Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER X.

"I admit that this is selfish, but though I may appear to be all that is perfect in your dear eyes, my mother considers me a disappointment!"

He tried to laugh, but in some way Elsie felt chilled, and she was careful not to refer to Colin's mother again. She could not be a good woman if she were dissatisfied with Colin!

They returned to the house together, after arranging for a later meeting in the park.

Lady Helena met them in the hall, her face expressive of surprise and disapproval.

"Mr. Ernscliffe," she said, coldly, "it is very indiscreet upon your part to say the least of it, to keep Miss Sterne an hour past luncheon time. You are almost an absolute stranger to us, and I should not even have remembered your name had not Lord Somerton reminded me of it."

"I am much obliged to Lord Somerton, your ladyship," replied Colin, calmly; "but I do not think that my name in any way affects his lordship. I came here upon business—business which had to be dealt with promptly."

"Then we will discuss it in a business way," tartly retorted Lady Helena, who had received her cue from Lord Somerton, "and in a place where business is usually discussed, not in the hearing of the servants."

"I am delighted to say that the matter is already settled," Ernscliffe responded, gravely. "It is a purely family matter, and I represent Sir John Sterne's nephew, Noel Campbell. I am sorry to disappoint you, Lady Helena."

"And," added Elsie, an angry flush mounting to her brow. "Mr. Colin Ernscliffe is, our guest, Lady Helena, by my invitation."

Her ladyship weakened, and from that hour did not dare to openly assert herself, though she snarled bitterly under the rule of so youthful a mistress as Elsie Sterne, and by degrees her shallow nature grew spiteful and revengeful.

However, she had the good grace to apologise to the artist and strive to make herself agreeable.

After lunch Ernscliffe sent his card to Lord Somerton's apartments, pebbling on the back these words: "I await your pleasure in the west drawing-room."

CHAPTER XI. LORD SOMERTON LEAVES BLAIRWOOD.

It was nearly an hour before Lord Somerton appeared, but he did not notice the flight of time until he glanced at his watch.

His lordship entered the room, a monocle in his left eye, through which he glanced superciliously at Colin Ernscliffe.

There was no word of greeting between them as the artist wheeled round and faced Somerton.

"I am here, my lord," he said, his changeable features expressing the repugnance he felt. "Now for the satisfaction you desire."

"My good fellow," proceeded Somerton, "if we were in France or Spain, I might challenge you to meet me at twenty paces, but here"—he shrugged his shoulders—"the thing is impossible; besides, I have no intention of adding to your reputation. It would be a fine thing for you to be associated with a duel with a peer of the realm. I have no wish to injure your prospects, and therefore am willing that the matter end here—with an apology from you. I have weighed things carefully over in my own mind, and as I am not dependent on my bread upon cheap notoriety, I do not see the policy of advertising myself."

Ernscliffe could scarcely resist the impulse to spring at Lord Somerton and make him swallow his words.

"My lord," he said, in tones of suppressed anger, "I would thrash you again, and soundly this time, if your miserable body were not so wizened and small. It is you who make it difficult for an adjustment of the differences between us. I have only to say that you are a contemptible liar, a blackdog and a libertine! You have not the shadow of a claim upon Miss Sterne, you have no right in this house. You are an uninvited and unwelcome guest; and until you are gone I shall remain to protect Sir John Sterne's daughter."

The forced smile upon Lord Somerton's face changed to one of wolfish ferocity, but he spoke calmly:

"I shall not quarrel with you, but warn you that you had better not make me your enemy! I am not disposed to argue with you, either upon the question of my right here or my claim upon Miss Sterne. I shall not remain to create a sensation; I refuse to gratify you in this; but I shall return again, with my claim established beyond the shadow of a doubt."

He bowed mockingly and left the room.

About four o'clock Ernscliffe left the house and bent his steps in the direction of the park. He had promised to meet Elsie in the artificial glade at half-past four to say good-bye.

As he turned into one of the ornamental paths that skirted the central lawn, he observed a carriage in the drive, with a footman standing at the heads of the horses, while Lord Somerton's valet was pacing to and fro.

"He is keeping his promise, evidently," Colin thought, grimly.

Another minute and his lordship strolled toward the carriage, accompanied by Lady Helena Freeman, who was giving utterance to the usual remarks when guests are unexpectedly called away. Then the footman sprang to his seat beside the coachman, and the crunching of gravel in the drive told Ernscliffe that the hateful Somerton was indeed gone.

Colin found Elsie waiting for him in the rustic seat under the wide-spreading branches of the maple tree. There was a sweet, shy look in her eyes, half confident, half expectant.

For a few moments he stood and admired the lovely picture she made, and it was photographed into his soul forever! She was attired in walking-costume, her dress a delicate heliotrope in color, a bunch of the same flowers at her throat, and upon her shimmering hair was faintly set a coquettish crimoline hat, trimmed with silk in sympathy with the general coloring and the tips of ostrich feathers.

"Elsie," exclaimed Ernscliffe, "How lovely you are! How I should like to paint your picture, darling, just as you appear in my eyes now!"

He strained her to him for an instant, then dropped beside her in the seat, his eyes hungrily resting upon her sweet face.

"Now that you are dressed," he observed, "do you think that you dare walk with me a little way in the direction of the railway station, Elsie?"

Corns

Just Say Blue-jay

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in clear liquid and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

At your druggist

"But you are not going yet, Colin?" she answered, her eyes becoming clouded. "I intended showing you the church," she added, with a pretty blush, "and asking you to hear me play the organ for a little while. This is a privilege which the restor grants me, and I am a passionate lover of music."

"It will be perfect bliss to me, Elsie," the artist replied, "but will not the gossips talk? They will want to know who I am."

"If I am satisfied it does not matter. I am proud of my handsome lover."

Even then she noticed that he hesitated, but forgot the incident until some weeks later.

"I have good news," proceeded Ernscliffe. "My differences with Lord Somerton are ended, and he has left Blairwood."

"Left Blairwood! I am so glad!" Elsie clasped her hands with pleasure, adding:

"And I hope that I shall never see his evil face again!"

For a while there was silence, Elsie content to nestle closely to him, while he watched the lengthening shadows on the grass, as the sun sank slowly in a cloud of fire.

"Elsie," he whispered at last, "would it not be beautiful if we two could forget every incident of the past and live for each other only in the golden future? This sylvan glade our home, the sky our canopy, the singing of birds and the mystic sighing of the winds our music, with love for an eternal feast! Oh, that the past with its warning finger could be forever blotted out!"

"Colin, how strangely you talk! There are some periods in my life that I would never wish to forget," the girl replied. "Have your early years been so full of hardships?"

"Yes," he said, shortly, "full of hardships and bitterness."

"My poor darling! But now you have me, and we will be all to each other. Oh, Colin, I am afraid, now that this great joy has come into my life, that I may not prove worthy of one so good and clever as you."

"Don't—don't! You torture me!" "But come," she went on brightly, "there is a lovely walk through the park, through fields of clover, and then over the hill in the rear of the church. Let us go that way. We shall have to go very near to Zeba's cottage, and I wish to pay her a visit on the way."

"Zeba? Who is she?" questioned Ernscliffe.

"Have I not told you? Zeba is my old nurse. She is an Indian, and refuses to live in civilisation. You have been near to her cottage once, but you will be disgusted if she permits you to see the interior. Come, it is not very far from where we now are."

The world of fashion has not tired of plaits.

A Nightingale Lane Fete

EX-PREMIER OF NEWFOUNDLAND ON THE DUTY OF CATHOLICS.

(South Western Star, Oct. 7.)

A garden fete was held in the grounds of the Xavierian College, Nightingale-lane, Clapham Common, on Friday and Saturday last. The fete was organised by the Old Xavierian Club, and the attendance on both days was very satisfactory. Members of the committee had spared no effort to ensure the success of the gathering and the result was a bewildering variety of attractions suited to all tastes and purses. There were cocoanut shies, a shooting range, hoop-la, spinning-jenny, toto, roulette, spinning ball, crown and anchor, under and over seven, darts and rings, electric strength tester, palmistry, the Sheikh's tomb, hidden treasure, wireless, etc. Two concerts were given daily and were well patronised.

The artists included, Miss Minnie White, Miss Helena May White, Miss Teresa Tanti, Messrs. A. J. Hoyle, A. Symes, H. W. Skinner, L. Colan, W. R. Davies, Mr. W. J. Scott and Partner; Miss Esme D. Moore, Miss Marie Ladelle (from the Royal Albert Hall) and Miss I. Shanley with her Troupe, "The Juvenile Eight." A band was in attendance each day.

On Saturday the fete was opened by Lord Morris, ex-Premier of Newfoundland, who, having been introduced by the Very Rev. Brother Cyril, said he was very much indebted for the kind remarks that had been made about him. "I am afraid," said Lord Morris humorously, "I don't bear quite such a good character in my own country. On one occasion a very enthusiastic friend of mine who was present at one of my meetings said, 'This is a very wonderful crowd you have here to-night.' Yes," said another, "but it would be nothing to the crowd that would be here if they were hanging him." (Laughter.) They knew the objects for which the fete was organized and in his opinion there was no way that he knew of more likely to give satisfactory and certain results.

A sound Catholic education was a prime necessity so that when boys and girls go into the world and come up against all kinds of controversial questions they may be able to uphold the church. He did not know any other work they could enter upon that would give such satisfactory results. They were putting money into a bank whose doors would never close and making an investment on which they would always get a dividend. The reason they believed, as Catholics in the infidelity of the church was that they could not help themselves—they had to teach and believe that was true. Holding that belief then it resolved itself into an economic question as to whether they were doing their part and contributing as much as they ought for the upkeep of their churches. If they were not, it was high time they realized their duty, and acted up to it. Catholics were morally responsible in this matter. They could not expect to have churches and clergy and schools and teachers if they did not contribute to the sinews of war. (Applause.)

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Lord Morris for his attendance.

Inroads on Men's Occupations by Women

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—(By Canadian Press.)—The last decade shows marked inroads by women on the trades and professions formerly restricted to men, in the United States in particular, and in a smaller degree in Canada. The Washington Bureau of Statistics has issued for the first time since 1910 a survey of the work being done by the eight and a half million women employed in the States. Increased numbers of women have enrolled in many and varied walks of life, from farmers, including dairymen and the "farm stalling" to operators, officials and managers of mines; mechanical, electrical and civil engineers; architects, designers and draftsmen; and engravers, chauffeurs and dentists. The greatest increase in women workers is in clerical positions and transportation. In 1922 there was approximately 210,000 street transportation. The skilled building trades are as yet untouched by the women, and are the last stronghold of the men, the survey states.

To Revolutionize Fishing Industry

NAGASAKI, Oct. 13th (Canadian Press)—Fishing in Japanese waters will soon become a most modern proposition if plans reported to have been made by the Aviation Bureau are carried out. According to the scheme, airplanes will be used in spotting shoals of fish at sea, while carrier-pigeons will relay messages to the fishing agents ashore as to the location of the fish. The authorities are said to anticipate trebling the annual catch of herring and other fish abounding in Japanese waters, and the outcome of the proposed venture will be watched with interest.

Snowier clothes—Easier wash-days with this new, purest laundry soap

You can have snowy, beautifully clean clothes every wash-day—with less work, and less injury to delicate fabrics. We've perfected the purest possible laundry soap. It contains none of the harmful "filler" which rots cloth, shortens the life of pretty things. And it cleans so quickly! Stubbornest dirt is taken out with the least possible rubbing. Rinses cleanly, too. No suds residue left to yellow the "wash."

Another thing: it saves your hands from unnecessary roughening and reddening, which is so unsightly. Then in addition to these big wash-day helps, it is actually very economical. Being just pure soap, the big bar lasts for a surprising length of time. Get some today. Have it and use it next time you wash. Your dealer has it in stock for you right now.

LOOK FOR THE RED BEAVER BORDER

- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is the only wall board made of virgin spruce fibre, through and through. The long, tough, unbroken new fibres of spruce give to Beaver Wall Board its greatest toughness and durability.
- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is a natural insulator. Due to the use of the long, virgin fibres of spruce, it is filled with millions of microscopic dead air pockets, one of the best non-conductors of heat and cold obtainable.
- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is of 26-layer construction. Another reason for its great durability. Twenty-six layers of virgin spruce fibre are pressed into one perfect panel, giving the maximum strength and resistance against warping and buckling.
- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is kiln dried and seasoned before leaving the factory.
- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is rendered practically impervious to moisture and climatic changes by our patented SEALITE process of sizing.
- GENUINE Beaver Wall Board is especially calendered and primed to produce our art mat surface. This, plus the perfect sizing which makes priming unnecessary, gives unlimited decorative possibilities. Either side may be used.

Bread at 480,000,000 Marks A Loaf Causes Serious Riots.

FOOD RIOTS IN BERLIN.
BERLIN, Oct. 16. Bread riots, which have been going on in Greater Berlin for the past ten days, culminated this morning and afternoon in a series of outbreaks in the city. Mobs aggregated, numbering thousands unemployed, accompanied by women and youths, besieged the Town Hall in the heart of the western section of the capital, and continued intermittently for several days. The rioting was quelled only after reinforcements used bayonets and volleys to awe the crowds. Immediate provocation for the outbreak was the abolition of the bread card. This resulted in a sudden rise in the price of flour from a half pound loaf to four hundred and eighty million marks or about twenty cents as compared with Monday's price of thirty-six million marks. One person died from wounds received in the riots and it is estimated about twenty were injured.

FIVE LUMBERMEN BURNED TO DEATH.
MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 16. Five lumbermen were burned to death in a forest fire near Birch, Michigan, twenty miles from Marquette. Telephone lines between Marquette and Copper Country have been severed due to the fire and little information was available.

PERPETUAL PEACE TREATY.
WARSAW, Oct. 16. The Polish Cabinet to-day approved a perpetual treaty of peace with Turkey. The term perpetual treaty is not regarded as a mere phrase in Polish official circles, where it is recalled the Turkish Government for a century after the last participation of Poland continued to recognize the Government of Poland.

GERMAN ANNUITY BANK.
BERLIN, Oct. 16. The cabinet last night approved a bill granting a charter for the so-called gold annuity bank, where the capital will be furnished by industry, agriculture, banking and commerce through compulsory hypothecation of their realty and other holdings. On the basis of such material values the bank will be empowered to issue interest-bearing obligations or annuities computed in new currency which is specified as "renten" or annuity mark which will rank as legal tender. The current paper mark will continue as official tender. The present bill is merely providing an intermediary solution to the impending scheme of general currency reform. The official communication lays stress on the point that the paper mark is the unit of national currency, the proposed annuity bank merely being the first effort to establish a currency secured by gold values.

KILLED BY BULL-DOG.
GLACE BAY, N.S., Oct. 16. Mrs. Hector Campbell, aged sixty, was so badly bitten by a bull-dog which attacked her in her kitchen this morning that she died shortly after. Her daughter, Annie, aged twenty, in an attempt to drive the dog away was also bitten and is in hospital. Both were terribly lacerated.

THE OKLAHOMA FLOODS.
OKLAHOMA City, Oct. 16. Western, Central and Southern Oklahoma was last night in the grip of the most disastrous flood ever recorded in the state. Rivers and streams swollen by rains that have fallen virtually without intermission since Friday morning, were sweeping southward carrying away bridges, houses and other property. The west bank of the municipal dam ten miles from here, housing the city's reserve water supply, gave way under the pressure of the swollen North Canadian River late last night, releasing a seven foot torrent to augment the already swollen stream. The overflow was expected to reach the city in a few hours.

FRANCE HAS NO UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.
PARIS, Oct. 16. The French Government has no unemployment problem on its hands. Statistics compiled for the Ministry of Labor show that only twelve hundred and seventy-five persons are out of work in all France. Of these sixty-six are in Paris. In March, 1921, the unemployed in France numbered ninety-one thousand of whom forty-five thousand were in Paris.

AMPUTATING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16. In the glare of powerful fire department searchlights, two Knickerbocker Hospital surgeons crawled under a street car at the corner of 115th St. and Broadway, and amputated the leg of Miss Alice O'Connor, a trained nurse, who, pinned beneath the front track, was bleeding to death. As the surgeons worked a priest administered the last rites of the church, fearing the victim would die under the ordeal. She was taken to the hospital alive.

WITHDRAWS REQUEST.
LONDON, Oct. 16. In deference to British sentiment, Dr. Thornwell Jacobs has decided to withdraw the request of Oglethorpe University that the body of General James E. Oglethorpe, founder of Georgia, be transferred to the proposed Shrine on the Campus of the University of Atlanta. Leading English newspapers led a strong protest against the removal of the body.

TO DETERMINE CHALLENGER.
GLOUCESTER, Oct. 16. Preliminary races between the new schooner Columbia, the Henry Ford, and the Elizabeth Howard, of New York, will be held in the near future to determine the United States challenger for the International Fisherman's trophy, according to the present plans of the United States Racing Committee. The international event will be sailed Oct. 27th.

TROUBLESOME MOB IN BERLIN.
LONDON, Oct. 16. A mob tried to force its way into the Berlin Stock Exchange this morning, says a Central News Dispatch from the German capital. The doors were immediately closed and the police took up the task of dealing with the attacking throng. The mob also tried to storm the City Hall, but the police appeared in strong force and seemed to be masters of the situation after a fierce battle in which many were injured seriously.

IN THE HANDS OF U. S. CITIZENS.
TORONTO, Oct. 16. According to General V. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of Ontario police, practically the entire rum running industry between Canada and the United States is in the hands of United States citizens, says the Toronto Evening Telegram.

WILL KNOW HIS FATE TO-DAY.
HALIFAX, Oct. 16. The case of J. B. McLachlan, deposed secretary of District 62, U. M. W. of America, charged with publishing seditious libel, will go to the jury to-morrow.

WANT GUARANTEE OF AUTONOMY FOR PALESTINE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16. A more active and aggressive campaign to obtain guarantee of future autonomy for Palestine, was voted to-day by the American Jewish Congress which adopted a resolution advocated by Israel Langwill, British author and publicist. The Congress has voted a permanent organization and one hundred thousand dollars, pledged towards a five hundred thousand dollar fund with which to carry on its affairs.

MOROCCAN VILLAGE DESTROYED BY AEROPLANES.
MELILLA, Morocco, Oct. 16. The entire air force of the Spaniards yesterday flew over the village of Bugasi and destroyed it with high explosive bombs, killing many of the inhabitants.

AUROCK BEING TOWED TO SYDNEY.
NORTH SYDNEY, Oct. 16. The French steamer Aurock, damaged during the storm of the first of the month, is en route to this port from St. Pierre in tow of the steamer Pro Patria, according to information here. The Aurock went aground on October 2nd on Valquer Island, near St. Pierre, while inbound from France with a cargo of liquor.

Alice Calhoun in New Type Role.
"ONE STOLEN NIGHT" IS TALE OF THE ORIENT.
The story is exceptionally strong and gripping and was adapted from the novel by E. D. Calhoun. It tells of a girl, Boston bred and sheltered by rich and narrow parents, who succumbs to the lure of the desert, to the call of the romance and adventure of the East, and who steals out upon the sand wastes alone. Adventure comes in the person of a mysterious horseman who rides away with her, in the end she finds her heart's desire beneath the stars of the desert. The settings and costumes will include the exotic richness of the East, will reveal desert life as it is lived, with its continuous contrast of filth and beauty, luxury and poverty.
The cast includes Alice Calhoun, Herbert Heyes as Medford-Bry, the horseman, Otta Hoffman as Horace Eberly, Adele Farrington as Mrs. Eberly and Russ Powell as the Sheikh.

LONDON, NEW YORK & PARIS ASSOCIATION OF FASHION

Provisions

The week has seen great activity in the local market than during any week since the beginning of the shipping season. A large number of vessels have arrived from Labrador and Shore fish, which have been disposed of at prices that have prevailed up to date, viz. $8.00 for merchant fish and $4.00 for Maderia and $4.00 for weeks export from St. John's. The exports have been in the order of forty thousand quintals, of which 2,000 quintals, S. S. Digby 2,000 quintals, S. S. from Fort St. John's, 12,270 quintals, B. S. from Fort St. John's, 1,000 quintals, Habet from Marytown, 1,000 quintals for Oporto, Ar. from Grand Bank for Oporto, 1,000 quintals, Nellie T. Waters for Oporto, 1,000 quintals. In addition to these there is a large quantity of fish from the Carboniferous, the Little Bay Islands, Percy at Fortune, the G. S. at Grand Bank, the Aris at the Boula May at Barin and at Grand Bank. The regular steamer this week carried a lot of 657 quintals sent to A. E. Hickman & Co. Ltd., for cases for the 'New York'.

The export trade in case fish has been growing and large shipments have been made this season. In Oporto for the past week from 14,000 quintals to 7,000 quintals. The consumption of fish for the same period was 14,000 quintals. The prices at obtaining in the local market are expected to remain steady for weeks.

The local market has been throughout the week and the effect of Codol has been stimulative. Codol is not so strong this season as in previous years and this has been particularly marked. A report early in the week that a slump was imminent without foundation and $100 was easily obtainable. Indeed the notch than this was obtained in one or two cases, but buying is at the above figure. The market continues to be heated and the activity in local markets was reflected in the American markets. The weekly shipments are 50,000 gallons.

This market was considerably stronger than the previous week. Shipments advanced, making the cost the same as last week. This was caused by the heavy export demand which has somewhat slow. All the apparently have their quotes up and local buyers who have been active of late now stand in line of falling short of fall demand. The export demands is such warrant the prediction that it will continue firm for some time and it is safe to say that the market is not expected to slacken until the beginning of January at the earliest.

Grades are quoted this week at with lower grades at $5.00 to $6.00. The only importations were a few thousand barrels by Canadian Sapper but another shipment is due by the Manos present demands will be covered. A heavy European demand presented any easing up and this remains firm. While Ham is about the same as last week it is even firmer and it will be surprising if future shipments are marked by higher prices. Back is now being quoted at $29.00 Butt at $28.75 and Spare Ribs $25.00.

There is every indication at present of a more or less serious slump in beef. The market continues very strong, especially in bone which is now almost impossible to secure. Local quotations are: Frank $26.50, Family Special $22.50, $22.50. The weeks export were 1,085 barrels, as against 1,000 barrels of pork.

This market is stationary. Advances have been recorded in the week. Some of the New buyers seem to have thought the market had time for a saturation, but in this they were mistaken. The raw sugar market is somewhat easier, and offerings are considered. In the American market refined sugar was quoted at $32.25 and $35.50. Wholesale quotations on the market on Canadian refined sugar Granulated 100 weight $4.50. Local quotations this week Granulated in barrels $10.25 and 50 pound sacks $10.25. The imports were 950 barrels.

With the exception of local transactions there is very little doing in salmon and the market shows no change from last week. The exports this week, while were considerably above those of similar periods for some time. Small shipments by the various outgoing steamers totalled some 100,000 pounds.

What has been said of salmon applies to this article for there is no very great demand now. Some small sales were effected since our last report and the

Anniversary of the Return to Power

OF SIR JOHN MACDONALD.
 Oct. 17, 1878. Forty-five years ago Sir John A. Macdonald was returned as the head of government at Ottawa after having been out of power for about ten years as the result of scandals in connection with the proposals for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway which had affected the Conservative party, and from that date until his death Sir John continued to be the Prime Minister of Canada.
 Born in Glasgow, Scotland, January 11, 1815, he came with his parents to Canada when he was five years of age. The family settled in Kingston, Ont., which was destined to become the scene of some of Sir John's greatest political triumphs and which constituency he represented for many years in Parliament.
 Sir John Macdonald was one of the Fathers of Confederation, and he became the first Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada in the year the Federation of the Provinces was consummated, 1867. He was knighted that year in recognition of his services to Canada. He died on June 6, 1891.

THE HE-MAN FAD.
 I'm tired of he-men six feet high, with chests that measure forty-six, who dwell beneath an arctic sky and pull off large, heroic tricks. They are he-men in word and deed, I should admire their staid, wart game; but in the fiction books I read these he-men guys are all the same. They're standardized like henry-cars, they have square jaws and eyes steel gray, their manly breasts are traced with scars acquired in many a deadly fray. I'm tired of he-men of the west, who use two guns with grace and ease, and shoot a stranger in the breast, and hit another in the knees. And while they ride around in rings to let their carnal weapons cool, they might be doing useful things, like hoeing beans or teaching school. They might be clerking in a store, dispensing pies and hot cross buns, but no, they wade around in gore, and file new notches on their guns. I like the he-men of the town who bravely toll, hour after hour, and when they pull their wages down, take home a ham or sack of flour. For tomahawks and scaling knives and deadly guns they spend no groats; they work all day, then take their wives, and drive ten miles in their own boats. Of these no fiction glut-ton reads, they are unknown to red blood fame, no poet sings their quiet deeds, but they are he-men, just the same.

Japan Wants Saghalien

Osaka, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press)—Japan is determined some day to secure the whole of the island of Saghalien from Russia so that she may be able to harness the vast natural resources said to be lying dormant there and make the territory a suitable place for colonization by the surplus population of Japan.
 That is the opinion held by men close to the government of Japan, if not actually a part of it. It is an open secret that one of the underlying motives behind the apparent readiness of Japan to negotiate with Russia for a resumption of relations is Japan's eagerness to secure possession of Saghalien.
 Saghalien originally belonged to Japan. During the Tokugwa abrogation, on account of the general isolation policy, Japan was negligent about her northern possessions and without any apparent reason the island of Saghalien was ceded to Russia and mapped as Russian territory until the southern half was ceded to Japan following the Russo-Japanese war. Now the Russians put the price for the northern half at $500,000,000. Japan, on the other hand, wants to pay $75,000,000. Viscount Goto, who has taken a leading part in the negotiations between Japan and Russia, believes that the problem can be settled by conciliation.

Presentation of Popular Manager
 A pleasing event took place at the Advocate Office yesterday afternoon, when the entire staff assembled in the Job Dept. to honor the Business Manager, Mr. R. Hibbs, M.H.A., on the occasion of his 45th birthday. The ceremony took the form of the presentation to Mr. Hibbs of a handsome dressing gown and slippers.

The presentation was made by Mr. R. T. Joy on behalf of the employees represented by the following addresses:—

October 16th, 1923.
 R. Hibbs Esq.,
 Business Manager,
 "Evening Advocate."
 Dear Mr. Hibbs:—
 On the occasion of your 45th birthday, we, as your friends and co-workers extend to you our sincerest congratulations on having passed another milestone in life's journey, coupled with the best wishes that you may be spared many years yet to enjoy the good will and esteem of your fellow men.

In token of our appreciation we ask you to enjoy the accompanying gift in the hope that your future may be as bright as your past, and that the years to come may hold for you richer things which we know, you deserve.

Yours, most sincerely,
THE EMPLOYEES OF THE UNION PUBLISHING CO. LTD.
 Mr. Hibbs to whom this tribute of esteem and respect from his co-workers came unexpectedly, made a gracious reply to the good wishes tendered him. Supl. W. J. Long also spoke of the pleasure it gave the staff to do honor to their business manager. Last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hibbs entertained the Union Publishing staff at their home LeMarchant Road.

St. Andrew's Church
 (I.C.M.)
 All who attended St. Andrew's Church last night must have been impressed with the earnestness of the message as delivered by Dr. Hanson, and with the fervor of the entire service. These services are truly devotional, and are not only a means of expounding the word of life; but they are a means of reverential worship. The Pastor, Rev. R. J. Power, was assisted last night by the Rev. C. H. Johnson, of Cochrane Street Methodist Church. The selection of sacred songs was such as referred to the topic of the evening's address, and a special feature of the service was contributed by Master Whiteway, who sweetly rendered "I know that my Redeemer liveth." It was unusual singing for a lad, and is not often heard, either in the Church or elsewhere. The young soloist has the possibility of a useful career before him in the world of sacred song. The preacher took his text from St. John's Gospel, at the sixth chapter, and sixty-third verse; where the teachings of the Master are recorded when He said to the people about Him, "The words that I speak unto you are spirit, and they are life." If the text were to be expressed as a topic, it would be to say, "The power of words—not good words, nor yet bad words; but the power of words, either good or bad. The influence of words is very great, and it produces of great results. A life has been changed by a word, a career has been altered, and a character made by a word. But the words of the Son of God had a greater meaning than words in general and they meant more to the people to whom they were directly spoken, than anything they had hitherto heard. These people had just previously been fed by the loaves and fishes, and because of what they had seen, they followed the Master back to Capernaum, and requested Him to tell them more of what they had already seen. And so the Savior spoke at length to them, and delivered that wonderful discourse, which the entire sixth chapter of John contains; and as a climax to His teachings, He pointed them to higher things than bread and fishes, and showed them that His teachings and principles, which He was about to establish, were spiritual and pertained to life eternal.

The Widow of a Former Governor
 OF NEWFOUNDLAND, MAKES HIS TORY.
 Lady Glover, the writer of "Memories of Four Continents," and referred to in the following article, is the widow of the late Sir John Hawley Glover who was Governor of Newfoundland from 1876 to 1881, and again from 1884 to 1885.

IRISH SECRET HISTORY.
 A telegram that escaped the Government censor.
 A little bit of secret history relating to the outbreak of civil war in Ireland in the spring of 1914 is revealed by Lady Glover in "Memories of Four Continents," just published. As the wife of a well-known diplomat, Lady Glover had more opportunities than most of playing a part in world affairs.

She mentions the "sinister rumors" that were afloat that the Cavalry Brigade quartered at the Curragh, and other British troops would be called upon to fight against Ulster. Lady Glover and her daughter had arranged to leave London to spend a holiday with Sir Alexander and Lady Bruce Tulloch at Biarritz, but owing to bad weather in the Channel they postponed their departure.

The delay enabled Lady Glover to receive and act upon a telegram she received from a friend in the Cavalry Brigade—the only telegram, it was afterwards proved, which escaped the Government censorship, but into force on that day. The telegram read:

The Cavalry Brigade has refused to fight Ulster.
 "It flashed into my mind that this telegram was of the greatest importance," relates Lady Glover, "and that it must be published at once. Calling a taxi, I despatched my daughter with a copy of it to show to one of the Covenanters living in Eaton-square."

Effect of Publication.
 "I gave another copy to be taken to the political clubs and another portion of the evening papers, with the result that when we got to Paris that night there were big headlines in all the French papers. When we arrived at Biarritz, Sir Alexander met us on the doorstep flourishing a newspaper and saying how thankful he was that his sons had not been called upon to fight, for now the Government could not force the Army to do so in the face of public opinion.

"It requires little imagination to appreciate the fact that the publication of the telegram, extracted the Government of the day from the delicate situation and saved the Brigade and the country from the consequences of their contemplated action. I valued depth of the Master's teachings. Even his Apostles, up to that date, could not make any definite statement as to the teachings and words of Jesus, for they were but in training, and were only learning what lay before them. The great teacher Himself declared His own power; hence he said to the people "his words which I speak unto you are spirit, and they are life."

The entire discourse was earnestly delivered, and like all Dr. Hanson's messages, there was a deep personal appeal in it, and the message was brought home very closely to the individual listener. It was along these personal lines that the preacher impressed upon the congregation the importance of faith and Christian living. To-night the service will be held in the same church and will begin at the same hour—8 o'clock. Why not, through the office? Why not get the best out of this week of rare opportunity and spiritual uplift?

Year." ... (SIR JOHN FOSTER FRASER)

are dates which stand out in the story of our race, the death of William the Conqueror, the birth of Shakespeare, the death of Nelson, Waterloo, the outbreak of the Great War, the year 1924, will go down through our Empire Year.

unparalleled thing is our age which came into existence at an accident, which is held to be no written code, but by the thread of loyalty to the Crown the affection of brothers scattered throughout the world. I am old enough to remember when "home" meant the Colonies as something of a place and with no regret at the time when they would have been away from the old house and the old life; but I am proud to live to see them advance and being the children of Britain to see their progressive growth, their independent Commonwealths, their Unions, their conquests with the Empire, Rome, with its pomp had not a title to show with the wonders of the world.

year we will celebrate the solidarity of the Empire, the slow-moving, but shrewd John is preparing to give greeting to the men of Canada, the men of Australia, the men of the Pacific, the men of the South Africa, the men of the Crown Colonies, the men of the possessions scattered about the seven seas, the men of the Indian, the men of the religions, but living in freedom of the Union Jack.

Wembley, within the great heart of our race called London, thousands of men are toiling day and night to create the huge caravan of men and women who will be exhibited to the Empire has to show to the world all the Britons, far-separated from the new lands fruitful, will meet them for the first time, and into each other's eyes and know each other, they are brothers.

want to see these men and women of our own blood whether they come from the great cities like Montreal and Sydney, from the prairie back-blocks, from our dependencies in the East or the islands of the the Pacific; and we want them to see us.

If there be a lingering sentiment amongst our overseas brethren, as I sometimes believe there is, that there is any superciliousness on the part of the Englishmen to those who live in Canada, Australasia or elsewhere, we are going to show them how wrong they are. We have the reputation of being generous in hospitality to the stranger without our gates. How then shall we treat our own brothers? There is plenty of evidence that next year London will surpass itself in the exuberance of its hospitality.

"How little they know of England who only England know," is a line that will be quoted at many a banquet. It is true. But there is a gathering wave of patriotism and an eagerness to better understand what the Dominions signify in the Empire. We will joyously extend our knowledge. Visitors will get acquainted with each other. We will visit the great halls at Wembley which will present a panorama, a pageant, indeed of productivity. And all of us will feel a throbbing pride in the achievements of each year, when, in London, meet that the Empire stands for was revealed, and all parts will be drawn together in heartfelt appreciation. Whilst each of the countries will arrange its own affairs there will evolve a higher realization of the interests we have in common and the interdependence we have with each other.

In these practical days there is no magician's carpet in which to waft people from the other side of the Atlantic or the antipodes to England. But all shipping companies are making special arrangements to carry hundreds of thousands of pilgrims to England. In the far north-west of Canada and beneath the hot sun of Queensland, I feel there are men, yes and women too, who have never seen England and yet love to call it "home" who are beginning to have the great desire to visit the homeland, to see what their own part of the Empire has to show the other parts and with a consciousness they will be amazed at the assembled wonders of the King's Dominions.

For long we have celebrated Empire Day. Now we are getting ready to celebrate Empire Year. Wembley will not be an exhibition of the triumph of war. It will be the most wonderful exhibition the world has ever seen of nature's bountifulness, of enterprise, of all that has been accomplished by men of sterling British

A Bookseller's Treasure-Trove

SOME WONDERFUL FINDS.

(By W. A. FOYLE, the well-known Bookseller, in JOHN O'London's Weekly.)

The life of a book collector is full of surprises. Endless stories have been told of the bargains picked up at second-hand book-stalls and elsewhere, and many people think that such lucky finds as a book being purchased for a few pence turning out to be worth hundreds of pounds have been exhausted.

But unsuspected literary treasures are still to be found in queer places. Not so very long ago we sent a representative to inspect a library, consisting mainly of old novels, which was housed in a soldier's convalescent home. To his amazement, he found they included dozens of first editions of the works, among others, of Robert Louis Stevenson. These books were being lent out to invalided soldiers, and had been subjected to rather rough treatment. No one was aware of their value.

In a circulating library.

A similar experience occurred when we inspected a small circulating library run in connection with a sweet-shop in a London suburb. The stock has ceased to attract borrowers and we were asked to clear it at our own price. This amazing collection contained early editions of Kipling and Conrad, and many others valued from £8 to £10 a volume, which had been lent out at six pence, the borrower having the right to buy outright for a shilling or two. I once went to a place in Clapham to see some old books which were about to be sold as waste paper. Among these was a volume worth 25s., which, as waste paper, would not have fetched more than a penny. At Battersea, also, I found several valuable sets of books in a consignment of 4 cwt. intended for destruction.

First Editions as Waste Paper.

Time after time we have purchased parcels from waste-paper merchants which have contained priceless books and manuscripts. In one of these we were once lucky enough to discover a first edition of Hardy's "Woodlanders."

Many valuable manuscripts have quite a romantic history. The Bishop of Lisano came across a page of priceless Greek MS. wrapped around a fish brought into his presence. By the merest chance, he examined it and found it to be part of a treatise thought to have been lost for many centuries. Fortunately, he managed to retrieve the remainder of the treasure from the owner of the stall where the fish had been purchased.

The famous journal of Montaigne, describing his Italian travels, was found in an old coffer, after lying there for two centuries, smothered in dust, while the manuscript of "In Memoriam" was rescued only just in time from a cupboard in Tennessee's bachelor quarters. It had been hastily placed there among bottles of pickles and jam-jars, and the poet's friends, who had been sent to recover it, arrived just as the "thorough" landlady was about to burn all the "trash," as she called it, lying about.

Part of the incomplete first edition of Tyndale's New Testament was similarly saved from destruction in Cologne, while one of Coverdale's Bibles was rescued from a pork-butcher's shop where its leaves were being used to wrap up slices of ham, sausages, and bacon.

A copy of the first edition of Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," printed at Salisbury in 1766, was found supporting the leg of a table in a provincial second-hand bookshop, while the only known copy of the "Hereford Missal" was discovered lying open on the floor of an upper room in a small house in Bristol. This book is now in the national collection.

Where to Look.

Rare books are still to be found in the out-of-the-way dealers' shops which are scattered in and about London. Some years ago a poor man, who made a living by book-binding, was looking over some books in a second-hand furniture shop when a gentleman beside him threw down a tattered bundle of pamphlets saying, "I don't think they are much good." He picked it up, and on discovering it contained an old play entitled "Is She His Wife?" or "Something Singular," a comic play by Charles Dickens, immediately bought the whole bundle for one penny. Thinking his find a good one, he showed the pamphlet to a dealer, who gave him £2 for it, together with the promise of half any further proceeds realized by the purchaser. This play proved to be of great interest to lovers of Dickens, and later changed hands at £75.

Bargains like this do sometimes escape the eye of the vigilant cataloguer, as, for example, the finding of an early copy of Gray's Elegy in a cheap bundle of books on the stall of a well-known book auctioneer by a famous author and politician. He secured the whole bundle for three shillings and sixpence, and the value of his "bargain" may be realized when it is remembered that the record English price for Gray's Elegy is £655.

Wrecked Egypt Found

DIVING FOR £1,000,000 TO BE STARTED.

A Swedish salvage ship, trying to recover £1,000,000 in bullion, which went down in May 1922 off the coast of Britain with the P. and O. liner Egypt after collision in a fog with the French steamer Seine, has discovered, after long search, the wreck of the liner 5 miles from the point where the collision took place.

The Egypt is lying on a rocky bottom 60 fathoms (360ft.) from the surface.

The problem of salvaging the Egypt's bullion is now being studied.

Location of the wreck was regarded as one of the most difficult stages of the expedition. The divers will go down in a case of toughened steel, ordinary rubber suits being useless at such a depth.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Ready and cheaply made at home. It cures all coughs, colds, and whooping cough.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 10 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time. It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the mucus, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and draining cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the respiratory organs. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with full directions for use. Guaranteed to accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Father Asked to Give up His Son

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Custody of a ten-year-old boy whose mother died in Ottawa ten years ago is involved in a petition which has just been filed in the probate court. The boy, son of Mrs. B. Evans, Jr., an insurance broker of this city, who is well known as an amateur golfer, is the beneficiary of a $150,000 trust fund under the will of Mrs. Evans' father, William H. A. Fraser, of Ottawa. After Mrs. Evans' death the probate court named Evans as guardian of his son, who, however, has since lived in Canada in the home of his grandfather and of the probate court. The boy's mother, Mrs. Armstrong, another daughter of Fraser, Alexander Fraser Chamberlain, one of the executors of Fraser's two million dollar estate, has asked the court to give the custody of the boy to Mrs. Armstrong, who was the principal beneficiary under Fraser's will. Victor J. Levin, counsel for Chamberlain, explained that the bequest to the boy was revoked under the terms of the will if his custody went to any person unsatisfactory to the executors. He charged that Evans wished to retain his guardianship because of the money which eventually would come to him. Amos L. Taylor, counsel for Evans, asserted that Evans' love for his boy had "no monetary value," and that he would not "sell out."

C.L.B. Cadets

The "Old Brigade" carries on as usual. Lieut.-Col. Walter F. Rendell C.B.E., in command. Orderly officer this week is Lieut. M. Job Taylor, whilst, Lieut. A. B. Perlin is slated for duty next week. Chaplain Rev. E. J. Nicholls of St. Michael's is on duty this week. Lieut. Harold Hayward is reported to Headquarters by Bay Roberts Company as having recently paid them a visit and that he has offered a silver cup as a prize in competition amongst the lads of Maj. Jack Dawe's Company. Bay Roberts appreciates his gift which is a further incentive and encouragement. Trinity East Company is reawakening! The Rector, Rev. Frank P. Law is negotiating for supplies of kit for his lads. A good growing sign. All ranks of the C.L.B. Cadets are delighted to hear the news of the promotion of Lt.-Col. Will Herder as Officer Commanding of the Newfoundland Highland Brigade. The C.L.B. hasten their congratulations to Lieut. Col. Herder, and wish him continued success. Lt.-Col. Herder of the Highland Brigade has a warm place in the hearts of the Church Lads Brigade, as the Lieut.-Col. received his early training as a member of the C.L.B. when he drilled with his old comrades in the Butterline Factory, Plymouth Road, and in the Pro-Cathedral under the big fire of 1892. Carry on Colonel! Your old Brigade will be found "in support" always if you need them.

The Old Comrades Club is going strong. Their card party is to-night, Wednesday, at 8.30. President John Crane will be glad to welcome all the Old Boys. Capt. Stick, Adjt., and R.S.M. Andrews are instructing a class of Sergeants in physical training and bayonet training. After the N. C. O's finish their course the Companies will be trained. Quartermaster Moty and Pioneer Sergt. Johnson are repairing the N.C.O's Mess and ambulance room, owing to the floors and joists showing signs of decay.

During our Anniversary Week the Old Comrades hope to hold their annual reunion and "At Home." A good old smoking concert and some refreshments afterwards will make a jolly good celebration. We are sorry to hear that Lance Corporal Tetford is on the sick list with pleurisy. The sick visiting committee of his Mess have been calling on him, extending their sympathetic touch and note of cheerfulness. Band Sergt. Wiseman, the victim of a shooting accident is recovering at the General Hospital in good shape. We hope the genial Arch will carry on and do his bugle playing with one hand.

The Col. orders all ranks to wear Brigade caps to and from the Armoury. Parade last night was dismissed at 9.40 p.m. sharp, so all lads should have been home at ten p.m. Parents will take notice that lads must be home in good time or give reasons. After the parade the officers held a conference with Mess President House in the chair. A stag card party will be held in the Gymnasium on Monday, October 23rd, and a silver cup will be offered for bridge with a second silver cup for forty-fives. The C.L.B. Ladies' Auxiliary meet Friday afternoon on important business, so that all departments are kept busy and it's wonderful how business keeps up.

THE HARDEST THING TO GET.

I don't think there is any more marvelous development in the business world in the last 15 or 16 years than the transformation of the clerk who works in the stores from the shop girl to the saleswoman. Do you remember when "shop girl" was a term of reproach? When to say that a fashion was a shop girl fashion meant that it was cheap and tawdry? When to say that a woman had a shop girl's taste was to insult her? I do not know of any class to-day which has, as a whole, better taste in clothes than the women who work in the better class shops. If I can get such a woman to advise me honestly on what to buy, I will put more faith in her taste and her selection of styles than in my own. Ganny Buyers. And their own clothes; well, one never gets over wondering at the marvels they accomplish on limited incomes. I'm well aware that some people try to explain this in a disagreeable fashion and nothing makes me crosser. I feel sure that that explanation applies only to a very small proportion. The rest achieve their efforts by good taste, thrift, and the most canny of buyings. We were talking about this whole subject the other day and a woman made a very interesting comment on the girls in the shops. She said: "It is perfectly wonderful to me to see how much these girls, many of whom did not have a very good start

Are Rich Men's Wives to be Envied?

STARTLING SOLUTION SEEN AT THE NICKEL TO-MORROW.

The Nickel Theatre offers to the public to-morrow the first All Light-man picture to be shown in Newfoundland. This concern is a newly formed organization, which specializes on big productions only, in which are featured the screen's greatest performers. The first picture secured for local presentation is a wonderful story entitled "Rich Men's Wives." Two recent sensational divorce actions in which wealthy folk internationally known were the principals provided the inspiration for this photoplay. The authors, Frank Dasey and Agnes Christie Johnston found a moral that they were able to clothe in tense dramatic habiliments. No woman—or man for that matter—can sit through this picture without being gainer in moral stamina, for the story is based on sound logic and displays a keen study of the lives our so-called social butterflies lead. The play carries a charming girl from her finishing school days, on through the debutante period, then into a triumphant social life, marriage, motherhood, flirtation and unhappiness—circumstances that is as interesting as it is surprising and unexpected. Quite as important as the play itself is the cast of artists that has been chosen to interpret the trying roles. House Peters, as the rich man and a believer in the double moral standard for men and women, in his usual impressive self and adds lustre to a career already made notable by many fine instances of superior acting. Claire Windsor plays the wife, giving what is claimed by critics the finest performance of her entire career. Better than any stage attraction in the city is "Rich Men's Wives" at the Nickel to-morrow night.

Women Should Act Quickly

When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pain in her side, irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow, she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they may be saved years of suffering. For generations this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health, and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

Priests Strike

TOKIO, Oct. 13 (Canadian Press)—Flinging the drama before religion, seven priests of the Koula at Dalmich, Hakodate, have gone on a strike. Recently these priests organized a dramatic society and staged several theatrical entertainments of unusually high artistic merit. The high priest objected, however, and ordered the disbandment of the society, contending that presentation of pageants and other entertainment indicated a laxity in the temple which could not be tolerated. The actor-priests immediately declared a strike asserting that unless they could continue to exercise their artistic talent as well as their religious devotion they would rather leave the temple. So far none of the priests has been reinstated and they have organized a dramatic society independent of the temple. Ladies' Low Shoes only $1.98 at SMALLWOOD'S.—oct13,tt

Attractive Music at the Crescent

LAST NIGHT'S HILL PLEASES AUDIENCE.

A thoroughly satisfying programme of pictures and music was enjoyed by last night's audience at the popular Crescent Theatre. Pat Harrington, who concludes his engagement this week was better than ever in his snappy songs and dances. His number entitled "I'm Going Home to My Mammy" was splendidly rendered and pleased all. The "Comesick" as sung by Miss Harrington and Shields was delightful with much expression and evoked an enthusiastic reception. The accompaniments rendered by Al Pittman and Jack Cronan left nothing lacking in the line of attractive music, as it lent atmosphere to the entire bill and made things go with a swing. The pictures were as usual very interesting, especially "The Infamous Miss Revelt" starring the beautiful Alice Lake. The Crescent can boast of the clearest picture in St. John's and this fact is well known by its patrons. The Amateur Contest for this Friday night will be well up to the usual mark as a considerable number of contestants have already sent in their names, and an entertaining treat is in store for all who are fortunate to secure seats. Watch for Friday night's contest.

CONTENTMENT. . . . .
Time was I dreamed of conquest and of fame,
I fancied life kept whispering to me,
"Go build yourself a fortune and a name,
Gather the treasures of the land and sea."
I was a restless wanderer who sought
The strange mysterious goal of worldly bliss;
Peace lies in mighty victories, I thought,
It cannot dwell in humble haunts like this.
"You must have more if you would be content,"
So spake the strange low voices which I heard,
"For worldly greatness must your strength be spent."
On to the top, forever I was spurred.
But now I watch the tired, pale men press by,
Seeking the cruel maddening more and more,
And cast them pass, for I have learned that I
Have joys enough around my humble door.
There are no better people than mine own,
My neighbours are the equal of a King's,
There is no more in greatness to be known,
Than comes to man from countless simple things.

British Offer to Increase Preference

Dried Fruits to be Admitted Free From all Parts of Empire.

AT THE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Preserved, and Canned Fruits to be Admitted on the Same Terms as Sugar—Preference Also on Tobacco.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Can. Press)—On behalf of the British Government, Sir Philip Lloyd-Greaves, President of the Board of Trade, made the Dominion delegates to the Economic Conference this afternoon a definite offer of an increased and stabilized preference in the British markets. The offer covers dried and preserved fruits, including canned fruits, also sugar and tobacco produced anywhere within the Empire. Its terms are:—
Dried fruit, at present dried figs, raisins, plums, which include apricots, are dutiable at a rate of ten shillings and six pence per hundredweight. The British preference now given is one sixth. The British Government proposes under to-day's offer to admit these goods duty free when produced within the Empire. Under the present British customs tariff dried currants are dutiable at the rate of two shillings per hundred weight. Empire products getting a preference of one sixth. Now under the treaty with Greece the British Government is under certain obligations, but are prepared to offer free admission to Empire currants, and are also prepared to consider what increase in duty on foreign currants may be necessary to make the preference effective. At present there is no duty on any other dried fruit, but while continuing to admit such Empire dried fruit free, the British Government proposes to impose a duty of ten shillings per hundred weight on such foreign dried fruit as apples and peaches.

Preserved Fruit.
Preserved fruit, except for the fruits named above which are dutiable as such when containing sugar, is proposed in addition to such duty on sugar content, to impose an all-round duty of five shillings per hundredweight on particular forms of preserved fruits not at present dutiable and to admit Empire fruit free. Preserved fruit will include canned fruit, which is of particular interest to Canada.

Sugar—at present sugar is dutiable according to a scale dependent upon polarization with a basis rate of 25 shillings, eight pence per hundred weight. The Empire preference is one sixth. While unable to offer an increase of its preference for sugar, the British government is prepared to meet sugar duties are now high, to guarantee that if duties are reduced, the preference shall not, over a period of ten years, fall with them.

Tobacco.—The British Government makes two alternative proposals. First it is willing to stabilize the existing tariff over a term of years as in the case of sugar, or it is prepared to increase the preference from one-sixth to one-fourth on unmanufactured tobacco.

South Africa, had also an offer to make. Hon. H. Burton, Minister of Finance for South Africa declared the Union Government was prepared to change their ad valorem to specific duties to help trade in Great Britain.

The conference reached the question of preference with dramatic suddenness to-day. Premier S. M. Bruce of the Australian commonwealth, presided the subject in a speech which he was to have made on the opening day, but as his arrival was delayed he was unable to be present. The conference turned to overseas settlement. This was referred to a special committee the conference subsequently taking up the definite discussion of preference.

The British offer was received by all Dominion representatives with words of appreciation. Among the Canadian delegation comment heard to-night is that while it is unlikely to get great material assistance to Canada it is welcomed for the spirit in which it is made. The inclusion of canned fruits, it is thought, is the most important feature of the offer as far as Canada is concerned.

Canada Accepts Offer.
Hon. George F. Graham, speaking at the conference, stressed the point that Canada was not here to impose any special views on Great Britain. On the other hand Canada would gratefully accept Britain's offer. He observed that Canada differed from the other Dominions in that it was becoming an industrial country. Canada would welcome anything tending to increase inter-imperial trade. He was not at present prepared to say how far the British proposals would affect Canada but he would study them carefully.

Mr. Bruce declared that the proposals would to a certain extent revolutionize a scheme he had in mind. He urged that something should be done to assist the Australian wine trade which was suffering from foreign competition due to depreciated currency.

Premier W. F. Massey, of New Zealand, said, his Dominion would benefit by the proposals.

Hon. H. Burton, in announcing South Africa's counter offer to replace ad valorem by specific duties, said Great Britain's offer would be deeply appreciated.

India Stands to Gain Little.
C. A. Ines, of the Indian delegation stood to gain very little by preference as her exports went to foreign countries, and her imports were from Britain. He could not commit the government of India to a policy of preference.

Demmond Fitzgerald of the Irish Free State said the Free State had adopted the British duties. He reserved his comments until later.

Col. W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under-secretary for the Colonies, argued that under the proposals Mauritius and the West Indies would have new hope. He instanced the competition from which the West Indies are now suffering in the sugar trade by reason of the preference of 10 pounds per ton given by the United States on sugar from Porto Rico.

Meville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, observed that the proposals were the British contribution to the discussion. It was the duty of the Dominions, however, to criticize them frankly and make counter proposals if thought preferable.

"We do not want these proposals to be regarded as absolutely rigid," declared Mr. Chamberlain. He invited the Dominions to express their views freely and amplify their proposals in any way they wished.

Premier Bruce's Proposals.

In a long speech made previous to tonight, Premier Bruce submitted the following five proposals:

1.—British tariff on foodstuffs and raw materials with preference to the Dominions.

2.—A sliding scale for protection and preference bringing the tariff into operation only when the price of commodities has sunk so low as to be unremunerative to the agricultural producer.

3.—Subsidies where required to British agriculture to with some form of subsidies to the Dominion producer.

4.—An import license system to discriminate against foreign countries.

5.—The stabilization of prices of such essential commodities as meat and wheat.

In explaining the last proposals, Premier Bruce said he would leave the British farmer a free market for his produce as at present.

The produce of the Dominions also would be freely marketed so long as the quantity required from foreign sources was sufficiently large to allow control of its entire volume and thereby effectively stabilize the price of the commodity in question in the British market. The foreign supplies, however, would be controlled by a national purchase corporation for either meat or wheat. The corporation would buy from foreign countries the necessary difference between what the British and Dominion producers could supply and the total requirements of the country.

In view of the importance of the proposals and in order to permit the Dominion representatives to give them full consideration the conference adjourned the discussion on the preferential tariff sine die taking up tomorrow the question of granting a preference on public contracts, also the Dominions' contributions to the Imperial Institute.

During the discussion on overseas settlements Col. L. C. Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty, said that the Empire had seven million square miles of territory full of all kinds of resources, yet three fourths of its population was huddled in one-tenth part of that area. The result did not make for efficiency in development. He indicated the great importance of the proper selection and direction of settlers. "We have got to make the people in this country understand," said Col. Amery, "that Empire settlement is only town planning on a larger scale, that it is only social reform written large." He intimated that it would later have to be pointed out to the Dominions the enormous burden the defence of the Empire was imposing on Great Britain. He argued that if the population were more evenly distributed the problem of defence could be met more effectively.

Changed Cents for Quarters

BANK TELLER BEFORE MONTREAL COURT CHARGED WITH THEFT OF $4,000.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—Thousands of dollars were lost when copper one-cent coins were substituted for silver 25-cent pieces in paper rolls marked $5 and $10, according to the evidence heard here today in the case of Russell F. C. Burnett, former teller in the Peel Street branch of the Bank of Montreal, this city. Burnett, who is charged with theft of $4,000 from the bank, with making false entries in the cash book and with uttering forged cheques, was committed for trial and will appear before the Court of King's Bench here during the November term.

Evidence showed that Burnett was arrested last June after an inspection of the Peel Street branch of the Bank of Montreal, held May 31, revealed that $2,000 worth of 25-cent pieces in paper rolls had been replaced by one-cent copper coins. The money was left for some time in the value of the bank, and it is assumed that the process of substitution must have been carried out over a considerable period of time.

For the prosecution it was stated that four cheques were forged in the name of Milky Chorn, a client of the bank, now residing at Bridgport, Conn. The cheques were for a total of $1,851.97. A further charge stated that Burnett had stolen $6,000 the property of the bank.

Voluntary statement was filed for next week and Burnett was granted bail at $2,000.

Chloroform in Surgery

The Horrors That Were Stopped by Its Use as an Anesthetic.

Sir James Simpson, who was connected with the medical department of Edinburgh university, is actually the discoverer of chloroform, was at any rate the first to introduce its employment as an anesthetic in surgical practice. This was in 1846.

Previously all operations were performed without anaesthetics, the patient being drugged with whisky and held down by strong men while the operation was performed. No medical discovery ever did more to alleviate human suffering.

Sir James is actually given credit for the actual discovery of chloroform but it is stated in some works that it was discovered some years previous to his first experiments by an American doctor named Guthrie and by a French physician named Souberian. In any case, it was Dr. Simpson who proved its great value as an anesthetic, and the room in which he made his first experiments still exists in Edinburgh.

The story goes that he tried the chloroform on himself and two medical friends. They proved its efficacy by simultaneously falling beneath the table. Sir James had considerable prejudice to overcome before chloroform was adopted generally by the medical profession, it being denounced at one time as dangerous to health.

Bogus American Degrees

EASILY SOLD IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 14 (A.P.)—The Englishman's love of initials after his name has made this country a fertile field for bogus American colleges, which carry on a sort of correspondence course and supply degrees at five dollars each, according to Dr. George E. Maclean, former president of Iowa University, who has recently been warning gullible Britons against striving for sheepskins from unheard of institutions in the United States.

"I have had a steady stream of people coming into this office with the degree 'B.D. (Bachelor of Divinity)'" he said. "Until they interviewed me they had no idea that the money paid for their degrees had been obtained from them virtually by false pretences."

"I know an English clergyman who in two years got the degree of D.B. and D. Litt., simply by correspondence. There is one of these 'colleges' incorporated in Illinois, that has tricked hundreds of English students into parting with considerable sums of money for attractive looking diplomas which are entirely worthless from an educational point of view. The university exists only in name; I have never yet heard of anyone who took one of its correspondence courses and failed to get a degree. Clergymen who wake up late to the value of a University degree, are the most often gulled."

Throughout England college graduates do not count their degrees in a manner unknown in America. Often a man's calling cards will contain the initials "B.A." or "M.A." after his name, and clergymen have these degrees, if they possess them, printed on the sign-boards outside their churches. College degrees are held by proportionately fewer people in England than in America, and more pride is therefore taken in Baccalaureate honors.

Siberia Facing Famine

KOBE, Oct. 13 (Canadian Press)—A famine more terrible than those which raged in European Russia during the last few years is destined to sweep over northern Siberia before long, especially that district facing the Sea of Okhotsk and running west to the Lena River, according to traders who have just arrived here. Food, they say, is steadily becoming scarcer and those who are there are forced to live virtually entirely on fish.

There is no flour and similar staples are being brought in from the outside. Early last July the Soviet agents made their methods of confiscation put an end to trading operations and stripped the country of all supplies, say the traders. They declare that the only company permitted to operate without interference is the Hudson Bay Company.
