NEVER ACTED FOR JIM HILL; MR. ROWELL KILLS CANARD

The Liberal Leader, Before Enthusiastic and Big Gathering at Woodstock, Outlines His Progressive Policies—States His Position on Hydro-Electric Power Scheme.

[By Our Own Man.]
Woodstock, Nov. 23.—Mr. Newton W. Rowell, K. C., the leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, was accorded a great welcome here tonight, on his first appearance before a public meeting in this section of the riding of North Oxford, where he is seeking election. The weather was anything but pleasant. A heavy rain fell early in the evening, and the walking was abominable. In spite of that fact the opera house was filled with enthusiastic Liberals and their friends.
Mr. Rowell made a telling speech. Most emphatically he contradicted the notion of the London Free Press, that he had acted in the interests of J. J. Hill and the Steel Corporation. Never in his life had he anything whatever to do with either of them. The charge that he was a corruption lawyer was neatly turned by him. He asserted that his experience with corporations would be the best training a leader could receive, when dealing with corporations as a leader of a party or premier of the province.
The Spills System.
The Liberal leader made a strong plea for the protection of the Niagara power scheme from the spills system. He would be inimical to the interests of the municipalities in the province to place Niagara power under the control of the Government, as proposed by Sir James Whitney.
Other issues were touched by Mr. Rowell in a most convincing way. He won the hearts of the Liberals, and many Conservatives in North Oxford, as elsewhere, and there is no doubt his party will make a great thing on Dec. 11.

WOMAN SHRIEKED WHEN LED AWAY

Mrs. Rose Freeman Created a Scene in the Police Court This Morning.

THE CASE A PITIFUL ONE

Family Cannot Live With Her—Salvation Army May Be Asked To Use Its Influence To Save Her.

Shriek after shriek echoed and re-echoed through the police station this morning when Rose Freeman, well known to both the county court and the local police, was led out of the room to the cells below, where she must wait until Monday until Police Magistrate Judd decides what is best to be done with her.
Mrs. Freeman's case has presented a problem to the magistrate the like of which he has not dealt with before. Her record is not a nice one, but nevertheless Mrs. Freeman's case is extremely pitiful.
In Pitiful Condition.
When Constable Fish went to arrest her Thursday after she had been seen by the police, he found the woman in a filthy condition, living in one room of a dilapidated house on Hill street. The room boasted of no furnishings. A couple of packing boxes acted as chairs, and on one of these Mrs. Freeman was sitting when the constable came. She was trying to make a meal on a crust of bread which even a dog would have hesitated over.
This morning she pleaded not guilty to assaulting her daughter, and when the magistrate heard the evidence he changed the charge to one of disorderly conduct. It seems she went to the home of her daughter, who is a very respectable woman, and accused her husband and son, who were at the house, of trying to murder her, by not supporting her, and leaving her to die of starvation.
Went Into Hysterics.
She became hysterical and pulled the tablecloth off the table, when the tea dishes were set on it in preparation for supper. She refused her daughter's kindly offer to eat with them, and became so hysterical that it was necessary for them to put her out.
Her husband, James Freeman, corroborated the testimony of his stepdaughter, and stated that all the money he gave her was spent on drink, and that he had to kill both him and her son, P. M. Judd would not permit the son to testify against his mother, being satisfied with the evidence already taken.
Mrs. Freeman, between sobs, stated that her husband encouraged her drinking, and had been responsible for her taking the downward path. The magistrate, however, found her guilty on the charge, and remanded her until Monday.
Raised Big Row.
When Mrs. Freeman was led away, she again became hysterical, and her sobs and cries shook the room. The starved condition of the child, who was found when arrested, has apparently affected her somewhat, and she has given way under the strain. After she had been taken out of the courtroom, the magistrate told her husband that he ought to do something for the woman.
"I can't do anything with her," wailed Freeman, who is evidently afraid of his wife.
"Well, are you going to let her go to the devil entirely?" demanded his worship.
"She threatened to kill us all the last time we lived with her," returned the man, and then he went on to tell how the woman threatened his life, but the police magistrate got disgusted with the plea, and called the next case.
It is likely Mrs. Freeman will be turned over to the Salvation Army to see what they can do with her.

MAYOR BEATTIE CHANGES MIND MR. CROTHERS NOT TO COME

His Worship Will Investigate the Trouble With Britton Firm Further Before Asking Minister of Labor to Interfere in the Matter.

Mayor Beattie wired Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, Thursday night, telling him not to come to London to investigate the difficulty between the Britton Overall Company and Mr. Alfred Carroll, organizer for the Garment Workers' Union, regarding the removal of the union label from the company's goods, until he received further information on the subject. His worship will investigate the matter, and will decide on his course of action later.
Mr. Carroll, the organizer, had an interview with Mayor Beattie this afternoon, and stated his side of the case.
"My information was that the Brittons were being discriminated against by the International Union because they manufactured a line of goods sold extensively in Canada by an American firm," said Mayor Beattie. "It was claimed that the goods manufactured here were making such inroads into the American Company's business that this method of stopping the trade was adopted. I did not think it fair, nor do I think so now, and the other companies should be protected and a local firm left unprotected. So I wrote to Hon. Mr. Crothers to see if he could not settle the difficulty. Now, am I informed that the goods from which the union label was removed were manufactured outside the city of London. That puts the matter entirely on a different phase on the question, and, pending an investigation which I will make, I have until such time as I am convinced which side is in the wrong. If the dispute is merely regarding the place of manufacture of the goods I will not interfere, but allow the firm and the union people to settle it as they see fit."
Mr. Carroll again informed The Advertiser that the label was removed simply because the conditions demanded by the union were not lived up to. The goods must be manufactured where the label is put on, and under conditions meeting with the approval of the union.

A NARROW ESCAPE FROM ASPHYXIA

Walker A. McKellar Discovered in Nick of Time at Hotel Cecil.

GAS WAS TURNED ON

Thedford Man Would Have Been Dead in a Few Minutes—Heroic Action Saved Him.

Walker A. McKellar, a young man from Thedford, who returned last evening from the west, where he has been working in the harvest, had a very narrow escape from asphyxiation at the Hotel Cecil, Clarence street, Thursday night. The heroic action of George Blackburn, one of the employees of the hotel, alone saved McKellar from death.
The young fellow, who is about seventeen years of age, returned from the west, and went to the hotel and registered. He was assigned to a room by Mr. Thor. Oke, the proprietor, and retired about 12 o'clock. Mr. Oke had occasion to pass McKellar's room, when he was showing another guest to a room. He smelled gas, and when he had put the guest away, he started an investigation.
The gas was issuing from McKellar's door, and Mr. Oke attempted to open it. It was bolted from the inside, however, and it was impossible to make an entrance. Mr. George Blackburn was summoned, but neither of them could get through the transom.
Blackburn then climbed out of a window, and, swinging himself by means of a standpipe, climbed on to the window sill of McKellar's room. His position was very precarious as he was fifteen feet above the pavement with nothing to hold on to but the standpipe. After considerable exertion, he managed to get the window up a little. He started to crawl in, but the flood of gas made him rasp for breath. Blackburn waited until the flood of the poisonous stuff had escaped, and then climbed into the bedroom. McKellar was in bed unconscious.
The door was opened and the gas, which was escaping from an open jet, was turned off.
McKellar was carried to the fresh air, and, after a hard battle, was revived. In a very short time he would certainly have succumbed.
"The man was in a very bad condition when we got him to the fresh air," said Mr. Oke. "He was unconscious, but revived shortly afterwards. We asked him how it happened, but he could offer no lucid explanation.
"There was no necessity of his using the gas at all. The room was lighted by electricity, and the gas is kept as a standby."
Blackburn took great chances in getting the window open, and McKellar can thank him for being alive today. He is a very fortunate young man. McKellar left on the early train for his home in Thedford. He felt some of the effects this morning, being somewhat sick and dizzy, but he will be all right in a very short time.

UNJUST TREATMENT OF THE WESTERN

How the Education Department of Ontario Discriminates Against It.

ITS EXCELLENT WORK

The One Public Educational Institution That Gets No Government Aid—Premier's Inolent Treatment.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
In pursuance of my former article published in your valuable paper allow me to point out the injustice of the treatment meted out to the Western University.
The separate schools, the public schools, the Collegiate Institutes, the high schools, the Normal Schools, one and all, receive Provincial aid. The one public educational institution in Western Ontario that has not received such aid is the Western University. Before the Western was made a public institution the Anglican body applied to the Provincial Government for aid. This was refused on the pretext that the Government would not financially assist a denominational institution.
When the Western became a public institution a deputation among whom were His Lordship the Bishop of Huron, the Honorable Mr. Justice R. H. Meredith, Sir George Gibbons, Brigadier J. W. Little, Mayor Guest (St. Thomas), His Honor Judge Couter, Charles Jenkins (Patrols), Matthew Wilson, K. C. (Chatham), Andrew Denholm, warden of Kent; Rev. Thos. Mitchell, of the Presbyterian body; Rev. Richard Whiting, of the Methodist body; the principal of Assumption College, Sandwich; the principal of St. Jerome's College, Berlin; the principal of Huron College, Rev. Father Tobin, representing the separate schools; O. E. Fleming, barrister, Windsor; H. B. Archer, representing the Trades and Labor Council; Dr. Reason, representing the board of trade; S. F. Glass, warden of Middlesex, and a number of other prominent citizens of Western Ontario waited on Sir James Whitney on the 16th of February, 1910; but instead of granting their request or answering their Continued on Page Four.

Several broad men who were on the scene at the time claimed to have shouted a warning, but Hodgins did not hear.

NEVER ACTED FOR HILL

time, saying that the Premier expected to catch the Liberals unawares and inflict a disastrous defeat on them. The tide was turning, however, and the Conservative party would learn that Liberalism was by no means dead.

The Liberal Leader.

Mr. Rowell followed, and was given a great reception. That the new leader is personally popular here was amply shown by the warmth of the greeting.

Never Acted For Hill.

After thinking those present for coming to hear him, when conditions were so unfavorable, Mr. Rowell touched upon the charge that he was in the employ of the J. J. Hill and United States Steel Corporation. Were that the case I would be much better off financially than I am today. I have never represented them, nor do I now.

"As for being a corporation lawyer, would not my experience in dealing with corporations be of inestimable benefit, when the time comes for me to take action with regard to them? I think that my knowledge would enable me to safeguard the interests of the public, and protect the people everywhere. I think that would follow."

"I see by the Toronto News also that I have shown weakness in not coming out in denunciation of electoral corruption. They bewail my weakness in this matter. In looking through the files of that paper, I find that a speech of mine in relation to trade and editorial comment made on it, in which I stood out against electoral corruption, and declared that it must cease. The News had evidently forgotten that such an article had ever been written."

The Hydro Scheme.

Mr. Rowell then gave his views on Niagara power, tracing its growth and development to the present time.

"One of the questions," continued Mr. Rowell, "upon which Sir James Whitney asks the judgment of the province in this contest is: Whether a department of government should be created, with a cabinet minister at its head, to take over and carry on the work heretofore done by the hydro-electric commission."

"In view of the importance of this proposal, it is well for us to review briefly the history of this hydro-electric scheme and I believe that such a review will clearly demonstrate the wisdom of the proposal of the Government is not in the best interest of the people of this province."

"The whole scheme for the utilization of electric power for the benefit of the municipalities had its origin, not in any action of the Government, but in the action by the municipalities and certain of the boards of trade and manufacturing interests of the province. The first suggestion: that a municipality should control the distribution of electric power, appears in a report of a committee of the Toronto Board of Trade, of which Mr. W. E. H. Massey was chairman. Public sentiment in various municipalities of the province in favor of such a movement was gradually taking shape, and on June 9, 1902, a meeting of manufacturers was held at Berlin at which representatives of Toronto, St. Catharines, Galt, and a number of surrounding towns were present. Controller Spence, of Toronto, was the chief speaker, and he suggested that the municipalities should ask for the appointment of a Government commission which would have the power to arrange for the transmission of electricity to the various municipalities desiring it."

"In July, 1902, a meeting of the municipal representatives was held at Berlin, when W. B. Snider, D. B. Dettler and Controller Spence were appointed a committee to obtain information. This committee reported at another meeting, held in Berlin, in February, 1903, and after the consideration of the report, Mr. Thomas Urquhart, then mayor of Toronto, proposed the following resolution:

Government Lines.

"That we respectfully suggest and urge upon the Government of Ontario the advisability of the Government building and operating, as a Government work, lines for the transmission of electricity from Niagara Falls to the towns and cities of Ontario, or that they extend the powers of the present Niagara Falls Park commission so that they may, as a public work, build and operate the necessary lines to transmit electric energy from Niagara Falls, and that for this purpose they may be empowered to issue debentures, which might be guaranteed by the Government, but which would be eventually paid out of the receipts from the sale of electrical energy, thus entailing no charge upon the provincial funds, and that the municipalities here represented call upon their representatives in the Legislature to urge upon the Government to carry out this resolution."

The meeting concluded with cheers for the leaders.

THREE MEMBERS REMOVED.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—Three of the nine members of the Quebec Harbor Board, Messrs. Geo. Taggart, J. B. LeBlond and R. J. Laroche, have been removed by the Government. Their places are filled by Messrs. J. B. Letellier, N. Beliveau and Victor Chateaufort.

The reference to the Niagara Falls Park commission was stricken out, and the motion then adopted.

Origin of Scheme.

A committee appointed by this meeting presented the request of the municipalities to the Government of Ontario, and on June 12, 1903, an act was passed by the Legislature of Ontario, entitled, "An act for the construction of municipal power works, and the transmission, distribution and supply of electrical and other power and energy." This act authorized the municipalities to co-operate in the development and distribution of electric power and energy after due investigation and provided for the appointment of a board of commissioners by the chief justice of Ontario, the board so appointed to have the very wide and ample powers mentioned in the act. Pursuant to the powers given by this act, the representatives of seven municipalities interested in power development, appointed a committee, of which Hon. Adam Beck was one, to investigate and report upon the advisability of establishing works for the production and distribution of electrical energy, the probable cost of such works, and the proportion of the cost to be borne by the several municipalities. This committee prepared a very comprehensive report which was published under date of March 1906. In the meantime, and before this report was presented, the Government of Sir George Ross was defeated, Sir James Whitney came into power, and Mr. Beck entered his cabinet as minister without portfolio. On his suggestion, the Government incorporated the hydro-electric commission, and appointed commissioners to investigate and report. In the early part of 1906 different cities and towns of the province appointed a deputation to visit the Government to present the views of the municipalities which were substantially those suggested by Controller Spence at the original meeting, and by ex-Mayor Urquhart at the meeting of 1903. The Government, acting upon the request of this deputation and with the approval of members of the Legislature on both sides of the House, appointed a second commission. This commission so appointed had carried on the hydro-electric power scheme to its present stage, and the Government's proposal is to transfer the work heretofore done by this hydro-electric commission to a department of the Government presided over by a cabinet minister.

"From this brief review, you will see that neither the Liberal or the Conservative Government is entitled to the credit of originating or setting in motion this hydro-electric power scheme. The idea was conceived by and the movement was pressed forward and took practical shape under the direction of the representatives of the municipalities. If you look at the hydro-electric act and the agreements between the commission and the municipalities, you will see that the commission is simply the trustee of the municipalities for the purchase and distribution of electric energy. The whole cost of construction, maintenance and operation and cost of power must be borne by the municipalities. Every dollar is charged against the municipalities. The commission holds all the properties and assets acquired by it as trustee for the municipalities. If there is inefficiency or extravagance in the management, it matters not to the Government financially. The municipalities must pay every cent of the loss. In view, therefore, of the large obligations assumed by the municipalities, they are entitled to the most prudent, efficient and economical management, which the Government can secure. This can only be secured by putting the best businessmen at the head of the commission and keeping the commission free from the baneful influence of the spoils and patronage systems. The Liberal party stands unalterably opposed to transferring this great business enterprise of the municipalities to a department of the Government where the spoils and patronage systems will have free play. The Liberal party stands for the enlargement of this hydro-electric power scheme for the benefit of the people of the province under the most competent, economical and non-partisan administration which it is possible to secure. Does any businessman believe that such a transfer as that advocated by Sir James Whitney will give better or more economical management? Does not every businessman realize that the result must inevitably be, under our present political system, an added burden to the municipalities? And we ask you to give us your support. If we win, we may prevent this wrong being done to the municipalities."

"Sir James Whitney in his manifesto pointed out that the scheme has been carried forward to its present stage in the face of bitter and relentless opposition. He does not tell us from what source the subsidies have been derived. It did not come from the municipalities of the province. It did not come from the Liberal party in the Legislature. It was a case where a man's fees were those of his own household."

"Public ownership will only justify itself provided you have efficient and economical management. And no worse blow could be dealt the public ownership than by subjecting the management of this great public utility to the influence of the spoils faction of the party. Against such a proposal the municipalities of this province should enter their most emphatic protests."

Taxation.

The question of taxation was also dealt with, Mr. Rowell taking a strong position in regard to it. Municipalities should be given the right to tax or not tax improvements, just as they considered in their interests. Local opinion in this matter was the Liberal policy.

The failure of the Whitney Government to develop New Ontario was subjected to a scathing rebuke. Other parts of the Dominion, Alberta, Saskatchewan and other provinces, had been developed, but New Ontario, richer than all others, had been neglected. This Rip Van Winkle policy should be condemned by the electorate, and he anticipated that the voters would say something in regard to this on Dec. 11. Mr. Rowell advocated a policy of development along proper lines.

The awful bungling of the school system, and the failure of the Government to look after the interests of the agriculturalists were also dealt with at some length, and the position of the Whitney Government strongly criticized.

The meeting concluded with cheers for the leaders.

Doan's Kidney Pills

Are the Best Remedy in the World FOR BACKACHE.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore aching back.

You overtax the kidneys—give them more work than they can possibly do—then they cry out in protest through the pain in the back.

Backache is simply kidneyache and the best remedy in the world for backache and all kidney troubles is Doan's Kidney Pills.

We have thousands of testimonials from all quarters of the globe to prove this. Here is one from a party who used them in England, but who is now a resident of Canada.

Mr. F. R. Glasville, Weyburn, B.C., writes: "When living in the 'Old Country,' three years ago, I suffered severely from pains in the back, and had to give up work. The pain was so bad that when I awoke I had to pick anything up I felt my back must break. I tried all sorts of remedies and several doctors, but all to no purpose. One day I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I bought a box and tried them, and to my surprise, before I was half through the box the backache had entirely disappeared, and it has not caused me any trouble since. I always keep a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I always recommend them to all sufferers."

Prices 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.50, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of 50 cents by The J. C. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The PRODIGAL JUDGE

The Famous Novel by
VAUGHAN KESTER
Copyright, 1911, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

CHAPTER XIII.
The sheriff had brought the judge's supper. He reported that the crowd was spreading, and that on the whole public sentiment was not particularly hostile. Indeed, he went so far as to say there existed a strong under-current of satisfaction that the judge should have been so speedily justified. Moreover, there was a disposition to exalt the judge as having furnished the crowning touch to the day's pleasure.
"I reckon, sir, they'd have felt obliged to string you up if there wasn't no continued the sheriff lastly from the open door where he had seated himself. "I don't say there ain't them who don't maintain you had ought to be strung up as it is, but people are funny, the majority talk like they might, but they don't mean it. There's no telling when we'll get another prisoner. Tomorrow the blacksmith will come iron bars to your window, so folks can look in and see you. It will give a map more air to the place."
"Unless I do get more air, you will be troubled long by me!" declared the judge in a tone of melancholy conviction.
The building was intolerably hot, the advantages of ventilation having been neglected. But the judge was a reasonable soul; he was disposed to accept his personal discomfort with a reasonable philosophy; also hope was stirring in his heart. Hope was second nature with him, for had he not lived these years with the odds against him?
"You do sweat some, don't you? Oh, yes, I mean a sweat about your ears. The sun that's dangerous," remarked the sheriff consolingly. "And you had better get to bed, sir, that's what folks say. You're kindly here in mind, sir, but I have been convicted of no crime!"
"If you had been convicted of no crime, you might have had company; politics, only one 'BROMO-QUININE' that is LAXATIVE BROMO-QUININE, for the signature of E. W. GROVE, the World over to Cure a Cold in Five Days."

loaned you was bad—but you don't need ever to pay it back!"
Mahaffy gave way to mirth. "Never mind," said the judge indulgently. "It performed all the essential functions of a perfectly legal currency. Just suppose we had discovered it was counterfeit before I took it to the tavern—that would have been a hardship!"
"It were Captain Murrell gave it to me," explained Mahaffy.
"I consecrate myself to his destruction!" Judge Blouin Price cannot be humiliated by impunity!"
"I should think you would have your head Price, until you'd waddled out of danger!" Mahaffy spoke gruffly.
"How are you going to get me out of this, Solomon—for I suppose you are here to break jail for me," said the judge.
Mahaffy expected the building. He found that the door was secured by two ponderous hinges, to which were fitted heavy padlocks, but the solid wooden shutter which closed the square hole in the gable that served as a window, was fastened by a hasp and peg. He withdrew the peg, opened the shutter, and the judge's face, wreathed in smiles, appeared at the aperture.
"The blessed sky," he murmured, "nothing deep, but the solid wood would have broken my spirit!"
"If you can, Price, you'd better come first," suggested Mahaffy.
"Not sufficiently acrobatic, Solomon—its heads or I lose!" said the judge.
He thrust his shoulders into the opening and wriggled upward. Suddenly his forward movement was arrested.
[To be Continued.]

THE REASONABLE WAY
Strong, vigorous men, women and children hardly ever catch cold—it's only when your system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs can get a foothold.
Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your strength again?
Mr. Patrick Wren, of N. Birmingham, Ala., knows about this. He says, "I caught a bad cold a year ago and had a bad cough for a long time. Heaven helping me, I'll brain a citizen or two before it comes to that!" he told himself.
The cautious steps continued to approach. Someone paused below the closed window, and a hand struck the boards sharply. A whisper stole into the hall.
"Are you awake, Price?" It was Mahaffy who spoke.
"I've got the boy—he's with me," said the judge unhesitatingly.
"God bless you both!" repeated the judge brokenly. "Take care of him, Solomon. I feel better now, knowing he's in good hands."
"Yes, dear lad!"
"I'm mighty sorry that ten dollars I sent to Nelson, druggist, London, Ont."

402 RICHMOND STREET

MONK NETTLED AND BATTLED UNDER OPPOSITION ATTACK

Nationalist Leader In Attempting To Reconcile His Present Position In the Coalition Government With Pre-Election Statements Cuts a Ridiculous Figure—Mr. Lemieux Exposes the Enemy.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—In resuming his speech today, Mr. Monk declared that "there were other causes than reciprocity that helped to remove him" (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) from office. Those of his race and creed had been disappointed in him. The Province of Quebec had looked upon him as the savior of the rights of his race, but all he did "had tended to dispel that illusion." Then there were scandals. Mr. Monk charged, in the late Administration, and in the late Quebec bridge, the North Atlantic trading operations, and the cost of the National Transcontinental, which, the new Minister of Public Works declared, would cost the country two hundred and fifty millions. These things developed from a long lease of power, and Mr. Monk expressed the conviction that no Government should remain in office more than ten or twelve years.

What was particularly disquieting the Opposition, Mr. Monk continued, was the alleged existence of dissensions in the cabinet. Sir Wilfrid had designated it a coalition cabinet. (Hear, hear.) "Well," continued Mr. Monk, "I do not know that a cabinet of coalition is per se a bad one." Sir Wilfrid, he said, had taken two "discontented Conservatives" into his first cabinet in the persons of the late Messrs. Doherty and Tarte. "There is nothing absolutely wrong in the present Premier taking in what my right honorable friend called a 'strange element,'" proceeded Mr. Monk, amid Liberal laughter. There was no cause in that to see dissension. The present cabinet had not yet reached the stage when they "might like biases."

Proud of Borden. He was proud to declare that among the excellent qualities possessed by Mr. Borden there was none more outstanding than his delicacy in all relations. "I cannot imagine how it is possible for anyone to have any serious differences with him," he added, and renewed laughter. The declarations of Mr. Borden since he assumed the reins of power had given absolute satisfaction to him, Mr. Monk persisted, now amid roars of Liberal laughter. Mr. Monk said that he referred to himself because in the debate he had been somewhat in the position of an emissary, a tele de Turis, as they call it in French, but as regarded Premier Borden and himself, "there never was any difference or dissension between us" (Cries of "Oh, oh," and Liberal laughter). "When I was a boy," continued the minister, "I was a great amateur of the circus." (Laughter.) Mr. Monk—And learned to take some lessons. (Continued laughter.)

Mr. Monk retorted that there was nothing to equal the leap taken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier when in 1909 he brought down the naval resolution to Parliament. It was absolutely at variance with the position accorded him in Quebec. But, Mr. Monk said, he had voted for the resolution, and did not regret it. The circumstances were unusual. An important debate in the British House of Commons had taken place, in which it had been alleged that war was imminent, and that the British navy was in a defective condition. A panic ensued for two weeks. It was under those circumstances that the motion was brought down. He and his friends in Quebec had been taxed with disloyalty, but the moment of danger for the British Empire would not be the moment for him and his friends to discuss Canada's relations with the mother country. There was no question of policy under consideration. Mr. Monk continued, and with the panic in existence no loyal man would refuse to support the resolution.

Monk Ordered. Mr. Ethier (Two Mountains)—Is it not a fact that during the recent election in the Province of Quebec the honorable gentleman and his fellow-Nationalists stated that the resolution was passed in his absence, and that he never voted for it? (Liberal cheers and laughter.) "Yes, certainly," replied the minister. "You voted for it?" persisted Sir Wilfrid, amid continued Liberal cheering. "Certainly," responded Mr. Monk. "You are satisfied of that?" Sir Wilfrid continued. "Let me say in further answer that I was not present in the House when it was declared carried, and you remember the circumstances." (Liberal laughter.) "And that was your defence to your fellow-Nationalists in the country?" was Mr. Devlin's thrust. "Let me say to the gentleman of the butting-in habit," exclaimed Mr. Monk, now nettled, "that the resolution after coming down was the subject of conference between the two leaders before it was declared carried, and by that time I had gone home, and was in bed." (Renewed applause.) "I was quite satisfied with its terms," persisted Mr. Monk, amid cries of "Oh."

Nettled Again. "We condemned the leaders on both sides, I admit it unreservedly," Mr. Monk proceeded. "We called for a submission of the issue to the people, and I am confident that the leader of the present Government has taken the view of that question which was, in my opinion, the right one." (Liberal "Hear, hear" and laughter.) Continuing, Mr. Monk said that the Canadian navy was not fit to take part in the defence of the empire. "What type of naval ship does the minister favor?" asked Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro), amid renewed laughter. "That is a problem my leader has under consideration, and I am sure he will solve it satisfactorily."

Mr. Sinclair persisted that that was no answer. Mr. Monk replied that he was aware that the member from Guysboro was to a certain extent a seaman, while he was not. But he did know that cruisers were no use as battleships, and could not stand before heavily armored ships. "I don't want to discuss the matter farther," added Mr. Monk, amid another roar of Liberal laughter.

The minister was nettled. "What is the cause of the merriment?" he asked a question which renewed the laughter. "Well, I am glad if I have brought some cheer to the peevish gentlemen opposite."

Mr. Monk concluded by declaring amid another outburst of discontenting Liberal laughter that "all is absolute satisfaction and harmony among us." He was proud to see Dr. Sprague in the chair, and the Government was going to carry out the programme in the speech from the throne. The resolution, he said, was based upon suggestions made by the British admiralty at the Imperial conference of 1907. The plan was that the British admiralty took charge of the supremacy of the seas and the guarding of trade routes. Canada was asked to guard against any attack or raid on its own coasts, and to supply coaling stations and ports.

"No matter what you say," declared Mr. Monk, "I am sure you will find what you call me. I was born and bred a Liberal-Conservative, and I never varied in my allegiance to that party" (Cries of "Oh, oh," and Liberal laughter). "We have never taken any other ground in Quebec in the campaign, in the doctrine, call it what you like, that we preached, than that we were loyal subjects of the crown. We do not approve of this plan, nor of this navy. We are not right to criticize it. We insist that it be submitted to the people, and we pledge ourselves to accept the verdict of the people."

Mon. Rodolphe Lemieux. "We are not dead nor discouraged," we stated by our politics and by the ideals we advocated when in power. The present coalition Government has already sown in Quebec the seeds of trouble which will germinate in a year of races and elections. The holy alliance it represents will yet shatter it to pieces." This was the thesis Hon. Mr. Lemieux developed in his reply to Mr. Monk. At the outset he declared that while the Opposition bowed to the decision of the majority of the people of Canada on the reciprocity issue, Liberals had no apology to offer for the stand they had taken. He believed that the victory achieved had been one of fear or self-reliance, of passion over logic. But while reciprocity might have been the dominant issue in the English-speaking provinces, the only real issue in Quebec was the naval policy, and some of the Nationalist candidates had at the outset declared themselves in favor of the reciprocity proposals.

On the naval issue there were three positions taken: first, the Government plan of a Canadian navy; second, the ultra-Tory plan of a direct contribution of Dreadnoughts; third, the "do-nothing policy" of the Nationalists. The coalition Government represented these last two elements. Mr. Monk had been in favor of the resolution unanimously passed by Parliament, favoring the creation of an autonomous Canadian naval service. But he was contradicted by his own words in Parliament in February of last year, when he declared explicitly that he would not approve of the Nationalist plan of dealing with Mr. Borden's vagaries on the naval issue. Mr. Lemieux noted that the attack on Sir Wilfrid Laurier had finally simmered down to the appeal in Ontario and the English-speaking provinces that the navy proposed was a tin-pot affair and did not go far enough, while in Quebec it had been characterized as an infernal machine and as an imperialist plot of Lord Grey, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden. What explanation could now be given of a coalition effected under such circumstances?

Mr. Monk—As Sir Wilfrid Laurier said in 1896: "We are here, and you are there." That is the answer now.

Mr. Lemieux retorted that this was hardly a statesmanlike attitude to take, but doubtless gives the essence of their philosophy. He spent a considerable time in giving to the House some illuminative excerpts from Nationalist campaign speeches and literature during the campaign. Mr. Savigny, who on Monday last had metaphorically sung "God Save the King" in the House had only a few weeks before in Quebec used words like these: "Who is his Majesty? Have we any majesty here? It is the Lords of England who are imposing this naval taxation upon us." Mr. Bourassa, in company with Mr. Blondin, the deputy speaker, had declared that it was all very well for Laurier and Borden, who had no sons, to support the navy, but the children of the French-Canadians would be taken off to be disarmed in foreign climes. Mr. Monk, speaking at Drummondville, said: "I have separated myself from Mr. Borden on this important question, and I will continue to fight until the battle is won." Hon. Mr. Nantel, speaking on Aug. 31, had declared: "For my part I thought I should separate myself from Mr. Borden on this vital question. If I become your member once more I intend to maintain that independent attitude." But now Mr. Monk's only answer was: "You are there, and we are here." The coalition had as its basis a common hatred of Laurier and a common ambition for power.

Mr. Lemieux believed that this common basis of present union would lead the Nationalists finally to accept any scheme of naval defence which the Government might finally evolve. But he warned them that if the advice of the admiralty was to be taken they could not proceed to carry out the plans of the late Government. Hon. Mr. Hasen might say that the proposed navy might be seen obsolete and useless, but the chief naval experts of England did not agree with him. The cry of the Nationalists in Quebec during the campaign was that they were to form a Catholic centre in the Commons, and there were doubtless pious souls in that Province who fully expected that now the Gov-

The Story of a Thousand Dollars a Day For Two Men

Both members of our firm spent a whole day in the wholesale tailor shops of Montreal and Toronto, each with a long "want list" in one hand and a large wallet of hard cash in the other that made the manufacturers "sit up and take notice."

We secured first "option" on the "overmakes" of almost every good maker in both cities. 878 Overcoats in the lot, and over 1,200 Suits. We cleared them at prices that would be little over HALF COST to small manufacturers supplying a few stores. We figured it out with paper and pencil. We cleared a clean cold thousand dollars a day, and now we're handing out every cent of it to our customers. We're satisfied with the regular profits, and the people—the big buying public—are taking notice and crowding in, boosting our sales away beyond all record high-water marks.

The story of our made-to-measure Suits and Overcoats, too, is interesting scores of new customers. Most flattering comments are heard here day after day, and many times customers before leaving the store are heard advocating them to their friends. No deposit asked. We have confidence in our making.

The Story of a Thousand Dollars a Day Cleared in Overcoat Purchasing

THE STORY OF OUR IMMENSE OVERCOAT PURCHASE went the rounds of every big wholesale clothing house in Canada, of how R. H. & J. It was not Sir Wilfrid Laurier who had appealed to passion and prejudice, as Mr. Monk claimed, but the men who were now on the Government benches. The harvest of the seed they had sown must be reaped by them.

Mr. A. H. Clarke directed the attention of the Government to the recent disturbances in China, and the serious conditions in which certain Canadians found themselves with their lives in jeopardy. Two missionaries had been already stabbed to death, and Mr. Clarke informed the House that members of two families in his constituency were reported to be in grave danger. The Premier Borden assured Mr. Clarke that the Government would make immediate representations in the matter.

Mr. McCraney inquired whether, in view of the new Government's action in revoking the order in council of the former Government, under which the duty on bituminous coal in the west was temporarily removed, the Government had ascertained if the coal supply was sufficient for the needs of the west.

Hon. Mr. Rogers replied in the affirmative.

ASBESTOS COMPANY MAY COME TO LONDON

Representatives Looked Over Site Here and Secured a Proposition From Owners.

The Johns-Manville Company, manufacturers of asbestos goods, will probably locate in the city in the spring. Yesterday a conference between representatives of the firm and the owners of property in Peterborough was held, and a proposition made. It will be presented to the annual meeting of the company in New York in January, when a decision will be arrived at. It is expected that the factory will be built, Mr. Cummings, of Toronto, Canadian representative of the firm, informing The Advertiser that there was every prospect of the company coming to London. The Canadian company will be capitalized at $250,000, and a large number of hands will be employed.

WILLIAM MURDOCK DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Head Farmer at the Hospital For the Insane Passes Away.

Mr. William Murdock, for nearly twenty years head farmer at the London Hospital for the Insane, died at his residence last night, after a long illness. His death was not unexpected. Deceased was appointed to the position of head farmer by the Liberal Government many years ago, holding the office to the time of his death. He lived for many years in Adelaide Township, near Strathroy, and moved to London with his family following his appointment. Mr. Murdock was well known and highly regarded in the vicinity of his old home, and made many friends in London. He is survived by a widow, and three daughters—Mrs. J. S. Douglas, Strathroy; Mrs. (Rev.) Geo. Gilmore, Fingert; and Mrs. (Dr.) Armstrong, of Thorncliffe. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

CANADIANS WIN AT BIG HORSE SHOW

London and Galt Animals Secure Many Fine Prizes.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Nov. 22.—The fifth day of the horse show always regarded by the patrons and general followers of the tanbark as the heaviest of the Madison Square exhibit did not belie the custom today, for in point of display, the class of animals exhibited, and the interest of the large crowd of spectators, it was the banner session so far.

In the class for harness horses the years old, Miss E. L. Wilks, of Galt, Ont., won the blue ribbon with the grey filly Paronette Todd, by Kentucky Todd. In the class for hunters under 7 years of age and up, carrying 150 pounds, Nipissing, owned by Mrs. Adam Beck, of London, Ont., was highly commended. In the class for harness horses the Canadian pair, My Pride and Premier owned by Crow & Murray, of Toronto, were highly commended. First honors in the international contest at the horse show tonight went to England, the initial victory for that nation in this year's series of competitions in Madison Square Garden.

Canada captured third place, with two of Col. Herbert C. Cox's horses—Goldstone, ridden by the owner, and Sarah Moore, ridden by Lieut. Myles, of Toronto, Canada, also won fourth place, The Strand, ridden by Lieut. Col. Cox, and Dictator, ridden by Lieut. Myles, making this possible.

DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Rann, of Cranbrook, Was Found Dead in Her Bed.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Brussels, Nov. 23.—The funeral of Mrs. Rann, held from her late residence at Cranbrook this afternoon, was largely attended. Mrs. Rann was 82 years of age, and was dead in her usual health. She had retired in her usual health. She is survived by two sons and one daughter. Frank Gerry had a cord in his foot so badly strained while kicking a football that he had to go to Wingham hospital for treatment.

There is enough snow here now to make fair sleighing, and farmers and others are making good use of it for teaming. Mr. Scott, principal of the continuation school, who was quite ill recently, has recovered. Mrs. J. T. Ross, who has been ill for several weeks, is improving nicely. An old resident, John Donaldson, who was in the harness business here some years ago, is here from the west. He struck it rich in sheep ranching.

BORDEN'S ATTITUDE

British Member Wants to Know Where He Stands on Navy Question.

London, Nov. 23.—The Times says there is no reason for either surprise or pessimism at Premier Borden's attitude on the navy question. The proposal to submit the scheme to the electorate is not to be attributed solely to French-Canadian influence. The willing consent of all Canada to effective co-operation in defence with the rest of the Empire is worth securing and waiting for. Mr. Herbert Craig, M. P., will ask in the Commons on Monday whether the admission of the navy makes any statement regarding the present Canadian Government's position on the navy, and whether there is any official information showing the Government has decided to drop the scheme for imperial naval defence adopted by the late Government, and approved by the imperial conference.

Try PURITY—the every-purpose flour for bread, rolls, buns, biscuits, layer cakes, short cakes, griddle cakes, fruit cakes, pies, puddings, cream puffs, tarts, ginger snaps

IN the making of everything for which flour is required, PURITY FLOUR gives admirable results. Among thousands of cooks it is spoken of as "The every-purpose flour."

No matter what you may desire to make, use PURITY FLOUR. The results will give you a higher degree of satisfaction than you've ever experienced when ordinary flour was used.

There is added deliciousness to the flavor, extra quality in every ounce of the bread, or the cake, or the biscuits, or whatever you may make with PURITY FLOUR.

PURITY FLOUR gets its finer flavor, greater strength, extra nutritiousness and higher-quality from the high-grade portions of the hard wheat berries. All the low-grade portions are excluded during its process of milling. PURITY FLOUR will cost you slightly more than ordinary flour. But it's worth more. It costs more to make it.

The present huge demand is your proof of how firmly PURITY FLOUR has established itself among the thousands who place quality before price.

PURITY FLOUR

"More bread and better bread" "More bread and better bread"

Reminder: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR, it is necessary, for best pastry-results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with a "blended" or Ontario wheat flour. Add more water when making bread.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE GOING TO HAMILTON

London Will Seek Industrial School Information in the Ambitious City.

The special committee named by the advisory board of the industrial school, consisting of Messrs. W. W. Gammon, Frank E. Leonard, L. W. Martin and M. F. Irwin, will go to Hamilton this afternoon to inspect the schools in operation there.

They met yesterday and for some time discussed the method of organization, and it was decided to visit the Ambitious City and see what is being done there. They will, of course, go at their own expense.

"We have entered into this thing, and we intend making a success of it," said Mr. Gammon. "We want to obtain all the information possible so that there will be no chance of failure."

ARE YOU

IN THE THICK OF THINGS OR THE THIN OF THINGS?

It takes the steady nerve, the elastic step, the energetic body to meet modern conditions, and the quick mind grasps the fact that body and nerves must be properly nourished.

Weak, hesitating, doubting natures are those who lack vitality. Their kingdom is the crust or outer edge—the thin of things.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is the vitalizer for all ages. It feeds nerves, body and brain with pure, wholesome food- tonic. It does not stimulate—it nourishes.

Music and Drama

"The Gamblers."
Without a doubt it was a thriller—this new play by Charles Klein, "The Gamblers"—but it had a de luxe binding and it had more. It had Jane Cowie, embodiment of all the beauty and all the cleverness of the rather languid, rather careless, but altogether honorable American woman. She was, to a certain extent, the pawn of the game which the gamblers played, yet, to borrow further of the figure, she was not altogether a pawn. She had been loving, kind or even likeable. In the end of the brutally cold individual the playwright makes him, all of the trappings with their Uncle Sam's statue lookers have been "beaten up the river."

The audience comes to think that Catherine Darwin (Jane Cowie) did a noble thing in saving the father of Wilbur Emerson (Orme Colclough) from a federal prison. It would seem that she had made the sacrifice, which it may be said, but which it was not altogether because she had felt the old love for Wilbur rekindling. Yet there are great blunders, relentless and veritable human steam rollers in their relation to their fellows, who are the softest of husbands and fathers. What if James Darwin (Charles Stevenson) had been a little more considerate of his wife's propensities for life's things? Would she have stood between the law and its prey? Would she not have delivered the men over? Was it not herself she sought to save?

One may seek for the incongruities of the dramatist, but one cannot but bend the knee of homage to the art of Miss Cowie. Her transition from the mild protesting creature of the first act to the scorned and scornful, enraged and aroused woman of the second act, voicing a denunciation that brings to mind the lines from Tennyson:

"Her . . . voice, a lyre of widest range,
"Struck by all passion, did fall down and glared
"From tone to tone, and glided thro' all change
"Of liveliest utterance."

Miss Cowie seems to register her art with her voice. Apart from her abilities as an actress, although she is a conventional stage beauty, she appeals first as a singer. But the impression is translated in a moment to one in whose mellow, modulated tones there is the sweetest of music, and in those moments when the classic restraint falls from her, she is revealed as mistress of any dramatic situation. Miss Cowie is surrounded, happily, with a cast that is up to class. There is not a flaw in the production. The play is a masterpiece of the dramatic art. The production is a masterpiece of the dramatic art. The production is a masterpiece of the dramatic art.

Auditorium Recital.
An artistic and entertaining recital was given in the Auditorium last evening by Miss Georgia Newbury, assisted by Mr. Maurice Pourie and Mr. F. L. come to London to take charge of the education department of the London Conservatory of Music, and she was accompanied by her husband, Mr. Pourie. Her work is characterized by rare versatility and gifted with a pleasing and magnetic personality, she has been a very successful entertainer. In Gilbert Parker's "She of the Triple Chequer," she appeared perhaps at her best. In the first act, "The Hazing of Valiant," and her other readings were also excellently presented.

The violin numbers of Mr. Pourie added greatly to the excellence of the programme. Well known to Londoners as a master of his instrument, he was enthusiastically received. He played "The Russian's 'Serenade,'" "D'Ambrosio's 'Canzone,'" and other equally well rendered selections. Among the vocal selections by Mr. Willoughby was one of his own compositions, "Mary Ann Mace," and a patriotic song, "Canada the Land for Me," composed by Rev. Prince Waller, with music composed by Mrs. Waller. Mr. Willoughby's singing was marked by a very fine voice and a tone which delighted the audience.

Miss A. Danglefield, an accompanist, added to the success of the recital.

Merry Minstrels Tomorrow.
Lovers of minstrelsy will be gratified to know that Lew Dockstader and his capable associates will appear at the Grand twice tomorrow, matinee and night. Mr. Dockstader's entertainment this season has been one of the grandest of old-time minstrelsy, but in modern setting. The scenic effects are said to be as rich as a spectacular comic opera. "The Conservatory of Melody and Laughter," for instance, is as beautifully gorgeous as any scene ever witnessed on the stage. The old promise several numbers which are said to be especially interesting. Mr. Dockstader has a travesty on moving pictures and vaudeville, "The Picture Palace," and is indisputably funny.

"The Old Homestead."
There could be no more welcome announcement for the amusement-loving public than the appearance here of "The Old Homestead" at the Grand Tuesday next, one night only. The dear old pastoral play itself is by this time so familiar to everyone that it need not be described. It would be supererogatory. The mere mention of the names of Joshua Whitcomb, Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, and Matilda and Bickley, is sufficient to bring to mind all of these delightful rural characters, and at the same time arise in the background the pictures of Henry Hopkins, the metropolitan merchant and millionaire. The company this season is practically the same as last, and the production is said to be perfect in every detail. Seats for the engagement go on sale today at 9 a.m.

May Robson for Two Nights.
The "Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" comes to the Grand on Wednesday next, Nov. 29, after a most distinguished success at Terry's Theatre, London. Miss Robson has achieved an international reputation in this play, and has given the theatre-going public a distinct characterization of an eccentric woman of New England. On Thursday evening Miss Robson will appear in her new play, "A Night Out." In the role of "Grammum" she impersonates a part that is absolutely original. "Grammum" is a character of a distinct and rollicking old lady. "A Night Out" will be a great surprise for theatregoers. It is not a mediocre comedy, but one may expect it to be entirely new and different and her part is the funniest comedy performance seen on the stage since many years.

Cantata Tonight.
The First Methodist Sunday school gives a cantata tonight in the church at 8 o'clock. It is expected that between 300 and 400 voices will take part. Mr.

Jordan will preside at the organ and lend the assistance of his large choir. Mr. Pourie's orchestra will also attend and with the eastern decorations, a very interesting setting forth in song and story of the scriptural cantata, "Under the Palms" is expected. A silver collection is to be taken, and a large audience is looked for.

Jessie Alexander Tonight.
Miss Jessie Alexander and the fine choir of Dundas Centre Methodist Church will be heard in recital tonight. Mr. Parnell-Morris has prepared an excellent programme. Miss Alexander's principal numbers are "A Veil over the Country," "Coronation Crowds" (her own composition), and "Hyde Park Orators." A large crowd is assured.

INGERSOLL DROWNING WILL BE INVESTIGATED
Death of John Kellum, of Beachville, To Be Probed Thoroughly by Coroner.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ingersoll, Nov. 24.—A thorough investigation into the death of John Kellum, found in Buchanan's dam, will be made by Coroner Neff. This afternoon a jury was impaneled and the inquest opened. After the jury had viewed the body an adjournment was made till Wednesday evening, Nov. 29. The inquest will be resumed in the council chamber and every possible effort put forth to shed light on the circumstances surrounding Kellum's movements up to the time of his death. A post mortem examination will be made, after which the body will be taken to Beachville for burial, it having been claimed by relatives.

What might have been a serious fire occurred at the cheese factory at Folding's Corners about 11 o'clock today. The blaze broke out in the roof and fortunately was discovered before it had made much headway. By the heroic efforts of a bucket brigade the flames were checked. The damage is estimated at $400.

A pleasant social event took place last evening at the Ingersoll Business College, in the form of a surprise for two of its pupils, Miss Harris, of Ingersoll, and Miss Barton, of West Oxford, both of whom will shortly leave for Toronto. About thirty of the pupils were present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent in games and music, with dainty refreshments at a seasonable hour.

Mr. Wright Cuts Down Barber Asphalt Bill By Over $900.

The council at its next meeting will discuss the account of the Barber Asphalt Company, submitted to the board of works Thursday night. The company put in a bill for $15,878 for the work done on Dundas and Richmond streets.

City Engineer Wright figured out that they were entitled to $14,968, or $907 less than the amount submitted by the company.

In his letter to the committee he calls attention to the fact that the manholes of the hydro-electric had reduced the paving area considerably, in fact $907 worth.

"I do not think the company should be given credit for more work than was done," said Mr. Wright. "They figured on a certain area. That area was reduced because of the hydro-electric manholes, Bell Telephone manholes, and the like, and I am of the opinion that a reduction should be made. The council will settle the matter."

A SERIOUS DROP
IN DRESSED PORKWent Down to $8.00 Per Hundred on the London
Market—Hogs Lower.

Yesterday's drop in dressed pork was more serious than was at first expected. The highest price paid for the morning was only $8 per cwt, which was in itself a drop of 25c per cwt, and before long pork was selling at $7.75. A large quantity was offered, however, and some of it remained well into the afternoon, when the price dropped as low as $8 per cwt for fairly good pork. The drop in dressed prices corresponds to a slight falling off in live prices. Live hogs for Monday's shipment have been quoted at $8.25 per cwt at present, although there may be a further drop.

Hay sold well this morning on the local square, bringing readily from $15 to $17.50 per ton.

Oats are also in good demand, at from $1.25 to $1.45 per cwt.

An active market in dairy produce, eggs and dressed poultry may be looked for tomorrow.

Dressed meat prices, outside of pork, are fairly steady, although not unusually active.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER

CORRESPONDENCE

Old Age and Drink.

Occasionally cases are reported of persons who, while being free drinkers, still live to a good old age, and such cases are used by the defenders of moderate drinking in support of the use of strong drinks.

In reply to this, the following case from the Quarterly Journal of Inebriety may be quoted: "It is the case of a man, a good old age, a first wife, and a second wife, who lived to be sixty years, and was still hale and hearty."

In reply to a letter to a physician in the neighborhood the following facts were elicited. The man was of inferior intelligence with a large physical frame. Whilst the effects of his drinking were not very prominent in his appearance, they were very evident in his children.

Of three children, the first wife, two of these children, and the other became an epileptic and died at fifteen. Of four children by his second wife, one was a feeble-minded, the second had St. Vitus' dance, the third was idiotic, and the fourth was a wanderer.

That is not the opinion of the degeneracy of the child of consumption. They were better fed and better housed than the parents had been, and it seemed an insupportable riddle to me, till I came across a report of a German commission appointed to inquire into the degeneracy of the German people. That and similar commissions appointed in England and France left no doubt that the cause was in the blood, and not in the environment.

It is, proved by the very highest authorities, that the white race is being slowly but surely destroyed by drinking. The degeneracy of the race is a fact, and the degeneracy of the race is a fact, and the degeneracy of the race is a fact.

The annual Freshmen's "At Home" of the Western University will be held in the university buildings this evening. Among them will be discussed at length the question of the degeneracy of the race of 1915 will entertain the students and graduates of other years.

Board of Trade will hold a session tonight, when matters of considerable importance to the business of the city will be discussed at length. The matter of land for a military camp, the matter of land for a military camp, the matter of land for a military camp.

The defendant paid the costs of the court, about $60. Thursday afternoon, the action of Wood vs. Catanach was settled out of court. The suit was brought by Joseph H. Wood, of London, against James Catanach, also of this city, and was the outcome of a real estate deal. Wood sued for the specific performance of a certain contract.

Hon. Mr. Doherty coming. Captain T. J. Murphy has received word that Hon. J. Doherty, minister of justice, has accepted an invitation to be the guest of the Canadian Club here, and deliver an address. The date has not yet been set. The club is in touch with a number of very prominent speakers, and will arrange a fine programme for the winter.

The East End Progressive Association held an executive meeting last night in Society Hall. Plans were completed for the annual association banquet to be held on Dec. 15. An excellent programme will be provided, and a successful affair is looked forward to. A large number of subscriptions were received.

The first London Troop held their first banquet Thursday night in the C. C. rooms at 6:45 p.m. After the banquet the Kangaroo Patrol, under William Macle, leader, gave a short play, after which H. C. Davidson showed his lantern views, which were much appreciated by the boys. At the close William Macle extended a hearty vote of thanks to H. C. Davidson for his kindness in exhibiting his views to which Mr. Davidson replied in a suitable manner.

Barbara Class Met. The men's Baracca class of Egerton Street Baptist Church held their regular quarterly business meeting last night. The question of keeping the basement of the church open every evening of the week, and providing tables with games, magazines and papers, was considered, but nothing definite was decided upon. A regular weekly meeting of the class will be held every Thursday night, and devotionals, studies and literary evenings will be held in turn. Plans were also considered for the Christmas concert of the church, in which the Baracca class will take an important part. The president of the class, Mr. Frederick McMillan, presided.

McKeeley. A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. G. N. Smith, of Newcastle, on Thursday, Nov. 23, when Mr. J. A. McKeeley and Miss Mary M. Smith, both of the town of Midland, were united in the holy bonds. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. McCrae of Westminster, in the presence of about 25 guests. The young couple were unattended. After the wedding breakfast and the usual toast, the newly-married pair took the afternoon train at Dorchester for Toronto and other eastern points. They will reside in Midland. Many friends in Westminster follow them with best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity.

Back to the Cells. Thomas Murray, of London Junction, who has been in the county jail since the middle of August as a result of an assault on his wife, after which he was accused of setting fire to their home, was again brought before Judge Macbeth at the court house this morning, and again he reported that he was unable to secure two men who would offer $100 sureties to obtain his release. He was sent back to the cells till Dec. 19, but if he obtains the necessary bonds in the meantime, and there are satisfactory reports from Crown Attorney McKillop, he will be given his freedom. Murray's sentence was one month, but he has been unable to meet the requirements regarding the bonds.

His Son in London. The death occurred at his home, 40 South Locke street, Hamilton, Thursday morning of George Morris, his son, 77th year. Deceased was a native of England and came to Canada and to Hamilton when 20 years of age. For over 40 years he was in business on the market, and was well known and highly esteemed. He had been in poor health for some time. His wife, who was 80 years of age, and his daughter, Miss Clara, at home, survive. His son Morris was a member of St. John's Church, of London, and was a staunch Liberal. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon.

Cynthia Grey's Correspondence

Help for the Hair.
Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly answer the following questions: 1. What will make short, lifeless hair long and thick? 2. When the hair is in a tangle after removing a bunch of burrs, what will fix it without cutting? 3. I am fifteen past and weigh 136 pounds. Am I stout? 4. Please give recipe for fudge, and greatly oblige.
"IN THE DARK."

A.—1. A daily massage of the scalp with this tonic should be beneficial to the hair; about 10 minutes, nightly should suffice. Recipe: 1 ounce of brandy, 15 drops of spirit of wine, 1 ounce of balsam of Peru, 5 grains of tincture of iodine, 1 ounce of castor oil. Unravel as gently as possible with a coarse comb dipped occasionally in warm water in which a little powdered borax has been dissolved. 2. Yes, unless you are unusually tall. But if you have good health what does it matter? 3. Two cups sugar, 2-3 cup milk, good sized lump of butter, bring to a boil and boil hard stirring constantly; when it forms a soft ball upon being dropped into cold water remove from the fire; flavor with vanilla and add chopped nut meats or sections of dates; beat the candy vigorously until it becomes smooth, then pour quickly into a buttered tin and when nearly cold check off in squares. To make chocolate fudge, add a heaping tablespoonful of finely grated chocolate to the sugar and milk before boiling.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. How can I clean a cream silk shawl? 2. What could be used in the water to whiten clothes without injuring flannels? 3. What can I do for a scalp which has a coat of dandruff, still the hair is oily and for reasons cannot be washed? 4. What are pennants made from? 5. Where can I procure "Gilson" heads without cutting them from magazine? I wish to make calendars and passport pictures from them. 6. Give some simple Christmas gifts for school girls to make.

A.—1. Put the shawl into a pillowcase with a quantity of clean cornmeal, leave it there for a day or so, frequently rubbing it about in the case. The shawl should come out comparatively clean, and a second treatment in fresh meal will no doubt renovate it very satisfactorily. 2. Flannels should be washed separately with good wool soap, and never with the other clothes. A weak solution of chloride of lime may be used in the water to bleach white clothes. 3. Massage the scalp faithfully each night, and apply some of this remedy for dandruff: Bay rum 5 ounces, tincture of anthraxes 1 ounce, olive oil 1 ounce. Or a dry shampoo occasionally may be helpful; use one-third orris root to two-thirds cornmeal. Rub in at the roots of the hair.

Throat Becomes Diseased From Neglecting Colds

Then Catarrh Sets In, Mucous Drops Into the Stomach, Coughing, Headaches and Debility Follow.

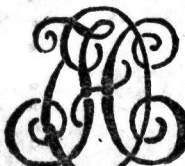

That the best method of curing catarrhal disease consists in using Catarrhazone is now freely admitted. Catarrhazone is infinitely superior to cough medicines, tablets, sprays and emulsions, which for the most part are of no practical value except to ease the cough for the time being. Often liquid cough remedies contain opium, morphine and cocaine. With Catarrhazone you take no drugs—just inhale Nature's way—just inhale Catarrhazone's soothing, healing vapor and relief and cure follow promptly.

Weak Throat, Racking Cough, Cured.

"For five years I suffered from a severe bronchitis. A harsh, dry, racking cough kept my throat in a raw condition from one year's end to another. Before going to sleep at night I always had a bad attack, and in the morning before each breakfast I suffered greatly. My voice was harsh and raspy, and sometimes I found it difficult to make myself understood. Catarrhazone seemed to soothe and heal from the first day. It cured me, and now I wouldn't think of being without a Catarrhazone Inhaler—it means life to me."

The above experience is related by Mr. Alexander P. Savary, of Hamilton, Pa., and proves the effectiveness of Catarrhazone, which will cure every cough, cold, bronchitis or catarrhal attack. The dollar size of Catarrhazone contains two months' treatment and is guaranteed. Smaller size 50c, sample size 25c. All dealers, or Tuna Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

and in about half an hour brush out carefully with a stiff brush. 4. Usually of lightweight felt. 5. Inquire at any of the local art or book stores. 6. A handkerchief kimono; the handkerchiefs may be purchased at any drygoods store, and suggestions given about the making. An opera bag is sure to be prized by its owner; make it of fancy Dresden ribbon, or any pretty figured silk, line with a contrasting color, and use ribbon for draw-strings. A "Vanity Bag" is made by lining a circular piece of silk with channels the same size; run a piece of lace around the edges; draw up into a bag with ribbon, and furnish with a powder puff and a tiny mirror. Doubtless mother will appreciate a holder for some of her pretty centrepieces that are not in use every day. Cut two circular pieces of cardboard and cover on each side with pretty cretonne, oversewing the edges as neatly as possible; to hide the stitches bind the edge with some narrow cord. The top round is kept in place with a ribbon of harmonizing color.

PAPER BAG COOKERY

Rice Pudding.
1 heaping tablespoon rice.

Nutmeg.
Butter the pie-dish thickly. Wash and pick the rice, put it in the pie-dish with the sugar, pour over the milk and grate nutmeg on the top. Place the dish in a bag as usual, secure the ends and bake about 1½ hours. This is an excellent recipe.

Swedish Rice Pudding.
2 rounding tablespoons Carolina rice.
1 pint milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 heaping tablespoon sugar.
Grease a pudding basin thickly with butter, wash and pick the rice, put it in the basin with the milk. Place in a bag, secure the ends and cook 1½ hours. Take the basin up carefully, turn out the pudding and pour over cream or custard. Serve with fruit sugar.

The Girl Who Is Too Thin

The girl who is too thin needs five things—plenty of fresh air, sleep and nourishing food, absence from worry and exercise.

Fresh air is one of the most important and the thin girl cannot get too much of it. She should, however, avoid being cold, as the cold is one of her worst enemies. Woolen garments, sweaters, petticoats, leggings and warm gloves should be donned when necessary, but she should insist on fresh air.

Ten hours sleep is none too much for the thin girl. She should have plenty of covers on her bed, and the hot water bottle at her feet, when she goes to bed.

The thin girl doesn't want to try to be heroic; ice cold baths are not for her—nor very hot ones, for that matter.

Nor should she undertake exhausting walks or try to train for athletic championships of any kind.

She should have steady calisthenic exercises for half an hour every day—fifteen minutes in the morning and fifteen at night; and, if she can, she should indulge herself to the utmost in the way of naps during the day or lounging about in loose, warm clothing.

Absolute freedom from care and anxiety are supposed to be necessary to her if she wants to gain flesh; but, alas! we can't always regulate the antics of fate, which deny us these delightful privileges.

Worrying over petty things is largely a bad mental habit, and if one puts all the will power one is capable of to conquer this one characteristic, mental and physical repose will develop of themselves.

Make up your mind to stop worrying about the small things. Train yourself not to think of them, and soon you will be able to tackle the larger worries and dispose of them, too.

The thin woman should be careful not to upset her digestion by eating anything that does not agree with her. Tea and coffee have no nutritive value and the latter is indigestible in its ordinary form. Cocoa is the best thing the thin woman can drink.

The rest of the diet should be of the most nourishing kind, consisting largely of foods containing starch and sugar, such as good fresh butter, rich milk, cream, raw and cooked fruits, macaroni, corn and cornmeal, sweet potatoes, beans, fish, nourishing soups, beef and mutton and green salads to promote digestion.

A glass of hot milk taken the last thing before going to bed helps the nervous, tired woman to sleep better and aids her in gaining flesh.

Tea Making Don't's

Don't use water that has been boiled a long time in brewing tea.
Don't use water which has not yet reached the boiling point.

Don't allow the tea to brew for more than five minutes.
Don't make tea in a cold teapot. Rinse with hot water before placing the leaves in the pot.

Don't pour a second brew over the leaves when the first brew is exhausted.
Don't allow tea to grow damp in the caddy.

Don't buy too cheap a quality of tea and expect good results.
Here is the Japanese method of making a delightfully refreshing beverage: Heat the earthen or china teapot thoroughly with boiling water, put in the tea, pour in freshly boiled water, let it stand for several minutes and serve.

Tea never touches the stove. A tiny tea cosy of Japanese paper is put over the teapot the moment the water is poured on and a delicious cup of tea is thus secured without having extracted the injurious ingredients—the tannin.

Always use a porcelain or earthenware teapot. Tea experts tell us that the fragrant leaf, should never touch metal.

Our Overcoats

The Overcoats we sell are those with some character. They are not like the other fellow's, but are individual in style and pattern. We give you character in cloth—character in fit—character in style—all that any other good tailor can give, and more than is afforded by the ready-made guess fit. We can give you all this for as little as $15, and you would pay twice that amount for it elsewhere.

A Gentleman's Suit

Our Suits and Overcoats are of good style, and are gentlemen's garments every way. We do not accept the idea that any man wearing clothes desires to look like a tailor's dummy. You know that the well-groomed man may have his clothes pressed daily, but they generally conform in fit to his figure without having any fancy and unnecessary trimmings. Good cloth and a good fit, with style, is what any gentleman wants, and it is that which the Scotland Woolen Mills Company hands its customers.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

In washing china take care that soda water is never used to wash a pattern on which gilt appears.

Iodine stains yield to a bath in alcohol followed by a rinse in soap water.

Oil stains should be rubbed over with lard, allowed to stand for several hours, then washed with cold water and soap.

Do not allow soiled clothes to remain long in the closet or laundry basket or they will take on a grimy, dull appearance hard to overcome. The flavor and texture of potatoes are spoiled if they are allowed to remain in the sun.

The best way to clean an invalid's room is to rub the carpet all over with a cloth wrung out of ammonia, diluted with a little warm water, rinsing and turning the cloth as the dust and dirt collect upon it. Change the water frequently. This is far better than sweeping, and raises no unpleasant dust in the room.

Some years ago it was the fashion to wear the muff hung from the neck by a cord, ribbon or chain. It is likely that this fad will return this winter.

The muff suspended from the shoulder by a thick tasselled silken cord is the latest novelty at the furrier's.

Carried in this fashion the muff suggests one of the enormous amonettes which were the fad of the moment a season ago. When worn with an evening wrap the muff, made on a ribbon with the cord, is suspended from the wrist by plaited satin ribbons.

WEST LONDONERS ARE ORGANIZED

Improvement Society Launched at a Meeting Held on Thursday Night.

A NEW BRIDGE WANTED

A Loop Line Over Oxford Street is Suggested—Ald. Wilson Addressed the Meeting.

At a meeting held in Collins' Hall, West London, on Thursday night, the West London Improvement Association was launched on its way. A large number of members were secured, a constitution and bylaws were adopted, and a full list of officers elected. Mr. W. Nicholas was elected president; Mr. J. Clarke, vice-president; Mr. T. Dexter, secretary-treasurer, and Mr. A. Y. Stinchcombe and Mr. Wilson, auditors. An executive committee was appointed as follows: J. Stinchcombe, H. Wooster, R. Stinchcombe, J. Hevey, M. Wilson and A. Y. Nicholas.

Meetings will be held every Wednesday from now until after the first of January, when the time of meeting will be further considered. It was decided to charge a membership fee of 50 cents, and membership cards will be issued in a few days.

Want a Bridge.
Among other things the West Londoners are out after a new bridge across the Thames between South and West London, street railway extension in West London, and various other improvements on Blackfriars street and the breakwater. "There hasn't been a dollar spent on Blackfriars street this year," said one member with determination in his voice.

Ald. Wilson was present, and addressed the association. He was quite aware that West London had not been rightly treated by the city council in recent times, and offered to do what he could to introduce into next year's council, should he be re-elected, any improvement measure the West Londoners desired to pass. He explained why the Mount Pleasant avenue sidewalk had not been built. When Ald. Richter's local improvement bylaw was carried, all improvements hitherto planned, but not actually undertaken, were cancelled, and would have to be re-petitioned for. He took occasion to criticize Ald. Richter's bylaw, and declared strongly against local improvement that in total paid for on a frontage tax basis. It was much more just, he declared, for the city to pay half.

A Loop Line.

Ald. Wilson expressed himself in favor of a loop street railway line through West London and back over the Oxford street bridge to Richmond street.

Mr. R. Stinchcombe, on the other hand, debated that the frontage tax rate was the only way to pay for new pavements and sidewalks.

"People who use the pavements should help to pay for them," said Ald. Wilson.

"You're the wrong way round again," said Mr. Stinchcombe.

Mr. Hevey supported Ald. Wilson in the debate, which was very animated. The executive committee will get busy and prepare a petition to present to the council at the first December meeting, asking to have a bylaw submitted to the Wharfedale bridge project.

Mr. Stinchcombe was doubtful whether the bylaw would carry.

"Over on the Ridgeway in South London there is a crowd that aspires to aristocracy," he said. "They think they are a little better than the West Londoners, and they don't want to be hitched up with us. They will do all they can to defeat the bridge bylaw, as they did the last time."

Seeks Co-operation.

Ald. Wilson suggested that the West London Association seek the co-operation of the East End Progressives.

But Mr. Stinchcombe thought otherwise. He had attended one of their meetings, but declared that they had asked nothing but "English swamp."

They wanted the new city hall built in Queen's Park. They wanted everything for one part of the city which a few years ago was swamp land. East and South London had always opposed every measure for the benefit of West London.

The question of nominating candidates to represent West London in the next city council will be considered more definitely at the next meeting.

Among others, Mr. T. Dexter has been suggested as a likely candidate.

A SARNIA CASE

Smith vs. Excelsior Life Insurance Company Heard in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—At Osgoode Hall, in trial court, before Britton, J.: Smith vs. Excelsior Life Insurance Company—This action is brought by Jean Smith, widow and administratrix of Charles Francis Smith, and by Zillah Smith, his mother, to recover $1,000, being the amount of a policy issued by the defendant company upon the life of Charles Francis Smith.

The defense was that C. F. Smith was engaged in a more dangerous service than when insured, without permit of the company, and they bring into court $350 premiums paid after deceased became a fireman on the G. T. R. Defendant was on duty as engineer, to which he had been promoted, of the G. T. R., when killed. Judgment: Plaintiff alleges that defendant had notice of deceased's change of employment, such notice being given to A. B. Teifer, their agent. The claim seems to me a just and equitable one, and I am glad to find that the defendants, notwithstanding their pleading admit by the letter of the actuary put in the trial as exhibit 5, that upon the basis of a premium of $32.32 plus $5, the plaintiff would be entitled to $222.66. In any event, in my opinion, the plaintiffs are entitled to that sum, but I think them entitled to judgment for $1,000, with interest at 5 per cent per annum from Aug. 16, 1911, with costs. Thirty days' stay.

Dyspepsia is one of the most prevalent troubles of civilized life, and thousands of people suffer untold agony after every meal, for nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. Mr. Wm. J. Boyne, Lepreau, N.B., writes: "I thought I would write and tell you of the good Burdock Blood Bitters has done me and also tell you how thankful I am."

"For five years I had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and tried different doctors and proprietary medicines, but could get no relief. One day a friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. BRITISH CABINET CRISIS FEARED

Sir Edward to Retire From the Foreign Secretaryship Is the London Rumor.

MR. BRYCE MAY SUCCEED

Haldane and McKenna May Also Resign Following Explanation—The Mixup With the Germans.

London, Nov. 23.—The belief prevails in political circles that Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, will retire from the cabinet after his eagerly-awaited exposition on foreign relations on Nov. 27 in the House of Commons, and that Mr. Jas. Bryce, ambassador to the United States, will succeed him.

The resignation of the foreign secretary will almost certainly be handed to the prime minister should any lack of confidence be shown in his policy during the debate which will follow his statement on Monday.

Sir Edward Grey, who during the earlier years of his occupancy of the foreign office received the almost unanimous support of all parties, has recently been the object of continuous attack, not from the Opposition, but by members of his own party, or, rather, the extreme Radical element in that party. The secrecy with which diplomatic negotiations have been carried on has aroused the ire of the Radicals, who latterly have received some support from the more moderate Liberals. The disclosures regarding the Anglo-German conversations with respect to Morocco, and the statements that these two countries were on the verge of war, have given the Radicals another opening, and they are now, it is understood, pressing for the retirement of Sir Edward, declaring: "We won't be drawn into war without knowing the reason why."

The Radicals favor an Anglo-German understanding, and accuse Sir Edward Grey of halting their efforts in this direction, either by his own design or through the influence of anti-German officials in the foreign office. Should Sir Edward resign, Viscount Haldane, secretary for war, and Mr. Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, will likely follow him.

Bryce May Succeed.
Mr. James Bryce, is the man thought most likely to be his successor, as Mr. Bryce would be supported by the entire party, as he was when the Unionists attacked him for the part he took in the negotiations on the subject of reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

By a tacit understanding the Unionist leaders support the Government's foreign policy, or at least refrain from criticizing it. They like the moderate Liberals, argue: Why turn a brilliant diplomatic victory into defeat by sacrificing the victor in order to secure the goodwill of vanquished Germans?

Lobby Rumors.
The lobby is full of rumors of other troubles besetting the Government. It is said in Unionist quarters that the cabinet is not able to satisfy John Redmond's home rule demands, which have increased through fear of the growing O'Brien strength in Ireland, and the Laborites are dissatisfied with the findings of the royal commission last August with respect to the railway strike. They blame the cabinet for failure to secure recognition of the unions.

The prime minister, it is true, is under moral obligations to avoid a crisis during the King's absence, but it may be beyond his power to do so.

Farmers' Bank Shareholders Say They Will Not Pay the Double Liability.

NESBITT WOULD RETURN

Reported That He Is in the West and Recently Sent Agent to Toronto to Smooth Out Matters.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, Nov. 24.—"The shareholders of the Farmers' Bank will carry the matter to the Privy Council before they will pay their double liability. They have already raised 5 per cent of the money to do it."

This was the statement made by Mr. I. E. Weldon, of Windsor, counsel for the Farmers' Bank Relief Association, which, together with the Farmers' Bank Defence League, will tomorrow wait on the Minister of Finance to ask for relief for shareholders and depositors in the defunct Farmers' Bank. The first named association represents the depositors and the second the shareholders.

That Dr. Beattie Nesbitt was somewhere in the west, and that an agent of his had been in Toronto a few days ago endeavoring to smooth the way for his return, was another statement made by one of the executive of the relief association. The latter are gathering in the Windsor Hotel, representatives from the 27 branches of the bank to be present. Tomorrow morning at 9:30 a deputation will wait upon the Government and present a

It Is All in the Flavor

There are different kinds of Raisins, just as there are different kinds of apples or peaches. It is the flavor that counts. The soft, sticky kinds with the reddish color have a sour taste. DIZZINESS

Mrs. J. B. Renaud, of Goldrich street, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., says: "I have suffered for months with a very weak stomach. I had dizzy spells, and at times could not retain any food at all. I tried any number of remedies and prescriptions, but none seemed to relieve me until I tried Mi-o-na Tablets. I used one box only, and they have completely cured me of my troubles. I am pleased to recommend Mi-o-na as I know it to be a remedy of merit."
Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box, and is guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, nausea, heartburn, sour stomach, belching of gas, distension, heavy stomach and car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy and the after effects of over-eating or drinking too much. PLANT FOR NORTH PART QUITE SATISFACTORY

Professor R. Angus Sends His Report on the Horton Street Wells—Will Be Considered Later.

The report of Professor R. Angus, of the University of Toronto, on the equipment of the Horton street pumping station, has been received by Chairman Pocock, and will be considered by the water commissioners at their next session.

It is a very voluminous document, containing many pages, and goes into the minutest detail of the construction of the machinery there.

For the most part the plant is up to the specifications, although the air compressors are not showing the volumetric efficiency that the specifications call for, nor do the turbines show the mechanical efficiency demanded. However, the remainder of the equipment, engines, electrical appliances, etc., are excellent.

The arrangement of the plant meets with the entire approval of Professor Angus.
"We have notified the contractors that they must bring the air compressors and the turbines to the proper efficiency," said Superintendent Glau-bitz. "So far as I can see there is little fault to be found with the machinery, and the criticisms made will soon be remedied. Everything else is reported first-class."

Annual "At Home."
The annual at home of the Ladies Aid Society of St. James' Anglican Church was held Thursday evening, when a large number of the congregation were present to spend a social time together. The programme was a good one. Music was provided by the Sunday school orchestra under the leadership of Rev. G. W. Dewey. Readings were given by Mrs. William Gibson, and solos by Mrs. Percy Spence and Miss Gwen Ware. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

A definite proposition has been made by the Erie Coal Company, which is expected to be accepted by the city. The scheme is to have the work done by the company of the United States, which will be given rights over the line for years.
