and Princess Louise arrived at the Bonaventure depot here, from Halifax, at 2 o'clock this morning, and shortly after 8 o'clock they proceeded to the Windsor hotel.

LUCAN, Feb. 5.

The excitement still continues at white heat. The body of John Donnelly has been decently laid out at the residence of Mr. Connors, and looks quite natural after being washed and cleaned.

At an early hour this morning the remains of the other four victims—that is father, mother, brother, Tom and the cousin Bridget, were collected and placed together in one coffin and conveyed here, and now lie alongside the corpse of John, in Connor's house, the coroner and jury having got through with their examination, as also a post mortem on the body of John, by Dr. Flock, of Lucan. The Coroner issued his order for the interment of the remains, which will be conveyed to their last resting place to-morrow at nine o'clock. During the entire night, large parties, mostly friends of the deceased and others, from mere curiosity, were continually going to and from the corpse house, which kept the house full to overflowing all night.

A report was in circulation this morning that the bodies would be interred in the church of England cemetery, but on inquiry we find that the rumor is without foundation. They will be interred in the Roman Catholic burying ground, the church of their forefathers. The town is swarming with detectives commanded by Chief Williams of London. Twelve warrants have been issued, and while we write the constables and detectives are moving out of town with conveyances to the scene of blood, each conveyance having a spare seat, and four men in each vehicle. Your reporter could not ascertain the names of the parties for whom warrants have been granted. Reports on the street are rife with conjectures, but Chief Williams who has entire control, is very reticent on the subject. Only one member of the murdered family, who lived at a distance, has yet arrived here. The second eldest son now living—Patrick—resides in Thorold and came here by conveyance from London last night, about ten p.m. Robert, another brother residing at Glencoe, has not yet arrived, and Jennie, the youngest child and only sister—the idol of the family—who were noted for their love and kindness to each other through all their troubles—from some unaccountable reason has not yet arrived either. It is remarked on all sides the remarkable stoicism of the two living brothers now here. Men of vast experience in such matters are utterly astonished at the cool shrewdness exhibited by the brothers in the trying ordeal through which they are passing. One of them was heard to remark that the time had gone by for crying. "I might cry for one, but no tears can do justice to this case. Actions,not tears,is the watchword." The village is steeped in gloom Every passer by pursues his way with downcast head, for no matter what the former record or pedigree of the Donnellys were, the enormity of this crime has sunk all others into the shade of oblivion, and the universal cry is that such a cold-blooded wholesale murder must and shall not go unwhipt of justice. Before the sun yet goes down there will be ten or a dozen arrests made. The investigation will be carried on through the night, as the prisoners are brought in, and no doubt when that occurrance takes place the excitement will only be commencing, for hosts of friends will accompany those arrested, and we look forward to a deeply interesting drama to-night.

Local News.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY meets to-night.

GUELPH post office savings bank deposits for January, $3,224.

VERY ILL.—A correspondent says that Mr. Parks, of Puslinch Lake, is very ill, and not expected to recover.

REV. MESSRS. WARDROPE and J. C. Smith, of Guelph, and the Rev. Mr. Mullan, of Fergus, took part in a social in St. Andrew's Church, Galt, last week.

THE Caledonian entertainment, held on Burn's anniversary, has turned out a success financially,beyond the expectation of the Committee.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—Remember the Baptist Church social this evening, commencing at 7½ p.m. Admittance free. Collection at the close.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk southwesterly to northwesterly winds, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with light snow stationery or slightly lower temperature.

THE Kennedy Parlor Concert Burlesque Co. appear in the city hall to-night. Finlay McGregor, Miss Mabel Estelle, Miss Bella Meredith and other celebrated singers are billed.

MR. C. HUMPHRIES, of this city, and formerly of Guelph Township, left for the Old Country yesterday. A large number of his friends went to the station to see him off.

IRISH RELIEF COMMITTEE.—A meeting of this committee will be held at the Albion hotel this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All the members are requested to attend, as well as others desirous of co-operating in the movement.

H. M. ANDERSON, of the Dominion Saloon, has sold his stallion "St. Joe," to Mr. John Scott, of Galt, and also "Little Frank," to, Mr. H. Giddings, of Toronto, who has shipped him to England, and intends exhibiting him as a trotter.

RAILWAY RATES. — In reference to a paragraph which appears in the MERCURY some ten days ago relating to railway rates we find that the rate on the Credit Valley from Fergus is $24 per car load, while on the Grand Trunk and Great Western it is only $19.20 from Guelph to Toronto. This rate has been in force for many years.

CARNIVAL.—The carnival to be held to-night promises to be a success judging from the number of names left with the Secretary, of those who are to appear in costume. McLaren's band will be in attendance, and those in costume only will have the use of the ice.

THE HON. F. Leland, U. S. consul, resident at Hamilton, will deliver his lecture on P. P. Bliss, under the auspices of the Young People's Literary Society of the Norfolk street Methodist Church, on Thursday evening, the 12th instant. This lecture is very highly spoken of by the Hamilton Press.

HEAD MASTERS OF HIGH SCHOOLS.—From the report of the Minister of Education,we learn that in Ontario there are 104 High Schools. The Head Masters of these are distributed among the Universities: Toronto, 39; Victoria, 23; Queen's, 10; Trinity, 6; McGill, 4; Trinity (Dublin), 5; Albert, 1; Aberdeen, 3; others, 13. It is to be hoped that in the next report the universities of the under masters will also be given.

THE "POEICK" STILL LIVES.—Mr. James Gay, our poeick-laureate is still alive, and has condescended to send us some of his selections, together with a note stating that he has received another letter from Her Majesty the Queen. Here is the latest effusion:—

Gay on the wether to-day snowing like sixty hear to-day how it is in Guelph he cannot say
His good will to you
All sitho a rotten Poet,
From Gay The rotten Poet
Some day before long the Mercray will have to know it.

CURLIANA.

Items of Interest on the Ice.

THE Preston curlers only defeated the Guelph team by four, not by fourteen as shown by the score of yesterday.

THE Manitoba curlers are trying issues with the Guelph term on the rink to-day. The game will close at four o'clock.

Police Court.

In the case of Levi Allen, who charged Humphrey Jessep with assault and battery, the case being adjourned till four o'clock yesterday afternoon, judgment was given against Jessop who was fined $3 and $12.85 costs, or fifteen days in jail.

Jas. Ray, known as Buck Ray, and D. Kelher, were charged this morning with creating a disturbance on Macdonnell st., last night. The gentlemen in question had taken too much of the "barley bree,' and came to the conclusion that the one could thrash the other, for which diversion the Magistrate thought it proper to fine them each $3 and $4.50 costs, or fifteen days in jail with hard labor. They paid their fines. Ray at first pleaded not guilty but thought the better of it and pleaded guilty. Kelcher says that he got relieved of his watch before or during the fight, of which he has as yet found no trace.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

The Mayor and Corporation of Dublin will present at the Bar of the Imperial House of Commons a petition in favor of the amendment of the Land Tax.

Perfectly Cimmerian darkness prevailed in Paris on Tuesday night. No denser fog ever held sway in the British metropolis.

The fact that Germany is massing 42,000 men on the Dutch frontier, ostensibly for the purpose of preventing smuggling, is taken, in the present unsettled and excited state of Europe, as an indication that Bismarck has in contemplation the annexation of Holland and Belgium.

At a railway collision at Argenteuil, Department of the Seine et Oize, France, seven persons were killed and twenty wounded.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the American demand for iron is causing unprecedented activity in Great Britain.

The Daily News understands that, owing to the death of his sister, Mr. Gladstone will not attend the earlier part of the session of Parliament, unless public business requires his presence.

Board of Education.

The Board met on Wednesday evening. Present, Messrs Knowles, Keating, Harvey, Newton, Inglis, Gowdy, Leonard, Robertson, Skinner, Swinford, Peterson, Burgess, Innes and Mackenzie.

In the absence of the chairman, Mr. G. Murton, who is ailing, the Secretary, Rev. R. Torrance, called the meeting to order.

On motion of Messrs. Knowles and Harvey, Dr. Keating was appointed chairman pro tem.

The following High School Trustees were then appointed:—For one year, Messrs. Knowles and Murton; for two years, Messrs. Swinford and Inglis; for three years, Messrs. Harvey and Newton.

Moved by Messrs. Peterson and Inglis, that Mr. Geo. Murton be chairman for this year. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Newton and Knowles, that the Rev. R. Torrance be Secretary. Carried.

Mr. Peterson thought that the treasurer of the Board, Mr. John Harvey, was entitled to some remuneration for his services.

Moved by Messrs. Newton and Peterson, that Mr. John Harvey be treasurer of the Board for the coming year. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Peterson and Burgess, that the following be a special committee to strike standing committees—Messrs. Harvey, Knowles, Inglis, Swinford, Leonard, Innes, Burgess and Peterson. Carried.

The special committee to strike standing committees reported as follows:—

School Management—Messrs. Innes, Keating, Burgess, Wilkie, Robertson, Leonard, Peterson and Skinner.

Finance—Newton, Harvey, McKenzie, Knowles, Hart and Swinford.

School Property—Knowles, Gowdy, Bell, Skinner, Robertson and Burgess.

Sites and Buildings—Inglis, Leonard, Gowdy, Bell, Skinner, Hart, Swinford and Knowles.

Printing—Wilkie, Leonard and Skinner.

VISITING COMMITTEES.

St. Patrick's Ward—Bell, McKenzie and Innes.

St. David's Ward—Hart, Skinner and Harvey.

St. Andrew's Ward—Gowdy, Wilkie, Robertson, Leonard and Hart.

St. George's Ward—Swinford, Burgess, Innes and Inglis.

St. James' Ward—Keating, Knowles and Peterson.

High School—Chairmen of the School Management, Sites and Buildings, Property and Finance Committees,and Messrs. Robertson, Keating and Gowdy.

Associate Examiners of High School—The chairman, the Secretary, Messrs. Keating, Innes, Wilkie, Swinford and Robertson.

The report of the special committee was adopted.

The Secretary presented his annual report, and recommended that the promotion examination usually held in June be held in July. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Newton and Knowles, that 500 copies of the Secretary's report be printed for distribution. Carried.

The following gentlemen were appointed chairmen of different standing committees:—

Finance—Mr. Newton.
School Management—Mr. Peterson.
Property—Mr. Knowler.
Lights and Buildings—Mr. Inglis.
The Board then adjourned.

PROVED INNOCENT.—The London Advertiser says:—"It will be remembered that the man Rogers, who was arrested by Detective Phairon Monday, declared his innocence in spite of the suspicious nature of the circumstances. He asserted that the gloves he was endeavoring to sell were a portion of stock from a merchant in Stratford. Telegraphic communication was held with that place, and yesterday afternoon Mr. Roe, who runs a '10 cent store' in Stratford arrived in this city. He presented himself at the police station,and informed the Chief that the detained man was entirely innocent. The gloves, it appears, was a portion of the stock used in a '20 cent store' in Guelph. and which it was thought could be sold to better advantage by peddling them in the store. Roe informed an Advertiser reporter that he had known Rogers for some time, and believed him to be a thoroughly honest man. The explanations being satisfactory, an order was yesterday secured from the Police Magistrate and the prisoner discharged.

It is pretty generally conceded that although Parnell is fully expected in Montreal on the 17th inst., he will not receive a reception from the Mayor. His recent allusions to the Duchess of Marlborough are severely condemned by the Gazette.

The New York Herald has opened an Irish relief subscription list, heading it with a contribution of $100,000.

THE ONTARIO POULTRY SHOW.

An Excellent Exhibition.

GUELPH, Feb. 5.

The Judge, Mr. Todd, was very busy all day yesterday. About two o'clock the prize tickets were affixed to many of the cages, and as fast as the different varieties were judged the tickets were tacked on, thus allaying the intense anxiety felt by the exhibitors as to the fate of their pets. Those not conversant with the judging of poultry, must understand that there is a great difference in judging birds at the different Fairs, and judging them at the Ontario Poultry Show. The fowls are judged by the "American standard of excellence." A perfect bird scores 100 points, and a bird must score 85 points to obtain a prize at all. For instance; a bird might be entered for a prize and have no competition. At any of our annual fairs the bird would take a prize as a matter of course. But in this show the bird must be worthy of a prize or he will not get one, and in one case the best bird was only awarded 2nd prize, as he was not considered worthy of a 1st. So fine does Mr. Todd judge the birds that not having finished before dark, he would not work by gas light, as the colour of the plumage, &c., cannot be satisfactorily determined.

There was a large increase in the attendance yesterday, particularly in the evening. The Artillery Band turned out and serenaded the Association, their splendid music being greatly appreciated. We hope to see a large turn out of our citizens to-night. They will not be disappointed, no matter how high their expectations may be.

Mr. Jas. McDonald, of Guelph, has a number of bird cages of his own manufacture, neatly got up, and which he wishes to dispose of at reasonable prices.

The collection of light Brahmas, although not as large as last year, is far superior in quality; there are some of the finest birds ever seen in the country. Mr. G. H. Pugsley, of Fisherville, shows quite a number, and has been very successful as a prize taker. He takes first and 2nd prize for cocks, 1st and 3rd for hens, 1st and 2nd for cockerels, and 1st and 3rd for pullets. Mr. Butterfield takes 2nd for pullet and 3rd for cockerel. Geo. Elliott, of Port Robinson, is also a prize taker in this class.

Geo. Sunley, Geo. Young, and Jno. Crowe, of Guelph, are exhibitors in this class, and show some excellent birds that are a credit to them.

In dark Brahmas there are not so many entries, but a finer lot were never together. Messrs. Charlesworth, Butterfield, W. H. Doel, Geo. Hope, J. Peart, and Geo Sunley, of Guelph, are the prize takers.

In white cochins Charlesworth, of Toronto, takes the red ticket for both male and female bred prior to 1879. They are fine large birds, pure white and evidently show the great care that must have been taken of them to get them to such a state of perfection. Messrs. Butterfield and Aldous are also prize takers for both old and young birds.

The partridge cochins attract considerable attention from their excellency. We have never seen finer penciling on hens or pullets; the male birds being fine, large and well developed. Butterfield takes nearly all the prizes in this variety, The black cochins are not so numerous. The prize takers are large and show their breeding.

In buff cochins the display is particularly good, nearly all the birds being remarkable for their size, especially the cockerels and pullets, which are the largest we have seen at any show, while the color plumage and toe feathering are perfect. Mr. Geo. Sunley, Guelph, secures 2nd prize for cock, 3rd for hen, and 3rd for cockerel.

In Black Breasted Reds there is considerable competition; the prize takers are beautiful, clean, compact, handsome birds. Henry Sallows, Geo. Hewer and James Phillpots, of Guelph, are prize takers; Mr. Phillpots taking 1st on Cockerels. There are not many Brown Reds, but some good birds may be seen in the collection; the 1st prize bird has no competition against him, which is a pity, as he is really a good bird; W. H. Doel, of Doncaster, is the only exhibitor.

In Gold and Silver Duckwings, the competition is keener; W. H. Doel contributes largely in these varieties, Robt. Howard, John Campbell and F. Evans of Guelph, are also prize takers.

There is a splendid collection of Fyle games, Mr. James Phillpots of Guelph, comes to the front with one of the best male birds we have seen, he takes the first prize and two second prizes; Mr. John Campbell shows a very fine pair of young birds, the pullet taking the red ticket.

The largest exhibitor of white games is James Peart, they are nice birds, but do not possess the pluck of other varieties, and are not in as much favor with the "fancy"; Mr. Geo. Hewer, Guelph, also exhibits in this class and secures a prize.

In Leghorns there is a large exhibit of these very useful and truly beautiful birds. They are, generally speaking, in good condition, but many of the white variety are not as clean as we would like to see them. This is unfortunate, as many of the birds, if clean, would show a pure white and would add greatly to the attractiveness of this department.

The Browns are very fine, the prize takers very active birds, with splendid plumage and carriage; the first prize pair of blacks—cockerel, and pullet—belonging to Charlesworth, are pronounced by connoisseurs to be as fine a pair as ever seen.

A NEW CHURCH FOR GALT.—No less than $12,500 has been raised for the erection of a new church by the congregation of the Union Presbyterian Church. At a meeting held on Tuesday the congregation decided to accept the site offered by Mr. Dickson for $2,600. The site referred to is the lot at the end of Main street bridge, between Queen's Square and the river. The site is a fine one, and a fine building there will add greatly to the appearance of Main street.—Reformer.

The annual report of the Canada Southern Railroad shows total earnings for last year of $2,995,000; operating expenses, $2,448,000. The surplus, after deducting accrued interest on the new first mortgage bonds, is $156,000, against $57,000 for the previous year.

THE BUTCHERY AT LUCAN.

The Story of the Awful Crime.

TWENTY-FIVE MEN ENGAGED IN THE WORK.

A Family Feud the Cause of the Crime.

THE INQUEST AND THE EVIDENCE.

The following are additional particulars of the butchery that took place at Lucan on Wednesday morning:—

Very little can be ascertained as to the actual facts attending the butchery of the family. The house, which is a log one, was surrounded about 1.30 on Wednesday morning by a gang of masked men armed with guns, pistols, axes, shovels, and other weapons. The gang numbered about twenty-five. They burst in the front door, the noise of which awakened the son Thomas, who arose and went to the door. He was met with blows from shovels and axes, and in the morning a large pool of blood was observed just outside the front step, where evidently the wounded man had staggered. The murderers then proceeded to despatch the other members of the family, but by what means is not known and never will be, as immediately after they had committed their bloody work they fired the house, which was burned to the ground. A little boy named Connors who was stopping with the family managed to escape the clutches of the bloodthirsty visitors by crawling under a bed and remaining there till they had departed. It is from him that the only particulars of the tragedy can be obtained; but being young and terribly excited, he hardly knows what happened. Patrick Whalen, a neighbor, was the first he informed of the tragedy. Whalen went over and saw the bodies in the flames, but stood terror-stricken and rooted to the spot, and remained there alone till daylight, by which time the building and bodies were in ashes.

About the time that the above mentioned deeds were being committed another band of masked men visited the house of Wm. Donnelly, on the ninth concession, about three miles from his father's farm. The men knocked at the door, which a minute or two afterwards was opened by John Donnelly, a brother of William. His appearance was greeted with a volley of thirty slugs, which took fatal effect in the chest. The wounded man dropped on the threshold like a log, and when the gang saw that the object of their visit had been accomplished they hastily left the place. William Donnelly who had been awakened by the report of the guns, found his brother breathing his last, and no words passed between them. It is thought that in the dark the murderers mistook John for William, whom it is believed they were after. The body of the deceased—who, by-the-bye, was of an amiable and conciliatory disposition—was brought into Lucan. When the news of the tragedy spread through the township and adjacent country the excitement became intense—in fact the feeling is indescribable. People flocked into the village from a radius of thirty miles to view the scene of the bloody and fiery work. There does not appear to be much sympathy for the murdered family on account of the strong feeling that existed against them. Such expressions as "It's better they are cleaned out" were uttered by not a few, while but little can be heard in condemnation of the murderers, whose identity it will be hard to establish.

THE INQUEST.

On Wednesday Coroner Hossack began an inquest.

John Whalen, township of Biddulph, being sworn, said: At about two o'clock this morning I saw James Donnelly's house on fire; my child awoke and awoke me, when I saw a light shining on the window glass; about half an hour after I saw the fire; before I went over to the fire my father came to my place to tell me about the fire, and he went then before me a few minutes; I saw no person except my father; the most of the fire was in the back kitchen; when I got there I did not see any of the deceased; when I got there the fire was very hot, so that I could not get into the house; about nine o'clock this morning,when the fire was low I could distinguish the remains of four human beings, but I could not tell who they were; I went to bed at about nine o'clock, and got up at eleven o'clock, and heard no noise either time; I saw a good many tracks about the Donnelly's house more than I would expect to find; I saw nothing unusual about the deceased's place previous to the fire.

The enquiry was then adjourned till Wednesday next. Young Connors was not called to give his evidence at the inquest. There are many reasons advanced by out side persons for keeping what he knows back until the proper time. Early in the day the lad was taken in charge by Chief Williams, of the London police, who, in company with detectives Phair and Murphy, of the same force, arrived on the scene. From what could be gathered of the boy's version of the story told to different persons with whom he talked, the following is learned. He was awakened out of his sleep about 1:30 by the entrance of a gang of masked men into Donnelly's house. They proceeded to slaughter the inmates of the house, using shovels, axes, etc. After they had knocked the old man senseless, one of the gang saturated the bed clothing with oil, to which he applied a match. Young Connors, who witnessed the affair from underneath the bed, where he managed to get by climbing over the footboard unseen, made his way to Whalen's house on the opposite side of the road, where he made known the circumstances connected with the horrible tragedy he witnessed.

There is no clue to the murderers, who seem to have gone about their work in a systematic way. The boy Connor could not make out any of their faces. They are, however, believed to be members of a secret vigilance society, who have taken this method to get rid of the troublesome family. A determined effort is to be made by the authorities to discover and punish the offenders.

THE FAMILY HISTORY.

It has been no secret that for many years past there has been an intensely bitter feeling against the family, because of their supposed complicity in a number of crimes bordering on murder and oftentimes resulting in incendiarism. The history of the family is an eventful one and their life has been full of questionable exploits. Coming to Canada many years ago, they were amongst the early settlers in this district. William Donnelly, the father, was a rollicksome, drinking, quarrelling Irishmen, always ready to engage in any dispute that might give him scope for his fighting powers, and never scrupling to raise a disturbance on his own behalf if no one else would. Many years ago, he was participant in a fatal affray, which took place in the Township of Stephen, near his present residence. By a series of well directed blows on the head of his antagonist he killed him, was arrested and tried for murder at the Huron Assizes. The jury, if we remember rightly, found him guilty of manslaughter, and he was sent to the Penitentiary for a lengthy period. As the family grew up they gave unmistakable proofs that they participated in their father's ideas of life, and the boys have been engaged in many a brawl. They have also been blamed for most of the disgraceful crimes which have made Lucan famous, or infamous, within the past few years. Two of the boys drove a stage between London and Lucan for a number of years, and it being found to be a profitable undertaking a neighbor started an opposition line. He had no sooner done so, however, than his coach was visited at the dead of night, and horse and stage were burned to ashes. The Donnellys were blamed for this, but no direct proof was forthcoming. At a later date another stage owner had his coach sawn in pieces, whilst its owner was fired at by a veiled assassin at a lonely portion of the road between London and Lucan. Then not a few of the inhabitants of the Township of Biddulph had their barns and stacks of grain burned down, and from sundry threats which it had been reported the Donnelly's had used, there seemed good reason to suspect them for this also. Still there was no direct proof to convict, and the guilty ones escaped. In time, magistrates were almost afraid to act against the supposed gang, and local constables became so frightened of the vengeance which appeared to hang over whoever meddled with the alleged incendiaries that they declined to make any arrests. In this dilemma the assistance of Detective McKinnon, of Hamilton (now Chief of Police of Belleville), was got, and for a time the lawlessness ceased. A few months afterwards, however, cases of incendiarism became unpleasantly frequent. Attempts were made to throw railway trains off the track, and other diabolical attacks became so frequent that the corporation of Lucan, which village bade fair to be speedily depopulated, offered a good salary for a strong man to take the position of Chief Constable. Detective Everett, formerly of the Ontario Police, and latterly of Hamilton, took the post and made things lively for the gang, notwithstanding that numerous attempts were made to rescue prisoners, and attempts on his life were made. One of the Donnelly family is in fact now serving a term in the Penitentiary for a most determined attempt to take the life of Everett by shooting him. Whilst Everett was entering his house door one winter night, the would-be assassin fired at him from behind a woodpile, the shot taking effect within an inch of the constable. The crime was traced home to Donnelly, notwithstanding a determined effort of his relatives to swear him out of it. For a time, matters were quiet, but latterly the old "reign of terror" has been resumed, and incendiary fires and other serious offences have been frequent. Rightly or wrongly, the Donnellys were again believed to be the transgressors, and they have been in very bad favor with the majority of their neighbors. Only the other week Mrs. Donnelly, who is now a very old woman, was arrested on a charge of incendiarism, by setting fire to a neighbor's barn, but got clear, owing to the evidence being insufficient against her. One of the sons met a sad end at Waterford station, C. S. R., two months ago, having been stabbed to death by a drunken companion.

Interview with the Survivor.

(From the London Free Press.)

John O'Connor is a stout little boy, of eleven years of age, who lives with his mother in the eastern portion of Lucan. At first sight he would not be credited with precocity, but after winning his confidence and the air of strangeness is gone, he speaks with a good deal of freedom and sense. His story is one of the most wonderful in the annals of crime, and is appended just as he told it in his mother's house:—"I am eleven years of age. I went out to Donnelly's about four o'clock yesterday evening, and John Donnelly, Bridget Donnelly, the old man and the old woman, and Tom Donnelly was there. Jack and Tom put in the horse, and we all went in to get warm. After that Jack went into the barn, and put the harness over the neck of the pony and went to Will's, where he wanted to get the cutter to go to Granton to-day (Thursday). Then we sat down and ate a few apples, had our supper and went to bed. I slept with the old man in the front bed room, and the old woman and Bridget slept in the middle room—next to us. Tom slept in the kitchen. Between twelve and two o'clock some men came in and pretended they arrested the old man and Tom. Tom lit the candle, and then they put handcuffs on him, but I don't know whether they handcuffed the old man. Tom asked them to read the warrant, and while they were standing there a whole lot of men jumped into the house and commenced to beat Tom with sticks. I heard the row and jumped out of bed, crawled underneath and hid behind a clothes basket. Tom ran out of the front door, and I heard them hammer him with sticks, and then carry him back into the house again. One fellow said, 'hit that fellow with a shovel and break his head open.' Then one of the men ran up and struck him three or four blows on the head with a shovel. I heard him yell and fall, Bridget Donnelly ran up stairs. The old woman was at the kitchen door, and I heard them striking her on the head with sticks. She yelled, and then everything was quiet. Someone asked 'where's the girl?' and another voice said I guess she must be up stairs.' Than a lot of them ran up stairs, but I couldn't hear any noise, and they came down in a few minutes and said 'it is all right.' The old man went out into the kitchen and I heard him groan beside the kitchen stove. They threw coal oil on the bed, and while they were at it I heard one of them say, 'it will burn off and go out.' When it was blazing up they left. There were about twenty of them, but I didn't see whether they were all masked or not. After the bed was blazing and the house began to burn, I crawled out from underneath the bed. As I passed through the kitchen I heard Tom and the old man breathing, but could not see their heads or their faces on account of the darkness. When I got outside I couldn't see any one, and I then went over to old man Whalen's and woke them up. I was scared nearly to death. I went down to Donnelly's to stay there while the old man went down to Granton."

This was the little fellow's story, which he told with a good deal of nervousness, and with caution. It was evident to the reporter that he was holding back some thing concerning the murders, and had it not been for the cautions constantly made by a constable he would have gone into minute descriptions of the intruders, and perhaps mentioned names. He is the only available witness and unraveller of the ghastly mystery, and had it not been for his timely secretion underneath the bed would doubtless have shared the fate of the murdered Donnellys.

THEORY OF THE MURDER.

As might be expected under the circumstances, so thoroughly enshrouded in mystery, there are innumerable theories advanced concerning the tragedy. A keen observer of the history of the neighborhood, the intricate doings of the Donnelly's, and the evidence of the little boy, must come to but one conclusion, and that is shared in by all who have taken the trouble to ascertain the facts as well as those who have lived in the vicinity of the Roman Line or Eighth or Ninth Road. To form a basis of this theory it would be necessary to trace the history of a family whose career has been unusually eventful. From the story of the boy Connor, whose word can hardly be doubted, the mother entered into the fight but to fall with her husband at the hands of the bloodthirsty intruders. The girl Bridget was perhaps killed at a blow, and hence the absence of an outcry on her part. With the quartette dead, or supposed dead, the traces of the deed were destroyed by fire, and the crime of arson added to that of murder. At this stage there is a wide difference of opinion. By some it is maintained that the Committee went direct to William Donnelly's house, while an equally numerous body assert the belief that two distinct Committees committed the double tragedy. This much is certain, if it was the same Committee their bloodthirstiness was unabated by a tramp of five miles over an unbroken side line.

THE FEELING IN LUCAN.

The profoundest sensation has been caused by the news of the tragedy, which has been brought in from time to time during the day. It was about nine o'clock next morning when the first intimation of the murder on the Roman Line was secured, but before ten almost every soul in town knew it. The result was a hasty chartering of all available rigs, and a dash towards the ruins of the Donnelly homestead. Later on, word was received of the cold-blooded assassination of John Donnelly, and if such a thing was possible, the excitement was intensified. Long residents of the town have witnessed the growth of the murdered young men from infancy, and know intimately their earliest history as well as that of the father and mother. It is not surprising, therefore, that the killing of two inoffensive old people and a harmless girl meets with a universal cry of horror. Business has been temporarily suspended, and the hotels are crowded with newspaper men, detectives and constables.

CHANCES OF DETECTION.

What the police authorities are doing in the direction of following up the crime and bringing the perpetrators to justice it is not the intention of the reporter to mention. Suffice it that the London officers have not left a stone unturned, and every clue has been carefully noted. The strongest hope of those outside of police circles is that twenty or thirty guilty consciences cannot retain so awful a secret for any great length of time. Tracks about the two houses and along the roads were numerous and plain, while the observations of the little boy and the surrounding members of the family will be valuable information to those who are tracing up the clues.

DISPOSAL OF THE BODIES.

Acting on the instruction of the Coroner, the burned bodies were placed in one box, and handed over to the friends for burial. The body of John Donnelly is lying at the residence of Mr. M. O'Connor, where it will be dressed for burial.

THE OLD MAN'S LAST LETTER.

As has been previously mentioned, the father and mother were to be placed on their trial at Granton on Wednesday for firing Mr. Patrick Ryder's barns, and a letter, retaining Mr. Ed. Meredith to defend them, was received a few hours previous to bearing the intelligence of their brutal murder. It gives as succinct as possible the old man's version of the affair.

Extent of the Distress in Ireland.

Magnificent Gift by James Gordon Bennett.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—The Herald's Dublin special says three hundred thousand people are slowly starving and can only be kept alive by superhuman efforts. Local efforts are becoming feeble, and the people are looking to the world for succour. The returns by the counties where the chief distress exists show the number of those suffering are as follows: Mayo, 64,509; Galway, 43,260; Sligo, 42,930; Kerry, 33,100; Donegal, 28,000; Roscommon, 26,150; Cork, 23,896; Clare, 19,000; Limerick, 7,600; Tipperary, 6,300; Leitrim, 5,800; Wicklow, 3,600; Monaghan, 2,300; Westmeath, 1,900; Longford, 1,875; Kilkenny, 1,700. Total, 312,370.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—The New York Herald announces that it has opened a subscription for Irish relief, and that it heads it with a contribution of one hundred thousand dollars.

DUBLIN, Feb. 4—The Mansion House Irish Relief Committee publishes extracts from letters of Catholic and Protestant Archbishops, in repudiation of Parnell's charge of discrimination against rent defaulters in the distribution of the fund They highly commend the committee's labors.

PUSLINCH FARMERS' CLUB.—The annual meeting of the Puslinch Farmers' Club was held in the Town Hall, Aberfoyle, on Saturday the 31st ult. The President, Mr. Robert Buchanan, in the chair. There was a large number of members present. The Treasurer presented the financial statement for the year, which, on motion was adopted. The Club was found to be in a very flourishing condition, both financially and in the number of its members. The following officers were then appointed for the present year:—Hugh Reid, President; Duncan Gilchrist, Vice-President; Wm. Rae, Secretary. Directors—Thomas Carter, Henry Arkell, Peter Mahon, Robert Buchanan, John Murray, Duncan McFarlane, Neil Marshall, Wm. Black, Jas. Glennie, Jas. Patterson, John Clark, Jas. Eagle, John Smith and Wm. Taylor. Auditors—Jas. Scott and Wm. Kerr. A vote of thanks was voted to the retiring President, that gentleman making a suitable reply; also a vote of thanks to the retiring Secretary, that gentleman finding that since his appointment at the Agricultural College, he has not got time to devote to the business of the Club. Mr. Mahon replied in his usual able manner. The meeting then adjourned.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE H & N. W. RAILWAY.—The Hamilton Times says:—On Tuesday evening word was received that an accident of a serious nature had occurred on the Hamilton & Northwestern Railway in the vicinity of Glencairn. It seems that the mixed train (conductor, Morris Begley) which left the Hamilton depot at nine o'clock, experienced considerable delay in consequence of the snow storm, and when about half a mile of Glencairn, one of the wheels of the locomotive broke, throwing it off the track and down an embankment. A young man named Henry Goff (the fireman), was instantly killed, John Garrison, the engine driver, had his leg broken and was badly scalded, and the brakesman, Mr. Bowers, became wedged between the cars which were piled one on top of another, and had his leg literally roasted. Some passengers received slight bruises, and the engine is a total wreck.

It is related by the Syracuse Standard of Conductor W. M. Putnam, who has just retired from the Central Railroad after twenty-seven years' service, that in all that time not one person has received an injury on any of his trains.

The Butchery in Lucan.

We give to-day fuller and further particulars of the terrible tragedy that was enacted in Lucan on Wednesday morning last. The extent and character of the crime stamps it as one of the worst that has ever been perpetrated in Canada. The fact that such a crime could have been committed within a few miles of London, and in one of the most populous districts of the Province, shows what state of feeling existed among the people in the section, and to what terrible lengths they would go to in their vindictive desire for revenge. As a chapter of crime, it is the blackest that Canada has witnessed for many, many years.

RUMOR now states that the departure of Sir A. T. Galt for England will be postponed until the Budget Speech has been delivered and debated on.

SIR HUGH ALLAN is in Ottawa. His business is supposed to be in connection with the proposed subsidies to the lines of steamers to Brazil and British Columbia. Sir Hugh has yet to be recouped by Sir John's Government.

MR. GIBSON, of Hamilton, has given notice of a Bill amending the Liquor License Act. This Bill provides for increasing the penalty for selling liquor without a license and for the immediate cancellation of licenses on conviction for selling liquor on Sundays and after seven o'clock on Saturday nights, and for withholding licenses from the parties so convicted for a period of two years.

Parnell visited President Hayes on Wednesday.

Down in Prince Edward Island great distress prevails among the working classes through lack of employment.

The feeling in Montreal among the Protestants—particularly after what Parnell and Dillon have said to insult the Countess of Marlborough and discredit her fund—is that to this distributing point the contributions of all loyal Canadians should be sent in order that the money may not be diverted and prostituted to the political purposes of a band of "fossils," self-styled patriots.

The Markets.

FEB. 4.

The business in breadstuffs was small at Liverpool, and prices of wheat were from 1d to 2d lower, while floating cargoes were very inactive. The Chicago market was firm, and the changes in wheat confined to ¼ of a cent In New York the market was quiet and firm. In Montreal the breadstuffs market was inactive again. There is very little doing in wheat, a few car loads of Canada spring selling to millers at $1.33. Oats are very dull, at 31c to 32c per bushel, with sales along the railway lines reported at 32c. Peas are quiet, with a slow movement at 77c. Business in Toronto was very quiet, and the lower prices of Liverpool had a depressing effect. Flour was not offered, and there were no buyers at the prices holders ask. Wheat was also very inactive, and dealers are wide apart About 300 bushels of wheat sold at $1 25 for fall, and from $1 22 to $1 24 for spring; barley, 300 bushels, at 59c to 64c; peas, 300 bushels, at 65c and 66c; on load of oats at 33c.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. A Registrar in Trouble.

MR. MCLAY, registrar of Bruce, having for several years retained considerable sums claimed by the county as refunds of registry fees, the county council has asked for a commission of enquiry. The defence set up is that the alleged defalcations are percentages on overcharges of fees, in which the county has no interest. A sum of nearly one thousand dollars is retained to pay costs of verdicts against him for overcharges, and sums to about four hundred dollars, which he says the inspector authorized him to appropriate to himself. The alleged defalcations were discovered by mere accident. The total amount, with interest, is twenty-eight hundred dollars. The council was never consulted, and for several years the statutory returns to the County Treasurer were not made. The following is the unanimous resolution of the County Council:—"That, as the Registrar has not complied with the express order of the council at its last session for the final settlement of his liability as Registrar, a Government commission be asked for forthwith to investigate all matters of complaint, and that the warden be instructed to consult with the Government personally in furtherance of the wishes of this council in the matter of the Commission of Investigation, and take such other action as he deems advisable in the interest of the county."

Special Business Notices.

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

357—As an index of how the trade is concentrating at the Fashionable West End, we may just state that we served 357 more customers during January, '80, then we did in January, '79. A. O. B.

LADIES, LADIES.—We have the very goods you want. Come direct to the Fashionable West End. Showing to-day, lovely white cottons cheap, Swiss muslins, &c., &c. A. O. Bucham.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

EMBROIDERIES.—We fully anticipate an enormous demand for these handsome, lovely, wide, embroideries, which we are now showing, and if business is favorable will undoubtedly clear the entire lot by Saturday night. Every lady who is able to get out this week should make it a point to visit the Fashionable West End. A. O. Bucham.

Mr. W. J. Whellams, agent of the Dominion Steamship Company, denies that there is any truth in the report telegraphed from Winnipeg that he defrauded a widow emigrant out of her money on a recent trip to that section.

It seems that two Montreal notaries visited Ottawa recently and arranged the marriage contract between Lieut.-Governor Cauchon and Miss Lemoine.

MARRIAGES.

MCCARTHY—TIFFANY—At the Presbyterian Manse, Rockwood, on the 4th inst., by the Rev. D. TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

ORWELL BRUCE IN HIS DESPAIR FALLS INTO THE HANDS OF A FRIEND, AND LEARNS HEAVY TIDINGS FROM AN INTERCEPTED LETTER—REAPPEARANCE OF PAUL JONES.

"Now, Captain Jones," he added with a groan, "you know all my folly, all my guilt, the ruin I have brought on my sister and myself. I feel that you can regard me only with scorn and contempt."

"No, no, Mr. Bruce, returned Paul, not quite so bad as that. Had the career you have run been of your own choosing, had no insidious influence been brought to bear on you, had you done all this spontaneously and against the warnings and remonstrances of your real friends, my thoughts would have been severe and pitiless. No doubt you have been fatally weak, and allowed yourself to be led by the nose with lamentable ease. But circumstances were against you and deplorably in favor of these two wretches Langton and his father, whose diabolical baseness I have no words to describe. Fortunately for you they have sought only your financial ruin, not your moral destruction, and I am glad to see your heart so sound and that your mind is responsive to principles of honor and rectitude. If you had fallen into my hands sooner, ere my health was broken and my energy impaired, I could have given you good help in retrieving yourself, so far as that is possible. But, alas! I am labouring under a disease which increases every day, and all strength is going from me. I am not an old man; but injustice, neglect and disappointment have been unceasingly dealt me. My name has been vilified, my character misrepresented, my deeds ignored by a host of enemies, and now, worn out with hard service, with anxiety and indignation, I am left to die in obscurity—an ill requital surely for the service I have done to the cause of human freedom. In this very city I was once the idol of the hour—honoured and feted on every hand by the rich, the great and the renowned, and much, I fear, I was too greedy of the incense of adultation. An adverse fate has taught me the vanity of earthly ambition, and disease has subdued a spirit which my enemies could never break. From an envious and unjust world I appeal to a righteous Heaven; and if I am to die, it will be in proud protesting silence, leaving my character to be vindicated by the written records I shall leave behind me."

"Nay, sir," said Orwell, greatly touched. "This illness, I would fain hope, is but temporary. You will rally, you will recover."

Paul shook his head in sad dispondency. "That is as it may be," he quietly returned, and as if to show that his sad anticipations were not without cause a sudden breathlessness seized him, and for some minutes he sat gasping on the chair, his face deadly pale, yet crossed by dull yellow streaks, and large beads of moisture starting on his brow. Orwell in great alarm would have run for assistance, but by signs Paul prohibited him. By the help of a little wine he revived, the spasm passed away, the yellow streaks on his face dispersed, and his breathing grew easy as before.

"Have you had a turn like that before?" asked Orwell, much concerned.

"Ay—more than once. They are indications, and I receive them as such. But I am better now, and we must speak a little further of our affairs. What do you mean to do?"

"God knows, I cannot tell," returned the youth, with a look of agony.

"I suppose I can't prove foul play against this rascal who assumed the character of a Russian Count."

"No, though I have no doubt he did win by cheating."

"You may safely take for granted, but if you have nothing to show in support of the allegation it will be in vain to make it. If you had one or two witnesses to the conversation you overheard in the private room of the gaming house, and to Langton's avowal of his own and his father's machinations, a Court of law would give you back your money; but there again you are helpless—the conspiracy cannot be proved unless the 'Count' or the 'Captain' should split."

"Oh, I have nothing to hope for of that kind," returned Orwell. "The money is gone, and Anthony Langton will put the Grange to sale, as the deed of mortgage gives him power to do. Oh, fool, fool, that I have been to fall so easily into their net."

"If anything can be done to get you out of that net, and keep the estate out of that harpy's clutches, Mr. Bishop is the man to do it. I would advise, therefore, to return to Scotland and tell him all that you have told me."

At this suggestion Orwell visibly winced. "Oh, I cannot, cannot face Bishop," he said; "and yet for my sister's sake I must endure the shame and mortification of exposure."

"Now," observed Paul, "there you have put your finger on the really grievous part of the case. If your sister had not been involved in the ruin I could almost have considered your calamity a blessing, for really you needed such a lesson to consolidate your character and make a man of you. You have in you the elements of a fine manhood, Mr. Bruce. This interview has shown me conclusively, but these elements are being dissipated and wasted. Now that it is necessary for you to make a way for yourself in life they will be gathered up, united, developed, and the mere ownership of a fine estate is not to be compared to the advantage you will gain from the possession of this true manhood. So far as you alone are concerned I am not disposed to regard your victimisation as an unmitigated evil, but the consequence of your sister is very deplorable, and it is chiefly on her account that you must go to Scotland and consult with Mr. Bishop. He is a long-headed lawyer, and may be able to devise a remedy for the evil."

"'Tis my only course," said Orwell, rising to his feet. But how can I thank you, Captain Jones, for your great kindness to me to-night? I shudder to think where at this moment I would have been but for you."

"Never mention it, my lad. The satisfaction I feel at having been of use to you is reward enough for anything I have done. I only wish the other acts of my life had been as productive of self-advantage. But whither go you?"

The question caused Orwell to stand and consider.

"I hardly know," he returned with a forced laugh. "Langton and I have been staying since our arrival in Paris at the Hotel de Europe; but I cannot go there; it would not be safe for us to meet. I will go to some other place. I have a few guineas left."

"The very question I was about to ask. I need not say, Mr. Bruce, that my purse is at much at your service as myself. But why leave this roof? There is an unoccupied bedroom next to mine—or, indeed you could have mine for that matter, as I am seldom able to lie down, but have to pass the night in this chair. What say you?"

'What can I say but gratefully acknowledge and accept your generous offer," replied Orwell. "My state of mind is such that I feel afraid to be left by myself. In this great city I know no one—absolutely no one."

"Then that is settled, and we shall let Madame Dorberque know that she has got another lodger. After that you had better go at once to bed, for a good sleep is the best thing to soothe your shattered nerves."

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

That besides being a radical cure for the above mentioned diseases it is one of the best Tonics in use.

That if you have not already done so, it is your duty to purchase a bottle at once.

That you can buy it from any leading druggist in Western Ontario.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance:

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the 'fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

R. McGregor & Co.

Harriston Correspondence.

The Rev. W. E. Graham, who has had the pastoral charge of St. George's Church here, for about two years, has resigned to become pastor at Thorold, the station formerly filled by Bishop Fuller. While Mr. Graham's friends here, who are legion, regret his departure, and are in doubt and fears as to whether his place will be as satisfactorily filled, yet they are pleased to know that he is removing to fill a station second to none in Ontario, so that it will result to his benefit, both pecuniarily and otherwise. As a tangible evidence of the esteem in which he is held, he and Mrs. Graham were made the recipient of a farewell social at the residence of Mr. D. P. Clapp, on Friday evening, and poesented him with a purse of $60, accompanied by a very touching address, read by Robt. Harvey, on behalf of the Minto Mission, to which Mr. Graham very feelingly replied. The large number assembled fully exemplified the hold he had on the affections of his people at the three stations over which he presided, viz Harriston, Clifford and Drew, which were all well represented. A very pleasant time was spent.

Resolved that the reading of fiction is injurious to society, will be subject of debate in the basement of Knox Church, under the auspices of the Young People's Mutual Improvement and Literary Association, on Monday evening, the 9th of February. Admission free.

"Resolved that the sword has done more to advance and civilize than the pen," was the subject of debate in Guthrie Church on Tuesday evening of last week, which resulted in a victory for the pen. Their next meeting will be in the same place on Tuesday evening, the 10th of February. The programme will consist of dialogues, readings, recitations, vocal and instrumental music. These entertainments are becoming very interesting, and are conducive of much good.

Mr. Martin Patmore, who has carried on the business of carriage, waggon making and general blacksmithing here, has leased his premises and sold his business to Messrs. Mason & Parsons, who will carry it on in all its branches with as much vigor as has been done heretofore.

SOCIAL.—A very successful social in aid of Knox Church came off at Sinclair's School, Minto, on Wednesday of last week. The spread was excellent and the staff of waiters were efficient and the turn out was good. The refreshment part being concluded the Rev. Mr. Campbell took the chair. Good music was furnished by the Sabbath School children. Charles Ferguson delighted the audience with a number of his recitations, John Henderson gave two readings in his usual happy style. The Rev. Mr. Campbell gave two readings which were well received. Mr. Gregg, in behalf of the Knox Church congregation of this neighborhood presented the Rev. Mr Campbell with a four story fruit cake which that gentleman accepted with a feeling reply. Mr. Greey also gave two readings in fine style. The proceeds amounted to $58.

The great phenomenal boy pianists Masters' Frank and George Fox, under the musical direction of Mr. J. W. Baumann, gave one of their popular entertainments in the town hall here, on Wednesday last, in the presence of a large and appreciative audience. The performance of these two youths on the piano is most marvellous, while the violin accompaniments of George beggars description. The trio by Master George Fox and Mr. Baumann on the violin, and Master Frank Fox on the piano was alone worth the price of admission. The performance of Mr. Baumann on the violin was excellent. The musical ability of these boys is certainly unsurpassed. Mrs. Secord gave three recitations which were well rendered.

Though Harriston has for a second time elected her mayor, reeve and ten councillors, who have regularly taken their declaration of office, and appointed their officers, and in all respects entered on their second municipal year as a town, yet the people have not given up the fashion of referring to it as a village. Of course the writer does not wish to despise her history as a village, which was an important epoch of her successful citizens, assisted by a sturdy set of yeomen, from whom she has drawn her patronage, been raised to the dignity of a town, with all its prestige and advantages, we assume it should be designated by that appellation.

Inspired by previous success the enterprising firm of Lambert & Stong, of the Harriston Agricultural Works, are making a splendid lot of implements, on the most modern and improved styles, so that parties wanting anything in this line can be as well served there as elsewhere.

THE DEPUTY REEVESHIP.—I notice in the MERCURY of the 29th inst, a writer, over a fictitious signature, charges me with placing the contest between Messrs. Scott and Darroch for the Deputy Reeveship of Minto, in an unfair light. In reply to which I would say that he draws a wrong inference, as I am not biased in any desire to do Mr. Darroch an injustice, as I have never found that gentleman upright and straightforward; and in saying that the former verdict of the electors it was solely with reference to the re-election of Mr. Scott. As to whether Mr. Darroch canvassed or not or as to what effect a canvass would have had on the result, I don't pretend to know. That he is a strong man is fully proven by the run he made.

THE CATTLE FAIR on Friday was well attended by both buyers and sellers, but the demand was altogether for prime cattle, which were not very plentiful, in consequence of which many cattle were returned home unsold.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL.—The formal opening of the new High School took place on Friday, the 30th ult., and was well attended. The Mayor and other members of the town council were present, and also visiting teachers from various sections. The chair was occupied by Mr. Wm. Kerr, of the High School Board. Dr. McLellan, High School Inspector, delivered a very appropriate address, in which he expressed himself highly pleased with such a movement as the erection of a High School, and heartily endorsed the action of the Board. In speaking of the teachers, he stated that he knew Mr. O'Connor, the Principal, to be a first-class teacher, and he had no doubt, that under his management, the Harriston High School would take a first place among similar institutions in the country. As to Mr. Smith, the assistant, his ability as a teacher was also testified to, and would no doubt in his capacity as assistant teacher discharge his duty in a manner that would redound to the fame of the school. The Revs. Messrs. Baikie, Campbell, Gundy and Mr. D. P. Clapp, School Inspector, and Mr. C. F. Ming, late Principal of the Central School, also delivered good addresses relative to the cause of education. In all the opening of the Harriston High School was a somewhat auspicious event. It is a source of satisfaction to all concerned that the work has thus far gone on so well, and that its efficiency meets with the entire approval of so high authority as Dr. McLellan and others. Also that they have been so successful in procuring first-class teachers like Messrs O'Connor and Smith.

LECTURE.—Dr. McLellan delivered a lecture in the town hall in the evening. Subject:—"Canadian Elements of National Power." Alex. McKelejohn, mayor, occupied the chair. This lecture is conceded by all to be the best intellectual treat ever bestowed on a Harriston audience. In speaking of the national elements, the lecturer pointed out that we had a population which embraced the people of the three great countries of Great Britain. Also the native Canadian, who were descendents of the mother land, and as such had the elements of success, embedded within them, to make Canada a great country. He also spoke strongly in favour of British connection, establishing his arguments of important events in British History, showing that England, guided by the right, had ever triumphed. He showed, too, that the elements of England's greatness was her christianity and her education, and said that in Canada we had a system of education in advance of the United States. Our laws and morals were in advance of theirs, giving as a reason that according to our form of government, the rulers were more responsible to the people. The lecturer advocated physical education as well as mental, holding that the existence of the mental, was largely dependent upon the physical. He concluded with a peroration, which held his audience spell-bound and retired amid enthusiastic cheers. On motion of the Rev. Mr. Campbell, seconded by Samuel Robertson, and ably supported in a neat speech by the Rev. J. R Gundey, a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer. Should Dr. McLellan again visit this place, and favour us with another oratorical treat, he will, doubtless be greeted with an overflowing house, or at least he should be, as the principles, so ably advocated by him, is such as should permiete the people of this country, on whom its future destiny depends.

Hespeler Correspondence.

BUSINESS.—Owing to the absence of sleighing business has had rather a dull aspect here for some weeks past, still we feel gratified at being able to state that notwithstanding all the pressures, our business men are keeping well afloat and pay all demands with 100 cents to the dollar, which it is to be regretted cannot be said of many business men elsewhere Our woolen factory too is in full blast, and likely to continue so.

THE SAW MILL.—The prospects regarding saw mill operations here are not very brilliant at present, owing to the want of snow. Mr. L. Kribs, the proprietor of the mill, with his usual good provision has secured a supply of pine for another season's sawing, but if sleighing should not come there will be a difficulty about getting the supply to hand.

OYSTER SUPPER.—As Mr. M. Rudd, an old and respected resident of this village, is about to leave and take up his residence in the town of Galt, about twenty-five of the employees of the factory of Schofield, Forbes & Co (in which establishment Mr. Rudd was also an employee) turned out on Friday evening last and treated him to an oyster supper in the Queen's Hotel. The supper was prepared in No. 1 style, much credit being done to mine host and hostess for the spread. The socialities usual on such occasions were indulged in, and a very orderly and happy time was spent until about half-past ten, p. m., when the party retired. The festivities of this occasion, however, were almost outrivalled on the same evening by a number of the ladies who took occasion to assemble at Mr. R's residence and surprise Mrs. Rudd, when a general good time was indulged in

It is expected that Onderdunk & Co., who have bought up the British Columbia contracts of the Canada Pacific will begin operations about the middle of April. They paid some $150,000 in all for the privilege of working the contracts. The cost of the work, though, to the country has not been increased.

GUELPH MARKETS

GUELPH, Feb'y. 4, 1880.

This week we have only to state that owing to the changeable weather we have been having of late, deliveries of grain and produce on this market have been on the slim side, which cannot be wondered at, when outside market quotations are taken into account. Guelph however, as usual, stands ahead of all others, so far as prices are concerned, allowing freight charges, etc., and how they persist in paying more than they themselves acknowledge they are justified in doing, is a mystery.

In general, prices of all kinds of grain and produce, have declined since our last weekly issue, but here are the latest prices paid on our market, which will very favourably compare with all outside and larger places, regardless of cost of freight.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

SUICIDE.

A Farmer Hangs Himself.

ELMIRA, Feb. 6.—A man named Charles Weir, living on the 5th concession, Township of Peel, lot number 19, near Floradale, hung himself this morning. His occupation was a weaver. Shortly after breakfast one of his sons found him suspended from a beam by a cord made from warp. His body was still warm, but life extinct. An inquest is being held.

Woollen Mills Destroyed.

A Coal Oil Lamp the Cause of the Fire.

WARKSWORTH, ONT., Feb. 6.—Charles Smith's woollen mills, near this place, were destroyed by fire about eleven p. m. last night. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. The loss is estimated about $12,000; insured for $5,000. The building contained large quantities of goods, all of which were lost.

LATEST FROM LUCAN.

THE FUNERAL,

LUCAN, Feb. 6th.—The funeral procession left the Coroner's residence at eleven o'clock.

The body of John Donnelly was conveyed in the village hearse, followed by the remains of the four other victims, in a double sleigh. The chief mourners were William Donnelly and his wife, Mrs. Curry, the daughter and her husband, Patrick and Robert, the other two sons who are both unmarried, those and the relatives of Mrs. Wm. Donnelly constituted the mourners. The procession reached over half a mile, and contained sixty-five or seventy teams carrying five hundred people. The melancholy cortege arrived at St. Patrick's Church and the coffins were deposited in the aisle of the church at twelve o'clock precisely. Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Connolly, which occupied his time three quarters of an hour. The reverend gentleman then undertook to address the congregation, with which the church was crowded to suffocation. At the first attempt his Reverence completely broke down, being overcome by the intensity of his feelings. He rallied, however, after a short time, and delivered an address of nearly an hour's duration, of which the following in the main purport of his remarks he turned and faced the congregation with tears streaming from his eyes, and in a tremulous voice said:—Christian friends, we are in the presence of one of the most solemn scenes ever witnessed. I have assisted at many solemn burials, but never saw one like this. Here his voice was choked with emotion and after struggling for a moment he said in an agonized tone, "my heart is broken," then with his handkerchief over his eyes and staggering back against the altar he threw himself upon it and wept like a child. This caused the deepest sensation in the congregation, and sobs and wailing were heard in every direction throughout the church. In a very few minutes his reverence recovered, but in a voice husky with the deepest emotion he said, "I never expected that such a scene as that now before us would have taken place in our midst to be held before the whole world. I came to Biddulph; I left a quiet and christian place, a place where the laws of God and man were ever observed. I came to a desert where neither the laws of God nor the laws of man were observed, and hence these consequences and terrible scenes; the laws of the land are founded on the eternal laws of God, which have not been observed in this township, nor in this district; those who have been interested in having the laws of the land respected, have prostituted the sacred obligations reposed in them by their country, and from the prostitution of that terrible responsibility they will have to answer for the blood of those victims; they will be obliged to meet them on the eternal judgment day, as souls guilty of being stained with innocent blood, (here the clergyman paused, still very much overcome.) There had been, he resumed, in this district many fires and destruction of life and property, of which I have heard, and was almost unable to believe it. When I came, I hoped to be able to guide them by the hand of God, for I do not believe there is an Irish Catholic in Biddulph who would bring disgrace upon his religion, in any way compromise his priest. There are others in the back scenes who have worked up this case, and some who are now before their God.

The speaker went on at considerable length to deal with the case, and the disgrace the recent crimes had brought on the township.

A NEW DODGE.—The young ladies of Oakville are getting up a leap year party for the benefit of the poor of the town. That is right. We hope they will be successful in securing themselves husbands.

Local News.

THE social in the Baptist Church, held last night, was quite a success.

HAMILTON CORBETT is making arrangements to secure the city hall for Friday, the 14th inst.

THERE is talk of a joint stock company being formed for the purpose of opening a cemetery in the village of Acton.

PROBS.—Westerly to fresh winds, fair to cloudy weather, with snow flurries tonight.

WATER WORKS.—A service pipe is being laid into Ellis's Hotel, for stable purposes and in case of fire.

J. & I. GROOM are about to start a sewing machine and general repair shop on Quebec street, opposite the church.

OWEN SOUND has petitioned the Legislature against the proposed act to do away with market fees.

THE time for receiving tenders for hauling stone for the use of the city closes tomorrow. See advertisment.

PROF. Harrington, who is teaching a singing class in Acton, is going to give a concert there in a week or two.

THE Montreal dog and poultry show, just closed, has proved a success, having been attended by crowds from the city and country.

MR. JOHN BUNYAN, of the Bunyan House, entertained a large number of his friends to an oyster supper last night. A pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent.

THE DIVISION COURT is being held to-day at the Court House, before His Honor Judge Chadwick. The next Court will be held on the 5th March.

SUPPER.—Messrs. Fairbank, Brill and Reid will give a supper and musical entertainment, under the leadership of Prof. Philp, in St. George's Hall, on Thursday evening next.

PERSONAL.—Mr. S. Galbraith, late editor of the Wingham Times, and formerly of this office, has secured the position of Parliamentary reporter for the Globe. We wish him every success.

ROCKWOOD.—The Orangemen of Rockwood intend giving a ball and supper tonight. The O. Y. B. band of Guelph, accompanied by a number of the different orders, will be present and add to the entertainment.

POLICE COURT.—Two boys named Sullivan, aged 13 and 11 years, were charged with breaking into Dr. Clark's residence, and stealing two jars, and about a pound of Paris Green. They were convicted and sent to jail for one month with hard labor.

ANOTHER CARNIVAL.—The Directors of the Skating Rink request us to state that another carnival will be held in about two weeks. There will be no costumer present and skaters will have to provide home-made costumes. This, if taken in hand at once, will be a very interesting affair, as numbers of dresses can be procured by home talent.

HORSES STOLEN.—Early on Thursday morning a span of horses and a set of harness and sleigh were stolen from Mr. Benjamin Snyder, near Bloomingdale, Co. Waterloo. The thieves left the sleigh at John Snyder's, and taking one they found there, they then went to the store of Mr. Solomon Erb, in the village, and loaded the sleigh with about $1,000 worth of dry goods, tobacco, &c.

L. O. LODGE.—At the annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge, held at the Orange Hall, Guelph, on Tuesday, the 3rd, the following officers were duly elected to serve for this year:—Geo. M. Todd, County Master; J. H. Collier, Deputy Master; Jas. Williams, Chap.; D. Scroggie, Sec.; Elijah Ryckman, Treas.; Thos. Edgar, Director of Ceremonies. There was a large attendance of officers and members. It was unanimously decided to celebrate next anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne at Hamilton.

THE DISTRESS IN IRELAND.—At the meeting held in the "Albion" last night it was decided to hold another public meeting, on Monday the 9th inst. at half-past seven. The following are the Committee appointed to obtain the neccessary number of signatures:—J. M. Bond, T. J. Day Col. Higinbotham, Thos. A. Heffernan. A meeting will be held at the Albion hotel to night at half-pasts seven, to make final arrangements.

THE KENNEDY PARLOR CONCERT CO.—This company appeared in the city hall last evening and gave an entertainment of an excellent character, consisting of Scottish songs and other musical selections of a high order. Mr. Findlay McGregor is a host in himself, and is equally at home in comic and sentimental songs. He was specially admired in the rendition of his character songs. Allister McAllister, "Hame came o'or guideman at e'een," and the Dutch song of "How Yacob found it ouitt," are worthy of special notice. Miss Findlay is a fine singer and rendered in true Scottish style "Doon the burn Davie," and other Scottish songs. Her singing was greatly admired. Miss Estille, trebble, and Miss Meredith alto, gave their selections as only first-class artists are capable of doing. The attendance was small, and we can only say that Guelph people have missed a treat of a rare character.

GRAND oyster benefit on Saturday. A big supply received for the occasion. Baltimore measured oysters 25c a quart, 15c a pint. New York counts 40c a quart. Canned oysters, haddies, and all other goods cheap at Murray's. d2t

THE RINK LAST NIGHT.

The First Carnival of the Season.

The skating rink last night presented a very animated appearance, the ice being filled with nearly 200 skaters in all kinds of fanciful, ridiculous, and costly costumes. The scene, in some instances, as the various skaters grouped together in turning at the end of the rink, was quite fascinating. A large number of costumes had been provided by a costumer from the city, and the best seem to have been selected. Many of the lady skaters displayed great taste in the selection of their dress, amongst which was noticed that of the Queen of the Fairy Land, the Turkish lady and the Eastern Princess. Night and Starlight also presented two pretty scenes as they gracefully glided around the circle. The Gipsy and May queens also made a fine picture. The Two Orphans took their character well, a sorrowful, forsaken appearance seeming to follow them were they went; but at nine o'clock when the masks were taken off, two pretty laughing faces were revealed. To attempt to particularize the dresses and costumes of all the lady skaters would be superfluous. There were many others that were commented upon very freely by the large number of spectators present. The fancy costumes of the gentlemen in many cases appeared on them to good advantage, but the comic seemed to cause the most amusement. In fact it was almost impossible for a stranger to tell whether the skater belonged to the male or female persuasion, so many appearing in female attire. Some of them acted the woman very well, notably, the old Irish washerwoman; others seemed to display carelessness about their carriage that looked as if they wanted the audience to know who they were. The dress and black face of the negro seemed to be very popular, and a large number, from the street gamin up to the man of business, adopted that style. Some of these characters were very amusing. The Indian and his squaw and papoose skated very well together; but there did not seem to be much attention paid to them. The dress of the Chinaman looked very well, but it seemed as though its occupant threw too much terror into it, looking at times as though he would like to eat a number of small boys that hung around to see whether he was a real Christian or a Mongolian. As the evening wore on, and the masks were taken off, and one and another began to peep under the masks or guess who the wearer was, the skaters began to mix up in good earnest, and it was a little comical to see the various selections of partners that were made, the old Irish washerwoman skating happily and peacefully around, encircled with the arms of the "dirty nagur"; the Chinaman with the belle of the rink, and many other characters that caused comment. The dresses of some of the little girls and young boys were very pretty, and special care seems to have been taken by their parents to fix them up for the evening. In this class there were too many to particularize. The presence of McLaren's band seated on a raised dias in the middle of the rink, and discoursing sweet music, added much to the interest of the carnival. If the directors will stop that horn blowing at the next carnival, before there gets to be too many boys at that kind of music, they will be doing a good turn for their lady patrons. It is no pleasant thing to be surprised by the ugly sound of a tin horn right at your ears when quietly skating around enjoying the company of a pleasant companion. The directors are to be congratulated on the success of their first carnival, which was in a large measure attributable to the keenness of the ice caused by the late "cold dip." The young folks will gladly receive more such entertainments before the season closes. The company began to thin out a little after nine o'clock, and at eleven the first carnival of 1880 was over. It was thought there were between 400 or 500 persons present, including skaters and spectators. The following are the names of the skaters and costumes as far as could be procured:

CURLIANA.

Items of Interest on the Ice.

MOUNT FOREST played Harriston curlers with two rinks on Wednesday. Harriston won by one shot.

THE Manitoba curlers who played with the Guelph team yesterday are a fine, hearty lot of fellows, and won golden opinions from the curlers of this city. The Guelph team came out eight shots ahead. The play of the Manitoba "chiels" was excellent. Mr. G. McVicar, one of their players left for the States lately, and consequently was not present, but his place was well filled by Mr. Mark Patterson, of Hamilton. They left for Galt last night. The following is the score:—

GUELPH	MANITOBA
G. Paterson	J. Kent
J. Emslie	M. Patterson
A. Robertson	M. Fortune
A. Congalton, skip—33	A. Brown, skip—25

THE GOW CUP.—Mr. Thos. Dobbie, directed by J. McKenzie, and Wm. Rutherford, directed by D. McCrae, played yesterday afternoon with the following result:—T. Dobbie, 16; W. Rutherford, 11. The game was a good one.

This (Friday) morning a game was played for the same cup between John Mitchell, directed by A. Bruce, and Thos. McCrae, directed by D. McCrae. Score: Mitchell, 26; McCrae, 13.

A match was played between the Galt and Ayr Clubs, three rinks a side, on Tuesday last, with the following result: Galt, 68; Ayr, 45.

PUSLINCH L. AND D. SOCIETY.—This Society which was formed a week or two ago, in No. 12 School Section, Puslinch, held their first meeting on Thursday evening. The subject of debate was "whether sheep or cattle are most profitable." The affirmative "that cattle were most profitable," was led by Mr. Glennie, followed by Messrs. Brown, Ruddle, Flynn and others. The negative was led by Mr. Kernigham, and sustained by Messrs. Kilgour, McLean and others. The debate was decided in favor of the affirmative.

Remarkable Weather in Owen Sound.

The Steamboats on the Move.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 6—The steamer, Prince Alfred, Capt. Port, arrived here yesterday from Wiarton, with a good load of freight and twenty passengers. She left again this morning for Wiarton. She has been constantly making trips all winter, though a little irregular. The weather at present is beautiful and mild, with about eight inches of snow. The thermometer outside indicates thirty-four degrees.

One of the most striking signs of the times is the announcement that M. Renan is to deliver a course of lectures at Oxford next April.

The Poultry Show.

The Show was largely patronized yesterday. In the afternoon the school children were admitted at five cents each, and enjoyed themselves amazingly. While the meeting of the Association was being held in the Royal Hotel, Mr. Dryden, of Galt, was called out and informed that his first prize Black Spanish hen was sick. On examining the bird carefully it was found that some one had rubbed spirits of turpentine on the head and comb. By proper care the bird got all right by evening. This is a very serious matter, and it was done for one or two reasons, either to injure the bird or by rubbing with turpentine to see it the comb and wattles—which were a beautiful red color—were painted. Strong suspicions are entertained against a certain party who has an unenviable reputation for "crookedness." If it can be brought home to any one he will be made an example of. When the Dark Brahmas were judged Mr. Charlesworth was awarded 1st prize for Cockerels. The judge was requested to examine him, when the bird was disqualified on account of vulture hocks.

There was a large attendance in the evening. Mr. Spragge, officiating as auctioner, offered some birds for sale, but hard times, scarcity of money, or some other cause, prevented many sales being made.

Among them were Messrs Meiklejohn and S. Robertson, of Harriston, H. McEwen, of Palmerston, and J. W. Scott, Listowel.

Daily Mercury.

FRIDAY EV'G, FEB 6, 1880.

The Imperial Parliament.

Her Majesty opened the Imperial Parliament on Thursday. As regards foreign affairs the speech says:—The course of events since the prorogation of Parliament has tended to furnish additional security to the maintenance of European peace on the principles laid down by the Treaty of Berlin. Much, however, still remains to be done to repair the disorder with which the late war has affected many parts of the Turkish Empire.

At the close of last session I expressed the hope that the Treaty of Gundamuck had happily terminated the war in Afghanistan. In conformity with its provisions my Envoy, with his retinue, was honorably received and entertained by the Ameer at Cabul. While engaged, however, in the exercise of their duty he and those connected with the Embassy were treacherously attacked by overwhelming numbers, and, after a heroic defence, almost all massacred. An outrage so intolerable called for condign chastisement, and my troops, which pursuant to the stipulations of the treaty, either had withdrawn or were withdrawing from the territories governed by the Ameer, were ordered to retrace their steps. The abdication of the Ameer and the unsettled condition of the country render the recall of my troops impossible for the present, but the principle on which my Government has hitherto acted remains unchanged, and while determined to make the frontiers of my Indian Empire strong, I desire to be in friendly relations alike with those who may rule in Afghanistan and with the people of that country.

My anticipations as to the early establishment of peace in South Africa have been fulfilled. The captured position of the Zulu King and the breaking up of the military organization on which his dynasty was based, has relieved my possessions in that part of the world from danger, which seriously impeded their advancement and consolidation. In Basutaland a native outbreak of considerable importance has been effectually quelled by my colonial forces, while the Transvaal has been freed from the depredations of a chief, who, having successfully resisted a former Government of the country, had persistently rejected our attempts at conciliation. I have reason to hope the time is now approaching when an important advance may be made towards the establishment of a union, or confederation, under which the powers of self-government already enjoyed by the inhabitants of Cape Colony may be extended to my subjects in other parts of South Africa.

THE ONTARIO POULTRY SHOW.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the above Association was held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday afternoon. There was a very large attendance, and the meeting was a very harmonious one. At half-past two o'clock the President, Mr. Thomas Gowdy, took the chair, and drew the attention of those present that only members who had paid their subscriptions had a right to vote. This hint was acted on at once by those who had neglected this most important duty, and Mr. McKenzie, secretary pro tem., called the roll. The President said that no doubt it was expected by many of the members present that he should have prepared an address for this occasion, and he himself thought that he ought to have done so, but his time had been so occupied with the new business he had lately entered into, that he found it impossible to find leisure to do so, and thought that perhaps it was just as well, for when he looked around and saw such a large gathering of gentlemen so thoroughly posted in fowls, he felt sure he could have said nothing but what they knew already. He did not pretend to be a judge of all classes of fowls, but he did think he knew something about his favorites—Plymouth Rocks. The Secretary read the report, which will be given tomorrow.

On motion of Mr. James Anderson, seconded Mr. W. Stevenson, the report was adopted.

Mr. Bogue, of London, moved, and Mr. W. H. Doel, of Toronto, seconded, that the show be held in Brantford next year. Mr. Doel in supporting the motion said that a strong pressure had been brought to bear on him to urge the claims of Toronto, but he had answered that he had pledged himself to support Brantford; Toronto would wish to get the show the year after, and he wished to correct an erroneous impression, that if Toronto got the show once, they would strive to have it located there permanently; such was not the case.

The motion was carried unanimously.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of officers, with the following result:—

President, Mr. Kester, of Brantford; 1st Vice-President, W. H. Doel, Toronto; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. Bogue, of London.

Directors—George Murton, Guelph; J. McLelland, Peterboro; James Lockie, Waterloo; F. Grenny, W. H. Buck, J. W. Burr, Brantford; D. Allen, Galt; G. H. Pugsley, Fisherville; Sharp Butterfield, Sandwich.

Auditors—E. Morris, Guelph; James Fullerton, Poultry Review, Strathroy.

The retiring President, Mr. T. Gowdy, was unanimously elected an Honorary member. Mr. Gowdy briefly thanked the members.

The President elect and Mr. Gowdy were appointed delegates to the Toronto Industrial Exhibition.

Mr. McLelland, of Peterboro, drew the attention of the meeting to the very high charges of the Express Companies for the carriage of birds to and from the shows; he considered the charges were excessive, and thought an effort should be made to have a reduction. He also alluded to the miserable judging at the Provincial Exhibition at Ottawa and other shows, when men were chosen judges who confessed their entire ignorance of their duties, and cited an instance where a judge confessed he "did not know a Houdan from a Hamburg."

Mr. Buck, of Brantford, spoke highly on the subject, and substantiated the remarks of Mr. McLellan.

Mr. Doel also spoke to the same effect, and in the course of his remarks said he had found the American Express Co. more liberal than the Canadian, except on one occasion. He said the local agents were powerless to act and advocated an appeal to head quarters. He drew a deplorable picture of the ignorance of some judges, but contended that they (the judges) were not always to blame, as he himself had been forced to act as a judge on pigs, and he knew nothing about pork until it was cooked and on the table.

The President elect having taken the chair, Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Lockie, a vote of thanks to the retiring President. Mr. Lockie spoke in the highest terms of the valuable assistance rendered the Association by Mr. Gowdy, and referred at some length to the rapidly growing importance of the breeding of first-class poultry.

Mr. Gowdy thanked the members present for this further mark of their esteem. He had done what he could in the past and would always be found ready to do his best for the interests of the Association in future.

Mr. Doel advised that the prize list be sent by the Secretary to all the American poultry journals, and suggested that copies of the MERCURY be used for that purpose.

Mr. James Fullerton, Editor Poultry Review, stated he had always sent prize lists to them. The meeting then adjourned.

A meeting of the Directors was held immediately afterwards, when Mr. Sanderson, of Brantford, was elected Secretary, and Mr. Grenny, of the same place, Treasurer.

THE BUTCHERY IN LUCAN.

More Particulars About the Murders

The Crimes of the Murdered Family Exaggerated.

Arrest of Several Suspected Parties.

The excitement over the butchery of the Donnelly family has not yet in the least subsided. The village of Lucan was crowded all day Thursday with people from the surrounding country to learn the particulars of the terrible tragedy that has cast such a pall over the country. Such a scene as Lucan presented on that day and Thursday has, perhaps, never before been witnessed in any place in Canada. The Central Hotel was the headquarters of enquiry and conversation about the crime. Nothing else was talked of. The desire manifested by the crowd to hear the latest developments in the case was intense. The tales of new-comers were listened to with the greatest attention, and many were the theories advanced as to what prompted the butchering, and as to the manner in which it was committed.

It seems that there is considerable exaggeration about the crimes imputed to the murdered family. At first there was any amount of vague and indefinite talk as to the horrible depredations alleged to have been committed by the Donnellys, which talk placed them in a much worse position before the eyes of the public than they really deserved. The true history of the family reveals the fact that although there were some vicious traits in their character still they could not be considered as thoroughly bad. They were the victims of unfortunate circumstances that tended to intensify the wicked element in them. While this can be said in their favor however, much more can be said to their detriment. The quarrels of the sons while running the stage from London to Exeter, seems to have put their friends and acquaintances at loggerheads, and disputes, fights and crimes were the consequence. Each party had their friends in the village, and by and bye nearly all the residents became involved on one side or the other. This was the commencement of the troubles that have made Lucan notorious throughout the Province. From 1875 till a year ago the reign of lawlessness existed, and the Donnellys were charged with many of the outrages committed during that period, incendiary fires, and mutilation of horses constituting the chief offences. The details of the numerous other crimes charged against the family would fill columns. Enough is given to show the frightful state of things that has existed in Biddulph during the past six years. Lawlessness and terrorism went hand in-hand. Undoubtedly the Donnellys were to a great extent responsible for this, but then all of it cannot be laid to their charge. However the feeling that arose against them was deep and bitter, and intensified week by week until it culminated in the cold blooded and brutal murder of the family. Father Connolly denounced them from his pulpit, and advised his parishioners to form a committee to protect themselves from the onslaughts of the Donnellys. They organized the committee about three months ago, with a membership of upwards of a hundred.

The particulars of the murder of the brother John have been correctly ascertained. With the blood of the four the gang was not satisfied. They proceeded to William's house, supposedly for the purpose of killing William, but John answered the knock at the door instead of William, and he was immediately riddled with lead, some thirty slugs having entered his body. Wm. Donnelly was in Lucan all day Thursday, and was an object of much interest. He talks freely of the tragedy, and professes to be able to name the chief actors in it. Public feeling, if anything, has changed a little. Sympathy has been awakened for the murdered people, but still it cannot be said to be deep.

Up to Thursday night nine men were arrested. The first was Jas. Carroll. He is an agent for agricultural implements, and has been county constable for about six months. The others are John Darcy, a well to do farmer, Jas. Maher, sr. and Jas. Maher, jr., relatives of Carroll, John Kennedy, brother in-law of Wm. Donnelly, Martin McLaughlin, Patrick Ryder, senior and junior, and John Ryder, jr. The old man's barns were burned down one night last month. Old Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly were accused of firing them.

STUBBORN FACTS.

That in severe and chronic cases, which have defied all other remedies, Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry gives immediate relief, effects a speedy cure.

That no case has been reported in which it failed to give relief.

That every family who keeps it on hand can laugh at Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds, Bronchitis, and all kindred diseases.

That in every district where Wilson's Wild Cherry has been introduced it has jumped into favor in an incredibly short time.

PAUL JONES

THE ROVER OF THE SEAS;

—OR—

TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

ORWELL FINDS IN HIS DESPAIR FALLS INTO THE HANDS OF A FRIEND, AND LEARNS HEAVY TIDINGS FROM AN INTERCEPTED LETTER—REAPPEARANCE OF PAUL JONES.

So it was if Orwell could have obtained it. But all the night he lay tossing restlessly on his couch, a prey to keen anxiety and gnawing remorse; relieved only, if relief it could be called, by gusts of rage as he thought of the artful treachery of Anthony and Reuben Langton, by which his ruin had been effected. Under the power of those strong conflicting emotions he became really ill, and in the morning was in a burning fever, which kept him in bed for four days. But for the careful nursing of Madame Dorberque, and the skilful treatment of the physician who was in attendance on Paul Jones, he must have experienced a long and serious illness. By these attentions, and owing to the strength and vigor of his constitution, the crisis was averted, and on the fifth day he was able to join Paul in the sitting-room, where he was grieved to see that the latter was looking even worse than on the first day of their acquaintance. His face was more wan, his legs had begun to swell, and he could breathe with ease only when sitting upright. The doctor had privately told Orwell that the disease under which Paul labored was jaundice, which threatened to end in dropsy, and if that could not be arrested death would speedily be produced by the drowning of the heart. The youth was greatly shocked by this communication, and much saddened at finding its truth confirmed by the changed appearance which a few days had produced. Short as their acquaintance had been, Orwell felt his heart strangely drawn towards Paul, not only for the kindness he had received from him, but through admiration of his character, his high sentiments, his sense of honor and integrity, his clear mental perception, his sound sense and devout faith. The further their intercourse extended the more he saw in the ocean hero to respect and admire.

Though Paul was evidently worse in health he was wonderfully cheerful and animated, and during most part of the day entertained Orwell with the recital of his naval exploits, especially those performed in the Solway. How his eye kindled as he recalled those scenes, when in the full flush of hope and ardour he cruised in the Ranger and the Richard, making his power feared in Britain and his name known throughout Europe. Alas, the ambitious visions he had then cherished had not been realised, his popularity, so great for a time, did not last, his great services had been ill requited, and now solitary and alone in an obscure Paris lodging-house he was making acquaintance with death. It was a sad, a mournful commentary on human aspirations when earth-born and earth-confined, but if their disappointment taught him that "They soar too low who soar beneath the skies;" the effect must, after all, have been salutary, and the work he had done would bear fruit in spite of calumny and misrepresentation.

In a few days more, Orwell was well enough to travel, and entertained some thoughts of an immediate run to Scotland. As his luggage was still at the hotel where he and Reuben had been staying, he proceeded thither to obtain it and pay what charges he had incurred. He had little doubt that Langton had by this time left Paris triumphing in his villainy, caring nothing about the fate of the man he had so basely betrayed—perchance believing, hoping, that he had put a bullet in his head or sought oblivion in the Seine.

With a bitter smile caused by this thought Orwell entered the hotel and at once became an object of interest to the officials, who had evidently been wondering over his unexplained absence. To one of the bowing waiters in the hall he addressed himself—

"I am going up stairs to pack my luggage. Bring my bill to me in half an hour."

"Yes, Monsieur," replied the man, and stood as if he wanted to say more.

"Well, what is it? Have you any message for me?"

"No, Monsieur, but we have been expecting you for some days."

"Ah! I suppose so. I have been detained."

He paused a moment, then asked abruptly—"Has Mrs. Langton left?"

"Yes, Monsieur, he left five days since, said you would not expect to see him. A letter came for him yesterday, but as he left no address we cannot forward it. Perhaps monsieur may know where Mr. Langton has gone, and will kindly have it transmitted?"

"No, I don't know where he has gone, and I cannot—— Stay, let me see the letter," he quickly asked, stopping short in his refusal as the thought struck him that the letter might be from one of Reuben's confederates, and contain important evidence against him.

The waiter brought the letter from a rack in the hall containing many more. It was a Scotch letter, bearing the Cairntree post-mark, and the address was in the handwriting of Anthony Langton. Orwell's heart throbbed violently. Here was a communication from the arch plotter himself. Should he secure it? Orwell's sense of honour revolted against an act so dishonourable as opening a letter not addressed to himself, but in this instance the circumstances seemed to justify it.

"I shall consult Captain Jones in the first place," he said to himself. "If he is against me opening it I will post it to Galway." Then he added aloud to the waiter, who stood waiting his decision—

"Yes, I will take charge of the letter."

"Thank you, monsieur," said the man, quite satisfied, and stood aside till Orwell mounted the stair.

In less than half an hour he had packed his luggage, paid his bill, and quitted the hotel in a street carriage, directing the driver to proceed to Tournou Street. Arrived there he lost no time in telling Paul about the letter, and the thoughts he had respecting it.

"You are a man of honour and a man of great worldly experience, Captain Jones. Shall I open the letter, or post it to Cairnbank? I wish to abide by your decision."

"You need have no scruples in opening it," answered Paul, promptly. "It would be folly to observe nice points of honour either with Reuben or his father. When a man knows that he is being plotted against he is justified in using every means in his power to protect himself, and circumvent his foes. The contents of that letter may supply you with evidence of their villainy which a shrewd lawyer like Bishop may be able to turn to good account."

"Then you say open it."

"I decidedly say so."

Orwell closed the door and sat down with the letter in his hand. He held it there for several moments turning it over and over irresolutely, his cheeks burning, and his brow flushed to a fiery redness, so acutely did his high-souled notions of honour recoil from the act, though he quite believed it to be justifiable.

"Ah! you are too sensitive, Mr. Bruce," remarked Paul. "I do not wonder that a designing scoundrel like Langton was able to take foul advantage of you. If you soil your fingers by breaking the seal a little soap and water will remove the stain."

"It is done," said Orwell, opening the letter with a sudden jerk. Then with nervous eagerness he unfolded the sheet and began to peruse the contents, Paul steadily watching the expression of his face as he did so.

More than a few moments had not passed when he saw the reader's face suddenly blanch, his eyes dilate, his lips compress themselves violently, and his breath stop as if the pulsation of his heart had ceased.

"Oh my God!" he gasped, in a tone of woe and horror.

"Good heavens, Mr. Bruce," cried Paul, terribly alarmed, "what is there in the letter to move you thus? Speak, sir, speak. Merciful heaven! it must be something dreadful to affect you so."

Orwell struggled for some moments with unspeakable agony, then a wild, wailing cry burst from him.

"My sister—oh, my poor darling sister!"

"What of her?" asked Paul, breathless.

"She is dead!" shrieked Orwell in heartrendering accents, and next moment he fell heavily forward on the table as inanimate as a stone."

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numereus orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade, Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the 'fancy prices' generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

off the price of Furs. Ladies should not miss this chance of buying Furs cheaper than than they may get them again for years.

SMOKERS,

I will unhesitatingly guarantee my

Gold Flake Cut Plug

to be the BEST SMOKING TOBACCO in CANADA.

It is made by a new and original process brough which the rank nicotine is extracted and the sweet Aroma and Natural Flavor are retained. It is made from pure sun-cured, Bright Virginia Leaf, without the aid of coloring or injurious compounds. It is cut ready for use and neatly packed in tin foil, in compact 4 ounce packages. It will keep in any climate and will not burn the tongue

As dealers are slow to take hold of a new thing, however much its merit, until there is a demand for it, I have determined to place it directly within the reach of all. For the next ninety days, where it cannot be obtained of local dealers, I will send two sample packages (4 oz. each) post paid, to one address, on receipt of 50 cts. (postage stamps or currency.) All lovers of the pipe are invited to give it a trial.

STRANGE DEATH.—An old lady named Mrs. Janet Cowie, of the County of Renfrew, and aged 84 years, passed here for London on Thursday last for the purpose of visiting her two daughters, who reside in that city. Her relatives had been informed that she would reach them on Friday, but the old lady had changed her plans and started a day earlier. As a consequence no one was present to meet her, but word was sent to her friends. She declined going in a cab, preferring to walk to the house of her daughters. On the way the old lady dropped dead on the sidewalk. It is supposed that death was caused from joy. She had seen neither of her daughters for over twenty years, and she was considerably excited at seeing them again.—St. Mary's Argus.

WATERLOO POOR HOUSE.—At the late meeting of Waterloo County Council a a letter was read from Mr. and Mrs. McMahon, keeper and matron of the House of Industry, tendering their resignations. The Reporter says they have managed this institution in such an admirable manner during the many years they have been conected with it that resignation will be a public loss, and we expect that efforts will be made to get them to reconsider the matter.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of wel selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

DIVISION OF LUTHER.—At the sitting of the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Assembly on Tuesday last there was considered the Bill providing for the division of the township of Luther, in the County of Wellington, into two municipalities, the one to be called East Luther and the other West Luther. It appears from statements made to the committee that the west part of Luther is devoid of rivers and ravines, and is a flat country; while the eastern part of the township is hilly and altogether of such a character as to make the construction of numerous bridges and the grading of the roads necessary. The public works in the eastern portion of the township, therefore, cause great expense, in which the people of the western portion do not wish to share. The people of the west accordingly petition for municipal separation from their eastern friends. The eastern people say they do not object to the separation if they are relieved from the liability to meet the railway debentures, in the benefits arising from which they do not take part. The committee, after considering the matter, agreed to report the bill, the question of the railway debentures being left open until the measure was brought up in the House.—Mount Forest Examiner.

The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay street, N. Y., are rapidly issuing their authorized reprints of the leading British Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine. We have before us the current number of British Quarterly Review. This periodical is the youngest of the series, the first number having been published in February, 1845. It numbers many eminent authors among its contributors. During recent years we have noticed not a few papers by Edward A. Freeman, the historian, and the leading article in the present number, "The Lords of Arâres," is from his pen, and will be very interesting to the student of mediæval history. "Glimpses of New Gold and Silver Mines" gives a brief sketch of the various processes adopted in mining with some account of the present and probable future production of these metals. "Modern Greece," a paper by Dr. Sandwith, comments on the history of Greece since the battle of Navarino, and especially condemns the policy of England with respect to the Greek cause. "Practical Æsthetics" urges the establishment of art galleries and museums and the decoration of public parks and other places of holiday resort, as a means of creating in the popular mind a feeling of artistic beauty. Other articles are "The Christian Idea of God," which deals especially with the doctrine of incarnation; "Early Nonconformist Psalmody," an amusing account of the troubles attending the introduction of singing in public worship; "Why is Scotland Radical?" "Mr. Gladstone and the Nation;" and "Contemporary Literature."

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 25c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

The auditors' report of the West Wellington Agricultural Society showed the amount of money received by the secretary from all sources to be $1,509.47, the amount paid out $1,263.44, leaving a balance in hand of 284.03—less $24 of unpaid prizes for 1879.

Accidental Death Near Lucan.

Four Hours in the Woods with a Broken Leg.

LUCAN, Feb. 7.—A young man named Cutt, living on the 6th concession of Biddulph, who had his leg broken by the fall of a tree, while he was chopping in the woods, died this morning. The unfortunate man lay in the woods some four hours before being discovered, and the effects of the cold caused congestion of the brain, to which he succumbed early this morning.

Death of the Lieut.-Governor of New Brunswick.

FREDERICTON, N. B. Feb. 6.—Lieut.-Governor Chandler was seized with a violent attack of bronchitis on Wednesday, and he died this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. He was unconscious for eight hours.

LATEST FROM LUCAN.

The Biddulph Horror!

THE DETECTIVES STILL ON THE ALERT.

No Information to be Got as to Their Movements.

NO MORE ARRESTS TO BE MADE AT PRESENT.

An Important Statement.

By Telegraph to the MERCURY.

LUCAN, 9:30 a. m., Feb. 7.—The Chief, and a portion of his staff, is here from London, already, this morning, and are quite on the alert. The prospects are that some more arrests will be made during the day. The latter statement is announced from the fact that the Chief, with detectives Murphy and Phair, have just left for the disturbed district, and conveyances to bring in any parties made prisoners. It is almost impossible to get any information from the Chief and his staff, they are so reticent as to their movements, but it is reliable that their mission out to the settlement to-day is for the purpose of collecting evidence chiefly among the relatives and friends of those already under arrest. It is the opinion of the London authorities that it would be better not to make any more arrests of suspected parties until such time as the whiteheat excitement has somewhat subsided. A statement made this morning by a party who professes to know would fully bear out the remarks made by Father Connolly yesterday anent the doings of the committee, to the effect that they had deviated from the simple rules laid down by him for their guidance. This authority says that the committee now numbers over one hundred members, that the old and respectable members alluded to by Father Connolly have mostly fallen off, and do not attend the meetings, that those who still remain organized have bound themselves under an obligation to carry out any measures which were sanctioned by a majority at the meetings, as is usually the case when such illegal doings are being enacted. Some parties are generally found who do not adhere strictly to the requirements of their obligation, and through this means some of their proceedings have become known. It would appear that there were 13 of the members selected from amongst their body, whose duty it was to prepare and bring before the meeting any questions which required to be discussed or voted upon. There was a back or ante room adjoining the school house, and to this room, twelve of those parties would repair to consider and prepare any subject which was destined to come before the members for disposal, and by a preconcerted arrangement between the thirteenth man and the twelve who retired. He harangued the parties as if by accident upon the very subject intended to be brought before them by the conclave in the ante room, and by the time the question came up, their feelings became so excited that they were ready to vote the carrying out of any deed, no matter how much at variance with the Christian rules laid down by his Reverence for their guidance. This statement of their proceedings seems reasonable when the explanations made by Father Connolly yesterday are taken into consideration. Contrary to all expectations from reports in circulation yesterday, the Donnolly brothers have announced their intention of building up the old homestead and going to reside on the premises. This resolution was taken owing to the fact of a large acreage of fall wheat being sown thereon, which would prove a complete loss without a protector. I have all through this trying time commented upon the cool and calm demeanor of the surviving Donnolly brothers, especially the man William. The only time on which he showed any signs of weakness was when his father's heart was exposed to view during the post mortem examination. He exclaimed in agonizing accents, "'Tis more than flesh and blood can endure, my only and sincere wish now is that I was lying there along with him." The spectators led him away from the ghastly scene, administered a stimulating cordial, and in a few minutes he regained his usual composure.

Local News.

ENLARGED.—We are pleased to notice that the St. Mary's Journal is enlarged and greatly improved. This is a first-class paper, and we wish it continued success.

ST. VALENTINE'S FAIR.—A fancy fair will be held in Mrs. Corbet's block, Lower Wyndham St., on the 13th and 14th instants, for the benefit of St. Andrew's Church.

THE Rev. Canon Dixon, Examining Chaplain to the Bishop of Niagara, has been appointed a member of the Council of Trinity College, Toronto, in place of the Very Reverend the Dean of Niagara, who has gone to England to reside.

POLICE COURT.—Robert Sloane, charged with creating a disturbance on Macdonnell street last week, was up before the Police Magistrate to-day. He was fined $1 with $7.10 costs or 10 days in gaol.

MR. W. F. ALLAN and Mr. George Armstrong have been appointed delegates to represent the O. Y. B. of this city at the annual session of the Grand Lodge, which will be held in Port Hope next week. They leave here on Monday.

THOS. BROWN, of Amaranth, who has been in the General Hospital for some time, and is subject to epileptic fits, was removed yesterday to the jail. Brown, after an attack of these fits becomes insane, and is very difficult to manage. The physicians thought it advisable for his own safety, and that of other patients in the hospital, to have him removed to a place of safe keeping.

HALTON REFORM ASSOCIATION.—At the recent annual meeting of the Halton Reform Association the following officers were elected:—George Smith, President; E. Dixon, Secretary-Treasurer; Vice-Presidents—Nassagaweya, John Ramsay and James Menzies; Trafalgar, Thos. C. Wright and W. A. Lawrence; Esquesing, James Hume and J. Warren; Nelson, Donald Campbell and William Hardbottle; Milton, Joseph Brothers; Burlington, Thaddeus Ghent; Acton, D. D. Christie; Georgetown, F. Barclay; Oakville, Wm. McCraney.

PILLS OF PICKLES.—Not a bad news item comes from a citizen who went into a store on Wyndham street the other day, to procure a bottle of pickles. The clerk was a little deaf. "Have you any pickles?" asked the purchaser. "No, don't keep them, you will get them next door," politely said the clerk. Next door happened to be a drug store, and purchaser thought it was a new departure for such places to keep pickles, so he spoke a little louder. "'Twas pickles I asked for." "Oh! pickles!" said the astonished clerk, "I thought you asked for pills." The pickles were procured, and the dull-eared clerk went by the name of "Oh, pickles," for the rest of the week.

GRIP.—Grip's cartoon this week is an excellent take off on Sir Samuel Tilley's speech at Sherbrooke. In the background of the picture appears a high board fence, covered with notices of "Sheriffs' Sale," "Bankrupt Stock," "Meeting of Creditors," "Concert in aid of the Poor," etc., etc. A melancholy workman gazes at a man who is carrying a placard, "Go to the soup kitchen." In the foreground Sir Leonard and an exceedingly ragged Dick Deadeye appear. The Finance Minister says, as at Sherbrooke, "Never before was Canada so prosperous," and Dick, dropping his bundle in surprise, turns to him with an exclamation, "What! Never!!" Sir Leonard, with fingers at chin, hesitates to give the hackneyed answer, the shock of "expression of his eyes" and face being exceedingly comical.

REV. MR. HARRIS is rapidly regaining his usual health.

PROBS.—Fresh to brisk northerly to westerly winds, gradually clearing, colder weather.

SUPPER.—Messrs. Fairbank and Brill give a supper in St. George's Hall on Friday evening. Full particulars in advertisement in a few days.

REV. GEORGE WOOD, of Stratford, will occupy the pulpit of the Primitive Methodist Church tomorrow morning and evening. The collections taken up will be devoted to the jubilee fund.

THE MARKET.—There was a large market to-day. Quotations in wheat are somewhat higher, the prices being from $1.22 to $1.25 for fall, and $1.22 to $1.23 for spring. Hogs ranged from $5.50 to $5.75 per hundred. Other quotations are about the same.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.—Mr. John Deans, of Galt, who is in the city to-day, says he was surprised yesterday, on visiting his hen coop, to find a large mouse comfortably nestled under one of his hens, and appearing to feel quite at home.

FARM SOLD.—Mr. James Taylor sold at the Market House, on Wednesday (Fair day) the Grehardt Wieler farm, being lot 93, Upper Block, Waterloo township, to Wm. Atchieson, of the West End, Guelph township, for $5,550. The competition was keen.

CURLIANA.—St. Mary's club visited London on Tuesday last, and played three rinks a side. The game resulted in favor of St. Mary's by 10 shots.

THE GOW CUP.—Mr. C. Davidson, directed by Mr. Jas. Emslie, vs. Mr. W. H. Mills, directed by Mr. A. Congalton, tried issues for this Cup on Friday afternoon. The game was a close one. The contestants were ties on the 19th end. At the close of the 20th end Davidson came out one ahead. Score:—Davidson, 16; Mills, 15.

ROCKWOOD.—The ball and supper given by the Rockwood O. Y. B. last night was a complete success. The band of the O. Y. B. of this city, accompanied by a number of their friends, were present. The Guelph boys left for home about four o'clock, and when about half a mile from Rockwood, owing to the bad state of the road, and the blinding snow drift in their faces, upset the waggon over an embankment. No one was seriously hurt, but one of the wheels of the waggon was damaged to such an extent that they had to secure a waggon from a farmer on the way to drive them home.

THE CANADIAN MONTHLY.—We have received from Rose-Belford Publishing Company, the number of this monthly Magazine for February, which contains an interesting chapter of contents, among which are the following:—Canadian Nationality, Interumne? A Poem; No Law School, Two Windows, Ethel Marchmont, In Memoriam, Jean Ingelow and her Poetry, The Fallen Leaves, by Wilkie Collins; Morality and Religion, Trust, A Poem; The Cost of Government in Canada, Ballads of Fair Faces, The Irish Land Question, Reputation, An Epigram; Under One Roof, 'Chivalrous Homage' to Woman, Round the Table, Book Reviews, Music and the Drama, the 'Monthly' Scrap Book, etc.

THE TENANT FARMER DELEGATES.—The following is an extract from a letter received by Mr. Buckle, of Guelph, from his brother, who is an extensive farmer in Yorkshire, England:—"You ask if I think any good will come of the 'Tenant Farmer' delegates visiting Canada. I believe it will be the means of sending you some farmers from this country, but I very much doubt if their pockets will be so full of money as you Canadians would like; they have got such a draining here the last few years that I think they could not stand it much longer. I had the pleasure of dining with a very large cattle salesman at Wakefield, who had been in Canada last summer, and he gave it as his opinion that the farmers in this country would never be able to compete with the Americans in the cattle trade. He said that the land was so cheap, and also the grazing stock, that the freightage to England did not amount to the difference in rent between the two countries, and there is very little difference in the price per stone when they get here. He thought young, energetic farmers with a little capital, could make money much faster in the new country, and says that in fifty years time it will be the first country in the world."

The Irish Relief Petition.

We are requested to publish the heading of the petition asking the Mayor to call a second meeting to consider the best means for obtaining relief for the sufferers in Ireland. It is as follows:—

To His Worship the Mayor of the City of Guelph:

SIR,—We, the undersigned ratepayers and citizens of the city of Guelph, hereby request you to call a public meeting to be held at the city hall on Monday evening, February 9th, at 7:30 p.m., to consider the distress at present existing in Ireland, and take such steps to alleviate the same as to the meeting may seem advisable.

Signed by John M. Bond and seventy-eight other prominent citizens.

TEESWATER CREAMERY.—Mr. J. T. Brill, who owns this industry, held a public meeting of the patrons of the creamery on Wednesday, to fix the price of milk for the coming season. There were about two hundred farmers present. The Reeve of the Village took the chair, and Mr Arkell, was appointed secretary. Mr. Brill and several of the farmers present made short speeches relating to the butter question. The price of milk was fixed at 6 cents per gallon. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Brill, the Chairman, and the Secretary. Mr. Brill has been promised the milk of 1,200 cows, and expects to be able to turn out during the season 2,300 packages, containing 56 pounds each of creamery butter. He is going to extend the building 100 feet by 20 feet wide, in addition to the two large buildings already erected.

THE BIDDULPH BUTCHERY.

THE PARISH PRIEST'S POSITION.

HIS STATEMENT ABOUT THE VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.

Other Incidents Connected with the Murders.

Things in Lucan were a little quieter on Friday than they have been during the two preceding days, but still order has by no means been restored. There is as much talk about the butchery of the Donnelly family as ever, but one hears nothing new in reference to the affair.

At the funeral service in the church, Father Connolly, after his deeply affecting address in referring to the Vigilance Committee, said:—"I had not much to do. I was not present at any of its meetings, but I had unbounded confidence in the men that belonged to it, and believe that they are incapable of committing such a terrible murder as this one. It was outside of them, and my suspicion rests on others. I can't understand how it took place. The butchery is a terrible disgrace to Biddulph and the Province at large, but all that remains now to be done is to pray for those that are gone.' Referring again to the lawless acts of the Donnelly boys, the reverend gentleman thought it Patick had been living at home this tragedy would not have taken place. He characterized Patrick as being law-abiding, conciliatory, and charitable, and if his advice had been followed the family would have escaped many of the troubles they got into. At the close of the address Father Connolly stepped down from the altar and pronounced the benediction over the coffins, after which they were consigned to earth, and the assemblage dispersed. The Donnellys went into the priest's house, where they had dinner. William became reconciled with the rev. gentleman, and he and Patrick wish it to be distinctly understood that they have not the slightest ill feeling against him.

Those arrested on Thursday, were taken to London and arraigned on Friday morning, and then remanded till Thursday next. Mr. E. Meredith, of London, has been retained by William and Patrick Donnelly to work up the case for them. The Donnellys and the constables seem to be confident that some of the parties under arrest will turn Queen's evidence. Michael Carroll is considered weak, and it is understood that he acquainted Chief Williams with some information that will lead to the detection of the murderers. Two young men named Anthony Heenan and John Purtell, were arrested on Friday.

During Thursday night the skull of Jas. Donnelly, which was fractured, was stolen from the ruins of the building. The portions of the skull of Mrs. Donnelly and her niece, which remained intact, were also stolen from the ruins.

Underneath the charred remains of James Donnelly was a pocket knife, which was usually carried by him. The ruins have been visited by hundreds of people, and many carried away mementos of their visit in the shape of teeth or bones of the deceased.

A heart-rending scene was witnessed when the only daughter of the family arrived. Upon being shown the bodies she went into violent hysterics, which continued nearly all night. She is the youngest of the family, being twenty-two years of age. She is married and has three children. Her residence is at St. Thomas.

The murdered girl had only come from Ireland a short time ago, and was about 23 years of age. She was employed earning her living in her uncle's house, and was as free from guilt or any knowledge of the existing imbroglio between the belligerent parties as an infant child. Nevertheless, the morning light found her a shapeless mass, in "one red burial blent," no doubt through fear of her recognition of some of the murderous party.

The Vigilance Committee, concerning which so much has been said, had its origin in the desire to unite in an effort to put a check to prevailing crime. Those who were parties to it became so openly, placing their names to a paper to that effect in the porch of St. Patrick's Church. It was stated some time since that the remarks of the Rev. Father Connolly directed against the authors of crime generally gave great offence to William Donnelly, and that he went so far as to threaten Father Connolly by shaking his fist in his face. It was the farthest from the thoughts of those that united in the protest against crime to be the perpetrators of it.

When the prisoners were brought to London the crowd almost trampled on the manacled farmers who are accused of the darkest deed on the Canadian crime record. The men are described elsewhere, and in the uncertain light of the street the spectators saw nothing but six men who had nothing unusual in their appearance except the homely and back-settlement look of their home-spun and oft-mended clothing. Two of them were old and bent with toil, and, perhaps privation, while another was only a boy, and stumbled along as if dazed with fear. In the Central Police Station the party was searched, and without a word of remonstrance quietly entered the cells.

The Montreal Gazette says our merchants continue to report very active and firm the market for pig iron.

A number of the members of the councils from Elora and Fergus were in Toronto on Thursday, to exchange their debentures for Credit Valley Railway stock. They were entertained at luncheon by the Speaker, and the Honourable Treasurer was also present.

A man named James Boyd, aged fifty-five years committed suicide on Thursday at Rosedale, near Toronto, by hanging himself in a stable with a breaching strap. As he had to lift his legs from the ground to accomplish his purpose, the suicide is a most determined one. An inquest will be held.

The Vice Regal party spent a quiet day in Montreal on Thursday. During the forenoon the Princess did some shopping down town, and afterwards went for a short drive, in course of which she paid a visit to Sir Hugh Allan's residence.

ONTARIO POULTRY SHOW.

Close of the Show.

Magnificent Gathering of Birds.

Feb. 6.

The "clerk of the weather" smiled on this the last day of the Show, it being in all respects a beautiful one, and many of our citizens embraced the opportunity of taking a farewell look at the grand display of fowls which were so soon to vanish. Chas. Crowe, son of Mr. Jno. Crowe, purchased from W. J. Way, of Toronto, a Pyle game bantam cockerel, and a pyle game pullet from James Risk, son of Mr. John Risk, who although a very young breeder, seems to thoroughly understand his business, and we are of the opinion that it will not be very long before he will be quoted as an authority on game bantams. We did not learn the price paid, but believe it is a fancy one. Mr. J. D. Stewart, the well known commercial traveller of Hamilton, purchased at auction a pair of Rouen ducks and a Seabright bantam cockerel, a pair of silver pencilled Hamburgs and a silver spangled Hamburg cockerel from P. Sprague. Mr. H. Cooper, of Hamilton, and Mr. James Goldie, of Guelph, were selected to act as judges on pigeons and cage birds, and appear to have given satisfaction, as those gentlemen are well qualified for the position.

Mr. George Murton, the popular Secretary of the Association, we are happy to state, had so far recovered from his recent illness as to visit the Show in the forenoon. He is still weak, and scarcely able to bear the hand-shaking he was subjected to by his friends.

Shortly before twelve o'clock those present were called together, and Mr. Gowdy the President thanked the breeders, members, and citizens for their attendance. When he had anything to say, he said it open and above board, and if he had found it necessary to speak harshly where he thought it was deserved, he considered it was only his duty, having done which, he was willing to let the matter drop. He then declared the Show closed. From the applause which greeted the President's remarks the company seemed to thoroughly understand to whom the President referred, and we are of the opinion that when the directors meet we will be in a position to publish his name.

"Than there was hurrying to and fro" and the cooping of the birds for shipment was proceeded with in such an energetic manner that in a short time the drill shed seemed like "some banquet hall deserted," and the most successful poultry show ever held in Canada was a thing of the past.

There was a large exhibit of Polands of the different varieties, the white crested black variety especially good. Bouge of London, heads the list. The same gentleman is equally successful in Houdans, but some very fine birds are shown by Wright, Aldous, Elliott and Milne.

The collection of Black Spanish we would have wished to have seen larger, but what is lacking in quantity is made up in quality. The first prize cock and hen shown by T. K. Dryden, of Galt, are well worthy of special mention, being particularly good birds, and in splendid condition. The same might be said of the cockerel and pullet, which take first prize. Joseph Mimmack, of Guelph, is also a prize taker.

The exhibit of White Dorkings are not as numerous as we would like to have seen, but this variety seems to be getting scarce; they are good egg producers. Bogue and Lamb, of London, and Simpson, of Falkland, show some very good specimens.

Silver Grey's are largely represented and there are some extra good birds contributed by Messrs. Lamb, Bogue and Aldous. The first prize cockerel of Bouge, of London, is a splendid bird and we would like to have seen him in a larger coop where he would have room to spread himself. He has evidently been engaged in a "dispute" with some of his friends or enemies, as the case may be, which has damaged the appearance of his comb and wattles, but this disfiguration will soon disappear with proper care. The same breeder's first prize cock we think could hardly be beaten.

There is a good display of colored Dorkings, and it is not the first victory that some of the "veterans" have scored. The first prize pullet of McClelland, of Peterboro, is a plump well developed bird, and beautifully pencilled; Lamb, of London, has also been very successful.

"Here's where you get it," said a well known amateur breeder to your reporter as he gazed with delight on the best collection of Plymouth Rocks ever seen at any show on this continent. This assertion may be doubted by some who may not have been them, but will be heartily endorsed by every breeder present, including Mr. Todd, who has visited all the large shows in the United States and Canada for years. In some instances the collection may have been larger, but never its equal in quality. This truly useful and beautiful bird originated from a cross between an Asiatic (the particular variety is still a disputed point among breeders) American Dommique, and a Black Java. They have been brought to such perfection now that properly mated they breed true in every particular. They have risen rapidly in public favor as they have every quality requisite as a desirable breed for all purposes. Large in size, with sprightly, almost "game" action, beautiful plumage, golden legs, they mature very early and are good layers; and the male birds often turn the scale at 10 pounds and upwards, which make them very desirable for the table. In fact they "fill the bill" in every respect.

Mr. G. H. Pugsley comes to the front, and he ought to be satisfied with the large number of prizes he has taken, and we have no hesitation in saying they are fully deserved. Mr. Geo. Sunley takes 1st prize for his cockerel, which is a splendid one. Mr. Todd pronounced him the best he had ever seen, and gave it as his opinion that had he been shown at the great poultry show held recently in Indianapolis he would have beat them all. The 1st and 2nd prize hens exhibited by Keefer, of Illinois, are worthy of special mention.

The display of Bantams is unusually large. W. J. Way, of Toronto, and Geo. Elliott contribute largely, and are very successful. Ed. McKenna and Jas. Risk Guelph, show fine birds and secure prizes. Jas. W. Colson, Guelph, shows a Duckwing cockerel and pullet which take 2nd and 3rd respectively, handsome birds, and at any ordinary show would have taken the red ticket.

The Japanese Bantams shown by G. H. Pugsley are very rare, this gentleman being the only exhibitor, in fact, the only person in Canada that has them, he having lately purchased the entire stock of Mr. Todd, of Vermillion, Ohio, and is now introducing them in this country. The owner has already orders booked for eggs at one dollar each. The Hamburgs are so numerous, that none but a competent judge could possibly pick out the best. Sharp Butterfield takes all the red tickets but one in young birds in all varieties, and has a good record among the old ones. It is conceded on all hands that "what Butterfield don't know about chickens is not worth knowing," and his reputation as a "square man to deal with," is well known. Geo. Sunley, P. Sprague, W. A. Suddaby, and J. W. Colson, of Guelph, are well up in this class, and a reference to the prize list will show their birds are appreciated.

The collection of Turkeys is a very good one. Want of space compels us to curtail our notice of the different varieties. Mr. James Anderson, Guelph, shows some excellent birds of the Bronze varietie, and finds it difficult to fill the many orders he receives. The same gentleman makes his mark in the very large collection of ducks, and Chas. Heath, Guelph, takes two first prizes in geese, which we are sorry we cannot give a more extended notice.

In a previous issue we noticed the magnificent display of pigeons. J. D. Anderson, Tyson, Dietz and Sprague, of Guelph, carry off a large majority of the prizes.

Mr. W. G. Burr, of Brantford, took the prize for the "best portable coop for exhibition purposes, one that can be folded up showing one or more compartments," and has generously presented his model to the Association, in order that the coops may be manufactured and sold to breeders, and the society reap the benefit of the profits.

The special prize list speaks for itself. The twenty dollar silver cup given by W. J. Way, of Toronto, for the "Best and largest collection of Plymouth Rocks," goes to the young but very successful breeder, Mr. G. H. Pugsley. There were no entries for the sewing machine, valued at $38, offered by Mr. C. F. Leonard, of Guelph, for the best breeding pen of Houdans to become the property of the donor. We cannot conclude our remarks without congratulating the breeders of Guelph that in no instance where any one offered a special prize, has the donor competed for it, and we think that some of them might have done so successfully.

The Finance Report of the Society, read at the annual meeting, showed the receipts from all sources to be $1,346.47, and the expenditure $1,383.20, leaving a balance due the treasurer of $36.73.

Relief for Ireland.

We stated yesterday that at the meeting which was held at the Albion Hotel on Thursday night, it was agreed to call another meeting for Monday night to see what was to be done in the way of getting up funds for the relief of the sufferers in Ireland. With this purpose in view a second petition was got up yesterday, asking the Mayor to call a public meeting for Monday night. This petition was taken round in the afternoon, and received a number of signatures. When brought to us we signed it in the belief that some other steps would be proposed at the meeting than were recommended at the previous one, and not a few signed the petition on the same understanding. It was handed to the Mayor this morning to take action on, but he, after due consideration, declined to call a public meeting a second time as Mayor on the ground that the wording of the second requisition was almost identical with the first, and that as Chief Magistrate of the City he would not feel justified in doing it, as the Council had seen fit, after due deliberation, to refuse to act on the resolution passed at the first meeting.

The mistake, we think, lies with the Committee in not either calling a meeting on their own account, or in at once starting a subscription themselves, and then trusting to the liberality of the citizens. The feeling has got abroad that the intention of getting up this second meeting was an attempt to browbeat the Council, and frighten them into giving the grant in aid of the fund. If this is so it is a great blunder, and the Mayor is quite justified in declining to call it under his sanction. Of course it was free to the meeting to make any other proposal for raising funds; but if the Committee had set to work to get up subscriptions among themselves and then among their fellow citizens, the people would have had full faith in their honesty and integrity without the mere formal endorsation that a public meeting could give them as members of the Committee, or collectors for the fund.

The British Policy in South Africa.

Mr. Froude, the distinguished historian, lately gave a couple of lectures in Edinburgh, on the past and present relations between Britain and South Africa. Mr. Froude is well qualified for this task, having closely studied the whole question in connection with his mission, undertaken at the request of the present Government, to South Africa, with a view to bringing about a confederation of all the British possessions in the southern part of the continent.

His exposure of the misdeeds of Britain in its dealings with South Africa is very damaging to those statesmen who, as he states "attempted to govern a country 6,000 away without knowing, or caring to know, anything about it. We are treading step by step in the old course, and are creating exactly and literally a second Ireland in South Africa." In his sketch of the history of British action in South Africa from its acquisition by conquest down to the present time, he stated that it was essentially a Dutch settlement—in its laws, language and by right of prior occupation. The British simply took possession at the time of the French Revolution, to keep it out of the hands of the French, but having once got in they kept possession. The Dutch rebelled, but the rebellion was crushed, some of the ringleaders were hanged, and this laid a feeling of ill will on the part of the Boers for the English which has been brought down to the present day. In 1833 on the abolition of slavery many of them left Cape Colony and founded the Free Orange State and the Transvaal, and ultimately conquered the Zulus and acquired Natal. Britain however took possession of Natal also, and thus deepened the ill will of the Boers. However a convention was held in 1852 at which the British bound themselves to leave the Dutch in possession of the Orange Free State and the Transvaal, never more to interfere between the Boers and the natives. But this was broken through by the British when they annexed the Diamond Fields. To this Mr. Froude attributes in a great measure all the trouble which ensued, and still prevails in South Africa.

Mr. Froude was sent out to the Cape in 1874 by Lord Carnarvon, with instructions to bring back a true account of the state of affairs. He found a deep seated hatred of the English existing among the Boers. He found that England had exasperated the whole Dutch population; had quarrelled with the free Republics; had intangled itself in fresh complications with the natives beyond the Orange river; had broken a treaty; had damaged its reputation for good faith; and all without receiving one qualifying advantage in return.

The British Government were still favourable to confederation, though Mr. Froude was opposed to it, and reported against it on the ground that the time for confederation had not come, and that self government simply meant the domination of the blacks by the whites. The Colonial Government were also opposed to confederation, although Mr. Froude took out with him a second time a despatch from Lord Carnarvon, recommending it. The Colonial Government laughed at the despatch, and told Mr. Froude that he was in a constitutional country, meaning of course, that they would not be advised or coerced by the Home Government. Delegates were then invited to a conference in London with the same end in view, but this also came to nothing as far as confederation was concerned, but other matters of dispute were settled, and all that remained was to settle with Transvaal. The British Government still aiming at confederation sent out Sir Bartle Frere on a mission of piece. But his mission ended in war solely because the King of the Zulus refused to disband his army at Sir Bartle's request. What followed we all know.

Mr. Froude's solution of the problem is to restore the Transvaal to the Dutch, send the King of the Zulus back to his country, make an apology and pay compensation, which Britain is not likely to do. Such is Mr. Froude's view of English rule in South Africa.

A Little Breeze in the Camp.

The Guelph Herald lately spoke out its mind plainly "in open meeting,' about the Opposition in the Local Legislature, and this is how the Conservative organ in Hamilton goes for its Guelph confrere because of its honesty and outspokenness:

"A paragraph has been going the rounds of the Grit press lately, credited to the Guelph Herald. The substance of it is that the Herald, in an article discussing Ontario politics, stated that "Out of the candidates the Tory party had in the field no man would venture in sober earnest to name six men capable of taking the places of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues had the verdict of the people called for a change of Government." We must confess to a feeling of surprise at seeing such an assertion put down to our contemporary—not merely because of its reputation as a staunch advocate of Liberal Conservative principles, but from the fact that for years past it has been among the bitterest opponents of the Mowat Administration, and during the last general election did all in its power to bring about their defeat. Viewed in this connection it is difficult to understand on what grounds it can now condemn the men whom it formerly supported. For taking such a course the Herald has gained the beslobberings of certain Grit newspapers, and possibly it may be satisfied with the emolument. Its confessions in insincerity, however, in having urged the placing of men on the Treasury benches who were not fit to occupy them cannot fail to rob it to a large extent of the confidence of those whose good opinion is worth having."

If the Herald never does anything worse than tell the truth, as it does in this case, it has nothing to fear from the indignant protests of such old fossil Tory papers as the Spectator, which would give their solemn affidavit at any time that Satan was an angel of light, if Sir John only told them to do so.

HON. Mr. Allan is spoken of in connection with the Speakership of the Senate.

THE latest rumour is that the next Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario will be T. N. Gibbs, of Oshawa.

THE Agricultural College bill has been amended in the legislature to provide for the teaching of horticultural and arboriculture at the institution. The estimates this year for the College, amount to $22,850 for extensions and improvements.

THE papers are hard on Parnell. The London Times in speaking of the distress in Ireland, says:—"We trust that no one will be deterred from giving a single penny for the relief of Irish distress by the mischievous disorders in Ireland, which are the direct and inevitable consequence of Mr. Parnell's political teaching." The N. Y. Herald again is very sarcastic. It says:—"Perhaps the trouble with Mr. Parnell in this connection is his failure to perceive the true respective proportions of Mr. Parnell and the rest of the universe."

ARRIVAL OF THE VICE-REGAL PARTY IN OTTAWA.—The party left Montreal on Friday, and reached Ottawa about 5 p. m. A few flags flying, and a narrow strip of dirty looking cheap carpet laid across the platform, constituted all the decorations. Several of the members of the Government, the Mayor, &c., were at the station. The members of the Privy Council boarded the train and briefly paid their respects to Her Royal Highness the Princess, who received them graciously. Shortly afterwards the party descended to the platform, when the troops saluted, the National Anthem was played, and the battery at Nepean Point fired the royal salute and hoisted the royal standard. Mayor McIntosh approached and read an address of welcome, to which the Governor-General replied. The party, which consisted of the Governor-General and the Princess, Major De Winton, Lady Pelly, Miss Pelly, Miss Eva Pelly, Hon. Mrs. Langham, and Captains Harbord, Chater, and Collins, A. D. C's., immediately left the depot and were escorted by the Dragoon Guards to Rideau Hall.

THE GLOBE-BOYLE LIBEL SUIT.—On Thursday Mr. Donovan, for the plaintiff, applied to the Court of Queen's Bench, sitting in term, for a rule nisi for a new trial, upon various grounds. The Court refused the application, the Chief Justice stating that the matter had been very fairly and properly placed before the jury by Mr. Justice Osler, and that no misdirection could be charged. As to the verdict, he said it lay in the hands of the jury to connect the plaintiff with the other parties who were engaged in these improper transactions in reference to the printing contracts, and the Court could see no possible reason for interfering with the finding of the jury. The rule was therefore refused.

Official despatches have been received giving further details of the recent hurricane in the Phillippine Islands. Twenty-five vessels of various classes were wrecked, including four foreign frigates. A large number of other vessels were damaged. Forty persons were drowned.

Synopsis of the Division Court Bill.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The following is a synopsis of the Bill respecting the Division Court, introduced yesterday afternoon by Mr. Hardy: "All claims for the recovery of debt or money on demand, the amount of which does not exceed $200, can be tried at the Division Courts, but when the amount exceeds $500 there shall be an appeal, as heretofore. The clerk shall place all suits in which the sum sought to be recovered exceeds $100 at the foot of the trial list and the other business of the Court shall take precedence, unless the Judge for special reasons decides otherwise. The Judge shall require such additional security to be given by the clerks and bailiffs as shall afford sufficient security. There shall be paid to the Clerk in the Division Court—in addition to all costs or jury fees now by law payable—on every suit entered where the claim exceeds $40, two cents; does not exceed $100, five cents; exceeds $100, ten cents. Each juror shall he paid the sum of $1.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.—A boy near Smith's Falls has been frightened to death. He was engaged as a cook for a number of men. One evening he went to a neighbour's, and on returning found the shanty dark. He struck a match and it was blown out. He did this two or three times, and finally looked behind him. As he struck he caught a glimpse of several dark objects, which were the men blackened and dressed to suit. His heart, as the doctor afterwards said, leaped from its stronghold and fell into an unnatural position, and he ran to the neighbour's again, dying in a few hours.

THE WEST GARAFRAXA REEVESHIP PROTESTED.—Mr. John McDonald, the late Deputy Reeve, has entered proceedings to unseat Matthew Anderson, elected Reeve of West Garafraxa, on the ground that his name does not appear on the last revised assessment roll of that municipality as required by the Municipal Act. The bond guaranteeing costs was sent off yesterday. Messrs. Guthrie Watt & Cutten, of Guelph, are acting on behalf of Mr. McDonald.—News Record.

A WARNING.—The Georgetown Herald says:—William and Thomas Clark, the two young men tried and convicted for setting fire to Mr. John Bingham's barn, were sentenced by His Honor Judge Miller as follows:—Thomas one year in the Central Prison at Toronto, and William two years in the Provincial Penitentiary at Kingston. Served them right.

CANADA SOUTHERN EARNINGS.—The annual report of the Canada Southern Railroad shows the total earnings last year to have been $2,995,000, and the operating expenses $2,448,000. This leaves a surplus, after deducting accrued interest on the new first mortgage bonds, of $156,000, against $57,000 the previous year.

SAD ACCIDENT.—The Walkerton Telescope says:—A sad accident took place about three miles east of Mildmay, on Saturday night. Miss Annie Morrison, daughter of Mr. James Morrison, blew out a coal oil lamp, which immediately exploded, burning her to such an extent that she died on Monday morning. She was about 16 years of age. This is another warning against the habit of extinguishing lamps by blowing them out. The wick should always be turned down before an attempt is made to put it out. It should also be remembered that it is dangerous to turn a lamp low and not extinguish it. Explosions may also then take place.

WILSON'S WILD CHERRY.

One of the most thoroughly reliable medicines now in use by the Canadian public is Wilson's Compound of Wild Cherry. The success which attends its use in cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Weak Lungs, is most remarkable.

Originally prepared to meet the demand for a good medicine of the kind, in the retail store of the proprietors, its sale increased so rapidly and became so largely extended that the manufacturers felt it was only necessary to introduce it through the newspapers of the country to ensure its adoption as the national cure for diseases of the respiratory organs. Every leading druggist in Western Ontario now sells it.

Be wise in time: get a bottle and have it on hand when required. The large bottles are the cheapest.

CHAPTER XXV.

ORWELL BRUCE STRUGGLES THROUGH THE DEPTHS—DEATH OF PAUL JONES—ORWELL DEPARTS FROM EUROPE FOR THE FAR WEST.

The letter which had stricken Orwell Bruce into insensibility was an intimation from Anthony Langton to his son of the death of May, which had taken place on the day before the letter was written. Anthony had thus immediately despatched the intelligence to Reuben, accompanying it with reference to their plot an injunction to lose no more time in carrying the latter to its consummation.

"The death of the girl," he wrote, "makes the conduct of matters all the more easy for us. Had she continued alive the destitution into which she would have been thrown might have drawn unfavourable remarks upon me when I foreclosed the mortgage and forced the estate to a sale. Not that I care a pin point for anything people say of me, but in a country place it is more advantageous to be on good terms with the neighbours. I count it fortunate, therefore, that the sister is dead before the brother's ruin is made public, and now that this favourable event had happened (as I told you in my last it was likely soon to take place), you cannot be too speedy in bringing your operations to a close. From the tone of your latest letter I am hopeful that you have succeeded by this time, but if not, use your utmost diligence, and return home as soon thereafter as you can. For many mor. the Bishop and others have been making efforts to obtain Orwell's address, which, thanks to our careful arrangements, have been frustrated. When your work is done, I don't care how soon communication between him and the factor is restored, for then neither Bishop nor any one else will be able to extricate him from his difficulties or baulk me in my project."

When Anthony Langton penned the letter from which the above is an extract, he little expected that it was to come into the hands of Orwell. Had the possibility of such a thing occurred to him its tenor would have been very different, and all expressions carefully suppressed which revealed the machinations he and Reuben had been pursuing. Ignorant of what had transpired at Paris, he wrote as freely as formerly, and the letter falling as we have seen under Orwell's eye, proved an ample supplement to the knowledge the latter had already gained, and opened his eyes to the cruel and shocking deception which had been practised against him.

These subsidiary parts of the letter did not, however, gain a lodgment in Orwell's mind at the first hurried glance. The announcement of May's death was the only thing he saw, and the shock of the intelligence overwhelmed him—literally overwhelmed him, for his consciousness fled, and he fell forward on the table without sense or motion.

Paul Jones was much startled and not a little agitated by this occurrence. In his days of strength and active service, and used to all manner of terrible scenes, his coolness and firmness would have been little affected by such a matter, but now shattered and enfeebled by disease, he was ill able to cope with such a crisis, and for some moments was incapable of action, so that Orwell lay without help in his death-like swoon. Paul's first impulse was to summon Madame Dorberque, by whose aid restoratives were applied, and the youth was brought back to a sense of his agony, compared with which unconsciousness was a merciful condition. His anguish and misery were indescribable. For two days the doctor, who was in close attendance, feared that his reason would be overthrown. The strongest opiates he could administer were powerless to produce any amount of calmness, and it was not until the third evening that exhausted nature secured the blessed influence of slumber, which, to the thankfulness of his attendants, continued for many hours, and succeeded by the calmness of silent despair. Paul's was the first human voice to which he could hear or listen; but even Paul could for a time say nothing to comfort him, or to assuage the bitterness of his remorseless reflections. He saw now how cruel, how unnatural he had been in leaving his sister for more than two years and never communicating with her during that period. Though he called to mind the various occasions on which he had proposed to write a letter to May, and had been artfully dissuaded from doing so by Reuben Langton, the recollection of his unfulfilled intention only added poignancy to his regret. When he imagined what her thoughts of him must have been; how his desertion must have poisoned her heart against him and sent her to the grave hating him, reviling his very name, imprecating the vengeance of heaven on his guilty head, his mental sufferings were to be compared only to the sufferings of the lost.

Of one thing he was resolved, and that was to return no more to Marston Grange. He had nothing to take him there. Every tie of love had been severed by his own infatuated hand. Ruined, degraded, dishonoured, he could not meet those who knew him, could not bear the upbraidings of Mr. Bishop, the contempt of Agnes Borland, the scorn and hatred of all his acquaintances.

"No, I shall never go back to Scotland," he said with all the emphasis of a fixed and immovable resolution.

"Do not say never," returned Paul, to whom the words were spoken. "I do not wonder at such a determination for the present; but you are young, and may have a long future. Greatly as you have erred, the past may be redeemed."

"Never!" groaned Orwell. "How can it? My ruin is so complete that I cannot help myself, and no one else can help me. No, Captain Jones, my proper life is blighted. All I can do is to go to a land where I am not known, sink into obscurity, forget what I was, and spend my days in labouring for my daily bread. Even such a fate as that is infinitely better than I deserve. As for peace or happiness, to these I must henceforth be a stranger. I cannot even hope that heaven will pardon such folly, such wickedness as mine."

"What!" said Paul, "are you worse than the prodigal who went into the far country and wasted all his substance? Surely not; and remember that he, low as he had sunk, returned to his father's house and was forgiven. The fact is Mr. Bruce, your sorrow has made your mind morbidly unhealthy, and it will be some time ere it can recover its tone. Will you take my advice, the advice of a dying man, but one who is sincerely desirous of serving you?"

"I will take any advice but that which involves my return to Scotland," answered Orwell.

"At present, while you are in your present state of mind, I would advise you to return home."

"Home!" cried Orwell, bitterly. "I have no home unless it be the churchyard vault which holds all my kindred. And I don't know but the mortgage held by Anthony Langton includes even that."

"Be patient, my young friend, and listen to what I am about to propose. I cannot be of use to you myself, for my days are nearly run, but there is one in America who, I know, will interest himself deeply in your welfare."

"One in America?" repeated Orwell in wonder.

"Yes; the manager of my property in Virginia, to whom I will give you a letter. He is a man in whom you can place the utmost confidence. He will advise you and assist you in every way. Once beside him you are with a true friend, as you will speedily discover. I vouch my word for it. Will you go to him.

"Gladly. Oh! Captain Jones, how can I show my gratitude to you for this, and all the other kindness you have shown me? Alas! I have no means, no opportunity of doing so."

"I think you have," returned Paul slowly and with a tone of sadness, while a shadow crept over his wan face. "After a life of hard service in the cause of human freedom I am here alone, neglected and forsaken, the victim of malice, intrigue, and ingratitude. The nobles and ministers with whom I once associated have deserted me. All the friends I have in Paris you have seen visiting me, and you know how few they are. Well, I have learned to resign myself to this unmerited fate, but I find it a lonely thing to die in this solitude. Will you stay with me to the last—it will not be long at the farthest, the doctor says, and it may be very soon—and bear the tidings of my decease to that friend in America I have spoken of? He and I are very dear to each other, and he will be rejoiced to know that you cared for me in my final moments. I will also give into your charge to take to him papers relating to the settlement of my affairs and the journal of my campaign in Russia, with other statements necessary to the vindication of my character, which has been so cruelly aspersed.

"Captain Jones," said Orwell, taking the speaker's hand, while tears stood in his eyes, "I fervently hope the doctor is deceived as to the issue of your illness."

"He is not deceived; I know it, I feel it. The dropsy in my limbs is rising day by day to a vital place. I have made up my mind to die, and have been striving, through God's mercy, to be prepared. My one wish is to have a friend near me at the last."

"I will not leave you," said Orwell with great emotion; "and if it were God's will I would willingly lay down my life to save yours."

Paul fervently grasped the hand which held his in token of his deep satisfaction, He tried to speak his thanks, but failed, and the countenance which had never quailed in the presence of danger showed dim eyes and quivering lips, as, awed but not terrified, he contemplated the approach of the last foe he should ever have to meet.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the 'fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.

Mr. Crooks introduced a Bill to make certain amendments to the Public School Act. He stated that it was intended to incorporate the provisions made in the Bills before the House the other day relating to the midsummer vacation in rural school sections, and to non-resident school ratepayers. It also contained provisions to make it perfectly clear in what way school rates should be collected in union school sections, and in cases where townships or portions of townships were united with villages or towns.

The Bill was read the first time.

Several returns were moved for.

Mr. Wig-e's Bill to amend the Game Law was read a second time and referred to a special committee.

After advancing a number of private Bills a stage, the House went into Committee of Supply, the Minister of Education availing himself of the occasion to make his statement and review of the educational operations of the past year A motion by Mr. Miller to reduce the grant to High Schools was voted down, and after attention had been called by Mr. Gibson, of Huron, to the fact that officials of the Department had been earning large sums in a very irregular and reprehensible manner, the whole appropriation for Education was voted.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.

After routine yesterday the afternoon was spent in the discussion of emigration matters in Committee of Supply. Mr. Hardy explained the policy of the Government in the matter and the reasons for the increased grants, and after several speeches from each side the item passed.

In the course of Mr. Crook's speech in moving the Education Estimates on Wednesday he stated:—1. That the percentage of average attendance in 1878 was more than 45 per cent., and an improvement over 1877. 2. That the proportion of pupils on the register of our Public Schools was 29½ per cent of the whole population, and the average attendance was 13.08 of the population; while in England the proportion of pupils in the Elementary Schools was 14 per cent. of the whole population, and an average attendance of 9.07; and in Scotland, 13 and 10.03 per cent respectively. 3. That the High Schools have relieved the Normal Schools of what formerly chiefly occupied the time and attention of masters and students, viz., the subjects of general education, and are of great value in affording instruction in the literary and scientific subjects, not only to intending teachers, but to those preparing for the Universities or learned professions, or any career in life; hence there is no reason now for Normal schools doing anything more than giving professional instruction to teachers in training. 4. That the distribution of the High School grant of $72,000 is as follows:

104 High Schools, at $450 each	$46,800
$1 50 per unit of attendance, say for 10,000 pupils	15,000
Residue on results of Intermediate Examination, say	10,200
	$72,000

TORONTO, Feb. 6.

After routine the Attorney-General's bill respecting coroners' inquests was read a third time.

A brief discussion took place on Mr. Caldwell's bill to prevent the killing of deer by means of dogs, some contending that "still hunting" was the more cowardly and unsportsmanlike of the two methods of killing game. The bill was read a second time and referred to the special committee already appointed on the game laws.

After passing a number of private bills through committees, among them the bill to divide the Township of Luther, the House went into Committee of Supply and agreed to the appropriations for hospitals and charities, Crown Lands, and colonization roads. The items of over expenditure for 1879 were allowed to stand over at the request of the Opposition.

PEEL AND MARYBOROUGH AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting of the above society held in Hollin, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Jas. Slimmon; Vice-President, A. Park; Sec.-Treas., James Gibson; Directors.—Wm. Johnston, Wm. Fisher, Robert Brunton, Thos. Whale, John Fleming, Hugh Montgomery, Geo. Draper, M. Thompson, (Wallace P. O.), and Matthew Lowes.

SHIPMENT OF HORSES.—Two American buyers of horses shipped two car-loads of animals, purchased in this vicinity, from Galt last week. The lot was a good one, and will doubtless bring good prices in the United States market.—Galt Reporter.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

Arrangements are being made for the colonization of three hundred English families at the Turtle Mountain country, Manitoba. They are to arrive at the end of next month.

The Vice-regal train on the Intercolonial had to push its way throrgh one of the severest snow storms that has visited the lower provinces for a long time. So far however, it appears to have met with no serious obstruction.

Four months ago Herr Phillipp placed in the hands of the Chemical Agricultural Commission of Zurich a bottle containing a sample of his preserved milk. It had been eight days in an ordinary living room, often at 75° without perceptible effect on equality, taste, or appearance; it creamed like any other milk, and butter might have been made from it. The same results were obtained at various other times, and the most careful tests of the President and analyst of the Commission failed to detect in the milk any doubtful ingredient, such as some experimenters have used for milk preservation.

Out of the 389 committals to Milton jail in 1879, there was only one drunk and disorderly. This speaks well for the habits of the people.

An exchange warns the public against an impostor calling himself a Congregational minister, and who has been repudiated by at least two sections of that body. He is said to collect money on various representations without making returns to any one, and to be very diligent in making love to widows or maids, even going so far as to propose marriage on a half-hour's acquaintance.

A serious collision occurred on the Canada Central Railway on Tuesday evening at Frankton station between two express trains, which resulted in the destruction of the locomotives.

Special Business Notices.

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 20c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

This Afternoon's Dispatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Boat Racing in England.

(By Telegraph to the Mercury.)

LONDON, England, Feb. 9.—In the Boyd-Elliott boat race here to-day, Boyd won easily.

Fire at Port Dalhousie.

PORT DALHOUSIE, ONT., Feb. 9.—A building on the beach here, owned and occupied by John McAwry, was destroyed by fire between 1 and 2 this morning, together with furniture. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary. No insurance.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Mr. M. P. Ryan, M. P., for this city, who has been seriously ill for some time, is pronounced out of danger. It is proposed to give the balance amounting to $100 at the disposal of the Province of Quebec press Association to the Irish Relief Fund.

Francis Malo St. Charles, Barromee St., was fined $95 for selling liquor without a license.

The remains of the late Mr. Devlin will arrive here for interment about the end of the present week.

A meeting of St. Patrick's Society has been called by the President to take steps for a public funeral to the deceased, the other Irish National Societies being invited to join. The body will lie in state in the St. Patrick's Church one day after its arrival.

St. Patrick's Church here, is expected to raise $10,000 for the Irish Relief Fund. The greater part being already subscribed.

Arrival of the "Peruvian."

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 9.—The steamer, Peruvian, with the English mail, arrived at 9:15 a. m.

Irish Relief Fund.

PERTH, ONT., Feb. 9.—A public meeting was held in the town hall on Saturday evening, when $535 were raised for the Irish Relief Fund. It is thought $1,000 in all will be raised here.

Mr. J. J. W. Simpson has retired from the management of the Owen Sound Tribune.

The hotel occupied by Mr. Watkins, Campbellville, was totally destroyed by fire. It was owned by Mr. Kidney.

Mr. F. Porter, of Mount Forest, is about issuing a small book of Poems entitled "Strayed Leaves from the Wild Wood." If this venture is satisfactory, Mr. Porter proposes getting out a larger work shortly, entitled "Rays of Gladness," which will be dedicated to the Marquis of Lorne for which His Excellency's permission has been obtained.

In September, 1878, choice cattle sold in Toronto at $5 per 100 lbs.; second class, $4.75, and third class, $3.25. In January, 1880, the ruling prices for the same grades were $4.25, $3.75, and $2.25. How the N. P. has benefitted the farmers.

John Chambers, of Walkerton, Ont., has been appointed official assignee for Bruce, Ont.

The Rev. Mr. Brookman, late of St. Thomas' Church, St. Catharines, was, on Sunday, received into the Baptist denomination, and baptised by the Rev. Mr. Cameron, pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

According to the return most recently published there were 2,973 absentee Irish landowner. Of these 2,973 possessing property of the annual value of £1,869,744, are never resident. Seven of the great London companies draw an income of £75,000. The Marquis of Bath heads the list of landlords, with $79,000 a year. The Earl of Pembroke has $37,000 a year from Ireland, and does not even possess a house in it.

A mass meeting was held in Chatham lately, conducted by the ministers of that place, protesting against shopkeepers carrying on business after six o'clock on Saturday night, as the present system of keeping open places of business till so near the Sabbath morning was a hindrance to the observance of the Sabbath and a direct violation of the spirit of the commandment. The resolution was carried, as was also one read by Rev. Dr. Davidson in reference to fast driving on the streets on the Sabbath.

The Grangers in the neighborhood of of Port Hope are endeavoring to organize a Trust and Loan Company with one hundred thousand dollars capital. It is stated that about one half of the stock is subscribed.

The English Postmaster General, Lord John Manners, will introduce at the ensuing session of Parliament a scheme of postal notes, in further amplification of the money order system. The intention is to issue notes of 2s., 6d., 5s., 10d., and 20s., the two first to be charged one penny each, and the two latter two pence each. These notes are to be payable at any savings bank or money order office, and will be sold in books as well as singly, so that the necessity of going to a money order office every time money is to be transmitted and between certain hours of the day will be avoided. It is a species of small paper currency, and in a country with such a dense population as Great Britain, is sure to be practicable and popular. Like the postal savings bank, it is a step in advance which will be welcomed by the people.

Local News.

THE GAOL.—There are at present twenty-five prisoners quartered at the gaol.

MR. DAVID KENNEDY, who has been very ill for some time back, is somewhat better to-day.

GENERAL HOSPITAL.—There are at present twenty-eight patients in this institution—eighteen male and ten female.

PROBS.—Northerly winds to-day, veering to the south to-night, fair cold weather, probably followed by snow to-morrow.

LORETTO CONVENT.—Six sleigh loads of the Sisters and pupils left the convent this morning for a sleighing excursion.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.—This Railway Company have several restaurant cars in course of construction, which will shortly be placed on the main line.

LENT.—Lent this year, will begin on the 11th, that being Ash Wednesday. Good Friday will be on the 26th of March, and Easter Sunday, on the 28th March.

SKATING MATCHES.—The latest kind of "go-as-you-please match" is on skates. In different towns such contests have taken place for prizes. The rink managers might find an exhibition of this character a paying enterprise.

MR. JAS. HEWER, chairman of the Relief Committee is looking very sharply after parties applying for relief. He has discovered a number of persons asking assistance under false pretences, and if more of a similar nature occur he is determined to make examples of them.

SPRING ASSIZES.—The Spring Assizes will be held in the following places:—Guelph, April 13th; Berlin, April 26th; Milton, March 29th; Walkerton, April 6th; Goderich, March 22nd; Owen Sound, April 13th; Stratford, March 8th.

PIGEON MATCH.—A pigeon shooting match took place on Saturday, in Berlin, between a Berlin and Guelph team, six men aside. Guelph won by three birds. Mr. Turnbull, of Guelph, made the best score on the ground, killing nine birds out of ten. The day was very unfavorable for pigeon shooting.

MECHANICS LEAVING THE CITY.—The National Policy has had so beneficial an effect on the industries of this city, that many first-class mechanics have had to leave for want of employment. To-day, Messrs. William S. Marshall, Thomas R. Allison and W. H. Pepper, left for Erie, Pa., where they have been engaged by the Stern Manufacturing Co.

LARGE TURKEY.—There is on exhibition a large half wild bred turkey at Hugh Walker's store, which, when alive weighed twenty-eight pounds. The bird belonged to Mr. James Anderson, of Puslinch, by whom it was presented to St. Andrew's congregation, and will be sold at the fancy fair.

WEIGHT OF THE MERCURY.—The total weight of the MERCURY sent from the Guelph Post Office, during the month of January was 2710 lbs.—nearly a ton and a half. We are now issuing over two tons of paper a month. This will give our readers and the business community some idea of the extent of the circulation of the MERCURY. These figures were obtained from the post office, where the papers are weighed.

LEAVING PILKINGTON.—We regret to learn that our old and highly esteemed friend, Mr. Wm. B. Telfer is about to remove from the well known homestead which he has occupied for more than 20 years, during which time he has met with more than ordinary success. The property now comes into the hands of Mr. William Johnston, of Peterborough, and was purchased for $7,500. We hope that Mr. Telfer will locate in our midst, as he has heretofore been a valuable citizen.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Church Young Men's Association was held on Friday evening, when the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Rev. J. C. Smith, President; J. S. Rogerson, 1st Vice President; D. Gerrand, 2nd Vice President; John Findlay, Secretary; W. Guthrie, Treasurer. W. Higinbotham, M. McKee, H. Tawse, John McDonald, W. A. McLean, J. Mowatt and C. Strachan, members of the executive committee.

FAILURES.—Says the Monetary Times:—Mr. A. Gordon, harness maker, who has been in Elora for a quarter of a century, last autumn got an extension of time, which he failed in meeting and was put in insolvency by L. Breithaupt, Berlin.—The hardware business of Mr. Alexander McGowan, Orangeville, has been a good while established, and Mr. McG. was considered to be in a good position, but latterly he has been losing ground, and is now attached at the instance of Morland, Watson & Co. The estate is not expected to pay over 15 per cent.—McConnachie & Angus, who were formerly dominies and wanted to be merchants, commenced business about two months ago at Palmerston with $400 capital. They had no difficulty, it appears, getting a large stock of goods. It now appears that they have attempted to sell out for fraudulent purposes, and their estate has been attached.—Jos. Henning, of Preston, has made an assignment. He owes $2,000, principally in Hamilton.

TAKE THEM IN!—It is utterly useless for any of our opponents to imitate our style of exhibiting embroideries. Ladies cannot be induced to buy inferior stuff by any such futile attempts, not as long as they can spell F a s h i o n a b l e W e s t E n d.
A. O. BUCHAM.

NOTHING before the Police Court to-day.

WATER WORKS.—Tenders for the supply of wood at the Water Works engine house close to-day.

WE have received Wm. Rennie's seed catalogue, Toronto, for 1880. It is profusely illustrated, and is invaluable to the garden.

E. B. A.—A meeting of this Association will be held to-morrow evening, in the Queen's Hotel at 7:30 sharp. See advertment.

RECEPTION WALTZES.—We have received the fifty-first edition of those popular waltzes from the Toronto News Company. They are composed by E. H. Benedict.

REV. GEORGE WOOD, of Stratford, preached able sermons in the Primitive Methodist Church yesterday morning and evening. The reverend gentleman was for years the pastor of the congregation, and is as vigorous as ever. There was a good attendance at both diets of worship.

PATTERSON, who attempted suicide lately is easier to day, and is likely to recover his reason. Mr. Ward, of the Victoria Hotel, has been keeping Mrs. Patterson and two children since her husband attempted to take his life. We think it is the duty of the city, or private individuals, to aid him in the good work.

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIETY.—At the meeting of St. Patrick's Benefit Society, Branch No. 19, I. C. B. U., held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, P. Mahon; First Vice President, M. Piggott; Secretary, M. Duignan; Corresponding Secretary, J. M. O'Halloran; Financial Secretary, Wm. Sweeney; Treasurer, M. Healy; Trustees, E O'Connor, P. Conway, J. McAstocker; Sick Committee, P. Conway, W. Sweeney T. Gribbon; Auditor, M. J. Doran.

A COMMON SENSE CURE FOR STINGS.—The pain caused by the sting of a plant or insect is the result of a certain amount of acid poison injected into the blood. The poison being acid, common sense points to the alkalies as the proper means of cure, Among the most easily procured may be mentioned soft soap, liquor of ammonia, smelling salts, washing soda, quicklime made into a paste with water, the juice of an onion, tobacco juice, chewed tobacco, bruised dock leaves, and carbon of soda.

HAMILTON CORBETT.—This talented Scottish vocalist will appear at the City Hall on Friday evening, giving a farewell concert ere his departure for Scotland. The Toronto Globe says "Mr. Corbett's performances are of the very highest degree of excellence." It is almost needless to quote outside opinions on Mr. Corbett's concerts, he is so well and favorably known here. Those who listened to his songs at former visits will be sure to have them repeated by him, and doubtless he will be greeted by a bumper house.

THE IRISH DISTRESS.—At the Church of Our Lady yesterday Rev. Father Hamel read a letter dated at Sligo, from the Bishop of Elphin, Ireland, and forwarded to Bishop Crinnon, describing the distress prevailing in Ireland and appealing for aid. The letter was accompanied with the following communication from the Bishop of Hamilton: "I send you the following letter which I have just received from the good bishop whose name it bears. From its contents and from other reliable sources we can have no doubt but that misery and destitution afflict the poor people of Ireland. I know there are many calls on your congregation, but this is a question of life or death, and charity calls on us to come to the relief of the suffering. You will raise a collection in your church on the first Sunday of Lent, and have the amount sent to us." A special collection will accordingly be taken up at the Church of Our Lady next Sunday.

G. C. T. CLUB.—At Sunday's meeting announcement was given that Vice Chancellor Blake and Mr. W. H. Howard would shortly appear in our city and spend a few days advocating the cause of temperance. Rev. Mr. Fraser then spoke for some twenty minutes, showing how injurious intemperance was to health and happiness, the former was looked at from a medical point of view. Spirits he said were used to preserve the dead from decomposition. Napoleon's body was thus conveyed from St. Helena. Flesh could be preserved by the powerful use of alcohol in all lands and under every circumstance. Now such a powerful drug as this taken into the human stomach would be in direct opposition to the laws of nature, for if the speaker was rightly informed, food after having passed through the different processes of digestion becomes putrified, this was the natural law. Then why cripple and weaken those agencies God has implanted within the human body. Facts went to prove that it was injurious to health. A friend of his who had inspected, after dead, the stomach of one who had been an habitual drunkard found it as black as a stove. The speaker was grieved and ashamed to say that it was thirty years before he found out its evil effects, but an honest confession was good for the soul, and "God was rich in mercy and slow to anger." He would never be found on the side of temperance and all that pertains to Godliness. Mr. Ryan then spoke for a few minutes on the same subject. According to best authorities 12,000 were slain annually in Great Britain alone by the use of intoxicants.

Mr. Hammond's friends in St. Catharines, presented him with $400.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

The Pope has recovered from his illness.

The Kennedy family have arrived in the City of Allahabad, and intend giving Scotch concerts in the principal towns in India.

The Queen in driving on Thursday from Buckingham Palace to Westminster to open the Parliament was coldly received. Most papers say "enthusiastically," but impartial observers describe the demonstration as respectful but not cordial.

A Dublin dispatch says that relief measures have already had a beneficial effect. A more hopeful spirit is growing among the people.

The Carnival at Rome has been very brilliant.

Reports have been received of a second and more bloody struggle between the rival parties at Herat. The local troops attacked the Cabulees unawares and inflicted a heavy loss before the Cabulees could bring their artillery to bear on their assailants. When this was done the Hiratees were defeated with great slaughter.

The N. Y. Tribune's London special says that the Tories triumph this week along the whole line. It is a long time since they were equally as happy. Cowan's jingo speech, the Queen's appearance at the opening of Parliament, and the Liverpool election are each hailed as a distinct proof of Ministerial strength.

It was believed that Dean Stanley had yielded to a previous remonstrance against the erection of a monument to the Prince Imperial in Westminster Abbey, but it now appears that Court influences are stronger than the national wish. Fresh protests are being prepared in numerous quarters without distinction of party. The Liberals are unanimously hostile, and many Tories oppose the project. The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a long and powerful letter, declaring it a desecration of our noblest national shrine.

Wm. Brown,		Chas. Spalding,
N. P. Tod,		Thos. Anderson,
Jas. Emslie,		Wm. Sunley,
D. Kennedy,		Wm. Heffernan,
Jas. Mays,		D. Stirton.

The games have to be played by Saturday night, those who have not played before that date will lose their chance of competition.

Jas. Ryan, directed by J. Nichols, and Geo. Anderson, directed by T. Dobbie, played for this cup on Friday. Score—Ryan, 27; Anderson, 10.

The London curlers play Toronto on Tuesday for the Caledonian medal.

DR. HARKIN and the Rev. Canon Dixon for Hospital duty this week.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—The anniversary services of the Dublin street Methodist Church will take place on Sunday and Monday next. Rev. W.S Griffin, President of the London Conference, will preach on Sunday, and on Monday evening the annual tea meeting will be held.

THE DESTITUTION IN IRELAND.—A requisition is being circulated and will be forwarded when sufficiently signed to Messrs. J. C. Chadwick, President of St. Patrick's Society, Hart, and Higinbotham asking them to call a public meeting to consider the matter of raising funds for the relief of the distressed in Ireland.

Mr. William Knox, of Pilkington, has purchased Mr. John Roy's fifty-six acre farm, on the twelfth concession of Peel, for the sum of two thousand dollars cash.

The directors of the Centre Wellington Agricultural Society met in Fergus last week. The Secretary's salary was reduced from $70 to $60. Mr. R. Cromar was re-elected Secretary.

Last week Mr. Francis Leslie, of Nichol, while engaged in chopping cord wood slipped and fell, across a log, breaking three of his ribs.

It is rumoured that negotiations are in progress for the establishment of another flouring mill in Clifford.

Coal from the mines in Manitoba has been shown in Paris. It is dull in appearance being similar to charcoal; this may be attributed to atmospheric influences coming as it does from the surface. Its burning properties are fairly good, no doubt as the workings become deeper the coal will improve. Arrangements are being made to forward in flat bottom boats to Winnipeg, a distance of 200 miles 30,000 tons during the coming summer. We are informed that the coal can be purchased at the pit for $1 per ton

The Annual Meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Loyal Orange Association of Western Ontario will be held in Walkerton, on Tuesday, the 17th inst.

Mr. J. McBain has been appointed clerk of the village of Chesley and is to have a salary of $25. Mr. Duncan Halliday has taken the office of treasurer at $5. One year will probably satisfy them that the salary bears very little proportion to the work.

On Saturday Samuel McWhinny, a farmer from near the Nith, dropped dead in Goderich, of heart disease.

It is estimated that over 300 people have emigrated from Summerside, P. E. I., the last eight months.

The Ottawa Herald, Conservative, thus compliments the N. P.:—"The city hall was literally taken possession of on Saturday by men out of employment."

Fatal Accident in Erin.

A Man Killed by a Falling Tree.

A fatal accident occurred in the Township of Erin on Saturday afternoon, which has cast a gloom over the whole neigborhood. Oliver Atkinson, brother-in-law of Mr. Jas. Taylor, of Mossborough, was instantly killed by the fall of a tree in the bush, while cutting saw logs on the 6th line of Erin, under a lodged tree, which was hanging by two limbs. The wind being very high at the time caused the limbs to split, and the tree fell, bringing down the limbs of another tree along with it. He saw the limb falling, but did not see the tree, and in jumping out of the way of the limb, landed underneath the falling tree, which instantly killed him. Wm. Snodgrass being working along with him at the time, tried his his utmost endeavor to release him, but without effect. He had to procure the assistance of some neighbor, before Mr. Atinson could be released. There were no marks or bruises on his body.

It is a hard trial for his aged mother who is in poor health, to have her only son brought in a corpse, who had only two hours before left her in the full health and vigor of manhood, and spoke a soothing word to her about her sickness. Mr. Atkinson was much respected, and was a hard working industrious, kind-hearted and obliging neighbor. Crowds of people visited the scene of the accident on Sunday, and called to express their sympathy for the bereaved mother and friends. This is another warning to be careful of lodged trees while working in the bush.

The Emigration to Manitoba and North West Territories.

The most reliable returns about the emigration into the North West during the year just closed are as follows:—

About $16,000 persons permanently settled in Manitoba and the North-West Territories, and of this number about 2,000 in Manitoba alone. Of the total number a proportion was from the United States, the greater number from the older Provinces of the Dominion, and some 2,000 persons from Great Britain and Ireland. There was no Icelandic emigrants during the year, and only a few Mennonites. According to the statements of the United States authorities at Pembina some 198 families passed through that part from Manitoba for the purpose of settling in the United States, and possibly besides there were a number of young men who did not take out settlers' tickets. In this connection it may be mentioned that a few days ago Mr. Barnard, the United States agent, stated that the exodus from the Ottawa Valley to the United States during the past season had been unusually large.

A Tariff that Overleaps Itself.

A correspondent of the Toronto Globe writes to that journal from Windsor showing how the protective tariff has damaged the business of that town. He holds that the bounding ambition of the high tariff men has overleaped itself, and besides damaging the business of the place there are really less duties collected than would have been the case were a lower rate levied. For instance, a branch factory of a Detroit corset factory was started in Windsor, but all the employees went over from this city in the morning and came back at night. Thus the town gained nothing and the customs lost the duty of the manufactured goods. In the same way a Detroit seed firm started a branch store there, taking over the seeds in bulk, thus saving the duties, and having them put in packages by employees that came from Detroit. The Globe correspondent goes on to show that although house rent is much less in Windsor than in Detroit, yet the cost of living is so much increased that the little town is losing instead of gaining them. Taking it all in all, Detroit should pass a vote of thanks to the Canadian Government for the advantages it reaps from the high tariff.—Detroit Free Press.

The British Empire.

The following is given by Whitaker's Almanac as the extent and population of the British Empire at the beginning of 1880:

Great Britain and Ireland—Area in square miles, 121,115; population, 35,500,000.

Indian Possessions, &c.—Area in square miles, 1,558,254; population, 241,000,000.

Other Eastern Possessions—Area in square miles, 30,000; population, 3,200,000.

Australasia—Area in square miles, 3,173,310; population, 2,500,000.

North America—Area in square miles, 3,620,500; population, 4,000,000.

Guiana, &c.—Area in square miles, 100,000; population, 200,000.

Africa—Area in square miles, 12,707; population, 1,500,000.

West Indies, &c.—Area in square miles, 12,707; population, 1,140,000.

European Possessions—Area in square miles, 120; population, 160,000.

Various Settlements—Area in square miles, 96,771; population, 200,000.

Totals—Area in square miles, 8,982,177; population, 287,400,000.

The same authority says:—This table, short as it is, presents a result unparalleled in this world's history. The British Empire is grander than those of Greece or Rome, or any other country, and it may be safely asserted that its rule is more beneficial. Wherever the flag of England floats there is freedom. Justice is impartially administered, and no man can be puniahed except for infringements of the law. Religion is also free. With all its anomalies the British Empire, under its present sovereign, presents the nearest approach to a true Common-wealth that the world has yet seen.

THE BIDDULPH TRAGEDY.

More Arrests Made.

The Police Still Busy at Work.

Saturday was a quiet day in Lucan. Chief Williams and Detectives Murphy and Phair arrived from London early in the morning. They were together with Patrick and William Donnelly for some time, consulting, it is supposed, on the programme for the day. They then drove to the house of William Thompson. The prisoner Jas. Carroll and his brother William slept at Thompson's the night of the murder. The detectives made a peculiar discovery in the room where James Carroll slept in the shape of a small torn piece of newspaper stained with blood. The stain was not large, but the blood appeared to be fresh, and was of good colour, The paper was found behind a rafter directly above the bed. The Chief took possession of it. Later in the day Wm. Carroll, a brother of James, was arrested. They next visited the house of Ryder, who was among the first arrested. Old Mrs. Ryder received the police coldly, and was cheeky in her remarks to the Chief and his men. "Did you see the fire?" asked the Chief. "I'll tell you when I am summoned," was the old woman's ready reply. This brought from Williams the remark that he didn't know that she would be called as a witness, whereupon Mrs. Ryder told him. McLaughlin's house was next visited. Revolvers were found in all these houses. While on their way they made another arrest in the person of Thos. Rider, who was found at his own house on the seventh concession, where he owns a hundred acres of land. Ryder is a son of the old man of that name already in custody, who, together with two other sons make four of a family involved in the trouble.

Wm. Donnelly said the feeling against his family began to show itself about a year ago. The Vigilance Committee, he said, was formed for no other purpose than doing them injury. It was quite evident to him that something was in the wind, as men who had been friendly, or at least on speaking terms with him, have, since the organization of the Committee, passed him by without notice. He says he can name the men who committed the murders, which he believes was premeditated for some time. Only about twenty-five members of the Committee were let into the secret, and as for the other members, he thinks they are incapable of committing any such crime. He says that the night his brother was shot he got a good look at the men from his bedroom window, which faces the road, and overheared some conversation that passed between some of them, and says he can identify several of those present.

All that remains of the house where the old people were murdered and which was burned down, is a black pile of ashes, which bears a striking contrast to the pure white snow that covers the ground. A strange feature in connection with this horrible affair is that all the men under arrest, numbering thirteen, are of the same religion as the Donellys, namely, Roman Catholics. All the people in that part of Biddulph are Tipperary Irish and members of the Catholic Church. A stranger feature about the case, and that is that the only friends the Donnellys appear to have are Orangemen. Several members of that order have assisted them through many of their troubles and went security for them whenever it was required. A large number of those present at the funeral were Orangemen, and after it was over three men prominent among them, came to Patrick and William Donnelly and offered to advance them money to the extent of $3,000 if they required it. The three surviving brothers of the family are still in the village, William and Patrick are assisting the police all they can to ferret out the murderers. They are pretty sure that they have got some of the guilty ones, as also is Chief Williams, who has displayed an astonishing amount of ability, energy, and tact in working up the case, in which he is well assisted by Detectives Murphy and Phair. The opinion is that one or two of the prisoners will turn Queen's evidence, and divulge the whole plot and particulars of the awful deed. Young Patrick is looked upon as one of these. In his cell on Friday night he wept for hours, and cried out again and again, "Oh Lord, have mercy on my soul for what I have done!" James Carroll, who was also considered weak, has been advised by his friends to be "mum."

On Sunday the Catholic Church at Lucan was crowded. Father Dillon, of London, preached. Father Connolly said very little, but asked that the congregation pray for the repose of the souls of the victims of the terrible crime, and that forgiveness be asked for those who had stained their hands with blood.

The London Advertiser says it has been ascertained that the brutality with which the victims were despatched was greater than the first reports. It is learned from a reliable authority, whose veracity cannot be doubted, that when the terror-stricken women who were being so brutally beaten to death, found that no mercy could be expected from the adamantine hearts of their assassins, Mrs. Donnelly fell upon her knees at the feet of the ringleader and implored, with mingled tears and blood pouring down her fading cheek, for one minute to pray for the salvation of her soul. With a savage laugh and a blood-curdling curse he fiend replied, "Pray, you———. You have prayed too long already," and with a heavy instrument the poor woman was felled senseless at his feet, and half a dozen of the assassins outrivalled each other in finishing her. Another fact which lets considerable light upon the subject was also elicited by our reporter, and that is, that when the body of Thomas Donnelly was dragged into the house, the hands were mangled after throwing him roughly to the ground. One of the murderers stooped over him and taking off the manacles put them into his pocket. The blade of a knife was also found imbedded in the body of Jas. Donnelly, sr. It is a significant fact that not a single straw in the barn and stables, situated close by, were touched, and the horses remained undisturbed. From this fact it is assumed that the murder had been in contemplation for days, weeks and even months past, and the plans of the murderers had been carefully considered, and every possibility of identification was intended to be destroyed.

In the official returns of the administration of justice for the County of Middlesex for the quarter beginning 1st January, 1876, and ending 31st March, we find the Queen vs. William, James, John or Thos. Donnelly on, among others the following charges: Misdemeanor, assault and doing grievious bodily harm, shooting with intent. In that quarter the amount paid by the county, including the amount payable by the Government for the one item of witnesses in these cases against the Donnellys was $593.95. This is exclusive of all the costs incurred for constables, attendance, preliminary magistrates' suits, etc. The expense of administration of justice on account of that lawless faction in Biddulph in the last four or five years have been extraordinary.

Daily Mercury.

MONDAY EV'G, FEB 9, 1880

THE Manitoba Legislature has fixed the sessional allowance of members at $400.

THE Lindsay Post:—We regret to learn that Hon. Alex. Mackenzie is seriously ill at his residence in Toronto. His recovery in time for the opening of the session is looked for.

THE general feeling among the legal profession throughout the Province, is that Mr. Mowat will make such changes in the Judicature Act as will meet their views in the direction of decentralization of Chamber business.

Punch gives very good advice to Parnell. It recommends him to send a liberal donation to the Duchess of Marlborough's Relief Fund, to settle in the United States, to become an American citizen, and to stand for the Presidency.

A NUMBER of names are already mentioned in connection with the vacant Lieutenant-Governorship of New Brunswick, from Senator Wilmot through a long list of Domvilles, &c., to John Costigan.

THE death of Mr. Bernard Devlin, ex-M. P. for Montreal is anuounced at Colorado Springs. Mr. Devlin had been in poor health for a long time. He was for years a leading lawyer in Montreal. He represented one of the Divisions of Montreal from 1875 to 1878.

IT is expected that the session of the Local Legislature will last three weeks longer. The Government from this out will have all the work ready without calculating on the delays of the Opposition, so that a busy time may be anticipated.

MR. TARTE, of the Canadien, is having hard times. An action was served on him the other day for a penalty of $1,000 and for his disqualification as member of the Legislature on the ground of five cases of personal bribery in the Charlevoix election of last year.

SMALL profits on short credits will accumulate much faster than large profits on long credits. A calculation will best prove this: Suppose an Ontario shopkeeper turns over $1,000 every eighteen months, at 20 per cent. profit, that sum will at the end of six years amount to $1,728. But the same sum turned over every six months at only ten per cent. will amount in six years to $4,109.

DELEGATES from the Boston Board of Trade appeared before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs at Washington on Saturday, to urge the appointment of a Commission to report on a basis for a Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and Canada. The majority of the members of the committee seemed favourably disposed to the project, but as a doubt arose whether the question should not be dealt with by the Committee on Ways and Means no action was taken.

IN a letter to the Globe the other day Mr. John Watson, of Ayr, says:—Speaking authoratively for myself and my business, I wish to say this, that in no department of my works do I pay higher wages now than previous to the advent of the N. P. On the contrary, in some departments wages are reduced. As far as my business is concerned, the N. P. is a serious drawback, compelling me to pay more for my raw material, and at the same time, owing to the extensive home competition, I can get no more for the manufactures I have to sell. Owing to the comparatively small amount of American machinery imported, manufacturers hitherto have had little to fear from foreign competition. The fact is rather that, owing to the excessive competition among ourselves, the trade has suffered, and the N. P. while taxing largely our raw material and in no way whatever diminishing our home competition, I consider I am really worse off than ever.

ADDINGTON FINANCES.—We learn from the Kingston Whig that considerable interest was manifested last week in Napanee in connection with the deliberation of the County Council anent the Government Commissioners report respecting the books and accounts of E. Hooper, M. P., late County Treasurer of Addington. The report comprized some 60 pages of foolscap, and occupied over two hours in reading. It stated that there was a deficit of $32,837, and possibly of over $50,000. The loose manner in which the audits have been made from year to yesr was severely commented on, and the imperfect and unsatisfactory condition of the office books was mentioned. The "Day Book" was nowhere to be found and erasures were found in the "Journal," while the entries in it and the "Ledger," in many instances did not agree. Mr. Hooper appeared but made no explanation, simply stating that the report was unjust to himself. He asked time to go over the books with a competent accountant, so as to fully explain. On this request three months time was allowed Mr. Hooper to examine the books, the vote being a strictly party one, Tory 18, Reform 6. Much dissatisfaction is felt with this action, it being thought the books will be tampered with.

JAMES T. GUDIN, agent for Green & Co's. Agricultural Works, Waterford, has been committed for trial for embezzling certain funds belonging to his employers.

THE PIPER-HAMILTON dispute as to Ald. Piper's right to sit as Alderman in Toronto has finally been settled, judgment having been given in favour of Ald. Piper.

FALL WHEAT.—The St. Mary's Argus says: We have made inquiries into the effect of the wet weather on the fall wheat crop in this section of the country, and are gratified to learn that so far no evil effects are apparent.

TO GET RID OF RATS AND MICE.—Cut old cork into thin slices and fry them in a pan after it has been used for frying meat. Place these pieces of fried cork around where the vermin will find them and all will be destroyed; for they eat them voraciously.

REMEDY FOR CORNS.—Mr. Gerzow, a Russian apothecary, recommends the following as a "sure" remedy for corns, stating that it proves effective within a short time; and without causing any pain:—Salcylic acid, 30 parts; extract of cannabis indica, 5 parts; collodion, 240 parts. To be applied by means of a camel's hair pencil.

MYSTERIOUS LOSS OF MONEY.—A parcel of money containing $490 was recently sent by Express from Owen Sound to Markdale. On the arrival of the train at the station the express agent gave the parcel to the station agent, who left it on his desk. On looking for it afterwards it could not be found. No clue has yet have been found as to the disappearance of the money.

BEAR SHOT AND TWO CUBS CAPTURED.—On Tuesday a farmer from the 8th line Sydneyham, named Carmichael, drove into town with a she bear, which was shot the night previous. The cubs were bought by Mr. Minor and Mr. Prittie. They are very young their eyes not being open, and the purchasers will have considerable difficulty in raising them.—Owen Sound Advertiser.

WEST WELLINGTON ORANGE LODGE—The members of the County Orange Lodge of West Wellington, to the number of about one hundred, met in Orange Hall, Alma, on Tuesday last. The following are the officers appointed for the ensu ng year — County master, Hugh Cameron, Peel; C. D. M., Robert Brown Arthur; Chaplain, John Barrie, Maryboro; Secretary, Wm. Anderson, Rothsay; Treasurer, Benjamin Day, Alma; M. of C., James Johnston, Alma; County Lecturer, William Madill, Morefield.

ELORA FAIR.—The Elora monthly fair was held on the 3rd, and was largely attended, although an uncomfortable snow storm prevailed during the day. Beef was readily sold at from three and a half to four cents per pound. The different dealers who are in the habit of purchasing fat cattle in this neighborhood have been busy, since the last fair, purchasing cattle to be delivered in May next for shipment to the British market. The price paid was from $4.50 to $6 per cwt. There are over one thousand cattle in this neighborhood so purchased, and the dealers are still on the war path. As a consequence money is getting more plantiful, scores are being paid off, and business we hope will brighten up now that we have been once more blessed with good sleighing. —Express.

ABOUT ADVERTISEMENTS.—A decision of interest to newspaper publishers and the public was rendered the other day by Judge Stevenson of Haldimand. A merchant named Boyle inserted an advertisement in a Cayuga paper to run a year, which was duly paid for. Boyle did not give any further instructions about the advertisement, which was, however, continued by the publisher, and the paper carefully sent to the patron. At the end of the three years he received a bill for the last two. The merchant refused to pay on the ground that the card was left in, as he supposed to fill up. Judge Stevenson decided that the advertisement must be paid for.

A TELEPHONIC DANGER. — Telephones are dangerous conveniences during storms according to the "British Medical Journal." A lady at Manchester, England, was listening to a message transmitted by one of these instruments when a violent clap of thunder occurred. The listening ear became at once numb and deaf. The lady's hearing had previously been perfect. Several eminent physicians investigated the case through professional interest in the phenomenon, and agreed that the patient was suffering from a concussion of the auditory nerve caused by the thunderbolt. After some weeks the effect of the shock passed away. Since the injury was occasioned by the wave of sound and not immediately by electricity, it follows that applying a non-conducting communicator to the ear would not lessen the danger in such cases. The only safe expedient is to avoid the telephone when the clouds are holding their loud communion.

The notion is wide spread that "anybody can keep store"—at least it was, before these later years of failure. Similarily, it appears to many an easy thing to travel and sell goods. Even some intelligent business men (who have never tried it) think a commercial traveller's life an easy, jolly, simple sort of occupation, which requires no special qualification. Some such notion must have possessed the writer of the following letter to a new wholesale house in Hamilton. In respect to spelling and handwriting, the order-book of this man, if he ever got a situation "on the road," would be a sight to see:

Meaford Jan 20th 1880.

ATTEMPT TO POISON A YOUNG WOMAN.—A young woman named Margaret Joyce, was found on Bloor st. Toronto on Saturday in a low state, and was taken to the Magdalen Asylum. She thinks a young man named Ferguson, who had been keeping company with her attempted to poisen her by giving her liquor that was drugged. She says that she left her home in Georgetown some three years ago, living in Stratford and Hamilton subsequently, and coming to Toronto about August last. She obtained a situation with Mr. Taylor at Todmorden, where she remained for a month. She there represented herself as a married woman, having left her three children with her father in Georgetown. She complained of illness frequently, and seemed to be constantly brooding over her troubles. The truth appears from her deposition to be that she had been betrayed by a young man some months before, and that all her sufferings both mental and physical, arose from her being enciente. Soon after leaving Mr. Taylor's she went to an abortionist, whose efforts resulted in a miscarriage. After recovering from her sickness she fell in with evil company, and went still downward in the path of vice, being intimate chiefly with the man whom she alleges has poisoned her. She is still in a very low state.

The Iowa House of Representatives, on Saturday, adopted a resolution for a constitutional amendment making women eligible to the Legislature.

Crown Lands Report.

The report of the Commissioner of Crown Lands for 1879, which was brought down on Tuesday afternoon, states that there were sold during the year 25,071 acres of Crown lands, 2,486 acres of Clergy lands, 1,463 of Common Scoool, and 1,179 of Grammar Sheool lands, making a total of 30,201, the aggregate of which was $35,219. The collections on account of lands amounted to $117,627. The total collections of the Department amounted to $457,340, of which $378,746 is described as revenue, while the disbursements amounted to $201,490. The total amount accruing during 1879 for timber dues, ground rents, &c., was $342,594, and the total amount actually collected from the same source was $332,014. There are, as at the date of last report, 94 townships open for free grant location. During 1879 the amount of land located was 199,500 acres to 1,506 locatees, 123 of whom purchased 4,911 acres besides. During the year 1,015 lots located in former years were cancelled for non-performance of duties, and 813 patents were issued to free grant settlers. The townships surveyed into hundred-acre lots were Mowat, Walbridge, McCraney, Ballantyne, Butt and Paxton, in the Huron and Ottawa territory, while the townships of Bright, Bright Additional Day, Gladasone, Pa i son, and Wells have been surveye into lots of 230 acres each. Municipal surveys have been confirmed during the year in the townships of Georgina, West Gwillimbury, Howard, Pickering, Raleigh, Ross, Scugog, Thorah, and Uxbridge. On the north shores of lakes Huron and Superior 939 acres in unsurveyed territory have been patented for mining purposes. The total expenditure on colonization roads during the year was $111.903. The land agencies for Wellington, Huron, Perth, and Grey have been withdrawn, while that of the county of Bruce has been retained. The land along the north shore of Lake Huron between Bruce Mines and French River is better adapted for settlement than was formerly supposed, and in many of the townships not yet thrown open for location numbers of squatters have found homes and are clearing the land and raising excellent crops. The report contains a brief account of mining operations for gold, silver, iron, lead, galena, phosphates, and asbestos, in various parts of the Province. The falling off in the number of free grant locations from 2,115 in 1878 to 1,915 in 1879 is accounted for (1) by the preference for the prairies of the North West, and (2) by the fact that as no new townships have been thrown open for settlement no record has been kept of the squatters who have gone in to settle on the as yet unallotted lands,

WILSON'S WILD CHERRY.

One of the most thoroughly reliable medicines now in use by the Canadian public is Wilson's Compound of Wild Cherry. The success which attends its use in cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Weak Lungs, is most remarkable.

Originally prepared to meet the demand for a good medicine of the kind, in the retail store of the proprietors, its sale increased so rapidly and became so largely extended that the manufacturers felt it was only necessary to introduce it through the newspapers of the country to ensure its adoption as the national cure for diseases of the respiratory organs. Every leading druggist in Western Ontario now sells it.

Be wise in time: get a bottle and have it on hand when required. The large bottles are the cheapest.

PAUL JONES

THE ROVER OF THE SEAS;

—OR—

TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXV.

ORWELL BRUCE STRUGGLES THROUGH THE DEPTHS—DEATH OF PAUL JONES—ORWELL DEPARTS FROM EUROPE FOR THE FAR WEST.

Before advancing to the closing scene of our hero's life let us in a few paragraphs sketch the history of Paul Jones since the time when he last appeared in our story. It will be remembered that when we left him he was about to proceed to Russia to enter the service of the Empress Catherine. In listening to the overtures made to him to this end, he committed a great error, for which he had afterwards much cause to repent. Russia was at that time on the eve of going to war with the Turks, but what sympathy could such a man as Paul Jones have in such a contest? At the best, it was two despotisms fighting against each other for supremacy, therefore there was nothing either in the cause he was going to support or the men with whom he was to be associated suited to his ardent aspirations or open, straightforward character. In truth, when Paul Jones consented to enter the Russian service he forsook the principles ot which it had always been his glory to boast, and sought only the gratification of his personal ambition. The result was for him most disastrous, but in the nature ot things little else could have been expected.

As an inducement to his favourable reception ot the overtures made to him by the Russian Ambassador in Paris, he was promised the sole command of the fleet in the Black Sea, and the direction of the naval operations against the Turks in that quarter. Dazzled by the tempting offer he entered with his usual zeal into the project, and though it was at an inclement season of the year, he made a hazardous journey through storm and ice to St. Petersburg, where, after escaping imminent dangers, he arrived in safety.

The Empress received him in a most flattering manner, and sent him with a letter of introduction to the Prince Marshall Potemkin, Her Majesty's commander in-chief and director of the campaign. The Prince also received him with ostentatious kindness, and said he destined him to take the command of the fleet at Sabastopool to defend the Crimea against the attack of the Turkish admiral, who was expected to make an immediate descent on the coast. It turned out, however, that the Turkish admiral had another object in view, viz., the succour of Oczakow, which was being beseiged, and had come to Kinbourn with one hundred and twenty armed vessels. This made an alteration in the plan, and Paul was requested to assume the command of the naval force stationed in the Liman, and act against the Turks till Oczakow should fall.

From his first appearance on the scene of action he was plunged in a sea of trouble and vexation. The officers with whom he was associated, from the rear-admiral downwnrd, regarded his arrival with displeasure and himself with jealousy, and set themselves to annoy and thwart him in a style of unscrupulous opposition such as he had not encountered at any previous part of his naval career. Cabals were formed against him, intrigues were set afoot to spoil his plans, disobey his orders, and rob him of the credit of his achievements. He had found, too, that he was not in sole command of the Liman fleet. The Prince of Nassau was at the head of the flotilla, and the two became keen and bitter rivals—the Prince being immensely inferior to Paul in skill, courage and experience, but able from his higher rank to pester and set him at defiance.

With all these drawbacks Paul succeeded in executing many brilliant exploits, and obtained success in several engagements. To his amazement and mortification these successes were claimed by his rivals, who received swords and decorations for them, while he, their chief author, had bestowed on him but one solitary order—that of St Anne—conferred by the Empress.

The high spirit and honurable nature of Paul Jones was thoroughly disgusted by the treatment to which he was subjected. Had he been wise enough to throw up his command and leave a service in which he could gain neither renown nor satisfaction he would have been spared much indignity, much vexation, while his strong constitution would have retained its firmness. Unfortunately, he declined to take this step, but continued to occupy his unenviable position till goaded by anger he sent an intemperate letter to the Prince Marshal, which so displeased the latter that in a short time Paul was deprived of his command and recalled to St Petersburg.

The ostensible reason was that he was to be given another command in the North Sea, but there was no real intention of employing him in any further service. His enemies had succeeded in prejudicing the Empress against him, and some of them having entered into a conspiracy to ruin his mortal charater he fell into open disgrace. Though in time he was able to prove his innocence to the satisfaction of the Empress, he was but partially restored to favour, and a two years' leave of absence was granted him, which was tantamont to a final dismissal from the Russian service.

Grieved in spirit, broken in health, full of chagrin and mortification, he returned to Paris, where the news of his downfall having preceded him, he was coolly received and gradually thrown into the chill shade of neglect. Once the idol of Parisian worship, the admiration of the Court and the salons, he was now unrecognised and pitilessly ignored, till his proud heart, chafing under its wrongs, so preyed upon his strength that he had a severe attack of jaundice, which proved to be the beginning of a disease from which he was never to rally. In the earlier stages of his ailment he often had thoughts of returning to America, but a delusive hope of being again called to European service caused him to linger year after in the French capital till he became so ill and feeble as to be unable to leave it.

It was at this juncture that he made the acquaintance of Orwell Bruce in the manner we have narrated. Poor as he now was in worldly estimation, and keenly as he felt the neglect with which he was visited, he still preserved the dignity and honesty of his nature and was able, as we have seen, to be of essential service to the young owner of Marston Grange when the hour and power of darkness had come upon him. Paul Jones was generous as ever, the sense of wrong—suffering not being able to close his heart against the needs of others.

But the career of this remarkable man was now near its close. Labor, hardship, and injustice had made him old before his time. The forces of his life had been spent with undue celerity; he had achieved a certain renoun, but the fame he had sought was not realized, and now the portals of the grave were opening to receive him.

By Orwell Bruce his last days were ministered to with the tenderness and devotion of a son. On the day of his death he sent for a notary and had his will drawn out and duly executed, leaving his property in Europe and America to his two sisters in Scotland and their children. Previous to this he had delivered to Orwell a sealed packet, which the latter was to take to America, so soon as its owner was no more. He would also have pressed on Orwell sufficient funds for the expenses of the voyage, but these the youth did not require, having still sufficient money of his own for this purpose.

The disease under which Paul laboured had now made such progress towards a final issue that by himself and those about him every day was expected to be his last. And as all his affairs were arranged, as the papers over which he had been for months engaged were finished, as all his earthly concerns were ended, he had no further care or anxiety, except about the solemn event now in near prospect, and momentous change he was soon to experience. In view of that change he was calm and resigned, though there was an awe upon his spirit as he consciously passed through the dark valley—dark in the most favorable circumstances, and awe-inspiring even when a humble faith sustains the departing soul.

"I'm like a stranded vessel which the rising tide is to submerge," he would say, in allusion to the nature of his disease and the process of its development. "The tide is rising by slow but sure degrees; it will enter the hold soon, then the worn-out craft that has weathered so many storms will become a total wreck and go to pieces."

"Yes," responded Orwell. "But you have cast anchor on the eternal rock, and the cargo will be saved."

"True, true, that is my consolation. The ship has served me well through the troubled voyage of life. Now that the voyage is ended, I have no longer use for it, for where I am going there is no more sea. Read the chapter again Mr. Bruce, the grand chapter in the Revelations which speaks of the golden gates, the streets of pearl, the white robes, the waving palms, and the river of life."

Orwell lifted the Bible which lay by Paul's side—it was always at hand now—and read the favourite passage with much force and feeling, while the dying rover listened with sparkling eyes and a gladsome smile. For Orwell himself it was blessed work thus to wait on one who had proved his best friend. The days he thus spent were days of fruitful discipline, which should have a lasting influence for good and help to make his future life nobler and better. In the light of eternity, which was then so clear and near to him, he saw the unworthiness of those pleasures he had been pursuing, and was fired with a resolution to do a work in the world more in accordance with the powers of his manhood, the dignity of his God-given nature, and the destiny for which that nature was intended.

The day before Paul's death was the last occasion on which the two could hold conversation with each other, and the subject was Orwell's journey to America.

McCarthy, a man who recently attempted to cut the tongue of a horse belonging to a widow who had offended him, was brought up before Judge Deacon, at Pembroke, to answer the diabolical charge preferred against him. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to seven years in the Penitentiary.

A Frenchman living in Louisiana whose wife deserted him, amused his neighbors by telling how he got her back without trouble. "Did I run after her to come back?" he dramatically asked. "No, I did not run after her, I zhust publish in ze papaire zat I have drawn fifty tousand dollars in the lottery, and she vas back muck quicker zan in no time.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the 'fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

off the price of Furs. Ladies should not miss this chance of buying Furs cheaper than than they may get them again for years.

Puslinch Council.

Pursuant to adjournment, the council met in the Council Room, Aberfoyle, Monday Feb'y 2nd, at 10 o'clock a. m. Members all present. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and sustained. The auditors being present, made and subscribed the declaration of office, and proceeded to their duties. Accounts were presented by Neil Campbell, for 60 loads of gravel used on the 11th con., $3 00; by Angus McKellar, for making a culvert on lot 7 in the 1st concession, $4 50; by Wm. G. Stephenson, for repairing an arm chair, 75 cents, and by John Smith, collector, for seven quires collector's receipts, $3 50, which were approved by the council and ordered to be paid. On motion of Messrs. Iles and Black, a by-law to appoint certain township officers was introduced, and read a first and second time. Moved by Messrs. Nicoll and McFarlane, that the treasurer be instructed to deposit the township funds not required for immediate use, in the bank, at the usual rate of interest allowed for deposits subject to be drawn on call, and that a statement of the accrued interests be furnished to the auditors at their annual audit. On motion of Mr. McFarlane, seconded by Mr. Black, the council moved into committee of the whole, upon the by-law appointing certain township officers, Mr. McFarlane in the chair. The chairman reported the blanks of the by-law, filled as follows:—treasurer, Samuel Falconbridge, salary, $90; township clerk, James McLean, salary, $200; township assessor, James Scott, salary, $105; township collector, John Smith, salary, $100; township hall keeper, Malcolm McBeath, salary, $16. The council resumed. The by-law was read a third time and passed. On motion of Messrs Nicoll and Iles, the collector was authorized to allow Robert Foster ninety cents for statute labour charged against him, which labour he had performed on the town line. The auditors presented their report, which was read, and on motion of Messrs. McFarlane and Nicoll, the report was adopted, ordered to be engrossed, and an abstract thereof published according to law. On motion of Messrs. McFarlane and Iles, the clerk was instructed to publish in sheet form, for distribution, a detailed account of the treasurer's financial statement for the year 1879. The business before the council being concluded, they were pleased to adopt the following minute of condolence with their clerk: That this council having learned with deep regret of the demise of Mrs. James McLean, wife of Mr. James McLean, clerk of the council, deeply regret the sad occurrence, and that the sympathy of the council be tendered to Mr. McLean and his family, in their sad bereavement.

The council adjourned to meet again on Monday, March 22d, at 10 o'clock a. m.

JAMES McLEAN, Clerk.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Presentations and Addresses.

On the evening of the 14th of January, one of the Bible classes of the Rev. L. Cameron, Thamesford, and others, proceeded to the manse and presented him with a very kind and thoughtful address and a handsome gold chain, also Mrs. Cameron with a similar address and a large silver ice pitcher and butter cooler. Again on the evening of the 28th of January, the other two Bible classes, accompanied by a goodly number of other friends, in all above 60, proceeded to the manse and presented him with a beautiful address and with a valuable and handsome gold watch, with the following inscription:

"Presented to the Rev. L. Cameron, by his congregation at Thamesford." Also Mrs. Cameron with an address and a silver pickle cruet.

ADDRESSES.

To the Rev. L. Cameron, Minister of St. Andrew's Church, Thamesford, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty:

Dear pastor, we feel it a privilege as well as a duty, to testify to you how deeply your services are appreciated by us, and of the esteem and attachment entertained toward you by your congregation. For a number of years you have been our spiritual guide, and each succeeding year has added new ties, binding you closer to our hearts, and we trust has been forming links in a chain that will forever bind us together in holy union of God's church. In rebuking and exhorting, in edifying and encouraging believers, in attendance on the sick and in Pastoral visitation, you have given ample proof of your faithfulness as a minister of the gospel, and of the sympathy you have with your people. We know we cannot recompense you, the Master alone can award you for your labor of love, but we beg you to accept of this gold watch as a token of our regard, accompanied by the kind wishes of the congregation. May you long be spared and permitted to watch over us in spiritual things. May your partner in life be blessed with many days. May your family grow up around you with temporal and spiritual blessings. May you all be pillars in the temple of the Lord, and may all be to the honor and glory of God.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

WILLIAM TELFER,
JOHN A. MCMILLAN.

To Mrs L. Cameron, Thamesford:

DEAR FRIEND,—As you have been a partner of our beloved pastor in all his noble, earnest, and constant endeavors to spread the glad tidings of peace and joy among us, and have ever exercised the sincerest and most excellent affections toward us, showing that your heart has been in union with his in all things relating to our spiritual welfare. Therefore you are with him deserving of the like love and esteem from us, and now we kindly wish you to accept this small token of our gratitude not for its intrinsic value, but as a remembrance of our friendship.

We would also express our wishes for your happiness and prosperity, and that you may long be spared to your family and kept by the Almighty power of Him who doeth all things well.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

W. TELFER,
J. A. MCMILLAN.

Mr. Cameron replied and thanked them for their beautiful and kind addresses to himself and Mrs. Cameron, and also for the most valuable and handsome gifts which accompanied them.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

Special Business Notices.

DAY leads in nice valentines and low prices.

IN no establishment are the different departments so full and complete as at the Lion. The Lion's trade is not of the spasmodic kind, but represents a constant stream of business. Read the Lion's new advertisement.

THE stock of valentines at Day's bookstore are very fine. The prices are right, for Day buys direct from the manufacturers, and in large quantities, thereby enabling him to undersell others. Day is the man for your money, he gives big value every time.

NO HUMBUG.—Otwell's celebrated mixed and mustard pickles are now used by nearly every family. The reason is that they are superior to any bottled pickles in the market and only one-half the price. They are sold at 15c per pint and 30c per quart, imperial measure; 3 lb. cans Tomatoes at 20c; 2 lb. sweet corn at 20c a can. R. MURRAY, Sole Agent.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS

I BEG TO INTIMATE TO MY friends and the public generally that I have sold out my business to Thomas Simpson, whom I can confidently recommend to my customers, and as his stock consists of meats of the best quality, I would bespeak for him a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on me, and for which I return my sincere thanks. The shop lately occupied by me will be closed after this date. JAMES SIMPSON, Butcher.

Guelph, Jan. 31, 1880.

IN REFERENCE TO THE ABOVE I would say that, having lately bought out the business lately carried on by James Simpson on Waterloo Avenue, I will be happy to see all his customers at my stall in the Market, where they will find a large and select stock of the choicest meats to choose from, which will be sold as low as a good article can be sold for and will be delivered promptly in any part of the city. WILSON'S WILD CHERRY.

One of the most thoroughly reliable medicines now in use by the Canadian public is Wilson's Compound of Wild Cherry. The success which attends its use in cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Loss of Voice, and Weak Lungs, is most remarkable.

Originally prepared to meet the demand for a good medicine of the kind, in the retail store of the proprietors, its sale increased so rapidly and became so largely extended that the manufacturers felt it was only necessary to introduce it through the newspapers of the country to ensure its adoption as the national cure for diseases of the respiratory organs. Every leading druggist in Western Ontario now sells it.

Be wise in time: get a bottle and have it on hand when required. The large bottles are the cheapest.

TUESDAY EV'G, FEB 10, 1880.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

The Theatre Royal at Dublin was burned Monday, and fears are entertained that six lives were lost.

Sixty houses have been burnt at Avet, near Foix, department of Ariege, and the sufferers are in great distress.

A Constantinople despatch reports that during a fete a barrack three stories high suddenly collapsed, and 200 soldiers were killed and 300 wounded.

The Times has reason to believe that directions have been sent to the British Minister at Teheran to inform the Persian Government that Her Majesty's Government releases Persia from the treaty engagement of 1857, by which Persia bound herself not to take possession of Herat. This is tantamount to an invitation to Persia to do the thing she is thus expressly permitted to do. The Times adds: "We seem in effect to have handed Herat over to Persia, with the view of uniting the interests of Persia and India in opposition to Russia."

Distress in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Feb. 9. The past week has added but little to the evidence of extreme distress, while it has largely augmented the resources of the Relief Committee and the provisions of the Government. The beneficial effects of the grants of the Relief Committees is seen in the quieter tone of the press and the cessation of the cry of alarm. There are still deplorable accounts from some districts but generally more hopeful in spirit. The extent to which the land owners have embraced the opportunity of obtaining loans on easy terms is sufficient proof that the supposed barrier of red tape has not been thought insurmountable. During the past week the number of new applications reached 200, and the amount applied for £111,000, which makes the aggregate £376,000 since the 22nd of November.

Lawlessness in New Mexico.

LOS VEGAS, N. M., Feb. 9.—Three cow boys, Jim West, John Dorsey and Tom Henry, implicated in the shooting of City Marshal Carson at a dance two weeks ago, were dragged from their cells yesterday morning by a mob of seventy five armed men, who battered down the outer door, and forced the jailer to give up the keys. Ropes were thrown round their necks and they were dragged to the business centre of the town, where they were hanged, and their bodies riddled with bullets.

Explosion of Nitro-Glycerine.

One Man and Three Horses Instantly Killed, and a Sleigh Blown to Atoms.

FEB. 9.—On Monday last at Bradford, Pa., Howard Hackett and Jas. Feeney started to Coleville in a two-horse sleigh, carrying 100 pounds of nitro-glycerine. The sleigh upset, and caused an explosion. Feeney jumped as the sleigh was going over. Hackett was thrown fifty feet; he was instantly killed and horribly mangled. A hole was torn in the frozen road-bed twenty feet in length and fifteen in width, in which Feeney was found still alive. The exact nature of his injuries cannot be stated. The sleigh was torn to atoms, and both horses killed. The house of Chas. Zeeley, fifteen feet distant, was shaken to pieces by the concussion. Henry Dolloff's dwelling, five rods away, and a barn were also wrecked.

A petition is being circulated requesting the Ontario Government not to reduce the grant to the Ontario School of Art as proposed.

While in England the Princess Louise was presented with a St. Bernard dog by a Cheshire clergyman. The dog is called Blucher.

The Princess Louise, while in England, engaged the services of a musician, Prof. King, who, it is said, will reside at Rideau Hall, and in future lead the choir of St. Bartholomew's Church, New Edinburgh.

His Excellency the Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise will hold a drawing room in the Senate chamber at 8:30 p. m., on Saturday, the 14th, and on Tuesday the 17th February. The regulations are the same as last year.

Mr. James Beacon was killed at Tilbury on Saturday, by being thrown under a passenger train while passing between the coaches.

Eighty-one horses were shipped from Montreal to the United States on Monday, per Grand Trunk Railway.

Lieutenant-General Sir E. Selby Smyth will bid farewell to Canada in May next, but has no information as to his successor.

Abram Lawson, of Hamilton, was struck by an engine and killed, at Lynden, on Friday.

Arthur Harvey, of Toronto, formerly manager of the defunct Provincial Fire Insurance Co., says that the Company may eventually pay ten cents in the dollar to the general outside creditors of the concern.

The members of Parliament are arriving at Ottawa for the session.

New Brunswick advices announce that Reuben G. Lunt has received a verdict against the Dominion Government in the Supreme Court at Fredericton for $46,720, but the nature of his claim is not defined.

Monument to Sir Geo. Cartier.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—It is now definitely decided that if Mr. Parnell comes to Montreal, which is still doubtful, the Mayor will take no part in his reception.

A monument to the late Sir G.E. Carter, in this city, is proposed.

The Guenette Murder.

QUEBEC, Feb. 10.—A servant girl in Francour's Hotel, St. Henri de Levis, died yesterday afternoon, making a deposition before a priest and other witnesses, respecting the Guenette murder. The particulars of the girl's story are not to be made known until after her burial. The girl was one of the witnesses in the case of Pilton, tried for alleged murder, and charged with having killed Guenette and placed his body on the railway track, at the time she pretended to know nothing of the murder; but yesterday stated that her conscience would not allow her to die before revealing her terrible secret.

The Colchester Fire.

COLCHESTER, ONT., Feb. 10.—Great excitement prevails in the township over the burning of McLean's property, on Sunday night. A notorious gang of thieves, who have been operating all winter, are suspected as the guilty parties. The corporation have offered $800, and McLean $200, making $1,000 reward for the apprehension and conviction of the same.

Little Fellow Crushed by a Cart Wheel in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—About 10 o'clock today, a little boy twelve years old, while sitting on a coal cart with the driver, fell off, one wheel of the cart passing over the little fellow's chest, causing the blood to flow from his mouth. The boy whose name is Boswell, and who lives near the gaol, was picked up and carried into Howard & Wood Rose's coal office, when medical attendance was procured.

Sent to Central Prison.

Franklin, the carpenter, who some days ago cut Gibb's head open with a hatchet, was to-day sentenced to four months in the Central Prison.

The Distress in Ireland.

An influential deputation consisting of John A. Donaldson, Immigration Agent, John O'Donohoe, Ald. Walker, P. Boyle, Irish Canadian, Dr. Sullivan, J.D. Merrick, and a large number of other prominent citizens of Toronto, are at present with the Attorney-General requesting a Provincial grant towards the Irish relief fund.

From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, FEB. 10.—Flags are at half mast on various public buildings out of respect to the memory of Lieut.-Governor Chandler.

The collections to be made in Catholic churches next Sunday in aid of the Irish poor are not intended to interfere with general subscriptions now being taken up in the city, it is principally to receive offerings of those unwilling to have their names appear for small donations.

Very few members of Parliament have yet arrived.

A trophy gun has been placed in the military museum in the new drill hall, in this city, that is about being established under the direction of Lieut.-Col. Wiley, the director of stores. Its history is given in the following sketch, which is placed on the gun:—It is an iron six pounder American gun, stolen from one of the United States arsenals by sympathizers with the Canadian rebellion of 1838; Col. Von Shultz, a Polish officer, with about 400 followers, landed at the windmill below Prescott on the 11th of November of that year there, and in the adjoining houses, all stone buildings, he stron gly fortified himself and held his position until the 16th when he capitulated after some severe fighting. On the British side, which was under command of Hon. Lieut.-Col. Dundas, of the 83rd regiment, two officers and six men were killed and three officers and 39 men wounded. The sympathizers lost about 150 killed and wounded. Von Schultz, their leader, and the greater part of his followers were made prisoners, himself and some of the leaders under him were tried by Court Martial at Kingston and subsequently hung at Fort Henry at that place.

Local News.

REV. MR. HAMMOND has opened a series of revival meetings at Belleville.

THE price of season tickets for the rink has been reduced one half.

MR. DAVID KENNEDY, who has been sick for some time, is still in a very dangerous condition.

CALICO BALL.—A few Guelph people attended a calico ball held at Berlin last night.

THE weekly parade of No. 2 Company, Guelph Rifles will be held on Thursday evening as usual.

THE Emerald Beneficial Association meets to-night at the Queen's Hotel, at half-past seven.

REVIVAL SERVICES.—The revival services at the Dublin street Methodist church are being continued this week.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Cloudy to fair milder weather with snow areas and possibly rain in Southern districts.

A SHORT WEDDED LIFE.—City papers announce a wedding on the 5th inst., and the death of the bride on the Monday following.

THE IRISH DISTRESS.—The employees of the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway purpose starting a fund for the relief of the suffering and distressed in Ireland.

MR. JOHN HEWER, of the Hewer Hotel, has rented Hearn's ice house, and is now filling it with ice from Goldie's dam. The ice house will hold 3,000 tons of ice, and Mr. Hewer intends to fill it to its full capacity.

BUSINESS at the Police Court is remarkably quiet just now. There was a clear calendar this morning. An interesting forgery case is set down for hearing to-morrow in which David C. Kilpatrick, of Rothsay, is the prisoner.

THE Guelph curlers have received a telegram from the umpire, Mr. James Flemming, stating that Toronto will play Guelph four rinks aside in Brampton on Friday first, providing the ice is good. The Guelph club is ready.

ASH WEDNESDAY.—Ash Wednesday which ushers in the season of lent will be observed as usual by services at the church of Our Lady to-morrow. High mass will be celebrated at eight o'clock a. m., and the distribution of ashes will take place. Rev. Father Hamel will conduct the services.

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the School Board assembled at the Council Chamber last night, thinking the regular meeting of the Board would take place. At the statutory meeting held on Wednesday evening, an adjournment was made till a week from Monday next, consequently there was no meeting last night.

PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION.—A number of gentlemen interested in the formation of a Property Owners Association met at the Wellington Hotel yesterday afternoon. After some discussion a number of gentlemen enrolled their names as members. A committee was appointed to recommend officers for the year and to draft by-laws governing the association.

THE RINK.—Last night there was the largest number of skaters on the rink that there has been at any time this season. The hard frost of the past week has formed a good covering of ice which renders skating most enjoyable. The rink management purposes holding another carnival on the 19th inst., when the Artillery Band will be in attendance.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—The annual entertainment given by the students at the Agricultural College, an event which has been anticipated with a good deal of pleasure, will take place at the College this evening. For some time preparations have been in progress for the entertainment, and these have been satisfactorily completed. A large number of invitations have been issued, and doubtless, most of the ticket holders will be present to see how the students acquit themselves. The programme is made up of two parts, the first comprising an address by the President, vocal music and a farce entitled "Dearest Mamma." The second part is composed of songs and choruses.

LARCENY OF SEVENTY-SIX DOLLARS.—Willard Huntingdon was committed to Guelph gaol for trial by Mr. Barron, J. P., Elora, on the 7th Feb'y, for the larceny of $76 from John Vance, of Normanby Township. From the evidence, it appeared that last week while in Clifford, Huntingdon and a man named Reynolds, met Vance on the street, when the former dropped a lead-pencil. When he had picked it up he asked Vance for a knife, and Reynolds hand him one. Huntingdon then offered to bet Reynolds $100, he could not open the knife. Reynolds said he had only $80 and asked Vance for the loan of $20 to make up the $100. Vance produced his purse containing $76, which was immediately snatched by Huntingdon, who ran off with it. He was afterwards arrested and the preliminary examination followed at Elora.

SOUTH AMERICA.—The Directors of the National Observatory at Cordova, Argentine Republic, telegraphs that a great comet is passing the sun in a northward direction.

What a Stranger thinks of Guelph.

Mr. P. O'Leary, who was in Guelph last week, thus writes of our city: "I may be wrong, but I thought Guelph the best constructed town I saw in Canada—sound, solid stone buildings everywhere. While there I visited a few of the public institutions, and among the rest the Agricultural College, to where I was accompanied by Mr. Murphy, of Mount Tara. To Canada agriculture is the first principle and no means should be neglected to improve and develop it in every possible way, consequently it was with considerable satisfaction I noticed the number of young men studying in the school at Guelph. Probably there is no other branch of industry to which scientific knowledge could be better and more advantageously applied than agriculture, because the farmer is himself a workman, and as a rule not rich, while manufactures are often carried on by capitalists who purchase the necessary skill by hiring the men who possess it, so that in my opinion an agricultural school is to Canada a primary necessity. In going through it I thought that steam power would be a great acquisition, because around a large farmstead there is generally a deal of work that could be done by the aid of steam. An eight or ten-horse power portable engine would drive all kinds of feed machinery, thresh, winnow, cut wood, pump water and do a lot of little et ceteras which would take a large amount of horse or manual labor. Attending to an engine and machinery would familiarize the young men with what is sure to be utilised more even in the future than in the past; for, comparatively speaking, we are only in the beginning of science, and more particularly as applied to farming. The country around Guelph I thought very fine and the land good, the formation being limestone would I suppose, make the soil suitable for sheep feeding or wheat growing, as the chalky countries of Surrey and Sussex, in England, are considered excellent for those purposes.

CURLIANA.

Items of Interest on the Ice.

Wingham and Teeswater had a curling match on Monday. Teeswater won by six shots.

Two rinks of Englishmen and Scotchmen played in Toronto on Monday for two bags of flour to be given to needy poor in that city. The Englishmen won by 19 shots. The idea is worth bringing to Guelph.

Perry, of the Galt club, acted as umpire at Winnipeg, yesterday, in the competition for the Gov.-General's medal.

GOW CUP.

Two games were played for this Cup on Saturday: W. Sunley, directed by A. Congalton, 16, vs. A. Robertson, jr., directed by Jas. Emslie, 16; and C. F. Leonard, directed by D. McCrae, 20, vs. Wm. Day, directed by A. Bruce, 12. This finished the playing of the first drawing.

The first game of the second drawing was played yesterday between T. Dobbie and John Anderson, in the afternoon, and in the evening A. Congalton vs. Hugh Turner. The score stood:—Dobbie, 16, vs. Anderson, 10; Turner, 15, vs. Congalton, 13.

The Debenture Debt of Guelph.

Mr. Laidlaw has sent us a copy of the bill now before the Legislature to consolidate the Debenture debt of Guelph. It is as follows:—

Whereas, the corporation of the city of Guelph have by petition represented that the said city has a debenture debt of two hundred and sixty-nine thousand nine hundred and nineteen dollars, and that portions of the said debenture debt fall due during the present and several succeeding years, and that it will be for the interest of the said corporation to have power from time to time to borrow money on new debentures to retire or pay off three-fourths of the present debenture debts as they may mature, until the whole of the present debenture debt shall have been reduced to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and thereafter to issue new debentures to renew or retire such last mentioned amount, and have prayed for an Act conferring on them all necessary powers; and whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition:

Therefore Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enact as follows:—

The corporation of the city of Guelph are hereby empowered to pass a by-law or by-laws from time to time to issue debentures for the purpose of retiring or renewing debentures now outstanding against the said city, such debentures to be in sum or sums and to such amounts either in Canadian or sterling currency as they may deem best: Provided that such by-law or by-laws are not inconsistent with the provisions of the general Municipal Law from time to time in force in the said Province: and provided that the said city shall not until the principal money of the debentures now outstanding, or debentures issued to retire the same, shall be reduced to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, be at liberty to issue debentures as the same mature: and also provided that it shall not be necessary to obtain the assent of the electors of the said city to the passing of any such by-law as aforesaid, nor of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council under any municipal or other Act now or hereafter to be in force in this Province.

Says the Hamilton Times: One of our leading foundries was closed from the 24th December to the 25th of January, which, we believe, never occurred before. The leading factory in a certain line of manufacture, and one of the best known in Canada, is working but five days a week, and, having nearly lost its home market through inability of the people to buy, has been driven to depend wholly upon foreign trade. Other hives of industry are working short hours, or with reduced staffs, or have imposed a reduction of wages. There are many men now walking the streets through no fault of their own who never before were out of work in the winter.

THE BIDDULPH TRAGEDY.

The Detectives on the Lookout for Evidence.

Special Meeting of the Vigilance Committee.

LUCAN, Feb. 9.

Interest to-day is centered in the movements of Chief Williams and Detective Phair. The latter was the first to arrive here from London. He came up on the early morning train, and was not long here before he was consulting with Wm. and Patrick Donnelly. They held their own counsel and one might as well have tried to cut pig iron with his teeth as have ascertained from them their intentions. Shortly after 8:30 Detective Phair and Patrick Donnelly were seen to leave the village in a cutter. They drove in the direction of the Roman line, but their destination was unknown. They returned to the village about one o'clock, bringing with them a gun. By enquiries along the road it was discovered where they had been and what they had been doing. After getting outside the village the two men drove rapidly along the Roman line to the house of Thomas Quigley, a well to do farmer, who owns a hundred acres of land. He is about 66 years of age, and has a wife and two sons—John, aged 40, and James, about five years yonger. "Have you a gun?" asked Detective Phair of the old woman Quigley. She hesitated for a moment, and answered in the negative. The officer then stated that he would have to search the premises, when John Quigley, who was standing behind Phair and Donnelly, reached over their shoulders and asked his father if John McLaughlin's gun had been sent home yet. The old man looked up with a surprised air, and in a shaky voice said "No, begor; I believe it has not. After a pause he said to his wife, "Do you know where that gun is?" She made a rumbling and indistinct answer, and before she could say any more the husband exclaimed, "I think it's here," at the same time walking towards the bed, which is of the old Irish style, and hung with curtains. From a projecting log, and hid away behind the curtains, Quigley brought forth a gun. The weapon was in such a position that a person lying in bed could reach over to it without getting up. The detective enquired if the gun had been discharged recently. The old man made no definite answer, but stated he had got the gun to shoot woodpeckers—his son John prompting him all the while, and remarking that his father went shooting squirrels sometimes, and also that "the woodpeckers were eating them out of house and home." Detective Phair asked "is the gunloaded?" "Yes," said the old man. "Have you any more shot in the house than what is in the gun?" questioned the officer. Quigley turned around to his son and said, "John, do you think there is any more?" John thought there was, and he and his father walked over to a cupboard and opened a drawer where there was found some shot in a small canister, as well as some larger in size lying loose in the bottom. "Have you any way of drawing out the charge in the gun?" was the next question asked by the officer. "Oh, yes," said the old man eagerly. "Give me a pin and I think I can draw it out." "Never mind," replied Patrick Donnelly, "leave the gun as it is." Then mention was made of shooting the gun off, whereupon Quigley appeared very anxious to do so, but Phair would not let him. He merely wanted to hear what the old man would say. "Be careful how you handle the weapon," said he, "for I think it is loaded with slugs." As the visitors opened the door to leave, the family came forward one by one and shook hands with Patrick Donnelly and said they were very sorry for his affliction. When he came in at first they either did not know him or pretended not to. John Quigley's wife came over from her house at this moment, and extended her sympathy to Pat, said she had met the Donnellys everywhere and never found them anything else but gentlemen. John was very anxious that the party should search his house, but they did not do so. Just as they were leaving Detective Phair asked if they knew anything about the Vigilence Committee James said he was not a member, but John said, "I am, I don't deny it." "How were the meetings conducted?" asked Pat Donnelly. "Were they not twelve or thirteen men who met together in an anteroom and decided upon the questions the meeting should discuss?" John replied, "I don't know exactly how; I did not attend many meetings, and as regards the twelve men I know nothing, and I never saw anything like that." The two men then left the house with a "good morning." From there they crossed over to the House of John Kennedy, father of the prisoner of that name. They found both Mr. Kennedy and his wife at home, the latter being sick in bed. The girls were also in. Some conversation ensued as to the bits that were stolen from Kenedy's stable on the night of the murder. The old man said he could find no trace of them. The bits, it is thought, were stolen so as to prevent him from driving out in case he should see the fire at Donnelly's house. Old Mrs. Kennedy was somewhat talkative about the affair, and made the startling statement that Martin McLaughlin and her son were the murderers. It appears that young Kennedy is not on good terms with his parents, but what on earth prompted the old woman to make such an accusation as that, is something that cannot be understood. The girls told the visitors that since the formation of the Vigilance Committee they had been shunned by the wives and daughters of the members thereof, and found no pleasure at all in going to a dance or party where they were taken no notice of whatever. The cause of this was that their father refused to join the society. On their way back to the village the detective and Patrick Donnelly met a man named Tim Maddigan, and asked him if he he knew of any guns. He made the reply that he was no tell-tale. Just about the time that they returned Chief Williams arrived in the village from London. The inquest on Wednesday, is looked forward to with considerable interest. The witnesses will be summoned to-morrow. It is not known who they will be, but Coroner Hossack and Chief Williams have an understanding in the matter. The boy, Johnny Connors, will certainly be one, and his evidence is regarded as of great importance. County Attorney Hutchinson will come out from London to watch the case for the Crown, and it is anticipated that there will be three or four other barristers present in the interests of the parties under arrest. Not one particle of evidence more than is absolutely necessary will be brought out, as the Crown do not wish to divulge their case until the proper time arrives. The enquiry into the murder of the four persons at the old man's house was first proceeded with. Patrick Donnelly and Detective Phair made another trip into the country, but where they went or what they did was not divulged. They brought back two guns and a revolver with them, but these will probably be returned to their owners in the morning. The Chief also took a drive, but he very properly kept his movements quiet. A meeting of the Vigilance Committee was held at Cedar Swamp school house on Monday night. On enquiry the report turned out to be correct. Twenty or thirty men assembled in the building and discussed the question of deciding upon a scheme to defend their members under arrest. A man who came in from that neighborhood this afternoon reported that the meeting decided to start a defence fund, and collectors were appointed. It is thought they will meet with considerable success, as the prisoners have many friends throughout the township.

Bill Donnolly has received an anonymous letter stating that if he made a tramp among the Orangemen and Protestants of Biddulph and McGillivray he could collect all the money he wanted to meet his legal expenses. The writer said he would divulge his name hereafter.

The friends of the Ryders have commenced to rebuild their barns and other outbuildings which were destroyed by fire on the night of the 15th ult. It will be remembered that the old man Donnelly and his wife were arrested on suspicion of incendiarism in connection with this fire.

Boyd-Elliott Race.

Boyd Wins Easily by Four Lengths.

NEWCASTLE, Feb. 9.—An immense concourse gathered to witness the Boyd-Elliott boat race to day. Boyd was the favourite in betting at odds of six to four. A fair start having been made, Boyd immediately drove his boat to the front and led by about a length in the first forty yards. Elliott, who started badly, settled down to work, and when a quarter of a mile had been traversed Boyd only led by a quarter length. Boyd again spurted, and showed a decidedly superior pace, led by two lengths at the Red Heugh Bridge, half a mile from the start. Boyd settled down to an easy swing of 28 strokes to the minute, and kept three lengths ahead for the remainder of the distance until nearing the Suspension Bridge, when he spurted, passing under it four lengths ahead. Boyd's time was 22:57 or 22:47 as the reports differ. Elliott's 13½ seconds longer.

BOYD'S CHALLENGE TO HANLAN.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Sportsman announces that Christopher Barrass has authorized the editor to retain £50 of the stakes in the Boyd and Elliott match, and challenge Hanlan on behalf of Boyd to row within a stipulated time for £200 a side for the championship of England and the Sportsman Challenge Trophy. Barrass is willing to add £300 more to the stakes if Hanlan would like to row for £500 a side. Boyd will row with Hawdon on the Tyne on Saturday for £200.

WOOLEN MILLS DESTROYED.—Charles Smith's woolen mills, near Warksworth, were destroyed by fire about eleven p.m. on Thursday night. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp. The loss is estimated at about $12,000; insured for $5,000.

FIRE AT COLCHESTER.—George McLean's barn and stable were destroyed by fire on Monday; also four work horses, nine head of cattle, all the farming implements, and other property. The loss is heavy, and there is no insurance. Incendiarism is supposed to be the cause.

GOLD MINING.—The Thornton gold mine near Tamworth is fully launched. Some of the ore, says the Echo, has been tested in a Madoc crusher and yielded about $20 per ton. The mine is considered superior to those in Madoc. The lode varies from 10 to 200 feet in width. It is said that the rock is very easily crushed and is comparatively free from injurious substances.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Monday morning Miss Julia Ann Harris, head milliner of the store of Mr. T. F. Kingsmill, London, died rather suddenly, and was interred at three o'clock next afternoon. The despatch shown in the matter of burial has set people talking, and a coroner's inquest is suggested.

FORGERY.—On Saturday afternoon a man named Phillip Forrestel, of Howick, sold a note to T. W. Graff, signed by W. Ross and R. Bower, farmers, which turned out to be a forgery. Forrestel was arrested on Monday at Wroxeter and brought to Clifford, but escaped from the constables by disappearing through the water closet.

A SAD CASE.—A strange case of insanity has occurred recently in Walkerton. A daughter of Mr. John Bierworth, farmer, has for a month or so past given indications of being out of her mind and at times she would become quite violent. Her physicians could not treat the case, and recommended her to be sent to the Turkish baths in Hamilton where she now is. It is stated that the malady has been brought on by over-study of the Bible, nearly her whole time having been devoted to the perusal and study of that book. Her ravings also turn on religious subjects. At intervals she can talk quite rationally, but she is liable to be seized with a fit at any moment and sometimes becomes so violent that she has to be tied to the bed.

Immigration Prospects.

We have lately given numerous extracts from the reports or addresses of the farmer's delegates who were sent out last fall to Canada to see the country and report on its capabilities as a field of immigration for those farmers at home who are oppressed with heavy rents, and who have been almost impoverished by a series of bad crops and other causes, and who might be desirous of bettering their position by coming to the Dominion. These reports, while perhaps a like astray on some points, are on the whole fair, and favorable to Canada. We have also referred more than once to the very interesting letters which have appeared from time to time in the Aberdeen Free Press from the pen of Mr. Alex. Mackenzie, editor of the Celtic Magazine. Mr. Mackenzie's mission was more specially directed to an inquiry into the condition of the Highlanders in the Dominion, but while doing this work thoroughly, he also extended his observations and inquiries to other matters of interest to the people at home, and in his later letters gave a careful and on the whole a correct view of the resources and capabilities of our country from a farmer's standpoint, what class of farmers are most suitable, and what measure of success they might expect by industry and perseverance.

We have reason to know that these letters have been read with deep interest in the northern part of Scotland, and we have no doubt they will have a powerful influence, along with the report of the delegates already referred to, in determining the action of many of that class to whom they were specially addressed to make Canada their future home.

The Free Press in an excellent article thus ably sums the conclusions come to by Mr. Mackenzie in his letters:

Of course, emigration to Canada fifty years ago and emigration now are two totally different things. No one now is called to face the dreary voyage, lasting from three to six weeks, to reach his new home; nor to encounter the struggles with nature against such enormous disadvantages as those that beset the early settlers, and which as a rule they so nobly overcame. But it would, of course, be sheer folly for anyone to think of emigrating without being prepared to face difficulties in some shape. "In any conceiveable circumstances it will be found difficult—in most cases impossible—to improve one's position in whatever occupation employed, without a strong effort and determined resolution," says the writer of the letters to which we refer. And this truth the intending emigrant ought to carry with him. But while announcing this general principle, the writer has no difficulty in expressing his belief that Canada as an emigration field offers a greatly improved prospect to the class of small farmers, crofters, and efficient agricultural laborers. In the older settled parts, including Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and especially in Ontario, the man who can command a few hundred pounds of capital can buy a farm, already under cultivation and with suitable farm buildings upon it, on such terms as will allow him to sit down very comfortably on his own land; and although he may not become rapidly rich, he can enjoy a secure and comparatively easy-going and prosperous life to the end of his days—misfortune apart. And in these provinces the prospect for capable agricultural laborers is also very good. In the case of a good many old settlers, especially those having families of sons growing up, the disposition to sell out land "and seek fresh fields and pastures new" in the region of Manitoba, will continue to make openings for the class of emigrants who are disposed to settle down on the footing indicated; while more adventurous and speculative spirits from the old country will no doubt also be disposed to push their way to the great western region at once. The capabilities of that region are undoubted; and though communication is as yet somewhat difficult there is the prospect of large improvement in that respect. The rapidity with which the region is being populated may be gathered from the fact that Winnipeg, which in 1870 was a mere village with 253 inhabitants, is now a busy town with a population of some 10,000 people.

The terms on which land can be acquired direct from Government, in the newer regions, or privately bought, where already fully settled, are such as must substantially meet the requirements of different classes of emigrants. That "there is ample room even in the old provinces of Canada," as stated by our Commissioner, is not to be doubted, even were the emigration to assume very large dimensions. With only a population about equal to that of London scattered over the vast region, it must take a long time indeed before there can be any risk of overcrowding. And, were the Canadian Government wise, we cannot but think they would be prepared to act on the hints given them as to the expediency of putting their emigration arrangements on a more systematic footing, by, for example, offering special encouragements to bodies of suitable emigrants prepared to settle down in given localities; and by establishing a land agency in this country where exact and reliable information could at all times be obtained by those desirous to make investments as practical settlers.

The Australian Colonies have within the last few years shown astonishing progress. By a Blue Book lately issued we find that in 1878 the gross population of the whole of the Australasian Colonies including New Zealand, was 2,603,122, being an increase of 87,385, or 3.47 per cent. for the year. The public debts of the Colonies amounted to abcut £67,500,000. But against this there was a net total revenue of £17,357,316, or about a fifth of that of the United Kingdom, whilst the public debt was considerably less than a tenth of that of the Mother country. The value of imports for the year amounted $50,545,966, and the exports to £44,196,787. About 4,000 miles of railway have been opened, and 1,100 miles more are in course of construction. The telegraph lines opened, or nearly ready for opening, extend to 30,000 miles. As many as 6,594,757 acres were under cultivation, whilst the Colonists own among them not less than 7,500,000 cattle, and 61,000,000 of sheep. Coal and iron are plentiful.

Last Week's Parliamentary Affairs Toronto.

(From our Correspondent.)

In the February number the Bystander says:—"Our readers are grown up men and women, and they will not thank us for talking to them about the party struggles in the Legislature of Ontario." With whatever else this session may be chargeable, it cannot truly be said to have wasted much time over "party struggles," for as yet not a single good debate has sprung up, and the time of the members, short as it is, has been spent principally in doing business, or in hearing and criticising what has been done for them by the Administration. And, in this criticism, the most efficient agents have really been found on the Government side of the House, so that the insinuation, characteristic as it is, has scarcely a foundation in fact. The only thing approaching a party breeze took place on Tuesday last in Committee of the Whole, when an additional $200 was asked for the salary of the Auditor. Then our friends to the left of the Speaker had an opportunity to attack the tactics of the other side, in circulating, during the general elections, a financial statement over that gentleman's signature. But the attack was weak, and the Commissioner of Public Works proved, as he always does, more than a match for the combined strength of the Opposition. Its utter lack of strength or grasp of principles was never more clearly shown than in allowing the estimates to pass through Committee as easily as was done. When the ordinary revenue is not meeting the ordinary expenditure; when railways are knocking at the door of the Treasury by the score; when new items are constantly being added; when the Government of the day are forced to exercise the most rigid economy; when many headings of expenditure could be attached as being more properly local work, the Opposition could only take their principal objections to an item of $200 in an official's salary, which then was $400 less than his predecessors had been, and to another insignificant one for taking the teachers in the Central Prison Sunday School, down to the place every Sabbath afternoon. Truly the Conservative press in the Province, headed by the organ in the Royal City, may well cry, "Save us from our leaders!" Let us hope, however, that with the addition to its effectual strength of the two new members for Stormont and West Hastings respectively, it may take fresh courage and play the very important part that notwithstanding the opinion of Bystander, any well-led, well-organized Opposition can play even in the Local Legislature, and not leave the most effectual criticism to be performed by the friends of the Administration.

Though the work of the week has not been oppressive, yet a fair amount has been done. Besides getting the Supply Bill up to its final stages in an unprecedented space of time, the Government has also advanced a stage Mr. Wood's Agricultural College Bill, Mr. Pardee's bill for amending the Free Grant and Homestead's Act, and for counting the course of the School of Practical Science into that required for the Apprenticeship of a Land Surveyor; whilst Mr. Hardy has introduced his bill relating to Division Courts. As these have been styled, not inappropriately, the people's courts, I send you a copy of the bill, a summary of which might not prove uninteresting to your country readers. I do so for I am afraid you may not as yet have received one, for the printers this year seem only able to get a sufficient number of bills and reports ready for the personal use of the members. The fault does not lie altogether with them, as everything in the shape of bills and reports come on them in one continuous shower at the opening of the session. In bringing down the items for education and immigration, the Minister's in charge of each made most excellent speeches, giving an account of the past and proposed work of their respective departments. In the former, Mr. Crooks declared his intention of doing away with the Depositary, and, in the latter, Mr. Hardy explained the reasons for not continuing the agreement with the Dominion Government, and for establishing a Central Agency of our own in Britain.

The work done by the House outside of that furnished by the Administration has also been considerable. Some thirty private bills are already at different stages of the through route, the committee in Municipal matters has served as a convenient cemetery for about a score, a special committee of amateur and professional sportsmen has been appointed as a house of refuge for a couple on the game laws, and the Minister of Education has taken out of the hands of his friends various ones tinkering the school law, and brought down one that may in popular estimation meet the fate so well described in the time-worn fable of the old man and his ass. Systems and forms of education like those of religion should be essentially conservative, and this eternal meddling and pottering every session with what should be done once for all in a generation promises to be productive of vastly more evil than good.

Except in that on Private Bills, very little has been done by any of the Standing Committees, though a good deal of sparring has been going on in that of railways, and eminent counsel for two or three different schemes have been making better speeches before it than can be heard on the floor of the House. On the latter, that have been discussed on motions made by members, are two vexed questions, the one the abolition of market fees, and the other, the appointment of Division Court Clerks and Bailiffs, Goalers and Turnkeys directly by the Government. The first is demanded among others by the Dominion Grange, and the second by the politicians. The former, whilst believed by almost every one to be of as great a benefit to the citizen of urban municipalities as to the farmers, threatens to interfere with the constitutional right of local self-government; whilst the latter only increases the patronage of the Administration of the day without ensuring a remedy for the evils and abuses now complained of, believed as these are by many to be exaggerated rather than otherwise.

The reports of the Commissioner of Crown Lands reports, of the Inspector of Insurance, of the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm, and the Public Accounts, have this week been brought down; but not a single return has as yet been printed. Next week will, it is expected, witness the presentation of the bills regarding exemptions and regarding execution creditors, the special immigration circular, and the remainder of the reports.

Toronto, Feb. 7th, 1880.

The scheme of superannuation about to be inaugurated by the Ontario Government for civil servants under their control will commend itself to the people. The plan to be pursued will be to assess all officials a small percentage on their incomes, which shall be funded and paid out to them as retiring allowances. Thus a certain provision for old age will be made.

The Governor-General has offered two bronze medals to the pupils of the Model School at Truro for the best essay on cruelty to animals.

Stratford Beacon.—The brokerage business in connection with Government contracts is in full blast at Ottawa. A late "dicker" is thus referred to by the Ottawa Herald: "On one occasion, not a great many months since, Mr. Whitehead (contractor, late of Clinton) paid Ottawa a visit for the purpose of obtaining a drawback of $40,000 from the Department. The services of a broker, who figured very prominently in connection with the printing scandal, were brought into requisition, and the result was that the Department paid over the $40,000, of which sum we are quite credibly informed Mr. Whitehead got $25,000. The remainder was not sent to the relief of the poor in Ireland."

The Ottawa Free Press says:—Representatives of the Ontario and Montreal Manufacturers' Associations, now in the city, had an interview with the Minister of Finance in relation to tariff matters. We hope Sir Samuel "received them cordially," and that they departed "satisfied with the success of their mission," because the more manufacturers have of their own way the more likelihood of the rest of the people wakening up to the necessity of having their interests looked after. Class legislation is bad under any circumstances, but when the whole fiscal policy of a government is conducted with the sole view of benefitting one class, then the evil becomes intolerable. Is it not about time farmers, mechanics and laborers sent deputations to Ottawa to look after their interests in the matter of tariff changes?

PAUL JONES

THE ROVER OF THE SEAS;

—OR—

TWENTY YEARS IN EXILE.

A TALE OF THE SOLWAY.

CHAPTER XXV.

ORWELL BRUCE STRUGGLES THROUGH THE DEPTHS—DEATH OF PAUL JONES—ORWELL DEPARTS FROM EUROPE FOR THE FAR WEST.

"Do you still mean to leave Europe without communicating with you friends in Galway?"

"Yes," answered Orwell, "that is my fixed intention. In my present position I cannot think of claiming their notice. My hope is that in America, by the help of the friend to whom you are sending me, I shall so far redeem myself that I shall be able with less shame to address them. When I feel more worthy of Agnes Borland I shall write and ask her to share my home in the New World, and help me, by the influence of her love and the joy of her presence, to work myself clear of the disgraceful past."

"That's right. Keep to that resolution, and all will be well. I know that the man to whom you are going will assist you in this endeavor with all his might. We were dear companions long ago, and he will love you for his kindness to me. He will ask you everything about my death; tell him he was often in my thoughts, that I fondly hoped to see him again on earth, but that God has willed it otherwise."

"Is he a Scotchman?" asked Orwell.

Paul smiled curiously.

"Yes, he is a Scotchman," he replied; "but he will tell you all about himself when you see him, only you must not delay telling him who you are—nay, I forget; you will not need to do that, for I have done so in the letter I have written."

"But he cannot know anything about me," said Orwell, with a puzzled look. "Oh!" he exclaimed, struck by a sudden thought, "perhaps he is from Galloway, and knows my friends."

Paul smiled again. "I do not mean to tell you any more," he returned. "When he and you meet, when he reads my letter, you will receive an explanation which will surprise and please you. With this be content."

"I am content," said Orwell. "Be he who he may, he has your confidence, and is therefore worthy of mine, which I shall give him unreservedly."

After this Paul fell into a doze, and on the following morning it was evident that death was near. When the last hour came no one was in the apartment but Orwell and Madame Dorberque. The end was painless and peaceful, produced by what is called the drowning of the heart. His faculties were clear, and he was able to speak in a whisper till within a few minutes of his death. Then saying farewell to both, with his hand in Orwell's, he closed his eyes and calmly breathed his life away. There was no struggle. It was only by the awful stillness and the change upon the face that the two silent watchers knew that Paul Jones was no more.

Thus quietly and obscurely passed away from earth this remarkable man, probably the most notable hero of the last half of the eighteenth century. He who had been the pride of America, the terror of Britain, the admiration of Europe, ended his days in neglect in a retired Paris lodging-house, another example of the transitoriness of human popularity and the vanity of earthly ambition.

The news of his death did indeed make some commotion in official circles in Paris. His brilliant exploits were recalled and rehearsed, pity was accorded in his misfortunes, admiration given to his character, and regret expressed for his decease. The authorities also set about making some preparations to do him honor. In expectation that the American Government would claim his body, and have it removed to a transatlantic grave, his remains were put in a lead coffin. Strangely enough, and, as we think unfortunately, the Americans did not confer this honour on the hero who had served their cause so faithfully and successfully. Though many years had elapsed since his services were rendered, these had been of a substantial character, and Paul Jones should have received a grave in the country to which he helped to give independence.

His funeral in France was somewhat of a public character and conducted with marks of honour. The National Assembly sent twelve of their members as a deputation to attend it, and a Protestant clergyman named Marron pronounced the following oration over his grave. It is highly coloured, and eminently French in character, but is, on the whole, a just estimate of the man in whose praise it was spoken:

"Legislators! citizens! soldiers! friends! brethren! and Frenchmen! we have just returned to the earth the remains of an illustrious stranger, one of the first champions of the liberty of America—of that liberty which so gloriously ushered in our own. The Semiramis of the North had drawn him under her standard, but Paul Jones could not longer bear the air of despotism; he preferred the sweets of a private life in France, now free, to the eclat of titles and of honours which from an usurped throne were lavished on him by Catherine. The fame of the brave outlives him. His portion is immortality. What more flattering homage could we pay to the manes of Paul Jones than to swear on his tomb to live or to die free? May the ashes of the great man too soon lost to humanity, and eager to be free, enjoy here an undisturbed repose. Let his example teach posterity the efforts which noble souls are capable of making when stimulated by hatred to oppression. Friends and brethren, associate yourselves to the glory of Paul Jones in imitating him in his contempt of dangers, in his devotedness to his country, in the noble heroism which, after having astonished the present age, will continue to be the imperishable object of the veneration of future generations."

The sentiments of this oration stirred the hearts of those who listened to it, and none more strongly than that of Orwell Bruce, who saw the sod laid upon the new-filled grave with feelings of deep emotion. From a yew tree which overhung the spot he plucked a sprig, and bending a last sad look on the fresh mound, he left the cemetery with slow and mournful step.

Within a week he quitted Paris, and, true to his resolution not to communicate with any of his friends in Scotland, he set sail for America, not knowing whither he was going, but putting implicit faith in Paul's assurance that his manager in Virginia would receive him with the utmost kindness, and assist him to the utmost of his power in gathering together the broken threads of his life that he might weave it into a better web for the future than he had done in the past.

The ship in which he took passage sailed from Liverpool, and as it bore down the Channel towards the Atlantic, Orwell stood on the highest part of the deck directing a longing gaze towards the Scottish shore, which lay in the distance a dull hazy line. Had the wind continued favorable the vessel would have passed quickly down in mid-channel with the coast far off, and therefore indistinguishable as to its prominent features, but about noon it became adverse, and in the long tacks which the ship required to make they came at times close inshore, where the objects of the landscape were distinctly visible. Then it was that Orwell kept eagerly on the outlook, fervently hoping that when abreast of the Solway they would run close enough under the land to enable him to descry the clustering woods which surrounded his childhood's home. He was aware that he could gaze on them only with a bursting heart, but inasmuch as it was likely he would never again behold the much-loved scene, he anticipated a mournful pleasure as well as a bitter pain in the prospect.

Fortune favored the tender aspiration. In order to obtain a long tack towards the south, the captain ran the vessel well into the Solway with the purpose of making headway under lee of the land. Thus the desire of Orwell's soul was gratified, as, in the latter part of the afternoon, when the sun was sinking in a cloudless sky towards the western hills, they approached the Dumfrieshire coast and saw the great level sands of the Solway little more than a mile distant.

With a powerful glass which he borrowed from one of the officers Orwell could distinguish many objects in the vicinity of the Grange, but his view was unsteady, for under his emotion the hand which held the glass shook, and his eyes were hindered in their eager gaze by a dimness which was the presage of rising tears.

Most poignant were the anguish and remorse of Orwell Bruce at that moment, as he gazed on the place of his birth, from which he was being self-exiled. By his own folly he had lost his inheritance in those fair woods and fertile fields, now glowing in the clear after autumn light with richest tints of yellow and gold. Never had these woods and fields looked bonnier in his eyes—never so precious and valuable a possession. What would he not have given to recall the past few years—to stand, as he once stood, on his free, unencumbered soil? Alas! how vain was the wish, and by its vanity rendered the more sorrowful! He had committed the folly, and now he must pay its penalty.

His earnest, yearning gaze was kept on the dearly loved spot, his mind the while being torn by bitter memories, till the sun went down and the shadows of twilight stole over the scene, to shut it out from him, as he felt forever. Gradually the objects lost their sharpness of outline; then a haze of obscurity enveloped them, which was a little modified, but not removed, when the moon's waxing light kept the gloaming from merging into darkness, and spread a dim, fleecy radiance over land and sea.

The breeze died away, and the motion of the vessel became slower and slower, till by-and-bye, when not a breath stirred the sails, its motion ceased, and the word passed along the deck that they were becalmed.

"No use grumbling at it," Orwell heard the captain say to the mate as they stood together a few paces from him. "This will last till morning, so we must make up our minds to remain here for at least half a dozen hours."

"Ay, sir, perhaps longer," returned the mate in a discontented tone.

"Well, well—can't be helped. See the watch set. I'm going to turn in."

An idea suddenly leapt into Orwell's mind, and stepping quickly forward he intercepted the captain on his way to the cabin.

KING OF THE DRY GOODS

We Take Pleasure in bringing before the notice of the Community the following very

IMPORTANT BRANCHES

OF OUR BUSINESS:

DRESS-MAKING.

In view of the difficulties so frequently experienced by ladies in getting a nice material properly made up, we feel especial pleasure in recommending our MRS. THOMPSON, who has charge of our Dress-making Department. The numerous orders which come to us from a distance—resulting solely from an inspection of the work executed by her—and the continued patronage of those ladies who in the past have favored us, give us the assurance that in the Trade. Notwithstanding that this is generally called the dull season, we are retaining the services of our full staff of hands, who are all kept busy. We ask the ladies whose orders elsewhere have not always been executed to their satisfaction—and there are many such—to favor us with a trial. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in every instance.

Our Dress-making Department is without its Equal

NOTE.—Our Stock of Black and Colored Silks and Stylish Dress Goods imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the City.

MANTLE-MAKING.

The merits of the work by our Mantle-maker, MISS MANNY, are so well and favorably known as to scarcely need mention by us. Ladies, who in their general purchases have not by any means confined themselves to our store, have found it profitable, satisfactory, and, in fact, necessary to entrust us season after season with their mantle-making. We always give satisfaction and never cause complaint. For the merits of our work, in comparison with that of other establishments, we refer ladies to their friends who have had their orders executed by us. The experience of others is generally a pretty safe test. During the years in which the managers of our Dress-making and Mantle-making Departments have had charge, the most complete harmony and satisfaction have prevailed—an experience, we believe, not generally shared by other merchants in the city.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Mantle Silks, Velvets, Fancy and Plain Cloths, imported by us "is the largest and choicest in the city.

Merchant Tailoring.

We refer the male portion of the community to their friends who during the past year have had their clothing made at the Lion. Since our engagement of MR. McLENNAN as Cutter and Manager, our orders for nice goods have about doubled. We do not ask the "fancy prices" generally charged, but guarantee that for style, fit and workmanship, our garments are not surpassed.

Our $14.50 Suits Regularly Sold for $18 to $20.

has caused alike the pleasure of customers and the discomfiture of competitors, and we ask gentlemen, to whom a saving of 15 to 25 per cent. is an object, to leave their orders with MR. McLENNAN at the Lion.

NOTE.—Our Stock of Fine Tweeds, Coarse Tweeds, Cloths, Diagonals and Overcoatings "is the lagest and choicest in the City."

SPECIAL.

Our Great 20 per cent. Discount!

CLOTHING SALE

will be continued a short time longer. Our growling and grumbling neighbors will just have to possess their souls in peace for a short time longer, as at the present rate of selling the stock will soon be cleared out. In the meantime customers will remember our stock of Overcoats, Suits, etc., is all marked in plain figures at reduced prices, off which we take a discount of 20 per cent. for cash. No second price. It pleases our customers, and it suits the Lion, and that's all we care about.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

We are also giving a

SPECIAL DISCOUNT OF 33 1/3 PER CENT.

off the price of Furs. Ladies should not miss this chance of buying Furs cheaper than than they may get them again for years.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.

Amongst the Bills introduced on Monday in the Assembly was one by the Attorney-General relating to municipal taxation. It proposes to do away with the $400 exemption in incomes when the latter exceed a certain amount, and to abolish altogether the present partial exemption of paddocks and lawns. Several clauses of the Bill are devoted to the solution of the double problem of local improvements and the assessment therefor of Church property at present exempt from all assessment. The Bill provides (1) that real property specially assessed for any work hereafter executed shall be, with certain exemptions, exempt from any general assessment for the same purpose; (2) that the municipal council of a city, town, or village may by by-law, passed with the assent of the electors as ascertained under the existing local improvement sections of the Municipal Act, extend to the whole municipality the local improvement principle of assessment for certain classes of improvements; (3) that when the trustees of Church property join in a petition for a local improvement the property becomes liable to assessment for that improvement like the property of private owners; and (4) that the trustees of Church property shall be liable, whether they petition or not, for such an improvement when it is asked for by two-thirds of the other owners representing at least one-half the value of the remaining property. One of the most important sections of the Bill is a clause rendering a majority of the ratepayers named in the voters' list of a municipality—not a mere majority of those voting—necessary to the adoption of a railway aid by-law.

After several Bills had been read a third time and others had been advanced a stage, Mr. Ross moved for a return showing the amount of debenture indebtedness of each municipality in the Province at the close of 1879, together with the means available for payment of interest and principal. The motion was assented to.

Mr. Badgerow moved for a return showing in detail the condition of the endowment fund of the University of Toronto, the revenue derived from it, and the revenue on the University and University College respectively. He also moved for similar information respecting Upper Canada College, and both motions were carried, after being amended at the instance of the Minister of Education so as to include only such facts as were not contained in previous returns.

Mr. Badgerow also moved for a return containing the minutes of all meetings of Senate held during 1879.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of wel selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n1dw9md

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.
