The Heir to Beecham Park

CHAPTER VIII.

"She has a lady with her object to her protegee's becoming an officer's widow; but she is not a pleasant woman, and they are going to part. I feel so sorry for Lady Enid—young, with beauty and rank, and a cripple for life! She leads such an isolated existence—for her aunt, Lady Merivale, at whose house she resides, is very old, and almost confined to her room, and Lady Enid's only brother, the Earl of Court, is never in England. She welcomes me so warmly, and opens her heart to me! She told me that she would like a bright young girl for companion—if possibly from the country. Lady Enid adores the country; but she is compelled to live in London to be near the doctors and under the so-called care of her aunt. Immediately she spoke of a country girl my thoughts flew to your pupil, Margery Daw. From your accounts I feel sure she is the very person to suit the poor young invalid. Do you think this could be managed? She would have a luxurious home, a really magnificent salary, and I feel sure would soon grow to love Lady Enid—no one could help doing so. I half said I knew of some one, and she adopted the idea eagerly; so I hasten to write you.

"The question is whether Margery would like the life. It would be dull, very dull; but Lady Enid is a most charming and intellectual companion, and very unselfish. I know you have been anxious about your pupil; and this seems such a wonderful chance that I cannot help saying I shall be disappointed if it falls through. I suppose Lady Coningham would not

What makes a good baby

When Baby cries it is Nature's way of telling you that something is wrong—probably it is a question of food.

Virol, by getting rid of digestive troubles and by supplying a properly balanced diet containing all the vital principles, makes baby's life happy. A Virol Baby is "good as gold"—good in temper, good to look at, good in its firm flesh, fat limbs and healthy colour.

VIROL
Forty million prescriptions of Virol were given in 1924. Hospitals and Clinics use Virol. Virol Ltd., Haddington, Scotland.

Stuart Crosbie strode home to the castle, feeling that he had left behind him everything that made life happy. His love for Margery had been growing slowly, but surely, during the past three months that had elapsed since his return home. Her beauty bewitched and enthralled him, her freshness and sweetness linked him still more strongly, her daintiness and natural refinement appealed to him through all. He knew there would be trouble; that his mother would denounce his choice; but his mind was made up, his will, the will of which she was so proud herself, would be firm as iron. Let all the world rage Margery should be his wife. Though she was nameless, a waif, a nobody, was she not a pure, sweet girl? Were these worldly considerations stains on her fair character? . . . his heart was given, his mind made up, and nothing should move him. He raised his head proudly at this thought, a look of determination on his face. He was armed for the fray; but, while he gloried in his own strength, there came the thought of Margery's weakness. Would she brave the storm as he could? Would not the bitterness of his mother's anger wound and humiliate her? His face softened. He must shield his sweet love from the freeness of the battle, tenderly protect her from the cruel wind of harshness and coldness that would most assuredly greet her at Crosbie Castle. He chose the path through the paddock, and walked through the courtyard just as the tower clock chimed a quarter to eight. He had but a few minutes to change his tennis suit for his dinner garb, and he ran hurriedly from the coachhouse round to the lawn, determined to make a rush to his room. He dismissed his dog with a word, sped fleetly across the grounds till he reached the colonnade, and entered it, when suddenly, by some mischance, his foot slipped, and he fell heavily, he knew no more.

"Mother!" she said, hurriedly, "I cannot leave her."

"Then you renounce all thought of independence," she observed, coldly, watching the girl's face with something like a frown on her own.

"I do not," replied Margery, firmly. "I have listened to your advice, and I will take it; but I must first think of her. She will miss me, Miss Lawson—I know she will."

"Well," said Miss Lawson, after a pause, "that is true. It would be cruel to leave her now. I will write to my sister and thank her in your name, and explain why you refuse."

"You are not cross with me?" Margery murmured, putting out her hand suddenly.

"Cross? No, my child. I wish it might have been arranged; but you are right; it is your duty to stay with Mary Morris, and help to cheer her and life. In the future, if ever you want help, come to me, and what I can do I will."

Margery's eyes met the governess' steady gaze, and then she bent forward and kissed her.

"I will come to you," she said, firmly; and the two women separated.

Margery hurried down the hill toward home. She felt weary, almost exhausted; it had been a day of excitement.

She passed the woods and the stream, her thoughts went back to Stuart, and she felt again the power of his love. Why should she have doubted him? Why not have spoken bravely of their love? Had he not said himself that storms might come, but he would face them all? To-morrow she would seek Miss Lawson, and, strong in the knowledge of Stuart's great, honest heart, tell her all. Now she must hasten to the sick woman, and watch beside her with tender care and hope.

had rested on his face during his conversation with Vane Charteris, and in the political argument with the squire, had now vanished. He looked worn and ill as he walked slowly up and down his room; his eyes were sad; his head drooped. He seemed to be thinking deeply; at last, with a deep-drawn sigh, he seated himself at the table and wrote a letter. It was a summons to his lawyer, bidding him draw up a will, and fixing a day for him to come to Crosbie Castle. This done, Sir Douglas leaned back in his chair and covered his eyes with his hand for several minutes. The entrance of his valet, a man who had been his faithful servant and companion for years, roused him; and, bidding the valet dispatch the letter quickly, Sir Douglas left his room and descended the broad staircase. As he passed through the wide hall to the colonnade, its white pillars, gleaming against the background of green, tinged now with the ruddy gold of the setting sun, made a picture gratifying to his artistic eye. He sauntered on, determining to seek the grounds, when his eyes fell on Stuart's prostrate form and pale face. In an instant he was kneeling beside the young man, and his clear voice rang out to the butler who happened to be passing to the dining-room.

The man hurried up with some brandy, and Sir Douglas, with almost professional dexterity, lifted Stuart's head and poured a few drops between the closed lips. He watched the color slowly return, and the eyes open with a look of anxiety and tenderness on his face.

"That is right!" he said, gently as he met Stuart's gaze. "Are you hurt?"

"My arm!" murmured the young man, faintly, as the butler and Sir Douglas helped him to rise.

The baronet cast a keen glance at the right hand, hanging limp and swollen.

"Sanitas"

In pre-war days "Sanitas Disinfectant" was well and favourably known in Newfoundland and enjoyed ready sale amongst well informed people. It is a disinfectant for all the usual purposes of a disinfectant. It is recommended for use as a sealer, as a mouth and tooth wash and for offensive breath.

"Sanitas" is positively non-poisonous; for this reason alone many people prefer it for household use; particularly where there are children and aged persons. Sanitas is a safe disinfectant.

The odour of Sanitas is pleasantly fragrant. Sanitas may be used without announcing the fact that there's sickness in your home. Sanitas is made by The "Sanitas" Co. of London. Disinfectant Manufacturers to His Majesty the King.

A bottle of "Sanitas" costs 35 cents. "Sanitas" is indispensable where personal cleanliness is desired—Jan 5, 1925.

ANARCHISTS.

The anarchists in every land are men who do not save; while others salt the coin they stand and wait; they are men who see all laws and statutes as a hindrance, and order in its grave. Once I was broke and walked the street begging for food, and the ones who had money, and wished, invoking Mike and Pete, that government were dead. "What good is government?" I asked. "If Lazarus, lacked soup, while Dives on his cushion basked, sung in his gilded coup; when law and justice are unmasked they don't seem worth a whoop!" Then I emerged from want and woe, and built myself a shack, with seven windows in a row, and doors both front and back; I buckled down to earn the dough and saved a modest stack. My little home seemed good and sweet, all painted blue and pink; and I had liverwurst to eat and healthful seeds to drink, and governments seemed good as wheat, that once seemed on the blink. Because of government I reaped my garden sows in peace, because of government I sleep well guarded by police, and to the bank I triumph sweep with many a silver piece. The skates who will not earn the yen think government is hard; they frame red speeches in their den and spring them by the yard, but they will cut out puffs when they're goods they wish to guard.

THE UNUSUAL MAN

He never said a hasty word. He never did a thing absurd. He never wrote a letter stout. And wished he'd never sent it out. He never rushed to grab a seat. To see a lady on her feet. He made mistakes, but they were not. The common blunders of the lot.

He never tossed a lighted match. On stuff which readily would catch. He never had an accident. He never did a deed unwise. He never, like the most of us, Became embroiled in row or fuss, And for some trifling place to get Suffered long periods of regret.

He saved himself much grief and woe Which ordinary mortals know. He never did a deed unwise. For which he must apologize. He never blindly rushed ahead Where angels would have feared to tread. Or, methinks enthusiasm's sway Promised beyond his power to pay.

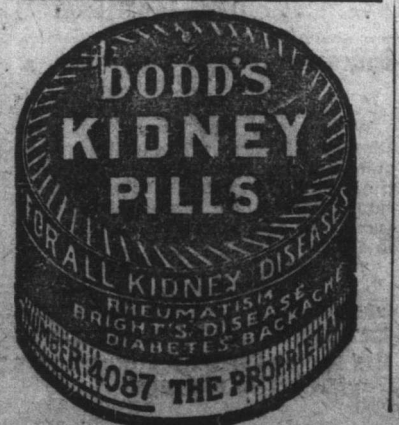

Strange man! Yes, strange and it is true. Of him the world has rare few: I say it now behind his back. He had one gift which many lack. Time to consider well he took. Before he leaped he stopped to look. By folly he was seldom cursed. Because he did his thinking first.

Insist on Ocean Mail Schedules—no other "just as good." Jan 23, 25

Canada Took First Real Census.

One hardly expects to find interesting historical data in a dry looking volume of census returns, but none the less such is contained in the first number of the sixth census which has just been sent out from Ottawa. For instance, we are told by Mr. Coats, Dominion Statistician, that while census taking dates from the dawn of civilization, for instance in Babylon nearly four thousand years B.C., and in China three thousand years B.C., the credit for first taking a census as it is known in modern times belongs to Canada and took place in the year 1666, when there was a systematic enumeration of the people, that is to say, a record of each individual by name, taken on the de jure principle of a fixed date, showing age, sex, occupation, etc.

The original document consisting of 154 pages is in the archives of Paris, of which a transcript is in Ottawa. Altogether this census recorded 3,215 souls. This date is interesting in view of the fact that the first census on anything like modern lines was that of Prussia in 1719, and Sweden in 1749, while in France and England the first censuses date from 1801. Of course we are leaving out of this calculation the brethary of Charlemagne (A.D. 808) and the Domesday Book of 1086, which were in no wise censuses as we know them to-day though as historical documents their worth is not to be overlooked.

The original Canadian census of 1666 was repeated no less than sixteen times during the French regime, and in the later years of this period there were seven similar censuses of Acadia (Nova Scotia), six of Newfoundland, and one of St. John Island (Prince Edward Island).

With regard to the Indian population of Canada estimates for the territory now comprising Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, the State of Maine, parts of the New England States and the Lower St. Lawrence valley were made as early as 1611 by the Jesuit missionaries.

Though the census reappeared at regular intervals during the early British occupation it does not seem to have got properly under way until 1851, when there was a census of Upper and Lower Canada, as well as Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The first census after Confederation was, of course, in 1871, from which time there is an unbroken record.

In connection with the early census records under the French regime it is interesting to note the growth. As stated, the first census showed 3,215 people, presumably all French. The census of 1685 gave a total of 11,000, while at the end of the seventeenth century, it has passed 15,000. By 1740 the figures were well in advance of 40,000, while at the time of the British conquest (1763) the population of New France was in the neighbourhood of 70,000, with another 10,000 who were scattered through what is now the Maritime Provinces.

From this little army has grown a race of French Canadians numbering some four million people, including those in the United States as well as those in Canada. Indeed a wonderful record in the upbuilding of a race in the course of 162 years.

Deadliest Quarrels

There are high-heated quarrels and mean quarrels; quarrels that disturb only the surface of the mind; and quarrels that jolt achingly through the depths of the spirit. There are quarrels that you may have, perhaps must have, and there are quarrels that, as you value your happiness, you must not have.

Jealousy quarrels between inexperienced lovers in early married days are almost inevitable. The first has the charm of novelty; see to it that the novelty does not wear off. Then there are the superficial quarrels that familiarity brings, arguments about inattentiveness or unpunctuality, disagreements when trying to make plans. People who are fundamentally suited to each other forget these quarrels before there is time for the question of culpability or forgiveness to arise.

Irritability quarrels, the least intentional of all, are always regrettable because they might fairly easily have been avoided. Married people should learn to give each other sufficient mental space in which to resolve individual difficulties. But, happily, reconciliation usually follows quickly on such disturbances.

Quarrels bred of the evil of possessiveness are ominous—a sign that the chains put on one partner by the other are becoming burdensome.

There are quarrels which are by their very nature unresolvable. You must not use again love knowledge which only love has given. Compounded as it is of sweet and bitter, that sharply penetrating knowledge is voiced in anger at you. There are times when it may be spoken of, but you may not quarrel on holy ground.

For if you do it is no longer a question of forgiving or forgetting. It is a question of something lost, of a proud flag that has been used.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN MYLER.

There passed peacefully to her eternal reward on Saturday last, a lady well known and highly respected in the city, in the person of Mrs. Myler, wife of John Myler of Brien Street. Mrs. Myler, who succumbed to an illness of short duration, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Burke, an old and representative family of Wiltshire, near Slough. The Slough station superintendent, Mr. Howell, conceived the idea of telegraphing a description of the wanted man, a Quaker, to London, where he was arrested and subsequently executed. There were no separate signs for "J," "Q," or "Z," these being represented by "G," "K," and "S," respectively. "It happened," says Mr. John Timbs, in "The Romance of London," "that the person then working the

The Happy Spinster

By A SPINSTER.

Spinners, unless they are quite young, are popularly supposed to have a poor time. But, like other human beings, we do not have a poor time unless we have poor minds. If we are able to see life broadly and kindly and bravely we have quite a good time. Our lives, indeed, have a sort of enrichment that even the happy wife does not know.

Her joy of womanhood is centred, profound. Compared with it our happiness is fragmentary, dispersed. But it has variety, poignancy, and, it may be, subtlety. It does not satisfy, but it does not cloy.

Men like us quite well and they trust us astonishingly—perhaps because we are able to beat out some sort of music from life, alone. They know that we shall not build a romance on five lines of verse written to us in a moment of real but fleeting emotion. They know we shall never remember that they once told us, in a phase of marital despair, that we alone of all women really understood them. They know that we are constructive, not destructive, people and that homes, perhaps because we have no homes, are peculiarly precious to us. We are in a way necessary to these men who confide in us, but we are necessary in a supplementary fashion.

A supplementary woman must have a sense of humour, or she will be a sentimentalist; a sense of honour, or she will be a thief; a sense of direction, or she will wreck herself.

It is out of her essential woman nature that she gives consolation. Some women prefer to be mannish friends to men. In a word of infinite variety to doubt they serve some useful purpose. But the woman who has sufficient humility to be a wo-

FLORENCE VIDOR—in the role of Mrs. Charlotte Braun; the charming young wife of Dr. Braun, radiant with joy over her young matrimony—there is but one man in the world for her, her husband—still her jealousy gets the better of her at times.

MARIE PREVOST—in the role of Mizzi, the wife of Professor Stock; racy and full of temperament, nervous and fanciful; she languishes at the side of her phlegmatic husband who has no sympathy for her extravagant ways. She is in love with love—to attract men and to have them at her feet, fascinates her.

MONTE BLUE—in the role of Dr. Franz Braun; an elegant, fashionable physician with a large clientele of women; happily married and deeply in love with his wife—still not impervious to the charms of other women.

ADOLPHE MENJOU—in the role of Professor Josef Stock; a jovial and kind soul—he would be the happiest man on earth but for his wife. Why did he marry her? Long ago he has given up the matrimonial battle and become resigned to his fate.

CREIGHTON HALE—in the role of Dr. Gustav Mueller, the junior partner of Dr. Braun; shy and bashful, without experience in the intricacies of the game of Love, but with a heart easily enflamed.

HARRY MYERS—in the role of the charming "Dr. Smith," who happened to be a detective who never failed to get money from his wealthy and sometimes indiscreet clients.

Evangelist Manuel's Lecture on Seal of God and Mark of Beast Attracts Large Crowd.

The Evangelist says no one has yet received Mark of the Beast.

The subject for next Sunday night will be: "The Sabbath God's Great Memorial."

A capacity crowd heard Evangelist B. E. Manuel last night at the Adventist Church. Mr. Manuel declared that while God says the seventh day Sabbath is a sign or seal of His creative and sanctifying power, the time is yet future for any to be sealed in the Bible sense of the term. On the other hand, while the Catholic Church holds Sunday forth as "a mark of her power and authority in religious matters," the fact that many keep Sunday is no evidence that they have received that mark. The time will come, however, that Sunday will be enforced by human laws, then those who accept it knowing that it is only a Catholic institution, and utterly reject the seventh day Sabbath knowing that God would have them keep it will receive the Mark of the Beast.

Mr. Manuel urged all to keep the Sabbath now so that we may be prepared for the issue when it comes. Says John: "Blessed are they that do His Commandments that they may have right to the tree of life and may enter in through the gates into the city. Rev. 22:14.

Sevents Day Adventists.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 23.—In view of the approaching date of February 5, set by some for the end of the world, the executive committee of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination at their headquarters in this city have put on record the following repudiation:

WHEREAS: A group of people have no connection with the Seventh Day Adventist Church have assumed the name of this organization, and set a date for Christ's second advent, announcing Feb. 6, 1925, as the time for this event, we hereby place officially on record in the minutes of our General Conference our repudiation of all time-setting, and record our protest against connecting the name "Seventh Day Adventist" with this propaganda. Anew we declare to the public that throughout our history our witness to the signs of the times that show Christ's second coming near at hand, has ever been based on the Scriptural teaching that "of that day and hour knoweth no man."

Little Jack Rabbit

By DAVID CORY.

"This is Rabbitville, one, two, three. Who is calling little me?" answered Little Miss Mousie over the telephone early in the morning just as she was about to put the kettle on the tiny black stove in the kitchen.

"Kind Policeman Dog talking," replied a nice voice. "You'll find dear Uncle Lucky's swallowtail coat hanging on the kitchen doorknob."

"Oh, thank you a thousand times and more, I'll run right over and open the door," answered the happy little mouse housekeeper hanging up the receiver. "I'm so glad," she whispered to herself, lifting off the nice old bunny gentleman's coat and, giving it a hug, just as though dear Uncle Lucky were inside of it, she hung it over the back of his chair at the breakfast table.

"There," she sighed, smoothing out a wrinkle. "Won't he be happy when he sees it? Maybe he'll eat an extra saucer of Clover Cereal," and Uncle Lucky's devoted little housekeeper scampered about to get the breakfast ready.

By and by she heard dear Uncle Lucky whistling upstairs. She knew the words to the song. Oh, yes, indeed. For sometimes he sang it and sometimes he whistled it. And Little Miss Mousie never needed to hear anything twice. Why, it often seemed she knew a thing before it was spoken. That is, she knew what the old gentleman rabbit wanted before he often knew it himself.

"Shall I put on my smoking jacket?" asked the nice old gentleman rabbit leaning over the banisters. "I dislike appearing before ladies in my shirt sleeves."

"Don't bother this morning," answered gay Little Miss Mousie, with a toss of her bobbed hair, scampering out into the hall to smile up at the polite old bunny gentleman. "There's a surprise for you on the back of your chair."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after.

SUNDY ITEMS.
(H. F. SHORTIS).
Article XXIII.

In bringing this series to a close, I have two articles written on the elections, which took place during the fall of 1882, and as it was the first election that ever took place in the country, it makes it very interesting reading to note firstly, the preparations that were being made and the rules laid down for operations. I have been fortunate in obtaining some of the addresses given by the different parties looking forward to be selected by their fellow citizens, and secondly, the actual election and how it was carried on, and how the result was attained for Conception Bay.

In looking through these old records I came across some very interesting facts, a few of which I will now mention.

James MacBratne.

No individual had a better grasp of this country's affairs, and I trust some persons may give us a record of his life in this country, as it should be written, because he took a very prominent part in organizing the country's affairs during the Napoleonic Wars about 1800 and after.

I have a record of his death: Died, May, 1892, at an advanced age, at his seat, Tweed Hill—near Herwick—St. John's—James MacBratne, Esq.

ST. JOHN'S, May 25, 1832.
A fatal accident happened at the Long Bridge, at Riverhead, St. John's. A poor washer-woman, named Margaret Grady, accidentally fell over in the dark and was drowned.

This bridge is nearly 40 feet long, and only 3 or 4 feet wide, without any railing. The public attention is called to same.

This will give us a good idea of what St. John's was like in 1832, and I wonder the Carbonne people spoke of our city as the "Ragged City."

ST. JOHN'S, Dec. 4, 1832.
His Excellency Sir Thomas Coghlin announces Hugh Alexander-Emerson, Barrister at Law, from the Bar of Nova Scotia, is to be His Majesty's Solicitor-General for the Island of Newfoundland.

BRIGGS, Dec. 28, 1831.
William Percy (S.S.)—this is the famous old "Admiral" Percy that I have written about more than once. He was a person that some persons still know as the stolen from his stable on the night of the 27th, a bay horse, which has a switch tail and a spur on the right side—known by the name of Darby. A liberal reward will be given for any information.

Old Capt. Henry Thomey often told us that he remembered when there was only "four horses" in Hr. Grace—two owned up near the Race Course, and two more at Bristol's Hotel. When we see the old "Admiral" describing his panning charger, we wonder how any person would think of getting this good unduly.

HR. GRACE, Dec. 16, 1831.
Josiah Perkins sends notice that his spotted hen and white cow—short-tailed and branded "J.P." has strayed. He also offers handsome reward for information likely to spot the culprit.

HR. GRACE, Aug. 31, 1832.
Peter Rogerson offers a reward to any person who will help him to bring conviction to the person who stole a "Hair Trunk" from his wharf on the day of the Great Fire."

This must have been a very valuable "hair-loom", and is probably in the possession of his grandson, Mr. W. P. Rogerson, who is with us today.

CARBONNEAR.
Dr. J. S. Taylor has lost a case of Surgical Instruments on Carbonne Beach, and offers a reward of four dollars to the person returning them to the house of Mr. H. C. Watte.

I wonder who Dr. Taylor was, offering four dollars, when everybody spoke of pounds, shillings, and pence those days. Possibly he had some British Pillar Dollars.

HR. GRACE, Aug. 31.
Mrs. Burt, the President and Treasurer of the Dorcas Society, wishes to acknowledge receipt of some clothing.

HOLYROOD, Dec. 10, 1832.
The valuable fee-simple property belonging to the estate of William Dawson, is now offered for sale. These desirable premises, situated at Holyrood, comprise:—A good dwelling house, 2 stores, country house, shop, cook room, wharf, 2 stages, 3 large stables, frost-proof cellar with loft over. An extensive range of garden and meadow ground with cow house and four tenements for fishermen.

These premises are in excellent condition, and most of the erections have been very recently made.

N.B.—This dwelling house was only pulled down a year ago.

I have seen another notice in these records of a Copper Mine, that was opened up by Fitzgerald, of Holyrood. This is evidently a mistake, because the successful seal killer, Captain Michael Fitzgerald, of Hr. Grace, was the man who worked the mine there, and also at Black Island, Labrador. He lost about $10,000 on mining ventures—he often told me so.

I will next proceed to tell about the elections, all of which are positive facts, and I am sure will prove interesting.

FOUNDATION CO.
Net For 1924 Will Approximate $1,000,000.

N. Y.—Pres. Doty of Foundation Co. says local newspapers have published a statement which must be misleading to stockholders of Foundation Co. During 1924 large portion of preferred stock of Foundation Co. was converted into common stock and, as there are at present only 3000 shares preferred outstanding, it is the policy of the company to retire this. Retirement has been arranged to be carried out without cost to the company through release of common stock held in the treasury and previously set aside for conversion of preferred.

"When this has been effected company will have no securities or stock outstanding except common."

"Regarding cash position of the company—net profits for 1924 will approximate $1,000,000 and at present cash amounts to about $1,000,000."

"As of Dec. 31 the company will carry over uncompleted work amounting to approximately $18,000,000 and profit on this work, after reduction of total general expenses for 1925, substantially exceeds 6% dividend requirement on common stock now outstanding.

"It might be added that new business prospects for 1925 are excellent and in addition to profits from work carried over from last year, earnings of the company should be greatly increased by profits from new business which might be taken and completed during 1925."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA OIL PRODUCTION.

LOS ANGELES—Southern California oil production averaged 332,200 barrels daily in the week ended Jan. 17, decrease of 2,800 from the previous week.

CAPITAL INCREASE PROPOSED.

NEW YORK—Special stockholders' meeting of Horn & Hardart has been called for Jan. 30 to authorize increase in common stock to 800,000 no-par shares from 200,000. This is believed to foreshadow four-for-one split in stock, now quoted 185 bid in over-counter market.

IN THE REALMS OF SPORT

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The contesting teams in to-night's hockey game will be the Guards and Terra Novas. The Terra Novas hopes of winning the championship are now very slim, owing to their having lost three games, but they are by no means anxious to go to the foot of the ladder and are out to prevent that, if possible, to-night. The Guards have yet a good chance of championship honors, but to keep this good they must win this game and they are determined to do so.

Both teams will present the same line-ups as appeared in the last game.

FELIDIAN WINTER SPORTS NIGHT

The much talked of Felidian Winter Sports, takes place in the Prince's Rink on Wednesday night. The programme is a very lengthy one and bound to please. It consists of Senior and Inter-Collegiate Relay Races, short and middle distance skating runs, and two exhibitions of hockey. The cups and medals for the above races are now on exhibition in the window of Messrs. T. J. Duley & Co. The C.L.B. Band will be present throughout the evening to render stirring airs, while a programme of eight band selections will follow for the general skaters. The committee has everything practically finalized, and an enjoyable evening's amusement is in store for all who can attend.

FINE RECEPTION BY LOCAL BROADCASTING.

Mr. Loyal Reid, who broadcasted the hockey game between the Felidians and Terra Novas, direct from the Rink, on Friday last, has since received telegrams and letters of congratulations from radio fans both in the city and outports, stating how pleased they were with the results obtained. One of the telegrams received by Mr. Reid was from Twillingate, which reads as follows:—"Loud speaker reception hockey game very good last night."

(Sgd.) F. DAVIS.
This, no doubt, must be a great source of gratification for Mr. Reid.

Crew of Schooner Commack Safe

Saturday's public despatch told of the four masted schooner Commack being ashore at Seabright, N.J., and of the crew hanging in the rigging while a furious sea raged. No further message was received during the day, and relatives of J. Barnes, the mate of the Commack, were most anxious to learn whether a rescue had been effected. At the request of the Telegram Supt. Saunders of the Anglo very kindly caused enquiries to be made, with the result that a message was received at 7.20 p.m. stating that all the crew had been taken on board the Coast Guard motor lifeboat after having hung on to the rigging until picked up. The relatives are very grateful to Mr. Saunders for his consideration. We understand that the Captain of the Commack, Sylvester Barnes, is also a Newfoundlander, and that his family reside in Boston.

M. E. A.

The annual meeting of the Marine Engineers' Association took place in the British Hall on Saturday last at 3 p.m. and was attended by a large gathering of members. After the applications for membership were accepted and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted, the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, which resulted as follows:

Pres.—Mr. Jas. McFarlane, re-elected.
Vice-President—Mr. George Pike, elected.
2nd V.P.—Mr. Wm. Piercey, elected.
Secy.—Treas.—Mr. McKinley.
Sick Committee—Mr. C. McCoubrey and Mr. J. Coffey.

Executive Committee—Messrs. Jas. McKinley, Jas. Roberts, Wm. Parsons, C. McCoubrey, J. Maher, J. Buckingham, and A. Smith.
After the newly elected officers had taken their seats and thanked the body for the honour conferred on them the regular business of the meeting was discussed. Some very important matters came before the meeting and were settled to the satisfaction of all present. It was decided to hold the next meeting in the British Hall Sat. Feb. 14th, at 3 p.m. so as to give all members an opportunity of attending.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 19.—Lou Bogash, Bridgeport middleweight, won the judges' decision over Chief Helbron, of New York, in a ten-round bout here to-night.

SECONDS PREVENTED K. O.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 19.—Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh, scored a technical knockout over Lew Tondler, of Philadelphia, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last night. Tondler's seconds threw a towel into the ring when he went down a second time under an attack of lefts and rights to the jaw.

because the apparatus had only been installed in the rink at very short notice, and there was no time left at his disposal to broadcast a test before the game had started. It is the intention of Mr. Reid to broadcast the game to-night between the Terra Novas and Guards.

We have been further informed that ten people listened in on Mr. Wm. Dawe's set, Bay Roberts. Good results with loud speaker.

INTER CLUB BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

The inter club billiard tournament, between the members of the C.E.I. and M.G.C.A. Clubs, begins at the club rooms of the latter, to-night, when two games will be played, viz: 7.30—G. Adams, C.E.I. vs. F. Churchill, M.G.C.A.
9.00—G. Harsant, C.E.I. vs. G. Freeman, M.G.C.A.

The game consists of 300 points. The best players of both clubs are lined up and have been practicing for some time past, and are now in good shape for the contest. Much interest is being displayed in the tournament and a large number of fans will likely witness the games.

DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

The Commercial Bowling League schedule is now rapidly drawing to a close and will probably finish this week. The games scheduled for to-night are: 7.30, G. Browning & Son vs. Foot & Shoe Company; 9.00, C. A. Hubley & Co. vs. Imperial Tobacco Company.

HOCKEY PLAYER OBLIGED TO RETIRE.

Wm. B. Clouston, centre of the Guards hockey team received a nasty blow from a stick in the game against St. Bon's, on Wednesday night last, and due to the nature of the injuries he has been advised to remain out of the contest for the balance of the season. Clouston has been a tower of strength to his team and he will be greatly missed in the line-up to-night.

The Governor's Sympathy

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—While you are giving publicity to expressions of sympathy respecting the loss by fire of the Methodist College, I think it should be known that probably the first one to pen such an expression was His Excellency the Governor. Quite early on the day after the fire the following came to hand:—

Governor's House,
January 29, 1925.
Dear Dr. Curtis—Lady Allardyce and I desire to convey to you, and through you to all concerned, our very sincere sympathy in the tragedy that has befallen not only the Methodists, but the community generally, owing to the demolition by fire last night of your beautiful College building.

Yours very sincerely,
Dr. Levi Curtis, W. L. ALLARDYCE,
18 Gower Street.

It is not important, I assume, that my reply on the same day to His Excellency should be given to the press, but perhaps I ought to say that at the earliest opportunity the kind letter of His Excellency was handed to the Executive of the College Board of Governors.

Yours sincerely,
L. CURTIS,
St John's, January 31, 1925.

New Liquor Law

COMES INTO EFFECT ON WEDNESDAY.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir—In order that the public may be correctly informed in relation to the procedure in connection with the bringing into effect of the Act Respecting Alcoholic Liquors, I would say that under Section 60 of the said Act, a Proclamation of the Governor in Council must issue, stating a day upon which the said Act comes into force and effect. Upon that day, all the rights, property and effects in the possession or under the authority of the Controller, shall pass to the Board of Liquor Control. The necessary Proclamation will appear in the Gazette of Tuesday next, and the Board of Liquor Control will take full charge on Wednesday morning.

The present Liquor Control Dept. will be closed on Wednesday morning, when the Liquor Control Board take charge, and will remain closed until the following Monday morning in order that the stock of liquor may be taken, and the arrangements made for the opening of branches in St. John's East and St. John's West. There are other matters that will require to be dealt with in the transfer to the new Board, but all these will be completed by Monday, when the principal store and the two branches will be opened for transaction of business under the new Act.

Yours sincerely,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

Rector of St.

Paul's Resigns

On Wednesday evening at a special meeting of the Select Vestry, of St. Paul's Parish, the Rector, Rev. W. R. J. Higgitt, acquainted them of the fact that he was resigning from the charge of the parish, his resignation having been tendered his Lordship the Bishop and accepted by him. The Rev. gentleman has not been in good health for some time past, and his doctors have informed him that the Nfld. climate is too rigorous for his constitution. He has consequently been compelled, though reluctantly, to relinquish his charge here and return to England. The news came as a surprise to his parishioners, who greatly regret to learn of his decision. Rev. Mr. Higgitt has been at St. Paul's for nearly ten years, and is much beloved by the members of his flock, his kindness of heart, enthusiasm and sincerity having endeared him to all.

The news will be regretfully learned by our citizens generally, for during his stay amongst us, Mr. Higgitt has shown himself ever ready and willing to do all in his power to further the welfare of the town and its inhabitants. His interest in sports is well known and appreciated by many of our younger men.

We understand that Mr. Higgitt's resignation is to take effect in June, and he will continue his charge until that date.—Mr. Grace Standard.

A Simple and Selective One-Control Receiver

We know right now that the average listener, on looking at the diagram above, is going to say: "Where do you get that stuff about a selective receiver? That's nothing but a single-circuit tuner."

In which, dear readers, you are all wrong. The circuit is not a "single circuit" tuner—and it is selective!

If you will study the drawing a few moments, you may see a difference. Let us take up, for a moment, the design of the aerial single circuit, in order that the difference between that and the one shown above may be more apparent.

In the drawing above, if we eliminate "C-1" and make the antenna coil a tapped coil, with "C-1" a large variable condenser, the set would be the objectionable single circuit. The reason that the single circuit is objectionable is because it is one in which the antenna circuit is tuned to the incoming wave, and then coupled closely to the oscillating tube. This makes it a powerful radiator.

In our circuit of to-day, however, we differ from the above in several respects. In the first place, we put in the variable condenser "C-1" and use this, in conjunction with the antenna coil, to tune the grid circuit.

We are not tuning the antenna circuit at all. Then, to further isolate the tuned circuit from the antenna circuit, we will make the capacity "C-2" a very small one—a two-plate condenser, for instance. This not only "loose couples" the tuned circuit to the antenna, thereby minimizing radiation, but also detunes the antenna circuit, so that while our grid circuit may be tuned, the antenna circuit is not. Any radiation with an untuned antenna circuit is almost impossible. The loose coupling furnished by the small capacity of "C-2" insures selectivity, also.

In actual operation, the inductance "L-1" is one of the standard secondaries—60 turns of No. 22 d.s.c. wire on a four-inch tube, for instance. "C-1" is a .00055 mfd. variable. The rest of the circuit is standard, with the exception of "C-2", which, as mentioned, may be a two-plate vernier condenser. Or simply take two pieces of thin brass 1/2-inch wide and one inch long, bending each piece at right angles in the middle. Set them up with their faces parallel and about 1/4-inch apart, and use one plate for the antenna connection and one for the connection of the coil in the set.

Receives Bad Scald

While the little four-year-old son of Mr. E. B. Snelgrove was playing about the kitchen at his house, Hamilton Avenue, on Saturday last, he accidentally fell into a pail of boiling water, which was being used by the domestic, and received a bad scalding on the right hand and arm. The boy suffered great pain for several hours. The arm got swollen to twice its normal size, and a doctor had to be called in to give it the necessary treatment. Yesterday he was doing as well as could be expected.

JOINS SHIP.—Captain W. Doyle, left by yesterday's express, accompanied by mate T. Carroll, en route to St. John's, to join the schooner, Alan P. Rose, which is now loading codfish there from G. M. Barr, for Pernambuco.

Locally Broadcasted

CONCERT HIGHLY APPRECIATED.

Yesterday afternoon there was broadcasted by amateur radio station 6JJC a programme of vocal and instrumental music that compares favourably with the best productions of the great studios of Canada and the United States. This local studio, at the residence of Mr. J. J. Collins, owner and operator of the set, is rapidly gaining an enviable reputation amongst city radio fans and has received high praise from many listeners in outport towns like Bay Roberts, Harbor Grace, Carbonear, Whitbourne and Grand Falls.

The vocal headlines on yesterday afternoon's programme at 6JJC were Mrs. Harvey Small, Miss Jean Taylor and Mr. Harry Countenay. These talented performers, though new to the broadcast operations, displayed a natural aptitude, and the fact that their voices were of high class carrying capacity was evidenced by the numerous telephonic communications received at the studio following the rendition of the various solos and by the numerous congratulations showered on them since the performance. Mrs. Harvey Small was heard to great advantage in two numbers: "Hear My Cry" and "To the Sun." Miss Jean Taylor rendered two solos in delightful style. Her numbers were: "Angels Ever Bright and Fair," and "Kashmiri Song." Mr. Harry Countenay was heard to great advantage in three tenor solos of the ever-popular numbers: "O Lord Be Thou my Light," "Smilin' Thru," and "Mother of Mine."

In the instrumental part of the programme radio listeners in had a feast of very good things. Miss B. Snow rendered "Autumn," and another delightful little study, Mrs. George B. King played Goddard's "Dance of the Stars" in splendid style. The three violin solos of Miss Theresa Powers, "Souvenir," "Perpetuo Mobile" and "Mazurka" with a talented vim that delighted her radio audience. The instrumental novelties by Commandant Urquhart, S.A., displayed all the cleverness and provided all the pleasure predicted for them—and a very great deal more. His duet on the harmonica and the banjo was a gem. The accompaniments for the singers of the evening were rendered on the piano by Mrs. King and Miss Snow.

Execution of a high order was displayed by Mrs. L. C. Mews in her three recitations, "The Raggedy Man," "The Hired Girl," and "The Little Snow White Rose." During the performance numerous telephonic demands for encores were received at 6JJC, studio but could not be granted because the programme as arranged occupied every minute of the allotted time. Still the high compliment to the performers of the afternoon was highly appreciated by all connected with the programme.

Mr. J. J. Collins is rendering a great public service by placing his apparatus and his studio at the disposal of broadcasts for the entertainment of operators of local receiving sets. The various talented ladies and gentlemen who rendered the items on yesterday's programme are deserving of the highest commendation, too, for their interest in the happiness and enjoyment of their fellow citizens.

The Telegram hopes that these Sunday afternoon programmes of 6JJC will become a permanent feature of city life. Station 6JJC at Wesley Church was silent last evening, to the great disappointment of scores of city and outport radio fans. It is hoped that the energetic pastor, Rev. J. G. Joyce, to whom St. John's owes this progressive and modern installation, will have the set in operation next Sunday.

It is understood that the pastor of Wesley Church is arranging for a concert to take place during the present month. The programme will be broadcasted, enabling a radio audience, as well as that which gathers at the hall, to enjoy the musical and other selections rendered by high class local artists.

"The Marriage Circle"

FAMOUS SENSATIONAL FEATURE AT THE MAJESTIC TO-DAY.

In "The Marriage Circle," now playing at the Majestic Theatre, Director Ernst Lubitsch shows thorough craftsmanship. He gives his humanly-drawn characters a three-dimensional world in which to live.

Lubitsch knows drama—a thing which few film directors know—and that his knowledge of drama and of the subtleties of characterization have been embodied in this film.

"The Marriage Circle" is a loose screen adaptation of a stage success called "Only a Dream." The original was by the Viennese playwright Lothar Schmidt. Paul Bern made the screen adaptation and did a good job of it and Lubitsch gathered around himself a distinguished cast including Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, Adolphe Menjou, Florence Vidor, Creighton Hale, Harry Myers and Dale Fuller.

Lubitsch proves what other great directors have proven—namely, that the play does not so much matter as does the directorial treatment.

More than that, this director who made Pola Negri by his magnificent direction of "Passion" has made a new star of the first magnitude by his direction of Marie Prevost. The blonde and pretty Marie has never before even remotely approached the excellence of the acting which she does in "The Marriage Circle," and the same may be said in lesser degree of Monte Blue and Creighton Hale.

Jacobson and Evans will be seen at their best in their concert program which they claim to be the same as that which won big favour for them at Keith. Mr. Jacobson has some surprises for Majestic patrons whilst Mr. Evans will avail of new Ukulele stunts. See the big bill, it's a top notcher.

Screen Masterpiece at the Nickel Theatre

GRIFFITH AND ELLIOTT
DIRECTOR IN "THE COMMON LAW."

Continuing to-night and continuing three days, the Nickel Theatre presents a pictorialization of R. W. Griffith's widely read novel, "The Common Law." This is a story of an old model and life in general in the studios of modern times and it portrays many of the humiliated qualities to which the models are subjected to submit. There is probably no one in all the realm of the studio who is better equipped and trained to the leading role than is the famous Griffith who portrays the different part with feeling, delicacy and grace. As Valerie West, the daughter of refined parents, but who has now been thrown upon the world to earn her own living, after attempts to secure employment as a painter to endeavor to work as a model. Of course she is ignorant of the state of affairs among artists and enters assuming that all is as it should be. She would like to tell you the rest of the story but we think it best to leave that to those who intend to see the picture to-night at the Nickel Theatre.

A Show Man of Wide Experience

MEL THOMPSON OF ARLE MARKS PLAYERS.

Mr. Mel Thompson, business manager for Arle Marks Players, has had an enviable reputation in the show world, having started his career four years ago with the Ernie Marks Stock Company, the owner of which is uncle to Arle Marks, and one of the seven Marks Brothers. After seven years touring Canada and the United States with Ernie Marks Co., Mr. Thompson entered the Griffin Amusement Company, managing two theatres under their control and also two in Chatham, Ont. He then went back with Ernie Marks as business manager ahead of the show and after Marks retired he became manager of the company and guided their destinies for two consecutive seasons, and after the company was withdrawn from the road he joined the present organization which opens in the Casino on Thursday night.

Mr. Thompson's employment has taken him across the continent twice from coast to coast. As a boy he entered the employ of the Orillia Opera House, Orillia, Ont., in the capacity of usher and from there through the various stages of the game until he struck out for himself for a Concert Company in which he toured northern Ontario and Michigan with great success, this being his first real start.

Being a member of The St. Andrews Club of Orillia, Ont., Mr. Thompson is a strong believer in such organizations and his opinion is that every community should have a St. Andrews Club for reason that it is far reaching in its benefits to be derived by young men from such an association.

Since his arrival in our city, Mr. Thompson has been greatly impressed by the country and states that he already feels "at home" and being an enthusiastic sport he is a good "mixer."

Receives Bad Fall

Mr. Thomas Armstrong, Foreman of the United Towns Electric Company, received a bad fall while working near the plant on Saturday morning last, and received such injuries to his back that it was found necessary to have him conveyed to the city by Saturday night's train, for treatment. Mr. Armstrong, upon being removed to his home, Circular Road, had his injuries attended by a doctor. As a result of the accident, Mr. Armstrong will be confined to his bed for several days.

The Old Colony Club

The members of the Old Colony Club spent a delightful afternoon on Saturday last, as guests of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allard, at Government House.

An illustrated address on the Falkland Islands was given by His Excellency, and those who are acquainted with his graphic style of delivery will know that it abounded with interest and instruction. The discovery and history of the Falkland Islands will form the subject of a comedy, with French and English navigators taking possession of the islands, raising the flags of their respective countries at practically the same time but at different points, and unknown to one another. Then the further complications of ownership with the Spanish, who claimed that all the islands adjacent to their possessions on the mainland of South America, belonged to Spain. Later, however, the British established their claim of ownership.

The appearance of the Falkland Islands as shown on the screen is reminiscent of views on the Labrador Coast, bleak and barren, with heavy snow in winter time. Sheep ranching is the chief industry, and during his tenure of office there, His Excellency, with a view to improving the wool-bearing qualities of the sheep made importations of pure-bred stock. He was also instrumental in building a hospital which proved to be of great benefit during the war.

At the close of the address, Mrs. Burke, in proposing a hearty vote of thanks to Sir William and Lady Allard, referred to the responsible position and the fine service rendered by our Governor during the Great War. She related an incident in Winston Churchill's book, "The World Crisis," where Churchill describes a cabinet meeting where he and his colleagues were anxiously waiting news from Sir William Allard, of the engagement between the British and German warships off the Falklands.

Mrs. McNell seconded the vote of thanks and, in expressing the gratitude of the Club, said that after all, the kindness and hospitality of the afternoon were but incidental to the great influence for the welfare of the community, radiating from Government House to the furthest settlement of the Island; and that, when future occupants will have come and gone, there will remain a tribute to the work done for our people—in their improved conditions and happier lives. Tea was then served, bringing an instructive and pleasing afternoon to a close.

The 1925 Wembley

Dominions to Share in Brighter Expectation.

Interesting references to the plans for the British Empire Exhibition this year, and the reasons for holding the Exhibition, were made in London by Lt.-General Sir Travers Clarke, before the English-Speaking Union.

Many people, he said, asked why there should be an exhibition in 1925 when that of 1924 had placed the ideals, the wealth, and the work of the Empire before the world. The work was only half done, said Sir Travers. Of the 17,000,000 people who visited the Exhibition in 1924, a very small proportion represented Greater London, and it was the intention of the Exhibition authorities to make such attractions at Wembley as would draw the millions of London. Of the numbers who had already seen the Exhibition, thousands wished to see more of it.

"In our plans for 1925," Sir Travers continued, "we shall aim to keep the Exhibition substantially the same in its Imperial character and educational purpose as in 1924, but we shall use the experience we have gained to make our spectacle brighter and better. We had lovely gardens in 1924; we shall have more gardens and more flowers in 1925; more flags, more music, more light, and more variety in our restaurants. One thing we have learned from 1924, and that is the kind of spectacle which suits the great Empire Stadium. This year we hope to stage there more than one spectacle of the stamp of the famous 'Tattoo'."

Sir Travers added that the Dominions and Colonies were all coming in, with the possible exception of Fiji. This colony was showing an exhibit at Dunedin, and might not have the necessary funds to show at Wembley as well.

Disabled Ship Towed to Louisburg

The Kyle, which left Louisburg at 4 a.m. Saturday, to proceed to the assistance of the disabled ship Dunstan, returned at 8 a.m. yesterday, with the steamer in tow. It took the Kyle 28 hours to accomplish the trip, which will give an idea what the ice conditions are like in the Gulf. The Dunstan, as already stated, lost her propeller in the ice while making Louisburg to replenish her bunkers. She is a steel screw ship of 2,994 tons gross, 1,865 tons net, and built in 1896 by Barclay Currie & Company, Ltd., Glasgow.

THE INVALID'S NEXT FRIEND.

Sick people always get a good deal of sympathy.

It is instinctive to pity them, there is no doubt that they have reason to be pitied. There is no curse in the world so great as ill health. Not only because of what the sick person suffers and what he is deprived of, but also because sickness magnifies all other troubles. When you are well you can face trouble, you can get away from it through the blessed escape of work. But when you are sick trouble is magnified by your weakness, and you haven't the safety valve of the power to work.

So sick people surely need our sympathy. But there is another allied class who need just as much and perhaps more sympathy, and who generally get less—and that is the next friends of the sick person.

Sickness is a curse and it curses not only him who has it but also him who is bound to the invalid by ties of love or blood.

On the Outskirts of the Household.

I have in mind the case of a beloved wife and mother who has been a shut-in for some years. Life is very hard for her, she misses so much, and suffers from weakness though not from pain. On the other hand, her whole family heap sympathy, love and tenderness upon her. It is regulated to give her what comfort she can have. And on the outskirts of that household is a devoted husband, working hard at his business; coming home tired to a home where his comfort must always be subordinated to hers, always saddened by anxiety for his wife whom he devotedly loves. . . . The children are very good to their mother but they are inclined to take the father's devotion and patience for granted. I have seen him on the street sometimes when he did not see me and his face was not lit up in greeting, and I have been cut to the heart by the sadness and hopelessness of it.

Of course the children to be saddened by the curse of their mother's invalidism, but they have more escapes than the father.

I think that man deserves a great deal more sympathy than he gets.

I Don't Mean These People.

To be sure there are a great many people who grow impatient when there is sickness in the family and who do not deserve any sympathy at all. Men who are so used to being the centre of family life that they simply will not believe that anything which threatens to interfere with their comfort can come to pass; women who have perhaps considered themselves the delicate one in the family and who close their eyes to a husband's run down condition and then break into whining self-pity when they find themselves with an overtaxed husband to be looked after. . . . I always hesitate to write an article like this lest they who need less sympathy than they demand will feel themselves justified in asking for even more.

It is the patient ones, the selfless ones, the devoted, self-forgetting ones who deserve more praise and more of the limelight of sympathy and tenderness. Let's try to give it to them if we have any such among our family or friends.

Car Three Times on Fire

ESCAPE OF EARL HAIG'S NIECE.

While on her way to a dance at Midhurst, Sussex, Miss Betty Haig, the 20-year-old niece of Field-Marshal Earl Haig, and her brother Peter, aged 17, had a narrow escape when the motor car in which they were travelling caught fire.

Miss Haig was driving the car from Sutton End, Sutton, Sussex, on Tuesday night, and saw, after going some miles, that flames were coming from beneath the bonnet. She found that the carburettor had blown back and the petrol had caught fire. Miss Haig and her brother, however, put out the flames.

Soon after the journey had been resumed fire broke out in the engine, and some time was spent in fighting it. A few minutes later flames again burst from the engine and spread with such rapidity that Miss Haig and her brother had just time to get clear before the coachwork of the car was alight. It burned for nearly an hour until all that remained was the blackened wreck of the chassis.—Daily Mail, Jan. 8.
