

Vol. VIII. No. 5.

WINNIPEG, CANADA, MAY, 1907.

"The train was twenty minutes late, Miss. If they are coming they should be here by now."

"I think I will. There musthave beensome mistake. And then I ma, m e e t them on on the road. May I leave my trunk here, and I'll send for it later?"

"Very well, Miss. I'll have it put in the baggageroom till called for—" The hack, though not much to look at, was comfortable enough and

Dorothy, after an almost sleepless night on the train, was willing to close her eyes to the three miles of scenery. and only opened them to find herself under the porte-cochère of a large iously assisted down the train steps by an country house. Jumping out, she paid the driver and dismissed him, and then paused a mo-She had never been in Maplewood before, but the bustle about the little ment on the veranda before ringing station seemed to indicate a flourishing | the door-bell.

HAT her name wasn't really Dorothy

Crusoe was proved by the D. L. on the trunk which was tumbled out of the baggage car at the same time that the young lady was ceremon-and wide-awake, if small community.

obsequious porter.

meet her on her arrival.

The view was of the very kind that There were several traps and auto-mobiles waiting at the platform, and love of pure color, and the morning Dorothy looked at them eagerly in search of the friends who were to bright green, and across the smooth gray of the river she could see the dis-But she saw none of the Glenns, and tant purple hills.

ently, there was no one at home.

Again she rang—several times more but still no one appeared and the

"Is their house far?
How could I get there?"

It's a good three miles out in the country. But you could take a you could take a pretty state of things! But even if they're all away, there must be some servants or somebody around."

Acting on this possibility, Dorothy

Acting on this possibility, Dorothy went around the house, knocking at the side veranda door, and again at the kitchen entrance.

When this brought no result, she tried to open the back door, but it was locked.

"Oh!" she exclaimed aloud in her exasperation, "I never heard of anything so queer. I'll go back to the thing so queer. I'll go back to the front door and ring that again, and then, if nobody comes, I'll—I'll—I don't know what I'll do!' But though the front door-bell was willing to ring as long as she pushed the electric button, the door remained obstinately shut.

Impulsively Dorothy seized the door-knob and turned it, when to her surprise the door opened readily.

"Well of all the things!" she cried.

"But, at least there must be somebody at home, or the front door would have been locked."

She stood in the hall, listening, but

She stood in the hall, listening, but heard no sound of any kind.

"Helen!" she called at last. "Helen, where are you?"

Still no answer, and she was forced to the conclusion that the house was empty of any human beings save herself.

Her curiosity being arounsed, and having, moreover, a practical mind, she concluded to make a systematic search. She closed the front door, and

ed to go

Nor were they were lacking bedrooms were in order, but been hatsily, almost careless. In Helen's room a kimono over a chair back and a pair slippers had undoubtedly been in a hurry. In Mrs. Glenn's rewere also evidences of a himogeneous series of the ser in a hurry. In Mrs. Glenn's room there were also evidences of a hasty exit. But a watch was ticking on the dressing table, "and so," concluded the attute amateur detective, "she has been here lately enough to wind that."

Two of the guest-rooms showed signs of occupancy, and a glance at each denoted that the guests were masculine and feminine respectively.

"Rather a nice man, I think," commented Dorothy; "he has such lovely English brushes, and he uses shoetrees. The girl, though, whoever she is, is horrid. She likes perfumery, and she frizzes her hair."

But the crowning bit of evidence was she frizzes her hair."

But the crowning bit of evidence was found in Fred Glenn's room.

Here the daily calender was torn off to Friday, June 17th, "which is to-day," announced Dorothy, with great satisfaction, "and which proves conclusively that the whole family decamped this morning. I know Fred Glenn's methodical habits, and he tore off yesterday's calendar slip either this morning or calendar slip either this morning or very late last night. Now I've got clues enough, but I can't puzzle the thing

"They expected me to-day, and even if any thing occurred to make them fly off suddenly somewhere, I can't see why the servants should go, too. And if they did, I can't see why they didn't look the front door. It's mighty queer any way you look at it. I feel like Robinson Crusoe, stranded on a desert island. I never before approximately and the service of the serv went through the parlors, library, dining-room, and even kitchen, with- desert island. I never before appre-

Wedding Suggestions

CANNOT recommend too highly the quality, design and finish of the articles illustrated, any one of which will make a practical and appreciated Wedding Gift. We will engrave, free of charge, any of these pieces ordered before June 15th. 'The "Dingwall" Catalogue contains many gift suggestions. Send for one.

Write for copy of our New Illustrated Catalogue

Catalogue

FANCY PIECES SILVER PLATE

	TANCE FIREDO SILVER FLATE
6a Preserve Spoon, gilt bowl 1.80 7 Berry Spoon, plain bowl 1.60 7a Berry Spoon, gilt bowl 2 25 8 Pickle Fork, in case .50 9 Oyster Forks, ½ doz. in case 2 50	32b Sugar Shell, in case .60 33 Berry Forks, ½ doz. ln case 2.35 34 Tea Spoons, ½ doz. in case 1.85	37 Cream Ladle. in case

Fork, gilt, in case 1.25 ngs, in case..... fee Spoons, gilt, ½ doz. in case 3.00

D. R. DINGWALL, LTD.

Jewelers and Silversmiths, Winnipeg, Canada.

May, 1907.

ciated how lonely he n It's weird—that's what believe I feel a little b that's foolish, in broad a house that the family h out of. Perhaps there v by, and they all ran off t lieve I'll go downstairs to some neighbor or so is, if they have a telephotice any."

Dorothy Crusoe ran of looked all about for a to be disappointed. She and she even went outdoo the wires, but there were And there was no he Three miles from the station, the Glenns place isolated. There were has the trees; chairs, setees, tea-table made the verai attractive, but the entir other humanity made D with loneliness, and she the front stairs in despa "It's ghastly," she t first it seemed funny ar but now it's horrid. If i joke, they're carying it t any case, they're certainly But after a few minute mity returned, and she only thing to do was to of the situation and await So she went in the hor went towards the kitche

"I'm certainly Dorot she thought, "and I may tate my prototype, Robin connoitre as to my visi support Since the Glenns to offer me any hospital have to take it myself."

In the pantry was a su was beyond all doubt the milk, and this fact cheere corroborating her theor family would soon return herself to a glassful, and self at the open piano she The gay music lightened h soon she was laughing at predicament.

"I know what I'll do," declared to herself, "I'l Helen's room aloct nich hardly slept any last nigh sleeping-car, and I'm Then, if Helen comes in there, it will be like Goldi Three Bears."

Pleased with this pr Dorothy went up to Helen off her hat and jacket, ar self generally at home.

She even slipped off he shirt-waist, and donned mono that looked so invi Then, throwing herself she drew an afghan over soon sound asleep. Later, she awoke. How she did not know, but on look at Mrs. Glenn's water it was high noon. She w hall and hung over the ba a sound could be heard, ciated how lonely he must have felt. It's weird-that's what it is.. And I believe I feel a little bit scared. But that's foolish, in broad daylight and in a house that the family has just stepped out of. Perhaps there was a fire near by, and they all ran off to see it. I believe I'll go downstairs and telephone to some neighbor or somebody. That is, if they have a telephone—I didn't notice any."

Dorothy Crusoe ran downstairs, and looked all about for a telephone, only to be disappointed. She could see none,

"Dorothy walked toward the piano, and then stood suddenly stock-still."

and she even went outdoors to look for the wires, but there weren't any.

And there was no house in sight. Three miles from the Maplewood station, the Glenns place was large and isolated. There were hammocks under the trees; chairs, setees, and even a tea-table made the veranda cozy and attractive, but the entire absence of other humanity made Dorothy shuder with loneliness, and she sat down on the front stairs in despair.

"It's ghastly," she thought. "At joke, they're carying it to far, and in any case, they're certainly very rude!"

But after a few minutes her equanimity returned, and she concluded the only thing to do was to make the best to offer me any hospitable cheer, I'll self-even if he is a burglar. have to take it myself."

milk, and this fact cheered Dorothy, as herself to a glassful, and seating her- print in the sand. self at the open piano she began to play. soon she was laughing at her ridiculous predicament.

"I know what I'll do," she suddenly declared to herself, "I'll go up in Helen's room and take a nap. I hardly slept any last night in that old sleeping-car, and I'm awfuly tired. Then, if Helen comes in and finds me somebody to speak tothere, it will be like Goldilocks and the Three Bears." Pleased with this practical plan, Dorothy went up to Helen's room, took off her hat and jacket, and made herself generally at home. She even slipped off her crisp white shirt-waist, and donned the blue kimono that looked so inviting. Then, throwing herself on the couch, soon sound asleep. Oon sound asleep.

.00 .25 .20 .60 2.25 1.75 3.00

Later, she awoke. How much later, "What the Dickens!" he began, but she did not know, but on going in to after an instant's pause continued, "I look at Mrs. Glenn's watch, she found beg your pardon; you are a guest of it was high noon. She went into the the house?" hall and hung over the bannister. Not "I'm not exactly," said Dorothy, said to herself, "you'll have to go down and prepare your own luncheon if you expect to have any. That is, if you can find anything to eat, and I've no doubt work and it is a castaway on a desert island. I have a castaway doubt you can."

Deciding that there counld be no objection to wearing Helen's kimono down-stairs, since there was no one to see her, Dorothy ran down and went tions of the requirements of a drain to see her, Dorothy ran down and went tions of the requirements of a drain to see her, Dorothy ran down and went tions of the requirements of a drain tions of the requirements of the re to the dining-room.

She was getting a little used to silence, and tried to look on the day's proceedings as a humorous experience. And she succeeded fairly, especially when she discovered a well-stocked larder, with cold chicken, fresh lettuce and thing?" apple-pie in stock.

"I won't cook anything," she concluded, "but I'll make me a cup of tea. And while teh kettle is boiling, I'll play 'Just One Girl,' or some-thing appropriate like that."

Dorothy filled the kettle and put it on the range, where a moderate fire was

"Of course they'll be back soon," she thought, as she did so; "they've left the fire so it won't either burn out or the fire so it won't either burn out or go out before night. But it's a queer picnic where they take the cook and posited himself in the chair indicated. waitress both with them.'

Going to the parlor, Dorothy walked towards the piano, and then suddenly stood stock still. Her big brown eyes grew bigger with amazement, her cheeks turned pale and then red, and a shiver of fear was quickly followed by a grin fun of the situation. of amusement. For on the piano-stool lay a man's hat.

It couldn't have been there when I was playing this morning," she thought, "for, of course, I couldn't have sat on it without noticing it, and even if I had, it would have been flatened out, instead of properly and most correctly creased.

She went to the hall and listened again, but there was only the same sil-

"It's magic," she thought, "how could that hat get here all by itself? I'm not scared, because it isn't a burglar's hat I'm sure. No burglar ever wore a swager hat like that."

She picked up the hat and studied it. It was a soft light-gray felt, with a first it seemed funny and interesting, brim rather broader than most men but now it's horrid. If it's a practical wear, and which to Dorothy's sophisticated judgment betokened a literary man or an artist.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, "sometimes I think I have the detective instinct, but here's a chance to exercise it, and of the situation and await developments.
So she went in the house again and went towards the kitchen.
"I'm certainly Dorothy Crusoe," she thought, "and I may as well imitate my prototype, Robinson, and reconnoitre as to my visible means of connoitre as to my visible means of support Since the Glenns are not here ductions; I'd rather see the man him were found wanting in the somewhat

"It's the queerest thing," her In the pantry was a supply of what was beyond all doubt that morning's staring at the hat on the piano-stool; staring at the hat on the piano-stool; "the hat is there, and somebody must corroborating her theories that the family would soon return. She helped Robinson Crusoe discovered a foot-

"Well, I said I was Dorothy Crusoe, The gay music lightened her spirits, and and now I've discovered a footprintor rather a head-print. And I think that it was by means of that footprint that Robinson Crusoe found his man Friday. To-day is Friday, and if there is an owner to that hat anywhere about, I wish he'd appear and be my Man Friday, for I'd like

At that moment Dorothy heard a door opened and closed.

The sound were followed by quick steps down the stairs, and what was unmistakably a man's voice whistling "Hiawatha."

Suddenly conscious of the blue kimono, Dorothy turned a blushing face toward the hall door.

She saw a big, happy-looking young she drew an afghan over her, and was man, whose frank face wore an ex-

a sound could be heard, and, with a bravely trying to ignore her uncon- looked over the morning paper, then I sigh, she realized that the Glenns had not yet appeared. ventional, if becoming costume. "That is—I expected to be, but I find I'm only "And so, Mis Dorothy Crusoe," she a castaway on a desert island. Is your

"Yes. Miss Dorothy Crusoe. I saw your footprint on the piano-stool,

But the young man had his own notions of the requirements of a dramatic situation, and replied, with a vague look of enquiry:

"Glenns?"
"Yes,' said Dorothy, a bit impatiently. "Where is all the family, and who are you? Don't you know any-

"I'm but a Man Friday, and no selfrespecting Man Friday ever knows anything save what his Crusoe teaches him."

"Then," said Dorothy, rising to the occasion, "you are at my orders?"
"Absolutely, Miss Crusoe."
"Then I comand you to sit in that chair, and not to budge for ten min-

"Your command shall be obeyed."

Dorothy flew upstairs to Helen's room, and flinging aside the blue kimono, donned her corect white shirt-waist and dainty tie. With a more waist and dainty tie. With a more conventional costume, her courage returned, and she began to appreciate the

"He must be the man guest," she thought, "the one with the shoe-trees in his room. And now that I've seen the man, I don't wonder at the size of the trees."

Her equilibrium entirely restored, Dorothy went downstairs again, and with an added touch of dignity to her manner, she approached the young man, and holding out her hand with a formal gesture, she said:

"Good morning; now please dropnonsese, and tell me all about it."

He rose quickly, shook hands, and offered her a chair with graceful courtesy.

"I am Hugh Masterton," he said, "and very much at your service. I am a guest of the elusive Glenns."

"And I thought I was to be," interrupted the girl. "I am Dorothy Latimer, and they expected me to-day.

Where are they all?"

"Oh," said Masterton, a light breaking upon him, "now I understand. They telegraphed you, Miss Lorimer, necessary virtue of honesty, and Mrs. Glenn was obliged to dismiss the trio. They departed early this morning, and immediately after we all started off in the automobile to bring new servants from the city. I was with the party, but when we stopped at the village post-office for the mail, I found a letter asking me for some sketches as yet unfinished, so I gave up the outing, and dutifully returned to the house to do my work. We had locked up the house before we started, but the Glenns gave me the latchkey, and I let myself in. Then I had to go to the village again for some materials, and I rode Fred's horse down. You must have come during my absence."

"Yes," said Dorothy, "I suppose I did. I arrived, and after ringing a number of times, I tried the front door and found it opened."

"Very careless of me," commented Masterton. "I left it unfastened when went away, without thinking about

"So then I came in," went on Dor-othy, "and I went all over the house othy, "and I went all over the house and I couldn't find anybody, and as I had a wakeful night in the sleeper, I "Let's!" cried the girl, "and, oh, I went to Helen's rom and took a nap." "Ah, that explains it. When I returned, I heard no one, and the house was aparently just as I had left it, so right stage of puffing steam, and Dor-I sat down here for a moment, and looked over the morning paper, then I "I had expected," remarked Hugh, went directly to my rom, where I've been busily working ever since."

"And you left your hat here," exclaimed Dorothy, "and when I woke up I came down and saw it, and I knew it wasn't a burglar's hat, and I was comystified! When will the Glenns be

"Not till four or five o'clock this afternoon. You see, they telegraphed you to postpone your coming till the day after to-morrow, and they expect to bring a new force of servants back with them. Or at least a cook, anyway, and let the others come by train."

"Then said Dorothy, looking thoughtful, "you and I will be here alone till late this afternoon."

"That is for you to say," replied Masterton, quickly. "If you wish, I will go away at once."

"No, dont!" cried Dorothy "It was awful to be all alone in this hig house. I'd much rather have you than nobody. Much!"

"Thank you, said Masterton, gravely."

"That makes it too formal and serious, the afternoon here, you can decide upon

"Thank you, said Masterton, gravely.
"That makes it too formal and serious. the afternoon here, you can decide upon our mutual relations. Will you be the hostess, and considering the Glenn's house your own, allow me to be your favored guest, or shall I, by right of prior occupancy, consider myself the host, and look upon you as a welcome and honored visitor."

"Neither," said Dorothy, promptly. "That makes it to formal and serious. We'll stick to my original idea, and I am Dorotyh Crusoe, this house is my desert island, and you are my Man Friday, entirely under my despot rule."

"So be it, Miss Crusoe. Figuratively speaking, your foot is on my neck; I live but to serve you, and I shall not so much as breathe save in accordance with your expressed instructions."

"That's nice," said Dorothy, with a nonchalant air of satisfaction; "and now, my Man Friday, I will confess to you the I am most exceedingly hungry."

"So am I," remarked Masterton. "Let us explore our island and forage for food."

"I've already done that, admitted Dorothy."

"I've already done that, admitted Dorothy. "You see—"

"And you found cold chicken and apple pie," interrupted Masterton. Mrs. Glenn told me they were in the pantry, when she found that I was obliged to come back here and work. She bade me help myself."

"And your work?" said Dorothy, with sudden compunction, "is it finished? Am I keeping you from it?"

"I never work at meal times," replied Hugh, "and in order that I may

"You run along, Man Friday, and attend to your work, and I'll attend to my own department."

quite forgot, I put the kettle on to boil.

I fear the water wil be overdone." But it wasn't, it was just at he

REMARKABLE INVENTION

CULTURE OF HAIR

HE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and as no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL! THE COMPANY'S GUARANTEE

An Evans Vacuum Cap will be sent you for sixty day's free trial. If you do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. LOVE, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopæcia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots), without resorting to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. MOORE, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the Evans Vacuum Cap is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the Evans Vacuum Cap will be sent, post free, on application.

The Secretary, Evans Vacuum Cap Co., Limited REGENT HOUSE, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

"to eat my chicken and pie picnic understood. They finally succeeded in making it perform properly, and somehow, I feel an uncontrollable detection the sideboard. But in making it perform properly, and their black coffee was a decided sucsomehow, I feel an uncontrollable desire to have the table set properly, and lunch like civilized people.

"So do I," said Dorothy, and if you'll assume the responsibility, and also help some with the details, I'll turn this sav age feast into a social function."
"Done!" cried Hugh; "I even know where Mrs. Glenn keeps her doilies."

Laughing like two children in mischief, they set a dainty, if over-elab-orate luncheon table, and Hugh volunteered to forage the desert island for flowers, while Dorothy attended to some culinary matters.

"Don' go near the west coast," she called after him, as he went off with basket and shears, "that's where the basket and shears, "that it is not that the basket and the basket and the basket and the basket and cannibals hide, and I don't want you eaten up before the Glenns come home.'

'And after that?" he asked. "After that, I've no jurisdiction over you," she returned saucily. "We're Crusoe and Friday for one day only." Masterson went off, with an unformulated prayer in his heart that the Glenns' automobile might break down as usual, for the present situation was quite in his mind, and he was in no hurry to have it end.

Dorothy knew her cooking school lore, and when she discovered some cold boiled potatoes, and a kitchen garden, she flew at them and concocted a salad that looked and proved to be worthy of an illustrated description in "Hints to Housewives."

Masterton returned with a quantity of sweet peas and honeysuckle vines, and himself undertook the task of table decoration. So well did he succeed, that Dorothy hastened to display her beautifuly garnished salad as a competitive triumph

The luncheon was a merry feast,

Dorothy Crusoe and Man Friday became wonderfully well acquainted, and somehow the acquaintance ripened fast into friendship.

"Now," said Dorothy, with a little sigh, when all was over, "now you must go back to your sketches, and I must clear away these dishes."

"Don't do that," said Masterson. "The Glenns will soon be home, and they'll bring one or more servants with them, and they can attend to all

"No," said Dorothy, firmly; "my bump of neatness is too largely developed to admit of such a plan. You on an apron, and set to work vigorously.

"Let me help you, then," pleaded Hugh. "I don't want to go away and play by myself."
"But your work is imperative. You said you must do it to-day,

"I know-but I'd rather stay here." "Don't be silly. Go on and do your duty, and when these things are all straightened up, I'll call you, and we'll sit on the veranda or go for a stroll.

"All right, then. And be as quick as you can with your ridiculous kitch-

Dorothy must have felt an impetus of some sort, for in an incredibly short space of time, she had her work done, and done in her own punctilious way, and going to the piano she played a ragtime melody that brought Man Friday down-stairs, two steps at a time.

And then those two merry and light-hearted young people went for a walk, and went for a row, and somehow or other their friendship lost its impersonal character and they became deeply interested in each other as especial individuals. Masterson suddenly realized that he was lute necessity of hurrying home, and the gayety and happiness of existing

They discovered that they possessed the same sense of humor and a similar code of ethics, and what is more needful for absolute congeniality?

"I feel as if we were old friends, and had known each other for years," said Dorothy, as they went back to

"So do I," said Masterson, "and what delights me even more is the fact that we will continue to know each other for years to come; for let me tell you, my Dorothy Crusoe, you can't get rid of your Man Friday as suddenly as you found him."

Although it was five o'clock the Glenns had not yet returned, and the castaways proceeded to invent more entertainment for themselves.

They discovered each other's musical capabilities, and sang duets to their mutual delight. They wandered into the libarary and made the astounding discoverey that their tastes in literature were similar, and after Hugh had read aloud certain poemsone of them twice over-Dorothy confided to her own heart that a man who could read poetry like that was the man for whom she could ever really care.

The hours went by faster than they realized, and at seven it had begun to grow dusk, and still the Glenns did not come.

"I wish they would come," said the girl, with a sudden feeling of embarrassment, which she couldn't exactly explain, even to herself.

"Dorothy," said Hugh, taking her hand in his, and speaking rather gravely, "the situation is growing a little bit serious. I have thought so for an hour or more, but I hated to alarm you. You see, the Glenns' automobile has an incurable habit of breaking down, and should it do so to-day, they will not know the abso-Being in the exploring line, they experimented with a complicated coffee-machine, which neither of them solved and Dorothy, without troubling to coffee-machine, which neither of them solved and Dorothy, gave herself up to servants at once, and, thinking I can the Glenns had returned.

easily keep bachelor hall here, they may take their own time about returning.'

"You don't mean"—and Dorothv's brown eyes grew troubled—"you don't mean they mightn't come back till—till tomorrow!'

"That's about the size of it," said Masterson, with an attempt at gayety. "But-but, what an impossible state of affairs!" exclaimed the girl, the whole situation suddenly flashing upon her. "We can't stay here till to-You can't go away and leave me here alone. And I can't go away-I've nowhere to go."

Perhaps the tears that came into the brown eyes at these words precipitated Masterson's next move, but unrepulsed, he took Dorothy in his arms and softly whispered:

"Won't you leave it all to me, dear? Won't you trust me to take care of you now—and always?"

And Dorothy said she would. After a time-and, as time slipped away faster than ever, it was nearly eight o'clock—they concluded that they must give up all hope of seeing the Glenns that night.

"And so," said Masterson, "Man Friday will find a horse and trap, and will manage some way to harness them together and take Dorothy Crusoe to the village. There, there is a comfortable, if not very elaborate inn, where we can dine, though perhaps frugally, compared to our lunch-eon of to-day."

"How long ago that fluncheon seems," said Dorothy, dreamily.

"Yes, so much has happened since," returned her fiance. "And then," he went on, "you shall stay at the inn over night, and, indeed, until the Glenns do return, and I'll come back here and keep the house safely against their home-coming."

Dorothy agreed to these most practical plans, and they would have been speedily carried out, but just as Masterson started for the stables to act as his own groom, an automobile came chugging up the driveway, and

The presents lay piled and beautiful room set a arrangement. The long t down its centre helds its there were jewels and sil of dainty trifles awaiting of the girl, whose busing place and ticket them.

The jeweller's assistant special Bond Street firm, pleted his task. He pro-tired of "the show." Su no novelty to him. The also an employee of anoth for the artistic presentme gifts, was just as tired as But she knew she must s last article had been assig the last card of the donor

They made a brave she sents. Silver plate—exc delicate china; cutlery, je ments; books, cheques; silver and ivory, laces fa furniture of Sheraton or Rose du Barri mirrors, Se China, paintings, engraving photograph frames; scent boxes and satchets—all the one dainty and expensive wealth lavishes on wealth prove that to "her who has more shall be given!"

Kate Perren stood for moments, surveying these wondering a little wheth cared about them; wond little what that bride was was a love match or a marriage. If she were ha passively miserable, as so she had seen. Girls who their wedding-presents wit fiant eyes; girls who had wistful-eyed; girls whose quivering with longing to that should set them free, that the word must never

Of what sort or condi present martyr. This Miss ford, of 1001 Princess Gate "Well, I'm sure you cright," said the jewelle
"There's not much more to

She bade him good even resumed her own task. one-and one for which o and known experts were en firms who made such wo

It seemed odd to Kate she should be employed i She-who once had been honored-and now knew h less, parentless and for runs the world. So sports Fate!

The door opened quietly stood arranging the last ro ering uselessness. She over one of the numberle cases. It was still in her, half turned her head. The dusk had crept on apace, switched on one electric lig the open door came a gle firelight, the tinkle of cups the chatter and laughter voices. The man who he group, and been ordered to presents looked, stood star as if she had been a ghos as death, stood staring back hand fell to her side, the

to the ground, making but as it touched the soft carp. The door was shut abruintruder came quickly forw. "Kate! God in heaven! and here? What does it respectively to the sourcht held of the She caught hold of the seemed to her as if the spun round. As if she we its giddy circles. Had the dead returned what miracle was this? "Gerald! It can't be!

heard you were dead."
"Was that why I could of you hear nothing. I would in it was in a large of you hear nothing. I had wounded and the Boars or wounded, and the Boers go six months in hospital; the

A Wedding Gift.

The presents lay piled about the large | my senses and to reason. I came home and beautiful room set aside for their at once. I sought for you immediately. arrangement. The long table which ran You had disappeared—no one knew down its centre helds its share, but still where. I advertised, I did everything I there were jewels and silver and scores could; all no use. Kate, why did you of dainty trifles awaiting the attention do it-why keep me in ignorance? Unof the girl, whose business it was to lessplace and ticket them.

The jeweller's assistant, sent by a special Bond Street firm, had just completed his task. He professed himself tired of "the show." Such things were no novelty to him. The girl, who was also an employee of another firm, noted for the artistic presentment of wedding gifts, was just as tired as the assistant. But she knew she must stay on till the last article had been assigned its placethe last card of the donor affixed to the

They made a brave show, those pre-Silver plate—exquisite glass delicate china; cutlery, jewellery, ornaments; books, cheques; toilet sets in silver and ivory, laces fans; household furniture of Sheraton or Chippendale; Rose du Barri mirrors, Sevres and Saxe China, paintings, engravings, albums and photograph frames; scent cases; glove boxes and satchets—all the hundred and one dainty and expensive trifles that wealth lavishes on wealth, in order to prove that to "her who hath much, much more shall be given!"

Kate Perren stood for a few idle moments, surveying these costly gifts, wondering a little whether the bride cared about them; wondering also a little what that bride was like. If this was a love match or a mere Society marriage. If she were happy or merely passively miserable, as so many brides she had seen. Girls who had looked at their wedding-presents with strange, defiant eyes; girls who had been pale and wistful-eyed; girls whose lips seemed quivering with longing to say a word that should set them free, and yet knew that the word must never be uttered. Of what sort or condition was this present martyr. This Miss Doris Carisford, of 1001 Princess Gate.

they it re-

othv's

-"you back

said

state

ig up-

n and

n't go into

s pre-

e, but in his dear?

are of lipped

nearly seeing

"Man

p, and arness

orothy

there

borate

h per-lunch-

cheon

pened "And stay

ndeed, id I'll house

t prac-

e been les to nobile

y, and ig."

that

"Well, I'm sure you can finish all said the jeweller's assistant. "There's not much more to do. I'm off

She bade him good evening, and then resumed her own task. A responsible one-and one for which only accredited and known experts were engaged by the firms who made such work their pro-

It seemed odd to Kate Perren that she should be employed in such labor. She-who once had been rich, beloved, honored-and now knew herself friendless, parentless and fortuneless. So runs the world. So sports the wind of Fate!

The door opened quietly, as the girl stood arranging the last row of bewildering uselessness. She was stooping over one of the numberless jewellers' cases. It was still in her, hand as she half turned her head. The November dusk had crept on apace, and she had switched on one electric light. Through the open door came a gleam of ruddy firelight, the tinkle of cups and spoons, the chatter and laughter of girlish voices. The man who had left that group, and been ordered to see how the presents looked, stood staring at Kate as if she had been a ghost. She-pale as death, stood staring back at him. Her hand fell to her side, the case dropped to the ground, making but slight noise as it touched the soft carpet.

The door was shut abruptly. intruder came quickly forward.

"Kate! God in heaven! You and here? What does it mean?"

She caught hold of the table. It seemed to her as if the whole room spun round. As if she were afloat on its giddy circles.

Had the dead returned to life-or what miracle was this? "Gerald! It can't be!

heard you were dead." Was that why I could find no trace of you-hear nothing. I was reported missing, I know. I had been badly wounded, and the Boers got me. I was six months in hospital; then I woke to

"Oh, no! Gerald—no! I had not changed. But my father was ruined. The shock brought his death, and my mother's followed it. I had to go out into the world; to earn my own living.

"Oh, Kate! Kate! My poor, pretty

He had his arms about her. For one blissful moment she rested in them; safe, sheltered—happy once again. For one moment. Then she felt their release of her; the eyes to which her own turned in sudden bewildering appeal were eyes in which the old love and the new joy struggled against some invading foe. They were not Gerald's eyes; only the haggard, agonized eyes of a day.

man distraught, perplexed, desperate.

"Kate—" he groaned. "Oh, my God, is it possible you don't know— "Know—what?"

wondered if ever fate had played a crueller trick on any man? How was he to tell her?

"You are not dead—you are alive; you have come back," she faltered. "And—what does anything else matter?"
"For to-day," he said, "nothing else matters seeing you and I stand face to face again. Have you changed, Kate? Do you love me still?"

"God knows I do," she said. "Oh, the miserable, awful months! the cold, empty years—gone now, gone for ever. Only—I forgot, Gerald, I am very poor. Everything has changed, except my heart—"

"Your heart and yourself," he groaned. "Oh, my darling, what am I to do?

—How can I tell you?"

She drew back a step. Her voice rang out sharply. "Gerald! What is it? You're not-married?"
"Not-yet," he said.

She felt as if a cold hand clutched her hand. Fear-horror-terror struggled against this new warm stream of love and life and hope regained.

"Not yet . . . that means—"
"It means," he said, with a harsh, dry laugh, "that you stand here to-night arranging the presents for-my wedding

Oh, my dear, always to me. Her voice broke. She looked at him with all her wounded soul in those brimming, anguished eyes, looked for denial-for answer-for anything save what she saw. Shame and despair.

"Oh, why did you come back," she cried suddenly. "Why . . . if only

"I don't love her," he broke in with sudden passion. "I never have nor ever shall love any woman save yourself, my Kate. But—how can I explain? How tell you? It must seem as if I was faithless, and yet, God knows, I was not that. I was hurt—angry. I thought if you had really loved me you would not have left me to this blank silence.

I thought perhaps you had ceased to ca-e—had married—and then she—"
"Ah! She . . Who is it, this girl you will marry to-morrow?
Does she—love you?"

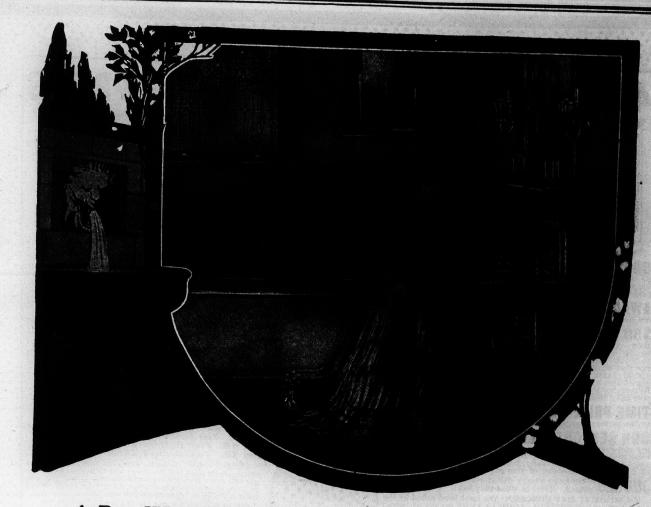

Does she—love you?"
"Yes," he said bitterly. "That's the worst of it. If she did—not—" But Kate drew her little head up

"No—don't say that. There's such a thing as honor. A man's honor. You entered into this contract as a free agent, did you not?"

"I—I suppose so. I don't know "Gerald!" she gasped, and would have fallen, but for his supporting arm. "Ohhappen every day. A few meetings, is it possible you don't know—"

"Know—what?"

He looked from her white face to dreaming? I have dreamt so often much of champagne—a flattery of a the table, with its glittering array. He that you returned—but always to me. girl's open preference—one or all of

A Pure White "Standard" Bathroom is the pride of the houseowner and the safeguard of domestic health. Its moderate cost and life-long durability make "Standard" Ware the most economical fixtures to instal, whether in a modest or a luxurious home.

Our book, "MODERN BATHROOMS," tells you how to plan, buy and arrange your bathroom, and illustrates many beautiful and inexpensive as well as luxurious rooms, showing the cost of each fixture in detail, together with many hints on decoration, tiling, etc. It is the most complete and beautiful booklet ever issued on the subject, and contains 100 pages. FREE for six cents postage and the name of your plumber

CAUTION: Every piece of "Mondard" Ware bears our "Mondard" "GREEN and GOLD" guarantee label, and has our trade-mark "Mondard" cast on the outside. Unless the label and trade-mark are on the fixture it is not "Mondard" ware. Refuse substitutes—they are all inferior and will cost you more in the end. The word "Mondard" is stamped on all our nickled brass fittings; specify them and see that you get the genuine trimmings with your bath and languagery, etc.

Address Standard Sanitary Mig. Co Dept. 43 Pittsburgh, U. S. A.

Offices and Showrooms in New York: Standard Building, 35-37 West 31st Street
London, England, 22 Holborn Viaduct, E. C.
Louisville, 325-329 West Main Street

Cleveland, 208-210 Huron Street

tearful, wholly proud as

Doris was an ugly child

parents idolised her. Th

silver cloud wore a heav

that mother-heart. But the been denied nothing in a and cherished life, and wh

openly and frankly declar

of the heroic young soldi seemed so cold and distar

-well, the heroic young

been left in no doubt as

That he—or any man—co to the charms of this lo fly never entered the heads

these, and a man finds himself fettered to a promise-and-this!"

His hand pointed contemptuously to the crowded table, the splendid gifts. It was odd, Kate thought, that the special gift on which her eyes iell, should be an open case containing a diamond star. On its card was written: "Presented by the bridegroom,

The bridegroom. This man; her lover-her own promised husband three years ago.

She lifted dull, dimmed eyes to his face, and scanned its every line. Noted how worn and thin he was; how brown and tanned. How much older and sterner, and oh-so cried her sore heart, how much dearer and more beloved for every sign of life's warfare and life's pain,

They stood there quite silent; eye seeking eye, and heart speaking dumbly to heart. Between them lay a gulf of suffering that nothing could bridge. Then the girl gave one long quivering sigh. It seemed to her that what had been her heart grew suddenly numb and cold. That all sense of pain, of feeling, of desire, had left her, and gone out of her life for over

She stooped and picked up the case that had fallen from her hand. "I think," she said calmly, "you had better go back to the other room—to her." "Do you tell me to do-that?" he cried bitterly.

"What e'se can you do? Your word is pledged. To-morrow is the day, is it not?"

He said nothing. He was looking at her, and from her to that tableand then desperately to the closed door. What could he do? What could he do? Was ever man placed in so hopeless and hateful a predica-

He came close to her. "Kate, listen. I am like a prisoner seeing before him one last and only chance of escape. You are that chance. Without you-

But she silenced him with a gesture. "No. No. All that is over. You would not have promised yourself to another woman, you could not have let matters go as far as this-if you had still loved me."

He groaned in spirit, recognizing the truth of her words as a woman, vet knowing himself excusable as a man.

For how should a girl know of the insidious temptings-the subtle flatterings-the hundred and one trifles light as air, that in their turn become as steel and fetter a man's will and enslave his senses? How should she ever guess.
"What is she like—this bride of yours?" asked Kate, suddenly. "I have not seen her. She has not been here once to-day. Perhaps she is too happy—she dies not care for this side of the—the"

"Don't!" he cried, fiercely. "I can't bear the word on your lips now. Oh, Kate-Kate is it too late? Think-all our lives, yours and mine, spoilt for ever. However-"

"It was your own doing, Gerald—" she said gently. "No one foreced you into this marriage. There could only have been one reason for it. You cared for this girl. I was no longer in your heart or in your life. Well—so it must remain. From to-morrow i will be no longer in that life or heart she has the sole and only right o possess."

"But, Kate—listen!"
"No!" she cried, fiercely. "I won't listen. Don't force me. I will not snatch another woman's happiness from her hands—I will not spoil her life, as mine has been spoilt.'

"This-this farce of to-morrow will spoil many lives, I fancy," he said, bitterly. "Kate, think a moment. I could speak to Doris—I could explain—"

"You said she loved you?"
His color faded, his lips quivered as they gave the fatal admission. "Yes, know she does.'

On the words almost the door was flung open a second time. A gay young voice cried out-

"Why, Jerry, what a time you've been. You could have counted every one of the presents, I should say!"

Kate drew suddenly away, and bent over the cases beneath her shaking fingers. Gerald Fortescue was idly staring at a silver claret jug. The girl came in. Her pretty dress rustled softly. Her face was flushed, her eyes bright and eager, and full of joy and excitement. She paused midway in the room, and looked critically at the effect of the arrangement. Then she suddenly turned on another light. The result was dazzling. She gave a little cry of delight. "There! What a show! Oh, how beautifully you've arranged every-thing, Miss Perrin. Mother said you had such wonderful taste. So it seems—hasn't she, Jerry? Did you ever think all that litter of parcels could turn out into a veritable fairy show like this?

She was not looking at him, or at the downbent head of the girl; neither did she appear to notice their silence. Captain Fortescue suddenly walked to the further end of the room, and stood pretending to examine one of the pieces of Sheraton. But Kate lifted her head bravely, and gave one quick glace at the lovely face of the bride-elect.

"I am glad you are pleased, Miss Carisford," she said.

Her voice sounded cold and strange in her own ears. Her lips were stiff. But the other girl noticed nothing amiss. How should she, when her whole mind was full of the details and importance of the morrow.

'But I must call Edie in," she exclaimed. "My principal bridesmaid," she added softly to Kate. "I'm sure she'd love to see the things, though mother said we were on no account to disturb you, but you're nearly done, are you not?"

"Very nearly," said Kate.
"And you won't mind if I call my friend?' "Certainly not."

The girl swept off again, all soft silk rustling, and feminine charm. A rretty, dainty, tender, half-spoilt creature. One whose path had been of rose leaves, to whom life had seemed a fairy vision of concurrent joys. Kate watched her, and all the color and softness died out of her own face. She at least had known another side to life and girlhood. She was facing its bitterness and accepting its renunciations even now. Nervously her hands went on with their work. Doris had left the door ajar. The tinct as she spoke to her friend. The silent figure in the corner still stood absorbed and silent. He was nerving himself to face an ordeal. A harder and more terrible one than that of Rorke's Drift or Mafekingthan glint of steel or hiss of bullet. the ordeal which sets a man's soul to fight against the tempting of his own desires, and shows him those desires as foes to honor.

sound of her voice was clear and dis-

The door opened again; the brideto-be returned with her friend. Behind her came her mother-half will be sent upon receipt of 2c stamp for postage.

In the early spring time.

8 16 Union Block,

SUCCESSFUL AGRICULTURE PUB. CO.,

St. Paul, Minn.

SUCCESSFUL AGRICULTURE will give to those who can count the Dots in the man and around the border correctly or nearest correctly, the following list of prizes:

CAN YOU DO IT?

40-Acre Farm. The S. E. ½ of N. W. ½ of 2, Tp. 138, R. 27 in Crow Wing Co., Minn.

Two Elegant Planos. One to a lady and one to a gentleman, Beautiful Mahogany case. Mahogany case Lot in Portage La Prairie, Man. In the heart of the town. Only two minutes walk from the Post Office and Depot. 5th. Fifty Dollars Cash. 6th. Twenty-five Dollars Cash. Next 5. Ten Dollars Each. 10. Five Dollars Each. CONDITIONS: 50 cents pays for one year and one count, $1.00 pays for two years and three counts. You get $50 extra if you have three counts. It will pay you to have three. See conditions. DON'T DELAY! If you want a Plano or other prizes free send your counts now. PRIZE WINNERS IN PAST CONTESTS PRIZE WINNERS IN PAST CONTESTS

ONLY 50 CEN'S FOR A FARM.—I herewith acknowledge the receipt of the deed and abstract for the 40 acres of land which I received from you as a prize in the Farm and Plano Dot contest. I have made a personal examination of the land, and find it to be about four and one-half miles from the town of Clear Lake in the County of Pope, Wisconsin. It is in a good farming or grazing district and the land in that vicinity is selling from $7.00 to $15.00 per acre. A great many of my friends have asked me about my good luck and I told them how I came to get it, and gentlemen, I certainly am sincere in offering my thanks for the same. Can say that you do exactly as you advertise. Yours very truly.

(GEO. E. DEAN. Minneapolis, Minn. GEO. E. DEAN, Minneapolis, Minn. 40 ACRE FARM FOR $2.00, (6 COUNTS.)-I have to-da received yours of Sept. 10th with deed to 40 acres of land in Wisconsin, being one of the prizes awarded in the Mail Orde dot contest, and also Abstract of Title showing a perfect title with all taxes and encumbrances paid to date. I thank you very kindly for you have done exactly as you advertised Have been offered $200 for the 40 acres. Shall I sell it for that price or is it worth more? Yours very truly, OLE S. JORDET, Sacred Heart, Minn. Publisher, SUCCESSFUL AGRICULTURE. B 16 Union Block, St. Paul, Minn. If this chart gets destroyed another printed on heavy paper The receipt of our paper will be our acknowledgement of My count is: (1).....(2).....(3).....

HE SHOW will prote is a good one.

20th

are made in a gr and checks. Ca

The Low!

er -w n't

er

es,

vas

gay ve ery ent

ed, of ally

ent. She wo aid it you cels airy at her ked

and

Cate one the Miss

stiff. ning

and id,"

sure

ugh ount

arly

my soft

ovs. olor face.

side cing

reusly

The

dis-still was ng— illet.

soul his hose

-half

A than

A poilt been eem-

tearful, wholly proud and adoring ents or herself. tearful, wholly proud and adoring.

Doris was an ugly child, and both parents idolised her. The morrow's for the morrow, and then the young cloud wore a heavy lining for the morrow, and then the young bride was to spend the second the second to clasp. been denied nothing in all her spoilt and cherished life, and when she had openly and frankly declared in favor of the heroic young soldier, who had seemed so cold and distant an adorer —well, the heroic young soldier had been left in no doubt as to the fact. That he—or any man—could be blind to the charms of this lovely butter-fly never entered the heads of her par-silver cloud wore a heavy lining for that mother-heart. But the child had ny and more favored climes than this ny and more favored climes than this of her native land.

She openly and passionately adored her soldier-lover. She faced the allimportant future by his side, fear-lessly and gladly. Love and marriage seemed to her but the completion of this spoilt darling of fortune. Here was no strong nature to buffet with was no strong nature to buffet with life's adverse winds. Only a tender, graceful, clinging plant; its tendrils twining round every offered supports.

home and protection.
"It would kill her," thought Kate.
"She could never face it. The agony of humiliation, the shame, the shock. Oh, no. No! I could not bear it myself in the same position. God forhead, and spoke to them all, and listwining round every offered support; pretty ways. How sweet she was, its roots embedded in the soil of and how lovely. Surely any man could not but grow to care for her once he stood in so close and intricate a relationship as Gerald would stand on the morrow. What madness had been his offer to break it off? To place this sunny, happy child in the sight of her wondering world as a jilted bride, and for no fault of hers. She was sinless, ignorant, happy. Well, so she must remain. It only needed an effort—a little firmness, self-control.

The pretty fairy was speaking to her. "You look so awfully pale and tired, Miss Perrin. How selfish of me not to think of you all this time." Come into the next room, and have some tea. Do!"

But Kate shook her head. She

But Kate shook her head. She must get the ordeal over. She must leave this place. She must not speak to Gerald again or—How her hands trembled, and how cold she was. If he would only go-only leave the room. At last he came forward hastily. He made some excuse. His voice was hurried and strained. Lady Carisford and Doris remonstrated. They spoke of final arrangements. Lady Carisford went away with him into the other room. The bridesmaid followed. Doris and Kate were alone. Kate were alone.

Kate were alone.

Breathlessly, suddenly the girl seized the hands of the pretty fairy who was to be her lover's wife.

"Let me wish you happiness and and all joy," she cried, brokenly. "As—as one girl who will never know such joy may wish it. My work is done now. I must go. You—you don't mind my saying—this?"

"Mind! Why should I? I am so happy myself that I should like every one in the world to love as I love—and to be loved as I am loved."

"God bless you," faltered Kate. "I—I am sure you will be happy. I shall pray for you to-morrow."

How pale you look Tell me is shall pray for you to-morrow. How pale you look. Tell me, is there—has there been anyone who cares for you, and you have—lost?"

"Yes," said Kate. "I was to have been married once, but—"

The little bride's face grew awed and solemn. "Is he—dead?"

"To me—yes," said Kate.

And saying it, she laid on that glittering table one wedding gift that bore no giver's name.

bore no giver's name.

APRIL SHOWERS.

THE SHOWERPROOF OVERCOAT is your best friend this month. It will protect vou and your clothes and save its cost many times over-if it is a good one.

20th Century Brand Showerproofs are made in a great variety of thoroughly proofed cloths in plain goods, stripes and checks. Carefully tailored, roomy and stylish. Agents in 250 towns.

-TAILORED BY-

The Lowndes Company, Limited = Toronto

Cost of Wigs and Gowns.

In England military and naval officers are not the only men who are compelled to spend a considerable amount of money on clothes. Barristers and judges are put to a great expense in this respect. For his wig alone a barrister has to pay from five to eight guineas, and the K.C. who becomes a judge has to pay very dear-ly for his new dignity. His wardrobe is almost as big as that of the quickis almost as big as that of the quick-change artist, and six hundred guineas is by no means an extraordinary outlay on his robes and other emblems of office. If he is attached to the King's Bench Division, he must have no fewer than five gowns. A Lord Chancellor's robe costs about a hundred and fifty guineas. Even the stockings forming part of the official wardrobe cost 10s. 6d. a pair!

In what month do men talk the least? In February, because it is the shortest month.

They Wake the Torpid Energies. -Machinery not properly super-vised and left to run itself, very soon shows fault in its working. It is the same with the digestive organs. Unregulated from time to time they are likely to become torpid and throw the whole system out of gear. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills were made to meet such cases. They restore to the full the flagging facul-ties, and bring into order all parts of the mechanism.

Mail Order House

That Guarantees Satisfaction.

Don't be influenced to purchase a Piano, the reputation of which you know very little. Buy a Piano that you know. The is the best value offered to-day, regardless of what the other dealer says:-"I can sell you just as good for less money."

Ask the opinion of one of the 30,000 satisfied owners of the genuine Heintzman & Co. Piano. Write for free catalogue and easy payment plan. We can save you money by buying through our Mail Order Department.

We ship on approval anywhere. Address: Mail Order Dept. "W"

J. J. H. McLEAN & Co. Ltd. 528 Main St., Winnipeg

LARGEST PIANO AND COGAN DEALERS IN THE LST.

A GOOD FENCE

Our new folder on "Erecting Fences" will tell you and if you will follow the instructions carefully when you are through you will have a good job.

It's full of valuable and interesting information on fence building and tells how to erect woven wire fencing in the quickest and most substantial manner.

No farmer, fence man or any one interested in fence construction should fail to write for a copy. It gives all the information required for building fences and we send it

In addition there is also a complete and very interesting description of the manufacture of fence wire. Persons who have never had the priviof visiting a wire mill, will find this article of especial interest so has an article quoted from a bulletin issued by the U.S. Agriculture on the manufacture of concrete fence posts, natic of this most useful and durable material can thome. Don't fail to write for a copy today. Ask d, "Erecting Fences." Remember it's free. Address

THE BARWELL HOXIE WIRE FENCE CO., LTD., Dept. H, Winnipeg, Man.

The Man and the Woman of Fifty.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

ifty as the end of life.

A man or woman of fifty seems to us but little younger than one of seventy, but as we march along with one. That would all depend upon the the years we grow to change our point of view, and we set the old age stake farther and farther away the nearer we approach it.

In country places men and women of fifty are indeed regarded as old people, but in cities and among people of fashion or genius, fifty is considered the prime of life.

There is a certain element of the tragic often about this period of human existence for men and women of imagination and temperament.

The children are grown and married, and occupied with their own affairs. The paternal and maternal cares and pleasures no longer absorb the pare itime and thoughts, and if the wife of fifty has allowed herself to grow commonplace and uninteresting, while the husband of fifty has kept step with progress, he finds more and more leisure to feel lonely and mismated, and to realize that the Vesuvius of his neart is not the extinct volcano he imagined, but is full of smoldering fires, and ready to burst forth in an eruption upon provocation.

Of course, the more he indulges in such thoughts the nearer he brings the provocation, and the daily paper tells the rest of the story, which is frequenty the record of the divorce

The woman of fifty, as a rule, waits until death has made her free before she indulges in romantic analysis of her emotional nature. Then she is oftentimes astonished to find that she is as desirous of admiration, attention and devotion from the opposite sex as she was at twenty; and she does not seem to realize, despite her long acquaintance with the sex, that men are not always disinterested in their pursuit of womankind. She is indeed nclined to be more trusting and confiding than she was in her first youth.

The man and woman of fifty have been much in evidence the last year or two as leading characters in amorous adventures. It would be a simple matter to count half a dozen Lotharios of fifty who have occupied much space in newspaper sensations, and the mature Juliets are almost as

I call to mind the tragic death of a beautiful woman with grown grandchildren a few years ago; a woman who had been living a double life, un- rut of duty, a mere existence; her known to her family and church; and whose death, under painful circumstances, first revealed the tragic

In this particular case the Romeo was of her own age; but as a rule, when a woman or man has lived half a century and develops a sentimental or adventurous tendency, it is at the instigation of a young companion. A millionaire whose death brought to light many sentimental entanglements, had put aside at least two mature wives in his desire to enjoy the companionship of younger charmers, and a woman of fifty revealed to the world shortly afterward that she. too, had renewed the emotions of youth, in a romance with a man young enough to be her son.

Many instances have been recorded by the pen of the historian where a man of fifty won the admiration, and ove, and loyalty, of a young woman. have known a girl of twenty to fall deeply in love with a man who had crossed the half-century mark.

A girl of a hero worshipping tendency, would be easily led to place genuine affections upon a man who attained to honorable position and power, and who made her the object of chivalrous attentions.

Perhaps fifteen years later, when

When we are children we regard | vitality of her prime, she found her husband an old man, weary of the vanities of life, perhaps then she might think her choice a mistaken nature of the woman and the type of

> But the young husband and mature wife is more serious. Position, power and honors are elements which enter into the ideal of an attractive man, with almost any woman of any age; but no man of virile character pictures the lady of his dreams with these worldly gifts to bestow upon him. It is the nature of woman to receive, the nature of man to bestow the external things of life, and the moment a man begins to weigh the benefits he will derive from a marriage with an older woman, that moment he ceases to be manly in the true meaning of the word.

> Once in a thousand times, perhaps, a woman of fifty retains the charms and facinations which render her able to capture the heart of youth. Ninon de L'Enclos was as irrisistible at sixty, and even at seventy, it is said, as at twenty-five. But she was wise enough (even if her wisdom did not lead to morality) to avoid marriage with any of her youthful admirers.
> She retained the privilege of being the one to tire, instead of placing herself in the position of a deserted and neglected old wife of a young husband.

It is rare, indeed, that a young man seeks an elderly woman for a wife unless he has some object to gain other than domestic felicity. But in spite of this fact, such women are to be found in every community who believe in the protestations of love made by designing youths, and resign to their keeping heart, hand and purse without demur or question.

There is a certain pathos in all this which should awaken our pity rather than call forth our ridicule.

It is the maternal and romantic impulse, both awakened after a lethargic slumber to a second Summer in the woman's heart, which leads her on to such follies.

The early romance of her life faded perhaps into a mere memory long before she donned widow's weeds. The husband became engrossed in business or public affairs, or indulged in infidelities which she concealed and condoned for pride's sake; her children grew out of her arms and became men and women, and no longer needed her; she settled into a affectionate impulses in a sort of apathy, and imagined she had outlived all vivid emotions when suddenly she found herself a rich widow; men were seeking her society; they were paying her compliments, and up from the ashes rose a new emotional

And when the young lover pleaded, she was both woman and mother in affections again, but mingled emotion and vanity made her forget that she was an elderly woman, and that the young man could not, in the nature of things, be sincere in his protestations of love.

Alas, poor woman! May wisdom and common sense guide her to shut the door gently but firmly on the young lover's retreating form, and save the miseries of a neglected old wife of a young man. When the woman of fifty marries, let her choose a mate of her own age.

In Fields Fay Off .- Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is known in Australia, South and Central America, as well as in Canada and the United States. and its consumption increases eac year. It has made its own way, and all that needs to be done is to keep she was thirty-five and he sixty-six, its name before the public. Everyor still later when the wife of forty one knows that it is to be had at tossessed of all the ambition and any store, for all merchants keep it.

Better in every way I think if Amy Rando pered these four wor once, she had fifty time up and down her nar trying to solve the ha

She was a slender, fa teen, with large, dream and nut-brown hair. one that would attrac from a passerby; but w it well, when the large tive mouth had taken phase of expression, as the girl's poetic mind heart, the pure lovelines tenance grew upon you most beautiful.

And to Guy Chester Abecome so. He knew mouth could smile or q large eyes could soften winning and lovely eve came.

And he loved her-no him, with every thrill every pulse of her bei easy-going, vacillating f most perfect little gem hood he had ever met.

And he was Guy Ch
Chester Hill, if ah! th

makes or mars so man if he pleased his moth was Amy Randolph, his and his mother's comp had been educated at school, where she tar children in part paymen tuition, and had been choice, when she gradu to Chester Hill as M companion, or return grandparents who bare life upon a miserable

Pennsylvania. And Mrs. Chester, wi thoroughy cowed and timid girl that she seen pale, uninteresting nor in writing letters, readi sewing, but utterly unat never saw the exquisite young face, the delicac tures, the dreamy poetr "What Guy could find that washed-out girl!" discover. She worship son, but she was too in to give him his way whe with her own.

And her own way, at quired Guy to marry money would support travagances, and leave purse full for hers. For extravagant, living in I winter in fashionable cir ing their country seat all summer.

And the very wife Gu his mother's opinion, v wed him for his asking was loud-voiced and vu to be fast, with rather cast of beauty, a sunflow as Amy was a violet. H had left her a large for had fallen in love with making no secret of th keen-eyed mother. That she had disguste very outset of his acqua her by her frankly avow for his attention and soc her but little. She had up in the belief that me attraction, no, man coul she had money. If she w earrings to breakfast, a ng-dress in the coun wealth so proven? complexion was often a in her hair, so dec could bear a high co gether she felt he > when she had ac r's invitation to sp ster Hill, in the matrimonial circ

er encouraged her

Was It Better?

By S. Annie Frost.

"Better in every way!" I think if Amy Randolph had whispered these four words to herself once, she had fifty times, as she paced up and down her narrow bedroom, trying to solve the hardest problem her life had offered her.

She was a slender, fair girl of nineteen, with large, dreamy brown eyes and nut-brown hair. Her face was one that would attract little notice from a passerby; but when you knew it well, when the large eyes and sensitive mouth had taken every varying phase of expression, as you touched the girl's poetic mind and tender heart, the pure loveliness of the countenance grew upon you till it became most beautiful.

And to Guy Chester Amy's face had become so. He knew how the little mouth could smile or quiver, how the large eyes could soften or flash, how winning and lovely every change became.

And he loved her—not as she loved him, with every thrill of her heart, every pulse of her being, but in his easy-going, vacillating fashion, as the most perfect little gem of womanhood he had ever met.

And he was Guy Chester, heir to Chester Hill, if ah! that little word makes or mars so many destinies!if he pleased his mother. And she was Amy Randolph, his third cousin, and his mother's companion. She had been educated at a boardingschool, where she taught younger children in part payment for her own tuition, and had been offered her choice, when she graduated of going to Chester Hill as Mrs. Chester's companion, or returning to her grandparents who barely supported life upon a miserable little farm in Pennsylvania.

And Mrs. Chester, who was a badtempered, exacting woman, had so thoroughy cowed and terrified the timid girl that she seemed to her a pale, uninteresting nonentity, useful in writing letters, reading aloud and sewing, but utterly unattractive. She never saw the exquisite oval of the young face, the delicacy of the features, the dreamy poetry of the eyes.

"What Guy could find to admire in that washed-out girl!" she could not discover. She worshipped her only son, but she was too innately selfish to give him his way when it interfered with her own.

And her own way, at that time, required Guy to marry a wife whose money would support his many extravagances, and leave his mother's full for hers. For they were extravagant, living in New York all winter in fashionable circles, and filling their country seat with visitors all summer. And the very wife Guy wanted, in his mother's opinion, was ready to wed him for his asking. True, she was loud-voiced and vulgar, inclined to be fast, with rather a masculine cast of beauty, a sunflower of a girl as Amy was a violet. But her father had left her a large fortune, and she had fallen in love with Guy Chester, making no secret of the fact to his keen-eyed mother. That she had disgusted him at the very outset of his acquaintance with her by her frankly avowed preference for his attention and society, troubled her but little. She had been brought up in the belief that money was the attraction, no, man could resist, and she had money. If she wore diamond earrings to breakfast, and a velvet ng-dress in the country, was not wealth so proven? And if her complexion was often as red as the roses in her hair, so decided a bruncould bear a high color.

gether she felt herself a prize matrimonial circle, and Mrs. er encouraged her in her de-

when she had accepted Mrs. r's invitation to spend a month

the house was not full, when Guy had remained at home ever since his return from the city, and everything promised well for the mother's scheme she was coolly asked to accept Amy Randolph for her daughter-in-law.

Had she been a judicious as well as a loving mother, she would have seen that Guy, under Amy's gentle influence, was developing nobler traits of character than he had ever shown in his life before, that he was thinking of higher aims than the possession of the fastest horses and finest wines in his set of friends.

But she was blind to all this, and equally blind to the prospect that Guy, at home, in quiet domestic happiness with a wife so careless of finery and gayety as Amy, could never make the inroads upon her income that Guy, as the most extravagant bachelor of his "set," made annually. She had set her heart upon Guy's marriage with Laura Marcy, and she was furious at the obstacle presented

But Guy Chester was not the man to say "please, mamma," and then submit without protest if mamma did not please.

He had never been crossed from the time he shrieked for tops and candy, and it was scarcely probable he would accept the first opposition after twenty-five years of unchecked pleasure.

"You can do as you like," he said, shrugging his shoulders, as his mother threatened to turn Amy out of doors, "but I shall marry Amy, be sue of that. As for Laura Marcy, I should as soon think of living with a stable-boy—a great, coarse, blouzy woman!

"With half a million dollars!" "Ten million dollars would not make her a lady!"

"And pray what is supposed to support you when you marry Amy? Remember, my money bought you this place, though it bears your father's name, and my money supports your extravagances! Your own income would not keep you in gloves and neckties.'

"We can live on very little. Amy does not care for gayety, and I mean to take up my law studies in good earnest. I'm going to drop fast horses and bachelor suppers, mammy, and go in for legal honors. When I'm Judge of the Supreme Court, you can thank Amy for rousing my ambition, and making a man of me.

But Mrs. Chester was not inclined to thank Amy for anyt thwarted her own plan. She could not resist Guy's caress, or his pet name of "mammy," and she was shrewd enough to see that active opposition would probably hasten the catastrophe she dreaded. Guy was just the man to walk off with Amy to church and come back bound for life, if he saw any prospect of separation. So the mother smiled and said:

"You headstrong boy! You always have had your own way, and I suppose you always will!"

"That's a dear mammy," was the quick reply. "Tell Amy it's all right. I'll not interfere till you settle it all."

Then he had walked off whistling, and Mrs. Chester had sent for Amy. There was no anger on her face when she bade the shy, gentle girl sit beside her, only a heavy shadow as if from terrible grief. "Amy," she began, and her tone had none of its habitual ring of imperious command, "I have just had a long, serious talk with Guy, and made no impression upon him. So I have resolved to make an appeal to your good sense and generosity.'

Amy's lips quivered a moment like a grieved child's, but she made no reply.

"You think Guy is wealthy," contate bears his name, and I supply his purse from my own, but he has less ster Hill, in the spring, when than a thousand a year! If he mar-

STANDARD IDEAL FIXTURES ENSURE PERFECT SANITATION

In the Bathroom, the Kitchen and Laundry. Standard Ideal ware is a guarantee against Doctors' bills. It is made after a process which makes the Porcelain enameling practically a part of the iron. It will not chip, it will not crack, it will not discolor. It is always snowy white in appearance. Durability, purity, and beauty of design are the combinations which have placed STANDARD IDEAL in the front rank.

STANDARD IDEAL Laundry Tubs are great labor Savers. They are on legs, two-part design and cast in one piece. They are nicely enameled with porcelain and have 12 inch porcelain enameled backs.

SEND FOR CATALOGUE

The STANDARD IDEAL COMPANY, Ltd.

PORT HOPE

ONTARIO

WINNIPEG OFFICE: 24 Telfer Building.

Some Solid Facts About Washing cloths and the machine to use.

TO TRY IT IS TO BUY IT

TO SEE IT IS TO TRY IT

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE

WASHING MACHINE WHY?

Because ninety-nine out of every hundred that try them, find them to exceed any other washing machine made, and to save 75 per cent, of the labor required to wash by hand on the board. They will positively wash clothes clean without the use of the wash board; this includes neckbands and wristbands of shirts.

A washing can be done on the GEE

A washing can be done on the GEE WHIZ in half the time it takes to do it on the other machines. It will wash a handkerchief as well as a bed quilt or a length of carpet.

The washing is done by the force with which the hot soap suds are driven through the clothing. The machine is ingeniously constructed to do this and is so easy to operate that a child can run it.

The clothes are not subject to grinding or rough usage, and are washed thoroughy clean, too, without having to resort to the Wash Board to finish them. And to give you double assurance, the GEE WHIZ is guaranteed to fulfil these claims.

Insist on your merchant getting a Gee Whiz for you and if he will not write us giving his name, and he will be pleased to send you full particulars.

PRICE $12.50 FOR BOOKLET AND FULL INFORMATION WRITE

E. H. Briggs Co., Ltd.

Cut this out and mail to us.

If you are thinking about buying a washing machine write us for illustrated booklet, with full information. If your dealer can't supply you with a Gee Whiz, let us know his name. Address E. H. BRIGGS & CO., Dept. W. H. M., Winnipeg, Man.

Winnipeg,

Man.

POST CARDS 20 Colored Comics 10 cfs, 15 N Y, City views 10 cts. 15 U.S. views 10 cts. 10 Colored Jamestown Exposition 20 cts. 10 Colored Artistic octs, assorted. Catalog free, K. Schwagerl & Co., 225 West 35 St., New York City, the she ken the e of maion, iich tive any

cter

vith

pon

to tow the able non

said, wise not husman

gain t in e to nade urse

antic lether in her aded long l in ealed rt of outddendow: they d up ional aded, er in the re of ations dom shut the l old rries, own

otion

mas' ralia, well. tates. eac and

Farmers' Interests are our Interests We Originate, Others Imitate

Not ONE, but THOUSANDS of cans containing cream are received at our Factory from Manitoba Farmers.

Highest Prices Prompt Payments Accurate Tests Trial Solicited

CRESCENT CREAMERY CO., LIMITED

WINNIPEG AND BRANDON

ried to please me he can still have a home at Chester Hill, but his marriage with a portionless bride will not please me. You imagine love will make poverty easy to bear. You do not know Guy. He is self-willed and impetuous. If you uphold him in opposing me, he will marry you, and take you to New York, to live upon a thousand a year and his hope of being a great lawyer. And I," very slowly and distinctly, "will leave every dollar I own to a charity, for I will never forgive him. In a year or two you will be in debt, Guy will fret for his club, his suppers, his horses, and reproach you for his poverty. He will tire of you, as he has tired of a dozen fair faces before yours attracted him, and you will be the burden and torment of his life." "But what am I to do?"

"Leave him. Go at once, without farewell, to your grandfather's and I will allow your present salary to

"No!" was the quiet, firm answer. "If I go, it will be for Guy's sake. I do not require a bribe!"

"It will be better in every way for you to go, believe me—better in every way. Guy will forget you in six months, and marry Laura Marcy, who will be able to give him every luxury he now enjoys, and who worships the ground on which he walks."

Amy's sensitive lip curled. Gentle as she was she had sufficient spirit to despise the unmaidenly conduct of her rival. A latent pride, almost hidden in her shy, modest nature, was asserting itself, and spoke presently. "I will tell you tomorrow," she said, "what I will do."

"And Guy will persuade you to marry him."

"I will say nothing of this conversation to Guy. You may trust me!"

But Mrs. Chester did not trust her.

She listened for Guy's step, and, meeting him in the hall, said:

"I wish you would go to New York for me Guy."

"Won't tomorrow do?"

come down in the morning; I particularly wish—" and then followed the long excuse for the trip.
"Where's Amy?" was the expected

"No; you can stay over night, and question. "In her own room! Don't call her,

Guy; she wants to be alone. We have had a long talk." "And you were good to her?"

"I said no word of blame. She will tell you herself tomorrow."
"But she can come down just a minute."

"If she does, you will miss the 4.30 train. Do go! You owe me some compliance after this morning!"

And Guy-easy-going Guy-kissed her and strode away from all happiness. It was noon the next day when he returned, and his mother met him at the door again.

"Guy," says she, "Amy is gone!"
"Gone! Where?"

"I cannot imagine, unless she tells you in this." And a little note in Amy's handwriting was placed in Guy's gloved

"One look showed Guy a little figure half lifted from the bed, arms outstretched, lips smiling eyes radiant."

He tore it open quickly. No address, no date, no signature. Only these words:

"It is better in every way for me to leave you. I shall not return even if you seek to find me. A penniless wife would become a burden to you, even though you loved her. So it is better to say—farewell."

That was all! There was a scene, of course. Mrs. Chester expected it, but her fastidi-ous taste was shocked at the quantity of wine Guy drank at dinner. He was a gentleman, and it was against his former refined ideas to confuse his brain with drink, but on that night his ascent of the stairs to his room was not easily accomplished.

But this was not repeated the next night, nor had it been when Laura Marcy came three weeks later. By that time Guy had worked himself into a state of sulky resentment against Amy. He had left no stone unturned to find her, but having troubled himself very little about her antecedents, beyond the fact that his mother and her own were cousins, he had entirely forgotten the exist-tence of her paternal grandparents.

She had never cared for him! She was a sly little flirt! She would have married the heir of Chester Hill, but was afraid to wed a student lawyer with a thousand dollars a year. She was mercenary!

So he rang the changes over the yearning grief he could not smother. And the ambition she had roused, the aims she had encouraged, sank before the reckless quest of pleasures to resist the only really deep love Guy had ever known. Just in this state he met Laura Marcy half way, flirted desperately, rode over the country roads beside her, till it was one of the unexplained problems what saved their necks in their headlong racing; sang with her, and found himself bound by an engagement before he half realized how far he was involved.

The marriage was hurried on, both the mother and willing bride energetically preparing all things for a grand wedding, and within six months Amy, in her dreary home, reading her cousin's letter, said, with a heartbroken sigh:

"She was right! Guy has forgotten me in less than six months. Oh, if I could only forget!"

But she could not, poor little, crushed, faithful heart. She thought she was so far happy, that when her share of the farm drudgery was over she could wander in the woods, and dream her love-dream over, comfort her aching heart with the memory of what had been, and whisper with but a faint, faint hope: "His mother may be wrong. He loved me so dearly, he will be faithful, and when Mrs. Chester sees that, she will relent and send for me.' She drooped visibly in those summer days, working over the unaccustomed routine of housework to help her grandmother, having a tender love from both the grandparents, but no mental excitement to drown her heart's hunger.

Very conscientiously Amy tried to do her duty by the old people who had given her loving welcome, over-tasking her strength to aid in the daily routine of work, and careful of many little attentions the young can so gracefully offer the old.

But there was nothing to feed the cravings of brain and heart but memory and that faint hope. And upon the yearning cry of the loving heart for love and life came the letter inclosing Guy's wedding cards.

"She's over quiet for one so young," the country people said,

and looks peaked."

But nobody saw the shadow under which the girl drooped and faded, her little feet treading unconsciously in the valley of Death. And Guy, with his energetic and boisterous wife, was plunging into city life with a rush and fervor that rather amazed his old associates.

"By Jove!" Creighton Daily said, twirling his blonde mustache, "I al-ways thought Chester was one of May, 1907.

your slow, lazy fellows, indolent to be vicious; awakened up with a veng will break his neck yet or he rides. I'm a pretty fa 1 wouldn't be on her ba hour for half a million. N And he plays so high Grantley whistles over Never in my life saw changed!"

"Somebody said he wa for law in earnest," said "Bah!" said a third, "I estate must come to him,

all the Marcy money."
But Guy had found " had quite a shrewd comm of her own, and meant purse-strings in her of Every dollar of Mrs. Lau fortune was securely settle self, and she gave her understand lainly that gamble and give expen he must tax his mother f And so, in a mad search fulness, a restless desire from the uncongenial so wife, a dread of the self thought, Guy Chester w away all the finer instinct ture, sinking lower and l scale of true manlinesss.

Spring was coming worn out in spite of his sique, by late hours and reckless dissipation, Guy to run down to Chester week or two.

"If there are any lett you can open them," his rather carless, now that h gained, of Guy's knowl machinery that had beer cration to accomplish it. to you to judge if any a enough to forward."

There was but one. Mrs. Chester's correspon sufficiently intimate to must use her city addr November and May.

But that one Guy tor trembling fingers, knowi tenned the address, in ing lines.
"Dear Cousin (the lett

have been very sick all ting a little weaker eve now I know that I shall t ter again. I know I ough Guy, since he is marrie to remember it is wron I am dead, will you no left him because I loved were so sure it would 1 him to forget me. Give -my love that will not standing I try so hard to

He never fainted, and even groan as he read th etting his teeth hard or ed curse that might h even his mother's selfis went back to the railway took a train that would Harrisburg, the nearest town from which the

"Will it be today? Of to-day!" said old Mr when the doctor turned the bed where Amy lay
He only shook his hea

from the room, while the woman bent over the scious face upon the nearly a week, since wi thetic farewell to love a had lain just so, withou consciousness. She swal ently all food, medicine to her lips, but she never lifted the drooping lid covered her large eyes. "Passing away pead lamb!" the kind-hearte said, and no one hoped e for the return of conscio as she lay on that still breath coming with r sighs, her face growing the touch of the great s denly lifted her hand. eyes, and smiled.

"Hush! He is coming ess

nst

use

ght

ext

elf

ent

one

ns.

ist-

ave

ut

She

the er.

ed,

ink

eep

vas

ms

ad-

ind

oth er-

ths

art-

and ort

reım-der ho

er-

the

eful

ing

the mon art

in-aid,

der

her his

vas

ısh

old

id,

your slow, lazy fellows, who are too indolent to be vicious; but he has awakened up with a vengeance. He will break his neck yet on that brute he rides. I'm a pretty fair whip, but 1 wouldn't be on her back half an hour for half a million. No, by Jove! And he plays so high that even Grantley whistles over his stakes. Never in my life saw a fellow so changed!"

Somebody said he was going in for law in earnest," said a second

"Bah!" said a third, "his mother's estate must come to him, and there's all the Marcy money.

But Guy had found "the Marcy" had quite a shrewd commercial head of her own, and meant to keep her purse-strings in her own fingers. Every dollar of Mrs. Laura Chester's fortune was securely settled upon herself, and she gave her husband to understand lainly that if he would gamble and give expensive suppers he must tax his mother for the cost.

And so, in a mad search for forgetfulness, a restless desire to be away from the uncongenial society of his wife, a dread of the self-reproach of thought, Guy Chester was throwing away all the finer instincts of his nature, sinking lower and lower in the scale of true manlinesss.

Spring was coming again, and, worn out in spite of his perfect physique, by late hours and a winter of reckless dissipation, Guy determined to run down to Chester Hill for a week or two.

"If there are any letters for me, you can open them," his mother said, rather carless, now that her point was gained, of Guy's knowledge of the machinery that had been put in operation to accomplish it. "I leave it to you to judge if any are important enough to forward."

There was but one, for most of Mrs. Chester's correspondents were sufficiently intimate to know they must use her city address between November and May.

But that one Guy tore open with trembling fingers, knowing well who tenned the address, in faint, waver-ing lines.

"Dear Cousin (the letter read): I have been very sick all winter, getting a little weaker every day, and now I know that I shall never be better again. I know I ought not to love Guy, since he is married, and I try to remember it is wrong; but when I am dead, will you not tell him I left him because I loved him, and you were so sure it would be better for him to forget me. Give him my love -my love that will not die, notwithstanding I try so hard to kill it.
"Amy."

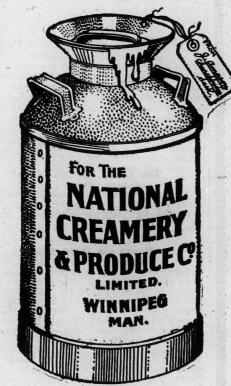

He never fainted, and he did not even groan as he read the words; but tting his teeth hard over a mutter ed curse that might have appalled even his mother's selfish heart, he went back to the railway station and took a train that would carry him to Harrisburg, the nearest route to the town from which the letter was

"Will it be today? Oh, doctor, not to-day!" said old Mrs. Randolph, when the doctor turned away from the bed where Amy lay.

He only shook his head and passed from the room, while the sobbing old woman bent over the white, unconscious face upon the pillow. For nearly a week, since writing her pathetic farewell to love and life. Amy had lain just so, without any sign of consciousness. She swallowed obediently all food, medicine or drink put to her lips, but she never spoke, never lifted the drooping lids that half covered her large eyes.

"Passing away peacefully, poor lamb!" the kind-hearted neighbors said, and no one hoped ever so faintly for the return of consciousness. But, as she lay on that still April day, her breath coming with more labored sighs, her face growing ghastly with the touch of the great seal, she suddenly lifted her hand, opened her eyes, and smiled. "Hush! He is coming!" she said. You Will Obtain the Largest Income From Your Milch Cows, If You Will Ship Your Hand Separator Cream to the National Creamery & Produce Co., Ltd. Winnipeg, Manitoba.

See that your Cream Cans are tagged "National Creamery & Produce Company, Limited," and we will do

We have the largest Creamery in Western Canada, with a churning capacity of over 25,000 pounds per day, and the way we buy our supplies in large quantities and the amount of Butterfat we handle daily, enables us to reduce the cost of making a pound of butter to a minimum.

This is why we can pay the price we do for Butterfat.

Our average price for Butterfat last year was 22c. per pound. We expect to do as well for our patrons this year, if not better.

We employ the most skilled buttermakers in the West. Our head Buttermaker has secured the following awards for his Butter: A diploma from the Government Dairy School in 1897; A Special Gold Medal donated by the Hon. Thomas Greenway for Butter scoring the highest of any exhibited at the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition in 1896;

A Silver Medal at the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition in 1900; Gold Medal and Diploma at the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition in 1901, and many other awards.

We pay by Express Money Order. This insures you against loss or inconvenience in cashing, as is the case when checks are used.

Ship us a few cans of Cream on trial, and we are satisfied that our methods of doing business will so please you that you will become our permanent customer.

CREAMERY & PRODUCE

WINNIPEG

MANITOBA

"Wandering, poor dear," said one old crone.

"Guy! Guy!" the pale lips whispered, and in answer a quick tread crossed the porch, paused a moment, and came up the sturcase.

One look showed Guy a little figure half lifted from the bed, arms outstretched, lips smiling, eyes radiant. Only one look! Before he crossed the room Amy sank back

When April came again, sympathizing friends, deciding which was the most becoming style of mourning for Mrs. Guy Chester, said:

"Very sad, so young. But, my dear, he really was most terribly dissipated. His mother is half ruined paying his debts, and he gambled fearfully; though, of course, one does not want to blame the dead, it really seems providential that that brute of a horse threw him, at last, for his wife is young yet, and so wealthyand really, you know --- " and significant shrugs finished the sentence. But Mrs. Chester, the heart-broken mother, alienated from her son by his bitter speeches after Amy died. impoverished, childless, leads the life separate those loving hearts, remove Guy from gentle influences, and dig two early graves for money's sake?

Mr. Carnegie, in his book, "The Empire of Business," says: "The first most seductive peril, and the destroyer of most young men, is the drinking of liquor. I say to you that you are more likely to fail in your career from ac-quiring the habit of drinking liquor than from any or all the other temptations likely to assail you. You may yield to almost any other temptation and reform-may brace up, and, if not recover lost ground, at least remain in the race, and secure and maintain a respectable position. But from the insane thirst for liquor escape is almost impossible. I have known but few exceptions to the rule."

Bishop R. S. Foster has said: "The church of today, much more the church of the future, must take to its heart the duty of combining and massing its force against gigantic atrocity of Christian civilization that mothers nine-tenths of the woes and sorrows that blight and curse our modern agethe traffic of intoxicants, which hides its deformity under forms of law. The conflict is now upon us. The church must lead in this reform. This is her most peculiar province. It comes in the months of 1906 were 155,767,710 pounds, of a recluse, ever tormented by the haunting question, "Was it better to of which she is the recognized guardian. The rum hole must be closed, or the rum hell will engulf Christendom. If ever the pulpit had a right, the duty to flay with unsparing rebuke, it is

According to Secretary Halle, of the National Liquor League, the dealers in Indiana are organizing themselves into congressional distiicts, there remaining but one to be formed. "When all are in line, a meeting is to be called to organize a permanent state association, and I have been in correspondence with many of the dealers with that end in view, and have their assurance that before the convening of the next legislature an Indiana State Association will be an accomplished fact."

Official reports to the State Department show that the English people are changing their drinks, and that beer and whiskey are steadily giving way to During the last six years there has been a decline of nearly 2,500.000 barrels in the quantity of beer annually consumed in the United Kingdom. for the fiscal year 1906 the figures were 33,504,000 barrels, or 27.9 gallons per capita. There has also been a decrease from 1.1 proof gallons to nine-tenths of a gallon in the per capita consumption of spirits. Imports of tea for home consumption in the first seven

The thorough horseman is never without his favorite remedy. He cannot afford to be always at the mercy of the veterinary.

The big stables are always prepared. The bottle is ready on the shelf. How is it with you?

Are you prepared to treat the common ailments—the ones that are liable to come at any time?

If your horse should so lame; should suffer from a cut, a kick, or a sprain; if he should be foundered, or get the colic, or the rheumatism, or distemper; should develop a spavin, a splint or a curb, are you ready to treat him off-hand?

UTTLE'S ELIXIR

has been for many years the reliance for horsemen for these and many other ailments. Used as well by skilled veterinaries as by farmers, breeders, teamsters and other horse owners. For external and internal use:

Tuttle's Family Elixir, for ills of men, women and children.
Tuttle's White Star, the best healing and drying liniment. Tuttle's American Condition Powders, the best blood purifier Tuttle's American Worm Powders, absolutely certain in their effect, guaranteed in every case to expel all worms.

Tuttle's Hoof and Healing

Price on Tuttle's Remedies:

On and after this date the price of Tuttle's Family and Horse Elixir will be $4.00 per doz.; Condition Powders, $2.00 per doz.; Worm Powders, $2.00 per doz.; Hoof Ointment, $4.00; White Star Liniment, $4.00. Bottle sent by mail, $0.75.

Horse Book Free

We publish a book of 100 pages entitled, "Veterinary Experience," which contains the experience of our Dr. S. A. Tuttle, who has for many years been a successful veterinary surgeon. It is a clear illustration and description of the horse and his diseases.

Send for "Veterinary Experience" and other printed matter—FREE.

Tuttle's Elixir Co., 127 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. CANADIAN OFFICE—32 San Gabriel St., Montreal, Canada. CHICAGO OFFICE—311 East 63rd St., Chicago, Illinois. W. A. SHAW, 1209 West Washington St., Los Angeles, Cal.

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

Heavy coiled steel wire fence, hard steel wire lock that does not rust or slip and kinks both wires. All heavily galvanized and is replacing other makes of fencing using lighter gauged wire. Can be erected as cheaply as barb wire and

DOES NOT INJURE STOCK. WESTE FOR CATALOGUE. BUY THE BEST. AGENTS WANTED.

The Great West Wire Fence Company, Ltd.,

76 LOMBARD ST., WINNIPEG, CANADA.

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

orrespondence

During the present month we exchanged over four hundred letters, written in answer to letters which appeared in past issues of this magazine. We are daily in receipt of letters of praise from readers in all parts of Western Canada for our generosity in placing space in our magazine at the disposal of those who desire to get acquainted one with the other. We will continue the good work, and invite those who desire to address any of the writers in these columns to enclose their letter to us and we will forward it on. Please put a two cent stamp on all letters intended for re-mailing from this office. When writing always give us your full name and address, not necessarily for any letter but on a particular the control of read to the control of t publication but as an evidence of good

A Voice From B. C. Heriot Bay, Valdez Island, B. C.,

March 19,1907. Editor.—I am looking for a wife. You rill do me a great favor by putting me in correspondence with some good woman who would be willing to change a bachelor's life into the life of a married man. I am a farmer. Any young woman looking for a good home please write and I will answer all letters. "Fur Fur."

Ike Likes "Brown Eyes."

Nutana, Sas., Feb. 12, 1907. Editor.—I am a constant reader of our magazine. I enclose letter; please orward to "Brown Eyes," of Portage la Prairie.

Books are Good Friends.

Hanley, Sask., Feb. 25, -907.

Editor.—Kindly forward letter to "A Man from Ontario." Enclose letter; appeared in your August number. I enjoy reading the Western Home Monthly, especially the pages devoted to the young people of the West. I feel sorry for the young men who come West and seek amusement which they would otherwise shun. Of course, they can always have recourse in books, and good books are good friends. What these young bachelors need is a good home, a good, kind, loving wife to make home sweet home. home sweet home.

"Bachelor Girl."

Mo Old Guyer for Molly! Murchison, Man., Feb. 21, 1907.

Editor.—I have been a reader of your paper for four years, and find it a most interesting magazine. I would like to correspond with some of the young farmers. I am 5 feet, 6 inches, weigh 129 pounds, age 18, dark brown hair, blue eyes, light complexion, can do as some call themselves young at forty. housework to a fare-you-well. I would like to correspond with some young farmer between 20 and 25 years of age, "Irish Molly."

From a Follower of Cain.

Spruce Grove, Alta., Feb. 27, 1907. Editor.—Your magazine is all right. am a blacksmith, also a subscriber, and I read your correspondence with great interest.

great interest.

It think it so hard for a young man to hammer the anvil and cook his own meals as well. I want to get acquainted with some respectable girl. I am American born, 28, dark blue eyes, dark hair, weight 175 pounds, do not drink.

"Blacksmith."

A Chance for "Livery Boy."

A Chance for "Livery Boy."

Cypress River, Man., Jan. 14, 1907.

Editor.—I am an interested reader of your correspondence columns and would like very much to be of real use in brightening the gloom of the life of some lonely bachelor by opening a correspondence with some of them. By opening correspondence with some young girl their winter evenings may be brightened. I would like especially to correspond with "Livery Boy" and any others who feel so inclined.

"Nut-Brown Maid."

Daddies on Boozology.

Melita, Man., Jan. 26, 1907.

Editor.—Perhaps I should add a word of commendation to your magazine, The Western Home Monthly. I look forward to the coming each month with a great deal of pleasure. I consider any one well repaid for what the magazine cost them. I have been deeply interested in the different articles which have appeared from time to time during the past years. I read the views of the different "daddies" on boozeology which appear in your correspondence which appear in your correspondence columns. As a judge down in Indiana once said, "that the cause of so many suicides, divorces and automobiles. If I owned some of these cities and the hot place I would rent them and live on the other uroperty. Arthur Rover, a writer in your magazine, who claims to have been to the South pole, East to Eternal procession of the Esquimaux, north to the Auroro Borealis and out west to sundown, seems to have a peck west to sundown, seems to have a peck at "Farmer's Daughter" because she has her sky piece stuffed with "women's rights." Well, I believe in women's rights to a certain degree. A man should never raise his hand to a woman, always take an axe.

"Anti-Booze Canadian."

A Voice from the Far North.

Ft. Saskatchewan. Alta., Dec. 4, 1906. Editor.—I would like to correspond with "Bessie B" in September number. Will you kindly send me her name and address and oblige.

One for "Vinca."

Arcola, Sask., April, 1907.

Editor.—Please forward the enclosed letter to the correspondent signing herself "Vinca" in December number. "Arcola."

Must Address Letter to "Blonde."

Clair, Sask., Feb. 22, 1907. Editor.—I am a reader of your valuable monthly and find it very interesting, especially the correspondence part. Please send me the address of the young lady who signs herself "Blonde" in the January number. in the January number.

Wanted Young Woman of 20.

"Merry Bachelor."

Mayville, Alta., March 24, 1907. Editor.—Your correspondence columns are immense. I am in a part of the country where young ladies are scarce. My trouble, however, is that I am very reserved and am not likely to make many lady friends around here for two reasons: 1, that the girls are either married or are children, 2, I do not care sufficiently for dances. Of course the ladies will say what a selfish fellow. I am not a dancer and am not looking. familiary what a selfish fellow. I am not a dancer and am not looking for a feed; and the inducements are not sufficient to tempt me out of a frosty night. I do not live in the wilderness and am not a "batcher" but a "bachelor." If any young womanof my own age (20) cares to correspond with me please give her my address please give her my address. "Stub L."

Who Measures Up to this Standard? Touchwood, Sask., March 22, 1907.

Touchwood, Sask. March 22, 1907.
Editor.—It has been both a profit and a pleasure to me to read your valuable magazine for the past two years. I am a subscriber. I would not miss one copy for the world. I take great interest in your correspondence columns of late as I am one of the lonely bachelors of the wide West who is building up a home for himself and in doing so would like to get some good girl as a wife to help me in this important task. As to myself, I am of fair height length and size, and in emergency might make a good telephone pole provided I was planted right and properly treated. I am of fair complexion, do not use liquor or tobacco in any shape or form as I have been brought up to shun these things, and more I don't even know. as I have been brought up to shun these hings, and more, I don't even know the taste of liquor. I have my faults like other people, am generally con-sidered good looking, am fond of music and art, though I am not gifted in these lines. My literary tastes run in the line of works that are founded on fact, not the kill-me-quick sort. I have one of the finest homesteads in the district of the finest homesteads in the district and am duly proud of it. Therefore, I want some young lady who is not afraid or ashamed to help a fellow build up a home that will be a credit to any community. As to my wants, I am rather hard to suit in the line of a life partner, as I have an ideal which I would like to have her come up to. I would like to correspond with some young ladies who are musically inclined, who have refined tastes, and are not too fond of this world's pleasures and would give proper thention to the making of a home. I don't want the expensive sort, but just a good everyday respectable sort, with plenty of life and fond of harmless conversation, not gossip or slander. I prefer a fair complexion, with either blue or dark eyes, dark hair, fairly tall and proportionately built, of good figure, and above all, healthy and strong, with a loving disposition and used to farm life. healthy and strong, with a loving disposition and used to farm life. Must be a good cook and housekeeper.

Rosebud Wants to Correspond.

"Lonely Hopeful."

Alameda, Sask., March 12, 1907. Editor.—Having become interested in your correspondence columns, I beg leave to forward you my impressions. I must say that the individual who gave himself the flashing name of "Devil" must be possessed of a considerable amount of self pride. I wish once said, "that the cause of so many divorces was women's inclination for dry goods and men's for wet goods." Some of those daddies seem to have their craniums filled with a desire for a man of means instead of a mean man, or professional men and city life. Well, I have lived in a few of the large cities and most of them are fille dwith saloons, dead-beats, thieves, grafters, May, 1907.

would like to be able to opinions of him to himself "Sky Lark's" letter most He is more modest reg merits than our worthy f mentioned. Well, as every has given a description of t al appearance, I will fall in the same. You know the "out of fashion, out of the am the average height, blue hair. I am a fair cook and the needle, and have the needle, and have the farmer girl's education, am of music and able to play would like to correspond young man in Western Can Burnside, Man., Feb. Editor.—I am a reader of able paper and like it fine, ward enclosed letter to "A Maiden," and oblige.

Hillburn, Feb Dear Sir.—Please send end to "Carry" in your January

Sidney, Feb. Dear Sir.—Please forwar, losed sealed letter to the rom Miniota, Man., who man "Romola." from

Wants the Address of a S

Sask., Jan. Editor.—If I may venture important topic as matrimor say the boys, or some of making a mistake in th No man j require a wife. No man i capable of choosing a wife w the notion that he wants a chore boy. When the time of man to fall in love with an will not think whether she unable to work, but will the contract of the con her and keep her in luxury ness at perhaps the cost of a to himself. I would like to address of some swell lady. forgot to tell you that I am dustrious, sober and in goo stances. Am 5 feet, 8 inches brown grey eyes, light br good teeth and a good appetit

We'll Send it Along, He

Rouleau, Sask., Feb. Editor.—Please address and the enclosed letter to "One of sies," Portage la Prairie.

Leduc, Alta., March Editor.—Please forward end ter to "Blue Bell No. 2" in Editor.—Please forward lete to "Bob," Saskatoon.

Editor.—Please forward l closed to "Sky lark" in Fel

Can't Give Her Address

Red Deer, Alta., March 1

Editor.—Please send me the ff "English Widow" in your ssue. "F

issue. Red Deer, Alta., Feb. Editor.-Please forward enc ter to Peter Walton, Ontario.

Red Deer, Alta., Feb. 2 Editor.—Please forward le closed to "Adolph" Strome, A oblige.

Winnipeg, Editir.—Send enclosed la "Carrie" who wrote in your Winnipeg, March 23 number, and oblige.

If the e on out

she ien's ien's

WO-

and ning ide'

ar-

the

heme

am one ter-

of up so ny

to. me

in-ire es he he ife iot meg is. ho of n-sh he er of

would like to be able to pen all my opinions of him to himself. I think "Sky Lark's" letter most interesting. He is more modest regarding his merits than our worthy friend aforementioned. Well, as every person else has given a description of their personal appearance, I will fall in line and do the same. You know the old saying, "out of fashion, out of the world." I am the average height, blue eyes, dark hair. I am a fair cook and handy with the needle, and have the average farmer girl's education, am very fond of music and able to play a little. I would like to correspond with some young man in Western Canada. "Rose Bud." "Rose Bud."

Burnside, Man., Feb. 21, 1907. Editor.—I am a reader of your valuable paper and like it fine. Please forward enclosed letter to "A Dark Eyed Maiden," and oblige. "Shorty."

Hillburn, Feb. 25, 1907. Dear Sir.—Please send enclosed letter to "Carry" in your January number.
"Jimmy."

Sidney, Feb. 21, 1907.

Dear Sir.—Please forward the enclosed sealed letter to the girl writing from Miniota, Man., who signs her name "Romola." "Sidney."

Wants the Address of a Swell Lady.

Sask., Jan. 24, 1907. Editor.—If I may venture on such an Editor.—If I may venture on such an important topic as matrimony, I would say the boys, or some of them, are making a mistake in thinking they require a wife. No man is ready or capable of choosing a wife while he has the notion that he wants a wife for a chore boy. When the time comes for a man to fall in love with any lady, he will not think whether she is able or unable to work, but will think to win her and keep her in luxury and happiwill not think whether she is able or unable to work, but will think to win her and keep her in luxury and happi-

Girls Not All the Same.

England, Feb. 6th, 1907.

Dear Editor.—I like your splendid magazine so much that I wish to show my appreciation in a practical way, by enclosing subscription for a year. I do so enjoy reading the correspondence columns. I should think, by the many fierce attacks on "Home Lover's" letter, that that gentleman is beginning to be "sorry he spoke." I thought his letter rather funny myself, there is so much a "There-you-are-girls, you-may-take-me-or-leave-me" kind of flavor about it. Perhaps his bark is worse than his bite, and he painted himself in pretty black colors to scare off the "cripples, lazy girls and Roman Catholics" mentioned by another correspondent. I wonder if he has "got off" yet. I can sympathize with the young man signing himself "Limber Jim," as I have just been served the same way myself, only in this case it is the man that has been cruel, and not the girl. I have been corresponding with a Canadian young man for a long time, have been engaged to him in fact, and have head to put up with a lot of opposition because I would not give him up when things did not go just well with him, and then in just one short week he met a girl he thought he liked better and calmly threw me over for her, and at once acquainted me with the fact without expressing a word of regret at his cruel conduct. So I think "Limber Jim" is wrong when he says girls are all the same. I might just as well think that all Canadian young men are the same as the one I have just mentioned, but I don't because I know some who have always acted on the straight. "Englishwoman No. 1."

Chance for Good Looking Fellow.

SINGLE BLESSEDNESS.

ness at perhaps the cost of great labor to himself. I would like to have the address of some swell lady. I almost forgot to tell you that I am honest, industrious, sober and in good circumstances. Am 5 feet, 8 inches high; have brown grey aver I labor this and would like to correspond with one of the bachelors. I am a young lady fairly good education and can play the plano. I am Scotch and would like a nice tall fellow, good looking, with blue eyes and in a good position, One who brown grey eyes, light brown hair, good teeth and a good appetite.
"Flunkey Frank."

We'll Send it Along, Henry.

Rouleau, Sask., Feb. 27, 1907. Editor.—Please address and forward the enclosed letter to "One of the Las-sies," Portage la Prairie. "Henry."

Leduc, Alta., March 20, 1907. Editor.—Please forward enclosed letter to "Blue Bell No. 2" in February issue. "August."

to "Bob," Saskatoon. "Nelly."

Editor.—Please forward letter enclosed to "Sky lark" in February issue, "Denny."

Can't Give Her Address.

Red Deer, Alta., March 16, 1907.
Editor.—Please send me the address of "English Widow" in your February ssue. "Farmer."

Red Deer, Alta., Feb. 8, 1907. Editor.-Please forward enclosed let-Editor.—Please forward ter to Peter Walton, Ontario.
"M. A.S."

Red Deer, Alta., Feb. 20, 1907. Editor.—Please forward letter en-closed to "Adolph" Strome, Alta., and Winnipeg, March 21, 1907. Editir.—Send enclosed letter to "Carrie." who wrote in your January number, and oblige. "Sandy." nice tall renow, good position, One who eyes and in a good position, One who has no bad habits. Trusting that one or two of your bachelor correspondents or two of your bachelor correspondents."

Daisy Likes Tall Dark Fellow.

Sask., Feb. 1st, 1907. To the Editor.—I am desirous of becoming acquainted with some Western bachelor who has a comfortable home. I am a farmer's daughter and can do I am a farmer's daugnter and can do all kinds of housework. I am five feet four inches high, with blue eyes and brown hair. Would like a tall, dark fellow, who has not bad habits. I am 19 years old and quite musical. Hoping to hear from some of the bachelors "Daisy." soon. "Daisy."

Rocanville, Sask. Dear Sir.—Please forward enclosed letter to "One Fair Maiden of Alta.." in reply to her letter which appeared in February number. "Jim."

"Chatterbox" to "Sloppy Soby."

Brandon, Feb. 1907. Dear Sir.—In reading your correspondence columns I think you have a great many fine bachelors who would not have any trouble in choosing a good wife if they had the chance to meet them, but away on a farm forty miles from nowhere, I think it must be hard and lonesome for them. I am very much taken with the letter "Sloppy Soby" writes and would like to correspond with him. I am 31 years old, have blue eyes, dark hair, stand 5 feet 3 inches, weigh between 125 and 130 pounds, a very good housekeeper and fond of country life and home.
"Chatterbox."

Basswood, Man., Feb. 25,1907. Dear Editor.—Please forward the enclosed letter to one who signs himself

The Natural Cure -----For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.

poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin of these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough.

One of these body poisons is UREA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor

—if the kidneys are inflammed ing them. -urea stays in the systemis changed into uric acid carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action

Rheumatism means of bowels, kidneys and skin. This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can should rid the system of be cured to stay cured. And waste matter. If either "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that completely "Fruit-a-tives" eradicates the disease from the will cure almost any case of Rheumatism. Sciatica, Neuralgia.

system. " Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many time increased by the process of combin-

Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets. 50c, a-box—6 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"THE HOUSE WHERE QUALITY REIGNS."

JEWELS

For the Summer Bride and Bridesmaids.

Here follows evidence—if such be needed—of the wisdom of purchasing your Wedding Jewellery from "Birks'." Every piece a gem, as to workmanship and quality, tasteful and inexpensive.

24512. Baroque Pearl

with Necklet,$13.50

24515. Fine Amethyst and Pearl Heart Pendant, with Necklet $18.00

24407. Fine Pearl and Diamond Brooch or Pendant, $90.00

two initials, $18.00

24470. Pearl Star and Crescent, $6.30 24283. Monogram Bar Pin, in Pearls, $10.00

OUR MAIL ORDER DEPARTMENT will serve you to your satisfaction, no matter where you live. "Your money back if desired" is your safeguard. Write for complete Catalogue.

HENRY BIRKS & SONS, Limited

Gold and Silversmiths,

WINNIPEG.

Allow me to introduce PAY ROLL (BRIGHT PLUG) Chewing Tobacco

Write for Illustrated Catalogue H. and Prices, on our Coil Spring Wire Fence. For strength, durability, ease of construction, lasting qualities, the Anchor Fence has no equal in the market. We manufacture the Majestic Woven Wire Fence also.

SHIPMENTS PROMPT

We have a good stock at Brandon, Man., Moosejaw, Sask., and Calgary, Alta., of the following goods:-Chatham Fanning Mills, Chatham Farm Scales, Chatham Incubators and Brooders, Chatham Separators, for oats and wheat, Chatham Kitchen Cabinets, Chatham Grain Picklers.

Parties living on the main line between Pense and Swift Current and on the Soo line, send orders to Bunnell & Lindsay, Moose Jaw, distributing agents for that territory. Alberta customers send orders to John I. Campbell, Calgary, and orders for other territory to be sent to Wm. Atwell, Brandon, Man.

The MANSON CAMPBELL CO., CHATHAM, ONT.

89 Ohicago.

Gold Watch FREE ositively give both a Solid Gold Laid M WIND American movement Watch

'ROYAL TAILORING'

Men's made to measure Clothing of highest nerit. Spring stocks of materials are now complete. If we have no agent in your comnunity, write us for samples and quotations catalogs and measuring charts on application Local agents wanted everywhere:

E. R. Bollert & Co. 25 and 27 Windham St. GUELPH, ONTARIO.

"Devil" in the February issue of your paper. "Kitten."

Birnie Bachelor Wakes Up.

Birnie, Man., Feb. 18, 1907.

Dear Editor.—I am a bachelor and live 2½ miles from Birnie. I would like to correspond with some girl as I am tired of living alone. I am 24 years old, and stand 5 feet 4 inches. I have 160 acres of land and a good shack to live in and plenty of wood to keep her warm.

"Birnie Bachelor."

Fat Lady not Wanted.

Medicine Hat, Alta., Feb. 18, 1907.
The Editor.—I have always been interested in the fair sex and my interest has been augumented by reading the many letters in your valuable magazine. Some men want too much and some too little. So while I am in pressing need, having decided that it is no longer good for me to be alone, and it makes no difference about the nationality or kind; yet I would not be contented with a mere cook. To be sure she must be a good cook, not too bad to look at, not so fat that her tracks are greasy, and she must not be running around the neighborhood gossipping and letting the biscuits burn or take three hours to comb her hair when we want to go somewhere. Such a one we want to go somewhere. Such a one would find in me a faithful and affectionate husband. Now, where is she? I mean business. "Overland Shine." mean business.

Leduc, Alta., Feb. 20, 1907. Editor.—Please forward this letter to the lady who signs herself "One Fair Maiden of Alberta," in the February number. "W. A."

Can Play Piano, Paint and Shoot.

Balcarres, Sask., March 10, 1907.
Editor.—I have read with increasing interest the correspondence in your paper in the matrimonial question.
Now, I am a young woman, 19 years old and not too bad for looks. I am about medium height. I would like to get married to some honest young man who does not use liquor, and he must be good looking. He can smoke, if he likes. I am a very good housekeeper, can play the piano and paint, and am a very good shot with the rifle. I do not like tooting my own horn, so if any young man wishes to correspond with me I will answer all letters.

"Fair Fae."

John Bull on the Scent.

Bagot, March 16, 1907.

Editor.—I read in a copy of your magazine which my son-in-law subscribed for, a letter from an English widow in which she states that she wants a husband. I am an Englishman and would like an English lady for a wants a husband. I am an Englishman and would like an English lady for a wife. I am a widower, a farmer, age 43. I have a good comfortable home, no outside work, and lots of help in the home. "John Bull."

The Masher is Long-Winded.

Moose Jaw, March 15, 1907.

Editor.—I am a subscriber to your magazine and greatly interested in your correspondence columns. It is amusing as well as interesting to read the difference of opinion and the line of thought brought out by some of the writers, also to study and form ideas of the character and personality of the writers, and also the different opinions of the real virtues of an ideal husband or wife. Now, I happen to be in a class called bachelors. I cannot say I am really in love with my lot as such. I have batched at intervals and find it lonesome, and taken together it is not Moose Jaw, March 15, 1907. have batched at intervals and find it lonesome, and taken together it is not a very desirable life. Some men expect their better half to do all kinds of slavish work. Woman, in my estimation is man's helpmate (not slave, and the type of woman I would say to be a model wife is one that is willing to work in the interest of her husband, to share with him the ups and downs of this life and try to make home comfortable, cheerful and pleasant. Of course, the man should do his part to make home agreeable. They should consult one another upon intended or make home agreeable. They should consult one another upon intended or consult one another upon intended of suggested improvements or purchases. Many a man has gone to the "wall" by keeping his real financial standing from his wife and allowing her to go on in her extravagances, when, if she really knew his financial standing she (if the right kind of wife) would be only too willing to sacrifice to help to elevate him to a more substantial footing, or in other words, live according to their means. Say, Mr. Editor, I think I should have been a preacher. What do you think? It is sometimes easier to talk than to practice what one preaches. Some of the lady writers are very hard on tobacco and strong drink. Well, I used to be myself, but I have seen plenty of life's other side in that re-plenty of life's other side in that respect, especially strong drink.

Ladies, how about chewing gum? I would rather see a man smoke than a lady chew gum. I want none of it in mine, but I suppose she had better chew gum than chew the "rag." I think we all have our little bad habits, our own peculiarities and tempers. One writer objects to red or auburn hair. The color of the hair does not matter much. color of the hair does not matter much, it does not indicate the kind of cook or housekeeper she would make or the kind of temper she has. For my own part I am rather a little partial to that auburn or blonde colored hair. My choice in this respect may seem peculiar since I have brown hair myself, but if you ever see me you might think me more peculiar. If any young lady in your large circle would like to exchange views with me on matrimony or any other topic of interest, they will find my name and address with the editor. I will not ask her to write first, only merely to intimate her willinness to do so to me and I will answer all letters and questions to the best of my ability. Yes! and I will exchange photos. I am not pretty but will be willing to show myself as I am in the market for a true, loving and affectionate wife and not a slave, and one that does not want a slave for a husband. I am not rich and never will be until I get a wife, and then I will consider myself a rich man. Houses and land I have some, but a wife "none." I have some, but a wife "none."

"The Masher."

Wanderer Wants a True Home.

Earlville. Alta., March 12, 1907.
Editor.—The discussion of the matrimonial question in these columns is amusing, also instructive. Most of the writers see it only from one point of view, their own. Many do not understand the conditions of the West. Here you find men of all classes, the majority of them wide-awake, clever fellows. Their object to make money and a place for themselves in the coming country. A great many of them will leave as soon as they have a competence, unless they have a home here by that time. The longing for a mate grows on them in this almost womanless West. Most of these young men would love and give a good honest girl a square deal. What the man here in the North-West wants most is the refining influence of woman. Chief of all, that sensible, lovable, sweet natured one, known as the womanly woman, capable and intelligent. What I want is a companion and chum, a girl who will have a smile and a cheerful greeting for me. The wife makes the home and I want a girl who will make a true home. Intelligent? Neat? Yes! but above all, "homey."

"Wanderer." Earlville. Alta., March 12, 1907.

Lumber Jack Likes Cheerful Bessie.

Fort Saskatchewan, April 9, 1907. Editor.—I have been a steady reader of your Western Home Monthly for some time, although not a subscriber as yet. I think yours the most perfect all round home magazine in the marall round home magazine in the market and I admire it in every way. The correspondence columns are quite a feature. Some of the letters from both sexes are interesting, in fact really good. I have a farm and intend going to live on it this spring. I notice a letter in your February issue from a young lady who calls herself "Cheerful Bessie" and I think she is just the girl I am hunting for. Kindly forward the enclosed letter to her.

"Lumber Jack."

Frank Sends Letter to Blonde.

Hardisty, Alta., March 21, 1907. Hardisty, Alta., March 21, 1907.
Editor.—I enjoy reading your interesting magazine, especially the correspondence columns. The bachelors are very numerous in this part of the part of the country and as yet the ladies are very scarce, therefore, I would like to get acquainted with some of the young ladies through your columns. I believe that "Woman's Evicad" has very high ideals, but never-Friend" has very high ideals, but nevertheless she has some very good ideas. Will you please address the enclosed letter to "Blonde" whose letter appeared in your January issue and oblige. "Frank."

Denholm, March 22, 1907. Editor.—I take great interest in reading the letters in your correspondence columns. I am one of those lonely bachelors and would like to know if there is a woman between the age of 25 and 35 years who would correspond with me. I do not want a slave. I want an agreeable companion and if she can cook Irish lemons as good as I can she will suit. Since I have as I can she will suit. Since I have been batching I have learned that a woman has enough to do in the house without going out to feed pigs and other stock, or pitching hay. I think that sort of work unsuitable for a woman. As for my part, I shall never ask my wife to go in the field and work. I have always fed my pigs and calves and all other stock myself. If I am away they can wait until I come home. Changing the subject I agree with "Manitoba Maid" and "Another Interested Reader" that many of the bachelors ask too much of their intended ested Reader" that many of the bachelors ask too much of their intended better half. I know a number of bachelors who are one hundred carat fine. I have met a few young ladies in the West who rank well up with the best of our bachelors, but they are few and far apart. I would like to make the acquaintance of one or two by correspondence. I would do all in my respondence. I would do all in me power to make a good woman happy. do all in my prefer Protestant correspondents as am one myself, Scotch at that.

Hoping that I will receive a ni letter or two from those who a sincere.

"Scotch Farmer."

Here is Another

May, 1907.

Indianford Editor.—I have thome Monthly for and think it is juried the correspondent think some of the a girl of good cha she should have a comfortably without ing rushed at her. to go to town or should have a hors to take her there. much right to driband. I am a you age, good looking, f 5 feet 10 inches in 164 pounds. I am Methodist church a young man, brougt home. I was rai mother some 18 ye you would give m few young ladies.

A Good So

Rathwell, Mar Editor.—I am a your good magaz number of the let and think that it want but a mule their work. If t several household mending, etc., she pected to do more. that the girls are men drinking to ex good women havin nothing husbands wages in the rum had to work hard s might get bread. right shame for woman in that way out doing these the man, 19 years of brown eyes. I a church and Sunday very anxious to g should meet anyon ence whom I would should not hesita should like the ac woman who signs i "Carrie." I do no or tobacco.

Address Them The

Moose Ja Editor.—Will you of "English Wido and "Marjorie" whin your February

Would Exc Editor.—In looki monthly I well photos with the years name "Adolphe twenty years old, a small fortune of yearly. Am from in Manitoba ten home of my own.

Amost Any

Mandal, Dear Editor.—H your splendid mag the idea I would girl would answer ence whether it is widow would do, a write to me I wou Western Home Mo into correspondent novelty of batchin that it seems no either, and the form of this turned to get near them. say that the men country, bu I adv here, and see all tlors, and I am one say that I absta tobacco, but I could be self.

Whitewood, Editor.—Please ter to young in "Young Jim," of ary number.

Knocks Out

Dear Editor.-1 your corresponde month and enjoy am not much of have refrained f and some of the tice in letting he herds, immoral, swine-herds and or the my own to that My peculiar f, but if hink me lady in to exmony or hey will with the to write er willin-l answer best of 1907.

exchange will be m in the affectionhusband. be until consider and land asher."

Come. 2, 1907. he matri-olumns is st of the point of ot under-est. Here majority fellows. nd a place country. leave as ce, unless hat time on them West nest nest girl man here ost is the Chief of sweet nananly wo-What I ım, a girl cheerful nakes the will make eat? Yes! nderer."

Bessie.

9, 1907. dy reader onthly for oscriber as st perfect the marway. The quite a ters from fact really tend going I notice a st the girl brward the onde. 21, 1907. your inter-

r Jack."

chelors are art of the as yet the erefore, I with some your col-"Woman's but nevergood ideas. e enclosed ter appear-id oblige. "Frank."

22, 1907. est in read-respondence hose lonely o know if the age of correspond a slave. I ion and if as good ince I have that a woe for a wo-ll never ask nd work. I and calves If I am come home. agree with other Intereir intended number of ndred carat oung ladies up with the hey are few ike to make two by cor-o all in my nan happy. I ndents as I that.

ceive a nice e who are Farmer." Here is Another with the Pever.

Indianford, March 28, 1907. Indianford, March 28, 1907.
Editor.—I have taken your Western Home Monthly for the past two years and think it is just fine. I like to read the correspondence columns. I think some of the young bachelors are looking for a slave. I think that when a girl of good character gets married she should have a good home and live comfortably without any hard work being rushed at her. If the wife wants to go to town or anywhere else she should have a horse and huggy ready to go to town or anywhere else she should have a horse and buggy ready to take her there. The wife has as much right to drive as has the husband. I am a young man 23 years of age, good looking, fair complexion, stand 5 feet 10 inches in height and weigh 164 pounds. I am a member of the Methodist church and a good Christian young man, brough up in a Christian home. I was raised on a farm and came from Ontario with my father and mother some 18 years ago. I do wish you would give me the address of a few young ladies. "Lonely Bill."

A Good Sort of Chap.

Rathwell, Man., March 20, 1907.
Editor.—I am a delighted reader of your good magazine. I have read a number of the letters from bachelors and think that it is not a wife they want but a mule team to go and do their work. If the wife does the several household duties, viz., cooking, mending, etc., she should not be expected to do more. One bachelor says that the girls are the cause of some men drinking to excess, but I have seen good women having drunken, good for nothing husbands—who spent their wages in the rum shop—while the wife had to work hard so that the little ones might get bread. I think it a downright shame for any man to treat a woman in that way. I would not want a woman to feed pigs or calves as I know that they have enough to de with woman in that way. I would not want a woman to feed pigs or calves as I know that they have enough to do without doing these things. I am a young man, 19 years old, dark complexion, brown eyes. I attend the Methodist church and Sunday school and am not very anxious to get married, but if I should meet anyone in my correspondence whom I would grow to like I should not hesitate doubling up I should like the address of the young woman who signs herself "Blonde," also "Carrie." I do not use strong drink or tobacco. "Buster Brown."

Address Them Through this Magazine.

Moose Jaw, March 11, 1907. Editor.—Will you give me the address of "English Widow," "Polly Flinders" and "Marjorie" whose letters appeared in your February number.
"Busy Bachelor."

Would Exchange Photos.

Findlay, Feb. 12, 1907. Editor.—In looking through your corresponding in the Western Heme Monthly I would like to exchange photos with the young man who signs have many years old, light comlexion, have a small fortune of my own of $650 yearly. Am from the East, have been in Manitoba ten months and want a in Manitoba ten months and want a home of my own.
"Winter Sunshine."

Amost Any Sort of Female.

Mandal, Sask., Feb. 7, 1907.

Dear Editor.—Having got hold of your splendid magazine my eye stole a glace at the correspondence column, which I enjoyed very much, and I got the idea I would write and see if any girl would answer—it makes no difference whether it is a girl or not, a young widow would do, and if someone would write to me I would be thankful to the Western Home Monthly for putting me into correspondence. I do not like the novelty of batching and I regret to say that it seems no girls are coming in either, and the few that are here are so "high turned" that it is impossible to get near them. Some of the writers say that the men are so rough in this country, bu I advise them to come up here, and see all the nice young bachelors, and I am one of them. I dare not say that I abstain from liquor and tobacco, but I can take care of myself.

Whitewood, Sask., Feb. 15, 1907. Editor.—Please forward enclosed letter to young man signing himself "Young Jim," of Swan River, in January number. "Daisy." ary number.

Knocks Out Red Hot Liner.

Arizona, Man., March 24, 1097. Dear Editor.—I always read with great interest the numerous letters in great interest the numerous letters in your correspondence columns each month and enjoy them very much. I am not much of a scribe myself and have refrained from giving my views on different subjects until now.

In last month's issue I noticed a letter from "A Woman's Friend" and I do not think I would be doing the men, and some of the honorable women, justice in letting her letter go unchallenged. In the first place it states that 9 per cent of the men today are degraded, immoral, being not fit for the graded, immoral, being not fit for the swine-herds and seeking whom they may devour, and, on the other hand, 99 per cent. of the gentler sex are good and pure, and the remaining one per cent. owe their downfall to the 99 per cent. cent. owe their downfall to the 99 per cent. of the opposite sex. Now, Mr. Editor, I think you will agree with me that the party must have had consider-able personal experience with this class of people or she would not be able to picture them so vividly in hcr "prayer." of people of she would not be able to picture them so vividly in hcr "prayer." She also states that 99 per cent. of the women marry for love and love alone. I have travelled over several countries, met all classes of girls of different nationality and I think I can safely say that not more than one per cent. of them marry their "ideal" and not more than fifty per cent. of them marry for love and love only. Could give you several reasons why the other 50 per cent. marry. One is, they may never get another chance and have no particular dislike for the party who asks their hand in marriage, or perhaps he may have a good position, and be in good circumstances and when they weighed the matter up they considered they would prefer being his wife, rather than an old maid. I could name scores of reasons but space will not permit. I have known women who were supposed to be greatly in love with one of the opposite several great winder. nave known women who were supposed to be greatly in love with one of the opposite sex, and gave him to understand he was the only one. He had a good position, being a professional man, and when his health failed him and he went farming she recoiled from him as though he were a servent went farming she recoiled from him as though he were a serpent.

Young men, it would be wise before taking the final step to ascertain which is the chief attraction, yourself or your position. I am not one of the sharks "A Woman's Friend" speaks of, though I use tobacco but am a total abstainer. Of course, we cannot all be perfect like "A Woman's Friend" but I think it would be well for her to memorize these few lines which I have just clipped from a paper. from a paper.
"There is so much bad in the best of

And so much good in the worst of us,
That it hardly becomes any of us
To speak evil of the rest of us."
Hoping this letter will by chance escape the waste-paper basket and wishing you and all the readers a prosperous New Year.

Marriage Without Love is a Failure.

Olds, Alta., March 17, 1907.
Editor.—Having read with interest your correspondence columns for some time, I thought I would try my hand. I have lived in the West four years, am a bach, as they call us single men of marriageable age, and have noticed that some bachelors are no good, also that some are good decent fellows. I admire a man who helps his wife with her household duties, and I think a man who wants a woman to do chores should who wants a woman to do chores should buy some of the latest labor saving machines. I pity the man who gets "Carry," who wrote in the January number, as she seems too imperative in her demands. I like to see a man make his wife as happy and comfortable as possible and a true woman should make it her aim to make her partner happy also. A man who gets drunk and abuses his wife is, in my estimation, a beast of low ideals and inordinate appetite. Let the girls beware and shun the man who likes the flowing bowl, so also let the young man shun the girl who keeps bad company, also the two-faced lass and the girls who think of nothing but dress and pleasure. Let both the young woman and man look well before they marry, for on their foresight and choice depends their future happiness. Marriage without love is a failure as has oft been proved. There is great room for reform in the make his wife as happy and comfortable There is great room for reform in the manners and morals of both sexes, as none of us are perfect. Let not the fair sex get the idea that the bachelors are sex get the idea that the bachelors are a bad lot, and the lads should not denounce the fair sex just because they do not happen to love them. "Limber Jim" must be afflicted with bad sight or he would surely see a real lady once in a while. There are lots of them. Jim. Have another look and you may yet be a happy husband. I would be pleased to correspond with some of the fair readers of your paper. "Hardy Gent."

Banell, Alta., April 11, 1907.

Editor.—Being a reader of your very excellent magazine I take much pleasure in reading the correspondence pages. Some of your male correspondents want a great deal for their money, don't they? I am a farmer, not wealthy, but healthy, heady, and a worker. I am 29 years old, five feet, eleven inches, fair complexion, a Methodist, don't use the weed or liquor and don't swear, am naturally cheerful and like good company. I don't profess to be a model or an ideal young man, but would treat, a woman as a woman should be treated, and would not expect her to rustle for the grub. I want a wife, not a bired man working for board and clothes. I don't expect her to be an angel. I would not know how to handle her if she A Reasonable Sort of Chap. not know how to handle her if she were one, but would like to be able to look to her fin all things and have-her truly my better half. Please send me the name and address of "Ellen," Carberry, Man., also "Carry," who wants the model husband berry, Man., also the model husband. "Faughaballaugh."

WANTED, TO-DAY, 100,000 FARMERS TO INVEST ONE CENT IN A POSTAL CARD.

Address it to me. Say on it,
"Send me your SPECIAL 20,000 Bike Harrow Cart proposition."
You will be glad afterwards if you do it today.
Yes, sir!!! It will pay you big.
My proposition gives you a chance to get the best harrow cart ever built on two wheels

My proposition gives you a chance to get the nothing.

It's a big undertaking for me to sell 20,000 carts, but my proposition is doing it. It's a hittle out of the ordinary.

Get in on this 20,000 cart deal while it lasts.

It only costs you one cent to get the proposition.

I leave it entirely to you if it is not just a little bit the most interesting harrow cart proposition you ever heard of.

Drop me a postalif you don't write another one for six months.

Don't buy a cart of any make, kind, brand or at any price until you first get my proposition. I will then leave it entirely with you to be the judge.

I know what you Canadian farmers need in a harrow cart. I have built and sold more harrow carts than all other manufacturers put together and am selling them only direct from my factory to your farm.

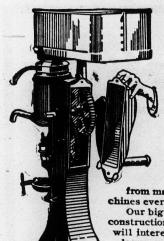

l own and operate a large farm at Lajord, Sask., near Regina, and know what is required of a harrow cart in Canada.

I know there is no harrow cart built that will begin to equal the Bike and meet your requirements like it.

It is a high wheeler with a positive lock, just right for rough ound.

I will carry a large stock at Regina and can ship quick.
Write me today. It's interesting. Will also send you our large aplement catalogue free.
WILLIAM GALLOWAY,

(President of the William Galloway Company), 705 Commercial Street, WATERLOO, IOWA, U.SA.

STRONG and DURABL

Compact, all the parts accurately made, finely adjusted and working together smoothly; and at the same time, strong, well built, easy to keep in order and light running - these are the features you want to find in a cream separator before you buy one. And you wont have to look any farther. It has them all. That's why it outwears all other makes.

U. S. CREAM

Durability is what the "cheap" separators lack, yet it is most important. We have received letters from many users of the U. S. Separators who have run their machines every day for 10 years and more with entire satisfaction.
Our big, handsome, new catalogue shows plainly all about the construction and wonderful skimming records of the U.S. It will interest you. For free copy write us this way. "Send catalogue number A 110", addressing VERMONT FARM MACHINE COMPANY, Bellows Pails, Vt. Prempt deliveries of U. S. Separators from warehouses at Auburn, Me., Buffalo, N. Y. Toledo, O., Chicago, Ill., LaCrosse, Wis., Minneapolis, Minn., Sloux City, Ia., Kansas City, Mo., Omaha, Neb, San Francisco, Cal., Portland, Ore., Sherbooke and Montreal, Que., Hamilton, Ont., Winnepeg, Man. and Calgary, Alta.

Address all letters to Bellows Falls, Vt. 439

Get Ready for Spring

CARNEFAC SEASON

It pays immensely to use CARNEFAC for all Farm Stock and Poultry. The cost is but a trifle. It brings the stock out in excellent shape, and prevents untold losses at the critical time, when colts, calves, pigs and lambs arrive.

Try it for this season, the results will convince you.

THE CARNEFAC STOCK FOOD CO. Winnipeg, anada.

Will do it and restore the circulation, assist nature to repair strained, ruptured ligaments more successfully than Firing No blister, no hair gone, and you can use the horse. $2.00 per bottle, delivered. Book 2-C Free.

ABSORBINE, JR., for mankind, $1.00 bottle, Cures Strained Torn Ligaments, and Verige (Verige et al., Markete).

Varicose Veins, Varicocele, Hydrocele, en-larged Gland and Ulcers. 'Allays pain quickle W. F. YOUNG, P.D. F., 138 Monmouth St., Springfield, Mass.

LYMAN SONS & CO., Montreal, Canadian Agents.

Also furnished by Martin Bole & Wynne Co., and Pulford
Leonard Drug Co., Winnipeg, The National Drug & Chem. Co., Winnipeg and Calgary, and Henderson Bros. Co. Ltd., Vancouver.

YOUR FORTUNE FREE

Men Wanted.

Reliable men in every locality throughout Canada to advertise our goods, tack up show cards on trees, fences, bridges and all conspicuous places; also distributing small advertising matter Commission or salary $83 per month and expenses, $4 per day. Steady employment to good, reliable men. No experience necessary. Write for particulars.

EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., LONDON, ONT.

DOLLARS FOR DIMES

RANHATTAN FINANCE COMPANY, Jersey City, N. J.

GOLD WATCH and RING FREE

KENDALL'S SPAVIN

The Horseman's Friend -Safe and Sure.

If you have a lame horse, get Kendall's Spavin Cure. If you have a horse that you can't work on account of a Sprain, Strain or Bruise, get Kendall's Spavin Cure. If you have a horse, that even the veterinary can't cure of Spavin—or any Soft Bunches or Swellings—get Kendall's Spavin Cure.

Be sure you get KENDALL'S, Two generations—throughout Canada and the United States—have used it and proved it.

TRAVELERS' REST, P.E.I., Dec. 15, '05.

"I have been using Kendall's Spavin Cure for the last 20 years, and always find it safe and sure."

HUBERT P. MCNRILL.

11. a bottle—6 for $5. Write for a copy of our great book "Treatise On The Horse." It's a mine of information for farmers and horsemen, who want to keep their stock in prime condition.

Mailed free.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO..

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., ENGEBURG FALLS, - VERMONT, U.S.A.

Your Address Wanted The Maison Jules & Charles

Canada's largest manufacturers of and dealers in high grade Hair Goods will send their latest beautifully illustrated catalogue free to any address. If you need a wavy switch, a pompadour, front, bang, wave, curl, wig, toupce or transformation, our catalogue will tell you how to order by mail.

The value of our goods is known from coast to coast, hence our enormous mail order business. Write for a catalogue to-day.

The Maison Jules & Charles 431 Yonge Street, Toronto, Canada.

You Can't Cut Out A BOG SPAVIN or THOROUGHPIN, but will clean them off, and you work the horse same time. Does not blister or remove the hair. Will tell you more if you write. $2.00 per bottle, delivered. Book 4-C free.

ABSORBINE, JR., for mankind, Cures varicose veins, varicocele, Hydrocele, Ruptured Muscles or Ligaments, Enlarged Glands, Allays Pain. Genuine mfd. only by

W. F. Young, P.D.F., 138 Monmouth Street, Springfield, Mass. Canadian Agents: LYMAN, SONS & CO., Montreal.

The Late Dr. Drummond.

By Louis Frechette.

Dr. Drummond, the poet of the habitant, died April 6th at Cobalt, Ont. Drummond was the pathfinder of a new land of song, and, without instituting any invidious comparisons between his art and that of other Canadian poets, it may be said that he is better known outside of Canada, and especially in the United States, as "the Canadian poet" than any of his brilliant contemporaries. Not all his work is in the habitant dialect, and when he drops this vehicle, his lines rings out like Kipling's. In 'Home" he makes Britain speak as a mother of her colonial sons.

Though not a native born Cana dian, the late Dr. Drummond was educated and brought up in Canada and was in all essentials a son of the soil. Dr. Drummond is best known as interpreter of the Quebec habitant. His inspiration was at first hand from the so-called common people—tne people who, like the so-called common sense, are anything but common, and whose lives and interests are thoroughly characteristic of their country and surroundings. Drummond's interpretation of the habitant was as different from the pedantic periods of the "library poet" as the graven image is from the living body. Personally he was a big man with a big heart and wide sympathies, and the poetry and pathos, the demure humor and the quaint courageousness of the French-Canadian touched a responsive chord in his nature. His literary work was a labor of love, a relaxation in the hours of a busy man, consequently he only wrote when he had something worth the telling. There was never any straining after effect—the poems were truth itself with no more embellishment than the lives of the people he wrote about, and who admired and loved him as the first writer who had made their race articulate to the English-reading world. In recent years he had many imitators but his work will live in Canadian literature, and in the wider sphere of English literature, as a poet of true genius and the interpreter of the life of a most interesting and picturesque people. He has made "The Last Portage" but his memory and his works will live among Canadians for all time.

Selections from the Works of Dr. Drummond.

The following selections from some of the best known shorter poems of the late Dr. Drummond will be re-read with mournful interest at the present time. Here are a couple of the typical verses from "De Habitant":

"De fader of me, he was habitant farmer, Ma gran'fader, too, an' hees fader also; Dey don't mak' no monee, but dat isn't funny,

For it's not easy get everything, you must know.

"All de same, dere is someting they got ev'rybody,
Dat's plaintee good healt', wat de monee can't geev,
So I'm working away dere, and happy for stay dere.

On farm by de reever, so long as I leev."

WRECK OF THE JULIE PLANTE. One of Dr. Drummond's best known poems_and one of the most popular. too—is "The Wreck of the Julie Plante," a legend of Lac St. Pierre: "On wan dark night on Lac St. Pierre;

"On wan dark night on Lac St. Pierre,
De win' she blow, blow, blow,
An' de crew of the wood scow "Julie Plante"

Got scart and run below—
For de win' she blow lak hurricane,
Bimeby she blow some more,
An' de scow bus' up on Lac St. Pierre Wan arpent from de shore."

Then after telling the tale of the wreck, the habitant draws the moral: "Now, all good wood scow sailor man,

"Now, all good wood scow sailor man,
Tak warning by dat storm,
And go an' marry some nice French girl,
An' leev on wan beeg farm.
De win' can blow lak hurricane,
An' s'pose she blow some more,
You can't get drowned on Lac St.
Pierre,
So long you stay on shore."

So long you stay on shore."

THE NILE EXPEDITION.

"Maxime Labelle" is a Canadian voyageur's account of the Nile expedition. He explains the reason Queen Victoria wanted Canadians to go down the Nile to the relief of Gordon.

"I got de plaintee sojer, me, beeg feller, six foot tall, Dat's Englishman and Scotch also don't wear no pant at all;
Of course de Irishman's the best, raise all de row he can,
But nobody can pull batteau lak good Canadian man."
Dr. Drummond sketched the innate gallantry of the French-Canadian in his fine poem, "De Nice Leetle Canadienne."

"You can pass on de worl' we'erever you lak, Tak the steamboat for go Angleterre.
Tak car on de State, an' den you come back, An' go all de place, I don't care-

Ma fren', dat's a fack, I know you will Say,
W'en you come on dis contree again,
Dere's no girl can touch w'at we say every day—
De nice leetle Canadienne."

Then the poet of the habitant touches lightly on the French-Canadian tendency to large families—

'I marry ma fiancee w'en I'm just twenty year,
An' now we got fine familee,
Dat skip roun' de place lak lettle small No smarter crowd you never see.

'An I t'ink as I watch dem all chasin' about—Four boy and six girl, she mak ten,
Dat's help mebbe kip it, de stock from run out, Of de nice leetle Canadienne"

THE JUBILEE ODE.

In the "Habitant's Jubilee Ode" he touches the patriotic chord:

"An onder de flag of Angleterre, so long as dat flag was fly,
Wit' deir Englis brother, des Canayens is satisfy leeve an' die,
Dat's de message our fader geev us when dey've fallin' on Chateauguay,
An' de flag was kipin' dem safe den, dat's de wan we will kip alway!"

THE VOYAGEUR.

"Ax heem de nort' win' w'at he see
Of de voyageur long ago,
An' he'll say w'at he say to me,
So lissen hees story well.
"I see de track of hees botte sauvage
On many a hill an' long portage
Far, far away from hees own vil-lage
An' sound' of de parish bell.

'De blaze of hees camp on de snow I see,
An' I lissen hees 'En Roulant.'
On de lan' we're de reindeer travel free,
Ringin' out strong an' clear.
Offen de grey wolf sits before
De light is come from hees open door,
An' caribou foller along de shore,
De song of de voyageur.

PRIDE.

Ma fader he spik to me long ago:
"Alphonse, it is better go leetle slow,
Don't put on de style if you can't afford,
But satisfy be wit' your bed an' board.
De bear wit' hees head too high alway
Know not'ing at all till de trap go smash.

An' mooshrat dat's swimmin' so proud to-day Very often tomorrow is on de hash."

Edward de Seven of Angleterre
An' few oder places beside,
He's got de horse an' de carriage dere W'enever he want to ride.
Vit' sojer in front to clear de way,
Sojer behin' all dress so gay.
V'ry wan makin' de grand salaam,
An' plaintee of ban' playin' all de tam.

An' dere's de boss of United State,
An' w'at dey call Phillipine.
De Yankee t'ink he was somet'ing great,
An' big as de king or queen,
So dey geev' him a house near touch de

An' paint it so w'ite it was blin' de eye, An' long as he's dare beginnin' to en' Don't cos' heem not'ing for treat hees

So dere's two feller, Edouard de king An' Teddy Roos'-vel' also, No wonder dey're proud for dey got wonder dey're proud for dey got few t'ing Was helpin' dem make de show, But, oh, ma Gosh, w'en you talk of pride, An' w'at dey call style an' puttin' on w'ere is de man can go before De pig-sticker champion of Ste. Flore?

DIEUDONNE (G

No, sir, an' I can t never know befo W'y de kettle on de a fuss, W'y de robin stop hee peekin' t'roo de o For learn about de

An' w'en he see de ba de bed Lake leetle Son of tame long ago, Wit' de sunshine an' No wonder M'sieu ring aroun' hees An' we can't help fe we call him Dieu An' he never cry, d chrissen by de All de sam' I bet you

THE FAMILY Hssh! Look at ba-bee wat you t'ink he'
Wit' pole on de han
man,
A-shovin' along can

Dere's pretty strong stove,
W'ere it's passin' d
But he'll come roun

upset, So long he was lef Dat's way ev'ry boy o He'll play canoe up a An' paddle an' push Den haul an' push ak Till dey're fillin' u An' say it's all right, night

Was carry away de

Misdirected

Frances, a girl of tined by her mother While still a cian. taught to read the fingers were placed Year in and year of obliged to practice, a measured amount of ing was wooden ar despair, her mother s do you expect to l grown up?'

The girl sighed. grown up, mother, i of my own, the first will be to order the for kindling wood. doctor."

As time passed mu dropped, and duly Fr medical college. At lowed liberty to grov per direction. She physician, treating r with rare sympathy

Vice consul genera Ingram, describes the tions concerning the drinks. It seems people, who were consumers of light wi stronger beverages, and the number of alcoholism is increa ding ratio. The gover right to prohibit circulation and sal recognized and decl by the academy of m for violation of any vary from $96.50 to of the confiscation of beverages that migh the repayment of th In case of repetiti doubled. The same plicable to all per having knowingly aid to the municipal r sale of beers and lig these beverages a hygienic and relieve that of transportati quor dealers are all in Paris every day o'clock in the mo: provinces until 11 time is readily ex and the alarming ncrease in the cons that less wine 1873, two hundred drunk per inhabitant

only seventy-five lite

Nile

fel-

aise

good ever will end-just mall

asin'

long yens

w I

free,

door.

oard.

ash.'

dere

tam.

reat,

h de hees

king

k of n' on re?

got

y,

DIEUDONNE (GOD-GIVEN.)

No, sir, an' I can tole you, if you never know before,
W'y de kettle on de stove mak' such a fuss,
W'y de robin stop hees singin' an' come peekin' t'roo de door
For learn about de nice t'ings come

An' w'en he see de baby lyin' dere upon de bed Lake leetle Son of Mary on de ole tame long ago, Wit' de sunshine an' de shadder makin' No wonder M'sieu Robin wissle low ring aroun' hees head,

An' we can't help feelin' glad, too, so we call him Dieudonne,
An' he never cry, dat baby, w'en he's chrissen by de pries';
All de sam' I bet you dollar he'll waken up some day An' be as bad as leetle boy Bateese.

THE FAMILY LARAMIE.

Hssh! Look at ba-bee on de leetle blue W'at you t'ink he's tryin' to do? Wit' pole on de han' lak' de lumber-man. A-shovin' along canoe, Dere's pretty strong current behin' de stove, W'ere it's passin' de chimney stone, But he'll come roun' yet if he don't upset, So long he was lef' alone.

Dat's way ev'ry boy on de house begin, No sooner he's twelve mont' ole, He'll play canoe up an' down de Soo An' paddle an' push de pole;

Den haul an' push about de place, Till dey're fillin' up mos' de room. An' say it's all right, for de storm las' Was carry away de broom.

Misdirected Energy.

Frances, a girl of thirteen, was destined by her mother to be a fine musi-While still a little child she was taught to read the notes and her tiny fingers were placed on the keyboard. Year in and year out the child was obliged to practice, and she acquired a measured amount of skill, but her playing was wooden and spiritless. In despair, her mother said to her, "What do you expect to be when you are grown up?"

"When I am The girl sighed. grown up, mother, if I have a house of my own, the first thing I shall do will be to order the piano chopped up for kindling wood. I want to be a doctor. As time passed musical studies were dropped, and duly Frances went to the medical college. At last she was allowed liberty to grow in her own pro-per direction. She is a successful physician, treating nervous disorders with rare sympathy and understanding.

Vice consul general to Paris, A. E. Ingram, describes the French regulations concerning the sale of alcoholic drinks. It seems that the French people, who were formerly large consumers of light wines, are turning to stronger beverages, including absinthe, and the number of suicides caused by alcoholism is increasing in corresponding ratio. The government reserves the right to prohibit the manufacture, circulation and sale of any spirit recognized and declared as dangerous by the academy of medicine. The fines for violation of any of the regulations vary from $96.50 to $965, independent of the confiscation of the apparatus and beverages that might be siezed and of the repayment of the defrauded taxes. In case of repetition the fines are doubled. The same penalties are applicable to all persons convicted of having knowingly aided the fraud. As to the municipal regulations for the sale of beers and light wines in Paris, these beverages are considered as hygienic and relieved of all tax except that of transportation. The retail liquor dealers are allowed to keep open in Paris every day of the year until 2 o'clock in the morning, and in the provinces until 11 p. m. This closing time is readily extended on request, and the alarming feature of this ncrease in the consumption of alcohol that less wine is now drunk. In 1373, two hundred liters of wine were drunk per inhabitant in France; in 1885 only seventy-five liters were consumed.

Four Cows Will Earn You MORE Money Than EIGHT Cows Earn You Now

The

capital

Tell me to show you how to get over thirty dollars a year more out of each cow you keep. Make me prove that four cows AND a Capital Separator will actually earn you -YOU, PERSONALLY -more money in cold cash profits than an EIGHT-cow herd and no Capital Separator. Don't take my say-so for it. Don't wrap yourself up in your own belief that it can't be done. It CAN be done, and I can PROVE it to you, in a practical, hard - sense fashion, with figures and facts that you won't want to dodge. Write to me and see.

Let's get the thing clear to start with. Here is what I say I can show you: That with four good cows and my method of separating, making butter—and selling butter—you can make more money in one year than eight cows will make you without my method.

If I do that,—if I do show you a difference of over thirty dollars profit a year on every cow you keep,—then I want to talk business with you. I don't want a cent of your money until you are satisfied that I have made good every word I say and everything I promise. I don't want to sell you a Capital Separator until you ask me to, -I shan't importune you, nor bother you. All I want to know is your name and address, and how many cows you keep. When I get these facts, I'll tell you some things you haven't heard before. I'll show you not only why you need a Capital Separator, but why you can make more money by my method of selling butter than you'll make any other way. It won't be all separator talk I'll talk to you, you've read reams of separator argument, but you haven't heard yet about the right way to make butter and the right way to SELL butter, Tell me to tell you about it,—there's nothing to pay.

Why don't I tell you right here in print? Simply because I am not giving 'blanket' advice. What might be a mod plan for a men in Ontario wouldn't good plan for a man in Ontario wouldn't work in Manitoba,—and I propose to advise each dairyman according to his location and other vital details. Naturally, I want to sell Capital Separators. I am no philanthropist. But I will sell them faster because I can tell people how to make them pay,—and that's something new in this business.

I don't care what your experience with dairying has been, nor what with separators. You may have what you think is the best separator there is. Or you may believe, as many do, that there isn't any real profit in dairyfarming. I can show you where you're wrong in either case. Do I get the chance to do that? Will you listen to the mere, sheer, downright facts? Just write to me and say so.

I don't care whether you feel able to buy a Capital Separator or not. won't be a hard matter, once you get to the buying point, to make terms with me. Some of my friends—I don't consider them merely my customerstake three years' time to pay in. Some of them pay in three months. Doesn't make any difference to me, because I know, and I can prove to you, that my Separator will buy itself the first year you have it. It will save you enough money and trouble, to pay for itself twice over in that time. And I can prove that too just write and ask prove that, too,-just write and ask

I've got a machine here, and a method, that will open your eyes to what there really is in keeping cows for profit. Maybe you are one of the few that know that already. Even if you are, you won't be any the poorer for reading what I'll write you. Let me tell you about the easiest separator to run you ever saw,—the easiest to buy,—the separator that skims cleanest and does it easiest,—the one with the really-low-down can,—and about the method that makes more butter, makes better butter, and gets better prices for it the whole year round. Just write to me—address as follows:

National Manufacturing Co., Limited 61 Mail and Empire Building, TORONTO, ONT.

It is a simple, easy means by which any lady, in the privacy of her home, can destroy all trace of superfluous hair in a few seconds, without pain, injury or illeffects. Do not experiment with dangerous instruments or chemicals which make the hair grow by rid of all trace by this secret. Write today. The mation is Free.

Japanese Imp'g Co 525 W'inster St. Providence, R.I.

Your name in P. C. Exchange and FADDEN'S Magazine six 15c.

Silver Holmes Fadden, Morris, Manitoba

ELECTRO-CHEMICAL Rheumatic

Are Guaranteed to Cure Rheumatism and Neuralgia, also Female Disorders arising from Urlc Acid. The Electro-Chemical Ring is not an ignorant charm or faith cure, but a scientific medium for the elimination of urlc acid from the blood. The secret, the power, the merit in this ring lies in the combination of the various metals of which the ring is made. No matter what the trouble is, if it is caused by excess of uric acid, the Electro-Chemical Ring will effect a cure. Looks just like any other ring, can be worn day and night. We guarantee these rings to do all we claim, or will refund the money. Send size of finger when ordering.

Mailed to any address on receipt of $1.00.

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited COR. QUEEN & VICTORIA STS. TORONTO, CAN

PAINTS

Below are a few of our lines. We Guarantee them for they are manufactured by us from the dry colors, made by ourselves, together with pure linseed oil crushed in our own factories.

HOUSE PAINTS

70 shades in the following well known brands: Elephant, Prism, Stag, King Edward.

FLOOR PAINT

In all the above brands, quick drying and durable.

WAGON AND BUGGY PAINT

Liquid in eight different shades, brilliant gloss, easily applied.

ENAMELS

In various shades, strong and delicate.

BARN PAINTS

All colors, strong and durable.

WOOD STAINS

Both oil and varnish, to imitate the various kinds of natural wood. Special stains made for floors.

VARNISHES

In all grades and for all purposes

CORALITE

A new sanitary wall finish for interiors. Permanent, easily applied and in artistic shades.

STOVE PIPE VARNISH

Put up in two sizes of stone bottles and in tins of various sizes.

Your local dealer handles these. Insist on having goods bearing our name and so secure our guarantee of quality. Write us for color cards or any information you desire.

The CANADA PAINT CO., Ltd.

MONTREAL

WINNIPEG

TORONTO

WINNIPEG ADDRESS: 112 Sutherland Avenue.

The BANK of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA

56 BRANCHES IN CANADA AND UNITED STATES

CAPITAL, $4,866,666. RESERVE, $2,238,666.

GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED. Drafts Bought and Sold. Prompt attention given to Collections.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT

Deposits received $1.00 and upwards, and Interest allowed at highest current rates and compounded quarterly. No notice required to withdraw.

FARMERS' BUSINESS

Every facility afforded farmers for their Banking Business. Sale Notes cashed or taken for collection. Note Forms free on application. Branches at important points throughout the West.

OTTAWA STYLES FOR LITTLE MEN.

BY MAIL.

The array of handsome New Suits, two and three-pieces, is unequalled in Canada. The prettiest ideas of the best makers are here in Russian, Buster Brown, Sailor, and Norfolk Suits.

Write for information. No branch Store in Canada.

THE 2 MACS LIMITED.

Everything Men and Boys Wear, "SPARKS & BANK STREET. "BUSY CORNER," OTTAWA.

My Revenge.

By CHARLOTTE M, BRAEME

CHAPTER I. A DEAD PAST.

They said I was mad when it all happened; that I was not accountable for my actions when I sought the revenge that I should have left to Heaven, and very nearly blighted the rest of my own life and my darling's by one rash act. Perhaps everybody is right, but it does not seem to me that I was mad. I had never been mad; no one belonging to me had ever had anything the matter with his mind. My senses were as clear then as they are now, and my plans as deliberately laid as any I ever made in my life.

I knew what I was about and what wanted to do, and I never forgot why wanted it. No, I am sure I was not mad; no maniac could have had such fixity of purpose or such determination to carry out what she had planned. It is many a long year ago now; I am an old woman, white-haired and feeble, spending my last days in peace, and only waiting for the lifting of the veil and the sound of the voices from the other side to summon me to the rest I had well-nigh forfeited by the dream of sin and anger.

I talk to my grandchildren sometimes of the long-ago days when I was young when there were no railways electric telegraphs, nor any of the wonderful things they tell me now are in use. We had to sew with our fingers when I was a girl, and not drive a machine with the feet that sets stitches by the hundred in the time it took us to do a dozen. And there was no talking to people a mile and more away, as they tell me can be done now. thought little Billy was poking fun at me when he told me, but his father said it was true, and that there was a machine for somehow doing up what people said, so that the same words could be spoken in the same voice thousands of miles away.

My son would never tell me a lie, and he said it was so, or I would not have believed all the newspapers in the world; and Billy read it out of a newspaper to me one winter evening.

But that is all what the boys call twaddle, and I am apt to twaddle, I know-old people are-and it was the story of my own sorrow that I was going to tell. I was a very pretty girl when I was young, and I had a good many lovers. I had no fortune except courted me as if I were the richest heiress in the kingdom. My father was only a poor clergyman, very poor in my face, and the men all seemed to only a poor clergyman, very poor indeed, for he gave away a great deal out or his small stipend, and we were often sight of your false face, and the nurse to guide me, and she was far too fond of me to be judicious. don't think I was a bad girl, but I was very vain and silly, and rather pleased with the attentions of the young men around me. Out of my many suitors there were two between-whom I could hardly choose. We had all grown up together amongst the rocks and seaweeds of the shore, and it was not until I began to grow to womanhood that I realized that we were not sisters and brothers.

Either of them was a fitting husband for me. I had no aspirations beyond my seaside home, no wish for any society different from that which I found there. We had no kindred; my father had been brought up at a charity school. a nameless, orphan, and my mother had been the only child of a farmer in the north of England, who had been earning her living as a nursery governess in a village where he was a poor curate They had no money, for her father had been unfortunate in his business, and when he died of the worry and trouble of his confused affairs, there was nothing left for his child. They lived very happily, my father and she, notwith standing their poverty; but she died how great my loss was, and the earth you married, and laugh at his own held no woman for my father from that

I was a spoiled child; there was no doubt about that; everybody gave me my own way, and even when the question came of my being married, my father would only tell me to please myself. I hardly knew how to do that, for I was as much in love with Edward Bathurst's handsome face and black eyes, as I was with the sterling qualities of my other suitor, Harry Wylde; more, I think, for he flattered me more, and told me oftener how beautiful I was-a fact which I liked to hear of as much as possible.

I think these two were the only ones who really wished to marry me; there were plenty of others ready to flirt with me, and to pay me compliments; but both these wanted me for a wife. My father favored Harry Wylde, of course; he was the steadier of the two. though not quite so well off as Edward Bathurst, who had a boat of his own to Weston-super-Mare, near which place our village was situated. He was the best match, but Harry was the best man. That was what my father used to say, and, after a time of battling with myself, I came to think so too.

I was a very happy girl on the night when I told Harry I would be his wife, and he said that he was the happiest man on the whole earth. It seemed as if Heaven almost was before us, for Harry was prosperous, and our little home was very neat, and everybody congratulated us-everybody but the man I had refused, and he swore he would be revenged on me, on Harry, on everybody concerned for my rejection of him. It had been fair enough; I had told him, without any beating about the bush, that I had resolved to take Harry; but his was one of the ungenerous natures that can brook no rivals.
"I'll have my revenge, Agnes Bartlett," he said, hissing the words into my ear with a look that made me shudder, "if I wait a lifetime for it, I'll have it when you are least thinking of it, when you deem yourself most secure; no one ever wronged me yet, without paying dearly for it, and I have a heavy debt to settle with

"You have none," I said proudly; "I have done you no wrong that I

"No wrong!" he said, fiercely. "Is to lead a man on till the whole wide a great deal worse off than the peasants and fishermen around us.

sound of your witching voice, and then to tell him to his face that you I had no mother, no one but an old are going to marry another man. Is all this nothing? You shall know what it is to me."

"But I have not done it," I said, horrified and frightened beyond measure, for he seemed in his excitement as if he were going to strike me. "I have never deceived you, not since I knew myself which I liked

"Which she liked best!" he echoed, with a sneer. "It is not by fair means that she has liked him, the mean underhand hound. Think of me on your wedding-day, Agnes Bartlett, for as sure as there is a Heaven above us, I will have my revenge, and it shall be sure and

All the village knew of his madness, for it seemed little else. I had not been very careful, perhaps, but I had not acted dishonorably, and he had no right to threaten and frighten me as he did. My father told me never to mind, and Harry said it was all bluster, and there was no need to take any notice of it. Edward was not a bad fellow at the bottom, and he would soon see how foolish he had been in talking so blusteringly.

"He'll come round before our wedwhen I was too young to understand ding-day, darling," he said, "and see temper." But he than that; he went and was not in Co our wedding-day.

'Cobble End wa seaside village; an but not one which place, but it was in wedding-day; it wa the birds were sing waving, and every glad that Harry an be happy. The bel louder and sweeter heard them, and th sound of the waves the shore and ripp we walked beside

There was no go honeymoon; we we the village close house. Harry was to Bristol and Cli but that was all, a come off just yet, season. Harry pro thing for Edward and wild words, b him decide to be m we should have ot did not like the ide posed to the chanlistening to him.

'He won't interfe sweetheart." So we were ma midst of the fishi

Harry was very by spare the day. But py as if I had tak There was no sign urst on our weddin for a long while, come home he see ent man. He sho and wished us ha was a look on his and I told Harry when he went away Harry laughed a he was glad too w

that Edward was g ble End altogether come home to disp and bid his friends the boat too, and that he was going east coast, some mouth. It was fa me to feel quite could do me no h would forget his a and settle down or in a quiet, Christia I heard of him g farewell in the vi him; I was sitting room with the doo the moonlight on when he came in had started up fr had not been thin was rather frighte he was. I said son ing him success wh he turned upon n glittered with evil 'You ought rath might never hol amonst my fellow I beg your pardor said, with a sneer "Your wish shoul die conveniently so "Why?" I asked,

I strove to appear "Because I shall "What oath?" "The oath to ha you and him for y have sent me into t disappointed man least expect it, m I will have venger for every pang y

I was so frighte knew when he wer found me crying came home presen est to cheer me t what had happen lever mind what id. "Revenge shion now," he igh, "and no or vengeance like did not know m that vas no

e me

ques-

d, my se my-

that,

Edward

black quali-

Wylde;

e more,

tiful I

lear of

ly ones

; there

o flirt

ments;

a wife.

lde, of ne two.

Edward

is own

h place

vas the ne best er used battling

e night

is wife,

nappiest

med as r little erybody

ut the vore he

Harry,

my re-

en fair

out any I had nis was es that

s Bartds into ide me

e for it.

think-ourself

ged me

it, and e with roudly;

that I s heart

m your nothing

le wide

but the nd the ce, and

nat you an. Is

l. know

I said,

beyond

his ex-

o strike

I liked echoed,

y fair

m, the

Agnes

e is a my re-

re and s mad-

I had

but I and he righten

old me l it was need to rd was

m, and he had ir wed-and see

is own

"Is

too.

temper." But he did perhaps better 1 had never seen a theater or read a than that; he went away altogether, and was not in Cobble End at all on our wedding-day.

'Cobble End was the name of our seaside village; an odd name enough, but not one which suggests a pretty place, but it was very pretty, and it never looked prettier than on my wedding-day; it was bright summer, the birds were singing and the trees waving, and everything seemed so glad that Harry and I were going to be happy. The bells seemed to sound louder and sweeter than I had ever heard them, and there was joy in the sound of the waves, as they dashed o: the shore and rippled at our feet as we walked beside them.

There was no going away for our honeymoon; we were going to live in the village close to my father's house. Harry was going to take me to Bristol and Clifton for two days, but that was all, and that could not come off just yet, for it was the busy season. Harry professed to care nothing for Edward Bathurst's threats and wild words, but I think it made him decide to be married sooner than we should have otherwise been. He did not like the idea of my being exposed to the chance of meeting and listening to him.

"He won't interfere with my wife," he said; "he might try annoy my sweetheart."

So we were married right in the midst of the fishing season, when Harry was very busy and could only spare the day. But I was just as happy as if I had taken a holiday then. There was no sign of Edward Bathurst on our wedding day nor and day for a long while, and when he did come home he seemed quite a different man. He shook hands with me and wished us happiness, but there was a look on his face I did not like, and I told Harry I should be glad when he went away again.

Harry laughed at me, but I think he was glad too when it was known that Edward was going to leave Cobble End altogether, that he had only come home to dispose of his property and bid his friends good-bye. It was soon done; the houses were sold and the boat too, and we all understood that he was going to a place on the east coast, somewhere near Yarmouth. It was far enough away for me to feel quite comfortable. He could do me no harm there, and he would forget his anger and jealousy and settle down on his own account, in a quiet, Christian-like fashion.

I heard of him going his rounds of farewell in the village before I saw him; I was sitting alone in our little room with the door open, looking at the moonlight on the sea outside, he was dead, and I was glad to think when he came in suddenly as if he had started up from the earth. I had not been thinking of him, and I was rather frightened till I saw who he was. I said something about wishing him success wherever he was, but he turned upon me with eyes that glittered with evil passions.

You ought rather to wish that I might never hold up my head amonst my fellow men again, Agnes. I beg your pardon, Mrs. Wylde," he said, with a sneer at my new name. "Your wish should be that I might die conveniently soon."

"Why?" I asked, frightened, though I strove to appear at my ease. "Because I shall keep my oath."

"What oath?" "The oath to have my revenge on you and him for your treachery. You have sent me into the world a broken, least expect it, my turn shall come, I will have vengeance full and bitter that I was left in peace. for every pang you have made me was so frightened that I hardly knew when he went away, and Harry found me crying bitterly when he ployment, and it was dark before I came home presently. est to cheer me up when I told him what had happened, and bade me never mind what Edward Bathurst shion now," he declared, with a igh, "and no one went about vow-vengeance like a stage ruffian."

play in those days, but I was roused and comforted by what he said, and I tried to think no more about it. Edward Bathurst went away to his new life, and we saw no more of him. I say we, for I did; I met him one night just outside the village, only for a moment, and he looked me full in the face and said:

"I never forget, Agnes Wylde, re-

No one else had seen him, and Harry always said it was my fancy, that I thought so much about his threat that I had conjured up his image. knew better. It was his hand that touched me, and his voice that spoke in my ear in the loneliness of Weston Lane. I was sure of it then. I knew it without a doubt afterward.

CHAPTER II.

My married life was as happy and uneventful as most lives are in little villages by the seaside, and we had very little communication with the busy world at Cobble End. We had no lodgings to let to fine people, and Weston itself, such a proud, upstart town now, with its grand visitors and wonderful doings, was no more than a village itself.

My father died when I had been married two years, thanking Heaven that his darling child was so well provided for, and three years after that I was a widow myself. I can't bear to think of it, even now; the pang seems to come all over again that I felt when they brought my darling home to me a corpse. He had left me in the morning with a kiss and a blessing and a promise to our boya bright, darling child of four, with his father's eyes and sunny, curly hair-that he would come and give him a ride before I went to bed. It was an accident, caredessness somewhere; Harry was down by the sea, painting a boat, and she lurched over and crushed the life out of him before anyone could lend a hand to save

Everyone was very kind, but what kindness can compensate for such a loss as mine; a loss that left me alone in the world without relation or I don't know how I ever roused myself to try and earn a living for my boy and myself, but Heaven was kind to me, and I did it somehow, though with such a sore heart and sinking spirit as I hope have fallen to the lot of few women in this world.

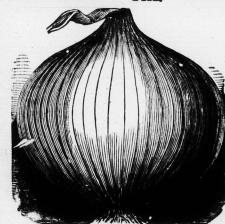

It was my boy that kept me up and spurred me on to do something and for a year I remained in the little village where I had been so happy, and all this time I had never heard of Edward Bathurst. Everybody thought so, too. But I tried to put him out of my thoughts as much as I possibly could, for the very remembrance of him always made me shiver; then I used to laugh at myself for my fears and reason with myself, and say:

"He can have no spite against me now; Harry is dead, and I have suffered enough surely to satisfy even him.

About a year after my great loss we had some sort of news of him. Someone, I don't know who, brought word to Cobble End that he had oined a band of desperados in the Western States of America, and that he was one of the most daring and wicked of the gang, who were said to respect nothing, and to hold life as nothing when they wanted to gain their ends. There was a great deal in the papers about them, but I did disappointed man, and when you not understand nor quite believe all I heard, and went my way, thankful

I had to go into Weston one summer evening with some work. There was a clergyman whose wife was very good to me in the way of emcould get home. I was anxious on ac count of my boy, my little Harry. But he was a fearless child, and the neighbors looked after him for me when id. "Revenge had gone out of I was away. Still it was dark, and I hurried as fast as I could to get home while something of daylight still lasted. There was not a vestige did not know what that meant; of light when I did reach home, and

SEEDS FOR CANADIAN WEST

Our Catalog has been compiled with great care. It will guide you in selecting varieties for the West, and tells how to grow them best.

For PURITY, VITALITY, EARLINESS, QUALITY and PRODUCTIVENESS our Seeds stand to enter any fair test.

YOU ARE SAFE IN BUYING seeds that produced over 100 Prizewinners in 43 classes of vegetables at Canada's Greatest Exhibition that get unsolicited reports from the far Yukon of splendid results-that receive Mr. Larcombe's (Manitoba's expert gardener) words of praise: "Your seeds included the purest and best I have ever seen or grown."

WE FILL YOUR ORDERS CAREFULLY AND QUICKLY GARDEN AND FIELD SEEDS FOR THE WEST GARDEN IMPLEMENTS CYPHERS' INCUBATORS and POULTRY SUPPLIES BEE KEEPERS' SUPPLIES

(CATALOG FREE ON REQUEST)

The STEELE BRIGGS SEED CO. WINNIPEG

The Art of Baking

more than any other, is prized by the housewife. But even the best housewife needs good materials as well as art.

PURITY FLOUR

milled from the choicest Western Canada Hard Wheat by the latest improved processes, makes sweet, wholesome, vitalizing Bread.

Thoroughly Dependable In the Baking

For sale everywhere in the Great Dominion.

WESTERN CANADA FLOUR MILLS CO., Litalted Mills at Winnipeg, Coderich and Brandon

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

OUR NEW OFFER

Wonderful Reduction in Prices.

advantage of our extremely low prices, acturers and dealers everywhere wonder e are able to make these phenomenal oces and furnish the highest grade Stoves nges. Our new catalogue explains all.

Cook. It has a heavy steel body, heavy top, coversand centers, an excellent fire box Burns coal or wood. Has four 8-in, lids.

This big $16.95
full size $16.95
four-hole
New West steel range with steel high closet.
Handsomely nickel plated, just as illustrated.
A most wonderful value less than what your dealer must pay for the ordinary cheaply constructed range. Just the Range for the small family. Has all the advantages of the higher priced range, furnished with reservoir at a small extra charge. Our new stove catalogue tells you all about it and how you can save money by buying your stove and range from us at less than wholesels prices. Sand

BUYS this Handsome
Steel Range AMARVEL, at the price, just as good and better than Ranges sold elsewhere at double OUR PRICE. Our Customers everywhere speak the highest praise for WINGOLD RANGES. A

for WINGOLD RANGES. A strong well made range. Aperfect baker and guaranteed to do the work required of a range, equal to any and last as long, and give perfect satisfaction in every respect.

THIS WINGOLD STEEL RANGE has six 8 inch lids; 18 inch oven, made of 16-gauge cold rolled steel; 15 gallon reservoir; large warming closet and high shelf; top cooking surface 30x34 inches; guaranteed to reach you in perfect order. inches; guaranteed to reach you in perfect order. Shipping weight 400 fbs. Burns wood or coal. A perfect baker—a fuel saver—our Catalogue will show you all sizes—write.

Our new Stove Catalogue tells just what you Our new Stove Catalogue tells just what you want to know. It tells you how to save $5.00 to $40.00 on every purchase; it tells you where you can buy your stoves and ranges for less than what your dealer pays. Remember, we have no agents. We sell direct to consumer only. Every stove guaranteed, and 30 days' free trial given. Mail us your name and address, and say, Send me your new catalogue. Do it now—it's free.

The Wingold Stove Company, Ltd.

DEPT. H. M. 245 Notre Dame Ave., WINNIPEG

no sign of my little darling.

I went through the village like one distracted; but no one had seen him. Everybody seemed to think that he had been with me to Weston, and would hardly believe me when I cried out that he was lost. All the village turned out to look for him, but it was no use; no one had seen him. There was no trace of him, no dropped toy or lost hat or shoe to tell which way he had strayed. Alas! there was only one solution of the mystery to me; he must have gone to the beach and fallen into the water. The tide had come in since I went to away, and all that I should ever see of my child again would be his corpse, even if the sea spared me that.

The neighbors came to be of my opinion. The child loved the water, as all seaside children do, and was happier playing at the very edge of the waves and paddling in the salt foam than anywhere else. No one in was leaving my work more than usu-

ing for one thing—to get away from Cobble End and the memories of the place where I had suffered so much; and the opportunity came; I was offered work in a London house at terms which would keep me. Neathanded needlewomen were in request in those days, and the money was found for a long, tedious journey for we did not travel by rail thenand I went.

I did very well, I think. I have rather lost the recollection of what passed while I worked on in that place, the days were so like one another. There was only one feeling at my heart-a dead weight of sadness, a weary waiting for the time when I should lay down my load of life and clasp my dear ones in my arms once more. It was one dull November night, when everything looked blurred and dim in the yellow fog that "I was bidden to give you this," he said, and put a paper into my hand. Before I could speak to him again he was gone, and I was standing alone in the fog, with the paper in my hand I went home to my poor lodging and lit a candle. The paper was roughly folded, and had no envelope, and there were a few words scrawled on it in a hand that I had once known very well indeed; it was Edward Bathurst's handwriting—a curious angular hand, of which I had a specimen still in a book that had once been a favorite of Harry's and which had borne the friendly inscription before the two lads thought of being rivals. It was the same hand, and it was Edward Bathurst, who had scribbled the words that seemed to make my blood turn chill as I read

"Agnes Wylde, I swore to have my

"He was lying asleep, with the rays of the evening sun slauting across his face."

Cobble End ever thought of danger | ally tired and depressed. There was | him, and mean to keep him and make to their little ones in their play on the sands; no one ever thought of watching or restraining them; they took to the water as naturally as ducks, and were as safe beside it.

But it had been treacherous to me and taken away my boy,, and from that hour loathed the sight of it. He was never found. The current had set straight out to sea, no doubt, and I should never see or know him more till he welcomed me on the other side of the golden gate. I wonder I did not go mad then, but Heaven was all wise and left me my reason, doubtless for some good purpose; but the sorrow of that summer night turned me from a young, hearty woman into a broken-down wreck; streaks of white came into my hair, and my strength seemed to go.

My senses were all numbed and I was stupid with my grief, but I worked on mechanically, only long-a heavy order to be completed by a certain time, and we were all working nearly double time, and no one can keep that up long without feeling the effects of it pretty strongly.

I was hurrying along with bent head and closely shut mouth, for the fog made me cough, when a man suddenly seemed to rise out of the mist in front of me. I have been told since that it was all a delusion, part of the confusion that was even then creeping over me; but I know better-it was a real man, looking something like a sailor in that he was brown and loosely clad, and certainly like a foreigner in that he had rings in his ears and a strange accent on his

"Mistress Wylde?" he said; and startled out of prudence, I answered

"Yes." I said. "What do you want him as great a villain as your treacherous heartlessness has made me. When you hear of his being nanged, as you may, remember me. I suppose I fainted; I don't know; but I came to myself in bed, with the woman who kept the house standing by me. She wasn't a bad sort of woman, but she had her hands full, and she told me that they had sent after me from the place where I had worked and were very angry that I had not gone. I got up and crawled there and told the forewoman my story-all about it, for it did me good to speak, and I thought perhaps someone could help me, suggest something that would give me a clue to where my boy has gone.

She did not speak harshly to me, but she looked puzzled and rather frightened, I thought, and went to the manager. He came and talked to me, and then another gentleman whom I did not whom I have since tor. They questione at me, and finally might see the lette course, why should But I could not fine How or where I die

May, 1907.

They sent me to asked the woman, there had been no that she knew of, seen one in my hand Then they shook the knew that they we was mad, and the th to send me so. Th wards that I broke and accused someo my husband and m so violent that they help to hold and see

I don't know any might have been a told me. I was in a came to myself, wit and pads and straps were not so merciful those days as they saw things in that sane person mad or It seemed a lifet

there; it was many friends to bestir th and get me release and worth my keep dangerous fits so know-I think they ed to me that after that sent me there I conducted woman, purpose in my head seek my boy over necessary. It was said, and of course pains to thwart and it seemed to them they had done so. I was a close pr many little indulg now and then I ca newspaper, but ve were no such indu then as are common had nothing to read and my chance can as if Heaven had Americans came to went through the v them gave me a n reading. It was paper it was, and I might be taken fro news for me. It was a Western of what was going which was then o There was a parage "Red-handed Ned" and I knew when I ruffian who was spo ror and disgust country was my old Bathurst. He was Englishman, but ou inning the will the West, and the else that made my l I read it. The fore letter had not been all true, and I was to revenge the awi "Retribution.-Th oddly in this wo Ned's youngster, as pupil of our old acq hereabouts, is to b row. If he is his so heart a twitch-if h a protege and pupi to think, it may on ing study to see he carries himself unde teresting circumstate to think that the la red-handed one; w never had a wife or has deliberately tra an English lad, to life of crime. The of the young ruffia thing to him, murd it is for a particular! at both combined th forfeit tomorrow. tion is being taken cue by Red-handed we hope that ceremony will only and that we shall of recording before r hand.

g alone y hand

ng and

oughly

e, and vled on known Edward curious

l which ion bef being and it no had med to

I read

ave my ou will I have nd make r treach-

de me.

nanged,

't know; ed, with

he house t a bad

had her that they

he place

ere very
I got up the foreit, for it thought

me, sug-

give me

to me, d rather went to talked to entleman

gone.

whom I did not know then, but whom I have since found was a doctor. They questioned men and stared at me, and finally asked me if they might see the letter. I said yes, of course, why should I keep it a secret? But I could not find it—it was gone. How or where I did not know!

They sent me to my lodgings and asked the woman, but she said no, there had been no letter about me that she knew of, and she had not seen one in my hand when I came in. Then they shook their heads, and I knew that they were saying that I was mad, and the thought of it helped to send me so. They told me after-wards that I broke into wild ravings and accused someone of murdering my husband and my child, and was so violent that they had to send for help to hold and secure me.

I don't know anything about it; it might have been all true that they told me. I was in an asylum when I came to myself, with my hair cut off, and pads and straps all over me. They were not so merciful to mad people in those days as they are now, and I saw things in that place to send any sane person mad on the spot.

It seemed a lifetime that I spent there; it was many years. I/had no friends to bestir themselves for me and get me released. I was useful and worth my keep; they said I had dangerous fits sometimes—I don't know—I think they lied, for it seemed to me that after the first outburst that sent me there I was a quiet, wellconducted woman, with one fixe purpose in my head, to get away, and seek my boy over the wide earth if necessary. It was my mania, they said, and of course they took every pains to thwart and conquer it. and it seemed to them, I daresay, as if they had done so.

I was a close prisoner, but I had many little indulgences inside, and now and then I caught sight of a newspaper, but very seldom; there were no such indulgences permitted then as are common enough now. We had nothing to read except by chance, and my chance came at last. It was as if Heaven had ordered it. Some Americans came to see the house and went through the wards, and one of them gave me a newspaper he was reading. It was a treat, whatever paper it was, and I hid it for fear it might be taken from me. It had news for me.

It was a Western paper, and spoke of what was going on in Michigan, which was then only half settled. There was a paragraph anent one "Red-handed Ned" and his doings, and I knew when I read it that the ruffian who was spoken of with horror and disgust even in that wild country was my old admirer, Edward Bathurst. He was spoken of as an Englishman, but outdoing in ferocity inning the wildest maurauders of the West, and there was something else that made my heart stand still as I read it. The foreign sailor and the letter had not been a dream; it was all true, and I was here unable even to revenge the awful wrong that he had done me. This was what I read:

"Retribution.—Things come round oddly in this world. Red-handed Ned's youngster, as the promising pupil of our old acquaintance is called hereabouts, is to be hanged tomorrow. If he is his son it will give his heart a twitch—if he has one; if only a protege and pupil, as some incline to think, it may only be an interesting study to see how the young one carries himself under the new and interesting circumstances. We incline to think that the lad is no kin to the red-handed one; we believe that he never had a wife or child, and that he has deliberately trained up this boy, an English lad, too, we fancy, to a life of crime. The world is well rid of the young ruffian; theft was nothing to him, murder came easy, and it is for a particularly bungling attempt at both combined that he is to pay the forfeit tomorrow. Plenty of precaution is being taken to prevent a rescue by Red-handed Ned and Co., and we hope that the morning's ceremony will only be a beginning, and that we shall have the pleasure of recording before long that the

WHEN YOU COME TO THE ROOF PUT ON OUR FAMOUS

Lightning has no effect on them. They are absolutely fireproof. Rain and snow—heat and cold—can't rust, crack or warp them. The perfect fitting side lock (exclusively Eastlake) makes the roof absolutely leak-proof, and cost of putting on much less.

OUR GUARANTEE:

We guarantee Eastlake Metallic Shingles to be made of better material, more scientifically and accurately constructed, to be more easily applied, and will last longer than any other Metal Shingle on the market. Our guarantee is absolute. Our Shingles have been made since 1885.

Eastlake metallic Shingles are made either galvanized or painted. They are handsome in design, attractive on the house and last a lifetime. Our cheapest grade will last longer and costs less than the best wooden shingles. Our best Metallic Shingles make as superior . AQUAPROBO a roofing to wooden shingles, tin, slate, etc., as these were to sod roofs. Let us send you the proof. Write us. Complete information free. THE METALLIC ROOFING COMPANY, Limited. MANUFACTURERS WOOD Toronto and SHEETING

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY IN TWO YEARS

By investing in $125 Lots in Grand Trunk Entrance, the property immediately adjoining the shops site of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, at Winnipeg.

It is safe to assume that from 1500 to 3000 men will be employed in these enormous works, this will mean a distinct town of from 3000 to 15000 people.

In addition to the G.T.P. Shops, this district will be a manufacturing centre, as factory sites are already being bought. The three large Railroads are passing close to this property, and switches can easily be run into it.

A SIMILAR PROPOSITION TWO YEARS AGO

When we advised our clients to buy at $125 to $150 the Lots we were placing on the market, adjacent to the C.P.R. Shops site. Those who were so fortunate as to buy them, are selling these same lots now at from $350 to $400 each.

This is the reason for our strong assertion that you will double your money in two years, as we consider Grand Trunk Entrance is if anything even better situated than were our C.P.R. Lots.

Size of Lots, 25x100 to 16 ft, lane, price $125.

Terms, $25 cash, balance $25 every six months, or $10 "" $5 per month.

You are at liberty to choose either plan.

MAIL THIS TO-DAY Mail me maps and full information of your G. T. Entrance property without delay. NAME

P.O. ADDRESS......PROVINCE.....

Stanbridge Realty Co. 247 Notre Dame WINNIPEG

WRITE TO-DAY.

THE BEST MEDIUM FOR ADVERTISERS !! The Western Home Monthly

ed my senses. He h

with the intent of d

down in that cruel n

rade of his had brou

child had won upo

chance touch or son of memory or feeling

his hand and stoppe purpose. For some

him by him, and ther to such schools as l

him a rambling kind bringing him up in his mother was dead

keep from the lad fo

he and his associa

gang of thieves, and to those natures to not cling as it does remarkably free from

ing his association v hanged was one of the man who had be urst's messenger to

beyond the fact that

Harry, and about

there was no rese

them. But they the known to have broug

and reported accord

to life and health,

were sadly put to it the means of living of property in the h

Bathurst died. but t ed blood-stained, an

I was a long time

The young man

The Piano Loved by Musicians

There are pianos, living on their past reputation. There are others that do not enjoy the same reputation in Canada that they are supposed to hold in other lands.

The New Scale Williams is no such piano. It is loved for itself.

The ravishing tone, in all its glorious sweetness, evenness and volume—the sensitive, sympathetic touch—the power and possibilities of this magnificent instrument—make it the delight of the artist, the proudest possession of the home.

The builders of the New Scale Williams make price the last consideration. It is solely a question of superiority at every stage of the

The New Scale Williams Piano

is mechanically and architecturally perfect. Its creation from wood and metal is the work of master hands, directed by the deans of the art of piano building.

It is, beyond question, Canada's finest piano, and one of the world's masterpieces. It is the virtuoso's preference—the singer's greatest assistant—the choice of the teacher—the joy of the amateur.

Fill in the coupon below—take to your local dealer or send to us—and receive, absolutely free, several booklets issued by us—all beautifully illustrated and wonderfully interesting to anyone contemplating the

Our easy payment plan enables practically everyone to buy one of these superb instruments.

THE WILLIAMS PIANO CO. Limited,

Oshawa,

whole gang are in the grip of the

I think the shock must have given my weak brain the impetus it needed; that boy who was hanged was my child, my little Harry; and I would ltave a life for a life—and eye for an eye-they read it us out of the Bible, and if it was right for the men of old time, it was right for me. A plan of escape, for which I had been racking my weary brain for many a long day, seemed to come to me all in a minute, and in a week from the time of my seeing that paragraph, I was outside the asylum and had managed to elude pursuit.

CHAPTER III.

I could not have been mad; no mad woman could ever have carried out so fixed a purpose as mine, and had the patience that was necessary to do what was wanted. I was penniless and friendless, and in danger of being retaken and shut up more closely than before, and yet I managed to elude pursuit and get away across the sea. It was summer time, and I re-solved to lose myself for a little amongst the farm-workers and hoppickers, down in the Kentish valleys, and earn my bread for a time, and some money, too, for future expenses.

I was going across the sea to America, and I was going to kill the man who had robbed me of my son. This was my fixed purpose, that was with me, sleeping and waking, all through the long summer. I was never detected; I was not so mad but that I could hold my tongue, and work with the rest of the people, if not quite so hard, hard enough to pass muster, and earn the money I wanted. I spent nothing except a very few shillings to make some little change in my attire, and I kept to myself, and did not herd with the others when I could possibly avoid it.

When the last hop was gathered, and the season over, I had some money by me, enough to help me on the first stage of my journey. I got to Liverpool, and there I engaged myself as servant to a woman who was going to cross the Atlantic. She was not a good woman, and she could not get any honest servant girl to go with her. I had no character to give, no one to refer anyone to, and no one else would take me; it did not signify much; she was very good to me as far as food and clothes went, and not stingy of money, so that when I landed in New York and bade her good-bye, I had a fresh sup-

Then I had to get West, and that was not so difficult. I made cautious enquiries, but the name of the man I wanted was well enough known. I should have no difficulty in getting to the neighborhood, at least, of Red-handed Ned. He was known; his name was no secret to some people, and I knew without a doubt that it was my old admirer. The story of the boy who had been hanged was not forgotten, and I heard the whole horrible details over and over again till my brain used to reel when I thought of it. My boy! my darling! my Harry's living image! That he should have been stolen from me for such an end as this. I met a man one day who had seen him, and he toll me that such a young ruffian and desperado had never been known even in

He was a fair-headed, slight stripling, he said, looking younger than he was, with a face more like an innocent child's than a boy fiend, which he must have been to commit the crimes for which he was executed. "It must have been born in kim." the man said, in speaking of him. "Even Red-handed Ned-and he is about the worst and most desperate man in the world—could not have taught him what he knew of wickedness in the time he had him; he brought him from Europe after one that lawless part of the States.

of his trips." I heard it-I, his mother, and I did not moan or cry. I was stunned, and could not speak. But after awhile I gathered my senses together enough to ask the man how it was that the man he called Red-handed Ned had never been taken.

"That's the puzzler," he said. "He is as wily as a fox, and somehow manages to be out of everything that other people swing for; but his turn will come some day. He will get his deserts as sure as he is alive this day. If he is alive no one has heard of him lately."

I could not have been mad, or I could not have listened as I did and continued steadfast in my purpose without betraying myself, and I made my way steadily on till I got into the country where the man I wanted was heard of last. He seemed to have disappeared. I found out what I wanted to know by accident. It all seemed accident, but I think Providence helped me for a wise purpose. It I had not gone on, then I should never have known-but I am rambling on, and the story will tell itself in due course.

It was through a woman that I found out where Red-handed Ned was-a woman who thought I was seeking him with some other motive than the real one.

"If I thought you wanted to betray him," she said, looking curiously at me, "I wouldn't tell you, for he has been good to me and my children, though he is a ruffian.'

"I don't want to tell anyone anything about him," I replied, "I shall not tell a living soul that I have found him. I only want to see him for a minute; I have come many thousand miles for a word with him.

She did not suspect me-no one did -and she told me he was very ill, at death's door, hidden away in a little shanty in a town called Austin, about five miles away to the south. She was a native of Michigan, which I had reached by this time, and had been in the neighborhood of Red-handed Ned and his doings for many years. She told me the story I had heard, till my heart seemed turned to stone, of the fair-haired lad who had been so apt a pupil of the desperado, and I thanked her and went my way.

I found the little town of Austin without any difficulty, and the hut I wanted as well. I looked only a quietly dressed woman of the poor classes; no one would have guessed I carried a dagger, and that my purcose was as deadly as ever Jael's was when she went into the tent of Heber, the hermit. He was alone when I reached the shanty where he was lying asleep, with the rays of the evening sun slanting across his face, which was worn and thin, and evidently not long for this world. I knew him-I should have known him anywhere-the man who had courted me as a girl and persecuted me as a woman; and he was there at my mercy. He had done my boy to death-stolen him from me when he was an innocent child, and trained him to such wickedness that the world rejoiced to be rid of him, and not one voice was raised in pity for his youth or sorrow for his death.

Surely Heaven had given him into my hand to revenge that awful tragedy! My hand was uplifted, and in another moment he would have paid the penalty of his crimes, and I should have stained my soul with murder, when my hand was stayed. Harry, my husband—just as I used to see him when we were boy and girl together; before love stepped in to blight our lives-stood before me and wrested the weapon from my hand. I remember a scuffle and a struggle, and hearing the man on the bed call my name. There was a rush of hurrying feet and a confusion of many voices, and then a blank.

It had been spring-time when I entered that little hut with my fell purpose full on me; I had to wait for the melting of the snow and the opening of the foads to pursue my ourney; it was glowing autumn, and the fruit was ripe on the trees when came once more to myself in a clean, comfortable house, with a woman watching by my side. I would have questioned her, but the form of a man took her place, and a gentle voice called me "mother," knew that my boy was alive. I learned the story by degrees; it was all true except the last item: Edward Bathurst was dead before I recoverThe

We often hear th How much should a income expend on th seau?

Now, it is always that a trousseau is an and such a thing as a trousseau, one doe sible; but in my opin cases there should be seau.

The ostentatious d and extravagant exp with them, is one of ing evils of the da gravity of the situat bride and bridegroom of, in the concentrati on clothes, presents, o and entertainment of

More often than no signal for lavish expe justified by the mean the bride; and the co cf debts which can r paid in the long run sach stress, strain, that one would think ashamed to feel she bringing it about. I less selfishness and tion.

The girl who would "I will have no wed eause my family are to make any extra personal outfit. I a vearing clothes that made, and perfectly in life, and I alway comingly, as every do not see why I ar paration of clothes my coming marriage known what it was good, tasteful, servi What I am m importance, and not

Such a girl would

Our Offer to Women Readers

Send us 50 cents and we will mail you the Western Home Monthly for one year and in addition will send you free of charge the Pattern for a practical Apron and Sun Bonnet.

This is an offer that is sure to appeal strongly to women readers, and, while our supply of patterns lasts, Subscribers will be furnished patterns free in the order which their euclosure is received

A DESCRIPTION OF THE

Practical Apron and Sun Bonnet

Now that the warm days are here and the glorious sunshine is finding its way to every nook and corner, the housewife finds more or less needing her care out of finds more or less needing her care out of doors and an apron and sun bonnet which will be just the thing for wearing on such occasions are shown. The apron is very simple, becoming and practicable, the yoke band serving as support for the full skirt portion and little labor being needed for its making or tubbing. The sun bonnet is excellent because of the same characteristics the least expressions. characteristics, the least experienced being able to fashion it. Percale, madras or gingham may serve as material, of which 5½ yards 36 inches wide are needed

6879-Sizes, 32, 36, 40 inches bust measure,

Something every woman needs. Send 50 cents-it will pay your subscription to the Western Home Monthly for one year, and will also entitle you to a Pattern and instructions how to make, free, a practical Apron and Sun Bonnet

A Practical Apron and Sun Bonnet.

USE THIS BLANK IN REMITTING.

Address-THE WESTERN HOME MONTHLY, WINNIPEG, MAN.

Enclosed please find Fifty Cents to pay for Subscription to the Weetern Home Monthly for one year, to include premium Pattern, a practical Apron how that his will alive

has or I

and was nave

at I

all

OVI-

ose.

bluc

mb-

tself

Ned

was tive

trav

v at has ren,

any-hall

und

sand

did

I. at ittle

bout

She

had been nded ears.

eard, one,

been and istin

ut I

y a poor

ssed

pur-

was lone

e he

the face,

evi-

him

rted

as a my

1 he

the

and for into wful

and nave

id I with ised

and

d in me

my id a

the rush

ı of fell

the

my

and hen

in a

WO-

ould

n of entle

arn-

s all ward

ver-

of

with the intent of doing what he set down in that cruel note which a comrade of his had brought me. But the child had won upon him by some chance touch or some hidden chord of memory or feeling, and he had held his hand and stopped in his awful purpose. For some time he had kept him by him, and then he had sent him to such schools as he could, getting him a rambling kind of education and bringing him up in the belief that his mother was dead. He managed to keep from the lad for some time that he and his associates were only a gang of thieves, and Harry's was one to those natures to which evil does not cling as it does to some; he remarkably free from vice, considering his association with lawless men. The young man who had been hanged was one of them-a son of the man who had been Edward Bathurst's messenger to me in London; beyond the fact that he was fair, like Harry, and about the same build, there was no resemblance between But they thought it was the child that Red-handed Ned was known to have brought from Europe, and reported accordingly.

I was a long time struggling back to life and health, and Harry and I were sadly put to it now and then for the means of living; there was a lot ed blood-stained, and except a little am eighty years old and more.

ed my senses. He had stolen my boy | money that my boy had when his protecter had died, he had nothing; but we found friends, and Harry was willing to work and so was I, and we toiled and strove early and late till we made ourselves a place in the world somehow, and came back to England, where we were at home. and presently my boy married a good, industrious girl, and I had pretty grandchildren about me, for their home was mine, and everything that Harry did seemed to prosper and turn to money in his hands.

I am very glad—now that he is a great man, and there is a chance of him being Lord Mayor of London, and dining with the Prince of Wales and all that sort of thing—that he and Mary have no relations; they stand quite alone except for me and their children, and no one can shame them by any allusion to an uncom-fortable past, or tell my Harry that he was once the adopted son of a desperate thief and murderer. No one knows it except me, and though I am talkative enough amongst the children and to him and Mary, there is not much fear of my telling it out of doors, though he does laugh at me and say that his old mother can't keep a secret, because I was so proud of the satin gown he gave me the other day that I told all about it, of property in the hut where Edward | and what it cost, to the people next Bathurst died, but to me it all seem- door. Old people will talk, and I

The Wedding Trousseau.

By WILHELMINA LOGAN.

How much should a family of ordinary income expend on the daughter's trousseau?

Now, it is always taken for granted that a trousseau is an absolute necessity, and such a thing as a wedding without a trousseau, one does not imagine possible; but in my opinion, in many, many cases there should be no wedding trous-

The ostentatious display at weddings and extravagant expenditure connected with them, is one of the great and crying evils of the day; and the whole have to go to the altar overwrought, gravity of the situation in which a overdone, tired out, jaded, irritable, debride and bridegroom stand, is lost sight magnetised; at her worst physically and of, in the concentration of the attention | mentally, instead of at her best? on clothes, presents, decoration of rooms and entertainment of company and such things.

More often than not, a wedding is the signal for lavish expenditure, in no wise justified by the means of the family of the bride; and the consequent laying up of debts which can never be paid; or if paid in the long run, done so through sech stress, strain, struggle and worry that one would think any girl might be ashamed to feel she had had a hand in bringing it about. It looks like heartless selfishness and want of consideratien.

The girl who would step out and say, "I will have no wedding trousseau, beeause my family are not in a position to make any extra expenditure on my personal outfit. I am in the habit of vearing clothes that are neatly and nice made, and perfectly befitting my walk in life, and I always seek to dress becomingly, as every woman should. I do not see why I am to make the preparation of clothes the main object of my coming marriage, as if I had never and tendencies, and one in heart and known what it was to be the wearer of mind, that the mere legal ceremony is good, tasteful, serviceable clothing beportance, and not what my clothes

We often hear the question asked: able and sensible one, and worthy the regard of all right-minded persons, and the love and esteem of her family.

It is certainly right and fitting for a woman to look her best at her wedding, but then, is it not equally so, that she should at all times and all occasions?

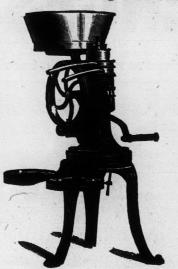

When a babe is born, we swathe it in garments that destroy the symmetry of its limbs. When a bride goes to the altar, we weight her with dress and jewelry until she becomes a walking show for the public. Why is the dress of the bride of the first importance, and the well-being of the bride of only secondary, or none at all? Why does she

The consultation over clothes, the planning, fixing, arranging, shopping, sewing, the hurry, bustle, stir and excitement, the worry and work to get everything all ready and complete by a certain date, leave her more of a mental and physical wreck by the wedding day than anything else.

She is completely worn out, and only keeps up, as one does under undue strain, in some wonderful way. Why do we think so much more of a woman's dress and the appearance she makes than we do of the woman herself? Why lo we centre our attention on what she wears, instead of on what she is? Surely the chief object of concern at the time of marriage ought not to be dress, parade, pomp and show, but the real good of the couple themselves.

To see to it that they are in the best of health and spirits; that they go fresh and fit to the ceremony that opens the door to married life; not tired and worn out and done to death. That the purpose which marriage conserves and the bearing it will have upon the persons undertaking it is not lost sight of; that it be a joining together of two persons so truly mated by similarity of tastes not the binding tie, but only the outside What I am myself is of the first symbol of the inward binding that is free, untrammeled and unrestrained, which no divorce court shall ever, or Such a girl would surely be an admir- could ever be appealed to, to sever.

NATIONAL SEPARATORS

MAKE MORE MONEY. SAVE MORE MONEY. SAVE MORE TIME and LABOR Than any other MACHINE on ____ THE FARM. ____

National Cream Separators have only two pieces in the bowl to wash.

It turns easy on account of the simplicity of construction, and ball bearings at all speed points.

It is a perfect skimmer, and made to

If interested write for Catalogue and Prices

Raymond Mig. Co. LTD. 324-6 Smith St. Winnipeg WESTERN DISTRIBUTORS

Calgary

Prince Albert Vancouver Manufacturers of the Celebrated Raymond Sewing Machines

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000

REST, - $5,000,000

& B. WALKER, President A. H. IRELAND, Superintendent of Branches

ALEX. LAIRD, General Manager

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-EIGHT BRANCHES IN CANADA, THE UNITED STATES • AND ENGLAND

BRANCHES IN THE CANADIAN WEST:

BRANCHES IN

BAWLF, Alta.

A. E. D. Band, Manager

BRANDON, Man.

A. Maybee, Manager

CALGARY, Alta.

C. W. Rowley, Manager

CANORA, Sask.

G. G. Bourne, Manager

CARMAN, Man.

D. McLennan, Manager

CLARESHOLM, Alta.

James Cameron, Manager

CROSSFIELD, Alta.

James Cameron, Manager

DAUPHIN, Man.

D. H. Downie, Manager

EDMONTON, Alta.

T. M. Turnbull, Manager

ELGIN, Man.

H. B. Haines, Manager

ELKHORN, Man.

R. H. Brotherhood, Manages

GLEICHEN, Alta.

F. J. Turner, Manager

GRANDVIEW, Man.

A. B. Stennett, Manager

HIGH RIVER, Alta.

C. R. W. Pooley, Manager

HUMBOLDT, Sask.

F. C. Wright, Manager

INNISFAIL, Alta. HUMBOLDT, Sask.
F. C. Wright, Manager
INNISFAIL, Alta.
H. L. Edmonds, Manager
INNISFREE, Alta.
W. P. Perkins, Manager
KAMSACK, Sask.
G. G. Bourne, Manager
KINISTINO, Sask.
E. R. Jarvis, Manager
LANGHAM, Sask.
W. J. Savage, Manager
LASHBURN, Sask.
S. M. Daly, Manager
LEAVINGS, Alta
Thos. Andrews, Manager
LETHBRIDGE, Alta.
C. G. K. Nourse, Manager
LETHBRIDGE, Alta.
C. G. K. Nourse, Manager
LLOYDMINSTER, Sask.
S. M. Daly, Manager
MACLEOD, Alta.
H. M. Stewart, Manager MEDICINE HAT, Alta.
F. L. Crawford, Manager MEDICINE HAT, Sask.
E. R. Jarvis, Manager

MOOSE JAW, Sask.

E. M. Saunders, Manager
MOOSOMIN, Sask.
D. I. Forbes, Manager
NANTON, Alta.
C. F. A. Gregory, Manager
NEPAWA, Man.
C. Ballard, Manager
NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask.
A. S. Houston, Manager
NORWOOD, Man.
W. H. Switzer, Manager
PINCHER CREEK, Alta.
W. G. Lynch, Manager
PONOKA, Alta.
E. A. Fox, Manager
PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man.
A. L. Hamilton, Manager
PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.
C. D. Nevill, Manager
RADISSON, Sask.
C. Dickinson, Manager
REGINA, Sask.
H. F. Mytton, Manager
REGINA, Sask.
W. P. Kirkpatrick, Manager
STAVELY, Sask.
Thos. Andrews, Manager
STONY PLAIN, Alta.
C. S. Freeman, Manager
STRATHCONA, Alta. C. S. Freeman, Manager STRATHCONA, Alta. G. W. Marriott, Manager SWAN RIVER, Man. SWAN RIVER, Man.
F. J. Macoun, Manager
TREHERNE, Man.
J. S. Munro, Manager VEGREVILLE, Alta.
W. P. Perkins, Manager
VERMILION, Alta.
A. C. Brown, Manager
VONDA, Sask.
J. C. Kennedy, Manager
WADENA, Sask.
W. E. D. Farmer, Manager
WATSON, Sask.
A. L. Jensen, Manager
WETASKIWIN, Alta.
H. I. Millar, Manager
WEYBURN, Sask.
J. D. Bell, Manager
WINNIPEG, Man.
John Aird, Manager
YELLOWGRASS, Sask.
C. Hensley, Manager

FARMERS' BANKING

Every facility for farmers banking. Notes discounted, sales notes collected.

Deposits may be made and withdrawn by mail. Every attention paid to out-of-town accounts.

A SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT AT EVERY BRANCH 76 Deposits of $1 and upwards received and interest allowed at current rates

MUSIC LESSONS FREE at your home. For a limited time we will give free for advertising purposes, 96 music less-ons for beginners or advanced pupils on either Piano, opstage and the music you use, which is small). We teach by mail only and guarantee success. Established seven years. Hundreds write: "Wish I had heard of your school before." Write to-day for booklet, testimonials and free tuition blank, Address: U. S. SCHOOL OF MUSIC, Box 63D, 19 Union Rg. N. Y. Box 63D, 19 Union Sq., N. Y.

THE PAGE WIRE FENCE COMPANY, LIMITED.

Walkerville, Toronto. Montreal, St. John, Winnipeg

HAIL INSURANCE.

If you are interested in Hail Insurance ask our Agent for rates and other particulars. He can tell you what the protection will cost this season. Others can only tell you what it cost last year, and guess at what it may cost this year.

The two Royal Commissions appointed to investigate Hail Insurance in Manitoba (1899 and 1906) had absolutely no complaints against Companies that insure under yearly contracts. Why? They hold their business by treating their patrons right, not by a term contract that it is almost impossible to have cancelled no matter how unsatisfactory Smell the new-mown hay!

Ah, there's fragrance for you eh? Yes, yes—sweeter than all your roses. Take a summer's morning like this, with the birds singing, and the sun-warm on the stubble, and a little gamesome wind coaxing and wheedling you with whiffs of the harvest—why, boy, I can smell the hay I forked fifty years ago! I can feel the sun rising hotter in the sky, and the meadow simmering, and away off—away off by the apple orchard behind the house-I can see a little pink blur. First it bobs up and stops a minute-I rather think its on the wall; and then drops down a bit, and comes meandering through the pasture and stops again, and bends down—I rather think it is picking flowers now, one of those pink wild roses to match itself; and then comes wandering through the bars. Boy, I rather think that was your grandmother, fifty years ago, coming out to us with the noon jug in her hands, all cool and dripping from the well. Lord Harry, but it was good; and did you yesterday.

as long as I her the time I took her buggy riding. Before we were married—that was fifty years ago—yet I remember just as though it was yesterday.

"It is pretty bright, Bertram," says ever notice—ever notice how pretty pink looks in a meadow? Ever notice pink flowers growing anywhere? Didn't you want to—kind of pick 'em, somehow? Eh?

Fifty years ago that was-fifty years, yet I remember. I remember other things—things that I thought I had forgotten. When you're an old man like me you may remember this very morning, and if you do like as not you'll recollect some little thing—that empty flower-pot, or the way the rosebush bends toward the pear tree, or how the sun's all yellow speckles on the garden path.

KLELESEELESEELESEELESEELESEELESEE

Why, things come back to me-now, there's your grandmother. Dark, your grandmother was, dark-haired and dark-eyed—big brown eyes—and there was always something very taking about her face even when she was a girl-I don't know-a kind of shining as though she was pleased about some-I guess she was most of the time. If it wasn't a lovely day, or a lovely flower, something was lovely. But she had a spirit—yes, yes—and she could get her own way, too, your grandmother could. I'll never forget you squint so?" says I "Do I squint?" says she innocent as But she had a spirit—yes, yes—and she "We'd better have the top up. Bertram," says she as I helped her in.

"Oh, no," says I. "It's too fine to have the top up."

"Well," says she, "I think it would be better up."

"On such a fine day as his?" says I.

"On such a fine day as first says I.
"On such a cool, lovely afternoon—
the top up?" says I.

"Well——" says she.
"Oh," says I, "let's have the fresh air and the sun all about us," says I.

"Very well, Bertram," says she." It is lovely isn't it " says she.

"Yes, yes," says I; "much too fine for the top up," says I, gathering the reins in my hand.

We drove off leisurely down the country road. It was beautiful, just beautiful around where we lived-all meadows and apple trees "Did you ever see so many blossoms?"says she.

"No," says I; "not since last spring," savs I.

And she laughed and put back her air, and then I noticed— "Why do

she. "Whoa, Peggy!" says I.

"What are you going to do?" says

she.
"You take the reins, Kate," says I. "I'll just put the top up to shade your

'Oh, never mind," says she.

"It's no trouble at all," says I.
"Bu it's so cool and lovely," says she; "oh, much too fine for the top up," says she.
"I know, but your eyes," says I raising the top. "Thank you, Bertram," says she, sweet as honey. "Don't mention it. Get up, Peggy," says I.

And then, when we'd driven on a

"The top," says I, looking at her out of the corners of my eyes-for, mind you, she'd never been known to squint in the sun before, and her hat was brimmed—"the top's up, Katie, dear," says I.

And nice and shady it is, too; isn't it Bertram?" says she, a-looking away off at the apple blossoms.

'Sure," says I. Dear, dear—why, I can hear your grandmother now, her little mouth all puckered up and her eyes shining.

And nice and shady it is, too; isn't it, Bertram?" says she, just like that. "Sure," says I.

Strange-strangest thing, now, but your grandmother never seems to remember that buggy ride, or anything about it at all!

That was a great year, boy, more

LOSSES PAID IN FULL

286 Loss Claims Paid by this Company Last Year Amounting to $51,485.47

$2,700,000 INSURANCE NOW IN FORCE

Rate of Assessment Last Year, 14 Cents per Acre Total losses paid for years 1905 and 1906, $144,000.00 Average rate of Assessment last 4 years 15% cts. per acre. Over 3,750 farmers now insured with us. For further particulars write the Company.

Assets, $121.000

The Manitoba Farmers' Mutual Hail Insurance Company

W. C. GRAHAM, Manager - Box 513, WINNIPEG

May, 1907.

The Discomforts

and requires no prep Steam cooked and dr to fine shreds so may easily assimila

Breakfast on B

Windsor

is the favourite among It readily dissolve butter uniform!

If you're a stranger to this pure, dry perfect Salt, ask your grocer for a bag.

That bag will make you want Windsor Salt all th time. Get it to-day.

ways than one-that y were married. That w many flowers grew. T years-more birds and other times. Birds! V woods were speckled and sing-Lord Harry piping, and trilling, and carrying on, and names you you ever h and evening, and all fairies playing flutes. That was the year Shakespeare's plays, soliloquies. Boys like a thing. Dear, dear—on let for a lot of sapling in the middle of the wo leaf stirred! For a soli all for being an actoryou understand—except up my mind to be so long ago. That was me-that something el see how I could be a p your grandmother.

Sounds strange, but

been writing verses for County Register." I them. They kind of la write poetry. Only mother knew, and it me take all my best ve a bundle of them and s great man. He was a and as long as he lived the young ones. He put away up stairs, ar maybe you'll read what your grandfather. My when that letter came. for a week afterward. my way. I made up n then and there I would thought it all out while the fields and drove ho nights before I w I was going to write a I was going bout ordinary r when they wor brought up 1 they came hom d with them,

when they lo working and sn

and

Were says I s she

Peg-

on a

at her s-for,

wn to er hat

Katie,

; isn't

ooking ith all

e that.

w, but ems to more

ıs.

The Discomforts of House Cleaning will be greatly reduced IF YOU EAT and requires no preparation. Steam cooked and drawn into fine shreds so stomach may easily assimilate it.

> Breakfast on BISCUIT. Try TRISCUIT for Luncheon. All Grocers-13c. a carton; 2 for 25o.

Windsor Salt

is the favourite among butter-makers. It readily dissolves, salting the butter uniformly - giving a delicious tastiness.

Less of Windsor Salt goes If farther - and does you're a better work than stranger to more of any this pure, dry other salt. perfect Salt, ask your grocer for a bag.

That bag will make you want Windsor Salt all the time. Get it to-day.

this Adv. mark the course you like and mail to us.

CLIP

Book-keeping Shorthand Advertising Com. Drawing Short Stories Mat. Subjects

Sign above, put in envelope and mail to SHAW CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL 393 Yonge St., Toronto.

ways than one-that year before we | same. And I was going to write how were married. That was the year so they grew old and came to sit like many flowers grew. There are such years-more birds and flowers than other times. Birds! Why, boy, the woods were speckled with thrushes; and sing—Lord Harry, of all the piping, and trilling, and whirring, and carrying on, and calling sweet names you you ever heard, morning and evening, and all like a lot of fairies playing flutes. That was the year I first read Shakespeare's plays, and mouthed soliloquies. Boys like that sort of a thing. Dear, dear—once I did Hamlet for a lot of saplings by a brook, in the middle of the woods, and not a leaf stirred! For a solid week I was they'd never noticed how beautiful all for being an actor—a great actor. the simple things were before. Oh, you understand—except that I d made I got quite foolish over those plans up my mind to be something else of mine. I even dreamed people long ago. That was what troubled might cry a little, more or less, over me-that something else. I didn't my verses, and cut them out and read see how I could be a poet and marry your grandmother.

Sounds strange, but it isn't. I'd been writing verses for the "Beacon County Register." I didn't sign them. They kind of laugh when you write poetry. Only your grandmother knew, and it was she made me take all my best verses and make a bundle of them and send them to a great man. He was a poet himself, yesterday, and tomorrow as to-day. and as long as he lived he was kind to the young ones. He wrote back a long letter to me. I've got it still, put away up stairs, and some day maybe you'll read what he said about your grandfather. My, I remember when that letter came. I didn't walk for a week afterward. I just winged my way. I made up my mind right then and there I would be a poet: thought it all out while I worked in the fields and drove home the cows, and nights before I went to sleep. I was going to write about common I was going to make up about ordinary men, and how when they worked and marand and Were me, here on the sunny side of a garden, talking to their grandsons, or pottering around the flower-beds.

All those things I was going to write about because men would know what I meant, and maybe it would help them to bear their burdens and go their ways. And I was going to put it all down in plain old English words without much Latin in themwords people used every day and would feel at home with, but all set down so sweetlylike, one after the other, in even lines, that men would stop and look about them and wonder them to each other, and paste them in scrapbooks.

Well, Ltalked it all over with your grandmother, and she said I was right; that only now and then some one like Burns came along and saw the beauty in common things; and that when a man did people loved him and went on loving 'him, because what he said was as true to-day as

But your grandmother said this: "Bertram," she said, "you ought not to marry for a long time. You ought to just keep your life simple. and read and think. You ought to have time to talk to men and watch them, and then wander around where everything's quiet, just making out what it all means. You ought to have time, Bertram—time to do these things without worrying about how you are going to support me and the children. "We should be awfully poor, Bertram," said she, "and I shouldn't mind that, but you would," said she. "Seeing me pinching and saving, Berd brought up little children; tram, would make you suffer-a thouthey came home nights tired sand times more than other men, beed with them, and how they when they lost them, but working and smiling just the struggled all his life long with poetry.

Piano Perfection

It is a matter of special pride with us to receive, as we so frequently do, mail orders. We exercise every effort in such cases to, if possible, surpass the customers' selection. The many thankful acknowledgements we have received, show plainly our effort has not been wasted, but successful.

THE MISSION OF THE MORRIS PIANO

is to bring into the home an atmosphere of refinement—the refinement that finds expression in the beautiful. The "Morris" Piano's beauty of case design is in perfect harmony with its rare and rich quality of tone.

Write for illustrated catalogue.

THE MORRIS PIANO CO.

228 PORTAGE AVENUE

WINNIPEG

S. L. BARROWCLOUGH, Western Manager.

BIG REDUCTIONS IN NEW AND SECOND-

THE following well known Pianos most of which have been taken in trade on Mason & Risch grands and the Pianola Piano will be sold in the next 30 days at big reductions. Many of these goods are practically new, and all are in first class condition. Easy terms of payments can be arranged if desired.

Nordheimer upright Piano, good as new, regular price $500, sale price $375. I Karn Piano, only used 6 months, regular price $400, sale price $268. I Mason & Risch, rented 3 months, regular price $500, sale price $375. | Mason & Risch, style 44, used 6 months, regular price $475, sale price $365. I Harmonic Plano, used only 2 months, regular price $375, sale price $246. I Brewster Plano, shop worn, regular price $400, sale price $245. I Columbus Plano, baby upright, regular price $175, sale price $130. Also a large number of second hand organs all in first class shape will be sold at about one half their real value. shape will be sold at about one half their real value.

Descriptions and particulars sent on application, and railroad fares paid within a radius of 50 miles and return to any one buying any of the above Pianos.

MASON & RISCH,

DEPT. W.H.M. 356 MAIN ST., WINNIPEG

Phone 480

Branches at Brandon, REGINA, CALGARY and EDMONTON.

"Autonola" Player Pianos and Bell Organs

CANADA'S BEST AND MOST POPULAR INSTRUMENTS

SOLD AND USED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

For Free Catalogue, No. 68, write to either The Winnipeg Piano and Organ Co., 295 Portage Ave., Winnipeg

Saskatchewan Piano and Organ Co., Saskatoon and Regina B. E. Foster, Music Store, Brandon

OR TO THE MAKERS

The Mell Pianol

And Organ Co., Ltd.

- ONTARIO GUELPH

No More Drudgery
Housework Made Easy With
The Chatham Kitchen Cabinet UST think what a saving in time and labor you number of steps you save in a day—the ease with which you can prepare a meal! With the Chatham every ingredient and every cooking utensil you need in the preparation of a meal is right within reach of your hand and there is no constant running back and forth from kitchen to pantry for first one article and then another.

The Chatham Kitchen Cabinet enables you to get a meal—stir up a cake—or mix a batch of bread in just half the time—with half the labor that it takes you in the old way—running back to the pantry every minute or two for first, the salt—then the spice—next the flavoring—and so on. Now you can get this wonderful work-saver at a very reasonable price on my

Liberal Time Payment Plan

So if it isn't convenient for you to pay all cash, you can pay for the Cabinet on such easy terms that you'll never miss the money—while all the time you can be enjoying its benefits. And my Kitchen Cabinet is not only useful—but ornamental as well—and any woman will be proud to own one. It not only simplifies cooking—but it keeps your kitchen always neat and tidy and does away with all the clutter of cooking and baking.

If you are thinking of replenishing your home furnishings you cannot invest in anything that will give as much genuine help in your housekeeping as the Chatham Kitchen Cabinet—and once you use it you'll find the regular weekly—monthly—and yearly house-cleaning is no longer a bugbear. Your kitchen and pantry take the biggest part of your time—and make the hardest part of your housework—but if you'll use my Cabinet you can cut out all the kitchen drudgery and use the extra time for pleasanter work or recreation.

Now you should get my FREE KITCHEN CABINET CATALOGUE at once—and you can get it, postpaid, by writing a postal. Send for it today without fall. It's a handsome book that shows beautiful photographs of the tiful photographs of the Chatham Kitchen Cabinet and gives my prices and terms. It's free for the asking. Write for it today. Address me personally.

MANSON CAMPBELL The Manson

Campbell Company, Dept. 000 Chatham,

Sold Direct From Factory On Time-ON TRIALand Fully Guaranteed.

For Western Canada, write my Company at Brandon, Man., Moose Jaw,

I tell you they don't pay men to be poets, Bertram. No, they just let you pour out your soul like water, all free and sparkling as the brook's, and when they're thirsty they'll lap it up, and when they're filled they'll for they when they're filled they'll have they are the are they are the they are forget you. Why Bertram," said she -and I can see now her eyes filling and her voice getting braver and braver—"I'd wait years, years for you, Bertram, if I ever knew I was helping your poetry."

And she would have waited, boy.

She would have waited, but Lord Harry, I wouldn't have it that way.

"No, Kate," said I, "my little girl.
You are wrong, Kate. You can help me most by marrying me. Then you'll always be near to cheer me. Why, Katie," said I, "with you for a wife every day will be a poem, and all I'll have to do will be to write it down to keep the wolf away."

Well, she put her arms around my neck, your grandmother did, and hid her face in my shoulder, and cried and cried. Oh, she would have waited, boy—yes, yes—for she meant every word she said. But she was glad I wouldn't have it so—glad that I loved her better than my poetry. For she was a woman, boy, and now and then they talk philosophy as true as any ever spoken, but it's too cold a thing for their warm hearts, and sooner or later it melts there and runs away in the red blood you see in their cheeks and feel throbbing in their bosoms when you hold them in your arms. So we were married.

You fix up your little library—all the books you loved when a boy, the poor ones with the good—all the books they gave you for Christmas and birthdays, with "To Bertram from His Loving Parents," and "To Portram from Kate" on the fly Bertram from Kate," on the flyleaves; fix them all up and say, "Now I'll be a poet."

And some morning you come downstairs, and the sunlight falls through the windows, and the berries look red and beautiful on the breakfast-table, and the coffee smells likewell, good as tobacco does when you've run out of it and haven't smoked for an age. You come down like that, and you say, "Lord, Kate—" Well, no; you don't say that, or you try not to, because she doesn't like that sort of thing. But you sav:

"What a glorious old morning!"

Or something Christian like that. And after breakfast you sit down, and there's something warm breaking in your heart, and the words drip sweet as honey from your pen till, by the Lord Harry, before you know it, bov. it's there-something you'd never dreamed was in you when you sat down to write, and something that makes people cry and write to you and tell you how they've wanted to say the same thing all along, but couldn't, because they didn't know And it all comes so easy to you, like a little, trickling rill, that you think you can do it every day. But you can't, boy!

Day after day may be as sunny, and the breakfast berries may be as red, and Kate as sweet, but somehow or other never a singing line comes to you. It's your soul that's wrong, boy—it's not the weather; and the soul's a powerfully curious thing just an ordinary soul, let alone a poet's, which is the strangest, most unreliable, will-o'-the-wispest soul of

And so you sit there, day by day, and the well in your heart get lower and lower, and you start up nights in your sleep and turn on your pillow, this way and that, and visions come to you of Kate hungry, of her gown tattered, of cold faces turned to her in the village street. And there in the dark of night, like snowballs little boys roll to build their forts with, your troubles grow, and you sink into anxious dreams. In the morning you're cross to her. You sit savagely at your desk. Life all seems out of kilter, and the gloom of it settles upon you, black as a funeral pall.

But the days are slipping by. The purse-you must write somehow; and if you do-your fingers tense, your soul cold as stone—they send things back to you.

But if you're a genius you'll not mind her so much. You'll mind your lines, and love the goddess in your soul better even than the woman by your side.

"Choose!" says the goddess, somewhere from her awful throne.

"Choose!" echo those cherub moods of yours. You can hear the whirring, you can catch the gleam of their wings. They are there-no, here!-

they are gone!

"Choose!" says the goddess, and her voice is icy now, and you feel upon you the jealous glitter of your eyes; but you remember what music that voice can be; you remember how meltingly she can beam upon you when she will, and how you have loved and wooed her with all your youth, and how you have dreamed of her kindness and her smiles.

"Choose!" she says. "Choose, Bertram Gleam!"

* * * *

And the woman beside you says

nothing at all! Well, boy, I chose! I chose my Kate. I chose your grandmother. What is she now? A little bit of an old woman with faded hair. She's bent. She's feeble. Her voice is but a quaver of that fresh, full-throated song I used to hear-I hear still when she speaks to me.
The goddess, boy, is still young

But I chose my love, and I'm not sorry; and every day the goddess has called to me, and every day I have chosen my love again.

Many's the time I have thought of the verses I was to write, and the hearts that were to beat with mine; and there were years there in my life's prime when I suffered pangs, and said to myself, over and over in my bitterness: "You are a failure, Bertram Gleam."

Over and over my heart has leaped when the goddess called to me, and would have seized my pen gainbut toil had wearied me.

Over and over I heard another voice: "What hast thou done with the talents I gave thee, Bertram Gleam?"

What could I say to that? Why, I said this, grandson. I just cleared my throat and said "Lord," said I, "Lord, Thou knowest I set out to do great things; that it was there in my young heart to do them for Thy glory and my fellowmenbut some one had to help Kate. And the great things—the great things, Lord, smouldering in my bosomsomehow they never seemed to have much to do with getting bread for her and the children. Amen."

That's what I said—oh, not at first, but after a while, when I had thought it all out and was kind of reconciled. And the Lord-I guess He took the same view of it, for my conscience hasn't troubled me any

I chose my love, and she's given her life to me, just given it without a murmur-and thrice she's risked it for me, to bring a chirping to our

I get to thinking sometimes, here in the sun, these last mornings, how there's always been something in Kate's face I could never quite make out-something I never just liked to ask about—a kind of innerness that doesn't seem to belong to me. I wonder if it can be possible she, too, has given up something-some dream or other, some kind of lost love like Maybe that's what love is. mostly down here-just giving up for somebody, something you've kind of hugged and cherished in your heart when you're young.

Catarrh of the nose and throat should lead you to at least ask us for a free trial box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. Nothing so surely proves merit as a real, actual test—and Dr. Shoop,—to prove this, earnestly desires that we let you make that test. This creamy. Snow White, healing balm soothes the throat and nostrils, and quickly purifies a foul or feverish breath. Call and investigate.

Capital Su $260,0

Par Value of

T. A. Irvine, Esq.

W. W. Fry

GEN The Winnipeg-Coized to open up and plore and prospect for parts of the Province and properties; developments of the properties; developments of the properties of the properti

R. H. Hay

It is not intended discoveries are being been made up the M mispickel, gold and
A wide and promisin
It is the intention stake out claims for discovered.

subsidiary mining co

Competent minit ties and superintend p ofits will be made ties to the point when on a moderate outlay

100,000

THE RIGHT

of Cobalt Distri are well-known heavy stock-ho tinctively Weste Fortunes have I disposing of mi pany's stock ha $92.00 per sha Prospecting an large profits wit venture?

To Messrs. Fryer Financial Ag 315 Kenned

special price of 25

Write, ph

Phone

7, 1967.

ss, someub moods

whirring, of their o, here!—

dess, and you feel r of your hat music mber how upon you you have all your reamed of

"Choose,

you says chose my ndmother.

1-throated hear still ill young d I'm not oddess has ay I have hought of e, and the with mine; ere in my ed pangs, nd over in a failure, has leaped o me, and en gain—

d another done with Bertram at?

on. I just id "Lord," west I set hat it was o do them llowmen-Kate. And at things, bosomed to have bread for oh, not at hen I had as kind of d-I guess it, for my she's given it without 's risked it ing to our imes, here nings, how nething in quite make st liked to erness that me. I wonie, too, has t love like at love is. giving up you've kind d in your hroat should s for a free atarrh Cure. merit as a Shoop, to se that we his creamy, soothes the ckly purifies Call and in-

The Winnipeg-Cobalt Prospecting Development Company, Limited

Capital Subscribed $260,000

subsidiary mining companies.

Authorized Capital, $500,000

Treasury Stock $240,000

Par Value of Shares, $1.00.

Shares Non-Assessable. - -

No Personal Liability.

OFFICERS

PRESIDENT: C. A. Millican, Esq., Civil Engineer, Winnipeg, Man. VICE-PRESIDENT:

T. A. Irvine, Esq., Pres. Standard Plumbing & Heating Co., Winnipeg, Man. MANAGING DIRECTOR: W. W. Fryer, Esq., of Fryer & Co., Stockbroker, Winnipeg, Man. SECRETARY-TREASURER:

R. H. Hayward, Esq., Chartered Accountant, Winnipeg, Man.

GENERAL OBJECTS OF COMPANY

The Winnipeg-Cobalt Prospecting & Development Company, Limited, has been organized to open up and develop certain mining properties hereinafter described; and to explore and prospect for silver and other valuable minerals in the Cobalt region and other parts of the Province of Ontario; to stake out, purchase or otherwise acquire mining claims and properties; develop and dispose of the same for cash, or part cash and part stock; and to form subsidiary Companies to mine such properties, taking as payment stock in such subsidiary mining companies.

It is not intended to confine the operations to any one particular district. New and rich discoveries are being made in widely separated localities. Important finds of silver have been made up the Montreal River and on the Temagami Forest Reserve, as well as copper, mispickel, gold and iron, and the Larder Lake Country has become famous for its gold lodes. A wide and promising field is open for this department of the Company's operations.

It is the intention to employ experienced Prospectors who will be sent to explore and stake out claims for the Company in any new mining fields which from time to time may be discovered.

DEVELOPMENT:

Competent mining Engineers and Managers will be employed to report upon the properties and superintend their development. Not every property will prove to be rich, but large p ofits will be made if but one in five or six turns out to be a good mine. Developing properties to the point where they can be sold as mines, gives opportunity to secure large profits on a moderate outlay.

DIRECTORS

C. A. MILLICAN, Esq., Civil Engineer,
Winnipeg, Man.
T. A. IRVINE, Esq., President Standard Plumbing and Heating Co., Winnipeg, Man.
W. A. BISHOP, Esq., Manufacturing Stationer,
Winnipeg, Man,
R. H. HAYWARD, Esq., Chartered Accountant,
Winnipeg, Man.
DR. T. H. CROTTY, Real Estate Dealer,
Winnipeg, Man.
G. A. HENSON, Esq., Accountant Winnipeg,
Man.

H. B. CHIPMAN, Esq., Manufacturer's Agent, Winnipeg, Man.

JOHN O'REILLY, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Selkirk, Man. W. W. FRYER, Esq., Stock Broker, Selkirk, Man.

SOLICITOR: W. A. T. SWEATMAN, Esq., Winnipeg, Man.
BANKERS: The Traders Bank of Canada,

SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES:

In the formation of subsidiary companies to work such properties as may, on development, be found suitable to mine, it is anticipated that the Company will reap rich rewards and make their largest profits while avoiding the risks attendant upon actual mining. A controlling interest will, of course, be retained by the "Winnipeg-Cobalt" in the stock of any subsidiary Company. Treasury stock of the subsidiary Company will be sold to provide funds to further develop and work the mine. The success of the mine will give value to the promotion stock, which will either be held by the "Winnipeg-Cobalt." or be distributed amongst its shareholders. Every shareholder in the "Winnipeg-Cobalt." is therefore a PROMOTER, and will reap Promoters' profits.

PROPERTY:

The Company now controls the following properties:—2 mining claims, 80 acres in the township of Teefy, on the Abitibi River, twenty-five miles west of Abitibi Lake, on which is a strong fissure vein of calcite, showing silver values, eight feet in width, and several well mineralized quartz veins near contacts of diabase and huronian rocks. 5 mining claims containing 200 acres in the Temagami Forest Reserve, about three miles from Temagami Station, on the Temiscaming and Northern Ontario Railroad. On these properties there are a number of quartz veins—one very strong fissure vein of blue quartz is sixteen feet in width, very heavily mineralized with iron sulphides, with indications of copper and mispickel. The ore contains surface values in gold, silver, and arsenic. All the claims are in Northern Ontario. A more extended description of these properties is appended to the Company's prospectus.

Financial

For the purpose of developing the foregoing mining properties, in prospecting and securing which considerable money has already been expended, and for the further undertakings of the Company, there are now offered for public subscription

100,000 Shares Fully Paid Up and Non-Assessable at Twenty-Five Cents Per Share

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO ADVANCE THE PRICE AT ANY TIME OR TO WITHDRAW STOCK FROM SALE WITHOUT NOTICE

This is an excellent opportunity to obtain a share in the great Mineral Riches of Cobalt District and Northern Ontario at Ground Floor price. The Directors are well-known substantial business men of Winnipeg and Selkirk. All are heavy stock-holders in the Company. It is intended to make the Company distinctively Western, directed by Western men, with Western energy and ability. Fortunes have been made in the Cobalt field by prospecting, developing and disposing of mining claims. The Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Mining Com" pany's stock has advanced from 40c. to $186 00 per share, after having paid $92.00 per share in dividends on a par value of $1.00. The Winnipeg-Cobalt Prospecting and Development Company has an equally good chance to make large profits with judicious foresight and management. Will you join in their venture?

The low price of shares (25c.) places this investment within reach of all. $10.00 will buy forty shares; $15.00 sixty shares; $25.00 one hundred shares; $100.00 four hundred shares; $250.00 one thousand shares It is by combining many small amounts that capital is obtained to carry on large enterprises. The low capitalization (only $500,000) is of great advantage as it insures a higher rate of dividends.

Write or call upon us for Prospectus and further information.

If desired, we can arrange for payment of stock on the instalment plan. Write us with your proposal.

APPLICATION FOR STOCK. To Messrs. Fryer & Co., Financial Agents, Winnipeg-Cobalt Prospecting & Developing Company, Limited, Suite 315 Kennedy Building, Winnipeg. I hereby make application for......shares of fully paid up and non-assessable stock in the Winnipeg-Cobalt Prospecting & Developing Company, Limited, at the special price of 25 cents per share for which I enclose $....., Certificate to be Applicants will please write the name of the party to whom stock is to be issued plainly and in full.

WE BUY AND SELL ALL GOOD

Cobaltand Larder Lake Stocks

WRITE US BEFORE INVESTING

Market Letter sent free to any address on application

We have a few Shares of good Coal Stocks for sale. Write for particulars-FRYER & CO.

Write, phone or wire your order, or cut out this application form, fill in the blanks and mail with cheque or money order to

FRYER & COMPANY

Financial Agents for the Company Suite 315, Kennedy Building, Opposite Eaton's, Portage Avenue

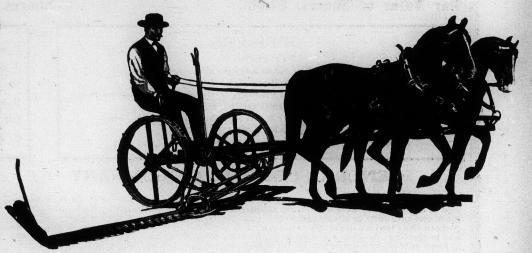

Phone 7010

Winnipeg, Manitoba

We want Agents in every City and Town in the West

New Massey-Harris Mower

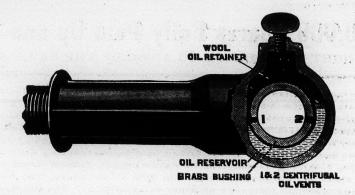

IT WILL DO IT RIGHT

Two specially good features on this Mower are

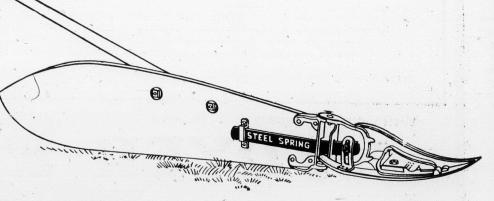

THE PITMAN

The constant supply of oil from the oil reservoir prevents heating, and frequent stops to oil the machine are unnecessary.

THE SWATH BOARD

The Swath Board is jointed and fitted with flat spring, which gives elasticity and latitude of movement. The constant vibration effectually prevents bunching in tough, wiry or old bottom grass.

MASSEY-HARRIS CO., LTD.

AGENTS EVERYWHERE

Ask for one of our New Catalogues.

You Need this Book

After you use it a while, you'll wonder how you ever got along without it. Everything is so simple and clear and practical it's just like having some wise old cook at your elbow. And with so many dishes to choose from, both old and new, there's no need of cooking the same old things time after time.

Even if you have a fairly good one already, you need the Blue Ribbon Cook Book.

It is specially prepared for everyday use in Western homes, and is practical and up-to-date. For instance, all ingredients are given by measure instead of weight, so you do not need scales.

Not a cheap advertising booklet, but a complete, reliable cook book, strongly bound in clean, white, washable oilcloth. And here's your chance to get it

FREE! With One Year's Subscription to the Western Home Monthly

Blue Ribbon Dept. W.H.

Dept. W.H.M., Winnipeg.

I enclose fifty (50) cents. for one year's subscription to Western Home Monthly and a copy of the Blue Ribbon Cook Book. Send to

Name

P.0

Province

Notice to Subscribers!

The Subscription price to the Western Home Monthly is 50 cents per annum to any address in Canada, or British Isles. The subscription price to foreign countries is one Dollar a year, while subscribers who reside within the City of Winnipeg limits and in the United States, are requested to send 25 cents extra to defray delivery charges.

Remittances of small sums may be made with comparative safety in ordinary letters. Sums of one dollar or more it would be well to send by registered letter, P.O. Money Order or Express Money Order.

Postage Stamps will be received the same as cash for the fractional parts of a dollar, and in any amount when it is impossible for patrons to procure bills. We prefer those of the one cent or two cent denomination.

We always stop the Paper at the expiration of the time paid for unless a renewal of subscription is received. Those whose subscriptions have expired must not expect to continue to receive the paper unless they send the most pay for it another year.

Change of Address Subscribers wishing their addresses changed must reter their

Change of Address.—Subscribers wishing their addresses changed must state their former as well as new address. All communications relative to change of address must be received by us not later than the 20th of the preceding month. That is to say if you want your address changed for the July issue, we must hear from you to that effect not later than June 20th.

When you renew be sure to sign your name exactly the same as it appears on the

When you renew be sure to sign your name exactly the same as it appears on the label of your paper. If this is not done it leads to confusion. If you have recently changed your address and the paper has been forwarded to you, be sure to let us know the address on your label.

Address all letters to—

THE WESTERN HOME MONTHLY, WINNIPEG, MAN.

[To be cut out on the dotted lines.]

Special Subscription Order Blank.

....1907.

The Western Home Monthly, winnipeg, Man.

Herein find (50) cents to pay for (one) years' subscription to Western Home Monthly, (check amount sent and term subscribed for). Send magazine until forbidden to Name P.O. Province Street or Box No.

Street or Box No.

Please state if this is a renewal.

Aremittance of $1 for 3 years' subscription does not include any premium.

388

May, 1907.

The

STANDING ALON

tend the war in Sour was tendered to him Prince of Wales was representatives of the earls and nobles. So and ministers of the so the train moved form of Lord Rober view. How they che "God bless you, Wales. Cheer follow turned the curve, Lot alone—alone with the upon his shoulders. England were behind alone with the problem for empire. Cheers in the hour of loneling was represented to him alone with the problem.

POOR PENMANSH

style of your pent Greeley wrote such a he had written an are authorship. Great m handling the pen, are that penmanship is no achievement of succe ever, that nothing is small importance. At to his instructor, written worse scraw while to worry above years later this lad warmy, doing service order he copied for that it was given in cost many brave fell

ROOSEVELT NOT AN ACCIDENT.

ing his seat at the House looked into to "My dear, I am happing no longer an accia moment of real appresident. To realiplace. To realize the and your own conse "call" and appointmentating for. This is one with first great life. To have reached have proved your special work or posity years of toil and effect of the second special work or posity years of toil and effect to the second special work or posity years of the second special work or posity years of the second special work or posity ye cinder and then flich fling it upon the bose a faint gleam just for the first baptism of fling it into a tank o out the entire fire de the city. The burni leum have an affinity dies out upon the one man, but sets on is responsive to t sleep under the serr is lifted into the tl contemplation. On the writings of En companionship in a choice of friends, b own judgment on hi

LIGHT A MATCH

ARISTOCRACY O

poleon, in the palace piece of furniture to So does a man stan and action of his lithe letter "N" to be placed in the great mighty city of B thoughts, words and very fibre and text Wedgwood, though

The Young Man and His Problem

By JAMES L. GORDON

STANDING ALONE. When Lord Roberts was about to leave the city of London to superintend the war in South Africa, a great reception was tendered to him at the railroad station. The Prince of Wales was there. There were also representatives of the aristocracy—lords, dukes, earls and nobles. Statesmen were not wanting and ministers of the state were in evidence. And so the train moved cut of the station and the form of Lord Roberts finally disappeared from view. How they cheered the departing general. "God bless you, Bobs!" cried the Prince of Wales. Cheer followed cheer—but as the train turned the curve, Lord Roberts found himself alone—alone with the responsibility of the war upon his shoulders. In a few hours London and England were behind him and he found himself alone with the problem of war and the struggle for empire. Cheers are good, but can you stand in the hour of loneliness?

I suppose you think that it makes little or no difference what the style of your penmanship may be. Horace Greeley wrote such a poor hand that a week after he had written an article he was not sure of its authorship. Great men have been poor artists in handling the pen, and therefore you conclude that penmanship is not a vital matter in the achievement of success. Let me tell you, however, that nothing in life is insignificant or of small importance. A student at Rugby once said to his instructor, "Many men of genius have written worse scrawls than I do; it is not worth while to worry about so trivial a fault." Ten years later this lad was an officer in the English army, doing service in the Crimean war. An order he copied for transmission was so illegible that it was given incorrectly to the troops and cost many brave fellows their lives.

On the morning after the ROOSEVELT NOT last presidential election AN ACCIDENT. in the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, taking his seat at the breakfast table in the White House looked into the face of his wife and said, "My dear, I am happy to state that your husband is no longer an accident." That must have been a moment of real genuine satisfaction to the president. To realize that you are in the right place. To realize that Providence, the people and your own conscience are agreed as to your "call" and appointment is indeed a triumph worth battling for. This sense of satisfaction comes to one with first great success or achievement of life. To have reached the first mountain top. To have proved yourself indispensible for any special work or position in life—this is worth ten years of toil and effort.

Light a match and fling it upon the barren rock and it will burn itself to a cinder and then flicker out. Light a match and fling it upon the bosom of the sea and it will shed a faint gleam just for a moment and surrender to the first baptism of spray. Light a match and fling it into a tank of oil, and you must needs call out the entire fire department in order to protect the city. The burning match and the rich petroleum have an affinity one for the other. So truth dies out upon the old unmoved conscience of one man, but sets on fire the soul of the man who is responsive to the truth. One man goes to sleep under the sermon while another individual is lifted into the third heaven of rapture and contemplation. One man finds mental food in the writings of Emerson while another finds companionship in a third rate novel. A man's choice of friends, books, and amusements is his own judgment on his own character.

Character is the diamond which scratches every other stone. In the throne room of Napoleon, in the palace of Fontainebleau, every piece of furniture bears the initial letter "N"—So does a man stamp himself upon every deed and action of his life. Nebuchadnezzar caused the letter "N" to be inscribed on every brick placed in the great wall which surrounded the mighty city of Babylon. So are our very thoughts, words and actions inwrought into the very fibre and texture of our being. Josiah Wedgwood, though risen from a workman, was never satisfied until he had done his best. He would not permit or tolerate inferior work of any sort in his establishment. If a vase did not come up to his idea, he would smash it in pieces. Flinging the rejected article aside he would say, "That won't do for Josiah Wedgwood." The most brilliant reputation is a poor thing unless it rests upon the foundation of character.

When Coleridge met Southey WHICH WAY. in Edinburgh in 1803, he remarked to his friend, "What a wonderful city Edinburgh is—wonderful in height and wonderful in depths." In this respect the queen city of Scotland stands as an illustra-tion of life. Life has tremendous possibilities in two directions—upward and downward. Moody could not read at eighteen, at thirty-seven he was preaching to audiences of twenty thousand. Jonathan Edwards was in some respects the greatest preacher New England ever produced. His grandson, Aaron Burr, turned traitor and be cause of his immoral practices became a social outcast. Harry Thaw, born in a Pittsburg palace, stands before a New York jury charged with the sacrifice of a life, without even a good reputation or a clean record to sustain him, while Gypsy Smith, born in a gypsy's tent, without the advantages of culture or education, holds thousands spellbound by his eloquence and can command an audience of 5,000 at any time of the day or night.

"It's his way of doing it" has often been remarked concerning a certain individual, who seems to enjoy an enviable success in any enterprise to which he may apply his hand. He "captures" the audience during the first five minutes of his speech. It is his way. He makes a sale where another clerk would only have made "an impression." It is his way. He avoids a difficulty where another would have had things hopelessly entangled. It is his way. He is a miracle worker at the point where man touches man. He knows the science of getting along with people. During a sudden outbreak among the students of Harvard College, at Cambridge, the final appeal was made to Henry W. Longfellow: "We will listen to Mr. Longfellow," said the students, "he is the only one that treats us as if we were genetlemen."

Luxury is not a hero THE INSPIRATION producer. To be favor-OF A DIFFICULTY. ed with many advantages has often turned out a disadvantage. The youth born in the valley very often climbs to the apex of the mountain, but the young man born amid the sunny peaks of comfort does not always remain there. Byron was born a cripple and gave himself to poetry. Sir Walter Scott lost the use of one of his feet through the carelessness of a nurse and found himself shut in to literature. Beecher struggled with some defect in his vocal apparatus which caused him to stutter and stammer and in conquering the difficulty became the greatest pulpit orator of his day. The Scotch Covenanter preached his best sermon when the danger of an attack was greatest. The strongest men are always inspired by a difficulty. They seem noblest when leading a forlorn hope.

HAVE A CONVICTION!

If a mental conclusion with reference to a vital subject. A man's convictions always touch the fundamentals. It is the decision of a man's soul concerning that which has touched the very core of his being. We have "notions" concerning things which are trifles, and "opinions" concerning things which are of minor importance, but we have "convictions" touching only those things which we regard as of vital importance. Lincoln said concerning the question of slavery, "If slavery is not wrong, then nothing is wrong." It's a great conviction nobly expressed which sets the world on fire. Every vital problem is worthy of a conviction. Think your way through. Make up your mind in one direction and then speak out!

ONE DAY AT A TIME.
One day of twenty-four hours seems to be a divine allotment of time. Nature has marked this period of exact measurement in a most emphatic manner. Its dawning is announced by the quiet glories of the daybreak and the completion signaled by the golden splendors of sunset. It is nature's first suggestion of an exact measurement of a period or duration. Emerson's suggestion, "Live one day at a time," is a wise one and worthy to be regarded as a maxim. Another philosopher has said "Live each day as though it were the whole of life," which is is the same thought expressed in another way. Regard each morning as a fresh beginning and each evening as a vital conclusion. Crowd into each day all that belongs to it. Let your motto be—"One day at a time."

Society is the realm of social contact, where man touches man and woman meets woman—this is the social realm. The social realm has as distinct an existence as the commercial or religious. When society leaders are pure and noble their influence is felt down to the lowest strata; when they are immoral and ignoble, the entire community is tainted and poisoned. Society and its claims, as a rule, are safe when regarded as a recreation. When, however, society becomes the main business of life and the mainspring of all our thoughts and actions, it is apt to be dangerous to our moral well being. Tolstoi says, in his confessions, that for ten years he went from banquet to banquet, drinking rich wines and feasting and flattering, sleeping during the day and dancing during the night. "No galley slave in the days of ancient Rome ever worked so hard for so little satisfaction."

"I AM MASTER OF MY FATE." of his own fate. Self-made or self-ruined, every man writes his own life or signs whis own death warrent. Robert Burns at one time in his career enjoyed a reception at the hands of the aristocracy of Edinburgh. They paid him every possible attention and rejoiced in his genius. Such favoring approval might have lasted for years, but wrecklessness, dissipation and low companionship robbed him of the society of the cultured people of Scotland. Passing through Dumfries one evening, a friend noticed that Burns was permitted to pass through a group of the best people unrecognized, and speaking to the poet about the matter, Robert Burns remarked, "That's all over now!" He had sinned away his day of social grace. The aristocracy refused to do business with him. Thera are certain opportunities which come to a man only once in a life time and when gone—are gone forever.

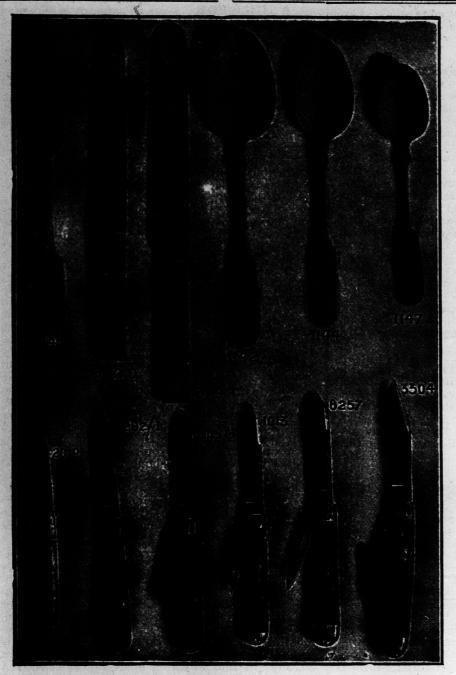

BE SURE OF YOURSELF. A man may have a proper conception of himself without being conceited. To be proud of that which is worthy of pride is not unchristian. To develop certain God-like characteristics and then to be humbly conscious of the attainment is not an unpardonable sin. There is a certain dignity of soul which a man may possess even though he be a grave-digger or a hod-carrier. Sheridan, the English statesman, had splendid gifts but lacked dignity of soul. He dazzled and amused but lacked weight and influence. Had he possessed principle he might have ruled the world. As it was, his own servants did not respect him. When Delpini one day made a just request, Sheridan said to him, "You have forgotten your station, sir!" Delpini replied, "I have not forgotten my station, sir—I know the difference between you and me. In birth and parentage and education, you are my superior, but in life and character and behavior, I am your superior." Noble answer. Here was a man who was sure of himself.

The modern hypocrite is not always to be found within MODERN LIFE. ways been of the opinion that for every hypocrite inside of the church you might possibly find four or five outside the sanctuary. We have just come across the following pointed paragraph in a sermon by Dr. T. DeWit

Nothing but sheer falsehood can represent as perfection boots that rip, silks that speedily lose their luster, calicoes that immediately wash out, stoves that crack under the first hot fire, books insecurely bound, carpets that unravel, old furniture rejuvenated with putty and glue, and sold as having been recently manufactured, gold watches made out of brass, barrels of fruit, the biggest apples on the top, wine adulterated with strychnine, hosiery poorly woven, cloths of domestic manufacture shining with foreign labels, imported goods represented as rare and hard to get because foreign exchange is so high, rolled out on the counter with matchless display—imported indeed! but from the factory in the next street.

PREMIUMS FREE FOR ROYAL CROWN SOAP

WRAPPERS

No. 1147, Chillan Silver Tea Spoons (Per doz.) free for 200 Royal Crown Soap rappers or 65c, and 25 wrappers. Add 15c, for delivery.

No. 1144. Chillan Silver Dessert Spoons (per ½ doz.) free for 200 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 65c, and 25 wrappers. Add 15c, for delivery. No. 1142, Chillan Silver Table Spoons (per ½ doz.) free for 250 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 75c, and 25 wrappers, Add 15c, for delivery.

No. 1145. Chillan Silver Dessert Forks (per ½ doz.) free for 200 Royal Crown oap Wrappers or 65c. and 25 wrappers. Add 15c. for delivery.

Chillan Silver Spoons and Forks are celebrated for their high quality and finish. They are much harder than sterling silver, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction. They are easily cleaned with any good metal polish.

Mo. 3119, 7, Colluloid Handle Steel Table Knives made by Frederick Reynolds, Sheffield, Eng. Fully Warranted. Half dozen free for 300 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or $1.00 and 25 wrappers. Add 20c. for delivery.

No. 3119. D. Cellulold Handle Steel Dessert Knives, same quality as above cescribed table knives. Half dozen free for 275 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 90c. and 25 wrappers. Add 20c. for delivery.

No. 20. P. Two Bladed Pen Knife engraved pearl handle, heavy nickel tipped, brass lined, small blade has nail file. Length of Knife 3 in. Free for 100 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 25c. and 25 wrappers. Add 5c. for delivery.

No. 626211. One Bladed Jack Knife, ebony handle. brass lined, full polished blade, free for 75 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 15c. and 25 wrappers. Add 5c. for delivery. No. 6262/2. Two Bladed Jack Knife, ebony handle, brass lined, length of knife 31/2 in., free for 100 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 25c. and 25 wrappers. Add 5c. for delivery. No. 1013. Two Bladed Pocket Knife, either ebony or rosewood handle, brass lined, etched blade length 3% in., free for 100 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 25c. and 25 wrappers. State whether ebony or rosewood handles are wanted. Add 5c. for delivery.

No. 6257. Two Bladed Pocket Knife, ebony or rosewood handle, brass lined, shield on side, steel riveted. Length of knife 3½ in. Free for 100 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers of 25c and 25 wrappers. Add 5c, for delivery. State whether ebony or rosewood handles are

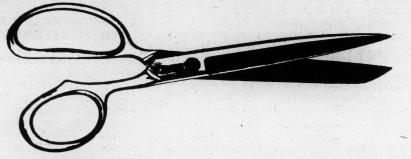

No. 3304. Three Bladed Jack Knife, stag's horn handle. Largest blade etched "N.W.T. Cattle Knife." All three blades are of different shapes. The lance point for flesh will be found very serviceable. The best knife for cattle men that has ever been made, length of knife 4 inches, free for 200 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 65c. and 25 wrappers. Add 5c. for delivery.

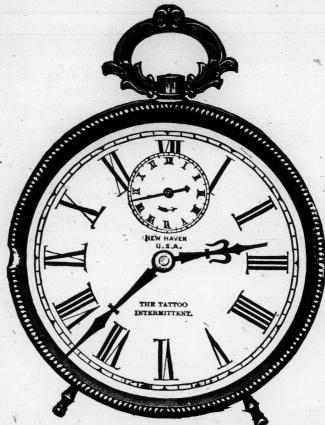

Carpathian Silver Walter, No 3300. These are made of heavy base metal, plated with Carpathian Silver, fancy patterns, Free for 125 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 35c. and 25 wrappers. Add 15c. for Delivery.

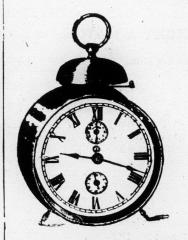

Marvel Trays, full polished back and front, in nickeled tin, 13 in. diameter. The popular size for all round purposes. Free for 25 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers. Add 15c. for delivery.

Sunset Shears, 8 in long, heavy pattern, full nickel plated. Guaranteed to have perfect cutting edges. Brass nut and bolt. Free for 75 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 15c. and 25 wrappers. If outside of Winnipeg add 5c. for delivery.

Tattoo Alarm Clock is an intermittent alarm, the alarm ringing for several seconds, then pausing, and after a period of silence again ringing, and so on for ten minutes. For 430 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or $1.25 and 25 wrappers. Express 25c.

Alarm Clock, 301. Best quality of German Nickel Alarm Clock, with second hand, and stopper to shut off the alarm. For 150 Royal Crown Soap Wrappers or 50c. and 25 wrappers. Express 20c. Additional.

Address: Premium Department

The Royal Crown Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

The Influer

Nothing would have the ideals of Burns if I thing like cant would en name. In Scotland, in when we were creepin period of poverty to a Church in Scotland lay what were called Mod meant a certain spiritus enormous wealth of ou came in the midst of th his immortal action, by disassociated religion fi which it was envelo brought it back as a liv the Scottish nation.—L

Canada a

The Canadian census a Jewish population in of 16,432. This was a years before, which n form some idea of what lation of the country is claim that these figure the mark, and it is quit must in part be allowe some, at least, of the fo old practice of return family. Since 1901 Can the immigration of Eu Since that date, also, la ian refugees have come the west. In all prob much more rapid durin in the previous six. It if we had in Canada to of about twenty-five th

Reorganizing

In Parliament a nur national and internation consideration. Secreta scheme for a reorganiz is being discussed with dane's idea, in brief, is of the British forces w militia, the yeomanry, territorial army of 300, or regular army, would not necessary to go i scheme further than to result in a slight reduct probably a considerable of the army, and a redi five to six million doll liament will do with Se remains to be seen. Me a willing ear to the ad the British admiralty The building item of the alone is $40,000,000 Reviews.

The Aim of

It is the first busine establish habits of con power of tackling ir which sooner or later a succeed in life. In th sharp line ought to be offenses and persistent calls "miscellaneous w lack of training in so students that makes t getic, intelligent manh couragingly slow, or wrecks their scholast N. Fonlay.

Canada and th

One thing that strike is no regular avenue the British or French my own observations

That the Hould is faying

The Influence of Burns.

Nothing would have been more revolting to the ideals of Burns if he had thought that anything like cant would ever be associated with his name. In Scotland, in the eighteenth century, when we were creeping slowly onward from a period of poverty to a period of opulence, the Church in Scotland lay under, or existed under, what were called Moderate conditions, which meant a certain spiritual deadness, coupled with enormous wealth of outward observance. Burns came in the midst of that state of things, and by his immortal action, by his scathing sarcasm, he disassociated religion from the outward husk in which it was enveloped and withered, and brought it back as a living thing to the heart of the Scottish nation.—Lord Rosebery.

Canada and the Jew.

The Canadian census returns for 1901 report a Jewish population in the Dominion of Canada of 16,432. This was an increase from 6,414 ten years before, which may, perhaps, help us to form some idea of what the present Jewish population of the country is. The Jews themselves claim that these figures were altogether below the mark, and it is quite possible that their claim must in part be allowed, as it is known that some, at least, of the foreign Jews followed their old practice of returning only a part of their family. Since 1901 Canada has shared largely in the immigration of European Jews to America. Since that date, also, large numbers of Roumanian refugees have come to Canada and settled in the west. In all probability, therefore, the increase in the Jewish population has been very much more rapid during the last six years than in the previous six. It would not be surprising if we had in Canada to-day a Jewish population of about twenty-five thousand.—Christian Guardian.

Reorganizing Britain's Army.

In Parliament a number of highly important national and international problems are receiving consideration. Secretary of War Haldane's scheme for a reorganization of the British army is being discussed with great heat. Mr. Haldane's idea, in brief, is to convert those divisions of the British forces which are known as the militia, the yeomanry, and the volunteers into a territorial army of 300,000 men. The field force, or regular army, would be 160,000 strong. not necessary to go into other details of the scheme further than to say that the plan would result in a slight reduction in the number of men, probably a considerable increase in the efficiency of the army, and a reduction in expenses of from five to six million dollars annually. What Parliament will do with Secretary Haldane's scheme remains to be seen. Meanwhile, although lending a willing ear to the advocates of army reduction, the British admiralty goes on building warships. The building item of the navy estimate for 1907-8 $40,000,000.—American Review of Reviews.

The Aim of the High School.

Alarm d, and It is the first business of the high school to establish habits of concentration, application and power of tackling intellectual work—qualities which sooner or later all must have if they are to succeed in life. In the matter of discipline a sharp line ought to be drawn between ordinary offenses and persistent loafing; what Prof. Shaler calls "miscellaneous worthlessness." It is this lack of training in so many junior high school students that makes their evolution into energetic, intelligent manhood and womanhood discouragingly slow, or in many cases completely wrecks their scholastic career.—Principal W.

Canada and the French Investor.

One thing that strikes me is the fact that there is no regular avenue of communication between the British or French investor and Canada. From my own observations in Paris and London, I find that no steps are being taken to bring about a feeling of confidence in the new fields of investment, which are being opened up so rapidly here. For instance, in Paris, there is unlimited capital available there, which, through motives of sentiment, might be diverted in this direction, but which has been blocked through the action of certain men or corporations. French investors have been put to the expense of looking over the field, and when a bid was made for bonds, they have been overbid by English capitalists, who were willing to take the risk simply because the French company had made an offer. I know of two instances where this has taken place, and the natural result is that the Frenchmen have almost ceased to take an active interest, when they have met with treatment which they consider unfair.—Alfred Hawes.

The Over-Education of Girls.

What do we see as the result of fostering this system of higher education for women? We see large numbers of our young girls who are blossoming into womanhood and who, in the course of time, will become the wives and mothers of the American people, suffering from more or less impairment of the general health. These girls instead of being strong and robust, as they should be at this period of their lives, are often threatened with a physical breakdown. They frequently suffer from anemia and digestive disorders and may develop symptoms of nervous disorders and even mental disease. The nervous system has been developed at the expense of other bodily organs and structures. The delicate organism and sensitive and highly developed nervous system of our girls were never intended by the Creator to undergo the stress and strain of the modern system of higher education, and the baneful results are becoming more and more apparent as the years go by.—R. W. Parsons, M. D.

Upton Sinclair's Co-operative Home.

What we have here is a large and exceptionally beautiful hotel, which is owned by its guests, and run by them to their own taste and for their own profit, instead of being owned by a business man and run by him for his profit. We are living in what I think the most beautiful suburban town near New York, We have nine and a half acres of land, sloping down from the western brow of the Palisades, and commanding a view of fifty miles, and we have only a mile to walk to come out upon the Hudson, where there is scenery which tourists would travel many miles to look at, if they only knew about it. The hall itself has about eight thousand square feet of floor space on the ground floor alone, devoted to rooms for social purposes; there is a central court filled with palms and rubber trees, which have grown to the very top of the three-storey building. We have a large pipe organ, a swimming-pool and bowling-alley, a theatre, a billiard room and a studio. We have thirty-five bedrooms, ranged in galleries about the court, so that we can look out of our windows in the morning and see the sun rise, and then look out of our door and see the tropics. We have the finest heating system in the world; we pump fresh air in from outside, heat it in a threethousand-foot steam coil, and then distribute it to all the rooms, with the result that we feel as well all the time as other people feel when they take a trip to Arizona or the Adirondacks.— Word's Work.

The Italian in America.

The Italian is much in evidence in these days. He has come, is coming, and will come to America, and despite all statements to the contrary, he is coming to stay. Not more than five per cent return to Italy and remain there permanently. In round numbers, 200,000 yearly crowd to the shores of the United States. It is a motley group and the appalling thing is that the majority are illiterates; but they are not so undesirable an element as some think. They are naturally intelligent, and when they are given an opportunity, make a splendid record.

An orator, of considerable reputation, was recently heard to remark: "The Italians?—degenerate sons of illustrious sires!" That is a prejudiced generalization which cannot commend itself to an intelligent public. Emil Reich, in the Contemporary Review, expressed the opinion that Italy is to-day the most gifted nation of Europe. It was only thirty-six years ago that Italy became a nation and her short career has been a brilliant one. No other European nation has advanced so rapidly, for her progress is phenomenal.—Fred'k. H. Wright.

American Women Shop Crazy.

The average American woman is in a state of mental unbalance which promises to play havor with the next generation of Americans. The same business mania which makes the American man a nervous, worried quick-stepping creature, gives the American woman her shopping madness. Kleptomania is a common manifestation. In many cases the patient is only seized with it when in a shop. As a guest in a friend's house she would not be tempted. Her mania requires the stimulus of counters and the sight of large arrays of goods, with attendant salesmen or saleswomen. At the present moment I know a lady who suffers from intense melancholy unless she is either in a shop or gazing into a shop window. After the recent big sales her condition became serious, and she is now a patient in a nursing home. It must be clear to everyone that the vast majority of the women who crowd round shop windows are not intending buyers, but are simply gloating over the fine things and coveting them. I would advise every American husband to limit his wife to just one afternoon of shopping per week. Of course, this does not include marketing, and visiting the corner 'drug store' in which an American woman will be found oftener than her husband will visit a saloon. What she does with all the medicines, soaps and appliances from the 'drug store' is an enigma. Looking from another point of view, it may be for the best that America's women should break down in this way. If the female sex is destined to earn its living it must go through the painful process of survival of the fittest from which in time the descendants of the survivors would emerge with nerves and energies equal to man's. Those who fall victim to the shopping mania would be below the standard which competition with man would require.—Dr. Thornhill.

The Poet Laureate on Literature and Politics.

I hold the view that mere contemplation, no matter how lofty or profound, will not make a supreme man of letters or a supreme artist of any kind. Homer, Virgil, Dante, Ariosto, Shakes peare, Milton, and others may be instanced as examples of great poets who have been prominently identified with the political life of their day. All the greater men of letters of the eighteenth century are largely indebted for the literary successes they obtain to the vivid interest they display in public affairs. Wordsworth would have been a yet greater poet if he had mixed more freely with his fellow men. The poet forfeits his power when he loses himself in the blue ether. It is well for the literary man that he should concern himself with politics and the affairs of the world.—Alfred Austin.

Government Free Employment Bureau.

The question of providing facilities whereby employers can secure workmen, and workmen out of work can secure suitable employment, is one that is of considerable importance. Any man who has gone from place to place looking for work, only to find that he was too late, or that he would not suit; and any employer who has sorely needed men, and while sure that men were to be had, could not get into communication with them, would welcome an effective employment bureau. Fifteen of the States of the Union have now State free employment offices, where service is given absolutely free, and as sympathetically and wisely as possible. Massachusetts is the latest to establish one of these agencies, and in ten weeks 12,000 men and 4,000 women applied for work, and 4,300 vacancies were reported by employers. Of these 2,300 have been filled satisfactorily. The bulk of the applicants came from the ranks of unskilled labor, and this is the class that in Canada, possibly for years to come, will be most in need of the help the Government em-ployment agency can provide. Ontario last year established two of these bureaus, one in Ottawa and one in Hamilton, and the two have succeeded in placing some scores of unemployed; but it would seem advisable that such bureaus should be placed at the large centres throughout Canada. Massachusetts is so well satisfied with its new experiment that it has increased its grant from $5,000 to $25,000. With our rapidly increasing immigration it is certain that something of this kind in each of the provinces would be of great value.-Christian Guardian.

SUNBURST

Rariy Dividends for Stockholders—Machinery new being installed for rapid development of underground workings of famous Lead and Zinc property—Stockholders enthused ever new strike of rich ore—Steam Drills and Heists operated by great power plant will bring riches from earth—On behalf of the public, The Kansas City Pest investigates the mine and prints magnificent endorsement of this mighty co-operative enterprise—Big advance in price of stock coming Powerful Machinery Installed.

The Directors of the Sunburst Mining Company authorize the announcement that the machinery for the underground workings is now being installed. This consists of the latest type of powerful steam boiler, steam hoists and steam d:ills. The contract for the hoister se for Shaft No. 3 has been let, and this will be erected immediately. The steam drills will give immense impetus to the work. Drifting is being rushed to connect Shafts No. 2 and 3, and in this work a great body of rich ore has been struck, that has created wide excitement in the camp. As this goes to press, tons of rich ore are being piled up on the dump, spelling sure dividends.

Dividends of 120 Per Cent. Are Paid.

The Eaxter Mining Company, operating in the same district and with the same officers as the Sunburst Company, has declared dividends of 10 per cent. per month; the first payment made was February 1st.

Read the following from the Omaha Bee of February 3rd, 1907:

DIVIDENDS ON BAXTER MINING STOCK. "A 10 per cent. Monthly Dividend has been declared and paid to the fortunate owners of Baxter Mining Company stock. This dividend, we are informed, will be regularly paid on the first of each month. Owners of this stock are to be congratulated. The property of this company lies in the new wonderful lead and zinc district known as the Baxter Spring Camp. The officers are E. T. McCarthy, president, and R. W. Bailey, secretary and treasurer. A number of other Omaha citizens are interested."

This immensely rich property lies four miles from Baxter Springs, Kas., and is just across the State line in the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory. All around and immediately adjoining this property are good producing mines with fine mills, which are making their owners rich. Just southwest is the mill owned by the Whitneys of New York. On every side we are surrounded by producing mines, operating in ore bodies that run into and through our section, and, from the reports of experts and engineers, areactually richer and nearer the surface than at any other place in the district. The formation consists of a blank of deposit of mineral of the richest quality, from 15 to 30 feet in thickness, lying at a depth of from 57 to 74 feet, thus making it very easy and inexpensive to mine.

Thousands of dollars were expended in drilling holes and sinking shafts to prove not only the existence in paying quantities of lead and zinc, but also the unusual richness of the cre. The drilling and shaft sinking have demonstrated a uniform bed of ore over the entire acreage of 15 to 30 feet in thickness and found only 57 feet under the surface. The water is only smifficient to wash the ore while milling. This is an important point, as in many lead and zinc mines the superabundance of water is a very dangerous factor. The ore is found between well-defined flat beds of limestone, which allows of the ore being taken out without the sure of any timbers whatever, pillars of ore being allowed to support the roof, which is thus permanently safe.

The Same Ore Body That Makes Others Rich

No other district can produce so many rich mines in so small an area as this portion of the Baxter Springs Camp. Look at the map, and you will see how the Sunburst holdings are the very heart of this section. To the north are the Dark Horse, Isley, Tipton, Magaska, all well-known properties. To the west are the Sunnyside (the oldest mill in camp), White Eagle, Indiana. Ayers and Sloan. To the south the famous Hobo (the richest mine ever opened in the d strict, which has drifted to the south line of the Sunburst in extremely high-grade ore). The ore milled last week by the Hobo ran 10 per cent. In three months 500,000 pounds of rich ore were taken out by the Hobo. This mine is 135 feet fr m our property and is in the same ore bed. Shaft No. 3 is only 70 feet from the Hobo north drift, with the same bed of ore. The drilling shows this bed to run across the entire Sunburst property. Shaft No. 2 is 400 feet from the northeast drift of the Hobo, and is into the same ore bed.

Omaha, Neb., March 25th, '07.

To the south are also the Omaha Mines and Mill and the Good Luck Mine, where the lead has proved to be so heavy. On these properties mills are erected and extremely rich ore extracted, making great returns for the owners.

READ THIS LETTER

Great public interest has been excited in the Sunburst property.

In response to this demand for exact and truthful information the Kansas City Post, a great metropolitan newspaper, sent a special correspondent to the district to report what he actually found. The article is too long to be reproduced here, but a copy will be sent to all interested.

found. The article is too long to be reproduced here, but a copy will be sent to an interested.

Here are a few extracts:

"The point made is that Baxter lead and zinc district is like every other place of great natural advantages—it must have capital to be properly developed. But there is no doubt of the sure and immense rewards.

"You can't sink a drill anywhere around here,' said my friend of the above, 'without bitting pay ore.'

"'You can't sink a drill anywhere around life, hitting pay ore.'
"And that's true.
"I believe, from close personal observation, that the highest grade lead and zinc ore known is here in practically unlimited quantity. The bigger the mill, the better the machinery, the more money will be made.
"All this district is underlaid by a solid table of lead and zinc ore. To get it into marketable shape you need a mill. Multiply your mills and you multiply your profits."

Dear Mr. Fisher: I have just returned from a two days' visit to the Baxter camp, and while down there took in nearly all of the properties of the camp, and I want to say to you that I never saw such ore taken out of the ground as they are taking out of the Sunburst mine. The stock holders of this company are certainly to be congratulated for getting in before this stock goes to a higher price, which I am confident it is sure to do. You need have no hesitancy in making your statements strong relative to the possibilities of the Sunburst mines.

I saw ore taken out of the ground there last Saturday that, in my judgment, will run 50 per cent, zinc; not one piece, but a treat many large blocks that I could hardly lift. * * * * * * *

Mr. W. A. Fisher, Kansas City, Mo.

I note what you wrote me r lative to stock going so rapidly, and it is only an indication of how quickly the public appreciates a good thing when it has an opportunity.

With best wishes, I am, Yours very truly, R. W. BAILEY.

Why Stock is Sold at 10 Cts. a Share

This issue of fully paid, non-assessable stock is for the purpose of procuring immediate funds to build a concentrating mill, equip the plant with hoisting machinery, and continue development enormously enhancing the value of the property. Have you ever heard of a failure in a true lead and zinc mine? Have you not heard, on the contrary, of the fortunes taken out right in this this: Are the facts such as we have stated? Now, this we prove in detail—we will even arrange to take you to the mine—we refer you to any of the reports on this property—to banks—to investment in a commercial enterprise.

Buy Stock Now at 10 Cts. a Share, Par Value $1

Only a limited number of shares offered at this price. This stock positively advances to 15 cents a share on May 22nd, and this may be your last opportunity before it is withdrawn from the market. Buy before the advance, and if you are not satisfied with your investment at any time within thirty days of your first payment every cent will be refunded you.

Buy on Easy Payment Plan.

A rise in the price of these shares to par means 1,000 per cent. for every $1.00 invested, besides the dividends.

Subscriptions will be accepted for 200 shares and upward, either cash in full, with reservation, or by 10 per cent. down and 10 per cent, monthly The cost is the same either way, but by the instalment plan you can reserve a much larger block of stock, and when the price advances, as t will immediately on disposal of this block of stock, you can reap the

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish the payments, you will receive, upon request, certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 10 cents per share; par value $1.00.

par value $1.00.

$ 20 buys
$ 40 buys
$ 50 buys
$ 50 buys
$ 100 buys
$ 200 shares stock, $ 4 down, $ 4 a month.
$ 500 shares stock, $ 5 down, $ 5 a month.
$ 100 buys
$ 200 buys
$ 200 buys
$ 2000 shares stock, $ 10 down, $ 10 a month.
$ 300 buys
$ 500 shares stock, $ 30 down, $ 30 a month.
$ 500 buys
$ 500 buys
$ 500 buys
$ 500 shares stock, $ 50 down, $ 50 a month.
$ 51,000 buys
$ 10,000 shares stock, $ 100 down, $ 100 a month.

This is a business proposition. Here are susiness men conducting it. They invite your nvestigation.

OFFICERS. Wm. M. Law, President, Omaha, Neb. C. M. Craney. Vice President, Baxter Springs

R. W. Bailey, Secretary, Omaha, Neb E. T. McCarthy, Treasurer, Omaha, Neb. DIRECTORS,

T. J. Foley. Council Bluffs, Iowa. H. H. Craney, Baxter Springs, Kan. C. W. Craney, Baxter Springs, Kan. Wm. H. Law, Omaha, Neb.

wm. H. Law, Omaha, Neb.
Helen-Craney, Baxter Springs, Kan.
R. S. Green, Omaha, Neb.
R. W. Bailey, Omaha, Neb.
E. T. McCarthy, Omaha, Neb.
L. H. Watts, Baxter Springs, Kan.
Address all communications to W. A. Fisher, Fiscal Agent, Bank of Commerce Building,
Kansas City, Mo.

BANK REFERENCES. Baxter National, Baxter Springs, Kan. Bankers' Trust Co., Kansas City, Mo. DEPOSITORY.

LET US SEND YOU FREE ORE SAMPLES.

We will send to anyone interested, absolutely without charge, all expenses prepaid, a box of the crude ore as taken from the Sunburst Mines. This sample will be of interest to the student or investor alike, and would be of value in any curio collection.

Send to-day for these free samples and our profusely illustrated prospectus, with photographic reproductions of the property, a large halftone map of the lead and zinc field, and list of bank and business references.

INFORMATION COUPON. Clip and Mail To-Day.

W. A. FISHER, Financial Agent, 743 Bank of Commerce Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Sir—Please send me your illustrated prospectus with half-tone map of the Southwest Lead and Zinc Field, special payment plan for stock subscription and full information.

Please also include, postage prepaid, free samples of Crude Ore from the Sunburst Mining Company's property.

Name
Address
Address	 · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
	4

S. W. BEATTY, Western Representative, 53 Aikins Building, Winnipeg.

Phone 4539

There is a good leading educationali standing of Manitol some of these learne cated voter points of Brandon College, illuminating speech, not only before the generally. He said:

MANITOBA, NO

"The Board of St sity), is composed each of the four affi leges, two by the Co geons, and one by and one by the Univ the thirteen are appo ligious denomination ones especially conce lum and examination the University Council Chairman, how muc got. The Council is eight of whom are a Council of 58 elects of the Board of Studio perintendence of the Now, I would like so out how much State you get the Board of the Council represen of fifty-eight, that is that Council elects o you have 1-7 of 1-13 of State control you And yet we are told Sitv. If these figures are been gainsaid, we ha Saskatchewan in not brid institution, but r history, freeing it and control. Canon Manitoba University "neither pride of ance

Tailors of New Yo would be impossible It is all the fault of legs have so deterior: he is so commonly is true of the America British. Of how m great admirer said o He has a leg!" Of golf-links has given t ciently developed to out exciting the crue even in such cases it would look well in si Apart from the seden compelled to lead, his cause deportment is in which a gentleman riage has gone out w shoulders and knock the waltz; they would impossible for the sta what the Canadian 1 At present there are no country in the w tionalities as are to With all our getting, are developing all kin getting legs? Is not an agricultural college If Solomon, the Wise to the young Canadia getting, get legs."

THE LEGS OF for A MAN.

Although the genia famine has not dep situation is acute, and with the present strik shortage the outlook

CIVIC FUEL YARI

ed by the thoughtful last will give the pro 1, 1907.

fficers as ly

Rich

any rich on of the , and you the very the Dark l-known side (the na. Ayers (obo (the tt, which nburst in illed last

In three aken out r m our aft No. 3 with the is bed to v. Shaft ft of the tancy in cation of

arge, all unburst or alike, re from

There is a good deal of discussion among leading educationalists these days as to the standing of Manitoba University. According to some of these learned gentlemen, the unsophisticated voter points with pardonable, though of Brandon College, in a recent informing and illuminating speech, brought the whole matter not only before the legislature, but the public generally. He said:

MANITOBA, NOT A state of the st

"The Board of Studies (of Manitoba University), is composed as follows: Two elected by each of the four affiliated denominational colleges, two by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and one by Manitoba Medical College, and one by the University Council. Eight out of the thirteen are appointed directly by the four religious denominations, and these eight are the ones especially concerned with the arts curriculum and examinations. One only is appointed by the University Council. I would like to ask, Mr. Chairman, how much State University have we got. The Council is composed of 58 members, eight of whom are appointed by the State. That Council of 58 elects one man (only one man), on the Board of Studies, the body that has the superintendence of the functions of the University. Now, I would like some mathematician to figure out how much State there is in it by the time you get the Board of Studies' eight members on the Council represent the State that is, eight out of fifty-eight, that is (1-7) one-seventh, and then that Council elects only one man out of 13, and you have 1-7 of 1-13 or 1-91. That is the amount of State control you have and the rest is church. And yet we are told that this is a State Univer-

If these figures are correct, and they have not been gainsaid, we have reason to congratulate Saskatchewan in not making its University a hybrid institution, but now, in the beginning of its history, freeing it from all church interference and control. Canon Murray recently compared Manitoba University to a mule, which had "neither pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity."

Tailors of New York have decided that it would be impossible to revert to knee-breeches. It is all the fault of the average city man. His legs have so deteriorated in grace and strength, he is so commonly spindle-shanked and knockkneed that it is really a very THE LEGS OF fortunate thing for him that modern dress conceals these unfortunate members. What is true of the American leg is doubtless true of British. Of how many could it be said, as his great admirer said of Sir Willoughby Pattern, He has a leg!" Of very few. Much exercise on golf-links has given to m y a man a leg sufficiently developed to carry knickerbockers without exciting the cruel wit of the small boy; but even in such cases it is seldom the sort of leg that would look well in silken hose and buckled shoe. Apart from the sedentary life that the city man is compelled to lead, his physique has suffered be-cause deportment is no longer one of the graces in which a gentleman is schooled. Dignified carriage has gone out with ruffles and rapiers. Round shoulders and knock-knees do well enough for the waltz; they would have been out of place and impossible for the stately minuet. One wonders what the Canadian leg will eventually become. At present there are many varieties. In perhaps no country in the world are there so many nationalities as are to be found in the Dominion. With all our getting, shall we get a good leg? We are developing all kinds of industries, are we forgetting legs? Is not a leg more than an orchid, an agricultural college or a provincial university? If Solomon, the Wise, were here again his advice to the young Canadian would be "With all thy

A MAN.

Although the genial spring has come, the fuel famine has not departed with its advent. The situation is acute, and the end is not yet. What with the present strike in Alberta and the present shortage the outlook does not wear a rosy hue. What shall we do for CIVIC FUEL YARDS. next winter's supply?

This is a question asked by the thoughtful. Another winter like the last will give the prosperity of the West such a set-back as we shall not soon recover from. Many railways have been censured, and dealers blamed, but railway companies and coal dealers have the clever knack of making plausible excuses for their many shortcomings. Abuse of present machinery, however, nor gratuitous condemnation will serve the perpose. You cannot fill the coal-bin by abuse or the fire box by a condemnation. Gas we abuse, or the fire box by condemnation. Gas we have had galore, but it is a gas that will generate heat that we particularly need at the present time. And yet, we cannot refrain from adding another suggestion to the many that have been so generously offered. It is the erection of civic coal yards, owned and operated by the city. For large cities like Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton, the plan would be feasible. The popularity of any city council is assured that will try the experiment. It is a possible scheme. It would alleviate much suffering and rescue the poor citizen from the tyranny of the coal-dealer. If the coal-dealer will not lay in sufficient fuel in the summer time to carry his customers over the winter, he should be given the go-by, and the city should have the custom which he has so lightly esteemed. In two or three years, by this plan every city would have large supplies husbanded, which would put all fear of fuel shortage to the winds.

In order to save itself from contagious and infectious diseases, in 1897 New York City appointed a corps of medical inspectors. The duties of these inspectors were to visit schools every morning and examine children suspected of disease.

The results of the MEDICAL INSPECTION good work done by these medical experts has been marvellous. Of 99,240 children examined in the schools of the Borough of Manhattan from March 27, 1905, to September 29, 1906, 65,741,or about 65 per cent.,—needed some form of medical treatment. Of these 99,240 children, about 30 per cent. (30,958) required correction of defects of sight, in most cases by eyeglasses. A still larger percentage (39,778) needed attention to their teeth. There were 38,273 children with swollen glands in the neck, indicating some present or past trouble in the throat, nose, ear, or some abnormal constitutional condition. Enlarged tonsils, with their baneful effects, including liability to tonsilitis and diphtheria, were found in 18,131 children. About 10 per cent. of all the children examined (9,850 were found to have adenoid growths in their throats,-a condition which predisposes to affections of the ears, the nose, and the lungs, and which interferes most seriously with the child's general health and mental development. Heart disease was found in ',659 children; disease of the lungs in 1.039, and deformities of the body or limbs in 2,347. With the great influx of foreign and poor people to the West, comes the need of some such medical inspection. The conditions in Winnipeg and the larger cities are different only in degree from those of New York.

One of the most perplexing of problems in our western country is that of amusement. Our fathers had to work so hard that they gave little time to fun and frolic; and rather scouted the idea that it was necessary to the all-round de-

"THE CHICKEN SUPPER sons and daughters. They had the country fair and the Annual Church Social; these were enough to supply the entertainment demands of one year. The Church Social meant chicken and pumpkin pie galore, and pickles of every size, shape, brand, quality and flavor. The supper was followed by a lecture given by some town or city preacher whose express business was to start the chicken-gorged sides of his auditors moving. By the aid of his wit, "the good things provided by the ladies" were to become assimilated by the capacious paunches before him. In other words, he was to aid digestion, and took the place of those more recent but less potent remedies which have since flooded the market. He was Celery Compound; he was Pink Pills: he was a pepsin tablet. Our fathers were economical and did not waste their money on patent medicines when they paid a preacher to do the work. Times have changed. Amusements, clean, sweet and wholesome must be provided for all classes of our complex society. The cities and towns should look upon it as an important part of their duty to provide recreation for their citizens.

In the general hue and cry for more railroads we are forgetting that the companies are not properly equipping those that are now being operated. It has ever been the policy of great contractors like Mackenzie and Mann to advocate road-bed extension rather

ROAD-BEDS AND than rolling stock. The ROLLING STOCK. reason is obvious. The grant when the road-bed is laid. The sums of money obtained in this way have been enormous. The quality of the road is of less interest to railway companies than its mileage. What is the result? We have thousands of miles of rails with inadequate rolling stock and motive power. The C. N. R. has furnished many object lessons during the past winter. The provincial governments and all others interested should grant no new charter until the lines now laid are properly equipped with rolling stock. But even the roadbeds are of little use in some instances. They are not ballasted as they should be, and the consequence is that a long and heavy trains of cars cannot be hauled over the fragile roads. "Car shortage" is becoming a very familiar word to Western business men—too familiar for the good of the country. Unless something is done in this matter soon the confidence of investors in this great Western land will be forfeited.

A considerable portion of the land should always belong to the Government, forest reserves, public parks, and in fact all land not suitable for agriculture, except the sites required for residence, manufacturing and commerce. Much of the latter should be THE COAST LAND owned by the public FOR THE PEOPLE. Docks on the shores of navigable waters should be public property in order to commerce and the public property in order to commer be public property in order to open opportunities for commence to all persons equally. A strip of land at least the width of the ordinary street should have been reserved on the entire coast line of the United States and Canada and on the entire shore of all lakes and rivers. It is easy to permit such land to be used for commercial and the permit such land to b permit such land to be used for commercial purposes. It is a grievous wrong to allow a man to buy a few acres of land on the shore and shut the world off from the sea. Here the few acres of land is nothing and the sea is everything; and we have often sold the sea for the price of a few rods of land. Much mischief here done have it is not too late to save much of been done, but it is not too late to save much of the Western country and Alaska. The home-stead should be the only means of acquiring title, and this should be given to one man only once, and only after five years' continuous residence. The title should be to only the surface of the land, the Government reserving all coal and the land, the Government reserving all coal and minerals. The Government can safely grant limited leases for stock grazing in such a way that it will not interefere with the farmers who desire to settle.

A recent statement made by Mr. F. T. Gates. multi-millionaire's mancial agents relative to the wealth and commercial interests of John D. Rockefeller is causing some of his accusers to see things in a new light. There are ROCKEFELLER IN lieved the stories told of A NEW LIGHT. his enormous wealth, acquired by over-reaching and fraudulent transactions, especially in connection with the Standard Oil Company. But there was a public outcry which it was worth a life to contend against. But now the public is likely to learn the truth, and the name so much abused is likely to be vindicated. Mr. Gates tells us that the wealth of Mr. Rockefeller is probably between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000. He has never owned more than thirty per cent, of the stock of the Standard Oil Company, and now owns not more than twenty per cent. of it. He has not been responsible for the doings of the company for many years, and has not been in the office of the company, 26 Broadway, New York, for more than ten years past. His income, instead being $100,000,000 a year, it is not more than 15,000,000 to $20,000.000. For many years past he has been living a quiet, semi-retired life, seeking and finding objects upon which he may bestow money which he knows, as well as does any other man, he cannot take with him into the eternal world. There were those who knew all this before. But it was useless to say it, because of popular clamor. We are glad to hear all this, and publish it. Public men get few bouquets, and we are pleased if we can show another and more gracious side of one who for many years has received little else than abuse from the

DON'T BURN COAL

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

DON'T BURN WOOD BURNS BARRELS OF AIR

The Most Wonderful Stove Ever Invented

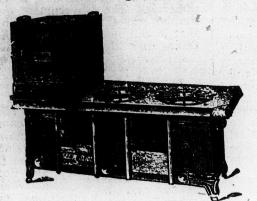

GOOD BAKERS

GOOD COOKERS

Montreal, Canadian Agents.

Causing great excitement wherever exhibited. Fuel drawn principally from atmosphere. Uses 395 barrels of air while consuming one gallon of oil. Wood, coal and oil cost money. Only free fuel is air. Supply is unlimited. No trust in control. Air belongs to rich and poor alike.

Positively Not Like Those Sold in Stores. Non-Explosive.

Harrison Valveless, Wickless, Automatic Oil-Gas and Air Burner Stove.

Automatically generates gas from Coal Oil, mixes it with air. Burns like gas. Intense hot fire. Combustion perfect. To operate turn knob, oil runs into burner, touch a match, it generates gas, which passes through air mixed, drawing in about a barrel of air to every large spoonful of oil consumed. That's all. It is self regulating. No more attention. Same heat all day or all night. For more or less heat simply turn knob. To put fire out simply turn knob. As near perfection as anything in this world. Not like those sold in stores No leaks, nothing to clog up. No wick, not even a valve; yet heat is unde. perfect control. Cheapest fuel on earth, The only kitchens. Not dangerous like gasoline. Simple, durable, lasts for years. Prices: 1 burner, $3.75; two burners, $7.50; three burners, $11.50. Write to-day. All orders receive prompt attention.

International Supply Co.

Suite 2 and 3 McKay Building, 299 Portage Avenue, Manitoba Winnipeg

House Cleaning. That is the dread word, and the still more dread deed, that is occupying the attention of ninety per cent. of the readers of the page this

There is not, I imagine, much that is new to say on the subject. A bundle of American exchanges came to me the other day, and I noted that every column or page devoted to wo-men had something to say on this important topic, but careful reading failed to disclose any suggestions or hints that had not been given a hundred times before. I would like to repeat the warning to the new beginners at least, against the folly of turning the whole house out at once and trying to do in a day what ought to take a week. The temptation to rush the disagreeable task through and return to the ordinary routine of the household is great, but for that very reason it should be resisted. This spring finds people, and more especially women, with vitality very much reduced after a long and peculiarly trying winter, and there is no reserve of strength on which to draw. The warm days that are suitable for house cleaning are also trying to the system from the very completeness of the change and the feeling of lassitude is not a sign of laziness to be fought off, but a sign that a tonic is needed and that care should be taken not to further exhaust your already sorely depleted

One room at a time should be the motto of every housewife in spring cleaning and if, as will happen among many of the new settlers, there is but one, or at most two rooms, then take two or even three days for the necessary turning out.

Allow me also to promulgate a heresy,—don't wash your blankets until June. There will be plenty of soft water then; even if June is hot, there will be cool hours in the early morning. The advantage of doing this is, that you are pretty certain, once June is in, that winter coverings will not be required again. until fall, jou have had time to recover from the fatigues of house cleaning, and the man of the house has his farm work so forward that he can spare an hour or two for shaking blankets; and here let me emphasize the fact that no woman, however strong or able she may be, should attempt the shaking of heavy blankets. If she is an expectant mother, it is not only foolish, but it is absolutely sinful for her to do any such thing. Two men will shake a blanket better in five minutes than two women, of average strength, will in half an hour, and, suggested to them at the right moment, will be regarded as rather good fun than otherwise; and on proper shaking depends the softness and fluffiness of the blankets.

Naptha soap, made by the Royal Crown Co., Limited, Winnipeg, if you can get it, is one of the best and easiest soaps with which to wash blankets, and I hope there are not many homes in our great Canadian West without a wringer. With these two things, blanket washing is greatly simplified.

A man should be almost as much ashamed to have his wife go without a wringer and washing machine as he would be to have her go without

Winnipeg Industrial. I expect a good many women have put in some of the long winter evenings on fancy work of one kind or another for exhibition either at Winnipeg or their local fair.

trial will probably be out before this reaches my readers, but in case it should not be, let me say that a committee of the Woman's Art Association of Canada spent a long morning with the manager of the exhibition, Dr. A. W. Bell, revising the list of prizes for women's work, and it is now thoroughly up-to-date. Many of the prizes have been increased and altogether it is a very satisfactory list and one well worth competing in, as all lines for which prizes are offered are of value to the exhibitor after-

Very many of the local fairs might model their lists on Winnipeg with advantage to both the fairs and the exhibitors thereat.

Women and I had a visit this week from Miss Hall, of the Hermitage, Headingly, one of the most successful raisers of poultry in the Province. She took up poultry raising seven years ago as a hobby to keep her more in the open air, and soon became an enthusiast. She has had great success with both chickens and turkeys, her yearly percentage of loss being exceptionally small. She has a splendid market for all she can raise, and eggs from her poultry yard com-mand fancy prices all the year round. She has never gone in much for show birds, but has confined her attention to a flock that would be commercially profitable and has succeeded far beyond her expectations and is strong in her advocacy of poultry raising as a pleasant and profitable avocation for

The fact that she has been almost uniformly successful with turkeys is a great feather in her cap, for everyone knows how tiresome they are to raise, and what an enormous dema: there is for them on the Winnipeg market, in fact, on every market in the West.

It would be a splendid guide to be-ginners if Miss Hall could only be induced to write her experiences in pamphlet form. There is an intimation abroad that the Government of Manitoba is about to make a greater effort to encourage the raising of poultry and it would be a capital thing if they would get Miss Hall to prepare a pamphlet on this subject for general distribution. Indeed, the two Governments of Manitoba and Saskatchewan might combine on this work for it would be suitable and useful for both provinces.

Stray Verses.

A Rain Song.

"It isn't raining rain to me, It's raining daffodils! In ev'ry dimpling drop I see Wild flowers upon the hills! A cloud of gray engulfs the day And overwhelms the town— It isn't raining rain to me— It's raining roses down!

It isn't raining rain to me, But fields of clover bloom, Where any buccaneering bee May find a bed and room. A health, then, to the happy,

A fig to him who frets! It isn't raining rain to me-It's raining violets!"

Two Pictures.

An old farmhouse, with meadows

And sweet with clover on each side; A bright-eyed boy, who looks from out The door with woodbine wreathed

And wishes his one thought all day: "Oh. if I could but fly away From this dull spot, the world to

How happy, happy, happy, How happy I would be!'

ADVERTISED AR' ARTICLES OF TIONAL M

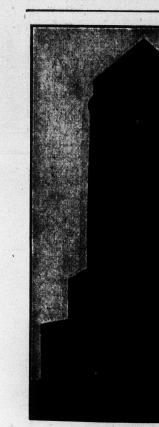

So says Current I March 1907.

advertised with us, means that this brane the market some ti goods are made with nomies possible to the ducer, that they are or less established in and that a respon willing to back their its money. In fact you have every reaso have exceptional men "BABY'S OWN been used by Canad last 3) years—it is m latest improved mach the economies possib as low as the high qu materials will perm established in the and The Albert Soap their name and mon because they believe of ex ceptional merit led quality.

Don't allow any d suade you to accept many imitations th up like "Baby's Own ulent purposes. Ins "Baby's Own"—th more cheaply, give a to the dealer and th be made more cheap

When Writing Advertise The Western Hom

SOMERV Steam Marble and G ROSSER AVE.,

SCOTCH GRANITE N

We have about two carloads of yard here, and expect an 80,000 We buy at wholesale prices a Quarries in Aberdeen, Scotlar we can sell to you for 25 per other dealer in the

EVERY KIND OF CRANITE AND Write us or give u

IT'S MONEY IN YO

WILD and IMPROV In the Fame

HANLEYP Saskatch

For pamphlet giving com T. O. HAM P. O. Box 45

ADVERTISED ARTICLES ARE ARTICLES OF EXCEP-TIONAL MERIT.

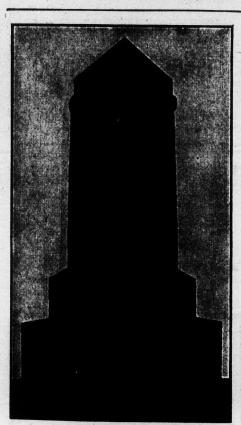

So says Current Literature for March 1907.

:When you see a brand of goods advertised with us, it generally means that this brand has been on the market some time, that the goods are made with all the economies possible to the large producer, that they are already more or less established in public favor, and that a responsible firm is willing to back their merit with its money. In fact such articles, you have every reason to believe, have exceptional merit."

"BABY'S OWN SOAP" has been used by Canadians for the last 3) years—it is made with the latest improved machinery and all the economies possible—it is sold as low as the high quality of the materials will permit, it is well established in the public favor, and The Albert Soaps Limited put their name and money behind it because they believe it is an article of ex ceptional merit and unrivalled quality.

Don't allow any dealer to persuade you to accept any of the many imitations that are made up like "Baby's Own" for fraudulent purposes. Insist on getting "Baby's Own"—they are sold more cheaply, give a bigger profit to the dealer and therefore must be made more cheaply

When Writing Advertisers Kindly Mention The Western Home Monthly.

SOMERVILLE Steam Marble and Granite Works ROSSER AVE., BRANDON

SCOTCH GRANITE MONUMENTS

We have about two carloads on exhibition in our yard here, and expect an 80,000 lb. carabout May 1. We buy at wholesale prices and direct from the Quarries in Aberdeen, Scotland. This means that we can sell to you for 25 per cent. less than any other dealer in the West.

EVERY KIND OF CRANITE AND MARBLE IN STOCK Write us or give us a call.

IT'S MONEY IN YOUR POCKET

WILD and IMPROVED LANDS In the Famous HANLEY PLAINS

Saskatchewan For pamphlet giving complete information

write T. O. HAMRE P. O. Box 45 HANLEY, SASK.

Amid the city's constant din, A man who round the world has been, Who, 'mid the tumult and the throng, Is thinking, thinking all day long: Oh, could I only tread once more,

The field-path to the farmhouse door, The old, green meadow could I see, How happy, happy, happy, How happy I would be!"

A Rose Rent. English people are familiar with the old custom of paying "A Peppercorn Rent," the idea of the builders of cottages for the poor, being to give them rent free but still retain their invested right in the property. There is a case on record where a certain nobleman had erected a number of cottages for old people on his estate, who were past work, and had stipulated that yearly they should pay "a peppercorn" to show that they were tenants and not owners. His son, on coming to the property found that it was increasing rapidly in value, owing to the discovery o coal. He had no wish to dispossess the pensioners of his father, but he was not sure that "a peppercorn" rental was sufficient to hold the title. He consulted counsel learned in the law and was advised that there was a doubt and that he had better make the rent one penny a year, as that would be legal tender.

The raising of the rent caused a series of indignant meetings among the tenants, and they complained bit terly of his extortion.

I was reminded of the peppercorn rents by the following pretty tale of a rose as a rental:-

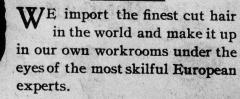

"Miss Martha M. Horning, of Newport, Rhode Island, has the distinction of being legal heir each June to a red rose, this same pretty rental being given for the site of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church at Maiheim, Pennsylvania. And thereby hangs a tale that is full of romance and sentiment. Many years ago-it was 1750-Baron Henry William Stiegal came to Pennsylvania from Germany, bringing $200,000, which he invested in iron and glass works. He had several hundred workmen gathered around him, and for their convenience founded the little town of Manheim. He built himself a palatial home among their cottages, the brick being brought from England by ship, and then hauled by wagon from Philadelphia, seventy miles away.

"In this house he set apart a chapel, where he preached to his people in their own language for twelve years. Then, on December 4, 1772, he deeded to the congregation a piece of land on which to build a church, and a unique clause in the deed read, "and yielding and paying therefor to the said Henry William Stiegel, heirs and assigns, at Manheim, in the month of June, yearly forever hereafter, the rent of one red rose, if the same shall be lawfully demanded."

"Twice in the good old Baron's lifetime the rose was paid with all formality. Then came the Revoluthe congregation to other things, and the custom was forgotten. In 1891. when a new church was being built, the pastor discovered the poetic provision in the old deed. His suggestion to revive the custom met with great approval, and a search was made for the oldest legal heir. This was found to be Mrs. Elizabeth Luther, of Pottsville, Pennsylvania, and with a quaint and pretty ceremony, the rose was presented to her. "The payment of the odd rent has since been continued, the second Sunday in June being set aside for the ceremony, and from 8,000 to 12,000 people come each year to witness the all-day service. Not only is the stipulated rose given, but all the congregation marches by the altar and each places a red rose there in memory of the old Baron and his philanthropy. In 1905, the rose was received in due form by Miss Martha M. Horning, of Newport, Rhode-Island, but last year she was too infirm to appear, and the next heir in line, Mrs. C. C. Hoover, of Boradway, Virginia, a great-greatgrand-daughter of the baron, received the rental.'

Palmer's Hair Goods

Our products in Natural Hair Switches, Pompadours, Transformations, Toupees and Wigs are equal to those of the famous makers on the Continent.

If you want the best to be procured in America, write to us.

Illustrated Catalogue Free on Request.

J. PALMER & SON, LTD. 105 NOTRE DAME STREET WEST MONTREAL, P.Q.

CROMPTON'S CORSETS

All leading merchants have them.

perfect-fitting and emier position in the world of fashion for elegance, durability and comfort. They not only delight the eye but engender in the mind of the weares that consciousness of case, comfort and grace which a perfectly made article alone

CROMPTON CORSET CO., LIMITED 78 York St., Toronto 234 McGill St., Montreal

So simple is it to handle, any woman can decorate her own home with Alabastine. Write to-day for our book "Homes, Healthful and Beautiful." It explains how Alabastine is the cheapest, most healthful and most luxurious wall-covering. Send ten cents for a copy of "Homes, Healthful and Beautiful," with many dainty, new ideas for the decoration of your home.

Alabastine is sold by hardware and paint dealers everywherea 5 pound package for 50 cents. Ask your dealer for tint card.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

WILLOW STREET PARIS. ONT

BEST ENGLISH Hammer and Hammerless guns with all modern improvements at manufrom $15.75 each. Also cheap quality Doubles from $9.75, Rifles etc. Illustrated Price List, free. W. James & Reynolds, George St., Minories, London, FRUIT TREES.

We have the largest stock of Fruit Trees and Small Fruit Plants ever grown in Western Canada. Probably more than all the other Western nurseries combined. We will send the following collection of fruit plants, express prepaid, facturers' prices. Superior far-killing 12 bore on receipt of $5, 12 gooseberries of three varieties, Double Breechloaders, Entirely English Made, 6 white, 6 red and 6 black currents, 12 red and 12 yellow raspberries, 12 bush cherries. Every plant guaranteed home grown, and the very best varieties for this country. BUCHANAN NURSERY Co., St. Charles, Man. Write us for seed potatoes, 10 ch vice varieties.

offermight d the

this se it

com-socia-

it is ny of ctory

and

this Miss ermit suc-Proaising keep soon s had is and of loss has a raise. comround.

show ention rcially ar bestrong ing as ion for almost reys is everyare to ema: nnipeg ket in to bebe inces in ntimaent of greater ing of capital Hall to ject for he two Sasn this le and dav

readows h side: rom out reathed all day: rorld to

A Manof Strength Must Be A Healthy Man

No man who has lost his vitality can be strong or healthy—Vitality means Electrical Energy. When Electrical Energy is deficient, man becomes a weakling—not a MAN, as nature intended him to be. He has pains in his back, is drowsy, lacks ambition, work is a burden—sleep not restful—sexual system weakened—not the "get-up-and-at-it" MEN have. You need not suffer this way. You can be made strong and vigorous. The Electrical Energy you can get back, and feel stronger and etter than before you lost your strength and ambition. You can become a MAN among MEN.

How can it be done?

Dr. Adie's Electric Body Appliance is the honest way to give you that "vim and snap" that makes life worth living. Do you want it?

SENT ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL

It will make your blood tingle with the Electric fluid—in a way that nothing else can. It cures where Electric Belts fail. Over 60,000 quick and lasting cures to its record. Think of this

Call or Write To-day

This book should be in every home in Canada It tells (honest facts—no exaggeration) how wonderful are the Cures performed in such ailments as Rheumatism, Nerveusness, Debility, Weakness, Lame Back, Back Pains, Sciatica Lumbago, Stomach Troubles, Loss of Memory, and all wasting or breaking-down diseases. Headaches, Kidney and Liver Troubles, etc.—in men and women.

YOU should have this Book. Fill out coupon and send it at once. Ask for Book No. 18.

121 Chu	E SPECIA rch Street ent me your	, Toron	to, Canada
190
Name
100 Address
and the same			g ·
My ailmen	tie -
and difficil	-		······

Office Hours: 9 to 5. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings until 9 o'clock.

The Weather. It would seem that have touches of color and little hints under the heading of this column the only appropriate suggestion would be fur coats and overshoes. If ever "winter lingering chilled the lap of spring" it is this year of grace, 1907. The women and girls who bought Easter hats have not yet had half a dozen days when it was fit to wear them. As for spring suits and lingerie waists, the very thought of them makes one cold.

Still we have faith that "The good old summer-time" will come, and the chances are it will come with a rush and fervidly, when it does arrive. It is just as well to have all the wash gowns ready to put on, for the thermometer may jump any day to 80 in the shade. It is a season of the unexpected and its just as well to be able to enjoy the warm weather when it comes, without having to worry about clothes.

White Dresses. In spite of the the fact that, as yet there has been no opportunity to wear them in the Canadian West, white dresses are the order of the day for summer wear. Every grade of white goods is in vogue, from the heavy linens of coarse weave clear through to the sheerest of India mulls, lawns and organdies.

Skirts of heavy linen, either plain or kilted, and waists of sheer muslin, decorated with shadow embroidery or lace, will be very popular; then there are the entire gowns of linen heavily embroidered. Eyelet embroidery is good, but is not so popular as last year. There is more of the combinations of Mount Mellick and Hardanger. Many of these linen gowns are skirts and Eton coats, under which is worn the very lightest and thinnest lingarie wrists. and thinnest lingerie waists.

Thin white gowns worn over flowered slips is another fad of the hour and a very pretty one, too.

Big and rather brightly flowered muslins are used for this purpose and the effect is altogether charming. Embroideries with touches of color are worn on white dresses, but they are a doubtful experiment as I find FREE BOOK from inquiry that, though advertised fast colors, they do not always wash as well as they should. The chief joy of a white wash gown is the fact that it always looks new when washed. but if you are to have dabs of faded color on it, it is Ichabod the first time it is washed.

For older women, the black mus-lins and grenadines over black and white striped slips are popular and very pretty. The effect is quite novel.

Parasols. With the wash gowns there are an endless var iety of fancy parasols, but those of pure white, embroidered in eyelet or Mount Mellick lead; they have plain unvarnished wood handles and the tops can easily be removed and washed. Then there are parasols with shadow patterns of flowers in colors and full ruffles of lace round the edges. The black parasol, except when a mass of chiffon ruffles is practically a thing or the past.

Silk Coats. I have already said both black and colors, but it will do the making, and may be of any seasonno harm to mention them again. The able material. As a tub dress it self colors are gaining ground all the deal of wear and tear because of its they will be worn more than the leather or the material. For the mewhite coats of serge that were so dium size 28 yards of 36-inch goods anger MFG. Co., LTD. Dopt. M Guelph, Outario. popular last year. Nearly all of them are needed for the dress.

of gold in the decoration, but these are put on so that they can be removed when the coat is sent to the cleaners. The black coats are three-quarter and are nearly all decorated with applique embroidery and very heavy lace. The bottoms of the coats are plain, the decorations being all about the neck and shoulders and down the front. Seven-eighth coats of plain black, navy or green taffeta are having quite a vogue and they are usually decorated with collars of heavy Irish crochet in butter or putty shades. Some of these coats have linings of thin silk in shades of blue, cornflower or pink, which gives an added touch of smartness.

Shoes. Colored shoes in canvas will be popular for the hot months, and there are many shades of pretty grey and tan, but white can-vas shoes with all light gowns are the most satisfactory as they are the most readily cleaned. The high heels that were in vogue last year are considerably modified, and the "Mannish last" shoes and boots are more popular than ever. The boots are cut high on the leg this season and are not only smarter but more comfortable.

Belts. Elastic belts are growing more popular every day, and they are so very pretty. Amore the smartest are the white belts studded with cut steel; black and steel are also good, and then there are the colors, pinks, blues, greens, etc., but always the cut steel beading.

4040-A Practical Frock for the Boy or Girl.

Some of the simplest of the small frocks are the smartest and for everyday wear they are by far the most practical. A dress in checked Madras is picture having a pointed yoke and something this spring three broad box pleats stitched to waist about the popularity of silk coats in depth. It requires very little labor for coats of Rajah silk in pure white and launders easily and will endure a great time, and as they are easy to clean, freedom from frills. The belt may be of You cannot possibly have a better Cocoa than food. Fragrant, nutritious and economical. This excellent Cocoa maintains the system in robust health, and enables it to resist winter's extreme cold.

Sold by Grocers and Storekeepers

in \frac{1}{2}-lb. and \frac{1}{2}-lb Tins.

This Late Spring

May hinder the Farmer in the wheat belt, as he must struggle on to get his crops sowed in season or he cannot reap. In the beautiful

KOOTENAY

he has no chance of missing the season, and the crop is always assured. The soil is always in shape to work, and no hard labor is needed in breaking, being a very rich deep sandy loam.

Write us for full particulars, also get our beautiful illustrated book. It's free.

Fisher Hamilton Co.

P.O. Box 374

615 Ashdown Bldg. Winnipeg

ESPEY'S FRAGRANT CREAM

Will relieve and cure chapped hands, lips, rash, sunburn, chafed or rough skin from any cause. Prevents tendency to wrinkles or ageing of the skin. Keeps the face and hands soft, smooth, firm and white. It has no equal. Ask for it and take no substitute.

Package of Espey's Sachet Powders Sent FREE on receipt of 2c. to pay postage. P. B. KEYS, Agt., Ill S. Centre Ave., Chicago

MONEY SAVED

Do you wish to save from 25 to 45 cents on every dollar you spend for household expenses?????????????? You can positively save it

BY TRADING WITH US

We appeal to your pocket book. Write at once for our complete price list, it is FREE. Investigate and be convinced.

NORTHWESTERN SUPPLY HOUSE 259 and 261 Stanley Street, Winnipeg, Man.

"Canadian Skirt Co."

Women's highly tailored Suits, Skirts, Waists, Raincoats, etc., to special measure. Immense range of new materials Elegant catalogue of designs, measuring charts, sent on application where we have no Agents. Lowest prices and satisfaction guaranteed. Local Agents wanted everywhere

E. R. Bollert & Co. 25 & 27 Wyndham St GUELPH, ONT.

RHEUMATISM.

Dr. CLARKE'S Rheumatism Cure. A marvellous safe sure, cure for muscular, inflammatory and chronic Rheumatism and Gouty conditions. Cures when all other remedies fail. Sent direct charges prepaid, on receipt of One Dollar

J. AUSTIN & CO., Chemists, Simcoe. Ont.

May, 1907.

URING th doing so woollen c

The goods des

Marguerite style, front tr insertion, and six cluster finished with lace and rit to match, sizes 32 to 38 bus

No. 12.-La good strong co clusters of narro stitched braid s

Write for our Spe

Catalogue—it

Cocoa

resist gle on son or autiful

ng the always ays in labor

a very

s, also book.

Co.

Powders postage. ., Chicago

ED 25 llar exe it H US ket our EE. ced. HOUSE g, Man.

MAY VALUES IN WOMEN'S WHITEWEAR

URING the month of May, we propose to give some decidedly universal values in Women's Whitewear. Our reason for doing so is that this is the month of the whole year when the greatest quantity of this class of goods is sold, when the heavy woollen clothing gives place to muslin and kindred materials.

The goods described and illustrated here demonstrate the great saving that is effected in the first place by our manufacturing the goods in our own workrooms, and, in the second place, by buying the goods direct from the mills for cash, and in such quantities that we get the very lowest prices quoted.

The saving on this occasion is even greater than usual, for knowing long in advance that an increase was going to take place in cotton prices, we placed enormous contracts before the advance, and, from the materials bought at the old price, we had made up the garments that are advertised on this page.

We find another advantage in making up the goods we sell. They are made under our inspection during every stage of their making. We know that they are honestly made, and that they will stand the closest scrutiny, and will give entire satisfaction.

Many other lines are advertised in our 1907 Spring and Summer Catalogue, and it is sent free to all who wish for it and who cannot personally visit our big store.

Bear in mind, too, that these goods are in stock, so that we can fill orders promptly. While the whole country has suffered from the serious blockade in freights, we have suffered less than most because we anticipated the trouble and placed our orders much earlier than we would have otherwise done, and this applies to all the lines of goods in the catalogue.

Mo. 31—Ladies' Corset Cover, made of good cotton. Marguerite style, front trimmed with six rows lace insertion, and six clusters of narrow tucks, neck finished with lace and ribbon draw, arms trimmed to match, sizes 32 to 38 bust, May sale price....25c.

No. 12.—Ladies' Night Gown, made of good strong cotton, Mother Hubbard yoke, clusters of narrow tucks, finished below with one row of embroidery insertion, neck and front finished with frill of embroidery feather

Mo. 14.—Ladies' Night Gown, made of good cotton, pointed yoke of solid hemstitched tucks, finished with row of embroidery insertion and deep ruffle of embroidery, neck and sleeves finished with embroidery frill, lengths 56, 58 and 60. May sale price, $1.23

Write for our Special Grocery

Catalogue—it's free.

T. EATON CO.

WINNIPEG CANADA Write for particulars about our Binder Twine offer.

ndham St H, ONT. SM. narvellous atory and Co." ts, Waists, Immense catalogue Lowest

cal Agents conditions. Sent direct ne Dollar

oe. Ont.

Gerhard Heintzman Piano

s made by a man who is master of his art, who makes his pianos as the old masters made violins--Every instrument is given individual attention, not rushed through on a factory system like machines, but treated as a work of art and inished as such.

A piano made like this will cost more but is worth double the price of the ordinary trade instrument.

It pays to buy the best.

Write for full particulars.

FLEMING'S VEGETABLE SEED COLLECTIONS

These Collections gave unbounded satisfaction last season—Try them d to suit different sized gardens. Full sized packets of the best quality. Note the great re-from Catalogue prices. Send cash with order and I will mail post paid. You have no trouble ng a selection, and you get your spring supply of seeds as easily as if you had a seed store at

COLLECTION A $1.00

Garden, Flower and Field Seeds of all kinds.

Beans, Pole Beans, Wax Beet, Fleming's Halllong Beet, Detroit Kound Red Cabbage, Etampes Cabbage, Fottler's Carpot (Ingrand) n, Cory n. Crosby's

Contains 32 Packets Cucumber, White Spine
Lettuce, Fleming's Selected
Lettuce, Curled Simpson
Onion, Yellow Globe
Onion, Yellow Globe
Onion, Large Red Wethersfield
Parsley, Moss Curled
Parsnip, Hollow Crown
Peas, Horsford's Market Garden Pumpkin, Cheese
Radish, Scarlet Turnip white tipped
Radish, Chartier's Long Salsify
Squash, Essex Hybrid
Squash, Hubbard
Squash, Hubbard
Tomato, Manitoba King
Turnip, White Milan Swede Turnip, Fleming's
Sage

COLLECTION B 50c.

Contains 15 Packets, 1 each of

Celery, Giant Paschal

Carrot, Danvers Lettuce, Fleming's Onion. Large Red Parsnip, Hollow Crown Parsley, Moss Curled Peas, Nout's Excelsior Radish, Fleming's Selected Squash, Essex Hybrid Tomato, Manitoba King Summer Savory COLLECTION C 25c.

Contain's 7 Packets, 1 each of

Onion, Yellow Globe Parsnip, Cooper's Cham-pion

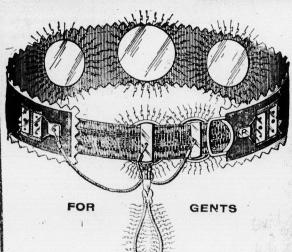

Beet, Long Blood Carrot, Danvers Lettuce, Denver Market Radish, Fleming's Select Swede Turnip, Fleming's COLLECTION D $1.00

Contains the following:

Beans, Wax-1-2 lb.
Beet, Fleming's-1 pkt.
Beet, Eclipse-1 pkt.
Beet, Eclipse-1 pkt.
Cabbage, Early Express1 pkt.
Cabbage, Winningstadt1 pkt.
Carrot, Chantenay-1 oz.
Corn, Cory-1-2 lb.
Cucumber, Emerald-1 pkt

Fleming's Seed Store, Brandon, Man.

Electric Belts $5 each

We have a limited number of celebrated Electric Belts that we can recommend.

They are giving entire satisfaction and cannot be beat, so the wearers of them tell us. We are only asking $5 for this belt and it will do the work of a belt costing three or four times that sum.

Write us for full particulars. When ordering state whether for a lady or gentle-

J. H. CARSON

54 King Street WINNIPEG, - MAN.

Where Should the Blame Lie.

By JUANITA GAY.

To my mind, such a grievous thing | and mentally, and this strength of mind has befallen our community. Rumor says an unfortunate young girl of foreign parentage visited a lady a few finish her life in sorrow, with bowed miles away. One morning a plowman who was breaking a small plot of ground near that, house, found a new-born baby lying there, undressed and unprotected. Think of it!

The news spread like wild-fire—as such news will. The girl was arrested and, the local press says, confessed the charge and acknowledges that unfortunate, helpless bit of humanity.

If the girl will meet any further punishment at the hands of the law, we do not know—can only hope she will not, for it seems to me she has suffered sufficiently and the end is not yet-nor will it ever be! The law of nature punishes man for his "inhumanity to man," and in nothing greater than a case like this. On account of society, or public sentiment, she disowned her own offspring. Similar cases appear among our great news items daily, almost. Now, the question is, who is to blame? The girl-mother, the infant's father (who holds his head high but is appear his head high, but is surely accessory to the deed without persuasion), society, man's law, or the law of God? How does public sentiment run? You know too well.

The mother an outcast-take in the full meaning of the word;—the father, very likely, "a splendid business man," with a host of friends among his sex and the "fair" as well; society, gay, in-different, even scornful, and with a conscience clear (or none at all), while anyone with a heart and soul born of God, can bow his head and shed oceans of tears at the injustice of such condi-

Think of it, the cause and remedy! Women are not wholly perfect, none of them. God does not permit such on earth, no matter how much man expects them to be. If they are not weak in one way they are in another, but faults are surely there. Man does not claim to be perfect, but we have ever known lenient, or more just, before them as the "strongest sex," physically claim any Christianity therein.

head and broken heart.

We know such strength cannot be forced to do wrong, and how in the name of heaven can it be so easily led? I say, how can it be lead to cause such destruction, not only to the young mother and her family connections, but think of the helpless life just begun, without its consent, in the world of ostracism. If a boy, we say he will outgrow it, especially if he does well financially, for finances will cover a multitude of sins, or he can go to another part of the country and be all right.

But if a girl, alas! She is a help-less outcast. The "stain that has fallen on the snow of her fame" will last even longer than her own life.

It seems to me, that the husband of a wife, the father of a daughter, the son of a mother, or the brother of a sister, would take this subject to his heart seriously.

If "woman is woman's greatest enemy," if she is weak in mind or body, or both, why does man not use the strength of his mind, body, heart and soul for her protection, for her elevation, for the grandeur of her spirit? They have a great influence over her, and why not use it to aid their development in all things in which we call her deficient?

Parents should talk to their sons and daughters alike. "God knows none of the nice distinctions under which men repose.'

"Purity is not a gem to flash alone in woman's crown, it glorifies a man and makes him, a king," and it may take several generations of "talking" to reap great good, but, surely, it is worth while. Time is here to be used, and the man or woman who does not use it to the best of his or her knowledge and ability, sins in the sight of God.

And, again, society must be more lenient, or more just, before we can

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Western Soap for the East.

points.

The Royal Crown Soap Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg, have every reason to feel gratified over the popular favor which their Witch Hazel toilet soap is meeting with in Eastern Canada. ing with in Eastern Canada.

How to Build a Good Fence.

How to Build a Good Fence.

On page eight of this issue the advertisement of the Banwell-Hoxie Wire Fence Co., of Hamilton, Ont., offers to bend free their new folder on erecting fences. We desire to call attention particularly to this, as this folder contains some very valuable information about fence building, which should be in the hands of every farmer and stockman.

It tells how to erect woven wire fencing in the quickest and most substantial manner, and why this type of fence is the most economical and the best for the purpose. It also has a very interesting description of the manufacture of fence wire. Persons who have never had the privilege of visiting a wire mill will find this article very interesting. It also takes np the subject of the matter of concrete fence posts. Fence posts made of this material are rapidly gaining favor with fence users on account of their resistence to decay. They are proving to be much more serviceable than the old wooden posts.

Let none of our readers fail to send for this valuable little folder. Copies will be sent free by addressing the Banwell-Hoxie Wire Fence Co., mentioning this paper.

Valuable Testimonials.

The Royal Crown Soap Co., of Winnipeg, a few days ago shipped one hundred boxes of their celebrated Witch Hazel toilet soap to Montreal. The fame of Witch Hazel toilet soap has extended east, where it is sold on its mertis in competition with all other toilet soap. Following immediately after the aforementioned shipment to Montreal, was a contract from the management of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. for a season's supply of toilet soap for use on their fleet of palatial passenger steamers plying between Montreal and Toronto and intermediate points.

The Royal Crown Soap Co., Ltd., of Winnipeg, have every reason to feel Waluable Testimonials.

H. A. Tuttle, M. D. V., Montreal, My Dear Sir.—Possibly you have thought it strange that you did not hear from me in answer to your kind and courteous letter of May 26th, but, believe me, I was not ungrateful or unappreciative of your advice, and I had the preciative of your advice, and I had the tirely over his lameness. Now, I write to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask, you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by express another half dozen of Tuttle's Elixir with bill, I want some of this to ask you to please send me by expressive the preciative of your advice, and I had the tircle, M. D. V.

Foster.
Tuttle's Elixir Co.,
32 St. Gabriel St., Montreal.
Gentlemen:—I have been using your Elixir for the last ten years and find nothing to equal it for a leg and body wash. I have never had a horse come out sore or tied up after a race when I used your Elixir. I have kept horses with bad tendons going sound by a free use of the Elixir when nothing else would do it.
I am now foreman of a large stable

I am now foreman of a large stable and always use Tuttle's Elixir and your other remedies in preference to any other and cannot speak too highly of them. Respectfully yours, J. P. Murphy.

Something for the Housekepeer.

A handsomely illustrated catalogue was issued recently by the Manson-Campbell Co, of Chatham, Ont., showing the various styles of combination kitchen cabinets made by their firm. The halftones are good, the type used is of a clear face and easily read, and the paper used is of a close hard surface. The kitchen cabinet is now regarded by good housekeepers as almost indispensible and are in the same class in the home with the washing machine and sewing machine.

These kitchen cabinets, manufactured by the Manson-Campbell Co., are most ingeniously constructed, and it is astonishing all the supplies and kitchen utensils that can be stowed away in one of them. A k save hours of time ing every day to the means relief from k does away with bend and straining to repantry shelves. The chen cabinet in every the manufactures.

so the manufacturer Manson-Campbell consumer, therefore goods at manufacture the wholesalers' an Write them direct f illustrated catalogue selling plan, etc. V please mention this

Growth of a Great

No better illustra of great things com ginnings than Kenda ginnings than Kenda was compounded an way about 30 years Kendall, in the then Enosburg Falls, Vt. name of "Kendall's gone to all parts of merits, and the meremedy have done it. While Dr. Kendall wrote a little book on the Horse and H safe to say that no wrote a little book on the Horse and H safe to say that no on this subject has down to the present ally handed out to whom he came in p is said that now up of these little books ed and gratuitously. The cures of spaw splint, wire cuts, sexpense and labor sers by Kendall's Spyond comprehension. part of these 30 yea Cure has been the cleands of horsemen, used. It must be renot confined to Nor decidedly a world r little book mentiom and with Kendall's hand to treat promisprain, wound, lames growth, etc., the or is well fortified agmon ailments to wilable. It is unquefficient remedy, and of more of the ailr horse is liable than the market.

Pays to Serve Pu "Salada" Tea Co.'s the next nine years portion as it has ir years, they will hav tire tea trade of t Canada. Last yea amounted to 23 per first three months increase was 251 p dently pays to serv

Alexander Day G burgh, Q

The many friend der Day, of the S Toronto, will be ple he has been appoin of the Dominion Ca shell loading depar living in Brownsh company's factory Dominion Cartride also to be congrat the services of suc man for this depart do not doubt bu throughout Canada generally will feel creased confidence ammunition, knowi has had "a finger in

of mind oughtless, an or girl th bowed 1907.

annot be asily led? use such ing mothbut think , without ostracism. tgrow it, cially, for e of sins, rt of the s a helphas fallen last even isband of ghter, the ther of a ct to his greatest l or body, use the heart and ier elevaer spirit? over her, r develope call her none of hich men alone in man and may take " to reap is worth d, and the use it to sons and

ledge and be more we can

I or unap-I had the instructed se got env, I write the by exi Tuttle's of this to y friends. Thos. J.

ing your and find and body orse come e when I pt horses by a free hing else ge stable and your to any nighly of J. P.

epeer. catalogue Mansoneir firm. ype used read, and hard surnow reme class machine ufactured are most is aston-kitchen away in one of them. A kitchen cabinet will save hours of time and miles of walking every day to the housekeeper. It means relief from kitchen drudgery. It does away with bending over a flour bin and straining to reach things high on pantry shelves. There should be a kitchen cabinet in every home, at least so the manufacturers advise.

Manson-Campbell Co. sell direct to the consumer, therefore you can buy these goods at manufacturers' prices, saving the wholesalers' and retailers' profits. Write them direct for a copy of their illustrated catalogue, giving you their selling plan, etc. When writing them please mention this magazine.

Growth of a Great Horse Remedy.

No better illustration can be given of great things coming from small beginnings than Kendall's Spavin Cure. It was compounded and used in a small way about 30 years ago by Doctor B. J. Kendall, in the then obscure village of Enosburg Falls, Vt. Since then the name of "Kendall's Spavin Cure" has gone to all parts of the world. The merits, and the merits alone, of the remedy have done it.

While Dr. Kendall was practicing he wrote a little book entitled "A Treatise on the Horse and His Diseases." It is safe to say that no more popular work on this subject has ever been produced down to the present day. It was originally handed out to the horsemen with whom he came in personal contact. It is said that now upwards of 12,000,000 of these little books have been published and gratuitously distributed.

The cures of spavin, curb, ring-bone, splint, wire cuts, sores, etc., and the expense and labor saved to horse owners by Kendall's Spavin Cure are beyond comprehension. For the greater part of these 30 years Kendall's Spavin Cure has been the chief, and with thousands of horsemen, the only remedy used. It must be remembered that it is not confined to North America. It is decidedly a world remedy. With the little book mentioned above to guide, and with Kendall's Spavin Cure at hand to treat promptly, any case of sprain, wound, lameness, incipient bone growth, etc., the ordinary horse owner is well fortified against all the common ailments to which horse flesh is liable. It is unquestionably a more efficient remedy, and adapted to the cure of more of the ailments to which the horse is liable, than any other now on the market.

Pays to Serve Public Well.—If the "Salada" Tea Co.'s trade increases in the next nine years in the same proportion as it has in the last fourteen years, they will have acquired the entire tea trade of the Dominion of Canada. Last year their increase amounted to 23 per cent, and for the first three months of this year their increase was 25½ per cent. It evidently pays to serve the public well.

Alexander Day Goes to Brownsburgh, Quebec.

The many friends of Mr. Alexander Day, of the Stanley Gun Club, Toronto, will be pleased to know that he has been appointed to take charge of the Dominion Cartridge Co.'s shot near the C. P. R. shops. shell loading department and is now living in Brownsburgh, where the company's factory is located. The Dominion Cartridge Company are also to be congratulated in securing the services of such experienced a man for this department, and we do not doubt but that trap-shots throughout Canada and sportsmen generally will feel, if possible, increased confidence in the Dominion ammunition, knowing that Mr. Day has had "a finger in the pie."

Burns either Coal or Wood

$ 9750 F

AND

UP

The Canada Paint Company.

This company, whose manufactures are so well and favorably known throughout the Dominion, has erected a large factory in Winnipeg. This factory is situated alongside the main line of the C. P. R., a little east of the station, and extends from Point Douglas avenue to Sutherland avenue, covering many acres of land.

In 1905, the company purchased the Elevator and Linseed Oil mill formerly operated by L. A. Body & Co., and known as the Winnipeg Linseed Oil Mills. This was operated by them simply as an oil mill, and in the summer of 1906 plans and specifications were got out for the enlargement and remodelling of the oil mill and also for the erection of an up-to-date paint and varnish factory. Operations were commenced in the early fall, a second elevator was built for the storage of flax seed, which is purchased solely in the Northwest. This part is of great interest to the many farmers who raise flax, as it gives them a ready market for their produce, where they can sell all they bring or send in at any time for cash.

The oil mill was all remodelled and large commodious buildings were erected for the manufacture and shipping of varnishes and japans, white lead, putty, paints ground in japan for carriage builders, paints ground in oil, liquid carriage and wagon paints, shingle stains, oil and varnish stains, enamels, semi-paste paints, and in fact all and everything required by the painting trade. Another feature is the equipment for the manufacture of ready-mixed paints, their brands of which are so largely in demand.

A Chance to Invest.

The lots adjacent to the new Grand Trunk shops are very much in the public eye at present. Huge investments have been made in that quarter on the strength of the vast expenditure the Grand Trunk will be put to to equip shops suitable to meet the needs of a transcontinental railway. Grand Trunk Entrance, a block of lots in front of the shops' site, is being sold at $125 a lot. The terms of fered are: $25 down and $25 every six months, or $10 down and $15 a month. The Standbridge Realty Co. are selling Grand Trunk Entrance.

This firm of real estate dealers put on the market two years ago a block of lots adjacent to the new C. P. R. shops then being built. They then advised the public, through this magazine, to buy lots, and those who took their advice on that occasion more than doubled their money. The Standbridge Realty Company claim that Grand Trunk Entrance lots will show as large profits to investors as did the lots sold by them Important Notice to Subscribers.-Owing to new post-office regulations. it will be impossible for us to offer our subscribers the same low clubbing rates with other magazines as heretofore. The combination offers with all Canadian magazines still holds good, but for every clubbing offer sent us which includes a magazine published in the United States, an additional 50c. must be remitted to cover extra postage on every such

Small Calibre Rifles

These are the ideal rifles for shooting Gophers and small game. Ammunition for these rifles costs from 30 cents per 100. A few of these rifles are:

Hamilton No. 15, 22 calibre, shoots 22, long or short,	each $2.00
Winchester Thumb Trigger, 22 calibre, shoots 22, long or short.
Steven's Crackshot, 22 or 32 calibre, short	" 4.50
Steven's Favorite, 22, 25 or 32 calibre, short Savage Junior, will take all sizes of 22 calibre cartridges
Winchester Model, 1902, 22 calibre, short, long, and long rifle
We have all kinds of 22 Repeaters, and also the Winchester 22 (Calibre Automatic.

The HINGSTON SMITH ARMS CO., Limited WINNIPEG Firearms Department

Children's Frocks Like New

—and all the faded curtains, cushion-covers and other things come out fresh and glowing—when you use the new soap-dye-

Maypole Soap

Fast shades, rich and even. Goes further—does better work with less trouble than the old-

Try it—and save money, time and worry.

Colours, 10c. Black, 15c. All dealers'-or from F. L. Benedict & Co., Montreal. Full-size cake (mention colour) and booklet on Home Dyeing, sent for 10c. (black, 15c.)

Do You Spell Your

It matters NOT where you live IF YOU HAVE PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS

Eczema, Blotches, Freckles, a sallow skin diseases, send us your name and address and we will send you FREE full 2 weeks' treatment of SKIN TONE; a quick, positive and permanant cure for all skin diseases—a marvellous Flesh Tonic and Complexion Beautifier. WRITE TO-DAY. Address

Richter Pharmacal Co. DEPT. 311M 88 CHURCH ST. TORONTO

$27.50 BUYS THIS STEEL RANGE

OUR GREAT MAIL ORDER TRADE WINNER

THIS handsome Steel Range is a wonder in value, agenuine up-to-date 1907 Model Steel Range, fully guaranteed by us to give entire satisfaction in every way. Just as good a range as many dealers sell at double the price. A splendid heater and a perfect baker, an ornament to the kitchen and the pride of the housekeeper, a really handsome Range that anyone might be proud of, and just think for only $27.50 this Range is youre, just about the price others ask for an ordinary cook stove, "Our Leader" Steel Range is made from 16 gauge Cold Roll Steel, and has aix Sinch lids; 18-inch oven, 15-gallon reservoir, and large high shelf warming closet. The top cooking surface is 30x34 inches. The Range complete, crated for shipping, weighs 400 lbs, and we guarantee it to reach you in perfect order. If you have any use for a Steel Range, or if you are contemplating buying a stove or Steel Range, do not buy a stove or range from any other dealer until you have first tried "Our Leader" Range. Just write us your nearest shipping point and we will tell you just what the freight will cost you on this Range. Send us only $27.50 and we will ship you "Our Leader" high grade Steel Range, take it to your home, set it up and use it for say a month, for, after all, that is about the only way to judge the value of a stove or range, then after you have given it a fair trial and putil to the most severe test that you might expect ever 10 put; to, and if you are not fully satisfied with the results it has given, and you think it is not worth many dollars more than the price we ask, send it back to us, and we will return the price in full which you paid, together with whatever freight charges you have paid. Is this not the most exceptional offer you ever heard of for a strictly high grade Steel Range, complete with 15-gallon Reservoir and High Shelf warming Closet, black japanned or aluminum finish.) Price, only $27.50. Or we will supply this same Range in full nickel trimmings for $33.00.

Our new Catalogue contains one of the finest assortments of Stoves and Ranges shown by any dealer in Canada, also Furniture, Sewing Machines and Clothing, also nearly everything in the way of General Merchandise. Our Catalogue will be sent to you Free of Charge and Post Paid. Just write and say "Send me your new Catalogue," and it will go to you by return mail. Send us the names of your friends or neighbors and we will send them our Catalogue also.

THE MACDONALD MAIL ORDER LIMITED

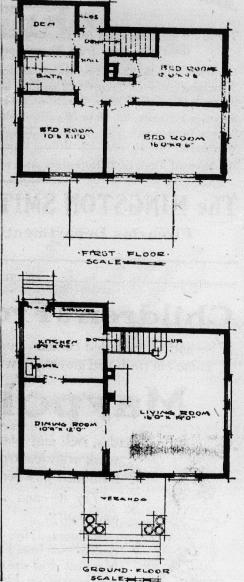

Dept. MI.

CANADA

WINNIPEG

This cottage is small. but the careful and convenient day-out make it very desirable as a country home. Special care has been given to make it substantial, while it is not costly. The intention is to build of shingles, with stucco above and stone foundation. The large white verandah opens into an old-fashioned and cheerful living room, with open joist ceiling and brick fireplace, with narrow shelf above. The stairs go verom living room and are colonial design. A seat and book shelves car be put between the fireplace and stairs, making the room look as if to be lived in. Draperies of denim hung full and straight look best in this style of room. A more furnished and comfortable look will be had with plenty of useful cushions. The very desirable as a country home. with plenty of useful cushions. The dining room opens from the living room with sliding doors, and has a window facing the front. The kitchen is at back of dining room and has a window on the side. Pan closets and drawers beneath the and drawers beneath the dresser, and cupboards above do away with the necessity of a pantry and is much more convenient in every respect. The basement stairs are under the main staircase. Upstairs are three bedrooms, well lighted. One contains a closet, and there is a linen closet in the hall. The betreen the staircase in the hall. the hall. The bathroom is fitted with all conveniences. At the head of the stairs is a den, which could be made very cozy finished with panelling and burlap painted dull blue or red. The bedrooms are most effective in white or cream finish. If one has not to consider expense, hard wood floors of maple should be used entirely, with a few small rugs. They are healthy and easier kept clean than carpeted floors.—V. W. Horwood, for Western Home Monthly.

SOMETHING TO PLEASE EVERYBODY

Stephens HOUSE

THE PRODUCT OF OUR TWENTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

These Paints will protect your property against all weather conditions, at the same time imparting an artistic and lasting finish.

We have prepared some interesting paint information in booklet form, and will be pleased to mail same on request. When writing, ask for Booklet No. 14.

G. F. STEPHENS & CO., LTD.

PAINT MAKERS

WINNIPEG, CANADA.

Get what you want by writing for our Catalogue. Rubber Goods of every description, Toilet and Sick Room Supplies, Drugs and Patent Remedies. We sell fifty per cent cheaper than any other house. The F. E. KARN CO., Limited

Canada's Largest Drug House Cor. Queen & Victoria Sts., Toronto

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

READ THIS GENUINE PENNYROYAL WAFERS

are not for men, but women have for 20 years found them the best monthly regulator procurable, allaying pains," correcting omission and irregularity. They are, in a word, reliable and healthful; $1.00 per box, mailed anywhere; sold everywhere; 36 in box; yellow label; English-French printed. Eureka Chemical Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sure Cure for Warts

There are many people troubled with unsightly warts. Why not have them cured? I have a sure cure. Write for receipt and full particulars. It will cost you only One Dollar to have your warts removed. Address to— FRANK LAHODA, Box 25

Dancing Skeleton

A WHOLE SHOW AT HOME.

This lively and amusing skeleton is 14 inches high, with movable legs and arms; will dance to music and perform astonishing tricks. Any boy or girl can operate it. Sentwith complete directions with our big catalogue for 10 cents. Address,

AVALLONE & RAPE
Box G. 106 Chicago, Ill.

Wanted: FARMERS' SONS with small know addresses of farm stock to write lists of names and addresses of farmers for advertising purposes, $40.00 monthly. No canvassing. Work evenings, sparetime only. Enclose stamp for particulars. FARMERS' VETERINARY ASSOCIATION, Dept. C. Toronto, Ontario.

"Preventics will promptly check a com or the Grippe when taken early or at the "sneeze stage." Preventics cures seated colds as well. Preventics are little candy cold cure tablets, and Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., will gladly mail you samples and a book on Colds free, if you will write him. The samples prove their merit. Check early Colds with Preventics and stop Pneumonia. Sold in 5c, and 25c. boxes by druggists.

SIX CANS OF Hackney Gall Cure

FREE!

THE will mail a 25 ct. can of Hackney Gall Cure, free, to the first six stock-owners outside of Winnipeg, answering this advertisement.

Hackney Gall cures sore shoulders, backs and necks, galls, cuts sore teats, etc. To all who answer this advertisement we will send an order on their dealer for a pail of the great condition powder On Thirty Days' Trial.

HACKNEY STOCK TONIC

All you have to do is to send your name and address and your dealer's name and address.

HACKNEY STOCK FOOD CO. WINNIPEG, MAN.

BIG M

Dear Sir,—From having mectory I have already receive parcels of mails, and still the Papers, Samples, Magazine have often paid 10 to 25 cents

Send 10 cents to-day to Man, Dept. J 125, Kenned

SEWING MACHINES from $13.50 to $35.00

SEWING MACHINES
FREE for 20 days' trial. We send out all machines on 20 days' free trial before we ask you to accept or pay for them. If not satisfactory, send them back at our expense. We sell a 5-drawer, drop-head sewing oak woodwork, for $17.50;
same pattern, guaranteed fo $21.50; machines with ball fine woodwork, cost a little in half what others charge.

1s Delighted with the Sw

As Delighted with the Sw Machine
Brandon, Ma
Windsor Supply Co., Windso Gentlemen,—All that I can sheart Sewing Machine is the delighted with it, and thinl machine is its superior. I ar friends and they are surpris are able to buy one they will Yours trnl

Our Sewing Machine Cataloing our different styles, free. Windsor Supply Co.,

A GOOD INVE

about the hair and is a fitting adornment to Mail Order Department is still growing apace and besides orders for wigs, toupees, transformations and switches, quite a number of people send us waves to be dressed. This only costs 25 cts. and 5 cts. for postage. Our switches (made of strictly first quality hair) range from $1.00 upwards. We have them both straight and curly. A pompadour (ventilated, on vegetable net) can be obtained for $4, while if you prefer us to made you one up from your own combings the cost would only be $1.50. We include one of our beautifully Parisian fancy combs on all orders of $5.00 and upwards.

wealth of information

perfectly satisfactory.

Money refunded if not

The NEW YORK SEAMAN & PET

Dept. W.H. Winnipeg and Cedar Local Store, Y.M.C.A. BLO

le d

k arly or cures

nd Dr.

y mail

s free,

amples

ggists.

Colds

BIG MAIL FREE

Vour name and address Printed 10,000 times in our Mailing Directory and sent to 10,000 firms all over the world, so they can send you Free Samples Catalogues, Magazines, Books, Papers, etc. We invented this ond have satisfied 200,000 customers. Send 20 cents at once to be in 1907 BIG issue and get a BIG MAIL FREE. Canadian addresses especially desired.

Ingrant, Va., Jan. 7, 1907

Especially desired.

Ingram, Va., Jan. 7, 1907.

Dear Sir,—From having my name in your Directory I have already received more than 2,(00 parcels of mails, and still they come, scores of Papers, Samples, Magazines, etc., for which I have often paid 10 to 25 cents each, before.

R. T. JAMES.

Send 10 cents to-day to ALLEN, The Mail Man, Dept. J 125, Kennedy, N. Y.

half what others charge.

1s Delighted with the Sweetheart Sewing Machine.
Brandon, Man., Jan. 8th, 1906.

Windsor Supply Co., Windsor, Ont.:
Gentlemen,—All that I can say about the Sweetheart Sewing Machine is that Mrs. Anderson is delighted with it, and thinks that no sewing machine is its superior. I am showing it to my friends and they are surprised, and when they are able to buy one they will ask me to do it.—
Yours truly,
S. ANDERSON.
Our Sewing Machine Catalogue, fully explain-

Our Sewing Machine Catalogue, fully explaining our different styles, free. Write for it. Windsor Supply Co., Windsor, Ont.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

of money to invest in a good thing. We want every reader of the Western Home Monthly to send us a postcard and ask for a copy of our new beautifully illus. trated booklet which we send absolutely free It contains a wealth of information about the hair and is a fitting adornment to MailOrder Department is still growing apace and besides orders for wigs, toupees, transformations and switches, quite a number of people send us waves to be dressed. This only costs 25 cts. and 5 cts. for postage. Our switches (made of strictly first quality hair) range from $1.00 upwards. We have them both straight and curly. A pompadour (ventilated, on vegetable net) can be obtained for $4, while if you prefer us to made yon one up from your own combings the cost would only be $1.50. We include one of our beautifully Parisian fancy combs on all orders of $5.00 and upwards. Money refunded if not perfectly satisfactory.

The NEW YORK Hair Store

SEAMAN & PETERSEN

Dept. W.H.M. Winnipeg and Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Marriage Misery if Wife Holds Purse.

By HELEN OLDFIELD.

My little old wife and I fell out. What do you think it was all about? She had money and I had none: That was how the trouble begun.

It needs no seer nor Solon to tell us that matrimonial infelicity is frequently, as the threadbare conundrum has it, "a matter of money." Nor is there vexation of spirit, not to say open disagreement, only when the wife holds the purse strings, and holds them tight. The misery of many a marriage is owing primarily, if not "first, last and all the time," to the fact that the wife, instead of being an equal partner in the community of two, is, in point of fact, merely a pensioner upon her husband's bounty. Nor is this, excepting in cases which are the rare exception, the result of malice aforethought upon the part of the husband; it is simply one of the many instances in which

Evil is wrought for want of thought, And not for want of heart.'

The husband does not think, and the wife does not remind him. Wherein it is greatly her own fault that she receives less than her due. In this world "Them that asks gits," and the women who, because of oversensitiveness, or because they are too proud to ask as a favor for that which they feel is theirs by right, to exact of love what should be spontaneous, fail to claim their own, will usually find that their husbands take it for granted that they have what they want, and thus do not concern themselves with what lies below the surface. The woman who understands the art "de se faire valoir," who can assert herself not aggressively, but prettily, coaxingly and affectionately, is the wife whom her husband appreciates most highly. Everywhere, and under all conditions of life, people are generally accepted at their own estimate, provided that they can make a fair showing of their pretensions. Moreover, there are few emergencies of mutual intercourse whereunto the doctrine of the New Thought: "We invite what we expect," applies so fully as to this. When a wife sweetly takes it for granted that her husband's first object in all that he says and does is to insure her future comfort and present happiness, and when she also endeavors with all her might to repay his love by making him happy in return, no man, worthy of a name, but will rejoice to spend and be spent to the utmost in order that her fond trust shall not be disappointed. Only it is fatally easy to overdo the thing.

During the first year of married life people ought to settle the scale of domto live. It is better to set this scale earn a living for herself and for t it can be more easily raised than lowered. From the first the wife should be careful to pay her bills every week, without fail; for, in spite of the common custom, it is only wealthy people who can afford to run up bills. When a wife is not given the money for this, it is sometimes, not always, however, because she has mismanaged her husband, and perhaps his money at the beginning. The first few months of married life are the heyday of a wife's power. Let her use it not merely to get concessions, present, or any immediate advantage, but to make her husband the sort of man and husband he would like himself afterwards to be: Every couple who marry should know exactly what they are marrying on. It is only fools who marry upon little or nothing and expect a Providence, not their own, to provide for them. Common sense and ordinary prudence require that there should be money enough in hand, and in plain sight, to defray the necessary and reasonable expenses of the young menage. Neither should any woman who marries a poor man expect to live as though he were rich. Having married upon a small income. she is in duty bound to economize, and also to do so cheerfully. A man must provide for his wife, but he can do so only according to his ability. It would be a hard case for women of wealth if none of them might marry road nearly 150 miles long, which is Local Store, Y.M.C.A. BLOCK, WINNIPEG. poor men, but the man who is willing practicable for automobiles to be entirely dependent upon his wife for a living is poor in other respects than in that of pocket. Not the least of the many counts to the credit of Prince Albert, that "prince of gentlemen," is the unwillingness which he manifested to receive an allowance from parliament as husband to the queen. None the less, a woman who truly loves rejoices to give not only all that she is but all that she has to her beloved. Whether she is wise in such liberality depends wholly upon the man. It has been well said that the man who is good for nothing else sometimes makes a good husband, and this is only when he has a good wife, who is too capable to mind his inefficiency in other directions.

Prominent among new doctrines in this era of strange gospels is that which holds that the woman is bound to contribute to the support of the family by earning money as the man does. Which is, on the face of it, contrary to nature. It is the province of the woman to make the home, of the man to furnish the materials wherewith it is made. The care of a house and family fitly kept, the proper conduct of a household, exacts an amount of work, mental and physical, which, if exercised in any other vocation, would enable one to earn a living, perhaps to amass wealth. wife who does her whole duty within the walls of her own home is a true helpmeet, and, while her loving service can be repaid only in love, she is also financially well worthy of her hire.

Nevertheless, it is often a mistake for a woman to think that if she marries she must give up all work which is not strictly domestic or to imagine that she will be the happier for doing so. If she has the talent and ability to do other work at home, she will find it far more pleasant as well as profitable than the ordinary labor of "killing time," which occupies so many married women who have little or nothing to do. A physician, who addressed the recent health congress in Europe, declared that "A home pursuit for women would work miracles in thousands of cases of nervous disease."

But such occupatio nor pursuit should be only for hours which would be else idle. Neither husband children, nor house should be neglected because of it. For example, children have a right which should be unalienable to be "mothered" by their own mother, and no amount of money which she can make by turning over the care of them to hirelings can compensate them for the loss of her personal attention. It estic economy upon which they propose less and the mother is thus forced to that she must choose the less of two n the ceilingo of one of the rooms in Sans Souci, the world-renowned palace of Frederick the Great, is painted a great spider with its web. The origin of this strange decoration is as follows: This apartment was the great king's breakfast room, and adjoined his bedchamber. Every morning when his Majesty entered the room he was accustomed to find a cup of chocolate, but on one occasion just as he was about to drink he thought of something he had forgotten, and returned to his bedroom. When he again entered the breakfast-room his Majesty discovered that a great spider had dropped from the ceiling into the cup, and he naturally cried out for fresh chocolate to be prepared. The next moment the king was startled by the report of a pistol. No sooner had the cook received the order than he blew out his brains. Not because the king had refused the chocolate did he do this, but because he had poisoned the cup and thought himself discovered. It was in remembrance of this narrow escape that his Majesty ordered the spider with its

Boma, in the Congo Free State, has a

SAVES THE WIFE WORK

Sufficient reason for any farmer to at once instal

CREAM

Less trouble to clean and easier to turn than any other separator made. All we claim for the Melotte has been proved by test.

GET A GOOD PUMP

Separator Co. Cream

WINNIPEG CALGARY

> W. ANTLIFF, Manager.

Agents for Ideal Gasoline Engines

WRITE US TO-DAY. when you are at it are the most satisfactory for Western Farmers. Specially made to stand the excessive heat and Always Reliable Melotte LIMITED

LITTLE Ailments

SUCH AS HEADACHE, WIND, LOSS OF APPETITE, AND WEARINESS, ARE

SIGNS OF INDIGESTION

To neglect them is dangerous. They weaken your system, because undigested food poisons your blood instead of giving you nourishment and strength, and may lead to serious illness.

Take MOTHER Syrup

"For over six years I was subject to severe attacks of dyspepsia. They gave me great pain, and I could not sleep, eat or work. On a friend's advice I took Mother Seigel's Syrup and was soon completely cared." Horatio Till, Geary, Ne Prunswick. Jan. 16, 1907.

The Sure Remedy for All Digestive Troubles

Price 60 cents per bottle. A. J. WHITE & CO., MONTREAL for 12 months for 12 months $18 in all, buys the EGON-OMY SEW-ING MA-CHINE. A Rive Drawer Drop Head Cabinet, Solid Oak, Handsomely Polished. Guaranteed for ten years.

$1.50

THREE MONTHS FREE TRIAL The head is designed on beautiful symmetrical lines, high arm and full length, made of best materials, and all waring parts Case Hardened. Supplied with a complete set of the Latest Improved Steel Attachments, a full set of accessories and a comprehensive Instruction Book, Cabinet is of selected oak with high gloss polish, exactly as illustrated.

cabinet is of selected one management of selected one exactly as illustrated.

OUR OFFER Mail us your name and address saying you would like dress saying Machine Offer, and you will receive by return mail FREE, the most Liberal Offer ever heard of. Don't buy a Sewing Machine of any kind on any kind of terms until after you receive our offer. Write to-day for further particulars.

The Winnipeg Couch Co.

108 Bon Accord Block WINNIPEG MAN MANITOBA

Fleming's Lump Jaw Cure and it-remains today the standard treatment; with years of success back of it, known to be a cure and guaranteed to cure. Don't experiment with substitutes or imitations. Use it, no matter how old or bad the case or what else you may have tried—your money back if Fleming's Lump Jaw Cure ever fails. Our fair plan of selling, together with exhaustive information on Lump Jaw and its treatment, is given in Fleming's Vest-Pocket

Fleming's Vest-Pocket
Veterinary Adviser
Most complete veterinary book ever printed to be given away. Durably bound, indexed and illustrated. Write us for a free copy. FLEMING BROS., Chemists, 58 Church Street,

to plainness and prove more attractive than gathers or tucks. The tucks near the hem assist the flare and are quite in keeping with the fashion of the day. A square yoke and standing collar may finish the neck or it may be in Dutch square outline as shown. Sleeves in full or short puff length are provided AGENTS WANTED (worth 50 cts) and terms 10 cts. You, Box 1518, New Haven, Conn.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT

The Western Home Monthly will send any pattern mentioned below on receipt of price specified.

Order by number, stating size wanted.

Address Pattern Department, The Western Home Monthly, Winnipeg, Man.

4156—A Bussian Blouse Suit for the Lad.

Never was there a mode more becoming and practical for the small boy than the Russian suit with its long blouse loosely belted at the waist and generous knickers, which give him pienty of room for sport of all sorts. The suit sketched is especially pleasing for its tucks in panel effect, front and back, and the tucks which retain the fulness of the sleeve instead of the usual cuff. A standing collar, which is not too high for comfort and closes at the side, finishes the neck and does away with the Eton collar of linen which needs such frequent changing. The knickerbockers are without a fly and very easily made. Serge, or the usual tub fabrics, may serve, of which 2½ yards of 54 inches wide are needed in the medium size.

4156—sizes, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 years. The price of this pattern is 15c.

Special Offer-This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for 4172—A Charming Little Frock of ... Much Simplicity.

For little maids there is no prettier style of dress than that of one piece, and a pleasing example is shown in the accompanying sketch. Two box pleats in front and back relieve any tendency for so that a dressy or plain frock may be realized with this pattern. A tub fabric or light weight cloth may serve as material, of which 21% yards 36 inches wide are needed for the medium size. 4172—sizes, ½, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 years. The price of this pattern is 15c.

Special Offer-This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for 4129-A Small Apron of Good Style.

Aprons, as well as frocks, differ in smartness, and while they are primarily useful, their general appearance should also be considered inasmuch as the activities of youth demand that they form so important a part of the wardrobe. A pleasing little apron, which is simply made and most practical, is sketched in hope that it will give a suggestion to mothers who fashion such garments. The yoke-band forms the shoulder straps and may be of 2-inch wide embroidery if desired. The waist portion is full so as to blouse a bit, while the skirt is short in the style of the French dress. Cross-barred muslin, dimity and lawn are the favorite materials for these aprons intended for everyday. In the medium size yards of 36-inch material are needed.

4129—sizes, 4 to 12 years.

The price of this pattern is 15c.

Special Offer—This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for Western Home Monthly—all three for 50 cents.

4187—A Little Empire Gown for Miss Baby.

The wee one of the household must have new summer gowns as well as the mother, and surely Dame Fashion can find no more lovely wearer for her dainty creations. The small dress shown is Empire in style and very pleasing. The front of the skirt and waist are prettily full and joined by a narrow band of insertion. Tiny tucks appear at either side of the center front and back, which, with some dainty insertion added, will prove most fetching. Baby's dresses are always the most exquisite things imaginable, and this one will find favor with mothers who fashion such little clothes. A French nainsook, mull or Persian lawn may serve, of which 3% yards 27 inches wide are needed. needed. 4187—one size.

The price of this pattern is 15c.

Special Offer—This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for 50 cents.

6815—A Summertime Comfort.

The heat of summer days is often rendered less oppressive by the donning of some light and dainty negligee and every woman and girl provides herself with several before this time arrives. A very dainty one is shown in flowered dimity with collar of plain material for contrast. The sack and sleeves are laid in narrow tucks at the top and the result is most pleasing. The closing is effected in front and may be elaborated with ribbon bows or pretty buttons. For home making, this is excellent in style as it is a hit unusual and therefore more valued. The thin silks and washing fabrics may any of them be used successfully in its realization. For the medium size 3% yards of 36-inch material are needed. 6815—sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

The price of this pattern is 15c.
Special Offer—This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for 50 cents.

Gowns intended for taking on the most ing to wear and look shown an unusually promewhat on the lines ting to wear and look shown an unusually promewhat on the lines while the broad collar becomingly and adds shoulders. The from with the ribbon girms everal bows down the pretty buckle at the wither place of all other the materials for suc wide variety and one the silks, challis, case the filmy washing fall be had for a few cercollar is pretty trimm row insertion as show row pleated silk or rise not difficult to fashifor afternoon as well developed daintily. Size 8¼ yards of 36-in needed.

6809—sizes, 32 to measure.

The price of this needed. 6809-A Gown for the measure. The price of this pa

Special Offer—This one other pattern in the with one year's substructure. Home Month 50 cents. 9869-70-A Dainty Co Drawer

In the fashioning of the average woman to and a suggestion for drawers of late design corset cover is a bit unband which forms the and supports the full pe of a plain material a lace or embroidery or itucking such as out bridal undergarments with. The full body poat the walst with a beading. The drawers yoke and fit the hips These are easily full an ed in regulation or galatter style are popul with a deep ruffle as slof 36-inch material are corset cover in the med yards for the drawers length. or embroidery or length. Two patterns-6869-

Two patterns—6869—inches bust measure.
24, 28, 32 inches waist.
The price of these pateither will be sent upor

The shirt blouse an have yet to find their respectively. The shirt blouse an have yet to find their respectively. The shirt blouse is double-to in small box pleats who ness and style. The may be worn or not as choice of long or short vided for. The washab excellent for such a way or silk might also serve unusually attractive we over the hips and bow the lower edge. It may be word the waist or seasonable worsted. The waist of the waist or seasonable worsted. The waist or seasonable worsted.

The price of these ut either will be sent 1907.

insertion g. Baby's exquisite one will fashion nainsook, serve, of wide are

15c. with any together n to The three for nfort. is often the donnegligee provides tims time is shown of plain sack and ks at the pleasing. The sack is a bit unued. The may any in its size 3% in its size 3% needed. with any three for

Gowns intended for comfort wear are taking on the most restful lines and contours and are withal most pleasing to wear and look upon. Here is shown an unusually pretty gown built somewhat on the lines of the princess. Tiny tucks give form to the waist and are wonderfully neat and graceful, while the broad collar frames the face becomingly and adds breadth to the shoulders. The front may be closed with the ribbon girdle alone or by several bows down the front, while a pretty buckle at the waistline may take the place of all other ornamentation. The materials for such a gown are of wide variety and one may choose from the silks, challis, cashmeres or from the filmy washing fabrics which may be had for a few cents a yard. The collar is pretty trimmed with the narrow insertion as shown. or with narrow pleated silk or ribbon. The gown is not difficult to fashion and may serve for afternoon as well as morning, if developed daintily. For the medium size 8½ yards of 36-inch material are needed.

6809—sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust 6809-A Gown for the Hour of Ease.

needed.
6809—sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

The price of this pattern is 15c. . Special Offer—This pattern, with any one other pattern in this issue, together with one year's subscription to The Western Home Monthly—all three for 50 cents.

6869-70-A Dainty Corset Cover and Drawers.

In the fashioning of dainty lingerie, the average woman takes real delight and a suggestion for corset cover and drawers of late design is given. The corset cover is a bit unique for its yoke band which forms the shoulder straps and supports the full portion. This may be of a plain material and trimmed with lace or embroidery or it may be of fine tucking such as our grandmothers bridal undergarments were beautified with. The full body portion is finished at the waist with a narrow band or beading. The drawers are made on a yoke and fit the hips very smoothly. These are easily full and may be finished in regulation or garter length. The latter style are popular and finished with a deep ruffle as shown. 14 yards of 36-inch material are needed for the corset cover in the medium size and 2½ yards for the drawers in the regulation length.

Two patterns—6869—6 sizes 32 to 42

Two patterns—6869—6 sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust measure. 6870—sizes, 20, 24, 28, 32 inches waist.

The price of these patterns is 30c. but either will be sent upon receipt of 15c.

6867—68—A Smart Get up for Summer

The shirt blouse and walking skirt have yet to find their peers for general knockabout wear, and the woman who desires an outfit for use during the coming weeks will find the accompanying models both chic and practical. The shirt blouse is double-breasted and laid in small box pleats which, lend shapliness and style. The removable shield may be worn or not as desired, while a choice of long or short sleeves is provided for. The washable waistings are excellent for such a waist, while pongee or silk might also serve. The skirt is unusually attractive with its trimness over the hips and bountiful ripple at the lower edge. It may be of the material of the waist or of any cloth or seasonable worsted. The waist calls for 34 yards of 36 inch material in the medium size and the skirt 5½ yards of 44 inches wide.

6867—sizes. 32 to 42 inches bust

6867—sizes. 32 to 42 inches bust

6868—7 sizes. 20 to 32 inches waist.

The price of these patterns is 30c.
ut either will be sent upon receipt of

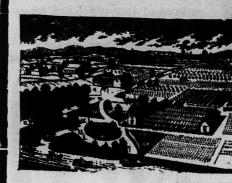

R. D. EVANS, Discoverer of the famous EVANS' CANCER CURE, desires all who suffer with Caninternal Cancer. Write, R. D. EVANS, BRANDON, MANITOBA.

HARDY TREES FOR A TREELESS COUNTRY

GROWN AND FOR SALE BY

"CANADA'S GREATEST NURSERIES"

Thoroughly tested and recommended by the Western Experimental Stations at Brandon and Indian Head as suitable varieties for MANITOBA, ALBERTA and SASKATCHEWAN.

SALESMEN WANTED

Start now at best selling time.

Pay Weekly Permanent Employment Specially designed Western Outfit Free.

Stone & Wellington Fonthill Nurseries (Over 800 acres) Toronto, Ontario.

WEAKMEN

No one should be weak, no one should suffer the loss of that vitality which renders life worth living. You should not allow your self to become less than Nature intended no one should suffer when there is at head a certain cure for their weakness and lest vi ality.

Most of the pains, most of the weakness of stemach, heart, brain and nerves from which many suffer are due to an early less of Nature's reserve power. You need not suffer from this. You can be restered. The very dement which you have lost you can get back, and you may be as happy as any person that lives.

I have the grandest invention of the age for weak men; the surest and easiest cure for all nervous and chronic diseases. Its wenderful power is directed to the seat of the nervous system, through which its vitalized strength penetrates into all parts of the body, carrying new life into every organ or part which has been weakened by disease or dissipation, restoring energy to the brain and power to the system. No weak, sickly or delicate man or weman will ever regret a fair trial of will ever regret a fair trial of

Dr Mel aughlin's Flactric Polt ni Micranalilli 9 Electi ic Dali

It will make you strong. It will send the life blood dancing through your veins, you will find the exhilarating spark warm your frame, the bright flush will come to your eye and a firm grip to your hand, and you will be able to grasp your fellow man and feel that what others are capable of doing is not impossible to you. This grand appliance has brought strength, ambition and happiness to thousands in the past year.

It is the one sure remedy for the cure of Rheumatism, Weak Back, Weak Kidneys, Weak Stemach, Less of Vitality in young or old, and similar ailments, as well as Dyspepsia, Constipation, etc. How can any one remain in doubt as to the value of this grand remedy when you see so many cures by it?

Dear Sir,—Ever since starting to wear your Electric Belt I have felt a decided improvement in my condition. After two month's use the pain entire disart cared, and I have not been trouble with it since. Wishing you every success, I remain yours traly, Bear Sir,—I am fully sa isfied with my Belt; it is a good cure. I am stronger in every way and I thank you very much for your Belt. It is well worth the money I gave for it. Yours t uly, WILLIAM J. PHAESON, Pleming, Sask.

Dear Sir,—I received the Belt a month ago, and am well pleased with it as it h lped me wonderfully. I am stronger than I have been for a long time. I remain, yours truly, MES. MAGGIE HANSEN, Baymond, Alts.

Dear Sir, I write to say that I do not find anything so good as your Belt for lame back. Yours very truly, DAVID WHITE-HEAD, Carnduff, Sask.

Dear Sir, Regarding your Belt must say that after three or four applications, the pain entirely left me and I am according

Dear Sir. Regarding your Be't must say that after three or four applications, the pain entirely left me and I am completely well again. E. L. JOHNEON, 546 Manitoba Avenue, Winnipeg, Man.

NOT A CENT UNTIL CURED.

That is my offer. You take my latest improved appliance and use it in my way for three menths, and if it does not cure you need not pay me. My only condition is that you secure me, so that I will get my meney when

CALL TO-DAY

Free { Consultation.
Book.
Test.

If You Oan't Oall Sond Coupon for Free Book. DR. E. M. McLAUGHLIN, 112 Yonge Street, Toronto, Canada,

Dear Sir,-Please forward me one of your books as advertised. NAME

Office Hours-9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday till 9

RUPTURED! GET OUR PRICES

5he F. E. KARN CO., Limited Canada's Greatest Medicino House COR. QUEEN & VICTORIA STREETS When writing advertisers please mention

The Western Home Monthly.

Spare Moments

Cannot be better employed than in improving your education. We teach you at home.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand. Penmanship, Arithmetic, Complete Commercial, Agriculture, Stock Raising, Poultry Raising, Electrical Engineering, Steam Engineering, Mechanical Drawing, Civil Service, Public School Course, High School Course, High School Entrance, Matriculation, Teachers' Certificates (any Province), Special English or any subject.

Draw a line through course wanted, clip out this advt., and send, with name and address, for prospectus and full information.

The Home Correspondence School of Canada, Limited

Dept. E. Toronto, Can. In consolidation with the Canadian Correspondence College, Limited.

In the World of Music.

The sudden collapse of the German opera season in London is a fresh illustration of the difficulty of establishing the opera as a British institution. On the Continent quite small towns—Brussels and Geneva are examples—support permanent opera-houses; and permanence is, in this case, one of the conditions of artistic perfection. A scratch performance is generally a bad performance, made ridiculous by half-trained supers; and English opera is operatic firmament take part in it. That, indeed, is the price which we pay for making the opera a fashion able instead of an artistic function. Our oratorios, which do not depend upon fashion, are better done, though our foreign critics tell us that they are the most tedious of all kinds of musical composition, intolerable to any nation which regards music as an art, and not merely as a devotional

Popular crazes over sopranos have existed but they have seldom reached he frenzied pitch of tenor-worship. This may be due to the fact that itself: Why is it usually the tenor, pect women to be most deeply impressed by the manliest voice, and a nothing could be more virile than a robust, dramatic tenor like De Probably the composers are largely responsible for the tenor-worship. In Verdi's operas, with hardly an exportant part than the baritone or bass, and the same is true of other forget it. writers, Mozart's "Don Giovanni" She for being a notable exception. Wagner wrote one opera, "The Flying Dutchman," in which the baritone is king, whereas in six of his works the supremacy of the tenor is indicated by the very titles—"Reinzi," "Tannhäuser," "Lohengrin," "Tristan and Isolde." "Siegfried," "Parsifal."

Madame Adelina Patti has just This being so, we shall probably concelebrated her 64th birthday. She tinue to be subject to the tyranny of one tenor or another, unless it is one tenor or another, unless it is true, as was maintained at a recent conclave of French savants, that the tenor voice is a relic of barbarism, destined to become extinct.

Out of the "Salome" mess, that offended the powers that be in the Metropolitan Opera House to such an extent that Mr. J. Peirpont Mor gan remarked that he would rather formance is generally a bad performance, made ridiculous by half-trained supers; and English opera is almost invariably of that character, even when the brightest stars in the continued, many than have the Strauss-Wilder continued, emerged at least one triumphant figure: no less a continued of the continued of person than Miss Olive Fremstad, who played the title role.

It was some years ago that the singer, a young girl, began to attract attention as the contralto soloist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, and in concert work. She was beginning to enjoy a considerable reputation along these lines when she departed for further study in Europe, under that famous artist, Lill Lehmann.

Then came the engagement in this country, which is proud to claim Miss Fremstad, for although born in Sweden, her childhood was spent in America, and it is here that her great tenors are much scarcer than great sopranos. One might also attribute the greater ardor of the worship of the Jean de Reszkes, the Carusos, the Alvarys, to the fact that Carusos, the idolators are women. greatest successes have come to her.
Her first notable success was her
"Carmen." Since Calve charmed
New York with her wonderful imto the great Frenchwoman. But hardly ever the baritone or bass. Miss Fremstad proved the exception. who is worshipped? One would ex- Her impersonation was judged on its Her impersonation was judged on its cwn merits, and pronounced a remarkable piece of work. The opera bass or baritone is more manly than the lyric tenor voice which approximates the feminine alto. To be sure, the greatest opportunity yet accorded her. Although the interruption of Tamagno, or Niemann. the performances of this opera has prevented many from witnessing Miss Fremstad's triumph in the amazingly difficult role, those fortunate enough ception, the tenor plays a more im- to be present at the rehearsal or first performance are not likely soon to

She formed a beautiful picture as

Binder Twine Co-operation Eight Thousand Farmers

As farmers, you still keep mopping off your brows, not from excessive heat, but from the burdens of monopoly and combine which continue rampant in the land. Millers' lumber combine, car, elevators, coal and wood shortage, all under the same bann. Farmers' incomes virtually cut in two, and getting worse every day. We want farmer agents in every district from the Atlantic to the Pacific, no others need apply. Move quickly. Stand by our Red Star and Special Manila, and you will make no mistake. Send to us for special articles on the whole black family of combines. Then pass them on to your neighbour. They're paralyzers.

Farmers' Binder Twine Co., Limited.

JOSEPH STRATFORD, General Manager

BRANTFORD, ONTARIO

The Prima Donna.

By Alovsius Coll.

A hand above the stage of pink and green Raises the thin-worn curtain-cloth of snow; A lime-light flares, and flashes on the scene— The dawn of April sets the wood aglow!

A sea of upturned faces fills the pit— Cowslip and violet budding in the fen, A host of hushed and eager folk that sit And crowd the auditorium of the glen.

A whisper thrills the silence and the hush-She comes! She comes! From flower to nod-Scatters the glad announcement of the thrush.

And breaks the mad impatience of the hour!

Into the light, a maid of joy serene, She trips, as one affoat upon the air, Her gown a witching mystery of green A trembling rosebud blossoms in her hair!

A glance, a smile, a curtsey to the throng; And then, the singer's magic opening Of throat and lips; the torrent-gates of song;
The lyric of the Prima Donna—Spring!

The Mo

N. T. McMillan: I think the people There was some prostreet that sold for S

Dr. Chas. Aked: bedroom windows ar have not been clo closed once since home since the house storms rage through rain comes in. The the rain upon my bed wet as if I had come bath, and the pillows after a March or No I am warm and co have never taken a c

Rt. Hon. Ex-Pren is not our desire th should lose their in are glad that the C remember they are the Australians that Lord Meath: It is say that the British late shown some sig that British grit is to be. Is the nation Life, certainly, is tak less thought is given more to the attainm and luxury.

Hon. Senator Day bert): That in the the government she expert officer in con board of railway o Canada to be called telegraph commission shall be to have ful gards construction, nance and operation and telephone lines

Sir Wilfred Laurie that a new leaf has it has been turned b orable friend, Mr. B. has done something new in connection w macy in America. Canada. (Laughter a is the first time, as that His Majesty's Washington has v

Prof. Osler: As tained that all the have come from mer the history of the w a very large propor may be traced to the nearly all of the grelitical and social, all most of the bad pict of the bad novels, r sermons and speeche

King Edward: penal code which wa sary 100 years ago ha replaced in the p a higher civilization ing a more humane at a nobler purpose. crime should be pu better that the crimi formed.

Magistrate Daly: juvenile crime was both Canada and th Judge Lindsay of Co most successful in most serious phases at the logical conclu tion was more nece ing the offenders as

Robert Redford: tween Halifax, Quel is some 836 miles, h shortened, by a stra line, by 100 miles. ning 60 miles an hor trains should have th a purpose-Quebec. tawa, and many poi oly conanny of recent rbarism,

in the

nt Mor

rather etropoli-e Com-

ss-Wilde

at least less a remstad,

hat the attract ploist of

w York She was siderable

hen she

Europe, t, Lilli

nent in to claim

born in spent in hat her to her.

was her charmed

rful im-

ucceeded approval,

mparison

n. But

xception.

ed on its

d a rene opera

ecided to d proved ption of pera has ing Miss

mazingly enough

1 or first soon to icture as e vicious

ig alone

eputation

at ability.

nd Miss this side

lmire her

Salome,

The Month's Bright Sayings.

N. T. McMillan: In San Francisco | would be brought as close to Halifax I think the people are land crazy | as to New York. I mention this There was some propetry on Market street that sold for $10,000 per foot. delays occurring between Halifax

Dr. Chas. Aked: All night my bedroom windows are wide open, and line with a terminus at Halifax. have not been closed nor partly closed once since I have been at home since the house was built. The ment of railroad men—it is often storms rage through the room. The now asserted—instead of attending rain comes in. The west wind beats to the practical business for which the rain upon my bed. My head is as the stockholders are supposed to be wet as if I had come out of a shower bath, and the pillows are wet through after a March or November gale. But I am warm and comfortable, and I have never taken a cold.

Rt. Hon. Ex-Premier Balfour: It is not our desire that the Colonies should lose their individuality. We are glad that the Canadians should remember they are Canadians, and the Australians that they are Aus-

> Lord Meath: It is not too much to have been denied. say that the British character has of late shown some signs of softening: that British grit is not what it used and luxury.

Hon. Senator Davis (Prince Albert): That in the public interest the government should appoint an expert officer in connection with the board of railway commissioners of Canada to be called a telephone and telegraph commissioner, whose duties shall be to have full control, as regards construction, location, maintenance and operation of all telegraph and telephone lines in Canada.

has done something new-something new in connection with British diplomacy in America. He has visited is the first time, as far as we know, that His Majesty's ambassador at Washington has visited Canadian

Prof. Osler: As it can be maintained that all the great advances have come from men under forty, so may be traced to the sexagenarians nearly all of the great mistakes, political and social, all the worst poems, most of the bad pictures, a majority of the bad novels, not a few of the sermons and speeches.

King Edward: The barbarous penal code which was deemed necessary 100 years ago has gradually been replaced in the progress towards a higher civilization by laws breathing a more humane spirit and aiming at a nobler purpose. It is well that crime should be punished, but it is better that the criminal should be re-

Magistrate Daly: The question of juvenile crime was a great one in both Canada and the United States. Judge Lindsay of Colorado, had been most successful in dealing with its most serious phases and had arrived at the logical conclusion that correction was more necessary than treating the offenders as criminals.

Robert Redford: The distance beshortened, by a straightening of the line, by 100 miles. With trains run-delays occurring between Halifax and Quebec and Montreal have been cited as arguments against the fast paying them their salaries, are to be found in Wall Street and in the large New York hotels, building up their private fortunes by day, and pursuing their pleasures by night. The smaller fry of railroad officials have been the holders of stocks in coal companies, grain elevator companies, and other enterprises along the line, and it would be absurd to deny that as the prevailing rule such companies and enterprises have been favored with a supply of freight cars and other facilities for doing business, when their competitors and the general public

Dr. Wiley: Gelatin factories are the dirtiest in the world; that the to be. Is the nation losing its fibre? hides used are treated with alkali, Life, certainly, is taken more easily— which is rubbed into them before less thought is given to duty, and shipment. The hides are scraped more to the attainment of pleasure and trimmed and are then put into the tanners' vats and the residue used for gelatin. This gelatin is sometimes made in glue factories, and that which is not fit for glue is made into gelatin into gelatin.

Principal W. A. McIntyre: There are always some who attend normal school who will ever lack power, because of some inherent weakness. It may be physical or it may be mental; It may be native inability or it may be the result of early association. We cannot help but feel that these incompetents should have been advised Sir Wilfred Laurier: Let me say by the teachers in the secondary that a new leaf has been turned and schools to enter upon some other it has been turned by our right hon- calling. Where the mother-spirit is orable friend, Mr. Bryce. Mr. Bryce lacking, where there is no marked sense of sociability, where there is no genius for leadership, where there is macy in America. He has visited no power of expression, it is impos-Canada. (Laughter and cheers.) This sible that there should be good teaching.

Dr. Luther H. Gulick: The pictures that are made in our eyes, and that are always being translated into nerve currents and reported to the brain, form the foundation of our have come from men under forty, so thinking. They consitute a far larger the history of the world shows that a very large proportion of the evile a very large proportion of the evils size of the muscles involved would mental activity, and, by interfering with it, many of the other organisms are disturbed. Constant exhaustion and strain of these visual centres will frequently cause disturbances of the most extensive character.

> Admiral Dewey: Life is a school. The world is a house of instruction. It is not a prison nor a penitentiary, nor a palace of ease, nor an amphitheatre for games and spectacles; it is a school. And this view of life is the only one that answers the great question, solves the great problem of life. For what is life given?

Rev. R. I. Campbell: The new theology watches with sympathy the development of modern science, for it believes itself to be in harmony therewith. It is the religious articulation of the scientific method. It therefore follows that it is in sympathy with scientific criticism of the important religious literature known as the Bible. While recognizing the value of the Bible as a unique record of religious experience, it handles it tween Halifax, Quebec and Montreal as freely and as critically as it would is some 836 miles, but this could be any other book. It believes that the seat of religious authority is within (not without) the human soul. Inning 60 miles an hour-and Canadian dividual man is so constituted as to trains should have this speed for such be able to recognize, ray by ray, the a purpose—Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, and many points in the West, ter from what source it comes.

DO YOU WANT A FARM Choose One of These Bargains

We have choice improved farms for sale in every part of the West. Let us know your wishes and we will secure the very property you want at the right price. The following is a select list of valuable improved farms, offered at these figures for quick sale.

DON'T DELAY! THE BEST OF THESE WILL GO QUICK.

BRUNKILD, MAN.—320 acres, 2½ miles from station, 160 acres broken, A1 soil. Price, $30.00 per acre; $1000 cash, balance arranged.

PLUMAS, MAN.—160 acres, 3 miles from Plumas, 120 acres broken, 30 acres hay, black sandy loam soil, house plastered, 2 stables, milk house, log granary, all fenced, water pump.

Price, $3,500; cash, $400.

STRASSURG, SASK,-640 acres, wild land, $15.00 per acre, 11/2 miles from villiage. WILLOW RANGE. MAN.—320 acres, 230 broken, 170 acres ploughed, frame house, horse stable, cow stable, granary, log granary. $8,000 net; $4,000 first mortgage at 6½ per cent, balance cash.

FORGET, SASK,-640 acres Price, $12 per acre, one-fifth cash, balance in five years. SWAN RIVER, MAN.—160 acres. Price, $9.50 per acre, $400 cash, balance 3 years, 6 per cent interest. CALL, WRITE OR WIRE US AT ONCE.

FARMERS' COLONIZATION & SUPPLY COMPANY. Room 6, Dept. W.H.M., Stanley Block, Winnipeg.

I GIVE IT ERE

MEN UNTIL CURED

NOT ONE PENNY IN ADVANCE OR ON DEPOSIT

I WISH you could know for yourself the wonderful effect of the galvanic current on weak and nervous men. I wish you could realize the health and happiness that will be yours when this wonderful force infuses every nerve and vein of your body as a c c om plished through my treatment. I have proved that my method will cure any curable case. So positive am I of my power that I am prepared to take all the risk and will give to any man suffering from nervous debility, Varicoccle, Drains, Lack of Vigor, etc., or from Rheumatism, Lame Back, Kidney, Liver or Stomach Troubles, the use of my world-famed Dr. Sanden Electric Belt with Electric Suspensory, absolutely FREE UNTIL CURED. If I fail you don't pay me anything whatever. I leave you to be the judge and ask not one penny in advance or on deposit. I cannot do more than this to prove the value of my treatment, so if you will call or write I will at once arrange to give you a belt suited to the requirements of your case, and you can pay me when cured. a belt suited to the requirements of your case, and you can pay me when cured. Many cases as low as $5.00, or for cash full wholesale discount. You will also get the benefit of the inestimable advice my forty years' experience enables me to give my patients. This long continuous success has brought forth many imitators. Beware of them. You can try the original, the standard of the world, free until cured, then pay for it.

Call today and take a belt along, or send for one by mail. I have two of the best books ever written on electricity and its medical uses, and containing several hundred wonderful testimonials, which I also send free, sealed, by mail. Address

140 Yonge Street Toronto. Ont.

Office Hours, 9 to 6; Saturdays, until 9 p.m.

MOUNT BIRDS AND ANIMALS Sportsmen, Fishermen, Hunters, Lovers of Nature

The wonderful art of Taxidermy, so long kept secret,
can now be easily learned right in your own home,
WE TEACH BY MAIL,
bow to properly mount how to properly mount Birds, Animais, Game Heads, Tan Skins, Make Rugs, etc. A de-lightful and facinating art by mail during your leisure hours.

Heasily, quickly learned during spare time. Enjoy your leisure hours.

Decorate home and den with your fine trophies. Or increase your income selling mounted specimens and mounting for others. Latest methods, reasonable rate. Success Guaranteed or no tuition fee. Endorsed by thousands of satisfied students. Write to-day for full particulars. for full particulars.

The Canadian School of Taxidermy, Nanalmo, B. C.

EVERY WOMAN

Should be interested and know about our wonderful Ladies' Stray Douche. Invaluable for cleansing and removing all secretions from the remotest parts.

This syringe is endorsed by the leading

All correspondence strictly confidential. Syringe is mailed to you in plain sealed wrapper upon receipt of $1.50. Send for our illustrated Catalogue; it is free. French, English and American Rubber Specialties.

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited

COR. QUEEN & VICTORIA STS.

SUPREME IN QUALITY

"A Reason Have I? Why of course I have, I always insist now on getting Tetley's Tea because I know its a better drinking tea.

After trying nearly all other teas, I found that none could touch Tetley's for choice flavor and delicious fragrance, as well as for great strength, In fact its wonderful strength surprises everybody. It goes so far takes such a little quantity to make the best tea, that it is easily the most economical as well as the best fiavored."

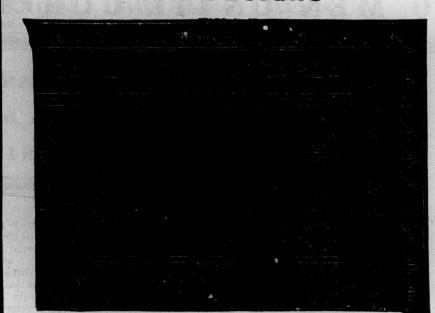

Try Tetley's Tea for quality if you do, two things will favorably strike you—a saving in the tea bill and its suprement excellence of the real flavor of genuine tea.

To be had of all Grocers

TETLEYS, LONDON, ENGLAND Distributers for Canada:

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY. WINNIPEG, CANADA

Metal Ceilings and Sidewalls

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE OF FULL LINES

Of Metal Building Materials including Safe Lock Steel Shingles, Siding and Corrugated Sheets

CLARE & BROCKEST 246 Princess St.,

Winnipeg

Manitoba

FOR WOMAN'S "CROWN of GLORY" AND MAN'S ALSO

There's no longer any need of having poor, dry, weak, thin, lifeless, lustreless hair that is constantly falling or turning grey for want of proper nourishment and treatment. Here's a big dollar's worth of it in our

HISCOTT'S HAIR TONIC

the best remedy made for sick hair and scalps. READ WHAT Mr. Dwyer of Egg Lake, Alta., says about it:

"My hair was falling out at an alarming rate and my wife predicted that I should soon be bald. I procured a bottle of HISCOTT'S HAIR TONIC, and used it according to the directions. Before it was half used, my hair had ceased falling. Now it is as thick as ever, and no amount of rubbing or combing will loosen a single hair."

Mr. Dwyer concludes by saying we may use his name and testimony.

Princess Hair Rejuvenator restores grey or faded hair to its original color in ten days; concleanest restorative made.

Princess Dandruff Cure clears the scalp of dandruff and scale and makes it clean and healthy Price of each, $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00, express paid. Reliable Home Treatment for all complexional troubles. Consultation free by letter. Send

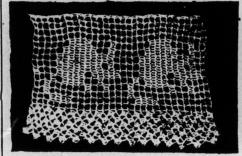

GRAHAM DERMATOLOGICAL INSTITUTE

Dept. W 502 Church St., Toronto. Established over 15 years

Work for Busy Fingers.

Mouse Pattern in Lace.

Make a chain of 36 stitches, turn. 1. Miss 3, a treble in next stitch, (chain 2, miss 2, a treble in next stitch, times, making 14 spaces in all, (miss 2, 3 trebles in next stitch, chain 2, a treble in same stitch) 3 times, turn, 2. * (chain 3, 3 trebles under 2 chain, chain 2, a treble in same place) 3 times, a treble in treble which was made before the 1st 3 trebles in last row, * 5 spaces (made always as described in 1st row, that is, chain 2, miss

Mouse Pattern, in Lace.

treble in treble), 4 trebles, counting all, 8 spaces, 2 trebles, turn.

3. Chain 3, treble in treble, 4 spaces, 15 trebles, 5 spaces, * after last treble of space (3 trebles under 2 chain, chain 1 treble in same place) 3 times, turn. 4. Like 2d row to *; 3 spaces, 4 trebles, (1 space, 4 trebles) twice, 6 spaces, 2 trebles, turn.

5. Chain 3, 1 treble, 6 spaces, 13 trebles, 4 spaces; like 3d from *. 6. Like 2d to *; 5 spaces, 13 trebles,

5 spaces, 2 trebles, turn. 7. Chain 3, 1 treble, 4 spaces, 13 trebles, 2 spaces, 4 trebles, 3 spaces; like 3d from *.

8. Like 2d to *; 4 spaces. 19 trebles, spaces, 2 trebles, turn.

9. Chain 3, 1 treble, 4 spaces, 19 trebles, 4 spaces; like 3d from *.

10. Like 2d to *; 1 space, 4 trebles,
2 spaces, 19 trebles, 4 spaces, 2 trebles,

11. Chain 3, 1 treble, 5 spaces, 16 trebles, 2 spaces, 4 trebles, 1 space; like 3d from

12. Like 2d to *; 1 space, 3 trebles, spaces, 10 trebles, 6 spaces, 2 trebles,

Chain 3, 1 treble, 9 spaces, 4 treb-13. les, 2 spaces, 4 trebles. 1 space; like 3d 14. Like 2d to *; 2 spaces. 7 trebles, 10 spaces, 2 trebles, turn.

15. Chain 3. 1 treble, 14 spaces; like 3d from *.

Repeat from 2d row.

This is a very popular design for trimming pillow-slips, aprons, etc., and at least one little girl is greatly delighted to have the scarf for her bureau finished with the insertion and lace. If desired, the border in crazy shells may chain proportionately longer.

A Lesson in Hardanger Embroidery.

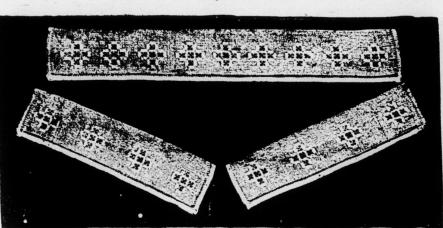

Hardanger embroidery, proper, is in reality a variety of drawn work, called -when it was brought out in this country a few years ago by a Danish lady—Norwegian or Swedish drawnwork. sometimes Scandinavian drawnwork. It is a combination of simple stitches and open spaces formed by drawing out the threads, leaving bars to be worked over. The distinctive feature of Hard-

the claim of its origination by the women of Hardanger is disputed—is the flat-stitch, in blocks, outlining the design with the little drawn squares, either plain or picoted, filled with a simple stitch or left open. The work is done on an open weave fabric, the threads of which should be alike, warp and woof, and very evenly woven, in order to secure the best results. The best quality of linen scrim answers admirably for many purposes. The madras cloth, so popular for shirt-waists, is perfectly adapted to this work, as is any of the fine cloth in basket-weave; and the work itself is suited to every class of decoration, for personal and household use, collar and cuff sets, sofa-pillows, medallions for dress garniture, burea and sideboard scarfs, tablecovers, bedspreads, etc.

Having made the simplest piece of Hardanger neatly and so succeeded in getting the correct idea of how it is done, designs are readily copied from samples or engravings, just as with any variety of drawn-thread work. This is less tedious or, rather, not so "wearing on the eyes" as the Mexican or other kinds of drawnwork done on fine linen fabric. For ordinary work the writer prefers to use white rope linen for the embroidery, with a finer floss or spool thread for weaving the bars. The linen washes admirably and never loses its luster, does not become yellow, as if often the case with silk, and is far richer in appearance than work done with cotton.

There are a few points it is well to remember—in fact, that must be remembered by the needle-worker who desires to secure creditable results. All two-thread or more—weave being used for others, work must be outlined by the block-stitches before any space is cut out. Cut only the edges which are surrounded by the stitches, never the side to which the stitch lies parallel. Be sure that your work is accurately started. Most designs are best begun at a corner, working both ways, although many prefer to start at the exact center. Having found this, run a thread to the edge, each side, thus di-viding the square in fourths, then begin at the center to work, counting out each way. In working a border it is always best to begin at the edge. The block stitches differ in size, usually covering 4 to 6 threads, and either threads or "holes" may be counted; most workers prefer the latter method, thinking it less tiresome; and this is true, if the fabric is evenly woven and the spaces between the threads well-defined. The 1st stitch of a block starts from the same hole with the last-stitch of the preceding block, when working around a tiny square.

To begin with, choose a rather simple pattern. It is a good plan to work a number of samples, choosing coarse fabric and floss, and thus becoming familiar with the easiest methods and different stitches. If you wish, however, he as much wider as you like; simply repeat the directions in parenthesis as many times as wanted, making the worth while when done," try the pretty collar-and-cuff set illustrated. Take a strip of scrim 2½ inches in width, draw 2 or 3 threads 1/2 inch from the edge, and hemstitch. Make the strip the required length for collar or cuff. Beginning at one end, count 7 threads up from the edge and the same number in front from the end. Thread your needle with floss and bring it up through the hole designated (7 threads in and up), and work over 2 threads all around, from the center out, to form a tiny square eyelet. Count in 7 threads from this (starting at the edge of eyelet, not from center) and up from edge of collar or hemstitched row, 7 threads, anger work—thus called from the little town of Hardanger, in Norway, where a great deal of it is done, even though pendicularly, another block like 1st,

Collar and Cuff set, in Hardanger Embroidery.

then a block like 2d. side of the outlined sq Continue all around, block where the 1st be bric along the laid st threads between, draw the little bars as direc space with a festoon simply a but onhole center of each bar, fr across corners.

Between each outling two of the little eyel is very simple, yet eff sure will please all.

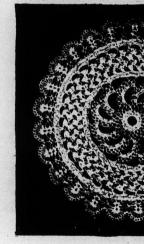

Handsome Plate Doily

Wind thread around times and slip off.

1. Make 60 double join.

2. * chain 5, miss fasten with 1 double from * 19 times.

Work to 3d stite chain 21, turn; miss 3, 3 stitches, 24 trebles of chain, fasten in nex turn; * (chain 5, miss in next) 9 times, turn in center of 5 chain times, chain 5, fasten chain around center w 17. miss 2 loops of 6 next, turn; chain 3 f trebles under chain, fa of 5 chain around cen from * until you have joining last spoke to the 7th loop of 6 chain a wheel, which may be tidies, pillow-covers, e bler doily.

A Handsome Plate Doi

5. Fasten in loop o of spoke, * chain 7, m in next, chain 15, fast next spoke; repeat fro A double in eac row.

Chain 3 for 1st 7. each double of last ro 3 chain.

8. Like 6th row. 9. Chain 7, 5 double stitch, * miss 5 double in next, chain 3, 5 doub stitch, repeat from to 4th of 7 chain. 10. A single under 4 double trebles unchain 3, 1 double trebes trebes, * 5 double trebes, * 6 double trebes, * 7 double trebes, chain, chain 3, 1 dou same chain, repeat joining to top of 4 ch 11. Work with sin 4 double trebles to 3 double trebles under s double treble under ne

3, 5 double trebles und repeat from * around, 12. A single under 6 double trebles under chain 3, 1 double treb 7 double trebles under 12 double trebles under 12 double trebles under 13 double trebles under 14 double trebles under 15 double treb chain 3, 1 double trebl peat from * around, a 13. Work along w to 3 chain, chain 3 trebles under same 3 3 trebles under next from * around, join to 14, 15, 16. Like 6t

17. Chain 5, miss in next; repeat.
18. A single unde chain 3, 2 trebles un chain 3, 3 trebles und * chain 5, miss 1 loop, chain 5, shell of 3 tre trebles in next, repea joining last 5 chain to 19. Work along to chain 3, 2 trebles in trebles in same shell, under 5 chain, chain next 5 chain, chain 5, then a block like 2d. This forms one side of the outlined square of 5 spaces. Continue all around, ending the last block where the 1st began, cut the fabric along the laid stitches, leaving 4 threads between, draw threads, weave the wospace with a festoon-stitch, which is -is the simply a but on hole loop caught in center of each bar, from side to side, the des, either simple across corners. is done threads arp and n order he best admir-

madras

s is any ve; and ry class

house-

sofa-pilrniture, table-

piece of eded in w it is vith any wearing can or one on

y work te rope

a finer

ing the bly and become ith silk,

ce than

well to be re-

er who ng used lined by space is hich are arallel. curately

t begun

the ex-

s, run a

thus di-

en begin out each always he block covering workers

inking it

e, if the e'spaces ed. The rom the of the around r simple

work a parse fa-

ning faods and

however, son sug-

will be e pretty Take a n width.

from the

the strip

or cuff.

threads

number ead your threads

reads all

o form a threads

e of eye-rom edge

threads,

, as delock perike 1st,

Between each outlined square work two of the little eyelets. The design is very simple, yet effective, and I am sure will please all.

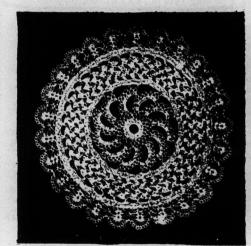

Handsome Plate Doily or Table Mat.

Wind thread around 1st finger 15 times and slip off.

1. Make 60 double trebles in ring, join. 2. * chain 5, miss 2 double trebles, fasten with 1 double in next; repeat from * 19 times.

Work to 3d stitch of 1st 5 chain, chain 21, turn; miss 3, 3 trebles in next 3 stitches, 24 trebles under remainder of chain, fasten in next loop of 5 caihn, turn; * (chain 5, miss 2 trebles, fasten in next) 9 times, turn; (chain 6, fasten in center of 5 chain of last row) 9 times, chain 5, fasten in next loop of 5 chain around center wheel, turn; chain 17, miss 2 loops of 6 chain, fasten in next, turn; chain 3 for 1st treble, 27 trebles under chain, fasten in next loop of 5 chain around center, turn; repeat from * until you have 11 spokes in all. joining last spoke to 1st when making the 7th loop of 6 chain. This completes a wheel, which may be used in making tidies, pillow-covers, etc., or as a tum-

A Handsome Plate Doily or Table Mat.

5. Fasten in loop of 6 chain at end of spoke, * chain 7, miss 1 loop, fasten in next, chain 15, fasten in 1st loop of next spoke; repeat from * all around. A double in each stitch of last row. Chain 3 for 1st treble, a treble in each double of last row, join to top of 3 chain.

8. Like, 6th row.

9. Chain 7, 5 double trebles in same stitch, * miss 5 doubles, a double treble in same stitch, repeat from * around, joining to 4th of 7 chain.

10 A single under 2 chain chain.

10. A single under 3 chain, chain 4, 4 double trebles under same chain, chain 3, 1 double treble under same chain, * 5 double trebles under next 3 times. knit 11, narrow, over, narrow, arrow, over, narrow, knit 1. chain, chain 3, 1 double treble under same chain, repeat from * around, joining to top of 4 chain.

11. Work with single crochet over 4 double trebles to 3 chain, chain 7, 5 double trebles under same 3 chain, * a double treble under next 3 chain, chain 3, 5 double trebles under same 3 chain, repeat from * around, join to 4th of 7

12. A single under 3 chain, chain 4, 6 double trebles under same 3 chain, chain 3, 1 double treble under same, double trebles under next 3 chain, chain 3, 1 double treble under same, repeat from * around, and join to top of

13. Work along with sing crochet to 3 chain, chain 3 for a treble, 2 trebles under same 3 chain, * chain 7, 3 trebles under next 3 chain, repeat from * around, join to top of 3 chain. 14, 15, 16. Like 6th, 7th and 8th

17. Chain 5, miss 2 doubles, fasten in next; repeat.

18. A single under next 5 chain, chain 3. 2 trebles under same chain. chain 3. 3 trebles under same 5 chain, * chain 5, miss 1 loop, a double in next, chain 5, shell of 3 trebles, 3 chain and trebles in next, repeat from * around, joining last 5 chain to top of 3 chain. Work along to center of shell, chain 3, 2 trebles in shell, chain 3, 3 trebles in same shell, * chain 5, fasten under 5 chain, chain 4, fasten under next 5 chain, chain 5, shell of 3 trebles,

3 chain and 3 trebles in next shell, repeat from * around, joining last 5 chain to top of 3 chain at beginning.

20. Work to center of shell, chain 8, * (a triple-treble in shell, chain 2), 9 times, a triple-treble in shell, chain 3, a the little bars as directed, and fill each double treble under 4 chain, chain 3, a triple-treble in next shell, chain 2, repeat from * around, joining last 3 chain to 6th of 8 chain.

21. * a double under 2 chain, (chain 4, a double under next two chain) 9 times, chain 3, a double in top of double treble, chain 3, repeat from around.

Made in No. 60 linen thread, this doily is 9 inches in diameter, the work being done rather snugly; in No. 25 linen thread it is a firm, heavy tablemat, rich in appearance and suitable for use under hot dishes. For this purpose, if preferred, the center may be plain, either of trebles, or of doubles in rib-stitch.

"Liberty Bell" Lace.

Cast on 40 stitches, knit across twice plain. 1. Knit 2, narrow, (over twice, knit 3 together) 10 times, knit 4, over, knit 2. Knit plain, purling 1 loop where the "over twice" occurs. All even rows the same. Knit 38, over. knit 2.

5. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 25. Knit 40, over. knit 2.

9. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 22, over, narrow, knit 3, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 4, over,

11. Knit 25, (over, narrow) $ times, knit 11, over, knit 2.

13. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 14, (over, narrow) 6 times,

Liberty Bell Lace,

knit 3, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 4, over, knit 2. 15. Knit 17, (over, narrow) 8 times, knit 11, over, knit 2.

17. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 8, (over, narrow) 10 times, knit 3, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit

4, over, knit 2.

19. Knit 11, (over, narrow) 12 times, knit 11, over, knit 2.

21. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, (over, narrow) 15 times, knit 3, narrow, over twice, narrow, twice, narrow, over twice, narrow, twice, narrow, over twice, narrow, twice, narrow, narrow, over twice, narrow, narrow, over twice, narrow, narrow, narrow, over twice, narrow, narrow, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 4, knit 4, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit times, knit 11, narrow, over, narrow, knit 1.

29. Knit 2, narrow, over tiwce, narrow, knit 13, (narrow, over) 6 times, knit 4, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 3, narrow, over, narrow, knit 1. 31. Knit 24, (narrow, over) 3 times, knit 11, narrow, over. narrow, knit 1. 33. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 21, narrow, over, knit 1, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 3, parrow, over, narrow. knit 1.

35. Knit 39, narrow, over, narrow,

37. Knit 2, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 25, narrow, over twice, narrow, knit 3, narrow, over, narrow, knit

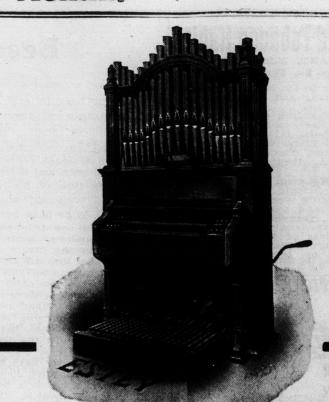

39. Knit 37, narrow, over, narrow, knit 1.

40. Knit 3, narrow, knit 36. Repeat from 1st row.

In thread this is a very pretty trimming for many purposes, aprons, skirts. pillow-slips, etc., using thread in sizes which correspond to the material knitted in fine saxony or other wool it will be found especially pretty for trimming a baby's blanket or carriagerobe, narrow ribbon being run in and out the spaces which outline the panels, and across the top.

Old Mr. Grum (to organ grinder): "Here's a penny; now move on."
Organ Grinder: "Pardon, signor; sixpence is my charge for doin' anything by request.'

Does Your Church Need an Organ?

The real want of the larger country churches is filled perfectly by the Esty Reed Organ, while smaller and far less costly than a pipe organ, its deep, rich tones make it quite as suitable for sacred music. It is an instrument of artistic excellence. All the latest developments in reed organ building are incorporated in its construction. It is made with two manuals and pedals, and the casing is of Quartered Oak or Walnut, and can be supplied with an attractive pipe top, if desired. Church managers should consider its advantages before buying.

Prompt Attention to out of town inquiries.

302 PORTAGE AVENUE WINNIPEG

Write for Cata-

PROTECT DEPENDENT ONES

is the bounden duty of every man, and this is best done by means of suitable Life insurance.

In considering an insurance proposal, no point is of greater importance than the question of PROFIT RETURNS likely to be paid under the Policy recommended.

It is a notable fact that under the Great-West Life Policies every estimate of profit made has been realized or exceeded. The estimates made have always been high, but the RESULTS have been equally high, or higher.

This fact—with the low premiums charged for Insurance—has given the Great-West Policies their high reputation. Over $30,000,000 of Insurance is now held in force by the Company, a powerful endorsement of the value of the Great-West Policies.

Rates on request. State age next birthday.

THE GREAT-WEST LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY. Head Office - - Winnipeg

Ask for a Great-West Calendar, free on request.

Toronto.

Rev. Wm. McLaren, D.D., Principal Knox College, Toronto.

Dr. McTaggart's vegetable remedies for the liquor and tobacco habits are healthful, safe, inexpensive home treatments. No hypodermic injections, no publicity, no loss of time from business, and a cure certainty.

Consultation or correspondence invited.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE All the old methods of securing beauty and a perfect com-plexion are replaced by the RUBBER

COMPLEXION BULB

It prevents and removes wrinkles, also pimples, blackheads, and fleshworms and makes the skin soft, clear, smooth and white, A single soothing application produces remarkable results. Blackheads in many cases are banished in a few minutes. The speed with which it clears the complexion is almost beyond belief. No woman who owns one of these remarkable devices need have any further fear of wrinkles or blackheads. Always ready, nothing to get out of order. The regular price is 50c. In order to introduce our Catalogue of other specialities we will send the Complexion Bulb complete with full directions for thirty-five cents, postage paid. You cannot afford to miss this bargain. Address

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited Cor. Queen & Victoria Sts. TORONTO, CAN.

NORTHWESTERN BUSINESS AGENCY. Deak 5 Bank of Commerce Building, MINKEAPOLIS, MINK

Bed Bug Chaser

Drive the Rascals Out.
Bed Bugs, Fleas, Ants,
Chicken Lice, Cockroaches and all Insects.
No matter how many other kinds you have tried and falled. "Try This." We guarantee it to rid a house of insects or money refund-

e of hardware merchants in your own town's price 50c. each. Waxed Thread 10c. spool. Extra Needles 5c. each. "AWL-U-WANT" 79 Front St., E. Toronto, Wholesale Agents.

WINNIPEG, MAN. CATALOGUES FREE.

A SWELL Post Cards, postpaid for 10 cents (silver).
Leader (o., Dept. S. Z., Grand Rapids, Mich.

until all danger of their dying from starvation, or many other spring trouble, is past. The beginner is generally in a great hurry to possess his first hive of bees, and if he looks about him at this time of the year he can usually find somebody who is just as keen to sell as he is to buy. He may go on a mild day to a man who has bees to sell, and may see the bees flying strongly from the hive. At least, he may think that they are flying strongly, whereas, they may be only flying, and there is a whole lot of difference tween flying and flying strongly. The beginner, who has had no experience with bees, may not be able to distinguish the difference, but it is there all the same. To the beginner, any number of bees look like "a lot," because he may never have seen a real lot to know what they looked like. To the beginner, a bee is a bee, and that is all he knows about it. It may be an old bee or a young, a strong, bright, active, healthy bee, a weak, worn out no good bee, a black bee, a hybrid bee or an Italian bee, but the beginner doesn't know how to distinguish one of these characteristics from another. The beginner is apt to get the idea that, by the middle of March, the bees' troubles are ended. On the contrary, they are often just beginning, and I think it no exaggeration to say that more colonies of bees die between the middle of March and the middle of April, in this climate, than in any other month of the year.

The causes are many, and would require many pages to go into fully. Three of the principal ones are starvation, poor queens and what is known as "spring dwindling." The first is the worst stumbling block to the new beginner. He has an idea, most likely, that the bees are safe from starvation as soon as they begin working on willows, elms, soft maples and other early flowers. But they are not unless they have honey left over from last year, and one of the first things for the beginner to learn is that, except in specially favored localities and seasons (and the chances are his locality is not specially favored) bees are not sure of enough new honey to keep them going until the clover blooms. The second cause of spring loss mentioned above-poor queens-is something that has to be attended to late in the summer, for a colony that starts the season with a poor queen, even with an expert in charge to detect the trouble and substitute a good young queen, is a handi-cap that will put it out of the running as a very good colony when the honey

The trouble known as "spring dwindling" may be caused by any one of a number of things or by a combination of them. A failing queen, a shortage of food (without actual starvation), unfavorable weather, or poor wintering conditions are all fruitful causes. Bees that live through the winter nearly all die very soon after active work begins in the spring, the length of time they live depending on the conditions under which they wintered. If everything was right and the bees came out strong, bright and healthy, with little loss of vitality during their confinement, they will live longer in the spring than bees which have had a "hard racket" during the winter and come out weakened in vitality, even there may be approximately the same number of first flight is the spring. The dwindling make you fairly happy.

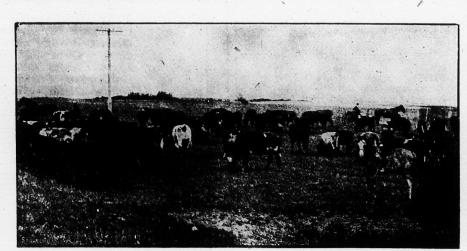

Don't buy bees in cold weather, or | plies will not be so large-no extractor, is the result of the old bees dying off faster than the young ones are hatched, and anything which causes the old bees to die off faster than they would under normal circumstances, or which retards the raising of brood in the hive, is conducive to this trouble. Taken altogether, April is a risky month for the bees if they belong to a person who knows nothing about bees in general and his own bees in particular. If you think of buying young bees in March or April, take my advice and wait until May 15th or thereabouts. You won't miss any of the season by doing so.

Comb or Extracted Honey?

A question that presents itself to every beginner is whether he shall run his bees for the production of comb honey or extracted honey. He often decides in favor of comb honey because he figures that the outlay for supuncapping knife, tin cans or anything of that kind to buy. The productions of first-class comb honey at a profit is a thing, however, that can only be accomplished by a person who thoroughly understands the handling of bees, and the money spent for sections, foundations, cases, crates, etc., and the time required to put these things together (breaking probably half the sections the first time it is tried) will come to nearly as much as would start in the plant necessary for the securing of extracted honey. Another thing: when you have a stock of extracting combs and a good extractor, you have them for all time, if properly cared for; and if you ever want to sell out, these combs are worth money-a lot of it. In the production of comb honey, everything except the supers must be bought and put together every year and is sold with the honey. It is also much more difficult to control swarming when running for comb honey, and without control of swarming comb honey cannot be produced successfully. There are plenty of other reasons, too, but these will suffice for the present. After you have been running the bees a year or two and have become acquainted with them and with your locality, if you feel like having a try at comb honey, by all means have it. You will be far more likely to succeed than if you tried it first go off.

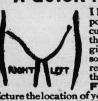

About Supplies.

A word with regard to supplies. Do not "skimp." Better have more than you need than not have enough. For every colony you start the season with you will need a hive to put a swarm in if it comes. You will need a super for the old hive and one-perhaps two-for the swarm. These hives and supers must, of course, have frames in them, and the frames should be wired and filled with full sheets of foundation. . If you have never seen a hive complete, it will pay you to have one nailed up at the factory, so you can see just how the whole thing goes together. A queen excluder will be required for each hive, to keep the queen in her proper place. .Then you will need a smoker. a good veil and a pair of gloves. You will throw the gloves away after a while but will consider them an absolute necessity at first. A small extractor and a honey knife will complete your outfit at the start. And order your supplies now, so that they will be ready for the bees when needed. What size of hive? For extracted honey producbees in each hive when they have their tion the ten-frame Langstroth hive will

In the Spring time

I have made new and important discoveries in the cure of Rupture, and for the next thirty days will give every ruptured per-son who follows these di-son who follows these directions a chance to try this remarkable home cure. FREE. Mark on the picture the location of your Rupture, answer the questions, and mail this to DR. W. S. RICE, 95 CHURCH ST., BLOCK 308, TORONTO, ONT.Time Ruptured

Does Rupture pain? Do you wear a Truss?

Doctor Hammond's

NERVE and Brain Pills

Marvellous. Magical, Youth Restoring Pills, Marvellous, Magical, Youth Restoring Pills, that speedily bring back the vigor and vitality of youth. These wonderful pills make thousands of men and women happy every day. If you have given up hope of ever knowing again the youthful vim you once possessed and remember so well, cease despairing and get Dr. Hammond's Nerve and Brain Pills to-day. Sent securely sealed, all charges prepaid, for 60 cents a box, or six boxes for $3.00. Write for large Illustrated Catalogue of everything in the drug line. It's Free. Address

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited COR. QUEEN & VICTORIA STS. TORONTO, CANAD.

WASH DAY IS CHILD'S. PLAY WITH THE CENTURY WASHING

MACHINE.

It means cleaner, whiter clothes -no backache-no chapped hands -no torn garments-no shrunken fabrics. It means a tubful of clothes washed every five minutes, with less trouble and exertion than running a sewing machine

SOLD BY MOST DEALERS AT $8.50 Write for free catalogue that tells the The Dowswell Mfg. Co., Limited Hamilton, Canada is about enough time in which to make a cup of "CAMP" Coffee, the best of all Coffees. There is Camp COFFEE that's whyit is so economical. There is no disappointment with 'CAMP' Coffee. It pleases everybody. Order "CAMP" when buying Coffee, and insist upon having is. R. PATERSON & SONS, COFFEE SPECIALISTS, GLASGOW.

HALF-A-TICK

May, 1907.

Why Pay Dut

Why should you Canadian—give the ference to an importe to the detriment of yo without any imp quality?

Dominion Am

is made in Canada l from the best materi best workmen. Its been proved beyond The price is lower bed there is no duty to pay quality. DOMINION CARTRIDGE CO.,

This trademark guaras

NYONE who hair can cover spot with a Bo so well as to almost Boueys Tot most perfect head made. Light as porous and fitting they are comfortab They match the nat color and texture so is impossible to de Consultation and de

BOUE The MANITOBA HAIR

free and strictly priv

301 Portage Avenue

The Western Home

Nordhei Piano

in the house is an evidence and refinement.

The Nordheimer is co-connoisseurs the equal superior to many mal market.

The Nordheimer is Piano having stood the term of matchless volume an which has made the famous.

Write for illustrated b NORDHEIMER PIA

THE PULFORD E DONALD ST.

pondence confidential. Drawer "K" Chemists,

, 1907.

ILD'S

ells the

Why should you—a Canadian—give the pre- . ference to an imported ammunition to the detriment of your ownpurse, without any improvement in quality?

Dominion Ammunition

is made in Canada by Canadians from the best materials and by the best workmen. Its quality has been proved beyond doubt.

The price is lower because there is no duty to pay. This trademark guarantees quality.

NYONE who has lost his hair can cover up the bald spot with a Bouey Toupee so well as to almost deceive him-Boueys Toupee are the most perfect head coverings made. Light as a feather, porous and fitting perfectly, they are comfortable to wear. They match the natural hair in color and texture so well that it is impossible to detect them. Consultation and demonstration free and strictly private.

BOUEY'S

The MANITOBA HAIR GOODS CO.,

301 Portage Avenue

When writing adve-The Western Home Monthly.

Nordheimer Piano

in the house is an evidence of culture and refinement.

The Nordheimer is considered by connoisseurs the equal of any and superior to many makes in the market.

The Nordheimer is a standard Piano having stood the test of time.

A pure, sympathetic, powerful tone of matchless volume and resonance which has made the Nordheime: Write for illustrated booklet with all information.

NORDHEIMER PIANO CO.,

THE PULFORD BLOCK DONALD ST.

A safe, reliable and effectual MONTHLY medicine. Can be depended upon. Mailed securely sealed upon-receipt of $1.00. Correst J. AUSTIN & CO'Y.

Simcoe, Ont.

Suggestions for House cleaning.

How to Enjoy House Cleaning.

No system and too much strength expended make house cleaning a bugbear, ruining the dispositions of the whole family, and making the housewife a bundle of over-worked muscles, bones

Tear up but one room at a time and finish it, leaving the rest of the house a peaceful abode. One or two rooms make a good day's work combined with the routine duties necessary, leaving a woman ample time to refresh herself by changing her dress before tea. Have plenty of good cleaning cloths, soap, etc. A good workman has good tools. Start with the attic and work downward, and from the front to the back rooms. If possible have enough dresser covers, doilies, etc., so that it will be unnecessary to leave bare places until others are laundered. This gives change. Change the positions of the furniture. Changes act as a tonic.

Start after breakfast with needed utensils. Enjoy the fresh morning air circulating through the room. Enjoy the clean odor of soap and water. Stop when the allotted work is done before you are tired and cross.

Then will house cleaning be a pleas-E. W. D., Winnipeg.

Wait Until the Weather is Warm and Settled.

Do not begin to clean house until the weather is settled and warm enough to clean without taking cold, thereby caring for your health and saving doctors' bills. Clean only on sunshiny days, as the sunshine is as powerful an agent in cleaning as are soap and water. Do not stir the house all up at once, but plan to clean one room or one place a day. Begin with the attic or one closet. Remove all the clothing, bedding, stoves, etc. Shake and clean well and sort well. Give the "cast offs" to the needy before they are spoiled by moths. Do the same with old magazines and papers. Brush down the walls and ceilings with a broom over which has been tied a cloth. Paint the shelves and floor, if practicable; otherwise, wash with plenty of soap. Remove everything from the summer kitchen. Brush the walls. Paint or wash. Move out the cook stove to save dust from front of house later.

Give one day to each, pantry, china closet or cupboard. Next take the bedrooms. Then the parlor, sitting room, and so on. Remove the furniture from each to the porch on the day they are cleaned. Beat, dust and air well. A cheap polish to brighten is made of one third camphor to two thirds sweet oil. If rooms need papering, engage the hanger now, before his dates are filled. Clean the cellar when the weather will permit the outside door being open. Wash all the windows on a warm

If you clean as slowly and methodically as this, you will come out with good health, good temper and a good-natured family. A. W. T. N., Winnipeg.

No Confusion and Plenty of Dis

When nature, with the rain clouds for her buckets and the winds for her brooms, begins her spring house cleaning, then every house-keeper has a feeling akin, and begins to plan the spring campaign against dust and cobwebs. Often repairs are needed about the house, and we have this done before beginning our work. We have a supply of needed articles-soap, borax, lime, ammonia, brooms, brushes, carpet tacks, cloths and dusters ready for use. When work begins we take one room at a time, and do not tear up the whole house, making the family cross and un-

We begin at the cellar, thoroughly cleaning every part and whitewashing the walls. Next the attic. Then the bedrooms. We move the furniture into the hall, clean pictures and ornaments and put them away from the dust. We clean the walls and carpets, wash and polish the windows. The room is now ready to have the furniture, which has been well cleaned, replaced. We pursue much the same plan with all the rooms, leaving the halls to the last. Great care is taken to disinfect all sinks and drains with copperas. As we work we try to use good judgment and self-control, so that all may be well and happy when house cleaning is done.

M. J. L., Brandon. A Sanitary House Cleaning.

Remembering that I am cleaning for sanitary reasons, not for appearance's sake, I disinfect as well as scrub, putting carbolized or camphor preparations ting carbolized or camphor preparations among the stored-away clothing, flushing drain pipes and sinks with lye or borax, and liberally adding germicides to every pailful of scrub water. Any druggist will recommend a harmless but efficient liquid for this purpose.

First, I have the furnace cleaned and tne stovepipes and chimneys well stuffed with newspapers; then the pantries and closets are made immaculate, boxes are sorted and repacked, cubby holes turned inside out, and the attic washed to spotlessness, letting in all the air and sunlight possible. I courageously throw away much, realizing that hoarding is offtimes more extravagant than destruction.

When my purse permits, I send rugs and draperies to be cleaned; when not, I beat them well, sun them, then renovate by a thorough going over with cloths wrung out of hot water and ammonia

Any fool can clean house, but it takes wise woman to care for a cellar. To establish purity there, I am willing to fight, bleed and die. Dryness is the whole secret.

House cleaning which upsets family peace is criminal. One room at a time One room at a time is the rule royal.

A. J., Moose Jaw.

An Ordeal Turned Into a Pleasure.

There is an old saying, "Begin at the bottom and climb up," but when it comes to house cleaning I do the opposite

I always commence to clean house about the middle of April, and have completed the cleaning by the middle of May. Some look with disgust to house cleaning, but to me it is a real pleasure.

I begin with the garret and clean it thoroughly, always burning all truck, etc., that may have accumulated during the year. After everything has been cleaned out, and it has been swept, it is scrubbed thoroughly, and after it is perfectly clean, I disinfect it by burning common sulphur.

Next I clean the bedrooms and all halls, closets, etc., on the second floor, but mind you, only one room is torn up at a time, and before I commence at the room I intend to clean, the rest of the house is in perfect order, and I have made plans for the noon-day meal so that the other members of the familn need not complain during house cleaning time.

After cleaning the upstairs, I give my attention to the first floor, the parlor being the first room cleaned. Last, but not least, I clean the cellar, and this must be given great attention, as it needs a thorough cleaning after the long winter. Fruit shelves, vegetable bins, etc., must be swept and scrubbed, and the cellar must be aired thorough-

By following this simple method one does not become so easily tired as by the old way of tearing all the rooms up at the same time, and house cleaning.
instead of being a time of the year to be dreaded by many, becomes a real pleasure to many housewives of the

M. W., Edmonton.

Using Energy and "Elbow Grease."

When the house-cleaning fever first seizes me it is usually too cold and damp to tear up bedrooms or living rooms, so I begin by sorting "piece bags" and "old clothes bags" in the at-The best of these pieces go into comfort tops and rag rugs, and the remainder are used for cleaning cloths, or sold to the ragman. By the time this is done the weather is settled, so I begin on the closets, then the bedrooms, taking one room at a time. In the rainy days that intervene I clean china closets, cupboards and pantry, as it is easy to keep the dust from the other rooms out of them. Now that there are no carpets to stretch and tack down half the horrors of house cleaning are gone, for while the man is beating the rugs I am cleaning paper, moldings, windows, pictures, etc., and by night the room has assumed its normal look, although possibly sweeter and fresher for the renovating.

I strive through the year to avoid having an accumulation of rubbish to clean away from any room or place, such as bottles, cans. newspapers, etc. There is no use saving truck, to be finally carried from the kitchen cupboard or cellar, so when I get to this part of the house, paint and whitewash, soap and water soon make them clean. Thus, with "elbow grease" and energy. and plenty of forethought, the deed is

If you purpose buying

FRUIT LAND

Kootenay

Why not buy the best?

ROBSON

is the Cream of the

KOOTENAY

ROBSON is one of the very few districts in the Kootenay where you have Rail and Steamer transportation, Telephone and Telegraph, Post Office, with daily mail service. Saw Mill and Brick Yard. Plans are now under way for the erection of a church and school house.

Have you seen our new Robson map showing sub-division of 3500 acres? Let us send you a copy of it with our Illustrated booklet. They are free.

McDermid & McHardy NELSON, B.C.

Mention this Paper.

When Writing Advertisers Kindly Mention The Western Home Monthly.

In 8 sizes, churning from 1/2 to 30 gallons. improved Steel Patent Foot and Frame Lever Drive

Patent Steel Roller Bearings

Easy to operate. Bolts throughout in place of wood screws. Superior in workmanship and finish. No other justas good. Accept no substi. tute. If not sold by your dealer write direct to us.

DAVID MAXWELL & SONS.

St. Mary's, Ont.

So he these merry boys did -

And thus at him did rail:

'O, wicked one, who gave the -That laid our hopes and pleasures

A grudge to you we surely -

For spread around you is a -

And so we make our wail."

You have no fear of mortal -

That holds you safe from every -

No. 8.—CONNECTED WORD SQUARES.

Upper Left-Hand Square: summon,

an eastern land, prevarications, maid.

corresponding, to be prolific.

small rope, terminations.

Upper Right-Hand Square. An undressed hide, an American lake, exactly

Central Square: bullets, habitation of a swarm of bees, elliptical, dis-

Lower Left-Hand Square: a blemish.

Lower Right-Hand Square: a delicate tissue of thread, at another time, a partly open, not frequently, to dive to a

Indeed they took it very -

But t' is of so avail.

Which was to them a bitter -

Gomba

Gaustic L

MEDICAL The KEELEY INSTITUTE

133 Osborne street, Winnipeg. Liquor, drug habits and neurasthenia, resulting from excesses, successfully treated by

DR. LESLIE E. KEELEY'S

Original Gold Cure, administered by and under the supervision of competent and skilled physicians for the past twenty-five years. Correspondence con-

Start The

New Year Well By Curing Your Rheumatism

At this season of the year we are offering a $1.00 bottle of our valuable remedy.

Rheumaticfoe

for 50c. Avail yourself now of this special offer. Rheumaticfoe is the only medicine that is purely and simply a Rheumatism Cure. It cures Rheumatism by cleaning the Blood of those impurities that cause Rheumatism.

Write to us also for particulars of our "Guaranteed Cure."

NO CURE

NO PAY

If you are not cured it will cost you nothing-We take all the risk because we are so confident of the value of our medicine.

HOPE & HOPKINS,

177% Yonge Street, Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Please send me one $1.00 bottle of Rheumaticfoe for which I enclose 50c. (15c. extra on all mail orders.)
Also particulars of your "Guaranteed Cure."

Name.....

CARNATIONS. Colonial Art Centrepiece POPPIES, HOLLY, VIOLETS or AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES

Write to-day enclosing 25 cents in stamps or coin and state design wanted This is the biggest offer we ever made. We do it to convince every woman that the HOME JOURNAL is the greatest magazine published in Canada, containing Health and Beauty Department, Cooking, Household Hints, Wit and Humor, Fashion Notes, Important Foreign News Serial and Short Stories and Latest Patterns.

Send 25 cents for one year's subscription to the Home Journal and the centrepiece.

Addres CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT, H.M. Home Journal TORONTO

SOUVENIR POSTCARDS Set of James-town Exposition Cards, or Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Rare Poses sent FREH to anyone sending 10 cents for membership in the World's Exchange Club whereby you can exchange cards with our collectors in all parts of the world. Address World Post Card Exchange, 16th & Buclid Ave, Philadelphia. Pa.

Round the Evening Lamp.

Puzzles, Problems, Rebuses, &c.

No. 1.—ANAGRAM PUZZLE. Fill the blanks in each of the following sentences with a word of four letters and its transpositions. 1. I request that you will find a — —, while our good friend from the tries these ----, and -

2. I made a——, that while I stood in the vicinity he might not ring so loud a ----, as it made my heart - and my face grow — 3. — told me not to handle that dog, but its — was more —, and if I stood by the — and coaxed it a little it would eat — from my

4. ——, if you would —— be an honorable and respected man, avoid ways and -__ company.

No. 2.—PROBLEM.

A boy starts to school with a certain number of marbles. On the way he loses one-third of them. He then meets his playmate, James, who gives him one-fourth of the number he lost. He subsequently finds one-half as many as he had at first; then he gives games 15, and has as many as he had at first. How many had he when he started for

No. 3.—PYRAMID. Crosswords: 1. A consonant. 2. Before. 3. A retinue. 5. A mineral resin.  * * * 6. One who exhibits.

Left slope, to confine. Answers to all the above Puzzles will Central, occupations. be given in the June number of The Western Home Monthly. Right slope, delicate.

What ten flowers or vines are represented in the above picture?

No. 5.-STEPS.

The following steps consist of words of four letters each, the last two letters of each word forming the first half of the word immediately succeeding it.

The last words of the steps is the same as the first word.

The first word.

The last words of the steps is the same as the first word. as the first word.

- At a distance.
- A bow-like structure. Part of the face.
- A preposition.
- Sound.
- Want.
- A whirlpool. A levee.
- A game of chance.
- 10. Part of the face. A sea animal.
- The "Dovekie." A sheet of paper.
- 14. Same as the first. No. 6.—ILLUSTRATED REBUS.

No. 7.—BEHEADED RHYMES.

In each verse fill the first blank with the missing word, and the remaining blanks with the same word successively beheaded.

Three merry boys they built a -That looked a little like a -They manned it well, both fore and-

Then started for a sail. There came just then an evil Near and more near the boat, when-He, splashing round their little ---

Upset it with his tail!

Answers to Puzzles in April Number.

No. 1. Double Beheadings .-- 1, Accost,

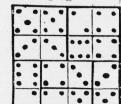

The initial letters of the remaining words spell the word Coronation. No. 2. Illustrated Rebus.-In (inn) at one ear, and out at the other,

No. 3. Ladder.-D

OZ E N M I CHO

A R I S E V I O L A I S L E T DEATH No. 5. Beheaded Riddle.—Star. Be-

neaded-tar. No. 6. Magic Domino Puzzle. — The following illustration will show one method of arranging the dominoes, so that there will be exactly sixteen spots in each row: No. 7. Problem.-He worked 39 lays, and was idle 90 days.

No. 8 Substitutions.-1. Refute, refuse. 2. Foe, fop. 3. Plow, pow. 4. Mars, mart. 5. Perpetrate, perpetuate.

Cockshutt Plow Co.. Western Representatives.
CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.

VIRDEN NURSERIES

200,000

Trees and cuttings, small fruits, shrubs creepers, spruce, apples and crabs.

I have by far the largest stock in the west of these hardy fast growing Russian poplars and willows; I send everything by express, prepaid, so as to arrive in good order. Trees may be returned at my expense if not satisfactory. No agents, no commissions, selling cheap. A postal card will bring you my price list and printed directions.

JOHN CALDWELL, Virden Nurseries. VIRDEN, MAN.

him-and the

GOOD TAILORING introduced into all his work

PRICES are as follows:-

Frock Coat and Vest ... from $16.00 Dress Suit (silk-lined)... ,, 21.00 Lounge Suit ,, 14.00 Norfolk and Knickers ...

An application for PATTERNS is desired, so that the variety of designs and the economy effected by ordering direct from LONDON,

CASH TAILOR, 140, Fenchurch Street, LONDON, ENGLAND.

Story Pictures For the Children

Send 50 CENTS for a set of seven Story Pictures, beautifully printed and mounted. The little ones will spend happy hours weaving their childish fancies into stories of their own. For 10 cents we will send one sample picture.

JUDGE COMPANY, 225 Fourth Ave. New York City

for 28 cents dozen. Original returned. Sam., 2 cts. E. A. House, Box 65, Gadsden, Ala Safe, Speedy and

The Lawrence-Williams

Wilso Invali Port is prescribed leading p throughout t try in all General Deb Convalescence

PILES Cure NEW ABSORPTIO

If you suffer from blind or protruding I address, and I will cure yourself at ho absorption treatment send some of this ho for trial, with refer own locality if requ relief and permaner Send no money, but offer. Write to-day to Box P. 86, Windsor, O 1907.

0.,

RIES

s, shrubs

the west of oplars and ss, prepaid, es may be actory. No o. A postal nd printed rseries,

RING

om $16.00

21.00

14.00

16.00

ch Street,

res

iren

of seven inted and rill\spend childish

end one

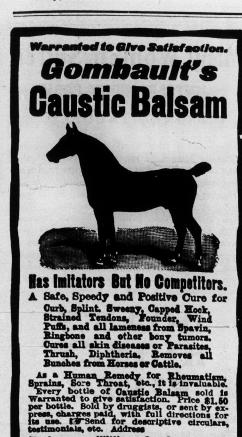

ork City

ant, 2x3 inches om any pl ? turned. Sam. ... Gadsden, Ala vn.

IND.

ON.

The Lawrence-Williams Co., Cleveland, O.

PILES Cured at Home NEW ABSORPTION TREATMENT

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the new absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box P. 86, Windsor, Ont.

TEMPERANCE TALK.

SO THE FOLKS SAY.

The curse of the rumshop no mortal can tell. It robs men of Heaven and sends them to hell: And yet there are many, O can it be, pray, Who vote it to license, so the folks say?

It lightens their taxes, so some of them think.

To license this business of selling strong drink; So, along with the barkeeper multitudes stray,

Taking bread from the hungry, so the folks say. What true hearted, good men! can the folks say?

Tis a fell institution they each one con-Cruel wrong in the wine-cup and sorry distress;

And yet 'mid their praying for peace day by day, There are those who vote whisky, so the folks say.

What, vote with the brewer! do the folks say? To save men by statute is wrong, some declare, Who'll vote to make legal the work of As though law to save men were worse than to slay, And yet they are good men, so the folks What, ture-hearted, good men! can the folks say? There's a time in the future and soon

'twill be here, When the voter and seller and victim

Will have finished life's journey, have spent its brief day, And must stand up together, so the folks say, Face to face with the Master! What will He say? "Inasmuch as ye did it," what e'er it may be. "To the least of my brethren, ye did it to me"; And by this will He' reckon on that judgment day, And not by our praying, so the folks By doing and praying! so will all say.

The Knights of Pythias, by a vote of two to one, have decided that hereafter no one engaged in the liquor business shall be eligible to membership in that order. The new statute reads: must not be a professional gambler, saloon-keeper, bartender, or dealer in spirituous, vinous or malt liquors."

A good deal has been said of the horrible passion-inflaming pictures of nude white women and nude negro men found in the abominable liquor dives of Atlanta, Ga. The indignation of the community has been justly aroused to know that these things have been goof other cities.

Dr. M. H. Parmelee, physician and surgeon for twelve years in Toledo, says: "Beer drinkers are peculiarly liable to die of pneumonia. Their vital power, their power of resistance, their 'vis medicatrix nature,' is so lowered that they are liable to drop off from any form of acute disease, such as fevers, pneumonia, etc. As a rule, when a beer drinker takes pneumonia, he

The American Anti-Saloon League is urging the passing of the Littlefield bill through the national Congress. This is an act by which the inter-state character of all shipments of intoxicating liquors, including ale, wine and beer, from one state or territory into another shall terminate immediately upon their arrival within the boundary of the state or territory in which the place of destination is situated.

Says a writer in the Medical Record: 'It has been proved more or less conclusively that pulmonary tuberculosis is spread by the agency of public houses in Great Britain, and this is probably also the case to a lesser extent in regard to saloons in America. Aler and better ventilated than are those of Great Britain, there are many in which diseased and unwashed loafers spend a great part of their time."

A sufficient number of saloons have been closed in Ohio through the efforts of the Anti-Saloon League to make a street nearly three miles long, built up solidly on both sides, allowing thirty What, license the grogshop! do the folks of this notable work was accomplished in the year 1904. Territorially, seventy-five per cent. of the state of Ohio is "dry." Nearly a thousand townships are without saloons out of a total of thirteen hundred and seventy-one.

> While some of our army officers are urging Congress to restore liquor-selling to the canteen, it might enlighten them to study the report of Surgeon-General Evart, stating that there are 44,000 teetotalers in the British army. The testimony of Sir Frederick Treves, an eminent medical authority, goes to show that the army canteen is not only unnecessary but positively enervating when the troops are in active service. and large demands are made upon their endurance.—Home Herald.

There were $1,538,000,000 worth of whiskey, wines, beer, tea and coffee drunk in the year 1905. Estimating whiskey at $2.00, wines, $2.00, beer, $1.00, and tea and coffee at twenty-five cents per gallon, there would be 1,903,-500,000 gallons, or enough, if all run together, to make a stream 5 feet deep, 30 feet wide, and 378 miles long, with enough people at its mouth to drink a little over a mile a day. This is for America alone. Think of the great host of drinkers it takes to consume this intoxicating stream of mixtures that steadily flows from the distilleries of this country.

Dr. Lorenz, the great Austrian surgeon, was at a banquet in his honor. Many of the guests drank. The principal guest, however, pushed his wine aside, untasted. Someone asked him if he were a teetotaler. "I cannot say that I am a great temperance agitator,' said Dr. Lorenz, "but I am a surgeon, My success depends upon my brain being clear, my muscles firm and my nerves steady. No one can take alco-holic liquor without blunting these physical powers which must be kept on edge. As a surgeon, I must not drink."

After a most spectacular fight for the preservation of his pet state saloon monstrosity, Tillman's state has re-pudiated his friends, and by an overwhelming majority buried dispensary apologists and their plans for the resuscitation of the whole system. In the canvass Tillman violently attacked prohibition, and denounced its advo-cates, and urged his friends to once more grant a reprieve to the infamous scheme which he foisted on the state more than a decade ago, when prohibition had already secured a majority in the state elections.

A Frenchman in South America, a community has been justly aroused to know that these things have been going on in the negro dives of Atlanta and could find no light. He could not even rray for it. Something kept saying to him, "What about your wine? What about your wine is all right," he would reply. "It is good, pure wine; there is nothing the matter with it." But he could not gain the peace he sought until he took an ax, knocked in the heads of his wine casks and let the wine run out. The moment he did this, his tongue was loosened; he began to pray, and quiet took possession of his soul.—Exchange.

> Bishop Jos. F. Berry is an optimist of the truest quality. In a recent address he made the following eloquent prophecy:

"We have preached against the sa loon, and we have preached well. We have prayed against the saloon, and we have prayed with fervor. We have written against the saloon, and there has been logic in our sentences. We have wept in the presence of the desolations of the saloon, and our tears have been sincere. But the day is coming when we shall do more—a day when our sermons and prayers, and arguments and agitations, and heartaches and tears will crystallize into ballots, and when, by the iron hand of pro-hibitive law, this red-lipped monster shall be throttled and choked and through the saloons here are far clean- hurled back into the hell from which he came."

Just because the pad is not the proper one to retain to rupture.

Now, you know, you can hold it back with your finge because they will cover and fill the opening.

My inflatable Truss does exactly the same thing. It processes a small, finger-chaped pad, filled with air to to size of the rupture opening; it covers the opening at fills it. My inflatable Pad works just like your finger don't retain the patents of the rupture opening; it covers the opening at fills it. My inflatable Pad works just like your finger don't retain the patents of the rupture opening; it is my patent. It we patented in Canada on Dec. It 1908, and in the U.S. A to June St. 1908. I camploy no agents or drug stores.

Trusses for my Canadian patrons are manufactured in Canada and no duty to be paid by my patients.

When used in connection with my Fibro Plastic tree ment, which creates new tissue across the rupture oping, it will close the opening and cure your rupture.

Yes, my patented inflatable Truss and Fibro Plast treatment accomplish this. I have done so in hundred of cases. I can do so in yours. I know I can.

Write me today for my 45-page booklet giving furth details, and my it days' trial treatment which will be set you absolutely free of charge. Address

I GNATE MAYER, M. B.,

238 Chamber of Commerce. Betreit, Mich., U.S., or Brawer 117 (C), Windows, Cat.

Test Gin Pills at Our Expense

A CURE-OR MONEY BACK

We don't ask you to buy GIN PILLS—but to try them. We simply want you to see for yourself what GIN PILLS will do for you. A cent for a postis the only expense. Simply write us, mentioning this paper, and saying you want a free sample of GIN PILLS. If you are satisfied that GIN PILLS If you are satisfied that GIN PILLS are doing you good, get a box at your dealer's, on our guarantee that they will continue to help you. Take GIN PILLS regularly and faithfully, and they will cure you of Backache, Rheumatism, Sciatica, and every trace of Kidney and Bladder Trouble. If you are not perfectly satisfied—you have only to return the empty box and your dealer will promptly refund the money.

We know that we have, in GIN PILLS, the greatest cure in the world for Kidney and Bladder Troubles, and Rheumaney and Bladder Troubles, and Rheumatism. No other medicine in the world is so widely known and so highly

Starrat, Ont., Feb. 16, 1906,
Inclosed please find $1.00 for two boxes of your "Gin Pills" as I am nearly out. The drug store at Burks Falls, where I got my supply, was burned down a couple of weeks ago, and I do not know where to get them except by writing to you. Hoping you will please send them by return mail as I am nearly out and can't do without them.

Yours truly.

Yours truly,
JOHN BLACKMORE, Postmaster. Don't put it off. Write us to-day and let us send you the free sample of GIN PILLS to try. The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg. 50c bov—6 for $2.50.

DR. WOOD'S

Stops the irritating cough, loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed tissues of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and produces a quick and permanent cure in all cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Hoarseness, Sore Throat and the first stages of Consumption.

Mrs. Norma Swanston, Cargill, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure in recom-mending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I had a very bad cold, could not sleep at. night for the coughing and bad pains in my chest and lungs. I only used half a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. and was perfectly well again."

Price 25 cents a bottle.

All Druggiste

The Money Maker

Knitting Machine

Only $10.00

Clothe Yourself

FREE Our illustrated Catalogues

of 5 distinct Family Knitting Machines.

CREELMAN BROS..

GEORGETOWN, ONT., CAN.

Leave the Ranks

Do something worth while by fitting yourself for a profession that will bring you certain reward.

There is a demand to-day for skilled refrectionists or eye specialists. A three

The EMPIRE COLLEGE of

OPHTHALMOLOGY, Ltd.,

will fit you for this field. The course costs $100. Diploma and Degree of Doctor of Optics granted. Only chartered

College of its kind in Canada. Write for 358 Queen St. W., Toronto,

CANADA.

V. W. HORWOOD.

ARCHITECT.

TAYLOR BLOCK:

177 McDERMOT AVE., E.

WINNIPEG.

announcements to the Secretary :-

FROM HEAD TO FOOT

net. cash

How do we know that sweet summer is coming? How do we know that sweet summer Springtime is here with its bird-songs and beauty, Summer is coming, for springtime is Winter so cold, with its chill winds so dreary, spring; Welcome sweet springtime, with all thy fresh beauty, With hearts full of rapture, the hap-py birds sing.

Purity's emblem, the bright sparkling Gleefully rushes through valley and

Foams down the mountain side, swells the glad river,
Murmuring a welcome to springtime again.

Bright pearly clouds, through the azure-hued heaven Restfully float to the beautiful west, Not idle nor useless, but yielding to

Nature's sweet emblem of fitness and Thus, do we know that sweet summer is coming; Thus do we know sweet summer is near;

Springtime is here with its bird-songs and beauty, Summer is coming, for springtime is here.

Japanese Morning Glories.

sure to plant Japanese morning glories. Many people soak the seeds in tepid water before planting; some leave them in a box after soaking with a wet cloth spread over them till the next day.
Plant in good soil. The seeds should not be planted until all danger from frost is past. Any support will do, but wire trellises are best. A hedge may be made by using wide wire netting fastened to strong supports. They will also cover a dead tree beautifully.

Micotiana Affinis.

Of the several varieties of nicotiana cultivated for the fragrance of their flowers this is one of the best. It is tender annual, growing about three feet in height, and during the evening or early morning hour is covered with deliciously scented, large, pure white flowers. The seeds can be started in the house if desired, but when sown in the open ground the plants commence to bloom early in July. Give the plants sufficient space in which to develop themselves, a deep, rich soil and an open, sunny situation.

Alvesum for Graves.

My attention was attracted to a low mound last summer during one of my visits to the silent city. It was not that a costly monument with an epitaph more beautiful than truthful was erected there, but because the mound was hidden from sight by a coveing at once simple and beautiful. Single alyssum alone was the flower chosen, and its dainty white blossoms and fine foliage surpassed in beauty and tastefulness the gorgeous beds of various colored flowers near by. This flower stands drought well and is at its best in the fall. It is of a spreading habit, so that but half a dozen plants will be required; and owing to its extreme hardiness it may be planted out very early in the spring. It may be started in the hotbed for this purpose.

Cannas From Seed.

Few plants are more popular for bedding, and it is not strange when consider the splendid foliage and brilliant blossoms. They are of very easy culture. A deep, rich soil and plenty of water in dry weather. And every seed should be rubbed with a file and soaked in hot water until swelled and soaked to double its size. Plant in a box and keep the soil moist and warm. A place near the kitchen stove where they will get both heat and moisture is When well started place good for them. in a sunny window and transplant into good soil when their growth demands. Do not plant in the ground until fear of frost is over, and then give them a rich, mellow soil and plenty of room. Some of the flowers will be self-colored, vivid scarlets, deep velvet, crimson, pale straw or deep rich gold, some exquisitely splashed, spotted and bordered. The blossoms are very large and the heads of bloom immense. One superb sparkle following another for months at a time, until cut down by Bade us adieu at the advent of frost

Strawberry Culture.

It is best to set quite late in spring on fall plowing, as this lessens injury from cutworms. Set in rows four feet apart and the plants about eighteen inches apart in the rows, and form matted rows about eighteen inches wide, as early in the season as possible, by good culture. In setting out plants there is no gain in pottering to spread the roots in natural position; wet the roots, press them together with points downward, and plant very tightly with spade of dibble, as you would a cabbage plant. The roots projected downward answer the purpose until new roots are grown in proper position. To secure fertilization in weather not not wholly favorable it is best to plant alternate rows of the staminate and pistillate varieties. It does not pay to gather more than two crops from one planting. Have a new plantation coming on, and never hesitate to plow up the old one after gathering the second

Good Garden Tools.

The gardener's work depends more upon skill than upon strength. The grub hoe, the pick and the breaking up plow for new land need to be strong, but in the garden a light tool in good condition will make the work easier and accomplish more than the heavy tool. Keep the hoes sharp and the teeth of the cultivator and horse hoe down to a cutting edge, and good points on the plows, and keep everything clean and bright, so that dirt will not adhere to them to double their weight and lessen their efficiency. The light tool may not last as long as the heavy one, and if it seems to be using up the hoe very fast to grind it every day, at least it is better to wear out several hoes than one man or boy. Many a boy has become disgusted with farm work and with the farm itself, simply because he was given worn out tool to work with, which had been condemned as unfit for a good workman to use. Put such tools into the junk heap, or lay them away to be used only in cases of extreme emergency, and give the boys good tools and teach them how to use them and take care of them, and even if they do spoil them by not knowing how to use them, it will be better than spoiling the boys. We remember when our father bought us a new hoe, small and slight, suitable for a boy, and in showing us how to use it he found it worked so well and easily that it was not long before he had a new one him-

Rose for Western Exposure.

The hardy prairie rose, Baltimore Belle, is suitable for training upon the west side of the house. It is a vigorous climber, and a free summer bloomer. Prune it vigorously after the flowers fade, leaving only the strong lower shoots, and a glorious display of bloom can be depended upon the fol-

Scale.-When an asparagus is troubled with scale rub the stems to loosen the pest, then wash with hot suds. If badly infested cut off the tops and burn them, and see that the stems remaining are free from the pest. If the tops are infested it is almost impossible to

To have beautiful, perfect, pink, velvet-like lips, apply at bedtime a light coating of Dr. Shoop's Green Salve. Then, next morning, notice carefully the effect. Dry, cracked, or colorless lips mean feverishness, and are as well ill appearing. Dr. Shoop's Green Salve will quickly correct any skin blemish or ailment. Get a free trial box at our store and be convinced Large Glass our store and be convinced. Large, Glass Jars, 25c.

Many Women Suffer UNTOLD AGONY FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Very often they think it is from so-called Female Disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to Female Disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or sent direct on receipt of price. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

When writing advertisers please mention The Western Home Monthly.

The RENNIE Seed Cabinet

I Each year the "Rennie Seed Cabinet" in every dealer's store is replenished with fresh and full of vitality. stocks are carried over.

¶ In this way users of "Rennie's Seeds" are protected from the disapointment that invariably results from sowing old seeds lacking germination, ¶ Bear this fact in mind and make positive that your garden seeds bear the imprint "Rennie's Seeds" on the packet. If your dealer is without them don't risk disappointment by taking other kinds-send your order direct-we pay the postage.

WM. RENNIE CO., Limited TORONTO

190 MCCILL STREET, MONTREAL. 278 MAIN STREET, WINNIPEG. 66 HASTINGS ST., WEST VANCOUVER. PASTOR ANI

May, 1907.

A Marvellous and Tri of Victory Ove

No medicine has ever a number of wonderfu vellous cures as Psychin continuous record of vic es of the throat, chest, l Where doctors have incurable from consum wasting diseases Psych rescues numberless peop very verge of the grave Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chi La Grippe, Pneumonia, troubles, all of which ar Consumption, yield quie tive powers of Psychine Mrs. Campbell, one of makes the following sta makes the following star I cannot refrain from te of my remarkable recovery April, 1902, I caught a heav on my lungs and gradually I could not sleep, was subjusted in the second of the

PSYCHINE never dis PSYCHINE has no su There is no other n

At all dealers, 50c, and if not write DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, 179

Dr. Root's Kidney and permanent cure for Bright's Disease, Pain all forms of Kidney To box, at all dealers.

NORTH-W HOMESTEAD

ANY even numbered se Lands in Manitoba, Saskate excepting 8 and 26 not reserv steaded by any person who i family or any male over 18 extent of one-quarter section or less. Entry may be made pers land office for the district is

The homesteader is required to following plans:

(1) At least six months outlivation of the land in years. years. (2) If the father (or mother)

(2) If the father (or moth deceased) of the homestea farm in the vicinity of the requirements as to residence by such person residing mother.

(3) If the settler has his propon farming land owned by ity of his homestead, the residence may be satisfied the said land.

Six months, notice in write.

Six months' notice in writi to the Commissioner of D Ottawa, of intention to appl W. W.

Deputy of the Minis N. B. — Unauthorized publi vertisement will not be paid

Hoover

The Hoover-Prout Co., Lock

and a

men. Why, ease ?

ever thing

ntion

ts

PASTOR AND PEOPLE (PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

A Marvellous and Triumphant Record of Victory Over Disease.

No medicine has ever effected as large a number of wonderful and almost marvellous cures as Psychine. It has had one continuous record of victories over diseases of the throat, chest, lungs and stomach. Where doctors have pronounced cases incurable from consumption and other wasting diseases Psychine steps in and rescues numberless people even from the very verge of the grave. Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chills, Night Sweats, La Grippe, Pneumonia, and other like troubles, all of which are forerunners of Consumption, yield quickly to the curative powers of Psychine.

Mrs. Campbell, one of the many cured, makes the following statement:

makes the following statement:

I cannot refrain from telling all who suffer of my remarkable recovery with Psychine. In April, 1902, I caught a heavy cold which settled on my lungs and gradually led to consumption. I could not sleep, was subject to night sweats, my lungs were so diseased, my doctor considered me incurable. Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, Port Elgin Presbyterian Church, recommended Dr. Slocum's Psychine to me, when I was living in Ontario. After using Psychine for a short time I ate and alept well, the night sweats and cough ceased.

Months ago I stopped taking Psychine, as I was perfectly restored to health and today I never felt better in my life. Psychine has been a godsend to me.

MRS. ANDREW CAMPBEIL.

Cottonwood, N.W.T.

PSYCHINE never disappoints.

PSYCHINE never disappoints. PSYCHINE has no substitute. There is no other medicine "Just as

At all dealers, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle. If not write to

DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, 179 King St. W., TORONTO Dr. Root's Kidney Pills are a sure and permanent cure for Rheumatism Bright's Disease, Pain in the Back and all forms of Kidney Trouble. 25c per box, at all dealers.

NORTH-WEST REGULATIONS HOMESTEAD

Any even numbered section of Dominon Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta excepting 8 and 26 not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is land office for the district in which situate;

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:
(1) At least six months, residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three trees.

cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months, notice in writing about the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior N. B. — Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Hoover Digger The Hoover-Prout Co., Lock Box 67, Avery, O.

Home Doctor.

Insect Bites.—For stings or bites | ened salt, bound tightly over the spot. It will relieve and usually cure very quickly.

Gumboil.—To relieve a gumboil, a homely remedy is to take a thin strip of fried fig. dip it in milk, toast it, and then apply hot to the swollen gum. Relief is speedy.

How to Cure Sore Throat.—Take a ump of resin as large as a walnut, put it in an old tea-pot, pour boiling water on it, put the lid on, put the spout to your mouth, and the steam will cure the inflammation.

To Stop Bleeding.-In the case if severe cut, try the immediate use of finely powdered rice or flour to the wound. This has been proved a great success in almost stopping the flow of blood from a severe cut.

Headache.—The first thing that ought to be prescribed for a headache sufferer is fresh air. Avoid sitting in closed rooms as much as possible. Walk the streets and lounge in the parks, if you can't do better, but keep out of doors. Headache sufferers should never sleep with closed windows winter or summer. Opening the window in the next room won't You must have fresh air from first hand.

Poisons.-When poison has been accidentally swallowed no emetic is better than mustard. Mix three teaspoonfuls with a cupful of warm water and swallow. At once the stimulative action upon the stomach causes that organ to reject all its contents, the poisonous ingredients with the rest. The emetic of mustard leaves no ill effect behind it, but instead, a feeling of pleasant warmth and stimulus. It is one of the quickest of all emetics and the most harmless.

To Treat Bruises.—To prevent a bruise from being discolored, apply to it a cloth which has been wrung out of water as hot is can be borne, comfortably, and change it as it becomes cold. Supposing hot water cannot be procured, the next best thing is to moisten some dry starch with cold water and to cover the bruised part with it.

Earache.—In case of earache do not put anything into the ear except by direction of a physician. The best way to relieve earache is to heat an iron or brick, wrap it in two or three thicknesses of flannel, pour warm water on the top, when steam will at once rise. If the ear is placed close to the flannel the steam will permeate every part of it.

Lemons may often be used as a good household medicine. They are undoubtedly very excellent for biliousness. Lemons, however, should not be taken in their pure state, as their acidity will injure the teeth and the lining of the stomach. The proper way is to take the juice of one lemon in a cup of water without sugar. The best time to take such a dose is before breakfast or just before retiring.

-oracic Ointment.-An invaluable cure for sore eyes is a little boracic powder dissolved in warm water. When cold, bathe the eyes two or three times a day. Boracic ointment is a sure cure for gathered fingers,

Old medicines should not be preserved. Many medicines deteriorate, and what is good at one time may ministered.

A Simple Aperient for Children.from any kind of insect apply damp- Muscatels stoned and soaked in salad oil for a few hours make an excellent aperient for children, and one they are generally willing to take. One in the morning half an hour before breakfast is usually enough, though it is sometimes necessary to give

> Lotion for Hives.—While hives are usually a disorder of the warm weather, some persons suffer from their effects at different seasons of the A good lotion which can be applied to the affected parts several times every day is made of one-quarter ounce of powdered borax, one-half ounce spirits of camphor, three ounces of glycerine.

Suggestions,

A hot salt bath will be found to quiet nervousness, if taken just before retiring.

Bathe the eyes in warm salt water when they are tired or strained and they will be rested.

Peroxide of hydrogen used as a bleach will whiten the skin when it has been stained by dress material or furs which have been dyed.

A glass of hot, not boiled, milk sipped slowly is most refreshing in cases of over fatigue. It supplies all the nourishment needed until the body is rested.

Brush the teeth occasionally with a little borax or baking soda to prevent tartar from accumulating on them.

The use of sulphur is said to preserve the whiteness of the teeth. few drops of listerine or myrrh in the water will act as an antiseptic and sweeten the breath.

Ine mind is so influenced by the condition of the body that when you are sick or weak physically, you are apt to be irritable or depressed. Remember this, when the whole household has caught teh contagion, and be the first to recover.

So many diseases may follow in the train of what we term an ordinary cold, that we need to avoid this beginning of evil, if we would save ourselves from the pain and distress of bronchitis, catarrh, pneumonia, neu-ralgia and other diseases equally undesirable.

This is the season of the year when colds are taken most easily, due to carelessness more often than any other cause. When one must be out on stormy days, or when is is slushy, it is "too much trouble" to put on rubbers and extra wraps. Isn't it better to take the extra trouble than to suffer from neglect of such precaution?

Take yourself in hand-see that your clothing is sufficiently warm and comfortable, not too heavy nor too light, that your feet are properly shod. Take plenty of exercise in the fresh air, you need not be afraid of catching cold if properly protected. A lack of ventilation in living rooms will more often induce a cold than too much fresh air. Lung and throat troubles may be contracted by living in unventilated rooms.

Sure Regulators.-Mandrake and Dandelion are known to exert a powerful influence on the liver and kidneys, restoring them to healthful action, inducing a regular flow of the secretions and imparting to the organs complete power to perform their functions. These valuable ingredients enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, and serve to render them the agreeable not be so at another. The fewer medicine bottles lying about the less and salutary medicine they are. risk of the wrong medicine being ad- There are few pills so effective as they in their action.

¥.5556^65666666666666666 Skin Protection

Forskin comfort, skin health, skin beauty and for protection against hard water, strong sun and wind use

It is the best for every toilet purpose for babies, women and men.

Its daily use keeps the skin smooth and the complexion beautifully clear and fresh.

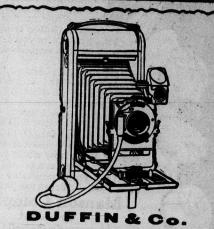

Libert Soaps Ltd. Mirs.,

Get Top Prices For Your Butter. The use of a little care, and WINDSOR SALT, will improve your butter 100%.

Windsor SALT

absolutely puredisolves quickly—and makes the most delicious butter that readily brings the highest market price

Importers and Dealers in PHOTO SUPPLIES

Both Professional and Amateur 208 Bannatyne Ave. Cor. Main Street WINNIPEG.

Write for illustrated catalogue and prices. Mention Western Home Monthly.

LADIES wanted to take orders for our Tailored Skirts. Write to-day for full particulars. Central Skirt Co., Room 5 F, Coote Bldg., London, Ont.

Type-talk never does half justice to high-grade goods. The test of Seal Brand Coffee is in the cup.

CHASE AND SANBORN

ALL GROCERS

Health is more important than business, yet it gets ar less attention.

COWAN'S

PERFECTION

COCOA

(Maple Leaf label, our trade mark).

is healthful and nutritious, and very digestible. It is good for old and young.

The Cowan Co. Ltd., Toronto.

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

Let Me Sell You a Chatham Incubator

Do you know there is big money in raising poultry? Do you know there is more money in running a good incubator than in almost anything else you can do for the amount of time and trouble it takes? Do you know my incubator will pay you a bigger profit than any other thing you can have on your place?

Well all these thirty and the second s

Well, all these things are true, and I can

Well, all these things are true, and I can prove it. Thousands of people all over Canada have proved it every year for the last five years.

I want to quote you a price on my Chatham Incubator,—sold ON TIME. I want to send you my Chatham book. This incubator book is free—I'll send it to you for just a postal card. It tells you a lot you ought to know about the Poultry business—it tells you how to make money out of chickens—it tells you how my Chatham Incubator will make you more money than you can make with hens—far more. you more money than you can make with hens-far more, and with less trouble.

This book tells you how my Incubators are made—why they are the best ever invented—and why I sell them ON TIME and on a 5-Year Guarantee.

My Company has been in business in Canada for over 50 years.

We are one of the largest wood-working factories in the country.

We also operate a large factory at Detroit, Mich. We have the Incubator and Brooder business down to a science.

Chatham Incubators and Brooders will make you money, for a

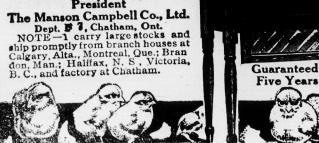

Chatham Incubator will hatch a live, healthy chicken out of every fertile egg put into it, in 21 days.

0.00000.00.00

Will you write for my book today? Do it now while you think of it. Just say on a postal "Please send me your Incubator Book"—that's all. Address me personally. that's all. Address me personally. Manson Campbell

President

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

Hints for the Housewife.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

We, rating others honestly, are prone To wonder how they, in their little-Can pride themselves on merits of their own

And be blind to those that we possess.

We see wherein they lack; we measure

The faults which they serenely think they hide; weigh our worth and see how far they fall Below the things on which they stake their pride.

We wonder why they do not stop to Due deference to us who loom so

They pass us, merely nodding as they Or overlook us as they hurry by.

Perhaps when they consider you and They, too, discover blemishes that

Perhaps it is our present selves they Not what we might be-and suppose we are Miscellaneous.

Three and a half cups of cornmeal nake one pound.

One large coffee-cup of granulated sugar makes one-half pound.

One large coffee-cup of dry brown sugar makes one-half pound.

One and a half cups of firm butter pressed down make one pound. One cup of raisins makes one-half

Ten eggs make one pound.

One white of an egg makes one

One yolk of an egg makes one Sixteen ounces make one pound.

Four teaspoons make one table-

Four gills make one pint. Two pints make one quart. Four quarts make one gallon.

Eight quarts make one peck. It is only necessary to boil a cork for five minutes to make it ht any Soiled ribbons washed in gasoline ook as fresh as new after being ironed on the wrong side. In blowing out a candle hold it aloft and blow upwards. This will prevent scattering of the grease.

become stained. Wash well after-Use a small piece of softened white soap with whiting or silver polish to greatly expedite the process of cleaning silver or paint. To prevent tinware rusting rub over with fresh lard and place in a hot oven for a few minutes. If new tins are treated like this they will sel-To whiten a doorstep wash the steps clean and let them dry. Then mix a little quicklime with some milk and wipe the steps over with it. They will be beautifully white. Carpets and rugs can be thoroughly leaned by being hung over a clothesline and having the garden hose turned upon them. This will do no harm to any carpet. Dry in a shady place.

Windows, mirror or picture glass may be easily polished by using a muslin bag filled with whiting. muslin bag dampen the glass slightly, then rub with the bag and polish with news-

To keep moth and buffalo bugs from rugs or carpets sprinkle well with salt, then wipe with a cloth dampened with warm water having spirits of turpentine added in the proportion of a spoonful to every

To prevent shoes from making holes in the heels of stockings sew a piece of wash-leather inside the heels of the shoes.

Varnished wall paper may be washed with tepid water and any good soap. It will stand the usual treatment given to paint.

Instead of brushing a silk skirt or petticoat, use a pad made of a bit of relvet, which will remove the dust quickly without injuring the silk.

Not many mothers know that if stockings are washed before they are worn the threads will be tightened and they will last much longer in consequence.

A good floor-stain that goes right into the wood, and is very durable, is made of linseed oil colored with ground burnt umber. Rub thoroughy into the boards with a flannel pad, and next day polish with beeswax and turpentine.

To prevent brass tarnishing try a preparation made by dissolving an ounce of shellac in a pint of methylated spirits. Cork the bottle tightly and leave it till next day; then pour off the clear liquid. Heat the brass slightly, and paint the solution over it with a camel's hair brush.

Brass pans that have stood for some time should be rubbed with vinegar and salt to remove verdigris. with polishing paste or with bath-brick dust and water; then rinse out well with hot water and polish with soft cloths. Treated like this your brass pans will be perfectly safe for any kind of cookery.

Kitchen paints will soon acquire a shabby, dull look from the frequent cleaning that is necessary in this room. The use of soap only increases the difficulty, especially if the paints are varnished. A good plan is to boil one pound of bran in a gallon of water for an hour, then wash the paint with this bran water, and it will not only be kept clean, but bright and glossy.

To clean papered walls, make a dough of flour and cold water and knead, as you would bread, until it is free from stickiness and becomes perfectly smooth. · A piece of this rubbed over the paper will make it appear as fresh as new. One piece may be used for a large surface, though it should be changed for a clean piece before it is too much soiled. If you have plain paper on your walls and it is faded or spotted, mix some wall finish, of a desired color, rather thick, and apply it swiftly over the wall. If done carefully, Dry salt, applied with a flannel, ly over the wall. If done carefully, will clean an enameled bath which has and with dispatch, the paper will not became wet enough to come off, and will dry quickly, when it will look like new.

Bread Puffs.

When dough is light for bread, catch up between thumb and finger and pull dough out rather thin, cut off and fry in deep fat; use same as biscuit.

Rice as a Vegetable.

The correct way to cook rice is to have each kernel dry and separate from the rest; this is done by boiling a cupful in five or six cupfuls of water. After washing the rice thoroughly pour it into the boiling water, salt to taste. Let it boil twenty minutes. If necessary, pour more boiling water into the pan. but do not stir with a spoon. Mash a kernel of rice between your fingers, and if soft, pour all into a collander, allowing it to drain into a pan. Serve as soon as drained. It is often eaten with a curried meat stew. The rice water may be used for soup.

Holloway's Corn Cure is a specific for the removal of corns and warts. We have never heard of its failing to remove even the worst kind.

A MODERN MIE

Once, w'en I'm sick, th' de An' en I put my tongue An' he says, "H-m-m! N Warm water, please." A minute, w'y, she did, an He put a glass thing in An' en he wiped it off a

An' put it in my mouth

'En after w'ile re took it An' held it up w'ere he An' 'en he says, "H-m-m Too high a half of a d An' 'en ma asked him if l An' he says, "Nope!"

cross
An' says "W'y, you can't
An' if you do it ain't m

An' 'en she's mad an' he Out laughin' an' he say He's goin' to be all right W'y he ain't even half o An' 'en he feels my puls An' patted me up on m An' says, "There ain't no 'Cuz one of th' trustees

An' my, I'm awful sorry I'm awful sick a while a He told me that. An' "He'll be all right by n He went away. An' n How do you feel?" An' Since doctor told me th But, my! I'm almost w

Fire Pictures

This is a very pretty to if it is performed in a d To show your friends a paper (the room must be to let them see that it is you strike a match, blo touch the paper with th of the match. A spark to paper, following a very of the shutters or turn up t behold, you see on the sh burnt picture or design, v traced by the spark. The secret of the tric paper, though it appear really had the picture dr forehand. It is not draw pen and ink, but with a pen or a pointed stick dipp solution of saltpeter. The The w not be glazed. paper is a good kind.

The solution is colorle

no stain, though the pic there, drawn in saltpeter peter, which is also cal potassium nitrate, is, know, one of the ingred powder, and it is used in der for the same reason use it in this trick-becar a great deal of oxygen an composed. When gunpo the oxygen from the salty When gunpo with, or burns, the sulp coal, so that no air is nee side. Just so the saltpe paper easier to ligh along the lines of the dr lines should all be conne If a part of the picture i arate from the rest, it win the cold." Of course, ply the match to one which you can do easily e ing it across the paper n know there are some line spark catches.

And then don't throw th carelessly, for it might on fire, even without sal cannot be too careful in The saltpeter solution s strong—as strong as you

The Amusing M

Some interesting experi made with an ordinary h net, which boys can bu shop. The first thing to the magnet to see whet are correctly marked, for to be of French make the S. mean just the opposite mean to us.

See which end of the tracts the south pole of and that will be the north magnet, which you should N and it should repel the the compass.

Mark the other end of with an S which will be of your magnet, and it sh south pole of the compastricity like repels like.

Get a package of long

Boys and Girls.

A MODERN MIRACLE.

Once, w'en I'm sick, th' doctor come An' en I put my tongue 'way out, An' he says, "H-m-m! Nurse get some Warm water, please." An' in about An' in about A minute, w'y, she did, an' 'en He put a glass thing inti it An' en he wiped it off again An' put it in my mouth a bit.

'En after w'ile re took it out
An' held it up w'ere he could see,
An' 'en he says, "H-m-m! 'Ist about Too high a half of a degree."

An' 'en ma asked him if I'm bad An' he says, "Nope!" 'ist gruff and

An' says "W'y, you can't kill a lad, An' if you do it ain't much loss!"

An' 'en she's mad an' he 'ist 'buit Out laughin' an' he says "Don't fret, He's goin' to be all right, I trust. W'y he ain't even half dead yet." An' 'en he feels my pulse, 'at way, An' patted me up on my head An' says, "There ain't no school to-day, 'Cuz one of th' trustees is dead!'

An' my, I'm awful sorry w'en I'm awful sick a while ago, He told me that. An' 'en he said

"He'll be all right by noon, an' 'en
He went away. An' ma says "Ned,
How do you feel?" An' 'en, you know, Since doctor told me that, somehow, But, my! I'm almost well right now!

Fire Pictures.

This is a very pretty trick, especially if it is performed in a darkened room. To show your friends a blank sheet of paper (the room must be light enough to let them see that it is blank). Then you strike a match, blow it out, and touch the paper with the glowing top of the match. A spark travels over the paper, following a very crooked course, and finally goes out. Then you open the shutters or turn up the lights, and, behold, you see on the sheet of paper a burnt picture or design, which has been traced by the spark.

The secret of the trick is that the paper, though it appears blank, has really had the picture drawn on it beforehand. It is not drawn with pencil pen and ink, but with a fine brush, a pen or a pointed stick dipped in a strong solution of saltpeter. The paper should The white wrapping not be glazed. paper is a good kind.

The solution is colorless, and leaves no stain, though the picture is really there, drawn in saltpeter. Now, saltpeter, which is also called niter, and potassium nitrate, is, as you may know, one of the ingredients of gunpowder, and it is used in making powder for the same reason for which we use it in this trick—because it contains a great deal of oxygen and is easily decomposed. When gunpowder explodes the oxygen from the saltpeter combines the oxygen from the sulphur and charside. Just so the saltpeter makes the along the lines of the drawing. These lines should all be connected together. If a part of the picture is entirely separate from the rest, it will be "left out in the cold." Of course, you must apply the match to one of the lines, which you can do easily enough by moving it across the paper near where you know there are some lines, until the

And then don't throw the match down carelessly, for it might set something on fire, even without saltpeter. You cannot be too careful in handling fire. The saltpeter solution should be very strong—as strong as you can make it.

The Amusing Magnet.

Some interesting experiments may be made with an ordinary horseshoe magnet, which boys can buy at any toy shop. The first thing to do is to test the magnet to see whether the poles are correctly marked, for if it happens to be of French make the marks N. and S. mean just the opposite of what they

See which end of the horseshoe attracts the south pole of the compass, and that will be the north pole of your magnet, which you should mark with an N and it should repel the north pole of

Mark the other end of the horseshoe with an S which will be the south pole of your magnet, and it should repel the south pole of the compass, for in electricity like repels like. Get a package of long-eyed needles.

all of the same size, and placing them on a table, one at a time, draw the north pole of your magnet several times over each needle, always in the same direction, from point to eye. This will magnetize the needles, making all the points north poles.

Now cut up some cork and stick the eye of each needle in the smallest bit of cork that will support it in water, with the eye projecting above the cork. Place them upright in a vessel of water and you will have a miniature fleet.

Now call in the commander, your magnet, and by holding the north pole of it above the needles you may make them move, arranging themselves into set figures, according to the number of needles used. Two needles will probably make a straight line; three, a triangle; four, a square, and five, a pentagon, or a square with one needle in the

When they have taken a set form, jar the vessel slightly and the figure will sometimes be broken up, forming two different designs, or changing from one design to another. The more needles you have floating the more interesting will the exepriment prove, as with a good many needles the designs formed when the vessel is shaken will be various and the movements of the needles under the sway of the magnet will be intensely fascinating.

Another interesting experiment is to magnetize soft iron—nails for instance. They will become magnetized as soon as the magnet touches them, and you may have a long string of nails hanging one from the other, only one in contact with a magnet.

Now beat one of the nails red hot, and all your efforts to attract it to the magnet will be in vain; but as it cools t will be more and more attracted, until when cold it will be as before, strongly magnetized when in contact with the horseshoe.

Funny Game For Rainy Day.

"Never mind if it does rain. Mamma always thinks of something extra nice for rainy days," said Harold.

"I have thought of something now," said mamma. "Got come sides of the something said."

said mamma. "Get some pieces of smooth brown paper for Frankie and little Helen, and some of that pretty green cardboard for Esther and Mabel, and you and Leon may use your scrapbooks. I will pick out some old magazines and Leon may get some paste. Esther, you may take the cloth off the dining table and spread out some newspapers. I am going to show you how to make crazy pictures."

The children ran to collect the things and mamma sent Harold for both pairs of scissors and the shears, and Esther for some empty boxes and covers to lay the parts of pictures in.

size.
"Now all you little ones may cut out the pictures of everything in the advertisement pages that is alive, but don't try to cut them close to the picture; let the older ones do that. Harold may punch the sheets on one end, so they can be tied together to make a book at first, but if you spoil a page it looks badly to cut it out, so I like sheets best."

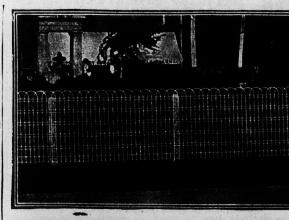

Then mamma cut out several pictures quickly, and cut off their heads and arms and legs, putting the heads into one box, the arms into another, the legs into a third, and the bodies into a fourth. Sometimes she left the arms with the body, as it would spoil some of the bodies to have them cut off.
As soon as all the children had pictures enough cut so there were quite a munber in each box, mamma gave a body to each child, and then while one was picking out a pair of legs another was choosing arms and another a head. As soon as any one had a picture ready he pasted it on his sheet or book, and a crazy-looking set of pictures they

The little children's were the funniest, for sometimes they placed feet where hands should be, and they made the body turn one way and the head another. Sometimes a girl had a dog's head, or a man had the body of a child and the skirts of a woman. One boy drawing a sled had the legs of an os-

They were all surprised when Maggle came to set the table for luncheon. "Let's send these pictures to the children's hospital," said Mabel, "and they will make the children there laugh,

' too."

PAGE ACME White Fences

Any height to 8 ft. Any length you say. From length you say. From 16 cents a foot. Gates to match, from $2.25. Last longer. Easy to put up. Get booklet.

PAGE WIRE FENCE CO., Limited Walkerville - Toronto - Montreal St. John - Winnipeg 222

'No Alum or Acid there"

"I saw, in an official report, that 70% (over 3/3) of the baking powders sold in Canada, contain alum and acid phosphates."

"It seems to me that folk ought to be mighty careful what baking powder they use.

"I know, if I baked my own cake and pastry, that there is only one baking powder I would buy.

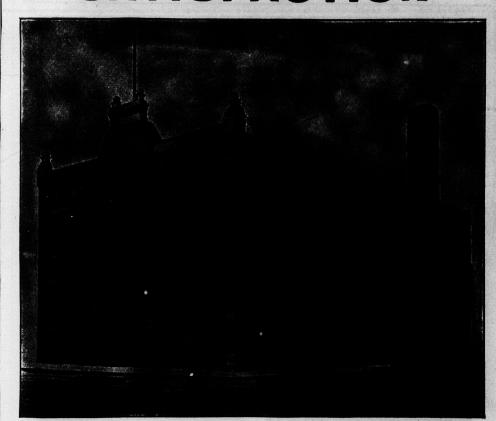

St. George's Baking Powder

It is a genuine Cream of Tartar Baking Powder—free of alum, acids, lime, ammonia and phosphates.

ST. GEORGE'S is healthful—and makes Biscuits, Cake, Pies, etc., that are not only deliciously light and inviting, but wholesome as well.

Our Cook Book tells how to prepare a number of novel dishes—and to present old favorites in new guises. Write for a free copy to the NATIONAL DRUG & CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA, Limited, Montreal.

SATISFACTION

DEAR SIRS,-

Oak Lake, Jan. 30th, 1907.

I must say that I am more than pleased with the Creamery system—so much pleased that if I had to make butter and sell it in the stores I would go out of business. I am a living advertisement for you whenever I speak with any of my Dairy Farmer friends, at home or on the street. I received a letter from the Creamery and they want cream, but I will stick to "The Old Reliable" as long as I receive the satisfaction I have had in the past.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Your hearty patron,

E. R. RONBERG.

The above unsolicited letter is one of many on file in our office. What further proof do you want? Don't you think it would pay you to send us your cream at once? We have no favorites. All are used alike. Write to Dept. A.

The Brandon Greamery and Supply Co., Ltd. BRANDON, MAN.

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

king w a neels

ash-

boog dust

ened conright able. with ughpad, are

and ry a g an ghtly pour brass over some negar Clean bathe out with your e for iire a quent this ly in-if the lan is gallon h the it will oright ake a r and 1 it is comes of this ake it piece ırface, for a much er on otted, lesired swift-efully. ill not ff, and look

bread, finger in, cut ame as

e is to eparate y boilfuls of e thorwater, twenty r more do not kernel and if allowerve as n eaten specific failing

he rice

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERNIA TABLE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERNIA THE TO YOU AND EVERY SUFFERNIA THE TO YOU AND EVERY SUFFERNIA THE TO YOU AND THE YOU AND THE TO YOU AND THE TO YOU AND THE TO YOU AND THE YOU AND THE TO YOU AND THE YOU AND THE TO YOU AND THE YOU AN

•

Moman and the Bome.

Early Marriages.

A sweet young girl of only nineeen writes of her engagement to a young man who is but little her senior, not yet twenty-one, and says that though he is one of whom her parents cannot but approve, a member of the same church as herself, industrious, thrifty, v honest and upright, her mother wishes the marriage postponed because they are too young, and because "all men are alike," and she dreads to see her daughter repeating her own experience, which, the daughter writes, "has been a baby every year or two since her marriage."

And, under the circumstances, it is hard to advise. The mother has her should be her best counsellor. But -though I was once greatly opposed to early marriages, I have known from observation that very many marriages made when both parties were young have resulted very happily. And, as a dear woman who has had some heart-rending experiences in her own girlhood once said to me: "I think it is wisest that some of our boys and girls should marry young.
It steadies them and some are particularly subject to temptations that might overcome them and ruin their

And so, dear girl, I do not know. can only say, talk over the matter again with your mother, weigh her objections very carefully, and she should also talk with the young man, as you cannot, and be sure that he understands the full nature of the responsibilities he would assume. Though he is so very young, perhaps observation has given him some les sons, too, and led him to the determination to prove, as it has to others, that all men are not alike in their marriages and home relations. Some there are whose love is stronger than desire, whose higher natures rule the lower, the spiritual the physical, and to whom the vow to love, honor and cherish is not a mere meaningless repetition of words in the marriage ceremony, but the most solemn vow a man can make in this life, who know that if they and the sweet young girls they have won for their wives are to know true happiness together each must practice self control in all things, after marriage as well as before.

As to the baby every year or two, its duties cheerfully, yet—there is a when she must be also nurse, cook, laundress, seamstress, and housekeeper, and there is not means to comfortably provide for a large family, she should place a limit upon the number of offspring.

Superior Women.

I so often hear some one say: "Is not that a very superior woman." and I come to wonder or think about these superior women and ask my-self what constitutes an ideal woman. is it one of those women who go about seeking to do their duty by showing other people where they are remiss? By giving advice to every-one, whether asked or not? And who are far too good and pure to come in contact with sin or suffering? Is it that woman who is always talking about some special mission and neglects all those duties which lie nearest while she looks for some-thing higher? No, not her. My ideal superior woman has a missionalways has a mission. And it is to make life brighter and happier for those around her; she makes the best her surroundings, pleasant or otherwise. She is sure to have the ove and respect of everyone. And tor. Worms are one of the principal the fallen or afflicted know her by the causes of suffering in children and elping hand she extends, and the should be expelled from the system.

kind, helpful words which fall from her lips. Some way, by intuition, she knows how to bring out the best qualities of those about her, and believes in the goodness of her fellow men. I have seen her when "the world" held up its hands in horror and condemned some "poor unfortunate." She would be so sweetly charitable, willing to allow repentance and present good conduct to atone for mistakes and wrong-doing in the past, believing with Long-fellow, "Let the dead past bury its dead."

But she does demand the same code of morals for both sexes, and thinks that equal purity and co-education of the sexes is best possible and desirable, and hopes and prays for the day daughter's best interests at heart and when the unwritten law of equal morals for both sexes will govern society. In her work as wife, mother and home-maker she is doing a noble work. Love reigns there, and truth, justice and charity are some of the lessons taught. She knows she cannot change the world and its ways, but she tries to so educate her boys and girls that they may not yield to its many temptations. She knows that a broad, generous education is what is most needed-educated, deepthinking, cultured men and women who bravely proclaim their ideas for the mental and moral advancement of the world and the progress of true civilization. I believe these are some of the characteristics of a superior woman, although she may never realize the fact herself. In every sense of the word she is a noble, true-hearted, honest woman who tries to live and to be just what she wishes her children to be, and although the true beauty and unselfishness of her character is not fully understood at the time by them, it is afterwards, and strengthens them for the trials and temptations which come in after years to one and all. The world is full of these mothers, wise, great-hearted and true, whose moral bravery fits them to adorn the highest station in life; whose happy homes are their reward for doing their daily duty, and whose influence will be farreaching and powerful.

Is it Worth While?

The question is often asked if the higher education is worth while-if enough is gained to compensate for while the majority of women wel-come maternity and rejoice in the pended. To one who has attained blessings of motherhood, and perform the heights and looks back to the mediocre condition from whence he limit to the mother's powers, and has climbed, such a question seems preposterous. He has found that education has not only trained the mind and revealed unknown mental powers, but it has opened up new and rare fields of enjoyment and opportunity. So much of nature that was before but a closed book is now an unfailing and constant source of enjoyment. The hidden courses of things, elementary forces and their work through countless ages, have been revealed to him; the secret of the stars has been told and the scroll of the universe unrolled; the best and greatest men of all ages have become through the printed page his instructors and friends; the echoes of the past are in his ears, presaging yet greater things and greater hope for the future; his nature has been deepened, enriched and broadened in every way, enlarge ing by many fold his capacity not only of enjoyment, but of usefulness to his fellow men; he is like a king that has come to his inheritance, who finds his life so rich and full and joyous that he cannot imagine how one can question if it were worth while to seek it.

Pale, sickly children should use Mother Graves' Worm Exterminacauses of suffering in children and SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

OLES, Warts, Small Birth Marks, etc. skilfully and permanently removed by Electrolysis.

Electrical treatment and massage given for removal of Wrinkles, Pimples, Blackheads, etc.

Static Electricity and High Frequency currents for all forms of nervous diseases. A Call is Solicited.

Consultation Free.

Mrs. E. Coates Coleman WINNIPEG

······

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

to fill positions as Fire-men and Brakemen. We $150 per teach and qualify you by mail—and assist in securing positions. Write to-day for full particulars. month Dominion Railway Correspondence

Hundreds of men wanted

School

WINNIPEG

HOUSE

SUPERVISED BY

Apple Sherbert .-- Cook apples in one quart of to taste with sugar when tender, rub throu and freeze; when partly stiffly beaten whites Serve in chilled apple

Fig Cream.-Cook on of figs in a cupful of der; chop fine. Beat th eggs and a pinch of o until dry; then add fi spoonfuls of sugar and constantly. Bake in about half an hour; sen figs, stuffed nuts, and pa

German Apple Cake flour, one and one-half salt, mixed and sift tablespoonfuls of butter egg, and milk to make Spread one inch deep in tins, have ready sever and quartered apples. with dough, sprinkled sugar mixed with a 1 Bake in a hot oven.

Fried Bananas.—Cut half, lengthwise, roll the macaroons, then in flour fat until lightly colored paper. Serve with a sy cupful of sugar and boiled together for five mixed with one-half cu jelly. When the jelly tablespoonful of lemon

Creamed Chicken.-Co pan two tablespoonfuls one of flour, and when well blended add a littl a cupful of roast chicke to small dice, onion juic per to taste. Cook for te ring steadily, then add boiled egg and a cup of r with a pinch of soda st in paper cases if you w

Omelette with Sausag morning there is no lithan one made savory which should be partly ned, if the sausage lin minced fine. Then br beat to six eggs. Hav spoonful of butter hot the eggs, shake gently When set, adu the mine the omelette and serve

Rice and Raisin Pudd one cupful of rice, one butter the size of an eg of raisins. Simmer the milk until tender; rem stove to cool. Well wh the eggs, and add to the rest of the milk, sugar well beat the whites of tne raisins and add to gredients. Grate nutme bake one hour.

Steamed Golden ounces of flour, two of four ounces of finely sh eggs, half a lemon, two crumbs, two tablespoorsyrup. Mix the dry gether, then beat up the in the syrup, also the juice of half a lemon. tered mould, tie down steam one and one-hal with a little hot golde round.

Eggs .and .Mushroo whites of six hard-bo chop them rather fine rooms. Into a frying-r spoonful of butter and a tablespoonful of flour smooth. Pour in half. and stirr the mixture un a dash of pepper, a li-good pinch of curry por liked, then add the eg rooms and cook for al utes. Serve hot. Thi to either dinner, lunche

Veal Soup.—Take joint of veal weighir pounds and cover with water; boil gently f add one-quarter usly cooked tende rice, season to epper, boil up onc ill from ion, she

he best and ber fellow

ien "the horror

unfor-sweetly repent-

duct to

ig-doing

bury its ime code

ation of d desir-

the day

ual mor-society.

her and a noble

d truth,

e of the

she cans ways,

ner boys

yield to knows cation is d, deepwomen

deas for ncement gress of hese are of a su-

he may self. In she is a woman

ust what

, and alınselfish-

fully unem, it is them for ich come

1. The

rs, wise,

se moral e highest

y homes

eir daily

ll be fared if the isate for ngth ex-attained to the ience he on seems tion has

d reveals, but it

fields of

So much a closed

and con-

The hidementary

gh count-I to him;

been told

se unroll-

en of all he print-

friends;

his ears,

ngs and; his na-

enriched

y, enlarge city not sefulness e a king ince, who and joy-

how one rth while hould use xterminaprincipal dren and e/system.

Long-

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

SUPERVISED BY THE CHEF OF THE MARRIAGGI, WINNIPEG

Apple Sherbert .-- Cook the pulp of six apples in one quart of cider, seasoned to taste with sugar and cinnamon. when tender, rub through a sieve, cool and freeze; when partly frozen add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Serve in chilled apple shells.

Fig Cream.—Cook one-quarter pound of figs in a cupful of water until tender; chop fine. Beat the whites of five eggs and a pinch of cream of tartar until dry; then add five level tablespoonfuls of sugar and the figs, beating constantly. Bake in a border mould about half an hour; serve with stewed figs, stuffed nuts, and pass plain cream.

German Apple Cake .- One pint of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, mixed and sifted. Put in two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one beaten egg, and milk to make a thick batter. Spread one inch deep in greased shallow tins, have ready several pared, cored and quartered apples. Press points with dough, sprinkled thickly with sugar mixed with a little cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven.

Pried Bananas.—Cut the bananas in half, lengthwise, roll them in pulverized macaroons, then in flour and fry in deep fat until lightly colored. Drain on soft paper. Serve with a syrup made of one cupful of sugar and one of water boiled together for five minutes and mixed with one-half cupful of currant jelly. When the jelly is melted add a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Serve as Creamed Chicken.-Cook in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter and one of flour, and when this mixture is well blended add a little chicken stock, a cupful of roast chicken meat, cut into small dice, onion juice, salt and pepper to taste. Cook for ten minutes, stirring steadily, then add a minced hard boiled egg and a cup of rich milk, heated with a pinch of soda stirred in. Serve in paper cases if you wish.

Omelette with Sausage.—For a winter morning there is no better omelette than one made savory with sausage, which should be partly cooked, skinned, if the sausage links are used, and minced fine. Then break and lightly beat to six eggs. Have a small tablespoonful of butter hot in a pan, slip in the eggs, shake gently in one direction. When set, adu the minced sausage; fold the omelette and serve without delay.

Rice and Raisin Pudding.-Five eggs, one cupful of rice, one cupful of sugar, butter the size of an egg, two handfuls of raisins. Simmer the rice in a quart of milk until tender; remove from the stove to cool. Well whisk the yolks of the eggs, and add to the rice, also the rest of the milk, sugar and butter; then well beat the whites of the egg, stone Divide the batter in half. To one-half tne raisins and add to the other ingredients. Grate nutmeg on the top and ounces of flour, two ounces of sugar, four ounces of finely shredded suet, two eggs, half a lemon, two ounces of breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls of golden syrup. Mix the dry ingredients to-gether, then beat up the eggs and stir in the syrup, also the grated rind and juice of half a lemon. Pour into a buttered mould, tie down with paper, and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with a little better the state of the eggs and state in the eggs and state of the eggs and with a little hot golden syrup poured

Eggs .and .Mushrooms.—Take the whites of six hard-boiled eggs and chop them rather fine with six mush-rooms. Into a frying-pan put a tablespoonful of butter and when melted add a tablespoonful of flour and mix until Pour in half a pint of cream and stirr the mixture until it boils. Add a dash of pepper, a little salt and a good pinch of curry powder, if curry is liked, then add the eggs and mushrooms and cook for about three minutes. Serve hot. This dish is suited to sither dinner lurcher or supper to either dinner, luncheon or supper.

joint of veal weighing about three pounds and cover with four quarts of and pepper, boil up once and serve.

Rock Cake .- Rub one-half pound of butter or good sweet dripping into one pound of flour. Stir in two heaping teaspoonfuls of good baking powder, add a pinch of salt, a little finely minced lemon peel, two or three tablespoonfuls of fine sugar, and one-half pound of dried currants. Moisten the whole with two eggs, well beaten, and a little milk. Make up into a stiff dough, and bake on a greased tin, setting the rock cakes well apart from each other in little stiff "knobs." Fifteen to twenty minutes is a sufficient time to allow for the baking of these old-fashioned favorites.

Indian Slapjacks .- Pour over a pint of Indian meal enough scalded milk to moisten it and set aside to cool. Then s.ir in a level teaspoonful of salt, two eggs beaten very light, and enough cold milk to make a batter of the desired consistency. If you are where you can get clean, newly fallen snow, you can save the eggs and have delicious cakes by substituting a tablespoonful of snow for each egg. The batter must be well beaten and the snow added just before beginning to bake. Keep the batter away from the fire as much as possible. The snow may be used in a plain batter also.

Pudding Sauce.—Cream one cupful of butter with two cupfuls of sugar, add the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth and beat lightly until thoroughly blended. Divide into three parts, one with vanilla, one with chocolate, the other with extract of strawberry. Also add a little pink sugar to make it pink if you wish. Grease a mould or how if you wish. Grease a mould or bowl with butter, put in the chocolate mixture, then the vanilla, and lastly the strawberry, and set away to cool. When ready to serve dip the mould in hot water a moment, and then turn contents out on a plate. Cut through it in slices and lay on your pudding.

Sand Tarts .- Beat one-half pound of butter to a cream and add one-half pound of granulated sugar; then add the yolks of three eggs and the whites of two, beaten together; add one teaspoonful of vanilla and just a little grated nutmeg. Mix in sufficient flour to make a dough. Dust your baking board thickly with granulated sugar. Take out a piece of dough, roll it into a thin sheet, cut with round cutters and bake in a moderate oven until a light brown. Dust the top of the sheet with sugar instead of flour, to prevent the roller from sticking. By adding one-half pound of cleaned currants to the above recipe you will have Shrewsbury

Marbled Cookies. - For delicious marbled cookies, cream one cupful of butter and two cupfuls of sugar. Add four well beaten eggs, then three scant cupfuls of flour sifted with two heapadd either one-half cupful or a cupful of grated chocolate, according to the preference, some people liking more and Steamed Golden Pudding.—Four other less of this flavoring. To the other half add the juice and grated rind of an orange. After flavoring both parts, combine them in one streaked lump of dough and roll it very thin. Cut the dough into fancy cookies with diamond, heart-shaped and triangular cutters. Bake them in a rather hot oven. If the butter is fresh add a pinch of salt.

> Shad Roe Salad .- After the parboiled roes are chilled cut into slices, sprinkle with salt and pepper and marinate with a little lemon juice. Keep in a cold place several hours. Line a salad bowl with lettuce leaves, mix a little watercress or parsley with the prepared roes and lay in the center of the leaves. Cover with mayonnaise or a French dressing.

stirr the mixture until it boils. Add ash of pepper, a little salt and a dipinch of curry powder, if curry is d, then add the eggs and mushers and cook for about three mines. Serve hot. This dish is suited ither dinner, luncheon or supper.

Soup.—Take a well-broken of veal weighing about three hids and cover with four quarts of water; boil gently for several hours, and done-quarter pound macaroni, itously cooked tender, or a cupful of circe, season to taste with salt pepper, boil up once and serve.

Reprint, News-Herald: "There is at least one effectual. safe and reliable Cough Cure—Dr. Shoop's—that we regard as suitable, even for the youngest cough Cure—Dr. Shoop's—that we regard as suitable, even for the youngest child. For years, Dr. Shoop bitterly opposed the use of opiates or narcotics in medicine. offering $10 per drop to any one finding Opium. Chloroform, or any other poisonous or narcotic ingredient in Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And the challenge is as yet unanswered. Here is one manufacturing physician who welcomed with much satisfaction the new Government Pure Food and Drug Law. The public can now protect itself at all times, by insisting on having Dr. Shoop's, when a cough remedy is needed."

Superior Quality Finest Flavor Absolute Purity

All this is Assured by Demanding

"SALADA" ONLY.

Black, Mixed, Natural Green.

Lead Packets Only, 25c, 30c, 40c. 50c and 60c per lb.

HIGHEST AWARD—ST. LOUIS, 1904.

UPTON'S

ORANGE MARMALADE

Jams & Jellies are delicious

This Season's Marmalade is particularly fine and can be had at your grocer's...

Insist on having UPTON'S.

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Monthly.

For choice Pickles, ask your grocer for Blackwood's White Onions, Chow chow, Sour Mixed, Sweet Mixed, Dill Pickles, Red Cabbage, Horse Radish, Tomato Catsup.

If you are not using them, try

THE BLACKWOODS, Limited. WINNIPEG.

THE BEST STARCH

is none too good for the careful, tidy housekeeper

THE BEST STARCHES

ARE Edwardsburg "Silver Gloss" AND Benson's "Prepared Corn"

Remember this when buying

Edwardsburg Starch Co. Ltd.

When Writing Advertisers Kindly Mention The Western Home Monthly.

Get Ready Roofing

When you build, you want the roofing that will give you the best service—that will last so long that its cost per year is less than any other.

Paroid has proved in actual use on farm and dairy buildings, on factory and railway buildings, on government buildings at home and abroad, to cost less per year than any other roofing.

There are good reasons for it:

It is better made and is made of better materials. Its basis is a better, tougher, more durable felt—made in our own mills. (Established in 1817.) We are in position to know that it is. You cannot afford to buy a roofing made from a cheap felt nor from a manufacturer who does not make his own felt.

PAROI

Paroid has a thicker, smoother, more pliable coating than any other ready roofing. It is better all the way through. You can see and feel the difference.

Itisthe only roofing laid with square, rust-proof caps which do not rust nor work loose and which have the largest binding surface.

Read our offer and let us prove to you its superiority. If your dealer cannot supply you, don't take a substitute. Write to us direct.

Send Now For Free Samples

and find how to save money on your roofing. If you enclose 4c in stamps for postage we will send you free our new 48 page book of Complete Plans For Farm, Poultry, Dairy and Live Stock Buildings. It will save you money.

OUR OFFER

Buy one lot of Paroid; open it; inspect it; apply it to your roof, and if then you are not satisfied, send us your name and address. and we will send you a check for the full cost of the roofing, including cost of applying.

OATSI

Prices are good — take advantage of them by shipping through us.

Write to-day for prices and shipping directions.

Thompson, Sons & Company

Grain Commission Merchants

WINNIPEG

If You Want The Very Best Plastering

in your new house get the EMPIRE BRANDS of Hard Wall or Wood Fibre PLASTER.

Finish with Gold Dust Finish and Gilt Edge Plaster of Paris.

Manufactured by

The Manitoba Gypsum Co., Ltd.

Winnipeg.

About the Farm.

A REASON FOR SONG.

Somehow the great Creator Gave unto everything Some good gift to be glad for, Some sort of voice to sing; And if you love sweet music, Just go out in the morn, And feed a flock of chickens A basket-full of corn; Then lean up in the corner, Or crawl up on the fence, And watch the air grow vocal

There are a hundred voices, Each in a different key, And still they blend together In perfect harmony; One feeling seems to move them, From lordy Plymouth Rock, Down to the little Bantam, The dandy of the flock.

With song's own eloquence.

And, oh! this is the reason
All do so well their parts:-Not that they wear fine feathers, But that they have glad hearts.

Yes, something to be glad for, Some sort of voice to sing, That's what the great Creator Gave every living thing; Why, even the moulting mongrels, Without a plume for show, Sing with the Golden Spangles,

As 'round and 'round they go. Ah, they have learned the secret That once the bright stars had: There's something to be glad for, And so they are just glad.

Dairy Motes.

More people should live in homes instead of houses.

Cultivating the soil is Nature's own favored occupation.

Is your creamery equipped for pasteurizing the skim milk?

No one ever heard of a creamery paron kicking about his test-when it

"As good as the wheat" is out of date. 'As good as the cow" suits us better. The most of us are compelled to deal with the money power in a very passive

The worst of us have our "good points," although it is hard to find them sometimes.

Our hopes and actual realizations generally need an introduction in order to know each other.

It doesn't pay to tie to the man who agrees with your every view. The world wants thinkers. The man who can't treat his dumb animals kindly will not make the right kind of a husband. Sentiment in favor of better methods on the part of both operator and patrons is fast gaining ground. An old dairyman says clover worth as much, pound for pound, for feeding calves as whole milk. What would some of our dairymen do if the good cows did not pay the losses incurred by keeping scrubs?

The man who makes up his mind quickly often "strikes it rich," and then again gets into all kinds of

It makes no difference whether it is called "oleo," "oleomargarine," "butterine" or "margarine," it is the same old fraud and we all know his history.

It is not necessary to buy a whole lot of high priced cows in order for a farmer to make a success in the dairy business. The common cow with common sense treatment will do her part.

Sometimes when a buttermaker gets too persistent in his demand for new things in the creamery the board finally decides on getting one new article and that one to be a new buttermaker.

Do not let the cows get hungry and uneasy. Give them their ensilage and grain and plenty of hay.

It is a very poor cow that will not respond to good care, generous feeding and comfortable surroundings.

A man may be wise and not know it and again he may think he is wise and still be awfully mistaken.

In producing milk we get no returns from the food consumed unless the question of support is first satisfied. Therefore keep the cows that do not use the food nutriments for making beef, and then feed them all they will

How about the co-operative creamery company which sends out a cream gathering wagon into another's territory, and then howls about the central plant invading its territory? Reminds us of the old story about living in a glass house.

How about that rusty can problem, its it troubling you? There are thousands of cans being used in the older districts which ought to receive hatchet treatment. Wouldn't it be a good plan for our inspectors to devote more attention to condemning rusty

Some day when you feel blue and discouraged just pause and compare your lot in life with the thousands of those in different lands who barely have enough to eat to sustain life, with perhaps no place to lay their weary heads. Then thank God that you are one of his favored family who enjoy such privileges as are really your own. Haven't we a whole lot to be thankful for, after all?

Dangers in Milk.

Milk is one of the most nutritious and healthful of foods and it may be one of the most dangerous of foods. Many contagious diseases are spread by milk. Germs or bacteria find in milk the best place possible for them to grow. After they get into milk the only way to check or stop their growth is to cool it to near 50 degrees of F. or heat it to at least 150 degrees F.; the latter treatment will destroy nearly all the Many astonishing statements and sentences with long words in them can easily be reeled off on the subject of bacteria in milk, but it is sufficient here to say that the dust and air of most cow stables is loaded with bacteria, and when they get into the milk they multiply at the rate of millions per minute. This ought to be a sufficiently startling statement to cause the milker who has never heard of it before to pause and consider his ways. His duty to his family and to humanity in general when he is milking is a serious matter. Is the air of the stable pure and free from dust during milking?

Would he be willing and glad to eat a plate of soup while he is milking a cow? If not, why not? Isrn't milk a human food and isn't the milk pail that is under the cow being filled with food for his table? Are you proud of the place where your cows are kept and would you be beaming with smiles if the persons who buy your milk should call on you in the stables at milking time?

Many cases are on record which prove conclusively that milk has been the means of spreading such contagious diseases as tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever and scarlet fever. Such a responsibility as this certainly ought to convince a milker that his work is a serious business, and while he cannot see the germs that fill the air around the milk pail, he can at least take every precaution possible to keep the milk free from dust and dirt of every description while he is milking.

People who handle our milk supply may be divided into two classes, first, those who know how to take proper care of it but fail to do so, and second those who really do not what things ought to be done in order to keep milk in the purest condition possible until it reaches the consumer or factory.

"Chicken-Little" Don'ts.

Don't make a mistake of giving the chicks free run too early, but, on the other hand, give them access to the warm run and green grass shoots as early as possible.

Don't allow the floors of the brood coops to become dirty, and above all things, avoid dampness, as this is certain to be fatal to young chicks.

Don't forget that green stuff is good for the little fellows. Finely chopped onions-or better still, lettuce, where it can be had-will help a whole lot.

Don't fail to provide a brood coop large enough for the hen to move about Then she will not be so apt to maim chicks by stepping on them.

Don't forget to remove all surplus food after the chicks are through with their meal. Never leave a portion to be trampled and mussed over.

Don't forget that it isn't the earliest hatched, but the best cared for chicks that are profitable ones. Don't think that you a healthy and thrifty chi that are themselves infing in vigor and vitality Don't forget that an sight and care in the a ton of regret and retre

Fowls are like people for an occasional change varied ration is best ac growth and development as well as to the keep birds in good health With the variety of g ieties of vegetables, gro table scraps, etc., one n of any fowl, old or you of condition. Nearly all tables make a good food cut up raw, or cooked.
table cutter will be foun article where many b
Don't expect fowls to d one article of food to th all others. Give them a

Starting a Poultry

The question is often much capital is needed poultry business large cupy a man's time and f for him and his family? This is a question th swered only by the pers the business, for no two the same idea of a living might live on $250 a yea want at least four time before they could say th living from poultry.

It is not uncommon for ities to advise starting than $5,000 or $6.000. vice is given to people no experience with poult haps to set a hen and backyard in which to rais people who think that the to learn about the busine newspaper stories about fits with but little labo will be small enough capital will very likely be the dreams of the pror realized. This, however, has been times and almost alway astrously, that we do sensible man would any more than he wou tract for building a house worked at the carpenter trade. Let us see what are of a practical comme plant. First, a person s thorough knowledge of gained by actual experientry on a commercial scal understood that there is difference between hatchi chickens by the natural hatching and raising chic cubators and brooders a tween making butter by se in small pans and using separator. While a pers one method very well, the may prove a failure ur has been acquired. The gain knowledge of the work for a year, at leas successful poultry plant. careful study of the le journals, should give a idea of the best methods would not advise any one all borrowed capital, bu money, more knowledge a inclinations to work, a po

can be built up that wi

A few potatoes are re horses this time of the y be used in a moderate other better roots are n

A feed of steamed barle makes variety of feed a not, however, feed barle mares. Too much barley upsets the digestion ar harm than good.

If you have not been fe rots to the horses this w to put a few in the gard Carrots are like horses, as they promote t digestive apparatus in go save feed. eamery cream s terri-

central eminds

g in a roblem,

thou-

e older the devote rusty

ue and ompare usands barely fe, with weary ou are enjoy r own.

nankful

tritious foods.

spread in milk

nem to he only

th is to or heat

all the

em can ject of ent here

f most acteria.

k they ns per iciently

milker

fore to is duty

in gen-serious

le pure ilking?

eat a

a cow?

human is unood for e place

call on which

s been tagious

ria, ty-

Such a ought rk is a e every

e milk

ery de-supply proper

second, w just n order

nsumer

ing the

on the to the oots as brood

ove all is ceris good chopped

where le lot. d coop

e about apt to surplus to be earliest ed for ime?

would

chicks that are going to prove the profitable ones. Don't think that you are going to get healthy and thrifty chicks from stock that are themselves inferior and lacking in vigor and vitality.

Don't forget that an ounce of foresight and care in the spring is worth a ton of regret and retrospection in the fall.

Vary the Food.

Fowls are like people in their desire for an occasional change of food, and a varied ration is best adapted to rapid growth and development in young stock as well as to the keeping of the old birds in good health and condition. With the variety of grains, such as corn, wheat, oats, barley, the many varieties of vegetables, ground green bone, table scraps, etc., one may make up a bill of fare that will keep the appetite of any fowl, old or young, in the best of condition. Nearly all kinds of vegetables make a good food for fowls when cut up raw, or cooked. A good vegetable cutter will be found a very useful article where many birds are kept. Don't expect fowls to do well on any one article of food to the exclusion of all others. Give them a variety.

Starting a Poultry Business.

The question is often asked, how much capital is needed to establish a poultry business large enough to occupy a man's time and furnish a living for him and his family?

This is a question that can be answered only by the person engaged in the business, for no two persons have the same idea of a living. While some might live on $250 a year, others would want at least four times that amount before they could say they had made a living from poultry.

It is not uncommon for good authorities to advise starting with not less than $5,000 or $6.000. When this ad-vice is given to people who have had no experience with poultry except per-haps to set a hen and loan her the backyard in which to raise the chickens, people who think that there is but little to learn about the business to make it a success and who believe the inflated newspaper stories about enormous profits with but little labor, this capital will be small enough and additional capital will very likely be needed before the dreams of the promotor will be

This, however, has been tried so many times and almost always ending dis-astrously, that we do not think a sensible man would undertake it any more than he would take a contract for building a house before he had worked at the carpenter's or builder's

Let us see what are the essentials practical commercial poultry First, a person should have a thorough knowledge of the business, gained by actual experience with poultry on a commercial scale. It must be understood that there is just as much difference between hatching and raising chickens by the natural method and milk and meal should be increased very hatching and raising chickens with in-cubators and brooders as there is between making butter by setting the milk in small pans and using the centrifugal separator. While a person may know one method very well, the other method may prove a failure until experience has been acquired. The best way to gain knowledge of the business is to work for a year, at least, on a large, successful poultry plant. This, with a careful study of the leading poultry journals, should give a person a fair idea of the best methods to pursue. We would not advise any one to start with all borrowed capital, but with some money, more knowledge and ability and inclinations to work, a poultry business can be built up that will produce a good income.

Horses.

A few potatoes are relished by the horses this time of the year. They can be used in a moderate way other better roots are not available.

A feed of steamed barley occasionally makes variety of feed and helps out the condition of the horses. We would not, however, feed barley to pregnant mares. Too much barley fed regularly upsets the digestion and does more harm than good.

If you have not been feeding any carrots to the horses this winter, be sure to put a few in the garden the coming Carrots are like medicine to horses, as they promote thrift, keep the digestive apparatus in good shape and

Every Government experimental station, every successful creamery, model dairy, and prominent authority on dairying, and dairying machinery are so many finger posts pointing the way

To the Goal of Dairy Success Via the De Laval Route

It's the only direct route, and there are no petty annoyances by the way. Every name prominent among good dairymen is on the passenger list. It's luxury and profit contrasted with drudgery and wastefulness.

ASK FOR TERMS AND FREE CATALOGUE.

THE DE LAVAL SEPARATOR WINNIPEG.

REPRESENTATIVES EVERYWHERE.

What is the proper temperature to feed skim milk to young calves and how much and how often should they be fed? What is the best substitute for butter fat? I have a cream separator and sell the cream, so must replace it with sometihng.—J. L. G., Rock county.

The calf should be given its mother's milk for ten days or two weeks, beginning with small quantities, feeding three times a day and always at blood heat, which is 98 to 100 degrees. This should be determined by using a thermometer, because it is very important.
Nature made the calf's stomach to use milk at this temperature and it can no more thrive upon cold milk or half warmed milk than could a baby. Guessing at the temperature means scours and often death.

In a few days a little skim milk may be added, gradually increasing the pro-portion of skim milk and decreasing the whole milk until the ration is all skim milk. It will not do, however, to deprive the calf of the butter fat altogether and a substitute must be provided. This can be done in several ways, but the best substitute we know of and one that is much cheaper than butter fat, is calf meal. A little of this meal added to the skim milk will make thrifty calves. The meal is already cooked and only needs to be dissolved in a little water and added to the warm milk. Calves thrive on this feed because it is nourishing and they don't have the scours. The amount of skim

Producing Food Quality.

Much poor milk, cream and butter is produced because of dirty utensils. Careful methods in drawing the milk and in properly cooling it are set at naught if the milk is strained into an unclean can and allowed to remain there. It is not necessary that the dirt be present in sufficient quantities to be seen by the naked eye in order to render the can unfit for use. After it has been cleaned and dried the tin should have a clean, dry appearance and should not be greasy to the touch. A greasy coating on the interior of a milk can will spoil milk or cream in a very few hours. It doesn't cost any more to keep the utensils clean and the results obtained are more satisfactory.

City milk inspectors report that the demand for pasteurized milk is increas-

Poor cows in the herd rarely pay a profit. It is good business policy to weed them out.

Generally it is a safe rule to allow a heifer to drop her first calf when two years old.

The cows should be so fed and cared for as to keep them in full milk as long as possible.

Piles get quick relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Remember it's made alone for Piles—and it works with certainty and satisfaction. Itching, painful, protruding, or blind piles disappear like magic by it use. Try it and see!

When writing advertisers, please mention The Western Home Month assists digestion.

The Professor's

Not long ago a frien

"Guess," returned the

The visitor ran the so

"Well, I give up! W

The Young Id

organism as far as he pot."

"Sausages," replied th

A young woman wh

class in a Jersey (

school was recently ta

vitingly.
"Micrococci?"

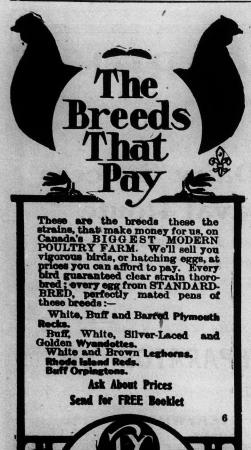

"Sonacocci"

"No."

blandly.

at the laboratory of a y

professor and found over a spirit lamp, on y pot bubbled. "What is it tonight?"

WANTED AT ONCE on salary and expen-ses one good man in each locality with rig, or capable of handling horses, to advertise and introduce our guaranteed stock and poultry specifics. No experience necessary; we lay out your work for you. $25 a week and expenses. Position permanent Write, W. A. Jenkins Manufacturing Co., London, Ont,

POULTRY YARDS OF

CANADA, LIMITED

Somerville Steam Marble and Granite Works

The Largest and Most Reliable Firm Dealing in Monuments, Headstones, etc.

WRITE US FOR PRICES

BRANDON,

MANITOBA

AGENTS WANTED

In Lighter Vein.

BAININ' IN THE COHN.

Kin you smell de sweet, wahm odah ir de breeze fum o'ah de fiel's?

Does you ketch a whiff o' perfume dat de noddin' cohnstalks yiel's?
Fum de mois' thick richness of it you kin tell as sho's yo' born
Dat de long dry spell am broken an' it's rainin' in de cohn.

Oh, de rustle and de patter of de rain dat hits de leaves! de welcome of the cool south win' dat o'ah de cohnfield's breaves. heart fills up with gladness an' you quits dem thoughts fohlohn, Foh you feels the Lawd is with you, sence it's rainin' in de cohn,

De tassel-plumes seems censers swingin' incense thu de air; You kin close yo' eyes an' listen an'

dey's music everywhere. De heaven's sweetness comin' down, all earthly troubles gone Foh, glory hallelujah, it's a-rainin' in de cohn!

Polished and Vigorous.

Observing a passenger with the unlighted butt of a cigar in his fingers, the street car conductor requested him to put it out.

"It is out, you chump," responded the passenger.
"Pardon me," resumed the conductor, "if I have failed to make myself clear. The condition to which I had reference was not one of mere tem-porary non-combustion, but of elimination, the eradication, I might say of the physical presence of your nicotine laden remnant, this process followed necessarily by cessation of the odor now permeating an atmosphere already somewhat deficient, I fear, in the essential element of ozone. I'm a humble conductor, and my aim is to please; but, you big porcupine stiff, you throw that cigar through the door or I'll throw you and it both.

"Excuse me, professor," replied the passenger, meekly, and the incident was closed.

Made a Difference Where it was Put.

Lawley (expert shorthand reporter) -"I say, James, the boy from the newspaper office has called for the report of that lecture. Is it finished?"

James (a novice)—"All but a short sentence in the middle of it, and I can't for the life of me make out from my notes what it is."

Lawley—"Oh, just put in 'great applause' and let it go."

James acts on the suggestion, and the lecture is sent for publication with the doctored part reading: "Friends, I will detain you but a few moments longer. (Great applause.)"

What Surprised Him.

Two Irishmen were crossing the ocean on the way to this country. On the way over Patrick died. Preparations were made for the burial at sea, but the lead weights customarily used in such cases were lost. *Chunks of coal were substituted. Everything was finally ready for the last rites, and long and earnestly did Michael look at his friend. Finally he blurted out sorrowfully:
"Well, Pat, I always knew ye were goin' there, but I'm hanged if I thought they'd make ye bring yer own coal."

Doubts.

There was a darky in southern Tennessee named Eph. Friday, who died a short time ago. Eph. was neither a member of a church nor of a lodge, and thus had no one to deliver an address or a prayer at his liver an address or a prayer at his liver and I find that a good burial. At last an old uncle consented to say a few remarks for the departed soul. As the coffin was being owered into the grave the old uncle said to the assembled mourners:

"Eph. Friday, we trusts you hab gone to de place whar we spects you

Sorry for the Queen.

An English professor wrote on the blackboard in his laboratory:

"Professor Wilson informs his students that he has this day been appointed honorary physician to her majesty, Queen Alexandra."

In the morning he had occasion to eave the room, and found on his return that some student-wag had added to the announcement the words: "God save the Queen."

Definite.

The schoolmaster was trying to explain the meaning of the word "conceited," which had occurred in the course of the reading lesson, "Now, boys," he said, "suppose that I was always boasting of my learning—that I knew a good deal o' latin, for instance, or that my personal appearance was—that I was very good looking, y'know—what would you say I was?"

Straightforward Boy—"Sure, sir, I'd say you was a liar, sir!"

The Wisdom of Solomon.

Abraham—"You vell be baptize nex' veek, I understan'? Dat ees de

Solomon—"Ya-es, dat ees chust so."
Abraham—"Ah, me! de poon parents of you veel turn in der grabes ven dey 'ear such a ding.'

Solomon—"Oh, I veex dat all right, Abraham. You know, mine broder, he's get baptize de veek after, an' den, doan you see, dey veel turn back aga-ain.'

Safe.

A New York man was stopping for a month at an inland town in Florida. This man is exceedingly fond of swimming, but has a horror of snakes, and this fear kept him from indulging in his favorite s ort in the nearby river. He was fishing one day, and mentioned his desire and the barrier to its enjoyment to his guide, a lanky and sorrowful "crack-

"Oh, I kin fix yo' all up all right," the guide drawled, and led the way to a beautiful little lake some distance back from the river. "Ain't nary a snake in hyah," he said.

The Northerner enjoyed a half hour's sport in the clear water, and then coming back to the white sand beach began to dress. He then observed that what he had taken to be several logs floating upon the water were in motion.

"Wonder what causes those logs to move?" he said.
"Them ain't logs," his guide calmly replied, chewing on a straw, "them's 'gators. That's howcome there ain't no snakes in hyah-'gators keeps 'em et up.'

Love's Young Dream.

Father: "Now, see here! If you marry that young pauper, how on Sweet Girl: "Oh, we have figured that all oua. You remember that old hen will raise twenty chicks in a season. Well, th next season there will be twenty-one hens; and each will raise twenty more chicks, that will be four hundred and twenty. The next year there will be 8,400, the following year 168,000, and the next 3,360,000! Just think! At only fifty cents a piece we will then have $1,-680,000. Then, you dear old papa. we'll lend you some money to pay off the mortgage on this house.'

A Scotchman's Answer.

ers, which have to be built with exceeding light draft to get over the frequent shallows of one of the rivers in Scotland, a Yankee tourist remarked to the captain, a shrewd old Scotchman: "I guess, skipper, that you think nothing of steaming across a man ahead wi' a watering-can."

Christmas Dinner Afoot.

mas shopping and was returning to his home, several blocks from the terminus of the street car line. He was burdened with numerous parcels and packages, which were continually slipping from his grasp. The one that caused him the most annoyance was the Christmas turkey, which, stuffed head-downard in a large paper bag, had penetrated the bottom of its dampened envelope and seemed all legs and neck, and simply would not adjust itself to the other bundles. Finally it burst through the bag and dropped to the ground, and Michael, after several ineffectual efforts to arrange it conveniently, sat down on a door step, and wiping his perspiring brow, observed with feeling, "Begorra, if I'd 'a' knowed this tur-rkey was goin' to be such a thrubble I'd 'a' bought a live one an' made the dom bur-rd walk!"

Animal Ignorance.

Frederick and Felix, brothers of four and six years respectively, but of the same size, were asked by a stranger if they were twins. "No," replied Frederick, indignantly, "I should think you'd know by our looks that we're boys!"

An Appeal to History.

Frances is the four-year-old daughter of a great architect. One bright spring morning she was possessed with a wild desire to lean far out of the nursery window. Her mother told her several times what a dangerous proceeding this was, but Frances paid little heed. Finally she added:

"Frances, it isn't considered proper to lean out of the window. No one who is at all nice ever does it."
"Why, mother!" said Frances with marked disapproval and astonishment, "Barbara Frietchie did!"

Depths Lead to Heights.

A Washington guide directed the attention of a party of sightseers to a small, gray-haired man, and said effectionately:

"There goes one of the greatest men in the country. That's Chief-Justice Fuller."

"Why, he has no stature what-ever," whispered one of the ladies.
"Nor weight," hastily rejoined another. "And I can't understand," observed a man in the group, "how he has managed to attain to so great a

The guide answered him significantly and tersely, "Because of his great depth."

"No." "Spirochaeta?" "No."

On board one of the Scotch steam-meadow when there has been a heavy fall of dew."

"That's so," replied the captain, though occasionally we ha'e tae send pupils relative to the d increasing its member she invited the co-oper Michael had been doing his Christend of the several n youngster nearest her sl dubiously. "I might git one boy borhood to come," he er all the others can lick Very "Neat. The English "smart s hold of another near > latest form of saying " or "Pull yourself tog other day, at a bridge of amusing and a sign of hear a certain youthfu recommend a Dowager seventy to "pull her so

"You must pull your so

A Lot of We

Hobbs (with the ciga-That's all v dear fellow. But why something by for a raing Dobbs-Han git, man, look what a deuce of a weather we've had lately

A Regular Birdie

"In the first place," girl, "it is an ornitho

"Ah, indeed!" replied "how so?" "Well, they felt like de

"Oh, I see."

"Then they got marrie "How clever! What come?"
"Why, now they feel

Not Dazzleo

Electric lights had r established in the little Ethel lives, and Ethel impress her little vis neighboring village with tance of this improvement "We have 'lectric church," she exclaimed pride.

"That's nothing," pro the little visitor, " we l in our church, and my is one of them."

Cholera morbus, cran dred complaints annuall appearance at the same hot weather, green frui melons, etc., and many debarred from eating the things, but they need r they have Dr. J. D. K sentery Cordial and take in water. It cures the cholera in a remarkable is sure to check every of the bowels.

The Professor's Pot.

Not long ago a friend dropped in at the laboratory of a young London professor and found him bending over a spirit lamp, on which a small pot bubbled.

"What is it tonight?" asked the "Guess," returned the professor, in-vitingly.

"Micrococci?"

"No." "Sonacocci"

"No."

"Spirochaeta?"
"No."

The visitor ran the scale of microorganism as far as he knew it, and

"Well, I give up! What is in the pot."
"Sausages," replied the professor,

The Young Idea.

A young woman who teaches a class in a Jersey City Sunday-school was recently talking to her pupils relative to the desirability of increasing its membership. When she invited the co-operation to that end of the several members, the youngster nearest her shook his head dubiously.

"I might git one boy in our neighborhood to come," he explained, "but all the others can lick me."

Very "Neat."

The English "smart set" have got hold of another neat expression. "You must pull your socks up" is the latest form of saying "Never mind," or "Pull yourself together." The other day, at a bridge dinner, it was amusing and a sign of the times to hear a certain youthful eldest son recommend a Dowager Countess of seventy to "pull her socks up."

A Lot of Wet.

Hobbs (with the cigar)—Lend you a fiver? That's all very well, my dear fellow. But why don't you put something by for a rainy day?

Dobbs—Han git, man, so I do. But look what a deuce of a lot of wet weather we've had lately!

A Regular Birdie Affair.

"In the first place," said the tall "it is an ornithological love

"Ah, indeed!" replied her chum,

"Well, they felt like doves in court-

"Oh, I see."

"Then they got married for a lark!" "How clever! What was the outcome?"

"Why, now they feel like a couple

Not Dazzled.

Electric lights had recently been established in the little town where Ethel lives, and Ethel was eager to impress her little visitor from a neighboring village with the importance of this improvement.

"We have 'lectric lights in our church,' she exclaimed with boastful

"That's nothing," proudly retorted the little visitor, " we have acolytes in our church, and my little brother is one of them."

Cholera morbus, cramps, and kindred complaints annually make their appearance at the same time as the hot weather, green fruit, cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debarred from eating these tempting things, but they need not abstain if they have Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and take a few drops in water. It cures the cramps and cholera in a remarkable manner, and is sure to check every disturbance of puts the whole system in the best possible condition to resist the enervating effects of "spring fever."

It is the only tonic needed to purify and enrich the bloodregulate bowels, liver and kidneys-sweeten the stomach-and strengthen digestion. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

A teaspoonful in a glass of water every morning. 25c and 6oc.

Here's a Spanking Good Thing

Cow and Horse Hides Tanned for Robes.

You need one of our Good Robes or a, pair of our $3.00 GAUNTLETS.

The Best Value in the Market. Send for our free circular.

CARRUTHERS & COMPANY,

Brandon, Man.

MAKES YOUR CAKES LIGHT. MAKES YOUR BISCUITS LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR BUNS LIGHT. MAKES YOUR LABOR LIGHT. MAKES YOUR EXPENSES LIGHT. Order from your Grocer.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY TORONTO.ONT.

MONEY SAVED

By Trading with us.

A few of our prices: Sugar, 20 lbs. for $1. best Santos Roasted Coffee, 20c. per lb; Bacon, 16c. per lb.; Lard, 10-pail for $1.40. We pay the freight to any railway station in Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Western Ontario. Write us for complete price list—it is FREE. Try us, and be convinced that dealing with us is money in your pocket.

NORTHWESTERN SUPPLY HOUSE,

259-261 STANLEY STREET, WINNIPEG, MAN.

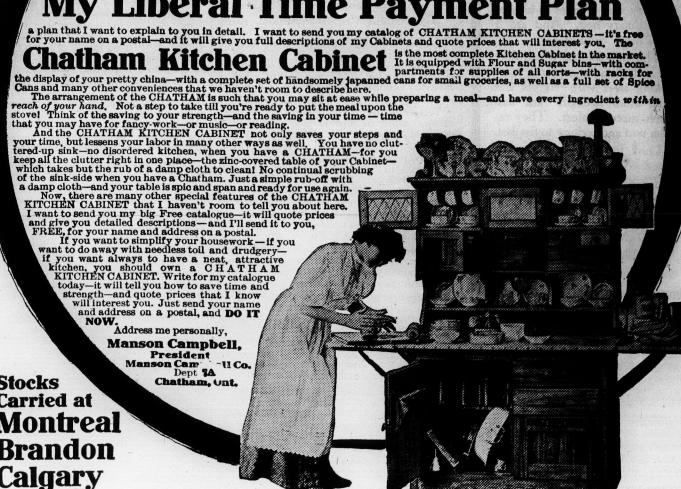

The preparation of even the simplest meal is a task of no small size when you think of the number of steps you take from kitchen to pantry—the number of trips you make after things forgotten—first the salt—then the spice—then the flavoring, and so on. COOKING would be robbed of all its drudgery if you could keep your supplies and cooking utensils close at hand—and within arm's reach. And that is just what you CAN do if you have a CHATHAM KITCHEN CABINET—for the CHATHAM is the Cabinet that has a place not only for every ingredient needed for a meal, but for the utensils to cook it with as well. Now, I will sell you a CHATHAM KITCHEN CABINET on'

My Liberal Time Payment Plan

NOW. Address me personally, Manson Campbell, President
Manson Cam
Dept 7A
Chatham, Unt.

Stocks Carried at Montreal Brandon Calgary

a seaere will ch wi

the folnext ily fifty next ave $1,l papa. pay off steamvith exver the e rivers ewd old er, that g across been a captain, ae send an."

t. Christning to om the ne. He parcels itinually The one noyance which,

m of its med all ould not bundles. bag and Michael, s to arvn on a rspiring g, "Be-tur-rkey bble I'd the dom

thers of ed by a "No," atly, "I tly, ur looks

l daughe bright ossessed r out of her told ingerous Frances added: ed proow. No does it." ces with stonishcted the seers to nd said greatest's Chief-

ts.

e what-ladies. ined an-observed he has great a e of his

Does Your FOOD Digest Well?

When the food is imperfectly digested the full benefit is not derived from it by the body and the purpose of eating is defeated; no matter how good the food or how carefully adapted to the wants of the body it may be. Thus the dyspeptic often becomes thin, weak and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap and vim are lost, and in their place come dullness, lost appetite depression and language. It takes appetite depression and langour. It takes no great kno wledge to know when our has indigestion, some of the following sympoms generally exist, viz.: constipation, cour stomach, variable appetite, headache, heartburn, gas in the stomach, etc.

The great point is to cure it, to get back bounding health and vigor.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

is constantly effecting cures of dyspepsia because it acts in a natural yet effective way upon all the organs involved in the process of digestion, removing all clogging inpurities and making easy the work of digestion and assimilation.

Mr. R. G. Harvey, Ameliasburg, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with dyspopsia for several years and after using three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I was completely cured. I cannot praise B.B.B. enough for what it has done for me. I have not had a sign of dyspepsia

Do not accept a substitute for B.B.B. There is nothing "just as good."

Hercules Spring Beds

Save Money

They last 5 times as long as the ordinary bed. And are 5 imes more comfortable.

The principle on which they are built—and the patent interlocking steel wire — gives five times more strength—just that much more comfort. They remain taut and springy to the last.

Look for the name on the frame—"Hercules."

Try a "Hercules" 30 nightsyour money back, if you're not satisfied.

GOLD MEDAL FURNITURE MFG. CO., Limited,

Toronto,

Teething Babies are saved suffering-and mothers given rest-when one uses

Nurses' and Mothers' Treasure

Quickly relieves-regulates the owels - prevents convulsions. Used 50 years. Absolutely safe. 6 bottles, $1.25. nical Co., Limited, Montreal. 41

ENTERTAINING MISCELLANY

VARIOUS SUBJECTS CLEVERLY TREATED

BETWEEN THE LIGHTS.

'Dear heart, come closer, while the light Dies slowly in the darkening sky. And, marshalled at the call of night,

The twilight shades troop softly by. I would not have you sorrow so Because it must be, soon or late, That one of us alone will go From out the light thro' Death's dark

"For life at best is all too short When measured by a love like ours, And death is but an open port

To broader fields and fairer flowers. So while the twilight shades troop past

And night and darkness come apace, We know the dawn will break at last-And always there is light some place.'

Items of Interest.

The parrot appreciates music more than any other of the lower animals. There are no newsboys in Spain. Women sell newspapers in the street.

Sixty thousand elephants are annualy slaughtered in Africa to secure ivory.

Eggs are sold in Denmark by the score more commonly than by the

In Queen Elizabeth's time a woman would eat a pound of beefsteak for breakfast. Many travellers in Eastern Siberia carry solidified soup in small leather receptacles. In Norway he who cuts down a tree must always plant three young trees in its place. In Tokio every workman wears on his back an inscription telling his trade and his employer. Some of the largest ocean steamers can be converted into armed cruisers in

The boa constrictor, Buckland, the naturalist, declares, tastes like veal, only finer and sweeter.

Horses, giraffes and ostriches have in proportion to their size larger eyes than any other creatures.

Intoxicating liquors have been made from the sap of the birch, the willow, the poplar and the sycamore. Among the Dyaks of Borneo a youth may not marry till he can show the skull of an enemy slain in battle.

Old maids are unknown in Turkey, and the word "spinster" has no equiva-lent in the language of the country.

Lake Morat, in Switzerland, turns the presence of a peculiar aquatic plant. There are no paupers in the Gold Coast Colony, and there is neither lunatic asylum, reformatory nor poor-

Yellow is by far the most permanent of any color in flowers. It is the only one not affected by sulphurous acid fumes.

It Italy you can tell where the peasant women come from by the size of their earrings. The southerners wear the longest.

The soil in China is so rich that a square mile is said to be capable of supporting a population of nearly four thousand people.

Neither in France nor in Austria are children ever permitted to be received They are boarded nto work-houses. out with peasant families.

Caterpillars have been found to be greatly agitated by musical vibrations, lescending from a tree in a shower at he sound of a cornet.

One of the choicest delicacies in Jamtica is a huge, white worm found in the heart of the cabbage palm. It tastes, when cooked, like almonds.

Diamonds, pearls and turquoises are he precious stones best imitated. False rubies and sapphires, on the other hand, may be detected with ease.

Cannes, the perfume-making town of Southern France, smells so powerfully of flowers in the busy season that visitors are often afflicted with a flower headache.

Well trained Spanish women learn to handle the sword from their earliest year, and as a result they have admirable figures and an easy walk.

In Norway they hold balls on the ice, and the young men and women have reached a point of skill where on the ice they can go through the most complicated figures of the dance.

The newspaper files of the British Museum have been moved to a special depository at Hendon, seven miles from London, where they occupy six miles and a half of shelving.

In the Gulf of Mexico, ten miles southwest of Sabine pass, is a calm stretch of water two miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide. known as the oil spot, and is always

The tolling of a bell at a funeral is purely pagan custom. The idea was to drive away evil spirits. Funeral bells are known to have been used by the church in the sixth century, A. D. Modeling in crumbs, which are soaked in liquids of various colors and are made elastic and almost unbreakable by a special process, is the curious new art of Suzanne Meyer, a French woman. The highest clouds reach ten miles above our heads. They are the white, feathery forms which we seen on a clear Although apparently motionless, they travel from seventy-five to ninety miles an hour. A piece of leather, with the assistance of the latest machines, can be transformed into a pair of shoes in thirty-four minutes, in which time it passes through the hands of sixty-three people and through fifteen machines.

The English Duke of Rutland has the walls of one of his castles adorned with thousands of horseshoes, the collection having been begun centuries ago. Among them is a shoe given by Queen Elizabeth and another by Queen

Eighteen miles is said to be the longest distance at which a man's voice has been heard. This occurred in the Grand Canyon of Colorado, where one man shouted the name "Bob" at one end and was plainly heard at the other end, which is eighteen miles away.

Remarkable gold beetles are found in cases are brilliantly polished with a lustre as of gold itself. To sight and touch they have all the appearance of that metal. Oddly enough, another species from the same region leafs like. species from the same region looks like solid sliver, freshly burnished.

From time immemorial the rose has heen regarded as an emblem of silence, having been dedicated by Cupid to Harpocrates, the god of silence Presenting or holding a rose to a person was regarded as a signal to hold his tongue, and in rooms it was usual to place a rose above the table to signify that what was there spoken should be kept a secret.

Artificial silk is made from wood pulp in Sweden. The imitation is excellent, but it is found that many dresses made from it have been discarded because the creases made when the wearer sits down do not come out. It is scarcely possible to distinguish the real from the artificial silk, but this defect has proved fatal for the use as dress pieces.

Every cat owner now in Berlin has to pay a tax, which is equivalent to a license, and each cat has to wear a metal disk round its neck as evidence that the tax has been paid. Any cat found on the streets without this metal. disk is taken off to the municipal lethal chamber by the police. method has already considerably lessened the number of cats in Berlin. The Emperor—who has a hatred of cats almost amounting to a mania—is said to have induced the Berlin municipality to take action.

A bridge built entirely of mahogany, said to be the only one of the kind in in the world is in the State of Chianas, Mexico. The bridge spans the Rio Michol, and its total length, including approaches, exceeds 150 feet, while the width is 15 feet. It is used by both teams and pedestrians, and, though somewhat rude and primitive in construction, is substantial. None of the fimbers of the flooring were sawed, for in that region there are no sawmills. n that region there are no sawmills, out were hewed and split.

The most productive sulphur mine in the world is in Calcasieu parish, in the such odors as those of chocolate, van-miles from the Sabine River. The sulphur is 98.8 per cent. pure. The daily output is from 750 to 800 tons throughout the year. The cost of production is only $2.50 a ton, while the selling price is $28.50 per ton.

In Belgium all cattle over three months old are to be seen wearing earrings. Breeders are obliged to keep a record of all cattle raised by them, and each animal has a registered trade number, which is engraved on the ring fastened to its ear.

The South Sea Island fisherman throws into the water a poison extracted from a certain bark. The fish, stupefied, at once come to the surface, and are gathered in by hand. Their flesh is quite as wholesome as though they had been netted.

A bank note that passed through the Chicago fire is one of the curios preserved in the Bank of England. The paper was consumed, but the ashes held together, and the printing is quite legible, and is kept under glass. The tank paid the note.

They do things on a wholesale scale out in California. The traveler down the coast from San Francisco to Los Angeles rides through 35 miles of growing beans. A tract of 3,000 acres is owned by one man. A "bean ranch" may sound rather odd, but that is what (t amounts to.

What is said to be the smallest book ever printed has just been published at Padua, Italy, by Salmin Brothers. It is ten by six millimeters in size, and consists of 80 pages, each page containing nine lines of 95 to 100 letters that, despite their diminutive size, are perfectly visible. The book reproduces a hitherto unpublished letter, Galilei's to Christina of Lorena (1615).

A singular birth custom prevailing in Yorkshire is mentioned tributor. In parts of the West Riding, he says, it is quite common for visitors to a house in which a new baby has appeared to carry with them as an offering to the infant a new laid egg, some salt, a piece of bread, and in some cases a peny.

By his will, a rich land owner, named Bielau, who has died in Leonnewitz, Saxony, leaves a large property to the military authorities, wheh, in case of war, is to be sold, and two-thirds of the money given to the soldiers who capture the first standard from the enemy, and the third part to the first soldier who captures a gun.

Some rather remarkable fancy work was recently exhibited in London, the work of a woman living in Cape Town, South Africa. Several screens and some exquisite panels were decorated with flowers and figures made entirely of fish scales. The scales were thread-ed on silver wire and dyed just the right tints, and the results were quite wonderful in both color and general

The feat of moving a lighthouse without taking it apart or dismantling it in any way has recently been accom plished at Ashtabula. The range light, weighing 65 tons, and standing 65 feet high, was placed on a lighter and towed along the river, a distance of 750 feet, and then successfully placed on a new site. It was raised by the use of jacks and moved on rollers to and from the lighter. Guy ropes held it in position while moving.

It will cost the American government in round numbers of $300,000 just to secure the blank paper necessary on which to print the supply of paper currency for 1907. This will prove a good investment, however, because Uncle Sam will manufacture the paper into notes and bills with a face value of $765,000. The biggest item in this total is the $5 denomination, of which there will be $184,000,000. There will be worth 93,000,000 $1 bills and $140,000,000 of $5 gold certificates.

The candle nut is a native of the Pacific Islands, and the name is derived from the fact that the kernels are so full of oil that, when dried, they can be stuck on reeds and used as candles. The people of Hawaii, after having roasted these nuts and removed the shells, reduce the kernels to a paste, which, when flavored with pepper and salt, is said to be a most appetizing dish. The husk of the nut and the gum which exudes from the tree have medicinal values, while the burned shell is used to make an indelible ink, with which tattooing is done.

Certain butterflies have marked odors, some good, some bad. Dr. F. A. Dixey, British entomologist, mentions a white butterfly of England that has the fragrant scent of lemon verbena, and has noted many species in Africa with southwestern part of Louisiana, a few illa and various flowers. The agreeable odors belong to males, to attract females. The shared by both sexes, repelling enemies.

Every Frenchman is 1 of $150 on his shoulder River Jordan water regularly for baptisma It is said that a fly n per second with its w been proved by the us phone that you can he A royal decree just Italian king approves tl Marconi wireless teleg from Italy to America cents a word. In 1885 there were on 000 Jews in Jerusalem the city they numbered In all, about 150,000 ar in Palestine. Among civilized nati of the men and 1 per men are color blind. the only people free f

The Russian law, wh Jews to live in the ghe not modified even in valids, who might save change of air.

The king of Denma valuable collection of bi includes specimens of kind in existence. The sidered to be worth ab thousand dollars.

The poisonous nicotir removed by steeping t solution of tannic acid. method adopted by a C To improve the flavor of is then treated with majoram.

When the war broke o had already engaged tr number of 110, with a ing 400,000. These were belonging to the Nippin or smaller Japanese panies. Since then nu steamships have been right and most of the the far east have seized to weed out the older fleets, greatly to the their shareholders. In some parts of form a regular article peasants eat them with oftentimes been rubbe The hygienic effects good, replacing meat to These nuts are also use It is much cheaper and taste to that pressed fro employed to adulterate prisoners in certain priso in cracking walnuts ar the kernels, which are p So peculiar is the for feet that night and day can run with perfect se most dangerously rough places. From a narrow broaden remarkably tow which the great one from the others as to f a wide angle. And from nails that can be fixed like hooks. This peculia of the natives of Tonqu for them among the Ch of Coa-Ci-the people w

The world's annual India rubber is at pre pounds. Of this nearly in the United States.

Fifty-one carrier pigeo Antwerp recently for $2 ing a record price, the paid for one bird being The German Emperor vants in his employ the monarch. Altogether the 3,000, about two-thirds

In the Vatican at Rom topaz in the world. It pounds and has carving occupied three Neapolita

There is a training s phants in Api, in the where 28 elephants are The training operations encouraging results.

If taken at the "Sneez at the "Sneez titics—a toothsome c I surely and quickly paching cold or Lag i first catch cold—or— take Dr. Shoop's : prompt effect will ce proverbial "oung Sold in 5c. and 1907.

er three aring earo keep a them, and ade numthe ring fisherman n extractsh, stupeface, and heir flesh ough they through he curios land. The shes held is quite ass. The sale scale down the to Los of grownch" may what (t

llest book published others. It size, and page con-00 letters size, are eproduces Galilei's prevailing by a const Riding, r visitors baby has m as an laid egg, d in some er, named eonnewitz, ty to the case of thirds of liers who n the enthe first

ncy work ndon, the pe Town, ens and decorated entirely e threadjust the ere quite l general ighthouse

smantling

nge light, g 65 feet nd towed 750 feet, on a new of jacks from the position vernment ust to se-on which currency good in-ncle Sam nto notes $765,000. il is the re will be be worth 00,000 of f the Pas derived s are so they can candles. r having a paste, pper and ppetizing the gum ve medishell is nk, with ed odors, A. Dixey. ntions a t has the ena, and rica with ate, vanagreeable odors belong to males, being a charm to attract females. The offensive odors, shared by both sexes, are protective, repelling enemies.

Every Frenchman is born with a debt of $150 on his shoulders. River Jordan water is now exported regularly for baptismal purposes. It is said that a fly makes 400 strokes per second with its wings, and it has been proved by the use of the microphone that you can hear a fly walk. A royal decree just signed by the Italian king approves the new tariff for Marconi wireless telegrams. The cost from Italy to America is fixed at 121/2 cents a word.

In 1885 there were only 16,000 to 17,-000 Jews in Jerusalem. Last year in the city they numbered at least 41,000. In all, about 150,000 are actually living in Palestine.

Among civilized nations 4 per cent. of the men and 1 per cent. of the women are color blind. The Chinese are the only people free from color blind-

The Russian law, which compels all Jews to live in the ghettos of cities, is not modified even in the case of invalids, who might save their lives by a change of air.

The king of Denmark has a very valuable collection of birds' eggs, which includes specimens of nearly every kind in existence. The collection is considered to be worth about seventy-five thousand dollars.

The poisonous nicotine in tobacco is removed by steeping the leaves in a solution of tannic acid. This is the method adopted by a German chemist. To improve the flavor of the tobacco it is then treated with a decotion of majoram.

When the war broke out the Japanese had already engaged transports to the number of 110, with a tonnage exceeding 400,000. These were mostly vessels belonging to the Nippin Yusen Kaisha, or smaller Japanese shipping companies. Since then numerous foreign steamships have been purchased outright and most of the lines trading to the far east have seized the opportunity to weed out the older boats in their fleets, greatly to the advantage of their shareholders.

In some parts of France walnuts form a regular article of diet. peasants eat them with bread that has oftentimes been rubbed with garlic. The hygienic effects are considered good, replacing meat to a large extent, These nuts are also used to make oil. It is much cheaper and much similar in taste to that pressed from olives, and is employed to adulterate the latter. The prisoners in certain prisons are engaged in cracking walnuts and picking out the kernels, which are pressed into oil.

So peculiar is the formation of their feet that night and day the Tonquinese can run with perfect security over the most dangerously rough and smooth places. From a narrow heel the feet broaden remarkably toward the toes, of which the great one is so separated from the others as to form with them a wide angle. And from the toes grow nails that can be fixed in the ground like hooks. This peculiarity in the feet of the natives of Tonquin has obtained for them among the Chinese the name of Coa-Ci-the people with the crooked

Facts and Figures.

The world's annual production of India rubber is at present 57,000,000 pounds. Of this nearly half is used up in the United States.

Fifty-one carrier pigeons were sold at Antwerp recently for $2,250, constituting a record price, the highest amount paid for one bird being $105.

The German Emperor has more servants in his employ than any other monarch. Altogether they number over 3,000, about two-thirds of them being

In the Vatican at Rome is the largest topaz in the world. It weighs seven pounds and has carvings upon it that occupied three Neapolitan lapidaries 61

There is a training school for elephants in Api, in the Congo State, where 28 elephants are taking lessons. The training operations have produced encouraging results.

If taken at the "Sneeze Stage." Preventics—a toothsome candy Tablet—will surely and quickly check an approaching cold or Lagrippe. When you first catch cold—or feel it coming on—take Dr. Shoop's Preventics, and the prompt effect will certainly surprise and please you. Preventics surely supply the proverbial "ounce of prevention." Sold in 5c. and 25c. boxes.

Get Your Roofs

Tools

You can put on a roof that will last a hundred years and be the right kind of a roof every minute. Or you can put on a ten-year roof that will probably leak after the first rain hits it, and keep leaking till it is rotted away.

Either roof will cost you about the same in money at the start. But the "Oshawa"shingled roof will be

FIRE-PROOF—literally; and wind-proofactually; and lightning-proof—positively. That's the hundred-year roof! And that "Oshawa"-shingled roof will be weather-proof for a century. We'll GUARAN-TEE in every way for a quarter-century—from now till Nineteen-Thirty-Two. Guaranteed in writing for 25 years—and you needn't ever paint it, even! That's saying something, isn't it? What would your mill-man say if you

Seven out of ten of them leak the first time it rains. No woodshingled roof is fire-proof for a minute, and the first high wind that catches a loose shingle—whoosh! goes half your shingled roof over into the next township.

"Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles are GUARANTEED in every way for Twenty-Five Years Ought to Last a Century

And GUARANTEED don't overlook that. Guaranteed in writing, over the seal of a company with a quarter-million capital,—guaranteed in plain English, without any ifs or buts, for 25 long years.

That's the argument in asked him to guarantee cedar shingles for even ten years? He certainly would make remarks!

And even the best cedar-shingled roof will be leaking badly inside of ten years.

As wood - shingles; fire - proof, water - proof, rust-proof, lightning - proof; easier to put on; and GUARANTEED. That's the "Oshawa" proposition!

Tell us the measurement of any roof, and we'll tell you exactly what it will cost to roof it with less work and for less money. a nutshell—cost the same

Yet cedar shingles cost you just

Yet cedar shingles cost you just about the price of these guaranteed "Oshawa" Shingles—28-guage toughened steel, double galvanized—good for a century, guaranteed in writing till 1932,—fire-and-wind-and-weather-proof and lightning-proof.

Four-dollars-and-a-half a square buys "Oshawa" Calvanized Steel Shingles

Steel Shingles yourself, easily, — with no tools but a claw-hammer and snips. Simplest thing you know—can't get 'em on

"Oshawa" Shingles lock on all four sides—whole roof is practically one sheet of double-galvanized steel, that

Galvanized Steel Shingles—ten feet by ten feet.
Compare that with the present price of cedar shingles — how does it

And you can put on these "Oshawa" Galvanized never needs painting.

strike you?

it with less work and for less money. Plenty of facts that concern your pocket-book come to you as soon as you ask for our free book, "Roofing Right." A post card will do A post card will do to

Why don't you ask now?

The Pedlar People-MONTREAL TORONTO OTTAWA Of OShawa LONDON 321-3 Craig St. W. 11 Colborne St. 423 Sussex St. Of Oshawa St.

WINNIPEG VANCOUVER

NERVE PILLS FOR WEAK PEOPLE

Nerve Food and Blood Enricher. They build up and renew all the worn out and wasted tissues of the body, and restore perfect health and vigor to the entire system.

Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prosetration, Brain Fag, Lack of Vitality, After Effects of La Grippe, Anæmia, Weak and Dizzy Spells, Loss of Tlemory, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Energy, Shortness of Breath, etc., can all be cured by using

Breath, etc., can all be cured by using

Are a True Heart Tonic,

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Price 50c, a box or 3 for $1.25. All dealers or THE T. MILBURN Co., LIMITED, Toronto, Ont.

guarantee of quality.

The E. B. EDDY Company, Limited, Hull, Que. Always everywhere in Canada use Eddy's matches

DON'T BUY GASOLINE ENGINES UNTIL YOU INVESTIGATE OF A SOLINE ENGINES THE MASTER WORKMAN," a two-cylinder engine; revolutionizing power. Its weight and bulk are half that of single cylinder engines with greater durability. Costs engine. Send for Catalogue. The Temple Pump Co., Mfrs., Meagher and 15th Sts.. Chicago. This is our Firty-third year.

POSTCARDS, fifty, sixty, and dollar a hundred views-comic, birthday and other fancy

RED STAR NEWS CO., London, Canada

Send us your address and we will show you how to make $3 aday below the locality where you live. Send us your address and we will explain the business fully; remember we guarantee a clear profit of $3 for every day's work, absolutely sure; we and New Suit Catalog. Send to day. MPERIAL SILVERWARE CO., Bex 908 q WINDSOR, ONL

Southcott Suit Co., London Ont.

WIT, HUMOR AND FUN

LIFE'S COMIC SIDE TREATED BY CLEVER PENS

"Does your sister Bessie still talk | about her affinity and communion of

"No; she's married now."

Anxious Mother: What did you do with the medicine the doctor left for you, dear?
Tommy: A poor little sick boy round

the corner didn't have any, so I gave it

Sharpe: Did your aunt remember you in her will?

Wise: She remembered me all right.

That was why she didn't mention me in the will.

Teacher: "Tommy, what is nutritious' food?" Tommy: "Something to eat that ain't got no taste to it."

"A man told me the other day that I looked like you."
"Where is he? I would like to punch him."

"I killed him."

"Now, John," said the teacher, addressing the new pupil, "what is 'don't' the abbreviation of?"
"Doughnut," was the prompt, but rather unexpected reply.

Zoological Specialist (gazing at solitary sea lion in the Dublin Zoo)—Where is his mate? Irish Keeper-He has no mate, sorr. We just fade him on fish.

Amateur Sport: "I say, I've been asked to go shooting next week. What ought I to give the keeper?"

His Friend: "Oh, well, it depends where you hit him, you know."

Office Boy: I'll bet de boss is goin' to marry de typewriter.

Bookkeeper: What makes you think

Office Boy: Because he's beginning to kick about havin' to pay her a salary.

She: So these are the china bargains you advertised?

Dealer: Yes, ma'am, and they're going for little or nothing.
She: All right. I'll take that blue dish for nothing.

"Shame on you" cried the good man, "your're drunk half the time. Why don't "Can't afford it," replied Lushman. It costs money to be drunk all the

"What have you to pit against our Burns?" demanded the combative

'Well, we had our skalds," was the Norseman's cautious reply.

She: "What makes you think Jones won't make a good golfer?" He: "Well, every time he misses the ball he merely says, 'Tut, tut.'

> One word of well-directed wit-A pebble-jest—has often hit A boastful evil, and prevailed When many a nobler weapon failed.

"My nephew is not content with a gig," says Mrs. Ramsbotham, "but he sets two horses, puts one before the other, and drives about the country in Nell: "George says one of the things that he admires about me is that I'm so clever.'

Belle: Of course, a man always considers a girl clever who can worm a proposal out of him."

"Neil Anderson met with a painful accident last week, a fish-hook becoming entangled in his eye. Neil is being attended by Dr. Phil Morton, who says his eye will come out all right," is the ambiguous statement of the country

The Vicar's Wife: "I'm sorry to see you're not paying into our coal club this year, Goodenough."

Goodenough: "Well, mum, you seewell, it's like this 'ere, I lives right be'ind the coal yard now!"

"Willie, I'll have to have my own glasses; I can't see through your father's, they make me dizzy."
"I'll bet," said Willie, running to get his mother's glasses, "that the reason that dad came home so dizzy the other might was because he had been looking. night was because he had been looking through different glasses.

Gyer: "Huggins is a remarkable

Myer: "In what way?"
Gyer: "Why, he can't wait at the telephone without making pencil marks on the desk pad."

A smart young fellow called out to a farmer who was sowing seed in his field. "Well done, old fellow; you sow, I reap the fruits." "Maybe you will," said the farmer,
"for I'm sowing hemp."

"Well, doctor, what do you recommend?"

"I think you need mud baths."

"Mud baths? Man, I've just come through a bitter political campaign!"

First Physician: "Has he got any hereditary trouble?"

Second Physician: "Yes. I hope to hand his case down to my son."

The joke is going the rounds of the press as to the boy's definition of a deficit. "It's what you've got when you haven't got as much as if you hadn't

"Has your wealth brought you happiness?" asked the philosopher. "Perhaps not," answered Mr. Dustin Stax; "but it has at least stood between me me and a lot of annoyances.'

Jones (who has missed his golf-ball for the tenth time) to caddy: "What shall I do now?" Caddy: "Give it a swipe with the bag, mister."

Mrs. Brown: "It be very kind of you doctor, coming so far to see me husband."

Doctor: "Not at all. I have a patient on the way, so I can kill two birds with one stone."

Tommy: "Does your ma hit your foot under the table when you've had

Johnny: "No; that's when I haven't had enough. When I have she sends for the doctor."

She: "Would you rather walk or ride there?" He: "Well, I've been out in the motor car so much lately that I think I'd rather ride for a change."

"Have you never said anything you were sorry for?" "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum

but I never yet made the political blunder of owning up that I was sorry.'

Simpkins: "When is your son coming home from college?" Tompkins: "In about six months, I guess; he has been gone six months and he writes that he is half-back now." "Your constituents must realize that you are working for them." "Yes," said Senator Sorghum; "but a good many of them have gotten the idea that I am omitting the preposi-

Agent: "This is the automobile you want. You never have to crawl under it to fix it."

Sparker: "You don't?"
Agent: "No. If the slightest thing goes wrong with the mechanism, it instantly turns bottom-side up."

Teacher: "Name a group of islands on the coast of Scotland."
Willie: "The Bridegrooms."

Teacher: "The Bridegrooms?"
Willie: "Well, the He-brides. That's the same thing, ain't it?"

It is said that Bishop® Whipple, of Minnesota, being held up by a foot-pad, said, indignantly, "Sir, I am the Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Minnesota!" "You don't say so!" ex-claimed the robber; "Why, that's my church, too!"

"Preventics will promptly check a cold or the Grippe when taken early or at the "sneeze stage." Preventics cures seated colds as well. Preventics are little candy cold cure tablets, and Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., will gladly mail you samples and a book on Colds free, if you will write him. The samples prove their merit. Check early Colds with Preventics and stop Pneumonia. Sold in 5c, and 25c, boxes by druggists,

How to Wash Clothes in Six Minutes

TERE'S a Washing Machine that almost Works itself.

The tub spins half way around, like

The tub spins half way around, like a top.

There's a pivot in center of Tub bottom.

And there is a groove, around the pivot. In this groove, or track, there are ball bearings, like in a Bicycle wheel.

These Bicycle Bearings are little steel balls the size of small marbles. They roll in the track when the tub spins around on top of them.

All the weight of the Tub, and of the Clothes rests on these rolling balls.

That's why the Tub spins as easily when full of Clothes and water, as when it is empty.

So that a whole tub full of Clothes can be washed almost as easily and as quickly, with this machine, as a single garment could be washed.

"How does it wash Clothes, you ask."

machine, as a single garment could be washed.

"How does it wash Clothes, you ask."

See the two Springs under the Tub?

When you swing the Tub to the right (with handle at top) you stretch both these Springs, till the Tub goes half way around.

Then, the stretched Springs pull the Tub back from right with a bounce, and carry it almost half way around on the left side. Then the springs bounce it back to the rightside again.

A little help is needed from you each time. But the Springs, and the Ball Bearings, which was all of the hard work.

Now, if you look inside the Tub you'll see slat paddles fastened to its bottom.

Fill the Tub half full of hot soapy water. Then spin it to the right. The slat paddles make the water turn around with the Tub till the Springs stop the Tub from turning further to the right and bounce it back suddenly to the left.

But the water keeps on running to the right, though the Tub, and the clothes in it, are now turning to the left.

Thus, the swift driving of this soapy water through the clothes, at each half turn, washes the dirt out of the threads without any rubbing.

Mind you, without rubbing, which means without wearing, the clothes.

It's the rubbing on washboards, and on other washing Machines, that wears out clothes quicker than hard use at hard labor.

That costs money for clothes, doesn't tit' And the everlasting rubbing is the hardest

That costs money for clothes, doesn't it?
And the everlasting rubbing is the hardest work in Washing, isn't it? Rubbing dirty clothes on a metal washboard with one's knuckles, over a tub of steaming hot water, is harder work, and more dangerous to health, than digging Coal deep down in a mine.

Well, the "1900 Junior" Washer cuts out all the slavery of Washing, and half the expense.

It will wash a whole tub full of dirty clothes in Six Minutes. It will wash them cleaner in Six Minutes than they could be washed by hand in Twenty minutes. And it won't wear the clothes, nor break a button, nor fray even a thread of lace.

Because Bunning Water can't wear the clothes, nor break buttons, nor tear buttonholes.

And, it is the hot, soapy water swiftly running through the clothes that takes all the dirt out of them in Six little minutes.

A child can wash a tub full of dirty clothes in half the time you could do it yourself—with half the time you could do it yourself—with half the work.

Think what that half-time is morth to me the support of the minutes and the work for Washerwomans' Wages.

Pay us 50 cents a week less labor thus saves you 60 cents a week out of that 60 cents our washer saves you, if you decide to keep it, after the work.

Think what that half-time is worth to you every week for Ten years!

It is worth 50 cents a week to you. That is $65.00 a year, or $260.00 saved in 10 years.

And, a "1900 Junior" Washer lasts 16 years.

Well—pay us the 50 cents a week our "1900 Junior" Washer will save you, for a few months

Then you will own a '1900 Junior' Washer that will last 10 years, without any cost to you. But don't pay us a cent till you have tested the '1900 Junior' Washer for a full month, at our expense. We will ship it to any reliable person free, on a month's trial, and leave the test to you. And we will pay the freight both ways, out of our own pockets. That shows how sure we are that the '1900 Junior' Washer will do all we promise.

If you don't find it does better washing, in half the time, than you can wash by hand, send it back to us. If you don't find it saves more than half the wear on clothes, send it back to us.

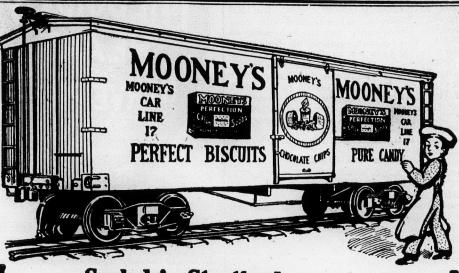

If you don't find it washes clothes as easily as you could rock a cradie, or run a sewing machine, send it back to us. If it won't wash dirty clothes in six minutes, send it back to us.

Pay us 50 cents a week for washerwomans' wages.

Pay us 50 cents a week out of that 60 cents our Washor saves you, if you decide to keep it, after a month's trial. Then you own the Washer.

Write us today, if you want a month's free use of the quickest "Washer" in the world.

Address W H G. Bach, Manager "1900"
Washer Co., 655 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.

Sealed in Stratford— Opened in Western Canada.

Mooney's private cars bring Stratford to Western Canada, and give folk here the most delicious biscuits in Canada, just as they come

These cars are built after the most approved type—and are so scientifically constructed that the temperature inside is equalized. This insures the biscuits being kept in faultless condition, winter and summer. There is a treat in biscuits in every box of Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas.

Vol. VIII. No. 6.

PRISCILL CHANCE

By Louise Forss

Author of "The Story of: 'The Ship of Dreams."

Marton Sa

Old Billy Blom sa striped stocking feet table instead of the st might look out of the baymen trudging hor end of the day's work: busied herself about th table with preparatio Priscilla sat watching dream-light in her ey tenderness, while her with the unmistakab sweet secret struggling

"Ve been married coom this May," Billy suddenly, and Priscill ting her mouth in sy "Priscilly," went on old Dutchman, "you a goldting veddin' yit. The young spinster as if in sorrow, while wise with his heavy D

"Too badt-Priscilly vhadt de mens vas Didn't you neffer haff dear?" Priscilla's secret cam

ing her that she gurg child; but Mrs. Billy's out all over. "Vall, dhot's joost snapped the old lady.

no chances, eh? You andt hundt from here Star andt you von't vhadt neffer hadt no cilly, you tell him your chances." Priscilla, looking at light steadily growing Billy's face, as it also ever he succeeded in lady, laughed as she ar "Well, let me see. half-witted son of the everybody knew about He used to bring me for good luck. He know, 'S-s-s-say, Pri to ask, 'wh-wh-wh-vlove me?' answer. Now, you k

There was an anxie