EVIL CONDITIONS IN NEWPORT ARE DENOUNCED FROM THE PULPIT

REV. STANLEY HUGHES

RT. REV. JAMES DE WOLF PERRY, JR.

REV. CHARLES F. BEATTIE

The Protestant Episcopal clergymen of Newport, R. I., created a series of sensations in their pulpits when they arraigned in a pastoral letter and in sermons evil conditions which they assert exist there. The clergy held several conferences and finally consulted Bishop James De Wolf Perry, Jr., who approved of the course they were about to take.

The Rev. Dr. Emery H. Porter, rector of Emmanuel Church, and the Rev. Charles Beattie, rector of St. John's, did not go beyond the reading of the message. The Rev. Stanley C. Hughes, rector of Trinity Church, which nearly all the members of the summer colony attend, made brief but pointed references to local conditions.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

ried seven years last Wednesday at least twice a week. Sometimes the lady who announced that deterns we'll go to Church or to a concert or men in our neighborhood. She has two at wherever we go, we're surely going four, and the other six years old. We are going to get out some resolution. You know we had been married we'll go calling, and sometimes. I lecture or to the theatre. Bismark, is one of the brightest little women somewhere together at least twelvemonth to whom she is devoted. One that our wedding anniversary.

"You see," she went on in explanation, "Harry and I got to talking things over the other night, and we just decided that we had slipped into a rut. When the children were little babies, of course we couldn't go out very much. But now that they are older and we have a very trustworthy maid, there really isn't any reason on earth why we shouldn't go out more and yet we are so in the habit of staying in that I don't believe we go out anywhere together once in two weeks. Harry plays with the children until they go to bed, and then reads the newspapers, and the magazines, and I read or sew, and I feel the time we go to bed at nine or half past ten."

"On our anniversary, some friends of ours whom we visited on our honeymoon, invited us to go to dinner and the theatre with them and we did enjoy it so much that when we got home we sat all over and we made up our minds that we had gotten into a rut, and we ought to get out of it. "We think we owe it both to ourselves and the children to keep alive and young and in touch with things, and we can't do that if we sit down and stare at a book or each other every night. "Harry works hard, but not so hard that he needs to drop into a chair and doze or read all the evening, and he says he felt better and more alive the day after our little 'spree' than he had for weeks. "So we're just going to ourselves out. We're going to look up some of the friends we lost sight of when we were so tied down by the babies, and we're going to take in a good play or concert or lecture occasionally, and we're going to take some part in our Church life, and we're just going to get out of this married folks rut. "I know it may come a little hard at first--we've vegetated so long, but I'm sure we'll enjoy ourselves and everything else better, once we get thoroughly waked up, and I think, too, when our children get old enough to want to be friends with us, we'll be better able to be friends with them than if they kept on vegetating the way we are. "Does the lady's resolution appeal to you? "I must say that it does to me, and that I know more than one married couple who would benefit both themselves and future generations, by making--and keeping--a similar one.

La MARQUISE de FONTENOY

The Career of a Vicountess Who Has Just Been Arrested in Paris--She Once Kidnapped a Baron

(Copyright, 1911, by the Brentwood Company) Bearer of a perfectly authentic name and title of one of the oldest and most historic houses of the French aristocracy, the Vicountess Guy de Jouffroy d'Abbas, once famed for her beauty and who figured as the veiled lady in the Dreyfus case, has just been arrested in Paris; this time on a charge of most extraordinary theft. It seems that despite her years, for she is close upon fifty, she is still sufficiently fascinating to have been able to corrupt one of the principal police officials at Lyons and to have induced him to permit her to visit him in his bureau and to have access to the drawers and records of which he had never charge; this time on a charge of most extraordinary theft. Of course he had been kept posted on his wife's behavior, by relatives and friends in France, and also of records of civil and criminal suits in which she had been involved, to facilitate proceedings for divorce against her. But suits of this kind, especially when they have to be conducted from the other end of the world are tedious, and above all, terribly costly. The result was that Guy de Jouffroy d'Abbas, died before they could be completed and it is doubtful whether, if he had lived a year or two longer, he would have been able to meet the costs requisite to render the divorce final. Consequently the former "Olympe de Beauregard" or Adele Chabod, by the name of her husband in Cochon China. She became a novice of the Cistercian Order, and for several months wore the white habit of a nun her object being presumably to counteract and give the lie to the stories against her at the time of his demise in Tongking. The good sisters of the convent in which she had sought refuge, had presumably never heard anything about her career. All they knew of her was that she was the widow of a French officer who had died in the service of his country in the far Orient, and that she bore the name of a French officer and that had figured with distinction in the history of France and in the history of the church.

She soon tired, however, of convent life, and on the lady abess becoming acquainted with her real antecedents, through the visit of the diocesan, who had read of the woman in the newspapers, she was expelled with ignominy, and before a year had passed landed in St. Lazarre, the great prison for women delinquents in Paris. APPEAL TO ELECTORS

Electors of St. John.—
Consider the political situation as it stands today.
Against the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier are arrayed the special interests who oppose every reduction in the tariff, as something that might reduce their exorbitant profits. Against it also are the protected interests in the United States, which in their own country fought against reciprocity. There is also the Nationalist party in Quebec, which is opposed to British connection, and whose support Mr. Borden gladly accepts for his candidates, while he does not oppose them.

This is the combination which appeals to self-interest, to race prejudice, to national prejudices and fear and hatred, in a reckless effort to defeat the government under which Mr. Borden admits Canada today enjoys unexampled prosperity and peace.
Does this country desire to stand still or go forward? Does it want a premier, who can defy Mr. Bourassa, or one who would be under Bourassa's thumb?
The British government favors the trade agreement. Chancellor Lloyd George says it is a "great triumph of common sense, including a step towards the fraternalizing and co-operation of the English speaking family." Who dares to say in the face of this that there is any disloyalty, or menace to the Empire. The real traitors are the small-time politicians who wave the flag and exhaust their lungs in an effort to arouse prejudices against the American people.

The trade agreement is a very simple one. The United States now gets more than half of Canada's trade with all the world. Under reciprocity that trade will flow more freely, to the advantage alike of the Canadian producer and consumer. This must be clear to every unprejudiced person who takes the trouble to read the agreement itself. It deals with natural products. Manufacturers are fully protected. It is in the power of Canada to terminate the agreement at any time.
This is the situation. Can any reasoning and reasonable man oppose the government which has gained this great boon for Canada? Surely not.

A SERIOUS MATTER

If reciprocity is defeated, and the lumber cut from Maine logs in mills at St. John is compelled, as it has been since Aug. 8th, to pay duty on entering the United States market, the mills will be removed to Maine, to save the duty. There is no doubt about this result. The duty paid in a single year would erect a fine mill in Maine.
What would the closing of Stearns, Cutler & Co's mills mean? It would compel several hundred men to seek new employment, and probably leave the city with their families. That would be a blow to them, and to the storekeepers who sell them goods. It would throw a heavier burden of taxation upon the rest of the citizens. From every standpoint it would be bad for the city.

This is a matter not to be lightly treated. St. John has been and is seeking new industries. The removal of the duty on rough lumber will strengthen the position of its sawmills, and to that extent benefit the workmen, the merchants and the tax-paying community. Can we afford to weaken our industrial position?

There are very many Canadians now living in the United States who are still British subjects. Would it be disloyal to trade with them?

Reports from the constituencies show that for small, petty and mean canvasses, the Conservatives this time are making a new record.

Liberals of St. John, your loyalty has been challenged by your opponents, whose organ calls you annexationists. Hand them one on the 21st.

Dr. Daniel and his supporters should agree upon the story they are to tell the honest farmer when they are out on a vote.

The Standard asked Dr. Pugsley to state what Sir William Van Horne had not developed Grand Falls. Dr. Pugsley promptly replied that Sir William had resigned the presidency of the company, giving as his reason that he had lost faith in the Hazen government and would have nothing to do with any project subject to provincial legislation. That should hold the Standard for a few days.

Dr. Alward is now ridiculed by the Conservatives. His crime is that he stands by the traditional policy of the Conservative party.

The Conservative candidate in North Essex, Ont., in a speech this week, said: "I believe that Laurier will carry the country and you will get reciprocity."

"Canada is making history today, not re-enacting it," says the Standard. Dr. Alward's review of the history of Conservative treatment of St. John from 1880 till 1890 must have struck home.

Mr. Bourassa speaking in support of a Conservative candidate in Hull fixes the Borden-Bourassa alliance beyond the shadow of doubt. How do St. John people like the combination?

Reciprocity helps both the producer and consumer. The former gets a wider market in which to sell, and the latter gets free entry or reduced duty on food products at times when it is necessary to import them.

Mr. James Lowell's friends in the city and county will show his opponents on Sept. 21st whether he is a "political accident" or not. The victims to be dragged from the wreck will not include Mr. Lowell.

With the support of Hon. John Morison, Hon. Mr. Burchill, Mr. Ernest Hutchinson, Mr. James Robinson, and other prominent Liberals and Conservatives in Northumberland, Mr. Legge may even increase his last remarkable majority.

Neither Mr. Borden, Dr. Daniel, Hon. Mr. Maxwell, Mr. Agar, nor any other Conservative speaker has had the courage to say whether he personally believed that reciprocity would lead to annexation. They dare not give a direct answer to this question.

Mr. M. E. Agar fears for the loyalty of the next generation. Suppose we endeavor to pursue a policy that will make for the prosperity and happiness of the next generation, and assume that they will be quite as able to look after their loyalty as we are to assert our own. That would appear to be sound common sense.

Sir Lomer Gouin, premier of Quebec, should know something about public opinion in that province. He says the Liberals will gain some seats there, and he can not see where they will lose any. All this talk about Conservative victory is the usual pre-election boasting, such as was heard in 1908. The government will have a large majority, and St. John people will do their share to roll it up.

It would be a waste of time to deal at any length with statements appearing in the St. John Standard. That paper has no regard whatever for fairness or truth. For example, in an editorial this morning it says: "The Times last evening expressed regret that the Canadian Militia and British Regulars chased the invading Americans out of Canada in 1812." The person who penned this sentence penned a deliberate lie. Falsehood and gross misrepresentation are the stock in trade of the organ of Dr. Daniel and Mr. Powell.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley pointed out on Wednesday evening that this year western Canada will produce 37,000,000 more bushels of wheat than the United Kingdom imported from all wheat growing countries last year. What will the production of Canada be five or ten years hence? To ask the question is to suggest the great importance of enlarging the free market of the Canadian grain grower, whose prosperity means so much for all Canada.

While the Conservative cantors are trying to persuade the people of St. John that reciprocity will ruin east and west trade, Mayor Frink brings news from Montreal that the C. P. R. is anxious to proceed with the work of providing additional facilities at Sand Point for handling this trade. They are also making very heavy expenditures at the head of the harbor. Do these Conservative speakers think the people are fools? The younger and less well-informed they are, the louder these Bourassa men shout. But the people are not deceived.

Rudyard Kipling is opposed to reciprocity. Perhaps he knows more about it than Premier Asquith, Chancellor Lloyd George, Hon. Sydney Buxton, Lord Haldane, Rt. Hon. James Bryce and other eminent Englishmen who are in favor of the agreement; but the average Canadian will prefer to accept their views. Mr. Kipling's latest literary efforts have not added to his reputation, and as an adviser of the Canadian people he has never been taken too seriously. He once wrote that Canada was mistress in her own house, and that was true. She is still mistress, and is making a very good job of it, although not quite to the liking of Mr. Bourassa and some other friends of Mr. R. L. Borden.

Give the farmers, the lumbermen and fishermen their turn. Their prosperity means prosperity for the province.

HOW Can You Give So Many Things Away?

That is the question inquirers of our premium plan ask every day when examining our premiums.
Here Are The Reasons:--

We manufacture a great many of the lines that we sell and the goods that we do not make ourselves we buy direct from the manufacturer thus saving, wholesaler, jobber and retailer profit.

We sell for cash and save the expense of bookkeepers and of collection.

When $25.00 worth of goods has been purchased at our store the customer gets a $5.00 PREMIUM that is $5.00 worth of anything in our store absolutely FREE.

To learn of our plan means that YOU will become a satisfied customer.

NEW PROVINCE OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND

Legislation Introduced at Meeting of the Canadian Synod

GOES TO COMMITTEE

New District Will be Known as Province of British Columbia—Nomination of Missionary Bishops Discussed—Greetings From American Church.

(Canadian Press)

London, Ont., Sept. 8.—Legislation for a third ecclesiastical province of the Anglican Church in Canada was inaugurated at the general synod meeting yesterday when the recommendation of the house of bishops for the establishment of the province of British Columbia was placed before the house of delegates.

The recommendation of the upper house, which outlined the proposed organization was by vote of the lower house sent on to a committee on canons, who will present their report prior to the general discussion over the new province.

It is likely that this third province, if it be established at this synod, will be different from the two present provinces—Canada and Rupert's Land—for there is now before the synod a notice of motion by the Bishop of California, in the event of the establishment of the province of British Columbia, the two houses, bishops and delegates will sit together.

Further than this the same bishop has a second notice of motion that there be no archbishop of the new province, and that its metropolitan do not assume the title of archbishop until there are at least five diocesan bishops within the province.

Almost the entire afternoon session was occupied with the question of missionary bishops, their selection, their standing and their limitations.

First of the order was the debate on the proposed canon of missionary diocese and bishops. The question was whether the bishops of a new diocese in foreign mission fields outside of Canada should first be nominated by the House of bishops or the board of management of missions.

Dean Crawford's amendment to the original motion that the board of management first nominate the missionary bishop changed the selection from the board to the house of bishops. But a vote of amendment of Dean Crawford was defeated 97 to 45 and the original motion returned.

At the morning session of the synod Canadian and American branches of the great Anglican church joined hands. Bishops of Michigan, Ohio, and Pa., and W. B. Butler of Marsh Church, Pa., official representatives of the American church were received and brought a message of fraternalism and good will.

Mr. Butler, the lay representative, presented the message of Bishop Tuttle of Missouri, presiding bishop of the American church, a message that was received with enthusiasm.

A memorial from the synod of Quebec asking that in any proposed changes in the book of common prayer nothing be done to weaken it as a bond of empire was referred to the prayer book revision committee.

WHEN HORSES LAUGH

He was a raw recruit, just enrolled in a crack cavalry regiment, and paying his first visit to the riding school.

"Here's yer horse," said the instructor. The recruit advanced, took the bridle gingerly, and examined his mouth with great care.

"What's it got this strap round it for?" he asked, pointing to the girth.

"Well," explained the instructor, solemnly, "You see all our horses 'ave a keen sense of humor, an' as they sometimes 'ave sudden fits of laughter when they see the recruit, we put bands round 'em to keep 'em from bustin' their sides."

DIES WHILE ON VACATION

John Doherty of Melrose, Mass. Succumbs to Pneumonia at Upper Loch Lomond

Many people in this city will regret to hear of the death of John Doherty of Melrose, Mass., which occurred yesterday morning at Upper Loch Lomond. Mr. Doherty came down from the states a little more than a week ago to spend a two weeks' vacation at Loch Lomond. For some days he was not very well but his condition did not cause alarm until Friday last. Then it was found he had pneumonia. He is survived by his wife, who was with him at the time of his death, two daughters—Anna, who was also with him, and a son who had just returned home a few days ago after spending the summer at Upper Loch Lomond, two other daughters and two sons.

Mr. Doherty's brother William arrived on the Boston express last night to take the body back to Melrose. It was brought in from Loch Lomond this morning and is now at P. Fitzpatrick's undertaking parlors in Waterloo street.
Mr. Doherty was a man of genial disposition and made many friends during his summer vacations at Loch Lomond. He was superintendent in a large brass works in Boston and was about fifty-five years of age. His daughter, Miss Laura, was taken ill on receipt of the news of her father's death and was not able to come to St. John with her uncle. The family will have the sympathy of many people here in their bereavement.

FOUR LIQUOR CASES

Gallagher, James F. McGuire, W. B. Daley and J. J. Connors were before Judge Ritchie in the police court this morning, charged with having sold liquor to Albert Daigle, a minor, on Saturday last. Daigle was arrested on Saturday last by Sergt. Baxter and Policeman Wittman in Water street. He was remanded and enquiries were made as to where he got the liquor. Information was consequently laid as stated.

With the exception of J. J. Connors all pleaded not guilty and Daigle went on the stand and testified that he had visited each of the places mentioned and had secured a glass of ale and porter in each one and that after taking the fourth glass he did not know anything until he woke up in the Water street lock-up. He was positive as to the stores that he visited and identified Daley as having been the one that served him in the latter's store. The defendants said that they had never seen the witness before. The case was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon when Daigle's mother was to be called to testify as to his age.

THE LATE BRADFORD WILLIAMS

Bloomfield Station, N. B., Sept. 7.—The funeral of Bradford C. Williams took place this afternoon and was attended by many. After a short session at the house, the body was taken into the Episcopal church and then interred in the Presbyterian burying ground at Central Norton.
Mr. Williams, who was seventy years old, was a son of the late Gilbert Williams, of Cambridge Queens county, N. B. In 1864 he went to Nevada where he was a successful gold mining expert. Later on he carried on a mercantile business in Grafton, New Mexico. On account of ill health he returned to New Brunswick about 1880.
In 1884 he was married in Carson City to Miss Laura Willmot. He is survived by his wife, two sons—Alva at home, and Roy, assistant agent of the C. P. R., at Nokomis, Sask., also two daughters, Misses Letta and Pearl, of this place, and one sister, Mrs. H. C. Frost, of St. John, West End.

LIBERAL ELECTORS

The Liberal electors of the various wards will meet in their respective ward rooms for regular work each night until Sept. 21st.

SURPRISED AT OPPOSITION TO MINISTER

Former Resident, Now in West, Wonders at Course of Some

DIFFERENT OUT THERE

Announcement of Such Works as Hon. Mr. Pugsley is giving St. John Would Cause Big Boom—Greatest Thing Ever Offered This City

Fred H. Hale, formerly well known politician and member of parliament for Carleton county in this province, and who is now located in Vancouver, is authority for the statement that there are close upon 12,000 New Brunswickers in the province of British Columbia alone. Everyone in the up-building of their western home land and not a few of them have attained positions of prominence through their efforts to secure for British Columbia public works necessary to the success of the province.

Writing to a relative in this city recently, a former New Brunswicker resident in Vancouver, expresses much surprise that St. John City has seen fit to give battle to the Minister of Public Works whose localities residing in the western provinces. Continuing, the writer said that out west the people looked upon the development of the country in public works as of such importance that political issues, community jealousies and rivalries are entirely forgotten, all citizens joining heart and hand in securing for their respective localities federal and provincial monies for permanent up-building.

During July the Canadian Northern Railway Company announced their intention to build a road through the west within the next three years, a large graving dock and terminal facilities. This news caused sensation in real estate values and was seized upon by the 100,000 citizens of that city as a great step forward in the development of the port. Each similar announcement of the building of public utilities intensifies the buoyant spirit of the people, the doubter, pessimist, and hide-bound party man is looked down upon as a drone and of no good whatever to his community.

The whole province of British Columbia is at present building great hopes upon the effect of the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific line in that province, which is expected before the fall of 1913. Despite the vast wilderness of the interior of the province and its inaccessibility at present, except by primitive steamboat and porcupine trails, numerous town sites have been mapped out and are being sold, and the hope expressed by the people for the eventual development of the province.

Calgary and Medicine Hat are indulging in the most strenuous rivalry at the present time for the securing of the C. P. R. car works and real estate in each town is competing by leaps and bounds. Lettbridge, McLeod, Nelson, Fernie and other localities are also competing, one with the other for federal and provincial expenditures. Even newly created townships along the Grand Trunk Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern are being boosted because of their locations as railway centres, junction points and distributing towns.

The ex-New Brunswicker in writing home seemed amazed at any opposition in St. John in light of the prospects as a transfer terminal for trans-oceanic trade, and says if Vancouver were in its position, the most pronounced sort of optimism and co-operation would obtain at the present time. As if offering an explanation to his own question, the writer concludes—

"I wish I were a millionaire, and if I were, it would give me the greatest pleasure of my life to bring a half a dozen trainloads of St. John's young men and old men, too—with a fair sprinkling of mothers, daughters and wives—to the west country. If by the time they had reached Fort William they had not seen their home city in its true light; and by the time they had visited Winnipeg, then reached the coast, they were not convinced that the projected government works in their dear St. John were the greatest boon the place has ever enjoyed, I would lose faith once and for all time in the ability of my home people to know a good thing when they see it."

The moral is plain.
