

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Came to this Woman after Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Her Health

Ellensburg, Wash.—“After I was married I was not well for a long time and a good deal of the time was not able to go about. Our greatest desire was to have a child in our home and one day my husband came back from town with a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wanted me to try it. It brought relief from my troubles. I improved in health so I could do my housework; we now have a little one, all of which I owe to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.”—Mrs. O. S. JOHNSON, R. No. 3, Ellensburg, Wash.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years experience is at your service.

The tanks are scoring fresh victories in Europe but the growth of prohibition sentiment means utter defeat for the “tanks” of North America.

New York Sun: The Germans still talk about their colonies in spite of the fact that they haven't any... unless they have some secret colonies somewhere.

Baltimore American: A Swiss lawyer pleaded for leniency for his client accused of robbery, on the ground that he had lived a long time in Germany. That is the way the rest of the world will look at it for a long time to come.

The world could not in centuries have been made to realize so thoroughly the connection between good teeth and good health as it does today because of the steps taken by the medical departments of the army and navy to maintain the teeth of all men in service in the best possible condition. Hamilton Spectator. What would not the hungry enemy give at the present moment in exchange for the golden wheat-fields of the western prairies! The Dominion is one of the most favored spots in the world today and we should never be unmindful of our benefits.

The army is not a great soulless machine. This, men who have fought with the colors and been wounded vouch for. They insist that the doctors and nurses fight for the life of every man just as though he was a general or some distinguished person.

Canada with a population of about 8,000,000 persons has lost 27,040 men killed in action. Germany with a population of about 70,000,000 has lost 1,400,000. Canada's percentage is 34 of one per cent and Germany's 2 per cent. There is no question of which is enduring the greater hardship.

Quebec Chronicle: Once Dr. Belland was a liberal; to-day if we may judge from his message, he belongs to no party and follows no leading other than that of his own conscience. What has wrought the change in him? Why is it that his first word to his constituents is not of politics, not of party, but of duty? The answer is simple; he has seen and suffered.

PILLS OF ATTESTED VALUE.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of careful study of the properties of certain roots and herbs, and the action of such as sedatives and laxatives on the digestive apparatus. The success the compounders have met with attests the value of their work. These pills have been recognized for many years as the best cleansers of the system that can be got. Their excellence was recognized from the first and they grow more popular daily.

More Wheat—Less Labor

The growing of wheat produces much more important food for each hour of man-labor put upon it, than do either potatoes or corn. When wheat yields 30 bushels to the acre, reliable figures show that one hour of man-labor produces 1 2-3 bushels of wheat. At prevailing yields one hour of man-labor on potatoes produces about a bushel of that crop, while on corn one hour of man-labor produces about 1 1/2 bushels. It is obviously a matter of labor economy to grow wheat writes Henry G. Ball B. S. A. who adds:

By giving proper attention to all the factors which enter into successful wheat growing much larger yields can be produced. This has been established, times without number by efficient wheat growers of Europe. The average man is disposed to say that Europe had until lately an abundance of cheap labor, which fact in itself accounts for the 30 bushels of wheat per acre which Great Britain harvests, as compared with the 18 to 20 bushels per acre which are gathered in Canada. Cheap labor has its counterpart in our highly efficient farm machinery. By adding a horse to the team and by using wider ploughs, wider harrows, disks, binders etc., it is possible to reduce the man-labor required in raising wheat from 50% to 75 per cent. This is America's answer to European abundant and cheap labor.

Prussian Strategy

(New York Sun). A careful study of recent writings by German military experts reveals these illuminating details of Prussian strategy: The Kaiser's soldiers retreated in order to improve their lines; they were forced to retreat because traitorous German prisoners had informed General Foch of the crown prince's plans; they are not retreating, they are retreating because their advance proved the allies could be driven back; they abandoned the Marne because it is nothing but a river after all with as much territory on one side as on the other; they withdrew across the Marne because they discovered that there were no Americans on its banks; they retired because the Americans did not know when they were licked; they fell back because an advance is a mere “geographical conception”; Paris is where it can be taken at will, and they don't want Paris.

How to Can Tomatoes

Select fresh, ripe firm tomatoes. Grade for size, ripeness and quality. They will cook better if the same degree of ripeness and quality and will look better. Wash, scald one-half to one and one-half minutes or until the skins loosen but do not break. Scald means to immerse in boiling water. Cold dip, but do not allow them to remain in cold water. Cut out the stem end taking care not to cut into the seed cells or the seed and pulp will later be scattered through the liquid. Remove the skins.

Pack the tomatoes whole in jars, doing one jar from the beginning to placing in sterilizer before starting on another. Shake down well, hitting the base of the jar with palm of hand and also press with a table-spoon to avoid crushing.

Do not add water. Hot tomato pulp may be added, otherwise add no liquid whatever. Tomatoes are an exception to the general rule of hot water for vegetables and hot water or hot syrups for fruits. A large part of the tomato is water. It is not necessary to add anything but one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart and if liked one-half teaspoonful of sugar. The tomato pulp for home canning made from large and broken tomatoes cooked and strained should have one teaspoonful of salt to each quart, and should be poured hot into the filled jars, allowing it to enter the spaces.

Put on rubber and top, adjust top ball or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 22 minutes in hot water bath, or 16 minutes under five or ten pounds of steam pressure. Remove, tighten, seal and cool.

What Will You Do For Help?

FARM help is scarce, but this condition can be relieved to a marked degree by using machines that accomplish more work in a given time with less man power.

Why should the farmer cling to horses—a slow, expensive means of power—when every other business is adopting the truck and thereby reducing the cost of hauling, speeding up deliveries, and saving for human needs the food that the horses would otherwise consume?

The motor driven truck can work constantly at maximum load under the burning summer sun, or in the coldest weather. Unlike the horse it needs no rests while working, it eats only while in actual use, and when the day's work is done it requires very little attention, and leaves you free for other “chores” about the place. Then, it can be housed in one-quarter the space of the horses, wagon and harness it replaces.

It is a mistaken idea that a truck is useful only for driving upon paved roads. The Ford can be driven all over the farm, and used for hauling grain, potatoes, fruit, roots, fertilizer, wood, stock, milk or any other product. The speed it travels, the time it saves, and its low upkeep cost appeal very strongly to all users of the Ford Truck. If you need help, order your Ford One Ton Truck today.

AN OIL THAT IS PRIZED EVERYWHERE.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over thirty years ago. There is nothing to equal it.

Science in War Time

THE other day two leading spirits in the Canadian Manufacturing Association asked these questions:

Can a beam of energy on the order of the X-ray be driven two miles horizontally upon the German lines?

Can the magnitude and intensity reach such proportions as to scorch and destroy living things in its path?

The answer was emphatically in the affirmative. Not only can the beam of energy be driven in a horizontal direction, but vertically downward from suitably equipped aircraft.

The same type of magneto-electricity used for wireless telephony is adaptable for this purpose. The number of wireless vibrations or cycles used for wireless telephony are near the bottom of the scale and cover only the "auditory range." The telephone vibrations, or waves, are diffused in different directions. By intensifying, increasing the quantity of current and concentrating its direction, a most intense heat may be obtained, to which that of a burning glass would compare as a candle to a house on fire.

The main point of discussion was the improvement of the design of propellers and flying surfaces of aircraft. The fact that no matter how we may improve the engine, the waste of power increase as greater speed is sought in aircraft, is fundamental to any significant advance or new departure in design of such constructions. The first and imperative requirement is greater efficiency in what the engine drives—the propeller and the surfaces of the body and wings.

For a moment consider the waste of power of the propeller entirely apart from the engine. All progress of the aircraft is obtained exactly in the same way as with the modern steamship; namely, from the thrust of its propeller screw, or wheel, all referring to the same instrument.

The engine furnishes, say, 200 horse-power to the propeller, while the plane goes ninety miles an hour. If this were exerted, all of it, as "thrust" without loss, it would be a steady push of 833 pounds, at ninety miles an hour. But the fact is that under the very best conditions less than 108 pounds of thrust is realized. So we see that about seven-eighths of the engine power is lost in various directions, while only one-eighth, or 13 per cent, remains as driving or lifting power, which is the same thing, and this is exclusively confined to the propeller operations.

Further losses to which the 108 pounds of thrust are later subjected must not be confused with those incident to operating the propeller itself and producing the thrust.

To put the matter of propeller loss another way, if the power supplied to the engine were all utilized or transformed into thrust by the propeller, being 108 pounds in the case stated, an engine of only twenty-six horse-power would be required.

The saving of weight immediately assumes great importance. The 200-horse-power engine weighs upward of 500 pounds. The twenty-six horse-power weighs only sixty-five pounds. Again, as to weight of fuel: the 200-horse-power machine carries a weight of the engine, or 500 pounds, while for the twenty-six horse-power engine only sixty-five pounds of gasoline are needed.

Taken together, the weight of 200-horse-power engine and fuel is 1,000 pounds at the very least, while the twenty-six horse-power engine and fuel would weigh but 130 pounds, a saving of 870 pounds or more. To this can be added another very important saving, namely, a decrease in the structural weight of the plane itself due to the diminishing strains, vibration and wrenching effect of the larger engine.

In fact, the whole design of aircraft becomes subject to entire revision as soon as the great and unnecessary weight of engine and fuel is obviated. The reduction of weight and size of the body and wings of the craft, reduces "head-on resistance" and swifter speed is at once obtained for this reason. The carrying capacity is not decreased, but on the contrary is increased at least to the extent of the 870 pounds saving in weight of engine and fuel.

The demand of exceptionally good propellers has been accentuated by the problem of supplying several new classes of aircraft designed on better principles.

Remember By Giving

At any other time than this, the heroism of the men of the Merchant Marine would fill the newspapers. As it is, you simply read of so many tons of shipping sunk by submarines.

Yet from the few words you read, you must picture scores of scenes like the illustration. 15,000 men of this service, not officially recognized by the governments, have suffered death in order that soldiers, munitions and food may cross the ocean. Remember their widows and orphans, dependent for life itself on your generosity.

Let Your Donation Be An Appreciation of This Sacrifice!

As each day sees new victims of the U-Boat, more and more mouths wait to be fed—widows and orphans, who cannot look to governments for relief.

"They shall not want!" Say this in the only way that counts—by your contribution.

WE MUST listen to the call that comes from the deep—"Remember the Lusitania! Remember Captain Fryatt! Remember the 176 vessels lost, together with all trace of crew and cargo! Remember the 15,000 men of the Merchant Marine, who have already made the supreme sacrifice! Remember the widows and orphans!"

Sailors' Families Call For Help

During the first week in September a Dominion-wide Campaign will be held throughout Canada to raise funds to aid the dependents of the fallen heroes of our Merchant Marine. It will be held under the auspices of the Navy League of Canada and all moneys collected will be spent in relieving the distress of the sailor and his dependents. It must be remembered that safe passage of every pound of food, of every ton of munition and of every man that is carried "over there" is due alone to the efforts of our Merchantmen, protected, of course, by the Navy. Yet the Merchant Service itself is an unofficial one, and as such the sailors and their families can depend on no pension in event of disablement, or in case of death. But notwithstanding this, they sail the seas in defiance of the submarine and floating mine. Already more than fifteen thousand have died. Many have left their families deprived of their sole support. Must they be a charge upon charity? The breadwinner died in the Empire's cause. His dependents have no one to look to but the nation—to you. Ontario is pledged to raise $1,000,000. Ontario has never failed yet in a patriotic Campaign. Give generously for it is in a worthy cause.

British and Canadian History in H. S. Entrance Exams

Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, has made the following announcements in reference to next year's examinations: "The reinstatement of British and Canadian history as one of the subjects in the Junior High School Entrance Examinations for 1919 is a matter of importance to the teachers and the schools. The department has made arrangements which, it is believed, will stimulate and direct the study of history in the schools. The value of the subject in promoting patriotism, in providing material for a clear grasp of Canadian civics, and in expounding Canada's Imperial relations and her place in the Empire, is generally recognized. A circular will shortly be issued which will contain a definite outline of the course both in British and Canadian history, with selected periods and topics, a minimum of chronology and a statement of the particular sections in the text books dealing with the topics and sub-topics to be examined upon. "The course in grammar for Form IV of the Public and Separate Schools has been lightened and amended by omitting easy parsing and the paper set in the subject for the High School Entrance Examinations will emphasize the application to composition of the principles of correct speech."

Loafers

Many states have passed laws against habitual idlers—which is a late start in attacking the vice of laziness; for its just as much a vice as drunkenness or opium eating. It destroys the manhood in a man and the integrity of his character. We have known our share of drunkards and dope fiends. We have seen those who seemed fairly hopeless shake off their vice and emerge useful, honor-worthy men. According to our observation, however, a man once really sunk in the vice of laziness seldom gets out—but remains the nearest to absolute zero in human character. Laziness has not been attacked as other vices have. There have been few warnings, reprobations, inhibitions. The young man engages in imitation work—petty, incidental jobs—or golf if he can afford it. He is not girding himself; he is not attacking the problem of his life; he is loafing. But if he does not indulge in the recognized vices nobody says decisively "This will not do!" Youth is just as prone to the vice of laziness as to any other vice. But there is no danger signal on the road. There ought to be. We believe society has a right and a duty to say to every able-bodied young man "Work or you shall not eat," for we believe that laziness is the most curable of vices if taken in time and about the most incurable when it has become chronic.—Saturday Evening Post.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the summer months than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach disorders, come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home, where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of these Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. Chas. Anderson, Minda, Alta., says:—"Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones who are suffering from stomach troubles. They cured my baby and have made her a fine healthy girl." The tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Reroof with Brantford Asphalt Roofing

Don't let a leaky roof damage the wall paper, carpets or furniture in your home, the crops in your barn or the goods in your store. Tear off the old shingles or other worn out roofing material and put on a lasting roof of Brantford Asphalt Roofing.

This roofing is made of a blend of hard and soft asphalts on a long-fibred felt base. By blending the asphalts a roofing of remarkable elasticity is secured—one that is flexible, durable and capable of resisting all kinds of severe climatic extremes.

Brantford Asphalt Roofing is, in addition, surfaced with silica sand on both sides, which adds to its weight, fire-resistance and durability. You may be offered other sanded roofing, but it will not have the quality of material or weight of saturation of Brantford Asphalt Roofing.

Made in three weights:—60 lb., 70 lb., 80 lb. per square.

Brantford Rubber Roofing
is the same quality as Brantford Asphalt, but has a smooth, rubbery surface instead of the sand. It is particularly suitable for verandah decks and floor coverings. Three weights:—40 lb., 50 lb., and 60 lb. per square.

Standard Mohawk Roofing
consists of the same grade of materials as Brantford Asphalt Roofing but is lighter in weight—a thoroughly reliable roofing at a low price. Tested for years and has given entire satisfaction. Sanded on one side. One weight:—40 lbs. per square.

Mohawk Rubber Roofing
The same quality as Standard Mohawk but with a smooth surface. Used for all classes of temporary work—sheds, bunk-houses, camp sites, even dugouts in the trenches. 35 lb., 45 lb., and 65 lb. weights.

Leatheroid Roofing
Slightly lower quality than Mohawk Rubber. Used for same purposes. 35 lb., 45 lb., and 65 lb. weights.
Samples of any of these roofings and prices will be furnished by either the makers or their agents in this locality.

James Lumsden an aged and highly respected farmer of this township met with what might easily have proved a most serious accident while engaged in stowing away grain in the top of the mow of his bank barn a few days ago. While in the act of coming down, a sheaf on which he stepped, gave way, allowing him to fall through the scaffold on to the floor of the barn, a distance of 15 feet. Fortunately he fell on the back of one of the horses which were standing on the floor. This broke his fall to some extent and no doubt he was the means of saving his life. As it was no bones were broken and he escaped with some severe bruises and will be able to be around in a few days.

Caroline Thinks It Out
By Mona Cowles

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"To get up in the morning and make your own coffee and boil your own egg and make toast for yourself is all very well and good for a girl when she is single, but to have to do that sort of thing is quite different when one is married." Caroline had said with a very definite air five years ago on the memorable afternoon when Horace Blair had proposed to her. "I don't in the least mind living here in this two-room apartment now and I suppose you are quite comfortable in the boarding house, but to have to live in three or four rooms or to have to go to boarding after we are married would be really quite impossible."

Horace fondled the hand he held and looked dejectedly at the graceful finger that Caroline had just permitted him to measure for the engagement ring.

"You are a very sensible girl, Caroline," he said, "and I suppose you are right."

"Of course, I'm right," she agreed. "At twenty I might have been foolish and romantic. Then I might have supposed that I could be happy and make you happy on my thousand-dollar-a-year income and your salary of three thousand—"

"Twenty-eight hundred," Horace corrected with a sigh.

"With an occasional picture I could sell that would come to no more than forty-five hundred." She sighed and shook her head.

"I'm sorry, Horace, but it can't be done. I've seen other girls try to do it and—well, perhaps they are happy—but we couldn't live the way we do. You wouldn't want to try. It would mean living in a suburb somewhere with an incompetent maid and wearing ready-made clothes—yes, I know I have to now, but I won't always be young. At thirty I would look a mess in a ready-made suit—and we would have to keep eternally counting the money, and if we went to the theater we'd have to sit in the gallery—"

"We've had rather good fun that way, haven't we?" Horace murmured.

"Yes, Horace dear, but doing it now is one thing and doing it then is quite another matter. You'll think me some time for the stand I am taking."

"Then—you mean you won't marry me?"

"Not in the least. I simply mean that I can't marry you till our income is doubled at least!"

Horace took out an envelope and pencil from his pocket and began to figure.

"Nine thousand—that means that I must have about seventy-five hundred."

"I'll relent a little," smiled Caroline. "I'll marry you when you are making six thousand. You can work up to that—"

"It may take five years," sighed the unhappy suitor.

"What if it does? We love each other, and we can go on quite nicely this way. You know marriage isn't something to be entered into emotionally."

"You are a very sensible girl," said Horace accepting his sentence grimly. "I think I see your point of view."

And so it was settled and Horace and Caroline began their long engagement. There were never any quarrels—Caroline was too sensible for that and never once did she weaken from her wise decision that to make toast for yourself was one thing, but to have to do it for two was another. Even in his most impatient moods Horace had to admire the lofty ideal that Caroline maintained toward marriage. It was something that had to be undertaken on a dignified, rather grand scale or not at all.

And a day or so ago Caroline was still making her own toast and drawing an occasional picture that sold, quite content on her small income and Horace was working on patiently with the concern with which he had begun ten years ago, grimly waiting for another chance ahead that would bring him the coveted six-thousand dollar income. It did not seem then that there would be long to wait, for already he had reached the fifty-five hundred mark and he had saved enough to make possible the prospects of starting in life with a rather more pretentious abode than the suburban cottage that Caroline had held in such contempt.

Caroline worked at her drawing board as patiently and eagerly as ever and her ability as an illustrator had not become impaired but owing to war conditions, as the editors told her, there was less demand for her particular kind of talent than in years gone by. When she did get an order it meant a smaller check than formerly. She did not flinch at the economies this necessitated. Single poverty was one thing, she insisted, and married poverty another.

Then a day or so ago Horace came to spend his usual Sunday afternoon with her but instead of hurrying up the two flights of stairs to her apartment when he reached the house where she lived in spinster sedateness, he hesitated and then walked dejectedly around the block. Again he started to enter and with a heavy sigh retraced his steps around the block. It took considerable courage finally for him to ascend the steps he had trod so many times and to give his accustomed knock at her door.

So well did Caroline know his every expression that it was in vain that he attempted to dissemble his depression.

"I'll have to tell you some time," he began, when he had settled back in his favorite wicker chair with Caroline sitting opposite to him by the window. "If ever a man had reason to be discouraged I'm that man—after five years. Oh, Caroline, it is too cruel of fate—"

He buried his head in his hands, and if he had been anything but the every inch American man that he was he would have shed a tear or two.

Caroline was not the young woman to put caressing arms about his neck and assure him that everything was lovely whether it was or not, and Horace liked her better because she was not. She simply waited for him to tell the rest of the story.

"I have to tell you, Caroline," he said, "because I know you will feel the blow almost as much as I do. I am sure of your love; if I weren't, I couldn't endure this terrible calamity. I'm sure you'll wait—perhaps five years more." He winced as he thought of another long sentence of waiting.

"It's just our share of the war conditions, I suppose. The shipping tie-up has knocked our business sky-high. I've been hoping against hope we'd find a way out. But we've had to close down one of our plants—and that means that the salaries of men at the top will have to be cut in half. If I get out and start in some other line I'll have to begin at the bottom—every business in our line is crippled—it may mean two or three years after the war ends even before things are back on their feet."

Caroline was still calm. "That leaves you with just about twenty-seven hundred, doesn't it?" she asked, and the surprising bluntness of her reply served as a brace to Horace's willing spirits.

"Now listen to the sequel. My income has been dwindling. My little money is all in K. and B. and that is worth about half what it was before the war. I've been meaning to tell you, I hated to—but I've got to give up the apartment. I'd do more work but there's no market for it now."

Horace forgot his own troubles and was leaning over Caroline with two outstretched arms. "Poor, dear girl," he said. "How you must have worried—and now comes my tale of woe—and even now you aren't crying about it. Caroline, you're more pluck than any man I ever knew." He knelt beside her, looking with infinite tenderness and admiration into her unflinching blue eyes. "Have you thought what you are—are going to do about it?"

"There's only one thing to do," she said slowly. "I'll have to give up this place and I suppose you'll have to live some place cheaper than the Hotel Bradford."

"Yes, of course."

"Well, why couldn't we both live here?" Caroline's usually firm voice faltered a little as she made the suggestion.

"You don't mean—Caroline—how could you? You don't mean that you said about making toast and frying eggs for two—you've told me so often that you couldn't—Caroline don't let me hope if you don't really mean it."

"I've thought it all out," she said, resuming her calm manner that Horace thought the finest thing he had ever seen in any woman. "It is one thing for two persons to live separately on two small incomes—and it is another thing for those two people to live together on their joint incomes. Don't you see how simple it is. It's just a matter of plain arithmetic. We can pay rent for one apartment instead of for two; we can read by one light instead of two, and we don't have to go out to the theater and places for amusement, because we'll be married and can just stay home. It's such a simple solution, Horace, that I'm surprised we never thought of it before."

NEW OATS HURT HORSES

Fall Threshed Crop Must be Fed Judiciously.

Sudden Changes of Feed Particularly To Be Prevented—Waste of Farm Machinery Often Spells Difference Between Profit and Loss for Farmer — Have Corn Machinery in First-Class Order.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

EACH year brings a certain amount of trouble through the feeding of new grain to live stock, and in seasons like the present when food is scarce and the supply of old grain has been exhausted before the freshly-threshed grain is ready there is a likelihood that more new grain than usual will be fed to the live stock and consequently greater care should be exercised to avoid digestive derangements.

The horse is generally considered a little more susceptible to digestive troubles following changes in feeding practice than are other classes of farm live stock. It is always well to make changes very gradually and carefully. The main grain feed of the horse in this country is oats, and new oats should always be fed with great care. Hard-worked horses should, if it is at all possible, be fed old oats and the new grain left to dry and cure for a few weeks after threshing. At any rate to avoid colic, acute indigestion and inflammation new oats should at first form only a part of the grain ration, being mixed with old oats and possibly a little bran and the percentage of the new grain gradually increased until the horses are on full feed. Sudden changes from old to new grain are especially dangerous with the horse and particularly with the horse at heavy work and on a heavy concentration ration. There is, of course, a difference due to the time of threshing. Grain which remains in stack or mow for several weeks and thus becomes dry and cured is not so dangerous as that threshed directly from the field or immediately after harvesting.

As a rule heavy feeding of grain is not practiced with cattle and sheep on pasture. Where such is the case, however, changing from old to new grain should be done with care and the substitution should be, if possible, gradual. If the ration must, of necessity, be composed entirely of newly-threshed grain it should at first be comparatively light and increased very gradually.

Hogs usually handle newly-threshed grain without much trouble, although if on very heavy rations when finishing for market a little care should be taken that they be not thrown off their feed. Newly-threshed grain is difficult to grind fine and is not easily stored and large quantities of the ground grain may not be stored in bulk as heating and mustiness will result in lowering the feeding value of the grain by rendering it unpalatable and less digestible. Musty grain is more dangerous than clean, new grain.—Prof. W. Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Get Corn Binder in Shape.

To handle the corn crop expeditiously, economically, and successfully some kind of a corn harvester is an absolute necessity, and it must be in good working order. Various cheap machines have been tried and found wanting, but the corn binder has become a permanent fixture on a large number of farms in this province.

There are several kinds of corn binders on the market, and while each kind may have its special merit as to the arrangement of its essential parts, trouble may arise if these parts are not properly cleaned, oiled and kept in alignment.

The advancing part of the corn binder consists of two diverging jaws which may be raised or lowered by an arrangement of levers. Attached to each jaw are two or three traveling chains, furnished with fingers. Their function is to convey the stalks to the binding deck in an upright position as the machine advances. The chains should not be too loose or they will ride the teeth of the sprocket and slip down the teeth. Machines having packers,—to prevent ears being knocked off by jamming the stalks behind the needle; see to it that the packers yield slightly while the bundle is being tied. Too many bundles crowding the carrier will interfere with the binding attachment properly freeing itself. The knotted and the needle cannot do their work efficiently when covered with rust. Polish them with fine emery cloth. If the knife of the knotted is dull sharpen it or it will cause trouble by pulling the twine from the hook before the knot is made. As it requires considerable power to cut the sappy stubble, and not tear it up by the roots, the knife should be thoroughly keen, otherwise it will clog with grass and weeds. The stubble-cutter should also be kept in good condition. It is a useful device, and when rightly sharpened and adjusted does not add very much to the draft.
Do not depend on a superficial examination of the machine to acquaint yourself if it needs repairs, because if you do, you will surely miss some small, but vital part needing attention, if not replacing. If these break during the busy season they will cause greater breakages and serious loss.

Clean the machine thoroughly with benzine, gasoline or kerosene. Go over every part of the machine, and while doing this you will locate loose bolts and worn or broken parts. Oil-holes and wells should be cleaned out, and new waste, if required, put into the wells. Refill the grease cups; in short, renew and repair anything and everything that requires attention. Prof. John Evans, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Tea With the Prince.

If the London despatch intimating that the Prince of Wales is likely to marry into a ducal family is correct many a man in the trenches, where the young prince is so popular, will feel an almost personal interest. Evidence of the democratic spirit of the Prince of Wales are always coming to light. That he does go among the men in the trenches and talk to them as a comrade who can understand and sympathize is not merely talk, but actual fact. The other day a mother whose oldest son is in France and whose daughter is in Toronto, had a letter from her boy, in which he thanked her for the cake she had sent. "You will be glad to know, mother," ran the letter, "that the cake you sent me was enjoyed by the Prince of Wales. He blew into the dugout the other day just after it had arrived, and I had left the cake in the box. "That cake looks good," he remarked, "so I cut him off a piece, and the orderly made him at all, he is one of the nicest fellows I have met over here."

Try Potato Bread

Every household where homemade bread is baked can save wheat flour by an increased use of potatoes in the bread and still have a most appetizing loaf. Save the left-over potatoes from noon dinner, including the water in which they were boiled, unless it happens that you have boiled them with the jackets on. In this case it is better to use fresh water. Mash the potatoes thoroughly while they are still warm and freshly cooked, add a small quantity of luke-warm water in which the yeast has been dissolved with the required amount of salt and set aside until next morning, then mix into a stiff dough in the ordinary way. Set aside again to prove, and when light knead down once, then let rise until light and mold into loaves. Put into the pans. Let the loaves rise again until light. Bake in a moderate oven.

You can use potatoes up to 50 per cent of the total amount of dough required but when a large proportion of potatoes is used the dough must be very much stiffer accordingly.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

Toronto has been billed for the damage done to the Greek restaurants and for one butcher store wrecked in the street disturbance on the night of Aug. 2. The total bill is for $44,899.23, but this does not include in some instances the daily business loss sustained through the place being closed following the attack.

Some of the barley fields of the province this year will yield 65 bushels to the acre according to the weekly report of the Ontario department of agriculture. The best average return for one county in Ontario last year was less than 40 bushels. The average for the whole province in the banner year of 1915 was only 36 bushels.

Use Millar's Worm Powders and the battle against worms is won. These powders correct the morbid conditions of stomach which nourish worms, and these destructive parasites cannot exist after they come in contact with the medicine. The worms are digested by the powders and are speedily evacuated with other refuse from the bowels. Soundness is imparted to the organs and the health of the child steadily improves.

WHILE AT WAR

Women Suffer at Home

Toronto, Ont.—"I consider Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription the very best of women's tonics. I suffered a severe nervous breakdown. I could not sleep, was weak and tired all the time. I took the 'Prescription' and just a few bottles completely built me up and relieved me of my nervous condition. It is a good medicine and I am glad to recommend it.—Mrs. ALYNN SHEPPARD, 259 Seaton St., Niagara Falls, Ont.—"I can safely say that 'Favorite Prescription' did me a lot of good. I at one time developed woman's trouble; my nerves were completely shattered, and I became weak. I had severe backache and pains in my side, extending down into my limbs. I doctored, but did not get relieved of my ailment and was down and out when I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it so completely cured me and restored me to health and strength that I was able to do all my own work and others besides. I do recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to weak and ailing women; they cannot get a better medicine."—Mrs. JOHN LOCKHART, 29 Terrace Ave.

Favorite Prescription is an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nerve and a positive remedy for the chronic weaknesses peculiar to women.

This old prescription of Dr. Pierce's is extracted from roots and herbs by means of pure glycerine and is a temperance remedy of 50 years' good standing. Send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. V. M. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or Bridgeburg, Ont.

CANADA'S PROSPERITY RESTS ON THE FLEET

Without the Humble Merchantman the Nation Would Face Disaster.

Since war was declared, Canada has witnessed a period of financial prosperity such as probably has never occurred in the history of the country. Wheat is high, pork and beef command top prices and all the food produced is sold at a figure that would have been undreamed of a decade ago. From a period that verged on a financial depression, in a short space of four years the Nation has reached the height of prosperity. The reason of this may be roughly given as the War, which is in itself conducive to high prices. But it must be remembered that unless our commodities could be transported they would be a drug on the market. The reason that Canada to-day enjoys her prosperity is that, 300,000 men of the Merchant Marine are braving the perils of every destructive device known to modern maritime warfare, to carry Canada's goods to overseas markets. Fifteen thousand of them have already perished and they have left behind sorrowing families. As members of an unofficial service no pension is granted the dependants of merchant sailors. Yet they gave their lives for the Empire. What will the Empire give for them? "Sailors' Week" is being held from September 1st to 7th to raise money to relieve the distress of their families. Every dollar that is collected will be used by the Navy League of Canada in helping these unfortunate women and children. Ontario's objective is $1,000,000. Ontario has never yet failed. Give generously! Let your motto be "They shall not want!"

Stung The Crowd

A Walkertonian while standing at a bar in Kitchener the other day having a soft drink saw two strangers enter and get into a conversation that once while a number of thirsty souls, with the result that the pair drew a flask of whiskey apiece off their hip and poured a portion into the soft stuff that the gang were lapping up. The new kick in the moisture tickled the appetites and awakened a keen desire for further serving. Seeing they had the crowd with them, the strangers opened up a grip and did the land office business selling flasks at $2.50 each to the aggregation, the hotel-keeper himself investing in four bottles of the elixir for future use. After the pair had departed, the thirsty ones started to pull the corks and sample their purchase. Preparing their throats for the real poison they raised the bottle aloft and let the contents gurgle down, but what was their dismay on discovering that instead of Hiram Walker's preparation or Joe Seagram's race horse brand they detected merely the flavor of Salada-Ceylon. In other words they had been duped into buying cold tea for whiskey, and had paid $2.50 a bottle for what the servant girls usually throw into the garbage pail after meal time. As they were breaking the statutes themselves, the victims were not licensed to squeal, and but for the Walkertonian peeping the cleanup would never have got out.

Hon. Gideon Robertson

(Ottawa Journal)

Events of the past few days have amply shown that Sir Robert Borden committed no error when he incorporated into Union Government the energy, common sense, and clear headed resourcefulness of Hon. Gideon Robertson. At a time when industrial unrest has unfortunately reached a point where the economic structure of the nation, and with it our war effort, is being endangered Mr. Robertson is displaying a quality of service that is invaluable. The freshness of his outlook, the absolute integrity of his character, and the confidence reposed in him by labor and capital alike are proving of immeasurable assistance to the government, and, what is of more vital importance, saving the country from paralyzing strikes at a time when the need of united effort in all branches of national endeavor is vital.

Harold Kirkpatrick, 10-year-old son of John Kirkpatrick, 10th line west, Enniskillen, was severely injured when he fell from a beam in the barn, a distance of 15 feet. He was considerably injured about the head and face and received quite a shaking up.

THE WESTERN FAIR

London's Sept. 6th to 14th

The buildings at London's Exhibition this year will be exceptionally good. Several new firms are placing Exhibits. The Government are placing Exhibits of Wool and Eggs, also a general Exhibit in the Agricultural Building and a special Exhibit pertaining to Domestic Science work and Conservation of Food, which will also be in the Agricultural Building. A loan of fine pictures has been secured from the National Art Gallery, Ottawa, which will add very materially to the Art Exhibit. For the Dairy Department there will be a fine Exhibit of Cheese and Butter as usual. For the Machinery Department everything new will be exhibited, from the large tractor and threshing outfit to the smallest bit of machinery in use. The Process Building will be filled with a Pure Food Show. There will be a large entry of Live Stock as the Management have added $1,500.00 to what was already a very liberal Prize List. A large addition has been built to the Sheep pens and a suitable place for judging the Sheep has been provided. Everything considered, this should be the best Exhibition ever held in London. All information will be promptly given on application to the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, London, Ont.

Peter McArthur On The Apple Crop

I have never heard of the drought causing the apples to fall off, but if that is not what is causing them to fall just now. I should like to know what it is. There have been no high winds during the past week, but the ground under the apple trees is covered with apples that are almost fully grown. The Ben Davises seem to be suffering the worst, but the Spys and Baldwins are also affected. As the apples are unusually clean this season, free from scab and worms, I was hoping for a good yield, but if they drop off before maturity the crop may not amount to much. Before this trouble began our Kings had the best load I have ever seen on them but they are thinning out rapidly. Still, there may not be much of a market for apples this year and if we get rain the apples that remain on the trees will be bigger and better. Although it looks like a loss just now, it may not prove to be so much of a loss in the end.

Some Mammoth Corn

DUART, Aug. 23.—The Raverast corn, a Southern production, of which there is a very large acreage throughout the township, is becoming a cause of wonderment to the growers. The average height of the stalks is fully ten feet and still growing. The butt of the stalk is also of mammoth size, being by actual measurement a good six inches around. As a rule each stalk is now bearing two ears, the lowest of which is on the level with a man's head and the other much higher. There is much speculation as to how high stalks will be when fully grown, as to whether the ears will mature before snow flies, and as to how it is to be cut and stooked.

EVERY WOMAN'S RIGHT

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active, happy life, yet nine out of every ten suffer years of agony, usually from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side pale thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs of headaches, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. All weak suffering women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with a new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new rich, red, blood is supplied in abundance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which reaches every organ, and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found a prompt cure when suffering from anaemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, rheumatism, general weakness, and these ailments from which women alone suffer. There is no part of this broad Dominion in which you will not find some former sufferer who has regained health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and this is the reason why these pills have been a favorite household remedy for more than a generation. If you are ailing and will give the pills a fair trial you will find renewed health and happiness in their use. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canning Don'ts

Don't start canning until you have the right appliances.
Don't use old screw tops. Buy new ones.
Don't use old rubbers. New ones are cheaper than allowing fruit to spoil.
Don't use two quart jars. Use quart size. Pint size is best for a family of not over five members.
Don't neglect cleanliness—clean persons, clean room, clean apparatus, clean work. Cleanliness counts fifty per cent.
Don't plan to can more than three to six jars of fruit or vegetables the first day. Speed up gradually.
Don't assume that the water surrounding the jars will keep boiling without attention to fuel. The right temperature must be maintained for success.
Don't mistake simmering water for boiling water. "It was boiling just a minute ago", doesn't meet the requirement of boiling water at the moment of using.
