ROME LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Rome, August 9, 1912.

PART I.

At the birthplace of St. Francis of Assisi. When old King Sol has shown how uncomfortable he can render life in Rome in the dog-days, those whose business chains them to the Eternal City during the long summer have a trick of eluding his vengeance. A day passed on the Alban Hills or by the Mediterranean, away from the hot Roman streets is some variety; and if two or three can be stolen from the week in Rome, so much the better. For this reason, therefore, the 'Rome Letter' of this week should be called a 'Letter from Assisi.'

A seven hours' journey by rail brings one to the little town of Assisi, which the name of the Seraphic Doctor has rendered so famous. Under the Roman Empire Assisi was one of the most notable cities in Umbria; it had magnificent temples, superb aqueducts, a theatre rich in marble, and a circus, and in the collection of ancient inscriptions there are found no fewer than twenty-three names of consular families. But the glory of the town was to come from Christ, not from Caesar. In the third century, and though its first three Bishops died for the faith, the good seed grew and flourished, despite the perpetual war and turmoil of the Middle Ages, until the poor man of Assisi was born.

La Chiesa Nuova.

Standing on the slope of a range of hills that command a lovely view of the rich Umbrian plain, Assisi has in its very centre the Chiesa Nuova, the Church built on the site of the home belonging to the rich, merciful father of St. Francis. Here the founder of the greatest Order in the Church lived until the day came when Francis while praying in San Damiano took too literally the words that came to him from the Crucifix: 'Francis, my servant, thou shalt restore my Church,' and that same evening divested himself of the very clothes he wore in order that he might be able with all the more truth to call God 'His Father.' This Church, which encloses part of the walls pointed out by tradition as belonging to the home of the young Francis, belongs to the Spanish crown, and is therefore, I am glad to say, beyond the range of the power of the Italian Government.

S. Maria degli Angeli.

The future of Francis was henceforth marked out for him. With ingenious trust the young man applied to the Benedictines, those beacon lights of Religion, Art and Science since the sixth century, for aid, and he was given permission to take over the little Chapel that stood in the rich woody plain below, and is now known to the world as the Chapel of the Portiuncula, which stands under the dome of the grand basilica of S. Maria degli Angeli (S. Mary of the Angels) which the Friars Minor have reared above the birthplace of the Franciscan Order. Here Jesus Christ appeared to Francis and promised the privileges of the Portiuncula indulgence; here the gentle Saint gave his disciples not the name of Franciscans but of 'Fratres Minores'—the humblest of God's servants; here he comforted his followers when he spoke from a vision on the greatness of his Order, saying: 'Take comfort, carissimi, and be not sad because we are few, for God has shown me that ye shall increase to a great multitude, and shall go on increasing to the end of the world.' And in the little stone building, just a few feet from the Chapel of the Portiuncula, which S. Bonaventura raised over the cell, the Seraphic Patriarch had welcomed Sister Death.

Somehow one passes by the magnificent marbles, paintings, carvings, even the Pontifical Throne, all splendid with mosaic; for one likes to live here with Francis alone. His spirit is everywhere. We are lucky in being here on the first of August, the feast of the Portiuncula, when pilgrims in thousands are doing penance here in the hope of gaining the plenary indulgence promised by Christ to S. Francis. Religious enthusiasm is in the very air. Starting at the door those fervent Italian peasants, some of whom have been walking for days, approach the knees. Many of them in an excess of humility and fervour, in spite of all the clergymen in attendance may say, insist upon licking the floor with their tongues as they go along. The forty confessionalists are surrounded by penitents eager to lay there the burden of their sins and to go forth light hearted and free from the trammels of iniquity. With devotion they visit the cell under one of the altars where Francis lived in darkness until called to his mission, and they go down to the 'Garden of the Roses' behind the sacristy to view the spot where the Saint once threw himself into a clump of thorny rose bushes to mortify the flesh. And ever since that day the rose bushes have flourished there, but they have no thorns—for the merits of Francis caused Heaven to so will it.

To the honor of the Sons of S. Francis every building, every plot of ground, every tree that has connected with it any tradition of their Father has been left as they found it. And there one feels grateful to them for never having built on the green sward that lies in front of the monastery, for, it was there S. Clare, the first and greatest flower of his impassioned sermons, took dinner once with S. Francis and his followers: How beautifully the story runs in the Fioretti di S. Francesco:

'S. Francis prepared the meal on the bare ground, as was his custom. The hour of dinner having arrived, S. Francis and S. Clare, with one of the brothers of S. Francis and the sister who accompanied the Saint, sat down together, and all the other companions of S. Francis were humbly seated around them. When the first dish was served, S. Francis began to speak of God so sweetly, so sublimely, and in so wonderful a manner, that the grace of God visited them abundantly, and they all became lost in the contemplation of Christ. Whilst they were thus entranced, with their eyes and hearts raised to heaven, the people of Assisi and Bettono, and of all the country about, saw S. Maria degli Angeli as it were on fire, as well as the convent and the woods adjoining. But on arriving at the convent they only found S. Francis, S. Clare and all their companions, sitting around their humble meal but lost in contemplation; and then they knew of a certainty that what they had seen was a celestial, not a material, fire which God had miraculously sent to bear witness to the divine flame of love, which consumed the souls of those holy monks and nuns, and they returned home with great consolation in their hearts. After a lapse of time S. Francis, S. Clare and their companions came back to themselves; and, being fully restored by the spiritual food, cared not to eat that which had been prepared for them.'

But a few years later the same space and all around it saw another sight. The prophecy of the Saint to his first disciples had come true, and here his Order, grown great and powerful, even in the Founder's lifetime, gathered to hold its First General Chapter, at which Cardinal Ugolino, S. Anthony of Padua, and it is said, S. Dominic were present. Priests and brothers as they were to the number of 7000, it is said, they lodged in huts made of reeds scattered over the broad plain below; hence the name 'Storcaram' given to that gathering.

Child Saints.

Many little children imagine it is so hard to be good that the effort is not expected of them until they are older. Yet some of the greatest saints in the Church reached their high degree of sanctity at an early age.

St. Peter of Verona was a eloquent preacher at fifteen. St. Catherine of Siena was a zealous tertiary at the same age. St. Paschal Baylon converted the herdsmen of Arragon when he was a lad in his teens. St. Alexius was a saintly child before he was nine years old. When a boy at school, St. Dominic sold books to feed the poor during the famine then raging, and he offered himself in ransom for a slave when he was but fifteen. St. Louis of Brignolles, nephew of King Louis, was devoted to the mortification of self at an early age. It is recorded of this child that he would steal out of his royal bed and sleep upon the floor in memory of the King who had vowed to lay his head.

So saintly was the childhood of St. Charles Borromeo that his singular virtues caused his elevation to the cardinalate at the age of twenty-two. St. Stanislaus Kostka was but seven when he died, after a life which, though but short, had its minute devotion to God. St. Lawrence O'Toole was a model of virtue at the age of fourteen, and became Abbot before he was twenty-five. St. John the beloved disciple, was only a boy when Our Lord called him to follow Him. St. Louis, the Crusader, King of France, was but twelve when he ascended the throne and voluntarily vowed to make the defense of God's honor the aim of his life.

St. Agnes, St. Cyril, and a host of other child martyrs, gave up their lives for the holy faith. These young saints needed not the better way revealed at an early age, are occasionally slow of development. Some do not know themselves until the world has tried them. St. Francis Xavier, St. Augustine, St. Ignatius, St. Alphonsus were among those who found the heavenly path among the tangled ways of earth.

Smoothing The Way.

"If we would tell one another pleasant things once in a while," said a woman yesterday, "how much happier life might be. There is a certain family reticence that is good in its way, but it often prevents full enjoyment of home relations." One sister realizes how much the other has done for her, and is truly grateful, but she will not tell her. She can not bring herself to say the things that are in her heart, as she has never been given to demonstrativeness and has always taken things for granted. She will willingly tell her friend how much she is pleased with what is being done for her, while just a word or two may have meant so much to the other woman. Some women are even as reticent with their very intimate friends, and as shy of doing or saying anything that will have the savor of sentimentalism about it. Life is so short at best, and the world unkind so often that one should not miss the opportunity, when it offers, of saying kind things. Flowers for the dead are beautiful, but kind words for the living mean so much more. Especially does a mother take pleasure in kind words from her children. She does not expect her boys to tell her they love her and appreciate her kindness. They think she knows how they feel about her, and why should they take the trouble to tell her? But when she is growing old and life is a drab affair at best, a kind word now and then, a caress perhaps, means a great deal, boys, to the old mother at home. Don't begrudge it to her. Some children, even grown-up men and women, come home simply to grumble. They have been on good behavior all day, and it is a relief to say what they feel like at home. They criticize the table arrangements, discuss the dinner if it is not to their taste, and seldom say a pleasant word. Mothers are used to such treatment, they think, and know nothing of the pang the dear ones may feel, the stab that hurts more than a blow from a son or daughter. If you can not say something kind to one another in the home, better keep silence.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

Eavesdroppers.

Do you know why a person who listens at a keyhole is called an eavesdropper? About two hundred years ago there was a certain very powerful secret society which would allow no outsider to hear or see what went on at its meetings. There were some people in those days, just as there are now, who spent much of their time prying into other persons' affairs, and they tried in all sorts of ways to discover what this society was doing. They kept on trying until several of them were caught and punished, and that put an end to the prying around and listening at knot holes or cracks in the wall, for when a man was caught in this trick he was condemned to be suspended for a short time under the eaves of a shed while it was raining, hard until the water ran in under his collar and out at his shoes; and from that day until this a prying person has been called an 'eavesdropper.'

Mother Becomes Nun.

After rearing a family of ten children, four of whom will be ordained priests in the Jesuit Order, Mrs. Sarah Scott, of Springfield, Mo., has taken her final vows as a nun in the Visitation Convent, St. Louis. Mrs. Scott will be known in religion as Sister Mary Ignatia. Mrs. Scott's husband died several years ago. Five of the children have died since then. The only surviving daughter lives in Chicago. Three of the sons already are professional scholars in the Jesuit Order.

A fourth son, who has cared for Mrs. Scott, shortly will begin his apostolate as a candidate for the priesthood with the Jesuits, now that his mother has entered religious life.

We saw the statement somewhere that a man with an Irish name now in trouble is a Jew. We remember reading an article a good while ago in which the statement was made that many people in New York bearing well known Irish names have not the slightest trace of Irish blood, but adopted Irish names in place of foreign-sounding names, sometimes difficult to spell and pronounce correctly.—Casket.

WHEN THE LIVER IS INACTIVE CONSTITUTION SOON FOLLOWS

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile, and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and therefore when the liver is inactive, failing to secrete bile in sufficient quantity, constipation soon follows.

Mr. Henry Pearce, Owen Sound, Ont., writes: "Having been troubled for years with constipation, and trying many so-called remedies, which did me no good whatever, I was persuaded to try Milburn's Last-Liver Pills. I have found them most beneficial; they act, indeed, a splendid pill, and I fear I have recommended them to all suffering from constipation."

Milburn's Last-Liver Pills are 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

George—She sighs nicely, doesn't she?
Tom—Oh, yes. When she sighs they have to close the windows.
George—My goodness! What for?
Tom—Her voice is so sweet it draws the flies.

A Sensible Merchant.

Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders give women prompt relief from monthly pains, and leave no bad after effects whatever. Be sure you get Milburn's. Price 25 and 50 cts.

Creditor—How often must I climb these five flights of stairs before I get the amount of this little account?
Debtor—Do you think I am going to rent a place on the first floor to accommodate my creditors?

Minard's Liniment cures Dandruff.

Lots of 'Em—Stiggins—Are there any musicians in your family?
Wiggins—Rather! Why my father is an adept at blowing his own trumpet, and mother is equally expert at harping on one string; ma-in-law has to play second fiddle, and Aunt Tabitha leads bum-drum existence; grandpa gives a solo on his nasal organ every night, without the stops; uncle spends his time wetting his whistle; Harry is fond of his pipe, and Gerry is forever ringing the changes on her lovers.

Judge—The evidence that you called this gentleman a donkey is overwhelming. Had you not better admit the fact?
Accused—Maybe I had. The longer I look at him the more probable it seems to me.

There is nothing harsh about Last-Liver Pills. They cure Constipation, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, and Bilious Spells without griping, purging or sickness. Price 25c.

The Barber—One of our customers had his rheumatism cured by mud baths.
The Customer—No good to me. I've stood as a candidate in two elections—and my rheumatism is as bad as ever.

It was pay day at the boarding house and the young man with the cuffs on his trousers had come to the breakfast table to see the ever present prunes at his place. He said, frowningly:
Do you think any one can thrive on prunes?
I have it, replied the boarding house lady, complacently.

RHEUMATISM THE CAUSE

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM

Mr. W. H. Riley, Ruddell, Saskatchewan—It is with the greatest pleasure that I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all suffering with rheumatism. I was so bad with this terrible disease, I was unable to get up from my bed for four months, and nothing seemed to relieve me until a friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I had my doubts about them, but was so desperate I would try anything suggested to me. After taking half a box, I was able to get up, and after taking two boxes could get around quite well. After taking six boxes I was completely cured, and able to work for the first time in five months, and have not had a touch of rheumatism since. Anyone who saw me then would not know me now, as I am so strong and active since taking your valuable medicine.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 6 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Death of Father McCarvill.

This community was shocked on Friday afternoon last, on learning the sad intelligence of the death of Rev. Peter V. McCarvill, junior priest at the Cathedral, which occurred at the City Hospital, about 5.15. About two weeks previously he was taken ill, with what seemed to be typhoid fever, and was removed to the Hospital where he gradually grew worse until the end came, as above stated.

The deceased priest was a son of the late James McCarvill and Mary Shreenan of Kinkora, and was 31 years of age at the time of his death. He was a graduate of St. Dunstan's College, and he prosecuted his Ecclesiastical studies at the Grand Seminary, Quebec. He was ordained priest at Quebec on December 22nd, 1911, and sang his first Mass in his native parish church, Kinkora, on Christmas Day. In March last he became attached to the Cathedral staff, where he continued zealously to labor until stricken with his fatal illness.

Father McCarvill was an admirable character; a man of sterling qualities and excellent abilities; a fine preacher and a most zealous worker in the vineyard of the Lord. To all appearances a life of splendid sacerdotal usefulness lay before him; but his Divine Master, in His infinite wisdom, ordained otherwise. His death at the beginning of a most promising priestly life, is a serious loss to the diocese. Deceased leaves to mourn a sorrowing mother, one sister and five brothers, who have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. The mortal remains of the deceased priest were borne to St. Dunstan's Cathedral Saturday forenoon, where a Solemn Mass of Requiem was sung at 10 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Gauthier was celebrant of the Mass, Rev. Pius McDonald, deacon, Rev. Father Crocken, sub-deacon, and Rev. Dr. McLellan Master of Ceremonies. After the Mass, Libera and Absolution, the casket with the body remained in the Sanctuary until the afternoon. During this time the remains were viewed by large numbers of people. The features looked as placid as in sweet sleep.

At 3.15 a Libera was again sung, and Absolution given, Rev. Dr. McLellan officiating. The casket was then taken to the hearse and conveyed to the Railway Station, for conveyance to Kinkora for interment. The cortege was large and imposing, the Catholic Societies, at short notice, turning out in considerable numbers. The honorary pallbearers were: Chief Justice Sullivan, Judge Blanchard, Mayor Lyons, Dr. Conroy, James Eden and Councillor Campbell. The active pallbearers were: Councillors Riley, Walker and McKenna, James Hennessey, John M. Hughes and James McIsaac.

The remains were taken to the home of the deceased priest's mother at Kinkora, where they lay until Sunday afternoon, when they were borne to St. Malachi's Church, followed by an immense procession of parishioners and others. The remains lay in the Church until Monday forenoon, when the last solemn obsequies were held, and interment took place in the adjoining cemetery. The Church was admirably draped for the occasion, and the casket containing the remains rested on a catafalque within the Sanctuary. The attendance at the solemn services was very, very large. The whole parish and many from neighboring parishes turned out, and there was a large contingent from Charlottetown. About thirty priests were in attendance. Everything in connection with the funeral was carried out with admirable order and precision. Much praise is due to the pastor, Rev. J. J. McDonald, for the splendid success attending the solemn funeral services.

After the recitation of the office of the dead, a Solemn Mass of Requiem was sung, the pastor, Rev. J. J. McDonald, being celebrant; Rev. Father Crocken, deacon, Rev. Father Murphy, sub-deacon, and Rev. A. J. McIntyre, Master of Ceremonies. A splendid, appropriate funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. McLellan. His text was from the 5th verse of the LXIV Psalm: "Blessed is he whom thou hast chosen, and taken to thee; he shall dwell in thy courts." In the development of his theme, the Rev. preacher unfolded the admirable character and shining virtues of the deceased priest, with whom he had been associated in the work of the ministry during his brief sacerdotal career. So much paths did the Rev. preacher put into his discourse, and so deeply affected was he himself that the vast congregation were moved to tears.

After the Libera and Absolution, the mortal remains of the dead priest were viewed by those present. Then to the strains of the Miserere, the body was solemnly borne from the church to the cemetery, close by. The pallbearers were six of his brother priests: Revs. Dr. Curran, Pius McDonald, Dr. Monaghan, R. J. McDonald, Dr. Smith and S. J. McDonald. Here in the cemetery of his native parish, among his own kindred, the mortal remains of good Father McCarvill were laid to rest. Requiescat in pace.

Signor Pinoretta, an agent of the Brazilian Government, who was in Montreal recently, told a newspaper man in that city that the German menace against his country was not only real but imminent. It is, apparently, not so much the number of German immigrants pouring into Brazil that alarms the people there as the fact that few of these show any inclination of becoming naturalized, and the suspicion is growing that most of them are simply agents of the German Government, sent forward to spy out the land and secure information against the day when the Kaiser will make an effort to seize the country.—Vancouver Sun.

It was due to the clamor raised by the Hearst papers that the United States, in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, decided to fortify the Panama Canal. It was partly due to the uproar of yellow journalism that the war with Spain was declared, and this section of the press is practically alone among influential American journals today in urging that there should be discrimination in favor of American shipping. The Hearst journals were prominent in the fight for Reciprocity, and even issued Canadian editions in order to rally Canadians to the support of the Continentals last summer. They now stand out in the open, and in the future ought not to be mistaken by any British subject for anything but what they are—bitter, unscrupulous advocates of aggressive Americanism, the foes and insulters of everything British.—Mail and Empire.

A correspondent down east wants to know if we can grow pumpkins here in Pincher Creek. Sure. The only trouble is the vines grow so fast they scrape the skin of the pumpkins by dragging them over the ground.—Pincher Creek Echo.

The Eastern politician who finds it somewhat trying to have to make a round of the township fairs in order to keep in touch with his constituents may realize what an easy time he has of it, when he learns that J. L. Cote has just returned from a 2,500 mile journey in the constituency of Athabasca, which he represents in the Alberta Legislature. It is about as large as the three Maritime Provinces.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Referring to alterations in the Commons Chamber, a news item says: "Moreover there has been some artistic padding done in the region of the ceiling, to improve the acoustics. Without this padding the utterances of members in times past have been known to rebound." Quite true. Many speeches have rebounded with the force of a boomerang. But scarcely from lack of padding.—Ottawa Citizen.

Again comes the report from Quebec City that immigrants have been fleeced by sharks employed at that door-way to Canada. This time definite charges have been made. They should lead to the punishment of the guilty. Robbing a newcomer unprepared for the sharp ways of men with easy jobs is even worse than robbing a native. The immigrant has enough to go through in securing entry without having to contend with evil doers the moment he steps from the ship.—Montreal Gazette.

According to statistics there are consumed in the United States every day 21,718,448 cigars and 23,736,190 cigar-ettes, without including those rolled by the smokers themselves. These figures are large. Taken alone, they seem to confirm the fears of those who go about dreading the ravages of the cigarette scourge. But measured against the population of the country they are seen to be small. They show a per capita consumption of less than a cigarette a day for the male voting population alone and considerably less than a cigar a day.—Tobacco Leaf.

Over fifty members of the British Parliament are reported to be in various parts of Canada at the present time. The result should be good on both sides of the ocean. The visitors will be able to see what is strong as well as what is weak in this country's general make-up and the knowledge gained will make for correct views. If Canadian members of Parliament on their side show equal interest in visiting Great Britain they, too, will be able to understand things better, and good will follow all round.—Montreal Gazette.

It goes without saying that, if war were to break out, Canada would defend the Flag until victory was won or defeat had to be acknowledged. That is the cheapest and easiest of patriotism. We are all patriots "when the band begins to play." But the patriotism that counts is that which is ready to make sacrifices in time of peace in order that there shall be no abatement of the natural power and prestige. Should Canada be asked to make such a sacrifice, if a sacrifice it can be called that involves only the giving of money, every one of us ought to be ready to do our share.—Victoria Colonist.

Borden's Return.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Premier Borden is expected to reach Ottawa next Sunday. He will probably be given a civic welcome and on the following day will as already announced be the guest at a conservative banquet at the Chateau Laurier.

Between Quebec and Ottawa the First Minister will be tendered a series of receptions. Preparations are being made for demonstrations in honor of his return at Quebec, Three Rivers, Montreal, and other points. The indications are that Mr. Borden is to be the recipient of the greatest welcome ever accorded an English speaking Conservative leader in the province of Quebec.

From what is known here of the plans the receptions will be merely party celebrations, but popular expressions of satisfaction at the able and patriotic manner in which Mr. Borden has represented Canada at the crucial conferences which have been held in Great Britain during the past few weeks. The Premier will travel from Quebec to Three Rivers and Montreal by special train. The Montreal welcome promises to be a memorable one and a large number of Conservative members from Ontario are expected to take part in it.

Obituary.

Death, the grim reaper, always leaves behind a trail of sorrow. No matter how or when he visits us, but especially whom he snatches from us one who is much loved and esteemed. Such was the case when on Thursday, August 22nd, Margaret, beloved wife of Clement Sutherland passed peacefully to her rest at the age of 50 years. Deceased had been in ill health for the past six months, and all that could be done by skilled physicians had been tried and failed. She was one of nature's noble women and her gentle affability and sympathetic nature made her a favorite by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance, possessed of a religious spirit and endowed with the virtue of self sacrifice, she was ever ready to assist the sick, the poor and the needy. She was attended in her last illness by the Rev. S. J. McDonald, and died fortified by the last rites of the Holy Catholic Church. The large concourse of friends that followed her mortal remains to the grave was a silent but impressive tribute. She leaves to mourn a grief-stricken husband, a disconsolate mother, three brothers and one sister. With these sorrowing relatives we mingle our tears. May our Divine Saviour whose Sacred Heart is all tenderness wipe them all away by making us realize the joy into which her pure soul has entered Rest in peace. Calmly her gentle presence left us After her brief day, While the glow of her pure life shone o'er her, Into the heart that was waiting for her, Our loved one passed away. —Com.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Morrison

Enthusiastic Welcome—Greeted By Thousands

Right Rev. Dr. Morrison, Bishop of Antigonish was tendered a most enthusiastic and whole hearted welcome by the parish and town of Antigonish, on his arrival there on Thursday last. His Lordship arrived by special train from St. Lawrence at 4.30 p. m., and was met at the station and accompanied to the College Rink where he was given a reception by at least three thousand people. Two bands, the Catholic Societies, mounted horse, Cadeaux, civic representatives and citizens formed in procession while flags and bunting were liberally displayed along the whole route. The procession lined up in the following order:

- 1. Stelleron Band (78th Highlanders.)
2. Grand Marshal—Dr. Ronan
3. Mounted Men
4. Catholic Societies (on foot): C. M. B. A.; L. O. C.; St. Vincent de Paul; K. O. C.
5. Town Council (in carriages)
6. Boy Cadets
7. Clergy (in carriages)
8. Bishop's carriage
9. Prelates (in carriages)
10. Pipe Band
11. Citizens (in carriages)
12. Citizens (on foot)

Mounted horsemen rode along the side of the procession and saw that order prevailed throughout. A special platform had been erected in the rink on which was seated the administrator, the Very Rev. H. P. McPherson, the Mayor, D. McIsaac, members of the Town Council and a number of the clergy of the diocese. Addresses of welcome were read by D. O. Chisholm, town clerk, on behalf of the Town of Antigonish and by J. A. Wall, on behalf of the parish and the Catholic Societies. The civic address, after welcoming His Lordship as a citizen and high dignitary of the Catholic Church expressed confidence in his splendid qualities of heart and mind, and referred to the excellent relations that have long subsisted in this community among Catholics and Protestants and confidently expressed the belief that His Lordship would do much to perpetuate and strengthen these good relations.

THE PARISH ADDRESS.

The address in behalf of the parish was as follows:— To the Rt. Rev. James Morrison D.D., Bishop elect of Antigonish. My Lord:

The Catholics of the Cathedral Parish of St. Ninian joyfully embrace this opportunity of welcoming your Lordship to their midst as the Bishop-elect of the important diocese whose seat is fixed in their town, and of congratulating you most heartily on your having been chosen for elevation to the high and holy office of the episcopate. We welcome you with feelings of the deepest satisfaction, because we recognize that this diocese, rendered vacant considerably over two years ago by the lamented death of the distinguished and revered prelate who had ruled it for over a third of a century, has, after the most mature deliberation on the part of the Holy See, had chosen for it a Bishop eminently fitted by zeal, learning and wisdom to be a most worthy successor of the great and good churchmen who have filled it in the past. Your distinguished career in the sister diocese of Charlottetown gives us solid and substantial reasons for this belief and for the profound satisfaction that arises from it.

LOYAL CATHOLICS.

As loyal Catholics we should and would receive with becoming submission and homage whoever the Holy See should see fit to select as our Bishop; but when that choice has fallen upon one whose eminent fitness for the high office is so well known to us, mere obligatory submission gives place to enthusiastic, heart-felt joy and acclamation. We beg your Lordship therefore to accept our assurances of loyal and loving devotion, and to allow us to give expression to our high hopes for the future of religion in our diocese under your wise and prudent rule.

Your predecessors have laid broad and deep the foundations of the work which we hope to see you raise to lofty and stately proportions. Especially has the great and most important work of Catholic higher education received their constant and unremitting attention, with results which we contemplate not without some degree of, we trust pardonable pride, whilst fully recognizing that much yet remains to be done to meet the demands of the times. We are happy to feel that, especially in view of your noteworthy connection with the same great work in the sister diocese, as Rector of St. Dunstan's College, your Lordship will most readily appreciate the deep interest we take in St. Francis Xavier's and in Mount St. Bernards and will realize how intimately their welfare and true progress are bound up with all our hopes for the future.

HOPE FOR CO-OPERATION.

Your Lordship is not one who will have any difficulty in entering with the fullest sympathy into the aspirations that have been common to our religious leaders and to us. Though coming from another diocese and Province, you have sprung from and lived your life identical in origin and similar in circumstances, in habits of thought and life, to ourselves. We see indeed, in your appointment a good omen for the future of the church in the Maritime Provinces; for it is obvious that greater co-operation in certain lines of effort on the part of the Catholics of those various Provinces is much to be desired; and we firmly believe that your Lordship will be able to do much towards bringing about that co-operation.

A FLOURISHING DIOCESE.

We look forward, under the blessing of God, to a great and flourishing Diocese under a great and zealous Bishop—a Diocese in which all that makes for the welfare of souls will thrive and abound, and in which the work so dear to the heart of the supreme pontiff who has chosen you—that of restoring all things in Christ—will be actively and faithfully carried on with the hearty co-operation of Bishop, and priests, and people. We are confident that so far as your well-known modesty will permit, your Lordship shares with us that vision, and we trust that you may find in it strength to endure the sacrifice which is involved in leaving home and kindred and country, and the friends of one's youth and early manhood—a sacrifice which is ever a trying one to human nature, and the more keenly felt the more that nature has been cultivated and refined.

"Once again, then, we bid you welcome and invite you, in the expressive words of the poet, to 'come to us, love us, and make us your own.' And may God grant that it may be many, many years before the people of Antigonish are called upon to receive their next Bishop.

HIS LORDSHIP'S REPLY.

His Lordship replied to both addresses felicitously. He thanked the citizens and the people of the parish for their warm welcome and trusted he would not be found wanting in any movement which could tend to the well being or betterment of the town. He congratulated the citizens on the good feeling existing among the different religious creeds, respect for conscientious beliefs in our fellow men was a mark of civilization. He trusted this feeling would continue to exist and to be made ever more evident.

The work done in the cause of higher education by the Catholics of this diocese was well known, bishops, priests and people had co-operated in a great and noble work. Education in the true sense must have regard for the moral as well as the intellectual. Other systems have their day, but the true test of ages, St. Francis Xavier's is imparting education in the true sense. His Lordship then asked for the prayers of his people that he might be able to discharge faithfully and well the duties of his high office.

THE JUDGES' DECISION ON THE Union Commercial College. Know All Men By These Presents, That, in a court of law, it is the facts that count, not promises or big statements. It is easy enough to make promises and not keep them; it is still easier to make statements that are not based on facts. In the case of this institution you cannot doubt the evidence of satisfaction among the students and graduates, and well pleased business men, in whose employ the graduates are so successful. We find it to be a practical business training institution, with a reputation for getting the best results for its students. The methods are modern; the teaching practical; the instructors are painstaking, competent, and experienced; the graduates are capable of meeting the requirements of the business man. We also find that those who employ the graduates of this institution are exceedingly well satisfied with the services rendered and have filed testimony, expressing their satisfaction. This is the kind of evidence that comes from the fact that the graduates of this institution are capable, and is based on solid and substantial merit. It cannot be imagined or created, but must be earned. It is the product of "value received," and is the kind of evidence that has placed this institution in the front rank of commercial educational institutions. Therefore, we recommend it to all contemplating a course in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping and all other commercial branches. Monaco And Genoa.

(From a letter to The Monitor, San Francisco.)

Nice has its history too, dating back so far as 350, when it was founded by the Massalies...

From Nice we went to Monaco, and thus passed out of France. We had entered another foreign land...

Here at last, then, was one of those little principalities, the like of which novelties delight in interesting for purposes of romance and imaginary adventure...

Genoa was a happy surprise. I hardly knew just in what spirit I approached it. It had not been 'boosted,' it seemed to me, like many other cities on the route...

How ever they have other reasons to smile. They pay no tax! And lately—but they had to frown to accomplish it—they vote and have a hand in the pie of their own government...

The Capital of Monaco, the City of Monaco itself, presents a sight so wonderfully picturesque, one has to rub his eyes to make sure he is not gazing at a picture painted from imagination...

In the valley between the capital and Monte Carlo, which is the second important city of Monaco, lies the third and last city of this taxless nation—Condamine. Condamine is where the people live—in contradiction to Monaco, where the Prince lives, and Monte Carlo, where no one lives...

At Monte Carlo souls as well as fortunes are lost—as I realized with a shiver when our special policemen 'detailed to watch for suicides' were pointed out to me...

It was then that I thought that I would rather live elsewhere and pay taxes than be a citizen of Monaco.

After Monaco we touch French territory again, but it is a rather curious community we enter, Beausoleil is the place, which, for its ancient history, dates back to the year 1905...

"Cholera Infantum" THE SUMMER COMPLAINT OF INFANTS

Cholera infantum begins with a profuse diarrhea, the stomach becomes irritated, and in many cases vomiting and purging set in.

Cholera infantum can be quickly cured by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Mrs. David A. Cleveland, Apple River, N.S., writes: "Last September my little boy, four years old, and little girl, two years old, were taken one afternoon with vomiting spells, and in a few hours they had cholera infantum."

A well esteemed preacher in a New England community that was rather notorious for the stinginess of its inhabitants suddenly announced his resignation, and the deacons immediately sought him out for his reasons.

The great monument to Columbus, which by picture is so familiar to us at home, faces the railway station; and that station, by the way was another feature of Genoa that took my eye, for it showed how the most businesslike city in Italy, be it ever so engaged in its pursuits, still does not forget the demands of harmony and art.

There is no character in history whose story is at once so beautiful, so heroic and so tragic as that of the young Lorraine girl who sacrificed her life for France—Jeanne d'Arc.

Of course, there are open squares, plazas, 'piazas,' they are called in Italy,—fronting churches and public buildings; and there are fountains for the Old World loves its fountains and cherishes the pure sound of falling water, and knows also its excellent sanitary value.

A little gray hamlet, of perhaps thirty or forty houses, on the side of a low hill, that slopes down to the meadow of the Meuse, with a church tower rising in the midst, an old stone bridge, and the ruins of an old castle, which was perhaps dismantled before Jeanne's time—this is Domremy of the present day.
