Full Houses at Services, Eloquent Sermons and $530 Raised Towards Rectory Fund.

On Wednesday, St. Andrew's Day; Nov. 30, the sixtieth anniversary of the consecration of St. Andrew's church by Bishop Medley in 1850 was observed by fitting memorial services at 5 and 10 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. At the early service the Holy Communion was celebrated by the Rector. At the 10 o'clock service a valuable historical as well as touching sermon bearing on the life and labours of the Rev. Father Hudson, the builder of the church and the devoted Anglican missionary priest of these parts sixty years ago, was ably rendered by the Venerable Archdeacon Forsythe of Chatham.

Luncheon was provided at mid-day by the Rector and his wife for the visitors and church officials. Toasts to the King, to the ladies of St. Andrew's church and to the pious memory of the late Rev. Jas. Hudson, were responded to respectively by Hon. J. P. Burchill, Col. Malby and Judge Wilkinson. Immediately after the luncheon Col. Malby very kindly drove the clergy through the raging snow storm to St. Mark, Nelson, where the congregation were gathered to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the consecration of their church by Bishop Kingdon.

A message of greeting was read by the Archdeacon from the Rev. J. H. S. Sweet the builder of the little church and then Rector of the parish, now Rector of St. James church, Victoria B. C., and the Rev. C. E. Wiggins preached the anniversary sermon. Mr. and Mrs. George Flett very kindly entertained the party to tea and at six o'clock a start was made once more for Newcastle, the Colonel's well manned team covering the ground in short time. A large congregation gathered together again at St. Andrew's for evening when the Rev. C. E. Wiggins Rector of Sackville N. B. and who had come especially for the purpose preached a most inspiring and vigorous sermon, one that will not soon be forgotten by those present. And so there came to a close a happy bright joyous day which will long shine out in the minds of old St. Andrew's.

The social offering in the course of the day amounted to $486.00 which have since been increased to $530.00. The next day, Thursday, was devoted to the business of the Deanery of Chatham. The Holy Communion was celebrated at 8 a. m. the members of the W. A. to the number of 23 were addressed by the Archdeacon at the Rector's and children's services was held at four o'clock. The Deanery service was at 7.30 where a large congregation was again present and the

CHARGED WITH ARSON

D. M. Ferguson Formerly, of Chatham, is Charged With Burning of His Store at Amherst.

A sensation was caused in Amherst by the arrest on Wednesday of Duncan M. Ferguson on the charge of setting fire to his premises in Amherst in October.

Mr. Ferguson is well known in Chatham where he was engaged in business for some years with Mr. Thornton under the name of Ferguson & Thornton. They occupied the Creaghan building where Yerxa's store is at present, and sold out and went to Amherst about seven years ago, at the time when the pulp mill closed for its two years' shut down. About eighteen months ago the firm dissolved partnership and Mr. Thornton went into business for himself.

Mr. Ferguson protests his innocence and says the charge of arson is probably fostered by some one who wishes to throw suspicion off himself.—Chatham Gazette.

The new Rector of Bay du Vin the Rev. L. A. Foster recently arrived from England, and who had grit enough to drive through the storm all the way from Bay du Vin that morning, preached the sermon.

On Friday morning all dispersed again to their respective homes agreeing that a very happy and profitable time had been spent and that Newcastle was a most hospitable place.

W. M. Aitken Triumphantly Elected In Ashton - Under - Lyne Capturing the Seat From the Government Column--British Elections Began Friday

Including those unopposed, 233 members had been elected to the new parliament at the close of yesterday's pollings. The standing of the parties was then as follows: Government coalition: Liberals, 87; Labor, 14; Irish Nationalists, 16; total 117.

Opposition Unionists, 116. Saturday the Unionists gained five from the Liberals—Salford (South), Ashton-under-Lyne, Warrington, Darlington, Kings Lynn and Grimsby—and one from the Laborites, Wigan. The Liberals won four seats from the Unionists—Manchester (Southwest), Rochester, Exeter, and the Peckham division of Camberwell. So the net gain of the Unionists is three seats.

In Ashton-under-Lyne, a seat previously held by a government supporter, W. M. Aitken of Montreal, an ardent Tariff Reformer, won out, accomplishing, for a novice, the unusual. During the election he had to contend against the cry that he made his fortune in crumpling cotton, he having spent much of his life in the southern United States, Cuba and Porto Rico. He however, made a most strenuous campaign and surprised both friends and foes.

Saturday night Rev. Wm. Aitken of Newcastle received a cablegram from his son: Carried Ashton-under-Lyne by 196 majority; best wishes.

On Monday the following message flashed over the wires and under the sea from Everet J. Parker, Warden of Northumberland Co., in which the whole Community heartily joins: "MIRAMICHI is proud of her son and sends Congratulations."

W. M. Aitken, M. P. elect, who by his business ability has already though scarcely past 30 years of age, made himself a financial power in two continents, was greatly helped in his campaign by his talented wife, a daughter of Brigadier-General Drury of Halifax.

It is customary for the prominent women of England to "electioneer" and during the campaigns, Mrs. Cornwallis West (Lady Randolph Churchill), Lady Wimbourne, mother of Hon. Lionel Guest, of Montreal; Mrs. Winston Churchill, and countless other well known women not only make speeches, but conduct a door to door canvas.

Mrs. Aitken, who is pretty, bright and vivacious, quickly entered into the spirit of the fight and gave her husband great assistance in a constituency which has generally returned a candidate of the opposite party in which he has raised his standard. Mrs. Aitken is very popular in Montreal Society.

All honor to Newcastle's popular and brilliant son.

A London despatch to the Montreal Star says: Hon. J. D. Hazen has sent W. M. Aitken a warm message, wishing him as distinguished a British political career as New Brunswick's great son, Bonar Law.

contract will call for the construction of four cruisers of the improved Bristol class, and six torpedo boat destroyers of the improved river class. They are all to be built in Canada, and as there are no yards at present capable of doing the work negotiations are in progress with several firms of British shipbuilders for the establishment of such yards.

It is calculated here that it will take a year for the establishment of a yard in Canada, and that it will be three years before the first vessel is completed. The last of the ten will be in the water at the end of six years.

The plans were prepared by the British authorities.

Both the cruisers and the destroyers, it is understood, will use oil exclusively as fuel.

It is estimated that the completion of the present naval programme will involve an expenditure of $10,000,000.

The main estimates for the next fiscal year were presented to the commons today. The total amount which parliament is asked to vote on both revenue and capital account is $138,863,200, an increase of $6,035,575 over the total vote of last session. Of the total amount asked, $98,188,575 is on capital account, including $27,000,000 for the National Trans-continental Railway, $2,000,000 for the Quebec bridge and $250,000 for the Trent canal and $1,000,000 for the St. Lawrence ship channel.

On consolidated account the vote is $100,674,527, an increase of $5,095,717 over the current year. The principal items of increase are: Census, $1,000,000; railways and canals (collection of revenue), $630,734; post office, $626,980; naval service, $155,000; public debt, including sinking funds, $989,525; ocean and river service, $303,500.

Some of the items are: Increased militia grants of $502,201, including $150,000 more for annual drill, $50,000 for cadet corps and the carrying out of the scheme of physical and military training in schools; $100,000 more for militia clothing, etc. and $25,000 more for Royal Military College.

$20,000 for experimental farms; $30,000 more for exhibitions; $10,000 more to encourage growth of tobacco.

For dredging in Maritime provinces, $675,000; and new dredging plant, $146,000.

St. John Harbor, $450,000. St. John river bridge St. Leonards to Van Buren, Maine, $22,000.

For Public buildings Campbellton gets $30,000; Chatham $12,000; and several other towns are remembered. Tracadie got $5,000 for lazarette house.

through the heart... "It won't do, Brownie," said Deppingman, shaking his head. "They are fatigued; they are sore. I know the breed better than you. Question if you like, but threats will be of no avail. Keep 'em locked up that's all."

Fire arms and ammunition were taken from the gunroom to the quarters occupied by the white people. Every preparation was made for a defense in the event of an attack from the outside or inside. The white servants were moved into rooms adjoining their employers. Brit and Saunders transferred their belongings to certain gorgeous apartments. Miss Pelham went into a Marie Antoinette suit close by that of the princess. The native servants retained their customary quarters below stairs.

For in the night, Geneva, sleepless and depressed, stole into the hanging garden. Her mind was full of the terrible thing that had happened to Adolphus Chase. He had been nothing to her. He could not have been anything to her had he escaped the guns of the assassins. And yet her heart was stammered by the stroke that it had sustained. Wide-eyed and sick, she made her way to the railing and, clinging to the vines, stared for she knew not how long at the dull red glow on the mountain.

The night was still and ominously dark. She had never known a night since she came to Japan when the birds and insects were so mute. A somber, supernatural calm hung over the island like a pall. The smell of smoke hung about her. She could not help wondering if his life, strong body was lying up there burned to a crisp. It was far past midnight. She was alone in the garden. Sixty feet below her was the ground above, the dark dome of heaven.

She was not to know that afterward that one of her Japanese, Thorberg men stood guard in the passage leading to the garden, armed and willing to die. One of the other slept in front of her door through all these nights on the island. Something hot trickled down her cheeks from the wide, pitying eyes that stared so hard. She was wondering now if he had a mother, sisters. How their hearts would be wrenched by this! She was thinking of the wages paid and later in her heart, not love. A question was beginning to form itself vaguely in her troubled mind. Were all of them to die as Chase had died?

Suddenly there came to her ears the sound of something swishing through the air. An instant later a cold object fell almost at her feet. She started back with a cry of alarm. A broad shaft of light crossed the garden, thrown by the lamps in the upper hall of the chateau. Her eyes fell upon a wriggling, snake-like thing that lay in this path of light. Fascinated, almost paralyzed, she watched it for a full minute before realizing that it was the end of a thick rope which lost itself in the heavy shadows at the cliff end of the garden. She was standing directly in the shaft of light. To her surprise, the wriggling ceased. The next moment a faint, subdued shout was borne to her ears. Her flight was checked by that shout, for her startled, bewildered ears caught the sound of her own name.

treating someone in the garden... "Can you hear me?" Greatly excited, she called back and forth, and then she came down the cliff, and she was there in a few moments. She was looking for the man who had been with her in the garden. She saw him at the top of the cliff, and she called out to him. He was looking down at her, and she saw that he was looking at her with a look of surprise.

"It's all right," she called out. "I'm here." She called out to him, and he called back to her. She was looking at him, and he was looking at her. She was looking at him, and he was looking at her. She was looking at him, and he was looking at her. She was looking at him, and he was looking at her.

She could look no longer. It seemed hours since he started from the top. Every heart beat brought him nearer to safety, but would he hold out? Any instant might bring him crashing to her feet—dead, after all that he may have lived through during that awful night.

At last she heard his heavy panting—groaning almost—the creaking and straining of the rope, the scraping of his hands and body. She opened her eyes and saw the bulky, swaying shadow not twenty feet above the garden. Slowly it drew nearer the grass covered floor, foot by foot, straining, struggling, gasping in the final supreme effort; and then with a sudden rush the black mass collapsed, the last rope spring loose, the end swiftness and leaping lightly.

Geneva rushed frantically across the garden, half fearful, half joyous. As she came up the mass seemed to divide itself into two parts. One sank limply to the ground, the other stood erect for a second and then dropped beside her, prostrate, gasping for air. Chase had come down the cliff with another human being clinging to his body.

Geneva fell to her knees beside the man who had accomplished this miracle. She clasped his hands, warm and sticky with blood. She tried to lift his head, but she could not. She was crying with pity all the time, uttering words of encouragement in his ear. Many minutes passed. At last Chase gave over gasping and began to breathe regularly, but heavily. The strain had been tremendous. Only supernatural strength and will had carried him through the ordeal. He groaned with pain as the two beside him lifted him to a sitting posture.

"Tell Selim to come ahead!" he gasped, his bloody hand at his throat. "We're all right!" Then, for the first time, Geneva peered in the darkness at the figure beside her, a slight, graceful woman in oriental garb. The woman turned and lifted her face to the heights from which she had descended. In a shrill, eager voice she called out something in a language strange to the princess. A faint shout came from on-high, and once more the rope began to vibrate. The princess passed her hand over her eyes, bewildered. The face of the woman in the light, half faded, half illumined, was gloriously beautiful—youth, dark, brilliant!

"Oh!" she exclaimed, starting to her feet, a look of understanding coming into her eyes. "This was one of the Persians! He had saved her! A feeling of revulsion swept over her, compelling the first natural, womanly pride in the deed of a brave man. Chase struggled weakly to his feet. He saw the tense, strained figure before him and, putting out his hand, said: "She is Selim's wife. I am stronger than he is. I brought her down." Then, looking upward anxiously, he shouted: "Be careful, Selim! It's easy if you take your time to it."

"Selim's wife, Neenah, saved my life!" It was the next morning, and Chase was relating his experiences to an eager, marveling company in the breakfast room. "She has a sister whose husband was one of the leaders in the attack," Neenah told Selim, and Selim told me. That's all. Days ago Selim and I caught the rope at the top of the cliff, anticipating just such an emergency as this and intending to use it if we could reach the chateau in no other way. I figured that they would cut off all other means of getting into your grounds.

"They will dispose of us wholesale, not by the piece," recognizing Neenah in the crowd, Selim led the way, and I followed with Neenah. Hang it all, Brownie, I didn't have time to save that case of cigarettes. I'm out nearly a hundred boxes.

"You might have saved the cigarettes if you hadn't been so occupied in saving the fair Neenah," said her ladyship, with a provoking smile. "Alas, I thought of that also, but too late! Still, virtue was its own reward. Imagine my delight when we stopped to rest to have Neenah divide her own little store of Turkish cigarettes with me. We had a bully smoke up there in the wood."

"Selim, too?" asked Brownie casually. "Oh, not Selim was exploring," said Chase easily. "Neenah is very beautiful," ventured Lady Agnes. "She is exquisite," replied Chase, with the utmost sang froid. "Selim bought her last winter for a ten carat ruby and a pair of sapphires."

"That explains her overwhelming love for Selim," said the princess quietly. Chase looked into her eyes for a moment and smiled inwardly. "We finally got to the edge of the cliff and uncoiled the rope, which we already had fastened to the trunk of a tree. I was obliged to carry Neenah for the last quarter of a mile, poor little girl. She was tied to my back, leaving my throat and chest free, and down we came. Simplest thing in the world. Presto! Here am I with my happy family at my heels."

"Well, we can't sit here and dawdle all day," exclaimed Deppingman. "We must be moving about—arrange our batteries and all that, don't you know. We've got to stave these devils off for two or three weeks at least, and we'll have to look sharp. Brownie, that's the third cup of coffee you've had. Come along! This isn't Boston." As they left the breakfast room Chase stepped to Geneva's side and walked with her. At the foot of the stairs, where they were to part, she extended her hand, a bright smile in her eyes. "You were and are very brave and good," she said. He withheld his hand, and she dropped hers, hurt and strangely vexed. "Don't you care for my approval, or do you?" "You forget, princess, that my hands are still suffering from the bravery you would laud," he said, holding them resolutely behind his back.

Newcastle Board of Trade.

The Newcastle Board of Trade held its regular monthly meeting last evening, Pres. Hennessy in the chair, E. A. McCurdy secretary.

Communication was read from Public Works Department replying to Board's request for installation of Town Clock in Post Office building, stating that no appropriation had yet been made but the matter would have careful consideration.

Also from P. O. Department re delay in forwarding English Mail from Rimouski and St. John and Halifax, between opening of navigation and putting in of Ocean Limited, stating that points had been taken up with Halifax Board to which board the Department had answered that the running of more trains lay with the I. R. C., the P. O. Department being willing to pay for the transport of mails on said trains. The mail matter on maritime trains was not large enough to warrant special trains paid for by P. O. Department. Postal appropriations were not sufficient to do so. No doubt the time would come. Now the bulk of the postal revenue comes from Montreal, Toronto and the West. The postal surplus for whole Dominion for 1909 was $809,237, but the deficit on Maritime section was nearly $293,100. Also from W. S. Loggie in same strain.

Re down river postal service the Secretary reported progress and was granted extension of time.

NOT GOOD POLITICS

Speaking of the Naval question now being fought out at Ottawa between the three political parties—Liberals, Conservatives, and the Quebec Nationalists—the TORONTO WORLD (owned and edited by W. F. McLean, the most independent, fearless and radical of the Conservative members of the House of Commons) has this to say of the Conservative contention that nothing should be done in the way of building a Canadian navy until an appeal to the people has been made:

"The Conservatives at Ottawa have had two cracks at defining their position in regard to the duty of Canada to herself and to the mother country in connection with naval defence. First of all they joined with the ruling Liberals in a unanimous declaration for a Canadian navy. This was at the opening of last session. Before the end of the session they withdrew from this position and substantially declared for an immediate vote for battleships and a reference of the question of a navy to the people. They are now declaring that nothing be done in the way of a navy until an appeal to the country has been made.

"This switching of position and this declaration to do nothing but consult the people is an instance of misguided policy. Political parties must keep their faith as individuals must, although if you find yourself wrong there is nothing like confessing it.

"But on the other point it is altogether contrary to the ideas of responsible government for a party to say that they can do nothing until the people have been consulted. The party in opposition can always say that they decline to propound any policy, and that they cannot express any opinion other than to negative the government one. But in a matter of supreme importance such as the defence of the country or the defence of the empire for a party to say that they desire to put the responsibility upon the people, is to our mind impolitic and an impossible proposal; because to our mind the defence of the country must always rest upon the country's best men and the ones who are trained to politics and who are supposed to know the situation better than the ordinary citizen. Parliament is for that purpose. The ordinary citizen is not competent in a general way to frame up a war policy or to declare war should it be in order.

"We do not believe that any country could remain in existence whose policy in regard to its defence was left to vote of the people. If there are any cases in point we would like to see them stated. For a party that has the reputation of being conservative and pro-British, and that assumed the responsibility of establishing a militia service for this country to say that it has not a policy in regard to its defence other than what the people of the country may decide on any referendum, is a confession of weakness or it may be the straining after the somewhat doubtful object of putting the other fellow in a hole. But it is not good politics for Conservatives or those who believe in responsible government."

DR. COOK IS NOT SURE

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Brooklyn explorer, in an article which will be published in Hampton's Magazine, confesses that he does not know whether he reached the North Pole or not. Dr. Cook will return to the United States with his wife and children Dec. 22 in order to spend Christmas. He says that at the time he convinced himself he had discovered the pole he was half mad. He had spent two years in his quest and during that time endured hunger and privation that, he says, would unbalance any mind.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and dejection of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for womanly ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No other dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Did you ever hear any one say they could not get good coffee except in the States?

I have heard it, scores of times, and it's one of the reasons that made me decide to go into the Coffee business.

Of the Americans who visit us in summer, hundreds take home a supply of Red Rose Tea because they have never tasted such good tea before. I determined to put up a coffee that would make for itself just as good a reputation. It has not been easy, but I am sure I have succeeded.

Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee, put up in d. tins is—well, it's good coffee. You and your American friends will say so.

Circuit Court In Session

it involves the respective rights of federal and provincial governments over certain of our river fisheries. Messrs. Powell and Davidson are defending accused.

This morning the following addresses was presented to the presiding Judge:

"To the Honorable H. A. McKeown, one of His Majesty's Justices of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick.

"May it please your Honor. "The members of the Bar of the County of Northumberland desire to extend a cordial welcome to you on your first judicial visit to this District and to offer you our heartiest congratulations on your elevation to the Supreme Court Bench. "Your appointment as a Judge was deservedly popular throughout the province and especially so in this county, where we claim you as a 'Northumberland boy' by reason of the fact that your early youth was spent on the banks of the Miramichi where you learned the lessons of true manhood, independence and fair play which have been characteristic of your professional and political course, and largely contributed to your success in life.

"Your political and professional career has been a singularly successful one. The offices of Attorney-General and Solicitor-General respectively have been ably filled by you and as a member of the Provincial Government, you at all times had the respect and confidence of your colleagues and also the respect of both parties in the Legislative Assembly.

"You have arrived at your high position at a comparatively early age, which, in our opinion, is decidedly advantageous to the profession, especially to the younger members to whom you will be able to show more tolerance and have greater sympathy with their inexperience.

"We desire, in conclusion, to express the hope that you may long be spared to perform the duties which devolve upon you in your high office, and shed additional lustre upon what has always been recognized as an illustrious bench. "Dated this sixth day of December A. D. 1910.

"R. A. LAWLOR for the Miramichi Bar.

And later the following came to His Honor from the Grand Jury:—"To the Honorable H. A. McKeown, Justice of the Supreme Court; Sir:—

Keown, Justice of the Supreme Court; Sir:—

"We the Grand Jurors of the County of Northumberland beg to extend to you on this, the occasion of your first official visit to our County, our hearty congratulations on your appointment to the high and honorable position you have been called to fill; and also to welcome you back to the banks of the Miramichi, where you spent so many days of your youth.

"We listened with pride and pleasure this morning to the address tendered you by the Barristers of this County, and most heartily endorse the sentiments of esteem and the good wishes it contained.

"We also, have watched with pride and pleasure your career as a Barrister politician and minister of the Crown and feel that your elevation to the New Brunswick Bench has been amply merited, and we hope you will be long spared in health and vigor to preside there.

"We regret that our Court House is not such as we would wish to have, in which to welcome so distinguished a visitor; and we hope that your next coming will find us better equipped in this regard.

Signed on behalf of the Grand Jurors of the County of Northumberland. FOREMAN.
