TROLLEY CAR DISASTERS

Thirty Passengers Thrown Into a River at Elgin.

Motorman Kearns Badly Injured Near the Woodbine, Toronto.

Elgin, Ill., July 2 .- One of the large interurban trolley cars running between Elgin and Aurora plunged through the bridge crossing the Fox River at St. Charles yesterday, carrying a load of thirty passengers into the river. With scarcely any warning, one of the spans of the bridge collapsed from the weight of the car and fell with the car to the river bed. The car caught for a moment on the stone abutment and lessened the force of the fall. No one was killed, but several persons were injured. ACCIDENT NEAR WOODBINE. Toronto, July 2.-Late last night a oad collision occurred between street cars near the Woodbine. Owing to a break in the supply wire of the northern track at Balsam avenue cars were for a time unable to return by their proper track. Under these circumstances car No. 615, having passed the Woodbine "Y" on the southern track, was returning towards it, rear end first, when it came into collision with car No. 653, going east, in charge of Motorman E. Kearns, 751/2 Shuter street. The 35 passengers on board the eastbound car were shaken and somewhat frightened, but no one was seriously injured, except Motorman Kearns, who was badly hurt internally, and was driven home in a cab. Conductor E. O'Connor of car 615 was injured in the hand. Dr. Brown, of Coxwell avenue. attended them.

MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE

The Soldiers Led by the Duke of Connaught-Three Tremendous Cheers for the King.

London, July 1.-The reappearance today of Queen Alexandra' as a participant in a public ceremony practically marks the end of the period of anxiety caused by King Edward's condition. Her presence at the review of the colonial troops by the Prince of Wales greatly increased public enthusiasm over what was in itself a picturesque and interesting event. Upwards of 2,500 colonials were brought in from the various encampments, and marched through great crowds down Constitution Hill, which was lined with troops, past Buckingham Palace, which for a week has been the center of such supreme interest, and along the Mall to the Horse Guards' parade. The contingent present represented all parts of the British Empire, with the exception of India, whose troops will be separately reviewed tomorrow. The Canadian detachment numbered 600 consisted of three natives of the Island of St. Lucia. Borneo, Ceylon, Fiji, the West Indies generally, Uganda and other remote colonies

The Queen Greeted With Great the Princess Victoria and Prince Charles of Denmark. Several carriages, containing the Duke of Cambridge, the Duchess of Connaught, and others, followed. The Prince of Wales was accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, Prince Frederick, Prince Charles of Denmark and their suites, and by the foreign attaches. The Duke of Connaught and Lord Roberts, commander-in-chief, surrounded by brilliant staffs, rode behind the Prince of Wales' party. The long lines of troops completely filled the Horse Guards' parade, and their varianted uniforms of tood out in vivid congated uniforms stood out in vivid contrast with the trees in the park. Thousands of spectators filled the stands or stood behind the police. Among the interested onlookers was Prince "Eddy" and the other children of the Prince and Princess of Wales. THE PREMIERS.

All the Colonial Premiers, Princes and other guests of the nation were present, to say nothing of peers and members of the House of Commons without end. The troops quickly marched past the Queen's carriage, the Prince of Wales receiving the salute. The Queen then drove slowly in and out of the lines, and the Prince of Wales closely inspected the troops and dismounted and conferred medals and crosses on those who had merited the honor, shaking hands with the recipients of the Victoria Cross. Then followed the most picturesque feature of the day. Duke of Connaught, at the head of the troops, and facing the Prince of Wales, in clear tones gave the command: "The parade will give three cheers for the King." He himself started the "Hip, hip." In a second the refrain was taken up, and there rose cheers such as London seldom hears, the sound of which must have room, half a mile away. nothing has been definitely settled. This proposal, if carried out, will be quite apart from the coronation, which, when it takes place, will be largely confined to the religious ceremony. The Duke of Argyll proposed a toast to the Dominion. Responding to this toast, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was Canada's pride to be first in devotion to the motherland. The colonies came to her assistance, said the Canadian Premier, not because Great Britain needed help to fight her own battles, but in order to prove henceforth the unity of the Empire. In conclusion, Sir Wilfrid said that already he foresaw a new South African confederation, with equal rights for all races.

Tart Debate on the Philippine Sends to Italy for a Bride He Question Developed.

The Sensational Conclusion of a Very! Comance in the Wedding of a Son and Stormy Session.

Washington, July 2.-After a session marked by some of the stormiest debates ever heard in the American Congress, the senate adjourned sine die at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. During the last hours of the session there was a tart debate on the Philippine ques-tion. The conference report on the Philippine government bill was adopted without very serious opposition, and then, when the decks of the senate were cleared for adjournment, Mr. Carmack called up his resolution providing for a continuance of the in-vestigation of the Philippine committee and for a visit to the Philippine Islands by the committee during the present summer. This started trouble, and for more than an hour a battle of words was waged. Mr. Spooner de-livered a scathing denunciation of the minority of the Philippine commission for what he declared was an attack upon the American army. Mr. Carmack denied that any attack had been made upon the army, and de-clared that any fool could charge such a calumny, and any parrot could be taught to repeat it. The resolution was referred to a committee thus effectually killing it. Just before ad-journment the usual resolutions were adopted, including one offered by Mr. Cockrell, the venerable Democrat of Missouri, cordially thanking President (pro tempore) Frye for the dignified, impartial and courteous manner in Amid a scene of enthusiasm that has not been paralleled since the exciting and stirring days of the Spanwar, Speaker Henderson, at 5:30 this afternoon, declared the House of Representatives adjourned without telay. In doing so he said that no House of Representatives since the doption of the constitution had done as much work as this one. The galleries were banked to the doors, and almost two-thirds of the members were in the seats on the floor.

While the cheering and applause were still in progress, the members on the floor began singing "My Country, 'Tis It was taken up by the correspondents in the press gallery over the speaker's chair, and by the spectators in the surrounding galleries, and soon the vast hall was ringing with the swelling chorus.
Other patriotic airs followed as the members exchanged farewells, "The Star Spangled Banner," alternating with "Dixie."

SENATORS AT FISTICUFFS. Washington, D. C., July 1. — Senator Bailey, of Texas, assaulted Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, last night, just after the senate had adjourned from executive session. The affair was the result of a bitter controversy which the two senators had during the afternoon. Senator Bailey demanded that Mr. Beveridge retract the language used at that time, and when the latter declined it is alleged Mr. Bailey seized him by the throat and threw his weight upon him at the same time. The two men were separated, however, before damage was done.

The prohibition convention received at its session yesterday morning the report of the committee appointed to submit a constitution. The constitution, as presented by this committee, declared that drunkenness was in proportion to the facilities for drinking and may be promoted and protected, or resticted and prohibited, by legislation. It stated that "battles for legislation" must be fought out in the arena of practical politics, and that those who desired to use their influence along these lines should operate in that direction. SOUGHT REFUGE IN DEATH

Couple Terminated Their Woes at Lake Geneva.

Unable to Endure the Memories of Other and Better Days.

Paris, July 2.-The tragic suicide of two Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, formerly of North Carolina, at Ouchy, on Lake Geneva, last week, is the tall of the American colony here. A long letter written by Vaughn, explaining the motive of the double suicide, was found on a table of the room in which the couple sought death. It was a pitiful story of hard luck, intermingled with tragic romance. Thirty years ago the couple were married in Switzerland, rented the same cottage in which they were found dead. Their bodies were discovered in their former bridal well off, they spent two years in Europe, and later returned home. Though natives of North Carolina, they removed to Portland, Ore., and Vaughn embarked in various business enterprises, which prospered. After years of married happiness, in which eight children were born to them, troubles came thick and fast. Their eight children died within three years. The youngest son, after accidentally shooting his eldest brother, himself met death in a mill explosion.

Six months later a favorite daughter died of typhoid fever contracted while nursing her husband who also succumbed to the disease. The husband of anther daughter embezzled funds intrusted to his care, and in order to save him Vaughn was obliged to make over most of his property. Finally, broken in health and spirit, the aged couple, left without a relative in the world, and with enough money to keep them from starving, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship.

The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom was by chance empty. They

The colonial and several home entries had yet to be received, so that there is every reason to expect an increase over the figures of last year, when there were 1.637 competitors. The number of entries for the St. George's Challenge vase, the other great Bisley volunteer competition, were at the first closing 1,494; also an incompany of The St. increase of 76.

June Temperature.

Toronto, July 1.-Director Stupart, of the observatory, has completed a table of June's temperatures, which shows that the mean temperatures of the month in Toronto, and presumably all over Canada, has been lower than for the past thirteen years. The mean by an inlarged and inflamed condition temperature was 60.3 degrees, which is of the veins, which are very numerous 2.3 below the average of the last 64 years. The coolest June ever recorded here was in 1842, when the average was 56.4. The last cool June was in 1889, when 59.7 was recorded. Mr. Stupart thinks the entire season will have more than the average of rain, spot period coincides with a period of heavy rainfall.

The natural attractions of Colorado are by no means confined to her mineral springs resorts, or splendid parks, nor to her beautiful mountain lakes. In whatever direction the traveler may choose by rail, if he goes to the mountains, his journey is a succession of glorious scenery, varying in the characteristics of placid beauty, grotesque ruggedness, an awe-inspiring grandeur. Up the canons, by heavy grades and difficult curves, are stupendous walls rising perpendicularly or gradually sloping back toward the greater hills, and yet again leaning forward above the chasm, as if threatening to come tumbling down, projecting great rocks that hang suspended over the train as it glides smoothly by, it is a panorama of wonders and grandeurs such as belong only to the Rocky Mountains. Boston, Mass, July 2.-Miss Christine still undecided. J. Nissen, of this city, believes that Jane Toppan, the confessed murdress of 31 people, tried to poison her in 1891. Miss Nissen is sure that the Toppan woman gave her morphine, and that would not have been alive today had she swallowed a second dose of a liquid which Miss Toppan offered

"The second night I was under her care," said Miss Nissen, "I asked her to summon one of the house doctors to remove a bandage on my knee, which was paining me. I asked her times to do this, but she seemed anxious to look after me herself, and finally she brought me a drink which she said would put me to sleep and relieve the pain. When I drank it it tasted awful bitter, and I rather liked it because of my feverish condition, and soon after I did not feel the pain so much. But suddenly I began to feel a numbness in my arms, and I felt as if I were partly paralyzed. Then Miss Toppan stroked my head as if I were a baby, told me not to mind the pain, and that I would be all right in a little while. Every few seconds she would gaze into my eyes with an expression I could not understand. Several times after this Miss Toppan raised my eyelids and examined the eyeballs, and about 1 o'clock in the morning she tried to induce me to take some more of the liquid, which made me drowsy. this time I had decided that the drink was not a good one for me to take, and I told her so. She coaxed me to drink it, but I was firm, and the next day she shifted from night to day duty. And that, I am satisfled, is how my life was saved."

Miss Nissen's story is similar in many ways to that which witnesses told at Miss Toppan's trial in Barnstable about the death of Mrs. Mary D. Gibbs, of Cataumet.

New York, July 1. — Reports from Central and Northern New York indicate that the continuous rains of June have done many thousands of dollars' worth of damage to the crops. Farmers say that alfalfa, timothy and clover are rotting in the fields; that the oats and barley crops will consist chiefly of straw; that sweet corn and the regular field corn are rotting, and that pasture lands are too wet to produce nutritious food for stock. In Cortland county the corn crop is believed to be ruined, while only a small part of the hay has been harvested. In Oneida county farmers are replanting their corn.

He declared these outlaws have a small library containing only the most edifying works. They are, he says, apparently on the very best terms with the monks residing on the solitary heights of the mountains and in one of the convents the ransoms of $20,-000 each were paid, the monks supplying the scales in which the coin was weighed. The brigands are still holding prisoners two French women, payment of

The Council and the Street Railway. The city, according to the advice of

Its solicitor, is entitled to two miles, or 20,560 feet, of new street railway

The Street Railway Company offers to make extensions of 5,800 feet on South street and 2,250 feet on the Hamilton road, conditional upon being allowed to tear up 1,800 feet on Rectory street.

Briefly stated, the company agrees to increase its trackage by 6,250 feet, while the city, in the opinion of its own counsel, can claim 10,560 feet.

The City Council has voted to accept the 6,250 feet. The Council snubs Its own solicitor, and capitulates to the Street Railway Company without a show of fight. It votes to permit the tearing up of 1,800 feet of track, to the great inconvenience of a large section of the city. It surrenders all right to over three-quarters of a mile of track, when outlying portions of the city are asking for more street rallway accommodation.

The Council has greatly obliged the Street Railway Company - but what about obliging the citizens?

London and Niagara Power.

The long-distance transmission of electrical energy is becoming a live question in Western Ontario. Power generated at Niagara Falls can easily be transmitted as far as London-in fact, much farther-but the problem of cost has yet to be worked out. Perhaps in no part of the world has long-distance transmission been demonstrated with such success and on so large a sale as on the Pacific Coast, particularly in California. The history of several great electrical undertakings in that state was outlined in a paper recently read before the New York Electrical Society by F. A. C. Perrine, D.Sc. "The traveler in the mountains," he said, "finds, far away from any appearance of civilization, a well-kept canal, or ditch, as these pioneer engineers would call it, buy Trust cigars. This method of and following it for a few miles, a not unmusical note reaches his ear, and he knows that beneath his feet along the river bank lies one of those power plants, ceaselessly generating current to be used in the heighboring mines or the distant cities." The most notable enterprise is the Bay Counties line. The power is generated at Colgate, on the Yuba River, in the Sierra Mountains, and is transmitted to San Francisco, 222 miles distant, to Stockton, 218 miles, and to several intermediate cities and towns. In a word, "energy aggregating several thousand horsepower is distributed in every day hard commercial service at a distance of 220 miles from its point of generation." Mr. Perrine adds that "these distances are met successfully in every day working, and the interruptions in supply have at no time been serious, nor has there at any time been any reason to feel that the work is at all of an experimental character. Up at Colgate their generators run day and night supplying power to these distant points with the result Her trebled millions, and loud leagues that the company is successful, not only from an engineering point of view, but financially successful with the success that has given confidence and strength to all electrical transmission securities along the Pacific Coast. These plants operate lights, mines, railroads, flour mills, and in every operation have given such service to their customers that in spite of the fact of recent discoveries of large quantities of fuel oil, their only difficulty is to find enough power to supply the demand made upon them." Another great enterprise is the Standard Electric Company which is now stringing aluminum lines to

The Imperial Conference. The Imperial Conference has held a preliminary sitting, and will resume next week. In an interview, Premier Ross takes an optimistic view of the preferential trade question. Mr. Ross le an advanced Imperialist, and rather favors Col. Denison's scheme of raising an Imperial defense fund by a tax of 5 or 10 per cent on all foreign imports entering British countries. This would give an advantage to colonial products in the British market, and might be a step toward a larger measare of Imperial preference. Mr. Barton, the Premier of Australia, dismisses the idea of an Imperial zollverein as Impracticable, and any scheme of Imperial federation as premature. Australia and New Zealand, he points out, | thing.

not only provide for their own land defenses under existing conditions, but contribute toward maintaining auxillary squadrons in Australasian waters. On both these questions-trade and defense-Mr. Barton says his desire is to keep an open mind. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has preserved silence in public, but in the deliberations of the conference his will be the most potent voice among the colonials. The remark of the Duke of Argyle at the Dominion Day dinner last night confirms the assurance that a fast British-Canadian steamship service is in sight. The subsidizing of this line will be one of the topics of the conference, and there will be agresment in this if in nothing else.

Now that King Edward and Joshua Sanford are both out of danger, the world breathes easier.

The London Spectator says the time is coming when every farmer will have his individual electrical supply generated by his windmill, and performing a large part of his farm work.

The act of the United States Congress repealing the war taxes took effect yesterday. This will reduce taxation $70,000,000 a year; but the people are entitled to the relief as the Government had a surplus of $90,000,000 last year.

The city engineer has several times complained that the street cars are being diverted from the city lines to the Springbank route. The jellyfish board of works, at each complaint, tells him to write another letter to the company. The correspondence goes on and the cars go off.

Sheriff Brady, of Woodstock, makes the suggestion that subscription lists be opened in neighboring towns and villages for the purpose of raising a testimonial for Joshua Sanford. Sanford's heroism should have some public recognition. He became a welldigger to earn money to educate himself, so that any aid given him now would further a praiseworthy ambition. The man is a miracle of courage-one of nature's noblemen.

The independent American tobacco manufacturers and dealers have filed a complaint with the attorney-general of the United States against the American Tobacco Trust, reciting that the trust which now controls the output of plug and smoking tobacco, refuses to supply dealers unless the latter coercion, it is affirmed, is gradually destroying active competition in cigar manufacturing throughout the country and by consequence demoralizing the cigar leaf tobacco trade everywhere. The tentacles of the American octopus are also reaching over into Canada, and the tobacco manufacturers of this country have entered a complaint.

The King's illness recalls the time, 31 years ago, when his life hung by thread. On Feb. 17, 1872, a service of thanksgiving for his recovery was held at St. Paul's attended by the Queen and the prince himself. In his poem, "To the Queen," Tennyson refers to it: "-That rememberable day When pale as yet, and fever-worn, Who scarce had plucked his flickering life again From halfway down the shadow of the grave. Passed with thee through thy people and their love, And London rolled one tide of joy

Attention is called to the degree in which the five leading religious denominations in Canada have maintained their relative proportions in the last 40 years. According to the census returns of 1861, 1881 and 1901, the number per hundred of the population attached to the various religi-

In this connection the Guelph Mercury remarks that it would seem that in Canada, at least, the people as a whole had given heed, denominationally, at least, to Paul's injunction, "Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called."

The Boston Herald thinks wheat fields in the Canadian Northwest will be better served by southern railroad connections than by systems running east and west like the Canadian lines. It would be of great advantage to Minneapolis, says the Herald, to have these wheat fields as direct tributaries to its flour mills. Our contemporary should remember that the great bulk of the wheat crop of the Northwest will be exported, and the shortest route to the head of navigation on the great lakes will be over Canadian lines. The Canadian Northwest will not object to selling its wheat to Minneapolis, but the United States must first lower the duty. No doubt the American millers would like to secure the high grade Canadian wheats to improve the quality of their export flours, but Canadian millers would not welcome the competition.

The Song of the Camp.

[Bayard Taylor.] Bayard Taylor.]

Bayard 'faylor was born in Pennsylvania, in 1825. He was connected with the New York Tribune, 1849-50. Most of his life was spent in travel. In 1853 he joined Perry's expedition to Japan. He corresponded with the American papers, and on his return to the United States he lectured. From 1862-63 he lived at St. Petersburg, as secretary of the legation there. He died in Beriia, where he was United States minister, in 1878. He has written of his travels, has translated Goethe's "Faust," and was besides a poet and novelist.

"Give us a song!" the soldiers cried,
The outer trenches guarding.
When the heated guns of the camps allied Grew weary of bombarding.

The dark Redan, in silent scoff, Lay grim and threatening under; And the tawny mound of the Malakoff No longer belch'd its thunder.

There was a pause. A guardsman said:
"We storm the forts tomorrow;
Sing while we may, another day
Will bring enough of sorrow."

They lay along the battery's side,
Below the smoking cannon;
Brave hearts from Severn and from Clyde
And from the banks of Shannon. They sang of love and not of fame;
Forgot was Britain's glory;
Each heart recalled a different name,
But all sang "Annie Laurie."

Voice after voice caught up the song, Until its tender passion

Sir Wiltrid and Mr. Barton. [Toronto Globe.]

We publish today a letter from Mr. lahan, a Canadian, who is now settled in Australia. In New South Wales Mr. Gahan was somewhat surprised to find little sympathy for the objects of the proposed coronation conference. Fremier Barton is being closely watched and told that he must not commit the commonwealth, and he has promised that he will not in any way trench on the powers of the parliament. Mr. Gahan finds a good deal of opposition to the proposed preferential tariff, espe-cially among free traders. There is also a disinclination to take any act in which will interfere with the German market for Australian wool. Proposals for increased military burdens do not find favor.

We may add that there is evidence that Fremier Barton is being subjected to criticism not unlike that which is being directed against Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Sydney Bulletin, a free lance in journalism, represents him in a cartoon as cutting the throat of the Australian kangaroo, in order to win imperial honors. One hand holds the bloody knife, the other is stretched out to receive a bauble labeled, "To Baron Barton, from Joe." In this country, Le Journal represents Laurier as eager for these ornaments, and Barton as the sturdy democrat who flouts the colonial secretary.

OPLICE ARRESTED DONKEY

Jerusalem Pony Ate Contents of a Market Stall

And Was Taken Into Custody by Parisian "Bobbies."

Paris, July 2.-Miss Lizzie Van Buren, the daughter of a wealthy New Orleans merchant, got herself into serious trouble, the result of her ownership of a bob-tailed donkey named Czar, which, under peculiarly laughable circumstances, resisted arrest, knocking out two policemen, one of whom is now in the hospital as a result of the encounter.

Miss Van Buren and her maid had gone to market, driving the donkey in little cart. While his mistress was engaged among the stalls Czar helped himself to a copious assortment of carrots, lettuce, asparagus and strawberries. Despite the rumpus raised by the despoiled market woman Miss Van Buren refused to pay for her donkey's meal, asserting that the owner of the stall should have guarded against such depredation.

Two policemen summoned to the scene said that pending adjustment by the courts they would be compelled to remove the guilty animal to the pound. Then the policemen got into the cart and whipped the donkey, while Miss Van Buren stood by, shout- pelled.

Rose like an anthem, rich and strong-

Dear girl, her name he dared not speak, But as the song grew louder. Something upon the soldier's cheek Washed off the stains of powder.

Beyond the darkening ocean burned The bloody sunset's embers. While the Crimean valleys learn'd How English love remembers.

And once again a fire of hell 'Rain'd on the Russian quarters, With scream of shot and burst of shell And bellowing of the mortars!

And English Mary mourns for him
Who sang of "Annie Laurie."

ing "Whoa, Czar! Whoa!" until she was threatened with arrest. The donkey absolutely refused to be driven. Unhitched from the eart, he declined to budge, in spite of the two vigorous policemen tugging at the bridle. When police reinforcements tried to push him from behind he became exceedingly belligerent. Indeed, the first touch caused such a pyrotechnic display of kicking that policeman was courageous enough to make a second attempt. After an uproarious scene, lasting over an hour, a strong roustabout lifted the donkey bodily into his cart, where he was strapped with harness, and the police pushed the novel perambulator to the pound. Miss Buren's father was compelled to deposit security of $250 before the animal was released.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 1.—The grain markets, after having given early indications of Quietness, broke loose again today and geored new high prices in the July detwery. July corn touched 78c, foreign indications that the bull crowd means to carry the corner through to a finish. July wheat closed ½c to ½c higher, September wheat ¾c to 7½c up, July corn 1½c higher and September corn ½c lower. July oats showed a closing loss of ½c, while September was ½c improved. Provisions were dull and closed unchanged to 7½c to 10c higher. Primary receipts of wheat aggregated 509,000 bu, against 460,000 bu the corresponding day a year ago. BETTER CONDITIONS IN INDIA. A dispatch has been received here from the governor-general of India. Lord Curzon of Keddleston, saying that better conditions prevail in the famine districts of India than have been indicated by the recent press reports. There have been heavy rains in Assam, Burma and coast districts, useful showers have fallen in the Raiputana region and in Upper India, but more rain is needed in the Bombay presidency, the central provinces and the Berar territory. The number of persons who are now given relief amounts to 439,000, which is a decrease of 20,000. A further fall of rain would probably result in a large decrease in the number now being relieved. CRONJE TAKES THE OATH General Cronje, the Boer general, with his army was captured by Lord Roberts, at Paardeberg, Orange Free State, in February, 1900, has taken the oath of allegiance to King Edward. of the remaining prisoners at St. Helena, are following his example.

CHINESE REFUSE TO PAY. The Taota of Shanghai has notified the bankers' commission China refuses to pay the July installment of the indemnity except at the rate of exchange prevailing April 1, The foreign ministers consider that the Taotai's declaration is the result of the announcement of the United States minister, that the United States sustain China's contention, and is willing to accept payment on the basis mentioned. Some of the min-isters insist that the United States policy is unreasonable, and in direct opposition to the terms of the proto-Great Britain proposes to permit silver payment of the indemnity until 1910, on account of China's great loss, owing to the depreciation price of silver. The ministers of the other powers regard the proposal as being a further complication, and equivalent to an admission of China's

UNIQUE DEMONSTRATION AT THE G. T. R. CAR WORKS

A ceremony appropriate to the day, and unique in being a concerted patriotic demonstration undertaken by the employes of a single concern took place yesterday morning at the Grand Trunk car shops. The demonstration took the form of a flag-raising, the flag being a gift from the G. T. R. Library and Literary Association to the employes of the works. For weeks those engaged at the car shops had been making preparations for the event, which was originally set for Coronation Day. The King's illness resulted in the postponement of the flag-raising till Dominion Day, but outside of this change of date, no other alterations were made in the programme. At 10 o'clock, the hour at which the demonstration opened, the lawn at the west of the fire hall, where the 100foot flagpole had been erected, was crowded with spectators, to the number of several thousands, including hun-

The heartiness with which they took part in the singing and cheering showed that they were actuated by an enthusiasm born of loyalty. Every mention of King Edward's name was greeted with cheers. The sentiment of "God Save the King" was expressed in even the bright faces of the spectators. the spectators.

Among those on the large platform from which the speaking took place were Chairman Treleaven, Mayor Beck, Ald. Abram, Gerry, Cooper and Dreaney, Dr. English, Sir John Carling, Police Magistrate Love, Chief Roe, Rev. Messrs. Jackson, Owen, Hamilton and Culp, and Messrs. A. G. McWhinney, R. Blackwell, J. After the opening ode, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," was sung, and the prayer of invocation, delivered by Rev. C. C. Owen, Chairman Treleaven, master builder at the shops, arose to make the opening address. He said he was at a loss to express his pleasure at seeing so many present, to take part in the demonstration, whose object was twofold, being partly to show love and loyalty to the empire and the crown, and partly to show the citizens what good work was being done at the car shops. They were somewhat isolated out there, and the Union Jack would have its ever-cheering effect on all those near. Mr. Treleaven said he was sure the men would do

All the rocky barriers that form the channel and the Fingers were suswater, gathered there as the result of the flow of days from the Upper Yukon. The water spread far up the kill the stream and threatened to overflow the banks, and there is no telling what might have been the result had not the government blasted the keystone of ice from the lower portion and opened the gorge. Captain Jack Williams, of the White

Pass Company, fired the charge which opened the jam. He was standing in front of the Fingers on a piece of ice when the telling shot was fired. With unexpected suddenness the great mass of blocked matter forced the situation, Williams was sent swirling down the stream before the cracking, maddening tumult of escaping waters and chaotic ice floes. Fortunately, he was swept to the base of one of the cliffs and there found a narrow niche in which to cling.

A FORTUNATE REFUGE. He seized the projecting wall and sprung to the niche and with his back turned to the bluff and facing the wild procession of the elements, he stood fear and trembling. For one hour he stood on that rock, and the grinding, crunching, plunging ice went past him in merciless roar. Williams' fellows had gone to the lower end of the rapids, expecting to see him on some ice floe far down the stream, or, perhaps, most likely, not to see him at all. Walter Wensky, German consul at Dawson, happened along at that time and with a strong field glass scanned the canyon. Wensky went up stream instead of down and soon located him in the niche. The roaring of the rushing ice and water through the rocky gorge made impossible for anyone heard in the vicinity of where Williams stood. It was all men could do to hear one another when they stood together. It was one wild, plunging race, of which Consul Wensky says: "Never in my life had I seen such spectacle of grandeur, such a magdemonstration of nature's nificent physical forces exerting their awful power. If ever there was a awe-inspiring in its effect on man this was one. SAVED BY A ROPE.

W. B. Hall Died at Headingly, Manitoba.

Born at Byron and Married Daughter of Freeman Talbot.

The Winnipeg Telegram of recent date gives a sketch of the life of the late W. B. Hall, who died some time ago at Headingly, Man. He was born in July, He moved to the Red River settlement in 1858. The following year he took up land from the Hudson Bay Company in from the Hudson Bay Company in Headingly, where he was the pioneer Canadian farmer. In September, 1861, he maried Matilda M., second daughter of the Hon. Freeman Taltot, then of La Seuer county, Minnesota, but formerly of London, Ont. He returned to Fort Garry with his bride that autumn, descending the Red River from Fort Abercombile in a birch bark canoe, and they had since made their home at "The Hermitage," Headingly. He was prominent in church, Masonic and political life. He is survived by his wife and seven children.

Springbank and Port Stanley Drew Crowds-Other Centers.

Nearly all London remained at home yesterday, instead of leaving the city in search of holiday amusement. The exceedingly unsatisfactory state of the weather for the few previous days was weather for the few previous days was sufficient to discourage any very extensive out-of-town travel, and the railroad companies report light excursions. Port Stanley, of course, drew a large number, and those who went to the lakeside spent a delightful day. Those who stayed in the city were divided between Tecumseh Park, Springbank, Queen's Park and the demonstration at the Grand Trunk carshops. Many people remained quietly at home resting, and can now look back upon the day with pleasure that probably surpasses that of their neighbors, who sought excitement at one or the who sought excitement at one or the other of the places where amusement was provided. The appearance of the stands at Tecumseh Park yesterday afstands at Tecumseh Park yesterday arternoon surprised even those who expected a big crowd at the lacrosse match. It resembled a day in the old times, when the baseball fever was at its height. It was a crowd of typical enthusiasts, embracing all classes of the city—such a crowd as London can always bring together in support of the players that wear local colors. The day was spent very pleasantly by those who went to Springbank, but the seemingly inevitable crushing to get upon the who went to Springbank, but the seemingly inevitable crushing to get upon the cars coming back was as tremendous, disagreeable and dangerous as ever. It is at the present time the one marring feature of a trip to the park. It seems a pity that the brainy men of the street railway company cannot devise an improved method of getting their patrons on to the cars for the return trip, for. on to the cars for the return trip, for, large as the receipts of the Springbank line may be, they would swell considerably if it were possible to get home again with more comfort.

An interesting meeting was held in Bishop Cronyn Hall on Monday afternoon last under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Huron. The Lord Bishop presided, and the following missionaries were present: Mrs. Bompas, wife of the ing been properly marked for Bord Lord Bishop of Selkirk; Miss Bland, (Con.), by the voters.

Miss Bland gave a graphic description of the good work done in the zenanas of India and China, telling of the wonderful way in which it had grown since the zenanas, or women's houses, of India had been opened to Christian teaching and influence. In 1850 the first attempt was made to introduce a woman zenana worker, but without result. Later attempts were more successful, and now the call is for more workers, India is open to the Gospel. In Agra, where Miss Bland has been engaged for 25 years, the work has increased with marvelous rapidity. She referred to the terrible distress during the famine, and the great assistance given to the starving natives by the systematic help of the missionaries, some of whom laid down their lives for the suffering ones. She alluded in touching words to the sad state of the widows of India, many of them children under 10 years of age, and to the good work done by the Punidita Ramabai in the home established for widows, also giving instances of the faith of the converts, and the many encouragements to be met with in their work.

Mrs. Bompas was warmly greeted by all present, who knew her years of self-denying labor within the Arctic Circle. She gave a vivid description of the state of the Indians of the Far North, and contrasted the treatment the Indian women received there with the sheltered life of the native Hindu. In the north the women were the hewers of wood and drawers of water," performing all the menial work, while their husbands rested at The advent of the white man, with his "firewater" and civilized vices, had proved a curse to the poor Indians, many of whom had died from the effects. She described also the country and the difficulties of travel, instancing having been left with other passengers for eight months 300 miles from their destination, 30 miles within the Arctic Circle, the captain refusing to take them farther. She gave many examples of the self-denying work of the missionaries, and asked for more men to work in their diocese.

Mr. Watson gave an exhibition of a great many curies from South America, which were esely examined by all present, and der expressed at the ingenuity of e natives. Mr. Watson's explanation of the manners

A very pretty sociable was standing at the door of the counting-house, and a very pretty bouquet, fresh from the countity, was lying on the front seat thereof. Fresher and more blooming than the paint on the sociable, or the flowers in the bouquet, Miss Jones sat solitary in the carriage. Gilbert's hat was off in a moment, and the young lady shook hands with him, and blushed and laughed, and wondered at meeting him there, and was glad to see him; and seemed to have nothing more to say, and to be rather shy and ill at ease, and relieved to take refuge with John Gordon, whom she knew so well, and who belonged, as it were, to the establishment.

Whatever may have been her opinion of the latter, Bella entertained a profound admiration for Gilbert, whom she regarded as a superior being, altogether removed from her own sphere. She had seen him praneing about in the park, on the most familiar terms with personages whose names were matters of history, or threading his way on foot among the carriages of those despotic ladies of fashion who rule their own world so rigorously; and she believed him in her heart to be a compound of Bayard and Beau Brummel. Notwithstanding her rosy cheeks and her loud laugh, Bella cherished a tendency to hero-worship. She reverenced Mr. Orme therefore, and was a little afraid of him, which was uncalled for, and colored up whenever he spoke to her, which was uncomfortable. So she addressed herself to the junior partner:

"I was to wait for papa here; he has gone to the bank, and he said he shouldn't be long, and I thought we were late for there was a grand stoppage, as usual, in Fleet street; and I brought you some flowers. Mr. Gordon, for the counting-house. It does look so dreary; I can't tell you how I pity you on these fine spring days."

"Thank you, Miss Jones," said John, taking the nosegay as if he had been a

"Thank you, Miss Jones," said John, taking the nosegay as if he had been a gardener. "Thank you. They'll soon wither in there, and then you must bring me some more."

"Why don't you come and fetch thing my wourself?" asked the young lady. "You have not been near us for a week, and you don't know how beautiful the Villa looks now, and hov? the things have come out the last few days. You used always to dine with us on Sundays, and now you never do."

"Hallo, John," interrupted Gilbert. "here's an accusation, a manifest charge against you. Give an account of yourself. Where do you go on Sundays?—I assure you, Miss Jones, he does not spend them with me."

"Miss Jones looked as if she was going to say: "So much the better for him"; but if such was her opinion, she sent it back from her lips and answered demurely enough:

the back and shook hands with Gilbert, and took off his hat, and mopped his bald head, returning his silk handker-chief, as his father had done before him, into the crown. Then turning abruptly to John, he asked him:

"How about Surety & Safe?"

"Seventeen and nine in the pound," answered John.

"And the bales from Liverpool?"

"Got the invoice by today's post—second delivery."

"Then I needn't go in there," pursued the alderman, pointing over his shoulder towards his counting-house; "and incled, work ought to be over for you today, and play-time to begin. I've done my business, and as for Mr. Gilbert and mr/business; and as for Mr. Gilbert and mr/business in passing and general loose play. The play at all—se much the better for them. Got a handful of trumps aplece, and 7.0 thanks to anybody but the dealer. What sex you gentlemen? Will you immp into at all—se much the better for them. Got a handful of trumps apiece, and to thanks to anybody but the dealer. What say you gentlemen? Will you jump into the sociable—drive off to the Villa—saddle of Welsh mutton—'34 claret, yountry air, and a rubber—wind up with a bit of supper, and just one of the old brandy—bottled before you were born. Mr. Gilbert. Dear, dear, how you boys keep growing up, to be sure!"

The alderman had been Gilbert's guardian. As a practical man of business, and not averse to trouble, he had a course been a working one: and it was hard to say whether he took a greater pride in his former ward, for whom he had a sincere affection, or in the fine fortune which he had nursed so long and tenderly, and the inroads into which he fortune which he had nursed so long and tenderly, and the inroads into which he contemplated with the same kind of feeling with which you see a child trampling down and destroying the gardenbeds you have raked and watered, and put in order for him. It is the urchin's own, and therefore you do not interfere; but it is provoking, nevertheless. He called him Mr. Gilbert still, and considered him a very promising boy, though he was nearly thirty.

"You forget, papa," interposed his daughter, who in all such matters was the keeper of the alderman's memory, if the keeper of the alderman's memory, if not his conscience—"you forget we were engaged to dine with the Bullingdons. This is Blanche Bullingdon's birthday. You know they are coming to us on Thursday."

The latter sentence was whispered in her father's ear. I think Miss Bella rather intended it in the light of a suggestion. In good truth, such a star as Gilbert would be no slight acquisition to John Gordon took her in to dinner it would be a day to mark with white chalk and her happiness would be complete. Bella had accustomed herself to depend rather too much on her staunch ally, the

It is very short rottee, I know; but we shall at least have somebody to meet you and a little music—and you mustn't mind if it's very stupid," pleaded poor Bella, looking apologetically at Mr. Orme.

Gilberr was already thinking how far he could get out of it. He had even gone so far as to murmur something of a previous engagement, and an operanight, and "hoping some other time." when the alderman, whose hoswitality was unbourded caught him by the arm.

LONDON WON. If the 800 enthusiasts from Woodstock had known what was in store for them yesterday it is likely that they would have given this town a wide berth. But they didn't, and they had to put up with what followed. The London boys could not bear to disappoint the large crowd of local rooters who were present, and they gave an exhibition of lacrosse that convinced the visitors that there were some things about the game that they do not know. The home team showed that they could give and receive plenty of hard treatment, and there was so much rough play that with the exception of the first five minutes there was not a full complement of players on the field. One Woodstock man was so badly hurt in the first quarter that he was not able to resume play until the beginning of the third. Dowse was laid off to even matters up, and by the time these men were back on the field, Taylor and Rider had been given a was to be for blood. Woodstock started the scoring after 71/2 minutes' of play, and as soon as the ball passed between the posts into the net Woodstock supporters rose to their feet "en masse" and showed their appreciation of the feat in the loudest possible manner.

After this, London managed to keep the ball pretty well down into Woodstock's territory, and 51/2 minutes afterwards O'Brien tied the score, making the shoot from a pretty combination among the home players. The boys in blue and white did not seem to like this, and the minute the ball was faced off in the middle of the field, they took it right through London's defense, and Bowman put it between the poles. It looked as though both teams were bound to keep the score as even as possible, for London again became very aggressive, and after two minutes of fast work Hawkshaw things up, and completed the scoring for the first quarter. After the five-minute rest both teams went into the game with renewed vigor and the play for a while was very even. Bretz cross-checked Bowman, and the referee gave him five minutes on the bench. With only ten men on the field, the local stick handlers scored their third goal, Taylor making the shot after six minutes play. Woodstock worked hard to overcome the lead, but the London defense was as firm as a stone wall. Nothing passed them. At last a good combination on Woodstock's part made the desired opening. McMillan took advantage of it, and the score was tied again. Both teams worked hard, but were unable to gain any more ground. When the whistle blew for half-time the score stood 3 all. In the third quarter lots of heavy checking was done on both sides, and the referee was kept busy watching for offenders. Taylor and Rider were ruled off for the remainder of the game for fighting. Shortly after this Hawkshaw was caught cross-checking a man and was given five minutes to rest. Kelly tried to make a long run and was knocked out by a heavy check. Everybody seemed to be into the game for all it was worth and a West was too anxious to little more. prevent a Woodstock man from getting away with the ball and got five minutes off for using his lacrosse stick in an indiscriminate manner. During the last twenty minutes of the game the old gold and purple players showed what they really could do in the way of playing the old Indian game. Woodstock managed to keep on its feet for the first seven minutes, but after that they ceased to exist. O'Brien secured the ball, and by a well-directed shot broke the tie, and then the fun started. London seemed able to do exactly what they liked with the visitors, and kept the game well in hand until the finish. impossible for the Woodstock players to get past London's defense, al-though they played most of their defense men away forward in a desperate attempt to tie the score. THEY ARE NATURE'S WARNING CRY.

They are sure indication of sexual weakness or nervous trouble, failing powers or disease of the kidneys and pelvic region. A woman's back-ache tells of that weakness which makes it a labor and agony to live. Weak back and its numerous causes can positively be cured at home by the patient applying to the aching spot a safe and successful method of electric treatment which gently and soothingly dispels pain and saturates the whole body with renewed vigor, making life worth living. It is known as

DR. McLaughlin's Method of Self-Applied ELECTRICAL TREATMENT.

My system is the one of giving a mild, continuous current for hours every night as the patient sleeps. The nervous system drinks this in until it has become slowly saturated with the life. It has been taken up so slowly that it remains there and becomes a part of the natural force. This plan, repeated nightly for twenty or thirty nights, transforms a weak, derilitated system into a mine of energy, where health is evident in every motion.

My appliance is put on when the patient retires; he feels the gentle, glowing current instantly, and regulates it to suit his taste, and then goes to sleep like a babe and awakens in the morning refreshed and full of this grand energy. This is repeated nightly until he is well.

If you are suffering with pains in the back, or that dull ache in the muscles or joints, "come and go" pains in the shoulders, chest and side, sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism or any other pain or ache, my Belt will cure you. If you are doubtful of its ability to cure your case you can make arrangements by giving me security for the price of my Belt, use it at my risk and

PAY WHEN

Now, dear reader, if I am willing to accept your case on the above terms you cannot afford to lose the opportunity. All I ask is evidence of your honesty and good faith. I have had cases that have been proportunity. All I ask is evidence of your honesty and good faith. I have had cases that have been proportunity increased incurable by the leading physicians and given up by our hospitals; I have restored them to health and strongth.

Write for Free Book—If you can't call at my office, write for my beautiful book, which describes my method and gives prices. All letters are given prompt attention. Statement blanks will be sent you, and upon receipt of your symptoms, I will advise you fully whether my Belt will cure you and the cost. I will hold your letters sacredly confidential

SPECIAL NOTICE—If you have an old belt of any other make which has burned and blistered you, or one that did not possess electricity, bring it in and I will allow you one half the price of mine for it.

Chicago, July 1.-Today's races at Washington Park were run on a very sticky track. A sensation developed in the defeat of Dick Welles, the 2-yearold wonder, in the Kenwood stakes. There were only three starters, and Welles was held at 10 to 8 in the betting, while 15 to 1 could be had against either of the others. The horses ran close together to the stretch, when Stem Winder fell back, and the others fought it out, Tom Cogan winning by a length. Cogan belongs to S. C. Despite the fact that he was carrying top weight, 121 pounds, and was to meet such fast ones at Kamara and Roehampton, he was installed favorite, with Kamara second choice and Roehampton the outsider. Roe hampton was an added starter, and for the first time this year he had the weight he likes, 105 pounds, but he performed very badly, finishing eight lengths behind Kamara. The finish was so close that none but the judges were in a position to decide, Kamara and Herbert coming to the wire head and head. Capt. S. C. Brown lost his promising filly, Martle Lewis, by Sir Dixon Lady Wayward, today. After being exercised this morning she was taken suddenly ill and died soon afterwards. > It was rather unfortunate that the postponement of the coronation prevented the holding of the demonstration on Coronation Day, as was the intention of the city lodges had it been held that day. Many hundreds of visitors from outside lodges would have been present, but as the postponement meant a total upsetting of the plans of these lodges, the result was a much smaller number of visitors than would have been the case had the event taken place as originally arranged for. Still in spite of these unforeseen difficulties, the demonstration was attended with a gratifying degree of success, and the Sons of England are to be heartily congratulated on adding another to the long list of patriotic gatherings which have proven so enjoyable and successful when held under their auspices. . Other countries and other empires have existed in the past, but not one could hold its own with the land in which Canadians live. Britain is only a small island, yet all the Empire's subjects are proud of that island from which their fathers and mothers came. The first speaker of the day was Sir John Carling, K. C. M. G., who, in John Carling, K. C. M. G., who, in being introduced by Chairman Trelsaven, was described as a builder of monuments to the city's name. Sir John said he felt greatly pleased at being called upon to witness a raising of the flag of which Canadians are all so proud, and he thought that everyone present had the same feelings. News had come that the King was approaching a recovery, and the dreadful suspense of the nation was broken. The speaker remembered when the present site of the car shops was a close bush, in which the boys of London and the vicinity came to pick berries. Not many years ago, said Sir John, Canada was a wilderness and the home of roaming beasts. As this city had become enriched in industry, so had the country; two facts for which all had every rea-son to be proud. Excellent educational that the incision made into the modernized railway and most intelligent people on the earth, all added evidence of Canada's prog-ress. What an anxious week it has been, and how many prayers have gone up to the Father of Mercies on behalf of our beloved King from all nationalities and creeds! The newspapers tell us that every evening the Indian troops who were brought to London for the coronation retire at sunset to offer a prayer in their own way to their own God for the great white emperor, and in the Jewish Synagogue at Montreal at the conclusion of the service on last Sabbath evening, the rabbi, in calling on the congregation to pray for the recovery of the King, used words which made such an impression on my mind that I saved the extract from the newspaper report and will repeat his utterance to you. He said: 'I do not exaggerate when I say of the King was a cut into the heart of every Jew in the British empire.
