Great Cotwyn.

An English Village Fifty Years Ago.

"——Many precious rites
And customs of our rural ancestry
Are gone or stealing from us."—Wordsworth

The countenance of the spokeswoman of the party immediately relaxed its expression of painful sympathy, and giving a look of complacent satisfaction mingled with incredulity, as if her mind was released from a weight of anxiety, she remarked in a tone of bland and urbane consolation, "Lor, sir! as you say it happened so long ago, let us hope it isn't true!"

Could the simplicity of ignorance take a more baffling and embarrassing shape to the purpose and intelligence of an instructor?

Within a hundred miles a remarkable conversion was wrought by a bright and beautiful child of about five years of age, who has since grown up to be a brilliant woman. The mother of this darling, was a strict methodical lady, who entertained extreme views respecting "the severe observance of the Sabbath." Anything like mundane enjoyment on that holy day was considered a profanation, and consequently her little daughter was not allowed, on Sundays, to amuse herself with her doll. Devout lessons and solemn duties were the gloomy order of the day, but even this stern discipline could not repress the childish instincts or dim the brightness of the lively child; she simply and gravely acquiesced in a grim fate which she regarded as inevitable and inscrutable. Punctually as the first day of the week came round, the doll and all its paraphernalia were regularly surrendered and decorously hidden away in a drawer. In due course of time there arrived in the family a real live baby, which certainly occupied as much of its mother's attention on Sundays as on other days of the week. The little heroine of our story intently observed the treatment which the infant experienced, and she was naturally puzzled by the incongruity so manifest between the nursing indulgence taken by her mother on Sundays, and the anti-maternal penance prescribed for herself.

After maturely considering the situation under all its aspects, our bright little logician darted at the conclusion that she was the victim of an arbitrary and inconsistent dispensation; so she boldly determined to assert her rights and expose the anomaly which she had discovered; accordingly she expostulated with her mother in this innocent, but unanswerable style:—"Mamma, why don't you put your doll away in the drawer on Sundays?" This mode of argumentative appeal was too conclusive and embarassing to be answered or resisted; and I am happy to be able to record that on subsequent Sundays the doll was confided to the affectionate arms of our triumphant little casuist.

I was only ten years of age when I went to live under the care of my relatives at Great Cotwyn. One fine day an aunt of mine invited me to accompany her to call upon Miss Dale, of Gurley, who, I was told, was an invalid. Accordingly we went, a pretty walk of about two miles across the fields, and when we arrived at our destination, we were ushered into the bedroom of the young lady.

There, on a luxurious feather bed, lay a beautiful and interesting girl, certainly not looking particularly infirm. I recollect as vividly as it I had beheld them yesterday, her smooth, rich auburn hair, peeping out from under a fashionable and attractive lace cap, her fine, delicately shaped nose, her pretty blue eyes, her pale complexion, her soft and slightly attenuated hand; and I well remember the tones of her gentle winsome voice.

All the appointments of her room were charmingly in keeping with the lovely person, whom I immediately began secretly to compassionate. I noticed that flowers decorated every convenient spot, and that the sheets, curtains, pillow-cases, were as white "as the driven snow." Such whiteness of linen could only be produced and seen in the neatest of country abodes. Young, as I was, I felt my sympathies touched by the tender and bewitching invalid, whom I gazed at with boyish admiration. My aunt was suspiciously reticent respecting the malady from which the young lady was supposed to be suffering, but it was disclosed to me some time after my visit.

Miss Dale had formed an imprudent attachment to a handsome coachman in a neighboring titled family; the intimacy was prohibited. The girl immediately took to her bed, and vowed that she would never leave her room till she was allowed to marry the man of her choice. Seven long years she spent in this obstinate and voluntary imprisonment. She occupied her time in reading and writing, in plain and ornamental needle-work, and especially in making herself look fascinating by the most scrupulous regard for simple personal adornment. The fact that her hair was auburn ought not to excite any suspicion of her moral qualities, as fortunately, she lived in the good old days before a popular novelist taught that auburn hair betokened in its possessor a lively inclination to violate the decalogue. My heroine was kind and virtuous, and I believe her only fault or mistake was this one determining to have her own way in her love affairs, to keep her vow, and to set her poor old blind father at defiance.

At last her father died, and then—what do you imagine she did? You will never guess rightly, so I will tell you. She rose from her bed, left the room, and actually married—not the man for whose sake she had undergone such a long course of penance and self-incarceration, but someone else, a pupil on her father's farm! She died childless about twenty years afterward.

The strange love affairs of Great Cotwyn were not always conducted in this comic fashion. I was cognizant of a dismal tragedy which happened in this neighborhood, and which I shall narrate briefly and literally.

Squire Helworthy, who farmed his own estate and "hunted in scarlet," was a widower with several children. His daughter, Mary, was a fine, well-grown, powerful girl, and as accomplished as a good country boarding-school could render her. She could sing pleasantly; play the "Battle of Prague" effectively, and beat her brother at a hurdle-race; she could jump as nimbly as a kangaroo. She was a favorite with men, but not with her own sex; she was reticent and self-willed, and there was a look of mournfulness combined with determination in her eye, and a firm expression about her chin, which made a careful observer apprehensive that her future career would be marked by some bitter and uncommon experiences. After leaving school in the hey-day of her youth and strength, she formed an attachment to a man of creditable character, "good of his sort," but decidedly below her family and station. With this man she carried on a secret correspondence, in spite of the mandate and warning of her father, who swore a vulgar and angry oath, that "if ever he caught her talking to 'that fellow' again, he would thrash the lust out of her with his horsewhip." No threat could be more vain to a girl of such spirit and courage as Mary Helworthy; she listened to it in ominous silence; and very soon afterward her father did catch her talking to "that fellow" in a retired spot where she thought herself free from observation. Squire Helworthy looked at the culprits, and became fierce; the blood mounted to his face, and he sternly ordered his daughter to go home. When she arrived there he dragged her to her room, and then, treating her person with as little delicacy and ceremony as if she had been an Eton boy, he mercilessly flogged her with his formidable hunting-whip. His powerful strokes tore up the delicate surface of her flesh in livid lines. She received his remorseless and barbarous punishment with sullen endurance; but as the savage parent left the room, he heard her give one deep sob and groan. He retired to his parlor, and consoled himself as he best could with the county newspaper. He was soon roughly startled from his occupation by a portentous and frantic rush of hurrying footsteps along the passage, followed by a shrilling scream; he hastened to see what was the matter; and there laid out before him he beheld the dead body of his daughter! After her cruel and wicked treatment, she went down stairs, mixed with water some of the oxalic acid used to clean her father's top-boots, then drank the deadly dose.

A gentleman recently arrived from California, where he has been looking about among the mining towns, speaks of several places where the snow lies to a depth of over one hundred feet. The places are generally at the heads of large canyons. At the head of Fall creek, Nevada county, pines and firs over one hundred feet in height are so buried in the snow that only a few feet of their tops are to be seen. Where a dark forest lies in the summer, there is now only to be seen a white expanse of snow, with here and there what appear to be clumps of bushes, but which are really the tops of the tallest pines.

When the Duchess Pauline of Wurtemberg was married the other day to Dr. Willim, a Breslau physician, she asserted her affection and her husband's dignity in a pretty and romantic fashion. Pastor Suchner, who officiated, in his address exhorted the bridegroom to devote himself forever to his noble bride, because she had abandoned much and renounced much for his sake. When the bride had to say her "Yes," she added, in an emphatic tone: "I declare that I have abandoned nothing to which my heart was attached, and that I am enviably happy."

Mothers!! Mothers!! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

A physician's cat in Wolcottville, Conn., has adopted a rat. Some weeks ago she lost her kittens, and a few days after she was seen playing with a half-grown rat, and further observation revealed that she had taken charge of its education. The rat played with the cat, came at her call, and followed her about like a kitten. One night the doctor took the rat from her, put it in a basket, covered the basket with a sieve, and placed a flat-iron on the sieve. But during the night the cat charged on the basket and carried off her pet, and probably hid it in the barn where she got it.

Goldwin Smith ranks Cowper as "the most important English poet of the period between Pope and the illustrious group headed by Wordsworth, Byron and Shelley," and inclines to accept Southey's estimate of him as the first of English letter-writers. If the first place is shared with him by any one, it is by Byron rather than by Gray, whose letters are pieces of fine writing, or by Horace Walpole, who wrote memoirs in the form of letters, and, like Gray, manifestly wrote them for publication. But the letters of Cowper have "the true epistolary charm," and there is the strongest proof that they were not intended for publication. In common with many others, Mr. Smith regrets the decay of letter-writing as a species of literature. Telegrams and postal-cards have almost killed it now, he says. He has made free use of Southey's biography of the poet, which, with the biographical parts of Cowper's poetry, furnishes the materials for a sketch of his life. Southey is, however, he thinks, too prolix.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

The author of "Nancy Lee" made $8,000 by the song, the owners of "My Grandfather's Clock" netted $11,000, the "Baby Mine" man counted up nearly $6,000 and yet honest and irreproachable citizens are toiling away for $2 a day.

Here is a sample of journalistic elegance of language:—"The insinuation about ourselves personally, we stigmatize as an infamous lie, which can reflect only on the cowards who concocted it, the Pecksniffian noddle who sanctioned it, and the plastic, pudding-headed clown who permitted himself to be the tool to give it utterance."

Foreigners henceforward will have fewer opportunities to become acquainted with Russian literature, the Government having forbidden the exportation of Russian books without official permission, which is to be granted only after a careful perusal of the works.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

To Cure Fits of Sneezing.

A correspondent of the British Medical Journal says:—"During the recent rapid changes of temperature I caught a severe cold in my head, accompanied by almost incessant sneezing. My unfortunate nose gave me no rest. The slightest impact of cold air, or passing from the outside air into a warmer room, equally brought on a fit of sneezing. In vain I snuffed camphor and pulsatilla; the light catarrh still triumphed over me. At length I resolved to see what the maintenance of a uniform temperature would do toward diminishing the irritability of my Schneiderian membrane, and accordingly I plugged my nostrils with cotton wool. The effect was instantaneous; I sneezed no more. Again and again I tested the efficacy of this simple remedy, always with the same result. However near I was to a sneeze, the introduction of the pledgets stopped it at once. Nor was there any inconvenience from their presence, making them sufficiently firm not to tickle, and yet leaving them sufficiently loose to easily breathe through." This is really worth knowing, for incessant sneezing is among the greatest of smaller ills, and it seems only a rational conclusion to hope that this simple plan may furnish the most efficient remedy against one of the most distressing symptoms of hay fever.

Mr. Spurgeon, in an address on tracts the other evening, said that he knew a brother who had often taken a sermon of his and turned it into Gaelic. Then he turned it again into English and preached it as his own. It had passed through two series, and his brother had, no doubt, a copyright after having taken so much trouble with it.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

THURSDAY EVN'G, MAY 27, 1880

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, May 27.—A loon to-day a fire broke out in Moore's Hotel, Parkdale. Before the flames were subdued, the hotel, a public hall and grocery store were burned.

The York street gang were up at the Police Court this morning, but were remanded because Constable Jamieson, who was stabbed, is not yet able to appear in Court.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 27.—This morning about one hundred stevedores went to work on one of the Allan steamships on the master's terms, and the strikers at ten o'clock appeared in large numbers and assumed a threatening attitude. They boarded the vessel and attempted by force to frighten the men away but the presence of the Government officers and police as soon as the affair got noised abroad put an end to the matter, and the stevedores remained at their work.

From Ottawa.

To-morrow Prince Leopold will visit the Parliament buildings and other places of interest in and around the city, returning to Montreal on Saturday.

Sir John Macdonald left last night for Toronto. On his return he will go to Orchard Beach for a brief holiday.

The Police Magistracy of the town of Cornwall, rendered vacant by the resignation of Dr. Allen, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Angus Bethune, of the same place.

MOVEMENTS OF THE VICE-REGAL PARTY.—The Princess Louise and Prince Leopold and suite, on Wednesday, visited the Hotel Hospital and Nunnery, Quebec.

The Vice-Regal party arrived at Montreal on Wednesday evening and went to the Windsor at once, attending the Academy of music afterwards.

NARROW ESCAPE OF THE VICE-REGAL PARTY.—The Governor-General and Princess Louise had a narrow escape from a horrible death during their journey from Ottawa to Quebec last week. The regular express had been switched off the main line to allow the Vice-Regal train to pass, when it was found impossible to move the switch back. Fortunately the engineer of the special noticed the frantic gestures of one of the train men just in time to slacken pace so as to avoid a collision. The matter appears to have been kept quiet as much as possible by the railway employees, and has only just leaked out.

The Markets.

MAY 26.—The Liverpool market was firm for breadstuffs. Chicago was active and fairly steady, and New York irregular. In Montreal the local grain market was inactive, but prices were without change. No. 2 Canada spring wheat was quoted at $1 30 to $1 32. Corn, 50½c. Peas, 86c. to 87½c. Oats, 34c. Flour, was in good demand. The butter market was quiet but steady. Quotations—Western, from 15c to 16c; Brockville and Morrisburg, 16c to 18c; Eastern Townships, 17c to 19c; creameries, 20c to 21c. There is a fair demand at present for cheese, and a considerable export trade is in progress. In Toronto the receipts of grain consisted of 400 bushels of wheat at $1 20 and $1 21 for fall, and $1 22 to $1 26 for spring, and a few bags of peas at 68c. Barley is nominal. Oats are steady, with a sale of one car of Western at 37c on track. Peas are in fair demand for cargoes, with few sellers. Corn is firm, with a sale of two cars of high mixed at 57c; Hay ranges from $10 to $10 50 a ton. Butter brought 16c per lb. for rolls, and eggs are unchanged.

COMMITTED FOR BURGLARY.—On Wednesday, May 26th, William Robertson and John Soper were brought from Drayton to gaol here to await trial on a charge of entering the store of George Draper and abstracting a quantity of spoons, knives, forks, revolvers, etc., on the night of the 20th May. When the goods were missed the complainant, George Draper, laid an information before Mr. Landerkin, J. P., and a search warrant was issued to empower the officers to examine the premises of the prisoners. On an examination being made some of the goods were recovered and the prisoners were brought before Messrs. John Landerkin, John Walker and John C. Johnston, J. Ps., for a preliminary trial. On the evidence of Draper and James Wagwood being taken Soper and Richardson were committed to Guelph gaol for trial. Wagwood stated that after the robbery the prisoners offered to trade a gun with him, and also that they showed him a revolver.

H. M. S. PINAFORE.—Baldwin's Baby Pinafore Company will occupy the boards at the City Hall to-morrow night. The cast is made up entirely of boys and girls, some of whom are mere babies, and all of whom the press of other cities says go through their parts very creditably. The Globe speaking of the performance says:—The cast is made up entirely of boys and girls (some of them mere babies), all of whom went through their parts very creditably. Notwithstanding that the charm of its own peculiar humour is completely taken away from the character of Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., by having it represented by a child of five years old, yet Baby Lyman, as he struts about the stage, the smallest of the children there, keeps the audience continually laughing simply on account of the absurdity of the thing. Baby Gardner, aged three, is unable to speak plainly yet, but she plays the part of Hebe with no small show of intelligence. The acting of the other children showed careful training. As might be expected, the choruses, as well as some of the duets and trios, suffered from a want of bass voices, but some of the solos were wonderfully well sung, particularly those of Miss Lizette Williams, as Josephine, and "He is an Englishman," by Bill Bobstay, as represented by Master Arthur Bradley.

The Hanlan-Riley Boat Race.

An Easy Victory for the Canadian.

He Beats Riley by an Eighth of a Mile.

The five mile single-scull race between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and James Riley, of Saratoga, for a purse of $2,000, contributed by the citizens of Washington, was rowed at six o'clock on Wednesday, over the Potomac River at Washington. About 25,000 people were present. Comparatively few strangers came to town to see the struggle, but the lateness of the hour at which the race was rowed enabled a very large part of Washington and Georgetown to turn out. The weather was very warm. Hanlan caught the water first, and the struggle, which one of the contestants said should be a hot one or he would eat his boots, commenced in dead earnest. Hanlan was never so much in earnest. He pulls thirty-six to the minute of his long, swinging strokes. Riley is flashing his oars with equal speed. For fifty strokes they are nose and nose; neither has the advantage, but soon Hanlan is drawing away. His tremendous effort to row the champion down—for that was evidently his intent in cutting out such a pace—told on Riley, who already showed signs of breaking up. The water was very sluggish, and although both men have been rowing at their best, the time for the first half mile is slow, viz., 3 mins. 6 secs. On they go, Hanlan, although rowing easily within himself, ever widening the gap between them. At the mile and a half, opposite the new Government Bureau of Printing and Engraving, he commences his old tricks. Coolly stopping, he unties the handkerchief around his head, and in a leisurely way dips it in the water and mops his heated face. Riley, owing to these tactics, draws up a bit, and when Hanlan takes up his oars again but two lengths separate them. Hanlan uses his oars at a thirty minute lick, while Riley goes two faster. The gap again widens, and at two miles, accomplished in 15 m. 9½ sec., Hanlan has a clear lead of at least five lengths. He stops again, but Riley sticks to his work. After rounding his buoy the American is seen to be in difficulties. He stops rowing and bends down as if to fix his foot. His stretcher has broken in two, and as he comes up to the referee's boat he says, "I can't row, my stretcher is broken," and goes sorrowfully on his way. Hanlan, meantime, is a quarter of a mile off in the distance, the people shouting as he passes, "Where is Riley? Send him home and give him some beer," etc. Riley, unheeded and unheeding, pursues his journey, with the referee's boat keeping him company, while Hanlan quietly paddles along, every now and then stopping, drinking water and lying down in his boat, to the alarm of the spectators, who think he has fainted. Never did one rower make such an exhibition of another as Hanlan did of Riley. He could undobtedly have beaten his opponent a mile in the five, but by fooling and waiting he allowed him to get up within an eighth of a mile before crossing the finishing line, which he reached in 36 mins. 2 sec., from the time he started, Riley coming in a minute and 19 sec. later.

When the race was finished the band struck up "God Save the Queen," and Hanlan was congratulated on all hands. It was strange to hear a Canadian so heartily cheered in the very heart of the United States, but the tumult was something terrific, exceeding even in heartiness the receptions he received in Canada.

The Brown Memorial Statue

On Friday, the 21st, a meeting was held in Toronto for the purpose of discussing the proposal to erect a memorial statue of the late Hon. George Brown, when a resolution was passed favouring the erection of such a statue, and appointing a committee to take the necessary steps to carry out that object. On Wednesday afternoon, this committee met in that city and proceeded to elect permanent officers. Mr. John Macdonald was elected Chairman, Mr. J. D. Edgar Secretary, and Mr. Blain Treasurer.

The Chairman said that it would be necessary to decide upon the nature of the proposed memorial, the amount of money which it would be necessary to raise, and other matters preliminary to opening the subscription books.

Hon. Mr. Crooks thought that a public statue would be most in accord with the feeling of the people, and would best symbolize Mr. Brown's labours on behalf of Canada. The nature of the statue would be largely regulated by the extent of the proposed fund.

After some further discussion the following resolution was passed:—

"Resolved, That it is desirable to erect a statue to the memory of the late Hon. George Brown in some public place in the city of Toronto, and that a sufficient sum be raised by public subscription for that purpose."

A discussion ensued as to the amount required to erect a suitable monument, and the manner of raising the funds. It was considered that the fund should not be less than $25,000, and that an opportunity should be afforded to all classes of the community to contribute. On motion, the following resolution was passed:—

"Resolved, That a sub-committee of six be named to assist the Secretary in communicating with some representative man in each Electoral Division, and get them to undertake the organization of the minor municipalities in each such division for the purpose of collecting subscriptions, such Committee to consist of Messrs. Crooks, Pardee, Blain, Cook, McMaster, and the mover; also that in order that all may have an opportunity of contributing to the proposed testimonial, it has been decided to receive sums, however small, up to any amount which any one may feel disposed to give."

It was suggested that as Prof. Wilson was about to visit Europe he might be able to collect such information as would help to guide the Committee in their selection of material, design, etc. A request to this effect was conveyed to Dr. Wilson, to which he cheerfully assented.

The subject of local city organization was next taken up, and after various methods had been proposed and discussed, it was decided to canvass each ward separately.

JOHNNY O'CONNOR, the witness in the Biddulph murder case, now goes to school in Petersville, being duly escorted there by his guardian, Jones.

A nine year old son of Mr. Dean, a guard at the Reformatory, Penetanguishene, was accidently drowned in Mud Lake the other day.

FORTIN, the Ottawa husband of three living wives, was on Wednesday committed for trial, bail being refused.

The Biddulph Murderers.

Application for Change of Venue Refused.

The Prisoners to be Tried in London.

The application for a change of venue in the Biddulph murder case was argued before the Court of Queen's Bench on Wednesday afternoon, after which judgment was given dismissing the application and ordering the trial to take place in Middlesex county. In this judgment the Court of Common Pleas, before which the same point had been heard on the previous day, concurred. The full Court of Queen's Bench consisting of Chief Justice Hagarty and Justices Armour and Cameron were present. The Crown was represented as before by Mr. Æmilius Irving, Q. C., and the prisoners by Mr. Hugh McMahon, Q. C., and Mr. W. R. Meredith, Q. C. The arguments of counsel covered practically the same ground as had already been gone over before the other Court.

Mr. Justice Cameron said that the argument that jurors would be influenced by fear did not seem to be sound, because Biddulph, being in the extreme north of Middlesex, a juror from the southern part of the county would be about as safe as the jurors of Wellington or Bruce if the trial were held in either of those counties. He trusted that many men could be found who would have no fear to do their duty in such a matter as this.

Justice Armour remarked if the jurors were to be afraid of their lives to bring in an honest verdict, what were they to say about the judge who tried these prisoners—was he to be massacred, too?

Chief Justice Hagarty proceeded to give judgment. He said that the Court of Common Pleas had refrained from giving its decision, not because the judges had not made up their minds as to the decision they were to give, but because it was understood that the case was to be argued before this Court. He found no difficulty in deciding the case. The Crown had argued without success, the only precedents of importance they had quoted being those of cases which, he was sorry to say, had occurred in his own country, where religious and political differences had divided the people into rival camps. In a case such as this, where religious or political differences would not affect the decision to be given, it would be unfair to the prisoners to change the venue. The motive of the Government in applying for the change was easily understood. There was a strong feeling of anxiety among the people in regard to this crime, a feeling that the annals of Canada had been stained, and a desire that the perpetrators of the deed should not go unpunished. The executive officers of the Crown wished to remove from themselves any reproach that the trial had not been a fair one. He did not understand why the trial would be more likely to be impartial in Wellington or Huron than in Middlesex. In Toronto there were three daily papers, and for some time past those who cared for such reading had been surfeited by long articles appearing almost daily about "The Biddulph Tragedy," as it was commonly called, and he had no doubt that strong affidavits could be procured that a fair trial could not be had in Toronto. It would be establishing an unwise precedent were this application to be acceded to. The Court, therefore, would refuse the application.

A discussion then arose between the counsel as to the form of order to be made out for keeping the prisoners. It was finally agreed that they should be recommitted to the charge of the Sheriff of York, with instructions to him to hand them over to the custody of the Sheriff of Middlesex.

The prisoners were then removed to the Court of Common Pleas, by which decision was then given.

Chief Justice Wilson said that he had thoroughly considered the question when it was brought before him in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in London, and had heard no arguments now which induced him to change his opinion that the application should be refused.

Judge Galt and Judge Osler concurred in this decision.

The prisoners were then taken back to London.

Synod of Niagara.

The Synod of the Diocese of Niagara assembled at Hamilton on Wednesday. Divine service was held in the Christ Church Cathedral at 11 o'clock, followed by a celebration of the Holy Communion. The sermon was preached by the Reverend Rural Dean Holland, of St. Catharines.

The Synod assembled at two p. m. in the school-house of the Church of the Ascension. After prayer by the Ven. Archdeacon McMurray, the roll of the clergy and lay representatives was read.

Rev. C. E. Whitcombe was appointed Hon. Clerical Secretary, and Mr. J. J. Masson was reappointed Hon. Lay Secretary and Secretary-Treasurer of the Diocese.

The Bishop then read his annual charge.

Canon Read then read the report of the Executive Committee. It treated mainly of the vexed question of the fund claimed by the Diocese of Niagara from the parent Diocese of Toronto.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Monday, the 17th inst., while Mr. John Jones, lot 15, 3rd concession Pilkington, was leading a bull behind a drove of cattle, which had been sold to Mr. Craig, of Brampton, and which were on their way to Fergus for shipment, had a narrow escape from receiving severe if not fatal injuries. On nearing Fergus the bull was separated from the herd, when he became restive, refused to go further, and finally turned, being at the side of the fence, and suddenly attacked Mr. Jones, running him into the ditch at the side of the road, where he lost his footing, and received a severe pommeling from the horns of the bull till they reached the other side of the road, when the bull put his foot on the rope by which he was led, allowing Jones a chance of escape from the now enfuriated animal. He had hardly cleared the fence on the other side when the bull was after him, and was thankful to escape with only a few scratches and bruises. The horns of the bull turned up, which prevented him from goring Mr. Jones.

It is stated that a short time since the Hon. G. W. Allan, of Toronto, was offered the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario, but declined.

Wellington Spring Chancery Sittings

Continuation of the Evidence in the Barrie Will Case.

A Long Session of Eighteen Hours.

The Case to be argued in Toronto.

WEDNESDAY, May 26.

When the Court resumed at nine o'clock this morning it only adjourned for short periods at two o'clock and seven o'clock p.m., until the evidence in the Barrie will case was concluded at 1:45 a.m. the following morning. After the examination of the witnesses it was announced, pursuant to a previous understanding, that the case would be argued in Chambers on Thursday, 3rd June.

MRS. GEO. MITCHELL'S EVIDENCE CONCLUDED.

I spoke to him but he did not answer, and I could not say that he recognized me; I do not remember telling Mr. Thompson to speak to my uncle on the Sunday; my husband has been attending to this suit and Walter Thompson; it has never given me a thought that if the will is proved invalid I would get a part of the property.

Mrs. Thompson, sworn, said—I am Dr. Barrie's sister; he was aged about 85 at the time of his death; there were three in the family between Dr. Barrie and me and I am aged 75; It is twenty-one years since I came to this country; there was a younger brother came to this country, as far as I know he is dead; the rest of his brothers and sisters died young; my husband died last April; Dr. Barrie lived in Eramosa, about 11 miles from Fergus, and I lived 7 miles above Fergus; Dr. Barrie and I were never on unfriendly terms; Mr. Rea was the last one who brought him to see me, he being unable to drive himself; at 6 o'clock on the Sunday during Dr. Barrie's last illness Mr. Chambers told me that Dr. Barrie was ill; I do not know how far Mr. Chambers lives from Guelph; on Monday I came to Guelph and went to Dr. Barrie's bedside, and I stayed at his house till after the funeral; he never spoke to me; myself, husband and four sons came to this country; we settled on the place where I now live and brought £333, and bought the farm for $1,000; I have 300 acres; there are two sons living on the farm; one son is on the railroad; Dr. Barrie came to the country a long time before I came; he wrote to us and advised me to come; the next day after we landed he came down to see us, and then for a time we lived on George Mitchell's place. He got a sum of money from his grandfather, and from his tutor's father.

To Mr. Boyd—This money he got before going to Madeira; this was when he was a young man; my sons and daughters alive are doing well; the 300 acres is made up of two lots, 150 acres on one side of the road and 150 acres on the opposite side; my son has to keep me; I began this suit and I appointed George Mitchell and Walter Thompson to act for me; if the will is broken I will leave the disposal of the property in their hands; when I arrived at Dr. Barrie's he was surrounded by people I did not know; I knew Miss Argo and did not consider that she nursed my brother properly; I was asked to leave the room when they were laying out the corpse; I do not remember saying that I was glad that my brother was conscious to the last.

George Mitchell, examined, said—I am a son-in-law of Mrs. Thompson, the plaintiff, and live in Eramosa; I was a member of his congregation for a considerable time; Dr. Barrie was aged about 84 at the time of his death; he had a brother and sister who came to this country; about twenty-four or twenty-six years ago he went to the States to try and find out his brother and his property; he did not find his brother but got his property, 200 acres; when I came to this country he told me he had paid taxes on it for ten years; he afterwards sold it; he got two legacies of $100 each from the old country; he brought money with him to this country; he had a salary of £400 from the Eramosa congregation when he first took the charge, and at any time never had more than $550; I moved him into Guelph when he left Eramosa; when he was moving into the house he bought afterwards, he came out by the Erin stage to ask me to move him, and I did so; we were always very friendly; on the Sunday I went to see him during his last illness, he said "George, I am glad you came, I wanted to see you;" immediately afterwards he said, "You will have to leave the room, I want to get up;" he did not say anything more about what he wanted to see me for; I remember Miss Argo saying to me that Dr. Barrie was troubled with loss of memory; on Tuesday we got a letter and on Saturday night got another, both from Miss Argo; on Sunday morning we drove in to see Dr. Barrie; we met Miss Argo at the door and she said he was about the same as when she wrote, but a little weaker; I stopped at Dr. Barrie's all day and all night till Monday; my wife never left till his funeral; when Dr. Herod came on Sunday he told me he did not think Dr. Barrie would last the day and I sent for his relatives; I once saw him take off his shirt and put it on again; he acted as though he was smoking and driving a horse at times; on Tuesday there was a difficulty about where he should be buried; on Tuesday night I heard about a will; I saw Mr. Torrance on Sunday; he was acquainted with me; he did not tell me anything about a will; the day before the funeral Miss Argo told me she did not know whether there was a will; Mr. Loghrin told me the day of the funeral to come back after the interment, as the will was to be read; after the will was read, Dr. Herod said that Dr. Barrie had not died of a disease but in consequence of a breaking up of the system, and that he had taken a worse turn between Wednesday night and Thursday morning, and he never rallied; I asked who made the will, and Mr. Torrance said he did it; I asked if he did it at the request of Dr. Barrie, he said no, but at the request of Dr. Herod; I said I did not think it was right to do such a thing and exclude his sister, Mrs. Thompson's name; Dr. Herod said, "I did not know he had a sister, and I am very glad I did not have anything to do with the making of the will;" on that occasion no one mentioned, that I know of, in what condition he was on Friday afternoon; Dr. Herod said his memory had been failing for the last five years; I know the Thompson property consisting of 300 acres; it is of poor quality, and is not worth $3,000 or $3,500; the buildings are not worth much; I have 100 acres in Eramosa better than the 300 acres, and they are worth $5,000; the Thompsons have hard work to make a living there; George Thompson is a labourer on the railway; he gets $1 a day and has nine children to support; the sons of the plaintiff have been assisting their mother in this suit; her son Walter has been the principal, and I have been assisting him.

To Mr. Boyd.—On the Sunday that I was at Dr. Barrie's before he died I knew some of the persons there; he was always an absent-minded man; I have taken an active part to see the will broken; Walter Thompson has paid the costs of the suit; at the meeting after the funeral William Barrie Thompson put some questions about the will; I expected before his death that he had a will; my wife supposed there was a will too from the fact that he advised other people to make a will; I understood the will was made by Dr. Herod's advice on Friday evening previous to his death.

Mrs. Auld, sworn, said:—I was a neighbor of the late Dr. Barrie at one time; I first became acquainted with him twenty-five years ago; after he moved to the town I saw him four or five times a week; he failed after he moved to the town; before his death ten or twelve days I noticed that his memory was failing; I went into his house and he was sitting in a chair, and I thought he was dying and should be in bed; my husband was frequently in the house; on Friday when I went in he was unconscious; he did not speak; he uttered an exclamation three times; he was breathing heavily; about three o'clock Rev. Mr. Torrance came in and looked at Dr. Barrie; in a few minutes he spoke to me and said, "The Doctor thinks he will rally, but ——"; I said I don't think he will rally much; Mrs. Armstrong afterwards said it was a pity there was no will; I said it was too late now; Esther Argo said it was not too late, Dr. Herod had said in the forenoon that if the patient rallied to send for him and they would make a will; I saw the Rev. Mr. Smith come in just as Mr. Auld and I left the house; I did not go back that eveniug, but my husband did; on Saturday morning I saw Dr. Barrie again, and I found him improved; he made an effort to speak; on Sunday I went to see him again; he was almost the same as on Saturday and he was breathing easier; Mr. Torrance was in the house on Friday afternoon when I was there, and he could not have prayed in either the dining room or bedroom without my knowing about it; a week after the funeral I spoke to Esther Argo about the will and blamed Mr. Torrance for making it; she said that Mr. Torrance had done nothing wrong, that Dr. Barrie had made wills under similar circumstances.

To Mr. Boyd—I attended Rev. Mr. Torrance's church at one time but left it; I think as much of Mr. Torrance now as I ever did; Dr. Herod was not at Dr. Barrie's on the Friday when I was there.

Wm. Mitchell, sworn said:—I live in Guelph; I have known Dr. Barrie since ever I can mind, and I am 65 years old; I came here in 1852 and he came in 1842; I saw him frequently; after he came to Guelph he would often come in to my house for dinner; when he lived in Guelph I saw him almost every day; I think his memory was very weak; he was aged about 83 or 84 when he died; I do not think he was capable of preaching for a year or two before his death; I heard him preach about two years ago; he did not connect his ideas and I was glad when he got through; I heard he was sick on the Thursday before his death; my daughter, Mrs. Burr, had been to see him, and she told me that he was ill; on Friday I went to see him but could get no speech from him; he gave no sign of recognition; I stopped three or four hours; Mr. Armstrong was sitting on the stoop; I went out and spoke to him; the house-keeper came up and said to Mr. Armstrong that he was a little better now, and he had better come and get him to make it now; I said is it possible that you are going to get him to make a will in that state; he said if Dr. Barrie will say "yes" or "no" to the proposals of the will that will be law; Dr. Barrie was very deaf, and could scarcely articulate without the false teeth; I never heard that Mrs. Thompson was not on good terms with him; myself and Dr. Barrie had arranged that we would go to Mrs. Thompson's the week after he took sick; sometime after I used the expression to Mr. Armstrong about the will that I got the impression that day I was at Dr. Barrie's that I was not wanted there and left; Mr. Armstrong said that Dr. Barrie had promised the house to Esther Argo, at the time we had the conversation.

To Mr Boyd—On Friday afternoon I thought that Dr. Barrie was racked with pain; I found out next morning from my daughter that the will was made; I was not astonished; I did not know what was the will till it was read; I think that the house had been given to Miss Argo; I expected some books from Dr. Barrie that he was going to select for me.

Re-examined by Mr. Robinson—I have not spent a cent in this suit, and have not been asked to do so.

The Court at this point adjourned for half an hour.

Charles Auld, sworn—I knew Dr. Barrie for twenty-four years; I became intimate with him after he came to reside at Guelph and visited him frequently; he told me latterly that he forgot things which he used to remember so well; at the time he took ill I noticed that he was sinking and became less talkative and more reserved; I saw him every day during his illness; on the Wednesday morning before his death he took seriously ill; he continued very bad after that time; I was with him on Thursday; he was very bad at that time; I left about noon Thursday and told Miss Argo if he took a turn for the worse to send for me; I was sent for before finishing my dinner; I found him out of bed; shortly after that a stupor came on him which never left him; Miss Argo said during that day "Do you know Mr. Auld," and he said, "Aye"; I was at Dr. Barrie's house when Dr. Herod came in the evening; Dr. Herod said, "Hadn't you better make a will, Doctor," and Dr. Barrie said, "Aye"; Dr. Herod said, "I will send for Mr. Torrance," and Dr. Barrie said "Aye" again; I left soon after Dr. Herod; Dr. Barrie was in a stupor when I left.

To Mr. Taylor—I say I saw Dr. Barrie on Thursday and that he fell into a stupor from which he did not rally; I did not notice him suffering on Friday and he remained in about the same state from morning till night; I was there while Rev. Mr. Smith was there on Friday; I heard Dr. Barrie say nothing during the whole of that day and I do not mind of any one speaking to him that day; I left about eight or nine o'clock that night; I am friendly to Mr. Torrance; I left his congregation three weeks before Dr. Barrie's death.

James Chambers, sworn, said—I am a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, and married a grand niece of Dr. Barrie; as soon as I could get my horses ready I went for Mrs. Thompson and brought her to Guelph; I reached Guelph about 11 o'clock Sunday morning; since 1871 I have known Dr. Barrie and attended his church; I did not notice particularly whether he had any loss of memory; the Saturday week previous to his death I saw him and said I hoped he would soon be better; he said "Well, James, if I am not better to-morrow or next day it will be a bad job with me."

William Thompson, sworn, said—I am a son of Mrs. Thompson, plaintiff; I was present at the reading of the will; Mr. Loghrin read the will; I asked if the will was signed; he said "No," but he said it was marked; I said the man who marked that was capable of writing his own name; Mr. Torrance said Dr. Barrie was not capable of writing his own name for a number of years; I asked the date of the will which was the 25th of July; Dr. Herod said he did not consider that Dr. Barrie was capable of doing business for the last five years; I asked what authority Mr. Torrance had to make the will, and he said he had made it by request of Dr. Herod; Dr. Herod said he was glad he was not there when the will was made; my brother asked when the will was signed; Gow said when he came "too" between 12 and 3 o'clock Saturday morning; they seemed dumfounded; before this will was written Gow had gone to see if there was a will made at Lemon, Peterson & McLean's; I understood Miss Argo was the only person who could properly understand what Dr. Barrie said; my mother and Dr. Barrie were always on good terms; my brother George Thompson is a railroad labourer.

To Mr. Boyd—My father made his will a few days before he died, aged 99 years; my brother who works on the railway got a share of $1,000 my father brought from the old country; when the will was read I believed there was a conspiracy to deprive the relatives of Dr. Barrie's property; I considered that the instigators were Dr. Herod, Mr. Gow, Mr. Torrance and Miss Argo; I never heard what he was going to do with his money; I expected that my mother would get a share of the money; I have no hand in managing this suit; Dr. Herod at the meeting stated that he advised Dr. Barrie to make his will either Friday morning or evening.

Joseph Wood, examined by Mr. Guthrie—I live in Eramosa and was an elder in Dr. Barrie's church; I was intimately acquainted with him; have known him ever since he came to Eramosa; before the Dr. had left Eramosa I noticed that he was becoming feeble both in body and mind; since he came to Guelph I have met him several times; I saw him on the Saturday before his death; he seemed to me to be dead to the world; I was there a couple of hours; I saw Mr. Loghrin there; he came in just before I left; Mr. Loghrin said it had been agreed amongst themselves that Mr. Torrance should draw a will, and stated that he regretted that such a thing should have been deferred to such a late hour.

To Mr. Boyd—I don't know that I understood a will had been drawn.

Mrs. Hicks, examined by Mr. Moss—I live in Guelph; my husband sold the house and lot, that Dr. Barrie lived in at the time of his death, to him; I don't recollect when he died; I have seen Miss Argo frequently; she came to my house about a week before the Doctor's death; I had no conversation with her; Miss Argo came down in the evening; she asked for Mr. Hicks, and said she wanted to see about the deed of the house, whether Dr. Barrie had got it or not; when she came she did not expect the Doctor to live.

To Mr. Boyd—Dr. Barrie paid $1,450 for the house and lot he bought from Mr. Hicks.

(CONCLUDED TO-MORROW.)

Ferguson v. Ferguson.—The parties live in Minto and are brothers. The plaintiff claims $600 from the defendant and alleges the money is due to him on a land transaction. The suit was referred to the arbitration of Messrs, D. Stirton and J. C. McLagan. Counsel for plaintiff—Mr. Boyd, Q.C., and Mr. Bain; for defendant, Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., Mr. Watt.

Lodge v. McCutchon.—This is a suit brought by Ann Lodge, of Fergus, against Charlotte McCutchon, asking a charge on defendant's lands in Fergus for payment to plaintiff of $75 per year, which plaintiff alleges defendant agreed to pay her. This defendant denies, and the Judge on the evidence of the documents executed by the plaintiff and defendant gave judgment against plaintiff's contention, and dismissed her bill with costs. Geo. Drew, Q.C., for plaintiff; J. A. Boyd, Q.C., and K. McLean for defendant.

THURSDAY EV'NG, MAY 27, 1880

THE result of the controverted election trial for the county of Argenteuil at Lachute on June 1st is awaited with much interest. The revelations of bribery, corruption, and intimidation, it is said, will be of a most positive character. Dr. Christie's friends report that the unseating of Mr. Abbot may be confidently expected.

PEOPLE in British Columbia are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Sir Charles Tupper to formally turn the first sod of the Pacific Railroad at the Western terminus on the 1st prox; Sir Charles, who is in Ottawa, has no intention of going, and far from being anxious is perfectly content. Somebody has been hoaxing the British Columbians.

La Patrie has an article on the cost of keeping a Legislative Council in Quebec. So far it reaches $434,664.78 for the twelve years elapsed since Confederation. In 1867 the expenses was only $21,571, but in the last year of the De Boucherville Administration it had reached $44,600. Mr. Joly succeeded in reducing it to $36,000.

THE Foreign Affairs Committee at Washington on Wednesday adopted a resolution introduced by Mr. Rice, of Massachusetts, asking for compensation for the fishermen concerned in the Fortune Bay affair, and for steps to be taken looking to the abrogation of the fishery clauses of the Treaty of Washington. No action was taken on the Loring Bill, recently introduced.

OTTAWA Free Press:—The Dominion Government is not acting in a generous or even fair spirit, in the matter of appointing Queen's Counsel. It will be remembered that when the decision of the Supreme Court was given, it was intimated that the appointments made by the Provincial Governments would be confirmed, with some few exceptions, but up to the present time nothing has been done. Meantime, we believe, the question is to be brought up in another shape and re-argued before the Supreme Court, and, if necessary, carried to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council for final decision.

IT seems the Government have determined on the removal of Mr. Sandford Fleming from the position of Chief Engineer of the Pacific Railway, and promoting Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, formerly Superintendent of Railways, to the railways, thus superseding Mr. Marcus Smith. Mr. Sandford Fleming will, however, be retained as consulting engineer. He is relieved of all charge of the department. These changes are the outcome of a Tory caucus held last session in Ottawa.

THE Government are busy dismissing postmasters of towns and villages for reasons best known to themselves, but easily surmised by the general public, as rabid partisans of the Tory stripe are being given the positions. It is understood that between 90 and 100 dismissals have taken place since the change in Government. The Tamworth postmaster was one of the latest victims, and when a protesting petition was sent in to the department, one in authority telegraphed back that 'all h—l couldn't change it now.' The policy of the Government is to give the positions to particular friends, regardless of public interest.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

Hespeler Correspondence.

The 24th passed off pleasantly here with one or two exceptions. A couple of the children of Mars being perhaps slightly influenced by the "crathur," indulged in some heavy "nox," which, however, resulted in nothing very serious. The next exception was the coolest trick of the day. Some time between eight and nine o'clock in the evening a young man (name unknown) entered the shed of the Queen's Hotel and backed out a horse and buggy belonging to Mr. Grup, who lives near here. Just as the thief was seated in the buggy the owner saw him, but of course the horse by the aid of the whip was fleeter of foot than the owner, and in spite of all, that horse, buggy and thief disappeared from our midst and have not, up to the present time, been heard of.

A large number of people assembled to witness the various sports and games which were well contested. The following is the prize list:—

Boat race—Boat of Mr. G. Chapman, rowed by Messrs. V. Conway and A. Baker; 2nd, boat Victor, rowed by Messrs. W. Renwick and J. Fields.

Standing jump—1st, William Hines: 2nd, G. McCaig.

Running jump—1st, William Hines, 2nd, H. McTernan.

High jump with pole—1st, C Hespeler, 2nd, W. Hines.

Running, hop, step and jump—1st, H. G. Arnfeldt; 2nd, D. McCaig.

Putting heavy stone—1st, G. McCaig, 2nd, A. Hines.

Boys race under 15, 100 yards—1st J McGinnis, 2nd H. Baltzes, 3rd A. McLaren.

Boys race under 12, 100 yards.—1st G. Baker, 2nd J. Anderson, 3rd A. McLaren.

Fat Man's race 100 yards.—1st W. Dawson, 2nd J. Little.

Girl's race over 14 100 yards.—1st Mary A. Woodhouse, 2nd Jennet Picken.

The dance in the evening in Glick's hall, given under the auspices of Hespeler brass band, was largely attended and passed off pleasantly, and we may also add that the music of said band did much towards enlivening the proceedings of the day.

We are happy to announce that Mr. James Holmes, son of Rev. E. Holmes of this village, and formerly a pupil of the public school here, succeeded in obtaining a 1st class certificate at the examination of students for the preliminary Theological course, held at Victoria College, Coburg, on the 28th and 29th of April last.

HARRISTON

Messrs. Lemon, Huston and Cole, of Minto, left here on Wednesday of last week for Manitoba, their intention being to take up land. Those gentlemen are among Minto's most successful agriculturists, all having, by dint of good management amassed a competence, so that should they decide to seek their future fortunes in the great North West their well natured experience will materially aid in developing the resources of that country.

Guthrie Church Young People's Association have decided to debate at their next meeting, which will be held in the church basement on Tuesday evening, the first of June, the following question, viz:—"Resolved that the statesman has been more beneficial to the country than the warrior. The affirmative will be supported by Messrs. A. B. Empey, W. A. Smith, B. A., and James Kerr; and the negative by Messrs. R. Hinds, William Kerr, junior, and John Meiklejohn. Mr. M. P. Empy, senior, will occupy the chair.

The notorious character, McQuarrie, whose name has appeared so conspicuously in the Toronto papers within the last few months in connection with those dens of infamy in that city, was a resident of this town for about a year previous to his going to Toronto, and his removal from here was not considered as being any injury to the morals of the place, but on the other hand that bad society, if it existed here, had lost one of its most prominent members.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Great Cotwyn.

An English Village Fifty Years Ago.

"——Many precious rites
And customs of our rural ancestry
Are gone or stealing from us."—Wordsworth.

A coroner's inquest mercifully returned a verdict of "temporary insanity." Squire Helworthy became a changed man. He was shunned by his neighbors; he deserted the hunting-field; he went about like one distraught; he started and trembled at the least unusual noise; and after a few years of sadness and self-reproach, he died unregretted.

My grandfather, Mr. Dyke, was the Mayor of Great Cotwyn. By trade he was a malster, a baker and a farmer. He became the father of eighteen children, thirteen of whom grew up, and nearly all of them lived to a good old age.

In Great Cotwyn there was a rickety old shanty, about two or three hundred years old, called the Town Hall or Market House, where the business of the corporation was supposed to be transacted, and justice administered; but under the benign rule of my grandfather justice was never dispensed; with him it was all mercy. In fact, it could scarcely be said that anything deserving to be stigmatized as a crime was ever perpetrated in the parish. Sometimes such a scene as the following would take place:—The Mayor, "Measter Dyke," as he was commonly called, would perhaps be leaning on the gate of his courtyard—the only court in which he ever presided—when Smallbones, the constable, who almost enjoyed a sinecure, would bring before His Worship a poor man who had been caught stealing sticks from a hedge belonging to a farmer.

The Mayor: "Well, Smallbones, what's the matter now?"

The Constable: "Please measter, here's Job Quelch been taking away part of Farmer Smart's new fence, and there is now a shard (a gap) in it."

The Mayor (trying to shape his genial features into a severe magisterial expression): "Quelch, you know this is a very wrong behaviour on your part. What have you to say for yourself?"

The Prisoner: "I'm very sorry I did it, Measter Dyke, but my poor missus was taken bad, and I wanted to warm some gruel for her, and I hadn't a stick in the place to light a fire with."

The Mayor: "The fact is that you are too lazy to go to the forest to gather wood for yourself, where you can have it for nothing, so to save yourself trouble, you tear down your neighbour's hedge" (after a minute's consideration, a smile which had been lurking about the corners of his eyes, as if it was half ashamed of its temerity in attacking a frown paramount for the occasion, at last burst with conquering benevolence over his whole countenance): "Look here, Quelch, don't let this occur again. Here's a shilling for you." (Then turning to the constable) "Tell Farmer Smart that to-morrow I will send Willmott to put his fence to rights again at my expense."

Eminent political economists will perhaps tell us that the style of conduct and government which I have represented on the part of the rulers of this parish, was calculated to demoralize and pauperize it; but, fortunately, no such ill consequences were produced.

Under the tender government of the Mayor and clergyman of Great Cotwyn, the people felt reluctant to do wrong for fear of giving pain to such kind and beneficent guardians. It was always a potent and often an irresistible caution to an intended evil doer, to say to him, "Now d'wun't 'ee do it. I tell 'ee, it 'ull offend the parson and Measter Dyke."

The most interesting person in the parish was the old mother of the Mayor. She was a widow, and the tenant of a farm called Brail, which she managed with great care and skill. She lived and preserved all her faculties to above the age of ninety, and at last she quietly crumbled away in the hands of her Maker, without her attendant knowing the exact time when her soul departed to its final and eternal home. The present generation has little or no experience of such beings as this old lady. She belonged to a type which could not flourish in this age of fastness, shallowness, pomp and indifferentism. She had never been ten miles from the place where she was born, and she knew little of the world and its ways. The sweet, simple earnestness of her character, the gentle affectionateness of her disposition, her promptitude in doing acts of kindness, her wholesome looks and artless manners, were all the growth of a nature and training which had never been hardened by contact with an artificial and a hypocritical state of society. She was so innocent that she could hardly realize the fact that there were criminals in active occupation. She had heard that there were thieves, forgers and murderers in the world, but she had a dim impression that they belonged to the fabulous and exciting annals of great towns, and that such sinful creatures could have no existence or mission in the peaceful moral homes of Tiltshire.

There were no locks or keys in her house, the doors of which were left on the latch night and day. She could not see the utility of bolts and bars, except for prisons; in fact, no one in Great Cotwyn, seventy years of age, would think of defending his goods by the skill of the locksmith; such protection was not the fashion in this guileless locality. Our old lady never had her bonnet on except on Sundays, when she went regularly to church, where her intellect and principles were developed and polished. Her education had been confined to the simplest rudiments of knowledge, but her industry, brightness of intelligence, and sensitiveness of soul, were of that healthy quality which cannot be acquired, and these endowments were more than a compensation for any disadvantages in her early school training. She was great in all housewifely duties; no one could excel her in cooking venison; her pastery and elder wine are still a fond memory with her now aged surviving grandchildren. She was, perhaps, one of the last great makers of "Furmenty," that royal food which once flourished in England, when time and skill were available for its preparation. It was made with grains of the choicest wheat, carefully scalded and skinned, simmered in the finest and freshest milk, and delicately flavored with sugar, spices and raisins. The great art was to give to the Furmenty the right pulpiness, tenderness, richness and flavor, with a degree of nicety and completeness which now-a-days no cook would be expected to cultivate and achieve. I once tasted it made as nearly as possible up to her standard, but I must forbear to dwell longer on the tantalizing and delicious theme.

Her vocabulary was limited, and now and then her words had a decidedly Tiltshire accent. She would say: "Now, d'wun't ee do it, my dear," or when she wanted the lighted candle extinguished, her expression would be, "d'out the light, my child."

One of her chief pleasures was to have her grandchildren about her, and she dearly liked them to read to her, especially histories and biographies. On one occasion, one of my aunts, then a fine bouncing lass of twelve years of age read to her the life and death of William Rufus, and the narrative terminated with the historical fact that "the body of the king was interred at Winchester."

Here the old lady gave a puzzled and suspicious look, as if her sense of decency was rather shocked, but as if she was not quite sure that she had heard correctly; and she inquired delicately and timidly:

"What did you say, my dear, that they did with him after his death at Winchester?"

"They interred his body, grandma."

"Oh, how very nasty! Shut up the book, my dear; I'm sure it is not proper for girls to read. Your grandfather, when he was alive, would scarcely have said such a thing. Really, I don't know what we are all coming to. They put things in books nowadays, that people would be ashamed to whisper about in my time."

Innocent, simple, primitive old dame!

The brother of this lady, Uncle Harry, as he was called, was a worthy and interesting oddity. He was a farmer and lived to the age of eighty-five. During his long life he never tasted wine, tea or coffee; his beverage at all his meals was good Tiltshire ale, brewed by himself from the best English malt and hops; and at night after supper he indulged in a glass of rum and water. He always wore breeches and worsted stockings: he never had on a pair of trousers, and he never took a journey on a stage coach.

In those days of bad roads, a carriage was rarely seen in out-of-the-way districts.

The principal mode of locomotion was on horseback. The wife of a farmer or gentleman would perch herself sideways on a pillion behind her husband, and with her arm round his waist, the two would jog along slowly but comfortably. The pillion was a sort of soft padded cushion secured by straps and buckles to the saddle. Three boys would straddle one pony without the slightest chance of being considered laughing-stocks by the passers-by.

Mothers!! Mothers!! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

Whitewashed Babies.

A missionary stationed at one of the South Sea Islands determined to give his residence a coat of whitewash. To obtain this in the absence of lime, coral was reduced to powder by burning. The natives watched the process of burning with interest, believing that the coral was being cooked for them to eat. Next morning they beheld the missionary's cottage glittering in the rising sun white as snow. They danced, they sang, they screamed with joy. The whole island was in commotion. Whitewash became the rage. Happy was the coquette who could enhance her charms by a dab of the white brush. Contentions arose. One party urged the superior rank; another obtained possession of the brush, and valiantly held it against all comers; a third tried to upset the tub to obtain some of the precious cosmetic. To quiet the hub-bub, more whitewash was made, and in a week not a hut, a domestic utensil, a war-club, or a garment but was as white as snow; not an inhabitant but had a skin painted with grotesque figures; not a pig that was not whitewashed, and even mothers might be seen in every direction capering joyously, and yelling with delight at the superior beauty of their whitewashed babies.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, tributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. H. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. Unprecedented Success.

A Crowded Store. Sales Increasing Daily.

The Dry Goods trade of the Lion, for the spring of 1880, has this far been a grand success eclipsing any former season's business. Thus we attribute to two reasons:—First, a more prosperous condition of the people. Second, the growing popularity of The Lion as the "People's Dry Goods House."

Never was our stock so full assorted. Never did we offer such value. Never have we done such a large trade.

MERCURY OFFICE,
GUELPH, May 27 1880

Our local market for the past week has been rather quiet, both as regards receipts and prices, still there is about as much of all kinds arriving as buyers seem anxious to purchase. Consequently we must only say that prices both here and outside are merely nominal, and from present appearances are very likely to continue nearly so for the summer months.

For wheat we notice that our buyers here pay about the same prices as they do in Toronto for similar grades, as also for oats and several other articles of produce, as may be seen by the figures we append.

There has been very little wool offered here as yet, but during the week we expect that the present warm weather will induce sheep shearing, so by next week we shall know better what the prices will in reality open at. The few fleeces offered brought 30c. We notice that prices in Boston for the past few days continued dull, which no doubt will have the effect of cooling the ardor of intending operators.

Any change in the articles will be seen by the following figures, corrected up to 3 o'clock this afternoon :—

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 28.—Traffic receipts for the Grand Trunk for the week ending the 22nd inst., were $191,538, increase of $40,624 over same week of last year.

The increase in the receipts of the Intercolonial Railway at Halifax, for the first four months of this year, was $8,447.

Prince Leopold, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. De Winton, left for Ottawa this morning. His Royal Highness will visit Ogdensburg en route.

The strike among the Allan stevedores has been amicably settled this morning, all the old hands employed for yesterday by the Company are to receive 20 cents per hour.

Prince Leopold at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 28.—Prince Leopold arrived here to-day and was driven to Stadacona Hall, the residence of Sir John A. Macdonald, where he lunched with the members of the Cabinet at present in the city. During the afternoon he will visit Parliament Buildings, Rideau Hall, &c., leaving by 10.45 o'clock train for the west.

Mr. Hutchinson, County Crown Attorney, for Middlesex, expresses the opinion that the Biddulph prisoners will be tried at the Fall Assizes, and not by a Special Commission as expected.

Sheriff Glass, of London, has received a letter from the Government in reference to the manner of allowing visitors to see the prisoners in the Biddulph murder cases. It is alleged that the gaoler, Mr. Lamb, has not only allowed the prisoners to have tobacco and everything else they want, but has also allowed the wives of Kennedy and McLaughlin to remain all night in the cells with them.

The Government's late Order in Council granting a small increase of the drawback on ship materials gives much dissatisfaction in the Lower Provinces, it being far below the Finance Minister's promise.

Information has been received in Mitchell, Ont., that Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, of Edinburgh, Scotland, left Liverpool for New York by the Cunard steamship Algeria, which sailed on the 22nd inst. Mrs. Bruce, who is the eldest daughter of Dr. Livingstone, of African fame, accompanies her husband on a short tour to some of the principal cities of the United States and Canada, is also visiting her relatives in the latter country.

GRILLA, Ont., March 22, 1880.—Messrs. Perry Davis & Son & Lawrence, Montreal. —I have great pleasure in testifying to the beneficial qualities of your PAIN-KILLER, which has been sold during the past 20 years to a large number of my customers who have invariably found it a sure and speedy remedy for those ailments which it professes to cure. Yours very truly, J. W. SLAVEN. See advertisement in another column,

TRUANT BOYS. — In Hamilton lately a number of boys have, at the request of their parents, been brought before the Police Magistrate and punished for playing truant. A similar proceeding with truant oys here might have a beneficial result.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—A correspondent here writing to the Globe, says: The Grangers are taking an active interest in the Model Farm. Several large bodies of them have already signified their intention of visiting the place, and the College authorities tell me they expect 1,000 to arrive about the middle of June.

CHECKERS.—Mr. Charles McNab, the champion checker player of Hamilton, was in Guelph last night, and had a few games with Mr. McKenzie at the American Hotel. Mr. McKenzie won five games, Mr. McNab two games, and two were drawn. He is considered one of the best players in Canada.

A SON of Mr. Hunt, tailor, employed at Messrs. Shaw & Murton's store, met with an accident a few days ago. He was trying to light a quantity of gunpowder by means of a fuse. After igniting the fuse he thought the light had gone out. On approaching the powder it exploded, burning his hands severely.

THE WATER WORKS.—The Water Works Commissioners have arranged for an official test of the engines constructed by Messrs. Inglis & Hunter. An examination and test of the engines is to be made this afternoon in presence of Messrs. Haskins, City Engineer, Hamilton, Mr. Keely, and of Mr. Inglis, City Engineer, and the Commissioners.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday evening while Mr. Wm. Benham, Guelph Township, was driving towards home, along the Eramosa road, his horse ran away and he was thrown out of the buggy. He was found sometime afterwards lying on the roadway in an unconscious condition. Besides a few bruises there were no outward signs of injury, but it is thought he may have been injured internally. Dr. Keating is attending him.

BALDWIN'S PINAFORE COMPANY.—This company of little artists arrived in the city this morning. About noon there was a street parade, the children, who were dressed in stage costume, occupying seven carriages. They looked very pretty and attracted a large share of attention. This evening the company play the ever popular opera H. M. S. Pinafore in the City Hall. The sparkling opera is well worth seeing, but when presented by juveniles must have a stronger attraction. They have played in many cities in the United States and in all the eastern towns and cities in Canada, and wherever they appeared the press has spoken highly of the performance. The reserved seats for this evening's performance are being rapidly sold, and the company will doubtless be greeted with a full house.

The corner stone of the new St. George's church, Owen Sound, was laid on Thursday by the Rev. Canon Mulholland, rector of the church.

Board of Education.

A special meeting of the Board was held on Thursday night. Present, Mr. Murton, chairman; Messrs. Newton, Skinner, Inglis, Swinford, Peterson, Burgess, Robertson and Innes.

The Secretary reported that he had received a reply from the Education Department, acknowledging the receipt of the communication in reference to the application of the Board to have the High School placed as a Collegiate Institute.

Some accounts were presented.

Mr. Peterson, chairman of the Special Committee on the Howard overpayment, reported that they have communicated with him respecting the matter. He informed the Committee that on examining the memorandum of payments, he found an overpayment was made, which he however contends was not at the time made to him amongst many others conceiously, and on examining the Architect's statement of March 12, 1877, respecting Mr. Howard's account with the Board, we find that it was owing to his mistake that the late chairman made the overpayment.

This arose in this way. He makes up that Mr. Howard's claim for contract work and various allowances came to $1,590.36, and adds that the total certified on account as paid to him was $1,350, leaving a balance due Mr. Howard of $540.36, and this balance he was, on the basis of the presumed accuracy of the Architect, paid in two sums of $360 and $180.36. But the fact was that the Architect's statement of only $1,350 having been paid was erroneous by $400, and should have been $1,750 instead.

Mr. Howard expressed his readiness to arrange the matter with the Board at once, but intimated that he wished to make a communication to them in relation to his claim, which is in dispute, however, for work and material at the Central School building, he claiming still a considerable sum. He said he would do so at the first meeting of the Board.

The chairman read the following letter from Mr. Howard:—

To the Board of Education.

GENTLEMEN:—Having now thoroughly investigated the accounts and payments in connection with my contracts on the Central School, I find that the overpayment amounting to about $180 has been made in excess of my claim.

The error appears to have been made through the architect having issued his certificate for more money than he should have done. As I depended on the architect and the chairman I was not aware that any mistake had been made, and, therefore, made the claim for the amount stated in my account, which had not been allowed, but to which I considered I was fairly entitled.

I regret this error should have occurred, and can assure the Board that I have no desire to retain money to which I have no just claim, and, therefore, propose to refund the amount above named, hoping it will be accepted in full settlement of the matter.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE HOWARD.

Guelph, May 26th, 1880.

The chairman read a communication from Mr. Tytler, Principal, informing the Board that George Puddy was very disorderly and incorrigible in Miss McNaughton's department.

Moved by Mr. Swinford, seconded by Mr. Robertson, that the Board having duly considered the report from Mr. Tytler, respecting the conduct of George Puddy, resolve that the said boy be expelled altogether from the school, and that the Principal be authorized in future to take any other pupil before the Police Magistrate who may similarly transgress the rules of the school. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Inglis, seconded by Mr. Skinner, that the report of the Special Committee on the Howard over-payment be referred back to that Committee, and that it be requested to take the necessary steps towards effecting a settlement of over-payment on contract on Central School. Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

The Agricultural Commission.

At the first meeting of the members of the Ontario Agricultural Commission a few weeks ago the only matters that could be accomplished were the organization of sections, with an indication, in general terms, of the work to be performed by each, and the preparation and approval of the questions to be sent out, under section No. 1, to the townships, relating more particularly to the condition of husbandry and the resources of the Province, which was a necessary preliminary to succeeding enquiries. We are glad to learn that a very large portion of the returns have been received, and that as a whole they are marked by prudence and judgment. It is expected that the Commissioners will be in session nearly the whole of the week after next. It is intended to call together several sections on Tuesday, the 8th prox., in order that they may report progress to a full session of the Commissioners on Wednesday, the 9th. On Thursday and Friday it is probable that oral testimony will be taken by the Commissioners on section No. 4, embracing fruit growing, forestry, insects and insectivorous birds and bee-keeping. At Tuesday's sitting an early day will probably be appointed for a meeting of section No. 3, relating to stock-raising, dairying, etc., to examine witnesses in that very important branch of inquiry.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

On Thursday evening a boy aged 13, son of Mr. McKelligan, foreman of Bronson's lumber mill, Ottawa, fell against a saw and one of his arms was cut completely off. The agonized father, who was an onlooker, lifted up his boy and carried him into the house near by. A mill hand followed with the arm.

Wellington Spring Chancery Sittings

Conclusion of the Evidence in the Barrie Will Case.

WEDNESDAY, May 26.

Helen Burr, sworn, said—I am a daughter of Wm. Mitchell; I was at Dr. Barrie's house the Friday before his death; first at 3 o'clock, then at 5 o'clock p.m.; he was not sensible when I saw him; Miss Argo spoke to him; I did not hear an answer, just a sound; when I went the second time I found Mr. Torrance there; I did not hear him propose to offer up prayer; on Saturday I saw Dr. Barrie; he seemed to be just the same as the previous day; I did not speak to him.

To Mr. Boyd—I told my father on Saturday that a will was made; that morning Miss Argo said a will had been made, and that Dr. Barrie had been thoughtful about everything.

George Thompson—sworn, said—I am a labourer on the G. W. R. near Fergus; I have nine of a family and get $1 per day; I did not hear that Dr. Barrie was ill till the Sunday before he died; I was present when Mr. Loghrin read the will, (witness corroborated what William Thompson said with reference to the questions put by the latter after the reading of the will and as to what Dr. Herod said.)

To Mr. Taylor—I visited Dr. Barrie two or three times after I came to work on the Wellington Grey and Bruce Railway.

Walter Thompson, sworn, said—I am a son of the plaintiff and have taken the principal part in attending to this case; my mother is the oldest survivor of the same family as Dr. Barrie belonged; our family and my uncle, Dr. Barrie, were always on good terms; my father and Dr. Barrie had been friends in the old country; on the 27th July last year Jas. Chambers came up and told us Dr. Barrie was sick; my mother started down and I came down on Monday to see him; I went home after his death and came back to the funeral; I was present at the reading of the will; Dr. Herod then said he had spoken to Dr. Barrie about making a will and he could not make Dr. Barrie understand him; the Doctor said deceased's mind was going fast and that he had not been capable of doing business this last five years; Mr. Torrance said Dr. Barrie was hard to understand, but Miss Argo could understand him; Dr. Herod said he took a worse turn between Wednesday night and Thursday morning and he never rallied again; Mr. Torrance said that before he drew the will he sent to Lemon, Peterson & McLean's to see if there was a will, but there was not one; Dr. Herod said he did not know Dr. Barrie had a sister; he said he was not there when the will was made and he was very glad; I saw John Armstrong, one of the executors, on the August fair day in Guelph, and he said my uncle's memory had been failing before his death.

To Mr. Boyd—I was present about an hour when the will was being read and after it was read; it was because of what Dr. Herod said at the meeting, and because of something Miss Argo told me Dr. Barrie attempted to do on Thurday that I brought this action; I was disappointed to find the contents of the will; I looked on the making of the will as a conspiracy; I got 150 acres and my brother 150 acres, and brother George a sixth part of £333 by my father's will; I have not seen any of Dr. Barrie's writing since 1877; I think Miss Argo wrote his letters latterly.

To Mr. Guthrie—On Thursday before Dr. Barrie's death he ordered Rev. Mr. Duff from the room and put on his underclothes to come down town.

Annie Chambers sworn, said—I am wife of James Chambers, already examined; I saw Dr. Barrie the Saturday before he died shortly after dinner time; he told me to give my mother, the plaintiff, who had been there a message; I said to Miss Argo that he must have forgotten that my mother was there; at the meeting after the funeral Dr. Herod said he was not present at the making of the will and he was glad he was not.

David Rea, sworn, said—I knew the late Dr. Barrie; was a member of his church; I drove him up to Mrs. Thompson's at his request on the 7th March, 1877; we stayed a couple of hours; they appeared to be on friendly terms; his memory was weak latterly.

Helen Mitchell, sworn, said—I am a daughter of George Mitchell; about two weeks before Dr. Barrie's death, I came to Guelph to attend the examination for candidates for third class teachers' certificates and stayed at his house; I was there four days; he would ask me things over three or four times; I was at the reading of the will; one day at dinner he asked me how far we were ahead with the harvest, having asked me the same question three times before; Miss Argo told him he had asked that question three times, and he said "my mind is completely gone."

Alex. Dickison, sworn, said—I knew Dr. Barrie for a long time; latterly he had a slight loss of memory; three or four years before his retirement, he made an application to be released from his charge; I saw him on his death bed the Saturday before his death; he was very low and did not recognize me.

Andrew Findlay, sworn, said—I knew Dr. Barrie; I saw him on Thursday during his last illness, he told me he was dying; he told me his memory was bad; he asked me if his eyes did not look wild; I said they did and he said his days was very fast drawing to a close; on Friday I went in to see him; he was unconscious; he was uttering words from which I could take no meaning; I remained an hour; I did not go back after three o'clock in the afternoon.

To Mr. Taylor—On Thursday of the week before he died he could not remember the names of persons he had known in the old country; I never heard him talk of his sister before this time; I did not try to rouse him on Friday; it was pain that was making him speak when I entered the room.

Rev. Dr. Reid, sworn, said—I am Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada; I am also Treasurer for certain schemes in connection with the Church; there are a number of schemes; Knox College Fund is formed from investments; the General Assembly has control of Knox College Endowment Fund; that is one fund referred to in the will; the principal is invested and the interest is used for paying Professor's salaries; the principal is not encroached on; the Home Mission and Foreign Mission Funds are under control of the General Assembly.

To Mr. Taylor—The Home and Foreign Mission Funds and the Endowment Fund of Knox College are what is meant in the will.

The counsel for the plaintiff submitted that they did not think it necessary to call the subscribing witnesses to the will, but if the Court thought it was the plaintiff was willing to call them.

His Lordship was not aware of a cause in which a will had been set aside without examining the subscribing witnesses, and he thought it was the duty of the plaintiff to call them. The subscribing witnesses were accordingly called.

John A. Davidson, sworn, said—I am a publisher; have lived in Guelph about 17 years; I have known Dr. Barrie for ten years; his last illness was noticed in the MERCURY; I had been there frequently before the Friday; I found Mrs. Armstrong, Alex. Gow and Miss Argo there; I do not think Mr. Torrance was there when I went, but think he arrived a few minutes afterwards; an hour after I went in they began drawing the will; I was in the dining room; I was in the dining room when the will was being drawn up; Mr. Torrance, Mr. Gow, Scott and myself were in the bed room when it was being read; I do not think any one was in the bed room when the will was being prepared except Mr. Torrance; it took about an hour and a half to draw it; I heard the remarks between Mr. Torrance and Dr. Barrie; about the first I heard was Mr. Torrance asking what he would do with the house; before this he asked if he would write the will; Mr. Torrance asked Dr. Barrie if he would give that property to Miss Argo; he said, "Yes, if she bide with me to the end of the chapter;" Mr. Torrance asked whether he would give anything to Mrs. Thompson; he said, "No, she has enough;" Miss Argo, I think, was in the kitchen most of the time; I heard Mr. Torrance ask these questions distinctly, and paid some attention to the will because he had asked me a short time time before if I would become a witness to it; Mr. Torrance or Miss Argo referred to two ladies living in New York who were distant relations; he said they could work for their living; he spoke loudly and answered whenever he was spoken to; he entered into no conversation; Dr. Barrie said, when Mr. Torrance mentioned the names of Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Mitchell, no, they had enough; Mr. Torrance mentioned a relative in the old country, and he assented to leaving her $500 in the will; it seems to me that Mr. Torrance asked what was to be done with the books and who they would be left to; I think probably Dr. Barrie said Miss Argo; I think probably some one asked him whether the furniture would go to Miss Argo, and that he answered "yes"; I did not suggest to any one that the will should be made; I was sitting where I could see Mr. Torrance, he could see me but the Doctor could not see me; I think that when Mr. Torrance asked if he would leave something to Mrs. Thompson, he used the word "sister," also; Mr. Torrance did not say any more than will you leave Mrs. Mitchell something; he said no; Mr. Torrance asked him what he would do with the balance—if he would leave it to the three schemes of the church (mentioning the schemes), and the doctor said "yes"; Mr. Gow suggested that he should leave something to the General Hospital; first he said "yes," and afterwards "no"; when the will was written it was taken into the room and read; when the clause giving $500 to the lady in the old country was read he said "no"; he was asked several sums, and when asked if he could make it $200 he said "yes"; the will was read clause by clause and at the end of each he was asked if that was correct, and he said "Yes" or "No;" Mr. Torrance said his mark would do as well as his signature to the will; I signed my name and Mr. Scott signed his; I should think the doctor could see me writing; I do not suppose he was looking at us; he had his eyes closed as the will was being read; it must have been about eleven o'clock p.m. when the will was read.

To Mr. Boyd—I was at Dr. Barrie's house frequently; the week previous I spent an evening with him; he spoke of a trip to the Old Country some years ago; his memory was good; he spoke to me about things in the Old Country in which I was interested, with clearness; on the night the will was read I went for Dr. Herod to ask him to be present; he said he was tired and did not think it necessary to go; I had no doubt that the questions put to Dr. Barry by Mr. Torrance in reference to the will was perfectly understood; the will was read slowly and distinctly; I thought Dr. Barrie understood what he was doing, because of the objections he made to the legacies to the General Hospital; the $500 to Mrs. Strahan in the Old Country; his sister, Mrs. Thompson, and Mrs. Mitchell and relatives, and because of the quaint and characteristic expression "If she abide to the end of the chapter," in reference to the legacy to Miss Argo; he was a strong minded man, pleasant in conversation.

To Mr. Robertson—On the Saturday he called me by name; I said I was sorry to see him in such a low state; I think he was a man of warm attachment to his friends and acquaintances.

Walter Scott, sworn, said.—I knew the late Rev. Dr. Barrie and was at his house on the Friday evening before his death; Miss Argo took me in to see him; she said he was very poorly—I found him very poorly; he was in bed; he was not breathing heavily; she woke him up while I was there; she said that Walter Scott had come to see him; he said he always liked his lads to come and see him; I went down town shortly afterwards, but returned to the Doctor's house. I went into the bedroom, when I went in Mr. and Mrs. Davidson were in the dining room; Mrs. Armstrong and Miss Argo, Mr. Gow and Rev. Mr. Torrance were all in the room; I did not go into the bedroom again that evening until I went in to hear the will read over; I do not remember whether I was asked to go in or not; I would not swear in what position the Doctor was lying; I took particular notice of the way in which the proceedings were conducted; I think that the first thing that was done was that the first clause in the will was read over; I do not remember the number of the clause, but recollect the clause being read referring to the house and lot; there may have been others read before that but I did not hear them; I am sure that I heard that one read, it was read and the Doctor consented to it; Mr. Torrance asked him how that suited; I do not remember what he said, he spoke but I cannot remember what he said; Mr. Torrance read over that portion referring to some relation in the old country; he was afterwards dissatisfied with the amount left to this relative—500—and it was changed to $200; he said $500 was too much; I cannot remember what sum he suggested but think t was $300; I do not remember anyone else saying anything about the sum besides himself; Mr. Torrance helped him up in his bed to sign the will; Mr. Torrance was out of the bedroom when he wrote the will; Dr. Barrie made the name opposite his signature while Mr. Torrance held his hand; Mr. Torrance said, "You know what you are doing Dr.," and he said he did; this was after he made the signature; as soon as the will was read we went outside the bedroom and Mr. Torrance asked Mr. Davidson to become a witness to the will; then he asked me to become a witness; this was the first intimation I had that I was going to be a witness; I don't recollect where Mr. Davidson was when the will was signed; Mr. Torrance was standing beside me near the table; don't recollect at what part of the table I was when the will was signed; the Dr. was then lying in the middle of the bed; I don't know what his position was; I think he was lying on his back; I don't know how he was lying when we went in.

Mr. Boyd—I never witnessed a will, never was in a Court before; the 1st I heard was some word about leaving some money to the girls in N. Y.; he said they were able to work for a living; there was no difficulty in understanding what he meant; Mr. Gow suggested something to be given to the General Hospital.

This closed the case for the plaintiff.

The Court adjourned for three quarters of an hour. On resuming the case for the defence was opened.

Elsie Davidson, examined by Mr. Boyd, said.—I knew Dr. Barrie since 1862; he spoke about the old country during his illness, and said he should like to have gone to the old country; he seemed just as usual then, but as we were talking he became drowsy; I was at Dr. Barrie's when the clause of the will was read leaving the legacy to Miss Strahan in the old country, and that referring to the friends in New York; I heard Dr. Barrie say of the latter that they were young and could work for themselves; some one mentioned the hospital, but he said no; I was present when the clause giving $500 to Miss Strahan was read, and he objected to so large a sum; he said distinctly, "I am a poor man;" his voice was natural, for I heard him in the next room; some one mentioned the Bible Society, but he objected; I was there when Mr. Torrance read the will clause by clause; at the end of every clause he answered, expressing his satisfaction; I thought he understood; when it was mentioned about signing the will, he tried to raise himself up, but Mr. Torrance said not to mind, his mark would do as well; my impression was that he would sign it; on Saturday, he seemed much easier than on the previous day; he said to me when I went in, "Oh lassie, is it you?" and he said, "I have a long road before me;" Rev. Mr. Howie came in and offered up prayer; Dr. Barrie understood what was going on, because he clasped his hands and said "Amen."

To Mr. Robertson.—When I went it on Friday they were making the will; Mr. Torrance asked Dr. Barrie the question; I thought his mind was strong enough; the night of the funeral was the first I heard of a dispute about the will; I thought I heard Dr. Barrie say that the money was to be equally divided between the schemes of the church; I understood that it was between all the schemes of the churches; I also heard him speak about being a poor man and saying "yes" or "no" in answer to questions; I thought that perhaps Mr. Torrance repeated "equally divided between the schemes of the church" before I heard Dr. Barrie do so.

Dr. Herod, examined, said—I am a practitioner and have been practicing since 1854; I attended Dr. Barrie in his last illness; his trouble had no effect on his mind or memory; I remember when the will was made and had conversation with him; in pursuance with my usual practice I asked him on the Friday if he had made his will; the question originated with myself; on that morning, knowing that Mr. Torrance was an intimate friend of Dr. Barrie's, I spoke to him about the importance of making a will; he said if you want me send for me to the Central School; I went expressly to ask Dr. Barrie about his will a short time afterwards; I said to him, "Have you a will;" he said "No;" I said to him, "Do you remember a conversation we had when Mr. Sandilands was on his death bed;" he said "No;" I said, "Don't you remember that we had a conversation at that time about Mr. Sandilands being without a will, and you said how foolish it was for a man to die without a will?" he said he remembered it perfectly now; "Well," I said, "don't you think it is foolish for you to die without making a will;" he then said he knew he was on his death bed; he said Mr. Sandilands felt easier after he made his will; that conversation we were referring to was in 1864; about five o'clock at same evening on which the last conversation took place I met Mr. Torrance and told him that I had had promised to be at Dr. Barrie's and to bring Mr. Torrance before five o'clock; Mr. Torrance went to my place and had tea while I went to Dr. Barrie's house to perform an operation on him to relieve him; I asked him if he wanted a will and he said by all means he wanted a will made; I said "Who are you going to have to draw your will, Mr. McLean?" he said "No," loudly; I said "Who then;" he said, "Torrance, he knows my affairs better than any other man;" when I performed the operation I remember Mr. Gow was in the room; I told him I left Mr. Torrance taking his dinner at my house and I was going for him; when I got home I sat down and thought over the case; Dr. Barrie was an eccentric man but he was perfectly sane; he recognized me up till the Monday morning on which he died; I saw Dr. Barrie the Saturday before his death and said "Well, Mr. Barrie how do you feel this morning?" he said well I feel pretty comfortable this morning; I asked him if he made his will; he said "yes and there is a great weight off my mind"; I apologised for not coming to help to draw the will; he said that's all right; Mr. Torrance drew the will; I gave him a mixture of bromide of potassium, and morphine on Thursday, and in the evening I saw him again and he had a sleep and was rational; Monday morning was the first time he did not recognize me; I was at the reading of the will after the funeral; the will was read afterwards—there was a large number in the room—some young men among them began to throw sneers at Mr. Torrance; I said the onus of the will lies with me, for I advised that it should be made; I said if Dr. Barrie had not sense to make his will on Friday night he had not sense enough to do so for ten years; I said I was glad I was not present when the will was made because of the onus resting on those present.

To Mr. Robertson—I think that up till the Monday morning of his death he was competent to make his will; I think he had made up his mind as to how he was going to divide his property ten years before; he was a decided man; for the last two or three years he did not remember things that happened a short time before so well as those that happened twenty years before, but that is common with old age; it was a perfect surprise to me that he had a sister here; Mr. Auld might have been in the dining-room, but he was not in the bed-room when I spoke to Dr. Barrie about a will, for I closed the door, as I went on private business; Mr. Auld might have been in the bed-room while I was using the catheter, which was the last thing I did; I never said that Dr. Barrie took a bad turn on the Wednesday night or Thursday morning, from which he never rallied; if five or six witnesses say I did say so, in my opinion they are wrong; I think he suffered more pain after than before I introduced the catheter; my conversation with Dr. Barrie on Friday evening lasted but five minutes; Mr. Davidson came for me to go to Dr. Barrie's to make the will after I had returned home; I said I did not think it was necessary for me to go; I did not see Mrs. Auld there that afternoon; the only face that I can recollect as being there that night was Mr. Gow's; I recollect distinctly that until Monday morning Dr. Barrie was sensible; during the whole of Friday he was perfectly competent to make his will; on Thursday night he was perfectly competent, for the effects of some medicine I gave him were gone and he had had a sleep.

Rev. Mr. Duff examined by Mr. Taylor,—I am pastor of the church at Eramosa and live at Elora; I have known Dr. Barrie since the year 1849; we were intimately acquainted; he told me several times some years ago and about a month or six weeks before his death that he was not indebted to his friends and that the Church would get his money when he was done with it; his memory was not quite so retentive as it had been; on Thursday I saw him and remained till about three or four o'clock the next afternoon; he was under the influence of medicine; about twelve o'clock on Thursday night he was as clear in his mind as could be; during Friday he seemed to suffer till about three o'clock in the morning; Dr. Herod came in the forenoon; Dr. Barrie was a man of indomnitable will; it would not have been easy to change him from any purpose.

To Mr Moss.—I saw Dr. Barrie six or seven times after he got into his new house; he was well pleased with the property; I remember Mr. Smith being at Dr. Barrie's house on Friday; he was suffering; Mr. Smith proposed prayer, I said he was quiet and it was not necessary to disturb him.

George Barron, examined by Mr. Boyd, said—Dr. Barrie told me that he had worked for himself since he was ten years old; he said he had never been obliged to a friend, and I understood from him that he intended to leave his money to the Church; he expressed himself, in our house, that he was particularly well satisfied with Miss Argo; I heard him say in reference to her that she was a jewel; he said that those who were kind to him on his death bed would be rewarded.

To. Mr. Robertson—He told me twenty years ago that he was going to leave his money to the Church; the only relative I ever heard him speak about was the brother who had come to the United States some years before.

Eliza Armstrong, examined by Mr. Boyd, said,—I saw Dr. Barrie on Friday afternoon before he died; about three in the afternoon; when he wakened he knew me; he asked for some milk, and I gave it him; after drinking it he said it was very good; I staid in his house till after he died; Dr. Herod asked Dr. Barrie if he would like to make his will? and he said he would in a firm, loud voice; Dr. Barrie understood what he was doing perfectly well; I heard him say "I will leave the house and lot to Ester Argo if she remains with me to the end of the chapter;" the Dr. said he would leave Miss Strachan something, but that he would give his New York neices nothing, as they could work for themselves; he was asked if he would leave anything to hospital? He said "yes;" I suggested that he should leave something to Home and Foreign Missions; he again said "yes;" he once told me he would never leave anything to any of his friends, as they had done nothing for him; after the will had been filled up in this way, it was read over, and he said that Miss Strahan had received too much, and that it was to be changed to $200; at the end of each clause he was asked if it was correct, he said "yes;" it was then signed before witnesses, who were in the other room, but in such a position that they could easily see the Dr.; Mr. Torrance asked him if he was willing to sign the will? he replied very quickly "Yes, I am," and at the same time reached out his hand for the pen; he was so weak that Mr. Torrance wrote his name for him and he acknowledged it by his cross; Mr. Howie came to worship with him Saturday morning and the Dr. said after the religious exercices that he heard every word.

To Mr. Robinson—I got to the Dr.'s house about three o'clock Saturday afternoon; I talked for only a moment; he said he was suffering great pain; I remained there the rest of the day; I heard Dr. Herod ask him about a will; I was in the dining room but could hear everything quite plainly; the only thing I heard pass between them was regarding the will.

To Mr. Robinson—I was there while the will was being made; the first question I remember Mr. Torrance asking him was, "Who will you leave the house and lot to;" no one asked him if he would leave it to Miss Argo; Dr. Barrie first mentioned her name and not Mr. Torrance; I think the books came next, and I think Dr. Barrie suggested Miss Argo, but I don't recollect distinctly; Mr. Torrance asked if the money was to be equally divided in the schemes of the church and Dr. Barrie said "Yes;" Mr. Torrance also mentioned the names of Miss Argo and Mrs. Mitchell; after the will was read clause by clause it was signed.

Mrs. Thomas Elliott said—I was examined by Mr. Taylor; I was acquainted with Dr. Barrie; I saw him about 1:30 o'clock on the Thursday before his death; he appeared to be sick; in the afternoon he seemed better than at that time and was quieter; I saw him on Friday afternoon but did not speak to him; I called at his house on Sunday afternoon again and saw Mrs Mitchell, and asked her how the Doctor was; she said he was sensible; after his death Mrs. Thompson said he was sensible to the last; she said he was gone now and she was so glad he was sensible to the last.

To Mr. Guthrie—I remember the exact words Mrs. Thompson told me about Dr. Barrie being sensible to the last; I saw him last on Monday morning and my opinion was that he was sensible, though I did not speak to him.

Mrs. Jane Dryden examined by Mr. McLean—I was once housekeeper for Dr. Barrie—about 25 years ago; he never told me how he was going to dispose of the rest of his property besides his house; I lived with Dr. Barrie five years and only saw Mrs. Thompson once there in that time.

To Mr. Moss—I do not remember if Mrs. Thompson was not in the country when I was Dr. Barrie's housekeeper; Mrs. Mitchell came frequently then; he told me while in the course of a conversation while in this city that he wanted to get a house for his housekeeper; he was living at Mr. McElderry's in this city when he told me this; he spoke of the house he afterwards got from Mr. Hicks.

To Mr. McLean.—I saw Dr. Barrie the Saturday before he died, and he seemed to be quite sensible; I asked how he was and he said quite weak; I could understand him, he spoke quite plainly.

Rev. James Howie examined by Mr. Boyd—I knew Dr. Barrie for 15 years and specially for the last fou ryears; on Saturday morning before his death I saw him; Miss Argo told him I was there and he said he was glad; I asked him if he was resting on Christ for salvation; he said "Yes, there is no other name under heaven or among men whereby we may be saved"; I asked him if I would pray, he said "yes"; I afterwards indicated a psalm and pointed to a number and he said it is a beautiful psalm.

Thomas Scott Elliot, examined by Mr. Boyd—I knew Dr. Barrie and lived near him while he was in Guelph; I saw him frequently; I remember the Monday he died; I saw him the Thursday morning before that; on Saturday I lifted Dr. Barrie and he told me to be cautious; I heard Mrs. Mitchell say to my wife on Sunday that Dr. Barrie was weak but perfectly sensible.

To Mr. Guthrie—On Monday I did not look at Dr. Barrie but my impression was that he was sensible; he had the same appearance that he had before.

James Hicks, examined by Mr. Boyd—The day Dr. Barrie bought the house he said he would let me know the same evening or next day whether he would buy the house, but wanted to see the house first; he told me that he intended to leave the house to his house-keeper at his death.

William Weir, examined by Mr. Boyd—I knew Dr. Barrie nearly twenty years ago; I know of a house he bought in Guelph; he took me to it and told me he was going to leave it to his house-keeper; he afterwards spoke about her and said if she remained with him he would not forget her.

To Mr. Guthrie—He told me not to say anything about this matter and I did not do so; he did not speak of leaving her anything else.

Alexander Gow, examined by Mr. Boyd, said.—I knew Dr. Barrie for some 30 years; I remember him buying a house in Guelph; I went with him to see one house for which the owner wanted $1,400; he would not give that and said he would have to suit the girl; I was at his house Thursday night of his last illness; he passed the night very badly but was sensible; I left about 6 o'clock the next morning; I returned to Dr. Barrie's the next evening; Dr. Herod came and relieved him that evening after he made an operation on the patient; he asked Dr. Barrie if he made a will and he said no; (witness in the main corroborated the evidence of the witnesses in the house while the will was being drawn); he had no doubt but Dr. Barrie knew what he was doing when the will was made.

To Mr. Robinson—I thought Dr. Barrie was suffering very much on Thursday night; Dr. Herod performed an operation and he seemed much relieved; Dr. Herod asked Dr. Barrie if he had settled his affairs; he replied no; Dr. Herod asked him if he wanted to and he said yes; when the will was being made I asked if Esther was to get the books and everything that was in the house and he said yes; it was Mr. Torrance who asked Dr. Barrie to sign.

To Mr. Robinson—Dr. Barrie was bad the night before the will was made, but was easy the night it was made; on Thursday night he could not have made a will.

John A. Armstrong, examined by Mr. Taylor, said — I knew Dr. Barrie since 1843; I had conversations with him about the disposal of his property; he once told me that what he had he would leave to the Church at his death; he said his friends were well enough off and he would not leave them anything; I visited him frequently before his death; on the Friday before his death I went to see him; it was getting on for seven o'clock in the evening; I asked him when I went into his room that afternoon how he was and he said poorly; on Sunday I went, in about 11 o'clock in the forenoon and he seemed livelier than he had the previous day; I heard Mrs. Mitchell say she was glad he had his senses to the last.

To Mr. Moss—Dr. Barrie never told me he had made a will and that I had become one of the executors; I asked Mr. Torrance to get a will made if there was no previous one; he replied he did not want to have anything to do with it; I never heard Dr. Barrie mention anything about his sister; I have heard Miss Argo say that if she stayed with him during his life he would leave her pretty comfortably off; he has mentioned the Church schemes to me several times.

RECALLED:

Mr. Mitchell, re-examined by Mr. Roberston.—Dr. Barrie spoke of going to the old country to spend the rest of his days; he had enough money to keep him there; he said he would remain there, and I said I thought it would be a very good idea; he talked to me of his matters often, but never told me that he intended leaving anything to the Church.

James Loghrin, re-examined by Mr. Guthrie.—I knew Dr. Barrie intimately; he never told me that he intended to leave anything to the Church.

To Mr. Boyd.—He wanted me to leave a part of my property to the Endowment Fund of Knox College.

David Rea, re-examined by Mr. Guthrie—Dr. Barrie never said what he was going to do with his property; I knew him intimately, and was a member of his congregation for many years.

This concluded the evidence, and the Court adjourned at 1.45 a. m., and His Lordship announced that the case would be argued at Toronto, on June 3rd.

Cook vs. Credit Valley Railway Co.—Bill filed by Morris Cook, of Garafraxa, against the Credit Valley Railway Company for an injunction to restrain the Company from entering upon his lands and running their trains over them until they should pay him the value of the lands and make three proper under-crossings on his farm. Decree for Plaintiff, granting the injunction prayed for, with costs. Mr. Guthrie, Q. C., and Mr. Watt, for Plaintiff; Mr. Boyd, Q. C., and Mr. Jamieson, for Defendants.

Roat v. Shoemaker—Suit to recover amount of a promissory note for $748, given in September, 1879, by defendant, Daniel Shoemaker, and to set aside a conveyance made on the 15th October, 1879, by him, of all his property to his daughter the defendant, Mrs. Tilt, for a debt of $1,150, said to be owing for board and lodging for eighteen years. The case is in progress. J. A. Boyd, Q. C., and Alex. Millar, for plaintiff; D. B. Read, Q. C., and C. A. Durand, for defendant.

The New Dundee Creamery.

To the Editor of the Mercury

SIR,—Having seen in a copy of your paper of the 19th inst., a paragraph stating that a Mr. Brill had made a first shipment of butter from his New Dundee Factory, I should like very much to know where Mr. Brill's factory is situated in New Dundee, as there is only one factory in the vicinity, and it is a Joint Stock Company in which Mr. Brill has no stock whatever, and never purchased a pound of butter from the said Company.

Yours, &c.,
Secretary of Beaver Creek Creamery Company.

RECEPTION TO DISTINGUISHED METHODIST MINISTERS.—The Methodist community of Toronto are now being favoured with a visit from two prominent representatives of the parent body in the old land, who have come across the Atlantic as delegates to the recent general Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Cincinnati. These are Rev. Wallace McMullen, the delegate from the Irish Conference, and Rev. Wm. Arthur, M.A., the senior representative of the British Wesleyan Conference. They were accorded a public reception in the Elm street church on Thursday night, when an address of welcome was presented to them, expressing the pleasure the Methodist body had in having them present.

An English Village Fifty Years Ago.

"——Many precious rites
And customs of our rural ancestry
Are gone or stealing from us."—Wordsworth.

One night I was sitting with my uncle in a room next to his warehouse, and pleasantly chatting about past times, when we heard a gentle rap at the ware house door. My uncle left me to ascertain who it was that had come at such a late hour. After an absence of about ten minutes he rejoined me, and I noticed that he seemed gratified.

"Well," I remarked, "you appear pleased."

"You will never guess who called," he replied; "it was Norris, the bricklayer, who got into my debt some ago, and I had made up my mind that I should never see the money. He has just paid me."

"Then," said I, "I suppose he has been in luck's way.

"Indeed he has," replied my uncle. "Very remarkably so. He has ceased to be a bricklayer, and has become a builder."

"Ah, indeed; how did that happen?" I enquired.

"I will tell you. Norris has a beautiful fair-haired daughter, a very good affectionate girl, with winning blue eyes, neat ways and gentle pleasing manners. She became a nursemaid in a family of quailty, and went for a tour in Italy. While in that country she captivated an Italian Marquis, and he has actually married her. He is, I am told, a capital fellow, a thorough gentleman, with rank, influence and estates; and what is of far more consequence, he possesses a sensible head and an excellent heart. With his wife, their first child, and a retinue of servants, he has just been paying a visit to our own Marquis and Marchioness of Amesbury. He is not ashamed of his humble father-in-law, and he has started him in business as a master-builder. Think of that for a change of fortune!"

Luke Trimmer, the poacher, flourished in these parts, and was, in his particular line, one of the most artful and successful schemers that ever baffled a gamekeeper.

Luke had a rare gift of cunning combined with humor, and if he had been brought up to the stage he might have distinguished himself as a "low comedian." He was employed as a thatcher and hostler on Sunny Farm. He was an active man; his figure was lithe and compact; his face was rather fat, round and ruddy, and slightly pitted with the small-pox; his hair was of a sandy hue, and from under his shaggy eyebrows there gleamed a pair of bright small blue eyes, with a mild expression which almost persuaded the observer that Luke was incapable of perpetrating any offence more serious than a practical joke; but he knew himself to be one of the most ingenious strategists in the county.

One Saturday afternoon in the month of November, a friend came to see Luke, and said to him; "I wish you would get a hare for me."

"I'll try," replied Luke, and accordingly that night he set a snare in a likely place, for he knew every hare-run in the neighborhood.

The next morning, being Sunday, he went to the spot where the snare was laid, and there, sure enough, was a hare caught in the wire; but there had been a frost in the night, and Luke noticed marks of footsteps freshly imprinted on the frozen leaves and grass, and he felt certain that the gamekeepers were on the watch for him, for he was as crafty as a red Indian; he looked at the hare, stroked his chin in a thoughtful mood, then keenly glanced round and said to himself: "I mustn't touch that creature now. I suspect the keepers are on my track." So, with prudent self denial, he turned on his heel and went home, but he had determined on his plot. He took into his confidence his stable companion, Jabez, who was quite equal to the emergency.

"Jabez," said he, with a sly twinkle in his eye, "there's a hare caught in the hedge of Midland wood, close to the ash, and I want you to help me to get it. If you go down Wolf Drove while I sneak across Longfield patch, we shall manage to beat the keepers. Skulk behind the hedge, and when you see me turn tail and run away, slip out quickly, secure the hare and bolt with it here."

In accordance with this plan, Luke sauntered to the place where the hare was snared, looked about him with assumed fruitiveness, took out his long bladed pocket-knife, and then with artful, but not overacted ostentation, deliberately sharpened the weapon on his boot. He suddenly made a dash at the hedge, gathered up a heap of leaves in his apron, and took to his heels with the greatest alacrity. He was right in his suspicion, the keepers were on the alert, hiding, and they darted after him. Luke, after leading them a "convenient chase," allowed his pursuers to gain upon him; he then stopped, turned round and asked them, with the look of an injured innocent, what they wanted of him. The keepers, elated with the apparent success of their stratagem, retorted with an air of triumph, for they thought they had at last caught Luke in the very act:

"You know what we want; it is that hare in your apron; give it to us quietly, and then we shall look you up."

"I have no hare in my apron," replied Luke with a tone and manner of edifying unction and meekness.

"Don't play the fool with us," exclaimed the keepers, as they roughly seized hold of him. In the struggle, out dropped the heap of leaves. Luke smiled; the keepers looked silly and defeated. Meanwhile, Jabez, taking advantage of the scuffle, slipped out of his hiding place, captured the hare, and carried it off safely to the stables, and the keepers had to beg Luke's pardon for their misplaced suspicion and offensive behavior.

On another occasion, about 6 o'clock in the morning, the keepers caught sight of Luke prowling about some preserves, and they immediately gave chase; Luke's boots were unlaced, for he had got up in a hurry that day, and as he ran they made such a noisy clatter that even when he was out of sight the sound betrayed the direction of his flight. Luke at once perceived that he was giving his pursuers a dangerous andvantage, so he dodged through a copse, stooped down for a moment, snatched off his boots, and rushed home, reaching it so quietly that, when he entered the kitchen, the maid, who, with her back to the door, was cleaning a saucepan, never saw or heard anything of him, and he managed to creep behind her and get upstairs unobserved. Immediatly afterward he came down again very coolly, as if he had just risen from his bed, and entered into conversation with the girl about the weather in general, and his breakfast in particular. The next day there was brought a summons for Luke to appear before the magistrates for "trespassing in pursuit of game." The girl was brought forward as a witness. She was ready and enabled to swear with perfect good faith that Luke had not left the house that morning at 6 o'clock, as she saw him come down from his room at that hour. This evidence was so conclusive that Luke was discharged forthwith, and the keepers were once more considered to be "a couple of fools."

The quaintness of Great Cotwyn is fast dying out. The place now boasts of a railway station, gas works, a national school, a Ritualistic service, and a policeman. Justice is now administered therein accordance with the strictest legal formalities and rules of evidence. Bolts and bars are in vogue, and everything portable is kept under lock and key. The small birds have almost ceased to build their nests in the thatched roofs of the cottages, for the very good reason that the thatch itself has nearly disappeared. Neat brick houses, with red tile roofs, have replaced the old picturesque dwellings of the poor, and the rioety, mildewed old town has been levelled with the ground and carted away. Civilization and modern progress are slowly doing their work of abolishing the special attractions and associations of the past. The loving and beloved beings of former times are gradually moving away, and disappearing behind the veil of eternity.

HOME EVIDENCE IN FAVOR
—OF THE—
PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 1.

If you wish to save yourself, your family, and your friends a world of suffering and pain, which at present they endure needlessly, and also save many dollars in Doctor's bills, go at once to the nearest store, and buy a few bottles of PAIN-KILLER.

WHY experiment with unknown mixtures without character or reputation, when this world-renowned PAIN-KILLER which has stood the test of over 40 years, can be had for the same price at any Drug Store in the Dominion?

READ THE FOLLOWING.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 2, 1880.

The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last 22 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhœa, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

Yours, H. F. MacCARTHY.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purposes for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, ONT., February 26, 1880.

We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis' Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, during which time it has taken the lead in sales over all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade. Yours truly,

W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send no end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excelsior Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being out of it.

Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

STOCO, ONT., February 17, 1880.

We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies in the market—some bearing nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. We have been selling Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.

Yours truly P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, ONT., March 9, 1880.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justly entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable: being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, chiefly as a liniment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and pains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptation, and send you this certificate that you may assure the public that it is no humbug.

Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

ESCOTT, ONT, March 4, 1880.

We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a resort in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by cold.

JEREMIAH CURTIN,
J. J. DOWSLEY,
JOSEPH P. REDMOND.
ARCH. GREER.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 25, 1880.

I have used your Pain-Killer for the last twenty years. I carried it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have been dead long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours very truly, N. W. LAFONTAINE.

PORTLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have sold the Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.

S. S. SCOVIL.

PRESCOTT, ONT., February 27, 1880.

I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations. Yours, &c.

GEO. BIRKS.

COBOURG, ONT., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry-Davis' Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

Your Pain-Killer as a family cure all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."

Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TAMWORTH, ONT., March 4, 1880.

For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have frequently used it in my family, and received great benefit from the use of it in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are pushed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis' Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular domestic medicine. Yours respectfully,

JAS. AYLSWORTH.

Hint No. 2.

Ask your Druggist, Grocer or Shopkeeper, for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER. If he passes it down without ceremony, ask him while extracting the quarter dollar from your wallet, if this is the genuine made by PERRY DAVIS & SON, at same time watch the expression on his face. You can easily tell if his conscience is all right; also examine the bottle closely yourself.

Hint No. 3.

When you ask for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER, and the gentlemanly store-keeper, without scarcely looking, remarks, "we "are just out, but have another "article as good or better, "which sells for the same price "viz, 25 cents." Turn on your heel and say, Good-bye, Sir! That man cares more for the two or three cents extra profit which he gets than he does for your health or happiness.

Hint No. 4.

Beware of all the worthless mixtures, and dirty, greasy combinations which are offered you in almost every store you enter, and which some unprincipled shop-keepers try to palm off as a substitute for the PAIN-KILLER. These mixtures are gotten up expressly to sell on the reputation of the PAIN-KILLER, but have nothing in common with it.

Hint No. 5.

If you cannot obtain the genuine PAIN-KILLER in your locality, (a fact not very likely), you should address the Proprietors, and by sending them the sum of $3.00, one dozen regular sized bottles, or a half dozen large bottles will be sent, charges prepaid, to the nearest address by railway to any part of the Dominion.

The PAIN-KILLER

Is recommended by Physicians, Ministers, Missionaries, Managers of Factories, Work-shops, Plantations, Nurses in Hospitals,—in short, everybody everywhere who has ever given it a trial.

TAKEN INTERNALLY, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowel Complaint, Painter's Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat, Coughs, &c.

USED EXTERNALLY, it cures Boils, Felons, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost-bitten Feet, &c.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

Unprecedented Success.

A Crowded Store. Sales Increasing Daily.

The Dry Goods trade of the Lion, for the spring of 1880, has this far been a grand success eclipsing any former season's business. Thus we attribute to two reasons:—First, a more prosperous condition of the people. Second, the growing popularity of The Lion as the "People's Dry Goods House."

Never was our stock so full assorted. Never did we offer such value. Never have we done such a large trade.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE CLUB.

The Lecture in the City Hall by Vice-Chancellor Blake.

The announcement that Hon. Vice-Chancellor Blake would deliver a lecture on Temperance in the City Hall on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Gospel Temperance Club, drew together a large audience. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr. William Wilkie, and a number of clergymen occupied seats on the platform. The proceedings were opened with a hymn by the choir and prayer by Rev. Dr. Wardrope.

After the opening exercises, Rev. Dr. Wardrope moved the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted :—

That, as indulgence in intoxicating liquor is the great hindrance to the spread and progress of Christianity, we as Christians, in dependence on Divine aid, use our efforts for the discontinuance of its use.

The reverend gentleman said a few words in support of the resolution and expressed the pleasure it gave him to move it.

Rev. Mr. Howie, as seconder, made a few appropriate remarks.

Rev. Mr. Coutts then moved the following resolution, which was also unanimously passed :—

That, as the traffic in, and use of, intoxicating liquor is destructive to the material, physical, moral and spiritual welfare of our people, we use every lawful means for its suppression.

In moving the resolution Mr. Coutts referred to the fact that not many years ago a man would have been almost afraid to read such a motion in public. He pointed out that it was the determined stand which temperance workers had taken that made the cause what it was to-day, and that only by decided action and earnestness in the great work could it be carried on prosperously.

Rev. Mr. McGregor seconded the resolution, and in brief terms denounced strong drink as one of the greatest sources of destruction to the morality of mankind.

Vice-Chancellor Blake was next called on, and before entering on his address expressed his regret for having disappointed the audience on Monday evening, but explained that he had not been given notice that he was expected to deliver an address. In his introductory remarks he referred to the lecture of Proctor, the astronomer, in Toronto, a short time ago ; and said that if he had told how it was that there was such a burning desire for intoxicating liquor to-day instead of telling that under certain conditions of the sun, it would take 2,500,000 years to burn the earth, he would have done more good. It was nothing to stand on the temperance platform now in comparison with what it had been some years ago. What was wanted in the ranks of temperance workers was young spirit. It was because there is young blood taking an interest in temperance now that it was prospering. Thousands who had seen no wrong in the use of intoxicating liquors, were now flocking to aid the temperance cause. There was nothing that would aid the spread of the cause so much as the Gospel under which this club was conducted. On every hand we could see destruction and death caused by intemperance, though the medical men would not tell you the cause of death in many instances. There were taken away in Canada each year through drunkenness as many as would fill this city, while in England the number of deaths annually from drink was 140,000. The young men who learned to drink were the cleverest, whose company was sought most. In concluding his address, he urged them to work with increasing earnestness, and the result of their labour would stand when they had passed away. The lecture was filled with anecdotes from observation and reading about the destruction of men from strong drink, and was listened to throughout with marked interest.

At the close a vote of thanks was passed to the Vice-Chancellor, after which a collection was taken up and the audience dispersed.

We learn by the Saskatchewan Herald that at meetings held at the various settlements throughout the North-West Territories, the proposal to abolish the existing territorial government was unamiously condemned. At every meeting petitions were signed praying the Dominion Government to continue the existing system.

A long pending dispute between Mr. Joseph Doutre, Q. C., and the Government, as to his counsel fee on the Halifax fishery commission, is about to come up before the Exchequer Court. A petition of right has been filed by Mr. Haliburton on behalf of Mr. Doutre, claiming $8,000.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness.

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

Mothers ! ! Mothers ! ! Mothers ! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

Sir John A. Macdonald is at present in Toronto as the guest of Mr. Goldwin Smith. It is understood that he will settle the question of the Lieutenant-Governorship during his stay, and Mr. Beverly Robinson is regarded as the coming man.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 29.—The inquest on Larkin, which has been going on here for some time, has ended in a verdict of wilful murder against Michael Doolan, who is still at large.

An American named John H. Hall, who obtained $5,000 from a lady in Philadelphia to invest, and then it is alleged absconded, has arrived in this city and is under the surveillance of the detectives, but as his case does not come under the Extradition Treaty, he has not been arrested.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, May 29.—Wm. Lambert was last night knocked down on the Esplanade and robbed of twenty dollars. Two of his assailants were this morning arrested; they gave their names as James McLaughlin and George Thompson, and were remanded till Thursday.

Prince Leopold's Movements.

Several hundred people assembled at the Union Station this morning to witness the arrival of Prince Leopold and the Princess Louise, and suite, en route to Chicago. The Mayor and other gentlemen were presented to the Prince, while the Princess recognized those whom she recollected being introduced to before. It is expected that the party will remain at the Queen's till Monday.

KILLED BY A BLOW OF THE HAND.—The jury in the case of the death of Daniel McElmayle have returned a verdict that deceased came to his death by a clot of blood lodged on the brain, caused by a blow dealt by the hand of Walter P. McDonald on the night of the 24th May, 1880, at Port Lambton. A warrant was issued for McDonald's arrest, but he is not to be found. It is reported that he has gone to Michigan.

LARCENY AT BRESLAU.—A young boy named James McGovern was committed to Berlin gaol from this village on Saturday last, on a charge of stealing from the G. T. freight shed. It appears that some of the boys in the village have been in the habit of pilfering tobacco and other articles from the freight shed, and that on Saturday a trap was laid which resulted in the arrest of McGovern with some of the tobacco in his possession. His accomplice, however, escaped.

CALEDONIAN SOCIETY.—A meeting of the Caledonian Society will be held on Monday evening to further arrangements for the Society's annual games. This is an important matter because the success of the games depend to a great extent on the interest taken in the arrangements and a good attendance is desired.

THE WATER WORKS' ENGINES.—The water works engines were tested on Friday afternoon by Mr. Haskins, city engineer, Hamilion, and Mr. Kiley, in the presence of Mr. Inglis, Water Works Engineer, and the Water Commissioners. The result of the test will not be made known until Messrs. Haskins and Kiley submit a written report.

THE continued drought and absence of rain throughout the United Kingdom and France are beginning to cause great apprehension among the agricultural portion of the community as well as among financial and political managers. After the bad harvest of last year the promise of a second failure in the crops produces even greater anxiety than did the expectation of agricultural trouble last year.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.—Astronomers have announced a total eclipse of the moon on the 22nd June next. In this eclipse the moon may disappear completely from view. Observations of such eclipses have been very rare. Within the last 700 years there are records of only six, and in all of them it was observed that during the eclipse nothing of the moon was seen. These eclipses all occurred in April, May, or June.

A CORRECTION.—Mr. Brill desires to say that when he informed us last week he had shipped a quantity of butter and cheese from the factory at New Dundee he intended to say from the factory at New Hamburg. This explains the statement which was contradicted in a letter from the Secretary of the Dundee Cheese Factory Company which appeared in yesterday's issue.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly between south-east and south, partly cloudy, slightly warmer weather.

A LARGE ORDER.—Mr. J. T. Brill has received an order from a firm in South Africa through Mr. Robert Ballantyne, for about seven car loads of butter and eggs, valued at $12,000, to be delivered before the end of October.

ACCIDENT AT HESPELER.—On Monday a horse attached to a buggy, occupied by Mrs. Fisher, Hespeler, while about a mile from that village, ran away. Mrs. Fisher was thrown out and badly hurt.

REV. DR. CUSHING, pastor of First Methodist Church, Bradford, Pa., and Corresponding Secretary of the Italian Bible and S. S. Mission, will preach in Norfolk street Church to-morrow, morning and evening. d1

GOLD FLAKE TOBACCO.—We publish to-day a mammoth advertisement about this favorite tobacco, which has so rapidly gained in popular favour throughout the Dominion. The many testimonials to its excellence, from all parts of the country, are the best proofs that could be adduced of its excellence. It has become the most extensively used and the most popular tobacco in the Dominion. Read the advertisement and the certificates in relation to it, and judge of its excellence by these spontaneous and unsolicited reports.

H. M. S. PINAFORE.—Baldwin's Juvenile Opera Company appeared in H. M. S. Pinafore before a fair audience at the city hall last night. The limited size of the stage would not admit of the scenery being used, and as a consequence the effect was not so good as it would have been with scenery. The little people acquitted themselves creditably, and their efforts called forth rounds of applause repeatedly. One or two selections of music foreign to the Opera were introduced with good effect. The performance was conducted without a hitch.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Friday afternoon Mr. Fitzimmons, a fish peddler, narrowly escaped being run over on the Grand Trunk Railway about twelve miles west of the city. He was driving across the track with a load of fish, when on approaching a train which he had not noticed, run into the back end of the waggon. The box was shattered to pieces, parts of the gearing were broken, the fish were strewn on the roadway in all directions, and Mr. Fitzimmons was thrown to the ground, but fortunately escaped with but a few bruises about his body.

A MILLER ABSCONDED.—Herman Clark, over a year ago rented the Rockwood mills from Messrs. Hague Bros., who had purchased them from Mr. Wm. Michie, now of this city. In conducting business he borrowed all he could, and secured credit whenever it was possible. His creditors now mourn his departure, which took place on Thursday night for the West, by the Grand Trunk Railway. His wife also left Rockwood, and as he left quietly and nothing has been heard about his whereabouts, it is regarded as almost certain that he has absconded. He has not paid the rent of his mill for some months, and almost every one with whom he was acquainted have lost money to some extent. The heaviest losers are the Messrs. Hague Bros., who lose, besides the rent amounting to about $500, a note in the Bank for $500 which they endorsed for him, besides a number of notes for smaller sums. It is believed that among the other creditors are James Marks, Nassagaweya, for between $100 and $200, E. Hartnett, Rockwood, $60, S. Duffield, Rockwood, a considerable sum, Turner, blacksmith, Rockwood, a small amount, Matthew Swanston, Eramosa, $300, and others.

SPEEDSIDE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—The foundation stone of a new Congregational Church at Speedside, Eramosa, was laid on the Queen's birthday amid the usual ceremony on such occasions. There was a large number of people present. The proceedings opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Black, Garafraxa; Rev. A. T. McGregor, late of Listowel read a Scripture lesson. Rev. Mr. Duff, pastor of the Speedside congregation, gave a historical sketch of the congregation, showing that it was organized in 1865, and that at present there is a membership of seventy-three. Mr. Jas. Goldie, of Guelph, next laid the foundation stone, afterwards declaring it well and truly laid. It was remarked that he placed the mortar in a thorough, workmanlike manner. Copies of the local newspapers, the Globe, a number of coins and the church records were placed under the stone. Rev. Duncan McGregor, M.A., Guelph, next delivered an address on congregational principles. At the conclusion of the ceremony the audience adjourned to the grounds of the pastorage where a pic-nic was held. They engaged in different games and derived unbounded pleasure. Tea was afterwards served, and when the good things had been heartily partaken of, a number of short pointed speeches were delivered by Rev. Mr. Howie, Guelph; Rev. Mr. Smythe, Eramosa; Rev. Mr. Black, Garafraxa; Rev. O. T. McGregor, and others. The proceedings closed by the choir, which during the afternoon had rendered a number of musical selections, singing the doxology in which the audience joined. The weather was beautiful and a most enjoyable day was spent. The new church will be of stone material, octagon in shape, will seat 250 persons, and is estimated to cost $2,000.

An Old Guelphite in Trouble in Cleveland.

Percy Gaston, once tried in Guelph for Incendiarism, again in Prison.

He Makes a Midnight Raid on a House in that City.

A friend in Cleveland has sent us a copy of the Plaindealer of that city, of the 24th inst., in which we have a report of the arrest of a man who turns out to be Percy Gaston, a coloured man, who some twenty years ago kept a sort of eating house on West Market Square, and who was tried for attempting to burn the house down. The trial caused no little excitement on account of the able manner in which Gaston defended himself, and made an eloquent speech of five or six hours length. The gentleman who sends us the paper also sent a letter, stating that he called to see Gaston in prison, and at once recognized him, Gaston remembered his face well enough, and had quite a distinct recollection of Guelph. He asked about a number of old residents such as Messrs. John Horsman, Higinbotham, Pallister, A. A. Baker, John Harris and Sheriff Gow, but he was altogether silent about the arson case and his trial.

The following is the Plaindealer's account of the affair:—

Ordinarily a burglary or an attempt at burglary does not possess sufficient interest to warrant more than a mere mention but the one charged against Paul Gaston, the colored Nationalist leader, and for which he will be arraigned this afternoon in the Police Court, is surrounded by circumstances which make it of unusual interest.

The information on which the arrest made was furnished by Mrs. Wescott, who keeps a boarding house at No. 49 Lake street. She says that some time Saturday morning, she thinks about four o'clock, she was awakened by a slight noise and felt a breeze which indicated that a window or door was open. Getting up to investigate, she groped her way into the dimly lighted sitting room adjoining her chamber, and, as she advanced toward the window, a man sprang out from behind the curtain and grasped her by the arm. She screamed and he released his hold and began feeling about his person as though searching for a knife or some other weapon but seemed to be disappointed in his search or at any rate he didn't produce anything, and he then made a rush out into the kitchen and tried to get out of the door, failing in which he leaped through the closed window, by which she thinks he had come in, but which had in the meantime fallen down. As he made his exit several of the alarmed inmates of the house made their appearance, but too late to get a sight of the intruder. She, however, recognized him, she says, as Paul Gaston.

In the meantime Frederick Benty, one of the boarders, had brought an officer and the latter, on being informed who it was, went to Gaston's room in the Hoffman Block, where he found him in bed and arrested him. Soon afterward a small market basket containing a brown straw hat, a night cap and a murderous looking knife with a ten inch blade, said to have been found near Mrs. Wescott's house, were taken to the station to be used as evidence against Gaston. The janitor at the Hoffman Block says he recognizes all the articles as belonging to Gaston and further that about half-past two o'clock Saturday morning he saw Gaston leave the building with the basket on his arm.

Gaston denies emphatically that he is guilty and says it is a put up job on the part of Mr. Benty and Mrs. Wescott to crush him because of his knowledge of their criminal intimacy, which he accidentally acquired three weeks ago. He says he became acquainted with Mrs. Wescott in October, 1878, when she was living on Parkman street. He was papering or whitewashing in the house and while there he learned from her that she was in very indigent circumstances. In her extremity he offered her a little money to buy coal, of which she was in urgent need. With some reluctance she accepted it. This led to their better acquaintance and he finally became a constant visitor. Soon afterward she fell sick and he attended her and furnished her means through all of it. When she desired to move so as to secure cheaper rent he looked around and found her a house on Allan street. All this time this Mr. Benty had been a sort of boarder in the house and after she moved to Allan street considerable gossip was afloat in the neighbourhood about Benty's relations with her and it resulted in the landlord requiring her to dismiss Benty as a condition of her remaining in the house. In time, as she fully recovered from her illness, Mrs. Wescott desired to get a larger house and keep a number of boarders and she accordingly moved to her present place, No. 49 Hamilton street, he Gaston, assisting her to move and doing some whitewashing and painting in the house, all for friendship. His relations with her were such, he says, that he felt free to come and go as he pleased at any time; and that she in turn had a duplicate key to his room in the Hoffman Block and occasionally called on him.

On Friday, the 7th instant, he was at work on Wood street in the neighbourhood of her house, when, feeling hungry, he went to her house, as was his custom when he happened to be near on such occasions, to get something to eat. He went in through the kitchen and into the sitting room and, seeing her slippers in front of her chamber door, supposed she was dressing. He called to her and received no answer and finally sat down and took up a paper and began reading. A few minutes afterwards he noticed the door open very slightly and caught her eye peeking out at him. Seeing she was observed, she threw the door open and disclosed herself en dishabille with Benty putting on his vest near by. Benty went out without saying anything, but Mrs. Wescott, admitting that appearances were against her denied her guilt and then begged him not to betray her. He expressed his sorrow at her fall but assured her that her secret should be safe. He told her though that he wanted nothing more to do with her.

Last Friday Gaston had been papering on Water street and, as is his custom, had his basket with him in which he carries a skull cap to wear while at work. When he puts this cap on he places his hat in the basket and takes it out again when he quits work. Friday evening, however he absent-mindedly walked home wearing his skull cap, carrying his hat in his basket. Arriving at his room door he put his basket down while he took his key out of his pocket and left it standing there when he entered. He forgot all about the basket and didn't think of it again till some time after midnight, when the wind blew so hard and rattled the windows so that he awoke. He got up and went out to fix the windows and as he was returning he saw his basket, picked it up and just then he heard some one walking in the hall below. He went down there, with the basket still on his arm, to see who it was and ascertained that it was the janitor. They spoke and he explained what brought him down and both went up stairs together he going back to his room. That, Gaston says, is all there is of the janitor's story about his leaving the building Saturday morning. He says that the janitor is his mortal enemy and is therefore only too ready to say anything that will injure him. "So help me God," he concluded, "I was not out of my room that night."

Gaston came here about seven years ago from Pittsburgh and at once took a prominent place among the National party leaders in this city. He was very anxious that the reporter who saw him should remind the public that his character since his stay here has been irreproachable. So far as the reporter knows, that is the case. In this connection, however, may be mentioned something of Mr. Gaston's history before he came among us. Among his visitors was a gentleman, formerly a citizen of Guelph, Ontario, who, twenty years ago, knew one Percy Gaston there and he called to see if this was the man. He recognized him at once and Gaston in turn said he knew his visitor's face.

This gentlemen says that Gaston while in Guelph conducted a restaurant. One afternoon about four o'clock he took the train for Hamilton. His wife (he had a wife then, it seems, though he says now he is unmarried) had preceded him the day before. That evening somebody discovered a light in Gaston's place under circumstances that created some alarm and on investigation they found on the floor a pile of shavings, saturated with oil, and, stuck in the centre of it, a lighted candle. It was clear of course that it was a case of incendiarism and the presumption was that it was devised and arranged by Gaston to secure the insurance on his stock. At any rate a message to Hamilton brought Gaston back the same night under guard. In due time his trial came on. He conducted his own case, examined the witnesses with the thoroughness of an experienced attorney and in his argument to the jury spoke from four o'clock in the afternoon until ten at night. And with such skill had he managed his case and so eloquent and argumentative was his plea that the jury after a very short retirement returned with a verdict of acquittal. His speech on that occasion was afterwards printed in pamphlet form.

"What was the general opinion as to his guilt or innocence?" the reporter asked.

"Oh, everybody was satisfied that he was guilty," said the gentleman. "The fact is that the jury was carried away with the talent he had shown and his eloquence and its verdict was a tribute forced from it in admiration of his abilities, made more noticeable on account of his race."

The informant further said that Gaston had been arrested there two or three times for abusing his wife. After his acquittal on the incendiary charge he went to Detroit and was heard of in connection with some trouble there, though of what character the informant could not say. He was heard of again later in Chicago, again in trouble of some kind. Rumor also has it that he was in a serious difficulty while he lived in Pennsylvania.

Gaston had a great many visitors, mainly his political friends. Those who know him best seem to think he is a little "off." Certainly, if all that is charged against him in Mrs. Wescott's statement is true, that is the most charitable explanation that can be given; in fact the only one that can satisfactorily account for all the circumstances.

OUTRAGE NEAR HARRISBURG.—A despatch from Brantford, says:—"The particulars of an outrage, most harrowing in its details, has just reached this city. The two daughters of a farmer named Woods, living near Harrisburg left their home to visit at a friend's during the afternoon of Sunday last. When returning home in the evening, they were accompanied part of the way by the two daughters of the friend whom they had gone to visit. After separating, they continued along the railway track of the Great Western Railway until they reached a thicket, where they met a man, very well dressed, who caught hold of the eldest girl, and threatened the other who accompanied her that if she gave any alarm he would kill her. The latter made off as fast as she could, and then it was that the unfortunate sister was knocked senseless by the villian, dragged some distance in the woods, and outraged before any one could come to her assistance. The father of the girl, together with some of his neighbors on learning of the shameful treatment of his daughter, started in pursuit of the unfortunate girl and the villian. The girl was found in the woods senseless. All search failed to discover the perpetrator of the deed, and up to the present no trace of him can be had. The name of the outraged girl is Nellie Woods, aged about 18 years. The villian who committed the deed is described as follows: 5 feet 10 inches to 6 feet high; his hair inclined to be red; moustache red; no whiskers; dark clothes; well dressed; black hard felt hat turned up at the sides.

THE PRISONERS IN THE BIDDULPH MURDER CASES.—The Biddulph prisoners left Toronto for London by the 9.50 train on the G. W. R. on Friday morning. They appeared to be elated with the failure of the prosecution to obtain a change of venue. They allege as their principal reasons for wishing the trial to come off in the county of Middlesex that there their characters are better known, and that their families and friends can be near them and render them any assistance at much less expense than if they were incarcerated at any distant place. The gaol officials have been instructed to preserve the discipline in regard to these prisoners better than heretofore. They have enjoyed special privileges, such as being allowed to have their wives with them for a day or two at a time. All this is to be put a stop to.

The Reformed Episcopal Synod, in session at Montreal, have elected the Rev. Edward Wilson, D.D., Bishop for the Dominion.

Daily Mercury.

SATURDAY EV'NG, MAY 29, 1880

La Minerve states that the Hon. Mr. Joly will withdraw from the leadership of the Opposition, and will be succeeded by the Hon. Mr. Langelier.

Ten thousand copies of the report of Mr. Blake's great speech on the Pacific railway question are being printed for exclusive circulation in the maritime provinces.

It is understood that Hon. Mr. Masson has intimated to his friends that he will remain in the Cabinet a short while longer, and, therefore, he has temporarily withdrawn his resignation.

It is understood that the Government have arranged that Messrs. MacLean, Roger, & Co. shall continue the Parliamentary printing at their cancelled contract rates until such time as Parliament shall take definite action in the matter.

Ontario has done well at the Sidney (New South Wales) Exhibition. In addition to the honors awarded to several manufacturers, our Education Department again took first prizes for its anatomical and other models, diagrams, etc.

At a meeting of French Canadians in Montreal on Thursday night, ostensibly in reference to the matter of commercial union with the United States, several speakers declared that the French Canadians were being driven from their homes by the conditions of trade in this province, and that a commercial union with the United States was the only course that would benefit the country.

We learn from an extract in Blackwood from one of Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian speeches that the Liberal leader's attention has been called to the desirability of some measure for preventing or restraining canvassing in elections. Mr. Gladstone contended that nobody had a right to press a voter to declare how he was going to vote and that he should not be "at all sorry if the law should make it an offence to annoy and worry voters who do not wish to declare their intention into declaring them against their will."

The Quebec Legislature was opened on Friday. There is not much in the Speech from the throne. After referring to the different questions of public interest, and to the duty of maintaining unimpaired the credit of the Province, the speech goes on to say:—"Our constitution having limited within narrow bounds our sources of revenue, it becomes our duty to carefully see that economy is practised in our public expenses, and to see also to the immediate collection of what is due to the treasury if we wish to secure an equilibrium between our receipts and expenditures." This is what Quebec most needs.

Peterboro Examiner: "A return laid before Parliament this session shows that the farmers of the west of this province were taxed $55,469.57, on 789,591 bushels of Indian corn brought in for the purpose of fattening stock. Thus they are robbed of that amount exactly, where under the old tariff there was no tax whatever. This duty was collected between March 14th, 1879, and February 1st, 1880." How differently the starch manufacturers and distillers are treated. They are allowed to bring their corn in duty free, in bond, under the pretence that the stuff manufactured from it is exported.

The Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario has not yet been settled. Sir John Macdonald was in Toronto on Friday, and held a caucus, and according to report the meeting was a stormy one. For the Lieutenant-Governorship, the Hon. John Beverly Robinson was the favourite, but the difficulty then came up as to who was to represent West Toronto. The names of Mayor Beaty and Christopher Robinson, Q. C., were mentioned. For the Collectorship there was trouble. Messrs. Hay, M. P., Platt, M. P., Ald. Close, and others strongly advocated the claims of Angus Morrison, but the names of C. J. Campbell and T. C. Patteson met with good support. After a long discussion no result was arrived at, and matters stand in statu quo.

It is demonstrated by the report of the Minister of the Interior that the Indians are far from dying out, and that, on the contrary, they are increasing in numbers. When the last census was taken, in 1871, there were 23,358 Indians in the Dominion, distributed as follows: Ontario, 12,978; Quebec, 6,938; Nova Scotia, 1,666; New Brunswick, 1,408; Prince Edward Island, 323. According to the report there were in these Provinces in 1879, 31,820 Indians, an increase of more than 8,000. In addition to these there are now: the Indians of Manitoba and the North-west territories 30,227; of Arthabaska district 2,398, of British Columbia 35,152, and of Rupert's Land 3,770, making in all 103,367 Indians, who have to be cared for by the Dominion Government.

Hon. Mr. Letellier de St. Just, accompanied by his two daughters, left Ottawa for Montreal on Friday. He has been residing there all the winter, and is now much improved in health and strength.

The water in the Red River has now risen to sixteen feet above the level of the ice in winter. It and the Assiniboine are still rising, owing to the rainy season.

A threatened strike of 1,500 puddlers in Pittsburg on the 1st of June, will throw out of employment 50,000 in that district.

Rev. Henry Edmison, late of Quebec having received and accepted a call from the members of the Presbyterian Church, Rothsay, his induction into the pastoral care of that church will take place on the first of June.

Synod of Niagara.

The Synod met on Thursday morning. Mr. George Elliott presented the report of the Special Trust Committee. With respect to the rectory lands fund, payments on account of principal moneys due on mortgages, etc., have been made during the year and the amounts invested. Among these are $100 by Archdeacon Palmer.

The report of the Mission Board was presented by the Bishop. After giving statistics with regard to each mission, it goes on to say:—"It is cause of regret that in no single case has there been an increase during the past over the amounts guaranteed in former years, but in several cases there has been a considerable falling off. One or two of the missions have as yet given no guarantees. These cases, as well as the decrease in the amounts guaranteed by others, call for the attention of the rural deans and committees on missions. It is to be regretted that the number of reports from the missionaries of the diocese should have fallen off a great deal during the past year. Before we can expect our people to take a deep interest in the mission cause to contribute to it, they should obtain information regarding it, and the best information they can obtain is from the reports of the missionaries themselves. If, therefore, the missionaries complain of the comparative smallness of the amount contributed to the fund for their support, they have themselves in part to blame."

Rev. Mr. Whitcombe presented the report of the Episcopal Endowment Fund of the Synod. Mr. Whitcombe spent three months in his canvass, beginning in Guelph on the 19th December last. After deducting expenses the net amount collected is $2,000.76. The amounts collected in this district are:—Guelph, $1,314; West Flamboro' $140; Acton and Eramosa, $157; Norval and Stewarttown, $84; Erin and Garafraxa, $65; Orangeville, $2.75; Arthur and West Luther or Wellington Travelling Mission, $100; Mount Forest and North Arthur, $48.25; Palmerston, $68; Rothsay and Huston, $60.

The following are the delegates appointed to the Provincial Synod:—Messrs. F. Biscoe, Adam Brown, Calvin Brown, Geo. Elliott, F. W. Gates, F. E. Kilvert, E. and C. Martin, J. J. Mason, Henry McLaren, A. H. Pettit, W. T. Pettit and J. B. Plumb. Substitutes—Messrs. F. Lampman, J. W. Bale, M. O'Reilly, Q. C., J. M. Meakins, K. Wishart and W. H. Nelles. Clerical members—Canon Belt, Rural Dean Bull, Canons Carmichael and Dixon, Mr. Fessenden, Rural Dean Holland, Canon Houston, Archdeacon McMurray, Rural Dean Osler, Canon Read, Mr. Whitcombe and Canon Worrell. As substitutes the following were elected:—The Rev. Messrs. Ingles, Caswell, Curran, McKenzie, Smith and Mockridge.

At the afternoon session on Thurday a resoultion was passed, that the Synod hails with grateful satisfaction the marked success of the Church of England temperance society in England and elsewhere, and the steady advance of total abstinence societies in connection with the Church in this Dominion.

It was moved by Rev. Canon Worrell, M. A., seconded by Rural Dean Bull, M. A., That this synod views with much surprise and regret the recent attempt in the Dominion Parliament to legislate and to permit the marriage of a man with a deceased wife's sister, and also of a man with a deceased brother's widow; that this Synod also begs to express great satisfaction at the protest entered by the bishop of the diocese against such proposed measure, and trusts that at the Provincial Synod about to meet in September next, a strong representation will be made on the subject.—Carried.

A resolution was passed asking the House of Bishops to instruct the clergy as to their duty when called upon to marry a parishioner or parishioners after a single publication of banns, or to marry a parishioner to an unbaptized person.

With regard to the Day of Intercession, Canon Read brought a report, recommending their lordships to take into consideration the propriety of setting apart one and the same day throughout the ecclesiastical province, and that the day should be the same as that selected in England.

It was moved by the Rev. W. B. Curran, M. A., seconded by the Rev. C. E. Whitcombe, and resolved, That the lord bishop do request the rural deans to confer together as to a simultaneous celebration in this diocese of the centenary of Sunday schools.

In conclusion an address was presented to the lord bishop, in view of his approaching visit to England. The address was moved by Mr. George Elliot, seconded by Rev. Canon Osler, and received with great applause. It was couched in terms of the warmest affection and respect, and evidently reflected the feelings of the entire assembly. His lordship seemed deeply affected, and expressed his thankfulness to God for having spared his life long enough to see the diocese in its present condition.

After the usual votes of thanks the bishop dismissed the Synod with the benediction.

Following are the guarantees made to the Board during the past year:

Sad Case of Suicide.—A farmer in the neighborhood of Riversdale, named Donald Ross, committed suicide on Thursday morning last by hanging himself in his barn. For the last three or four months he had been laboring under depression of spirits, and not long ago told his wife that the devil was tempting him to take away his life. Since then she has kept watch over him, and lately he had been more composed. On the morning in question she went to the field as usual to milk the cows, and on her return in about half an hour found him hanging dead.

Crushed Under a Stone.—On Friday evening as the men were loading a huge stone at the bridge which is being built on the Brantford Branch near Harrisburg the hooks gave way, and it fell with tremendous force on a man named John Grant, from Grimsby, smashing one of his legs to a pulp. The man lies in a very critical condition.

Wellington Spring Chancery Sittings

Guelph, Thursday, May 27.

Klemmer vs. Orton—Bill filed to foreclose a mortgage upon a property in Bloomingdale, Township of Waterloo. The plaintiff claimed that he had made permanent improvements to the value of $500 on the property, under the belief that he was full owner. The defendants were the widow and infant children of the mortgagor. After hearing the evidence, the Vice-Chancellor suggested that the plaintiff should pay $200 to the defendants, in order to obtain a full title to the property, to which plaintiff agreed. Decree accordingly. Mr. Boyd, Q.C., and Mr. Alex. Millar for plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie, Q.C., for the infant defendants.

Guelph, Saturday, May 29.

Scott vs. Travers—Bill fyled by James C. Scott, Berlin, against John Travers, Durham, for specific performance, and to compel defendant to give over a mortgage. Case dismissed with costs. Mr. Read, Q. C. for, plaintiff; Mr. Kerr for defendant.

Foote v. Burke and others—Bill filed to set aside a deed made by one James Spratt to the defendant Burke. The plaintiff amended his bill by striking out all charges of fraud against Burke, and stated that he would not ask for costs against him, it appearing that one Evans had an interest in the land. The case was ordered to stand over until the next Court, to allow the plaintiff to add Evans as a party, if he can legally do so. Mr. Drew, Q. C., for plaintiff. Mr. Guthrie, Q. C. for defendant Burke; Mr. McCarthy, (Orangeville) for defendant Carney.

St. Thomas Child Murder Case—Strange Confession.—At the investigation into the child found in Kebble creek, supposed to belong to Ellen Coughlin, who is under arrest, the prisoner implicated a Mrs. Massey, who, she said, took away the child, and when asked "Where my baby was?" she replied, "It's better done for than you could do for it." This she repeated two or three times. "She should be here now taking my punishment. If I am guilty I will be punished, but I feel perfectly clear about it." Then turning to Mrs. Massey, the girl earnestly said, "You cruelly killed my poor baby. I have nothing more to say than that you took my baby from me and I have never seen it since." The prisoner made the same confession to Chief Fleming. Mrs. Massey is also under arrest.

Miraculous Escape from Lightning.—During a heavy thunderstorm on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Rannie, living near Black Rapids, some eight miles from Ottawa, was struck by lightning. She was on her way home in company with a younger girl when they were overtaken by the storm. Along with a thunder clap overhead came a streak of lightning, and, quick as a flash, the young woman was lying insensible on the roadway. The electricity took her straw hat, tore out the crown, passed down the side of her face and neck, tearing her clothes and burning her face and breast, where it seems to have expended its force. Miss Rannie lost quite a portion of her hat, which was burned. She was taken to her home immediately after the accident and remained insensible for some hours. She will recover. The girl who was with her at the time when she was struck by the electricity was not hurt in the least, although stunned for a minute or two.

Boiler Explosion in Winnipeg.

One Man Blown to Pieces, and Three Others Mortally Injured.

Winnipeg, May 28.—A terrible boiler explosion occurred at McCaulley & Jarvis' steam saw-mill here this morning, which shook the entire city. Doors were flung open and glass broken; fragments of timbers, machinery, and debris were scattered for hundreds of yards around. The mill is a total wreck. It causes intense excitement, and thousands of citizens have been viewing the scene all day. The fireman, Robert Dougall, was blown to atoms, pieces of his body being found at different points. He was late of Renfrew, Ontario, and leaves a widow and four children. Joseph Cressdale, the engineer, sustained a fracture of the knee, a broken jaw, and a laceration of the head, besides the fracture of several ribs and and other internal injuries, from the effects of which he cannot survive. He was from England, and is unmarried. Jas. Heagg, Samuel Drill, A. Little, and John Webb, employees, are severely injured, two of them mortally. Patrick Cullen, who was working in the adjoining mill, was severely injured. He is a widower, having one child, now with friends near Belleville, Ont. The scene was sickening, and baffles description. All the city doctors were promptly on hand, doing their utmost for the wounded and dying. There were a number of minor casualties among the yardmen and strangers, but of these none are serious. The priests and city clergymen were also on hand, attending to the spiritual wants of the dying and affording consolation to their families. The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

The New Baptist College.—The separation of the Baptist Theological School from the Woodstock Literary Institute will soon be completed; after which the students training for the ministry of that denomination will be placed in much the same position as those of Knox College, receiving the literary part of their training in University College and the theological part from the professors in their own school, which is to be built in Toronto at a cost of about $50,000 exclusive of $10,000 paid to the University authorities for a site. The building is to be three stories in height, with a basement extending some distance above the ground. The walls are to be built of brown stone. The main building is to have a frontage of 126 feet and a depth of 54 feet, while an extension in the rear is to be of the dimensions of 58x35 feet. The new building will accommodate at least fifty-four students. It will be a structure worthy of the body.

GOLD FLAKE CUT PLUG (SMOKING).

Manufactured by Globe Tobacco Comp'y, Windsor, Ont.

Gold Flake Cut Plug!

ITS MERITS.

We claim that this is the best Smoking Tobacco ever produced in this country, and present a few facts to substantiate our claim :

1. It is made from the very best selections of Bright Old Virginia Leaf.

2. It is absolutely pure and entirely free from the noxious properties so common to other smokings.

3. It will not gum the pipe; this fact alone proves its superiority over any other tobacco made.

4. It burns free and sweet to the very last, and leaves no bitter taste in the mouth.

5. It gives a cool and pleasant smoke, and does not parch the throat or dry the tongue.

6. Its lasting properties equal that of any plug made, and and being cut ready for use is much more convenient.

7. It does away with the thraldom of the knife and tobacco cutter, and saves much valuable time and material.

8. It is put up in neat and convenient packages, handy for the pocket, and warranted to keep in any climate.

9. It forms a live coal in the pipe, and will keep its fire in the strongest wind, making it the best in use for sportsmen.

10. Its pleasant aroma and fragrant smoke makes it a favourite with the ladies.

11. It is superior in every point of ECONOMY, CONVENIENCE AND EXCELLENCE to any smoking ever introduced in Canada.

12. It is made by a responsible concern, which makes no assertions that cannot be substantiated.

13. It is put on the market at great expense, entirely on its own merits, and at so low a price that only large sales can give a fair return.

14. It shall be kept up in every point of quality and excellence so long as it is manufactured by us.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We would respectfully inform our many friends and the Tobacco using public generally, that while we may seem to confine our attention largely to manufacturing the Gold Flake Cut Plug, that we are still supplying a constantly growing trade with all the various brands of Cut Goods, both Chewing and Smoking.

Our Globe Fine Cut Chewing, so justly popular in the United States, is also manufactured in our Windsor Factory, and having the same stock and material as well as equal facilities, we make here, as in the United States, the best Chewing Tobacco in the World.

The "Victoria" brand, known to chewers for the past twenty years in Canada, has been so improved upon by us, that it is growing in popularity every day. We have also cheaper grades of "Cut Chewing" and Smoking Tobaccos.

The "Wig Wag," a common smoking, is also well known, and gives universal satisfaction.

It is expected that the Government will require all Cut Goods to be put up in packages of one pound or less, and we are now as rapidly as possible perfecting our arrangements to comply with this new requirement.

This new law, while entailing upon us an amount of additional labour, will be a great convenience to both dealer and consumer, and result in having our goods reach the consumer in much better shape than at present.

How and Where our Goods are Sold.

We employ no travellers, and sell only to responsible Wholesale Houses. The saving of the cost of selling Retailers is given to the Wholesaler, who is thus enabled to sell at Factory Prices.

We give below the names of prominent merchants who keep our Goods in Stock, and from whom dealers may order as they need.

Globe Tobacco Works, of Detroit,

Formerly conducted under the corporate name of Walker, McGraw Co., has changed its name to the GLOBE TOBACCO COMPANY, with the same Shareholders, Officers and Management as before.

This has been done partly on account of incorporating their branch at Windsor, Ontario, which for the past two years has been carried on in the name of J. E. Saxton, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Detroit Company.

The name of the Windsor concern—

GLOBE TOBACCO COMPANY,

With J. E. Saxton as President, and A. A. Bontell, Secretary and Treasurer.

CLIPPINGS FROM THE PRESS.

HAMILTON, May 29, 1879.
GOLD FLAKE CUT PLUG.—It is free from stems, and is put up in convenient shape. The flavor suits the palate of the writer, and the odour is, to say the least, less obnoxious to non-smokers than of most tobaccos. There is no bad taste or furrowing in the mouth even after smoking the Gold Flake to excess.—The Spectator.

OTTAWA, May 31, 1879.
THE GOLD FLAKE is by all odds the finest article in the market, and, as such, we can have no hesitation in recommending it to all lovers of the fragrant weed.—The Free Press.

PORT HOPE, June 3, 1879.
GOLD FLAKE.—The aroma of this tobacco is such that
Those who always smoked will smoke the more,
And others smoke who never smoked before.
—Daily Guide.

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 3, 1879.
GOLD FLAKE.—It is of superior quality, done up in tin foil in convenient packages. Smokers will appreciate it.—The Daily Telegraph.

PARKHILL, Feb. 26, 1880.
TOBACCO.—Indolence grows upon the smokers, and we have been casting about for some relief to the thraldom, to the knife and tobacco cutter. We have tried the Gold Flake Cut Plug, and hereafter you couldn't coax us to use any other. It is fragrant, exhilarating, and not hot for the mouth.—Parkhill Gazette.

KINGSTON, Feb. 25, 1880.
GOLD FLAKE.—This is a species of tobacco made specially to meet the requirements of the Canadian public. It is a Cut Plug of moderate strength, and more pleasing than offensive in smell. We can recommend it, since we know just what it is.—The Daily British Whig.

DRESDEN, March 5, 1880.
GOLD FLAKE.—We confess to a weakness for the weed—that is, we smoke—and also profess a horror of the stinking stuff that many people are in the habit of using, which, while ostensibly cheaper as relates to quantity, is really the dearer article, in that the outsides are invariably composed of the coarser grades, the inner being composed of the residuum, cured in liquor, the main feature of which is its adhesiveness. We can heartily recommend the "Gold Flake" as a smoking tobacco, both as to fragrance and cleanliness.—The Dresden Times.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 27, 1880.
A BOON TO SMOKERS.—There is nothing conduces so much to an enjoyable smoke as good tobacco. No matter how costly the pipe may be if the filling is not of the first-class quality the pleasure of the smoker is marred. The Gold Flake Cut Plug, although but a short time has elapsed since its appearance in Canada, has become a favorite with smokers. It is mild and pleasant in flavour, and it is not the least disagreeable to those who do not use tobacco.—The Daily Courier.

STRATFORD, Feb. 27, 1880.
The "Gold Flake" manufactured at the Globe Tobacco Works, Windsor, is said by smokers to be the purest, finest, and best smoking tobacco in the world.—The Stratford Beacon.

PICTON, Feb. 27, 1880.
We handed a sample of the Gold Flake Cut Plug over to our "devil" for a certificate as to its qualities, and after putting three of our customers to sleep by its mild influence exerted on the nervous system, he pronounced it to be "A 1" in quality.—The Picton Gazette.

BOWMANVILLE, March 26th, 1880.
We do enjoy a smoke of good tobacco, and in our experience as a smoker for over twenty years, we don't remember of having ever smoked anything to surpass the Gold Flake Cut Plug. Unlike any other cut tobacco we have ever purchased, there is some substance in it, it is not hot, is nicely flavoured, and can be smoked to the heel of the pipe without waste. We have had a good deal of experience in buying and selling tobacco, and must say the Gold Flake is the nearest to perfection of any we have ever used.—West Durham News.

NAPANEE, Feb. 27th, 1880.
A good article. We have received a sample of the Gold Flake Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco, and after a most enjoyable test, are able to pronounce it A 1. This tobacco is very mild, of a most delightful flavour, being evidently pure and unadulterated, and smokes slow and cool. The stock used is evidently of the very best quality, and is prepared with care and skill. We believe no better smoking tobacco is manufactured.—The Express.

WOODSTOCK, March 5, 1880.
GOLD FLAKE TOBACCO.—This brand of tobacco is rapidly taking the lead of all others. Its flavour is delicious.—Sentinel Review.

GODERICH, March 10, 1880.
"GOLD FLAKE."—This is a brand of cut tobacco which is now deservedly popular. It is made from the best leaf, is manufactured in such a way that not only are the good properties retained, but are also improved, and the harmful, naughty nicotine neutralized.—Huron Signal.

GODERICH, Feb. 27th, 1880.
We had the pleasure of receiving a few days ago a sample of Gold Flake Smoking Tobacco, and if we know anything about the weed—and if we do not we ought to—our readers who enjoy a really good pipe of tobacco, may take our assurance that they will find it to their advantage to give this brand a trial.—The Goderich Star.

STANSTEAD, March 11th, 1880.
We have received a package of Gold Flake, and those who have tried it pronounce it a pleasant and fine tobacco.—The Stanstead Journal.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 27, 1879.
GOLD FLAKE.—Having tried the sample sent, we are free to admit there is plenty of smoke in it. It has a mild and pleasant flavour, does not burn the tongue, and has all the lasting qualities of plug tobacco. We believe it to be an article of merit and destined to win the favour of lovers of good smoking tobacco.—Evening Journal.

NORTH SIDNEY, March 2, 1880.
GOLD FLAKE.—Our disciple of Raleigh pronounces it excellent.—The Times.

BRUCE, March 4th, 1880.
The "Gold Flake" is done up in packages of tin foil, and is easily carried in the pocket without the necessity of a pouch. A sample package has been forwarded to us, and there is no hesitation in pronouncing it a first-class article.—Bruce Reporter.

ST. CROIX, N.B., March 20, 1880.
"Gold Flake Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco," a sample of which has been sent us from the Globe Tobacco Works at Windsor, Ont., we have tested, and we are able to pronounce it a first-class article.—The St. Croix Courier.

SIMCOE, March 10th, 1880.
We have tried a sample package of the celebrated Gold Flake Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco, and have no hesitation in saying that it surpasses anything of the kind we have ever used, therefore we do not wonder that it is becoming a great favourite with Canadian smokers. All "lovers of the weed" should try it, and they will be convinced of its excellent qualities.—The British Canadian.

PEMBROKE, March 5, 1880
GOLD FLAKE.—We have received a sample of the Gold Flake Cut Plug, which we have distributed among our smoking friends, and they all say it is of the very finest brand. The price is also said to be reasonable, and if so, the Gold Flake Cut Plug is bound to carry the day among the "epicurean" smokers.—The Pembroke Observer.

GUELPH, March 6th, 1880.
We have to thank Mr. Saxton for a package of Gold Flake, which is first-class. It is greatly in favour in this section, and is largely taking the place of the old-fashioned plug.—Daily Mercury.

OTTAWA, March 3rd, 1880.
An excellent tobacco. The Gold Flake Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco, manufactured at the Globe Tobacco Works, Windsor, Ont., has already become a great favourite with smokers. It is made from the choicest leaf, and done up in tinfoil packages, in such a careful manner as to prevent the slightest deterioration, being at all times moist and fragrant. The Globe Works are at present turning out an immense amount of tobacco of all grades. The famous "Globe Fine Cut" Chewing Tobacco is one of their most popular brands, the demand for which is very great.—The Daily Citizen.

PRESCOTT, March 3rd, 1880.
THE GOLD FLAKE Cut Plug Smoking Tobacco, put up by the Globe Tobacco Works, Windsor, Ont., is undoubtedly one of the finest brands ever offered the public. It is manufactured from the best Virginia leaf, cured on scientific principles. Smokers who give it a trial will use no other.—The Telegraph.

PERTH, Feb. 27th, 1880.
"GOLD FLAKE" TOBACCO.—We received a package of the celebrated "Gold Flake Cut Plug" Smoking Tobacco from the Globe Tobacco Works, Windsor, Ont. We have had it tested by an experienced smoker, who has pronounced it the best article and the most convenient he has ever used, as well as being fully as cheap as any other.—The Perth Courier.

ST. MARY'S, March 4th, 1880.
THE "GOLD FLAKE" is said by smokers to be the purest, finest, and best smoking tobacco they ever used. It is delicious, and all are loud in its praise.—The Argus.

MITCHELL, Feb. 27th, 1880.
The editor has to acknowledge from the Windsor Works a package of Cut Plug Tobacco, which is certainly far superior to any smoking tobacco in use. It is manufactured from pure sun-cured bright Virginia leaf, through a new and original process, which extracts the rankness and retains the sweet aroma and natural flavour, thus giving a delicious and pleasant smoke that does not burn the tongue.—The Mitchell Advocate.

DETROIT, May 7, 1880.
We have no hesitation in saying, and we say it boldly, that the Gold Flake smoking tobacco, manufactured by J. E. Saxton at the Globe Tobacco Works, Windsor, is the best smoking tobacco extant. It has acquired such a reputation within the past year that orders are received for it over all the world.—Detroit Commercial Advertiser.

A GOOD THING.

A manufacturer who spends his life in preparing for the market some necessity for humanity, should be a good judge of the worth of the article that he produces. When he is devoting his energies to a legitimate trade, and his productions come into daily competition with those of many others, the value he himself places upon his goods may be well estimated by his confidence in putting them upon the market. It is now only one year since the Gold Flake Cut Plug was first introduced to the notice of smokers in Canada. But the manufacturer had full confidence in its worth, and was not afraid of letting people know that he had a good thing. A year of prosperity, where many predicted defeat, has proved that he did not over-estimate the value of his productions. One of the largest buyers in Canada recently remarked that "The Gold Flake is beyond question the best smoking ever introduced here, and its consumption will increase just as fast as people find out that it is manufactured, and have tested its excellence."

To do this the manufacturer is testing the value of printer's ink, that all who read may know that a good thing is being made especially for them.

GOLD FLAKE.

One smoke of this
Will bathe the drooping spirits in delight,
Beyond the bliss of dreams. Be wise and taste.
—Adapted from Milton.

ECONOMY.

A gentleman accustomed to smoke cigars thinks nothing of giving ten cents for one and smoking it up in a few minutes. Now, for ten cents, he can buy a package of Gold Flake Cut Plug which will fill a more than common sized pipe eleven times, each pipe-full will last an ordinary smoker a full half hour. In this way he gets five and one-half hours' of continuous smoking for his ten cents, or eleven smokes for less than one cent each. Again, for purity of material and excellence of flavour, there is no comparison between this tobacco and the common cigar, the Gold Flake being much superior. We claim that for rich or poor this is the most economical smoking in use, you can get more solid comfort out of your money in the Gold Flake Cut Plug than in any other tobacco made. Just try and prove the truth of this statement for yourself.

GOLD FLAKE.

It cheers the sad, revives the old, inspires
The young, makes weariness forget his toil,
And fear her danger. Opens a new world
When this the present fails.
—Adapted from Byron.

THE BEST, THE CHEAPEST.

The Dominion of Canada has a population of about four millions. There was consumed during the last fiscal year about seven millions pounds of tobacco, affording to the Government a revenue of nearly one and one-half millions of dollars. It is estimated that about two in seven of the population uses tobacco in some form, which would give to each a little over six pounds, and make him a taxpayer in supporting the Government to the amount of $1.20. The excise duty on manufactured tobacco is twenty cents per pound, and is the same on all grades. That which sells for 5 cents in bond pays the same excise as that which sells for fifty. The consumer who buys the cheap tobacco pays a much larger percentage to the Government, and also of profit to the dealer than he who buys the best. Now, take into consideration the pureness of material and its lasting quality, and you will find that in tobacco, as in other things, the best is the cheapest.

It is now pretty generally understood from Halifax to Winnipeg that the Gold Flake Cut Plug is the best smoking tobacco ever made in Canada. It only remains for those who smoke to test it for themselves, as they will also find that in the end it is the cheapest.

...will be a very dangerous operation at his age.

On Friday afternoon the barn and stables of Hamilton Griffin, township of Howick, were burned. The live stock was saved.

Fourteen cases of sunstroke were reported in New York and Brooklyn on Friday and twelve deaths, the result of the extreme heat.

Michael Maher, employed at Castle Garden, New York, found $600 which had been lost by a Swedish emigrant on Friday, and returned it. She hugged and kissed him for ten minutes, then gave him half a dollar.

The carpenters and joiners of Toronto are threatening to strike.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Fire at Aurora.

AURORA, Ont., May 31.—The steam saw mill and shingle factory, owned by Davis & Brodie, was last evening about 7 o'clock totally consumed by fire, with a large quantity of lumber and shingles. Loss about $2,000; insured in the Phœnix Mutual of Toronto for $800. Cause of fire unknown.

From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 31.—The election of a representative to the Ontario Council from the Rideau and Bathurst Medical Association takes place to-morrow.

Bishop Duhamel leaves this morning for Montreal, to assist in the dedication of the Monastery of the Carmelites, in that city.

Strike of the Dock Hands at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 31.—About fifty men who are employed on the docks here loading lumber, struck this morning for twenty cents an hour. They have been getting fifteen cents. A tug with fifty men from Ogdensburg is expected here to-day, when it is feared there will be trouble.

Royalty at Toronto.

TORONTO, May 31.—The Princess Louise and Prince Leopold will visit the University this afternoon, and will drive to High Park and the Humber afterwards.

Sir John A. Macdonald will leave for Ottawa to-night.

The carpenters held a meeting on Saturday, and decided to ask an advance of 25 cents a day. This morning the majority of employers have agreed to the advance, and are now paying their workmen $1.75 per day.

Fell over the Bank at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 31.—William and Richard Heffernan, of New York, met with a serious accident last night by accidentally falling over the bank near the new Suspension bridge on the Canada side. William was instantly killed. Richard was badly injured, but is receiving good medical attendance. His condition is very favorable.

SALE OF LOTS.—We call attention to the sale of some choice lots in Mitchell's survey. Messrs. Knowles & Son will offer them for sale on Tuesday, June 8th. See advertisement.

Frightful Occurrence in Montreal.

Two Women Jump out of the Fourth Storey of a Burning Hotel.

Several Men Nearly Suffocated with the Smoke.

Others Badly Injured.

MONTREAL, May 30.—An event of a horrible nature occurred shortly before midnight, whereby two persons will probably lose their lives under the most horrible circumstances, and several others received injuries from which it is probable they will never fully recover. At that time a fire broke out in the Springfield Hotel, on Cathedral street. It quickly assumed large proportions, though the flames were mostly confined to the interior of the building. In less than an hour, the fire was completely extinguished, but in the meantime three occupants of the hotel had been carried on stretchers to the Chaboillez Square, Police station, and two others had been conveyed to an adjoining house. Two were hired women, who in their terror at sight of the flames surrounding them, had jumped from a fourth storey window into the yard at the rear of the hotel, where they were picked up in an insensible condition. One of them had her leg broken, and the other, who is enciente, it was feared would be prematurely delivered. The third—a man—was horribly burned about the face and hands, and presented a frightful appearance. He writhed and struggled on the stretcher in great agony, and it was found difficult to hold him down. He was found in the fourth storey of the hotel leaning against a window and suffocated by the smoke. It was impossible to learn his name as no one appeared to know him.

On entering the house where the other men had been carried, a fearful scene presented itself. The victims of the fire were stretched on the floor, while a number of firemen and others, under the superintendence of a doctor, were endeavouring to bring them back to life by chafing their limbs and bodies. For about an hour the operation was continued without success, but at the end of that time one of them—an elderly man named James Glenn—recovered consciousness, and in a few minutes later was able to tell his name.

All efforts to bring the other around proved futile up to a late hour this morning, and it was feared he would not revive; no one knew him.

The following is a list of victims:—James Glenn, aged 40, Scotchman, belonging to Montreal—not a regular boarder. He is not burned or otherwise injured, but simply suffering from the effects of suffocation. A young Irishman, name unknown severely burned about the head, neck, hands and wrists. He was raving, and in a semi comatose condition. A young French Canadian, aged 22, name unknown, and only a lodger at the hotel, was severely burned about the legs, suffocated by smoke, and at last report, still in a semi comatose condition. Marie Louise Thibaudean, domestic employed in the hotel, aged 16, both legs broken. Agnes Calle, aged 21, also servant in hotel, fractured thigh. Origin of fire unknown. About half past eleven, the proprietor of the hotel, Oliver Salvas, was awakened by his wife, who fancied she discovered the smell of smoke. They slept on the second storey. Salvas immediately instituted a search, and discovered the hall way on fire. The alarm was sounded, but nothing more is known of the manner in which the fire started. The damage to the premises will amount at $6,000.

LATER.

John Boyle, who is one of the greatest sufferers by the fire, was formerly a sergeant in H. M. 96th Regiment of the line, and only arrived here from Ireland last week. A Mr. O'Connor, also a guest of the hotel, jumped out of a third story window and disclocated his right arm. He states the fire had gained such headway at the moment the alarm was given there was no possibility of any of those sleeping on the third and fourth storyes getting down stairs. The landlord and his wife escaped out of a window in the rear, getting on to the roof of a shed which adjoined the house. The three men who are now in the hospital were rescued by acts of heroism on the part of the firemen. The firemen bear evidence on their faces and bodies of the fiery ordeal through which they ventured. The parties injured are doing well except James Glenn who is in a very critical state. Charles Walker and John Boyle are very severely injured, but the doctors have hopes of their recovery. The two women who jumped from the fourth storey are in a worse condition than at first suspected, but the doctors do not despair of recovery.

A LARGE CATCH.—William Holliday, John Cormie, and John Jones, caught fifteen hundred trout after two days fishing in the Saugeen river near Durham. The following are the numbers caught each day:—First day—Jones 291, Cormie 206, Holliday 296.—Total 793. Second day—Jones 220, Cormie 296, Holliday 202. Total 718.

THE Maple Leafs have accepted a challenge from the Mutuals, of Galt, to play there on Saturday afternoon.

THE COW BY-LAW.—The case against David Kennedy for allowing a cow to run at large, adjourned from Saturday, was dismissed at the Police Court to-day.

MAYOR SLEEMAN has received word from Peck & Snyder, New York, that the Canadian Championship emblem to be put up for competition by the Maple Leafs, will reach Guelph next Monday. A model base ball bat in silver has been chosen as the emblem.

NORFOLK STREET METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. Dr. Cushing, of Bradford, Pa., Corresponding secretary of the Italian Bible and Sunday School Missions, occupied the pulpit in the Norfolk street Methodist Church yesterday. He preached to large congregations at the morning and evening services. Handsome collections were taken up at the close of each service.

SHIPMENT OF STOCK, &c.—Col. Higinbotham on the 28th shipped to Manitoba per G. W. R., two young Durham bulls, "Lord Lorne" and "Prince," purchased from Mr. Peter Bathgate, Guelph Township. He also shipped a car load of implements from the manufactory of Messrs. Gowdy & Co., amongst which were two of the double mould board ploughs recently patented by that firm.

THE temperance meeting in the city hall yesterday was fairly attended. The President, Mr. W. Wilkie, in the chair. The Chaplain read the 85th Psalm, the Rev. Mr. Coutts led in prayer and also addressed the meeting in a most able manner, and the choir by their excellent rendering added to the interest of the meeting. The membership was increased.

THE show for fruit this year through the entire western province, is the best that we have had for many years. Orchards are as a rule, one mass of blossom; and should we escape frost for the next two weeks the crop will undoubtedly be a large one. Small fruits show equally as well as the larger kinds, and we have not yet noticed any orchard that is not beautiful with promise. We hope the anticipations indulged in may be fully realized.

RECEIVED HIS DIPLOMA.—Robt. W. Carter, son of Mr. John Carter, who for the past four months has been studying at the Canada Business College, Hamilton, lately underwent the usual examination, and received his diploma. The Principal, moreover, on his leaving gives him a high character for his attainments and diligence, and states that no one who ever attended finished the course in so short a time, and with so much satisfaction. This is great praise, and we trust that this is only the beginning of Mr. Carter's honours in his studies.

PERSONAL.—Bishop Fuller, of Hamilton, arrived in the city this morning, and is the guest of Mr. George Elliott. This evening His Lordship will lecture in the school room of St. George's church, on "Canada, fifty years ago and to-day." He has had an opportunity of becoming well acquainted with the changes through which Canada has passed in fifty years from personal observation, and with thus he is enabled to handle the subject thoroughly. The subject is one which a Canadian audience must be interested in, and the lecture will doubtless draw a good attendance.

ONTARIO CRICKET ASSOCIATION.—The following clubs have, up to the present, joined the Ontario Cricket Association:—Toronto, Barrie, Hamilton, Chatham, Paris, Brantford, Sarnia, Port Hope, Cobourg, Carlstons (Toronto), Wanderers (Toronto), Guelph, St. May's, Peterborough. The following names of gentlemen willing to serve on committee have been received:—Henry Totten and William Lowery, (Toronto), R. Kennedy and P. K. Hope, (Hamilton), J. N. Kirchoffer. (Port Hope), J. H. D. Munson, (Cobourg), and John L. Bray, M. D. (Chatham.)

IMPERIAL MEASURE. — The Napanee Standard says: As the strawberry and small fruit season approaches, it may not be amiss to notice that a heavy penalty may be imposed for the use of any measure other than the Imperial. The law in this case came into force on the 1st of this month, and any person found selling by any other measure, or selling what purports to be a quart of any commodity, and which will not hold out measurement according to the Imperial measure may be prosecuted, and fined heavily. The farmers will do well to make a note of this, and govern themselves accordingly.

GUELPH RIFLE ASSOCIATION practice to-morrow, at 3 p.m.

NEW RURAL DEAN.—His Lordship Bishop Fuller has appointed Rev. Robert Cordner, of Mount Forest, Rural Dean of the county of Wellington, the position having been rendered vacant by the removal of Rev. R. C. Caswell, formerly of Fergus, to Welland.

VAGRANCY.—James Wilson, arrested in a vacant house on Waterloo street, by P. C. Hammond last Friday night, was charged before the Police Magistrate to-day with vagrancy. He was sentenced two months in gaol. He asked that the sentence might be changed to the same term in the Central Prison, but the request was refused.

THE steamer City of Guelph was running on Saturday afternoon on Puslinch Lake. It is working satisfactorily with the exception of the pump which is to be replaced by a larger one. The boat will be running regularly every day after Wednesday.

It was stated on Friday that complaints had been made because the Water Commissioners had neglected to place a lamp at the water works trench at the corner of Yarmouth and Quebec streets. They have not yet done so, and if the matter is not attended to soon, their negligence may result in an accident.

JUNIOR LACROSSE CLUB.—A meeting was held at the Victoria Hotel on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a Junior Lacrosse Club. The club was formed and officers elected. The membership promises to be large. The practice begins to-morrow evening on the Exhibition grounds.

SCHOLARSHIP IN THEOLOGY.—We are glad to notice that at the late Convocation of Victoria College, Mr. E. B. Stevenson, B.A., son of Alderman Stevenson, of this city, secured a Scholarship in Theology, for Old Testament Exegesis. We congratulate Mr. Stevenson on his success, adding as it does an additional honor to our Guelph students.

THE LATE THOMAS SAYERS.—We copy to-day the portion of the Bishop of Niagara's charge—delivered at the Synod last week—in which, while speaking of the consecration of St. George's Church, he makes feeling reference to the death of the late Thomas Sayers, a most devoted churchman and respected resident of Guelph for many years.

THE Manitoulin Expositor says: Messrs. Gow and Melvin, of Guelph, are about to build a summer residence on Strawberry Island—at the mouth of Manitowaning Bay—and it is only reasonable to expect that many other men of means will follow their sensible example. These gentlemen are also having a pretty little steam yacht built, to be used by themselves for pleasure trips.

A GOOD SCORE.—On Saturday afternoon Wheeler Ogg, accompanied by Lieut. Anderson and Mr. J. Leadley held his first practice in preparation for the Wimbledon matches, at the butts. He used the new Martini Henri rifle. The wind was blowing in gusts from the east which affected the shooting to some extent, but out of a possible 105 he scored 97 points. The following is the full score:

200 yards	- -	5445554 — 32
500 yards	- - -	4555455 — 33
600 yards	- -	5545445 — 32

SCHOOL SECTION No. 4½, GUELPH TOWNSHIP.—The following are the names of the pupils who obtained the highest number of marks for May, in School Section No. 4½, Guelph Township. The names of the three highest in each class are arranged in order of merit. Fourth class—Edith Masson, Robert G. Elliott, Jennie C. Gray. Third class—David Anderson, E. Agnes Armstrong, Jessie Anderson. Second class—Ida Armstrong, Andrew Richardson, Robert Kirby.

THE RULE OF FAITH.—We have received from the Presbyterian office a copy of this very able lecture, which was delivered by Rev. Professor McLaren at the close of the late session of Knox College. It is entitled "The Rule of Faith and Private Judgment." It is well worthy a careful perusal, and we are glad to see it published in pamphlet form. It can be obtained from the Presbyterian office, or through the booksellers.

CHASE'S RECIPES.—We have received from Mr. Bryce, of London, Ont., the publisher, a copy of the new Canadian edition of "Chase's Recipes." The volume contains a valuable collection of 1,000 practical recipes, and these are selected with so much judgment that useful information on every subject of interest to the housewife, the student, mechanic, merchant, and in fact everybody is at once made accessable. They are specially valuable to the housewife, for she will find in this handy book, recipes connected with every department of her work. This new edition has been carefully revised and enlarged.

THE MODEL FARM CATTLE IN ENGLAND.—Some doubts having been expressed as to fat cattle recently sold in England for £45 each, being the production of the Ontario Experimental Farm, we have pleasure in giving the following excerpt from a letter received by the President of the College from Mr. Wm. Jones, of Merthyr Tydvil, Wales, dated 14th May, who applied for the admission of his two sons in the College. He says:—"I had the pleasure of buying six of your prize cattle, namely, two twin steers, one red ox, and three cows, from Mr. Frankland, of Toronto."

From the Bishop of Niagara's Charge

Consecration of Churches.

It was my privilege last year to consecrate more churches than during any previous year since my consecration as bishop. The first of these, the most beautiful church taking it all in all, in my opinion, west of Montreal, is the parish church of Guelph. On my assuming the charge of this diocese I found this noble structure complete in all its parts, but burdened with a debt of about $6,000. Their church had cost the good churchmen of Guelph about $48,000, and is a monument of the zeal and indefatigable labours of the late rector, the venerable Archdeacon Palmer, and his congregation. It is said that many ladies of the congregation who had not the means of giving as much as they wished towards its erection, taught music and made themselves useful in other legitimate ways, and devoted the proceeds of their labors to the building fund of the church. The comparatively small debt on this church was being annually reduced at the rate of $1,000 each year, when two zealous members of the congregation—Mr. George Elliott and his sister, Miss Elliott—nobly came forward and offered a large proportion of the debt, provided the balance should be raised by their fellow parishoners. The balance was raised, so that their noble church might be consecrated to the service of Almighty God, 'separating it henceforth from all unhallowed, ordinary and common uses, and dedicating it entirely to God's service.' This having been made known to me, a petition having been presented to me as bishop of the diocese, asking me to consecrate the church by the name and style of St. George's church, Guelph, I had the great privilege of doing so on the 24th of June, St. John the Baptist's day, A. D., 1879—fifty years, two months and one day from the time when the first tree was cut down in what is now the beautiful city of Guelph. On that occasion we were favored with the assistance of the Lord Bishop of Toronto, the venerable Archdeacon Whittaker, and a large number of clergy of this diocese, with some few from other dioceses. As an old friend of Archdeacon Palmer's, one who had often visited him during the erection of the church, Provost Whittaker was invited by the rector, Canon Dixon, with my full concurrence, to preach the sermon on the auspicious occasion. Before the impressive and imposing services commenced, we were all marshalled in the spacious and lofty school-room in the basement, nearly the full size of the church, and each having in his hand a copy of the form for the consecration service, including beautiful and most appropriate hymns (copies of which were scattered throughout the church), parts were allotted by me to each person present; and each having been questioned twice as to whether he remembered what particular part had been given to him, and the order in which he was to go through with it, the services commenced with the presentation of the petition for consecration, after which the long procession passed up the middle aisle, chaunting the beautiful 24th Psalm. After this every one took the part allotted to him without the least mistake throughout the long and most impressive service. The sermon (as might have been expected) was a most able and learned one. That was a proud, joyous day for many of the good Church people of Guelph, who saw with most grateful hearts their beautiful house of prayer and praise dedicated forever to the service of Almighty God. But the joy of that day was not unmingled with sorrow. Some days before the consecration of the church a most respectable and devoted churchman, who had filled various responsible municipal positions in Guelph, and for many years, exercised a general supervision over the church fabric and appointments, who had seen the corner stone of the church laid, and had witnessed the cap stones set with rejoicings, had met with a most serious accident, from which it was impossible for him to recover. He, however, lingered far longer than his physicians hoped for, giving most comforting assurances to his relatives, friends, clergymen and myself, of his sole trust in his Redeemer's merits, and was taken up to the paradise of God just as the bell for the consecration service rang its sweet tones out of the graceful spire. Thus passed away a most devoted son of the church in the confidence of a certain faith, in the comfort of a humble religious holy hope, in favor with God, and in heartfelt charity with the world. On the 9th of September I consecrated to the service of Almighty God the neat little church at Harriston, in the township of Minto, by the name of St. Mary's Church. This is a church which shows how a correct ecclesiastical taste will effect a good deal at the expenditure of small means. It is not by any means a costly church, but it has quite an ecclesiastical appearance. On the first day of October I was called upon to perform the same pleasing service at Farmington, in the township of Amaranth, where I consecrated a small church by the name of St. Alban's, Farmington, which had been erected by the indefatigable exertions of the Rev. R. D. Clarke while he was a catechist. It did not cost much, nor will it hold many; but its chancel puts to shame many a costly church by its ornamentations and the correct style of its construction. But the crowning work of the year was the consecration of St. Saviour's Church, Queenstown, a beautiful stone edifice on the banks of the lovely Niagara river, in the ancient village of Queenstown, and which, like all the others, was entirely freed from debt.

FIRE IN WEST FLAMBORO'.—Early on Friday morning a fire was discovered in the dwelling house of Mr. John Hallway, 8th concession, West Flamboro', near Freelton. The house with its contents was completely consumed. The members of the family, who were in bed at the time the fire broke out, had great difficulty in making their escape. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. The building was insured for a small sum.

The Agricultural Commission.

This Commission will meet on the 8th of June, and will be in session probably most of the week. It is intended to call together several sections on the Tuesday in order that they may report progress to a full session of the Commissioners the following day. On Thursday and Friday it is probable that oral testimony will be taken by the Commissioners on section No. 4, embracing fruit growing, forestry, insects and insectivorous birds and bee-keeping. At Tuesday's sitting an early day will probably be appointed for a meeting of section No. 3, relating to stock raising, dairying, etc, to examine witnesses in that very important branch of enquiry.

The Drill at the Agricultural College.

We have received a letter from a "Senior Student" at the Agricultural College, in reply to an article which appeared in the Herald of Wednesday on a letter which was published in the Mail —we presume by the same "Senior Student"—complaining of the military drill at the Agricultural College. As the letter touches on no new point in the matter complained of, and as it is a reply to the Herald's article, and should have been sent to our contemporary for publication, it can serve no good purpose to give it a place in our columns. Touching the question of drill, however, we may say that we have no sympathy with "Senior Student's" complaint, and he fails to make good his objections advanced against it. Moreover, if we are not mistaken drilling is not compulsory at the Institution; at least it is optional with the students whether they join the company which forms the Ontario Field Battery. Besides, the studies of the students are not so engrossing as to prevent them from going through a light drill of five hours in two weeks, which is of great advantage to them physically and otherwise, and which no reasonable person will object to.

THE Liberal party in Quebec have refused to accept Mr. Joly's resignation as leader.

IT seems that after much wire-pulling and caucusing Mr. Angus Morrison is to be appointed Collector of Customs at Toronto, and Mr. John Beverley Robinson Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.

MR. E. KING DODDS has sent forth a confidential circular to tavern-keepers, informing them that the Dominion Alliance has resolved to agitate the country for the adoption of the Scott law in in every available county. No doubt the Alliance will be prepared to meet him should he take the field.

THE summary of political news in Britain for the past week is that the Government redeems its promises by introducing a Burials Bill and a Game Law measure. There is a growing hostility of Protestants to the appointments of Earl Ripon and Lord Kenmare, and persistent demands are made for Sir Bartle Frere's recall. Some glimmer of interest is caused by Goschen's arrival at Constantinople.

THE MERCER REFORMATORY.—A new experiment in the matter of prisoners is to be tried in Toronto. The Andrew Mercer Reformatory at Toronto, for women, is just about completed, and will shortly be occupied. It is a prison exclusively for females, where the inmates will be graded according to conduct, and where the juvinile offenders will be altogether isolated from the more hardened ones. It will contain 147 cells, 49 isolated in the basement. The new prison is an important step in a right path.

THE HOLLAND MURDER CASE.—The prisoners in the suspected murder case from the township of Holland, who were remanded last week, were on Friday brought before the Police Magistrate at Owen Sound for further examination. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate committed the prisoners Hannah Knox and the colored man Douglas for trial at the next Assize Court, for the murder of Thos. Knox, the husband of the woman. The social character of the prisoners is of a very exceptional kind, and very little interest appears to be taken in the case except that the authorities are endeavoring to collect all the evidence in connection with the matter.

THE FALL WHEAT.—The Mount Forest Examiner says:—We have been making extended enquiries of farmers recently and learn that the fall wheat in the neighboring townships of Arthur and Egremont will prove considerably below an average crop. Owing to the changeable character of the winter much of the fall wheat was badly injured, and in some instances it was found advisable to plough the crop up and replant with spring grain. In the western part of Normanby, however the crop presents a most encouraging appearance. The spring crops have been generally put in under favorable circumstances in this locality, and as the main dependence of our farmers rests upon these, satisfactory results are hoped for at the close of the season.

FATAL RESULT.—The Elora Express says: It is our sad duty to record the death of Mr. Jacob Sheppard, this week, which occurred in Elora on Tuesday at noon. We noticed in our last issue that deceased, who had been working at Mr. McQueen's, Guelph road, cut his toe with an adze last week, but little did we or anybody else think that such a trivial accident would result first in blood poison by absorption, and then death. The subject of this obituary had been troubled with disease of the kidneys for some years, which helped to induce absorption after the accident, otherwise the slight occurrence might not have terminated fatally. Jacob Sheppard was a first-class carpenter by trade, and many a well-finished building in Elora and neighborhood testifies to the honesty and efficiency of his work.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

The Agricultural College.

A correspondent of the Globe paid a visit to the Agricultural College the other day and records his impressions in an interesting letter in Friday's paper. He thus speaks of the "Royal City":—"Guelph is no rendezvous for soulless corporations, but is rather a farming centre. Besides the cultivators of the soil, who are all in well-to-do circumstances, there are many persons in the place engaged in the making of lime—here a valuable industry. The stone is of good quality, and can be had in such abundance that it is used as almost the only building material. As a consequence, nearly all the stores and houses are built of the soft grey limestone peculiar to the locality. Although the city has a quiet and peaceful aspect, the reader must not suppose that this is a dead place. On the contrary, its business enterprises are many. You cannot box up ten thousand people, and especially a people among whom the Scottish element predominates so largely as it does here, without having good results. Three railroads have deemed the place of sufficien importance to erect commodious depots in it."

The correspondent then goes on to speak of the College and Model Farm, and the information relating to them which he received from Mr. Mills, the President, and sums up his impressions in the following terms, which shows a thorough appreciation of the importance of the Institution:—"About the first thing that impressed me was the thoroughly practical education the students were getting. They were divided up into little squads all over the place. Ploughing, harrowing, surveying, gardening, grafting, carpentering, experimenting with chemicals, seeds, and tools. In short every branch of husbandry was being taught and explained in the most practical way possible. There was no kidglove farming; the boys were digging right into the hardest and dirtiest kind of work. Canada's Agricultural College has refrained from falling into the mistake of many of the American farmers' colleges. It does not make too much of a college idea. The undertaking cannot be but a success. Let any one visit the place and see for himself what is being accomplished, and he will come away convinced, I am sure, that the College is already a very great success."

Wellington Spring Chancery Sittings

SATURDAY, May 29th.

The Court resumed at 10 a. m., Vice Chancellor Blake presiding.

Euler v. Letson.—This was a suit brought by John George Euler, of Berlin, against Henry Letson, formerly of Bridgeport, Waterloo Township, now a resident of Brant County, to enforce the specific performance of a written agreement between the parties for the purchase of a dwelling house and certain lots in Bridgeport. Defence was that the agreement had been obtained by fraud and misrepresentation, and that the property was not worth more than half the price agreed on. His Lordship said the defendant had proved fraud and misrepresentation, but ruled against the defendant on the ground that he had delayed too long in repudiating the contract. Defendant should accept the property pursuant to agreement, that a certain mortgage on it should be first paid out of moneys in Court to defendant's credit; plaintiff to pay his own costs. Mr. Boyd for plaintiff; Messrs. John King, Berlin, and John Bain, Toronto, for defendant.

This case is of considerable importance and a longer statement of it will appear to-morrow.

Worswick v. Haffner—Decree for plaintiff by consent. Mr. McLean for plaintiff; Mr. McDonald for defendant.

Hearn v. Allan—Mr. Dunbar made a motion for an injunction restraining the defendant from exercising a power of sale under a chattel mortgage. Injunction granted.

This concluded the business of the Court, which closed at 6:30 p. m.

Money Orders to the United States.

By the new Money Order arrangement with the United States fifty dollars is the largest amount that may be transmitted by a single post office order. It is also provided that the service of the postal money order system shall be performed exclusively through the agency of one or more offices of exchange, to be established when and where each country may deem advisable, on due notice being given. The new arrangements come into force on 1st July next, and for the present the offices of exchange in the Dominion will be St. John, N.B., Quebec, Montreal, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Victoria, B.C., Winnipeg, Man.; and on the part of the United States, Bangor, Me., St Albans, Vt., Buffalo, N.Y., Detroit, Mich., St. Paul, Minn., Portland, Oregon. This list, of course, may be extended as found necessary. The post offices authorized to issue and pay money orders under the new regulations will be named by the respective Governments. Provision is made for the replacement of a lost or missent order, if the paying office make the necessary request, and each Government is permitted to make such regulations as shall secure the service most effectually against fraud. The convention is not terminable until one year after one of the parties to it has signified a desire to have it brought to a close.

An eagle of considerable size was observed hovering in the vicinity of Brussels last week.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

PRINCE LEOPOLD IN TORONTO.—The Princess Louise and Prince Leopold arrived at the Union Station Saturday morning having travelled from Ottawa by the regular train. Owing to the visit being a strictly incognito one no special arrangements were made beyond the fact that the Chief of Police and a squad of policemen were on duty to keep the approaches to the station clear. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Senator Alexander, the Hon. Messrs. Pardee, Crooks, and Hardy, the Mayor and some of the aldermen were present to meet the party, who on their arrival were driven to the Queen's Hotel. The royal pair were accompanied by their attendants. After breakfast they visited the General Hospital and the Eye and Ear Infirmary. On Sunday they attended service in St. James' Cathedral. In the afternoon, it being the feast of Corpus Christi, and the services at St. Michael's Cathedral being unusually imposing, their Royal Highnesses sent word that they would be present. Methodist Church in Canada.

Wellington District Meeting at Drayton

The Wellington District Meeting in connection with the Methodist Church of Canada, assembled in the village of Drayton last week. The first session was a public meeting in which the principles of temperance were fully discussed. Rev. J. E. Dyer in the chair. Rev. Messrs. W. Savage, of Clifford; Husband, of Fordwich; and J. Deacon, of Holstein, delivered addresses. On Tuesday Rev. C. Lavell, chairman, opened proceedings, when the character of all ministers of the District, was closely examined, and to the credit of the thirty clergymen no charge was preferred in regard to morality, doctrine or ability. Mr. Wm. Cosford, of Peel, presented himself as a candidate for the Ministry, and after due examination was admitted. Rev. Messrs. Moir and Turk were recommended to be continued students of theology, in one of the colleges, for another year. One candidate, suitable in almost every respect for the work, at the last momen declined a vote, feeling his deficiency in pulpit ministration.

The connectional funds, with their quota towards the $150,000 for the relief and extension fund were most handsomely met, but we regret to say must have affected, very materially the salaries of the ministers.

Changes in fields of labor were made in the Moorefield, Kenilworth, Arthur and Holstein circuits. A junior preacher to be added to the Peel work. The Sabbath Schools of the District were reported to be in a most flourishing condition.

The ministers of Harriston and Arthur will be changed, as their three years have terminated. At the evening session a public meeting was held, at which Dr. Fowler, of Listowel; W. Mills, of Arthur; and J. R. Grundy, of Harriston, gave addresses.

Wednesday, lay delegates from all the circuits, met in session with the ministers of the District, when all financial and statistical matters were reviewed. John Anderson, Esq. Registrar of Arthur, was duly appointed to represent the District in the Missionary Committee of the conference.

Arrangements were made for holding a Sabbath School Convention for the whole District, at the next District meeting to be held in Mount Forest in September.

The following ministers were returned as superannuated in the District:—Revs. J. Armstong, C. Curry, and H. Reid. Rev. J. B. Williams, who retired on account of ill health last May died of heart disease during the year.

Every session of the meeting was characterized by great unanimity of feeling. The District meeting was brought to a close on Wednesday evening.—Elora Express.

Primitive Methodist Church.

The annual meeting of the Conference of this church is now being held in Orangeville.

The Stationing and Finance Committee had their first meeting on Thursday. The reports sent indicate a very satisfactory improvement in the various funds of the church.

On Friday the Conference met, when the Rev. W. C. Hughan, of Bowmanville, was elected President, and the Rev. T. W. Joliffe, of Kingston, Secretary of the Conference. The rest of the evening session was occupied in considering the usual tabular reports from the churches within its boundaries.

Several applications were brought forward for additional ministers, and duly considered.

In the afternoon the Conference proceeded to consider the state of the Christian Journal, the organ of the denomination, and after a spirited discussion Rev. J. C. Antliff, B. D., was unanimously appointed editor, and Rev. W. Bee assistant editor. The Book Room business of the Church was thoroughly investigated, and an expression of satisfaction was put on record of the results of the business during the year. Rev. W. Bee was reappointed book steward, and Rev. J. Milner vice-steward.

The annual Conference sermon was preached in the evening to a large congregation by Rev. R. Cade, from Corinthians xv. 34.

On Saturday the Conference referred the whole question of employing additional ministers to the Finance Committee.

The Rev. A. Heyworth, formerly of this Conference, but now in connection with the British Conference and stationed in England, applied for re-admission to the Canadian Conference. The request was granted on certain conditions.

A very warm discussion arose out of the question of employing hired local preachers. After a very exhaustive statement of the whole case it was decided to discontinue their services.

The Central Board of Examiners presented their report to Conference. It was stated that several of the probationers in the ministry had failed in their studies—in other words they were plucked.

The Conference Sabbath services were very impressive. The Rev. T. Crompton preached, in the absence of Rev. R. Boyle. In the evening the Rev. J. C. Antliff preached.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Unprecedented Success.

A Crowded Store. Sales Increasing Daily.

The Dry Goods trade of the Lion, for the spring of 1880, has this far been a grand success eclipsing any former season's business. Thus we attribute to two reasons:—First, a more prosperous condition of the people. Second, the growing popularity of The Lion as the "People's Dry Goods House."

Never was our stock so full assorted. Never did we offer such value. Never have we done such a large trade.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE AIR LINE.—A freight train on the Air Line ran off the track near Simcoe on Sunday, and plunging down an embankment, twelve cars were wrecked and destroyed by fire. The engineer died at his post and his body was consumed in the flames. The fireman and brakeman were seriously injured, but escaped with their lives. The accident, upon which a coroner's inquest has been commenced, was caused by an open switch.

CATTLE IN BRUCE COUNTY.—Mr. Schurter, of Mildway, County of Bruce, writes that "from the 29th ult., to the 16th inst., fat cattle were bought there weighing together 179,212 lbs., at an average price of 5½c per lb., and averaged $72.60 per head; and that cattle buyers will find it to their advantage to visit that place on every fair day, being the last Wednesday in each month."

CREDIT VALLEY RAILWAY.—Mr. C. Clarke, M.P.P., has been kept busy for a week past receiving and replying to letters complaining of the unfinished state of the fences upon the Credit Valley Railway. Mr. Clarke has brought the matter before the attention of the Ontario Government, and of the officials of the road, and steps have been taken which will ensure the complete fencing of the line before the close of nex month.

Mothers ! ! Mothers ! ! Mothers ! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

It is stated that the Toronto Street Railway Company are about to erect new sheds and stables on the Esplanade at a cost of $100,000. The building will be the finest of the kind in the Dominion.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. H. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. Afternoon's Despatches

From Toronto.

TORONTO, June 1.—A two year old child of Mr. Cooper, Captain of the Island ferry steamer, was poisoned yesterday by sucking the sulphurated end of some matches.

A man named Thomas Stubb, charged with drunkenness at this morning's Police Court, piteously entreated the officers to hang him, as he was tired of his life, and as he was led off to the cell on a week's remand, the unfortunate muttered, "My God, will death never come."

A number of carpenters and joiners are out on strike for an advance of 2½ cents per hour. It is thought that to-day will end the strike. The demands of the men it is expected will, by time, be complied with.

The coming pedestrian tournament, 72 hours, go as you please, commencing at the Adelaide street rink next Monday is becoming interesting. Among the entries is a young man from Winnipeg, the original Indian Deerfoot who ran so many races in Europe years ago, also White Eagle, of Caughnawaga.

This morning at 11 o'clock the Royal Visitors left on a special train of the G. W. R. for the Falls. A goodly number cheered them off, and the train was cheered by another assemblage at the Union Depot, which had gathered there under the impression that the train would start from there. They will remain to-day and to-morrow at the Prospect House, Clifton, and will start on Thursday for Milwaukee and Chicago.

Hon. McKenzie Bowell has been closeted with the head officials of the Custom House all morning.

There is likely to be a close contest in the Orange Grand Lodge for the position of Master. One party favors Mr. Parkhill, M.P.P., and the other Mr. Wallace, M.P. During the meeting to-day Mr. Parkhill will be presented by the delegates with a gold watch and chain.

The Goss-Ryan Prize Fight.

COLLIERS, W. Va., June 1.—Goss was defeated in 81 rounds. Time, one hour and twenty minutes.

Toronto and Ottawa Railway.

PORT PERRY, June 1.—Last evening, a large and influential meeting was held here to consider a request from the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, for granting an extension of time for the commencement of their work, the effect of which is to keep alive the bonus by-law here. At the close, a motion was passed granting the request.

Burglaries at Morrisburg.

MORRISBURG, June 1,—Three stores here were entered last night by burglars, but no goods were taken. Afterwards a hardware store was burglarized, and two revolvers stolen, and a liquor store was entered and a bottle of gin taken.

From Montreal.

In the court of Review Mr. Justice Johnson gave judgment in the libel suit of Evans vs. John Fraser in favor of plaintiff for fifty dollars damages and costs. His Honor also gave judgment in the case of Dame M. Giraldi against the Jacques Cartier Bank for $9,933.

During the month of May last 6,912 head of cattle and 1,539 sheep were shipped from this port to Great Britain, an increase of three hundred per cent. over any previous month since the export of cattle commenced.

CABLE RATES.—The Dominion Telegraph Company have again reduced their cable rates to Great Britain and France to 50 cents per word.

IMPORTS FOR MAY.—The imports at this port for May amount to $5,334.70; for the same month last year they were $3,300.67. The increase this year is $2,034.03.

PHONOGRAPHY.—D. L. Scott-Browne's Phonographic Monthly for April has been received, and is full of interesting and instructive matter to phonographers and the general public. The office of publication is 737 Broadway, New York.

INLAND REVENUE RETURNS.—The duties collected by the Inland Revenue Department at this port in May are as follows:—Duty on tobacco, $822.10; on malt, $2,-105.58; on petroleum, $108.20; on spirits, $4,408.56. Total, 7,444.44. The total duty collected in the same month last year was $4,381.92. Increase, 3,054.52.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT ON A PASSENGER TRAIN.—On Monday afternoon the conductor on the Grand Trunk express train, which arrives here at 4.10 p.m., telegraphed the police here to be at the station on the arrival of the train, to arrest a drunken man who was acting in a disorderly manner. The Chief was at the station, and on the arrival of the train arrested the offender, whose name was ascertained to be C. P. Thompson. He is a discharged member of the North-west Mounted Police Force, who was on his way to his home at Belleville. It was learned from a brakesman that a person on the train had $150 in his possession which belonged to the prisoner. This money was obtained and Thompson was taken to the Police station. When the Chief attempted to place him in the cell he resisted, but after considerable struggling was made secure. No charge was preferred against him, and when he sobered up he was allowed to go. He left this (Tuesday) morning for Belleville, SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. JOHN ARMSTRON.—We regret to record the sudden death of Mr. John Armstrong, which occurred on Monday about one o'clock. He was in his usual state of health in the morning, and after breakfast went to light his pipe at the kitchen stove. In doing so it fell out of his hands, when he threw them back and he fell over. His wife at the moment noticed this, and caught him. She managed to get him on a lounge and at once sent for some neighbours and for Dr. Brock, who on his arrival pronounced it a bad case of paralysis. From that time he never spoke or moved, and at the time above mentioned died. Deceased leaves six children by his first wife, all girls—one of whom is dead; and two by his second wife, a boy and girl. He was well known years ago as a saloon keeper in the old wooden building where the Bank of Commerce now stands. Through misfortune in business after he gave up saloon keeping he lost nearly all he had made, after which he took to teaming. His death will be regretted by his friends, and the sympathy of the community will be extended to his wife and family in their sore and sudden bereavement.

The U. E. Loyalists in Canada.

Lecture by Bishop Fuller in St. George's Church.

There was a good attendance in the school room of St. George's Church on Monday evening, considering the unpropitious weather, to hear the lecture by Bishop Fuller, of Hamilton, but the audience was not by any means large.

His Lordship announced that there had been a misunderstanding as to the lecture he would deliver, it being given out that he was to lecture on "Canada fifty years ago and to-day," while he had understood that he was to lecture on the "U. E. Loyalists in Upper Canada." He had prepared the latter subject for the occasion and would deal with it, but might give the other lecture at some future time.

He said those who were living in Ontario at the present time should look back on those who had subdued the wilderness during the close of the last century, with gratefulness. At the close of the war between Great Britain and the United States, the United Empire Loyalists determined to seek homes in the forests of Upper Canada. In the war they determined to support the English Government. The men of mind and culture are those who act on principle. Such were the United Empire Loyalists. When the question was presented to them—Will you forego your obligations to the British Government? they nobly resolved to fight rather than do so. A large number of these loyalists were not only men of good principles but men of good education also. In entering the forest they left behind them the joys and comforts which civilization afforded. They turned their backs upon these things some out of choice but most of them because of their oppression, and were bound to wend their way into the wilderness. They had no railroads then nor open roads by which they could travel, and in their journeyings underwent great hardships. Their progress was slow. It had taken at least ten or twelve days to cross one portage thirty miles in length, the same time as it takes now to cross the ocean, or to go from New York to San Francisco. Those of them who came to Upper Canada by Quebec were obliged to come up the St. Lawrence in the spring. When he delivered this lecture in Hamilton a gentleman had told him that this part of the lecture reminded him of a man in the Glengarry settlement who said that Moses' experience of forty years in the wilderness was nothing to that of the U. E. Loyalists in Upper Canada. It was true the British Government recognized their allegiance at the conclusion of the war, but the orders of the Government to reward them were not immediately executed in Canada. They were given free grants of land in lots according to their services or loss by the war. They drew lots for the position of their grants and as soon as the names were taken the king's deed was handed to them. Many of them were not fully compensated for what they lost. The number who came to Canada was about 10,000. The British Government was anxious to do all they could for them. Agricultural implements were distributed among them, portable mills for grinding were distributed among them, but these implements were often of an inferior quality. The lecturer then went on to speak of the hardships which these early settlers experienced in 1837, in consequence of the partial failure of crops, when they were scarcely able to eke out an existence. They had plenty sugar but that was a luxury rather than a necessary. The summer of 1839 brought relief to most of the settlers. He spoke of the clothing worn by the early settlers which was made of deer skin. He referred to the rebellion of 1837-8 and the stand the loyalists then took.

At the close a vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer which was moved by Mr. George Elliott, and seconded by Rev. Canon Dixon.

In replying His Lordship said that if he was spared to return from the Old Country he would try to make it convenient to lecture in St. George's Church on "Canada fifty years ago and to-day."

Barnacles.

To the Editor of the Mercury:

DEAR SIR,—I am informed that the law does not make the employment of Water Commissioners obligatory on a Municipal Corporation. If this is really the case, let us dispense with the science of this class of officials, and I think the services of the clerk might also be dispensed with. Also, I would suggest that in place o Water Commissioners a standing Committee of the City Council might be constituted a Water Works Committee, and the duties of the Clerk might be performed by the engineer of the works, and thus a saving of $1,800 per year be effected. And three men in the prime of life would at the same time be at liberty to exercise their talents in some manner that would be of greater utility to the world.

I hope the tax payers will in future take a little more interest in municipal expenditure, and see to it that the departments of the city service are conducted with economy. We have always been afflicted with too many patriots anxious to serve the public in any genteel and easy employment involving little work and plenty of pay.

Yours, faithfully,
RATEPAYER.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

DROWNING ACCIDENT ON PIGEON LAKE.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Pigeon Lake, on Saturday evening. Three young men named Alex. McCallum, W. Whalen, and C. E. German started after dark to cross the lake in a canoe, towing a racing shell. A perfect gale was blowing on the lake at the time, which swamped the canoe; the three men clung to the shell for nearly two hours, when German struck out to swim ashore, but he sank and was drowned. The two others stuck to the boats, and drifted ashore in an exhausted condition.

Wellington Spring Chancery Sittings

Euler vs. Letson.—The hearing of this cause was taken up early on Saturday morning last, and occupied all day. It was a suit by John George Euler, of Berlin, against Henry Letson, formerly of Bridgeport, in the township of Waterloo, but now a resident of the county of Brant, to enforce the specific performance of a written agreement between the parties for the purchase of a dwelling house and certain lots in Bridgeport, comprising about four acres. The plaintiff professed to be a regularly ordained minister of the Lutheran church; the defendant is a labouring man, 68 years of age, in poor health, unable to read or write, and evidently very ignorant and simple minded. The defence to the suit was that the agreement was procurred by fraud and misrepresentation on the part of the plaintiff and his wife, who is a neice of defendant, and that the land was not worth more than half the price agreed on. The execution of the agreement being admitted, defendant was called upon to establish his defence. For this purpose defendant and his wife were sworn. From their evidence, it appeared that defendant was one of the heirs at law of his late brother, Rhodes Letson, who died intestate at Winterbourne, in the township of Woolwich, a few years ago, leaving a considerable amount of property to be administered in the Court of Chancery. Defendant heard of this when he was living in Ancaster. He went to Winterbourne to make inquiries, and on his return through Berlin and while passing plaintiff's house there, was hailed by plaintiff's wife and invited to spend the night there. In the course of a conversation that evening plaintiff's wife told defendant about the Bridgeport property, said it would help them very much if he would buy it with the money which he was to get from his brother's estate, and urged him to buy it. Plaintiff, of whom defendant knew little or nothing before that time, joined in the conversation, told defendant he was a minister of the gospel and would not cheat any one, that the property was well worth $1,100, if not more, and that defendant would get about $2,000 from his brother's estate, and could easily pay for it with that money. Plaintiff also told defendant that he was authorized to collect the moneys of some of the other heirs of the Rhodes Letson, that he would do this for defendant also, would help him all he could to get his money in other ways, and that his (plaintiff's) lawyers would act for defendant and look after his interests in the administration suit. Both plaintiff and his wife said the Bridgeport property would be a nice comfortable home for defendant, that it was well worth $1,100, that those in the immediate neighborhood of the property wold decry its value, but that defendant must not speak to any of those people about the land or what it was worth. All these statements were made to defendant on the first evening of his visit, he believed all that was told him, and was persuaded to drive with plaintiff on the following morning to look at the property. Defendant was about half an hour viewing the house and lands, and was immediately afterwards taken by plaintiff to the office of Bowlby, Colquhoun & Clement, where he signed an agreement to purchase the lands for $1,100, with interest at 6 per cent., to be paid with the money which he was to receive from his deceased brother's estate. This latter sum was about $1,200, and was all the means that defendant had. After leaving the lawyer's office, defendant accompanied plaintiff to his house, and left for Ancaster a day or two afterwards. The agreement was signed September 3rd, 1878. During all these negotiations, it appeared that defendant was in the company of no other persons than plaintiff and his wife, that he was warned by them to speak to no person about the property, and was threatened that he would not be helped by them if he did, and that defendant implicitly believed what these two persons told him, and obeyed their injunctions. Plaintiff and his wife, about three weeks afterwards, went to Ancaster, where they made similar statements and representations about all these matters to defendant and his wife, who did not wish to leave Ancaster. Defendant was then induced to give plaintiff a power of Attorney to collect his money. They persuaded defendant to move up to the property and take possession, gave him some money for that purpose, and, after possession was taken by defendant on November 1st, 1878, renewed his warnings and threats about his speaking to the neighbors about the property, its value, or the agreement. Defendant, who had consulted no one about these matters, swore that he trusted plaintiff and his wife implicitly, that he did not become aware that he had agreed to pay about double the value of the lands, and had thereby been grossly imposed on, till late in the summer of 1879; that he then, on two occasions, told plaintiff that he had agreed to pay too much, and had afterwards caused a letter to be written by his solicitor to plaintiff, repudiating the agreement, and refusing to carry it out. This letter, which was produced, was written in October, 1879. The present suit was commenced in January 1880. Defendant gave up possession, and moved back to Ancaster, in November, 1879. The evidence of defendant's wife went to show that defendant was apprised through her, (to whom the neighbors had been talking) about two months after possession was taken, that he had paid too much for the property, but her statements were otherwise confirmatory of defendant's story. There were some seven or eight witnesses from Bridgeport, and one of them swore that the property was worth at the outside from $500 to $650, and was very much out of repair when defendant took possession. Their evidence also went to show that plaintiff was a sharp, cunning man in his transactions, and that defendant was a man who could easily be imposed on. Plaintiff and his wife denied some of the most material statements of defendant and his wife, and said the property was well worth $1,100, and that defendant had damaged it a great deal while it was in his possession. On cross-examination plaintiff did not deny that he had been confined in a penitentiary in the United States. In rebuttal of plaintiff's evidence, eight witnesses were called who swore that plaintiff's reputation for truth and veracity was bad, and that they would not believe him on his oath.

The Vice-Chancellor, in an able judgment, said it was clear that the agreement had been procured by fraud and misrepresentation, but that he feared defendant had delayed too long in repudiating the contract in order to prevent its being enforced. He was disposed to believe defendant's wife, when she said that defendant had learned at an early date of the fraud that had been practised upon him. He should have lost no time thereafter in refusing to carry out the agreement, and in deriving any benefit from the lands. If he had done this within a reasonable period, instead of remaining in possession, even till his crops were gathered, the Court would not have compelled him to carry out his bargain, or would have set it aside if he had so desired. On the single point of the delay in repudiating the agreement, he must rule against the defendant, as the authorities showed that contracts of such a character as this must be repudiated as soon as possible after the fraud has come to the knowledge of the party upon whom it has been practised. On the other points he must rule in defendant's favor. He felt, moreover, that the plaintiff's conduct had been very reprensible, and he would, therefore, give no costs against defendant, but compel plaintiff to pay his own costs. He ordered that defendant should accept the lands pursuant to the agreement, that a certain mortgage upon them should be first paid out of the moneys in court to defendant's credit, that the title of the lands being in question, there should be a reference to the Master as to the title, unless the defendant accepted it, and that if the title should prove to be imperfect, there should be such an abatement in the contract price, or such other relief of the defendant, as the court should order.

Messrs. Blake, Kerr & Boyd were for the plaintiff, and Messrs. John King, of Berlin, and John Bain, of Toronto, for defendant.

Morning Telegrams.

The Standard says that at a meeting of seventy Liberals yesterday it was decided that another memorial, the first having been abandoned at the last meeting, should be sent to Mr. Gladstone stating that a very strong feeling exists among many members of the Liberal party that Sir Bartle Frere should be recalled from the Cape.

The Times Constantinople correspondent has reason to believe that the opinion that Goschen has brought with him a definite programme is utterly erroneous, and that Goschen does not intend to direct attention chiefly to financial affairs. The Sultan and his ministers are firmly resolved to resist to the utmost all foreign interference on the part of the Powers. The subject was discussed at a Cabinet Council a few days ago, at which nearly all the Ministers were present, and advocated this policy.

The ex-Khedive of Egypt having been refused permission to come to Constantinople, has appealed to the Mussulman ecclesiastical authorities to pass judgment on the Sultan's refusal. He is suspected of ambitions.

The Marquis of Ripon, Viceroy of India, has arrived at Bombay. He was received with all the honors. The streets were gaily decorated and much enthusiasm was manifested. He will start for Simla on the 3rd June.

The Great Council has adopted a project of law, according to which after a given time the State and the Communes will grant no subsidies for religious purposes. This resolution involves the disestablishment and disendowment of the Protestant as well as of the Catholic Church of that Canton.

The Times' Calcutta despatch states that the leader of the insurgents is a relative of one of the Burgess princes who are now in Calcutta. It is reported that they are only fifteen miles from the frontier, that the King's troops are marching to meet them, and that the general opinion is that the rising has no chance of success without aid from the prince referred to.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.—We have received the May number from the Leonard Scott Publishing Company. In this number "Reata" is finished, and a new story, "Dr. Wortle's School," is begun. "Bush Life" describes some new arrivals from England, and sundry adventures while prospecting for new land, and encounters with tarantulas having legs two inches long, and millions of flies and small insects of all kinds. A companion picture to this is given in "Morocco and the Moors," where in travelling towards Fez, snakes, lizards, and "centipedes half a foot long" abounded. Apart from these drawbacks Morocco cannot be a pleasant country to visit, as strangers, especially Christians, are not liked there. The article was suggested by the accounts of two travellers, Gerhard Rohlfs, who was alone and got along as best he could, and Signor de Amicis, who went as attache to a mission from the King of Italy. What "Peter the Great did and proposed to do for Russia and in Syria" resolves itself into a consideration of Russian advances towards India and English opposition to them. The review of the Tourgenief novels is rich in quotations. They convey clear pictures of the home life of all grades of Russian society, and all tell more or less of Nihilism and the excited state of Russian intelligence. The letter of John Bull is about Mr. Gladstone and the elections.

PROVINCIAL EXPENDITURE.—Are there any expenditures now borne by the Province which could be transferred to the shoulders of the municipalities, and be more efficiently and economically managed by local control? We certainly think there are. Charity is said to begin at home; therefore let each county or corporation maintain its own indigent or afflicted. In England the insane are provided for by the counties; there are some who advocate a like course in Ontario. Each county maintains a gaol; if it chooses to send its wrong-doers to the Central Prison or Female Reformatory why should not that municipality be charged therefor? The grants towards education might be diminished, perhaps gradually abolished, and the standard of learning among our people not be lowered by each section having to pay the whole cost of its schools. Local railways must, hereafter, be built by local or private capital. And there are not wanting advocates of still further relegations to the municipalities. We do not intend at present to argue in favor of all these proposals, but we leave them to to the reflection of our readers. They are questions that are bound to come into prominence, and to know how to deal with them when they do arise leaves the way for their solution clear.—Globe.

During the last six months several persons have left Kingston rather hurriedly in consequence of financial embarrassment. On Saturday three more names were added to the list of defaulting debtors—two contractors and a fortune teller.

TUESDAY EVNG. JUNE 1, 1880

The Abolition of the Sena'e.

Since the Globe proclaimed itself in favour of the abolition of the Senate, the the discussion of the question has been revived on all sides, and is still being kept up. We believe that the Reform press is now a unit on this subject, while the half hearted way in which the Government organs deal with the matter, shows that even they have no very decided arguments to offer in its support, and that were they left free to express their honest unbiassed opinion, they would also favor its being swept out of existence.

The arguments against its continuance have been urged time and again. In the first place it is not only a useless but an expensive branch of our legislative system. It costs us $140,442 a year, made up as follows: The Speaker's salary $4,000; the pay and mileage of members $33,772; salaries and contingencies $49,660, printing the debates $3,000. This is a good round sum to pay for a body that does little or nothing for it. And according to late revelations a portion of members' indemnity is not even earned, if regular attendance to their duties can be called earning their pay. Senator Alexander brought to light last session the fact that some members—he mentioned one notable case—have been in the habit of simply putting in an appearance at the beginning of the session for the sake of the indemnity and nothing more. The case which specially disgusted Mr. Alexander was that of a Senator who had been present only twelve days in the Chamber, but who yet drew $670, or over $50 a day for his pay. This is certainly an easy way of earning money, but it looks very much like fraudulently taking it from the people.

The popular idea respecting an Upper House is that it should exercise an impartial judgment on all questions that may come under discussion, but our Canadian Senate has never risen to that high attitude. From the first it has been partizan in its composition, and its action has for the most part been in strict accordance with its character. One notable instance of this was in the formation and complexion of the Select Committee in 1877 to inquire into the Kaministiquia terminus and Fort Francis locks. This was done contrary to all precedent, for according to constitutional procedure in Britain the selection of committees recommended by the House of Lords is left to the House of Commons in cases where its actions are the subject of inquiry. Not so with our Lords," however. They selected their own committee, five of whom out of the eight were strongly opposed to the Government, and some of whom, like Senator McPherson, had before the committee sat, strongly expressed themselves against the course of the Government on the subjects mentioned. It was clear from first to last that there was a determination on the part of the majority to make political capital against the Government, and scarcely any attempt was made to conceal their animus.

It is in no sense a representative body, embodying the views, or carrying out the wishes of the people. We do not require a second Chamber so constituted for the House of Commons occupies that position. Nor can it be compared to the British House of Lords, venerable by age, and made up in great part of members who have a hereditary claim to a seat in it. It was at Confederation the creation of the Government of the day, who took good care that their friends largely predominated. The same thing would no doubt have occurred had a Liberal Government been then in power, for naturally they would have filled it with their friends. Thus armed with dangerous and undesirable power—independent of the Crown, the Parliament, and the People, as Lord Dufferin expressed it—the majority was free to follow the bent of its political inclination, and thwart any legislation that it chose. That it has at times been of some use in checking bad measures, we do not deny, but the occasions have so rarely occurred that they cannot be offered with any force for its continuance.

We believe that on this subject the great body of the people are of our mind. The difficult question is how to get decently rid of it. Some want to snuff it out of existence at once, while others favor a milder course. On this point the following suggestions from the Globe are worthy of consideration as offering, perhaps, the easiest and most pleasant solution of the difficulty:—

"As to the manner in which the abolition of the Senate may best be accomplished there is great room for discussion. It would not be well to attempt to sweep away the Upper House at once, because not only is some consideration due to its members, but because the majority would stoutly resist their political extermination, which could hardly be effected without their consent. A period might be fixed, at the end of which the Senate should cease to exercise any legislative functions. The duration of the period might be extended to embrace the number of years for which it is probable that a majority of the present Senators will live. In the meantime vacancies might be filled by men of great age, or by appointments which would expire at the date set for the dissolution of the Chamber. A nominated second Chamber is opposed to the spirit of the age, and an elective second Chamber is inconsistent with representative government as it exists in Canada and Great Britain. It is impossible to reconcile the existence of an elective Upper House with our present institutions. Being unnecessary, its remodelling being impossible, the only action that can be taken is toward its abolition. The discovery of the best plan for getting rid of it is the business of the Parliamentary representatives of the people. Public opinion is ripe for the discussion, and if it is much longer deferred the change, which should be gradually brought about, may be forced with a precipitation productive of strife and bitterness.

Already more than forty Parliamentary election petitions have arisen out of the late general election in Britain.

It is said with an investment of less than $500,000 the Redpaths of Montreal this year have made a clear profit of $800,000. So the people had to pay pretty sweetly for their sugar.

Mr. Gladstone at the Academy dinner observed to Lord Derby, who sat next to him, in a tone which was perhaps intended to be, certainly was overheard that he did not propose to retain the Premiership longer than eighteen months.

Five years ago it was estimated and statedby the people of Montreal that their city was growing in population at the rate of over ten thousand per annum. Now the startling report emanates from the City Council that the population is absolutely less than it was four years ago. What has the N. P. done for the commercial capital?

The Senate Committee of the New York Legislature has failed to report the Niagara park bill, and the laudable project will therefore be suspended for another year. The Pall Mall Gazette is strongly in favor of the proposed park. Our contemporary says that "considering how vast a proportion of the public expenditure of all countries goes, in the first instance at least, towards the defacement of everything that is beautiful, from the human frame downwards, it will certainly be a matter of universal congratulation if this sensible and moderate scheme can be put into execution."

The Earl of Derby, in conversation with a correspondent of the Vienna Allgemeine Zeitung, is reported to have said that Turkey cannot be regenerated, and the sooner the Empire comes to an end the better. His lordship adds that Cyprus must continue to remain under British protection, and if Turkey does not fulfil her duties in Asia Minor, England must leave her to her fate. The same views have been expressed by several of the Liberal leaders while in opposition, and it remains to be seen what action will be taken by them now they have succeeded to power.

Sir Alexander Galt, High Commissioner for the Dominion to Great Britain, has crossed swords with the London Economist on the question of the new issue of Canadian notes. Not only has Sir Alexander been put right as to some of the facts in connection with the question; but his argument has entirely failed in convincing that hard-headed financial authority, the Economist, of the wisdom of Sir Samuel's policy. The Economist closes as follows:—"We are of opinion, therefore, that the security for the Canadian note issues has been distinctly impaired; and when we find the chief un-official speaker on the Government side vindicating the alteration on the ground that 'it is better that the Government should make its money than that it should borrow abroad,' we are all the more inclined to deprecate the course that has been taken."

The Russian newspapers have recently given an account of the army and navy of China intended to inspirit their own people with an idea of the weakness and inefficiency of the force they had to meet. It is very difficult to get at any accurate idea of the real force or training of this army, but it is certain that the "disorganized hordes" which China poured into Kashgar and Chinese Turkestan have managed to win back in twenty years every foot of territory of which she was robbed by Taranchis, Tungans, or Russians, excepting the district of Kuldja; and have won them back, too, by a patient endurance of hardships, a skill and dogged courage which have few parallels in military history. China, too, has shown herself not only willing but eager for this war with her great Eastern rival, to gain the last of her lost territory without paying for it; and both army and navy have been carefully preparing for the struggle for years.

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

The prospects of the English farmer at present compare favorably with the experiences of the past several years. Although the weather, in England, has been too dry and winds too cold for the best development of growing crops, it has so far been favorable as to give them a fair start. Wheat planting is reported to have been indulged in to an extent little if any short of previous years, a course which cannot upon reflection be commended.

Beaconsfield gives the present Parliament three years of life.

DEATHS.

Armstrong—In Guelph, on the 31st May, John Armstrong, aged 53 years.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, on the London Road, on Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Friends and acquaintance are respectfully requested to attend.

Gordon—In Eramosa, on the 1st June, Ada, daughter of Robert Gordon, Durham street, Guelph, aged 1 year and 5 months.

The funeral will take place from her father's residence Guelph on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Friends and acquaintnces will please ccept this intimation.

The Fishery Question.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Evarts in reply to questions addressed to him today, authorizes the most unqualified denial of statements published in certain English newspapers, that Minister Lowell, has been advised of a new and milder policy with regard to the fisheries question. The Secretary says such statements as that which appeared in the Liverpool Courier have no foundation whatever. Loring's Bill, reimposing duties on Canadian fish and oils, and Rice's report on the same matter, lie in the House Foreign Affairs Committee at the request of Mr. Morton, of New York, until his return from the Chicago Convention. If there are to be further negotiations they must be begun by Great Britain. Lord Salisbury's despatch justified the violence of the mob against our fishermen, and that of course puts an end to any further requests for justice from the United States. No ships of war have been sent to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It is supposed here that there may be an effort to mix up the fishery business with the general question of reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

Lieut.-Col. Macpherson, of the Militia Department, Ottawa, has in his possession a memento of the famous battle of Trafalgar in the shape of a map, which hung in the ward room of H. M. S. Victory, Lord Nelson's own ship, during the engagement and was damaged by bullets. The map bears signs of age and had to be remounted quite a number of years ago in order to keep it from going to pieces. The map was formerly in possession of Mr. J. C. W. Daly, sr., of Stratford, who was a midshipman on the Victory and took part in the battle of Trafalgar.

TRICKED AND TRACKED

AN ADVENTURE IN PARIS.

BY MARY MARK-LEMON.

PART I.—TRICKED.

It is now some years ago since an incident occurred in my life, which may possibly prove interesting to those who, like myself, are too easily imposed upon; and although, by the recital, I hold myself open to the ridicule of the mind masculine, which, by its own showing, is never duped or deceived by imposters, yet, in order to warn those of my own sex who are more readily imposed upon. I will narrate, as nearly as I can, a strange adventure which befel me during the Winter of 1869.

I am the wife of an English officer, and, at the time of which I write, I was residing in Paris. Late in June, my husband had received orders to be in readiness to sail with his regiment to C. the following month; but his absence was not likely to be of long duration, I had decided not to accompany him, and had determined to make Paris my headquarters during the time of our enforced separation.

The preparations for his departure had to be pressed forward with all expedition, and, as is so often the case when time is valuable, every possible difficulty seemed to crop up to hinder the progress of our work.

The culminating point at last arrived, when my husband's body servant fell suddenly ill, and sent in his resignation the very week they were expecting to start. We at once made inquiries on all sides for a man competent of filling the vacant post. In this instance fortune favored us. Just as we were beginning to despair of success, a Frenchman, who spoke very tolerable English, applied for the situation; and his references being satisfactory, we hastily engaged him, heartily glad to have brought an unpleasant affair to so fortunate a conclusion.

Although I had many friends residing in Paris, I had no near relations I could ask to remain with me during my temporary exile; my husband's people all lived in Ireland, and, with the exception of a few scattered cousins, my only existing relative was one brother (some years younger than myself), to whom I was greatly attached, but who for years past had been a source of constant anxiety to me by reason of his wild and reckless manner of living. My husband had assisted him in numerous difficulties, but his patience had at last become exhausted; and he had had to tell my brother plainly and decisively that only in case of extremity, such as an illness, which should really incapacitate him from work, or from some such urgent cause, would he supply him again with pecuniary help. Several letters passed between them at this period; then followed an interval of silence, which had remained unbroken up to the time of which I write. This naturally caused me much uneasiness at times; but I could hope he had at length felt the necessity of putting his shoulder to the wheel, and was striving to regain the good name he had lost by his own foolish conduct.

Time passed slowly away. Many of my friends had retured to England for the Winter, and I was more than ever alone; my husband had now been gone some months, and, although his letters began to breathe a vague hope of return, I knew that some time must yet elapse before we should meet again. One evening (I remember it was the 22nd of January), I was sitting by myself vainly trying to get in the book I was reading, when a note was brought to me by one of the servants of the hotel, who said the bearer was waiting my reply. The letter was neatly folded and addressed in a woman's handwriting to "The Lady of Captain Ralph Branscombe," and was marked "Private." It was, however, rather a strange-looking document; and breaking the seal in a spirit of curiosity, I read the following:—

Madame,—I write this to you on behalf of your brother, Monsieur Richard Willoughby, who lies at this house, dying. Would you see him alive, you must come at once—without hesitation. Madame, the poor gentleman is very sick—sick to death in mind and body; for he lies in fear of arrest, and worse than arrest, even in his dying state. He prays you ask your husband to assist him, as he promised, in this his last sore strait. No one but Captain Branscombe may accompany you, or know of your errand; you must bring with you fifty pounds in gold if possible. English money will do, but not notes. Your escort will only be a little child, but he knows every turn of the way you will have to traverse. Come on foot—to drive might excite suspicion. Monsieur repeats, no one but 'Ralph' may come with you; he is too ill to write anything more than his name, which I inclose."

Here followed a few directions about the way we were to take, and an injunction to bring the letter to guide myself with. Then the name "Marie Toisseau." Inclosed was a scrap of paper bearing my brother's signature, which I saw at once was genuine.

I turned cold as I finished the perusal of this letter, but, commanding my voice as well as I was able, I bade the servant send the bearer to me at once. I was not left long in suspense; the door of the saloon soon reopened, and a little figure appeared on the threshold. A fragile-looking boy, about eleven years of age, dressed in a dark-blue blouse, which hung loosely about him, and wearing on his head a red knitted fisherman's cap, which was pulled down low on his forehead—a boy whose pale face was lighted up with large dark eyes, their long drooping lashes sweeping his delicate cheeks. He shut the door softly behind him, and gave a swift searching glance around the room; then, as though abashed by my presence, he stood with downcast eyes, and his hands loosely folded before him, awaiting my questioning.

"My boy," I said, addressing him in French, "can you conduct me to this gentleman who is so ill?"

Again his dark eyes wandered about the room, as though to reasure himself that we were alone, and then he replied softly in English, though with a foreign accent.

"Surely, madame, I will; but it must be with all speed, or it will be a lost journey."

Telling him to wait for me where he was, I left the room, and hastened to prepare for my expedition. My heart sank within me at the idea of venturing out into the night with no other protector than the little child waiting below; but I nerved myself to perform the duty I felt had fallen across my path, and made up my mind to act as became a soldier's wife—fearlessly. I had about thirty sovereigns in my possession, as it happened; and making up the sum required as nearly as I could in French money, I placed it carefully in a small bag, which I hung on my arm. Dressing myself in a dark bonnet and travelling cloak, I descended quietly to my apartment, without giving intimation of my departure to any one. The child stood precisely as I had left him, with the light falling on his pale face, and his hands loosely locked in one another. I told him I was ready to start, and walked to the table by which I had been sitting to get the letter the woman had written, and which had caused me so much anxiety.

The boy then approached me, and, taking my hand in his cold ones, said, in a whisper, as his piteous eyes filled with tears:

"Madame, the gentleman bade me say to you, for the love of Heaven, and for the sake of your dead mother, bring the money."

I showed him the little sack I carried under my cloak, and he was satisfied; we then left the hotel silently, scarcely noticed by the servants busied about the entrance hall. Once out in the open air, I seemed to breathe more freely; but my heart was too heavy for speaking, and we pursued our way in silence.

The noise of the traffic, the lights of the shops streaming across our path, and the number of foot passengers passing and repassing us, bewildered me at first, all unaccustomed as I was to walking through the streets so late; but we pressed steadily on through the ever changing crowd, and people seemed too intent on their own business to take much heed of two wayfarers like ourselves. After a time we turned into a less frequented part of the town, and the lights became less brilliant and the streets more deserted. Suddenly the boy stopped, and seemed uncertain as to which road he should take. He paused a moment; then, turning to me, said:

"Madame, I fear I have missed my way a little; but my mother told me she would give some directions in her letter: will madame give it to me that I may right myself?"

Without thinking, I handed him his mother's letter; and, standing beneath a neighboring lamp, he read over slowly the directions contained in the note; then, holding it still open in his hand, he resumed his walk, referring to it every now and then, as though still in doubt as to our whereabouts. There was a certain mysterious quiet about the neighborhood we were in that preyed upon my spirits—a certain silence I could not fathom; and my courage began to flag strangely as we continued our lonely road. I experienced a sensation of intense relief, therefore, when my young guide stopped suddenly before a tall dark house in a quiet street, and I listened eagerly for an answer to his gentle tap at the closed door. A voice from within asked softly, in French, "How fares it my son?" and in English, the boy answered: "Safely and fairly; open the door." The door was then unbarred and opened without the least noise, just wide enough to admit us; and we entered a hall lighted by a small lamp held by a tall woman poorly clad. The flickering flame of the lamp gave forth so dim a light that I could not distinguish her features, and she spoke in a voice scarcely above a whisper. I inquired eagerly for my brother, and begged her to conduct me to him at once. She shook her head sadly, and then said:

"Ah, madame, your coming may do great things for him; you will be able to ease the poor mind that runs on nothing but money, money, day and night, without ceasing."

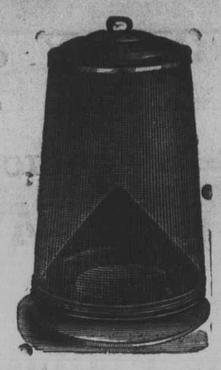
She barred the door by which we had entered, and then preceded me up a broken staircase, the boy following us with the feeble oil-lamp. The house sounded hollow, and our footsteps echoed drearily as we went. Presently we stopped before the door of a room which I imagine to have been at the back of the house, and the woman, entering first, beckoned me to follow her.

In one corner of a large, almost empty apartment was a bed, shrouded by thick dark curtains; in the grate a low charcoal fire was burning. I made at once for the corner where the bed was, and was about to undraw the curtains which concealed from my view the poor boy I had come so mysteriously to visit. Suddenly from behind me a cloth was tied tightly over the whole of my face, a strange burning sense of suffocation overspread my senses, and I remembered nothing more; all was silence, darkness, a hideous blank, until I awoke in my bedroom at the Hotel de L., with my head aching strangely and a benumbed sensation pervading my whole frame. My maid, an English doctor with whom I was slightly acquainted, and another doctor who was a stranger to me, were anxiously watching for my return to consciousness. It was quite light, and the sun was shining into the room. As one by one the events of the preceding night rose before my mind, I was utterly at a loss to imagine how I had been rescued from that horrible house and brought back to the hotel in safety.

The story was soon told. The night-porter, coming on duty at 1 o'clock, had found me on the steps leading to the side-door of the hotel, which opened into an unfrequented passage or street. Finding I was unconscious, he had summoned the day-porter, who was waiting for him, to render assistance, and this man, knowing me by sight, identified me as a lady staying in the hotel. He at once roused the house. My maid (who was waiting up for me, wondering and alarmed at my prolonged absence) speedily procured the services of two medical men from the adjoining neighborhood and they had since been using every effort to restore me to consciousness, when I might perchance unfold the mystery of my strange return.

There was no trace of any violence having been used, nor any proof by which they could discover where I had been. The only thing they found upon me, which was not my own, was a handkerchief tightly clasped in my hand, on which were embroidered my brother Richard's initials, and which I at once recognized as having been worked by me some years previously for my unhappy brother. The money had, of course, all been taken; also the ring, brooch, and locket I had worn. My wedding ring was left, and the bag in which I had put the money was still hanging from my arm.

As soon as I was able I told the doctors all I could remember of the past night's experiences, and, at the conclusion of the recital, they both advised me to put the matter into the hands of the police. I entreated that this might be done as privately as possible; my brother's name being so much mixed up in the affair, that outsiders would most probably be led to believe that he was an accomplice in the robbery, though in my own mind I felt certain he was more sinned against than sinning.



The sergeant of police who waited on me showed great interest in my adventure; but I could plainly see that, notwithstanding all his civility, his suspicions pointed at once to my brother as chief agent in the case. I could swear to the signature being genuine; the handkerchief, too, I recognized. Alas, it really seemed only too certain that my brother had at all events been the companion of these people and must have discussed our affairs freely with them, even if he were not criminally concerned in the dark transaction.

The Parisian police made every effort to trace the offenders, but in vain; house after house was searched in the quarter to which I believed myself to have been taken, but no trace of the woman or child could be found. And so for a time the matter dropped.

Mothers ! ! Mothers ! ! Mothers ! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to JOS. S. FISHER, president; W. I. P. INGRAHAM, vice-president; W. PAINE, M. D.; C. S. GAUNTT, M. D.; H. J. DOUCET, M. D.; R. H. KLINE, M. D.; J. R. HOLCOMB, M. D.; N. R. LYNCH, M. D., and M. R. O'CONNELL, M. D., faculty of the Philadelphia University of Medicine and Surgery; also Hon. P. A. BISSELL, M. D., President of the National Medica Association.

Address Dr. W. H. PARKER, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass. The author may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. MTh

HEAL THYSELF

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

Burglary in Elora.

(Per Dominion Line.)

ELORA, June 2.—The residence of Mr. Lapenotiere, post master of this place, was entered by a burglar last night. The burglar, after effecting his entrance through the cellar window, opened the back door for a free exit, then proceeded to the bed room of Master Fred Lapenotiere, secured his clothes, took them down stairs and examined the contents of the pockets. The burglar then made a second trip up stairs to the room of Mr. Lapenotiere. Mrs. Lapenotiere was awakened by seeing a light in the room, called out and wakened Mr. Lapenotiere, who sprang out of bed and gave chase. The burglar discharged a pistol and then made good his escape.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their famlies in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

Municipal Council of Nassagaweya.

This Council met pursuant to adjournment, on Wednesday the 26th day of May. All the members were present, and having taken and subscribed to the oath required by the Act, then organized as a Court of Revision and Appeal, the Deputy Reeve in the chair.

The assessment Roll was then duly examined and some changes made therein. The following assessment of dogs, assessed to the following persons, were struck off, the Court being satisfied with regard thereto, viz.: W W Bell, J Conly, J Ramsey, and D McTavish, Thomas Henderson changed to David Henderson, and William Lowry to George Lowry. The assessment of F S Clarke on real property was confirmed, the south half of the west half of lot 19, in the 6th Concession, was struck off from Isaac Cartmer, and assessed to D Wheelihan, the west half of lot 1 in the 1st concession, from W Kitching to G Dennis, Joseph Little, changed from tenant to owner, on lot 13, west half 1st Concession, and John and Andrew Little's names struck off from the same. Peter Orme was assessed for part of West half of lot 31, in the 10th Concession, the amount of John Grieve's personal property was struck off, the west half of lot 7, in the 3rd Concession, assessed to J Reid, W H Burrows, assessed for a dog, the name of the late John Colquhoun, jr., was struck off the assessment on West half lot 8 in the 7th Concession, changed from John and James Burton to Duncan Campbell, jr., and the former names be struck off therefrom.

The assessment roll being confirmed, it was moved by Mr. Ramsey, seconded by Mr. Hutcheon, that the assessment roll as amended be, and is hereby confirmed, and that this Court do now close. Carried.

The Court then closed, and the Council met, the Reeve in the chair. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Wheelihan, seconded by Mr. Hutcheon, that the sum of $1.50 be paid to T J Day, for assessment rolls, $2.50 for notices for revising the list of voters, $1.50 for collector's receipts, and 75 cents for Voters' Lists, and the further sum of $5 to Messrs. Innes & Davidson, for Pathmaster's Schedules. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Watson, seconded by Mr. Wheelihan, that the sum of $4.34 be paid to N Norish for one sheep killed by dogs, being two thirds of its value, the claim being duly certified. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Hutcheon, that the Reeve and Mr. Watson be a committee to answer certain questions propounded by the Ontario Agricultural Commission, to duly sign the same, and forward to the proper quarter. Lost.

Moved by Mr. Watson, seconded by Mr. Wheelihan, that a special meeting of this Council be held on Saturday, the 29th inst., and in consultation with the Clerk and Assessor, and others that may be present, agree as to the proper answers to be given to certain questions propounded by the Ontario Agricultural Commission. Carried.

The Council then adjourned, to meet again in accordance with the above resolution.

The Council met again as per adjournment on Saturday, the 29th day of May. Members present, Messrs. Ramsey, Menzies, Hutcheon and Watson.

The Council with the Assessor and Clerk, and with Messrs. W. W. Ball and R. Aikens, then prepared the answers to the questions required by the said Commission, and the Clerk ordered to forward the same.

The minutes of last meeting was then read and confirmed, and on motion the Council adjourned, to meet again at the call of the Reeve.

J. EASTERBROOK, Tp. Clerk.

THE Artillery Band will play a number of choice musical selections on the new band stand in Wellington Park this evening.

ABOUT twenty five farmers, from the vicinity of Galt, paid a visit to-day to the Agricultural College.

EXCURSION.—We direct attention to the advertisement announcing an excursion to Hamilton on the 10th June. It is hoped that it will be well patronised.

A CRICKET match will be played on the Maple Leaf grounds on Friday, 4th June, between Guelph and Galt cricket clubs. Wickets will be pitched at 10:30 a.m. This is likely to be a closely contested match as Galt has generally been victorious here before. The home club intend to make it hot for the visitors. d1

AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.—Section 6 of the Ontario Agricultural Commission will meet at the Model Farm on Friday first, for the purpose of drafting questions of enquiry on agricultural education, labour and labour-saving appliances, and other points belonging to the special committee. Mr. John Watson, of Ayr, is chairman.

THE improvements on Nelson Crescent are now nearly completed. The ground is being raked level, and citizens are requested by sign boards to keep on the walks. If they attend to this in a short time a nice green sod will coyer the surface of the ground.

REAL ESTATE SALES,—Mr H. Hatch has sold lot No. 34 (vacant) Galt street to Mr Albert Pike for $300. Mr Hatch has also sold for Mrs Jane Hart to Mrs Ann O'Connor the undivided one half interest in the house and lot Norwich street occupied by Mr Starr for $500.

WE have received the third number of the Workman published in Hamilton in the interest of the A. O. U. W. It is an eight page paper neatly printed and contains a good selection of news relating to the society and other matters.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN PILKINGTON.—On Tuesday afternoon a farm labourer named Denis O'Keefe, employed by Mr. James McQueen, of Pilkington, was instantly killed by being thrown from a waggon, caused by the team running away.

THE ballots cast by the medical men of each district for the election of a representative to the Medical Council were on Tuesday counted by the various returning officers. It was found that for this the Saugeen and Brock division Dr. Robert Douglas of Port Elgin, was elected.

PLOWING MATCH.—The second year students at the Agricultural College were hard at work on Tuesday and (to-day) Wednesday plowing in a match on the Model Farm for the Governor General's gold medal. There were 19 entries. The name of the successful ploughman will be made known in a few days.

DROWNED IN THE GRAND RIVER.—On Tuesday morning Mr. Sigfried Zumm, aged about forty, living at Hunter's Corners, near Galt, was accidentally drowned in the Grand River while fishing. The deceased was subject to epileptic fits, and doubtless fell into the river during one of these attacks. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

HARD ON THE CREDITORS.—On Saturday an Ottawa merchant, a creditor of an insolvent estate, received a bill for $20 as his contribution towards the assignee's expenses. The estate failed by five cents on the dollar to meet the expenses of the assignee.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT PARKHILL.—A most distressing accident occurred on Saturday evening, causing the instant death of Sarah, the only daughter of James Long, of Moray, aged 15. She was coming east of the Main street crossing and was hurrying to reach Main street, but, unfortunately, was too late; for within two or three steps of the bridge No. 4 express struck her, throwing her forty feet. She expired a few moments afterwards.

BASE BALL.—The Harriston Browns are going on a trip eastward shortly. They have challenged the Maple Leafs to play the first Canadian Championship match of the season here on the 14th inst. At the meeting of the Maple Leafs last night, the challenge was accepted. According to the Association rules, the challenging club will now submit the names of five persons to the Maple Leafs, from which they may choose two as umpires. These here will be referred to the Browns, and they may decide upon either. An umpire for this match has not yet been named.

RIFLE PRACTICE.—Below we give the scores made at the fifth practice of the Rifle Association yesterday afternoon. The wind was as changeable as could be, and made havoc with the majority of the men at the long ranges. The following is the score:

JUNE CATTLE FAIR.—The fair to-day (Wednesday) was better than it was expected it would be. There were between 200 and 300 head of cattle on the ground and a very fair attendance of buyers. Prices ruled from 4½c. to 5c. per lb., and some extra cattle brought over that figure. The market has been considerably affected by the delay in shipments from Montreal owing to the stoppage by ice at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. But for this the demand would have been greater. Among the sales were the following: John Phin sold to Jas. Millar three two year old heifers at $63 each, and one heifer weighing 1,475 lbs. to Wm. Hearn at 5½c. per lb. James Ormie sold one heifer to J. & R. Millar for $80; E. Jackson, Waterloo, sold 2 head to J. & R. Millar for $110; Wm. Smith, Eramosa, sold 5 head at $49 each; Andrew Clark, Alton, sold 5 sheep weighing 1050 lbs. without wool at 5½c. He took 61 lbs of wool off them.

COMPLAINTS have been made against a number of lads for bathing during the day in the river near Hazelton's bath house. The boys say that as they undress in the bath houes and swim out into the river citizens have no right to interfere. The police have taken the matter in hand, and the offenders are to be summoned to appear at the Police Court.

Mr. W. P. ROGERS, editor of the Goderich Star, and late of the Guelph Herald, on Monday met with what the medical attendants say may prove a very serious accident by the overturning of a waggon in which he was seated. He fell immediately in front of the team of the Merchants' Despatch, and had it not been for the prompt action and presence of mind of the driver, Mr. Rogers would have been killed.

CANADIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.—The Executive Committee of this Association met on Tuesday at the Rossin House, Toronto, Mr. Matheson, of the Stratford Beacon, in the chair. They took into consideration the question of the annual excursion, and decided to meet in Toronto in the last week of July or the first week in August and to make a trip to Thunder Bay by the Collingwood line of steamers, and to go, if possible, a short distance up the Canada Pacific Railway. A special committee was named to complete arrangements.

FREAK OF A LUNATIC. — The Hamilton Times says: On Saturday last the wife of a respectable man named Darling disappeared from her home at Georgetown, distant from Hamilton thirty-five miles on the H. & N. W. R. The woman had been for some time suffering from a religious mania, and it was feared after her disappearance had been discovered, that in her mad freak some harm might come to her. For sometime the direction she had taken could not be discovered, but a trail was finally found and followed up, and on Monday the unfortunate woman was found comfortably domiciled in the house of an acquaintance in Hamilton, where she had arrived footsore and weary, and was suffering through illness. A medical gentleman was at once sent for, and under his advice she was conveyed home.

Rockton Correspondence.

A SNEAK THIEF CAUGHT.—The patrons of the Sheffield cheese factory living in the Decker settlement, in the Township of Beverly, have for some time past had reason to suspect that some of their milk left in the cans over night had been stolen. They sent their milk to the factory but once a day. The evening's milk is put in the can, and the can placed in a tub of water to keep it cool, and left in the yard over night. On Thursday morning last, Mrs. Charles Patterson noticed that a can had been meddled with during the night, as some drippings of milk and cream could be seen about the can and for a short distance away. She notified her husband, and on Thursday evening Mr. Patterson marked the can on the inside at the top of the milk with a pencil, and on the morning following he found that about two inches of the best part of the milk had disappeared. On Friday evening he arranged his milk can as usual, and got his neighbour (Wm. Brown) to watch with him for the nocturnal visitor. About midnight a young man named Albert Krouse, who lives near Mr. Patterson, came along, pail in hand, and went to the milk can and was in the act of filling his pail, when Messrs Patterson and Brown made for him. He saw them and took to his heels, and Messrs. Patterson and Brown ran after him. Krouse found that Mr. Brown was gaining on him, and threw his pail away. They chased him about a quarter of a mile, but could not catch him. Patterson got out a warrant for the arrest of Krouse. He was arrested at his father's house on Saturday night and taken to Rockton by constable R. Bannen and was examined before Mr. McDonald, J. P., on Monday morning. Messrs. Patterson and Brown swore to the facts as given above, and Krouse finally owned up that he was at Patterson's on Friday night and several other nights for milk, but he did not think he was stealing. He only wanted a drink of milk, and thought it a small business to make so much fuss about a little thing. Mr. McDonald could not see it in the same light. He thought it a queer time to go at midnight for a drink of milk, and that he should have stood his ground when he saw Patterson and Brown and not run away at break-neck speed. Krouse admitted he had committed an error in running away, he admitted also, that he had several times visited other persons cans for the same purpose, but only took what he wanted to drink. Mr. McDonald sent him down to goal for trial. One night in the first part of April last Mr. Patterson had about sixteen bushels of wheat stolen from his barn, and Mr. Decker about twelve bushels the same night. Mr. Decker also lost four sheep, and Mr. Abram Haines about sixteen bushels of clover seed. Considerable search was made, but nothing could be found to show where the stuff so stolen had gone. The public are now inclined to think that the stuff so stolen did not go far away.

Guelph Township Council.

This Council met on Monday, 31st May, for general business and as a Court of Revision. The Reeve in the chair. Present, all the members.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

On motion made by Mr. Armstrong, seconded by Mr. McIntosh, the Council was resolved into a Court of Revision. The members having severally made and subscribed to the statutory oath before the clerk, as required by the Assessment Act, proceeded to consider the appeals. Messrs. Thos. Hood and N. J. Adie, for alterations in the manner of Assessments, which were amended. John Hudson, personal property, was struck off the roll, the same having been assessed in the city of Guelph. Thos. Smith, overcharge on real and personal property, reduced $200 and $50 on personal. David Ryder, overcharge on personal property, reduced $100. Robt. McKersie, name omitted, name entered as tenant. P. Mahon, overcharge on income, reduced $400. George Fyfe, against Wm. Gibson, being assessed as owner for part of lot 4, 3rd concession, division B., appeal sustained and party appealed against entered on roll as householder. Henlock Young, for his son George to be assessed as tenant on the easterly half of lot 3, 1st concession B. Granted.

The clerk stated there were no other applications to put before the court, which was then adjourned till next meeting of Council.

The Council resumed for general business.

The Reeve read a petition from George Blatchford and eleven others, requesting the Council to give a grant to improve that portion of road leading from the Waterloo Road, commencing at the corner known as Russell's corner to the river. Referred to R. & B. C. (west).

Alex. Luttrell was present, requesting assistance to improve a hill on his road division. Referred to R. & B. C. (east).

William Watson, applied for assistance to improve his road division. Referred to R. & B. C.

Henlock Young, applied for a grant to improve Barber's Hill. Referred to R. & B. C.

The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid:—

From D. Cummis, for gravel, $2.96; F. T. Chapman, for binding rolls, $1 50; Assessors, for postage, 1879 and 1880, $1.00.

The Reeve called the attention of the Council to the resolution passed at the special meeting held on the 15th inst., relating to the revising the series of replies to the questions submitted by the Ontario Agricultural Commission. The whole of the replies to the questions taken into consideration and passed, with only a few amendments.

It was then moved and seconded to adjourn till Monday, the 21st day of June, then to meet for general business and as a Court of Revision.

A. MCCORKINDALE, Clerk.

The Robbery at McAstocker's Store.

Two Persons arrested in connection with the charge but the case is dismissed.

John Keys and Emma Butt were arraigned at the Police Court to-day (Wednesday,) the former on a charge of burglarizing the store and house of J. McAstocker, Waterloo Avenue, on the 8th May and the latter for being an accomplice. It will be remembered by an account given at the time that three watches were stolen and $6,50 in cash, the whole amounting to about $250. The Chief of Police telegraphed to different places and the result was that two persons were arrested at Stratford, and one at Berlin on suspicion of being connected with the robbery. The prisoner at Berlin was "John" Keys, whom, it was learned, had been in Guelph the day before the robbery, and the day following had walked to Berlin. At Berlin he posted a registered letter to his own address, Guelph, which looked very much as though he was trying to prevent the money being traced. As no evidence could be obtained at that time to connect him with the robbery he was held by the Berlin officials on a charge of vagrancy and sentenced to 14 days imprisonment. Some burglars' tools and a revolver were found in the possession of the two men arrested at Stratford, and they were sentenced to thirty days in gaol for carrying the tools. A day or two after Keys was arrested, Emma Butt, a prostitute, who was at the Police Court a few weeks ago for drunkenness, informed Mrs. McAstocker that Keys and Matt. Sheady.—another notorious character—were engaged in the burglary. She gave a minute description of the position of furniture in the house, and what had transpired during their search, and the story was such as to warrant him in believing it. On two occasions afterwards she spoke of the affair, once when she was drunk, corroborating what she had previously said, and the second time denying part of it. It was in consequence of her knowledge of the burglary that she was arrested as an accomplice. She was arraigned before the Police Magistrate and remanded till to-day (Wednesday), On Tuesday, Keys was discharged from Berlin gaol and brought to Guelph to be arraigned with the girl Emma Butt. Both pleaded "Not Guilty" and as the County Crown Attorney did not consider the evidence sufficiently strong against them the charge was withdrawn and the case dismissed.

The prisoners have formed part of a disgraceful gang of loafers, who have for some time occupied Sheriff Gow's bush, near Well's bridge. Although they were dismissed suspicion pointed strongly to them as being connected with the robbery. When Emma Butt was arrested a skeleton key was found in her possession, and the day following the robbery a handkerchief marked "M. K," was found in one of the bureau drawers which had been opened.

The Chief has visited Toronto in connection with the case, but has not succeeded in recovering any of the stolen property.

Winterbourne Correspondence.

THE 24TH AT WINTERBOURNE. — The birthday of our gracious Queen was right loyally celebrated in this village, and proved to be one of the most enjoyable gala-days ever held in this locality. The tea meeting was in every way a perfect success. Pretty early in the morning a royal salute was fired, and, whatever it was fired from, it made a most royal noise. The announcement of the day commenced with a foot race for boys under twelve, and they did run for certain, minding not the heat a whistle. Two other races followed, one for bigger boys and another for men, in which some good running was done. Then came the grand "cake walk," which, for a short time attracted the attention of all. At the call of the directors eight stalwart young men toed the mark, and at the word "go" started off in real go-as-you-please style and almost at railroad speed. But misfortune was on the track of some, and on turning a corner in the first round, three or four of them collided and went sprawling one over every other one in a somewhat undignified, though very laughable fashion, and before they got themselves gathered up again they had lost so much distance that hope seemed to die within them and they disappeared very suddenly from the course. Two others dropped off in the second or third round, leaving the contest to George Forsythe and Harry Hamilton, who completed the five rounds almost together, Mr. Forsythe winning by about a foot—some claimed, however, that it was a tie. The distance was nearly a mile and a half or five times round a village block, and was gone over in something less than 18 minutes. It now being the hour for tea the tables were taken possession of at once. The spread was excellent. The ladies in getting up the tea evidently meant to leave nothing to be desired and of course it was just so. Tea over, the church was soon nicely filled and another part of the programme commenced. The Rev. A. M. Hamilton occupied the chair and discharged the duties of that position well.

Speeches were made, by Messrs. Spriuger, M.P.P., J. E. Bowman, D. McDougall, and the Rev. Mr. Cooley. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Forsythe, gave some capital music. Miss Hamilton played the accompaniments. The proceeds of the tea meeting were $94.

Board of Separate School Trustees.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Separate School Trustees was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening. Present—Rev. P. Hamel, S. J., J. P. MacMillan, W. S. Heffernan, Jas. Ryan, John Harris, E. O'Donnell, Jas. Mays, E. O'Connor, J. E. McEldery.

Mr. O'Donnell presented the 4th report of the Committee on School Management. The report showed that the committee, assisted by the local superintendent, would at an early date attend to the proper grading of the classes in the different rooms. The attendance at present is not large, but shows a slight increase. The report recommended that prizes be purchased for distribution to deserving pupils.

On motion of Messrs. E. O'Donnell and E. O'Connor, the report was received and adopted.

Mr. McEldery stated that the Secretary and himself had carefully gone over the assessment roll, and found that the assessment showed an increase of $11,000. At the next meeting he would be able to give the rate on the $ that will be required to meet the expenses of the Board for the year.

The meeting then adjourned.

WELLINGTON COUNTY COUNCIL.

Opening Day of the Second Session of 1880.

GUELPH, Tuesday, June 1, 1880.

The Wellington County Council met in the Court House at two o'clock this afternoon. There were present: Messrs. John Prain (Warden), A. S. Allan, M. Anderson, Robert S. McLuhan, Thomas Marshall, William Nicoll, John Odgen, John Rea, Robert H. Reid, James Ross, F. C. Stewart, Andrew Semple, Matthew Sweetnam, Robert Scott, Wm. Thompson, Thomas Waters, John R. Wissler.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

RESIGNATION.

The Warden presented Mr. Somerville's resignation of the Public School Inspectorship in South Wellington.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

The Warden read the following address with reference to the resignation of Mr Somerville:—

GENTLEMEN:—You are aware that since we last met Mr. Somerville has resigned his position as Inspector of Public Schools for the South Riding of this County, and in accordance with the act passed Vic. 37, Chap. 28, Sec. 3. I appointed Mr. Donald McCaig, of Everton, to fill said office until this meeting of the Council. It will, therefore, be for you to make a permanent appointment.

I might also say that I was guided in the appointment by a requisition from a great many members of the South Riding.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

The Treasurer presented the following report, which was referred to the Finance Committee:

June 1, 1880.

SIR,—Herewith I beg to submit, for the information of the Council, the following statements:

1—Auction Licenses issued by me from the first day of January last to date.

No expenditure having been made on boundry line bridges, but $518 on the county roads, since my detailed report of 26 h January, printed in Minutes of Council, on page 20, I deem it unnecessary to re-produce the details here.

2—Assets and Liabilities of the County to date, including the fixed liabilities up to and inclusive of the first day of July proximo, as follows:

Balance, deficiency	12539 72	$32179 49

It will thus be seen that an apparent deficiency of $12,539.72, is the result of the year's business. On an examination of the estimates passed in June 1879, it will be seen that no provision was made for the construction of the two new roads in Garafraxa and Amaranth, which to date have cost together $7,981, nor for the debt due by West Garafraxa of $5,808.68 The two items represent $13,789.88, adding this sum to the credit side of the account, gives us a real and substantial balance of $1,250.16 of a surplus.

In my January report the Garafraxa liability was shown as a full asset to be realized this year, but, as the Council has agreed to accept the same in five equal annual instalments, we can but count upon one instalment each year as an available asset; in the meantime the County has to assume the full liability, hence the difference between my estimates in January and the present.

Standing liabilities of the County for the year 1880-81 as follows:—Salaries and allowances, total $4,880; education, total, $4,270; agriculture, total, $1,000; miscellaneous, total, $2,600.

In comparing the estimates of the present year with those of the past one, and deducting an appropriation of $1,000 for County Property Committee not included in last year's estimates, we have the gratifying result of but $2,500 increase over last year's estimates, notwithstanding the sum of $5105 87, the amount of the award to be paid to the city on the 7th day of October next. It must also be borne in mind that the costs of the arbitration, the Governor General's reception and the grant to the Irish relief fund have been paid.

I am Sir,
Your obedient servant,
WM. REYNOLDS.
Treasurer.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL INSPECTORSHIP.

The Warden read an application from Stillman P. Groat asking to be appointed Inspector of Public Schools for South Wellington.

He also read an application to the same effect from Donald McCaig at present acting as Inspector asking to be retained.

In connection with the latter a communication was read from the Education Department of Ontario acknowledging the receipt of a letter from the Warden announcing that he had temporarily appointed Mr. McCaig to the position and stating that his testimonials were satisfactory.

Both applications were referred to the Education Committee.

The Warden read a communication from the Village Clerk of Fergus advising that the council of that village had assented to the passage of By-law No. 301. Referred to the Roads Committee.

WATER FOR THE COUNTY BUILDINGS.

The Warden read a petition from Judge Galt, Sheriff Gow and others asking for a supply of water in the county buildings. Referred to the Property Committee.

The council adjourned at 3.30 till 10. a. m. Wednesday.

The Brown Memorial Statue.

The public are aware that on the 26th ult., the General Committee, which was appointed at a previous meeting, decided that the proposed memorial to the late Hon. George Brown should adopt a statue of bronze as the form of the memorial, the monument to be placed on some public ground in or about the Queen's Park, Toronto. It was also resolved, in order that all might have an opportunity of contributing to the proposed memorial, to accept all sums, however small, up to any amount which any one may feel disposed to give; and that the following gentlemen be named to assist the officers of the Committee in communicating with representative men in each electoral division, who will undertake to secure the collection of subscriptions in the several municipalities, viz.: Hon. Messrs. Alex. Mackenzie, William McMaster, Adam Crooks, T. B. Pardee, and Messrs. David Blain and H. H. Cook, M. P. P. While contributions may be sent direct to the Treasurer, it is deemed desirable that local organizations should be formed to make collections in all parts of the country. Having this end in view Mr. J. D. Edgar, the Secretary, has sent circulars to a number of leading Reformers throughout the country, bringing the matter more directly under their attention. We trust that the officers of the Reform Association for this Riding will take steps for calling a meeting at an early day, so that an organized effort may be made to obtain contributions in the Riding for such a laudable object.

MAYOR BEATY, it is said, has been chosen as the Conservative candidate for West Toronto, when Mr. John Beverley Robinson goes to the Government House. The Liberals have not yet settled on their candidate, but Mr. W. B. McMurrich is most talked about.

Ottawa Free Press:—Sir John Macdonald was the guest of Mr. Goldwin Smith at Toronto. When we remember all the flattering things the professor said about the Premier six years ago, we naturally wonder at the change. Either Sir John is very forgiving or Mr. Smith has learned to condone conduct that he once denounced with all the vigor of which he was capable.

THE Montreal Patrie, the chief organ of the French Liberals, follows the example of the Ontario Liberal journals, and advocates the abolition of the Senate. The way it wants it to be done is this:—It will be decided that the Senate shall be abolished at a fixed future date, say 1890. At that time nearly all the present Senators will be dead. When a Senator dies, he will be replaced with the understanding that the new Senator is appointed only until 1890.

FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR CLINTON.—A fatal accident occurred on Tuesday afternoon between Blyth and Clinton. Samuel Love and his son were driving from Clinton on the gravel road, where the London Huron and Bruce Railroad crosses it. The 4.30 train came along as they were crossing the track, and the train struck the waggon and both men were instantly killed. The waggon was smashed to pieces. One of the horses was killed; the other escaped unhurt. The bodies were taken on the train to Blyth.

The County Judgeship.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR—In approaching this subject, I feel more than ordinary delicacy owing to the peculiar position in which the matter is placed. For years, his Honor Judge Macdonald adorned the Bench in this County, and discharged his duties with an uprightness, an ability, and a dignified courtesy not frequently met with, and certainly not often surpassed even by the Judiciary of the Superior Courts. Always anxious to deal out even-handed justice between the opposing litigants, and as ready to listen with patience to the wrongs of the poor man as he was to redress the injuries of the wealthy, he came to be recognized as one of the foremost Judges of the County Courts in Ontario. A severe illness prostrated him in the very maturity of his usefulness, and as our readers are aware, he has in consequence been unable for a long time past to discharge the duties of the office. He has richly earned the allowance provided for retired judges, and we understand the necessary step has been taken to entitle him to reap the reward of a useful and conscientious judicial career. No one will begrudge him this, and the only regret is that he is not now physically in a position to continue his duties on the Bench. Whether he has actually retired or not is, however, a matter with which we do not propose to deal, and were it not that a considerable agitation has been going on for some time amongst the legal Tory magnates as to his successor, we would gladly refrain from saying a word on the subject. The question has been so frequently and so openly discussed by them of late, that we may be pardoned for referring to it in this manner, and as the appointment is one exclusively in the gift of the Tory Government at Ottawa, we have no selfish or party ends to serve by bringing the case thus prominently before the public.

Being, as we have said, a Tory appointment, we have neither the means of knowledge, nor indeed the inclination to speculate, on its ultimate result. Several names have already been mentioned. Several applications for the position are, we understand, before Sir John, and some of the Tory members of the legal profession of this vicinity have not been at all backward in pressing their claims on the Government. Judging from the peculiar mode Sir John has in making some of his appointments, we are justified in suggesting to the Judicial aspirants a careful consideration of the old proverb, that "a bird in hand is worth two in the bush," and that when any one of the applicants has his parchment in his pocket, he will be sure of his success, but not till then. Casting aside, therefore, all speculations as to who will likely be the successor of Judge Macdonald, we call attention to a more important question, and one which it would be well to decide first, leaving the appointment in the meantime out of sight.

The question we refer to is simply this:—Is there any necessity for two Judges in this County, either under the present circumstances, or in view of the changes likely to take place in the future of the County? It seems to us that one Judge is perfectly capable to transact all the business of his office, and still have a great amount of spare time on his hands. The County of Dufferin is now an accomplished fact. A very large proportion of the work comes from that section. When a Judge is appointed for that County, which will soon be the case, the County Court business here will be reduced by at least one-third. Orangeville Division Court, one of the most tedious in the County, will be struck off, and the work in connection with the Voters' Lists for East Garafraxa, Amaranth, and the Town of Orangeville will be taken out of the hands of the Wellington County Judge. One, or probably two of the present Division Courts in this County might, with advantage, be consolidated or held alternately with adjoining Divisions. In view of these facts, where then, we ask, is there work or necessity for two Judges here? An hour or so spent in Chambers each morning, the Sessions occurring only twice a year, the Judges' criminal and monthly Courts dwindled down almost to a mere nominal opening and closing;—this is about the sum and substance of the duties of the present Judge. Appoint another to assist in doing what does not already occupy one-half of the attention and time of the present incumbent, and the people would be perfectly justified in speaking of extravagance. Indeed, such an appointment in the face of these facts would savour very largely of creating a soft and remunerative berth for some needy Tory, and the lucky recipient would get a handsome salary for doing next to nothing.

There is another feature in the case which is worth considering. The legal business of this County is not likely to increase for many years to come. In fact, should our friends to the north of us succeed in forming another new County, something not at all unlikely, there would be a still greater reduction in the amount of judicial duty to be performed. Take away two or three municipalities from the north and west of Wellington, and even ONE County Judge would have about the easiest berth a person could wish for. We do not, however, suppose that any question of economy will stand in the way of Sir John, and we have drawn attention to this important matter, because we deem it our duty to utter a protest against the proposed useless expenditure. We do not desire directly or indirectly to say a single word against the dignity of the Bench, and we have an earnest wish and hope that its dignity and honor may be sustained. But we do say that when we find, as we do in this case, the whole duties of an office performed by one individual, and whose time is not nearly occupied in their performance, we have just grounds for stating that it would be a piece of extravagance utterly uncalled for to make an appointment for the mere sake of providing an office for any political supporter of the present Administration at Ottawa.

Yours, &c.,
ECONOMIST.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

TRICKED AND TRACKED

AN ADVENTURE IN PARIS.

BY MARY MARK-LEMON.

PART II.—TRACKED.

Two years passed, and the night of my strange adventure in Paris had become almost like a dream to me. We left France after my husband's return from abroad, and on his quitting the army, we took up our residence in London. I had meanwhile received several letters from my brother, written from the Cape, and, in answer to one I wrote to him in reference to the robbery, he replied with the most solemn assertions of his entire ignorance of the transaction. I believed him; my husband was silent on the subject, and I felt thankful the Cape was so far off. We seldom referred to the circumstances before recorded, for I could not bear to recall the horrors of that evening in the dark, desolate house.

One morning, however, I was startled by my husband saying suddenly, as he looked up from a letter he was reading:

"I say, Madge, they think they have found a clue at last to your Parisian exploit; read that."

He passed me over an official-looking letter, and I read what follows:

"Bureau de Police, Paris.

"To CAPTAIN BRANSCOMBE:

"Monsieur,—We believe we have in custody the boy who acted so prominent a part in the robbery committed on Madame your wife, in January, 1869. He is concerned in an affair which bears a close resemblance to the one in which your lady was the victim. Will she come herself, and, if she can, identify him, and thus help to clear up a matter which has long puzzled us all? (Signed) "C."

The thought of proceeding in this case was at first very distasteful to me; but so much might be brought to light by my making the effort, that I resolved, by Ralph's advice, to face the disagreeable task; and, accordingly, we started for Paris that night.

I will not enter into the details of the case then under examination; suffice to say it was a robbery committed on the wife of Colonel Styles, under circumstances closely resembling those of which I was made the dupe. In this instance, however, a boy had been seized on suspicion, and it was this same boy I was called on to identify. I had not much difficulty in the matter; although he had altered in the time that had elapsed since that memorable evening, there were still those remarkable eyes, with their long drooping lashes, and the pale delicate face, to bear witness to his identity; and without the least hesitation I declared him to be the same boy who had guided me to the house where I had been robbed on the evening of January 22, 1869.

The boy did not seem at all disconcerted at my recognition, and even smiled in a slightly supercilious manner, as though he felt himself secure from any discovery resulting from my identification. The authorities had been unable, as yet, to elicit any information from him; he baffled all their attempts at questioning him with a skill and cunning almost incredible in so young an offender. All at once I was surprised at an exclamation from my husband, who stood near me:

"Good heavens!" he said half audibly, "I believe I see through the whole plant; what a blockhead I was not to have thought of it before! But it was neatly planned and carried out, by Jove it was!"

He crossed the hall to where Colonel Styles was sitting, and, after speaking to him for a few minutes in a low hurried manner, he asked leave to call a witness, who, he believed, might throw some light on the matter in hand. Permission having been granted, he said in a low voice:

"The man calling himself Jules Fetier, body servant to Colonel Styles, and now present in this hall, is requested to stand forward."

For the first time since our entrance the boy's face fell, and he looked perplexed and rather dismayed. There was a movement in the crowd, as though some one were trying to effect a departure from the door; but the attempt being promptly frustrated, I saw them lead into the witness box the French servant who had accompanied my husband abroad, but who had left his service on his return to England. After some time passed in making inquiries, and eliciting very little from the cautious man before us, he was searched, and many letters of his present employer's were found upon him; also a pocket-book, which contained memoranda, proving a great deal against himself and his two accomplices—his wife and the boy in the dock before us. No one else seemed concerned in his fraudulent transactions.

On further search the whole system of his roguery was unfolded piece by piece. He would take service with gentlemen about to travel, imposing on their credulity with false references, and gaining their confidence by his well trained demeanor and intelligent conversation. Once safely out of the country, he would commence his nefarious schemes, and, with the aid of his clever wife and child, carry them out successfully. Nothing was ever forgotten that could lead to the desired end. No fraud was started until the details had been thoroughly mastered by his accomplices, and the plan well matured. It was impossible to say how many people he had defrauded in different ways.

He had soon found out how matters stood between my husband and brother—partly from his own researches, and partly from a conversation he overheard between his master and a brother officer—and considering the situation a capital one for practising his system upon, he had at once communicated with his wife, and unfolded his plains to her, sending her the signature abstracted from one of Richard's letters to act as a decoy; and also the handkerchief which Ralph happened to have taken among his own, to throw suspicion on my brother as being accessory to the robbery.

Before the examination concluded the sergeant, who had been so long on the look-out for the perpetrators of the deed, asked my husband how he had recognized the boy as being the son of his former servant. Ralph laughed slightly as he replied:

"I believe I should have made the best detective of you all had I been on the spot. I thought I recalled the boy's features as being in some way familiar to me, but could not determine of whom he reminded me; however, as he stooped to speak to the warder, the mystery was revealed in a moment by a strange stroke of luck."

Turning to the boy, who had lost his courageous air, and when looking crestfallen and frightened, my husband bade him hold down his head. For the moment he refused; but on the order being peremptorily repeated, he obeyed reluctantly.

From one side of his head to the other, contrasting strangely with thick dark curls, was a streak of white hair, about half an inch wide, which shone like silver in the sunlight; then bidding the elder man remove the cap he wore, he bade him also stoop forward, which he did, with a muttered exclamation; and there again we saw the same strange white band shine out on his closely-cropped head.

No link seemed wanting to complete the chain of evidence against the offenders, and the elder was at length forced to admit that the proofs were too strong for him to battle against. He begged that his wife—to whom he seemed really attached—might be treated leniently, as she was slowly but surely dying from cancer; the statement was afterward proved to be correct, and the woman was removed to a hospital, where she lingered but a short time. The father and son were fully committed for trial, and duly found guilty. The sentences imposed upon them were of a severe nature, owing to the number of accusations brought against them.

I can only hope that when their term of imprisonment has expired, they may find people less easy to impose upon, and better able to resist their machinations than was the "lady of Captain Ralph Branscombe," who fell so easy a prey to their duplicity and cunning that memorable evening of January 22, 1869.—Time.

HARRISTON.

Pullman & Hamilton's great circus will give an exhibition on the fair ground on the corner of Arthur and Queen streets on the afternoon and evening of Monday the 7th of June. It is said to be the finest travelling show on the road.

The copious rains succeeded by fine genial weather have had a very desirable effect. The grass and grain of all kinds have made rapid progress in the last few days.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell of Knox church and the Rev. J. R. Gundy of the C. M. church exchanged pulpits on Sabbath evening last.

The Rev. J. R. Gundy who has filled the pastoral charge of the C. M. church here for the last three years with much ability, and whose residence here has endeared him, not only to his own people, but to the town generally, by his willingness to assist at everything that had for its purpose the furtherance of Christianity, will make his valedictory on Sabbath evening the 13th June, at 7 o'clock p. m.

For some years past, in fact since Confederation, the 24th of May has been allowed to pass unnoticed by the citizens of Harriston—allowing sister towns and villages to celebrate the day, while Harriston was content to do honor to the birthday of the Dominion. This year however the old feeling of loyal attachment to Her Gracious Majesty became aroused. And they became determined to revive the old practice of doing honor to her birthday. And accordingly set to work in true business style in making the arrangements. in which they were completely successful. Soon the requisite finances were secured and a good programme arranged. The Brown Base Ball Club, who are determined to give their patrons the value of their money, immediately rallied their forces and commenced negotiation for a game in which they succeed with the Maple Leaf of Guelph. In fact everything was done and well done. For a few days we were visited by almost constant rains which lead to fears that the success of the celebration would be marred by unpropitious weather, but the morning opened brightly. Soon the crowds from the country and sister towns and villages began to swarm in, which with the arrival of each train, soon thronged the streets with one of the largest crowds ever seen in Harriston. The town was gaily decorated with flags flying from different staffs in the town. The Collison House, more especially presented a fine appearance, being beautifully set off with a number of Union Jacks.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. George's Church, held a bazaar in J. B. Taylor's new building, on Elora Street, which was fitted up very attractively, and was in every sense a success.

The band as usual did good service, discoursing music in different parts of the town.

The first item of interest was the lacrosse match been Walkerton and Mount Forest, which was won by Mount Forest, in three straight games.

There was also a base ball match between the Juniors of Mildmay and Harriston, which resulted in an easy victory for the former.

The next and most important event of the day was the base ball match between the Maple Leafs and the Browns, which has already been well referred to in your columns, with the exception of two statements, in which their is a difference of opinion. The first is your statement that the Browns were well up in practice, which the writer knows to be wrong, as the Browns had not a simple match previous to the 24th, and some of the players had not any practice for two years. Next as to the efficiency of Mr. Smart, as an umpire. The writer it advised by disinterested parties, that if he had the ability for the position, it did not show itself as his demeanor gave evidence of his profound ignorance for discharging the duties of the position. As to the Guelph players, the Browns regard them as worthy foes, and will meet them as such in the return match.

Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the game closed, a number of games were dispensed with, but the most important were carried out. Owing to the dampness of the rink the band were unable to hold their promenade concert but will give it some time soon. The day throughout was well spent and the management of the committee gave general satisfaction.

The cattle fair on Friday last was not nearly so good as the preceding fairs, prices being lower and buyers not so anxious to purchase. A number of farmers were heard to say they lost $10, and others $15 and $20 by not selling last fair. There were a number of good cattle offered, so that the reduction in the price means the loss of many dollars to Minto.

Messrs. Wright & Co. have a number of teams at work trucking logs into their mill, so as to enable them to complete their contracts.

Mr. R. Suddaby, eldest son of Mr. Henry Suddaby of Minto, left this week for Manitoba on a prospecting tour. He is an energetic, industrious young man, and should he decide to locate in the North West will no doubt work out a successful career.

Joseph Fisher, of the firm of Fisher & Irvine, blacksmiths and carriage makers, returned from a trip to Manitoba on Saturday last. He speaks approvingly of the North West and enjoyed his trip well.

Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

Notwithstanding drawbacks and restrictions of all kinds, the cattle import trade of Great Britain was considerably larger in 1879 than in the preceding year, the figures being 1,241,847, as against 1,200,323 in 1878. From the west of Europe England received 143,187 cattle, 750,469 sheep, 32,591 swine; from the United States, 76,117 cattle, 119,350 sheep, and 15,180 swine; while from Ireland there were imported 641,370 cattle, 673,371 sheep, and 429,663 swine.

Unprecedented Success.

A Crowded Store. Sales Increasing Daily.

The Dry Goods trade of the Lion, for the spring of 1880, has this far been a grand success eclipsing any former season's business. Thus we attribute to two reasons:—First, a more prosperous condition of the people. Second, the growing popularity of The Lion as the "People's Dry Goods House."

Never was our stock so full assorted. Never did we offer such value. Never have we done such a large trade.

FACTORY—Preston Street Guelph. dlaw

According to the registrar-general's returns, it appears that there are altogether upwards of 120 religious denominations in Great Britain. Of non-conformists, the most numerous and influential are the Wesleyan Methodists, the Congregationalists or Independents and the Baptists. The first of these (including the Primitive and New Connection Methodists) are said to have more than 9,000 places of worship. Those of the Independents are set down at 3,500 and those of the Baptists at 2,000. The Presbyterians and Unitarians and the Quakers come next in influence. It is estimated that the population of England and Wales, in connection with the Established Church, is about 13,500,000 while that of all other creeds together, makes a total of 4,000,000. A million and a half added to the other side would according to this estimate, place the Church of England in a minority. The dissenters from the Church of Scotland are said to number more than a half, some say as much as two-thirds of the population of that country.

The victims of the Springfield House disaster in Montreal are all recovering. The facts now leak out that the terrible leaps for life by the women could have been obviated by the presence of the fire ladders.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundredth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

HOME EVIDENCE
IN FAVOR
—OF THE—
PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 1.

If you wish to save yourself, your family, and your friends a world of suffering and pain, which at present they endure needlessly, and also save many dollars in Doctor's bills, go at once to the nearest store, and buy a few bottles of PAIN-KILLER.

WHY experiment with unknown mixtures without character or reputation, when this world-renowned PAIN-KILLER which has stood the test of over 40 years, can be had for the same price at any Drug Store in the Dominion?

READ THE FOLLOWING.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 2, 1880.

The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last 22 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhœa, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

Yours, H. F. MacCARTHY.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purposes for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, ONT., February 26, 1880.

We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis' Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, during which time it has taken the lead in sales over all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade. Yours truly,
W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send no end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excelsior Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being out of it.

Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

Hint No. 2.

Ask your Druggist, Grocer or Shopkeeper, for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER. If he passes it down without ceremony, ask him while extracting the quarter dollar from your wallet, if this is the genuine made by PERRY DAVIS & SON, at same time watch the expression on his face. You can easily tell if his conscience is all right; also examine the bottle closely yourself.

Hint No. 3.

When you ask for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER, and the gentlemanly store-keeper, without scarcely looking, remarks, "we "are just out, but have another "article as good or better, "which sells for the same price "viz, 25 cents." Turn on your heel and say, Good-bye, Sir! That man cares more for the two or three cents extra profit which he gets than he does for your health or happiness.

STOCO, ONT., February 17, 1880.

We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies in the market—some bearing nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. We have been selling Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.

Yours truly P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, ONT., March 9, 1880.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justly entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable; being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, chiefly as a liniment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and pains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptation, and send you this certificate that you may assure the public that it is no humbug.

Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

Hint No. 4.

Beware of all the worthless mixtures, and dirty, greasy combinations which are offered you in almost every store you enter, and which some unprincipled shop-keepers try to palm off as a substitute for the PAIN-KILLER. These mixtures are gotten up expressly to sell on the reputation of the PAIN-KILLER, but have nothing in common with it.

ESCOTT, ONT, March 4, 1880.

We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a resort in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by cold.

JEREMIAH CURTIN;
J. J. DOWSLEY,
JOSEPH P. REDMOND.
ARCH. GREER.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 25, 1880.

I have used your Pain-Killer for the last twenty years. I carried it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have been dead long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours very truly, N. W. LAFONTAINE.

PORTLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have sold the Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.

S. S. SCOVIL.

PRESCOTT, ONT., February 27, 1880.

I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations. Yours, &c.
GEO. BIRKS.

Hint No. 5.

If you cannot obtain the genuine PAIN-KILLER in your locality, (a fact not very likely), you should address the Proprietors, and by sending them the sum of $3.00, one dozen regular sized bottles, or a half dozen large bottles will be sent, charges prepaid, to the nearest address by railway to any part of the Dominion.

COBOURG, ONT., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much Pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry-Davis' Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

Your Pain-Killer as a family cure all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."

Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TAMWORTH, ONT., March 4, 1880.

For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have frequently used it in my family, and received great benefit from the use of it in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are pushed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis' Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular domestic medicine. Yours respectfully,
JAS. AYLSWORTH.

The PAIN-KILLER

Is recommended by Physicians, Ministers, Missionaries, Managers of Factories, Work-shops, Plantations, Nurses in Hospitals,—in short, everybody everywhere who has ever given it a trial.

TAKEN INTERNALLY, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowel Complaint, Painter's Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat, Coughs, &c.

USED EXTERNALLY, it cures Boils, Felons, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost-bitten Feet, &c.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

Morning Telegrams.

Mr. Parnell intends to press to a division Sir Wilfred Lawson's motion for the recall of Sir Bartle Frere, should Sir Wilfred not proceed with it.

A number of Jews have been arrested in the vicinity of St. Petersburg on a charge of being implicated in Nihilist conspiracies.

At a dinner given by the Geographical Society on Wednesday evening the Duke of Edinburgh spoke gratefully of the assistance sent to Ireland by America.

Two vessels which recently arrived at British ports report having passed a raft, evidently made on a man-of-war, and bodies of sailors dressed in the uniform of the royal navy. This is believed to be a clue to the fate of the missing training ship Atalanta.

Dreadful ravages by famine are reported from Kurdistan and Western Persia. In one town alone one hundred and thirty eight persons have died of starvation, and the inhabitants of twenty-six villages are entirely destitute.

A Bucharest correspondent of the London Times predicts an early outbreak among the discordant elements of the population in Turkey. He says the Bulgarians are to a man being converted into soldiers by Russian officers.

Professor Robertson Smith, of the Free Church College, Aberdeen, has been restored to his chair. Professor Smith it will be remembered, gave offence by a famous article on the Bible in the Encyclopedia Britannica, and for nearly four years the question of his orthodoxy has stirred the Free Church of Scotland to its depths.

Correspondents state that no better seed time has been experienced in Ireland for many years than now. The crops are healthy and well advanced. An unusual area has been sown with potatoes, which come up well, as new seed has been extensively used.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Death of the Empress of Russia.

(Per Dominion Line.)

LONDON, ENG., June 3.—A despatch from St. Peterburg announces the death this morning, of Her Majesty the Empress of Russia.

Royalty in London To-night.

LONDON, Ont., June 3.—The Princess Louise and the Prince Leopold will pass through London this evening, at 5 o'clock, en route for Milwaukee, and will dine at the refreshment rooms. They will reach Detroit at about 10 o'clock to night.

The Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The Convention met at 11:15 a. m. The committee on credentials are still in session. The committee on permanent organization reported Geo. F. Hoar for President.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, June 3.—The McQuarrie gang of York street, were sentenced to-day. McQuarrie, Easthope and Burton, were committed to the Central Prison, each for three months; six others in default of paying $50 and costs, were sent to gaol for thirty days, and one of the females was sentenced to sixty days.

George Peet, of Oswego, N. Y., was fined $40 and costs for having a revolver on his person when arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

Local Business Notices.

FIFTY sets field croquet received to-day at Day's bookstore. Good value.

IMMENSE opening of new and seasonable goods at the Lion. Things are booming at this popular dry good house, which is filled from top to bottom with the choicest goods.

FLOWERING PLANTS.—Astors, zinnias, stocks, balsams, marigolds, pansies, daisies, &c., now ready for planting, at J. Hallett & Co.'s, Market Square, Guelph. d1m

Cabbage, cauliflowers, red and white celery and tomato plants, grown out of doors, at J. Hallett & Co.'s, Seedstore, Guelph. d1m

The Lion wants more help in the dressmaking. The beautiful lines of dress goods offered at such low prices have given a tremendous stimulus to this branch of the business. The Lion does the dress goods trade of Guelph. No doubt about that.

Croquet, fly traps, lawn sprinklers, hedge shears, fishing tackle, and all seasonable hardware in large variety and cheap, at John M. Bond & Co's., Guelph.

"BEACH" PLANTS.—A large supply of Burlington beach plants just to hand. Cabbages 20 cents a hundred, cauliflower, celery and tomato plants cheap at Murray's.

J. E. McElderry, 2 Day's Block, the agent for Messrs. Rosenheim Bro's. celebrated Messina Lemonade Powder, has sent us a sample packet, and we pronounce it good and would recommend parties who like a nice cool temperance drink, to buy a packet, at the Noted Tea Store. d

Local News.

THE COURT OF REVISION meets to-night.

RUNAWAY.—This forenoon J. E. McElderry's horse ran away on Preston Street. It proceeded as far as the store where it stopped, having occasioned no damage.

THE MAYOR, this forenoon, provided railway passes to Toronto for a woman and eight children, who arrived last night from Bay City, Michigan, and had not funds to carry them to their destination.

THE Rev. J. K. Smith, of Galt, and formerly pastor of Fort Massey Presbyterian church in Halifax, N. S., will fill the Fort Massey pulpit for one month for Dr. Burns, during the latter's visit to the Old Country.

RESIDENCE FOR SALE.—On Monday next the residence of Mr. John H. Osborn will be offered for sale by Mr. James Taylor, auctioneer. Any person wishing a nice property, in a healthy and pleasant location, should attend the sale.

A number of pic-nic and boating parties are arranging for trips up the river to "Paradise" and neighborhood now-a-days. The scenery of the foliage along the banks of the river the whole distance up is worth a visit.

REV. J. E. LANCELY is likely to be pastor of the Methodist Church, Berlin, next year. He was assistant pastor of the Norfolk street Methodist Church here some four or five years ago, and was held in high esteem by citizens generally.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—Mr. F. T. Chapman has disposed of his book-bindery to Mr. Frank Nunan, who has been employed in the establishment for a number of years. We are sure that Frank will conduct the business in a manner satisfactory to the public.

VAGRANCY.—Emma Butt who was discharged yesterday at the Police Court, on a charge of being an accomplice in the robbery at McAstocker's house, was arrested last night as a vagrant, by P. C. Dooley. She appeared before the Police Magistrate to-day, and was sentenced to one month in gaol.

RETURNED.—By the report of the London Methodist Conference it will be seen that the Rev. W. Williams, of the First Methodist Church, and Rev. W. J. Maxwell, of the Second Methodist Church have both been re-appointed to their ministerial positions in this city.

STARTED AGAIN.—Our old time citizen, Mr. John Horsman, of hardware fame, has started business in Watford, and is making quite a stir among the business men in that neighborhood. His many acquaintances here will be pleased to hear this, and will, no doubt, wish him all success.

NEW BOAT HOUSE.—A new first-class boat-house has been built by Messrs. Bradley & Craig, close by the Dundas Bridge. The proprietors have a number of good boats in the water, and more in the boat house in case of emergency. Their rates are low, and a delightful sail can now be enjoyed up the river, a distance of over five miles, any fine afternoon.

SELLING LIQUOR TO AN INDIAN.—The charge of selling liquor to an Indian which was preferred against Mrs. Soden about last February, and which has been adjourned from time to time to allow the police to procure the girl as a witness who sold the liquor, was to-day (Thursday) dismissed by the Police Magistrate for want of evidence for the prosecution. Mrs. Soden claims that the girl gave the liquor to the Indian when there was a rush of business, and that she did not know he was an Indian. The girl has kept out of the way of the Police ever since the charge was laid.

HIBERNICA.—Howorth's Grand Hibernica of the Emerald Isle, and Comedy Company, will occupy the boards at the city hall to-night. It is some years since Mr. Howorth visited Guelph and his return will be welcomed by lovers of the picturesque, and Irish Comedy. The paintings, comprise some of the most beautiful landscapes to be seen in the Emerald Isle and many handsome structures in Irish cities. The scenes alone are worth the price of admission but in addition to these there is an impersonation of Irish character by first-class performers which forms an amusing part of the evening's entertainment. If the show gets the patronage it merits there will be a full house.

GATHERING OF ODD FELLOWS.—An immense concourse of Oddfellows from all parts of the world is expected to meet in Toronto in September next, the occasion being the holding of the fifty-sixth annual session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Independent Order. The gathering will be one of special interest to members of the order, on account of its international character. The Sovereign Grand Lodge is composed of delegates from each State and Territory in the United States, each province of the Dominion of Canada, the German Empire, Australia, Chili, Switzerland, New Zealand, the Sandwich Islands and other countries.

CRICKET MATCH.—Galt Cricket Club plays against the Guelph Club next Saturday. Both clubs are strong and excellent playing is expected. The names of the Guelph players are: C. Maddock, J. E. Smyth, R. J. Smyth, N. P. Tod, A. Fitzgerald, A. W. Stewart, C. P. Butler, W. N. Husband, H. Mickle, C. Knowles, G. Lemon.

THE Maple Leafs play all comers on the Fair grounds to-night.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Moderate to fresh winds, cloudy weather.

THE Artillery Band played last night at Wellington Park, and delighted the whole neighborhood with their sweet sounds.

ENGINE OFF THE TRACK.—Between one and two o'clock to-day an engine hauling a freight train going west, went off the track at the Huskisson street crossing, owing to the displacement of the switch. The main line is clear, so that traffic will not be interrupted. It is strange that this is the same engine which was attached to the train by which the late George Barber met his death at the same crossing.

Honour to a Highlander.

Mr. A. Mackenzie, editor of the Celtic Magazine, Inverness, Scotland, who recently visited Canada and wrote some very interesting communications to the Aberdeen Free Press, and his own magazine, in advocacy of the emigration of tenant farmers to this country, has been elected a fellow of the Antiquarian Society of Scotland, in consideration of the valuable contributions he has made to Celtic literature and the history of the Highland Clans.

ELOPEMENT OF JUVENILE LOVERS.—An elopement of the most extraordinary description occurred in Ottawa on Tuesday, the parties being two young girls of about fourteen and two boys of sixteen. Their parents are very respectable. They left by train for Prescott, and crossed over to Ogdensburg. One of the boys, although older, is younger in appearance than the girls, and lower in stature, and he was able to pass at half fare on the cars. The others paid full fare. The father of one of the girls has gone in pursuit.

DOMINION RIFLE ASSOCIATION.—The annual matches of the Dominion Rifle Association will commence at the Rideau Range, Ottawa, on the 6th of September, and ought to be even more successful than last year's meeting on account of the large number and value of the prizes offered. Last year the amount offered in cash prizes was $4,003; this year it is $5,013, being an increase of $1,010. Last year the increase of prizes caused an increased attendance over the preceding year, and the same desirable feature will no doubt be noticeable at the next meeting.

CANADIAN CRICKET CLUB CAPTAIN ARRESTED.—Mr. Jordan, the captain of the Canadian Cricket Club, which played the Leicestershire team on Wednesday, was apprehended the same evening on a charge of having deserted eight years ago from the Royal Horse Guards. His real name is Thomas Cale. It is said that since his desertion he visited and settled in Canada, where he was twice married, had six children, and became renowned as a cricketer and captain of three influential clubs.

Barnacles.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

DEAR SIR,—I was much pleased with "Ratepayer's" letter of the 31st ult., and endorse his remarks on the class of "Leeches" mentioned. We not only want economy but common business judgment in the city expenditure, and no doubt the proper remedy lies in the hands of the ratepayers.

Yours truly,

MANUFACTURER.

Guelph, June 3, 1880.

The Governor General has been compelled to decline an invitation to be present at Boston on the occasion of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of the city.

The departmental workshops at Ottawa will be closed on the 12th inst.

A New York Company has paid $50,000 for a few acres of gold mining land in Marmora.

Speaking of the probable carrying capacity of the new Welland Canal, the St. Catharines' Journal says:—There are shipbuilders in this neighborhood who are prepared to enter into contracts for the building of vessels for the new canal, guaranteeing the carrying capacity to be, on twelve feet navigation, 80,000 to 90,000 bushels of grain, and suitable, in every way, for navigating our inland waters.

A young man named Albert Krouse has been sent to gaol for trial for stealing milk at night from the pans of the Decker Settlement cheese factory, at Beverly.

The temperance people of Middlesex held a meeting on Tuesday, and passed a resolution to circulate a fresh petition for the enforcement of the Scott Act, and as soon as the required number of names are obtained to meet again and determine when the petition will be filed.

It is proposed to form a joint stock company in Listowel, for the purpose of making matches.

Prince Leopold and his sister spent the whole of Wednesday about the Falls. They will leave to-day for the west.

The committee appointed at the late public meeting in Toronto for the purpose of receiving subscriptions towards a fund for erecting a memorial to the late Senator Brown are vigorously prosecuting their labors.

Lord Elphinstone, one of Prince Leopold's intimate friends, is with his party, partly on pleasure and partly on business. Sometime ago he bought 50,000 acres of land in the Saskatchewan valley, and is founding a settlement there of the superfluous tenants on his Scotch estates.

An American paper in noticing the great influx of Canadians into their country, remarks, 'unless the Canadian Government wakes up the whole of Canada will be over with us.'

Sir John Macdonald will leave for British Columbia about the middle of July, after spending a few weeks at Orchard Beach.

Assessment Appeals.

The following is a list of those who have given notice that they will appeal against the assessment on their property. The Court of Revision meets this evening, when the appeals will be heard:

William Clarke appeals on the ground of over assessment of lots 53, Wyndham street; 52 and 44, Quebec street; 953, Cardigan street; 24 and 25, Marcon street; 32 and 33 Mary street; 40, Pipe street; 240, 11, 13, 38 and 39, Dublin street.

The Great Western Railway Company appeals on the ground that lots A and B, Suffolk street, are omitted from the roll, and because some one else may be assessed as the owners, and if so that they are not the bona fide owners.

John B. Powell appeals against assessment of lots 21 to 29, inclusive, Perth street, and first farm lot on said street.

Henry Sweet appeals against assessment of lot 64, Edwin street.

Jane Budd, lot 41, Woolwich street.

William Reed, lots 31 and 74, Delhi street.

Patrick O'Rourke, lots 41 to 43, and lots 49 to 52, Central street; lots 85 to 91, Exhibition street.

William. J. Standish, lot 75, Woolwich street.

Henry E. Smallpiece, lots 22 and 23 Kirkland street.

Felix Devlin, lots 327 and 328, Waterloo avenue.

Nellie McArthur, lot 326, Waterloo avenue.

William Damer, 25, Wyndham street.

Robert Flaws, lot 34, Strange street.

John Mills, 39, Charles street.

John Smith, lot 56, Waterloo street.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

The London Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada opened in Hamilton, in Wesley Church, on Wednesday morning, Rev. W. S. Griffin, President of the Conference, in the chair. After devotional exercises the roll was called, when 200 answered to their names.

The Conference then proceeded to the election by ballot of President, when the following votes were cast; Scattering 2; Parker, 13; W. Williams, 20; Langford, 43; Wakefield, 123; necessary for election, 101, consequently Rev. Mr. Wakefield was declared President.

Mr. Griffin, on retiring from the chair, gave the President elect a hearty characteristic welcome. Mr. Wakefield returned thanks for the honor done him.

Mr. Parker was elected secretary. The retiring secretary announced that the membership was 38,575; net loss by removals, 2,408; died, 495, and received on trial, as indicating work and blessing, 5,406.

An invitation was extended to the members to visit the Wesleyan Female College on Tuesday next.

Rev. Jas. H. Messmore, M.A., was introduced to the Conference, who expressed his pleasure at once more meeting the brethren. He was one of the original members of North India Conference, which, although not so large as this, yet was as good.

The Conference temperance meeting was held the evening previous, when addresses were given by Rev. W. S. Griffin, Rev. A. M. Phillips, and Rev. W. McDonagh.

KNOX CHURCH, STRATFORD.—The Herald of Stratford says:—It was announced some weeks ago that the Rev. Patrick McFarlane McLeod, pastor of Knox Church, had received a call to the Central Presbyterian, Toronto, at a salary of $2,500. Many of our readers will learn with regret that in the meantime considerable ill-feeling has grown up between the pastor and some of his parishioners, which culminated at a church meeting last Wednesday evening in a very animated debate. The result of the call cannot of course be known until of the course of procedure common to such matters in the Presbyterian Church has been gone through with. Two hundred and eighty emigrants have settled in the Ottawa district since January 1st, and about one thousand old residents have migrated from it.

WELLINGTON COUNTY COUNCIL.

Opening Day of the Second Session of 1880.

Wednesday, June 2.

The Council resumed at 10 a.m., the Warden in the chair; all the members present except Messrs. John Green, John C. Johnston, Cross, Anderson, McLuhan, Rea, Temple, Scott and Thomson.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from the Clerk of the County Council of Peterboro', also a resolution passed by that body for the presentation of a memorial to the Government, asking that the number of representatives at County Councils be reduced.

Messrs. McMullen and Allan moved that the resolution be referred to a special Committee, composed as follows: Messrs. Leslie, Cross, McMullen, Stuart, Ogden, Gordon and the mover, and that they report at this session.—Carried.

An application from J. J. Craig, B.A., mathematical teacher, Mount Forest High School, to be appointed Inspector of the South Wellington Public Schools, was read.

A communication was read from Col. Clarke, stating that the 30th Battalion had been ordered out for drill this year, and asking the usual County allowance of 25 cents per man per day during the time they were in camp. Referred to the Finance Committee.

PUBLIC SCHOOL INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. Donald McCaig, Inspector of the Public Schools of South Wellington, reported on the condition of the schools in that division.

It was referred to the Education Committee.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Harcourt—From the Council of Peel, asking that the following improvements be made to county roads:—That two miles of the side line near Goldstone; two miles of line leading to Drayton; two miles leading to Alma, and one mile on the Burwell line, between Peel and Arthur.

The Warden read a petition from the Township of Maryborough, asking for a grant of $1,000 to repair roads and bridges.

The Warden presented a petition from Mount Forest, asking the County Council to take definite action towards forming a roadway around Pike Lake, on the townline between Wellington and Grey.

The Peel Council asked for several appropriations for the improvement of roads and bridges.

From the Harriston Council, asking that a grant be made to aid in repairing the improvement of Arthur street.

The Harriston School Board petitioned for a grant of $400, to be devoted towards the Harriston High School.

A communication was read from G. D. Jenkins, claiming $45 as compensation for injuries he sustained in consequence of the unsafe condition of the approach to the bridge on the townline between Amaranth and Garafraxa.

A petition was read from Garafraxa, asking that the bridge on the townline over the Grand River be repaired.

Mr. Cross, Reeve of Peel, reported having made several repairs to roads and bridges in Peel, and asked for a grant of $100 for further repairs to roads.

The Council adjourned at 11 a.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 2 p. m.

PETITIONS.

A. Lindsay and 400 others petitioned for a grant towards improving the town line between Amaranth and Garafraxa, and the road between the townline and the Luther and Garafraxa road. Referred to the road and Bridge Committee.

James W. Benham and 30 others petitioned, asking that the County Council gravel the York Road between Rockwood and the townline. Referred to the County Roads Committee.

A large number of ratepayers living in Peel and Maryborough petitioned for a grant of $1,500 for the purpose of gravelling and grading the townline between those townships between Stirton and Bosworth, exclusive of that portion in the Municipality of Drayton. Referred to County Roads Committee.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Cross, chairman of the Committee on the House of Refuge, reported that there were 67 inmates at that institution, including sixteen children who were as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances. They also reported that it would be necessary to enlarge the wash house. The estimated cost of maintaining the institution for the current year was $3,000.

UNEQUAL SCHOOL ASSESSMENT.

Peter Johnston and others, living in the township of Maryborough, complained of the unequal assessment for school sections No. 4 and No. 9 in that township in consequence of a new school section being formed at Moorefield, and asked that the Council remedy the matter.

BORROWING MONEY IN ADVANCE OF ASSESSMENT.

A by-law was introduced providing for borrowing money to defray current expenses, from the Ontario Bank, in advance of assessment.

STATUTE LABOR.

Messrs. Harcourt and Cross moved that the opinion of the County Solicitor be obtained as to whether or not farmers sons, whose names appear on the assessment roll, who refuse to do statute labor, are entitled to exercise the franchise. Carried.

LAW LIBRARY.

Judge Chadwick and others asked for a grant for the purpose of purchasing law books and forming a law library association of the County of Wellington, for the use of the members of the legal profession and the County officials. They asked the Council to provide a room for the library and a grant of $200.

Messrs. Leslie and Nicol introduced a by-law to raise by assessment in the County a sum equivalent to the Government grant.

APPOINTING A SCHOOL INSPECTOR.

Mr. Allan, chairman of the Committee on Education, submitted a report with reference to the appointment of an Inspector of Schools for South Wellington. They recommended that the Council make the appointment. The report was adopted.

The Council went into Committee to appoint an Inspector, Mr. Nicol in the chair.

Messrs. Stewart and McMullen nominated J. J. Craig,

Messrs. Sweetnam and Scott nominated Donald McCaig.

Messrs. McMullen and Leslie nominated Stellman P. Groat.

The vote was taken by ballot, Messrs. Leslie and Stewart acting as scrutineers.

The vote stood—Craig 21; McCaig 14; Groat 5.

Mr. Craig was accordingly declared elected.

Messrs. Fraser and Gordon moved that the Solicitor's opinion be obtained as to whether the county or city is liable to pay a claim for damages entered by J. H. Quirt. Carried.

The Council adjourned at 3:30 p. m.

Thursday, June 3.

Council resumed at 10 a.m., the members all present.

Messrs. Anderson and Semple moved that the Council go into committee to consider the By-law providing for the assessment of the various municipalities in this County, to raise a sum equal to the Government grant to the Public Schools—Carried.

The blanks were filled in as follows :—

Amaranth	$400
Arthur	500
Eramosa	600
Erin	700
West Garafraxa	500
East Garafraxa	400
Guelph Township	700
Luther	450
Maryboro	550
Minto	650
Nichol	400
Peel	700
Pilkington	400
Puslinch	700

PETITIONS.

From William Wallace and 32 others, praying for a grant to repair the 5th sideline in Amaranth.

From Thomas McDowell, asking a grant of $500 to repair some streets in Palmerston.

From residents in the Township of Nichol, asking for a grant towards improving the road leading from Fergus through Kennetles.

The above were referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

From the Directors of the Central Exhibition, asking a grant towards the Exhibition. Referred to the Finance Committee.

From John Cowan and others, asking that $500 be set aside for the purpose of opening a portt of the sideline between Luther and Amaranth.

From the Clifford Council, asking that $200 be given towards improving the road in that village leading to the railway station.

From James Kyle and others, setting forth that the assessment of the new school section of Moorefield was too small to allow the residents to build a new school hcuse and to bear the expense of maintaining it. They asked that one lot be taken off the lots in the sections on either side of the Moorefield school section and added to the latter, and that a commission be appointed to arbitrate in the matter.

Mount Forest asked an appropriation of $300 to repair Main street in that town.

A LEGAL OPINION.

The opinion of Mr. Guthrie with reference to the question whether the County or Townships were liable to pay damages claimed by Mr. Quirt for injury he sustained through an accident at a bridge on the town line between Arthur and Peel. His opinion was that as the County paid for repairs the county was liable to pay the claim.

GRANTS ASKED FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

Messrs. Anderson and McDermott moved that the Road and Bridge Committee take into consideration the advisability of granting $300 to repair that part of the Fergus and Orangeville road leading through West Garafraxa.—Carried.

Messrs. Scott and Thompson moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the advisability of granting $200 to repair the road between Palmerston and Teviotdale, provided the Council of Wallace appropriate an equal sum for that purpose.—Carried.

Messrs. Scott and Brisbin moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of making a grant of $500 to assist in improving the centre side line through Minto north of Harriston.—Carried.

Messrs. Luxton and Anderson moved that the By-law appointing an Inspector of Public Schools in the First Division of Wellington be read a third time and passed.—Carried.

Messrs. McLuhan and Luxton moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the advisability of ordering the Council of West Garafraxa to expend the balance of a grant made by this Council which has been lying in the treasury of West Garafraxa since 1878.

The motion was withdrawn after some discussion.

Moved by Messrs. Sweetnan and Armstrong that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of granting $300 towards repairing the Brock Road from the city of Guelph to Eramosa. Carried.

Messrs. Leslie and Nicol moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of expending $500 in improving the side line between lots 8, 9, 10 and 11, Puslinch. Carried.

Messrs. Marshall and Ross moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of expending $500 for improving the townline and Elmira road, and $100 for improving the Pilkington town line. Carried.

Messrs. Gillespie and Bennett moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the advisability of granting $200 to improve the town line between Amaranth and Mono, providing Simcoe County Council grant a similar sum for that purpose. Carried.

Messrs. Semple and Henderson moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the advisability of granting $400 to improve a road leading to Fergus. Carried.

Messrs Waters and Ross moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of granting $300 to improve the Erin and Eramosa road.

Messrs. Harcourt and Long moved that the Solicitors opinion with reference to Quirt's claim be referred to the Boundary Line Committee. Carried.

Messrs. Reid and Burt moved that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the matter of expending $200 in improving the townline of Erin and Eramosa; also $500 in repairing No. 5 cross road Erin. Carried.

The Council adjourned at 11.30 a.m.

The Wool Market.

The Monetary Times says: Manufacturers are about finishing up spring orders, and are unlikely to want heavy lots of wool until they have placed their orders for the fall. Some of them who are prepared to buy even now are holding off to see how fleece opens, as the price of that may affect price of pulled. Certain buyers on the market are paying 33c. and as much as 34c. for fleece in small parcels, but the regular buyers offer only 32c with 34c for pulled, although outsiders have paid 35c for the latter. There are no large lots moving.

Montreal Live Stock Market.

June 1st.

The arrival of beef cattle for sale on the market has been moderate of late, although large numbers of cattle continue to be brought here for shipment to Britain. There was a better enquiry for shipping cattle, and several sales of choice steers were made at 5¼c to 5½c per lb. with bulls, oxen and coarse steers at 4½c to 5c per lb. There was a fair demand for sheep and lambs, the former bringing from $4 to $6 each; good lambs brought from $3.25 to $4 each, while the smaller ones sold at $2 to $3 each.

Proposed Law Library.

We understand that there is at present an agitation going on amongst the legal fraternity of this County for the establishment of a local Law Library. The matter is likely to come before the County Council now in session, and as a question of this kind is one of public interest, we deem it desirable to call attention to a few of the prominent features of the scheme. Of its utility we have no doubt, and we believe that such a library would add largely to the interests of suitors themselves as well as their Counsel. Several other Counties have carried out to a successful result the scheme now proposed here, and the benefits have far more than repaid the outlay.

The way in which these Libraries are formed is very simple and seems to be feasible. The Law Society of Ontario gives six dollars per capita for every member of the legal profession who subscribes towards the general fund. The whole profession of the County have first to subscribe the sum of five hundred dollars before the Law Society will make the above allowance, and when this sum is subscribed for, the amount which would then be received from the Society would in this County amount to about two hundred and fifty dollars. The subscriptions are kept up in smaller proportions from year to year, and the grant of the Law Society made correspondingly. The only difficulty here seems to be the want of a suitable room, and the County Council will probably be petitioned to supply this requirement, and to supplement the efforts of the profession by a small grant. We think the undertaking a laudable one, and hope to see it carried out in an energetic and thorough manner. By a little effort each year, a very fine Law Library would grace the walls of the rooms allotted to the profession for that purpose, and the constant meeting and interchange of thought between the members would be most advantageous. We may remark that the Law Society will not make any allowance unless the proper rooms are provided as above indicated.

THE motion for the abolition of the Legislative Council in Quebec, was on Wednesday voted down, 27 voting for and 35 against it.

THE Republican Convention met in Chicago on Wednesday, and after organizing adjourned. Both the Grant and Blaine men are hopeful, but nothing definite can be gleaned from their calculations.

SOME of our contemporaries—among the rest the Stratford Beacon—are circulating the story that Guelph last year lost 1,000 of her population. They are widely astray. The decrease was only 67, which is small indeed when compared with the falling off in the population of other places we might name.

Respecting the recent visit of Hon. Mr. Bowell to Hamilton, the Times says that he was brought there in order to induce Mr. Kitson, the present Collector of Customs, to accept superannuation in order that some green and inexperienced person might be pensioned off upon the country.

THE Quebec Mercury publishes a rumor to the effect that a third political party is about being formed in that Province. The platform of the proposed new party is not stated, but it appears to us very improbable that such men as Messrs. Joly, DeBoucherville, Laurier or Angers could associate together. The report lacks confirmation.

A DINNER was given on Wednesday night by the Canadian Club in London in honor of Sir A. T. Galt, who, in responding to the toast of "The Prosperity of the Dominion," made his first public speech in England. There was little in it except the statement that the Government of Canada was determined to push on the construction of the Pacific Railway.

THE aid given to railways by the Government and municipalities of Ontario amounts, to the present time, to $12,161,165; the Government has given $3,915,517; the municipalities $8,245,648. The total sum granted in aid of the construction of railways in Canada by the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and by the municipalities, is $98,944,000, of which sum $88,210,250 is paid.

THE Government are unable to get all the recruits they want for the Mounted Police, and the reason is not far to seek. The pay of privates has been reduced from 75 cents to 50 cents per diem, and the period of service extended from three years to five years. The land grant has also been withdrawn. The men were formerly engaged for three years' service, and at the expiration of that time allowed a substantial money bonus whether they renewed their term of service or not, and were also allowed a land grant in any part of the North-West Territories not previously disposed of, and if they renewed their term at its expiration they became possessed of the privileges for a second time. It was a profitable investment for the Government to induce the men to renew their terms, because such men would naturally become acquainted with the locality and save the Department a large sum annually in expenditure on guides, and in other ways.

IT IS not the first time that the "tyrannous majority" of the North has been exercised in the County Council, but the neatest piece of work in that way was done at the meeting of the Council on Wednesday afternoon, when it secured the election of Mr. Craig, of Mount Forest, as Inspector of Public Schools for South Wellington, against Mr. McCaig, who had temporarily held the office for some months previously, having been appointed to the same by the Warden. When the Warden did so he knew that he was only following out the wishes of nearly every representative in the Council who lived in the Division, and that the man whom he had appointed was in every way qualified for the office by long experience, acknowledged ability, and unquestioned judgment. But the northern majority chose to exercise their prerogative, and with scant courtesy either to the action of the Warden, or the feelings of the representatives from the south, took the matter into their own hands, and by the sheer force of numbers made the appointment themselves. Perhaps the southern representatives will now realize more than ever the force of the oft made remark that the Northern majority invariably rules the roast, and dictates its own terms to the South. The North on this occasion has chosen to go back on the principles laid down by its members not long ago, when the same matter was before the Council, that the members in each Division should be allowed to settle this business according to their wish. Having forsaken the position of friendly neutrality, they now assume that of dictators when the question of appointment solely concerned the South, and in no respect had anything to do with the North.

Erin Correspondence.

The second monthly fair was held in Erin Village on Monday, the 31st of May. The grand display of farming impliments, the large representation of cattle and horses gave rise to the universal expression that the Erin monthly fair was thoroughly established, and would prove a success. It is well known that both fairs have been held at a season of the year the most unfavorable for such, yet they have both largely surpassed anything that might be expected. There were on the ground a number of excellently fed cattle, which show that the farmers of Erin are rapidly rising in this enterprise, and will soon be foremost amongst the cattle breeders and feeders of the country. Besides the few sales of cattle given below, there were a number of horses sold for the American market. The American horse buyers have frequently advertised that they would be in Erin for the purchase of horses during the spring, and have bought quite a large number of heavy draught and other horses. The following are only a few of the cattle sales effected: R. Nelson, of Erin village, bought of Mrs. D. Sinclair, 5 cattle for $187.50; Mark Sutton, 1 cow at $36; Thos. Sutton, 1 cow at $44; Arch. McMillan, 1 heifer $39; Alex. McLaren, 1 cow $48; Walter West bought from James Collins one heifer for $40. D. McGill, one cow $40; Hugh E. McMillan, three stears, $161; W Hull, bought from John Sinclair, two cows for $80; John Thompson bought from Arch McLean two head; John McMillan, two steers from H. G. Milloy for $40.

At the meeting of the A. O. U. W., recently organized in Erin village, held on Monday night, there were four installations, making now twenty-seven members in all. It is an institution which is taking hold of the minds of the people, and likely to become a popular organization, profitable and entertaining.

We notice that Mr. R. Nelson has commenced buying wool, and is prepared to pay the highest price. He has opened a new warehouse at the C. V. R. station for the purchase of all kinds of farm produce, which is a great acquisition to the village and country.

We are sorry to see that Messrs. D. & J. Clark, who are doing an extensive business in the fine mill of Messrs. Connock Bros., are compelled to ship their flour over the Hamilton & North Western Railway on account of the better rates of freight. The Messrs. Clark are close, honest business men, and if they can save a few cents per barrel they are the men to do it. They have shipped a large quantity of stuff over the C. V. R. at very good rates, and we hope that that Company will soon comply with their requests and give them satisfactory rates.

A Methodist Minister of Canada Congratulates Mr. Gladstone.

The Christian Guardian of this week has the following :—"When the result of the English elections became known, the Rev. Dr. Carroll wrote a hasty note to Mr. Gladstone assuring him that though he claimed to be nothing but a plain Methodist preacher of fifty year's standing, yet he presumed to congratulate the statesman on his success. Dr. Carroll had no expectation of a reply to his note, and was surprised to receive the following acknowledgment :—

"10 DOWNING-STREET, WHITEHALL,
12th May, 1880.

"SIR,—Mr. Gladstone desires me to ask you to accept his best thanks for your kindly worded letter of the 13th ult. He much regrets that, owing to great pressure of business, your good wishes have not received an earlier acknowledgment.

"I am, Sir,
"Your obedient servant,
"E. W. HAMILTON.

A. McBean & Co.'s Advertisement.

Messrs. A. McBean & Co., the well known hardware merchants, removed from their old premises down to 23 Lower Wyndham street, in February last. They had Heffernan's old dry goods store fitted up expressly for them, and it is now filled with a splendid stock of hardware and shelf goods of all kinds. The premises are very commodious, but they are taxed to hold all the goods in stock, and which are constantly arriving. Farmers, mechanics, builders, blacksmiths, gardeners —in fact those in every calling who want goods in their line can have an excellent choice of articles at the most reasonable prices. The firm are making a specialty this year of the famous barbed fence wire, which is rapidly taking the place of the old snake and wood fence, and as wood for fencing gets scarce it will yearly come more into use. The wire fence is in many respects preferable to any other, and the fact that Messrs. McBean & Co. have already sold large quantities of it shows that this wire—which is better than the plain fence wire—is fast gaining popularity. They have also on hand lawn sprinklers, which—now that we have the waterworks—will be greatly used for watering lawns, also the best kind of lawn mowers, and all other garden utensils. Their conspicuous advertisement in to-day's MERCURY is a good proof of their energy, and shows how fully alive they are to the true secret of success—judicious advertising—and how anxious they are to give the public the benefit of their heavy and varied stocks and low prices. The next best thing for our readers to do after perusing the advertisement is to give them a call at 23 Lower Wyndham street.

Waste—Economy.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—When one-half the business men of the country are struggling hard to bring their expenditure within their income, when a very large number of our farmers have mortgages on their farms, and real estate is almost unsaleable, it is quite time to consider how the waste of the past and the extravagance of the present can be corrected. During the last decade Governmental expenditure—both Dominion and Provincial—has been doubled; our municipal expenses have largely increased, whilst business and general prosperity have retrograded, and yet there seems no steady or successful efforts made to check the waste that is going on. Yet the people are not dormant, as witness an occasional letter in the columns of the MERCURY or the Herald. The one you published yesterday shows plainly that there never was any necessity for a second Judge in this county—the experience of the last twelve months confirms it so far as the amount of work to be performed affects it—and it is well known that the appointments of Junior Judges both in this county and Waterloo were made to serve political purposes at the expense of the country, and not to meet the necessities of the people. Let this kind of waste of public money cease.

But we need not object to Ottawa] wastefulness, when standing quietly by and witnessing it in our municipal affairs. The city assessments are very high, the rate of taxation is at the full limit, and yet the needed street improvements are neglected from want of funds. The water works could well have been done without, and yet the expenditure has been badly made, the work carelessly done, and the original limit twice exceeded. The present management also entails an unnecessary expenditure that must be cut down one-half to two-thirds, and yet there is no other demonstration on the part of the ratepayers, but an occasional growl, and no effort on the part of the Council than a proposal to reduce the allowance to the firemen $200 or $300.

If the property holders of the city expect the place to prosper, they must see to a reduction of taxation, and at once stop the present waste of public money. The same may be said of the Dominion. Yours truly,

ANOTHER ECONOMIST.

Commercial.

Guelph Markets.

MERCURY OFFICE,
GUELPH, June 3, 1880

Continued dullness has ruled in our market for the past week, and prices lower than we reported in our last week's number, particularly wheat, which, even at present prices isn't so eagerly sought, as we have frequently seen, and the figures paid to-day, millers say, are too high for flouring purposes, which they assert will not warrant the return of the money invested. In face of these facts it seems as if still lower prices must be accepted by sellers of this cereal. Outside markets continue dull with every appearance of lower prices.

Peas continue at about the same as a week ago. Good and pure samples freely fetch our outside quotations. Poor samples occasionally sell for 58c to 60c.

Potatoes rule the same as given previously, and while Toronto and other large cities very often buy for less then is paid in Guelph, still the key, it appears, is in possession of Mr. Penelton, market buyer here, who now is properly termed the Potato King of this section, he being the most extensive purchaser on the market, and ships weekly from four to six cars, where to, no other buyer seems to know. Yet he still continues to pay the highest limit for really good qualities.

Wool deliveries are daily increasing, and prices rule steady but no higher than last quoted. We notice that in Boston operators and manufacturers are holding aloof, which would indicate that they expect to buy for lower prices then at present exist there. Here the ruling figure for best samples is 30c, out to-day in one instance we learned that 31c was paid. This being fair day we presume receipts were larger than would be otherwise. The total quantities changed hands were in the neighborhood of 4,000 lbs.

No other changes of note to report than may be seen by the following quotations, which were the latest paid up to three o'clock this afternoon.

The Markets.

June 2nd.

In Liverpool the breadstuffs market was quiet and steady yesterday, with the exception of corn, which was dull and lower. The Chicago market soon after opening began to show signs of weakness, and the decline was between 2c and 3½c on wheat. In Montreal the local grain market is quiet again. Canada spring wheat was quoted at $1.30 to $1.32. Corn, 49½c to 50c. Peas, 85c to 87½c. Oats, 34½ to 35. Rye and barley nominal. The flour market was dull, with very little enquiry, notwithstanding that stocks held here are very light. A good deal of flour is arriving, but is mostly for through freight to Europe. In Toronto on Tuesday, wheat was sold on the street market at $1.16 and $1.17 for fall, and from $1.17 to $1.25 for spring. Peas dull and nominal at 72c for No. 1, and 71c for No. 2. Oats quiet and steady at 37c for Western and 36c for Eastern. Wool is firm, with some purchasers of 4,000 or 5,000 lbs. at 33c and others at 33c and even 34c per lb.

A farmer who left the township of Gloucester to settle in Montana writes to warn Canadians from following his example. He says, 'This is the last country to live in. It snows every other day, and there is a frost every night. As for Sundays, there are none here. Business goes on the same as on any other day in the week. I went last Sunday to see a horse race.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

"I Don't want that stuff."

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is noble benefactor.'

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

The Chicago Convention.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The papers all agree that the unit rule will be voted down, and that the convention cannot get through before to-morrow night.

At Grant's delegates' caucus they decided to stick if balloting lasted a week. Conkling moved that all members of the Convention bind themselves to support the nominee of Convention. Carried.

Prince Leopold occupied a seat on the platform.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 4.—The shipment of cattle from this port the present week, greatly exceeds any previous week in the history of the port. Twelve steamers will have on board for the English and Scotch markets, 3,630 head of cattle, and 2,090 sheep.

Drover Missing.

TORONTO, June 4.—Robert Gay, a drover living in Yorkville, has been missing since Tuesday. He had a considerable sum of money on him when he left home.

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families' in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

FIRE IN BARRIE.—On Thursday morning a fire broke out in the engine-room of Geo. Ball's planing factory, a large frame building situated in the west end of the town. The fire spread rapidly, and soon the building and a large quantity of lumber was one mass of flames. Mr. Ball and his two sons were badly burned about the face and hands. Wm. Moore's dwelling-house was partly burned, but by the efforts of the fire brigade and the hook and ladder corps the lower part of the building was saved. Loss, about $13,000.

Local News.

THE Maple Leafs play all comers on the practice ground to-night.

THERE was no meeting of the Court of Revision last night for want of a quorum.

A NUMBER of the County Councillors visited the Model Farm after the Council adjourned yesterday afternoon.

FRED. JOHNSON has been summoned to appear at the Police Court to-morrow for using abusive language towards Frank Wilson.

THE Barrie will case was not argued in Toronto yesterday, owing to other engagements of the Judge. It may possibly be argued on Monday first.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fresh to brisk easterly to southerly winds, cloudy to partly cloudy warmer weather, with local showers.

THE Elora Express records the death of Mrs. Frankland, an old and esteem resident of that village. She had lived for many years with Mr. Boyle, Principal of the Public Schools there.

POLICE PROTECTION.—Owing to the prevalence of burglaries in the city and neighbourhood recently, the authorities have determined to place two additional night watchmen on duty.

LAW LIBRARY.—The County Council have placed a room in the Court House at the disposal of the members of the legal profession and county officials to be used as a law library, but they decided not to give a grant to aid in purchasing books.

SPEEDSIDE CHURCH.—By a typographical error in the last weekly MERCURY it was made to appear that the Congregational Church, Speedside, Eramosa, was organized in 1865. The church was organized in 1845, twenty years before the first mentioned year.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The regular monthly meeting of the St. George's Society was held on Thursday evening, there being a fair attendance. It was decided that the Society would hold an excursion to Toronto and Victoria Park on the 22nd inst.

POST OFFICE RETURNS.—The deposits in Post Office Saving Bank during May amounted to $3,575, a larger sum than for some months preceding. It is expected that business will increase at this Bank in consequence of the reduction in rates of interest now allowed by the other banks.

MILITARY ORDERS.—The 30th Battalion Wellington Rifles will go into brigade camp at London on the 24th June. The Guelph Company will, until then, muster in the Drill Shed every Monday and Thursday evenings at eight o'clock. To keep up the reputation of the 30th every man should be present.

SHIPMENT OF LIVE STOCK.—The total cattle export by the Grand Trunk during the month of May to Montreal was 1,550 head; 15 horses have been shipped to Buffalo, and 12 to Sarnia; the number of sheep shipped to Montreal is 200; the cattle filled 70 cars, with an average number of from 16 to 18 in each car.

THE Government officials at the Court House petitioned the county council at its present session to have the county buildings supplied with water from the water works. The Property Committee reported that they considered the water rates excessive, and the council accordingly refused to grant the petition.

BAND INSPECTION AND PARADE.—The Artillery Band will meet in the band room for inspection at 7:30 sharp, to-night, in forage caps and jackets. After inspection they will proceed to the Wellington Park band stand, and play a popular selection of music. Every member is requested to be present. By order, Major Macdonald, officer commanding.

GOING TO UNIONVILLE.—At the Primitive Methodist Conference held in Orangeville last week, the Rev. Mr. Harris, of the P. M. church in this city, was appointed, at his own request, to a station at Unionville, a rising village near Markham, on the Toronto and Nipissing Railway. We understand he will take his departure in a week or so to his new mission. A farewell entertainment is to be given him and his talented sons before their departure, of which further announcement will be given. The Rev. gentleman in leaving this city takes with him the warmest feelings of respect from all classes for the good work in which he has been engaged here during the last three years; and his sons will also be missed at many of our musical entertainments. Many of our citizens will no doubt give a right hearty support to the farewell entertainment proposed.

HOWORTH'S HIBERNICA.—From the gathering at the city hall last night it must be inferred that Guelph audiences have a preference for the beauty in art. The hall was well filled and those present were highly pleased with the entertainment. Some of the finest views in Ireland were presented and they were really grand. At intervals, Billy McGann and Sadie McGill appeared and kept the audience in a side splitting state of laughter by their witticisms. The entertainment lasted two hours and was highly interesting throughout.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of the Living Age for the weeks ending May 29th and June 5th respectively, contain the following articles:—Mohammedanism in China, Recent Events in Arabia, Ideals of Feminine Usefulness, An Attempted Philosophy of History, The Pinch of Poverty, International Novelists and Mr. Howells, Klopstock, An Escape from a Fijian Cyclone, Plain Speaking, The Temperature of Space, The Civil Code of the Jews, The Heirs of a Poor Monk, with instalments of He that Will Not When He May, Verena Fontaine's Rebellion, The Crookit Meg, and Bush Life in Queensland, with the usual amount of poetry. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with the Living Age for a year, including the extra number of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

FAT OFFICES.—The Elora Express has been hunting up the receipts of Registrars. It says:—County Registrars are well-paid officers. Registrar John Anderson, of North Wellington, received $5,355.05 for his valuable services last year; while Registrar Massie received $4,484.40. Registrar Bradsey, of Toronto city, passed in the checks to the tune of $9,518.15. The Registrar of Bruce received over $10,000; while 2 Registrars received over $9,000, 1 over $7,500, 1 over $7,000; 1 over $6,500, 3 over $6,000, 3 over $5,500, 4 over $5,000, 3 $4,500; 4 over $4,000, 4 over 3,500, 7 over $3,000, 6 over $3,500, 8 over $2,000, 4 over $1,500, and only two from $500 to $1,000. We think that Treasurer Wood, in view of a falling off in Provincial revenues, might fund registration fees, and pay Registrars reasonable salaries. To 59 Registrars no less a sum than $195,495 was paid last year for registration fees, or an average to each Registrar of $3,313.

ORANGE GRAND LODGE.—At the annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, which has been in session in Toronto for several days, the following officers were appointed for the year:—Henry Merrick, M.P.P., M. W. G. M.; W. J. Parkhill, M.P.P., M. W. D. G. M.; Rev. Thomas Norris, M. W. G. C.; Thos. Keyes, Grand Secretary; A. J. Van Ingen, Deputy do.; Wm. Anderson, Grand Treasurer; E. F. Clarke, Deputy do.; Wm. White, Grand Director of Ceremonies; Eli Higgins, Grand Lecturer. Deputy Grand Chaplains, Rev. R. Cooper, John A. Dowler, Alex. Sanson, M.A., Rural Dean Smithett, F. M. Finn, C. E. Perry, C. A. Doudiet and John Baird. Deputy Grand Lecturers, J. H. Pritchard, Ontario West; John McCaughey, Ontario East; A. D. Bostwick, Quebec; James Elliott, New Brunswick; Stewart Coupland, Nova Scotia; Murdock McLeod, P. E. I.; James Browning, Newfoundland; and Wm. Heeney, Manitoba. Port Hope was fixed upon for the next meeting of the Lodge in 1881.

THE STORM IN ALMA.—The Elora Express says:—During the thunder storm on Saturday, the 29th ult., telegraph poles in and around Alma, to the number of thirty were more or less damaged by lightning. Mr. Ledingham was standing at Mr. Struthers' door when the pole close to where he stood was shattered. He was so stunned by the shock as to be unaware of an exceedingly loud after clap of thunder. Mr. James Johnston was sitting in front of his hotel door when the lightning shattered a telegraph pole at his nose, a splinter of which was buried at his feet in the ground.

The final match for the Western Football Association Challenge Cup, came off on Wednesday, between the Berlin and Berlin High School Clubs, the latter winning by one goal to nothing.

It is proposed to form a joint stock company in Listowel, for the purpose of making matches.

Burglaries at the Four Corners, Eramosa.

A couple of daring, and no doubt premeditated, burglaries were perpetrated at the Four Corners, Eramosa, on Thursday night or early this (Friday) morning. It is not known which place the robbers got into first. Mr. James Mitchell, merchant and postmaster, keeps store near Lyons' Hotel. When he got up on Friday morning he learned that an entrance had been made into Lyons' Hotel, and immediately after his little girl called his attention to the fact that his own till had been robbed. On examining the premises he found that an entrance had been made into his store through a window in the addition at the back. The window had been raised, the inside shutter carefully removed, and a lot of eggs in baskets and pails, which were piled against the shutter, had also been removed with equal care, and placed on the ground outside the building. This left the robbers clear to get into the store, which they lost no time in doing. About $30 were left in the till, and this was abstracted. It was also evident that the letters had been examined, but as there were no registered ones, it is believed none were taken. Mr. Mitchell is not yet aware whether any goods were abstracted. No foot marks were found about the house, and it is believed that the parties did the work in their stocking soles.

The same night—whether before or after the robbery was made in Mitchell's is not known—the Four Corners Inn was entered. The burglars cut the putty out, and removing the pane of a window got access to the inside fastening of the bar-room door, and opened it. All they found in the till was 95 cents. But they went into Mr. LYONS' bedroom, got hold of his pants and a key that they thought would unlock a desk in the room. In this however they were foiled, and it is supposed some noise having occurred they decamped without getting any more plunder. The robberies are supposed to have taken place between midnight and five o'clock.

No clue has yet been found which would fasten suspicion on any one, but it is evident that the burglars knew the premises well, and had well studied out how they were to go to work. That they live not far from the place is pretty clear, for only a night or two before, Mr. Wm. Forsyth, who lives close by, had a new pair of reins and a bridle stolen from his stable. Mr. Mitchell has put the case into the hands of Chief McMillan, who is working it up.

Annual Drill of 30th Battalion.

We are informed that the 30th Wellington Battalion will go to London, and perform its annual drill in Brigade Camp there, on Thursday, 24th June. It will proceed by special train on the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway, leaving Harriston on the morning, and will pick up the Mount Forest Company there, the Hollin Company at Moorefield, the Arthur, Fergus, Douglas, Erin, and Whittington Companies at Fergus, the Elora Company at Elora, and the Guelph and Eramosa Companies at Guelph. The Battalion will return on Friday, 2nd July, after taking part in the review at London on Dominion Day. Captains of Companies are busy at work getting their men into trim for "the campaign."

Toronto, Grey, and Bruce Railway.

A meeting of the bondholders of the Toronto, Grey, and Bruce Railway Company was held at Toronto on Thursday. The Vice-President of the Company was present on behalf of the Directors. Explanations were given as to the progress which had been made in the negotiations with the municipalities in reference to the carrying out of the change of gauge. The Directors reported that by-laws for bonuses to aid the Company in carrying out the new scheme had already been carried in the following municipalities, viz: Arthur, $8,000; Wroxeter $4,000; Teeswater, $3,000, and Owen Sound $15,000, and that in the following townships by-laws had been submitted to the vote of the people, and would be voted upon during the present month, viz:—Artemesia, $20,000; Melancthon, $20,000, and Proton, $15,000; also that the various other townships and towns along the line would shortly be asked to submit by-laws for bonuses as previously arranged. The Directors having satisfactorily answered various questions put them by the bondholders, the following resolution was finally adopted:

Resolved, That having heard the explanations as to the position of the Company's affairs and the progress that has been made by the Directors in securing assistance from the municipalities towards changing the gauge of the line, this meeting do now stand adjourned until the 20th day of July, 1880, so as to give the Directors an opportunity of further completing their scheme, and securing further aid from the municipalities, and that the following gentlemen be appointed a committee of bondholders to inspect the line, and to report to the adjourned meeting on the 20th July, viz: Messrs. A. B. Lee, E. B. Osler, D. McKay, J. G. Worts, Rusk Harris, and A. T. Fulton.

There is nothing more troublesome to a good mind than to do nothing.

THE CANADIAN CRICKETERS.—In the Police Court at Leicester on Thursday Dale, alias Jordan, was charged with desertion from the Horse Guards since November, 1872. A sergeant of the same regiment identified and proved his desertion. The defendant admitted the correctness of the charge, and was remanded to await an escort. The Canadian Team now playing in England and Scotland are discredited. A paragraph in the newspapers say that they are composed of three natives of the United States, seven Englishmen, and only five Canadians.

Halton County Council granted $800 to the 20th Battalion, at its last meeting, to be used for the purchase of forage.

The Messrs. Craig have purchased the Fergus C. V. R. bonds, held by the village, for 51 cents on the dollar, and paid over the cash. Mr. Beattie holds the Fergus debentures, which the village will be required to pay 101 cents on the dollar before they get them. Mr. Beattie has purchased the Elora C. V. R. bonds for 50 cents on the dollar, but gives the debentures at par.

The army worm is ravaging the south side of Long Island. They were first discovered near Islip. In sixty hours they destroyed a forty acre field of rye worth $1,000. Millions of locusts appeared in Suffolk county, L. I., stripping off every green thing. Potato bugs are appearing in greater numbers than ever on New Jersey and Long Island farms.

The American papers are calling on the people to come forward and buy up the rapidly accumulating silver dollars, as the Government are finding it very difficult to obtain storage for them. The mints have coined millions since the passage of the Act making ninety cents worth of silver a dollar. Those at New York in the subtreasury alone weigh over four hundred tons.

The phyloxera which threatens the total destruction of the vineyards of France, is supposed not to do much injury to the grape vines of America, although it is found over large portions of the vine district of this continent. Rev. Mr. Adams, of Galt, however, has had his vines so injured this spring by the insect that not a single grape will be gathered.

That Leadville is not all that it is cracked up to be may be inferred from a letter received from a former resident of Toronto, who was induced to go to Colorado under a promise of $4 per day, working in the mines. On arriving there he found thousands without work, and those that did find employment received $1.50 per day, and paid $7 a week for board. The latter concludes, "There are hundreds out here to-day homeless and hungry, and some of them from Canada, climbing the mountains and trying to get home. On the way from Denver to Leadville I saw fully two hundred tramping for home."

At a meeting of ratepayers recently held in Mount Forest, they expressed their opinion by resolution that the Directors of Georgian Bay and Wellington Railway should proceed with the second section from Durham to Owen Sound with all possible despatch.

WELLINGTON COUNTY COUNCIL.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 2 o'clock.

ADDITIONAL GRANTS ASKED FOR ROADS.

Messrs. McLuhan and Stewart moved, that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the propriety of granting $500 between Luther and Proton, providing Grey supplements the same—Carried.

Messrs. R. S. Armstrong and Nicol moved, that the Road and Bridge Committee take into consideration the advisability of granting $200 to be expended in improving the Waterloo Road from the city to Snelling's Corner—Carried.

Messrs. Godfrey and Ross moved, that the Road and Bridge Committee consider the propriety of granting $200 to improve certain leading roads in the municipality of Elora—Carried.

Messrs. McDermott and Armitage moved, that the Road and Bridge Committee be recommended to expend on the side road from the 4th concession, Garafraxa, to the Owen Sound Road, known as the Central side road, the sum of $300—Carried.

STATUTE LABOUR.

Mr. Guthrie gave his opinion with reference to the question embodied in a resolution passed on Wednesday, whether farmers' sons who refused to do statute labor could be disfranchised. It was his opinion that they could not.

THE INDEBTEDNESS OF GARAFRAXA.

Mr. Guthrie, County Solicitor, submitted an opinion with reference to the indebtedness of West Garafraxa to the County. He recommended that as the Township is not prepared to give any further security the County reserve to itself full liberty to enforce the judgment already obtained, at any time.

This will leave the matter in the discretion of the County Council. If it is found that the Township from time to time makes reasonable payments on account—there is no doubt the County will not resort to extreme measures against the Township, unless compelled to do so, in order to protect its own interests.

THE SCHOOL INSPECTORS.

Messrs. McLuhan and Green moved to have the School Inspectors of the North and South Ridings reversed.

The motion was allowed to stand as a notice till to-morrow.

The Council adjourned at 2.30 p. m.

Death of the Empress of Russia.

The Empress died on Thursday. She was the daughter of the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt. She was born in 1824, and was thus in her 56th year. Whilst she was yet but 17 years of age, on April 24th, 1841, she was married to the young czarovitch, who was then a fine young prince, of 23 years of age. It was a pure love match, the prince having chosen the princess of his own free will from a host of German princesses, whom he met whilst travelling with his tutor in that country. The fruits of the union have been several children, the eldest, Alexander Alexandrovitch, czarvitch or heir to the throne, being born in 1845. The eldest daughter married the Duke of Edinburg a few years ago. It is now several months since the malady to which the empress succumbed assumed alarming proportions, and her death has been daily looked for, notwithstanding that the best medical aid at Cannes and other European watering places, at which her imperial highness has of late been sojourning, was called into requisition. It is believed that her end was hastened by the nervous prostration naturally incident to the recent dastardly attempts on the life of the czar.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

THE U. E. Club in Toronto has got so low in funds that a servant girl the other day had to sue for her wages. Sir John, when he was in Toronto might have paid that little bill, but he did not.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

From the Rub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value of HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appertizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 4, 1880

The Republican Convention.

The excitement at the Convention in Chicago on Thursday was great. On that evening a vote was taken which showed that Conkling, one of Grant's most influential and energetic workers, had but 218 followers to 406 against him upon a motion to defer consideration of a pending report. This vote was the first taken during the Convention, and watched with eager scrutiny. The decision of the chair against the so-called unit rule was the signal for immense uproar, and the gratification of Blaine's managers at the result was openly vociferated. The vote, nevertheless, was very disappointing to Blaine, as it showed that Grant had almost the full number of delegates claimed for him, and that a break in the unit resulted equally to the advantage of both the leading candidates. In actual business the Convention has not yet accomplished anything beyond the reception of a report on permanent organization. This is owing to the delay in reporting by the Committee on Credentials. Advices from prominent Grant managers in Chicago indicate that he will not have more than 325 on the first ballot, and, consequently, will not get the nomination. The Grant men are, however, determined that Blaine shall not have it, and when the break comes the choice will likely be Sherman or Edmunds. It is at present impossible to speculate on the coming man.

The Land Regulations in the North-West.

Strong representation are being made daily to members of the Government against the sale of lands in the North-West Territories to other than actual settlers. There is doubt that a combination of land speculations who had arranged to buy up the bulk of the available lands in the North-West have failed to carry it into effect. What a company have failed to do individual capitalists are doing. An English lord at present in the country, ostensibly on a fishing excursion, is purchasing immense quantities of land in the Northwest in various persons' names. Other instances of this character are daily coming to light. It is evident that there is no assurance of the successful development of the North-West until the Liberal party's policy of selling land only to actual settlers be at once put into operation. As an evidence of the mischief that is being wrought by the carrying out of the Government policy we quote the following from the Emerson News :—

"The large proportion of the forty thousand emigrants, promised to Manitoba and the North-West this spring, who have left Ontario and Quebec are, to a large degree, phantoms as yet, so far as this Province is concerned. Their desires were Manitobaward, but their interest, and hence their locomotion, was Dakotaward. It just happens that the Gateway City, being on the international boundary line, is in the proper position to enable us to know a little about these things, and we find, as the case is, that even many of those who do get off here, after becoming acquainted with the position of affairs, quietly make their way into Dakota not to return. We cannot be accused of much want of patriotism if we charge to the proper account the patent failure of the emigration boom. We happen to be within a nice walking distance of St. Vincent and Pembina, in the State of Minnesota and Territory of Dakota, and we say, without fear of truthful contradiction, that the number of Canadians going into Pembina County, in Dakota alone, is as enormous as it is surprising and deplorable."

THE Porte is considering the terms of a circular to be addressed to the Powers, promising to execute the reforms in Turkey demanded by the Treaty of Berlin. He has been considering this for many months, and has not yet begun his work. We are afraid he never will begin until he is stirred up with a long pole.

THE complete and final report of Sandford Fleming, as Engineer-in-Chief of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with documents in reference thereto, was issued on Thursday from the Government printing office. It ought to have been issued two months ago, while Parliament was in session.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell made a journey along the Trent Valley on Thursday, to examine it with reference to the long talked of canal project. They will humbug the people in that quarter by making specious promises, while they know that not a dollar will be spent.

IT is computed that since Confederation the Legislative Council of Quebec has cost half a million dollars. And for this money the people of that Province have nothing to show but several acts of flagrant partisanship. Notably in obstructing the legislation of the Joly Government.

WHEN will this Hansard squable end? Mayor Mackintosh, of Ottawa, and Mr. Richardson, the contractor, are now having a little quarrel about it. Mackintosh had made arrangements to receive some of the cream of the business through securing the contract for his friend, but Mr. Richardson concluded that the $2,000 paid a year ago was amply sufficient remuneration, and at the close of this session declined to pay anything. There is considerable money due the contractors on the work, but Mayor Mackintosh has issued a writ in Chancery restraining the Government from paying the money to Richardson, on the ground that he (Mackintosh) was a genuine partner in the contract.

A SCOTCH READING.]

Gutty Perky; or a Friend that Sticketh Closer than a Brother.

Tammas Parcel was a licht porter, an a married man wi' a wife, a big fam'ly, an a wee wake.

Mrs. Parcel was a maist managin' body, wha eked oot her siller to the best advantage, but it's no easy to keep a wean wearin', tearin' weans on sixteen shillin's a week, an pay a rent, an' gas, an' taxes.

But the heaviest end o' the string was Tammas's boots—he wore a pooer o' boots.

"Baba," said he, as nicht when he cam' hame wet an' wearied, "my feet's perfectly soakin', an' as cauld as lead; I maun hae my boots soled an' heeled."

"Soled an' heeled!" said she. "It's no three months since ye got them dune; my faith! if I was to hash my things as ye dae, I dinna ken hoo we wad dae at a'. Whaur div ye think I'm to get the siller to pay them!"

"Come frae whaur it will," said he stubbornly, "soled an' heeled the maun be."

"And what's to hinder ye tae dae them yersel' wi' gutty perky?" askit Baba.

"Deed, Baba," he answered, "I'm tired eneuch when I come hame, an' what for should I try to cheat the shoemaker?"

"Cheat the shoemaker!" cried Baba. "Div ye ca't cheatin' to help yersel' an' hain the siller!"

"Hoots, toots," said Tammas, "I'm as wullin' to save as ony man leevin', but what will the neighbors say if they feel the smell o' the burnin' stuff? They'll think we're burnin' auld shae soles."

"Neighbors!" exclaimed Baba, "what div we need to care for neighbors? Were naething obleeged to them. Take my word, Tammas Parcel, 'pride never had a gracious end,' sae shae yer auld boots yersel'. My certie!" she gaed on, warmin' up, "it's a caution to year ye, an' you only a licht porter, an' the father o' a big fam'ly, an' and ower prood to sole yer ain shoon."

"Haud yer tongue," interrupted Tammas, "an' dinna haver. I'm neither prood nor lordly, but to tell the truth, I dinna ken whaur to get the stuff, nor hoo to apply it, though I had it."

"If that's a' that hauds ye," said Baba, coolin' doon, "ye dinna need be lang at a loss; there's Mrs. Birse, wha keeps the bit shoemaker's furnishin' shop doon the street, has as muckle o't for sale as wad sole an' heel a' the toon, an' she'll gie ye a' the directions."

"If that's the case," said Tammas, "I'll just stap doon an' get as muckle as do't, an' gie't a fair trial."

Tam daunered doon to Mrs. Birse's wee bit shopie, an after takin' a glint at the cuddyheels, sparribles, tackets, taeplates, &c., &c., wi' which Mrs. Birse decorated her window, he opened the door an' gaed in.

"Div ye sell gutty perky?" he askit, speakin' to the auld wife ahint the counter.

"Ou ay," she answered drily.

"An' div' ye think it's a guid thing an' a cheap thing to sole a body's boots wi'?" queried Tammas.

"A guid thing?" cried she; "it's ane o' the best inventions o' man! It's a blessin' to the soleless an' a friend to a', especially to licht porters." The auld besom kent Tam's trade fine.

"Weel," said Tammas, "to tell the truth, I never did them mysel' afore, an' if ye wad be kin' enough to gie me a bit hint or twa hoo I'm to proceed, I'll be muckle obleeged to ye; an' as for the stuff, I'll just leave that to yourself', for ye'll ken best what is necessary."

"Very weel, sir," said Mrs. Birse, quite politely. "Just pit yer fit on the counter," Tammas obeyed, an' syne she cleverly measured the size o' the boot, an' catchin' up a shoemaker's knife, she begoud to whang awa, at the gutta.

"No," said she, "I'll just cut ye aff twa soles an' twa heels as near as can be, an' I'll gie ye a solution accordingly, an, a' ye've gotted to dae is to be sure an clean the sole o' yer boot weel afore ye stick on the solution, an' syne lay on a guid layer o' it, an, then heat the gutty sole an' clap it to."

"Just like a plaster?" quered Tam, interruptin' her.

"Just for a world like a puir man's plaster," said she. "An' syne ye'll pare it aff a' roond the edges wi' yer knife to to the shape o' the boot; an' afterhin' ye may gie it a bit slaik ower wi' yer thoomb, an' a pickle ink or soot, an' it will look as weel as if it had been finished aff wi' a shoemaker's iron."

Tammas paid for his purchases, an' hurrying hame, at ance pulled aff ae boot, an' begoud to scrape it wi' the best table knife, an' syne he ditched it aff wi' the dish clout, which was lying on the table.

"Michty me, Tammas Parcel!" cried Baba, risin' in a passion, "what div ye mean? Are ye gaun daft a'thegither? To think ye wad daur to scrape yer auld shae sole wi' my best table knife, an' dicht yer dirty boot wi' my clean dish clout."

"Haud yer tongue, woman," roared Tam. "Hoo div ye think folk can work without tools?"

"Tools," echoed Baba. "Tools"—

Here a gurgling sound was heard, an' at the same instant young Tam yell'd oot—

"Mother, mother, the bairn's chokin' on the sugar-ally stick?"

"Sugar-ally stick! What sugar-ally stick?" cried Baba; then flesin' to the bairn, she whuppit it aff the flaer, shriekin' oot—

"Oh, my bairn, my bairn, its chokin' on the solomonshoon!"

"Daud its back!" shouted Tammas.

"Daud your back, ye monster!" screamed Baba, as she stapped her twa fingers into the wean's mouth and extricated the stick o' solution.

"What did you bring yer dirt into this house for to choke my bairn wi'?"

"Me! me!" roared Tam. "It was yer ain sel', ye ill-tempered woman. What did you let them touch them for?"

Here a knock cam' to the door, an' very opportunely put an end to the row, an' as it was her next door neighbour askin' for the len' o' her washin' tub, peace was restored for a while, an' Tam gaed on scrapin' dichtin' at the sole o' his boot.

After cleaning it a' thoroughly, the next thing was to cover it over wi' the solution; but this was not such an easy job, for the stick wasna mair than two-three inches lang, an' Tam's fingers were nearly burnt aff him afore he could get a'e end o't melted.

He next tried to hand it wi' his bonnet; but it softened enough to stick to that piece o' raiment; an' when he had ae end sticken' to the sole, the ither was fast to the bonnet, and when he tried to pu' it aff, he tore a hole clean through the crown o' his cap.

This loosed Baba's tongue again; but Tam very wisely quieted her doon by sayin' that he kent fine he wad never get on without her help and her advice.

"Noo," said he, "hoo div ye think I'se manage to get this laid on?"

"Heat the poker," said Baba," "an' syne lay the solomonshoon on the sole, an' melt it a' owre wi' the redht poker."

"Faith, I never thocht o' that," said Tammas, as he stuck the poker in the fire. It's an auld sayin' an' a true—twa heids is better than ane, though they're both sheep's heads."

"Thank ye for the compliment," said Baba; "but there's ae sheep's head here the noo, and that's on yer ain shouthers."

"Weel, weel," said Tammas, "we'll no quarrel," and he wuppit oot the redhet poker and sune had a stick o' the solution spiutterin' awa' beneath it.

But nae suner did the fumes begin to rise than Tammas started to the sneezin' and [the hoastin', an' as he aye gied the ither atchitch! atchitch! and the ither hoast, hoast, his arms jerkit back and forrit wi' the motion o' his body, an' a drap o' the boilin' het solution rowed aff the sole on to his stockin'."

Doon went poker, boot an' a', and up Tam jumpit wi' a roar o' pain, upsettin' the table an' a' the tea things on the tap o' the bairn's heid.

Baba was neither to haud not to bind, an' Tam was as mad as a wild bull for the space o' half an hour.

At lenkth it was agreed to pit the bairns awa' to their beds, an' after a' thing was quiet the twa yokit to't in earnest. Baba scrapit the sole o' the ither boot the time Tam was fixin' the hauf-finished ane on the table, an' at last the poker being brocht to a guid white heat wi' mony an application o' the auld bellows, Tom, wi' muckle wark an' sair sweatin', at length got baith soles geyan weel covered wi' solution.

An' noo the grand secret was hoo to get the gutta sole stuck on.

"Hoo the mischief am I gaun to get the sole?" said Tammas. "It's no possible to haud it close to fire without burnin' the fingers aff persel'."

"Faith ye're a clever ane, Baba," said Tam, snatchin' up a fork an' sticking it into the gutta sole as if it was a slice o' dread he was gaun to toast. "Noo," he continued, "when I'm ready, I'll cry oot, an' ye'll cry out when you're ready, an' syne ye'll turn your hand round to me an' I'll clap it to."

This being agreed on, the twa sat doon on the fender—the ane on the ae side, an' the ither on the ither.

Gradually the heat began to tell, and the solution on the boot began to softer.

"Mind yersel', Baba," cried Tam, a' sweatin'. "Dinna let it rin aff."

"I'll mind mine if ye mind your," said Baba, surtly.

"O, there's nae fear o' mine," said he; "It's comin' on fine. Faith it pits me in mind of a bit ham frizzlin'."

"Never mind what it pits ye in mind o'," said she. "Be quick, for I'm fair roastin', and almost ready."

"I'll be ready the noo," cried Tam. "Haud on a meenit. Are ye a' ready?"

"A' ready," cried Baba.

"Weel, I'll cry yince, twice, thrice, an' syne we'll stick it on. Noo, min'—Yince, twice——"

At this moment something cam' doon wi' a clash on the floor.

"Mercy on us," cried Tam, "what's that?"

"Gude only kens," said Baba. "It's maybe a death warnin'."

And forgetting a' about the precious morsel on the fork, baith o' them turned roond to look.

"It's that thievin' limmer o' a cat," cried Baba, much relieved. "She's after the fresh herrin' on the shelf, an' she's knockit doon the cream jug. Shoo, shoo, ye limmer!"

"Bide a wee," said Tammas. "Noo that we ken what it is, we'll jest stick this sole on, an' syne ye can tack' the tawse to her."

An' they turned ance mair to their wark, but, losh me! the sole was in a gey softened kind o' condition, an' the weight o' the lang end below the fork was drawin't doon toward the hearthstane, something like ye've seen a stick o' gundy when a laddie had ae end in his mouth an' the ither in his hand, and was drawn't asunder. The bit aboon the fork was teginnin' to curl ower in a weepin' willow kind o' fashion, an' even as they lookit, the sole begax to lenthen, until ye'd a thocht it a sole o' the seven leegue boots we used to read aboot when we were laddies.

"Michty me," cried Tam, "look at it stretchin'! It's fa'in, Baba, it's fa'in. Dash the cat! what wull we dae noo?"

"Stick it on," cried Baba; "it'll maybe orine in, Tam."

Tam, twisted roond his hand wi' the intention o' obeyin' her, but ere he could touch the boot it pairted at the fork, an' doon fell twa thirds o't among the ashes.

I canna describe what followed. I'm no gaun to say a word aboot hoo Tam swore, and Baba raved, or hoo in the lang run they turned on the cat and nearly killed it wi' the tawse. Suffice it that, after Tam had managed to melt the second sole in twa even as he did the first ane, he did succeed in rescuing the fragments frae the ashes, an' after a sair, sair fecht he got them stuck on bit by bit.

Next mornin' when he put them on he could hardly keep frae laughin' at the queer appearance they presented. Ae edge was an inch ower the welt, an' the tither an inch inside; but that was as naethisg compared wi' the heichs an' howes on the sole itsel'. It was, as Tam said, like walkin' wi' chuckie stanes in yer shoon.

Baba, however, consoled him, by sayin' that they wad soon wear doon, an' aff he set to his wark.

Matters gaed weed enough a' day, but towards night Tam's maister sent him wi' a parcel aff to a geyan big hoose in the suburbs o' the toon which belonged to Sir James Argent Gules, Bart.

It was a cauld, snawy nicht, but Tam didna grudge togang, for he had been there before, and kent that Sir James's ledy was a fine sort o' body, and wasna aboon speakin' to a licht porter.

An' he distinctly remembered hoo on twa or three occasions the ledy had tippit him a bit shillin' to himsel'.

Aweel, he reached the muckle hoose, an' delivered his parcels to the footman, wha, after acquaintin' the lady wi' Tammas's presence, cam' an' tell't him to gang doon to the kitchen an' get a bite o' "summat to eat," an' wait for a while as there was something gaun back.

Tammas, therefore, found himsel' seated in front o' the muckle close range in the fireplace o' the lower regions, doin' full justice to a tankard o' yill an' a plate o' beef an' bread.

The heat o' the fire was very enticing, an' as Tammas's feet were at cauld as ice, he, never dreadin' ony-scoith, at the cook's invitation, lifted them up on the tap of the ash-pan in front of the fire.

Feelin' gey and cosy, Tam, oblivious o' his boots, took anither pull at the tankard, an' syne, as the servants were bustlin' aboot, he, for want o' some ane to crack wi', begoud to nod, an' finally saftly dovered owre to sleep.

What his dreams were I dinna ken, but he was rudely startled frae them by the voice o' the cook, cryin'—

"Porter, porter! the footman's cryin' 'on ye, an' the mistress wants ye."

Startin' up erect in his seat, Tammas lifted his twa legs frae the top o' the ash-pan, an' syne wheeling roond on his chair, as if the seat o' his trousers was a pivot, he clapped baith feet doon on the clean, white wooden boards, an' syne he straightened himsel', an' stretched himsel', an', after gein' a lang yawn, he dichted his mooth wi' the back o' his hand and prepared to leave the kitchen. But the deil a fit could he stir. First he tried a leg, syne anither, but a' he could dae he couldna stir.

"Dod have a care o' me," said he to himsel', "what's come owre me? Can I be losin' the pooer o' my limbs? Gracious goodness! this is perfectly awful!"

"Porter, porter," cried the voice o' the footman frae the tap a' the stairs ben the long passage.

"Comin', comin'," cried Tammas, struggling wildly to move, while the sweat broke oot owre his brow.

"What on earth is this comin' owre me?" he muttered. "Lord, pardon my sins! I'm a great sinner."

Then he felt a' his legs doon to his ankles.

"They're a' richt, seemin'ly," he said to himsel'. What can it be?"

Then he put his hand tae the toe o' his boot an' tried to lift his fit, but dell a stirit wad stir.

Instantly the truth flashed across his mind.

"Michty me!" he exclaimed, "I'm stickin' to the flaer!"

At this moment the cook entered, an', seein' him wrestlin' an' fechtin' awa' like a man in a fit, she flew forrit, cryin' oot—

What's the matter wi ye? What ails ye?

"The matter," cried Tam, "the matter? Oh' cook, cook, I'm glued to the flaer wi' that auld besom Birse's gutty perky!"

"What?" exclaimed the cook. "'Glued?' 'Gutty perky?' What div ye mean?"

"Porter, porter," shouted the footman. "Cook, why don't you send up the porter?"

"Comin'! comin'! I'll be there the noo," cried Tammas, tremblin' in every limb.

Then, turnin' to the cook, he cried oot in a despairin' tone—

"Oh, cook, gie's yer hand an' help to pu' me aff!"

"Wait a meenit," said the cook, an' she ran to the kitchen door, cryin' oot in an agitated voice,

"Thomas! James! Maggie! Jeanie! Jessie!"

In an instant the kitchen was fu', and half a dizzen tongues gaun like the clappers o'halt a dizzen bells.

Tammas explained as weel as he could, an' some o' them laughed and' giggled an' ithers sympathised wi him sincerely.

"'Old hon," cried the English footman; "old hon till I gets a crowbar, hand we'll hoist him hoff."

"Ah, puir fallow," cried the cook. "Try if he canna tear up a bit o' the floor."

Hereupon they all laid hold o' puir Tammas, an' pu'd an' pu'd at him, as if he had been a hawser, but a' to no purpose.

"Now, then," cried the Cockney. "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether!"

An' pu' they did, till they nearly tore the clothes aff his back, but still he stuck fast.

"Take it easy," cried the coachman. "I'll manage it. Where's my hat? and I'll fetch one of the carriage horses; oh' I'll bet a sovereing to a tanner I'll pull him off, though I take the floor along with him.

"It's nae use," cried the Tammas. "A cart horse couldna dae't. There's nothing for it but the poker. Heat it red-het an' melt me aff. It pat it on, an' surely it will tak me aff."

The cook an the laundry-maid flew to the fire, an' in an instant the poker an' the tangs were buried among the glowing coals; but Tammas wasna destined to be melted aff, for at that meenit wha should come poppin' in but her ladyship hersel'."

In an instant a' was changed, an' while the decent, sonsy cook helpit Tammas to tell his story, the lave o' them slunk awa' oot o' the kitchen wi' their faces a' distorted like heathen idols.

Her ladyship listened very patiently to Tammas's recital, an', when he was finished, she said to him very quietly—

"But why don't you untie your boots and step out of them?"

"What an ediot I was no tae think o' that before!" he exclaimed; an' stoopin doon he gruppit the laces ane in each hand, an' awa' they went like the crack o' a whip, syne, drawin' open his boots, he stappit oot on to the flaer.

Then, wi' the aid o' a meat-chopper, an' a muckle mincin knife, he managed to force the soles aff the flaer, not, however, before he had torn them clean awa' frae the uppers.

Her ladyship very demurely watched the hale proceedin', an' noo sent up ane o' the lassies for a pair o' Sir James's auld anes, an' after seein' that they fitted Tam as he said, "up to the knocker," she gave him a trifle and sent him hame rejoicin'.

Noo, to conclude, I maun just say that, a few days after this happened, Mrs. Birse accosted Tammas as he was passin' her door, an' kindly askit him hoo he get on wi' his shaein'.

"Oh, fine," said he.

"An' ye think yersel', noo, that, as I said, gutty perky is a friend to the puir?" said she.

"Ay," replied Tammas, "ye're quite richt. It's a frien' that [sticketh closer than a brither."

But, for a' that, Mrs. Birse has lost Tammas's custom, and the shoemaker round the corner soles an' heels his shoon.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

HAMILTON, June 2.

J. F. German, M.A., of Toronto Conference, was introduced. He had just arrived from Winnipeg.

The question of character (which involves inquiry into the character of each) resulted in the gratifying reply 'no objection."

A variety of resolutions relating to the sale of church property, the appointing of evangelists, marriage with a deceased wife's sister, and the submission of the Scott Act, were read by the secretaries of the various districts. When the resolution relative to approve of the Scott Act was read it was received by the Conference with applause.

The Conference Sabbath School anniversary meeting was held in the evening, when addresses were given by the Rev. George C. Jones, and Rev. John E. Williams, Rochester, N. Y., Dr. Ryckman and others.

June 3.

The Conference was opened by devotional exercises.

The different Committees were appointed.

The question in order was, "Who have travelled four years?" The following names were brought forward and passed: Solomon Cleaver, W. W. Bridgeman, H. F. Crosley, W. F. Campbell, Augustin Broadway, E. B. Stevenson, George Henderson and Charles Deacon.

The following have travelled three years, and are continued on trial: James H. White, Harvey M. Hall, Samuel Edwards, Albert C. Crews, Ebenezer Lancely, James S. Foot, Wm. Penhall, Samuel S. Staples, Ezra A. Fear, George W. Dean, W. J. Bradon, James H. Hazlewood, John Stewart, Charles W. Cousins, D. Anderson Moir, George R. Turk, Richard Redmond, Samuel O. Erwin, Richard Treleven, Alfred E. Smith and Walter Wm. Campbell.

Those of two years standing and continued on trial are as follows:—

Vernon Emory, E. E. Scott, W. J. Balmer, F. B. Stacy, J. H. Joslin, T. Voaden, J. H. Howard, E. J. Clark, W. J. Jamieson.

The probationers of one year whose names passed the Conference with approval were:—James Little, W. H. Spence, John E. Hockey, J. B. Freeman, J. B. Lambly, J. E. Hunter.

The reception of candidates for the ministry was a subject of discussion for a considerable time. The following were admitted:—Richard Hamilton, D. W. Snyder, R. W. Scanlon.

The anniversary meeting of the Educational Society is one of the largest gatherings of the annual Conference, and the meeting on Thursday was no exception. The chair was occupied by the President of the Conference, able addresses were given by Rev. Dr. Nelles and Rev. Dr. Williams.

Primitive Methodist Church.

The annual missionary meeting was held on Tuesday evening.

The Markham, Plattsville, McGillivray, and Guelph churches forwarded their applications to the relief fund for payment of the supplies during the illness of the pastors of their churches. The claims were decided to be paid.

The fraternal letter of greeting from the M. E. Church in Canada to this Conference was read, when speeches were made by Rev. Dr. Pitcher and Dr. Aylesworth. A resolution reciprocating the feelings of the Conference was passed.

On Wednesday the Conference decided that the question of life membership be left over until next Conference.

The Conference appointed the Rev. J. Cooper Antliff, B.D., and Mr. Robert Walker delegates to the Ecumenical Council of Methodism.

The Conference appointed June 27th as the day for special prayer on behalf of the Sabbath Schools within the bounds of the Conference.

After the usual votes of thanks it was decided to hold the next Conference in the city of Kingston.

Bible Christian Conference.

BOWMANVILLE, June 3.—The Conference of the Bible Christian Church met here this morning, the attendance being somewhat over one hundred. The Committees have been in session for several days past. The first business was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—President, Rev. W. Kenner; Secretary, Rev. John Kenner; Journal Secretary, Rev. S. J. Allin; Secretary of Printed Minutes, Rev. J. J. Rice; Reporters, Messrs. Mallett and Castle. A revision of the ministerial list was then gone into, when, with the exception of one or two taken on trial, all were found to be in good standing. A number of probationers were passed into advanced positions, and some six or seven young men were received as candidates. The Conference sermon was preached this evening by the Rev. W. Kenner. The churches in town generally have invited the delegates to occupy their pulpits on Sabbath next.

Puslinch Council.

Pursuant to adjournment the Council met at the council room, Aberfoyle, on Monday, May 31st. The members were all present, and duly constituted a Court of Revision. There was not a single case of appeal entered, and the Court confirmed the roll as received from the Assessor. As soon as the Court closed, the Council in Committee of the Whole considered the series of questions submitted by the Ontario Agricultural Commission, and appropriate answers to each question were adopted, and ordered to be engrossed on one of the schedules for transmission to the Secretary of the Agricultural Commission. At 2 o'clock, p. m., the Council resumed public business. The minutes of the former meeting were read and sustained. Instructions to all the pathmasters who were present were issued. On motion of Mr. Iles, seconded by Mr. Black, Messrs. Duncan McFarlane and John Iles were nominated and appointed a committee to inspect roads and bridges north-west of the blind line of the 3rd concession, and the division line between lots 19 and 20, across the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th concessions. The Reeve, Deputy Reeve, and Mr. Black to be the Road and Bridge Committee for that portion of the Township south-east of the said line. The following communications were received and read, petitions from Matthew Elliott sr., and others, Peter McLean jr., and others, Hugh Cockburn and others, James McLaren and others, Hugh McDiarmid and others, Andrew McRobbie and others, Kenneth McKenzie and others, Allan McDonald and others, William Kerr and others, John D. McWilliams and others, John McFarlane and others, Alexander R. Campbell and others, William Cassin and others, George Watson and others, Robert Watson and others, and James Black and others, all of which were referred to the Road and Bridge Committee. The undernoted accounts were presented and ordered to be paid, namely: account of Lewis Kribs for $2,88 for plank to repair sideroad between lots 5 and 6 in the 2nd and 3rd concessions; account of the Township Clerk $2.00 for registering By-law No. 230; and account of Innes & Davidson, $27.60, for printing and advertising. The Council adjourned to meet again Monday July 5th, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

JAMES MCLEAN, Clerk.

J. D. Wilson, of Fergus, on Tuesday shipped two car loads of eggs, consisting of 288 barrels, containing 20,160 dozen to New York.

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

Sarah Bernhardt will sign an engagement for Booth's Theatre, for sixty nights at 3,000 francs, each night; 200,000 francs deposited as security.

The wounds received by Rochefort in his recent duel are more serious than at first supposed.

A firm of brokers who have recently been working mischief on the London Stock Exchange, chiefly by operations in Canadian and United States railway securities have disappeared. They are found to be defaulters to a considerable extent.

A Constantinople correspondent states that the British colony there is preparing a strong memorial to Mr. Goschen repecting the prevailing insecurity of life and property, which is truly alarming.

The Prince of Wales, the King of Greece, foreign representatives, Earl Granville, and Sir Charles Dilke, were present at the funeral service of the Empress of Russia on Friday.

The Daily News announces that the Liberal memorial asking for the recall of Sir Bartle Frere from the Cape has sent to Gladstone. It is signed by 85 members.

The Czar on receiving the telegram announcing the death of the Czarina returned to St. Petersburg immediately from Tsarkoezloe, the imperial summer residence. The Duke of Edinburgh went to St. Petersburg to attend the funeral.

The ravages of the phylloxera in France are becoming more serious daily. It is computed that a third of the total surface devoted to wine growing has been irretrievably devastated, and as the plague has been steadily increasing all this year, it is estimated that 40,000 acres have been added to the total amount of land lost.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Suit Arising Out of the Argenteuil Election Trial.

LACHINE, Que., June 5.—The Hon. John Hamilton has stated that he intends entering a criminal action for defamation of character against the petitioners in the Argenteuil contested election case.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 5.—The monument erected in Mount Royal Cemetery to young Hackett, who was shot on the 12th July, 1877 riots here, is nearly completed.

The Chicago Convention.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The Convention met at 11:45 a. m. The examination of the roll of States in now being proceeded with.

THE HANLAN-TRICKETT RACE.—The Hanlan-Trickett articles were duly signed in London on Friday. The race takes place on the 15th of November on the Thames, from Putney to Mortlake, for two hundred pounds a side, the championship of the world, and the Sportsman trophy. Col. Shaw has posted fifty pounds on behalf of Hanlan. Everything has been amicably arranged to the satisfaction of all parties. Great interest is felt in the match.

THE BYSTANDER.—The June number of this Magazine is as spicy as ever. Mr. Goldwin Smith criticizes everything and everybody with a free, bold hand, but his utterances—given forth as impartial and free from animus—often show signs of personal bitterness which do no credit to the talented writer.

A lady heads the lists this year over both male and female candidates in the first year examinations at Toronto University. Miss Henrietta Charles, of St. Catharines, is the fortunate student, and she carries off the scholarship for modern languages and the first scholarship for modern proficiency.

Cabbage, cauliflowers, red and white celery and tomato plants, grown out of doors, at J. Hallett & Co.'s, Seedstore, Guelph. d1m

The Lion wants more help in the dressmaking. The beautiful lines of dress goods offered at such low prices have given a tremendous stimulus to this branch of the business. The Lion does the dress goods trade of Guelph. No doubt about that.

Croquet, fly traps, lawn sprinklers, hedge shears, fishing tackle, and all seasonable hardware in large variety and cheap, at John M. Bond & Co's., Guelph.

"BEACH" PLANTS.—A large supply of Burlington beach plants just to hand. Cabbages 20 cents a hundred, cauliflower, celery and tomato plants cheap at Murray's.

J. E. McElderry, 2 Day's Block, the agent for Messrs. Rosenheim Bro's. celebrated Messina Lemonade Powder, has sent us a sample packet, and we pronounce it good and would recommend parties who like a nice cool temperance drink, to buy a packet, at the Noted Tea Store. d

Local News.

THE broom sweep walk on Monday evening, in the Drill Shed, must not be forgotton.

THE REV. W. TURNER will preach in the Dublin street Methodist church tomorrow morning and evening.

THE County Council adjourned to-day (Saturday) to meet on the first Tuesday in December.

THE County Councillors formed an excursion party and took a trip up the Eramosa river last night.

WEATHER PROBS.—Easterly followed by southerly and southeasterly winds, cloudy warm weather with rain.

THERE is a dangerous hole in the bridge on Gordon street, over the creek near Sallows' blacksmith shop.

ABRAHAM PANABAKER, 84 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers of Waterloo Township, is very poorly in health.

A STREET lamp opposite the residence of Mr. Watson Hall, Waterloo Avenue, has been shattered by some malicious person.

THE Kincardine Reporter says that the Grangers in that neighborhood purpose visiting the Ontario Agricultural College here sometime during the present month.

THE ACCIDENT TO MR. BENHAM.—Mr. Benham who was injured by being thrown from his buggy on the Eramosa road about two weeks ago is recovering.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.—Fred. Johnston was fined $6.85 at the Police Court to-day for using abusive language towards Frank Wilson at the Royal Hotel on Thursday.

THE Gospel Temperance Club will be addressed by speakers from a distance to morrow afternoon at four o'clock. It is sure to be an interesting meeting, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. d1

BREAKING WINDOWS.—Some mischievous boys have been breaking windows in Mr. Presant's building on Quebec street, and the chief is on their track. If caught they will be made an example of.

FAREWELL SOCIAL.—The congregation of the Primitive Methodist Church will give a farewell social and concert in the church to Rev. Mr. Harris, the pastor, and his family on Tuesday evening, June 22nd. Tea is to be served at 7:30 p.m.; admission 15 cents.

THE base ball game to have been played at Galt this afternoon between the Maple Leafs and Mutuals, will not come off on account of the rain. The secretary of the Maple Leafs telegraphed to Galt to the effect that they would not start for that place this forenoon.

THE Artillery Band played a fine series of musical selections in Wellington Park last night. The music attracted a large number to the vicinity who were delighted with the performance. The band is making wonderful improvement, and there are not many military bands in the Dominion to excel it.

EXCURSION.—The excursion on Thursday next, under the auspices of the Norfolk-street Church Y. P. Literary Society, promises to be first-class. The arrangements are complete, and those parties who patronize the excursion will doubtless have a pleasant trip, and help to aid the Society.

WEST GARAFRAXA REEVESHIP.—A case styled McDonald v. Anderson was heard to-day (Saturday) by Judge Chadwick. This is an application to unseat Mr. Anderson, Reeve of Garafraxa, on the ground that he is not properly qualified to hold he office, not having been rated on the assessment roll. Judgment reserved. Mr. Guthrie for the relator; Mr. Muir, Fergus, for the defendant.

QUINN V. THE WATER COMMISSIONERS.—The examination of witnesses in this case, which was referred by the Court of Assize to arbitration, commenced on Friday in Toronto before the arbitrator, Mr. Tilt. The case was watched by Messrs. Rose and Johnston in the interests of Quinn, and by Mr. Guthrie and the chairman of the Water Works Board, on behalf of the defendants. After the examination of Quinn the case was adjourned. It will be concluded at Guelph at some future day not fixed.

THE IMPERIAL MEASURE.—As the strawberry and small fruit season approaches, it may not be amiss to notice that a heavy penalty may be imposed for the use of any measure other than the Imperial. The law in this case into force on the 1st of May, and any person found selling by any other measure, or selling what purports to be a quart of any commodity, which will not hold out measurement according to the Imperial measure may be prosecuted and fined heavily. Fruit growers will do well to make a note of this, and govern themselves accordingly.

PARENTAL AUTHORITY.—On Friday forenoon, in the neighborhood of St. Andrew's Church, a little boy, about four or five years of age, was wheeling a hand cart along the sidewalk, in which was another small boy, probably his brother, when by some misadventure, either on the part of the boy wheeling the hand cart, or the one inside, the little fellow got thrown out on the street. Closely following them were a man and woman who were supposed to be the parents of the children. The man made a rush for the hand-cart, picked up the little boy off the street, and then directed his attention to the other one, to whom he gave a brutal beating. He struck the boys a fierce blow on one side of the head, causing him to reel across the sidewalk, then struck him on the other, which sent him staggering against the fence. This onslaught was not enough, but was followed up by numerous kicks, which highly insensed the indignation of passers by, some of whom could hardly be restrained from giving the man a just and well merited chastisement. It is a pity that the proper steps were not taken at the time to make this passionate and apparently unfeeling man answer before the Police Magistrate for his conduct, as this is not the first case of a similar nature that has been witnessed recently.—Com.

SHOULD BE STOPPED.—The Milton Champion says:—A few years ago the river in the neighborhood of Ospringe was one of the most productive trout streams in the province, and the village gained some benefit from the tourists who visited it. Since 1876, however, all is changed. A herde of fellows who are too lazy to apply themselves to any regular work, fish the stream day after day, shipping the results, no matter how small, to Guelph, at twenty cents per pound. The drain on the stream is much greater than it can supply, and should be stopped. The owners of the land should prohibit such work, and the anglers of Guelph should do something to preserve the resort.

CRICKET.

Guelph Defeated by Galt by one Run and one Wicket.

The cricket match yesterday between Guelph and Galt was well contested, and Guelph appeared in better form than they have done for some time. Galt finally won the match by one run and a wicket to spare. The game was not for the Association cup, as stated yesterday.

Another Story About Rev. Mr. Handford.

TORONTO, June 4.—Rev. Mr. Handford has got into another scrape. A few days ago he was noticed walking out to Yorkville with Mrs. Leslie, the lady with whom his name was previously connected. They left the main road and descended together into what is known as the Yorkville Ravine, and were seen shortly afterwards by a gentleman whose veracity cannot be impugned in a most suspicious position.

Yesterday two members of the church called upon Mr. Handford, and related what they had heard, and advised him to resign his pastorate, and nothing would be said about the matter. He asked until this afternoon to decide, when he admitted that he had been walking with Mrs. Leslie in the ravine, but denied any improper conduct.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

JUNE 4.

After the Conference was opened a case of character laid over from yesterday was called up and a committee was appointed to report on the same.

A resolution in relation to the Scott Act was presented by Rev. J. S. Ross, M. A., and seconded by Rev. Alexander Langford, which produced one of the most animated discussions which has taken place during the present sittings of the conference. It was finally referred to a committee.

The question of receiving young men on trial as candidates for the ministry was taken up, when the following additional young men were accepted on trial as probationers, viz., Hugh W. Lough, Ephraim H. Coyle, Joseph Pring and John W. Saunby.

The Rev. S. McLean by a vote of the conference will be ordained for special work in the Northwest.

In the afternoon the question of candidates for the ministry was continued. Joseph W. Foote, from Georgetown, was highly recommended and received; Thos. A. More and Francis A. Cassidy also were received as probationers.

Rev. Dr. Nelles was introduced, and referred to the work of Victoria College and the young men prepared for the ministry of the London Conference.

Rev. Dr. Shaw, of the Theological College, Montreal, also addressed the Conference, giving a report of the School and of the probationers of this Conference.

The examination of the ordination class in Biblical knowledge and theology was conducted by Dr. Burns.

The names of the superannuated ministers was called for and answered as follows:—John S. Evans, Henry Lanton, F. Coleman, John Histon, Thomas N. Jeffries, Thomas Rump, Michael Baxter, Lewis Warner, John V. Wilson, John Baxter, Peter Gorman, Hamilton Biggar, E.E. Sweet, Elias Williams, Richard Philps, J. H. Robinson.

The meeting in the evening was for the public reception into the membership of the Conference of the young men who have completed their probation and finished their course of study. The names are as follows:—Hugh T. Crosley, W. F. Campbell, Augustine Broadway, Charles Deacon, E. B. Stevenson, Solomon Cleaver, W. W. Bridgeman, and T. W. Henderson.

After several of the young men had related their religious experiences, they were formally received into the membership of the Conference.

Phil's Prayer.

There are a great many people in their religion that reminds me of "Uncle Phil," a pious old darkey of the old times in Texas.

Well, Phil was a fervent Christian, with a great gift of prayer. He attended all the Saturday night prayer meetings on the neighboring plantations, and could pray louder and longer than any of his brethren. But Phil had one weakness, he dearly loved money; and, different from the negro generally, loved to hoard it.

Near by us lived a man who, not troubled by any scruples, would pay Phil a dollar to work his field on Sunday. One Sunday night Phil came home after dark. I accosted him with:

"Where have you been, Phil?"

"Oh, just knocking about, massa."

"You have been working for Mille."

', Well, you see, massa, the old fellow is in weeds and he just showed me a silver dollar, and I just could'nt stand it."

"Ain't you afraid the devil will get you for breaking the Sabbath?"

Phil scratched his head a minute and said,

"I guess the Lord'll 'scuse me, massa."

"No, He says, 'remember the Sabbath day, and keep it holy.'"

Phil went off looking pretty sober, and it was not long before I heard his voice in fervent prayer back of the barn, so I thought I would slip down near enough to hear.

"Oh, Lord!" I heard him say, "I have this day ripped and teared, cussed the sweared at them confounded oxen of Miller's and jest broke the Sabbath day. Oh, Lord, please forgive me; please forgive me, for you knows I'se nothing but a miserable heathen anyhow. If you'll jest forgive me this time I'll never do it again as long as I live 'cepten he gives me two dollars and a half a day." At this point I was obliged to beat a hasty retreat, but I am thinking that poor Uncle Phil isn't the only two dollar and a half Christian in the world.

County Council.

Fourth Day—Reports of Standing Committees.

FRIDAY, June 4th.

The Council resumed at ten a. m., all the members being present.

MONTHLY FAIR AT ERIN.

A petition was read from a number of ratepayers in Erin, praying that a by-law be introduced to establish a monthly fair at Erin, to be held the Tuesday before the first Wednesday in each month, and that E. Crozier be appointed caretaker of the grounds.

On motion of Messrs. Burt and McMillan, a by-law for that purpose was introduced and read a first time. The by-law provides for the request of the petition, and that the grounds shall be on lots owned by John and William Cormack.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITIONS.

Messrs. Cross and Scott moved that the Finance Committee be recommended to consider the propriety of aiding the Centre, West and North Riding Agricultural Societies at the same time, as they consider the matter of aiding that of the South Riding.

The resolution was carried.

THE ARTILLERY BAND.

The Artillery Band Committee petitioned for a grant of $200 to defray the current expenses of the Band for the present year.

A petition was also read asking a grant to the Battery.

BOUNDARY LINE AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Rea reported recommending that the Warden, Messrs. Harcourt and Gordon be a Committee to settle the claim of John Quirt, if they deem it expedient. That David Jenkins be paid $15 for damage to buggy. That a new bridge be built on the townline between Peel and Maryborough. That the bridge on the townline between East and West Garafraxa be repaired. That the sum of $500 be placed to the credit of the Committee for other repairs to bridges.

Messrs. McLuhan and Waters moved the adoption of the report. Carried.

COUNTY ROAD COMMITTEE.

Mr. Anderson reported that they had examined the various petitions praying for the improvement of certain roads, but could not recommend that any action be taken. They recommended additional grants to the following sections of the County roads:—From Guelph to Junction, $100; Glenallan Road, $100; East Garafraxa and Amaranth townline, $50; Arthur and Luther town line, $25; Guelph and Saugeen road $50. They also recommend that the usual grants of $50 per mile be given to Palmerston, Mount Forest, Elora and Fergus.

Messrs. Anderson and Sweetnam moved the adoption of the report. Carried.

COUNTY PROPERTY.

Mr. Nicol, chairman of the committee on County Property, recommended that the members of the legal profession and County officials, be allowed to use a room in the Court House for a law library, but that no grant be given. That no action be taken in the matter of supplying water from the city works to the County buildings as the rate appears to be excessive. That $1,000 be placed to the credit of the committee with which to make repairs in the County buildings.

Messrs. Nicol and Fraser, moved the adoption of the report. Carried.

THE INDEBTEDNESS OF PALMERSTON.

Messrs. Thompson and Gordon moved that the Finance Committee consider the advisability of reconsidering the indebtedness of the town of Palmerston to the County of Perth, and that the said debt be assumed by this County, provided it does not exceed the sum of $700, and that the committee report this session. Lost.

ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE.

Mr. Sweetnam, chairman, presented a report announcing that the Committee had received and revised the assessment rolls of the various municipalities in the county, and submitted a schedule with the report, which was adopted as the revised assessment of 1880. The schedule showed that the rate per acre is the same as last year, but the acreage of the county has been so increased that the total assessment amounts to $18,836,803, or $155,607 more than last year.

Messrs. Sweetnam and Nicol moved the adoption of the report.—Carried.

ASSESSMENT BY-LAWS.

The By-law providing for the assessment of the various municipalities in the county, to raise a sum equivalent to the Government grant to the Public Schools, was read a third time and passed.

A By-law providing for the borrowing of money from the Ontario Bank at 7 per cent., in advance of assessment, was introduced.

The Council adjourned at 11.20 a.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 2 p. m.

Messrs. Sweetnam and Brisbin, moved that a by-law be introduced for the purpose of fixing County rates for 1880. The by-law was read a second time.

A verbal motion to the effect that the opinion of the County Solicitor, as to the claims of ex-Inspectors McCaig and Somerville, was carried.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Leslie, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported, recommending that the following accounts be paid:—Innes & Davidson, printing, $20.50; T. J. Day, stationery, $20.65; T. J. Day, stationery, $1.75; John Anderson, registrar, $272,55; Mrs. Lingwood, $19; E. J. O'Callaghan, printing, $5; Herald Printing Company, $137. The report also recommended that no grant be given to the 30th or Artillery bands. That no grant be given to any agricultural association. That the usual grant to the rifle volunteers and Artillerymen be given.

That all charges and supplies for which the County is liable in respect of the registry offices, be made through the Warden.

Messrs. Scott and Gordon, moved in amendment that $200 each be given to the South Wellington Agricultural Association, the Centre Association and the Agricultural Association of Dufferin.

The amendment was lost on the following division:—

Yeas—Bennett, Broadfoot, Cross, Fraser, Gillespie, Gordon, Green, Hampton, Henderson, Johnston, Stewart, Temple, Sweetnam, Scott, Thompson, Waters, Wissler—17.

[redacted]

Nays—Anderson, Armstrong, Brisbin, Brown, Boyle, Burt, GreenArmitage, Harcourt, Luxton, Leslie, Long, McDermott, McMillan, McLuhan, McMullen, Marshall, Nicoll, Ogden, Rea, Reid, Ross—21.

Moved by Messrs. Godfrey and Wissler that the report be amended by allowing the usual grant to the Battalion Band.

The motion was lost, Mr. Wisler alone voting for it.

The report was then adopted.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Mr. Rea, chairman of the Roads and Bridge Committee, reported as follows:—

Your Committee would recommend that no grants be made to repair roads this season.

On motion of Messrs. Rea and Watson, the report was adopted, only six members voting against it.

Messrs. Sweetnam and Armstrong moved that the Corporation of the City of Guelph, or the Union Cemetery Committee, be allowed to plant shade trees along the county road from the City of Guelph to the Union Cemetery, and that they be allowed the same protection as the statute extends to private individuals or to corporations planting within their own limits. —Carried.

Council adjourned at 4 p.m.

SATURDAY, June 5.

Messrs. Ogden and Long moved that the rule be suspended to allow the Assessment Committee to reconsider their report recommending a raise of over $70,000 in the assessment in the Township of Maryborough for 1880.

Mr. Ogden said that he noticed by the schedule it appeared there was an increase of acreage, whereas there was no such increase, and the rate was high in any case.

Mr. Sweetnam said the report was based on the returns of their own assessor, and he believed it was correct.

The motion was then put and lost.

Messrs. Leslie and Nicol moved that a by-law be introduced and read a first time, to provide for levying taxes to meet liabilities and expenditure for the current year. Carried.

The by-law was read a first time. It provides for raising the sum of $67,262.59 at the rate of 3⅜ mills in the dollar.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

Mr. Allan, chairman of the Education Committee, submitted a report recommending that the Warden, Mr. Rae, and Mr. Allan, be appointed to act with the Judge and Local Inspector to investigate the matter complained of in petitions from certain ratepayers in Maryborough. That the following accounts be paid:—J. A. Nelles, $8.80; Robertson & Dewar, $1.50; D. P. Clapp, postage, $17.06; Innes & Davidson, $9; D. P. Clapp, Board of Examiners, $11.25. That Mr. McCaig be paid $300 as salary as Public School Inspector. That $200 be granted to Mount Forest High School and $300 to Harriston High School. Adopted.

Messrs. Luxton and Boyle moved in amendment that the report be referred back to the Committee to strike out the clause recommending grants to the High Schools at Mount Forest and Harriston.

The amendment was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Robert S. Armstrong, David Brown, Joel Boyle, George Bennett, John Broadfoot, J. W. Burt, James Cross, John Gillespie, Robert Gordon, John Harcourt, John C. Johnston, William Luxton, Wm. Long, William McDermott, Charles McMillan, Thomas Marshall, William Nicoll, John Ogden, John Rea, Robert H. Reid, James Ross, Matthew Sweetnam, Robert Scott, William Thompson, Thomas Waters, John R. Wissler—Total, 26.

Nays—A. S. Allan, M. Anderson, Leonard Brisbin, Alex Fraser, J. W. Green-Armitage, John Godfrey, John Green, Josiah Hampton, Robert Henderson, Wm. Leslie, James McLuhan, James McMullen, F. C. Stewart, Andrew Semple.—Total, 14.

Messrs. McMullen and Brisbin moved that the report be referred back with instructions to amend the report by allowing Harriaton High School $150 and Mount Forest High School $100.

The amendment was carried by the casting vote of the Warden.

The report as amended was adopted.

Messrs. Ogden and Johnston moved that the village of Drayton be given a grant of $100 as an equivalent to expenditure on gravel roads, there being no gravel roads in that municipality. Lost.

On motion of Messrs. Leslie and Nicol the by-law providing for raising funds by assessment was read a third time and passed.

Messrs. Rea and McMullen moved that the Solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law to transfer the gravel roads now maintained by the County, to the several municipalities through which they extend, the by-law to be submitted at the December session. Lost.

On motion of Messrs. McMillan and Burt, the by-law providing for the establishment of a monthly fair at Erin was read a third time and passed.

On motion of Messrs. Sweetnam and Nicol, the by-law confirming the assessment of the county for 1880 was read a third time and passed.

Mr. McMullen, chairman of the special committee, to whom was referred the communication of the Peterboro County Council regarding the reduction of the number of members of County Councils, reported recommending that no action be taken, as they believe that by such a reduction the rights of some of the municipalities would be endangered.

On motion of Messrs. McMullen and Leslie, the report was adopted.

Messrs. Thompson and Jackson moved that the Finance Committee consider the advisability of the County assuming the debt of Palmerston providing it does not exceed $700. Lost.

The Council adjourned at 10.30 a.m. to meet again on the first Tuesday in Dec.

SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 5, 1880

The Chicago Convention.

On Friday little was done beyond getting things into shape. The tactics of Conkling, Cameron, and Logan from the opening of the Convention have been ill-advised, and seem to render it certain that whatever may be the result as to Blaine, there is no possibility of the nomination of Grant. Conkling's resolution pledging the delegates to the support of the candidate of the Convention was received with ridicule, and when he insisted on having the roll called the laugh was general. He then withdrew it. After midnight the Convention took to a fit of cheering for Blaine, and kept it up till the members' throats were sore. It finally adjourned at a quarter past two this (Saturday) morning.

The attendance at the Convention during Friday was simply immense, over 10,000 persons having been present. The Convention was attended during the morning session by Prince Leopold and his suite, who were introduced to Governor Robinson, of New York, and Lieut.-General Phil. Sheridan and others, and watched the proceedings during the morning session with great interest.

Export of Cattle from Guelph.

According to the returns of the Grand Trunk, the export of cattle from Guelph station for the month of May, footed up to the handsome figure of 1,550. These were all shipped for Montreal, for export to Liverpool. The estimated shipments of cattle by the Great Western during the same month are 900, although we cannot give the exact figures, owing to some stupid order of the General Manager forbidding agents to make public their returns. We are safe, however, in giving the number shipped over that road at 900, which makes the total shipments during the month of May over both roads from this port, 2,450 head of cattle for the Liverpool market. We are safe in saying that this is the largest shipment of cattle from any one port in Ontario in the same time for the English market. The returns from Toronto foot up much higher, but they are the accumulated gatherings from all parts of the Province, whereas the returns for Guelph show the actual number which were brought in here on foot for shipment, and within a radius of say fourteen miles. All the stations on the railways north and south of this city are now shipping points for cattle sold, so that we receive scarcely any from these places. Our shipments, therefore, are simply the product of the immediate district surrounding the city, and the exhibit shows that in stock raising and feeding cattle, the Guelph district take the lead, and is far ahead of all competitors.

The Brown Memorial.

A meeting of a number of those who are desirous of taking steps to obtain contributions in the South Riding of Wellington towards the proposed memorial statue to the late George Brown, was held last night in the Wellington Hotel. Several members of the County Council were also present. There was a unanimous expression of opinion in favor of getting up contributions at once, and it was arranged that collection-books should be sent for and distributed among those in the different municipalities in the Riding who are willing to act as collectors. We feel sure that a hearty response will be made by hundreds in the Riding, and that a handsome sum will be collected in South Wellington, not only from those who were in sympathy with the deceased statesman politically, but from many who were politically opposed to him all his life. As an evidence of the favor with which the scheme is looked upon by men of all parties, we need only quote a portion of Sir Charles Tupper's speech at Peterboro' on Thursday, on the occasion of his and the Hon. Mr. Bowell's visit there in connection with the Trent Valley Canal project. Sir Charles said:—

"He had no hesitation, in the presence of a large number of gentlemen who sympathized with him and his party proclivities, in saying that there was no public man in Canada whose loss would be more generally deplored than was the loss of the Hon. George Brown to-day. He (Sir Charles) differed from him in many important respects on political questions, but the fact of his having occupied one of the formest public positions in his party, the fact that he had attained high standing as a journalist and a Parliamentarian, the fact that his name would be long honored as that of one of Canada's foremost men, made him (Sir Charles) feel, and, indeed, should make all feel in the presence of so awful and melancholy an event, that party and political questions might well be hushed for the hour. He (Sir Charles) need not say that the Hon. George Brown placed the whole of this country, and his party, too, under a deep debt of gratitude for his sacrifice in forgetting party and personal interest in a great emergency, and combining with his opponents for the purpose of carrying to success the greatest question that had ever been submitted to the people of Canada—that of Confederation. Had the patriotism of that hon. gentleman not risen to the height it did, had he not sunk personal interest, the people of this country could not to-day proudly boast that Canada was equal to any emergency. Nor would he (Sir Chas.) ever forget that during the week he had the pleasure and honor of sitting by his side in the conference at Quebec, where were laid, deep and broad the foundations of this Dominion, that hon. gentleman brought to the discussion on that occasion a mind stored with information, and an ability to deal with every question that presented itself in a broad, statesmanlike, and patriotic manner. He need only say that no man in this country rejoiced more than he did that it had been resolved that a statue should be erected to perpetuate the deceased gentleman's memory for all time to come. No person could join more heartily in that undertakidg than he (Sir Charles) would. No person would be more ready to give his contribution towards furthering it than he. (Applause.)

Women never think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their famlies in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

May Song for Students.

German air—"Whal auf noch getrunken, &c).

Come rouse thee, look brightly,
Thou foolish young man!
Take life's labor lightly,
'Tis the only wise plan!
The west wind is wooing the fresh green-tipt grove,
And the lark's wing doth winnow the blue fields above.
Sing tra-ri-ra, sing tra-ri-ra for the merry, merry, merry May.
Sing tra-ri-ra, sing tra-ri-ra, for the merry, merry, merry May.

Those old heathen sages,
Whom closely ye scan,
They teach in their pages
No dim-groping plan;
From nature's fresh flowerage their honey they stored,
From Life's sparkling fountains their wisdom they poured!
Sing, &c.

Why seek, darkly mining
In thought's gloomy well,
For truths brightly shining
From field and from fell;
Look forth and behold Beauty's banner unfurled,
In the fair-flitting scenes of God's may-hued world!
Sing, &c.

Have done with this fooling;
Brush cobwebs away,
Your books and your schooling
Be meagre and grey!
More sweet the live lore of the winds and the waves
Than the dead learning carved on the wisest of graves!
Sing, &c.

Then, rouse thee, look brightly,
Thou foolish young man!
Sweet thoughts that move lightly
Will lengthen thy span;
By the deep-rolling flood in the sweet-warbling grove,
With the thrill of the lark through the blue fields above.
Sing tra-ri-ra, sing tra-ri-ra, for the merry, merry, merry May.
Sing tra-ri-ra, sing tra-ri-ra, for the merry, merry, merry May.

Building Lots for Sale.

THE UNDERSIGNED IS PREPARED to receive offers for the purchase of the following valuable Building Lots situate in the city of Guelph, viz:—

OWEN MACDONALD'S SURVEY.

Lot 23, Eramosa Road, on which is a large three story workshop, the first of stone and the others of frame. A steam engine and boiler is connected therewith, presenting a favorable opportunity for manufacturers.
Lots 24 and 25 on Stewart Street, and 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, on Elizabeth Street, adjoining the first named.
Lots 100, 101, 102 and 103, on Metcalf Street.
A Block of 7¼ acres fronting on Metcalf and Lemon Streets.

EMSLIE'S SURVEY.

Lot 32 corner of Fleet and Emslie Streets; a well cultivated garden, with stable and stone piggery thereon.

OLIVER'S SURVEY.

Lot 34, fronting on Emslie and Bristol Streets with stable thereon.
Lot 56 on Webster street, and the rear half of lot 5, on Waterloo Avenue.

The foregoing properties will be sold at low prices, to close up the estate.

Leaving Town--Bound for the West, the Great North-west.
$45,000 worth of Dry Goods and Groceries to be disposed of in Six Weeks. Sale to commence on Saturday, the 1st May.
M R. G. B. FRASER
G. B. FRASER, Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

The Duke's House.

I was born in an old chartered and very picturesque town in a Western county, in whose vicinty stood an ancient ducal palace, which had not been occupied for many a long year; and like other buildings left to decay, it had the reputation of being haunted. There certainly were strange sights and sounds to be seen and heard by those who were near the place at dusk and after dark; but it was never looked into. The uneducated were too superstitious and frightened; the better class were too busy or too indolent; and we had no rural police in those days to trace out the causes. It was a great pity for such a fine Elizabethan structure to fall to ruins. I remember it as a streng and beautiful mansion, with it lawns and terrace-gardens, and as many windows as there are days in the year. This I doubted when a child, and often got the nurse girl to walk round the house to count them with me; but we never attained our object; for if the sun got overclouded, she would be sure to see a ghost at some gloomy window, and rush off, leaving me, terrified, to follow. The old residents had died out, the title having become extinct; and around it were sprung up mills and factories, which prevented the aristocracy from living in it. The mill-owners, too, preferred being further away from their counting-houses and smokey chimneys. Besides, it must have been a very rich man who could put it in decorative repair, and keep up such an establishment. In those days our merchant-princes were content with very modest dwellings, such as many a middle-class man nowadays would deem it derogatory to live in. I am writing of a slow and sure age; we are now living in a fast and reckless one.

But to my story. I had attained an age when ghosts or hobgoblins or such-like rubbish did not terrify or trouble me. I was a married man, the father of several children, when a cousin came to visit us, who was highly delighted with our pretty town; and knowing her to be very clever with her pencil, I asked her to paint me one or two of the scenes in the neighborhood. This she willingly consented to do, and we sallied forth to fix on what should be her first picture. She thought the view from the Duke's House—as it was called—would be the best. I told her she dared not trust herself in there, for it had been uninhabited for the last century, and was haunted. She laughed and said she did not believe in ghosts; she was not so much frightened at the dead in solitary places, as at the living; and her curiosity being excited, she wanted to explore the old building. So, whilst she went for her easel and materials, I got the keys from an old man who lived in the old courtyard of the ducal residence.

We walked through the rooms, admiring their old grandeur, the lofty marble columns, standing on marble hearths each side of the fireplaces, supporting the groined ceilings, with coats of arms and other devices carved in marble between them. The tapestry round the walls smelled mouldy, but it was in a wonderful state of preservation, and no worse than when a boy, twenty years before, I had tied the ladies who worked so hard to cover their rough stone walls. My cousin selected a room for her first sketch, and as I was leaving, I advised her to lock the door after me, to guard against intrusion; but she objected to this, saying she never locked herself in any room for fear of sudden illness; but if I would lock the door on the outside, and call for her as I came from the bank, she would be much happier to know she was secure from interruption. After some hesitation, I consented to do this, and with the key in my pocket went to business.

It was just closing time, and I was locked up the strong-room, when the manager drew my attention to a matter which involved a protracted search of papers—a search, however, which happily proved successful. All other thoughts having been driven from my head by this unwonted piece of business, I reached home, and as I mechanically took out my latch-key and went into the house, still in a reverie, I was met by my wife, who asked why I was so late for dinner, and where Mary was.

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

The Farmer's Advocate says:—"We are pleased to note that our Canadian salt must be better appreciated than it has been, not only for dairy and stock and land purposes, but for preserving our fencing and building timber. It may not pay to use it for all common fences, but where we set good solid post gates, wire fencing or building timber, we have no longer doubt of its utility. We heard it had been tested by applying it at the base of telegraph poles, and on inquiring of the person who applied it, he informed us that seven years ago he set telegraph poles with and without salt. On examination this year he found those that were set without salt were now decaying two nches in the wood, while those that had salt applied to them were just as sound as the day they were put in.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

Souvenir Hunters Gone Crazy.

That the fools are not all dead may be seen by the following account of the scramble made by some Londoners to obtain the debris of the eatables and drinkables left over from the dinner partaken of by Prince Leopold, the Princess and party at London on Thursday evening on their way for the west. We copy from the Advertiser:—

"After the party had gone a rush was made to the dining room, and the place where the Royal guests had a few moments previously been engaged taking dinner with all the solemnity usual on such occasions, became the scene of some most ludicrous incidents. A knot of prominent gentlemen were engaged in viewing at a respectable distance the relics of the repast. Observing a glass half full of wine one of them inquired of a waiter who had occupied that seat, and he replied, 'The Princess Louise." All respect for loyalty faded before the enthusiasm created by this reply. There was brilliant opportunity of taking wine with the Princess and all three made a grab for the glass. After a prolonged struggle is was agreed each one was to have a 'sup,' and thus devide the honors, and the dregs of the glass were drained by the enthusiastic gentlemen, who will no doubt relate to their posterity with an air of self-satisfaction that they once had the honor to drink wine with the Princess Louise.

"Whilst this was going on at one end of the table a lady at the other end was nearly choking herself with a piece of bread about an inch and a half square, which she had been informed was the remnant of the roll from which the Princess had eaten. Others grabbed 'Bills of Fare' and every other article, even to the rind of an orange and nutshells, which could be in any way connected with the visit. All were gathered up, and many were the struggles between ladies for the possession of a flower or bouquet.

The two girls of fourteen years who eloped on Tuesday from Ottawa with a sixteen year old Lothario, whose name is Willmot, were brought back to that city on Friday by one of their male parents. There was only one boy who eloped with the girls, and not two as previously stated. The three were found at Utica, N. Y. The father of the girls gave the boy a good spanking and then left him there.

The Rev. Principal Cairns, of the United Presbyterian College, Edinburgh, who is now on a visit to America, reached Toronto on Friday.

"I Don't want that stuff,"

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results, that she continued its use until cured, and made so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.

HOME EVIDENCE IN FAVOR
—OF THE—
PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 1.

If you wish to save yourself, your family, and your friends a world of suffering and pain, which at present they endure needlessly, and also save many dollars in Doctor's bills, go at once to the nearest store, and buy a few bottles of PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 2.

Ask your Druggist, Grocer or Shopkeeper, for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER. If he passes it down without ceremony, ask him while extracting the quarter dollar from your wallet, if this is the genuine made by PERRY DAVIS & SON, at same time watch the expression on his face. You can easily tell if his conscience is all right; also examine the bottle closely yourself.

Hint No. 3.

When you ask for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER, and the gentlemanly store-keeper, without scarcely looking, remarks, "we "are just out, but have another "article as good or better, "which sells for the same price "viz, 25 cents." Turn on your heel and say, Good-bye, Sir! That man cares more for the two or three cents extra profit which he gets than he does for your health or happiness.

Hint No. 4.

Beware of all the worthless mixtures, and dirty, greasy combinations which are offered you in almost every store you enter, and which some unprincipled shop-keepers try to palm off as a substitute for the PAIN-KILLER. These mixtures are gotten up expressly to sell on the reputation of the PAIN-KILLER, but have nothing in common with it.

Hint No. 5.

If you cannot obtain the genuine PAIN-KILLER in your locality, (a fact not very likely), you should address the Proprietors, and by sending them the sum of $3.00, one dozen regular sized bottles, or a half dozen large bottles will be sent, charges prepaid, to the nearest address by railway to any part of the Dominion.

WHY experiment with unknown mixtures without character or reputation, when this world-renowned PAIN-KILLER which has stood the test of over 40 years, can be had for the same price at any Drug Store in the Dominion?

READ THE FOLLOWING.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 2, 1880.

The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last 22 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhœa, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

Yours, H. F. MACCARTHY.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purposes for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, ONT., February 26, 1880.

We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis' Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, during which time it has taken the lead in sales over all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade.

Yours truly, W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send no end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excelsior Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being out of it.

Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

STOCO, ONT., February 17, 1880.

We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies in the market—some bearing nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. We have been selling Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.

Yours truly P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, ONT., March 9, 1880.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justly entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable: being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, chiefly as a liniment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and pains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptation, and send you this certificate that you may assure the public that it is no humbug.

Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

ESCOTT, ONT., March 4, 1880.

We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a resort in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by cold.

JEREMIAH CURTIN;
J. J. DOWSLEY,
JOSEPH P. REDMOND.
ARCH. GREER.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 25, 1880.

I have used your Pain-Killer for the last twenty years. I carried it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have been dead long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours very truly, N. W. LAFONTAINE.

PORTLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have sold the Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.

S. S. SCOVIL.

PRESCOTT, ONT., February 27, 1880.

I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations. Yours, &c.

GEO. BIRKS.

COBOURG, ONT., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry-Davis' Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

Your Pain-Killer as a family cure all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."

Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TAMWORTH, ONT., March 4, 1880.

For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have frequently used it in my family, and received great benefit from the use of it in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are pushed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis' Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular domestic medicine.

Yours respectfully,
JAS. AYLSWORTH.

The PAIN-KILLER

Is recommended by Physicians, Ministers, Missionaries, Managers of Factories, Work-shops, Plantations, Nurses in Hospitals,—in short, everybody everywhere who has ever given it a trial.

TAKEN INTERNALLY, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowel Complaint, Painter's Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat, Coughs, &c.

USED EXTERNALLY, it cures Boils, Felons, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost-bitten Feet, &c.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

Half a dozen duels have been fought within the last three days between French politicians and journalists. So far nobody has been killed.

Burglary in Trenton.

TRENTON, Ont., June 7.—On Sunday morning early the store of Messrs. Miller Bros. was broken into by burglars, who blew open the safe and took from it about $250 in cash, some $1,500 in notes, part of which was found during the day under the sidewalk.

THE LONDON CAMP.

Brigade Orders from Headquarters.

Lieut.-Col. Taylor, D. A. A. G., has issued the following orders:—

Military District No. 1.
Headquarters London, 2nd June, 1880.

District Orders.

1. In accordance with general orders of the 5th May, 1880, the following corps from this district have been detailed to perform annual drill for 1880-81, viz.:

The Moorstown and Kingsville Troops of Cavalry.

The London, Wellington, and Ontario Batteries of Field Artillery.

The 7th, 26th, 28th, 29th, 30th and 33rd Battalions, and the Leamington and Windsor independent companies.

2. Regulations giving details for performance of this annual drill published in general order, dated Ottawa, 5th May, 1880. Any captain, staff officer or field officer who has not received a copy of those regulations will notify the Brigade Major at once and will then be sent a copy.

3. In accordance with the permission given in the general orders quoted a brigade camp will assemble on Thursday, 24th of June, and will leave on Friday, 2nd July.

4. The following corps will assemble at this Brigade Camp, viz.:—London Field Battery, 26th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 33rd Battalions, and Leamington Infantry Company.

5. 25 cents per day for the above 9 days will be given by the Government to each officer, non-commissioned officer and man attending camp to pay for rations, which will therefore have to be provided by commanding officers out of the above allowance.

6. One blanket per man, and tents will be provided in London.

7. Commanding officers of battalions and corps will send requisition without delay to the Brigade Major for the usual allowance of tents and blankets.

8. Each commanding officer of battalion will arrange for the supply of rations to his own corps, and will be paid the Government allowance of 25 cents per officer and man for it, and it is suggested that a committee composed of the commanding officer, the quartermaster and one or two other officers be appointed by the commanding officer to carry out the details of rationing the corps; also, by communicating with the other battalions going to camp, both bread and meat can be obtained much cheaper by getting one man to tender for supplying the five battalions than by separate tenders.

9. An allowance for transport will be paid to corps attending Brigade Camp for a distance not exceeding 75 miles to London, and the same returning home, on the same conditions and rates per mile as laid down in par. 5, General Orders, 5th May last. This same will be paid commanding officers of battalions or captains of companies at the end of the camp according as arrangements are made by commanding officers with the different railway agents for payment of transport; agreements for transport and payment thereof, if signed by the railway agent, and the officers commanding will be duly paid up to the limit allowed by Government on presentation to the district paymaster at the end of the camp.

10. Further orders for detail of brigade camp will be issued.

11. Corps not ordered for brigade camp, but who are ordered to drill this year, will drill at their local headquarters.

The Woodstock water works by-law was carried by a majority of 182 last week.

Local News.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, GALT—The contract for this building has been finally let to Messrs. Stevens & Sons of this city.

THE schooner Guelph, formerly owned by Messrs. Taylor and Lemon, met with an accident at Fairport, sustaining such damage that she sank in 17 feet of water. The schooner was laden with iron ore for Chicago.

IN LONDON.—Among the names of Canadian visitors registered at the offices of the Canadian Government during the two weeks ending 20th May are:—Hon. Oliver Mowat, Toronto; H. T. Howell, Galt; George Randall, Waterloo; Wm. Bull, Wiarton.

THE COMING TWELFTH.—The coming 12th of July celebration will be the largest that has ever been seen in Hamilton. The Great Western Railway Company have received a guarantee that the Toronto contingent will number not less than five thousand persons.

SALE OF LOTS.—We direct attention to the sale of lots in Mitchell's survey tomorrow afternoon by Messrs. Knowles & Sons. Parties wishing desirable building lots would do well to attend this sale, as it is the determination of the owners to sell them for what they will bring. So bargains may be expected.

A PLEASANT VISIT.—The Galt Reporter says: A number of the members of the West Dumfries Grange Societies paid a visit on Wednesday last to the Model Farm at Guelph. The party numbered about forty altogether, several ladies being of the number. A very pleasant day was spent, the officials at the Farm showing the company every attention, and thoroughly explaining the various experiments being made. Our Dumfries friends returned with a very favourable opinion of the Farm, and of the good it is calculated to do.

GOLD MEDAL FOR EXPORT CATTLE.—Mr. James Britton, of Toronto, intends offering a gold medal valued at $100 at the next Industrial Exhibition in that city, for the best four head of Durham grade cattle, suitable for exportation. The animals must have been bred and fed by the exhibitor. There will doubtless be considerable competition for this valuable prize of Mr. Britton's, who has always manifested a deal of interest in, and done much, to promote the welfare of the live stock trade between this country and the Mother Land. Will not some one of our noted stock breeders in Wellington go in for the prize?

MILITIA APPOINTMENTS.—30th Wellington Battalion of Rifles, No. 7 Company, Erin—To be 2nd lieutenant, provisionally, William Conboy, vice McRae, resigned. Regimental Division of South Riding of Wellington—To be lieutenant-colonel, Major William Leslie, vice T. Saunders, deceased. To be majors, Captain Thos. Ellis, from No. 5 Company Division, vice G. J. Grange, deceased; Captain Charles Davidson, from No. 2 Company Division, vice Leslie promoted. The Goderich Battery of Garrison Artillery is changed into an infantry company, and reverts to the 33rd battalion as No. 1 Company, the same number as it previously had.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.—The bills and programmes for the Caledonian games here on Dominion Day are now published, and the prizes are as large as were ever offered by the Society, amounting in all to nearly $300. The gathering will take place on the exhibition grounds, and there is every reason to believe that it will be as large and successful as any previously held. A feature in the programme will be a grand tug of war between teams of six men from each municipality in the county. The Society will proceed from their rooms to the grounds in the forenoon headed by the pipers in full Highland costume. The celebration will conclude with a concert in the evening, at which the pipers and dancers will take part.

RIFLE MATCHES. — The sixth annual prize meeting of the Western District Rifle Association will be held at St. Thomas on Dominion Day. The matches will be open to all residents of No. 1 military district who are also members of the association. The membership fee is $1. There are to be four matches. First, all comers—ranges 200 and 500 yards, $155 in prizes. Second, volunteer's match—ranges 500 and 600 yards; $135 in prizes. Third, affiliated—three prizes for the highest aggregate scores by previously named members of any affiliated association; $177 in prizes. Fourth, St. Thomas match $125 in prizes. Aggregate prizes amounting to $33 including the Ontario Rifle Association badge will also be given. Return tickets will be issued at one and a third fare from all points.

CANADIAN MONTHLY.—The May number of this excellent magazine has been received. It comes as usual well supplied with good reading matter. The contents are as follows:—Canadian Life in the Country Fifty years ago; Mary Secord—a Canadian ballad of 1813; Some Difficulties of Agnosticism, The Mohammedan Princess, The Light of Asia, The Literature of Education in Canada, Impatient Buds—a poem, Down South in a Sail-Boat, My Young Wife's Party, Tide-Water, 'Confidences,' June—a poem, Weeds in Water Works, Medical Education, Patience—a poem, How Jessie's Fortune Came True, A Friend—a poem, Morality and Religion again—A word with my Critics, The Child Musician, The Late Hon. George Brown, Round the Table, Book Reviews—Mr. Goldwin Smith's Cowper—The Seamy Side—Lyrics, Songs and Sonnets, Music and Drama. Copies may be obtained from the publishers, Hunter, Rose & Co., Toronto, or at the bookstores here.

THE City Council meets to-night.

A STATEMENT of the equalized assessment of the County will be found on the fourth page.

A COUPLE of citizens were served with summons to-day, to answer at Police Court for allowing cattle to run at large.

THE Property Committee of the School Board are out on a tour of inspection this afternoon. They intend visiting all the schools.

THE wind carried a sign into Wyndham street from the top of McBean's hardware store yesterday, damaging it somewhat.

A NEW plank sidewalk, twelve feet wide, is being placed on the west side of Wyndham street below Macdonnell street.

WITHDRAWN.—The Osborn property was put up at auction to-day, but the price offered was considered too low, and it consequently was not sold.

A team of horses belonging to the Great Western Railway became unmanageable to-day, and hauled the dray to which they were attached against the lamp post opposite Day's bookstore, smashing the glass of the lamp and bending the post.

THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY.—Communion services were observed in the Presbyterian Churches yesterday. In the evening Rev. Dr. Wardrope, of Chalmers' Church, and Rev. Mr. McGregor, of the Norfolk street Congregational Church, exchanged pulpits.

GREENBACKERS FOR CHICAGO.—At ten o'clock on Sunday evening a special train of seven passenger and three baggage cars passed through the city on the Grand Trunk Railway en route for Chicago. There were on board four hundred Greenbackers from the Eastern States on their way to Chicago to attend the Greenback-Labor Convention.

B. M. E. CHURCH. — The B. M. E. Church give a broom walk in the Drill Shed this evening for the purpose of raising funds to assist in erecting a new church. The enterprize of the congregation is worthy of support, and as a more enjoyable time is anticipated than on the last occasion of the kind, it is to be hoped there will be a good attendance.

FOR GERMANY.—Mr. Louis Zimmer, who for some years has been lying on the market here, leaves to-day (Monday) on a visit to the Fatherland. He intends taking a number of models of Agricultural implements &c., with him, to show the German people the advanced ideas of Canadians in regard to labour saving by means of improved machinery.

AFTER the hose had been laid across the G. T. Railway track to the fire last night they had to be detached to allow a freight train to pass, and thus considerable time was lost in getting to work at the fire. It might be found a good idea to form drains for the hose under the rails opposite the hydrants. When the hose were placed below the track the men could work without interruption by trains.

THE ARTHUR JUNCTION RAILWAY.—The case of Langdon vs. the Township of Arthur, instituted to compel the Township Council to ratify the sectional bonus by-law for $10.000 in aid of the Arthur Junction Railway, came up before the full court at Toronto on Wednesday last, on an appeal from the decision of Judge Osler refusing to compel the ratification of the by-law. The Court sustained Judge Osler and dismissed the appeal. This will end the matter so far as this by-law is concerned.

DEATH OF AN ALLEGED CORPORATION CHILD.—Mrs. Charters this forenoon applied to the Mayor, asking the city to bury a baby she had been nursing. A few weeks ago this woman petitioned the Council to give her an allowance for three babies she had in charge. The Relief Committee, to whom the matter was referred, refused to allow her anything, the chairman stating that she made her living by baby farming and the city had no right to assist her in that practice. She afterwards applied for passes to Toronto, whither she went and disposed of two of the children, but returned with the one which died yesterday. The question of burying the child will be brought before the Council to-night.

ROWDYISM.—A number of young men make a practice of congregating on Sunday evening at the corner of Waterloo Avenue and Glasgow street, and insulting pedestrians. Last night some of these characters were stationed at that place about the time people were returning from church and acted in their usual, disorderly way. The language they made use of was most indecent, and in some instances, ladies in order to evade hearing it were obliged to take the middle of the road. Street corner loafers are an abomination to the public, and the sooner they are done away with the better for all respectable citizens. There is a law to prevent persons lounging about highways, and it is the duty of the police to see that it is ridgedly enforced.

The month of June will be of special interest to those who are fond of star-gazing, because it will bring once more into favorable positions for observation the great planets, Jupiter and Saturn. Jupiter now rises at about half-past one o'clock in the morning, and Saturn half an hour later. Near the end of the month both will rise at about midnight. All through the summer and fall these planets will shine close together, growing more brilliant every week until, in October, the earth gets between them and the sun. Then Jupiter will shine with extraordinary splendor, and both will present opportunities for telescope inspection such as have not been enjoyed before in several years. Mercury will be an evening star during June, passing the sun on its journey into the western sky.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES. — Decreasing southwesterly to northwesterly winds; partly cloudly to clear weather.

THE oil-cloth coats belonging to Fire Brigade are being numbered and marked "G. F. B." so that if any are lost they may be identified.

RUNAWAY.—A team of horses, attached to a milk waggon, belonging to D. M. Barclay, ran away on Waterloo avenue this forenoon. The milk can was thrown out and the waggon badly smashed before the horses could be stopped.

HORSE RACING.—The trotting horse "Tom Sullivan," owned by H. M. Anderson, Guelph, and the horse "Beautiful Jim," owned by Charles Kenny, Kincardine, have been matched to race at Goderich on the 24th of June. The race will be for $200 a side and will be decided in three heats out five.

THE DONNELLY MEMORIAL.—Patrick Donnelly says the monument to be erected to the memory of the murdered family will have a life-sized statue of his brother, having a pair of handcuffs on. The height of the monument, including statue, will be close on eighteen feet. On the base is to be inscribed, "Murdered by Biddulph Vigilance Committee." Donnelly has altered his mind as to settling in Thorold, and accepted a more lucrative situation in Buffalo.

A LONG FAST.—A hen belonging to Mr. A. Meiklejohn, Harriston, was missed about a month ago and could not be found until a few days ago when it was turned out of an empty hogshead. The hen had lived during the time of its imprisonment without either food or water, was scarcely able to walk when discovered, and weighed but half a pound.

THE DOOMED MAN.—The prisoner, Edward DeCoursier, now lying in Toronto gaol, when informed by Revs. J. Langtry and W. S. Rainsford that the Minister of Justice refused to commute his death sentence, preserved his usual stolid demeanor as far as conversation is concerned. He seemed even more depressed when the unwelcome tidings were borne to him, as he fully expected that the largely signed petition would have proved effectual. He will be hanged on the 16th inst.

SERIOUS STABBING AFFRAY IN TORONTO.—What may yet turn out to be a case of murder, occurred in a negro house of ill-fame on Richmond street, Toronto, on Saturday night. The victim of the affray was Charles Addison, son of the well-known coloured hackman, and his assailant was another coloured youth, Lewis Cornish by name, who has been arrested along with a companion named Charles Russell, who is supposed to have had a hand in the deed. Addison was stabbed in the chest, the weapon penetrating as far as the lung, and at a late hour on Sunday night he was very low, his life being despaired of.

A SERIOUS DISCLOSURE.—The Chatham Tribune says: Saturday last Chief Baxter received an anonymous letter through the post, stating that a girl by the name of Eliza See, a servant at a King street east residence, was guilty of abortion. Policeman Field was at once charged with the investigation. He found the girl and arrested her; she was placed in the lock-up, where she confessed to having given birth to a child about a month ago. She also stated that it was still born, and that she had buried it in a water closet at her sister's residence. On Wednesday men were employed to search for the child, and found it as indicated by the girl.

LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW.—We have received the April number of this Review. Being the organ of the Conservative party, its publication was delayed till the result of the recent elections in England was ascertained, that the political article which usually concludes each number might be framed in accordance with the event. The leading article on "David Hume," gives a brief sketch of that philosopher's life and character, and enters with some minuteness into his theory of morals and philosophy of religion. "The Book of Common Prayer" has for its subject the Convocation Prayer Book, which exhibits the alterations proposed in conformity with the recommendations of the Convocations of Canterbury and York; and the article invites attention to some of the chief characteristics of the present Book of Common Prayer, and some of the conditions under which it has come to be that which it is. In common with all other Reviews, there is a long article on the subject of the Memoirs of Madame de Remusat, with copious extracts from her narrative illustrative of the inner history of the Consulate and Empire, and of the new light thrown upon all the members of the Bonaparte family. An interesting article entitled "The Slavonic Menace to Europe" takes for its text a work recently written by a Russian lady of distinction, entitled "Russia and England, 1875 to 1880," the purpose of which work is to justify Russia and its government, and to show how the conduct of England is looked at in Russia. Much space is devoted to a consideration of the doctrine of Nationality as applied to the Slavs which menaces the destruction of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Dresses at a Queen's Drawing Room.

Many of the dresses were magnificent, and the display of flowers was extraordinary. The Princess of Wales's dress of gold brocade over gold colored satin, was very striking. On seeing the names of two Indian ladies, the Queen expressed a wish that they would appear in their native dress, and accordingly they attracted all eyes in white muslin thickly striped with gold, with a profusion of gold jewelry and gold bands round the head. The Duchess of Westminster wore violet and manve trimmed with gold lace. The Duchess of Cleveland's colored jet trimmings attracted much attention. The Duchess of Manchester appeared in dark brown, of a reddish shade, and her daughter, the Duchess of Hamilton, in a pink satin, trimmed with lace—a brocade train. Lady Knightley's dress was one of the most remarkable, as its train was thickly embroidered with rows of peacock's feathers. Lady Loudoun (presented on her marriage by her sister-in-law the Duchess of Norfolk) wore white brocaded satin, and the same color was worn by another bride, Lady Leighton, presented by her mother, Mrs. Houldsworth, of Coltness. Lady Hastings was presented by Lady Suffield. One lady appeared in a white satin dress with hand painted violets, pansies and lilacs all over it.

Fire on Glasgow Street.

Dwelling House Burned and Narrow Escape of the Occupants.

Between twelve and one o'clock last night the dwelling house, owned and occupied by James Stapleton, on Glasgow street, near the Grand Trunk Railway, was almost completely destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered shortly after twelve o'clock by a son of Mr. Stapleton's who had risen to attend to his mother who was lying ill. The kitchen and back part of the house were at that time filled with smoke and flames. The boy ran outside and called "fire" and P. C. Crooks, who was on duty on Wyndham street, hearing the cries, gave the alarm. Both the reel and engine were taken out but the latter was not required, a plentiful supply of water being obtained from the Water Works. The firemen made very good time, and shortly after the alarm two lays of hoes were attached to the hydrant at the railway crossing. By this time the family had made their escape, but not any too soon. Before they left the house they were almost enveloped in flames. The greater part of the furniture had also been safely removed, though a few articles were burned with the building. A strong wind from the south drove the flames through the building rapidly, but the streams thrown by the firemen did good service in checking their progress. The men worked for about two hours before the fire was finally extinguished, the roof being burned and the house gutted. The loss on the building which was valued at about $900 was almost total. It was insured in the Canada Fire and Marine Insurance Company, for $600. The damage to the furniture was not very great. The furniture was insured for $200 in the same company.

It is not known definitely how the fire originated. It was thought that probably a lamp in one of the young men's rooms had exploded and caused the fire. But this is not likely as the lamp was in the fore part of the house while the flames were first discovered in the rear part. Another supposition is that it originated by some kindling wood taking fire from the kitchen stove. Probably the latter is the proper explanation.

Mrs. Beattie, wife of Mr. Robt. Beattie, Orangeville, died very suddenly Wednesday evening, 2nd inst. She had been up town during the evening doing some shopping, returning home about nine o'clock, when she retired to her own room and fell dead. Apoplexy was the cause.

Twenty-two passenger trains leave Woodstock daily. Eleven on the Great Western, six on the Credit Valley, and five on the Port Dover.

Woodstock, Brantford and Hamilton have formed a circuit for the spring meetings, and $3,000 will be offered in premiums in the coming races to be held at Woodstock, 18th and 19th of June; Brantford, 24th and 26th June; Hamilton 1st and 2nd July.

On Friday, should the Executive not interfere, the sentence of death passed on the Indian, Benjamin Fishcarrier, at Brantford will be fulfilled. Arrangements for the execution are in progress, but the prisoner is full of hope and says the sentence will be commuted yet.

The Wingham water works committee have disposed of the debentures to Mr. Cassels, of Toronto, at the rate of 95½c. The sale of $8,000 worth of debentures thus realizes $7,620, which is considered a good figure for them, as they only bear interest at 6 per cent., payable yearly.

A Duluth despatch says:—The "Zenith City" is on the tip-toe of expectation. A boom has struck here, and she is now looking forward to a brilliant and prosperous future. A new elevator is being built, is to have a capacity of 1,000,000 bushels, and will be the largest west of Chicago and Milwaukee.

Among the militia general orders in the Gazette occurs the following: Staff and regimental officers are requested to study and to instruct their corps in the duties of soldiers as explained in part 3, pages 209 to 124 of the Field Exercise and Evolutions of Infantry of 1877, having special reference to 'the attack in extended order.'

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 7, 1880

The Chicago Convention.

The Convention on Saturday got through all its preliminary work, and made nominations for candidates. The result of the day's work is that there is increased confidence among Grant's forces, which seem to have recovered from the reverses of Friday. It is claimed that Grant will poll two hundred and ninety votes on the first ballot, notwithstanding the unseating of eighteen of his delegates from Illinois, and also from Alabama. Conferences between the Grant and Sherman leaders have been in progress, and it looks possible that an alliance may be made. The Washburne and Edmunds men will also vote for Grant in the event of the first five ballots showing that he retains his original strength. After the party platform had been adopted the following candidates were nominated for the Presidency:—Grant, Blaine, Sherman, Edmunds, Washburne, and Windom.

The voting is taking place to-day with the following result up to the hour of going to press:

CHICAGO, June 7,—Second ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 282, Sherman 94, Wasburn 22, Windom 10, Edmunds 32, Garfield, 1.

3rd ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 282, Sherman, 93, Edmunds 32, Windom 10, Washburn 31, Garfield 1, Harrison 1.

4th ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 281, Sherman 95, Edmunds 32, Windom 10, Washburn 31, Garfield 1.

5th ballot—Same as 4th. No change. Official vote—Grant 304, Blaine 284, Sherman 93, Edmunds 34, Windom 10, Washburn 3.

6th ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 281, Sherman 95, Edmunds 31, Washburn 31, Windom 10.

7th ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 281, Sherman 94, Edmunds 32, Windom 10, Washburn 31, Garfield 1.

9th ballot, Grant 308, Blaine 282, Sherman 90, Windom 10, Edmunds 31, Washburn 32, Garfield 1.

10th ballot, Grant 305, Blaine 282, Sherman 91, Edmunds 30, Windom 10, Washburn 32, Garfield 3, Hayes 1.

11th ballot, Grant 305 Blaine 281, Sherman 92, Edmunds, 31, Washburn 32, Windom 10, Garfield 2, Hayes 1.

MR. THOMAS WHITE, M.P. for Cardwell, addressed his constituents in Orangeville on Saturday, and of course defended the Government policy on every point.

THE annual report of the Directors of the Maritime Bank of St. John, N. B., states that the commercial depression is even greater this year than in 1878 or 1879, and that the bank losses of the year amount to $155,467.

THE Sarnia Observer refers to the startling fact that nearly 60,000 Canadians entered the United States, as settlers, at the single port of Port Huron, during the past eight months.

THE Liberals in Quebec are very hopeful. At the opening of the Reform Club in the city of Quebec, the other evening the Hon. Letellier St. Just made an effective speech, and Mr. Joly spoke with hopefulness of the future of the party.

STRATFORD Beacon:—"It is the adverse balance of trade that is killing us," said the Tories in 1878; "therefore let us diminish our trade with the United States." American statistics just published show, says the Globe, that in the twenty years ending 1878 Canada sold to the United States $656,109,695 worth of produce. In the same time Canada bought $625,996,689 worth of American produce. Balance of trade in favor of Canada, $30,113,006. On their own showing, what a remarkably acute lot of people our protectionists must be!

THE St. Mary's Argus has been forced to acknowledge that Mr. Belch has been scurvily treated by the present Tory Government in his so-called promotion in the Dominion Land Department in the North West. It says:—"We naturally concluded that a change from a secondary position to a superintendency was a promotion. But we see now that such a change is certainly not an advance. We knew that no Conservative Government had any particular liking for our predecessor in the Argus, but we did not believe that they would go so far out of their way to insult or lower a gentleman who is one of the most efficient officials in the Dominion."

THE Foreign Affairs Committee of the American Congress have prepared a report on the Fortune Bay Difficulty, recommending the imposition of duties on fish and fish oil imported from the British Provinces, but authorizing the President to revoke this action whenever a satisfactory arrangement is concluded with the British Government. A minority report recommends the opening of negotiations with the Gladstone Government, and failing to procure redress that the United States may then resort to war or arbitration.

THE revenue of the Dominion for May foots up to $2,218,145. For the ten months up to the 30th of April it was $18,136,663, making a total for the eleven months up to the 31st of May of $20,354,808. Sir Leonard Tilley in his last budget speech gave the revised estimates of receipts from all sources during the present fiscal year as $24,450,000. The revenue from all sources for the eleven months out of the twelve amounts as above to $20,354,808. As the highest monthly revenue is about $2,300,000, it will be seen that under the most favourable circumstances in relation to the present month, Sir Leonard will be out over two millions of dollars in his calculations of the whole year's revenue.

THE Government are superannuating a number of employees on the Welland Canal, and putting in their place nominees of Messrs. Bunting and Rykert.

La Patrie, after establishing the fact that while Ontario has five millions of dollars to her credit, Quebec has fifteen millions to her debt, states that to carry the Quebec debt it would require fifty railway cars, or 1,040 carts, or 12,500 men—allowing 19,000 lbs. for a car to carry, 900 lbs. for a cart, and 75 lbs. for a man on a journey. And this nice little sum has been contracted by the successive Tory Governments.

TWO YEARS ago the motion for the abolition of the Quebec Legislative Council was carried in the Legislative Assembly, but last week it was thrown out by a majority of eight. Among those who went back on their old vote are the members who meanly deserted Mr. Joly in the hour of his trials.

THE British Government has decided that in future a large number of the inspectors of schools shall be appointed from the teaching profession. At present the inspectors are chosen chiefly from University men, who have no acquaintance with the practice of teaching in elementary schools, and who sometimes, as their reports show, cannot write the English language.

WHAT is known as the Eaton Tariff Bill has been passed by a large majority in the United States Senate. The Bill provides for a commission to report on the whole fiscal regulations of the Republic, not later than January next. It is believed that the measure will pass the House of Representatives, and that the Commission which is to be appointed will propose a number of substantial alterations in the tariff.

THE Ottawa Citizen (Tory) is at least candid when it says: "To us it seems just and even that a certain proportion of our people are going, and always will be going to the States, we should do our very best to induce others to come in from England or any other civilized land to fill their places. Would it not be much better for the Government of the country to adopt a policy that would keep the people in the country instead of driving them out as is the case at the present time. Tory papers would not then be driven to use such weak arguments to cover the ill effects of the 'National Policy' that is ruining the people as well as the country."

THE cargo of arms for the Cuban insurgents, which were found on board the Atalaya last week after she left Quebec, was not it seems, shipped at that port. The Montreal Star says: "The cargo had been made up in this city, under our very eyes, but so secretly had the work been done, that it was not till after the vessel had left port, that the fact was discovered. The authorities at Quebec are said to have been notified but appear to have made no effort to detain the vessel containing the contraband cargo on her arrival at that port, and she is no doubt now well on her way to her destination. The members of the Cuban Junta have evidently changed the base of their operations from the United States to our shores, perhaps finding that the officers of Uncle Sam were becoming watchful, and refusing to wink any longer at theirfilibustering tactics." Word has since come that the Governor-General has ordered the cargo to be discharged.

The Handford Scandal.

The Yorkville Story Confirmed.

(From the London Free Press Special.)

TORONTO, June 5.—The utmost excitement prevails here in regard to the recent development in the Handford scandal, and the smothered flames have burst out with renewed fury. The rev. gentleman has confessed his intimacy with the deluded woman, and claims that he was fascinated and infatuated in that quarter. He says that the statement telegraphed to the Free Press is correct, but that he did not embrace the woman or have any intercourse with her. The party who witnessed the transaction is a prominent and well-to-do manufacturer of Yorkville, and he persists in his statements, saying that it is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. He is a gentleman of undoubted veracity, and his word is to be credited. Handford's reputation as a minister is blasted in this country by the recent developments, and even his best friends pronounce him a ruined man. The members of the church committee which recently cleared him are overwhelmed with confusion and despair, and denounce their once beloved pastor in bitter terms.

Mr. Handford is universally denounced, and is to-night without a friend in the city of any note. His former supporters denounce him in the strongest terms for once more covering them with shame and confusion of face. One of his congregation actually wept with shame at the recent scandal.

The affair has caused intense excitement in the city, and is almost the sole topic of conversation. At first an effort was made to suppress the story, but it was found to be useless. It is now in everybody's mouth. The leading members of the Bond street church are now in session discussing the situation. They will likely demand his resignation. Even Handford's former enemies showed no signs of triumph on hearing of his downfall. They regret the blow given to Christianity by the recreancy of one of its ministers, and say that the only course now is to remove him from the pulpit he has disgraced.

The Water Works Excavation on Yarmouth Street.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—How much longer are the authorities going to allow, or allow to be left, open that excavation for the water works pipes along Yarmouth street. No one seems to care about it and there it is left. The pipes were put in the ground more than a week ago. Children by the hundreds are going along these daily, and if it is not filled up soon some one may have cause to bring the matter before the Courts.

The State of Norwich Street.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—Shortly before the 24th of last month two men commenced work on Norwich street spending the afternoon in ploughing, etc. Since that time nothing more has been done, thus leaving it in a worse state than ever. I hope our city fathers will not only see that this is completed, but that the street is put in a thorough state of repair, so that we, who are desirous of beautifying the front of our residences by planting trees, may do so.

The Presbyterian Church of the United States North, is becoming so large that though the delegates from each Presbytery to the General Assembly are few, yet the aggregate number of members of Assembly is between 500 and 600. There are connected with the Church 180 Presbyteries; about 5,000 ministers, and about 600,000 communicants. The money raised every year to carry on its varied operations is between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. It is the largest Presbyterian body in the world.

The Grangers at Port Stanley.

A Successful Pic-Nic.

The pic-nic of the Grangers from Middlesex, Elgin, Kent, Norfolk and Brant, at Port Stanley on Wednesday, was, in point of numbers, a great success. About 15,000 persons were on the grounds. The chair was taken at about 2 p.m. by Mr. Stephen White, overseer of the Dominion Grange. The speakers present were Messrs. George Casey, M.P., W.L. Brown, S. McCall, Mr. Wm. Johnston, ex-President of the Agricultural College, W. B. Underhill, and others. Over forty cars were filled with excursionists, and two boats arrived with about 650 on board. The addresses were on matters pertaining to the order, which was stated to be flourishing.

The following is the address delivered by Mr. Johnston, which we copy from the London Advertiser:

Mr. Johnston, who was received with cheers, after referring to the fertility of the Province, and its adaptation to agricultural pursuits, the progress of the order, and of the different elements composing the popalation of Ontario, sketched a brief history of the rise of the Province which he divided into four periods; 1st, the preliminary period from 1812 to 1826, when Ontario's agricultural interests were confined to a few forest clearings; second, the period of establishment from 1826 to 1854, during which roads, railways, canals, schools, churches, were introduced, and also the separation of Church and State, and inauguration of municipal institutions, and responsible government; the third period is from 1854 to 1866, one of growth at the expense of vital force, growth caused by the Russian war, and the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States. These circumstances caused a demand for our production, which went off the land without any recuperation of the vital energy of the soil. The fourth period from 1866 to the present time is the period of young manhood, as shown by our manufacteries, etc. (Applause.) The speaker then went on to deal with the problem at present occupying the attention of agriculturists in Canada. The first question in that problem the speaker said was with whom are we competing in the markets of the world? This was worthy the attention of all Grangers. We have France, United States, Egypt, India, our own great North-West and South America. Are we competing successfully? was the next point, and in asking that question we must have some standard. The standard was a very simple one. It is what is the necessary cost of production? Does it cost us as much or less or more than it does other nations. We have to compete for our raw material, that is seed or cattle. (Hear, hear.) If it costs us more we are not competing successfully; if less, we are. That is the problem every farmer must solve. There are three things which enter into the necessary cost of production in this problem. The first element is a very important one, the work and labor; the second, the profits upon capital; the third, rent. In agriculture it is absolutely necessary to compute the latter. Are we obtaining these three things from the productions of our soil? It seems at the first look that we cannot produce as cheaply as the North West and United States. The reason is that the great distance the latter are from the sea coast is bridged over by a fine system of railroads. The system that places wheat, &c., on the seaboard from Chicago as cheap as from St. Thomas is a bad one. The farmers alone are to blame for it. It has come about because they have not been true to themselves. During the last year a Railway Commission had been appointed. This ought to have been done years ago, and the railway companies would then have been prevented from arranging the through freights in opposition to local freights. With regard to the cost of production they would take a farm of 150 acres sown in succession for example. Land is worth say $60 per acre, and that is a low figure; the implements and stock cost $3,000. That amounts to $12,000 capital invested, or $180 for every acre. What is the cost of production for that acre? Including wages and labor $9, interest upon $80 at 7½ per cent. $6, the cost of seed and cattle at $2 per acre, the cost of production is $20 per acre. What is the return for that amount of expenditure? Thirty bushels of peas per acre, or 1½ tons of hay, 40 or 50 bushels of oats per acre you will find that your products will only bring $18, or an absolute loss per acre, of $2. It is plain then that we are not competing successfully in the world's markets, although the quality of our produce remains the same. That is the reason why the Province is under the law of diminishing returns. In the history of all manufactures there is always a period when you are unable to increase the production without giving an increase in the capital. For instance, if 20 bushels per acre is produced, and you want to increase the production to 40 bushels, you must increase your capital upon the land more than the increase in the wheat is worth. There is the problem, and we are face to face with it. Here is the Province of Ontario producing less than it costs to produce it. The men of Ontario would be very poor men if they would merely look at the problem and say it was a hard one, and then step aside. If we of Ontario do not solve this problem we may be sure that we will catch the rod as a country. There are several methods of solving the problem. The first is to apply more capital to the land. A great many will say this is all very well, but where is the capital to apply to the land? He would ask them in return if they knew of any business in Ontario where the main portion of the profits in business was not applied in extending the business and increasing the capital. If Grangers are to succeed they must do the same thing. It may be true that many are working upon half capital and half credit. That is no sticking point. If we cannot have money we can have its equivalent, we can have a stricter rotation of crops. The second solution is an equivalent of capital, taking advantage of the Drainage Act. A great many are not aware of its existence. It would be advantageous to take advantage of the provisions to a certain extent, but not to borrow recklessly. There is also another course open whereby an immediate application of capital can be applied to land, and that is the live stock trade of England. By breeding and raising stock one of the best and most permanent measures is applied in the best manner to the land. Every man that does not take advantage of this fails in his duty to himself, his country and his profession. (Hear, hear.) Another solution is improved processes of agriculture, processes that increase the absolute produce, processes that decrease the expense of obtaining that produce, processes that decrease the amount of labor justly, the obtaining of newer varieties, and bringing something new into the rotation as a step in the way of increasing the production. (Applause.) Increase of labor-saving machines would decrease the expense of producing. Last of all, in the decrease of labor itself. By this he meant the work they ought to do as they stood at present. Everything that increased the expense of their households, and labor-saving machines is an increase in the cost of labor. He was forgetting that he was trespassing on politics. (Cries of "Go on.") It had been said that they could not talk about the cost of production without trespassing on politics, but he maintained that it was the contrary. It was politics that trespassed on and prevented free discussion. (Hear, hear.) It was also necessary for farmers to obtain every information pos sible upon the profession of farming. A blacksmith takes three or four years to learn his trade, and farming required time to learn. If a man was to be successful at farming he must first learn his profession, the same as any other trade. (Applause.) It was a problem, the solution of which could only be gained by years of hard steady work and toil. In conclusion he thanked them for the patient hearing, and wished them and the Grange every prosperity, and resumed his seat amid loud applause.

More Protection Needed.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

The exodus and the complete failure of the N. P. to stop it as promised, has at last secured the attention of the Mail. Our Toronto contemporary takes as a text a paragraph from the Guelph MERCURY, reprinted in the Post last week, to the effect that seventy-four good men and true from the royal city are now at work in Chicago. The Mail says: "The MERCURY proves too much for its cause, to wit, that a 30 per cent. tariff is an evil because it drives people to a country with a 45 per cent. tariff. In other words our Guelph contemporary simply shows that we haven't protection enough, a proposition which we are sure it did not want to demonstrate when it fired this shot at the N. P. According to free trade doctrines, the United States ought to have been utterly bankrupt by this time. They have had a tariff for twenty years, which should have ruined their industries, impoverished their people, fostered communism in its worst forms, and led to the universal collapse of the whole social fabric. But here are free trade journals, with singular disregard of their own dogmas, holding up the Union as a haven for other countries not cursed with so much protection! It may be quite true, as the MERCURY's correspondent says, that seventy-four good men have left Guelph for Chicago since the new tariff came into force in March, 1879; but that their migration was due to the N. P. is not at all probable, for if 30 per cent. means no employment, 45 per cent. must be somewhere near starvation point, according to the MERCURY's fiscal theories."

The MERCURY simply gave a statement of facts from a trustworthy correspondent, which the Mail cannot deny, and if this demonstrates, as the tory organ contends, that "we haven't protection enough" the premier at Ottawa should be called upon to advance the tariff. He vaunted his ability to stop by a high tariff the movement southward and eastward in Mackenzie's time; and if the present rate is not equal to the task it is his bounded duty to pile on the taxes until he stops the exodus. The facts are undeniable that more than three times as many people are leaving the country now as compared with the worst period of depression under the Reform Administration, and if Sir John Macdonald is penetrated with the fervent patriotism ascribed to him by his organs he must according to the Mail's argument advance the tariff to an equality with that of our neighbours in order to stop the migration. If he declines then he is "a traitor to the best interests of Canada," to use the phraseology of the tory organs.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

JUNE 5.

The Conference opened at 9 o'clock.

The solemn question, "Who have died?" was the first order of business. The only death during the year was Matthias Holtby's.

The case of the Rev. Dr. Selby, who, though he died in this Conference bounds, was a member of the Montreal Conference, was referred to that body.

Rev. Dr. Dewart and Rev. Wm. Briggs, of Toronto, were introduced to the Conference. Mr. Briggs of the Book Room, made a few remarks generally, and gave a report of the operations of the Book Room for the year. The circulation of all the periodicals of the Church has increased, and the net profits of the Book Room for the year have been gratifying.

Rev. Dr. Dewart, editor of the Christian Guardian, addressed the Conference. He referred to the success of the Guardian, and to its increased circulation.

Rev. Mr. Withrow being called, addressed the Conference about the Sunday School papers, and the magazine of which he is editor. He rejoiced in the success of these publications and claimed that the amount of missionary news which they contained was blessing the Church, and stirring up in the minds of the children missionary zeal.

A resolution of thanks to Dr. Ryerson for his excellent articles in the magazine on the early history of Canada, and Canadian Methodism, was carried with applause.

Rev. J. P. Rice, of the Bible Christian Conference, was admitted to membership as a supernumerary in this Conference.

Several adjustments were made in the relation of circuits and missions, and provision was made for the extension of the work on the Wallaceburg Mission.

The names of the superannuated ministers was continued from the several districts. The Conference adjourned till Monday morning.

June 6.

The churches were to-day generally occupied by members of the Conference. The principal services were held at St. John Street Wesleyan Church, where, at 9 a. m., the Conference love feast was conducted by the Rev. Geo. R. Sanderson, D. D. At 11 a. m., an ordination service was held by the President of the Conference, when the following were ordained: Solomon Clever, B. A.; Wellington Bridgman, George W. Henderson, E. B. Stavenson, B. A.; H. T. Crossley, Charles Deacon, W. F. Campbell, Augustine Broadway, John McLean, for special purposes as missionary for the North-West. In the evening, the Rev. Alexander Sutherland, D. D., preached, and at the close the sacrament was administered.

Bible Christian Conference.

BOWMANVILLE, June 4.

This morning Conference assembled at at 9 a. m.

Three young men—T. Blatchford, W. Coombe, and A. C. Curtice—were heartily received by the Conference on probation. Eli Reynolds and F. O. C. Jones were received on probation as married men. The applications of Mr. R. B. Kinley, Mr. Baynton, and Mr. Vivian were respectfully declined. The request of the Mariposa circuit to sell certain Church property was readily granted. The request of West Cape Circuit for a second preacher was not entertained.

The first business of the afternoon session was to elect an Editor of the Observer for the coming year. The Rev. H. J. Nott was placed in the editorial chair.

DEMONSTRATION TO PARNELL.—On Saturday the Irish residents in London gave a reception to Parnell in St. James Hotel, in recognition of his services in behalf of Ireland in America. The hall was crammed. Many ladies and representatives of various Irish organizations were present. Justin McCarthy presided, supported by thirty members of Parliament. Parnell was enthusiastically received. The chairmam presented an address of welcome, in which he highly eulogized Parnell's services. Parnell expressed his thanks to the meeting. On leaving the hall Parnell and many of those present at the meeting were escorted by a number of organizations with bands and banners to Trafalgar Square, where several hundred persons were waiting to receive them, but the demonstration was insignificant owing to the rain. Mr. O'Connor moved the resolution welcoming Parnell.

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretion of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City. deod&wly

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

S. P. Ruggles died at Lisbon, N. H., on Friday. He was principally known as the inventor of the Ruggles printing press which was among the first of machine presses. His invention was what printers call an "upside-down" press, the type being upside down when in the bed. About 25 years ago, Mr. Ruggles sold out his interest for nearly $200,000, and since then he has not been in active business. He was the inventor of the raised alphabet for the blind, and always showed great interest in the amelioration of the condition of the sightless. He was also a great friend of mechanical education, and has written much on the subject.

AN AUSTRALIAN THEOLOGIAN IN GALT.—Rev. Robert Steel, D. D., of Sydney, Australia, arrived in Galt a few days ago. Mr. Steel is a cousin of Mrs. Hugh Wallace, of Dickie Settlement, and his intention is to spend a short time with Mrs. Wallace's family and friends. He has a wide reputation as an able theological writer, and has been for some time editor of the chief publication of the Presbyterian Church in Australia. His congregation presented him before he left Sydney with £600, as a mark of their esteem. Before returning to Australia, Mr. Steel intends visiting the European countries, and may visit the Holy Land.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Galt defeated Paris in a cricket match a few days ago by ten wickets.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, tributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

A man named D. P. Corradice, from Wingham, was found on Monday in Malcolm McDonald's bush, about two miles from Lucknow, with his throat cut. He was removed to the village and his wounds dressed by Dr. D. A. McCrimon. He is likely to recover. He had evidently been suffering from the effects of drink, and did the act while temporarily insane.

STRAWBERRIES.—Mr. Hugh Walker received to-day a fine lot of Canadian strawberries—the first lot that has arrived in Guelph this season. They look fine, and taste equally good.

BUT for the interference of the Chief of Police at the broom sweep at the drill shed last night, there would have been a fight between some of the coloured gentlemen and a few of their white brethren.

TENDERS WANTED.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of Dr. Groves Fergus, asking for tenders for the erection of a banking house, private residence, and law offices in that village.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.—We call attention to the advertisement in another column. We are glad to see that Dr. Woodgate is to be present. The Doctor gave great satisfaction when he was in Guelph lately. He is one of the best amateur readers we know of, and is well worth hearing.

AN ERROR.—In the cricket score of the game between Guelph and Galt published on Saturday the words "wides" in every case should have been "maidens." The way in which the score read made it appear that the bowling was exceedingly bad, whereas it was better than average bowling.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE EXCURSION.—The Committee of the Mechanics' Institute have decided to give a grand excursion to Toronto on the Civic Holiday in August. Besides the trip to Toronto, there will be excursions to Scarboro Heights, Niagara, the Island and other places of interest. Keep it in mind that the excursion takes place on the Civic Holiday.

THE WATER WORKS EXTENSION.—The water was sent through the new main on Yarmouth street for the first time yesterday afternoon. The pipes have been well laid, there not being any leakages. Services have been laid from the main into Mr. Raymond's sewing machine factories and into his residence. Mr. Raymond placed a very handsome lawn fountain in his grounds, which was in full operation last evening.

EXCURSION TO HAMILTON.—On Thursday a grand excursion will take place to Hamilton over the Great Western Railway under the auspices of the Young People's Literary Society of the Norfolk street Methodist Church. The train leaves Guelph at 6:25 a.m. and will arrive from Hamilton at 7:24 p.m. the same day. The fare for the round trip including a sail on the lake is fixed at $1. Tickets may be had to-morrow evening at F. Gauhan's office, Market Square.

THE WATER WORKS.—As will be seen by the report of the Council proceedings last night, a petition signed by a number of influential citizens praying the Council to devise means for maintaining the water works at less expense, was read. Ald. Coffee read the Act governing the engagement of the Water Commissioners, showing that they could be dispensed with at any time in conforming with the provision of the Act. Several members expressed their sympathy with the idea of the petition, but thought the Commissioners should be retained till the close of the present year. No action was taken in the matter.

THE services of the driver of the fire brigade have been dispensed with. The engineer will attend to his duties.

The Executive has declined to interpose in the case of the Brantford Indian, sentenced to be hanged on the 11th inst., for wife murder.

Thos. Burke, who was arrested in McQuarrie's, on York street Toronto, sometime ago and got off by showing that he was a regular attendant at Sunday school, was caught on Saturday night under the bed of Mrs. McQuarrie.

The six days' pedestrian tournament commenced at Toronto on Monday morning at 11 o'clock, when there were twenty-six starters and about 500 spectators present.

Mr. Henry Stull, of Grantham, was relieved of his pocket book, containing between $30 and $40, on the circus grounds, St. Catharines, on Saturday.

During the storm on Saturday morning the lightning struck a barn belonging to Mr. John Niblock, sr., about half a mile from Parkhill, completely destroying it.

The Canada Southern Railway has been granted a new trial in the action brought against it by a Mr. McLaren, for $150,000 damages alleged to have been caused to the plaintiff's timber by reason of the escape of sparks from the locomotives on the defendant's railway.

A meeting has been held by a portion of the Presbyterian congregation of Durham who are opposed to the introduction of instrumental music into the church, and they have decided to petition the next Presbytery that meets in Durham in July, to form a separate congregation, as they believe their number and influence sufficient to support a minister themselves.

The Broom Sweep Walk.

A broom sweep walk—something new in the pedestrian line to the inhabitants of this city—was held in the drill shed on Monday evening, under the auspices of the B. M. E. church, and for the purpose of raising funds to aid in the erection of the new church. The attendance this time was very small, caused in a measure, no doubt by the high price of admission. To the uninitiated in such mysteries as broom sweep walking, it may be explained that in front of the platform were chalked out a number of circles, in the middle of which were stuck iron rods, with a piece of ribbon tied on the top. On the brooms pieces of ribbon of colours corresponding with those on the rods were tied, and when the broom army got into full marching order, the grand object of each seemed to be every time he passed the ring bearing his colour, to sweep out the chalk mark, the one who swept cleanest to be awarded the prize, with due consideration taken regarding the grace of the walker's motions and his sweeping, and the time he kept to the music.

About half-past eight the Rev. Robert Roberts, the pastor of the church, after seeing to all the preliminiaries regarding the walk, took the platform, and in a few words addressed the meeting, explaining as the reason of the late hour of starting, that several of his family were suffering from the measles. He then declared everything ready for the walk.

The following are the names of the prize winners in the different walks:—

First Sweep—1st King Walton, 2nd George Green, 3rd Barney Ady.

Second Sweep—1st George Green, 2nd Barney Ady, 3rd Rev. Mr. Roberts.

Boys' Sweep—1st Frank Green, 2nd Ezra Brown, 3rd James Rex.

Boys, Go as you please—1st Ed. Washington, 2nd F. Green, 3rd James Rex.

Ladies, style—1st Annie Spencer, 2nd Miss Duncan, 3rd Miss Russell.

Ladies, Go as you please—1st Annie Spencer, 2nd Lucinda Green, 3rd Miss Ritchie.

After the walking had been finished, Rev. S. H. Brown, of Peel, the oldest elder in the B.M.E. Connexion, was called upon. He gave a short and enthusiastic speech, full of characteristic vigor and humor, in the course of which he stated that he was an old man and had seen much. He was 86 years of age, and had been a resident of Canada for 28 years, during which time he had cleared two farms. He touched briefly on a large number of subjects, and finally wound up amidst loud cheering.

Near the close of the meeting the Rev. Mr. Roberts took occasion to thank the citizens of Guelph for the many kindnesses and considerations that he and his charge had received at their hands, as this might be the last opportunity that he would have of doing so. The Convention of the B. M. E. Church met this week. He was going to attend the Convention, and might be removed to some other sphere of labor, but if such was the case he would carry with him the warm remembrance of the times that he had spent in Guelph. If he remained in Guelph he could promise a more interesting entertainment than either the cake walk or the broom sweep walk, at no distant date.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Roberts' surmises of his having to leave his charge here are unfounded, as it would be hard to get another man to fill the position with the same energy and perseverance that he has done, which has won for him the respect of all classes of the community, outside his own congregation.

Mrs. Buckner, of Windsor, presided at the organ, and sang several songs during the evening, which were heartily applauded. She was well supported by a strong choir.

The Rev. Mr. Brown was called on to pronounce the benediction, and the meeting dispersed about eleven o'clock.

WEATHER PROBS.—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly from the east and south; fine warm weather.

THE city will bury the child this afternoon whose death was noticed yesterday.

NEW LAW OFFICE.—The Orangeville Sun says: Mr. J. P. MacMillan has opened a law office in Drury's Block, on Broadway. It has been said that lawyers have no soul, but the axoim is untrue if applied to Mr. MacMillan. To the members of the "long robe" here, we need not introduce him—they knew him—to the public we heartly commend him.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday evening a daughter of Mr. R. McGregor, aged about eleven years, met with a painful accident. She and a companion were amusing themselves by working a lawn mower, when she got her left hand between the knives. The second finger of the hand was cut completely in two at the first joint. Dr. Howitt dressed the wound.

BASE BALL.—Mr. Sleeman, President of the Canadian Base Ball Association, has written the Browns, of Harriston, that he will be obliged to rule them out of the Association if they attempt to put paid players in the field at the Championship match to be played between these clubs shortly.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.—Within the last few weeks the appearance of the High School grounds has been greatly improved. The hollow is being filled with earth, and terraces are being formed on the hill west of the hollow. A number of maple trees have also been planted about the grounds, which are growing nicely.

THE SCHOOLS.—The School Property Committee inspected the Public and High Schools yesterday afternoon, which were found in a better state as regards cleanliness than on the previous visit of the committee. An appropriation was made by the Board some time ago for the purpose of placing new furniture in the North, West and South Ward schools, and this work will be done during the summer holidays. The committee will report with reference to their visit yesterday, at the next meeting of the Board.

The Second Handford Scandal.

The Story of an Eye Witness.

The Toronto Telegram, which sympathized with Mr. Handford while the inquiry into the first scandals about him were in progress, gives on Monday a full account of the second one, and states that it is useless any longer to keep back the facts from the public. Its reporter interviewed Mr. Outhwaite, of Yorkville, the gentleman who saw Mr. Handford and the lady together. The following is his account:—On Wednesday of last week, at about 11 a. m., I was walking along Howard street in an easterly direction, intending to turn to the left and proceed down the Drum Snob road across the ravine to Rosedale, and just as I reached Parliament street I noticed a lady and gentleman walking leisurely along the east side of Parliament street, close to the cemetery fence. I thought the gentleman looked very much like the Rev. Mr. Handford, and having heard of the charges recently made against him, I examined more closely and discovered that my opinion was correct—that it was in reality Mr. Handford. I crossed the road and as I reached the entrance way to the ravine, I turned and saw Mr. Handford leave the lady and hurry towards me. I was walking at an ordinary pace, but thinking that Mr. Handford might wish to ask me for information as to the vicinity, I loitered on the way. He came within about thirty feet of me, and then he, too, loitered, evidently not wishing to overtake me. At the second curve I paused, for a moment and turning saw Mr. Handford close behind me. When I reached the third curve near the bridge I again stopped, and noticed that Mr. Handford was standing on the side of the roadway, immediately opposite a break in the fence on the eastern bank Suspecting that everything was not right, I then stepped to the side of the road and soon saw the same lady I had seen with Mr. Handford on Parliament street, coming down the hill, Mr. Handford beckoning to her. They stood a moment at the gap and then passed through, down the embankment and into the bush that leads to the foot of the ravine. I was greatly surprised at this, and as soon as they disappeared from sight I ran as hard as I could to the gap and peering over saw Mr. Handford and the lady standing in a secluded place about fifty or seventy feet from where I was.

Did you make any attempt to attract their attention?"

"I did not, but I stood in the open highway in full view, and if the couple had not been greatly pre-occupied they could easily have seen me. They were standing down in the low shrubbery and underbrush, and I could only see as far down as their waists. Mr. Handford was standing with his back to me, his hat on the back of his head, his arms clasped about her waist or shoulders, and she was facing him, looking up affectionately in his face."

"How long a time intervened between the time you saw them at the gap and when you saw them in among the shrubberry as you describe?"

"Not more than thirty seconds as I ran from the third to the second curve as fast as I could. The couple stood in the position I have explained probably about a minute as near as I could judge and then sank silently out of sight. I stood at the gap for about two minutes, not knowing whether it was best to go down the ravine or leave the couple to themselves, but I finally decided on the latter course and proceeded across the bridge to the north side of the ravine."

"Is there a shadow of a doubt on your mind as to who the gentleman was?"

"Not a shadow of a shadow; I have seen Mr. Handford before, and could not possibly be mistaken."

"Who was the lady?"

"I could not tell you that, as her face was not familiar to me, but she was below the average height and not at all pretty in my estimation. A gentleman friend of mine has stated to me that at about noon on the Wednesday in question he saw a lady and gentleman coming up from the ravine and through the same gap, but you had better see him with reference to that as I do not know for a fact who this couple were."

The reporter on Thursday morning along with Mr. Outhwaite proceeded to the residence of Mr. Handford, who received them with much cordiality. Being told that they wished a few minutes private conversation with him, Mr. Handford conducted them into a private apartment. This was about eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and the question was abruptly put to him:

Where were you yesterday about this time—eleven o'clock?

Mr. Handford was a little taken aback, and after a moment replied, I hardly know where I was?

Were you not on Parliament street?

I was.

And with Mrs——?

I met her there when I was walking.

A portion of Mr. Outhwaite's story (which is fully narrated below) being related to Mr. Handford, he admitted that he had walked in the direction of the ravine with Mrs. ——, and had sometimes preceded and then rejoined her.

Did you enter the ravine?

No, replied Mr. Handford. Then suddenly correcting himself he said, yes, we entered and sat upon a stone for about ten minutes.

Now Mr. Handford, replied the member of his church you must come with us and show us all. Here is a map of the road sketched out by our informant, who saw all that transpired until you sat down, and we wish to verify his statement, or have you show that it is false.

The party then entered the cab and drove over the route as sketched on the plan, and the general result of the conversation may be stated as that Mr. Handford admitted everything that Mr. Outhwaite said, until the entrance to the ravine was reached.

Was this where you entered?

Yes, replied Mr. Handford, we went this way.

The way which Mr. Handford indicated was to the left, or to the open ground. The way which Mr. Outhwaite says Mr. Handford and his companion took was to the right, or to the thick bush, Mr. Handford at this time was considerably flushed, and did not appear to know what to do. Finally he led the way to a spot behind some bushes where there was a stone, and pointed to the trodden grass as evidence that he had been there. It may be said, however, that the grass was also trodden in the direction in which Mr. Outhwaite says they proceeded. There is no pathway near where Mr. Handford points out as the place upon which he said he and companion rested. After a lengthened conversation, the member of Bond street Church said:

What in the world tempted you to go in there?

I don't know. I suppose it was private property, and I wanted to see.

Did you not see there was no road?

It was very foolish, very stupid of me.

Then everything that Mr. Outhwaite says is true?

Everything except the embracing. I did not embrace Mrs. ——.

Well, Mr. Handford, after what has passed, all I have to say is that had your companion been Queen Victoria, the world would not acquit you.

At the Bond-street Congregational Church on Sunday morning the edifice was well filled before eleven o'clock, very few people having heard of the serious rumours that had been current in certain circles regarding the pastor. The sidewalks on the south and west side of the building were also crowded by people who evidently expected a scene. At a quarter past eleven o'clock the pastor had not put in an appearance, and the congregation was becoming impatient, when a deacon arose and announced that there would be no preaching that morning, but that those who desired could stop and join in holding a prayer-meeting; that Mr. Handford had left his house with the intention of preaching, but that he was so depressed in spirits that he could not proceed, and he was obliged to return home, where he was being cared for.

A meeting of the deacons of the church was held in the evening when an informal discussion took place. They proceeded to Mr. Handford's residence and asked to see him, but it was announced to them that he was too ill to see them.

CITY COUNCIL.

Petition Asking a Less Expensive Water Works Management.

A Long Discussion on Various Matters.

The City Council met on Monday evening. Present,—Mayor Sleeman, Ald. Lamprey, Burns, Gowdy, Doran, Bruce, Tyson, Hewer, Fairbank, Chadwick, Stevenson, Coffee, Robertson, Hart, McLagan.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Dr. Brook wrote stating that his horse had been seriously injured by falling into a defective drain on Wyndham-street. He asked for remuneration for the injury.

Messrs. Armstrong and Hutton wrote asking for remuneration for the extra work of taking the school census.

H. E. Smallpiece wrote asking for an early reply to his letter with reference to the terms on which the Manager of the Grand Opera House, Toronto, could lease the City Hall for three years.

THE WATER WORKS.

Among the petitions was the following:

GUELPH, June 7th, 1880.

To the Municipal Council of the City of Guelph:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your petitioners believing that the present management of the Guelph Water Works is altogether too expensive for the time, and ability required to control the same, would respectfully ask your honourable body to devise some means of reducing its cost, and at the same time maintaining its efficiency. And your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

J. B. Armstrong, Charles Davidson, James Presant, T. J. Day, W. Burgess, J. H. Dolmage, Joshua Kribs, H. W. Peterson, A. Lemon, J.H. Leadlay, J. E. Worsfold, T. A. Keating, Hugh Walker, Wm. Newport, William Newby, Daniel Jackson, D. Stirton, R. MacGregor, James Roche, A. B. Petrie, Geo. Hadden, John White, Geo. Murton, W. H. Morcon, James Barclay, Felix Devlin, Robert Morrison, Geo. A. Somerville, A. H. McDonald.

The Mayor said he could not deal with this petition as there was no committee to which he could refer it.

PETITIONS.

From Peter Hunter and others, calling attention to a wire barbed fence on a boulevard near the premises of Mr. Kerr, Woolwich street. They asked for its removal as an obstruction.

From Charles Pettiford, asking to be allowed to construct a drain from his premises to Kirkland street.

From G. A. Oxnard, calling attention to the bad state of the street crossing in the neighborhood of the Grand Trunk Railway Passenger station, and asking that it be repaired.

From G. H. Skinner, and others, asking for the use of the City Hall, free of charge, for a lecture by Rev. W. F. Clarke on the Infidelity of Ingersoll, for the benefit of the General Hospital.

The petition of Charles Pettiford was granted, and the others were referred.

THE WATER WORKS COMMUNICATION.

The petition of J. B. Armstrong and others with reference to dispensing with the Water-works Commissioners was considered at some length.

Ald. Coffee read a portion of the Act governing their appointment, showing that they could be dispensed with at any time by passing a by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers for that purpose. Mr. Coffee said he thought one man could do the work now done by the Commissioners, the Engineer and Clerk.

Ald. McLagan said this was hardly the time of year to make such a change. There was much business in the hands of the Commissioners just now, and he thought they should be permitted to remain in office till the end of the year, when the people might decide the question by vote.

Ald. Robertson was favourable to part of the petition, but thought it would be unwise to interfere in the matter at present.

Ald. Bruce agreed with the spirit of the resolution, but thought the Commissioners should be retained in office till the end of the year.

Ald. Chadwick also favoured the idea of the resolution, but doubted very much whether the Council had the power to make the change until the end of the year. He doubted the propriety of the Council assuming the management of the works. He thought Commissioners could be got to act for the honor attached to the office without pay, as members of the Council do. He was sure that some chairmen of Council Committees did more than the Commissioners.

Ald. Tyson thought the Commissioners were well paid to do their work and objected to paying a clerk $600 to do it for them.

This ended the discussion, no action being done in the matter.

EXHIBITION GROUNDS.

The by-law appointing Mr. Marriott caretaker of the Exhibition grounds was read a third time and passed.

HOLIDAYS.

The Chief of Police communicated that P.C. Crooks desired his holidays at the beginning of July. Granted.

DOG BY-LAW.

This by-law to regulate and restrain the running at large of dogs passed its third reading. The by-law takes effect on the 1st July.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Mr. Gowdy, chairman of Fire, Water, and Gas Committee, reported, recommending

That the present stable be so altered that the hose reel can be put into it with the hose, the cost not to exceed $20.

That Shaw & Murton be paid $30 for six water proof coats for the firemen.

The Committee has sold one of their horses for $140.

The report was adopted.

PARKS AND TREES.

Mr. Fairbank, chairman, reported, recommending that the following accounts be paid: A. H. Davidson, $25.85; Sunley, $61.20; Bond, $7.30; Marcon, $5.95.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Ald. Chadwick and Lamprey, a by-law was introduced to raise $870.62 for watering the streets, and passed its second reading.

On motion of Ald. Fairbank and Hewer, a by-law to name that portion of land lying at the intersection of Woolwich street, Cardigan street and the Eramosa road, was introduced.

Ald. Chadwick introduced a By-law to water Quebec street west.

RAISING $10,000.

Ald. McLagan read a By-law providing for the issuing of debentures to the extent of $10,000, for the purpose of taking up old debentures coming due.

TRAFALGAR SQUARE.

The blanks in the By-law to name the grounds at the intersection of Cardigan and Woolwich streets and the Eramosa Road, was filled in with Trafalgar Square.

Ald. Chadwick and Stevenson moved that the City give their consent to the Water Commissioners making a contract to supply the Grand Trunk and Great Western Railway Companies with water, and that the Mayor be authorised to sign the contracts, in accordance with sect. 28 of the Water Works Act.—Carried.

COUNTY PROPERTY.

Ald. Chadwick thought that as the City had a share in the County Property they should have a voice in the County Property Committee. He asked the Mayor to enquire whether the City should not have that privilege as a right.

ANOTHER ASSESSMENT.

Ald. McLagan and Robertson moved that the By-law Committee be instructed to introduce a By-law at next meeting to empower the Assessors to take another assessment next year.—Carried.

The Council adjourned at 11 p.m.

Daily Mercury.

TUESDAY EVENING, JUNE 8, 1880

THERE is a dearth of political news, the absence of Ministers from Ottawa being the only noticeable feature at present.

THE evidence in the Argenteuil election case discloses that a friend of Mr. Abbott's went through the riding, making himself popular with the children by giving them quarters while he was asking their fathers for votes. This, it is replied, was not done to influence the election. It was merely a coincidence that so many 25 cent pieces were given away at that particular time.

THE Hamilton Times says that the statement comes from Ottawa that Sir John Macdonald found so little chance of electing a Tory in West Toronto, should that seat be opened by the transference of the sitting member (Mr. J. B. Robinson) to the Lieut.-Governor's chair, that he decided not to open the constituency. If this is the case then a great change must have taken place in this Division, which has always been considered safe for a Tory candidate.

SIR Charles Tupper did not give those interested in the Trent Valley Canal scheme much encouragement when he visited that section of the country last week. The only hope he held out of their receiving assistance was based on the probability that at a future day the demand for increased means of transportation from the North-West might lead the Government to consider the project. The cost of the canal is estimated at $3,000,000, and Sir Charles declared he made the trip along the route with the purpose of judging the value of the scheme by personal observation.

THE report of the Minister of Justice as to penitentiaries in Canada, only just issued, states that the returns for the last financial year exhibit a marked increase in the number of convictions over former tables. The total number of convicts remaining in the several penitentiaries on the 30th of June, 1878, was 1,159. From that date till the 1st of July, 1879, under fresh sentences, 568 were received, making a total of 1,727. By expiration of sentence and pardon 401 were discharged, and 8 died during the year under the review, leaving a convict population in the penitentiaries of the Dominion on 30th June 1879, of 1,318, and showing an increase of 159 over the preceding year. The Wardens in their reports do not indicate any cause for this addition to the criminal ranks, but it may safely be assumed that the one assigned by them for the increase of convicts during the year ended 30th June, 1878, namely, want of employment and financial depression, continued to exercise its influence up to the close of the last fiscal year. It is to be hoped that with returning prosperity and the consequent sources of employment that would thereby be opened up, those convictions which may be traceable to the "hard times" will not recur.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Gen. Garfield Elected the Republican Candidate.

The Convention kept balloting up to a late hour on Monday night with very little change in the vote, the 28th ballot being Grant, 307; Blaine, 279; Sherman, 92; Edmunds, 31; Washburn, 35; Windom, 10.

The following gives the balloting to-day:

CHICAGO, June 8th.—29th ballot—Grant 305, Sherman 116, Blaine 278, Washburn 35, Windom 7, Edmunds 12, Garfield 2.

30th ballot—Grant 307, Blaine 279, Sherman 118, Washburn 33, Edmunds 11, Garfield 2, Windom 4.

31st ballot—Grant 307, Blaine 277, Sherman 119, Washburn 33, Windom 3, Edmunds 11, Garfield 1, Conkling 1.

32nd ballot—Grant 309, Blaine 270, Sherman 119, Washburn 35, Edmunds 11, Windom 3, Garfield 1.

33rd ballot—Grant 308, Blaine 276, Sherman 110.

34th.—Grant, 312; Blaine, 275; Sherman, 107; Washburn, 32; Edmunds, 11; Windom, 4; Garfield, 17.

35th.—Grant, 313; Blaine, 257; Sherman, 101; Washburn, 23; Edmunds, 11; Windom, 3; Garfield, 54. Indiana broke for Garfield on this ballot.

36th ballot—On this ballot Massachusetts, Michigan and Connecticut broke for Garfield. Illinois cast four for him, Indiana 29, Iowa 22, Kansas 46, Lousiana 8, Maine 14. Vermont carried over her entire vote for Garfield. So did South Carolina and Tennessee, but these last two were questioned and the roll was called.

On the 36th ballot Garfield got 399, Grant 306, Blaine 42, Sherman 3, Washburn 3.

Garfield is therefore elected Republican candidate by a handsome vote, The vote necessary to a choice is 379.

The Chicago Convention.

A Saturnalia of Cheering.

A correspondent gives the following graphic account of the "cheering scene" in the convention on Friday night, already briefly referreed to in our despatches:—Ten thousand people stood up and swung their hats and cheered. It was a scene unequalled. Conkling and his group of New Yorkers stood upon chairs and waved their handkerchiefs, and Conkling himself waved the New York banner. Mr. Storrs stroked his beard as one amazed. Umbrellas, parasols, coats and banners were waved high in the air on the ends of the staves on which the State banners had hung. Conkling answered the galleries and they cheered again. The chair abandoned hammering his desk in disgust, and the policemen were lost in the crowd. The New York delegation started the songs, "The year of Jubilee," and "Marching through Georgia,' which were taken up by the crowd. When Mr. Storrs made his third effort to renew his speech the crowd broke out again and the noise was deafening and could be heard a mile away. The second outburst was greater than the first. Men seemed to be drunk with excitement and sprang on benches, rushing into each other's arms, shaking hands, embracing each other, laughing, crying and shouting. Five hundred men took off their coats and swung them in the air. The infection extended to every doubtful delegation on the floor. Illinois, Ohio and the others joined in the jubilee. Among the incidents was that of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, who stood on a chair for twenty minutes and waved a flag and red bandana handkerchief. Maine at last fell into line, and up went all her delegates to the top of the benches, shouting at the top of their voices, waving their hats, coats and umbrellas. Mrs. Col. Ingersoll sprang on a chair on the stage, near the goddess of liberty, draped herself in an American flag and waved another about her head. The only quiet man in the house was the chairman. The band endeavored to start up, but were not heard ten feet away at one time. Thirty of the State banners were waved together in the centre of the hall, twenty feet above the heads of the people, borne upon the standards which divide the delegations. Every one seemed crazed with the enthusiasm and the excitement of the moment. Maine, California, Virginia and other States marched about the hall, over the benches, and crowding through the aisles waving their banners. It was a contest between the galleries and the delegates and the delegates and the stage to see which could cheer the loudest and make the most extravagant exhibition. Maine's banner was the last to come down. The tumult was finally partially stilled when Green B. Raum sprang on the back of a bench and said order could be restored by giving three cheers for the nominee of the convention. They were given with a will. The outbreak lasted 35 minutes. Mr. Storrs was allowed the 4 minutes taken from the crowd. He began with: "Give the grand old State, which never knew the draft, nor filled her regiments with paper soldiers, the home of Lincoln and Douglas and Grant; give her fair play, and if you can't nominate her son nominate John Sherman. Give us fair treatment in Illinois.

During the scene in the convention at an early hour on Saturday morning a woman on the stage, crazed with the excitement, tore down flags and shook them in the air. She climbed to the pedestal of the goddess of liberty that stands behind the chairman's desk, and there, conspicuous to all the audience, she swung her flags and bonnet, and screamed with all her voice. She was finally taken down by Sergeant-at-Arms Strong, Governor Jewell, Congressman Aldrich and others, and placed in a seat, but her hysterics returned, and she snatched the flags from the man who held them and sprang to the pedestal again. She was a second time taken down and compelled to keep her seat, but was finally taken from the building before she could be controlled.

FORGER CAPTURED.—On Monday, Chief Constable Bolton, of Clifford, arrived at Port Elgin with a prisoner, whom he cleverly caught at Fort Gratiot, trying to make good his escape. The prisoner, whose alleged name is Robert Black, has for some time resided at Port Elgin, and was charged by a person named Kopas with forging a note given by him (Kopas) in favor of the prisoner, or, in other words, of changing the figures of a note of hand from $8.75 to $80.75. He was also charged by the same party with having obtained goods under false pretences, hence the warrant for his arrest. Bolton traced him to Owen Sound, thence to Collingwood, from Collingwood to Toronto, from Toronto to Port Huron, and thence to Fort Gratiot. The prisoner is supposed to be one of a gang who have lately been connected with making counterfeit money in and about Port Elgin.

Very gratifying reports of the state of the spring crops are received from all parts of the Ottawa district, and the prospects of a good harvest were never better at this season of the year.

The Turkish Question.

PERSISTENT attempts were made by Conservative writers and London correspondents of the Tory press to represent that Mr. Goschen received a check at the outset of his mission. These tales were dissipated by Mr. Goschen's actual reception, followed by a private interview, during which it is understood that Mr. Goschen laid before the Sultan the whole purpose of the British Government in plain terms. Constantinople telegrams say that the Sultan, heretofore misled, received the demands with incredulity and dismay. Every European capital nevertheless is alive with intrigues against the European concert which Mr. Goschen desires for accelerating reforms in Turkey. The Beaconsfield Ministry were unwilling to execute any provision of the Treaty of Berlin without the free consent of the Sultan. The present Government are resolved to insist upon the fulfilment of the treaty, and to bring the pressure of the European States to bear upon the Porte. They take the ground that Turkey is under obligations to be just to Montenegro and Greece, and to institute domestic reforms; and, furthermore, that Europe must not shirk the duty of enforcing those obligations. Mr. Gladstone has evidently taken a new departure, and is now following the example of Lord Palmerston, who always took an active interest in what was going on in Europe.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

JUNE 7.

When the Conference met, a resolution, thanking Dr. Ryerson for his excellent articles in the magazine on the early history of Canada and Canadian Methodism, was carried with applause.

Rev. Alfred Andrews was given leave of absence to attend the Robert Raikes Centenary celebration in England.

A resolution was carried strongly disapproving of the amendment to the Scott Temperance Act, which was carried in the House of Commons last session, and approving of the action of the Senate in vetoing it.

The Committee on Memorials, recommended that the finances of each station ought to be closed on the 31st May and the minister's salary settled not later than that date. The recommendation was accepted.

Rev. John McDougall, missionary to the Blackfeet Indians of the Northwest, was introduced to the Conference.

Dr. Burns and Mr. J. Lister each addressed the conference in relation to the Female College, and impressed on the ministers the necessity of giving it every encouragement in the way of securing students.

The conference then adjourned till 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Mr. L. H. Frechette, the Canadian poet, is the recipient of congratulations on all sides from his friends in Canada upon the occasion of his prize at the French Academy, taken above all competitors.

Census of Forest Trees.

N. Y. Sun: An interesting feature of the coming census report will be a catalogue of American forest trees. Prof. Sargent of Harvard College, who is the special agent of the census for this purpose, is distributing preliminary catalogues with blank pages to be filled up with any valuable information that those who are interested in trees may be able to give. This catalogue contains a list of over 340 native American trees, with descriptions of their wood and their economic uses. Our forests are rich in valuable as well as beautiful trees, and some such work as this is needed. They have been too much neglected, and have suffered in consequence. Better and more widespread knowledge of the forest trees would have saved millions of dollar's worth of black walnut and other precious woods that have been recklessly destroyed, because their real value was not known. With too many persons a tree is only a tree, and the distinction of species is disregarded. Comparatively few in the forest districts understand the best uses of the trees they live among. This ignorance is directly injurious to the national prosperity. Even in the long settled regions of the Eastern States farmers often chop down for firewood oaks, pines and hickories, when less valuable trees growing on the same land would answer the purpose just as well.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—During a thunder storm last week the house of Robert Kidney, con. 16, Maryborough, was struck by lightning. It entered near the chimney, tearing a large hole in the roof, and a quantity of plaster from the ceiling. A lady, who happened to be visiting at the house, was struck on the leg, which at last accounts was entirely benumbed. A son of Mr. Kidney's was also struck, and the entire family thrown into consternation.

$45,000 worth of Dry Goods and Groceries to be disposed of in Six Weeks. Sale to commence on Saturday, the 1st May.

G. B. FRASER

G. B. FRASER, Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special disount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

CONTINUED.

"Mary!" I exclaimed; "I forgot all about her;" and catching my hat off the peg again, I rushed out, speeding as fast as I could to liberate her, and bitterly lamenting my folly for locking her in.

It was quite dark when I got there, and I had no light; but I felt out the keyhole, unlocked the door and tramped loudly up the stairs. I called her, but received no reply. Going into the room in which I had left her, I gazed into the recesses, and found her huddled up in one corner.

"Mary, my poor dear child," I exclaimed, "will you ever forgive me?"

"Hush, hush! for pity's sake, hush!" she said in a whisper.

"Why did you not answer when I called you?" I replied.

"I did not hear you until now. Oh, I have seen such fearful sights!"

I felt her whole frame quiver, and then, as I was assisting her to rise, she fell on me in a fainting fit. I had no light not even a fusee in my pocket, and no one was within call. At length I thought of the water she had for her work; it might revive her if I could find it. I laid her down gently, and groping about for the the water, sprinkled her face which had the effect of bringing her round.

Hurriedly rising, she exclaimed: "Oh, come away. Take me out of this horrid place!"

I began to rally her about the absurdity of her fears, and her telling me in the morning that she was not superstitious.

But she interrupted me by saying: "I have seen no ghost. We are in a den of horrid thieves and murderers! I saw two bodies dragged up stairs stripped of everything, with just a sheet round them. Oh, come out of the place, or we shall be the next. Even now they may have heard us, and they will murder us.

I asked her if she had not got drowsy whilst waiting for me in the gloom of the afternoon—for it was November—and dreamed it.

"Oh, no!" she replied; "I did not dream; and horror-struck as I was, when the ruffians descended the stairs again, I crept silently up to see if I could find out anything; and, oh horror, I shall never forget the sight! Do let us go."

I must confess I felt a little creepy and nervous, but was myself again in a moment. Feeling her trembling and fearing another swoon, I began descending the stairs with her, when a light from below shot up to us. She clutched me convulsively, but was reassured by hearing my wife's voice calling out: "Frank! Mary! Where are you?"

"Here," I said; "all right."

Indeed," she replied, "I think it all wrong to give me such a fright."

We reached her by this time; and by the light of the lantern she had brought, she caught sight of Mary's blanched face.

To my wife's interrogatories respecting her illness the poor girl assured her that she was not ill, but terrified. "I will tell you all," she added, "when I get home."

I was thankful for the light, and left them walking on, whilst I ran up for Mary's painting materials, and locking the door I put the key in my pocket, meaning to return again after dinner to try to elucidate the mystery. When I joined them, Mary was asking my wife how she dared come alone all the way from my house to that dreadful place.

She replied, she would rather do so at any hour of the night than be kept in suspense, and added: As soon as the day began to close, I looked for you; but as you did not come, I thought Frank must have called for you and was lionizing you in the town. But when fully an hour after dinner was ready, he came back without you, and rushed off like a madman when I asked for you, I was for the moment bewildered; but thinking you must have been taken ill, and that Frank would want help and a light. I hurried to the kitchen for a lantern, and told one of the girls to put on her things and accompany me to the Duke's House, for you were there, and must have been taken ill. But would you believe it? She flatly refused, saying it served you right for going there; you would never be found, for never a person going near that house after dark was ever seen afterwards. I ridiculed her nonsense and appealed to the others; but neither would go, so I had no alternative but to come alone."

When we reached home, I went to the cellar, and got a bottle of Moselle, and made Mary drink off half a tumblerful; and then we sat down to dinner. We were just settled to dessert, when a friend dropped in for a hand at whist, and wondered at our being so late. I told him the reason; and then asked Mary for her story, as I had forbidden her talking about it until she had got her dinner.

She began: "After you left me, I worked on for a long while, until, feeling hungry, I looked at my watch and found it was past 2 o'clock. I ate my sandwiches, and after taking a turn through some of the rooms, settled into work again. I had not been long thus occupied when I was aroused by strange irregular noises which seemed to come from the landing above. I then awoke to the consciousness that I had been hearing the scuffling of feet for some little time. The scuffling commenced again; and I got up, moved cautiously to the door, which was ajar, and looked out just in time to see an old hag dissappear in a doorway above and the door close softly behind her. I stepped up, and noiselessly opened the door, and peeped in; but to my great surprise, the room was empty. I walked in to see if there was any other door through which she could have passed; but there was not; nor was there a window she could have got out of. I was fairly puzzled, for you know I don't believe in ghosts. I went down to my room, but could not settle to work. I went up again and again; but could discover nothing, nor could I detect a sound. It was broad day when I saw her; and now I found it was getting too dark for me to do any more of my painting, so I gathered all together, and put them in one corner, ready for to-morrow morning, and sat down to wait for you. As it was now getting dark, and I had been expecting you since three o'clock, I thought you must have forgotten me, so I went down to see if I could find any means of egress. As I could not, I returned to my room, where I could watch for your coming; for it was not so dark but what I could see any object crossing the court. Whilst I was thinking whether I should tell you about the old woman to-night or wait till to-morrow, the wind rose moaning amongst the trees, which made it very dreary; but soon I heard sounds above the soughing of the winds, strange heavy thuds below me; and the legends you told me as we walked through some of the rooms this morning rushed to my mind; but I soon banished such nonsense, knowing it must be produced by living beings."

"What did he tell you?" asked my wife.

Why, he told me about a very wicked Duke who for some baleful reason whipped his unfortunate wife every night throught the house, her lamentations being heard by any one who had the temerity to be near the house after dark. Well, all was quiet again for a little while, when I heard voices, and the sound of something being shuffled and dragged up the stairs toward the room I was in. I crept behind the door, and holding my breath, peeped through the crevice. To my horror I saw two ruffians dragging up something wrapped in a sheet; they dragged it to the room I had examined by daylight. The door opened, emitting a lurid glare. They entered but did not stay long, for they soon came out, and, tramped down stairs again, leaving the door partly open. I heard the sound of their footsteps die away in the lower basement, and all being quiet, I stole quietly up the stairs, and peeped into the room. There, before a fire of red embers, stood the old hag I saw go up in the afternoon. She was stirring something in a caldron on the fire, gibbering and muttering like the witches in Macbeth. She turned round, and I thought her gaze fell on me. I felt myself sliding down, and remembered no more until I was again aroused by the same two demons coming up with another bundle. What could I do? They would soon be up. I knew now that the old witch had not seen me, for I was left unmolested. I saw I might gain my room before they could possibly reach it, and they would not hear me above their own din. I did so and knew no more until you roused me."

When she had ended, I said: "Mary, dear, do you not think you must have dropped off to sleep whilst waiting for me, and your gloomy surroundings caused that very ugly dream? You know it has been proved that one minute's doze suffices the soul for vagaries which, in our waking hours, it would take weeks to perform.

"No," she replied; "I did not sleep one moment. Besides, should I sleep, do you think in broad day, especially after I saw the old woman vanish out of my sight?"

"Then you do not believe in ghosts?" I laughed out.

"Indeed I do not; but it is all so puzzling."

"And you are certain she did not come out again?"

"Quite positive; for I did not take my eyes off the door until I was in the room, and I walked into the large fireplace, and looked to see if she had hid herself there. But it was clear up to the sky."

Well, I would believe in its being haunted rather than its being a den of wholesale murderers. Were our town a seaport or near the sea, I should think it was a haunt for smugglers, who had had a scuffle with the coastguard, and had brought home their dead to give them burial. Then I thought of the resurrectionists or body-snatchers; but there was no medical school in the neighborhood, or I would have put it down at once to one of these worthies. The more I thought, the more I felt convinced that it was the result of my cousin's disordered imagination, from being left all alone after nightfall in such a ghostly building.

After a while I said: "Whist is out of the question to-night; no one's thoughts would be on his or her hand; so, if Tom would like a stroll, I am ready for one."

He eagerly accepted the invitation; but my wife and Mary both sprung up and intercepted us on our way to the door, saying I should not go out. She knew I meant to go to the House, and if I did, she would go too. I pooh-poohed the idea of going there, especially after what Mary had told us.

"You don't believe a word I have told you—I am sure you do not: I can see it by the twinkle of your eyes!" she exclaimed—"And don't you go, Tom, let me beg of you" (Mary had a special interest in Tom); "and then he won't care to go alone."

So Tom promised, fully meaning to keep the promise, I am sure; and we were allowed to pass.

As soon as we got outside, I said: Well Tom, I did not promise, nor do I wish to break yours; but I am off to the 'Duke's.' I have the key in my pocket, and wish to satisfy myself; to-morrow may be too late."

"Then you believe Mary's story?" he said.

"Well, I am bound to believe it, but it is not murderers or ghosts, and I'll find out before I come back. But don't you go in until I return, or you will be sending my wife after me, and all will depend on being quiet."

"Nay," he said; "if you go, I will. No great harm in breaking a promise of that kind; and it will be forgiven when I plead anxiety for your safety."

"Agreed," I replied. "But we must have a light. And if I go into the kitchen for my bull's eye, it will create suspicion there, and the news will be carried into the parlor."

"I have one at my lodgings," he said; "and it's on our road; we can call and get it."

We accordingly did; and Tom suggested our taking a pair of pistols, in case of need. I firmly believe Tom hoped for a brush with the villians.

Arriving there, we walked round the house before entering it, and peeped into every nook we could find. At last, we directed our glance to the upper regions; and about half-way up the circular tower we thought we could discern a light. This was the wing Mary had chosen for her sketch. Tom could see it too. So we determined on entering, and if possible solving the riddle. As we reached the second landing—it was a noble staircase with its carved ballustrade—we heard voices and thumping as of beating heavy substances against the walls. When we came to the story whence we saw the light on the outside, Tom produced his lantern to find the door, for so well did it fit that we could see no crevice of light to guide us; and having quietly opened it, we peeped in; but all was dark. We entered it; but it was quite empty, and the tapestry being stripped from the walls, showed nothing but the rough stones. All was now so quiet that it really seemed as though we had disturbed demon phantoms at their work.

I said to Tom: "What can be the meaning of this?"

When just as he was going to reply, the noises commenced again, and we stepped outside and listened attentively. At last Tom suggested: "One of these niches, which looked pannelled out for statues, must be a door."

We examined the one carefully next the room we had just left, and sure enough came upon a secret spring. Tom put his light out of sight and put his hand on his pistol. I very gently pressed the spring, when it noiselessly opened sufficient for us to see into the room. There was the old hag still at her brew, and one man with a knife dismembering the limbs of his victim He stopped his work to address some beings out of our sight; and we, having seen enough, quietly closed the door, darted down stairs, and soon reached home. Tom was always very pale, with large dark eyes; and when he entered the room where my wife and Mary were, his look told in a moment where we had been.

"Yes," I said in reply to their queries; "we have been there, and have seen enough to appal the stoutest heart." Here I caught Tom's well dissembled look of affright, and could contain myself no longer I flung myself on the couch and roared with laughter.

I laughed so long that my wife began to think my brain was turned. She looked at Tom, but he kept his countenance, and continued his idiotic stare. At last, seeing they were really frightened, I grasped out; "Murder will out! The corpses were pigs, scalded pigs; and the hag was the old woman that sells such splendid black puddings!"

When I took the key back to the old man, I asked him why he had his butcher shop at the top of the old building.

"Oh, sir," he replied, "don't tell on me. You see, sir, I make a little by letting it very cheap to these people. I should not be allowed, were it known. They use that room because no one knows of it, and they are unmolested. I can show the house without showing that room, to the strangers who visit the town. I used to make a good bit by showing it in former times, but very few come to see it now."

I never hear of haunted houses now but I think of the pig-killers.

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the exorciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

Experimental Agricultural Stations.

The Aberdeen Free Press of a late date has a long and favourable notice of the last annual report of the Ontario Agricultural College, and Experimental Farm which it says is yielding results of the greatest value for the agriculture of the Province, and cannot fail to contribute in a high degree to the progress and prosperity of Canada. From it we learn that there are two different kinds of institutions intended for the furtherance of agriculture which are attaining a wide extension and devlopment abroad. These are agricultural experiment stations and agricultural colleges and schools. The agricultural experiment station was founded by the Agricultural Society of Leipzig in Germany in 1851. By 1867 the number of these stations in what is now the German Empire had increased to twenty-three, and by the end of June last to sixty. In Britain there are private stations at Rothamsted, which has been carried on by Mr. John Bennet Lawes for nearly forty years at an annual expense of from £1,500 to £2,000, and which he has endowed with a sum of £100,000 in order that the investigations to which the station has been devoted may be continued in all time coming. Besides Rothamsted and one station carried on by the Royal Agricultural Society of England, there are two stations belonging to the Highland Society, and the stations of the Aberdeenshire Agricultural Association.

In Germany, again, there are four classes of institutions in which agriculture is taught, viz., agricultural farm schools, agricultural middle schools, agricultural colleges, and agricultural courses in Universities. Of the first two classes there are 156, all of which have farms attached to them, affording scope for the teaching of the practice of farming. There are six agricultural colleges in which a complete curriculum of the science and practice of agriculture is given, and which have attached to them farms of from 800 to 1,500 acres. After finishing his course at these colleges, the student is required to apply himself to practice for some time, after which he may enter the agricultural department of one of nine of the great national Universities.

In the United States there were in 1876 32 agricultural colleges, which were either independent or formed departments of Universities. Of these all, with the exception of five, had farms attached to them, ranging in value from 1,000 to 200,000 dollars. Both in Germany and the United States these educational institutions are endowed partly or wholly by the State.

In Canada says the Free Press there is a combined institution directed both to teaching and to experimental research—the Ontario School of Agriculture and Experimental Farm—the fifth annual report of which lies before us. The success of this institution as a school has been complete, fer the last year, while there was room for only 96 students, there were 247 applications for admission. This suggests an extension of the premises, and various other extensions are contemplated.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

The man whose name is Wood who threw the ball was so affected that he was under the doctor's care all night.

Bible Christian Conference.

JUNE 5.

The church was crowded to the utmost capacity, Rev. R. Thomas, of Clinton, opening with the 1st hymn and prayer.

The President then called upon the three candidates for ordination—J. Pooley, D. Williams, and T. M. Whitlock—to give a short account of their conversion, and call to the ministry, and their present religious experience, which they did clearly and briefly.

Their reception was then moved.

After an appropriate anthem by the choir, Rev. A. Clarke, the ex-President, delivered the charge.

Rev. R. Hurley offered the Ordinantion Prayer, when this very interesting service was closed with the Benediction.

Court of Revision.

This Court met last night in the Council Chamber, the following members being present:—Ald. McLagan (chairman), McMillan, Robertson, Hart and Coffee.

The appeals were disposed of as follows:

William Clarke appeals on the ground of over assessment of lots 53, Wyndham street; 52 and 44, Quebec street; 953, Carrigan street; 24 and 25, Marcon street; 32 and 33 Mary street; 40, Pipe street; 240, 11, 13, 38 and 39, Dublin street. Confirmed.

The Great Western Railway Company appeals on the ground that lots A and B, Suffolk street, are omitted from the roll, and because some one else may be assessed as the owners, and if so that they are not the bona fide owners. Refused.

John B. Powell appeals against assessment of lots 21 to 29, inclusive, Perth street, and first farm lot on said street. Confirmed.

Henry Sweet appeals against assessment of lot 64, Edwin street. Reduced $200.

Jane Budd, lot 41, Woolwich street. Reduced $100.

William Reed, lots 31 and 74, Delhi street. Confirmed.

Patrick O'Rourke, lots 41 to 43, and lots 49 to 52, Central street; lots 85 to 91, Exhibition street. Lot 48 to be assessed, and amount of assessment confirmed.

William. J. Standish, lot 75, Woolwich street. Confirmed.

Henry E. Smallpiece, lots 22 and 23 Kirkland street. Confirmed.

Felix Devlin, lots 327 and 328, Waterloo avenue. Reduced $200.

Nellie McArthur, lot 326, Waterloo avenue. Confirmed.

William Damer, 25, Wyndham street. Confirmed.

Robert Flaws, lot 34, Strange street. Confirmed.

John Mills, 39, Charles street. Confirmed.

John Smith, lots 19 and 23 Waterloo avenue, 44 and 45 Webster street, assessed to Birmingham.

Jno. Haffner, income. Confirmed.

Ald. Robertson and McMillan moved that the assessment roll for the year 1880 be now confirmed subject to the additions and reductions made by the Court of Revision, and that the Court now adjourn sine die. Carried.

A new sidewalk is to be placed on the north side of Carden street.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fresh to strong easterly to southerly winds increasing; followed by local showers to-night.

THERE was a considerable quantity of wool on the market to-day (Wednesday), which sold at from 30 to 32 cents per lb.

THE Young Men's Christian Association give a garden party at the residence of Mr. J. D. Williamson, on Thursday, 17th inst. See advt.

Dr. Clarke was charged at the Police Court yesterday by the Health Inspector with allowing a nuisance to exist in rear of his premises on Quebec street. He was fined $1 and costs.

THERE was a large crowd of people at the Grand Trunk passenger station this forenoon, who expected that the Princess Louise and Prince Leopold would pass through on the 11 oclock train on their way from Chicago. As stated in another paragraph the Royal party went by the Great Western by way of Hamilton.

INSANITY.—Mrs. Grace, who was taken to the gaol about three weeks ago while in delirium tremens, was brought before the Police Magistrate this (Wednesday) forenoon, charged with being insane. On the evidence of the woman's husband and Dr. Clarke, it was proved that she was insane, and she was committed to gaol to await an opening in the asylum.

BAD ROADS.—A number of leading roads within the city limits are in a bad state of repair. On Tuesday the axle of Mr. John Bennet's (Erin), waggon was broken through the wheel colliding with a stone on the York Road. The roads would be very much improved if they were even cleared of the stones.

PUSLINCH FARMER'S CLUB.—An adjourned meeting of this club will be held in the town hall, Aberfoyle, on Friday, the 18th June, at 7 o'clock. Subject of discussion: "The best mode of seeding down for hay and pasture." Alex. Smith will lead in the debate.

GUELPH LODGE A. F. AND A. M.—At the regular communication of this lodge on Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the coming year:—Henry Lockwood, W. M.; J. H. Finlay, S. W.; G. S. Oxnard, J. W.; S. S. Walsh, Chaplain; J. H. Moore, Treas.; Frank Locke, Sec.; Geo. Smith, Tyler.

WATERLOO cattle fair was held on Tuesday. A large number of fresh milch cows and young pigs were brought out and disposed of readily at good figures. Of fat cattle, the country is getting well cleared out by the demand for export, over 1,000 head having been shipped from this section within two months. About 25 head of fair cattle were on the ground, and sold at about 4c.

A DONATION TO THE HOSPITAL.—Mr. Charles Raymond has again expressed his intention of giving $100 to the General Hospital this year to pay for a bed in that institution to be used in case of accident to any of his employees. This is a proof of his forethought for the welfare of his men on the part of Mr. Raymond and of his liberality. The example might be followed by other manufacturers.

MINISTERS, Sunday school superintendents, and all interested in Sunday school work, are earnestly requested to call the attention of their people and schools to the fact that Sunday, June 27th, is the centenary of Sunday schools, founded by Robert Raikes. A meeting of Guelph Sunday School Teachers was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening to prepare for celebrating the event. After some discussion the meeting adjourned till Friday evening.

TAKE CARE.—Pleasure parties going up the river to Bradley & Craig's pleasure grounds at "Paradise" yesterday, report random shooting at the range while boats were passing up and down, and no red flag shown. The whistling of a bullet and report as it strikes the target may suit the ears of men and growing boys, but when ladies and children are on pleasure, it will be well for the marker and marksmen to have a care. It will be well, too, for passing navigators to stop and give some kind of alarm when in sight of the target, and then pull by as quickly as possible when the red flag is hoisted.

ORATORIO OF ST. PETER.—The choir of Our Lady's Church will give a grand sacred on the evening of Friday, June 25th, at the Church of Our Lady. The concert will be under the distinguished patronage of His Lordship the Right Rev. Dr. Crinnon, D.D., Bishop of Hamilton. This choir has on several occasions rendered, in a very creditable manner, oratorios of the most renowned composers. For this occasion the selection made is the Oratorio of "St. Peter," by Sir Julius Benedict. This composition is acknowledged by musical critics to be one of the grandest triumphs of musical art ever introduced. The proceeds of the concert will be for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital.

THE ROYAL PARTY ON THE WAY HOME.—The Royal visitors, after spending Tuesday sightseeing in Chicago left in the evening on the 5 o'clock train of the Michigan Central for Toronto. Prince Leopold, with Col. McNeil, Dr. Royal, and Mr. Collins, accompanied by Mr. Munro, visited the stock yards during the morning. Princess Louise with Captain Collins, visited several of the leading dry-goods and jewellery establishments, and the rest of the party drove to the South Park and boulevards. At three o'clock luncheon was eaten in the magnificent club house of the Chicago Club. Both the Prince and Princess expressed the greatest gratification at the many sights they witnessed during their stay in that city. The weather was delightful. It was expected the Royal party would pass through Guelph to-day (Wednesday) on the Grand Trunk Railway. They had intended returning by that line and a special train was arranged for their passage but they finally decided to come through to Toronto by the Western and the Grand Trunk special was cancelled. They will leave Toronto by boat this Wednesday afternoon for Kingston.

The Times says British trade returns for May show that business has sunk almost to last year's level, showing that the recent revival was in a great measure speculative. So far the United States have stood nearly alone as large buyers of English goods, which explains the keenness and short duration of the recent speculative wave.

Mr. Henry Stull, of Grantham, was relieved of his pocket book, containing between $30 and $40, on the circus grounds, St. Catharines, on Saturday.

Guelph General Hospital.

The annual meeting of the subscribers to the Guelph General Hospital was held in the Council Chamber, on Tuesday night. There was but a small attendance. Mr. John McCrea was called to the chair, and Mr. E. Newton appointed Secretary. Mr. George Elliott read the ANNUAL REPORT.

The directors of the Guelph General Hospital in submitting their seventh annual report, feel that it is a matter of great satisfaction to them that the Institution under their management is in such a high state of efficiency, and that it enjoys the confidence of the public, both in the city and county.

In looking back upon the work of the Hospital for the year since the last annual meeting in June, 1879, there are no very special facts to notice, the same daily routine, the same care and attention to the wants of the sick, upon the parts of the Matron, Stewart, Nurses and Servants of the Hospital as has characterised the institution since its opening, who have all well and faithfully performed the various duties allotted to them, and have carried out the instructions of the staff of medical gentlemen who have so nobly and generously given their time and their skill to the service of the patients in the Hospital.

The past year has been marked by a very large increased number of patients, 147 having been received into the Hospital, during that time of whom 8 have died, and 18 were remaining on the 1st June, 1880. This number is greater by about one-third than any previous year, and of the deaths 4 persons were admitted in an almost dying condition, and the remaining four were only of persons who were under treatment for any length of time, which shows a mortality of as low a minimum as is almost possible for the number of severe cases treated.

To meet the requirements of an increased number of patients (as many as 32 were in the Hospital at one time) the directors found it necessary to utilize the upper storey which they have done by constructing a staircase and dividing the upper portion into rooms, which will afford a much increased accommodation. They have also had water introduced into the building from the Public Water Works which will diminish the amount of labour in pumping water to the upper stories of the building. The grounds are in a good state of cultivation and yield a large amount of vegetables, &c., for the use of the Hospital, as well as roots and fodder for the cows which are kept to furnish a supply of milk.

Accompanying the report is the statement of the treasurer, which has been audited by the auditors appointed, and found correct. The statement gives a full and complete exhibit of the receipts and expenditure for the year, showing that there is required between four and five thousand dollars annually for the support of this charity. The directors feel that hitherto the necessary funds have been forthcoming, so they confidently trust that a liberal public will by their annual contributions, which at this time will be asked from them, furnish the means necessary for the increased expenditure consequent upon a constantly increasing number of patients.

Of the 147 of patients received into the Hospital during the year, 82 patients were from various parts of the County, and 65 from the city, which is a very large increase relatively in the number of County patients, which shows that the benefits derived from the Institution are more in favour of the inhabitants of the County than of the city. In appreciation of this fact, it would be a matter of great satisfaction to the directors if some of our rural municipalities were to avail themselves of the rule of the hospital by subscribing for a bed for the use of one or more patients belonging to their municipality.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE ELLIOTT,
Chairman Board of Directors,
Guelph General Hospital.

Examined and found correct.
ALFRED A. BAKER, WM. REYNOLDS, } Auditors.

Guelph, June 8, 1880.

The reports were adopted.

Messrs. A. A. Baker and Wm. Reynolds were appointed auditors.

Messrs. Geo. Murton and J. M. Bond were appointed scrutiners, and reported the following as elected Directors for the ensuing year:—Messrs. George Elliott, A. Lemon, F. W. Stone, Robt. Melvin, Wm. Wilkie, Geo. Murton, Sr., J. Innes, John McCrea, Jas. Goldie, Wm. Stevenson, J. M. Bond, Edwin Newton.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Chairman, Sec-Treasurer, Directors and Medical attendents, for their care and attention to their duties during the past year, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE CROPS ABOUT MEAFORD.—A correspondent at Meaford sends the following information: "Most of the farmers in this part of Ontario are through seeding. Fall wheat on the clay lands is much killed out with the wet weather, but on the sandy lands it looks excellent. The spring crops looks very well at present and the hay crop is likely to be good. The frequent showers that we are receiving is giving it a fine start. There is every appearance of an abundance of fruit this year. The trees have a good supply of blossoms at present. The potato bug has made its appearance again, but I don't think it will hurt the potatoes very much. By your market reports I see that potatoes are selling at Guelph for 25 cents per bag. In this neighborhood they are bringing from 60 cents to $1 per bag." The correspondent also sends a record of weather each day for last month. For want of space it is not published, but it may be said the statement shows that our northern friends are enjoying very fine growing weather.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY.—On Monday evening Convocation Hall was the scene of the annual dinner and reunion of graduates, at which an exceedingly pleasant evening was spent. The hall was brilliantly lighted and the tables tastefully arranged, so that when over 200 guests took their places round the "festive board" the scene presented was a very striking and happy one. The chair was occupied by the Chancellor, Hon. E. Blake. On Tuesday, the annual Convocation was held. There was a very large attendance. Hon. Mr. Blake presided. The degrees were confirmed, and prizes and scholarships distributed. When the name of Miss H. Charles, of Hamilton, was announced as the only lady who has passed with honours, and who had earned the high distinction of first year scholarships in the modern languages and in general proficiency, the audience applauded with the greatest enthusiasm. The graduates then presented to the University a portrait of Rev. John McCaul, L.L.D., President of of University College, and formerly Vice-Chancellor of the University, accompanied with a suitable address. The Chancellor then delivered an address upon our educational institutions, which all who heard it agree was a wonderfully brilliant one even for him.

The Educational Monthly, for this month contains very severe strictures upon J. Hughes' work on manual drill and Dr. McLelland's treaties on algebra, and says that unless the Minister of Justice saves the teachers from the tyranny of having such works forced upon them the matter must be brought before Parliament.

Although the Credit Valley line has now what is called a "mail" train on its time table, the mails will not be carried over the road yet for some time, probably next month.

The Chatham public is so well pleased with the result of their cedar block pavement that tenders are asked for the delivery of 200 cords of cedar posts for paving purposes.

The general impression with regard to the Bank of Montreal report is favorable. Mr. Smithers is commended for the frank and honorable manner in which he referred to the several matters which were touched upon in the report.

Mr. D. A. Jones, a Beeton man, has just arrived in London from Cyprus with several hundred queen bees, in collecting which he journeyed over 9,000 miles. By a judicious system of breeding Mr. Jones hopes to improve the bee race in America.

It it understood on reliable authority that Prof. Daniel Wilson will be appointed president of Toronto University, and Mr. Wovrand, of Magdalen College, Oxford, will take the professorship of classics, vacant through the resignation of Dr. McCaul.

At the late meeting of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, in Edinburgh, on the suggestion of the colonial committee, it was agreed to reduce the grants to Queen's College, Canada, by the sum of £100 per annum until the vote is extinguished; to discontinue the grant to the Divinity Hall, in Halifax, after two years, and to wind up as speedily as possible all operations in connection with organized congregations in the older settlements in the maritime provinces, and in Quebec and Ontario.

A new pest has made its appearance in the county of York, in the shape of a bug, very much like the potato bug—only about half its size, working destruction to the fruit trees,—as it eats all the young leaves and blossoms: it is not particular as to the kind, but seems to relish apple, plum, pear, current or gooseberries all the same. It has wings; is of dark grey color; and if shaken from the tree, lies on the ground as if dead for a while, then flies back to the tree.

The various Baptist societies of the United States have just been meeting in annual session at Saratoga. In this denomination there is no ecclesiastical organization—each individual church being independent But for purpose of united action in missionary and other matters, voluntary associations are formed, which embrace nearly all the leading members of the body, both lay and clerical. Among those lately meeting are the Home Mission Society, the Foreign Mission Union, and the American and Foreign Bible Society. The foreign mission work seems to be the most popular. During the present year about $300,000 was expended for this purpose by the Baptists of the United States, supplying over 150 male and female missionaries in Asia, Africa and Europe. In the home mission work some $182,000 were spent. This includes Indian missions.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

TUESDAY, June 8.

Fleury v. Burnett.—This was the first case on the civil list. It occupied the attention of the Court till Wednesday forenoon. The action was brought by the plaintiff, who is an agricultural implement manufacturer in Toronto, to recover $140, being the value of a reaping machine purchased by the plaintiff, Burnett, who lives near Elora. The plaintiff claimed that defendant had given a written order to have the reaper manufactured at the cost claimed and the order was produced. After the reaper was delivered defendant refused to pay for it, claiming that he had only agreed to pay $105 for it. He said he could not read and therefore did not know that the agreement had been filled in with $140. Verdict for plaintiff for full amount of claim. Mr. Watson, Toronto, for plaintiff; Mr. Jacob for defendant.

The Republican Convention.

Contrary to expectation, the Chicago Convention, on Tuesday, mominated Senator Garfield, of Ohio, as the Republicad candidate. The result is as we expected, Gen. Garfield was not at first dreamt of as candidate, but the anti-third term men, who were determined that Grant should not get the nomination, after the 35th ballots, united their strength, and finding that they could not elect Blaine went for Garfield, and gave him a handsome vote. His selection has forever broken down third-termism, a consummation most devoutly to be wished in the interests of the republic. Not a few of the Republican papers fought it hard, and to them the thanks of the party are due, for had Grant been nominated the chances are he would have been beaten. As it was they stuck to him to the last, but it was of no use, Garfield's nomination was received with great enthusiasm, and it was made unanimous by the Convention. We think it has made a good choice, and that the Republican standard bearer will win the victory. Garfield is believed to be a strong man, and his nomination has fallen like a bombshell amongst the Democrats, who were hoping to have Grant nominated, in which case they expected an easy victory. For Vice-President, Mr. Arthurs, of the New York Custom House was elected mainly through the influence of Mr. Conkling. It is doubtful whether his nomination will give strength to the party. After his nomination the Convention adjourned.

The Agricultural Commission.

This Commission met at Toronto, on Friday. In reference to No. 1 Section, Mr. Dymond reported that questions relating to the various subjects referred to in this section had, after revision by the Chairman, been forwarded to the reeves and clerks of the several township municipalities of the Province, 416 in number. These questions related to the general condition of agriculture and agricultural resources throughout the Province. The returns received numbered 242, the manner in which they were filled up being on the whole extremely efficient and satisfactory. These replies, when complete, will form a valuable contribution to the stock of information on this subject. Mr. Dymond also read a highly interesting paper furnished by T. H. Monk, of Toronto Observatory, on the importance of meteorological observations to agriculturists, and the immediate effects of temperature and the rainfall on the rate of production. Mr. Monk was present by invitation of the Commissioners, and gave some further oral explanation on the same subject. The Commissioners of Sections No. 2, 3 and 4, also met. No. 2 relates to grain growing, drainage, manures, and the recuperation of impoverished lands. It was decided to recommend that these questions be submitted to leading agriculturists in each electoral district, the presidents of local agricultural societies, and the presidents of local Granges. No. 3 deals with stock raising and dairying. They examined carefully and separately a long list of questions, grappling most thoroughly and comprehensively with every branch of the subjects, and agreed to report the questions as amended to the meeting of the Commissioners in full session. Mr. Wm. Whitelaw is one of the Commissioners in this department. No. 4 relates to fruit-growing, forestry, insects, insectivorous birds, and bee-keeping. The Commissioners examined lists of questions bearing upon fruit-growing in all its branches, as well as the other subjects embraced in their section, and decided upon a report to the Commission as to the method in which the information referred to might be most efficiently obtained. The Section then adjourned, to meet again for the examination of witnesses on Thursday and Friday next. A number of leading fruit-growers will be examined. Mr. Wm. Brown, of the Agricultural College, is one of the Commissioners in this department.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

The Conference Missionary meeting was held on Monday night, when the Centenary Church was filled. The Rev. W. W. Ross presided; Rev. Dr. Sutherland, the Secretary, gave an interesting address. The total amount subscribed to the relief and extension fund is $112,000; of this $70,000 has been paid. The home work was never more pressing than now. Urgent appeals have come from Manitoba for six missionaries, and British Columbia wants several for its increasing population. But he said they must not let the home mission engross all their sympathies.

The Rev. W. Williams also gave an interesting address.

Rev. James H. Messmore, M.A., of the north India mission, was introduced, and made a speech full of information concerning the work abroad.

June 8.

The following places were constituted missions: Holstein, Appin, Nepie n and Kenilworth.

The ordination class presented the president with a handsome photographical group of the young men ordained with the president in the centre of the group.

On invitation from the Methodists of the city of Brantford, the conference decided to hold their next annual conference in that city.

The Rev. F. W. McDonald, of the Irish Wesleyan Conference, and representative to the General Conference of the M. E. Church, U. S., was introduced to the Conference, and gave a brief but spicy and eloquent address.

The final reading of the stations was given, and the election of the chairman of districts proceeded with. The Chairman for the Guelph District is Rev. Wm. Williams; for Wellington District, Rev. C. Lavell. The following are the changes made from the first draft of stations published on another page:—

GUELPH DISTRICT.—Hespeler, F. Nugent; Plataville, F. H. Sanderson; Berlin W. G. Ford; Acton, Thomas L. Wilkinson.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT.—Kenilworth, R. Tyler; Harriston, G. A. Mitchell; Halstein, S. Tucker.

Harriston Correspondence.

Notwithstanding the advent of summer and its varied outdoor amusements, the literary associations still flourish. The Knox Church Society hold their meetings every alternate Monday and the Guthrie Church Society every alternate Tuesday. The next meeting of the former will be held 14th inst. The programme will consist of a debate; on the subject, "Resolved, that the stage as it now exists has a demoralizing tendency." The affirmative will be supported by Messrs. A. B. Emery, W. O'Conner, M. A., and Blackwood, and the negative by W. A. Smith, B. A., B. Hines, and Geo. C. Mills. The next meeting of Guthrie Church Association will be held on Tuesday evening the 15th inst., for which a programme consisting of readings, recitations, dialogues and music both vocal and instrumental, has been arranged.

Quite a number of new buildings are just now in course of erection here, all of which are of a substantial nature. This is an indication that Harriston is progressing.

Preparations are being made here for the celebration of Dominion Day. A programme which will do ample justice to so auspicious an event will be duly carried out here.

The entertainment of Knox Church Young People's Association will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, 22nd June. The programme is said to be an elaborate one, and well and carefully prepared, so that a good entertainment is anticipated.

Joseph Fisher, of the firm of Fisher & Irvine, on his late trip to Manitoba secured an order for 90 sleighs besides a number of cutters and harrows. He could have taken more orders, but owing to the large business of the firm otherwise they were unable to fill them. Fisher & Irvine are a good firm hence their success.

The second annual convention of the Presbytery of Saugeen Sabbath School will take place in Guthrie Church on Tuesday, the 27th of June. The teachers and managers of Knox and Guthrie churches are making great preparations for the events.

James Cummings will be on the market every Saturday, where he will be prepared to pay the highest market price in cash for good butter.

A game of base ball between Browns and Buckeyes of this place on Friday of last week on the Browns ground result in a victory for the latter by 4 to 6.

Richard Dowling, of the firm of Dowling & Leighton returned from an extensive business tour in Manitoba on Saturday. His mission was tolerably successful. He took a large number of orders, which the firm are now preparing to still. The furniture manufactured by this firm is fast gaining prominence.

A new cricket club has been started here with an efficient staff of officers and directors, and have equipped themselves with a good set of bats, wickets, balls and all other appliances for the game. They are now prepared to measure strength with sister clubs.

The Rev. G. A. Mitchell, B. A., now of Exeter, Huron County, will succeed Rev. J. R. Gundy as pastor of the C. M. Church here. The reverend gentleman is highly spoken of as a Christian minister of more than ordinary ability.

Erin Township Council.

Pursuant to adjournment, the Municipal Council of the Township of Erin met at Ospringe, on the 29th day of May, 1880, ten o'clock. The Reeve in the chair. Members all present. Council proceeded to business.

Moved by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that Robert Parker be removed from A. McDougall's road division to John Atcheson's, also that Nathaniel Reed be removed from John Graseby's to John Atcheson's division. Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan; seconded by Mr. Reed, that the Council do now form a Court of Revision, for the purpose of attending to appeals, after making the usual declaration. The Council formed a Court of Revision. The clerk presented to the Court several appeals, which were carefully examined and disposed of by the Court, after which, on motion by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Reed, the Court of Revision adjourned, to meet at the Town Hall, Erin Village, on Monday, the 28th inst.

Moved by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, that the fines collected from parties who sold liquor without license on the exhibition grounds last fall, be handed over to the directors of the agricultural society. Carried.

Moved by Dr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, that leave be granted to James O'Donnell to erect a pair of weigh scales on the side of the road in Ospringe, for as long a time as the said weigh scales offer no obstacle to public travel. Carried.

Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Dr. McNaughton, that the collector be paid his salary for last year, $90. Carried.

The Council then on motion by Mr. Reed, seconded by Mr. Kirkwood, went into committee of the whole, to consider the petitions for aid to roads and bridges, &c. After some time had been spent in talking over the matter, the committee rose and the Council resumed business. Other township business occupied the attention of the Council until adjournment, when it was moved by Mr. Kirkwood, seconded by Mr. Reed, that the Council do now adjourn, to meet at the Town Hall, Erin Village, on Monday, the 28th day of June, to attend to other appeals and close Court of Revision, and take up other business of the township.

The Half-Time System in Schools.

The following are the regulations adopted by the Galt Board of Education for the enforcement of the half-time system in the Public Schools:—

1. That in the opinion of this Board, a great injury is done to the younger pupils of our public schools and a large unnecessary expense is incurred by their too close confinement to the class rooms, and that by a judicious arrangement of intervals for recreation in accordance with that system, the health and intellectual culture of the pupils would be materially promoted, and a large reduction would be effected in the school expenditure.

2. That with a view to the carrying out of the system referred to, the pupils of junior third class and of all classes thereunder shall be classified and arranged in four divisions, as nearly equal in numbers as possible, each of such divisions to be under the care of but one teacher during hours of study and recreation.

3. That all the pupils of the school shall assemble in their respective class rooms at nine o'clock a.m. and half-past one o'clock p.m., as at present, that one-half of each division shall be in the class rooms for instruction during the first half of each forenoon and afternoon, and the other portion of each division during the latter part of the forenoon and afternoon.

4. That the half-time pupils at the Central School, when not in their class room, shall be under the charge of a competent person who shall instruct them in singing and calisthenics and exercise a general supervision over them while at play.

5. That as far as practicable the number of pupils in each division taught full time shall be kept as large as the school law will permit.

6. That such alterations in the school buildings and premises shall be made as may be necessary for the provision of ample play room and the carrying out of the changes set forth in the p receding resolution.

On Monday a young man, name unknown, attempted to get on a G. T. R. train near the Union Station, Toronto, when he fell between the cars, which went over him. Death was almost instantaneous, as the body was terribly crushed, one of the hands being cut to pieces.

On Monday Prince Leopold and the Princess drove to the water works, and afterwards to Lincoln Park, Chicago. They visited, in the afternoon, the immense dry goods store of Field, Leiter & Co., and subsequently visited other points of interest.

H. and M. Hawkins, male and female quacks, were up before Mr. F. G. Dunbar, J. P., at Shelburne, on Mouday, for practising medicine contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Medical Act. Mrs. Hawkins was fined $50 and costs or twenty days in Owen Sound gaol.

How Women go to Sleep.

Instead of thinking what she should have attended to before going to bed, she thinks of it afterward. While she is revolving these matters in her mind, and while snugly tucked up in bed, the old man is warming himself in front of the fire and wondering how he shall pay the next month's rent. Suddenly she says:—

'James, did you lock the door?'

'Which door?' said James.

'The cellar door,' says she.

'No,' says James.

'Well, you'd better go down and lock it, for I heard some person in the back yard last night.' Accordingly, James paddles down stairs and locks the door. About the time James returns and is going to get into bed, she remarks:

'Did you shut the stair door?'

'No,' says James.

'Well, if it is not shut the cat will get up into the bed-room.'

'Let her come up, then,' says James, ill-naturedly.

'My goodness, no,' returns his wife, 'she'd suck the baby's breath.'

Then James paddles down stairs again and steps on a tack and closes on a stair door and curses the cat and returns to the bed-room. Just as he begins to climb into his couch his wife observes:

"I forgot to bring up some water. Suppose you bring some in the big tin."

And so James with a muttered demurrer goes down into the dark kitchen and falls over a chair, and rasps all the tinware off the wall in search of the "big" tin, and then jerks the stair door open and howls; "Where the deuce are the matches?"

She gives him minute directions where to find the matches, and adds that she would rather go and get the water herself than have the neighborhood raised about it. After which James find the matches, procures the water, comes up stairs and plunges into bed.

Presently his wife says: "James, let's have an understanding about money matters. Now, next week I've got to pay——"

"I don't know what you've got to pay, and I don't care," shouts James, as he lurches around and jams his nose against the wall; "all I want is sleep."

'That's all very well for you,' snaps his wife, as she pulls the covers viciously; 'you never think of the worry and trouble I have. And there's Araminta, who I believe is taking the measles.'

'Let her take 'em,' says James.

Hereupon she begins to cry softly, but about the time James is falling into a gentle doze she punches him in the rib with her elbow and says: 'Did you hear that scandal about Mrs. Jones?'

'What Jones?' says James, sleepily.

'Why, Mrs. Jones.'

'Where?' inquired James.

'I declare,' says his wife, 'you are getting more stupid every day. You know Mrs. Jones that lives at No. 21. Well, the day before yesterday Susan Smith told Mrs. Thompson that Sam Baker has said that Mrs. Jones had——,"

Here she pauses and listens. James is snoring in profound slumber. With a snort of rage she pulls all the covering off him, wraps herself up in them and lays awake until 2 a.m. thinking how badly used she is.

An Important Copyright Decision.

An interesting and important judgment has been pronounced by the Hon. Mr. Justice Rapereau, of the Superior Court, Montreal, in the case of Black vs. Hood and Stoddart intervening. It appears that the plaintiffs in the case are the well known publishers of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," and the defendant was a book agent, of Montreal, who was taking orders for the American edition of the work, which was sold at about half the price of the English edition. The plaintiffs caused a writ of injunction to issue, enjoining Hood to refrain from selling the work. Messrs. J. M. Stoddart & Co., of Philadelphia, publishers of the American edition, through Messrs. Kerr, Carter & McGibbon, advocates, of Montreal, intervened in the suit, and pleaded that the injunction was improperly issued, in as much as our local Statute made no provisions for its employment in such cases. The learned judge has maintained the plea of the intervening parties and has dissolved the injunction. It is stated that Messrs. Stoddart & Co. are about to bring a heavy action of damages against Black & Co.

Mr. Archibald Forbes is at present engaged in painting a portrait of Sir John Macdonald, which is to be presented to Parliament by the Conservative members of the Commons and Senate and political admirers throughout the country. It will be life size.

Earning Your Own Living.

If your father is so situated that the care of his daughter is a burden upon slender resources, you ought to relieve him by working for yourself. Every woman should be able to support herself, if there is need for so doing. Hundreds would be very much happier if they did so when the need was not pressing. We are so constituted that alternate periods of work and rest are beneficial to us. Idleness is the bane of existence. The veriest butterfly among girls would live a gayer life if she had something more to do than to flirt from flower to flower. I am quite sure that the hard-worked, tired-out shop-girls, who have so few hours for repose, are often happier, because more genuinely self-respecting, than some indolent, dawdling young ladies, who kill time by reading silly novels, and whose chief aim seems to be the preservation from soil of their soft, useless hands.

A few years ago, teaching and sewing were almost the only vocations open to educated and gently-bred women. Now, all doors open at their light touch, and the lady—not less, but more, a lady if she honourably work—has but to lay her finger on what latch she wishes to choose. Work is not play. If she wishes to earn money, she must give skill, patience and unselfish diligence to her enterprise. The market is crowded, and only the best have a chance.

But the young woman who resolutely and cheerfully takes up a calling, and who pursues it with steadfastness, has as good an opportunity for success as her brother has in his field or profession. If it be her duty to work and earn her own livelihood, she need sacrifice no delicacy of sex nor lay beside any of her beautiful womanly modesty in doing so. She will also have a positive and not-to-be measured advantage if, in her self-supporting career, she can live at home. In the best boarding-houses open to working-women there is much which is not home-like.—Christian at Work.

THE RED MEN NOT DYING OUT.—It is demonstrated by the report of the Minister of the Interior that the Indians are far from dying out, and that, on the contrary, they are increasing in numbers. When the last census was taken, in 1871, there were 23,358 Indians in the Dominion, distributed as follows: Ontario, 12,978; Quebec, 6,998; Nova Scotia, 1,666; New Brunswick, 1,408; Prince Edward Island, 323, According to the report there was in these Provinces in 1879, 31,820 Indians, an increase of more than 1,000. In addition to these there are now: the Indians of Manitoba and the North-west territories 30,227, of Arthabaska district 2,398, of British Columbia 35,152, and of Rupert's Land 3,770, making in all 103,367 Indians, who have to be cared for by the Dominion.

A NEW POLITICAL PLAY.—Mr. Frechette's new play of "Papineau," which is a political four-act play in which the stirring events of 1837 are recapitulated, was given on Monday in the Academy of Music, Montreal, to a very full house. There is no doubt much merit in the piece, though it was not so smooth in performance as better rehearsals would have made it. There is a good deal of sentiment and liberty and Marseilles in the composition, while several lines are made to suit the Commercial Union and Independence views of some of Mr. Frechette's compatriots. At the close of the third act the author was presented with a wreath of golden laurels, and suitable allusion was made to the recent recognition of his works by the French Academy.

THE THUNDER BAY DISTRICT.—Of the Thunder Bay district a correspondent writes to the Stratford Herald: There are tracts of good loam soil 20,000 acres in extent to be given out as free grants, 160 acres to each settler. The large timber having been burnt off in great part, though plenty remains for fuel and rails, the land can be cleared entirely free of stumps at a trifling cost compared with the clearing of what is known as "bush farms." There are already about one hundred settlers engaged in farming who raise excellent crops of everything that be ordinarily grown in Ontario. This last winter the following prices were readily obtained: Potatoes, $1 per bush; oats, 60c; hay, $40 per ton. Should the demand from the mines ever fail for all sorts of produce it will be remembered that we have water communication direct to all the chief Canadian and American places of demand. The writer has a practical acquaintance with farming, and has been over most of the free grant districts in Ontario, and has no hesitation in saying that this country offers advantages superior to any he has seen.

A LEGACY.—A. G. Hunter, Estate and Loan Agent, of Dundalk, is at present investigating a legacy due to Mr. John Beaton, of Proton, which was left to him and his brother 22 years ago by Catharine McKinnon, of Florence. The amount willed by Miss McKinnon, with interest, amounts to $110,000, which is now in the hands of the Ambassador of Russia, who has consented to the payment thereof as soon as the claim is substantiated. The distance being so great, and the correspondence so lengthy, that it requires a long time to complete the matter.

Brantford Expositor:—A few days ago Mr. Joseph Harvey, of the second concession, Stanley, had a mare, which he valued at $200, that died, leaving a colt only a few days old. About the same time Mr. Duncan McEwen lost a colt. Mr. Harvey conceived the idea of skinning Mr. McEwen's colt, and placing the skin on his own which had been left motherless, and by this means induce Mr. McEwen's mare to suckle it. The experiment was entirely successful. The mare, as soon as she saw the colt with the false skin, owned it, and is now as affectionate towards it as if it were her own offspring.

HEIRS SWINDLED.—The multitudinous heirs of the Springer estate, which is said to await the proper claimants in England, and some of whom belong to this district, lately received circulars calling a meeting in Philadelphia, and soliciting contributions to an expense fund, the money to be forwarded immediately to 'King, Morris & Borie, lawyers, 524 Walnut street, Philadelphia.' Not less than $3,000 was sent; but when the heirs went to Philadelphia they could find no such lawyers. So says the Hamilton Times.

THE RACE FOR SENSATION.—The Hour remarks:—"Nothing is more characteristic of American life than the extent of which it is influenced and colored by sensational elements. Every year, nay every month and every day, develop fresh evidences of this tendency. It is observable alike in literature, business, politics and society. Even religion, or at least the outward manifestation of it, is not free from the besetting evil. The preachers who attract the largest audiences are invariably of a sensational turn. Many churches are social and religious clubs, in which wealth and position in society are the sources of spiritual pride as well as of secular exclusiveness."

The Reformed Presbyterian Synod of America, now in session in Philadelphia, makes the following utterance officially:—'Never was infidelity more bold or blatant. Newspapers are published professedly in the cause of infidelity. New books are written and old books reprinted, and lecturers go from city to city and town to town in the interests of the same unholy cause. And when an infidel lecturer of note appears in any of our cities larger audiences paying high prices for admission, crowd the halls and hail with applause the most profane and blasphemous utterances of the speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Hurlburt, missionary among the Indians for many years, but who has been living in Brantford for the past year, has made application to Conference to be given active work again.

Mothers!! Mothers!! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness

Undoubtedly with children, attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

The Pacific Railway.

The complete report of Mr. Sandford Fleming, Chief engineer of the C. P. R. just issued, contains a letter from Sir Charles Tupper, dated the 15th April, in which Mr. Fleming is asked to give an estimate of the cost of the road in view of the Pacific Railway debate, which would begin that afternoon. In his reply Mr. Fleming interprets the policy of the Government to be:

1. To construct the section between Lake Superior and Red River, with the limited gradients and curves set forth in my reports laid before Parliament, so as to secure cheap transportation, and to provide, by the time the railway shall be ready for opening, an equipment of rolling stock, and general accommodation sufficient for the traffic to be then looked for.

2. To proceed with the work west of Red River by constructing 200 miles on the route recently established. The roadway and works to be of the character defined by the 48th contract, and the tenders for the 66th contract recently received.

To proceed with the construction of 125 miles in British Columbia under the 60th, 61st, 62nd, and 63rd contracts. The expenditure on the 125 miles to be limited in accordance with the provisions of the contract, and the views set forth in my report of the 22nd November last.

To proceed gradually with the intervening distance. To delay placing additional sections under contract in British Columbia until the 125 miles are completed, or well advanced, thus preventing any undue increase in the price of labor.

To carry construction westward from Manitoba across the Prairie Region only as settlement advances.

He then estimates the cost of the road at $60,000,000 as stated by Sir Charles Tupper in the House, not including the cost of exploration and preliminary surveys throughout all parts of the country north of Lake Nipissing to James' Bay in the east, and from Esquimalt to Port Simpson in the west, between latitudes 49° and 56° not properly chargeable to construction, $3,119,618, or the cost of the Pembina Branch, $1,750,000, or with other amounts with which the Pacific Railway account is charged. He estimates the cost of opening the line from Fort William to the Eastern terminus at $20,000,000.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled "SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is noble benefactor.'

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to Hon. P. A. BISSELL, M.D., President of the National Medical Association.

Address Dr. W. H. PARKER, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass. The author may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. MTh

The French Government has issued orders for the entire expulsion of the Jesuits from France by the 30th inst. On that date the other religious communities will be summoned to declare whether they will conform to the decrees or not.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin has cabled to the Mayor of every city in the United States and Canada, asking for assistance to relieve the distressed which is again felt in Ireland, and which is likely to continue until the crops are in.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Royalty in Kingston.

KINGSTON, June 10,—Prince Leopold, the Princess Louise and suite, arrived here by the Grand Trunk last night. The train was run into the city, and at six o'clock this morning, the Royal party quietly embarked on board the steamer Spartian for Montreal.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, June 10.—Addison, the negro who was stabbed in a Richmond street brothel, is in a fair way towards recovery.

Fire at Clinton.

CLINTON, June 10.—At two o'clock this morning, the carriage factory of Cantlon Bros., was discovered to be on fire, which had made such headway that nothing was saved. Loss on buildings, $2,500; insured for $1,000 in the Phœnix Mutual; stock and tools, $2,500; insured in the Waterloo Mutual for $1,000, besides which all their books and notes were destroyed. The blacksmith shop of Mr. Gauley had the roof damaged. Loss small; supposed to be no insurance.

From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, June 10.—Mr. John Hill, who lives in the sixth concession of Marlborough, has been awarded the medal given annually by Mr. G. W. Monk, M.P.P., for the best kept farm in the County of Carleton.

The entries for the Queen's plate and Dominion Derby, close on the 15th.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

THURSDAY, June 10th.

The Queen v. Soper and Richardson.—The evidence in the first indictment was concluded. On the second indictment Soper pleaded guilty, and the complainant said he did not wish to prosecute Richardson. Sentence was deferred.

Murdoch v. G. W. R.—This action was brought by the plaintiff to recover $140 being the value of a horse killed on the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway, in Pilkington, where he resides. The horse escaped through a gap in a fence left open by some men who were repairing a bridge on the railway at that place. He says the Railway Company are bound to keep the fences along the track up, and the fact that a portion of this fence was down entitles him to damages. The defence is that plaintiff's hired man agreed to keep his horses in a field adjoining the one with the broken fence, and that as the hired man neglected to do so he was responsible for the accident. Verdict for plaintiff and $160 damages. Mr. Jacob for plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie, Q. C., for defendant.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY A FARMER.—John Sturges, a farmer living with H. Chatterson, near Mount Pleasant, county Brant, made an attempt to commit suicide on Tuesday by cutting his throat with a razor. He went into the barn, secured the doors, and made a large gash in his throat, but did not succeed in his design. He returned to the house shortly afterwards and the inmates seeing the blood asked what it was. He said it was paint, but blood was soon seen on the floor, and on discovering the real state of affairs a doctor was sent for and the wound dressed. It is supposed he is a little deranged. He gives as a reason for the act that he was tired of living. He is gradually sinking from loss of blood and his recovery is doubtful.

Local News.

THE trenches are being made for the new hydrants to be used for watering the streets.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south-easterly to south-westerly; partly cloudy weather with local showers.

CATTLE SHIPMENT.—Messrs. Laing and Roberts, Guelph, ships thirty-four head of cattle purchased in this neighborhood for Montreal, this (Thursday) forenoon.

NEW BAND STAND.—The property owners and residents along the Market Square, purpose erecting a handsome band stand in the place of the present one, if the Council will give them permission.

LEGAL.—Chancellor Spragge has decided that a chattle mortgage having eighteen months to run is valid; there being, however, special exceptions in some cases.

DOMINION DAY.—A few citizens, to whose efforts the last Dominion Day celebration held in Guelph was due, are speaking of making an effort to provide some entertainment on the 1st July this year, but so far they have not taken any steps in that direction.

PROMPT SETTLEMENT.—As will be seen by the card in another column, the Canada Fire and Marine Insurance Company have promptly paid the loss on the property of Mr. Stapleton, destroyed by fire on Monday morning.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday a son of Ald. Fairbank, aged 15 years, met with an accident by being thrown from a waggon. He was standing near the back end of the conveyance when the horse attaceed to it suddenly started forward. He fell on his head, and when picked up was insensible. He, however, soon recovered from the shock, and was able to be about again today (Thursday).

EXCURSION TO HAMILTON.—The excursion to Hamilton by the Great Western Railway, under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Association of the Nofolk street Methodist Church, was held to-day (Thursday). The party were not so large as was anticipated, only a few coming from Elora and Fergus, while 120 went from here. It was expected the number would be increased considerably at Hespeler and Galt.

VAGRANCY.—William Harris, of Hamilton, was found by P. C. Crooks in F.Law's fish stand this morning about four o'clock. He was taken to the station and locked up. When asked by the Police Magistrate this forenoon if he had anything to say to the evidence, he stated that he had served 17 years in the British army, and on that consideration asked to be discharged. He also promised to leave the city in three minutes if released, and was allowed to go.

THE CANADIAN CHAMPIONSHIP EMBLEM.—The Canadian base ball championship emblem offered by the Maple Leafs, arrived from New York on Thursday, and is now on exhibition at B. Savage's jewellery store. The emblem is a base ball club, regulation size, made of rosewood material. About six inches from either end there is a handsome silver band, and on the centre a silver shield, bearing the following inscription, "Champion Base Ball Club of Canada." The emblem is very suitable, and the winners will have an ornament they need not be ashamed to display. The club is encased in a neat morocco case.

YE EDITORS.—The Huron Signal says:—We have always contended that the two most potent engines for good should work harmoniously. The following from an exchange shows that the editors are willing to continue their good work even if they have to labor seven days in every week: During the absence of the Rev. R. W. Williams at the Stationing Committee and Conference sessions, the pulpits of Waterloo and Berlin have been handed over to the brethren of the quill. Last Sabbath Mr. Moore, late of the Acton Free Press, took all the services very acceptably, and next Sabbath Mr. Moyer, of the News takes Berlin in the morning and Waterloo in the afternoon, and the editor of the Chronicle takes the evening service in Berlin.

PROPERTY OUT WEST.—Mr. Miller, a former resident of Rockwood, who has been settled for seven years at Prince Albert, gives glowing accounts of the progress he has made out West. He has sown this year over a hundred acres of grain. His crop last year amounted to some 3,000 bushels, for which he received from $2 to $3 per bushel. His gains last year from his crops and his cattle netted the nice little sum of $7,000. He has now three span of horses working on his place, and is generally in quite a prosperous condition. He says that the land in the vicinity of Prince Albert is superior to any between that point and Portage la Prairie. The soil is deep, somewhat sandy loam, extremely well adapted to the growth of crops. Wood is abundant and the water is excellent. Some 2,000 people, Mr. Miller says, are settled in that section of the country. He has no desire to return eastward, even to Manitoba.

There was a lively scene in the Montreal Court of Special Sessions on Tuesday, when the Crown prosecutor charged F. B. McNamee with collusion in the sudden disappearance of his witness. The service of the police was required to preserve order, and at one time a riot seemed imminent. Mr. McNamee was subsequently committed to gaol for ten days for contempt to court.

The second annual meeting of the Sabbath School Convention of the Presbytery of Saugeen, will be held in Guthrie Church, Harriston, on Tuesday, 27th of July. It is expected that each Sabbath School in the division will be represented. A very interesting programme has been prepared, which will go far to make this meeting one of the most successful yet held.

The London Free Press says: The Rev. T. W. Handford was in that city on Monday, stopping at the Cousins House. The name was duly registered at the hotel, and a clerical looking person answering his description took dinner there. It will be remembered that about this time it was given out that Rev. T. W. Handford was seriously ill at his home in Toronto. That statement does not tally with the circumstances as understood here.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias on Tuesday, 8th inst., reports of Grand Lodge officers were received. The report of the Grand Keeper of Records and Seal showed the number of members in Ontario to be 692, 153 members being added during the year. Receipts for the year, $4,300.50. Expended in relief during the year, $3,565.77. Grand Lodge receipts, $523.27. Expenses, $237.97. Reports received from the various lodges shows the Order to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The mistress of a cigar shop to a young Bohemian journalist: "This is the sixth time you have been here without saying a word about the money you owe me!" "Ah, madame," said the clever rascal, "When one sees you they forget everything!"

"How do you pronounce s-t-i-n-g-y?" Professor Stearns asked the young gentleman nearest the foot of the class. And the smart bad boy stood up and said, it depended a great deal whether the word applied to a man or a bee. Go to the head, young fellow.

A little fellow of five going along the street with a dinner pail is stopped by a kind hearted gentleman, who says: "Where are you going, my little man?" "To school." "And what do you do at school? You learn to read?" "No." "To write?" "No." "To count?" "No." "What do you do!" "I wait for school to let out."

The Handford Scandal.

The Pastor Released at his own Request.

A meeting of the Bond-street congregation, Toronto, took place on Wednesday night. Mr. Frazer occupied the chair, and said that the pastor was laboring under mental depression. As far as he was concerned, he had every confidence in Mr. Handford, who had only been guilty of an act of indiscretion. Under the circumstances, however, and in view of the persecution to which they were subjected from the outside, he had advised Mr. Hanford to tender his resignation. In response to that request Mr. Handford had written asking that the officers and members of the Church would relieve him of his pastoral duties as soon as possible.

Mr. Ireson moved, seconded by Mr. Passmore, that the pastor be dismissed.

Mr. Law moved in amendment to the effect that Mr. Handford be relieved of his pastoral duties in accordance with his letter.

The amendment was carried, 75 voting for it and 16 against it.

The original motion was then put and lost on a similar division.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MONTREAL, June 8.—The Sixth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was opened with the usual services in the Crescent street Presbyterian Church, Montreal, on Tuesday evening. Rev. Wm. Reid, D. D., of Toronto, Moderator, in the chair, who preached the opening sermon. After the Assembly was constituted the Rev. D. McCrae, of St. John, N. B., was appointed Moderator.

Rev. Mr. Torrance presented the report of the Committee on Business, which recommended that the vacant clerkship formerly occupied by the late Rev. Prof. McKerras, be filled by Rev. Dr. Fraser. The consideration of this was left over till to-morrow.

Congregational Union.

MONTREAL, June 9.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the above Union was opened in Emmanuel Congregational Church to-night. There was a large number of ministers and delegates from all parts of the Dominion present. The Rev. Dr. Juff, of Sherbrooke, opened the introductory services, after which the Rev. H. D. Powis, of Toronto, preached the annual sermon.

At the close of the sermon the Standing Committees were nominated.

The Unlearned Professions.

It may be said that the pursuit of wealth needs no incentive; it will always have its votaries, but yet may often be an utterly ignoble calling. Too true may be this answer, and for that reason the more should the real function of the capitalist be defined, the public necessity for the accumulation of wealth be martered, and the profession of manufacturer and merchant be provided for in our method of education as a profession of equal dignity, equal rank and equal usefulness with the profession of the minister, the lawyer, the doctor or the scientist. It is very true that these pursuits may ignobly followed, but not more so than many others. The man who spends his life in the pursuit of gain for its own srke. irrespective of the service that he renders, and even ignorant of it, yet saves substance that must be used in order to give it value to him, and in its use others are aided who must else have suffered; but the student who passes his life in the mere pursuit of knowledge for its own sake only, making no effort to spend his work for the good of humanity, leaves naught behind, and has been supported by others, rendering no service in return; the yet more selfish person whose sole care is to look after his own salvation in a future life may so wholly ignore his right service in this one as to become a less useful member of society, a less righteous force, than another, whose hasty impulses make him often a sinner, but whose great unselfish heart, goodwill to his fellowmen and kindly words and deeds more than atone for his errors. The capitalist who applies inventions and saves men from noxious or arduous drudgery is the true labor reformer.—June Atlantic.

SUICIDE BY A MINISTER.—Rev. S. W. Folger, Baptist minister of Delhi, hanged himself there on Wednesday from a beam in his barn. The position in which he was found by his son and housekeeper showed a determination on his part to put an end to his life, as he could have saved himself at any time before death had he repented. He must have lowered himself gradually by the side of a stationary ladder and died of strangulation. No cause for the act is known, but it is supposed to have been due to aberration of mind.

THREATENED SECESSION OF A METHODIST CHURCH.—Affairs at the Dundas street Centre Methodist Church, London, terminated in an indignation meeting of the congregation on Friday night, at which a number of addresses were delivered, and a resolution passed to send a second delegation to Hamilton to protest against the appointment. Next morning the following telegram was despatched to the Conference:—"If the minister is not changed, a number of the members of the various Methodist churches in this city will build a free Methodist church immediately. We mean business."

A CLEVER LADY CANVASSER.—The neatest thing in connection with the elections which I have heard was said by lady Manderville, who, canvassing energetically for her husband at Huntingdon, was told by a rough "that they didn't come there to hear girls talk." Nothing unbashed, Lady Manderville replied, "Come, come, give us a chance! This is leap year; and if we don't talk now, we never shall again!"

How "Ruby" Played.

(By Request.)

Jud Brownin, when visiting New York, goes to hear Rubenstein, and gives the following description of his playing.

Well, sir, he had the blamedest, biggest, catty-cornedest pianner you ever laid eyes on; somethin' like a distracted billiard table on three legs. The lid was hoisted, and mighty well it was. If it hadn't been he'd a tore the entire inside clean out, and scattered 'em to the four winds of heaven.

Played well? You bet he did; but don't interrupt me. When he first sit down, he 'peared to keer mighty little 'bout playin', and wisht he hadn't come. He tweedleeede'd a little on the treble, and twoodleoodled some on the base—just foolin' and boxin' the thing's jaws for bein in his way. And I says to a man settin' next to me, says I: "What sort of fool playin' is that?" And he says, "Heish!" But presently his hands commenced chasin one another up and down the keys, like a passel of rats scamperin, through a garret very swift. Parts of it was sweet, though, and reminded me of a sugar squirrel turnin' the wheel of a candy cage.

"Now," I says to my neighbor, "he's showin' off. He thinks he's a-doin' of it, but he ain't got no idee, no plan of nothin'. If he'd play me a tune of some kind or other I'd—"

But my neighbor says "Heish!" very impatient.

I was just about to git up an' go home, bein' tired of that foolishness, when I heard a little bird waking up away off in the woods and call sleepy-like to his mate, and I looked up and see that Rubin was beginning to take some interest in his business, and I sit down again. It was the peep of day. The light came faint from the east, the breezes blowed gentle and fresh, some more birds waked up in the orchard, then some more in the trees near the house, and all begun singing together.

People began to stir and the gal opened the shutters. Just then the first beams of the sun fell upon the blossoms a leetle more, and it techt the roses on the bushes and the next thing it was broad day; the sun fairly blazed the birds sung like they'd split their little throats; all the leaves was movin', and flashin' diamonds of dew, and the whole wide world was as bright and happy as a king. Seemed to me like there was a good breakfast in every house in the land and not a sick child or woman anywhere. It was a fine mornin'.

And I says to my neighbor: "That's music, that is."

And he glared at me like he'd like to cut my throat.

Presently the wind turned; it begun to thicken up again, and a kind of gray mist came over things: I got low-spirited directly. Then a silver rain begun to fall. I could see the drops touch the ground; some flashed up like long pearl ear-rings, and the rest rolled away like round rubies. It was pretty but melancholy. Then the pearls gathered themselves into long strands and necklaces, and then they melted into thin silver streams, running between golden gravels, and then the streams joined each other at the bottom of the hill, and made a brook that flowed silent, except that you could kinder see the music, specially when the bushes on the bank moved as the music went along down the valley. I could smell the flowers in the meadow. But the sun didn't shine, nor the birds sing; it was a foggy day, but not cold.

The most curious thing was the little white angel-boy, like you see in pictures that run ahead of the music brook and led it on, and on, away out of the world where no man ever was, certain. I could see that boy just as plain as I see you. Then the moonlight came, without any sunset, and shone on the graveyards, where some few ghosts lifted up their hands and went over the wall, and between the black, sharp-top trees splendid marble houses rose up, with fine ladies in the lit-up windows, and men that loved 'em, but could never get a-nigh 'em, who played on guitars under the trees and made me miserable that I could have cried because I wanted to love somebody, I don't know who, better than the men with the guitars did.

Then the sun went down, it got dark, the wind moaned and wept like a lost child for its dead mother, and I could a got up then and there and preached a better sermon than any I ever listened to. There wasn't a thing in the world left to live for, not a blame thing, and yet I didn't want the music to stop one bit. It was happier to be miserable than to be happy without being miserable. I couldn't understand it. I hung my head and pulled out my handkerchief, and blowed my nose loud to keep me from cryin'. My eyes is weak anyway; I didn't want anybody to be a-gazin' at me a-snivlin', and it's nobody's business what I do with my nose. It's mine. But some several glared at me mad as blazes. Then, all of a sudden, old Rubin changed his tune. He ripped out and he rared, he tipped and he tared, he pranced and he charged like the grand entry at a circus. 'Peared to me that all the gas in the house was turned on at once, things got so bright, and I hilt up my head, ready to look any man in the face, and not afraid of nothin'. It was a circus, and a brass band, and a big ball all goin' on at the same time. He lit into them keys like a thousand of brick; he give em no rest day or night; he set every livin' joint in me a-goin', and not bein' able to stand it no longer, I jumped spang onto my seat, and jest hollered;

"Go it, my Rube!"

Every blamed man, woman, and child in the house riz on me, and shouted, "Put him out! put him out?"

"Put your great grandmother's grizzly gray greenish cat into the middle of next month!" I says. "Teech me if you dare? I paid my money and you jest come a-nigh me!"

With that some several policemen run up, and I had to simmer down. But I would a fit any fool that laid hands on me, for I was bound to hear Ruby out or die.

He had changed his tune again. He hop-light ladies and tip-toed fine from end to end of the key-board. He played soft and low and solemn. I heard the church bells over the hills. The candles of heaven was lit, one by one; I saw the stars rise. The great organ of eternity began to play from the world's end to the world's end and all the angels went to prayers.

(CONCLUDED TO-MORROW.)

"Henry," said his wife with a chilling severity, "I saw you coming out of a saloon this afternoon." "Well, my darling," replied the heartless man, "you wouldn't have your husband staying in a saloon all day, would you?"

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Royalty in Kingston.

KINGSTON, June 10,—Prince Leopold, the Princess Louise and suite, arrived here by the Grand Trunk last night. The train was run into the city, and at six o'clock this morning, the Royal party quietly embarked on board the steamer Spartian for Montreal.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, June 10.—Addison, the negro who was stabbed in a Richmond street brothel, is in a fair way towards recovery.

Fire at Clinton.

CLINTON, June 10.—At two o'clock this morning, the carriage factory of Cantlon Bros., was discovered to be on fire, which had made such headway that nothing was saved. Loss on buildings, $2,500; insured for $1,000 in the Phœnix Mutual; stock and tools, $2,500; insured in the Waterloo Mutual for $1,300, besides which all their books and notes were destroyed. The blacksmith shop of Mr. Gauley had the roof damaged. Loss small; supposed to be no insurance.

From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, June 10.—Mr. John Hill, who lives in the sixth concession of Marlborough, has been awarded the medal given annually by Mr. G. W. Monk, M.P.P., for the best kept farm in the County of Carleton.

The entries for the Queen's plate and Dominion Derby, close on the 15th.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

THURSDAY, June 10th.

The Queen v. Soper and Richardson.—The evidence in the first indictment was concluded. On the second indictment Soper pleaded guilty, and the complainant said he did not wish to prosecute Richardson. Sentence was deferred.

Murdoch v. G. W. R.—This action was brought by the plaintiff to recover $140 being the value of a horse killed on the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway, in Pilkington, where he resides. The horse escaped through a gap in a fence left open by some men who were repairing a bridge on the railway at that place. He says the Railway Company are bound to keep the fences along the track up, and the fact that a portion of this fence was down entitles him to damages. The defence is that plaintiff's hired man agreed to keep his horses in a field adjoining the one with the broken fence, and that as the hired man neglected to do so he was responsible for the accident. Verdict for plaintiff and $160 damages. Mr. Jacob for plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie, Q. C., for defendant.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—Ed.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY A FARMER.—John Sturges, a farmer living with H. Chatterson, near Mount Pleasant, county Brant, made an attempt to commit suicide on Tuesday by cutting his throat with a razor. He went into the barn, secured the doors, and made a large gash in his throat, but did not succeed in his design. He returned to the house shortly afterwards and the inmates seeing the blood asked what it was. He said it was paint, but blood was soon seen on the floor, and on discovering the real state of affairs a doctor was sent for and the wound dressed. It is supposed he is a little deranged. He gives as a reason for the act that he was tired of living. He is gradually sinking from loss of blood and his recovery is doubtful.

Local News.

THE trenches are being made for the new hydrants to be used for watering the streets.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south-easterly to south-westerly; partly cloudy weather with local showers.

CATTLE SHIPMENT.—Messrs. Laing and Roberts, Guelph, ships thirty-four head of cattle purchased in this neighborhood for Montreal, this (Thursday) forenoon.

NEW BAND STAND.—The property owners and residents along the Market Square, purpose erecting a handsome band stand in the place of the present one, if the Council will give them permission.

LEGAL.—Chancellor Spragge has decided that a chattle mortgage having eighteen months to run is valid; there being, however, special exceptions in some cases.

DOMINION DAY.—A few citizens, to whose efforts the last Dominion Day celebration held in Guelph was due, are speaking of making an effort to provide some entertainment on the 1st July this year, but so far they have not taken any steps in that direction.

PROMPT SETTLEMENT.—As will be seen by the card in another column, the Canada Fire and Marine Insurance Company have promptly paid the loss on the property of Mr. Stapleton, destroyed by fire on Monday morning.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday a son of Ald. Fairbank, aged 15 years, met with an accident by being thrown from a waggon. He was standing near the back end of the conveyance when the horse attaceed to it suddenly started forward. He fell on his head, and when picked up was insensible. He, however, soon recovered from the shock, and was able to be about again today (Thursday).

EXCURSION TO HAMILTON.—The excursion to Hamilton by the Great Western Railway, under the auspices of the Young Peoples' Association of the Nofolk street Methodist Church, was held to-day (Thursday). The party were not so large as was anticipated, only a few coming from Elora and Fergus, while 120 went from here. It was expected the number would be increased considerably at Hespeler and Galt.

VAGRANCY.—William Harris, of Hamilton, was found by P. C. Crooks in F. Law's fish stand this morning about four o'clock. He was taken to the station and locked up. When asked by the Police Magistrate this forenoon if he had anything to say to the evidence, he stated that he had served 17 years in the British army, and on that consideration asked to be discharged. He also promised to leave the city in three minutes if released, and was allowed to go.

THE CANADIAN CHAMPIONSHIP EMBLEM.—The Canadian base ball championship emblem offered by the Maple Leafs, arrived from New York on Thursday, and is now on exhibition at B. Savage's jewellery store. The emblem is a base ball club, regulation size, made of rosewood material. About six inches from either end there is a handsome silver band, and on the centre a silver shield, bearing the following inscription, "Champion Base Ball Club of Canada." The emblem is very suitable, and the winners will have an ornament they need not be ashamed to display. The club is encased in a neat morocco case.

YE EDITORS.—The Huron Signal says:—We have always contended that the two most potent engines for good should work harmoniously. The following from an exchange shows that the editors are willing to continue their good work even if they have to labor seven days in every week: During the absence of the Rev. R. W. Williams at the Stationing Committee and Conference sessions, the pulpits of Waterloo and Berlin have been handed over to the brethren of the quill. Last Sabbath Mr. Moore, late of the Acton Free Press, took all the services very acceptably, and next Sabbath Mr. Moyer, of the News takes Berlin in the morning and Waterloo in the afternoon, and the editor of the Chronicle takes the evening service in Berlin.

PROPERTY OUT WEST.—Mr. Miller, a former resident of Rockwood, who has been settled for seven years at Prince Albert, gives glowing accounts of the progress he has made out West. He has sown this year over a hundred acres of grain. His crop last year amounted to some 3,000 bushels, for which he received from $2 to $3 per bushel. His gains last year from his crops and his cattle netted the nice little sum of $7,000. He has now three span of horses working on his place, and is generally in quite a prosperous condition. He says that the land in the vicinity of Prince Albert is superior to any between that point and Portage la Prairie. The soil is deep, somewhat sandy loam, extremely well adapted to the growth of crops. Wood is abundant and the water is excellent. Some 2,000 people, Mr. Miller says, are settled in that section of the country. He has no desire to return eastward, even to Manitoba.

A little fellow of five going along the street with a dinner pail is stopped by a kind hearted gentleman, who says: "Where are you going, my little man?" "To school." "And what do you do at school? You learn to read?" "No." "To write?" "No." "To count?" "No." "What do you do!" "I wait for school to let out."

The Handford Scandal.

The Pastor Released at his own Request.

A meeting of the Bond-street congregation, Toronto, took place on Wednesday night. Mr. Frazer occupied the chair, and said that the pastor was laboring under mental depression. As far as he was concerned, he had every confidence in Mr. Handford, who had only been guilty of an act of indiscretion. Under the circumstances, however, and in view of the persecution to which they were subjected from the outside, he had advised Mr. Hanford to tender his resignation. In response to that request Mr. Handford had written asking that the officers and members of the Church would relieve him of his pastoral duties as soon as possible.

Mr. Ireson moved, seconded by Mr. Passmore, that the pastor be dismissed.

Mr. Law moved in amendment to the effect that Mr. Handford be relieved of his pastoral duties in accordance with his letter.

The amendment was carried, 75 voting for it and 16 against it.

The original motion was then put and lost on a similar division.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MONTREAL, June 8.—The Sixth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was opened with the usual services in the Crescent street Presbyterian Church, Montreal, on Tuesday evening. Rev. Wm. Reid, D. D., of Toronto, Moderator, in the chair, who preached the opening sermon. After the Assembly was constituted the Rev. D. McCrae, of St. John, N. B., was appointed Moderator.

Rev. Mr. Torrance presented the report of the Committee on Business, which recommended that the vacant clerkship formerly occupied by the late Rev. Prof. McKerras, be filled by Rev. Dr. Fraser. The consideration of this was left over till to-morrow.

MONTREAL, June 9.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the above Union was opened in Emmanuel Congregational Church to-night. There was a large number of ministers and delegates from all parts of the Dominion present. The Rev. Dr. Duff, of Sherbrooke, opened the introductory services, after which the Rev. H. D. Powis, of Toronto, preached the annual sermon.

At the close of the sermon the Standing Committees were nominated.

The Unlearned Professions.

It may be said that the pursuit of wealth needs no incentive; it will always have its votaries, but yet may often be an utterly ignoble calling. Too true may be this answer, and for that reason the more should the real function of the capitalist be defined, the public necessity for the accumulation of wealth be martered, and the profession of manufacturer and merchant be provided for in our method of education as a profession of equal dignity, equal rank and equal usefulness with the profession of the minister, the lawyer, the doctor or the scientist. It is very true that these pursuits may ignobly followed, but not more so than many others. The man who spends his life in the pursuit of gain for its own sake, irrespective of the service that he renders, and even ignorant of it, yet saves substance that must be used in order to give it value to him, and in its use others are aided who must else have suffered; but the student who passes his life in the mere pursuit of knowledge for its own sake only, making no effort to spend his work for the good of humanity, leaves naught behind, and has been supported by others, rendering no service in return; the yet more selfish person whose sole care is to look after his own salvation in a future life may so wholly ignore his right service in this one as to become a less useful member of society, a less righteous force, than another, whose hasty impulses make him often a sinner, but whose great unselfish heart, goodwill to his fellowmen and kindly words and deeds more than atone for his errors. The capitalist who applies inventions and saves men from noxious or arduous drudgery is the true labor reformer.—June Atlantic.

SUICIDE BY A MINISTER.—Rev. S. W. Folger, Baptist minister of Delhi, hanged himself there on Wednesday from a beam in his barn. The position in which he was found by his son and housekeeper showed a determination on his part to put an end to his life, as he could have saved himself at any time before death had he repented. He must have lowered himself gradually by the side of a stationary ladder and died of strangulation. No cause for the act is known, but it is supposed to have been due to aberration of mind.

THREATENED SECESSION OF A METHODIST CHURCH.—Affairs at the Dundas street Centre Methodist Church, London, terminated in an indignation meeting of the congregation on Friday night, at which a number of addresses were delivered, and a resolution passed to send a second delegation to Hamilton to protest against the appointment. Next morning the following telegram was despatched to the Conference:—"If the minister is not changed, a number of the members of the various Methodist churches in this city will build a free Methodist church immediately. We mean business."

A CLEVER LADY CANVASSER.—The neatest thing in connection with the elections which I have heard was said by lady Manderville, who, canvassing energetically for her husband at Huntingdon, was told by a rough "that they didn't come there to hear girls talk." Nothing unbashed, Lady Manderville replied, "Come, come, give us a chance! This is leap year; and if we don't talk now, we never shall again!"

How "Ruby" Played.

(By Request.)

Jud Brownin, when visiting New York, goes to hear Rubenstein, and gives the following description of his playing.

Well, sir, he had the blamedest, biggest, catty-cornedest pianner you ever laid eyes on; somethin' like a distracted billiard table on three legs. The lid was hoisted, and mighty well it was. If it hadn't been he'd a tore the entire inside clean out, and scattered 'em to the four winds of heaven.

Played well? You bet he did; but don't interrupt me. When he first sit down, he 'peared to keer mighty little 'bout playin', and wisht he hadn't come. He tweedle-leede'd a little on the treble, and twoodle-oodled some on the base—just foolin' and boxin' the thing's jaws for bein in his way. And I says to a man settin' next to me, says I: "What sort of fool playin' is that?" And he says, "Heish!" But presently his hands commenced chasin one another up and down the keys, like a passel of rats scamperin, through a garret very swift. Parts of it was sweet, though, and reminded me of a sugar squirrel turnin' the wheel of a candy cage.

"Now," I says to my neighbor, "he's showin' off. He thinks he's a-doin' of it, but he ain't got no idee, no plan of nothin'. If he'd play me a tune of some kind or other I'd—"

But my neighbor says "Heish!" very impatient.

I was just about to git up an' go home, bein' tired of that foolishness, when I heard a little bird waking up away off in the woods and call sleepy-like to his mate, and I looked up and see that Rubin was beginning to take some interest in his business, and I sit down again. It was the peep of day. The light came faint from the east, the breezes blowed gentle and fresh, some more birds waked up in the orchard, then some more in the trees near the house, and all begun singing together.

People began to stir and the gal opened the shutters. Just then the first beams of the sun fell upon the blossoms a leetle more, and it techt the roses on the bushes and the next thing it was broad day; the sun fairly blazed the birds sung like they'd split their little throats; all the leaves was movin', and flashin' diamonds of dew, and the whole wide world was as bright and happy as a king. Seemed to me like there was a good breakfast in every house in the land and not a sick child or woman anywhere. It was a fine mornin'.

And I says to my neighbor: "That's music, that is."

And he glared at me like he'd like to cut my throat.

Presently the wind turned; it begun to thicken up again, and a kind of gray mist came over things: I got low-spirited directly. Then a silver rain begun to fall. I could see the drops touch the ground; some flashed up like long pearl ear-rings, and the rest rolled away like round rubies. It was pretty but melancholy. Then the pearls gathered themselves into long strands and necklaces, and then they melted into thin silver streams, running between golden gravels, and then the streams joined each other at the bottom of the hill, and made a brook that flowed silent, except that you could kinder see the music, specially when the bushes on the bank moved as the music went along down the valley. I could smell the flowers in the meadow. But the sun didn't shine, nor the birds sing; it was a foggy day, but not cold.

The most curious thing was the little white angel-boy, like you see in pictures that run ahead of the music brook and led it on, and on, away out of the world where no man ever was, certain. I could see that boy just as plain as I see you. Then the moonlight came, without any sunset, and shone on the graveyards, where some few ghosts lifted up their hands and went over the wall, and between the black, sharp-top trees splendid marble houses rose up, with fine ladies in the lit-up windows, and men that loved 'em, but could never get a-nigh 'em, who played on guitars under the trees and made me miserable that I could have cried because I wanted to love somebody, I don't know who, better than the men with the guitars did.

Then the sun went down, it got dark, the wind moaned and wept like a lost child for its dead mother, and I could a got up then and there and preached a better sermon than any I ever listened to. There wasn't a thing in the world left to live for, not a blame thing, and yet I didn't want the music to stop one bit. It was happier to be miserable than to be happy without being miserable. I couldn't understand it. I hung my head and pulled out my handkerchief, and blowed my nose loud to keep me from cryin'. My eyes is weak anyway; I didn't want anybody to be a-gazin' at me a-snivlin', and it's nobody's business what I do with my nose. It's mine. But some several glared at me mad as blazes. Then, all of a sudden, old Rubin changed his tune. He ripped out and he rared, he tipped and he tared, he pranced and he charged like the grand entry at a circus. 'Peared to me that all the gas in the house was turned on at once, things got so bright, and I hilt up my head, ready to look any man in the face, and not afraid of nothin'. It was a circus, and a brass band, and a big ball all goin' on at the same time. He lit into them keys like a thousand of brick; he give em no rest day or night; he set every livin' joint in me a-goin', and not bein' able to stand it no longer, I jumped spang onto my seat, and jest hollered;

"Go it, my Rube!"

Every blamed man, woman, and child in the house riz on me, and shouted, "Put him out! put him out!"

"Put your great grandmother's grizzly gray greenish cat into the middle of next month!" I says. "Teech me if you dare? I paid my money and you jest come a-nigh me!"

With that some several policemen run up, and I had to simmer down. But I would a fit any fool that laid hands on me, for I was bound to hear Ruby out or die.

He had changed his tune again. He hop-light ladies and tip-toed fine from end to end of the key-board. He played soft and low and solemn. I heard the church bells over the hills. The candles of heaven was lit, one by one; I saw the stars rise. The great organ of eternity began to play from the world's end to the world's end and all the angels went to prayers.

(CONCLUDED TO-MORROW.)

"Henry," said his wife with a chilling severity, "I saw you coming out of a saloon this afternoon." "Well, my darling," replied the heartless man, "you wouldn't have your husband staying in a saloon all day, would you?"

The Fishery Trouble.

It is stated that the Foreign Affairs Committee in Congress is engaged in the preparation of a report upon the Fortune Bay fishery matter, to accompany the bill which the committee have agreed to report favorably to the House. The bill recites in a long preamble the circumstances leading up to the Treaty of Washington, and the failure of the British Government to carry out its provisions.

Section 1 of the bill provides that the duties on fish oil and fish, the produce of the fisheries of the Dominion of Canada (including Prince Edward Island and the colony of Newfoundland,) imported into the United States, as such duties were imposed by law before the fishery articles of the Treaty of Washington came into operation, be reimposed and collected to the same effect as they were in force before the passage of the Act of March 1. 1873.

Section 2 provides that the President shall issue a proclamation to remit the collection of said duties whenever the Government of the United States and the Government of Great Britain are in accord as to the interpretation and execution of the fishery articles of the Treaty of Washington.

Section 3 empowers the President, whenever, in his discretion, the public interests require, to issue his proclamation restraining in such manner and degree as he may see fit the inhabitants o the United States from the exercise of their liberty of fishing within three miles of the coast and shores of Her Britannic Majesty's said dominion until the two Governments are in accord on the subject.

Section 4 authorizes the Secretary of State to examine into and audit the claims of our fishermen for loss and injury sustained by them and from the nterruption of their exercise of the liberty of the inshore fishery at Fortune Bay in January, 1878, and their expulsion from said fishery, and provides that the sum necessary to compensate them for their loss and injury be appropriated and distributed to them under the direction of the Secretary of State.

The Republican Candidate.

There seems to be a general feeling of satisfaction on the other side of the border over the nomination of Gen. Garfield as Republican candidate. He is not such an extreme man as either Grant or Blaine, and with one or two exceptions his political record is very good and pure, and it is believed he will unite all the distracted elements of the Republican party.

It is difficult yet to say how the South will support Garfield, but it is generally believed that he will run better than Blaine or Grant. The Times of New Orleans thinks that he is a very fair representative of the better element of the Republican party, superior to most of his competitors at Chicago in mental force, and equal to them in other essential attributes.

The following sketch of Garfield's life will be read with interest:—James A. Garfield was born in Cuyahoga county, Ohio, Nov. 19, 1831. He graduated at Williams' College, Massachusetts, in 1856, and engaged in the practice of law. In 1859 he was elected to the Ohio State Senate. In 1861 he entered the military service as Colonel of the Forty-second Ohio Volunteers. He served in Southeastern Kentucky, where, in January, 1862, in command of a brigade, he forced Humphrey Marshall with his command to evacuate Kentucky, for which service he was promoted to a Brigadier-Generalship. He participated in the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, etc., and in 1863 served as chief of staff to Gen. Rosecrans, having been promoted in the meantime to the rank of Major-General for gallantry at the battle of Chicamauga. In November, 1864, he was elected member of Congress, and resigned his commission in the army to take the seat he has since filled in the House of Representatives. In Congress he has served as chairman of the Committees on Military Affairs, Banking and Appropriations. His present home is in Mentor, Lake county, on the line of the Lake Shore Railroad, twenty-two miles east of Cleveland.

The last change in the political career of this favored son of Ohio was when a few weeks ago he was named by that State as Thurman's successor in the United States Senate. He was one of the delegates at large from his State to the convention that made him the party's presidential standard bearer in the coming campaign, and was chairman of the Ohio delegation. Gen. Garfield is a preacher of the Christian or Campbellite persuasion, and his private life has always been above suspicion. He is recognized as one of the ablest and most popular men in Congress. He is a man of splendid physique and a convincing and brilliant orator. His popularity in Ohio and throughout the States generally is great, and the party will be able to unite upon him better than upon any other man in their ranks.

It is rumored in London, that Mr. D. Macmillan, M. P., has been offered a judgeship in the Northwest, and will leave in the course of a week or two to visit the Northwest to see how he likes the country before accepting the appointment.

The Agricultural College.

A Dumfries Farmer's Opinion of the Model Farm.

One of the party from Dumfries, who visited the Model Farm last week, writing to the Galt Reformer over the signature of "Granger," after referring in his letter to his favourable impression of Guelph, speaks of the Farm as follows:—After having partaken of a good substantial dinner provided by mine host of the City Hotel, cabs were engaged and we were driven out to the farm, distant about a mile, where we were met in a kind and courteous manner by the President, Mr. Mills, and his colleague Professor Brown. Conducted by these gentlemen we ascended first the roof of the College buildings, by a stairway, (the latter part of which might be greatly improved) from which almost the entire farm consisting of 550 acres is seen. At first sight it seemed to me that the farm was too low and level for the purpose for which it was intended, but on our subsequent walk over it this idea was considerably dispelled as we found it embraced a greater variety of soil, and was more undulating in surface than we had at first supposed. Descending by the same trap door we were taken in hand by Professor Brown, upon whom devolves the practical and experimental part of the farm operations proper, and conducted over the place. Of course the flocks and herds are a prominent object of attraction, and animals of a very superior quality are here bred, and which are by their annual public sales distributed over the Dominion, no stock being sold by private sales. Being sheep shearing time a number of the students were engaged in clipping, which they certainly were performing in a most creditable manner. In answer to a question the Professor informed us that a very considerable portion of the labour upon the farm is performed by the pupils, as a principal object in view is to turn out practical farmers. Passing from the flock, which contains many fine specimens of the Cotswold, Leicester, and Down varieties to the herd, we traverse a field devoted to experiment, in which are sixty different varieties of spring grain, but as is to be expected at this season presenting but little contrast. In another part of the farm is a plot devoted to a similar purpose with fall wheat, exhibiting every variety of result, from a complete failure to a splendid appearance, the Russian varieties upon the whole having stood the winter best. I was glad to notice so much time and attention bestowed in this department, as I believe it is in this direction that the best results to the Province are to be obtained. The herd which is mainly composed of shorthorns, contains several excellent animals of other breeds particularly Ayrshires, some of which it would be difficult to excel. We noticed a cross had been tried with the Durham and Herefords, with but indifferent results.

Near the College buildings are several acres laid out in flower and vegetable gardens, which in their season will present a lovely aspect. Five o'clock having arrived we were invited into the large dining hall, where we sat down to a bountiful repast, to which after our walk over the farm ample justice was done. A short time after tea was devoted to the inspection of a plot of various forage plants for soiling purposes which system is carried on here to a considerable extent, two of the kinds Prickley Comfrey and Alfalfa having been already cut twice. Our leave taking was somewhat hurried on account of a threatened storm of rain. However, before doing so, we assembled in front of the building when one of our number in behalf of the party in a few remarks expressed the sense of pleasure and satisfaction we had experinced in visiting this place, and observing the methods there pursued, which was not a little enhanced by the gentlemanly and courteous manner in which we had been received, and the readiness of the President and Professor Brown to impart information, and answer the many enquiries which were suggested, and thus with a hearty shake of the hand from these two gentlemen, we left in time to take the returning train on the G. T. R., highly satisfied with our trip.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, for I have already taken up too much of your valuable space, I would suggest to my brother farmers and their wives, that if they wish to combine pleasure with profit to spend a day at the Model Farm, at the same time expressing my belief that under its present management and the system there pursued, it will ere long become one of the most profitable, as it is fast becoming, one of our most popular institutions.

POSTMASTERS are being dismissed wholesale in every section of the Dominion, and Tories appointed as their successors. In Addington County this course has been pursued to an alarming extent.

IT seems that Sir L. Tilley got a very cold reception the other day when he visited St. John, N. B. We are assured by the Evening Globe published there, that his visit was a failure. The paper before quoted relates an anecdote current at St. John which gives a good idea of popular sentiment in that city:—The other day a facetious Carletonian met a gentleman who has drawn something of a bonanza in one of Mr. Tilley's prize distributions, to wit:—The office of Inspector of Weights and Measures. "Well! Mr. Inspector," said the Carletonian, "so Tilley is here." "Ah, yes!" "Come by the way of Boston, didn't he?" "Yes," said Mr. Inspector, duly informed as a good Ministerialist should be. "Do you know why he came that way instead of travelling on our own road?" On this point the official was not thoroughly posted, and he could only give a negative answer. "Well, I'll tell you! He came through Boston because he was very anxious to meet his constituents, and there are more of them there now than here."

One of our best known operators has a pretty daughter who is a bit of hoyden. Brokers and bondholders are notorious for talking shop, and our operator is no exception to the rule. Of course Miss Tomboy has imbibed the jargon of the street, and of course she knows how to use her tongue. The other night, at dinner, the young lady spilt a goblet of water all over herself. The head of the family framed a stern rebuke, promptly checked by the chit with this explanation: "Oh, let up, pa, I was merely watering your stock."

George Eliot says:—"It is better to know how to make home happy to your husband than to read Greek to him; and that even music and singing—although very attractive to family visitors—cease to be a substitute for the commoner virtues after a time. Good cookery is a most valuable accomplishment in a wife's education after the first delusion of the honeymoon is over."

THE AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.

Second Day's Proceedings.

The members of the Ontario Agricultural Commission met in full session on Wednesday morning, Hon. Mr. Wood in the chair. There were present Messrs. Ballantyne, Aylsworth, Brown, Watson, Wilson, Dryden, Saunders, Hillborn, Wiser, Byrne, McMillan, Whitelaw, Malcolm, Stock and Dymond.

After reading the minutes of the previous meeting the Chairman's report of progress since the last meeting of the Commission was read by Mr. Dymond. It stated that the questions adopted by the Commission on the report of No. 1 Section had been put in shape, and copies had been forwarded to the reeves and officers of each municipality in the Province; and as a proof of the public spirit and good feeling of the municipal officers and others, notwithstanding the pressure of a busy season, already no less than 265 out of the 416 municipalities had sent returns. Correspondence had been had with the Bureaus or State Boards of Agriculture of some thirty of the States of the Union with the view of ascertaining particulars respecting the working of stock or herd laws where such enactments existed. These communications had led, in many cases, to replies of a very useful character, and to the receipt of valuable documentary information and reports, from which it would be possible to compile a resume of the laws referred to. The names of a number of prominent fruit growers were mentioned as fit persons to examine orally on the subject with which they were familiar, and a number of minor matters were briefly referred to in the report.

Reports were then received from the different sections or groups of subjects, enumerating the matters which it was desirable to investigate, and offering suggestions as to the best means of eliciting the required information. In addition to the usual agricultural subjects, reference was made to a scheme whereby complete meteorological reports might be had from each township in Ontario; also to the necessity of the more general introduction of farm bookkeeping, and to the collection of statistics in reference to the system of ownership and mortgage as compared with renting. Several of the reports were discussed at some length, and all were finally adopted.

The Commission adjourned at one o'clock for lunch.

The afternoon session, which assembled at 2:30, was mainly occupied in selecting witnesses to attend and give oral testimony under the heads of general farming, cropping, stock raising, stock laws, and dairying, as embraced in Sections 2 and 3. The following gentlemen were chosen, and they will be asked to appear before the committee at a future sitting to take place in a few weeks:—Mr. McPherson, Glengarry; Mr. Clarke, Ottawa; C. A. Matheson, Perth; J. P. Wiser, M. P., and Dr. McMonagle, Prescott; W. T. Benson, Spencerville; Donald Fraser, Odessa; E. Muntz, Allport; Charles Drury, Crown Hill; John Miller, Brougham; John Dryden, M. P. P., Brockville; E. B. Morgan, Ottawa; James Thompson Brooklin; Prof. Buckland, Dr. A. Smith, Thompson & Flanigan, and George Tomline, Toronto; John Snell, Edmonton; James Dickson, Tuckersmith; John McMillan, Hullett; W. Whitelaw and Professor Brown, Guelph; John Hobson, Mossborough I. & R. Hunter, Alma; J. & W. Watt, Salem; T. Ballantyne, M. P. P., Stratford; S. W. Hill, Welland; F. Malcolm, Oxford; John Clay, Brantford; Hon. D. Christie, Paris; R. Gibson, Ilderton; C. L. Simmons, Ailsa Craig; D. Coughlin, St. Thomas; John Ingles, Chicago; J. Doel, Chester; and D. D. Wilson, Seaforth.

The Commission then adjourned.

Section No. 4, on Fruit Growing, will meet in the morning, when evidence on this important subject will be given by a number of leading fruit culturists who have been invited to attend.

Death of Another Old Settler.

One by one the old landmarks are passing away from our midst, reminding us that although we may reach the allotted age of three score and ten, when the call comes we must go. It is with feelings of deep regret we are called upon to chronicle in the list of the departed ones, the name of William Dunn, an old and respected resident of Waterloo Township, and well and favorably known in Guelph. The deceased was born in Dunbartonshire, Scotland, in 1806, and was consequently at his death, which sad event occurred at his residence on Tuesday morning last, in his 74th year. In the year 1831, he, with his wife, who survives him, emigrated to Canada and settled on a farm in Paisley Block, Guelph Township, but disposed of it to the G. T. Railway Company on the construction of that road, and moved to the farm in the County of Waterloo where he remained until his death.

Though quiet and reserved in character, and unassuming in manner, he always took a deep interest in both local and general affairs, and was always ready to render whatever assistance was in his power to do a good turn to the needy. In his political views he was a Liberal.

He was always a strict Presbyterian and was a devoted member of St. Andrew's Church, Guelph. Mr. Dunn was a stout, robust man of genial countenance, which won friends for him where ever he went. Up to the last few years he had the best of health and spirits. When Providence was pleased to lay upon him an afflicting hand, he bore his affliction with Christian patience to the end. He was a man widely known and as widely respected, and his demise will be looked upon by all as leaving a blank not again to be filled by one so good, and generous and kind. It might well be said of him, "He was a man to all the country dear," to either young or old, for no one ever knew him but as a friend. He leaves a widow and nine of a family—five sons and four daughters, who are all in comfortable circumstances in different parts of the country—to mourn his loss.

Presentation and Address to Dr. Tamblyn.

On Monday evening last a large number of people from Garafraxa, Douglas, Little Toronto, and Fergus assembled at Fleming's Hotel, Douglas, to a complimentary supper and presentation in honor of Dr. Tamblyn, of that place, who is about removing to Milton, where he intends practising his profession in that locality. Dr. G. T. Orton, M.P., Fergus, was appointed President, and Dr. Thom, Vice-President. Among those present were Mr. Patterson, banker, Fergus, Mr. J. C. Morrow, Mr. Wm. Spiers, Dr. McPhatter, Mr. Wm. Campbell, Dr. Greenside, Mr. A. Perry, Mr. Scott, merchant, Little Toronto, Mr. J. McDonald, Mr. Sargent, and Mr. Millican.

After the usual loyal toasts were proposed and responded to, the Vice-President in very pithy and appropriate terms proposed the toast of "Our guest." He said that in proposing this toast it afforded him much pleasure. He had known Dr. Tamblyn ever since he came amongst us, and had on all occasions found in him a gentleman worthy the esteem and respect of the large number of people of this locality, who had so endeared themselves to him. He assured those present that the many pleasant associations thus formed would not soon be forgotten by the people of Douglas and Garafraxa, and only hoped that in his new field of action he would meet with that success and prosperity which attended him while in Douglas, and which his high professional attainments so richly merit. The toast having been duly honored the guests sang "For he is a jolly good fellow."

Dr. Tamblyn briefly replied, thanking them for the cordial manner in which the toast was received, and for their appreciation of his services in the past. He said whatever would be in store for him in the future, he would always remember with warm heart and kindly feelings the people of Garafraxa and vicinity.

The following address was then presented to him by Messrs. Millican and Blythe, accompanied by a handsome silver headed cane with the following inscription beautifully engraved "Dr. Tamblyn, presented by the people of Garafraxa as a token of esteem. June 7th, 1880."

J. Tamblyn, Esq., M. D.:

DEAR DOCTOR,—In presenting you with this address and cane, as a slight token of our friendship and esteem on the eve of your departure from among us, we are moved by antagonistic feelings and sentiments. Did we think of ourselves alone we should, one and all, with voice and heart exclaim, "Stay your purpose and remain with us," but as we doubt not the motives which induce you to remove to another locality, in which to exercise the many excellent qualities, which have endeared you to so large a circle of friends, are of the most cogent character, we must waive our own selfish feelings and desires, and wish you from the bottom of our hearts, that success which your high acquirements in your profession and your personal goodness and affability of demeanor so richly merit. By your kindliness of heart you have endeared yourself to the people of this section of country, and by your assiduous attention to your professional duties and your skill as a Physician, you have been the instrument in the hands of a kind Providence of staying the hand of death, and of relieving disease and suffering in many a household, and we cannot part with you without feelings of deep regret that you cannot continue to make this locality the sphere of your usefulness.

We desire on the present occasion to present to Mrs. Tamblyn and yourself our united, cordial and earnest expression of respect and esteem as well as sincere desire for your future worldly and spiritual welfare, and on behalf of your numerous friends in this locality we beg respectfully to subscribe ourselves

Members of the Committee appointed to make the above named presentation.

Dr. Tamblyn rose and replied in terms suitable and appropriate for the occasion.

The other toasts were then proceeded with. Mr. Blythe proposed the "Agricultural and manufacturing interests," which was responded to by Mr. McDonald in a short but pointed speech. Dr. Thom then proposed the "House of Commons." Dr. Orton, M.P., in an able speech replying, dealing principally with Canada and the resources of our North-West Territories. Mr. A. Perry proposed the toast of "The Ladies" coupled with the names of Dr. McPhatter and Dr. Greenside, these gentlemen replying in humorous and lively speeches. Other toasts were proposed and duly responded to. The toasts were interspersed by recitations, songs, witticisms, etc., from Dr. McPhatter, Mr. Scott, Dr. Thom and Mr. Jupp, which were well received and caused much merriment and laughter to the audience. A very enjoyable and pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing "God Save the Queen."

THE NEW SIDEWALKS.—The work of building new sidewalks in our village is now commenced, and will no doubt be pushed on vigorously until their completion. We will not have them before they are needed.

GONE TO BERLIN.—Mr. Lewis Kribs, junior, has just gone to take the position of sub-editor of the Berlin News. We wish Mr. Kribs much success in his new sphere of employment. As he is a young man of ambition and talent, he will no doubt work his way successfully. The News emanating from that establishment may now begin to excel in character.

THE CROPS.—The crops in this vicinity, so far, have a splendid appearance. Fall wheat was noticed to be heading out as early as the 24th of May. Should no unforseen misfortune befall the crops of this neighbourhood, there is likely to be an abundant harvest.

WATCH STOLEN—Yesterday, Mr. Samuel Bergey, one of the young men engaged working at the Evangelical Church Parsonage being erected here, went to dinner, leaving a silver watch valued at $30 hanging in his vest pocket. On returning the vest was in its place, but the watch had disappeared. You musn't leave things lying loose down this way.

ANOTHER OF THE OLD LANDMARKS GONE.—We regret to announce the death, on the morning of the 4th inst., of Mr. Abram Panabaker, one of the oldest settlers in the Township of Waterloo, having immigrated into the vicinity of Hespeler from Pennsylvania in the year 1810. He has resided in or near Hespeler ever since, was widely known throughout the locality, and very much respected. Mr. Panabaker was in the 84th year of his age, and until within a year ago was quite strong and active, considering his advanced years, performing regular daily work. He had in all 14 children, 11 of whom survive him, 63 grand-children, and 25 great-grand-children.

An old man named Thomas Roach, London, who says he is 103 years old, was committed to gaol on Tuesday, as a vagrant, and for attempting to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a jack knife.

Over 100 houses were unroofed by the hurricane at Markato, Minnesota, on Saturday. The rain poured in torrents through the unroofed buildings and over the unprotected merchandize. The value of the goods damaged is estimated at about $100,000. Several houses were blown down over the heads of the occupants, but no serious injuriss inflicted.

Guelph Markets.

MERCURY OFFICE,
GUELPH, June 10, 1880.

There is no great change to note in our markets for the past week, prices remaining nearly the same as then quoted. The feeling however, has a weaker tendency, for flour is rather difficult to place at prices that could be realized a few weeks ago, which, of course has a depressed effect on the views of millers, who do not feel inclined at present to pay the prices current for some time past. Receipts of wheat have not been large of late, and the same remark may be applied to all kinds of grain.

Peas continue firm and in demand at our quotations, with very few loads of really first class offering.

Oats remain unaltered in value, and good samples readily command our outside figures.

Potatoes also continue unchanged in value from the quotations last reported, and while the supply is fully up if not in excess of the demand, prices so far this week have been no lower.

The principal staple on our market just now is wool, which is being marked pretty liberally the quantity offered and changed hands to-day being in the neighborhood of 4,500 lbs. Buyers, as usual, here, are very keen, and competition runs high, the result being a slight advance this week, which is altogether of a local character, as our reports from outside points, so far as we can see or learn do not impress us very strongly with the idea that buyers are justified in paying present prices here. The Philadelphia and Boston wool markets are dull, with manufacturers holding off in expectation of lower prices. How far justified they are in adopting such a course time alone can tell. Our Toronto morning papers to-day report yesterday's prices in that city at 30c, when in Guelph 32c is freely obtained without deductions, and this forenoon 33c was paid in a few instances.

Mothers ! ! Mothers ! ! Mothers ! !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—A small screw steamer called the Anthracite left the Thames for Falmouth recently en route to America. She is the smallest steamer that has ever undertaken this voyage on her own unaided resources. The voyage is for the purpose of testing Perkins' system of tubular boilers, which are charged with fresh distilled water, a small quantity only being required, and this, after being condensed into steam and used in the engine is condensed and raised. The preliminary run was made lately. Scientific and prominent gentlemen were on board. The steam pressure throughout was maintained at an average of 350 pounds to the square inch; half throttle revolutions, 132 per minute. The engines worked most satisfactorily. With the tide adverse both ways the speed averaged eight knots an hour. The trip promised well for the result of the Atlantic voyage. If successful, the experiment will inaugurate a new era in marine engineering in regard to the economy of fuel.

Charles Hamilton's house at Brookfield was set on fire the other day by the sun's rays reflected from a new tin pan which was lying close to the wall. A space several inches across was burned.

A merchant of Portsmouth, Eng., purposely began a ship on Friday, launched her on Friday, named her "Friday," and got a commander on her named Friday. She sailed from port on Friday, and was never heard of again.

Zachary Gaultney, of Taylor County, Ga., is a curiously deformed dwarf. He is 25 years old and only 46 inches high. His general weight is 105 pounds, of which his hands and feet will weigh half. His little finger is 14 inches in circumference, which will give some idea of the enormous proportions of his hands and feet.

"Very intellectual boy that of yours, Mr. Goggins: I should like to examine his head." Proud father—"Johnny, what bumps have you got?" "I've got the bump of eating, father, and the bump that Billy Houkins gave me on the nose; but I'm layin' for him."

A street car motor, to be run by quicksilver, is being made at Aurora, Ill.; 800 pounds of quicksilver are required.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&w1yr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&w1yr.

The Markets.

JUNE 9.—In Liverpool the wheat market was rm with an advance in corn; and Beerbohm notes floating cargoes stiff. The Chicago market was the highest of the day at the opening, but declined about 2c during the day. New York irregular. In Montreal there was great activity in the local breadstuffs market; the demand for flour was very brisk, although prices were rather higher than last week. The receipts of wheat and flour are increasing fast, and there are indications of a better market hereafter. In Toronto flour still remains inactive, and sellers are disposed to take lower figures, but prices as compared with other markets, cannot compete. Superiors are offering freely at $5 40, and have sold as low as $5.35 within a few days. Extra and spring extra nominal, but will not bring within 5c of superior. Wheat is dull. No. 2 fall sold at $1.14, and No. 2 spring offers at $1.20, while there have been some sales of No. 1 spring at $1.23. Peas are steady, with dealings confined to car lots. Oats are not offering very freely, and the general opinion is that they will be higher. Car lots of Western sold on the track at 37c. Wool is coming in pretty freely, and the price paid for round lots is 30c. Dealers however, are receiving no orders, and it would not be surprising if the figure was lowered.

The Boston Wool Market.

There is no improvement whatever to note in the market for wool, and if possible the condition is less satisfactory to manufacturer and dealer than it was a week ago. In spring California there is no market price established, and the few sales we report this week have been at 28c to 32c. Georgia wools are taken to some extent at 34c to 35c. Missouri wools sells in a small way at the same figures. Kentucky is held at 37c, but the party who bought last week is offering only 35c to 36c now. Prices are lower in Louisville, but buyers are afraid to touch them, and there is very little doing. Stocks are accumulating in Texas and California, and the latest despatches from San Francisco report the market as flat, and in the absence of business prices are entirely nominal. In Kentucky there is but little doing, although 30c has been offered for choice wool on board the cars. From Ohia we hear that farmers in some sections are selling in a small way at 38c to 40c, and are willing to accept 40c, but the bulk of the clip could not probably be moved at present at this price, as shearing has not been finished in the northern sections.

The annual distribution of prizes given by the Toronto School of Medicine, took place on Tuesday, at the school buildings. The following is a list of the successful candidates:—4th year, Peter H. Bryce, B.A., Mount Pleasant; 3rd year, J. H. Duncan, Goderich; 2nd year, J. T. Duncan, Goderich; 1st year, W. J. Robinson, Fergus.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

The London Lancet says: "No person should be without this valuable book. The author is a noble benefactor."

An illustrated sample sent to all on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

The author refers, by permission to Hon. P. A. BISSELL, M.D., President of the National Medical Association.

Address Dr. W. H. PARKER, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass. The author may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. MTh

FRIDAY EVN'G, JUNE 11, 1880

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Execution of the Murderer Carrier at Brantford.

He Meets His Death Boldly.

He Makes a Short Speech.

BRANTFORD, June 11.—To-day, Friday morning, Benjamin Carrier paid the penalty of the crime of which he was convicted. The terrible drama enacted within the walls of the county gaol is one that will ever live in the memory of the few who witnessed it. The terrible and insanely executed crime came forcibly to mind as the guilty and almost dying man stepped on the death-trap without a tremor agitating his frame. He slept well last night but ate no breakfast this morning. During yesterday afternoon Carrier was visited by his mother and sister, who seemed to feel deeply the awful position of the son and brother. Last evening they visited him for the last time, but throughout their interview he evinced no emotion, and when the time came for them to depart, he bade them a last farewell. He was also visited yesterday afternoon by Mr. Bellamy, who prayed with him. He retired last night about 10 o'clock, and was soon fast asleep, in which condition he remained until 4 o'clock this morning, when he was awakened by the turnkey, Mr. Katchie. He jumped up when called, and seemed in good spirits, not appearing to realize his awful position. About six o'clock his breakfast was brought into his cell, but he refused to partake, and then it was for the first time that he seemed to realize his doom. Mr. Bellamy was the first person besides the officers of the jail, who visited him this morning. He prayed with him, and his impression of the doomed man was that he would not make a confession to him for the reason that he wished to shield his relatives from disgrace. Shortly after Mr. Bellamy left his cell he was visited by his spiritual adviser, Rev. Robert Cameron, and the Rev. G. C. Needham, Indian missionary, who remained with him until it was time for the Deputy Sheriff to enter his cell and pinion him, which he did in a few minutes. The doomed man stood up boldly not evincing a tremor of the muscles thus far. All being in readiness the fatal procession, preceded by the Sheriff marched through the corridor to where the gallows was in readiness. The instrument of death was about fifteen or twenty feet from the ceiling to the floor and the drop five feet nine inches from the trap. The rope was about ¾ of an inch in thickness and was of English manilla double twist. Carrier took his position on the death trap and the Deputy Sheriff strapped his legs together. The noose was then adjusted and everything was in readiness except covering the dying man's head with the white cap. These operations consumed but a few moments, during which no sign of emotion was visible, no tremor of the limbs nor movement of facial muscles were noticed. "Have you anything to say?" asked the Sheriff. "Yes," the doomed man said, "I would like to say something but cannot do so without an interpreter. Chief A. G. Smith then stepped up close to him and repeated after him the following sentences:

"I wish to tell all those who are to witness my going out of time into eternity that I have repented of all my sins, that is, wherever I have been guilty of breaking the commands of God, and I trust that they have all been pardoned through the mercy of the Redeemer, and I could wish all my friends and relations would put their trust in God now, who is ever merciful, so that whenever they are called upon to go out of time into eternity they may meet me in that good land where, through the mercy of the Redeemer, I have been encourged to hope of gaining an entrance. I have now only to say that I wish all those present here to know that I have intrusted all the worldly goods possessed to my mother for the benefit of my children. She, of course, will give each of them their portion when they grow up. That is all I wish to say."

The black cap was then drawn over his face, and the Rev. Robt. Cameron offered up prayer for his soul. Everything was now ready. Mr. Cameron then commenced the Lord's Prayer, which was repeated by the few present, and just as the portion of the prayer reached "Thy kingdom come," the Deputy Sheriff pressed the lever, the drop fell and all that was heard was the dull heavy thud as the rope fell. The large bell in the city belfry was tolling, proclaiming that the murderer's soul was launched into eternity. There was a dreadful silence, broken only by the moaning of the breeze. The bright blue sky seemed to overshadow a moment as if in sympathy with the dreadful drama being enacted within the prison walls. The drop fell about five minutes past eight o'clock, the body swung for a few moments and then a shivering of the frame took place. The knees were raised till they almost came even with his breast, then suddenly relaxed and straightened out at full length. The body trembled for a considerable time, the mouth opened wide and gradually closed again. The body hung suspended for twenty-seven minutes, when Drs. Griffin and Harris pronounced life extinct, and ordered it to be lowered, which was done by Lac Maye, an assistant, who carried it into the next corridor.

The physicians took charge of the body and made the usual examination, in all of which nothing worthy of note was adduced. The body was placed in a coffin, a plain inscription read, "Benjamin Carrier, aged 25 years, died June 11th 1880." After the execution the Sheriff led the way into the corridor where the following gentlemen subscribed to the following declaration:

We, the undersigned, hereby declare that judgment of death was this day executed on Benjamin Carrier, in the common gaol, of the County of Brant, in the city of Brantford, in our presence: John Smith, Sheriff; C. E. Smith governor of gaol; H. Lemon, J. P.; R. Cameron, pastor for Carrier; A. G. Smith, Mohawk Chief; Wm. Wedge, Cayuga Chief; Richard Hill, Tuscarora Chief.

Storm at Goderich.

GODERICH, June 11.—Between two and three o'clock this morning a terrific thunder storm passed over this place. The storm signal mast on the bluff adjoining the lighthouse was struck by lightning, the fluid passed down, setting fire to the storehouse, which was burned to the ground.

Storm at Ingersoll.

INGERSOLL, June 11.—During a very heavy thunder storm which passed over here last night a mare and colt were killed by lightning while out at pasture, and one or two trees on the outskirts of the town were damaged badly.

Committed Suicide.

RODNEY, June 11.—Duncan McInnes, a farmer living a few miles from here, hung himself to a ladder in his barn, about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was quite dead when found. Insanity is supposed to be the cause of the suicide.

The Storm in Hollin.

HOLLIN, June 11.—A terrible storm passed over this place at six o'clock last night, blowing the gable end in and the roof off the Presbyterian Church, the roof off the drill shed and entirely destroying A. Parks' barns. His son and team were in the barn at the time and narrowly escaped being crushed to death. The roofs of A. Millar's and T. Thompson's stables were blown off. Several other smaller buildings were either blown down or badly damaged; fences were levelled to the ground, trees from one to two feet in thickness snapped in pieces and carried off by the wind. The telegraph line was badly broken. The oldest settlers admit that it was the most violent storm they ever witnessed in this section.

The Arthur Junction Railway.

ARTHUR, June 10.—The By-law in the Township of Peel, granting a sectional bonus for the Arthur Junction Railway, was defeated to-day by a majority of fifteen.

Local News.

THE contracts between the Water Works Commissioners and the railways for the supply of water to the latter have been signed.

WANTS REPAIRING.—A party complains of a bad piece of road in the neighborhood of Shortreed's cheese factory, on what is known as the Elmira Road. It is said to be dangerous on account of a large hole extending clear across the road.

AT the Hamilton Chancery Court, Wednesday, the suit of the Scottish American Investment Co., vs. The corporation of Elora, was heard. Decree for plaintiffs, $6,000. Alex. Bruce for plaintiffs; F. Mackelcan, Q. C., for defendant.

COL. CHENEY.—Mr. R. Murray has sent us a nice lot of Col. Cheney strawberries grown in Canada. They are large, ripe and luscious, and cannot fail to delight all who purchase them. The price is so low that even printers can indulge a little.

THE Maple Leafs go to Galt to-morrow to play the Mutuals of that town. On Monday they will play the Harriston Browns in this city. This match will be the first of the series for the amateur championship. Mr. Jeffers, of Toronto, has been chosen umpire.

CANADIAN SHORTHAND WRITER. — The second number of this excellent journal has been issued by the publishers, Messrs. Bengough Bros., Tororto. It will be welcomed by shorthand students and writers. It gives all the important news in shorthand circles, well written articles, illustrations from the pen of Grip's cartoonist and specimens in shorthand of the standard systems of the art.

MR. GEO. SPENCER, Police Magistrate, of Owen Sound, was on the Bench at the Police Court this forenoon with Police Magistrate Saunders.

HON. Mr. Mowat and Mrs. Mowat, who are now in England, will return to Canada in the City of Chester of the Inman line, in August.

THE owner of a brass key, found on the street yesterday, may have it by applying at Groom's repairing shop, Quebec street.

HIGH SCHOOL LITERARY SOCIETY.—This Society will give an entertainment in the new High School this evening. The programme will consist of readings by Dr. Woodgate, of St. Mary's, and vocal and instrumental music by the scholars. Dr. Woodgate's ability as a reader is well known, and as the pupils have prepared a good programme, there will doubtless be a large audience.

PATHMASTERS DUTY.—Pathmasters of rural municipalities will do well to remember that the Act amending the "Canada Thistle Act" takes away its optional character, and makes it imperative on them to see that its provisions are carried out, without having first obtained an order from the Municipal Council. It also requires the notice to the owners of land overrun with thistles to be served on them not later than the 25th June.

A SCHOOL GRIEVANCE.—A meeting of the Committee appointed by the County Council, will be held in Drayton, on Thursday, June 24th, at one o'clock, for the purpose of settling the dispute between the ratepayers of certain school sections and the township of Maryboro'. The committee is composed of Judge Chadwick, John Prain, Warden John Rea, of Eramosa, A. S. Allan, of Clifford, and D. P. Clapp, Inspector of Schools.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITIONS.—The Elora Express says:—The Wellington County Council at the last Session got its mad up, and refused to grant a dollar in aid of agricultural societies. This is a staggering blow to these institutions, and will have the effect of making their usefulness much less general. In fact it will be almost impossible to hold a show in Centre Wellington this year, as there are only $250 left for prizes, insead of $650. The Directors will need to get up some scheme for raising the necessary funds to pay the prizes this year, otherwise at a meeting for the revision of the prize list there must be great slaughter.

AN ABUNDANCE OF TRAMPS.—On Thursday afternoon the Chief of Police and P. C. Hammond arrested John Wilson, aged 21 years; George Williams, aged 23; Thomas Perry, aged 28; Thos. Marsden, aged 23; Arthur Robins, aged 24; James Allan 40; Thos. Ryan, 24; Wm. Wright, 41, for vagrancy. The prisoners, who were tramps, came to the city about a week since, have been lying under some trees on the Grand Trunk Railway, a short distance east of Allan's Bridge, during the day time, and begging at different houses after the heat of the day was past. They are all ablebodied men, but the only thing to prevent them working is laziness. The two policemen marched the eight men to the station without a struggle. They were brought before the Magistrate this (Friday) forenoon when Allan and Ryan were sentenced to two months in gaol, the others being dismissed on promising to leave the city immediately.

BASE BALL.—The Harriston Tribune asks who gave Mr. Sleeman authority to expel any club from the Canadian Base Ball Association? The most direct answer is that the Association itself has done so by appointing him its President without a judiciary committee to act with him. When a question of breach of the constitution arises the only person to whom an appeal can be made is the President, and clubs within the Association must be controlled by his decision in such matters until the Association meets. As the very name of the Canadian Association implies it is intended to govern the play of amateur clubs. Professionals, therefore, must not seek to win the name of being amateur champions when, in reality, they are not amateur.

A TRIP TO PARADISE.—The Elora Express gives an account of a trip to Paradise made by the Warden, County Clerk and Mr. Stewart, Orangeville, in one boat, and the writer and Mr. McLuhan, of Arthur, in a second boat last week. "Arriving above "Paradise" they found what appeared to be a landing place—two cedar posts lying on the water and two short pieces of boards placed thereon. One of the heavy weights from the first boat stepped on to the frail thing, and began to sink slowly but surely. His boots filled, the water was making for his calves, and would not have stopped there, but he made a bound and floundered upon shore, glad that he had so narrowly escaped death by drowning. A short time was pleasantly spent in "Paradise," and the party embarked for the city, which they reached safely, with appetites which did justice to the hotel fare placed before them. The trip was a most enjoyable one, and cheap enough to permit the poorest councillor in the body taking advantage of it."

LANDSCAPE PAINTING.—Mr. J. C. Whale, who comes to Guelph highly reccomended as an artist, has opened a studio on the first landing over Smith's drug store. Some time ago he had on exhibtion in Messrs. J. D. Williamson & Co's window, a painting of "Pionic Point," Dundas, which attracted considerable notice, the scene being one of remarkable beauty and exceedingly well executed. Mr. Whale has on the easel now a painting of a portion of this city, looking westward from Allan's dam along the river. The view includes a large part of the "Priory" grounds, St. George's church, and the spires of St. Andrew's, the Baptist and Congregational churches, and the Court House in the distance. The view on the opposite side of the river includes the residences and grounds along the river bank to a point near the Eramosa Bridge. The rich foliage on either shore is vividly brought out, and the whole scene has a natural and beautiful appearance. Many will be glad to learn that Mr. Whale contemplates remaining here and is about to open a class for instruction to young artists.

The Consoldidated Bank.

At a meeting of the Consolidated Bank shareholders, at Montreal, on Wednesday, the Chairman, in reply to a question read the following list to show where the shareholders' money had gone:—

TORONTO.
Campbell & Cassels	$ 30,498
Toronto Fuel Co	28,600
Galbraith, Christie & Co	69,193
Turner & Co	77,695
Credit Valley Co	106,456
A. Shanly	20,900
MONTREAL.
Furniss & Co	$193,325
W. H. Riley	65,000
Ascher & Co	501,899
Beatty & Co	94,848
Fish, Shephard & Co	120,354
Davidson & Co	64,393
A. Davidson	23,000
Koitask	75,301
Coultz, Raynor & Co	23,685
Wm. Ebb	48,000
Cowper	72 000
Forsyth	48,000

Mrs. Hollis—With all those losses in Montreal, Sir Francis Hincks was found guilty one day and allowed to walk out the next day.

Mr. Morgan—He is now, I am told, buying a property worth ten thousand dollars.

The Chairman remonstrated, and asked if Mrs. Hollis could not understand the effect of having an unfaithful servant. (Cries of disapproval and doubt.)

Miss McDougall then called upon Mr. Campbell, the General Manager, to state what he had been doing since last fall for the shareholders.

Mr. Campbell said he had been working very hard. (Laughter.)

Miss McDougall thought Mr. Campbell did not look her straight in the face like an honest man should.

Interruptions now became frequent.

One of the ladies suggested that a movement be made to bring Mr. Rennie back, and have him tried for fraudulently using the names of the directors to the syndicate which origiuated only in his own brain, as stated by Mr. Rankin.

Miss McDougall was glad to have evidence that he had any brains. (Laughter.)

Ex-Governor Macdonald will be the liquidator for the creditors of the bank. Mr. W. W. Ogilvie is the Government's liquidator, and the shareholders have elected Mr. Robert Moat, E. J. Barbeau, and Mr. Ogilvie.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—During the thunder storm on Thursday evening St. George's church was struck by lightning. The fluid struck the iron work on the top of the spire first, then descended, entering the spire immediately above the slating. It shot downwards to the stonework and came out through the stonework just above the arch of one of the windows. At the place it entered, and at that at which it came out again there are openings nearly a foot in size. A large stone which was knocked from the arch above the window fell on to the roof at the south side of the building, and breaking through to the ceiling on the inside of the church. The roofing at this place was scorched and the lightning had evidently been playing about there. A number of people who saw the lightning strike, say it was one of the grandest sights they ever saw. The fluid resembled a rocket in appearance, but that it was more brilliant, and when it touched the building a shower of sparks were sent over the roof of the building. Persons in the neigbourhood felt the shock and for some time afterwards one of Mr. Robert Barker's (who was about two hundred yards from the church) hands was powerless. Almost simultaneous with the flash was a terrific clap of thunder. The damage to the church was nominal.

HANDSOME FURNITURE. — The firm of Worsfold & O'Brien have just completed an elegant set of drawing room furniture for Mr. William Bell. There are fourteen pieces in the set—Four large chairs, four smaller ones, two patent rockers, reclining chairs, window chair, tete a tete, ottoman, two fancy stands and centre table. Two of the large chairs are covered with black and crimson delane and cabul spun silk the others with black and gold delane. The tete a tete is covered with raw silk having spun silk ground. One of the rockers is covered with black velvet trimmed with silk plush; two of the smaller chairs are covered with Japanese spun silk having velvet trimmings; the other two are covered with the same material as the tete a tete. The window chair, of new and handsome design, is covered the same as the large rockers. The ottoman covering is of crimson silk plush, with fancy work on a black velvet centre. There are two stands with marble tops the sides being hung with drapery. The centre table is similar to that shown by the firm at the last Central Exhibition. The carving which was done by Mr. O'Brine, is very good, but there is more gilding than carving about the woodwork. The upholstering is particularly fine. The set was manufactured by the proprietors, and is pronounced by good judges to be the finest ever shown in Canada. In order to allow every one to see it the proprietors will give a gas light opening at their warerooms to-night and to-morrow night.

In the United States House of Representatives on Wednesday the joint resolution looking to the abrogation of the fishery clauses of the Washington Treaty was reported.

The Malt Tax.

In the U. S. Senate on Thursday the Committee on Finance reported favourably the bill from the House of Representatives, putting a specific duty of 25 cents per bushel on barley malt, instead of the ad valorem tax of 20 per cent. as at present. The bill will no doubt be carried in the Senate as it was in the Lower House, and the large and profitable trade that our maltsters have heretofore done with the States will be almost ruined, or so injuriously affected as to offer very little encouragement to continue in the business. There is little doubt that this spirit of hostility on the part of the American Congress is the result of the stupid policy of our Government in imposing a duty on foreign malt last session. The maltsters never asked for this, they were content to be left alone, and to pursue their business as formerly. They had done well at it. They exported over eighteen thousand pounds of malt in 1878. They employed a very large number of men in the manufacture of the same, and they were quite satisfied to leave things as they were. But no, the Finance Minister in the face of their united representations took his own course. He placed a custom duty of two cents per pound on malt, which had formerly been on the free list. The American maltsters at once ran off to Washington with the N. P. in one hand and Sir L. Tilley's Budget speech in the other. They proved to the Ways and Means Committee that the Canadians had put a prohibitory tax on American malt, and out of Sir Leonard's own mouth they demonstrated that the change was made in a spirit of hostility to Americans. They asked for a prohibitory tax in return, and they are now about to get it. The consequence will be that one of our most prosperous and best paying industries will be ruined, and that in future, instead of making the malt in Canada—which employed a large number of men, and was a source of great profit to us—all we can do—if this bill passes—will be to ship the barley, and allow the Yankees to make their own malt. In this matter the action of the Government seems to us to be inexplicable and inexcusable. Beyond a few pounds no malt was ever imported into Canada from the other side. We had the trade of making and exporting the article to the States in our own hands, and unless for the most foolish and unwise legislation of the Government it would have remained so to our advantage and profit. But the Government was not content to let things remain as they were. They imposed an unnecessary duty on foreign malt, and thereby roused the jealousy of our neighbours, and provoked them to introduce this bill, which if carried will destroy one of our best and most profitable industries.

THIS is the position of the N. Y. Tribune on the Garfield nomination:—"With its best judgment The Tribune approves, with its heartiest enthusiasm The Tribune applauds the work of the Chicago Convention. With whatever power it possesses it will commend that work to the people, and labor unceasingly for a triumphant ratification at the polls."

THE National Greenback Convention is in session in Chicago, and among its prominent members are Dennis Kearney, Brick Pomeroy, and Susan B. Anthony, Mr. Wallace, M. P., for South Norfolk, and Mr. A. W. Wright, of the Guelph Herald. The Canadians have certainly got into nice company. Of course they talked about greenback and inflation in such a way as to suit even the wild ideas of that revolutionary blackguard Kearney.

A RUMOR is current that Hon. John O'Connor has signified his acceptance of the offered seat on the Bench. In that case the County of Russell will be called on to elect a member for the House of Commons, and it is said the Government favors the nomination of Mr. C.H. Mackintosh. By all means let the contract broker run. He has already disgraced the Government, whose creature he is, while he has managed at the same time to feather his own nest.

IT is the confident expectation of Grant and his leaders that Garfield will be beaten, and that one term of Democratic rule under the inspiration of Confederate brigadiers will make the Republican party shout a spontaneous call for the return of its old commander. Now that the Republican candidate for the presidency has been placed in the field, all eyes are turned to Cincinnati, where the Democratic convention assembles in two weeks.

LONDON Advertiser: A telegram states that a couple of distinguished ecclesiastics are about to make a personal appeal to the Princess Louise to intercede with the Minister of Justice for a commutation in the case of DeCoursier, now under sentence of death. To do so will be a decided mistake. We believe the sentence of DeCoursier should be commuted on its merits, not on the solicitations of any one. Moreover, the precedent is bad. It would place the lady in a false position in case she should be asked to intercede for a murderer whom she might believe should be hanged. And moreover, it introduces an element into the administration of our laws that can never be recognized in the courts. The distinguished gentlemen who are credited with the intention cannot but see the logical conclusion of their well-meant efforts.

Rev. Mr. Brookman, late of the English church, was inducted to the pastorate of the Baptist church, Yorkville, on Thursday.

London Conference of the Methodist Church.

June 9.

The conference assembled at 9 a.m.

Rev. A. M. Phillips, B. D., read the report of the Temperance Committee, which was pronounced as very fine, and consequently was accepted.

The resignation of the Rev. T. J. Reid was accepted.

The resolutions of the Rev. James Gray in reference to the interference with the constitutional rights of the annual conferences by the Conference Special Committee, and of which notice was duly given, were laid before the conference.

The resolutions were carried almost unanimously.

A communication was received from the General Conference Special Committee in reference to payment of certain general conference finances.

The Committee on Evangelization work reported, recommending the employment of evangelists under the care of the conference, but advising no definite action till next year. The report was adopted.

Votes of thanks were passed for the hospitalities of the people of Hamilton.

The following is the report of the missionary secretary and treasurer for 1879-80:—

RELIEF AND EXTENSION FUND—LONDON CONFERENCE.

Considering the large amount raised for the payment of the debt hitherto resting on the Missionary Society, it is gratifying to note that the net deficiency will not be more than $800.

A telegram from Toronto Conference expressive of fraternal greetings was received, and giving the information that Rev. N. R. Willoughby, M.A., was elected as president of the conference and Rev. S. J. Hunter as secretary.

Rev. G. A. Mitchell, B.A., presented the report of the Sabbath School Committee, showing an attendance of 1,394—total, 45,558. Total amount raised in Sabbath schools for all purposes, $22,124.70. Members of the Church, 6,111; vols. in library, 83,000; number of schools, 539. It is gratifying to note that there is an increase in each case.

Moved by Dr. Ryckman, and seconded by T. M. Campbell, that Rev. James Gray be treasurer of the General Conference Fund. Carried.

The 54th hymn was announced and sung with subdued earnestness, Dr. Williams led the conference in prayer, the president pronounced the benediction, and thus closed the last session of conference.

Congregational Union.

MONTREAL, June 10.

Prof. Fenwick gave a welcome to the Union on behalf of the Christian brethren of Emanuel Church. He also reported the wonderful work of grace in Inverness.

Rev. Dr. Stevenson, Chairman of the Union, then delivered the annual address. He chose for his theme, "The place and work of our Congregational Churches."

Rev. J. B. Silcox asked for more time to present the claims of the Canadian Independent. It was referred to the Business Committee.

The following ministers then made application for membership, viz.:—Revs. James Roy, M. A., Montreal; John Burton, B. A., Toronto; E. Kinmouth, Brantford; Wm. Wetherald, St. Catharnes; B. B. Sherman, M. A., Sherbrooke.

Revs. Wm. Manchee and E. Ireland asked for letters of dismission to sister churches in the United States. On motion these were referred to the Membership Committee.

The Rev. S. N. Jackson was appointed Chairman.

Rev. J. B. Silcox then read a paper on the present aspect of Sabbath School work and its demands.

Rev. John Wood read the annual statistical report, which was a marked improvement all along the line. Seven new churches had been built. There were upwards of 500 additions to the churches. There had been raised for local church objects during the year, $77,644; in denominational objects, $4,678; Foreign and French missions, $1,246. Total increase during the year, $17,022.

The Rev. D. McGregor B. A., Guelph, was among others received in the membership of the Union.

In the evening the second public meeting of the Canada Congregational Home Missionary Society was held. Mr. Charles Whitelaw, of Paris, was in the chair. After the opening services the Rev. Dr. Wilkes read the annual report, which was most gratifying, showing a marked increase in the funds of the Society. Last year it was discovered that we were $800 in arrears. An appeal was made to the Churches, and that amount was promptly contributed. This year there was no such arrears, but an advance on former years. Considering the depression of the times, this fact was a matter for devout thankfulness. Reference was made to the work begun in Winnipeg, Manitoba, by Rev. W. Ewing, B. A. The Colonial Missionary Society had intimated through their Secretary their pleasure at the new mission, and had promised to grant the sum of one hundred pounds per annum for three years to the mission.

Mr. Wheler, who defeated Mr. W. H. Gibbs in North Ontario in September 1878, was shortly afterwards tried and unseated by Mr. Justice Armour. One of the charges held proven was a personal one, and the judgment, therefore, involved his disqualification under the election law. Mr. Wheler promptly appealed to the Supreme Court for the removal of the disqualification. After many technical delays, caused by persistent efforts to prevent the appeal being tried on its merits, the case at last came up for argument some time ago, and on Thursday the Supreme Court gave judgment allowing the appeal with costs. This has the effect of leaving the seat for North Ontario vacant, and of enabling Mr. Wheler to become once more a candidate if he choses.

The N. Y. Herald's Paris special says the unexpected result of the Chicago convention caused great excitement. The newspapers were unable to comprehend the machinery by which the 'dark horse' was suddenly shoved to the front. But they have seized upon the fact of Garfield having originally been a boatman to furnish a pendant to Lincoln as a rail-splitter. In this point of view the nomination of Garfield is hailed with pleasure by the French Republicans.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

JUNE 16.

An appeal against a decision of the Synod of Hamilton with reference to the propriety of continuing the Brooksdale station within the bounds of the congregation of Harrington, was referred to a Committee.

Applications were read from Presbyteries for leave to receive ministers from other churches.

Applications were read in favor of the retirement of gentlemen from the active work of the ministry.

Rev. Principal Grant moved that Rev. Dr. Fraser be invited to undertake for the present session the duties heretofore discharged by the late Prof. McKerras.

Rev. Dr. Waters in seconding the motion, commented on the high abilities heretofore displayed by Dr. Fraser as one of the Clerks of the Assembly.

The motion was carried and Dr. Fraser briefly returned thanks.

Rev. Dr. Reid read the commission of Rev. Dr. Briggs, Professor of Apologetics and Exegesis in the Free Church College, Glasgow, as a delegate of the Church to this Assembly.

A deputation from the Congregational Union of Ontario and Quebec, now in session in the City, consisting of Rev. Dr. Duff, of Sherbrooke, and Rev. R. K. Black, of Grenville, was then introduced to the Assembly amidst loud applause, and on motion it was agreed to hear these gentlemen.

Rev. Mr. Duncan, of Halifax, Convener of the Committee on the State of Religion, presented its report.

Rev. John McEwen, of Ingersoll, Convener of the Committee on Sabbath School Work then read their report, of which the following is a summary:—326 schools were reported to the Committee. In these there were 33,200 scholars, and 3,766 teachers and officers; 843 of the scholars are communicants, 425 having been added during the year. The amount expended on the schools during the year was $3,097, and on missions $3,608. The number of volumes in the Sunday School libraries is 23,724. The Committee recommended that scholars be divided into 1st, 2nd and 3rd divisions, the 1st embracing all those not over 21 years of age; the 2nd those not over 24, and the 3rd those not over 30; also that written examinations be held on certain portions of Scriptures and on the Shorter Catechism, and that prizes in money or books be given for the best essay on "The place and importance in childhood as revealed in the Word of God in relation to home training and Sunday School work." This prize to be open to all not 30 years of age.

M R. G. B. FRASER

G. B. FRASER, Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

Scandal.

A woman to the holy father went,
Confession of sins was her intent;
And so her misdemeanors great and small
She faithfully rehearsed them all;
And, chiefest in her catalogue of sin
She owned that she a tale bearer had been,
And borne a bit of scandal up and down
To all the long-tongued gossips in the town.
The holy father for her other sin
Granted the absolution asked of him;
But while for all the rest he pardon gave,
He told her this offence was very grave;
And that to do fit penance she must go
Out by the wayside where the thistles grow
And, gathering the largest, ripest one,
Scatter its seeds, and then when this was done,
She must come back again another day;
To tell him his commands she did obey.
The woman thinking this penance light,
Hastened to do his will that very night.
Feeling right glad she had escaped so well,
Next day but one she went the priest to tell;
The priest sat still and heard her story through,
And said, There is something still for you to do;
Those little thistle seeds which you have sown,
I bid you go re-gather every one.
The woman said, But, Father, 'twould be vain,
To gather up those thistle seeds again;
The winds have scattered them both far and wide,
Over the meadowed vale and mountain side.
The Father answered, Now I hope for this
The lession I have taught, you will not miss;
You cannot gather back the scattered seeds
Which far and wide will grow to noxious weeds;
Nor can the mischief once by scandal sown,
By any penance be again undone.

M. E. C. JOHNSON.

Archibald Forbes to Visit America.

Mr. Archibald Forbes, the well-known war correspondent of the London Daily News, proposes visiting the United States in September. Mr. Forbes' graphic letters during the Russo-Turkish war, the Afghan campaign and the late Zulu war, have made his name a household word. He has been most successful as a lecturer in England, where he delivered his lecture on the Russo-Turkish war over two hundred times, and where he has just finished a six month's tour with his lecture on the Zulu war. Mr. Forbes proposes giving here, under the management of Mr. D'Oyly Carte, a new lecture, entittled "Royal people I have met." He has seen many royal people in singularly critical circumstances. He saw Napoleon surrender to Bismarck near Sedan, and witnessed the meeting between the former and the German monarch at the Chateau Bellevue. He was at Sandringham during the crisis of the Prince of Wales' illness, and described the thanksgiving which followed his recovery. He accompanied His Royal Highness on his visit to India. He was sent for during the Bulgarian campaign by the Emperor Alexander to recount to him the desperate fighting at the Shipka Pass, with the intelligence of which Mr. Forbes had outridden all the Russian couriers. He saw the Russian Emperor on the field of Plevna in September, and accompanied him on his return to St. Petersburg after the fall of the fortress. He accompanied the Shah of Persia in his tour through England, witnessed the Emperor of Austria open the Vienna Exhibition of 1873, visited King Thebau of Burmah at Mandalay just before he killed off his relatives; was intimate with the Prince Imperial during the South African campaign, and was with the party who found his mangled body. Of personages such as the Red Prince, the Imperial Crown Prince of Germany, the present King of Saxony and his brother, Prince George, Prince Charles of Roumania, the Archduke Nicholas of Russia, the Russian Commander-in-Chief during the Russo-Turkish war; Prince Milan, of Servia, and others, Mr. Forbes will detail characteristics, not of petty, personal nature, but having a larger interest, it is hoped, because his observations were made during events which are now historical.

How "Ruby" Played.

(By Request.)

(CONCLUDED.

* * * * Then the music changed to water, full of feeling that couldn't be thought, and began to drop—drip, drop—drip, drop, clear and sweet, like tears of joy falling into a lake of glory. It was sweeter than that. It was as sweet as a sweet-heart sweetened with white sugar mixt with powdered silver and seed diamonds. It was too sweet. I tell you the audience cheered. Rubin he kinder bowed, like he wanted to say, "Much obleeged, but I'd rather you wouldn't interrup' me."

He stopt a moment or two to ketch breath. Then he got mad. He run his fingers through his hair, he shoved up his sleeve, he opened his coat tails a leetle further, he drug up his stool, he leaned over, and, sir, he just went for that old pianner. He slapt her face, he boxed her jaws, he pulled her nose, he pinched her ears, and he scratched her cheeks until she fairly yelled. He knockt her down and he stampt on her shameful. She bellowed like a bull, she bleated like a calf, she howled like a hound, she squealed like a pig, she shrieked like a rat, and then he wouldn't let her up. He run a quarter stretch down the low grounds of the base, till he got clean in the bowels of the earth, and you heard thunder galloping after thunder, through the hollows and caves of perdition; and then he foxchased his right hand with his left till he got way out of the treble into the clouds, whar the notes was finer than the pints of cambric needles, and you couldn't hear nothin' but the shadders of 'em. And then he wouldn't let the old pianner go. He far'ard two'd, he crosst over first gentleman, he chassade right and left, back to your places, he all hands'd aroun' ladies to the right, promenade all, in and out, here and there, back and forth, up and down, perpetual motion, double twisted and turned and tacked and tangled into forty-eleven thousand double bow knots.

By jinks! it was a mixtery. And then he wouldn't let the old pianner go. He fecht up his right wing, he fecht up his left wing, he fecht up his centre, he fecht up his reserves. He fired by file, he fired by platoons, by company, by regiments, and by brigades. He opened his cannon—siege guns down thar, Napoleons here, twelve pounders yonder—big guns, little guns, middle-sized guns, round shot, shells, shrapnels, grape, canister, mortar, mines and magazines, every livin' battery and bomb a-goin' at the same time. The house trembled, the lights danced, the walls shuk, the floor come up, the ceilin' come down, the sky split, the ground rokt—heavens and earth, creation sweet potatoes, Moses, ninepence, glory, ten-penny nails, Sampson in a 'simmon tree, Tump-Tompson in a tumbler-cart, roodle-oodle, oodle-oodle—ruddle-uddle-uddle-uddle—raddle-addle-addle-addle --- riddle-iddle-iddle-iddle—reedle-eedle-eedle-eedle-eedle—p-r-r-r-rlank! Bang! lang! lang! per-lang! p-r-r-r-r-r! Bang!!!

With that bang! he lifted himself bodily into the a'r and he come down with his knees, his ten fingers, his ten toes, his elbows, and his nose, striking every single solitary key on the pianner at the same time. The thing busted and went off into seventeen hundred and fifty-seven thousand five hundred and forty-two heme-demi-semi quivers, and I know'd no mo'.

When I come to, I were under ground about twenty foot, in a place they call Oyster Bay, treatin' a Yankee that I never laid eyes on before, and never expect to agin. Day was breakin' by the time I got to the St. Nicholas Hotel, and I pledge you my word I did not know my name. The man asked me the number of my room and I told him, "Hot music on the half-shell for two!"

On Thursday evening last a number of the members of the late Elora Lacrosse Club met at the Commercial Hotel, and presented Mr. C. E. Perry formerly a resident of that village and strong worker in the interests of the Club with a handsome gift.

JOHN HARRIS

Equal to the Situation.

A man in Toledo, with a wife and three children, became enamored of an intriguing woman, and procured a divorce in an obscure Indiana town. He did not say a word about it at home. One day his oldest daughter received a parcel of patterns from a lady in Indianapolis. It was an old copy of a country newspaper. An advertisement attracted her attention. It was an application for a divorce for her father from her mother. The young lady decided to visit her friend in Indianapolis and to make an excursion to the county where the divorce had been granted. She returned with ample evidence that her mother was living with a divorced man. She showed her father a copy of the advertisement, and told him that she had found out all about him. He walked the floor for a minute, and then turned to his daughter. "I have been a very bad and guilty man," he said; "but it is not too late to make amends. I will go to her and confess all, and undo, what I have done." "Confess first to me." said the girl. "It is Miss ——— who is the woman in the case, is it not?" "It is." "I thought as much. Are you to marry her? "I was to have married her." "You must not go to mamma yet. She must be your wife again before she knows the fearful truth." The young lady was equal to the emergency. The twentieth anniversary of her parents' marriage was close at hand. She invited all their friends and had them married again by the same minister who performed the ceremeny twenty years before. She took pains to have her mother's rival present, and remarked to her in a corner:—"Papa and mamma are married again as fast as the law can do it. Whether the truth is ever known depends upon you. Papa will never tell it, I am sure, and for mamma's sake I never shall. But it does seem to me, dear, that some other climate would suit your constitution better than this."

A New Cure for Hydrophobia.

(From the British Medical Journal.)

M. Lesserteur has just given publicity to a plant which has a great reputation as a cure for rabies in the kingdom of Annam. This plant, of which the name is hoang-nan, is a kind of liana, closely akin to the false angostura; its effects are similar to those of strychnine and brucine. M. Bouley, in speaking of this new remedy in the Recueil de Medecine Veterinaire, regrets that no new facts corroborative of its efficaciousness are given, but is of opinion that the property recently shown to belong to rabbits of easily contracting hydrophobia by innoculation, should be utilized for making experiments thus so easily performed. In reference to this subject M. Bouley related an anecdote about garlic, a substance which has always had a great reputation among remedies against rabies, and is constantly found as a principal integral portion in a large number of formulæ long kept secret. A young man had been bitten by a mad dog, and symptoms of rabies speedily appeared. His family, in a state of the greatest alarm, scarcely knowing what to do with the sufferer, shut him up in a loft where some garlic had been left to dry. In his deliriums the poor fellow seized the bundles of garlic, ate greedily of them, and soon became exhausted, and fell into a deep sleep. When he awoke he was cured, and the symptoms of rabies had disappeared.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlvr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, ttributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

Mothers! ! Mothers! ! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&w1yr.

Vagrant Stock.

A Brantford township farmer writes to the Expositor concerning the necessity of a Stock Law to do away with the nuisance of roaming and lawless quadrupeds. He says:—Things are very different now to what they were thirty years ago. There was then open common and unoccupied land, where cattle could go without troubling their neighbors, but not so now. And why are whole neighborhoods to be annoyed by a few, who year after year follow the old Indian custom of turning their stock on the road; and, in many cases, these men have farms and places of their own, and are as well able to look after their stock as their neighbors. But no; they turn them on the road, not caring what mischief they do. To-day they break into Mr. Jones' wheat, to-morrow they are in Mr. Smith's meadow, next day wandering through school grounds and brick yards, and on Sunday prowling through grave yards, pushing and breaking down tombstones. They can open gate, and when they have knocked a board or picket off a fence in they go, and, in addition to the damage done, you have to lose valuable time in getting them out. Why are we to be compelled to keep a fence horse high, bull strong, and pig tight to keep a neighbor's stock from breaking into our crops from the highway? Ought we not rather to have a law requiring every man to take care of his own? What is the use of planting trees along our roadsides, or attempting in any way to beautify our roads, while we have no protection against horses and cattle? The tender shoots of a young maple would be a sweet relish for these hungry brutes, but who wants to plant trees for this purpose? And again, what is the use to grade up our side roads, to make foot paths, or try in any way to give to them a cared-for appearance, when as soon as the work is done a set of boring machines (I suppose the owners would call them pigs) come along and make it worse than before. This, sir, is no fancy picture. It is taking place every day, and we may well enquire how long will it continue? How is it, in a township as old as this, that we had not long ago a law that would keep stock from roaming at large on our roads? Surely such a state of things is much behind the day in which we live.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

On Monday, 7th inst., the corner stone of the Woodland (Egremont), Presbyterian Church was laid by the Rev. D. Fraser, M. A., pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Mt. Forest and Woodland congregation. At the hour appointed a large congregation was assembled at the church. Revs. Messrs. Fraser, J Campbell B. A., Harriston. J. Morrison, Proton, and J. Straith, Paisley, took part in the ceremony. After the stone had been laid, the assembly adjourned to the old church where refreshments were partaken of, and the clergymen addressed those present congratulating them on the advancement they had made as a congregation.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES Epps & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n1dw9md

Mr. Gladstone's Apology.

No grander illustration of true greatness, no deeper illustration of political degradation, were ever given, than the letter of Mr. Gladstone on the one hand and its reception by his opponents on the other.

In the course of the canvass he made a public statement in regard to the Austrian Government. Having in the course of a few weeks been furnished with satisfactory evidence that he had been misformed, he did what any man of average honesty ought to be expected to do. He withdrew the statement, with his regret that he had given it expression. As once the whole Tory press of England howls with indignant contempt, not that Mr. Gladstone has made the statement, but that, knowing it now to be incorrect, he has withdrawn it. In other words, his virtue is condemned, and the world is made to know that an apology even for an error is a greater crime than a lie.

If Beaconsfield had withdrawn an error, for instance, his statement in regard to emigration to Canada, the same papers would have applauded his magnanimity. They never had the opportunity. We repeat that Mr. Gladstone is honored and his opponents are degraded by this last political demonstration.—New York Observer.

SAD DEATH OF A LITTLE GIRL.—A bright little girl four years old, daughter of Mrs. James Pringle, hotel keeper, Whitby, was killed on the harbor railway switch on Thursday, under most distressing circumstances. The track runs between the hotel and stable, and a platform car was standing on the track between. Mrs. Pringle having occasion to cross the track, gave the car a shove. Her little daughter was at the opposite end out of sight, and the first warning the poor mother had of the danger was the car passing over her poor child's body. Death was instantaneous. The terrible grief of the bereaved mother has almost driven her to distraction.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY SENATE.—The Ontario Government have re-appointed the three nominated members who retire this year from the Senate of the Provincial University, namely, Mr. John Macdonald and Col. Gzowski, of Toronto, and Hugh McMahon, Q. C., of London. Mr. Justice Cameron, of the Court of Queen's Bench, has been appointed for the unexpired portion of the term of the late Mr. George Brown. The three members elected this year by Convocation are Messrs. John King, of Berlin, S. Woods, of Kingston, and A. F. Campell, of Toronto. The members appointed by the Government retire in 1883, with the exception of Mr. Justice Cameron, whose term expires a year sooner. Those elected by Convocation hold office till 1885.

JEAN ARMOUR.—The Rev. Dr. Begg, of Edinburgh, was lately presented by his congregation with various tokens of affection on the occasion of his jubilee. In returning thanks, he referred to the fact of his having begun his ministry in Maxwellton, in the neighborhood of Dumfries. He said he at that time often visited Jean Armour (Burns' widow), of whom he speaks in the following style:—"His first regular charge was at Maxwellton, and he remarked that while there he especially remembered the visits which he paid to the widow of Robert Burns—Jean Armour—and a most interesting person she was. Nobody would ever have imagined that she had been bonnie. (Laughter). It would have required a stretch of imagination to discover anything of that sort. (Renewed laughter.) But she was an extremely interesting and thoroughly good woman. (Applause.) He had often wondered what became of the Bible which lay on the table before her containing the names of the family in the handwriting of Burns himself. He took special interest in her and in Burns' grand-children, who attended his place of worship. On one occasion Burns' two sons were also present."

The Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church met at Belleville on Wednesday, when the Rev. Mr. Willoughby of that city was elected President, and the Rev. S. Hunter of Toronto.

A robbery of a somewhat daring nature took place on Monday night at the house of Mr. Wayward, No. 4 Foxley street, Toronto. The inmates were chloroformed and the house thoroughly ransacked.

The Dundas Banner regrets to learn that the grape crop in and about Rockview is looked on as a failure, on account of the ravages of the phylloxera. One large vinery that has heretofore been very profitable in the production of fine wine grape is now completely destroyed.

Mr. Richard Gibson, of London, Ont., a member of the Ontario Agricultural Commission, who is at present on a visit to England, attended the sale of Mr. Henry Lovatt's shorthorn held by Mr. Thornton, near Wolverhampton, on Friday last, and was fortunate enough to secure a very handsome heifer, "Lady Oxford Barrington," for the Dominion. The price paid was £150.

During a thunder storm on Thursday forenoon the house of Mr. John Kerr, of Dutton, was considerably damaged by lightning, and a young lady, a sister of Mrs. Kerr, nearly lost her life. The electric fluid struck her on the head and traversed the whole length of her body leaving a continuous mark and rending one shoe. She is still lying with hopes of her recovery.

The Acton Free Press says:—On Tuesday night George Carr, carpenter, Limehouse, left this village for home about 10 o'clock, and proceeded along the railway track. He attempted to cross the cattle-guard at the south of Acton station, but being too full of bad whiskey he tumbled off the rail, and fell into the trench. He laid there until morning, when he was found by one of the G. T. R. employees, and was unable to move himself. It was thought that his back was broken, but medical examination proved differently. He was badly bruised, however, and was taken home by the village constable.

ANOTHER WESTERN HORROR.—In the Far West, near the Mexican border, the skunk is not satisfied to be let alone, but if, in his nocturnal wanderings, he finds a cabin door open and the inmates sleeping on the floor, he has the peculiar habit of biting as many noses as he can reach. Six persons have been bitten in the vicinity of Nine Mile Bottom. One of the victims, a Spanish woman, died with all the symptoms of hydrophobia, except that she made no effort to bite others. She suffered intensely and called for water, the sight of which would throw her into convulsions. A little girl who was bitten three years ago, is ill every year on the occurrence of the season when the accident befel her.

THE KENNEDY FAMILY IN ITALY.—Mr. Kennedy, the celebrated Scottish vocalist, after a successful tour in India, recently visited Milan, where some of his sons have been pursuing their vocal education. A local newspaper, La Perseverànza, of the 18th ult., contains a notice of a concert given in that city. It says:—'The grand attraction was Signor Kennedy and two of his sons, whose singing, though in a tongue unknown to most of the audience, was exceptionally fine. Mr. Kennedy's pathetic, patriotic, and humorous powers, and his vocal tone, are spoken of in highly laudatory terms.'

In the House of Commons Sir Charles Dilke said that the French fleet is at the Piræus, and has received no orders to go to Besika Bay.

Daily Mercury.

SATURDAY EVN'G, JUNE 12, 1880

Morning Telegrams.

A telegram from Valona, Albania, reports that Lloyd's agency has been undermined and blown up. The Director and an official were severly wounded. The originators of the outrage are unknown.

Cassagnac has resigned his seat in the Chamber of Deputies owing to divisions in the Bonapartist ranks.

Lord Hartington in the Commons denied that the orders have been given for the evacuation of Cabul.

Mr. Gladstone is relieved by Lord Hartington of the fatiguing burden of leadership in the Commons during the small hours. In consequence of a private arrangement between the leaders the Premier will not, as a rule, remain late in the Commons. On great occasions he will remain till the close of the sitting; but his services may easily be dispensed with on five nights out of six.

Mr. Gladstone's budget is not likely to be very popular, as the income tax is already burndensome to a large class. The abolition of the malt tax will remove a long-standing grievance of the agricultural class, but the manner of its removal will give offence to the Scotch and Irish whiskey manufacturers, while the reduction of the duty on light wines places the latter in a favourable position for competion with beer.

A Tornado in Iowa.

Twenty Persons Reported Killed or Missing.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, June 11.—A terrible tornado swept through the southern and eastern parts of the Pottawattoime county on Wednesday night. It travelled eastward in a track about half a mile in width, and swept everything before it, demolishing farm houses, barns, and other buildings, carrying some of them bodily hundreds of feet and dashing them to pieces. At one place a farmer's house, surrounded by a board fence was picked up and dashed to pieces in the yard, leaving every board on the fence in its place. The killed are:—Jesse Ansler, wife, and two children; William Hair, wife, and two children, and another child fatally injured. Alex. Ansler, wife, and child were carried in the air almost 150 feet and seriously injured, the child fatally. A hired man, employed by the latter, name unknown, was killed, and six or eight others were carried away and not found. About twenty are reported dead or missing. There is not a house in the track of the tornado left standing.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

The Fire at Titusville, Pa.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 12.—The morning Derrick says: The loss by the fire at Titusville, will reach $3,000,000.

Titusville, 11 a. m.—It is now storming fearfully. Another tank of 30,000 bls. has struck by lightning.

Boy Drowned at Parry Sound.

PARRY HARBOR, June 11.—John McKee's little son Johnny, aged six years and two months, while trying to jump from one boat into another this evening, fell into the Georgian Bay, close to the Guelph Lumber Company's storehouse. His brother, with several other children were playing on the other side of the storehouse, but could not see him to give the alarm in time. Life was extinct before he could be rescued.

Heavy Storm at Conestogo

CONESTOGO, Ont., June 12.—A heavy thunder storm at six o'clock this morning destroyed a barn on the bank of the Grand River, belonging to Peter Kerch was struck by lightning, tearing off part of the roof and some boards.

Storm at Jarvis.

JARVIS, Ont., June 12.—This morning during a severe thunder storm, lightning struck a chimney on the residence of C. W. Nash, of this village. The fluid passed down inside the chimney, knocking the stovepipe off the stove, shaking it up lively, throwing open the stove doors and ejecting an ash pan full of ashes, and scattering its contents over the floor. The residence of Thos. Carwain, farmer, a mile west, was struck during the storm and damaged the chimney and verandah to a considerable extent.

Two Steamers Collide.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The steamer Narragansett, wich left New York last evening for Stonington and her companion the Stonington, which left Stonington for New York, collided off the Connecticut River in a dense fog about 11.15 p. m. The former took fire and sank in four fathoms of water. Both vessels transferred passengers to the City of New York, which arrived in New York at 10:15 this morning. It is impossible to ascertain how many lives are lost. Thus far two bodies have been recovered.

OUTRAGE ON A COLOURED MAN.—In the township of Anderdon, in Essex County, a coloured man has been living with a white woman, a fact which so enraged the white inhabitants that a few evenings since a party of them visited the domicile of the couple and inflicted upon them most disgraceful personal mutilation. Traces were left whereby the parties may yet be identified, but in the neighbourhood very little effort is likely to be made, owing to the ill-repute of the maltreated parties.

Local News.

REV. W. F. CLARKE has been lecturing on Agriculture in Dumfries.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Dr. Wardrope will occupy the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian Church, Toronto, to-morrow.

A RESIDENT of Elora was seen on the streets of this city on Friday wearing a fur cap, and the thermometer registering 82° in the shade.

PARTIES wanting to purchase a good horse, carriage and harness, should call at the American Hotel stables, on Tuesday forenoon. See advertisement.

THE WOOL MARKET. — There were upwards of 600 fleeces delivered on the Guelph market to-day (Saturday.) The price has lowered to 28 cents per lb.

FARMERS' EXCURSION.—A farmers' excursion from the county of Bruce to the Model Farm will be held on Wednesday, June 23rd.

NORTHERN EXHIBITION.—The Telescope says: The Directors met on Wednesday and decided on a three days show to be held on October 5th, 6th and 7th.

Y. M. C. A.—Remember the Young Men's prayer meeting to-morrow, at 9.15 a.m., also the one held at 8.15 p.m., to which all are invited.

MR. A. W. SAMSON, who has been Manager of the Bank of Commerce in Galt for the last four or five years, is about to be transferred to the Managership of the agency of the Bank at Dunville. He was very popular at Galt.

THE contract for building the Central Presbyterian Church, Galt has been signed by the contractor, Mr. Stevens, of Guelph, and work was commenced on Wednesday last. The actual contract price is $15,210. This will bring the total cost of the premises close up to $20,000.

THE Rev. John McLean, under-graduate in Victoria University, has been set apart by the Conference at Hamilton, as missionary among the Blackfeet Indian tribes. He will reside at Fort McLeod. He will preach to-morrow evening in the Dublin-st. Methodist Church of this city previous to his departure for his far North-west home. The Rev. Mr. Pearson, of Kingsville, will occupy the pulpit in the morning.

GAZETTEER AND DIRECTORY.—We have received from Messrs. W. F. Irwin & Co., the well-known publishers, a gazetteer and directory of the City of Brantford and County of Brant. It is well printed, the arrangement is complete and it is bound in a very neat form. Copies may be had for $2 by addressing the publishers, Hamilton, or at the Expositor office, Brantford.

STRATFORD AND THE GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.—The Town of Stratford is in a bad way over the amalgamation of Stratford & Dover Railway with the Grand Trunk. The ratepayers were induced to invest $30,000 in the road on the understanding that it would continue to be a competing line. They have made the same discovery which others have done before, that railway company's promises are made to be broken on the first profitable opportunity. The Stratford Board of Trade had the matter under consideration and requested the Town Council to veto the amalgamation unless the Grand Trunk gives Stratford Guelph rates.

GREAT STOCKMAN COMING TO CANADA.—A distinguished visitor is likely to be among our farmers taking notes during the present summer—Mr. John B. Booth, of Killerby. Mr. Booth has been chosen by the farmers of his neighborhood as a delegate to visit Canada and report upon the country as a field of emigration for English farmers. He is the son of John Booth, of Warlaby, the distinguished Shorthorn breeder, who divides with Thomas Bates the honor of bringing up the breed to its present usefulness. Mr. Booth will find some of the best living specimens of his tribes of Shorthorns in Canada. His visit can scarcely fail to be productive of good to this country and England.

THE ORATORIO OF ST. PETER.—It is gratifying to notice the zeal shown by a number of the church choirs of this city to cultivate a taste for the higher order of music. During the past year a number of creditable efforts have been made to interpret the productions of the great masters. Noticeably among those who have successfully labored to elevate the taste for classic music are the the choirs of Dublin and Norfolk streets Methodist Churches, St. George's Church and the Church of Our Lady. The choir of this last named church announce in to-day's MERCURY a concert on the 25th inst., when Sir Julius Benedick's oratorio of "St. Peter" will be given. We are sure the efforts of the ladies and gentlemen who have labored so zealously to produce this truly grand composition will be fully appreciated, and that an unusually large audience will greet the production for the first time in Guelph of the oratorio of "St. Peter."

GENERAL HOSPITAL NOTES.—There are seventeen patients in this institution, that being a smaller number than there has been for some time.—Next week Rev. W. S. Ball will be the visiting clergyman and Dr. Keating the attending physician.—Operations on the eyes of two persons, who were blind from cataracts have been performed. One of them is James Hosborough, of Minto, and the other Mary Bockard, of Peel. The latter was accompanied by her physician, Dr. Wallace, of Alma. The operations were so successfully made that sight has returned to both patients, and they will be discharged in a few days.—The man Troupe, who was injured while drying on Norfolk street on the 24th May, has recovered from his injuries and has been discharged.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.— Moderate to fresh winds, mostly between west and south; partly cloudy continued hot weather, with local showers and thunder storms.

High School Literary Society.

A Very Successful Entertainment Under its Auspices.

As a rule citizens do not conceive sufficient merit in local entertainments to support them to any extent, but in the case of the High School Literary Society's entertainment on Friday evening there was an exception. Persons continued to arrive for half an hour after the time announced for the opening of the entertainment, until finally every seat and aisle were filled. Mr. Tytler, Principal, occupied the chair, there being seated on the platform beside him a number of clergymen and others interested in school work.

The programme consisted almost entirely of readings by Dr. Woodgate, of St. Mary's, who took part at a similar entertainment given here a few weeks ago. He then made such a favorable impression that it was decided to procure his return as soon as possible. Friday night presented a good opportunity, and his appearance on the second occasion but added to the appreciation of his efforts felt by those who heard him before. His selections were, with one or two exceptions, taken from plays, the extracts being so varied in character as to display his full powers as a reader. A reader labours at a disadvantage as compared with an actor in the same part where the latter has scenic effect and the stage accompaniments to back him up. It is indeed a difficult task for any one to undertake to secure sustained interest through an almost uninterrupted series of readings, with nothing to aid him save his individual ability and histrionic powers. Dr. Woodgate is capable of performing this task. He does not aim at the mere theatrical in reading, and his unostentatious, natural manner, together with the power he displays won for him the admiration of the audience. Though there were nine selections on the programme, which occupied fully two hours in delivery, he held the rapt attention of the audience, and at the close they would have wished for more, as was evinced by prolonged applause. The readings were all so well given that to make a distinction in favor of one is not an easy matter. Perhaps it would not be out of place to say that competent judges gave the selection from Othello the preference. The part is that in which Iago for the first time approaches Othello with the insinuation that his wife Desdemona is disloyal to him. The sly, cringing villainy of the former's character was fully brought out, while the mingled feelings of doubt and passion of Othello were equally well shown. Hamlet's instruction to the players, was also well read. A selection from "Money," by Lord Lytton; "The speech of Sergeant Buzfuz' in the famous case of Bardell vs. Pickwick was received with side splitting laughter, and "Papa's letter"—a very simple and affecting piece by Anon was effectively given as a conclusion to the first part. In the second the readings were the "Vagabond;" selections from the "Honeymoon;" "The Execution of Montrose;" and "The yarn of the Nancy Bell," all of which were equally well sustained. During the evening the Harris' Bros. played a duet on the violin and piano; Miss Oldham sang "The Bridge," from Tennyson, Mrs. Budd playing the accompaniment; Messrs. McLennan and Maitland played a lively duet, and Mr. Crawford sang "The Tempest," with good effect. All these selections were well received.

The audience united in singing the "National Anthem," thus bringing a most enjoyable entertainment to a close.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

SATURDAY, June 12.

Armitage v. Robb.—Action of replevin by tenant against his landlord to recover goods which as tenant alleged had been illegally seized for rent under a landlord's warrant. Robb in 1872 rented to Armitage lot 7, in con. B., Peel, for 8 years at $80 a year. In September, 1879, Robb seized Armitage's stock and crops for $66, claimed to be due as arrears of rent. The trial lasted a day and a half and involved questions of improvements, payments and various alleged settlements. After addresses of counsel and the judge's charge the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff (the tenant,) restoring him his goods and giving $150 as damages. At a former trial the verdict was for the plaintiff with $4 damages. Mr. Guthrie for plaintiff, and Mr. Jacob for defendant.

McKenzie vs. Daly.—This was an action brought by McKenzie & Goodfellow, of Guelph, against William Daly, of the same place, to recover $114, the balance of an account against the defendant for hog products. The defendant paid $80 in Court and objected to pay the balance on the ground that the goods were in a bad and unsaleable condition at the time they were delivered. The case has been heard and the jury have retired to consider their verdict. D. Guthrie, Q. C., for plaintiffs; A. H. Macdonald, for defendant.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CENTENARY.—It has been decided not to celebrate in this city the 100th anniversary of the establishment of Sunday schools. A number of citizens interested in Sunday school work, have for some time been endeavouring to make preparations to celebrate the event, but it is to be regretted that there did not seem to be a general enthusiasm felt in promoting the design, and for want of unanimity it has been abandoned.

The Tribune's Cleveland special says Garfield owns a house in Washington and a farm in Mentor, Ohio, and is probably worth about $15,000.

On Thursday night burglars entered Barber & Ellis' wholesale stationery establishment, Toronto, by a window and blew one door of the safe off. They handled all the papers but took nothing, and did not attempt to open the second door, which opens with a single latch behind which was the cash box containing about $4,000. They must have used about a pound of powder as the locks were completely ruined, and when it was discovered next morning the store was filled with smoke. The burglars escaped into the cellar and from thence to Melinda street.

There has been a considerable stir in the cattle trade in Toronto during the past week. About six hundred head arrived, one half of which were cattle for export; the others were for local use in Toronto and at Montreal. The prices paid for these cattle were from 5c to 5½c for the export cattle, and 4½c to 4¾c for the others. They were all farmer's cattle, and they were generally in good condition.

The Presbyterian Church at Nairn was struck by lightning on Friday morning and totally destroyed. It was erected about three years ago at a cost of $3,000. About two miles distant from the church the barn and sheds of Mr. G. Phillip were burnt. A large number of cattle were destroyed in London township. The house of Wm. Taylor, in Nissouri, was struck and badly damaged.

A matrimonial event, which for some weeks past has been anticipated with much interest in Halton, took place on Thursday evening, on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Mary Jane Alton with James E. Wickson, of Toronto. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, Joseph Alton, of Nelson, and was attended by upwards of 130 guests, comprising residents of Toronto, Guelph, Hamilton, London, Paris, and County of Halton.

ASSAULT.—Samuel Lochlin appeared before the Police Magistrate this (Saturday) forenoon to answer a charge of assault, prefered by Emil Fisher. The defendant is foreman of the casemakers in W. Bell & Co.'s organ factory. Last week, contrary to rules, Fisher entered the shop and engaged in conversation with one of Lochlin's men. The latter ordered him to leave the premises and getting an impertinent retort struck the plaintiff several times. It appeared that Lochlin had some provocation to make the attack, but the only ground of defence was that he had not used more force against the plaintiff than was required to put him out of the factory. From the evidence elicited the magistrate held that he had used more force than was necessary and imposed a fine of $3.60. A counter charge has been laid by defendant.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MONTREAL, June 10.

The Home Mission report was submitted. Twelve months ago the Fund was $9,551 in debt. In October the indebtedness had increased to $23,000. A special effort was made to clear off this indebtedness and raise the annual collection. The Church asked for $46,000 and $46,869 was raised. The Assembly was jubilant over the event on Thursday evening, when the report was submitted. The entire mission field consists of 530 places of preaching, 896 families, 11,128 communicants, and an attendance of 28,008. In Manitoba alone 22 ministers are employed. The large emigration to this Province makes this mission very popular just now, as many have relatives in the Far West, and desire that they should have churches to attend. The Assembly is determined that the Presbyterian settlers in Manitoba shall not be driven out of their church for want of privileges, as many were in the early days of Ontario.

The next meeting is fixed for Kingston, the opening sederunt to be in St. Andrew's Church and the remainder in the Convocation Hall of Queen's College. In 1844 the Presbyterian Church split in Kingston, and Kingston will see how brotherly love has increased in these thirty-six years.

The Rev. Dr. Steele, of Sydney, New South Wales, was on the platform in the evening, and was warmly received. He made a vigorous speech.

June 11.

An overture from the Presbytery of Kingston was read, recommending that the present regulation be so amended that the election of Moderator be without nomination by the Presbyteries. It was rejected.

Overtures respecting the increased liberality of congregations to the schemes of the Church, and respecting the appointment of committees to manage these schemes were read.

The reports of the various Colleges were read.

Important Meetings at Mechanics' Institutes.

Dr. S. P. May, of the Education Department, has been deputed by the Minister of Education to visit the mechanics' institutes in Ontario. The doctor is visiting these institutions for the purpose of consulting the directors and others interested in this work as to the best methods of improvement. A large sum of money is annually expended for mechanics' intitutes, and the Minister is desirous that it shall be expended in the most useful manner. If we wish to increase our manufactures we must educate our workmen. One of the schemes proposed is that classes be held for practical instruction in those branches which will be most serviceable in making skilled artisans and mechanics.

The Montreal Wholesale Trade.

MONTREAL, June 11 — The wholesale trade of the city has begun to assume its wonted midsummer dullness. In wholesale dry goods a scarcity is still being experienced in several staple lines such as silks, satins and dress goods, prices of which are very firm. Late advices from England state that manufacturers there are very independent on account of being hopeful of orders, and prices are strong with an upward tendency. Travellers on the road with fall samples of Canadian tweeds have been heard from, but buyers by no means order freely, owing to advanced prices. Remittances are fair and less complaint is made about renewals. The iron trade has been somewhat disappointing during the past week, prices having shown signs of giving way. Sugar has advanced ½c. during the week. Teas—A few small parcels of new Japans have been received and sold at 40c. to 48c. for garden pickings. There are no large lots changing hands. The leather and boot and shoe trade are steady, and prices are being well maintained. Wool is not in such urgent request as we found it some weeks ago, buyers apparently holding off in hopes of getting better terms.

The Squatter's Rights in Manitoba.

OTTAWA, June 11.—In the Superior Court, yesterday, the following suit came up:

Farmer vs. Livingstone.—Appeal allowed with costs. This is an important decision, bearing upon squatters' rights in Manitoba. The respondent claimed title to certain lands in Manitoba under the powers of squatters' rights. The appellant is a patentee under the Dominion Lands Act, and he brought an action of ejectment. Chief Justice Wood, of Manitoba, decided that the squatter held a right to the land before the issue of the patent, and that the law of Ontario, based upon usage and recognizing a squatter's right to land which he had held and tilled in undisputed possession prior to the issue of a patent, was in force in the prairie province. The Supreme Court, however, by their present unanimous decision, maintain the contrary view. This, of course, does not prevent the Government from giving relief in such cases.

FOREPAUGH'S largest show under the sun, will be in Guelph in about three weeks.

A WATER WOTKS service is being laid into the City Hall.

THE Maple Leafs left this afternoon for Galt to play the Mutuals of that town.

THE COW BY-LAW.—W. S. G. Knowles was to-day fined $3 10 at Police Court for allowing a cow to run at large.

SMITH, of Buffalo, the horse buyer, has returned to purchase another lot of horses for shipment.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN.—On Friday, William Ridderford, Brantford, laid two charges with the police against George Patterson, the first for using abusive language and the second for assault. He afterwards decided not to prosecute, and withdrew the charges.

PINE-APPLES, &c.—Mr. Hugh Walker, ever having an eye to the wants of the public, has now on hand a choice lot of pine-apples, cherries and strawberries, all of which are being sold at moderate prices. Buy, eat and live.

Daily Mercury.

SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 12, 1880

THE genuineness of the "hum" which has reached Oshawa is not to be disputed, a population "diminished by 124 and an assessed valuation ten per cent. below that of last year!" And Oshawa has more extensive manufacturing industries than any other town of its size in Canada.

ACCORDING to the late returns protection does not seem to protect the U. S. manufacturers very much. These returns show that the imports of dry goods at New York alone for the five months ending 31st May, were over $56,000,000, an increase of eighteen millions as compared with the same period in 1879, and of over twenty-two millions as compared with that period of 1878.

IT was to be expected that the Democratic papers would "be down" on Garfield, the Republican candidate for President, but the Washington Post has the most venomous remarks we have yet seen about him. This is how it talks about him:—Garfield—the salary-grabber. Garfield—the proven beneficiary of the Credit Mobilier swindle. Garfield—who sold himself to De Golyer paving company for the pitiful sum of $5,000. Gafield—the assassin of Fitz John Porter. Garfield—the pulp protectionist. Garfield—a man with the voice of a lion, and the heart of a sheep—irresolute in purpose and with a record stained on every page."

STRATFORD Beacon:—The Northwest is a convenient refuge for Tory stumpers and hangers-on. Should no office happen to be vacant one is promptly made to suit the capacity of the applicant, or a "Grit" official is degraded in his rank and a Tory put in his place—as in the case of Mr. Belch. Mr. John Grey, of Prescott, was a Tory spouter of considerable energy during the elections, and he was clamoring for his reward. He has got it, and a pretty "soft" thing it is. He is now "inspector of immigrant agencies in the Northwest," and as there are just two such agencies—one at Winnipeg and the other at Emerson—our readers can easily understand that Mr. John Grey has arduous duties to perform!

WE copy to-day from the Elora Express a timely article on the action of the "tyrannous majority" of the northern members of the County Council, in the appointment of a Public School Inspector for the southern Division of the County. The Express takes the same ground as we did in regard to this transaction, and it moreover refers to the futile attempt of a few wirepullers to get a transfer made of the Inspectors. This attempt, along with the previous action of these northern members, affords conclusive proof that the scheme was a concocted one, and that it would have been carried out in its entirety, but for the feeling which was at last aroused in the Council, that though they were led by the nose so far as the appointment of Inspector was concerned, yet they would not consent to sanction the other part of the wirepullers' scheme.

WE have already stated that Mr. E. King Dodds has been warning the Licensed Victuallers Association that the Dominion Alliance intends to make an effort to secure the passage of the Canada Temperance Act in several counties, and Mr. Dodds moreover informs them that if they hope to defeat it they ought to engage him to advocate their cause at the rate of $50 a night. On this the Cobourg World remarks:—"He reminds them that, in the case of the late Dunkin Act, where no opposition was offered the Act was passed by large majorities; but that in eleven out of fourteen counties where their obedent servant, for $50 a night, opposed the malicious intentions of its promoters, the measure was handsomely defeated. Therefore, the inference is as plain as the most obtuse imagination might desire it,—if they wish this new law to succeed, let them rest on the presumption that the good sense of the people will defeat it, and they will find that same good sense perverse enough to adopt it; but if they wish it to fail, let them take the suggested alternative, and E. King Dodds, at $50 a night, will secure the perpetuation of their liberties for all time to come."

The Exodus from Canada.

We are all well aware of the large and long continued exodus of the people from Canada to the States. This has been going on for months, and as far as we can learn there is but slight diminution in the number that every week find their way across the line. But we must say that we were startled by the following from the Sarnia Observer, which only deals with the returns from the one port, namely, Port Huron, and which are given by the Times of that place from reliable statistics. The Observer thus summarizes the returns:—

Last January we were startled by the vast preponderance of Canadians in the table of nationalities indicating from whence the tide of emigration to the United States flowed. Then, out of a total of 22,600 who entered the country at Port Huron during the last three monthe of 1879, we learned that 21,336 were from the Canadian Provinces. Though somewhat prepared beforehand, by the knowledge that a constant stream of settlers from this side was flowing into the neighbouring territory, we were amazed when brought face to face with the actual figures, and we have no doubt our readers were equally astonished at the magnitude of the emigration that was undoubtedly going on under their own eyes. Few, if any, were prepared to learn that the depletion of our population was being effected at such a rapid rate. We have now before us the figures for the first quarter of 1880, ending the 31st of March, and the succeeding two months, ending the 31st of May, bringing the information down almost to date. We are sorry to say that the returns show rather an increase than a decrease in the proportion of Canadian citizens, who, with citizens of other countries, have sought homes in the neighboring republic.

During the quarter ending March 31st, 1880, out of a total of 19,080 immigrants arriving at Port Huron, 16,624 were from Canada; while for the two months ending 31st of May, 19,239 Canadians entered at Port Huron, out of a total immigration of 25,957! Here we have the astounding information that for the eight months just past no less than 57,199 of the population of the Canadian Provinces abandoned their homes and crossed the border to take up their abode under the American flag. When we consider further that these enormous figures represent the entries at a single port, and that a similar state of things has been going on in the eastern ports of the Republic where the bulk of the emigrants from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces find their way into the various States of the Union, the immensity of the volume of life blood which this country has been contributing, and is contributing to build up and strengthen its powerful neighbor can be approximately conjectured. How absurd it is, in the face of authentic statistics such as these from which we quote, for Ministerial organs to deny that an exodus, greater than was ever before known, and vastly larger in proportion than that from any other country on the face of the globe, has been going on with increasing rapidity since the present Government undertook to tamper with our fiscal policy, and to reverse the system under which the Dominion had grown and flourished, and its people made steady and substantial progress. How hollow sound the promises of the Tory leaders to keep Canada for the Canadians, and Canadians in Canada, when tested by stern facts and official figures.

Northern Domination.

(From the Elora Express.)

It has several times been our duty, in defence as we believe of the true interests of South and Centre Wellington, to complain of the manner in which our rights and wishes are overborne by a controlling body in the north. In one solid mass, at our County Council, with one voice always in every matter of importance, the inhabitants of that favored locality are always ready to forget that any other part of the world can have any possible stake in affairs concerning the people of Wellington. In educational matters, especially, has this been the case. One Model School was not sufficient for the incipient Solomons who make Mount Forest and its vicinity their homes; North Wellington said another must be located at Harriston, and accordingly to Harriston another went. Consequently this municipality presents just now the rare spectacle of carefully sending every candidate for a teachers' certificate as far out of the way as possible, loading him with as much expense as possible, and putting him to as much inconvenience as possible in order that the educational institutions of our northern neighbors may derive whatever sustenance is supposed to arise from the presence of these training schools in their midst. The last instance, however, of the enterprise of our favoured fellow countrymen, is afforded by the late appointment of a School Inspector for South Wellington. As every one knows, this office fell vacant a short time since by the unexpected resignation of Mr. Somerville. Mr. McCaig was appointed pro tem by the Warden. Now one of two things is certain: Mr. McCaig was fit for this office or he was not. If the latter be the true state of affairs, he should never have been appointed. He was no stranger—his record was known—he has committed no crime against any law of society since he has entered on his duties. How does it happen then, that within a few months of his appointment he is unceremoniously kicked out of office? Surely the Warden, in giving him the situation, did not estimate his choice other than the proper one. And if Mr. McCaig is not suitable to perform the duties of that very onerous office, was no man to be found in South Wellington, no one familiar with our schools, our teachers, and their wants worthy to succeed him? We ween it was because no one supposed a dismissal was imminent, that there were no applications from our own locality. How far, we wonder, has the fact that Mr. Craig inhabits the sacred precincts of Mount Forest weighed in his success. Of that gentleman we know nothing personally. In fact, like a large majority of teachers of this section, we had never heard of him before he became our inspector. We know that at the time Mr. Somerville resigned, there was a cry that the office should be filled by some one who would not make it a mere stepping stone, and we trust Mr. Craig is the man. But whether he or no, we are quite sure it would have little influence in the myriads of the reeves and deputy reeves which swarm from his vicinity, and by whose votes he has been elected. Whatever might be the character of the man, our fate would be the same. Bow and worship ye benighted men of the South! Behold the idol your masters send you! Such is the sentence we have borne more than once. The climax was reached, however, when, shortly after Mr. Craig's appointment, it was gravely proposed he should remain in the north and the present Inspector of that section transferred to us. Can audacity go much further? This we must confess was a little too much even for the Wellington County Council, and the project had to be abandoned. The Council may continue to indulge these grim pieces of irony at our expense as long as we allow the members of that region to sway us as they will, but we can assure them, however, such acts as these are rapidly raising up a spirit which will make itself felt in no hidden or mysterious manner.

MAITLAND, ONT., Feb. 26, 1880.
Messrs. Perry Davis & Son & Lawrence, Montreal.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned PAIN-KILLER. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is best patient medicine I have ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended; and moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly,
JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

Agricultural Production in the United States.

In a recent number of the International Review Mr. B. P. Porter has given some interesting details concerning the progress of agriculture in the United States, and the westward march of the centre of production. Within the last fifteen years he shows that the production of wheat and barley has trebled, corn, cotton and tobacco more than doubled, oats increased nearly 140,000,000 bushels, potatoes nearly doubled, and hay increased more than one third. He gives the figures for the chief crops in 1865 and 1879, according to which the production of wheat has increased from 148,553,000 bushels in the former year to 448,756,000 in the latter; corn from 704,427,000 to 1,544,899,000; oats from 225,252,000 to $364,253,000; rye from 19,544,000 to 22,646,000; barley from 11,391,000 to 40,184,000; potatoes from 101,632,000 to 181,369,000; hay from 23,538,000 tons to 35,648,000; tobacco from 183,317,000 pounds to 384,059,000, and cotton from 2,229,000 bales to 5,020,000. The remarkable increase in the production of cereals has been largely owing to the settlement and development of the Western and Northwestern State. Within the present generation the centre of corn production has shifted from the South to the West, and of wheat production from the Middle States to the far West. The same writer shows that the exports have rapidly increased in the past few years, and are likely to increase in the future, especially if the cost of transportation shall be reduced. Thus the total exports of cereals increased from 39,000,000 bushels in 1868 to 189,000,000 in 1878.

THE AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.—In pursuance of the programme of work laid out for the various departments of the Agricultural Commission for the week, the Commissioners of Section No. 4, having specially entrusted to them an enquiry into matters connected with Fruit Growing, Forestry, Insects and Insectivorous Birds, and Bee-keeping, held their first meeting on Thursday. There were present Messrs. W. Saunders (chairman), Hon. S. C. Wood, J. B. Aylsworth, E. Byrne, W. Brown, Jno. Watson, and A.H. Dymond. As several prominent fruit-growers who had been invited by the Commission to attend and be examined orally in relation to the subject matter of investigation were present, the Committee proceeded at once to the taking of the evidence. Mr. Beadle, Mr. Dempsey, and Mr. Arno were examined.

THE 'PRENTICE BOYS.—At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of 'Prentice Boys, held at Cobourg, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—John McIlroy, G M, Kingston; A G Horwood, S D G M, Toronto; J. McPhelemy, J D G M, Cleveland, Ohio; N D McDonald, 1st Asso D G M, St. Thomas; W. Peebles, 2nd Asso D G M, Hamilton; C. Gentleman, G C; W. S. Wilde, jun., G Sec; J. Fawcett, Asst.-Sec., Toronto; R. Anderson, G Treas., Napanee; P. J. Sherlock, G. Lec, Camden East; J. V. Henderson, 1st Asso. G. Lec, Cobourg; J. Wilson, 2nd Asso Lec, Hamilton; W. H. Whitelaw, G D of C, Cobourg; A. D. Scott, G Tyler, Toronto. The Grand Lodge will be held in Hamilton next year.

AN INTERESTING CASE OF BOVINE DEVELOPMENT.—Mr. Richard Hawley has on his farm near Goderich a Durham bull, "Beaconsfield," which is phenomenal for early development. He was 3 years old on the 17th of April, and two days before he weighed 2,280 lbs., having gained 410 lbs. since the previous weighing on the 23rd of last September. During these 6 months and 28 days he gained 8 inches in girth, and now measures round the chest 8 feet, rather more round the loins, and 9 feet round the brisket and forward of shoulder. He stands 5 feet 1 inch high at the shoulders, and precisely the same at the loins, and 5 feet 6 inches at the curve of the neck, when standing at ease. He is symmetrical and well formed, and in colour is pure white. He is said to have "a wonderful display of milking points." He was awarded the first prize at the Western Fair at London, Ont., in September, against the Bow Park bull and other competitors in his class. This goes to show that even then he was regarded with unusual favour. He is pronounced fine in all his points. His dam is a pure Bates, while his sire has a few top Booth crosses. We understand that it is probable that he will be exhibited this fall.

LISA LENA:

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AN OUTCAST.

CHAPTER I.

A FIRST MEMORY.

The first thing I can remember is a dark night, a strange, wild, terrible noise, a confused roar of angry voices, and the sharp crack of firearms. I was in bed, and had suddenly been awakened. A woman in her delicate white night dress, laced and frilled, leaned out over the sill of an open window, her hands clasped, her long black hair, a wealth of glossy beauty, floating down over her shoulders and far below her waist, in picturesque disorder, he white face, with its fine profile distorted with anguish, marked out like a maeble relief on the black background of the night, while her eyes were strained in looking towards the tumult and the gloom.

It was more than twenty years ago; but I see it now as I saw it then—the first revelation to me of life, of terror, of pain, of the shadow of death.

The woman at the window, young and graceful, yet in the full maturity of form and being, was my mother. Beyond that scene my memory recalls nothing definite. There only remains with me a dreamy sense ot having been—a vision, unclouded by care, in which she hovers as a guardian angel.

Started by the din, I sat up in my cot, which stood up in the corner of the room, a great comfortable room with a large white curtained bed and handsome old fashioned furniture.

"Mamma, Mamma!"

She did not hear me. She was there in the window gazing intently at whatever terrible things were being enacted under her eyes. I pushed away the clothes, and climbing the rails that shut me in, I got my little feet on the ledge outside, and tried to slide down to the ground by the leg. My night-gown wrapping my right foot, I fell, but was up in a moment and ran to the window. Then I climbed the seat that stood in the corner and saw all that my mother saw. A flash, a frightful noise, a shriek, for a moment confused me; but I can remember how clearly I took in the scene. A wide street with low villas ranged on either side, embowered in tropical foliage, with white palisaded gardens stretched away in front and to the right. A few street lamps here and there threw out just sufficient light to enable me to discern a dark agitated crowd, sprinkled over the broad white-dusted street. The flash and the report came out from directly below the window, where standing out under the light, with his long raven-black hair thrown back from his brow, and tremulous with passion, a noble figure was visible, six feet high at least, shaking a discharged gun at the crowd, and shouting—

"Back, you cowards!"

Then, as he handed the gun to a negro standing behind him, he changed from his left hand to his right a little thing which I could see was polished and gleaming.

"Do you hear me? Go back, I tell you, or I'll shoot again, and I never miss. Corcoran, go back, for God's sake.

A man was running towards him, urging the people who held back to come on. He advanced a few paces and stopped.

"Back, I say for the last time!"

In Corcoran's hand was another little gleaming thing, which he raised to his shoulder-height, pointing it towards my father.

"Come on, men," he said. "This thing has got to stop——"

Before another word came out I saw fire flash out from my father's hand. At the same instant Corcoran jumped high into the air and fell with a heavy thud, and the people who were following ran, scattering in all directions.

My mother shrieked and fell upon her knees, resting her trembling elbows on the window and wringing her small white hands.

"O, God, have mercy upon us!"

My father's handsome face turned up under the gaslight for a second, as if he had heard her. He called to her—

"Go in, Marie. See, Lisa is there. She will be shot."

"Oh! come in; come in Harry. They are coming again."

He was handling the weapon in his hand, probably reloading the emptied chamber. Then he coolly walked towards the crowd, which was collecting again, and from which came furious cries, and at length two strong reports, followed by a peculiar shrill, singing sound. He threw back his head in a rage of passion—I think I see now his magnificent attitude as he did it—and without a word ran swiftly towards the shouting mob. They closed up together to support each other; two more shots were fired at him before he reached them, and then he was upon them. I see the tall figure. I see the arm raised, and hear the outcry of a man struck down, and then another. Again the crack and sparkle of firearms; and amongst the moving mass closing round him I see a man head and shoulders above them all dealing blows with a grand and terrible force. In another moment he was standing alone. On the white road lay three or four figures. The crowd had gone back, and was gathering about thirty yards off, and he was facing them again. The negro had run up, and handed him his gun reloaded.

'Have you not had enough?' he shouted, as he levelled it straight upon the centre of the mass, which wavered, started, then broke up into flying units.

"Mercer, we give in, by G——!" said a deep but clear voice. 'Stop! don't shoot again. I give you my word of honour it is over. Here is my hand upon it. You are the very devil to fight, and the bravest fellow I ever saw."

A man, who must himself have been brave, indeed, was advancing straight upon that terrible long shiny thing that stood out from my father's shoulder. It went down. A step or two and the two men met, and we could see them shaking hands, and then slowly others came up and there was a general hand-shaking. Then a deep sob broke from my mother, and a rain of tears ran down her checks and upon the proud, snowy bosom that was only half shrouded by the frilled lace of the open robe. And from sympathy I sobbed too, still trying to see through my watering eyes what was happening to my father. This aroused my mother, who clutched me in her arms, and straining me to her bosom said—

"Thank God you have a father, Lisa! O, my little Lisa, you don't know how nearly we have lost him."

Then hearing some sharp voices—for the air was surprisingly clear, and every word could be distinctly heard—she turned and looked out anxiously again.

Several persons had gathered round the man who first ran forward and fell. I could see my father on his knees, with his hand on the breast of the prostrate figure. I could hear some of the words spoken around him.

"It's all over Mercer. Poor fellow! It cannot be helped. It was a fair fight, and you have beaten us. You may say what you please as long as you please. If you hadn't shot him, he would have done for you, I guess, straight enough."

Then they lifted up the fallen figure. It seemed strange to me to see them do this, a number of them, as if it were a log of wood, or a bundle, or a stone.

"Why doesn't the man get up himself, mamma? Is he frightened to?

My mother shuddered, and kissing me ran to the bed, and covering me in said—

"Stay there, Lucille; don't move again."

And she went back to the window, drawing the light muslin close round her splendid form and over her bosom, while the long black hair fell down behind like a dark river rolling through the snow.

A strange and awful silence had fallen without. Some muffled sounds were heard as if from departing footsteps stepping lightly. I lay there, my little being filled with an electrical excitement. I could hear my heart throbbing. I could feel my pulse going wildly. My eyes had been strained by gazing into the doubtful gloom. And my mind had awakened to something in life new, awful, real, which I was conscious I should never shake off. My teeth began to chatter with terror. I shut my eyes and trembled. The scene was still before me. Every moment I started as at the sound of those terrible flashing things. I saw the man running. I saw the dark bundle on the ground, the people lifting it, and more bundles in the distance.

"Why didn't they get up?" I was thinking to myself all the while. "What were they doing to them?"

A step and the sound of an opening door caused me to open my eyes. I jumped up. My father—his face pale and ghastly, his large brow covered with sweat, his eyes still flashing with excitement—was in the doorway. His fine nostrils opened and closed with his rapid breathing. His lips were drawn away from his teeth—those white teeth, that usually made him look so handsome with their fascinating gleam. His shoulders were slightly bent, and his arms hung helpless at his side. My mother, with a bound like that of a graceful tigress, reached him and clasped her arms around his strong figure, looking up with passionate love into his palid face, and striving to reach the cheek to kiss it. His arms went round the full fine figure, and he lifted her up and kissed her again and again.

"O, Henri, are you hurt?"

"No, sweetheart, no." He kissed her again as she clung around his neck.

"Thank God! thank God!"

I, standing up there, in my little cot four years old, holding by the post, looked on this scene. It seemed to last so long! They had utterly forgotten me. I watched eagerly for the moment when his eye or hers should fall on me and I should take some part in these loving embraces. Yes. It seemed to last so long before they became conscious that there was another being near—their first child, their elder child, for I had a little brother, with a queer, rosy face, so soft and dimpled, and little bright eyes, and dark downy hair upon his head.

At length I could bear it no longer.

"Papa!" I cried out, in a voice of agony.

"Papa—mamma—I'm here!"

He started, and his face, which had been calmed down to tenderness under my mother's soft caresses, turned to me with a shadow over it, and his dark eye, an instant before burning with affection, grew cold and lustreless towards me. His arms uncoiled from my mother, and she, dropping hers, turned too with a strange expression in her eyes as she looked at me. Ah, could I ever know what that meant?

"Can't you make her lie down?" he said coldly, as he turned toward the window and looked out for a moment.

A slight flush came on my mother's pale cheek. She glanced at him as he moved, as if afraid, and running to me wrapped me with her arms close to her bosom, which heaved with strange excitement.

"Lie down darling Lisa, won't you?'

"No!" I said out loud, and trying to push her away. "No! Lisa not lie down."

She caressed me again, looking over her shoulder towards the figure in the window to see if it were noticing.

"Want to kiss papa!"—very loud, and sobbing.

"The devil!" he said pettishly, coming back from the window, a frown on his brow. "Won't she be quiet? You must really send the child to sleep in the nursery."

"Want to kiss papa!" I cried again, holding my arms towards him.

With a sort of cold disdain—which I felt then, feel now, and shall feel till my death—he took me up an instant, kissed me on the forehead, and put me down again. I was watching his face the while with all the intensity of childhood. As he took his hands from me he glanced at my mother, whose face was close to his. A slight, almost imperceptible, flush crossed their cheeks, and then she threw her arms on his right shoulder, and look into his eyes with a half-beseeching gaze. And he kissed her warmly, passionately as before.

I could look on no longer. I had won my point, and, turning away, I fell down in my cot, laid my head on my arms, and with tears in my eyes fell asleep. This was my first clear revelation of life.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

Drinking Ice-Water.

There is no more doubt that drinking ice-water arrests digestion than there is that a refrigerator will arrest perspiration. It drives the stomach from its natural heat, suspends the flow of gastric juice and shocks and weakens the delicate organs with which it comes in contact. An able writer on human diseases says habitual ice-water drinkers are usually flabby about the region of the stomach. They complain that their food lies heavy on that patient organ. They taste their dinner for hours after it is bolted. They cultivate the use of stimulants to aid digestion. If they are intelligent they read up on food and what the physiologist has to say about it—how long it takes cabbage and pork and beef and potatoes and other meats and esculents to go thro' the process of assimilation. They roar at new bread, hot cakes, and fried meat, imagining these to be the cause of their maladies. But ice-water goes down all the same, and finally friends are called to take a farewell look at one whom a mysterious Providence has called to a clime where, as far as is known, ice-water is not used. The number of immortal beings who go hence, to return no more, on account of an injudicious use of ice-water can hardly be estimated. —Baltimore Sun.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

Wanted to Know All About It.

The other day a lady, accompanied by her son, a very small boy, boarded a train at Little Rock. The woman had a care-worn expression hanging over her face like a scattered veil, and many of the rapid questions asked by the boy were answered by unconscious sighs.

'Ma,' said the boy, 'that man's like a baby, ain't he?' pointing to a bald headed man sitting just in front of them.

'Hush.'

'Why must I hush?'

After a moment's silence: 'Ma, what's the matter with that man's head?'

'Hush, I tell you. He's bald.'

'What's bald?'

'His head hasn't got any hair on it?'

'Did it come off?'

'I guess so.'

'Will mine come off?'

'Sometime, maybe.'

'Then I'll be bald, won't I?'

'Yes.'

'Will you care?'

'Don't ask so many questions.'

After another silence the boy exclaimed: 'Ma, look at that fly on that man's head.'

'If you don't hush I'll whip you when you get home.'

'Look! There's another fly. Look at 'em fight; look at 'em!'

'Madam,' said the man, putting aside a newspaper and looking around, 'what's the matter with that young hyena?'

The woman blushed, stammered out something, and attempted to smooth back the boy's hair.

"One fly, two flies, three flies," said the boy innocently following with his eyes a basket of oranges carried by the newsboy.

"Here, you young hedgehog," said the bald-headed man, "if you don't hush, I'll have the conductor put you off the train.

The poor woman, not knowing what else to do, boxed the boy's ears and then gave him an orange to keep him from crying.

"Ma, have I got red marks on my head?"

"I'll slap you again, if you don't hush.'

"Mister," said the boy, after a short silence, "does it hurt to be bald-headed?"

"Youngster," said the man, "if you'll keep quiet, I'll give you a quarter."

The boy promised and the money was paid over.

The man took up his paper and resumed his reading.

"This is my bald-headed money," said the boy. "When I get bald-headed I'm going to give boys money. Mister, have all bald-headed men got money?"

The annoyed man threw down his paper, arose and exclaimed, "Madam, hereafter when you travel leave that young gorilla at home. Hitherto I always thought that the old prophet was very cruel for calling the she bears to kill children for making sport of his head, but now I am forced to believe he did a Christian act. If your boy had been in the crowd he would have been first. If I can't find another seat on this train I'll ride on the cow catcherrather than remain here."

"The bald-headed man is gone," said the boy, and the woman leaned back and blew a tired sigh from her lips.—Little Rock Gazette.

HOME EVIDENCE IN FAVOR
—OF THE—
PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 1.

If you wish to save yourself, your family, and your friends a world of suffering and pain, which at present they endure needlessly, and also save many dollars in Doctor's bills, go at once to the nearest store, and buy a few bottles of PAIN-KILLER.

Hint No. 2.

Ask your Druggist, Grocer or Shopkeeper, for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER. If he passes it down without ceremony, ask him while extracting the quarter dollar from your wallet, if this is the genuine made by PERRY DAVIS & SON, at same time watch the expression on his face. You can easily tell if his conscience is all right; also examine the bottle closely yourself.

Hint No. 3.

When you ask for a bottle of PAIN-KILLER, and the gentlemanly store-keeper, without scarcely looking, remarks, "we "are just out, but have another "article as good or better, "which sells for the same price "viz, 25 cents." Turn on your heel and say, Good-bye, Sir! That man cares more for the two or three cents extra profit which he gets than he does for your health or happiness.

Hint No. 4.

Beware of all the worthless mixtures, and dirty, greasy combinations which are offered you in almost every store you enter, and which some unprincipled shop-keepers try to palm off as a substitute for the PAIN-KILLER. These mixtures are gotten up expressly to sell on the reputation of the PAIN-KILLER, but have nothing in common with it.

Hint No. 5.

If you cannot obtain the genuine PAIN-KILLER in your locality, (a fact not very likely), you should address the Proprietors, and by sending them the sum of $3.00, one dozen regular sized bottles, or a half dozen large bottles will be sent, charges prepaid, to the nearest address by railway to any part of the Dominion.

WHY experiment with unknown mixtures without character or reputation, when this world-renowned PAIN-KILLER which has stood the test of over 40 years, can be had for the same price at any Drug Store in the Dominion?

READ THE FOLLOWING.

OTTAWA, ONT., March 2, 1880.

The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last 22 years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhœa, Sore Throat, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing, when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.

Yours, H. F. MACCARTHY.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received, as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purposes for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.

Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, ONT., February 26, 1880.

We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis' Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, during which time it has taken the lead in sales over all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade.

Yours truly,
W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send no end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excelsior Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being out of it.

Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

STOCO, ONT., February 17, 1880.

We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies in the market—some bearing nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. We have been selling Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.

Yours truly P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, ONT., March 9, 1880.

I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justly entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable: being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments for which it appears specially adapted. I have used it myself, chiefly as a liniment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and pains and stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and worthy of all acceptation, and send you this certificate that you may assure the public that it is no humbug.

Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

ESCOTT, ONT, March 4, 1880.

We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a resort in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by cold.

JEREMIAH CURTIN;
J. J. DOWSLEY,
JOSEPH P. REDMOND.
ARCH, GREER.

MAITLAND, ONT., February 25, 1880.

I have used your Pain-Killer for the last twenty years. I carried it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have been dead long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world for which it is recommended.

Yours very truly, N. W. LAFONTAINE.

PORTLAND, ONT., February 26, 1880.

I have sold the Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.

S. S. SCOVIL.

PRESCOTT, ONT., February 27, 1880.

I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations. Yours, &c.

GEO. BIRKS.

COBOURG, ONT., March 3, 1880.

I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry-Davis' Pain-Killer will be found in both.

Yours, &c., J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, ONT., February 16, 1880.

Your Pain-Killer as a family cure all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."

Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TAMWORTH, ONT., March 4, 1880.

For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have frequently used it in my family, and received great benefit from the use of it in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are pushed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis' Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular domestic medicine.

Yours respectfully,
JAS. AYLSWORTH.

The PAIN-KILLER

Is recommended by Physicians, Ministers, Missionaries, Managers of Factories, Work-shops, Plantations, Nurses in Hospitals,—in short, everybody everywhere who has ever given it a trial.

TAKEN INTERNALLY, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhœa, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowel Complaint, Painter's Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat, Coughs, &c.

USED EXTERNALLY, it cures Boils, Felons, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost-bitten Feet, &c.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 2 oz. and 5 oz. bottles, retailing at 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheapest.

Rapid Growth of Insects.

In twenty-four hours, as Redi tells us, the larva of the flesh-fly (Musca carnaria) becomes from a hundred and forty to two hundred times heavier. Lyonnet, drawing his conclusions partly from direct experience and partly from calculation, says that the willow catepillar (Cossus ligneperda), when ready to assume the chrysalis form, weighs no less than seventy-two thousand times more than when it issues from the egg. On reaching the imago or perfect stage, insects in general cease from growing, and are often smaller than the larvæ. But the larva of an insect before changing into the chrysalis has laid up all the materials necessary for growth; an abundant fatty tissue surrounds the organs, of which no trace remains in the perfect state. It has all been used in the rearrangement of the various parts; and the crisis is past, the worthless remains are cast out. In some butterflies this matter is colored red; and when issuing from the cocoon the spots it leaves leaves on the walls, stones, branches are so numerous as to make the observer fancy that there has been a shower of blood.—Chambers' Journal.

America as a food centre continues to form a topic for discussion in the British journals. The Queen's baker having received the first barrel of flour of this year's American wheat crop, has presented a loaf of bread thereof to Her Majesty, and issues a circular to his customers saying that of the many wonders of the nineteenth century, to eat bread which is the result of an 1880 harvest in May, 1880, is not one of the least marvellous.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES.—Two lads aged about eleven years, Charles Ross alias William Keough and William Pleward, were arrested on Saturday night for larceny. They had in their possession a pair of socks stolen from William Anderson, two boxes of matches stolen from J. A. Cameron, and several packages of chocolate belonging to J. E. McElderry.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The temperance meeting in the city hall yesterday was fairly attended, the President, Mr. Wilkie, in the chair. The opening exercises were gone through with when Brother Thompson gave the opening address, and the President made some very reasonable remarks. Rev. Mr. Smith, of Eramosa, gave a very stirring address, and the choir, under Mrs. Budd, added to the interest of the meeting.

ARRIVAL OF IMMIGRANTS.—A train of immigrants passed through the city on the Grand Trunk Railway on Sunday night for the West. They crossed the ocean on the Phœnician of the Allan line. They were bound for places in Western Ontario and the United States. Three of the number got off here, among them being W. Hewer, who went over with Hearn's cattle.

GREENBACKERS ON THEIR WAY HOME.—The majority of the greenbackers who passed through from the east last week to attend the Convention at Chicago, passed through the city on their way home on Saturday afternoon. The party occupied three Pullman coaches attached to the regular passenger train, due here at 4.10 but which was an hour late.

A SINGULAR FREAK.—A few days ago a son of Mr. Nicholas Norrish, of Nassagaweya, was passing through the woods, on his farm, he noticed a hawk hovering around near him. Thinking nothing about the matter, he walked on when all at once, and before he had time to make any defence, the bird dived down and caught his hat in its claws and carried it aloft. When the bird got about the height of the trees it let the hat drop. A day or two after the young man succeeded in capturing two hawks in the same place, one of them no doubt being the thief. They are large blue hawks, and have been sent to Toronto to get stuffed.

County Court and Quarter Sessions

MONDAY, June 14.

McKenzie v. Daily.—This case which was stated in these columns on Saturday was concluded the same afternoon, the verdict being for plaintiff with $104.59 and a certificate for full costs. D. Guthrie, Q. C., for plaintiff; A. H. McDonald, for defendant.

Dooley v. Carrie.—This is an action brought by the plaintiff, Police Sergeant Dooley to recover damages for injury his wife sustained by being thrown from a buggy. The accident was caused by the defendant driving his buggy into that occupied by Mrs. Dooley. The case is proceeding. Mr. Dunbar, for plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie, for defendant.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT IN MOUNT FOREST.—Still another of the old residents of the town has passed to the long rest in the person of Mrs. Godfrey, wife of Mr. Alex. Godfrey. The deceased was a native of Miltown, county Kerry, Ireland, and a daughter of the late Thos. Benson. She settled with her father in the township of Eramosa, near Guelph, and was married to Mr. Godfrey in that town in 1846. Her wedded life extended over a poriod of 34 years. She removed from Guelph with her husband, and took up residence in Mount Forest over twenty years ago, since which time she has remained here. She was taken ill of inflammation of the bowels on Thursday morning of last week. Her sufferings were of an extremely painful character and terminated in death on Saturday night about ten o'clock. The deceased was an affectionate wife and mother and a good neighbor. Many families in town can feelingly bear testimony to the unwearied, thoughtful and kindly service she has rendered in hours of suffering and bereavement, and join in earnest regrets that so useful a life has been brought to an untimely close. The funeral took place on Monday last, and was attended by a large concourse of the friends and acquaintances of the sorrowing relatives—the places of business along the line of march being closed out of respect to her memory. She leaves a husband and four sons and daughters, who have the deep sympathy of the community in their bereavement.—Examiner.

SUIT TO RECOVER MARRIAGE PRESENTS.—A short time ago the engagement of Miss Rachel Rosenbaum, daughter of Philip Rosenbaum, a rich clothing merchant in Poughkepsie, N. Y., to M. Livingstone, of Beaver City, Utah, was announced. Mr. Rosenbaum, however, learned that Livingstone had been divorced from his wife, and consequently wrote him breaking off the engagement with his daughter. Livingstone demanded his presents back, but was refused. He then began a suit to recover the valuables, claiming that they were given only on condition of marriage. During the past week the case has been settled by Miss Rosenbaum turning over to the attorneys for Livingstone all the jewellery and defraying a portion of the costs. On saturday Miss Rosenbaum was married in grand style to M. Hervich, of Toronto. The marriage following so closely the breaking off of the former engagement has created no little excitement.

An Old Trouble Between a Husband and Wife.

Dr. Vardon, of Galt, Takes his Daughter from Her Mother.

We copy the following from the Norwich Gazette:—

For the last six years, it appears, since Mrs. Vardon's separation from her husband, it has been Dr. Vardon's constant study how best to plan in order to take from this poor woman her little girl, now aged eleven years. He has made four attempts previous to the last one to take the child, all of which proved failures. Local traditions say that some of our Norwich folks have had the honor of giving the Doctor and his spies a few kicks and things on the occasion of his efforts within this corporation — an operation which might, by accident, have been repeated on this occasion had the opportunity and the men offered themselves.

It appears, from information received by us, that on Monday last, Mrs. Oles and her sister, Mrs. Vardon, with the little girl Nellie, started for Princeton, and arrived safely, but on entering the village they were seen by parties who have the honour of being spies. These parties immediately telegraphed for an agent who has been through the country selling women's underwear, and who was known to be a private detective. He in turn, on arriving at Princeton, telegraphed to Dr. Vardon, Galt. The message brought the Dr. with three or four accomplices in two carriages to Princeton. During the whole of that day some of the parties lay hid in a bush near by, and with spyglasses watched the house where Mrs. Vardon was. Mrs. Oles and Mrs. Vardon, unconscious of all these doings, and unconscious of any danger, started for New Durham about 4 p. m. When about three miles out of the village they were overtaken and passed by a carriage which immediately stopped, and another carriage drove up behind and halted. Dr. Vardon alighted from the first carriage and gun in hand proceeded to station his men, after which he and a Galt hotel-keeper dragged Nellie from her mother's arms. This was protested against vigorously by both, but to no avail. The scene which followed may be more easily imagined than described.

Death of an Old Pioneer of Halton.

The Halton News says:—Another of the pioneers of this county has gone the way of all the earth. John Sproat, of Trafalgar, died at his residence near Milton on the 24th ult., aged 87 years. The deceased was a native of Kirkcudbrightshire. He and his brother Adam emigrated to this country in 1821. John bought a farm of 200 acres in this neighborhood and Adam 200 acres near by in Esquesing, when that part of the country was chiefly a forest. Both brothers received a good education. When Dunlop with surveyors went to examine the tract of land purchased by the Canada Company and to lay out a road to Lake Huron, John Sproat formed one of the party. When part of the company's lands were surveyed and ready for settlement, he was sent as the company's agent to New York, at a good salary, to distribute pamphlets, give information respecting the company's lands and try to get emigrants to settle there. As he was possessed of good judgment, a pleasing manner and active habits, this might be considered by many a favourable situation, and one likely to lead to a better position in time. But unlike many of the young men of the present day who are so anxious for office, public employment had little attraction for him. Being a good practical farmer and an excellent judge of stock, he preferred settling on his own farm and hewing out from the forest a comfortable home. Though his brother and he lived about three miles apart, yet for a number of years they worked their farms in company, they and their servants doing the harvest first in Trafalgar on account of its being a little earlier, and then going to Esquesing, and all that time having their stock, crops, and personal property in common, without any jealousy or contention whatever. Upright and honourable in all his dealings, kindness and benevolence were leading traits in his character.

Walking Tournament in Toronto.

Clow the Winner — Accident at the Close.

On Saturday night at eleven o'clock the six days' walking match finished with the result that had been foreshadowed throughout. The following is the score:

As the large crowd were leaving the rink the temporary bridge which had been erected near the entrance gave way, and a large number of those present who were crossing were thrown to the ground, a distance of over nine feet. The fall was slight, but severe injuries were sustained by the planks which composed the bridge falling on the prostrate parties. Luckily no one was killed, and, as far as can be learned, the parties most seriously injured are:—Cool Burgess, leg hurt; J. H. Gowan, wrist badly hurt; Mr. Taylor, Elizabeth-street, leg broken, and injured internally, he bled freely from the mouth; David Ternet, one of the original twenty eight who entered for the race, badly hurt. He started on Monday, but gave up; R. A. Mitchell and David Walker, bruised; John Wright, arm sprained, and J. H. Spence with left ankle sprained.

The confusion that ensued was great, but succour was quickly rendered to the sufferers, who were, with all the expedition possible, conveyed to ther homes.

Prince Leopold and the Princess returned to Quebec on Saturday morning. The Prince starts for England the third week in July.

During the storm on Friday morning the lightning struck the house of Mr. Alex. Colquhoun, 9th concession of Hibbert, instantly killing the hired servant Mary Burling, who had just left her own room and entered Mrs. Colquhoun's. She had hardly got into the room before she was killed. Mrs. Colquhoun and one of the children, who were in bed at the time, were also severely scorched.

The Collision on the Connecticut River.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

Sufferings of Survivors.

NEW YORK, June 12.

There were twenty-five women on board the Stonington in their night clothes, one of whom died before reaching here from the shock. She has not yet been identified. One man has also died, the Rev. E. B. Lockwood, of the Sixty-eighth street Methodist church, New York, who was on his first trip east, and with several others jumped overboard, all having life preservers in their hands before going. A young man deliberately shot himself through the head when he realized the danfier he was in. About fifty of the survivors were landed at the Stonington line pier this morning. Only one or two had hats, and the greater number were no shoes. S. J. Grant, of East Cambridge, Mass., saved his own and the life of his brother's wife by means of life preservers. The woman stood on the pier covered with the steamboat's blankets and no shoes on.

Second officer McDonough, of the steamer City of New York says: 'Our steamer was proceeding direct for New York when we observed signals of distress somewhere in the sound of Cornfield light ship. We approached rapidly, and saw two steamers in collision, we finally succeeded in getting alongside of the Stonington, and then the passengers, one hundred or more, boarded our vessel and our steamer after considerable difficulty rescued a number from the water also from the life raft. McDonough asserted that in his estimation the number lost is not over fifty.

The Telegram says that owing to the lack of proper organization of the forces of the Stonington much confusion existed and an unreasonable time elapsed before the boats were lowered. The lowering of boats was almost wholly accomplished by the passengers. Upwards of 200 people are known to have been rescued. The purser of the Narragansett stated that there were not more than 300 passengers on the boat and the loss cannot exceed fifty, as it is known that more than 200 were brought to this city in the steamer City of New York and large numbers were taken back to Stonington.

G. O. Sambourn, of Boston, a passenger, said—I was knocked out of my berth by a terrible force; without stopping to dress I secured a life preserver and with others jumped into the water and after floating around some time was picked up; about fifteen minutes after the collision the boat was a sheet of flame and burned to the waters edge. In five minutes the saloon was filled, and in ten minutes the steamer was burned to the waters' edge. A large amount of valuable property was left by the passengers in the state rooms. The scene was heartrending. After he had crawled out of his state room through the window and found temporary security in a boat an old lady was seen struggling in the water. When the boat was pulled up it was discovered that she had an eight months' old grand-child closely held to her breast. They were both taken in the boat and reached more secure quarters on the Stonington. The collision, fire and sinking occurred within such a short time that many in their rooms asleep must have been lost. The shrieks and cries of terror of the men, as well as the women, were terrible. The surviving passengers agree that of the passenger list of more than 300 a large number must be lost, as the water around the burning steamer was alive with struggling people, clinging to every conceivable thing.

The City of New York sent five boats to the assistance of the Narragansett. One boat rescued twenty-seven, including seven women. Some children rescued were naked. Very few of the women had anything but undergarments. Leonard, the actor, who was on board the Narragansett, speaks in strong terms against the conduct of the officers and crew of the steamer. He says that Captain Young, who was in command, was one of the first to enter the life-boat. A Mrs. Osborne threw her six year old child from the main deck to him, and then jumped for the same boat and was rescued. The shrieks of the dying, and the pleadings of those in the water for assistance, was something never to be forgotten. He says a deck hand in the life boat was seen to strike the fingers of an old lady desperately clinging to the side of the boat. She begged to be saved, but was finally compelled to let go her hold and probably was drowned. The first pilot of the City of New York said it was half an hour after the collision before his boat arrived. The fog was very heavy, but the glare of the burning steamer could be seen. It is reported that the fire was caused by the force with the Stonington penetrated the hull of the Narragansett, forcing the heated metallic parts of the furnace out of position and kindling a raging fire in the body of the steamer. A. P. Dix, of New York, had his wife and three children on board. The children were drowned. Several boys from the United States steamer Tennessee, passengers on the Narragansett, were very active in organizing a crew, and it was in a great measure due to their courage and bravery that an uncontrollable panic was averted. Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Stitson, of Atlanta, forgot their two children in the panic, and they were probably burned to death.

A lady who had been clinging to a rope on the Naragansett had lost all the flesh from the inside of her hand, which was open to the bone. All were drenched and shaking with chill. One gentleman said he had lost his wife and eldest son. A lady said she had lost three children, and was weeping hard. Another lady said she lost two children. Divers have been sent to the wreck. Several robberies occurred during the confusion of transferring passengers from the Stonington to the City of New York.

J. Franklin Riday, of Boston, representative of Howard Lockwood, publisher, of New York, who was a passenger in the Stonington, states that on returning the water was calm, but a thick fog prevailed. He was aroused by a crash, followed by whistles and cries of distress. He rushed upon deck half dressed, and found the utmost confusion prevailing. The Stonington, on discovering her near proximity to the other steamer, signalled to stop. The latter did not appear to answer the signal, and a few moments afterwards the Stonington struck the Narragansett amidships, carrying away her whole wheelhouse and wheel. After the boats had become disengaged, it was discovered that the Narragansett was on fire. The captain of the Ston- agton ordered the crew to save the passengers of the sister boat. Life-boats were hurriedly lowered from both steamers and filled with frantic passengers. Rafts, chairs and other articles were thrown overboard for the purpose of saving life. In the confusion a great many jumped overboard, and were not seen again. The Narragansett was soon wrapped in flames, and the Stonington left her laden with about two-thirds of the Narragansett's passengers. A short time afterwards the steamer City of New York came in sight and answered the signals of distress. It was discovered that the Stonington was making water, her bow having been crushed. Orders were given to throw overboard the cargo forward. Most of the rescued passengers from the Narragansett were transferred to the City of New York, and also some of the Stonington's passengers. The City of New Horwich also hove in sight, and was signalled, but refused to respond, and kept on her course. When the City of New York left the scene of the accident the Narragansett was ashore. There was no discipline apparent on the Narragansett after the accident, while the officers and crew of the Stonington are praised for their timely courage and bravery. The first two boats to leave the Narragansett contained only men, principally foreigners. The third contained women and children. Two women and a man died on the Stoniagton after being rescued. A child taken from the arms of its mother, one of the two women just mentioned, was saved. Mrs. E. M. Soule, of Boston, was heard to say to her child, "Nellie, if I jump will you follow me?" To which the child replied, "I will, mamma." They jumped and both were saved. Charlie Clare, a boy placed on a raft by his father, was saved, but his father was drowned. None of the Narragansett's books or papers were saved. The captain estimates the number of passengers leaving New York at 300.

STONINGTON, Ct., June 12.—The Stonington arrived at 6:30 this morning with about fifty survivors from the Narragansett. The bow of the former was stove in three feet aft of the stern nearly to the water line. She struck the Narragansett at 11:30 on the starboard side, forward of the wheelhouse. The shock burst the gas-tank, and in fifteen minutes the Narragansett was on fire. She sank in four fathoms of water. On the arrival of the Stonington the village was aroused, and men and women hastened with clothing and assistance. Twenty-five women were on board in their night-clothes, one of whom died before recovering from the shock. No estimate can be made here of the loss of life. The Stonington brought back about fifty rescued passengers, mostly ladies, most of whom were in the water for several hours. They had on only their night clothes, and the ladies of Stonington turned out and dressed them up before they were sent home on the special train. One lady had about $3,000 in her valise, which she lost.

Many passengers state that a large portion of the life-preservers on the Narragansett were useless, owing to the lack of proper straps.

It is thought that about 50 lives are lost, but the uncertainty is due to the fact that only an incomplete list of passengers is kept on board this class of vessels.

An Auld Kirk Minister Snubbed in the General Assembly.

On the 21st ult., Rev. P. Galbraith, pastor of St. Stephen's Church, London, Ont., attended the meeting of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, and this is how he was treated, according to the Glasgow News report:

The Rev. Mr. Galbraith, of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, in addressing the Assembly, spoke on the subject of Union, and strongly condemned the action of some of the American churches on that subject.

Dr. Phin asked the speaker to follow a different style of address. He was attacking another church in very strong terms, and a church which the Church of Scotland had not seen it necessary to condemn for going into Union, and if the Assembly had a statement from Mr. Galbraith on one side, they would probably have a statement from the other church, and it was undesirable that these quarrels should be brought up.

Mr. Galbraith stated to the Moderator that he was following the instructions of his church in the statements he had made.

Dr. Phin said the Assembly would be pleased if Mr. Galbraith would tell what his own church was doing, but he objected to the rev. gentleman making a statement in the Assembly against another church, and it was simply on that account that he interfered.

The Moderator said the Assembly would be glad to hear Mr. Galbraith on the work of his own church.

Mr. Galbraith respectfully declined to say any more after the manner in which he had been stopped. He then left the Assembly.

Some Queer Acts of Economy.

Under this heading the St. John Freeman mentions three notable instances of the peculiar manner in which the present Dominion Government deals with the finances. It says:

They withdrew the case of Oakes, Murray & Co., from the Court, and submitted it to an arbitrator who, to the astonishment of all who had ever heard of the case, awarded the claimants some $100,000. Mr. Marshall Wood, for having prepared a plan for the laying out of the grounds about the Parliament buildings at Ottawa, claimed $30,000. This claim the late Government resisted, and, as he could not show that he was authorized to do the work, the Court decided that he had no claim. The present Government, notwithstanding this, submitted the case to one of their arbitrators, who awarded Mr. Wood $13,000 for a mere plan. The Government, perhaps, being ashamed to pay so large an amount, have taken the case into Court again, but we presume they can no longer repudiate the claim altogether. The proprietors of the Halifax street railway contended that the extension of the Intercolonial railway from the former to the present Halifax station was a violation of their charter, or rather that under the terms of the charter the Dominion Government, as successors in this matter to the Provincial Government, were bound to take the street railway off their hands because they had built a road which would compete with part of it. When the Dominion authorities, in order to make a necessary bridge, cut a roadway over which the street railway passed, the company chose to treat that as a taking possession, and at once abandoned the railway, which, it is supposed, was unprofitable. They then demanded payment of its cost. The late Government resisted that preposterous claim, and when it was taken before the Supreme Court, the decision was adverse to the company. Yet, within a few days, the Government arbitrators, meeting in Halifax, took into consideration this claim for $260,000. Despite the decision of the Court, and despite common sense, the Government, by referring this matter to the arbitrators, admit that the company have a claim. If they are entitled to anything they are entitled to all their charter professes to secure to them.

It is understood that all efforts to procure a commutation of the death sentence passed upon young DeCoursier at Toronto have failed, and that the Government have intimated their final determination to permit the law to take its course.

Seventy-five men were on Saturday dismissed from the Government workshops at Ottawa to swell the ranks of the unemployed.

Gladstone's Budget.

The press in England with scarcely an exception are praising Mr. Gladstone's Supplementary Budget, which evinces the extraordinary ingenuity of the greatest financial genius in Britain. He proposes to abolish the malt tax, and in its place put a tax on beer. For those who brew beer for their own use he provides for the issue of a special license. By this arrangement farmers and others can use malt for feeding purposes without paying any duty, beer only being exciseable. This plan is much simpler and more effective than the cumbrous excise laws in force in the Dominion. As regards the budget as a whole it is said every essential feature in the scheme has surprised alike Liberals and Tories. The secret was perfectly kept, Cabinet Ministers themselves being hardly aware of Gladstone's intentions till the eve of the delivery of the speech. It was supposed that the negotiations with France for a reduction of the wine duties had failed, and French Tories alleged the failure to be one of the reasons for Say's resignation as Ambassador. The brewers are delighted, because they will be relieved of much vexatious interference. Business classes who pay the income tax will endure the additional penny cheerfully, confident that the burden will only be temporary. The country generally relies implicitly on Gladstone's financial genius to equalize the fiscal impositions next year. The brilliant success of the Premier distracts attention momentarily from various intestine troubles in the Liberal party.

THE United States Senate, by a majority of 37 to 7, has passed a bill, remitting duties on English salt imported to be used in curing fish or meat for exportation. This is regarded as a concession of a very impotant character to the revenue tariff supporters.

MR. RYAN, M.P. for Marquette, Manitoba, is promised an Inspectorship if he can secure his seat for a Government supporter. Dr. Haggarty, formerly of London, is spoken of as a Liberal candidate to fill the prospective vacancy.

THE opinion appears to be gaining ground that the Argenteuil election trial must end in the ousting of Mr. Abbott, if not his disqualification. The writs have been served on the petitioners in the trial for libel on Duncan McIntyre, of Montreal, for $10,000, and this morning the writs was served on each of them in the sum of $20,000 for criminal libel in the case of the Hon. John Hamilton, Senator of the Dominion of Canada.

THE Government organ in Ottawa is remarkably silent regarding matters political, and makes no mention of the Cabinet meetings, but it is quietly removed amongst the known Conservatives that all is not lovely in the Government camp. In fact that Sir John has been bringing Sir Charles to task for the manner in which the awarding of contracts has been made, about which some startling developments are expected at the next session of Parliament.

THE N. Y. Tribune's London correspondent, in his Saturday's despatch says:—Mr. Gladstone's Government follows much the same line of policy as their predecessors relative to foreign affairs, and are seeking excuses to avoid dealing promptly tand popularly with Home questions. The grave importance of the withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan is startling and inexplicable, and will probably weaken England's prestige in India. There is a general impression that Goschen's mission to Constantinople will fail and that Turkey will become more demoralized by interference in home matters. The only foreign question to which Gladstone is paying immediate attention is the Greek.

ON the evening of the 25th of May there was a regular row in the English House of Commons. Lord Randolph Churchill opened the debate and excitement by tearing into pieces one of Bradlaugh's pamphlets, and stamping on it on the floor. Next came Baron De Worms, a Jew, who railed against Bradlaugh as an atheist, and was shocked that he should trifle with the "Holy Book." Next came another new member, Mr. Thorold Rodgers, who said Toryism and atheism were one, citing Hobbs, Hume and Gibbon, amid derisive shouts, and was finally silenced by the Speaker for calling Bradlaugh "vermin." He was followed by another new member, who called him a "Cerberus of atheism, treason and filth," and by yet another, who in his excitement knocked off the hat of another member. No such scene of excitement has been witnessed for years. Bradlaugh was most unmercifully handled.

IT is said that the Cabinet is by no means unanimous on the appointment of Mr. J. B. Robinson as Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, but it has nevertheless been agreed upon. There are grave doubts, however, as to the correctness of the rumour that Mr. Angus Morrison will be Collector of Customs at Toronto.

On Sunday morning the stable attached to the Penwarden House, St. Thomas, was totally destroyed by fire, along with its contents, which included nine horses, a number of buggies, harness, &c.

The contractors, Messrs. Bowie and McTavish, recently awarded the construction of the second one hundred miles section of the Pacific Railway west of Winnipeg, will commence work within a few days.

A Woodstock firm is about commencing the manufacture of organs at St. Thomas.

Type-Setting by Machinery.

The type matter of the London Times is now largely set by means of machinery, instead of hand labor. The most skillful workman, setting up type by hand, does not exceed a general average of about 40 lines per hour, or a maximum rate of 50 lines per hour during short periods of great pressure; but the machine used by the Times, in which the types are brought down and placed in position by striking upon keys something like those of a piano or organ, enables a fair workman to obtain an average speed of 100 lines an hour even when composing from manuscript, which he has to read for himself; and this speed can be doubled, or nearly so, when the operator is assisted by a reader, and thus compose from dictation. The original form of the machine was introduced soon after the Franco-German war, and has ever since been undergoing such modifications in detail as experience has from time to time suggested, until it has now reached a state of very great efficiency.

KNOW THYSELF

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; OR, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. Bound in French cloth; price only $1, sent by mail postpaid.

Woman's Wisdom.

"She insists that is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough HOP BITTERS, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. LISA LENA:

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AN OUTCAST.

CHAPTER II.

VERY EXCITING TIMES.

I don't think I can have been a very quick child. Whether any record of my birth exists I cannot say. The name I bear, I have since found out, is my mother's name—Bellamy Lane. I have a little note—it has been greatly treasured—the last note my father ever sent her—which begins with a play on her name Belle Amie, and is full of love. It is signed —"Your Henri Mercer." I remember their speaking a language altogether different from that in which they spoke to me, and I think they affected to be French His name and her name and mine were spelt in the French way. Where the "Lane" came from, I don't know, it is one of those lanes which has no turning.

It was many years afterwards that I was able to glean some idea of my origin and the circumstances of my parents. The town where the terrible scene occurred was Elderville in Alabama, not very far from Mobile. There my father lived in a comfortable house, having some business, I know not what, and also possessing, about six miles off, a small estate and thirty or forty slaves. He was a man of great energy, of splendid physique, of daringbravery and independence. In those days it required a bold man—a man who was not afraid to carry his life in his hand wherever he went—to do what my father is said to have done. He was not a religious man so far as I know, but he was owned by all about him to be good and true. On the subject of slavery he did not agree with his friends and neighbours.

He said "it was a doomed institution—out of joint with the times, and a constant danger to the people who maintained it, as well as a standing wrong to the persons enslaved." That sentence remains now in a Mobile newspaper as spoken at Elderville by Mr. Henri Mercer at a meeting of the inhabitants. And that setnence was the origin and cause of the horrible affair which gave me my first outlook into life.

* * * * * * * *

It was years afterwards that I found out my birthplace, and something of the earlier unconscious years of my life. My father, smitten with the gold fever, had gone to San Francisco, taking my mother with him. They were married when they were only thirteen years of age, a not uncommon thing in the South. I was born in San Francisco when she was fourteen. When I first remember her she was a fine, full-developed woman. Having made some little money in California through energy and kept it through daring my father came back to his native state —Alabama—and received a property to which he had succeeded in his absence. We travelled by waggons across the great prairies and by Salt Lake. I know nothing of our adventures. I daresay they were very exciting. To the experiences of this wild journey it may be owing that my mother could handle a gun or a rifle or a revolver with skill.

That brings me to my second recollection of any consequence. It was two or three years after the other. The war had broken out between North and South, and all our fighting people were forced to the front. Though my father disapproved of slavery principles, he did not refuse to, join the southern army. He went away leaving my mother and his children, as many other women and children were left, almost at the mercy of the blacks. We then removed from town to our little plantation, with its little two-storey wooden house, around which there ran a broad verandah. The windows of the bedrooms opened on the roof of the verandah. Old Toxy, our negro, who was ever faithful to us, slept in a back building, and some women in the attics above us. I remember one night being awakened by movements in the room where we children slept together with our mother. The night-light was burning. She was up in her night-dress, and on her breast hung my little brother then about eight months old. She used to nurse her children herself. His little dark curly head stood out against the soft rounded whiteness or her bosom. Somehow I awoke, all at once, wide-awake and lay watching them. She was leaning over, and looking into his face, with its half-closed eyes, and his tiny head lying on her breast, and my heart thrilled with pleasure to see her sitting there opposite to me, so grand, so gentle, and so motherly. Suddenly I saw a startled expression flash across her face. At the same moment I thought I heard a slight movement behind me, where the windows were. She glanced an instant across me towards the place where the noise came from, hastily laid the boy on his back on the floor, snatched from the rack over the bed where it always lay loaded, a long rifle, and before I could realise what was coming there was a flash that blinded my eyes, a frightful explosion, a sulphurous smoke, a howl of agony, and the venetian shutter of the window fell away with some heavy body on the roof. I was stunned with the noise and in deadly fear, but I did not cry. When I opened my eyes my mother stood there with her hair shaken down all over her shoulders, her bosom heaving with excitement, the discharged rifle in her hand, looking eagerly towards the window. Shrieks were filling the room from the maids who came running in, presecently followed by old Toxy.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. —Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." n4dw9md

THE BRUCE COUNCIL AND THE COUNTY REGISTRAR.—For some time there has been a dispute existing between the County of Bruce and Mr. McLay, Registrar, regarding certain fees which the County claims but which the Registrar holds belongs to himself. The matter was before the Council at its late meeting, and according to the Reporter, the special committee appointed to consider the matter, reported that the Warden was fully justified in instituting legal proceedings in the premises. Also, that owing to persistent contention of the Registrar as to his exclusive right to certain classes of fees and his retention of certain money's to which he can pretend no legal claim, the Warden be authorized to press the County's claim till a satisfactory settlement is obtained. The report was adopted without a dissenting voice. A motion asking the Government to dismiss the present Registrar was referred to a committee to report on the same at the December session.

The Irresponsibility of a Glass Eye.

As a train on the Kansas Pacific pulled away from the depot at Denver a few mornings since, a tall, angular specimen of humanity took a seat opposite a lady passenger, and, to all appearances, was intently engaged in studying her face. At first the lady treated the rudeness with good-natured indifference. But at last it began to tell on her nerves. It was a peculiar and astonishing piece of impertinence. He apparently had the faculty of looking two ways at once. One of his eyes was restless, excited, and roved in all directions, the other, fixed and stony, fastened on her with an undeviating stare. She turned her head away, but it intercepted her vision. She tried to hide behind a paper, but she felt that cruel eye piercing through the screen and creeping with a stony look all over her features. It seemed to be picking them up one by one and examining them with care. The thing became unendurable, and she cried out to him fiercely:—

"Sir, why do you look at me so persistently?"

"Me, madame; why, bless my soul! I havn't been looking at you."

"You have, sir. For half an hour or more your eye has been absolutely riveted on my face."

"I beg your pardon, madame, but it's this eye, is it not?" lifting his finger to his left optic.

"Yes, sir; it's that eye."

"Well, madame, that eye won't do you any harm. It generally looks any way it pleases—it gives me a good deal of trouble. A great many complain of it. At first I thought they were making fun of me, but I've found out differently now. I've been knocked down two or three times for the impertinence of that eye. I would leave it out altogether but for the looks of the thing. It's a glass eye, madam—only a glass eye. I hope you'll excuse it. But, upon my soul, I'm not surprised that even a glass eye should feel interested in so pretty a woman," and he brought his other eye to bear upon her in undisguised admiration. The lady laughingly accepted the explanation and the rest of the journey was passed very pleasantly.

From the Hub.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it: there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle. Beware of imitations. d&wlyr.

WELLINGTON VETERINARY INFIRMARY

No. 166 Quebec Street, Guelph

Owing to the increased demand for the proper and careful treatment so essential to valuable Live Stock, I have established a Veterinary Infirmary or Stock Hospital, which is fitted with large, comfortable, airy, loose boxes and other modern improvements, for the treatment of sick and lame horses and other animals. Also a convenient room for the performance of various operations.

To meet the steady increase of practice, I have engaged the professional services of Mr. F. C. Grenside, V. S., Ont., as assistant.

N. B.—Persons having unthrifty horses should bring them to the Infirmary to have their teeth examined by my new process, as they are often the source of evil.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.—A New York physician who has been giving attention to summer epidemics, observes that they generally take the form of cholera infantum. This disase does not make its appearance till the thermometer rises above 65°, and then its ravages are in accordance with the height of the temperature. He says:—"Let a hospital be established where apartments can be furnished with artifical cold. Rooms at a uniform temperature of 65° will do more toward relieving the little sufferers than a drug store or a mammoth excursion."

AN ELEPHANT AT LARGE.—On Saturday night while Forepaugh's special trains were on the way to Toronto, one of the elephants in the second train broke the car door open near Harrisburg, and fell out on the north side of the track, taking the car door with it. An engine was sent out from Hamilton with men in search of the elephant, and it was found at Lynden. A few scratches are all that is noticeable, and it is thought that it is not injured seriously.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

Escaped the Gallows.

The Lambton Mills Murderer Poisons Himself in Toronto Jail.

TORONTO, June 15.—This morning Robt. DeCoursier, the Lambton Mills murderer, swallowed a deadly drug, from the effects of which he died in less than three minutes. The facts are that at seven o'clock the usual hour Watson, the day watchman, specially appointed to guard the doomed man, came on duty, relieved Waites who performed like services at night. When Watson came on duty DeCoursier was in bed, apparently sleeping. About 8 o'clock he jumped hastily out of bed and drank some water out of a pitcher in the room. He immediately returned to bed and a peculiar noise which gurgled from his throat alarmed the watchman, who on examining his charge more closely found that he was in the last stages of dissolution. The two were locked into the room, and Watson rapped loudly on the door for assistance. The turnkey Bell, who heard the rapping opened the door, but by the time he got to the bedside DeCoursier was stone dead.

The whole institution was quickly alarmed, and the room filled with the stupefied guards. A doctor was at once sent for, and Deputy Governor Ewan, ordering that no article in the cell be disturbed, at once cleared the room and locked the door. When the doctor arrived all that he could do was to assure the authorities of what they already knew, that the man was cold and dead.

The slight examination which was made before the cell was locked up disclosed that at the bedside there was a little sprinkling of a greyish powder, and in the water bucket a small vial was thrown.

Where the suicide obtained the poison to carry out his purpose, remains simply a matter of conjecture at present. He has been for months watched closely night and day. A strict investigation will have to be made so that the blame may rest on the proper shoulders.

Fatal Accident at Rondeau.

RONDEAU, Ont., June 15.—This morning the dead body of J. G. Hall, foundryman of Blenheim village, was found near Charing Cross. It is supposed he was thrown out late last night by the waggon going into a deep rut. His neck was broken.

Fire at Jarvis.

JARVIS, Ont., June 15.—Chamber's music hall building was burned here last night. The ground floor was occupied by William Chambers, the owner of the building, as a carriage workshop. The second floor as a music hall and third story as Oddfellow's hall. The most of Chambers' stock was saved. The Oddfellows lose about $1,000. Nothing saved. Insured for $400. The fire originated in rear of the music hall flat, it is thought in the lamp room.

THE NORTH-WEST LANDS.—Prof. Macoun's amended estimate of the quantity of good agricultural land in the Northwest puts the amount at 150,000,000 acres. He includes only such land as can be fairly compared with the "garden of Canada," and believes that land which he now excludes as bad will be made valuable by drainage. Of what he terms the fertile area he says:—"I feel confident that a higher percentage will be found available for growing grain than in that portion of the Province of Ontario so well known for its productions,—I refer to the peninsula lying between the lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario, and bounded on the north and east by a line drawn from Kingston to Lake Simcoe and the Georgian Bay."

The Bishop of Niagara and Mrs. Fuller sailed on Saturday last from New York per steamer Anchoria, for Glasgow. During His Lordship's absence the Venerable Archdeacon McMurray will administer the affairs of the diocese as his commissary.

Local News.

EARLY PEAS.—Mrs. Philip Carter brought to the market this morning a nice lot of peas—the first of the season.

CHALMERS' CHURCH.—The annual strawberry festival of this church will be held in the drill shed on Tuesday evening, the 29th inst.

The ladies of Dublin street Methodist Church will hold their annual strawberry festival in the basement of the Church, on Thursday, June 24th. d1

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fresh to strong easterly to northerly winds, continued cool weather; fine in northern Ontario, and cloudy to partly cloudy with rain areas in southern.

PICNIC.—Chalmers' Church Bible Class will hold their annual picnic up the river to Paradise to-morrow afternoon. The party will leave the boat house near the Dundas Bridge at 2.30.

LARCENY.—William Keough and Wm. Pleward, the lads arrested for stealing goods belonging to Wm. Anderson, J. E. McElderry and J. A. Cameron, were discharged to-day (Tuesday), those gentlemen not wishing to prosecute on account of the youth of the prisoners.

ORANGEISM.—At a meeting of representatives from County Lodges of Orangmen last night in the city, the matter of making preliminary arrangements for the celebration of the coming 12th July was left in the hands of the Grand Master, Mr. Todd.

THE BITTLE DISTURBANCE.—With reference to a paragraph in yesterday's issue, stating that Mrs. Bittle had been drunk and disorderly on Saturday, her husband writes that it was he himself who was drunk, that he threatened her and her screams aroused the neighborhood. She states that she never has been drunk.

THE MILITARY CAMP AT LONDON.—The arrangements for the military camp to be pitched at the Queen's Park, London, on the 24th are rapidly approaching completion. There will be upwards of two thousand troops on the ground. On the first day of July a grand field day will be held. It is also proposed to have a grand band tournament on the same day.

CRICKET MATCH.—A cricket match will be played here to-morrow, between Guelph and Brampton clubs. Wickets will be pitched at 10.30 a.m.

The following are the Guelph players: H. Lockwood, A. A. Fitzgerald, W. N. Husband, Henry West, T. J. Hamilton, H. Mickle, W. A. Sabine, J. A. Mackellar, C. J. Knowles, R. F. Smythe, D. Peterson.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION MATCHES.—The following gentlemen left Guelph to-day for St. Thomas to compete in the Ontario Rifle Association matches: Lieut. Crowe, Wheeler Ogg, Sergt. Collinridge, Sergt. Rea, Corporal J. Day, Frank Lock, W. Young and W. Macdonald. The first five named will compete in the military matches and the others in the Association matches.

FOR THE MODEL FARM.—The Seaforth Expositor says: An excursion under the auspices of Prince Albert Division Grange, will take place to Guelph and the Ontario Model Farm, in one week from next Tuesday. The idea is a good one, and the excursion will afford an interesting and profitable day's "outing" for those who take part in it. The arrangements are in the hands of an efficient committee, and nothing will be left undone to make the occasion pleasant and the trip comfortable. We hope that a very large number will take advantage of visiting what must be, to farmers at least, a point of very great importance.

CALEDONIAN GAMES.—At the Caledonian Society meeting last evening, there was a very large turn out, every one present being determined to make the Games and Concert on the 1st of July the best that have ever taken place in Canada. The Secretary read a large number of letters from the leading pipers, dancers, in Canada and the United States, all signifying their intention of coming to the Royal City of Guelph on the 1st July. Everything for a grand day looks bright. See large posters and programme for particulars.

SUDDEN DEATH.—James McFarlane, aged 30 years, died suddenly of apoplexy at the Royal Hotel this (Tuesday) morning. For the past week he has seen ailing somewhat though his symptoms were not considered dangerous. On Monday forenoon he was obliged to take to his bed and gradually grew worse until the time of his death, which occurred at 8 o'clock this morning. Deceased came from Edinburgh to Canada about three years ago, and about a year ago came to Guelph. He lived with Mr. Thos. Card for some time and afterwards moved to the city. He had a gentlemanly appearance and was well liked by those who knew him. He leaves a wife and child. It is understood he was in comfortable circumstances.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.—A staff of surveyors are to go over and make a preliminary exploration of the proposed Winnipeg & Hudson Bay Railway. The road will be about 182 miles in length, giving a short water route to the old country, and it is thought that grain grown in Manitoba can be shipped to the English market at 17c[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Board of Education.

The Board of Education met on Monday evening; present—Messrs. Murton, (chairman,) Bell, Knowles, Inglis, Robertson, Skinner, Gowdy, Hart, Innes, Burgess, McKenzie, Swinford, and Dr. Keating.

Mr. Newton acted as secretary in the absence of Mr. Torrance.

HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS.

An account for sodding and levelling the High School grounds $172.20 was ordered to be paid.

SCHOOL PROPERTY.

Mr. Knowles, chairman of the School Property Committee, reported that the Committee had inspected the schools and recommended as follows:

That the North, West and South Ward Schools be re-furnished to correspond with the Central School.

That the West and South Ward schools be whitewashed and re-painted.

That Miss Robin's room be refloored.

That a number of new desks and seats in the High School and East Ward school not in use be utilized so as to keep the expenditure within the appropriation.

The report was adopted, Messrs. Gowdy and Hart voting against it on the ground of expense.

THE HOWARD MATTER.

The chairman read the contracts and accounts between the Board and Mr. Howard.

The chairman also read a statement made by Mr. Strickland, in which he refers to the extra work done by Mr. Howard, and values it at $115. He also admits having overlooked the payment of $400 to Mr. Howard, the duplicate orders for which are in his book.

Mr. Peterson, chairman of the special Committee on the Howard matter, reported as follows:—That it was deemed best for the chairman of the Board to have a personal interview with the architect, Mr. Strickland; and with that view by appointment he visited Toronto on Monday with Mr. Howard, so as fully to have all the matters connected with the work discussed and investigated between them.

The architect prepared a communication to the chairman, which is herewith submitted.

From it the matter appears to be narrowed down to the point whether Mr. Howard can properly ask compensation for work and material at the base of the tower of the Central School building, and in respect of which he claims $164. The architect thinks that if it is a fact, as he claims, that he performed the work but was never compensated for it, a reasonable sum should be allowed. This he fixes at the smaller amount of $115, giving the tenders of those at the time as his criterion for arriving at that conclusion.

Mr. Howard, however, alleges that he could not accurately know all the difficulties encountered as to the true value of the work as one on the spot, who had completed it. Your Committee have satisfied themselves that Mr. Howard, from the figuring on which he estimated in the work done, did not consider the change made in the structure of the tower from its original design, which was a small tower, very different from that finally adopted—and that in all fairness he should not suffer any loss on that account.

Without wishing to question the accuracy of his estimates, which they do not wish to as his work was well and satisfactorily done, and has stood the test of several years, yet they recommend that in order to dispose of all the matters of claim of Mr. Howard, and acting on the suggestion of the architect himself, if Mr. Howard refunds $285, the same should be accepted as a full settlement of everything between him and the Board. The architect acknowledged that the over grant was an inadvertence on his own part, and which the late chairman overlooked.

Mr. Howard afterwards made an explanation of the way in which his claim of $163 came about, stating that it was for extra work on the tower of the Central School, which was made larger than was first intended. He was willing to let any practical man examine the work and if it was worth less than what he claimed he did not want anything.

On motion of Messrs. Peterson and Gowdy, the report was adopted.

Messrs. Innes and Newton moved that some matters which have come to the knowled of the Inspector and Principal affecting the interests of the Public Schools, which it would be injudicious to make public at present, be referred to the Chairman, Principal, Mr. Newton and the Inspector.

PRIZE BOOKS.

Mr. Tytler recommended that the amount of $30 presented by Mr. D. McLean to the School Board be expended as follows for intermediate prizes in books: First, $10; second, $6; third, $4. For admission examination two prizes for boys in books and two for girls. First in each $3; second $2.

The recommendation was concurred in. The Board then adjourned.

CHANGE IN FEDERAL BANK.—We regret to learn that Mr. T. Y. Greet, Manager of the Federal Bank in this city, will in a few days leave for Kingston to assume the management of the Branch of the Federal Bank in that city. Mr. Greet took the management of the Branch here when it was opened in February 1875, and he has succeed in working up a first-class business. A native of Guelph, and well known to all the business men in the place and surrounding district, he at once gained their confidence, and by his obliging disposition and affable manner, made many valuable customers to the Bank, while during all the time he has been here it has through his careful management sustained but very few losses. The business men of the city will regret Mr. Greet's departure, and we are sure he carries with him their best wishes for his future success. Mr. George Mair, the present Manager of the Federal Bank in Kingston, takes Mr. Greet's place here.

A Western Ontario firm have registered in the Department of Agriculture and Arts an interim copy of a chromo-lithographic portrait of the Hon. George Brown.

County Court and Quarter Sessions.

Dooley vs. Currie.—The defence in this case was that the plaintiff had been guilty of negligence as well as the defendant. The damages claimed were upwards of $100. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, damages $45, each party to pay his own costs.

THE BASE BALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Browns of Harriston Whitewashed by the Maple Leafs.

The first game of base ball for the Amateur Championship of Canada, was played on the Maple Leaf grounds here on Monday afternoon, between the Maple Leafs and the Browns, of Harriston. The weather was beautiful and the players had not to work under a blazing sun, as they often have. This, together with the fact that interest has not been lost here in amateur base ball playing and that a close contest was expected, will account for the large attendance of spectators. There was a better audience than there has been in former years to witness some matchs with crack American clubs.

Before play was started, the Secretary of the Maple Leafs entered a protest with the President of the Association against the Browns competing for the championship, on the ground that the club employ paid players.

The game opened at three o'clock, Mr. Jeffres, of the Toronto Clippers acting umpire. Throughout, the contest was a close one and the game was marked by sharp and steady play. The pitching and catching was exceptionally good, especially the pitching of Dyson; to whom not less than eighteen were struck out. There were two or three heavy hits for the Browns, but in the majority of cases they struck wind. The Leafs got on to the batting of Emslie on the third innings and scored their first run. The score below will show that the other runs were made on the 5th, 6th and 9th innings. The following is a summary of the play each innings. The Leafs lost the toss and went to bat:—

1st Innings — Maple Leafs. — Hunter Struck high to Johnston, c. f., who muffed and Hunter took 1st base, ran to third on passed ball by catcher; Beicker struck to pitcher, who threw to 1st and put him out; Smith struck out; Tyson struck to pitcher, he chased him up and put him out. Side out; no runs.

Browns.—Stapleton and Lavin struck out; Thompson made a two base hit past centre; W. H. Paulin struck out. Side out; no runs.

2nd Innings — Maple Leafs.—Hewer struck out; Maddock struck to left field and was put out trying to take second; Watkins got first on three strikes and was put out trying to take second. Side out; no runs.

Browns.—Emslie and W. A. Paulin struck out; Robinson made a two base hit to centre field; Wilcox flied to Maddock. Side out; no runs.

3rd Innings—Maple Leafs — Atkinson flied to left field; Dyson struck to third and took second on a bad throw by Wilcox to 1st; Hunter struck past 1st base to right field and took second base; Dyson came home; Hunter put out when off second; Bicker struck out. Side out; one run.

Browns — Johnston flied to Watkins; Stapleton took 1st base on balls and stole second; Lavin struck out; Thompson was put out at 1st; side out, no runs.

4th Innings—Maple Leafs—Smith and Tyson struck out; Hewer struck to Paulin on second and took his base—Paulin fumbling the ball—and stole second: Maddock struck out; side out, no runs.

Browns—W. H. Paulin and Emslie struck out; W. A. Paulin fouled to Hunter; side out; no runs.

5th Innings — Maple Leafs — Watkins struck to Emslie who threw to 1st and put him out; Atkinson made a hard hit over right field and took third base; Dyson struck to short stop and Atkinson came home; Dyson was put out at 1st base; Hunter took 1st on a hit to right field and stole second; Beiker struck to right field and was put out at 1st base; no runs.

Browns—Robinson struck to 1st, took his base and stole second; Wilcox fouled to Hunter, who made a sharp catch on the bound; Johnston struck past pitcher and took 1st; Stapleton struck out; Robinson was put out trying to take third; side out; no runs.

6th Innings—Maple Leafs—Smith took 1st on called balls; Tyson struck to third and took 1st, Smith taking second; Hewer struck to short stop and took 1st; Tyson ran to second and Smith home; Tyson stole third; Maddock struck out; Hewer ran to second; Watkins went out on a foul to third base; Atkinson flied to Lavin; side out; one run.

Browns—Wilcox out on a foul tip to Hunter; Johnston struck to 3rd, got 1st on a bad throw, took second and third on wild pitches; Stapleton struck out; Lavin struck to W. A. Paulin on second, who threw to 1st; side out; no runs.

7th innings—MapleLeafs—Dyson struck along the ground past third and took 1st; Hunter struck to 2nd and forced Dyson out but took 1st himself; he stole second; Beicker struck to second and was put out at 1st; Hunter took third; Smith struck out; side out; one run.

Browns — Thompson struck to centre field and took 1st; W. H. Paulin and Emslie struck out; Thompson stole second; W. A. Paulin struck to short stop and took 1st; Thompson taking 3rd; Robinson hit to Beicker to right, who threw it to Hunter at home and put Thompson out; no runs.

8th innings—Maple Leafs—Tyson struck to 3rd and was put out at 1st; Hewer tried to take 1st on three strikes but was put out; Maddock struck over to Lavin at short stop, and took 1st and stole 2nd; Watkins hit to pitcher and was put out at 1st. Side out—no runs.

Browns — Wilcox flied to Maddock; Johnston out at 1st; Stapleton struck out.

9th innings — Maple Leafs — Atkinson struck to 2nd and got 1st; Dyson struck to 1st and was put out; Atkinson took 2nd; Hunter struck to left field and Atkinson came home; Hunter took second on dropped ball by Thompson and stole third, was put out trying to run home on passed ball. Side out—one run.

Browns—Lavin struck to left field and was put out trying to reach third; Thompson struck to Atkinson at 1st and was put out; W. H. Paulin struck out. Side out—no runs.

Penitentiary Statistics.

In Kingston Penitentiary there were on the 30th June, 1878, 736 convicts. During the year 280 were received and 247 died or were discharged, leaving on 30th June, 1879, 759. The cost of each criminal was $138.43, which was reduced by the effect of earnings to $101.78. It surely ought to be possible to utilize the labour of these prisoners to a greater extent than this would. Thirty-seven dollars per annumis not much as the result of a man's labor. To be sure, however, a good many are good for little or nothing.

The usual opinion about intemperance being the great cause of crime, and that combined with ignorance does not seem to be made good in Kingston Penitentiary, for of the 280 received during the year 198 could both read and write, and only 72 are described as intemperate.

Of these 280, 122 were Roman Catholics and 72 Church of England, leaving only 86 to be divided among all other denominations of Christians. Only 5 professed to be of no religion.

In St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, of 199 received during the year 160 are described as intemperate, and only 19 could read and write. Of these 199, 170 were Roman Catholics, and 19 Church of England. Out of a total of 307 prisoners in this penitentiary 268 were Roman Catholics.

In the Penitentiary of St. John, N. B., out of 152 prisoners 74 were Roman Catholics and 39 Church of England. Ninety-five were intemperate, and 78 could both read and write. Of all the prisoners, both convict and common, admitted to this Penitentiary during the year, 220 out of a total of 336 were Roman Catholics and 80 Church of England.

In Halifax Penitentiary there were 25 Roman Catholics and 66 Protestants, all men.

It is understgod that the Government has finally decided to accept Mr. Gooderham's proposition in regard to the water supply of the Canada Pacific railway.

Two masked men broke into the residence of Mr. John Bradshaw, of London township, on Saturday morning, and after intimidating the inmates with revolvers, carried off $20 and a silver watch.

A diphtheria epidemic prevails in Queen's county, New Brunswick. Three families have lost 14 children.

The application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of McNamee, imprisoned for contempt, was on Saturday morning unanimously refused by the full Bench of Judges at Montreal.

The damage caused by the flood in Wisconsin the other day is estimated at a million dollars. Bridges, mills, and houses, and millions of feet of logs have been swept away, and dozen of families are homeless.

There was a lively time at Leadville on Saturday. The troops had been called out to overawe the strikers, but the latter put in an appearance in force and armed, and seem to have been able to hold their own.

We learn from the Reporter that Kincardine is to have a visit from a live Cabinet Minister in the course of a few weeks. Hon. Hector Langevin is to make an inspection of the harbour in company with the Engineer of the Department. The Council has decided to give the honorable gentleman a warm greeting and in all probability will dine and wine him.

Phillip Wright, jun., a member of the North-west mounted police, has returned to Ottawa. He declined to serve longer at the reduced pay of an economical 'National Policy' Government. Mr. Wright says that none of the present members of the police force will re-inlist on the expiration of their present terms of engagement.

The other night as an emigrant train was running between St. Thomas and Glencoe on the G. W. R. Air line, a little child who was leaning out of the window, lost his balance and fell out. When found the child was lying perfectly unhurt on the side of the mossy bank with his big toe in his mouth, his looks betokening that he was extracting solid chunks of comfort from it.

Frederick Burkhardt, a boy 9 years of age, was instantly killed while Fourpaugh's circus procession was passing near College avenue, Toronto, on Monday. He was standing in the street when a horse attached to a coal dray startled by the music of the band ran away and knocked him down. A wheel passed over his body killing him instantly.

The Greenbackers' Convention.

According to the newspaper reports, he Greenbackers' Convention, held in Chicago last week, was neither very decent nor orderly, and Messrs. Wallace and Wright, the Canadian representatives of the Inflation Money Association, must have felt themselves in queer company. Dennis Kearney, the Sand Lots orator, of San Francisco, was there, having only a few days before got out of jail. Brick Pomeroy, the notorious, was also there; so was Susan B. Anthony and others of the woman sufferage persuasion. And then to give additional interest to the proceedings the Socialistic labour party were admitted.

These various discordant elements made things lively enough, as a few items culled from the report of the proceedings will show. The first trouble was about the admission of the Hoyt-Pomeroy wing, a minority report being presented against the admission of the 187 delegates belonging to that body. Kearney moved to table the minority report, but on being informed that it would table the whole question, withdrew his motion in order to give every man an opportunity "to empty his gas-bag." The debate continued. During its progress several members were frequently addressing the Convention at one time until the chairman had to call on the Sergeant-at-Arms to preserve order. There were so many howling frantics in the assemblage, all bent on speaking at once, that pandemonium prevailed for a time. At last a happy thought struck the chairman. He appointed Kearney a sergeant-at-arms, and instructed him to quell the tumult. The Sand Lots orator pulled off his coat marched up and down the aisles, and soon convinced the screaming delegates that it would be prudent for them to shut up. The Convention represented all the odds and ends of cheap money, labor reform, and communistic agitation in the country. It coalesced with the rival Hoyt-Pomeroy faction, and admitted the Socialists, the "Workingmen," the "Workingwomen," and a number of other small organizations.

On a resolution accepting the remainder of the report of the Committee on Credentials, a confused debate occurred during which the chairman in vain endeavored to keep control of the Convention. Once he said, "Gentlemen, you can't get the floor by standing up all the time, not even if you stand on your heads;" and again, "Gentlemen, if you know what is on hand better than the chair does, then you'd better come up here and take the chair." The resolution was finally adopted.

Here is a little episode on the Woman Suffrage question. When Mrs. Spencer, of Washington, spoke in favor of that movement, Kearney got to his feet. He said he had received instructions before leaving California, from his wife, who warned him against having anything to do with woman suffragists, and declared that if he had anything to do with them, when he returned instead of greeting him with a kiss she would greet him with a flat iron. Mrs. Spencer replied that she was glad to know who was the head of Dennis Kearney's family.

The platform was then read over and adopted. It contains a good deal of wild talk in denunciation of capitalists, bondholders and banks, but it significantly refrains from endorsing the demands of similar conventions in the past for a flood of irredeemable greenbacks, and it does not rail at a metallic currency as a relic of barbarism. On the contrary, it wants more silver, and only clamors for greenbacks as a substitute for national bank notes.

On the calling of the roll great confusion arose on the right of the Socialists to vote as a body, it being contended that they were admitted on the understanding that they should be apportioned among the States to which they belonged, but no State's representation should be increased thereby. Their vote was finally rejected, and the report of the committee was adopted by a vote of 528 to 124. The Convention was then in confusion for another hour, amid beseeching cries by the chairman of "Gentlemen, will you be still?" "Oh, sit down," "Oh, dry up your noise; you've too much mackerel in you."

Verily the Greenbackers, and their fellow enthusiasists the Socialists, are a lively lot of Conventionists. General James B. Weaver, of Iowa, was nominated as their candidate for the Presidency, with General Chambers, of Texas, as Vice-President. It is said that all the delegates are well pleased at the ticket. They claim that it has the elements of strength. The Union Greenbackers, the Socialists, the Female Suffragists and the Pacific Slope Anti-Chinese people all received recognition, and perfect harmony is said to have reigned supreme. If the Greenbackers are satisfied, we are.

Philadelphia has done well in putting a stop to the business of issuing bogus medical diplomas. The other day there was arrested a Doctor (?) Buchanan, the chief of the bogus medical faculty, who has for years past been selling honorary degrees to any one willing to pay for them. His operations were conducted on an extensive scale. Any one desirous of obtaining a degree had only to send fifty dollars to Buchanan, in return for which he would receive the much coveted diploma with the seal of the "American University of Medical Science" entitling the recipient to begin at once the work of killing off the surplus population of the surrounding regions.

Bismarck now says that he will henceforth leave Parliamentary fighting to others, and devote himself entirely to the foreign affairs of the Empire. From this are we to expect the developement of a new foreign policy?

THE agitation for abolishing Upper Houses of Parliament has extended to the neighbouring Republic, where the utility of the thirty-eight Senates with which the States are burdened is seriously questioned.

THE London Free Press, speculating on the Hon. John O'Connor's probable successor in the Cabinet, mentions the names of Hon. Frank Smith, J. J. Hawkins, Dr. Bergin, Mr. Costigan, and Dalton McCarthy, and thinks that western predilections would go with the irrepressible Hawkins. By all means let J. J. be hoisted into the position. He has had a weary eye for something for several years, and he has tried his luck with both parties, but always failed. He is a real practical politician and wants office. But where can a seat be found for him?

THE Winnipeg Free Press gives additional proof of the evil effects of our land policy. Our contemporary says: "That not only are incomers, having the Turtle Mountain and Souris country in view as objective points, crossing the International boundary into Dakota in disgust because of their inability to enter lands for the want of land offices, but also that everything now looks like a general flight of those who located on the railway lands, in advance, frightened at the last official notice, practically repudiating the price at which these lands were advertised. Altogether the land policy is simply monstrous. In whatever disposition it was conceived we know that it is impoverishing many actual settlers we now have; that it is driving hundreds away, already here; that it is building up land-grabbing rings that will be drags and parasites upon our prosperity for decades; and that it is turning into a foreign country the very flower of the surplus population of the older parts of Canada."

A COUNTERFEITER'S CONFESSION.

Twenty Thousand Dollars Worth of Plates Hid Under a Tree.

The Arrest at Stouffville of the old Offender.

Mr. J. W. Murray, Government detective, has just succeeded in making a discovery of great importance. The whole facts in relation thereto we copy from the Globe. A few days ago a short account was given of the capture of an old man charged with passing counterfeit money at Stouffville. The public little thought at the time that he was the chief actor in the counterfeiting schemes, that he is now 75 years of age and has been in the business for more than 40 years. Detective Murray states that for two years he has been trying to lay his hands on the old man now incarcerated in the York County gaol, for it was well know by himself and other detectives that to this old offender could be traced the issue of a great number of the most perfect counterfeits that have ever been issued. To give an idea of the thoroughly workmanlike manner in which some of them were executed, it is statee that five dollar United States Treasury notes of this false issue have been passed by the Department at Washington, and it was only by the most careful examination that skilled experts could find in what way the "bogus" bills differed from the genuine. About two years ago, when it was suspected that the issuer of these notes was in Canada, several American detectives came to this side of the line, and remained for some length as time shadowing him, but without success, of they were unable to lay hands on him at any time when they would have any chance of proving his guilt. At the time of his capture, and during his incarceration, he steadfastly refused to give his name.

Detective Murray and Detective Hodgins went to the prisoner on Saturday morning. When first addressed the prisoner gave his name as "Anderson," and did not seem to be particularly anxious to converse with his visitors. The detectives plainly told him what they knew of his past career, the prisoner being somewhat surprised to find how accurately all details of his operations were given. Mr. Murray suggested that Anderson should state the whereabouts of the steel engravings used by him in counterfeiting, as there was no doubt that he must have them not very far away. After some hesitation he consented, and at his request a carriage was procured. Westward they went through Yorkville as far as the Davenport Road, and along it to a mile beyond the toll-gate. Then turning they ascended Welle' Hill, as it is called, and on reaching its summit turned a short distance to the right to a wood of considerable area. Into this wood their strange guide led them until he came to a spot where the trees stood in the position of corners of a triangle, with a small cleared space in the centre. Here the old man stopped, and, pointing his finger to the root of one of the trees, told them to dig there. They did so for some time but without finding anything. He pointed to another tree, at the root of which they began to dig. In this case they were more successful, for before they had been long at work one of the sticks struck the lid of the box. It was not long before the earth all round it had been removed, and a small oblong wooden box was then brought to view. In this receptacle were found seven plates for counterfeiting the following bills:—

The Ontario Bank, $10; the Canadian Bank of Commerce, $5; the Dominion Bank, $4; Dominion of Canada, $1 and $2, and two sets of plates for United States legal tender and Treasury notes, $5 each.

Each plate was packed very carefully, being surrounded with soft paper and covered with beeswax. In this covering they would be uninjured, though they remained buried for several years. The value of these plates is estimated by Detective Murray at not less than $20,000.

The prize thus brought to light was conveyed to the Attorney-General's office for safe-keeping, and the prisoner was taken back to the gaol.

A few circumstances of the life of this wonderfully successful criminal were given by Detective Murray from information sent to detectives by the Washington authorities with a view to securing his arrest. He is an Englishman by birth, but removed to the United States when only a boy. He lived in New York city for some years, and shortly before the breaking out of the Rebellion of 1837 he came to Canada. After some time he returned to the State of Indiana. Here he was arrested on a charge of passing counterfeit money and was sent to the States Prison for five years. On his release he went to Cincinnati, and there also he served a term for counterfeiting. Since then it appears he has dealt largely in irredeemable currency, selling it wholesale to regular operators who spread the bills broadcast over the country. Sometimes his operations were carried on in New York and sometimes in Canada. When it became necessary to pass bills or plates across the lines the business was transacted through trusted messengers instead of by mail or express. The plates, though heavy, are so small that they can easily be carried in an ordinary overcoat pocket.

The prisoner's real name is witheld for the present, owing to the fact that further disclosures are expected. He is an engraver by trade. His Canadian home is on Hazleton avenue, Yorkville, and he is father of five sons and two daughters, all of whom live in grand style in that thoroughfare. Two of his sons are engravers, and two of them are printers. Throughout the United States and Canada the old man is known as the cleverest counterfeiter in the business.

THE untold miseries that result from indiscretion in early life may be alleviated and cured. Those who doubt this assertion should purchase the new medical work published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE Boston, entitled THE SCIENCE OF LIFE; or, SELF-PRESERVATION. Exhausted vitality, nervous and physical debility, or vitality impaired by the errors of youth or too close application to business, may be restored and manhood regained.

Two hundreth edition, revised and enlarged, just published. It is a standard medical work, the best in the English language, written by a physician of great experience, to whom was awarded a gold and jewelled medal by the National Medical Association. It contains beautiful and very expensive engravings. Three hundred pages, more than 50 valuable prescriptions for all forms of prevailing disease the result of many years of extensive and successful practice, either one of which is worth ten times the price of the book. LISA LENA:

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AN OUT-CAST.

CHAPTER II.

VERY EXCITING TIMES.

"O Lord, missus; O Lord, what de matty?"

"It was Gummy, I'm certain," said my mother calmly; "I know his hand and his shirt. Toxy, load that gun again right away. Libby, shut the window and draw the curtain. Cissy, here, help me on with my things."

In ten minutes she had dressed, and going to her dressing-table she opened a revolver case, whence she took a seven-shooter.

"Now, come and get the lanthorn, Toxy, and we will go and see who it is."

"O missy—pray, missy," cried Toxy, going on his knees, "don't you go for to go out dere dis time. P'raps a lot of niggers dere try to shoot you, sartain!"

"What, Toxy!" she said looking at him with anger in her face; "you don't want to go? Are you in league with them, eh?" and she deliberately cocked the revolver and pointed it at his head.

"O Lord a mussy!" cried Toxy, putting both hands over his wooly head, and tumbling straight down as if he really had been shot. "Don't 'ee shoot me, Missy. I'se yer only faithful ole man, I'll go anywhere you like." And he laid his two great brown hands on her two pure white feet, and crawled up and kissed one of them.

"Get up, you old fool," she said, kicking out her foot, "get up and come along."

And, slipping her foot into some cane slippers, she went to the window, opened it, and after examining them with a candle, said—

"Somebody has got the charge. See!"

I could not see what it was she pointed to, but old Toxy said—

"Yes, honey; sartain you do for the d—— scoundrel dis time. Massa nebber do it neater."

Then they went out together. We, the trembling women and I, could hear the bolts and bars of the front door being opened, and Toxy loudly adjuring her not to go out, to let him go; and then through the window, which was still open, we heard his exclamation, and then her voice speaking sharply, and then a groan. They had come upon the motionless form of a negro—our overseer, named Gummy—who, stricken by the bullet in the shoulder, had rolled off the verandah roof and seemed to be insensible. But on turning him over he groaned and opened his eyes.

"O Lord a mussy, mussy, dont'ee shoot again." This we could hear the thick voice of the wounded man say.

"What else do you deserve?" said my mother, in her clear, deliberate voice.

"What were you doing at the shutter?"

"Ony liky see de missis and de leely piecaniny," said the fellow, sobbing.

"Why, you scoundrel," she said, "did you bring this along to see me with?" She must have picked up something.

"See here, Toxy," she said, laughing loud, "here's a new opera glass."

Toxy seemed to be much amused, if one might judge from the strange sounds that proceeded from him, and Gummy could be heard crying and sobbing.

"No, no, missus; ony lily pistol, case de niggers come to worry Missus. Der ain't nuffin in it."

"Ha!" she said in a loud, stern voice; "If there's nothing in it, there is a cap on it. Toxy, point it at him right there and pull the trigger, and we shall soon see weather there's anything in it."

There was a yell—a movement—a short scuffle of three or four seconds—and then another of those dreadful shots. A dead silence ensued for not more than a quarter of a minute, and then I heard my mothers, voice.

"Nothing in it, eh Master Gummy!"

"O Lord, imssus," said Toxy, "dis'ere's a narrow 'scape you made from dis dam rascal. He go for to kill you sure enuf, if you no kill him. Faugh! dis here nigger's a reg'lar skunk."

"Well," replied his mistress, in a high voice, "if any other niggers come skulking around here again they will be treated in the same way. You go round all the cabins to-morrow, Toxy, and tell them so, and order them all up here before eight o'clock to see this thing, or, you say, I shall be down to see them. And then you take and put it in a hole in the yellow field close by the mimosa tree, and just tell the folks that there's where we mean to bury all the traitors."

When my mother came back into the room, with Toxy carrying the rifle and the revolver, she ordered him out of the room and, locking the door, flung off her gown, and then, throwing herself into the low cane nursing seat, covered her face with her hands and burst into hysterical sobs. Libby and Sissy, the two maids, looked at her aghast; and as for me, I set up an out cry more sharp and strident than hers. But she never heeded me. Her arms were on her knees, her white fingers over her eyes, the water fast trickling through. It was not only reaction from the great excitement, but the loneliness the desolation of her situation, exposed with us, whom she held so dear, to such ruffianly outrages as that from which she had so bravely defended herself.

From that night a change came over her—a change that never changed so long as I knew her. Before she had borne my father's absence with tolerable cheerfulness, regulating the house and the outside affairs, fostering the three children, and blooming with her grand and dignified beauty. But she became then and thence-forward pale and careworn. She was restless, fatigued, yet ever moving. She kept watch and ward every night with nervous anxiety. Often, when I woke I saw her, rifle in hand, listening at the closed window. Toxy slept outside her door on a mattress, making the night hideous with his massive and sonorotu snore. She was often crying, often distrial, often agitated. Rough people used to come to our house, and use loud, harsh language. At such times the negro girls would run away and hide, and only old Toxy remained.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. DECOURSIER'S DOOM.—On Monday morning Rev. W. S. The Profits of Agriculture.

(From the Monetary Times.)

The Grangers have very wisely been enjoying themselves at a monster pic-nic, at Port Stanley. After dinner came the speeches. The dinner took place early; and when it was over the speakers were left with their wits about them. One speech, that of Professor Johnston, ex-principal of the Ontario Agricultural College, was an attempt to deal with the practical problems of the Ontario farmers' position; and, if only very partially successful, it is noticeable as a great improvement on the sort of talk that Grangers have hitherto indulged in, on similar occasions. Mr. W. B. Underhill, of Brant, afterwards talked a little nonsense. He complained of the exclusion of farmers from Parliament; saying that whereas they ought, from their numbers, to have 160 they have only twenty-three of themselves there, while the lawyers are represented out of proportion to their strength. If the farmers are excluded, it is because they choose to exclude themselves; and they cannot complain of the consequences of their own deliberate act. The truth is, they can find others to do this work for them better than they could do it for themselves; and in that way they get best served. Tacitly they admit this. The law element is rather strong in the legislature; but that is an evil, if it be one, that will cure itself in time. Mr. Underhill also complained that farmers do not get their fair share of civil appointments. It should rather be said that they do not lay themselves out for such employments; and we may be sure that they suffer no loss of happiness on that account.

Professor Johnson raised the question whether the Ontario Farmer is competing successfully with the farmers of other countries? and he answered it in the negative. He takes a farm of 150 acres, and assumes the land to be worth $60 an acre; implements and stock $3,000 more; a total capital of $12,000, on which to earn interest. Every acre has to bring a return on $80. Mr. Johnston then figures up the cost of production, which includes wages, interest on $80 at 7½ per cent., and $6 for seed and cattle, and which he makes $20 an acre. Is this $20 got back, with or without a profit? Whether the farmer grows peas, or hay—one and a half ton to the acre—or oats—40 or 50 bushels, he will get, Mr. Johnston assumes, only $18 an acre for the product, and will incur an absolute loss of $2. At this rate, the total loss, on a farm of 150 acres, would be $300 a year.

The prospect for the Ontario Farmer as sketched by Professor Johnston, whom many will look on as an authority, is gloomy enough. But he must expect that his figures will be scrutinized closely before they will be generally accepted. In the first place, the price he puts on the land, $60 an acre, which he represents as a low figure, is very much above the average—nearly, if not quite double the average—value of farming land in Ontario. The mere correction of this vaulation wipes away Mr. Johnston's imaginary loss. The items of wages, labor—all labor represents wages—and seed, are not given with a distinctness that will enable any one to say whether they are over-estimated or not. But we learn from his valuation of the land, that the Professor had got himself into a vein of exaggeration; and from what we know we are entitled to suspect the rest; the sack is not likely to differ from the sample.

We must, then, reject Mr. Johnston's figures, as of no value, as a means of leading us to exactness. But Mr. Johnston does not regard the case as hopeless. "There are," he thinks, "several methods of solving the problem." One is to apply more capital to the land. He tells the Grangers to imitate business men in applying the main portion of the profits in extending the business. But why they are to take his advice, if facts be correct, we do not see. If, as he distinctly states, there are no profits, how are non-existing profits to be put into the farm? On this point Mr. Johnston is very distinct. "Here," he exclaims, "is the Province of Ontario producing less than it costs to produce it." In the absence of capital, a stricter rotation of crops is recommended. In no true sense can a better rotation of crops be said to be "the equivalent of capital." The truth is, Mr. Johnston, though he made a fairly good speech on the whole, got befogged on this point.

Another way of solving the problem, Mr. Johnston thinks, is to take advantage of the Drainage Act. This might do very well, as far as the resource in question might take us; but the remedy is not one capable of general application. Everybody cannot borrow money under the Drainage Act. As a partial remedy, it may answer a good purpose; but the disease is described as affecting the whole body, and local treatment cannot be thoroughly efficacious. Mr. Johnson has still another remedy. He is reported as having said: "There is another course open whereby an immediate application of capital to land can be made; and that is through the live stock trade with England." The only way that this branch of farming can be made to bring an increase of capital is, on the supposition that it will yield better returns than grain growing, and that part of the profit can be saved or capitalized. Again, improved processes of agriculture are recommended; but this requires additional capital; and the speaker has not answered the question, where is the capital to come from? There are only two ways in which this additional capital can be got. Farmers may exercise the power of borrowing, where they have not already done so to the utmost limit. Many farmers, though probably no large proportion of the whole, have borrowed all they can give security for, and more than they can pay interest on. Land so held will change hands, on terms advantageous to the purchasers, who will often be able to apply the capital requisite to increase the production. These are the only two ways in which increased capital can at once be applied to the land.

But when this has been done, it will probably be found that the era of the most profitable farming has been past. When it becomes necessary to apply additional capital to land, the product can be increased; but the profit is usually less than it was when the lesser capital sufficed; because the increase, after a certain point is passed, is not in proportion to the additional amount of labor employed. Mr. Johnson has raised an important issue, and hastily rushed to a gloomy conclusion, while his remedies are, for the most part, either impracticable or of only limited application. Still we congratulate the Grangers on having got into a soberer vein, and on having shown a disposition to meet the practical issues to which the present position of the Ontario farmer gives rise.

Congregational Union.

MONTREAL, June 11.

The report of the Provident Fund Society was presented. The total capital of the Fund now amounts to $35,040.

The corporation of the Congregational College of British North America held their meeting at eleven o'clock. Mr. G. S. Fenwick occupied the chair, and Rev. Dr. Cornish read the annual report, which on the whole was encouraging. Mr. W. C. Smilie had paid the sum of $5,000 toward the endowment fund; also the sum of $4,000 had been given to the same fund by Mr. Joseph Jackson, of Montreal.

The report was adopted.

Mr. H. J. Clark moved "That Sunday, June 27th, be set apart as a day of special prayer and effort on behalf of the Sunday Schools in connection with the Raikes jubilee." Carried.

The Revs. L. McGregor, F. Willet, John Burton and W. Hew de Bourck were received into full membership.

Revs. Thomas McPherson and J. Laing were then introduced as delegates from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in session in the city.

It was moved by Rev. R. W. Wallace, B. D., seconded by Rev. W. H. Allworth, and unanimously resolved:—

"That whereas some of the churches of our denomination in Canada during the past year has suffered seriously through the action of unworthy men, who have, under pretence of genius, been called to the pastorate of these churches, while subsequent revelations have shown them to be wolves in sheep's clothing, and whereas though no Congregational minister is responsible for the misdeeds of another, and no Congregational church is responsible for the errors of another, yet in public estimation the stigma upon one erring minister or church is visited in some measure upon all, and our principles are blamed for the wrong-doing of the individual, all the members suffering in the suffering of the one member. Therefore, be it resolved that the ministers and delegates assembled in Union would respectfully urge upon the Congregational churches in Canada the propriety and need of the strictest caution in summoning men to the pastorate over them, and of avoiding men who cannot furnish papers of good standing, or are unwilling to be ordained or installed by the brethren whom the Church may summon for the purpose, and that, inasmuch as evidence of godliness and manliness are essential to the success of any minister or the church under his leadership, there should be no undue haste in calling a pastor, but that time should be allowed for the fullest investigation before entering upon so solemn and important an engagement as that between the Church and a minister."

June 12.

The following were appointed the Union Committee for 1880: Revs. W. Jackson, H. D. Powis Burton, J. B. Silcox, Warriner Griffith, Ed. Silcox Hunter, R. Hay Stevenson, Messrs. Higgins, Clarke, Smith, Williams, Flint, Fleeland, Barker and Barber.

The invitation of Zion Church, Toronto, for the Union to meet there in 1881 was accepted.

A letter of dismission was granted to Rev. Mr. Manchee.

The following list of churches were dropped from the roll:—Emanuel, Brantford, Elora, Eastern Church, of Montreal, and New Durham.

Rev. Dr. Cornish presented the Wilkes Testimonial Fund. About $4,000 had already been subscribed toward the fund. On motion the matter was referred to the earnest consideration of the churches.

Rev. R. W. Wallace, of London, read a paper on denominational extension. He suggested the propriety of organizing a society to be designated the Congregational Church Extension Society, the object of which shall be the erection of new churches in important centres. We have 20,000 adherents in Canada. Say each should give 25c., that would furnish us $5,000. This paper gave rise to a lengthy discussion, all those taking part agreeing with the idea of forming such a society.

Rev. Dr. Wilkes read a tract giving advice to churches wanting pastors, which was approved.

In the evening the members enjoyed a garden party at the residence of Mr. Geo. Hague.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

MONTREAL, June 11.

The Rev. Mr. King in moving the adoption of the Home Mission Committee's report expressed his high sense of the efficient manner in which Dr. Cochrane had discharged his duties as convenor of the Committee. He alluded to the growth of the work in the West, where he believed in a short time the very best talent the Church could supply would find its largest and most important fields of exercise. They should regard with gratification to God the financial results of the year. Nothing could give them more confidence as to the Church's future.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Middlemiss presented the report of the aged and infirm minister's fund. It stated that the list of beneficiaries during the year numbered twenty-four, four names being on the list for the first time; that $5,339 had been paid to retired ministers, an increase of $756 over last year; that three had been removed by death; that the number of beneficiaries at this date was twenty-four: that the total income of the year was $5,681; and the total expenditure $5,665; that the net balance against income now was $17, and that no less than $6,500 would be required for the present year.

On Sunday the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches were occupied by leading ministers of the Assembly.

The Collision on Long Island Sound.

STONINGTON, June 14.—A large number of persons visited the scene of the Narragansett disaster yesterday. The investigations of the diver who examined the wreck showed the upper hurricane deck, with the state rooms, entirely gone, while the cabins and staterooms on deck were a charred, undistinguishable mass. A large quantity of freight was raised.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The morning papers are still filled with details and incidents of the Narragansett disaster. List of saved number 36; dead and missing 48. Capt. Young, of the Narragansett, says the collsion was the result of a misunderstanding of the pilots of the two steamers. He says:—'I was in the pilot-house, we were going full speed, we whistled and rang the bell, and when we caught sight of the Stonington I signalled we would go to starboard. I then tried to go to starboard, but through some misunderstanding the vessels approached each other. When I saw the collision probable I rang two bells to reverse the engine, but we were too late. Capt. Nic, of the Stonington, claims that his whistle was blown twice a minute, and that the Narragansett's was doing the same. He adds:—'I didn't see the Narragansett until we were 200 or 300 feet from her. I was in the wheel house. I rang the bell to back the engines instantly, and ordered the helm put hard to port. It is the rule in such cases to port the helm, and each ship is expected to follow it unless something extraordinary happens.'

The Rev. Provost Whitaker will leave for his living in Wiltshire, after the sitting of the Provincial Synod. He does not return to Trinity College. The Rev. Professor Jones has left for England to make an effort to find a successor to the Provost.

Morning Telegrams.

It was announced in the House of Commons on Tuesday, that legislation will be proposed enlarging the powers of Local Boards in Ireland for awarding compensation to occupiers of land, and that a commission will be appointed to enquire into the Land Act of 1870.

Herbert Reeves, son of Sims Reeves the noted tenor, was received at St. James' Hall, on Monday, with a storm of applause. He sings marvellously like his father.

The Congregationalists of Australasia have just celebrated by a jubilee the fiftieth anniversary of the existence of their denomination in that part of the world.

The Supplementary Conference of the European Powers meets in Berlin to-day, and the first discussion of the Greek frontier question takes place on Friday. They hope to be able to agree on the delimitation of the frontier without having to send a technical commission to make surveys. The proceedings will be private.

Native Christians on the Island of New Hebrides in the South Pacific recently shipped to London some 3,700 pounds of arrow-root to pay for an edition of the Old Testament which is now being printed for them in their native tongue.

The Sportsman says:—"We are informed by the Secretary of the Canadian cricket team that they hope to replace the loss in their number through the arrest of Jordan (Thomas Dale) by C. J. Logan, who is considered to be one of the best bowlers in Canada. They expect him to arrive in England in about three weeks." The game with the Crystal Palace Club, on Tuesday, was greatly in favour of the Canadians. In the second innings they scored 235, to their opponents' 47 for five wickets.

Afternoon's Despatches

UP TO THREE P.M.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 16. — Six hundred British immigrants arrived here last night, en route for the West.

From Toronto.

TORONTO, June 16.—John Butler, a deserter from the 49th Regiment, was brought before the magistrate this morning. He was remanded to allow the military authorities to be communicated with.

Considerable speculation is indulged in by the public as to who supplied Robert DeCoursier with the phial of prussic acid. The opinion is pretty well divided between the younger brother Henry and an official of the gaol. The detectives are making enquiries, and it is likely further developements will be made at the adjourned inquest to-morrow afternoon.

Murder and Suicide.

AYLMER, June 15.—A fearful tragedy was enacted about seven miles from this place to-day in the township of Malahide. A farmer named Andrew Johnston killed his brother by cutting his throat from ear to ear and immediately afterwards committed suicide. The two men left the house of Andrew Johnston at an early hour this morning, and went to the barn as usual together, where the murder took place. The body of Andrew Johnston was found in a well some fifty rods from the barn, by his wife, and the knife used in the butchery was found near the mouth of the well. The unfortunate men are brothers of the Johnston who was lately recommitted to the Asylum in London as a dangerous lunatic. It is supposed that lunacy was the cause of the horrible affair.

The Y. M. C. A.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—Not only am I surprised but deeply grieved to find so few Christian young men coming forward and taking an active part in the Y. M. C. A. work of this city. Why they should stand aloof from it I cannot see, being unsectarian and having for its great end and aim the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdon, in the pulling down of all that degrades and lowers our fallen humanity, and in the upholding of that which is pure and true and noble, by placing at the disposal of the general public literature, the moral tone of which is not to be gainsayed, and in every way seeking to elevate all that pertains to Godliness. Seeing such to be the case, sir, I trust that many who have hitherto looked coldly on from a distance, will thoughtfully and prayerfully consider the matter, and henceforth feel in duty bound to be one with us in this work, if not by their word and council by their name and influence. Thanking you for this space,

I remain yours,
C. G. TATHAM.

Among those who presented themselves for examination was H. Gow, Guelph.

The new fast east bound train from Chicago to New York, via the Michigan Central and Great Western road, passed through Hamilton on its first trip at 6 a.m. on Tuesday. The train leaves Chicago daily at 3.30 p.m., arriving at Detroit at 11.50 p.m., at Suspension Bridge at 7.20 a.m. New York at 10.30 p.m.

Local News.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES. — Moderate winds and fine weather.

WATER services are being laid into several buildings along Wyndham street.

MRS. BITTLE will appear at the Police Court to-morrow for being disorderly on Saturday night.

THE members of Chalmers' Church Bible Class are picnicing at Paradise this afternoon.

THE Maple Leafs are endeavoring to arrange for a match here on Dominion Day with one of the American League Clubs.

BREWERY SOLD.—Mr. Rose, of Preston, last week sold his lager beer brewery in that village to Andrew Herse for $6,000.

WAGONS FOR MANITOBA.—On Friday last Messrs. Goold & Wilson shipped thirty wagons for Manitoba. This firm are still manufacturing a large number more for the same place.

DISORDERLY. — Polly Snelling, Fanny Crosby and Nellie Crosby will appear at the Police Court to-morrow to answer for disorderly conduct on Inkerman street on Monday evening.

THE remains of the late James MacFarlane, whose sudden death was announced on Tuesday, have been subjected to a process for preservation, and it is expected will be sent home to Scotland for interment.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Norfolk street Methodist Church, will hold their "Annual Strawberry Festival" on the beautiful grounds of Wm. Stevenson, Esq., on Tuesday evening next, June 22. Further particulars in a few days. d1

GOOD WORK.—Robert Gordon has just completed a new barn 70x80 ft in size on the farm of Frank McQuillan. It took 70 squares of shingles to cover the building, and these were lined by Mr. Gordon and three assistants in four days, which they consider good work.

GARDEN PARTY.—A foot ball match will take place at the garden party to be given by the Y. M. C. A. at Idylwyld on Thursday. The programme will also comprise a tug of war. The affair promises to be a success. John Ewing will carry passengers from the Post office to the grounds for 10 cents.

HEAVY FINE. — Patrick Murphy, Puslinch, was charged at the Police Court to-day (Wednesday) with assaulting James D. Williams and with using abusive language towards him. For the first offence he was fined $5.15, and for the second $11.75, making the total amount of his fine $16.90.

PERSONAL.—Mr. John Ramage, of Nassagaweya, has just returned from Emerson, North West Territory, where he has taken up land, with a view of becoming a settler. He has already shipped a large lot of farming implements for his own use. He reports the crop prospects as being very fine.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.—Emil Fisher was charged at the Police Court this (Wednesday) forenoon with using abusive language towards Samuel Loughlin. Loughlin was charged by Fisher a few days ago with assault, and the former alleged that he used abusive language when the assault was committed. Fisher was fined $5.35.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—A meeting of the Ladies Committee of Mechanics' Institute was held at the rooms of the Institute last evening to arrange for holding a strawberry festival. It was decided to hold a festival in the City Hall on Tuesday evening of next week. The ladies entered into the arrangements with a spirit which will be sure to make it a success.

THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS.—This (Wednesday) forenoon, John F. Morpragh, Bernard Campbell, Patrick Courtney and John Owens, of Peel; John Madden, and John White, of Arthur; Jeremiah Foley, and James Griffin, West Garafraxa, and Michael Doragan, left in charge of Brother Sabbinia, of San Francisco, to join the Christian Brothers at West Chester, New York. They will remain at New York for a year and then be sent as teachers to San Francisco. Brother Sabbinia is a cousin of Mr. M. J. Doran of this city.

NEW UNIFORM.—To-day the Police Commissioners inspected the new summer uniforms for the policemen, after which the suits were served out. The present caps will be worn till the helmets arrive from England. The coats and pants are of light serge material and have a very good appearance. The men have been furnished with a new style of baton to be used when the belts are not worn. It resembles a walking stick, but is not long enough to be used as one.

COUNTY COUNCILLORS AT PARADISE.—The Elora Express last week gives a notice of a trip made by Wellington County Councillors up the river, and the narrow escape one of the heavy men had from being drowned while landing at Paradise. A lessee of the place good naturedly says the party must have landed at the wrong place, either Purgatory or the Slough of Despond,—stopping places up the river,—as the landing place at Paradise will bear the whole Council at once, and if they get drowned it will be because the whole thing goes through the bottom; he extends an invitation to the whole County Council to a sail up the river, land at his own wharf and see the grounds as they look at present.

WORD FROM COL. HIGINBOTHAM.—A letter has been received from Col. Higinbotham at Winnipeg, by his friends here. He states that while going to Manitoba, the train on which he was riding met with an accident near St. Paul's, by which one of the cars was thrown over an embankment, but his implements and stock were uninjured. He says that all the low prairie land is under water and the railway track in some places is covered to a depth of two feet. He mentioned having met a number of old Guelph citizens, some of whom were meeting with success. The letter refers to the fact that the day he reached Winnipeg three Canadians worth $15,000 in cash, were leaving Manitoba on account of the Government's land regulations, to take up their residence in Dakota.

THE CELTIC MAGAZINE.—The June number of this Magazine, published in Inverness, Scotland, and edited by Mr. A. Mackenzie, contains quite a lengthy notice of the editor's visit to Guelph last November, as also his visit to Lucknow and Kincardine. Mr. Mackenzie speaks in enthusiastic terms of his visit to the "Royal City," of the hearty reception he met with from his "brither Scots," and to the kindly feeling they manifested for him and for Auld Scotia. He thinks very highly of Guelph as a manufacturing and business centre, and is equally complimentary to Lucknow and Kincardine. The sketches of Mr. Mackenzie's visit to Canada are very interesting and are highly appreciated by the readers of the Magazine in the Dominion.

BLAICKER & RYCKMAN, of Hamilton, have bought Mr. W. P. Clay's grocery stock in Galt. Mr. Clay intends to start afresh in another store in that town.

KILLED IN A DRUNKEN BRAWL.—A melancholy affair took place at Markdale about nine o'clock on Tuesday. In a drunken brawl a young man named Alex. Fraser, who it is said was not engaged in the affray, received a blow from one Hugh McLaughlin, from the effects of which he died thirty minutes afterwards. Fraser is said to be a resident of Erin village and was a fisherman.

CANADIAN PASSENGERS ON THE ANCHORIA.—Among the passengers on the Anchoria, which was in collision with the steamer Queen, an account of which is given in another column, were Miss Ella A. White, of St. John, N. B.; Dr. J. B. Inch and Miss Annie Inch, of Sackville, N. B.; Mr. and Mrs. George Watt, and Mrs. Robertson and Miss Robertson, of Brantford; Thos. J. Day and John S. Wilson, of Guelph; Bishop and Mrs. Fuller, of Niagara; A. Elliott, of Peterboro'. Mr. Day may return to Guelph instead of waiting for another steamer.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN H. EMMANS.—We regret to record the death of Mr. J. H. Emmans, which took place on Tuesday at the residence of his father, Mr. Henry Emmans, Mountsberg, Flamboro West. The deceased was well known in Guelph, having acted as foreman for several years for Mr. F. Small. After that he started business for himself in the city, and had a fair prospect of doing well when he became a victim to consumption. When unable any longer to work he left Guelph last summer, and spent the remainder of his days at his father's house. The deceased during his residence in Guelph was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was specially well known and respected in Masonic circles, having at the time of his death been Worshipful Master of Waverley Lodge, in this city, but he was able to fill the chair only once after his election. He was a most enthusiastic Mason, and was said to be one of the best posted in the mysteries of the Craft in the District. He died at the early age of 35 years. The funeral takes place from his father's residence to-morrow at one p.m. A special meeting of the Waverley Lodge will be held to-night at 8 p.m., to make arrangements for a number of the brethren to attend the funeral.

The De Coursier Suicide.

Prussic Acid the Cause of Death.

There has been nothing in DeCoursier's conduct to arouse suspicion that he had in his possession such a severe and speedy means of destroying his life; but he had stated more than once that he would cheat the gallows, and for this reason more than ordinary vigilance was used in watching him.

Deputy-Governor Ewan, in the examination which was held before the cell was locked up, after the prisoner's death, discovered a small phial in the commode in the prisoner's cell.

At three o'clock on Tuesday Coroner Wright held an inquest for the purpose of enquiring into the causes leading to his death.

John Green, Governor of the jail, said in his evidence:—

The last time prisoner was searched was when he came from Court after being sentenced; nobody was allowed to see the prisoner unless having an order from the Sheriff; those who received such orders were Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, the uncle and aunt of deceased, Mr. and Mrs. Magill, Mr. Parker, Henry DeCoursier, younger brother of deceased; Mr. Magill and Mr. and Mrs. Tucker last saw him about a week ago; at that interview I was present, and was so placed that if anything had been given the prisoner I would have seen it; Mrs. Tucker visited the prisoner the following day, and I was also present at the interview; on Friday last his brother Henry visited him and stayed about ten minutes; I was not present at that interview; the food which was brought into the prisoner from the outside was not of sufficient bulk to conceal a vial of the size produced; he could form no idea as to how the bottle produced came into possession of the prisoner.

John Watson, County Council, said—When the prisoner was on Monday transferred from an upstairs cell to the one in which he died turnkey Bell and myself searched all his belongings, but not his person.

Dr. Richardson made a post mortem and gave the opinion that deceased came to his death from partaking of a dose of prussic acid; the rapidity with which death followed would indicate that prussic acid was the agent used.

The inquest was adjourned to allow time for analysis of the stomach.

Collision of two Ocean Steamers.

The Passengers and Crews Saved.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The steamer Queen just arrived reports at 1.30 p. m., on Sunday, 112 miles east of Sandy Hook, during a dense fog she came into collision with the steamer Anchoria, of the Anchor line, which left New York on Saturday for Glasgow. Both vessels were very seriously damaged, and for a while it was thought both would go down. The Queen's bow was stove in. She took off all the passengers of the Anchoria, 130, and brought them to this port. The Anchoria is still outside the bar waiting for assistance. She has about 28 feet of water in her hold.

The Queen has a ragged hole in her bow eight or ten feet below the gunwale, extending below the water line. The iron plates were bent and badly torn. The Queen's whistle was heard only a few seconds before the collision. The Anchoria was struck just forward of her bridge, on the starboard side. The bow of the Queen plunged into the stateroom of the Anchoria, in which three young ladies were sitting, and the latter's escape was almost miraculous. There was great excitement on board both vessels, but no one was injured. Two compartments of the Anchoria filled with water, and there was every prospect of the vessel sinking. It was therefore determined to transfer the passengers, as the injury to the Queen was not apparently so serious. The transfer was made in boats. The sea was very calm.

The passengers state that after the collision the crew of the Anchoria became demoralized, three of them leaping aboard the Queen before the vessels separated. The men made no effort, it is stated to save the passengers, but looked to their own safety. Captain Heddenrick, of the steamer Anchoria, behaved with great coolness, and stuck to his vessel until all the passengers were safely transferred. Some of the passengers had to assist in launching the Anchoria's boats, and as soon as the boats struck the water the sailors were the first to jump into them.

Captain Heddenrick thought he could bring the Anchoria into port if the Queen would stand by him. Captain Williams, of the latter, promised to do so. All the crew of the Anchoria, except five or six, returned to duty, and a start was made for New York, the Queen keeping close by until their arrival. The passengers of the Anchoria passed resolutions thanking the officers and crews of the Auchoria and Queen for their exertions to save life. The passengers presented a purse of $100 to the crew of each vessel.

Congregational Union.

MONTREAL, June 14.—After devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. H. Pedley, B. A., an application for membership to the union was made by the Congregational church in Winnipeg, but as the union only embraces churches in Ontario and Quebec, it was regretted that their application could not be received at present. Rev. J. A. Burtin gave notice of motion that he would move at the next meeting of the union that such a change in the constitution should be made as to admit such churches as Winnipeg. A committee was appointed to raise a nucleus of a church extension fund of $10,000 and Rev. R. W. Wallace was thanked for his efforts in that direction. It was resolved that the resolution introduced by Rev. Mr. McGregor relating to the formation of a ladies' missionary society, be referred to the Union Committee to report next year, and if thought expedient, to summon a meeting of ladies for the formation of such an auxiliary. On motion, the union reaffirmed its position in favour of temperance reform, and expressed its pleasure that the Scott Act was soon to be tried in many places. A special committee was appointed to take charge of the Manitoba mission. Several interesting papers on interesting topics were then read and discussed, and the union which has had a most enjoyable meeting was dismissed, to meet next June in Toronto.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL for July gives the second and final part of Cherbuliez's brilliant novelette, "Herr Drommel's Inconsistencies," and the conclusion of Appleton Morgan's "Shakespearean Myth," in which there is an examination of the several theories current as to the authorship of the Shakespearean plays, and some eminently graphic pictures of the period and the life therein. Nothing more readable has recently appeared in literature, and it is impossible not to be greatly interested in Mr. Morgan's arguments, and in the facts which he brings forward as inconsistent with the commonly accepted belief that the remarkable plays which bear Shakespeare's name were really written by him. A notable paper is an extract from advance sheets of Kossuth's "Memories of my Exile," now on the eve of publication, relating an interview between the Hungarian patriot and Louis Napoleon. There are a reply by Mr. C. H. Rockwell to Judge Morgan's recent assault on the Suez Canal Company; an article by Dean Stanley on "The Variations of the Roman Church;" a paper by James Jackson Jarves on "Modern Italian Picturesque" and a plea in behalf of women by Mrs. Oliphant. A paper called "An Adventuress of the Eighteenth Century" is full of strange facts and remarkable adventures. Then a partially humorous "Plea for Musicians," an essay on "The Dramatis Personæ of Spanish Comedy," reviews of the "Channing Centennial Literature" and Professor Wichell's "Preadamites," and finally the "Editor's Table." The contents of number are varied and valuable.

CRICKET.

Guelph vs. Brampton.

The Brampton cricket club arrived by the 9.45 train, and proceeded to the Maple Leaf Base Ball grounds. The wickets were pitched at 10.30. Brampton won the toss and sent Guelph to the wickets. Lockwood and Fitzgerald faced the bowling of Gamble and Fexton, but were easily disposed of. The only stand being made by R. F. Smythe for a well played (not out) innings of 23, and Hamilton for 11—Guelph, first innings 54. Brampton then took the bat to the bowling of Sabine and Henry. When lunch was called at 1.30 Brampton stood 12 for 3 wickets down.

General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

June 14.

The report of Knox College and Manitoba College were presented. At the latter College the attendance during last session was 47. The total amount raised during the year from local sources was $776, being $600 in excess of the amount received from the same source in the previous year. New and larger College buildings are necessary.

The Rev. Principal Cairns, D.D., delegate from the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, entered, and amidst loud applause was invited to a seat on the platform. After his commission had been read by the Rev. Dr. Reid, the Moderator welcomed Dr. Cairns in a few cordial terms.

The College reports were taken up and discussed.

An overture was read from the Presbytery of Ottawa recommending, on the ground of desirability, that students preparing for the ministry should pass through a regular course of Arts in some University, and that preparatory courses of instruction in the Theological Colleges of the Church should be abolished. It was remitted to the Boards of the Colleges.

The Assembly resumed the consideration of the report of the western section of the Home Mission Committee and Rev. J. M. King's motion thereon. All the speakers dwelt on the great importance of keeping up and increasing the missions in the Northwest.

Hon. Alex. Morris considered this the most vital subject which could come under the notice of this Assembly, because in it were involved the possibilities of the Church in the future. He advocated a vigorous aggressive missionary effort in the Northwest, and favored the suggestion of the last speaker to send commissioners there. He thought there should be a strong appeal in the resolution from this Assembly to the Presbyterian Churches in England, Scotland, and Ireland for direct aid in the work, which he had no hesitation in saying was beyond the present resources of their Church. (Applause.)

Rev. Mr. Bruce, of St. Catharines, drew attention of two pleasing features in the report. One was that in the ninety stations or so opened in the Northwest, twenty-four or twenty-five were opened in the same year as settlement took place, and twenty-four or twenty-five in the next year after. Mission work had therefore kept pretty fair pace with settlement. The other feature was that the supply by the stations themselves was very encouraging.

The Foreign Mission reports were then read. Last year the total receipts were $21,815.39, and this year they are $22,471.39, or $656.20 in advance of last year. But a debt which has increased $11,500 in one year, and which now amounts to $16,558.83, is a disagreeable fact.

The Rev. Dr. Bruce, of Glasgow a delegate of the Church of Scotland to the United Presbyterian Church of Canada, was introduced to the meeting and gave an eloquent address.

The Rev. Dr. Cairns, of Edinburgh, was then introduced, and in a pleasant speech congratulated the Church on its union and conveyed to them the warmest sentiments of affection and brotherhood from the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, of which he is a member. He explained the position of the Church in Scotland at length.

June 15.

Dr. Reid read the report of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund. The total amount of capital now was $94,761, an excess of $1,147 over the capital at the time of last report. The total receipts for this year were $26,752, and the total expenditure 13,310, leaving a balance of $13,502.

The report of the Committee on Sabbath Schools was then presented. It shows their are 362 schools reported, attended by 53,300 scholars. The number of teachers and officers are 3,166; communicants under instruction 848; communicants added during the year 426; amount expended on schools, $8,603; volumes in Sunday School libraries, $28,724; amount given to missions, $3,603. More Sabbath Schools have made returns than in any or previous yeas.

Rev. Dr. Jenkins presented the report of the Committee appointed by the last session, to prepare under instructions of the Assemblies of 1878 and 1879, a hymn book for the use of congregations of the Church. The report was adopted.

Rev. Principal MacVicar read the report on French Evangelization. The receipts were: Congregational contributions $12,793.77; Sabbath School contributions, $1,666.15; contributions from parent churches, $1,016.10; contributions from Britain, $3,199.13; bequests, $640; miscellaneous contributions, $2,028.90; total, $21,456.96. The disbursements were, $20,741.05, leaving a balance on hand of 715.91. Negotiations have been completed for the transfer of the Mission Schools at Pointe Aux Trembles from the French Canadian Missionary Society to this Board at the price of $5,500.

AT the meeting of the Cabinet on Monday we are told that only ordinary business was transacted. They seem to have a great deal of "ordinary busines," which, if known to the general public, would undoubtedly—judging from quiet rumours current in political circles—prove highly interesting. There does not seem to be a very great unanimity of speech amongst the Cabinet Ministers in regard to the question of appointments and contemplated changes. It is now currently stated that the anticipated appointment of Hon. John Beverly Robinson as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is meeting with opposition from unexpected quarters. It is further rumoured that the Government contemplate holding the Collectorship of Customs at Toronto up as a prize for the hardest worker in the contest for the electoral western division. If this is correct Mr. Angus Morrison's chances are still doubtful.

Bradstreet on Guelph.

During a recent visit to Guelph it occurred to your correspondent that a short article on that city and its surroundings would be interesting to your many readers. The "royal city" will bear favorable comparison with any place of its size in the Dominion. It is surrounded by a rich agricultural country. A mile to the south is the Model Farm (comprising 550 acres) founded by and under the direction of the government of Ontario for the purpose of teaching scientific farming. During the first few years of its existence its usefulness was questioned in many quarters by some farmers and others of the old school; latterly, however, the grumblers have subsided into silence, time having proved its great value to a Province like Ontario, where agricultural interests are of first importance. This appears to be the view held by the Dominion Grange, who, at their last meeting, cordially approved of the Model Farm and endorsed its management. Two live daily papers are here published, each representing one of the political parties of the country. The several schools here found amply prove that Guelph is not behind in educational facilities; and there being an abundance of building stone in the neighborhood easy of access, the massiveness and solidity of so many of the public buildings and private residences is a noticeable feature, while the architectural structure and designs evince cultivated taste. Looking at Guelph from a business point of view, it stands prominent among the thriving towns of the country. Storkeepers here cannot be said to have participated in the general revival of business for some time back, and this will apply more particularly to those in the dry goods trade, although it is averred that there are now signs of returning prosperity. Whatever dullness may exist among the stores, it is the reverse with the manufacturers, all of whom appear to be working full time, and some even in excess of this; and it is to its manufacturers, more than anything else, Guelph is indebted for its position. Among the important industries carried on here are two sewing-machine factories, an organ factory, two breweries, three firms manufacturing engines, two stove foundries, two iron foundries, several agricultural implement manufactories, an oil refinery, five flour mills, an oatmeal mill, two planing mills, a furniture factory, a carriage springs and steel goods manufactory, an axe factory, a piano factory, a woollen mill, and a malleable iron foundry. In addition to these might be added several industries of smaller dimensions. There appears to be a good opening here for a worsted mill, and also for a manufactory of light brass goods; and the city fathers, recognizing the importance of encouraging the starting of industries in their midst, offer to exempt all new beginners from taxation for five or ten years, according to the number of hands employed, added to which they will furnish city water free of charge for a like period. It may be mentioned that in Canada manufacturers in brass, iron, steel woodenware, woollens, etc., are protected by a government tariff of from 25 to 35 per cent. Guelph is on the line of the two principal railroads in Canada—the Grand Trunk and Great Western. Banking facilities are ample; there are agencies of four of the leading banks of the Dominion.

The School Inspectorship of South Wellington.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

SIR,—I observe that our city contemporary has relieved himself of his valuable opinion, and passed judgment on the action of the County Council in reference to the late appointment of a Public School Inspector for South Wellington. If the majority of that body choose to be guilty of a piece of dishonorable and unmanly business, I leave them in the meantime to the principles by which they have elected to regulate their conduct; and if your contemporary chooses to justify this course, I have no desire to interfere with either his interests or the methods he may adopt to promote them. But when this is done by publishing to the country a direct falsehood, on which is based an attempt to flatter and elevate Mr. Somerville at my expense, perhaps it is too much to expect me to rest quietly under the strictures of your contemporary.

"Mr. McCaig," he tells his readers, "was for many years a School Inspector in the County, the Council became dissatisfied with him, and for various reasons dismissed him." This is no doubt news to the people of Wellington, as it happens that I never was School Inspector in this or any other County previous to my appointment three months ago by the Warden. It is perhaps not too much, therefore, to ask your contemporary to retract this falsehood thus maliciously sent forth to the public. A little farther on, in the editorial referred to, the public are told that "in my place was appointed a younger man with more modern ideas, and whose training was better suited to the present necessities of our schools," &c. Surely this is a most contemptible piece of insinuation, when based upon the assumed non-success of an inspectoral career which never had any existence good or bad. Mr. Somerville is no doubt a young man of very "modern ideas," and to balance the hypothetical virtues which he has been just about to secure at the expense of an imaginary Inspector; and as an initiatory lesson to the still more "modern young man," whose qualifications have been so highly and gratuitously lauded in the pages of your contemporary, it might be well should the public, and even the Council, take a look at a few of the real virtues which his eighteen months' tenure of office have developed.

Two years ago Mr. Somerville was appointed by the County Council of Wellington at an annual salary of $1,200, this being fully $200 more per annum than his predecessor enjoyed for the work of inspection. This $200 was added so that no special charges should be made for the work of examination, which this additional amount was intended to cover. With this understanding and a promise to the Council that (D. V.) he should hold the office for at least five years, he entered upon his duties. But how was this arrangement carried out? Why, simply at the very first opportunity which offered itself, he leaves one of his subordinates to manage the examinations in Guelph, goes off to Orangeville where he can secure $25 or $30, semi-annually in addition to the fixed salary of $1,200, which had been granted him for doing the whole work, while the County is left to pay the additional expense of the examinations in Guelph to which he ought to have attended in accordance with the spirit of his agreement. Next, he succeeds in making an additional grab of $50 per annum from the Orangeville schools, which were formerly inspected on the same basis as the other schools of the County, and supposed to be included under the $1,200. But taking advantage of Orangeville as a town, he was able to make this second addition to his annual salary. Not content, however, with these casual advantages, though employed by the year at an annual salary, he manages to leave his educational work in Wellington, and secures $200 or $300 additional per annum by the semi-annual inspection of schools situated 30 or 40 miles east of Toronto. This was all right so far as the guardians of the public interests of Wellington were concerned, but it was too much for the Minister of Education to tolerate. The veto of that official was the cause of Mr. S's. immediate resignation. Had he been allowed to secure all this plunder, South Wellington would still have enjoyed the advantages of his "modern ideas." But this is not all. Mr. S. was employed in his present office in January last, during the sitting of the County Council, but his resignation was held over for the double purpose of securing two or three months' additional salary for doing nothing, and if possible making the office of P. S. I. hereditary in his own family. His brother-in-law was sent for to secure the vacant office, while the "young man of modern ideas," sat down to the comfortable position of $112 per month from the Guelph Building Society, and an additional $100 per month from the Wellington County Council, for throwing up their business in contempt, and ceasing to attend to it altogether.

But this is not the whole record. A most transparent attempt is made at the close of each examination to show how cheaply the work is now done by the new Board as compared with the old, while the fact is carefully kept out of sight that $400 was added to the salaries of the Inspectors to cover this work of examination, making these salaries now $1,200, whereas formerly they were less than $1,000 exclusive of examination allowance. But "modern ideas" have suggested still another way of hoodwinking the public in this matter, and even the County Council itself. Postage, printing, advertising, stationery; in fact all expense from whatever source, were formerly brought in annually as a single sum, and the whole entered as Board of Education expenses. Now, these items are sent in at each separate sitting of the Council, not as Board expenses, but as the accounts of Mr. this, that and the other, bookseller and printer throughout the County, and skilfully distributed over the different sessions of the County Council, and so never appear in a collected form, and seldom or never as Board expenses. These accounts come in at every sitting of the Council—for the reason as I have been informed by the young man of "modern ideas" that they will not appear so large if presented piecemeal, as if presented in one sum at the annual sitting of the Board.

Perhaps your contemporary is satisfied that his protege has arrived at the full development of "modern ideas," at least in financial matters. In making the above statements, I know of what I write, and feel satisfied that the development is no less satisfactory in educational matters, but I chose to reserve this for some future occasion, should I require to use it. Meantime, you will perhaps agree, that the "young man of modern ideas," who had floated into office on the cry of overcharges on the part of his predecessor, presents a pretty enterprising record in the same line for an eighteen months' tenure of office and a fixed salary of $1,200. I leave your contemporary and the Sovereign majority to hug the "young man." Their estimate of him may be considerably raised should they discover how he secured their votes. He makes no secret of the business, neither shall I.

Yours,
D. MCCAIG.

G. B. FRASER, Upper Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Being about to leave Guelph, to seek a home in the Far West, would cordially thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past twenty-two years, and as he is likely to be but a short time longer in their midst, his stock will consequently be sold off at such bargains as will ensure a speedy sale. Merchants will find it to their advantage to sort up, as many of the goods will be sold 15 to 20 per cent below Toronto and Montreal wholesale prices. All goods will be marked in plain figures, and sold at cost. No second price will be made. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25.

LISA LENA:

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AN OUTCAST.

CHAPTER II.

VERY EXCITING TIMES.

One day, a troop of soldiers on horseback, with some officers, came and quartered themselves in the house, and pitched tents in the field about it under the trees. I remember their horses stalked in the stable yard, champing and stamping, and the jingling of their curbs and bridles, and the running to and fro of men in their shirt sleeves, and the loud and boisterous laughing, and a sort of pandemonium. That day my mother shut up my brother in her room and took me to the kitchen, where she rolled up the sleeves of her muslin jacket, and worked her bare arms in pastries and her white fingers in peeling potatoes and cutting herbs, while Toxy stood at the door with a rifle in his hand. By and by, when all was ready, she took me upstairs and dressed me in a little blue silk dress with low neck, and tied a ribbon and some flowers in my hair. Then she dressed herself—rolling down her own long hair, and binding it up again with a wreath of stephanotis, which lay like a coronet of ivory on the rich jet glossy braids beneath. I remember her dress was all white, cut low, but, to cover her shoulders and neck, she threw on a white lace shawl, casting the end over her shoulder Spanish fashion. Then, kissing the boys, who cried and wanted to go with her, she took me by the hand and led me to the parlour which had been shut up during my father's absence, but was now arranged with all the abandon and elegance that only Southern and refined taste could give to it. Toxy, perfectly transmogrified, stood grinning at the door, with an old dress coat of his master's, which reached almost to his heels; white trousers of the same belongings, which had no doubt been drawn as high as Toxy's arm admitted of, but still hanging limply at the knees and rolling over his loose pumps, a vast white necktie bandaged round his neck, and a clean shirt and white waistcoat. He even had on a pair of white cotton gloves, the long ends of the fingers loosely flapping about. My mother, to my joy, burst out into the only hearty laugh I had heard her indulge in since Henri Mercer went to the war. Toxy, standing with his arms at his sides and his fingers all sticking out, looking at her in a beseeching sort of way, but grinning all over, while she held her sides and shook with merry laughter. I laughed from sheer sympathy, and at this moment a tall fine-looking man, with a gray moustache and gray hair cut short, with very bright eyes, dressed in a cavalry uniform, his sword clanking at his side, and his heels and spurs sounding on the wooden floor, came behind Toxy, and, putting him aside with his hand, was about to enter the room, when Toxy dashed forward, and, bowing to his mistress, said—

"Kernel Wood."

My mother, whom up to this moment the officer had not seen, turned, and he stood a moment in surprise as he glanced at her all over. In a moment his demeanour, which at first was stern and decided, changed. He took off his cap, bowed gallantly and advanced, and my mother, taking a step forward, curtsied to him, and said—

"Colonel Wood, I have not the honor of your acquaintance, but as a soldier of the South you are welcome to my husband's house and our poor hospitality."

He bowed and looked embarrassed, and and glancing at me, and then at her again he said—

"Madam, I was not aware, when in making a forced march across this way we were obliged to put up in this rather lonely place"—he looked at her keenly again—"that I should find such an agreeable hostess. I thought the ladies all around here had been warned to go away."

"Yes, Colonel," she replied, "I was warned some weeks ago, but you see I have not gone. I have hitherto been able to take care of myself," she added, carelessly. We will do all we can to make you comfortable so long as it suits you to stay. Is there no other officer with you."

"Yes," he said; "there are two—Captains Manley and Slocum"—and he glanced nervously towards the door. There was some loud talking in the hall, where Toxy had gone after doing his duty.

"What does he say?" cried a loud harsh voice. "A woman in the house! What the devil is she doing here? Is she a white?"

"Hist," said Toxy. "De lady's at home and in the parlor dere wid Kernel Wood. Your names, gentlemen, if you please."

"Captain Manley," said a clear voice. The other did not answer.

"Your name, sah, if you please."

"Never mind my name," answered the harsh voice, "I can answer for myself. We don't stand upon ceremonies in these times;" and at the same moment, a broad-shouldered man, whose long, rough grizzly hair fell from beneath a foraging cap he carried on his head, strode into the room.

Colonel Wood had risen and taken a step towards the door when the intruder entered. I began to tremble, and watched my mother's face, which flushed up a moment and then grew pale, and her lips were drawn firmly together. The man, without removing his cap, stood and stared at her, his sword dangling at his boots, which were covered with dust, while, as I had noticed, the Colonel's had been carefully cleaned.

She rose and looking straight at him without any recognition, taking him in all over, and looking superb in the hauteur of her attitude and glance. The other officer and Toxy had by this time entered the room.

"Captain Slocum," said the Colonel, biting his lip, "this is the lady of the house, Mrs. ——?" he turned to my mother.

"Henri Mercer," she said, "my husband, is with the army near Shiloh, but I am here to welcome any of his comrades who are officers and gentlemen.'

She glanced again haughtily at Captain Slocum's cap, and then advanced and held out her hand to Captain Manley, who had bowed low, and who, with the Colonel, looked hard at Slocum. The latter awkwardly removed his cap and threw it into a corner.

"We are soldiers, madam," he said, "and wherever we go we make ourselves at home. Your presence here is unexpected."

"But none the less agreeable," interrupted Captain Manley, gallantly. 'Let us not keep you standing, Mrs Mercer. My friend Captain Slocum, as he says, is a soldier, and being of the chivalry of the South, must be equally delighted with ourselves at the charming surprise you have given us."

Captain Slocum did not seem pleased with this speech, but he now turned and bowed awkwardly to my mother, and then looked towards me as if to conceal his confusion or his anger.

"Is that your little girl?" he asked.

"Yes," she replied, "Lisa, go and shake hands with the gentleman."

"No," I said, catching at her dress and getting behind it.

"Yes," he said, holding out his rough hand and smiling with a grim smile that alarmed me.

"Come here and kiss me."

"Go along, Lisa, and speak to the gentleman."

"No."

"Why?"

"I don't like him. He's a nassy ugly man. I like the oder man." And I run over to the Colonel, who, some instinct told me, would be our protector.

On the Way to Colorado.

A short time ago we published a letter from an old correspondent, giving an account of his trip from Priceville, county Grey, on his way to Colorado. His previous letter brought him to Milwaukee, from which place he now writes:

Arrived at Milwaukee May 8, at 6 p.m. As we approach the city we enter between two piers, one of which is built of solid cut stone and is a firm structure. There is a small river coming through the city to the lake with docks on each side, so it has superior shipping advantages. There are large elevators and flouring mills, also rolling mills, which employ a large number of hands. The streets are wide, well paved, very clean and for most part ornamented with numerous shade trees. There are numerous large and beautiful churches, schools and the public buildings. The post office is a large building, but in no wise in keeping with a city of 160,000 inhabitants. The surrounding country (in the State of Wisconsin) is highly cultivated, fertile and rich. The farm buildings are of a superior order and no doubt the people are well off. The inhabitants of Milwaukee are mostly Germans, and are great lovers of music, for which the city is noted. Sheboygon, a short distance north of Milwaukee, is a town of about 7,000, has four beautiful churches, a magnificent town hall, all built on hills, and present a fine appearance. It is surrounded by a fine farming country, and is a place of some importance. We left Milwaukee at 7 p.m. The night was dark and tempestuous, with dense fogs, and reached Chicago at 7 a.m. on Sunday. The streets run parallel and crop at right angles. The buildings are (over the burnt district) fine large substantial structures. The new Court House when completed will be the finest building in the city. The Palmer House and Pacific Hotels are very large, having about 600 rooms each, and has all the modern improvements. The streets are badly paved and the dirtiest possible to imagine. Chicago has two rivers which join together in the form of a T, and empty into the lake. They have been dredged out and have docks on each side and give about twelve or fifteen miles of docking, which is the secret of Chicago's commercial success. I believe no city in the world has better advantages in that way. The river not only serves for shipping but also as an outlet for the numerous sewers which empty into it. The water is from bad color to black, and the stench from it is only to be appreciated by smelling it. Dead dogs, hogs, cats and rats are not unfrequently met with. The numerous steamboats and tugs keep the water thoroughly mixed, and how the people live with the stench is something remarkable. Yet there does not seem to be any great amount of sickness. In the north part of the city is Lincoln Park, nicely ornamented with drives, walks, lakes, etc. Some wild animals and rare birds are to be seen there, all nearly tame. Full grown rhubarb, lettuce, cucumbers and asparagas were in the market, and lilacs were in full bloom. Chicago, the greatest city of the west, has a population of about 700,000. There are 43,000 Canadians in it.

Harriston Correspondence.

Mr. Samuel Robertson, of the firm of Robinson & Robertson, brokers, and John Robertson, of the Tribune, left on Wednesday of last week for a trip to the Western States. They purpose remaining a few weeks.

Mr. Robert Ross, son of John Ross, and Thos. Butt, son of James Butt, left here on Tuesday of last week for Dakota, where they purpose taking up land. Both are industrious and energetic young men, and will make good settlers in the new territory.

It is feared that the incessant heavy rains of the last few days will have an undesirable effect on the crops, more especially on those on low land.

The Buckeye base ball club of this town have put up a belt to be played for by clubs, non-members of the association, and are prepared to hear from clubs on this subject. The Buckeyes for a young club play a good game, and will well use any rival club who may compete with them.

A conversazione under the auspices of Knox Church Young People's Association will be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst., for which, in addition to the local talent, they have secured the services of the Misses Alexander and Lee, of Palmerston, and others. The brass band and a first class orchestra will be present to furnish instrumental music.

In view of the approaching Sabbath School Convention to be held in Guthrie Church here, on the 27th of June, it has been arranged to have the children meet for the practice of singing and other exercise in Knox Church on Saturday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

Arthur Correspondence.

The Arthur Junction Railway has just received another blow in the Township of Peel, the bonus of $6,000 having been defeated by 15 votes. The scheme has been singularly unfortunate ever since it commenced. Various reasons are given for its failure. Some attribute it to the unpopularity of its leaders, others to imprudent canvassing, and more to the shortness of the road. But there is another reason which overrides them all, and that is the same feeling which actuated the Local Government in refusing further aid to railways at present, believing that the country was overburdened with railways, and the people taxed to their utmost capacity. The Reeve has called a meeting of the property holders for Wednesday night in the drill shed, to see what course to pursue in the future.

The dramatic entertainment last week in the drill shed, in aid of the English Church, was a grand success.

The friends and admirers of Rev. Mr. Mills who is shortly to leave the place, according to the rules of the Methodist Church, are getting up a handsome present to be given him before his departure. Mr. Mills has made many friends among all classes in the community during the three years he has resided here, and leaves amid universal regret.

The new English Church is in course of erection, and promises to be a neat and substantial structure.

The continued wet weather has done considerable harm to the growing crops around here especially in low flat places. The late wind storms have also done considerable damage in scattering fences, tearing roofs off barns, houses, etc.

Our school grounds present a very neat appearance, the Trustees having planted a number of shade trees and gravelled the paths in in front of the building. The scholars also have planted flowers here and there throughout the grounds, and a bell has been added to the improvements. The Mechanics' Library in connection with the school, and under the able management of Mr. McPherson, the senior teacher, is a popular institution.

Brown's Household Panacea

Is the most effective Pain Destroyer in the world. Will most surely quicken the blood whether taken internally or applied externally, and thereby more certainly RELIEVE PAIN, whether chronic or acute, than any other pain alleviator, and is warranted double the strength of any similar preparation.

It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, and ALL ACHES, and is THE GREAT RELIEVER OF PAIN. "BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" should be in every family. A teaspoonful of the Panacea in a tumbler of hot water [sweetened, if preferred], taken at bedtime, will BREAK UP A COLD. 25 cts. a bottle. d&wlyr

Much Sickness,

Undoubtedly with children, tributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS, or Worm Lozenges, although effectual in destroying worms, can do no possible injury to the most delicate child. The valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be absolutely sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children. 25 cents a box. d&wlyr.

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from errors and indiscretion of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City. deod&wly

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack us wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœpathic Chemists, London, Eng." nddw9md

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses so much real intrinsic value as the HOP BITTERS. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is HOP BITTERS. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS is on the outside wrapper. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 25 cents a bottle.
