STOP THAT HEADACHE

Foolish to Suffer when a Simple Remedy Will Prevent and Cure.

Ever stop to think what caused your headache? Probably not. Then look to the bowels and stomach and you'll find plenty of cause. Chances are you'll find constipation, liver is sluggish, stomach overburdened with half-digested food.

No wonder you are dazed, restless day and night.

You need the cleansing influence of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which cure your condition in short order.

Being common, natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They act all organs connected with the stomach, liver and bowels. Intestines are properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and restful.

Headache never returns to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Ass. Mgr. of the Poultry Success Magazine of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Gallagher, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headache, indigestion and stomach disorders I am convinced that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills. TALKED WITH BONAPARTE

A Little Belgian Girl Whom the Great Napoleon Told to Care for Her Mother.

(London Daily Graphic).

There is still living in the village of Lognes, Belgium, a woman who spoke with the great Napoleon on the day of the battle—June 16, 1815—at that place.

Her name is Mme. Anne-Joseph Rubay, and she will reach her 102d birthday on July 29. Her memory is still perfectly clear as to the incident. Napoleon had established his quarters close to the little farm where she and her husband were living...

Encouraged by his kindness, the farmer's wife then told the emperor that she had served in one of his dragoon regiments, but had not been heard of for several years. On ascertaining the name of the regiment, Napoleon replied that it was one of those that had suffered most during the retreat from Russia, but he would have inquiries made. He then told her to hand out to the emperor of some words until the fighting was over. Mme. Rubay has a perfect recollection of the emperor's appearance, and describes him as "a little man with a big nose."

She also remembers the scene of destruction and slaughter presented by the village when they returned the next day. She describes the French soldiers as "fine fellows," but her recollection of the Prussians is not so favorable, for "they ate up all our chickens and our two calves without paying for them."

MR. McDADE RETIRES FROM NEW FREEMAN

Resigns, Because of His Health, After Successful Management of Paper.

Michael McDade, who for some years has very successfully conducted the New Freeman, has felt himself obliged to relinquish his work on the paper because of his health. For some time Mr. McDade has suffered from nervous trouble and, of late, it has become such that he finds it necessary to give up work involving mental strain, and he consequently has submitted his resignation to the New Freeman directors, to take effect at once.

Some years ago Mr. McDade took the management of the paper and at some personal and financial sacrifice has brought it to a prominent place among the newspapers of the province. He has been generally well liked and he has been followed week by week with much interest and looked forward to with hope of all that a paper from his hands will result in. Mr. McDade's early restoration to a full measure of health and vigor.

The choice of a successor on the New Freeman has not been announced.

KEIR HARDIE

Mr. Keir Hardie, M. P., the fighting leader of the Socialist labor forces in the United Kingdom, was the orator at a Canadian Club function in Toronto Monday...

Mr. Hardie, therefore, comes to a city in which he was certain to find many already persuaded by his way of thinking. The Canadian Club, in asking him to speak, recognized him as a public figure of note at this time and gave opportunity for a fair presentation of his views upon which the people, having then accurate Socialist tendencies, might pass for themselves.

Mr. Hardie's programme is not going to create any confusion or excitement in the Dominion. The problem must be worked out in other lands long before it becomes acute in the Dominion. The social nations will absorb and utilize the useful elements of Socialism and reject those which prove un sound and destructive of institutions and policies which have been found essential to the well being of society.

THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE The London (Eng.) Daily Express, in a fighting article on the proposal to clip the wings of the House of Lords, gives us a glance at the journalistic war in England over this matter.

IT MAY BE JOHNSON If the Democrats can succeed in throwing Mr. Bryan overboard before convention time, and can keep him overboard until the convention is over, Governor Johnson of Minnesota may be the next Democratic candidate for the presidency.

ALIEN INFLUENCE Canada had some experience with the Western Federation of Miners not long ago in British Columbia, one result of which was a commission whose recorded opinion concerning the alien labor organization was extremely damaging.

AS OTHERS SEE US The London Times is publishing a series of letters from a staff correspondent who is examining Canada and who finds much in this country which we who live here never would have known but for his visit.

LEPROSY CASE IN A BOSTON HOSPITAL Boston, July 25—A case of leprosy discovered at one of the hospitals of the city, was reported to the city board of health today.

SALE OF IMPORTED HORSES Arrangements have been made with the I. C. R. and C. P. R. for a one way first class fare on the standard certificate plan for persons attending the sale of imported horses at Fredericton on July 31 and Moncton on August 7, to start one day before and return one day after.

is evidence of a Johnson boom. The Post comment in part is: "In various ways, of late, attention has been called to Gov. Johnson of Minnesota as a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

In order to show the extremes to which the claims of the Unionists would lead if admitted, this reviewer refers to the last general election: "The Liberals came in as the result of dissatisfaction with the Balfour government about many things. This is always the case when a party which has held power is beaten at the polls."

To describe Johnson as safe and sane is to suggest a question which would be most interesting if he were nominated. If the Democrats reject the radical aspirants for a conservative what is to become of the Hearst Democrats, the Socialists, and the cohorts of unrest and discontent generally? They would have to have a candidate of their own, and the more safe and sane Johnson was considered the greater would be the division due to the appearance of a radical third candidate claiming Democratic support.

MARRYING AGAIN One fears that many very estimable women will view with open displeasure the rumor cabled from London that the British Premier is to take for his second wife a lady who was selected for him by his first wife as he was still on earth.

IDAHO AND NEW BRUNSWICK A Newcastle editor who has given some attention to the Orchard trial as seen from the North Shore expresses the conviction that there is a conspiracy to murder Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone and other Socialist leaders by means of a packed jury and an unfair trial.

Another Liberal seat in the British House of Commons has been captured by the Labor party. First it was Jarrow, and now comes Colne Valley. The bye-election in the latter constituency has just resulted in the election of Victor Grayson, a Socialist, standing with the endorsement of organized labor.

THE COST OF PAPER The consuming public is so used to receiving the information that every kind of raw material has been advanced in price by those who control the supply that buyers of printing will not be greatly surprised to learn that nearly all kinds of paper have been advanced in price from eight to ten per cent.

WASHING WITHOUT RUBBING Here is a machine that washes clothes without rubbing and all sorts of material, without the dirt out of the fibers—yet it saves the fibers, it can wash delicate fabrics, and it can wash heavy fabrics.

OLDEST BANK IN THE WORLD There was a kind of public record office attached to the palace and temple at Nineveh, in which it was customary to deposit important legal and other documents, such as contracts for agreements for the purchase and sale of property, marriage settlements, wills, etc.

PRODIGALS How strangely prodigal we are! Who has so short a time to stay! We have but four and twenty hours for our life. For help to pass our time away, because the moment will be here, and we shall tread the soil of another world, and we shall view the past with keen regret, and still the precious present waste.

IN THE TWILIGHT When the children come home in the twilight, some home from the field and some from the school, some from the city and some from the country, they find in the home-place a balmy air for all their frosts and all their heat.

Orchard case commanded general attention, but Mr. Haslam argues that its capacity for long distance trouble making has increased because of what laboring men have recently learned of its methods. A characteristic part of the letter, to which the Herald gives editorial support, is given here:

"There never was a mining camp where relations between employers and employees were more cordial than in Cobalt until the advent of the emissaries of that foreign and notorious body known as the Western Federation of Miners. The ordinary citizen of Canada has no conception of the power and methods of their Western Federation. The men working in the mines at Cobalt unfortunately had sufficient knowledge of both the power and methods referred to, and immediately the strike was declared left the district in hundreds, in the great majority of cases not because they were dissatisfied with the wages and treatment they were receiving from their employers, but because of their fear of this western organization that had reached out its powerful hand from a foreign country to dictate to them on what conditions they should or should not accept employment, or allow their fellow workers to accept employment, in this Canadian mining camp."

Candians who read this analysis of our attitude will not recognize the picture. This is another case of Canada from a different view or an easy chair in the clubs. It shoots wide of the mark in almost every sentence. This particular observer is simply writing in Canada the ideas he formed before he left England. This sort of thing will not do any good, but on the other hand, it is not likely to do serious harm. The wonder is that the London Times treats it as serious.

NOTE AND COMMENT Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration that he desires no title or office which the people of Canada cannot give him will meet with the approval of Canadians of all parties.

An Ontario journal suggests that Hon. Edward Blake may re-enter Canadian politics but there appears to be no basis for any such idea. Mr. Blake is leaving public life because of advanced age and poor health.

A Long Standing Abuse (From the Hartford Courant.) It is announced that the Legislature of Wisconsin has passed a law which went into effect July 1, that forbids the Pullman car from shutting down the upper berth, when it is unoccupied, simply to smother the lower berth passenger paying for the berth right down on the traveler in the corresponding lower. This custom is understood to have had its beginning in the discovery that frugal passengers would tip the porter and get him to conspire with the conductor to skip the whole space.

SALVATION ARMY'S COLONIZATION SCHEME IN NEW ONTARIO

Will Buy 230,000 Acres and Sell Homes to Its Immigrants at Nominal Cost.

Toronto, July 24—It transpires that during his recent visit to Canada, General Booth approved of the plans of the local Salvation Army officers for a colonization scheme in New Ontario, and it is said that interested parties now have practically agreed on the following terms: The government to sell to the Salvation Army ten townships in the Great Clay Belt, comprising some 230,000 acres. The land is in the district of Nipissing and Algoma, north of the height of land, the price to be $25 cents per acre, payment of the same to be spread over a period of ten years without interest. The army to locate 144 settlers on every township, each having the usual size homestead, 160 acres. These settlers are to be under the supervision of Canadians experienced in clearing land for agricultural purposes, as well as of officials of the army trained in settlement work.

It is surmised the Army will sell homesteads to settlers at reasonable rates on easy terms as to time, so that eventually they will have bought their own land, and the army will have carried out one of its great principles in giving every man a chance to do something for himself. All the settlers will be selected with great care as to physical qualities and aptitude for agricultural life. The land on which they will be located will be tapped by the Transcontinental and T. & N. O. railways. In connection with the project it is reported that Hon. Senator Cox has agreed to loan the Salvation Army a sum in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Murder of Rich Armenian in New York Reveals Widespread Conspiracy--Assassin Indicted.

New York, July 24—The district attorney's office obtained today a number of letters in connection with the murder of the rug merchant, H. S. Tavahjanian, which showed that for several months there have been communications sent to rich American merchants in this city, demanding that amounts of money be sent to the Hunchakian Society on pain of death. The letters confirm the reports of a widespread conspiracy to get money and which the district attorney thinks is alarming.

The coroner's jury today returned a verdict holding Bedes Hampartoumian, who killed Lavahjanian on a charge of homicide. The grand jury, after hearing three witnesses before the coroner, indicted Hampartoumian for murder in the first degree.

SILENT LIPS

BY ANNIE C. TIBBITS

Copyrighted 1907 by the North American Company

"But after two days by herself she couldn't stand any more, and crept back that horrible night, to beg forgiveness of her father. And then she found him, the beast!—slippin' poison in the old man's glass!"

"He'd gone," she went on, wildly, "while Barker was there, and went round to the window same as he used to do. She loosed now, with her black eyes blazing and her face flushed, and her dark hair tossed about her forehead, like a vivandiere of the French revolution."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"I must go out and think," he said; "I can't see my way—I don't know what to do. Does North know anything of all this?"

"Not a word," said Bessie. "He got the verdict at the inquest, but he believed her guilty—I think he believes her guilty still—and I've been afraid almost to tell him what I was doing in case he should go against me. But he's got a soft heart, as the doctor, and he'd cut off his hand afore he'd dought to harm our Hetty."

"I'm sure you're right," she said, "but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do."

"I'll tell her that," she said, "but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do."

"I'll tell her that," she said, "but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do."

seemed like these years as if they only needed you to come back for things to be put straight—I don't know how, and tonight I've had the feeling that I've got to see him and looking that odd I'm half inclined to think he's in drink!" And he's given me this. Is it worth asking to his lordship?"

"He's right enough when I saw him a minute ago—as amiable as you please," he said, "but he won't want Barker foinin' round tonight. He upset him the last time, and he's busy tonight. You'd better wait a bit. Give it to him when he comes from the reception rooms. I don't suppose there's any hurry. Barker always was one for thinking a lot of himself."

"I'll see to it," he said, "but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do. I'm sure you're right, but I don't know what to do."

would tell him what to do. He nudged his arm. "I say, Roberts, what sort of a fellow's his lordship?" he asked. "There's Jackson's clerk in the library waiting to see him and looking that odd I'm half inclined to think he's in drink!"

"He's right enough when I saw him a minute ago—as amiable as you please," he said, "but he won't want Barker foinin' round tonight. He upset him the last time, and he's busy tonight. library," she said, a little stiffly. "Dancing will be beginning directly, and everybody will be drifting toward the ballroom. I'll go with you."

"For an instant he hesitated, and she looked at him sharply. Then her thin, white-gloved hand linked itself in his arm. She glanced down. The note was still clenched in his hand, and the sight of it fired her anger. Had Barker mentioned Hetty Lancaster in it? And if so, what did it mean? Why had her name come up again in this strange way after all those years? She would find out."

savage cunning that was at variance with the rest of his face. The rattle of carriages outside had ceased, and the sound of dancing had begun in the great ballroom at the end of the corridor when the door opened at last. Barker sprang to his feet as Lord Fanshawe entered, and stood, scarcely moving, waiting for him to close the door.

"Well!" he said sharply at last. "Lord Fanshawe came last night across the room. He looked a tall, fine figure, a handsome man people called him, but all the reckless gaiety had gone from his face, all the careless, debonair light from his eyes. He looked almost an old man as he crossed the room to Barker. Fine lines had sprung suddenly about his eyes and lips and his mouth had the drawn and haggard look of age. There was nothing handsome about him now. It had gone, leaving behind only the ugliness of his heart laid bare."

LADIES' RIDING COAT. It is double-breasted, fitting very snug, and comes about 14 inches below the hips. Two rows of stitching down each seam give a fine tailored finish. The collar is of velvet. Two rows of buttons are placed down the front.

"Of course I overheard you," she said smilingly, "you can give me the note if you like."

"I suppose you got no idea what it's all about?" "No, but I thought I saw over his shoulder something about Hetty Lancaster. It couldn't be, I reckon, but it looked like—"

Lord Fanshawe made an odd, uncertain sound in his throat, and pulled at his collar as though it choked him. "What does it mean?" he asked roughly. "I suppose it's one of your confounded silly lies to get me here. What do you want?"

SWINDLED WOMAN, IS HIMSELF ROBBED IN TURN

Charles McDonald, as He Calls Himself, With Fine Nerve Asks Police to Help Him Find One Who Relieved Him of Money He Got in Questionable Way—A Man of Many Names Say the Police.

For clear audacity a man who gives his name as Charles McDonald, and who now is in jail on charge of obtaining money by false pretences, certainly holds first honors. On Wednesday, by his own confession, he swindled Mrs. J. C. Ferguson, of Springfield Mines, out of $30, that night the greater part of the sum was stolen from himself, and yesterday morning he actually enticed the services of the police in running down the one who took from him the money he himself had obtained by questionable means.

The story is a strange one and caused a flutter of interest even among the men whose business it is to deal with those who live on the border side of life.

Mrs. Ferguson and her four children, as before told, came here with her husband from Springfield Mines (N. S.), where he runs a bakery. They were bound for the States but Ferguson was arrested here for the Springfield police and taken back there on charge of incendiarism and theft. His wife and family did not take much money but some was got together for them by Chief Clark and Detective Killen by refund on the Boston tickets and return of the head tax paid to United States officials. The woman and children have since been staying at Mrs. Gaynor's boarding house in North street, and there Mrs. Ferguson was called upon Wednesday by the man who now says he is Chas. McDonald.

He evidently was familiar with Mrs. Ferguson's story and he talked over her husband's case with her and represented himself as a member of the bakery union. He left and later returned and meanwhile Mrs. Ferguson received a telegram from her husband asking that she send $30 to a lawyer in Amherst for him.

When McDonald returned, Mrs. Ferguson showed him the message.

He told her that she better give him the money and he would deliver in person as he was going to Springfield. This arrangement suited the woman, as McDonald had exhibited an agent's claim, she handed over the $30 to him. It now turns out that the badge was one of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Money Stolen from Him.

Early Thursday morning two men called on Detective Killen in his home and one of them said his name was Charles McDonald, that he was a boarder in the Union Hotel, Union street, and that he had been robbed of $25, which had been taken from his trousers pocket the Wednesday night. He added that he had been taking a few drinks that night and that for a time on that evening he was in company with two young men, boarders in the same house, who spent some time in his room. He had hung his trousers up on retiring and when he put them on this morning he found that the money was missing.

The detective accompanied the men back to the boarding house and searched his room, also the room of his companions of the night before, their clothing, etc., but to no effect, as there was no sign of the missing money. The detective reported the matter to Chief Clark.

SOME FIND THEY HAVE LOST NATIONALITY

Results of New Regulation in Effect at the United States Consulate.

On July 1 there came into force a new regulation of the United States department of the interior, requiring United States citizens residing abroad to call at the consular agency of the district in which they make their home, and apply for registration as subjects of Uncle Sam.

United States Consul Willich was asked Tuesday how the new rule had worked out in St. John, and he said that a great many had failed to apply, while some others who had applied were not allowed to register as their claim to United States citizenship was not considered good. These latter, he says, really have no country as he considers they have been expatriated by the United States, and they have not taken out any naturalization papers as Canadian citizens.

Judge Willich says, therefore, it is very important that all residents of this consular district who were born United States citizens and who have been naturalized as such, and later removed to New Brunswick, as well as their children, should call as soon as possible and verify their claim.

The majority of those who had called for purposes of registration, Judge Willich said were masters of sailing vessels whose work necessitates their compliance with the regulation.

WIFE AND CHILDREN STAY IN ST. JOHN

J. C. Ferguson Taken Back to Springfield by Constable McKay.

Constable McKay arrived Tuesday from Springfield Mines (N. S.) and Chief of Police Clark turned over to his custody James C. Ferguson, who at the instance of Chief of Police Smith of Sydney, was arrested here Monday evening on charge of stealing and incendiarism.

Ferguson was taken back to Springfield by his wife and family are still in a Pond street boarding house. The $30 paid for their head tax to the United States officials and a refund ticket money gave Mrs. Ferguson some money and her plans now depend upon the outcome of her husband's case and it may be she will return to her home in Scotland.

City Court.

In the city court Thursday the case of Kathleen E. Flower was taken up and this suit occupied the attention of the court for the greater part of three sessions.

In February 1906 the defendant, Miriam Humphrey, of Humphreysville, Queen's county, bought six bags of feed from George Keirstead, the plaintiff. Humphrey claims a neighbor, James Flower had ordered them. The feed was valued at $7.20 and a bill was sent to Flower who refused payment on the grounds that he had never received the goods.

Keirstead holding Humphrey responsible, he was asked for payment, but refused, and the action followed. A great deal of evidence was taken and the lawyer's argument occupied some time. Judge Kelly considers the evidence.

AMERICAN FLAGS ORDERED DOWN IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, July 24.—The American flags which were shown here in the decorations for the summer carnival have been ordered down.

IRRESPONSIBLE FEMININITY.

A woman who wears gaudy plumes is not a callous brat. These feathers have been provided for her delight, and she wears them. She hears that the obtaining of those feathers causes suffering, but nurtured as she is in luxury, the words mean nothing to her, while the pretentious of the plumes means a good deal.

St. John Manufacturers Do Not Respond to Canadian Government Agent's Representations

As a part of his duties as commercial agent of the government of Canada in Mexico, City, A. W. Donly is interviewing St. John merchants with a view of interesting them in the export of goods to Mexico. Mr. Donly has been a resident of Mexico for eighteen years and has held his present position for two years and a half.

He says Mexico is a great country, with double the population of Canada, and more than 2,000 miles in length. The Indian population, however, is 75 per cent of the whole and some of the natives are of a very low class.

Canadian capitalists, he says, are interested to the extent of $50,000,000 in enterprises in Mexico, chiefly in street railways. There was a good chance for investment, he said, if care was taken not to get hold of some wild cat speculation.

Mr. Donly landed in Sydney, then visited Halifax, and from here he will go west and visit the larger cities entering a month's vacation at his old home in Norfolk county, Ontario. Yesterday Mr. Donly visited the Board of Trade rooms and had a consultation with Secretary Anderson regarding his work. He spent the afternoon in setting before several merchants and manufacturers the advantages of trade with Mexico. He said last evening, however, that his representations did not appeal to the local business men very much, owing to the prevailing good times in Canada, there was such a weak demand in the home market that it seemed as if Canadian manufacturers had all they could do to supply Canadian people.

Driving to the duty and cost of transportation, Canadian manufacturers would really get less for their goods in Mexico than they would in Canada and it was little wonder, he said, that the proposal did not appeal to the money-makers. The policy of manufacture for home consumption only was really a slight one. When the present boom subsided prices would go down in Canada and a foreign trade, if established, would be more lucrative. Lumber, for instance, said Mr. Donly, could not be profitably exported to Mexico from Canada. The prices were so high here that after paying cost of transportation, the Canadian lumber could not compete in Mexico markets with the products of the forests of Texas and Louisiana.

The volume of trade between Canada and Mexico would hardly warrant a direct steamship service, Mr. Donly said, though there had been much talk regarding this.

Mr. Donly spoke of the advantage the preferential tariff gave the British West Indies over Mexico in regard to the exporting of sugar to Canada. Mexico had a right against a preference of 33 1/3 per cent.

VACCINATION FOR BLACKLEG AND ANTHRAX IN CATTLE

The disease known as blackleg in cattle, although entirely unknown in many of the extensive agricultural sections of Canada, and not at all widespread in any district or province, annually causes quite extensive losses to cattle raisers. Anthrax, which is quite a different disease, although frequently confused with blackleg, in the minds of many cattle raisers, is all the cause of serious loss of stock. The former disease is almost entirely confined to cattle under three years and is generally fatal. The latter attacks other classes of farm animals and the human subject is not exempt from its infection, which generally results seriously.

By the aid of science cattle raisers are now enabled to protect their stock against these maladies. As the human family is vaccinated against smallpox in the same manner cattle are rendered immune from blackleg and anthrax. The department of agriculture at Ottawa, through the health of animals branch, is now in a position to supply preventive vaccine for each of these diseases at the nominal cost of five cents per dose. Until recently, by special arrangement with extensive manufacturers in the United States, these products were secured at a reduced cost, and were placed in the hands of Canadian cattle raisers at one cent per dose for blackleg vaccine and fourteen cents per dose for anthrax vaccine. It is due to the fact that these preparations are now being made at the biological laboratory in connection with the health of animals branch that they can be supplied at five cents per dose.

The vaccine for blackleg may be administered by an intelligent person by means of an instrument supplied by the department at fifty cents.

Anthrax vaccine, which is also supplied at five cents per dose, is more difficult to administer requiring a qualified veterinarian to treat an animal.

Cattle raisers who have fear of an attack of either blackleg or anthrax would do well to apply to the veterinary director general at Ottawa for the proper preventive treatment.

Portland, Me., July 21.—After a sensational coastwise race from Baltimore to this port, between four of the biggest coastwise schooners of the North Atlantic fleet, the six-master George W. Wells of Boston, Capt. Joseph York, dropped anchor in the steam at 8 o'clock Friday evening, seventeen hours forty minutes ahead of the second boat, the five-master Nathaniel T. Palmer, which arrived at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The other two boats, the Jane Palmer and the Van Allan Boughton, were reported off Vineyard Haven yesterday forenoon and were expected to make the Portland Head Light night tonight.

All four vessels, deep laden, sailed from Baltimore at 8 o'clock on the morning of Sunday, July 14, and for the first twenty-four hours remained within hailing distance of one another. The second day out in a heavy sea and a drench of fog, the several craft lost track of one another and on the third day Capt. York found himself alone and none of the other contestants in sight.

Thursday forenoon, however, the Nathaniel T. Palmer, which is one of the fastest of the fleet, but which had run into more than her share of head winds, began to gain on the Wells, and on Thursday evening the hull of the big six-master showed on the horizon to the crew of the Palmer. The Boughton and the Jane Palmer must also have gained slightly on the last leg, but the Wells had too great a lead for the others to overcome, and with everything drawing she passed Bug Light just before dark Friday evening, a slight winner of the greatest race of its kind ever sailed on the North Atlantic coast.

THIRTY DAYS RESPIRE FOR "LORD" SEYMOUR

Jefferson City, July 23.—Governor Folke today granted a respite of thirty days to "Lord" Frederick Seymour Barrington under sentence to be hanged at Clayton (Mo.), on July 23, for the murder of James P. McCann.
