We take the following from the Star, published at Chatham, New Brunswick, by Mr. J. E. Collins—a native of this island; who speaks advisedly when he remarks how extraordinary it is that our Lobster fishery is almost entirely in the hands of our neighbors instead of being pursued by ourselves. The same listlessness pervades us in almost everything.

This is but too true. Nature has enriched Newfoundland in many ways, but the people seem yet to be unconscious of the fact. They require waking up, and to waken, and thoroughly a one then too, ought to be the duty of the Government. Newfoundland has only one real advantage, and that is the education of her people, and that she is well-to-do. She has excellent lands in her parts, and the best of them are constantly being improved through the annual arrival of immigrants. The summer lobster fishing might be made a profitable work. The population is increasing every year, and the population is increasing. They will have to wake up, or starve.

NEWFOUNDLAND NEWS.

We have late Newfoundland papers before us, and as they came from the land over whose hills we first saw the sun rise, they are always acceptable, and interesting. The chief matters occupying their columns now is the railroad question, and that question is bi-subdivided. First shall the road be built by a company, or be built by the Government, and if to be built, by whom? Then will it run only to Harbor Grace, with small ramifications, or will it run across the Island to St. Georges Bay? All the Island papers favor building a road, only two or three favor construction by the Government. The Newfoundlanders seem to favor throwing the building on the shoulders of a company, the North Star wants the government to build it, the Patriot wants the road, no matter what the means, provided they be legitimate. The Telegram we believe puts in a plea now and again for savagery, by endeavoring to resist the impulses of progress, and labels such men as Hon. A. Shea, to whom the Island is indebted for all it has. The Government have bought up Francis Winton, Esq., of the Chronicle, and thrown him a small sop so he will do nothing more than register, so far as he is permitted to do, the pulse beat of the council on the railway question.

We admire the Patriot when it talks about Newfoundland affairs, for these it understands and deals with intelligently and well, but we cannot forgive it when it plunges head over ears into a subject it knows nothing about. In advising the Government to do right in the railway question, it hopes "that having the monstrous contract entered into by the present Government of Canada with the Syndicate for Building the Pacific Railway before their eyes, they will avoid the errors fallen into by the Government of the Dominion." Now, only we know, that in dealing with the Island R. R. question, Mr Parsons was supposed to say something about "the big Canadian Railroad," or even the reputation of "not being well posted," we would resent the above statement, and challenge the Patriot to the proof.

Our articles in the Chatham Star on lobster fishing have taken the eye of the Newfoundland press. The Patriot before reproducing them says:— We take the following from the Star, published at Chatham, New Brunswick, by Mr. J. E. Collins—a native of this island; who speaks advisedly when he remarks how extraordinary it is that our Lobster fishery is almost entirely in the hands of our neighbors instead of being pursued by ourselves. J. E. COLLINS, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR, Chatham, N. B.

John's that a contractor has offered to build the road to River Humber. This would be a departure from the proposed route, but certainly if Newfoundland launch into the railroad business, she had better have a line that will open up her timber and arable lands. A railroad running through a barren region is poor stock. Indeed we know of few if any railroads that can exist without local traffic; and by local traffic, we mean traffic arising along the line. No; if possible, Newfoundland tap her good lands and her pine forests with this road—if possible run the rail through them. But she should not jump in the dark. A thorough survey of the route should be made, and when we say "thorough" we mean that the report should set forth more than the engineering difficulties—and advantages—the reports of skilled lumbermen and agriculturists, who could give a fair estimate of the arable acreage, and the quantity of timber the region would yield, should accompany it, and from this a rough estimate of the number of settlers could be reached. From these elements, the country could know whether or not the road would pay. If the lumber were shown to be only brook fringes, and the cultivable soil limited, and its fertility short lived, then the island should pause, and enquire if the road when constructed would be used as the link between the ocean highway and the continental railroads; and if they had no room to hope for this, they would be unwise indeed, to turn a sod on the through line. Properly constructed then, a narrow rail to Harbor Grace might be built.

THE NIAGARA SUSPENSION BRIDGES.

In response to the enquiries of a correspondent the Niagara Falls Gazette gives the following sketches of the history of the great suspension bridges:— "In 1848 Charles Ellet, a brilliant rather than a profound engineer, built the first suspension bridge over the Niagara, on the site of the present railway bridge. The bridge was only for carriages and foot passengers. The towers were of wood, and the roadway was only about six feet in width, just wide enough for one team. Mr Ellet in the beginning had offered a reward of $5 to the first person who should get a string over the river. The next windy day a large number of boys assembled on the bank with kites, and before night one of them, Homan J. Walsh, then a boy of 13 years of age landed his kite on the Canada side and received the promised reward. By means of this string larger cords, then ropes, and then iron cables, small at first, but increasing in size, were drawn across, until the large cables were thus stretched. This structure served as a most excellent auxiliary in the construction of the present bridge. This was built by America's great engineer, John Roebling, and has always been considered one of the greatest of his works. It was commenced in 1852, and the first locomotive crossed it in 1854. The iron basket now hanging under the railway track near the American end of the bridge was first used by Mr. Ellet, and in it the first person who ever crossed the chasm alive, and of his own will, was crossed over. There is an old Indian tradition that a resisting chief was once carried to the opposite side by a large bald headed eagle, who swooped down on the great warrior as he lay in ambush on the ground, and bore him over. Ladies have crossed in this basket. The suspension bridge by Brook's monument was built in 1856 by T. E. Serrat. The ice jam of 1866 tore the guys from the rocks to which they were fastened and the bridge was destroyed. It was replaced by the present bridge, and the old bridge was used as a trestle for the railway. J. E. COLLINS, EDITOR

MURDER OF THE CZAR.

The Nihilists have at last accomplished their fiendish purpose. On Sunday afternoon they most foully murdered the Czar, in the open street, in the eye of day, and surrounded by a cavalcade of cossacks. The particulars of the horrible tragedy are given in another column.

Our readers know more about the Czar, than they do about any other crowned head in the world. He was the dagger haunted. Over his head by night and day, when he slept and while awake, the fatal sword, the hidden assassin's dirk before which so many of his predecessors fell dangled. His golden goblet and his spiced wines gave him little comfort, for death may have lurked at the bottom. He was not safe in his bed chamber, because a dagger point might gleam through the curtains, he was not safe in his room of state, for a train of dynamite might have been prepared beneath it. He could never walk alone, ride alone—and it was sometimes too much to hope that his ever-present escort even contained none who sought his life.

The Czar was born in 1818. In 1855 he succeeded Nicholas I as Alexander II. He was a prince they say of humane feelings, of a broad and liberal mind, healthily developed by extensive travel and keen observation of the world, and an excellent education. It was he who issued the famous ukase that liberated several millions of serfs. But surely in this age when liberty is abroad upon every breeze, that was no great concession. It was a simple measure of a too-long delayed justice, a concession that might have been expected of any King who was not either a barbarian or a tyrant.

Some will lament the Czar's tragic death, but many would grudge a tear drop to his memory. He was the representative of the most odious form of misrule, that ever cursed the earth, and blasted social happiness. He was supreme in Council, ruled as he saw fit, or as his advisers saw fit. There is no Government for the people, and by the people in Russia. The wretches who till the fields, and work in the factories, and fight the battles of the nation, have to submit to the laws, however cruel, however barbarous, imposed by the Czar and his advisers. There is no election in Russia. The Czar does the electing there, lays down whatever policy he pleases, declares war, or makes peace just as he sees fit; all the people have to do is work, pay their taxes and obey. Those who call the dead Czar wise and humane, but mock his memory. If wise, why did he not give his grovelling dominions a constitution like other European countries? If humane why did he recruit the dismal regions of Siberia with wretches who were the victims of the system of which he was the head? Go out into those gloomy mines, wander along the banks of the Lena or the Yenesei, and ask the wretches torn from their homes, scourged with the cruel Knout, condemned to live and die in those gloomy regions, sundered from all they love, how "humane and wise" Czar Alexander was. Let the neglected graves with a rude and faded cross at the head in a neglected spot, give more eloquence to the story if you want it.

No; there is nothing good in the Czars—there is nothing good in Russian autocracy, and the time will come, and that within the present generation when the unhappy nation will arise as one man, and proclaim itself free. We loath the name of Nihilism, yet we would be surprised to hear that the tyranny of Russian Rule, could have a better offspring. Russia needs regeneration—and the Czars blood may be the first step in that direction. But there has to be a struggle between Liberty and Oppression, Apostles of Freedom will have to come to the front, a civil war follow and then the nation will be regenerated, even as a thunderstorm clears up the unwholesome air. Speed the day for the sake of the down-trodden people.

We may inform our readers that steps have been taken to prevent the further publication of that spurious bye-law relating to "cows" which we referred to in our last issue.

Not a word about extending a steam service to Chatham. There was no one to recommend it.

There is no grant for the Esquimaux line.—There was no one in the Commons to say we wanted it.

The trace between the British and the Transvaal boers has been extended to the 18th line.

THE "MONITEUR" ATTACKS THE "STAR."

Coma hither my friends till I tell you a tale Of the silly young spirit that made war on a whale.—THE EDITOR.

The Moniteur Australien is a small, weekly journal, published in Sydney and edited in patois, etc., with here and there a mis-spelled French word thrown in. It has one hundred and forty-six editors, and eighty-nine subscribers. It is a thoroughfare for the public, irrespective of qualification or color. It has very indifferently abused the Star in its last issue. It devotes three editorials to the subject. The few French words in its articles we translated, the patois, Indian, etc., we guessed at. Here is a sample:—

"The Editor of the North Star is too exciting of his neighbors as well known. One must be, an fact, and think as he does, else he is no man at all, in fact only a blind man. In l'Etat the editor puts in Ed Star, and he is strong in literature, in grammar, in science, in morals, etc., is the Star man. No one escapes his criticism and his blows.

He then undertakes to defend the School Inspectors Report which we criticized some time ago, and though he censures us for being "strong in criticism in grammar, in morals," etc., he says himself "The criticism the Star man made on Inspector Landry's report is altogether false, for the genius of the English language authorizes the use of the words he objects to Mr Landry using" etc.

So it will be seen the "Star man" is not the only one "strong in literature, in grammar and in morals." Perhaps however not in morals. This is rich. We have heard of Moral Ball approving of Shakespeare, but he judged it on his knowledge of English. The Moniteur man approves the Inspectors reports. But the Inspectors' reports are in English and the Moniteur man can't speak, and doesn't understand English. Perhaps he judges them on the Indian standard. Judged according to chooktao canibus some of the Inspectors' reports would be good. We congratulate the Inspectors on their champaign.

He gives a dose on our little rebuke for his theft of the Gloucester Council's report. He says he got this report from the Secretary, though as a matter of fact, he did not. For proof: in the official report, we incorporated a report from our Bathurst correspondent. In pirating the report, the Shellic organ stole official, and non-official matter and now says he got it from the Secretary. His words are, "C'est de lui que nous tenons les procedes et non du Star."

It has a long diatribe written in very indignant Indian, etc., censuring us for censuring Mons. Johnson, M. P. P. for his stampede in the House of Assembly. He says it would give him pain to see us "return to the fish banks of Newfoundland," although he ought to go there himself and eat some fish to get a different kind of brains from those which the Shellic claims have given him. His patois is very bad, all through, and his Indian is not much better.

JUDGE WILKINSON.

We write the above words with a good deal of pleasure. Since our last issue, Mr. Wm. Wilkinson, Q. C. has been elevated to the judicial office of the Counties of Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche, vice Judge Williston resigned. Sir John McDonald has always with a possible exception or two, had the reputation of being happy in his selection of gentlemen for the judiciary, but we are quite satisfied he never met a happier selection than in the present case. Judge Wilkinson as far as we know him, and from all we can learn of him will be an ornament to the bench. On the one hand he will make a moral judge, for we believe he will be capable of soaring above prejudices or partiality, and on the other hand we believe he will be a "learned judge," because as a lawyer he was an ornament to his profession, because of his knowledge of law and its principles, and his happy application and construction of both. But while Judge Wilkinson will live above and beyond party, the Conservatives of Chatham will not be able to forget he is their appointment the man of their choice, though we do not think that on the other side either, could one scarcely be found, to say the Government made a mistake in the selection.

His Honor is now attending the court at Bathurst, whether he was called, immediately after he had been sworn in. Long may the Bench have such judges, as Judge Wilkinson.

There were three or four applicant for the position, but only one could get it—that is sure. But had there been two vacancies to fill, we think Northumberland would have filled them and need not have gone outside of the Conservative party either, for another gentleman who would be also a credit to the emine.

LOCAL AFFAIRS—OUR STREETS.

(No. 3.)

Continuing our remarks on the system of road management, which has resulted in the present disgraceful condition of our streets, sewers and sidewalks, we may again recur to the manifest injustice of the present system. It places the greater burden of the support of the street service on the poorer classes. To show this plainly, we will take the largest amount collected in any one year, which was, we believe, about $1,000. As each male ratepayer, between the years of 21 and 169, pays a poll tax of ninety cents, estimating the number of this at 600, which is an under-estimate, the poll tax would amount to $540 or fifty-four per cent of the whole tax, leaving $460 or only forty-six per cent to be levied off the property of the town. As the poorer people are the more numerous they, of course, pay the greater part of the poll tax, so the present system is evidently unjust, in placing an undue proportion of the tax on those less able to pay it, and who receive less benefit from it.

Again the law makes no provision for the proper assessment of this tax. The road commissioner has to lay it, and he has no means of knowing the amount of real and personal property owned by each person. He is not empowered to receive statements. He has to exercise his own judgment, and we do not know if there is any appeal from his assessment. Days are added to people, or struck off, at the simple discretion of the commissioner, who is not amenable to anyone for his acts. Tax other taxes have to be assessed each year, but our carefully revised, statements of property require it, etc., but for the road tax it is simply equal year after year, a day added here, one struck off there; without system or order of any kind.

This unfair and unjust system must be abolished. It is too antiquated for the present necessities of the town. We would suggest that each year an estimate be made of the requirements for the next year. This estimate would provide for a certain amount to be expended on each street, etc., according to its needs; an amount could be left for unforeseen expenses. Let this amount be assessed and levied with the other taxes. The Councilors would then be responsible for this tax, and would have to render an account of it at the election. The commissioner would then only have to see that the amount was properly expended, according to the estimate, and the repairs of the streets could be given out by tender. This would distribute the tax fairly, each man paying his share according to his means. It would give more revenue. It would give better and more economical work. It would give every street in the town a fair chance of getting repaired, and would in fact, do away with the gross injustice and partiality of the present iniquitous system.

We of course merely outline the above as our opinion; and will be pleased to receive suggestions from any persons in regard to it; our only object is to have some system organized that will do justice to all, that will improve our streets, etc., and that will not increase the taxes to any great extent. We shall still continue to deal with town affairs.

Sir Leonard Tilley is reported to have stated "I credit the blame for making no provision for Northumberland wants, because I did not know what they were." There was no one to make our wants known, before Sir Leonard brought down his estimates. Our worthless member Snowball was then in England.

The new Czar Alexander III, is said to be popular with the Russian people. He is 35 years old and commands the Imperial guard of 40,000 men—the flower of the Russian army. The Imperial family and court officials have sworn allegiance.

SUMMARY OF THE PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S BUDGET SPEECH.

The policy of the Government has been to obtain complete possession of the business so as to bring the expenditure within the income and wipe out any debt that existed. It is a great thing for a country to know that it has a surplus, and that country was the happy possessor that had the smallest debt. The estimated receipts for 1881 contain subsidies from the Dominion Government of $379,000. In this the Government have taken the probable increase population into consideration and arrived at what they considered a fair amount of increase. Taking the census from 1821 as a criterion, and making an allowance for probable decrease in certain localities, they arrived at the conclusion that the increase in the population would be 13 per cent, which would give an increased revenue from the Dominion Government of $15,000. During the past year there was a large increase in the equal and territorial revenue, and it is thought there will be this year from that source $150,000. The fees of the Supreme Court are placed at $1,000. In the summary as estimated for 1881 are not included in the $60,000 of advance obtained by the Government. The other items are almost substantially the same as hitherto. For agriculture there is the usual sum of $12,000 for the ordinary purposes and $10,000 for an emergency fund. A committee of the Government had been appointed to consider the matter and the Board of Agriculture reported to the Government recommending an importation which the Government would endeavor to carry out. The amount might not be expended during the year as the disease among cattle on the other side of the water was increasing and there would be the risk of bringing into the country diseases which spread very rapidly, and which has spread from a few cattle imported from France, all through Great Britain. It had been said the Government made too much fuss over the English delegates, who were said not to be efficient agriculturists, and that the Government had spent from $1,500 to $2,000 on the trip, whereas $518.19 was all it cost the province.

Some of the agricultural reports form a very good review of the Province and the Government intended that these delegates should have every opportunity of seeing its resources. The reports of the tenants farmers delegates and others stamped the Province as almost unfit for settlement and the Government wished a fair and adequate report of the capabilities of the country circulated to counteract the circulation of improper reports and have the true state of the Province known among those interested in emigration from the United Kingdom. He felt that the $518 would scarcely pay for the reports of the proceedings in certain of the papers which deluded the people of the province, and which were circulated through Canada.

Anyone who had visited the Lunatic Asylum must have seen that an enlargement was imperatively demanded and no expenditure would be more readily made than to provide for those unfortunate, for whom it was needed. There was on the continent no such efficient institution conducted at so cheap a rate. It would compare favorably with any on the continent, the only drawback being that hitherto there had not been sufficient room. The expenditure in the administration of justice last year was $226 31 in excess of the estimate, there being a small excess in criminal prosecutions and quite a large one in juror's fees. The Board of Agriculture, endeavoring to make a better system regarding the societies, withheld some of the money from the societies, which will, no doubt, be paid hereafter.

The expenditure in contingencies was in excess $3,826, and if there was a question that had given the Government trouble, it was the contingencies. For marriage certificates registration the expenditure in excess of the estimate was $504. He was glad to hear it stated the other day that there was against the Government no charge of improper appropriation of the public moneys. In justice to the leader of the Opposition, he must say he had never made any such statement. It was a good thing for him (Wedderburn) in his present state of health, that the Attorney General had gone very deeply into the finances of the country, the other day, and shown the expenditures consisted of such things as the Normal School, the Irish relief, the railway subsidies, the donation to the St John Relief & Aid Society, the expenditure on the St John Suspension Bridge, which none would grudge the people of St John; the Woodstock bridge, the consolidation of the statutes, school buildings, amounting to $31,000, and also represented the amount expended by the districts themselves; the amount made necessary by the torrids in Kent, and others. He would like it shown which of these expenses should not have been incurred. So long as the Government kept the balance a controllable one, which they are now oversteering, it was better that they should bear the odium of having a balance against them than that they should shut down upon the country and prevent these necessary expenses. He had no objection to the finances being fairly discussed, but he did object to have it said, without rhyme or reason, that the accounts were in a wretched condition and bankruptcy was staring the Province in the face! The risks of the premiums on the Provincial debentures did not depend upon the easiness of the market; for they had gone up 4 per cent, before it was known that the market was becoming easier. No bonds now occupy a better position

OUR LOCAL LEGISLATURE IN SESSION.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

With reference to the division of Nelson Parish, the discussion on which we held over last issue, Hon Mr Adams said the new parish would be seven miles in width and included the main Rodgerville and other settlements, which are now from 12 to 15 miles distant from the polling places. The bill establishes new polling places for Kirk's and Lower Nelson, as well as for the new parish. The number of people in the settlements to be effected is over 300 and the improvements, houses, etc., are worth over $30,000 and the settlers are in reality isolated from Nelson proper.

Mr Davidson thought the object might be attained by placing a polling place in the center of the district. He asked that progress be reported, in order that the bill might be talked over.

Mr Hutchinson said the way to get over the difficulty would be to create a new polling place. A parish with property amounting to $36,000, and with such few ratepayers should not be placed on the same basis as one with property worth several millions.

Hon Mr Adams said he presented a petition from the settlers themselves in favor of the bill. In order to get to the polling place the people have to go a certain distance by rail and then walk a certain distance. No portion of any other parish stood in the same position as these settlements and there are 149 electors from them on the revised list now.

Mr Johnson said he hoped the House would agree with the bill.

We suppose the bill passed, though we have not seen it stated it did.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Mr Marshall gave notice of a resolution on Thursday next providing that the House of Assembly deal no further with the St John Bridge Bill till it receive information as to the site, till it see profiles of the bridge, height proposed, etc., etc. This is a wise resolution and a credit to Mr Marshall.

The House passed Mr Levington's bill providing no duck or ducks eggs shall be destroyed from May 1st to September 4th in any year.

The House agreed to the South West Driving Co's Bill.

On the Order of the Day being called Mr Blair obstructed proceedings in the following way. He called the attention of the house to the Grand Southern Charter matter, and contended that the government in receiving the charter were acting outside their jurisdiction and betraying the confidence of the House. He moved a resolution as long as to dry and to morrow.

Mr Fraser followed him in a speech remarkable for the legal ability it showed; defending the governments conduct. A Judge of the Supreme Court, Mr. Fraser said, had declared the governments act lawful; and the best legal ability in the Dominion had advised it.

Hastington followed making great fun of Blair's legal contentions and turning the laugh against him. Elder and others spoke in favor of the Gov's act.

Mr Fraser moved an amendment to Blair's amendment in effect that the House do not now express an opinion on the legality of the extension as proceedings inter alia in reference to the same matter are now pending in the Courts.

The debate on the question still continues; but the governments act will be sustained.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE PORTWARDENS

To the Editor of the Star.

Sir,—Your article in a late issue about "Portwardens" is deserving of attention by the proper parties. There does not seem to be any reason why Chatham should not come under the general act. Senator Muirhead, who knows all about the port, and who has as good a knowledge of its requirements as any man, should exert his influence to have the order in Council passed, and a proper person appointed portwarden. The interests of merchants, ship owners and of the Insurance companies, would be better looked after, and discussion concerning surveys such as took place last autumn would be avoided. Trusting that your suggestions will be carried out

Mr. Frank McGoldrick of Fredericton was in town on Tuesday buying up fox skins. He purchased all Mr. Clowery had, and also purchased some from Mr. R. Flanagan. The Messrs McGoldrick are perhaps the largest dealers in the Province and are correct and honorable business men.

Musiel Mud.
Mr. Phineas Gunn, Sweeper & Stevedore and others, of Lower Glenelg have commenced digging mud out of the river there. Mr. Charles Gunn of Chatham is making five new mud diggers for these and other parties. The mud is to be used as a fertilizer, and is said to be excellently adapted for that purpose.

Circular.
We have received a circular from F. J. Mackay, General Agent for the Canadian & Brazilian Steamship Company, Ottawa. He states the company will commence running their steamers between Halifax and Rio Janeiro in a few weeks, touching at intermediate points along the South American coast. Mr. Mackay's address is Ottawa.

Unlawful Bass Fishing.
A fisherman named Goodfellow belonging to the South west was found fishing bass the other day by a fishery officer. He was brought before a justice and fined $16 with the alternative of 20 days jail. At first glance it seems hard that a man should be fined for catching the fishes that God provides for man's use; but when it will be remembered that these laws, harsh though they be to the offender, are necessary to the permanency of our fisheries, that if indiscriminate fishing were allowed our fisheries would soon be destroyed, the regulations will be strongly approved, rather than condemned.

Business Changes.
Mr. Francis Letson is selling out his stock and is about to retire. Mr. A. D. Sheriff, Government Appraiser for this port is Mr. Letson's auctioneer. He has been engaged now for several days exclusively at this work, and it will be some days yet before it is finished. It is to be hoped no bonded goods will come in during the sale, for really if they do, Mr. Sheriff is too busy to appraise them. We hope shippers will consent to make no importations till Mr. Letson's auction is off Mr. Sheriff's hands.

Mr. Joseph Forest is about selling his residence on King's Street to Mr. Jas. Seagle of Napan, who is to continue his fathers business there the coming summer. Mr. Forest has removed to Black Brook.

About Babbler—Hutchison Ryan's at-alias.
We will give a little sketch of the life and death of two babbles which perished per explosion in Fredericton within a month. The Ryan babbler robs so large that some thought it a mountain, but it exploded harmlessly to everybody, and to everybody except to Mr. Ryan reputation. There was another babbler too, which began in Chatham. Ernest Hutchison and Thomas Gillespie brought this noble structure into the world. Mr. Gillespie said "By Jinks" he would expose the government for their extravagant expenditures on the agricultural delegation, and Ernest Hutchison ran about in dark places and whispered, "Don't say a word, we got Adams and the government this time. That delegation cost thousands I'll bet Call alone got two or three hundred out of it." "I don't like to appear to the front in this matter," said Mr. Gillespie, but you go ahead Hutchison. "Earnest had to go ahead. He also dug up on the floors of the House and in a labored and not very grammatical effusion required the amount expended on the Delegation. Then he sat down, and our reporter writes that Gillespie tore a little bit of paper and wrote on it "Be jinks you got them sure." Hutchison read the paper, then as he put on a mysterious and important air he crumpled the missive. The Provincial Secretary's office showed a peculiar twinkle, but he said nothing. A few days after he came in in one of his most sublime sarcasms and he laid the "statement" of the expenditure enquired about, on the table. People looked for him to speak, but he said nothing. He merely presented the papers, and looked in a quiet, a killing quiet kind of a way over at poor Hutchison. Hutchison didn't know "what struck him," to use his own elegant phrase. Nobody said anything, but the silence, and the "looks" of every body were insufferable. He received another small note. It ran "Be jinks I believe it all over with us—yours, Tom." Nobody looked at the papers that forenoon. Barbatic, we believe did say, "Go look Hutchison—they won't bite you." But Hutchison would not go. "You go Gillespie," he said. "We'll get a slant by and bye," answered that arch-accomplish—"I wouldn't go now, they're all watchin' us. I wish we had never bothered with the confounded enquiry." "Hoy, Killam," they hailed the bridge contractor as he was going past. "Have you seen the papers on the Delegation?" No—but you may go over, and see them. "Hush—they're watchin' us—you go Killam and tell us how much it is." "Don't go at once. Wedderburn has his eye on you. Get the figures. Surely it is a couple of thousand. Hope it is, or we're gone up the jinks." Killam went away—and he looked in under the papers. He scrawled something on a bit of paper. He slunk back and poked it into Gillespie's hand. Mr. Wedderburn shifted in his chair and Pollox, Gillespie's voice was low as the jaded sepher. "ONLY FIVE HUNDRED"

Can Making, &c.
Mr. J. U. Loggie and others who are manufacturing lobster cans on Sherriff's wharf, Chatham, have turned out over 50,000 cans up to date. Mr. Loggie has purchased a salmon freezer from Mr. Chas. Boss of Bathurst, for the coming summer work at Point aux Car.

Preparing for Trout Shipments.
Every day brings an increase to the pumber fishing trout on the Northwest Miramichi. Messrs R. & A. Adams of that place are about to engage in the shipment of the trout caught along the river. This firm shipped between four and five tons of trout to the States last spring.

Ordination in the Cathedral.
On Sunday last His Lordship the Bishop of Chatham promoted to the order of Deaconship Mr. John Maillet of St. Louis. He will be elevated to the holy order of priesthood on Saturday next. The ceremony, as on all like occasions, was solemn and impressive, and His Lordship in his sermon briefly pointed out to what a sacred calling the priesthood was, and what it exacted from its members. Rev. Mr. Maillet belongs to St. Louis, Kent, and studied in Memramcook College.

St. Patrick's Day.
Tomorrow is the feast day of the great Irish patron saint, St. Patrick. There will be special services in the Cathedral tomorrow, and by the Roman Catholic congregation, the day will be kept holy. The traditional

* * * Green immortal Shamrock,
The chosen leaf of bard and chief
Old Erin native Shamrock,
Will be worn tomorrow by old and young,
who claim descent from the Island of Saints. The Catholics will probably be decked in green to do honor to the great saint's memory. The shamrock is worn on St. Patrick's day, because it is regarded as the type of the mystic union, the tria juncta in uno—the holy Trinity. It is related that when St. Patrick was preaching the Trinity to the heathen Celts, they refused to believe in "three persons in one God," because it was a physical impossibility. Whereupon the saint stooping down, plucked a three leaf clover from the field, and holding it up, exemplified in a physical way, the mystic truth they had refused to believe. They said they had been satisfied. There will be a collection taken up at the morning services for the Sisters in the Hotel Eden. In the evening a rich treat is promised in St. Patrick's Hall. Mr. T. Crimmin the president of the society will open with an address, after which Mr. R. B. Adams will give a lecture on Ireland past and present. This is Mr. Adams' initial effort, but some men become lamps the very first step they make, and this may be the case with Mr. Adams.

ASSASSINATION OF THE CZAR.
THE NEHLISTS SUCCEEDED AT LAST.
As the Emperor was returning from parade in the Michel Mange, about 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, an orginal bomb was thrown which exploded under the Czar's carriage, which was considerably damaged. The Czar alighted unhurt, but a second bomb exploded at his feet, shattering both legs below the knee and inflicting other terrible injuries. The Czar was immediately conveyed in an unconscious state to the Winter Palace, where he died at 4.30 this afternoon. Two persons were concerned in the crime, one of whom was seized immediately. This explosion also killed an officer and two Cossacks. Many policemen and other persons were injured.

The Official Messenger makes the following announcement: "God's will be done. At 3.25 o'clock this (Sunday) afternoon the Almighty called the Emperor to himself. A few minutes before his death the Emperor received the Sacrament."

Ruler's St. Petersburg correspondent says:—"The Imperial carriage was attacked on Ekaterinofsky Canal, opposite the Imperial stables, while the Emperor was returning with Grand Duke Michael from the Michel Palace in a closed carriage, escorted by eight Cossacks. The first bomb fell near the carriage, destroying the back part of it. The Czar and his brother alighted uninjured. The assassin, on being seized by the colonel of police, drew a revolver but was prevented from firing it. A second bomb was then thrown by another person and fell close to the Czar's feet, its explosion shattering both his legs. The Czar fell, crying for help. Col. Dorjisky, though himself much injured, raised the Emperor who was conveyed to the Winter Palace in Col. Dorjisky's sleigh. Large crowds assembled before the palace but were kept back by the Cossacks. The Imperial family were all assembled at the death bed. The Council of State was immediately convened. All places of public resort are closed."

FURTHER PARTICULARS.
The leave taking is said to have been most touching. The Czar kissed them all and gave them his blessing. He bore the agony of his wounds with heroic fortitude and said he trusted he was ready to die; and that his soul would never forget he had been sacrificed for upholding her institutions and maintaining law and order within her borders. There was great grief in the palace but outside there was no weeping or lamentation, except among the soldiers, by whom he was much beloved. In the lower quarters, where the nihilists are supposed to be numerous, crowds gathered at the corners and discussed the tragedy, remarking as the police and military dispersed them, "They have done for him at last."

The second assassin was captured in an old shed. When taken he inquired if the Czar was dead, and on the police refusing to answer the question, gleefully exclaimed, "Ah, I know by that, that we have succeeded." Long live the people.

That they are nihilists is beyond doubt. Both are young men and apparently of good birth and education.

The Sunday Magazine for April.
The present number overflows with reading matter to suit all classes, and which cannot fail to prove instructive, entertaining and profitable. It is a publication which must find a welcome in every family. The contents are abundant and varied, but we can only glance at them. How the Poor Folks Live, by the Editor, is deeply interesting and the twelve illustrations serve to intensify the interest. Memories of Egypt, by S. K. Hunt; Master and the Days before, by John W. Pierce; The Great South American Struggle, etc., are among the particularly notable articles. In the department of fiction are a continuation of the admirable serial Out of the World, by Mrs. O'Reilly; a Ghost Story, by Rev. J. Bryant Sumner; 'The Coming of the King,' an Easter Story, by Helen W. Pierce, etc. There are several excellent and instructive essays: sketches of Rev. John S. McIntosh, D. D. Bishop Atkinson and Kerr, Rev. D. Hoge, etc., etc. The poems are quite numerous, and of great merit. Among the necessarily interesting features are: The Home Palpit, Hard Places in the Bible, by Rev. Dr. Deems. With a smile in it, The Invaluable Portion and Thoughts of the Afflicted, Temperance talk, International Sunday School Lessons, Editor's Portfolio, etc. The miscellany is unusually abundant. There are 128 quarto pages and over 100 illustrations, and a single copy is only 25c. Annual subscription, $3, postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Light Driving waggon, Concord, Piano Boxes, Express Carts, etc. Trimming and repairing a specialty. Best stock kept always on hand. Come and inspect.

Young's New Axle Cutter.
Patented in the United States and Dominion of Canada. We would call the attention of all owners of carriages or waggon to this Machine and the benefits derived from its use. All wagon axles after being two or more years in use become worn till they become loose, requiring the use of leather washers to take up the lateral play; the washers soon filling with sand, cause the axles to wear much faster, until the axle is soon ruined, or nearly so.

THE REMEDY.
By the aid of this very simple machine, the shoulder for the axle nut is cut back and the thread extended, allowing the nut to be screwed farther on, causing the wheel to run as evenly as when new. Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. A Paint shop is in connection with the Factory. Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
