WITH SUPPLEMENT

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 2, 1874.

To Our Friends.

The success of the WEEKLY TRIBUNE, since its first issue, has exceeded our most sanguine expectations...

NOTES AND NEWS.

Without justification Wm. Roy was killed at Penfield, on Friday, by a bullet from a schooner they were chasing.

The St. John's (Nfld.) Chronicle announces, under the head of "Fleeting," that the proprietor of the Times has received a letter from the Governor's bailiff.

The anniversary exercises of Acadia College commenced on the 2nd of June, and ended on the 10th.

An eccentric person named Johnson has just died in England who spent the whole of his fortune, estimated at £100,000, in trying to demolish the Malvern Hills.

Here you have him: The Car is about 60 years old, he is six feet high; he has high shoulders and mustache, with a clean-shaven chin; his hair is cut short; his complexion is fair, and he has a good color.

New York ladies are again complaining of the continual entrances and exits of gentlemen spectators at theatrical performances.

A divorce suit in Georgia has resulted tragically, Mrs. Brinkley of Newnan, applied for a divorce from her husband, Stephen B. Brinkley.

The New York Herald says: The Paris Convention of 1860, which has allowed everything labelled "Administration" as easily as the young man in Paris swallowed a frog.

Appropos of the talk about theatrical entrances in Gotham, a male animal there, advocates the lowering of the extraordinary height of the proscenium.

The Advertiser and Literary Digest has high artistic and literary fame that the pictures are the perfection of drawing, engraving and printing.

The rebellion at Bowdoin College against the discipline of the establishment is a genuine outgrowth of New England's individualism.

The old question as to whether lager beer is better than stout is settled in an Ohio court.

A German testified "if you drink five or six glasses of lager in a little while you will feel more pleasant as if you drank five or six glasses of water in the same time."

It is doubtful if any single congregation in the world can show such manifold gifts during a similar period as Grace Church, New York, of which the Rev. Dr. Potter is rector.

The colored pastor of the Third Street Methodist Church in Richmond took a practical view of the Civil Rights bill.

The June number of Old and New West maintains the character of the magazine for interest and significance.

Leonard Bacon, of New Haven, has a short, bold paper on the use of abuse of political parties.

Mr. Hale's introduction gives some plain and healthy truth about our country.

Only an English Gentleman.

A typographical error in Saturday's issue turned "Drummers" into "Bummers" in the heading of a paragraph about the complaint against Mr. Harwood and Mr. Harwood for trading without license. Mr. Harwood explains that

"drummer," "commercial traveller,"

"runner" or "baggan" is not a proper term to apply to him, as he is, simply,

"an English gentleman and nothing else."

Mr. Harwood is too modest to prosper in this country.

Another Case of Bronchitis Cured.

RIDGEMAN, N. S., March 2d, 1860.

Mr. James I. Fallowell,

Dear Sir:—While in Windsor on a visit in December last, I fell with an old friend—Capt. H. Coffin—and finding him looking so hearty and robust, was led to inquire what had produced the great change, for when I last saw him, two years previous, he was a mere skeleton.

He informed me that your very valuable

Syrup of Hypophosphites had effected a perfect cure. He promised me to try the Syrup for Bronchitis, from which I now suffer, and I purchased one dozen of it, and have used only three bottles, and my health is now better than it has been for years. Not requiring the balance of the dozen, I sold it to different parties, and now there is a general demand for it from all parts.

Respectfully yours, W. J. NELSON.

Mr. Coffin was cured of consumption in 1857 by Fallowell's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. His letter was published some time ago.

The Nomination Speeches.

Mr. Coram followed Mr. Maher, saying that the youth of the Province should be educated by assessment, and that the non-sectarian system was fair to all creeds.

Mr. Austin said there were errors in an assessed system that had a proper effect on the working of the school system. He wished to consider every measure on its merits, thinking only of the public good.

A Situation for a Statesman.

A Madricid letter gives the particulars of a recent attempt to assassinate P. J.

Margill, from which it appears that the ex-Prime Minister narrowly escaped a violent death. Senior P. J. was quietly talked to some friends in his study when a stranger was announced and asked his Excellency's assistance in obtaining some money which he claimed was due him by the Government. Senior P. J. rose and gave him a paper, and the stranger departed. Subsequently, the stranger returned, and declared himself unintentionally attached to a non-sectarian system of common schools. He had devised one hundred and thirteen working days to the working up of the better to live in the parish, which time he was never in his office, and he had about $1,000, after paying necessary expenses, to indemnify him for the neglect of his business.

Mr. Keane spoke briefly, referring, on account of the nearness of sunset, from discussing public questions. He referred to his years of public service, to his faltering health, and to the fact that he was not prepared to be elected to the office.

Mr. Marshall said that the school law should be modified so that religious

The late solution of the stolen letter is no doubt correct. The Ministerial papers throw discredit upon it, as Hoyce admits count of being in political sympathy with him, but he never thought Young would publish it. Palmer is reinstated in his
