CHAPTER XXXIV.

Busy! How matters stood! The words can have only one significance, she thinks. They must, they can only refer to his marriage.

Her heart beats wildly, and she presses her hand to her bosom.

"The horse is all right," Hugh continues, "and I think it will win."

"Oh, yes," responds Hartfield, confidently. "The Cricket is a good horse enough, but there is no depending upon his temper, and the course is hard enough to try the temper of the best horse living."

"I am sorry," says Hugh's grave voice, after a pause.

"Sorry?"

"Yes, I am sorry that any horse of mine should be running in the race against Archie's."

"But—man alive!"

"Yes, yes, I know," he breaks in, with a sort of weary impatience. "There are reasons which you don't understand, my dear Hartfield, why I should feel reluctant to run against Archie. No matter. It is too late, I suppose, to withdraw."

"Why, yes," is the reply, "I've got a lot of money on it, but that is nothing; it's the other people who have backed Sultan; you've got them to consider."

"Yes, yes, I understand. Well, it must be so. I would I could wish you success, but—but I cannot do so heartily. Good-night. I am going to catch the train."

"Good-night. You are a strange fellow, Hugh! Good-night. I'll wire you the result to-morrow."

"Thanks. Good-night."

Lord Hartfield goes off upon horseback, and with a start Dulcie, the spell of the voice broken, turns to go, but suddenly, before she can get into the shadow, the tall, stalwart form is before her.

He raises his hat absently, as a mute apology for startling her, but suddenly, as she does not move, simply because she cannot, he looks up and recognizes her.

In the instant he stands as if doubting the evidence of his senses.

The tall, graceful form, clad in its soft, clinging dress of cream, standing out against the dark evergreens, in the stillness of the evening, may well seem to him an ethereal vision called up by his own imagination, by the sad memory of happy days.

So overwhelmed, so startled is he that her name escapes him before he is well aware of it.

"Dulcie!"

She does not speak, but a faint shudder runs through her at the sound of his voice, at the sound of her name, spoken in the old, grave tones.

Then, at her silence, he recoils, and with a little gesture of his hand, as if imploring pardon for addressing her so familiarly, he raises his hat and moves on; but an uncontrollable impulse, as it seems—a fascination, holds him fast, and makes his step laggard, and with a sigh he pauses.

"Miss Dorrimore, will you pardon me if I say one word?"

She does not speak, but shrinks back against the laurels, toward which her hand goes as if for support, fastening round the tender stems with a nervous grasp.

"Believe me I had no idea that you were near me. I did not know that you were in the neighborhood even. If I had known I should have avoided it."

He smothered a sigh and looks down on the ground, and his attitude, the turn of his shapely head, with the close-cropped hair, touched now with streaks of silver, brings back the old days; the old days when he stood bent before her, waiting for her answer to his prayer of love, and a sudden pang shoots through her heart.

Oh, the pity and the bitterness of it! That they two, who loved so well, should meet thus, as worse than strangers, as little more than foes!

"If I distress or annoy you by addressing you," he says, after a pause, and lifting the solemn gray eyes with the modesty of a strong and noble nature, "tell me so. Say but the word and I will go."

Still she does not speak.

"Indeed, why should I stay?" he says, almost to himself. "What words can now avail for the past or the present that can be said between us? And yet, having met thus, by pure chance, I would seize it to know from your own lips whether the one desire of my life—your happiness, has been realized. Will you answer me?"

His voice sounds like a knell in her ears, like the voice of one long dead, yet remembered—and, ah, Heaven—still loved!

"What do you wish me to say?" she says, at last, and her own voice sounds hollow and unreal.

"That is a fair retort," he says, sadly. "What is there that you can say to me that would bring me any satisfaction? And yet, tell me, are you happy?"

"Yes," she says, at last, but the single word sounds strangely mournful.

He smiles with half-concealed bitterness.

"Then I need not ask if you have learned to forget? Only those who have learned that lesson can be happy. Well, I am answered. Will you believe me when I say, that if your answer does not give me pleasure now, it will when, away from you, I have time to call upon my better self? Yes, I have wished you every happiness. Dulcie?—I beg your pardon—Miss Dorrimore! Will you believe that?"

"Yes, I believe it," she says. "Why should I not?"

And a sudden fierce rebellion at fate and at him rises within her bosom.

"Having punished me, you should be satisfied. You would not wish that I should bear that punishment through my life?"

He puts up his hand with a gesture of pain.

"Spare me!" he says, almost inaudibly. "I am at your mercy. I am the fool in the fable, who, having a pearl of great price, permitted the ape to cozen him out of it! Spare me! Do you think I do not realize, that I have not realized, what it is that I have lost, Dulcie? The knowledge of how I lost you has come to me but recently; it came too late!"

"Too late!" she echoes, in a hollow voice, and her hands grasp the shrubs behind her till the delicate skin is marked and scarred.

"Too late! Surely the saddest word in all the world," he says, almost to himself. "Well, my folly deserves punishment, and it has received it. How came you here?"

The question is put in his old commanding tone, tinged with a solemn sadness.

Dulcie puts her hand to her throat. The words she would utter calmly and unconcernedly seem to choke her.

"I am staying at this house with Lady Brookley."

He looks up quickly and down again as quickly.

"With Archie?"

She inclines her head.

"Well," he says, after a pause. "Yes, yes; with Archie. You—you are not married?"

"No," she just murmurs.

He sighs; then looks at the path he must presently take.

But it seems as if he cannot tear himself away.

Something within her goads her on to retort:

"And you?"

He starts and looks at her.

"No," he says, slowly, "I am not married." Then, after a pause: "Nor am I likely to be."

She looks up swiftly, and shrinks still closer.

"Not!" she says, in a low voice.

"Then, then—I heard that Miss Fairfax—"

He stares at her, and a bitter smile plays about his lips.

"Have you been living out of the world, that you have not heard my story?" he asks. "I thought all the world knew it by heart. Every club and drawing-room in London rings with it."

"No, no!" she gasps, a presentiment of what is coming falling upon her. "I—we heard—that you were to be married to Lucy Fairfax. Was it not true?"

"Yes," he says, "it was quite true; but—"

He pauses.

The story of the treachery, of the falsity, of the meek-faced woman whose truth and fealty he would have answered for with his latest breath, was hard to tell—but it was not to be.

"Tell me," she says, and she puts her hand to her brow, "is—she dead?"

"Dead? No," he says, bitterly. "I could almost find it possible to wish that I could answer 'Yes.' No, she is not dead; but honor, and all that makes womanhood worthy of respect and reverence, are dead in her. Is it possible that you have not heard?"

"A common story, they tell me, meaning to comfort me," he replies, almost sardonically. "On the morning of her betrothal she met the Duke of Gretnam by appointment. They were to be married; but fate was merciful, and saved him from a traitor-

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Tasty and cheaply made.

The prompt and positive action of this simple, inexpensive home-made remedy in quickly healing the inflamed or swollen membranes of the throat, chest or bronchial tubes and breaking up light coughs, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness ceases, wheezing, breathing becomes easier, tickling in the throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual cure for coughs and colds are conquered in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. You then have 16 ounces—a family supply of a much better cough-syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction. Money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MISTAKES OF THE TOILET.

The American woman is the exact antipode of the French woman. The ideal of American beauty is a clear complexion showing both pink and white, large eyes more often blue than dark or brown or light hair.

The French woman does not care for natural effects because, with her, natural effects are not good. She does not care for the rosy cheeks that denote health, for they only emphasize the heaviness of the skin. On the contrary she prefers a deep, artificial white that gives an even color to the face.

She again, apparently, disregards the health standard of the American woman, by deliberately blackening the skin about the eyes in an endeavor to make the too small orbs fuller and more appealing.

The American skin needs a different treatment from the French skin. It is thinner, more delicate and more inclined to dry and take on premature wrinkles. It needs more cream to keep it in condition and cannot stand the heavy powders and liquid preparations that the French woman uses in such profusion. It is no exaggeration to say that the average American complexion would be ruined before thirty if it was subjected to the same treatment that the French woman uses to advantage.

The same is true of the figure. The only reducing method in this country is the natural, scientific one of exercise and diet.

Bazaar Closes.

St. Joseph's Bazaar at the C. C. C. Hall will close to-night with a dance beginning at eight o'clock. Yesterday afternoon and night the affair was well attended and the booths, containing replenished stocks of plain and fancy goods, attracted a large number of purchasers. The sale is being continued to-day up to six o'clock this evening, when the remaining stock of goods on hand will be disposed of by auction.

From the Wreck.

The work of taking the flour cargo out of the stranded steamer Beverley, at St. Mary's, was interrupted yesterday by a rough sea that raged. However, conditions were more civil this morning and the transferring of the flour to the S. S. Erik to be brought here is being carried on.

The Beverley's cargo, we learn, comprised exactly 6,000 barrels all told. After discharging one-third of that quantity, which is expected to finish to-morrow evening, efforts will be made to refloat her.

GERMANS WILL CONFER WITH BOLSHIEVICKI.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

Sunday next has been set apart for the Germans as the date for the peace conference with the Bolsheviki. In the purpose of negotiations for an armistice. The arrangements for the discussion followed the visit of representatives of the Bolsheviki German military authorities to the Teuton side of the fighting in Russia. The Germans gave quick acquiescence to the proposal of the Russians for an armistice looking to ultimate peace, and a few hours intervened between the visit of the Russians to the line and the acceptance by the Germans of the proposition. The Germans are expected to embrace an armistice on all fronts of the belligerents. It is certain that the Allies will give no heed to thetures either of the Bolsheviki or the Russian radical section. The Bolsheviki, who have long desired to cease fighting, or of the Germans who for even a greater of time have been endeavoring into operation negotiations for peace that would prove a success.

GERMANS WILL CONFER WITH BOLSHIEVSKI

LONDON, Nov. 28. Sunday next has been set by the Germans as the date for the conference with the Bolshieviki leaders, with the purpose of negotiations for an armistice. The arrangement for the discussion followed the visit of representatives of the Bolshieviki to the German military authorities on the Tonten side of the fighting front in Russia. The Germans apparently gave quick assent to the proposal of the Russians for an armistice looking to ultimate peace, for only a few hours intervened between the visit of the Russians to the German line and the acceptance by the Germans of the proposition that was made to them. While negotiations are expected to embrace an armistice on all fronts of the belligerent countries, it is certain that the Entente Allies will give no heed to the overtures either of the Bolshieviki, who comprise the radical section of the Russians, who have long desired Russia to cease fighting, or of the Germans who for even a greater period of time have been endeavoring to put into operation negotiations for a peace that would prove a suitable one for themselves and their allies.

AUSTRIA WANTS PEACE WITH RUSSIA.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 28. Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, in a discussion with delegates in the Upper House, said, according to a Vienna despatch to-day, that Austria was ready to enter into negotiations with Russia for an honorable and acceptable peace.

WAR SUMMARY.

On the fighting front in Northern France the battle between the British and Germans for points of vantage around Cambrai continued throughout Tuesday night but on Wednesday died down to small proportions. The Germans had brought up large numbers of reinforcements, and fighting for Bourlon Village, Bourlon Wood and Fontaine Notre Dame was waged with great bitterness, and positions several times changed hands. East and northeast of Ypres violent artillery activity is in progress, especially in the sector of Passchendaele, and it seems probable that another big battle in this region is brewing. To the south in the region of St. Quentin, north of the Aisne, in the vicinity of Verdun, there have been small infantry operations, with the advantage resting with the French troops.

The Italians continue to hold tenaciously to their northern front between the Brenta and Piave Rivers against the Austro-German forces, who have been unable in repeated attacks to gain additional terrain. An armistice in order that they might bury their dead, has been requested by the Austrians, but owing to the lack of good faith in the enemy's intentions, the Italians have refused to grant it.

Jerusalem is within sight of the British forces operating in Palestine, but the Turks in force have been gathered about the city, and it is not improbable that a great battle will be fought for its possession. To meet the emergency, the British are hurriedly bringing up additional men, guns and supplies.

SCANDINAVIAN CONFERENCE.

CHRISTIANIA, Nov. 28. King Gustava of Sweden and King Christian of Denmark have arrived here with their respective premiers and foreign ministers. The monarchs will remain here until Saturday. The city is gorgeously bedecked in honor of the visit of the sovereigns. The announcement was made Nov. 16 that the Kings of Denmark and Sweden would visit King Haakon, Nov. 28. A despatch from an Associated Press correspondent from Copenhagen Tuesday said he learned from a responsible source that the conference was arranged in consequence of an intimation from Germany that the growth of anti-German sentiment in Norway was being followed with concern by Germany, and that it was feared Norway might be impelled by public opinion or pressure on the Allied side to enter the world war at least to a point of granting a naval base to England and the United States, in which event Germany would be called upon to seize a base in Denmark.

THE INTER-ALLIED CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 28. Delegates from other countries to the great inter-Allied conference, which includes all members of the coalition, great and small, are welcoming the presence here for conference of the American delegation as making available to the French minds fresh points of view in consideration of old questions. Americans are meeting everywhere with a most cordial feeling, and desire to listen to the suggestions and consider such measures as they may intimate.

When the mission arrived it was understood that only its chairman, Col. House, Tasker H. Bliss, Chief of Staff, and Admiral Wm. S. Benson, Chief of Naval Operations, would attend the full sessions of the conference, but it may be that all the members of the mission may take part. This point, which is not yet quite determined, will depend upon what the make-up of the representatives of other countries will be. Mathieu Sevasto Paulo, who has been Councillor of the Russian Embassy here throughout the successive changes in the Embassy since its revolution, and who occupied that post previously under the old regime, will sit in conference. M. Maklakoff, the new Ambassador, has not yet presented his credentials to the President, as he is waiting to see what happens in Russia, but he also will have a place in the Conference as an observer. He has made an admirable personal impression upon the French and Allied diplomats. Col. House had a long conference this morning with Premier Clemenceau, and another later with David Lloyd George. He was a guest of James Haden Hyde at dinner this evening. The British mission all told inclusive of clerks and other attaches numbers 143 persons.

REPULSE RAIDS.

PARIS, Nov. 28. Enemy raids at St. Quentin and Chaume Wood were repulsed, according to an official announcement by the war office to-day. The statement reads: In the region of St. Quentin we easily repulsed two enemy raids. Our patrols operating west of Tahure and in the neighborhood of Sanogneux, brought back prisoners, including an officer. A raid attempted against our posts west of Chaume wood, failed. It is confirmed that our attack of Nov. 21 against the German positions around Juvencourt, resulted in very heavy losses to the enemy. The number of prisoners taken by us in that affair was 456. We also captured thirteen machine guns, three trench cannons, three grenade throwers and 400 rifles.

SEVENTEEN SHIPS SUNK LAST WEEK.

LONDON, Nov. 28. Last week's Admiralty report announced the sinking of 17 British merchant ships, ten more than 1,600 tons and seven less than 1,000 tons. The week previously only one craft of 1,600 tons and over, and five of less tonnage were sent to the bottom.

ITALIAN SHIPPING LOSSES.

ROME, Nov. 28. Italian shipping losses due to submarine attacks during the week ending Nov. 23, were one steamer of more than 1,600 tons, and one under that tonnage and one sailing vessel, it was officially announced to-day.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Nov. 28. The statement by the war office to-night reads: There were artillery actions north of the Aisne, Argonne and on the right bank of the Meuse in the sector of Chamettes.

Eastern Theatre.—The day was calm along the whole front, except in the region of Dretun, where artillery fighting was resumed interruptedly. In the region of Monastir an enemy airplane was brought down.

FRATERNIZING ORDERED TO BE STOPPED.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 28. It is asserted here that persons who conducted the German negotiations for an armistice were authorized by their government to do so. Pending the holding of a conference, Ensign Krylenko has issued an order to the army, stopping fraternization and advising vigilance and caution.

FOODSTUFFS DISCOVERED AT PETROGRAD.

Petrograd, Monday.—In response to representations that members of the railway union and their families were suffering from want of shoes, American Ambassador Francis, in speaking to supply committees of the Ministry of Communications and of the Northern railways, said he was urging the immediate shipment of shoes contracted for in America. Sixteen hundred cars of provisions congested at Moscow are being rushed to the front. It is reported that enormous quantities of foodstuffs have been discovered in Petrograd, where they were being hoarded by speculators.

CHINESE COMMISSION AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28. The commissioners of the Chinese Republic, who are visiting the United States in the interest of closer industrial and commercial relations, arrived here to-day from Chicago. They will remain about a week and later will go to Washington. The party is headed by Lt. General Chiang Ting-tse and Commander Li Sing Hia. There are six other members of the Commission.

RUSSIA'S SHOE DIFFICULTIES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. Contracts for two million pairs of shoes, approved recently by the Council of National Defence, were not signed by the Russian Purchasing Commission because of the unsettled conditions in Petrograd and uncertainty as to whether they had legal authority to make the purchase. An extension of time was asked American manufacturers to allow the Commission to communicate with Petrograd. Purchases of shoes was made to supply most pressing needs of the Russian forces. These shoes have been shipped but not arrived in Russia.

TO CONSIDER ARMISTICE.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 28. The Germans have set December 2nd for conference for negotiations of an armistice.

SENTENCED TO IMPRISONMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28. Captain Max V. Thierichens, former Commander of the German sea raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, was sentenced by the United States District Court here to-day to fourteen months' imprisonment. He was convicted of violating the Mann White Slave Act.

CHINA WILL BE REPRESENTED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. It is announced that the Chinese Legation that China would be represented at the Inter-Allied Conference at Paris by the resident Chinese Minister in France, Mr. Hu Wei Teh and by General Tam Thai Lieh, Vice-Secretary of the General Staff of China, who had already arrived in Paris.

TROUBLE IN MEXICO.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 28. Military censorship has thrown a veil over the developments between this port and Chihuahua City. Mexican officials have admitted that telegraph lines have been cut, and that trains and service have been suspended, but would give no information as to the outcome of the fighting reported south of Laguna, 75 miles north of Chihuahua City, where General Hernandez was believed to have come in contact with Villa's forces. Dead and wounded federal officers are being brought into Guaymas Sonora on special trains after engagements between Yaquis and Federals last week. Reports reaching here last night stated that newspapers from Talron announce that Gustavo Espinoza Morelos has been seated as Governor of Coahuila, instead of Luis Gutierrez, who contested the election. It was necessary for General Francisco Murguia to go to Pachuca with troops to effect the inauguration of Espinoza.

AMERICAN AIRMAN ESCAPES FROM GERMAN CAMP.

LONDON, Nov. 28. An American Flight Lieut., a native of Seattle, who had been flying with the British for a year, and who was taken prisoner on the western front by the Germans two months ago, has arrived in London after escaping from a German prison camp. The lieutenant had three narrow escapes from death. On one occasion he was nearly electrocuted by wires on the Dutch frontier. On arrival in London the lieutenant went immediately to the American Embassy to arrange for his transfer from the British to the American Flying Corps.

SUBMARINE TOLL.

LONDON, Nov. 28. Fourteen British merchantmen, 1,600 tons and over, were sunk by mines or submarines last week, according to the weekly admiralty statement issued this evening. This is an increase of four vessels in the larger category over the number reported sunk last week.

Driving Power.

(From the Boston News Bureau.) The brilliancy of the latest British drive under Gen. Byng, in the Arras sector, would seem from the early accounts to complement handsomely in its significance the latest revelations as to the assured subsidence of the submarines. Here are parallel arrows—pointing one sure, however slow way. What appears to have happened on nearly 35 miles of front between St. Quentin and the Scarpe needs no profound technical analysis. It is the plain evidence of an acceleration of the inevitable. And with it go one or two new developments of strategy that would seem to carry a considerable meaning of both interest and encouragement. Whatever qualifications may be urged as to a defensive form of Teuton fighting on the west, or whatever the attempted minimizing of success by Berlin, the inevitable stands out sharper than ever—that on the one vital front not only distinct initiative but also strong preponderance of power has passed to one side; and that this process is certain to be augmented. Germany, inside her circle, may have a minor initiative of attack, as against Italy; but in the first and fateful arena she has definitely lost the whip hand. No matter what further shifting she may make to the east, or drain upon her home manhood or boyhood, the equation of power there is sure—with America in—to expand against her. This would seem to be the big and clear lesson from Arras. The incidental points of interest in this latest offensive simply accentuate this main tendency. They are the sudden shifting of point of attack and the surprise element introduced by launching the attack with no precursor save the tanks. The usual artillery was dumb; while to veil the larger strategy employed, that in Flanders was very brisk, as if in preparation for a final autumn drive in what seemed the single British big offensive. German lines of defence have for some time been reported as betraying much nervousness. May there not be now an ominous increase in that tension? Ability at Arras to dispense with the methodical blasting process may have been helped by local conditions and by the factor of surprise; but the new development ought to have a still wider meaning. It should foreshadow the gradual and accelerated disintegration of the whole trench deadlock. Beside promising the fall of Cambrai and Lens, and thus assuring further "strategical retreats," it would seem to establish the symptoms of a waning morale among the Teutons. Berlin reports the ultimate stopping of the drive by "reserves." But how about the continuing quantity and quality of these? There is now one clearer task, in one definite area, before the anti-Teuton alliance—including our own swelling forces. It is the killing, the crippling and the capturing of as many of the enemies bodies as possible, and simultaneously the wearing down of their spirit. No other argument applies. Gen. Byng's all-round toll is a very encouraging application.

OL' DAD MARTIN—He Makes a Rash Decision, But He'll Come Around!

From the Wreck.

The work of taking the flour cargo of the stranded steamer Beverley, St. Mary's, was interrupted yesterday by a rough sea that raged. How conditions were more civil this morning and the transferring of the flour to the S. S. Erik to be brought ashore is being carried on.

The Beverley's cargo, we learn, comprised exactly 6,000 barrels all of which were damaged.

After discharging one-third of the quantity, which is expected to be finished to-morrow evening, efforts will be made to refloat her.

Too Intense for Nonsense.

Houston Post: Two years ago the Kaiser gave vent to this splendid example of egotistical affront: "I shall stand no nonsense from America after the war." There are 500,000 American soldiers boys carrying next their hearts faded flowers given them by sweethearts, mothers and sisters with the whispered order: "Place them on the grave of the Kaiser!" After the war nonsense will not appeal to Emperor William. The heat will be too intense for nonsense.

The fiddle fend announced: "If I like two letters from 'money' one will be left. 'Curious, isn't it?' 'Very,' drawled the bored friend, 'but I can tell you something more curious.' 'What's that?' 'A friend of mine took money from a letter, and now his wife and only are left!'—TH-Bits.

Some Thoughts on Eyebrows

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Don't you love eyebrows? So many people are so particular about them, always notice a beautiful or an unbecomingly mouth, and can always tell you what kind of acquaintance has a set of others (the largest class, I believe) are sensitive to beautiful eyes, and can remember what kind and color of eyes all their friends have. The connoisseur in noses is rare, doubtless because beautiful noses themselves are also excessively rare. My own specialty is eyebrows—with eye lashes and eye lids as a side line.

It seems to me there is as much character and distinctiveness in eyebrows as in any feature in the face. A would-be-beautiful face is often entirely spoiled by too heavy or too light and characterless eyebrows, and scanty or sandy lashes.

How We Love to Look Foreign. And an otherwise commonplace face is often rendered attractive or piquant by distinctive eyebrows. There is, for instance the peculiar sweep of eyebrow that gives a Japanese effect to the face. By the way how it delights people to tell them they look foreign. Tell a girl there is a touch of the Japanese or the French or the Russian about her and she will be your friend for life. I suppose this is on the same principle that a woman loves to buy a suit that is "an individual model." She wouldn't want to be out of style, what she wants is to be like the rest and yet different.

Eyebrows Determine the Expression. Eyebrows often determine the expression of a face. You sometimes see a face with a peculiarly appealing expression. Analyze it, and nine times out of ten you will find it is the sweep of the eyebrow. Heavy eyebrows sometimes give the effect of a temper, always of strength of character. I don't like them myself. Nor do I like eyebrows that just barely arch from one side of the eye to the other. The brows I love the best are dark in color but rather delicately penciled, long, and with an upward sweep that suggests a bird's wing.

White Lids With Blue Veins. For a perfectly accoutred eye there should also be not only good lashes (personally I prefer short thick ones to the long lashes so much extolled in fiction) but a good fringe on the lower lid and beautiful white lids with blue veins. This last is a subtle charm which, if I were a man, would attract me as much as any other charm of face or figure in a woman.

Jane Cowl has very lovely eyebrows, also Valeska Suratt. Anita Stewart's are short but the shape is good. Marie Dorso's are peculiarly lovely.

The more beautiful things you open your eyes to, the more you enjoy the use of those eyes. Why not add eyebrows to your present list.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL.

The telephone girl is a cheery body in a $2.98 slinthead who has nothing to do all day but sit in an easy chair and steer the gab waves in some other direction. Her business is to enable people with abundant leisure who live on a party line to converse like a serial story until run off by a thunder storm.

Telephone girls occupy small, wire-fenced coops where they cannot be reached by anything but the appealing voice of the grocery salesman who is trying to locate the shipping department on a reverse ticket. Each girl wears a receiver on her right ear which enables her to drink in a good deal of soulful profanity which was not intended for publication, along with some very animated love passages which bob up in the divorce proceedings at a later date. The best thing about the telephone girl is that her memory is shorter than a Coney Island walking skirt, and she is harder to pry information out of than a witness for the defense in a saloon fight. If telephone girls ever got together and started to tell all they know, the number of abrupt and hurried departures from the city would make the exodus from Egypt look like letting out prayer meeting on a rainy night.

One of the most important duties of the telephone girl is to listen to the abuse and bad grammar of people who are several blocks away, and return a pleasant look through the transmitter. This requires much tact and self-control, especially when four frenzied parties are grabbing for long distance at one and the same time. When the line has been cleared of patrons who have been hanging on to it with a death grip, in order to tell about grandma's birthday party, the telephone girl turns it over to the patron who is nearest to an apoplectic stroke and soothes the fur of the others in a voice that sounds like chanting the evening hymn. The girl who can do this without driving a Congregational Sale and Concert.

A very successful sale of work was held in the lecture room of the Congregational Church yesterday afternoon and night and was well attended. The stalls, which were stocked with goods of every description, were tended by the Ladies' Aid, who were ably assisted by the members of the Girls' Guild who supplied much of the fancy work. At 5.30 teas were served and at 8 p.m. a concert was held. Rev. W. H. Thomas presiding as Chairman. The programme consisted of songs by Misses Steele, Oakley, Thomas, Mitchell and Herder, Rev. W. H. Thomas, F. Emerson and C. Trapnell; recitations by Miss Gladys Brookes and Mr. Header; piano solo by Miss Pike and a French horn solo by Mr. A. Bulley. The singing of the National Anthem brought the affair to a close. Following is a list of the stall holders during the day:—

A Test of Our Nerves.

Westminster Gazette: We are completely confident of the final result if the mass of people in the Allied countries can be made to understand the situation. The sea-power and economic power of the Allies would alone be a guarantee to the world that the German dream of conquest will not prevail. We have made great progress better refrain from killing the German militarists, and the pressure that we are exercising upon them is immense, and will be ruinous if we keep our grip. But it is useless to talk of the Germans being beaten in any military sense, and we Kaiser without mouths, or declaring the war to be won, or virtually won, until we see much more daylight in that respect. Talk of this kind merely stokes up the military spirit in Germany and actively misleads a large section of our own people. The unanimous decision of the Allies is against a half-hearted and inconclusive peace, and for fighting on until certain most desirable but very difficult aims are achieved. That is excellent, but at the same time we must understand that the achievement of these aims requires still a long and bitter struggle, with action and preparation commensurate with our declared purpose. The Italian situation is a test of our nerve and resources. It requires not merely a transfer of effort, but an addition to our efforts, and we must rise to the occasion.

One tissue yelied over another makes a gown of illusive charm. Wooden beads gilded in a dull tone make a charming trimming. A simple tailored costume is the proper thing for a morning walk. Fine tucking is the decoration chosen for many of the fine suits. Young girls are wearing semi-evening frocks just as women are.

Biggest Boycott of History.

The Germans have lately been trying to make out a case for the retention of the stolen provinces, Alsace and Lorraine, on the ground that they are pro-German. But there never was a worse case in the history of man. For forty years and more the Germans have tried repression, terror, and bribery, but they are farther from reconciling the Alsatians and Lorrainers to their rule to-day than they were in 1870.

The Alsatians and Lorrainers do not recognize the German. He does not exist for them. They pass him in the street as if he were invisible. If the Germans get up a fete, a ball, a concert, Germans alone are seen there.

Conscription in Australia.

Christian Science Monitor: The decision of the Australian Federal Government once again to submit the much-discussed question of conscription to the Australian people, by means of a referendum is as significant as it is courageous. For some weeks past, the news from Australia as to domestic developments has been drastically censored. Nothing, for instance, was known by the outside world of the great strike which at one time, a few weeks ago, assumed almost national dimensions, until after Mr. Hughes' call to the nation for volunteer workers had cut the ground from under the feet of the malcontents, and practically settled the matter. And very little has come to hand since, but the very fact that the Federal Government now feels itself in a position to appeal to the country on a question which divided it, a year ago, as no other single question has divided it since the Confederation, argues a certain security of position and confidence in the future which are worth many columns of surveys and reviews.

She Went Days Without Food.

When Hospital Treatment Failed an Operation Was Advised—But Cure Was Effected Without The Use of the Knife. Glace Bay, N. S., November 29th—Here is a case which sorely puzzled the hospital doctors. It was evident that the great suffering from pain under the left shoulder-blade was due to torpidity of the liver, but no medical treatment seemed to do any good. In fact medicines failed, and the doctors said an operation was the only hope. But Mrs. Watkins hesitated before the enormous risk of an operation and decided to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills first. The result was that she was perfectly cured three years ago, and feels now that she can report the cure as a triumph and lasting. This is not an isolated case, but proves that this great medicine cures when ordinary prescriptions fail.

Mrs. Annie Watkins, Glace Bay, New Harbor, N.S., writes: "I think it is time for me to give my experience with your wonderful Kidney-Liver Pills. For seven months I suffered with what the doctor called indigestion; but whatever it was, I suffered terribly. The pain would start under my left shoulder and pass down my side until it reached the pit of my stomach. It just seemed as if the flesh were being torn from the bone. At times I used to go without food from one morning until the next. I had no energy left for work at all. At last our doctor sent me to the hospital for a month. For four days and nights I never broke my fast except for a drink of water. After four weeks' treatment there I returned home, and was back only four days when the pain came back as before. Then I was told I would have to undergo an operation, but I would not consent to that. At last I read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and started to take them. At first I did not notice much difference, but still I kept on using them, and by the time four boxes were used I was perfectly well again. That was in 1914, so you see I can safely say that I was cured. I shall always be grateful to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, for they did more for me than four doctors." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers on Edman, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Refuse substitutes, for they only disappoint.

NO REPORT FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN, To-day. A supplementary statement from headquarters this evening says that there is nothing of special importance to report from any front.

GERMAN FORCE SURRENDERS IN AFRICA.

LONDON, To-day. An official statement on the operations in East Africa tells of the unconditional surrender of the German force under Colonel Tafel, consisting of 12 German officers, one hundred Germans and 3,400 natives. The force had advanced southward from Mahenge area to Newala, apparently in ignorance of the British occupation of Newala.

SHIPPING FIGURES.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty statement follows: Arrivals 2058; sailings 2122; British merchantmen over 1600 tons sunk by mine or submarine, including one previously, 14; under 1600 tons, 7; fishing ships sunk, none. British merchantmen unsuccessfully attacked, including one previously, eight.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, To-day. A British official statement issued this evening says: On the Cambrai battlefield nothing of special interest occurred during the day. Early this morning the enemy attempted raids against our trenches in the neighborhood of Avion, south of Lens, but were repulsed in both cases. On the Ypres front the enemy's artillery activity continues; it has been heaviest east of Ypres. We have secured a few prisoners in patrol encounters.

HOLLAND TO STAY NEUTRAL.

THE HAGUE, To-day. Premier Vanderlinden, during the budget debate in the second chamber to-day, said the Government was entirely united upon its foreign policy and would continue to exercise the strictest neutrality, even should the consequences be other than hitherto thought. Its policy on international questions wouldn't be regulated by for but by the desire not to slide towards war. The Swedish Govern- ment, he said, had notified Holland that for the present it didn't intend to call together envoys from neutral countries for a discussion of economic interests.

TO CONTROL IMPORTS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. President Wilson to-night extended to imports the same measure of control by Government which since early in the war it has exercised over exports, by issuing a proclamation requiring the licensing of most of the chief import commodities. This action was taken under the authority of the Trading with the Enemy Act, which gives the executive power to prescribe such regulations governing imports as public safety requires. Import licensing will be put in the hands of the War Trade Board, which under the authority given the President in the Export Control Act issues all licenses for exports.

FISH SHIPMENTS TO U. S.

OTTAWA, To-day. Fish merchants on the Atlantic Coast of Canada will be enabled to ship supplies to American and other points promptly under the new regulations of the Food Controller through the authorization of Collectors of Customs at points of exit. The information was contained in a telegram sent from the Food Controller's office to-day to Collectors of Customs in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

AVIATION REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. The following statement dealing with aviation was issued to-day: Although on Tuesday there was a very high wind with rain most of the day a few important reconnaissances were carried out successfully by our airplanes. A little artillery work also was done and the enemy troops in the trenches were engaged with machine gun fire from the front. During the night in hostilities weather over ton of bombs were dropped on Men- in Railway Station. One of our machines is missing.

THE FIRST THREAT TO THE BOL-SHEVIL.

WASHINGTON, To-day. There will be no formal announcement for the present of the United States and allied nations towards the Bolshevik regime at Petrograd. The American Government is waiting both official information about the relations of the Bolshevik leaders with Germany's army officers and for further developments in the tangled situation throughout Russia. In the meantime the only official expression has been made in a statement by Lieut. Col. Hudson, Head of the American Military Mission, giving a warning that the logical outcome of the movements for an armistice and peace will be the cutting off of American supplies. This statement was made without instructions from Washington but officials said to-day that it "summarized the situation accurately."

1.00 P.M.

WHAT ABOUT "OURS"?

LONDON, To-day. General Newburn, Minister of Militia for Canada, having cabled that he had not time for "electroengineering" because he felt his supreme duty was getting twenty thousand men overseas, General Turner, V.C., Commander of the Canadian forces in England, has replied, "I cannot express to you the deep appreciation of all ranks overseas for your statement that you are working day and night to secure us twenty thousand reinforcements, beginning this year. We know only too well over here that the fifth division will indeed be wiped off the slate in order to reinforce the divisions in France if large drafts are not immediately forthcoming."

CANADIANS ESCAPE FROM GERMANY.

LONDON, To-day. Four more Canadians have escaped from German prison camps. They are Kennedy Merrigan, W. L. Waters, R. Paula and S. G. Wood.

A GOOD STEP.

OTTAWA, To-day. Speaking last night, E. Fripp, K.C., stated that General Newburn, Minister of Militia, had informed him on Tuesday that if 100,000 men were obtained by conscription the men of the first division were to be given furlough.

PRaises ITALIAN ARMY.

LONDON, To-day. General Maurice, discussing the situation on the various fronts with the Associated Press to-day, said the passing of the crisis on the Italian front was due entirely to the efforts of the Italian Army, adding, Anglo-French troops are now available in sufficient quantities to satisfy us that the situation is secure. On the western front he said, "The battle of Cambrai is still in the melting pot. The attack was a great success. The British in this case had no definite objectives. We intended to go as far as we could, and I can tell you we established ourselves a deal further than the Field Marshal Haig expected. The actual positions captured were very interesting, showing the tremendous amount of work put in on the triple Hindenburg Line and the German soldiers." General Maurice declared that the British position in the Cambrai salient was one which would be of the greatest service in the further operations against the Germans.

CARNAGE AT FONTAINE.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS. IN FRANCE, To-day. Fontaine Notre Dame was to-day virtually a No Man's Land, over which swirled a never ending deluge of machine gun bullets from the ranks of the opposing forces drawn up on either side of the blood drenched little hamlet. A bright warm sun was shining down from an almost cloudless sky but it brought little cheer to the battle-weary German and British troops, for it only served to throw into bold relief the awful picture of desolation and carnage within the confines of this village through which all day grim death had stalked among the contending warriors. It is probable that some parties of Germans were still clinging to their secret stronghold among the cellars at various points, but for the most part Fontaine Notre Dame was a place of the dead. They lay about the streets to tell the story of the cruel tragedy enacted about them. German prisoners, from a guards division and the 46th Regiment, were in British cages this morning as a result of the battle, and among the captives was a battalion commander who was caught captured in the fighting yesterday in the vicinity of Bourlon Village, where the English troops, co-operating with the tanks, made some advance. Tanks also were employed in the assault on Fontaine, and it was behind these "great engines that the British Guards pushed forward until they had reached the eastern side of the village. A German counter attack with a fresh corps, which resulted in the British being pushed back through the hamlet, gave the enemy a claim to the re-occupation of the place, but it has been stated that the Germans were unable to remain in Fontaine in force, so that to all intents and purposes they lost Fontaine although the British did not gain the fighting at Bourlon Village yesterday was very severe. The British began their attack about this place in a face of extremely heavy machine gun and rifle fire. Bourlon was strongly held and was crowded with rapid fire, which held all the approaches. The tanks worked to the front of the village and drove a hole in the enemy defences. Here they were closely followed by infantry, however, prevented the infantry from working their way further north on the western side of the place. The attack, however, progressed well on the eastern side of the village and the British rushed forward to the northeast corner, thereby saving the day still closer about the hamlet. At the same time that the Germans hurled their counter attack against Fontaine, they directed a large force of new troops against the advancing British about Bourlon and hard fighting ensued. This attack, however, was beaten off and this morning the British appear to have a footing in the southeastern outskirts of the village. A heavy machine gun and rifle fire was proceeding to-day throughout this section.

ONE SENSIBLE RUSSIAN PAPER.

PETROGRAD, No. 26. The Vetchera, commenting on the statement made by the Allied Military Missions to General DuRoin, who was deposed for refusing to obey the orders to open armistice negotiations with Germany, that any break in the London agreement by Russia would bring serious consequences, declares that the threat is not only a form of speech but exists, and is a position to supply us with necessities. The Vetchera admits the impossibility of Russia carrying on the war against Germany should be so conducted as not to needlessly end the Allies.

LIGHT ON NICKS' PAST HISTORY.

LONDON, To-day. Half a million members of the Gribz tribes were massacred by agents of the Russian Emperor in 1915, according to a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian who has been travelling in Central Russia. This was a punishment for rebellion against military service by Central Asian Moslems.

FRENCH SHIPPING LOSSES.

PARIS, To-day. Three French steamships of more than 1600 tons and one of less than that tonnage were sunk by submarines in the Atlantic during the week ending Nov. 25. One fishing vessel was lost. Three steamers were attacked unsuccessfully.

IMPORTANCE OF AMERICA.

PARIS, To-day. In discussing the inter-Allied conference in an interview with the Petit Parisien, Viscount Northcliffe says: "The unity of control which will issue from this conference is essential for more than one reason, but especially because it will permit the Allies to use to its full extent the generous trans-Atlantic resources which vast American industrial places at their disposal. The importance of American intervention only appears as yet but distinctly and vividly to the eyes of Europe. It is too difficult to imagine what is happening five thousand kilometres from here."

A CHRONIC STATE.

LONDON, To-day. Maximalist troops have occupied the Petrograd state bank, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Mail. He adds: "The people are going about their business in the most ordinary manner. Nobody is hurried and one would never imagine that another revolution is in progress. Scenes of political turmoil have now become epidemic here."

ANOTHER STATE DOCUMENT DISCLOSED.

MANCHESTER, To-day. The Manchester Guardian's Petrograd correspondent says that among the secret diplomatic documents published by Lenin's regime was one setting forth an agreement between Russia, France and Great Britain under which Alexandretta (Asiatic Turkey) was to be a free port and Palestine a protectorate under Russia and France, and Great Britain was to receive the neutral zone in Persia, except Isfahan and Yezd which were to go into the Russian sphere.

FRENCH REPORT.

PARIS, To-day. "Artillery actions occurred north of the Aisne and in the region of Sahonaul," says to-day's official report. "In the Champagne north of Camillelt the enemy last night after a violent bombardment undertook a raid in great strength. Our troops repulsed him, inflicting heavy losses. In the Argonne, west of the Aisne, we raided the German lines and brought back prisoners. Two enemy raids, one on the left bank of the Meuse in the region of Bethincourt and the other on the right bank northwest of Vaux Dansuh were completely repulsed. There was active artillery fighting in Upper Alsace."

CAME THROUGH BIG DRIVE.

Mr. L. G. Chafe received a message from his son, Lieut. Eric Chafe, M.M., this morning stating that he had passed through the last drive unscathed.

Marine Notes.

(Halifax Mail, Nov. 24.)

Two schooners are coming from Newfoundland with three thousand barrels of herring for George E. Boak and Sons; the Acadia from Bay of Islands with 1,500 barrels and Marjorie Inkpen with a like quantity from Notre Dame Bay. Capt. Samuel Shaw has decided to make a trip to Newfoundland and back in his new purchase, the schooner Minnie M. Mosher, before placing the vessel in winter quarters, having accepted a charter to load salt and other cargo here for the west coast of the Ancient Colony and return with a cargo of dry fish. The Mosher is now at Farquhar's wharf.

Steamer Sun, 131 tons net, has been released by the admiralty, her time charter being up. She was engaged as a patrol boat and will now load freight for St. John's, Nfld., where she is owned by Hon. J. C. Crosbie. She will haul down to-day to the wharf of H. R. Silver, limited, that firm being the agents for the steamer. The Sun was on the marine railway at Dartmouth this week to have her bottom cleaned and painted.

Schooner Athlete after her arrival at Bonne Bay, Nfld., from Gloucester via Halifax, went to Bay of Islands to load bulk herring for Gloucester. She called at Halifax for a load of salt. The J. J. Fishery, which also called at Halifax for salt on her way from Gloucester, was getting her load of bulk herring at Bonne Bay. Another schooner which called at Halifax for salt on her way to Newfoundland, the Louisa R. Sylvia, was getting her load of bulk herring at Woods Islands and she was the first arrival of the Gloucester herring fleet.

Christian Brothers.

In appealing to the ex-pupils of the Christian Brothers Schools of the City one is practically asking the vast majority of Catholic citizens to remember the call for Sunday next. Forty-one years cover the time since the Brothers established their institutions in our midst and during that period the happiest relations have existed between the Order, the pupils and the community at large. The high place they have gained here as educationists is consistent with the record of their institutions in Ireland, India, Australia, Gibraltar and other parts of the world. Their unselfish services and the high character of their labours have won the applause and admiration of all classes, which have resulted in sending out into the world thousands of young men of our city and country fully armed for the conflict.

There was a time when an impression prevailed that outside of the professions no learning was necessary, and the idea that traders, mechanics and the great body of workmen did not need education was part of the snobbish attitude of many. The efforts of the Brothers are mainly devoted to the education of the children of the masses of our people, with the object of converting them into healthy men, producers of wealth and useful and intelligent citizens, thus placing them in a position of equality with the more favoured classes. The extraordinary conditions prevailing in consequence of the great European conflict calls for greater effort than in ordinary times, hence those who have been pupils of the schools are expected and required on Sunday to make a special effort to make the collection one that will fully meet the circumstances of the case in these days of high prices, fittingly compensate the devoted teachers and encourage them in the continuance of their noble calling.—Com.

Resolution of Sympathy

At a meeting of the Star of the Sea Society of Ferryland, on Sunday, October 6th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas—It has pleased Almighty God to call to His heavenly home our late member, Joseph Patrick Farrell;

Whereas—It is fitting that we should give expression to the great sorrow that we feel at the loss of one who endeared himself to us all by his many qualities and who true to his ideals of duty offered his life in his country's cause;

Therefore be it Resolved,—That in the death of Patrick Farrell the Society has sustained a heavy loss, as he was one ever true to the Catholic principles of our Society, therefore be it resolved that we extend to the bereaved parents and relatives our heartfelt sympathy in the hour of their bereavement.

Signed on behalf of the Society,
JOHN W. COSTELLO,
J. A. MILLER,
W. BARNABE,
P. BREEN.

C. G. C. Sale & Concert.

The sale and concert held by the Cathedral Girls' Club in the Synod Hall yesterday was largely attended. The jams, pickles, etc., which were the chief articles for sale were quickly disposed of. The Orange Tree, which was conducted on the lines of the grab bag, attracted the little ones, each finding a gift in the fruit plucked. At 8 p.m. a concert was held, at which Rev. Canon White, Bishop-Elect, presided, Revs. J. Brinton and E. Fletcher being also present. An interesting programme was gone through and those taking part were: Misses Dunfield, Mitchell, Ger. Herder, J. Rendell, A. Hayward, England, Andrews and Gardner, and L. Corp. R. Bennett. Miss Winderle and Mr. F. Emerson acted as accompanists. The proceeds are to be devoted to the funds of the new parish hall and the furnishing of the new orphanage.
