WHY? Why does Lieut. Gov. Wood retain as one of his advisers a gentleman who is not a member of the legislature, and therefore not responsible to the people? Have we abandoned the principles of responsible government?

STILL BETTER NEWS. The Germans realize that they have much to fear from the British on the western front, and therefore the most men and the heaviest guns are placed in front of the British lines. They know that the British have not been idle during the period of nearly two years since the war began, but that men and munitions have been gathered for a great drive that must sooner or later be met and resisted.

British and French, however, are co-operating with such success that it makes no difference where the German line is broken. The British advance is slower, but it is sure, and last night's cables were of a most encouraging nature. German counter-attacks are beaten back, and the initiative is with the Allies.

The Matin, of Paris, estimates that the Austrians and Germans have lost half a million men in the last month. This may be an exaggeration, but the losses have certainly been enormous, for nearly a quarter of a million have been taken prisoners, and the killed and wounded would figure up another very large total.

The success of the Russians in the east continues. The fall of Lemberg seems only a matter of days, while at no point on the whole eastern front has the enemy been able to make a successful counter-offensive. Last night's reports told of the capture of a number of minor positions by the Russians, with a considerable number of prisoners and machine guns.

PROVINCIAL POLITICS. Charlotte county friends of good government have taken the first step in organization for the contest, whenever it comes, that is to place better men in control of the affairs of this province. This province has made such an unenviable record in recent years, in the matter of provincial administration, that nothing short of a revolution and return to honest and business-like methods can restore its good name. It is not a question of turning one party out and putting another party in, but of throwing partisanship to the winds and striking a blow for clean government. It must be understood that when a new government comes into power it is going to send the grafters and self-seekers and dishonest officials about their business, and treat the administration of provincial affairs as a business proposition.

A royal welcome must be given Lt. Col. McAvity on his return to St. John. It is exceptional enough to make it proper to observe that this is another fine day.

The Mexican government has climbed down, and it is now believed there will be no war with the United States—for the present. The Irish question appears once more to be approaching a solution. The news of a satisfactory settlement will be welcomed.

With an increase of nearly 100 per cent in the value of building permits for the first half of the year it is evident that St. John is not pinched by the war.

The Times hears that there has been some criticism of the members of the Young Women's Patriotic Association on the ground that they are taking men's jobs. This newspaper is ready to print the photograph of any man who wishes publicly to offer that criticism.

Rev. G. A. Kuhring adds an eloquent tribute to the men of the 26th and the 6th C. M. R. "The soil of France is consecrated," he says, "by the blood and endeavor of such men." Just before the 6th C. M. R. left Valcartier, while the men were standing at ease awaiting the word to march to the train, Capt. Kuhring turned to a member of the staff of this paper, standing at his side, and said with deep feeling that these men were the very blood and sinew of the province, worthy of all honor and equal to any task.

ENGLISH LASSIES WORKING IN FOUNDRY

Mrs. and Miss Canada, how would you like this kind of a job? These Lancashire girls are operating a traveling crane, in a huge foundry, lifting amid the smoke and steam of the foundry, huge blocks of metal, weighing many tons, and racing with it from corner to corner of the big foundry, where it is required. Sometimes the metal is red hot. The girls sit in a carriage attached to the machinery, and travel about with their load, thirty feet above the floor.

CHARLOTTE OPPOSITION MEETING

St. Stephen, July 5.—There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of prominent supporters of the opposition party of the county of Charlotte here this afternoon.
W. E. Foster, chairman of the leadership committee, F. B. Carvell, M.P., and Organizer E. S. Carter were in attendance. The meeting was of a businesslike character, organization was resolved upon and B. M. Hill was appointed county organizer. An advisory committee was appointed to act with Mr. Hill who will begin at once to have parish committees appointed and delegates selected to attend a county convention at a date which will be convenient to the business interests of the electors.
There were encouraging reports from all parts of the county and the feeling is general that the electors will insist upon better government when the time comes.

Is It Borden Or Is It Hughes?

(Toronto Globe.)
When it was agreed among Canadians generally that a truce be made and kept between the political parties, the purpose was to promote not weakness, but strength, in the government of the country during the times of war. For nearly two years the war has gone on, increasing in its fierceness at the battle-fronts, and steadily raising new problems at home. In some respects the times are more critical now than at any point in the past, and the problems still coming up for solution are in some ways more perplexing than any that have been solved. And yet, in the very face of these problems—problems of recruiting, of industrial organization, of agricultural co-operation, of reconstruction to the ends of efficiency and power in the war—in the very face of all these serious and pressing problems, the government of Canada displays such weakness and such incompetence that the men and the newspapers standing in the front ranks of the government's own party have become alarmed for the country's interests, and are making loud and insistent protest.
As with one voice, from all sides and from all sections, protest is made against the evident dominance of the government by the "swashbuckling" minister of militia. "Swashbuckling" is the epithet Conservatives themselves apply to the Hon. Sir Sam Hughes. And they demand, not in private conversation alone, but sometimes with great plainness of language in serious public discussion, his resignation as minister. They are not content with calling him a "chronic egotist," and the victim of hallucinations that in a minister of militia are dangerous to the state. They point with damning directness to his defence and justification of the notorious Wesley Allison.
But the criticism and the protest go farther than the minister of militia, very much farther. They are lodged plainly and with determined intent against the prime minister himself. The trouble is Premier Borden is not master of his situation. There is no use blinking the real question. Although the conservative leaders, in parliament, in the press, and throughout the party, do not blink it, only yesterday a voice from Ottawa, speaking through the Toronto World with an accent of intelligent authority, as "a tried supporter of the administration" vigorously protested.
One can hear just such protests from leading Conservatives in Toronto any day. It is outspoken, and it is so just and so much needed, that the Globe cannot be accused of breaking the truth or of raising party issues in making reference to it. It is not a party question. It is a national question, a national ques-

WHEN THE SOLDIER IS HIT

The Daily Routine at an Advanced Dressing Station on the Western Front

There was a town in France (for it is now ruined by shell fire) which in its hey-day, housed some ten thousand inhabitants; now it houses, in its cellars, soldiers.

Some houses at one end of the town are more or less intact, and one of these houses was made our advanced dressing station. By being intact is meant that such a house has not sustained a direct hit by a shell, but has been struck by shell splinters or, perhaps only the windows smashed by shell concussion.

Our reasons for selecting a building at one end of the town to be used as a dressing station were these, viz.—That when the Boches shelled the town, as they did at least once a day, most of the shells passed over the station and fell about the centre of the town, and secondly we were nearest the trenches at this point, the distance from them being just over a mile.

For the benefit of those readers who may not know what the working of an advanced dressing station means, let me explain that it is run by a field ambulance in the following way:

Personal and Methods Usually the personnel consists of two medical officers and about fifty men, (N. C. O's included) with surgical and medical equipment. I say usually two medical officers for sometimes only one officer and perhaps thirty men can be spared. I have worked an advanced dressing station alone but the drawback to that is that it keeps the one officer constantly at his post with little chance of relaxation.

The headquarters of the ambulance, where there is a main dressing station, are usually about 6 or 7 miles from the advanced dressing station. To this former station we send our cases by motor ambulance to be kept there if slight, or sent on at once by the casualty clearing station if urgent. The casualty clearing station is usually four or five miles beyond the main dressing station.

To rescue them. We find out what battalions we have to relieve of sick and wounded and where their communication trenches begin and end.

Near the beginning of the communication trench, that is to say the end nearer the firing line, and usually near the regimental aid post we have a dug-out where a squad of our men live, ready to take over a case from the regimental medical officer once he has seen and dressed it.

As soon as the case is handed over to our squad we become responsible for it, bring it—by stretcher of course—down the communication trench to its exit on a road where the stretcher is lifted on to a pneumatic wheel-carrier, and wheeled to the advanced dressing station. These proceedings take probably an hour or so, depending on the length and state of the communication trench.

Having arrived at the dressing station we put the stretcher on to trestles and thoroughly examine the case. Should it be urgent, (head injuries and the like) we put it on a motor ambulance and send it straight through to the casualty clearing station. Otherwise, if not urgent we may rest it if necessary, which it very frequently is, give a hot drink, etc., etc., then send it to our main dressing station.

Two Important Points There are two points to which we always pay special attention, viz. a constant supply of water and secondly cleanliness of the dressing station and of its immediate surroundings. The former is not always easy to get for not only is the coal ration strict, but very poor in quality, amounting usually to what is usually called "slack." Still with care and the aid of a Primus stove we manage to have enough unless very busy, to warm lotions, etc., and to give a wounded or sick man a warm drink.

Part of the Field Ambulance equipment consists of medical and surgical panniers. One of the medical panniers is termed "Field Medical Comfort Pannier," that is to say carries such things as oxo, cocoa, brandy, etc., which enables us to supply men with hot drinks and restoratives as required.

We find that two things the men are most grateful for are first to get off their boots, puttees and socks, which are soaked and caked with mud and their feet wrapped in a blanket and second a drink—it puts new life into them. During the winter months, when comparatively speaking, there is not much doing, we have mostly to deal with sick men. Still at the part of the line where we were we had our daily wounded also and hardly a night passed but one of us was called up either for some urgent sick or wounded case.

Mr. Advertiser, Suppose We Consider This Saint John Market and Its Great Home Paper

You want to increase your business here if a manufacturer—and your sales if a retailer. Are you exerting every legitimate means toward this end? St. John is a city of some 50,000 population, or 12,000 homes. Every week approximately $75,000 is spent for groceries (retail); $35,000 a week for dry goods and sundries; $9,000 a week goes towards keeping the family shod; Little Willie needs at least $5,000 a week to keep him in school clothes and school supplies; and the monthly bill for the rest of the family totals possibly some $15,000. To say nothing of the thousands spent weekly for furniture, hardware, jewelry, drugs, candy, etc.

The total number of families in St. John corresponds to the total city circulation of the Times. In other words, you can reach all these families by talking to them through the one paper. Do you take advantage of this and spread your wares on the common counter with sufficient regularity to influence their consideration of Your Goods, Prices and Service?

How about You, Mr. Manufacturer? Reaching hard after that green-field trade—the distant market? Or are you cultivating to the full the market that lies at your own door—the Local Market?

The circulation figures published below will show how simple it is to cover at one expenditure this field. The net circulation for the period covered is some 14,900—and 93% of this is within the city limits. Note that the street sales alone are more than 10,000. Years ago the old Gazette smashed all local records by printing 7,000 copies in one day—a wonderful achievement for that period. The ordinary day's run of the Times today is more than double that amount!

No city on the continent is more effectively covered by one paper than is St. John by the Times, and our advertising rate is lower per thousand of circulation than any paper in the east. Let's get together, Mr. Local and Mr. National Advertiser and get the maximum of business from this field!

The Times Is a Member of the A.B.C.

Times Circulation for Period of May 29 to June 10

Table with columns: Date, Total Circulation, Street Sales. Data points for dates from May 29 to June 10, showing circulation figures ranging from 13,938 to 14,934.

A Few Words About Cooperation

Unfortunately too many newspapers are satisfied with merely disposing of their white space and feel that their obligation ceases with the selling of the space. In other words they sell SPACE instead of a MARKET.

The Times long ago foresaw that the trend of things was towards CO-OPERATION and that the signing of the contract was in reality the beginning and not the end of the obligation. That to make that space PAY the advertiser was the main thing.

In this connection a free cut service was installed and every assistance possible rendered the merchant in the preparation of his copy. This was the first and bravest step ever made in the history of local space selling in the direction of co-operation. And the gain in advertising volume in The Times during the last few years shows the idea to be a winner.

That the National buyers of space are appreciative of our endeavor to more than go half-way is evidenced by the following excerpts from letters received.

A national advertiser had started a big campaign in the Times when we found that his distribution was faulty. We told him so. He replied: "We believe there is a good supply of X—in St. John now as the wholesalers have their shipment there. We certainly appreciate your action in writing us."

Conditions in a certain staple market were furnished to a Montreal Agent and he writes: "Thanks very much for your information regarding A—in your market. This will be of considerable assistance."

A little out of the ordinary co-operation brought this from an American Agent with Toronto office: "We appreciate the trouble you have taken in the D— orders." And a later one from the same agent in connection with another client: "Thank you very much for your letter which is very helpful and which we appreciate."

What Is This A.B.C.?

The A. B. C.—the Audit Bureau of Circulations—is the one independent and authentic audit of newspaper circulation and is the outcome of the demands of buyers of advertising space that true circulation figures be procurable. Its membership consists of the buyers of space—the National Advertisers, and the Advertising Agents—and the Sellers of space—the publishers of periodicals. Its office is in Chicago and it has a staff of some thirty auditors covering the continent from coast to coast.

It is an organization that in its short life so far has sounded the death knell of circulation falsifiers and has made the small minded juggler of circulation figures either produce evidence or drop from the running.

Membership in the A. B. C. means that the member has submitted to the exacting audit of the organization, has stood the acid test of its rigid examination and that the books of that member are always open to the inspection of all advertisers interested.

The Times, together with The Daily Telegraph, is a member of the A. B. C. and early this year submitted to an audit. And it is significant that The Times is the only Evening paper between Montreal and Halifax, with the exception of Sherbrooke, that is an A. B. C. member.

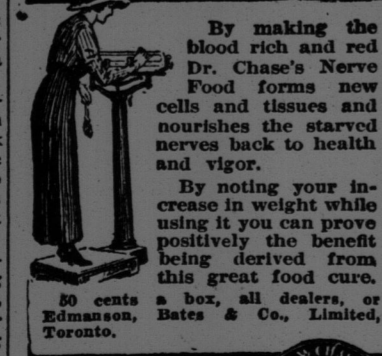

The following unsolicited remarks from careful buyers of advertising is of interest:

The Toronto office of an International Agency writes: "Fine showing in your A. B. C. Report. Fine Showing. More success to you."

From an expert in the Toronto field: "I am mighty glad to know that you have had an A. B. C. audit. This is something that can be passed on to a client with considerable pleasure. Wish all the papers would fall into line."

Here's Hoping He Gets His Wish! A Montreal agent who also publishes a newspaper directory of international use writes in part: "We are very pleased indeed to receive this (A. B. C. Report) and TO NOTE THE VERY COMPLETE CIRCULATION WHICH YOU HAVE IN YOUR DISTRICT."

BEATTY AND HIS HEROES
AFTER JUTLAND FIGHT

Prominent naval officers who fought in the greatest naval battle of the world, to date, attending the memorial services to their comrades who lost their lives in the fight for the supremacy of the North Sea—a fight that was won by Britain, though at a fearful heavy cost. On the left is Rear Admiral Sir David Beatty, who commanded during most of the battle. Admiral Beatty has probably seen more naval fighting in the present war than any other commander, and is one of Britain's most popular sea fighters.

The upper photo shows Commander Boothby, Captain Ferrand (his eyeglass shattered by explosion of guns), and Commander Lacky. The figure with the raincoat on the right is Captain Motteux, who shows, in his haggard appearance, the result of his fearful trial in the battle, when his ship, H. M. S. Warrior, was crippled in the fight, and later sank when near its home port. The captain and all his men were saved.

IN THE MIDST OF SHOT AND SHELL

A Modern Navy Battle—Some Thoughts Naved up by Recent North Sea Fight

A modern navy battle is different from everything else in the world in that nowhere else do men, banded together in such numbers and wielding such powers, contend with one another at so extreme a peril to themselves. It is more raged with terror than any other human experience.

Each man commits himself with a thousand others to a vulnerable shell, and launches it into an arena sheeted and bolted with flame and concussion. He can do nothing for his own safety, but only for the common purpose. In addition to the ordinary risk of destruction to the human unit there is the almost equal risk of destruction to the naval unit; and a single stroke of a single weapon may wipe out a thousand lives. That is something like warfare! No German ingenuity ever invented anything more hellish than this—that man's floating home and citadel can in a second be turned into a weapon to destroy him by the thousand. For if his floating table is dissolved, it is not to a hospital or dressing station that he passes, but into the cold sea, hospital, surgery, and the very act of operating are included into it too; the fight sweeps on in minutes to its free and away; and there are no stretcher-bearers in the sea. He may die by a blow, by asphyxiation, by mutilation, by drowning or may be instantaneously consumed in a glory of mauve flame, accompanied by the thunders of a detonation that he never hears. With all these varieties of death in visible and audible demonstration around him, and instantly menacing himself, he must continue quickly and coolly doing the exact work for which he has been trained—work perhaps with delicate, scientific instruments such as other men handle in the calm of a laboratory or observatory. And often he has to continue his work for what he has to do the last minute or two of earthly existence left to him; and to do it as carefully as if his career depended on it.

Further Progress Reported
In Last Night's Cables

Paris, July 5.—The French have carried by assault the second German lines on a front of two kilometres from the Clermont-Marconnet road to the River Somme. They have also captured the village Hem, in the same district, penetrating the third German line, according to the official statement issued by the French war office tonight.

The French have captured all the German second positions south of the Somme on a front of about ten kilometres. They have also completed the occupation of the village of Estreux, where 200 Germans surrendered.

The British have been facing an extremely heavy resistance, and large German reinforcements were hurried forward all day yesterday by the Cologne-Cambrai railway, which runs to the very centre of the German front attacked by the British. The stubborn resistance all along this front has prevented the British from keeping pace with the French advance to the south.

Petrograd, July 6, via London.—The Russians have cut the Delatyn-Korostovo railway, the principal line of communications for the Austro-German forces defending Lemberg, and have routed the enemy on the right bank of the Dniester, according to an official statement issued by the war office.

Rev. Captain Kühring's Tribute to New Brunswick Soldiers—Mourns Those Who Have Passed Away

Writing from No. 4 Stationary Hospital in France, Rev. Captain G. A. Kühring tells of his experiences in the hospitals, mentioning particularly the pleasure the men take in his violin playing. Continuing he says:

On my way to my tent the bugle calls. Is it a coming of patients? No, it is the mail. A letter from my son, who is in a post of danger with the 8th Battery. There is sad news in it. He is well but depressed with the loss of his mate, Lieutenant Ellwiel, with whom ever since coming over he has shared dugout and mess. He is no more. And yet in the midst of this sad note there is a cry of triumph which stirs the blood, which conquers death and grief. He writes: "Jack is gone. It was his first shift in the trenches and the men have nothing but praise for his work and courage. He was conscious and directed the carriers until they got him out. It will be a blow to his people, but it will be some consolation, to them that he died in the pursuit of his duty, and that when fatally wounded was an example of courage to everyone with him."

That is the way they think at the front and that is the spirit of our men. I heard of Major C. H. McLean the other day. He was in the reserve trench when the awful blast of Toronto fell upon our Canadian lads. He could have stayed there, but not so, he moved forward to help and was sent on. It is dangerous work of reconnoitering, doing it so well and bravely as to merit praise from his superior.

Whether they were men of the 20th or of the 6th C. M. R. they have more than made good. They have fought until almost none were left.

Captain Roscoe I saw several times this month. He was badly shaken up with shell shock but is rapidly recovering. Entitled to go back to England, he was considering going to the front instead.

Captain Dr. Gow, the medical officer of the 6th C. M. R., passed through. It was a delight to meet him again. He is attached to Colonel Harrison's Ammunition Column and speaks in glowing terms of the work of Colonel Harrison and also of Captain Harrison, his cousin.

Captain Scovil and Lt. George Morrissey are German prisoners, simply because they did not know what retreat meant.

There is great mourning amongst Lieutenant Otky's command at his death. He was simply beloved. Mooney, Thomas and Everett were fortunately in England a week and so escaped.

But it must cease. Let New Brunswick ever remember that the soil of France is consecrated by the blood and endeavor of such men as made up the 20th and 6th C. M. R.

Let the boys and the "pads" have a large share in your prayers.

Yours sincerely,
GUSTAV A. KÜHRING,
Captain and Chaplain.

super-Deadnought encounters; when for two hours of a gray January morning, I knelt in the Lion's top while the storm of a concentrated bombardment gradually enveloped her. And my memory is that the increasing uproar and concussion came gradually to have a stupefying rather than an exciting effect. The noise that the events of the day in the North Sea has been so colossal that we will have a powerful effect on the expression of anything so hellish as a vengeance. The spilling of her own blood has always been England's most powerful tonic. The ship's company, many of them obviously enjoyed it; enjoyed it at the time, which is a very different thing from enjoying it afterwards, as I did. For member terror and enjoyment can exist together. The body may quake, and the stomach sink, and the muscles be thrashed above the terror and commotion in a serenity of vision and assurance that in the midst of death may be in life.

The Queen Mary
The case of the Queen Mary—a powerful, perfect ship well known to me in those ceaseless winter ploughings of the North Sea, often next station of the ship never out of station, and wheeling beautifully when the compass signal was blatted down with her grey steel stem cutting into the foamy air of our wake. Well whatever was the condition of the Queen Mary just before she sank, whether her destruction was sudden or gradual I am as sure of this as of anything else, although physically there was no doubt, uproar and agony of wounded men the ship's mind—by which I mean the aggregate mentality of her people—was at peace. Those glorious ones had been doing what they wished to do and they were where they wished to be. And as they had lived and worked and played, a close company, so they died. The Queen Mary was a remarkable ship in many ways that the world knows of but she was wonderful too, in some ways which the public does not and cannot know. Every ship has her own individuality, and the ships of a squadron are as different from one another as the members of a human family. Of the four ships of the incomparable group, the Lion, Princess Royal, Queen Mary and Tiger, the Queen Mary was always (in my eyes) the silent one of the family. Silent at home that it made a certain noise in the world and occasionally 'got into the papers'; but in the family circle of the squadron she was as demure as a mouse. She was never hurried, never in the wrong, gave no trouble. Other ships got into their little scrapes with the flag-ship; not so the Queen Mary. We never seemed to hear of her. She kept herself to herself and had her own thoughts and was always brilliantly efficient at anything there was on hand, from gunnery records to games. If at sea there was an irregular interval in the formation target to be riddled after battle practice, and the Lion had seen it go scurrying past her sides and the Princess Royal pushed it over and under, so that it only bobbed up in the wake of her propellers, it was the Queen Mary who would 'read it neatly down under the foam of her forefoot never to be seen again in the form of a target'—to the disappointment of the Tiger sheering wildly and hungrily about in the rear. The "Queen Mary" was a true friend of brothers, who retained the stamp of the true and lovable personality who had moulded them and had their own little individual ways and customs. Such a unit is a product of years and years of the highest training. The technical value of the ship to the Fleet was equal I should think to all the other losses in cruisers put together. Her company is irreplaceable, as is every ship's company in the British navy. On that point

HOME RULE PLAN

London, July 6—The complete details of Lloyd George's scheme for provincial home rule for Ireland were published in the morning papers. The following are the principal features:

FIRST—An Irish house of commons will be constituted by the transferees to the Irish parliament of seventy-eight members now sitting in the English commons for the twenty-six home rule counties. The total Irish representation in the imperial house of commons is 100, of which twenty-five members sit for the six Ulster counties provisionally excluded from home rule.

SECOND—Of the seventy-eight members to be transferred to the Irish house, twenty-six are Nationalists or Independents, while two are Unionists, namely Sir Edward Carson and J. H. M. Campbell, attorney-general for Ireland. These two members represent Trinity College, Dublin. They have both consented to sit in the home rule parliament, and on this fact some hopes are based for future amity.

THIRD—Members of the Irish commons will retain their seats in the English house, and will often be seen there, as the Irish body is not expected to have much business to transact at first.

FOURTH—Considerable representation of the Unionist interests in the south and west of Ireland will be provided through the nomination of their representatives to the Irish senate. It is proposed that the senate sit and act with the Irish commons during the temporary settlement, thus safeguarding the interests of the Unionists.

FIFTH—The temporary settlement is to continue until one year after the termination of the war. At that time the whole arrangement will come under the review of the great imperial conference, which is to be held to adjust the government of the empire.

SIXTH—The frame-work of Irish finance in the home rule act will not be altered, but some increases will be made in the sum to be transferred to Irish revenues from the imperial treasury.

SEVENTH—A new lord lieutenant will shortly be appointed as a preliminary to the adoption of the new arrangement.

Precautionary

"Can you accommodate myself and family for summer board?"

"What's your politics?" inquired Farmer Connoisseur.

"Does that make any difference?"

"Yes, I'm not going to take another chance on havin' the whole place stirred up with arguments day or night. All the folks that board here this summer has got to have the same politics."

HELPED TO BURY MISERABLE FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

Returned N. C. O. Tells Grim Story and Has Photographs in Proof

One Victim Identified

Bodies Transfixed With Bayonets Through Wrists and Legs, While Trunks Were Mutilated Horribly

"Four of my companions were crucified in France. I saw them with my own eyes, and helped to take them down and to bury them," he said, "last night for four men to replace the four Canadians nailed to that barn door." This was the appeal of King's Staff-Sergeant James William Smith, D. C. M., invalided home from the front, at a recruiting demonstration in all of the Irish-Canadian Rangers Overseas Battalion at Dominion Square on Saturday night.

"I went to the front," he said, "with 402 comrades. Today nineteen are alive, and of these seven are paralyzed. We lost all of our officers before we were forty-eight hours in France. We stood at Ypres before the German gas attack without respirators, without steel helmets, without artillery, and with poor rifles and little ammunition, and, although we were outnumbered twenty to one, we held them back. The 10th Battalion, your own boys, bore the brunt of that attack, and now I want you boys to come up and all the gaps made that day, by enlisting in the Irish Rangers."

"When we landed in France, we had to fight in trenches filled with water, with little or no artillery to back us up. There was great difficulty in getting food, and we were poorly equipped with rifles. We do not ask you to enlist under these conditions. Matters have improved since then. Today the Allies outnumber the Germans, have the superiority in artillery and shells, and you will be well quartered and fed. You are not going to let the boys at the front do all the fighting while you stay at home, and you will avenge the men bayoneted to a barn door."

Speaking to The Gazette afterwards, Sergeant Smith said that, in all, four Canadians had been crucified at the front, two at Gueppe Farm, about a mile and a half from Langemark, and two at a house between La Bassie and Neuve Chapelle. He could not remember the exact location of the latter ones, as he was not familiar with French place names. He had seen the four of them, and has photographs taken of them, which he has with him in Montreal. Fifteen others, he says, who also saw them, are in Montreal at present, of whom two are shown in the photographs he took of the victims. In taking the pictures, Sergeant Smith got as many witnesses into each as he possibly could. These men in Montreal, he says, will verify the truth of the assertions of the returned soldier, and the one who went to the front with the first contingent. The first crucifixion was in the last days of March, 1915, and the other on April 22.

Both were the deed of the First Prussian Division, affirms Sergeant Smith. The victims were bayoneted through the wrists and the calves by four bayonets. This was done while the victims were still alive, or at least while the bodies were yet warm, as the blood flowed freely from the wounds. Not content with this, the Huns further mutilated the bodies, tearing them open with innumerable bayonet thrusts and pounding the skulls into pulp with the butts of their rifles. The bodies were nude and it was practically impossible to identify any of them, but companions recognized one as a member of a battalion from this province.

The pictures taken by Sergeant Smith are being made into plates, and it is intended that, with the censor's permission, they will be shown at a meeting of the Returned Soldiers' Association on next Saturday night. In that event, men only will be allowed to attend. The original negatives will be exhibited and returned soldiers present will identify the man crucified and will make his name known.

"Accidental death" was the verdict rendered at the inquest at Shorncliffe on Private John Laird of a New Brunswick battalion. Laird was handling a rifle in his tent when it was discharged.

Reports have been received that Corporal Joseph Campbell, formerly of Barnesville, was killed in action on June 18 during the big battle on the western front. He was 22 years of age when he fell fighting in the defence of his country, a young man of excellent character, and his generous unselfish disposition made him many friends. He was born at Barnesville, Kings county, but after his father died he went to live at Black River, where he resided until about two years ago, when he removed to this city.

Goodyear Won

The Ottawa Reliability Tour With Perfect Score

On June 10 and 11 the Ottawa Free Press Reliability Tour was run under the most trying road conditions. Two days rain had swamped roads that were bad enough in good weather. Yet Mr. Geo. B. McKay won with a perfect score of 1000 points. Mr. McKay's car was tired with Goodyears.

Goodyear Tires alone did not win the trophy for Mr. McKay. But the slightest tire trouble would have spoiled his chances of finishing with a perfect score.

Mr. McKay was not the only experienced motorist who chose Goodyears. The cars which finished third, fourth, fifth and seventh all rode on Goodyear Tires.

Note Mr. McKay's letter. His previous satisfaction with Goodyear Quality and Goodyear Service, convinced him "that riding on Goodyears practically eliminated the possibility of failure through any form of tire trouble."

Those winners who rode on Goodyear Tires knew that the Goodyear factory put quality into tires. They appreciated the aid of the Goodyear Service Station Dealer. This service is offered you. It includes—

- Inspection to see that your tires are properly inflated for the weight of your car.
- Advice as to the benefit of more modern rims.
- You will be told whether your tire is worth repairing—whether an inside tire protector will add mileage.
- You will be shown how tire putty keeps water and sand out of tread cuts.
- You will be supplied with everything needed in an emergency to repair your tires.
- You will be supplied with Goodyear Tires, Tubes and Tire Saver Accessories without delay.
- You will be shown how to make your decreased tire cost-per-mile offset your increased gasoline cost-per-mile.

A Severe Test

The Ottawa Free Press Reliability Tour was the most severe test to which cars and tires have been put in Canada for some time.

The Tour started at Ottawa, went to Prescott, to Ogdensburg, to Gouverneur, to Ogdensburg. The distance covered was about 150 miles.

Two days rain placed the Canadian roads in an almost impassable condition. The Tour started in a blinding rainstorm. Conditions were in every way against the contestants.

Yet Mr. McKay did not lose one point. He ran on schedule time, without stops or trouble. And he ran on Goodyear Tires.

The amendments to the instructions governing organization and administration, C. E. F. units contain a regulation concerning the subsistence of officers and N. C. O's at schools, in the future, to prevent double payment and no-payment of allowances for subsistence. It is to be distinctly understood by all concerned that immediately an officer, N. C. O., or man of a C. E. F. unit leaves his unit to take a course at school or with another unit, he is struck off rations or subsistence. The officer in charge of a school or course will have as many officers, N. C. O's or men as possible placed in messes and placed on rations. For those officers, etc. who cannot be placed in quarters and messes, he will obtain authority from the A. A. G. through the paymaster for subsistence allowance to be authorized the rate of pay as follows:

Officers not supplied with rations or quarters, $1.50; officers supplied with rations, but not with quarters, 75c. a day; C. O's and men not supplied with

REALIZED $50

A pile social in aid of the fund for supplying food and comforts to Canadian prisoners of war in Germany took place in Quispamsis school on last Monday. Miss Muriel Robertson of the Red Cross Society kindly opened the proceedings by telling the audience something of the aims and methods of this branch of Red Cross work, and a letter received by Mrs. Hutchings from the "adopted" prisoner at Gettsen. #### UPSET WITH AUTO

Recently a bride and groom here from New York on their honeymoon, decided to see the beauties of the coast and hire a car to take them to visit some friends in Black River which is some twenty miles from the city. In the evening, after a delightful day, they started for town, but when turning from a driveway leading from the main road to the house where they were visiting, the rear wheel of the auto caught on the side of a steep bank and the car turned almost over. The occupants were thrown forcibly out of the car, and the driver and chauffeur were pinned under the auto. After considerable effort he was removed, apparently none the worse for his mishap. The car was eventually placed on the road again and the party proceeded to the city, thankful that they had escaped serious injury.

EDWIN MONTAGU MAY BE THE NEW BRITISH MUNITIONS MINISTER

London, July 6.—A reorganization of the cabinet will be necessary when the announcement is made tomorrow or Saturday that Lloyd George's promotion to the war office. Edwin Montagu financial secretary of the treasury, is expected to succeed as minister of munitions.

The Morning Telegraph believes that J. Austin Chamberlain will retire as secretary for India in order that a member of the House of Lords may be appointed to fill the cabinet vacancy in the upper house caused by the death of Lord Kitchener. In this case Mr. Chamberlain would receive another office of equal importance to that which he now holds.

Another way of meeting the vacancy in the upper house would be the elevation of Sir Edward Grey to the peerage. According to some of the morning papers, it is proposed to create Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary secretary for war, a peer, and have him succeed Mr. Montagu as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster a post which he holds in addition to his secretaryship.

London, July 6.—It is understood that the report that Sir Edward Grey, foreign secretary, is to be raised to the peerage is correct and that as a fact he already has accepted such an offer. A Barony of the United Kingdom probably will be conferred on him soon.

The Lapel of a Young Man's Coat

It's the key to the character of the whole garment. Unless the hand-stitching, the perfect fitting, and the scrupulously careful tailoring are there—the coat is a sham. No style! No wear! No value for your money. Look at the lapel of the coat you are wearing. Is it awry? Is it wrinkled? Something wrong if it is. See the new Summer Clothing for men at Oak Hall. Note the careful tailoring, the style, the finish and the absence of flash. Then you will see why this store is getting the lion's share of the young men's business.

Young Men's Suits, $15 to $30

Boys' Washable Suits Awaiting Romping Owners

This washable clothing for boys takes to a tubbing like a duck taken to water. Warm days of summer are so deceiving that they are likely to break up into showers at any moment. If caught in them the boy will be little the worse off and his clothing—if it is washable—will be less so. It is a fact that mothers consider Oak Hall the best place to come when selecting their boys' washable suits for the season, for they can rely on them as being of the highest quality.
