MR. BLAKE ON THE TRAMP

[Mail.]

We presume Mr. Blake is now engaged in preparing the variations to his Montreal and Toronto speeches which are necessary to adapt them to the Maritime Provinces. The variations will probably be little more than the introduction of such appeals to unparitrot sectionalism as he may imagine will be acceptable in certain localities. In Nova Scotia he will denounce the duty on breadstuffs, and say little about that on coal, just as in Ontario he denounces the duty on coal, but says little about that on breadstuffs, which is the farmer's share of the National Policy. While he agrees to rule the Dominion, he will descend to preach sectionalism, which means disunion, wherever he may think that his doing so will influence a vote in favour of his party. His Marine orations are easily foreshadowed. He will most probably begin with a wearisome rehash of his anti-syndicate speeches. Upon that subject he could not excite the smallest interest in an Ontario audience, for the people of that province are satisfied that the contract for building the Canada Pacific railway is a judicious contract, and that the cost of the work to the country will be many millions of dollars less than the Government of which Mr. Blake was a member advertised its willingness to pay for its construction.

He will next extol that base manœuvre known as "the second syndicate." To illustrate to the people of the Maritime Provinces, who may not be as familiar with it as our western people, we will suppose that the agent of a St. John or Halifax merchant had closed a contract with a respectable contractor for building a house, and that after the price had been become publicly known an individual of shady reputation had approached the agent, and offered to build the house for ten per cent. less than he had contracted for—would not the agent, if a man of honour, have replied that he had closed the contract, and that though his principal had not affixed his seal to it, yet that unless he did so he would resign his agency, as "his usefulness would be gone?" If the merchant had confidence in his agent, he would, of course, ratify the contract. The agent, the contractor, the individual of shady reputation, and the merchant represent, respectively, the Government, the syndicate, the second syndicate, and Parliament. It is thus made obvious that Parliament resolved to entertain the proposition of the second syndicate, the result must have been the retirement of the present Government: the return to power of Messrs. Blake, Mackenzie,

The Star.

VOLUME III. CHATHAM, N. B., JULY 2, 1831. NO. 99.

Cartwright and others, who had provided themselves incapable administrators; the reversal of the National Policy, involving the prostration of all Dominion industries; the abandonment of important sections of the Canada Pacific railway; the probable postponement of the whole undertaking; a repetition of the extravagant mal-administration of the Mackenzie regime, and a return of the widespread depression that prevailed during that, the darkest period in Canadian history since confederation. High-minded men would not have formed or joined the "second syndicate," nor received a proposition from it, but Messrs. Blake and Anglin welcomed it with delight. They may have suggested it. They appeared to think that it would be the making of their political fortunes. A judge sitting on the bench of one of the Superior Courts of Ontario, reviewing evidence given by a prominent member of the second syndicate, said that his evidence was as incredible as if he had said that he had been immersed in the lake and had come out dry. Seven of the twenty-one members were defeated, unseated, or disqualified. Grits. These facts will serve to enable parties at a distance to estimate the character of the "second syndicate."

Mr. Blake will be verbose upon finance, trade, commerce, manufactures, and the National Policy, but he is not at home on these subjects, and when discussing upon them he cannot conceal that he is ill at ease. On these and cognate questions he is more likely to be speculative than practical. He may enunciate again some of the ideas of "Empirius" upon the Federation of the Empire, but if Mr. Blake was not an impractical man he would know that commercial federation must precede political federation of the empire.—We doubt his exposing himself again to ridicule by dilating upon the wrongs of the unrepresented minorities throughout the world, but he cannot be expected to suppress altogether his doctrinairism.

In New Brunswick he will find charges of bribery and corruption hanging over the heads of his friends for their conduct in Carleton, and he will reach Nova Scotia in time almost to hear the echo of the cheers that ascended to celebrate the splendid Waterloo day victories which were won for the Government in that province—victories which we may say he did nothing to avert.

In Prince Edward Island Mr. Pope's illness may prevent his attending political meetings, but he has friends who will represent and defend him against Mr. Blake's attacks.

Mr. Blake proposes to invade the Maritime Provinces for the purpose, ostensibly avowed of endeavouring to subvert the influence of the present leaders, and we take it for granted that what he may have to say against them individually, or against the policy of the Administration of which they are leading members, he will desire to speak in their presence, when they will have an opportunity of answering him and of defending themselves. To decline to encounter them in the discussion of public affairs, and simply to recite orations which he is unwilling to have answered on the spot, would be repeating the spectacle of political and oratorical poltroonery of last winter, when he convened and addressed public meetings upon the subject of the Canadian Pacific railway contract, but refused to allow Sir Charles Tupper to take part in the discussion and correct the misrepresentations at which he made systematic and unscrupulous imitations. Whatever may be Mr. Blake's intention, we doubt that the fair minded men "down by the sea" will allow their faithful representatives, their long trusted leaders, to be impeached in their absence, in their enforced exclusion from meetings in the provinces which they represent.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

From Harper's Weekly.

The electric railway which Dr. Werner Siemens has constructed in Berlin, between the suburb of Lichtenfeld and the Radetthaus, is now regularly open for passengers, and is giving great satisfaction. The rails are of the ordinary railway pattern, but the gauge is only three feet three inches. A single car is propelled by the current at an average speed of nine miles an hour, though this rate can be doubled if necessary. The original model for this line, is now at work at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, as an attraction for visitors; but it is probable that electric railways before many years are past, may supersede steam as a motive power.

The electric railway at Berlin is about a mile and a half long. No difficulty has been experienced in using one rail as the positive and the other as the negative conductor. The car is constructed to hold twenty persons, the dynamo machine being placed underneath the car, and transmitting its movement to the wheels by spiral steel springs.

Over any other system worked by steam or compressed air, the electrical has the advantage that no heavy machinery has to be carried about to set the train in motion. Several carriages, each with a dynamo machine, can be joined to one train, and by this distribution of motive power much steeper inclines can be overcome than when the same train is drawn by a single locomotive. In addition to the ordinary brakes, means can be provided to short circuit the machines on the carriages, and to cause them to act as very powerful brakes. The use of large stationary engines reduces the amount of fuel necessary to develop a certain power on the travelling carriage, and if water falls can be utilized, the cost of working these railways can be further diminished.

THE HALIFAX FISHERY AWARD.

It is learned at the State Department, Washington, that the report which is being made, relative to frauds in the Halifax award, by ex-Representative Newberry, Professor Youle Hind, and an officer of the State Department, will be completed next week, and there is reason to think that its conclusions will furnish a satisfactory basis for the Secretary of State to open negotiations with regard to the matter.

Light Driving waggons, Concord, Piano Boxes, Express Carts, etc. Trimming and repairing a specialty. Best stock kept always on hand. Come and inspect. I have also the sole right to use Young's New Axle Cutter Patented in the United States and Dominion of Canada. We would call the attention of all owners of carriages or waggons to this Machine and the benefits derived from its use. All wagon axles after being two or more years in use become worn till they become loose, requiring the use of leather washers to take up the lateral play; the washers soon filling with sand, cause the axles to wear much faster, until the axle is soon ruined or nearly so.

THE REMEDY. By the aid of this very simple machine, the shoulder for the axle nut is cut back and the thread extended, allowing the nut to be screwed further on, causing the wheel to turn as evenly as when new. Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. A Paint shop is in connection with the Factory. Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed. Chatham, March 16, '31

TWO PICTURES.

This is what the great Edmund Burke says of the duty of a Representative. We want Mr. Snowball and his friends to read it:— "It is the duty of your Parliamentary representative to sacrifice his repose and his pleasures to yours, and above all, to prefer in all cases OUR INTEREST TO HIS OWN."

THE KERR SLANDER CASE.

Our view of this matter is precisely the same as that taken lately before the court by the Attorney General. Mr Kerr is charged with a contempt of the court, by publishing in a newspaper certain scandalous statements against a judge of the court, in the matter of certain cases tried by the said judge. When Mr. Kerr is asked to show cause why an order should not be made against him, he first admits having written the letters, and then proceeds to justify them. But the moment he admitted having written the letters, he had said all pertinent to the issue—for it was not the business of the Attorney General on behalf of the bench to find whether Mr. Kerr wrote what was true or false. Indeed were every allegation in the letters true, we take it that the action was no less one of scandalous contempt, and therefore punishable. If on the other hand the allegations are not true, and no respectable man believes they are, upon that fact being established, then besides the action for contempt, it would likewise be in the way of Judge Wetmore, to take an action of criminal libel against Mr. Kerr. For Mr. Kerr's offense was twofold. It was at once a blow at the Bench, because it was aimed at the administration of the Bench, and it was at the same time a scandalous attack on the personal character of a judge.

Is there, some one asks, no way of punishing a judge, should he willfully or otherwise scandalously err in the discharge of his high duty? Certainly. But there are only special methods provided, which methods however afford every facility for trying the alleged offences, and for punishing the offender. If indeed it were otherwise, sad would be the plight of public justice, and low the dignity of the bench.

When a judge is brought to court, the authority of the court, resident in the judge, is likewise brought to court. But no authority should be tried and sentenced according to the canons and the dictum of a lower authority or even of an equal authority, and this is why the case of a judge alleged to have sinned in administering the law upon the Bench, is not brought before a tribunal, equal to or lower than his own. Authority does not exist in equality, any more than in inferiority—but invariably in superiority—and hence in the case of one judge trying his equal, there would be no authority.

But the parliament is above all the other courts in the land; and therefore it is that when a judge is alleged to have sinned upon the bench, there is no remedy but impeachment. There the suiter gets law and justice, and there the accused has an opportunity to answer.

But what does Mr. Kerr? He submits his case, not indeed to another court but to the public through a newspaper. If the public believed the statements made by Mr. Kerr, they could have nothing but contempt for the Justice who would still sit upon the bench, and mistrust it; the court; and once that day ever comes, evil will be it for the people. Mr. Kerr does not seem to see or know all this; indeed he would "rather die than go to parliament," though he knew if the judge had erred, parliament was the only body who could try the case, and that any other proceedings could only result in the people believing either that Mr. Kerr was a much injured man, or that our court and its judges were a corrupt and unjust institution.

SIR H. L. LANGEVIN'S VISIT.

We print elsewhere today the itinerary of Sir H. L. Langevin for the Maritime Provinces. It will be seen that the Hon. gentleman proposes paying Chatham, Newcastle and Bathurst each a short visit. The visit will be too short, unless it is the Ministers intention to merely drive through, and have a look at our towns. But if it be the intention to deliver an address in each place, then would it be necessary that a day were given between Chatham and Newcastle. The Hon. gentleman would arrive here at 6 a. m.; after a short rest he might drive around and see our mills and harbor, and early in the afternoon address the people. Leaving Chatham say about 4 p. m. he would have an opportunity of seeing all that is attractive about Newcastle, taking the early evening to address the people. It is a pity he could not spend the two following days in Gloucester for the Acadicians of that county at several points would be delighted to listen in their own tongue to an address from a gentleman who has brought such credit on the French name in Canada.

We need not point out to the leading citizens of Chatham and Newcastle what they ought to do towards making a proper reception for their distinguished guest. We presume he will be presented with an address, and that the leading citizens of both sides of politics will assemble at table to dispense the hospitalities of their town. The detail of these general ideas are quite safe in the hands of our leading townfolk. In Newcastle no doubt the programme will be the same as in Chatham, while beyond question Bathurst and other parts of Gloucester would be rejoiced to do all the honors within their power, to Sir Hector Louis Langevin.

INDISCREET MEDDLING.

Some of the busy bodies here who twist our harbor officers about slabs and edgings after others have procured the abatement of the evil, will get their masters into trouble if they are not careful. The slabs, and the sawdust, and the edgings ought not to be floating about, and we have repeatedly said this, and the Star has been the first paper to expose these evils, but what about that old slab wharf that broke away from its parent spot and grounded on the upper edge of Gordon's Flats? Is that old wharf yet there, and if so is it dangerous? If dangerous to schooners and other vessels beating up and down, why has it not been removed? Did Mr. Johnson, and the pilot inform Mr. Harding when he was here that right in the track of beating vessels in this harbor there lies a dangerous shoal of slabs and slabs, covered by only four feet of water at low tide?

Since, therefore, so much talk is being made about the slabs and sawdust and edgings, after steps have been taken to remove the evils, we now call upon the harbor master to take prompt steps in making Mr. J. B. Snowball remove that snaken slab wharf out of the track of vessels; nor will the public be satisfied with a repetition of the old story that they cannot find it, when anybody who stands upon the rivers bank, when the tide is nearly low, may plainly see the ripples caused by the dangerous and threatening slabs. More than this, Mr. Snowball is now building another slab wharf, and we are informed that at nearly every tide edgings, etc., are carried away from it. We hope to hear, and we shall look to hear, of our river officers taking prompt steps towards ridding the harbor of this danger.

MR. BLAKE.

We see by the reports in the newspapers that the people of St. John are making preparations to give Mr. Blake a proper reception. Any respectable public man whose hands are pure, occupying a place at the head of a party or a faction is entitled, on his own personal account, and also because of his position, to the courtesy and the hospitality of whatever community he visits. For this reason we believe the Conservatives all through the lower provinces, will extend the right hand of welcome to Mr. Blake when he visits them. Yea, they will treat him well, and share with him their hearts and their fare, though they go out on the morrow to do battle against him, like did Cloderick when the King of Sterling clandered upon him in the mountains.

As the exponent of a policy Mr. Blake has no claims upon us. As the apostle of the retrograde doctrine of a mongrel free trade, Mr. Blake visits our city as an enemy not as a friend. Therefore let the feeling be, Blake the political foe man we must fight and we must vanquish, Blake the man of integrity and high position we must entertain with our best.

If we went any further now we should attempt to prove that Mr. Blake visits us like a preacher without a text, and that as his policy is one of pull-down and keen back, the people would not hearken unto him, but this would open too wide a field. Besides the great man will likely be "shadowed" by those whose weapons are far keener than ours. Meantime we extend to Hon. Edward Blake cordial wishes.

General Grant who is the modern Caesar declares that as the time ripens America will not stand with folded arms and see men within her plot and prepare for the destruction of a friendly power. He refers to England and the Fenians.

Archbishop Neophytos, of Greece writes: "The Lord be praised for overthrowing the Arch-Bishop because of his height. Gladstone the saviour of the Greek Nation now reigns. All will be well." We shall see.

We regret to learn that Messrs. Pitts & Crockett in the York Gleaner have undertaken to destroy the Dominion Government.

CONDEMNED.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Harbor Master Johnson has condemned the Hutchison built wharf, and forbidden the proprietors to permit ships to put ballast on it till it is repaired. If a fine were to follow this order, it might teach Mr. Hutchison again that he is not to endanger the navigation of the harbor with impunity. The English ballast wharf has also got out of repair and the proprietor is requested to repair it according to regulation. We are glad that the Star's exertions are bearing fruit.

The Halifax Chronicle is now so engrossed about its comet that it hasn't a word of consolation for its two extinguished Grigs.

We publish an article to day from the Mail on the coming of the Griff come.

EDITORIAL CLEANING.

MISS FANNY PARNELL.

Miss Fanny Parnell, sister of the Irish agitator, and herself a leader in certain branches of Land League work—notably the work of organization which is such a prominent feature in the League system—arrived in Montreal Wednesday night.

A Witness representative called on her Thursday morning at the St. Lawrence Hall, and was most cordially received. Miss Parnell is a young lady of decidedly prepossessing appearance, rather tall and slight, and with an eminently intelligent face. She was dressed in plain black, with bright colored ribbons at the neck, and the badge of the Palmer branch of the Land League—instituted by herself—on her breast. When questioned as to her object in visiting Canada at the present time, Miss Parnell said that her object was, of course, to assist in raising money for the Land League, but as the means she was to employ in the furtherance of that end she could not speak, as she was entirely in the hands of the Committee at whose invitation she had come.

"I do very little speech making," was added. "When presented with an address, I say a few words of thanks and give the stereotyped advice to 'continue the good work.' That is about the extent of my efforts."

With regard to the Land Bill, Miss Parnell said that her opinions were the same as her brother's. She thought that the bill, if passed, as it stands now, would benefit certain classes of tenants, but that the smaller tenants who had fought the battle and stood the evictions would not find their condition improved in any way.

"And your opinion of Mr. Forster and John Bright?" "Mr. Forster? I pity him. For I remember the old proverb, 'Whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad,' and there is no doubt that Forster is mad."

"Is there much truth in the reports that the influence of the Land League is declining in Ireland?" queried the reporter.

"None whatever," was the decisive answer. "The League was never stronger or more influential than at present."

"How is it that your whole family, all landed proprietors, should be so devoted to the cause of the tenant?" "The proprietors have nothing to lose. If my brother could dispose of his estates in Wicklow at the Government valuation he would be a wealthy man. As it is he gets hardly any rent."

Miss Parnell further stated that the HomeRulers would endeavor at the next general elections to obtain the balance of power between the two parties. They were nearly led it now, she observed, as was demonstrated by the vote on the last amendment to the Land Bill, when, had the Irish party voted with the Tories, the Ministry would have been defeated.

Approx of a speech made some time ago by Miss Annie Parnell, which attracted a good deal of attention, Miss Parnell said that she was "young and eager," and added that she herself had been troubled in the same way, but as she grew older she grew more moderate.

She will visit Quebec and Toronto before returning to New York.

THE ANGLo-FRENCH TREATY.

The Times says: "A suspension of the sittings of the Anglo-French Commissioners, who are engaged in negotiating a new commercial treaty, has been arranged to take place at the end of this week. The two Governments, after consulting their respective commissioners, will decide upon the course to be pursued as to the points in regard to which the commissioners are not agreed, namely, ad valorem duties and the classification of woollens and cottons. We believe that the bill introduced in the French Chamber of Deputies authorizing the Government to prolong existing treaties of commerce for three months with the Powers which seem inclined to come to an agreement for new treaties is of fair promise for the eventual conclusion of an arrangement."

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

During the thunderstorm on Monday evening the house of Mr. Lowe, of Edmonston, was struck by lightning and one end torn out. Two brothers were sleeping together, and one of them, named David, was killed instantly, while the other was only slightly shocked. David's hair was singed and his shirt was burned, and a slight red mark on his forehead was the only injury on his person. The other inmates escaped unhurt.

FRENCH AGGRESSION.

After all the tempest in a teapot, France will hold Tunis in peace; and after all the spitting of the London Times England has given her hand in fellowship to France. France deserves credit: She look-winked all Europe in her Tunisian move.

DON CARLOS AGAIN.

The cause of Don Carlos it appears has not been dead of late in Spain, but merely smoldering. The government is alarmed, and soldiers are hurrying out. North Catalonia is becoming rebellious.

MAL-TREATING MISSIONARIES.

A number of Catholic Missionaries in Aithien have been arrested and maltreated by the Abyssinians. The French Consul has demanded satisfaction from the Abyssinian King.

OUR QUEBEC LETTER.

Since I last wrote, Mr. Gagnon asked in the Legislative Assembly on Wednesday:—Does the Government mean that the Quebec and New Brunswick Railway Co., whose terminus is to be between Riviere Ouelle and Fraserville, has lost its right to the grant of 10,000 acres of land per mile, granted to it by 34 Vic. Chap. 21, section 8. If so why? To which Hon. Attorney General Loranger replied:—When the Government will be in a position to give its reply it will give it.

Mr. Gagnon also moved for copies of the correspondence between the Government and the Quebec and New Brunswick Railway Co.

Hon. Sir Hector Langevin has been here for a few days back. He left for Ottawa this evening; thence he goes to Cornwall, Ont., to inspect the public works there. He returns here on Saturday of next week and then will go on a visit to the Maritime Provinces.

In view of the late calamitous fire, the St. Jean Baptiste Society did not celebrate the festival in a public manner today. Solemn Masses were however celebrated in the Basilica of Our Lady in the Upper Town and also in the Parish churches of St. Roch and St. Saeveur, at all of which there were large congregations.

The citizens of St. John have sent a contribution of $330 to the Fire Relief Committee here.

The House sat from 3 o'clock yesterday till 6 this morning. It is said to have been a lively time throughout. Today, notwithstanding it is St. Jean Baptiste Day, the Assembly is in session on a vote of more confidence.

Dominion Day. Yesterday was the anniversary of the confederation of some of the B. N. American Provinces. A Nervous Contemporary. The Advocate is sometimes nervous, and during these times it imagines things and states them as facts. For example it stated that the Chatham people went down with axes, etc., to cut the small-pox ship adrift, so great was their excitement. Now this is not true. Nothing of the sort happened. A Strange Occurrence. Mr. Hugu McDougall, who fishes salmon for Mr. W. S. Leggie at Point aux Car, reports that one day this week a large salmon struck his net, which lay on a muddy bottom. Our Harbor. Our Harbor Master Mr. Johnson is to be congratulated on the zeal and activity he has lately shown in harbor matters. He has just visited all the ballast quays in the port with one of our first-class pilots taking soundings and examining the river, etc., examination they found the Hutchinson wharf in the scandalous condition in which we have represented it. The harbor master complained it. He ordered that no more ballast be put upon it till the necessary repairs and improvements be made upon it. The same order was made with respect to the England ballast wharf while the proprietors of the Canada Ballast wharf have been notified to plank the upper end of the wharf, to prevent sand from sitting through.

Rev. Mr. Barber's Departure from Newcastle. Rev. H. Hough Barber who has been Rector of Newcastle Episcopal Church for the past five years is about leaving to take charge of the Parish of Sudbuck, recently made vacant by the death of Dr. Jarvis. Rev. Hough Barber was born in Yorkshire, England, and was educated in St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, England. On leaving college he came across to New Brunswick, and was immediately appointed by Bishop Medley to the Parish of Newcastle. Rev. Mr. Barber was a general favorite, being at once a zealous and a pious minister, and a man of a kindly and a sympathetic heart. It is no wonder he endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact and that the number which regrets his departure from Newcastle is so very large. The loss of Newcastle will be the gain of Shediac.

Honors for New Brunswick Ladies. On the 23rd inst., at the distribution of prizes in the Convent of Notre Dame, Ottawa, the two daughters of Mr. John Costigan, won fresh laurels, bearing away nearly all the prizes in the school. Miss Teresa Costigan who last year carried off the Governor General's silver medal, took the gold medal and diploma on the 23rd, the highest distinctions ever conferred by the institute. She also took the silver cross medal for moral instruction and punctuality to religious exercises, presented by the chaplain Rev. J. C. Smith; silver medal for portraiture; prize for choir singing; prize for music; and special premium for French language. A crayon portrait of Mr. Costigan, M. P. executed by Miss Teresa was much admired as also "Eve Home." In the superior course Miss Teresa Costigan carried off the 1st prize for plain sewing and fancy work; the 2nd prize for etymology; 1st prize for arithmetic and algebra; 2d prize for music; 1st prize for French composition; 1st prize for English grammar and map drawing. This is indeed a creditable record; and it will be observed that some of the prizes taken are for practical studies. Would there were to be found in our New Brunswick schools a little of the practical, with so much of the visionary; something of the realities of life, with so much that is mere cloud-land theory.

A month of heat and storms. Vendors predictions for July are just published. He says that July, though probably entering cool and showery in most sections, will rapidly merge into sultriness and excessive heat shortly after the 4th or 5th of the month. From the 5th to the 10th, excessive heat will continue with frequent and severe storms of wind, hail, and thunder, during which casualties from lightning are much to be feared. Between the 10th and 15th of the month similar atmospheric conditions are likely to continue with thunder and lightning storms of almost daily occurrence and hurricanes of heated winds. Approaching the 20th, heavy showers, often accompanied by hail, will occur more frequently, with very sultry and muggy intervals. In the neighborhood of the 21st and 22nd days, torrents of rain will likely fall in Western Ontario and throughout a large portion of the United States, while in the Western and South-western States, in particular, cyclones, hurricanes and most destructive hail storms are likely to cause widespread damage and loss of life and property. Unsettled and stormy weather with intervals of great heat will occur up to the 25th of the month, after which a decided and cooler change may take place, with cool to cold nights about the 27th and 28th. Hot weather, however, will again set in toward the last day of the month, or entry of August.

A Credible Determination. Some members of the Board of Health have already visited various places in the town about which certain citizens have been very justly complaining for some time past, and intend taking immediate steps for the removal of all nuisances, and will ere long, no doubt, have every place cleaned of all the filth which has accumulated and proved a source of so much disease and annoyance to the public of Chatham for at least half a century. They are determined to carry out the law relating to the sanitary condition of our town rigidly and fearlessly; and in this they have the encouragement and moral support of every right thinking member of the community. Old customs are always difficult to overturn, and he who grapples with them must always expect more or less censure. So it is here. The irregularities in the sanitary condition of this town have gone on so long, that those who are now obliged to conform to such rules as the laws of health and cleanliness require feel themselves aggrieved, and look upon the officers appointed to remedy the evils in a measure as oppressors. These people will have to see and learn that the health officers are only performing a duty, a very unpleasant duty, and that they would much rather the people themselves put an end to the evils that cry out, than that they should be obliged to grapple with these matters. The sentiment of the town is with the Board; and it is to be hoped that those who may be asked to do what is deemed necessary in the interest of public health, will do so cheerfully, and thereby become the assistants rather than the obstructors of the Board.

Personal. Hon. Senator Muirhead arrived home from the Upper Provinces yesterday morning.

What kind of a town is this? Yesterday there was not a morsel of fresh fish of any kind to be found in market. Why does not some enterprising person fit out a little boat, and undertake to keep the markets supplied with fish?

Mr. Davidson of Newcastle now offers for sale a large assortment of dry goods, every variety, which he has just received. There is no cheaper case store, nor none so well as the Mitchell's offering better bargains than Mr. Davidson's. See the advertisement.

OUR CHATHAM BUSINESS HOUSES.

MR. T. F. KEAREY. It is no exaggeration to say that Mr. T. F. Keary keeps one of the most tasteful and properly conducted wine and liquor stores in the Province. Mr. Keary is a native of Chatham, and one of her most enterprising and worthy sons. He spent several years in Boston where he conducted the Boston Hotel, and after having no small share of success returned here eight years ago, and established his present business. Mr. Keary is gentlemanly and courteous in his business relations, a favorite of all - is an active first-class business man; no wonder he succeeds. May his good fortune long follow him. [We regret we can't find further space for our review to-day.]

A TOUR THROUGH IRELAND.

DESCRIPTION OF THE O'CONNOR CASTLE.

THE WHITE HORSE OF MAYO.

THE VICTORS AT WORK.

(From Cor. Montreal "Witness.")

Mr. McDougall thus describes the route on his way to O'Connor Castle: A place on the road where the French had surged on from Killala and met and fought with the English, was pointed out to me. "Here they were defeated," said the English. On the way here is the old times lived a wild chieftain, son of O'Connor, a man with a strong hand and strong will. This gallant chieftain, out in the early morning by the waters of the bay, saw the lowliest creature of a mermaid on the sands that ever eye beheld or heart loved. Here was a prize for a freebooter. Of course the hero, swift of foot and strong of will, got between the beautiful sea maiden and her native element, seized upon the coal or head-dress, without which no mermaid with any pretensions to style dare appear in the coral caves of "the hold merry mermen under the sea." Having the coal he brought the beautiful mermaid home and married her with scant ceremony. Three fair sons were born and grew up - one of them had an enquiring mind. The chieftain at certain intervals was obliged to change the hiding place of

THE PLEASURE CAUL. He loved his wife, the silent lady of exceeding beauty; he was sure she loved him; he was not the renowned warrior of the clan Connor, fleet of foot, strong of hand, brave of soul! Still it was well to keep out of the sight of the fair woman with the golden locks anything that would remind her of the ancient glories of under the sea. On one occasion the youngster of the enquiring mind said to his mother, "What a beautiful thing was that which I saw my father hiding in a certain place!" The silent mother went to the place, found her long lost head dress, and a still brighter beauty, flashed her fair face. "Come hither, my sons," she said, "I will not leave behind me any of the sea lineage." She touched each of the boys, so young and so princely, that they became three big stones, ying head to head in a group of three. The beautiful lady then took her stately way down to the Mo; there was a splash, a musical laugh of rejoicing, her gown split of cloth of gold clung to her form and took a sea green tinge, becoming a fanned and scaled extremity; and the fair woman of the golden locks and voice of music was seen no more. When the warrior returned from creach or foay, his wife was gone to the halls of her people amid the cool waters; his three fair boys were shapeless stones, and his heart died within him; his voice was no heard raising the war cry, neither did his banner wave on the hills of green Erin any more. If any unbeliever doubt of this, I can testify that I saw the three boulders into which the three sons of O'Connor and the sea lady were changed by their mother. What more would you say? As we drove along, an old man pointed out to me - one lone cover standing upright among levelled stones - all in ruins. This was

GASTLE CONNOR, by the water side, sang of by Campbell:

At breaking of the evening fold, This sang my love O'Connell with me, My barge is on the lake behind me, My steed 's stented to a tree. Come far from Castle Connor's clans - Come with thy belted freestone, And I, beside the lake of swans, Will hunt for thee, the fawn deer, And search the woods, and bring thee home The first foot and the best of hand."

Here was Castle Connor, the lake, the wood opposite where the stone was tied. The priest looked still more beautiful after looking at the lone tower - all that was left of Castle Connor, and bearing of Anthony, where the battle was fought and the standard lost; so we drove to the locality of some old ruins or legend attached to some old ruin or lovely glen. We passed the place where lived from coltoold to glory the celebrated

WHITE HORSE OF MAYO, a racer, "Giraud Bawn." This horse, a racer, "bats" all Ireland in his day, and was ridden without a saddle or bridle. Mayo was very proud of this racing steed, so much so that when horses were seized and impounded for the county cess, a farmer who had received his mare back again, considering that it would be a disgrace if the king of horses were left in the pound, returned to Castle Connor to the pound, left his own horse there and released "the Giraud." This celebrated horse was stolen it appears. After some time a troop of dragoons were quartered in Mayo, whose commanding officer rode a horse suspiciously like "the Giraud." The servant man who had ridden and cared for the white horse of Mayo, recognized the horse and drew incovertly near to the soldiers on parade to make sure whether it was "the Giraud" or not. The officer, annoyed at the man intruding where he was not wanted, asked him what business he had there. He said, "The horse your honor rides was stolen from this place, and I was looking at him to be sure. He is the famous white horse of Mayo." He was asked to prove it, which he undertook to do if the owner would alight, which he did. The peasant, then, hidden behind a stone ditch, called to the horse in Irish, asking him if he would have a glass of whiskey. The horse had been accustomed to get this when he had won a race, and knew the taste of potent. He pricked up his ears and galloped round, looking for the voice. On the words being repeated two or three times, he vaulted over the stone wall and came to his old friend hidden behind. The officer would not part with the horse, but he paid liberally for him - so it seems the white horse of Mayo did his days in the service of royalty. The grandson of the possessor of the white horse of Mayo was the other day fined £5 for possessing potent and was unable to pay it. Listening to these stories we came up with the police, and a lighted from their cars and were going through their exercises preliminary to the march. We made our way through the cars, our driver calling a lit le into the drivers of the other cars. Just opposite where the police let the cars was the most utterly wretched house that I had yet seen - A large family of ragged people gathered at the door, looking to be in quickly, until we saw them take to the fields when we alighted per force, and followed them. A slim, fair haired woman, with her arms bare and her feet and legs in the same classic condition under her short dilapidated skirts, began to make some eloquent remarks. If there had been a thousand or two like her I do think the seventy police would have had hard work to protect the bailiff. One of our company, a gentleman, remarked to her that she had a fine arm of her own. "Troth, sir," said she, "if I was as well fed as yourself it's finer it would be." We agreed with this gentleman that if this woman was fed and clothed like other people, she would certainly be a fine looking person. She drew near to enquire if we were in any way connected with the police. Her enquiries were especially directed to myself. She was told I was an American lady, and a few faces that scowled were smoothed into smiles immediately. There were by this time four women and half a dozen boys present. No one spoke above their breath, but our woman of bare arms. In answer to something addressed to her by our party, she said, "Sure they could not take a better time than now to drive us out of our homes. Sure God above has an eye and an ear for it. Look here," she said, throwing out her handsome bare arm, "look at the bare fields lying waste, because the seed cannot be got to put in the ground; they're cryin' up to God against it. The cratures here have not enough yellow male to keep the lunge off. If they had waited till harvest there would be a color of justice to it." This woman had the talking all to herself, no one else had anything to say. She herself, was not among those against whom the processes were served. We saw leave the ranks of the police and walk down to a wretched cabin and return in a few moments. The order to march was given, and the police tramped at once to the next house, a bit off the road. Two or three little children were in the field, apparently herding cattle. The least one said to his brother in an accent of terror, "Jimsey, Jimsey, the war is come at last." Along the road, tramp, tramp, off the road through the bog, every house called at seeming worse than the last. A rumor had been running along before us - ever before us - of an Amazonian army with pitchforks, tongs, and the hooks used for drawing the sea weed ashore, armed and ready, some three hundred strong, waiting for the police. We never came up to this army or caught a flutter of their flags. Crossing a field we were told of a merciful lady, a Mrs. Major Jones, who gave them seed potatoes, and trusted them with meal when they had nothing to eat. As the police halted before some houses, we heard the muttered exclamations of the four women near. "Eugh! eugh! Oh, Lord, and them in need of charity." Well, we never came up with

THE ARMY OF WOMEN. The processes were not all served, for some of the houses were empty, and there was no one on whom to serve them; we turned our steps, or our horses rather, some toward to Ballina, the boys calling out in complaint to America. Three officers for the noble lady." As we drove back, the threatened rain came on and came down heavily and we got our share of it before we got under shelter.
