The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library Division
Provincial Archives of British Columbia

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▼ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

COMPARATIVE
CHRONOLOGICAL STATEMENT
OF THE EVENTS CONNECTED WITH THE RIGHTS OF GREAT BRITAIN
AND THE
CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES
TO THE OREGON TERRITORY.

ENGLAND.

1578-81. Sir Francis Drake discovered the north west coast of America, from Cape Mendocino to the 48° of north latitude.

AMERICA.

1712 Louis XIV. granted a patent to Antoine Crozat for the exclusive trade to Louisiana. The patent states, "that the territories possessed by the King are bounded by New Mexico and by the lands of the English in Carolina, and all the establishments, ports, harbours, rivers, especially the port and harbour of Dauphin Island, formerly called Massacre Island—the River St. Louis, formerly called Mississippi, from the sea coast to the Illinois country, together with the River St. Philip, formerly called the Missouri, and the St. Jerome, formerly called the Wabash, (the

ENGLAND.

1768. Captain J. Carver, of Connecticut, (a subject of Great Britain) explored the sources of the Missouri and Mississippi. The object of his travels was "to establish a port in those parts about the strait of Anian, which having been discovered by Sir Francis Drake, of course belonged to England." Carver gave the name Oregon, to the north west coast, from an Indian name affixed to all the countries west of the Rocky Mountains.
1769. Mr. Hearne, an agent of the Hudson's Bay Company, followed the course of the Copper Mine River to its termination at the Arctic Ocean.
1776. Captain Cook sails along the north west coast of America, from latitude 42° to latitude 70°.

1786. Several English ships trade for furs at Nootka Sound, and along the coast.
1786. Captain Meares visited the north west coast, and entered the mouth of the Columbia River; he named Cape Disappointment.
- 1789-92. Alexander Mackenzie, (a British subject,) explored the Copper Mine River from the Great Slave Lake to the sea.
1790. The right of Great Britain to the territories discovered by her subjects on the north west coast of America, acknowledged by Spain.* (Treaty, Oct. 28.)
- 1791-92. Vancouver sailed along the shores, and surveyed a long line of coast, including the entrance to the Columbia River.
1792. Lieut. Broughton, one of Vancouver's Lieutenants, took possession of the Columbia River and the adjoining country in the name of the King of England.

*Confirmed by the first additional article to the Treaty of 5th July, 1814.

AMERICA.

1789. The Americans appear, for the first time, on the shores of North West America—the ship Columbia, Captain Gray—Captain Kendrick arrives in Nootka Sound, and trades for furs.
1792. Capt. Gray, of Boston, enters the Columbia, which had formerly been visited by Meares and Vancouver.
1800. France again acquires by treaty, October 1st, the territory of Louisiana from Spain—"the same in extent as it was when France formerly possessed it."

1804-5-6. The North West Fur Company established trading Posts on the main branches of the Columbia River.

1807. Convention signed at London between the Plenipotentiaries of Great Britain and the United States, for the settlement of Boundaries in America. The 5th Article states—That a “line drawn due north or south (as the case may require) from the most north western point of the Lake of the Woods, until it shall intersect the 49th parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west along, and with the said parallel, shall be the dividing line between his Majesty’s territories and those of the United States; to the westward of the said Lake, as far as their respective territories extend in that quarter, and that the said line shall to that extent form the southern boundary of his Majesty’s said territories, and the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States. to extend to the north west Coast of America, or other territories belonging to or claimed by either party in the Continent of America to the westward of the Stony Mountains. This article was approved by both Governments. President Jefferson nevertheless wished that the proviso respecting the north west coast should be omitted, as it "could have little other effect than as an offensive intimation to Spain that the claims of the United States extend to the Pacific Ocean."—Letter July 30, 1807, from Mr. Madison, Secretary of State of the United States.

1810. Abandonment of the Trading Posts on the Columbia, by the Missouri Fur Company.

The Americans enter into an arrangement with the Russians to abstain from trading with the natives of the North West Coasts.

1818. The English Government allow the Americans to re-occupy Astoria under protest, as the despatch of Lord Castlereagh to the British representative at Washington, states—"You will observe, that whilst this Government is not disposed to contest with the American Government the point of possession, as it stood in the Columbia River, at the moment of the rupture, they are not prepared to admit the validity of the title of the Government of the United States to this settlement. In signifying therefore, to Mr. Adams the full acquiescence of your Government in the re-occupation of the limited position which the United States held in that River at the breaking out of the war, you will at the same time, assert in suitable terms the claim of Great Britain to that territory, upon which the American 1825. Treaty with Russia—It states the line of demarcation between the possession of the parties upon the coasts of the continent and the islands of America, in the north-west, is made to commence from the southernmost point of Prince of Wales's Island, in the latitude of 54° and 40° , and to run eastward to the Portland Channel, which it ascends to the 56° of latitude, thence it follows the summit of the mountains situated parallel to the coast, as far as the point of intersection of the 141° of longitude west from Greenwich, (passing through the west side of Mount Elias,) and continues along that meridian, northward, to the Arctic Ocean; but wherever the said summit of the mountains is more than ten leagues from the sea, the boundary runs parallel to the coast at the distance of ten leagues from it.

The Russians are never to form an establishment south or east of this line, nor are the British to form any on the other side of it; but the British are to enjoy for ever the right of navigating all streams, which may cross the said boundary in their course from the interior of the continent to the sea. The navigation of the inland seas, gulfs, harbours, and creeks, on the coasts, for the purposes of fishing or of trading with the natives, is left free to both parties for ten years; and the port of Sitca, or New Archangel, is opened to British subjects during the same period.

1827. Convention with the United States—Providing “that all the provisions of the third article of the convention of Oct. 1818 should be indefinitely continued, in force, each party being however at liberty after the 20th Oct. 1828, to annul and abrogate the engagement on giving due notice of 12 months by either party.”

1827. Convention with Great Britain.—“ART. 1.—All the provisions of the 3rd Article of the Convention concluded between the United States of America and his Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the 20th of October, 1818, shall be, and they are hereby further indefinitely extended and continued in force in the same manner as if all the provisions of the said article were herein specifically recited.

AMERICA.

"ART. 2.—It shall be competent, however, to either of the contracting parties, in case either should think fit, at any time after the 20th of October, 1828, on giving due notice of twelve months to the other contracting party, to annul and abrogate this Convention; and it shall in such case be accordingly entirely annulled and abrogated after the expiration of the said term of notice."

"ART. 3.—Nothing contained in this Convention, or in the 3rd article of the Convention of the 20th of October, 1818, hereby continued in force, shall be construed to impair, or in any manner affect, the claims which either of the contracting parties may have to any part of the country westward of the Stony or Rocky Mountains."

THE Americans found their claim to the Oregon Territory—

1st—On the purchase of Louisiana from the French in 1803.

2nd—On the rights they acquired from Spain by the Florida Treaty.

3rd—From the discoveries and settlements of American citizens.

I. The purchase of Louisiana from the French, in 1803, can give no title to the Oregon and the district of the Columbia, as the boundaries of Louisiana never extended beyond the sources of the rivers Missouri and Mississippi, and if we give the fullest extent to the Louisiana claim, it was bounded by the Rocky Mountains. (See Map.)

II. The region acquired from Spain by the Florida Treaty.

The claim of Spain could arise only from the discoveries of her navigators. Sir Francis Drake was undoubtedly the first European who sailed along this part of the north west continent of America. The voyages of the Spanish navigators were subsequent to Drake's voyage.

Spain acknowledged the right of Great Britain to these territories, by the Convention of 1790, and confirmed the Convention of 1790 by the Treaty of 1814. The American Treaty with Spain was not ratified until 1820, so that, if Spain had any rights, Great Britain had acquired them by the prior cession.

III. From the discoveries and settlements of American citizens.

If priority of visitation gives the right to the territory, Sir Francis Drake visited the shores of this country in 1581, Captain Cook in 1777, Captain Meares in 1786, Vancouver and Broughton in 1791-2. The first American navigator did not appear until 1792. If exploration of the rivers and lands give the right to the territory, Captain Carver, a subject of England, had visited the source of the Oregon River in 1768. The North West Fur Company had established trading posts on the Columbia River in 1804; it was not until 1806 that Messrs. Clark and Lewis, an American expedition, passed down the valley of the Columbia to its entrance into the sea. If America contends that a proprietary title has been acquired by the first visitations and explorations of her citizens, she can only be entitled to a very small portion of the territory; inasmuch as her citizens have visited but a very small portion of the country—the greater part of it having been pre-visited by the agents of the Hudson's Bay Company, who are the subjects of Great Britain. The Law of nations has hitherto been, "that the navigators of any nation, who first visited the shores of any country, acquired for their Sovereigns, whose subjects they were; not only the shores, but the rivers running into the seas they visit." Upon this principle have all the Colonial possessions of Spain, Portugal, France, England, and Russia been secured.
