CHAPTER V.
"Ah," he said, morosely; "always the same excuse. No time! No inclination, you mean! It's hard, very hard. Just look what I've done for you, Marie, have you forgotten?" and he came nearer, and looked down at her half savagely, half pleadingly, his lips twitching. "Have you forgotten the old times? We used to be all in all to each other. I wish they were back again. I was happy enough then, but you weren't satisfied; you must go to school and be made a lady of, and I—well, I was fool enough to let you. You knew I couldn't refuse you anything."

"You have always been the dearest, the nicest of fellows, Sinclair," she murmured, lovingly, and laying her hand on his arm. "If you would only trust me a little more, and not get so—so fidgety. Now, why couldn't you write to me instead of coming down here in this absurd fashion? Do you know that you nearly startled me out of my life, sir, jumping out of the bushes like a wild cat? Suppose any one had seen you?"

"Some one has seen me," he said, sullenly.
"Who was it?" she asked.
"I don't know—a young fellow driving a pair of ponies; one of your swells, I suppose. He went by on the end of the road just before you came. I didn't ear him until he was close upon me, and I tried to get out of his reach; but he saw me, I think. What does it matter?"

"Oh, it doesn't much matter," she said, lightly, with a sweet smile.
"Now tell me about yourself. How are you getting on, how is the voice? Come and sit down beside me."

He threw himself down at her feet, and began plucking at the fern fronds within his reach with the restless, dissatisfied manner peculiar to him.

"It's a regular struggle," he muttered. "Enough to make a man chuck up the whole thing. But I've stuck to it, and I think I've got a footing at last. I'm the chief tenor at the Oriental Music Hall, Wandsworth," he added, stroking his mustache with self-complacency.

"Really! How splendid!" she exclaimed.
"Yes, I shall be famous—I feel it!" and he struck his chest with a theatrical air, "and then you and me will be married and be happy, at last!"

She drew a long breath, of inward longing really, though he took it for ecstasy.

Mrs. H. VON RODEN of LYNDON, KY.

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Backache, Nervousness, Headaches.

Lyndon, Ky.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for headaches, neuralgia pains, backache, nervousness and a general run down condition of the system, and am entirely relieved of these troubles. I recommend your remedies to my friends and give you permission to publish what I write."

—Mrs. H. VON RODEN, Lyndon, Ky.
When a woman like Mrs. Von Roden is generous enough to write such a letter as the above for publication, she should at least be given credit for a sincere desire to help other suffering women, for we assure you there is no other reason why she should court such publicity.

Canadian Woman's Experience: Windsor, Ont.—"The birth of my first child left me a wreck with terrible weak spells, but I am glad to tell you that I do not have those weak spells and I feel like a new woman since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now well and strong and can do my own housework. I do not take medicine of any kind. It was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that restored me to health."

—Mrs. ROBERT FARRINGTON, 72 Parent Avenue, Windsor, Ontario.
If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New."

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT, SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY.

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Cattaraugus Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"Ah, how happy we shall be!" she murmured.

He got up and fumbled in his pockets.
"Ow are you off for money?" he asked. "I'm not very flush, but I can spare a little. Here you are—you may want it," and he pressed a sovereign and a half into her palm. The coins were hot, and seemed, like everything about him, to be greasy, and smelt of hair oil; but Marie Verner took them and kissed him gratefully.

"Now go, dear," she whispered, "and—don't hang about the village—about the inn," she added, significantly.

"Oh, you needn't be afraid," he said; "I'm steady enough as a rule. It's only when I think of your playing me false that I break out! No, I shall go straight back. I've got to sing to-night, too!"

Then he took her in his arms and kissed her passionately, feverishly, and, as if with an effort, at last tore himself away. Marie Verner sank on to the grass again, and sat quite still, breathing with little short pants of hot disgust and loathing.

White and shuddering, she thrust the golden hair from her forehead and wrung her hands, looking round her with wild, staring eyes, like some animal driven to bay.

"What shall I do? How can I get rid of him? No, I can't! But I must, I must! All my dreams to come to this! I, Marie Verner, who might be something in the world, a singer at a music hall and his wife!"

As if the thought made her desperate, she threw herself among the ferns, and lay there, catching at the long grass with her white hands, writhing and gnashing her teeth.

She was lost in her paroxysm of impotent rage and remorse, that she did not hear a step beside her, and it was only when the fit had run itself out, and she raised her head, that she saw the Marquis of Merlo standing looking down at her with his cold, steely eyes.

CHAPTER VI.

Marie Verner raised herself upon her elbow, and looked at him confused and bewildered for the moment, under the steady regard of the cold eyes; then the flush died away from her face, and she smiled a plaintive little smile, and put her handkerchief to her temple.

"I hope I didn't startle you, Miss Verner!" he said in his slow, soft voice. "I was passing down the walk, and, hearing a cry of pain, as it seemed, I came to see what it was. I fear it came from you!"

"Yes," she said. "I am so ashamed; but I have got an awfully bad attack of neuralgia."

9919—A MOST ATTRACTIVE AND BECOMING GOWN.

Ladies' Costume with Long or Shorter Sleeve (In Raised or Normal Waistline, and With or Without Tulle).
Embroidered poplin in a new shade of well rose would be pretty for this design, with a vest of white tucked chiffon or shadow lace. The design is also good for voile, batiste, gingham, linens, crepe, duvetyne, cloth or silk. Navy blue chiffon tulle with trimming of tan or green, or bordered goods in any of the prevailing materials, are also nice for this. The waist is in surplus style, and may be finished with short or long sleeve, and with a plain or tunic skirt. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 3/4 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures 1 3/8 yards at the foot.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Ladies' House Dress.
White drill was selected for this model, with a simple finish of stitching for ornamentation. For a work dress there are such serviceable neat gingham, percales, galateas and seersuckers, that will be good for the design. As a porch dress, it will be equally satisfactory, made up in lawn, batiste, linen, linene, ratine or rice cloth. The neck edge is low and cool looking, with a neat tab edging, the right front. This feature is again repeated on the skirt, which also shows a convenient pocket. The sleeve is trimmed with a tab cuff, which could be omitted. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 5 3/4 yards of 36 inch material for a 36 inch looking, with a neat tab edging, inch size. Skirt measures 2 1/8 yards at the lower edge.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Earl Kitchener's Statesmanlike Speech.

Earl Kitchener in the House of Lords yesterday delivered his first speech as Secretary for War. In opening he re-affirmed what the Prime Minister had already announced in the House of Commons, that he had no party affiliation and that he was serving for the war, just as the humblest volunteer in the army, or so long as time and circumstances showed it might be advisable to put some one else in his place. He was able to pay a soldier-like tribute to the British soldiers in the field who had already withstood for thirty-six hours the fierce attacks of superior numbers of Germans. British soldiers had held their own in a position of stress and difficulties, behaved with splendid gallantry, upheld the best traditions of the service, and the commanders had shown skill which he commended. The words of praise from a man so sparing of praise and so exacting of service as Kitchener will not only stir the blood of our men fighting at the front, but will also stiffen their will, and determine to live up to their own high standards of the Empire and stimulate the Dominions to greater eagerness to do their part. Kitchener tells us that hundreds of thousands have responded to the call to join the colours. Seventy battalions of Territorials have already volunteered for service abroad. These seventy thousand men had only been serving for some few days, but they have determined to live up to their own high standards of the Empire and stimulate the Dominions to greater eagerness to do their part. Musketry Instructors for the Volunteers.

At the request of the Musketry Committee of the volunteer movement, the Rifle Club met at the Board of Trade Rooms last night, to arrange for the selection of instructors for the recruits, and to consider the question of training a corps for home defence. Those who volunteered as instructors were: Messrs. J. W. Morris, W. H. Renford, D. McLaughlin, F. Donnelly, J. Murphy, F. W. Knight, J. W. March, L. C. Mews, E. Ayre, John Day, J. P. Murphy, Geo. Langmead, W. Knight, L. Kennedy, R. Thompson, Bert Holway, E. Coffin, H. Luscombe, J. Dunphy, F. H. Ellis, E. Ellis, C. Rose, S. J. Ebsary and F. Warren. It was unanimously agreed that preparations should be made for any emergency that may arise, and the Club will do everything possible in this direction. The C. C. C. Armory has been placed at the disposal of the Musketry Committee and the instructors who will meet at 8 o'clock tonight to receive instructions in the training of musketry from Mr. Joseph Moore, the official instructor, after which the instructors will begin the work of instructing the classes which will be assigned to them.

Grand Falls Will Do Its Duty.

Special to the Evening Telegram. GRAND FALLS, To-day. A public meeting was held last night in the town hall. A large attendance of citizens nobly responded. A detachment of boys scouts were present. The meeting was convened by Magistrate Fitzgerald with the purpose of appointing a local committee to co-operate with the patriotic committee at St. John's, regarding enlistment of volunteers for foreign service. Resolution expressing full sympathy with the movement and heartily endorsing the government's action in sending a Newfoundland regiment was proposed. Mr. Josiah Goodyear, seconded by Mr. Jones, and supported by Rev. Mr. Loder, Messrs. Scott, Pike, Cooke, Hickman and Nugent, all of whom delivered splendid patriotic addresses. The audience displayed unbounded enthusiasm and the speakers received hearty applause. The Revs. Father Finn, Mr. Dunn and Adjutant Harding were unavoidably absent. A committee was appointed and the meeting closed with the National Anthem and ringing cheers for the King. Grand Falls will do its duty. H. F. FITZGERALD.

Recruiting at St. George's.

Special to Evening Telegram. ST. GEORGE'S, To-day. A public meeting was held here on the 25th, called by the Magistrate who explained the purpose of the meeting. A Patriotic Committee was formed, H. H. Halliburton, J.P., was Chairman, and A. J. O'Reilly, Secretary. Powerful and patriotic speeches were made by A. J. O'Reilly, Captain Samuel and others. A unanimous promise of assistance was made. The Magistrate announced a recruiting office would open at St. George's for volunteers. Several names were given in enthusiastic cheers were given for the King and the cause, amid which our first meeting ended. MAGISTRATE.

See the Drummer of the 8th at Rossley's.

One of the greatest war scenes ever filmed is to be shown at Rossley's today. "The Drummer of the 8th," a stirring sight that gives one a greater insight into the horrors of war than all reading could ever do; it is in two full reels of two thousand feet and every foot of film is action. "Only a Fire Fighter" is another great picture. "The Graphic" that so vividly illustrates every day events, and elements of interesting photography, besides the laughable sketch. On Monday Mrs. Rossley will present her pupils in a series of beautiful real living pictures. That this will be one of the most delightful sights ever presented on a stage, a drama without words, carried out by children.

LATEST War News.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING ON GERMANY AND AUSTRIA. Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, this afternoon. A St. Petersburg despatch to the Morning Post, says it is expected another important battle will be fought on the Russo-German frontier on Thursday. It is known, says the despatch, that the Russian army is advancing on the whole front with the Germans retiring before it. The Russians are penetrating Galloia, in considerable force. Apparently Russia is prepared to wage quite a separate war in this region, the operations centering in the Kiev Military District. The full significance of the Polish autonomy proclamation is thus becoming clear. The task of this new Russian army is evidently to invade and occupy the country up to the Carpathians, an admirable natural frontier.

2.40 P. M. Austria Lost on Drina 15,000 Killed, 30,000 Wounded and 15,000 Prisoners, 75 Guns Captured. Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, This Afternoon. A despatch from Paris to Reuter says the losses of the Austrians in the battle of Drina continue, according to telegrams from Nish. The latest wire is that out of three hundred thousand Austrians engaged, fifteen thousand were killed, thirty thousand wounded, fifteen thousand made prisoners and 75 guns captured.

LONDON, This Afternoon. The military correspondent of the Times says we and the Dutch have no doubt that the annihilation of all the North Sea ports from the Straits of Dover to Enderb will follow a German success in the war, a success which would only be preliminary to the concentration of all German efforts upon the subjugation of England.

ALL SILENT. PARIS, This Afternoon. The French War Office was silent this morning. No official announcement has been issued. The official military opinion is that the fighting along the French and Belgian frontiers continues quiet. Confidence exists in Paris that the allies will follow off the German attack and take the offensive when the proper hour arrives.

GERMANS LEAVE BRUSSELS. LONDON, This Afternoon. A despatch to the Chronicle from Antwerp says all German troops are reported to have departed from Brussels and that the Belgians expect to re-occupy it immediately.

A GERMAN PRINCE KILLED. PARIS, This Afternoon. It is officially announced that a German Prince has been killed in battle. The Ministry of War says it presumes it was Prince Albert of Schlesburg Holstein.

FRENCH TAKE OFFENSIVE IN LORRAINE. LONDON, This Afternoon. A despatch from Paris says: In Lorraine the allied armies have taken up a combined offensive movement. The battle was recommenced yesterday and is still raging.

LONDON, This Afternoon. A German despatch from Ghent says a violent combat raged at Tournai on Monday. The cannonade lasting from 4 p.m. till 10 next morning. Workmen relate that the Germans were flying back and that the French flag was driven at Orrier in East Flanders.

LONDON, This Afternoon. The Daily Mail believes the Germans will occupy Ostend as a lateral base for operations against England.

His Grace the Archbishop at Placentia

On Saturday, 22nd inst., His Grace, accompanied by Mgr. St. John and Father Sheehan, went on an episcopal visitation to Placentia. The object of the archiepiscopal visitation was twofold, viz., to celebrate the Golden Jubilee or fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Convent schools in the Ancient Capital, and preside at the reception of a postulant into the Novitiate of the Convent. Early Masses were said on Sunday morning, in the parish church and in the Convent chapel. At 10.30 a.m. a solemn "Missa Cantata coram Pontifice" was sung by the Rev. Father Sheehan. His Grace occupied the Throne and was assisted by the two Monsignori, Reardon and St. John, vested in their purple robes as Prelates of the Roman Court, giving a very impressive effect to the function. The music was of a very high order. Sister Gerard presided at the organ. After the Gospel His Grace addressed the people. He spoke in terms of deep sorrow of the death of our dear and saintly Holy Father, the late Pope, whom he, the Archbishop, had seen so recently during his visit to Rome and whose Blessing he would impart to them at the close of this function. He spoke also of the dreadful war now raging in Europe, and exhorted the congregation to prayer and confidence in God, to whom the Church appeals in the Mass to be said in time of war: "O God who crushest wars and fightest for thy soldiers who put their trust in thee, by the power of thy defence; help, we beseech thee, thy servants who implore thy mercy; that the fierceness of the enemy being brought low, we may praise thee with increasing thanks. O God, the ruler of all kingdoms and kings, who by striking heaviest and by pardoning preserves, extend to us thy mercy that enjoying the tranquility of peace through thy power we may use it as a means of amendment." At 3 p.m. a large congregation again assembled in the church to witness the beautiful and imposing ceremony of the reception of a postulant into the Novitiate of the Presentation Order of Nuns. The Very Rev. Parish Priest of Argentia, Father Ashley, was present, accompanied by several members of his flock. "The novice who received the veil and habit on this occasion was Miss Power of Harbor Grace, who took in religion the name of Sister Teresa of the little Flower of Jesus." During the progress of the function His Grace addressed the postulant in a few fervent and touching words. It was by a happy coincidence that the Convent was celebrating this day the Jubilee of its foundation on August 23rd, 1864, by the venerable Bishop Mullock of sacred memory. The festival was shorn of much of its joy and gladness by the fact of the death of our Holy Father, Pope Pius X, which prevented the outburst of demonstration which would otherwise have marked the joyous occasion. He then went on to speak of the sanctity and exalted state of the Religious Life to which the newly received postulant was called. His Grace imparted the Papal Blessing and the sacred function concluded with Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament.—Com.

WORDS OF WISDOM AND SOUND COUNSEL.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Aug. 25.

"Yesterday was a day of bad news, and we fear more must follow." So the London Times says in an editorial on the fall of Namur and on the first phase of the great battle. The Germans, it adds, appear to have won ground all along the line, save in the area held by the British. We were prepared for the ebb and flow of conflict, but not for the fall of Namur. We have to face this situation with unshaken confidence. We have to remember that the battle is not yet over. The Germans have not yet burst their way through to France. We have to remember that this is only the first great encounter of a war which is plainly destined to be a long one. For the allies, it is a phase; for the Germans it is vital. They are dealing their blows with the utmost vigor, but the issue in Belgium still hangs in the balance. In spite of unfortunate events at Namur, whatever may be the upshot, Great Britain and her allies will face the outlook with dogged determination and continue the war until the spirit of Prussian militarism is rooted out of Europe. Time fights on the side of the allies. With the Germans it is neck or nothing, but the French and English have everything to gain by waiting and waging a delaying war. While the issue remains uncertain, we may still maintain the stoutest hope. Should it go against us, we may remember that the allies have not, like Germany, staked all upon their first venture. Our ultimate success is certain and we will never sheath our sword until Germany has been finally beaten to her knees.

GERMAN ADVANCE REPULSED—ALLIED ARMIES UNITED.

PARIS, Aug. 25.

The following official announcement is made here: The German offensive movement in the North, which was stopped yesterday, appears to-day to have been resumed. The enemies have been held back by a French army acting in conjunction with the English and Belgian forces. The armies of the allies surprised the enemy and drove back their advance detachment. The allies have gone beyond Malines. The Belgian army came from Antwerp.

In Lorraine, after the counter attack of yesterday, the right of the French forces withdrew to the River Montigny. In Alsace the French troops repulsed a number of German attacks directed against Colmar.

The report of the recapture of Muelhausen by the Germans is without foundation. Moreover, the theatre of operations in Alsace is becoming of secondary importance, the Commander-in-Chief requiring all available forces on the Meuse, has ordered the progressive abandonment of occupied territory, and Muelhausen has again been evacuated.

LOOKING AFTER BRITISH SUBJECTS.

LONDON, this a.m.

In announcing measures for relief of British subjects in Germany in the Commons yesterday, Francis Dyke Ackland, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, mentioned the fact that the German Government had placed $10,000 for the relief of foreigners in Germany, at the disposal of the American Ambassador in Berlin. When it was known how much of this was available for the relief of British subjects, Ackland said the amount would be repaid United States Ambassador Page, in London, for transmission to Germany. Ackland added that British interests were being looked after by the American Ambassador at Berlin as well as circumstances permitted.

First Time Unsuccessful.

In Quarter of a Century.

Capt. John Lewis, one of the most successful fish-killers and banking masters in Newfoundland, never met with the ill-luck that he has this season during his twenty-five years as skipper of a vessel on the Grand Banks. His schooner Metamora, which is the first local banker to be equipped with auxiliary motor power, has not landed a thousand quintals of fish this year. On her first trip in the spring she got 700 quintals of cod but since then did practically nothing. The Metamora is now looking for a squid baiting and as soon as she gets it will proceed to the Labrador coast on her final trip.

Charge It.

"Just chalk it down," the poor man said, when he had bought some boneless bread, and many costly things, his wife and brood of bairns to feed—the most of which they didn't need as much as you need wings. He buys the richest things in town, and always says, "Just chalk it down, I'll pay you soon, you bet;" and pay-day evening finds him broke, his hard-earned plunks gone up in smoke, and still he is in debt. The man who doesn't buy for cash lays in all kinds of costly trash, that he could do without; he spends his coin before it's earned, and weeps about when it's burned—in that your way, old scout? When comes the day of evil luck the war bag doesn't hold a buck to keep the wolf away; the "charge it" plan will work no more at any market, shop or store; no goods unless you pay. The poor man for his money sweats, and he should pay for what he gets, just when he gets the same; then, when he goes his prunes 'to buy, and sees how fast the nickels fly, he'll dodge the spendthrift game. If you begin to save your stamps, some day, with treads in your lamps, this writer you will thank; when man in grief and sickness groans there's naught like having fifteen bones in some good savings bank.

"The Doctor's Deceit."

AN EXCITING DRAMA AT THE CRESCENT.

The mid-week bill at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and to-morrow is replete with many strong features in pictures, song and music. The headliner is an intensely interesting and powerful society drama, "The Doctor's Deceit," in two reels. This remarkable production is by far the cleverest two-reel I.M.P. drama ever seen here and features the high-salaried emotional artists Leah Baird and Wm. Shay. It is followed by a clever Western drama "A Tale of the West," with Ramona Langley and Lee Moran. The laugh producer is the sketch "The Working Girl," with our old favorites the Joker Company Max Asher and Louise Fritzeny. The above subjects are all first class and counted leaders in their respective companies. "The Doctor's Deceit" is a particularly strong production. Miss Alice Clark, prima donna is singing selections from the opera "Springmaid," the New York success; she will appear in appropriate costumes and will be accompanied by the pianist Professor Spencer, which is sufficient guarantee of a pleasing rendition.

Great Demand for British Loan.

London, Aug. 19, 4.25 p.m.—A sum of $75,000,000 in six months treasury bills required for war purposes was offered to the public and met with a hearty welcome. The amount applied for was over $210,000,000. Tenders at £98, 1s. 8d. got about forty-eight per cent of their application; those above that figure were allowed in full. The average rate per cent was about 4.3, 1/2.

The Goat-Hauler Won.

While the city goat-hauler was trying to catch some goats that were doing damage to crops in a private garden in the East End yesterday afternoon, a couple of cows "batted" in and a three-cornered encounter ensued. After much difficulty the goat-hauler barred in the cows while he lassoed the angoras one after the other. Later all the vandals were arrested and brought to the impounding stables.

The Good Time Atmosphere.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The desire of mankind for happiness is the most deeply implanted of human instincts. It always irritates me when I hear some crabbed old person say in criticism of a young girl "She is fond of a good time."

Why shouldn't she be fond of a good time, Mrs. Crustiness? If she weren't, she wouldn't be a normal young person. There is something wrong about people when they stop liking a good time. They have crushed a normal instinct and it makes them abnormal.

To like a good time and to try to have one is not selfish in itself. It is only when you make that the sole object of your life and trample heedlessly on other people's feelings to attain it that it becomes selfish.

Besides, people who have a good time make other people have a good time. They are a joy to have about. They carry the good times atmosphere with them.

"Is Margaret going on the picnic?" we ask. "That is splendid, we will surely have a good time." We know that Margaret is one of those whole-souled, energetic, jolly folks who are always looking for a good time, and who find it in the simplest things and who incidentally help others to find it.

"I have given up trying to have a good time," I heard a woman say the other day. "There's too much work to be done in the world."

It sounded very fine and self-sacrificing, but is it the best attitude?

Stevenson says, "Our greatest duty to our neighbour is to make him a little happier if we can," and I don't think this woman fulfills that duty. She has stopped having a good time; she never has the good times atmosphere about her. Quite to the contrary. As a result, her children and husband feel this lack in their home, although I doubt if they could define it, and they are happier out of the house than in it. She is doing her duty towards them in a material sense, and absolutely failing them in the way Stevenson defines our duty.

You may remember the little prayer of which I told you. "Help me to be happy and to make others so." To my mind that is an all embracing petition, and I am sure that nobody could fulfill those conditions, who has ceased to care whether he has a good time or not.

Don't stop wanting to be happy. It isn't good for you or anyone about you. Learn to be less selfish and indifferent to others in your search for happiness, but keep on wanting to be healthy and normal to feel that way.

One thing more,—did you ever thank one of those people who have the gift of happiness and who bless the world by sharing it. I did the other day and found him unconscious of his service, and deeply touched by my acknowledgement. You see he always carried the good time atmosphere with him; and so he never realized what it meant to be without it, and how much his presence bestowed.

The entrance of some people into a room is as if another candle were lighted, but since they bring the brightness with them, they do not realize the change they have made. You must know some of these people. Why not tell them about it?

Household Notes

Paper dishcloths have many virtues.

The best watermelons are the heaviest.

Use a clothespin for scraping pans, etc.

A gate-leg table is delightful for a bedroom.

A hammer is a very useful tool for the sewing room.

Grease cake and bread tins with olive oil to save time.

Lettuce and watercress combined make a good salad.

To mend matting, simply darn it with raffia in colors to match.

Cut garments whenever you can by smooth, heavy paper patterns.

Line bread and cake boxes with paper if you would save bread-cloths.

Equal parts of salt and vinegar will clean any kind of tarnished brass.

If olive oil is to be heated for any reason use only the best quality.

To remove shoe blacking that has been spilled on clothing use vinegar.

In farm houses where there are hired men the paper towel is a great boon.

People who study their complexions should eat a great many vegetables.

In preparing lettuce for a salad dry them by tossing lightly in an old napkin.

Lettuce leaves not sufficiently attractive for salads can be used as pot greens.

Newspaper makes a good window cleaner if softened with ammonia and water.

Wood ashes are splendid for removing flower-pot stains from the window sill.

A slimy sponge will be like new if steeped in vinegar and water for twelve hours.

Every family should own at least one thermos bottle, and two or three are better.

Line powder well sprinkled over a place where cockroaches abound will drive them away.

To loosen a wooden stopper tap it with wood; if the stopper is glass tap it with glass.

Spends Nearly All His Time in Jail

Not at the Front—Doleful Tale of War Correspondent Under Modern Conditions—In Danger of Being Shot—Special Cable by International News By Andrea Beaumont.

Paris, August 19.—Here is a very brief chronicle of my first 11 days as a war correspondent: On August 4 I started for the front by automobile, having in addition to my passports, a special permit from the military governor of Paris, as well as special passes for my automobile, to go to Chalons, Givet, Charleroi, Rocroi, etc. On my arrival at Rheims I was arrested and taken to the police station, accused of violating military orders by entering the zone of the armies. I spent the night in solitary confinement.

Next morning I was informed that I was suspected of being a spy; and that only the judgment of a court-martial could set me free. I was treated with kindness, but could neither sleep nor eat very much.

On the second morning two inspectors arrived from Paris and searched my room at the hotel, afterward searching me in my hotel. Then I was ordered into a motor driven by soldiers.

"Where am I being taken?" I enquired.

"Two hours ride from here," was the laconic answer.

I was taken to Chalons and at the military headquarters. After a long wait under a guard, a young lieutenant told me "It's all settled." He nodded to the soldier-chauffeur, who ordered me into the car again. An hour later we arrived at Vitry la Francois, where there is a prison especially built for unusually dangerous criminals.

The director of the prison looked very angry and said that a journalist who tried to get a beat on the movement of the army ought to be shot. A long conversation, which I was unable to hear, then followed between the director and two inspectors from Paris.

I was next removed to the "Violon" or police hole cell, two yards square, with only a stone to sit on and plenty of unwelcome accessories.

I offered to let myself be chained to an iron pillar if only they wouldn't put me in the dismal lockup.

"That's a good idea said a gendarme," and in a second he had secured a chain six feet long.

"No, I cannot permit that," said the commissary. "It would be inhuman to our soldiers who are working from 16 to 20 hours a day. I cannot ask them to sit up all night to watch you. You must go in the cell."

"I was given a mattress, however, to lie upon."

The next day I was read an order, giving my age, name and profession and directing my confinement in the military prison of Vitry la Francois.

"As a person suspected of espionage in time of war."

My cell had a tiled floor, and iron stretcher without a mattress, and one rough wooden chair, fastened by a chain to the wall. The place was damp and had only one small window with a heavy iron grating far above my head.

There I spent five days and nights speculating whether I would be shot. My only distraction was counting the links in the chain fastening the chair to the wall. My sentry was forbidden to give me any information, but otherwise everybody was most kind to me. At dawn on the fifth day the warden came to my cell.

"Now I am to be taken out" and shot," I thought. But he read an order to send me to the Minister of War. The journey was made by automobile, covering a hundred and thirty miles in four hours, stopping to take coffee on the way.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. — ap17.4t

Then and Now.

There should be no jumping to conclusions that small German reverses in southern Alsace and the splendid stubbornness of the defence at Liege, with the heavy cost entailed upon the invaders, imply the failure of the German campaign. What they do imply is that the invasion of France is not the relatively easy task it was in 1870, when, within five weeks, the French emperor was a prisoner and the road to Paris cleared. The French offensive is good military strategy, but the precise value of it upon the course of the war can only be determined by the result of its first serious contact with a German army defending the Rhine valley.

Germans Groan Under the Tax Rate.

Berlin, Aug. 14.—The small Prussian city of Gorkno has lost the distinction of levying the heaviest tax of any city in the kingdom, which it possessed since 1911 until last year. The citizens there who earned $100 a month paid $15.75 monthly as an income tax alone, not including church, real estate and business taxes. The city of Stumm now has, according to the reports for 1914, the highest taxes of any Prussian city. These amount to only 11.7 per cent of the $100 a month of a man's earnings. The rate of taxation increases progressively, so that the man with $2,000 yearly pays $276.19, a little more than thirteen per cent, and a man who has an income of $4,000 yearly is taxed $613.20, nearly fifteen per cent.

Hr. Grace Notes. Norwegian Ship Here for Orders.

Several motor cars were here from St. John's on Sunday and Monday, among them that of Mr. J. C. Oke, who was accompanied by his two sons, Messrs. Gordon and Harris. Mr. Edward Oke, son of Judge Oke, also came over with them, returning Monday evening. The other cars here were that of Mr. John Parker, Mr. G. Parsons and Mr. Reid.

A very largely attended patriotic meeting was held in the Court House last night to arrange for the enlisting of volunteers to answer the call of their flag. The meeting was merely to form a committee, but so enthusiastic were those present that three of our young men came forward as volunteers, viz., Arthur Heath, of the Government Telegraph Office, and Messrs. Hubert Webber and William Snow. No doubt a large number of our young men will answer the call of their country.

Rev. A. K. Magner leaves by the s.s. Kyle for a trip to Labrador. On the return trip he will leave the boat at Battle Harbor, and take the other boat to Bay of Islands, and there connecting with the train he will go to New York. Since coming here in charge of the Presbyterian congregation, Mr. Magner has made many friends whose best wishes will follow him in his future studies and in his fields of labor.

The children of the Methodist Sunday school are having their annual Sunday School picnic to-morrow at O'Connell's farm. The little ones (and the big ones as well) are looking forward to a pleasant day. Hope the weather will be favorable.

Mr. Arthur French, who has been here for the past couple of months on a visit to friends, leaves by this afternoon's train for Boston, to resume work. He has had a very pleasant visit.

Miss Louie Yetman leaves by this afternoon's train for Freshwater on a visit to friends.

"Bowring Park."

The First of the "Local Event Series" to be seen at the Nickel To-Day.

"Winding path and linden tree,
Rustic bench and shimmering sand,
Rushing cascades, dashing falls,
Nature's fete in Newfoundland!"

So wrote one of our local bards after an afternoon spent, within the portals of the Rae Island property, now known as "Bowring Park" since its presentation by its munificent donor, Hon. E. R. Bowring, to the city as a public playground. So many have seen it—so many have spent pleasant hours within its charming romantic environment—that an outline of the delightful character of its rustic beauty and natural scenic charms are not necessary.

The locality, however, is given peculiar interest just now, because it has been selected as the first moving picture subject to be handled by the Nfld. Biograph Co., of which Mr. H. A. Winter, Mr. Outerbridge, Mr. Harvey and other prominent gentlemen citizens are the promoters. It is fitting that the Duke of Connaught's visit should be an event worthy of special photographic record, and where else than Bowring Park can a more attractive setting be found for the grouping of the Ducal party: the Donors, the Prime Minister and Cabinet and other leading people of Newfoundland, who came to attend the presentation and opening ceremonies of this spacious property.

Apart from the fact that the film is really a decided success—those privileged to attend a private rehearsal at the Nickel a few days ago being emphatic on that point—it is another attractive phase of the subject to consider that we have now the means of exploiting some of the charms of our Colony. It is invariably admitted, "Ye Ancient Colony" possesses, without question, romantic spots and great rugged, natural scenes that are without peer in the New World; and for that reason we are inclined to hail the advent of the local firm who have had the courage to inaugurate the idea of preserving by means of animated photography figures, scenes and occurrences of our Home land. Their courage and enterprise is something of which we must not soon lose sight, and it is to be hoped that the people who witness the film of "Bowring Park" at the Nickel to-night will bear in mind that this splendid presentation is no mere passing item; an ordinary release, but it is a local production of a local subject, photographed by local people, financed by local promoters, and offered as Newfoundland's first contribution in the way of animated photography.

MINARD'S LINIMENT LUMBER MAN'S FRIEND.

WAS OVERHAULED BY A BRITISH WARSHIP.

The Norwegian steamer Grena, Capt. Dieson, entered port at 6 o'clock this morning. She is in for orders and came from Bergen, Norway, in ballast. The run was made in eight and a half days. Originally the ship left Bergen for Antwerp with a load of freight, but owing to the state of war at the latter place the Grena had to retreat to Bergen to discharge, and she then left for this side of the water. A striking example of the activity and vigilance in which the seas are being protected by Great Britain is the fact that while off the north coast of Scotland the Grena was hailed by a large British warship and ordered to stop, which order was adhered to by Capt. Dieson. Some British officers came on board the Grena, examined the ship's papers, and after a delay of about an hour allowed the Norwegian to continue her course. "Nothing of a sensational character occurred after that," said Capt. Dieson, who noted sighting two large icebergs yesterday about 120 miles N. E. of St. John's. The Grena was never here before, neither was her captain. She was built in 1912 and has a carrying capacity of 4,000 tons.

To Stir Enthusiasm

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—In such a time as this, when we are called upon to bear a proportion of the great trouble thrust on the Empire, don't you think that now as we have put our hand to the plough we should make the best effort to have the furrow straight and deep. Our island has guaranteed five hundred of the young men who will be when accepted for service the cream of our country, and it is up to us who have passed the limit in age to do our part, to get up some little enthusiasm in the movement, and encourage those that are offering themselves for enlistment. No doubt they have taken into consideration the many trials and hardships which they will be called upon to bear, and I repeat that those who remain at home should while our boys are with us endeavor to give them at least our sincere good wishes, and show them we appreciate their noble sacrifice. I mean by sacrifice in the way of giving up home, and social life associations, also in many cases promotion in business circles without any definite goal or reward when the war is over; of this I do not wish to write as it opens out a question that would take one better qualified than myself to express. What I am after is to stir up others like myself that feel we should do something to help the cause along.

I would suggest that at once one at least of our bands be engaged to attend the Armory each evening, and discourse our national stirring martial music and get our British blood boiling through our veins, and remind us of our forebears that gave their lives to give to us the freedom and good government we are privileged to live under "Rule Britannia."

It is not right to expect our Government to undertake to do all, nor is it just to expect those of the executive and patriotic committee to bear all the burden, and I feel there are thousands in the Island that would like to contribute their mite towards defraying expenses of the foregoing suggestion and I will subscribe five dollars and endeavor to have friends contribute and pay in same to any one duly authorized to collect monies for this object.

Thanking you far space in your valuable paper.

I remain,
Yours very truly,
C. R. THOMSON,

Kitchener Congratulates British Expeditionary Force Through General Sir John French.

"Congratulate Troops on their splendid showing; we are proud of them."

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Kitchener made his first speech as Minister of War, in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon. He told his hearers that the war would undoubtedly strain the forces of the Empire and entail big sacrifices. He laid emphasis on the fact that his position in the Cabinet involved adherence to neither party. He said the terms on which I am serving are the same as those under which some portions of our manhood are now so willingly stepping forward to join the colors and are engaging; that is to say, my term of office is for the duration of war and for three years if war should last as long as that. It has been asked why this period has been limited. It is because if this disastrous war be prolonged, and no one can foretell for a certainty its duration, that after three years of war others will take our places and see the matter through. There will be serious conflicts, which undoubtedly will strain the forces of the Empire. Undoubtedly considerable sacrifices by our people will be borne willingly for our honor and for preservation of our position in the world and they will be shared by our Dominions. Our expeditionary force has taken the field on the French north-west border and advanced to the neighborhood of Mons in Belgium. Our troops already have been for 26 hours in contact with the superior forces of the German invaders. During that time, they maintained the best tradition of the British soldier and behaved with the utmost gallantry. The movements they have been called upon to execute have been those which demanded the greatest steadiness of a soldier and skill in the commanders. Kitchener then alluded to Asquith's statement in the Commons that British troops had greatly added the French, and had been able to maintain their position in the face of fierce German attacks. He said he had sent the telegram to Sir John French, reading as follows: "Congratulate troops on their splendid showing; we are proud of them." Continuing, Kitchener pointed out that the fighting in Europe would result in greater casualties than the Noble Response of Volunteers.

C. C. C. IN LINE. Volunteers for service in defence of the Empire are coming forward steadily and already some two hundred and eighteen men have volunteered. The true spirit of patriotism is being exhibited, and the scene at the recruiting office, in the C. L. E. Armoury, was a very inspiring one as ninety-seven volunteers presented themselves for service. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Sir Joseph Outerbridge and Capt. Goodridge, A.D.C., were present. His Excellency delivered a patriotic address, dealing with the position into which the Empire had been forced and the need of support from every section of the Empire. At the conclusion of his remarks those present applauded to the echo. A patriotic feature of last night's meeting was the appearance of forty members of the Catholic Cadet Corps, who entered the army in a body to enlist. Major Carly was in charge of the company, who before leaving their headquarters received a stirring address from Lieut-Col. Conroy, who pointed out to them their duty to the Empire. Other officers present and who volunteered were Capts. Brian and Howlett of the city corps, and Capt. Murphy of Bell Island. Drs. Macpherson, Wakefield, Burden, Chatter and Perkins examined the candidates. During the evening Lady Davidson moved around among the volunteers, speaking words of encouragement and appreciation to them. She seemed particularly interested in many of the candidates who, though barely filling the requirements as to stature, displayed the quality of patriotism in a marked degree. She wished them every success. In the selection of officers to accompany the regiment abroad the best men available will be selected, the qualification as to fitness being the principal consideration.

St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN. Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures. Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season. Yours truly, JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S. Analyst and Assayer.

First Aid Class.

A large and earnest class of students attended the first lecture on First Aid to the Injured, at the British Hall last night, which proved very interesting. The lecturer handled the subject in a very practical manner, and at the close some demonstrations of the application of bandages were given. In view of the large number who find it inconvenient to attend Tuesday night, it was decided that the class will meet on Monday nights instead of Tuesdays as previously arranged. On Monday next at 8 p.m. the second lecture will be given, and in addition to this arrangements have been made whereby the students will receive special practice in bandaging under the direction of some experienced First Aid men who have kindly offered their services.

Kyle Sails To-Morrow.

The s.s. Kyle came off dock yesterday, after having the necessary repairs made to her bows, which had been damaged by ice. She sails on the Labrador route at 1 p.m. to-morrow. She will take freight for Hebron, Okak and other northern points, as she will connect with the Baleine which is plying on the northern coast of Labrador.

Cape Report.

Special to Evening Telegram. CAPE RACE, To-day. Wind N.W., fresh, weather fine. The s.s. Wasit passed west yesterday evening and s.s. Prospero in at 6.30 a.m. and an unknown steamer was in sight at 11 a.m. to-day, also bound inward. The naval brigade left here this morning for St. John's. Bar. 29.48; ther. 58. The schr. Spinaway sailed from St. Jacques yesterday for Gibraltar with 2,816 qts. of fish.

Fishery Reports.

Aug. 15. From A. T. Keats (Placentia to Long Hr.)—Prospects are fairly good. The small boats are meeting with a fairly good sign when bait is obtainable. There is also a sign of cod at Cape St. Mary's but our men seldom get a chance to give this ground a trial. Bait is being secured in very small quantities. Aug. 22. From T. Hogan (Carbonear to Western Bay)—The total catch is 1,785 quintals and for last week 69. Eighty traps and 29 dories and skiffs are fishing. Four local and 21 Nova Scotia bankers are here for bait but none is to be obtained as there is no sign of squid yet.

Baseball.

Up to the present all the League games of baseball, except one have been played. The table of points up to Wednesday morning before the Shamrocks and Wanderers played off was: P. W. L. Pts. Wanderers 4 3 1 3 Shamrocks 4 3 1 3 Red Lions 4 2 2 2 B. I. S. 4 1 3 1 Cubs 4 1 3 1 In order to decide the wooden spoon holders the B.I.S. and Cubs will try conclusions.

Divorced Life

The Folly of Marriage

Parker lighted a cigar and listened with interest to Marian's sprightly discussion of men's folly of marriage. They were seated in a sequestered corner of the restaurant in Chinatown, next to a window which afforded a view of the night scene on the busy, polyglot street below.

"You have a very different point of view than that of most women," said Barker. "Women don't often regard men as the sufferers in marriage. They usually regard men as the brutes and women as the martyrs. You interest me."

"Why shouldn't the truth be interesting?" demanded Marian. "The wave of feminism which is sweeping the world is helping women to see the truth."

"Yes, but isn't all this feminism affixing a shipping tag to romance and rushing it to parts unknown?" asked Barker.

"Romance simply clouds the vision and makes us see things in fantastic, unreal proportions," replied Marian wickily. "It is a drug dispensed by poets for the purpose of ensnaring the young."

"You speak with the wisdom of one who has entirely escaped the snare?" prodded the Bostonian.

"No, I have fortunately been able to extricate myself from the snare. It's more satisfactory to look back upon that sort of thing than to look forward to going through with it."

"And yet you're just a girl," exclaimed the other.

"A trifle older in experience than in years," smiled Marian.

"It's a wonderful thing to be in love," said the man with fires smouldering in his brown eyes.

"I don't know. I fancy that love is as rare as it is short-lived. It's a sort of fever. The remedy, as I said, is usually found in marriage."

"I should hate to think that," argued the man.

"I don't think it; I know it," said Marian bluntly.

"Then you've been married?" was the surprised rejoinder.

"Yes, and divorced."

The man from Boston was silent for a moment. "Then you've suffered more than I had any idea of, although I imagined you must have sustained some severe blow."

Tenderness was now in his voice and eyes. There is a type of a man who is drawn with strange attraction to a woman who has undergone the ordeal of divorce. If he already cares for her, his interest becomes heightened with sympathy and pity for her woes. She is different from other women. She has been tried and tempered by fierce fires. She has background. Her personality takes on an esoteric, indefinable, subtle character that goads the masculine mind into a desire to help and understand.

"I appreciate your making a confidant of me," said Barker soberly. "Chinatown is getting noisy. Shall we go?"

for housing the working woman, and appeals for sympathy for her loneliness are out in all directions, for the problem is now quite acute. The latest scheme concerns the educated working woman of small means, not necessarily the young woman, and to meet her case a huge block of tiny flats is to be built around the house in St. John's Wood where John MacWhirter lived. That is to be the nucleus of the settlement, and will provide the common living-rooms and the club life, while the adjoining buildings will contain flats of varying sizes. The great feature of the scheme as outlined is the one room flat, with the bed shut off from the living room in a two windowed recess, the balcony and the minute kitchen also shut off with sliding doors. These are to be very cheap and so are the two-roomed flats, and every flat is to have a bath. The only thing one does not quite like about the scheme is the sentimental way it is being advertised. The idea is so excellent and the need for such accommodation so urgent that one feels there is no need to introduce the sentimental note. Loneliness is not a matter of environment, and many a woman who counts it as one of the modern woman's privileges that after a long day's work she may shut herself off from the world would yet eagerly welcome the chance of freeing herself from the vagaries of a landlady or fellow boarders, finding refuge in a well-equipped, inexpensive flat. Applications for these flats come from women of every profession—doctors, teachers and journalists, as well as from women whose working days are over and who plead the loneliness of their enforced leisure.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, August 4th, 1914.

AUSTRIAN HOPES.

Writing in the beginning of practically Europe's first war week, questions in connection with this warfare are gradually commencing to dominate the whole situation as represented in the columns of the newspapers and conversations in the clubs and everywhere else where men meet together. Talking a few days ago with Austrians in London, I found both hope and depression with regard to their portion of the outlook. Some expressed hopes of speedy peace and these hopes turned out to be based on the belief that Russia was not ready for war and knew it. "They are simply procrastinating in the Russian way," said a well-informed Austrian to me. "It is very dangerous, but I do not believe it will come to serious war. Neither Russia nor France is ready. France is never ready except on paper." As to the readiness of France, Austrian opinion is not very valuable. But Austrians know Russia as none other of her neighbors know her. As to the outcome of the war many Austrians here are basing their confidence on the hopeless corruption of Russia. An Austrian friend gave me a curious example of this corruption as Austrians see it. All the oats sold in the market place of Cracow, in Austrian Poland, he said, are military stores from over the Russian frontier, stolen and sold by the Russian officers.

I have had a talk with one of the most eminent of German journalists in London. He assured me that the war was not only unwelcome to Germany, but utterly unexpected. "Do you think," he said, "that the Kaiser would have gone away for a holiday on July 22nd, if he had expected to be at war on August 3rd?" His view of the matter was that Germany had been dragged into it disastrously by Austria. "We have been had by Austria," he said. Germany, in his opinion, ought to have prevented Austria from sending her ultimatum to Serbia. Feeling in Germany, he tells me, is very depressed, even in Government circles. "You in England over-estimate the power of Germany," he added. "We do not over-estimate it. We do not imagine that we shall sweep over France like cleaning a plate."

THE RETURNED TOURISTS.

London is full of fluttered holiday makers who just managed to get out of Germany by the last train and the last boat, and they are full of their adventures. It was my duty to welcome one pair of tourists home last night—a mother and daughter who certainly showed every sign of having had a rough passage. They had registered their baggage through from Cologne, but had lost it all. They were furnished with nothing but German paper money, but apparently they could not get German paper money changed even in Germany, and certainly not anywhere else. They had travelled, of course, for eighteen hours in trains and boats packed to suffocation. The boat from Flushing was carrying six times its usual number of passengers, and most of them were seasick and drenched to the skin. But they had one pleasant thing to record. All those passengers, of all nationalities, from American to Roumanian, fraternized and helped one another. They nursed each other in sickness, they gave each other food, and, last and strongest test of human brotherhood, perfect strangers lent each other money.

A PARALLEL, WITH A DIFFERENCE.

"I have a hundred good horses and a hundred good men. Where shall I send them?" This message, sent last week to the Tsar from a Caucasian landowner, recalls how Sir George Grey, Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, on one famous occasion sent his own carriage horses to India at the time of the Indian Mutiny, for every horse was almost priceless. There is a little addition to the story here, however. Some troops has come to the Cape to assist in the Kaffir war which was then raging in Cape Colony. Sir George Grey sent these off to India, where they were used to quell the mutiny. Then he sent word to Krell, the Kaffir Chief, that the Great White Queen was busy fighting an enemy in another part of the world. Krell, would have to wait until the Great White Queen was ready, and then they would fight. Krell, who was one of the finest gentlemen that the world ever saw as well as being the handsomest savage that ever lived, agreed to these terms. It was a curiously chivalrous reversal of the rule by which more civilized or less ingenious nations are now being guided.

Eat Whatever You Relish!

Sometimes the digestive machinery gets away off. No kind of food looks good to you.

You need Stafford's Prescription "A". It is a temporary artificial digestive process to do the work until the stomach recovers normal conditions.

Many people think Pepsin is the thing to take. Four times out of five they are wrong.

Pepsin will digest eggs, meat, etc., but has no effect on starchy foods like bread, potatoes, cake, pudding—in fact, most of the eatables that cause the trouble.

Prescription "A" is the thing. It contains all the active ingredients for the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis, nervous dyspepsia, etc.

Eat what you like.

Stafford's Prescription "A" will do the rest.

Price: Small size, 25 cents; postage 5 cents extra. Large size, 50 cents; postage, 10 cents extra.

Dear Sir,

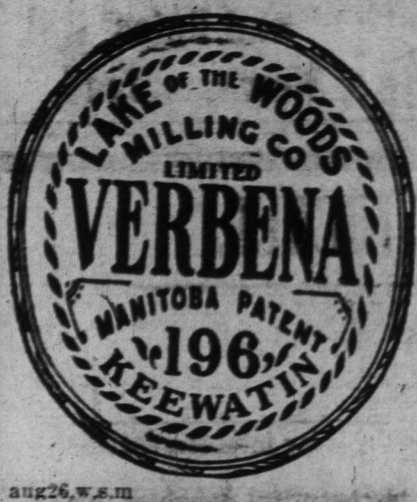

We beg to draw your attention to the advantages offered, both in the way of security and privacy, by our Safety Deposit system which has recently been installed in our vault. The system is the most modern and complete that is known, and is deposited in a vault of exceptional strength and safety. The boxes are individual and can only be opened with the joint aid of the key in the possession of the Company and of that in the custody of the customer. They are of solid metal and are arranged in nests of fifty, so that no box can be removed from the vault separately from the rest.

The boxes are rented at $4.00, $5.00 up to $20.00 a year, according to size.

An inspection of the installation is invited.
