THE EDINBURGH REVIEW, (Whig.)
THE NORTH BRITISH REVIEW, (Free Church.)
THE WESTMINISTER KEVIEW (Liberal.) AND

BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE, (Tory.)

THESE Reprints have been in successful operation in this country for treaty years, and their circulation is constantly on the increase, notwithstanding the competition they encountry from American periodicals of a similar class, and from the numerous Eclectice and Magazines made up of selections from foreign periodicals. This fact shows clearly the high estimation in which they are held by the intelligent reading public, and affords a guarantee that they are established on a firm basis, and will be continued without interruption.

Although these works are distinguished by the political shades above indicated, yet but a small portion of their contents is devoted to political subjects. It is their literary character which gives them their chief value, and in that they stand confessedly far above all other journals of their class. Blackwood, still under the masterly guidance of Christopher North, maintains its ancient celebrity, and is, at this time, anamally attractive, from the serial works of Bulwer and other literary notables, written for that magazine, and first appearing in its columns both in Great Britain and in the Unsted States. Such works as "The Caxtone" and "My Agen Novel." (both by Bulwer), "My Peninsular Medal." The Green Hand." and other serials, of which numerous rival editions are issued by these spublishers from the pages of Blackwood, after it has been issued by Messes. Scott and Co., so that Subscribers to the Reprint of that Magazine may always rely of faving the earliest reading of these fascinating tales.

Forget thee, no! I never can, My fond beloved friend, Forget the one I've loved so dear, When in a foreign land.

Forget thee, no! can I forget
The one that I adore?

My heart with love runs o'er.

O for his softest, sweetest voice, 1'll watch o'er hill and plain; And hope, that he in safety may Return to me again.

I never will forget thee, no!
My love doth all sustain;
The triumphs of that happy hour,
That brings you back again.

CHANGELESS LOVE.

BY MRS. FRANCES B. M. BROTHERSON. "Ah love ! that neither death nor change,

Oh! urge me not to seek, in life's gay maze, A solace for the bleeding heart I bear, Nor bid me fix my clouded, tearful gaze, On the enchantments that we deem so fair; Still let the rankling arrow linger here, In the deep recess of my stricken heart, Sad memories cling around it—vet so dear, I would not, if I could, withdraw the dart.

I tread my path alone, and weary-hearted,
Death's shadow rests upon my dreary way;
Save when fond Memory comes, with smiles long parted,
And vanished hours invoke Live's brightening ray.
How like an angel visitant it seemeth!
Bidding the clouds of sorrow flee away;
Would that the blissfell hours of which she dreameth,
Could take one tinge from Hope's once radiant day.

What now to me is beauty's flashing eye?
Though it may wear the glory of a star;
Shedding its brightness from its home on high,
A glinpase of what the inner glories are.
Alas! far down, within the quiet tomb,
Eyes that I love, are scaled in its calm sleep—
Their blessed lovelight brightnend once my home;
That home is dark—and therefore let me weep.

Bid me not listen to the thrilling tone,
Whose lingering cadence charms the list'ning ear;
I turn away, to think of accents gone,
I ne'er can find such mellowed sweetness here. I know that, eyen in youder for bright world, Her scraph voice gives back the sweetest strain; That when Love's baner o'er me is anfated. Those deathless notes shall greet mine our again.

Then shall the clouds that gather round me now, Fade in the light of heaven's resplendent ray, Grief's seal no more shall stamp my heart and brow, Taking the blessedness of life away; My fetter'd soul smould gladly burst its chain, And, dove-like, By to yonder deathless shore, Where I might find my treasure yet again, And death's dark shadow chill me never more.

THE PARDONING POWER.

We give below a letter of Washinging Hunt, Governor of the State of New York, to the Sheriff of Duchess County. The letter was written for publication, in answer to numerous appeals made to Mr. Hunt to pardon a murderess. He has taken a just view of his duties a...

"Since granting the reprieve by which the execution of Ann Hong wins postponed until the 30th instant, I have received from your County, numerous communications, urging the exercise of elemency in her behalf. It would seem, that many of our citizens regard the pardoning power vested in the Executive as a personal peregarive, to be exercised at pleasure from the promptings of law your County, namerous communications, urging the exercise of elemency in her behalf. It would seem, that many of our citizens regard the pardoning power vested in the Executive as a personal perogative, to be exercised at pleasure from the promptings of law or the guilt of the offender. This partial and erroneous view of the subject, and the appeals which it naturally suggests, add much to the embarrassments accessarily incidental to the discharge of my duty in capital cases. On recurring to the real design of the Constitution, every candid mind must perceive, that the power of pardon lodged with the Executive Department, was not intended to defeat the objects of the law, by arresting its execution or changing its penalties in cases of well-established and deliberate guilt. It is a remedial power, to be resorted to for the correction of erzars and prevention of injustice. Its exercise is legitimate, whenever the conviction is founded upon inadequate proof, or when the verdict is inconsistent with newly-discovered facts; and in cases of frequent occurrence, when the crime is accompanied with mitigating circumstances, which diminish the moral guilt of the offender. None of these considerations can be advanced in favour of the pardon of Ann Heag. Her guilt is conclusively established. A careful examination of the testimony, precludes every doubt. Though circumstantial in part, a complete chain of proof is presented, as convincing to the mind, as the positive evidence of an eye-witness. The most errorest advocates of clemency, with few exceptions, candidly admit the justice of the verdict. The case presents no extensuing features to justify me in releasing her from the septence of the law. On the contrary, her crime was of the despest afrocity. Without even the poor plea of resentment, she destroyed a kind and confiding husband, by minging poison with his daily sustenance. She destroyed her lawful protector to gain a paramour, and obtain free scope for the indulgence of a guilty passion. Hawing conceived this dispo the criminal code makes no distinction between the sexes in the painshment of crime. The woman who has renounced the virtue which adorns the female character, and prefaned the laws of God and man by the deliberate murder of her only legitimate protector, appears befire us disrobed of all those moral graces which entitle her to plead the prerogatives of the gestler sex. She ceases to be a woman; her hands are stained with the blood of the innoceat; she presents a melancholy speciatele of the guit and degradation to which our common nature may descend, when the nobler affections are extinguished by depraved and licentious passions. I cannot adopt the arguments which have been addressed me on this subject, without conceding that the law shall not be enforced against a murderess in any case whatever. The demands of pastice, the sacredness of the family compact, and the safety of society, forbid such a conclusion. It is a painful necessity; but the law must be my guide. In the case of Jonas Williams the coloured convict, who is also sentenced to be acceuted on the 30th instant, I must adhere to the decision which I communicated to you some weeks ago. Numerous appeals have been made to me on his behalf; on the ground that he did not contemplate the commission of murder. But where life is destroyed in the perpetration of a felony, the law has pronounced it a capital offence, and it is difficult to conceive a case to which this principle is more justly applicable than the present. The child whose person he violated, was his step-daughter, entitled to his protection; and if his crime (which was of a nature calculated to cause death) had not produced that result, his moral guilt could hardly be distinguished from that of the wildin nurderer. As his conviction is fully sustained by the evidence, and the sentence is in accordance with the law, I cannot perceive any sufficient grounds to justify a commutation of the sentence."

LIEE IN A POWDER MILL.

Diekens thus descrices a visit to the Powder Mill at Hounslow

Dickens thus descrices a visit to the Powder Mill at Homslow near London:

'In this si'ent region, amidst whose ninety-seven work-places no human voice ever breaks upon the ear, and where indeed, no human form is seen, except in the isolated house in which his allotted task is performed, there are secreted upwards of two hundred and fifty work-people. They are a peculiar race, not of course, by nature, in most cases, but by the habit of years. The circumstances of momentary destruction in which they live, added to the most stringent and necessary regulations, have subdued their minds and feelings to the conditions of their hire. There is seldom any need to enforce these regulations. Some terrific explosion here, or in works of a similar kind elsewhere, leaves a fixed mark in their memories, and acts as a constant Warning. Here no shadow of a practical joke, or caper of animal spirits ever transpires; no witiesisms, no caths, no chafing or slasg. A laugh is never heard; a smile seldom seen. Even the work is carried on by the men with as few words as possible, and these uttered in a low tone. Not that anybody fancies that mere sound will awaken the spirit of combustion, or cause an explosion to take place, but that their feelings are always kept subdued. If one man wishes to communicate any thing to another, or to ask for any thing from somebody at a short distance, he must go there; for he is never permitted to shout or call out. There is a particular reason for this last regulation. Amid all this silence, whenever a shout does occur, every body knows that some imminent dangor is expected the next unoment, and all rush away headlong from the direction of the shout. As to running toward it to render any assistance, as common in all other cases, it is thoroughly understood, that none can be afforded. An accident here is immediate and beyond remedy. If the shouting be continued for some time (for a man might be drewned in a fiver), that might cause one or two of the boldest to return; but this would be a very rare

THE FEMALE EMIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA.

THE FEMALE EMIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA.

About a fortnight ago, we gave some account of the departure of thirty-six female emigrants for Australia, under the auspices of the Female Emigration Society, established by the hon. Sydney Herbert, M. P., and his wife, and to-day, we have to make a similar announcement with regard to another body of women, thirty-five in number, who sailed yesterday from Gravesend is the Blackweall. Captain McKirley, an excellent ship belonging to these enterprising owners, the Messrs. Green. This forms the twenty-sixth party of emigrants who have been sent out by the society; and it is gratifying to know, that nearly 1,400 women belonging to a poor and deserving class, have been thus assisted, the great object of providing them with good and profitable employment in the colonies has succeeded beyond the expectations of the most sanguine promoters of the association. It is probably owing to a knowledge a poor and deserving class, have been thus assisted, the great object of providing them with good and profitable employment in the colonies has succeeded beyout the expectations of the most sanguine promoters of the association. It is probably owing to a knowledge of this fact, having been made generally known, that applications have been recently received from a better and healthier class of women than at first came under the notice of the society, many of them paying a portion of the passage-money out of their own resources, and others paying the whole, from a desire to enjoy the advantages which a connection with the society is sure to confer upon them in the colony to which they are sent. It has occasionally been painful to witness the traces which want and overstrained labour have left upon the countenance of a young and friendless woman, snatched from a live of misery, through the benevolent efforts of the officers of this association; but from whatever cause the change has arisen, no such unpleasant spectacles were to be seen in the party which sailed yesterday in the Blackwell. In point of health, spirits, and general appearance, they were much superior to the general run of their predecessors. The youngest of the party was 14 and the oldest 34, the great najority having hitherto been employed as demestic servants or needlewomen. As on all previous occasions, their antecedents have been carefully enquired after. Good character qualifications were required of each; and as these accompany them to the colony, as well as testimonials of good conduct during the voyage, if such are deserved, the rigid system of attestation thus followed becomes eventually of great importance to the amigrant. It is with much satisfaction, we are able to state, that the accommodation provided for the poor women, is of the very best description. They are placed midships, where a large and airy cabin for their common use is boarded off from the rest of the ship. The elsepting better seem to be exceedingly commodious, and every ar

CHILDREN OF PRISONERS.—'When I was in Berlin,' says a popular writer, 'I went into a public prison and visited every part of the establishment. At last I was introduced to a very large hall, which was full of children, with their books and teachers, and having the appearance of a Prussian school-room. 'What !' said I, 'is it possible that all these children are imprisoned here for crime!' 'Oh no,' said my conductor, smilling at my simplicity; but, if a parent is imprisoned here for crime, and on that account his children are left destitute of the means of education, and are liable to grow up in ignorance and crime, the government places them here, and maintains and educates them for useful employment.' This was a new idea to me. I knew not that it has ever been suggested in this country.'

ROMANCE.—AN ENGLISH GROOM, REGENT OF PARMA

The correspondent of the London Daily Times writes as fol-

The correspondent of the London Daily Times writes as fellows:—

'The elevation of Ward to the regency of Parma is not only a singular instance of the mutability of human affairs, but of the tendency of the Anglo-Saxos race, when transplanted to fereign countries, to emerge to eminence, and surpass others by the homely but rare qualities of common sense and unfaltering energy. Ward was a Yorkshire groom. The Dake of Lacca, who obtained by his fall from horse-back in Rotten-row, the familiar soubriquet of 'Filthy Lacre,' spying the lad's merit, took him into his service, and promoted him through the several degrees of command in his stables, to be head groom of the ducal stud. Upon Ward's arrival in Italy with his master, it was soon found, that the intelligence which he displayed in the management of the stables, was applicable to other departments. In fact, the Duke had such a high epinion of Ward's wisdom, that he very rarely omitted to consult him upon any question that he was perplaced to decide; and the success which never failed to crown Ward's advice, gave him in the eyes of the feeble descendant of the Spanish Boarbons the prestige of infallibity. The expenses of the stables having been reduced to less than half under his administration, while the Duke's horses were the envy of all Italy, it struck the prince naturally enough that it would be a good thing if the same economy could be introduced into other departments. So Ward tried his hand on one thing and the other, continually enlarging his sphere of infleence, antil from household matters, he was led to those connected with the state; which, indeed, is such a miniature affair, that it does not greatly pass the limits of some private domestic establishments. Ward, now become the factotim of the Prince, win in the disturbances which preceded the revolutionary year of 1848, a diplomatic dignity, and was despatched to Florence upon a confidential mission of the highest importance. In 1845, when the Duke of Lucca resigned his other States to his son, War

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

The drainage of the Castlebar lakes by the Board of Works, by which bundreds of acres of alluvial deposit once covered by a magnificant sheet of limpid water, are now exposed to human guge, has given an opportunity for the laboure of the geologist and the antiquarian. We have learned, that during the past week, seve ral canoes of extraordinary structure have been exhamed from the bed on which the lake reposed. One of the canoes, dug us near Blackfort, measured twenty-four feet by three in width, and was it an excellent state of preservation. It seemed to have been formed by the 'hollowing out' by fire of a large oak tree. It is also asserted, that upwards of 20 various sized canoes have been discovered in the same locality. The shores of the lake also present an interesting source of investigation for the geologiest, abounding in beautiful petrifactions of various reptiles, as also of timber, shells, and fishes. But what to us seems the greatest subject for the at tention of the antiquarian, is the presence of two artificial islands (or once were), composed of piled oak, regularly mortised in the joints, and of amazing strength; about each of them are traces of a fosse or stockade formed by spiked timber sonk in three regular rows around them. Whether these could have been the construction of Danish invaders, their predecessors or successors, we leave for the historian; but assuredly it is worth investigation, more particularly, when it is remembered that these relics of antiquity have been found contiguous to a rained castle and fort, and in the immediate vicinity of a churchyard, which has originated many a long of grounds of a finalis, and also various fossil remains; curiously shaped membeded, fully a foot beneath the gravel surface, a stratum of fire coass in excellent preservation; and on the other side quantities of bones of animals, and also various fossil remains; curiously shaped on the preservation of the preservation of disconnected quartz, impregnated with rich ores of coppe

CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.—M. Goudet, keeper of the archives of Toulouse, has written to the Assemblee Nationals, to state, that the root of the plant known in France as the Iris Germanique, is an infallible cure for hydrophobia. About 60 grammes (not quite two oances) of the root must be taken; they must be well washed and peeled, cut into pieces of the size of a die, and fried in hoge' lard or fresh butter; they must then be mixed with two or three eggs, and made into an omelette without sail. The person or animal bitten, must be made to eat one of these officients on three successive days. M. Goudet says, that he has known dogs bitten by mad dogs recover after eating of the ômelettes, whilst other dogs bitten at the same time have died. He says, also, that a physicism of Toulouse gave the omelette to his child, who had been bitten by a mad dog three months ago, and that the child has since experienced no ill effects. The remedy, M. Goudet adde, was communicated to him by an old monk of the abboy of Grand Selve, one of the religious houses destroyed in the revolution. This convent was at one time famous for its cures of hydrophobia. The Cure of Turretot, near Rouen, has written to the same journal to say, that the family of a letter carrier of Crequetot l'Esneval, have been known for between fifty and sixty years, is in possession of a socret for caring hydrophobia, and that they have very frequently applied it with great success. (Surely this statement ought to be tested.)

WOOL FROM THE VEGETABLE KINGBOM.—Two very extraordinary applications of fir-tree leaves to useful purposes, have been made in a domain called the 'Prairie of Itumbolt,' near Breslau, in Silesis. One consists in the extraction from them of a fibrous material which has been termed "vegetable wool;' the other in the establishment of medicinal baths with the refuse balsamic fluid, liberated in the course of the former municaure. The plans sylecatria, or wild pine, is the species which, in the case under notice, yields the fibrous material, but every member of the pine and fir tribes may, it would appear, be turned to similar account. The vegetable wool thus produced, is woven into counterpanes, blankets, and other similar articles. It has been used for a considerable period in many of the charitable institutions of Vienna, and is much approved of. Amongst other advantages, textures of this substance possess the excellent quality of banishing all manner of insects, which are criven away by a certain odour, not at all disagreeable, which the fibre never loses. ENGLAND ENGLAND.

Gentlemen, said Lord Palmerston at the Royal Agricultural dinner, I have heard a definition of dirt. I have heard it said, dirt is nothing but a thing in the wrong place. (Hear, and laughter.) Now, the dirt of our towns presisely corresponds with that definition. (Hehr.) The dirt of our towns ought to be upon our fields, and if there could be such a reciprocal community of interest between the country and the towns—that the country should purify the towns, and the towns should fertilize the country—(laughter)—I am much dispased to think, the British farmer would care less than he does, though he still might care something, about Peruvian guano.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

THE KAFFIR WAR.—The mail packet Propontis arrived at Plymouth on Monday. She left the Cape on the 2nd July. The dates from Graham's Town, are to the 26th June, and the intelligence is of a very desperate character. On the 12th June 5 waggons in charge of Captain Windle, and 34 suppers and miners, proceeding from Graham's Town to hend quarters, were captared by Kaffirs and Hottentots. Nine suppers and two drivers were killed and seven wounded. The South African Advertiser says, "disorder and danger, as well as actual war, have become general for fifty miles or more on both sides of a border line, some 150 miles in length." General Catheart has commuted the sentence of death on Cornet Andries Batha, the robel Hottentot, into transportation for life with hard labour.

Major Hodge, one of her Majesty's Assistant-Commissioners for settling affairs on the Frontier, died at Bloom Fontein, Orange River Severeigaty, on the 9th June. He left England 13 months previously, and lost his life through fever, englit by exposure in the rain at a meeting of the chiefs Moshesh's county.

The Zaid Afrikan, of the 3tst May, brings news from the Cape two days later than that brought by the Bosphorus. The following are the only items of interest received:

The accounts by Sunday's post state, that another murder has been perpetrated by the rebel Hottentots upon two herds in Manley's Plat, ten miles south of Graham's Town. These men (a Finge and a Hottentot) were out in the field with the cattle, when they were attacked and shot by robels who carried off the cattle. An attack had been made on Waterkloof, by Colonel Baller, on the 17th inst., at a place called the Horseshee, where the lamented Colonel Fordyce was killed. The Kaffirs Yought bravely. The Colonel destroyed a number of huts, and the enemy gave way before the troops; but the instant the retreat was sounded, they reappeared in thousands, and commenced a desperate attack on the rear guard but were repelled by the good working of the artillery which Colonel Baller had brought with him. TERRIBLE AFFAIR AT SAYRNA.—Letters from Smyrna, of the 26th alt., give an account of a terrible disaster which occurred at Adalia some days before. A furious wolf suddenly appeared in in the midst of the market-place, and bit several persons most severely, but, taking a fright at the cries which arose on all sides, he jumped over a wall, and got into a large garden where several hundred persons, who had come to the town on account of the silk crop, where sleeping in the open air. Here he wounded one hundred and twenty-eight persons, but being again frightened away by the cries of the people, he got into a sheepfold, where he killed eighty-five sheep and wounded seventy-five. Unfortunately, the Giovernor had caused the whole population to be disarmed a few days before, so that the unfortunate people were without means of defence; but on the following day arms were distributed and the wolf killed. According to the report of the physician of the place, the wounded inflicted by the animal are hideous, but the most horrible circumstance in this disaster, is, that several of the wounded have already died of hydrophobia, so that the whole population is is in the utmost consternation.

While on this subject, I may take leave to remark, that had the late difference with our neighbours ended as at one time was surmised, and a descent been made in St. Peter's Bay—sending on a little Pic Nic excursion to Charlottetown, a couple of pieces of light Artillery, a rocket gun, and a few Blue Jackets and Marines, we might have had a still more foreible argument, why our once excellent and zealously commanded Militia, should no longer be kept so much in the background as it must have been, to allow of one of the principal appointments being made a plaything of, for the long period of twelve years.

To the Editor of Hashard's Gazetze,

Str:

Having read in your Gazette of last week, a letter from His Excellency Sir Alexander Bannerman to the President and Members of the Highland Society, in which my name is montioned in such a manner as might possibly lead to an erroneous supposition, that I presided at the dinner given to Capt. Sleigh, in the capacity of a Trustee of Mr. Worrell's Estate, I feel that it is due to the other Trustees of that property and to myself to state, that the invitation given to Capt. Sleigh, as well as the remarks made by me as the authorized mouth-piece of that assembly, carefully excluded every term or expression, which could lead to such an interpretation of our presence upon that occasion.

That we repent ourselves over the recollection of, what now appears to have been, an useless expenditure of time and money, is indeed a mortifying truth, and we would willingly forget that it had ever been: but those who have read the invitation given to Capt. Sleigh; and the observations made by me at the dinner will, at once, see that we were in no wise guilty of bestowing upon Capt. Sleigh the place and standing of Proprietor which he so engerly grasped at, knowing that he had no right to such title.

We only knew and spoke of Capt. Sleigh, as the owner of the Albatross. To that enterprize, and to that slone, was the dinner given; and to the hoped success of that speculation, as pregnant with the most important consequences to this Colony were all our aspirations and demonstrations entirely directed.

When the Merchants and others of Prince Edward Island beheld in the harbour a splendid Steamship, which was proposed to be run continually between Quebec, Charlottetown and New York: they would have exhibited a shameful insensibility to the great advantage of such an established communication, if they had not devised some means of manifesting an interest in its success. They recognised at once the probable benefit to the whole cummunity, and made such a demonstration of their approbation, as

ased.¹²

The Doctor first made use of it in his own case, for a severe apin the shoulder, caused by the upsetting of a stage, and found imiliate relief, and has since used it in his practice.

Read the following. It speaks for itself.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

I certify, that I was afflicted with a yiolent Rheumatic pair in the small of my back, which entirely disabled me, so that I could not get up without the greatest pair and effort; nor could I walk without a case, and but very little with. I applied Doctor Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, or Liquid Opocledoe, and several other remedies, without any relief. After suffering in this way about a week, I purchased a bottle of Cromp and Pais Killer, prepared by Curins & PERKINS, Bangor, and after three applications was entirely relieved and free from pain, and am now entirely well. I also cured a friend go of mine, who had been suffering for a long time with a lame side, with the same bottle. Lielleve it the best medicine in the world, and am happy to add my testimony in its favour.

N. B.—Be sure and call for CURTIS & PERKINS Cramp and Pain Killer. All others bearing this name are base imitations.

Charlottetown, June 1, 1852. PATENT ARTHFIGIAL SLATE, And Unchangeable Metallic Paints: PROOF AGAINST FIRE & WATR'E

Manufactured by the Patentee, in Colchester, Nova Scotia. Manufactured by the Patentee, in Colchester, Nova Scotia.

FINHE ARTIFICIAL SLATE is the product of a mixture of mineral substances known to be the best non-conductors of heat as well as the most indestructible; the Chemical affinity of which conf verts the surface of materials covered, into a Coating of ActuaState—Proof against FIRE and WATER. Thus the daws of nafter are made to accomplish results as surprising as they are useful, by rendering Woeden fabrics as durable as brick or Stone, and less pervious to moisture, and consequently preventing decay and destruction from corroding influences hitherto supposed unattainable.

The principal ingredients are Alumina, Silica and the Oxides of Iron. The adhesive quality of the latter not only binds and attracts the particles together, but the substance covered also. The longer exposed to the weather the more powerful the attraction, and consequently the harder the Slate. As various shades of colour are obtained, Brick buildings may be made impervious to moisture, and the fashionable colours of either Free Stone or Granite. The oil must be exposed by the action of the weather before it is Fire.

obtained, Brick buildings may be made impervious to moisture, and the fashionable colours of either Free St-ne or Granite. The oil must be evaporated by the action of the weather before it is Fire to most the evaporated by the action of the weather before it is Fire to prof, which will take from nine to twelve months.

The METAILLIC PAINTSR Purple and Red, are offered as Weather and Water Proof solely. Their base being Iron, secures them from Galvanic action so fatal to lead and other Paints on Fron work—and their chemical combination makes it impossible, that any change should take place from atmospheric influence or the action of Salt Water and Sulphareted hydrogen so prevalent in Sea Ports and Tidal Harbours. They surpass all Paints yet discovered in Cheapness and Durability, which render them pre-eminently adapted to the covering of all kinds of Iron work, such as Shipping, Milts, Bridges, Steam Machinery, Railway Cars, and Iron Railing. The METAILLIC PAIN'PS have been analysed by Professor Hays of Boston. The following is an extract from his Certificate:—"As a permanent pigment, this mineral must rank with the most indestructible and unchangeable bases. For covering Metallic Ware, its composition shows that it is eminently fitted.

(Signed) AUGT. A. HAYS, State Assayer."

Directions.—Artificial Slate. Mix the powder with pure Boiled Linssed Oil and g little Spirits Turpentine to the consistency of very thick Paint, and apply with a common Brush, being careful to keep the mixture well surred while putting it on. One pound will cover ten square feet with two Coats.

If Shingles have been on for years, it will be necessary to sweep off the moss and lint with a stiff broom; two or three coats of this material will make a perfect Slate Roof, proof against Fire and Water.

St. John. N. B., July 20, 1850. JOHN Ross, Esq., Pate

Paint.

Paint,—I have just painted a new Ship with your Metallic Iron Paint, and I have much pleasure in stating that I never painted a Ship with so small a quantity of Paint and Oil, and look so well. From its adhesive qualities and the manner it covers the wood, I have no doubt but it will be more durable and much cheaper than any other paint used for such purposes, and would recommend it to the public generally.

Yours. &c. Paint.

WONDER OF THE WORLD.

Graved Curve of five years standing.

Mossre. Curtis & Perring of Spering of 1847. I had been a great sufferer for ten years previous; some four or five years of the time I suffered beyond all my powers to describe.

During this time, I have had medical aid, and tried various specifies, but found very little relief until I obtained your Cramp and Pain Killer. I none mouth after I commenced-using it, I began to grow before. I continued to use it for a year, all the time improving until I was entirely cured.

WONDER OF THE WORLD.

ROSS' METALLIC PAINTS.—We have already called public attention to the high estimation in which the Metallic Pain's, manufactured by John Ross, Eaq., Traro, are held by those who have had occasion to use them. Certificates of a highly satisfactory character in praise of these articles of Provincial manufacture appear elsewhere, in this issue, and from information afforded by parties who have similarly applied them, we can safely endorse the opinions therein contained.—Halifac Sus.

The METALLIC PAINTS are mixed and put on like an ordinary paint.

Charlottetown, June 14, 1852:

INDIAN NAMES. Ye say they all have passed away,
That ancient race and brave;
That their light cances have vanished
From off the crested wave;
That mid the valley where they dwelt
There rings no hunter's shout—
But their names are on your waters;
Ye cannot wash them out.

Yes, where Ontario's hillows
Like ocean yaves are carled,
Where strong Niagara's thunder we
The echoes of a world—
Where red Missouri bringeth
Rich tribute from the west,
And Rappahannock sweetly sleepe
On green Yirginia's breast.

Ye say their none-like cabins
That clustered o'er the vale,
Have passed away like autumn's
Before November's gale ;
But their spirit still is round you,
Their baptism on your shore;
The everlasting mountains speak
Their dialect of yore.

Connecticut has wreathed it Where her quiet foliage waves, And bold Kentucky breathes it forth Through all the ancient caves? Old Massachusetts wears it Old Massachusetts wears it Within her lordly crown, And broad Ohio bears it Amid her young renown.

Wachusett hides its lingering voice
Within his rocky heart,
And Alleghany 'graves it
'Throughout his lofty chart,
Monadnock on his summit hear,
Has scaled the sacred trust:
'Your neountains are their monuments
'Though you give the winds their dust.

Some bachelor-reader, pining in single-blessedness, may be induced, by the perusal of the following parody upon Romeo's description of an apothecary, to "turn from the error of his way" of life, and both confer and receive "reward:"

ay" of life, and both confer and receive " reward
"I do remember an old bachelor,
And hereabout he dwells; whom late I noted
In suit of sables, with a care-worn brow,
Conning his books; and meagre were his looks;
Celibacy had worn him to the bone;
And in his silent chamber hung a coat,
The which the moths had used not less than he.
Four chairs, one table, and an old hair trunk,
Made up 'the furniture;' and on his shelves
A greasy candle-stick; a broken mag,
Two tables and a box of old eigars;
Remnants of volumes, once in some repute,
Were thinly scattered round, to tell the eye
Of prying strangers, "This man has no wife!"
His tattered elbow gaped most piteously;
And ever as he turned him round, his skin
Did through his stockings peep upon the day.
Noting his gloom, unto myself I said:
'And if a man did covet single life.
Reckless of joys which matrimony gives,
Here lives a gloomy wretch would shew it him
In such most dismal colors, that the shrew,
Or slut, or idiot, or the gossip spease,
Were scales in heaven conversed to such a life!'' Or slut, or idiot, or the gossip spouse, Were each an heaven compared to such a life!"

"There are always two sides to a question," bacholor-" defendant" may affirm, in answer to this; and iibly himself too try a hand at a contrast-parody.

Datifies.

A PERILOUS VOYAGE.

One day h; week before last, a man named Chute, of Chute's Cove, Annapolis, N. S., having some ten quintals of cod fish to dispose of, and no disposition to pay freight for the same or incur any unnecessary expense, put his fish and himself in an opel sail boat of about 16 feet keel, and after a successful run through a rough sea, cast anchor at night at Patridge Island, (the said anchor being a large stone,) as she was unable to reach owing to contrary winds. There he slept that night, the sky his canopy, a cold-dense fog his counterpane, a bundle of fish his pillow, and with the winds to mean a lullaby, and the waves to rock him to sleep. Having in due time disposed of his fish he, on the following. Thursday evening again put to sea, having declined the friendly offer of Capt. Gillitt, of the schooner "Telegraph," to take him as passenger next day. The wind rese on that sight, and the following morning blew as dreadful gale. The "Telegraph" dare not put to sea and the waves to rock him so play true concluded, that Chute must have been lost; so frail a craft could never survive such as dreadful gale. The "Telegraph" dare not put to sea and the steamer 'Pilet" having ventured out was compelle to put back. All whe know of his departure concluded, that Chute must have been lost; so frail a craft could never survive such a dand at Little's Cave, & miles West of his place of destination, having carried away the step of his mast during the day. Next morning, ke again put to sea, the storm will raging, with only his jib, which some went to pieces. However he succeeded in reaching home in safety. This is but one of many extraordinary adventures in this man's history. His preservation in the present instance seems almost miraculous.—St. John Freeman.

The Newspaper.—As popular lecturers have, frequently of late thought it worth their while to say uncivil things of the newspapers, we deem it to ne more than right to offer the following, from a serimon by Rev. Dr. Adams of New York, as an offset to their slanders.

Why is anything made public, but the belief that it will of interest to others? Why is it announced that Issae and Rebecca were married on a certain day last week, but on the supposition that it will give you pleasure to know it. But then lower down on the sheet, under the startling head of deaths, your eye rans along always with apprehension lest it fall on some well known name, and reads that the aged father, the young child, the beluved wife, the rich, the poor, the admired, the honored, the beautiful are gone, is it not taken for granted that even strangers will heave a sigh for the millited, and the world respond in sympathy to the incursions of a common foe?

Read in this light, the commonest advertisements which crowd our papers have a kindly order about them. Say not, with a cynic anner, as though you were doubtful whether there was any thing honest in the world, when a store-keeper advertises his wares, that it is all sheer selfishness, for if it is pleasant for one who wishes to know it? When a brace of young partners is trade insert their virgin advertisement, informing the world how happy they shall be to wait on customers, can you read it without entering into their new career?

Business advertisemental; last on the career, from Cuisa, wool'from Smyrns, fruit from Malaga, coffee from Cuba, cotton from Georgia, augar from Louisians—do they not preach to us at the corners of the streets at the entering in their gates, in our docks, and in our custom-house and exchanges, aermons on the mutual dependence of mankind?

A MOST MIRACULOUS CURE OF BAD LEGS, AFTER 43 YEARS' SUFFERING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. William Galpin, of 70, Saint Mary's Street, Waymouth, dated May 16, 1851.

To Professor Holloway,
Sin,—At the age of 18 my wife (who is now 61) caught a violent cold, which settled in her legs, and ever since that time they have been more or less sore, and greatly inflamed. Her agonies were directly,
and for months together she was deprived entirely of reat and sleep,
and for months together she was deprived entirely of reat and sleep.
Every remedy that unglicial men advised was treed, but without effect; her health suffered severely, and the state of her legs was terrible. I had often read your Advertisements, and advived her to try your Pills and Ontment; and, as a last resource, after every other remedy, had proved uscless, she consented to do so. She commenced six weeks ago, and, strange to relate, is now in good health. Her legs are painless, without ecan or scar, and her sleep sound and undisturbed. Could you have witnessed the sofficings of my wife during the last 45 years, and contrast them with her piecent enjoyment of health, you would indeed feel delighted in having been the means of so greatly alleviating the sufferings of w fellow creature.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF A DANGEROUS SWELLING OF THE KNEE.

Copy of a letter from John Forfar, an Agriculturist, residing at Newborough, near Hexham, dated May 15, 1850.

To Professor Holloway.

Sin,—I was afflicted with a swelling on each side of the leg, rather above the knee, 6-4 nearly two years, which increased for a great size. I had the advice of three cunient Surgeous here, and was an inmate of the Newcastle infiniary for feur weeks. After ratious modes of treatment had been tried, I was discharged as incurable. Laving heard so much of your Pills and Ointment, I determined to try them, and in less than a month, I was completely cured. What is more remarkable I was engaged twelve hours a day in the Hay Harvest, and although I have followed my laborious occupation throughout the winter, I have had no return whatever of my complaint.

To Professon Holloways,
Sir. For more than twenty years my wife has been subject, from time to time to attack of inflammation in the side, for which she was titled and blastered to a great extent; still the pain could not be removed. About four years ago, she saw in the papers, the wonderful cures effected by your Pills and Ointment, and thought she would give them a trial. To her great atomichment and delight, she got immediate relief from their use, and after preserveing for three weeks, the pain in her side was completely cured, and she has enjoyed the best of health for the last four years.
