PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

GENTLEMEN :

I have much pleasure in submitting the Twelfth Annual Report of the Fredericton Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb.

Of all the numerous public works that are undertaken and established for the benefit of man, there is none that may be looked upon with greater satisfaction than those charitable and educational Institutions which have for their object the elevation and enlightenment of the unfortunate classes of our population.

The Fredericton Institution, for the education of the Deaf and Dumb of this Province, was established in 1882, amid numerous difficulties and with little prospect of overcoming the opposition from various quarters which beset the inception of the work on all sides, but having a strong faith in the righteousness of our cause and fully believing in the needs of our Province for such an Institution, we pressed forward to the goal which lay before us, which was to establish the Institution on such a firm and solid basis, as would last for all time and be of benefit to the deaf mute children of this and future generations.

During the past twelve years the work has steadily progressed, enlarging its sphere and circle of friends year by year, overcoming every obstacle and discouragement and attaining that prosperity in which we see the Institution to-day.

In congratulating you, Gentlemen of the Committee and all friends of the Institution on the success which has attended the work we looked forward to the attainment of better results, a greater growth and a more complete realization of our aims.

We desire to see this Institution abreast with the times in every respect and so to extend the work that all uneducated deaf mute children throughout the Province may come within its sheltering walls and receive those educational benefits which shall fit them for and enable them to make their way in life.

While thankful for what has been done, and for the number of those who, having left the Institution to face the world and its trials, have become happy and useful citizens, earning their livelihood in an honorable and creditable manner, we would appeal to our Legislature for a compulsory law to ensure the attendance of children and for increased means to carry out those improvements and extensions which are necessary to make the Institution what it should be, and enable it to do all the good it aims to accomplish.

The following has been the attendance :

ATTENDANCE.

Two boys, Melbourne D'Orsay of Memramcook, and Stephen Steeves of Petitcodiac, and one girl, Ellinor Logan, of St. John left at the close of the school session in July last.

One boy, Earle McLeod of Baie Verte, was admitted for a short time and every means tried to awaken his faculties, but it was found impossible to do anything with him as his mind was too weak to receive impressions.

Four new boys, Henry Robinson of Hopewell, Edward Allen of Cape Tormentine, Edward Trenholm of Port Elgin, Alphonsus Hache of Bathurst, and one new girl, Edna Isabel McKenzie of Elgin, have been admitted.

HEALTH.

It is a pleasure and satisfaction to be able to report a clean bill of health for the past year. The general health of the whole establishment has left nothing to be desired, not a single case of sickness having occurred during that period. Such immunity from disease and freedom from the "ills that flesh is heir to" is a cause for deep thankfulness and we freely render to the Giver of every good and perfect gift our hearty thanks for the exceptionally good health of the children committed to our charge.

CHANGES.

The services of Mr. S. Sheldon Pride, of the Normal school, have been secured as collector and assistant in the general work of the Institution. Mr. Pride comes to us, warmly recommended and will no doubt prove an efficient and valuable officer.

Miss Annie Crozier of Welsford, Queen's Co., has been appointed as supervisor of the girls. Miss Crozier being an educated deaf mute, is familiar with the sign language and methods of teaching and has already endeared herself to the pupils in her charge. She entered on her duties in October last.

GRAMMATICAL PRINCIPLES.

The task which faces the teacher of the deaf is how to impart a knowledge of written and spoken language. Hearing and speaking children have a fluent mastery of language before they enter school and on this foundation their education is built. In the case of our pupils their teacher has to start with a perfect blank before him and the problem is how to open up a means of communication with his class and impart those principles of grammatical language which shall form the nucleus of their education.

A brief description of the method employed will not be out of place here.

It is not a royal road to learning by any means, and while far from perfect in its results it illustrates the patient step by step process which every teacher of the deaf must be content to adopt who conscientiously desires to do the best he can for his class. Make haste slowly is a motto which continually appeals to him in his work and the results justify its application.

After the names of some familiar objects are mastered by means of the finger alphabet, sentences expressing a complete thought are given and in the simplest form possible, such as, John walks. The action expressed by this sentence is performed before the pupils at the same time so that the language may confer a vivid and perfect idea.

The sentence is written in the form of a diagram and the question asked with the face, who walks? What does John do? and by constant practice the essentials of a complete thought, a noun and predicate are soon understood and the principle of correct sentence building mastered. A transitive verb with its subject and object is then given and also illustrated by actions, as, John drinks water.

Words modifying the nouns are then taken up, then the personal pronouns, and when these are fully mastered, the indirect object, using the pupils as actors to illustrate the meaning, as, John gives cake to James. The negative form of the verb is then introduced and the principles gone over are then reviewed. Adverbs and adverbial phrases follow, as, John sits on a chair, William stands on the platform, Henry hides behind the door. The interrogative form of the verb may now be given beginning with the simplest questions. Questions about themselves, their daily life, in fact, about anything or anybody that will interest them.

The different tenses of the verb, present, past and future giving illustrative sentences from facts known to the class may follow, and if grasped and understood other lessons proceeding on the lines indicated are taken up, gradually introducing more difficult forms until by constant practice and exercise in these various modes of expression a fair knowledge of the English language is obtained.

When we consider the work that has to be done, the short time we have our pupils under instruction and the amount they earn in the few years they are permitted to be with us, we feel discouraged on the one hand that so much is mastered and regret on the other that some of our children are taken away and put to work before their school course is completed. In justice to the teacher and his pupils the course of instruction should not be less than eight or ten years, and parents should see that their children have the full advantages of the Institution which was established for their especial benefit.

If our pupils were in constant attendance for the period named many of the blunders, inaccuracy of writing and violations of grammatical principles into which they have fallen, would be eradicated and amended and the teacher would reap not only the credit, but the self satisfaction which is of greater moment, of having turned out pupils who could hold their own in the busy world around them and amongst those possessed of all their faculties.

ARTICULATION AND LIP READING.

It having been our desire to give more attention to the subject of articulation than we have hitherto been able to do, my eldest daughter, Miss Woodbridge, consented to take a special course of training, that her services might be made available for this purpose.

The Clarke Institution at Northampton, Massachusetts, holding the enviable position of being the best school on this continent in this special department, arrangements were made with Miss Yale, the superintendent, for the reception of Miss Woodbridge for a twelve months course of training in this subject.

On her return all the pupils of the Institution will be placed under her care, a few at a time, and those who show any aptitude for speech, and are likely to derive benefit from this method of teaching will be formed into a class by themselves.

We feel that it is our bounden duty to do everything that lies in our power for these children in the way of teaching, to restore them as far as possible to society and enable them by all the means available to fill with credit to themselves and advantage to their native Province those positions their indus-

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

While physical development is not the aim of our education, its importance cannot be overestimated as it exercises a powerful influence upon the results of our real work. Life seems brighter and school work better when in a vigorous state of health, and everything that can be done to promote a good physical condition of our pupils should be done. A sound mind within a sound body being the best condition for true mental development.

To obtain the most satisfactory results a system of gymnastic exercises is needed. A well equipped gymnasium would be a boon to our pupils and especially in wet and unsuitable weather when confinement to the house becomes exceedingly irksome to them. Some of the children coming to us carry traces of the disease which has deprived them of the faculty of hearing and need careful attention and plenty of outdoor exercise. Strange to say that some are averse from playing and don't even know how to play. It thus becomes part of their education to teach them how to find pleasure in play and take that exercise which is of such importance not only to their physical well-being but to their future advancement in their school studies. This disinclination to play is probably due to the neglect of the parents who have allowed them to mope in the house day after day and the tendency to disease is thus intensified. To remedy this, a rational system of exercise would be of the greatest advantage to them. While improving the general health it would be a valuable aid in cultivating habits of attention, give them a firm, manly step, an erect carriage and improve their walking, which on the part of deaf mutes who have never been trained is usually very defective.

It is hoped that means will shortly be forthcoming whereby we can confer this advantage upon our pupils by the erection of a suitable building for a gymnasium which could be used for drill purposes when needed.

A physical, intellectual and industrial training should form a sufficient foundation for a successful business career.

THE BARN DESTROYED.

The large barn of the Institution which was erected at a cost of upwards of $700, was destroyed by fire in September last. It contained the greater portion of the season's crop of hay, which had been placed there for the winter's use. The stock was in the barn at the time of the fire and some farm implements. The cows and one of the horses were soon released, the other, a valuable mare, in a box stall in close proximity to where the fire was raging could not be unfastened. At the last moment when the the partition was burning through, it fortunately broke its halter and rushed out of its own accord. Through the kind assistance of Mr. John Morrison and other neighbors the fire was prevented from spreading to the woodshed, carriage-houses and other buildings but a few yards away. The barn with its contents was a total loss.

Having now no place for the stock, and Winter rapidly coming on, it became necessary to proceed at once with the erection of another barn. The contract was given to Mr. Asa Nason, of New Maryland, who hewed the frame upon the place, and erected a good substantial barn upon a site to the right of the main building and further away than the one destroyed. Mr. Nason used every effort to have it finished before the cold weather came and in the short space of three weeks it was ready for occupation.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING.

In our reports from time to time we have referred to the advantages which our pupils would derive from technical instruction in some of the trades that would be most useful to the deaf and which would be likely to be followed up by them after they leave school. It was suggested that a workshop be erected for this purpose and that the services of skilled artizans from the city be employed to give the requisite training, school hours being so arranged as to meet this extra call upon our time..

To carry out this idea in the way contemplated, funds beyond the usual receipts of the Institution were needed, and as none have become available, the suggestion has been deferred to a more fitting opportunity. It is hoped, however, that in the near future means will be placed at our disposal for this and other improvements which have been under consideration for some time but have not been proceeded with on account of the lack of funds.

THE MANUAL ALPHABET IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A knowledge of the manual alphabet among hearing and speaking people would be of considerable advantage to our pupils after they leave school. It would be an easy means of communication, suitable for all times and places, and much more convenient than using a writing pad. When meeting people on the streets and public places, in the transaction of business and in the cultivation of social relations, the irksomeness of writing down all you wish to say is obviated by use of the Manual alphabet.

To secure a more extended knowledge and use of the manual alphabet among hearing people, it would be an excellent plan to have it inserted when new Readers are provided for the public schools of the Province. The Manual alphabet can be learned in a few hours, and very little practice will enable one to use it with dexterity. Its use among young people increases the suppleness of the fingers, quickens the perceptions and improves the spelling considerably.

It is absolutely necessary to spell correctly when communicating with deaf mutes. If a letter comes to one of them addressed "Def and Dum Skool," they will in all probability ask what it means as they have not met with those words before.

"I am glad to here that you are well," "we all jine in love to you," and all such faulty spelling is a puzzle to our pupils and a great surprise when explained, as they consider that people with all their faculties should know how to spell properly.

One of our labourers when taking his dinner which had been sent to the workshop to him, wrote to the boy on a piece of board, "Why dont you get better bred? The boy asked me if the man thought he was ill mannered? I explained that he probably wanted newer Lread. The boy replied. Then why didn't he say so?

It should be remembered while conversing with deaf mutes, that the pronunciation of words is no guide to them and they are not expected to know the meaning of words that are spelled inaccurately.

We trust that the advantages indicated will lead to the adoption of the above suggestion and that a more general acquaintance with the Manual alphabet will prevail among the young people of our public schools.

THE WORK IN OTHER LANDS.

The experience of others engaged in the same work often forms a valuable means of reference and sometimes a powerful stimulus to ourselves in our own sphere of labor.

The teaching of the deaf has now extended to all civilized countries, but in Europe and America the greatest thought, the most earnest effort and the most enlightened methods have been employed. Teachers of exceptional ability have devoted themselves to the work. Nothing has seemed too hard for them. Children who have been both blind and deaf, the most difficult of all cases for instruction, have taxed the patience and ingenuity of these indefatigable workers for years, yet their labors have been crowned with success, and light has been substituted for darkness. We rejoice in this manifestation of perseverance, this patient determination to break down the barriers between ignorance and knowledge, and we rejoice at the culmination of their efforts resulting in the restoration of these darkened minds to the light of day. While the work of teaching is arduous, trying and exhaustive to one's energy, these examples inciting our admiration for what others are doing around us, should act as an incentive for renewed effort, greater patience and a determination to use our best abilities in the attainment of the same reward.

FRANCE.

The work of instructing the deaf was inaugurated in Paris by the Abbe de l' Epee in 1760. France has now seventy Schools and Institutions for this purpose. Out of 4,000 children of suitable age 3,700 are being taught with a corps of 400 teachers. An infant school has been established at Bordeaux and is succeeding fairly well.

GERMANY.

During the past seventy years the education of the deaf has made rapid strides in Germany. She has at present ninety-five Schools and Institutions. Of these, forty-eight are day schools. The total number of pupils is 6,400, with a corps of 650 teachers, of which number 64 are ladies.

Day schools prevail in Northern Germany while boarding schools are in the majority in Southern and Western Germany, the reason being that Northern Germany is Protestant while Southern and Western Germany is Catholic.

A bitter contest has been waged in Germany for several years in regard to the Oral and Sign language methods. It is now being discussed with more calmness and impartiality and good results are likely to ensue.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The year 1893 is conspicuous as a landmark in the history of deaf mute education in Great Britain. Previous to this date the care of the deaf was left entirely to private effort and benevolence. An act of Parliament was passed which came into force on the 1st of January, 1894, making legislative provision for the education of deaf and blind children. There are nearly 30,000 deaf and dumb in England and Wales.

NORWAY.

Norway has three schools, one at Christiania, one at Trondhjem and one at Bergen. The number of deaf children is estimated at 480.

ITALY.

Italy has fifty Institutions, in forty-five of which the instruction is solely by the oral method. The other five use the sign language.

AUSTRALIA.

The new South Wales Institution has 61 deaf pupils and 15 blind pupils in attendance.

The Victoria Deaf and Dumb Institution has 58 pupils.

The South Australia Institution has 40 deaf pupils and 12 blind.

Queensland has 30 deaf pupils and 9 blind.

This brief review of the work in the countries named, shows that the instruction of the deaf is in active operation and that they are fully alive to its importance. To guard against the indifference and neglect of parents, four countries, Great Britain, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, passed a compulsory act to compel the attendance of deaf children at the Institutions which had been provided by the respective Governments for their benefit.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

The sincere acknowledgements of the Institution are tendered to our Local Legislature for the aid which has been extended to the work for the past twelve years. The grant of $500 which was made at the last session of the House was much needed and enabled us to clear off some of our most pressing claims. The debt of $4000 which was incurred in the completion of the building, sewerage, waterworks, etc., still remains unpaid. As the time for the return of the loan will shortly be up we would respectfully suggest that measures be adopted at the forthcoming session to relieve the Institution of this indebtedness. The payment of the interest on this amount is felt to be an incumbrance and an unnecessary drain upon the limited resources at our disposal.

Emulsion, Pectoral, Beef, Iron & Wine, Mineral Water, etc.

The Christmas and New Year's holidays were again spent at the Institution. None of our pupils desired to go home, all preferring to spend this festive season with us. Everything was done to make them happy and we may truly say that we know of no family of children who had a more enjoyable time. Christmas had been eagerly looked forward to by our boys and girls with many fond anticipations which we are glad to say were in most cases fully realized.

The large hall and the children's dining room were decorated with festoons of evergreens, mottos and paper flowers, the result being very pleasing and creditable to their taste. Boxes and parcels of all shapes and sizes began to arrive several days before. The Christmas tree occupied the place of honor and being loaded with toys and useful articles of all kinds it soon became the centre of attraction. Early on Christmas morning in fact in the "wee sma' hours" eager search was made to see if Santa Claus had really come. The sight of their stockings removed all doubt. He had not forgotten them. The usual dinner of turkeys, plum pudding and other Christmas cheer followed and in the evening the grand distribution took place. Those who derive pleasure from the sight of children's spontaneous mirth and enjoyment should have been present on this occasion. Even Scrooge himself would have carried away with him a pleasant memory of children's happiness.

An address from the Principal, who spoke of the blessings which they enjoyed in their educational privileges, in their fine building and pleasant surroundings in their school life, robust health and possession of numerous friends, ended the happy Christmas day of 1894.

Our acknowledgements are due to the following friends who kindly sent Christmas presents: E. H. Wilmot Esq., Fredericton, $10.00; Messrs. W. H. Thorne, St. John, parcel of toys, pocket knives, etc.; J. S. Armstrong & Bro., St. John, box of biscuits and box of raisins; S. L. silent ch icton, four boxes of picture puzzles ; the Misses Perley, Fredericton, fruit and confectionery ; and Mrs. S. J. King, St. John, Christmas cards.

New Year's day was an enjoyable one in many respects and the pleasure was enhanced by a cheering visit from Mr. G. T. Whelpley, Miss Whelpley, Prof. and Mrs. Downing. The pupils who were all looking well were drawn up in a line to receive them and manifested their welcome by clapping of hands and shouting. The children were afterwards addressed in a genial manner and wishes for a happy New Year exchanged on all sides. Numerous parcels of grapes, oranges and confectionery, which our kind visitors brought, gladdened the hearts of our young folks and formed a pleasing memento of their visit.

In concluding this brief report we would tender our sincere acknowledgements to all who have aided the work in the past and while glancing back with satisfaction at what has been accomplished, we look forward to the future of this Institution with assured confidence, trusting that with God's blessing resting upon it, means will be forthcoming for all needed improvements and extensions, and such results follow as will be for the best interests of those for whom we work, viz: the silent children of this Province.

MEDICAL REPORT.

FREDERICTON, N. B.,
January, 25th, 1895.

*To the Chairmon and Directors of the Deaf and Dumb
Institution :*

GENTLEMEN :

The remarkable exemption from serious sickness among the pupils of this institution during the past year necessitates only a brief report from me as attending physician.

The health of both officers and pupils during this period was all that could be desired, and beyond the usual coughs and colds no serious ailment occurred requiring my attendance.

This satisfactory showing is in a large measure due to the watchful care and attention which the pupils receive from the Superintendent and Matron, and the excellent sanitary conditions of the Institution and its surroundings.

I have the honor to be,
Gentlemen,

Yours most respectfully,

R. McLEARN, M. D.
