QUALITY in the flour means quality in the bread and the pastry you bake. Without quality behind your efforts, no knowledge or skill can bring good results. Better be without the skill than without the quality. "BEAVER" FLOUR is the highest development of blended wheats, embracing the rich health-giving properties of Manitoba Spring wheat and the carbohydrates of Ontario Fall wheat, which make delicate, white, light bread and pastry. Remember, it is for bread and pastry, both. With BEAVER FLOUR in the house, you only need one kind to attain the best results in every form of baking. BEAVER FLOUR means economy as well as efficiency. Ask your grocer for it today. DEALERS—Write for prices on all kinds of Flour, Corn Meal and Cereals. T. H. TAYLOR CO., Ltd., Chatham, Ont.

"Tell Him I Loathe Him."

CHAPTER XXI. The Flight of Bebe. She nodded an assent, seeming incapable of speech, then memory having returned, she threw a quick, searching look around for Loyd-Mostyn, but he was as completely invisible as though the Shamble Oak had absorbed him. She heaved a sigh of relief, and watched them lift the unresisting form, carrying it easily and lightly as they might a sleeping child. She walked slowly after them, her mental lethargy seeming to have returned. As the door of the inn she passed, watched them as they passed up the stairs, then quietly turned to a servant who was standing near.

"Will you ascertain the number of the room that has been assigned to me, and take me there?" she said, quietly. "I am Miss Virginia Beaufort." The domestic obeyed, and the Duchess calmly locked the door when she had passed in. With the utmost quiet she laid aside her hat and removed her gloves, then with the weariness of despair she lifted the clustering curls from her damp forehead.

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dovedale, Sask.—"I was a sufferer from female weakness—monthly periods irregular and painful and a bad discharge, backache and wretched headache, and had felt weak ever since the birth of my twins. I tried doctors but got no relief. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after three weeks I was feeling much better, and now I am well again."—Mrs. BESSIE BILLY, Dovedale, Sask., Canada.

Another Woman Cured. Christiana, Penn.—"I suffered from the worst form of female trouble so that at times I thought I could not live, and my nerves were in a dreadful condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold to suffering women."—Mrs. MARY WOOD, R.F.D. 3. If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. For thirty years this famous remedy has been the standard for all forms of female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, fibroid tumors, ulceration, irregularities, backache, and nervous prostration.

he has broken mine in return. Edwin Chapman is Erle Devereux. I see it all now plainly! The evening at Quintard's, his passionate words of pleading; but because my heart had turned from Devereux to Chapman I would not listen. Oh, God in heaven, this is punishment for all!"

She did not cry out, or beat her hands against the iron fate that surrounded her. She only leaned back in her chair and closed the lids of her burning eyes, her cheeks and lips spoke in their pallor. Meanwhile, Chapman and Quintard had placed Bebe upon a couch, and sent a servant for the doctor.

"I will leave you alone with her now, Chapman," Quintard said softly, while his hand rested upon his friend's shoulder, "but I go only because I think you wish it. If there is anything that I can do, I am sure you know there is nothing that could give me greater happiness. I am stopping here, and you have only to send for me at any time that you may want me."

"Thanks, old fellow," returned Chapman, wringing the extended hand. "I shall ask to see you as soon as I can leave my wife, as there are some explanations that must be made. Will you ask Miss Beaufort if I may not have a few words with her as well?"

"I will," replied Quintard, not without embarrassment. But I think I can guess the whole story, Chapman, and I am sorry for you both from the bottom of my soul!"

"God bless you!" whispered Chapman, as he turned again to the silent figure upon the couch. The noise of the closing door seemed to arouse Bebe. She sat up suddenly and seemed to be listening intently.

"Do you feel better, Angel? Chapman asked softly, as if afraid of starting her. "Is it you, Edwin?" she asked vaguely, the blind look returning to the pretty eyes.

"Yes, Angel!" he answered with a note of relief. "You have frightened me, darling. I wish you would tell me that you have quite recovered." He noticed the curious twitching about the sensitive mouth, but strangely enough it told him nothing. Her small hands opened and shut rapidly, but her voice was almost passive, as she replied:

"You should not have been frightened. I am quite well. Read the book to me, Edwin."

"I left it down under the tree, dear."

"Then go for it. There is no time to lose now. Go, Edwin, at once, will you not?" He looked at her curiously for a moment, then answered:

"No, you must go. A servant would not find it. Go, dear, go!" He saw that she was getting excited; the twitching about the mouth was increasing, the nervous hands were flying, the breath came in little parting gasps. He felt that he must do anything to quiet her.

"Yes! Oh, yes!" "Will you kiss me before I go?" She shivered slightly, then obediently raised her head; but the lips were cold as those of the dead when his touched them.

"You must be very quiet, Angel, until my return," he said unceremoniously. "Very," she replied. "Go, please, go!"

He touched her brow again, then reluctantly left the room. The door had scarcely closed behind him than she sprang to her feet. "When he returns I must be gone," she cried, pantingly. "It would mean death to remain—death! I hate it! His kiss scorched into my very soul. What is it that he has done to me? I don't know, but he has set my brain on fire. I know—I know!"

He never loved me. It is she who means to kill me in order that he may have her. I must go to save my life.

The wild glare in the sightless eyes, the ever-increasing twitching in the muscles of the face, told their own story. Bebe Chapman's reason was gone. She stood there in the centre of that room where she had been so happy, but no memory of it came to the poor, darkened life. She listened in terrified silence for a moment; then, through the opposite door to the one through which Chapman had gone, she turned and fled.

Through a short, dark corridor she hastened and down a pair of dingy stairs, her dainty mill gown torn and soiled, her hair, uncovered by any hair, blown backward; through a side door and out into a field she dashed, never once glancing back or pausing to listen. Her small feet falling noiselessly, on and on she ran, conscious of being in a wood from the branches that caught and sometimes detained her; but she paid little heed, until at last, weary and exhausted, she sank down among the violets at the side of a old log, and allowed her throbbing head to fall forward helplessly. Only a moment she permitted herself to remain so, then she endeavored to struggle to her feet again.

"I must not remain here," she murmured. "He will find me—he will find me and kill me; and I am afraid to die. I am afraid—afraid! Oh—" But the frail limbs were no longer strong enough to support their burden, and, with a frightened wail that she quickly suppressed with her hand, she sank backward.

"What shall I do? What shall I do she moaned. "It is so hideous dark. He is coming! I hear his footsteps. Oh, God in Heaven, if there were only anywhere in all this great world where I could hide myself!" She made a violent effort and staggered to her feet, but she had scarcely done so when her quick ear made her aware that a man was beside her. She uttered a low cry of agony and despair while the man sprang forward in time to prevent her from falling.

CHAPTER XXII. LOYD-MOSTYN'S RESOLUTIONS. "Oh, God, have pity on me!" The exclamation was uttered with such a wail of anguish that all the tenderness in the man's soul was touched. He caught her yet closer.

"This will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home." This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price. Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (45 cents worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles. The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in gualcol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this form. This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

and passed his hand quietly over the disordered curls. "Poor little girl!" he murmured brokenly.

At the sound of his voice the terror vanished like smoke from the lovely face, new life seemed to leap through the sluggish veins. She lifted her self and flung her arms about the man's neck convulsively. "Papa!" she gasped. "Oh, papa! thank God you have come!"

Loyd-Mostyn started. He unwound the clinging arms from his neck, and held her from him as he gazed into the eyes grown so strangely blank within the horrible hour. She struggled to find herself again upon his breast, the old agony returning to her face.

"You must not take me back there," she cried miserably. "Oh, for the love of Heaven, listen to me! You thought I was his wife, but I am not. Do you hear? He had a wife already, and she came there and found him, and now he means to kill me to make room for her. Papa, papa, don't take me there! I never could bear the sound of his voice again without that frightful terror. And he would kill me! You think you could protect me but you could not. He would come some day, in your absence, and you would return to find me dead—dead!"

The soft, musical voice had gradually risen almost to a scream of terror.

Loyd-Mostyn sat down on the old log, overgrown with moss and lichens, and drew her beside him, holding her hands firmly.

"Listen to me, little one," he said soothingly. "Of course I will do anything for you within the power of mortal man, but you must be calm yourself and tell me what it is you wish. You love—" "No! No! No!" she cried wildly. "I hate him! I hate him! Can't you understand that? I am not his wife and he intends to kill me to get me out of his way. You must take me away! away! Why did God send you just at this time if He did not mean you to do it? Promise that you will take me away! Promise that I shall never see him again. Oh, in Heaven's name, promise! Promise!"

A curious, untranslatable expression came over Loyd-Mostyn's handsome, soulless face—a doubt that gradually merged to eagerness, then quickly altered to determination. He drew her closer to him, taking both her hands in one of his and slipping his other arm around her waist. He bent his head so that his lips almost touched her ear before he spoke; then his tones were almost indistinct from suppressed eagerness. "Glimpse yourself, little one, he whispered, and try to understand me. If I take you away, remember it must be forever! Forever! You understand that?"

She nodded breathlessly. "And you agree?" "Yes." "But there may come a time when you will despise me for what I have done, when you will loathe me for leading to your request!" "Never! Never!" (To be continued.)

The Ocean Ranger which arrived here Sunday from Avr. Scotland, to Kennedy, Mullaly & Co., had a very stormy voyage of 31 days. She was holed to several times, had portions of her bulwarks torn away, her canvas was badly torn, and she generally received a drubbing.

The schooner Jean, Burke, master, of Harricot, St. Mary's Bay, was out in the storm of Sunday night and lay to all night. Bay Bulls had her foresail torn and lost several barrels of shoals and cod rods held on deck; she also narrowly escaped losing her deck load of oil.

AT THE WRECK.—Quite a number of Petty Harbor men went down to Leeward Cove to-day to have a look out for the wreck.

BIG BARRING CATCH.—The Messrs. Hollett, of Berlin, have done remarkably well with the fish the past summer. They have 8,000 quintals for three schooners. This is a record not easy to break.

By RUTH CAMERON

When you use a public telephone booth, do you always remember that it is public?

In the matter of taking care not to get too near the mouthpiece, I mean.

While waiting for my train the other day I chanced to sit near a public telephone booth in a very busy railway station for half an hour, and what I saw set me to doing some pretty tall thinking, and brought me to two conclusions.

One was that I would never place my mouth within six inches of one of those mouthpieces.

The other was that I would tell you folks about it.

Eight people used that telephone during my stay. Six of them placed their mouths so close as to almost and sometimes quite, touch the mouthpiece. A man with a straggly, unclean mustache, a badly broken out face, an odor that reached me where I sat, and a general appearance that made me feel he might have had almost any unmentionable disease, pressed his mouth tight against the mouthpiece.

The moment after he had left the booth, a daintily dressed young girl entered it and did the same thing.

How horrified she would have been at the thought of letting that creature touch her, to say nothing of kissing her.

And yet as far as germs and uncleanness go, her contact with the mouthpiece he had pressed his mouth against, was almost as bad as a kiss.

I believe that one should even be careful in the use of telephones in offices and private houses, to say nothing of public instruments.

I believe that the telephones in offices and even in private houses ought to be washed off occasionally with some good disinfectant. Of course, you know that the members of your own family are clean, but it certainly doesn't do any harm to guard against the passing on of colds or the spread of children's diseases in this way, and it may do infinite good.

In Massachusetts a law has just gone into effect which absolutely forbids the providing of public drinking cups by any public or private institution.

The telephone is not, of course, as great a menace as the public drinking cup, but I think it is a close second, and I trust we will soon see some legislation providing for the frequent cleansing and disinfecting of these instruments.

Why wouldn't that be a good thing to refer to the legislative committee of your woman's club?

And in the meantime, suppose whenever you enter a telephone booth you remember my friend of the offensive mustache and aroma, and keep your mouth just as far away from the mouthpiece as is consistent with making yourself heard.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Given Away.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Household Notes.

Linen that has become yellow with age may be made beautifully white by boiling it in a lather made of one pound white soap to one gallon of milk. After boiling, rinse in two waters and add blueing to the last water.

An orange peel placed on a hot stove makes a fine deodorizer. If the stove is hot enough it will burn like celluloid. However, if the stove is not hot enough, just touch a match to the peeling (after it has been heated through).

To wash lace curtains baste a narrow strip of muslin along each outer edge and let it remain until the washing and drying process is completed, and you will find your curtains straight and they will not sag in the least.

In cleaning wall paper with bread crumbs use two days' old bread in small pieces, clean with downward light stroke. Never go over same surface and never work horizontally. Cut away soiled part of bread continually.

If one's serge suit becomes a little shiny, try sponging it with warm vinegar, diluted with water. If the vinegar is very strong. This is not a permanent relief, but certainly will improve the appearance of the garment for a time.

Down comfortables are not very desirable for a baby, unless special warmth is desired, as in sleeping in the open air or a very cold room. They cannot be washed easily and if used should be hung out of doors to air every day.

You can make an old ice-chest look like new by scrubbing it thoroughly with a strong washing powder. Let dry, put on a thick coat of white enamel and let stand overnight. When dry, add the second coat. Finish outside with a coat of varnish.

Try dampening organdie and gowns of like material with borax and water instead of starch and water when pressing them. This will give a much fresher appearance to them and make the pressing of them much easier than as if starch were used.

A very attractive way of serving ice cream is to take lady fingers and split them in half. Make a four-sided enclosure, like a fence, of the lady fingers, filling the centre with the cream, topped with a maraschino cherry.

Buckskin shoes and slippers are easily cleaned with gasoline. It is wise after cleaning white shoes, whether of canvas or of buckskin, to slip the shoe trees into them. Then one need not fear lest the shoes shrink in the drying. Do not use gasoline near a fire.

To take inkstains out of mahogany put a few drops of nitric acid in a teaspoonful of water, touch the spot with a feather dipped in the mixture, and on the ink disappearing rub it over at once with a rag wetted in cold water so as not to leave a white mark.

When the handles of steel knives become loose or come off, pour a little powdered resin into the handle, then heat the part of the knife that fits into the handle until it is red hot and thrust it quickly into the handle. When it is cool the handle will be firmly fixed in place.

THE WOES OF THE WEAK-STOMACHED MAN

Relieved by Father Morrisey's "No. 11"

Did you ever see a happy dyspeptic? Or a man cheerful over his indigestion? No wonder you didn't, for the man who cannot digest cannot enjoy very much. When the stomach refuses to work the whole system goes wrong, and there follows heartburn, headache, constipation, bad breath and severe pain. Then the mind is affected; a person becomes irritable, sarcastic, surly—in fact, almost unbearable.

Father Morrisey gave this matter special study, and devised a tablet now known as "Father Morrisey's No. 11," which relieves the misery. Each tablet is capable of digesting 13 pounds of food—a good square meal. One tablet after eating, with a half tumbler of water, insures perfect digestion, providing reasonable care is taken to avoid foods that have been found especially disagreeable to the stomach.

If you have suffered from a weak stomach, why not do as thousands have done—take Father Morrisey's No. 11 Tablets and be cured? 50c. at your dealer's, or from Father Morrisey, Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 50

Searching For the Missing Ones.

Whatever lingering hope there may have been that any of the crew of the ill-fated Regulus may have escaped drowning is dispelled by the passing of time without any further tidings. The furious storm which was beating from the sea on to the land during the dark hours which passed between the time the ship struck and the dawn render it almost impossible that any boat could be launched or that any boat launched would live in such a wild and raging sea. It is hard for the afflicted ones to realize the worst, which unfortunately must be faced. The report of the Ingraham, which went out this morning with Minister Piccott and two divers of H.M.S. Brilliant will be awaited anxiously not from any hope of tidings of the saving of any of the missing, for that appears hopeless, but from the possibility that the bodies of some of the victims may be found in or about the wreck by the divers, and that opportunities may be afforded of committing the remains of the unfortunate ones to mother earth, and of holding the last sad rites and of paying proper respect to all that is mortal of them.

A CARRIER FIGURE.—A carrier pigeon flew into the window of Mr. Saunders' house, McFarlane Street, a few days ago. There is a silk band on one leg and a ribbon on the other. There is an inscription on the silver band which Mr. H. Cole the Cabman, who now has possession of the bird, is unable to decipher.

The Wrecked Regulus.

HATCHES PICKED UP—PROPELLER SEEN.

The exact spot where the Regulus went to her doom was at Leeward Cove, around the South Head of Petty Harbor, and men in from that place to-day say that this was the scene of another awful marine disaster over 50 years ago, when Capt. Burke, brother of Messrs. John and Alexander Burke, of St. John's, in coming to this port from the sealishery lost his vessel with a trip of seals and all on board. Messrs. Pett, Hissett, and Hy. Chafe, of Petty Harbor, were out to the scene of the wreck of the Regulus this morning. There was a terrible sea running and nothing could be done in the way of looking for bodies. They saw the propeller on a rock detached from the hull and it looks as if the hull is submerged. Leeward Cove to be correct, is 1 1/2 miles south of Petty Harbor Motion. The men alluded to got three hatches and saw some other wreckage. If the sea is calm to-morrow several skiffs will go to the scene. The D. P. Ingraham left here at 11.20 a.m. to-day with diving gear from the Calypso and two divers from the Brilliant with attendants to search for the bodies of the men. The sea is getting smoother every hour and this afternoon the search will be taken up.

Troublesome Dogs.

The residents of Leslie Street are again being annoyed by a pack of about 25 dogs that frequent that neighbourhood. They set upon a herd of goats there last night, killed four and wounded seven near McKay St. They got into Mr. James Ellis' back yard over a fence seven feet high. The dogs then began to fight and awoke Mr. John Cummins of the City Council employ. He got an empty benzene tin and a piece of a picket and started in to beat the drum. He made a terrible racket and frightened the dogs away. Some of the residents say that if they had their choice they would prefer the howling of the dogs to Mr. Cummins' drum. Should any of our city brigades need a drummer they ought not to have any difficulty in securing one.

Myrick was the undertaker and the remains were enclosed in a beautiful casket. Rev. F. O'Callaghan officiated in the R. C. Cathedral and interment was at Belvedere Cemetery. The funeral of the late James Meaney also took place yesterday afternoon and a large number of citizens were present, including the operatives of the Butcher's Factory where deceased was employed for over 20 years. Interment was at Belvedere Cemetery.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

To-day Arthur Butt, 21, fisherman of Labrador, and Thomas Owens, 65, stevedore, of Wales, were before the court charged with barratry in connection with the loss of the schooner Livonia and cargo at Isle aux Boles. Both were remanded for 8 days. A drunk in charge of a horse and car was fined $5 or 7 days. Two drunks were discharged. Hung Chung, a Chinaman, of Prescott Street, was charged with the larceny of $180 from Len Sen's laundry on Sunday past. He pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Mr. Higgins, and was remanded for 8 days pending further enquiries. A disorderly who appeared for the eighth time this season was fined $10 or 30 days. A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days. SIX boys were before the court for stealing $2 worth of coffee from John White, in the West End Market. Two who were ring leaders were each sentenced to 40 days; two others were discharged; a fifth was fined $20 or 3 days, and the sixth was released on his own recognizances. A number of civil cases were adjudicated upon in the C. D. Court. TWENTY-FIVE LIVES LOST.—It is generally believed that the loss of lives from the Regulus was not nineteen but twenty-five. Six men are said to have gone in the Regulus as passengers. Two of them are believed to be named Skeans and Byrne.

Labrador Report.

THE INVERMORE BACK.

The s.s. Invermore, Capt. Parsons, arrived here from Labrador this morning, having been down north as far as Turnavick. The trip was a very stormy one, both going down and returning. The ship arrived at Turnavick on the 18th. The storm, a regular mid-winter blizzard, was struck at Long Tickle on the way up, and the Invermore had to remain there for three days. The hills and valleys were covered with snow to a depth of three feet. It was equal to the severest snow storm ever seen in Newfoundland in February. The weather turned frosty on the 20th and the decks of the ship were covered with ice. That kept the men busy to cut and clear them away. Two days were also spent at Flat Island, waiting for another storm to abate. The Invermore brought up two wrecked crews, one being the crew of the schr. A. W. R. Wharford, Capt. A. Wharford, of Port de Grave. The schooner caught fire on the island owing to the spilling of a can of kero oil in the cabin when the fire was being lit. The fire could not be controlled and the ship was soon ablaze fore and aft. The skipper and crew lost most of their clothes. They were landed here this morning to go home by train to Port de Grave. The other schooner lost belonged to Mr. Munn, the skipper being Theophilus Hart. They were coming home when the Etie M. went ashore beating through the Tickle near Bolster's Rock. The crew were brought up by the Invermore. A third schooner lost was Mr. R. D. McRae's. She went ashore in Grady Harbor, having just come out of the bay with a load of wood. She was beached and will be repaired and floated again next spring. All the vessels had then the coast when the Invermore came up. One of the crew, Mr. Rorke's at Venison Island and R. McRae's at Grady. Fifty second class passengers came on the Invermore to Newfoundland and the following in saloon: Mr. Robinson, Mr. Adams, J. P. Hearn, R. McRae, Capt. Clarke, Messrs. Bartlett, Gosse and Donovan, three Marconi men; D. A. Ryan, J. Collins, G. S. Allan, J. Snow, Joe Newman, Art Snow, Geo. North, M. O'Toole, J. Abbott, Fred Hartley, J. H. Keefe, Stephen Brown and D. S. Sheehan. The Invermore brought a lot of fish and oil, herring, etc. She will make another trip to Labrador this week, going as far as Rigolet.

The place will be renovated and handily fitted up as club and meeting rooms for the members. The members of the Union and their friends will get the mortally benefits due them.

The Rosalind Here.

The S. S. Rosalind, Capt. Smith, arrived here at 2 a.m. to-day. The ship left New York at 4 p.m. Wednesday last and arrived at Halifax Saturday morning at 1 o'clock, leaving again at 6. From New York to Halifax she had a N.E. gale with a heavy sea and from Halifax she had exceptionally bad weather. Sunday evening and night she had the full force of the storm with a gale from the S.W., high sea and dense fog, with torrents of rain. She brought a full cargo of foodstuffs and these passengers: From New York—Mr. Chesley Manuel, Mrs. Chesley Manuel, Miss Jean Stickle, Miss Phoebe Edmonds and 5 second class. From Halifax—Mr. W. G. Parsons, Mr. W. H. Lawrence, Dr. G. I. Anderson, Mrs. G. I. Anderson and 5 second class.

The Portia passed Cape Race at 8.30 this morning, and is due at 4.30 p.m.

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A physician of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says: "I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health, especially by dietetic and dietetic laws. "With such a feeling as my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts, and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence. "It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work. "In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is not advisable to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food. "This is written after an experience of more than 20 years, treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville, in pkgs. "There's a Reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Random Remarks by Roderick Random

A King of Biographers.

A few nights ago as I turned to my encyclopaedia in search of information, my eye caught the ever memorable name of James Boswell, and as chance would have it, it was the anniversary of his birth. I put the encyclopaedia aside, and sat down to dream over the happy times I have spent at Lichfield, where the great Samuel Johnson was born. Some three years ago I was fortunate enough to be present at the unveiling of the Boswell statue, and I am sure that Scotchmen were no more gratified than Englishmen at the erection of a statue of James Boswell in the city of Lichfield, in close proximity to that of the great moralist, essayist, and lexicographer, Dr. Samuel Johnson. That such a tribute to the memory of the immortal biographer of Johnson should have been delayed so long is strange indeed, and the city of Lichfield is to be congratulated upon its thoughtful and devoted to a man whose life was inseparably connected with that of its most distinguished citizen.

Boswell's name will live as long as the name of Johnson by virtue of the immortal biography that evoked from Macaulay and Carlyle such glowing tributes of praise. "The Life of Johnson," wrote Macaulay, "is assuredly a great, a very great work, Homer is not more decidedly the first of dramatists, Demosthenes is not more decidedly the first of orators, than Boswell is the first of biographers. He has no second. He has distanced all his competitors so decidedly that it is not worth while to place them. Eclipsed is first, and the rest nowhere." Macaulay, however, had a pair of penetrative eyes, and it was not to be expected that the follies and failings of Boswell would elude them, though not every critic of Boswell is prepared to endorse Macaulay's volcanic description of the young Scotchman whom Dr. Johnson continually honoured with his company and his confidence.

An Open-Hearted, Frank Fellow.

A more straightforward, open-hearted and frank fellow is not to be found in the literary annals of the Johnsonian age. It was impossible for him to conceal his weakness; or for that matter, to conceal any phase of his interesting and complex personality. But when one has made oneself familiar with all the complexities of Boswell's life, his volatility and dissoluteness, his resolutions and retrogressions, his bigotry and his pedantry, it is impossible that one can do otherwise than receive him with open arms and an affectionate embrace. Certainly Johnson snubbed him on many occasions, as he so often snubbed all his friends, but doubtless he saw a great deal more in his future biographer than the reflections of Macaulay were able to discern. He may have been a "Paul Pry, a sycophant, a parasite, a coxcomb, a bigot, a sot, a buffoon, and a fool" to those who had not the coveted companionship and esteem of Dr. Johnson, but in spite of all his shortcomings he had the honour of the intimate friendship of one of the greatest spirits of the eighteenth century. "Never, my dear sir," said Johnson to him on one occasion, "do you take it in your head that I do not love you; you may settle yourself in full confidence both of my love and esteem. I love you as a kind man, I value you as a worthy man and hope in time to reverence you as a man of exemplary piety."

It is questionable whether Johnson ever discovered in Boswell the "exemplary piety" that was to be the object of his reverence; not that we have any evidence to prove that impartially was in the catalogue of his shortcomings. His one great weakness was insobriety, due partly to unrealized ambitions and unaccomplished purposes, and partly to irresolute-ness. No man, not excepting Coleridge, was ever equipped with less volitional power. His resolutions, like the proverbial pie-crust, were made only to be broken.

A Threehottle Man.

Turn to almost any page of his biography and you will hear the tinkle of glasses, and smell the scent of the sparkling wine. As he himself once said, "I am really growing a drunkard." How often did Mr. Temple entreat him to abandon his intemperate habits, and "as they talked together under an aged yew, Boswell vowed that he should henceforth avoid excess and cherish moderation." Many times, too, did Dr. Johnson implore him "to read more and drink less." On one occasion when he had been suffering from his "atrabillous temperament," he was strongly impressed by the Scriptural phrase, "Seek ye the Lord while He may be found"; and on the very next day we find him writing to his friend, Mr. Temple: "My promise under the solemn yew I have observed wonderfully, having never infringed it till the other day. A very jovial company of us dined at a tavern, and having once broke over the pale I ran wild. But I did not get drunk; I was, however, intoxicated, and very ill next day. I ask your forgiveness, and shall be more strictly cautious for the future. The drunken manners of this country are very bad."

The distinction between intoxicated and drunk is, if not particularly obvious, amusing and pathetic and characteristically Boswellian. But in spite of these periodic relapses Boswell was benevolent at heart, and exceptionally companionable. It is not difficult to understand why Johnson loved him. If he was a genuine typler, he was also a genuine penitent. Frequently he and Johnson would take the Sacrament together, and his "Sir, I would fain be a good man, and I am very good now," was the expression of a sinner sincere in his penitence and his yearnings after goodness, but unable to stand in the dreadful hour of temptation.

Whatever Boswell's defects may have been he certainly merits the statue Lichfield has thought well to erect to his memory. This generation understands better than any previous generation the intrinsic merits of the great biographer, as separate from the venerable personality therein enshrined.

A Supreme Biography.

The biography is literature, and supreme in its own particular branch. There may, or there may not have been a statue of Johnson in Lichfield in the absence of his companion's massive biography, but it is quite certain that only through Boswell has posterity been able to understand what manner of man Johnson in reality was. As Macaulay writes, "Johnson, as Mr. Burke most justly observed, appears far greater in Boswell's books than his own. What a singular destiny has been that of this remarkable man! To be regarded in his own age as a classic and to ours as a companion. To receive from his contemporaries that full homage which men of genius have in general received only from posterity. To me more intimately known to posterity than other men are known to their contemporaries!"

Regulus An Old Ship.

The s.s. Regulus was built in 1873 and arrived here first June 14th, 1887 in command of Capt. Yeo. Capt. A. Keen was then given charge of her. Her tonnage is 1,367 gross, 855 net; 258 feet long, 32 feet broad, 19 feet deep. The captains who had charge of the Regulus since were Captains Couch, Wakeham, McNeil and Taylor. The s.s. Regulus had poor luck the past three years. About two years ago she ran into an iceberg which nearly sunk her. Shortly afterwards she ran ashore up near Bay Bulls. Next year she ran into a steamer coming out of Sydney, and the past season collided with the s.s. Karema, and had to be sold to pay the damages against her. Her last stroke of ill-fortune was due to the breaking of the tail shaft off Bay Bulls Head last Sunday. The D. P. Ingraham, with Mr. A. Piccott, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, went out this morning to the scene of the wreck, taking out two divers from H.M.S. Brilliant, whom Capt. Woolcomb kindly sent out. The loss of the Regulus is the worst on record occurring near the city. The Lucerne is supposed to have been lost on this coast near Bay de Verde in the year of 1896. She carried a crew of 22; most of whom were St. John's men. The Lucerne was a sister ship of the s.s. Regulus, belonged to the same company and was in command of Captain Reed. The loss of the s.s. Falcon coming from Philadelphia, to Bowring Bros with a load of coal took place in the fall of 1894. She was in command of Capt. Bartlett and had a Newfoundland crew. The ship is believed to have foundered in storm off this coast. The manner of her loss as well as that of the Lucerne is one of the mysteries of the deep.

Away Goes All Stomach Trouble.

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia five minutes later.

If you had some Diagepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diagepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with noxious odors.

Pape's Diagepsin is certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

Proposed Seaman's Home.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Mr. Editor—The movement on foot to provide a large hotel for the welfare of people coming to and from St. John's has received the endorsement of the Government and the leading people in the Colony. It seems to be generally recognized that rich people visiting the city cannot find there what they require for their accommodation, meanwhile these people have also recognized the fact that no sufficient provision is made for the accommodation of those who are unable to afford large prices. There are many others, beside our fishermen, and sailors, young men and girls passing through the city or coming to seek employment, who are not in a position to pay even one dollar a day for board and lodging, nor, even if they were, could they at that sum procure an opportunity for rest and recreation for this. Richer men look to the clubs and hotels. Everyone realizes that a man is a man in a flannel jacket just as much as in a broad cloth suit, and a young man who comes to the city in a schooner or perhaps because he is looking for work to earn his daily food stands just as much in need of something to supply reasonable employment for the idle hours as his more fortunate brother whose money can command for him all that the city has to offer. The police of the city know all the temptations and dangers to which young men and girls are exposed on arriving in the city without friends or any previous experience of the world. These can be far more successfully obviated by providing suitable places where temptation is not necessarily obtruded upon him, than by those amount of shouting against those social evils that continue to exist everywhere in spite of every possible vigilance and precaution. Practical men, who realize that legislation cannot make a modern city into a Garden of Eden, are looking everywhere to provide at least the opportunity for satisfying the natural tastes and desires of those who cannot provide them for themselves. With this in view I have at different times met a number of citizens with the hope of being able to put in St. John's a building on the lines of the Howton Houses, which in the great cities in England are so admirably fulfilling such a position. With Sir Fredrick Treves in London, who is greatly interested in them, and Sir William Bowring in Liverpool, I visited these buildings, and the proposed Seaman's Institute was designed on the lines of these. Sir Clifton Robinson, now in the city had also had to do with the movement in England. The plans have been placed in the Board of Trade for inspection, and His Excellency the Governor has called a meeting at Government House at 4 o'clock, to-morrow, Wednesday, by invitation, to discuss this matter, as it is impossible to know exactly what takes a real practical interest in this. His Excellency permits me to say that if anyone interested has been omitted from the list of those invited they would be welcome at 4 o'clock. The site has been purchased for $13,000, the excavation has cost about $75,000, there remains on hand about $75,000 paid in cash, and about $10,000 in promises. Whatever money is received clear from the sale of the old Seaman's Home is proposed to be put aside for a small endowment against running expenses. The meeting is called with the idea of discussing the best course now to be pursued, and His Excellency hopes that some material progress may be made towards the attainment of so desirable an object as the result of a free discussion. His Excellency will preside.

Sincerely yours,
W. T. GREENFELD,

MARSHALL BROS.

Criticizes the Picnic Party.

Dear Sir,—I have just arrived from Labrador and feel pretty sore over the way the Morris Government have treated the fishermen on that coast. Early in the season Capt. Wm. Winsor, the member for Bonavista, came along in his excursion boat and posted notices along the coast prohibiting trawling on the coast until after September 10th. I have been going to the Labrador for over thirty years and I am convinced that only for this notice there would be many a saving voyage from Labrador. Now, my object in writing this note to the Telegram, the "People's Paper," is to ask why the Government in view of the conditions on Labrador did not cancel that Proclamation earlier and let the fishermen get fish the best way they could. I am surprised at Capt. Winsor. He should have insisted on the Government cancelling the law when he saw such unprecedented conditions. I am also surprised at Mr.

Piccott, the Minister of Fisheries, for not urging his colleagues to tear up the law earlier and save the people from this terrible failure of the fishery. The fish was there and could be trawled, but not trapped. It looks like as if fellows who never caught a fish in their lives delight in making absurd laws for the fishermen. Perhaps the true explanation of the failure of the Government to act promptly in this emergency is that so many members of the People's Party were away on the picnics. No wonder fishermen call the People's Party the Picnic Party.

More About the Crew of the Regulus.

Capt. Taylor was a man who was well known and liked by the many who knew him in the city. He was born in England and came here some 26 years ago, and was noted for his kindly and genial disposition. Early in his career he was master of Tessler's Maida running to Prince Edward Island; he was later master of the old coastal steamer Curlew on the northern service, the Conscrip, Winsor Lake, and afterwards had charge of the S. S. Home running from Bonne Bay to Battle Harbor. He was master of Reid's yacht Effe, and piloted Lord Northcliffe's yacht Zenaida while she was here, and after the late Hon. S. Blandford died he acted as ships husband. For several years he was employed by the Reid Mfd. Co.

A sad incident occurred yesterday in connection with the loss of Capt. Taylor. About 4.30 p.m. the postboy handed Mrs. Taylor a letter written by her husband to her just before the ship left Bell Island. On perusing the missive Mrs. Taylor burst into a paroxysm of grief, and the deliverer of the letter as well as the neighbour about were greatly affected on witnessing her grief.

Capt. Malcolm McNeil who formerly commanded the ship, and on the fatal voyage was chief officer of her was formerly in Franklin & Co's office. He commanded her when she collided a few months ago with the Karema, and was in the vessel when she ran ashore near Petty Harbor some years ago, and when in collision at Sydney Harbor. He was only 27 years old and one of the youngest master mariners sailing out of port. The poor chap was to have been married shortly, and his fiancée as well as his mother and relatives are deeply grieved at the tragedy.

Mr. Kent the young man, was well known and liked in St. John's. He was a son of Capt. Wm. Kent, of St. John's.

The Chief Engineer, Mr. Peniston who was formerly himself chief of the Noya, and took her to England to engage in the South Polar Expedition. He was a brother-in-law of Mr. Andrew Gooby, of H. M. Customs, and leaves a wife and 5 children—four sons and a daughter—to mourn him. M. F. Knight, the Second Engineer was the eldest son of Mr. Stephen Knight, chief of the Stella Maria, and who was formerly himself chief of the Regulus. Another son of Mr. Knight's was drowned on a foreign voyage about a year ago. His parents who were averse to his going to sea, are in a terrible state of grief over his tragic death.

Herbert Goude, son of Mr. William Goude, of Duckworth Street, was Third Engineer on her. He was a member of the C. L. B. Band and left about a year ago for New York. The lads of the four brigades remember him well, as he was very popular amongst them.

John Stewart Osborne, a son-in-law of Serjt. Courteney, was a man well and favourably known in St. John's. When the man Bailey was electrocuted he was only three months ago, poor Osborne, at the risk of his life, attempted to relieve him and was shocked so severely and turned so badly that he died a few months afterwards he was in hospital, and up to the time of his death left the effects of that accident. He leaves a widow and five little children.

The cook, Michael Brien, was transferred to the Regulus from the Adventure, though he had been on the Regulus for a number of years. He was very popular among sea-faring men. He leaves several sisters and brothers.

Fireman Arthur Forbes was well known and highly respected also. His father before him was an engineer, as are his brothers John and James. Two other brothers hold situations in St. John's, one of them being in Bowring's dry goods establishment. John is now chief of the Bonaventure and James was on the Regulus last year.

Fireman John Rodgers was widely known and very respected, especially in the West End where he resided. He was a son of Mr. John Rodgers, an engineer with the Colonial Cordage Co. His widow resides in New York, and his parents are disconsolate over his demise.

Boy Had Fits For 6 Years

Druggist advised DR. A.W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—Cure complete and lasting.

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, 88 Park St., Amsterdam, N. Y., writes: "When my son, who was 12 years of age, began to have fits they came on in the night. He would make strange noises, stiffen out, froth at mouth, face would twitch and sometimes become purple. After the fit I could not talk.

"The family physician said all I could do was to keep him down somehow. The prominent physician pronounced trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years and before beginning the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food had three fits about five days. Our druggist recommended Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. He has taken seven boxes and has had the symptoms of a fit since. His color has greatly improved; he is nervous and irritable like he used to be and we consider his cure complete."

Such results are only obtained by the use of the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food—not from imitations or substitutes. 50 cents a box, all dealers. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sheep Raising in Canada.

None too soon an effort is being made to place the sheep industry of Canada upon a more stable basis than is at present the case. The number of sheep owned in the Dominion has been gradually lessening, so that it compares not at all favourably with other great agricultural countries. In 1881 there were 3,048,678 sheep in Canada; according to the latest returns there are now 2,705,390. In the United Kingdom, on the other hand, there were in 1909, 31,836,833 head, in the Argentine, 67,211,754, in Australia, 87,042,266, and in New Zealand, 23,480,707. There have been other signs as well that the interest in sheep-growing has been on the wane in Canada, and that as compared with these countries it has, in the words of Dr. J. G. Rutherford, the live stock commissioner, permitted sheep-raising to become a somewhat insignificant phase of its agriculture, "notwithstanding its great adaptability both as regards soil and climate for the growing of mutton and wool." This was one of the features of Canadian farming at which the Scottish Agricultural Commissioners, several of whom were expert sheep-farmers, expressed astonishment. It is, therefore, gratifying to learn that it has been decided that the time is ripe for the Dominion government to "consider a comprehensive policy, and to undertake definite and extended measures likely to operate towards the encouragement, improvement, and development of the industry as a whole." To this end two practical men—W. T. Ritchie, of Manchester, England, and W. A. Dryden, of Brooklyn, Ontario—have been appointed to make a preliminary report upon the sheep and wool trade in Great Britain, the United States and Canada. It may be hoped this first step will lead to further action towards establishing sheep-raising as "a recognized factor in promoting the national prosperity" of Canada.—(From "Canada," London).

Notes From Harbor Grace.

The ladies of Christ Church are busily engaged preparing for their Sale of Work, which is to take place on the 22nd and 23rd November. Another contingent of our young men who were unsuccessful at the fishery the past summer will leave by train to-morrow for Sydney and other places to work for the winter. The funeral of the late Mrs. M. Murray took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended by sorrowing friends. You reported the sad death of this lady in your paper on Saturday. The body was brought from St. John's by Saturday evening's train. To the bereaved father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Spence, Mr. Albert Spence, train despatcher with the Reid Nfld. Co., and the other members of the family we tender our deepest sympathy. His Lordship Bishop March and his popular priest, Rev. W. Finn, returned by Thursday's express from their visit abroad. We join with all our citizens in bidding them a very hearty welcome back. A little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crocker was attacked by a vicious dog on Thursday evening last. Fortunately Mr. Edmund Rogers came along at the time and turned the savage brute away; Mr. Rodgers had considerable trouble and risk in beating the brute off. The dog was immediately destroyed. The many friends here of Mr. E. H. Davey and family heard with regret the sad news of the death of his esteemed wife, and he has the sympathy of all his acquaintances. Rumor says your correspondent Mary has started a "horneet's nest" by her last letter, and that libel suits are mentioned, and we are not sure that mourning suits for Tom are not spoken of. Be careful, Mary. A large number of the members of the Knights of Columbus from St. John's, Bell Island, and other places are now in town. A banquet is to be given to-night in honour of the return home of His Lordship Bishop March and other clergy. Prof. Nichols will visit Victoria St. school this p.m., and deliver a lecture on drawing to the scholars there. The Agricultural Exhibition held on Wednesday and Thursday last was a grand success. The Agricultural Society as a body is to be congratulated for their untiring efforts for the good of the cause of Agriculture in this Bay. Mr. Norman Munn and Mr. John Brunlees, the Secretary, who spared no time or trouble to make the arrangements perfect are deserving of special mention. The pictures of the Exhibits taken by our local photographers are worth seeing and we hope to have them in the next edition of Pictorial Harbor Grace, soon to be issued. Visitors who have seen exhibitions in Canada say that our Exhibition could not be surpassed. CORRESPONDENT, Harbor Grace, Oct. 24, 1910.

S. MILLEY, Water St.

The Bishop of Nfld. at Pouch Cove.

Last Sunday, 21st Sunday after Trinity, His Lordship Bishop Jones visited the Mission of Pouch Cove for the purpose of holding Confirmation. In their desire to show honour to their Bishop, some forty men early in the week erected two fine arches of green boughs, one at the south entrance of the church, and the other on the road near the west end of the graveyard, along which the Bishop was to pass. To our great disappointment a heavy gale of wind, with pelting rain came on early Saturday morning, when the largest and finest arch, after having for several hours withstood the violence of the storm, at last succumbed to its great force and fell with a crash. The gale continued unabated till the afternoon and the arch having been so much shattered from the effect of the storm, it was useless to attempt to re-erect it so as to be in readiness for the next day (Sunday). A bright and pleasant morning ushered in the day, to which so many were eagerly looking forward. The religious exercises of the day began with an early celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30, when the incumbent, Rev. T. G. Netten officiated and eighty-five persons partook of the Blessed Sacrament. Flags were now being run up in every direction. Almost every parishioner had a flag flying near his house. Festoons of flags hung over and on each side of the arch at the entrance of the church. Others were hung across the road at intervals leading to the Parsonage. Some time before the hour for the Confirmation service the church was rapidly filling, and several benches had to be brought over from the schoolroom to provide seats for the overflowing congregation. About 11 a.m. the Bishop arrived, attended by Rev. M. K. Gardner as chaplain. His Lordship robed at the schoolroom, where the clergy, the surpliced choir and the candidates for Confirmation were also assembled. A procession was then formed in the following order: The Bishop, preceded by his chaplain bearing the pastoral staff, the choir, the female candidates all dressed in white, then the male candidates, and in front of all the incumbent, leading the procession to the church. On entering the sacred building the organ pealed forth strains of the hymn "A. & M." "The Church's one foundation," which was heartily sung as the long procession wended its way up the central aisle. A variety of beautiful flowers, most of them of a white color, had been placed behind the altar rails and upon the altar, and seemed to harmonize with the happy occasion. The Confirmation service, always a beautiful one, was unusually impressive on the present occasion. Thirty-seven candidates knelt reverently and received the "laying on of hands." The female candidates in their pure white dresses and Confirmation veils seemed to speak of that spotlessness of life and character which becomes those who are endued with the Holy Spirit. It was the privilege of candidates and general congregation to listen to a powerful and impressive address from His Lordship's lips. The Bishop prefaced his address by congratulating the congregation on the various and marked improvements which had been made in the sacred edifice since his last visit. He referred to the good work done by the C.E.W.A. of All Saints Church, evident in the providing of several things for the furnishing and adornment of the church chancel and sanctuary, over $500 having been expended by them on the interior of the sacred building during the last few years. He also noted with pleasure that the men were not behind in good works. He then turned to the candidates and tenderly addressed them, as a very father in God, exhorting, warning and encouraging them, as he pointed out the trials, the difficulties, the temptations which would be about their way. He bid them be loyal soldiers of Jesus Christ, whom they had that day vowed to serve, and be loyal members of that church for which the Redeemer died and into which they were baptized. He charged them to go on to seek for still more grace in the Holy Sacrament of Christ's Blessed Body, keeping ever before them the glorious prize, the immortal crown, which fadeth not away. His Lordship also addressed the parents, urging them to help and encourage their children in keeping their solemn Confirmation vows, and not to throw any hindrance in their way to their going early to the Lord's Table, that they might increase and grow in that Sacramental grace which had just been given them through the laying on of hands. During the singing of the last hymn a collection was taken up towards the Church Ship Fund, and exceeded that taken up on any previous occasion. During the afternoon His Lordship, accompanied by his chaplain and the incumbent of the mission, drove to Torbay. The way to the church was lined with flags, while several of the congregation had lent pots of beautiful flowers for the adornment of the Sanctuary. Here 14 additional candidates were confirmed. After the administration of the sacred rite, the Bishop gave another impressive address. The breathless attention with which the candidates and congregation listened showed how eagerly they drank in His Lordship's striking words. Immediately after the service the Bishop and his chaplain returned to St. John's. These visits of our Bishop have an inspiring effect upon us all, and leave behind pleasant recollections which do not quickly fade from our minds. —Com. Pouch Cove, Oct. 21st, 1910.

At Mount Cashel.

The twelfth anniversary of Mount Cashel was celebrated yesterday. His Grace Archbishop Howley went there and celebrated Mass at 7.30 a.m. All the inmates of the school and the teachers attended, as well as the people attending in the neighbourhood. The orphans received Holy Communion. After Mass there was Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at which the hymns were nicely sung by a choir of orphan boys.

"WHAT'S DOING AT WABANA."

OUR IRON ISLE. Rev. Fr. McGrath arrived Friday after a vacation to Canada and America. He looks fine after his holiday and was warmly welcomed by all his flock. In future Father Kelly will conduct Sunday services at the mine's chapel. The despatch announcing the result of the first game played by the Dominion football team in Sydney was received with much pleasure, and as predicted in the Telegram on their leaving, our boys are "making good" in football circles in Cape Breton. Well played, Newfoundland! but excellent Bell Island. The s.s. Euphrates left here Sunday at 7 a.m., taking quite a crowd for Harbor Grace, including many of the Knights of Columbus, who went to attend initiation services to be held there Monday. In reference to remarks made by our friend in the Herald, referring to the Dominion team going to Sydney, we regret he should have taken that as an opportunity to make a personal "hit" at Mr. Joseph Murphy, and we may say had Mr. Murphy been a supporter of the football team favored by the Herald's correspondent, no such remark would have been publicly made. Mr. Murphy, though being a foreigner, is as much respected as any Bell Island subject at Wabana. Messrs. J. K. Butler and W. A. Coughlan, of the Dominion Co., left to spend the week-end with relatives—the former at Topsail and the latter in St. John's. A new surface pit has been opened at the eastern end of the island by the D. I. & S. Co., where stripping will be done the winter and the ore ready for shipping next summer. The s.s. Ellen with the D. I. & S. Co.'s "footers" is due on Thursday at Wabana. Quite a few steamers are now employed between Bell Island and parts of Conception Bay, the latest addition being the s.s. Victor. Already the Euphrates, Mary and Progress are so engaged. Mr. Con McKinnon contemplates opening dancing classes here the winter. The news of the engagement of Miss Nellie Deluchery, so well known here, to Mr. R. C. Power, the Newfoundland agent for the I. C. S., was favorably received on the island. Miss Deluchery spent a few months here last spring, being the guest of Miss Lucy Walsh. In reply to the Herald's correspondent, we learn on excellent authority

Schooner Bonnie Lass Badly Buffeted.

Yesterday the schooner Bonnie Lass, McDonald, of Salmonier, arrived from that place to James Baird, Ltd., fish laden. She left Salmonier Friday last and had fine weather until Sunday last when just after rounding Cape Race she was overtaken by the storm which was rapidly increasing, until dark a regular hurricane had set in from the S. E. with a huge sea running and a dense fog. After hauling in, as the captain thought he was near Cape Spear, a huge sea struck her and carried away her rudder. To try to navigate the Narrows with her rudder gone would be to court disaster, so the vessel was hoisted to and lay outside the port until yesterday morning. Her jumbo and foresail were badly torn in the storm. When the Ingraham went out for her it was dangerous work to get along-
